ARTICLE II.
ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES AND PRIORITY TAX CLAIMS

A. Administrative Expense Claims

On the later of the Effective Date or the date on which an Administrative Expense Claim becomes an Allowed Administrative Expense Claim, or, in each such case, as soon as practicable thereafter, each Holder of an Allowed Administrative Expense Claim (other than Professional Fee Claims) will receive, in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, such Allowed Administrative Expense Claim either (i) payment in full in Available Cash for the unpaid portion of such Allowed Administrative Expense Claim; or (ii) such other less favorable treatment as agreed to in writing by the Debtor or the Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, and such Holder; provided, however, that Administrative Expense Claims incurred by the Debtor in the ordinary course of business may be paid in the ordinary course of business in the discretion of the Debtor in accordance with such applicable terms and conditions relating thereto without further notice to or order of the Bankruptcy Court. All statutory fees payable under 28 U.S.C. § 1930(a) shall be paid as such fees become due.

If an Administrative Expense Claim (other than a Professional Fee Claim) is not paid by the Debtor in the ordinary course, the Holder of such Administrative Expense Claim must File, on or before the applicable Administrative Expense Claims Bar Date, and serve on the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, and such other Entities who are designated by the Bankruptcy Rules, the Confirmation Order or other order of the Bankruptcy Court, an application for allowance and payment of such Administrative Expense Claim.

Objections to any Administrative Expense Claim (other than a Professional Fee Claim) must be Filed and served on the Debtor or the Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, and the party asserting such Administrative Expense Claim by the Administrative Expense Claims Objection Deadline.

B. Professional Fee Claims

Professionals or other Entities asserting a Professional Fee Claim for services rendered through the Effective Date must submit fee applications under sections 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 503(b) or 1103 of the Bankruptcy Code and, upon entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court granting such fee applications, such Professional Fee Claim shall promptly be paid in Cash in full to the extent provided in such order.

Professionals or other Entities asserting a Professional Fee Claim for services rendered on or prior to the Effective Date must File, on or before the Professional Fee Claims Bar Date, and serve on the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, and such other Entities who are designated as requiring such notice by the Bankruptcy Rules, the Confirmation Order or other order of the Bankruptcy Court, an application for final allowance of such Professional Fee Claim.

Objections to any Professional Fee Claim must be Filed and served on the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, and the party asserting the Professional Fee Claim by the Professional Fee Claim Objection Deadline. Each Holder of an Allowed Professional Fee Claim will be paid by the Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, in Cash within ten (10) Business Days of entry of the order approving such Allowed Professional Fee Claim.

C. Priority Tax Claims

On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the later of (i) the Initial Distribution Date if such Priority Tax Claim is an Allowed Priority Tax Claim as of the Effective Date or (ii) the date on which such Priority Tax Claim becomes an Allowed Priority Tax Claim, each Holder of an Allowed Priority Tax Claim will receive in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, such Allowed Priority Tax Claim, at the election of the Debtor: (a) Cash in an amount equal to the amount of such Allowed Priority Tax Claim, or (b) such other less favorable treatment as agreed to in writing by the Debtor and such Holder. Payment of statutory fees due pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1930(a)(6) will be made at all appropriate times until the entry of a final decree; provided, however, that the Debtor may prepay any or all such Claims at any time, without premium or penalty.

ARTICLE III.
CLASSIFICATION AND TREATMENT OF CLASSIFIED CLAIMS AND EQUITY INTERESTS

A. Summary

All Claims and Equity Interests, except Administrative Expense Claims and Priority Tax Claims, are classified in the Classes set forth below. In accordance with section 1123(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code, Administrative Expense Claims, and Priority Tax Claims have not been classified.

The categories of Claims and Equity Interests listed below classify Claims and Equity Interests for all purposes including, without limitation, confirmation and distribution pursuant to the Plan and pursuant to sections 1122 and 1123(a)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code. The Plan deems a Claim or Equity Interest to be classified in a particular Class only to the extent that the Claim or Equity Interest qualifies within the description of that Class and will be deemed classified in a different Class to the extent that any remainder of such Claim or Equity Interest qualifies within the description of such different Class. A Claim or Equity Interest is in a particular Class only to the extent that any such Claim or Equity Interest is Allowed in that Class and has not been paid, released or otherwise settled (in each case, by the Debtor or any other Entity) prior to the Effective Date.

B. Summary of Classification and Treatment of Classified Claims and Equity Interests

Class	Claim	Status	Voting Rights
1	Jefferies Secured Claim	Unimpaired	Deemed to Accept
2	Frontier Secured Claim	Unimpaired	Deemed to Accept
3	Priority Non-Tax Claim	Unimpaired	Deemed to Accept
4	Retained Employee Claim	Unimpaired	Deemed to Accept
5	Convenience Claims	Impaired	Entitled to Vote
6	Unpaid Employee Claims	Impaired	Entitled to Vote
7	General Unsecured Claims	Impaired	Entitled to Vote
8	Subordinated Claims	Impaired	Entitled to Vote
9	Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests	Impaired	Entitled to Vote
10	Class A Limited Partnership Interests	Impaired	Entitled to Vote

C. Elimination of Vacant Classes

Any Class that, as of the commencement of the Confirmation Hearing, does not have at least one Holder of a Claim or Equity Interest that is Allowed in an amount greater than zero for voting purposes shall be considered vacant, deemed eliminated from the Plan for purposes of voting to accept or reject the Plan, and disregarded for purposes of determining whether the Plan satisfies section 1129(a)(8) of the Bankruptcy Code with respect to such Class.

D. Impaired/Voting Classes

Claims and Equity Interests in Class 5 through Class 10 are Impaired by the Plan, and only the Holders of Claims or Equity Interests in those Classes are entitled to vote to accept or reject the Plan.

E. Unimpaired/Non-Voting Classes

Claims in Class 1 through Class 4 are Unimpaired by the Plan, and such Holders are deemed to have accepted the Plan and are therefore not entitled to vote on the Plan.

F. Impaired/Non-Voting Classes

There are no Classes under the Plan that will not receive or retain any property and no Classes are deemed to reject the Plan.

G. Cramdown

If any Class of Claims or Equity Interests is deemed to reject this Plan or does not vote to accept this Plan, the Debtor may (i) seek confirmation of this Plan under section 1129(b) of the Bankruptcy Code or (ii) amend or modify this Plan in accordance with the terms hereof and the Bankruptcy Code. If a controversy arises as to whether any Claims or Equity Interests, or any class of Claims or Equity Interests, are Impaired, the Bankruptcy Court shall, after notice and a hearing, determine such controversy on or before the Confirmation Date.

H. Classification and Treatment of Claims and Equity Interests

1. Class 1 – Jefferies Secured Claim

- Classification: Class 1 consists of the Jefferies Secured Claim.
- Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the Effective Date, each Holder of an Allowed Class 1 Claim will receive in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, such Allowed Class 1 Claim, at the election of the Debtor: (A) Cash equal to the amount of such Allowed Class 1 Claim; (B) such other less favorable treatment as to which the Debtor and the Holder of such Allowed Class 1 Claim will have agreed upon in writing; or (C) such other treatment rendering such Claim Unimpaired. Each Holder of an Allowed Class 1 Claim will retain the Liens securing its Allowed Class 1 Claim as of the Effective Date until full and final payment of such Allowed Class 1 Claim is made as provided herein.
- Impairment and Voting: Class 1 is Unimpaired, and the Holders of Class 1 Claims are conclusively deemed to have accepted this Plan pursuant to section 1126(f) of the Bankruptcy Code. Therefore, the Holders of Class 1 Claims are not entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan and will not be solicited.

2. Class 2 – Frontier Secured Claim

- Classification: Class 2 consists of the Frontier Secured Claim.
- Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the Effective Date, each Holder of an Allowed Class 2 Claim will receive in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, such Allowed Class 2 Claim, at the election of the Debtor: (A) Cash equal to the amount of such Allowed Class 2 Claim; (B) such other less favorable treatment as to which the Debtor and the Holder of such Allowed Class 2 Claim will have agreed upon in writing; or (C) such other treatment rendering such Claim Unimpaired. Except with respect to Claims that are treated in accordance with the preceding clause (C), each Holder of an Allowed Class 2 Claim will retain the Liens securing its Allowed Class 2 Claim as of the Effective Date until full and final payment of such Allowed Class 2 Claim is made as provided herein.
- Impairment and Voting: Class 2 is Unimpaired, and the Holders of Class 2 Claims are conclusively deemed to have accepted this Plan pursuant to section 1126(f) of the Bankruptcy Code. Therefore, the Holders of Class 2 Claims are not entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan and will not be solicited.

3. Class 3 – Priority Non-Tax Claims

- Classification: Class 3 consists of the Priority Non-Tax Claims.
- Allowance and Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the later (i) the Initial Distribution Date if such Class 3 Claim is Allowed on the Effective Date or (ii) the date on which such Class 3 Claim becomes an Allowed Class 3 Claim, each Holder of an Allowed Class 3 Claim will receive in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, its Allowed Class 3 Claim Cash equal to the amount of such Allowed Class 3 Claim.
- Impairment and Voting: Class 3 is Unimpaired, and the Holders of Class 3 Claims are conclusively deemed to have accepted this Plan pursuant to section 1126(f) of the Bankruptcy Code. Therefore, the Holders of Class 3 Claims are not entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan and will not be solicited.

4. Class 4 – Retained Employee Claims

- Classification: Class 4 consists of the Retained Employee Claims.
- Allowance and Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the Effective Date, each Allowed Class 4 Claim will be Reinstated.
- Impairment and Voting: Class 4 is Unimpaired, and the Holders of Class 4 Claims are conclusively deemed to have accepted this Plan pursuant to section 1126(f) of the Bankruptcy Code. Therefore, the Holders of Class 4 Claims are not entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan and will not be solicited.

5. Class 5 – Convenience Claims

- Classification: Class 5 consists of the Convenience Claims.
- Allowance and Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the later (i) the Initial Distribution Date if such Class 5 Claim is Allowed on the Effective Date or (ii) the date on which such Class 5 Claim becomes an Allowed Class 5 Claim, each Holder of an Allowed Class 5 Claim will receive in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, its Allowed Class 5 Claim (1) the treatment provided to Allowed Holders of Class 7 General Unsecured Claims if the Holder of such Class 5 Claim makes the GUC Election or (2) an amount in Cash equal to either (a) 75% of the Allowed amount of such Holder's Class 5

Claim or (b) if the total amount of Allowed Class 5 Claims exceeds $15,000,000, such Holder's Pro Rata share of the Convenience Claims Cash Pool.

- Impairment and Voting: Class 5 is Impaired, and the Holders of Class 5 Claims are entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan.

6. Class 6 – Unpaid Employee Claims

- Classification: Class 6 consists of the Unpaid Employee Claims.
- Allowance and Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the later (i) the Initial Distribution Date if such Class 6 Claim is Allowed on the Effective Date or (ii) the date on which such Class 6 Claim becomes an Allowed Class 6 Claim, each Holder of an Allowed Class 6 Claim will receive in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, its Allowed Class 6 Claim (1) the treatment provided to Allowed Holders of Class 7 General Unsecured Claims if the Holder of such Class 6 Claim makes the GUC Election or (2) an amount in Cash equal to either (a) 75% of the Allowed amount of such Holder's Class 6 Claim or (b) if the total amount of Allowed Class 6 Claims exceeds $3,000,000, such Holder's Pro Rata share of the Unpaid Employee Claims Cash Pool.
- Impairment and Voting: Class 6 is Impaired, and the Holders of Class 6 Claims are entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan.

7. Class 7 – General Unsecured Claims

- Classification: Class 7 consists of the General Unsecured Claims.
- Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the Effective Date, each Holder of an Allowed Class 7 Claim, in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, such Claim shall receive (i) its Pro Rata share of the Claimant Trust Interests or (ii) such other less favorable treatment as to which such Holder and the Claimant Trustee shall have agreed upon in writing.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, after the Effective Date and subject to the other provisions of this Plan, the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and the Claimant Trust, as applicable, will have and will retain any and all rights and defenses under bankruptcy or nonbankruptcy law that the Debtor had with respect to any General Unsecured Claim, except with respect to any General Unsecured Claim Allowed by Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court.

- Impairment and Voting: Class 7 is Impaired, and the Holders of Class 7 Claims are entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan.

8. Class 8 – Subordinated Claims

- Classification: Class 8 consists of the Subordinated Claims.
- Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the Effective Date, each Holder of an Allowed Class 8 Claim, in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, such Claim shall receive (i) its Pro Rata share of the Subordinated Claimant Trust Interests or (ii) such other less favorable treatment as to which such Holder and the Claimant Trustee shall have agreed upon in writing.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, after the Effective Date and subject to the other provisions of this Plan, the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and the Claimant Trust, as applicable, will have and will retain any and all rights and defenses under bankruptcy or nonbankruptcy law that the Debtor had with respect to any Subordinated Claim, except with respect to any Subordinated Claim Allowed by Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court.

- Impairment and Voting: Class 8 is Impaired, and the Holders of Class 8 Claims are entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan.

9. Class 9 – Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests

- Classification: Class 9 consists of the Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests.
- Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the Effective Date, each Holder of an Allowed Class 9 Claim, in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, such Claim shall receive (i) its Pro Rata share of the Contingent Claimant Trust Interests or (ii) such other less favorable treatment as to which such Holder and the Claimant Trustee shall have agreed upon in writing.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, after the Effective Date and subject to the other provisions of this Plan, the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and the Claimant Trust, as applicable, will have and will retain any and all rights and defenses under bankruptcy or nonbankruptcy law that the Debtor had with respect to any Class B/C Limited Partnership Interest Claim, except with respect to any Class B/C Limited Partnership Interest Claim Allowed by Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court.

- Impairment and Voting: Class 9 is Impaired, and the Holders of Class 9 Claims are entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan.

10. Class 10 – Class A Limited Partnership Interests

- Classification: Class 10 consists of the Class A Limited Partnership Interests.
- Treatment: On or as soon as reasonably practicable after the Effective Date, each Holder of an Allowed Class 10 Claim, in full satisfaction, settlement, discharge and release of, and in exchange for, such Claim shall receive (i) its Pro Rata share of the Contingent Claimant Trust Interests or (ii) such other less favorable treatment as to which such Holder and the Claimant Trustee shall have agreed upon in writing.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, after the Effective Date and subject to the other provisions of this Plan, the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and the Claimant Trust, as applicable, will have and will retain any and all rights and defenses under bankruptcy or nonbankruptcy law that the Debtor had with respect to any Class A Limited Partnership Interest, except with respect to any Class A Limited Partnership Interest Allowed by Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court.

- Impairment and Voting: Class 10 is Impaired, and the Holders of Class 10 Claims are entitled to vote to accept or reject this Plan.

I. Special Provision Governing Unimpaired Claims

Except as otherwise provided in the Plan, nothing under the Plan will affect the Debtor's rights in respect of any Unimpaired Claims, including, without limitation, all rights in respect of legal and equitable defenses to or setoffs or recoupments against any such Unimpaired Claims.

J. Subordinated Claims

The allowance, classification, and treatment of all Claims under the Plan shall take into account and conform to the contractual, legal, and equitable subordination rights relating thereto, whether arising under general principles of equitable subordination, section 510(b) of the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise. Under section 510 of the Bankruptcy Code, upon written notice, the Debtor the Reorganized Debtor, and the Claimant Trustee reserve the right to re-classify, or to seek to subordinate, any Claim in accordance with any contractual, legal, or equitable subordination relating thereto, and the treatment afforded any Claim under the Plan that becomes a subordinated Claim at any time shall be modified to reflect such subordination.

ARTICLE IV.
MEANS FOR IMPLEMENTATION OF THIS PLAN

A. Summary

As discussed in the Disclosure Statement, the Plan will be implemented through (i) the Claimant Trust and (ii) the Reorganized Debtor.

On the Effective Date, all Class A Limited Partnership Interests, including the Class A Limited Partnership Interests held by Strand, as general partner, and Class B/C Limited Partnerships in the Debtor will be cancelled, and new Class A Limited Partnership Interests in the Reorganized Debtor will be issued to the Claimant Trust and New GP LLC – a newly-chartered limited liability company wholly-owned by the Claimant Trust. The Claimant Trust, as limited partner, will ratify New GP LLC’s appointment as general partner of the Reorganized Debtor, and on and following the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust will be the Reorganized Debtor’s limited partner and New GP LLC will be its general partner. The Claimant Trust, as limited partner, and New GP LLC, as general partner, will execute the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, which will amend and restate, in all respects, the Debtor’s current Limited Partnership Agreement. Following the Effective Date, the Reorganized Debtor will be managed consistent with the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement by New GP LLC. The sole managing member of New GP LLC will be the Claimant Trust, and the Claimant Trustee will be the sole officer of New GP LLC on the Effective Date.

Following the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust will administer the Claimant Trust Assets pursuant to this Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement. The Reorganized Debtor will administer the Reorganized Debtor Assets and, if needed, with the utilization of a Sub-Servicer, which administration will include, among other things, managing the wind down of the Managed Funds.

The Reorganized Debtor will distribute all proceeds from the wind down to the Claimant Trust, as its limited partner, and New GP LLC, as its general partner, in each case in accordance with the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement. Such proceeds, along with the proceeds of the Claimant Trust Assets, will ultimately be distributed to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries as set forth in this Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement.

B. The Claimant Trust

1. Creation and Governance of the Claimant Trust and Litigation Sub-Trust.

On or prior to the Effective Date, the Debtor and the Claimant Trustee shall execute the Claimant Trust Agreement and shall take all steps necessary to establish the Claimant Trust and, if applicable, the Litigation Sub-Trust in accordance with the Plan and the beneficial interests therein, which shall be for the benefit of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. Additionally, on or prior to the Effective Date the Debtor shall irrevocably transfer and shall be deemed to have irrevocably transferred to the Claimant Trust all of its rights, title, and interest in and to all of the Claimant Trust Assets, and in accordance with section 1141 of the Bankruptcy Code, the Claimant Trust Assets shall automatically vest in the Claimant Trust free and clear of all Claims, Liens, encumbrances, or interests subject only to the Claimant Trust Interests and the Claimant

Trust Expenses, as provided for in the Claimant Trust Agreement, and such transfer shall be exempt from any stamp, real estate transfer, mortgage from any stamp, transfer, reporting, sales, use, or other similar tax.

The Claimant Trustee shall be the exclusive trustee of the Claimant Trust Assets, excluding the Estate Claims if the Litigation Sub-Trust is established, for purposes of 31 U.S.C. § 3713(b) and 26 U.S.C. § 6012(b)(3), as well as the representative of the Estate appointed pursuant to section 1123(b)(3)(B) of the Bankruptcy Code with respect to the Claimant Trust Assets. The Claimant Trust shall also be responsible for resolving all Disputed or disallowed Claims. The Claimant Trust shall be governed by the Claimant Trust Agreement and administered by the Claimant Trustee. The powers, rights, and responsibilities of the Claimant Trustee shall be specified in the Claimant Trust Agreement and shall include the authority and responsibility to, among other things, take the actions set forth in ARTICLE IV, subject to any required reporting to the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee as may be set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement. The Claimant Trust shall hold and distribute the Claimant Trust Assets in accordance with the provisions of the Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement. Other rights and duties of the Claimant Trustee and the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries shall be as set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement. After the Effective Date, neither the Debtor nor the Reorganized Debtor shall have any interest in the Claimant Trust Assets.

If applicable, on or after the Effective Date, the Claimant Trustee and Litigation Trustee may enter into a separate agreement that shall delineate the powers, rights, and responsibilities of the Litigation Trustee and administration and governance of the Litigation Sub-Trust in a manner consistent with the Claimant Trust Agreement.

2. Claimant Trust Oversight Committee

The Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, the management and monetization of the Claimant Trust Assets, and the management of the Reorganized Debtor (through the Claimant Trust's role as managing member of New GP LLC) will be overseen by the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee, subject to the terms of the Claimant Trust Agreement.

The Claimant Trust Oversight Committee will initially consist of five members. Four of the five members will be representatives of the members of the Committee: (i) the Redeemer Committee of Highland Crusader Fund, (ii) UBS, (iii) Acis, and (iv) Meta-e Discovery. The fifth member will be an independent, natural Person chosen by the Committee and reasonably acceptable to the Debtor. The members of the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee may be replaced as set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement. The identity of the members of the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee will be disclosed in the Plan Supplement.

As set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement, in no event will any member of the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee with a Claim against the Estate be entitled to vote, opine, or otherwise be involved in any matters related to such member's Claim.

The members of the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee may be entitled to compensation for their services as set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement. Any member of the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee may be removed, and successor chosen, in the manner set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement.

3. Purpose of the Claimant Trust.

The Claimant Trust shall be established for the purpose of (i) managing and monetizing the Claimant Trust Assets, subject to the terms of the Claimant Trust Agreement and the oversight of the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee, (ii) serving as the limited partner of, and holding the limited partnership interests in, the Reorganized Debtor, (iii) serving as the sole member and manager of New GP LLC, the Reorganized Debtor's general partner, (iv) in its capacity as the sole member and manager of New GP LLC, overseeing the management and monetization of the Reorganized Debtor Assets pursuant to the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement; and (v) administering the Disputed Claims Reserve and serving as Distribution Agent.

In its management of the Claimant Trust Assets, the Claimant Trust will also reconcile and object to the General Unsecured Claims, Subordinated Claims, Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests, and Class A Limited Partnership Interests, as provided for in the Plan, and make Trust Distributions to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in accordance with Treasury Regulation section 301.7701-4(d), with no objective to continue or engage in the conduct of a trade or business.

The purpose of the Reorganized Debtor is discussed at greater length in ARTICLE IV.C.

4. Claimant Trustee and Claimant Trust Agreement.

The Claimant Trust Agreement generally will provide for, among other things:

- (i) the payment of the Claimant Trust Expenses;
- (ii) the payment of other reasonable expenses of the Claimant Trust;
- (iii) the retention of employees, counsel, accountants, financial advisors, or other professionals and the payment of their reasonable compensation;
- (iv) the investment of Cash by the Claimant Trustee within certain limitations, including those specified in the Plan;
- (v) the orderly monetization of the Claimant Trust Assets;
- (vi) litigation of any Causes of Action, which may include the prosecution, settlement, abandonment, or dismissal of any such Causes of Action, subject to reporting and oversight by the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee;
- (vii) the resolution of Disputed or disallowed Claims and the allowance, prosecution, and resolution of objections to Claims and Equity Interests, subject to reporting and oversight by the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee;

(viii) the administration of the Disputed Claims Reserve and distributions to be made therefrom; and

(ix) the management of the Reorganized Debtor, including the utilization of a Sub-Servicer, with the Claimant Trust serving as the managing member of New GP LLC.

Except as otherwise ordered by the Bankruptcy Court, the Claimant Trust Expenses shall be paid from the Claimant Trust Assets in accordance with the Plan and Claimant Trust Agreement. The Claimant Trustee may establish a reserve for the payment of Claimant Trust Expenses and shall periodically replenish such reserve, as necessary.

The Trustees, on behalf of the Claimant Trust, may each employ, without further order of the Bankruptcy Court, employees and other professionals (including those previously retained by the Debtor and the Committee) to assist in carrying out the Trustees' duties hereunder and may compensate and reimburse the reasonable expenses of these professionals without further Order of the Bankruptcy Court from the Claimant Trust Assets in accordance with the Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement.

The Claimant Trust Agreement may include reasonable and customary provisions that allow for indemnification by the Claimant Trust in favor of the Claimant Trustee, Litigation Trustee, and the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee. Any such indemnification shall be the sole responsibility of the Claimant Trust and payable solely from the Claimant Trust Assets.

In furtherance of, and consistent with the purpose of, the Claimant Trust and the Plan, the Trustees, for the benefit of the Claimant Trust, shall, subject to reporting and oversight by the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee as set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement: (i) hold the Claimant Trust Assets for the benefit of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, (ii) make Distributions to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries as provided herein and in the Claimant Trust Agreement, and (iii) have the sole power and authority to prosecute and resolve any Causes of Action and objections to Claims and Equity Interests, without approval of the Bankruptcy Court. Except as otherwise provided in the Claimant Trust Agreement, the Claimant Trustee shall be responsible for all decisions and duties with respect to the Claimant Trust and the Claimant Trust Assets; provided, however, that if a Litigation Sub-Trust is created upon or after the Effective Date, the prosecution and resolution of any Estate Claims included in the Claimant Trust Assets shall be the responsibility of the Litigation Trustee. In all circumstances, the Trustees shall act in the best interests of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and with the same fiduciary duties as a chapter 7 trustee.

5. Compensation and Duties of Trustees.

The salient terms of each Trustee's employment, including such Trustee's duties and compensation shall be set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement. The Trustees shall each be entitled to reasonable compensation in an amount consistent with that of similar functionaries in similar types of bankruptcy cases.

6. Cooperation of Debtor and Reorganized Debtor.

To effectively investigate, prosecute, compromise and/or settle the Claims and/or Causes of Action that constitute Claimant Trust Assets on behalf of the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, Litigation Trustee, and each of their counsel may require reasonable access to the Debtor's and Reorganized Debtor's documents, information, and work product relating to the Claimant Trust Assets. Accordingly, the Claimant Trustee and Litigation Trustee shall have reasonable access to copies of the Debtor's and Reorganized Debtor's records and information relating to the Claimant Trust Assets, including electronic records, documents or work product related to the Claims and/or Causes of Action that constitute Claimant Trust Assets.

The Debtor and Reorganized Debtor shall preserve all records, documents or work product (including all electronic records, documents, or work product) related to the Claims and/or Causes of Action that constitute Claimant Trust Assets until the earlier of (a) the dissolution of the Reorganized Debtor or (b) termination of the Claimant Trust.

7. United States Federal Income Tax Treatment of the Claimant Trust.

Unless the IRS requires otherwise, for all United States federal income tax purposes, the parties shall treat the transfer of the Claimant Trust Assets to the Claimant Trust as: (a) a transfer of the Claimant Trust Assets (other than the amounts set aside in the Disputed Claim Reserve, if the Claimant Trustee makes the election described in Section 7 below) directly to the applicable Claimant Trust Beneficiaries followed by (b) the transfer by the such Claimant Trust Beneficiaries to the Claimant Trust of such Claimant Trust Assets in exchange for the Claimant Trust Interests. Accordingly, the applicable Claimant Trust Beneficiaries shall be treated for United States federal income tax purposes as the grantors and owners of their respective share of the Claimant Trust Assets. The foregoing treatment shall also apply, to the extent permitted by applicable law, for state and local income tax purposes.

8. Tax Reporting.

(a) The Claimant Trustee shall file tax returns for the Claimant Trust treating the Claimant Trust as a grantor trust pursuant to Treasury Regulation section 1.671-4(a). The Claimant Trustee may file an election pursuant to Treasury Regulation 1.468B-9(c) to treat the Disputed Claims Reserve as a disputed ownership fund, in which case the Claimant Trustee will file federal income tax returns and pay taxes for the Disputed Claim Reserve as a separate taxable entity.

(b) The Claimant Trustee shall be responsible for payment, out of the Claimant Trust Assets, of any taxes imposed on the Claimant Trust or its assets.

(c) The Claimant Trustee shall determine the fair market value of the Claimant Trust Assets as of the Effective Date and notify the applicable Claimant Trust Beneficiaries of such valuation, and such valuation shall be used consistently for all federal income tax purposes.

(d) The Claimant Trustee shall distribute such tax information to the applicable Claimant Trust Beneficiaries as the Claimant Trustee determines is required by applicable law.

9. Claimant Trust Assets.

The Claimant Trustee shall have the exclusive right, on behalf of the Claimant Trust, to institute, file, prosecute, enforce, abandon, settle, compromise, release, or withdraw any and all Causes of Action included in the Claimant Trust Assets (except for the Estate Claims) without any further order of the Bankruptcy Court, and the Claimant Trustee shall have the exclusive right, on behalf of the Claimant Trust, to sell, liquidate, or otherwise monetize all Claimant Trust Assets, except as otherwise provided in this Plan or in the Claimant Trust Agreement, without any further order of the Bankruptcy Court. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Litigation Trustee shall have the exclusive right to institute, file, prosecute, enforce, abandon, settle, compromise, release, or withdraw any and all Estate Claims included in the Claimant Trust Assets without any further order of the Bankruptcy Court.

From and after the Effective Date, the Trustees, in accordance with section 1123(b)(3) and (4) of the Bankruptcy Code, and on behalf of the Claimant Trust, shall each serve as a representative of the Estate with respect to any and all Claimant Trust Assets, including the Causes of Action and Estate Claims, as appropriate, and shall retain and possess the right to (a) commence, pursue, settle, compromise, or abandon, as appropriate, any and all Causes of Action in any court or other tribunal and (b) sell, liquidate, or otherwise monetize all Claimant Trust Assets.

10. Claimant Trust Expenses.

From and after the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust shall, in the ordinary course of business and without the necessity of any approval by the Bankruptcy Court, pay the reasonable professional fees and expenses incurred by the Claimant Trust and any professionals retained by the Claimant Trust from the Claimant Trust Assets, except as otherwise provided in the Claimant Trust Agreement.

11. Trust Distributions to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

The Claimant Trustee, in its discretion, may make Trust Distributions to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries at any time and/or use the Claimant Trust Assets or proceeds thereof, provided that such Trust Distributions or use is otherwise permitted under the terms of the Plan, the Claimant Trust Agreement, and applicable law.

12. Cash Investments.

With the consent of the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee, the Claimant Trustee may invest Cash (including any earnings thereon or proceeds therefrom) in a manner consistent with the terms of the Claimant Trust Agreement; provided, however, that such investments are investments permitted to be made by a “liquidating trust” within the meaning of Treasury Regulation section 301.7701-4(d), as reflected therein, or under applicable IRS guidelines, rulings or other controlling authorities.

13. Dissolution of the Claimant Trust.

The Trustees and the Claimant Trust shall be discharged or dissolved, as the case may be, at such time as: (a) the Litigation Trustee determines that the pursuit of additional Causes of Action is not likely to yield sufficient additional proceeds to justify further pursuit of such Causes of Action, (b) the Claimant Trustee determines that the pursuit of sales of other Claimant Trust Assets is not likely to yield sufficient additional proceeds to justify further pursuit of such sales of Claimant Trust Assets, (c) all objections to Disputed Claims and Equity Interests are fully resolved, (d) the Reorganized Debtor is dissolved, and (e) all Distributions required to be made by the Claimant Trustee to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries under the Plan have been made, but in no event shall the Claimant Trust be dissolved later than three years from the Effective Date unless the Bankruptcy Court, upon motion made within the six-month period before such third anniversary (and, in the event of further extension, by order of the Bankruptcy Court, upon motion made at least six months before the end of the preceding extension), determines that a fixed period extension (not to exceed two years, together with any prior extensions, without a favorable letter ruling from the Internal Revenue Service or an opinion of counsel that any further extension would not adversely affect the status of the Claimant Trust as a liquidating trust for federal income tax purposes) is necessary to facilitate or complete the recovery on, and liquidation of, the Claimant Trust Assets.

Upon dissolution of the Claimant Trust, and pursuant to the Claimant Trust Agreement, any remaining Claimant Trust Assets that exceed the amounts required to be paid under the Plan will be transferred (in the sole discretion of the Claimant Trustee) in Cash or in-kind to the Holders of the Claimant Trust Interests as provided in the Claimant Trust Agreement.

C. The Reorganized Debtor

1. Corporate Existence

The Debtor will continue to exist after the Effective Date, with all of the powers of partnerships pursuant to the law of the State of Delaware and as set forth in the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement.

2. Cancellation of Equity Interests and Release

On the Effective Date, (i) all prepetition Equity Interests, including the Class A Limited Partnership Interests and the Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests, in the Debtor shall be canceled, and (ii) all obligations or debts owed by, or Claims against, the Debtor on account of, or based upon, the Interests shall be deemed as cancelled, released, and discharged, including all obligations or duties by the Debtor relating to the Equity Interests in any of the Debtor's formation documents, including the Limited Partnership Agreement.

3. Issuance of New Partnership Interests

On the Effective Date, the Debtor or the Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, will issue new Class A Limited Partnership Interests to (i) the Claimant Trust, as limited partner, and (ii) New GP LLC, as general partner, and will admit (a) the Claimant Trust as the limited partner of the Reorganized Debtor, and (b) New GP LLC as the general partner of the Reorganized Debtor.

The Claimant Trust, as limited partner, will ratify New GP LLC's appointment as general partner of the Reorganized Debtor. Also, on the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust, as limited partner, and New GP LLC, as general partner, will execute the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement and receive partnership interests in the Reorganized Debtor consistent with the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement.

4. Management of the Reorganized Debtor

Subject to and consistent with the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, the Reorganized Debtor shall be managed by its general partner, New GP LLC. The initial officers and employees of the Reorganized Debtor shall be selected by the Debtor. The Reorganized Debtor may, in its discretion, also utilize a Sub-Servicer in addition to or in lieu of the retention of officers and employees.

As set forth in the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, New GP LLC will receive a fee for managing the Reorganized Debtor. Although New GP LLC will be a limited liability company, it will elect to be treated as a C-Corporation for tax purposes. Therefore, New GP LLC (and any taxable income attributable to it) will be subject to corporate income taxation on a standalone basis, which may reduce the return to Claimants.

5. Vesting of Assets in the Reorganized Debtor

Except as otherwise provided in this Plan or the Confirmation Order, on or after the Effective Date, all Reorganized Debtor Assets will vest in the Reorganized Debtor, free and clear of all Liens, Claims, charges or other encumbrances pursuant to section 1141(c) of the Bankruptcy Code except with respect to such Liens, Claims, charges and other encumbrances that are specifically preserved under this Plan upon the Effective Date.

The Reorganized Debtor shall be the exclusive trustee of the Reorganized Debtor Assets for purposes of 31 U.S.C. § 3713(b) and 26 U.S.C. § 6012(b)(3), as well as the representative of the Estate appointed pursuant to section 1123(b)(3)(B) of the Bankruptcy Code with respect to the Reorganized Debtor Assets.

Except as may be otherwise provided in this Plan or the Confirmation Order, the Reorganized Debtor will continue to manage the Reorganized Debtor Assets (which shall include, for the avoidance of doubt, serving as the investment manager of the Managed Funds) and may use, acquire or dispose of the Reorganized Debtor Assets and compromise or settle any Claims with respect to the Reorganized Debtor Assets without supervision or approval by the Bankruptcy Court and free of any restrictions of the Bankruptcy Code or Bankruptcy Rules.

Without limiting the foregoing, the Reorganized Debtor will pay the charges that it incurs after the Effective Date for Professionals' fees, disbursements, expenses or related support services (including reasonable fees relating to the preparation of Professional fee applications) in the ordinary course of business and without application or notice to, or order of, the Bankruptcy Court.

6. Distribution of Proceeds from the Reorganized Debtor Assets; Transfer of Reorganized Debtor Assets

Any proceeds received by the Reorganized Debtor will be distributed to the Claimant Trust, as limited partner, and New GP LLC, as general partner, in the manner set forth in the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement. As set forth in the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, the Reorganized Debtor may, from time to time distribute Reorganized Debtor Assets to the Claimant Trust either in Cash or in-kind, including to institute the wind-down and dissolution of the Reorganized Debtor. Any assets distributed to the Claimant Trust will be (i) deemed transferred in all respects as forth in ARTICLE IV.B.1, (ii) deemed Claimant Trust Assets, and (iii) administered as Claimant Trust Assets.

D. Company Action

Each of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and the Trustees, as applicable, may take any and all actions to execute, deliver, File or record such contracts, instruments, releases and other agreements or documents and take such actions as may be necessary or appropriate to effectuate and implement the provisions of this Plan, the Claimant Trust Agreement, the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, or the New GP LLC Documents, as applicable, in the name of and on behalf of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Trustees, as applicable, and in each case without further notice to or order of the Bankruptcy Court, act or action under applicable law, regulation, order, or rule or any requirement of further action, vote or other approval or authorization by the security holders, officers, or directors of the Debtor or the Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, or by any other Person.

Prior to, on or after the Effective Date (as appropriate), all matters provided for pursuant to this Plan that would otherwise require approval of the stockholders, partners, directors, managers, or members of the Debtor, any Related Entity, or any Affiliate thereof (as of prior to the Effective Date) will be deemed to have been so approved and will be in effect prior to, on or after the Effective Date (as appropriate) pursuant to applicable law and without any requirement of further action by the stockholders, partners, directors, managers or members of such Persons, or the need for any approvals, authorizations, actions or consents of any Person.

All matters provided for in this Plan involving the legal or corporate structure of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, and any legal or corporate action required by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, in connection with this Plan, will be deemed to have occurred and will be in full force and effect in all respects, in each case without further notice to or order of the Bankruptcy Court, act or action under applicable law, regulation, order, or rule or any requirement of further action, vote or other approval or authorization by the security holders, partners, directors, managers, or members of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, or by any other Person. On the Effective Date, the appropriate officers of the Debtor and the Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, as well as the Trustees, are authorized to issue, execute, deliver, and consummate the transactions contemplated by, the contracts, agreements, documents, guarantees, pledges, consents, securities, certificates, resolutions and instruments contemplated by or described in this Plan in the name of and on behalf of the Debtor and the Reorganized Debtor, as well as the Trustees, in each case without further notice to or order of the Bankruptcy Court, act or action under applicable law, regulation, order, or rule or any requirement of further action, vote or other approval or authorization by any Person. The appropriate officer of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, as well as the Trustees, will be authorized to certify or attest to any of the foregoing actions.

E. Release of Liens, Claims and Equity Interests

Except as otherwise provided in the Plan or in any contract, instrument, release or other agreement or document entered into or delivered in connection with the Plan, from and after the Effective Date and concurrently with the applicable distributions made pursuant to the Plan, all Liens, Claims, Equity Interests, mortgages, deeds of trust, or other security interests against the property of the Estate will be fully released, terminated, extinguished and discharged, in each case without further notice to or order of the Bankruptcy Court, act or action under applicable law, regulation, order, or rule or the vote, consent, authorization or approval of any Entity. Any Entity holding such Liens or Equity Interests extinguished pursuant to the prior sentence will, pursuant to section 1142 of the Bankruptcy Code, promptly execute and deliver to the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, such instruments of termination, release, satisfaction and/or assignment (in recordable form) as may be reasonably requested by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable. For the avoidance of doubt, this section is in addition to, and shall not be read to limit in any respects, ARTICLE IV.C.2.

F. Cancellation of Notes, Certificates and Instruments

Except for the purpose of evidencing a right to a distribution under this Plan and except as otherwise set forth in this Plan, on the Effective Date, all agreements, instruments, Securities and other documents evidencing any prepetition Claim or Equity Interest and any rights of any Holder in respect thereof shall be deemed cancelled, discharged, and of no force or effect. The holders of or parties to such cancelled instruments, Securities, and other documentation will have no rights arising from or related to such instruments, Securities, or other documentation or the cancellation thereof, except the rights provided for pursuant to this Plan, and the obligations of the Debtor thereunder or in any way related thereto will be fully released, terminated, extinguished and discharged, in each case without further notice to or order of the Bankruptcy Court, act or action under applicable law, regulation, order, or rule or any requirement of further action, vote or other approval or authorization by any Person. For the avoidance of doubt, this section is in addition to, and shall not be read to limit in any respects, ARTICLE IV.C.2.

G. Cancellation of Existing Instruments Governing Security Interests

Upon payment or other satisfaction of an Allowed Class 1 or Allowed Class 2 Claim, or promptly thereafter, the Holder of such Allowed Class 1 or Allowed Class 2 Claim shall deliver to the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, any collateral or other property of the Debtor held by such Holder, together with any termination statements, instruments of satisfaction, or releases of all security interests with respect to its Allowed Class 1 or Allowed Class 2 Claim that may be reasonably required to terminate any related financing statements, mortgages, mechanics' or other statutory Liens, or lis pendens, or similar interests or documents.

H. Control Provisions

To the extent that there is any inconsistency between this Plan as it relates to the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trust Agreement, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, this Plan shall control.

I. Treatment of Vacant Classes

Any Claim or Equity Interest in a Class considered vacant under ARTICLE III.C of this Plan shall receive no Plan Distributions.

J. Plan Documents

The documents, if any, to be Filed as part of the Plan Documents, including any documents filed with the Plan Supplement, and any amendments, restatements, supplements, or other modifications to such documents, and any consents, waivers, or other deviations under or from any such documents, shall be incorporated herein by this reference (including to the applicable definitions in ARTICLE I hereof) and fully enforceable as if stated in full herein.

The Debtor and the Committee are currently working to finalize the forms of certain of the Plan Documents to be filed with the Plan Supplement. To the extent that the Debtor and the Committee cannot agree as to the form and content of such Plan Documents, they intend to submit the issue to non-binding mediation pursuant to the Order Directing Mediation entered on August 3, 2020 [D.I. 912].

ARTICLE V.

TREATMENT OF EXECUTORY CONTRACTS AND UNEXPIRED LEASES

A. Assumption, Assignment, or Rejection of Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases

Unless an Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease: (i) was previously assumed or rejected by the Debtor pursuant to a Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court entered prior to the Effective Date; (ii) previously expired or terminated pursuant to its own terms or by agreement of the parties thereto; (iii) is the subject of a motion to assume filed by the Debtor on or before the Confirmation Date; (iv) contains a change of control or similar provision that would be triggered by the Chapter 11 Case (unless such provision has been irrevocably waived); or (v) is specifically designated as a contract or lease to be assumed in the Plan Supplement, on the Effective Date, each Executory Contract and Unexpired Lease shall be deemed rejected pursuant to section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code, without the need for any further notice to or action, order, or approval of the Bankruptcy Court, unless such Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease is listed in the Plan Supplement.

At any time on or prior to the Effective Date, the Debtor or the Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, may assign (subject to applicable law) any Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease, as determined by the Debtor in consultation with the Committee, or the Reorganized Debtor, as applicable.

The Confirmation Order will constitute an order of the Bankruptcy Court approving the above-described assumptions, rejections, and assumptions and assignments. Except as otherwise provided herein or agreed to by the Debtor and the applicable counterparty, each assumed Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease shall include all modifications, amendments, supplements, restatements, or other agreements related thereto, and all rights related thereto. Modifications, amendments, supplements, and restatements to prepetition Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases that have been executed by the Debtor during the Chapter 11 Case shall not be deemed to alter the prepetition nature of the Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease or the validity, priority, or amount of any Claims that may arise in connection therewith. To the extent applicable, no change of control (or similar provision) will be deemed to occur under any such Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease.

If certain, but not all, of a contract counterparty's Executory Contracts and/or Unexpired Leases are rejected pursuant to the Plan, the Confirmation Order shall be a determination that such counterparty's Executory Contracts and/or Unexpired Leases that are being assumed pursuant to the Plan are severable agreements that are not integrated with those Executory Contracts and/or Unexpired Leases that are being rejected pursuant to the Plan. Parties seeking to contest this finding with respect to their Executory Contracts and/or Unexpired Leases must file a timely objection to the Plan on the grounds that their agreements are integrated and not severable, and any such dispute shall be resolved by the Bankruptcy Court at the Confirmation Hearing (to the extent not resolved by the parties prior to the Confirmation Hearing).

B. Claims Based on Rejection of Executory Contracts or Unexpired Leases

Any Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease not assumed or rejected on or before the Effective Date shall be deemed rejected, pursuant to the Confirmation Order. Any Person asserting a Rejection Claim shall File a proof of claim within thirty days of the Effective Date. Any Rejection Claims that are not timely Filed pursuant to this Plan shall be forever disallowed and barred. If one or more Rejection Claims are timely Filed, the Claimant Trustee may File an objection to any Rejection Claim.

Rejection Claims shall be classified as Convenience Claims or General Unsecured Claims, as applicable, and shall be treated in accordance with ARTICLE III of this Plan.

C. Cure of Defaults for Assumed or Assigned Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases

Any monetary amounts by which any Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease to be assumed or assigned hereunder is in default shall be satisfied, under section 365(b)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code, by the Debtor upon assumption or assignment thereof, by payment of the default amount in Cash as and when due in the ordinary course or on such other terms as the parties to such Executory Contracts may otherwise agree. The Debtor may serve a notice on the Committee and parties to Executory Contracts or Unexpired Leases to be assumed or assigned reflecting the Debtor's or Reorganized Debtor's intention to assume or assign the Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease in connection with this Plan and setting forth the proposed cure amount (if any).

If a dispute regarding (1) the amount of any payments to cure a default, (2) the ability of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or any assignee to provide “adequate assurance of future performance” (within the meaning of section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code) under the Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease to be assumed or assigned or (3) any other matter pertaining to assumption or assignment, the cure payments required by section 365(b)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code will be made following the entry of a Final Order or orders resolving the dispute and approving the assumption or assignment.

Assumption or assignment of any Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease pursuant to the Plan or otherwise and full payment of any applicable cure amounts pursuant to this ARTICLE V.C shall result in the full release and satisfaction of any cure amounts, Claims, or defaults, whether monetary or nonmonetary, including defaults of provisions restricting the change in control or ownership interest composition or other bankruptcy-related defaults, arising under any assumed or assigned Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease at any time prior to the effective date of assumption or assignment. Any and all Proofs of Claim based upon Executory Contracts or Unexpired Leases that have been assumed or assigned in the Chapter 11 Case, including pursuant to the Confirmation Order, and for which any cure amounts have been fully paid pursuant to this ARTICLE V.C, shall be deemed disallowed and expunged as of the Effective Date without the need for any objection thereto or any further notice to or action, order, or approval of the Bankruptcy Court.

D. Assumption of Insurance Policies

Upon the Effective Date, the Reorganized Debtor will assume all of the Insurance Policies pursuant to section 365(a) of the Bankruptcy Code and all such Insurance Policies shall vest in the Reorganized Debtor. Unless previously effectuated by separate order entered by the Bankruptcy Court, entry of the Confirmation Order will constitute the Bankruptcy Court’s approval of the Debtor’s foregoing assumption of each of the Insurance Policies and all such Insurance Policies shall continue in full force and effect thereafter in accordance with their respective terms. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Plan, confirmation of this Plan will not impair or otherwise modify any rights of the Debtor or the Reorganized Debtor under the Insurance Policies. To the extent that any Insurance Policy is not assumable, it will be Reinstated.

ARTICLE VI.
PROVISIONS GOVERNING DISTRIBUTIONS

A. Dates of Distributions

Except as otherwise provided in this Plan, on the Effective Date or as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter (or if a Claim is not an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest on the Effective Date, on the date that such Claim or Equity Interest becomes an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest, or as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter), each Holder of an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest against the Debtor shall receive the full amount of the distributions that this Plan provides for Allowed Claims or Allowed Equity Interests in the applicable Class and in the manner provided herein. If any payment or act under this Plan is required to be made or performed on a date that is not on a Business Day, then the making of such payment or the performance of such act may be completed on the next succeeding Business Day, but shall be deemed to have been completed as of the required date. If and to the extent there are Disputed Claims or Equity Interests, distributions on account of any such Disputed Claims or Equity Interests shall be made pursuant to the provisions provided in this Plan. Except as otherwise provided in this Plan, Holders of Claims and Equity Interests shall not be entitled to interest, dividends or accruals on the distributions provided for therein, regardless of whether distributions are delivered on or at any time after the Effective Date.

Upon the Effective Date, all Claims and Equity Interests against the Debtor shall be deemed fixed and adjusted pursuant to this Plan and none of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust will have liability on account of any Claims or Equity Interests except as set forth in this Plan and in the Confirmation Order. All payments and all distributions made by the Distribution Agent under this Plan shall be in full and final satisfaction, settlement and release of all Claims and Equity Interests against the Debtor and the Reorganized Debtor.

At the close of business on the Distribution Record Date, the transfer ledgers for the Claims against the Debtor and the Equity Interests in the Debtor shall be closed, and there shall be no further changes in the record holders of such Claims and Equity Interests. The Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, the Trustees, and the Distribution Agent, and each of their respective agents, successors, and assigns shall have no obligation to recognize the transfer of any Claims against the Debtor or Equity Interests in the Debtor occurring after the Distribution Record Date and shall be entitled instead to recognize and deal for all purposes hereunder with only those record holders stated on the transfer ledgers as of the close of business on the Distribution Record Date irrespective of the number of distributions to be made under this Plan to such Persons or the date of such distributions.

B. Distribution Agent

Except as provided herein, all distributions under this Plan shall be made by the Claimant Trustee, as Distribution Agent, or by such other Entity designated by the Claimant Trustee, as a Distribution Agent on the Effective Date or thereafter. The Claimant Trustee, or such other Entity designated by the Claimant Trustee to be the Distribution Agent, shall not be required to give any bond or surety or other security for the performance of such Distribution Agent's duties unless otherwise ordered by the Bankruptcy Court.

The Distribution Agent shall be empowered to (a) effect all actions and execute all agreements, instruments, and other documents necessary to perform its duties under this Plan; (b) make all distributions contemplated hereby; (c) employ professionals to represent it with respect to its responsibilities; and (d) exercise such other powers as may be vested in the Distribution Agent by order of the Bankruptcy Court, pursuant to this Plan, or as deemed by the Distribution Agent to be necessary and proper to implement the provisions hereof.

The Distribution Agent shall not have any obligation to make a particular distribution to a specific Holder of an Allowed Claim if such Holder is also the Holder of a Disputed Claim.

C. Cash Distributions

Distributions of Cash may be made by wire transfer from a domestic bank, except that Cash payments made to foreign creditors may be made in such funds and by such means as the Distribution Agent determines are necessary or customary in a particular foreign jurisdiction.

D. Disputed Claims Reserve

As set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement, the Claimant Trustee, as Distribution Agent, shall establish, fund, and maintain a reserve at the Claimant Trust. Any payments to be made under this Plan after the Effective Date shall be paid from the Disputed Claims Reserve as set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement. Upon the resolution of all Disputed Claims, funds remaining in the Disputed Claims Reserve shall be allocated in the manner set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement.

E. Rounding of Payments

Whenever this Plan would otherwise call for, with respect to a particular Person, payment of a fraction of a dollar, the actual payment or distribution shall reflect a rounding of such fraction to the nearest whole dollar (up or down), with half dollars being rounded down. To the extent that Cash to be distributed under this Plan remains undistributed as a result of the aforementioned rounding, such Cash or stock shall be treated as “Unclaimed Property” under this Plan.

F. De Minimis Distribution

Except as to any Allowed Claim that is Unimpaired under this Plan, none of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Distribution Agent shall have any obligation to make any Plan Distributions with a value of less than $100, unless a written request therefor is received by the Distribution Agent from the relevant recipient at the addresses set forth in ARTICLE VI.I hereof within 120 days after the later of the (i) Effective Date and (ii) the date such Claim becomes an Allowed Claim. De minimis distributions for which no such request is timely received shall revert to the Claimant Trust. Upon such reversion, the relevant Allowed Claim (and any Claim on account of missed distributions) shall be automatically deemed satisfied, discharged and forever barred, notwithstanding any federal or state escheat laws to the contrary.

G. Distributions on Account of Allowed Claims

Except as otherwise agreed by the Holder of a particular Claim or as provided in this Plan, all distributions shall be made pursuant to the terms of this Plan and the Confirmation Order. Except as otherwise provided in this Plan, distributions to any Holder of an Allowed Claim shall, to the extent applicable, be allocated first to the principal amount of any such Allowed Claim, as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes and then, to the extent the consideration exceeds such amount, to the remainder of such Claim comprising accrued but unpaid interest, if any (but solely to the extent that interest is an allowable portion of such Allowed Claim).

H. General Distribution Procedures

The Distribution Agent, shall make all distributions of Cash or other property required under this Plan, unless this Plan specifically provides otherwise. All Cash and other property held by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, for ultimate distribution under this Plan shall not be subject to any claim by any Person.

I. Address for Delivery of Distributions

Distributions to Holders of Allowed Claims, to the extent provided for under this Plan, shall be made (1) at the addresses set forth in any written notices of address change delivered to the Debtor and the Distribution Agent; (2) at the address set forth on any Proofs of Claim Filed by such Holders (to the extent such Proofs of Claim are Filed in the Chapter 11 Case), (2), or (3) at the addresses in the Debtor's books and records.

If there is any conflict or discrepancy between the addresses set forth in (1) through (3) in the foregoing sentence, then (i) the address in Section (2) shall control; (ii) if (2) does not apply, the address in (1) shall control, and (iii) if (1) does not apply, the address in (3) shall control.

J. Undeliverable Distributions and Unclaimed Property

If the distribution to the Holder of any Allowed Claim is returned to the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust as undeliverable, no further distribution shall be made to such Holder, and Distribution Agent shall not have any obligation to make any further distribution to the Holder, unless and until the Distribution Agent is notified in writing of such Holder's then current address.

Any Entity that fails to claim any Cash within six months from the date upon which a distribution is first made to such Entity shall forfeit all rights to any distribution under this Plan and such Cash shall thereafter be deemed an Claimant Trust Asset in all respects and for all purposes. Entities that fail to claim Cash shall forfeit their rights thereto and shall have no claim whatsoever against the Debtor's Estate, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trust, or against any Holder of an Allowed Claim to whom distributions are made by the Distribution Agent.

K. Withholding Taxes

In connection with this Plan, to the extent applicable, the Distribution Agent shall comply with all tax withholding and reporting requirements imposed on them by any Governmental Unit, and all distributions made pursuant to this Plan shall be subject to such withholding and reporting requirements. The Distribution Agent shall be entitled to deduct any U.S. federal, state or local withholding taxes from any Cash payments made with respect to Allowed Claims, as appropriate. As a condition to receiving any distribution under this Plan, the Distribution Agent may require that the Holder of an Allowed Claim entitled to receive a distribution pursuant to this Plan provide such Holder's taxpayer identification number and such other information and certification as may be deemed necessary for the Distribution Agent to comply with applicable tax reporting and withholding laws. If a Holder fails to comply with such a request within one year, such distribution shall be deemed an unclaimed distribution. Any amounts withheld pursuant hereto shall be deemed to have been distributed to and received by the applicable recipient for all purposes of this Plan.

The Distribution Agent may, to the extent permitted under applicable law, set off against any Allowed Claim and any distributions to be made pursuant to this Plan on account of such Allowed Claim, the claims, rights and causes of action of any nature that the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Distribution Agent may hold against the Holder of such Allowed Claim that are not otherwise waived, released or compromised in accordance with this Plan; provided, however, that neither such a setoff nor the allowance of any Claim hereunder shall constitute a waiver or release by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee of any such claims, rights and causes of action that the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or Claimant Trustee possesses against such Holder. Any Holder of an Allowed Claim subject to such setoff reserves the right to challenge any such setoff in the Bankruptcy Court or any other court with jurisdiction with respect to such challenge.

M. Surrender of Cancelled Instruments or Securities

As a condition precedent to receiving any distribution pursuant to this Plan on account of an Allowed Claim evidenced by negotiable instruments, securities, or notes canceled pursuant to ARTICLE IV of this Plan, the Holder of such Claim will tender the applicable negotiable instruments, securities, or notes evidencing such Claim (or a sworn affidavit identifying the negotiable instruments, securities, or notes formerly held by such Holder and certifying that they have been lost), to the Distribution Agent unless waived in writing by the Distribution Agent.

N. Lost, Stolen, Mutilated or Destroyed Securities

In addition to any requirements under any applicable agreement and applicable law, any Holder of a Claim or Equity Interest evidenced by a security or note that has been lost, stolen, mutilated, or destroyed will, in lieu of surrendering such security or note to the extent required by this Plan, deliver to the Distribution Agent: (i) evidence reasonably satisfactory to the Distribution Agent of such loss, theft, mutilation, or destruction; and (ii) such security or indemnity as may be required by the Distribution Agent to hold such party harmless from any damages, liabilities, or costs incurred in treating such individual as a Holder of an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest. Upon compliance with ARTICLE VI.N of this Plan as determined by the Distribution Agent, by a Holder of a Claim evidenced by a security or note, such Holder will, for all purposes under this Plan, be deemed to have surrendered such security or note to the Distribution Agent.

ARTICLE VII.
PROCEDURES FOR RESOLVING CONTINGENT,
UNLIQUIDATED AND DISPUTED CLAIMS

A. Filing of Proofs of Claim

Unless such Claim appeared in the Schedules and is not listed as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated, or such Claim has otherwise been Allowed or paid, each Holder of a Claim was required to file a Proof of Claim on or prior to the Bar Date.

B. Disputed Claims

Following the Effective Date, each of the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, may File with the Bankruptcy Court an objection to the allowance of any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest or any other appropriate motion or adversary proceeding with respect thereto, which shall be litigated to Final Order or, at the discretion of the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trustee, as applicable, compromised, settled, withdrew or resolved without further order of the Bankruptcy Court, and (ii) unless otherwise provided in the Confirmation Order, the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, are authorized to settle, or withdraw any objections to, any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interests following the Effective Date without further notice to creditors (other than the Entity holding such Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest) or authorization of the Bankruptcy Court, in which event such Claim or Equity Interest shall be deemed to be an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest in the amount compromised for purposes of this Plan.

C. Procedures Regarding Disputed Claims or Disputed Equity Interests

No payment or other distribution or treatment shall be made on account of a Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest, even if a portion of the Claim is not disputed, unless and until such Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest becomes an Allowed Claim or Equity Interests and the amount of such Allowed Claim or Equity Interest, as applicable, is determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or by stipulation between the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust, as applicable, and the Holder of the Claim or Equity Interest.

D. Allowance of Claims and Equity Interests

Following the date on which a Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest becomes an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest after the Distribution Date, the Distribution Agent shall make a distribution to the Holder of such Allowed Claim or Equity Interest in accordance with the Plan.

1. Allowance of Claims

After the Effective Date and subject to the other provisions of this Plan, the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, will have and will retain any and all rights and defenses under bankruptcy or nonbankruptcy law that the Debtor had with respect to any Claim. Except as expressly provided in this Plan or in any order entered in the Chapter 11 Case prior to the Effective Date (including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order), no Claim or Equity Interest will become an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest unless and until such Claim or Equity

Interest is deemed Allowed under this Plan or the Bankruptcy Code or the Bankruptcy Court has entered an order, including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order, in the Chapter 11 Case allowing such Claim or Equity Interest.

2. Estimation

Subject to the other provisions of this Plan, the Debtor, prior to the Effective Date, and the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, after the Effective Date, may, at any time, request that the Bankruptcy Court estimate (a) any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest pursuant to applicable law and (b) any contingent or unliquidated Claim pursuant to applicable law, including, without limitation, section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code, and the Bankruptcy Court will retain jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334 to estimate any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest, contingent Claim or unliquidated Claim, including during the litigation concerning any objection to any Claim or Equity Interest or during the pendency of any appeal relating to any such objection. All of the aforementioned objection, estimation and resolution procedures are cumulative and not exclusive of one another. Claims or Equity Interests may be estimated and subsequently compromised, settled, withdrawn or resolved by any mechanism approved by the Bankruptcy Court. The rights and objections of all parties are reserved in connection with any such estimation proceeding.

3. Disallowance of Claims

Any Claims or Equity Interests held by Entities from which property is recoverable under sections 542, 543, 550, or 553 of the Bankruptcy Code, or that are a transferee of a transfer avoidable under sections 522(f), 522(h), 544, 545, 547, 548, 549, or 724(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, shall be deemed disallowed pursuant to section 502(d) of the Bankruptcy Code, and holders of such Claims or Interests may not receive any distributions on account of such Claims or Interests until such time as such Causes of Action against that Entity have been settled or a Bankruptcy Court Order with respect thereto has been entered and all sums due, if any, to the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, by that Entity have been turned over or paid to the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable.

EXCEPT AS OTHERWISE PROVIDED HEREIN OR AS AGREED TO BY THE DEBTOR, REORGANIZED DEBTOR, OR CLAIMANT TRUSTEE, AS APPLICABLE, ANY AND ALL PROOFS OF CLAIM FILED AFTER THE BAR DATE SHALL BE DEEMED DISALLOWED AND EXPUNGED AS OF THE EFFECTIVE DATE WITHOUT ANY FURTHER NOTICE TO OR ACTION, ORDER, OR APPROVAL OF THE BANKRUPTCY COURT, AND HOLDERS OF SUCH CLAIMS MAY NOT RECEIVE ANY DISTRIBUTIONS ON ACCOUNT OF SUCH CLAIMS, UNLESS SUCH LATE PROOF OF CLAIM HAS BEEN DEEMED TIMELY FILED BY A FINAL ORDER.

ARTICLE VIII.
EFFECTIVENESS OF THIS PLAN

A. Conditions Precedent to the Effective Date

The Effective Date of this Plan will be conditioned upon the satisfaction or waiver by the

Debtor (and, to the extent such condition requires the consent of the Committee, the consent of the Committee with such consent not to be unreasonably withheld), pursuant to the provisions of ARTICLE VIII.B of this Plan of the following:

- This Plan and the Plan Documents, including the Claimant Trust Agreement and the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, and all schedules, documents, supplements and exhibits to this Plan shall have been Filed in form and substance reasonably acceptable to the Debtor and the Committee.
- The Confirmation Order shall have been entered, not subject to stay pending appeal, and shall be in form and substance reasonably acceptable to the Debtor and the Committee. The Confirmation Order shall provide that, among other things, (i) the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trustee, or the Litigation Trustee are authorized to take all actions necessary or appropriate to effectuate and consummate this Plan, including, without limitation, (a) entering into, implementing, effectuating, and consummating the contracts, instruments, releases, and other agreements or documents created in connection with or described in this Plan, (b) assuming the Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases set forth in the Plan Supplement, (c) making all distributions and issuances as required under this Plan; and (d) entering into any transactions as set forth in the Plan Documents; (ii) the provisions of the Confirmation Order and this Plan are nonseverable and mutually dependent; (iii) the implementation of this Plan in accordance with its terms is authorized; (iv) pursuant to section 1146 of the Bankruptcy Code, the delivery of any deed or other instrument or transfer order, in furtherance of, or in connection with this Plan, including any deeds, bills of sale, or assignments executed in connection with any disposition or transfer of Assets contemplated under this Plan, shall not be subject to any Stamp or Similar Tax; and (v) the vesting of the Claimant Trust Assets in the Claimant Trust and the Reorganized Debtor Assets in the Reorganized Debtor, in each case as of the Effective Date free and clear of liens and claims to the fullest extent permissible under applicable law pursuant to section 1141(c) of the Bankruptcy Code except with respect to such Liens, Claims, charges and other encumbrances that are specifically preserved under this Plan upon the Effective Date.
- All documents and agreements necessary to implement this Plan, including without limitation, the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, the Claimant Trust Agreement, and the New GP LLC Documents, in each case in form and substance reasonably acceptable to the Debtor and the Committee, shall have (a) been tendered for delivery, and (b) been effected by, executed by, or otherwise deemed binding upon, all Entities party thereto and shall be in full force and effect. All conditions precedent to such documents and agreements shall have been satisfied or waived pursuant to the terms of such documents or agreements.
- All authorizations, consents, actions, documents, approvals (including any governmental approvals), certificates and agreements necessary to implement this Plan, including, without limitation, the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, the Claimant Trust Agreement, and the New GP LLC Documents, shall have been obtained, effected or executed and delivered to the required parties and, to the extent required, filed with the applicable governmental units in accordance with applicable laws and any applicable waiting periods shall have expired without any action being taken or threatened by any competent authority that would restrain or prevent effectiveness or consummation of the Restructuring.

B. Waiver of Conditions

The conditions to effectiveness of this Plan set forth in this ARTICLE VIII (other than that the Confirmation Order shall have been entered) may be waived in whole or in part by the Debtor (and, to the extent such condition requires the consent of the Committee, the consent of the Committee), without notice, leave or order of the Bankruptcy Court or any formal action other than proceeding to confirm or effectuate this Plan. The failure to satisfy or waive a condition to the Effective Date may be asserted by the Debtor regardless of the circumstances giving rise to the failure of such condition to be satisfied. The failure of the Debtor to exercise any of the foregoing rights will not be deemed a waiver of any other rights, and each right will be deemed an ongoing right that may be asserted at any time by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable.

C. Effect of Non-Occurrence of Conditions to Effectiveness

Unless waived as set forth in ARTICLE VIII.B, if the Effective Date of this Plan does not occur within twenty calendar days of entry of the Confirmation Order, the Debtor may withdraw this Plan and, if withdrawn, the Plan shall be of no further force or effect.

D. Dissolution of the Committee

On the Effective Date, the Committee will dissolve, and the members of the Committee and the Committee's Professionals will cease to have any role arising from or relating to the Chapter 11 Case, except in connection with final fee applications of Professionals for services rendered prior to the Effective Date (including the right to object thereto). The Professionals retained by the Committee and the members thereof will not be entitled to assert any fee claims for any services rendered to the Committee or expenses incurred in the service of the Committee after the Effective Date, except for reasonable fees for services rendered, and actual and necessary costs incurred, in connection with any applications for allowance of Professional Fees pending on the Effective Date or filed and served after the Effective Date pursuant to the Plan. Nothing in the Plan shall prohibit or limit the ability of the Debtor's or Committee's Professionals to represent either of the Trustees or to be compensated or reimbursed per the Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement in connection with such representation.

ARTICLE IX.

EXCULPATION, INJUNCTION AND RELATED PROVISIONS

A. General

Notwithstanding anything contained in the Plan to the contrary, the allowance, classification and treatment of all Allowed Claims and Equity Interests and their respective distributions and treatments under the Plan shall take into account the relative priority and rights of the Claims and the Equity Interests in each Class in connection with any contractual, legal and equitable subordination rights relating thereto whether arising under general principles of equitable subordination, section 510 of the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise.

B. Discharge of Claims

To the fullest extent provided under section 1141(d)(1)(A) and other applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code, except as otherwise expressly provided by this Plan or the Confirmation Order, all consideration distributed under this Plan will be in exchange for, and in complete satisfaction, settlement, discharge, and release of, all Claims and Equity Interests of any kind or nature whatsoever against the Debtor or any of its Assets or properties, and regardless of whether any property will have been distributed or retained pursuant to this Plan on account of such Claims or Equity Interests. Except as otherwise expressly provided by this Plan or the Confirmation Order, upon the Effective Date, the Debtor and its Estate will be deemed discharged and released under and to the fullest extent provided under section 1141(d)(1)(A) and other applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code from any and all Claims and Equity Interests of any kind or nature whatsoever, including, but not limited to, demands and liabilities that arose before the Confirmation Date, and all debts of the kind specified in section 502(g), 502(h), or 502(i) of the Bankruptcy Code.

C. Exculpation

To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, no Exculpated Party will have or incur, and each Exculpated Party is hereby exculpated from, any claim, obligation, suit, judgment, damage, demand, debt, right, Cause of Action, remedy, loss, and liability for conduct occurring on or after the Petition Date in connection with or arising out of (i) the filing and administration of the Chapter 11 Case; (ii) the negotiation and pursuit of the Disclosure Statement, the Plan, or the solicitation of votes for, or confirmation of, the Plan; (iii) the funding or consummation of the Plan (including the Plan Supplement) or any related agreements, instruments, or other documents, the solicitation of votes on the Plan, the offer, issuance, and Plan Distribution of any securities issued or to be issued pursuant to the Plan, including the Claimant Trust Interests, whether or not such Plan Distributions occur following the Effective Date; (iv) the implementation of the Plan; and (v) any negotiations, transactions, and documentation in connection with the foregoing clauses (i)-(v); provided, however, the foregoing will not apply to any acts or omissions of an Exculpated Party arising out of or related to acts or omissions that constitute bad faith, fraud, gross negligence, criminal misconduct, or willful misconduct. This exculpation shall be in addition to, and not in limitation of, all other releases, indemnities, exculpations, any other applicable law or rules, or any other provisions of this Plan, including ARTICLE IV.C.2, protecting such Exculpated Parties from liability.

D. Releases by the Debtor

On and after the Effective Date, each Released Party is deemed to be, hereby conclusively, absolutely, unconditionally, irrevocably, and forever released and discharged by the Debtor and the Estate, in each case on behalf of themselves and their respective successors, assigns, and representatives, including, but not limited to, the Claimant Trust and the Litigation Sub-Trust from any and all Causes of Action, including any derivative claims, asserted on behalf of the Debtor, whether known or unknown, foreseen or unforeseen, matured or unmatured, existing or hereafter arising, in law, equity, contract, tort or otherwise, that the Debtor or the Estate would have been legally entitled to assert in their own right (whether individually or collectively) or on behalf of the holder of any Claim against, or Interest in, a Debtor or other Person. Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the foregoing release does not release (i) any obligations of any party under the Plan or any document, instrument, or agreement executed to implement the Plan, (ii) the rights or obligations of any current employee of the Debtor under any employment agreement or plan, (iii) the rights of the Debtor with respect to any confidentiality provisions or covenants restricting competition in favor of the Debtor under any employment agreement with a current or former employee of the Debtor, or (iv) any Causes of Action arising from willful misconduct, criminal misconduct, actual fraud, or gross negligence of such applicable Released Party as determined by Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court or any other court of competent jurisdiction.

E. Preservation of Rights of Action

1. Maintenance of Causes of Action

Except as otherwise provided in this Plan, after the Effective Date, the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust will retain all rights to commence, pursue, litigate or settle, as appropriate, any and all Causes of Action included in the Reorganized Debtor Assets or Claimant Trust Assets, as applicable, whether existing as of the Petition Date or thereafter arising, in any court or other tribunal including, without limitation, in an adversary proceeding Filed in the Chapter 11 Case and, as the successors in interest to the Debtor and the Estate, may, and will have the exclusive right to, enforce, sue on, settle, compromise, transfer or assign (or decline to do any of the foregoing) any or all of the Causes of Action without notice to or approval from the Bankruptcy Court.

2. Preservation of All Causes of Action Not Expressly Settled or Released

Unless a Cause of Action against a Holder of a Claim or an Equity Interest or other Entity is expressly waived, relinquished, released, compromised or settled in this Plan or any Final Order (including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order), such Cause of Action is expressly reserved for later adjudication by the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust, as applicable (including, without limitation, Causes of Action not specifically identified or of which the Debtor may presently be unaware or that may arise or exist by reason of additional facts or circumstances unknown to the Debtor at this time or facts or circumstances that may change or be different from those the Debtor now believes to exist) and, therefore, no preclusion doctrine, including, without limitation, the doctrines of res judicata, collateral estoppel, issue preclusion, claim preclusion, waiver, estoppel (judicial, equitable or otherwise) or laches will apply to such Causes of Action as a consequence of the confirmation, effectiveness, or consummation of this Plan based on the Disclosure Statement, this Plan or the Confirmation Order, except where such Causes of Action have been expressly released in this Plan or any other Final Order (including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order). In addition, the right of the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust to pursue or adopt any claims alleged in any lawsuit in which the Debtor is a plaintiff, defendant or an interested party, against any Entity, including, without limitation, the plaintiffs or co-defendants in such lawsuits, is expressly reserved.

F. Injunction

Upon entry of the Confirmation Order, all holders of Claims and Equity Interests and other parties in interest, along with their respective Related Persons, shall be enjoined from taking any actions to interfere with the implementation or consummation of the Plan.

Except as expressly provided in the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or a separate order of the Bankruptcy Court, all Entities who have held, hold, or may hold Claims against or Equity Interests in the Debtor (whether proof of such Claims or Equity Interests has been filed or not and whether or not such Entities vote in favor of, against or abstain from voting on the Plan or are presumed to have accepted or deemed to have rejected the Plan) and other parties in interest, along with their respective Related Persons, are permanently enjoined, on and after the Effective Date, with respect to such Claims and Equity Interests, from (i) commencing, conducting, or continuing in any manner, directly or indirectly, any suit, action, or other proceeding of any kind (including any proceeding in a judicial, arbitral, administrative or other forum) against or affecting the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or the property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, (ii) enforcing, levying, attaching (including any prejudgment attachment), collecting, or otherwise recovering by any manner or means, whether directly or indirectly, any judgment, award, decree, or order against the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or the property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, (iii) creating, perfecting, or otherwise enforcing in any manner, directly or indirectly, any encumbrance of any kind against the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or the property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, (iv) asserting any right of setoff, directly or indirectly, against any obligation due from the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or against property or interests in property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust; and (v) acting or proceeding in any manner, in any place whatsoever, that does not conform to or comply with the provisions of the Plan.

The injunctions set forth herein shall extend to any successors of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and the Claimant Trust and their respective property and interests in property.

No Entity may commence or pursue a claim or cause of action of any kind against any Protected Party that arose from or is related to the Chapter 11 Case, the negotiation of this Plan, the administration of the Plan or property to be distributed under the Plan, the wind down of the business of the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, the administration of the Claimant Trust, or the transactions in furtherance of the foregoing without the Bankruptcy Court (i) first determining, after notice, that such claim or cause of action represents a colorable claim of bad faith, criminal misconduct, willful misconduct, fraud, or gross negligence against a Protected Party and (ii) specifically authorizing such Entity to bring such claim against any such Plan Party. As set forth in ARTICLE XI, the Bankruptcy Court will have sole jurisdiction to adjudicate any such claim for which approval of the Bankruptcy Court to commence or pursue has been granted.

G. Term of Injunctions or Stays

Unless otherwise provided in this Plan, the Confirmation Order, or in a Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court, all injunctions or stays arising under or entered during the Chapter 11 Case under section 105 or 362 of the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise, and in existence on the Confirmation Date, shall remain in full force and effect until the later of the Effective Date and the date indicated in the order providing for such injunction or stay.

ARTICLE X.
BINDING NATURE OF PLAN

On the Effective Date, and effective as of the Effective Date, the Plan, including, without limitation, the provisions in ARTICLE IX, will bind, and will be deemed binding upon, all Holders of Claims against and Equity Interests in the Debtor and such Holder's respective successors and assigns, to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, notwithstanding whether or not such Holder will receive or retain any property or interest in property under the Plan. All Claims and Debts shall be fixed and adjusted pursuant to this Plan. The Plan shall also bind any taxing authority, recorder of deeds, or similar official for any county, state, Governmental Unit or parish in which any instrument related to the Plan or related to any transaction contemplated thereby is to be recorded with respect to any taxes of the kind specified in Bankruptcy Code section 1146(a).

ARTICLE XI.
RETENTION OF JURISDICTION

Pursuant to sections 105 and 1142 of the Bankruptcy Code and notwithstanding the entry of the Confirmation Order and the occurrence of the Effective Date, the Bankruptcy Court shall, after the Effective Date, retain such jurisdiction over the Chapter 11 Case and all Entities with respect to all matters related to the Chapter 11 Case, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trust, and this Plan as legally permissible, including, without limitation, jurisdiction to:

- allow, disallow, determine, liquidate, classify, estimate or establish the priority, secured, unsecured, or subordinated status of any Claim or Equity Interest, including, without limitation, the resolution of any request for payment of any Administrative Expense Claim and the resolution of any and all objections to the allowance or priority of any Claim or Equity Interest;
- grant or deny any applications for allowance of compensation or reimbursement of expenses authorized pursuant to the Bankruptcy Code or this Plan, for periods ending on or before the Effective Date; provided, however, that, from and after the Effective Date, the Reorganized Debtor shall pay Professionals in the ordinary course of business for any work performed after the Effective Date subject to the terms of this Plan and the Confirmation Order, and such payment shall not be subject to the approval of the Bankruptcy Court;
- resolve any matters related to the assumption, assignment or rejection of any Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease to which the Debtor is party or with respect to which the Debtor, Reorganized Debtor, or Claimant Trust may be liable and to adjudicate and, if necessary, liquidate, any Claims arising therefrom, including, without limitation, any dispute regarding whether a contract or lease is or was executory or expired;

- make any determination with respect to a claim or cause of action against a Plan Party as set forth in ARTICLE IX;
- resolve any claim or cause of action against an Exculpated Party or Plan Party arising from or related to the Chapter 11 Case, the negotiation of this Plan, the administration of the Plan or property to be distributed under the Plan, the wind down of the business of the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, or the transactions in furtherance of the foregoing;
- if requested by the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trustee, authorize, approve, and allow any sale, disposition, assignment or other transfer of the Reorganized Debtor Assets or Claimant Trust Assets, including any break-up compensation or expense reimbursement that may be requested by a purchaser thereof; provided, however, that neither the Reorganized Debtor nor the Claimant Trustee shall be required to seek such authority or approval from the Bankruptcy Court unless otherwise specifically required by this Plan or the Confirmation Order;
- if requested by the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trustee, authorize, approve, and allow any borrowing or the incurrence of indebtedness, whether secured or unsecured by the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust; provided, however, that neither the Reorganized Debtor nor the Claimant Trustee shall be required to seek such authority or approval from the Bankruptcy Court unless otherwise specifically required by this Plan or the Confirmation Order;
- resolve any issues related to any matters adjudicated in the Chapter 11 Case;
- ensure that distributions to Holders of Allowed Claims and Allowed Equity Interests are accomplished pursuant to the provisions of this Plan;
- decide or resolve any motions, adversary proceedings, contested or litigated matters and any other Causes of Action that are pending as of the Effective Date or that may be commenced in the future, including approval of any settlements, compromises, or other resolutions as may be requested by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Litigation Trustee whether under Bankruptcy Rule 9019 or otherwise, and grant or deny any applications involving the Debtor that may be pending on the Effective Date or instituted by the Reorganized Debtor or Litigation Trustee after the Effective Date, provided that the Reorganized Debtor and the Litigation Trustee shall reserve the right to commence actions in all appropriate forums and jurisdictions;
- enter such orders as may be necessary or appropriate to implement, effectuate, or consummate the provisions of this Plan, the Plan Documents, and all other contracts, instruments, releases, and other agreements or documents adopted in connection with this Plan, the Plan Documents, or the Disclosure Statement;

- resolve any cases, controversies, suits or disputes that may arise in connection with the implementation, effectiveness, consummation, interpretation, or enforcement of this Plan or any Entity's obligations incurred in connection with this Plan;
- issue injunctions and enforce them, enter and implement other orders or take such other actions as may be necessary or appropriate to restrain interference by any Entity with implementation, effectiveness, consummation, or enforcement of this Plan, except as otherwise provided in this Plan;
- enforce the terms and conditions of this Plan and the Confirmation Order;
- resolve any cases, controversies, suits or disputes with respect to the release, exculpation, indemnification, and other provisions contained herein and enter such orders or take such others actions as may be necessary or appropriate to implement or enforce all such releases, injunctions and other provisions;
- enter and implement such orders or take such others actions as may be necessary or appropriate if the Confirmation Order is modified, stayed, reversed, revoked or vacated;
- resolve any other matters that may arise in connection with or relate to this Plan, the Disclosure Statement, the Confirmation Order, the Plan Documents, or any contract, instrument, release, indenture or other agreement or document adopted in connection with this Plan or the Disclosure Statement; and
- enter an order concluding or closing the Chapter 11 Case after the Effective Date.

ARTICLE XII.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

A. Payment of Statutory Fees and Filing of Reports

All outstanding Statutory Fees shall be paid on the Effective Date. All such fees payable, and all such fees that become due and payable, after the Effective Date shall be paid by the Reorganized Debtor when due or as soon thereafter as practicable until the Chapter 11 Case is closed, converted, or dismissed. The Claimant Trustee shall File all quarterly reports due prior to the Effective Date when they become due, in a form reasonably acceptable to the U.S. Trustee. After the Effective Date, the Claimant Trustee shall File with the Bankruptcy Court quarterly reports when they become due, in a form reasonably acceptable to the U.S. Trustee. The Reorganized Debtor shall remain obligated to pay Statutory Fees to the Office of the U.S. Trustee until the earliest of the Debtor's case being closed, dismissed, or converted to a case under chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code.

B. Modification of Plan

Effective as of the date hereof and subject to the limitations and rights contained in this Plan: (a) the Debtor reserves the right, in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code and the Bankruptcy Rules, to amend or modify this Plan prior to the entry of the Confirmation Order with the consent of the Committee, such consent not to be unreasonably withheld; and (b) after the entry of the Confirmation Order, the Debtor may, after notice and hearing and entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court, amend or modify this Plan, in accordance with section 1127(b) of the Bankruptcy Code or remedy any defect or omission or reconcile any inconsistency in this Plan in such manner as may be necessary to carry out the purpose and intent of this Plan.

C. Revocation of Plan

The Debtor reserves the right to revoke or withdraw this Plan prior to the Confirmation Date and to File a subsequent chapter 11 plan with the consent of the Committee. If the Debtor revokes or withdraws this Plan prior to the Confirmation Date, then: (i) this Plan shall be null and void in all respects; (ii) any settlement or compromise embodied in this Plan, assumption of Executory Contracts or Unexpired Leases effected by this Plan and any document or agreement executed pursuant hereto shall be deemed null and void except as may be set forth in a separate order entered by the Bankruptcy Court; and (iii) nothing contained in this Plan shall: (a) constitute a waiver or release of any Claims by or against, or any Equity Interests in, the Debtor or any other Entity; (b) prejudice in any manner the rights of the Debtor or any other Entity; or (c) constitute an admission, acknowledgement, offer or undertaking of any sort by the Debtor or any other Entity.

D. Entire Agreement

Except as otherwise described herein, this Plan supersedes all previous and contemporaneous negotiations, promises, covenants, agreements, understandings, and representations on such subjects, all of which have become merged and integrated into this Plan.

E. Closing of Chapter 11 Case

The Claimant Trustee shall, after the Effective Date and promptly after the full administration of the Chapter 11 Case, File with the Bankruptcy Court all documents required by Bankruptcy Rule 3022 and any applicable order of the Bankruptcy Court to close the Chapter 11 Case.

F. Successors and Assigns

This Plan shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the Debtor and its successors and assigns, including, without limitation, the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trustee. The rights, benefits, and obligations of any Person or Entity named or referred to in this Plan shall be binding on, and shall inure to the benefit of, any heir, executor, administrator, successor, or assign of such Person or Entity.

G. Reservation of Rights

Except as expressly set forth herein, this Plan shall have no force or effect unless and until the Bankruptcy Court enters the Confirmation Order and the Effective Date occurs. Neither the filing of this Plan, any statement or provision contained herein, nor the taking of any action by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trustee, or any other Entity with respect to this Plan shall be or shall be deemed to be an admission or waiver of any rights of: (1) the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee with respect to the Holders of Claims or Equity Interests or other Entity; or (2) any Holder of a Claim or an Equity Interest or other Entity prior to the Effective Date.

Neither the exclusion or inclusion by the Debtor of any contract or lease on any exhibit, schedule, or other annex to this Plan or in the Plan Documents, nor anything contained in this Plan, will constitute an admission by the Debtor that any such contract or lease is or is not an executory contract or lease or that the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trustee, or their respective Affiliates has any liability thereunder.

Except as explicitly provided in this Plan, nothing herein shall waive, excuse, limit, diminish, or otherwise alter any of the defenses, claims, Causes of Action, or other rights of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee under any executory or non-executory contract.

Nothing in this Plan will increase, augment, or add to any of the duties, obligations, responsibilities, or liabilities of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, under any executory or non-executory contract or lease.

If there is a dispute regarding whether a contract or lease is or was executory at the time of its assumption under this Plan, the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, shall have thirty (30) days following entry of a Final Order resolving such dispute to alter their treatment of such contract.

H. Further Assurances

The Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, all Holders of Claims and Equity Interests receiving distributions hereunder, and all other Entities shall, from time to time, prepare, execute and deliver any agreements or documents and take any other actions as may be necessary or advisable to effectuate the provisions and intent of this Plan or the Confirmation Order. On or before the Effective Date, the Debtor shall File with the Bankruptcy Court all agreements and other documents that may be necessary or appropriate to effectuate and further evidence the terms and conditions hereof.

I. Severability

If, prior to the Confirmation Date, any term or provision of this Plan is determined by the Bankruptcy Court to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, the Bankruptcy Court will have the power to alter and interpret such term or provision to make it valid or enforceable to the maximum extent practicable, consistent with the original purpose of the term or provision held to be invalid, void, or unenforceable, and such term or provision will then be applicable as altered or interpreted. Notwithstanding any such holding, alteration or interpretation, the remainder of the terms and provisions of this Plan will remain in full force and effect and will in no way be affected, impaired, or invalidated by such holding, alteration, or interpretation. The Confirmation Order will constitute a judicial determination and will provide that each term and provision of this Plan, as it may have been altered or interpreted in accordance with the foregoing, is valid and enforceable pursuant to its terms.

J. Service of Documents

All notices, requests, and demands to or upon the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee to be effective shall be in writing and, unless otherwise expressly provided herein, shall be deemed to have been duly given or made when actually delivered or, in the case of notice by facsimile transmission, when received and telephonically confirmed, addressed as follows:

K. Exemption from Certain Transfer Taxes Pursuant to Section 1146(a) of the Bankruptcy Code

To the extent permitted by applicable law, pursuant to section 1146(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, any transfers of property pursuant hereto shall not be subject to any Stamp or Similar Tax or governmental assessment in the United States, and the Confirmation Order shall direct the appropriate federal, state or local governmental officials or agents or taxing authority to forego the collection of any such Stamp or Similar Tax or governmental assessment and to accept for filing and recordation instruments or other documents pursuant to such transfers of property without the payment of any such Stamp or Similar Tax or governmental assessment. Such exemption specifically applies, without limitation, to (i) all actions, agreements and documents necessary to evidence and implement the provisions of and the distributions to be made under this Plan; (ii) the maintenance or creation of security or any Lien as contemplated by this Plan; and (iii) assignments, sales, or transfers executed in connection with any transaction occurring under this Plan.

L. Governing Law

Except to the extent that the Bankruptcy Code, the Bankruptcy Rules or other federal law is applicable, or to the extent that an exhibit or schedule to this Plan provides otherwise, the rights and obligations arising under this Plan shall be governed by, and construed and enforced in accordance with, the laws of Texas, without giving effect to the principles of conflicts of law of such jurisdiction; provided, however, that corporate governance matters relating to the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, New GP LLC, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, shall be governed by the laws of the state of organization of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, New GP LLC, or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable.

M. Tax Reporting and Compliance

The Debtor is hereby authorized to request an expedited determination under section 505(b) of the Bankruptcy Code of the tax liability of the Debtor is for all taxable periods ending after the Petition Date through, and including, the Effective Date.

N. Exhibits and Schedules

All exhibits and schedules to this Plan, if any, including the Exhibits and the Plan Documents, are incorporated and are a part of this Plan as if set forth in full herein.

O. Controlling Document

In the event of an inconsistency between this Plan and any other instrument or document created or executed pursuant to this Plan, or between this Plan and the Disclosure Statement, this Plan shall control. The provisions of this Plan, the Disclosure Statement, and any Plan Document, on the one hand, and of the Confirmation Order, on the other hand, shall be construed in a manner consistent with each other so as to effectuate the purposes of each; provided, however, that if there is determined to be any inconsistency between any provision of this Plan, the Disclosure Statement, and any Plan Document, on the one hand, and any provision of the Confirmation Order, on the other hand, that cannot be so reconciled, then, solely to the extent of such inconsistency, the provisions of the Confirmation Order shall govern, and any such provisions of the Confirmation Order shall be deemed a modification of this Plan, the Disclosure Statement, and the Plan Documents, as applicable.

TO THE HONORABLE STACEY G. C. JERNIGAN,
UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY JUDGE:

The above-captioned debtor and debtor-in-possession (the “Debtor” or “HCMLP”) files this motion (the “Motion”) for entry of an order, substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A, pursuant to Rule 9019 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the “Bankruptcy Rules”), approving a settlement agreement (the “Stipulation”), a copy of which is attached as Exhibit 1 to the Declaration of John A. Morris in Support of the Debtor’s Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (A) the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (Claim No. 72), and (B) the Highland Crusader Funds (Claim No. 81), and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith, executed on September 23, 2020 (the “Morris Dec.”), that fully and finally resolves the proofs of claim filed by (A) the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (the “Redeemer Committee”), and (B) Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P., Highland Crusader Fund, L.P., Highland Crusader Fund, Ltd., and Highland Crusader Fund II, Ltd. (collectively, the “Crusader Funds”). In support of this Motion, the Debtor represents as follows:

JURISDICTION

1. This Court has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334. This matter is a core proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2). Venue in this District is proper pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409.

2. The statutory predicates for the relief sought herein are sections 105(a) and 363 of title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”) and Rule 9019 of the Bankruptcy Rules.

RELEVANT BACKGROUND

A. Procedural Background

3. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware, Case No. 19-12239 (CSS) (the “Delaware Court”).

4. On October 29, 2019, the official committee of unsecured creditors (the “Committee”) was appointed by the United States Trustee in the Delaware Court.

5. On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Court entered an order transferring venue of the Debtor’s bankruptcy case to this Court [Docket No. 186].²

6. On December 27, 2019, the Debtor filed that certain Motion of the Debtor for Approval of Settlement with the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course [Docket No.

² All docket numbers refer to the docket maintained by this Court.

281] (the “Settlement Motion”). This Court approved the Settlement Motion on January 9, 2020 [Docket No. 339] (the “Settlement Order”).

7. In connection with the Settlement Order, an independent board of directors was constituted at the Debtor’s general partner, Strand Advisors, Inc. (the “Independent Board”), and certain operating protocols were instituted (the “Protocols”).

8. On July 16, 2020, this Court entered an order appointing James P. Seery, Jr., as the Debtor’s chief executive officer and chief financial officer [Docket No. 854].

9. The Debtor has continued in the possession of its property and has continued to operate and manage its business as a debtor-in-possession pursuant to sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code. No trustee or examiner has been appointed in this chapter 11 case.

B. The Redeemer Committee’s Claim

10. The Crusader Funds were formed between 2000 and 2002. HCMLP served as the Crusader Funds’ investment manager until August 2016.

11. In October 2008, at the height of the financial crisis, HCMLP commenced wind-down proceedings on behalf of the Crusader Funds.

12. The Redeemer Committee was formed pursuant to a Joint Plan of Distribution of the Crusader Funds (the “Plan”) and a Scheme of Arrangement Between the Crusader Funds and Their Scheme Creditors (the “Scheme”) that were adopted in 2011 to resolve certain disputes arising in connection with the Crusader Funds’ wind-down proceedings.

13. HCMLP served as the investment manager for the Crusader Funds until August 4, 2016, as of which date the Redeemer Committee, as set forth in a letter and notice dated July 5, 2016, terminated HCMLP.

14. On July 5, 2016, the Redeemer Committee commenced an arbitration against HCMLP by filing a Notice of Claim with the American Arbitration Association (the “AAA”) in which it asserted various claims arising from HCMLP’s service as the investment manager for the Crusader Funds (the “Arbitration”).³

15. Following an evidentiary hearing, the panel of arbitrators (the “Panel”) issued (a) a Partial Final Award, dated March 6, 2019 (the “March Award”), (b) a Disposition of Application for Modification of Award, dated March 14, 2019 (the “Modification Award”), and (c) a Final Award, dated May 9, 2019 (the “Final Award,” and together with the March Award and the Modification Award, the “Arbitration Award”). Morris Dec. Exhibits 2, 3, and 4, respectively.

16. Pursuant to the Arbitration Award, the Redeemer Committee was awarded gross damages in the aggregate amount of $136,808,302.00; as of the Petition Date, the total value of the Arbitration Award was $190,824,557.00, inclusive of interest (the “Damage Award”).

17. Prior to the Petition Date, the Redeemer Committee timely moved in the Chancery Court to confirm the Arbitration Award. For its part, HCMLP moved to vacate parts of the Final Award contending that the following aspects of the Awards were procedurally improper: (a) the award of damages and equitable relief arising in connection with the “Barclays Claim” (as such term is used in the Arbitration Award); (b) the award of prejudgment interest

after March 6, 2019, including that the interest be compounded; and (c) the addition of attorneys' and experts' fees based on evidence admitted after the record was purportedly closed.

18. HCMLP's procedural challenges were largely based on the argument that the March Award should have been treated as the "final" award such that the Panel was without authority to render the Modification Award and the Final Award and the relief granted therein ("HCMLP's Motion to Vacate").⁴ Notably, HCMLP did not challenge any of the factual findings, credibility assessments, or substantive legal conclusions rendered by the Panel.

19. The Redeemer Committee's motion to confirm the Arbitration Award and HCMLP's Motion to Vacate were fully briefed and were scheduled to be heard by the Chancery Court on the day Highland filed for bankruptcy.

20. On April 3, 2020, the Redeemer Committee filed a general unsecured claim in the amount of $190,824,557.00, plus "post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs and other expenses that [allegedly] continue[d] to accrue." See Morris Dec. Exhibit 5 (Proof of Claim No. 72, Rider at 1-2).

C. The Crusader Fund's Claim

21. On April 6, 2020, the Crusader Funds filed a general unsecured claim in the amount of $23,483,446.00, plus "post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs and other expenses

⁴ The Award was subject to the Federal Arbitration Act, under which an award will only be vacated upon a showing that:

(1) . . . the award was procured by corruption, fraud, or undue means; (2) . . . there was evident partiality or corruption in the arbitrators, or either of them; (3) . . . the arbitrators were guilty of misconduct in refusing to postpone the hearing, upon sufficient cause shown, or in refusing to hear evidence pertinent and material to the controversy; or of any other misbehavior by which the rights of any party have been prejudiced; or (4) the arbitrators exceeded their powers, or so imperfectly executed them that a mutual, final, and definite award upon the subject matter submitted was not made.

9 U.S.C. § 10. To challenge an award, a party must move to vacate within three months of delivery of the Award to the parties. 9 U.S.C. § 12.

that [allegedly] continue[d] to accrue.” See Morris Dec. Exhibit 6 (Proof of Claim No. 81, Rider at 1-2).⁵

22. The Crusader Funds’ claim sought the disgorgement of all management, distribution, and deferred fees paid to HCMLP based on the so-called “faithless servant” doctrine.

D. Summary of Settlement Terms⁶

23. The Stipulation contains the following material terms:

- The Redeemer Committee’s claim (Claim No. 72) shall be allowed in the amount of $136,696,610.00 as a general unsecured claim;
- The Crusader Funds’ claim (Claim No. 81) shall be allowed in the amount of $50,000.00 as a general unsecured claim;
- The Debtor and Eames will each (a) consent to the cancellation of certain interests in the Crusader Funds held by them that the Panel found were wrongfully acquired, and (b) agree that they will not object to the cancellation of certain interests in the Crusader Funds held by the Charitable DAF that the Panel also found were wrongfully acquired;
- The Debtor and Eames will each acknowledge that they will not receive any portion of the Reserved Distributions, and the Debtor will further acknowledge that, beginning as of the Stipulation Effective Date, it will not receive any payments from the Crusader Funds in respect of any Deferred Fees, Distribution Fees, or Management Fees;
- The Debtor and the Redeemer Committee agreed to a form of amendment to the Cornerstone Shareholders’ Agreement and to a process whereby the Debtor shall, in good faith, use commercially reasonable efforts to

⁶ For purposes of convenience, set forth herein is a summary of the material terms of the Stipulation. If there is an actual or perceived conflict or inconsistency between the summary and the Stipulation, the terms of the Stipulation shall govern. Capitalized terms not defined herein shall have the meanings ascribed to them in the Stipulation.

monetize all shares of capital stock of Cornerstone held by the Debtor, any funds managed by the Debtor, and the Crusader Funds;⁷

- Upon the Stipulation Effective Date, the Parties and the Additional Release Parties shall exchange releases as set forth in the Stipulation; and⁸
- The Debtor shall dismiss Bermuda Action No. 2 with prejudice, and the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds covenant not to prosecute, and shall not prosecute, any of the Redeemer Actions against the Debtor, Eames, or any of the Additional Highland Release Parties.

24. As discussed below, the Stipulation incorporates certain compromises between the Debtor, the Redeemer Committee, and the Crusader Funds with respect to, among other things, the disposition of Deferred Fees and the treatment of the Cornerstone Shares held by the Crusader Funds.

25. Under the Plan and Scheme, HCMLP agreed to defer receipt of certain Deferred Fees until the liquidation of the Crusader Funds was completed. Despite the terms of the Plan and Scheme, HCMLP transferred to itself $32,313,000.00 in Deferred Fees from the Crusader Funds' accounts in early 2016. The Redeemer Committee asserted that the Deferred Fees were prematurely taken and had to be returned. The Panel agreed and the $32,313,000.00 is included as part of the Damage Award.

26. During its negotiations with the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds, the Debtor contended that while the Deferred Fees were found to have been prematurely taken, HCMLP would ultimately be entitled to recover the Deferred Fees upon the completion of the Crusader Funds' liquidation. The Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds, on the other hand, contended that (a) the Redeemer Committee was entitled to recover all of the Deferred Fees found by the Panel to have been wrongfully taken, (b) the earliest the Debtor could seek to recover those Deferred Fees is upon complete liquidation of the Crusader Funds, which has not yet occurred, and (c) the Debtor is precluded from recovering any of those Fees—even upon the completion of the Crusader Funds’ liquidation—from the Crusader Funds under the “faithless servant” doctrine. The Debtor disputed the latter contention on the basis of waiver and estoppel since the Redeemer Committee had failed to raise the defense in the Arbitration, but the Redeemer Committee contended that it had no obligation to raise that defense given the procedural posture that existed at the time and that the Crusader Funds, from which any Deferred Fees would ultimately be paid, had not been a party to the Arbitration and hold their own claim relating to the Deferred Fees.⁹

⁷ The parties continue to discuss the terms of the schedule that was to be attached as Exhibit B to the Stipulation and will file the final version of Exhibit B after the Court rules on the Debtor's motion to file certain documents (including Exhibit B) under seal.

27. After extensive, arm’s-length negotiations, the Debtor and the Redeemer Committee agreed to reduce the Damage Award by $21,592,000.00, or approximately two-thirds of the Deferred Fees that the Panel found HCMLP had prematurely taken but that the Debtor contended it would have nevertheless been entitled to recover upon the completion of the Crusader Funds’ liquidation.

28. The other substantial compromise concerned the treatment of the Cornerstone Shares held by the Crusader Funds.

29. Cornerstone Healthcare Group (“Cornerstone”) owns hospitals and other healthcare-related entities. HCMLP directly and indirectly controlled 100% of Cornerstone’s common stock, some of which was held by the Crusader Funds.

⁹ Specifically, the Redeemer Committee contended that because it sought to affirmatively recover the Deferred Fees in the Arbitration under theories of breach of contract and breach of fiduciary duty, it was not required to raise the “faithless servant” doctrine because that is a defense that would only be required to be asserted when HCMLP made a claim for the Deferred Fees—as it did during the negotiations.

30. During the Arbitration, the Redeemer Committee established that (a) HCMLP covertly purchased certain shares in Cornerstone from another HCMLP-managed Fund at what the Panel found was a below market price, and that (b) HCMLP had otherwise breached its fiduciary duty to the Crusader Funds by failing to liquidate the Crusader Funds' shares in Cornerstone. The Panel found in favor of the Redeemer Committee on this claim and ordered HCMLP to purchase the Crusader Funds' shares in Cornerstone at a fixed price of $48,070,407.00, plus pre-judgment interest.

31. After extensive, arm's-length negotiations, the parties agreed to treat the Cornerstone Shares differently from the process required under the Arbitration Award. Specifically, rather than having the Debtor purchase the Crusader Funds' shares in Cornerstone for approximately $48 million, pursuant to the Stipulation (a) the Crusader Funds will retain their shares in Cornerstone, (b) the Damage Award will be reduced by approximately $30.5 million to account for the perceived fair market value of those shares, (c) the Cornerstone Shareholders' Agreement will be amended to, among other things, remove certain restrictions, and (d) the parties have agreed upon a process to market and sell Cornerstone.

32. In addition to the forgoing, the parties also agreed on other modest reductions to the Damage Award resulting in an agreement by which the Redeemer Committee shall receive an allowed, general unsecured claim in the amount of $136,696,610.00 and the other consideration provided under the Stipulation.

E. UBS's Objection to the Redeemer Committee's Claim

33. On August 26, 2020, UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (together, "UBS") filed their Objection to the Proof of Claim Filed by Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund [Docket No. 996] (the “UBS Objection”).¹⁰ UBS challenges the Redeemer Committee’s claim in three respects.

34. First, UBS raises the same procedural arguments asserted in HCMLP’s Motion to Vacate. Specifically, UBS contends that the “arbitration panel impermissibly substantively (and unilaterally) modified several aspects of its first ‘final’ arbitral award after that award had already been issued” such that any relief granted pursuant to the Modification Award and the Final Award is barred by the “long-standing common law doctrine of functus officio” and the AAA’s own rules. UBS Objection at 1; see also id. ¶¶ 12-16, 23-32. As discussed in detail below, the Panel considered and rejected these arguments as part of the Final Award.¹¹

35. Second, UBS asserts that the value of the settlement must take into account certain obligations that the Redeemer Committee owes to the Debtor, specifically as they relate to the Cornerstone Shares that were to be surrendered under the Arbitration Award and the Deferred Fees that the Debtor would arguably be entitled to upon the completion of the Crusader Funds’ liquidation. UBS Objection ¶¶ 33-37. As set forth above, however, these obligations were fully considered by the Debtor and form the basis for substantial compromises embedded in the Stipulation. See supra ¶¶ 24-31.

36. Finally, UBS takes issue with the Redeemer Committee’s characterization of the Arbitration Award as an executory contract. UBS Objection ¶¶ 21-22.

37. Each of these objections is addressed below.

¹⁰ The UBS Objection is the only objection lodged against the proofs of claim filed by the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds.

¹¹ The Panel was comprised of three highly regarded attorneys: John S. Martin, Jr., a former United States Attorney for the Southern District of New York and a former United States District Court Judge for the Southern District of New York; David Brodsky, a former federal prosecutor and partner at Latham & Watkins and Schulte Roth & Zabel and a Fellow of the American College of Trial Lawyers; and Michael D. Young, one of the most highly-regarded arbitrators in the country who has been a full-time neutral for more than thirty years and who has presided over more than 300 arbitrations, appraisals, or other binding dispute resolution proceedings.

BASIS FOR RELIEF REQUESTED

38. Bankruptcy Rule 9019 governs the procedural prerequisites to approval of a settlement, providing that:

On motion by the trustee and after notice and a hearing, the court may approve a compromise or settlement. Notice shall be given to creditors, the United States trustee, the debtor, and indenture trustees as provided in Rule 2002 and to any other entity as the court may direct.

FED. R. BANKR. P. 9019(a).

39. Settlements in bankruptcy are favored as a means of minimizing litigation, expediting the administration of the bankruptcy estate, and providing for the efficient resolution of bankruptcy cases. Myers v. Martin (In re Martin), 91 F.3d 389, 393 (3d Cir. 1996); see also Rivercity v. Herpel (In re Jackson Brewing Co.), 624 F.2d 599, 602 (5th Cir. 1980). Pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019(a), a bankruptcy court may approve a compromise or settlement as long as the proposed settlement is fair, reasonable, and in the best interest of the estate. See In re Age Ref. Inc., 801 F.3d 530, 540 (5th Cir. 2015). Ultimately, “approval of a compromise is within the sound discretion of the bankruptcy court.” See United States v. AWECO, Inc. (In re AWECO, Inc.), 725 F.2d 293, 297 (5th Cir. 1984); Jackson Brewing, 624 F.2d at 602–03.

40. In making this determination, the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit applies a three-part test, “with a focus on comparing ‘the terms of the compromise with the rewards of litigation.’” Official Comm. of Unsecured Creditors v. Cajun Elec. Power Coop. (In re Cajun Elec. Power Coop.), 119 F.3d 349, 356 (5th Cir. 1997) (citing Jackson Brewing, 624 F.2d at 602). The Fifth Circuit has instructed courts to consider the following factors: “(1) The probability of success in the litigation, with due consideration for the uncertainty of law and fact, (2) The complexity and likely duration of the litigation and any attendant expense, inconvenience and delay, and (3) All other factors bearing on the wisdom of the compromise.”

Id.

41. Under the rubric of the third factor referenced above, the Fifth Circuit has specified two additional factors that bear on the decision to approve a proposed settlement. First, the court should consider “the paramount interest of creditors with proper deference to their reasonable views.” Id.; Conn. Gen. Life Ins. Co. v. United Cos. Fin. Corp. (In re Foster Mortgage Corp.), 68 F.3d 914, 917 (5th Cir. 1995). Second, the court should consider the “extent to which the settlement is truly the product of arms-length bargaining, and not of fraud or collusion.” Age Ref. Inc., 801 F.3d at 540; Foster Mortgage Corp., 68 F.3d at 918 (citations omitted).

42. There is ample basis to approve the proposed Stipulation with the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds based on the Bankruptcy Rule 9019 factors set forth by the Fifth Circuit.

A. Probability of Success in the Litigation

43. The Debtor is unlikely to succeed in contesting the Redeemer Committee’s claim because the claim is based on the Arbitration Award, which itself was the product of the following circumstances:

- The proceedings began in July 2016 and concluded in April 2019, almost three years later;
- The arbitration was presided over by a highly regarded Panel (see supra n.9);
- The Panel held an evidentiary hearing spanning nine days in September 2018;
- The Panel heard testimony from eleven fact witnesses and four expert witnesses; and

- The Arbitration Award addressed every claim and argument asserted by the parties and the Panel resolved each with detailed legal and factual findings and credibility determinations.

See Morris Dec. Exhibit 2 §§ E, F at 4-7.

44. Thus, there can be no dispute that the Arbitration Award was the product of an adversarial but deliberative process where the parties were afforded the opportunity to present their evidence and arguments. Consequently, there is virtually no likelihood that the Arbitration Award—and hence the Redeemer Committee’s claim—could be subject to a wholesale attack.

45. The three issues raised by UBS are either unlikely to succeed, have been mooted by the terms of the Stipulation, or are legally irrelevant.

46. First, UBS disputes the Redeemer Committee’s contention that the Arbitration Award is an executory contract. Compare UBS Objection ¶¶ 21-22 with Morris Dec. Exhibit 5 (Rider at 1). This issue is (a) moot because the Stipulation does not treat the Arbitration Award as an executory contract, and (b) legally irrelevant because even if the Debtor successfully challenged the Redeemer Committee’s characterization of the Arbitration Award as an executory contract, the Redeemer Committee could simply move to lift the automatic stay for the sole purpose of having the Arbitration Award confirmed, thereby eliminating the alleged “contingent” nature of the claim.

47. Second, UBS challenges the Redeemer Committee’s claim on the ground that it “must take into account reciprocal obligations Redeemer owes to the Debtor.” UBS Objection ¶¶ 33-37. As set forth above, this issue is also moot because these obligations were taken into account by the Debtor and form the basis for substantial compromises exceeding $40 million in value embedded in the Stipulation. See supra ¶¶ 24-31.

48. Finally, UBS's remaining challenge to the Redeemer Committee's claim repeats the arguments made in HCMLP's Motion to Vacate. Specifically, UBS contends that the "arbitration panel impermissibly substantively (and unilaterally) modified several aspects of its first 'final' arbitral award after that award had already been issued" such that any relief granted pursuant to the Modification Award and the Final Award is barred by the "long-standing common law doctrine of functus officio" and the AAA's own rules. UBS Objection at 1; see also id. ¶¶ 12-16, 23-32.

49. These procedural attacks on the Arbitration Award were considered and rejected by the Panel and are unlikely to succeed in undermining the Redeemer Committee's claim here (or in the Chancery Court if the stay were lifted for the purpose of allowing the Redeemer Committee to confirm its award).

50. Specifically, the Panel found that the March Award was not a "final" award, observing that it had "explicitly denominated the award of March 6 as a 'Partial Final Award,' making clear to the Parties that the arbitral proceeding was still ongoing. We also explicitly left the hearing open so the parties could meet and confer or make submissions, including providing additional evidence, 'until all issues set forth . . . have been agreed to by the Parties or decided by the Tribunal.' Under these circumstances, the doctrine of functus officio does not apply." Morris Dec. Exhibit 4 at 4-5 (emphasis in original).

51. Given that (a) the March Award was explicitly labeled a "Partial Final Award," (b) the parties were directed to confer on issues of damages, interest, and the value of the attorneys' fees awarded to the Redeemer Committee, and (c) the Panel expressly determined to "leave the hearing open until all issues set forth above have been agreed upon by the Parties or decided by the Tribunal,” it is difficult to understand how the March Award could be treated as a “final” award that fully and finally resolved all issues.¹²

52. UBS specifically attacks those portions of the Modification Award and Final Award concerning the treatment of prejudgment interest and the so-called “Barclays Claim.” UBS Objection ¶ 12. These attacks are unlikely to succeed.

53. On the issue of interest, the Panel found that the parties had been directed in the March Award to confer on the issue and that the Panel would decide if the parties could not agree.¹³ Because the parties could not reach an agreement, the Panel ruled (a) in the Redeemer Committee’s favor by awarding interest through the earlier of the date of payment or the entry of judgment, but (b) in HCMLP’s favor by rejecting the Redeemer Committee’s request for compounded interest. Morris Dec. Exhibit 4, Section E.b.v at 14-15.

54. On the issue of the “Barclay’s Claim,” UBS conflates two separate and distinct issues arising from HCMLP’s settlement of Barclays’ lawsuit against the Crusader Funds and otherwise fails to properly acknowledge the Panel’s ruling on the Redeemer Committee’s Barclays Claim. UBS asserts that “the Panel did not treat HCM’s transfers of the Barclays LP Interests to Eames as an independent wrongdoing. Instead, the Partial Final Award only ever discussed the transfer of the Barclays LP Interests in the context of one of Redeemer’s broader sets of claims, known as its “Distribution Fee Claim.”” UBS Objection ¶ 12. UBS is mistaken.

¹³ In the March Award, the Panel stated, among other things, that “[w]ith respect to the claims below for which we find liability and direct the payment of damages and interest, if the parties are not able to agree on the amount of damages and interest, we direct them to submit simultaneous briefs to the Panel on the issues within thirty (30) days of the date of this Partial Final Award.” Morris Dec. Exhibit 2 at 53. The parties were unable to agree on all issues concerning interest and complied with the March Award by timely submitting briefs on the topic. Morris Dec. Exhibit 4 at 2-3.

55. In the Arbitration, the Redeemer Committee raised two separate claims arising from the Barclays settlement. The Redeemer Committee claimed that HCMLP breached the Plan and its fiduciary duties by transferring Barclay’s limited partnership interests in the Crusader Funds to HCMLP’s wholly-owned affiliate, Eames, over the Redeemer Committee’s refusal to approve that transfer and sought disgorgement of those partnership interests and of the distributions Eames had received from the Crusader Fund made on account of those interests. Morris Dec. Exhibit 2 § F.6 at 21 (the “Barclays Claim”). In addition, as part of its claim to recover distribution fees improperly paid to HCMLP, the Redeemer Committee sought to recover fees that HCMLP had paid itself based upon distributions to those ill-gotten LP interests. Id. § C.3 at 15 (the “Distribution Fee Claim”).

56. The Panel found in the Redeemer Committee’s favor on both claims. In the March Award—and contrary to UBS’s mistaken assertion—the Panel independently found the Debtor liable for the Barclays Claim: “We find that Highland breached the Plan and Scheme by transferring the LP interests to a wholly-controlled affiliate [i.e., Eames] after the Committee had specifically disapproved of the transfer.” Id. § F.7 at 21. But unlike the other claims on which it found the Debtor liable, the Panel omitted a discussion of the relief awarded for the Barclays Claim.

57. The Redeemer Committee filed a timely motion under AAA Arbitration Rule 50 seeking (a) clarification from the Panel whether a discussion of the relief awarded for the Barclays Claim was inadvertently omitted from the March Award, and (b) modification of the March Award to include the Panel’s findings regarding that relief. Morris Dec. Exhibit 4 at 8-10. That Motion was fully briefed. Id. at 2, 8-10. The Panel granted the Motion, specifically rejecting the same argument that UBS makes in its Objection. The Panel found, among other things, that “we are not adding an ‘additional award,’ as it is clear from the structure of the Partial Final Award that a paragraph was missing from the damages portion; all other findings of liability were accompanied by a section delineating the applicable damages except for the finding of a breach of the Plan and Scheme by reason of the transfer of LP interests to Eames [W]e found liability in two respects [i.e., with respect to the Distribution Fee Claim and the Barclays Claim] but omitted a paragraph regarding the remedy for Respondent’s breach of the Plan and Scheme that we had found with respect to the transfer, without the required Committee approval, of Barclays’ fund interests to itself through entities it controlled as part of the settlement. That omission is a classic example of a clerical error.” Id. § E.b ¶ 5 at 9.

58. Under the AAA Rules which were incorporated into the parties’ arbitration agreement, “[t]he arbitrator shall interpret and apply these rules insofar as they relate to the arbitrator’s powers and duties.” AAA Rule 8; see also AAA Rule 7(a) (“The arbitrator shall have the power to rule on his or her own jurisdiction.”) Thus, the Panel had discretion to decide whether the modification of the March Award was warranted and to modify that Award to include the additional relief which UBS now seeks to challenge. Under the Federal Arbitration Act, this Court would be required to defer to the Panel’s exercise of that discretion. Commc’ns Workers of Am., AFL-CIO v. Sw. Bell Tel. Co., 953 F.3d 822, 827 (5th Cir. 2020) (holding that the AAA rule “authoriz[ing] an arbitrator to ‘interpret and apply [the AAA] rules’ binds the parties to the arbitrator’s interpretation so long as it is ‘within reasonable limits’ . . . even where ‘reasonable judges and arbitrators could interpret the AAA rules differently’”); Troegel v. Performance Energy Servs., LLC, 2020 WL 4370881, at *8 (M.D. La. July 30, 2020)

(“Similarly, the Arbitrator has the power to interpret the arbitration rules, so that is also not a ground for vacating the attorneys’ fee award.”)¹⁴

B. The Complexity, Duration, Expense, and Delay Related to Litigation

59. The issues relating to the Redeemer Committee are fairly complex; litigation would require meaningful resources, would take time, and would delay the Debtor’s efforts to get to a confirmable plan.

60. Among the issues the settlement avoids are those relating to setoff. Setoff issues are notoriously complex and would arise with respect to the Deferred Fees and Cornerstone issues.¹⁵

61. Litigation of these issues, among others, would take time and would either delay confirmation of the Debtor’s plan or leave another substantial dispute to be litigated through a post-confirmation trust to the prejudice of all stakeholders.

C. The Stipulation Is in the Creditors’ Best Interests

62. The proposed settlement is in the best interests of the Debtor’s creditors.

63. The Stipulation resolves what is likely the largest claim against the Debtor; it does so on reasonable terms; and it is supported by sound business reasons.

¹⁵ UBS speculates that “[i]n all likelihood, Redeemer will tender more in value to HCM when it is forced to turn over the Cornerstone shares than it could ever recover on this portion of its prepetition claim.” UBS’s speculation should be rejected for at least the following reasons: (a) if general unsecured claims recover just 60%, then the value of the Redeemer Committee’s claim will exceed the value of the Crusader Funds’ Cornerstone shares, even using UBS’s unsupported valuation; and (b) under principles of setoff, the Redeemer Committee may have only been required to tender shares equal in value to the recovery on its claim.

64. Pursuant to the Stipulation, among other things, the Debtor's estate (a) will immediately receive the benefit of the value of two-thirds of the Deferred Fees (through the reduction of the Damage Award by approximately $21 million), rather than waiting for the completion of the Crusader Funds' liquidation and litigating at some future date the merits of the Crusader Funds' and Redeemer Committee's "faithless servant" defense; (b) is relieved of the obligation of paying $48 million for the Crusader Fund's minority interest in Cornerstone (when even UBS speculates that the shares are worth less than that);¹⁶ (c) is giving no consideration on account of the Redeemer Committee's claim for post-petition interest, fees, and expenses; (d) is receiving a release of all claims by the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds; (e) will avoid incurring any additional expenses opposing the Redeemer Committee's claim; (f) has obtained the Redeemer Committee's cooperation to sell the Crusader Funds' minority interest in Cornerstone along with the controlling interests held by the Debtor and other affiliates, so that the company may be sold as a whole, to the likely benefit of all creditors; and (g) all of the Pending Actions involving the Debtor will end, thereby eliminating substantial costs and disruptions.¹⁷

65. The compromises that led to these benefits are clear, and the Independent Board's decision to accept these terms is a sound exercise of its discretion.

D. The Stipulation Is the Product of Good-Faith, Arm's-Length Negotiations

66. The Stipulation is the product of good-faith, arm's-length negotiations.

¹⁶ Notably, the Debtor does not have $48 million in cash to pay the Redeemer Committee for the Cornerstone shares.

¹⁷ Another collateral benefit of the Stipulation is that CLO Holdco, Ltd. ("CLO Holdco") has agreed to withdraw its general unsecured claim in the amount of $11,340,751.26. See Claim No. 133. CLO Holdco's claim was based on "participation interests and tracking interests" in the Crusader Funds that were held by the Debtor. However, the Panel found that the Debtor improperly acquired those interests, and the Debtor has agreed to their cancellation in accordance with the Arbitration Award.

67. Negotiations between the parties began in earnest in the late winter and only recently concluded. At various times, the principals negotiated directly, counsel for the parties negotiated directly, and, on several occasions, lawyers and clients participated in joint negotiating sessions.

68. Over these many months, the parties and their counsel met in person (before COVID), participated in Zoom calls (after COVID), spoke telephonically, and exchanged countless written communications.

69. Numerous versions of a Term Sheet were exchanged, and the Stipulation went through multiple drafts.

70. Throughout the process, the parties acted in good faith while vigorously advocating for their respective positions.

71. In short, the process proceeded exactly as it should have.

NO PRIOR REQUEST

72. No previous request for the relief sought herein has been made to this, or any other, Court.

NOTICE

73. Notice of this Motion shall be given to the following parties or, in lieu thereof, to their counsel, if known: (a) counsel for the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds; (b) the Office of the United States Trustee; (c) the Office of the United States Attorney for the Northern District of Texas; (d) the Debtor's principal secured parties; (e) counsel to the Committee; (f) counsel to UBS; and (g) parties requesting notice pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 2002. The Debtor submits that, in light of the nature of the relief requested, no other or further notice need be given.

PRAYER

WHEREFORE, the Debtor respectfully requests entry of an order, substantially in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A, (a) granting the relief requested herein, and (b) granting such other relief as is just and proper.

Disclaimer For Financial Projections

This document includes financial projections for July 2020 through December 2022 (the “Projections”) for Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Company”). These Projections have been prepared by DSI with input from management at the Company. The historical information utilized in these Projections has not been audited or reviewed for accuracy by DSI.

This Memorandum includes certain statements, estimates and forecasts provided by the Company with respect to the Company’s anticipated future performance. These estimates and forecasts contain significant elements of subjective judgment and analysis that may or may not prove to be accurate or correct. There can be no assurance that these statements, estimates and forecasts will be attained and actual outcomes and results may differ materially from what is estimated or forecast herein.

These Projections should not be regarded as a representation of DSI that the projected results will be achieved.

Management may update or supplement these Projections in the future, however, DSI expressly disclaims any obligation to update its report.

These Projections were not prepared with a view toward compliance with published guidelines of the Securities and Exchange Commission or the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants regarding historical financial statements, projections or forecasts.

Highland Capital Management, L.P.
Statement of Assumptions

- A. Plan effective date is December 31, 2020.
- B. All investment assets are sold by December 31, 2021.
- C. All demand notes are collected in the year 2021.
- D. All notes receivable with maturity dates beyond 12/31/2022 are sold in Q4 2022; in the interim interest income and principal payments are collected as they become due.
- E. Fixed assets used in daily business operations are sold in January 2021.
- F. Accrual for employee bonuses as of December 2020 are reversed and not paid.
- G. All Management advisory or shared service contracts are either assumed and assigned or contracts are terminated on their terms by the on effective date.
- H. Post-effective date the reorganized Debtor would employ three contractors, prior HCMLP employees, to help monetize the remaining assets.
- I. Litigation Trustee budget is $2,000,000.
- J. Unrealized gains or losses are not recorded on a monthly basis; all gains or losses are recorded as realized gains or losses upon sale of asset.
- K. Plan does not provide for payment of interest to Class 7 holders of general unsecured claims, as set forth in the Plan. If holders of general unsecured claims receive 100% of their allowed claims, they would then be entitled to receive interest at the federal judgement rate prior to any funds being available for claims or interest of junior priority.
- L. Plan assumes zero allowed claims for UBS, IFA, the HarbourVest entities collectively, ("HV") and Hunter Mountain Investment Trust ("HM").
- M. Claims amounts listed in Plan vs. Liquidation schedule are subject to change; claim amounts in Class 7 assume $0 for UBS, IFA, HM and HV.
- N. Class 1,3 and 4 would be paid in full within 30 days of effective date.
- O. Class 5 payout limited to 75% of each individual creditor claim or in the aggregate $14.5 million.
- P. Class 6 payout limited to 75% of each individual creditor claim or in the aggregate $3 million.
- Q. See below for class 7 estimated payout schedule; payout is subject to certain assets being monetized by payout date:
 - o By September 30, 2021 - $50,000,000
 - o By March 31, 2022 – additional $50,000,000
 - o By June 30, 2022 – additional $25,000,000
 - o All remaining proceeds are assumed to be paid out on or soon after all remaining assets are monetized.

TO THE HONORABLE STACEY G.C. JERNIGAN,
UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY JUDGE:

Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. (“HCLOF” or the “Fund”) files this Reservation of Rights regarding the Debtor’s Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (A) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP LLC (Claim No. 23), (B) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (Claim No. 156), and (C) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (Claim No. 159), and Authorizing Actions Consistently Therewith, ECF No. 1087 (the “Motion”), the Declaration of Gregory V. Demo in Support of the Debtor’s Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (a) Acis Capital Management, L.P. Capital Management GP LLC (Claim No. 23), (B) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (Claim No. 156), and (C) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (Claim No. 159), and Authorizing Actions Consistently Therewith (the “Demo Decl.”), Demo Decl. Ex. 1 (the “Settlement”), and Demo Decl. Ex. 2 (the “Release”).¹ The Fund respectfully states as follows:

I. Introduction

The Debtor and Acis have mediated their disputes, but the Settlement does not resolve the pending and threatened claims against the Fund. Acis, apparently, intends to continue its aggressive litigation strategy against the Fund and certain other parties expressly carved out from the Release. The Fund therefore files this Reservation of Rights to dispel any claim that it has provided consent or otherwise agreed to the Settlement, and to reserve all its rights, including all rights and remedies under applicable non-bankruptcy law. The Settlement and the recently proposed Plan may have far-reaching consequences affecting the Fund and other parties’ rights under non-bankruptcy law. The Fund is seeking input from its investors on these issues.

For example, a component of the Settlement that is not even mentioned in the Motion is the requirement (subject to certain conditions) that the Debtor “transfer all of its right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., [“HCF Advisor”] whether its ownership is direct or indirect to Acis or its nominee.” Settlement § 1(c). The Settlement provides that this transfer will occur in the future (on the effective date of the Debtor’s plan of reorganization) but only if the Debtor receives legal advice that the transfer is “legally permissible consistent with [the Debtor’s] contractual and legal duties” and “would not reasonably subject [the Debtor] to liability.” Id. As such, the proposed transfer is prospective in nature and is not before the Court. Nonetheless, the Fund notes that it has not consented to this proposed transfer, or to the undertaking by the Debtor to execute this transfer. Nor is the Fund consenting to be bound by any legal advice received by the Debtor concerning the proposed transfer. The Fund reserves all rights.

Further, the Release requires the parties to “coordinate to cause . . . to be dismissed with prejudice” the Fifth Circuit appeal of Acis’s Plan of Reorganization. Release § 2. The Fund is a party to that appeal and states that it does not consent to a dismissal.

II. Relevant Background

A. Relationship between the Fund, the Debtor, and Acis

The Fund is a Guernsey closed-end investment fund governed by two directors wholly independent of HCM and Acis. It relies on its service providers to perform certain operational tasks. One of these service providers is its portfolio manager, HCF Advisor. Pursuant to sub-advisory and sub-service contracts with HCF Advisor, the Debtor performs portfolio management functions for the Fund. The individuals employed by the Debtor who provide portfolio management services for the Fund include but are not limited to Hunter Covitz, Isaac Leventon, and Jean Paul Sevilla.

Acis serves as portfolio manager to certain collateralized loan obligations (“CLOs”), in which the Fund holds a majority of the subordinated notes. As representatives of the Debtor have testified, Acis has mismanaged the CLOs to the detriment of the subordinated notes. See, e.g., Dkt. No. 18-3078, Aug. 1, 2018 Hr’g Tr. at 121:6–124:8 (Test. of H. Covitz); Dkt. No. 18-3078, Dec. 13, 2018 (AM) Hr’g Tr. at 25:5–27:25. The value of the Fund’s investments in the CLOs has decreased dramatically since August 2018. Pursuant to Acis’s Plan, the Fund is prohibited from exercising contractual rights that would provide a mechanism for the Fund to replace Acis as manager of the CLOs.

The Fund has also been very materially prejudiced by the acrimonious, multi-front litigation between the Debtor and Acis. First, the Fund opposed four proposed plans in the Acis bankruptcy. The confirmed plan is on appeal to the Fifth Circuit. Second, Acis has sued the Fund in an adversary proceeding pending before this Court, but stayed by the Debtor's automatic stay. Every count of that thirty-five-count complaint that names the Fund is also brought against the Debtor. See Second Amended Complaint (Including Claim Objections and Objections to Administrative Expense Claims), Dkt. No. 18-3078, ECF No. 157. Third, Acis has threatened to file a sanctions motion against the Fund, its former directors, and certain Debtor employees who provide services to the Fund. See Order Lifting the Automatic Stay to Allow Pursuit of Motion for Order to Show Cause for Violations of Acis Plan Injunction, Dkt. No. 19-34054, ECF No. 764. Fourth, Acis has sued the Fund's former directors and certain Debtor employees who provide services to the Fund in another adversary proceeding pending before this Court, which has recently been abated. See Motion to Abate Adversary Proceeding and Pending Deadlines, Dkt. No. 20-03060, ECF No. 27. Fifth, some individuals employed by the Debtor who provide services to the Fund are also named in yet another lawsuit recently brought by Acis, captioned Acis Capital Management, L.P. v. Cruciani, Case No. DC-20-055354, pending in the 162nd District Court of Dallas County Texas.

B. Summary of the Settlement and Release

As relevant to this Reservation of Rights, the Settlement provides for the transfer of the Debtor's interest in HCF Advisor to Acis:

(c) On the effective date of a plan of reorganization proposed by HCMLP and confirmed by the Bankruptcy Court, if HMCLP receives written advice of nationally recognized external counsel that it is legally permissible consistent with HCMLP's contractual and legal duties to transfer all of its direct and indirect right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. to Acis or its nominee and that doing so would not reasonably subject HCMLP to liability, HCMLP shall transfer all of its right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., whether its ownership is direct or indirect, to Acis or its nominee, subject at all times to Acis's right to unilaterally reject the transfer in its sole and absolute discretion;

Settlement § 1(c).

The Release does not resolve the pending and threatened litigation involving the Fund. See Release § 1(a) ("Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the term HCMLP Released Parties shall not include . . . Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. . . ."). However, it contains several provisions affecting the Fund. First, it provides that Acis and the Debtor will attempt to cause the dismissal with prejudice of the Fifth Circuit appeal:

Within five days of the Effective Date, each Acis Released Party and HCMLP Released Party, to the extent applicable, will coordinate to cause the Filed Cases, including any appeals of any Filed Cases, to be dismissed with prejudice as to any Acis Released Party or HCMLP Released Party

Release § 2.

Second, the Release provides that Acis's claims pending against certain Debtor employees (referred to as "HCMLP Specified Parties" in the Release), including those employees that provide portfolio management and other services to the Fund, will be released only if those parties take no action that impairs the Settlement:

Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, if (A) any HCMLP Specified Party has not executed this Release on or before the Effective Date or (B) any HCMLP Released Party, including any HCMLP Specified Party, (i) sues, attempts to sue, or threatens or works with or assists any entity or person to sue, attempt to sue, or threaten any Acis Released Party on or in connection with any HCMLP Released Claim or any other claim or cause of action arising prior to the date of this Release, (ii) takes any action that, in HCMLP's reasonable judgment, impairs or harms the value of HCMLP, its estate, and its assets; or (iii) in HCMLP's reasonable judgment fails to use commercially reasonable efforts to support confirmation of the Plan and/or the monetization of HCMLP's assets at their maximum value, then (a) such HCMLP Released Party (and only such HCMLP Released Party) will be deemed to have waived (x) the release and all other protections set forth in Section 1a hereof and will have no further rights, duties, or protections under this Release and (y) any releases set forth in the Plan, (b) the Acis Released Parties, as applicable, may, in their discretion, assert any and all Acis Released Claims against such HCMLP Released Party (and only such HCMLP Released Party), and (c) any statutes of limitation or other similar defenses are tolled against such HCMLP Released Party (and only such HCMLP Released Party) from the execution of this Release until ninety (90) days after the Acis Released Parties receive actual written notice of any violation of this Section 1d. For the avoidance of doubt, by signing this Release each of the HCMLP Specified Parties is acknowledging and agreeing, without limitation, to the terms of this Section 1.d and the tolling agreement set forth herein.

Id. § 1(d).

III. Reservation of Rights

A. Applicable law and the contracts governing the relationship between the Debtor and the Fund bear upon the proposed transfer of HCF Advisor.

By the express terms of the Settlement, the proposed transfer of HCF Advisor will occur only upon the following conditions: (1) the occurrence of the effective date of a plan of reorganization proposed by the Debtor and confirmed by the Court; and (2) the Debtor “receives written advice of nationally recognized external counsel that [i] it is legally permissible consistent with [the Debtor’s] contractual and legal duties” to effectuate the transfer and [ii] “doing so would not reasonably subject [the Debtor] to liability.” Therefore, the legality of this potential transfer is not currently before the Court, and the Court’s approval of the Settlement under Rule 9019 does not insulate the transfer from later legal challenge. See Van Curen v. Escamilla (In re Vec Farms, LLC), 395 B.R. 674, 683 (Bankr. N.D. Cal. 2008) (“[A]pproval by court does not immunize [a] clause in settlement agreement that is otherwise illegal.” (citation omitted)).

Without limitation, the Fund observes that multiple provisions of the Fund’s governing documents and third-party contracts, as well as provisions of applicable non-bankruptcy law, including the Investment Advisers Act, bear upon the legality of, and the consequences flowing from, the transfer of ownership of HCF Advisor without the Fund's consent. Presumably these and other issues are to be addressed in the legal opinion anticipated by the Settlement. The Fund has never been consulted on any of these issues and does not consent to, or agree in any way to be bound by, any determination by the Debtor or its legal advisors that it can properly transfer ownership of the Fund's portfolio manager without its consent. The Fund expressly reserves its right to challenge the legality of this transfer, should it occur, on any and all available legal or equitable grounds, and/or to exercise any remedy available to the Fund as a result of the transfer should it occur without its consent.

B. The Fund does not consent to dismissal of its Fifth Circuit appeal.

The Release provides that Acis and the Debtor will attempt to cause the dismissal with prejudice of the Fifth Circuit appeal of the Acis plan of reorganization. Release § 2. The Fund is also a party to that appeal. The Fund recognizes that the Release contemplates dismissal efforts with the Fifth Circuit and that this Court is not being asked to, nor could it, take action on this contemplated future event. Nonetheless, to avoid any inference that the Fund consents to these futures events, the Fund states that it does not consent to dismissal of its appeal.

IV. Conclusion

The Fund therefore reserves all rights to challenge potential transactions or actions described in the Settlement and Release, should those events come to pass, and to pursue any rights and remedies available to it if these events occur without its consent.

OF THE HIGHLAND CRUSADER FUND (CLAIM NO. 72), AND (B) THE HIGHLAND CRUSADER FUNDS (CLAIM NO. 81), AND AUTHORIZING ACTIONS CONSISTENT THEREWITH

¹ The Debtor's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are (6725). The headquarters and service address for the above-captioned Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

The above-captioned debtor and debtor-in-possession (the “Debtor”) hereby submits this reply (the “Reply”) in support of its Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (A) the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Funds (Claim No. 72), and (B) the Highland Crusader Funds (Claim No. 81), and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Docket No. 1089] (the “Motion”).² In further support of the Motion, the Debtor respectfully states as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. The Motion fully and finally resolves the Debtor’s extensive prepetition disputes with both the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds. The facts underlying these disputes are well-known to this Court and resulted in the Redeemer Committee securing a prepetition Arbitration Award against the Debtor in the amount of $190,824,557. That Award, and the Delaware Chancery Court’s imminent entry of judgement confirming the Arbitration Award, were the primary drivers for the Debtor’s bankruptcy filing in October 2019.

2. Through the Motion, the Debtor seeks to resolve the Redeemer Committee’s and the Crusader Funds’ claims by, among other things:

- Settling the Redeemer Committee’s $190 million general unsecured, non-priority claim for $136,696,610;
- Settling the Highland Crusader Funds’ $23,483,446 general unsecured, non-priority claim for $50,000;
- Cancelling certain interests in the Crusader Funds that the arbitration Panel determined were wrongfully acquired;
- Providing for the parties’ cooperation in the marketing and monetization of Cornerstone and/or Cornerstone’s assets pursuant to an agreed-upon schedule;

² All capitalized terms used but not defined herein have the meanings given to them in the Motion.

- Waiving the Debtor’s right to certain deferred fees in consideration for a reduction in the Redeemer Committee’s allowed claim; and
- Providing for the exchange of general releases, as set forth in the Settlement Agreement.

The Motion thus fully and finally resolves one of the Debtor’s largest claims filed by the Debtor’s most significant creditor.

3. UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (collectively, “UBS”) lodged the only objection to the Motion (the “Objection”).³ The UBS Objection raises four primary objections to the Motion:

- The Debtor’s waiver of a portion of the Deferred Fees is inappropriate as the Debtor would be entitled to 100% of such fees if it simply waited until the Crusader Funds were wound down;
- The Debtor has no basis to settle with either the Redeemer Committee or the Crusader Funds because the Arbitration Award is unenforceable and should be challenged by the Debtor in the Delaware Chancery Court;
- The Debtor significantly undervalues the Cornerstone Shares held by the Crusader Funds; and
- The Motion is not in the best interests of the Debtor’s creditors because it is not in the best interests of UBS.

For the reasons set forth below, and as the evidence will demonstrate at trial, UBS’s objections are without merit and should be overruled, and the Court should grant the Motion in all respects.

REPLY

I. The Deferred Fees

4. As this Court knows, the Debtor previously managed the Crusader Funds and, subject to the scheme instituted in Bermuda, was potentially entitled to receive certain deferred fees from the Crusader Funds upon completion of their liquidation. However, instead of waiting, the Debtor prematurely paid itself and impermissibly took $32,313,000 from the Crusader Funds. Under the Arbitration Award, the Debtor was required to pay back such fees plus interest. Although required to return the fees, the Debtor contended that it would ultimately still be entitled to such fees upon the Crusader Funds' liquidation. See Motion ¶¶ 24-27. That issue was not resolved in the Arbitration Award.

5. In its Objection, UBS challenges the Debtor's compromise of the Deferred Fee whereby it has accepted a reduction in the Arbitration Award of $21,592,000 rather than holding out for the Debtor retaining the full Deferred Fees of $32,313,000 that it took in 2016. According to UBS, the proposed compromise is improper because the Debtor is indisputably entitled to receive 100% of the Deferred Fees upon the completion of the Crusader Funds' liquidation; consequently, the proposed treatment of the Deferred Fees is unjustified. UBS's argument, however, misses the mark.

6. Even if the Debtor were indisputably entitled to recover the Deferred Fees upon the completion of the Crusader Funds' liquidation (which is heavily contested), under the Arbitration Award, the Debtor would (a) be required to re-pay the Redeemer Committee the approximately $32 million found to have been improperly taken by the Debtor, plus interest,⁴ and (b) wait for some future date when it would assert a claim to be paid the Deferred Fees.

⁴ If the Motion is denied, a new round of litigation will likely ensue over the issue of setoffs: If general unsecured creditors receive less than the value of their allowed claims, can the Debtor "repay" the Deferred Fees found to have been improperly taken with "bankruptcy dollars", or will the Debtor be required to "repay" the Deferred Fees in "hundred cent" dollars? The proposed settlement eliminates the cost and risk of this litigation as well.

7. But the timing of the Crusader Funds' complete liquidation is not in the Debtor's control,⁵ and neither the Debtor nor UBS can predict when it will occur. Indeed, to the extent the Crusader Funds hold an allowed claim, the Crusader Funds' liquidation cannot be completed—and therefore the Debtor cannot assert a claim to the Deferred Fee—until they receive all of their distributions on account of that claim, a process that is likely to take many years.⁶

8. More important than the issues of delay and setoff litigation that UBS ignores, UBS's contention that the Debtor would face no litigation risk in trying to recover the Deferred Fees is simply wrong. See Motion ¶ 26. The Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds have vigorously asserted that they will rely on the "faithless servant" defense to contest any future claim for payment of the full Deferred Fees. In response, the Debtor took advice from counsel, considered the Panel's highly critical findings and statements concerning the Debtor's conduct, and concluded, in the exercise of its business judgment, that the Debtor would face meaningful costs and risks if it attempted to recover the full Deferred Fees at some future point.

9. The Debtor's settlement with respect to the Deferred Fees is thus justified: In exchange for the benefit of receiving immediate credit for two-thirds of the value of the Deferred Fees that the Debtor took in 2016, the Debtor will avoid (a) litigation over setoff issues; (b) a lengthy delay before it can even assert the right to recover the full Deferred Fees; (c) the cost of litigating the Redeemer Committee's and the Crusader Funds' "faithless servant" defense;⁷ and (d) the risk that the defense may be successful, leaving the Debtor with nothing on account of the Deferred Fees.

⁵ The only Crusader Fund asset potentially in the Debtor's control is Cornerstone. Cornerstone, however, is illiquid, and there can be no guarantee of when (or if) it will be sold.

II. Challenging the Arbitration Award

10. UBS argues that the Debtor should challenge the Arbitration Award and resurrect its prepetition motion to vacate that was based on certain alleged procedural irregularities. In essence, UBS wants the Debtor to rewind the clock to October 2019, return to the Delaware Chancery Court, and continue its litigation with the Redeemer Committee rather than settling it. Indeed, UBS encourages the Debtor to rely on the arguments tendered by the Debtor's prepetition management team.⁸ This argument is tone-deaf. This Court has consistently encouraged the Debtor to stop the litigation and change its litigious culture. UBS is encouraging the opposite and asking the Debtor to return to state court to prosecute litigation that was definitively resolved by three highly-qualified arbitrators.

11. From the Debtor's perspective, the settlement represents a far better alternative, one that is clearly in the paramount interest of creditors.

12. First, for the reasons set forth in the Motion (see Motion ¶¶ 43, 48-58), the Debtor has concluded that it is unlikely to succeed in the motion to partially vacate the Arbitration Award. It is axiomatic that courts are reluctant to overturn arbitration awards because public policy favors the pursuit of agreed-upon alternative dispute mechanisms. The Debtor believes that this institutional reluctance would be heightened here because (a) the arbitration took place over an extended period, with substantial discovery and motion practice; (b) the Arbitration Award was rendered by a “blue ribbon” Panel; (c) the evidentiary hearing spanned nine (9) days; (d) eleven fact witnesses and four (4) expert witnesses testified; (e) the Arbitration Award addressed every claim and argument asserted by the parties, and the Panel resolved each with detailed legal and factual findings and credibility determinations; and (f) many of those findings and credibility determinations were highly critical of the Debtor and its witnesses, making the Debtor a particularly unsympathetic litigant under the circumstances. See Motion ¶ 43.

⁷ The cost of litigating the "faithless servant" defense is likely to be considerable because it will require a fact-intensive inquiry into the Debtor's conduct. In addition, if the litigation takes place five or ten years from now, the Debtor may not be well-positioned because certain witnesses may no longer be available; some may refuse to cooperate; and those that choose to cooperate may have faded memories.

13. In that poorly-positioned state, the Debtor believes the Chancery Court is very likely to adopt the Panel’s detailed and well-reasoned decision on the very issues that UBS urges the Debtor to renew. See Motion ¶¶ 49-51, 53, 57. Based on the foregoing, including the Panel’s consideration of the issues, the Debtor has concluded that it is unlikely to succeed in the motion to partially vacate the Arbitration Award.

14. In addition to second-guessing the Panel and the Debtor on the merits, UBS ignores the fact that the Debtor would lose the benefit of its current bargain with the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds if its high-risk strategy is pursued. For example, in the pursuit of UBS’s risk-adjusted benefit of $18.5 million (UBS Objection ¶ 40), the Debtor will certainly lose the compromise concerning the $21.6 million credit it will receive on account of the Deferred Fee, and it will be left to spend money litigating setoff issues and the “faithless servant” defense at some future time with all of the risk that entails. The Debtor does not believe that is in the paramount interest of creditors.

15. In sum, the Debtor does not believe it has a meaningful chance of succeeding in the Chancery Court, and the Debtor has concluded in the sound exercise of its business judgment that the proposed settlement constitutes a far superior alternative, the benefits of which would be lost if it continued to pursue what is likely to be fruitless litigation.

III. The Value of the Cornerstone Shares

16. UBS argues that the Debtor is giving up its interest in the Cornerstone Shares too cheap and, by doing so, providing the Redeemer Committee with a windfall. To make this argument, UBS challenges Houlihan Lokey's valuation of the Cornerstone Shares and seeks to impose the views of its own expert.⁹

17. A few things about Houlihan Lokey and the work that it does for the Debtor should be noted:

- The group at Houlihan Lokey that provides valuations to the Debtor, including the valuation of Cornerstone, is Houlihan Lokey's portfolio valuation and fund advisory services. This group specializes in valuing hard-to-value, Level 3 assets for asset managers and is routinely recognized as the premier provider of such services;
- In many cases, the valuations performed by Houlihan Lokey form the basis for the "net asset value" or "NAV" used by asset managers, including the Debtor, to value the funds managed by those asset managers. That NAV is then used to pay out redeeming interest holders and to calculate the management fees payable to the manager;
- Asset managers routinely rely on Houlihan Lokey to provide the valuations that they disclose to investors and to their auditors; and
- Throughout the Debtor's bankruptcy, Houlihan Lokey's valuations have been used, in certain instances, to support the values included in the Debtor's monthly operating reports and similar financial disclosures, including those provided to the Committee in this case. They have never before been challenged.

⁹ The Debtor reserves the right to challenge the admission into evidence of any opinions offered by W. Kevin Moentmann, including under Daubert and its progeny, Federal Rule of Evidence 702, or otherwise. The Debtor is scheduled to depose Mr. Moentmann on Monday afternoon, October 19, 2020, and further reserves the right to supplement the arguments set forth herein based on the testimony adduced during the deposition.

UBS, however, is now attacking Houlihan Lokey's valuation of Cornerstone and seeking to impose its own view. Although UBS may have a different opinion as to the value of the Cornerstone Shares, it cannot argue that the Debtor's reliance on Houlihan Lokey's valuation was unreasonable or an abuse of the Debtor's business judgment.

IV. Best Interests of Creditors

18. Finally, UBS argues that the settlements with the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds are not in the best interests of all of the Debtor's creditors. UBS makes this argument despite the fact that UBS is the only creditor or party-in-interest that has objected to the Motion. Based on the UBS Objection, it seems UBS believes that its interests should supplant the interest of all other creditors and parties-in-interest because UBS is "a significant unsecured creditor affected by the Proposed Settlement. . . ." (UBS Obj ¶ 47). Admittedly, UBS has filed a $1 billion-plus proof of claim against the Debtor's estate. That does not, however, make UBS a "significant creditor."

19. Both the Debtor and the Redeemer Committee believe that UBS's claim is, at best, far small than UBS asserts. Both the Debtor and the Redeemer Committee have provided support for their positions in their recently filed motions for summary judgment.¹⁰ UBS should not be able to use its disputed, contingent, and unliquidated proof of claim to upset the Debtor's settlement with one of its actual "significant creditors" or create leverage in the fight over the allowance of its claim. The paramount interest of the Debtor's actual creditors should take precedence over the parochial interest of one disputed creditor.

20. However, even if UBS is found to have a claim against the Debtor, that claim would be a general unsecured claim and similarly situated with all other general unsecured claims in this case, including claims arising from prepetition litigation with the Debtor. UBS's preferences should not supersede those of all of the other similarly situated creditors that are not opposing the Motion.

[Remainder of Page Intentionally Blank]

WHEREFORE, for the reasons set forth above and in the Motion, the Debtor respectfully requests that the Court grant the Motion.

RIDER TO THE PROOFS OF CLAIM OF THE REDEEMER
COMMITTEE OF THE HIGHLAND CRUSADER FUND

This Rider is part of the proof of claim (the “Proof of Claim”) filed by the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (the “Redeemer Committee”) against Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCM” or the “Debtor”).

On March 6, 2019, a panel of arbitrators issued a Partial Final Award (the “March Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM. On April 29, 2019, the panel issued a Final Award (the “Final Award,” and together with the March Award, the “Arbitration Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM.¹ The Arbitration Award is subject to the Federal Arbitration Act and The Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards. The Redeemer Committee timely moved to confirm the Award in the Delaware Chancery Court. HCM moved for partial vacatur of the Arbitration Award in June 2019. The time period to move to vacate the Arbitration Award expired prior to the Petition Date (as defined below). All capitalized terms that are not defined herein have the meanings given to such terms in the Arbitration Award.

The Redeemer Committee files this Proof of Claim out of an abundance of caution. The Arbitration Award is an executory contract under section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. HCM has not yet moved to assume or reject the contract. Accordingly, the deadline to file a proof of claim remains undetermined. By filing the Proof of Claim, the Redeemer Committee does not concede that the amounts awarded under the Arbitration Award are prepetition claims or that it is required to file a proof of claim to be entitled to the amounts described herein. The Redeemer Committee reserves all rights to amend or modify this Proof of Claim in any respect, including to assert other or additional claims, or for the purpose of fixing or liquidating any contingent or unliquidated claims. This Proof of Claim is without prejudice to any other rights the Redeemer Committee may have against the Debtor, its officers, employees, successors, or assigns.

This Proof of Claim includes the following components, and each is based on the Arbitration Award (together, the “Claim”):

1. Damage Claim. The Redeemer Committee asserts a liquidated claim for at least $190,824,557 plus interest that is accruing beginning as of October 16, 2019, the date that HCM filed its bankruptcy case (the “Petition Date”). As set forth in the Final Award, the separate components of the Damage Claim are as follows, and the amounts set forth below are as of the Petition Date, including prepetition interest awarded under the Arbitration Award accrued to the Petition Date:
 - a. Deferred Fee Claim: $43,105,395 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.1)
 - b. Distribution Fee Claim: $22,922,608 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.2)

¹ Copies of the Arbitral Award have previously been provided the Debtor, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors, and the Office of the United States Trustee. The Redeemer Committee reserves the right to file a copy of the Arbitral Award with the Bankruptcy Court.

- c. Taking of Plan Claims: $3,277,991 (Final Award ¶ F.a.v)
- d. CLO Trades Claim: $685,195 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vi)
- e. Credit Suisse Claim: $3,660,130 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vii)
- f. UBS Claim: $2,600,968 (Final Award ¶ F.a.viii)
- g. Barclays Claim: $30,811,366 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)
- h. Legal Fees, Costs, and Expenses: $11,351,850 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xi)
- i. Administrative Fees: $514,164 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xii)
- j. Cornerstone Award: $71,894,891 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)

The Redeemer Committee also asserts an unliquidated claim for post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses that continue to accrue in connection with the Damage Claim.

2. Cancellation of Limited Partnership Interests. The Final Award provides, in relevant part, for the cancellation of the limited partnership interests in the Crusader Fund that are (i) held by HCM and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. that are identified in RC411, and (ii) held by Eames, Ltd. (Final Award ¶¶ F.a.v and F.a.x). The Final Award provides for HCM to transfer, or take all necessary steps to cause the transfer of, such interests to the Redeemer Committee for the benefit of the Crusader Fund. The Final Award also provides that the Redeemer Committee has the independent right to cause the Crusader Fund to cancel such limited partnership interests. The Redeemer Committee reserves the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cancel such limited partnership interests in accordance with the Final Award. The Redeemer Committee asserts a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such limited partnership interests are not cancelled in accordance with the Final Award.
3. Deferred Fee Account. The Arbitration Award granted the Redeemer Committee's request for a declaratory judgment with respect to the immediate distribution of the Deferred Fee Account, which the Crusader Fund continues to hold, and ordered the payment of the funds in such account to the Redeemer Committee for disbursement to the Consenting Compulsory Redeemers (March Award ¶ VII.D; Final Award ¶ F.a). The Redeemer Committee reserves the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cause the distribution of the funds held in the Deferred Fee Account in accordance with the Arbitration Award. The Redeemer Committee asserts a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such funds are not distributed in accordance with the Arbitration Award.

The Redeemer Committee expressly reserves all of its procedural and substantive defenses and rights with respect to any claim that may be asserted against the Redeemer Committee by the Debtor, including any rights of setoff or recoupment.

The filing of this Claim shall not constitute: (i) an admission of liability by the Redeemer Committee to any party; (ii) a waiver or release of the Redeemer Committee's rights against any person, entity, or property; (iii) a consent by the Redeemer Committee to the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court with respect to the subject matter of this Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases or otherwise involving the Redeemer Committee; (iv) a waiver of the right to move to withdraw the reference to the subject matter of this Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant; (v) a waiver of the right to have final orders entered only after de novo review by a United States Judge; (vi) its right to trial by jury in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy, or proceeding related to these cases; (vii) its right to arbitration under the Plan and Scheme; (viii) an election of remedies; or (ix) any other rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, or recoupments to which it is or may be entitled under agreements, in law, in equity, or otherwise, all of which rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, and recoupments are expressly reserved.

RIDER TO THE PROOF OF CLAIM OF THE CRUSADER FUNDS

Dated: April 6, 2020

This Rider is part of the proof of claim (the “Proof of Claim”) filed by Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (“Master Fund”), Highland Crusader Fund, L.P. (“Onshore Fund”), Highland Crusader Fund, Ltd. (“Offshore Fund I”), and Highland Crusader Fund II, Ltd. (“Offshore Fund II” and together with the Master Fund, Onshore Fund, and Offshore Fund I, the “Crusader Funds”), by and through their authorized investment manager, Alvarez & Marsal CRF Management, LLC, against Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCM” or the “Debtor”).

The Crusader Funds’ claim against HCM contains two components (which partially overlap) and a number of sub-components, described below.

I. FORFEITURE OF COMPENSATION

At all relevant times prior to August 4, 2016, HCM served as the investment manager for each of the Crusader Funds, pursuant to the terms of (a) the Joint Plan of Distribution of the Crusader Funds (the “Plan”); (b) the Scheme of Arrangement (the “Scheme”); (c) the Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between the Master Fund and HCM, dated as of June 1, 2006 (the “Master Fund IMA”); (d) the Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between Onshore Fund and HCM, dated as of June 1, 2006 (the “Onshore IMA”); (e) the Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between Offshore Fund I and HCM, dated as of September 1, 2006 (the “Offshore I IMA”); and (f) the Third Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between Offshore Fund II and HCM, dated as of September 1, 2006 (the “Offshore II IMA” and together with the Master Fund IMA, the Onshore IMA, and the Offshore I IMA, the “IMAs”). The Plan, the Scheme, and the IMAs are collectively referred to as the “Fund Documents.”

Pursuant to the Fund Documents, HCM received compensation from the Crusader Funds in the form of Management Fees, Distribution Fees, and rights to Deferred Fees (each as defined in the Plan, the Scheme, or the IMAs). However, by no later than January 2012, HCM willfully and deliberately breached its obligations under the Fund Documents and breached its duty of loyalty to the Crusader Funds. At that time, HCM caused the Crusader Funds to borrow on margin from a trading account at Jefferies, and used the borrowings to inflate the amount of distributions being made, so as to inflate the amount of HCM’s Distribution Fee. Following that date, HCM committed other acts of disloyalty and further breached its obligations to the Crusader Funds, as described in the Arbitration Award (as defined below) and as shown by the evidence presented at the arbitration hearing that led to the Arbitration Award.

As a result, pursuant to the “faithless servant” doctrine, HCM forfeited any right it had to compensation for its services from the Crusader Funds, from the date of HCM’s first disloyal act onward. See, e.g., Phansalkar v. Andersen Weinroth & Co., L.P., 344 F.3d 184, 188 (2d Cir. 2003) (“We hold that New York’s faithless servant doctrine requires Phansalkar to forfeit all compensation received after his first disloyal act.”). As a “faithless servant,” HCM is obligated to disgorge all compensation received from the Crusader Funds from the date of HCM’s first disloyal act, and has no right to any further compensation from the Crusader Funds. The Crusader Funds thus assert a claim in the following amounts:

1. Management Fees: $8,233,337
2. Distribution Fees: $15,250,109
3. Deferred Fees: $32,313,000¹
4. Other Fees: In the amount of any other compensation, fees or distributions which may now or in the future otherwise be owing to HCM

The Crusader Funds also assert an unliquidated claim for pre- and post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses in connection with recovering such amounts. The Crusader Funds also assert a claim in an unliquidated amount for any Deferred Fees to which HCM might otherwise become entitled in the future under the Fund Documents.

The Crusader Funds currently hold, and may in the future hold, amounts that HCM may claim are, either now or in the future, due to it as a result of services provided by HCM to the Crusader Funds (the “Withheld Amounts”). As a result of the claims detailed in the Arbitration Award and this Proof of Claim (including without limitation, the faithless servant claim), the Crusader Funds dispute that any such amounts are due. However, to the extent that HCM prevails on an entitlement to a claim against the Crusader Funds, the Crusader Funds have a right of setoff against any such claim to the extent of its claims against HCM and such right of setoff is further secured by the Withheld Amounts.

II. ARBITRATION AWARD

This component of the claim is asserted in the alternative to the claim asserted by the Redeemer Committee of the Crusader Funds (the “Redeemer Committee”). The Crusader Funds would withdraw this portion of their claim if and to the extent that the Redeemer Committee’s claim is allowed.

On March 6, 2019, a panel of arbitrators issued a Partial Final Award (the “March Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM. On April 29, 2019, the panel issued a Final Award (the “Final Award,” and together with the March Award, the “Arbitration Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM.² Substantially all of the relief awarded by the panel was expressly noted to be “for the benefit of the Fund.” Final Award ¶¶ F.a.iii-x. The Arbitration Award is subject to the Federal Arbitration Act and The Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards. The Redeemer Committee timely moved to confirm the Award in the Delaware Chancery Court. HCM moved for partial vacatur of the Arbitration Award in June 2019. The time period to move to vacate the Arbitration Award expired prior to the Petition Date (as defined below). All capitalized terms that are not defined below have the meanings given to such terms in the Arbitration Award.

² Copies of the Arbitral Award have previously been provided the Debtor, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors, and the Office of the United States Trustee. The Crusader Funds reserve the right to file a copy of the Arbitral Award with the Bankruptcy Court.

The Arbitration Award component of the Crusader Funds' claim includes the following sub-components, and each is based on the Arbitration Award:

1. Damage Claim. The Crusader Funds assert a liquidated claim for at least $190,824,557 plus interest that is accruing beginning as of October 16, 2019, the date that HCM filed its bankruptcy case the (the "Petition Date"). As set forth in the Final Award, the separate components of the Damage Claim are as follows, and the amounts set forth below are as of the Petition Date, including prepetition interest awarded under the Arbitration Award accrued to the Petition Date:
 - a. Deferred Fee Claim: $43,105,395 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.1)
 - b. Distribution Fee Claim: $22,922,608 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.2)
 - c. Taking of Plan Claims: $3,277,991 (Final Award ¶ F.a.v)
 - d. CLO Trades Claim: $685,195 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vi)
 - e. Credit Suisse Claim: $3,660,130 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vii)
 - f. UBS Claim: $2,600,968 (Final Award ¶ F.a.viii)
 - g. Barclays Claim: $30,811,366 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)
 - h. Legal Fees, Costs, and Expenses: $11,351,850 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xi)
 - i. Administrative Fees: $514,164 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xii)
 - j. Cornerstone Award: $71,894,891 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)

The Crusader Funds also assert an unliquidated claim for post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses that continue to accrue in connection with the Damage Claim.

2. Cancellation of Limited Partnership Interests. The Final Award provides, in relevant part, for the cancellation of the limited partnership interests in the Crusader Funds that are (i) held by HCM and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. that are identified in RC411, and (ii) held by Eames, Ltd. (Final Award ¶¶ F.a.v and F.a.x). The Final Award provides for HCM to transfer, or take all necessary steps to cause the transfer of, such interests to the Redeemer Committee for the benefit of the Crusader Funds. The Final Award also provides that the Redeemer Committee has the independent right to cause the Crusader Funds to cancel such limited partnership interests. The Crusader Funds reserve the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cancel such limited partnership interests in accordance with the Final Award. The Crusader Funds assert a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such limited partnership interests are not cancelled in accordance with the Final Award.
3. Deferred Fee Account. The Arbitration Award granted the Redeemer Committee's request for a declaratory judgment with respect to the immediate distribution of the

Deferred Fee Account, which the Crusader Funds continue to hold, and ordered the payment of the funds in such account to the Redeemer Committee for disbursement to the Consenting Compulsory Redeemers (March Award ¶ VII.D; Final Award ¶ F.a). The Crusader Funds reserve the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cause the distribution of the funds held in the Deferred Fee Account in accordance with the Arbitration Award. The Crusader Funds assert a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such funds are not distributed in accordance with the Arbitration Award.

The Crusader Funds file this portion of the Proof of Claim out of an abundance of caution and in the event that the Arbitration Award is determined not to be an executory contract. However, the Arbitration Award may be an executory contract under section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. HCM has not yet moved to assume or reject such contract. The Crusader Funds reserve the right to dispute whether the Arbitration Award is an executory contract and, if so, HCM's decision to reject such contract. If the Arbitration Award is determined to be an executory contract and is allowed to be rejected by the Bankruptcy Court, the Crusader Funds reserve the right to file an amended proof of claim by the bar date for the filing of rejection damages claims; if no such amended proof of claim is filed, then, this claim shall serve as the Crusader Funds' rejection damages claim. By filing this Proof of Claim, the Crusader Funds do not concede that the Arbitration Award is an executory contract, that amounts awarded under the Arbitration Award are prepetition claims or that they are now required to file a proof of claim to be entitled to the amounts described in the Arbitration Award.

The Crusader Funds reserve all rights to amend or modify this Proof of Claim in any respect, including, without limitation, to assert other or additional claims, or for the purpose of fixing or liquidating any contingent or unliquidated claims. This Proof of Claim is without prejudice to any other rights the Crusader Funds may have against the Debtor, its officers, employees, successors, or assigns.

The Crusader Funds expressly reserve all of their procedural and substantive defenses and rights with respect to any claim that may be asserted against the Crusader Funds by the Debtor, including, without limitation, any rights of setoff or recoupment.

The filing of this Proof of Claim shall not constitute: (i) an admission of liability by the Crusader Funds to any party; (ii) a waiver or release of the Crusader Funds' rights against any person, entity, or property; (iii) a consent by the Crusader Funds to the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court with respect to the subject matter of this Proof of Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases or otherwise involving the Crusader Funds; (iv) a waiver or release of the right to move to withdraw the reference to the subject matter of this Proof of Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant; (v) a waiver or release of the right to seek to have the Bankruptcy Court abstain with respect to the subject matter of this Proof of Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant, (vi) a waiver or release of the right to have final orders entered only after de novo review by a United States District Judge; (vii) a waiver or release of their right to trial by jury in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy, or proceeding related to these cases; (viii) a consent to a jury trial in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy or proceeding related to these cases, (ix) a waiver or release of their right to arbitration under the Plan and Scheme; (x) an election of remedies or limitation of rights or remedies; or (xi) a waiver or release of any other rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, or recoupments to which they are or may be entitled under agreements, in law, in equity, or otherwise, all of which rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, and recoupments are expressly reserved.

This stipulation (the “Stipulation”) is made and entered into by and among (i) Highland Capital Management, L.P., as debtor and debtor-in-possession (the “Debtor”), (ii) Eames, Ltd., (“Eames”), (iii) the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (the “Redeemer Committee”), (iv) Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P., Highland Crusader Fund, L.P., Highland Crusader Fund, Ltd., and Highland Crusader Fund II, Ltd. (collectively, the “Crusader Funds” and together with the Debtor, Eames, and the Redeemer Committee, the “Parties”), (v) solely with respect to paragraphs 10 through 15 of this Stipulation, Hockney, Ltd., Strand Advisors, Inc., Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”), Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P., Highland Financial Partners, L.P. (“HFPLP” and together with SOHC, the “Contingent Parties”), Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P., and Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (collectively, the “Highland Additional Release Parties”), and (vi) solely with respect to paragraphs 10 through 15 of this Stipulation, House Hanover, LLC, and Alvarez & Marsal CRF Management, LLC, (collectively, the “Crusader Additional Release Parties,” and together with the Highland Additional Release Parties, the “Additional Release Parties”). This Stipulation provides for the allowance of general unsecured claims against the Debtor, for the Debtor and Eames to consent to the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds implementing certain terms of the Arbitration Award (as defined below), and for the Debtor to take certain actions in connection with such implementation.

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”). The Debtor is managing and operating its business as a debtor-in-possession pursuant to sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code;

WHEREAS, the Debtor's chapter 11 case is pending in the Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division (the "Bankruptcy Court");

WHEREAS, the Debtor served as the investment manager for the Crusader Funds until August 4, 2016, as of which date the Redeemer Committee, as set forth in a letter and notice dated July 5, 2016, terminated the Debtor;

WHEREAS, on July 5, 2016, the Redeemer Committee commenced an arbitration against the Debtor by filing a Notice of Claim with the American Arbitration Association in which it asserted various claims arising from the Debtor's service as the investment manager for the Crusader Funds (the "Arbitration");

WHEREAS, following an evidentiary hearing during the Arbitration, the panel of arbitrators issued (a) a Partial Final Award, dated March 6, 2019 (the "March Award"), (b) a Disposition of Application for Modification of Award, dated March 14, 2019 (the "Modification Award"); and (c) a Final Award, dated May 9, 2019 (the "Final Award," and together with the March Award and the Modification Award, the "Arbitration Award");

WHEREAS, as of the Petition Date, the aggregate amount of the damages awarded under the Arbitration Award, including the accrual of pre-judgment interest but before applying any offsets, was $190,824,557, which amount includes the Debtor's obligation to purchase the shares of Cornerstone Healthcare Group ("Cornerstone") that are held by the Crusader Funds in exchange for the sum of (a) $48,070,407 million in cash, and (b) accrued pre-judgment interest on such amount;

WHEREAS, in addition to awarding monetary damages, the Arbitration Award also provided for, among other things, (i) the cancellation of all limited partnership interests or shares in the Crusader Funds that are held by the Debtor, Eames, and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P.

(“Charitable DAF”), respectively, and (ii) the Crusader Fund to disburse the funds held in the Deferred Fee Account¹ to the Consenting Compulsory Redeemers;

WHEREAS, on April 3, 2020, the Redeemer Committee filed a proof of claim in respect of the Arbitration Award, Proof of Claim number 72 (“Claim 72”);

WHEREAS, on April 6, 2020, the Crusader Funds filed a proof of claim, Proof of Claim number 81 (“Claim 81”) that asserted a claim in the alternative to the Redeemer Committee Proof of Claim for at least $23,483,446 in respect of certain fees that the Crusader Funds had paid to the Debtor prior to the Debtor being terminated (the “Crusader Funds Fee Claim”);

WHEREAS, the Debtor has asserted that it is entitled to certain credits or offsets with respect to the damages provided in the Arbitration Award, and that it is has certain meritorious defenses with respect to the Crusader Funds Fee Claim;

WHEREAS, the Parties have agreed to settle and resolve all claims and disputes between and among them, including Claim 72 and Claim 81, and for the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds to implement certain relief granted in the Arbitration Award on the terms and conditions set forth in this Stipulation, and the Parties and the Additional Release Parties have agreed to exchange the mutual releases set forth herein:

AGREEMENT

NOW, THEREFORE, after good-faith, arms-length negotiations, in consideration of the foregoing, it is hereby stipulated and agreed that:

1. Claim 72 shall be allowed in the amount of $137,696,610 as a general unsecured claim.

¹ All capitalized terms not defined herein shall have the meanings given to such terms in (i) the Arbitration Award and (ii) the Joint Plan of Distribution of the Crusader Funds, and the Scheme of Arrangement between Highland Crusader Fund II, Ltd. and its Scheme Creditors (together, the “Crusader Plan”).

2. Claim 81 shall be allowed in the amount of $50,000 as a general unsecured claim.

3. The Debtor and Eames each consent to the Crusader Funds, on or after the date an order of the Bankruptcy Court approving this Stipulation pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019 and section 363 of the Bankruptcy Code becomes a final and non-appealable order (the “Stipulation Effective Date”), cancelling or extinguishing all of the limited partnership interests and shares in the Crusader Funds held by each of them respectively (collectively, the “Cancelled Highland and Eames Interests”), as provided for in the Arbitration Award. Each of the Debtor and Eames represents solely for itself that (a) it has the authority to consent to the cancellation or extinguishment of the Cancelled Highland and Eames Interests that it holds, and (b) upon the occurrence of the Stipulation Effective Date, no other actions by or on behalf of it are necessary for such cancellation or extinguishment. Each of the Debtor and Eames agrees that it will not object to the Crusader Funds, on or after the Stipulation Effective Date, cancelling or extinguishing the limited partnership interests or shares in the Crusader Funds held by Charitable DAF (the “Cancelled DAF Interests,” and together with the Cancelled Highland and Eames Interests, the “Cancelled LP Interests”). Each of the Debtor and Eames acknowledges that the cancellation or extinguishment of the Cancelled LP Interests is intended to implement Sections F.a.v and F.a.x.2 of the Final Award.²

4. The Parties acknowledge that the limited partnership interests or shares in the Crusader Funds held by the following entities and individuals shall not be extinguished pursuant to this Stipulation: Highland Capital Management Multi-Strategy Insurance Dedicated Fund, L.P.; Highland Capital Management Services; Highland 401(k) Plan; Highland 401(k) Plan Retirement Plan and Trust; Highland 401(k) Plan Retirement Plan and Trust II; James Dondero;

and Mark Okada (collectively, the “Retained LP Interests”).

5. Each of the Debtor and Eames acknowledges and agrees that (a) the Crusader Funds have reserved (i) distributions that, absent the Arbitration Award, would have been payable in respect of the Cancelled LP Interests, (ii) funds in respect of Deferred Fees and the Deferred Fee Account that, absent the Debtor’s termination as investment manager for the Crusader Funds and the Arbitration Award, may have been payable to the Debtor in accordance with the Crusader Plan and (iii) certain other monies as to which the Debtor and Eames may have had an interest in the absence of this Stipulation (the reserved distributions and funds described in subparagraphs (i), (ii) and (iii), collectively, the “Reserved Distributions”); (b) the Crusader Funds, after the Stipulation Effective Date, intend to distribute in accordance with the Crusader Plan to the applicable holders of limited partnership interests or shares in the Crusader Funds the Reserved Distributions, and that the Debtor, Eames, and Charitable DAF shall not receive any part of such distribution; and (c) after giving effect to the cancellation or extinguishment of the Cancelled LP Interests, none of the Debtor, Eames, or Charitable DAF shall receive any further distributions, payments or fees from the Crusader Funds, including without limitation the Reserved Distributions, on account of any of the Cancelled LP Interests or any other role or position of the Debtor with respect to the Crusader Funds (including but not limited to its role as the investment manager for the Crusader Funds until August 4, 2016). The Debtor acknowledges and agrees that, beginning as of the Stipulation Effective Date, it will not receive any payments from the Crusader Funds in respect of any Deferred Fees, Distribution Fees, or Management Fees. Without limiting the foregoing, the Parties acknowledge and agree that the funds described in the first sentence of this paragraph include monies held in reserve with respect to the Reserved Distributions, the Deferred Fee Account, any Deferred Fees currently accrued or that might have accrued in the future, any Distribution Fees, and any Management Fees.

6. The Debtor represents that, to its actual knowledge and subject to paragraph 4 above, it does not control any fund, or hold any equity interest in any entity, that holds a claim against the Crusader Funds or the Redeemer Committee (including any claims in respect of the Cornerstone shares held by the Crusader Funds, but excluding, with respect to the Crusader Funds, the right to receive distributions with respect to the Retained LP Interests).

7. On the Stipulation Effective Date, the Amended and Restated Shareholders Agreement, substantially in the form attached as Exhibit A, which shall have been executed by all parties thereto, shall be jointly released by the Parties from escrow and become effective (as executed, the "Cornerstone Shareholders Agreement"). In the event that such fully executed agreement is not released from escrow on the Stipulation Effective Date for any reason other than the Redeemer Committee or the Crusader Funds not authorizing such agreement's release from escrow, then this Stipulation shall be of no force and effect, and this Stipulation (including the agreements and settlements incorporated herein) may not be used by any Party for any purpose.

8. Except as otherwise provided in a plan of reorganization proposed by the Debtor and or other entities and agreed to by the Redeemer Committee, the Debtor shall, in good faith, use commercially reasonable efforts to monetize all shares of capital stock of Cornerstone held by the Debtor, any funds that the Debtor manages, and the Crusader Funds (collectively, the "Cornerstone Shares"), in accordance with the schedule attached hereto as Exhibit B (the "Schedule"), in order to maximize, to the extent possible under the circumstances, the proceeds of such monetization to each such entity. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

9. The Debtor shall instruct the claims agent in the Debtor’s chapter 11 case to adjust the claims register in accordance with this Stipulation.

10. On the Stipulation Effective Date, the following releases shall take effect:

- A. To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, the Debtor, and each Highland Additional Release Party, irrevocably releases, acquits, exonerates, and forever discharges (i) the Redeemer Committee, each of the Crusader Funds, and each of the Crusader Additional Release Parties, and (ii) with respect to each such person set forth in (i) above, such person’s predecessors, successors, assigns and affiliates (whether by operation of law or otherwise), and each of their respective present and former members, officers, directors, employees, managers, financial advisors, attorneys, accountants, investment bankers, consultants, professionals, advisors, shareholders, principals, partners, employees, subsidiaries, divisions, management companies, and other representatives, in each case acting in such capacity, from all manner of actions, whether in law, in equity, or statutory, and whether presently known or unknown, matured or contingent, liquidated or unliquidated, including any claims, defenses, and affirmative defenses which were or could have been asserted with respect to: (a) the Crusader Funds, including but not limited to any claims, defenses, and affirmative defenses which were or could have been brought, or which otherwise concern or are related to: (i) the Arbitration, (ii) the Debtor's service as investment manager or General Partner for the Crusader Funds, (iii) Alvarez & Marsal CRF Management, LLC's service as replacement manager of the Crusader Funds, (iv) House Hanover, LLC, as General Partner of the Crusader Funds, (v) the Cancelled LP Interests, and (vi) any distributions or payments with respect to the Deferred Fee Account, Deferred Fees, Management Fees, Distribution Fees, or Reserved Distributions, and (b) the alleged fraudulent transfers and all other claims asserted by UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (collectively, "UBS") in UBS Securities LLC, et al v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097-2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.) or by UBS in the Debtor's chapter 11 case (collectively, the "UBS Claims"), including but not limited to claims that the Debtor or any Additional Highland Release Party could assert for contribution, indemnity or joint tortfeasor liability in connection with the UBS Claims; provided, however, that such release shall not apply with respect to the obligations of the Redeemer Committee, each of the Crusader Funds, or each of the Crusader Additional Release Parties pursuant to this Stipulation, including Exhibit B hereto, and the Cornerstone Shareholders Agreement.

- B. To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, the Redeemer Committee, each of the Crusader Funds, and each Crusader Additional Release Party irrevocably releases, acquits, exonerates, and forever discharges (i) the Debtor, Eames, and each Highland Additional Release Party, and (ii) with respect to each such person set forth in (i) above, such person's predecessors, successors, assigns and affiliates (whether by operation of law or otherwise), and each of their respective present and former members, officers, directors, employees, managers, financial advisors, attorneys, accountants, investment bankers, consultants, professionals, advisors, shareholders, principals, partners, employees, subsidiaries, divisions, management companies, and other representatives, in each case acting in such capacity, from all manner of actions, whether in law, in equity, or statutory, and whether presently known or unknown, matured or contingent, liquidated or unliquidated, including any claims, defenses, and affirmative defenses which were or could have been asserted with respect to: (a) the Crusader Funds, including but not limited to any claims, defenses, and affirmative defenses which were or could have been brought, or which otherwise concern or are related to: (i) the Arbitration, (ii) the Debtor's service as investment manager or General Partner for the Crusader Funds, (iii) the Cancelled LP Interests, and (iv) any distributions or payments with respect to the Deferred Fee Account, Deferred Fees, Management Fees, Distribution Fees, or Reserved Distributions, and (b) the alleged fraudulent transfers and all other claims asserted by UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (collectively, “UBS”) in UBS Securities LLC, et al v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097-2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.) or by UBS in the Debtor’s chapter 11 case (collectively, the “UBS Claims”), including but not limited to claims that the Redeemer Committee, the Crusader Funds, or any Additional Crusader Release Party could assert for contribution, indemnity or joint tortfeasor liability in connection with the UBS Claims; provided, however, that (I) such release shall not apply with respect to the obligations of the Debtor, Eames, or each of the Highland Additional Release Parties under this Stipulation, including Exhibit B hereto, the allowance of or distributions in respect of Claim 72 and Claim 81, and the Cornerstone Shareholders Agreement; (II) notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, neither James Dondero nor Mark Okada, nor any entities owned or controlled by either of them, other than the Debtor, Eames, and any Highland Additional Release Party solely with respect to such entities and not as to any capacity in which James Dondero or Mark Okada had an interest in or served with respect to such entities, is released from any claims, including without limitation any claims arising from obligations owed to the Debtor; and provided further, and solely for the avoidance of doubt, that none of the releases set forth herein shall impair the right or ability of the applicable holders of Claim 72 or Claim 81 to receive distributions of any kind from the Debtor’s estate in satisfaction of such respective claims in the amounts and on such terms as are provided for herein; and (III) in the event any of the Highland Additional Release Parties fails to execute this Stipulation, this Release is null, void and of no legal effect as to that non-signing Highland Additional Release Party.

11. At present, certain of the Parties are engaged in one or more of the following pending lawsuits and actions: (a) Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., Chancery Court, Delaware, C.A. No. 12533-VCG (the “Delaware Action”); (b) Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund and Highland Capital Management, L.P., Supreme Court of Bermuda, Civil Jurisdiction, Case No. 01-16-0002-6927 (“Bermuda Action No. 1”); (c) Highland Capital Management, L.P. and Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund, Supreme Court of Bermuda, Civil Jurisdiction (Commercial Court), 2017: No. 308 (“Bermuda Action No. 2”); and (d) Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund and Highland Capital Management, L.P., Grand Court of Cayman

Islands, Financial Services Division, Cause No. 153 of 2019 (CRJ) (the “Grand Cayman Action” and together with the Delaware Action and Bermuda Action No. 1, the “Redeemer Actions”). The Parties agree that (1) as of the Stipulation Effective Date, the Redeemer Committee and each of the Crusader Funds covenants not to prosecute, and shall refrain from prosecuting, any of the Redeemer Actions against the Debtor, Eames, or any of the Highland Additional Release Parties, and (2) as soon as reasonably practicable after the Stipulation Effective Date, the Debtor shall cause Bermuda Action No. 2 to be dismissed with prejudice.

12. This Stipulation, together with the Cornerstone Shareholders Agreement and the Schedule, contains the entire agreement between and among the Parties and the Additional Release Parties as to its subject matter and supersedes and replaces any and all prior agreements and undertakings between and among the Parties and the Additional Release Parties relating thereto.

13. This Stipulation may not be modified other than by a signed writing executed by the Parties; provided, however, that paragraphs 10 through 15 may not be modified other than by a signed writing that is also executed by the Additional Release Parties.

14. Each person who executes this Stipulation represents that he or she is duly authorized to do so on behalf of the respective Party or Additional Release Party and that each Party or Additional Release Party has full knowledge and has consented to this Stipulation, provided, however, that (a) the effectiveness of the Debtor’s execution of this Stipulation shall be subject to entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court approving this Stipulation and authorizing the Debtor’s execution thereof, and (b) the Redeemer Committee represents and warrants to the Debtor, Eames, and each of the Highland Additional Release Parties that, in conformity with the Redeemer Committee’s corporate governance documents, at least the minimum number of members of the Redeemer Committee have executed this Stipulation to cause it to be legally binding on the Redeemer Committee.

15. The Debtor shall use commercially reasonable efforts to cause each of the Contingent Parties to execute this Stipulation not later than the date on which the Bankruptcy Court enters an order confirming a plan of reorganization or liquidation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Parties acknowledge and agree that the failure of either or both of the Contingent Parties to execute this Stipulation shall not affect (a) the rights, obligations, or duties of any of the Parties or (b) the enforceability of this Stipulation.

16. Not later than September 23, 2020, the Debtor shall file with the Bankruptcy Court a motion for an order approving this Stipulation, which motion shall be in form and substance satisfactory to the Crusader Funds and the Redeemer Committee, pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019 and section 363 of the Bankruptcy Code.

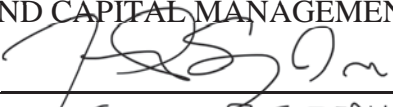

17. This Stipulation may be executed in counterparts (including facsimile and electronic transmission counterparts), each of which will be deemed an original but all of which together constitute one and the same instrument, and shall be effective against a Party or Additional Release Party upon the Stipulation Effective Date.

18. This Stipulation will be exclusively governed by and construed and enforced in accordance with the laws of the State of New York, without regard to its conflicts of law principles, and all claims relating to or arising out of this Stipulation, or the breach thereof, whether sounding in contract, tort, or otherwise, will likewise be governed by the laws of the State of New York, excluding New York's conflicts of law principles. The Bankruptcy Court will retain exclusive jurisdiction over all disputes relating to this Stipulation.

AMENDED & RESTATED STOCKHOLDERS' AGREEMENT

THIS AMENDED & RESTATED STOCKHOLDERS' AGREEMENT (the "Agreement") is made as of the [●] day of [●], 2020 by and among (i) Cornerstone Healthcare Group Holding, Inc., a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), (ii) certain holders of the Company's common stock (the "Common Stock") (each of which is referred to herein as a "Stockholder" and collectively as the "Stockholders"), and (iii) Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("HCMLP"). HCMLP (if and to the extent it is or becomes a Stockholder) and the Stockholders that are affiliates of HCMLP, including any investment funds controlled by or under common control with, or managed directly or indirectly by, HCMLP are collectively referred to herein as "Highland Capital" and are set forth on Schedule A, as it may be updated from time to time. Individual Stockholders that are part of the Highland Capital group of Stockholders are sometimes referred to as a "Highland Capital Stockholders." Any Stockholders other than Highland Capital Stockholders are collectively referred to herein as the "Remaining Stockholders" and are set forth on Schedule B, as it may be updated from time to time. All references in this Agreement to "Crusader" shall mean and include, as the case may be, (x) Highland Crusader Holding Corp., (y) any of its successors or assigns and (y) any purchaser or transferee of any Securities that at any time were held by Highland Crusader Holding Corp. (i.e., any purchaser or transferee of Securities from Highland Crusader Holding Corp. and any subsequent purchasers or transferees of any such Securities).

RECITALS:

WHEREAS, the Company, the Stockholders and HCMLP are parties to that certain Stockholders' Agreement of the Company, dated as of March 24, 2010 (as the same may have been amended, modified or supplemented in accordance with its terms, the "First Stockholders' Agreement").

WHEREAS, the Stockholders hold shares of Common Stock of the Company, and the Stockholders, the Company and HCMLP desire to enter into this Agreement to (i) provide certain rights to, and impose certain restrictions on, the Stockholders and HCMLP with respect to the Common Stock held by them and (ii) amend and modify certain provisions in the First Stockholders' Agreement.

AGREEMENT:

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing premises, the mutual promises and covenants set forth herein, and certain other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

ARTICLE I

TRANSFER RESTRICTIONS; RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL

Section 1.1 Restrictions on Transfer.

(a) Generally. During the term of this Agreement, all of the Common Stock and any other equity securities (collectively, "Securities") now owned or hereafter acquired by any Stockholder shall be subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement. No transfer, whether voluntary or involuntary, of the Securities shall be valid unless it is made pursuant to the terms and conditions of this Agreement; and, accordingly, any proposed transfer not made in compliance with the requirements of this Agreement shall be null and void ab initio, shall not be recorded on the books of the Company or its transfer agent, and shall not be recognized by the Company.

(b) Permitted Transfers. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the first refusal rights and co-sale rights of the Company and Highland Capital, as set forth below in this Article I, shall not apply to (i) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder to any such Stockholder's spouse, parents, siblings (by blood, marriage or adoption) or lineal descendants (by blood, marriage or adoption); (ii) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder to a trust, partnership, corporation, limited liability company or other similar entity owned exclusively by such Stockholder and/or such Stockholder's spouse, parents, siblings (by blood, marriage or adoption) or lineal descendants (by blood, marriage or adoption) for the benefit of such Stockholder or such Stockholder's spouse, parents, siblings or lineal descendants; (iii) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder, or upon a Stockholder's death to the executors, administrators, testamentary trustees, legatees or beneficiaries of such Stockholder; (iv) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder to any person who controls, is controlled by or is under common control with such Stockholder (within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act")); (v) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder pursuant to a bona fide loan transaction which creates a mere security interest in the Securities; (vi) the Securities held Crusader; provided, however, that in each such case, each transferee, pledgee, donee, heir or distributee shall, as a condition precedent to such transfer, become a party to this Agreement by executing an Adoption Agreement substantially in the form attached as Annex A and shall have all of the rights and obligations set forth hereunder, and all interests in any trust, partnership, corporation, limited liability company or other similar entity to which any Securities are transferred shall themselves be deemed Securities and shall be subject to all of the provisions hereof. Such transferred Securities shall remain "Securities" hereunder, and such transferee shall be treated as a "Stockholder" for the purposes of this Agreement. Any purported transfers made in violation of this Section 1.1(b) shall be void.

(c) Company Repurchase or Public Offering. The provisions of this Agreement shall not apply to the sale of any Securities (i) to the public pursuant to a registration statement filed with, and declared effective by, the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") under the Securities Act or (ii) to the Company.

(d) Prohibited Transferees. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement to the contrary, no Remaining Stockholder shall transfer any Target Shares to (a) any entity which, in the good faith and reasonable determination of the Company's Board of Directors, directly competes with the Company or (b) any customer, distributor or supplier of the Company, if the Company's Board of Directors should determine in good faith and reasonably that such transfer would result in such customer, distributor or supplier receiving information that would place the Company at a material competitive disadvantage with respect to such customer, distributor or supplier.

Section 1.2 Right of First Refusal.

(a) Grant of Right of First Refusal. Subject to the terms hereof, the Company and, to the extent such right is waived by the Company, HCMLP, on behalf of itself and Highland Capital (and, as provided below, each ROFR Participant) are each hereby granted a right of first refusal with respect to any proposed disposition of any Securities held by any Remaining Stockholder (except for a permitted transfer of the Securities under Section 1.1(b) hereof), in the following order of priority:

(i) The Company shall have the first right to purchase any Target Shares (as defined below). In the event the Company elects not to exercise first refusal rights with respect to all or any portion of such Target Shares, the Company agrees to waive such rights with respect to such portion of Target Shares in favor of Highland Capital's first refusal rights under this Agreement.

(ii) If the Company waives its first refusal rights pursuant to Section 1.2(a)(i), Highland Capital shall have the next right to purchase any remaining Target Shares. HCMLP, in its sole discretion, shall have the right to assign and apportion the rights of first refusal hereby granted among itself and investment funds comprising Highland Capital, which need not be Stockholders or parties to this Agreement at that time, in any proportion it deems suitable (the actual participants, including any individuals or entities assigned such rights, each being a "Highland ROFR Participant" and, together with the Company, each a "ROFR Participant"); provided that each such Highland ROFR Participant is an "accredited investor" within the meaning of Rule 501 of Regulation D of the Securities Act; and provided further that any Highland ROFR Participant that is not then a party to this Agreement shall be required to become a party to this Agreement by executing an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A. In the event that HCMLP does not specify an allocation for ROFR Participants, then each Highland Capital Stockholder shall have the right to purchase up to that number of remaining Target Shares equal to the product of (A) the number of remaining Target Shares multiplied by (B) a fraction, (x) the numerator of which shall be the number of shares of Common Stock owned by such Highland Capital Stockholder (assuming full conversion and exercise of all convertible and exercisable securities into Common Stock held by such Highland Capital Stockholder) and (y) the denominator of which shall be the number of shares of Common Stock owned by all of the Highland Capital Stockholders (assuming full conversion and exercise of all convertible and exercisable securities into Common Stock).

(iii) In the event that HCMLP (or the Highland ROFR Participants as its designated assignee(s)) elects not to exercise first refusal rights with respect to all or any portion of such Target Shares, Highland Capital agrees to waive such rights with respect to such portion.

(b) Notice of Intended Disposition. In the event a Remaining Stockholder desires to accept a written, bona fide third-party offer for the transfer of any or all of the Securities held by such Remaining Stockholder (in such capacity such Remaining Stockholder shall be referred to as a "Selling Stockholder" and the shares subject to such offer to be referred to as the "Target Shares"), the Selling Stockholder shall promptly deliver to the Company and HCMLP written notice of the intended disposition ("Disposition Notice") and the basic terms and conditions thereof, including the identity of the proposed purchaser.

(c) Exercise of First Refusal Right. The Company shall, for a period of thirty (30) days following receipt of the Disposition Notice, have the right to purchase all or any portion of the Target Shares:

(i) The Company's right shall be exercisable by written notice (the "Exercise Notice") delivered to the Selling Stockholder and HCMLP prior to the expiration of the thirty (30) day exercise period. If such right is exercised with respect to all the Target Shares specified in the Disposition Notice, then the Company shall effect the purchase of such Target Shares, including payment of the purchase price, not more than five (5) business days after the delivery of the Exercise Notice. At such time, the Selling Stockholder shall deliver to the Company the certificates representing the Target Shares to be purchased, each certificate to be properly endorsed for transfer.

(ii) Alternatively, if the Company exercises such rights with respect to only a portion of the Target Shares specified in the Disposition Notice, the Company shall notify HCMLP of its intent to purchase only a portion of the Target Shares within the thirty (30) day exercise period above defined. The Company's purchase of such Target Shares shall be consummated at the time of HCMLP's exercise of its purchase rights in accordance with Section 1.2(e) hereof, if such rights are exercised. In the event HCMLP does not elect to purchase any of the remaining Target Shares, the Company's purchase of that portion of the Target Shares that it desires to purchase shall be consummated not more than five (5) business days after the date of expiration of HCMLP's first refusal right. The purchasing party under this Section 1.2 is referred to herein as the "ROFR Purchaser."

(iii) Should the purchase price specified in the Disposition Notice be payable in property other than cash or evidences of indebtedness, the ROFR Purchaser shall have the right to pay the purchase price in the form of cash equal in amount to the value of such property. If the Selling Stockholder and the ROFR Purchaser cannot agree on such cash value within fifteen (15) days after receipt of the Disposition Notice (or, in the event HCMLP is the ROFR Purchaser, within fifteen (15) days after the Company's waiver of its first refusal rights hereunder, the valuation shall be determined by the Company's Board of Directors (the "Board") in its good faith discretion. The closing shall then be held on the later of (A) the fifth business day following the delivery of the Exercise Notice, or (B) the fifth business day after such cash valuation shall have been made.

(d) Non-Exercise of Right by the Company. In the event the Exercise Notice is not given to the Selling Stockholder and HCMLP within thirty (30) days following the date of the Company's receipt of the Disposition Notice, the Company shall be deemed to have waived its right of first refusal with respect to such proposed disposition.

(e) Exercise of Right by HCMLP. Subject to the rights of the Company, for a period ending on the earlier of (a) sixty (60) days following receipt of the Disposition Notice or (b) thirty (30) days following receipt of written notice of the Company's election either to waive its right of first refusal or to purchase only a portion of the Target Shares, HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(a)(ii)) shall have the right to purchase all, or any portion of the remaining balance after the Company's purchase, of the Target Shares, upon the terms and conditions specified in the Disposition Notice. The Highland ROFR Participants shall exercise this right of first refusal in the same manner and subject to the same rights and conditions as the Company, as more specifically set forth in Section 1.2(c) above.

(f) Non-Exercise of Right by HCMLP: Subsequent Sales, Void Transfers. In the event an Exercise Notice with respect to all of the Target Shares is not given to the Selling Stockholder by the Company and/or HCMLP within sixty (60) days following the date of receipt of the Disposition Notice, the Selling Stockholder shall have a period of sixty (60) days thereafter in which to sell the portion of the Target Shares that the ROFR Participants have not elected to purchase upon terms and conditions (including the purchase price and the form of consideration therefor) no more favorable to the third-party transferee than those specified in the Disposition Notice; provided, however, that the Selling Stockholder must first offer the Target Shares for co-sale pursuant to Section 1.3 hereof. Any transfer in violation of this Section 1.2 shall be void. Such transferred Securities shall remain “Securities” hereunder, and such transferee shall be treated as a “Stockholder” for the purposes of this Agreement, in the capacity of Highland Capital or a Remaining Stockholder, as applicable. In the event the Selling Stockholder does not notify the Company or consummate the sale or disposition of the Target Shares within such sixty (60) day period, HCMLP’s and the Company’s first refusal rights shall continue to be applicable to any subsequent disposition of the Target Shares by the Selling Stockholder until such right lapses or terminates in accordance with Section 6.1 hereof.

(g) Violation of First Refusal Right. If any Selling Stockholder becomes obligated to sell any Target Shares to the Company or HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(ii)) under this Agreement and fails to deliver such Target Shares in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, the Company and/or HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(ii)) may, at its option, in addition to all other remedies it may have, send to such Selling Stockholder the purchase price for such Target Shares as is herein specified and transfer to the name of the Company or HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(ii)) (or request that the Company effect such transfer in the name of HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(ii)) on the Company’s books the certificate or certificates representing the Target Shares to be sold. Such Selling Stockholder shall also reimburse HCMLP and each ROFR Participant for any and all reasonable and documented out-of-pocket fees and expenses, including reasonable legal fees and expenses, incurred pursuant to the exercise or the attempted exercise of the ROFR Participants’ rights under this Section 1.3.

(h) Application of Co-Sale Right. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Section 1.2 Target Shares may be sold to a third party transferee (other than the Company or Highland Capital) if and only if the Selling Stockholder first complies with the co-sale procedures set forth in Section 1.3, and some or all of the Target Shares remain available for sale following the application of Section 1.3.

Section 1.3 Co-Sale Rights.

(a) Notice of Offer. The provisions of Section 1.2(b) requiring the Selling Stockholder to give notice of any intended transfer of the Securities are incorporated in this Section 1.3.

(b) Grant of Co-Sale Rights.

(i) If (i) any such proposed disposition of Target Shares is being made by the Selling Stockholder and (ii) the rights of first refusal of the Company and HCMLP have been waived or have lapsed, in full or in part with respect to such proposed disposition, the Co-Sale Participant (as defined herein) shall have the right, exercisable upon written notice to the Selling Stockholder within thirty (30) days after receipt of the Disposition Notice, to participate in such sale of the Target Shares on the same terms and conditions as those set forth in the Disposition Notice. As used herein, “Co-Sale Participant” shall mean (x) in the event Highland Capital holds or otherwise controls a majority of the issued and outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company, the Highland Capital entities designated by HCMLP as provided below, or (y) in the event Highland Capital does not hold or otherwise control a majority of the issued and outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company, each non-Selling Stockholder. To the extent any Co-Sale Participant exercises such right of participation, the number of shares of Target Shares that the Selling Stockholder may sell in the transaction shall be correspondingly reduced. The right of participation of the Co-Sale Participants shall be subject to the terms and conditions set forth in this Section 1.3.

(ii) Each Co-Sale Participant may sell all or any part of a number of shares of the capital stock of the Company held by such Co-Sale Participant equal to the product obtained by multiplying (i) the aggregate number of Target Shares covered by the Disposition Notice that neither the Company nor Highland Capital have elected to purchase pursuant to Section 1.2 by (ii) a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of shares of Common Stock of the Company at the time owned by such Co-Sale Participant (assuming for the purposes of this calculation that all shares held by Highland Capital are held by HCMLP) and the denominator of which is the combined number of shares of Common Stock of the Company at the time deemed owned by the Selling Stockholder and all of the Co-Sale Participants that desire to exercise their rights of co-sale. Notwithstanding the foregoing, HCMLP, in its sole discretion, shall have the right to assign and apportion the rights of first refusal hereby granted among itself and investment funds comprising Highland Capital, which need not be Stockholders or parties to this Agreement at that time, in any proportion it deems suitable; provided that each such Highland Capital Co-Sale Participant is an “accredited investor” within the meaning of Rule 501 of Regulation D of the Securities Act; and provided further that any Highland Capital Co-Sale Participant that is not then a party to this Agreement shall be required to become a party to this Agreement by executing an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A.

(iii) Each Co-Sale Participant may effect its participation in the sale by delivering to the Selling Stockholder for transfer to the purchase offeror one or more certificates, properly endorsed for transfer, which represent the number of shares of Common Stock that it elects to sell pursuant to this Section 1.3(h).

(c) Payment of Proceeds. The stock certificates that the Co-Sale Participants deliver to the Selling Stockholder pursuant to Section 1.3(b) shall be transferred by the Selling Stockholder to the purchase offeror in consummation of the sale of the Common Stock pursuant to the terms and conditions specified in the notice to the Company and HCMLP (and, if applicable, the Remaining Stockholders) pursuant to Section 1.2(b), and the Selling Stockholder shall promptly thereafter remit to the Co-Sale Participants that portion of the sale proceeds to which the Investors are entitled by reason of their participation in such sale. To the extent that any prospective purchaser or purchasers refuses to purchase shares or other securities from an Co-Sale Participant exercising its rights of co-sale hereunder, the Selling Stockholder shall not sell to such prospective purchaser or purchasers any Securities unless and until, simultaneously with such sale, the Selling Stockholder purchases such shares or other securities from such Co-Sale Participant for the same consideration and on the same terms and conditions as the proposed transfer described in the Disposition Notice.

(d) Non-exercise. The exercise or non-exercise of the rights of the Co-Sale Participants hereunder to participate in one or more sales of Common Stock made by the Selling Stockholder shall not adversely affect their rights to participate in subsequent Common Stock sales by any Selling Stockholder.

(e) Violation of Co-Sale Right. If any Selling Stockholder purports to sell any Target Shares in contravention of this Section 1.3 (a “Prohibited Transfer”), each Co-Sale Participant may, in addition to such remedies as may be available by law, in equity or hereunder, require Selling Stockholder to purchase from such Co-Sale Participant the type and number of Securities that such Co-Sale Participant would have been entitled to sell under Section 1.3(b)(ii) had the Prohibited Transfer been effected pursuant to and in compliance with the terms of Section 1.3. The sale will be made on the same terms and subject to the same conditions as would have applied had the Selling Stockholder not made the Prohibited Transfer, except that the sale (including, without limitation, the delivery of the purchase price) must be made within ninety (90) days after the Co-Sale Participant learns of the Prohibited Transfer. Such Selling Stockholder shall also reimburse HCMLP and each Co-Sale Participant for any and all reasonable and documented out-of-pocket fees and expenses, including reasonable legal fees and expenses, incurred pursuant to the exercise or the attempted exercise of the Co-Sale Participants’ rights under this Section 1.3.

Section 1.4 Market Stand-Off Agreement.

(a) In connection with any underwritten public offering by the Company of its equity securities pursuant to an effective registration statement filed under the Securities Act, including the first bona fide firm commitment underwritten public offering of the Company’s Common Stock registered under the Securities Act on Form S-1 or Form SB-2 (or any successor form designated by the SEC) (the “Initial Public Offering”), the Remaining Stockholders (each, an “Owner”) shall not (i) lend, offer, pledge, sell, contract to sell, sell any option or contract to purchase, purchase any option or contract to sell, grant any option, right or warrant to purchase, or otherwise transfer or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any securities of the Company, including (without limitation) shares of Common Stock or any securities convertible into or exercisable or exchangeable for Common Stock (whether now owned or hereafter acquired) or (ii) enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of any securities of the Company, including (without limitation) shares of Common Stock or any securities convertible into or exercisable or exchangeable for Common Stock (whether now owned or hereafter acquired), whether any such transaction described in clause (i) or (ii) above is to be settled by delivery of securities, in cash or otherwise without the prior written consent of the Company or its underwriters; provided that all executive officers, directors and greater than 5% stockholders (including, if applicable, HCMLP

and Highland Capital) are subject to similar restrictions. Such restriction (the “Market Stand-Off”) shall be in effect for such period of time from and after the effective date of the final prospectus for the offering as may be requested by the Company or such underwriters. In no event, however, shall such period exceed one hundred eighty (180) days (the “Lock-Up Period”), and the Market Stand-Off shall in no event be applicable to any underwritten public offering effected more than two (2) years after the effective date of the Company’s initial public offering.

(b) Any new, substituted or additional securities which are by reason of any recapitalization or reorganization distributed with respect to the Common Stock to be registered shall be immediately subject to the Market Stand-Off, to the same extent the Common Stock is at such time covered by such provisions.

(c) In order to enforce the Market Stand-Off, the Company may impose stop-transfer instructions with respect to the Common Stock until the end of the applicable stand-off period.

Section 2.1 Grant of Right of First Offer. Each time the Company proposes to offer (i) any shares of, or securities convertible into or exercisable for any shares of, any class of its capital stock (“equity securities”), or (ii) any debt securities (collectively, the “First Offer Securities”), the Company shall first offer to Highland Capital the right and opportunity (but not the obligation) to purchase the First Offer Securities proposed to be issued in such offering in accordance with the provisions of this Article IV. HCMLP, in its sole discretion, shall have the right to assign and apportion the rights of first refusal hereby granted among itself and investment funds comprising Highland Capital, which need not be parties to this Agreement at that time (the actual participants, including any individuals or entities assigned such rights, each being a “Purchaser”); provided that each such Purchaser is an “accredited investor” within the meaning of Rule 501 of Regulation D of the Securities Act; and provided further that any such Purchaser that is not then a party to this Agreement shall be required to become a party to this Agreement by executing an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A.

Section 2.2 Procedure for Exercise. The Company shall deliver notice (the “Offer Notice”) to HCMLP stating (a) the number and description of the First Offer Securities to be offered in the applicable offering and (b) the price and terms, if any, upon which it proposes to offer such First Offer Securities. Within 30 days after giving of the Offer Notice, the Purchasers may elect to purchase, at the price and on the terms specified in the Offer Notice, such First Offer Securities, in the amounts designated by HCMLP. The Purchasers shall exercise the rights under this section by paying the purchase price for the First Offer Securities elected to be purchased in cash or by wire transfer of immediately available funds. As promptly as practicable on or after the purchase date, the Company shall issue and deliver to the Purchasers a certificate or certificates for the number of full shares or amount, whichever is applicable, of First Offer Securities.

Section 2.3 Excluded Issuances. The rights of first offer set forth in this section shall not be applicable to the following (collectively, the “Excluded Issuances”): (A) in the case of equity securities, (i) the issuance of shares of capital stock (or any cash-settled “phantom units” or similar equity-linked or equity-based incentive plans or agreement structures, the value of which is based on the Company’s Common Stock (collectively, “phantom units”)) of the Company issued or issuable solely for compensatory purposes, to directors, officers, employees or consultants of the Company, whether directly (as Common Stock, options or phantom units) or pursuant to an equity incentive plan or agreement or a restricted stock plan or agreement, in each case approved by the Board; (ii) the issuance of shares of capital stock of the Company in connection with stock splits, stock dividends, recapitalizations or the like; (iii) the issuance of shares of capital stock in connection with a bona fide business acquisition or license of technology of or by the Company, whether by license, merger, consolidation, sale of assets, sale or exchange of stock or otherwise that are not issued primarily for equity financing purposes, in each case as approved by the Board; (iv) the issuance of shares of capital stock of the Company in connection with corporate partnering transactions, business relationships and similar transactions that are not issued primarily for equity financing purposes, in each case as approved by the Board; or (v) the issuance of shares of capital stock to financial institutions in connection with bona fide Commercial Debt (as defined below) arrangements (including issuances, extensions, renewals, modifications and waivers), in each case approved by the Company’s Board of Directors; and (B) in the case of debt securities, shall not be deemed to include debt issued to NexBank, SSB and other banks, commercial finance lenders, insurance companies, leasing or equipment financing institutions or other lending institutions regularly engaged in the business of lending money (excluding venture capital, private equity, investment banking or similar institutions which sometimes engage in lending activities but which are primarily engaged in investments in equity securities), which is for money borrowed, or purchase or leasing of equipment in the case of lease or other equipment financing, whether or not secured, and in any such instance is not primarily for equity financing purposes (“Commercial Debt”), in each such case approved by the Board of Directors of the Company,

Section 2.4 Sale to Third Parties. The Company shall, after complying with its obligations under Section 2.1, be free at any time prior to 90 days after the date of the Offer Notice, to offer and sell to any third party or parties the remainder of such First Offer Securities proposed to be issued by the Company at a price and on payment terms no less favorable to the Company than those specified in the Offer Notice. However, if such third party sale or sales are not consummated within such 90-day period, or if the terms of any such proposed sale are modified in a manner more favorable to the proposed purchaser (whether with respect to price or any other term) than offered to HCMLP pursuant to Section 2.1, the Company shall not sell such First Offer Securities as shall not have been purchased within such period without again complying with Section 2.1 hereof.

REGISTRATION RIGHTS

Section 3.1 Definitions. For purposes of this Article III.

(a) “Certificate of Incorporation” shall mean the Company’s Certificate of Incorporation as in effect as of the date hereof and as amended and restated from time to time.

(b) “Change in Control” shall mean (A) the acquisition of the Company by means of any transaction or series of related transactions (including, without limitation, any stock purchase transaction, merger, consolidation or other form of reorganization in which outstanding shares of the Company are exchanged for securities or other consideration issued, or caused to be issued, by the acquiring entity or its subsidiary, but excluding (i) any transaction effected for the purpose of changing the Company’s jurisdiction of incorporation and (ii) the sale by the Company of shares of its capital stock to investors in bona fide equity financing transactions), unless securities representing more than fifty percent (50%) of the total combined voting power of the voting securities of the surviving or acquiring entity or its direct or indirect parent entity are immediately thereafter beneficially owned, directly or indirectly and in substantially the same proportion, by the Company’s stockholders of record as constituted immediately prior to such transaction or series of related transactions and (B) a sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Company in a single transaction or series of related transactions. In no event shall any public offering of the Company’s securities be deemed to constitute a Change in Control.

(c) “Exchange Act” shall mean the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended.

(d) “Form S-3” shall mean such form under the Securities Act as in effect on the date hereof or any registration forms under the Securities Act subsequently adopted by the SEC that permit inclusion or incorporation of substantial information by reference to other documents filed by the Company with the SEC.

(e) “Holder” shall mean any person owning or having the right to acquire Registrable Securities or any assignee thereof in accordance with Section 3.13 hereof.

(f) The terms “register,” “registered” and “registration” refer to a registration effected by preparing and filing a registration statement or similar document in compliance with the Securities Act, and the declaration or ordering of effectiveness of such registration statement or document.

(g) “Registrable Securities” shall mean, only with respect to equity securities held by Highland Capital, the Common Stock and any shares of Common Stock of the Company issued as (or issuable upon the conversion or exercise of any warrant, right or other security which is issued as) a dividend or other distribution with respect to, or in exchange for or in replacement of such shares; excluding in all cases, however, any Registrable Securities sold by a Holder in a transaction in which his rights under this Article III are not assigned.

(h) The number of shares of “Registrable Securities then outstanding” shall be equal to the number of shares of Common Stock then issued and outstanding which are, and the number of shares of Common Stock then issuable pursuant to then exercisable or convertible securities which are, Registrable Securities.

(i) “Rule 144” means Rule 144 as promulgated by the SEC under the Securities Act, as such Rule may be amended from time to time, or any similar successor rule that may be promulgated by the SEC.

(j) “Rule 145” means Rule 145 as promulgated by the SEC under the Securities Act, as such Rule may be amended from time to time, or any similar successor rule that may be promulgated by the SEC.

Section 3.2 Request for Registration.

(a) At any time, HCMLP, on behalf of Highland Capital, may request that the Company effect a registration under the Securities Act of all or any part of the Registrable Securities held by Highland Capital (each, a “Demand Registration”), subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement. Any request (a “Registration Request”) for a Demand Registration shall specify (A) the approximate number of shares of Registrable Securities requested to be registered and (B) the intended method of distribution of such shares. Within twenty (20) days of the receipt of the Registration Request, the Company will use its best efforts to effect as soon as practicable (and in any event within ninety (90) days of the date such request is given) the registration under the Securities Act requested and will include in such registration all shares of Registrable Securities that holders of Registrable Securities request the Company to include in such registration by written notice given to the Company within twenty (20) days after the Company’s sends such notice (subject to underwriter cut-backs as provided in this Agreement).

(b) Without the prior written consent of HCMLP, the Company will not include in any Demand Registration any securities other than (a) Registrable Securities, (b) shares of stock pursuant to Section 3.3 hereof, and (c) securities to be registered for offering and sale on behalf of the Company. If the managing underwriter(s) advise the Company in writing that in their opinion the number of shares of Registrable Securities and, if permitted hereunder, other securities in such offering, exceeds the number of shares of Registrable Securities and other securities, if any, which can be sold in an orderly manner in such offering within a price range acceptable to the holders of a majority of the shares of Registrable Securities held by Holders initially requesting registration, the Company will include in such registration, prior to the inclusion of any securities which are not shares of Registrable Securities, the number of shares of Registrable Securities requested to be included that in the opinion of such underwriters can be sold in an orderly manner within the price range acceptable to the Holders of a majority of the shares of Registrable Securities initially requesting registration, subject to the following order of priority: (A) first, the securities requested to be included therein by the Holders, pro rata among the holders thereof on the basis of the number of shares of Registrable Securities such holders requested to be included in such registration or apportioned among them in any other manner in which HCMLP determines to be appropriate in its sole discretion; (B) second, the securities requested to be included therein by the Company; and (C) third, among persons not contractually entitled to registration rights under this Agreement.

(c) If HCMLP indicates that the Holders on whose behalf it is initiating the Registration Request hereunder (the “Initiating Holders”) intend to distribute the Registrable Securities covered by their request by means of an underwriting, they shall so advise the Company as a part of their request made pursuant to Section 3.2 and the Company shall include such information in the written notice referred to in Section 3.2. The underwriter will be selected by HCMLP and shall be reasonably acceptable to the Board, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned or delayed. All Holders proposing to distribute their securities through such underwriting shall (together with the Company as provided in Section 3.4(e)) enter into an underwriting agreement in customary form with the underwriter or underwriters selected for such underwriting.

(d) Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the Company shall furnish to HCMLP a certificate signed by the President of the Company stating that in the good faith judgment of the Board of Directors of the Company it would be seriously detrimental to the Company and its stockholders for such registration statement to be filed and it is, therefore, essential to defer the filing of such registration statement, the Company shall have the right to defer taking action with respect to such filing for a period of not more than one hundred twenty (120) days after receipt of the request of the Initiating Holders; provided, however, that the Company may not utilize this right more than once in any twelve (12) month period.

(e) In addition, the Company shall not be obligated to effect, or to take any action to effect, any registration pursuant to this Section 3.2:

(i) after the Company has effected three (3) Demand Registrations pursuant to this Section 3.2 and such registrations have been declared or ordered effective;

(ii) during the period starting with the date sixty (60) days prior to the Company's good faith estimate of the date of filing of, and ending on a date one hundred eighty (180) days after the effective date of, a registration subject to Section 3.3 or Section 3.11 hereof, provided that the Company is actively employing its commercially reasonable efforts to cause such registration statement to become effective; provided, however, that the Company may not utilize this right more than once in any twelve-month period;

(iii) if the Initiating Holders propose to dispose of shares of Registrable Securities that may be immediately registered on Form S-3 pursuant to a request made pursuant to Section 3.11 below; or

(iv) in any particular jurisdiction in which the Company would be required to qualify to do business or to execute a general consent to service of process in effecting such registration, qualification or compliance unless the Company is already subject to service in such jurisdiction and except as may be required by the Securities Act.

(a) If, but without any obligation to do so, the Company proposes to register (including for this purpose a registration initiated by the Company for itself or for the Holders or stockholders other than the Holders) any of its stock or other securities under the Securities Act in connection with the public offering of such securities solely for cash (other than a registration relating solely to employee benefit plans, or a registration relating solely to a SEC Rule 145 transaction, or a registration on any registration form which does not permit secondary sales or does not include substantially the same information as would be required to be included in a registration statement covering the Registrable Securities) the Company shall, at such time, promptly give each Holder written notice of such registration. Upon the written request of HCMLP given within fifteen (15) days after delivery of such notice by the Company, the Company shall cause to be registered under the Securities Act all of the Registrable Securities that HCMLP has requested to be registered on behalf of Highland Capital.

(b) If a registration subject to Section 3.3 relates to an underwritten public offering of equity securities and the managing underwriters advise the Company that in their opinion the number of securities requested to be included in such registration exceeds the number that can be sold in an orderly manner in such offering within a price range acceptable to the Holders initially requesting such registration, the Company will include in such registration (i) first, the Registrable Securities requested to be included in such registration by Highland Capital, allocated pro rata among the holders thereof on the basis of the total number of shares of Registrable Securities such Holder requested to be included in such registration or apportioned among them in any other manner in which HCMLP determines to be appropriate in its sole discretion; (ii) second, the securities requested to be included therein by the Company if the Company has initiated the registration; and (iii) third, among persons not contractually entitled to registration rights under this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the amount of Registrable Securities of Highland Capital included in the offering shall not be reduced below thirty percent (30%) of the total amount of securities included in such offering. In connection with any offering involving an underwriting of shares of the Company's capital stock, the Company shall not be required to include any of the Holders' securities in such underwriting unless they accept the terms of the underwriting as agreed upon between the Company and the underwriters selected by it (or by other persons entitled to select the underwriters). All Holders proposing to distribute their securities through such underwriting shall (together with the Company as provided in Section 3.4(e)) enter into an underwriting agreement in customary form with the underwriter or underwriters selected for such underwriting.

Section 3.4 Obligations of the Company. Whenever required under this Article III to effect the registration of any Registrable Securities, the Company shall, as expeditiously as reasonably possible:

(a) Prepare and file with the SEC a registration statement with respect to such Registrable Securities and use its commercially reasonable efforts to cause such registration statement to become effective within sixty (60) days of a request for registration pursuant to Section 3.2 and Section 3.11 and such registration statement shall remain effective until the earlier to occur of (i) one-hundred-eighty (180) days after the date such registration statement was declared effective or (ii) until the distribution contemplated in such registration statement has been completed; provided, however, that such one-hundred-eighty (180) day period shall be extended for a period of time equal to the period the Holder refrains from selling any securities included in such registration at the request of an underwriter of Common Stock (or other securities) of the Company.

(b) Prepare and file with the SEC such amendments and supplements to such registration statement and the prospectus used in connection with such registration statement as may be necessary to comply with the provisions of the Securities Act with respect to the disposition of all securities covered by such registration statement.

(c) Furnish to the Holders such numbers of copies of a prospectus, including a preliminary prospectus, in conformity with the requirements of the Securities Act, and such other documents as they may reasonably request in order to facilitate the disposition of Registrable Securities owned by them.

(d) Use its best efforts to register and qualify the securities covered by such registration statement under such other securities or blue sky laws of such jurisdictions as shall be reasonably requested by the Holders; provided that the Company shall not be required in connection therewith or as a condition thereto to qualify to do business or to file a general consent to service of process in any such states or jurisdictions.

(e) In the event of any underwritten public offering, enter into and perform its obligations under an underwriting agreement, in usual and customary form, with the managing underwriter of such offering. Each Holder participating in such underwriting shall also enter into and perform its obligations under such an agreement.

(f) Notify each Holder of Registrable Securities covered by such registration statement at any time when a prospectus relating thereto is required to be delivered under the Securities Act of the happening of any event as a result of which the prospectus included in such registration statement, as then in effect, includes an untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state a material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein of misleading in the light of the circumstances then existing.

(g) Cause all such Registrable Securities registered pursuant hereunder to be listed on each securities exchange or nationally recognized quotation system on which similar securities issued by the Company are then listed.

(h) Provide a transfer agent and registrar for all Registrable Securities registered pursuant hereunder and a CUSIP number for all such Registrable Securities not later than the effective date of such registration.

(i) Use its best efforts to cause to be furnished, at the request of at least a majority of the Holders participating in the registration, on the date that such Registrable Securities are delivered to the underwriters for sale, if such securities are being sold through underwriters, or, if such securities are not being sold through underwriters, on the date that the registration statement with respect to such securities becomes effective, (i) an opinion, dated such date, of the counsel representing the Company for purposes of such registration, in form and substance as is customarily given to underwriters in an underwritten public offering, addressed to the underwriters, if any, and (ii) a letter dated such date, from the independent certified public accountants of the Company, in form and substance as is customarily given by independent certified public accountants to underwriters in connection with an underwritten public offering, addressed to the underwriters, if any.

(j) Make available for inspection by each Holder of Registrable Securities, any underwriter and any attorney, accountant, or other agent retained by such Holder or underwriter, all financial and other records, pertinent corporate documents and properties of the Company and cause the Company's officers, directors, and employees to supply all information

Section 3.5 Furnish Information. It shall be a condition precedent to the obligations of the Company to take any action pursuant to this Article III with respect to the Registrable Securities of any selling Holder that such Holder shall furnish to the Company such information regarding such Holder, the Registrable Securities held by such Holder, and the intended method of disposition of such securities as shall be required by the Company or the managing underwriters, if any, to effect the registration of such Holder's Registrable Securities.

Section 3.6 Expenses of Demand Registration. All expenses, other than underwriting discounts and commissions, incurred in connection with registrations, filings or qualifications pursuant to Section 3.2(a), including (without limitation) all registration, filing and qualification fees, printers' and accounting fees, fees and disbursements of counsel for the Company and the reasonable fees and disbursements of counsel for the selling Holders shall be borne by the Company, including, without limitation, all such expenses incurred with respect to a registration request subsequently withdrawn by the Holders, regardless of whether such withdrawal was a result of a material adverse change in the condition (financial or otherwise), business or prospects of the Company from that known to the Holders at the time of the request or otherwise.

Section 3.7 Expenses of Company Registration. All expenses, other than underwriting discounts and commissions relating to Registrable Securities, incurred in connection with registrations, filings or qualifications pursuant to Section 3.3 for each Holder, including (without limitation) all registration, filing and qualification fees, printers' and accounting fees, fees and disbursements of counsel for the Company and the reasonable fees and disbursements of counsel for the selling Holders shall be borne by the Company.

Section 3.8 Delay of Registration. No Holder shall have any right to obtain or seek an injunction restraining or otherwise delaying any such registration as the result of any controversy that might arise with respect to the interpretation or implementation of this Article III.

Section 3.9 Indemnification. In the event any Registrable Securities are included in a registration statement under this Article III:

(a) To the extent permitted by law, the Company will indemnify and hold harmless each Holder, the partners, members, officers, and directors of each Holder (including HCMLP), any underwriter (as defined in the Securities Act) for such Holder and each person, if any, who controls such Holder or underwriter within the meaning of the Securities Act or the Exchange Act, against any losses, claims, damages, or liabilities (joint or several) to which they may become subject under the Securities Act, the Exchange Act or other federal or state law, insofar as such losses, claims, damages, or liabilities (or actions in respect thereto) arise out of or are based upon any of the following statements, omissions or violations (each, a "Violation"): (i) any untrue statement or alleged untrue statement of a material fact contained in such registration statement, including any preliminary prospectus or final prospectus contained therein or any amendments or supplements thereto, (ii) the omission or alleged omission to state therein a material fact required to be stated therein, or necessary to make the statements therein not misleading, or (iii) any violation or alleged violation by the Company of the Securities Act, the

Exchange Act, any state securities law or any rule or regulation promulgated under the Securities Act, the Exchange Act or any state securities law; and the Company will pay to each such Holder, underwriter or controlling person, as incurred, any legal or other expenses reasonably incurred by them in connection with investigating or defending any such loss, claim, damage, liability, or action; provided, however, that the indemnity agreement contained in this Section 3.9(a) shall not apply to amounts paid in settlement of any such loss, claim, damage, liability, or action if such settlement is effected without the consent of the Company (which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned or delayed), nor shall the Company be liable in any such case for any such loss, claim, damage, liability, or action to the extent that it arises out of or is based upon a Violation which occurs in reliance upon and in conformity with written information furnished by any such Holder, underwriter or controlling person expressly for use in connection with such registration.

(b) To the extent permitted by law, each selling Holder will indemnify and hold harmless the Company, each of its directors, each of its officers who has signed the registration statement, each person, if any, who controls the Company within the meaning of the Securities Act, any underwriter, any other Holder selling securities in such registration statement and any controlling person of any such underwriter or other Holder, against any losses, claims, damages, or liabilities (joint or several) to which any of the foregoing persons may become subject, under the Securities Act, the Exchange Act or other federal or state law, insofar as such losses, claims, damages, or liabilities (or actions in respect thereto) arise out of or are based upon any Violation, in each case to the extent (and only to the extent) that such Violation occurs in reliance upon and in conformity with written information furnished by such Holder expressly for use in connection with such registration; and each such Holder will pay, as incurred, any legal or other expenses reasonably incurred by any person intended to be indemnified pursuant to this Section 3.9(b), in connection with investigating or defending any such loss, claim, damage, liability, or action; provided, however, that the indemnity agreement contained in this Section 3.9(b), shall not apply to amounts paid in settlement of any such loss, claim, damage, liability or action if such settlement is effected without the consent of the Holder (which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned or delayed); provided, however, that in no event shall any indemnity under this Section 3.9(b) exceed the net proceeds from the offering received by such Holder.

(c) Promptly after receipt by an indemnified party under this Section 3.9 of notice of the commencement of any action (including any governmental action), such indemnified party will, if a claim in respect thereof is to be made against any indemnifying party under this Section 3.9, deliver to the indemnifying party a written notice of the commencement thereof and the indemnifying party shall have the right to participate in, and, to the extent the indemnifying party so desires, jointly with any other indemnifying party similarly noticed, to assume the defense thereof with counsel mutually satisfactory to the parties; provided, however, that an indemnified party (together with all other indemnified parties which may be represented without conflict by one counsel) shall have the right to retain separate counsel, with the fees and expenses to be paid by the indemnifying party, if representation of such indemnified party by the counsel retained by the indemnifying party would be inappropriate due to actual or potential differing interests between such indemnified party and any other party represented by such counsel in such proceeding. The failure to deliver written notice to the indemnifying party within a reasonable time of the commencement of any such action, if materially prejudicial to its ability to defend such action, shall relieve such indemnifying party of any liability to the indemnified party under this Section 3.9, but the omission so to deliver written notice to the indemnifying party will not relieve it of any liability that it may have to any indemnified party otherwise than under this Section 3.9.

(d) If the indemnification provided for in this Section 3.9 is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unavailable to an indemnified party with respect to any loss, liability, claim, damage, or expense referred to therein, then the indemnifying party, in lieu of indemnifying such indemnified party hereunder, shall contribute to the amount paid or payable by such indemnified party as a result of such loss, liability, claim, damage, or expense in such proportion as is appropriate to reflect the relative fault of the indemnifying party on the one hand and of the indemnified party on the other hand in connection with the statements or omissions that resulted in such loss, liability, claim, damage, or expense as well as any other relevant equitable considerations; provided, however, that in no event shall any contribution under this Section 3.9 exceed the net proceeds from the offering received by such Holder. The relative fault of the indemnifying party and of the indemnified party shall be determined by reference to, among other things, whether the untrue or alleged untrue statement of a material fact or the omission to state a material fact relates to information supplied by the indemnifying party or by the indemnified party and the parties' relative intent, knowledge, access to information, and opportunity to correct or prevent such statement or omission.

(e) Notwithstanding the foregoing, to the extent that the provisions on indemnification and contribution contained in the underwriting agreement entered into in connection with the underwritten public offering are in conflict with the foregoing provisions, the provisions in the underwriting agreement shall control as to any Investor that is a party thereto.

(f) The obligations of the Company and Holders under this Section 3.9 shall survive the completion of any offering of Registrable Securities in a registration statement under this Article III, and otherwise. No indemnifying party, in the defense of any such claim or litigation, shall, except with the consent of each other indemnified party, consent to entry of any judgment or enter into any settlement that does not include as an unconditional term thereof the giving by the claimant or plaintiff to such indemnified party of a release from all liability in respect to such claim or litigation.

Section 3.10 Reports Under Securities Exchange Act. With a view to making available to the Holders the benefits of Rule 144 and any other rule or regulation of the SEC that may at any time permit a Holder to sell securities of the Company to the public without registration or pursuant to a registration on Form S-3, the Company agrees to:

(a) make and keep public information available, as those terms are understood and defined in Rule 144, at all times after the effective date of the first registration statement filed by the Company for the offering of its securities to the general public;

(b) take such action, including the voluntary registration of its Common Stock under Section 5.12 of the Exchange Act, as is necessary to enable the Holders to utilize Form S-3 for the sale of their Registrable Securities, such action to be taken as soon as practicable after the end of the fiscal year in which the first registration statement filed by the Company for the offering of its securities to the general public is declared effective;

(c) file with the SEC in a timely manner all reports and other documents required of the Company under the Securities Act and the Exchange Act; and

(d) furnish to any Holder, so long as the Holder owns any Registrable Securities, forthwith upon request from such Holder (i) a written statement by the Company that it has complied with the reporting requirements of Rule 144 (at any time after 90 days after the effective date of the first registration statement filed by the Company), the Securities Act and the Exchange Act (at any time after it has become subject to such reporting requirements), or that it qualifies as a registrant whose securities may be resold pursuant to Form S-3 (at any time after it so qualifies), (ii) a copy of the most recent annual or quarterly report of the Company and such other reports and documents so filed by the Company, and (iii) such other information as may be reasonably requested in availing any Holder of any rule or regulation of the SEC which permits the selling of any such securities without registration or pursuant to Form S-3.

Section 3.11 Form S-3 Registrations. In the event that the Company shall receive from HCMLP on behalf of the Holders of at least 10% of the Registrable Securities then outstanding a written request that the Company effect a registration on Form S-3, and any related qualification or compliance with respect to all or a part of the Registrable Securities owned by such Holder or Holders, the Company will:

(a) promptly give written notice of the proposed registration, and any related qualification or compliance, to all other Holders; and

(b) use its commercially reasonable efforts to, as soon as practicable, effect such registration and all such qualifications and compliances as may be so requested and as would permit or facilitate the sale and distribution of all or such portion of such Holder's or Holders' Registrable Securities as are specified in such request, together with all or such portion of the Registrable Securities of any other Holder or Holders joining in such request as are specified in a written request given within fifteen (15) days after receipt of such written notice from the Company; provided, however, that the Company shall not be obligated to effect any such registration, qualification or compliance, pursuant to this Section 3.11:

(i) if Form S-3 is not available for such offering by the Holders;

(ii) if the Holders, together with the holders of any other securities of the Company entitled to inclusion in such Form S-3, propose to sell Registrable Securities at an aggregate price to the public (net of underwriting discounts and commissions) of less than $500,000;

(iii) if the Company shall furnish to Holders requesting a registration statement pursuant to this Section 3.11 a certificate signed by the President of the Company stating that in the good faith judgment of the Board of Directors it would be seriously detrimental to the Company and its stockholders for such registration statement to be filed and it is, therefore, essential to defer the filing of such registration statement, the Company shall have the right to defer taking action with respect to such filing for a period of not more than one-hundred-

twenty (20) days after receipt of the request of the Initiating Holders; provided, however, that the Company may not utilize this right more than once in any twelve (12) month period;

(iv) in any particular jurisdiction in which the Company would be required to qualify to do business or to execute a general consent to service of process in effecting such registration, qualification or compliance;

(v) if the Company has, within the twelve (12) month period preceding the date of such request, already effected one (1) registration on Form S-3 for the Holders pursuant to this Section 3.11; or

(vi) during the period starting with the date sixty (60) days prior to the Company's good faith estimate of the date of filing of, and ending on a date one-hundred-eighty (180) days after the effective date of, any registration statement pertaining to a public offering of securities for the Company's account; provided, however, that the Company is actively employing its commercially reasonable efforts to cause such registration statement to be effective.

(c) Subject to the foregoing, the Company shall file a registration statement covering the Registrable Securities and other securities so requested to be registered as soon as practicable after receipt of the request or requests of the Holders. All expenses incurred in connection with a registration requested pursuant to this Section 3.11, including, without limitation, all registration, filing, qualification, printer's and accounting fees and the reasonable fees and disbursements of counsel for the selling Holder or Holders and counsel for the Company, shall be borne by the Company. Registrations effected pursuant to this Section 3.11 shall not be counted as demands for registration or registrations effected pursuant to Section 3.2 or Section 3.3, respectively.

(d) If the Holders initiating a registration pursuant to this Section 3.11 intend to distribute the Registrable Securities covered by their request by means of an underwriting, they shall so advise the Company as a part of their request made pursuant to this Section 3.11 and the Company shall include such information in the written notice referred to in Section 3.11(a). The underwriter will be selected by HCMLP and shall be reasonably acceptable to the Company, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld or delayed. In such event, the right of any Holder to include such Holder's Registrable Securities in such registration shall be conditioned upon such Holder's participation in such underwriting and the inclusion of such Holder's Registrable Securities in the underwriting (unless otherwise mutually agreed by a majority in interest of the Initiating Holders and such Holder) to the extent provided herein. All Holders proposing to distribute their securities through such underwriting shall (together with the Company as provided in Section 3.4(e)) enter into an underwriting agreement in customary form with the underwriter or underwriters selected for such underwriting. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section 3.11, if the underwriter advises the Initiating Holders in writing that marketing factors require a limitation of the number of shares to be underwritten, then the Company shall so advise all Holders of Registrable Securities which would otherwise be underwritten pursuant hereto, and the number of shares of Registrable Securities that may be included in the underwriting shall be allocated in the following order of priority: (A) first, the Registrable Securities requested to be included in such registration by the Holders, allocated pro rata among the holders thereof on the basis of the total number of shares of Registrable Securities such Holder requested to be included in such registration or apportioned among them in any other manner in which HCMLP determines to be appropriate in its sole discretion; (B) second, the securities requested to be included therein by the Company; and (C) third, among persons not contractually entitled to registration rights under this Agreement.

Section 3.12 Expenses of Form 5-3 Registration. All expenses, other than underwriting discounts and commissions, incurred in connection with registrations, filings or qualifications pursuant to Section 3.11, including (without limitation) all registration, filing and qualification fees, printers' and accounting fees, fees and disbursements of counsel for the Company and the reasonable fees and disbursements of counsel for the selling Holders shall be borne by the Company; including, without limitation, all such expenses incurred with respect to a registration request subsequently withdrawn by the Holders, regardless of whether such withdrawal was a result of a material adverse change in the condition (financial or otherwise), business or prospects of the Company from that known to the Holders at the time of the request or otherwise.

Section 3.13 Assignment of Registration Rights. Subject to the prior consent of HCMLP, the rights to cause the Company to register Registrable Securities pursuant to this Article III may be assigned (but only with all related obligations) by a Holder to a transferee or assignee of such securities that (i) is a subsidiary, parent, member, partner, limited partner, retired partner, grantor or shareholder of a Holder, and (ii) an affiliate of HCMLP, including any investment funds controlled by or under common control with, or managed directly or indirectly by, HCMLP, which will continue to qualify as Highland Capital after such transfer; provided that: (a) the Company is, within a reasonable time after such transfer, furnished with written notice of the name and address of such transferee or assignee and the securities with respect to which such registration rights are being assigned; (b) such transferee or assignee agrees in writing to be bound by and subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement, including (without limitation) the provisions of Section 1.4 below, including the execution of an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A; and (c) such assignment shall be effective only if immediately following such transfer the further disposition of such securities by the transferee or assignee is restricted under the Securities Act. For the purposes of determining the number of shares of Registrable Securities held by a transferee or assignee, the holdings of transferees and assignees of a partnership who are partners or retired partners of such partnership (including spouses and ancestors, lineal descendants and siblings of such partners or spouses who acquire Registrable Securities by gift, will or intestate succession) shall be aggregated together and with the partnership; provided that all assignees and transferees who would not qualify individually for assignment of registration rights shall have a single attorney-in-fact for the purpose of exercising any rights, receiving notices or taking any action under this Article III.

Section 3.14 Limitations on Subsequent Registration Rights. From and after the date of this Agreement, the Company shall not, without the prior written consent of HCMLP (which approval may be granted or withheld in its sole discretion), enter into any agreement with any holder or prospective holder of any securities of the Company (i) to include such securities in any registration filed under Section 3.2, unless under the terms of such agreement, such holder or prospective holder may include such securities in any such registration only to the extent that the inclusion of such holder's or prospective holder's securities will not reduce the amount of the Registrable Securities of the Holders which is included or (ii) to make a demand registration that could result in such registration statement being declared effective prior to the dates set forth in Section 3.2 or within one-hundred-eighty (180) days of the effective date of any registration effected pursuant to Section 3.2.

VOTING AGREEMENT; BOARD OF DIRECTORS; REQUIRED VOTE

Section 4.1 Board of Directors.

(a) Composition of Board of Directors. For so long as Highland Capital owns any shares of the Company's capital stock, each Stockholder agrees that in any election of directors of the Company, each Stockholder shall vote all shares of the Company capital stock entitled to vote in the election of directors that are owned or controlled by such Stockholder (or shall consent pursuant to an action by written consent of the holders of capital stock of the Company), including all shares that each Stockholder is entitled to vote under any voting trust, voting agreement, proxy or other arrangement (collectively, "Stock"), to elect a Board of Directors consisting of the directors designated by HCMLP in its sole discretion. In the absence of any designation HCMLP, the director previously designated by HCMLP and then serving shall be re-elected if still eligible to serve as provided herein. This Section 4.1(a) shall not apply to Crusader.

(b) Subsidiary Governing Bodies; Committees. Unless otherwise agreed to by HCMLP or the Board of Directors, the members of the Board of Directors, as the same shall be constituted from time to time, shall also constitute the board of directors or equivalent governing body of each subsidiary of the Company. HCMLP shall have the right but not the obligation to designate at least two members of the Board of Directors elected pursuant to this Section 4.1 to serve on any duly constituted committee of the boards of directors of the Company and any subsidiaries.

(c) Obligations of the Company. The Company shall use its best efforts and shall exercise all authority under applicable law to cause to be nominated for election and cause to be elected or appointed, as the case may be, as directors of the Company, a slate of directors consisting of individuals meeting the requirements of Section 4.1(a). The Company will not, by any voluntary action, avoid or seek to avoid the observance or performance of any of the terms to be performed hereunder by the Company, but will at all times in good faith assist in the carrying out of all of the provisions of this Agreement and in the taking of all such actions as may be necessary or appropriate in order to protect the rights of HCMLP hereunder against impairment. Each Stockholder hereby agrees to vote, cause to be voted or sign a written consent with respect to all of its shares in favor of a slate of directors consisting of individuals meeting the requirements of Section 4.1(a).

(d) Vacancies; Removal. In the event of any vacancy in the Board of Directors, each Stockholder agrees to vote all outstanding shares of Stock owned or controlled by such Stockholder and to use such Stockholder's best efforts to fill such vacancy so that the Board of Directors will be comprised of directors designated as provided in Section 4.1(a). Each

Stockholder agrees to vote all outstanding shares of Stock owned or controlled by such Stockholder for the removal of a director whenever (but only whenever) there shall be presented to the Board of Directors the written direction that such director be removed, signed by HCMLP. In such event, the Board of Directors shall solicit the vote of the Stockholders entitled to remove such director in order to effect such removal. This Section 4.1(d) shall not apply to Crusader.

Section 4.2 Required Vote.

(a) Notice of Disposition Transaction. In the event HCMLP has approved or rejected any (A) the acquisition of the Company by another entity by means of any transaction or series of related transactions (including, without limitation, any reorganization, merger or consolidation) unless the Company's stockholders of record as constituted immediately prior to such acquisition or sale will, immediately after such acquisition or sale (by virtue of securities issued as consideration for the Company's acquisition or sale or otherwise) hold at least 50% of the voting power of the surviving or acquiring entity; or (B) a sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Company, including a sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Company's subsidiaries, if such assets constitute substantially all of the assets of the Company and such subsidiaries taken as a whole (each, an "Approved Sale"), the Company shall give notice (the "Sale Notice") to the Stockholders stating that HCMLP has approved or rejected, as applicable, an Approved Sale. The Sale Notice also shall set forth the identity of the person or entity proposing to buy the Company, its assets or its capital stock (the "Acquisition Offeror") and shall summarize the basic terms of the proposed Approved Sale. Any Sale Notice may be rescinded by HCMLP by delivering written notice thereof to the Stockholders.

(b) Obligations of Stockholders. As soon as practicable after receipt of the Sale Notice, the Stockholders shall take all lawful action reasonably necessary and requested by the Company (i) in the event the Approved Sale was approved by HCMLP, to complete the Approved Sale, including without limitation (A) the voting of all capital stock of the Company held by the Stockholders in favor of the Approved Sale, (B) if so requested, the surrender to the Acquisition Offeror of certificates representing all capital stock and all instruments representing convertible securities of the Company held by the Stockholders, properly endorsed for transfer to the Acquisition Offeror against payment of the sale price for such capital stock or such convertible securities in the Approved Sale, and (C) the execution of all sale, liquidation and other agreements in the form reasonably requested (containing, among other things, reasonable and customary representations and warranties relating to the valid title to such capital stock free and clear of any liens, claims, encumbrances and restrictions of any kind (other than those arising hereunder) and such Stockholder's power, authority, and right to enter into and consummate such purchase or merger agreement without violating any other agreement); or (ii) in the event the Approved Sale was rejected by HCMLP, to reject the Approved Sale, including, without limitation, the voting of all capital stock of the Company held by the Stockholders against the Approved Sale. The Stockholders hereby agree, after having received a Sale Notice, not to exercise any dissenter's rights or other rights granted to minority stockholders under state law in connection with an Approved Sale, or otherwise take actions designed to or that reasonably would be expected to complicate, delay, reject or terminate the Approved Sale.

Section 4.3 Grant of Proxy. To ensure the performance of each Stockholder with respect to the agreements set forth in this Article IV, each Stockholder hereby appoints the Chairman of the Board of Directors and the principal executive officer of the Company, or either of them from time to time, or their designees, as his, her or its true and lawful proxy and attorney-in-fact, with full power of substitution and resubstitution, to vote all. Stock owned or held by such Stockholder and to execute all appropriate instruments consistent with this Agreement, subject to the provisions of this Agreement, upon any matter presented to the stockholders of the Company, if and only if such Stockholder fails to vote all of such Stockholder's Stock or execute such other instruments in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement within five (5) days of the Company's or any other party's written request for such Stockholder's written consent or signature. The proxies and powers granted by each Stockholder pursuant to this Section 4.3 are coupled with an interest, are given to secure the performance of such Stockholder's commitments under this Agreement, and shall be irrevocable unless and until this Agreement terminates or expires pursuant to its terms. Such proxies shall survive the death, incompetence, disability, merger, reorganization, dissolution or winding up of such Stockholder. Each party hereto hereby revokes any and all previous proxies with respect to the Stock and shall not hereafter, unless and until this Agreement terminates or expires, purport to grant any other proxy or power of attorney with respect to any of the Stock, deposit any of the Stock into a voting trust or enter into any agreement (other than this Agreement), arrangement or understanding with any person, directly or indirectly, to vote, grant any proxy or give instructions with respect to the voting of any of the Stock, in each case, with respect to any of the matters set forth herein.

COVENANTS OF THE COMPANY

Section 5.1 Delivery of Financial Statements. The Company shall deliver the following information to HCMLP, to each Highland Capital Stockholder and to Crusader:

(a) as soon as reasonably practicable, but in any event within 90 days after the end of each fiscal year of the Company (which due date may be lengthened with respect to any fiscal year by approval of HCMLP), an audited consolidated income statement of the Company for such year, an audited consolidated balance sheet and statement of stockholders' equity of the Company as of the end of such fiscal year, and an audited consolidated statement of cash flows of the Company for such fiscal year, such audited year-end financial reports to be in reasonable detail, prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") consistently applied and setting forth in each case in comparative form the figures for the previous fiscal year, all in reasonable detail. Such audited financial statements shall be accompanied by a report and opinion thereon by independent public accountants of national standing selected by HCMLP.

(b) as soon as reasonably practicable, but in any event within thirty (30) days after the end of each fiscal quarter of the Company, an unaudited consolidated income statement and consolidated statement of cash flows of the Company for such fiscal quarter and an unaudited consolidated balance sheet of the Company as of the end of such fiscal quarter, prepared in accordance with GAAP, which shall each show a comparison to plan figures for such period and to the comparable period in the prior year prepared in accordance with GAAP with the exception that no notes need be attached to such statements and year end audit adjustments

need not have been made, together with a report from the Company's chief executive officer, and/or chief financial officer, summarizing the Company's consolidated financial condition and consolidated results of operation during such quarter.

(c) as soon as reasonably practicable, but in any event within twenty (20) days after the end of each calendar month, an unaudited consolidated income statement and consolidated statement of cash flows of the Company for such month and an unaudited consolidated balance sheet of the Company as of the end of such month and for the current fiscal year to date, including a comparison to plan figures for such period and to the comparable period in the prior year, prepared in accordance with GAAP consistently applied, with the exception that no notes need be attached to such statements and year end audit adjustments may not have been made, together with a report from the Company's chief executive officer, and/or chief financial officer, summarizing the Company's consolidated financial condition and consolidated results of operation during such month.

(d) an annual budget and operating plans for the Company at least thirty (30) days prior to the beginning of each fiscal year and (promptly after they are available) any subsequent substantive revisions thereto; and

(e) such relevant business and other information reasonably requested, including, without limitation, copies of relevant management reports, as HCMLP may request from time to time.

If, for any period, the Company has any subsidiary whose accounts are consolidated with those of the Company, then in respect of such period the financial statements delivered pursuant to the foregoing sections shall be the consolidated and consolidating financial statements of the Company and all such consolidated subsidiaries.

Section 5.2 Inspection. The Company will maintain true books and records of account in which full and correct entries will be made of all its business transactions pursuant to a system of accounting established and administered in accordance with GAAP consistently applied, and will set aside on its books all such proper accruals and reserves as shall be required under GAAP consistently applied. The Company shall permit HCMLP or its designee(s) to visit and inspect the Company's properties, to examine and audit its books of account and records and to discuss the Company's affairs, finances and accounts with its officers, all at such reasonable times and during normal business hours as may be requested by HCMLP.

Section 5.3 Directors and Officers Insurance.

(a) The Company shall maintain, from financially sound and reputable insurers approved by HCMLP, directors' and officers' insurance with coverage decided in accordance with policies adopted by HCMLP.

(b) The Company will indemnify the Board of Directors to the broadest extent permitted by applicable law. The Company shall enter into written indemnification agreements (in a form reasonably acceptable to HCMLP) with the directors and executive officers of the Company.

(c) in the event of a Change in Control, proper provision shall be made so that the successors and assigns of the Company assume the obligations of the Company with respect to indemnification of members of the Board of Directors as in effect immediately prior to such transaction, whether in the Company's Bylaws, Certificate of Incorporation, or elsewhere, as the case may be, and, unless otherwise affirmatively determined by the Board of Directors, for the purchase of "tail" D&O insurance coverage.

Section 5.4 Additional Stockholders. As a condition to the Company's issuance of any shares of Common Stock, or options, warrants or rights to purchase or acquire Common Stock, to any person or entity, including the issuance of certificates representing shares of Common Stock upon a transfer following compliance with the terms of this Agreement, the Company shall, as a condition to such issuance, cause such person or entity to execute an Adoption Agreement in the form attached as Exhibit A hereto in the capacity of a Remaining Stockholder or a Highland Capital Stockholder, as appropriate, confirming that such person or entity is bound by, and subject to, all the terms and provisions of this Agreement applicable to a Remaining Stockholder or a Highland Capital Stockholder, whichever is applicable to such person or entity. The addition of Stockholders as parties to the Agreement in compliance with this provision shall not be deemed an amendment.

MISCELLANEOUS

Section 6.1 Term; Termination. This Agreement shall terminate upon the earliest to occur of (a) such time as the Stockholders shall no longer be the owner of any shares of capital stock of the Company; or (b) the date specified by agreement of the Company and HCMLP. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the following rights under this Agreement shall terminate as set forth herein:

(a) The rights of first refusal and co-sale set forth in Article I hereof shall terminate upon the earlier of (i) the closing of a bona fide firm commitment underwritten public offering of the Company's Common Stock registered under the Securities Act resulting in proceeds to the Company of at least $50 million (a "Qualified IPO"), and (ii) a Change in Control (including in the case of an asset sale or similar transaction in which Stockholders continue to hold the Company's shares, the final distribution of proceeds to the Stockholders);

(b) The rights of first offer set forth in Article II hereof shall terminate upon the earlier of (i) a Qualified IPO, and (ii) a Change in Control (including in the case of an asset sale or similar transaction in which Stockholders continue to hold the Company's shares, the final distribution of proceeds to the Stockholders);

(c) The registration rights set forth in Article III hereof shall terminate with respect to any Holder upon the earlier of (i) a Change in Control, and (ii) the date upon which all Registrable Securities held by such Holder can be sold without restriction under Rule 144(k) under the Securities Act;

(d) The voting rights and obligations set forth in Article IV hereto shall terminate upon the earlier of (i) (A) in the case of Section 4.1 the Initial Public Offering, and (B) in the case of Section 4.2, a Qualified IPO, and (ii) a Change in Control; and, provided that the provisions of Section 4.2 will continue after the closing of any Approved Sale to the extent necessary to enforce the provisions of Section 4.2 with respect to such Approved Sale;

(e) The information and inspection rights set forth in Section 5.1 and Section 5.2 hereto shall terminate upon the earliest of (i) the Initial Public Offering, (ii) the date upon which the Company becomes subject to the periodic reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and (iii) a Change in Control (including in the case of an asset sale or similar transaction in which Stockholders continue to hold the Company's shares, the final distribution of proceeds to the Stockholders).

Section 6.2 Legend. Each certificate representing the Common Stock of the Company shall be endorsed with substantially the following legend, in addition to any other legend required by law, the Company's organizational documents or agreement to which the Stockholder is subject:

“THE SECURITIES REPRESENTED BY THIS CERTIFICATE ARE SUBJECT TO THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF A CERTAIN STOCKHOLDERS' AGREEMENT, BY AND AMONG THE COMPANY AND CERTAIN HOLDERS OF THE COMMON STOCK OF THE COMPANY, INCLUDING SUBSTANTIAL RESTRICTIONS ON TRANSFER AND VOTING. A COPY OF SUCH AGREEMENT IS ON FILE AT THE PRINCIPAL OFFICE OF THE COMPANY. THE STOCKHOLDERS' AGREEMENT IS BINDING ON THE TRANSFEREES OF SUCH SHARES.”

Section 6.3 Successors and Assigns. In addition to any restriction on transfer that may be imposed by any other agreement by which the parties hereto may be bound, this Agreement shall be binding upon the parties hereto and their respective permitted transferees, heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns; provided, however, that the Company shall not effect any transfer of Common Stock subject to this Agreement on its books or issue a new certificate for such Common Stock unless the transferee of such Common Stock has executed and delivered an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A. Upon compliance with all transfer and other restrictions set forth herein and the execution and delivery of an Adoption Agreement by the transferee, such transferee shall be deemed to be a party hereto as if such transferee's signature appeared on the signature pages hereto, in the capacity of Highland Capital or a Remaining Stockholder, as the case may be, whereupon the schedules of Stockholders shall be updated accordingly. Nothing in this Agreement, express or implied, is intended to confer upon any party other than the parties hereto or their respective successors and assigns any rights, remedies, obligations or liabilities under or by reason of this Agreement, except as expressly provided in this Agreement.

Section 6.4 Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of Texas, without giving effect to conflicts of laws principles.

Section 6.5 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original, but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

Section 6.6 Titles and Subtitles. The titles and subtitles used in this Agreement are used for convenience only and are not to be considered in construing or interpreting this Agreement.

Section 6.7 Notices.

(a) All notices and other communications hereunder shall be in writing and shall be deemed given if delivered personally or by commercial delivery service, or mailed by registered or certified mail (return receipt requested) or sent via facsimile (with confirmation of receipt) to the parties at the address for each party set forth herein (or at such other address for a party as shall be specified by like notice):

(i) If to the Company:

(iii) If to a Highland Capital Stockholder, to the address set forth below such Highland Capital Stockholder's name on Schedule A hereto, with a copy (which shall not constitute notice) to HCMLP and the Company.

(iv) If to a Remaining Stockholder, at the address set forth below such Stockholder's name on Schedule B hereto, with a copy (which shall not constitute notice) to HCMLP and the Company.

(b) Notice given by personal delivery, courier service or mail shall be effective upon actual receipt. Notice given by facsimile shall be confirmed by appropriate answer back and shall be effective upon actual receipt if received during the recipient's normal business hours, or at the beginning of the recipient's next business day after receipt if not received during the recipient's normal business hours. All notices by facsimile shall be confirmed promptly after transmission in writing by certified mail or personal delivery. Any party may change any address to which notice is to be given to it by giving notice as provided above of such change of address.

(c) An electronic communication ("Electronic Notice") shall be deemed written notice for purposes of this Section 6.7 if sent with return receipt requested to the electronic mail address specified by the receiving party in a signed writing in a nonelectronic form. Electronic Notice shall be deemed received at the time the party sending Electronic Notice receives verification of receipt by the receiving party. Any party receiving Electronic Notice may request and shall be entitled to receive the notice on paper, in a nonelectronic form ("Nonelectronic Notice") which shall be sent to the requesting party within five (5) days of receipt of the written request for Nonelectronic Notice.

Section 6.8 DGCL Electronic Notice. Each party hereto generally consents to the delivery of any stockholder notice pursuant to the Delaware General Corporation Law (the "DGCL"), as amended or superseded from time to time, by electronic transmission (a "DGCL Electronic Notice") pursuant to Section 232 of the DGCL at the electronic mail address or the facsimile number set forth below such party's name on the Schedules hereto, as updated from time to time by notice to the Company, or as the books of the Company. To the extent that any DGCL Electronic Notice is returned or undeliverable for any reason, the foregoing consent shall be deemed to have been revoked until a new or corrected electronic mail address has been provided, and such attempted DGCL Electronic Notice shall be ineffective and deemed to not have been given. Each party hereto hereby agrees to promptly notify the Company of any change in such holder's electronic mail address, but failure to do so shall not affect the foregoing.

Section 6.9 Dispute Resolution.

(a) Arbitration. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Agreement to the contrary, and except for the equitable remedies provided in Section 6.9(b), in the event there is an unresolved legal dispute between the parties and/or any of their respective officers, directors, partners, employees, agents, affiliates or other representatives that involves legal rights or remedies arising from this Agreement, the parties agree to submit their dispute to binding arbitration under the authority of the Federal Arbitration Act; provided, however, that the Company or such applicable affiliate thereof may pursue a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunctive relief in connection with any confidentiality covenants or agreements binding on any of the parties, with related expedited discovery for the parties, in a court of law, and, thereafter, require arbitration of all issues of final relief. The Arbitration will be conducted by the American Arbitration Association, or another, mutually agreeable arbitration service. The arbitrator(s) shall be duly licensed to practice law in the State of Texas. The discovery process shall be limited to the following: Each side shall be permitted no more than (i) two party depositions of six hours each. Each deposition is to be taken pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure; (ii) one non-party deposition of six hours; (iii) twenty-five interrogatories; (iv) twenty-five requests for admission; (v) ten requests for production. In response, the producing party shall not be obligated to produce in excess of 5,000 total pages of documents. The total pages of documents shall include electronic documents; (vi) one request for disclosure pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. Any discovery not specifically provided for in this paragraph, whether to parties or non-parties, shall not be permitted. The arbitrator(s) shall be required to state in a written opinion all facts and conclusions of law relied upon to support any decision rendered. No arbitrator will have authority to render a decision that contains an outcome determinative error of state or federal law, or to fashion a cause of action or remedy not otherwise provided for under applicable state or federal law. Any dispute over whether the arbitrator(s) has failed to comply with the foregoing will be resolved by summary judgment in a court of law. In all other respects, the arbitration process will be conducted in accordance with the American Arbitration Association's dispute resolution rules or other mutually agreeable, arbitration service rules. The party initiating arbitration shall pay all arbitration costs and arbitrator's fees, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. All proceedings shall be conducted in Dallas, Texas, or another mutually agreeable site. Each party shall bear its own attorneys fees, costs and expenses, including any costs of experts, witnesses and/or travel, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. The duty to arbitrate described above shall survive the termination of this Agreement. Except as otherwise provided above, the parties hereby waive trial in a court of law or by jury. All other rights, remedies, statutes of limitation and defenses applicable to claims asserted in a court of law will apply in the arbitration.

(b) Equitable Relief. Each party hereto acknowledges and agrees that any breach of this Agreement would result in substantial harm to the other parties hereto for which monetary damages alone could not adequately compensate. Therefore, the parties hereto unconditionally and irrevocable agree that any non-breaching party hereto shall be entitled to seek protective orders, injunctive relief and other remedies available at law or in equity (including, without limitation, seeking specific performance or the rescission of purchases, sales and other transfers of Securities not made in strict compliance with this Agreement).

Section 6.10 Severability. If one or more provisions of this Agreement are held to be unenforceable under applicable law, such provision shall be excluded from this Agreement and the balance of the Agreement shall be interpreted as if such provision were so excluded and shall be enforceable in accordance with its terms.

Section 6.11 Amendments and Waivers. Subject to the last sentence of this Section 6.11, any term of this Agreement may be amended and the observance of any term of this Agreement may be waived (either generally or in a particular instance and either retroactively or prospectively), only with the written consent of (i) the Company, (ii) HCMLP, (iii) the Highland Capital Stockholders holding a majority of the Shares of the Company's Capital Stock held by Highland Capital, and (iv) at any such time as Highland Capital does not hold a majority of the Shares of the Company's capital stock that are subject to this Agreement, the Stockholders holding a majority of the shares of the Company's capital stock (on an as-converted to Common Stock basis) then held by all Stockholders that are subject to this Agreement, provided that the consent of the Remaining Stockholders shall not be required for any amendment or waiver if such amendment or waiver either (A) is not directly applicable to the rights of the Remaining Stockholders hereunder or (B) does not materially and adversely affect the rights of the Remaining Stockholders in a manner that is disproportionate to the effect on the rights of the other parties hereto. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any provision hereof may be waived by the waiving party on such party's own behalf, without the consent of any other party. Any amendment or waiver effected in accordance with this Section 6.11 shall be binding upon each party to this Agreement and each future party to this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, neither (i) the addition of parties hereto as a condition to such person participating in a transaction described herein, nor (ii) the addition of a party hereto as a result of such party being or becoming a Highland Capital Stockholder, shall be deemed an amendment hereto, nor shall any update to the Schedules hereto from time to time to reflect the correct holdings of or other information with respect to the parties. No provision of this Agreement that is applicable expressly to Crusader, including Section 1.1(b)(vi), Section 1.1(b)(vii), Section 1.2(d), Section 4.1(a), Section 4.1(d), Section 5.1 and this Section 6.11, shall be amended in any respect that is applicable to Crusader without the prior written consent of Crusader.

Section 6.12 Aggregation of Stock. All shares of Common Stock or other Securities of the Company held or acquired by affiliated entities or persons (including, without limitation, the Common Stock or other Securities held by Highland Capital) may be aggregated together for the purpose of determining the availability of any rights under this Agreement. For the purposes of determining the availability of any rights under this Agreement, the holdings of transferees and assignees of an individual or a partnership who are spouses, ancestors, lineal descendants or siblings of such individual or partners or retired partners of such partnership or partnerships affiliated with such transferring or assigning partnership (including spouses and ancestors, lineal descendants and siblings of such partners or spouses who acquire Common Stock by gift, will or intestate succession) shall be aggregated together with the individual or partnership, as the case may be, for the purpose of exercising any rights or taking any action under this Agreement.

Section 6.13 Entire Agreement. This Agreement (including the Schedules hereto, if any) constitutes the full and entire understanding and agreement between the parties with regard to the subject matter hereof and thereof and supersedes any and all prior agreements relating to the subject matter hereof, including without limitation the First Stockholders' Agreement. The Company and each Stockholder acknowledges and agrees that neither the Company's Certificate of Incorporation or Bylaws shall be amended to include any transfer restrictions on the Company's Securities (it being understood that any and all applicable transfer restrictions, other than those arising under the securities laws generally, shall be as set forth herein).

Section 6.14 Stock Splits, Stock Dividends, etc. In the event of any stock split, stock dividend, capitalization, reorganization, or the like, any securities issued with respect to the shares of the Company's capital stock held by the Stockholders shall become subject to the terms of this Agreement.

Section 6.15 Cumulative Remedies. In addition to the rights and remedies stated in this Agreement, each party hereto shall have all those rights and remedies allowed by applicable laws. The rights and remedies of each party are cumulative and recourse to one or more right or remedy shall not constitute a waiver of the others.

Section 6.16 Rights of Stockholders. Each of HCMLP and each Stockholder, in its sole and absolute discretion, may exercise or refrain from exercising any rights or privileges that such Stockholder may have pursuant to this Agreement, the Company's Certificate of Incorporation or Bylaws, or at law or in equity; and neither HCMLP nor such Stockholder shall incur or be subject to any liability or obligation to the Company, any other party hereto, or any other person, by reason of exercising or refraining from exercising any such rights or privileges.

Section 6.17 Further Assurance. At any time or from time to time after the date hereof, the parties agree to cooperate with each other, and at the request of any other party, to execute and deliver any further instrument or documents and take all such further action as the other party may reasonably request in order to evidence or effectuate the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby and to otherwise carry out the intent of the parties hereunder.

Section 6.18 Joint Product. This Agreement is the joint product of the Company and the other parties hereto and each provision hereof and thereof has been subject to the mutual consultation, negotiation and agreement of the Company and the other parties hereto and shall not be construed against any party hereto.

RIDER TO THE PROOFS OF CLAIM OF THE REDEEMER
COMMITTEE OF THE HIGHLAND CRUSADER FUND

This Rider is part of the proof of claim (the “Proof of Claim”) filed by the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (the “Redeemer Committee”) against Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCM” or the “Debtor”).

On March 6, 2019, a panel of arbitrators issued a Partial Final Award (the “March Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM. On April 29, 2019, the panel issued a Final Award (the “Final Award,” and together with the March Award, the “Arbitration Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM.¹ The Arbitration Award is subject to the Federal Arbitration Act and The Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards. The Redeemer Committee timely moved to confirm the Award in the Delaware Chancery Court. HCM moved for partial vacatur of the Arbitration Award in June 2019. The time period to move to vacate the Arbitration Award expired prior to the Petition Date (as defined below). All capitalized terms that are not defined herein have the meanings given to such terms in the Arbitration Award.

The Redeemer Committee files this Proof of Claim out of an abundance of caution. The Arbitration Award is an executory contract under section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. HCM has not yet moved to assume or reject the contract. Accordingly, the deadline to file a proof of claim remains undetermined. By filing the Proof of Claim, the Redeemer Committee does not concede that the amounts awarded under the Arbitration Award are prepetition claims or that it is required to file a proof of claim to be entitled to the amounts described herein. The Redeemer Committee reserves all rights to amend or modify this Proof of Claim in any respect, including to assert other or additional claims, or for the purpose of fixing or liquidating any contingent or unliquidated claims. This Proof of Claim is without prejudice to any other rights the Redeemer Committee may have against the Debtor, its officers, employees, successors, or assigns.

This Proof of Claim includes the following components, and each is based on the Arbitration Award (together, the “Claim”):

1. Damage Claim. The Redeemer Committee asserts a liquidated claim for at least $190,824,557 plus interest that is accruing beginning as of October 16, 2019, the date that HCM filed its bankruptcy case (the “Petition Date”). As set forth in the Final Award, the separate components of the Damage Claim are as follows, and the amounts set forth below are as of the Petition Date, including prepetition interest awarded under the Arbitration Award accrued to the Petition Date:
 - a. Deferred Fee Claim: $43,105,395 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.1)
 - b. Distribution Fee Claim: $22,922,608 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.2)

¹ Copies of the Arbitral Award have previously been provided the Debtor, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors, and the Office of the United States Trustee. The Redeemer Committee reserves the right to file a copy of the Arbitral Award with the Bankruptcy Court.

- c. Taking of Plan Claims: $3,277,991 (Final Award ¶ F.a.v)
- d. CLO Trades Claim: $685,195 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vi)
- e. Credit Suisse Claim: $3,660,130 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vii)
- f. UBS Claim: $2,600,968 (Final Award ¶ F.a.viii)
- g. Barclays Claim: $30,811,366 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)
- h. Legal Fees, Costs, and Expenses: $11,351,850 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xi)
- i. Administrative Fees: $514,164 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xii)
- j. Cornerstone Award: $71,894,891 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)

The Redeemer Committee also asserts an unliquidated claim for post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses that continue to accrue in connection with the Damage Claim.

2. Cancellation of Limited Partnership Interests. The Final Award provides, in relevant part, for the cancellation of the limited partnership interests in the Crusader Fund that are (i) held by HCM and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. that are identified in RC411, and (ii) held by Eames, Ltd. (Final Award ¶¶ F.a.v and F.a.x). The Final Award provides for HCM to transfer, or take all necessary steps to cause the transfer of, such interests to the Redeemer Committee for the benefit of the Crusader Fund. The Final Award also provides that the Redeemer Committee has the independent right to cause the Crusader Fund to cancel such limited partnership interests. The Redeemer Committee reserves the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cancel such limited partnership interests in accordance with the Final Award. The Redeemer Committee asserts a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such limited partnership interests are not cancelled in accordance with the Final Award.
3. Deferred Fee Account. The Arbitration Award granted the Redeemer Committee's request for a declaratory judgment with respect to the immediate distribution of the Deferred Fee Account, which the Crusader Fund continues to hold, and ordered the payment of the funds in such account to the Redeemer Committee for disbursement to the Consenting Compulsory Redeemers (March Award ¶ VII.D; Final Award ¶ F.a). The Redeemer Committee reserves the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cause the distribution of the funds held in the Deferred Fee Account in accordance with the Arbitration Award. The Redeemer Committee asserts a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such funds are not distributed in accordance with the Arbitration Award.

The Redeemer Committee expressly reserves all of its procedural and substantive defenses and rights with respect to any claim that may be asserted against the Redeemer Committee by the Debtor, including any rights of setoff or recoupment.

The filing of this Claim shall not constitute: (i) an admission of liability by the Redeemer Committee to any party; (ii) a waiver or release of the Redeemer Committee's rights against any person, entity, or property; (iii) a consent by the Redeemer Committee to the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court with respect to the subject matter of this Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases or otherwise involving the Redeemer Committee; (iv) a waiver of the right to move to withdraw the reference to the subject matter of this Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant; (v) a waiver of the right to have final orders entered only after de novo review by a United States Judge; (vi) its right to trial by jury in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy, or proceeding related to these cases; (vii) its right to arbitration under the Plan and Scheme; (viii) an election of remedies; or (ix) any other rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, or recoupments to which it is or may be entitled under agreements, in law, in equity, or otherwise, all of which rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, and recoupments are expressly reserved.

Dated: April 6, 2020

This Rider is part of the proof of claim (the “Proof of Claim”) filed by Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (“Master Fund”), Highland Crusader Fund, L.P. (“Onshore Fund”), Highland Crusader Fund, Ltd. (“Offshore Fund I”), and Highland Crusader Fund II, Ltd. (“Offshore Fund II” and together with the Master Fund, Onshore Fund, and Offshore Fund I, the “Crusader Funds”), by and through their authorized investment manager, Alvarez & Marsal CRF Management, LLC, against Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCM” or the “Debtor”).

The Crusader Funds’ claim against HCM contains two components (which partially overlap) and a number of sub-components, described below.

At all relevant times prior to August 4, 2016, HCM served as the investment manager for each of the Crusader Funds, pursuant to the terms of (a) the Joint Plan of Distribution of the Crusader Funds (the “Plan”); (b) the Scheme of Arrangement (the “Scheme”); (c) the Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between the Master Fund and HCM, dated as of June 1, 2006 (the “Master Fund IMA”); (d) the Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between Onshore Fund and HCM, dated as of June 1, 2006 (the “Onshore IMA”); (e) the Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between Offshore Fund I and HCM, dated as of September 1, 2006 (the “Offshore I IMA”); and (f) the Third Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between Offshore Fund II and HCM, dated as of September 1, 2006 (the “Offshore II IMA” and together with the Master Fund IMA, the Onshore IMA, and the Offshore I IMA, the “IMAs”). The Plan, the Scheme, and the IMAs are collectively referred to as the “Fund Documents.”

Pursuant to the Fund Documents, HCM received compensation from the Crusader Funds in the form of Management Fees, Distribution Fees, and rights to Deferred Fees (each as defined in the Plan, the Scheme, or the IMAs). However, by no later than January 2012, HCM willfully and deliberately breached its obligations under the Fund Documents and breached its duty of loyalty to the Crusader Funds. At that time, HCM caused the Crusader Funds to borrow on margin from a trading account at Jefferies, and used the borrowings to inflate the amount of distributions being made, so as to inflate the amount of HCM’s Distribution Fee. Following that date, HCM committed other acts of disloyalty and further breached its obligations to the Crusader Funds, as described in the Arbitration Award (as defined below) and as shown by the evidence presented at the arbitration hearing that led to the Arbitration Award.

As a result, pursuant to the “faithless servant” doctrine, HCM forfeited any right it had to compensation for its services from the Crusader Funds, from the date of HCM’s first disloyal act onward. See, e.g., Phansalkar v. Andersen Weinroth & Co., L.P., 344 F.3d 184, 188 (2d Cir. 2003) (“We hold that New York’s faithless servant doctrine requires Phansalkar to forfeit all compensation received after his first disloyal act.”). As a “faithless servant,” HCM is obligated to disgorge all compensation received from the Crusader Funds from the date of HCM’s first disloyal act, and has no right to any further compensation from the Crusader Funds. The Crusader Funds thus assert a claim in the following amounts:

1. Management Fees: $8,233,337
2. Distribution Fees: $15,250,109
3. Deferred Fees: $32,313,000¹
4. Other Fees: In the amount of any other compensation, fees or distributions which may now or in the future otherwise be owing to HCM

The Crusader Funds also assert an unliquidated claim for pre- and post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses in connection with recovering such amounts. The Crusader Funds also assert a claim in an unliquidated amount for any Deferred Fees to which HCM might otherwise become entitled in the future under the Fund Documents.

The Crusader Funds currently hold, and may in the future hold, amounts that HCM may claim are, either now or in the future, due to it as a result of services provided by HCM to the Crusader Funds (the "Withheld Amounts"). As a result of the claims detailed in the Arbitration Award and this Proof of Claim (including without limitation, the faithless servant claim), the Crusader Funds dispute that any such amounts are due. However, to the extent that HCM prevails on an entitlement to a claim against the Crusader Funds, the Crusader Funds have a right of setoff against any such claim to the extent of its claims against HCM and such right of setoff is further secured by the Withheld Amounts.

II. ARBITRATION AWARD

This component of the claim is asserted in the alternative to the claim asserted by the Redeemer Committee of the Crusader Funds (the "Redeemer Committee"). The Crusader Funds would withdraw this portion of their claim if and to the extent that the Redeemer Committee's claim is allowed.

On March 6, 2019, a panel of arbitrators issued a Partial Final Award (the "March Award") in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM. On April 29, 2019, the panel issued a Final Award (the "Final Award," and together with the March Award, the "Arbitration Award") in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM.² Substantially all of the relief awarded by the panel was expressly noted to be "for the benefit of the Fund." Final Award ¶¶ F.a.iii-x. The Arbitration Award is subject to the Federal Arbitration Act and The Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards. The Redeemer Committee timely moved to confirm the Award in the Delaware Chancery Court. HCM moved for partial vacatur of the Arbitration Award in June 2019. The time period to move to vacate the Arbitration Award expired prior to the Petition Date (as defined below). All capitalized terms that are not defined below have the meanings given to such terms in the Arbitration Award.

² Copies of the Arbitral Award have previously been provided the Debtor, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors, and the Office of the United States Trustee. The Crusader Funds reserve the right to file a copy of the Arbitral Award with the Bankruptcy Court.

The Arbitration Award component of the Crusader Funds' claim includes the following sub-components, and each is based on the Arbitration Award:

1. Damage Claim. The Crusader Funds assert a liquidated claim for at least $190,824,557 plus interest that is accruing beginning as of October 16, 2019, the date that HCM filed its bankruptcy case (the "Petition Date"). As set forth in the Final Award, the separate components of the Damage Claim are as follows, and the amounts set forth below are as of the Petition Date, including prepetition interest awarded under the Arbitration Award accrued to the Petition Date:
 - a. Deferred Fee Claim: $43,105,395 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.1)
 - b. Distribution Fee Claim: $22,922,608 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.2)
 - c. Taking of Plan Claims: $3,277,991 (Final Award ¶ F.a.v)
 - d. CLO Trades Claim: $685,195 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vi)
 - e. Credit Suisse Claim: $3,660,130 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vii)
 - f. UBS Claim: $2,600,968 (Final Award ¶ F.a.viii)
 - g. Barclays Claim: $30,811,366 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)
 - h. Legal Fees, Costs, and Expenses: $11,351,850 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xi)
 - i. Administrative Fees: $514,164 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xii)
 - j. Cornerstone Award: $71,894,891 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)

The Crusader Funds also assert an unliquidated claim for post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses that continue to accrue in connection with the Damage Claim.

2. Cancellation of Limited Partnership Interests. The Final Award provides, in relevant part, for the cancellation of the limited partnership interests in the Crusader Funds that are (i) held by HCM and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. that are identified in RC411, and (ii) held by Eames, Ltd. (Final Award ¶¶ F.a.v and F.a.x). The Final Award provides for HCM to transfer, or take all necessary steps to cause the transfer of, such interests to the Redeemer Committee for the benefit of the Crusader Funds. The Final Award also provides that the Redeemer Committee has the independent right to cause the Crusader Funds to cancel such limited partnership interests. The Crusader Funds reserve the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cancel such limited partnership interests in accordance with the Final Award. The Crusader Funds assert a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such limited partnership interests are not cancelled in accordance with the Final Award.
3. Deferred Fee Account. The Arbitration Award granted the Redeemer Committee's request for a declaratory judgment with respect to the immediate distribution of the

Deferred Fee Account, which the Crusader Funds continue to hold, and ordered the payment of the funds in such account to the Redeemer Committee for disbursement to the Consenting Compulsory Redeemers (March Award ¶ VII.D; Final Award ¶ F.a). The Crusader Funds reserve the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cause the distribution of the funds held in the Deferred Fee Account in accordance with the Arbitration Award. The Crusader Funds assert a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such funds are not distributed in accordance with the Arbitration Award.

The Crusader Funds file this portion of the Proof of Claim out of an abundance of caution and in the event that the Arbitration Award is determined not to be an executory contract. However, the Arbitration Award may be an executory contract under section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. HCM has not yet moved to assume or reject such contract. The Crusader Funds reserve the right to dispute whether the Arbitration Award is an executory contract and, if so, HCM's decision to reject such contract. If the Arbitration Award is determined to be an executory contract and is allowed to be rejected by the Bankruptcy Court, the Crusader Funds reserve the right to file an amended proof of claim by the bar date for the filing of rejection damages claims; if no such amended proof of claim is filed, then, this claim shall serve as the Crusader Funds' rejection damages claim. By filing this Proof of Claim, the Crusader Funds do not concede that the Arbitration Award is an executory contract, that amounts awarded under the Arbitration Award are prepetition claims or that they are now required to file a proof of claim to be entitled to the amounts described in the Arbitration Award.

The Crusader Funds reserve all rights to amend or modify this Proof of Claim in any respect, including, without limitation, to assert other or additional claims, or for the purpose of fixing or liquidating any contingent or unliquidated claims. This Proof of Claim is without prejudice to any other rights the Crusader Funds may have against the Debtor, its officers, employees, successors, or assigns.

The Crusader Funds expressly reserve all of their procedural and substantive defenses and rights with respect to any claim that may be asserted against the Crusader Funds by the Debtor, including, without limitation, any rights of setoff or recoupment.

The filing of this Proof of Claim shall not constitute: (i) an admission of liability by the Crusader Funds to any party; (ii) a waiver or release of the Crusader Funds' rights against any person, entity, or property; (iii) a consent by the Crusader Funds to the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court with respect to the subject matter of this Proof of Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases or otherwise involving the Crusader Funds; (iv) a waiver or release of the right to move to withdraw the reference to the subject matter of this Proof of Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant; (v) a waiver or release of the right to seek to have the Bankruptcy Court abstain with respect to the subject matter of this Proof of Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant, (vi) a waiver or release of the right to have final orders entered only after de novo review by a United States District Judge; (vii) a waiver or release of their right to trial by jury in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy, or proceeding related to these cases; (viii) a consent to a jury trial in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy or proceeding related to these cases, (ix) a waiver or release of their right to arbitration under the Plan and Scheme; (x) an election of remedies or limitation of rights or remedies; or (xi) a waiver or release of any other rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, or recoupments to which they are or may be entitled under agreements, in law, in equity, or otherwise, all of which rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, and recoupments are expressly reserved.

Pursuant to sections 502(b)-(d) and 558 of Title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”) and Rule 3007 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the “Bankruptcy Rules”), (i) the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Funds (the “Redeemer Committee”) and (ii) Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P., Highland Crusader Fund, L.P., Highland Crusader Fund, Ltd. and Highland Crusader Fund II, Ltd. (collectively, the “Crusader Funds”)² object to Proof of Claim Nos. 190 and 191, submitted by UBS AG, London Branch and UBS Securities, LLC (together, “UBS” and such claims, the “UBS Claim”), and join in the objection to the UBS Claim submitted by Highland Capital Management, L. P. (“Highland” or the “Debtor”)³

UBS asserts that the Debtor is liable for breaches of contract by certain of its indirect subsidiaries, and for alleged fraudulent transfers involving other subsidiaries and funds that the Debtor currently or previously managed. UBS, the Debtor, and several of the Debtor’s affiliates have been engaged in litigation that, prior to the commencement of the Debtor’s chapter 11 case, had been ongoing since 2009 in the New York State courts (collectively, the “New York Courts”). The Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds have a unique perspective on the merits of the UBS Claim because two of the Crusader Fund entities were defendants in that action. The Redeemer Committee is a committee of investors, elected pursuant to the Scheme and Plan of Liquidation of the Crusader Funds approved by the Bermuda Court, to oversee Highland’s management of the Crusader Funds through what was intended to be the complete liquidation of the fund. The Redeemer Committee played a central role in the negotiation of the settlement of UBS' claims against the Crusader Funds, pursuant to which UBS released the Debtor from much of the relief that UBS now seeks in its claim.

³ See Debtor’s Obj. to Proofs of Claim 190 and 191 of UBS Sec. LLC And UBS AG, London Branch, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Aug. 7, 2020) (Doc. No. 928).

UBS asserts that the UBS Claim arises from three principal events: (1) in the fall of 2008, certain Highland affiliates failed to honor certain contractual margin calls in connection with a proposed securitization financing; (2) in the fall of 2008, certain Highland affiliates engaged in a series of asset transfers with Highland-managed funds; and (3) on March 20, 2009, Highland affiliates unwound those transactions with the Highland-managed funds. UBS claims the Debtor owes UBS at least $1,039,957,799—the amount of a judgment that UBS obtained in February 2020 arising from the non-Debtor affiliates' breaches of contract by failing to honor the margin calls in 2008.

The majority of the UBS Claim is barred by res judicata. The New York Courts have held that res judicata bars UBS from asserting claims against Highland that are based on conduct that occurred before February 24, 2009, the date on which UBS filed its initial complaint in New York. As discussed below, that ruling was the result of UBS filing a complaint that only asserted a claim against Highland for indemnification, a claim that was later dismissed. Notwithstanding this absolute bar, UBS asserts that the Debtor should be held liable for pre-February 24, 2009 conduct, including that of certain of its affiliates, which ultimately resulted in the New York trial court entering a $1,039,957,799 judgment against those entities. It is telling that UBS recently acknowledged that it has never even alleged in the New York action that Highland was the alter ego of the judgment debtors. See UBS Reply ISO its Mot. to Lift Automatic Stay at 6, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 11, 2020) (Doc. No. 733B); Hr'g Trans. at 30-31, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 15, 2020)

(Doc. No. 746A). Any such alter ego claim would be a new path to establish liability that is barred by res judicata. To the extent that the UBS Claim is based on the Debtor’s pre-February 24, 2009 conduct, res judicata requires disallowance of that claim.

After giving effect to res judicata, the surviving part of the UBS Claim is based on certain asset transfers made by an affiliate of the Debtor, Highland Financial Partners LP (“HFP”), in March 2009. UBS asserts that those transfers were fraudulent conveyances, and that Highland breached the implied duty of good faith and fair dealing by participating in those transfers. UBS named several Highland-managed funds that received assets in March 2009 as defendants in the New York action, including two Crusader Fund entities—Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (“Crusader Offshore Fund”) and Highland Crusader Holding Corporation (“Crusader Holding”)—as well as Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. (the “Credit Strategies Fund”). These funds later entered into settlement agreements with UBS, and Highland was a signatory to each agreement. The settlement agreements provide, in relevant part, that UBS released Highland from any [REDACTED] [REDACTED] each fund as alleged by UBS. The UBS releases of Highland foreclosed the possibility that Highland could later be found liable to UBS in connection with the transfers to those funds. This protection was of central importance to the funds [REDACTED] [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

The chapter 11 process does not provide an alleged creditor the opportunity to relitigate matters that are the subject of final, non-appealable decisions of a state court, or prevent enforcement of valid and binding settlement agreements. As demonstrated below, UBS ignores or misconstrues the New York Courts’ decisions and the settlement agreements to attempt to avoid the necessary conclusion that the UBS Claim must be disallowed as a matter of law other than the extent it seeks damages arising from the March 2009 transfer of assets to entities other than Crusader and Credit Strategies. Based on UBS's expert valuations, in no instance would UBS's claim against the Debtor exceed [REDACTED] before prejudgment interest.

II. JURISDICTION

The Court has jurisdiction over this matter under the Bankruptcy Code and pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334. This matter is a core proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. §§ 157(b)(2)(A), (B) and (L). Venue is proper in this District under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1408 and 1409. The statutory predicates for the relief requested herein are 11 U.S.C. § 502(b)-(d) and Fed. R. Bankr. P. 3007.

III. BACKGROUND

A. Fund Counterparties Fail to Meet Margin Calls in 2008.

In April 2007, UBS entered into agreements (collectively, the "CLO Warehouse Agreements") with Highland and two affiliates of Highland—Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. ("CDO") and Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company ("SOHC") (together, the "Fund Counterparties")—to establish a warehouse facility to finance the acquisition of syndicated leveraged loans and credit default swaps. (Ex. 1, 4/12/07 Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement; Ex. 2, 4/20/07 Original Engagement Ltr.; Ex. 3, 5/22/07 Original Cash Warehouse Agreement.) Those assets, in turn, were to serve as the basis for a securitization pursuant to which notes would be sold to investors.

Due to market conditions, the securitized offering did not occur by the contractual deadline, and the CLO Warehouse Agreements terminated. In March 2008, UBS, Highland, and the Fund Counterparties entered into restructured warehouse agreements (collectively, the "Restructured CLO Warehouse Agreements"). (See Ex. 4, UBS Securities LLC Proof of Claim ¶7, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 26, 2020) (Claim No. 190).) The Restructured CLO Warehouse Agreements gave UBS the right to make margin calls on the Fund Counterparties in the event of a decline in the market value of the loans and swaps.⁴

As the market deteriorated in the fall of 2008, UBS made three margin calls on the Fund Counterparties. The Fund Counterparties satisfied the first two margin calls in September and October 2008, using funds provided by SOHC's parent corporation, HFP. (Ex. 5, Decision and Order at 4, UBS Sec. LLC, et al v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097-2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019). The Fund Counterparties failed to satisfy a third margin call in November 2008, and UBS issued a notice of termination of the Restructured CLO Warehouse Agreements in December. *Id.*⁵

B. Highland Affiliates Engage in Fall 2008 Transfers

Meanwhile, during the fall of 2008, certain funds then managed by Highland—including the Crusader Offshore Fund—transferred certain assets to HFP in [REDACTED] (the “Fall 2008 Transfers”). [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] HFP was not a party to the Restructured CLO Warehouse Agreements.

C. The Fall 2008 Transfers are Unwound on March 20, 2009.

The parties to the Fall 2008 Transfers unwound those transactions on March 20, 2009 (“March 2009 Transfers”). [REDACTED]

⁴ Furthermore, those agreements explicitly placed the risk of loss on the Fund Counterparties, and not Highland, as the New York Appellate Division held. UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al., 893 N.Y.S.2d 869 (N.Y. App. Div. 2010) (“the agreements between the parties contain no promise on the part of Highland to undertake liability with respect to the investment losses suffered by plaintiffs, or to ensure or guarantee the performance of [Fund Counterparties]’ obligations to bear the risk of investment losses.”).

⁵ UBS’s Proof of Claim employs sleight of hand by defining the term “Highland” to include the Fund Counterparties. (See Ex. 4, UBS Securities LLC Proof of Claim ¶¶2, 11, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 26, 2020) (Claim No. 190).) Accordingly, while the UBS Claim states that “Highland posted the required collateral” and refers to “Highland’s default on UBS’s third margin call,” it was the Fund Counterparties that posted collateral and failed to meet the final margin call. See id. at ¶¶11-12.

As a result, [REDACTED] HFP returned the assets to the transferors, including the Crusader Fund and the Credit Strategies Fund. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] According to UBS's expert in the New York action, HFP transferred assets with a market value of [REDACTED]

D. UBS Sues Over the Restructured Warehouse Transaction and Its Claim Against Highland Is Dismissed.

UBS filed its first complaint on February 24, 2009, against the Fund Counterparties and Highland. (Ex. 10, Compl., UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097/09 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Feb. 24, 2009).) UBS's original complaint contained only one claim against Highland—a contractual claim for indemnification. Id. ¶¶50-56. Highland moved to dismiss that claim, arguing that the indemnification provision did not apply to the particular losses claimed by UBS. UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, 893 N.Y.S.2d 869 (N.Y. App. Div. 2010). The indemnification claim was dismissed by the New York appellate court. UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, 893 N.Y.S.2d 869 (N.Y. App. Div. 2010) (“the agreements between the parties contain no promise on the part of Highland to undertake liability with respect to the investment losses suffered by plaintiffs, or to ensure or guarantee the performance of [Fund Counterparties]' obligations to bear the risk of investment losses.”).

E. New York Appellate Division Dismisses Claims Against Highland as Barred by Res Judicata.

On February 16, 2010, UBS sought amend its original complaint to assert new claims against Highland and others⁷ for claims arising from the Restructured Warehouse transaction, the Fall 2008 Transfers and the March 2009 Transfers, alleging that the March 2009 Transfers were fraudulent conveyances that benefitted Highland, and that, by causing the unwinding, Highland breached the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing in the Restructured Warehouse Agreement. (Ex. 12, 2/16/10 UBS Ltr. to Court, UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., No. 650097/2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.)) The New York Supreme Court denied the portion of UBS's motion that sought leave to add new claims against Highland, agreeing with Highland's position that a party cannot amend a pleading that has already been dismissed. (Ex. 11, Ruling at 5, UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., No. 650097/2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Jun. 17, 2010).)

Thereafter, UBS commenced a new action against Highland, in which it asserted the causes of action it had unsuccessfully sought to add to the original complaint. (Ex. 13, Compl., UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., No. 650752/2010 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Jun. 28, 2010).)⁸

Highland moved to dismiss the new action, and the trial court granted the motion in part and denied it in part. UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt. L.P., et al, No. 650097/09, 2010 WL 6268233 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Aug. 05, 2010). The parties appealed. UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, 86 A.D.3d 469 (N.Y. App. Div. 2011). The appellate court dismissed the fraudulent inducement claim against Highland, and held that to the extent UBS's new claims for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing and fraudulent conveyance arise from conduct alleged to have occurred before the commencement of the original action, i.e., February 24, 2009, the claims must be dismissed. Id. The appellate court reasoned:

Here, to the extent the claims against Highland in the new complaint implicate events alleged to have taken place before the filing of the original complaint, res judicata applies. That is because UBS's claims against Highland in the original action and in this action all arise out of the restructured warehousing transaction.

Id. Because this ruling precluded UBS from pursuing claims against Highland arising from conduct occurring before February 24, 2009, the appellate court barred UBS from asserting any claims based on (1) the Fund Counterparties' failure to meet the margin calls in late 2008—the claim on which the trial court ultimately found the Fund Counterparties liable in the amount of $1,039,957,799, and (2) the Fall 2008 Transfers. As a result of this ruling, the only surviving claims against the Debtor arise from the March 2009 Transfers.

F. In 2013, Highland Moves for Summary Judgment

In October 2013, Highland, HFP, and other defendants moved for summary judgment on UBS's remaining claims. The trial court recognized that “the Appellate Division decisions preclude any fraudulent conveyance claims arising before February 24, 2009. They therefore preclude UBS from recovering for any alleged fraudulent transfers made before that date.” (Ex. 15, Ruling at 25, UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097/2009 (N.Y.

Sup. Ct. Mar. 24, 2017).) The court stated that UBS could still introduce evidence of pre-February 24, 2009 conduct to support claims that only arose after February 24, 2009:

However, proof of pre-February 24, 2009 transfer, and of other conduct involving the operation of the Highland entities, is not prohibited to the extent necessary to prove UBS's claims for post-February 24, 2009 fraudulent conveyances, which are maintainable under the Appellate Division decisions under an alter ego theory.⁹

Id. The court also dismissed UBS's claim against Highland for breach of good faith and fair dealing because the contract at issue, the Restructured CLO Warehouse Agreement, was terminated before February 24, 2009. Id. at 34-35.

The parties appealed. Initially, the Appellate Division reinstated the claim for breach of good faith and fair dealing and dismissed the entirety of the fraudulent conveyance claim against Highland, including for the March 2009 Transfers, but the court later vacated that opinion. (Ex. 17, Order at 3-4, UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097/2009 (N.Y. App. Div. 2017)); UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, 159 A.D.3d 512, 514 (N.Y. App. Div. 2018). In its subsequent decision, the Appellate Division held that the fraudulent conveyance and breach of good faith and fair dealing claims could survive, but only to the extent they arose from conduct occurring after February 24, 2009:

There is no dispute that plaintiffs are precluded from pursuing fraudulent conveyance and breach of implied covenant claims that arose prior to February 24, 2009. However, neither our prior decisions nor the doctrine of res judicata bars plaintiffs from introducing evidence of pre-February 24, 2009 conduct to the extent necessary to prove, with respect to post-February 24, 2009 conduct, their alter ego, fraudulent conveyance and breach of implied covenant claims. The court correctly rejected defendants' arguments in support of dismissal of the remaining claims at issue.

UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, 159 A.D.3d 512, 514 (N.Y. App. Div. 2018).

G. The New York Court Holds the Phase I Trial, and Finds the Fund Counterparties Liable.

Although the New York courts barred UBS from pursuing claims against Highland arising before February 24, 2009, UBS's originally-pleaded breach of contract claims against the Fund Counterparties for failing to meet the margin calls in the fall of 2008 survived. (Ex. 10, Compl. ¶¶38-49, UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097/2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Feb. 24, 2009).) The court bifurcated the case for trial, ruling that Phase I of the trial would be a bench trial on the breach of contract claims against the Fund Counterparties, and the remaining claims, including all of the claims involving post-February 24, 2009 conduct, would be tried in Phase II. (Ex. 18, 5/1/2018 Hearing Tr. at 35:15-22, UBS Securities LLC, et al v. Highland Capital Mgmt. L.P., et al, No. 650097-2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. May 1, 2018).)

The New York Court held the Phase I bench trial in July 2018, and on November 14, 2019 the court issued a decision finding the Fund Counterparties liable for breaching the Restructured CLO Warehouse Agreements and awarding damages of $519,374,149, which ultimately resulted in entry of a judgment for $1,039,957,799, with prejudgment interest. (Ex. 5, Decision and Order at 39 UBS Sec. LLC, et al v. Highland Capital Mgmt. L.P., et al, No. 650097/2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Nov. 14, 2019.); Ex. 19, Judgment at 2, UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097/2010 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Feb. 10, 2020).) The court made no findings with respect to Highland or the remaining defendants,¹⁰ and those claims were scheduled to be heard during Phase II of the proceedings. On October 16, 2019, the Debtor filed for chapter 11 protection, staying the proceedings against it.

Only two counts remain against the Debtor: (1) fraudulent conveyance, actual and constructive, premised on the March 2009 Transfers, in which HFP transferred assets to Highland and to the Highland-managed fund co-defendants; and (2) breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing attendant to the contracts underlying the Restructured CLO Warehouse Agreements, based on the March 2009 Transfers.

H. In 2015, UBS Released Claims Against Highland Arising From the March 2009 Transfers to the Credit Strategies Fund and the Crusader Fund.

In 2015, Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P., Highland Crusader Holding Corporation, and Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. entered into settlements with UBS. Highland was a signatory to both the Crusader and Credit Strategies settlement agreements. Each agreement settled all of UBS's claims against the applicable fund. The settlement agreements also released Highland from claims by UBS arising from the March 2009 Transfers to the Crusader and Credit Strategies funds. Highland is one of the [REDACTED]

IV. ARGUMENT

In order to establish its claim for over $1 billion against the Debtor, UBS must ignore the decisions issued by the New York Courts and the settlement agreements pursuant to which it released the Debtor from liability arising from most of the March 2009 Transfers. The chapter 11 process, however, does not grant a creditor a "do over" so that it can relitigate claims that are the subject of final, non-appealable decisions issued by state courts, or valid and binding settlement agreements. For the reasons discussed below, the UBS Claim should be disallowed as a matter of law except to the extent UBS is seeking damages with respect to the remaining assets that it alleges were the subject of fraudulent transfers to entities other than Crusader or Credit Strategies in March 2009, which according to its expert were valued at [REDACTED]

A. Standard

The Bankruptcy Code establishes a burden-shifting framework for proving the amount and validity of a claim. “A claim . . . , proof of which is filed under section 501 [of the Bankruptcy Code], is deemed allowed, unless a party in interest . . . objects.” 11 U.S.C. §502(a). “A proof of claim executed and filed in accordance with the [Bankruptcy Rules] shall constitute prima facie evidence of the validity and amount of the claim.” Fed. R. Bankr. P.3001(f); see also In re Armstrong, 347 B.R. 581, 583 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2006). However, the ultimate burden of proof for a claim always lies with the claimant. Armstrong, 347 B.R. at 583 (citing Raleigh v. Ill. Dep’t of Rev., 530 U.S. 15 (2000)).

B. Several New York Court Rulings Bar UBS from Seeking Damages From the Debtor Arising From Conduct Occurring Before February 24, 2009.

This Court should disallow the UBS Claim to the extent it seeks to hold the Debtor liable for any conduct predating February 24, 2009 because the New York Courts have repeatedly held that res judicata bars any such claims. UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, 86 A.D.3d 469, 474 (N.Y. App. Div. 2011); UBS v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, 93 A.D.3d 489, 490 (N.Y. App. Div. 2012); UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097/09 at 34 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Mar., 24 2017); UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, 159 A.D.3d 512, 514 (N.Y. App. Div. 2018). In its proof of claim, UBS seeks $1,039,957,799—the exact amount of the judgment against the Fund Counterparties for their failure to honor the margin calls in the fall of 2008—a claim entirely precluded by res judicata. (Ex. 4, UBS Securities LLC Proof of Claim ¶24, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 26, 2020) (Claim No. 190); Ex. 19, Judgment at 2, UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650752/10 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Feb. 10, 2020).). UBS claims that it is entitled to recover the judgment against the Fund Counterparties from the Debtor because Highland was “party to the same contract and exercised complete control over the two liable affiliates—under which Claimant is entitled to damages that are at least as much as the Phase I judgment amount.” (Ex. 4, UBS Securities LLC Proof of Claim ¶24, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 26, 2020) (Claim No. 190).) This argument flies in the face of the multiple rulings of the New York Courts to the contrary.

Those final, non-appealable New York Court rulings are binding here. See Matter of Brady, Texas, Mun. Gas Corp., 936 F.2d 212, 218 (5th Cir. 1991) (“unless the Code provides otherwise, state courts have concurrent jurisdiction, and bankruptcy courts are prohibited from relitigating these matters if the state courts have already resolved them.”); In re Ocasio, 10 F. App’x 531, 531-32 (9th Cir.2001); In re Bellucci, 119 B.R. 763, 769 (Bankr. E.D. Cal. 1990).

The Debtor and the Redeemer Committee each pointed out in their objections to UBS’s motion to lift the automatic stay that res judicata bars UBS from pursuing these claims. See Debtor’s Obj. to UBS’s Mot. to Lift Automatic Stay ¶25-26, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 3, 2020) (Doc. No. 687); Redeemer Comm. Obj. to UBS’s Mot. to Lift Automatic Stay at 13-14, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 8, 2020) (Doc. No. 714).) In its reply, UBS claimed that the New York courts had, in fact, held the opposite—that UBS was expressly permitted to assert claims arising from pre-February 24, 2009 conduct. (UBS Reply ISO its Mot. to Lift Automatic Stay ¶6, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 11, 2020) (Doc. No. 733B) (“This is virtually identical to the [res judicata] “defense” at hand, and both the State Court and the Appellate Division rejected the Debtor’s ultimate conclusion—that UBS’s ability to prove its claims against the Debtor are, in fact, “limited” to reliance on post-February 2009 conduct only.”) UBS quotes selective portions of those decisions to support its conclusion:

The State Court rejected this point when it ruled on the Debtor’s motion. See Docket No. 688-4 at 25 (Mar. 13, 2017 State Court Summ. J. Op.) (“This court previously rejected the contention, advanced by moving defendants here, that UBS cannot rely on events or conduct occurring before February 2009 to support its alter ego and fraudulent conveyance claims.”). And the Appellate Division squarely rejected it once more on appeal. Ex. 2 at 46 (Mar. 15, 2018 Order) (“The court correctly rejected defendants’ arguments” because “neither our prior decisions nor the doctrine of res judicata bars plaintiffs from introducing evidence of pre-February 24, 2009 conduct to the extent necessary to prove, with respect to post-February 24, 2009 conduct, their alter ego, fraudulent conveyance and breach of implied covenant claims.”).

Id.

UBS’s citations are misleading, at best. The full text of the lower court’s ruling makes clear that UBS is barred from pursuing claims against the Debtor arising before February 24, 2009:

This court previously rejected the contention, advanced by moving defendants here, that UBS cannot rely on events or conduct occurring before February 2009 to support its alter ego and fraudulent conveyance claims. As held in the prior decision, the Appellate Division decisions preclude any fraudulent conveyance claims arising before February 24, 2009. They therefore preclude UBS from recovering for any alleged fraudulent conveyances made before that date. However, proof of pre-February 24, 2009 transfers, and of other conduct involving the operations of the Highland entities, is not prohibited to the extent necessary to prove UBS’s claims for post-February 24, 2009 fraudulent conveyances, which are maintainable under the Appellate Division decisions on an alter ego theory.

(Ex. 15, Ruling at 25, UBS Sec. LLC v Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097/2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. Mar. 24, 2017) (emphasis added).) Similarly, UBS again selectively omits the portion of the appellate ruling that precludes UBS from pursuing damages arising before February 24, 2009:

There is no dispute that plaintiffs are precluded from pursuing fraudulent conveyance and breach of implied covenant claims that arose prior to February 24, 2009. However, neither our prior decisions nor the doctrine of res judicata bars plaintiffs from introducing evidence of pre-February 24, 2009 conduct to the extent necessary to prove, with respect to post-February 24, 2009 conduct, their alter ego, fraudulent conveyance and breach of implied covenant claims. The court correctly rejected defendants' arguments in support of dismissal of the remaining claims at issue.

UBS Sec. LLC v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, 86 A.D.3d 469, 474 (N.Y. App. Div. 2011) (emphasis added).

The New York Courts ruled that UBS may not pursue claims against Highland arising from conduct occurring before February 24, 2009. The language that UBS cites states only that, in pursuit of its post-February 24, 2009 claims regarding the March 2009 Transfers, UBS may introduce evidence of conduct predating its original complaint.

The "Phase I" judgment that UBS seeks to recover from Highland was, unequivocally, based entirely on conduct predating February 24, 2009. (Ex. 5, Decision and Order at 4-5, UBS Sec. LLC, et al v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097-2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2019).) UBS concedes that it seeks to hold Highland liable based on that 2008 conduct, because it was "party to the same contract and exercised complete control over the two liable affiliates" in 2008. (See Ex. 4, UBS Securities LLC Proof of Claim at ¶24, In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 19-34054-sgj11 (N.D. Tex. Jun. 26, 2020) (Claim No. 190).) This Court should disallow UBS's claim to the extent it seeks to impose any liability on the Debtor arising from pre-February 24, 2009 conduct, including liability for the Phase I judgment.

The only remaining claims UBS has against the Debtor are for fraudulent conveyance and the breach of good faith and fair dealing with respect to the March 2009 Transfers. However, as demonstrated below, UBS entered into two settlement agreements in the New York action that substantially reduce UBS's claim to damages [REDACTED] before any prejudgment interest.

C. The Settlement Agreements Between UBS and the Crusader and Credit Strategies Funds Released UBS's Claims for Most of the Damages from the March 2009 Transfers.

This Court should disallow UBS's claim to the extent it seeks damages arising from the March 2009 Transfers to the Crusader Fund and the Credit Strategies Fund, because UBS released those claims in 2015 settlement agreements. Bankruptcy courts have the authority to enforce settlement agreements in the claims adjudication process. In re City Equities Anaheim, Ltd., 22 F.3d 954, 958 (9th Cir. 1994) ("A bankruptcy court, as a court of equity, likewise possesses the power to summarily enforce settlements."); In re Mortg. Analysis Portfolio Strategies, Inc., 221 B.R. 386, 388 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 1998) (holding that "this Court has the inherent power to enforce settlement agreements between parties."); In re De La Fuente, 409 B.R. 842, 845 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2009).

(11th ed. 2019) (“Money claimed by, or ordered to be paid to, a person as compensation for loss or injury.”) Further, even if UBS’s claim for damages arising from the March 2009 Transfers was somehow not [REDACTED] UBS’s Claim for damages is a request for [REDACTED] [REDACTED] Confederated Tribe of Colville Reservation v. White, 1996 WL 33407856, at *3 (E.D. Wash. Nov. 7, 1996) (“filing a proof of claim is an affirmative act seeking relief via a court’s adjudication of a dispute.”); In re Barrett Ref. Corp., 221 B.R. 795, 811 (Bankr. W.D. Okla. 1998) (“The filing of a proof of claim is not merely a defense, but is an affirmative claim for relief.”); Mertens v. Hewitt Assocs., 508 U.S. 248, 269 (1993).

UBS released all claims for any type of relief against Highland arising from the March 2009 Transfers to the two funds, including UBS’s claim for breach of good faith and fair dealing arising from that transfer. The Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Fund should be given the full benefit of their bargain from the settlement agreement, and UBS should not be permitted to recover relief from the Debtor that UBS already released. The Crusader Fund and the Redeemer Committee respectfully request that this Court disallow UBS’s claim to the extent it seeks to hold the Debtor liable under any legal theory for damages arising from the March 20, 2009 Transfers to the Crusader Fund or Credit Strategies Fund, including UBS’s claims for fraudulent conveyance and breach of good faith and fair dealing.

CONCLUSION

For all these reasons, this Court should disallow UBS’s claim against the Debtor to the extent that it (1) seeks to hold the Debtor liable for claims arising from conduct occurring before February 24, 2009; and (2) seeks to hold the Debtor liable for claims arising from the March 2009 Transfers with respect to the asset transfers to the Credit Strategies Fund and Crusader Fund.

ADDENDUM TO PROOF OF CLAIM FILED BY UBS AG, LONDON BRANCH

1. UBS Securities LLC hereby submits this addendum to its proof of claim (together, the “Proof of Claim”) against Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”) in the above-captioned chapter 11 case (the “Chapter 11 Case”).

2. UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (together, the “Claimant” or “UBS”) each have claims against the Debtor and each is filing a proof of claim in this Chapter 11 Case. Because their claims arise from the same set of factual events, including the same failed transaction, misconduct involving the Debtor and its affiliates, and subsequent litigation, the UBS claims overlap and their proof of claim forms and addendums are substantially the same.

3. This addendum is attached to, incorporated into, and constitutes an integral part of Claimant’s Proof of Claim against the Debtor. Claimant files this Proof of Claim under compulsion of the Order (I) Establishing Bar Dates for Filing Claims and (II) Approving the Form and Manner of Notice Thereof [Docket No. 488], as extended by the Joint Stipulation and Order Extending Bar Date [Docket No. 547] and modified by the Order Denying UBS’s Motion for Relief from the Automatic Stay to Proceed with State Court Action [Docket No. 765], solely for the purpose of asserting Claimant’s claims against the Debtor, as more particularly described and subject to any limitations set forth below.

Factual Background

A. The Knox Transaction

2. Claimant’s claims arise out of a failed transaction dating back thirteen years ago and the state court action (the “State Court Action”) that followed between Claimant, the Debtor, Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (“CDO Fund”) and Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”) (together with CDO Fund, the “Fund Counterparties,” and the Fund Parties and the Debtor collectively, “Highland”), among other parties.²

3. In early 2007, Claimant and Highland agreed to pursue a complex form of securitization transaction known as a “CLO Squared” (the “Knox Transaction”). (Ex. B, Decision at 2.) The purpose of the Knox Transaction was to acquire and securitize a series of collateralized loan obligation (“CLO”) securities and credit default swap (“CDS”) assets (the “Knox Assets”). To that end, the Debtor agreed to be the “Servicer” of the Knox Transaction, and as such was responsible for identifying the specific CLO and CDS assets to be securitized. Claimant agreed to finance the acquisition of the CLO and CDS assets identified by Highland. Claimant would then hold, or “warehouse,” the assets until the securitization was completed (the “Knox Warehouse”). Under this arrangement, Claimant financed the acquisition of $818 million in Knox Assets. (Id.)

² The procedural history of the State Court Action is incorporated by reference, but is voluminous. The operative Second Amended Complaint and Phase I Decision and Order are attached as Exhibit A and Exhibit B, respectively. Additional pleadings and orders can be found on the State Court docket for Index No. 650097/2009 or by contacting Claimant’s counsel. Claimant reserves the right to file a copy of additional pleadings or orders with this Court.

4. The parties' first attempt at the Knox Transaction was not completed successfully and the relevant agreements expired in August 2007 without the contemplated securitization having occurred. (Id. at 3.) Rather than end their relationship, however, Highland and Claimant continued to consider the possibility of pursuing the contemplated securitization in 2008 under restructured versions of the prior agreements. Highland and Claimant always understood that—if the securitization were not successful—the Fund Counterparties would be obligated to pay Claimant for 100% of the losses on any CLO or CDS assets that been acquired and warehoused for the securitization. In order to convince Claimant to agree to enter restructured versions of those agreements and to finance the acquisition of the CLO and CDS assets, Highland assured Claimant that the Fund Counterparties had sufficient assets to cover any losses. It did so by providing Claimant with false, incomplete, and otherwise misleading information concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. (Ex. A, Compl. ¶¶ 47-61.)

5. In addition, Claimant specifically conditioned its agreement to enter the restructured agreements on the Fund Counterparties' ability to post an additional $70 million in cash and securities as collateral (the "Initial Restructuring Collateral"), in which Claimant would hold a security interest. (Id. ¶¶ 56-59; Ex. B, Decision at 3.) Highland assembled $70 million in such Initial Restructuring Collateral. But what Highland did not tell Claimant—and what is now clear was omitted on purpose—was that the Fund Counterparties did not own all of the Initial Restructuring Collateral they were expected to post. Instead, to meet this obligation, the Debtor exercised its control over other Highland affiliates, transferring and redirecting assets from such other entities that it controlled to assemble the Initial Restructuring Collateral. (Ex. A, Compl. ¶¶ 56-59.)

6. Similarly, while negotiating the restructured transaction, Highland provided Claimant with financial reports and statements that contained materially false and misleading information and omissions concerning the financial condition of the Fund Counterparties. (Id. ¶¶ 47-52.) The Debtor itself had prepared these financial statements and knew they contained material misstatements. (Id. ¶¶ 48-50, 54.) Among other things, Highland misrepresented the amount of cash held by CDO Fund. (Id. ¶ 52.) Highland also failed to disclose that many of the assets on the Fund Counterparties' financial statements already had been encumbered. (Id. ¶¶ 51, 53.) These misrepresentations not only evince a specific intent by Highland to induce Claimant into entering the restructured agreements, but a longstanding willingness to prevent Claimant from ever recovering the amounts owed under the parties' proposed agreements in the event the Knox Assets suffered any losses. In addition, these events show the Debtor's singular control over—and ability to move—assets from one Highland affiliate to another at will.

7. Based on Highland's material misstatements and omissions, Claimant agreed to pursue the restructured transaction and once more attempt the securitization, and the parties executed three new written agreements: an Engagement Letter, a Cash Warehouse Agreement, and a Synthetic Warehouse Agreement (collectively, the "Warehouse Agreements"). (See Ex. B, Decision at 3.) The Engagement Letter was executed by Claimant and the Debtor; the Fund Counterparties were not parties to the Engagement Letter. (Ex. A, Compl. ¶ 62.) The Cash Warehouse and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements were executed by Claimant and the Debtor, along with the Fund Counterparties. (Id. ¶¶ 64-65.)

8. As described above, Claimant agreed to finance the acquisition of the CLO and CDS assets that the parties planned to securitize. In so doing, the key risk Claimant faced was the possibility that the Knox Assets would lose value while securitization was pending. To address this risk, Claimant and the Debtor agreed in the Engagement Letter that the Fund Counterparties would bear this risk. Notably, at the time, the Debtor was the Investment Manager to the Fund Counterparties under agreements that gave the Debtor total control over those entities. (Ex. A, Compl. ¶¶ 24, 26.)

9. The Warehouse Agreements reiterated that the Fund Counterparties (as controlled by the Debtor) would bear the risk, specifying that if the Knox Assets lost value while securitization was pending, the Fund Counterparties “will in aggregate bear 100% of the risk” for the Knox Assets—with CDO Fund bearing 51% of any losses and SOHC bearing the remaining 49%.

10. To further protect Claimant in the event that the Knox Assets lost value, the Warehouse Agreements provided for recurring measurements of mark-to-market losses on all assets in the Knox Warehouse and required the Fund Counterparties to post collateral in the event the Knox Assets lost a set amount of value. Specifically, the parties agreed that the Fund Counterparties would post an additional $10 million in collateral for each $100 million in losses to the overall value of the Knox Assets. (Ex. B, Decision at 4.)

11. In September and October 2008, amid the global economic recession, the value of the Knox Assets dropped by $100 million, twice. Thus, Claimant twice exercised its contractual right to demand additional collateral. And twice Highland posted the required collateral. (Id.) Although the Warehouse Agreements specified that it was the Fund Counterparties who would post collateral, the Debtor moved assets around from other entities it controlled to make the first two collateral calls (without disclosing this practice to Claimant). (Ex. A, Compl. ¶ 79.) On or about November 7, 2008, Claimant issued a third margin call, because the value of the Knox Assets suffered additional losses of $200 million (bringing the aggregate losses to over $400 million).

(Ex. B, Decision at 4.) This time, Highland refused to provide the additional collateral required under the Warehouse Agreements.

12. Highland's default on Claimant's third margin call triggered a termination event under the Warehouse Agreements. (Id.) On December 5, 2008, Claimant gave Highland formal notice of default and demanded the Fund Counterparties pay Claimant for 100% of the losses incurred on the Knox Assets—which had, by then, grown to over $520 million.

13. There is no question that the Debtor knew the Fund Counterparties were liable for the losses under the Warehouse Agreements. Indeed, the Highland officer who executed the Warehouse Agreements admitted under oath that, “as of the end of the year 2008,” Highland knew that the Fund Counterparties owed Claimant “hundreds of millions of dollars in connection with the Knox Warehouse Agreements.” (Travers Dep. at 261:8-20.) But rather than paying Claimant what it was owed, the Debtor, with Mr. Dondero at the helm, “devised a strategy to delay the resolution of that obligation [to pay Claimant] for as long as possible.” (Id.) To that end, Highland devised and subsequently deployed a multifaceted strategy—one that would last for many years thereafter—to intentionally frustrate and prevent Claimant from recovering any of the amounts that both the Debtor and the Fund Counterparties knew were rightfully owed to Claimant under the Warehouse Agreements.

14. First, the Debtor directed the Fund Counterparties to withhold any payment to Claimant—a position that the Fund Counterparties maintained (again, under the specific direction of the Debtor) for more than a decade. (See id.) The Debtor did so not only with the specific knowledge that the Fund Counterparties owed hundreds of millions of dollars to Claimant for the losses on the Knox Assets, but with the knowledge that Claimant would come seeking payment for such losses and, in particular, to look toward any and all collateral owned by the Fund Counterparties as one source of payment. As one of Highland’s officers stated an internal email to Mr. Dondero in an internal email dated January 16, 2009: “[UBS] is going to be calling [] today asking for all additional collateral that cdo and sohc have left to cover the obligation left by the knock transaction.” But rather than turning over the collateral in question to Claimant or, at the very least, securing such assets so that they could be used to pay Claimant, the Debtor directed the Fund Counterparties to withhold such assets and payments from Claimant: “[T]hey can see us in court for their additional collateral.” True to that promise, even after Claimant filed suit and laid out the amounts due under the contracts, the Debtor forced the Fund Counterparties to launch an affirmative, multi-year campaign—one which would consume much of the cash and assets belonging to the Fund Counterparties themselves—to stave off any payment from the Fund Counterparties to force Claimant to try to recover such claims through litigation and, once in litigation, devising knowingly baseless defenses and arguments for the Fund Counterparties to assert in such litigation.

15. On top of directing the Fund Counterparties to withhold payment and force Claimant to litigate for amounts the Debtor already knew they rightfully owed to Claimant, the Debtor undertook a litany of other actions to ensure that, even if Claimant were successful in the litigation it had been forced to initiate against the Fund Counterparties, it would not be able to collect any judgment arising out of the litigation. Such actions included, but were not limited to, a series of fraudulent transfers out of, and away from, an alter ego of SOHC, Highland Financial Partners, L.P. (“HFP”). (Ex. A, Compl. ¶ 109.) These internal transfers of funds—all overseen by James Dondero, the Debtor’s founder and president—were designed to prevent Claimant from ever collecting the millions of dollars it was owed under the Warehouse Agreements.

16. In addition to such fraudulent transfers, the Debtor also took steps after the lawsuit was filed to ensure that no additional value would be transferred to the Fund Counterparties—deliberately taking steps to keep both SOHC and CDO Fund undercapitalized. Not only did the Debtor prevent additional value from being transferred to the Fund Counterparties, it is clear that the Debtor also failed to ensure that the Fund Counterparties retained assets that could be used to pay any such judgment. Quite to the contrary, it is now clear that any and all assets of any value that once belonged to the Fund Counterparties have, in one way or another, been transferred away, drained, or otherwise wasted by the Fund Counterparties, the Debtor itself, or the Debtor’s affiliates—all at the Debtor’s direction. Indeed, in a recent filing before this Court, the Debtor recently disclosed that both of the Fund Counterparties are completely “insolvent.” (Docket No. 687 at 1.) This means that—separate and apart from the transfers of assets out of, and away from, HFP that occurred in 2009—the Debtor has directed, or otherwise permitted, the Fund Counterparties to engage in acts that have left these once marque investment funds with literally no assets that can be used to pay Claimant. All such actions and omissions by the Debtor were performed with either the specific intent to prevent or frustrate Claimant’s ability to recover the amounts owed under the Warehouse Agreements, or a wanton and reckless disregard of Claimant’s rights to those amounts. Such actions and omissions constitute breaches of the Debtor’s duty of good faith and fair dealing under the Warehouse Agreements.

B. The State Court Action and the Debtor’s Efforts to Avoid Paying Claimant

17. On February 24, 2009, Claimant filed a complaint in the Supreme Court of the State of New York (the “State Court”) against the Debtor and the Fund Counterparties. With knowledge of Claimant’s lawsuit, the Debtor exercised its control over the Fund Counterparties to ensure they would not meet their obligations and to impede Claimant’s ability to recover the amounts owed by those entities. (Id. ¶¶ 112, 114.) Rather than paying Claimant what it was owed, and as discussed above, the Debtor orchestrated an extensive multi-part strategy to delay resolution of Claimant’s claims for as long as possible. As a result, the Debtor further interfered with Claimant’s contractual rights, thereby breaching the covenants of good faith and fair dealing inherent in the Warehouse Agreements. (Id.)

18. By this time, the Fund Counterparties and SOHC’s alter ego, HFP, had become insolvent, although they still owned significant assets. (Id. ¶ 108.) Nonetheless, the Debtor failed to act in good faith to cause HFP to satisfy the debts, as much as possible, then owed to Claimant. Instead, the Debtor caused HFP to make additional improper and fraudulent asset transfers, deliberately kept the Fund Counterparties undercapitalized, and allowed all assets of any value to be drained from the Fund Counterparties—acts which not only impaired Claimant’s ability to recover anything from the Fund Counterparties, but precluded it altogether. (Id. ¶ 111.) In March 2009, conscious that Claimant had commenced an action against Highland a few weeks earlier, and in breach of their continuing duty of good faith and fair dealing, and with actual fraudulent intent, the Debtor and HFP caused asset transfers of millions of dollars of assets to the Debtor, Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P., Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P., and Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (now Highland Multi Strategy Credit Fund, L.P.) (collectively, the “Affiliated Transferee Defendants”), among others, thereby further reducing Highland’s abilities to meet their obligations to Claimant. (Id. ¶¶ 111, 113.) The Debtor and its principals exercised domination over the Fund Counterparties to improperly transfer substantial assets from the Fund Counterparties and HFP for their own personal gain, i.e., solely and improperly to protect and enhance the value of the Debtor and its principals by wrongful and improper means. In the process, the Debtor and its principals made it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to pay Claimant the losses that they and the Debtor had agreed they would pay under the Warehouse Agreements. (Id. ¶¶ 112-114.)

19. As Claimant learned about Highland's conduct through discovery, Claimant amended its complaint to assert additional claims and name additional Highland entities, including HFP, the Affiliated Transferee Defendants, and Strand Advisors, Inc. As amended and stated in its Second Amended Complaint (attached hereto as Exhibit A) in the State Court Action, filed on May 11, 2011, Claimant's claims include breach of contract claims directly against the Fund Counterparties, as well as claims for fraudulent inducement, breach of the duty of good faith and fair dealing, fraudulent conveyance, tortious interference, and declaratory judgments for alter ego liability against HFP and general partner liability against Strand Advisors, Inc. The Debtor subsequently brought counterclaims against Claimant for breach of contract and unjust enrichment. (See Ex. B, Decision at 35-37.)

20. The procedural history of the State Court Action is complex. The Debtor and its affiliates and Claimant filed, and the State Court ruled on, four sets of motions to dismiss. The Debtor and its affiliates then filed two sets of summary judgment motions, which led to a series of complex rulings by the State Court in 2017. The parties filed various interlocutory appeals of the State Court's rulings on the motions to dismiss and for summary judgment. Those appeals were heard by the Appellate Division for the First Judicial Department in the County of New York, with the Appellate Division issuing five decisions over this suit's protracted history (some of which are still subject to further appellate rights).

21. Also included in the Appellate Division's decisions was an order arising from an appeal of the State Court's ruling on Claimant's motion to restrain Defendants Highland Credit

Strategies Master Fund, L.P. and Highland Crusader Partners, L.P. from disposing of property received through the fraudulent transfers orchestrated by the Debtor. Claimant showed it had a likelihood of success on the merits of its fraudulent transfer claims, and the Appellate Division enjoined both Highland entities from disposing of their assets. Ultimately, these injunctions resulted in partial settlements between Claimant and Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. and Highland Crusader Partners, L.P.

22. By early 2018, more than nine years after Claimant first filed suit, the parties were finally ready to proceed to trial. Due to a jury waiver clause in the Warehouse Agreements, however, and after related pre-trial briefing, the State Court bifurcated Claimant's claims into two distinct phases for trial: Phase I, consisting of a bench trial on Claimant's claims against the Fund Counterparties for breach of the Cash Warehouse and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements, as well as the Debtor's counterclaims; and Phase II, consisting of a jury trial on Claimant's remaining claims against all remaining Highland entities, including the Debtor.³ (Ex. B, Decision at 2 n.1, 38.)

23. The State Court presided over a thirteen-day bench trial for Phase I from July 9 through July 27, 2018. (Id. at 1.) On November 14, 2019, the State Court entered a Decision and Order on Phase I (attached hereto as Exhibit B), ruling in favor of Claimant on almost every issue presented in Phase I. In particular, the court found the Fund Counterparties liable to Claimant for breach of the Cash Warehouse and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements, found no liability on the part of Claimant for either of the Debtor's counterclaims, and rejected almost every one of the Debtor's offset arguments with the only remaining issue (affecting approximately $70,500,000) to be determined after Phase II. (Id. at 39.) An Entry of Judgment on Phase I was entered on February 10, 2020. Under that Phase I final judgment, Claimant is entitled to $1,039,957,799.44, consisting of $519,374,149.00 in damages and $520,583,650.44 in pre-judgment interest as of January 22, 2020, with additional interest of $128,065 having accrued daily until the Entry of Judgment.

24. The next step in the State Court Action is Phase II of the trial, where Claimant's remaining claims against not only the Debtor, but also against other Highland affiliates are to be tried to a jury, with the court deciding liability as to the breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing claim and the jury deciding all remaining claims. (Id. at 2 n.1, 38.) The claims to be tried in Phase II include claims for breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, fraudulent conveyances, and alter-ego liability. The specific amounts the two non-Debtor affiliates owe to Claimant for their breach of the Warehouse Agreements are now set forth and embodied in the final $1 billion judgment from Phase I. And Claimant has stated claims against the Debtor—which was also a party to the same contract and exercised complete control over the two liable affiliates—under which Claimant is entitled to damages that are at least as much as the Phase I judgment amount. Claimant will seek damages for the Debtor's various breaches of the implied covenant as well as its specific role in the fraudulent transfer scheme, and pre-judgment interest and attorneys' fees where available. In addition, Claimant will seek punitive damages against the Debtor for its role in orchestrating the extended efforts to prevent Claimant from collecting the amounts owed under the Warehouse Agreements.

25. Currently, Phase II of the State Court Action is stayed against the Debtor by the automatic stay imposed pursuant to section 362 of the Bankruptcy Code when the Debtor commenced this Chapter 11 Case.

26. Claimant hereby asserts a claim, pending litigation of Phase II, for damages arising from the Debtor's breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, its specific role in directing the fraudulent transfers of assets involving HFP, additional interest, further damages (including punitive damages), and attorneys' fees that may be awarded by any court at the conclusion of Phase II.

Reservation of Rights

27. Claimant does not waive or release, and expressly reserves, all rights and remedies at law or in equity that it has or may have against the Debtor, the Fund Counterparties, Strand Advisors, Inc., other non-Debtor Highland Defendants, or any other Debtor affiliate, subsidiary, person, or entity.

28. Claimant expressly reserves all of its rights to assert any additional claims, defenses, remedies, and causes of action, including without limitation, claims for fraudulent inducement, breach of contract, tortious interference with contractual relations, fraudulent conveyances, or alter ego recovery. Claimant further reserves all rights to amend, modify, supplement, reclassify, or otherwise revise its Proof of Claim at any time and in any respect, including, without limitation, as necessary or appropriate to amend, quantify or correct amounts, to provide additional detail regarding the claims set forth herein, to assert additional grounds for any of the claims, to seek reconsideration under section 502(j) of the Bankruptcy Code or otherwise of any disallowance of any amounts claimed hereunder, or to reflect any and all additional claims of whatever kind or nature that Claimant has or may have against the Debtor.

29. To the extent any payment to Claimant based on this Proof of Claim, or any portion thereof, is clawed back from Claimant, avoided, or set aside, for any reason whatsoever, or Claimant is required to disgorge any such payment, or any portion thereof, Claimant hereby reserves its rights to amend this Proof of Claim accordingly.

30. The execution and filing of this Proof of Claim is not intended as, nor should it be construed as or deemed to be any of the following: (i) a waiver of the right to seek withdrawal of the reference, or to otherwise challenge the jurisdiction of this Court, with respect to the subject matter of the claims asserted herein, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other action or proceeding commenced in this Chapter 11 Case against or otherwise involving Claimant; (ii) an admission that any matter is a core matter for purposes of 28 U.S.C. § 157(b) or is a matter as to which this Court can enter a final order or judgment consistent with Article III of the United States Constitution; (iii) a waiver of the right to de novo review by the district court of any order or judgment for which this Court, absent Claimant's consent, lacks authority to enter a final order or judgment; (iv) a consent to the entry by this Court of a final order or judgment with respect to the claims asserted herein or any other matter; (v) a waiver of Claimant's right to a jury trial against the Debtor, as applicable, or waiver of Claimant's right to a jury trial against any of the non-Debtor Defendants; (vi) a waiver or release of the claims or rights of Claimant against any other entity or person that may be liable for all or any part of the claims or any matters related to the claims asserted herein; (vii) a waiver of any rights and remedies Claimant has or may have under the Cash Warehouse and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements, Engagement Letter, or any other contract, whether mentioned in this Proof of Claim or not; (viii) a waiver of Claimant's contractual right to seek to have these or any other claims settled by binding arbitration; (ix) a waiver of any right related to the confirmation of any plan of reorganization proposed in this Chapter 11 Case, or any other insolvency-related proceeding that may be commenced, either in the United States or abroad, by or against the Debtor, or any non-Debtor affiliate; (x) a waiver or agreement granting any party relief; or (xi) an election of remedies.

31. Neither this Proof of Claim nor any of its contents shall be deemed or construed as an acknowledgment or admission of any liability or obligation on the part of Claimant. Claimant specifically reserves all of its defenses and rights, procedural and substantive, including, without limitation, its rights with respect to any claim that may be asserted against Claimant by the Debtor, the Fund Counterparties, or any affiliate of the Debtor, and its rights to enforce the Cash Warehouse or Synthetic Warehouse Agreements, Engagement Letter, or any other contract.

Right of Setoff and Recoupment

32. Claimant reserves all rights of setoff and recoupment that it may have. To the extent the Debtor or any non-Debtor affiliate asserts any claim against Claimant, Claimant shall have a secured claim to the extent of its right of setoff under section 553 of the Bankruptcy Code or right of recoupment against such claim with respect to the claims asserted herein and any amendments thereto.

SECOND AMENDED COMPLAINT

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. UBS brings this action to recover damages in excess of $686 million resulting from the wrongful conduct of defendants, based on causes of action for fraudulent inducement, breach of contract, fraudulent conveyances, and declaratory judgment.

000877

2. Counterclaim-plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland Capital”) is a defendant in the action commenced by UBS (the “Highland Capital Action”) concurrently with the filing of the First Amended Complaint in this action. The Highland Capital Action was consolidated with this action by a Decision and Order, entered by this Court on October 7, 2010 (this action and the Highland Capital Action are referred to herein as the “Consolidated Action”). Together with Highland Capital, the Fund Counterparties fraudulently induced UBS to restructure a transaction to avoid Highland Capital’s and the Fund Counterparties’ contractual obligation to pay UBS over $86 million. Once Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties succeeded in misleading UBS into restructuring the original transaction, Highland Capital and its affiliates made it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to meet their obligations to UBS by stripping the Fund Counterparties of their valuable assets through fraudulent conveyances and otherwise dealing in bad faith with their contractual obligations to UBS.

3. When UBS finally terminated the restructured transaction and demanded payment from Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, it was owed in excess of $686 million that the Fund Counterparties could not pay because of the misappropriations and improper transfers of assets directed by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Even after UBS demanded payment, Highland Capital and defendants engaged in further unlawful conduct that harmed UBS by

SUMMARY OF THE ACTION

4. This action arises out of Highland Capital's efforts in the Spring of 2007 to sponsor a collateralized debt obligation ("CDO") securitization (the "Original Engagement"). In connection with the Original Engagement, UBS agreed to finance the purchase of various collateralized loan obligation ("CLO") securities, as well as credit default swap obligations that referenced similar CLO securities. UBS agreed to hold or "warehouse" the CLO securities and credit default swaps (collectively, the "Warehouse Assets" or "Warehouse Facility") for Highland Capital's benefit.

5. On or about August 15, 2007, the Original Engagement terminated by its terms without the contemplated securitization having occurred. As a result of the termination, Highland Capital and two of its affiliates, the Fund Counterparties, owed UBS in excess of $86 million related to the decline in the value of the Warehouse Assets.

6. Instead of paying UBS what it was owed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties fraudulently induced UBS to restructure the Original Engagement by providing UBS with false, incomplete and otherwise misleading information concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. Using both affirmative material misrepresentations and omissions (material facts or information needed to be disclosed to make the statements actually made not misleading, and which were not disclosed, are referred to hereinafter as "Omissions"), Highland Capital, its principals and the Fund Counterparties misled UBS regarding the financial health of the Fund Counterparties and their creditworthiness, thereby causing UBS to forego recovering its losses from Highland Capital in favor of agreeing to restructure the terms of the parties' prior agreements (the "Restructured Transaction").

7. For example, the strength of the Fund Counterparties' financial statements, and their purported ability to use the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of assets reflected therein to satisfy future obligations to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements were material to UBS's decision to agree to the restructuring. Consequently, in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction, UBS conditioned any restructuring on the Fund Counterparties' ability to post $70 million in cash and securities as collateral (the "Initial Restructuring Collateral") with State Street Bank and Trust Company ("State Street"), in which UBS would hold a security interest.

[REDACTED]

Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties were able to conceal important information about the Fund Counterparties' financial weakness that was both quantitatively and qualitatively material to UBS, and which would have caused UBS not to enter the Restructured Transaction.

8. Similarly, while negotiating the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided UBS with financial reports and statements for the Fund Counterparties. The financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS contained materially false and misleading information and Omissions concerning the financial condition of the Fund Counterparties. Among other things,

[REDACTED]

9. In reliance on material misstatements and Omissions made by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, UBS agreed to restructure the Original Engagement, and thereby were fraudulently induced to give up contractual rights under the terms of the Original Engagement. In particular, UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to believe that Highland Capital and its affiliates would provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets, as they in fact did.

10. Had UBS known that the Fund Counterparties could not [REDACTED], [REDACTED], it would not have gone forward with the Restructured Transaction. UBS never would have agreed to the Restructured Transaction had it known prior to entering the Restructured Transaction the true status of the Fund Counterparties' financial condition and the true fair market value of the Fund Counterparties' holdings that would have been available to satisfy their then-existing and future obligations to UBS. UBS's losses described herein were directly and proximately caused by the conduct of Highland Capital and the defendants as described herein.

11. Almost immediately after UBS agreed to the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital began the process of making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to ever repay UBS what they owed. In particular, exercising its control over the Fund Counterparties, Highland Capital caused the Fund Counterparties to transfer cash for the benefit of Highland Capital and its principals, and, separately, in violation of UBS's rights, [REDACTED], [REDACTED], all during a time when the Fund Counterparties owed UBS hundreds of millions of dollars.

12. For example, in or around May 2008, Highland Capital caused the dissipation of approximately $100 million in cash that CDO Fund held after it sold a long position in a company called SunCom Wireless. Highland Capital drained CDO Fund's cash resources despite CDO Fund's ever-increasing obligations to UBS. Highland Capital's bad faith conduct caused injury to UBS by making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to satisfy their contractual obligations to UBS.

13. In September 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility continued to grow, UBS began to exercise its contractual rights and make margin calls demanding additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. Because Highland Capital had routinely taken cash out of the Fund Counterparties, the Fund Counterparties were undercapitalized and lacked assets and liquidity to meet UBS's demands for additional collateral.

14. Highland Capital and its principals, including its president and founder, James D. Dondero, knew that if the Fund Counterparties defaulted on their obligations to UBS (or any other creditor), Highland Capital's ability to conduct business in the financial community and to keep or solicit investors would be harmed. Investors in Highland Capital's hedge fund family would withdraw their investments. In addition, creditors would take actions to protect themselves, including foreclosing on collateral and aggressively enforcing their contractual rights. Highland Capital and its principals were concerned that upon the disclosure of the true state of their affairs, their business would collapse.

15. To avoid that result, Highland Capital and its principals resorted to

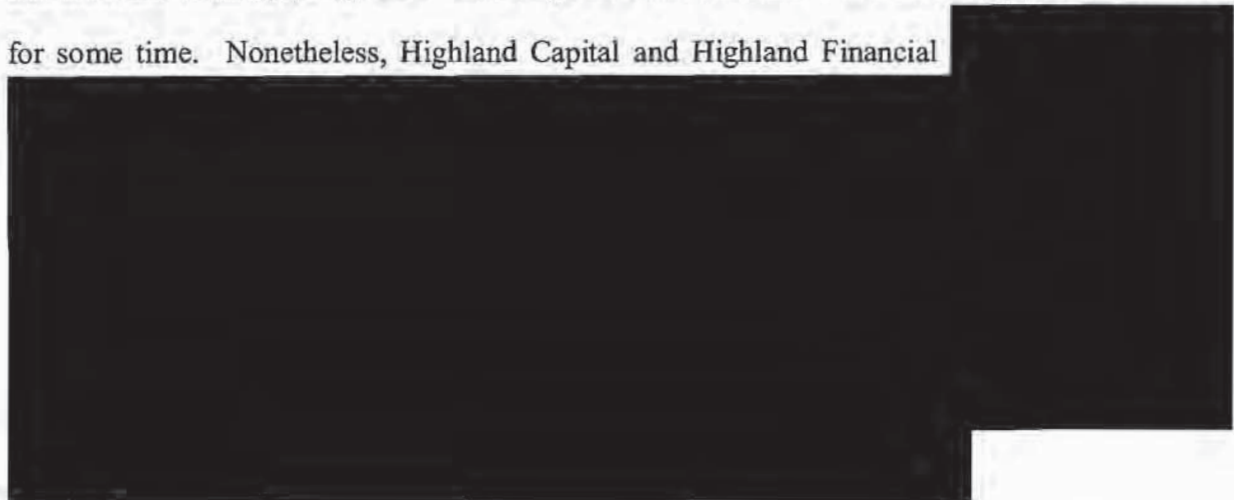

16. Highland Capital's and its principals' belated attempt to protect their reputation by continuing to fraudulently portray the Fund Counterparties as viable independent entities was ultimately unsuccessful. By late October 2008, Highland Capital could no longer continue to prop up the Fund Counterparties.

17. On or about November 11, 2008, UBS demanded additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. The Fund Counterparties defaulted. On December 3, 2008, UBS terminated the Restructured Transaction. As a result of UBS's termination of the Restructured Transaction, the Fund Counterparties were contractually obligated to pay UBS in excess of $686 million.

18. On or about February 24, 2009, UBS filed the original complaint in this Court against the Fund Counterparties for breach of the Warehouse Agreements that had been entered in connection with the Restructured Transaction. By that time, the Fund Counterparties and SOHC's alter ego, Highland Financial, had been insolvent and unable to pay their creditors for some time. Nonetheless, Highland Capital and Highland Financial

19. In sum, after fraudulently inducing UBS to agree to the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and its principals exercised their domination over the Fund Counterparties to improperly transfer substantial assets from the Fund Counterparties for their own personal gain, i.e., solely and improperly to protect and enhance the value of Highland Capital and its principals by wrongful and improper means. In the process, they made it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to pay UBS the losses they had agreed to pay on the Warehouse Facility.

THE PARTIES

A. The Plaintiffs

20. Plaintiff UBS AG, London Branch, is a banking corporation organized under the laws of Switzerland with its principal place of business at Finsbury Avenue, London, United Kingdom.

21. Plaintiff UBSS is a limited liability company organized under the laws of Delaware with its principal places of business at 677 Washington Blvd., Stamford, Connecticut, and 299 Park Avenue, New York, New York.

B. Highland Capital

22. Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland Capital”) is a limited partnership organized under the laws of Delaware, with its principal place of business at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240, and an office at 9 West 57th Street, New York, New York. Highland Capital is registered to do business in New York. Highland Capital describes itself as a 100% employee-owned partnership. Highland Capital is an investment adviser that manages a large number of investment entities that operate as hedge funds for Highland Capital’s principals and affiliates, as well as unaffiliated investors. Highland Capital currently manages over $25 billion in various assets, including structured financial products. Highland Capital also holds direct and indirect equity and ownership interests in the entities that it manages, including in Highland Financial, the Fund Counterparties and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants. James D. Dondero is the President of Highland Capital, as well as one of its founders. Concurrently with filing the First Amended Complaint in this Action, UBS commenced a separate action against Highland Capital (the “Highland Capital Action”). The Highland Capital Action was later consolidated with this action by a Decision and Order, entered by this Court on October 7, 2010 (this action and the Highland Capital Action are referred to herein as the “Consolidated Action”).

C. The Defendants

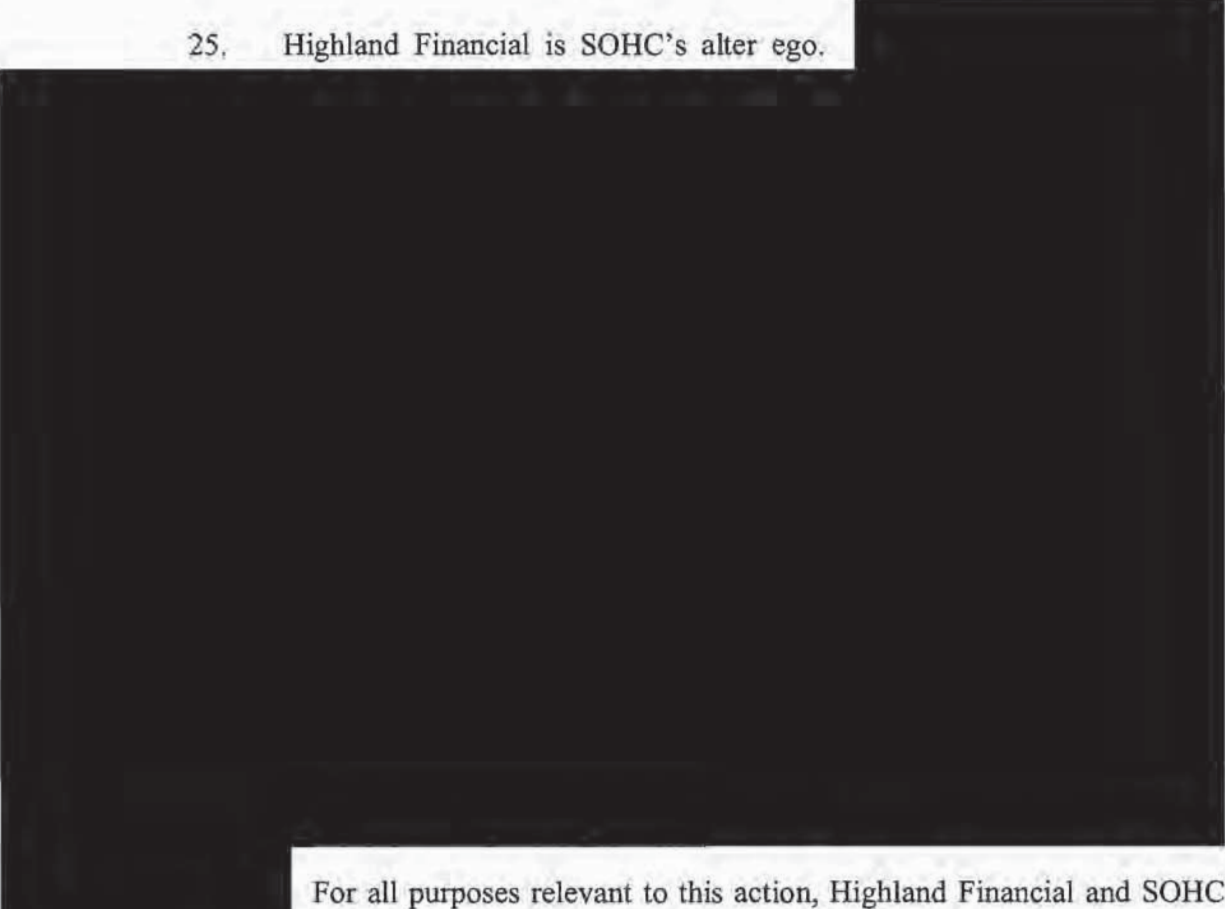

1. Defendant Strand

23. Defendant Strand Advisors, Inc. (“Strand”) is Highland Capital’s general partner. Strand is a Delaware corporation principally engaged in the business of serving as the general partner of Highland Capital. As Highland Capital’s general partner, Strand is responsible for Highland Capital’s liabilities and obligations and regularly conducts business in New York, or causes its affiliates to conduct business in New York.

2. Defendants Highland Financial and SOHC

24. Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”) is a company organized under the laws of the Cayman Islands, with its offices at Walker House, PO Box 908GT, Mary Street, George Town, Grand Cayman, Cayman Islands. SOHC is a wholly-owned subsidiary of defendant Highland Financial Partners, L.P. (a Delaware limited partnership) (“Highland Financial”). SOHC has six sister subsidiaries, all of which are owned in whole or in part by Highland Financial. Highland Capital serves as investment manager to defendant Highland Financial, SOHC and its sister subsidiaries.

25. Highland Financial is SOHC's alter ego.

For all purposes relevant to this action, Highland Financial and SOHC should be treated as a single entity and as alter egos of one another.

3. Defendant CDO Fund

26. Defendant Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. ("CDO Fund") is a Bermuda exempted limited partnership, with its principal place of business at 52 Reid Street, Hamilton, Bermuda. Highland Capital controls CDO Fund's investment decisions through an investment management agreement. Between January 31, 2007 and August 31, 2008, Highland Capital's and its affiliates' aggregate ownership interest in CDO Fund ranged between 43.36% and 56.44%. Highland CDO Opportunity Fund, L.P. and Highland CDO Opportunity Fund, Ltd. serve as so-called "feeder funds" for defendant CDO Fund.

4. The Affiliated Transferee Defendants [REDACTED]

27. Defendant Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. (“Credit Strategies”) is a Bermuda limited partnership organized with its principal place of business at Victoria Place, 31 Victoria Street, Hamilton HM10, Bermuda. Credit Strategies transacts business within New York, and derives substantial revenue from interstate and international commerce.

28. Defendant Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (the “Crusader Fund”) is a Bermuda limited partnership with its principal place of business at Victoria Place, 31 Victoria Street, Hamilton HM10, Bermuda. The Crusader Fund also has an office located at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240. The Crusader Fund transacts business within New York, and derives substantial revenue from interstate and international commerce.

29. Defendant Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (the “Credit Opp. Fund”) is a Delaware limited partnership with its principal place of business at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240.

30. Credit Strategies, the Crusader Fund and the Credit Opp. Fund are referred to herein collectively as the “Affiliated Transferee Defendants” [REDACTED]

D. Non-Parties Affiliated With Highland Capital In Which The Fund Counterparties Invested

31. The Fund Counterparties held investments in several Highland Capital-affiliated funds, including Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P., Highland Legacy, Highland Loan Funding V, Highland Park CDO I, Ltd., Highlander Euro CDO B.V. and Highlander Euro

CDO III B.V. Highland Capital served as the investment manager for these affiliated funds, and received valuable fees derived from the valuations of these funds' assets, which it managed.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

32. Venue in this Court is proper under CPLR 503 because plaintiff UBSS has a principal place of business in New York County.

33. Venue is also proper under CPLR 501, and this Court may exercise jurisdiction over the Fund Counterparties because UBS, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties all agreed in writing, before this action was commenced, to submit to such jurisdiction and venue, in connection with any dispute that may arise out of, in connection with, or related to, the Agreements (defined below), or any of the matters contemplated thereby. This Court also may exercise jurisdiction over Highland Financial because it is the alter ego of SOHC.

34. This Court also may exercise jurisdiction over all defendants pursuant to CPLR 301 and 302(a)(1) and (3), because defendants regularly transact and solicit business in New York, committed tortious acts causing injury in New York, should reasonably have expected that their tortious acts would have consequences in New York, the effect of their wrongful conduct was felt in New York, and/or derive substantial revenue from interstate or international commerce. Additionally, Highland Capital has an office in New York and is a foreign limited partnership registered to do business in New York.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. The Original Engagement

35. In or around April 2007, Highland Capital approached UBS for short-term financing in connection with a securitization that Highland Capital wanted to sponsor. UBS agreed to do so (the "Original Engagement").

36. On or about April 20, 2007, UBSS and Highland Capital entered into an engagement letter (the “Original Engagement Letter”), which contemplated that UBSS would act as the exclusive financial arranger and placement agent for a type of collateralized debt obligation transaction (“CDO”), known as a collateralized loan obligation (“CLO”) squared or “CLO Squared” transaction. (A copy of the Original Engagement Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit A.)

37. CLOs are a form of securitization where interest and principal payments on corporate loans made to multiple mid-sized and large businesses are pooled together by a lender or the owner of the loans, and then passed on through a securitization structure to investors. CLOs typically involve multi-million dollar loans known as syndicated loans, or leveraged loans made to new businesses or existing businesses, often to acquire other companies. The loan originators are able to spread risk through the CLO securitization, and simultaneously free up capital to make new loans to other businesses. The Original Engagement contemplated the securitization of CLO securities. Thus, the securitization contemplated by Highland Capital would have been a “CLO Squared” transaction.

38. On or about May 22, 2007, as contemplated by the Original Engagement Letter, UBSS and Highland Capital entered into a warehouse agreement (the “Original Cash Warehouse Agreement”). (A copy of the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit B.) In accordance with the terms of the Original Engagement Letter and the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement, UBSS agreed to acquire securities as directed by Highland Capital. Highland Capital instructed UBS to acquire various CLO securities issued in connection with prior CLO transactions involving other sponsors and issuers (the “Cash Portfolio”).

39. In a separate but related synthetic warehouse agreement (the “Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement,” and together with the “Original Cash Warehouse Agreement,” the “Original Warehouse Agreements”), UBS AG agreed to enter into credit default swaps (the “CDS Portfolio,” and together with the Cash Portfolio, the “Warehouse Assets”), pursuant to which UBS AG sold credit protection to various third parties. (A copy of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit C.)

40. For Highland Capital’s benefit, UBS held the Warehouse Assets on its balance sheet (the “Warehouse Facility”). UBS was expected to hold the Warehouse Assets until such time as the parties could arrange for the assets to be securitized as part of the contemplated securitization. In particular, if the parties believed that a securitization was economically feasible, they would create a special purpose entity that would acquire the Warehouse Assets from UBS using the proceeds from the sale of securities to investors. The special purpose entity’s debt securities would be secured by those Warehouse Assets.

41. Under the Original Warehouse Agreements, if the Original Engagement terminated without a securitization, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties were obligated to pay UBS for losses on the Warehouse Assets. In particular, under the terms of the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement, Highland Capital was directly responsible for the first $50 million in losses in the Cash Portfolio, and under the terms of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties were obligated to pay UBS for any and all losses suffered on the CDS Portfolio.

42. The Original Engagement Letter expired by its terms on August 15, 2007 without a securitization occurring. The Original Warehouse Agreements expired on the same date in accordance with their respective terms.

43. As of August 15, 2007, the Warehouse Assets in the Warehouse Facility had lost in excess of $86 million in value. Although they had sufficient capital to do so,

Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed and refused to pay UBS what it was owed under the Original Warehouse Agreements.

44. As a result of extensive negotiations as well as representations and warranties made by Highland Capital on its own behalf, and on behalf of the Fund Counterparties as their investment manager, UBS agreed to restructure the terms of the Original Engagement.

B. Highland Capital And The Fund Counterparties Resort To Fraud To Avoid Highland Capital's Obligations To UBS

45. As alleged above, as a result of the termination of the Original Engagement, Highland Capital was directly liable to UBS under the Original Warehouse Agreement for in excess of $86 million.

46. Between August 2007 and March 14, 2008, UBS, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had discussions and negotiations concerning a restructuring of the terms of the Original Engagement. Those negotiations resulted in agreements to restructure the Original Engagement (the "Restructured Transaction"), including a release by UBS of its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement. (The terms of the Restructured Transaction are set forth in the Engagement Letter and Warehouse Agreements described below (collectively, the "Agreements"), which are annexed hereto as Exhibits D, E and F, respectively.)

47. During the course of negotiations and before March 14, 2008, Highland Capital and Fund Counterparties made several material misrepresentations to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties. Dondero, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also failed to disclose to UBS information which would have been material to UBS's decision to enter the Restructured Transaction ("Omissions," as defined above). As

Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew, UBS reasonably relied upon those material misrepresentations and, due to the Omissions, a misstated assessment of the Fund Counterparties, all to its detriment in deciding whether to enter the Restructured Transaction. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on these misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information that were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS reasonably believed that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties would not provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets as it in fact did.

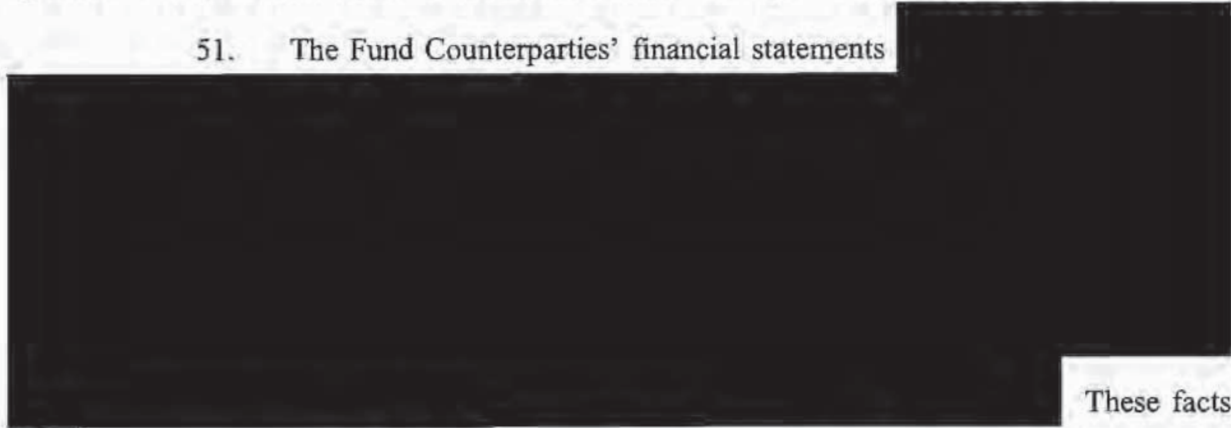

48. For example, on or about December 28, 2007, to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction and related Agreements, Gibran Mahmud of Highland Capital sent SOHC financial statements to UBS. On or about January 29, 2008, UBS requested additional financial information related to SOHC. Later that same day, to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction and related Agreements, Phil Braner of Highland Capital emailed UBS a copy of SOHC's Statement of Financial Condition, dated December 31, 2007.

49. As described with more particularity below, the SOHC financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS, which Highland Capital was responsible for preparing, was materially false and misleading. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that UBS would rely upon SOHC's financial information in connection with deciding whether to agree to the Restructured Transaction and the terms of the Agreements being negotiated.

50. On or about February 4, 2008, Matt Killebrew of Highland Capital provided UBS with financial reports via email that reflected financial summaries, and aggregate valuations for CDO Fund's assets as of December 31, 2007. On or about March 4, 2008, Mr. Killebrew sent UBS similar reports for the period ended January 31, 2008. As described with more particularity below, these financial reports, which Highland Capital prepared, also were materially false and misleading. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that UBS would rely upon CDO Fund's financial information in connection with deciding whether to agree to the Restructured Transaction and the terms of the Agreements being negotiated.

51. The Fund Counterparties' financial statements

These facts

and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

52. CDO Fund's financial statements

[REDACTED]

53. Similarly, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concealed from UBS the fact that the Fund Counterparties [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

54. In addition, the Fund Counterparties' financial statements that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS in advance of the Restructured Transaction contained [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

55. During the course of negotiations concerning the restructuring, UBS also insisted that the Fund Counterparties have the ability to post $70 million in cash and securities as collateral, which would be held at State Street Bank (the "Initial Restructured Transaction Collateral"), and in which UBS would hold a security interest. The Fund Counterparties' ability to do so using their own assets was qualitatively and quantitatively material to UBS. Among other things, it demonstrated the strength of their balance sheets, and by extension, their ability to satisfy future obligations to UBS.

56. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties agreed that the Fund Counterparties would post $70 million in Initial Restructuring Collateral.

[REDACTED]

57.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

58.

[REDACTED]

As the Fund Counterparties'

investment manager, Highland Capital maintained the Fund Counterparties' accounting records, and knew

[REDACTED]

Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to believe, and reasonably did not believe, that Highland Capital would provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about

[REDACTED]

59. If UBS had known that the Fund Counterparties

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] It also would have drawn into question the Fund Counterparties' liquidity.
[REDACTED]

60. But for Dondero's, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' false and misleading statements and Omissions concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets, and [REDACTED] UBS would not have entered into the Restructured Transaction or the Agreements that memorialized its terms. Given the Fund Counterparties' weak credit quality, additional adverse information about their collective or individual creditworthiness would have deterred UBS from going forward with the Restructured Transaction and putting more assets at risk. These misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

61. UBS would not have entered into a transaction with parties that made misrepresentations as Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties did. UBS also would not have agreed to release its valuable claims arising out of the Original Engagement under such circumstances. Because of, and in reliance on, the false and misleading information about the Fund Counterparties provided by Dondero, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, UBS entered into the Restructured Transaction memorialized in the Agreements. Because each of the misrepresentations and Omissions identified above disguised the Fund Counterparties' inability to satisfy their obligations to UBS, the misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

C. The Restructured Transaction Agreements

1. The Engagement Letter

62. On or about March 14, 2008, the parties reached agreement on the terms of a restructured engagement, which were memorialized in a new engagement letter (the “Engagement Letter,” annexed hereto as Exhibit D). Pursuant to the Engagement Letter, Highland Capital re-engaged UBSS to act as placement agent in the event that market conditions improved, and the parties could go forward with securitizing the Warehouse Assets already held by UBS in the Warehouse Facility. UBS agreed to continue holding the Warehouse Assets in the Warehouse Facility, which had a notional value of approximately $818 million.

63. Under the terms of the Engagement Letter, UBS released claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

2. The Restructured Warehouse Agreements

64. On March 14, 2008, UBSS, the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital also entered into a cash warehouse agreement (the “Cash Warehouse Agreement”), pursuant to which UBSS agreed to continue to hold the Cash Portfolio. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit E.)

65. UBS AG, the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital also entered into a synthetic warehouse agreement, dated as of March 14, 2008 (the “Synthetic Warehouse Agreement,” and together with the Cash Warehouse Agreement, the “Warehouse Agreements”), pursuant to which UBS AG agreed to continue warehousing credit protection that it sold, i.e., the CDS Portfolio. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit F.)

66. Section 13(B) of the Cash Warehouse Agreement and § 11(B) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement make Highland Capital liable for losses, including losses in the Warehouse Facility, by reason of acts or omissions constituting bad faith, willful misconduct, or gross negligence.

67. Under § 12 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties agreed to transfer to State Street the Initial Restructuring Collateral to partially secure their respective obligations to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements. Annex C to the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement identified the six assets that the Fund Counterparties purportedly transferred to State Street to satisfy their Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations, along with $20 million in cash.

68. The Warehouse Agreements also contained releases whereby UBS agreed to release claims it had against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties for losses arising out of the Original Engagement.

D. Highland Capital Uses Its Control Over The Fund Counterparties To Dissipate Their Assets Without Regard For The Fund Counterparties' Growing Obligations To UBS

69. Almost immediately after the Restructured Transaction Agreements were executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knowingly began to dissipate the Fund Counterparties' assets and make it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to ever repay UBS what they owed. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties did so at various times when the Fund Counterparties owed UBS hundreds of millions of dollars.

70. For example, on or about March 26, 2008, just days after entering the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital caused certain SOHC assets to be encumbered by entering into a transaction with Barclays Bank, plc. ("Barclays"). At or around the same time, CDO Fund was negotiating financing arrangements with Morgan Stanley & Co. International Ltd. and Highland Capital IV SPC, whereby it granted a security interest in its assets to those entities. By granting a security interest in the Fund Counterparties' assets to other creditors,

Highland Capital unfairly and improperly reduced the assets available to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS in bad faith and in violation of UBS's rights.

71. Similarly, on or about April 2, 2008, Highland Capital advised UBS that defendant CDO Fund had recently monetized a $129 million long position in SunCom Wireless. When Highland Capital and CDO Fund subsequently provided UBS with additional financial information about CDO Fund, however, UBS discovered that Highland Capital had caused CDO Fund to transfer approximately $100 million of the cash proceeds from the SunCom Wireless sale out of CDO Fund.

72. By improperly removing such a substantial amount of cash from CDO Fund, Highland Capital interfered in bad faith with CDO Fund's ability to satisfy its steadily increasing financial obligations to UBS. In particular, in or around May 2008, when the cash proceeds from the SunCom Wireless position were siphoned off, the Fund Counterparties owed UBS in excess of $166 million related to losses in the Warehouse Facility, approximately 50% of which CDO Fund was obligated to pay.

73. Highland Capital also repeatedly caused SOHC's cash to be transferred by defendant Highland Financial. In particular, during the first five months of 2008, SOHC's cash position was reduced by over $10 million at a time when its obligations to UBS were increasing substantially.

E. In the Fall of 2008, Losses Mount And The Fund Counterparties Face Collateral Calls From Creditors Including UBS That They Cannot Meet Despite Highland Capital's Belated Efforts To Do So [REDACTED]

74. Under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements, the Fund Counterparties were required to post additional collateral with UBS if the combined market value of (a) the Warehouse Assets and (b) the Initial Restructured Transaction Collateral, declined below a certain amount.

75. By September 2008, losses in the Warehouse Facility had increased significantly. At the same time, the value of the Initial Restructuring Collateral had declined substantially, as had the value of the assets held by the Fund Counterparties.

76. Highland Capital was desperate to avoid a default by any of its affiliates, including the Fund Counterparties. If a Highland Capital affiliate defaulted on its obligations to a creditor, Highland Capital's reputation in the investment community would be damaged, and there was a risk that Highland Capital's business would collapse. Highland Capital feared that a public default would lead investors in Highland Capital's hedge fund family to withdraw their capital, and lead creditors to take aggressive actions to protect themselves, including foreclosing on collateral and aggressively enforcing their contractual rights.

1. The First Margin Call

77. On or about September 16, 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility continued to grow, UBS began to exercise its contractual rights and make margin calls demanding additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. Specifically, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties were each required to post $10 million in cash or equivalent securities (the "First Margin Call").

78. Because Highland Capital had routinely drained cash from the Fund Counterparties, the Fund Counterparties lacked the liquidity to meet UBS's demands using their own assets.

79. On or about September 19, 2008, the Fund Counterparties satisfied the First Margin Call by together posting $20 million in cash as additional collateral. [REDACTED]

2. UBS Is Harmed By Highland Capital's Response To The Fund Counterparties' Liquidity Crisis

80. In the wake of the First Margin Call, the Fund Counterparties remained starved for liquidity. Still desperate to avoid defaults to creditors and the consequences described above, Highland Capital resorted to

81. Highland Capital and the individuals that directed the Fund Counterparties knew that they had caused the Fund Counterparties to become incapable of satisfying their obligations to all of their respective creditors when they came due, and that they were insolvent or, at the very least, within the zone of insolvency.

82. For example, on or about September 26, 2008, Dondero and Highland Capital improperly

86.

[REDACTED] Highland Capital executed this plan at UBS's expense to protect their substantial personal stake in Highland Financial and prevent negative publicity associated with defaulting [REDACTED]. Implementing this plan, however, caused SOHC (and its alter ego, Highland Financial) to improperly and in bad faith breach duties and obligations to UBS.

87.

[REDACTED] SOHC's expected obligations to UBS were well in excess of $250 million, which were due and owing to UBS no later than March 14, 2009. Thus, by [REDACTED], Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties made a fraudulent conveyance and interfered in bad faith with the Fund Counterparties' ability to meet their contractual obligations to UBS.

88. Given the state of the financial markets at the time, Highland Capital, Highland Financial and SOHC had no expectation that SOHC would be able to satisfy its obligations to UBS when they came due.

89.

3. The Second Margin Call

90. On or about October 21, 2008, UBS notified Highland Capital that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties each owed another $10 million (the “Second Margin Call”).

91. In response to the Second Margin Call, Highland Capital offered UBS numerous assets as collateral. UBS rejected those offers for various business-related reasons. As UBS would later learn, however, at the time Highland Capital was offering the assets to UBS, the Fund Counterparties did not own them.

92. On or about October 24, 2008, the Fund Counterparties satisfied the Second Margin Call by together posting assets with a notional value of $49.97 million (but a market value of approximately $20 million), with the understanding that UBS would authorize State Street to return the securities if and when the Fund Counterparties were able to replace those securities with $20 million in cash. As UBS would later learn,

93. Moreover, at the same time that Highland Capital was telling UBS that the Fund Counterparties did not have sufficient cash assets to meet the Second Margin call,

4. The Third Margin Call

94. On or about November 7, 2008, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties had an obligation to post another $10 million as collateral (the “Third Margin Call”).

95. On or about November 11, 2008, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties offered to post various securities to satisfy the Third Margin Call. In response to the Third Margin Call, Phil Braner of Highland Capital emailed UBS a list of proposed collateral including eight securities with a purported market value of approximately $20 million (i.e., twice the amount of cash due to satisfy the Third Margin Call).

96. Pursuant to the Warehouse Agreements, UBS was authorized to reject proposed collateral. UBS determined that the proposed additional collateral offered by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties was unacceptable. On or after November 13, 2008, UBS formally rejected the offered securities, and requested that the Fund Counterparties provide cash or cash equivalent collateral to satisfy their obligations under § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

97. UBS would later learn that [REDACTED]

98. When UBS confronted Highland Capital about this issue Mr. Braner of Highland Capital explained that [REDACTED]

F. Termination Of The Agreements And Demand For Payment Of Losses

99. As of December 3, 2008, the Fund Counterparties still had not met the Third Margin Call in accordance with § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement. This failure resulted in UBS's declaration of a termination date ("Termination Date") under the Agreements.

100. On December 3, 2008, UBS delivered a letter (the "Termination Date Letter") to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties notifying them of such failure and the occurrence of a Termination Date under each Agreement. (A true and correct copy of the Termination Date Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit G.)

101. Sections 5 and 7 of the Cash Warehouse Agreement provided that if the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, UBSS could, in its sole discretion, retain any of the securities in the Warehouse Facility or sell such securities to one of UBSS's affiliates or an unaffiliated party.

102. Pursuant to the terms of the Agreements, if the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, each of the Fund Counterparties was obligated to pay to UBS its pro rata share of any market value losses on the Warehouse Assets, which UBS determined it had experienced and so notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

103. On December 19, 2008, UBSS delivered a letter (the "Cash Warehouse Demand Letter") to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties demanding payment for its losses. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit H.) UBSS demanded that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties wire that required amount to UBSS no later than 5:00 pm on December 24, 2008 (i.e., the third business day after the date of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter) (the "Final Payment Date"). Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed to make the required payment to UBSS.

104. The Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided that in the event the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, the Fund Counterparties would be collectively responsible for 100% of the aggregate amount of losses on the CDS Portfolio and each of the Fund Counterparties would pay, after notice of such amount due from UBS, its pro rata share of such amount to UBS within three business days.

105. On December 19, 2008, UBS AG delivered a letter (the “Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter”) to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties demanding payment for its losses. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit I.) UBS AG demanded that the Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties wire the required amount to UBS AG no later than 5:00 PM on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 — the third business day after the date of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter). Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed to make the required payment to UBS AG.

G. Notice Of Failure to Pay, Auction And Final Accounting Letter

106. On January 5, 2009, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties of the failure to make the requisite payments when due pursuant to the Agreements and the applicable demand letters. On or about January 16, 2009, in connection with unwinding the Warehouse Facility, UBS conducted the auction contemplated by the Warehouse Agreements.

107. On or about March 19, 2009, UBS delivered a letter to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concerning a final accounting concerning the auction and the losses in the Warehouse Facility. UBS determined that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties owed it $686,853,290.26.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Fraud Against The Fund Counterparties)

115. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 114 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

116. In connection with restructuring the Original Engagement, and negotiating the terms of the Agreements and Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had a duty to communicate accurate and complete information to UBS.

117. As alleged above, in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intentionally misrepresented material facts and made Omissions (as defined earlier herein).

118. As set forth in more detail above, prior to the restructuring being completed, and the Agreements being executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties misrepresented information and made Omissions to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties as well as information about their finances and assets, including, but not limited to, information regarding the following:

- (a)
- (b)
- (c)

119. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties acted knowingly and purposefully in making the materially false representations and Omissions to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction to induce UBS to enter the Agreements. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that their representations and Omissions were materially false and misleading. Knowingly using material misrepresentations and Omissions, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intended to induce, and fraudulently induced UBS into entering the Agreements.

120. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also knew that their false representations and Omissions were material to and caused UBS's decision to enter the Agreements. In particular, the misrepresentations and Omissions were both quantitatively and qualitatively material to UBS inasmuch as UBS would have acted differently had it known the truth about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets when UBS made the decision to go forward with the restructuring and releasing, among other things, valuable claims against Highland Capital.

121. UBS was not aware and could not have been aware of the falsity and misleading nature of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions. The facts and information underlying the false, inaccurate and incomplete financial reports that Highland Capital provided to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction were peculiarly within Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' knowledge.

122. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had superior knowledge compared to UBS about Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. Indeed, such facts and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Moreover, it was necessary for Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties to complete or clarify the information that it provided to UBS concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. Consequently, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' concealment of the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets was fraudulent.

123. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions regarding the Fund Counterparties' financial condition and assets. In particular, UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to question the veracity and completeness of the financial information that Highland Capital provided to UBS about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. UBS also had no reason to believe that the financial information that Highland Capital provided to it to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction would be false, incomplete or otherwise misleading. When UBS evaluated the Fund Counterparties' financial statements in early 2008,

124. But for Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS would not have entered the Agreements, or released its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

125. In reasonable and justifiable reliance on the foregoing material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS also surrendered and released valuable claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties at a time when UBS could have been made whole for the losses that it had suffered to that point as a result of the Original Engagement. Nor would UBS have suffered the additional losses in the Warehouse Facility.

126. UBS reasonably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions. As a direct and proximate result of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS continued to maintain the Warehouse Facility through, at least, December 3, 2008, suffering in excess of $686 million in losses that the Fund Counterparties cannot pay to UBS.

127. Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions were the direct and proximate cause of UBS's losses complained of herein. As a direct result of, and in reliance upon, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS was induced to, among other things, (a) enter the Agreements; (b) release its pre-existing claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties related to the Original Engagement; and (c) assume the credit-risk of the Fund Counterparties; and as a direct result, caused UBS to incur substantial losses and damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Fraud Against The Fund Counterparties)
(Pled Solely To Preserve For Appeal)

128. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 127 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

129. In connection with restructuring the Original Engagement, and negotiating the terms of the Agreements and Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had a duty to communicate accurate and complete information to UBS.

130. As alleged above, in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intentionally misrepresented material facts and made Omissions (as defined earlier herein).

131. As set forth in more detail above, prior to the restructuring being completed, and the Agreements being executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties misrepresented information and made Omissions to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties and information about their finances, assets and business practices, including, but not limited to, information regarding the following:

- (a) [REDACTED]
- (b) [REDACTED]
- (c) [REDACTED]
- (d) [REDACTED]
- (e) [REDACTED]
- (f) [REDACTED]

(g)

132. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties acted knowingly and purposefully in making the materially false representations and Omissions to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction to induce UBS to enter the Agreements. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that their representations and Omissions were materially false and misleading. Knowingly using material misrepresentations and Omissions, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intended to induce, and fraudulently induced UBS into entering the Agreements.

133. These Omissions rendered the Fund Counterparties' representations, statements and financial statements materially misleading. Because Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concealed this information from UBS, UBS could not properly evaluate SOHC's ability to satisfy its obligations to UBS. For instance, UBS received financial reports from Highland Capital for the Fund Counterparties that suggested that the Fund Counterparties held hundreds of millions of dollars worth of assets that could be used to satisfy their obligations to UBS. However, a substantial portion of the assets that UBS reasonably believed would be available, were, in fact, not going to be available to pay UBS because they were going to be encumbered as a result of other transactions. In other words, because Highland Capital concealed its intentions, the financial reports that it provided to UBS were misleading as they provided UBS with false and illusory comfort regarding the Fund Counterparties' capacity to fulfill their contractual obligations to UBS. As the Fund Counterparties' investment manager, Highland Capital would have led the negotiations related to the other financing arrangements.

134. Similarly, during negotiations concerning the Initial Restructuring Collateral, Highland Capital and SOHC made an additional Omission by not disclosing to UBS

the fact that SOHC had a serious liquidity problem. SOHC had to borrow cash from Highland Capital to satisfy the cash portion of its Initial Restructuring Collateral obligation. On or about December 18, 2007, while the parties were negotiating the restructuring, Highland Capital loaned $30 million to SOHC, which Highland Capital and SOHC's alter ego, Highland Financial, earmarked for SOHC to use as collateral in connection with negotiating extensions of warehouse facilities, including the one with UBS. As Highland Financial's and SOHC's investment manager, Highland Capital knew about SOHC's liquidity problems since they were discussed openly at Highland Financial board meetings attended by Highland Capital. The failure to fully disclose SOHC's liquidity problem, and its inability to meet the Initial Restructuring Collateral obligation using its own cash assets was an Omission, because it was indicative of the strength of SOHC's finances and assets, and SOHC's ability to satisfy obligations to UBS.

135. Highland Capital and Fund Counterparties also concealed from UBS that Highland Capital had to commingle assets among its various affiliates and disregard corporate formalities to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' liquidity needs. Facts and information concerning these business practices, including Highland Capital's commingling of assets and disregard of corporate formalities was information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and its affiliates. As the investment manager to Highland Financial, SOHC and CDO Fund (as well as the Affiliated Transferee Defendants), Highland Capital knowingly arranged and caused the asset transfers between and among the various affiliates in disregard of corporate formalities.

136. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also knew that their false representations and Omissions were material to and caused UBS's decision to enter the Agreements. In particular, the misrepresentations and Omissions were both quantitatively and qualitatively material to UBS inasmuch as UBS would have acted differently had it known the truth about the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices when UBS made the decision to go forward with the restructuring and releasing, among other things, valuable claims against Highland Capital.

137. In addition, if UBS had known that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties ignored corporate formalities or that Highland Capital freely transferred assets among its controlled entities, UBS would not have entered the Restructured Transaction. These misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

138. UBS was not aware and could not have been aware of the falsity and misleading nature of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions. The facts and information underlying the false, inaccurate and incomplete financial reports that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction were peculiarly within Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' knowledge.

139. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had superior knowledge compared to UBS about Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices. Indeed, such facts and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Moreover, it was necessary for Highland Capital and the Highland Entities to complete or clarify the information that it provided to UBS concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices. Consequently, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' concealment about the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices was fraudulent.

140. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions regarding the Fund

Counterparties' financial condition, assets and business practices. In particular, UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to question the veracity and completeness of the financial information that Highland Capital provided to UBS about the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices. UBS also had no reason to believe that the financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to it to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction would be false, incomplete or otherwise misleading. When UBS evaluated the Fund Counterparties' financial statements in early 2008,

141. But for Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS would not have entered the Agreements, or released its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

142. In reasonable and justifiable reliance on the foregoing material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS also surrendered and released valuable claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties at a time when UBS could have been made whole for the losses that it had suffered to that point as a result of the Original Engagement. Nor would UBS have suffered the additional losses in the Warehouse Facility.

143. UBS reasonably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions. As a direct and proximate result of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS continued to maintain the Warehouse Facility through, at least, December 3, 2008, suffering in excess of $686 million in losses that the Fund Counterparties cannot pay to UBS.

144. Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions were the direct and proximate cause of UBS's losses complained of herein. As a direct result of, and in reliance upon, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS was induced to, among other things, (a) enter the Agreements; (b) release its pre-existing claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties related to the Original Engagement; and (c) assume the credit-risk of the Fund Counterparties; and as a direct result, caused UBS to incur substantial losses and damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Contract Under the Cash Warehouse Agreement Against The Fund Counterparties)

145. Plaintiff UBSS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs I through 144 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

146. The Cash Warehouse Agreement is a valid and binding contract.

147. UBSS has performed all of its obligations under the Cash Warehouse Agreement.

148. Pursuant to the Cash Warehouse Agreement, each of the Fund Counterparties was required to transfer their respective pro rata shares of additional collateral to satisfy the Third Margin Call within two business days of November 7, 2008. The Fund Counterparties failed to make the required transfer. The Fund Counterparties' failure to make such transfer is a breach under the Cash Warehouse Agreement, and resulted in a Termination Date under the Cash Warehouse Agreement.

149. In accordance with the terms of the Cash Warehouse Agreement, UBSS demanded that each of the Fund Counterparties pay to UBS their respective pro rata shares of the amount of losses on the Cash Portfolio and estimated expenses by 5 P.M. on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 – the third business day after the date of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter). The Fund Counterparties failed to pay this amount to UBSS. The failure to pay these amounts to UBSS when due under the Cash Warehouse Agreement constituted a further breach under the Cash Warehouse Agreement.

150. By reason of the foregoing, UBSS has suffered and will continue to suffer damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Contract Under the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement Against The Fund Counterparties)

151. Plaintiff UBS AG, repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 150 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

152. The Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is a valid and binding contract.

153. UBS AG has performed all of its obligations under the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

154. Pursuant to the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, each of the Fund Counterparties were required to transfer their respective pro rata shares of additional collateral to satisfy the Third Margin Call within two business days of November 7, 2008. The Fund Counterparties failed to make the requisite transfer. The failure to make such transfer resulted in a breach and a Termination Date under the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

155. UBS AG demanded that each of the Fund Counterparties pay to UBS AG their pro rata share of losses on the CDS Portfolio and estimated expenses by 5 P.M. on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 – the third business day after the date of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter). The Fund Counterparties failed to pay this amount to UBS. The failure to pay these amounts when due under the Agreements was a further breach under the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

156. By reason of the foregoing, UBS AG has suffered and will continue to suffer damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

157. Paragraphs 157 to 166 have been intentionally left blank.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Fraudulent Conveyances Against All Defendants)

167. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 166 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

168. Between March 14, 2008 and December 3, 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility grew, Highland Capital exercised its control over the Fund Counterparties and caused the Fund Counterparties to transfer valuable cash and assets out of the Fund Counterparties, thereby impairing their ability to bear losses in the Warehouse Facility, and otherwise satisfy their obligations to creditors, including UBS. SIXTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Tortious Interference With Contractual Relations
Against The Affiliated Transferee Defendants)
(Pled Solely To Preserve For Appeal)

180. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 179 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

181. The Agreements are valid and binding contracts.

182. The parties agreed that UBS would not bear the risk of any losses in connection with the Restructured Transaction. As a direct result of the Fund Counterparties' breach of the Warehouse Agreements, UBS suffered no less than $686,853,290.26 in damages. Under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements, the Fund Counterparties' obligation to pay UBS for losses in the Warehouse Facility expressly survived the termination of the Agreements.

183. Highland Capital knew of the Agreements, and were familiar with their terms, including the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS thereunder. The Affiliated Transferee Defendants, also knew of the Agreements, and their terms, including the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS thereunder.

184. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants intentionally and improperly caused and ensured a breach of the Warehouse Agreements by the Fund Counterparties, thereby tortiously interfering with UBS's rights under the Agreements.

185. Specifically, in 2008 and 2009 Highland Capital wrongfully caused the improper and fraudulent asset transfers, payments, distributions and dividends described above, and thereby tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual relationship with the Fund Counterparties by knowingly impairing UBS's contractual right under the Warehouse Agreements to be reimbursed by the Fund Counterparties for the losses on the Warehouse Assets. For example, Highland Capital wrongfully caused the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance for which there was no legitimate purpose. The Affiliated Transferee Defendants

186. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants

[REDACTED]

187. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants engaged in the foregoing unlawful and improper conduct, and tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual rights under the Warehouse Agreements, for their own improper personal gain by knowingly violating UBS's rights and making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to perform under the Warehouse Agreements. In particular, the foregoing conduct constitutes independent torts and predatory acts directed at UBS for Highland Capital's and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants' own personal gain.

188. As a direct and proximate result of Highland Capital's and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants' tortious interference with UBS's contractual rights under the Agreements, UBS has suffered damages in an amount to be determined at trial. Had Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants not tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual rights, the Fund Counterparties would have been able to make payments to UBS of the amount they owed to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements.

SEVENTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Declaratory Judgment For General Partner Liability Against Strand)

189. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 188 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

190. A limited partnership's general partner is personally liable for the partnership obligations of the limited partnership.

191. Highland Capital is a Delaware limited partnership. Defendant Strand is Highland Capital's general partner. As such, Strand is personally liable for the liability, debts and obligations of Highland Capital, including but not limited to Highland Capital's liabilities to UBS arising out of the Consolidated Action.

192. A justiciable controversy exists as to whether Strand is liable to UBS for the injuries caused by Highland Capital complained of in the Consolidated Action as a result of Strand being Highland Capital's general partner.

EIGHTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Declaratory Judgment For Alter Ego Liability Against Highland Financial)

193. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 192 of this Second Amended Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

194. As alleged above, SOHC breached the Warehouse Agreements and otherwise harmed UBS by engaging in fraudulent misconduct. Highland Financial is SOHC's alter ego and should be held responsible and liable for SOHC's breach of the Warehouse Agreements and fraudulent misconduct.

195. SOHC is a mere instrumentality of Highland Financial. SOHC had no independence and could not exercise any business discretion whatsoever.

 SOHC did not have its own offices, officers or employees. Rather, it shared common officers, directors and employees, as well as common office space, with Highland Financial.

196. As alleged in detail above, Highland Financial completely dominated the day-to-day operations of SOHC as well as SOHC's sister-affiliates. In particular, Highland Financial operated Highland Financial and its subsidiaries, including SOHC, as a single entity,

197. A justiciable controversy exists as to whether Highland Financial is liable to UBS as SOHC's alter ego for the losses and harm that UBS suffered that were caused by SOHC's breach of the Warehouse Agreements, and the fraudulent and tortious conduct complained of herein.

RELIEF DEMANDED

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs UBSS and UBS AG demand judgment:

(a) On the first cause of action, as against the Fund Counterparties, declaring that UBS was induced to enter the Agreements as a result of fraud committed by the Fund Counterparties, and awarding damages to UBS for all losses and liabilities incurred by UBS, and that UBS incurs, with respect to the Agreements and the Warehouse Facility, including, without limitation, interest, reasonable attorneys' and accountants' fees and expenses and any other losses, fees and expenses that UBS incurred or incurs, in an amount to be determined at trial but in any event, no less than $686,853,290.26;

(b) On the second cause of action, which is pled solely to preserve UBS's appellate rights, as against the Fund Counterparties, declaring that UBS was induced to enter the Agreements as a result of fraud committed by the Fund Counterparties, and awarding damages to UBS for all losses and liabilities incurred by UBS, and that UBS incurs, with respect to the Agreements and the Warehouse Facility, including, without limitation, interest, reasonable attorneys' and accountants' fees and expenses and any other losses, fees and expenses that UBS incurred or incurs, in an amount to be determined at trial but in any event, no less than $686,853,290.26;

(c) On the third cause of action, as against the Fund Counterparties, declaring that the Fund Counterparties breached the Cash Warehouse Agreement, and awarding UBS an amount to be determined at trial;

(d) On the fourth cause of action, as against the Fund Counterparties, declaring that the Fund Counterparties breached the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, and awarding UBS an amount to be determined at trial;

(e) On the fifth cause of action, as against all defendants, (i) declaring that the dispositions of the Fund Counterparties' and Highland Financial's assets, as directed by Highland Capital, constituted fraudulent conveyances; (ii) appointing a receiver over defendants; (iii) directing that a full accounting be had of defendants' affairs and finances; (iv) imposing a constructive trust over defendants' assets until such an accounting is completed; and/or (v) awarding UBS damages in an amount to be determined at trial, but no less than the value of the assets fraudulently and improperly transferred, or, alternatively, directing that defendants and their partners, members or shareholders return to the Fund Counterparties any assets or consideration received from Highland Financial or the Fund Counterparties, directly or indirectly, as distributions, dividends, consideration, compensation, fees, interest, principal or otherwise, between March 14, 2008 and the present.

(f) On the sixth cause of action, as against the Affiliated Transferee Defendants, which is pled solely to preserve UBS's appellate rights, declaring that each of those defendants is liable for tortiously interfering with UBS's contractual rights under the Warehouse Agreements, and awarding UBS an amount to be determined at trial;

(g) On the seventh cause of action, as against defendant Strand, declaring that Strand is responsible for Highland Capital's liability and obligations arising out of the Consolidated Action;

(h) On the eighth cause of action, as against defendant Highland Financial, declaring that Highland Financial is SOHC's alter ego, and that as such, Highland Financial is responsible for SOHC's liability and obligations to UBS arising out of this action;

(i) Awarding UBS punitive damages in an amount to be determined at trial;

(j) Granting UBS its costs and disbursements, including reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses of this action;

(k) Granting UBS pre-judgment interest; and

(l) Granting such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

TRIAL

Defendant.
-----X

This action arises out of a failed restructured transaction between plaintiffs UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (collectively, UBS) and defendants Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (CDO Fund) and Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (SOHC) (together, the Fund Counterparties), and defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. (Highland Capital) (together with the Fund Counterparties, Highland), for the securitization of collateralized loan obligations (CLOs) and credit default swaps (CDSs).

The court conducted a bench trial from July 9 through July 27, 2018 on plaintiffs' third and fourth causes of action in the second amended complaint for breach of contract, and on defendant Highland Capital's first and second counterclaims against plaintiff UBS Securities

LLC for breach of contract and unjust enrichment, respectively.¹ Based on the credible evidence at trial, the court now makes the following determination as to the breach of contract causes of action and counterclaims.²

In April and May 2007, the parties agreed to pursue a collateralized debt obligations transaction governed by an Engagement Letter, a Synthetic Warehouse Agreement for CDSs, and a Warehouse Agreement for CLOs (Original Agreements). (DX 4, DX 5, DX 6.)³ It is undisputed that UBS acted as the “financial arranger” for the transaction and was responsible for financing the acquisition of assets, which would then be held in portfolios, which the parties refer to as the Cash Warehouse and the Synthetic Warehouse or collectively as the Knox Warehouse. (Ps.’s Findings, ¶ 4; Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 5.)⁴ Highland Capital acted as the “Servicer” and was responsible for identifying the specific CLOs to be securitized and the Reference Obligations for the CDSs to be securitized. (Ps.’s Findings, ¶¶ 3, 4; Ds.’s Findings, ¶¶ 6, 8.)

In furtherance of the transaction, UBS acquired assets with a notional value of $818 million. (Ps.’s Findings, ¶ 6; Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 5.) There were 33 CLO tranches in the Cash Warehouse, with a notional value of $174 million. UBS paid $170 or $170.5 million to acquire the CLOs because the bonds were purchased at a slight discount on their par value. (Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 6; Ps.’s Findings, ¶ 6.) The Synthetic Warehouse contained 87 credit default swaps,

² At the trial, the parties agreed to the submission of extensive evidence, subject to standing objections. This decision is not based on such evidence, unless the decision expressly states otherwise.

³ Defendants’ and plaintiffs’ trial exhibits will be referred to as DX _ and PX _, respectively. The parties’ demonstrative exhibits will be referred to as DX Demo. _ and PX Demo. _

⁴ The Fund Counterparties’ and Highland Capital Management, L.P.’s Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law will be referred to as Ds.’s Findings. Plaintiffs’ Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law will be referred to as Ps.’s Findings. Defendants’ Findings are all identified by paragraph number. Plaintiffs’ Findings of Fact are identified by paragraph number, while their Findings of Law are identified only by page number.

with a notional value of $644 million. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 7; Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 6.) UBS served as the protection seller on all of the CDSs. (Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 4; Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 8.) For five of the CDSs, with a notional value of $45 million, Lehman Brothers Special Financing, Inc. (Lehman) acted as the protection buyer (Lehman Swaps). (Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 8; Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 9; PX 755⁵, at 1.) For 20 of the CDSs, with a notional value of $124 million, UBS acted as both protection seller and protection buyer (the Internal Swaps). (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 10; Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 9; PX 755, at 4-5.)

The Original Agreements expired by their terms on August 15, 2007. (PX 1, at 1.) The parties agreed to restructure the transaction, signing a new Engagement Letter, the 2008 Cash Warehouse Agreement (CWA), and the 2008 Synthetic Warehouse Agreement (SWA), as of March 14, 2008. (See PX 1, PX 2, PX 3.) As of March 14, 2008, the Knox assets had lost significant value and the parties agreed that, given the market conditions existing as of the date of the restructured transaction, it was not then feasible to sell the securities and close the transaction. (Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 20; 2008 Engagement Letter [PX 1, at 8].)

As discussed further below, the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided for the roll-over of the Existing Credit Default Swaps and the Existing Collateral Portfolio into the warehouses created under the 2008 restructured transaction. (See SWA, Whereas Clause 5.) Section 12 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided that the Fund Counterparties would transfer additional cash and securities "to secure its obligations to UBS" under the SWA and the CWA. In particular, this Section required the Fund Counterparties to make an Initial Deposit of $20 million in cash and approximately $54 million in Eligible Securities on the date of the execution of the SWA. (Id., § 12 [A].) The SWA contained a collateral call provision under which UBS was required to track its CDS and Cash Exposure to losses, as defined under the Agreement, on a semi-monthly basis, and the Fund Counterparties were required to deposit an additional $10 million in collateral (cash and/or Eligible Securities) for every $100 million increase in the defined Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount. (Id., §§ 12 [B], [C].)

It is undisputed that, pursuant to Section 12 (C) of the SWA, UBS made a first collateral call for $10 million on September 17, 2008 (PX 4), and a second collateral call for $10 million on October 21, 2008 (PX 5), both of which were satisfied by the Fund Counterparties. (Testimony of Keith Grimaldi, Former Head of UBS's CDO Secondary Trading Desk, Trial Transcript (Tr.) at 81, 112, 119.)

On November 7, 2008, UBS issued the third, and final, collateral call to the Fund Counterparties for an additional $10 million. (PX 6.) It is undisputed that the Fund Counterparties did not meet this collateral call. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 17; Ps.'s Findings, ¶¶ 43-47).⁶

On December 3, 2008, UBS sent a notice to Highland stating that, to date, no deposits have been made in response to the November collateral call, and that "a Termination Date has occurred under the Warehouse Agreements and a termination date has occurred under the Engagement Letter." (PX 7; PX 9.) The notice further stated that "UBS is forbearing from exercising its remedies [under the Agreements] for a period of two Business Days from the date hereof in order to permit [the Fund Counterparties] to pay the Additional Deposits by 5 pm New York time on December 5, 2008." (Id.) On December 5, 2008, UBS sent an additional notice to

⁶ It is undisputed that the Fund Counterparties offered to post CLO assets to satisfy the third collateral call and that UBS did not accept that collateral. UBS's Keith Grimaldi testified that UBS rejected the CLOs because "at that time the marketplace was declining and declining rapidly. We thought there would be more declines, so we collectively made a decision that we wanted cash or government securities ... that would be easily liquid and reflect better value." (Trial Tr. at 122.) Defendants stipulated that UBS had the right to insist on cash. (See Statement of Andrew Cruciani [Ds.'s Atty.], Trial Tr. at 1736.)

Highland stating that the Additional Deposit has not been made, and that “[c]onsequently, UBS will proceed to exercise the rights and remedies available to it under the Warehouse Agreements, the Engagement Letter, at law and otherwise.” (PX 8.)

THIRD COLLATERAL CALL

As a threshold matter, the parties dispute whether the third collateral call was proper. Highland argues that UBS should not have included the 20 Internal Swaps in calculating the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount “because the Intradesk [i.e., Internal] Swaps were not Existing Credit Default Swaps under the SWA . . .” (Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 28.) Highland also claims that the Lehman Swaps were not properly included in the calculation because they had been terminated prior to the third collateral call. (See id., ¶ 27.)

More particularly, Highland claims that the Internal Swaps were not Existing Credit Default Swaps because they were not documented, as allegedly required by Section 3 of the SWA, in the form of an ISDA Master Agreement and ISDA Confirmation. (Ds.’s Findings, ¶¶ 28, 30-31.) UBS does not dispute that the Internal Swaps were not documented by the ISDA Master Agreement and Confirmation, but argues that Section 3 does not require such documentation for the Internal Swaps. (Ps.’s Findings, at 24-25.)⁷

Resolution of this dispute involves an issue of contract interpretation. It is well settled that the determination of whether a contract is ambiguous is one of law to be resolved by the court. (Matter of Wallace v 600 Partners Co., 86 NY2d 543, 548 [1995]; W.W.W. Assocs., Inc. v Giancontieri, 77 NY2d 157, 162 [1990].) Written agreements are to be construed in accordance with the parties’ intent, and “the best evidence of what parties to a written agreement

intend is what they say in their writing.” (Schron v Troutman Sanders LLP, 20 NY3d 430, 436 [2013] [internal quotation marks, brackets, and citation omitted].) The court should determine from contractual language, without regard to extrinsic evidence, whether there is any ambiguity. (Chimart Assocs. v Paul, 66 NY2d 570, 573 [1986].) Extrinsic or parol evidence “may not be considered when the intent of the parties can be gleaned from the face of the instrument.” (Id. at 572-573.) “Extrinsic evidence of the parties’ intent may be considered only if the agreement is ambiguous. . . .” (Greenfield v Philles Records, Inc., 98 NY2d 562, 569 [2002].) “Ambiguity in a contract arises when the contract, read as a whole, fails to disclose its purpose and the parties’ intent, or where its terms are subject to more than one reasonable interpretation.” (Universal Am. Corp. v National Union Fire Ins. Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., 25 NY3d 675, 680 [2015] [internal quotation marks and citation omitted].)

It is also well settled that a court should “construe the [contract] so as to give full meaning and effect to the material provisions. A reading of the contract should not render any portion meaningless. Further, a contract should be read as a whole, and every part will be interpreted with reference to the whole; and if possible it will be so interpreted as to give effect to its general purpose.” (Beal Sav. Bank v Sommer, 8 NY3d 318, 324-25 [2007] [internal quotation marks and citations omitted]; National Conversion Corp. v Cedar Bldg. Corp., 23 NY2d 621, 625 [1969] [holding that “[a]ll parts of an agreement are to be reconciled, if possible, in order to avoid inconsistency”].)

Applying these precepts, the court holds that the SWA is not ambiguous with respect to the requirements for documentation of CDSs, that Section 3 of the SWA only applies to CDSs in which a third party is the protection buyer, and that this Section does not require ISDA documentation for the Internal Swaps.

The SWA defines “Existing Credit Default Swap[s]” as the CDSs “that were the subject of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.” (SWA, Whereas Clause 5.) Section 3 of the SWA provides, in pertinent part:

“Form of Documentation. Each Existing Credit Default Swap between UBS, acting as Seller, and a counterparty, acting as Buyer, has been documented in the form of (i) the ISDA Master Agreement and Schedule currently in effect between UBS and the related counterparty, which documents are confidential between UBS and such counterparty and (ii) an ISDA published confirmation. . . . Each Additional Credit Default Swap between UBS, acting as Seller, and a counterparty, acting as Buyer, will be documented in the form of (i) the ISDA Master Agreement and Schedule currently in effect between UBS and the related counterparty, which documents are confidential between UBS and such counterparty and (ii) the Confirmation attached [to the SWA]”

As the Agreement that governs the securitization of Existing and Additional Credit Default Swaps, the SWA contains numerous detailed provisions regarding the accumulation and disposition of these financial instruments. Section 3, which pertains to documentation of the swaps, is the only provision in the SWA that is limited to CDSs in which UBS is the Seller and a counterparty is the Buyer. All of the other provisions of the SWA refer to CDSs without such limitation.

Moreover, like SWA Section 3, the Original SWA provided: “Each Credit Default Swap between UBS, acting as Seller, and a counterparty, acting as Buyer, will be documented in the form of (i) the ISDA Master Agreement and Schedule currently in effect between UBS and the counterparty, which documents are confidential between UBS and each counterparty and (ii) the Confirmation attached hereto. . . .” (Original SWA, § 3 [NYSCEF Doc. No. 626].) It is undisputed, however, that the Internal Swaps were included in the Original SWA portfolio but were not documented by the ISDA Master Agreement or Confirmation. It is also undisputed that the Internal Swaps were nevertheless again included in the Initial Net Exposure Amount in the SWA for the restructured transaction. (Testimony of Peter Vinella [Highland’s expert in structured financial products], Trial Tr. at 1097, 1124-1125 [acknowledging that the Internal Swaps were included in the Initial Net Exposure Amount].)

Initial Net Exposure Amount is defined in the SWA⁸ as “111,767,486.88, being the amount by which the Aggregate Net Exposure Amount as of the date hereof [i.e., the March 14, 2008 “as of” date of the SWA] exceeds the Initial Deposit.” As defined in SWA Section 12 (A), the Initial Deposit is the deposit of approximately $74,000,000 in cash and Eligible Securities made on the date of execution of the SWA. Aggregate Net Exposure Amount is defined as the amount by which CDS Exposure and Cash Exposure, as of the date of the collateral calculation, exceed the balance on deposit in the Deposit Account plus Positive Carry with respect to each Collateral Obligation.⁹ As discussed above, Section 12 (C) of the SWA requires a deposit of $10 million in additional collateral when the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount is greater than or equal to $100 million. The Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount is defined in the SWA as “the amount, if any, by which (i) the Aggregate Net Exposure Amount as of [the date of the collateral calculation] exceeds (ii) the Initial Net Exposure Amount.” The Initial Net Exposure Amount, which includes the Internal Swaps, is thus integral to the calculation of the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount.

Based on this reading of the SWA as a whole, the court concludes that the Internal Swaps were Existing Credit Default Swaps within the meaning of the SWA. The lack of ISDA documentation was therefore not a bar to their inclusion in the collateral call calculation.

The court rejects Highland’s further contention that the Internal Swaps should not have been included because there was “no economic consequence” to UBS from these swaps. (Ds.’s

⁸ Definitions are found in the Definitions section of the SWA (SWA, Ex. A), unless the term is defined in a particular provision of the SWA, in which case the provision will be cited.

⁹ Positive Carry is defined in the CWA. As explained by Adam Warren, Highland’s damages expert, carry includes interest payments from the CLOs. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1299.)

Findings, ¶ 33.) The complex formula set forth in Section 12 for calculating the exposure of UBS on the assets in the warehouse that would trigger a collateral call does not contain any requirement that UBS include in the calculation only assets for which it was at risk of sustaining actual losses.¹⁰

The court further holds that, although the Internal Swaps were properly included in the third collateral call calculation, the Lehman Swaps were not. The parties do not dispute that the Lehman Swaps had been terminated based on the Event of Default that occurred upon Lehman's filing for bankruptcy on September 15, 2008. (DX 87 [UBS Default Notice].) Highland asserts, and UBS does not persuasively counter, that the Lehman Swaps should not have been included in the third collateral call. Indeed, UBS's Grimaldi forthrightly acknowledged that, given the termination, there should not have been "markdowns" on the Lehman Swaps. (Grimaldi Testimony, Trial Tr. at 297-298.)

Highland contends, based on the inclusion of the Lehman Swaps and Internal Swaps in the third collateral call calculation, that UBS "committed a prior material breach by failing to

¹⁰ In view of this holding that the Internal Swaps were properly included in the collateral call calculation pursuant to the unambiguous terms of the SWA, the court has not considered parol evidence on the issue.

The court thus rejects Highland's request for a finding that UBS admitted that the SWA required ISDA documentation of the Internal Swaps. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 30-31.) This request is based on testimony of UBS's Keith Grimaldi who, when shown Section 3 during cross-examination and asked if every CDS was required to have ISDA documentation, responded: "According to the language, yes." (Grimaldi Testimony, Trial Tr. at 262-264.) Even if this evidence were properly considered, Highland's reliance on this answer ignores that Mr. Grimaldi further testified that ISDA documentation would not be "filled out" until the assets were transferred in the securitization. (Id. at 267-270.)

The court further notes that Highland requests a finding, arguably in support of its claim that the CDSs were not Existing Credit Default Swaps, that a CDS "cannot be created with the same legal entity on both sides of the transaction. . . ." (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 29.) Even if parol evidence were properly considered, there was substantial evidence in the record that internal swaps were common in securitizations of synthetic assets. (LeRoux Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1673-1676; (Vinella Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1158-1162 [denying that intracompany swaps are "economic transactions" but acknowledging their use in CLO securitizations].)

properly calculate the collateral call[.]” (Ds.’s Findings, ¶¶ 23, 27-28.) In support of this contention, Highland relies on the testimony of its expert Peter Vinella. According to Mr. Vinella’s own analysis, however, if the Lehman swaps are excluded from the calculation for the third collateral call, but the Internal Swaps are included, the total increase in the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount as of November 4, 2008 is $328.62 million—an amount greater than the $300 million required to authorize the third collateral call pursuant to Section 12 of the SWA. (Vinella Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1122-1139; DX Demo. 8.) Louis Dudney, UBS’s expert in forensic accounting and damages (Trial Tr. at 824), analyzed Mr. Vinella’s testimony and confirmed, using the same numbers as Mr. Vinella, that the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount still exceeded $300 million on November 4, 2008, after excluding the Lehman Swaps but including the Internal Swaps. (PX Demo. 20 [accepted without objection in lieu of Dudney rebuttal testimony, Trial Tr. at 1870-1871].)

Based on this credible testimony that the threshold for the collateral call was met without the Lehman Swaps, the court holds that the third collateral call did not constitute a material breach of the contract, notwithstanding UBS’s improper inclusion of the Lehman Swaps in the calculation.¹¹ (See generally Awards.Com v Kinko’s, Inc., 42 AD3d 178, 187 [1st Dept 2007], affd 14 NY3d 791, 793 [2010]; Frank Felix Assocs., Ltd. v Austin Drugs, Inc., 111 F3d 284, 289 [2d Cir 1997] [under New York law, for a breach to be material, “it must go to the root of the agreement between the parties”] [internal quotation marks and citations omitted].)

¹¹ In view of this holding that the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount exceeded $300 million as of November 7, 2008, the court need not reach UBS’s contention that the collateral call was proper because the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount exceeded $300 million as of December 2, 2008, prior to the termination of the transaction. (Ps.’s Findings, at 15 n 10.)

As discussed above, there is no dispute that the Fund Counterparties failed to meet the third collateral call. The court accordingly finds that the Fund Counterparties breached the SWA and turns to the issue of damages.

DAMAGES

Designation of Ineligible Securities

A critical issue in determining UBS's damages is whether UBS may recover damages for CDSs that UBS retained after its termination of the 2008 transaction, under these circumstances in which UBS did not designate the underlying reference obligations for any of the CDSs as "Ineligible Securities." Resolution of this issue requires interpretation of the SWA. Highland and UBS both contend that the SWA is unambiguous as to whether Ineligible Securities must be designated, but assert fundamentally inconsistent readings of the Agreement. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 44-49; see Ps.'s Findings, at 29 n 21.)

As held above, the determination of whether a contract is ambiguous is one of law to be resolved by the court. (Matter of Wallace, 86 NY2d at 548.) Ambiguity will be found to arise where the terms of a contract are "subject to more than one reasonable interpretation." (Universal Am. Corp., 25 NY3d at 680 [internal quotation marks and citation omitted].) As also held above, a court should construe a contract so as to give full meaning and effect to its material provisions, and should read the contract as a whole and so as not to render any portion meaningless, if possible. (See Beal Sav. Bank, 8 NY3d at 324-25.)

Sections 5 (A), 5 (B), and 6 of the SWA are relevant to the calculation of CDS damages: Section 5 (A) provides for the calculation of losses with respect to CDSs removed from the warehouse during the term of the Agreement or "otherwise pursuant to Section 6"; Section 5 (B) (2) governs the calculation of losses upon a closing; and Section 6 governs this calculation in the event of a failure to close, incorporating terms from Sections 5 (A) and 5 (B).

Section 6 provides in pertinent part:

- “(A) If the Closing Date fails to occur on or prior to the Termination Date, then UBS may, with the consent of the related counterparty, either (at the election of the Servicer; provided that notice of such election is received on or prior to the Termination Date) (i) terminate each Credit Default Swap or (ii) novate each Credit Default Swap to a third party or to the Servicer (or any Affiliate of the Servicer designated by the Servicer), in each case, on the Termination Date.

- (C) To the extent there are any CDS Losses, the CDO Fund and SOHC shall collectively be responsible for 100% of any such CDS Losses. Such CDS Losses shall be allocated between the CDO Fund and SOHC on the basis of their respective Allocation Percentages. Each of the CDO Fund and SOHC shall, after notice of the amount due from UBS, remit such amounts by wire transfer in immediately available funds to UBS within three Business Days after the Termination Date.”

CDS Losses are in turn defined in Section 5 (B) (2), the closing

provision, as:

“(x) the sum of (1) the aggregate Floating Amount payments and Physical Settlement Amount payments made by UBS with respect to all of the Credit Default Swaps as to which a Floating Amount Event or a Credit Event occurred under the terms thereof, plus (2) the aggregate amount of Net Hedging Payments made by UBS with respect to all Hedging Transactions related to the Credit Default Swaps, plus (3) the aggregate Replacement Losses determined with respect to all of the Credit Default Swaps and the related Hedging Transactions that were terminated or novated or as to which the exposure was retained by UBS, in each case upon the designation of the Reference Obligation relating to such Credit Default Swap as an Ineligible Security (such amount in this clause (x), the ‘CDS Losses’)”

Relying on the requirement in the definition of CDS Losses that Reference Obligations be designated as Ineligible Securities, Highland argues that “[t]he term ‘CDS Losses’

unambiguously limits UBS's recovery for unrealized (mark-to-market) losses to securities designated as 'Ineligible Securities,' and the Court is bound to enforce the agreement pursuant to its unambiguous terms." (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 46.) Put another way, Highland argues that UBS may recover mark-to-market losses only on CDSs that have been designated Ineligible Securities. (Id., ¶ 53.)¹² UBS asserts, among other things, that under Section 6, UBS may terminate, novate, or retain CDSs regardless of eligibility, that ineligibility designations are not relevant absent a closing, and that Highland's reading renders meaningless other provisions of the SWA. (Ps.'s Findings, at 29 n 21.)

Upon close reading of the SWA, the court concludes that the SWA is not ambiguous with respect to ineligibility designations and that, under Section 6, upon the failure to close UBS is entitled to retain CDSs and to recover losses for the retained CDSs, without first designating the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities. Section 6 (A) expressly provides for UBS to terminate or novate the CDSs, and does not require UBS to first make such designation. Although Section 6 (A) does not also, by its terms, provide for UBS to retain CDSs, a reading of the contract as a whole leaves no question that UBS was not only entitled to retain the CDSs upon the failure to close, but also that it was entitled to recover losses on the retained CDSs without first designating the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible.¹³

¹² Highland's damages expert, Adam Warren, testified that realized losses are losses sustained where a transaction has been closed out and an actual cash payment has been made. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1249, 1253.) He also testified that, in his opinion, there were no unrealized losses in the Synthetic Warehouse because no assets had been designated as ineligible. (Id. at 1257 ["[O]ur computation is that there are no unrealized losses in the Synthetic Warehouse because of the need to . . . create a designation of ineligible. And we saw no evidence of any Synthetic Warehouse asset being designated ineligible".])

¹³ In its decision of defendants' motion for summary judgment, this court held that it could not determine on the record of that motion whether the SWA was ambiguous with respect to UBS's entitlement to recover losses on retained CDSs, pursuant to Section 6, without a prior designation of such assets as Ineligible Securities. (2017 NY Slip Op. 30546[U], 2017 WL 1103879, * 4-7 [Sup Ct, NY County Mar. 13 2017], aff'd 159 AD3d 512, lv dismissed 32 NY3d 1080.) With the benefit of the parties' extensive trial briefing on this issue, the court now concludes, for the reasons discussed further in the text, that the agreement is not ambiguous.

As the above-quoted definition of CDS Losses in Section 5 (B) (2) shows, this definition relates to Credit Default Swaps which, upon a closing, have been “terminated or novated or as to which the exposure was retained by UBS, in each case upon the designation of the Reference Obligation relating to such Credit Default Swap as an Ineligible Security” After setting forth the definition of CDS Losses (and CDS Gains) in the context of a closing, Section 5 (B) (2) further provides: “To the extent the Closing Date fails to occur, allocation of CDS Losses, CDS Gains and any other amounts payable hereunder will be determined in accordance with the provisions of Section 6 hereof.”

Significantly, while Section 6 (C) incorporates the defined term CDS Losses, the term CDS Losses also incorporates both the definition of Ineligible Security and the term Replacement Losses from Section 5 (A). These incorporated terms modify the definition of CDS Losses where a closing does not occur.

The definition of Ineligible Security pertains to securities that are ineligible for securitization upon a closing. The SWA thus defines Ineligible Security, in pertinent part, as “any Reference Obligation in the CDS Portfolio which has become ineligible for sale to the Issuer on the Closing Date as a result of the failure of such Reference Obligation to conform to the Eligibility Criteria as it exists at such time of determination” (SWA, Exhibit A-2 [emphasis added].)

Section 5 (A), which defines the term Replacement Losses, distinguishes between such Losses sustained during the term of the Agreement and those sustained upon termination in the event of a failure to close pursuant to Section 6. Section 5 (A) primarily addresses the removal of CDSs from the warehouse “during the term of this [the SWA] Agreement” where “a Reference Obligation or the related Credit Default Swap does not conform to the Eligibility Criteria” that must be met for securitization. This section provides that “UBS shall be entitled in good faith to designate any Reference Obligation (and the related Credit Default Swap) as an Ineligible Security and (ii) in its sole discretion to remove any such Reference Obligation (and the related Credit Default Swap) from the CDS Portfolio.” Section 5 (A), however, continues:

“To the extent any such Credit Default Swaps are terminated or novated, or at UBS’s discretion, such exposure is retained following the designation of such Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities or otherwise pursuant to Section 6, UBS shall determine the Replacement Gain or Replacement Loss relating to such Credit Default Swaps [according to the formula that follows].”

(emphasis added). Section 5 (A) then sets forth a formula for calculating Replacement Gain and Replacement Loss, which specifically provides for such calculation not only upon termination or novation but also upon UBS’s retention of the CDSs. (SWA § 5 [A] [1] – [3].)

Section 5 (A) thus clearly contemplates that UBS may novate, terminate, or retain CDSs both during the term of the Agreement and in the event of a failure to close. The Section affords UBS the discretion to terminate, novate, or retain CDSs “pursuant to Section 6,” as distinct from its discretion to do so upon a designation of the underlying Reference Obligation as Ineligible during the term of the Agreement. Any other reading would render meaningless the Section 5 (A) provision “or otherwise pursuant to Section 6.”

Moreover, in order to reconcile all of the provisions of the SWA, the Section 5 (B) (2) definition of CDS Losses, when used in Section 6, cannot be construed as requiring a designation of Ineligible Securities. As discussed above, Ineligible Securities are defined as securities ineligible for sale at a closing. Section 5 (B) (2), which governs the calculation of losses where a closing will occur, requires the designation of Ineligible Securities to facilitate the parties’ calculation of losses on assets deemed ineligible for inclusion in the securitization that will occur upon the closing. When a closing will not occur, none of the CDSs or other assets will be securitized, and there is no need to distinguish between eligible and ineligible assets. While the definition of CDS Losses with the Ineligible Security designation requirement serves the purposes of Section 5 (B) (2) in the event of a closing, it is inconsistent with the CDS Loss calculation required in Section 6 where the closing does not occur.

Contrary to Highland's apparent contention (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 46), a reading of the CDS Loss provision in Section 6 to permit calculation of losses on retained assets without an Ineligible Security designation does not violate the fundamental precept that a defined term in a contract must be given effect. (See generally Mionis v Bank Julius Baer & Co., 301 AD2d 104, 109 [1st Dept 2002].) Rather, the CDS Loss definition, as used in Section 6, is modified by the contractual provisions discussed above.

Although inartfully drafted, the SWA is not ambiguous. If the contract is read as a whole, and all of the provisions are given meaning, it is reasonably susceptible to only one meaning—namely, that CDS Losses for retained assets may be recovered without a designation of the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities where, as here, the contract has been terminated before the closing.¹⁴ The court accordingly holds that UBS is entitled to recover damages for the retained CDSs in the Synthetic Warehouse.¹⁵

Calculation of Damages

As discussed above, UBS terminated the transaction based on the Fund Counterparties'

¹⁴ The court notes that the SWA and the Cash Warehouse Agreement (CWA) both contain provisions which state that the two agreements "set forth the entire understanding of the parties hereto relating to the subject matter hereof . . ." (SWA, § 18; CWA, § 18.) Assuming, without deciding, that these agreements should be read together in construing the SWA, the court finds that, although the assets at issue in the SWA and the CWA have markedly different attributes, the CWA is consistent with the SWA to the extent that the CWA permits UBS, in the event a closing does not occur, to retain and recover for losses on the CLOs that are the subject of the CWA, without a designation of the CLOs as Ineligible Securities. (See CWA, §§ 5 [A], 7 [A].)

failure to meet the third collateral call. UBS sent Highland a notice, dated December 3, 2008, stating that a Termination Date had occurred under the Warehouse Agreements but that it would forbear from exercising its remedies for two days to permit the Fund Counterparties to meet this collateral call. (PX 7.) UBS then sent a further notice to Highland, dated December 5, 2008, stating that it would exercise its remedies as the call had not been met. (PX 8.) UBS held a public auction of the assets in the Knox Warehouse on December 16, 2008. By notice dated December 19, 2008, UBS demanded payment for its claimed losses based on the results of the auction—$157,949,885.47 for the assets in the Cash Warehouse (PX 10) and $587,357,060.59 for the assets in the Synthetic Warehouse. (PX 11.) UBS also notified Highland that it elected to retain the Collateral Obligations in the Cash Warehouse. (PX 10.)

CDS Damages

Highland argues that even if the recovery of damages for the CDSs is not barred by UBS's failure to designate the Reference Obligations for the CDSs as Ineligible Securities (a claim this court has rejected above), UBS has not proved damages for these CDSs. Specifically, Highland contends that UBS did not comply with the contractual requirements for calculation of losses because its post-termination auction was untimely and otherwise improper. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 57-59.) Highland also contends that UBS's marks do not otherwise "establish a reasonable connection between the asset value and UBS's alleged damages." (Id., ¶¶ 60-65.) UBS disputes these assertions. (Ps.'s Findings, at 29-31.)

Sections 6 (C), 5 (B) (2), and 5 (A) (3) are the provisions of the SWA that govern the calculation of CDS Losses upon termination. Section 6 (C) provides in full:

"To the extent there are any CDS Losses, the CDO Fund and SOHC shall collectively be responsible for 100% of any such CDS Losses. Such CDS Losses shall be allocated between the CDO Fund and SOHC on the basis of their respective Allocation Percentages. Each of the CDO Fund and SOHC shall, after notice of the amount due from UBS, remit such amounts by wire transfer in immediately available funds to UBS within three Business Days after the Termination Date.”

As discussed above, the definition of CDS Losses in Section 5 (B) (2) includes Replacement Loss, the calculation of which is governed by Section 5 (A). With respect to Replacement Loss relating to CDSs that are retained, Section 5 (A) (3) provides in full:

“To the extent UBS retains such exposure, the Replacement Gain and Replacement Loss will be imputed based on the arithmetic average of at least three bids (or, if UBS is unable to obtain three such bids having made commercially reasonable efforts, such lesser number of bids as UBS is able to obtain) obtained by or on behalf of UBS from nationally recognized derivatives dealers in the relevant market (no more than one of which may be UBS or any of its Affiliates; provided that any such bid must be provided in good faith) to assume UBS’s position under such Credit Default Swap.”

The SWA, by its terms, thus contemplated that payment would be made within three days after the Termination Date, subject to notice from UBS. As the SWA provided for an auction to calculate the amount of the losses, it also contemplated that an auction could or would occur within that three day period.

By the terms of UBS’s notices to Highland, although a Termination Date had occurred as of December 3, UBS extended the Fund Counterparties’ time to meet the third collateral call until December 5. The court thus finds that the Fund Counterparties’ breach of the Agreements for failure to meet the third collateral call occurred on December 5. UBS did not conduct the auction to calculate the CDS Losses until December 16.

UBS’s delay of approximately 11 days in conducting the auction, while seemingly de minimis, in fact had momentous financial consequences, given that the delay occurred in the wake of the September 15, 2008 Lehman bankruptcy filing and at the height of the financial crisis. With the market spiraling downward, the CDS losses ascertained through the auction process were approximately $117 million more than the losses calculated by using UBS’s marks

on either December 3 or December 5. (PX Demo. 21; DX Demo. 12 [showing UBS and Highland marks as of December 3 and 5; PX Demo. 28 at 60 [Ps.'s Closing Statement Demonstrative Exhibit, acknowledging that CDS damages, as calculated based on the auction, exceeded the losses calculated using UBS's marks on December 3 and 5 by over $117 million].)¹⁶

UBS contends that the three day payment period was for its benefit and that it "could exercise its right to get paid after three business days without waiver." (Ps.'s Findings, at 28.) The court agrees that UBS's delay in demanding payment or holding the auction did not result in a waiver of its right to seek payment of its damages resulting from the Fund Counterparties' breach. (See SWA § 20 ["Neither the failure nor any delay on the part of any party hereto to exercise any right, remedy, power or privilege under this Agreement shall operate as a waiver hereof. . . ."].) Highland correctly contends, however, that the delayed auction could not serve as a basis for calculating UBS's damages because the results of the auction did not reflect market conditions as of the date of termination or breach. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 57.)

As explained by the Court of Appeals:

"It has long been recognized that the theory underlying damages is to make good or replace the loss caused by the breach of contract. Damages are intended to return the parties to the point at which the breach arose and to place the nonbreaching party in as good a position as it would have been had the contract been performed. Thus, damages for breach of contract are ordinarily ascertained as of the date of the breach."

[1998] [internal citations omitted].)

¹⁶ At the trial, the parties stipulated to dispense with rebuttal testimony from plaintiffs' damages expert, Louis Dudney and, in lieu of such testimony, to the admission into evidence of plaintiffs' Demonstrative Exhibits 20 and 21, and defendants' Demonstrative Exhibit 12. (Trial Tr. at 1868, 1870 [Stipulation].) PX Demo. 21 and DX Demo. 12, which were prepared by Mr. Dudney, calculated damages using plaintiffs' and defendants' marks, respectively, on December 3 and 5, 2008. (Trial Tr. at 1870-1877.)

It is further settled that damages need not be proven with mathematical certainty. It is sufficient that a reasonable basis for the calculation of damages be shown. (See generally J.R. Loftus, Inc. v White, 85 NY2d 874, 877 [1995] [“While a plaintiff may recover damages when the measure of damages is unavoidably uncertain or difficult to ascertain, a reasonable connection between a plaintiff’s proof and a [] determination of damages is nevertheless necessary”]; CDO Plus Master Fund Ltd. v Wachovia Bank, N.A., No. 07 Civ. 11078 [LTS], 2011 WL 4526132, *2 [US Dist Ct SD NY, Sept. 29, 2011] [“The law of New York is clear that once the fact of damage has been established, the non-breaching party need only provide a stable foundation for a reasonable estimate [of damages]” [internal quotation marks and citations omitted, brackets in original].)

UBS’s December 16, 2008 auction cannot satisfy either of these standards because, as held above, the auction did not provide a reliable basis for determining UBS’s losses at, or even shortly after, the breach, due to the exceptional circumstances presented by the financial crisis.¹⁷ The court accordingly turns to the alternative basis advanced by UBS for the calculation of damages—its marks on December 5, 2008. (Ps.’s Findings, at 29.)

It is well settled that “where the breach involves the deprivation of an item with a determinable market value, the market value at the time of the breach is the measure of damages.” (Sharma v Skaarup Ship Mgt. Corp., 916 F2d 820, 825 [2d Cir 1990], cert denied 499 US 907 [1991] [applying New York law and citing Simon v Electrospace

¹⁷ There is authority that “in accordance with the objective that a party seeking recovery for breach of contract is entitled ‘to be made whole’ as of the time of the breach, the [factfinder] should be able to make its valuation determination on all relevant elements of the case, whether dated prebreach, on the date of breach, or ‘some short time period thereafter.’” (Credit Suisse First Boston v Utrecht-America Fin. Co., 84 AD3d 579, 580 [1st Dept 2011] [quoting Boyce v Soundview Tech. Group, Inc., 464 F3d 376, 389 [2d Cir 2006] [other internal quotation marks and citations omitted].) Although the auction was held shortly after the breach, this authority does not support calculation of damages based on the auction results, as the auction did not provide a reliable basis for assessing the losses.

Corp., 28 NY2d 136, 145-146 [1971], motion to amend remittitur and clarify denied 28 NY2d 809].) In accordance with the objective that the injured party be made whole, “damages for breach of contract are ordinarily ascertained as of the date of the breach.” (Brushton-Moira Cent. Sch. Dist., 91 NY2d at 261.)

UBS offered credible testimony that its December 5, 2008 marks reasonably reflected the market value of the CDSs as of the December 5 breach date. In particular, Timothy LeRoux, who at the time of the transaction was second in command to Mr. Grimaldi on the UBS trading desk (LeRoux Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1640), gave credible testimony that, in the regular course of business, the trading desk “marked to market” hundreds of CLO assets, and every week or two was required to assign values on every one of the assets, both cash and synthetic, in the Knox Warehouse. (Id. at 1724.) Mr. LeRoux also described the marking process and identified information, including public information as to offers and bids on CDSs in the marketplace, that UBS considered in developing “objective” prices. (Id. at 1727, 1745-1750.) Mr. Grimaldi also testified that, although the trading desk performed the mark-to-market valuation of the assets in the Knox Warehouse, the UBS valuation group established oversight due to the volatility of the market and “would look at other market observations and make sure that those [the trading desk marks] were in line with the marketplace.” (Grimaldi Testimony, Trial Tr. at 207-208.)

Highland does not dispute that the mark-to-market process is a methodology for determining loss in market value of retained assets. (See e.g. Testimony of Adam Warren [Highland’s damages expert], Trial Tr. at 1268-1269; Testimony of Philip Braner [Highland former executive], Trial Tr. at 469-472; Testimony of UBS’s Timothy LeRoux, Trial Tr. at 1640, 1727-1729.)

Rather, in claiming that UBS’s marks are not competent evidence on which to award damages, Highland suggests that the setting of marks by the trading group involved a conflict of interest, because the trading group's bonuses were based on the performance of the mark-to-mark assets and the group had the incentive to inflate the value of the assets. (Ds.s' Findings, ¶¶ 61-62.) Highland makes no showing that UBS inflated the value of the CDSs or that trading groups do not routinely develop marks. Moreover, Highland's assertion that "UBS's trading group alone set the marks for the Knox Warehouse assets" (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 62) ignores UBS's credible testimony, discussed above, that the valuation group exercised oversight in connection with the development of the marks.

Highland's further assertion that its own marks are more reliable (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 65) is unsupported by persuasive evidence. Philip Braner, who ultimately became Chief Operating Officer of the Highland Capital Management CLO Group and COO of Highland Financial Partners (Braner Testimony, Trial Tr. at 397), testified that Highland was itself tracking marks on the assets in the Knox Warehouse (id. at 615) and had an "internal valuation team that was responsible for accumulating marks" in a process in which portfolio managers of the Highland funds participated. (See id. at 467.) While Highland appears to assert that its marks are more reliable than UBS's because they were set by a valuation team, Highland fails to show that the role of its valuation team differed in any material respect from that of the UBS valuation group that performed oversight on its trading group in the marking process.

Notably, Highland fails to explain how its methodology in setting marks was more reliable than UBS's. Adam Warren, Highland's damages expert, forthrightly testified that he was not opining on the reasonableness of any marks in this case (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1247-1248), and he did not in fact give any testimony on whether UBS's or Highland's marks were more reliable.

The evidence at trial also demonstrated that Highland, like UBS, set marks on the CDSs on an asset by asset basis from March 2008 through October 2008. While there were differences between Highland's and UBS's marks during this period, the Highland and UBS marks in the month of October were substantially similar. The difference in the marks did not escalate substantially until November 2008. (PX Demo. 9, at 4.) Mr. Dudney gave testimony, which was not disputed, that although Highland, like UBS, had been setting marks on an asset by asset basis, Highland stopped doing so as of October 2008 and, in a November 30, 2008 calculation of damages, attributed the same mark (37) to each asset. (Dudney Testimony, Trial Tr. at 883-884, 905-909, DX 116.) Highland offered no explanation for this change in methodology. Mr. Dudney, in contrast, gave plausible testimony that this use of the same mark did not make sense given the deterioration of the market. (Id. at 908.)

In sum, based on the credible evidence at the trial, the court holds that UBS has met its burden of demonstrating that its December 5, 2008 marks provide a reasonable basis, under the circumstances, for the calculation of damages at the time of the breach. In so holding, the court rejects Highland's not fully articulated contention that only an auction, and not a mark-to-market methodology, is a reliable method for calculating damages. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 59.) Highland's reliance on the testimony of its damages expert, Adam Warren, in support of this contention (see id.) is misplaced. While Mr. Warren testified that CDSs are "bespoke contracts," he did not give any testimony that an auction was required to ascertain their value.

Further, as held above, the auction did not provide a reliable basis for determining UBS's damages due to the volatility of the market at the time of the auction. It bears emphasis that, although the market was also volatile at the time the December 5, 2008 marks were accumulated, Highland has not advanced an alternative, other than the non-viable auction, to the mark-to-market valuation methodology. Nor has Highland made any showing that the market value of the CDSs was not reasonably determinable as of the date of breach using the mark-to-market valuation methodology.¹⁸

The court further holds that UBS has met its burden of demonstrating the reasonableness of its calculation of damages using those marks. UBS's and Highland's experts both provided the court with calculations of damages using UBS's and Highland's marks, respectively, as of December 5, 2008. Mr. Warren confirmed that his main differences with Mr. Dudney regarding the calculation of damages for the Synthetic Warehouse were that Mr. Dudney considered it appropriate, and he did not, to include damages for unrealized CDS losses and for the 20 Internal Swaps in which UBS was both the protection seller and the protection buyer. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1298; DX Demo. 12; PX Demo. 21; see also Dudney Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1004.)

Mr. Warren excluded from his damages calculation unrealized CDS losses for all CDSs as to which a designation of ineligibility had not been made. He testified that his basis for doing so was his understanding of the contract—i.e, his understanding that the SWA required such designation—and not industry custom. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1281-1282.) For the reasons discussed above, this court has rejected Highland's position that the SWA should be construed as requiring ineligibility designations as a condition of the inclusion of unrealized losses on the CDSs in the calculation of damages. Also for the reasons discussed above, the court has rejected Highland's position that the losses on the Internal Swaps should not be included in this calculation.

¹⁸ In its post-trial briefing, Highland sought a finding that if UBS is held to be entitled to recover damages for CDS losses, Highland's marks are more reliable than UBS's for determining those damages. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 65.) Highland did not argue that the market value of the losses could not reasonably be determined by using marks. In contrast, in support of its claim that it is entitled to an offset against CDS damages for post-breach termination payments received by UBS on the CDSs, Highland questioned the accuracy of the market valuation at the time of the breach. Highland thus asserted in a footnote: "Given the scant market pricing data available at the time of the breach, post-termination payments and asset dispositions are relevant for the additional reason that they provide a more accurate measurement of the actual value of the Knox assets." (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 8 n 5.) This assertion is unsupported by any citation to trial testimony. More important, at the trial Highland did not offer any expert testimony that the mark-to-market methodology was not a reliable basis for calculating the CDS damages. For the additional reasons set forth in the section of this decision on Highland's requested Offset for Post-Breach Appreciation In CDS Asset Value, the court finds that offset of post-breach payments received by UBS on the CDSs would be inconsistent with calculation of UBS's damages based on their market value at the time of the breach.

Review of the experts' calculations shows, moreover, that when such losses are included in the calculations, the difference between Highland's and UBS's totals is substantially reduced. As previously noted, the parties stipulated to the introduction into evidence of charts prepared by Mr. Dudney comparing his and Mr. Warren's calculations of CDS damages using UBS's and Highland's marks as of December 5, 2008. Using Highland's marks, Mr. Dudney calculated CDS mark-to-market losses of $388,284,750, compared to Mr. Warren's calculation of $26,952,895—a difference of $361,331,855. (DX Demo. 12.) Using UBS's marks, Mr. Dudney calculated losses of $470,113,605, compared to Mr. Warren's calculation of $26,952,895—a difference of $443,160,710. (PX Demo. 21.)

The difference in the totals is largely due to Mr. Warren's exclusion from his calculation of all unrealized CDS losses and all losses for the Internal Swaps. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1296-1299.) His calculation of $26,952,895 for CDS losses includes only realized CDS losses. (Id. at 1250.) According to Mr. Warren, the Internal Swaps account for $93,952,173 of the CDS damages using UBS's marks, or $68,801,027 using Highland's marks. (Id. at 1269.) Although Mr. Warren disputed UBS's entitlement to unrealized CDS losses, he performed a calculation including such losses. Using UBS's marks as of December 5, 2008, these losses totaled $355,487,606. (DX Demo. 10, at 14.) Using Highland's marks as of that date, these losses totaled $299,118,973. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1269; DX Demo. 10, at 14.) Mr. Warren's total, using UBS's marks, for the Internal Swaps ($93,952.173) and the unrealized CDS losses ($355,487,606) was $449,439,779. (DX Demo. 10, at 14.) As stated above, Mr. Dudney's calculation of total Synthetic Warehouse losses, using UBS's December 5, 2008 marks, was $470,113,605. Given the magnitude of the damages, this disparity is not material.

The court accordingly holds that UBS incurred losses in the Synthetic Warehouse of $470,113,605 as of December 5, 2008, the date of the breach, subject to the adjustments discussed below.

CLO Damages

Highland does not dispute that unrealized losses are recoverable for the CLO assets. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1293.) Moreover, UBS's (Mr. Dudney's) and Highland's (Mr. Warren's) calculations of the CLO losses as of December 5, 2008 are the same: Using Highland's marks, these losses were $106,157,101. (DX Demo. 12, at 2.) Using UBS's marks, the losses were $128,848,101. (PX Demo. 21.) Having concluded that UBS's damages were properly calculated based on UBS's marks as of December 5, 2008, the date of the breach, the court holds that UBS incurred losses in the Cash Warehouse of $128,848,101, subject to the adjustments discussed below.

Adjustments to Damages Calculation

In calculating the Synthetic and Cash Warehouse losses, Mr. Dudney and Mr. Warren made adjustments for the same items: carry (premiums and interest), collateral value, financing fees, and financing savings. Mr. Dudney's adjustment of $79,587,557 and Mr. Warren's adjustment of $76,632,634 did not differ materially. (PX Demo. 21.) According to Mr. Warren, the difference of approximately $3 million is due to Mr. Warren's exclusion of the Internal Swaps in calculating the carry. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1298-1299.) As the court has held that the Internal Swaps were properly included in the damages calculation, Mr. Dudney's adjustments will be accepted.

Reducing UBS's damages by the adjustments, the court holds that UBS sustained total damages of $519,374,149 (Cash Warehouse Losses of $128,848,101 plus Synthetic Warehouse Losses of $470,113,605 minus $79,587,557).

OFFSETS

Offset for Post-Breach Appreciation In CDS Asset Value

A central issue in this action is whether Highland is entitled to an offset against UBS's damages for appreciation in the value of the CDSs after the breach. The parties stipulated that UBS received post-breach termination payments net of carry on the CDSs, including the Internal Swaps, in the amount of $202,223,059. (DX 491.) It is undisputed that these payments were received months and, for many of the CDSs, years after the termination of the transaction. (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 10 [acknowledging that UBS "liquidated the assets years later"]; PX 335 [spreadsheet showing termination dates for CDSs through 2011].)

Highland argues that, at the time the transaction was terminated, "frozen credit markets had created a severe mismatch between the assets' alleged market value and their actual value based on their cash flows." (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 10.) Highland further argues that UBS was able to sell these assets for hundreds of millions of dollars more than their December 2008 marks and that, while UBS is entitled to retain the sale proceeds, "it cannot ignore these monies in calculating the harm it actually suffered." (Id. at 11.) According to Highland, if disposition of the assets after the termination is not considered, UBS will receive "an enormous windfall." (Id.) UBS acknowledges that if a non-breaching party obtains a benefit "because of the breach," the benefit must be offset against the non-breaching party's damages. (Ps.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 6 [emphasis UBS's].) UBS argues, however, that the Fund Counterparties' breach was not a but for cause of the post-breach payments UBS received for the CDSs. (Id. at 7.) Rather, subsequent gains that resulted from UBS's disposition of the assets were "the result of UBS's contractual rights [to retain the assets] in the event of any termination and of its subsequent investment strategy.” (Id. at 14.) According to UBS, the Fund Counterparties’ proposed offset would deprive UBS of the benefit of the bargain and result in a windfall for the Fund Counterparties. (Id.)

As discussed above, contract damages are intended to make “good or replace the loss” caused to a party by the breach of contract and “to place the nonbreaching party in as good a position as it would have been had the contract been performed. Thus, damages for breach of contract are ordinarily ascertained as of the date of the breach.” (Brushton-Moira Cent. Sch. Dist., 91 NY2d at 261.) Further, “where the breach involves the deprivation of an item with a determinable market value, the market value at the time of the breach is the measure of damages.” (Sharma, 916 F2d at 825 [applying New York law and citing Simon, 28 NY2d at 145-146].)

The calculation of damages is also subject to the fundamental precept that where a non-breaching party acquires a “benefit or opportunity for benefit . . . because of the breach, a balance must be struck between benefit and loss” and the benefit must be offset against the non-breaching party’s damages. (Indu Craft, Inc. v Bank of Baroda, 47 F3d 490, 495 [2d Cir 1995] [applying New York law]; accord Aristocrat Leisure Ltd. v Deutsche Bank Trust Co. Americas, 727 F Supp 2d 256, 289 [SD NY 2010]; “[I]f a victim derives a benefit from the breaching party’s breach of contract, the breaching party only is responsible for the victim’s net loss”], reconsideration denied 2010 WL 3431132; Fertico Belgium S.A. v Phosphate Chemicals Export Assn., Inc., 70 NY2d 76, 84 [1987], rearg denied 70 NY2d 694 [holding, in a “cover” action governed by the Uniform Commercial Code, that “[g]ains made by the injured party on other transactions after the breach are never to be deducted from the damages that are otherwise recoverable, unless such gains could not have been made, had there been no breach”] [quoting 5 Corbin, Contracts § 1041].)

Here, although UBS and Highland agree that any benefit derived by UBS because of the breach must be offset against its losses, neither party has cited, and the court's own research has not located, any case in which a court has considered how to apply this precept to a non-breaching party's retention of assets upon a failed securitization transaction and realization of subsequent gains. There is, however, a substantial body of law involving a breaching party's failure to deliver or purchase assets subject to fluctuations in value, in which the courts have assessed damages based on the market value of the assets at the time of breach and have declined to consider any subsequent increases or decreases in value of the assets. As discussed further below, the court concludes that these cases are inconsistent with the offset sought by Highland.

As the Second Circuit has explained in reviewing this body of law, New York courts reject damage awards "based on what 'the actual economic conditions and performance' were in light of hindsight." (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826, quoting Aroneck v Atkin, 90 AD2d 966, 967 [4th Dept 1982], lv denied 59 NY2d 601 [1983].) "They have explicitly rejected the use of subsequent changes in value or profits where they would increase an award, and where they would decrease the award." (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826 [internal citations omitted].)

In the securities context, courts have repeatedly held that the damages for failure to deliver or purchase shares of stock should be based on their market value at the time of breach, and not on any subsequent increase or decrease in their value. (Simon, 28 NY2d at 145-146 [where the seller breached a contract to deliver shares, holding: "The proper measure of damages for breach of contract is determined by the loss sustained or gain prevented at the time and place of breach. The rule is precisely the same when the breach of contract is nondelivery of shares of stock"] [internal citations omitted]; Aroneck, 90 AD2d at 967 [where the buyer breached a contract to purchase shares, holding that damages should be based on market value at the time of breach, and rejecting the buyer's theory that the "value should be based on the actual economic conditions and performance" of the company post-breach]; Emposimato v CIFC Acquisition Corp., 89 AD3d 418, 421 [1st Dept 2011] [quoting Aroneck and citing Simon in holding that "[i]n the case of a breach of contract to sell securities, expectation damages are calculated as 'the difference between the agreed price of the shares and the fair market value at the time of the breach'"]; Oscar Gruss & Son, Inc. v Hollander, 337 F3d 186, 197 [2d Cir 2003] [following Simon and Aroneck in a case involving the defendant's breach of a contract to deliver warrants]; see also Kaminsky v Herrick Feinstein LLP, 59 AD3d 1, 11-12 [1st Dept 2008], lv denied 12 NY3d 715 [2009] [holding that damages for breach of contract to deliver shares prior to an initial public offering (IPO) should be awarded based on the value of the shares at time of the breach, not their higher value post-IPO].)

The court holds that these cases involve transactions that are analogous to (although far less complex than) the transaction at issue, and apply the same measure of damages that this court has adopted above—namely, the measure of damages based on the market value of the assets on the date of the breach. These cases accordingly govern the calculation of damages here. The court notes, moreover, that sound reasons support the application of this measure of damages without consideration of post-breach fluctuations in the value of the assets.

As the Second Circuit reasoned, a contrary rule that would permit calculation of damages at the time of trial "would be a two-edged sword, because courts would have to diminish damage awards where the value of the item decreased or where losses were encountered subsequent to the breach as well as enhance them where conditions improve. However, New York courts have expressly refused to adopt this 'wait and see' theory of damages.” (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826.) In addition, although the court does not adjust for changes in the value of the shares when calculating damages according to the date of breach measure, the parties themselves can protect against changes in value by hedging or acquiring shares in the market. As the Second Circuit further reasoned: “To be sure, uncertainties about the future and lack of perfect information may cause an asset to be under- or over-valued at any particular time. At that time, however, either party has an opportunity to hedge according to his or her judgment about the future stream of income.” (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826; see also Simon, 28 NY2d at 146 [where the seller breached a contract to deliver shares, reasoning that “[i]f plaintiff were anxious to own the shares rather than obtain their value, he was free to purchase them in the market. His cause of action should not and may not be converted into carrying a market ‘call’ or ‘warrant’ to acquire the stock on demand if the price rose above its value as reflected in his cause of action”].)

The court further holds that application of the date of breach measure of damages, without adjustments for fluctuations in the value of the assets, will serve the objective of putting UBS in the position it would have been in had the contract been performed. If the securitization had closed, UBS would have been entitled, under the express terms of the SWA, to novate to the Issuer its positions as protection seller on all of the eligible Knox CDSs. (SWA § 5 [B] [1].) As a result of the breach, UBS was forced to assume a substantial risk of loss under the CDSs that would have been novated to the Issuer had the closing occurred. As discussed above, the loss in market value of the retained CDSs as of the date of breach was determined using the mark-to-market methodology. More specifically, as confirmed by both UBS’s and Highland’s experts, the mark-to-market losses calculated as of the date of breach represent the cost to UBS to exit the CDSs—

that is, the payments to be made to third-parties so that they would take on, and UBS could extricate itself from, the risk. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1304-1306; Dudney Testimony, Trial Tr. at 894-895.) A damage award for these mark-to-market losses will therefore compensate UBS for the exposure to risk that it would not have faced had the contract been performed.

To the extent that Highland contends that a damage award is not appropriate for these mark-to-market losses because the losses were not realized, the court rejects that contention. The damage award is appropriate, notwithstanding that the losses were not realized, because, as held above, the contract affords UBS the right of recovery for such losses. (See CDO Plus Master Fund Ltd. v Wachovia Bank, N.A., No. 07 Civ. 11078 [LTS], 2011 WL 4526132, * 2 [US Dist Ct SD NY, Sept. 29, 2011] [reasoning that, where the contractual definition of loss for the purpose of calculating damages did not require the CDS protection buyer to sustain “actual loss,” “[t]he absence of an actual loss on a Reference Obligation transaction, thus, is not a barrier to [the protection buyer’s] recovery. . .”] [emphasis in original].)

The court further holds that the record does not support Highland’s contention that UBS’s post-breach gains were realized because of the breach, and that this case therefore falls under the line of authority that requires an offset for such gains. Highland in effect contends that because UBS retained the CDSs as a result of the breach, it also realized the post-breach gains because of the breach.¹⁹ That conclusion does not follow. As held

above, UBS had a contractual right to retain the CDSs upon the termination of the transaction based on the Fund Counterparties' breach of the SWA by failing to meet the collateral call. The SWA does not contain any provision that limited UBS's discretion as to when to dispose of the assets after termination. Rather, as UBS persuasively argues, the gains realized as a result of the post-breach disposition of assets were attributable not to the breach itself but to UBS's assumption of the risk of loss on the CDSs and its investment strategy as to when to dispose of them based on its assessment of the market. (See G & R Corp. v American Sec. Trust Co., 523 F2d 1164, 1175 [DC Cir 1975] [holding that while the transfer of property to the plaintiffs was caused by the defendant's breach, the profit realized by the plaintiffs from a post-breach sale was not "caused by the breach" but was "attributable to the [plaintiffs'] decision to hold [the property] until [its] condition and the market were favorable for sale".])

Nor does Highland successfully argue that the gains realized by UBS on the post-breach disposition of the assets must be offset under general principles which require a party who suffers damages as a result of another's breach to take reasonable steps to mitigate its damages. (See Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 5-9.) Highland cites cases requiring mitigation in connection with the purchase and sale of securities and transactions in other markets. (See e.g. Drummond v Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., No. 95 Civ. 2011 [DC], 1996 WL 631723, * 2-3 [US Dist Ct SD NY, Oct. 31, 1996] [holding that where the buyer breached a contract to purchase securities, the seller must take steps to mitigate its damages by selling the securities within "a reasonable period of time"]; Saboundjian v Bank Audi (USA), 157 AD2d 278, 284-285 [1st Dept 1990] [holding that where a broker failed to execute a customer's speculative currency exchange order, the customer was required to direct execution of the trade "within a reasonable time after he learned that it had not been effected earlier".].)

These cases are inapposite, as the SWA affords UBS the contractual right to retain the securities upon the Fund Counterparties' breach. Ironically, although purporting to rely on these cases, which in fact require that the non-breaching party mitigate within a reasonable period of time, Highland argues not that UBS was required to dispose of the CDSs within a reasonable period of time after the breach but that it was required to hold them for months and, indeed, years, until the market improved. Highland thus asserts that UBS reasonably mitigated by "holding (as opposed to fire selling) fully performing interest and premium-bearing assets in the face of a dysfunctional market. . .," and that "UBS's mitigation was not only reasonable, but required by law." (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 7.) Put another way, Highland does not identify a specific date or dates by which UBS was required to mitigate. To the contrary, without citation to any legal authority, Highland argues that UBS was required to hold the assets for an indefinite period, until the market improved, to minimize its losses.

The mitigation cases provide no support for Highland's assertion that UBS's disposition, months and years after the breach, of assets that it had a contractual right to retain, constitutes mitigation.²⁰ Rather, in claiming that it is entitled to "offsets" for the post-breach gains realized by UBS, Highland appears in effect to advance a measure of damages that is patently inconsistent with the fundamental tenet of the date of breach measure of damages—namely, that a non-breaching party's damages for assets with a determinable market value must be calculated

at the date of breach, not based on hindsight, and that neither party can select the date on which the damages calculation will be most favorable to it. Thus, a non-breaching buyer cannot select the date on which the assets “had their highest value or a period of time that was profitable but that excludes periods when losses occurred.” (See Sharma, 916 F2d at 826.) Similarly, a breaching buyer cannot avoid or reduce the damages caused by its breach by invoking post-breach decreases in the value of the assets. (See id.)

The court accordingly holds that Highland’s request for an offset for UBS’s post-breach gains from the disposition of the CDSs must be denied.

Offset for Right of First Refusal Counterclaim

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (Highland Capital) seeks judgment on its first counterclaim against plaintiff UBS Securities LLC for breach of the Cash Warehouse Agreement provision affording it the right to purchase CLO assets in the event UBS elected to retain such assets upon the termination of the Agreement. Section 5 (A) of the CWA provides that in event of failure to close, “UBS shall be authorized (but not required) to sell each Collateral Obligation then in the Warehouse Account in accordance with the Liquidation Procedures.” The Liquidation Procedures set forth in section 7 (A) of the CWA provide in pertinent part:

“If any Collateral Obligation is to be sold, UBS shall have the right to direct such sale on such terms and in such manner and at such time that it deems appropriate in its sole discretion. UBS may, in its sole discretion, elect to retain any such Collateral Obligation or to sell such Collateral Obligation to one of UBS’s Affiliates in which event, for purposes of determining Net Collateral Gain and Net Collateral Loss, such Collateral Obligation shall be deemed to have been liquidated at a price equal to its Market Value. To the extent that UBS in its sole discretion elects to retain such Collateral Obligation, the Servicer will have the right to purchase such Collateral Obligation at its Market Value.”

Section 7 (A) further provides that if UBS elects to sell CLOs upon termination, “the Servicer will have the right to bid for and purchase such Collateral Obligation at a purchase price equal to the highest third party bid received by UBS for the purchase of such Collateral Obligation.”

It is undisputed that Highland Capital notified UBS that it sought to purchase six of the CLOs with a bid price of $1.9 million and a notional value of $44 million, but that it sought to provide the funds for the purchase, and to settle the trades, in the name of one of its affiliates, CLO Value Fund. (Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 21.) UBS declined to agree to the sale to the Highland Capital affiliate. (Id.; DX 72; PX 292.)

The court is unpersuaded that a Highland Capital affiliate had the right, under the CWA, to purchase the CLOs. Section 7 (A), which governs the disposition of the CLO assets upon termination, expressly affords one UBS Affiliate the right to purchase CLOs. In contrast, this Section affords the right to purchase only to the Servicer, and not to any other Highland entity. The Servicer is defined as Highland Capital Management, L.P. (CWA, First Paragraph.) Reading the CWA as a whole, the court further finds that no other provision modifies or is inconsistent with this limitation. On the contrary, where the acts of Highland Capital’s Affiliates were implicated, the CWA expressly referred to the Affiliates. (CWA, § 13 [B] [limiting the liability of the “Servicer” “for any acts or omissions by the Servicer or any Affiliate of the Servicer, or any of their directors, officers, members, agents, equity holders [and others] under or in connection with this Agreement, or for any decrease in the value of the Collateral Portfolio”].)²¹ The court accordingly holds that the CWA unambiguously provides that the right to purchase retained CLOs is limited, among the Highland entities, to Highland Capital.

In view of this holding that the CWA is not ambiguous with respect to Highland’s post-

termination right to purchase CLOs, the court rejects Highland's contention that the court should consider evidence allegedly showing that UBS and Highland Capital had a prior course of conduct in which UBS permitted Highland Capital to settle trades "at its fund level." (Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 80-81.) Parol evidence of course of conduct is not admissible to construe an unambiguous contract. (See e.g. Sigismondi v Queens Transit Corp., 38 AD2d 71, 73 [2d Dept 1971], affd no opinion 32 NY2d 745 [1973]; Evans v Famous Music Corp., 1 NY3d 452, 459 [2004].)

The court further notes that even if Highland Capital could recover on its counterclaim, the damages it seeks are not recoverable. Highland Capital seeks a finding that because the CLOs continued to perform until maturity, "it would have profited $46 million" if it had been permitted to exercise its right of first refusal to purchase the CLOs. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 82; DX Demo. 9.) As Highland Capital acknowledges, however, the market value of the CLOs at the time of breach was $1,934,214. (DX Demo. 9.) The measure of damages, as explained above in connection with Highland Capital's claim for offsets against UBS's damages, is the market value of the assets as of the date of breach, not the increase in their value in the indefinite future.

Offset for Unjust Enrichment

Highland Capital also seeks judgment on its second counterclaim alleging that UBS was unjustly enriched by its failure to permit Highland Capital, through its affiliate CLO Value Fund, to purchase the Collateral Obligations upon termination. This claim for unjust enrichment is not maintainable as the right to purchase is governed by contract—the CWA. (See generally Pappas v Tzolis, 20 NY3d 228, 234 [2012], rearg denied 20 NY3d 1075 [2013]; Clark-Fitzpatrick, Inc. v Long Is. R.R. Co., 70 NY2d 382, 388-389 [1987].)

Offset for Settlements with Highland Affiliates

Highland also requests an offset for settlements with three Highland Affiliates—Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. (Credit Strategies), Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (Crusader Offshore), and Highland Crusader Holding Corporation (Crusader Holding) (collectively, the Settling Highland Affiliates). Credit Strategies and Crusader Offshore were defendants in this action. UBS asserted its fraudulent conveyance cause of action against them as well as all of the other defendants. (Second Am Compl., Fifth Cause of Action.) Crusader Holding was a defendant in a separate complaint, which asserted a fraudulent conveyance cause of action against it. (UBS Secs. LLC v Highland Crusader Holding Corp., Sup Ct, NY County, Index No. 652646/11, Compl., First Cause of Action; Ps.’s Letters, dated July 21, 2015 [NYSCEF Doc. No. 397]; Jan. 7, 2016 [NYSCEF Doc. No. 398].) This court bifurcated the trial of this action, directing that it would first hold a bench trial on the breach of contract claims, which were triable by the court and are the subject of this decision, and that the fraudulent conveyance and other claims, which are triable by a jury, would be heard subsequently. (May 1, 2018 Decision on the Record [NYSCEF Doc. No. 494].)

The parties dispute whether the confidential settlements (DX 76 id and DX 77 id) may be considered in this action. They also dispute whether the settlements may be offset, pursuant to statute or case law, against the damages awarded by this decision to UBS against the Fund Counterparties on the breach of contract causes of action. (See Ps.’s Post-Trial Memo., at 14-21; Ds.’s Post-Trial Memo., at 15-19, 21-24.)

Even assuming, without deciding, that the damages may be subject to offset by the settlements, the determination of whether or to what extent the offset should be allowed must await determination of the jury trial. Where an offset for a settlement is sought, “the damages against which the settlement is sought to be applied should be determined so a proper comparison can be made between them and the damages covered by the settlement.” (Carter v.

State of New York, 139 Misc 2d 423, 429 [Ct Cl, 1988], affd 154 AD2d 642 [2d Dept 1989];
accord Moller v North Shore Univ. Hosp., 12 F3d 13, 16 [2d Cir 1993] [applying New York law].)

Here, Highland argues that the causes of action against the settling defendants are “wholly derivative of its breach-of-contract claims against the Fund counterparties.” (Ds.’s Post-Trial Memo., at 16.) UBS persuasively argues, in opposition, that the fraudulent conveyance causes of action seek relief in addition to compensatory damages, including imposition of a constructive trust and punitive damages. (Ps.’s Post-Trial Memo, at 22-24; Second Am. Compl., at 57-58.) Moreover, the damages, if any, that will be awarded against the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital on the fraudulent conveyance cause of action remain to be determined at the jury trial. On this record the court accordingly cannot compare the settlements with the fraudulent conveyance damages. Nor is there any basis for the court to determine the extent to which the settlements cover the same damages, or damages that overlap with, the breach of contract damages awarded to UBS against the Fund Counterparties by this decision. The determination of the offset issue will therefore be deferred pending the jury trial. As it appears, however, that Highland may be entitled to an offset for some or all of the settlement amounts, the court will stay enforcement, to the extent of the settlement amount ($70.5 million), of the judgment to be awarded to UBS against the Fund Counterparties for the damages for breach of contract.

Conclusion

UBS is entitled to damages for $519,374,149 on the third and fourth causes of action against the Fund Counterparties for breach of the Cash Warehouse and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements. Enforcement of the judgment for this amount will be stayed up to $70.5 million, the amount of the settlements with the Settling Highland Affiliates.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the parties shall meet and confer with a view to reaching agreement on the form of the judgment, including but not limited to the Allocation Percentages of CDO Fund and SOHC, and the award of interest. If the parties are unable to reach such agreement, they shall promptly settle judgment; and it is further

ORDERED that this decision shall be filed under seal for ten business days from the date hereof to afford the parties the opportunity to confer and to advise the court as to whether there is any information in the decision which is claimed by any party to be confidential. The parties shall, within five business days of the date hereof, submit a joint letter of no more than three pages, advising the court of their positions on this issue. The letter should be accompanied by a joint copy of the decision, highlighting the portion(s) of the decision which each party claims is confidential and should be redacted in the decision that will be publicly filed; and it is further

ORDERED that the parties shall telephone the court on a conference call within five business days of the date hereof (at a specific date and time to be arranged with the Clerk of Part 60) to discuss the above confidentiality issue as well as the jury trial phase of this action. The parties should be prepared to address whether, or to what extent, the jury trial may proceed in light of Highland Capital's filing of a bankruptcy petition.²²

This constitutes the decision and order of the court.

Dated: New York, New York
November 14, 2019

MARCY FRIEDMAN, J.S.C.

²² By letter dated October 17, 2019 (NYSCEF Doc. No. 640), counsel (Reid Collins & Tsai LLP) for Highland Capital, the Fund Counterparties and other Highland defendants, advised the court of Highland Capital's bankruptcy filing, and represented that the automatic stay does not preclude decision of the causes of action against the Fund Counterparties or the counterclaim by Highland Capital. This letter sought to reserve defendants' position on the effect of the bankruptcy filing on subsequent proceedings in this action.

EXHIBIT 5

SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
COUNTY OF NEW YORK: COMMERCIAL DIVISION PART 60

UBS SECURITIES LLC and UBS AG, LONDON BRANCH,

INDEX NO.

650097/2009

Plaintiff,

- v -

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P., HIGHLAND
SPECIAL OPPORTUNITIES HOLDING COMPANY,
HIGHLAND CDO OPPORTUNITY MASTER FUND, L.P.,

CREDIT STRATEGIES MASTER FUND, L.P., HIGHLAND CRUSADER OFFSHORE PARTNERS, L.P., HIGHLAND

TRIAL

Defendant.

-----X

This action arises out of a failed restructured transaction between plaintiffs UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (collectively, UBS) and defendants Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (CDO Fund) and Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (SOHC) (together, the Fund Counterparties), and defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. (Highland Capital) (together with the Fund Counterparties, Highland), for the securitization of collateralized loan obligations (CLOs) and credit default swaps (CDSs).

The court conducted a bench trial from July 9 through July 27, 2018 on plaintiffs' third and fourth causes of action in the second amended complaint for breach of contract, and on defendant Highland Capital's first and second counterclaims against plaintiff UBS Securities

LLC for breach of contract and unjust enrichment, respectively.¹ Based on the credible evidence at trial, the court now makes the following determination as to the breach of contract causes of action and counterclaims.²

In April and May 2007, the parties agreed to pursue a collateralized debt obligations transaction governed by an Engagement Letter, a Synthetic Warehouse Agreement for CDSs, and a Warehouse Agreement for CLOs (Original Agreements). (DX 4, DX 5, DX 6.)³ It is undisputed that UBS acted as the “financial arranger” for the transaction and was responsible for financing the acquisition of assets, which would then be held in portfolios, which the parties refer to as the Cash Warehouse and the Synthetic Warehouse or collectively as the Knox Warehouse. (Ps.’s Findings, ¶ 4; Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 5.)⁴ Highland Capital acted as the “Servicer” and was responsible for identifying the specific CLOs to be securitized and the Reference Obligations for the CDSs to be securitized. (Ps.’s Findings, ¶¶ 3, 4; Ds.’s Findings, ¶¶ 6, 8.)

In furtherance of the transaction, UBS acquired assets with a notional value of $818 million. (Ps.’s Findings, ¶ 6; Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 5.) There were 33 CLO tranches in the Cash Warehouse, with a notional value of $174 million. UBS paid $170 or $170.5 million to acquire the CLOs because the bonds were purchased at a slight discount on their par value. (Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 6; Ps.’s Findings, ¶ 6.) The Synthetic Warehouse contained 87 credit default swaps,

³ Defendants’ and plaintiffs’ trial exhibits will be referred to as DX _ and PX _, respectively. The parties’ demonstrative exhibits will be referred to as DX Demo. _ and PX Demo. _

⁴ The Fund Counterparties’ and Highland Capital Management, L.P.’s Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law will be referred to as Ds.’s Findings. Plaintiffs’ Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law will be referred to as Ps.’s Findings. Defendants’ Findings are all identified by paragraph number. Plaintiffs’ Findings of Fact are identified by paragraph number, while their Findings of Law are identified only by page number.

with a notional value of $644 million. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 7; Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 6.) UBS served as the protection seller on all of the CDSs. (Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 4; Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 8.) For five of the CDSs, with a notional value of $45 million, Lehman Brothers Special Financing, Inc. (Lehman) acted as the protection buyer (Lehman Swaps). (Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 8; Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 9; PX 755⁵, at 1.) For 20 of the CDSs, with a notional value of $124 million, UBS acted as both protection seller and protection buyer (the Internal Swaps). (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 10; Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 9; PX 755, at 4-5.)

The Original Agreements expired by their terms on August 15, 2007. (PX 1, at 1.) The parties agreed to restructure the transaction, signing a new Engagement Letter, the 2008 Cash Warehouse Agreement (CWA), and the 2008 Synthetic Warehouse Agreement (SWA), as of March 14, 2008. (See PX 1, PX 2, PX 3.) As of March 14, 2008, the Knox assets had lost significant value and the parties agreed that, given the market conditions existing as of the date of the restructured transaction, it was not then feasible to sell the securities and close the transaction. (Ps.'s Findings, ¶ 20; 2008 Engagement Letter [PX 1, at 8].)

As discussed further below, the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided for the roll-over of the Existing Credit Default Swaps and the Existing Collateral Portfolio into the warehouses created under the 2008 restructured transaction. (See SWA, Whereas Clause 5.) Section 12 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided that the Fund Counterparties would transfer additional cash and securities "to secure its obligations to UBS" under the SWA and the CWA. In particular, this Section required the Fund Counterparties to make an Initial Deposit of $20 million in cash and approximately $54 million in Eligible Securities on the date of the execution of the SWA. (Id., § 12 [A].) The SWA contained a collateral call provision under which UBS was required to track its CDS and Cash Exposure to losses, as defined under the Agreement, on a semi-monthly basis, and the Fund Counterparties were required to deposit an additional $10 million in collateral (cash and/or Eligible Securities) for every $100 million increase in the defined Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount. (Id., §§ 12 [B], [C].)

It is undisputed that, pursuant to Section 12 (C) of the SWA, UBS made a first collateral call for $10 million on September 17, 2008 (PX 4), and a second collateral call for $10 million on October 21, 2008 (PX 5), both of which were satisfied by the Fund Counterparties. (Testimony of Keith Grimaldi, Former Head of UBS's CDO Secondary Trading Desk, Trial Transcript (Tr.) at 81, 112, 119.)

On November 7, 2008, UBS issued the third, and final, collateral call to the Fund Counterparties for an additional $10 million. (PX 6.) It is undisputed that the Fund Counterparties did not meet this collateral call. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 17; Ps.'s Findings, ¶¶ 43-47).⁶

On December 3, 2008, UBS sent a notice to Highland stating that, to date, no deposits have been made in response to the November collateral call, and that "a Termination Date has occurred under the Warehouse Agreements and a termination date has occurred under the Engagement Letter." (PX 7; PX 9.) The notice further stated that "UBS is forbearing from exercising its remedies [under the Agreements] for a period of two Business Days from the date hereof in order to permit [the Fund Counterparties] to pay the Additional Deposits by 5 pm New York time on December 5, 2008." (Id.) On December 5, 2008, UBS sent an additional notice to

⁶ It is undisputed that the Fund Counterparties offered to post CLO assets to satisfy the third collateral call and that UBS did not accept that collateral. UBS's Keith Grimaldi testified that UBS rejected the CLOs because "at that time the marketplace was declining and declining rapidly. We thought there would be more declines, so we collectively made a decision that we wanted cash or government securities ... that would be easily liquid and reflect better value." (Trial Tr. at 122.) Defendants stipulated that UBS had the right to insist on cash. (See Statement of Andrew Cruciani [Ds.'s Atty.], Trial Tr. at 1736.)

Highland stating that the Additional Deposit has not been made, and that “[c]onsequently, UBS will proceed to exercise the rights and remedies available to it under the Warehouse Agreements, the Engagement Letter, at law and otherwise.” (PX 8.)

As a threshold matter, the parties dispute whether the third collateral call was proper. Highland argues that UBS should not have included the 20 Internal Swaps in calculating the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount “because the Intradesk [i.e., Internal] Swaps were not Existing Credit Default Swaps under the SWA . . .” (Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 28.) Highland also claims that the Lehman Swaps were not properly included in the calculation because they had been terminated prior to the third collateral call. (See id., ¶ 27.)

More particularly, Highland claims that the Internal Swaps were not Existing Credit Default Swaps because they were not documented, as allegedly required by Section 3 of the SWA, in the form of an ISDA Master Agreement and ISDA Confirmation. (Ds.’s Findings, ¶¶ 28, 30-31.) UBS does not dispute that the Internal Swaps were not documented by the ISDA Master Agreement and Confirmation, but argues that Section 3 does not require such documentation for the Internal Swaps. (Ps.’s Findings, at 24-25.)⁷

Resolution of this dispute involves an issue of contract interpretation. It is well settled that the determination of whether a contract is ambiguous is one of law to be resolved by the court. (Matter of Wallace v 600 Partners Co., 86 NY2d 543, 548 [1995]; W.W.W. Assocs., Inc. v Giancontieri, 77 NY2d 157, 162 [1990].) Written agreements are to be construed in accordance with the parties’ intent, and “the best evidence of what parties to a written agreement

intend is what they say in their writing.” (Schron v Troutman Sanders LLP, 20 NY3d 430, 436 [2013] [internal quotation marks, brackets, and citation omitted].) The court should determine from contractual language, without regard to extrinsic evidence, whether there is any ambiguity. (Chimart Assocs. v Paul, 66 NY2d 570, 573 [1986].) Extrinsic or parol evidence “may not be considered when the intent of the parties can be gleaned from the face of the instrument.” (Id. at 572-573.) “Extrinsic evidence of the parties’ intent may be considered only if the agreement is ambiguous. . . .” (Greenfield v Philles Records, Inc., 98 NY2d 562, 569 [2002].) “Ambiguity in a contract arises when the contract, read as a whole, fails to disclose its purpose and the parties’ intent, or where its terms are subject to more than one reasonable interpretation.” (Universal Am. Corp. v National Union Fire Ins. Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., 25 NY3d 675, 680 [2015] [internal quotation marks and citation omitted].)

It is also well settled that a court should “construe the [contract] so as to give full meaning and effect to the material provisions. A reading of the contract should not render any portion meaningless. Further, a contract should be read as a whole, and every part will be interpreted with reference to the whole; and if possible it will be so interpreted as to give effect to its general purpose.” (Beal Sav. Bank v Sommer, 8 NY3d 318, 324-25 [2007] [internal quotation marks and citations omitted]; National Conversion Corp. v Cedar Bldg. Corp., 23 NY2d 621, 625 [1969] [holding that “[a]ll parts of an agreement are to be reconciled, if possible, in order to avoid inconsistency”].)

Applying these precepts, the court holds that the SWA is not ambiguous with respect to the requirements for documentation of CDSs, that Section 3 of the SWA only applies to CDSs in which a third party is the protection buyer, and that this Section does not require ISDA documentation for the Internal Swaps.

The SWA defines “Existing Credit Default Swap[s]” as the CDSs “that were the subject of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.” (SWA, Whereas Clause 5.) Section 3 of the SWA provides, in pertinent part:

“Form of Documentation. Each Existing Credit Default Swap between UBS, acting as Seller, and a counterparty, acting as Buyer, has been documented in the form of (i) the ISDA Master Agreement and Schedule currently in effect between UBS and the related counterparty, which documents are confidential between UBS and such counterparty and (ii) an ISDA published confirmation. . . . Each Additional Credit Default Swap between UBS, acting as Seller, and a counterparty, acting as Buyer, will be documented in the form of (i) the ISDA Master Agreement and Schedule currently in effect between UBS and the related counterparty, which documents are confidential between UBS and such counterparty and (ii) the Confirmation attached [to the SWA]”

As the Agreement that governs the securitization of Existing and Additional Credit Default Swaps, the SWA contains numerous detailed provisions regarding the accumulation and disposition of these financial instruments. Section 3, which pertains to documentation of the swaps, is the only provision in the SWA that is limited to CDSs in which UBS is the Seller and a counterparty is the Buyer. All of the other provisions of the SWA refer to CDSs without such limitation.

Moreover, like SWA Section 3, the Original SWA provided: “Each Credit Default Swap between UBS, acting as Seller, and a counterparty, acting as Buyer, will be documented in the form of (i) the ISDA Master Agreement and Schedule currently in effect between UBS and the counterparty, which documents are confidential between UBS and each counterparty and (ii) the Confirmation attached hereto. . . .” (Original SWA, § 3 [NYSCEF Doc. No. 626].) It is undisputed, however, that the Internal Swaps were included in the Original SWA portfolio but were not documented by the ISDA Master Agreement or Confirmation. It is also undisputed that the Internal Swaps were nevertheless again included in the Initial Net Exposure Amount in the SWA for the restructured transaction. (Testimony of Peter Vinella [Highland’s expert in structured financial products], Trial Tr. at 1097, 1124-1125 [acknowledging that the Internal Swaps were included in the Initial Net Exposure Amount].)

Initial Net Exposure Amount is defined in the SWA⁸ as “111,767,486.88, being the amount by which the Aggregate Net Exposure Amount as of the date hereof [i.e., the March 14, 2008 “as of” date of the SWA] exceeds the Initial Deposit.” As defined in SWA Section 12 (A), the Initial Deposit is the deposit of approximately $74,000,000 in cash and Eligible Securities made on the date of execution of the SWA. Aggregate Net Exposure Amount is defined as the amount by which CDS Exposure and Cash Exposure, as of the date of the collateral calculation, exceed the balance on deposit in the Deposit Account plus Positive Carry with respect to each Collateral Obligation.⁹ As discussed above, Section 12 (C) of the SWA requires a deposit of $10 million in additional collateral when the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount is greater than or equal to $100 million. The Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount is defined in the SWA as “the amount, if any, by which (i) the Aggregate Net Exposure Amount as of [the date of the collateral calculation] exceeds (ii) the Initial Net Exposure Amount.” The Initial Net Exposure Amount, which includes the Internal Swaps, is thus integral to the calculation of the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount.

Based on this reading of the SWA as a whole, the court concludes that the Internal Swaps were Existing Credit Default Swaps within the meaning of the SWA. The lack of ISDA documentation was therefore not a bar to their inclusion in the collateral call calculation.

The court rejects Highland’s further contention that the Internal Swaps should not have been included because there was “no economic consequence” to UBS from these swaps. (Ds.’s

⁸ Definitions are found in the Definitions section of the SWA (SWA, Ex. A), unless the term is defined in a particular provision of the SWA, in which case the provision will be cited.

Findings, ¶ 33.) The complex formula set forth in Section 12 for calculating the exposure of UBS on the assets in the warehouse that would trigger a collateral call does not contain any requirement that UBS include in the calculation only assets for which it was at risk of sustaining actual losses.¹⁰

The court further holds that, although the Internal Swaps were properly included in the third collateral call calculation, the Lehman Swaps were not. The parties do not dispute that the Lehman Swaps had been terminated based on the Event of Default that occurred upon Lehman's filing for bankruptcy on September 15, 2008. (DX 87 [UBS Default Notice].) Highland asserts, and UBS does not persuasively counter, that the Lehman Swaps should not have been included in the third collateral call. Indeed, UBS's Grimaldi forthrightly acknowledged that, given the termination, there should not have been "markdowns" on the Lehman Swaps. (Grimaldi Testimony, Trial Tr. at 297-298.)

Highland contends, based on the inclusion of the Lehman Swaps and Internal Swaps in the third collateral call calculation, that UBS "committed a prior material breach by failing to

The court thus rejects Highland's request for a finding that UBS admitted that the SWA required ISDA documentation of the Internal Swaps. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 30-31.) This request is based on testimony of UBS's Keith Grimaldi who, when shown Section 3 during cross-examination and asked if every CDS was required to have ISDA documentation, responded: "According to the language, yes." (Grimaldi Testimony, Trial Tr. at 262-264.) Even if this evidence were properly considered, Highland's reliance on this answer ignores that Mr. Grimaldi further testified that ISDA documentation would not be "filled out" until the assets were transferred in the securitization. (Id. at 267-270.)

The court further notes that Highland requests a finding, arguably in support of its claim that the CDSs were not Existing Credit Default Swaps, that a CDS "cannot be created with the same legal entity on both sides of the transaction. . . ." (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 29.) Even if parol evidence were properly considered, there was substantial evidence in the record that internal swaps were common in securitizations of synthetic assets. (LeRoux Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1673-1676; (Vinella Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1158-1162 [denying that intracompany swaps are "economic transactions" but acknowledging their use in CLO securitizations].)

properly calculate the collateral call[.]” (Ds.’s Findings, ¶¶ 23, 27-28.) In support of this contention, Highland relies on the testimony of its expert Peter Vinella. According to Mr. Vinella’s own analysis, however, if the Lehman swaps are excluded from the calculation for the third collateral call, but the Internal Swaps are included, the total increase in the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount as of November 4, 2008 is $328.62 million—an amount greater than the $300 million required to authorize the third collateral call pursuant to Section 12 of the SWA. (Vinella Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1122-1139; DX Demo. 8.) Louis Dudney, UBS’s expert in forensic accounting and damages (Trial Tr. at 824), analyzed Mr. Vinella’s testimony and confirmed, using the same numbers as Mr. Vinella, that the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount still exceeded $300 million on November 4, 2008, after excluding the Lehman Swaps but including the Internal Swaps. (PX Demo. 20 [accepted without objection in lieu of Dudney rebuttal testimony, Trial Tr. at 1870-1871].)

Based on this credible testimony that the threshold for the collateral call was met without the Lehman Swaps, the court holds that the third collateral call did not constitute a material breach of the contract, notwithstanding UBS’s improper inclusion of the Lehman Swaps in the calculation.¹¹ (See generally Awards.Com v Kinko’s, Inc., 42 AD3d 178, 187 [1st Dept 2007], affd 14 NY3d 791, 793 [2010]; Frank Felix Assocs., Ltd. v Austin Drugs, Inc., 111 F3d 284, 289 [2d Cir 1997] [under New York law, for a breach to be material, “it must go to the root of the agreement between the parties”] [internal quotation marks and citations omitted].)

¹¹ In view of this holding that the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount exceeded $300 million as of November 7, 2008, the court need not reach UBS’s contention that the collateral call was proper because the Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount exceeded $300 million as of December 2, 2008, prior to the termination of the transaction. (Ps.’s Findings, at 15 n 10.)

As discussed above, there is no dispute that the Fund Counterparties failed to meet the third collateral call. The court accordingly finds that the Fund Counterparties breached the SWA and turns to the issue of damages.

DAMAGES

Designation of Ineligible Securities

A critical issue in determining UBS's damages is whether UBS may recover damages for CDSs that UBS retained after its termination of the 2008 transaction, under these circumstances in which UBS did not designate the underlying reference obligations for any of the CDSs as "Ineligible Securities." Resolution of this issue requires interpretation of the SWA. Highland and UBS both contend that the SWA is unambiguous as to whether Ineligible Securities must be designated, but assert fundamentally inconsistent readings of the Agreement. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 44-49; see Ps.'s Findings, at 29 n 21.)

As held above, the determination of whether a contract is ambiguous is one of law to be resolved by the court. (Matter of Wallace, 86 NY2d at 548.) Ambiguity will be found to arise where the terms of a contract are "subject to more than one reasonable interpretation." (Universal Am. Corp., 25 NY3d at 680 [internal quotation marks and citation omitted].) As also held above, a court should construe a contract so as to give full meaning and effect to its material provisions, and should read the contract as a whole and so as not to render any portion meaningless, if possible. (See Beal Sav. Bank, 8 NY3d at 324-25.)

Sections 5 (A), 5 (B), and 6 of the SWA are relevant to the calculation of CDS damages: Section 5 (A) provides for the calculation of losses with respect to CDSs removed from the warehouse during the term of the Agreement or "otherwise pursuant to Section 6"; Section 5 (B) (2) governs the calculation of losses upon a closing; and Section 6 governs this calculation in the event of a failure to close, incorporating terms from Sections 5 (A) and 5 (B).

Section 6 provides in pertinent part:

- “(A) If the Closing Date fails to occur on or prior to the Termination Date, then UBS may, with the consent of the related counterparty, either (at the election of the Servicer; provided that notice of such election is received on or prior to the Termination Date) (i) terminate each Credit Default Swap or (ii) novate each Credit Default Swap to a third party or to the Servicer (or any Affiliate of the Servicer designated by the Servicer), in each case, on the Termination Date.

- (C) To the extent there are any CDS Losses, the CDO Fund and SOHC shall collectively be responsible for 100% of any such CDS Losses. Such CDS Losses shall be allocated between the CDO Fund and SOHC on the basis of their respective Allocation Percentages. Each of the CDO Fund and SOHC shall, after notice of the amount due from UBS, remit such amounts by wire transfer in immediately available funds to UBS within three Business Days after the Termination Date.”

CDS Losses are in turn defined in Section 5 (B) (2), the closing

provision, as:

“(x) the sum of (1) the aggregate Floating Amount payments and Physical Settlement Amount payments made by UBS with respect to all of the Credit Default Swaps as to which a Floating Amount Event or a Credit Event occurred under the terms thereof, plus (2) the aggregate amount of Net Hedging Payments made by UBS with respect to all Hedging Transactions related to the Credit Default Swaps, plus (3) the aggregate Replacement Losses determined with respect to all of the Credit Default Swaps and the related Hedging Transactions that were terminated or novated or as to which the exposure was retained by UBS, in each case upon the designation of the Reference Obligation relating to such Credit Default Swap as an Ineligible Security (such amount in this clause (x), the ‘CDS Losses’)”

Relying on the requirement in the definition of CDS Losses that Reference Obligations be designated as Ineligible Securities, Highland argues that “[t]he term ‘CDS Losses’

unambiguously limits UBS's recovery for unrealized (mark-to-market) losses to securities designated as 'Ineligible Securities,' and the Court is bound to enforce the agreement pursuant to its unambiguous terms." (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 46.) Put another way, Highland argues that UBS may recover mark-to-market losses only on CDSs that have been designated Ineligible Securities. (Id., ¶ 53.)¹² UBS asserts, among other things, that under Section 6, UBS may terminate, novate, or retain CDSs regardless of eligibility, that ineligibility designations are not relevant absent a closing, and that Highland's reading renders meaningless other provisions of the SWA. (Ps.'s Findings, at 29 n 21.)

Upon close reading of the SWA, the court concludes that the SWA is not ambiguous with respect to ineligibility designations and that, under Section 6, upon the failure to close UBS is entitled to retain CDSs and to recover losses for the retained CDSs, without first designating the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities. Section 6 (A) expressly provides for UBS to terminate or novate the CDSs, and does not require UBS to first make such designation. Although Section 6 (A) does not also, by its terms, provide for UBS to retain CDSs, a reading of the contract as a whole leaves no question that UBS was not only entitled to retain the CDSs upon the failure to close, but also that it was entitled to recover losses on the retained CDSs without first designating the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible.¹³

¹² Highland's damages expert, Adam Warren, testified that realized losses are losses sustained where a transaction has been closed out and an actual cash payment has been made. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1249, 1253.) He also testified that, in his opinion, there were no unrealized losses in the Synthetic Warehouse because no assets had been designated as ineligible. (Id. at 1257 ["[O]ur computation is that there are no unrealized losses in the Synthetic Warehouse because of the need to . . . create a designation of ineligible. And we saw no evidence of any Synthetic Warehouse asset being designated ineligible".])

¹³ In its decision of defendants' motion for summary judgment, this court held that it could not determine on the record of that motion whether the SWA was ambiguous with respect to UBS's entitlement to recover losses on retained CDSs, pursuant to Section 6, without a prior designation of such assets as Ineligible Securities. (2017 NY Slip Op. 30546[U], 2017 WL 1103879, * 4-7 [Sup Ct, NY County Mar. 13 2017], aff'd 159 AD3d 512, lv dismissed 32 NY3d 1080.) With the benefit of the parties' extensive trial briefing on this issue, the court now concludes, for the reasons discussed further in the text, that the agreement is not ambiguous.

As the above-quoted definition of CDS Losses in Section 5 (B) (2) shows, this definition relates to Credit Default Swaps which, upon a closing, have been “terminated or novated or as to which the exposure was retained by UBS, in each case upon the designation of the Reference Obligation relating to such Credit Default Swap as an Ineligible Security” After setting forth the definition of CDS Losses (and CDS Gains) in the context of a closing, Section 5 (B) (2) further provides: “To the extent the Closing Date fails to occur, allocation of CDS Losses, CDS Gains and any other amounts payable hereunder will be determined in accordance with the provisions of Section 6 hereof.”

Significantly, while Section 6 (C) incorporates the defined term CDS Losses, the term CDS Losses also incorporates both the definition of Ineligible Security and the term Replacement Losses from Section 5 (A). These incorporated terms modify the definition of CDS Losses where a closing does not occur.

The definition of Ineligible Security pertains to securities that are ineligible for securitization upon a closing. The SWA thus defines Ineligible Security, in pertinent part, as “any Reference Obligation in the CDS Portfolio which has become ineligible for sale to the Issuer on the Closing Date as a result of the failure of such Reference Obligation to conform to the Eligibility Criteria as it exists at such time of determination” (SWA, Exhibit A-2 [emphasis added].)

Section 5 (A), which defines the term Replacement Losses, distinguishes between such Losses sustained during the term of the Agreement and those sustained upon termination in the event of a failure to close pursuant to Section 6. Section 5 (A) primarily addresses the removal of CDSs from the warehouse “during the term of this [the SWA] Agreement” where “a Reference Obligation or the related Credit Default Swap does not conform to the Eligibility Criteria” that must be met for securitization. This section provides that “UBS shall be entitled in good faith to designate any Reference Obligation (and the related Credit Default Swap) as an Ineligible Security and (ii) in its sole discretion to remove any such Reference Obligation (and the related Credit Default Swap) from the CDS Portfolio.” Section 5 (A), however, continues:

“To the extent any such Credit Default Swaps are terminated or novated, or at UBS’s discretion, such exposure is retained following the designation of such Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities or otherwise pursuant to Section 6, UBS shall determine the Replacement Gain or Replacement Loss relating to such Credit Default Swaps [according to the formula that follows].”

(emphasis added). Section 5 (A) then sets forth a formula for calculating Replacement Gain and Replacement Loss, which specifically provides for such calculation not only upon termination or novation but also upon UBS’s retention of the CDSs. (SWA § 5 [A] [1] – [3].)

Section 5 (A) thus clearly contemplates that UBS may novate, terminate, or retain CDSs both during the term of the Agreement and in the event of a failure to close. The Section affords UBS the discretion to terminate, novate, or retain CDSs “pursuant to Section 6,” as distinct from its discretion to do so upon a designation of the underlying Reference Obligation as Ineligible during the term of the Agreement. Any other reading would render meaningless the Section 5 (A) provision “or otherwise pursuant to Section 6.”

Moreover, in order to reconcile all of the provisions of the SWA, the Section 5 (B) (2) definition of CDS Losses, when used in Section 6, cannot be construed as requiring a designation of Ineligible Securities. As discussed above, Ineligible Securities are defined as securities ineligible for sale at a closing. Section 5 (B) (2), which governs the calculation of losses where a closing will occur, requires the designation of Ineligible Securities to facilitate the parties’ calculation of losses on assets deemed ineligible for inclusion in the securitization that will occur upon the closing. When a closing will not occur, none of the CDSs or other assets will be securitized, and there is no need to distinguish between eligible and ineligible assets. While the definition of CDS Losses with the Ineligible Security designation requirement serves the purposes of Section 5 (B) (2) in the event of a closing, it is inconsistent with the CDS Loss calculation required in Section 6 where the closing does not occur.

Contrary to Highland's apparent contention (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 46), a reading of the CDS Loss provision in Section 6 to permit calculation of losses on retained assets without an Ineligible Security designation does not violate the fundamental precept that a defined term in a contract must be given effect. (See generally Mionis v Bank Julius Baer & Co., 301 AD2d 104, 109 [1st Dept 2002].) Rather, the CDS Loss definition, as used in Section 6, is modified by the contractual provisions discussed above.

Although inartfully drafted, the SWA is not ambiguous. If the contract is read as a whole, and all of the provisions are given meaning, it is reasonably susceptible to only one meaning—namely, that CDS Losses for retained assets may be recovered without a designation of the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities where, as here, the contract has been terminated before the closing.¹⁴ The court accordingly holds that UBS is entitled to recover damages for the retained CDSs in the Synthetic Warehouse.¹⁵

¹⁴ The court notes that the SWA and the Cash Warehouse Agreement (CWA) both contain provisions which state that the two agreements "set forth the entire understanding of the parties hereto relating to the subject matter hereof . . ." (SWA, § 18; CWA, § 18.) Assuming, without deciding, that these agreements should be read together in construing the SWA, the court finds that, although the assets at issue in the SWA and the CWA have markedly different attributes, the CWA is consistent with the SWA to the extent that the CWA permits UBS, in the event a closing does not occur, to retain and recover for losses on the CLOs that are the subject of the CWA, without a designation of the CLOs as Ineligible Securities. (See CWA, §§ 5 [A], 7 [A].)

¹⁵ In view of this holding that the SWA is not ambiguous as to whether CDS losses may be recovered without designation of the underlying Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities, the court has not considered any parol evidence, either documentary or testimonial, in construing the SWA in this regard. Without limiting the foregoing, the court has not considered prior drafts of the SWA, which Highland offered in the event parol evidence were to be admitted. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 53.)

failure to meet the third collateral call. UBS sent Highland a notice, dated December 3, 2008, stating that a Termination Date had occurred under the Warehouse Agreements but that it would forbear from exercising its remedies for two days to permit the Fund Counterparties to meet this collateral call. (PX 7.) UBS then sent a further notice to Highland, dated December 5, 2008, stating that it would exercise its remedies as the call had not been met. (PX 8.) UBS held a public auction of the assets in the Knox Warehouse on December 16, 2008. By notice dated December 19, 2008, UBS demanded payment for its claimed losses based on the results of the auction—$157,949,885.47 for the assets in the Cash Warehouse (PX 10) and $587,357,060.59 for the assets in the Synthetic Warehouse. (PX 11.) UBS also notified Highland that it elected to retain the Collateral Obligations in the Cash Warehouse. (PX 10.)

CDS Damages

Highland argues that even if the recovery of damages for the CDSs is not barred by UBS's failure to designate the Reference Obligations for the CDSs as Ineligible Securities (a claim this court has rejected above), UBS has not proved damages for these CDSs. Specifically, Highland contends that UBS did not comply with the contractual requirements for calculation of losses because its post-termination auction was untimely and otherwise improper. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 57-59.) Highland also contends that UBS's marks do not otherwise "establish a reasonable connection between the asset value and UBS's alleged damages." (Id., ¶¶ 60-65.) UBS disputes these assertions. (Ps.'s Findings, at 29-31.)

Sections 6 (C), 5 (B) (2), and 5 (A) (3) are the provisions of the SWA that govern the calculation of CDS Losses upon termination. Section 6 (C) provides in full:

"To the extent there are any CDS Losses, the CDO Fund and SOHC shall collectively be responsible for 100% of any such CDS Losses. Such CDS Losses shall be allocated between the CDO Fund and SOHC on the basis of their respective Allocation Percentages. Each of the CDO Fund and SOHC shall, after notice of the amount due from UBS, remit such amounts by wire transfer in immediately available funds to UBS within three Business Days after the Termination Date.”

As discussed above, the definition of CDS Losses in Section 5 (B) (2) includes Replacement Loss, the calculation of which is governed by Section 5 (A). With respect to Replacement Loss relating to CDSs that are retained, Section 5 (A) (3) provides in full:

“To the extent UBS retains such exposure, the Replacement Gain and Replacement Loss will be imputed based on the arithmetic average of at least three bids (or, if UBS is unable to obtain three such bids having made commercially reasonable efforts, such lesser number of bids as UBS is able to obtain) obtained by or on behalf of UBS from nationally recognized derivatives dealers in the relevant market (no more than one of which may be UBS or any of its Affiliates; provided that any such bid must be provided in good faith) to assume UBS’s position under such Credit Default Swap.”

The SWA, by its terms, thus contemplated that payment would be made within three days after the Termination Date, subject to notice from UBS. As the SWA provided for an auction to calculate the amount of the losses, it also contemplated that an auction could or would occur within that three day period.

By the terms of UBS’s notices to Highland, although a Termination Date had occurred as of December 3, UBS extended the Fund Counterparties’ time to meet the third collateral call until December 5. The court thus finds that the Fund Counterparties’ breach of the Agreements for failure to meet the third collateral call occurred on December 5. UBS did not conduct the auction to calculate the CDS Losses until December 16.

UBS’s delay of approximately 11 days in conducting the auction, while seemingly de minimis, in fact had momentous financial consequences, given that the delay occurred in the wake of the September 15, 2008 Lehman bankruptcy filing and at the height of the financial crisis. With the market spiraling downward, the CDS losses ascertained through the auction process were approximately $117 million more than the losses calculated by using UBS’s marks

on either December 3 or December 5. (PX Demo. 21; DX Demo. 12 [showing UBS and Highland marks as of December 3 and 5; PX Demo. 28 at 60 [Ps.'s Closing Statement Demonstrative Exhibit, acknowledging that CDS damages, as calculated based on the auction, exceeded the losses calculated using UBS's marks on December 3 and 5 by over $117 million].)¹⁶

UBS contends that the three day payment period was for its benefit and that it "could exercise its right to get paid after three business days without waiver." (Ps.'s Findings, at 28.) The court agrees that UBS's delay in demanding payment or holding the auction did not result in a waiver of its right to seek payment of its damages resulting from the Fund Counterparties' breach. (See SWA § 20 ["Neither the failure nor any delay on the part of any party hereto to exercise any right, remedy, power or privilege under this Agreement shall operate as a waiver hereof. . . ."].) Highland correctly contends, however, that the delayed auction could not serve as a basis for calculating UBS's damages because the results of the auction did not reflect market conditions as of the date of termination or breach. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 57.)

As explained by the Court of Appeals:

"It has long been recognized that the theory underlying damages is to make good or replace the loss caused by the breach of contract. Damages are intended to return the parties to the point at which the breach arose and to place the nonbreaching party in as good a position as it would have been had the contract been performed. Thus, damages for breach of contract are ordinarily ascertained as of the date of the breach."

¹⁶ At the trial, the parties stipulated to dispense with rebuttal testimony from plaintiffs' damages expert, Louis Dudney and, in lieu of such testimony, to the admission into evidence of plaintiffs' Demonstrative Exhibits 20 and 21, and defendants' Demonstrative Exhibit 12. (Trial Tr. at 1868, 1870 [Stipulation].) PX Demo. 21 and DX Demo. 12, which were prepared by Mr. Dudney, calculated damages using plaintiffs' and defendants' marks, respectively, on December 3 and 5, 2008. (Trial Tr. at 1870-1877.)

It is further settled that damages need not be proven with mathematical certainty. It is sufficient that a reasonable basis for the calculation of damages be shown. (See generally J.R. Loftus, Inc. v White, 85 NY2d 874, 877 [1995] [“While a plaintiff may recover damages when the measure of damages is unavoidably uncertain or difficult to ascertain, a reasonable connection between a plaintiff’s proof and a [] determination of damages is nevertheless necessary”]; CDO Plus Master Fund Ltd. v Wachovia Bank, N.A., No. 07 Civ. 11078 [LTS], 2011 WL 4526132, *2 [US Dist Ct SD NY, Sept. 29, 2011] [“The law of New York is clear that once the fact of damage has been established, the non-breaching party need only provide a stable foundation for a reasonable estimate [of damages]” [internal quotation marks and citations omitted, brackets in original].)

UBS’s December 16, 2008 auction cannot satisfy either of these standards because, as held above, the auction did not provide a reliable basis for determining UBS’s losses at, or even shortly after, the breach, due to the exceptional circumstances presented by the financial crisis.¹⁷ The court accordingly turns to the alternative basis advanced by UBS for the calculation of damages—its marks on December 5, 2008. (Ps.’s Findings, at 29.)

It is well settled that “where the breach involves the deprivation of an item with a determinable market value, the market value at the time of the breach is the measure of damages.” (Sharma v Skaarup Ship Mgt. Corp., 916 F2d 820, 825 [2d Cir 1990], cert denied 499 US 907 [1991] [applying New York law and citing Simon v Electrospace

¹⁷ There is authority that “in accordance with the objective that a party seeking recovery for breach of contract is entitled ‘to be made whole’ as of the time of the breach, the [factfinder] should be able to make its valuation determination on all relevant elements of the case, whether dated prebreach, on the date of breach, or ‘some short time period thereafter.’” (Credit Suisse First Boston v Utrecht-America Fin. Co., 84 AD3d 579, 580 [1st Dept 2011] [quoting Boyce v Soundview Tech. Group, Inc., 464 F3d 376, 389 [2d Cir 2006] [other internal quotation marks and citations omitted].) Although the auction was held shortly after the breach, this authority does not support calculation of damages based on the auction results, as the auction did not provide a reliable basis for assessing the losses.

Corp., 28 NY2d 136, 145-146 [1971], motion to amend remittitur and clarify denied 28 NY2d 809].) In accordance with the objective that the injured party be made whole, “damages for breach of contract are ordinarily ascertained as of the date of the breach.” (Brushton-Moira Cent. Sch. Dist., 91 NY2d at 261.)

UBS offered credible testimony that its December 5, 2008 marks reasonably reflected the market value of the CDSs as of the December 5 breach date. In particular, Timothy LeRoux, who at the time of the transaction was second in command to Mr. Grimaldi on the UBS trading desk (LeRoux Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1640), gave credible testimony that, in the regular course of business, the trading desk “marked to market” hundreds of CLO assets, and every week or two was required to assign values on every one of the assets, both cash and synthetic, in the Knox Warehouse. (Id. at 1724.) Mr. LeRoux also described the marking process and identified information, including public information as to offers and bids on CDSs in the marketplace, that UBS considered in developing “objective” prices. (Id. at 1727, 1745-1750.) Mr. Grimaldi also testified that, although the trading desk performed the mark-to-market valuation of the assets in the Knox Warehouse, the UBS valuation group established oversight due to the volatility of the market and “would look at other market observations and make sure that those [the trading desk marks] were in line with the marketplace.” (Grimaldi Testimony, Trial Tr. at 207-208.)

Highland does not dispute that the mark-to-market process is a methodology for determining loss in market value of retained assets. (See e.g. Testimony of Adam Warren [Highland’s damages expert], Trial Tr. at 1268-1269; Testimony of Philip Braner [Highland former executive], Trial Tr. at 469-472; Testimony of UBS’s Timothy LeRoux, Trial Tr. at 1640, 1727-1729.)

Rather, in claiming that UBS’s marks are not competent evidence on which to award damages, Highland suggests that the setting of marks by the trading group involved a conflict of interest, because the trading group's bonuses were based on the performance of the mark-to-mark assets and the group had the incentive to inflate the value of the assets. (Ds.s' Findings, ¶¶ 61-62.) Highland makes no showing that UBS inflated the value of the CDSs or that trading groups do not routinely develop marks. Moreover, Highland's assertion that "UBS's trading group alone set the marks for the Knox Warehouse assets" (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 62) ignores UBS's credible testimony, discussed above, that the valuation group exercised oversight in connection with the development of the marks.

Highland's further assertion that its own marks are more reliable (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 65) is unsupported by persuasive evidence. Philip Braner, who ultimately became Chief Operating Officer of the Highland Capital Management CLO Group and COO of Highland Financial Partners (Braner Testimony, Trial Tr. at 397), testified that Highland was itself tracking marks on the assets in the Knox Warehouse (id. at 615) and had an "internal valuation team that was responsible for accumulating marks" in a process in which portfolio managers of the Highland funds participated. (See id. at 467.) While Highland appears to assert that its marks are more reliable than UBS's because they were set by a valuation team, Highland fails to show that the role of its valuation team differed in any material respect from that of the UBS valuation group that performed oversight on its trading group in the marking process.

Notably, Highland fails to explain how its methodology in setting marks was more reliable than UBS's. Adam Warren, Highland's damages expert, forthrightly testified that he was not opining on the reasonableness of any marks in this case (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1247-1248), and he did not in fact give any testimony on whether UBS's or Highland's marks were more reliable.

The evidence at trial also demonstrated that Highland, like UBS, set marks on the CDSs on an asset by asset basis from March 2008 through October 2008. While there were differences between Highland's and UBS's marks during this period, the Highland and UBS marks in the month of October were substantially similar. The difference in the marks did not escalate substantially until November 2008. (PX Demo. 9, at 4.) Mr. Dudney gave testimony, which was not disputed, that although Highland, like UBS, had been setting marks on an asset by asset basis, Highland stopped doing so as of October 2008 and, in a November 30, 2008 calculation of damages, attributed the same mark (37) to each asset. (Dudney Testimony, Trial Tr. at 883-884, 905-909, DX 116.) Highland offered no explanation for this change in methodology. Mr. Dudney, in contrast, gave plausible testimony that this use of the same mark did not make sense given the deterioration of the market. (Id. at 908.)

In sum, based on the credible evidence at the trial, the court holds that UBS has met its burden of demonstrating that its December 5, 2008 marks provide a reasonable basis, under the circumstances, for the calculation of damages at the time of the breach. In so holding, the court rejects Highland's not fully articulated contention that only an auction, and not a mark-to-market methodology, is a reliable method for calculating damages. (See Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 59.) Highland's reliance on the testimony of its damages expert, Adam Warren, in support of this contention (see id.) is misplaced. While Mr. Warren testified that CDSs are "bespoke contracts," he did not give any testimony that an auction was required to ascertain their value.

Further, as held above, the auction did not provide a reliable basis for determining UBS's damages due to the volatility of the market at the time of the auction. It bears emphasis that, although the market was also volatile at the time the December 5, 2008 marks were accumulated, Highland has not advanced an alternative, other than the non-viable auction, to the mark-to-market valuation methodology. Nor has Highland made any showing that the market value of the CDSs was not reasonably determinable as of the date of breach using the mark-to-market valuation methodology.¹⁸

The court further holds that UBS has met its burden of demonstrating the reasonableness of its calculation of damages using those marks. UBS's and Highland's experts both provided the court with calculations of damages using UBS's and Highland's marks, respectively, as of December 5, 2008. Mr. Warren confirmed that his main differences with Mr. Dudney regarding the calculation of damages for the Synthetic Warehouse were that Mr. Dudney considered it appropriate, and he did not, to include damages for unrealized CDS losses and for the 20 Internal Swaps in which UBS was both the protection seller and the protection buyer. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1298; DX Demo. 12; PX Demo. 21; see also Dudney Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1004.)

Mr. Warren excluded from his damages calculation unrealized CDS losses for all CDSs as to which a designation of ineligibility had not been made. He testified that his basis for doing so was his understanding of the contract—i.e, his understanding that the SWA required such designation—and not industry custom. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1281-1282.) For the reasons discussed above, this court has rejected Highland's position that the SWA should be construed as requiring ineligibility designations as a condition of the inclusion of unrealized losses on the CDSs in the calculation of damages. Also for the reasons discussed above, the court has rejected Highland's position that the losses on the Internal Swaps should not be included in this calculation.

¹⁸ In its post-trial briefing, Highland sought a finding that if UBS is held to be entitled to recover damages for CDS losses, Highland's marks are more reliable than UBS's for determining those damages. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 65.) Highland did not argue that the market value of the losses could not reasonably be determined by using marks. In contrast, in support of its claim that it is entitled to an offset against CDS damages for post-breach termination payments received by UBS on the CDSs, Highland questioned the accuracy of the market valuation at the time of the breach. Highland thus asserted in a footnote: "Given the scant market pricing data available at the time of the breach, post-termination payments and asset dispositions are relevant for the additional reason that they provide a more accurate measurement of the actual value of the Knox assets." (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 8 n.5.) This assertion is unsupported by any citation to trial testimony. More important, at the trial Highland did not offer any expert testimony that the mark-to-market methodology was not a reliable basis for calculating the CDS damages. For the additional reasons set forth in the section of this decision on Highland's requested Offset for Post-Breach Appreciation In CDS Asset Value, the court finds that offset of post-breach payments received by UBS on the CDSs would be inconsistent with calculation of UBS's damages based on their market value at the time of the breach.

Review of the experts' calculations shows, moreover, that when such losses are included in the calculations, the difference between Highland's and UBS's totals is substantially reduced. As previously noted, the parties stipulated to the introduction into evidence of charts prepared by Mr. Dudney comparing his and Mr. Warren's calculations of CDS damages using UBS's and Highland's marks as of December 5, 2008. Using Highland's marks, Mr. Dudney calculated CDS mark-to-market losses of $388,284,750, compared to Mr. Warren's calculation of $26,952,895—a difference of $361,331,855. (DX Demo. 12.) Using UBS's marks, Mr. Dudney calculated losses of $470,113,605, compared to Mr. Warren's calculation of $26,952,895—a difference of $443,160,710. (PX Demo. 21.)

The difference in the totals is largely due to Mr. Warren's exclusion from his calculation of all unrealized CDS losses and all losses for the Internal Swaps. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1296-1299.) His calculation of $26,952,895 for CDS losses includes only realized CDS losses. (Id. at 1250.) According to Mr. Warren, the Internal Swaps account for $93,952,173 of the CDS damages using UBS's marks, or $68,801,027 using Highland's marks. (Id. at 1269.) Although Mr. Warren disputed UBS's entitlement to unrealized CDS losses, he performed a calculation including such losses. Using UBS's marks as of December 5, 2008, these losses totaled $355,487,606. (DX Demo. 10, at 14.) Using Highland's marks as of that date, these losses totaled $299,118,973. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1269; DX Demo. 10, at 14.) Mr. Warren's total, using UBS's marks, for the Internal Swaps ($93,952,173) and the unrealized CDS losses ($355,487,606) was $449,439,779. (DX Demo. 10, at 14.) As stated above, Mr. Dudney's calculation of total Synthetic Warehouse losses, using UBS's December 5, 2008 marks, was $470,113,605. Given the magnitude of the damages, this disparity is not material.

The court accordingly holds that UBS incurred losses in the Synthetic Warehouse of $470,113,605 as of December 5, 2008, the date of the breach, subject to the adjustments discussed below.

CLO Damages

Highland does not dispute that unrealized losses are recoverable for the CLO assets. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1293.) Moreover, UBS's (Mr. Dudney's) and Highland's (Mr. Warren's) calculations of the CLO losses as of December 5, 2008 are the same: Using Highland's marks, these losses were $106,157,101. (DX Demo. 12, at 2.) Using UBS's marks, the losses were $128,848,101. (PX Demo. 21.) Having concluded that UBS's damages were properly calculated based on UBS's marks as of December 5, 2008, the date of the breach, the court holds that UBS incurred losses in the Cash Warehouse of $128,848,101, subject to the adjustments discussed below.

Adjustments to Damages Calculation

In calculating the Synthetic and Cash Warehouse losses, Mr. Dudney and Mr. Warren made adjustments for the same items: carry (premiums and interest), collateral value, financing fees, and financing savings. Mr. Dudney's adjustment of $79,587,557 and Mr. Warren's adjustment of $76,632,634 did not differ materially. (PX Demo. 21.) According to Mr. Warren, the difference of approximately $3 million is due to Mr. Warren's exclusion of the Internal Swaps in calculating the carry. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1298-1299.) As the court has held that the Internal Swaps were properly included in the damages calculation, Mr. Dudney's adjustments will be accepted.

damages of $519,374,149 (Cash Warehouse Losses of $128,848,101 plus Synthetic Warehouse Losses of $470,113,605 minus $79,587,557).

OFFSETS

A central issue in this action is whether Highland is entitled to an offset against UBS's damages for appreciation in the value of the CDSs after the breach. The parties stipulated that UBS received post-breach termination payments net of carry on the CDSs, including the Internal Swaps, in the amount of $202,223,059. (DX 491.) It is undisputed that these payments were received months and, for many of the CDSs, years after the termination of the transaction. (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 10 [acknowledging that UBS "liquidated the assets years later"]; PX 335 [spreadsheet showing termination dates for CDSs through 2011].)

Highland argues that, at the time the transaction was terminated, "frozen credit markets had created a severe mismatch between the assets' alleged market value and their actual value based on their cash flows." (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 10.) Highland further argues that UBS was able to sell these assets for hundreds of millions of dollars more than their December 2008 marks and that, while UBS is entitled to retain the sale proceeds, "it cannot ignore these monies in calculating the harm it actually suffered." (Id. at 11.) According to Highland, if disposition of the assets after the termination is not considered, UBS will receive "an enormous windfall." (Id.) UBS acknowledges that if a non-breaching party obtains a benefit "because of the breach," the benefit must be offset against the non-breaching party's damages. (Ps.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 6 [emphasis UBS's].) UBS argues, however, that the Fund Counterparties' breach was not a but for cause of the post-breach payments UBS received for the CDSs. (Id. at 7.) Rather, subsequent gains that resulted from UBS's disposition of the assets were "the result of UBS's contractual rights [to retain the assets] in the event of any termination and of its subsequent investment strategy.” (Id. at 14.) According to UBS, the Fund Counterparties’ proposed offset would deprive UBS of the benefit of the bargain and result in a windfall for the Fund Counterparties. (Id.)

As discussed above, contract damages are intended to make “good or replace the loss” caused to a party by the breach of contract and “to place the nonbreaching party in as good a position as it would have been had the contract been performed. Thus, damages for breach of contract are ordinarily ascertained as of the date of the breach.” (Brushton-Moira Cent. Sch. Dist., 91 NY2d at 261.) Further, “where the breach involves the deprivation of an item with a determinable market value, the market value at the time of the breach is the measure of damages.” (Sharma, 916 F2d at 825 [applying New York law and citing Simon, 28 NY2d at 145-146].)

The calculation of damages is also subject to the fundamental precept that where a non-breaching party acquires a “benefit or opportunity for benefit . . . because of the breach, a balance must be struck between benefit and loss” and the benefit must be offset against the non-breaching party’s damages. (Indu Craft, Inc. v Bank of Baroda, 47 F3d 490, 495 [2d Cir 1995] [applying New York law]; accord Aristocrat Leisure Ltd. v Deutsche Bank Trust Co. Americas, 727 F Supp 2d 256, 289 [SD NY 2010] [“[I]f a victim derives a benefit from the breaching party’s breach of contract, the breaching party only is responsible for the victim’s net loss”], reconsideration denied 2010 WL 3431132; Fertico Belgium S.A. v Phosphate Chemicals Export Assn., Inc., 70 NY2d 76, 84 [1987], rearg denied 70 NY2d 694 [holding, in a “cover” action governed by the Uniform Commercial Code, that “[g]ains made by the injured party on other transactions after the breach are never to be deducted from the damages that are otherwise recoverable, unless such gains could not have been made, had there been no breach”] [quoting 5 Corbin, Contracts § 1041].)

Here, although UBS and Highland agree that any benefit derived by UBS because of the breach must be offset against its losses, neither party has cited, and the court's own research has not located, any case in which a court has considered how to apply this precept to a non-breaching party's retention of assets upon a failed securitization transaction and realization of subsequent gains. There is, however, a substantial body of law involving a breaching party's failure to deliver or purchase assets subject to fluctuations in value, in which the courts have assessed damages based on the market value of the assets at the time of breach and have declined to consider any subsequent increases or decreases in value of the assets. As discussed further below, the court concludes that these cases are inconsistent with the offset sought by Highland.

As the Second Circuit has explained in reviewing this body of law, New York courts reject damage awards "based on what 'the actual economic conditions and performance' were in light of hindsight." (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826, quoting Aroneck v Atkin, 90 AD2d 966, 967 [4th Dept 1982], lv denied 59 NY2d 601 [1983].) "They have explicitly rejected the use of subsequent changes in value or profits where they would increase an award, and where they would decrease the award." (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826 [internal citations omitted].)

In the securities context, courts have repeatedly held that the damages for failure to deliver or purchase shares of stock should be based on their market value at the time of breach, and not on any subsequent increase or decrease in their value. (Simon, 28 NY2d at 145-146 [where the seller breached a contract to deliver shares, holding: "The proper measure of damages for breach of contract is determined by the loss sustained or gain prevented at the time and place of breach. The rule is precisely the same when the breach of contract is nondelivery of shares of stock"] [internal citations omitted]; Aroneck, 90 AD2d at 967 [where the buyer breached a contract to purchase shares, holding that damages should be based on market value at the time of breach, and rejecting the buyer's theory that the "value should be based on the actual economic conditions and performance" of the company post-breach]; Emposimato v CIFC Acquisition Corp., 89 AD3d 418, 421 [1st Dept 2011] [quoting Aroneck and citing Simon in holding that "[i]n the case of a breach of contract to sell securities, expectation damages are calculated as 'the difference between the agreed price of the shares and the fair market value at the time of the breach'"]; Oscar Gruss & Son, Inc. v Hollander, 337 F3d 186, 197 [2d Cir 2003] [following Simon and Aroneck in a case involving the defendant's breach of a contract to deliver warrants]; see also Kaminsky v Herrick Feinstein LLP, 59 AD3d 1, 11-12 [1st Dept 2008], lv denied 12 NY3d 715 [2009] [holding that damages for breach of contract to deliver shares prior to an initial public offering (IPO) should be awarded based on the value of the shares at time of the breach, not their higher value post-IPO].)

The court holds that these cases involve transactions that are analogous to (although far less complex than) the transaction at issue, and apply the same measure of damages that this court has adopted above—namely, the measure of damages based on the market value of the assets on the date of the breach. These cases accordingly govern the calculation of damages here. The court notes, moreover, that sound reasons support the application of this measure of damages without consideration of post-breach fluctuations in the value of the assets.

As the Second Circuit reasoned, a contrary rule that would permit calculation of damages at the time of trial "would be a two-edged sword, because courts would have to diminish damage awards where the value of the item decreased or where losses were encountered subsequent to the breach as well as enhance them where conditions improve. However, New York courts have expressly refused to adopt this 'wait and see' theory of damages.” (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826.) In addition, although the court does not adjust for changes in the value of the shares when calculating damages according to the date of breach measure, the parties themselves can protect against changes in value by hedging or acquiring shares in the market. As the Second Circuit further reasoned: “To be sure, uncertainties about the future and lack of perfect information may cause an asset to be under- or over-valued at any particular time. At that time, however, either party has an opportunity to hedge according to his or her judgment about the future stream of income.” (Sharma, 916 F2d at 826; see also Simon, 28 NY2d at 146 [where the seller breached a contract to deliver shares, reasoning that “[i]f plaintiff were anxious to own the shares rather than obtain their value, he was free to purchase them in the market. His cause of action should not and may not be converted into carrying a market ‘call’ or ‘warrant’ to acquire the stock on demand if the price rose above its value as reflected in his cause of action”].)

The court further holds that application of the date of breach measure of damages, without adjustments for fluctuations in the value of the assets, will serve the objective of putting UBS in the position it would have been in had the contract been performed. If the securitization had closed, UBS would have been entitled, under the express terms of the SWA, to novate to the Issuer its positions as protection seller on all of the eligible Knox CDSs. (SWA § 5 [B] [1].) As a result of the breach, UBS was forced to assume a substantial risk of loss under the CDSs that would have been novated to the Issuer had the closing occurred. As discussed above, the loss in market value of the retained CDSs as of the date of breach was determined using the mark-to-market methodology. More specifically, as confirmed by both UBS’s and Highland’s experts, the mark-to-market losses calculated as of the date of breach represent the cost to UBS to exit the CDSs—

that is, the payments to be made to third-parties so that they would take on, and UBS could extricate itself from, the risk. (Warren Testimony, Trial Tr. at 1304-1306; Dudney Testimony, Trial Tr. at 894-895.) A damage award for these mark-to-market losses will therefore compensate UBS for the exposure to risk that it would not have faced had the contract been performed.

To the extent that Highland contends that a damage award is not appropriate for these mark-to-market losses because the losses were not realized, the court rejects that contention. The damage award is appropriate, notwithstanding that the losses were not realized, because, as held above, the contract affords UBS the right of recovery for such losses. (See CDO Plus Master Fund Ltd. v Wachovia Bank, N.A., No. 07 Civ. 11078 [LTS], 2011 WL 4526132, * 2 [US Dist Ct SD NY, Sept. 29, 2011] [reasoning that, where the contractual definition of loss for the purpose of calculating damages did not require the CDS protection buyer to sustain “actual loss,” “[t]he absence of an actual loss on a Reference Obligation transaction, thus, is not a barrier to [the protection buyer’s] recovery. . .”] [emphasis in original].)

The court further holds that the record does not support Highland’s contention that UBS’s post-breach gains were realized because of the breach, and that this case therefore falls under the line of authority that requires an offset for such gains. Highland in effect contends that because UBS retained the CDSs as a result of the breach, it also realized the post-breach gains because of the breach.¹⁹ That conclusion does not follow. As held

above, UBS had a contractual right to retain the CDSs upon the termination of the transaction based on the Fund Counterparties' breach of the SWA by failing to meet the collateral call. The SWA does not contain any provision that limited UBS's discretion as to when to dispose of the assets after termination. Rather, as UBS persuasively argues, the gains realized as a result of the post-breach disposition of assets were attributable not to the breach itself but to UBS's assumption of the risk of loss on the CDSs and its investment strategy as to when to dispose of them based on its assessment of the market. (See G & R Corp. v American Sec. Trust Co., 523 F2d 1164, 1175 [DC Cir 1975] [holding that while the transfer of property to the plaintiffs was caused by the defendant's breach, the profit realized by the plaintiffs from a post-breach sale was not "caused by the breach" but was "attributable to the [plaintiffs'] decision to hold [the property] until [its] condition and the market were favorable for sale".])

Nor does Highland successfully argue that the gains realized by UBS on the post-breach disposition of the assets must be offset under general principles which require a party who suffers damages as a result of another's breach to take reasonable steps to mitigate its damages. (See Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 5-9.) Highland cites cases requiring mitigation in connection with the purchase and sale of securities and transactions in other markets. (See e.g. Drummond v Morgan Stanley & Co., Inc., No. 95 Civ. 2011 [DC], 1996 WL 631723, * 2-3 [US Dist Ct SD NY, Oct. 31, 1996] [holding that where the buyer breached a contract to purchase securities, the seller must take steps to mitigate its damages by selling the securities within "a reasonable period of time"]; Saboundjian v Bank Audi (USA), 157 AD2d 278, 284-285 [1st Dept 1990] [holding that where a broker failed to execute a customer's speculative currency exchange order, the customer was required to direct execution of the trade "within a reasonable time after he learned that it had not been effected earlier".].)

These cases are inapposite, as the SWA affords UBS the contractual right to retain the securities upon the Fund Counterparties' breach. Ironically, although purporting to rely on these cases, which in fact require that the non-breaching party mitigate within a reasonable period of time, Highland argues not that UBS was required to dispose of the CDSs within a reasonable period of time after the breach but that it was required to hold them for months and, indeed, years, until the market improved. Highland thus asserts that UBS reasonably mitigated by "holding (as opposed to fire selling) fully performing interest and premium-bearing assets in the face of a dysfunctional market. . .," and that "UBS's mitigation was not only reasonable, but required by law." (Ds.'s Post-Trial Memo., at 7.) Put another way, Highland does not identify a specific date or dates by which UBS was required to mitigate. To the contrary, without citation to any legal authority, Highland argues that UBS was required to hold the assets for an indefinite period, until the market improved, to minimize its losses.

The mitigation cases provide no support for Highland's assertion that UBS's disposition, months and years after the breach, of assets that it had a contractual right to retain, constitutes mitigation.²⁰ Rather, in claiming that it is entitled to "offsets" for the post-breach gains realized by UBS, Highland appears in effect to advance a measure of damages that is patently inconsistent with the fundamental tenet of the date of breach measure of damages—namely, that a non-breaching party's damages for assets with a determinable market value must be calculated

at the date of breach, not based on hindsight, and that neither party can select the date on which the damages calculation will be most favorable to it. Thus, a non-breaching buyer cannot select the date on which the assets “had their highest value or a period of time that was profitable but that excludes periods when losses occurred.” (See Sharma, 916 F2d at 826.) Similarly, a breaching buyer cannot avoid or reduce the damages caused by its breach by invoking post-breach decreases in the value of the assets. (See id.)

The court accordingly holds that Highland’s request for an offset for UBS’s post-breach gains from the disposition of the CDSs must be denied.

Offset for Right of First Refusal Counterclaim

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (Highland Capital) seeks judgment on its first counterclaim against plaintiff UBS Securities LLC for breach of the Cash Warehouse Agreement provision affording it the right to purchase CLO assets in the event UBS elected to retain such assets upon the termination of the Agreement. Section 5 (A) of the CWA provides that in event of failure to close, “UBS shall be authorized (but not required) to sell each Collateral Obligation then in the Warehouse Account in accordance with the Liquidation Procedures.” The Liquidation Procedures set forth in section 7 (A) of the CWA provide in pertinent part:

“If any Collateral Obligation is to be sold, UBS shall have the right to direct such sale on such terms and in such manner and at such time that it deems appropriate in its sole discretion. UBS may, in its sole discretion, elect to retain any such Collateral Obligation or to sell such Collateral Obligation to one of UBS’s Affiliates in which event, for purposes of determining Net Collateral Gain and Net Collateral Loss, such Collateral Obligation shall be deemed to have been liquidated at a price equal to its Market Value. To the extent that UBS in its sole discretion elects to retain such Collateral Obligation, the Servicer will have the right to purchase such Collateral Obligation at its Market Value.”

Section 7 (A) further provides that if UBS elects to sell CLOs upon termination, “the Servicer will have the right to bid for and purchase such Collateral Obligation at a purchase price equal to the highest third party bid received by UBS for the purchase of such Collateral Obligation.”

It is undisputed that Highland Capital notified UBS that it sought to purchase six of the CLOs with a bid price of $1.9 million and a notional value of $44 million, but that it sought to provide the funds for the purchase, and to settle the trades, in the name of one of its affiliates, CLO Value Fund. (Ds.’s Findings, ¶ 21.) UBS declined to agree to the sale to the Highland Capital affiliate. (Id.; DX 72; PX 292.)

The court is unpersuaded that a Highland Capital affiliate had the right, under the CWA, to purchase the CLOs. Section 7 (A), which governs the disposition of the CLO assets upon termination, expressly affords one UBS Affiliate the right to purchase CLOs. In contrast, this Section affords the right to purchase only to the Servicer, and not to any other Highland entity. The Servicer is defined as Highland Capital Management, L.P. (CWA, First Paragraph.) Reading the CWA as a whole, the court further finds that no other provision modifies or is inconsistent with this limitation. On the contrary, where the acts of Highland Capital’s Affiliates were implicated, the CWA expressly referred to the Affiliates. (CWA, § 13 [B] [limiting the liability of the “Servicer” “for any acts or omissions by the Servicer or any Affiliate of the Servicer, or any of their directors, officers, members, agents, equity holders [and others] under or in connection with this Agreement, or for any decrease in the value of the Collateral Portfolio”].)²¹ The court accordingly holds that the CWA unambiguously provides that the right to purchase retained CLOs is limited, among the Highland entities, to Highland Capital.

termination right to purchase CLOs, the court rejects Highland's contention that the court should consider evidence allegedly showing that UBS and Highland Capital had a prior course of conduct in which UBS permitted Highland Capital to settle trades "at its fund level." (Ds.'s Findings, ¶¶ 80-81.) Parol evidence of course of conduct is not admissible to construe an unambiguous contract. (See e.g. Sigismondi v Queens Transit Corp., 38 AD2d 71, 73 [2d Dept 1971], affd no opinion 32 NY2d 745 [1973]; Evans v Famous Music Corp., 1 NY3d 452, 459 [2004].)

The court further notes that even if Highland Capital could recover on its counterclaim, the damages it seeks are not recoverable. Highland Capital seeks a finding that because the CLOs continued to perform until maturity, "it would have profited $46 million" if it had been permitted to exercise its right of first refusal to purchase the CLOs. (Ds.'s Findings, ¶ 82; DX Demo. 9.) As Highland Capital acknowledges, however, the market value of the CLOs at the time of breach was $1,934,214. (DX Demo. 9.) The measure of damages, as explained above in connection with Highland Capital's claim for offsets against UBS's damages, is the market value of the assets as of the date of breach, not the increase in their value in the indefinite future.

Offset for Unjust Enrichment

Highland Capital also seeks judgment on its second counterclaim alleging that UBS was unjustly enriched by its failure to permit Highland Capital, through its affiliate CLO Value Fund, to purchase the Collateral Obligations upon termination. This claim for unjust enrichment is not maintainable as the right to purchase is governed by contract—the CWA. (See generally Pappas v Tzolis, 20 NY3d 228, 234 [2012], rearg denied 20 NY3d 1075 [2013]; Clark-Fitzpatrick, Inc. v Long Is. R.R. Co., 70 NY2d 382, 388-389 [1987].)

Offset for Settlements with Highland Affiliates

Highland also requests an offset for settlements with three Highland Affiliates—Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. (Credit Strategies), Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (Crusader Offshore), and Highland Crusader Holding Corporation (Crusader Holding) (collectively, the Settling Highland Affiliates). Credit Strategies and Crusader Offshore were defendants in this action. UBS asserted its fraudulent conveyance cause of action against them as well as all of the other defendants. (Second Am Compl., Fifth Cause of Action.) Crusader Holding was a defendant in a separate complaint, which asserted a fraudulent conveyance cause of action against it. (UBS Secs. LLC v Highland Crusader Holding Corp., Sup Ct, NY County, Index No. 652646/11, Compl., First Cause of Action; Ps.’s Letters, dated July 21, 2015 [NYSCEF Doc. No. 397]; Jan. 7, 2016 [NYSCEF Doc. No. 398].) This court bifurcated the trial of this action, directing that it would first hold a bench trial on the breach of contract claims, which were triable by the court and are the subject of this decision, and that the fraudulent conveyance and other claims, which are triable by a jury, would be heard subsequently. (May 1, 2018 Decision on the Record [NYSCEF Doc. No. 494].)

The parties dispute whether the confidential settlements (DX 76 id and DX 77 id) may be considered in this action. They also dispute whether the settlements may be offset, pursuant to statute or case law, against the damages awarded by this decision to UBS against the Fund Counterparties on the breach of contract causes of action. (See Ps.’s Post-Trial Memo., at 14-21; Ds.’s Post-Trial Memo., at 15-19, 21-24.)

Even assuming, without deciding, that the damages may be subject to offset by the settlements, the determination of whether or to what extent the offset should be allowed must await determination of the jury trial. Where an offset for a settlement is sought, “the damages against which the settlement is sought to be applied should be determined so a proper comparison can be made between them and the damages covered by the settlement.” (Carter v.

State of New York, 139 Misc 2d 423, 429 [Ct Cl, 1988], affd 154 AD2d 642 [2d Dept 1989];
accord Moller v North Shore Univ. Hosp., 12 F3d 13, 16 [2d Cir 1993] [applying New York
law].)

Here, Highland argues that the causes of action against the settling defendants are “wholly derivative of its breach-of-contract claims against the Fund counterparties.” (Ds.’s Post-Trial Memo., at 16.) UBS persuasively argues, in opposition, that the fraudulent conveyance causes of action seek relief in addition to compensatory damages, including imposition of a constructive trust and punitive damages. (Ps.’s Post-Trial Memo, at 22-24; Second Am. Compl., at 57-58.) Moreover, the damages, if any, that will be awarded against the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital on the fraudulent conveyance cause of action remain to be determined at the jury trial. On this record the court accordingly cannot compare the settlements with the fraudulent conveyance damages. Nor is there any basis for the court to determine the extent to which the settlements cover the same damages, or damages that overlap with, the breach of contract damages awarded to UBS against the Fund Counterparties by this decision. The determination of the offset issue will therefore be deferred pending the jury trial. As it appears, however, that Highland may be entitled to an offset for some or all of the settlement amounts, the court will stay enforcement, to the extent of the settlement amount ($70.5 million), of the judgment to be awarded to UBS against the Fund Counterparties for the damages for breach of contract.

Conclusion

UBS is entitled to damages for $519,374,149 on the third and fourth causes of action against the Fund Counterparties for breach of the Cash Warehouse and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements. Enforcement of the judgment for this amount will be stayed up to $70.5 million, the amount of the settlements with the Settling Highland Affiliates.

ORDER

It is hereby ORDERED that the parties shall meet and confer with a view to reaching agreement on the form of the judgment, including but not limited to the Allocation Percentages of CDO Fund and SOHC, and the award of interest. If the parties are unable to reach such agreement, they shall promptly settle judgment; and it is further

ORDERED that this decision shall be filed under seal for ten business days from the date hereof to afford the parties the opportunity to confer and to advise the court as to whether there is any information in the decision which is claimed by any party to be confidential. The parties shall, within five business days of the date hereof, submit a joint letter of no more than three pages, advising the court of their positions on this issue. The letter should be accompanied by a joint copy of the decision, highlighting the portion(s) of the decision which each party claims is confidential and should be redacted in the decision that will be publicly filed; and it is further

ORDERED that the parties shall telephone the court on a conference call within five business days of the date hereof (at a specific date and time to be arranged with the Clerk of Part 60) to discuss the above confidentiality issue as well as the jury trial phase of this action. The parties should be prepared to address whether, or to what extent, the jury trial may proceed in light of Highland Capital's filing of a bankruptcy petition.²²

This constitutes the decision and order of the court.

Dated: New York, New York

MARCY FRIEDMAN, J.S.C.

²² By letter dated October 17, 2019 (NYSCEF Doc. No. 640), counsel (Reid Collins & Tsai LLP) for Highland Capital, the Fund Counterparties and other Highland defendants, advised the court of Highland Capital's bankruptcy filing, and represented that the automatic stay does not preclude decision of the causes of action against the Fund Counterparties or the counterclaim by Highland Capital. This letter sought to reserve defendants' position on the effect of the bankruptcy filing on subsequent proceedings in this action.

UBS SECURITIES LLC and UBS AG, LONDON BRANCH,

Plaintiffs,

HIGHLAND CRUSADER HOLDING CORPORATION,

COMPLAINT

Plaintiffs, UBS Securities LLC (“UBSS”) and UBS AG, London Branch (“UBS AG”) (collectively, “UBS”), for their Complaint allege against defendant Highland Crusader Holding Corporation (“Crusader Holding Corp.”), as follows:

1. UBS brings this action to recover damages in excess of $686 million resulting from the wrongful conduct of defendant Crusader Holding Corp. (and others), based on causes of action for fraudulent conveyances and tortious interference.
2. Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland Capital”) is a defendant in an action commenced by UBS (the “Highland Capital Action”) on or about June 28, 2010, which involves, among other things, fraudulent conveyance claims arising out of asset transfers directed by Highland Capital in March of 2009. Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”), Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (“CDO Fund,” and together with SOHC, the “Fund Counterparties”), Highland Financial Partners, L.P. (“Highland Financial”), Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. (“Credit Strategies”), Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (the “Crusader Fund”), Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (the “Credit

Opp. Fund”), and Strand Advisors, Inc. (“Strand”) are defendants (collectively, the “Highland Entities”) in a separate action commenced by UBS (the “Highland Entities Action”) on February 24, 2009. The Highland Entities Action concerns, among other things, claims for fraudulent conveyances, fraudulent inducement and breach of contract. On or about October 7, 2010, this Court consolidated the Highland Entities Action and the Highland Capital Action. The Highland Entities Action and the Highland Capital Action are referred to herein as the “Consolidated Action”. As alleged in the Consolidated Action, together with Highland Capital, the Fund Counterparties fraudulently induced UBS to restructure a transaction to avoid Highland Capital’s and the Fund Counterparties’ contractual obligation to pay UBS over $86 million. Once Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties succeeded in misleading UBS into restructuring the original transaction, Highland Capital and its affiliates, including defendant Crusader Holding Corp., made it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to meet their obligations to UBS by stripping the Fund Counterparties and SOHC’s alter ego, of their valuable assets through fraudulent conveyances and otherwise dealing in bad faith with their contractual obligations to UBS.

3. When UBS finally terminated the restructured transaction and demanded payment from Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, it was owed in excess of $686 million that the Fund Counterparties could not pay because of the misappropriations and improper transfers of assets directed by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Even after UBS demanded payment, Highland Capital, the Highland Entities and defendant Crusader Holding Corp. engaged in further unlawful conduct that harmed UBS by

5. This action arises out of Highland Capital's efforts in the Spring of 2007 to sponsor a collateralized debt obligation ("CDO") securitization (the "Original Engagement"). In connection with the Original Engagement, UBS agreed to finance the purchase of various collateralized loan obligation ("CLO") securities, as well as credit default swap obligations that referenced similar CLO securities. UBS agreed to hold or "warehouse" the CLO securities and credit default swaps (collectively, the "Warehouse Assets" or "Warehouse Facility") for Highland Capital's benefit.

6. On or about August 15, 2007, the Original Engagement terminated by its terms without the contemplated securitization having occurred. As a result of the termination, Highland Capital and two of its affiliates, the Fund Counterparties, owed UBS in excess of $86 million related to the decline in the value of the Warehouse Assets.

7. Instead of paying UBS what it was owed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties fraudulently induced UBS to restructure the Original Engagement by providing UBS with false, incomplete and otherwise misleading information concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. Using both affirmative material misrepresentations and omissions (material facts or information needed to be disclosed to make the statements actually made not misleading, and which were not disclosed, are referred to hereinafter as "Omissions"), Highland Capital, its principals and the Fund Counterparties misled UBS regarding the financial health of the Fund Counterparties and their creditworthiness, thereby causing UBS to forego recovering its losses from Highland Capital in favor of agreeing to restructure the terms of the parties' prior agreements (the "Restructured Transaction").

8. For example, the strength of the Fund Counterparties' financial statements, and their purported ability to use the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of assets reflected therein to satisfy future obligations to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements were material to UBS's decision to agree to the restructuring. Consequently, in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction, UBS conditioned any restructuring on the Fund Counterparties' ability to post $70 million in cash and securities as collateral (the "Initial Restructuring Collateral") with State Street Bank and Trust Company ("State Street"), in which UBS would hold a security interest.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties were able to conceal important information about the Fund Counterparties' financial weakness that was both quantitatively and qualitatively material to UBS, and which would have caused UBS not to enter the Restructured Transaction.

9. Similarly, while negotiating the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided UBS with financial reports and statements for the Fund Counterparties. The financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS contained materially false and misleading information and Omissions concerning the financial condition of the Fund Counterparties. Among other things,

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

10. In reliance on material misstatements and Omissions made by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, UBS agreed to restructure the Original Engagement, and thereby were fraudulently induced to give up contractual rights under the terms of the Original Engagement. In particular, UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to believe that Highland Capital and its affiliates would provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets, as they in fact did.

11. Had UBS known that the Fund Counterparties could not [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] it would not have gone forward with the Restructured Transaction. UBS never would have agreed to the Restructured Transaction had it known prior to entering the Restructured Transaction the true status of the Fund Counterparties' financial condition and the true fair market value of the Fund Counterparties' holdings that would have been available to satisfy their then-existing and future obligations to UBS. UBS's losses described herein were directly and proximately caused by the conduct of Highland Capital, defendant Crusader Holding Corp. and the Highland Entities as described herein.

12. Almost immediately after UBS agreed to the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital began the process of making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to ever repay UBS what they owed. In particular, exercising its control over the Fund Counterparties, Highland Capital caused the Fund Counterparties to transfer cash for the benefit of Highland Capital and its principals, and, separately, in violation of UBS's rights, [REDACTED] all during a time when the Fund Counterparties owed UBS hundreds of millions of dollars.

13. For example, in or around May 2008, Highland Capital caused the dissipation of approximately $100 million in cash that CDO Fund held after it sold a long position in a company called SunCom Wireless. Highland Capital drained CDO Fund's cash resources despite CDO Fund's ever-increasing obligations to UBS. Highland Capital's bad faith conduct caused injury to UBS by making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to satisfy their contractual obligations to UBS.

14. In September 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility continued to grow, UBS began to exercise its contractual rights and make margin calls demanding additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. Because Highland Capital had routinely taken cash out of the Fund Counterparties, the Fund Counterparties were undercapitalized and lacked assets and liquidity to meet UBS's demands for additional collateral.

15. Highland Capital and its principals, including its president and founder, James D. Dondero, knew that if the Fund Counterparties defaulted on their obligations to UBS (or any other creditor), Highland Capital's ability to conduct business in the financial community and to keep or solicit investors would be harmed. Investors in Highland Capital's hedge fund family would withdraw their investments. In addition, creditors would take actions to protect themselves, including foreclosing on collateral and aggressively enforcing their contractual rights. Highland Capital and its principals were concerned that upon the disclosure of the true state of their affairs, their business would collapse.

16. To avoid that result, Highland Capital and its principals resorted to

17. Highland Capital's and its principals' belated attempt to protect their reputation by continuing to fraudulently portray the Fund Counterparties as viable independent entities was ultimately unsuccessful. By late October 2008, Highland Capital could no longer continue to prop up the Fund Counterparties.

18. On or about November 11, 2008, UBS demanded additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. The Fund Counterparties defaulted. On December 3, 2008, UBS terminated the Restructured Transaction. As a result of UBS's termination of the Restructured Transaction, the Fund Counterparties were contractually obligated to pay UBS in excess of $686 million.

19. On or about February 24, 2009, UBS filed the original complaint in this Court against the Fund Counterparties for breach of the Warehouse Agreements that had been entered in connection with the Restructured Transaction. By that time, the Fund Counterparties and SOHC's alter ego, Highland Financial, had been insolvent and unable to pay their creditors for some time. Nonetheless, Highland Capital and Highland Financial

20. In sum, after fraudulently inducing UBS to agree to the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and its principals exercised their domination over the Fund Counterparties to improperly transfer substantial assets from the Fund Counterparties for their own personal gain, i.e., solely and improperly to protect and enhance the value of Highland Capital and its principals by wrongful and improper means. In the process, they made it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to pay UBS the losses they had agreed to pay on the Warehouse Facility.

THE PARTIES

A. The Plaintiffs

21. Plaintiff UBS AG, London Branch, is a banking corporation organized under the laws of Switzerland with its principal place of business at Finsbury Avenue, London, United Kingdom.

22. Plaintiff UBSS is a limited liability company organized under the laws of Delaware with its principal places of business at 677 Washington Blvd., Stamford, Connecticut, and 299 Park Avenue, New York, New York.

B. Defendant Crusader Holding Corp.

23. Defendant Highland Crusader Holding Corporation (“Crusader Holding Corp.”) is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240. On information and belief, Crusader Holding Corp. is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Crusader Fund. Crusader Holding Corp. transacts business within New York, and derives substantial revenue from interstate and international commerce.

C. The Other Affiliated Transferees [REDACTED]

24. Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. (“Credit Strategies”) is a Bermuda limited partnership organized with its principal place of business at Victoria Place, 31 Victoria Street, Hamilton HM10, Bermuda. Credit Strategies transacts business within New York, and derives substantial revenue from interstate and international commerce.

25. Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (the “Crusader Fund”) is a Bermuda limited partnership with its principal place of business at Victoria Place, 31 Victoria Street, Hamilton HM10, Bermuda. The Crusader Fund also has an office located at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240. The Crusader Fund transacts business within New York, and derives substantial revenue from interstate and international commerce.

26. Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (the “Credit Opp. Fund”) is a Delaware limited partnership with its principal place of business at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240.

27. Defendant Crusader Holding Corp., Credit Strategies, the Crusader Fund and the Credit Opp. Fund are referred to herein collectively as the “Affiliated Transferees” [REDACTED]

D. Highland Capital

28. Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland Capital”) is a limited partnership organized under the laws of Delaware, with its principal place of business at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240, and an office at 9 West 57th Street, New York, New York. Highland Capital is registered to do business in New York. Highland Capital describes itself as a 100% employee-owned partnership. Highland Capital is an investment adviser that manages a large number of investment entities that operate as hedge funds for Highland Capital’s principals and affiliates, as well as unaffiliated investors. Highland Capital currently manages over $25 billion in various assets, including structured financial products. Highland Capital also holds direct and indirect equity and ownership interests in the entities that it manages, including in Highland Financial, the Fund Counterparties and the Affiliated Transferees. James D. Dondero is the President of Highland Capital, as well as one of its founders. On or about June 28, 2010, UBS commenced the Highland Capital Action against Highland Capital. The Highland Capital Action was later consolidated with the Highland Entities Action by a Decision and Order, entered by this Court on October 7, 2010 (this action and the Highland Capital Action are referred to herein as the “Consolidated Action”).

E. Strand

29. Strand Advisors, Inc. (“Strand”) is Highland Capital’s general partner. Strand is a Delaware corporation principally engaged in the business of serving as the general partner of Highland Capital. As Highland Capital’s general partner, Strand is responsible for Highland Capital’s liabilities and obligations and regularly conducts business in New York, or causes its affiliates to conduct business in New York.

F. Highland Financial and SOHC

30. Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”) is a company organized under the laws of the Cayman Islands, with its offices at Walker House, PO Box 908GT, Mary Street, George Town, Grand Cayman, Cayman Islands. SOHC is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Highland Financial Partners, L.P. (a Delaware limited partnership) (“Highland Financial”). SOHC has six sister subsidiaries, all of which are owned in whole or in part by Highland Financial. Highland Capital serves as investment manager to Highland Financial, SOHC and its sister subsidiaries.

31. Highland Financial is SOHC’s alter ego.

For all purposes relevant to this action, Highland Financial and SOHC should be treated as a single entity and as alter egos of one another.

G. CDO Fund

32. Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (“CDO Fund”) is a Bermuda exempted limited partnership, with its principal place of business at 52 Reid Street, Hamilton, Bermuda. Highland Capital controls CDO Fund’s investment decisions through an investment management agreement. Between January 31, 2007 and August 31, 2008, Highland Capital’s and its affiliates’ aggregate ownership interest in CDO Fund ranged between 43.36% and 56.44%. Highland CDO Opportunity Fund, L.P. and Highland CDO Opportunity Fund, Ltd. serve as so-called “feeder funds” for CDO Fund.

H. Non-Parties Affiliated With Highland Capital In Which The Fund Counterparties Invested

33. The Fund Counterparties held investments in several Highland Capital-affiliated funds, including Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P., Highland Legacy, Highland Loan Funding V, Highland Park CDO I, Ltd., Highlander Euro CDO B.V. and Highlander Euro CDO III B.V. Highland Capital served as the investment manager for these affiliated funds, and received valuable fees derived from the valuations of these funds’ assets, which it managed.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

34. Venue in this Court is proper under CPLR 503 because plaintiff UBSS has a principal place of business in New York County.

35. This Court also may exercise jurisdiction over Crusader Holding Corp. pursuant to CPLR 301 and 302(a)(1) and (3), because Crusader Holding Corp. regularly transacts and solicits business in New York, committed tortious acts causing injury in New York, should reasonably have expected that its tortious acts would have consequences in New York, the effect of its wrongful conduct was felt in New York, and/or derive substantial revenue from interstate or international commerce.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. The Original Engagement

36. In or around April 2007, Highland Capital approached UBS for short-term financing in connection with a securitization that Highland Capital wanted to sponsor. UBS agreed to do so (the “Original Engagement”).

37. On or about April 20, 2007, UBSS and Highland Capital entered into an engagement letter (the “Original Engagement Letter”), which contemplated that UBSS would act as the exclusive financial arranger and placement agent for a type of collateralized debt obligation transaction (“CDO”), known as a collateralized loan obligation (“CLO”) squared or “CLO Squared” transaction. (A copy of the Original Engagement Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit A.)

38. CLOs are a form of securitization where interest and principal payments on corporate loans made to multiple mid-sized and large businesses are pooled together by a lender or the owner of the loans, and then passed on through a securitization structure to investors. CLOs typically involve multi-million dollar loans known as syndicated loans, or leveraged loans made to new businesses or existing businesses, often to acquire other companies. The loan originators are able to spread risk through the CLO securitization, and simultaneously free up capital to make new loans to other businesses. The Original Engagement contemplated the securitization of CLO securities. Thus, the securitization contemplated by Highland Capital would have been a “CLO Squared” transaction.

39. On or about May 22, 2007, as contemplated by the Original Engagement Letter, UBSS and Highland Capital entered into a warehouse agreement (the “Original Cash Warehouse Agreement”). (A copy of the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit B.) In accordance with the terms of the Original Engagement Letter and the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement, UBSS agreed to acquire securities as directed by Highland Capital. Highland Capital instructed UBS to acquire various CLO securities issued in connection with prior CLO transactions involving other sponsors and issuers (the “Cash Portfolio”).

40. In a separate but related synthetic warehouse agreement (the “Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement,” and together with the “Original Cash Warehouse Agreement,” the “Original Warehouse Agreements”), UBS AG agreed to enter into credit default swaps (the “CDS Portfolio,” and together with the Cash Portfolio, the “Warehouse Assets”), pursuant to which UBS AG sold credit protection to various third parties. (A copy of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit C.)

41. For Highland Capital’s benefit, UBS held the Warehouse Assets on its balance sheet (the “Warehouse Facility”). UBS was expected to hold the Warehouse Assets until such time as the parties could arrange for the assets to be securitized as part of the contemplated securitization. In particular, if the parties believed that a securitization was economically feasible, they would create a special purpose entity that would acquire the Warehouse Assets from UBS using the proceeds from the sale of securities to investors. The special purpose entity’s debt securities would be secured by those Warehouse Assets.

42. Under the Original Warehouse Agreements, if the Original Engagement terminated without a securitization, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties were obligated to pay UBS for losses on the Warehouse Assets. In particular, under the terms of the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement, Highland Capital was directly responsible for the first $50 million in losses in the Cash Portfolio, and under the terms of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties were obligated to pay UBS for any and all losses suffered on the CDS Portfolio.

43. The Original Engagement Letter expired by its terms on August 15, 2007 without a securitization occurring. The Original Warehouse Agreements expired on the same date in accordance with their respective terms.

44. As of August 15, 2007, the Warehouse Assets in the Warehouse Facility had lost in excess of $86 million in value. Although they had sufficient capital to do so, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed and refused to pay UBS what it was owed under the Original Warehouse Agreements.

45. As a result of extensive negotiations as well as representations and warranties made by Highland Capital on its own behalf, and on behalf of the Fund Counterparties as their investment manager, UBS agreed to restructure the terms of the Original Engagement.

B. Highland Capital And The Fund Counterparties Resort To Fraud To Avoid Highland Capital's Obligations To UBS

46. As alleged above, as a result of the termination of the Original Engagement, Highland Capital was directly liable to UBS under the Original Warehouse Agreement for in excess of $86 million.

47. Between August 2007 and March 14, 2008, UBS, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had discussions and negotiations concerning a restructuring of the terms of the Original Engagement. Those negotiations resulted in agreements to restructure the Original Engagement (the "Restructured Transaction"), including a release by UBS of its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement. (The terms of the Restructured Transaction are set forth in the Engagement Letter and Warehouse Agreements described below (collectively, the "Agreements"), which are annexed hereto as Exhibits D, E and F, respectively.)

48. During the course of negotiations and before March 14, 2008, Highland Capital and Fund Counterparties made several material misrepresentations to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties. Dondero, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also failed to disclose to UBS information which would have been material to UBS's decision to enter the Restructured Transaction ("Omissions," as defined above). As Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew, UBS reasonably relied upon those material misrepresentations and, due to the Omissions, a misstated assessment of the Fund Counterparties, all to its detriment in deciding whether to enter the Restructured Transaction. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on these misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information that were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS reasonably believed that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties would not provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets as it in fact did.

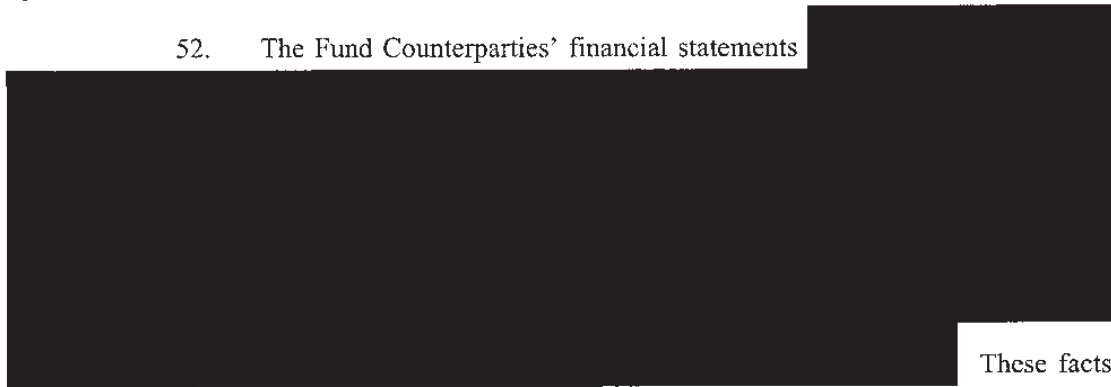

49. For example, on or about December 28, 2007, to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction and related Agreements, Gibran Mahmud of Highland Capital sent SOHC financial statements to UBS. On or about January 29, 2008, UBS requested additional financial information related to SOHC. Later that same day, to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction and related Agreements, Phil Braner of Highland Capital emailed UBS a copy of SOHC's Statement of Financial Condition, dated December 31, 2007.

50. As described with more particularity below, the SOHC financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS, which Highland Capital was responsible for preparing, was materially false and misleading. Highland

Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that UBS would rely upon SOHC's financial information in connection with deciding whether to agree to the Restructured Transaction and the terms of the Agreements being negotiated.

51. On or about February 4, 2008, Matt Killebrew of Highland Capital provided UBS with financial reports via email that reflected financial summaries, and aggregate valuations for CDO Fund's assets as of December 31, 2007. On or about March 4, 2008, Mr. Killebrew sent UBS similar reports for the period ended January 31, 2008. As described with more particularity below, these financial reports, which Highland Capital prepared, also were materially false and misleading. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that UBS would rely upon CDO Fund's financial information in connection with deciding whether to agree to the Restructured Transaction and the terms of the Agreements being negotiated.

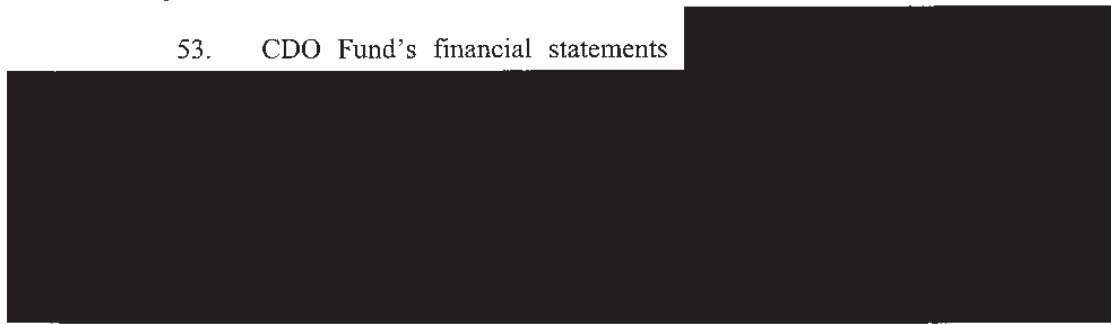

52. The Fund Counterparties' financial statements

These facts

and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

53. CDO Fund's financial statements

[REDACTED]

54. Similarly, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concealed from UBS the fact that the Fund Counterparties

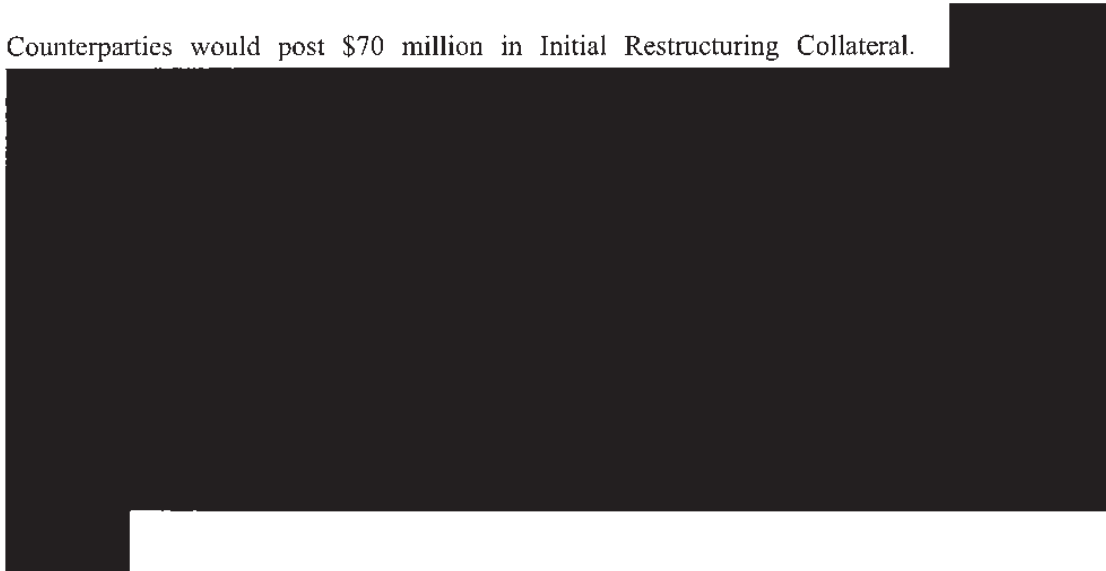

[REDACTED]

55. [REDACTED]

56. During the course of negotiations concerning the restructuring, UBS also insisted that the Fund Counterparties have the ability to post $70 million in cash and securities as collateral, which would be held at State Street Bank (the “Initial Restructured Transaction Collateral”), and in which UBS would hold a security interest. The Fund Counterparties’ ability to do so using their own assets was qualitatively and quantitatively material to UBS. Among other things, it demonstrated the strength of their balance sheets, and by extension, their ability to satisfy future obligations to UBS.

57. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties agreed that the Fund Counterparties would post $70 million in Initial Restructuring Collateral.

As the Fund Counterparties'

investment manager, Highland Capital maintained the Fund Counterparties' accounting records, and knew

Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to believe, and reasonably did not believe, that Highland Capital would provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about 60.

[REDACTED]

It also would have drawn into question the Fund Counterparties' liquidity.

[REDACTED]

61. But for Dondero's, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' false and misleading statements and Omissions concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets, [REDACTED], UBS would not have entered into the Restructured Transaction or the Agreements that memorialized its terms. Given the Fund Counterparties' weak credit quality, additional adverse information about their collective or individual creditworthiness would have deterred UBS from going forward with the Restructured Transaction and putting more assets at risk. These misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

62. UBS would not have entered into a transaction with parties that made misrepresentations as Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties did. UBS also would not have agreed to release its valuable claims arising out of the Original Engagement under such circumstances. Because of, and in reliance on, the false and misleading information about the Fund Counterparties provided by Dondero, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, UBS entered into the Restructured Transaction memorialized in the Agreements. Because each of the misrepresentations and Omissions identified above disguised the Fund Counterparties' inability to satisfy their obligations to UBS, the misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

C. The Restructured Transaction Agreements

1. The Engagement Letter

63. On or about March 14, 2008, the parties reached agreement on the terms of a restructured engagement, which were memorialized in a new engagement letter (the “Engagement Letter,” annexed hereto as Exhibit D). Pursuant to the Engagement Letter, Highland Capital re-engaged UBSS to act as placement agent in the event that market conditions improved, and the parties could go forward with securitizing the Warehouse Assets already held by UBS in the Warehouse Facility. UBS agreed to continue holding the Warehouse Assets in the Warehouse Facility, which had a notional value of approximately $818 million.

64. Under the terms of the Engagement Letter, UBS released claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

2. The Restructured Warehouse Agreements

65. On March 14, 2008, UBSS, the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital also entered into a cash warehouse agreement (the “Cash Warehouse Agreement”), pursuant to which UBSS agreed to continue to hold the Cash Portfolio. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit E.)

66. UBS AG, the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital also entered into a synthetic warehouse agreement, dated as of March 14, 2008 (the “Synthetic Warehouse Agreement,” and together with the Cash Warehouse Agreement, the “Warehouse Agreements”), pursuant to which UBS AG agreed to continue warehousing credit protection that it sold, i.e., the CDS Portfolio. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit F.)

67. Section 13(B) of the Cash Warehouse Agreement and § 11(B) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement make Highland Capital liable for losses, including losses in the Warehouse Facility, by reason of acts or omissions constituting bad faith, willful misconduct, or gross negligence.

68. Under § 12 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties agreed to transfer to State Street the Initial Restructuring Collateral to partially secure their respective obligations to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements. Annex C to the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement identified the six assets that the Fund Counterparties purportedly transferred to State Street to satisfy their Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations, along with $20 million in cash.

69. The Warehouse Agreements also contained releases whereby UBS agreed to release claims it had against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties for losses arising out of the Original Engagement.

D. Highland Capital Uses Its Control Over The Fund Counterparties To Dissipate Their Assets Without Regard For The Fund Counterparties' Growing Obligations To UBS

70. Almost immediately after the Restructured Transaction Agreements were executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knowingly began to dissipate the Fund Counterparties' assets and make it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to ever repay UBS what they owed. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties did so at various times when the Fund Counterparties owed UBS hundreds of millions of dollars.

71. For example, on or about March 26, 2008, just days after entering the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital caused certain SOHC assets to be encumbered by entering into a transaction with Barclays Bank, plc. ("Barclays"). At or around the same time, CDO Fund was negotiating financing arrangements with Morgan Stanley & Co. International

Ltd. and Highland Capital IV SPC, whereby it granted a security interest in its assets to those entities. By granting a security interest in the Fund Counterparties' assets to other creditors, Highland Capital unfairly and improperly reduced the assets available to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS in bad faith and in violation of UBS's rights.

72. Similarly, on or about April 2, 2008, Highland Capital advised UBS that CDO Fund had recently monetized a $129 million long position in SunCom Wireless. When Highland Capital and CDO Fund subsequently provided UBS with additional financial information about CDO Fund, however, UBS discovered that Highland Capital had caused CDO Fund to transfer approximately $100 million of the cash proceeds from the SunCom Wireless sale out of CDO Fund.

73. By improperly removing such a substantial amount of cash from CDO Fund, Highland Capital interfered in bad faith with CDO Fund's ability to satisfy its steadily increasing financial obligations to UBS. In particular, in or around May 2008, when the cash proceeds from the SunCom Wireless position were siphoned off, the Fund Counterparties owed UBS in excess of $166 million related to losses in the Warehouse Facility, approximately 50% of which CDO Fund was obligated to pay.

74. Highland Capital also repeatedly caused SOHC's cash to be transferred by Highland Financial. In particular, during the first five months of 2008, SOHC's cash position was reduced by over $10 million at a time when its obligations to UBS were increasing substantially.

E. In the Fall of 2008, Losses Mount And The Fund Counterparties Face Collateral Calls From Creditors Including UBS That They Cannot Meet Despite Highland Capital's Belated Efforts To Do So [REDACTED]

75. Under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements, the Fund Counterparties were required to post additional collateral with UBS if the combined market value of (a) the Warehouse Assets and (b) the Initial Restructured Transaction Collateral, declined below a certain amount.

76. By September 2008, losses in the Warehouse Facility had increased significantly. At the same time, the value of the Initial Restructuring Collateral had declined substantially, as had the value of the assets held by the Fund Counterparties.

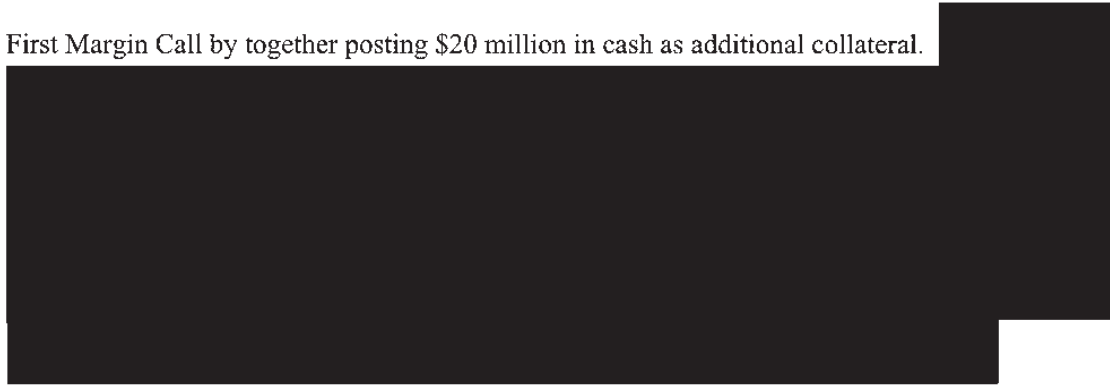

77. Highland Capital was desperate to avoid a default by any of its affiliates, including the Fund Counterparties. If a Highland Capital affiliate defaulted on its obligations to a creditor, Highland Capital's reputation in the investment community would be damaged, and there was a risk that Highland Capital's business would collapse. Highland Capital feared that a public default would lead investors in Highland Capital's hedge fund family to withdraw their capital, and lead creditors to take aggressive actions to protect themselves, including foreclosing on collateral and aggressively enforcing their contractual rights.

1. The First Margin Call

78. On or about September 16, 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility continued to grow, UBS began to exercise its contractual rights and make margin calls demanding additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. Specifically, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties were each required to post $10 million in cash or equivalent securities (the "First Margin Call").

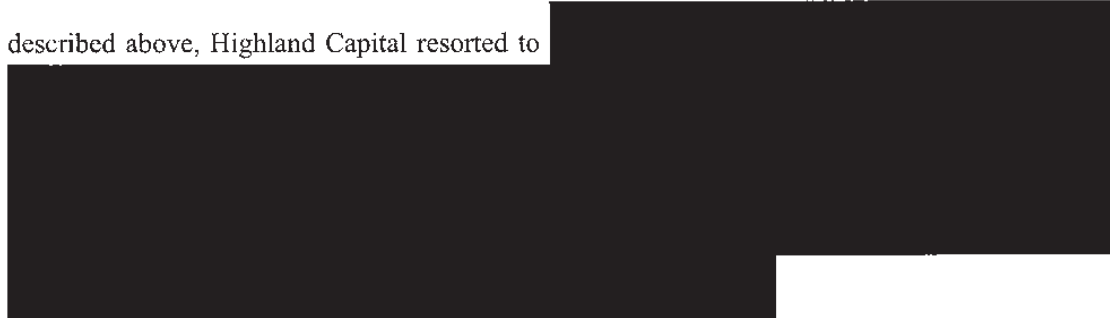

79. Because Highland Capital had routinely drained cash from the Fund Counterparties, the Fund Counterparties lacked the liquidity to meet UBS's demands using their own assets.

80. On or about September 19, 2008, the Fund Counterparties satisfied the First Margin Call by together posting $20 million in cash as additional collateral.

2. UBS Is Harmed By Highland Capital's Response To The Fund Counterparties' Liquidity Crisis

81. In the wake of the First Margin Call, the Fund Counterparties remained starved for liquidity. Still desperate to avoid defaults to creditors and the consequences described above, Highland Capital resorted to

82. Highland Capital and the individuals that directed the Fund Counterparties knew that they had caused the Fund Counterparties to become incapable of satisfying their obligations to all of their respective creditors when they came due, and that they were insolvent or, at the very least, within the zone of insolvency.

83. For example, on or about September 26, 2008, Dondero and Highland

Capital improperly

86.

87.

88.

[REDACTED] Highland Capital executed this plan at UBS's expense to protect their substantial personal stake in Highland Financial and prevent negative publicity associated with defaulting [REDACTED]

89. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] SOHC's expected obligations to UBS were well in excess of $250 million, which were due and owing to UBS no later than March 14, 2009. Thus, by [REDACTED], Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties made a fraudulent conveyance and interfered in bad faith with the Fund Counterparties' ability to meet their contractual obligations to UBS.

90. Given the state of the financial markets at the time, Highland Capital, Highland Financial and SOHC had no expectation that SOHC would be able to satisfy its obligations to UBS when they came due. [REDACTED]

91. [REDACTED]

3. The Second Margin Call

92. On or about October 21, 2008, UBS notified Highland Capital that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties each owed another $10 million (the “Second Margin Call”).

93. In response to the Second Margin Call, Highland Capital offered UBS numerous assets as collateral. UBS rejected those offers for various business-related reasons. As UBS would later learn, however, at the time Highland Capital was offering the assets to UBS, the Fund Counterparties did not own them.

94. On or about October 24, 2008, the Fund Counterparties satisfied the Second Margin Call by together posting assets with a notional value of $49.97 million (but a market value of approximately $20 million), with the understanding that UBS would authorize State Street to return the securities if and when the Fund Counterparties were able to replace those securities with $20 million in cash. As UBS would later learn,

[REDACTED]

95. Moreover, at the same time that Highland Capital was telling UBS that the Fund Counterparties did not have sufficient cash assets to meet the Second Margin call,

[REDACTED]

4. The Third Margin Call

96. On or about November 7, 2008, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund

Counterparties had an obligation to post another $10 million as collateral (the “Third Margin Call”).

97. On or about November 11, 2008, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties offered to post various securities to satisfy the Third Margin Call. In response to the Third Margin Call, Phil Braner of Highland Capital emailed UBS a list of proposed collateral including eight securities with a purported market value of approximately $20 million (i.e., twice the amount of cash due to satisfy the Third Margin Call).

98. Pursuant to the Warehouse Agreements, UBS was authorized to reject proposed collateral. UBS determined that the proposed additional collateral offered by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties was unacceptable. On or after November 13, 2008, UBS formally rejected the offered securities, and requested that the Fund Counterparties provide cash or cash equivalent collateral to satisfy their obligations under § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

99. UBS would later learn that

100. When UBS confronted Highland Capital about this issue Mr. Braner of Highland Capital explained that

F. Termination Of The Agreements And Demand For Payment Of Losses

101. As of December 3, 2008, the Fund Counterparties still had not met the Third Margin Call in accordance with § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement. This failure resulted in UBS's declaration of a termination date ("Termination Date") under the Agreements.

102. On December 3, 2008, UBS delivered a letter (the "Termination Date Letter") to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties notifying them of such failure and the occurrence of a Termination Date under each Agreement. (A true and correct copy of the Termination Date Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit G.)

103. Sections 5 and 7 of the Cash Warehouse Agreement provided that if the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, UBSS could, in its sole discretion, retain any of the securities in the Warehouse Facility or sell such securities to one of UBSS's affiliates or an unaffiliated party.

104. Pursuant to the terms of the Agreements, if the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, each of the Fund Counterparties was obligated to pay to UBS its pro rata share of any market value losses on the Warehouse Assets, which UBS determined it had experienced and so notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

105. On December 19, 2008, UBSS delivered a letter (the "Cash Warehouse Demand Letter") to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties demanding payment for its losses. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit H.) UBSS demanded that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties wire that required amount to UBSS no later than 5:00 pm on December 24, 2008 (i.e., the third business day after the date of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter) (the “Final Payment Date”). Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed to make the required payment to UBSS.

106. The Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided that in the event the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, the Fund Counterparties would be collectively responsible for 100% of the aggregate amount of losses on the CDS Portfolio and each of the Fund Counterparties would pay, after notice of such amount due from UBS, its pro rata share of such amount to UBS within three business days.

107. On December 19, 2008, UBS AG delivered a letter (the “Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter”) to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties demanding payment for its losses. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit I.) UBS AG demanded that the Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties wire the required amount to UBS AG no later than 5:00 PM on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 – the third business day after the date of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter). Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed to make the required payment to UBS AG.

G. Notice Of Failure to Pay, Auction And Final Accounting Letter

108. On January 5, 2009, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties of the failure to make the requisite payments when due pursuant to the Agreements and the applicable demand letters. On or about January 16, 2009, in connection with unwinding the Warehouse Facility, UBS conducted the auction contemplated by the Warehouse Agreements.

109. On or about March 19, 2009, UBS delivered a letter to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concerning a final accounting concerning the auction and the losses in the Warehouse Facility. UBS determined that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties owed it $686,853,290.26.

As a result of the foregoing fraudulent conveyances and defendant Crusader Holding Corp.'s involvement therein, the Fund Counterparties and SOHC's alter ego, Highland Financial, were unable to satisfy their obligations to UBS. As a result of the foregoing fraudulent conveyances, UBS has been harmed in an amount to be determined at trial.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Tortious Interference With Contractual Relations)

132. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 131 of this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

133. The Agreements are valid and binding contracts.

134. The parties agreed that UBS would not bear the risk of any losses in connection with the Restructured Transaction. As a direct result of the Fund Counterparties' breach of the Warehouse Agreements, UBS suffered no less than $686,853,290.26 in damages. Under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements, the Fund Counterparties' obligation to pay UBS for losses in the Warehouse Facility expressly survived the termination of the Agreements.

135. Highland Capital knew of the Agreements, and was familiar with their terms, including the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS thereunder. The Affiliated Transferees, including Crusader Holding Corp., also knew of the Agreements, and their terms, including the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS thereunder.

136. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferees, including defendant Crusader Holding Corp., intentionally and improperly caused and ensured a breach of the Warehouse Agreements by the Fund Counterparties, thereby tortiously interfering with UBS's rights under the Agreements.

137. Specifically, in 2008 and 2009 defendant Crusader Holding Corp. wrongfully participated and caused the improper and fraudulent asset transfers, payments, distributions and dividends described above, and thereby tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual relationship with the Fund Counterparties by knowingly impairing UBS's contractual right under the Warehouse Agreements to be reimbursed by the Fund Counterparties for the losses on the Warehouse Assets. [REDACTED]

138. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferees, including defendant Crusader Holding Corp., [REDACTED]

139. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferees, including defendant Crusader Holding Corp., engaged in the foregoing unlawful and improper conduct, and tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual rights under the Warehouse Agreements, for their own improper personal gain by knowingly violating UBS's rights and making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to perform under the Warehouse Agreements. In particular, the foregoing conduct constitutes independent torts and predatory acts directed at UBS for the personal gain of defendant Crusader Holding Corp., its parent, the Crusader Fund, Highland Capital and its principals.

140. As a direct and proximate result of defendant Crusader Holding Corp.'s tortious interference with UBS's contractual rights under the Agreements, UBS has suffered damages in an amount to be determined at trial. Had defendant Crusader Holding Corp., Highland Capital and the other Affiliated Transferees not tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual rights, the Fund Counterparties would have been able to make payments to UBS of the amount they owed to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements.

RELIEF DEMANDED

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs UBSS and UBS AG demand judgment:

(a) On the first cause of action: (i) declaring that the dispositions of the Fund Counterparties' and Highland Financial's assets involving defendant Crusader Holding Corp., constituted fraudulent conveyances; (ii) appointing a receiver over Crusader Holding Corp.; (iii) directing that a full accounting be had of Crusader Holding Corp.'s affairs and finances; (iv) imposing a constructive trust over Crusader Holding Corp.'s assets until such an accounting is completed; and/or (v) awarding UBS damages in an amount to be determined at trial, but no less than the value of the assets fraudulently and improperly transferred, or, alternatively, directing that Crusader Holding Corp. and its partners, members or shareholders return any assets or consideration received from Highland Financial or the Fund Counterparties, directly or indirectly, as distributions, dividends, consideration, compensation, fees, interest, principal or otherwise, between March 14, 2008 and the present;

(b) On the second cause of action, declaring that Crusader Holding Corp. is liable for tortiously interfering with UBS's contractual rights under the Warehouse Agreements, and awarding UBS an amount to be determined at trial;

(c) Awarding UBS punitive damages in an amount to be determined at trial;

(d) Granting UBS its costs and disbursements, including reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses of this action;

(e) Granting UBS pre-judgment interest; and

(f) Granting such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

COMPLAINT

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. This action for indemnification and breach of contract arises out of substantial losses incurred by UBS in connection with a failed proposed collateralized debt obligation transaction to be sponsored by Highland Capital (the “CDO Transaction”), which contemplated that UBS would acquire and warehouse certain securities and assume certain obligations under credit default swaps, with the expectation that special purpose entities would acquire those securities and assume those obligations from UBS, and issue debt and equity securities secured by those securities and obligations. The special purpose entities were never created and the CDO Transaction never occurred. As a result, UBS has suffered losses of no less than $745 million as before it was completed. CDO Fund and SOHC breached their agreement to provide the requisite collateral to UBS.

5. Specifically, under the Agreements, UBS acquired and held a portfolio of securities (the "Portfolio of Securities") and a portfolio of certain other financial instruments known as "credit default swaps" (the "Portfolio of Credit Default Swaps," and together with the Portfolio of Securities, the "Portfolios") for the purpose of transferring those Portfolios to certain special purpose entities the CDO Transaction.

6. Under the Agreements, UBS was to calculate losses on the Portfolios resulting from a decline in the market value of each of those portfolios and determine, pursuant to the Agreements, what additional amount of collateral ("Additional Collateral") was required based on those losses. Pursuant to the Agreements, the amount of Additional Collateral would be an agreed portion of the increase in the amount of losses. Pursuant to the Agreements, the Funds were required, upon demand, to deposit into a designated account (the "Designated Account") approved securities and/or cash funds as Additional Collateral to partially secure their obligations under the Agreements.

7. Pursuant to the Agreements, in November 2008, UBS demanded that the Funds transfer Additional Collateral of $10 million to the Designated Account. The Funds failed to meet that demand. Accordingly, UBS (after proper notice as described below) terminated the Agreements, and determined the aggregate amount of losses on the Portfolios for which it was entitled under the Agreements to compensation from Highland to be at least $745 million. This loss amount was determined pursuant to the Agreements based on the market values of the Portfolios and any losses incurred with respect to the Portfolios.

8. The Funds have failed to deposit the required amount of Additional Collateral into the Designated Account and pay to UBS the amount of losses it has incurred in connection with the Portfolios as required by the Agreements. Highland Capital has failed to indemnify UBS for these incurred losses as it is required to do pursuant to the Engagement Letter. Accordingly, UBS is entitled to recover its losses of at least $745 million, plus costs and expenses as described below, less the net proceeds of the sale or liquidation of the collateral held in the Designated Account as described below.

THE PARTIES

Plaintiffs

9. Plaintiff UBS AG is a banking corporation organized under the laws of Switzerland with its principal place of business at Finsbury Avenue, London, United Kingdom

10. Plaintiff UBSS is a limited liability company organized under the laws of Delaware with its principal places of business at 677 Washington Blvd., Stamford, Connecticut, and 299 Park Avenue, New York, New York.

Defendants

11. Defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland Capital”) is a limited partnership organized under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240, and an office at 9 West 57th Street, New York, New York.

12. Defendant Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (“CDO Fund”) is a Bermuda limited partnership, with its principal place of business at 52 Reid Street, Hamilton, Bermuda.

13. Defendant Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”) is a company organized under the laws of the Cayman Islands, with its offices at Walker House, PO Box 908GT, Mary Street, George Town, Grand Cayman, Cayman Islands.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

14. Venue is proper under CPLR § 503. Plaintiffs each have a place of business in New York County.

15. Jurisdiction and Venue are also proper in this Court because the parties agreed to submit to the jurisdiction of this Court in connection with any dispute related to the agreements at issue.

FACTS

The Original Transaction

16. In April 2007, UBSS and Highland Capital entered into an engagement letter, pursuant to which UBSS was engaged to act as the exclusive financial arranger and placement agent for a collateralized debt obligation transaction (the “Original Transaction”). In connection with the anticipated Original Transaction, UBSS, UBS AG, Highland Capital (as “Servicer”), the CDO Fund and SOHC entered into two warehouse agreements.

17. The agreements for the Original Transaction expired in early 2008 because the anticipated Original Transaction had not taken place. The parties agreed to try to restructure the transaction.

The Restructured Transaction

A. The Engagement Letter

18. As part of the restructuring, the parties had negotiations leading to an agreement on the terms of a new transaction, and entered into a new engagement letter (the “Engagement Letter,” annexed hereto as Exhibit A). Pursuant to the Engagement Letter, UBSS was engaged to act as placement agent in a collateralized debt obligation transaction in which special purpose entities would acquire the Portfolios from UBS and issue debt and equity securities secured by those Portfolios (the “Restructured Transaction”).

19. Pursuant to Section 3(c) of the Engagement Letter, UBSS and Highland Capital agreed that the CDO Fund and SOHC would bear 100% of the risk of losses experienced in the Portfolios, including losses experienced in the event the Restructured Transaction failed to occur before the termination of the Agreements.

20. Pursuant to Section 6 and Schedule I to the Engagement Letter, Highland Capital agreed to indemnify and hold harmless UBS from any losses, costs, claims, damages, liabilities and expenses based upon, relating to, arising out of, or in connection with any breach or alleged breach by Highland Capital or any of its affiliates, including the CDO Fund and SOHC, of any agreement, representation, covenant or warranty in the Engagement Letter.

21. In accordance with the terms of the Engagement Letter, the parties entered into warehouse agreements.

B. The Warehouse Agreements

22. On March 14, 2008, UBSS, the CDO Fund, SOHC and Highland Capital entered into a cash warehouse agreement (the "Cash Warehouse Agreement"), pursuant to which UBSS agreed to purchase and hold the Portfolio of Securities for the purpose of selling such Portfolio to special purpose entities for the Restructured Transaction. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit B).

23. UBS AG, the CDO Fund, SOHC and Highland Capital also entered into a synthetic warehouse agreement, dated as of March 14, 2008 (the "Synthetic Warehouse Agreement," and together with the Cash Warehouse Agreement, the "Warehouse Agreements"), pursuant to which UBS AG sold credit protection on the Portfolio of Credit Default Swaps for the purpose of ultimately transferring its obligations under such Portfolio to special purpose entities for the Restructured Transaction. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit C).

24. Under Section 12 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the CDO Fund and SOHC agreed to transfer to the Designated Account maintained at State Street Bank and Trust Company cash and/or certain securities to be approved by UBS as collateral to partially secure their respective obligations to UBSS and UBS AG under the Warehouse Agreements as explained below.

C. Margin Call Notices

25. As a result of a decline in the market value of each of the Portfolios and the collateral held in the Designated Account, and an increase in payments and losses relating to each of the Portfolios, on September 16 and October 21, 2008, UBS notified Defendants pursuant to Section 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, that each of the CDO Fund and SOHC was required to deposit its pro rata share of Additional Collateral of $10 million into the Designated Account. In response, the CDO Fund and SOHC together deposited $20 million into the Designated Account by depositing cash and causing certain securities approved by UBSS and UBS AG to be credited to the Designated Account.

26. Pursuant to Section 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, on November 7, 2008, UBS notified the Defendants that each of the CDO Fund and SOHC was required to deposit its pro rata share of Additional Collateral of $10 million into the Designated Account within 2 business days.

27. In response to this notice, on November 11, 2008, CDO Fund and SOHC offered certain securities to be credited to the Designated Account. Pursuant to the Warehouse Agreements, UBS is not required to accept any securities unless those securities are approved by UBS. On or after November 13, 2008, UBS rejected the offered securities, and requested that the CDO Fund and SOHC provide cash or cash equivalent collateral to satisfy their obligations under Section 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

D. Termination of the Agreements and Demand for Payment of Aggregate Collateral Losses and CDO Losses

28. As of December 3, 2008, the CDO Fund and SOHC had failed to deposit cash and/or securities approved by UBS into the Designated Account pursuant to Section 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement. This failure resulted in a termination date (“Termination Date”) under the Agreements.

29. On December 3, 2008, UBS delivered a letter (the “Termination Date Letter”) to the Defendants notifying them of such failure and the occurrence of a Termination Date under each Agreement. (A true and correct copy of the Termination Date Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit D).

30. Section 5 and Section 7 of the Cash Warehouse Agreement provide that if the closing date of the Restructured Transaction fails to occur on or prior to the Termination Date, UBSS may, in its sole discretion, retain any of the securities in the Portfolio of Securities or sell such securities to one of UBSS’s affiliates or an unaffiliated party.

31. Pursuant to the terms of the Agreements, if the closing date of the Restructured Transaction fails to occur on or prior to the Termination Date, each of the CDO Fund and SOHC shall pay to UBS its pro rata share of any market value losses on the Portfolio of Securities, which UBS determines it has experienced and so notifies Highland. The definition of market value (under the Cash Warehouse Agreement) provides that any determination of the market value of the Portfolio of Securities (including any determination of any cost, fee or expense that would be incurred in consideration of a sale thereof) made by or on behalf of UBS shall be conclusive, absent manifest error.

32. On December 19, 2008, UBSS delivered a letter (the “Cash Warehouse Demand Letter”) to the Defendants stating that, pursuant to the Agreements, the CDO Fund and SOHC were required to pay to UBSS the amount of $157,949,885.47 representing the aggregate amount of losses with respect to the Portfolio of Securities (the "Cash Warehouse Required Payment Amount") allocable to the CDO Fund and SOHC on a pro rata basis plus approximately $75,000 in estimated costs. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit E). UBSS demanded that the CDO Fund and SOHC pay the Cash Warehouse Required Payment Amount to UBSS no later than 5:00 pm on December 24, 2008 (i.e., the third business day after the date of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter) (the "Final Payment Date").

33. Highland has not paid the Cash Warehouse Required Payment Amount to UBSS.

34. The Agreements provide that in the event the closing date of the Restructured Transaction fails to occur on or prior the Termination Date, the CDO Fund and SOHC shall collectively be responsible for 100% of the aggregate amount of losses on the Portfolio of Credit Default Swaps and each of the CDO Fund and SOHC shall pay, after notice of such amount due from UBS, its pro rata share of such amount to UBS within 3 business days.

35. On December 19, 2008, UBS AG delivered a letter (the "Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter") to the Defendants stating that, pursuant to the Agreements, the CDO Fund and SOHC were required to pay the amount of $587,357,060.59 representing the aggregate amount of losses with respect to the Portfolio of Credit Default Swaps (the "Synthetic Warehouse Required Payment Amount") allocable to the CDO Fund and SOHC on a pro rata basis. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit F). UBS AG demanded that the CDO Fund and SOHC pay the Synthetic Cash Warehouse Required Payment Amount to UBS AG no later than 5:00 PM on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 -- the third business day after the date of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter) .

36. Highland has not paid the Synthetic Warehouse Required Payment Amount to UBS AG and the required amount of Additional Collateral has not been deposited into the Designated Account.

E. Notice of Failure to Pay

37. On January 5, 2009, UBS notified the Defendants of the failures to pay the Cash Warehouse Required Payment Amount and the Synthetic Warehouse Required Payment Amount when due pursuant to the Agreements and the applicable demand letter.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Contract Under the Agreements
against the CDO Fund and SOHC)

38. Plaintiff UBSS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 37 of the Complaint as if fully set forth here.

39. The Agreements are valid and binding contracts.

40. UBSS has performed all of its obligations under the Agreements.

41. Pursuant to the Agreements, each of the CDO Fund and SOHC was required to transfer its pro rata share of an Additional Collateral of $10,000,000 to the Designated Account within 2 business days of November 7, 2008. The CDO Fund and SOHC failed to make such transfer. The failure to make such transfer is a breach under each Agreement and results in a Termination Date under each Agreement.

42. UBSS demanded that each of the CDO Fund and SOHC pays to it its pro rata share of the amount of losses with respect to the Cash Warehouse Required Payment Amount of $157,949,885.47, plus approximately $75,000 in estimated liquidation costs and expenses, by 5 P.M. on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 – the third business day after the date of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter). The CDO Fund and SOHC have failed to pay this amount to UBSS. The failure to pay this amount to UBSS when due under the Agreements is a further breach under the Agreements.

43. By reason of the foregoing, UBSS has suffered and will continue to suffer damages in an amount to be determined at trial, but in no event less than $157,949,885.47, plus approximately $75,000 in estimated costs and expenses in connection with any sale of the securities subject to the Agreements, less the net proceeds of the sale or liquidation of the collateral in the Designated Account.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Contract Under the Agreements
against the CDO Fund and SOHC)

44. Plaintiff UBS AG, repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 43 of the Complaint as if fully set forth here.

45. The Agreements are valid and binding contracts.

46. UBS AG has performed all of its obligations under the Agreements.

47. Pursuant to the Agreements, each of the CDO Fund and SOHC was required to transfer Additional Collateral of $10,000,000 (on a pro rata basis as set forth in the Warehouse Agreements) to the Designated Account within two business days of November 7, 2008. The CDO Fund and SOHC failed to make this transfer. The failure to make such transfer resulted in a breach and a Termination Date under the each Agreement.

48. Accordingly, UBS AG demanded that each of the CDO Fund and SOHC pay to UBS AG its pro rata share of $587,357,060.59 by 5 P.M. on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 – the third business day after the date of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter). No payment has been made. The failure to pay this amount when due under the Agreements is a further breach under the Agreements.

49. By reason of the foregoing, UBS AG has suffered and will continue to suffer damages in an amount to be determined at trial, but in no event less than the losses with respect to the Synthetic Warehouse Required Payment Amount of $587,357,060.59, plus approximately $75,000 in estimated costs and expenses in connection with any sale of the securities under the Warehouse Agreements, plus any costs, fees and expenses related to the novation or termination of the Portfolio of Credit Default Swaps.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
(Indemnification Under the Engagement Letter against Highland Capital)

50. Plaintiff UBSS and UBS AG repeat and reallege the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 49 of the Complaint as if fully set forth here.

51. The Engagement Letter is a valid and binding contract.

52. Pursuant to Section 3(c) of the Engagement Letter, UBSS and Highland Capital agreed that the CDO Fund and SOHC would bear 100% of the risk of losses experienced in the Portfolios, including losses experienced in the event the Restructured Transaction failed to occur before the termination of the Agreements.

53. The CDO Fund and SOHC have not borne risk in accordance with Section 3(c) of the Engagement Letter.

54. As a result of this breach, UBS incurred 100% of the risk of losses in the Portfolios and thereby has suffered and will continue to suffer losses and damages in an amount to be determined at trial, but in no event less than $745,306,946.06, plus costs and expenses, less any net proceeds of the sale or liquidation of the collateral in the Designated Account.

55. Pursuant to Section 6 and Schedule I to the Engagement Letter, Highland Capital agreed to indemnify and hold harmless UBS from any losses, costs, claims, damages, liabilities and expenses based upon, relating to, arising out of, or in connection with any breach by Highland Capital or any of its affiliates, including the CDO Fund and SOHC, of any agreement, representation, covenant or warranty in the Engagement Letter.

56. Highland Capital has failed to indemnify UBS for any of the losses UBS has incurred in connection with the breach of the Engagement Letter.

RELIEF DEMANDED

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs UBSS and UBS AG demand judgment:

(a) On the first cause of action, as against the CDO Fund and SOHC, the amount of at least $157,949,885.47, representing the aggregate amount of losses on the Portfolio of Securities, plus approximately $75,000 in estimated costs and expenses in connection with any sale of the securities subject to the Warehouse Agreements, less any net proceeds of the sale or liquidation of the collateral in the Designated Account;

(b) On the second cause of action, as against the CDO Fund and SOHC, in the amount of at least $587,357,060.59, representing the aggregate amount of losses on the Portfolio of Credit Default Swaps, less any net proceeds of the sale or liquidation of the collateral in the Designated Account plus approximately $75,000 in estimated costs and expenses in connection with any sale of the securities under the Warehouse Agreements;

(c) On the third cause of action, as against Highland Capital, in the amount of $745,306,946.06, plus any costs, fees and expenses applicable under the Warehouse Agreements and the Engagement Letter, less any net proceeds of the sale or liquidation of the collateral in the Designated Account;

(d) Granting UBSS and UBS AG costs and disbursements, including reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses of this action; and

(e) Granting such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

MOTION SUPPORT OFFICE
NYS SUPREME COURT - CIVIL

Upon the papers submitted in connection with Motion Seq. No. 006, and upon hearing oral argument, I now render the following decision.

Before me is a motion by plaintiffs UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch, (collectively, "UBS") for leave to file an amended complaint, pursuant to CPLR § 3025(b). Opposition papers have been submitted separately by defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland Capital") and by defendants Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. ("CDO Fund") and Highland Special Opportunities Holding Co.

MOTION/CASE IS RESPECTFULLY REFERRED TO JUSTICE FOR THE FOLLOWING REASON(S):

(SOHC), (collectively, the "Funds"), based on deficiency in pleading, under CPLR §§ 3211(a)(1) and (7), and failure to make a prima facie showing under CPLR § 3025(b). No opposition has been submitted on behalf of any of the proposed new defendants.

Plaintiff's proposed amendment would add six new causes of action: (1) fraudulent inducement against Highland Capital and the Funds; (2) breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing against Highland Capital and the Funds; (3) fraudulent conveyance against Highland Capital, the Funds, and five new defendants: Highland Financial Partners, L.P. ("Highland Financial"), Highland Credit Strategies Fund ("Credit Strategies Fund"), Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. ("Crusader"), Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. ("Credit Opportunities Fund"), and Strand Advisors, Inc. ("Strand"); (4) tortious interference with contractual relations against Highland Capital, Credit Strategies Fund, Crusader, and Credit Opportunities Fund; and (5) a cause of action seeking a declaration that Strand, Highland Capital's general partner, is responsible for Highland Capital's obligations; and (6) a cause of action seeking a declaration that Highland Financial is SOHC's alter ego and is responsible for its obligations.

The parties previously agreed that this motion would take the place of a motion to dismiss the first amended complaint by the current defendants, if leave to file any part of it were granted.

Opposition briefs were submitted by Highland Capital and the Funds. As counsel for Highland Capital and the Funds does not represent the proposed new defendants, and any statements made by their counsel are not binding on the proposed new defendants, I will disregard their opposition to the addition of new claims against the proposed new defendants, except insofar as they argue that the new claims would affect the current defendants. The proposed new defendants will have an opportunity to answer or move to dismiss these claims if and when a pleading is served on them.

As I noted in my decision on the motion to dismiss the original complaint, this lawsuit arises out of a failed proposed collateralized debt obligation transaction to be sponsored by Highland Capital, a hedge fund. The proposed transaction contemplated that UBS would acquire and warehouse certain securities and assume certain obligations under credit default swaps, with the expectation that "special purpose entities" would acquire those securities and assume those obligations and issue securities secured by those securities and obligations. The special purpose entities were never created, and the contemplated transaction never occurred. The original complaint alleged that the Funds, which are affiliated with Highland Capital, had agreed to provide collateral to UBS to mitigate and offset any losses it suffered in case of adverse economic conditions, but failed to do so. UBS alleged that it consequently suffered losses exceeding $745 million.

The parties entered into three agreements dated March 14, 2008, which were the subject of the original complaint: (a) an engagement letter between UBS Securities and Highland Capital, (b) a cash warehouse agreement between UBS Securities and all three defendants, and (c) a synthetic warehouse agreement between USB AG and all three defendants.

Highland Capital filed a motion to dismiss UBS's cause of action for indemnification against Highland Capital—the only cause of action stated against Highland Capital in the original complaint—pursuant to C.P.L.R. § 3211(a)(1). The resolution of the motion turned on the interpretation of documentary evidence. Although I denied the motion to dismiss, that decision was reversed by the Appellate Division, First Department, in a short decision dated February 22, 2010. The First Department concluded that, as a matter of contract interpretation, “the agreements between the parties contain no promise on the part of Highland to undertake liability with respect to the investment losses suffered by plaintiffs” or otherwise to indemnify UBS's alleged losses. The Court therefore granted Highland Capital's motion to dismiss the complaint against Highland Capital and directed the Clerk to enter judgment in favor of Highland Capital on plaintiff's complaint against it. Its decision left standing plaintiffs' remaining two breach of contract claims against the Funds and Highland Capital's two counterclaims against plaintiffs.

A “party may amend his pleading... at any time by leave of court,” which “shall be freely given upon such terms as may be just including the granting of costs and continuances.” CPLR § 3025(b) (emphasis added). Section 3025 says nothing about whether a pleading that has already been dismissed can be amended.

The First Department, however, has repeatedly held as a general rule that a complaint that has been dismissed as against a party cannot be amended. E.g., Estate of Brown v. Pullman Group, 60 A.D.3d 481, 482 (1st Dept. 2009) (leave to amend counterclaims properly denied because the counterclaims had already been dismissed); Kazakhstan Investment Fund Ltd. v. Manolovici, 2 A.D.3d 249, 250 (1st Dept. 2003) (motion to amend complaint properly denied since the complaint had been dismissed on a prior motion as time-barred, and there was therefore nothing left before the court to amend); Jeffrey L. Rosenberg & Assocs., LLC. v. Kadem Cap. Mgmt., Inc., 306 A.D.2d 155, 156 (1st Dept. 2003) (leave to amend the complaint was properly denied, as complaint had been previously dismissed on summary judgment, and thus “there was no complaint left before the court to amend"). The Second Department is in accord. See, e.g., Murray Hill Investments, Inc. v. Adas Yereim, Inc., 205 A.D.2d 512, 514 (2d Dept. 1994) (affirming order denying motion to amend complaint to "assert, inter alia, new causes of action against two defendants which had already had the complaint dismissed insofar as it is asserted against them"). I have previously applied this principle to forbid the amendment of a complaint that had been dismissed with prejudice. See North Amer. Van Lines, Inc. v. Amer. Int'l Cos., 819 N.Y.S.2d 849, 2006 WL 908653, at *4 (Sup. Ct. Apr 10, 2006), aff'd on other grounds, 38 A.D.3d 450 (1st Dept. 2007).

The First Department has carved out two exceptions to this general rule, but neither of them seems to apply here.

As an example of the first exception: in Imprimis Investors LLC v. Insight Venture Mgmt., Inc., 300 A.D.2d 109 (1st Dept. 2002), the Court permitted the plaintiffs to amend their complaint to substantiate the "conclusory alter ego allegations" regarding the relationship between the defendant and affiliated entities, which had been dismissed in the original complaint. The Court was careful to note that the amendment was permissible, because, although "the motion culminating in the prior order was nominally for summary judgment, it was directed to the sufficiency of the pleading and not to the proof." Imprimis, 300 A.D.2d at 110-11.

Similarly, in Donovan v. Rothman, 253 A.D.2d 627 (1st Dept. 1998), the Court permitted the plaintiffs to amend their complaint to add factual allegations "that amplified the allegations and otherwise addressed the failings cited by the court in its prior order," concerning the original complaint's failure to state a claim. Donovan, 253 A.D.2d at 628-30.

In both of these cases, the complaints were dismissed not on the merits but based on insufficiently-pled facts. The proposed amendments supplemented the conclusory allegations of the same causes of action that had been insufficiently pled and therefore dismissed in the original complaints.

Neither of these conditions describes the instant situation. The motion to dismiss the indemnification claim against Highland Capital under CPLR § 3211(a)(1) was granted upon a review of the documentary evidence, and not based on the sufficiency of the pleading. The proposed amended complaint does not supplement the cause of action that was dismissed for insufficient pleading by adding new factual allegations, but rather adds new and different causes of action. Therefore, the exception to the general rule carved out in Imprimis and Donovan does not seem to apply here.

In Spada v. B.W. Energy Sys. E., Inc., 167 A.D.2d 328, 562 N.Y.S.2d 78 (1st Dept. 1990), the Court carved out another exception to the general rule. There, the Court permitted the plaintiff to amend its complaint to reassert a claim under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO), 18 U.S.C. § 1961 et seq., which the trial court had dismissed for lack of jurisdiction, because the Court of Appeals had just issued a decision holding that state courts indeed had concurrent jurisdiction over civil RICO claims, and this decision was issued after the dismissal of the RICO claim but still during the pendency of the action. Spada, 167 A.D.2d at 78. The facts of Spada are exceptional enough that I do not think its holding either applies to the instant case or derogates from the general rule.

Consequently, applying the general rule set forth in cases such as Estate of Brown, as UBS has no complaint against Highland Capital, UBS is not entitled to file an amended complaint adding new claims against Highland Capital. Therefore, UBS's motion is denied, insofar as it seeks to resurrect its original complaint against Highland Capital.

Res judicata

While I deny the motion to amend the complaint based on binding First Department authority, in the alternative, I will address defendants' contention that plaintiffs' proposed new claims against Highland Capital are barred by res judicata doctrine.

I did not solicit and do not consider the May 11, 2010 letter from plaintiffs providing additional discussion of the res judicata issue.

"[O]nce a claim is brought to a final conclusion, all other claims arising out of the same transaction or series of transactions are barred, even if based upon different theories or if seeking a different remedy." O'Brien v. City of Syracuse, 54 N.Y.2d 353, 357 (1981). The Court of Appeals has acknowledged, however, that "unfairness may result if the doctrine is applied too harshly; thus in properly seeking to deny a litigant two days in court, courts must be careful not to deprive the litigant of one." Xiao Yang Chen v. Fischer, 6 N.Y.3d 94, 100 (2005) (internal quotations omitted). In determining whether particular claims are part of the same transaction for res judicata purposes, a "pragmatic test" has been applied, analyzing "whether the facts are related in time, space, origin, or motivation, whether they form a convenient trial unit, and whether their treatment as a unit conforms to the parties' expectations or business understanding or usage." Chen, 6 N.Y.3d at 100-01 (internal quotations omitted).

Applying this standard, I conclude that res judicata would not apply to preclude the new claims. The original complaint did not state the majority of the allegations that form the basis of the proposed new claims; it did not allege that Highland Capital stripped the Funds of assets, provided false financial information about the Funds, undercapitalized the Funds, co-mingled the Funds' assets with affiliates' assets, or fraudulently transferred assets among its affiliates, or that any affiliates were Highland Capital's alter egos. The evidence that UBS needs to prove the new claims is entirely different from the evidence that it needed to prove the contract claim that was dismissed. Even if UBS learned of the evidence undergirding its new claims many months earlier, as defendants claim, that would not change my conclusion; when UBS learned of the new evidence is not relevant to the res judicata inquiry.

Moreover, it would seem unfair not to let UBS amend its complaint, based only on res judicata doctrine, for two additional reasons. First, UBS sought permission by letter to add substantially the same claims while this action was still pending, but compliance with Commercial Division Rule 24 prevented that amendment while UBS waited for a pre-motion conference to be held.¹ Second, the dismissal of the original complaint did not take place in a prior lawsuit, but in the very same lawsuit. As Highland Capital never withdrew its counterclaims, it has remained a party to this lawsuit since it was served with the original complaint.

I will now turn to the merits of the proposed new claims. As the original complaint was never dismissed as against the Funds, they remain a part of this lawsuit. Insofar as the complaint has been dismissed as against Highland Capital, what follows may be considered as a holding in the alternative, in the event that this decision is appealed.

"Mere lateness is not a barrier" to granting permission to amend pleadings. Edenwald Contracting Co., Inc. v. City of New York, 60 N.Y.2d 957, 959 (1983) (internal quotations omitted); Spitzer v. Schussel, 48 A.D.3d 233, 233-34 (1st Dept. 2008). Barriers to late amendments are either "significant prejudice to the other side," Edenwald, 60 N.Y.2d at 959, or a lack of merit to the proposed new cause of action, Schussel, 48 A.D.3d

In a letter dated February 16, 2010, plaintiffs wrote a letter asking for a conference, pursuant to Commercial Division Rule 24, concerning their request to move for leave to amend their complaint. This letter contemplated adding causes of action for fraudulent inducement, breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing, and fraudulent conveyance, and invoking alter ego and general partner liability theories, and adding new defendants. A Rule 24 conference was scheduled for the following week. Two days later, however, on February 18, 2010, the Appellate Division issued its decision, dismissing the complaint.

at 233-34. Under controlling First Department law, the party seeking to amend bears the burden of showing merit to the proposed amendment. See Schussel, 48 A.D.3d at 233-34 (affirming denial of plaintiff's motion to amend pleading because proposed new claim lacked merit, despite lack of prejudice to defendants).

Fraudulent inducement

"To plead a claim for common-law fraudulent inducement, a plaintiff must assert the misrepresentation of a material fact, which was known by the defendant to be false and intended to be relied on when made, and that there was justifiable reliance and resulting injury." Braddock v. Braddock, 60 A.D.3d 84, 86 (1st Dept. 2009).

The first amended complaint alleges that defendants gave UBS false and misleading information about the Funds' finances, assets, and business practices, which fraudulently induced UBS to restructure their original transaction and to release claims against defendants for losses on certain assets arising out of the termination of the original engagement.

The fraud allegations are based on the following principal contentions: (a) that defendants represented that the Funds owned specific assets that they did not in fact own; (b) that defendants' valuation of the Funds' assets was unreasonable based on existing market conditions; (c) that the financial reports for the Funds that were provided to UBS inflated the Funds' assets by failing to indicate that assets were or would be pledged to other creditors or were borrowed from other Highland affiliates, or by failing to discuss liquidity problems; and (d) that Highland Capital was in the habit of moving funds around among affiliates and disregarding corporate formalities.

UBS has adduced supporting affidavits maintaining that, had UBS known this information, it would not have restructured the original engagement so as to forego enforcement of UBS's contractual rights. (See LeRoux Aff. ¶¶ 5-6, 13, 38, 48.)

With regard to the allegation that the Funds owned specific assets that they did not in fact own: I conclude that plaintiffs have adequately stated a fraud claim. I am satisfied that plaintiffs have pled this aspect of their fraud claim with sufficient detail, see CPLR § 3016(b), and that this claim may have some merit.

With regard to the allegation that defendants' valuation of the Funds' assets was unreasonable based on existing market conditions: I also find that plaintiffs have adequately stated a claim, and there may be some merit to it.

A more difficult question is whether defendants had a duty to disclose that some of the Funds' assets were pledged to others and/or were borrowed from other Highland affiliates or that defendants moved funds around among Highland affiliates and disregarded corporate formalities, or otherwise to disclose liquidity problems.

UBS maintains that, since it requested and received the Funds' financial reports, which made a statement of their assets, defendants were obligated to disclose additional information not contained in those reports, i.e., that some of the Funds' assets were pledged to others and/or were borrowed from other Highland affiliates, and that the Funds had liquidity problems, under the principle that, where a party to a business transaction has undertaken to make a statement, he cannot stop halfway, where he omits something "so vital" that it goes "to the very essence of the bargain." Junius Constr. Co. v. Cohen, 257 N.Y. 393, 399-400 (1931).

Defendants argue on the contrary that UBS, a sophisticated party, had a duty to inquire into this information specifically and to contract for the right to see this information before closing the restructured transaction, as it would have done if it considered it material.

"[A]bsent a fiduciary relationship between the parties, a duty to disclose arises only under the 'special facts' doctrine where one party's superior knowledge of essential facts renders a transaction without disclosure inherently unfair." Jana L. v. West 129th Street Realty Corp., 22 A.D.3d 274, 277 (1st Dept. 2005) (internal quotations omitted). The special facts doctrine "requires satisfaction of a two-prong test: that the material fact was information 'peculiarly within the knowledge' of West Realty, and that the information was not such that could have been discovered by Associates through the 'exercise of ordinary intelligence.'" Id. at 278 (internal quotations omitted). A party seeking to employ the special facts doctrine "ha[s], at the very least, a duty to inquire." Id.

Here the parties were sophisticated entities engaged in arms-length negotiations. The lengthy complaint and the substantial record submitted by UBS do not allege or evidence a specific inquiry by UBS into whether the Funds' assets were or would be pledged to other creditors or were borrowed from other Highland affiliates, or whether defendants moved funds around among Highland affiliates or disregarded corporate formalities, or otherwise had liquidity problems. Cf. First Am. Compl. ¶¶ 47-50, LeRoux Aff. ¶ 12 (alleging generally that UBS requested financial information, but not alleging that it requested the specific information that it now says should have been disclosed). In any case, the first amended complaint alleges that UBS was aware that defendants were willing to disregard corporate formalities on at least one occasion. (First Am. Compl. ¶ 100.) The fact that no inquiry was made as to this specific information, other than a general request for financial reports, suggests that the information may have been less material than UBS now claims it was. I find that UBS has not adequately alleged that it satisfied its duty to inquire as to this information. Accordingly, I conclude that UBS has not established that there is merit to its fraudulent inducement claim against Highland Capital and the Funds based on these allegations.

Breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing

"Implicit in all contracts is a covenant of good faith and fair dealing in the course of contract performance." Dalton v. Educational Testing Service, 87 N.Y.2d 384, 389 (1995).

UBS claims that Highland Capital breached the covenant of good faith and fair dealing in their agreements by stripping the Funds of assets, making it impossible for the Funds to satisfy their contractual obligations to UBS to bear certain losses.

Upon review of the first amended complaint and the record on this motion, I am satisfied that this claim has been adequately stated and may have merit.

Fraudulent conveyance

New York's Debtor and Creditor Law² considers a variety of transfers to be fraudulent. "Every conveyance made and every obligation incurred with actual intent... to hinder, delay, or defraud either present or future creditors, is fraudulent as to both present and future creditors." Debt. & Cred. Law § 276. A conveyance by a person is also fraudulent if that person "will be thereby rendered insolvent... as to creditors without regard to his actual intent if the conveyance is made or the obligation is incurred without a fair consideration." Debt. & Cred. Law § 273. Furthermore, "[e]very conveyance made and every obligation incurred without fair consideration when the person making the conveyance or entering into the obligation intends or believes that he will incur debts beyond his ability to pay as they mature, is fraudulent as to both present and future creditors." Debt. & Cred. Law § 275.

UBS alleges that Highland Capital and the Funds fraudulently transferred cash and assets from the Funds and Highland Financial (which UBS claims is SOHC's alter ego) to Highland Capital, its affiliates, and other Highland creditors, between March 2008 and March 2009, when the Funds and Highland Financial were insolvent.

In opposition to the proposed amendment, Highland Capital appears to concede

²

The parties apparently agree that New York law applies.

that a non-transferee can be liable for a fraudulent transfer if it has dominion and control over the transferred assets or benefits in some way from the conveyance. (Highland Cap. Opp'n Br. at 18.)

I find that the first amended complaint adequately alleges the elements of a fraudulent conveyance cause of action against the Funds. It also sufficiently alleges both that a fraudulent transfer was made to Highland Capital and that Highland Capital had control over or benefitted from alleged transfers of assets, even when it was not the direct recipient of them, and it appears that the allegations may have merit.

Tortious interference with contractual relations

Plaintiffs allege that Highland Capital tortiously interfered with the Funds' contract with UBS by stripping them of assets, making it impossible for the Funds to meet their contractual obligations.

The elements of a tortious interference with contract claim are (a) the existence of a valid contract, (b) the tortfeasor's knowledge of the contract and intentional interference with it, (c) the resulting breach, and (d) damages. Hoag v. Chancellor, Inc., 246 A.D.2d 224, 228 (1st Dept. 1998). Economic justification is a defense to this claim, unless there is a showing of malice or illegality. Foster v. Churchill, 87 N.Y.2d 744, 750 (1996).

The tortious interference with contract claim against Highland Capital is not precluded simply because Highland Capital is also a party to the agreements at issue. I am persuaded by the reasoning of Rosecliff, Inc. v. C3, Inc., 1995 WL 276156 (S.D.N.Y. May 10, 1995), that a claim for tortious interference can be maintained against a tortfeasor who is a party to a contract when that contract involves at least three parties. Defendants have not cited any contrary New York authority involving a contract between three or more parties.

Nevertheless, based on the allegations of the first amended complaint, Highland Capital's alleged acts were evidently taken in its own economic interests; the first amended complaint does not allege malice or illegality, so as to prevent the application of this defense.³

Therefore, I conclude that UBS's allegations do not state a claim for tortious

³

I am not convinced by Highland Capital's "control" argument. The cases cited by Highland Capital in support of it all involve individuals who control a corporation; I am not convinced that the same principle governs the facts here, but I do not need to decide that question.

interference with contract.

Declaratory judgment causes of action

With regard to the proposed new declaratory judgment causes of action against Strand and Highland Financial: as I stated previously, I do not consider the arguments in opposition to these proposed new claims raised by defendants, their counsel does not represent the proposed new defendants.

I further find that defendants would not experience any significant prejudice by the assertion of the proposed new claims that are otherwise adequately stated.

I offer no final opinion on the merits of any of the proposed new claims.

Finally, UBS has long been pressing for an order accelerating the pace of discovery. In view of this Order and the Order concerning the Funds' proposed amendment also issued today, and the representation at oral argument by counsel for UBS of his intention to file a new related action against Highland Capital if UBS's motion to amend were denied as to Highland Capital, it seems most efficient to convene the next status conference to discuss how the parties want to proceed, after the new amended pleading is filed and answered, and after the anticipated new related action has been filed and answered.

Accordingly, it is ORDERED that plaintiffs' motion for leave to file the first amended complaint is granted in part and denied in part as described in this Order; and it is further

ORDERED that plaintiffs shall serve and file a revised first amended complaint, in conformity with this Order, within 20 days after service on plaintiffs' attorney of a copy of this Order with notice of entry, and defendants shall serve and file an answer within 20 days thereafter; and it is further ORDERED that the parties shall appear for a discovery conference on July 29, 2010 at 10:30 a.m.

Commercial Division, Part 60

Re: UBS Securities LLC, et al. v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., et al., Index No. 650097/2009 (BJF)

Dear Justice Fried:

We are attorneys for UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (together, "UBS"), plaintiffs in the above-referenced action. We write in accordance with Rule 24 of the Commercial Division's rules to request permission to move, pursuant to CPLR 3025(b) for leave to amend the Complaint, or in the alternative a teleconference to address this request at the Court's earliest convenience. The proposed First Amended Complaint will add new defendants and causes of action, as well as a variety of new allegations that further support the indemnification and breach of contract claims that UBS already has alleged in the original Complaint. Addressing UBS's proposed motion for leave to amend the complaint as expeditiously as possible is necessary so that the parties and the Court may account for the new allegations, causes of action and parties as they renegotiate the current case management order, and otherwise address various discovery issues and deadlines with the Court later this week.

It is well-settled that when a party seeking to amend its pleading requires leave of the Court, such "leave shall be freely given upon such terms as may be just." CPLR 3025(b); see also Murray v. City of New York, 43 N.Y.2d 400, 404 (1977), reargument dismissed, 45 N.Y.2d 966 (1978); Marks v. Macchiarola, 221 A.D.2d 217, 218 (1st Dep't 1995). Leave to amend is particularly warranted when there has not been a meaningful amount of discovery, as the defendant cannot claim prejudice. See Seda v. New York City Housing Authority, 181 A.D.2d 469, 470 (1st Dep't 1992) ("[I]n the absence of [substantial progress and] meaningful discovery plaintiff has demonstrated no prejudice, and leave to amend the answer should have been granted."). Here, defendants Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland Capital"), Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. ("CDO Fund") and Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company ("SOHC") (collectively, the "Fund Defendants") cannot claim any prejudice whatsoever.

February 16, 2010

The proposed Amended Complaint will add the following causes of action: (1) a fraudulent inducement cause of action against defendant Highland Capital and others predicated on false and misleading statements made in connection with inducing UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction; (2) a cause of action against Highland Capital and others for fraudulent transfers of assets; (3) a cause of action arising out of Highland Capital's breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing inherent in the Agreements by virtue of the asset transfers that it orchestrated to UBS's detriment; (4) claims for breach of the Warehouse Agreements against Highland Capital and others predicated on alter ego and general partner liability theories; (5) an equitable indemnification claim against Highland Capital and others; and (6) breach of the Engagement Letter by Highland Capital.

The proposed Amended Complaint also adds new defendants, all of whom are affiliated with defendant Highland Capital and the proposed Fund Defendants. The new proposed defendants, however, either control the three current defendants, or are controlled by Highland Capital and/or one of the new defendants. Thus, the new defendants are familiar with this action and will not be prejudiced by being added to this action at this juncture. Moreover, the new causes of action arise out of the same or related circumstances and events as UBS's pending claims. Additional facts have become available to plaintiffs and are alleged. Certain new allegations and causes of action in the proposed First Amended Complaint are based on the limited discovery that UBS has received from defendants to date. Prior document productions and requests are all still relevant and Defendants will not be prejudiced by UBS's filing of the proposed First Amended Complaint.

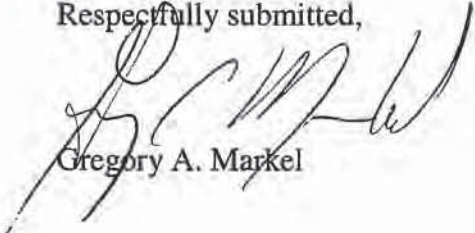

Allowing UBS to amend this Complaint at this stage is not just appropriate, but necessary. Discovery has not progressed beyond the exchange of a relatively small number of documents. The parties have not exchanged any responsive emails to date. Indeed, the parties have not yet agreed to the universe of emails to be reviewed, or a protocol for producing emails. No prejudice can be claimed. The parties are currently negotiating a revised case management order to present to the Court that, if approved, would extend the current discovery deadlines. We respectfully submit that this is a proper time to allow UBS to file the First Amended Complaint so that (i) the parties may account for the new allegations in their negotiations over the schedule and future meet and confers regarding the proper scope of discovery; and (ii) the new proposed parties would have a say in any new proposed case management order and schedule.

If the Court should have any questions regarding the foregoing, I can be reached at (212) 504-6112. Otherwise, we look forward to presenting the enclosed order to show cause to the Court as soon as practicable, or discussing UBS's proposed motion during a teleconference to be scheduled at the Court's earliest convenience.

COMPLAINT

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. UBS brings this action to recover damages in excess of $686 million resulting from the wrongful conduct of Highland Capital, based on causes of action for fraudulent inducement, breach of the duty of good faith and fair dealing, and fraudulent conveyance.

2. Highland Capital and two of its affiliates, Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”) and Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (“CDO Fund,” and together with SOHC, the “Fund Counterparties”), fraudulently induced UBS to restructure a transaction to avoid Highland Capital’s and the Fund Counterparties’ contractual obligation to pay UBS over $86 million. Once Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties succeeded in misleading UBS into restructuring the original transaction, Highland Capital and its affiliates made it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to meet their obligations to UBS by stripping the Fund Counterparties of their valuable assets through fraudulent conveyances and otherwise dealing in bad faith with their contractual obligations to UBS.

3. When UBS finally terminated the restructured transaction and demanded payment from Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, it was owed in excess of $686 million that the Fund Counterparties could not pay because of the misappropriations and improper transfers of assets directed by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Even after UBS demanded payment, Highland Capital and certain of its affiliates engaged in further unlawful conduct that harmed UBS by making fraudulent asset transfers from SOHC's alter ego (Highland Financial Partners, L.P. ("Highland Financial")) to Highland Capital, as well as to Highland Credit Strategies Fund ("HCF Trust"), Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (the "Crusader Fund") and Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (the "Credit Opp. Fund") (collectively, the "Affiliated Transferees" and together with Highland Financial, the Fund Counterparties and Strand Advisors, Inc. ("Strand"), the "Highland Entities"). The Highland Entities are defendants in the separate but related action commenced by UBS on or about February 24, 2009 (the "Highland Entity Action"). In accordance with this Court's June 17, 2010 Order, UBS filed the First Amended Complaint in the Highland Entity Action concurrently with filing this Complaint.

4. This action arises out of defendant Highland Capital's efforts in the Spring of 2007 to sponsor a collateralized debt obligation ("CDO") securitization (the "Original Engagement"). In connection with the Original Engagement, UBS agreed to finance the purchase of various collateralized loan obligation ("CLO") securities, as well as credit default swap obligations that referenced similar CLO securities. UBS agreed to hold or "warehouse" the CLO securities and credit default swaps (collectively, the “Warehouse Assets” or “Warehouse Facility”) for Highland Capital’s benefit.

5. On or about August 15, 2007, the Original Engagement terminated by its terms without the contemplated securitization having occurred. As a result of the termination, Highland Capital and two of its affiliates, the Fund Counterparties, owed UBS in excess of $86 million related to the decline in the value of the Warehouse Assets.

6. Instead of paying UBS what it was owed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties fraudulently induced UBS to restructure the Original Engagement by providing UBS with false, incomplete and otherwise misleading information concerning the Fund Counterparties’ finances and assets. Using both affirmative material misrepresentations and omissions (material facts or information needed to be disclosed to make the statements actually made not misleading, and which were not disclosed, are referred to hereinafter as “Omissions”), Highland Capital, its principals and the Fund Counterparties misled UBS regarding the financial health of the Fund Counterparties and their creditworthiness, thereby causing UBS to forego recovering its losses from Highland Capital in favor of agreeing to restructure the terms of the parties’ prior agreements (the “Restructured Transaction”).

7. For example, the strength of the Fund Counterparties’ financial statements, and their purported ability to use the hundreds of millions of dollars worth of assets reflected therein to satisfy future obligations to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements were material to UBS’s decision to agree to the restructuring. Consequently, in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction, UBS conditioned any restructuring on the Fund Counterparties’ ability to post $70 million in cash and securities as collateral (the “Initial Restructuring Collateral”) with State Street Bank and Trust Company (“State Street”), in which UBS would hold a security interest. In a serious Omission, Highland Capital and the Fund

Counterparties failed to disclose to UBS that the Fund Counterparties did not own all of the Initial Restructuring Collateral that they were expected to post. Instead, to meet the Initial Restructuring Collateral obligation, Highland Capital transferred assets from other entities that it controlled. By making these transfers, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties were able to conceal important information about the Fund Counterparties' financial weakness that was both quantitatively and qualitatively material to UBS, and which would have caused UBS not to enter the Restructured Transaction.

8. Similarly, while negotiating the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided UBS with financial reports and statements for the Fund Counterparties. The financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS contained materially false and misleading information and Omissions concerning the financial condition of the Fund Counterparties. Among other things, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties misrepresented the amount of cash held by CDO Fund. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed to disclose that many of the assets that were accounted for on the Fund Counterparties' financial statements already had been encumbered (e.g., the Fund Counterparties had pledged the assets as collateral to other parties).

9. In reliance on material misstatements and Omissions made by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, UBS agreed to restructure the Original Engagement, and thereby were fraudulently induced to give up contractual rights under the terms of the Original Engagement. In particular, UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to believe that Highland Capital and its affiliates would provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets, as they in fact did.

10. Had UBS known that the Fund Counterparties could not satisfy their Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations using their own assets, and still have sufficient liquidity to meet future collateral obligations, it would not have gone forward with the Restructured Transaction. UBS never would have agreed to the Restructured Transaction had it known prior to entering the Restructured Transaction the true status of the Fund Counterparties' financial condition and the true fair market value of the Fund Counterparties' holdings that would have been available to satisfy their then-existing and future obligations to UBS. UBS's losses described herein were directly and proximately caused by the conduct of Highland Capital and the Highland Entities described herein.

11. Almost immediately after UBS agreed to the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital began the process of making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to ever repay UBS what they owed. In particular, exercising its control over the Fund Counterparties, Highland Capital caused the Fund Counterparties to transfer cash for the benefit of Highland Capital and its principals, and, separately, in violation of UBS' rights, encumbered the Fund Counterparties' assets that UBS believed would be available to it, all during a time when the Fund Counterparties owed UBS hundreds of millions of dollars.

12. For example, in or around May 2008, Highland Capital caused the dissipation of approximately $100 million in cash that CDO Fund held after it sold a long position in a company called SunCom Wireless. Highland Capital drained CDO Fund's cash resources despite CDO Fund's ever-increasing obligations to UBS. Highland Capital's bad faith conduct caused injury to UBS by making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to satisfy their contractual obligations to UBS.

13. In September 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility continued to grow, UBS began to exercise its contractual rights and make margin calls demanding additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. Because Highland Capital had routinely taken cash out of the Fund Counterparties, the Fund Counterparties were undercapitalized and lacked assets and liquidity to meet UBS's demands for additional collateral.

14. Highland Capital and its principals, including its president and founder, James D. Dondero, knew that if the Fund Counterparties defaulted on their obligations to UBS (or any other creditor), Highland Capital's ability to conduct business in the financial community and to keep or solicit investors would be harmed. Investors in Highland Capital's hedge fund family would withdraw their investments. In addition, creditors would take actions to protect themselves, including foreclosing on collateral and aggressively enforcing their contractual rights. Highland Capital and its principals were concerned that upon the disclosure of the true state of their affairs, their business would collapse.

15. To avoid that result, Highland Capital and its principals resorted to commingling Highland Capital's various affiliates' assets to generate short-term liquidity for the Fund Counterparties to satisfy obligations as they came due. In doing so, Highland Capital and its principals consciously decided to ignore the corporate formalities of the Fund Counterparties and the other affiliates that they controlled, including SOHC's alter ego, Highland Financial. For example, as UBS would eventually learn, Highland Capital satisfied the second margin call that UBS made to the Fund Counterparties in October 2008 with assets that did not belong to the Fund Counterparties. Highland Capital also loaned its own money to CDO Fund, and orchestrated other asset transfers to temporarily prop up the Fund Counterparties.

16. Highland Capital's and its principals' belated attempt to protect their reputation by continuing to fraudulently portray the Fund Counterparties as viable independent entities was ultimately unsuccessful. By late October 2008, Highland Capital could no longer continue to prop up the Fund Counterparties.

17. On or about November 11, 2008, UBS demanded additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. The Fund Counterparties defaulted. On December 3, 2008, UBS terminated the Restructured Transaction. As a result of UBS's termination of the Restructured Transaction, the Fund Counterparties were contractually obligated to pay UBS in excess of $686 million.

18. On or about February 24, 2009, UBS commenced the Highland Entity Action by filing a complaint in this Court against the Fund Counterparties for breach of the Warehouse Agreements that had been entered in connection with the Restructured Transaction. By that time, the Fund Counterparties and SOHC's alter ego, Highland Financial, had been insolvent and unable to pay their creditors for some time. Nonetheless, Highland Capital and Highland Financial effected an additional improper and fraudulent asset transfer, which further impaired UBS's ability to recover anything from the Fund Counterparties. In March 2009, conscious that UBS had commenced the Highland Entity Action against the Fund Counterparties a few weeks earlier, Highland Capital and Highland Financial caused asset transfers whereby millions of dollars of assets were fraudulently transferred to Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferees, thereby further reducing the Fund Counterparties' abilities to meet their obligations to UBS.

19. In sum, after fraudulently inducing UBS to agree to the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and its principals exercised their domination over the Fund Counterparties to improperly transfer substantial assets from the Fund Counterparties for their own personal gain, i.e., solely and improperly to protect and enhance the value of Highland Capital and its principals by wrongful and improper means. In the process, they made it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to pay UBS the losses they had agreed to pay on the Warehouse Facility.

THE PARTIES

A. The Plaintiffs

20. Plaintiff UBS AG, London Branch, is a banking corporation organized under the laws of Switzerland with its principal place of business at Finsbury Avenue, London, United Kingdom.

21. Plaintiff UBSS is a limited liability company organized under the laws of Delaware with its principal places of business at 677 Washington Blvd., Stamford, Connecticut, and 299 Park Avenue, New York, New York.

B. The Defendant

22. Defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("Highland Capital") is a limited partnership organized under the laws of Delaware, with its principal place of business at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240, and an office at 9 West 57th Street, New York, New York. Highland Capital is registered to do business in New York. Highland Capital describes itself as a 100% employee-owned partnership. Highland Capital is an investment adviser that manages a large number of investment entities that operate as hedge funds for Highland Capital's principals and affiliates, as well as unaffiliated investors. Highland Capital currently manages over $25 billion in various assets, including structured financial products. Highland Capital also holds direct and indirect equity and ownership interests in the entities that it manages, including in Highland Financial, the Fund Counterparties and the Affiliated Transferees. James D. Dondero is the President of Highland Capital, as well as one of its founders. Highland Capital is a counterclaim-plaintiff in a separate but related action (the “Highland Entity Action”) commenced by UBS concurrently with the filing of this Complaint in accordance with this Court’s June 17, 2010 Order with Memorandum.

C. Other Parties

1. Strand

23. Strand Advisors, Inc. (“Strand”) is Highland Capital’s general partner. Strand is a Delaware corporation principally engaged in the business of serving as the general partner of Highland Capital. As Highland Capital’s general partner, Strand is responsible for Highland Capital’s liabilities and obligations and regularly conducts business in New York, or causes its affiliates to conduct business in New York. Strand is a defendant in the Highland Entity Action.

2. Highland Financial and SOHC

24. Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”) is a company organized under the laws of the Cayman Islands, with its offices at Walker House, PO Box 908GT, Mary Street, George Town, Grand Cayman, Cayman Islands. SOHC is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Highland Financial Partners, L.P. (a Delaware limited partnership) (“Highland Financial”). SOHC has six sister subsidiaries, all of which are owned in whole or in part by Highland Financial. Highland Capital serves as investment manager to Highland Financial, SOHC and its sister subsidiaries. Highland Financial and SOHC are defendants in the Highland Entity Action.

25. Highland Financial is SOHC’s alter ego. The minutes from Highland Financial’s board meetings during 2007, 2008 and 2009 demonstrate that Highland Financial, its board of directors (including Dondero), and Highland Capital all treated SOHC (and its sister affiliates) as Highland Financial’s alter ego and instrumentality. Among other things, Highland Financial’s board minutes (and conduct in connection with the Restructured Transaction) establish that Dondero, Highland Capital, and Highland Financial's board of directors did not distinguish between Highland Financial's debts and obligations, and the debts and obligations of its subsidiaries, including SOHC. Instead, they operated Highland Financial and its subsidiaries, including SOHC, as a single economic entity, regularly commingling assets among the affiliates to achieve Highland Financial's, Dondero's and/or Highland Capital's goals. From December 2007 to April 2009, SOHC was undercapitalized, had little liquidity of its own and was insolvent for much of the period. It depended on Highland Financial for liquidity. For all purposes relevant to this action, Highland Financial and SOHC should be treated as a single entity and as alter egos of one another.

3. CDO Fund

26. Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. ("CDO Fund") is a Bermuda exempted limited partnership, with its principal place of business at 52 Reid Street, Hamilton, Bermuda. Defendant Highland Capital controls CDO Fund's investment decisions through an investment management agreement. Between January 31, 2007 and August 31, 2008, Highland Capital's and its affiliates' aggregate ownership interest in CDO Fund ranged between 43.36% and 56.44%. Highland CDO Opportunity Fund, L.P. and Highland CDO Opportunity Fund, Ltd. serve as so-called "feeder funds" for CDO Fund. CDO Fund is a defendant in the Highland Entity Action.

4. The Affiliated Transferees Involved In the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance

27. Highland Credit Strategies Fund ("HCF Trust") is a Delaware statutory trust, and a closed-end management investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940. It is publicly traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the ticker: "HCF." HCF Trust's principal place of business is 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas

75240. R. Joseph Dougherty of Highland Capital is HCF Trust's President and CEO. Highland Capital serves as the investment advisor to HCF Trust. HCF Trust is a defendant in the Highland Entity Action.

28. Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (the "Crusader Fund") is a Bermuda limited partnership with its principal place of business at Magnolia House Building, 1st Floor, 119 Front Street, Hamilton HM 12, Bermuda. The Crusader Fund also has an office located at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240. The Crusader Fund transacts business within New York, and derives substantial revenue from interstate and international commerce. Crusader Fund is a defendant in the Highland Entity Action.

29. Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (the "Credit Opp. Fund") is a Delaware limited partnership with its principal place of business at 13455 Noel Road, Suite 800, Dallas, Texas 75240. Credit Opp. Fund is a defendant in the Highland Entity Action.

30. HCF Trust, the Crusader Fund and the Credit Opp. Fund are referred to herein collectively as the "Affiliated Transferees" as they benefited from fraudulent conveyances engineered and directed by Highland Capital and Highland Financial in March 2009 to UBS's detriment. The Affiliated Transferees, Highland Financial, the Fund Counterparties and Strand are referred to herein collectively as the "Highland Entities."

D. Non-Parties Affiliated With Highland Capital In Which The Fund Counterparties Invested

31. The Fund Counterparties held investments in several Highland Capital-affiliated funds, including Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P., Highland Legacy, Highland Loan Funding V, Highland Park CDO I, Ltd., Highlander Euro CDO B.V. and Highlander Euro CDO III B.V. Highland Capital served as the investment manager for these affiliated funds, and received valuable fees derived from the valuations of these funds' assets, which it managed.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

32. Venue in this Court is proper under CPLR 503 because plaintiff UBSS has a principal place of business in New York County.

33. Venue is also proper under CPLR 501, and this Court may exercise jurisdiction over Highland Capital because UBS, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties all agreed in writing, before this action was commenced, to submit to such jurisdiction and venue, in connection with any dispute that may arise out of, in connection with, or related to, the Agreements (defined below), or any of the matters contemplated thereby.

34. This Court also may exercise jurisdiction over Highland Capital pursuant to CPLR 301 and 302(a)(1) and (3), because Highland Capital has an office in New York, is a foreign limited partnership registered to do business in New York, regularly transacts and solicits business in New York, committed tortious acts causing injury in New York, should reasonably have expected that its tortious acts would have consequences in New York, the effect of its wrongful conduct was felt in New York, and/or derives substantial revenue from interstate or international commerce.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. The Original Engagement

35. In or around April 2007, Highland Capital approached UBS for short-term financing in connection with a securitization that Highland Capital wanted to sponsor. UBS agreed to do so (the "Original Engagement").

36. On or about April 20, 2007, UBSS and Highland Capital entered into an engagement letter (the "Original Engagement Letter"), which contemplated that UBSS would act as the exclusive financial arranger and placement agent for a type of collateralized debt obligation transaction ("CDO"), known as a collateralized loan obligation ("CLO") squared or

37. CLOs are a form of securitization where interest and principal payments on corporate loans made to multiple mid-sized and large businesses are pooled together by a lender or the owner of the loans, and then passed on through a securitization structure to investors. CLOs typically involve multi-million dollar loans known as syndicated loans, or leveraged loans made to new businesses or existing businesses, often to acquire other companies. The loan originators are able to spread risk through the CLO securitization, and simultaneously free up capital to make new loans to other businesses. The Original Engagement contemplated the securitization of CLO securities. Thus, the securitization contemplated by Highland Capital would have been a “CLO Squared” transaction.

38. On or about May 22, 2007, as contemplated by the Original Engagement Letter, UBSS and Highland Capital entered into a warehouse agreement (the “Original Cash Warehouse Agreement”). (A copy of the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit B.) In accordance with the terms of the Original Engagement Letter and the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement, UBSS agreed to acquire securities as directed by Highland Capital. Highland Capital instructed UBS to acquire various CLO securities issued in connection with prior CLO transactions involving other sponsors and issuers (the “Cash Portfolio”).

39. In a separate but related synthetic warehouse agreement (the “Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement,” and together with the “Original Cash Warehouse Agreement,” the “Original Warehouse Agreements”), UBS AG agreed to enter into credit default swaps (the “CDS Portfolio,” and together with the Cash Portfolio, the “Warehouse Assets”), pursuant to which UBS AG sold credit protection to various third parties. (A copy of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit C.)

40. For Highland Capital's benefit, UBS held the Warehouse Assets on its balance sheet (the "Warehouse Facility"). UBS was expected to hold the Warehouse Assets until such time as the parties could arrange for the assets to be securitized as part of the contemplated securitization. In particular, if the parties believed that a securitization was economically feasible, they would create a special purpose entity that would acquire the Warehouse Assets from UBS using the proceeds from the sale of securities to investors. The special purpose entity's debt securities would be secured by those Warehouse Assets.

41. Under the Original Warehouse Agreements, if the Original Engagement terminated without a securitization, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties were obligated to pay UBS for losses on the Warehouse Assets. In particular, under the terms of the Original Cash Warehouse Agreement, Highland Capital was directly responsible for the first $50 million in losses in the Cash Portfolio, and under the terms of the Original Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties were obligated to pay UBS for any and all losses suffered on the CDS Portfolio.

42. The Original Engagement Letter expired by its terms on August 15, 2007 without a securitization occurring. The Original Warehouse Agreements expired on the same date in accordance with their respective terms.

43. As of August 15, 2007, the Warehouse Assets in the Warehouse Facility had lost in excess of $86 million in value. Although they had sufficient capital to do so, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed and refused to pay UBS what it was owed under the Original Warehouse Agreements.

44. As a result of extensive negotiations as well as representations and warranties made by Highland Capital on its own behalf, and on behalf of the Fund

Counterparties as their investment manager, UBS agreed to restructure the terms of the Original Engagement.

B. Highland Capital And The Fund Counterparties Resort To Fraud To Avoid Highland Capital's Obligations To UBS

45. As alleged above, as a result of the termination of the Original Engagement, Highland Capital was directly liable to UBS under the Original Warehouse Agreement for in excess of $86 million.

46. Between August 2007 and March 14, 2008, UBS and Highland Capital had discussions and negotiations concerning a restructuring of the terms of the Original Engagement. Those negotiations resulted in agreements to restructure the Original Engagement (the "Restructured Transaction"), including a release by UBS of its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement. (The terms of the Restructured Transaction are set forth in the Engagement Letter and Warehouse Agreements described below (collectively, the "Agreements"), which are annexed hereto as Exhibits D, E and F, respectively.)

47. During the course of negotiations and before March 14, 2008, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties made several material misrepresentations to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties. Dondero, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also failed to disclose to UBS information which would have been material to UBS's decision to enter the Restructured Transaction ("Omissions," as defined above). As Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew, UBS reasonably relied upon those material misrepresentations and, due to the Omissions, a misstated assessment of the Fund Counterparties, all to its detriment in deciding whether to enter the Restructured Transaction. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on these misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information that were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS reasonably believed that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties would not provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets as it in fact did.

48. For example, on or about December 28, 2007, to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction and related Agreements, Gibran Mahmud of Highland Capital sent SOHC financial statements to UBS. On or about January 29, 2008, UBS requested additional financial information related to SOHC. Later that same day, to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction and related Agreements, Phil Braner of Highland Capital emailed UBS a copy of SOHC's Statement of Financial Condition, dated December 31, 2007.

49. As described with more particularity below, the SOHC financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS, which Highland Capital was responsible for preparing, was materially false and misleading. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that UBS would rely upon SOHC's financial information in connection with deciding whether to agree to the Restructured Transaction and the terms of the Agreements being negotiated.

50. On or about February 4, 2008, Matt Killebrew of Highland Capital provided UBS with financial reports via email that reflected financial summaries, and aggregate valuations for CDO Fund's assets as of December 31, 2007. On or about March 4, 2008, Mr. Killebrew sent UBS similar reports for the period ended January 31, 2008. As described with more particularity below, these financial reports, which Highland Capital prepared, also were materially false and misleading. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that UBS would rely upon CDO Fund's financial information in connection with deciding whether to agree to the Restructured Transaction and the terms of the Agreements being negotiated.

51. The Fund Counterparties' financial statements falsely set forth the assets and resources that would be available to the Fund Counterparties to satisfy their obligations to UBS. In particular, as UBS would later learn, the financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to it during the restructuring negotiations failed to disclose that a material amount of CDO Fund's assets already had been pledged as collateral or otherwise encumbered in connection with other transactions involving other counterparties. These facts and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

52. CDO Fund's financial statements also materially overstated the cash position it held as of December 31, 2007. Specifically, the December 31, 2007 financial summary for CDO Fund that UBS received in connection with negotiating the restructuring falsely represented that CDO Fund held over $22 million in cash when, in fact, as UBS subsequently learned after commencing the Highland Entity Action, CDO Fund's cash position as of December 31, 2007 was just over $13 million, i.e., approximately 50% lower. As CDO Fund's investment manager, Highland Capital knew at the time of the misrepresentation on February 4, 2008 the value of CDO Fund's cash assets. This misrepresentation was material because CDO Fund was offering to pledge $10 million in cash to UBS as Initial Restructured Collateral. If UBS had known that CDO Fund was agreeing to a cash collateral obligation that would exhaust nearly all of its cash liquidity, UBS would not have entered the Restructured Transaction and would not have suffered the losses proximately caused by this misrepresentation.

53. Similarly, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concealed from UBS the fact that the Fund Counterparties were simultaneously negotiating several financing arrangements with other parties pursuant to which SOHC had agreed to pledge a significant portion of its assets to Barclays Bank plc (“Barclays”), and CDO Fund would pledge a significant portion of its assets to Morgan Stanley & Co International Ltd., Highland Capital IV SPC and Citibank NA. This information was solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

54. In addition, the Fund Counterparties’ financial statements that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS in advance of the Restructured Transaction contained inflated and mistated valuations of their respective assets. As UBS ultimately discovered, the valuations assigned to the Fund Counterparties’ assets by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties were knowingly materially misstated and fraudulent. In particular, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that the market quotations and other variables that they relied upon to value the Fund Counterparties’ assets were unreasonable or inaccurate given the market conditions existing at the time. Yet, they used those market quotations and variables to value the Fund Counterparties’ assets, including the Fund Counterparties’ interests in other Highland Capital affiliates, and to prepare the false and misleading financial reports that they provided to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction. Highland Capital had a financial incentive to ignore the inaccuracy of the market quotations, and use an unreasonable valuation methodology to inflate the Fund Counterparties’ asset values as Highland Capital earned management fees predicated, in part, on the value of the assets that it managed. The truth about Highland Capital’s and the Fund Counterparties’ valuation methodology was solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

55. During the course of negotiations concerning the restructuring, UBS also insisted that the Fund Counterparties have the ability to post $70 million in cash and securities as collateral, which would be held at State Street Bank (the “Initial Restructured Transaction Collateral”), and in which UBS would hold a security interest. The Fund Counterparties’ ability to do so using their own assets was qualitatively and quantitatively material to UBS. Among other things, it demonstrated the strength of their balance sheets, and by extension, their ability to satisfy future obligations to UBS.

56. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties agreed that the Fund Counterparties would post $70 million in Initial Restructuring Collateral. In or around November 2007, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties identified the assets that would be offered and eventually pledged to UBS as part of the Initial Restructuring Collateral. In particular, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties identified six specific assets that the Fund Counterparties would transfer to State Street for UBS’s benefit. As the Fund Counterparties’ investment manager, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew whether and to what extent the Fund Counterparties could pledge assets as collateral to UBS, as well as what assets the Fund Counterparties held to satisfy the collateral obligations being negotiated.

57. On or about November 26, 2007, UBS approved the list of collateral authorized and approved by Dondero to fulfill the Fund Counterparties’ Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations in connection with the Restructured Transaction. On January 15, 2008, Phil Braner of Highland Capital confirmed that the Fund Counterparties would be posting the Initial Restructuring Collateral. The securities first offered as part of the collateral in November 2007 were eventually transferred to State Street in accordance with the Warehouse Agreements.

58. Although Dondero was personally involved in the selection of the securities included as part of the Initial Restructuring Collateral, and he sent email to UBS regarding the same, in another Omission, Dondero failed to disclose that the assets being offered to UBS as collateral were not owned by the Fund Counterparties. As UBS would later learn, the Fund Counterparties did not own two of the six assets that Dondero, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties represented were Fund Counterparty assets. As the Fund Counterparties' investment manager, Highland Capital maintained the Fund Counterparties' accounting records, and knew who owned the assets that it was offering to UBS to satisfy the Initial Restructuring Collateral obligation. Facts and information concerning which Highland Capital affiliates owned certain assets was solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and its affiliates. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to believe, and reasonably did not believe, that Highland Capital would provide it with false, incomplete or otherwise misleading information about the Fund Counterparties' assets or their ability to satisfy the Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations using their own assets.

59. If UBS had known that the Fund Counterparties did not have assets on their balance sheets available to satisfy the Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations that the parties had negotiated, UBS would not have agreed to the Restructured Transaction and the related Agreements. Information about the Fund Counterparties' available assets was solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. The Fund Counterparties' inability to satisfy their Initial Restructuring Collateral obligation using their own assets would have signaled to UBS that, despite the information on their financial statements, the Fund Counterparties' asset base and finances were not what they seemed. It also would have drawn into question the Fund Counterparties' liquidity. The fact that the Fund

Counterparties did not own these assets, and were not able to satisfy the Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations with their own assets, proximately caused injury to UBS.

60. But for Dondero's, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties false and misleading statements and Omissions concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets, and the Fund Counterparties' inability to satisfy collateral and loss obligations, UBS would not have entered into the Restructured Transaction or the Agreements that memorialized its terms. Given the Fund Counterparties' weak credit quality, additional adverse information about their collective or individual creditworthiness would have deterred UBS from going forward with the Restructured Transaction and putting more assets at risk. These misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

61. UBS would not have entered into a transaction with parties that made misrepresentations as Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties did. UBS also would not have agreed to release its valuable claims arising out of the Original Engagement under such circumstances. Because of, and in reliance on, the false and misleading information about the Fund Counterparties provided by Dondero, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties, UBS entered into the Restructured Transaction memorialized in the Agreements. Because each of the misrepresentations and Omissions identified above disguised the Fund Counterparties' inability to satisfy their obligations to UBS, the misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

C. The Restructured Transaction Agreements

1. The Engagement Letter

62. On or about March 14, 2008, the parties reached agreement on the terms of a restructured engagement, which were memorialized in a new engagement letter (the "Engagement Letter," annexed hereto as Exhibit D). Pursuant to the Engagement Letter,

Highland Capital re-engaged UBSS to act as placement agent in the event that market conditions improved, and the parties could go forward with securitizing the Warehouse Assets already held by UBS in the Warehouse Facility. UBS agreed to continue holding the Warehouse Assets in the Warehouse Facility, which had a notional value of approximately $818 million.

63. Under the terms of the Engagement Letter, UBS released claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

2. The Restructured Warehouse Agreements

64. On March 14, 2008, UBSS, the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital also entered into a cash warehouse agreement (the "Cash Warehouse Agreement"), pursuant to which UBSS agreed to continue to hold the Cash Portfolio. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit E.)

65. UBS AG, the Fund Counterparties and Highland Capital also entered into a synthetic warehouse agreement, dated as of March 14, 2008 (the "Synthetic Warehouse Agreement," and together with the Cash Warehouse Agreement, the "Warehouse Agreements"), pursuant to which UBS AG agreed to continue warehousing credit protection that it sold, i.e., the CDS Portfolio. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is annexed hereto as Exhibit F.)

66. Section 13(B) of the Cash Warehouse Agreement and § 11(B) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement make Highland Capital liable for losses, including losses in the Warehouse Facility, by reason of acts or omissions constituting bad faith, willful misconduct, or gross negligence.

67. Under § 12 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties agreed to transfer to State Street the Initial Restructuring Collateral to partially secure their respective obligations to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements. Annex C to the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement identified the six assets that the Fund Counterparties purportedly transferred to State Street to satisfy their Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations, along with $20 million in cash.

68. The Warehouse Agreements also contained releases whereby UBS agreed to release claims it had against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties for losses arising out of the Original Engagement.

D. Highland Capital Uses Its Control Over The Fund Counterparties To Dissipate Their Assets Without Regard For The Fund Counterparties' Growing Obligations To UBS

69. Almost immediately after the Restructured Transaction Agreements were executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knowingly began to dissipate the Fund Counterparties' assets and make it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to ever repay UBS what they owed. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties did so at various times when the Fund Counterparties owed UBS hundreds of millions of dollars.

70. For example, on or about March 26, 2008, just days after entering the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital caused certain SOHC assets to be encumbered by entering into a transaction with Barclays Bank, plc. ("Barclays"). At or around the same time, CDO Fund was negotiating financing arrangements with Morgan Stanley & Co. International Ltd. and Highland Capital IV SPC, whereby it granted a security interest in its assets to those entities. By granting a security interest in the Fund Counterparties' assets to other creditors, Highland Capital unfairly and improperly reduced the assets available to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS in bad faith and in violation of UBS's rights.

71. Similarly, on or about April 2, 2008, Highland Capital advised UBS that CDO Fund had recently monetized a $129 million long position in SunCom Wireless. When Highland Capital and CDO Fund subsequently provided UBS with additional financial information about CDO Fund, however, UBS discovered that Highland Capital had caused CDO Fund to transfer approximately $100 million of the cash proceeds from the SunCom Wireless sale out of CDO Fund.

72. By improperly removing such a substantial amount of cash from CDO Fund, Highland Capital interfered in bad faith with CDO Fund's ability to satisfy its steadily increasing financial obligations to UBS. In particular, in or around May 2008, when the cash proceeds from the SunCom Wireless position were siphoned off, the Fund Counterparties owed UBS in excess of $166 million related to losses in the Warehouse Facility, approximately 50% of which CDO Fund was obligated to pay.

73. Highland Capital also repeatedly caused SOHC's cash to be transferred by Highland Financial. In particular, during the first five months of 2008, SOHC's cash position was reduced by over $10 million at a time when its obligations to UBS were increasing substantially.

E. In the Fall of 2008, Losses Mount And The Fund Counterparties Face Collateral Calls From Creditors Including UBS That They Cannot Meet Despite Highland Capital's Belated Efforts To Do So By Ignoring Corporate Formalities

74. Under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements, the Fund Counterparties were required to post additional collateral with UBS if the combined market value of (a) the Warehouse Assets and (b) the Initial Restructured Transaction Collateral, declined below a certain amount.

75. By September 2008, losses in the Warehouse Facility had increased significantly. At the same time, the value of the Initial Restructuring Collateral had declined substantially, as had the value of the assets held by the Fund Counterparties.

76. Highland Capital was desperate to avoid a default by any of its affiliates, including the Fund Counterparties. If a Highland Capital affiliate defaulted on its obligations to a creditor, Highland Capital's reputation in the investment community would be damaged, and there was a risk that Highland Capital's business would collapse. Highland Capital feared that a public default would lead investors in Highland Capital's hedge fund family to withdraw their capital, and lead creditors to take aggressive actions to protect themselves, including foreclosing on collateral and aggressively enforcing their contractual rights.

1. The First Margin Call

77. On or about September 16, 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility continued to grow, UBS began to exercise its contractual rights and make margin calls demanding additional collateral from the Fund Counterparties. Specifically, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties were each required to post $10 million in cash or equivalent securities (the "First Margin Call").

78. Because Highland Capital had routinely drained cash from the Fund Counterparties, the Fund Counterparties lacked the liquidity to meet UBS's demands using their own assets.

79. On or about September 19, 2008, the Fund Counterparties satisfied the First Margin Call by together posting $20 million in cash as additional collateral. As UBS would later learn, however, to satisfy the First Margin Call, Highland Capital had to cause SOHC's alter ego and parent, Highland Financial, to provide CDO Fund with $5 million in cash. This transfer is further evidence of the alter ego relationship between Highland Financial and SOHC, as Highland Financial would not have provided CDO Fund with the $5 million but for its alter ego relationship with SOHC and the control and domination exercised by Highland Capital.

2. UBS Is Harmed By Highland Capital's Response To The Fund Counterparties' Liquidity Crisis

80. In the wake of the First Margin Call, the Fund Counterparties remained starved for liquidity. Still desperate to avoid defaults to creditors and the consequences described above, Highland Capital resorted to commingling assets of various Highland Capital affiliates to generate short-term liquidity for the Fund Counterparties to satisfy obligations as they came due without regard for future mid-term and long-term obligations that they had. In doing so, Highland Capital consciously decided to continue to ignore the corporate formalities of the Fund Counterparties and the other affiliates that they controlled.

81. Highland Capital and the individuals that directed the Fund Counterparties knew that they had caused the Fund Counterparties to become incapable of satisfying their obligations to all of their respective creditors when they came due, and that they were insolvent or, at the very least, within the zone of insolvency.

82. For example, on or about September 26, 2008, Dondero and Highland Capital improperly caused Highland Financial to take on additional debt by offering notes to other Highland affiliates, including CDO Fund, in exchange for cash-generating assets, which it hoped would allow SOHC to address short-term cash needs, and satisfy obligations SOHC had to Barclays under both a swap financing facility and a separate guarantee arrangement between SOHC and Barclays.

83. Pursuant to the note offering, Highland Financial acquired approximately $321 million of risky CLO assets (CLO mezzanine paper and CLO equity assets), and life settlement insurance contracts from the Affiliated Transferees in exchange for senior secured notes in a principal amount of approximately $316 million with a maturity date of 2018 (the "September 2008 Note Offering," and the notes issued in connection therewith, the "September 2008 Notes”). The September 2008 Note Offering required Highland Financial to make amortized payments to the Affiliated Transferees each quarter starting in February 2009 of $15 million. Highland Financial also was required to transfer a security interest to the Affiliated Transferees in the shares it held of two wholly-owned subsidiaries — HFP Asset Funding II and HFP Asset Funding III — into which Highland Financial transferred the assets that it received from the Affiliated Transferees.

84. The granting of this security interest and related asset transfers constituted fraudulent conveyances, which made payment by the Fund Counterparties and Highland Financial of their obligations to UBS impossible and defrauded UBS. At the time of the September 2008 Note Offering, Highland Financial, as SOHC’s alter ego, owed UBS hundreds of millions of dollars that it could not pay. The September 2008 Note Offering and related asset transfers were not arm’s-length transactions or done for reasonably equivalent value. Dondero and Highland Capital caused Highland Financial to grant the security interest to affiliated insiders. Afterwards, Highland Financial concealed the security interest that it had granted to the Affiliated Transferees from UBS.

85. On or about October 7, 2008, Highland Capital proposed that Highland Financial conduct an additional note offering on the same terms as the September 2008 Note Offering. In accordance with Highland Capital’s proposal, Highland Financial issued an additional $55,488,000 of 10% Senior Secured Notes due 2018 to be given to the Crusader Fund (the “October 2008 Note Offering,” and together with the September 2008 Note Offering, the “Fall 2008 Note Offerings,” and the notes issued in connection therewith, together with the September 2008 Notes, the “Fall 2008 Notes”). As a result of the October 2008 Note Offering, Highland Financial’s debt obligation to the Affiliated Transferees was $371,458,681, plus interest. The granting of a security interest and related asset transfers in connection with the October 2008 Note Offering constitute fraudulent conveyances for substantially identical reasons as the conveyances made in connection with the September 2008 Note Offering.

86. Highland Capital caused Highland Financial and SOHC to use the assets that they acquired to pay down a substantial portion of SOHC's debt to Barclays to the detriment of UBS. Highland Capital executed this plan at UBS's expense to protect their substantial personal stake in Highland Financial and prevent negative publicity associated with defaulting on obligations to Barclays. Implementing this plan, however, caused SOHC (and its alter ego, Highland Financial) to improperly and in bad faith breach duties and obligations to UBS.

87. When SOHC and its alter ego, Highland Financial, used up their cash flows to pay Barclays, SOHC's expected obligations to UBS were well in excess of $250 million, which were due and owing to UBS no later than March 14, 2009. Thus, by favoring Barclays over UBS, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties made a fraudulent conveyance and interfered in bad faith with the Fund Counterparties' ability to meet their contractual obligations to UBS.

88. Given the state of the financial markets at the time, Highland Capital, Highland Financial and SOHC had no expectation that SOHC would be able to satisfy its obligations to UBS when they came due. Indeed, not only was SOHC insolvent (or, at the very least, within the zone of insolvency), but Highland Financial, SOHC's alter ego, also was insolvent (or, at the very least, within the zone of insolvency), and would be certified insolvent by Highland Capital by year-end. Consequently, the payments to Barclays constituted fraudulent conveyances that interfered in bad faith with SOHC's obligations under the Warehouse Agreements. By orchestrating and causing the fraudulent transfers and improper payments to Barclays to protect its own self-interest, Highland Capital interfered in bad faith with UBS's contract with SOHC.

89. In addition to the foregoing, CDO Fund used the Fall 2008 Notes that it received in exchange for substantially all of its unencumbered assets to satisfy obligations to Citibank, NA (“Citi”). This too constituted an improper transfer as it was made by CDO Fund at a time when it was insolvent, and with an intention to give Citi a preference over UBS.

3. The Second Margin Call

90. On or about October 21, 2008, UBS notified Highland Capital that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties each owed another $10 million (the “Second Margin Call”).

91. In response to the Second Margin Call, Highland Capital offered UBS numerous assets as collateral. UBS rejected those offers for various business-related reasons. As UBS would later learn, however, at the time Highland Capital was offering the assets to UBS, the Fund Counterparties did not own them.

92. On or about October 24, 2008, the Fund Counterparties satisfied the Second Margin Call by together posting assets with a notional value of $49.97 million (but a market value of approximately $20 million), with the understanding that UBS would authorize State Street to return the securities if and when the Fund Counterparties were able to replace those securities with $20 million in cash. As UBS would later learn, the Fund Counterparties did not own and failed to disclose that four of the assets used to satisfy the Second Margin Call were owned by HFP Asset Funding II, one of SOHC’s affiliated sister funds which, like SOHC, was controlled by Highland Financial and Highland Capital.

93. Moreover, at the same time that Highland Capital was telling UBS that the Fund Counterparties did not have sufficient cash assets to meet the Second Margin call, Highland Capital was using the liquid resources available to SOHC (through its alter ego, Highland Financial) to make payments to another SOHC creditor, i.e., Barclays, which improperly favored Barclays over UBS, and directly and proximately caused injury to UBS.

4. The Third Margin Call

94. On or about November 7, 2008, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties that, pursuant to § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the Fund Counterparties had an obligation to post another $10 million as collateral (the “Third Margin Call”).

95. On or about November 11, 2008, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties offered to post various securities to satisfy the Third Margin Call. In response to the Third Margin Call, Phil Braner of Highland Capital emailed UBS a list of proposed collateral including eight securities with a purported market value of approximately $20 million (i.e., twice the amount of cash due to satisfy the Third Margin Call).

96. Pursuant to the Warehouse Agreements, UBS was authorized to reject proposed collateral. UBS determined that the proposed additional collateral offered by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties was unacceptable. On or after November 13, 2008, UBS formally rejected the offered securities, and requested that the Fund Counterparties provide cash or cash equivalent collateral to satisfy their obligations under § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

97. UBS would later learn that neither of the Fund Counterparties owned the assets that Highland Capital proposed using to satisfy the Third Margin Call. Rather, SOHC’s affiliate, HFP Asset Funding II owned each of the eight assets that Highland Capital had proposed using to satisfy the Third Margin Call.

98. When UBS confronted Highland Capital about this issue Mr. Braner of Highland Capital explained that Highland Capital could (and was willing to) exercise its control over the various Highland-affiliated funds to move assets between and among the affiliated funds, thereby making assets available to UBS from Highland-affiliated funds other than the Fund Counterparties. Mr. Braner explained how Highland Capital could effectuate the asset transfers by simply ignoring corporate formalities, transferring assets among companies, utilizing accounting entries and otherwise taking advantage of the corporate relationship shared by the various Highland-affiliated funds to engineer non-arm's-length transactions. Mr. Braner also divulged to UBS that Highland Capital was willing to ignore corporate formalities because it wanted to avoid any further reputational harm to Highland Capital and the Highland organization that would occur if the Fund Counterparties defaulted on UBS's margin calls.

F. Termination Of The Agreements And Demand For Payment of Losses

99. As of December 3, 2008, the Fund Counterparties still had not met the Third Margin Call in accordance with § 12(C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement. This failure resulted in UBS's declaration of a termination date ("Termination Date") under the Agreements.

100. On December 3, 2008, UBS delivered a letter (the "Termination Date Letter") to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties notifying them of such failure and the occurrence of a Termination Date under each Agreement. (A true and correct copy of the Termination Date Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit G.)

101. Sections 5 and 7 of the Cash Warehouse Agreement provided that if the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, UBSS could, in its sole discretion, retain any of the securities in the Warehouse Facility or sell such securities to one of UBSS's affiliates or an unaffiliated party.

102. Pursuant to the terms of the Agreements, if the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to

March 14, 2009, each of the Fund Counterparties was obligated to pay to UBS its pro rata share of any market value losses on the Warehouse Assets, which UBS determined it had experienced and so notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

103. On December 19, 2008, UBSS delivered a letter (the “Cash Warehouse Demand Letter”) to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties demanding payment for its losses. (A true and correct copy of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit H.) UBSS demanded that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties wire that required amount to UBSS no later than 5:00 pm on December 24, 2008 (i.e., the third business day after the date of the Cash Warehouse Demand Letter) (the “Final Payment Date”). Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed to make the required payment to UBSS.

104. The Synthetic Warehouse Agreement provided that in the event the closing date of the securitization contemplated by the Restructured Transaction failed to occur on or prior to March 14, 2009, the Fund Counterparties would be collectively responsible for 100% of the aggregate amount of losses on the CDS Portfolio and each of the Fund Counterparties would pay, after notice of such amount due from UBS, its pro rata share of such amount to UBS within three business days.

105. On December 19, 2008, UBS AG delivered a letter (the “Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter”) to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties demanding payment for its losses. (A true and correct copy of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter is annexed hereto as Exhibit I.) UBS AG demanded that the Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties wire the required amount to UBS AG no later than 5:00 PM on the Final Payment Date (i.e., December 24, 2008 — the third business day after the date of the Synthetic Warehouse Demand Letter). Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties failed to make the required payment to UBS AG.

G. Notice of Failure To Pay, Auction And Final Accounting Letter

106. On January 5, 2009, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties of the failure to make the requisite payments when due pursuant to the Agreements and the applicable demand letters. On or about January 16, 2009, in connection with unwinding the Warehouse Facility, UBS conducted the auction contemplated by the Warehouse Agreements.

107. On or about March 19, 2009, UBS delivered a letter to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concerning a final accounting concerning the auction and the losses in the Warehouse Facility. UBS determined that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties owed it $686,853,290.26.

H. Highland Capital Renders The Fund Counterparties Judgment-Proof To Avoid Their Obligations To UBS

108. Prior to December 31, 2008, Highland Financial was insolvent. During the fourth quarter of 2008, Highland Financial's book value declined below zero. As a result, each of the limited partners' interests in Highland Financial had no value. Likewise, SOHC was insolvent.

109. In December 2008, immediately after UBS terminated the Restructured Transaction, Dondero and Highland Capital executed a plan to continue to reduce UBS's ability to recover from the Fund Counterparties. Among other things, Dondero and Highland Capital began the process of ensuring that Highland Financial and SOHC were insolvent and unable to meet their obligations to UBS by transferring assets from Highland Financial (and its subsidiaries) to the Affiliated Transferees. Dondero and Highland Capital tried to hide this fraudulent conveyance by tying it to the cancellation of the Fall 2008 Notes.

110. On or about February 24, 2009, UBS commenced the Highland Entity Action against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. At the time, SOHC and Highland Financial, as its alter ego, owed UBS approximately $345 million.

111. Undeterred, on or about March 17, 2009, Dondero and Highland Capital caused SOHC's parent and alter ego, Highland Financial, to transfer virtually all of its (and SOHC's) assets to Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferees, including millions of dollars worth of assets to which they were not entitled (the "March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance"). In particular, on March 17, 2009, Highland Capital caused assets with a purported value of $239 million to be transferred from Highland Financial and its subsidiaries to the Affiliated Transferees, including assets from two Highland Financial subsidiaries that had no obligations to the Affiliated Transferees: Highland Financial Real Estate and CDO HoldCo. (a/k/a HFP Asset Funding I). Among other things, in connection with the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance, Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferees improperly received the following assets from Highland Financial:

- HCF received (a) STRAF-1A (Floating – 11/2021 – D – 86280AAF4), (b) Red River (Floating – 07/2018 – E – 75686XAA8), (c) REIT - HE 1001 West Loop Project LLC and (d) REIT - HE 2425 West Loop, L.P.
- The Crusader Fund received (a) STRAF 2007-1A (Floating – 11/2021 – C – 86280AE7), (b) ROCKW 2007-1A A3L, (c) STRAF 2007-1A (C tranche), (d) Ginn LA Conduit Lender, Inc. (First Lien Tranche A Credit Linked Deposit) and (e) Ginn LA Conduit Lender, Inc. (First Lien Tranche B Term Loan).
- Highland Capital received the following REIT interests: (a) HE Capital KR, LLC, (b) HE Mezz KR, LLC, (c) HCREA Breckenridge, L.P., (d) HCREA Lockhill Retail, L.P., (e) HCREA Nolen Drive, L.P., (f) HCREA Trimarchi, (g) HE Sugar Lend Project, LLC and (h) NBREC Highland Village.

112. As a result, Highland Capital (a) further interfered in bad faith with UBS's contractual rights and the Fund Counterparties' contractual obligations under the Warehouse Agreements, thereby breaching the covenants of good faith and fair dealing inherent in the Warehouse Agreements; and (b) caused the fraudulent conveyance of assets from SOHC's alter ego and parent, Highland Financial, to various other Highland affiliates.

113. At the time of the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance, the assets that Highland Financial transferred to the Affiliated Transferees were worth millions of dollars. Because these assets were fraudulently transferred, they were not available to SOHC, and Highland Financial as SOHC's alter ego, to satisfy their debt to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements. UBS had a legal interest in, and right to the fraudulently transferred assets, as a creditor of SOHC, Highland Financial's alter ego. Consequently, as a direct and proximate cause of the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance, UBS was injured. The full extent of UBS's injury should be determined at trial.

114. The March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance was not an arm's-length transaction or for reasonably equivalent value. Dondero, Highland Capital and Highland Financial knew that transferring those assets to Highland Capital and Affiliated Transferees would be a fraudulent transfer, interfere in bad faith with the Fund Counterparties' ability to meet their obligations to UBS under the Warehouse Agreement and otherwise be improper. For example, at Highland Financial's March 17, 2009 board meeting, in connection with approving the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance, those in attendance discussed how the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance should be considered in light of (a) the Highland Entity Action commenced by UBS against Highland Capital and SOHC, and (b) Highland Financial's active consideration of bankruptcy as an option to deal with its inability to satisfy its obligations to creditors.

(Fraud)

115. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 114 of this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

116. In connection with restructuring the Original Engagement, and negotiating the terms of the Agreements and Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had a duty to communicate accurate and complete information to UBS.

117. As alleged above, in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intentionally misrepresented material facts and made Omissions (as defined earlier herein).

118. As set forth in more detail above, prior to the restructuring being completed, and the Agreements being executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties misrepresented information and made Omissions to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties as well as information about their finances and assets, including, but not limited to, information regarding the following:

- (a) the Fund Counterparties' inability to satisfy the Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations using their own assets;
- (b) the size of CDO Fund's cash position; and
- (c) the material inaccuracy of the summary asset valuations provided by Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties.

119. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties acted knowingly and purposefully in making the materially false representations and Omissions to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction to induce UBS to enter the Agreements. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that their representations and Omissions were materially false and misleading. Knowingly using material misrepresentations and Omissions,

Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intended to induce, and fraudulently induced UBS into entering the Agreements.

120. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also knew that their false representations and Omissions were material to and caused UBS's decision to enter the Agreements. In particular, the misrepresentations and Omissions were both quantitatively and qualitatively material to UBS inasmuch as UBS would have acted differently had it known the truth about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets when UBS made the decision to go forward with the restructuring and releasing, among other things, valuable claims against Highland Capital.

121. UBS was not aware and could not have been aware of the falsity and misleading nature of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions. The facts and information underlying the false, inaccurate and incomplete financial reports that Highland Capital provided to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction were peculiarly within Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' knowledge.

122. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had superior knowledge compared to UBS about Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. Indeed, such facts and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Moreover, it was necessary for Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties to complete or clarify the information that it provided to UBS concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. Consequently, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' concealment of the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets was fraudulent.

123. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions regarding the Fund Counterparties' financial condition and assets. In particular, UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to question the veracity and completeness of the financial information that Highland Capital provided to UBS about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets. UBS also had no reason to believe that the financial information that Highland Capital provided to it to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction would be false, incomplete or otherwise misleading. When UBS evaluated the Fund Counterparties' financial statements in early 2008, it did not know about Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' false asset valuations and methodology nor did UBS know of Highland Capital's plan to enter additional financing arrangements, and to encumber the Fund Counterparties' assets in connection with those transactions, thereby reducing the assets to which UBS could look to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' contractual obligations. UBS also did not know that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided it with false and misleading information, or that they had concealed material information from UBS about the Fund Counterparties' finances and assets.

124. But for Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS would not have entered the Agreements, or released its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

125. In reasonable and justifiable reliance on the foregoing material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS also surrendered and released valuable claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties at a time when UBS could have been made whole for the losses that it had suffered to that point as a result of the Original Engagement. Nor would UBS have suffered the additional losses in the Warehouse Facility.

126. UBS reasonably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions. As a direct and proximate result of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS continued to maintain the Warehouse Facility through, at least, December 3, 2008, suffering in excess of $686 million in losses that the Fund Counterparties cannot pay to UBS.

127. Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions were the direct and proximate cause of UBS's losses complained of herein. As a direct result of, and in reliance upon, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS was induced to, among other things, (a) enter the Agreements; (b) release its pre-existing claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties related to the Original Engagement; and (c) assume the credit-risk of the Fund Counterparties; and as a direct result, caused UBS to incur substantial losses and damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

(Fraud)
(Pled Solely To Preserve For Appeal)

128. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 127 of this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

129. In connection with restructuring the Original Engagement, and negotiating the terms of the Agreements and Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had a duty to communicate accurate and complete information to UBS.

130. As alleged above, in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intentionally misrepresented material facts and made Omissions (as defined earlier herein).

131. As set forth in more detail above, prior to the restructuring being completed, and the Agreements being executed, Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties misrepresented information and made Omissions to UBS concerning the creditworthiness of the Fund Counterparties and information about their finances, assets and business practices, including, but not limited to, information regarding the following:

- (a) the Fund Counterparties having pledged and encumbered a substantial portion of its assets prior to entering the Agreements;
- (b) CDO Fund's having pledged and encumbered a substantial portion of its assets prior to entering the Agreements;
- (c) Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' plan to encumber more of the Fund Counterparties' assets, including immediately after March 14, 2008;
- (d) the commingling of assets between and among the various entities related to Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties;
- (e) the practice of shuttling assets between the Fund Counterparties and their affiliates to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' day-to-day expenses, liquidity and financial statement needs;
- (f) Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' disregard for the corporate form in managing the Fund Counterparties' assets; and
- (g) SOHC's liquidity problems, and need to borrow money from Highland Capital to satisfy its Initial Restructuring Collateral obligations.

132. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties acted knowingly and purposefully in making the materially false representations and Omissions to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction to induce UBS to enter the Agreements. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties knew that their representations and Omissions were materially false and misleading. Knowingly using material misrepresentations and Omissions,

Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties intended to induce, and fraudulently induced UBS into entering the Agreements.

133. These Omissions rendered the Fund Counterparties' representations, statements and financial statements materially misleading. Because Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties concealed this information from UBS, UBS could not properly evaluate SOHC's ability to satisfy its obligations to UBS. For instance, UBS received financial reports from Highland Capital for the Fund Counterparties that suggested that the Fund Counterparties held hundreds of millions of dollars worth of assets that could be used to satisfy their obligations to UBS. However, a substantial portion of the assets that UBS reasonably believed would be available, were, in fact, not going to be available to pay UBS because they were going to be encumbered as a result of other transactions. In other words, because Highland Capital concealed its intentions, the financial reports that it provided to UBS were misleading as they provided UBS with false and illusory comfort regarding the Fund Counterparties' capacity to fulfill their contractual obligations to UBS. As the Fund Counterparties' investment manager, Highland Capital would have led the negotiations related to the other financing arrangements.

134. Similarly, during negotiations concerning the Initial Restructuring Collateral, Highland Capital and SOHC made an additional Omission by not disclosing to UBS the fact that SOHC had a serious liquidity problem. SOHC had to borrow cash from Highland Capital to satisfy the cash portion of its Initial Restructuring Collateral obligation. On or about December 18, 2007, while the parties were negotiating the restructuring, Highland Capital loaned $30 million to SOHC, which Highland Capital and SOHC's alter ego, Highland Financial, earmarked for SOHC to use as collateral in connection with negotiating extensions of warehouse facilities, including the one with UBS. As Highland Financial's and SOHC's investment manager, Highland Capital knew about SOHC's liquidity problems since they were discussed openly at Highland Financial board meetings attended by Highland Capital. The failure to fully disclose SOHC's liquidity problem, and its inability to meet the Initial Restructuring Collateral obligation using its own cash assets was an Omission, because it was indicative of the strength of SOHC's finances and assets, and SOHC's ability to satisfy obligations to UBS.

135. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also concealed from UBS that Highland Capital had to commingle assets among its various affiliates and disregard corporate formalities to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' liquidity needs. Facts and information concerning these business practices, including Highland Capital's commingling of assets and disregard of corporate formalities was information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and its affiliates. As the investment manager to Highland Financial, SOHC and CDO Fund (as well as the Affiliated Transferees), Highland Capital knowingly arranged and caused the asset transfers between and among the various affiliates in disregard of corporate formalities.

136. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties also knew that their false representations and Omissions were material to and caused UBS's decision to enter the Agreements. In particular, the misrepresentations and Omissions were both quantitatively and qualitatively material to UBS inasmuch as UBS would have acted differently had it known the truth about the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices when UBS made the decision to go forward with the restructuring and releasing, among other things, valuable claims against Highland Capital.

137. In addition, if UBS had known that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties ignored corporate formalities or that Highland Capital freely transferred assets among its controlled entities, UBS would not have entered the Restructured Transaction. These misrepresentations and Omissions proximately caused harm to UBS.

138. UBS was not aware and could not have been aware of the falsity and misleading nature of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions. The facts and information underlying the false, inaccurate and incomplete financial reports that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to UBS in connection with negotiating the Restructured Transaction were peculiarly within Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' knowledge.

139. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties had superior knowledge compared to UBS about Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices. Indeed, such facts and information were solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Moreover, it was necessary for Highland Capital and the Highland Entities to complete or clarify the information that it provided to UBS concerning the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices. Consequently, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' concealment about the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices was fraudulent.

140. UBS reasonably and justifiably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions regarding the Fund Counterparties' financial condition, assets and business practices. In particular, UBS reasonably and justifiably relied on misrepresentations and Omissions of facts and information solely and peculiarly within the knowledge of Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties. Given UBS's prior dealings with Highland Capital and its affiliates, as well as Highland Capital's size and presence in the market, UBS had no reason to question the veracity and completeness of the financial information that Highland Capital provided to UBS about the Fund Counterparties' finances, assets and business practices. UBS also had no reason to believe that the financial information that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided to it to induce UBS to enter the Restructured Transaction would be false, incomplete or otherwise misleading. When UBS evaluated the Fund Counterparties' financial statements in early 2008, it did not know of Highland Capital's plan to enter additional financing arrangements, and to encumber the Fund Counterparties' assets in connection with those transactions, thereby reducing the assets to which UBS could look to satisfy the Fund Counterparties' contractual obligations. Nor did UBS know about Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' false asset valuations and methodology. UBS also did not know that Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties provided it with false and misleading information, or that they had concealed material information from UBS about the Fund Counterparties' assets, finances and business practices.

141. But for Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS would not have entered the Agreements, or released its claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties arising out of the Original Engagement.

142. In reasonable and justifiable reliance on the foregoing material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS also surrendered and released valuable claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties at a time when UBS could have been made whole for the losses that it had suffered to that point as a result of the Original Engagement. Nor would UBS have suffered the additional losses in the Warehouse Facility.

143. UBS reasonably relied to its detriment on Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions. As a direct and proximate result of Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS

continued to maintain the Warehouse Facility through, at least, December 3, 2008, suffering in excess of $686 million in losses that the Fund Counterparties cannot pay to UBS.

144. Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions were the direct and proximate cause of UBS's losses complained of herein. As a direct result of, and in reliance upon, Highland Capital's and the Fund Counterparties' material misrepresentations and Omissions, UBS was induced to, among other things, (a) enter the Agreements; (b) release its pre-existing claims against Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties related to the Original Engagement; and (c) assume the credit-risk of the Fund Counterparties; and as a direct result, caused UBS to incur substantial losses and damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

145. Paragraphs 145 to 156 have been intentionally left blank.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing)

157. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 156 of this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

158. The Agreements are valid and binding contracts. As such, they each contain an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing. UBS has fully performed all of its obligations under the Agreements.

159. Highland Capital controlled the Fund Counterparties through both its direct and indirect ownership and other interests in various entities, including the Fund Counterparties, and its role as investment manager for the Fund Counterparties.

160. When it entered the Agreements, Highland Capital agreed that UBS would not have to bear the risk of loss in connection with the Warehouse Assets that UBS held in the Warehouse Facility. Instead, Highland Capital agreed that the Fund Counterparties, which Highland Capital controlled, would bear 100% of the risk of loss in connection with the Restructured Transaction.

161. Highland Capital had an implied duty of good faith not to take (or fail to take) any actions that would frustrate the clear intent of the parties that UBS would not have to bear any of the risk of losses in the Warehouse Facility. In particular, the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing inherent in the Agreements barred Highland Capital from taking affirmative measures that increased the likelihood that the Fund Counterparties would be unable to bear losses in connection with the Restructured Transaction.

162. Highland Capital breached the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing implied in the Agreements by taking affirmative actions (and refraining from taking other actions) that impaired UBS's ability to recover losses from the Fund Counterparties as contemplated by the Agreements, and by making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to pay UBS what they owed it under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements.

163. Specifically, as described above, between March 14, 2008 and December 3, 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility grew, Highland Capital exercised its control over the Fund Counterparties to dissipate the Fund Counterparties' assets and transfer their assets to other Highland affiliates, principals and creditors, thereby impairing the Fund Counterparties' ability to bear losses in the Warehouse Facility. Highland Capital transferred assets out of the Fund Counterparties during the course of the Restructured Transaction in bad faith, and to UBS's detriment. Given its knowledge of the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS, the transfers caused by Highland Capital violated the duty of good faith and fair dealing owed by Highland Capital to UBS under the Agreements.

164. Highland Capital also granted security interests in certain of the Fund Counterparties' assets to third parties during the course of the Restructured Transaction. By encumbering the Fund Counterparties' assets, Highland Capital impaired the Fund Counterparties' ability to make UBS whole for losses. Given their knowledge of the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS, the encumbrances that Highland Capital caused violated the duty of good faith and fair dealing owed by Highland Capital to UBS under the Agreements.

165. Highland Capital also used its control over the Fund Counterparties to give preferred treatment to other creditors, all to UBS's detriment. Highland Capital also caused the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance, which transferred assets to which UBS was entitled to the Affiliated Transferees and Highland Capital.

166. As a result of Highland Capital's breaches of the duty of good faith and fair dealing implied in the Agreements, UBS has incurred losses that should have been borne by the Fund Counterparties. UBS has suffered and will continue to suffer losses and damages in an amount to be determined at trial.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Fraudulent Conveyances)

167. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 166 of this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

168. Between March 14, 2008 and December 3, 2008, as losses in the Warehouse Facility grew, Highland Capital exercised its control over the Fund Counterparties and caused the Fund Counterparties to transfer valuable cash and assets out of the Fund Counterparties, thereby impairing their ability to bear losses in the Warehouse Facility, and otherwise satisfy their obligations to creditors, including UBS. In the Fall of 2008 and in March 2009, Highland Capital also caused Highland Financial to engage in asset transfers intended to hinder, delay and defraud UBS.

169. The asset transfers that Highland Capital and Highland Financial caused to be made from SOHC were intended to defraud UBS as they were intended to defeat SOHC's obligations to UBS as evidenced by, among other things, the fact that (a) the transfers were made to insider affiliates, (b) the transfers were made when SOHC was insolvent or became insolvent shortly thereafter, (c) the transfers were made by commingling corporate assets of various Highland Financial affiliates, and otherwise in disregard of various corporate formalities and/or (d) the transfers occurred shortly after a substantial debt was incurred by SOHC. The asset transfers from SOHC also were made for no valuable consideration and less than reasonably equivalent value.

170. For example, as alleged above, in the Fall of 2008, SOHC made payments to Barclays at a time when it was insolvent (or shortly before it became insolvent), and without regard for UBS's rights as a creditor of SOHC. In connection with making those payments to Barclays, Highland Capital caused Highland Financial to disregard corporate formalities and commingle assets between its subsidiaries, including SOHC so that SOHC could pay Barclays, and Highland Capital could avoid any consequences of a default to Barclays. In doing so, however, Highland Capital and SOHC intended to defeat an obligation owed to UBS. In addition, during the course of the Restructured Transaction, Highland Capital caused SOHC to make a number of upstream dividend payments to Highland Financial in exchange for no consideration or no fair consideration to SOHC, or consideration that had significantly less value than the dividend payments. These payments were made shortly after SOHC incurred its substantial debt to UBS.

171. The asset transfers that Highland Capital caused to be made from CDO Fund were made with the intention to defraud UBS as the dominant purpose of the assets transfers from CDO Fund was to put CDO Fund's property and assets beyond the reach of UBS.

In particular, Highland Capital's and CDO Fund's intention to place property and assets beyond the reach of UBS is evidenced by, among other things, the fact that (a) the transfers were made to insider affiliates, (b) CDO Fund, through Highland Capital, retained control over the assets transferred after the transfer, (c) Highland Capital concealed details concerning the transfers from UBS, (d) the transfer involved substantially all of CDO Fund's valuable assets, (e) at the time of the transfers, CDO Fund was insolvent or became insolvent shortly thereafter, (f) the transfer occurred shortly after a substantial debt was incurred by CDO Fund and (g) CDO Fund transferred assets to an intermediary who subsequently transferred the assets to an insider affiliate. The asset transfers from CDO Fund also were made for no valuable consideration, or consideration that was less than reasonably equivalent value.

172. At the time of the asset transfers from CDO Fund, it was reasonably foreseeable to CDO Fund and Highland Capital that CDO Fund was going to owe UBS substantial sums of money well in excess of $100 million. It also was reasonable for Highland Capital and CDO Fund to believe that after the CDO Fund transfers, CDO Fund would be unable to pay its liabilities as they came due. At the time of CDO Fund's fraudulent conveyances, CDO Fund owed a contingent liability to UBS, and since the time of the transfers, the contingency giving rise to the obligation has occurred, and that obligation remains unsatisfied. CDO Fund's obligations to UBS came due within two years of the fraudulent conveyances complained of herein, and as of this time, remain unsatisfied.

173. For example, in or around May 2008, Highland Capital caused CDO Fund to transfer out of CDO Fund approximately $100 million that CDO Fund received after it monetized its long position in SunCom Wireless. CDO Fund did not use the proceeds from the SunCom Wireless sale to purchase valuable assets or pay debts to creditors in the ordinary course of business as debts came due. Rather, Highland Capital caused a substantial portion of the proceeds to be distributed to CDO Fund's partners, including Highland Capital, its affiliates and principals, in exchange for no consideration or no fair consideration to CDO Fund, or consideration that had significantly less value than the $100 million that was transferred. Highland Capital concealed the details concerning this fraudulent conveyance from UBS.

174. Highland Capital also caused CDO Fund to participate in the Fall 2008 Note Offerings. In particular, at a time when CDO Fund was insolvent or would soon become insolvent, Highland Capital caused CDO Fund to transfer substantially all of its unencumbered assets to Highland Financial in exchange for the September 2008 Notes. Highland Capital subsequently caused CDO Fund to transfer the September 2008 Notes to Citi in exchange for no fair consideration to CDO Fund. This constituted a voidable preference under the applicable law as CDO Fund was insolvent (or contemplating insolvency) at the time and owed UBS in excess of $200 million. Finally, in March 2009, after UBS brought the Highland Entity Action against CDO Fund, the assets that Highland Capital caused CDO Fund to transfer to Highland Financial were transferred again, this time to the Affiliated Transferees and Citi as part of the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance.

175. The asset transfers that Highland Capital caused to be made from Highland Financial were made with actual intent to hinder, delay and defraud UBS as a creditor of Highland Financial's alter ego, SOHC. In particular, Highland Capital's and Highland Financial's actual intent to hinder, delay and defraud UBS is evidenced by, among other things, the fact that (a) the transfers were made to insider affiliates, including to Highland Capital, (b) Highland Capital retained control over the assets transferred, (c) before the transfer, SOHC had been sued and threatened with suit, (d) the transfer involved substantially all of Highland Financial's assets, (e) Highland Financial was insolvent at the time of the transfer or became insolvent shortly afterwards, and/or (f) the transfer occurred at or around the time SOHC's contingent obligation to UBS became enforceable.

176. The asset transfers that Highland Capital caused to be made from Highland Financial also were made without Highland Financial receiving reasonably equivalent value in exchange for the transfer. At the time of the transfers, Highland Financial's remaining assets were unreasonably small in relation to its business. At the time of the transfers, Highland Capital and Highland Financial's board of directors knew or reasonably should have believed that Highland Financial would not be able to pay its debts, including the debts of its alter egos, when they came due.

177. For example, in the Fall of 2008, Highland Capital caused Highland Financial to become indebted to the Affiliated Transferees by entering the Fall 2008 Note Offerings. In connection with the Fall 2008 Note Offerings, Highland Financial improperly conveyed a security interest in the equity of two of its affiliates to the Affiliated Transferees to UBS's detriment. Highland Financial did not receive reasonably equivalent value in exchange for granting that security interest to the Affiliated Transferees. Moreover, when Highland Financial issued the Fall 2008 Notes, Highland Capital and Highland Financial knew or should have known that Highland Financial was incurring a debt beyond Highland Financial's ability to pay when it came due, especially given Highland Financial's existing debts to UBS at the time.

178. In March 2009, after the Highland Entity Action was commenced by UBS, Highland Capital caused SOHC's alter ego, Highland Financial to engage in the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance, whereby Highland Financial fraudulently transferred assets to the Affiliated Transferees, as well as Highland Capital and a CDO Fund creditor (other than UBS). At the time of the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance, Highland Capital and the Highland Entities knew that SOHC and its alter ego, Highland Financial, were insolvent. Highland Capital and the Highland Entities also knew that SOHC and its alter ego, Highland Financial, owed UBS approximately $350 million. Nevertheless, they caused almost all of Highland Financial's remaining valuable assets to be transferred to Highland Capital and its affiliates, thereby preventing UBS from being able to recover against Highland Financial or SOHC.

179. As a result of the foregoing fraudulent conveyances, the Fund Counterparties were unable to satisfy their obligations to UBS. As a result of the foregoing fraudulent conveyances, UBS has been harmed in an amount to be determined at trial.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION
(Tortious Interference With Contractual Relations)
(Pled Solely To Preserve For Appeal)

180. UBS repeats and realleges the allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 179 of this Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

181. The Agreements are valid and binding contracts.

182. The parties agreed that UBS would not bear the risk of any losses in connection with the Restructured Transaction. As a direct result of the Fund Counterparties' breach of the Warehouse Agreements, UBS suffered no less than $686,853,290.26 in damages. Under the terms of the Warehouse Agreements, the Fund Counterparties' obligation to pay UBS for losses in the Warehouse Facility expressly survived the termination of the Agreements.

183. Highland Capital knew of the Agreements, and were familiar with their terms, including the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS thereunder. The Affiliated Transferee Defendants, also knew of the Agreements, and their terms, including the Fund Counterparties' obligations to UBS thereunder.

184. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants intentionally and improperly caused and ensured a breach of the Warehouse Agreements by the Fund Counterparties, thereby tortiously interfering with UBS's rights under the Agreements.

185. Specifically, in 2008 and 2009 Highland Capital wrongfully caused the improper and fraudulent asset transfers, payments, distributions and dividends described above, and thereby tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual relationship with the Fund Counterparties by knowingly impairing UBS's contractual right under the Warehouse Agreements to be reimbursed by the Fund Counterparties for the losses on the Warehouse Assets. For example, Highland Capital wrongfully caused the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance for which there was no legitimate purpose. The Affiliated Transferee Defendants knowingly participated in Highland Capital's tortious interference with UBS's rights under the Agreements.

186. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants conceived of, advocated for, implemented, authorized, approved and engaged in the foregoing improper conduct and unlawful asset transfers, including the Fall 2008 Note Offerings and the March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyances, which constitute independent torts.

187. Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants engaged in the foregoing unlawful and improper conduct, and tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual rights under the Warehouse Agreements, for their own improper personal gain by knowingly violating UBS's rights and making it impossible for the Fund Counterparties to perform under the Warehouse Agreements. In particular, the foregoing conduct constitutes independent torts and predatory acts directed at UBS for Highland Capital's and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants' own personal gain.

188. As a direct and proximate result of Highland Capital's and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants' tortious interference with UBS's contractual rights under the Agreements, UBS has suffered damages in an amount to be determined at trial. Had Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee Defendants not tortiously interfered with UBS's contractual rights, the Fund Counterparties would have been able to make payments to UBS of the amount they owed to UBS under the Warehouse Agreements.

189. Paragraphs 189 to 197 have been intentionally left blank.

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs UBSS and UBS AG demand judgment:

(a) On the first cause of action, declaring that UBS was induced to enter the Agreements as a result of fraud committed by Highland Capital, and awarding damages to UBS for all losses and liabilities incurred by UBS, and that UBS incurs, with respect to the Agreements and the Warehouse Facility, including, without limitation, interest, reasonable attorneys' and accountants' fees and expenses and any other losses, fees and expenses that UBS incurred or incurs, in an amount to be determined at trial but in any event, no less than $686,853,290.26;

(b) On the second cause of action, which is pled solely to preserve UBS's appellate rights, declaring that UBS was induced to enter the Agreements as a result of fraud committed by Highland Capital, and awarding damages to UBS for all losses and liabilities incurred by UBS, and that UBS incurs, with respect to the Agreements and the Warehouse Facility, including, without limitation, interest, reasonable attorneys' and accountants' fees and expenses and any other losses, fees and expenses that UBS incurred or incurs, in an amount to be determined at trial but in any event, no less than $686,853,290.26;

(c) On the third cause of action, declaring that Highland Capital breached the duty of good faith and fair dealing implied in the Agreements, and awarding UBS an amount to be determined at trial;

(d) On the fourth cause of action, (i) declaring that the dispositions of the Fund Counterparties' and Highland Financial's assets, as directed by Highland Capital, constituted fraudulent conveyances; (ii) appointing a receiver over Highland Capital; (iii) directing that a full accounting be had of Highland Capital's affairs and finances; (iv) imposing a constructive trust over Highland Capital's assets until such an accounting is completed; and/or (v) awarding UBS damages in an amount to be determined at trial, but no less than the value of the assets fraudulently and improperly transferred, or, alternatively, directing that Highland Capital and its partners, members or shareholders return to the Fund Counterparties any assets or consideration received from Highland Financial or the Fund Counterparties, directly or indirectly, as distributions, dividends, consideration, compensation, fees, interest, principal or otherwise, between March 14, 2008 and the present.

(e) On the fifth cause of action, which is pled solely to preserve UBS's appellate rights, declaring that Highland Capital is liable for tortiously interfering with UBS's contractual rights under the Warehouse Agreements, and awarding UBS an amount to be determined at trial;

(f) Awarding UBS punitive damages in an amount to be determined at trial;

(g) Granting UBS its costs and disbursements, including reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses of this action;

(h) Granting UBS pre-judgment interest; and

(i) Granting such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

FRIEDMAN, J:

This action arises out of a failed restructured transaction for securitization of collateralized loan obligations (CLOs) and credit default swaps (CDSs). Plaintiffs UBS Securities LLC (UBSS) and UBS AG, London Branch (UBS AG) (together, UBS) seek damages of $686 million in investment losses from the following affiliated defendants: Highland Capital Management, L.P. (Highland Capital); Highland Financial Partners, L.P. (Highland Financial); Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (SOHC); Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (CDO Fund); Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P. (Credit Strategies), Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (Crusader Fund), Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (Credit Opp Fund); and Strand Advisors, Inc. (Strand).¹

The second amended complaint (complaint) asserts causes of action for fraud against the Fund Counterparties (first and second causes of action), breach of contract against the Fund

¹ SOHC and CDO Fund are referred to as the Fund Counterparties. Credit Strategies, Crusader Fund, and Credit Opp Fund are referred to as the Affiliated Transferee defendants.

Counterparties (third and fourth causes of action), fraudulent conveyance against all defendants (fifth cause of action), tortious interference with contractual relations against the Affiliated Transferee defendants (sixth cause of action), declaratory judgment for general partner liability against Strand (seventh cause of action), and declaratory judgment for alter ego liability against Highland Financial (eighth cause of action).²

The instant action was consolidated with another action commenced by UBS only against Highland Capital. (UBS Secs. LLC v Highland Capital Mgt. L.P., Sup Ct, NY County, Nov. 1, 2010, Fried, J., index No. 650752/10.) The complaint in that action asserts causes of action against Highland Capital for fraud (first and second causes of action), breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing (third cause of action), fraudulent conveyance (fourth cause of action), and tortious interference with contractual relations (fifth cause of action).

Highland Capital, Highland Financial, Strand, and the Affiliated Transferee defendants move for summary judgment dismissing all causes of action against them. By separate motion, the Fund Counterparties seek summary judgment dismissing all causes of action against them.³

Factual Background

It is undisputed that the transaction at issue (Transaction), known as the Knox Warehouse, called for UBS to finance the purchase of CLOs and related CDSs and to hold them as “warehouse assets” for the benefit of Highland Capital, which was to sponsor the securitization. (Compl., ¶¶ 4, 35.) As pleaded in the complaint, Highland Capital was the investment manager of Highland Financial, and these two entities allegedly owned and/or controlled the Fund Counterparties and the Affiliated Transferee defendants. (Id., ¶¶ 22, 25.) Strand was Highland Capital’s general partner. (Id., ¶ 23.) Nonparty James Dondero was the president, founder, and owner of Highland Capital, and allegedly controlled all of the Highland entities through Highland Capital. (Id., ¶¶ 22, 25.)

² The second and sixth causes of action are purportedly pleaded solely to preserve them for appeal.

The Cash and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements

The parties’ dispute arises out of the following three agreements, all of which are dated as of March 14, 2008: an Engagement Letter, entered into between UBSS and Highland Capital (Corcoran Aff., Ex. 13); a “Synthetic Warehouse Agreement,” entered into among UBS AG, the Fund Counterparties, and Highland Capital (Corcoran Aff., Ex. 14); and a “Cash Warehouse Agreement,” entered into among UBSS, the Fund Counterparties, and Highland Capital (Corcoran Aff., Ex. 15). In the Engagement Letter, UBSS agreed to act “as the financial arranger and placement agent in connection with a proposed collateralized debt obligations transaction with an anticipated aggregate issuance size of approximately U.S.$818 million in securities . . . (the ‘Transaction’).” The Transaction contemplated the “formation and capitalization of a special purpose vehicle or vehicles (collectively, the ‘Issuer’) . . . that will acquire an investment portfolio” comprised of CLOs and CDSs that reference CLOs, to be managed by Highland Capital as “Servicer.” (Id., § 1, 3 [a].) In the Engagement Letter, UBSS and Highland Capital “agree[d] that the CDO Fund and SOHC will in aggregate bear 100% of the risk of the Warehouse Facility in accordance with their respective Allocation Percentages (as defined in the Warehouse Documents) and otherwise in accordance with the terms of the Warehouse Documents” (Id., § 3 [c].)

Section 5 (B) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement opens with the clause “On the Closing Date:” and provides, among other things, for compensation to UBS by the Fund Counterparties for CDS Losses. Subsection 5 (B) (2) provides that “[a]n amount equal to the excess, if any,” of CDS Losses over CDS Gains

“shall collectively be paid by each of the CDO Fund and SOHC after notice from UBS of the amount due, by wire transfer in immediately available funds (i) on the Termination Date in the case of a Termination Date occurring on (a) March 14, 2009, (b) March 14, 2010 or (c) the Closing Date or (ii) three Business Days after the Termination Date in the case of any other Termination Date. Such CDS Loss shall be allocated among the CDO Fund and SOHC on the basis of their respective Allocation Percentages.”

Section 5 (B) (2) defines CDS Losses as follows:

“(x) the sum of (1) the aggregate Floating Amount payments and Physical Settlement Amount payments made by UBS with respect to all of the Credit Default Swaps as to which a Floating Amount Event or a Credit Event occurred under the terms thereof, plus (2) the aggregate amount of Net Hedging Payments made by UBS with respect to all Hedging Transactions related to the Credit Default Swaps, plus (3) the aggregate Replacement Losses determined with respect to all of the Credit Default Swaps and the related Hedging Transactions that were terminated or novated or as to which the exposure was retained by UBS, in each case upon the designation of the Reference Obligation relating to such Credit Default Swap as an Ineligible Security (such amount in this clause (x), the ‘CDS Losses’)”

(emphasis in original.) Ineligible Security is defined as: “any Reference Obligation in the CDS Portfolio which has become ineligible for sale to the Issuer on the Closing Date as a result of the failure of such Reference Obligation to conform to the Eligibility Criteria as it exists at such time of determination. . . .” (Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, Ex. A-2.) This definition further states: “Each of the following is an ‘Ineligible Security’: a Defaulted Security, a Designated Security and a Written Down Security.” (Id.) Closing Date is defined as “the date of the closing of the Transaction and the issuance of the CDO Securities.” (Id., Ex. A-1.)

Section 5 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement further provides: “To the extent the Closing Date fails to occur, allocation of CDS Losses, CDS Gains and any other amounts payable hereunder will be determined in accordance with the provisions of Section 6 hereof.”

Section 6 (C), in turn, provides:

“To the extent there are any CDS Losses, the CDO Fund and SOHC shall collectively be responsible for 100% of any such CDS Losses. Such CDS Losses shall be allocated between the CDO Fund and SOHC on the basis of their respective Allocation Percentages. Each of the CDO Fund and SOHC shall, after notice of the amount due from UBS, remit such amounts by wire transfer in immediately available funds to UBS within three Business Days after the Termination Date.”

The Cash Warehouse Agreement, section 5 (A), provides that, in the event that “the Closing Date fails to occur on or prior to the Termination Date, . . . UBS shall be authorized (but not required) to sell each Collateral Obligation then in the Warehouse Account in accordance with the Liquidation Procedures.” This section further provides: “Following the completion of such liquidation of the Collateral Obligations, any Aggregate Collateral Loss shall be allocated to the CDO Fund and to SOHC on the basis of their respective Allocation Percentages” and shall be paid to UBS.

UBS Margin Calls and Termination of Agreements

Section 12 (C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement required the Fund Counterparties to transfer an additional deposit of $10 million in cash or eligible securities into a “Deposit Account” in the event that the “Deposit Threshold Exposure Amount is greater than or equal to U.S. $100,000,000.” On September 16, 2008, UBS made a “margin call” under section 12 (C) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, demanding additional collateral of $10 million from each of the Fund Counterparties. (Compl., ¶ 77.) The Fund Counterparties satisfied this margin call on September 19, 2008. (Id., ¶ 79.) On October 21, 2008 UBS made a second margin call under section 12 (C) of the Synthetic Warehouse agreement, which the Fund Counterparties satisfied on October 24 by posting assets with a notional value of $49.97 million. (Id., ¶¶ 90, 91.) On November 7, 2008, UBS made a third margin call. Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties allegedly offered to post various securities to satisfy this margin call. (Id., ¶ 94-95.) On November 13, UBS rejected the securities and requested cash or cash equivalent collateral. (Id., ¶ 96.)

On December 3, 2008, UBS terminated the parties' agreements based on the Fund Counterparties' failure to post the requested collateral. (Id., ¶¶ 99-100.) Shortly thereafter, UBS demanded payment for its losses under the Cash and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements. (Id., ¶¶ 103, 105.) On January 5, 2009, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties of the failure to pay UBS's losses, and commenced unwinding the warehouse facility. (Id., ¶ 106.) On January 16, 2009, UBS conducted an auction of the warehoused assets, as contemplated under the parties' agreements, and on March 19, 2009, UBS notified Highland Capital and the Fund Counterparties of UBS's final accounting, and asserted that these entities owed UBS $686,853,290.26. (Id., ¶¶ 106-107.)⁴

⁴ The parties' claims and the procedural history of this action and two related actions are further discussed in several previous decisions of the Appellate Division and of this court, familiarity with which is presumed. (See UBS Secs. LLC v Highland Capital Mgt., L.P., 93 AD3d 489 [1st Dept 2012]; 86 AD3d 469 [1st Dept 2011]; 70 AD3d 526 [1st Dept 2010]; 42 Misc 3d 580 [Sup Ct, NY County 2013]; 30 Misc 3d 1230 [A], 2011 NY Slip Op 50297 [U] [Sup Ct, NY County 2011]; 25 Misc 3d 1243 [A], 2009 NY Slip Op 52565 [U] [Sup Ct, NY County 2009].) To the extent that additional facts are necessary to resolve the instant motions, they are discussed in the legal analysis that follows.

I. SOHC and CDO Fund's Summary Judgment Motion (mot seq 027)

The Fund Counterparties seek summary judgment dismissing all of the causes of action of the complaint, on four principal grounds: UBS cannot show that it suffered any damages. UBS committed prior material breaches of the parties' Agreements that excused the Fund Counterparties' performance. UBS did not justifiably rely on any misrepresentation that would support its fraud claim. UBS's claim against them as fraudulent transferors must be dismissed because New York does not recognize such a claim.

Limitation of Liability and UBS's Damages

The Fund Counterparties argue that UBS suffered no damages with respect to the Credit Default Swaps, which accounted for most of the warehoused assets. This argument is based upon defendants' interpretation of "CDS Losses," as defined in section 5 (B) (2) (x) of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement. In particular, defendants argue that this definition "largely limited compensation [with respect to Credit Default Swaps] to realized losses"; that "an unrealized loss could become a 'CDS Loss' only 'upon the designation of the Reference Obligation relating to such Credit Default Swap as an Ineligible Security"; and that UBS's failure to designate any such Obligation as an Ineligible Security precludes it from recovering damages. (Fund Counterparties' Memo. In Supp. at 12-13.)

It is well settled that "agreements are construed in accord with the parties' intent," and a "written agreement that is complete, clear and unambiguous on its face must be enforced according to the plain meaning of its terms." (Greenfield v Philles Records, 98 NY2d 562, 569 [2002].) The court's "aim is a practical interpretation of the expressions of the parties to the end that there be a 'realization of [their] reasonable expectations.'" (Brown Bros. Elec. Contrs.,

Inc. v Beam Constr. Corp., 41 NY2d 397, 400 [1977] [internal citation omitted]; Matter of Lipper Holdings, LLC v Trident Holdings, LLC, 1 AD3d 170, 171 [1st Dept 2003] [a “contract should not be interpreted to produce a result that is absurd, commercially unreasonable or contrary to the reasonable expectations of the parties” [internal citations omitted].) “A contract is unambiguous if the language it uses has ‘a definite and precise meaning, unattended by danger of misconception in the purport of the [agreement] itself, and concerning which there is no reasonable basis for a difference of opinion.’” (Greenfield, 98 NY2d at 569 [internal citation omitted].) It is further settled that “[e]xtrinsic evidence of the parties’ intent may be considered only if the agreement is ambiguous, which is an issue of law for the courts to decide.” (Id.)

It is undisputed that the Warehouse Agreements were terminated prior to securitization and therefore prior to a Closing Date. As provided in section 5 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement (quoted supra at 5), section 6 governs the determination of CDS Losses in the event a closing fails to occur. Thus, the issue is whether any CDS Losses arose under section 6.

The definition of CDS Losses specifies three separate components of such Losses: (1) “aggregate Floating Amount payments and Physical Settlement Amount payments made by UBS”; (2) “aggregate amount of Net Hedging Payments made by UBS”; and (3) “aggregate Replacement Losses.” (Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, § 5 [B] [2] [x] [quoted in full, supra at 4.]) The requirement that a Reference Obligation be designated an Ineligible Security is set forth in the last clause of subdivision (3) of the definition of CDS Losses. Subdivision (3) concerns the Replacement Losses component of CDS Losses. The inclusion of the Ineligible Security designation requirement in subdivision (3) unambiguously requires compliance with that requirement in order to claim Replacement Losses, as a component of CDS Losses, under section 5 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

As attested by Phillip Braner, Managing Director of Structured Products for Highland Capital and previous Chief Operating Officer of Highland Financial, “[t]he UBS-affiliated entities . . . did not designate any of the credit default swaps held in the synthetic warehouse as ineligible securities.” (Braner Aff., ¶¶ 1-2.) The Fund Counterparties contend that UBS is therefore barred from claiming Replacement Losses under section 6 of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement. In support of this contention, they claim that CDS Losses are calculated in the same manner under both sections 5 and 6, because section 6 uses the defined term CDS Losses from section 5.

In arguing that UBS did not sustain any damages, however, the Fund Counterparties do not claim merely that UBS failed to designate Ineligible Securities pursuant to section 5 (B) (2) (x). Rather, they argue that the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement “expressly limited damages to realized losses” and that “[t]he designation of such securities as ‘Ineligible’ in order to recover unrealized market losses, is clearly required by the definition of ‘CDS Losses.’” (Fund Counterparties’ Memo. In Supp. at 4, 13.)⁵

The definition of CDS Losses does not by its terms distinguish between realized and unrealized losses and, indeed, does not use those terms. Although the Fund Counterparties

The Fund Counterparties also argue that while the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement made them liable only for “actual, realized losses on documented CDS assets” (Fund Counterparties’ Memo. In Supp. at 6), they were liable for “market losses on cash assets” under the Cash Warehouse Agreement. (Id. at 6, 15.)

assert that the terms of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement are unambiguous (Fund Counterparties' Reply Memo. at 3), they resort to parol evidence from their expert to support their claim that, under the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, in order for unrealized losses to be included within the definition of CDS Losses, UBS must designate Ineligible Securities. (Corcoron Aff., Exs. 39, 39-A [Aff. of Adam Warren, ¶ 5; Warren Expert Report at 15].)

In response, UBS does not dispute that it did not designate Ineligible Securities. Rather, it argues that "securities can only be designated 'Ineligible' if and when the Knox Warehouse is securitized and sold to the market on a Closing Date." (UBS Memo. In Opp. at 8.) UBS asserts that where, as here, the Agreement was terminated prior to securitization, the Ineligible designation "could not have been required for UBS to recover losses because UBS could not have done so [i.e., could not have made the Ineligible designation] under the clear contractual terms." (Id. [emphasis in original].) According to UBS, "[t]his is why the contract expressly distinguishes the calculation of CDS Losses upon securitization and Closing (in which case Ineligible Securities must be designated as such and removed from the securitization pool) from the calculation of CDS Losses if the agreement is terminated before securitization (in which case securities cannot be designated Ineligible, and the Fund Counterparties are responsible for all Replacement Losses, including unrealized losses, on the CDS assets)." (Id. at 8-9.)

UBS's contention that securities could only have been designated Ineligible in the event of a closing appears to be highly questionable. As discussed above, Ineligible Security is defined to mean "any Reference Obligation in the CDS Portfolio which has become ineligible for sale to the Issuer on the Closing Date. . . ." (Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, Ex. A-2.) Other provisions of the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement address designation of Ineligible Securities prior to Closing. Thus, section 5 (A) provides for the Servicer to “notify UBS promptly if at any time during the term of this Agreement it becomes aware that a Reference Obligation or the related Credit Default Swap does not conform to the Eligibility Criteria.” This section then sets forth procedures for UBS to designate Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities. In the event UBS terminates the related CDSs or retains exposure, section (A) also sets forth procedures for UBS to calculate Replacement Loss and Replacement Gain “following the designation of such Reference Obligations as Ineligible Securities or otherwise pursuant to Section 6. . . .”

The court nevertheless concludes that the Fund Counterparties do not on this record demonstrate as a matter of law that, under these circumstances in which the Agreement was terminated without a closing having occurred, the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement unambiguously provides that the Fund Counterparties are responsible for unrealized losses only upon designation of the Reference Obligations relating to the CDSs as Ineligible Securities.

The parties submit sharply conflicting expert reports on the items to be included in calculating UBS’s damages, including the propriety of including unrealized losses in calculating CDS Losses. (See Corcoran Aff., Ex. 39 A [Report of Defs.’ Expert Adam Warren]; Corcoran Aff., Ex. 33 [Report of UBS’s Expert Louis Dudney].) To the extent that the determination of UBS’s damages will involve assessment of the credibility of the parties’ experts, the determination is not properly made on a motion for summary judgment. (See generally Bradley v Soundview Healthcenter, 4 AD3d 194, 194 [1st Dept 2004] [“Conflicting expert affidavits raise issues of fact and credibility that cannot be resolved on a motion for summary judgment”]; accord Manswell v Montefiore Med. Ctr., 144 AD3d 564 [1st Dept 2016].)

Significantly also, the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement contains separate provisions—sections 5 and 6, respectively—for calculation of CDS Losses at closing and in the event closing does not occur. Section 5 expressly provides: “To the extent the Closing Date fails to occur, allocation of CDS Losses, CDS Gains and any other amounts payable hereunder will be determined in accordance with the provisions of Section 6 hereof.” Section 6, however, employs the defined term for CDS Losses from section 5. On this record, it is unclear whether it is reasonably possible, consistent with settled precepts of contract interpretation, to read section 6 so that it is not rendered meaningless. (See generally Beal Sav. Bank v Sommer, 8 NY3d 318, 324-25 [2007].)⁶ Put another way, it is unclear what independent purpose section 6 serves if the calculation of CDS Losses is the same as that under section 5.

The parties must also address whether, in construing the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement, the court should read that Agreement together with the contemporaneous Engagement Letter and Cash Warehouse Agreement. (See Brax Capital Group, LLC v WinWin Gaming, Inc., 83 AD3d 591, 592 [1st Dept 2011] [contemporaneous documents governing the same transaction should generally be read together]; Gulf Ins. Co. v Transatlantic Reins. Co., 69 AD3d 71, 81 [1st Dept 2009] [same].) For example, the parties must address whether the differing terms of the Cash Warehouse Agreement regarding the Fund

⁶ As held in Beal, a court presented with a contractual interpretation issue should “construe the [contract] so as to give full meaning and effect to the material provisions. A reading of the contract should not render any portion meaningless. Further, a contract should be read as a whole, and every part will be interpreted with reference to the whole; and if possible it will be so interpreted as to give effect to its general purpose.” (8 NY3d at 325-325 [internal quotation marks and citations omitted].)

Counterparties' liability in the event of failure to close are relevant to, or instructive regarding, the interpretation of the definition of CDS Losses in the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement.

In sum, the court cannot find as a matter of law on this record that UBS is not entitled to recover unrealized losses. Determination as to whether the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is ambiguous in this regard must await further clarification by the parties at trial.⁷

The court turns to the Fund Counterparties' further contentions that UBS received hedging gains of approximately $128 million following the Fund Counterparties' alleged December 2008 breach, and that, if these gains are offset against any losses, UBS sustained no damages. (Fund Counterparties' Memo. In Supp. at 6-7, 19.)⁸ Determination of the effect of UBS's hedging on its damages claim can only be determined on a record that is fully factually

⁷ UBS relies on what it characterizes as defendants' "contemporaneous business records" showing that "the parties intended and expected that unrealized CDS losses would be included in Defendants' liability in the event of Termination." (UBS Memo. In Opp. at 9.) These documents include the following: "Cash Forecast" from September 2008, showing a "Transaction Amount" of "(50,000,000)" on March 20, 2009, which was noted to be "[b]ased on total unrealized losses of $100mm" (Landis Aff., Ex. 27); SOHC's Income Statement, which noted a "[c]hange in unrealized losses of $(53.9)m" (id., Ex. 28 at 3.) In addition, UBS submits a document titled "Review Knox Transaction and contract ammendment [sic] (Interim Audit Procedures)," prepared by Highland Financial's accountant for the period ending March 31, 2008. (id., Ex. 29.) This document contained a statement that "[u]nrealized gains/losses are included in the warehouse economics that are absorbed by SOHC and CDO Fund." (Id. at PWC-HCM00011538.) It further stated that, "[i]f the transaction does not take place (i.e. CDO securities are not issued), then CDO Fund and SOHC will share economics (both gain and loss) of the warehouse period based on a 51% (CDO Fund) and 49% (SOHC) split." (Id. at PWC-HCM00011539.)

The court declines to consider this evidence prior to determination of whether the Synthetic Warehouse Agreement is ambiguous as to the Fund Counterparties' liability for unrealized losses related to CDSs. (See generally Greenfield, 98 NY2d at 569.)

developed as to the types of hedging transactions as well as the relationship between the Fund Counterparties' alleged breaches, the losses on the warehouse assets, and the gains on the hedges. Moreover, as noted above, the parties submit sharply conflicting expert reports on the items to be included in calculating UBS's damages. These reports dispute not only the Fund Counterparties' liability for unrealized losses, but also the extent of required offsets, including offsets for UBS's hedging gains. (See Corcoran Aff., Ex. 39 A [Report of Defs.' Expert Adam Warren]; Corcoran Aff., Ex. 33 [Report of UBS's Expert Louis Dudney].) To the extent that expert testimony is required on the offset issue, its assessment will require credibility determinations that are not properly made on this motion.

The branch of the Fund Counterparties' motion for summary judgment, based on UBS's inability to prove damages, will accordingly be denied.

Prior Material Breaches by UBS

The Fund Counterparties argue that, prior to their alleged breach, UBS had already breached the parties' agreements by, among other things, miscalculating losses using "undocumented 'Dummy Swaps'" to inflate losses and "refusing to pay CDS Gains." (Fund Counterparties' Memo. In Supp. at 22.) The Fund Counterparties claim that UBS also recorded changes in exposure attributable to swaps involving Lehman Brothers, even after Lehman Brothers' bankruptcy filing caused the CDS agreements to terminate. (Id. at 22-23.) According to the Fund Counterparties, these improper calculations ultimately resulted in unfounded margin calls by UBS, and UBS's premature termination of the parties' agreements when the Fund Counterparties failed to satisfy the third margin call. (Id. at 23.) The Fund Counterparties claim that these breaches by UBS were material and excused the Fund

Counterparties' performance under the parties' agreements (id. at 19-20), thereby warranting dismissal of UBS's third and fourth causes of action for breach of the Cash and Synthetic Warehouse Agreements, respectively.

A material breach of a contract may excuse a non-breaching party's performance. (See Grace v Nappa, 46 NY2d 560, 567 [1979].) The court assumes, without deciding, that this doctrine is applicable under these circumstances in which defendants did not repudiate the contract—an issue the parties have not addressed. The court holds, however, that the Fund Counterparties fail to make a prima facie showing that UBS's conduct was impermissible under the Warehouse Agreements. As discussed above, the parties submit conflicting affidavits and evidence concerning the propriety of UBS's damages calculation, which resulted in the underlying margin calls. With each party "cast[ing] the other party in the role of the primary contract offender," issues of fact preclude summary judgment. (See Boston Concessions Group, Inc. v Criterion Ctr. Corp., 200 AD2d 543, 545 [1st Dept 1994]; W. E. Blume, Inc. v City of New York, 78 AD2d 608, 608 [1st Dept 1980].) Moreover, a factual issue exists as to whether any breach was material. (See generally Garofalo Elec. Co. Inc. v New York Univ., 300 AD2d 186, 189 [1st Dept 2002] ["The question of whether there has been substantial performance—or a breach—is to be determined, whenever there is any doubt, by the trier of fact"]; WILJEFF, LLC v United Realty Mgt. Corp., 82 AD3d 1616, 1617 [4th Dept 2011] ["Generally, the question whether a breach is material is for the finder of fact," unless "the evidence concerning the materiality is clear and substantially uncontradicted" (internal quotation marks and citation omitted)].) Accordingly, the branch of the Fund Counterparties' motion for summary judgment, based upon UBS's purported prior material breaches, will also be denied.

UBS's Reliance Upon Omissions or Misrepresentations

The Fund Counterparties also seek dismissal of UBS's first and second causes of action for fraud, on the ground that UBS cannot establish the justifiable reliance element of a fraud claim.

"The elements of a cause of action for fraud require a material misrepresentation of a fact, knowledge of its falsity, an intent to induce reliance, justifiable reliance by the plaintiff and damages." (Eurycleia Partners, LP v Seward & Kissel, LLP, 12 NY3d 553, 559 [2009]; Lama Holding Co. v Smith Barney, 88 NY2d 413, 421 [1996].) A fraud claim must be pleaded with particularity pursuant to CPLR 3016 (b).

In New York, sophisticated parties have an affirmative duty to protect themselves from misrepresentations made in arm's length business transactions by undertaking a reasonable investigation of the details of the transactions. (ACA Fin. Guar. Corp. v Goldman, Sachs & Co., 25 NY3d 1043, 1044 [2015] [ACA]; DDJ Mgt., LLC v Rhone Group L.L.C., 15 NY3d 147, 154 [2010] [DDJ].) "Moreover, 'when the party to whom a misrepresentation is made has hints of its falsity, a heightened degree of diligence is required of it. It cannot reasonably rely on such representations without making additional inquiry to determine their accuracy.'" (ACA, 25 NY3d at 1044-1045, quoting Centro Empresarial Cempresa S.A. v America Movil, S.A.B. de C.V., 17 NY3d 269, 279 [2011] [Centro].) Thus, where a plaintiff is aware that it has not been provided with financial information to which it is entitled, its duty to perform a "heightened degree of diligence" is triggered. (ACA, 25 NY3d at 1045 [internal quotation marks and citations omitted].) As the Court of Appeals has emphasized, "the question of what constitutes reasonable reliance is not generally a question to be resolved as a matter of law on a motion to dismiss.” (ACA, 25 NY3d at 1045; DDJ, 15 NY3d at 155 [“The question of what constitutes reasonable reliance is always nettlesome because it is so fact-intensive” (internal quotation marks and citation omitted)].)

In support of their contention that UBS cannot prove justifiable reliance, the Fund Counterparties argue that UBS assessed their credit rating as “D3, the lowest available rating for a party not already in default, when it entered into the Restructured Transaction.” (Fund Counterparties’ Memo. In Supp. at 24, 3, citing, e.g., Corcoran Aff., Ex. 7 [Dep. of UBS’s David Bawden at 163, 256 [characterizing Fund Counterparties as “weak counterparties”].)

According to the Fund Counterparties, “UBS mandated a hedging strategy and the booking of a full reserve as conditions for internal approval, because it did not deem the Fund Counterparties as being capable of paying what UBS believed it would be owed upon execution of the contracts.” (Fund Counterparties’ Memo. In Supp. at 24, 3, citing, e.g., Corcoran Aff., Ex. 11 [Dep. of Michael Threadgold at 55] [conditioning approval on “appropriate hedging for counterparty risk”].) The Fund Counterparties conclude that, because UBS knew of their financial strength (or lack thereof), UBS could not have justifiably relied upon any misrepresentations or omissions regarding their creditworthiness or assets. (Fund Counterparties’ Memo. In Supp. at 24.)

In opposing the Fund Counterparties’ motion, UBS submits the affidavit of a former employee who was a member of the UBS team that worked on the Highland Capital engagement, stating that Highland Capital’s Philip Braner explained that Highland Capital “could (was willing to) exercise its control over the various Highland-affiliated funds to move assets between and among the affiliated funds, thereby making assets available to UBS from Highland-affiliated funds other than the Fund Counterparties.” (Landis Aff., Ex. 58 [Aff. of Timothy LeRoux, ¶¶ 46, 47.]) UBS also relies on the testimony of various employees as to their reliance upon the Fund Counterparties’ misrepresentations concerning their finances and assets when deciding whether to enter into the Warehouse Agreements. (See e.g. Landis Aff., Ex. 58 [Aff. of Timothy LeRoux, ¶¶ 5-6, 12-20, 30-48] [attesting, among other things, to alleged misrepresentations as to the Fund Counterparties’ ownership of assets posted as initial restructuring collateral]; id., Ex. 59 [Dep. of Peter Chudy at 126-127]; id., Ex. 60 [Dep. of David Bawden at 227-228]; id., Ex. 61 [Dep. of Steve Marotta at 55-56] [depositions of UBS employees arguably supporting inference of reliance on financial information provided to UBS by defendants].)⁹ The reasonableness of that reliance is not subject to summary disposition, as it requires development of the factual record as to the information provided to UBS and assessment of the UBS employees’ review of the information.

The branch of the Fund Counterparties’ motion for summary judgment dismissing UBS’s fraud claims will accordingly be denied.

Fraudulent Conveyance & Fraudulent Transferor Claims

The Fund Counterparties argue that because UBS suffered no damages it is therefore not a creditor with standing to assert a fraudulent conveyance claim. (Fund Counterparties’ Memo. In Supp. at 25.) Given this court’s finding that factual issues exist concerning the extent of UBS’s damages, this basis for dismissal of the claim must fail.

⁹ This court advisedly uses the word “arguably.” Plaintiff and defendants support their factual claims on the instant motions with selected excerpts of deposition testimony, generally without describing the positions of the deponents and without the surrounding context. The meaning and import of the testimony therefore cannot be adequately evaluated on this record.

The Fund Counterparties further argue that New York does not recognize a cause of action for fraudulent conveyance against an alleged fraudulent transferor. (Id.) The Fund Counterparties' reliance on Federal Deposit Ins. Corp. v Porco (75 NY2d 840, 842 [1990]), in support of this argument, is misplaced. There, the Court held that the Debtor and Creditor Law "cannot fairly be read as creating a remedy against nontransferees who . . . are not alleged to have dominion or control over [the debtor's] assets or to have benefited in any way from the conveyance." In the instant action, in contrast, UBS does not allege that the Fund Counterparties assisted another debtor in transferring property but, rather, that "cash and assets" were transferred from Highland Financial, SOHC's alter ego, or from the Fund Counterparties themselves. (Complaint, ¶¶ 168, 18.) The Fund Counterparties do not cite any authority that a fraudulent conveyance claim is not maintainable under these circumstances.

II. Motion of Highland Capital, Highland Financial, Crusader Fund, Credit Strategies, Credit Opp Fund, and Strand for Summary Judgment (mot seq 026)

Highland Capital, Highland Financial, Strand, and the Affiliated Transferee defendants (together, moving defendants) seek summary judgment dismissing all of the causes of action asserted against them.¹⁰ UBS pleads claims, in the fifth cause of action of the complaint, against all moving defendants for fraudulent conveyance. In addition, UBS seeks to hold Highland Financial liable, under the eighth cause of action, as SOHC's alter ego, for SOHC's alleged fraudulent conveyances and breaches of the Warehouse Agreements.

UBS claims that, as a result of its first margin call in September 2008, the Highland entities began commingling assets to generate short-term liquidity for the Fund Counterparties.

¹⁰ As noted above, this motion was brought before UBS settled its claims against Credit Strategies and Crusader Fund.

(Id., ¶ 80.) The complaint alleges that, in the fall of 2008, Highland Capital caused Highland Financial to take on additional debt in exchange for cash-generating assets that were to be used by SOHC to satisfy obligations that SOHC had to nonparty Barclays Bank. (Compl., ¶ 82.) In September 2008, Highland Financial acquired $321 million in “risky” CLO assets and life settlement insurance contracts from the Affiliated Transferee defendants in exchange for senior secured notes in a principal amount of $316 million with a maturity date of 2018. (Id., ¶ 83.) This note offering (the September 2008 Note Offering) required Highland Financial to make amortized quarterly payments of $15 million to the Affiliated Transferee defendants, starting in February 2009. (Id.) Highland Financial was also required to transfer a security interest to the Affiliated Transferee defendants in the shares of two wholly owned subsidiaries into which Highland Financial transferred the newly acquired assets. (Id.)

In October 2008, Highland Capital allegedly proposed, and Highland Financial undertook, an additional note offering on the same terms as the September 2008 Note Offering, with Highland Financial issuing an additional $55,488,000 of secured notes, also due in 2018, to Crusader Fund. This note offering (the October 2008 Note Offering) brought Highland Financial’s debt obligation to the Affiliated Transferee defendants to approximately $371 million. (Id., ¶ 85.) UBS claims that the granting of these security interests and related asset transfers constituted fraudulent conveyances, and made it impossible for the Fund Counterparties and Highland Financial to satisfy their obligations to UBS. (Id., ¶¶ 84, 85.)

UBS maintains that, at the time of the September and October 2008 Note Offerings (together, Fall 2008 Note Offerings), Highland Financial, as SOHC’s alter ego, owed UBS hundreds of millions of dollars that it could not pay. (Id., ¶ 84.) Highland Capital allegedly caused “Highland Financial and SOHC to use the assets that they acquired to pay down a substantial portion of SOHC’s debt to Barclays [Bank] to the detriment of UBS.” (Id., ¶ 86.)

These payments to Barclays Bank were made at a time when SOHC and Highland Financial were allegedly insolvent or within the zone of insolvency, and constituted fraudulent conveyances. (Id., ¶ 88.) UBS also claims that CDO Fund used the notes it received to satisfy obligations to Citibank, NA at a time when CDO Fund was insolvent, thereby also making a fraudulent conveyance. (Id., ¶ 89.)

UBS further claims that in December 2008, after UBS terminated the restructured Transaction, Highland Capital ensured that Highland Financial and SOHC were insolvent by transferring assets to the Affiliated Transferee defendants, and then sought to hide these conveyances by tying them to the cancellation of the notes issued in the Fall 2008 Note Offerings. (Id., ¶¶ 108-109.)

UBS commenced the instant action on February 24, 2009. According to the complaint, on March 17, 2009, Highland Capital caused SOHC’s parent and alleged alter ego, Highland Financial, to transfer all of its and SOHC’s assets to Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee defendants. These assets were allegedly valued at $239 million and included assets of two of Highland Financial’s subsidiaries that had no obligations to the Affiliated Transferee defendants. (Id., ¶ 111.) As a result of the transfer, these funds were unavailable to SOHC to satisfy the debt owed to UBS under the parties’ agreements. (Id., ¶ 113.) UBS refers to this transfer as the “March 2009 Fraudulent Conveyance.” (Id., ¶ 111.)

Moving defendants sharply dispute that the transfer of assets in March 2009 was a fraudulent conveyance. In an affidavit submitted by moving defendants, Phillip Braner states that toward the end of 2008, the assets that secured the notes issued in fall 2008 were subject to significant credit downgrades. According to Mr. Braner, these downgrades had a negative impact on the cash flows available to Highland Financial as dividends, and the decreased cash flows made it unlikely that Highland Financial would be able to meet its debt service obligations under the notes, or its obligation to pay premiums on the life settlement contracts it had acquired. (Braner Aff., ¶ 13.) As a result, Highland Financial assertedly approved the unwinding of the notes to relieve it of these obligations (id.), and “transferred the collateral securing the Secured Notes back to the Funds.” (Moving Defs.’ Memo. In Supp. at 5.) Mr. Braner claims that the decision to unwind the notes was not related to debts owed by SOHC. (Braner Aff., ¶ 13.)

The Fall 2008 notes were terminated and the collateral was transferred pursuant to a “Termination, Settlement and Release Agreement,” dated March 20, 2009, between Highland Financial, HFP Asset Funding II, Ltd., and HFP Asset Funding III, Ltd., as Issuers, and various Noteholders, including Credit Strategies, Crusader Fund, a successor to the note purchased by Credit Opp Fund, and Highland Capital. (Landis Aff., Ex. 65.) Moving defendants refer to the March 2009 transaction as the March 2009 Note Termination. (Moving Defs.’ Memo. In Supp. at 5.)

Moving defendants argue that UBS’s inability to establish damages precludes any claims against them. They further argue that UBS cannot establish Highland Financial’s alter ego liability and that, in any event, the March 2009 Note Termination was not a fraudulent conveyance. Finally, they contend that UBS’s claim against Highland Capital for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing is without merit.

Lack of Damages

In support of their claim that UBS cannot establish damages, moving defendants rely on the Fund Counterparties' damages argument. As the Fund Counterparties' motion for summary judgment based on lack of damages has been denied, moving defendants' argument likewise fails.

Alter Ego Liability

Moving defendants argue that because claims arising before the commencement of this action on February 24, 2009 are barred by res judicata, the only remaining claim against them is based on the March 2009 Note Termination—a transaction that involved SOHC's shareholder, Highland Financial, not SOHC itself. Moving defendants further argue that because UBS cannot establish that Highland Financial is SOHC's alter ego, the fraudulent conveyance claim involving this Note Termination must be dismissed. (Moving Defs.' Memo. In Supp. at 11-12, 16.)

The standards for liability under an alter ego or veil piercing theory are well settled:

“ . . . [P]iercing the corporate veil requires a showing that: (1) the owners exercised complete domination of the corporation in respect to the transaction attacked; and (2) that such domination was used to commit a fraud or wrong against the plaintiff which resulted in plaintiff's injury.

While complete domination of the corporation is the key to piercing the corporate veil, especially when the owners use the corporation as a mere device to further their personal rather than the corporate business, such domination, standing alone, is not enough; some showing of a wrongful or unjust act toward plaintiff is required. The party seeking to pierce the corporate veil must establish that the owners, through their domination, abused the privilege of doing business in the corporate form to perpetrate a wrong or injustice against that party such that a court in equity will intervene.”

(Matter of Morris v New York State Dept. of Taxation & Fin., 82 NY2d 135, 141-142 [1993])

As a threshold matter, the court notes that the Appellate Division determined that UBS's substantially similar allegations in an earlier complaint in this action were sufficient to plead a claim for alter ego liability. (UBS Secs. LLC, 93 AD3d at 490.) This court previously held that UBS's alter ego claim in the second amended complaint in this action is based on substantially similar allegations to those upheld by the Appellate Division. These allegations include not only general allegations as to Highland Capital's commingling of the Highland entities' funds and disregard of corporate formalities, but also Highland Capital's pre-February 2009 conduct, in connection with the Fall 2008 Note Offerings, in causing Highland Financial to acquire Credit Strategies' and Crusader's assets, which were later the subject of the alleged March 2009 fraudulent conveyance. (UBS Secs. LLC, 42 Misc 3d at 587-588.)

Moving defendants contend that UBS's alter ego claim is barred by res judicata based on the Appellate Division's decision in this and a subsequent related action, holding that UBS's claims against Highland Capital were barred by res judicata to the extent they "implicate events alleged to have taken place before the filing of the original complaint" (i.e., the filing on February 24, 2009 of the complaint in the instant action). (UBS Secs. LLC, 86 AD 3d at 474; see Moving Defs.' Memo. In Supp. at 9-10.) Moving defendants also rely on a subsequent decision of the Appellate Division which dismissed claims for fraudulent conveyance "arising before February 2009" against Highland Financial and other Highland entities, on the ground that these entities were in privity with Highland Capital. (UBS Secs. LLC, 93 AD3d at 490.)

Citing these decisions, moving defendants assert that the March 2009 Note Termination is the only alleged wrongdoing on which the fraudulent conveyance claim can be based.

(Moving Defs.’ Memo. In Supp. at 11.) They also assert that UBS cannot establish that Highland Financial is SOHC’s alter ego because “the only allegations UBS makes regarding the relationship between HFP and SOHC concern events alleged to have occurred before February 24, 2009.” (Id. at 12, 12 n 55 [citing UBS’s allegations as to pre-February 2009 encumbrances and commingling of Highland entities’ assets].)

This court previously rejected the contention, advanced by moving defendants here, that UBS cannot rely on events or conduct occurring before February 2009 to support its alter ego and fraudulent conveyance claims. As held in the prior decision, the Appellate Division decisions preclude any fraudulent conveyance claims arising before February 24, 2009. They therefore preclude UBS from recovering for any alleged fraudulent conveyances made before that date. However, proof of pre-February 24, 2009 transfers, and of other conduct involving the operation of the Highland entities, is not prohibited to the extent necessary to prove UBS’s claims for post-February 24, 2009 fraudulent conveyances, which are maintainable under the Appellate Division decisions on an alter ego theory. (UBS Secs. LLC, 42 Misc 3d at 587.) The court adheres to this decision here.¹¹

In upholding UBS’s alter ego claim, the court also rejects moving defendants’ contention that “UBS was not harmed by any alleged fraud of SOHC caused by HFP’s purported domination, because . . . UBS did not rely on any alleged misrepresentations by SOHC.” (Moving Defs.’ Memo. In Supp. at 16.) This contention rests, in turn, on moving defendants’ claim that UBS “assumed the risk of doing business with the Fund Counterparties,” and ¹¹ It is noted that moving defendants’ briefing on these motions was largely completed before issuance of the decision.

“bargained for SOHC as a counterparty with its eyes wide open as to SOHC’s lack of creditworthiness.” (Id. at 17-18.) Moving defendants fails to establish this claim as a matter of law, for the reasons discussed above in connection with the Fund Counterparties’ motion. (See supra at 16-18.)

Favour Mind Ltd. v Pacific Shores, Inc., (2004 WL 97649, 2004 US Dist LEXIS 637 [SD NY 2004]), on which moving defendants rely, is not to the contrary. There, the Court applied the doctrine that “[w]here a party is aware of the risks of dealing with a corporation, that party has assumed the risk of such dealings.” (2004 WL 97649, at * 7.) The Court rejected the plaintiff’s alter ego claim, based on the findings that the plaintiff knew, when it decided to do business with the defendant, of the defendant’s poor credit ranking, its losses, and its limited initial capital investment; that the plaintiff continued to do business with the defendant after issues arose regarding payment of bills; and that there was no evidence that the plaintiff “ever had any reasonable expectation that [the party sought to be held] would be personally liable for payment.” (Id.) Here, in contrast, as discussed above (supra at 16-18), factual issues exist as to the extent to which UBS assigned value to the Fund Counterparties and concluded that they had the ability to meet obligations upon a default, and as to the reasonableness of UBS’s reliance on information provided to it by the Highland entities in connection with the Transaction.

Moreover, a factual issue exists on this record as to whether SOHC, through Highland Financial as alter ego, perpetrated a wrong against UBS. UBS submits evidence that Highland Financial and SOHC engaged in various transfers, shifting funds from SOHC to other Highland entities. (See e.g. Landis Aff., Ex. 26 [Dep. of Highland Financial’s Todd Travers at 182, acknowledging that Highland Financial and SOHC were treated interchangeably for purposes of borrowing money or repaying debts]; Landis Aff., Ex. 87 at PWC-HCM00017088 [accounting report for Highland Financial, stating that “sales activity in SOHC is driven by cash needs at [the Highland Financial] level for the closing of new CDOs”]; Landis Aff., Ex. 88 [Dep. of Gene McQwown at 446-447, stating that, at the time of the September 2008 Notes Offering, Highland Financial was undercapitalized and that it would not have been possible to issue these notes on the same terms with unaffiliated entities].) As discussed above (supra at 17-18), Highland Capital’s Braner also allegedly made representations to UBS regarding Highland Capital’s willingness to make assets available from various Highland entities to satisfy the Fund Counterparties’ obligations. Evaluation of this testimonial evidence involves credibility determinations, which are not properly made on a motion for summary judgment.

Moving defendants next argue that “over the life of the Restructured Transaction . . . , [Highland Financial] contributed more to SOHC than it received from SOHC,” and therefore that “[t]he net balance of these transactions was to UBS’ benefit, not detriment.” (Moving Defs.’ Memo. In Supp. at 18; Aff. of Clifford Stoops [Highland Capital’s Chief Accounting Officer and Highland Financial’s Interim Chief Financial Officer], ¶ 5.) However, as set forth in UBS’s expert report, UBS disputes moving defendants’ methodology for reviewing transfers, claiming that defendants improperly considered the transfers at an “aggregate, net level rather than analyzing individual transfers at the transactional level and separately evaluating whether fair consideration was exchanged.” (Landis Aff., Ex. 36 [Report of Louis Dudley at 23-24].) The parties also dispute whether cash transfers and loan repayments by SOHC to Highland Capital and Highland Financial in fact exceeded Highland Financial’s contributions to SOHC. (See UBS’s Memo. In Opp. at 17.)

Moving defendants thus fail to demonstrate as a matter of law that Highland Financial is not the alter ego of SOHC.

Fraudulent Conveyance

Moving defendants seek dismissal of UBS's constructive fraudulent conveyance claim on the ground that the March 2009 Note Termination was made for "fair consideration" under section 273 of the Debtor and Creditor Law, and was therefore not a fraudulent conveyance. (Moving Defs.' Memo. In Supp. at 19.) Specifically, they argue that the underlying notes were "secured debt" (id. at 20-23), and that the March 2009 Note Termination "repaid antecedent secured debt to non-insiders," and therefore constituted fair consideration under New York law. (Id. at 23.) They also argue that, even if certain Affiliated Transferee defendants were "insiders," the payments to these noteholders were for fair consideration because the payments "satisfied secured debt." (Id. at 24.)

Moving defendants fail to demonstrate entitlement to judgment as a matter of law with respect to UBS's allegations of constructive fraud. Debtor and Creditor Law (DCL) sections 273, 273-a, 274, and 275, which govern constructive fraud, all require a showing that fair consideration was lacking.

Under section 272 of the DCL:

- "Fair consideration is given for property, or obligation,
 - a. When in exchange for such property, or obligation, as a fair equivalent therefor, and in good faith, property is conveyed or an antecedent debt is satisfied, or
 - b. When such property, or obligation is received in good faith to secure a present advance or antecedent debt in amount not disproportionately small as compared with the value of the property, or obligation obtained."

As the Court of Appeals has explained, “[i]t is well settled that an evaluation of whether fair consideration is given for property under Debtor and Creditor Law § 272 must be determined upon the facts and circumstances of each particular case.” (Commodity Futures Trading Commn. v Walsh, 17 NY3d 162, 175 [2011] [internal quotation marks and citation omitted].) “Good faith is required of both the transferor and the transferee, and it is lacking when there is a failure to deal honestly, fairly, and openly. Transfers to a controlling shareholder, officer or director of an insolvent corporation are deemed to be lacking in good faith and are presumptively fraudulent.” (Matter of CIT Group/Commercial Servs., Inc. v 160-09 Jamaica Ave. Ltd. Partnership, 25 AD3d 301, 303 [1st Dept 2006] [internal quotation marks and citations omitted].)

Here, the parties dispute whether the transfers were made to “insiders,” and, therefore, whether the “presumptively fraudulent” standard was triggered. (Moving Defs.’ Memo. In Supp. at 23-24; UBS’s Memo. In Opp. at 19-20.) According to Mr. Braner, CDO Fund and Crusader Fund held 9.71% and 9.07% limited partner interests in Highland Financial, respectively, at the time of the Fall 2008 Note Offerings. (Braner Aff., ¶ 5.) Mr. Braner also admitted that Highland Capital held a 20.96% limited partner interest in Highland Financial, and Highland Capital’s president, James Dondero (Dondero), held a 0.15% limited partner interest in Highland Financial. (Id., ¶ 8; Landis Aff., Ex. 103 [chart showing ownership interests in Highland entities].) UBS submits deposition testimony and an ownership chart prepared by defendants, showing that Mr. Dondero also owned approximately 70% of Highland Capital. (Landis Aff., Ex. 78 [Dondero Dep. at 15-16]; id., Ex. 136 [Dep. of Mark Okada at 9-10]; id., Ex. 137 [chart entitled “Highland Equity Ownership”].) Moreover, UBS submits an “Amended and Restated Management Agreement,” and several “Investment Management Agreements,” executed by the Highland defendants, by which Highland Capital was designated “Manager” of Highland Financial, SOHC, CDO Fund, Crusader Fund, Credit Strategies, and Credit Opp Fund, with discretion and authority to manage the assets and operations of these entities. (Landis Aff., Exs. 81, 105-108.)

In addition, Mr. Dondero signed the original “Note Purchase Agreement,” dated September 26, 2008, on behalf of Highland Capital, CDO Fund, the Affiliated Transferee defendants and Highland Capital as their sole member, Strand, and HFP Asset Funding II and III, Ltd. (Stoops Aff., Ex. 42.) UBS also relies on the “Termination, Settlement and Release Agreement,” discussed above, which effectuated the March 20, 2009 Note Termination by extinguishing the parties’ obligations under the fall 2008 notes and transferring the assets back to the noteholders. The Agreement was signed by Mr. Dondero on behalf of Highland Financial, Highland Capital, HFP Asset Funding II and III, Ltd., CDO Fund, Credit Strategies, Crusader Fund, “Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, Ltd.,” and Strand, among other entities.¹² (Id., Ex. 44; Landis Aff., Ex. 26 [Dep. of Todd Travers at 228-229, stating that Mr. Dondero negotiated on behalf of all parties to the Note Purchase Agreement with respect to the retirement of the notes].)

On this record, moving defendants fail to demonstrate as a matter of law that the termination of the fall 2008 notes repaid debt to “non-insiders.” At a minimum, whether Mr. Dondero, through Highland Capital, managed and controlled Highland Financial, the Fund Counterparties, and the Affiliated Transferee defendants, thereby placing himself, Highland ¹² If Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, Ltd. is in fact the same entity as Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P., Mr. Dondero would have signed on behalf of all Affiliated Transferee defendants.

Capital, and Highland Financial on “both sides” of the Fall 2008 Note Offerings and the March 2009 Note Termination, raises a factual issue as to whether the transaction “was effected in good faith.” (See Farm Stores, Inc. v School Feeding Corp., 102 AD2d 249, 254 [2d Dept 1984], affd in part 64 NY2d 1065 [1985] [rejecting argument that shareholder was an “outside lender” with no control, where “he exercised his influence as a shareholder in decisions which directly affected his investments,” and it was “undisputed that [he] gave his consent to all distributions of funds collected . . . , including those distributions challenged as fraudulent”]; PalmOne, Inc. v R.C.S. Computer Experience, L.L.C., 15 Misc 3d 1127 [A], 2007 NY Slip Op 50873 [U], *7 [Sup Ct, NY County 2007] [finding that factual issue existed concerning transferee’s good faith, where “transferee [was] controlled by a person who is also an insider of, and/or has control over, the transferor”].)

Moving defendants rely upon Matter of Dreier LLP v Westford Asset Mgt. LLC (462 BR 474 [Bankr SD NY 2011]) in support of their argument that “transfers to a group of affiliated funds, their agents, and managers for the repayment of principal investment could not be a fraudulent conveyance because they were not insiders.” (Moving Defs.’ Memo. In Supp. at 23.) However, Dreier LLP involved investments by a third-party group of affiliated hedge funds in a Ponzi scheme by the principal of Dreier LLP. (462 BR at 479.) Here, in contrast, the transfers were made by an affiliated transferor to affiliated transferees, and therefore raise issues, which are not resolved on this record, as to the “good faith” of the transferees. (See id. at 488.)

Moving defendants further argue that, even if the noteholders were insiders, the transfers were for fair consideration because they repaid secured debt. (Moving Defs.’ Memo. In Supp. at 24.) In support of this argument, moving defendants rely upon Matter of Northstar Dev.

Corp. v Buchheit (465 BR 6 [Bankr WD NY 2012]), in which the Court applied the New York Debtor and Creditor Law. The Court held that this law “allows the avoidance of preferential transfers to directors, officers and shareholders of insolvent corporations.” (Id. at 13, quoting Farm Stores, Inc. v School Feeding Corp., 102 AD2d at 254.) The Court further explained: “As a general rule, however, no preference occurs upon the payment of a secured debt. For a preference to arise, a creditor must realize some improvement in position.” (Id. at 13-14.)

In Matter of Northstar Dev. Corp., the Court held that payment to discharge mortgages held by an insider of the debtor satisfied the good faith element of fair consideration, for purposes of a constructive fraud claim under the Debtor and Creditor Law. (Id. at 14-15.) In the instant action, the parties dispute whether the March 2009 Note Termination involved secured debt. Even assuming that a security interest was created, the Highland entities initiated the disputed transaction only five to six months before terminating it. In Matter of Northstar Dev. Corp., in contrast, the secured debt was created many years before the disputed transaction by which it was discharged.

Although the fraudulent conveyance claim here arose upon the March 2009 Note Termination, the Fall 2008 Note Offerings are integrally related. Assessment of the fraudulent conveyance claim will therefore require factual development of the record as to the circumstances under which the Fall 2008 Note Offerings were made. Even in the face of a claim by a transferee that it was a secured creditor, a court considering a constructive fraud claim must evaluate whether the transfer was made for fair consideration—that is, for a fair equivalent and in good faith. (See e.g. Farm Stores, 102 AD2d at 251-252 [finding transfers fraudulent even though transferees contended “that they were secured investing or lending shareholdercreditors”]; Northpark Assoc., L.P. v S.H.C. Mergers, Inc., 8 AD3d 642, 643-644 [2d Dept 2004] [finding question of fact as to whether transfer by the defendant judgment debtor to defendant’s parent company and sole shareholder was made in good faith, although parent company contended that it was a secured creditor and that the transfer was made in payment of an antecedent debt].) On this record, moving defendants do not demonstrate as a matter of law that the good faith element of a constructive fraud claim cannot be satisfied.

Finally, moving defendants argue that UBS cannot establish a fraudulent conveyance claim based on actual fraud. (Moving Defs.’ Reply Memo. at 6-9.) Even assuming that the court may entertain this argument, which was made for the first time on the reply (but see Ritt v Lenox Hill Hosp., 182 AD2d 560, 562 [1st Dept 1982]), moving defendants fail to demonstrate as a matter of law that UBS cannot establish that Highland Financial acted with actual intent to defraud in effectuating the March 2009 Note Termination. The assertion of Highland Capital’s Braner that the Termination was made for legitimate business reasons (see Braner Aff., ¶ 13) must be evaluated on a fully developed record.

The branch of moving defendants’ motion for summary judgment dismissing UBS’s fraudulent conveyance claims will accordingly be denied.

Good Faith and Fair Dealing

Highland Capital seeks summary judgment dismissing UBS’s claim for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing (third cause of action), asserted in the action under Index Number 650752/10. This claim is based upon allegations that Highland Capital used its control over the Fund Counterparties to orchestrate the transfer of Highland Financial’s assets to Highland Capital and the Affiliated Transferee defendants, as part of the March 2009 Note

Termination. (Complaint under Index Number 650752/10, ¶¶ 158-166; UBS’s Memo. In Opp. at 7-8, 25.)

Highland Capital argues that it cannot be liable for this conduct unless Highland Financial is the alter ego of SOHC. As moving defendants’ motion for summary judgment dismissing UBS’s alter ego claim has been denied, this basis for dismissal of the implied covenant claim fails.

Highland Capital also argues that UBS terminated the parties’ agreements months before the acts that allegedly breached the covenant of good faith and fair dealing, thereby ending Highland Capital’s obligations. The court agrees. The implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing “embraces a pledge that ‘neither party shall do anything which will have the effect of destroying or injuring the right of the other party to receive the fruits of the contract,’” and it “encompass[es] ‘any promises which a reasonable person in the position of the promisee would be justified in understanding were included.’” (511 W. 232nd Owners Corp. v Jennifer Realty Co., 98 NY2d 144, 153 [2002] [internal citations omitted].)

Here, UBS concedes that it terminated the parties’ agreements in December 2008 (Compl., ¶ 99), and its cause of action is based upon the March 2009 Note Termination several months later. UBS cannot state a claim for breach of the implied obligation of good faith absent an existing contract. (See e.g. Levine v Yokell, 258 AD2d 296, 296-297 [1st Dept 1999]; American-European Art Assocs., Inc. v Trend Galleries, Inc., 227 AD2d 170, 171 [1st Dept 1996] Lakeville Pace Mech., Inc. v Elmar Realty Corp., 276 AD2d 673, 676 [2d Dept 2000]; Beninati v Federal Deposit Ins. Corp., 55 F Supp 2d 141, 149 [ED NY 1999] [implied duty of good faith and fair dealing does not “extend beyond the termination of the contract”].)

Highland Capital's motion for summary judgment dismissing UBS's third cause of action for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing, in the pleading under Index Number 650752/10, will therefore be granted.

It is accordingly hereby

ORDERED that the motion for summary judgment of defendants Highland Capital Management, L.P., Highland Financial Partners, L.P., Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P., and Strand Advisors, Inc. (motion sequence number 026) is granted to the extent that the third cause of action in the complaint under Index Number 650752/10 is dismissed, and the motion is otherwise denied; and it is further ORDERED that the motion for summary judgment of defendants Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company and Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P. (motion sequence number 027) is denied.

This constitutes the decision and order of the court.

Order, Supreme Court, New York County (Marcy S. Friedman, J.), entered on or about March 27, 2017, which granted the motions for summary judgment of defendants Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P., Highland Special Opportunities
Holding Company, Highland Capital Management, L.P., Highland Financial Partners, L.P., Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P., and Strand Advisors, Inc. to the extent of dismissing the claim for breach of implied covenant against defendant Highland Capital, and otherwise denied the motions, unanimously modified, on the law, to dismiss the causes of action for fraudulent conveyances, and otherwise affirmed, without costs.

In a prior order in this case, we found that,

"to the extent the claims against Highland in the new complaint implicate events alleged to have taken place before the filing of the original complaint, res judicata applies. That is because UBS's claims against Highland in the original action and in this action all arise out of the restructured warehousing transaction. While the claim against Highland in the original action was based on Highland's alleged obligation to indemnify UBS for actions taken by the affiliated funds, and the claims against Highland in the second action arose out of Highland's alleged manipulation of those funds, they form a single factual grouping. Both are related to the same business deal and to the diminution in the value of the securities placed with UBS as a result of that deal. Thus, the claims form a convenient trial unit" (86 AD3d 469, 474-475 [1st Dept 2011]).

While, in that order, we dismissed those portions of the causes of action for fraudulent conveyances that "rely on conduct" predating the commencement of this action on February 24, 2009, and further held that to the extent those causes of action "rely on conduct alleged to have occurred after" that date, "such claims should be allowed" (id. at 476), we now find that the alleged fraudulent conveyances that occurred in March 2009 not only "implicate events alleged to have taken place before the filing of the original complaint" (id. at 474), but are integrally intertwined with and rooted in conduct that predated the commencement of this action such that the entirety of the fraudulent conveyance claims, as pled, which concern Highland's alleged manipulation of its affiliated funds for the purpose of frustrating UBS's potential recovery, are barred under the doctrine of res judicata. On the other hand, neither our prior decisions nor the doctrine of res judicata supports dismissal of the cause of action relating to alter ego liability because the allegations supporting alter ego liability are based on defendants' conduct prior to February 24, 2009.

The court correctly rejected defendants' arguments in support of dismissal of the remaining claims at issue. Issues of fact exist with respect to whether UBS suffered any recoverable contract damages, and as to whether it can establish justifiable reliance to support its claims that defendants committed fraud by misrepresenting their creditworthiness or the assets they owned prior to entering the transaction.

We take judicial notice of the decision of the trial court, dated September 19, 2017, which granted plaintiffs leave to reargue the dismissal of the claim for breach of implied covenant against defendant Highland Capital, and upon reargument, held that the claim should be reinstated. To the extent this decision has rendered moot plaintiffs' cross appeal of that part of the order on appeal, we exercise our broad discretionary authority to reach beyond the scope of defendants' notices of appeal to review the merits of that order, as the same issues have been briefed on the cross appeal, and we find that the trial court properly reinstated this claim.

THIS CONSTITUTES THE DECISION AND ORDER OF THE SUPREME COURT, APPELLATE DIVISION, FIRST DEPARTMENT.

Proceedings

THE COURT: On the record.

Good afternoon, counsel. This is Judge Friedmann. May I have the appearances of every counsel who is on the line, please.

MR. CLUBOK: Good afternoon, Justice Friedman. This is Andrew Clubok for plaintiffs, and I'm on the line with Elizabeth Deeley, Susan Engel, Kuan Huang and Alysha Naik.

MS. KLEIN: Good afternoon, your Honor, this is Gayle Klein from McKool Smith for the defendants, and also joining me this afternoon is Gary Cruciani, C-R-U-C-I-A-N-I, and Michael Fritz, F-R-I-T-Z.

THE COURT: Thank you.

Will Mr. Clubok and Ms. Klein be the only two attorneys who will be speaking?

MR. CLUBOK: I think so for us, your Honor.

MS. KLEIN: I believe so, your Honor, unless you start talking about scheduling in which case we might need Mr. Cruciani to speak, as well.

THE COURT: That's fine. If anyone other than the two of you speaks, that person should say their name before they start speaking.

We have reviewed the parties' submissions on the bifurcation issue. I have quite a few questions.

Proceedings

The first question is what are the parties' positions on whether the damages for breach of contract would be decided by the Court at the bench trial if we were to bifurcate as between a bench trial and a jury trial?

Let's start with UBS, please.

MR. CLUBOK: The Court would decide the damages for breach of contract.

THE COURT: Ms. Klein, do you disagree?

MS. KLEIN: We do not disagree with that, your Honor.

THE COURT: The next question is as follows:

Is it correct that it is plaintiffs' position that the implied covenant claim would be for the Court, but would be tried in the jury trial phase?

(Interrupted by a voicemail recording)

MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, we had previously -- this is your voicemail, your Honor. Somehow there's a way to delete this message, if you'd just give me a second.

(Interrupted by a voicemail recording)

Originally, we called in and they put us into the Court's voicemail. So if there's a message, should be from us, but I think I deleted it. I'm not sure.

THE COURT: If there is a message from you in this -- we weren't able to transcribe it right now.

So, all right --

MR. CLUBOK: You can just delete it. It was just trying to reach you a few minutes ago when they originally put us through to your voicemail. You can just delete it.

THE COURT: Ms. Klein, do you agree with that?

MS. KLEIN: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: So is it correct that it is plaintiffs' position that the implied covenant claim would be for the Court, but would be tried in the jury trial phase?

MR. CLUBOK: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: And is it also the plaintiffs' position that the implied covenant claim relates to the fraudulent conveyance claim and not to the fraudulent inducement?

MR. CLUBOK: Absolutely, yes.

THE COURT: Is it the defendants' position that the implied covenant claim implicates events leading up to the transaction and, therefore, relates to the fraudulent inducement claim?

I am referring to a statement that I read on page 2 of the defendants' brief, which seemed to indicate that that was the defendants' position.

MS. KLEIN: That is the defendants' position, your

THE COURT: Would you explain in detail the basis for claiming that the implied covenant claim relates to the fraudulent inducement claim? And then I will hear a response. I'd like you to address the evidence that would be heard on both the implied covenant and the fraudulent inducement claim.

That said, I don't expect you to address the evidence exhaustively, but I do expect you to give me some specific examples, and you will not be waiving any arguments that might be raised in the future by only highlighting certain evidence on this conference call. Have I allayed any anxiety?

MS. KLEIN: You have not, your Honor. Thank you for that.

In the implied covenant of good-faith and fair-dealing claim relates to a claim that the defendants somehow had promised with respect to the negotiation of the Agreements that they would, in fact -- some of the defendants would make sure that the Fund Counterparties were sufficiently flourished with assets such that they would pay for breach of contract damages, and that they would undertake no action that would render them unable to pay. And, that there is sufficient or substantial evidence relating to the due-diligence process in which UBS undertook a review of the Fund Counterparties' ability to pay and found it lacking.

Specifically, they found that the Fund Counterparties had no ability to pay and, therefore, they aired into the transaction fully aware that if there were a breach of contract, they would not be made whole -- "they" being UBS.

And, therefore, any suggestion under an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing that the defendants somehow promised that the Fund Counterparties would have sufficient assets to pay a breach of contract claim is false, and that is the type of evidence that we would elicit in defense to the implied covenant claim, also in defense of the fraudulent inducement claim.

THE COURT: Ms. Klein, isn't the implied covenant claim as pleaded based solely on post entry into transaction alleged wrongful or fraudulent conveyances?

MS. KLEIN: The inability to pay for the breach of contract certainly is, in part, related to the fraudulent conveyance; but the promise or the alleged promise to make sure that there would be assets to pay and that there would not be actions undertaken that would diminish that comes from the contract negotiation and the understanding of the defendants at the time the contract was negotiated, as well as it implicates the assets that

But, so I think what I'm hearing -- and I have not heard this or had this until we read their briefs and now I'm hearing this explanation like you are.

Our claim is that there's a contract and there is pretty unambiguous requirements that two parties make payments. There's disputes over how much they have to pay, and what the total amounts are going to be, and whether we count this transaction or not; and you're going have to decide those details, but there's a contract for at least some activity, two of the defendants --

THE COURT: Just one moment, please. The court reporter needs those names.

MR. CLUBOK: I'm sorry. There's two defendants, CDO Fund and SOHC, the so-called Fund Counterparties who are obligated and under a contract to make certain payments. There's disputes over how much they have to pay and what's the trigger for those payments, all of those things are part of the breach of contract back and forth.

But, if we win, if we prove our case against those two, they will have had to pay us money. And there's a third party, HCM, that also signed on to those contracts, but didn't have a direct obligation to pay; yet nevertheless, we say they had an implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing not to, for example, commit fraudulent conveyances that, that made it possible for the two parties who had owed us the money to pay.

First of all, there's no defense against that because before we signed the contract, internally our folks wondered whether, ultimately, the two parties were good credit risks. You wouldn't be able to defend against a breach of contract claim under these circumstances with that theory. So it is kind of manufactured anyway.

THE COURT: Can you slow down a little bit, please, so we can get a record. Thank you.

MR. CLUBOK: Sure, your Honor.

We're talking about the possibility of some parol evidence prior to contract formation about whether or not -- notwithstanding if your Honor finds there were payment terms and monies owed -- that somehow parol evidence from before the contract vitiate the actual obligation to pay because my client was worried that the two parties who promised to pay wouldn't be able to pay. I have a hard time believing your Honor is going to accept that kind of parol evidence if there's no basis for it.

Until this bifurcation breach, I don't think we had ever in the nine years I've litigated the case ever heard that theory. I don't think it is legally valid. It is just kind of thrown out there.

But, even if there was such a legally valid theory and let's pretend for purposes of this argument that it's true, that my clients thought, Gee, if things go south, these two Fund Counterparties that have promised to pay will not be able to in fact pay the total amount, the total $500 million of damages; does that mean then that they expected there to be fraudulent conveyances which is -- is basically, you know, the implied covenant of good-faith and fair-dealing claim that we now have is that they shouldn't have committed fraudulent conveyances to make it certain that these two parties couldn't have paid.

I mean, the defendants are just trying to interject a really far-afield defense that I doubt your Honor is going to even entertain and then expand it to a point that it just sort of is something I've never heard of in a contract dispute and, certainly, we never heard of in this case until two weeks ago when we saw this brief and now as I've heard it explained.

So that's -- to make that the bootstrap for now there's such substantial overlap that we have to bifurcate the trial, with all due respect the defendants, I think is a stretch.

The other thing I would say is even if you credit this, all I've heard is that there's overlap between fraudulent inducement and implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing, all of which we are proposing to put into the next phase. So even if your Honor is going to do that stuff, it is going to be in the next phase.

But I just think that this is not an argument that can be seriously used -- you know, we can have a motion practice on whether you're going to ever entertain that kind of parol evidence, or we could stipulate for the sake of argument that let's say were even true, that our clients -- the credit risk people that my clients worried that the two Fund Counterparties wouldn't be able to pay or assumed they wouldn't be able to pay and said, Gee, this is a risky contract that these two won't be able to pay, that doesn't -- because people internally are worrying about that, that doesn't strip the obligation to actually pay and it certainly doesn't give license to a signatory to the contract, Highland, to violate either express obligations or to implied duty of good faith and fair dealing by insuring that the two parties can't pay.

THE COURT: Mr. Clubok, when you refer to the possibility of parol evidence, you are talking about parol evidence that the defendants would possibly introduce regarding the lack of assets of the Fund Counterparties or regarding UBS's due diligence unit's knowledge of the lack of assets of the Fund Counterparties; is that correct?

MR. CLUBOK: Correct. On this particular species of parol evidence, it's something that plaintiffs would never put into the case. We don't think it is legally relevant. It's not something that the parties have ever talked about in this context as ever being potentially relevant to the breach and implied covenant good-faith and fair-dealing claim, and I just think it is just -- yes, in short, it is a theory that defendants say they're going to try to interject as a supposed defense to our implied covenant of good-faith and fair-dealing claim, which is really about how Highland Capital dealt with the aftermath of the breach of contract and whether they fraudulently transferred assets.

THE COURT: All right, but you are not intending on your implied covenant claim, am I correct, to put in any evidence that relates to the fraudulent inducement claim; is that right?

MR. CLUBOK: Absolutely not; you are correct.

THE COURT: Okay.

All right, now, let's --

MS. KLEIN: First of all, we don't agree, obviously, that there is a fraudulent conveyance or any fraudulent inducement. But, more importantly, in order to survive an implied covenant claim, the plaintiffs are going to have to prove what the implied covenant is and that in fact exists, and the evidence that they're calling parol, which we don't think is parol, goes to vitiate the --

THE COURT: Just a moment. Just a moment. I know there's a lag. The reporter didn't get it. She lost you at "vitate," so can you repeat your last sentence, please, and the reporter is asking that it be a little slower.

MS. KLEIN: The evidence that we intend to introduce vitiates the fact of any implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing because the plaintiffs new and understood that the Fund Counterparties did not have the ability to pay and that the Highland Capital Management also disputed that in the event the Fund Counterparties could not pay, it was in any way liable.

THE COURT: I don't think I'm going to hear anything more on that at this time.

Now, let me go to my next question.

How can -- withdrawn.

Is that not an equitable claim? And if not, what happens if the Court and the jury reach different conclusions on whether action was taken to transfer assets that would have been used to satisfy a judgment, assuming for purposes of argument only that the Court would have previously concluded that there was to be a judgment?

MR. CLUBOK: Well, there's two different legal standards. So, the facts that relate to this are the same, the same body of facts. Mostly overlapping, I would say.

There are slightly different legal tests. One being for implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing is a legal standard that your Honor would have to apply to those facts; and there's a different standard, I think generally a higher standard -- you could argue is different standard. Let's just say different standard on fraudulent conveyance that largely you take the same set of facts and the jury apply the different, you know, jury instruction to the standard for them to decide whether it constitutes a fraudulent conveyance, then the court and the jury could decide they are both breach of implied covenant good faith and fair dealing and fraudulent conveyances; or, your Honor could decide it is breach of implied duty of good faith and fair dealing, but it doesn't rise to the level of fraudulent conveyance or vice versa.

They're just two different legal tests, but substantially overlapping facts.

That's why we would propose moving that one -- now that the fraudulent conveyance is back in the case, that's why we would say that the trial that was currently set for June where we were going to have -- where we all agreed that agree your Honor would do the implied covenant good faith and fair dealing along with the breach of contract; we're now saying, Okay, that substantially overlaps. It is a very discrete set of facts so put that for the second phase of the case.

THE COURT: Ms. Klein.

MS. KLEIN: Your Honor, we agree that there are two different legal standards and, of course, the two different triers of fact can decide it differently. We do disagree that the parties emphatically agree that the case could be bifurcated if the fraudulent conveyance claim came back into the case; and, in fact, it was Mr. Clubok who represented to Ms. Barnett that if the 1st Department reversed course and added the claims back in and that the parties wanted to reconsider whether or not a bifurcation was appropriate, which is what has lead to this exercise.

MR. CLUBOK: If I may, just to be clear, I wasn't suggesting otherwise. What the parties agreed to on March 9th during the conference with the Court was that we were going to -- at that time fraudulent conveyance was out of the case because of the 1st Department's original decision; and the parties had agreed we would do the breach of contract and the breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing; but we would bifurcate out the fraudulent inducement to a later time and alter ego to a later time. That's the status quo.

And then we did say, Gee, if the Court puts back in the fraudulent conveyance, we'll have to reassess and so now that the fraudulent conveyance is back in, we have a couple of options. One is to do everything all together, but for a number of reasons that makes less sense than just saying, Okay, fraudulent conveyance, it substantially overlaps and I didn't hear Ms. Klein disagree with that. It overlaps with the breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

So the smart thing to do is to put that one to the later part of the case. No one had agreed to it before. We said we would reassess, and that's what we're doing and our proposal is we'll make this trial even easier and now we put off one issue that we thought we were going to be trying in June, but now we don't have to try in June because it substantially overlaps with this fraudulent conveyance and we will try the second phase under plaintiffs' proposal.

THE COURT: Mr. Clubok, I really must ask you again to speak more slowly because this is proving very difficult for the reporter.

I think we got everything down there, but it's difficult to do it repeatedly at that rate.

Ms. Klein, do you have anything that you want to add in response to the last statement of Mr. Clubok?

MS. KLEIN: Yes, your Honor. Just briefly, and that is that as our submission demonstrates upon evaluation after the 1st Department's decision, we think there's substantial overlap not only of the evidence, but also of the witnesses that we would bring; and, therefore, we think that fairness dictates that this all be done at the same time.

THE COURT: All right, I was actually going to ask you to elaborate on that, on the overlap of witnesses.

The briefing on this, it is not expansive, shall we say. So can you elaborate on which witnesses would overlap and with respect to what issues?

MS. KLEIN: Certainly, your Honor.

There are several witnesses on both sides who had involvement in the deal and throughout the process.

On the defense side for the Highland Capital Management parties is Philip Braner and on the plaintiffs' side is Mr. LeRoux, L-E-R-O-U-X, and Mr. Grimaldi, G-R-I-M-A-L-D-I and Mr. Bawden, B-A-W-D-E-N.

Those three gentlemen participated in the negotiation and the meaning of the Agreements. They participated throughout the performance of the Agreements and some were also involved in the -- what we'll call post termination conduct.

So we anticipate that those three gentlemen have ultimately evidence relevant to all of the claims.

The complicating factor, of course, is that Mr. Braner is no longer an employee of a Highland entity. He is now working for a wholly separate company in Dallas; and Mr. LeRoux is no longer working for UBS and he's working for a wholly separate company in North Carolina. And, therefore, if we are not to do this all at the same time, even if Mr. Braner and Mr. LeRoux come to a first trial, it is unknown whether or not that they would participate in a second trial.

Therefore, given that they have knowledge of anything that happened before, during and after the performance of this Agreement, we think that there's substantial overlap.

The damages experts also have substantial overlap. On our side, it is a gentleman named Mr. Warren, and on the other side it is a gentleman named Mr. Dudley. So both of those experts would be called to testify in both phases of

And then, also, the Highland defendants allege that there's something called hedging. That is an offset to damages regardless whether it is breach of contract or fraudulent conveyance or otherwise. He testifies about hedging and about the risks and the process related thereto.

UBS claims that Mr. Mammola's testimony is not relevant to a breach-of-contract claim because the hedging occurred at the outset of the contract; not at the outset of the alleged breach.

But, the hedging did occur at the outset of the alleged fraudulent inducement; and, therefore, Mr. Mammola's testimony would be relevant to all of the claims or at least to a discussion in his testimony about whether or not he should be permitted to testify at trial on breach of contract, as the plaintiffs have alleged that he is not.

Mr. Mammola lives in London and, therefore, it is quite costly to bring him to testify to trial. So that is another witness who is overlapping on a different claim.

THE COURT: Is there a reason why I couldn't hear the hedging offset issue insofar as it bears on the contract claim at the time we had the jury trial?

MS. KLEIN: Well, we believe that the hedging offset, obviously, completely offsets any damages; and, therefore, if your Honor were to do that, that at the outset of the first stage of any trial, you would only decide whether or not there's liability and you would move all damages into a second phase of a trial.

THE COURT: Can you give me a bit more detail on what this overlap is in the testimony that the three UBS witnesses and the one Highland witness would be giving?

MS. KLEIN: Certainly. Mr. Braner, who is the Highland former employee, negotiated and restructured the transaction; and he has knowledge regarding the signed Counterparties' performance including, without limitation, the offering of certain assets for the margin calls, as well as the participation of the defendants in the Highland Financial Partnerships or HFP.

In those margin calls and the unwinding of a note transaction, which the defendants claim is the basis for their fraudulent conveyance claim. So Mr. Braner has knowledge and testimony that relates to all aspect of the claim.

Mr. LeRoux and Mr. Grimaldi also negotiated the restructured transaction and have knowledge of the emphasis, which Mr. Grimaldi and Mr. Bawden have knowledge of assessment of the risk and whether or not the parties would have the ability to pay. And Mr. LeRoux and Mr.

Grimaldi also determined when to issue margin calls, and Mr. Grimaldi was involved in the decision to refuse certain assets that were offered by the margin call that relate to the note unwind that is alleged to be the basis for the fraudulent conveyance.

THE COURT: Is there any reason to believe that Mr. Braner will not appear at two phases of a bifurcated trial?

MS. KLEIN: Currently, your Honor, no. He has told us that he will participate; but, of course, he is actively involved with another job and his time is limited, and he is beyond the subpoena power of the Court. And the situation that we seriously want to guard against is Mr. Braner's participation in the first phase; but his refusal in the second phase because he doesn't have time or he's already been generous with his time or because his employer suggests that he should not be able to participate because he's not properly devoting his duties to his new employer, in that instance we would be dealing with a witness who doesn't want to be there and, of course, that is -- if we were to try to force him to come, that would substantially prejudice the defendants because we would have a witness who is uncooperative presenting our main case in front of a jury.

MS. KLEIN: He is located in Dallas, Texas.

THE COURT: All right, let's hear from Mr. Clubok on these overlap issues, please.

MR. CLUBOK: Sure. Mr. Braner was going to have this same issue when we agreed to bifurcate the first time.

Mr. Braner is involved in pretty much all aspects of the case from Highland. So when we agreed to bifurcate for the first time, Highland signed up for the fact that Mr. Braner would have to come twice.

Now, the hassle of the flying twice from Dallas, Texas to New York -- I've done it many times and I think Gayle probably has, too -- it is not the worst trip in the world. It's pretty minimal compared to what will happen now and there will be a certain, much easier to identify exactly when Mr. Braner will have to testify in the first phase and in a narrower band of when he testifies in the second.

Also, if our whole bifurcation plan is upset now because Mr. Braner no longer -- well, I just heard that he's willing to come for both so it is like he was willing to do it before. We still think he's willing, but, theoretically, possibly, Mr. Braner might change his mind later and that's why we shouldn't bifurcate now. That's, basically, the thrust of the defendants' argument and we disagree with that as being much of a fact for the Court should consider.

Having said that, worst case scenario and notwithstanding what Mr. Braner committed to before when we all told the Court we would bifurcate; but notwithstanding what Mr. Braner has recently reconfirmed what he's willing to do and notwithstanding the fact that we have video deposition testimony from him, so we're just happy to designate that testimony. It's easier not to come.

Another way to go about this is if he all of a sudden changes his mind or his employer won't let him make that trip from Dallas to New York for any day for the second phase of the trial, we could just do a trial deposition of him. If we really have to accommodate Mr. Braner and he's got to do it live from Dallas, we can make that work.

That would not be a reason to un-bifurcate or to un-bifurcate the whole trial. It is true that Mr. Braner overlaps. That's the one witness on their side of the fact witness that overlaps, but the evidence that has to come into play for the fraudulent conveyance and the alter ego and fraudulent inducement in the second trial is so -- most of it is totally different and separate and has nothing to do with the straight breach of contract.

There is a four-factor test for fraudulent conveyance. There is a nine-factor test for actual fraud.

There is a seven-factor test for whether or not the transaction issue was actually an equity infusion, which undercuts their defense was a secured loan and there is a nine-factor test for alter ego. I just did quick math, and that is twenty-nine factors.

All those factors are factual issues with lots and lots of facts. If you recall the summary judgment, much of that PowerPoint that I think I was able to use covered facts because those twenty-nine factors that have nothing to do with the breach of contract that have lots of witnesses and lots of internal documents and lots of stuff of which Mr. Braner is a very small part of.

So all of that stuff should be in the second phase of the trial and just because Mr. Brian might, theoretically, change his mind is not a reason to not bifurcate.

With respect to everything else, you know, there are three UBS witnesses. Okay, that's on us. If our witnesses want to make two trips down to the courthouse, that we appreciate defendants' concern for those witnesses, but that's not a concern they need to worry themselves with.

THE COURT: Excuse me, I thought maybe -- let me clarify this.

want to call any of those three UBS witnesses?

MS. KLEIN: Yes, your Honor.

THE COURT: All of them?

MS. KLEIN: We have not yet decided all of them.

Obviously, our presentation of evidence as defendants depends upon what the plaintiffs present in their case in chief; but, certainly, the current intent is to call all of them and that is what we would like to do.

If I may, just one point, and that is UBS is seeking hundreds of millions of dollars in recovery from my client. It is a jury trial, and we will be substantially and unfairly prejudiced if we cannot call our witnesses live in a jury phase of a trial. We all know that juries respond much better to live witnesses, and we would be at substantial and unfair disadvantage if we were to try to call any witnesses by deposition or by remote feed.

And, the difference here with respect to Mr. Braner is he has testimony that relates to the note unwind that is alleged to be part of the fraudulent conveyance claim, which wasn't in the bifurcated proposed trial previously and it is now in; and, therefore, Mr. Braner has essential testimony and it is essential to my client's ability to be able to defend themselves against these claims to have him appear live, and any chance that he will not do that that's caused by bifurcation is substantial and unfair harm to my clients.

MR. CLUBOK: Well, I have a solution --

THE COURT: Just a moment, please. Mr. Clubok, can you represent that you have the control to insure that not only Mr. Grimaldi and Mr. Bawden appear in both phases, but also that Mr. LeRoux appears in both phases if Highland wants to call them and you don't in the second phase?

MR. CLUBOK: When Grimaldi and Bawden, they live in New York, I can represent to you and they work for UBS, as long as they do which -- the defendants want this trial to be in October. There is some risk I suppose they could quit their jobs and move out of town before October, but that doesn't get solved by not bifurcating.

So in as much as good faith I can represent that things don't change between now and October, yes, they will show up for the October trial. But Mr. LeRoux, I can't guarantee that anymore that he'd show up in October or not.

I can tell you we are not going to call him even in the first phase. So whether he comes in October and he's currently had indicated that he will cooperate and try to make himself available, but that I can't guarantee outside of subpoena power.

He was deposed by defendants. They do have his video deposition testimony just like any witness who is unavailable. So whether we bifurcate or not doesn't increase my chances of getting Mr. LeRoux to show up in October. Either he will or he won't. And as defendants put in their papers, we had represented to them that our -- the indication to us in good faith just like their representation about Mr. Braner which we accept, are that he is willing to try to cooperate. So that's about the best I can say about Mr. LeRoux; but bifurcating or not doesn't affect that and I'm not planning to call him in our case in the first phase which, by the way, same thing with Mr. Braner. We're not asking to call Mr. Braner.

If Mr. Braner -- what defense are, basically, saying is, Oh, we can't guarantee that Braner will show up. We want to try this case in October when I guess we can guarantee he'll show up somehow, even though I just heard all the stuff about his employer maybe will change their mind. But, okay, they want to show up for the jury trial, make that the time they show up.

If he also doesn't want to come to New York in front of your Honor, I'm sure your Honor will not take offense if he does a videotaped trial deposition if he needs to do more testimony and he doesn't want to make the trip the New York. Your Honor will be able to distinguish that and will not hold it against him.

a second trip to New York is not a reason to upset, to totally change this case.

Furthermore, if I could just continue with the other argument that defendants had made. On this hedging issue, they say that their expert doesn't want to come here twice to talk about hedging, which he might theoretically have to do. Your Honor proposed a solution for that, which I think is perfectly fine. But, look, if we have a jury trial, he's going to have to come here twice. This was one of the points we made in our brief.

If we just have a jury trial in the fall, we are going to use a Frye motion because the hedging issue, that threshold question is a legal one, does its hedging even a possible offset for these damages or not? And does Mammola meet the standards articulated in Frye for providing expert testimony on this subject?

We say no. There will be a Frye hearing or presumably he will testify, so he still would have to testify twice. It is just now instead of having to do a Frye hearing -- by the way, all these people, a lot of these experts and your Honor will have to have a Frye hearing and a motion-in-limine hearing which we will avoid to a large extent if we just do those things in what is, essentially, the first phase of the case.

By the way, I heard vigorously, vigorously, vigorously the defendants say that they believe they will win the breach-of-contract claim; or because of the hedging arguments or the other offsets, they will prove there are no damages.

If that's the case, we'll never have a second phase. If there are no breach-of-contract damages, we will agree to take an appeal if necessary. If we believe there's no legal error, we'll just drop the case. We'll settle it.

We will not insist on a trial on fraudulent inducement if we lose all the breach-of-contract claim; and so if the defendants are right, then hedging can prove the offset, we'll just have this one-week long proceeding in June and the case will be over or it will be potentially subject to appeal if we have any appellate grounds on that score.

THE COURT: Let me stop you, please.

Ms. Klein, would you like to reply to any of that and, also, I would offer you a further and final opportunity to say anything you think is important to say in support of your claim that we should not bifurcate.

MS. KLEIN: Certainly, your Honor.

First of all, I just want to make sure that the record is clear we did not say that Mr. Mammola is not willing to come twice. I just mentioned that he lives in London and having have him come to New York twice potentially increases the cost and burden to the defendants in defending against these claims.

Same thing with having a bifurcated trial. We believe that given the overlap of evidence and witnesses, it substantially increases the amount of money my clients have to spend to defend against these claims, which we think are wholly defensible.

I also heard Mr. Clubok say that if the defense wins on breach of contract, we may not have a second phase; and he mentions specifically dropping the fraudulent inducement claim. He didn't talk about the fraudulent conveyance claim, the alter ego, the general partner liability claims.

We have a great concern that the case will not stop even if the defense does prove that there is no breach of contract or no damages.

THE COURT: I can't understand that position. What would there be to try if there was no breach in terms of alter ego or any damages issue?

MS. KLEIN: Well, I guess with respect to the fraudulent inducement claim, they could come back and say that they were fraudulently induced, and that --

THE COURT: But that's not what I just heard you say; and Mr. Clubok just represented that if there is a finding of no breach of contract, they will not proceed with the fraudulent inducement claim.

MS. KLEIN: And so I guess the concern then is, your Honor, what does defense victory mean? What is going up on appeal? What is -- what does it mean that there is no damages? What if the Court finds that there was, for example, $44 million in damages? I was just pulling a number out of the air. Does that then mean that we have to move forward with the second phrase of trial?

It's just uncertain to us what he means by "if we win." If the win is no liability or zero damages, that doesn't vitiate the fact that there's a possibility that there would be a trial or a second phase if in fact it is not a -- it's a zero dollar verdict.

THE COURT: Yes, I understand and that is absolutely correct. That would not vitiate a second phase.

I don't mean to cut you off. Is there anything else that you want to bring to my attention?

MS. KLEIN: The only other thing that I bring to your attention, your Honor, is that if you do, in fact, determine that you would like to bifurcate the trial, we think that the trial should proceed in the fall instead of on June 4th for the reasons that were set forth in our submission.

THE COURT: Mr. Clubok, also, a final opportunity to you to bring to my attention anything you think important to bring to my attention. I'd ask you to please be brief.

MR. CLUBOK: I'll be very clear and I'll try to speak very slowly.

If there is no liability or if there are zero damages, we will not proceed to a second phase of trial on any of our claims, including fraudulent inducement, fraudulent conveyance or alter ego. We will preserve our right to take an appeal if we think it is appropriate.

If there is something like $44 million in damages, I think there's a pretty good chance the parties can -- there's a pretty good chance the parties will resolve the case, knowing what I know about these parties and about just trials in general. So, anyway so that's the first thing I would say.

The second thing I would just say is that, again, I'd just like to end on the simple fact that the parties have agreed months ago -- when new counsel came along, we were wary that this would be used for a massive delay. I was assured by defense counsel that it was not their intention to do that; and I for my part said, you know what, we will be reasonable. We understand, you guys already have vacations, this trial coming up or that trial coming up.

Proceedings

Let's find a reasonable time. My client would have liked to go to trial in March. We, ultimately, agreed to go forward in June on breach of contract and breach of implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

Now, we are saying let's go forward surely on breach of contract. It means no Frye hearing. It means no motions in limine. It means we don't have to have the initial proceeding the Court had once talked about where we talk about the contract or we talk about hedging in advance of a real trial.

It is a trial that we have been super specific about, exactly who we would call. We have exactly two witnesses in our case in chief: One company witness and one expert and then some deposition testimony we want to designate.

It's a case that we think could be tried in a week or less; and because it's easier than what had previously been agreed to which we agreed to in good faith to wait till June, we do not think it is appropriate now when the case is even simpler than we had agreed to to move everything to October. We think the case should go forward as scheduled. It will either end the case or it will frame the next phase of the case and, perhaps, it will lead to a resolution either way.

MR. CLUBOK: Thank you.

THE COURT: Ms. Klein, was there anything new there that you feel a need to respond to?

MS. KLEIN: Yes, your Honor. Just very, very, briefly, which is we did come in as new counsel in February. This case has been going on for nine years. I've been practicing law for well over twenty, and it is literally the most complicated case I have ever been involved in.

For the last several weeks we have been involved in reviewing evidence and putting forth the submission to your Honor about why or why the case should be bifurcated or not and what the overlapping evidence is. And the 1st Department further on March 9th threw a monkey wrench into the whole case when it added back in the fraudulent conveyance claim.

Therefore, we're not seeking to move the trial to the fall for purposes of delay, but so that we be given an adequate opportunity to prepare for a designed scope of trial and put together our defense.

We have been focused on the briefing as of May 1st. We don't have clarity regarding the scope of the trial, and we are in fact seeking leave to appeal the 1st Department's recent reversal of the prior opinion and we put those papers in last Friday on the -- I'm sorry on the 20th.

Therefore, we are moving forward as quickly and expeditiously as possible. We just think that a little more time given the pendency and the complication and history of this case would not unfairly prejudice UBS in the slightest, but to force us to a trial on June 4th would be prejudicial to my clients.

MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, may I briefly respond to a couple new things I heard?

THE COURT: I think that I've heard what I need to hear today.

Let's just take a five-minute recess.

(Whereupon, at this time a short recess was taken.)

THE COURT: Let's go back on the record.

Back on the record.

Having read the parties' submissions and heard counsel for the parties on this conference call today, I am persuaded that the trial should be bifurcated and that that procedure will materially enhance the efficiency with which this matter is determined without causing prejudice to either party.

There are some complicated legal issues which need to be addressed on the breach-of-contract claim, including the computation of CDS losses as discussed in my summary judgment opinion and whether or not the contractual provisions regarding CDS losses are ambiguous and, therefore, expert testimony or evidence of custom and usage should be taken in interpreting those provisions.

In addition, there are complicated issues, among others, with respect to the hedging offset claims. Those issues will require further briefing, and determination of those issues if there were a jury trial could result in considerable delays to the jury and to the parties.

So, that is the principal reason I am going to bifurcate; but, in addition, I do not find that the inconvenience to witnesses is a basis for not bifurcating.

Counsel have had adequate opportunity to determine whether any of these witnesses would not cooperate with a second phase of trial and nothing is being put before the Court to indicate that there is not going to be cooperation of these witnesses; or that if there is not cooperation as it turns out, that the testimony cannot otherwise be obtained from the witnesses via videotaped depositions or otherwise and -- or rather videotaped trial testimony or otherwise.

And, in addition, I do not find that the fact that the defendants have chosen to retain new trial counsel on the eve of trial is a basis for deferring any longer the trial of this matter.

I appreciate that it has been difficult for new counsel to come in and prepare for this trial; but, if anything, new counsel's performance on this conference call today shows what an exceptional job counsel has done in a relatively short time in gaining mastery over the details of this complex case.

I am willing, however, to put the trial over for one month to early July to give counsel a further opportunity to prepare. I don't think that that delay would prejudice the plaintiff, and it would actually suit my schedule better than the June 4th trial date. Although, I could keep that date if it were absolutely necessary.

So, we have the defendants' list of trial conflicts. It does not appear that starting on July 2nd would cause a problem. There are some witnesses that are unavailable on certain days, but it doesn't look like the bench part of the trial will be so lengthy that we couldn't work around that.

Does the plaintiff have a problem with a July 2nd start date?

MR. CLUBOK: I think that should be fine, your Honor, with the caveat that with a little flexibility to carry into the next week as needed. Obviously, with the Fourth of July, we have to check, double check with people for that week. But, if July 2nd works for your Honor, then I think that would be fine.

THE COURT: Is the Fourth of July midweek? It is, isn't it?

MR. CLUBOK: It is a Wednesday so it is possible, I suppose, that week could be tough for some people.

THE COURT: Maybe we should start the following week, the 9th. Does that work?

MR. CLUBOK: That's okay with us, I believe.

THE COURT: Ms. Klein, does that work for you?

MS. KLEIN: Mr. Cruciani, are you still on?

MR. CRUCIANI: I am, and it does.

MR. CLUBOK: I believe that should work for us, your Honor.

THE COURT: That's very good. And let me say, also, that another significant reason for bifurcating is so that I can very carefully consider the evidence in this case and the law that counsel will brief before I present any issues to the jury assuming without suggesting one way or the other or otherwise, of course, that there may be a judgment in favor of the plaintiff. And that probably is even more important than avoiding delays due to consideration of some of the complex issues that I outlined earlier.

So I think this really will work for the best, not only for the parties to receive a considered decision, but also from the point of view of avoiding jury delays.

Now, I would like counsel to have the opportunity to brief whatever issues they wish to brief, but I think that counsel should confer on what issues they are going to brief so that each side will have the opportunity to address those issues.

And, I would also like to have counsel address the issue of the proper interpretation of CDS losses, whether the contract is ambiguous and whether parol evidence will need to be taken on that issue.

I would like to leave the call at this point and have you discuss with Ms. Barnett how long you need for this briefing, what page limits you think you need and what you want to do with the previously scheduled May 8th pretrial conference. It may be best to defer that until after we receive the briefs; but if there are other issues that you think you are going to need to deal with in the near future, we can go ahead.

So, I'm going to leave the call at this time. I'm requesting that the plaintiff obtain a copy of the transcript of today's proceedings, e-file it and file two hard copies with the clerk of the part.

The transcript will not be so ordered until I receive the hard copies.

OBJECTION TO THE PROOF OF CLAIM FILED BY REDEEMER COMMITTEE OF THE HIGHLAND CRUSADER FUND

¹ The Debtor's last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are 6725. The headquarters and service address for the Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (together, “UBS”), by and through their undersigned counsel, hereby submit this objection (the “Objection”) to Proof of Claim No. 72 (the “Proof of Claim” or “Redeemer Claim”), filed by Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (“Redeemer”). In support of this Objection, UBS respectfully states as follows:

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

The Redeemer Claim arises from an Arbitration Award issued by an American Arbitration Association (“AAA”) panel against the Debtor. As set forth herein, however, there are fundamental flaws with several key aspects of both the Arbitration Award and the Redeemer Claim generally. For one thing, the Arbitration Award that underlies the Proof of Claim is actually two competing “final” arbitration awards—both issued by the same arbitral panel in the same proceeding, but neither of which has been confirmed, or otherwise entered as a final judgment, by any court of competent jurisdiction.

In rendering these awards, the arbitral panel impermissibly substantively (and unilaterally) modified several aspects of its first “final” arbitral award after that award had already been issued. This was improper as a matter of law. Under the long-standing common law doctrine of functus officio—not to mention the binding AAA Commercial Arbitration Rules that governed the arbitration proceedings in question—“anything an arbitrator does to modify a final award after it has been issued is without effect because at that point the arbitrator lacks any power to reexamine that decision.” See Hill v. Wackenhut Servs. Int'l, 971 F. Supp. 2d 5, 12 (D.D.C. 2013); AAA R-50 (“The arbitrator is not empowered to redetermine the merits of any claim already decided.”). This fact alone renders at least $36.5 million of the amounts Redeemer is claiming through its Proof of Claim unrecoverable and subject to vacatur.

Beyond that, roughly $115 million of the remaining $154 million in claims that Redeemer asserts are functionally worthless. Such amounts relate to what Redeemer refers to as its claims for “Deferred Fees” and the “Cornerstone Award.” But under the express terms of the Arbitration Award and the Crusader Fund¹ governing documents by and between Redeemer and the Debtor, Redeemer cannot recover either the “Deferred Fees” or “Cornerstone Award” amounts from the Debtor without triggering an obligation to turn over assets of great value to the Debtor. The amounts that Redeemer must turn over to the Debtor to collect on the “Deferred Fees” and “Cornerstone Award” will, in all likelihood, eclipse any actual recovery Redeemer might receive from the Debtor’s estate on such claims as part of this bankruptcy. What that means is that Redeemer has grossly overstated its claim, and the true value of Redeemer’s legitimate and allowable claims is unlikely to exceed $40 million, at the most.

JURISDICTION

1. This Court has jurisdiction to consider the Objection under 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334. This matter is a core proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2). Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1409.

2. The statutory predicates for the requested relief are section 502 of title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”), Rule 3007 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the “Bankruptcy Rules”), and Rule 3007-1 of the Local Rules of the United States Bankruptcy Court of the Northern District of Texas (the “Local Rules”).

BACKGROUND

A. The Debtor’s Chapter 11 Bankruptcy Petition

3. The Debtor, Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor” or “HCM”), is an investment management firm that manages a variety of hedge funds, structured investment vehicles, and mutual funds.

4. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for chapter 11 relief in the Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware. Pursuant to an order dated December 4, 2019, the Debtor’s bankruptcy proceedings were transferred to this Court under the above-captioned case number.

5. On March 2, 2020, this Court entered a general Order (i) Establishing Bar Dates for Filing Claims and (ii) Approving the Form and Manner of Notice Thereof. (Dkt. No. 488.) Pursuant to that order, the general bar date for proofs of claim was set for April 8, 2020.

B. Redeemer’s Proof of Claim

6. On April 3, 2020, Redeemer filed Proof of Claim No. 72 against the Debtor. (Ex. A, Proof of Claim (“POC”) No. 72 at 1.) The Redeemer Claim is predicated upon what it refers to as the “Arbitration Award,” which is actually two separate “final” arbitration awards issued in an arbitration proceeding that Redeemer filed against the Debtor in or around 2016. (Ex. B, Partial Final Award (defined below) (the “PFA”) at 4.) Though its claims are principally based on the awards from this prepetition arbitration proceeding against HCM (which concerned only the Debtor’s alleged prepetition conduct), the Redeemer Claim takes the position that any claims it might have are not, in fact, “prepetition claims.” (Ex. A, POC Rider at 1.) Instead, Redeemer states that the Arbitration Award is actually “an executory contract under section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code” that the Debtor has not yet “moved to assume or reject.” (Id.) Redeemer, thus, purports to be filing the Proof of Claim only “out of an abundance of caution.” (Id.)

7. In its Proof of Claim, Redeemer asserts that it has a “Damage Claim” against the Debtor for “at least $190,824,557 plus interest that is accruing beginning as of October 16, 2019, the date that HCM filed its bankruptcy case.” (Id.) Redeemer then lists the “separate components of the Damage Claim,” which it notes are “set forth in the Final Award.” (Id.) The components of Redeemer’s Damage Claim that are directly relevant to UBS’s Objection are the so-called (1) “Deferred Fee Claim” (for which Redeemer claims $43,105,395); (2) “Distribution Fee Claim” ($22,922,608); (3) “Barclays Claim” ($30,811,366); (4) “Cornerstone Award” ($71,894,891); (5) “Legal Fees, Costs, and Expenses” ($11,351,850); and (6) 224 days of prejudgment interest calculated within the (a) “Taking of Plan Claims” ($171,576 of the $3,277,991 Redeemer claims); (b) “CLO Trades Claim” ($24,820 of $685,195); (c) “Credit Suisse Claim” ($151,085 of $3,660,130); and (d) “UBS Claim” ($112,776 of $2,600,968). (Id. at 1-2.)

8. In addition to the liquidated Damage Claim itself, Redeemer also asserts “an unliquidated claim for post-petition interest, attorneys’ fees, costs and other expenses that continue to accrue in connection with the Damage Claim” (the “Post-Petition Claim”). (Id. at 2.) Redeemer cites no authority in support of this Post-Petition Claim. (See generally id.)

9. Lastly, Redeemer also asserts a claim for the transfer of certain interests or, in the alternative, “an unliquidated amount” for what it refers to as the “Cancellation of Limited Partnership Interests” in the Crusader Fund held by (i) HCM and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. and (ii) Eames, Ltd. (“Eames”). (Id. at 2.) The claim for interests held by Eames appears to be based on certain relief set forth in the Final Award (and only the Final Award), which Redeemer claims provides for “HCM to transfer, or take all necessary steps to cause the transfer of, such interests to the Redeemer Committee for the benefit of the Crusader Fund.” (Id.) Similarly, Redeemer claims to reserve its right to seek the distribution of funds held in the “Deferred Fee Account,” or to claim an unliquidated amount if such distributions are not made. (Id.)

C. Background on Redeemer’s Damage Claim and the Arbitration Award

10. The events giving rise to Redeemer’s purported Damage Claim against HCM appear to be a series of disputes between Redeemer and HCM that arose out of their efforts to wind down the Crusader Fund—a lengthy process that began in or around 2008. (Ex. B, PFA at 2-3.) Specifically, Redeemer’s Damage Claim appears to relate to a contractual “Plan and Scheme” by and between Redeemer and HCM that was meant to “enable the orderly management, sale, and distribution of the assets” of the Crusader Fund as part of their wind-down. (Id. at 2.)

11. In or around July 2016, Redeemer initiated an arbitration before the AAA—which the parties agreed would be subject to the AAA Commercial Arbitration Rules—and asserted, among other things, breach of contract and fiduciary duty claims against HCM. (Id. at 3-4.) Final hearings in the arbitration were held in September 2018. (Id. at 7.) Following such hearings, closing arguments, and post-hearing briefing, “the record was declared closed” on December 12, 2018. (Id. at 7.)

12. In early 2019, the panel of arbitrators (the “Panel”) presiding over Redeemer’s arbitration against HCM rendered two separate “final” arbitral awards: an initial Partial Final Award dated March 6, 2019 (the “Partial Final Award”) and a subsequent Final Award dated April 29, 2019 (the “Final Award”). (See id.; Ex. C, Final Award (the “FA”).) The first of these awards, the Partial Final Award, was a 56-page single-spaced reasoned decision unanimously signed by all three members of the Panel, which addressed the substantive claims and counterclaims that Redeemer and HCM had raised in the arbitration. (See generally Ex. B, PFA.)

There are two aspects of the Partial Final Award that are relevant to this Objection:

- Barclays LP Interests. As part of the March 6, 2019 Partial Final Award, the Panel analyzed, discussed, and ruled on one of Redeemer’s core allegations—namely, that HCM improperly transferred certain limited partner interests in the Crusader Fund that belonged to Barclays (the “Barclays LP Interests”) from Barclays to an HCM affiliate, Eames. (See, e.g., Ex. B, PFA at 8, 15, 20-22, 54.) The Panel not only analyzed HCM’s transfers of these Barclays LP Interests, it specifically determined in the Partial Final Award that such transfers were a “breach” of the parties’ agreement and, thus, “improper.” (Id. at 21-22, 54.) But—critically—the Panel did not treat HCM’s transfers of the Barclays LP Interests to Eames as an independent wrongdoing. Instead, the Partial Final Award only ever discussed the transfer of the Barclays LP Interests in the context of one of Redeemer’s broader sets of claims, known as its “Distribution Fee Claim.” (See id. at 15; id. at 20 (analyzing “Payments to Barclays and Eames as Distributions”).) After determining that HCM’s transfers of the Barclays LP Interests were “improper,” (id. at 20-22, 54), the Panel went on to award Redeemer damages arising from such conduct as part of the Partial Final Award. In particular, the Partial Final Award provided Redeemer with a “total” of $14,452,275 in aggregate damages (plus prejudgment interest) to cover all of the “improper” conduct relating to its Distribution Fee Claim—a list that specifically included HCM’s transfers of the Barclays LP Interests.²

- Prejudgment Interest. In addition to finding HCM liable for, and awarding damages arising out of, HCM’s transfer of the Barclays LP Interests, the Panel also awarded Redeemer a limited amount of prejudgment interest for certain types of compensatory damages as part of the Partial Final Award. (See e.g., id. at 48, 54-55.) In so doing, the Panel set an outside date by which the prejudgment interest would no longer run—March 6, 2019, the date of the Partial Final Award itself. (See, e.g., id. at 54 (awarding “statutory interest of 9%, calculated on a simple basis, from the dates of taking in January and April 2016 through the date of this Partial Final Award”).)

13. On March 7, 2019—the day after the Panel issued the Partial Final Award—Redeemer sent an email to the Panel, requesting that the Panel modify the Partial Final Award. (Ex. B, FA at 1.) On March 14, 2019, before HCM even had a chance to respond, the Panel unilaterally issued a “Disposition of Application for Modification of Award” (the “Modification of Award”). (Id.) This modification added a completely new category of damages as a result of HCM’s “improper” transfer of the Barclays LP Interests—damages above and beyond the $14.5 million already ordered for such conduct in the Partial Final Award. (Id. at 1, 11.)

14. The Panel styled this addition as a formal modification under Rule 50 of the AAA Rules to “correct any clerical, typographical, or computational errors in the award.” (Id. at 1 n.1.) Under that Rule, however, the Debtor should have had “10 calendar days to respond to [Redeemer’s] request” in writing. See AAA R-50. The Debtor never got that chance. HCM opposed the Modification of Award on March 17, 2019, noting that “the Panel is not empowered to take any further action beyond the issuance of its Partial [Final] Award,” and requesting the Panel withdraw its Modification of Award and refrain from any further modification of the Partial Final Award. (Ex. C, FA at 2.)

15. Still, Redeemer requested—and the Panel granted—further modifications not once, but three times. (Id.) On April 5, 2019 (ten days after Rule 50’s allotted period had closed), Redeemer submitted another formal written request to the Panel in which it asked the Panel to “award further damages in connection with the Barclays claim,” as well as to “award prejudgment interest through” an extended date. (Id. at 2.) The Debtor again opposed Redeemer’s request for such “further damages” on the basis that such post-award modifications are improper under the AAA Rules and governing law. (Id. at 2-3.)

16. On April 29, 2019, the Panel entered a new “Final Award” that agreed to “re-adopt all prior findings and conclusions” yet superseded and “specifically modified” portions of its prior Partial Final Award. (Id. at 1.) Such modifications included the correction of four non-controversial “clerical, typographical, or computational errors.” (Id. at 11-12, 16.) But the Final Award also included a number of substantive changes to the Partial Final Award. For instance, through the Final Award, the Panel (1) awarded Redeemer an additional $21,768,743 in damages due to the transfers of the Barclays LP Interests (as well as prejudgment interest on these new damages); (2) granted injunctive relief requiring HCM to “take all necessary steps to cause the improperly taken [] LP interests currently owned and controlled by Respondent through Eames, Ltd to be returned to Claimant”; and (3) completely reconsidered the prior time limitation on prejudgment interest that it had imposed under the Partial Final Award. (Id. at 15, 18.) Instead of limiting the amounts of prejudgment interest to only those amounts that ran through March 6, 2019, the Panel now held that all prejudgment interest would run indefinitely until “the earlier of the date paid or the entry of a final judgment.” (Id. at 2, 14-15.)

17. Neither the Partial Final Award nor the Final Award (or any parts of them) has been confirmed or otherwise entered as a final judgment by any court of competent jurisdiction.

D. Redeemer and the Debtor Reach Agreement as to the Debtor’s Preferred Resolution of the Redeemer Claim

18. In recent weeks, the Court, the Debtor, and parties in interest have decided to proceed towards mediation as a way to resolve certain creditor claims and negotiate a confirmable plan of reorganization or liquidation. (See Dkt. Nos. 817, 864, and 897 (July 8, July 14, and July 21, 2020 Hr’g Tr.))

19. On July 8, 2020, the Debtor informed this Court that it and Redeemer had reached a settlement in principle as to Redeemer’s claim amount and would file their agreement when certain language was finalized. (Dkt. 817, July 8, 2020 Hr’g Tr.) The Debtor acknowledged the settlement value of the Redeemer Claim is not as simple or straightforward as with a typical arbitration award and, instead, required negotiation on various points. (Id.) The Debtor has not filed a settlement agreement, and little has been shared with UBS about the settlement. UBS files this Objection to preserve its ability to object to the resolution of the Redeemer Claim and reserves its rights to make additional objections once the settlement agreement is filed. In this case, any resolution of the Redeemer Claim is of particular interest to the Debtor’s other creditors, including UBS, because of a reciprocal obligation that was included in the Partial Final Award requiring

Redeemer to contribute certain shares of significant value to the Debtor's estate—value that other creditors would have a pro rata interest in.

20. UBS hereby objects to the Proof of Claim, including its characterization of the Arbitration Award as an “executory contract” and the allowance of those portions (including any Post-Petition Claim portions³) of the Redeemer Claim arising from the “new” relief in the Final Award. UBS further objects to any resolution of the Redeemer Claim that diminishes the value Redeemer will owe to the Debtor's estate upon payment of its claim.

ARGUMENT

I. THE ARBITRATION AWARD ON WHICH REDEEMER'S ENTIRE DAMAGE CLAIM IS BASED IS NOT AN “EXECUTORY CONTRACT.”

21. Redeemer's Damage Claim against the Debtor's estate is based entirely on the “Arbitration Award.” In its Proof of Claim, however, Redeemer takes the perplexing position that the Award—which arose from a prepetition arbitration proceeding concerning claims that related exclusively to prepetition conduct of the Debtor—does not actually reflect any general “prepetition claims” against the Debtor's estate. (Ex. A, POC Rider at 1.) Redeemer insists, instead, that the Award is actually “an executory contract under section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code.” (Id.) Because “HCM has not yet moved to assume or reject” the Award, Redeemer takes the position that its deadline to file a Proof of Claim “remains undetermined” and it is only filing the instant Proof of Claim “out of an abundance of caution.” (See id. (“By filing the Proof of Claim, [Redeemer] does not concede that the amounts awarded under the Arbitration Award are prepetition claims or that it is required to file a proof of claim to be entitled to the amounts described herein.”.) This appears to be little more than an attempt by Redeemer to transform its contingent, disputed, and unsecured prepetition litigation Damage Claim against the Debtor into something it is not—a bona fide executory contract between Redeemer and the Debtor.

22. It is axiomatic, however, that “an executory contract must be a ‘contract’ and not some other legal instrument.” See In re Denman, 513 B.R. 720, 723 (Bankr. W.D. Tenn. 2014); see also In re e2 Commc'ns, Inc., 354 B.R. 368, 402 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2006) (“An executory contract is a contract where performance remains due to some extent on both sides.”). That is the end of Redeemer’s argument that the Arbitration Award is an “executory contract” here. The Arbitration Award simply is not a contract, much less an “executory contract” under 11 U.S.C. § 365. The mere fact that the Arbitration Award imposes certain obligations on Redeemer or the parties that are to “be performed in the future and are, thereby, executory in nature” is not dispositive:

[T]he ‘executory’ nature of an obligation does not, ipso facto, imply an ‘executory contract.’ . . . Contract rights arise upon an offer, acceptance, and transfer of adequate consideration between at least two assenting parties. If these elements do not exist, a contract right does not exist and, thereby, an executory contract cannot exist.

See In re Denman, 513 B.R. at 723. Redeemer has not identified any legal authority suggesting an arbitration award can, should be, or ever has been interpreted to be an “executory contract” under 11 U.S.C. § 365. There is no such authority. Nor is there any indication the Debtor believes the Arbitration Award is an executory contract. Indeed, the comprehensive Schedule G of all “Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases” filed by the Debtor many months ago makes no reference to either Redeemer or the Arbitration Award. (See Dkt. No. 247.) That being the case, Redeemer’s attempt to recharacterize the Arbitration Award—and its related general, unsecured, contingent, and disputed Damage Claim—as an “executory contract” fails as a matter of law.

II. NEW RELIEF GRANTED BY THE FINAL AWARD IS SUBJECT TO VACATUR AND CANNOT BE THE BASIS OF ANY CLAIM AGAINST THE DEBTOR.

23. In issuing the Final Award, the Panel overstepped its fundamental authority as arbitrators. An “arbitrator derives his or her powers from the parties’ agreement to forgo the legal process and submit their disputes to private dispute resolution.” Stolt-Nielsen S.A. v. AnimalFeeds Int’l Corp., 559 U.S. 662, 682 (2009). This leads to a simple maxim: where an arbitrator has “exceeded the authority granted by the parties’ agreement to arbitrate” in rendering an award, such an award should be vacated. See Smith v. Transp. Workers Union of Am., 374 F.3d 372, 375 (5th Cir. 2004) (“If an arbitral panel exceeds its authority, it provides grounds for a court to vacate that aspect of its decision.”); Townes Telecomms., Inc. v. Travis, Wolff & Co., 291 S.W.3d 490, 493-94 (Tex. App. 2009) (vacating portion of award rendered “in direct contravention of the [parties’] agreement and which exceeded the powers granted to [the panel] by the parties”).

24. One way in which arbitrators exceed their authority is by modifying a substantive aspect of a final award after such award has already been rendered. In fact, courts across the country have long recognized, and applied, the following “general rule” to prohibit such modifications: “[O]nce an arbitration panel renders a decision regarding the issues submitted, it becomes functus officio and lacks any power to reexamine that decision.” See Colonial Penn Ins. Co. v. Omaha Indem. Co., 943 F.2d 327, 331 (3d Cir. 1991); Hill v. Wackenhut Servs. Int’l, 971 F. Supp. 2d 5, 12 (D.D.C. 2013) (“This means that anything an arbitrator does to modify a final award after it has been issued is without effect because at that point the arbitrator lacks any power to reexamine that decision.”). Indeed, the Northern District of Texas, the Fifth Circuit, and Texas state courts have specifically endorsed, and applied, this doctrine. See Weinberg v. Silber, 140 F. Supp. 2d 712, 724 (N.D. Tex. 2001) (“[T]he arbitrator shall not revisit his decision on the merits, as his authority to do so has expired.”), aff’d, 57 F. App’x 211 (5th Cir. 2003); Smith, 374 F.3d at 375 (“By modifying the original award, the arbitration panel in this case exceeded the authority granted by the parties’ agreement to arbitrate.”); Barsness v. Scott, 126 S.W.3d 232, 241 (Tex. App. 2003) (“When the panel subsequently modified its original award, . . . the panel exceeded its authority.”).

25. This doctrine is so pervasive that it is codified directly into the AAA’s Commercial Arbitration Rules. In particular, Rule 50 of the AAA Rules—entitled “Modification of Award”—states that “within 20 calendar days after the transmittal of an award,” the parties “may request the arbitrator” to “correct any clerical, typographical, or computational errors in the award,” but “[t]he arbitrator is not empowered to redetermine the merits of any claim already decided.” See AAA R-50.

26. Here, the Panel did precisely what it was not permitted to do: It rendered a comprehensive initial Partial Final Award, but then—at Redeemer’s urging—issued a series of subsequent decisions to modify that Partial Final Award, in which the Panel redetermined the merits of claims previously decided. This culminated in a new “Final Award” that materially modified, and is at direct odds with, key aspects of the Panel’s own prior Partial Final Award. This new Final Award improperly modified the Partial Final Award in two distinct ways.

27. First, the Final Award dramatically expanded HCM’s purported liability for Redeemer’s claim that HCM had improperly transferred the Barclays LP Interests to Eames. Whereas the Partial Final Award had awarded Redeemer total damages in the amount of $14,452,275 (and prejudgment interest through March 6, 2019) for the Distribution Fee Claim, including for HCM’s “improper” transfer of Barclays LP Interests, the Panel elected in the Final Award to grant Redeemer an additional $21,768,743 in damages arising out of HCM’s “improper” transfer of the Barclays LP Interests. (Ex. C, FA at 18.) That is not all. The Final Award also awarded Redeemer prejudgment interest on these new compensatory damages—a sum that, on its own, adds yet another $9,042,623 to the mix. (Id.) All told, the Panel’s modification of these aspects of the Partial Final Award resulted in a combined total of $30,811,366 in new damages for HCM’s transfers of the Barclays LP Interests—an amount Redeemer itself now refers to as the “Barclays Claim.” (Ex. A, POC Rider at 2.) On top of these additional liquidated damages, the Panel ordered HCM to “take all necessary steps to cause the improperly taken [] LP interests currently owned and controlled by Respondent through Eames, Ltd to be transferred to Claimant . . . within sixty (60) days from the date of transmittal of this Final Award”—mandatory injunctive relief that is also not mentioned anywhere in the Partial Final Award. (Ex. C, FA at 18.)

28. Second, in the Final Award, the Panel reconsidered its prior ruling on prejudgment interest from the Partial Final Award. The Panel had previously ordered that HCM pay Redeemer a finite amount of prejudgment interest (9% per simple interest annum) “through the date of this Partial Final Award” (March 6, 2019), (Ex. B, PFA at 14), yet the Panel threw that limitation out entirely in the Final Award. After openly acknowledging its prior ruling, (see Ex. C, FA at 14 (“In the March 6 Partial Final Award, we awarded damages and interest through the date of that award”)), the Panel announced in the Final Award that it was doing away with that March 6, 2019 end date and, instead, all such interest would run through “the earlier of the date paid or the entry of a final judgment,” (id. at 2, 14). In addition to the $30.8 million in additional damages for the Barclays LP Interests, the additional interest contemplated by the Final Award accounted for at least another $5,698,571 through the Petition Date.⁴

29. Under Rule 50 of the AAA Rules, the only way these post-award modifications might have been allowed is if they were legitimate attempts to correct “clerical, typographical, or computational errors” in the Partial Final Award. See AAA R-50. They are not. For starters, the Final Award very clearly contains modifications to address four simple “clerical errors” (all four of which were self-evident typos). (Ex. C, FA at 11-12.) Any suggestion that the two major modifications discussed above were also “clerical” in nature is belied by their sweeping impact. Prior to the Final Award, the aggregate amount of compensatory damages expressly awarded to Redeemer under the original Partial Final Award would have been roughly $142 million (excluding fees and costs and assuming prejudgment interest through March 6, 2019). The two modifications that the Panel made described above, standing alone, immediately add no less than $36.5 million to that compensatory damages sum—more than a 25% increase. In addition to these additional monetary damages, the modifications also impose mandatory injunctive relief purporting to require HCM to take the Barclays LP Interests from Eames and transfer them to Redeemer.⁵ (Ex. C, FA at 18.) Redeemer cannot seriously expect any court to view such changes that fundamentally alter—and, in this instance, significantly increase and enhance—the relief granted as a mere correction of a “clerical error.”

30. The only explanation the Panel itself has for these major modifications removes all doubt that they were not “clerical” in nature. In the Final Award, the Panel tries to excuse the new damages it awarded relating to the Barclays LP Interests by claiming there was “a paragraph missing from the damages portion” that it had left out of the Partial Final Award inadvertently. (Id. at 9.) But courts have considered, and rejected, this exact “explanation” before. See Wein v.

Morris, 909 A.2d 1186, 1198 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. 2006) (deciding that AAA Rule 46, the predecessor to Rule 50, does not allow modifications to address “inadvertent omissions” and “neither expressly states nor suggests that claims denied through inadvertence could also be revisited”).

31. In reality, both of the modifications here are simply attempts by the Panel to “redetermine the merits of [a] claim already decided.” See AAA R-50. Indeed, both modifications related to issues that had already been directly addressed by the Partial Final Award. Not only had they been addressed, the Panel explicitly found in the Partial Final Award that HCM was liable for both transferring the Barclays LP Interests and for prejudgment interest. (Ex. B, PFA at 53-54.) In the Final Award, however, the Panel—at Redeemer’s urging—revisited these same issues and simply arrived at new, different substantive conclusions. The Panel concedes as much. With regard to prejudgment interest, the Panel freely admitted that “the March Partial Final Award contained specific language awarding interest ‘through the date of this Partial Final Award,’” but decided to reach a different conclusion in the Final Award because, in its own view, the prior ruling in the Partial Final Award was “not determinative of this issue.” (Ex. C, FA at 15.) That, however, is exactly what the Panel cannot do. Where, as here, the panel issued a partial final award as to a particular issue or issues, any partial final award on such issues is rendered, by definition, determinative of the issue. See Fluor Daniel Intercontinental, Inc. v. GE, 2007 WL 766290, at *2-3 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 13, 2007); see also Trade & Transp., Inc. v. Nat. Petroleum Charterers Inc., 931 F.2d 191, 195 (2d Cir. 1991). Since the Partial Final Award here specifically addressed both HCM’s liability for transferring the Barclays LP Interests and the amount of prejudgment interest to which Redeemer would be entitled, “the arbitrators ha[d] no further authority, absent agreement by the parties, to redetermine [such] issue[s]” after rendering the Partial Final Award as a matter of law. Trade & Transp., Inc., 931 F.2d at 195.

32. For the above reasons, the portions of the Final Award reflecting these improper, material modifications are examples of the Panel exceeding its authority and are subject to vacatur. Smith, 374 F.3d at 375 (“If an arbitral panel exceeds its authority, it provides grounds for a court to vacate that aspect of its decision.”). Accordingly, UBS objects to any and all portions of Redeemer’s Proof of Claim that rely on, or relate to, these modifications to the Partial Final Award.

III. ANY VALUATION OF REDEEMER’S CLAIMS MUST TAKE INTO ACCOUNT RECIPROCAL OBLIGATIONS REDEEMER OWES TO THE DEBTOR.

33. In addition to the vacatur issues described above, two of the largest components of its overall Damage Claim against the Debtor’s estate—namely, its claims relating to the “Cornerstone Award” and the “Deferred Fee Claim”—are amounts on which Redeemer has no legitimate hope of any real recovery. This is due entirely to reciprocal rights relating to the “Cornerstone Award” and “Deferred Fee Claim” that Redeemer owes to the Debtor itself under the terms of the Arbitration Award, as well as the binding “Plan and Scheme” that governs the conduct of the Crusader Fund dissolution.

34. First, Redeemer’s Proof of Claim attributes $71,894,891 of its overall claims to what it refers to as the “Cornerstone Award.” (Ex. A, POC Rider at 2.) This is a reference to the order in the Final Award that HCM pay $48,070,407 to purchase the Cornerstone shares from Redeemer at a fair market valuation of $3,241.43 per share (plus an additional $23,824,484 in prejudgment interest). (Ex. C, FA at 17; see also Ex. B, PFA at 48, 55.) Under the terms of the Final Award, however, the obligations with regard to the “Cornerstone Award” run both ways. In fact, the Final Award is clear that “[w]hen the amount awarded for the Cornerstone claim is paid by” the Debtor—including, for instance, pursuant to any confirmed plan of reorganization or liquidation in these proceedings—Redeemer immediately “shall cause the Crusader Fund to tender its Cornerstone shares to [the Debtor].” (Ex. C, FA at 17; see also Ex. B, 55.)

35. In other words, upon receipt of payment by HCM of the “Cornerstone Award” portion of its claim, Redeemer must immediately cause the specific Cornerstone shares in question (which are currently in Redeemer’s control) to be turned over to HCM. This remains true even if Redeemer only recovers pennies on the dollar for its overall prepetition claim under any ultimate plan of reorganization or liquidation. What that means is that the true “value” of Redeemer’s “Cornerstone Award” claim must take into account the need to immediately give up the value of the Cornerstone shares themselves. Based on recent valuations of the Cornerstone shares in question, the “value” of such claim against the Debtor’s estate is far less than $71.9 million. By UBS’s estimate, the shares are worth approximately $40 million—potentially more. In all likelihood, Redeemer will tender more in value to HCM when it is forced to turn over the Cornerstone shares than it could ever recover on this portion of its prepetition claims.

36. Second, $43,105,395 of the Redeemer Claim is based on its so-called “Deferred Fee Claim.” (Ex. A, POC Rider at 1.) This appears to represent the $32,313,000 HCM was ordered to pay in the Final Award as a result of Redeemer’s “Deferred Fee Claim” and $10,792,395 in prejudgment interest. But under the Crusader Fund’s Plan and Scheme—contracts to which both Redeemer and the Debtor are parties—Redeemer has no right to retain the full $32,313,000 of such “Deferred Fees.” Instead, upon a final and full liquidation of all remaining Crusader Fund interests, such fees will take a “round trip” and the contractual Deferred Fees must be paid back by Redeemer to HCM. (Ex. B, PFA at 9 (“Deferred Fees were annual performance fees payable to Highland but deferred until, as, and when there would be a ‘complete liquidation’ of the Crusader Funds’ assets.”).) As with the obligation to turn over the Cornerstone shares, this obligation to pay back the Deferred Fees will likely trigger upon any payment of the allowed prepetition claim amount as a result of HCM's bankruptcy. Moreover, as with its claim relating to the Cornerstone shares, Redeemer will almost certainly end up giving more to the Debtor through this pay-back obligation than it would receive on its "Deferred Fee Claim" under any plan of restructuring or liquidation.

37. In light of these reciprocal obligations owed by Redeemer to the Debtor, the $115 million in claim value that Redeemer's Proof of Claim attributes to the Cornerstone Award and Deferred Fee components is vastly overstated, to say the least. In reality, Redeemer will likely be forced to turn over assets to the Debtor that are worth markedly more than the amounts it might ultimately recover on these components of its overall Damage Claim.

CONCLUSION

38. For the foregoing reasons, UBS respectfully submits that Redeemer's Proof of Claim is improper and overstated and, thus, requests that it be appropriately reduced and disallowed.

RIDER TO THE PROOFS OF CLAIM OF THE REDEEMER
COMMITTEE OF THE HIGHLAND CRUSADER FUND

This Rider is part of the proof of claim (the “Proof of Claim”) filed by the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (the “Redeemer Committee”) against Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCM” or the “Debtor”).

On March 6, 2019, a panel of arbitrators issued a Partial Final Award (the “March Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM. On April 29, 2019, the panel issued a Final Award (the “Final Award,” and together with the March Award, the “Arbitration Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM.¹ The Arbitration Award is subject to the Federal Arbitration Act and The Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards. The Redeemer Committee timely moved to confirm the Award in the Delaware Chancery Court. HCM moved for partial vacatur of the Arbitration Award in June 2019. The time period to move to vacate the Arbitration Award expired prior to the Petition Date (as defined below). All capitalized terms that are not defined herein have the meanings given to such terms in the Arbitration Award.

The Redeemer Committee files this Proof of Claim out of an abundance of caution. The Arbitration Award is an executory contract under section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. HCM has not yet moved to assume or reject the contract. Accordingly, the deadline to file a proof of claim remains undetermined. By filing the Proof of Claim, the Redeemer Committee does not concede that the amounts awarded under the Arbitration Award are prepetition claims or that it is required to file a proof of claim to be entitled to the amounts described herein. The Redeemer Committee reserves all rights to amend or modify this Proof of Claim in any respect, including to assert other or additional claims, or for the purpose of fixing or liquidating any contingent or unliquidated claims. This Proof of Claim is without prejudice to any other rights the Redeemer Committee may have against the Debtor, its officers, employees, successors, or assigns.

This Proof of Claim includes the following components, and each is based on the Arbitration Award (together, the “Claim”):

1. Damage Claim. The Redeemer Committee asserts a liquidated claim for at least $190,824,557 plus interest that is accruing beginning as of October 16, 2019, the date that HCM filed its bankruptcy case (the “Petition Date”). As set forth in the Final Award, the separate components of the Damage Claim are as follows, and the amounts set forth below are as of the Petition Date, including prepetition interest awarded under the Arbitration Award accrued to the Petition Date:
 - a. Deferred Fee Claim: $43,105,395 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.1)
 - b. Distribution Fee Claim: $22,922,608 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.2)

¹ Copies of the Arbitral Award have previously been provided the Debtor, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors, and the Office of the United States Trustee. The Redeemer Committee reserves the right to file a copy of the Arbitral Award with the Bankruptcy Court.

- c. Taking of Plan Claims: $3,277,991 (Final Award ¶ F.a.v)
- d. CLO Trades Claim: $685,195 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vi)
- e. Credit Suisse Claim: $3,660,130 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vii)
- f. UBS Claim: $2,600,968 (Final Award ¶ F.a.viii)
- g. Barclays Claim: $30,811,366 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)
- h. Legal Fees, Costs, and Expenses: $11,351,850 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xi)
- i. Administrative Fees: $514,164 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xii)
- j. Cornerstone Award: $71,894,891 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)

The Redeemer Committee also asserts an unliquidated claim for post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses that continue to accrue in connection with the Damage Claim.

2. Cancellation of Limited Partnership Interests. The Final Award provides, in relevant part, for the cancellation of the limited partnership interests in the Crusader Fund that are (i) held by HCM and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. that are identified in RC411, and (ii) held by Eames, Ltd. (Final Award ¶¶ F.a.v and F.a.x). The Final Award provides for HCM to transfer, or take all necessary steps to cause the transfer of, such interests to the Redeemer Committee for the benefit of the Crusader Fund. The Final Award also provides that the Redeemer Committee has the independent right to cause the Crusader Fund to cancel such limited partnership interests. The Redeemer Committee reserves the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cancel such limited partnership interests in accordance with the Final Award. The Redeemer Committee asserts a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such limited partnership interests are not cancelled in accordance with the Final Award.
3. Deferred Fee Account. The Arbitration Award granted the Redeemer Committee's request for a declaratory judgment with respect to the immediate distribution of the Deferred Fee Account, which the Crusader Fund continues to hold, and ordered the payment of the funds in such account to the Redeemer Committee for disbursement to the Consenting Compulsory Redeemers (March Award ¶ VII.D; Final Award ¶ F.a). The Redeemer Committee reserves the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cause the distribution of the funds held in the Deferred Fee Account in accordance with the Arbitration Award. The Redeemer Committee asserts a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such funds are not distributed in accordance with the Arbitration Award.

The Redeemer Committee expressly reserves all of its procedural and substantive defenses and rights with respect to any claim that may be asserted against the Redeemer Committee by the Debtor, including any rights of setoff or recoupment.

The filing of this Claim shall not constitute: (i) an admission of liability by the Redeemer Committee to any party; (ii) a waiver or release of the Redeemer Committee's rights against any person, entity, or property; (iii) a consent by the Redeemer Committee to the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court with respect to the subject matter of this Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases or otherwise involving the Redeemer Committee; (iv) a waiver of the right to move to withdraw the reference to the subject matter of this Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant; (v) a waiver of the right to have final orders entered only after de novo review by a United States Judge; (vi) its right to trial by jury in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy, or proceeding related to these cases; (vii) its right to arbitration under the Plan and Scheme; (viii) an election of remedies; or (ix) any other rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, or recoupments to which it is or may be entitled under agreements, in law, in equity, or otherwise, all of which rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, and recoupments are expressly reserved.

This stipulation (the “Stipulation”) is made and entered into by and among (i) Highland Capital Management, L.P., as debtor and debtor-in-possession (the “Debtor”), (ii) Eames, Ltd., (“Eames”), (iii) the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (the “Redeemer Committee”), (iv) Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P., Highland Crusader Fund, L.P., Highland Crusader Fund, Ltd., and Highland Crusader Fund II, Ltd. (collectively, the “Crusader Funds” and together with the Debtor, Eames, and the Redeemer Committee, the “Parties”), (v) solely with respect to paragraphs 10 through 15 of this Stipulation, Hockney, Ltd., Strand Advisors, Inc., Highland Special Opportunities Holding Company (“SOHC”), Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P., Highland Financial Partners, L.P. (“HFPLP” and together with SOHC, the “Contingent Parties”), Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P., and Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P. (collectively, the “Highland Additional Release Parties”), and (vi) solely with respect to paragraphs 10 through 15 of this Stipulation, House Hanover, LLC, and Alvarez & Marsal CRF Management, LLC, (collectively, the “Crusader Additional Release Parties,” and together with the Highland Additional Release Parties, the “Additional Release Parties”). This Stipulation provides for the allowance of general unsecured claims against the Debtor, for the Debtor and Eames to consent to the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds implementing certain terms of the Arbitration Award (as defined below), and for the Debtor to take certain actions in connection with such implementation.

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for relief under title 11 of the United States Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”). The Debtor is managing and operating its business as a debtor-in-possession pursuant to sections 1107(a) and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code;

WHEREAS, the Debtor's chapter 11 case is pending in the Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division (the "Bankruptcy Court");

WHEREAS, the Debtor served as the investment manager for the Crusader Funds until August 4, 2016, as of which date the Redeemer Committee, as set forth in a letter and notice dated July 5, 2016, terminated the Debtor;

WHEREAS, on July 5, 2016, the Redeemer Committee commenced an arbitration against the Debtor by filing a Notice of Claim with the American Arbitration Association in which it asserted various claims arising from the Debtor's service as the investment manager for the Crusader Funds (the "Arbitration");

WHEREAS, following an evidentiary hearing during the Arbitration, the panel of arbitrators issued (a) a Partial Final Award, dated March 6, 2019 (the "March Award"), (b) a Disposition of Application for Modification of Award, dated March 14, 2019 (the "Modification Award"); and (c) a Final Award, dated May 9, 2019 (the "Final Award," and together with the March Award and the Modification Award, the "Arbitration Award");

WHEREAS, as of the Petition Date, the aggregate amount of the damages awarded under the Arbitration Award, including the accrual of pre-judgment interest but before applying any offsets, was $190,824,557, which amount includes the Debtor's obligation to purchase the shares of Cornerstone Healthcare Group ("Cornerstone") that are held by the Crusader Funds in exchange for the sum of (a) $48,070,407 million in cash, and (b) accrued pre-judgment interest on such amount;

WHEREAS, in addition to awarding monetary damages, the Arbitration Award also provided for, among other things, (i) the cancellation of all limited partnership interests or shares in the Crusader Funds that are held by the Debtor, Eames, and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P.

(“Charitable DAF”), respectively, and (ii) the Crusader Fund to disburse the funds held in the Deferred Fee Account¹ to the Consenting Compulsory Redeemers;

WHEREAS, on April 3, 2020, the Redeemer Committee filed a proof of claim in respect of the Arbitration Award, Proof of Claim number 72 (“Claim 72”);

WHEREAS, on April 6, 2020, the Crusader Funds filed a proof of claim, Proof of Claim number 81 (“Claim 81”) that asserted a claim in the alternative to the Redeemer Committee Proof of Claim for at least $23,483,446 in respect of certain fees that the Crusader Funds had paid to the Debtor prior to the Debtor being terminated (the “Crusader Funds Fee Claim”);

WHEREAS, the Debtor has asserted that it is entitled to certain credits or offsets with respect to the damages provided in the Arbitration Award, and that it is has certain meritorious defenses with respect to the Crusader Funds Fee Claim;

WHEREAS, the Parties have agreed to settle and resolve all claims and disputes between and among them, including Claim 72 and Claim 81, and for the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds to implement certain relief granted in the Arbitration Award on the terms and conditions set forth in this Stipulation, and the Parties and the Additional Release Parties have agreed to exchange the mutual releases set forth herein:

AGREEMENT

NOW, THEREFORE, after good-faith, arms-length negotiations, in consideration of the foregoing, it is hereby stipulated and agreed that:

1. Claim 72 shall be allowed in the amount of $137,696,610 as a general unsecured claim.

¹ All capitalized terms not defined herein shall have the meanings given to such terms in (i) the Arbitration Award and (ii) the Joint Plan of Distribution of the Crusader Funds, and the Scheme of Arrangement between Highland Crusader Fund II, Ltd. and its Scheme Creditors (together, the “Crusader Plan”).

2. Claim 81 shall be allowed in the amount of $50,000 as a general unsecured claim.

3. The Debtor and Eames each consent to the Crusader Funds, on or after the date an order of the Bankruptcy Court approving this Stipulation pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019 and section 363 of the Bankruptcy Code becomes a final and non-appealable order (the “Stipulation Effective Date”), cancelling or extinguishing all of the limited partnership interests and shares in the Crusader Funds held by each of them respectively (collectively, the “Cancelled Highland and Eames Interests”), as provided for in the Arbitration Award. Each of the Debtor and Eames represents solely for itself that (a) it has the authority to consent to the cancellation or extinguishment of the Cancelled Highland and Eames Interests that it holds, and (b) upon the occurrence of the Stipulation Effective Date, no other actions by or on behalf of it are necessary for such cancellation or extinguishment. Each of the Debtor and Eames agrees that it will not object to the Crusader Funds, on or after the Stipulation Effective Date, cancelling or extinguishing the limited partnership interests or shares in the Crusader Funds held by Charitable DAF (the “Cancelled DAF Interests,” and together with the Cancelled Highland and Eames Interests, the “Cancelled LP Interests”). Each of the Debtor and Eames acknowledges that the cancellation or extinguishment of the Cancelled LP Interests is intended to implement Sections F.a.v and F.a.x.2 of the Final Award.²

4. The Parties acknowledge that the limited partnership interests or shares in the Crusader Funds held by the following entities and individuals shall not be extinguished pursuant to this Stipulation: Highland Capital Management Multi-Strategy Insurance Dedicated Fund, L.P.; Highland Capital Management Services; Highland 401(k) Plan; Highland 401(k) Plan Retirement Plan and Trust; Highland 401(k) Plan Retirement Plan and Trust II; James Dondero;

and Mark Okada (collectively, the “Retained LP Interests”).

5. Each of the Debtor and Eames acknowledges and agrees that (a) the Crusader Funds have reserved (i) distributions that, absent the Arbitration Award, would have been payable in respect of the Cancelled LP Interests, (ii) funds in respect of Deferred Fees and the Deferred Fee Account that, absent the Debtor’s termination as investment manager for the Crusader Funds and the Arbitration Award, may have been payable to the Debtor in accordance with the Crusader Plan and (iii) certain other monies as to which the Debtor and Eames may have had an interest in the absence of this Stipulation (the reserved distributions and funds described in subparagraphs (i), (ii) and (iii), collectively, the “Reserved Distributions”); (b) the Crusader Funds, after the Stipulation Effective Date, intend to distribute in accordance with the Crusader Plan to the applicable holders of limited partnership interests or shares in the Crusader Funds the Reserved Distributions, and that the Debtor, Eames, and Charitable DAF shall not receive any part of such distribution; and (c) after giving effect to the cancellation or extinguishment of the Cancelled LP Interests, none of the Debtor, Eames, or Charitable DAF shall receive any further distributions, payments or fees from the Crusader Funds, including without limitation the Reserved Distributions, on account of any of the Cancelled LP Interests or any other role or position of the Debtor with respect to the Crusader Funds (including but not limited to its role as the investment manager for the Crusader Funds until August 4, 2016). The Debtor acknowledges and agrees that, beginning as of the Stipulation Effective Date, it will not receive any payments from the Crusader Funds in respect of any Deferred Fees, Distribution Fees, or Management Fees. Without limiting the foregoing, the Parties acknowledge and agree that the funds described in the first sentence of this paragraph include monies held in reserve with respect to the Reserved Distributions, the Deferred Fee Account, any Deferred Fees currently accrued or that might have accrued in the future, any Distribution Fees, and any Management Fees.

6. The Debtor represents that, to its actual knowledge and subject to paragraph 4 above, it does not control any fund, or hold any equity interest in any entity, that holds a claim against the Crusader Funds or the Redeemer Committee (including any claims in respect of the Cornerstone shares held by the Crusader Funds, but excluding, with respect to the Crusader Funds, the right to receive distributions with respect to the Retained LP Interests).

7. On the Stipulation Effective Date, the Amended and Restated Shareholders Agreement, substantially in the form attached as Exhibit A, which shall have been executed by all parties thereto, shall be jointly released by the Parties from escrow and become effective (as executed, the "Cornerstone Shareholders Agreement"). In the event that such fully executed agreement is not released from escrow on the Stipulation Effective Date for any reason other than the Redeemer Committee or the Crusader Funds not authorizing such agreement's release from escrow, then this Stipulation shall be of no force and effect, and this Stipulation (including the agreements and settlements incorporated herein) may not be used by any Party for any purpose.

8. Except as otherwise provided in a plan of reorganization proposed by the Debtor and or other entities and agreed to by the Redeemer Committee, the Debtor shall, in good faith, use commercially reasonable efforts to monetize all shares of capital stock of Cornerstone held by the Debtor, any funds that the Debtor manages, and the Crusader Funds (collectively, the "Cornerstone Shares"), in accordance with the schedule attached hereto as Exhibit B (the "Schedule"), in order to maximize, to the extent possible under the circumstances, the proceeds of such monetization to each such entity. [REDACTED] with respect to: (a) the Crusader Funds, including but not limited to any claims, defenses, and affirmative defenses which were or could have been brought, or which otherwise concern or are related to: (i) the Arbitration, (ii) the Debtor's service as investment manager or General Partner for the Crusader Funds, (iii) Alvarez & Marsal CRF Management, LLC's service as replacement manager of the Crusader Funds, (iv) House Hanover, LLC, as General Partner of the Crusader Funds, (v) the Cancelled LP Interests, and (vi) any distributions or payments with respect to the Deferred Fee Account, Deferred Fees, Management Fees, Distribution Fees, or Reserved Distributions, and (b) the alleged fraudulent transfers and all other claims asserted by UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (collectively, "UBS") in UBS Securities LLC, et al v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097-2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.) or by UBS in the Debtor's chapter 11 case (collectively, the "UBS Claims"), including but not limited to claims that the Debtor or any Additional Highland Release Party could assert for contribution, indemnity or joint tortfeasor liability in connection with the UBS Claims; provided, however, that such release shall not apply with respect to the obligations of the Redeemer Committee, each of the Crusader Funds, or each of the Crusader Additional Release Parties pursuant to this Stipulation, including Exhibit B hereto, and the Cornerstone Shareholders Agreement.

- B. To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, the Redeemer Committee, each of the Crusader Funds, and each Crusader Additional Release Party irrevocably releases, acquits, exonerates, and forever discharges (i) the Debtor, Eames, and each Highland Additional Release Party, and (ii) with respect to each such person set forth in (i) above, such person's predecessors, successors, assigns and affiliates (whether by operation of law or otherwise), and each of their respective present and former members, officers, directors, employees, managers, financial advisors, attorneys, accountants, investment bankers, consultants, professionals, advisors, shareholders, principals, partners, employees, subsidiaries, divisions, management companies, and other representatives, in each case acting in such capacity, from all manner of actions, whether in law, in equity, or statutory, and whether presently known or unknown, matured or contingent, liquidated or unliquidated, including any claims, defenses, and affirmative defenses which were or could have been asserted with respect to: (a) the Crusader Funds, including but not limited to any claims, defenses, and affirmative defenses which were or could have been brought, or which otherwise concern or are related to: (i) the Arbitration, (ii) the Debtor's service as investment manager or General Partner for the Crusader Funds, (iii) the Cancelled LP Interests, and (iv) any distributions or payments with respect to the Deferred Fee Account, Deferred Fees, Management Fees, Distribution Fees, or Reserved Distributions, and (b) the alleged fraudulent transfers and all other claims asserted by UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (collectively, “UBS”) in UBS Securities LLC, et al v. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., et al, No. 650097-2009 (N.Y. Sup. Ct.) or by UBS in the Debtor’s chapter 11 case (collectively, the “UBS Claims”), including but not limited to claims that the Redeemer Committee, the Crusader Funds, or any Additional Crusader Release Party could assert for contribution, indemnity or joint tortfeasor liability in connection with the UBS Claims; provided, however, that (I) such release shall not apply with respect to the obligations of the Debtor, Eames, or each of the Highland Additional Release Parties under this Stipulation, including Exhibit B hereto, the allowance of or distributions in respect of Claim 72 and Claim 81, and the Cornerstone Shareholders Agreement; (II) notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, neither James Dondero nor Mark Okada, nor any entities owned or controlled by either of them, other than the Debtor, Eames, and any Highland Additional Release Party solely with respect to such entities and not as to any capacity in which James Dondero or Mark Okada had an interest in or served with respect to such entities, is released from any claims, including without limitation any claims arising from obligations owed to the Debtor; and provided further, and solely for the avoidance of doubt, that none of the releases set forth herein shall impair the right or ability of the applicable holders of Claim 72 or Claim 81 to receive distributions of any kind from the Debtor’s estate in satisfaction of such respective claims in the amounts and on such terms as are provided for herein; and (III) in the event any of the Highland Additional Release Parties fails to execute this Stipulation, this Release is null, void and of no legal effect as to that non-signing Highland Additional Release Party.

11. At present, certain of the Parties are engaged in one or more of the following pending lawsuits and actions: (a) Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund v. Highland Capital Management, L.P., Chancery Court, Delaware, C.A. No. 12533-VCG (the “Delaware Action”); (b) Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund and Highland Capital Management, L.P., Supreme Court of Bermuda, Civil Jurisdiction, Case No. 01-16-0002-6927 (“Bermuda Action No. 1”); (c) Highland Capital Management, L.P. and Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund, Supreme Court of Bermuda, Civil Jurisdiction (Commercial Court), 2017: No. 308 (“Bermuda Action No. 2”); and (d) Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund and Highland Capital Management, L.P., Grand Court of Cayman

Islands, Financial Services Division, Cause No. 153 of 2019 (CRJ) (the “Grand Cayman Action” and together with the Delaware Action and Bermuda Action No. 1, the “Redeemer Actions”). The Parties agree that (1) as of the Stipulation Effective Date, the Redeemer Committee and each of the Crusader Funds covenants not to prosecute, and shall refrain from prosecuting, any of the Redeemer Actions against the Debtor, Eames, or any of the Highland Additional Release Parties, and (2) as soon as reasonably practicable after the Stipulation Effective Date, the Debtor shall cause Bermuda Action No. 2 to be dismissed with prejudice.

12. This Stipulation, together with the Cornerstone Shareholders Agreement and the Schedule, contains the entire agreement between and among the Parties and the Additional Release Parties as to its subject matter and supersedes and replaces any and all prior agreements and undertakings between and among the Parties and the Additional Release Parties relating thereto.

13. This Stipulation may not be modified other than by a signed writing executed by the Parties; provided, however, that paragraphs 10 through 15 may not be modified other than by a signed writing that is also executed by the Additional Release Parties.

14. Each person who executes this Stipulation represents that he or she is duly authorized to do so on behalf of the respective Party or Additional Release Party and that each Party or Additional Release Party has full knowledge and has consented to this Stipulation, provided, however, that (a) the effectiveness of the Debtor’s execution of this Stipulation shall be subject to entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court approving this Stipulation and authorizing the Debtor’s execution thereof, and (b) the Redeemer Committee represents and warrants to the Debtor, Eames, and each of the Highland Additional Release Parties that, in conformity with the Redeemer Committee’s corporate governance documents, at least the minimum number of members of the Redeemer Committee have executed this Stipulation to cause it to be legally binding on the Redeemer Committee.

15. The Debtor shall use commercially reasonable efforts to cause each of the Contingent Parties to execute this Stipulation not later than the date on which the Bankruptcy Court enters an order confirming a plan of reorganization or liquidation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Parties acknowledge and agree that the failure of either or both of the Contingent Parties to execute this Stipulation shall not affect (a) the rights, obligations, or duties of any of the Parties or (b) the enforceability of this Stipulation.

16. Not later than September 23, 2020, the Debtor shall file with the Bankruptcy Court a motion for an order approving this Stipulation, which motion shall be in form and substance satisfactory to the Crusader Funds and the Redeemer Committee, pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019 and section 363 of the Bankruptcy Code.

17. This Stipulation may be executed in counterparts (including facsimile and electronic transmission counterparts), each of which will be deemed an original but all of which together constitute one and the same instrument, and shall be effective against a Party or Additional Release Party upon the Stipulation Effective Date.

18. This Stipulation will be exclusively governed by and construed and enforced in accordance with the laws of the State of New York, without regard to its conflicts of law principles, and all claims relating to or arising out of this Stipulation, or the breach thereof, whether sounding in contract, tort, or otherwise, will likewise be governed by the laws of the State of New York, excluding New York's conflicts of law principles. The Bankruptcy Court will retain exclusive jurisdiction over all disputes relating to this Stipulation.

AMENDED & RESTATED STOCKHOLDERS' AGREEMENT

THIS AMENDED & RESTATED STOCKHOLDERS' AGREEMENT (the "Agreement") is made as of the [●] day of [●], 2020 by and among (i) Cornerstone Healthcare Group Holding, Inc., a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), (ii) certain holders of the Company's common stock (the "Common Stock") (each of which is referred to herein as a "Stockholder" and collectively as the "Stockholders"), and (iii) Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership ("HCMLP"). HCMLP (if and to the extent it is or becomes a Stockholder) and the Stockholders that are affiliates of HCMLP, including any investment funds controlled by or under common control with, or managed directly or indirectly by, HCMLP are collectively referred to herein as "Highland Capital" and are set forth on Schedule A, as it may be updated from time to time. Individual Stockholders that are part of the Highland Capital group of Stockholders are sometimes referred to as a "Highland Capital Stockholders." Any Stockholders other than Highland Capital Stockholders are collectively referred to herein as the "Remaining Stockholders" and are set forth on Schedule B, as it may be updated from time to time. All references in this Agreement to "Crusader" shall mean and include, as the case may be, (x) Highland Crusader Holding Corp., (y) any of its successors or assigns and (y) any purchaser or transferee of any Securities that at any time were held by Highland Crusader Holding Corp. (i.e., any purchaser or transferee of Securities from Highland Crusader Holding Corp. and any subsequent purchasers or transferees of any such Securities).

RECITALS:

WHEREAS, the Company, the Stockholders and HCMLP are parties to that certain Stockholders' Agreement of the Company, dated as of March 24, 2010 (as the same may have been amended, modified or supplemented in accordance with its terms, the "First Stockholders' Agreement").

WHEREAS, the Stockholders hold shares of Common Stock of the Company, and the Stockholders, the Company and HCMLP desire to enter into this Agreement to (i) provide certain rights to, and impose certain restrictions on, the Stockholders and HCMLP with respect to the Common Stock held by them and (ii) amend and modify certain provisions in the First Stockholders' Agreement.

AGREEMENT:

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing premises, the mutual promises and covenants set forth herein, and certain other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto agree as follows:

ARTICLE I

TRANSFER RESTRICTIONS; RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL

Section 1.1 Restrictions on Transfer.

(a) Generally. During the term of this Agreement, all of the Common Stock and any other equity securities (collectively, "Securities") now owned or hereafter acquired by any Stockholder shall be subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement. No transfer, whether voluntary or involuntary, of the Securities shall be valid unless it is made pursuant to the terms and conditions of this Agreement; and, accordingly, any proposed transfer not made in compliance with the requirements of this Agreement shall be null and void ab initio, shall not be recorded on the books of the Company or its transfer agent, and shall not be recognized by the Company.

(b) Permitted Transfers. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the first refusal rights and co-sale rights of the Company and Highland Capital, as set forth below in this Article I, shall not apply to (i) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder to any such Stockholder's spouse, parents, siblings (by blood, marriage or adoption) or lineal descendants (by blood, marriage or adoption); (ii) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder to a trust, partnership, corporation, limited liability company or other similar entity owned exclusively by such Stockholder and/or such Stockholder's spouse, parents, siblings (by blood, marriage or adoption) or lineal descendants (by blood, marriage or adoption) for the benefit of such Stockholder or such Stockholder's spouse, parents, siblings or lineal descendants; (iii) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder, or upon a Stockholder's death to the executors, administrators, testamentary trustees, legatees or beneficiaries of such Stockholder; (iv) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder to any person who controls, is controlled by or is under common control with such Stockholder (within the meaning of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act")); (v) any transfer of Securities by a Stockholder pursuant to a bona fide loan transaction which creates a mere security interest in the Securities; (vi) the Securities held Crusader; provided, however, that in each such case, each transferee, pledgee, donee, heir or distributee shall, as a condition precedent to such transfer, become a party to this Agreement by executing an Adoption Agreement substantially in the form attached as Annex A and shall have all of the rights and obligations set forth hereunder, and all interests in any trust, partnership, corporation, limited liability company or other similar entity to which any Securities are transferred shall themselves be deemed Securities and shall be subject to all of the provisions hereof. Such transferred Securities shall remain "Securities" hereunder, and such transferee shall be treated as a "Stockholder" for the purposes of this Agreement. Any purported transfers made in violation of this Section 1.1(b) shall be void.

(c) Company Repurchase or Public Offering. The provisions of this Agreement shall not apply to the sale of any Securities (i) to the public pursuant to a registration statement filed with, and declared effective by, the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") under the Securities Act or (ii) to the Company.

(d) Prohibited Transferees. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement to the contrary, no Remaining Stockholder shall transfer any Target Shares to (a) any entity which, in the good faith and reasonable determination of the Company's Board of Directors, directly competes with the Company or (b) any customer, distributor or supplier of the Company, if the Company's Board of Directors should determine in good faith and reasonably that such transfer would result in such customer, distributor or supplier receiving information that would place the Company at a material competitive disadvantage with respect to such customer, distributor or supplier.

Section 1.2 Right of First Refusal.

(a) Grant of Right of First Refusal. Subject to the terms hereof, the Company and, to the extent such right is waived by the Company, HCMLP, on behalf of itself and Highland Capital (and, as provided below, each ROFR Participant) are each hereby granted a right of first refusal with respect to any proposed disposition of any Securities held by any Remaining Stockholder (except for a permitted transfer of the Securities under Section 1.1(b) hereof), in the following order of priority:

(i) The Company shall have the first right to purchase any Target Shares (as defined below). In the event the Company elects not to exercise first refusal rights with respect to all or any portion of such Target Shares, the Company agrees to waive such rights with respect to such portion of Target Shares in favor of Highland Capital's first refusal rights under this Agreement.

(ii) If the Company waives its first refusal rights pursuant to Section 1.2(a)(i), Highland Capital shall have the next right to purchase any remaining Target Shares. HCMLP, in its sole discretion, shall have the right to assign and apportion the rights of first refusal hereby granted among itself and investment funds comprising Highland Capital, which need not be Stockholders or parties to this Agreement at that time, in any proportion it deems suitable (the actual participants, including any individuals or entities assigned such rights, each being a "Highland ROFR Participant" and, together with the Company, each a "ROFR Participant"); provided that each such Highland ROFR Participant is an "accredited investor" within the meaning of Rule 501 of Regulation D of the Securities Act; and provided further that any Highland ROFR Participant that is not then a party to this Agreement shall be required to become a party to this Agreement by executing an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A. In the event that HCMLP does not specify an allocation for ROFR Participants, then each Highland Capital Stockholder shall have the right to purchase up to that number of remaining Target Shares equal to the product of (A) the number of remaining Target Shares multiplied by (B) a fraction, (x) the numerator of which shall be the number of shares of Common Stock owned by such Highland Capital Stockholder (assuming full conversion and exercise of all convertible and exercisable securities into Common Stock held by such Highland Capital Stockholder) and (y) the denominator of which shall be the number of shares of Common Stock owned by all of the Highland Capital Stockholders (assuming full conversion and exercise of all convertible and exercisable securities into Common Stock).

(iii) In the event that HCMLP (or the Highland ROFR Participants as its designated assignee(s)) elects not to exercise first refusal rights with respect to all or any portion of such Target Shares, Highland Capital agrees to waive such rights with respect to such portion.

(b) Notice of Intended Disposition. In the event a Remaining Stockholder desires to accept a written, bona fide third-party offer for the transfer of any or all of the Securities held by such Remaining Stockholder (in such capacity such Remaining Stockholder shall be referred to as a "Selling Stockholder" and the shares subject to such offer to be referred to as the "Target Shares"), the Selling Stockholder shall promptly deliver to the Company and HCMLP written notice of the intended disposition ("Disposition Notice") and the basic terms and conditions thereof, including the identity of the proposed purchaser.

(c) Exercise of First Refusal Right. The Company shall, for a period of thirty (30) days following receipt of the Disposition Notice, have the right to purchase all or any portion of the Target Shares:

(i) The Company's right shall be exercisable by written notice (the "Exercise Notice") delivered to the Selling Stockholder and HCMLP prior to the expiration of the thirty (30) day exercise period. If such right is exercised with respect to all the Target Shares specified in the Disposition Notice, then the Company shall effect the purchase of such Target Shares, including payment of the purchase price, not more than five (5) business days after the delivery of the Exercise Notice. At such time, the Selling Stockholder shall deliver to the Company the certificates representing the Target Shares to be purchased, each certificate to be properly endorsed for transfer.

(ii) Alternatively, if the Company exercises such rights with respect to only a portion of the Target Shares specified in the Disposition Notice, the Company shall notify HCMLP of its intent to purchase only a portion of the Target Shares within the thirty (30) day exercise period above defined. The Company's purchase of such Target Shares shall be consummated at the time of HCMLP's exercise of its purchase rights in accordance with Section 1.2(e) hereof, if such rights are exercised. In the event HCMLP does not elect to purchase any of the remaining Target Shares, the Company's purchase of that portion of the Target Shares that it desires to purchase shall be consummated not more than five (5) business days after the date of expiration of HCMLP's first refusal right. The purchasing party under this Section 1.2 is referred to herein as the "ROFR Purchaser."

(iii) Should the purchase price specified in the Disposition Notice be payable in property other than cash or evidences of indebtedness, the ROFR Purchaser shall have the right to pay the purchase price in the form of cash equal in amount to the value of such property. If the Selling Stockholder and the ROFR Purchaser cannot agree on such cash value within fifteen (15) days after receipt of the Disposition Notice (or, in the event HCMLP is the ROFR Purchaser, within fifteen (15) days after the Company's waiver of its first refusal rights hereunder, the valuation shall be determined by the Company's Board of Directors (the "Board") in its good faith discretion. The closing shall then be held on the later of (A) the fifth business day following the delivery of the Exercise Notice, or (B) the fifth business day after such cash valuation shall have been made.

(d) Non-Exercise of Right by the Company. In the event the Exercise Notice is not given to the Selling Stockholder and HCMLP within thirty (30) days following the date of the Company's receipt of the Disposition Notice, the Company shall be deemed to have waived its right of first refusal with respect to such proposed disposition.

(e) Exercise of Right by HCMLP. Subject to the rights of the Company, for a period ending on the earlier of (a) sixty (60) days following receipt of the Disposition Notice or (b) thirty (30) days following receipt of written notice of the Company's election either to waive its right of first refusal or to purchase only a portion of the Target Shares, HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(a)(ii)) shall have the right to purchase all, or any portion of the remaining balance after the Company's purchase, of the Target Shares, upon the terms and conditions specified in the Disposition Notice. The Highland ROFR Participants shall exercise this right of first refusal in the same manner and subject to the same rights and conditions as the Company, as more specifically set forth in Section 1.2(c) above.

(f) Non-Exercise of Right by HCMLP: Subsequent Sales, Void Transfers. In the event an Exercise Notice with respect to all of the Target Shares is not given to the Selling Stockholder by the Company and/or HCMLP within sixty (60) days following the date of receipt of the Disposition Notice, the Selling Stockholder shall have a period of sixty (60) days thereafter in which to sell the portion of the Target Shares that the ROFR Participants have not elected to purchase upon terms and conditions (including the purchase price and the form of consideration therefor) no more favorable to the third-party transferee than those specified in the Disposition Notice; provided, however, that the Selling Stockholder must first offer the Target Shares for co-sale pursuant to Section 1.3 hereof. Any transfer in violation of this Section 1.2 shall be void. Such transferred Securities shall remain “Securities” hereunder, and such transferee shall be treated as a “Stockholder” for the purposes of this Agreement, in the capacity of Highland Capital or a Remaining Stockholder, as applicable. In the event the Selling Stockholder does not notify the Company or consummate the sale or disposition of the Target Shares within such sixty (60) day period, HCMLP’s and the Company’s first refusal rights shall continue to be applicable to any subsequent disposition of the Target Shares by the Selling Stockholder until such right lapses or terminates in accordance with Section 6.1 hereof.

(g) Violation of First Refusal Right. If any Selling Stockholder becomes obligated to sell any Target Shares to the Company or HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(ii)) under this Agreement and fails to deliver such Target Shares in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, the Company and/or HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(ii)) may, at its option, in addition to all other remedies it may have, send to such Selling Stockholder the purchase price for such Target Shares as is herein specified and transfer to the name of the Company or HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(ii)) (or request that the Company effect such transfer in the name of HCMLP (and/or its designee(s) as provided in Section 1.2(a)(ii)) on the Company’s books the certificate or certificates representing the Target Shares to be sold. Such Selling Stockholder shall also reimburse HCMLP and each ROFR Participant for any and all reasonable and documented out-of-pocket fees and expenses, including reasonable legal fees and expenses, incurred pursuant to the exercise or the attempted exercise of the ROFR Participants’ rights under this Section 1.3.

(h) Application of Co-Sale Right. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Section 1.2 Target Shares may be sold to a third party transferee (other than the Company or Highland Capital) if and only if the Selling Stockholder first complies with the co-sale procedures set forth in Section 1.3, and some or all of the Target Shares remain available for sale following the application of Section 1.3.

Section 1.3 Co-Sale Rights.

(a) Notice of Offer. The provisions of Section 1.2(b) requiring the Selling Stockholder to give notice of any intended transfer of the Securities are incorporated in this Section 1.3.

(b) Grant of Co-Sale Rights.

(i) If (i) any such proposed disposition of Target Shares is being made by the Selling Stockholder and (ii) the rights of first refusal of the Company and HCMLP have been waived or have lapsed, in full or in part with respect to such proposed disposition, the Co-Sale Participant (as defined herein) shall have the right, exercisable upon written notice to the Selling Stockholder within thirty (30) days after receipt of the Disposition Notice, to participate in such sale of the Target Shares on the same terms and conditions as those set forth in the Disposition Notice. As used herein, “Co-Sale Participant” shall mean (x) in the event Highland Capital holds or otherwise controls a majority of the issued and outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company, the Highland Capital entities designated by HCMLP as provided below, or (y) in the event Highland Capital does not hold or otherwise control a majority of the issued and outstanding shares of Common Stock of the Company, each non-Selling Stockholder. To the extent any Co-Sale Participant exercises such right of participation, the number of shares of Target Shares that the Selling Stockholder may sell in the transaction shall be correspondingly reduced. The right of participation of the Co-Sale Participants shall be subject to the terms and conditions set forth in this Section 1.3.

(ii) Each Co-Sale Participant may sell all or any part of a number of shares of the capital stock of the Company held by such Co-Sale Participant equal to the product obtained by multiplying (i) the aggregate number of Target Shares covered by the Disposition Notice that neither the Company nor Highland Capital have elected to purchase pursuant to Section 1.2 by (ii) a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of shares of Common Stock of the Company at the time owned by such Co-Sale Participant (assuming for the purposes of this calculation that all shares held by Highland Capital are held by HCMLP) and the denominator of which is the combined number of shares of Common Stock of the Company at the time deemed owned by the Selling Stockholder and all of the Co-Sale Participants that desire to exercise their rights of co-sale. Notwithstanding the foregoing, HCMLP, in its sole discretion, shall have the right to assign and apportion the rights of first refusal hereby granted among itself and investment funds comprising Highland Capital, which need not be Stockholders or parties to this Agreement at that time, in any proportion it deems suitable; provided that each such Highland Capital Co-Sale Participant is an “accredited investor” within the meaning of Rule 501 of Regulation D of the Securities Act; and provided further that any Highland Capital Co-Sale Participant that is not then a party to this Agreement shall be required to become a party to this Agreement by executing an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A.

(iii) Each Co-Sale Participant may effect its participation in the sale by delivering to the Selling Stockholder for transfer to the purchase offeror one or more certificates, properly endorsed for transfer, which represent the number of shares of Common Stock that it elects to sell pursuant to this Section 1.3(h).

(c) Payment of Proceeds. The stock certificates that the Co-Sale Participants deliver to the Selling Stockholder pursuant to Section 1.3(b) shall be transferred by the Selling Stockholder to the purchase offeror in consummation of the sale of the Common Stock pursuant to the terms and conditions specified in the notice to the Company and HCMLP (and, if applicable, the Remaining Stockholders) pursuant to Section 1.2(b), and the Selling Stockholder shall promptly thereafter remit to the Co-Sale Participants that portion of the sale proceeds to which the Investors are entitled by reason of their participation in such sale. To the extent that any prospective purchaser or purchasers refuses to purchase shares or other securities from an Co-Sale Participant exercising its rights of co-sale hereunder, the Selling Stockholder shall not sell to such prospective purchaser or purchasers any Securities unless and until, simultaneously with such sale, the Selling Stockholder purchases such shares or other securities from such Co-Sale Participant for the same consideration and on the same terms and conditions as the proposed transfer described in the Disposition Notice.

(d) Non-exercise. The exercise or non-exercise of the rights of the Co-Sale Participants hereunder to participate in one or more sales of Common Stock made by the Selling Stockholder shall not adversely affect their rights to participate in subsequent Common Stock sales by any Selling Stockholder.

(e) Violation of Co-Sale Right. If any Selling Stockholder purports to sell any Target Shares in contravention of this Section 1.3 (a “Prohibited Transfer”), each Co-Sale Participant may, in addition to such remedies as may be available by law, in equity or hereunder, require Selling Stockholder to purchase from such Co-Sale Participant the type and number of Securities that such Co-Sale Participant would have been entitled to sell under Section 1.3(b)(ii) had the Prohibited Transfer been effected pursuant to and in compliance with the terms of Section 1.3. The sale will be made on the same terms and subject to the same conditions as would have applied had the Selling Stockholder not made the Prohibited Transfer, except that the sale (including, without limitation, the delivery of the purchase price) must be made within ninety (90) days after the Co-Sale Participant learns of the Prohibited Transfer. Such Selling Stockholder shall also reimburse HCMLP and each Co-Sale Participant for any and all reasonable and documented out-of-pocket fees and expenses, including reasonable legal fees and expenses, incurred pursuant to the exercise or the attempted exercise of the Co-Sale Participants’ rights under this Section 1.3.

(a) In connection with any underwritten public offering by the Company of its equity securities pursuant to an effective registration statement filed under the Securities Act, including the first bona fide firm commitment underwritten public offering of the Company’s Common Stock registered under the Securities Act on Form S-1 or Form SB-2 (or any successor form designated by the SEC) (the “Initial Public Offering”), the Remaining Stockholders (each, an “Owner”) shall not (i) lend, offer, pledge, sell, contract to sell, sell any option or contract to purchase, purchase any option or contract to sell, grant any option, right or warrant to purchase, or otherwise transfer or dispose of, directly or indirectly, any securities of the Company, including (without limitation) shares of Common Stock or any securities convertible into or exercisable or exchangeable for Common Stock (whether now owned or hereafter acquired) or (ii) enter into any swap or other arrangement that transfers to another, in whole or in part, any of the economic consequences of ownership of any securities of the Company, including (without limitation) shares of Common Stock or any securities convertible into or exercisable or exchangeable for Common Stock (whether now owned or hereafter acquired), whether any such transaction described in clause (i) or (ii) above is to be settled by delivery of securities, in cash or otherwise without the prior written consent of the Company or its underwriters; provided that all executive officers, directors and greater than 5% stockholders (including, if applicable, HCMLP

and Highland Capital) are subject to similar restrictions. Such restriction (the “Market Stand-Off”) shall be in effect for such period of time from and after the effective date of the final prospectus for the offering as may be requested by the Company or such underwriters. In no event, however, shall such period exceed one hundred eighty (180) days (the “Lock-Up Period”), and the Market Stand-Off shall in no event be applicable to any underwritten public offering effected more than two (2) years after the effective date of the Company’s initial public offering.

(b) Any new, substituted or additional securities which are by reason of any recapitalization or reorganization distributed with respect to the Common Stock to be registered shall be immediately subject to the Market Stand-Off, to the same extent the Common Stock is at such time covered by such provisions.

(c) In order to enforce the Market Stand-Off, the Company may impose stop-transfer instructions with respect to the Common Stock until the end of the applicable stand-off period.

Section 2.1 Grant of Right of First Offer. Each time the Company proposes to offer (i) any shares of, or securities convertible into or exercisable for any shares of, any class of its capital stock (“equity securities”), or (ii) any debt securities (collectively, the “First Offer Securities”), the Company shall first offer to Highland Capital the right and opportunity (but not the obligation) to purchase the First Offer Securities proposed to be issued in such offering in accordance with the provisions of this Article IV. HCMLP, in its sole discretion, shall have the right to assign and apportion the rights of first refusal hereby granted among itself and investment funds comprising Highland Capital, which need not be parties to this Agreement at that time (the actual participants, including any individuals or entities assigned such rights, each being a “Purchaser”); provided that each such Purchaser is an “accredited investor” within the meaning of Rule 501 of Regulation D of the Securities Act; and provided further that any such Purchaser that is not then a party to this Agreement shall be required to become a party to this Agreement by executing an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A.

Section 2.2 Procedure for Exercise. The Company shall deliver notice (the “Offer Notice”) to HCMLP stating (a) the number and description of the First Offer Securities to be offered in the applicable offering and (b) the price and terms, if any, upon which it proposes to offer such First Offer Securities. Within 30 days after giving of the Offer Notice, the Purchasers may elect to purchase, at the price and on the terms specified in the Offer Notice, such First Offer Securities, in the amounts designated by HCMLP. The Purchasers shall exercise the rights under this section by paying the purchase price for the First Offer Securities elected to be purchased in cash or by wire transfer of immediately available funds. As promptly as practicable on or after the purchase date, the Company shall issue and deliver to the Purchasers a certificate or certificates for the number of full shares or amount, whichever is applicable, of First Offer Securities.

Section 2.3 Excluded Issuances. The rights of first offer set forth in this section shall not be applicable to the following (collectively, the “Excluded Issuances”): (A) in the case of equity securities, (i) the issuance of shares of capital stock (or any cash-settled “phantom units” or similar equity-linked or equity-based incentive plans or agreement structures, the value of which is based on the Company’s Common Stock (collectively, “phantom units”)) of the Company issued or issuable solely for compensatory purposes, to directors, officers, employees or consultants of the Company, whether directly (as Common Stock, options or phantom units) or pursuant to an equity incentive plan or agreement or a restricted stock plan or agreement, in each case approved by the Board; (ii) the issuance of shares of capital stock of the Company in connection with stock splits, stock dividends, recapitalizations or the like; (iii) the issuance of shares of capital stock in connection with a bona fide business acquisition or license of technology of or by the Company, whether by license, merger, consolidation, sale of assets, sale or exchange of stock or otherwise that are not issued primarily for equity financing purposes, in each case as approved by the Board; (iv) the issuance of shares of capital stock of the Company in connection with corporate partnering transactions, business relationships and similar transactions that are not issued primarily for equity financing purposes, in each case as approved by the Board; or (v) the issuance of shares of capital stock to financial institutions in connection with bona fide Commercial Debt (as defined below) arrangements (including issuances, extensions, renewals, modifications and waivers), in each case approved by the Company’s Board of Directors; and (B) in the case of debt securities, shall not be deemed to include debt issued to NexBank, SSB and other banks, commercial finance lenders, insurance companies, leasing or equipment financing institutions or other lending institutions regularly engaged in the business of lending money (excluding venture capital, private equity, investment banking or similar institutions which sometimes engage in lending activities but which are primarily engaged in investments in equity securities), which is for money borrowed, or purchase or leasing of equipment in the case of lease or other equipment financing, whether or not secured, and in any such instance is not primarily for equity financing purposes (“Commercial Debt”), in each such case approved by the Board of Directors of the Company,

Section 2.4 Sale to Third Parties. The Company shall, after complying with its obligations under Section 2.1, be free at any time prior to 90 days after the date of the Offer Notice, to offer and sell to any third party or parties the remainder of such First Offer Securities proposed to be issued by the Company at a price and on payment terms no less favorable to the Company than those specified in the Offer Notice. However, if such third party sale or sales are not consummated within such 90-day period, or if the terms of any such proposed sale are modified in a manner more favorable to the proposed purchaser (whether with respect to price or any other term) than offered to HCMLP pursuant to Section 2.1, the Company shall not sell such First Offer Securities as shall not have been purchased within such period without again complying with Section 2.1 hereof.

REGISTRATION RIGHTS

Section 3.1 Definitions. For purposes of this Article III.

(a) “Certificate of Incorporation” shall mean the Company’s Certificate of Incorporation as in effect as of the date hereof and as amended and restated from time to time.

(b) “Change in Control” shall mean (A) the acquisition of the Company by means of any transaction or series of related transactions (including, without limitation, any stock purchase transaction, merger, consolidation or other form of reorganization in which outstanding shares of the Company are exchanged for securities or other consideration issued, or caused to be issued, by the acquiring entity or its subsidiary, but excluding (i) any transaction effected for the purpose of changing the Company’s jurisdiction of incorporation and (ii) the sale by the Company of shares of its capital stock to investors in bona fide equity financing transactions), unless securities representing more than fifty percent (50%) of the total combined voting power of the voting securities of the surviving or acquiring entity or its direct or indirect parent entity are immediately thereafter beneficially owned, directly or indirectly and in substantially the same proportion, by the Company’s stockholders of record as constituted immediately prior to such transaction or series of related transactions and (B) a sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Company in a single transaction or series of related transactions. In no event shall any public offering of the Company’s securities be deemed to constitute a Change in Control.

(c) “Exchange Act” shall mean the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended.

(d) “Form S-3” shall mean such form under the Securities Act as in effect on the date hereof or any registration forms under the Securities Act subsequently adopted by the SEC that permit inclusion or incorporation of substantial information by reference to other documents filed by the Company with the SEC.

(e) “Holder” shall mean any person owning or having the right to acquire Registrable Securities or any assignee thereof in accordance with Section 3.13 hereof.

(f) The terms “register,” “registered” and “registration” refer to a registration effected by preparing and filing a registration statement or similar document in compliance with the Securities Act, and the declaration or ordering of effectiveness of such registration statement or document.

(g) “Registrable Securities” shall mean, only with respect to equity securities held by Highland Capital, the Common Stock and any shares of Common Stock of the Company issued as (or issuable upon the conversion or exercise of any warrant, right or other security which is issued as) a dividend or other distribution with respect to, or in exchange for or in replacement of such shares; excluding in all cases, however, any Registrable Securities sold by a Holder in a transaction in which his rights under this Article III are not assigned.

(h) The number of shares of “Registrable Securities then outstanding” shall be equal to the number of shares of Common Stock then issued and outstanding which are, and the number of shares of Common Stock then issuable pursuant to then exercisable or convertible securities which are, Registrable Securities.

(i) “Rule 144” means Rule 144 as promulgated by the SEC under the Securities Act, as such Rule may be amended from time to time, or any similar successor rule that may be promulgated by the SEC.

(j) “Rule 145” means Rule 145 as promulgated by the SEC under the Securities Act, as such Rule may be amended from time to time, or any similar successor rule that may be promulgated by the SEC.

Section 3.2 Request for Registration.

(a) At any time, HCMLP, on behalf of Highland Capital, may request that the Company effect a registration under the Securities Act of all or any part of the Registrable Securities held by Highland Capital (each, a “Demand Registration”), subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement. Any request (a “Registration Request”) for a Demand Registration shall specify (A) the approximate number of shares of Registrable Securities requested to be registered and (B) the intended method of distribution of such shares. Within twenty (20) days of the receipt of the Registration Request, the Company will use its best efforts to effect as soon as practicable (and in any event within ninety (90) days of the date such request is given) the registration under the Securities Act requested and will include in such registration all shares of Registrable Securities that holders of Registrable Securities request the Company to include in such registration by written notice given to the Company within twenty (20) days after the Company’s sends such notice (subject to underwriter cut-backs as provided in this Agreement).

(b) Without the prior written consent of HCMLP, the Company will not include in any Demand Registration any securities other than (a) Registrable Securities, (b) shares of stock pursuant to Section 3.3 hereof, and (c) securities to be registered for offering and sale on behalf of the Company. If the managing underwriter(s) advise the Company in writing that in their opinion the number of shares of Registrable Securities and, if permitted hereunder, other securities in such offering, exceeds the number of shares of Registrable Securities and other securities, if any, which can be sold in an orderly manner in such offering within a price range acceptable to the holders of a majority of the shares of Registrable Securities held by Holders initially requesting registration, the Company will include in such registration, prior to the inclusion of any securities which are not shares of Registrable Securities, the number of shares of Registrable Securities requested to be included that in the opinion of such underwriters can be sold in an orderly manner within the price range acceptable to the Holders of a majority of the shares of Registrable Securities initially requesting registration, subject to the following order of priority: (A) first, the securities requested to be included therein by the Holders, pro rata among the holders thereof on the basis of the number of shares of Registrable Securities such holders requested to be included in such registration or apportioned among them in any other manner in which HCMLP determines to be appropriate in its sole discretion; (B) second, the securities requested to be included therein by the Company; and (C) third, among persons not contractually entitled to registration rights under this Agreement.

(c) If HCMLP indicates that the Holders on whose behalf it is initiating the Registration Request hereunder (the “Initiating Holders”) intend to distribute the Registrable Securities covered by their request by means of an underwriting, they shall so advise the Company as a part of their request made pursuant to Section 3.2 and the Company shall include

such information in the written notice referred to in Section 3.2. The underwriter will be selected by HCMLP and shall be reasonably acceptable to the Board, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned or delayed. All Holders proposing to distribute their securities through such underwriting shall (together with the Company as provided in Section 3.4(e)) enter into an underwriting agreement in customary form with the underwriter or underwriters selected for such underwriting.

(d) Notwithstanding the foregoing, if the Company shall furnish to HCMLP a certificate signed by the President of the Company stating that in the good faith judgment of the Board of Directors of the Company it would be seriously detrimental to the Company and its stockholders for such registration statement to be filed and it is, therefore, essential to defer the filing of such registration statement, the Company shall have the right to defer taking action with respect to such filing for a period of not more than one hundred twenty (120) days after receipt of the request of the Initiating Holders; provided, however, that the Company may not utilize this right more than once in any twelve (12) month period.

(e) In addition, the Company shall not be obligated to effect, or to take any action to effect, any registration pursuant to this Section 3.2:

(i) after the Company has effected three (3) Demand Registrations pursuant to this Section 3.2 and such registrations have been declared or ordered effective;

(ii) during the period starting with the date sixty (60) days prior to the Company's good faith estimate of the date of filing of, and ending on a date one hundred eighty (180) days after the effective date of, a registration subject to Section 3.3 or Section 3.11 hereof, provided that the Company is actively employing its commercially reasonable efforts to cause such registration statement to become effective; provided, however, that the Company may not utilize this right more than once in any twelve-month period;

(iii) if the Initiating Holders propose to dispose of shares of Registrable Securities that may be immediately registered on Form S-3 pursuant to a request made pursuant to Section 3.11 below; or

(iv) in any particular jurisdiction in which the Company would be required to qualify to do business or to execute a general consent to service of process in effecting such registration, qualification or compliance unless the Company is already subject to service in such jurisdiction and except as may be required by the Securities Act.

(a) If, but without any obligation to do so, the Company proposes to register (including for this purpose a registration initiated by the Company for itself or for the Holders or stockholders other than the Holders) any of its stock or other securities under the Securities Act in connection with the public offering of such securities solely for cash (other than a registration relating solely to employee benefit plans, or a registration relating solely to a SEC Rule 145 transaction, or a registration on any registration form which does not permit secondary sales or does not include substantially the same information as would be required to be included in a registration statement covering the Registrable Securities) the Company shall, at such time, promptly give each Holder written notice of such registration. Upon the written request of HCMLP given within fifteen (15) days after delivery of such notice by the Company, the Company shall cause to be registered under the Securities Act all of the Registrable Securities that HCMLP has requested to be registered on behalf of Highland Capital.

(b) If a registration subject to Section 3.3 relates to an underwritten public offering of equity securities and the managing underwriters advise the Company that in their opinion the number of securities requested to be included in such registration exceeds the number that can be sold in an orderly manner in such offering within a price range acceptable to the Holders initially requesting such registration, the Company will include in such registration (i) first, the Registrable Securities requested to be included in such registration by Highland Capital, allocated pro rata among the holders thereof on the basis of the total number of shares of Registrable Securities such Holder requested to be included in such registration or apportioned among them in any other manner in which HCMLP determines to be appropriate in its sole discretion; (ii) second, the securities requested to be included therein by the Company if the Company has initiated the registration; and (iii) third, among persons not contractually entitled to registration rights under this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the amount of Registrable Securities of Highland Capital included in the offering shall not be reduced below thirty percent (30%) of the total amount of securities included in such offering. In connection with any offering involving an underwriting of shares of the Company's capital stock, the Company shall not be required to include any of the Holders' securities in such underwriting unless they accept the terms of the underwriting as agreed upon between the Company and the underwriters selected by it (or by other persons entitled to select the underwriters). All Holders proposing to distribute their securities through such underwriting shall (together with the Company as provided in Section 3.4(e)) enter into an underwriting agreement in customary form with the underwriter or underwriters selected for such underwriting.

Section 3.4 Obligations of the Company. Whenever required under this Article III to effect the registration of any Registrable Securities, the Company shall, as expeditiously as reasonably possible:

(a) Prepare and file with the SEC a registration statement with respect to such Registrable Securities and use its commercially reasonable efforts to cause such registration statement to become effective within sixty (60) days of a request for registration pursuant to Section 3.2 and Section 3.11 and such registration statement shall remain effective until the earlier to occur of (i) one-hundred-eighty (180) days after the date such registration statement was declared effective or (ii) until the distribution contemplated in such registration statement has been completed; provided, however, that such one-hundred-eighty (180) day period shall be extended for a period of time equal to the period the Holder refrains from selling any securities included in such registration at the request of an underwriter of Common Stock (or other securities) of the Company.

(b) Prepare and file with the SEC such amendments and supplements to such registration statement and the prospectus used in connection with such registration statement as may be necessary to comply with the provisions of the Securities Act with respect to the disposition of all securities covered by such registration statement.

(c) Furnish to the Holders such numbers of copies of a prospectus, including a preliminary prospectus, in conformity with the requirements of the Securities Act, and such other documents as they may reasonably request in order to facilitate the disposition of Registrable Securities owned by them.

(d) Use its best efforts to register and qualify the securities covered by such registration statement under such other securities or blue sky laws of such jurisdictions as shall be reasonably requested by the Holders; provided that the Company shall not be required in connection therewith or as a condition thereto to qualify to do business or to file a general consent to service of process in any such states or jurisdictions.

(e) In the event of any underwritten public offering, enter into and perform its obligations under an underwriting agreement, in usual and customary form, with the managing underwriter of such offering. Each Holder participating in such underwriting shall also enter into and perform its obligations under such an agreement.

(f) Notify each Holder of Registrable Securities covered by such registration statement at any time when a prospectus relating thereto is required to be delivered under the Securities Act of the happening of any event as a result of which the prospectus included in such registration statement, as then in effect, includes an untrue statement of a material fact or omits to state a material fact required to be stated therein or necessary to make the statements therein of misleading in the light of the circumstances then existing.

(g) Cause all such Registrable Securities registered pursuant hereunder to be listed on each securities exchange or nationally recognized quotation system on which similar securities issued by the Company are then listed.

(h) Provide a transfer agent and registrar for all Registrable Securities registered pursuant hereunder and a CUSIP number for all such Registrable Securities not later than the effective date of such registration.

(i) Use its best efforts to cause to be furnished, at the request of at least a majority of the Holders participating in the registration, on the date that such Registrable Securities are delivered to the underwriters for sale, if such securities are being sold through underwriters, or, if such securities are not being sold through underwriters, on the date that the registration statement with respect to such securities becomes effective, (i) an opinion, dated such date, of the counsel representing the Company for purposes of such registration, in form and substance as is customarily given to underwriters in an underwritten public offering, addressed to the underwriters, if any, and (ii) a letter dated such date, from the independent certified public accountants of the Company, in form and substance as is customarily given by independent certified public accountants to underwriters in connection with an underwritten public offering, addressed to the underwriters, if any.

(j) Make available for inspection by each Holder of Registrable Securities, any underwriter and any attorney, accountant, or other agent retained by such Holder or underwriter, all financial and other records, pertinent corporate documents and properties of the Company and cause the Company's officers, directors, and employees to supply all information

Section 3.5 Furnish Information. It shall be a condition precedent to the obligations of the Company to take any action pursuant to this Article III with respect to the Registrable Securities of any selling Holder that such Holder shall furnish to the Company such information regarding such Holder, the Registrable Securities held by such Holder, and the intended method of disposition of such securities as shall be required by the Company or the managing underwriters, if any, to effect the registration of such Holder's Registrable Securities.

Section 3.6 Expenses of Demand Registration. All expenses, other than underwriting discounts and commissions, incurred in connection with registrations, filings or qualifications pursuant to Section 3.2(a), including (without limitation) all registration, filing and qualification fees, printers' and accounting fees, fees and disbursements of counsel for the Company and the reasonable fees and disbursements of counsel for the selling Holders shall be borne by the Company, including, without limitation, all such expenses incurred with respect to a registration request subsequently withdrawn by the Holders, regardless of whether such withdrawal was a result of a material adverse change in the condition (financial or otherwise), business or prospects of the Company from that known to the Holders at the time of the request or otherwise.

Section 3.7 Expenses of Company Registration. All expenses, other than underwriting discounts and commissions relating to Registrable Securities, incurred in connection with registrations, filings or qualifications pursuant to Section 3.3 for each Holder, including (without limitation) all registration, filing and qualification fees, printers' and accounting fees, fees and disbursements of counsel for the Company and the reasonable fees and disbursements of counsel for the selling Holders shall be borne by the Company.

Section 3.8 Delay of Registration. No Holder shall have any right to obtain or seek an injunction restraining or otherwise delaying any such registration as the result of any controversy that might arise with respect to the interpretation or implementation of this Article III.

Section 3.9 Indemnification. In the event any Registrable Securities are included in a registration statement under this Article III:

(a) To the extent permitted by law, the Company will indemnify and hold harmless each Holder, the partners, members, officers, and directors of each Holder (including HCMLP), any underwriter (as defined in the Securities Act) for such Holder and each person, if any, who controls such Holder or underwriter within the meaning of the Securities Act or the Exchange Act, against any losses, claims, damages, or liabilities (joint or several) to which they may become subject under the Securities Act, the Exchange Act or other federal or state law, insofar as such losses, claims, damages, or liabilities (or actions in respect thereto) arise out of or are based upon any of the following statements, omissions or violations (each, a "Violation"): (i) any untrue statement or alleged untrue statement of a material fact contained in such registration statement, including any preliminary prospectus or final prospectus contained therein or any amendments or supplements thereto, (ii) the omission or alleged omission to state therein a material fact required to be stated therein, or necessary to make the statements therein not misleading, or (iii) any violation or alleged violation by the Company of the Securities Act, the

Exchange Act, any state securities law or any rule or regulation promulgated under the Securities Act, the Exchange Act or any state securities law; and the Company will pay to each such Holder, underwriter or controlling person, as incurred, any legal or other expenses reasonably incurred by them in connection with investigating or defending any such loss, claim, damage, liability, or action; provided, however, that the indemnity agreement contained in this Section 3.9(a) shall not apply to amounts paid in settlement of any such loss, claim, damage, liability, or action if such settlement is effected without the consent of the Company (which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned or delayed), nor shall the Company be liable in any such case for any such loss, claim, damage, liability, or action to the extent that it arises out of or is based upon a Violation which occurs in reliance upon and in conformity with written information furnished by any such Holder, underwriter or controlling person expressly for use in connection with such registration.

(b) To the extent permitted by law, each selling Holder will indemnify and hold harmless the Company, each of its directors, each of its officers who has signed the registration statement, each person, if any, who controls the Company within the meaning of the Securities Act, any underwriter, any other Holder selling securities in such registration statement and any controlling person of any such underwriter or other Holder, against any losses, claims, damages, or liabilities (joint or several) to which any of the foregoing persons may become subject, under the Securities Act, the Exchange Act or other federal or state law, insofar as such losses, claims, damages, or liabilities (or actions in respect thereto) arise out of or are based upon any Violation, in each case to the extent (and only to the extent) that such Violation occurs in reliance upon and in conformity with written information furnished by such Holder expressly for use in connection with such registration; and each such Holder will pay, as incurred, any legal or other expenses reasonably incurred by any person intended to be indemnified pursuant to this Section 3.9(b), in connection with investigating or defending any such loss, claim, damage, liability, or action; provided, however, that the indemnity agreement contained in this Section 3.9(b), shall not apply to amounts paid in settlement of any such loss, claim, damage, liability or action if such settlement is effected without the consent of the Holder (which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned or delayed); provided, however, that in no event shall any indemnity under this Section 3.9(b) exceed the net proceeds from the offering received by such Holder.

(c) Promptly after receipt by an indemnified party under this Section 3.9 of notice of the commencement of any action (including any governmental action), such indemnified party will, if a claim in respect thereof is to be made against any indemnifying party under this Section 3.9, deliver to the indemnifying party a written notice of the commencement thereof and the indemnifying party shall have the right to participate in, and, to the extent the indemnifying party so desires, jointly with any other indemnifying party similarly noticed, to assume the defense thereof with counsel mutually satisfactory to the parties; provided, however, that an indemnified party (together with all other indemnified parties which may be represented without conflict by one counsel) shall have the right to retain separate counsel, with the fees and expenses to be paid by the indemnifying party, if representation of such indemnified party by the counsel retained by the indemnifying party would be inappropriate due to actual or potential differing interests between such indemnified party and any other party represented by such counsel in such proceeding. The failure to deliver written notice to the indemnifying party within a reasonable time of the commencement of any such action, if materially prejudicial to its ability to defend such action, shall relieve such indemnifying party of any liability to the indemnified party under this Section 3.9, but the omission so to deliver written notice to the indemnifying party will not relieve it of any liability that it may have to any indemnified party otherwise than under this Section 3.9.

(d) If the indemnification provided for in this Section 3.9 is held by a court of competent jurisdiction to be unavailable to an indemnified party with respect to any loss, liability, claim, damage, or expense referred to therein, then the indemnifying party, in lieu of indemnifying such indemnified party hereunder, shall contribute to the amount paid or payable by such indemnified party as a result of such loss, liability, claim, damage, or expense in such proportion as is appropriate to reflect the relative fault of the indemnifying party on the one hand and of the indemnified party on the other hand in connection with the statements or omissions that resulted in such loss, liability, claim, damage, or expense as well as any other relevant equitable considerations; provided, however, that in no event shall any contribution under this Section 3.9 exceed the net proceeds from the offering received by such Holder. The relative fault of the indemnifying party and of the indemnified party shall be determined by reference to, among other things, whether the untrue or alleged untrue statement of a material fact or the omission to state a material fact relates to information supplied by the indemnifying party or by the indemnified party and the parties' relative intent, knowledge, access to information, and opportunity to correct or prevent such statement or omission.

(e) Notwithstanding the foregoing, to the extent that the provisions on indemnification and contribution contained in the underwriting agreement entered into in connection with the underwritten public offering are in conflict with the foregoing provisions, the provisions in the underwriting agreement shall control as to any Investor that is a party thereto.

(f) The obligations of the Company and Holders under this Section 3.9 shall survive the completion of any offering of Registrable Securities in a registration statement under this Article III, and otherwise. No indemnifying party, in the defense of any such claim or litigation, shall, except with the consent of each other indemnified party, consent to entry of any judgment or enter into any settlement that does not include as an unconditional term thereof the giving by the claimant or plaintiff to such indemnified party of a release from all liability in respect to such claim or litigation.

Section 3.10 Reports Under Securities Exchange Act. With a view to making available to the Holders the benefits of Rule 144 and any other rule or regulation of the SEC that may at any time permit a Holder to sell securities of the Company to the public without registration or pursuant to a registration on Form S-3, the Company agrees to:

(a) make and keep public information available, as those terms are understood and defined in Rule 144, at all times after the effective date of the first registration statement filed by the Company for the offering of its securities to the general public;

(b) take such action, including the voluntary registration of its Common Stock under Section 5.12 of the Exchange Act, as is necessary to enable the Holders to utilize Form S-3 for the sale of their Registrable Securities, such action to be taken as soon as practicable after the end of the fiscal year in which the first registration statement filed by the Company for the offering of its securities to the general public is declared effective;

(c) file with the SEC in a timely manner all reports and other documents required of the Company under the Securities Act and the Exchange Act; and

(d) furnish to any Holder, so long as the Holder owns any Registrable Securities, forthwith upon request from such Holder (i) a written statement by the Company that it has complied with the reporting requirements of Rule 144 (at any time after 90 days after the effective date of the first registration statement filed by the Company), the Securities Act and the Exchange Act (at any time after it has become subject to such reporting requirements), or that it qualifies as a registrant whose securities may be resold pursuant to Form S-3 (at any time after it so qualifies), (ii) a copy of the most recent annual or quarterly report of the Company and such other reports and documents so filed by the Company, and (iii) such other information as may be reasonably requested in availing any Holder of any rule or regulation of the SEC which permits the selling of any such securities without registration or pursuant to Form S-3.

Section 3.11 Form S-3 Registrations. In the event that the Company shall receive from HCMLP on behalf of the Holders of at least 10% of the Registrable Securities then outstanding a written request that the Company effect a registration on Form S-3, and any related qualification or compliance with respect to all or a part of the Registrable Securities owned by such Holder or Holders, the Company will:

(a) promptly give written notice of the proposed registration, and any related qualification or compliance, to all other Holders; and

(b) use its commercially reasonable efforts to, as soon as practicable, effect such registration and all such qualifications and compliances as may be so requested and as would permit or facilitate the sale and distribution of all or such portion of such Holder's or Holders' Registrable Securities as are specified in such request, together with all or such portion of the Registrable Securities of any other Holder or Holders joining in such request as are specified in a written request given within fifteen (15) days after receipt of such written notice from the Company; provided, however, that the Company shall not be obligated to effect any such registration, qualification or compliance, pursuant to this Section 3.11:

(i) if Form S-3 is not available for such offering by the Holders;

(ii) if the Holders, together with the holders of any other securities of the Company entitled to inclusion in such Form S-3, propose to sell Registrable Securities at an aggregate price to the public (net of underwriting discounts and commissions) of less than $500,000;

(iii) if the Company shall furnish to Holders requesting a registration statement pursuant to this Section 3.11 a certificate signed by the President of the Company stating that in the good faith judgment of the Board of Directors it would be seriously detrimental to the Company and its stockholders for such registration statement to be filed and it is, therefore, essential to defer the filing of such registration statement, the Company shall have the right to defer taking action with respect to such filing for a period of not more than one-hundred-

twenty (20) days after receipt of the request of the Initiating Holders; provided, however, that the Company may not utilize this right more than once in any twelve (12) month period;

(iv) in any particular jurisdiction in which the Company would be required to qualify to do business or to execute a general consent to service of process in effecting such registration, qualification or compliance;

(v) if the Company has, within the twelve (12) month period preceding the date of such request, already effected one (1) registration on Form S-3 for the Holders pursuant to this Section 3.11; or

(vi) during the period starting with the date sixty (60) days prior to the Company's good faith estimate of the date of filing of, and ending on a date one-hundred-eighty (180) days after the effective date of, any registration statement pertaining to a public offering of securities for the Company's account; provided, however, that the Company is actively employing its commercially reasonable efforts to cause such registration statement to be effective.

(c) Subject to the foregoing, the Company shall file a registration statement covering the Registrable Securities and other securities so requested to be registered as soon as practicable after receipt of the request or requests of the Holders. All expenses incurred in connection with a registration requested pursuant to this Section 3.11, including, without limitation, all registration, filing, qualification, printer's and accounting fees and the reasonable fees and disbursements of counsel for the selling Holder or Holders and counsel for the Company, shall be borne by the Company. Registrations effected pursuant to this Section 3.11 shall not be counted as demands for registration or registrations effected pursuant to Section 3.2 or Section 3.3, respectively.

(d) If the Holders initiating a registration pursuant to this Section 3.11 intend to distribute the Registrable Securities covered by their request by means of an underwriting, they shall so advise the Company as a part of their request made pursuant to this Section 3.11 and the Company shall include such information in the written notice referred to in Section 3.11(a). The underwriter will be selected by HCMLP and shall be reasonably acceptable to the Company, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld or delayed. In such event, the right of any Holder to include such Holder's Registrable Securities in such registration shall be conditioned upon such Holder's participation in such underwriting and the inclusion of such Holder's Registrable Securities in the underwriting (unless otherwise mutually agreed by a majority in interest of the Initiating Holders and such Holder) to the extent provided herein. All Holders proposing to distribute their securities through such underwriting shall (together with the Company as provided in Section 3.4(e)) enter into an underwriting agreement in customary form with the underwriter or underwriters selected for such underwriting. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Section 3.11, if the underwriter advises the Initiating Holders in writing that marketing factors require a limitation of the number of shares to be underwritten, then the Company shall so advise all Holders of Registrable Securities which would otherwise be underwritten pursuant hereto, and the number of shares of Registrable Securities that may be included in the underwriting shall be allocated in the following order of priority: (A) first, the Registrable Securities requested to be included in such registration by the Holders, allocated pro

rata among the holders thereof on the basis of the total number of shares of Registrable Securities such Holder requested to be included in such registration or apportioned among them in any other manner in which HCMLP determines to be appropriate in its sole discretion; (B) second, the securities requested to be included therein by the Company; and (C) third, among persons not contractually entitled to registration rights under this Agreement.

Section 3.12 Expenses of Form 5-3 Registration. All expenses, other than underwriting discounts and commissions, incurred in connection with registrations, filings or qualifications pursuant to Section 3.11, including (without limitation) all registration, filing and qualification fees, printers' and accounting fees, fees and disbursements of counsel for the Company and the reasonable fees and disbursements of counsel for the selling Holders shall be borne by the Company; including, without limitation, all such expenses incurred with respect to a registration request subsequently withdrawn by the Holders, regardless of whether such withdrawal was a result of a material adverse change in the condition (financial or otherwise), business or prospects of the Company from that known to the Holders at the time of the request or otherwise.

Section 3.13 Assignment of Registration Rights. Subject to the prior consent of HCMLP, the rights to cause the Company to register Registrable Securities pursuant to this Article III may be assigned (but only with all related obligations) by a Holder to a transferee or assignee of such securities that (i) is a subsidiary, parent, member, partner, limited partner, retired partner, grantor or shareholder of a Holder, and (ii) an affiliate of HCMLP, including any investment funds controlled by or under common control with, or managed directly or indirectly by, HCMLP, which will continue to qualify as Highland Capital after such transfer; provided that: (a) the Company is, within a reasonable time after such transfer, furnished with written notice of the name and address of such transferee or assignee and the securities with respect to which such registration rights are being assigned; (b) such transferee or assignee agrees in writing to be bound by and subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement, including (without limitation) the provisions of Section 1.4 below, including the execution of an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A; and (c) such assignment shall be effective only if immediately following such transfer the further disposition of such securities by the transferee or assignee is restricted under the Securities Act. For the purposes of determining the number of shares of Registrable Securities held by a transferee or assignee, the holdings of transferees and assignees of a partnership who are partners or retired partners of such partnership (including spouses and ancestors, lineal descendants and siblings of such partners or spouses who acquire Registrable Securities by gift, will or intestate succession) shall be aggregated together and with the partnership; provided that all assignees and transferees who would not qualify individually for assignment of registration rights shall have a single attorney-in-fact for the purpose of exercising any rights, receiving notices or taking any action under this Article III.

Section 3.14 Limitations on Subsequent Registration Rights. From and after the date of this Agreement, the Company shall not, without the prior written consent of HCMLP (which approval may be granted or withheld in its sole discretion), enter into any agreement with any holder or prospective holder of any securities of the Company (i) to include such securities in any registration filed under Section 3.2, unless under the terms of such agreement, such holder or prospective holder may include such securities in any such registration only to the extent that the inclusion of such holder's or prospective holder's securities will not reduce the amount of the Registrable Securities of the Holders which is included or (ii) to make a demand registration that could result in such registration statement being declared effective prior to the dates set forth in Section 3.2 or within one-hundred-eighty (180) days of the effective date of any registration effected pursuant to Section 3.2.

ARTICLE IV

VOTING AGREEMENT; BOARD OF DIRECTORS; REQUIRED VOTE

Section 4.1 Board of Directors.

(a) Composition of Board of Directors. For so long as Highland Capital owns any shares of the Company's capital stock, each Stockholder agrees that in any election of directors of the Company, each Stockholder shall vote all shares of the Company capital stock entitled to vote in the election of directors that are owned or controlled by such Stockholder (or shall consent pursuant to an action by written consent of the holders of capital stock of the Company), including all shares that each Stockholder is entitled to vote under any voting trust, voting agreement, proxy or other arrangement (collectively, "Stock"), to elect a Board of Directors consisting of the directors designated by HCMLP in its sole discretion. In the absence of any designation HCMLP, the director previously designated by HCMLP and then serving shall be re-elected if still eligible to serve as provided herein. This Section 4.1(a) shall not apply to Crusader.

(b) Subsidiary Governing Bodies; Committees. Unless otherwise agreed to by HCMLP or the Board of Directors, the members of the Board of Directors, as the same shall be constituted from time to time, shall also constitute the board of directors or equivalent governing body of each subsidiary of the Company. HCMLP shall have the right but not the obligation to designate at least two members of the Board of Directors elected pursuant to this Section 4.1 to serve on any duly constituted committee of the boards of directors of the Company and any subsidiaries.

(c) Obligations of the Company. The Company shall use its best efforts and shall exercise all authority under applicable law to cause to be nominated for election and cause to be elected or appointed, as the case may be, as directors of the Company, a slate of directors consisting of individuals meeting the requirements of Section 4.1(a). The Company will not, by any voluntary action, avoid or seek to avoid the observance or performance of any of the terms to be performed hereunder by the Company, but will at all times in good faith assist in the carrying out of all of the provisions of this Agreement and in the taking of all such actions as may be necessary or appropriate in order to protect the rights of HCMLP hereunder against impairment. Each Stockholder hereby agrees to vote, cause to be voted or sign a written consent with respect to all of its shares in favor of a slate of directors consisting of individuals meeting the requirements of Section 4.1(a).

(d) Vacancies; Removal. In the event of any vacancy in the Board of Directors, each Stockholder agrees to vote all outstanding shares of Stock owned or controlled by such Stockholder and to use such Stockholder's best efforts to fill such vacancy so that the Board of Directors will be comprised of directors designated as provided in Section 4.1(a). Each

Stockholder agrees to vote all outstanding shares of Stock owned or controlled by such Stockholder for the removal of a director whenever (but only whenever) there shall be presented to the Board of Directors the written direction that such director be removed, signed by HCMLP. In such event, the Board of Directors shall solicit the vote of the Stockholders entitled to remove such director in order to effect such removal. This Section 4.1(d) shall not apply to Crusader.

Section 4.2 Required Vote.

(a) Notice of Disposition Transaction. In the event HCMLP has approved or rejected any (A) the acquisition of the Company by another entity by means of any transaction or series of related transactions (including, without limitation, any reorganization, merger or consolidation) unless the Company's stockholders of record as constituted immediately prior to such acquisition or sale will, immediately after such acquisition or sale (by virtue of securities issued as consideration for the Company's acquisition or sale or otherwise) hold at least 50% of the voting power of the surviving or acquiring entity; or (B) a sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Company, including a sale of all or substantially all of the assets of the Company's subsidiaries, if such assets constitute substantially all of the assets of the Company and such subsidiaries taken as a whole (each, an "Approved Sale"), the Company shall give notice (the "Sale Notice") to the Stockholders stating that HCMLP has approved or rejected, as applicable, an Approved Sale. The Sale Notice also shall set forth the identity of the person or entity proposing to buy the Company, its assets or its capital stock (the "Acquisition Offeror") and shall summarize the basic terms of the proposed Approved Sale. Any Sale Notice may be rescinded by HCMLP by delivering written notice thereof to the Stockholders.

(b) Obligations of Stockholders. As soon as practicable after receipt of the Sale Notice, the Stockholders shall take all lawful action reasonably necessary and requested by the Company (i) in the event the Approved Sale was approved by HCMLP, to complete the Approved Sale, including without limitation (A) the voting of all capital stock of the Company held by the Stockholders in favor of the Approved Sale, (B) if so requested, the surrender to the Acquisition Offeror of certificates representing all capital stock and all instruments representing convertible securities of the Company held by the Stockholders, properly endorsed for transfer to the Acquisition Offeror against payment of the sale price for such capital stock or such convertible securities in the Approved Sale, and (C) the execution of all sale, liquidation and other agreements in the form reasonably requested (containing, among other things, reasonable and customary representations and warranties relating to the valid title to such capital stock free and clear of any liens, claims, encumbrances and restrictions of any kind (other than those arising hereunder) and such Stockholder's power, authority, and right to enter into and consummate such purchase or merger agreement without violating any other agreement); or (ii) in the event the Approved Sale was rejected by HCMLP, to reject the Approved Sale, including, without limitation, the voting of all capital stock of the Company held by the Stockholders against the Approved Sale. The Stockholders hereby agree, after having received a Sale Notice, not to exercise any dissenter's rights or other rights granted to minority stockholders under state law in connection with an Approved Sale, or otherwise take actions designed to or that reasonably would be expected to complicate, delay, reject or terminate the Approved Sale.

Section 4.3 Grant of Proxy. To ensure the performance of each Stockholder with respect to the agreements set forth in this Article IV, each Stockholder hereby appoints the Chairman of the Board of Directors and the principal executive officer of the Company, or either of them from time to time, or their designees, as his, her or its true and lawful proxy and attorney-in-fact, with full power of substitution and resubstitution, to vote all. Stock owned or held by such Stockholder and to execute all appropriate instruments consistent with this Agreement, subject to the provisions of this Agreement, upon any matter presented to the stockholders of the Company, if and only if such Stockholder fails to vote all of such Stockholder's Stock or execute such other instruments in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement within five (5) days of the Company's or any other party's written request for such Stockholder's written consent or signature. The proxies and powers granted by each Stockholder pursuant to this Section 4.3 are coupled with an interest, are given to secure the performance of such Stockholder's commitments under this Agreement, and shall be irrevocable unless and until this Agreement terminates or expires pursuant to its terms. Such proxies shall survive the death, incompetence, disability, merger, reorganization, dissolution or winding up of such Stockholder. Each party hereto hereby revokes any and all previous proxies with respect to the Stock and shall not hereafter, unless and until this Agreement terminates or expires, purport to grant any other proxy or power of attorney with respect to any of the Stock, deposit any of the Stock into a voting trust or enter into any agreement (other than this Agreement), arrangement or understanding with any person, directly or indirectly, to vote, grant any proxy or give instructions with respect to the voting of any of the Stock, in each case, with respect to any of the matters set forth herein.

COVENANTS OF THE COMPANY

Section 5.1 Delivery of Financial Statements. The Company shall deliver the following information to HCMLP, to each Highland Capital Stockholder and to Crusader:

(a) as soon as reasonably practicable, but in any event within 90 days after the end of each fiscal year of the Company (which due date may be lengthened with respect to any fiscal year by approval of HCMLP), an audited consolidated income statement of the Company for such year, an audited consolidated balance sheet and statement of stockholders' equity of the Company as of the end of such fiscal year, and an audited consolidated statement of cash flows of the Company for such fiscal year, such audited year-end financial reports to be in reasonable detail, prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") consistently applied and setting forth in each case in comparative form the figures for the previous fiscal year, all in reasonable detail. Such audited financial statements shall be accompanied by a report and opinion thereon by independent public accountants of national standing selected by HCMLP.

(b) as soon as reasonably practicable, but in any event within thirty (30) days after the end of each fiscal quarter of the Company, an unaudited consolidated income statement and consolidated statement of cash flows of the Company for such fiscal quarter and an unaudited consolidated balance sheet of the Company as of the end of such fiscal quarter, prepared in accordance with GAAP, which shall each show a comparison to plan figures for such period and to the comparable period in the prior year prepared in accordance with GAAP with the exception that no notes need be attached to such statements and year end audit adjustments

need not have been made, together with a report from the Company's chief executive officer, and/or chief financial officer, summarizing the Company's consolidated financial condition and consolidated results of operation during such quarter.

(c) as soon as reasonably practicable, but in any event within twenty (20) days after the end of each calendar month, an unaudited consolidated income statement and consolidated statement of cash flows of the Company for such month and an unaudited consolidated balance sheet of the Company as of the end of such month and for the current fiscal year to date, including a comparison to plan figures for such period and to the comparable period in the prior year, prepared in accordance with GAAP consistently applied, with the exception that no notes need be attached to such statements and year end audit adjustments may not have been made, together with a report from the Company's chief executive officer, and/or chief financial officer, summarizing the Company's consolidated financial condition and consolidated results of operation during such month.

(d) an annual budget and operating plans for the Company at least thirty (30) days prior to the beginning of each fiscal year and (promptly after they are available) any subsequent substantive revisions thereto; and

(e) such relevant business and other information reasonably requested, including, without limitation, copies of relevant management reports, as HCMLP may request from time to time.

If, for any period, the Company has any subsidiary whose accounts are consolidated with those of the Company, then in respect of such period the financial statements delivered pursuant to the foregoing sections shall be the consolidated and consolidating financial statements of the Company and all such consolidated subsidiaries.

Section 5.2 Inspection. The Company will maintain true books and records of account in which full and correct entries will be made of all its business transactions pursuant to a system of accounting established and administered in accordance with GAAP consistently applied, and will set aside on its books all such proper accruals and reserves as shall be required under GAAP consistently applied. The Company shall permit HCMLP or its designee(s) to visit and inspect the Company's properties, to examine and audit its books of account and records and to discuss the Company's affairs, finances and accounts with its officers, all at such reasonable times and during normal business hours as may be requested by HCMLP.

Section 5.3 Directors and Officers Insurance.

(a) The Company shall maintain, from financially sound and reputable insurers approved by HCMLP, directors' and officers' insurance with coverage decided in accordance with policies adopted by HCMLP.

(b) The Company will indemnify the Board of Directors to the broadest extent permitted by applicable law. The Company shall enter into written indemnification agreements (in a form reasonably acceptable to HCMLP) with the directors and executive officers of the Company.

(c) in the event of a Change in Control, proper provision shall be made so that the successors and assigns of the Company assume the obligations of the Company with respect to indemnification of members of the Board of Directors as in effect immediately prior to such transaction, whether in the Company's Bylaws, Certificate of Incorporation, or elsewhere, as the case may be, and, unless otherwise affirmatively determined by the Board of Directors, for the purchase of "tail" D&O insurance coverage.

Section 5.4 Additional Stockholders. As a condition to the Company's issuance of any shares of Common Stock, or options, warrants or rights to purchase or acquire Common Stock, to any person or entity, including the issuance of certificates representing shares of Common Stock upon a transfer following compliance with the terms of this Agreement, the Company shall, as a condition to such issuance, cause such person or entity to execute an Adoption Agreement in the form attached as Exhibit A hereto in the capacity of a Remaining Stockholder or a Highland Capital Stockholder, as appropriate, confirming that such person or entity is bound by, and subject to, all the terms and provisions of this Agreement applicable to a Remaining Stockholder or a Highland Capital Stockholder, whichever is applicable to such person or entity. The addition of Stockholders as parties to the Agreement in compliance with this provision shall not be deemed an amendment.

MISCELLANEOUS

Section 6.1 Term; Termination. This Agreement shall terminate upon the earliest to occur of (a) such time as the Stockholders shall no longer be the owner of any shares of capital stock of the Company; or (b) the date specified by agreement of the Company and HCMLP. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the following rights under this Agreement shall terminate as set forth herein:

(a) The rights of first refusal and co-sale set forth in Article I hereof shall terminate upon the earlier of (i) the closing of a bona fide firm commitment underwritten public offering of the Company's Common Stock registered under the Securities Act resulting in proceeds to the Company of at least $50 million (a "Qualified IPO"), and (ii) a Change in Control (including in the case of an asset sale or similar transaction in which Stockholders continue to hold the Company's shares, the final distribution of proceeds to the Stockholders);

(b) The rights of first offer set forth in Article II hereof shall terminate upon the earlier of (i) a Qualified IPO, and (ii) a Change in Control (including in the case of an asset sale or similar transaction in which Stockholders continue to hold the Company's shares, the final distribution of proceeds to the Stockholders);

(c) The registration rights set forth in Article III hereof shall terminate with respect to any Holder upon the earlier of (i) a Change in Control, and (ii) the date upon which all Registrable Securities held by such Holder can be sold without restriction under Rule 144(k) under the Securities Act;

(d) The voting rights and obligations set forth in Article IV hereto shall terminate upon the earlier of (i) (A) in the case of Section 4.1 the Initial Public Offering, and (B) in the case of Section 4.2, a Qualified IPO, and (ii) a Change in Control; and, provided that the provisions of Section 4.2 will continue after the closing of any Approved Sale to the extent necessary to enforce the provisions of Section 4.2 with respect to such Approved Sale;

(e) The information and inspection rights set forth in Section 5.1 and Section 5.2 hereto shall terminate upon the earliest of (i) the Initial Public Offering, (ii) the date upon which the Company becomes subject to the periodic reporting requirements of Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, and (iii) a Change in Control (including in the case of an asset sale or similar transaction in which Stockholders continue to hold the Company's shares, the final distribution of proceeds to the Stockholders).

Section 6.2 Legend. Each certificate representing the Common Stock of the Company shall be endorsed with substantially the following legend, in addition to any other legend required by law, the Company's organizational documents or agreement to which the Stockholder is subject:

“THE SECURITIES REPRESENTED BY THIS CERTIFICATE ARE SUBJECT TO THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF A CERTAIN STOCKHOLDERS' AGREEMENT, BY AND AMONG THE COMPANY AND CERTAIN HOLDERS OF THE COMMON STOCK OF THE COMPANY, INCLUDING SUBSTANTIAL RESTRICTIONS ON TRANSFER AND VOTING. A COPY OF SUCH AGREEMENT IS ON FILE AT THE PRINCIPAL OFFICE OF THE COMPANY. THE STOCKHOLDERS' AGREEMENT IS BINDING ON THE TRANSFEREES OF SUCH SHARES.”

Section 6.3 Successors and Assigns. In addition to any restriction on transfer that may be imposed by any other agreement by which the parties hereto may be bound, this Agreement shall be binding upon the parties hereto and their respective permitted transferees, heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns; provided, however, that the Company shall not effect any transfer of Common Stock subject to this Agreement on its books or issue a new certificate for such Common Stock unless the transferee of such Common Stock has executed and delivered an Adoption Agreement in the form attached hereto as Exhibit A. Upon compliance with all transfer and other restrictions set forth herein and the execution and delivery of an Adoption Agreement by the transferee, such transferee shall be deemed to be a party hereto as if such transferee's signature appeared on the signature pages hereto, in the capacity of Highland Capital or a Remaining Stockholder, as the case may be, whereupon the schedules of Stockholders shall be updated accordingly. Nothing in this Agreement, express or implied, is intended to confer upon any party other than the parties hereto or their respective successors and assigns any rights, remedies, obligations or liabilities under or by reason of this Agreement, except as expressly provided in this Agreement.

Section 6.4 Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by and construed under the laws of the State of Texas, without giving effect to conflicts of laws principles.

Section 6.5 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in two or more counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original, but all of which together shall constitute one and the same instrument.

Section 6.6 Titles and Subtitles. The titles and subtitles used in this Agreement are used for convenience only and are not to be considered in construing or interpreting this Agreement.

Section 6.7 Notices.

(a) All notices and other communications hereunder shall be in writing and shall be deemed given if delivered personally or by commercial delivery service, or mailed by registered or certified mail (return receipt requested) or sent via facsimile (with confirmation of receipt) to the parties at the address for each party set forth herein (or at such other address for a party as shall be specified by like notice):

(i) If to the Company:

(iii) If to a Highland Capital Stockholder, to the address set forth below such Highland Capital Stockholder's name on Schedule A hereto, with a copy (which shall not constitute notice) to HCMLP and the Company.

(iv) If to a Remaining Stockholder, at the address set forth below such Stockholder's name on Schedule B hereto, with a copy (which shall not constitute notice) to HCMLP and the Company.

(b) Notice given by personal delivery, courier service or mail shall be effective upon actual receipt. Notice given by facsimile shall be confirmed by appropriate answer back and shall be effective upon actual receipt if received during the recipient's normal business hours, or at the beginning of the recipient's next business day after receipt if not received during the recipient's normal business hours. All notices by facsimile shall be confirmed promptly after transmission in writing by certified mail or personal delivery. Any party may change any address to which notice is to be given to it by giving notice as provided above of such change of address.

(c) An electronic communication ("Electronic Notice") shall be deemed written notice for purposes of this Section 6.7 if sent with return receipt requested to the electronic mail address specified by the receiving party in a signed writing in a nonelectronic form. Electronic Notice shall be deemed received at the time the party sending Electronic Notice receives verification of receipt by the receiving party. Any party receiving Electronic Notice may request and shall be entitled to receive the notice on paper, in a nonelectronic form ("Nonelectronic Notice") which shall be sent to the requesting party within five (5) days of receipt of the written request for Nonelectronic Notice.

Section 6.8 DGCL Electronic Notice. Each party hereto generally consents to the delivery of any stockholder notice pursuant to the Delaware General Corporation Law (the "DGCL"), as amended or superseded from time to time, by electronic transmission (a "DGCL Electronic Notice") pursuant to Section 232 of the DGCL at the electronic mail address or the facsimile number set forth below such party's name on the Schedules hereto, as updated from time to time by notice to the Company, or as the books of the Company. To the extent that any DGCL Electronic Notice is returned or undeliverable for any reason, the foregoing consent shall be deemed to have been revoked until a new or corrected electronic mail address has been provided, and such attempted DGCL Electronic Notice shall be ineffective and deemed to not have been given. Each party hereto hereby agrees to promptly notify the Company of any change in such holder's electronic mail address, but failure to do so shall not affect the foregoing.

Section 6.9 Dispute Resolution.

(a) Arbitration. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Agreement to the contrary, and except for the equitable remedies provided in Section 6.9(b), in the event there is an unresolved legal dispute between the parties and/or any of their respective officers, directors, partners, employees, agents, affiliates or other representatives that involves legal rights or remedies arising from this Agreement, the parties agree to submit their dispute to binding arbitration under the authority of the Federal Arbitration Act; provided, however, that the Company or such applicable affiliate thereof may pursue a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunctive relief in connection with any confidentiality covenants or agreements binding on any of the parties, with related expedited discovery for the parties, in a court of law, and, thereafter, require arbitration of all issues of final relief. The Arbitration will be conducted by the American Arbitration Association, or another, mutually agreeable arbitration service. The arbitrator(s) shall be duly licensed to practice law in the State of Texas. The discovery process shall be limited to the following: Each side shall be permitted no more than (i) two party depositions of six hours each. Each deposition is to be taken pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure; (ii) one non-party deposition of six hours; (iii) twenty-five interrogatories; (iv) twenty-five requests for admission; (v) ten requests for production. In response, the producing party shall not be obligated to produce in excess of 5,000 total pages of documents. The total pages of documents shall include electronic documents; (vi) one request for disclosure pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. Any discovery not specifically provided for in this paragraph, whether to parties or non-parties, shall not be permitted. The arbitrator(s) shall be required to state in a written opinion all facts and conclusions of law relied upon to support any decision rendered. No arbitrator will have authority to render a decision that contains an outcome determinative error of state or federal law, or to fashion a cause of action or remedy not otherwise provided for under applicable state or federal law. Any dispute over whether the arbitrator(s) has failed to comply with the foregoing will be resolved by summary judgment in a court of law. In all other respects, the arbitration process will be conducted in accordance with the American Arbitration Association's dispute resolution rules or other mutually agreeable, arbitration service rules. The party initiating arbitration shall pay all arbitration costs and arbitrator's fees, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. All proceedings shall be conducted in Dallas, Texas, or another mutually agreeable site. Each party shall bear its own attorneys fees, costs and expenses, including any costs of experts, witnesses and/or travel, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. The duty to arbitrate described above shall survive the termination of this Agreement. Except as otherwise provided above, the parties hereby waive trial in a court of law or by jury. All other rights, remedies, statutes of limitation and defenses applicable to claims asserted in a court of law will apply in the arbitration.

(b) Equitable Relief. Each party hereto acknowledges and agrees that any breach of this Agreement would result in substantial harm to the other parties hereto for which monetary damages alone could not adequately compensate. Therefore, the parties hereto unconditionally and irrevocable agree that any non-breaching party hereto shall be entitled to seek protective orders, injunctive relief and other remedies available at law or in equity (including, without limitation, seeking specific performance or the rescission of purchases, sales and other transfers of Securities not made in strict compliance with this Agreement).

Section 6.10 Severability. If one or more provisions of this Agreement are held to be unenforceable under applicable law, such provision shall be excluded from this Agreement and the balance of the Agreement shall be interpreted as if such provision were so excluded and shall be enforceable in accordance with its terms.

Section 6.11 Amendments and Waivers. Subject to the last sentence of this Section 6.11, any term of this Agreement may be amended and the observance of any term of this Agreement may be waived (either generally or in a particular instance and either retroactively or prospectively), only with the written consent of (i) the Company, (ii) HCMLP, (iii) the Highland Capital Stockholders holding a majority of the Shares of the Company's Capital Stock held by Highland Capital, and (iv) at any such time as Highland Capital does not hold a majority of the Shares of the Company's capital stock that are subject to this Agreement, the Stockholders holding a majority of the shares of the Company's capital stock (on an as-converted to Common Stock basis) then held by all Stockholders that are subject to this Agreement, provided that the consent of the Remaining Stockholders shall not be required for any amendment or waiver if such amendment or waiver either (A) is not directly applicable to the rights of the Remaining Stockholders hereunder or (B) does not materially and adversely affect the rights of the Remaining Stockholders in a manner that is disproportionate to the effect on the rights of the other parties hereto. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any provision hereof may be waived by the waiving party on such party's own behalf, without the consent of any other party. Any amendment or waiver effected in accordance with this Section 6.11 shall be binding upon each party to this Agreement and each future party to this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, neither (i) the addition of parties hereto as a condition to such person participating in a transaction described herein, nor (ii) the addition of a party hereto as a result of such party being or becoming a Highland Capital Stockholder, shall be deemed an amendment hereto, nor shall any update to the Schedules hereto from time to time to reflect the correct holdings of or other information with respect to the parties. No provision of this Agreement that is applicable expressly to Crusader, including Section 1.1(b)(vi), Section 1.1(b)(vii), Section 1.2(d), Section 4.1(a), Section 4.1(d), Section 5.1 and this Section 6.11, shall be amended in any respect that is applicable to Crusader without the prior written consent of Crusader.

Section 6.12 Aggregation of Stock. All shares of Common Stock or other Securities of the Company held or acquired by affiliated entities or persons (including, without limitation, the Common Stock or other Securities held by Highland Capital) may be aggregated together for the purpose of determining the availability of any rights under this Agreement. For the purposes of determining the availability of any rights under this Agreement, the holdings of transferees and assignees of an individual or a partnership who are spouses, ancestors, lineal descendants or siblings of such individual or partners or retired partners of such partnership or partnerships affiliated with such transferring or assigning partnership (including spouses and ancestors, lineal descendants and siblings of such partners or spouses who acquire Common Stock by gift, will or intestate succession) shall be aggregated together with the individual or partnership, as the case may be, for the purpose of exercising any rights or taking any action under this Agreement.

Section 6.13 Entire Agreement. This Agreement (including the Schedules hereto, if any) constitutes the full and entire understanding and agreement between the parties with regard to the subject matter hereof and thereof and supersedes any and all prior agreements relating to the subject matter hereof, including without limitation the First Stockholders' Agreement. The Company and each Stockholder acknowledges and agrees that neither the Company's Certificate of Incorporation or Bylaws shall be amended to include any transfer restrictions on the Company's Securities (it being understood that any and all applicable transfer restrictions, other than those arising under the securities laws generally, shall be as set forth herein).

Section 6.14 Stock Splits, Stock Dividends, etc. In the event of any stock split, stock dividend, capitalization, reorganization, or the like, any securities issued with respect to the shares of the Company's capital stock held by the Stockholders shall become subject to the terms of this Agreement.

Section 6.15 Cumulative Remedies. In addition to the rights and remedies stated in this Agreement, each party hereto shall have all those rights and remedies allowed by applicable laws. The rights and remedies of each party are cumulative and recourse to one or more right or remedy shall not constitute a waiver of the others.

Section 6.16 Rights of Stockholders. Each of HCMLP and each Stockholder, in its sole and absolute discretion, may exercise or refrain from exercising any rights or privileges that such Stockholder may have pursuant to this Agreement, the Company's Certificate of Incorporation or Bylaws, or at law or in equity; and neither HCMLP nor such Stockholder shall incur or be subject to any liability or obligation to the Company, any other party hereto, or any other person, by reason of exercising or refraining from exercising any such rights or privileges.

Section 6.17 Further Assurance. At any time or from time to time after the date hereof, the parties agree to cooperate with each other, and at the request of any other party, to execute and deliver any further instrument or documents and take all such further action as the other party may reasonably request in order to evidence or effectuate the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby and to otherwise carry out the intent of the parties hereunder.

Section 6.18 Joint Product. This Agreement is the joint product of the Company and the other parties hereto and each provision hereof and thereof has been subject to the mutual consultation, negotiation and agreement of the Company and the other parties hereto and shall not be construed against any party hereto.

RIDER TO THE PROOFS OF CLAIM OF THE REDEEMER
COMMITTEE OF THE HIGHLAND CRUSADER FUND

This Rider is part of the proof of claim (the “Proof of Claim”) filed by the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (the “Redeemer Committee”) against Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCM” or the “Debtor”).

On March 6, 2019, a panel of arbitrators issued a Partial Final Award (the “March Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM. On April 29, 2019, the panel issued a Final Award (the “Final Award,” and together with the March Award, the “Arbitration Award”) in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM.¹ The Arbitration Award is subject to the Federal Arbitration Act and The Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards. The Redeemer Committee timely moved to confirm the Award in the Delaware Chancery Court. HCM moved for partial vacatur of the Arbitration Award in June 2019. The time period to move to vacate the Arbitration Award expired prior to the Petition Date (as defined below). All capitalized terms that are not defined herein have the meanings given to such terms in the Arbitration Award.

The Redeemer Committee files this Proof of Claim out of an abundance of caution. The Arbitration Award is an executory contract under section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. HCM has not yet moved to assume or reject the contract. Accordingly, the deadline to file a proof of claim remains undetermined. By filing the Proof of Claim, the Redeemer Committee does not concede that the amounts awarded under the Arbitration Award are prepetition claims or that it is required to file a proof of claim to be entitled to the amounts described herein. The Redeemer Committee reserves all rights to amend or modify this Proof of Claim in any respect, including to assert other or additional claims, or for the purpose of fixing or liquidating any contingent or unliquidated claims. This Proof of Claim is without prejudice to any other rights the Redeemer Committee may have against the Debtor, its officers, employees, successors, or assigns.

This Proof of Claim includes the following components, and each is based on the Arbitration Award (together, the “Claim”):

1. Damage Claim. The Redeemer Committee asserts a liquidated claim for at least $190,824,557 plus interest that is accruing beginning as of October 16, 2019, the date that HCM filed its bankruptcy case (the “Petition Date”). As set forth in the Final Award, the separate components of the Damage Claim are as follows, and the amounts set forth below are as of the Petition Date, including prepetition interest awarded under the Arbitration Award accrued to the Petition Date:
 - a. Deferred Fee Claim: $43,105,395 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.1)
 - b. Distribution Fee Claim: $22,922,608 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.2)

¹ Copies of the Arbitral Award have previously been provided the Debtor, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors, and the Office of the United States Trustee. The Redeemer Committee reserves the right to file a copy of the Arbitral Award with the Bankruptcy Court.

- c. Taking of Plan Claims: $3,277,991 (Final Award ¶ F.a.v)
- d. CLO Trades Claim: $685,195 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vi)
- e. Credit Suisse Claim: $3,660,130 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vii)
- f. UBS Claim: $2,600,968 (Final Award ¶ F.a.viii)
- g. Barclays Claim: $30,811,366 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)
- h. Legal Fees, Costs, and Expenses: $11,351,850 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xi)
- i. Administrative Fees: $514,164 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xii)
- j. Cornerstone Award: $71,894,891 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)

The Redeemer Committee also asserts an unliquidated claim for post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses that continue to accrue in connection with the Damage Claim.

2. Cancellation of Limited Partnership Interests. The Final Award provides, in relevant part, for the cancellation of the limited partnership interests in the Crusader Fund that are (i) held by HCM and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. that are identified in RC411, and (ii) held by Eames, Ltd. (Final Award ¶¶ F.a.v and F.a.x). The Final Award provides for HCM to transfer, or take all necessary steps to cause the transfer of, such interests to the Redeemer Committee for the benefit of the Crusader Fund. The Final Award also provides that the Redeemer Committee has the independent right to cause the Crusader Fund to cancel such limited partnership interests. The Redeemer Committee reserves the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cancel such limited partnership interests in accordance with the Final Award. The Redeemer Committee asserts a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such limited partnership interests are not cancelled in accordance with the Final Award.
3. Deferred Fee Account. The Arbitration Award granted the Redeemer Committee's request for a declaratory judgment with respect to the immediate distribution of the Deferred Fee Account, which the Crusader Fund continues to hold, and ordered the payment of the funds in such account to the Redeemer Committee for disbursement to the Consenting Compulsory Redeemers (March Award ¶ VII.D; Final Award ¶ F.a). The Redeemer Committee reserves the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cause the distribution of the funds held in the Deferred Fee Account in accordance with the Arbitration Award. The Redeemer Committee asserts a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such funds are not distributed in accordance with the Arbitration Award.

The Redeemer Committee expressly reserves all of its procedural and substantive defenses and rights with respect to any claim that may be asserted against the Redeemer Committee by the Debtor, including any rights of setoff or recoupment.

The filing of this Claim shall not constitute: (i) an admission of liability by the Redeemer Committee to any party; (ii) a waiver or release of the Redeemer Committee's rights against any person, entity, or property; (iii) a consent by the Redeemer Committee to the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court with respect to the subject matter of this Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases or otherwise involving the Redeemer Committee; (iv) a waiver of the right to move to withdraw the reference to the subject matter of this Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant; (v) a waiver of the right to have final orders entered only after de novo review by a United States Judge; (vi) its right to trial by jury in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy, or proceeding related to these cases; (vii) its right to arbitration under the Plan and Scheme; (viii) an election of remedies; or (ix) any other rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, or recoupments to which it is or may be entitled under agreements, in law, in equity, or otherwise, all of which rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, and recoupments are expressly reserved.

Dated: April 6, 2020

This Rider is part of the proof of claim (the “Proof of Claim”) filed by Highland Crusader Offshore Partners, L.P. (“Master Fund”), Highland Crusader Fund, L.P. (“Onshore Fund”), Highland Crusader Fund, Ltd. (“Offshore Fund I”), and Highland Crusader Fund II, Ltd. (“Offshore Fund II” and together with the Master Fund, Onshore Fund, and Offshore Fund I, the “Crusader Funds”), by and through their authorized investment manager, Alvarez & Marsal CRF Management, LLC, against Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCM” or the “Debtor”).

The Crusader Funds’ claim against HCM contains two components (which partially overlap) and a number of sub-components, described below.

At all relevant times prior to August 4, 2016, HCM served as the investment manager for each of the Crusader Funds, pursuant to the terms of (a) the Joint Plan of Distribution of the Crusader Funds (the “Plan”); (b) the Scheme of Arrangement (the “Scheme”); (c) the Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between the Master Fund and HCM, dated as of June 1, 2006 (the “Master Fund IMA”); (d) the Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between Onshore Fund and HCM, dated as of June 1, 2006 (the “Onshore IMA”); (e) the Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between Offshore Fund I and HCM, dated as of September 1, 2006 (the “Offshore I IMA”); and (f) the Third Amended and Restated Investment Management Agreement between Offshore Fund II and HCM, dated as of September 1, 2006 (the “Offshore II IMA” and together with the Master Fund IMA, the Onshore IMA, and the Offshore I IMA, the “IMAs”). The Plan, the Scheme, and the IMAs are collectively referred to as the “Fund Documents.”

Pursuant to the Fund Documents, HCM received compensation from the Crusader Funds in the form of Management Fees, Distribution Fees, and rights to Deferred Fees (each as defined in the Plan, the Scheme, or the IMAs). However, by no later than January 2012, HCM willfully and deliberately breached its obligations under the Fund Documents and breached its duty of loyalty to the Crusader Funds. At that time, HCM caused the Crusader Funds to borrow on margin from a trading account at Jefferies, and used the borrowings to inflate the amount of distributions being made, so as to inflate the amount of HCM’s Distribution Fee. Following that date, HCM committed other acts of disloyalty and further breached its obligations to the Crusader Funds, as described in the Arbitration Award (as defined below) and as shown by the evidence presented at the arbitration hearing that led to the Arbitration Award.

As a result, pursuant to the “faithless servant” doctrine, HCM forfeited any right it had to compensation for its services from the Crusader Funds, from the date of HCM’s first disloyal act onward. See, e.g., Phansalkar v. Andersen Weinroth & Co., L.P., 344 F.3d 184, 188 (2d Cir. 2003) (“We hold that New York’s faithless servant doctrine requires Phansalkar to forfeit all compensation received after his first disloyal act.”). As a “faithless servant,” HCM is obligated to disgorge all compensation received from the Crusader Funds from the date of HCM’s first disloyal act, and has no right to any further compensation from the Crusader Funds. The Crusader Funds thus assert a claim in the following amounts:

1. Management Fees: $8,233,337
2. Distribution Fees: $15,250,109
3. Deferred Fees: $32,313,000¹
4. Other Fees: In the amount of any other compensation, fees or distributions which may now or in the future otherwise be owing to HCM

The Crusader Funds also assert an unliquidated claim for pre- and post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses in connection with recovering such amounts. The Crusader Funds also assert a claim in an unliquidated amount for any Deferred Fees to which HCM might otherwise become entitled in the future under the Fund Documents.

The Crusader Funds currently hold, and may in the future hold, amounts that HCM may claim are, either now or in the future, due to it as a result of services provided by HCM to the Crusader Funds (the "Withheld Amounts"). As a result of the claims detailed in the Arbitration Award and this Proof of Claim (including without limitation, the faithless servant claim), the Crusader Funds dispute that any such amounts are due. However, to the extent that HCM prevails on an entitlement to a claim against the Crusader Funds, the Crusader Funds have a right of setoff against any such claim to the extent of its claims against HCM and such right of setoff is further secured by the Withheld Amounts.

II. ARBITRATION AWARD

This component of the claim is asserted in the alternative to the claim asserted by the Redeemer Committee of the Crusader Funds (the "Redeemer Committee"). The Crusader Funds would withdraw this portion of their claim if and to the extent that the Redeemer Committee's claim is allowed.

On March 6, 2019, a panel of arbitrators issued a Partial Final Award (the "March Award") in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM. On April 29, 2019, the panel issued a Final Award (the "Final Award," and together with the March Award, the "Arbitration Award") in favor of the Redeemer Committee against HCM.² Substantially all of the relief awarded by the panel was expressly noted to be "for the benefit of the Fund." Final Award ¶¶ F.a.iii-x. The Arbitration Award is subject to the Federal Arbitration Act and The Convention on the Recognition and Enforcement of Foreign Arbitral Awards. The Redeemer Committee timely moved to confirm the Award in the Delaware Chancery Court. HCM moved for partial vacatur of the Arbitration Award in June 2019. The time period to move to vacate the Arbitration Award expired prior to the Petition Date (as defined below). All capitalized terms that are not defined below have the meanings given to such terms in the Arbitration Award.

² Copies of the Arbitral Award have previously been provided the Debtor, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors, and the Office of the United States Trustee. The Crusader Funds reserve the right to file a copy of the Arbitral Award with the Bankruptcy Court.

The Arbitration Award component of the Crusader Funds' claim includes the following sub-components, and each is based on the Arbitration Award:

1. Damage Claim. The Crusader Funds assert a liquidated claim for at least $190,824,557 plus interest that is accruing beginning as of October 16, 2019, the date that HCM filed its bankruptcy case (the "Petition Date"). As set forth in the Final Award, the separate components of the Damage Claim are as follows, and the amounts set forth below are as of the Petition Date, including prepetition interest awarded under the Arbitration Award accrued to the Petition Date:
 - a. Deferred Fee Claim: $43,105,395 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.1)
 - b. Distribution Fee Claim: $22,922,608 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ii.2)
 - c. Taking of Plan Claims: $3,277,991 (Final Award ¶ F.a.v)
 - d. CLO Trades Claim: $685,195 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vi)
 - e. Credit Suisse Claim: $3,660,130 (Final Award ¶ F.a.vii)
 - f. UBS Claim: $2,600,968 (Final Award ¶ F.a.viii)
 - g. Barclays Claim: $30,811,366 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)
 - h. Legal Fees, Costs, and Expenses: $11,351,850 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xi)
 - i. Administrative Fees: $514,164 (Final Award ¶ F.a.xii)
 - j. Cornerstone Award: $71,894,891 (Final Award ¶ F.a.ix)

The Crusader Funds also assert an unliquidated claim for post-petition interest, attorneys' fees, costs, and other expenses that continue to accrue in connection with the Damage Claim.

2. Cancellation of Limited Partnership Interests. The Final Award provides, in relevant part, for the cancellation of the limited partnership interests in the Crusader Funds that are (i) held by HCM and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. that are identified in RC411, and (ii) held by Eames, Ltd. (Final Award ¶¶ F.a.v and F.a.x). The Final Award provides for HCM to transfer, or take all necessary steps to cause the transfer of, such interests to the Redeemer Committee for the benefit of the Crusader Funds. The Final Award also provides that the Redeemer Committee has the independent right to cause the Crusader Funds to cancel such limited partnership interests. The Crusader Funds reserve the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cancel such limited partnership interests in accordance with the Final Award. The Crusader Funds assert a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such limited partnership interests are not cancelled in accordance with the Final Award.
3. Deferred Fee Account. The Arbitration Award granted the Redeemer Committee's request for a declaratory judgment with respect to the immediate distribution of the

Deferred Fee Account, which the Crusader Funds continue to hold, and ordered the payment of the funds in such account to the Redeemer Committee for disbursement to the Consenting Compulsory Redeemers (March Award ¶ VII.D; Final Award ¶ F.a). The Crusader Funds reserve the right, to the extent required under applicable law, to seek relief from the Bankruptcy Court in order to cause the distribution of the funds held in the Deferred Fee Account in accordance with the Arbitration Award. The Crusader Funds assert a claim in an unliquidated amount in the event all such funds are not distributed in accordance with the Arbitration Award.

The Crusader Funds file this portion of the Proof of Claim out of an abundance of caution and in the event that the Arbitration Award is determined not to be an executory contract. However, the Arbitration Award may be an executory contract under section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code. HCM has not yet moved to assume or reject such contract. The Crusader Funds reserve the right to dispute whether the Arbitration Award is an executory contract and, if so, HCM's decision to reject such contract. If the Arbitration Award is determined to be an executory contract and is allowed to be rejected by the Bankruptcy Court, the Crusader Funds reserve the right to file an amended proof of claim by the bar date for the filing of rejection damages claims; if no such amended proof of claim is filed, then, this claim shall serve as the Crusader Funds' rejection damages claim. By filing this Proof of Claim, the Crusader Funds do not concede that the Arbitration Award is an executory contract, that amounts awarded under the Arbitration Award are prepetition claims or that they are now required to file a proof of claim to be entitled to the amounts described in the Arbitration Award.

The Crusader Funds reserve all rights to amend or modify this Proof of Claim in any respect, including, without limitation, to assert other or additional claims, or for the purpose of fixing or liquidating any contingent or unliquidated claims. This Proof of Claim is without prejudice to any other rights the Crusader Funds may have against the Debtor, its officers, employees, successors, or assigns.

The Crusader Funds expressly reserve all of their procedural and substantive defenses and rights with respect to any claim that may be asserted against the Crusader Funds by the Debtor, including, without limitation, any rights of setoff or recoupment.

The filing of this Proof of Claim shall not constitute: (i) an admission of liability by the Crusader Funds to any party; (ii) a waiver or release of the Crusader Funds' rights against any person, entity, or property; (iii) a consent by the Crusader Funds to the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court with respect to the subject matter of this Proof of Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases or otherwise involving the Crusader Funds; (iv) a waiver or release of the right to move to withdraw the reference to the subject matter of this Proof of Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant; (v) a waiver or release of the right to seek to have the Bankruptcy Court abstain with respect to the subject matter of this Proof of Claim, any objection or other proceeding commenced with respect thereto, or any other proceeding commenced in these cases against or otherwise involving any claimant, (vi) a waiver or release of the right to have final orders entered only after de novo review by a United States District Judge; (vii) a waiver or release of their right to trial by jury in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy, or proceeding related to these cases; (viii) a consent to a jury trial in any proceeding so triable in these cases or any case, controversy or proceeding related to these cases, (ix) a waiver or release of their right to arbitration under the Plan and Scheme; (x) an election of remedies or limitation of rights or remedies; or (xi) a waiver or release of any other rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, or recoupments to which they are or may be entitled under agreements, in law, in equity, or otherwise, all of which rights, claims, actions, defenses, setoffs, and recoupments are expressly reserved.

UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch (together, “UBS”), by and through their undersigned counsel, hereby submit this objection (the “Objection”) to the Debtor’s Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlements with (A) The Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (Claim No. 72), and (B) The Highland Crusader Funds (Claim No. 81), and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Dkt. No. 1089] (the “Motion”) regarding the proofs of claim filed by the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (“Redeemer” and the “Redeemer Claim”) and the Highland Crusader Funds (“Crusader”² and the “Crusader Claim”). In support of this Objection, UBS respectfully states as follows:

Under Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019, a bankruptcy court must make an independent judgment of the merits of any settlement proposed by a debtor to ensure that it is fair, equitable, and in the best interest of the debtor’s estate. While settlements are certainly desirable in the context of a bankruptcy case—especially in this case, which is particularly complex and fraught with allegations of fraud and bad faith—a settlement should not be approved just because the debtor says it should be. Here, Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”) acknowledges that it made “substantial compromises” to strike a deal with Crusader and Redeemer, but contends that those compromises benefit the Debtor’s estate. A closer review of the Proposed Settlement (as defined below), however, belies such assertion and evidences that the Debtor has not met its burden of showing this is a fair and equitable compromise within the range of reasonable alternatives.

The Debtor’s “modest reductions” to the Redeemer Claim do not account for the significant risk that a substantial portion of the Redeemer Claim (based on an Arbitration Award) is subject to vacatur. More importantly, under the Proposed Settlement, the Debtor would forfeit rights to over $30 million in cash and valuable assets potentially worth more than $80 million, permitting a significant windfall to Redeemer to the detriment of the Debtor’s estate and other creditors.

The Redeemer Claim is based on an Arbitration Award that required the Debtor, inter alia, to pay $118,929,666 (including prejudgment interest and attorneys’ fees) in damages and to pay Redeemer $71,894,891 (including prejudgment interest) in exchange for all of Crusader’s shares in Cornerstone. Pursuant to that same Arbitration Award, the Debtor also retained the right to receive $32,313,000 in Deferred Fees upon Crusader’s liquidation. As shown below, after accounting for those reciprocal obligations to the Debtor and depending on the true value of the Cornerstone shares to be tendered (which is disputed), the actual value of the Arbitration Award to Redeemer is between $74,911,557 and $128,011,557.³

Under the Proposed Settlement, however, Redeemer stands to gain far more because the Debtor has inexplicably agreed to release its rights to Crusader’s Cornerstone shares and the Deferred Fees (with a combined value that could be as much as $115,913,000)—providing a substantial windfall to Redeemer. The Debtor has failed to provide sufficient information to permit this Court to meaningfully evaluate the true value of the Proposed Settlement, including the fair value of the Cornerstone shares, which it must do in order for this Court to have the information it needs to approve the Proposed Settlement. Depending on the valuation of the Cornerstone shares, the value of the Proposed Settlement to Redeemer may be as much as $253,609,610—which substantially exceeds the face amount of the Redeemer Claim.

In the meantime, other general unsecured creditors of the Debtor will receive a much lower percentage recovery than they would if those assets were instead transferred to the Debtor’s estate, as required by the Arbitration Award, and evenly distributed among the Debtor’s creditors. The Proposed Settlement is only in the best interests of Redeemer and, as such, it should be rejected.

BACKGROUND⁴

A. Procedural Background

1. The Debtor is an investment management firm that manages a variety of hedge funds, structured investment vehicles, and mutual funds.

2. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for chapter 11 relief in the Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware. Pursuant to an order dated December 4, 2019, the Debtor’s bankruptcy proceedings were transferred to this Court under the above-captioned case number (the “Chapter 11 Case”).

3. On March 2, 2020, this Court entered the Order (I) Establishing Bar Dates for Filing Claims and (II) Approving the Form and Manner of Notice Thereof [Dkt. No. 488]. Pursuant to that order, the general bar date for proofs of claim was set for April 8, 2020.

4. On April 3, 2020, Redeemer filed Proof of Claim No. 72 against the Debtor’s estate, claiming (1) $190,824,557 (its so-called “Damages Award”); (2) “post-petition interest, attorneys’ fees, costs and other expenses;” (3) the right to distribute funds held in the “Deferred Fee Account” to Crusader investors; and (4) the transfer or cancellation of certain limited partner interests in Crusader held by the Debtor, the Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. (“DAF”), and Eames, Ltd. (“Eames”).

⁴ Additional background information is described in the UBS Objection (defined below) [Dkt. No. 996] and incorporated herein by reference.

Redeemer Claim Rider at 1-2. The Redeemer Claim is predicated upon an “Arbitration Award,” which it characterizes as an “executory contract.” Redeemer Claim Rider at 1.

5. As discussed in further detail below, the Arbitration Award is actually made up of three awards: (i) a March 6, 2019 “Partial Final Award,” (ii) a March 14, 2019 “Modification Award,” and (iii) an April 29, 2019 “Final Award”—all issued by the same panel of arbitrators in the same arbitration proceeding, but none of which has ever been confirmed or otherwise entered as a final judgment by any court of competent jurisdiction. See Mot. ¶ 15.

6. On April 6, 2020, Crusader filed Proof of Claim No. 81 against the Debtor’s estate alleging the Debtor had been a faithless fiduciary and claiming (1) $55,796,446, including the disgorgement of $8,233,337 in “Management Fees” and $15,250,109 in “Distribution Fees” previously paid to the Debtor for its service as investment manager, as well as forfeiture of the Debtor’s right to $32,313,000 in “Deferred Fees” and any “Other Fees” that “may now or in the future otherwise be owing to [the Debtor]”; (2) any other Deferred Fees the Debtor “might otherwise become entitled in the future”; (3) “pre- and post-petition interest, attorneys’ fees, costs and other expenses”; and (4) a right of setoff against any claim that the Debtor may assert against it for “Withheld Amounts.” Crusader Claim Rider at 1-2;⁵ Crusader Claim at 2; see Mot. ¶ 22.

7. On August 26, 2020, UBS filed its Objection to the Proof of Claim Filed by Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund [Dkt. No. 996] (the “UBS Objection”). UBS objected to the Redeemer Claim’s: (1) characterization of the Arbitration Award as an executory contract, (2) inclusion of relief in the so-called Damages Award that was impermissibly awarded for the first time in the Final Award and thus is subject to vacatur, and (3) failure to take into account the value of assets that Redeemer is obligated to transfer to the Debtor's estate under the same Arbitration Award. UBS Obj. at 3, 19.

8. On September 23, 2020, the Debtor filed the Motion and the Declaration of John A. Morris in Support of the Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (A) the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (Claim No. 72), and (B) the Highland Crusader Funds (Claim No. 81), and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [Dkt. No. 1090] (the "Morris Declaration"). The Motion seeks approval of a stipulation, attached as Exhibit 1 to the Morris Declaration [Dkt. No. 1090-1] (the "Proposed Settlement").

B. The Arbitration Award

9. From Crusader's inception through August 2016, the Debtor served as Crusader's investment manager. Mot. ¶¶ 10, 13; Crusader Claim Rider at 1. In late 2008, Crusader was put into wind-down. Mot. ¶ 11. That process was governed by a Joint Plan of Distribution of the Crusader Funds and the Scheme of Arrangement Between the Crusader Funds and their Scheme Creditors (the "Plan and Scheme"),⁶ both adopted in 2011 in an attempt to permit redeeming investors to be able to realize additional monetary benefits that would not ordinarily be realized through general liquidation. Plan & Scheme at 14-16; see also Mot. ¶ 12. This arrangement was not intended to be a risk-free choice. Plan & Scheme at 16 ("There is a risk that the Company Redeemers' Distributions may be less than their Redemption Amounts . . .").

10. Pursuant to the Plan and Scheme, payment of certain fees owed to the Debtor as compensation for its role as investment manager was deferred (the "Deferred Fees") until liquidation of Crusader's assets was complete. Mot. ¶¶ 10, 13, 25; Plan & Scheme at 37, 73-74. Unlike certain "Distribution Fees" that the Debtor would not be entitled to receive if removed for cause, Plan & Scheme at 48, 73, the "Deferred Fees are payable under all circumstances to HCMLP," except for the "Deferred Fee Account." Plan & Scheme at 20 (emphasis added). For those amounts in the Deferred Fee Account, the Debtor had the right to "potentially receive" those amounts if it met specified distribution targets on time. Plan & Scheme at 15, 57-58, 82-83.

11. Redeemer was entrusted with oversight of this process from the start and at all times had the power to terminate the Debtor as Crusader's investment manager upon thirty days' notice, with or without cause. Plan and Scheme at 15-16, 18, 51, 76. Redeemer chose not to exert this power until July 5, 2016, when Redeemer provided the Debtor with notice it was being terminated as investment manager and an arbitration proceeding was being initiated against it. Mot. ¶¶ 13-14. Pursuant to this notice, the Debtor's investment management services ended effective August 4, 2016. Mot. ¶ 13. The Debtor was replaced by Alvarez & Marsal CRT Management, LLC ("Alvarez"). PFA at 4. Concurrently with its arbitration demand, Redeemer initiated an action in the Delaware Chancery Court (the "Delaware Court") for a status quo order, id., where the Debtor added Alvarez as a third party defendant. See Mot. ¶ 14 n.3; Ex. A, Debtor Brief to Vacate (REDEEMER_001635).

12. In the arbitration proceeding, Redeemer asserted breach of contract and breach of fiduciary duty claims against the Debtor seeking disgorgement and other relief based on the Debtor's service as Crusader's investment manager. Mot. ¶ 14; PFA at 3-4. Redeemer chose not to allege the Debtor had been a faithless servant. PFA at 8, 49. After "the record was declared closed" on December 12, 2018, id. at 7, the panel of arbitrators (the "Panel") rendered a "Partial Final Award" (or "PFA") [Dkt. No. 1128] on March 6, 2019. The Partial Final Award was a 56-

page single-spaced reasoned decision unanimously signed by all three members of the Panel. See generally id. Four aspects of the Partial Final Award are of particular relevance here:

- Deferred Fees. The Panel found that the Debtor was entitled to receive the Deferred Fees but had paid them to itself prematurely. PFA at 3; Mot. ¶ 25. Because Redeemer was deprived of the use of these funds during the improper period, the Panel awarded damages of $41,320,655, consisting of $32,313,000 in damages and $9,007,655⁷ in prejudgment interest. Importantly, the Panel made no finding that the Debtor’s misconduct required it to give up its right to receive the Deferred Fees at the time set forth in the Plan and Scheme. PFA at 14.⁸ Under the Plan & Scheme, the Deferred Fees are required to be paid to the Debtor’s estate upon Crusader’s complete liquidation, which as UBS understands, is largely tied to the disposition of the Cornerstone shares. See PFA at 51.
- Cornerstone Award. The Panel also found that the Debtor had breached its fiduciary duty by failing to liquidate Crusader’s shares in Cornerstone Healthcare Group (“Cornerstone”). Mot. ¶ 30. The Arbitration Award ordered the Debtor to pay Redeemer $48,070,407 (at the fair market value of $3,241.41 per share, calculated as of the date of the Debtor’s interference, PFA at 42, 48), plus $21,169,417 in prejudgment interest, and ordered Redeemer to transfer Crusader’s Cornerstone shares to the Debtor. PFA at 55; id. at 48 (“[We] order that the [Redeemer] Committee simultaneously cause the Crusader Fund to surrender its interest in Cornerstone to Highland.”). Neither Redeemer nor Crusader was provided any future interest in Cornerstone or right to seek retention of the Cornerstone shares in lieu of damages. See PFA at 48, 55; Mot. ¶ 31.
- Barclays LP Interests. The Panel ruled on one of Redeemer’s core allegations—namely, that the Debtor improperly transferred certain limited partner interests in Crusader that belonged to Barclays (the “Barclays LP Interests”) from Barclays to Eames, see, e.g., PFA at 8, 15, 20-22, 54—and determined that such transfers were a breach of the parties’ agreement. PFA at 21-22, 54. But the Panel did not treat the Debtor’s transfers of the Barclays LP Interests as an independent wrongdoing. Instead, the Partial Final Award only discussed the transfer of the Barclays LP Interests in the context of one of Redeemer’s broader sets of claims, known as its “Distribution Fee Claim.” See PFA at 15; id. at 20 (analyzing “Payments to Barclays and Eames as Distributions”). After determining that the Debtor’s transfers of the Barclays LP Interests were “improper,” PFA at 20-22, 54, the Panel awarded Redeemer a “total” of $14,452,275 in aggregate damages (plus prejudgment interest) to cover all of the conduct relating to its Distribution Fee Claim—a claim that specifically included the Debtor’s transfers of the Barclays LP Interests. E.g., PFA at 22.

⁸ In fact, the Debtor asserted a counterclaim against Redeemer to recover the Deferred Fees prior to complete liquidation of Crusader, because it alleged Alvarez should have completed the Crusader liquidation by December 2017, triggering the payment to the Debtor. PFA at 8, 49. The Panel, however, found that Alvarez was not responsible for any delay. Id. at 51. Notably, Redeemer did not raise a faithless servant defense. PFA at 8, 49.

- Prejudgment Interest. As noted, the Panel awarded Redeemer prejudgment interest on its damages awards, see e.g., PFA at 48, 54-55, accruing from the time of the alleged breaches through March 6, 2019, the date of the Partial Final Award. E.g., PFA at 54 (awarding “statutory interest of 9%, calculated on a simple basis, from the dates of taking in January and April 2016 through the date of this Partial Final Award”).

13. On March 7, 2019, one day after the Panel issued the Partial Final Award, Redeemer requested a modification to the Partial Final Award. FA at 1. On March 11, 2019, before the Debtor was required to respond to the request, the Panel responded by email that it “[would] be modifying” the Partial Final Award. Ex. A, Debtor Brief to Vacate at 5 (REDEEMER_001644). Next, on March 14, 2019, and also before the Debtor was required to respond to the request, the Panel unilaterally issued a “Disposition of Application for Modification of Award” [Dkt. No. 1129] (the “Modification Award” or “MA”). This email and the Modification Award added a completely new category of damages as a result of the Debtor’s “improper” transfer of the Barclays LP Interests—damages above and beyond the $14.5 million already ordered for such conduct in the Partial Final Award. FA at 11.

14. The Modification Award purported to be issued pursuant to Rule 50 of the AAA Commercial Rules, which allows a panel to “correct any clerical, typographical, or computational errors in the award.” MA at 1; FA at 1 n.1. If Rule 50 had been properly applied, the Debtor would have had “10 calendar days to respond to [Redeemer’s] request” in writing. AAA R-50. Instead, the Modification Award was issued on March 14, 2019—just 7 days after Redeemer’s request and 3 days short of the timeframe for objections provided for in Rule 50. FA at 1; Mot. ¶

15. The Debtor timely opposed Redeemer’s modification request on March 17, 2019, and requested that the Panel withdraw its Modification Award and refrain from any further modification of the Partial Final Award. FA at 2(a). That did not happen.

15. Almost three weeks later, on April 5, 2019 (ten days after Rule 50’s allotted period for modification requests closed), Redeemer submitted yet another formal written request for modification of the Partial Final Award, this time asking the Panel to “award further damages in connection with the Barclays claim” and to “award prejudgment interest through” an extended date. FA at 2. Again, the Debtor opposed Redeemer’s request for such “further damages” on the basis that such post-award modifications are improper under the AAA Rules and governing law. FA at 2-3.

16. On April 29, 2019,⁹ the Panel issued a new “Final Award.” In that Final Award, the Panel “re-adopt[ed] all prior findings and conclusions” but “specifically modified” portions of the earlier Partial Final Award. FA at 1. The “modifications” included several substantive changes to the Partial Final Award by: (1) awarding Redeemer an additional $21,768,743 in damages due to the transfers of the Barclays LP Interests, as well as $9,042,623 in prejudgment interest on these new damages; (2) granting injunctive relief that required the Debtor to return improperly taken limited partner interests held by Eames to Redeemer; and (3) extending the time for prejudgment interest to accrue until “the date paid or the entry of a final judgment.” FA at 2, 14-15. Put differently, the relief awarded through the Arbitration Award included:

Award	Modification	Amount Added	Total Liquidated Damages Award
Partial Final Award	n/a	n/a	$154,314,614 ¹⁰
Modification Award	New damages related to Barclays LP Interests	$30,811,366	$183,923,629
Final Award	Incorporated MA; added injunctive relief (Eames); extended accrual period for prejudgment interest	$6,900,921 & injunctive relief	$190,824,557

⁹ Two of three arbitrators signed on April 29, the third arbitrator signed on May 9, 2019. FA at 19-22; see Mot. ¶ 15 (referencing a May 9, 2019 Final Award).

¹⁰ The Partial Final Award explicitly found liability and awarded damages for the “Sale of CLO interests” and “Credit Suisse claims,” as well as for attorneys’ fees, but directed the parties to confer regarding the appropriate amount of damages or, if no agreement could be reached, the Panel would determine the amount. PFA at 55-56. These amounts was properly clarified in the Final Award and such amounts are included in this calculation.

17. After the Final Award was issued, and prior to the Petition Date, Redeemer moved in the Delaware Court to have that award confirmed as a judgment. Mot. ¶ 17. Also prior to the Petition Date, the Debtor moved the Delaware Court to vacate at least $36.5 million of the Arbitration Award on the grounds that the Panel was without authority to modify its Partial Final Award (“Motion to Vacate”). Mot. ¶ 17. Both motions were scheduled to be heard by the Delaware Court on the day that the Debtor filed its Chapter 11 Case.¹¹ The Delaware proceedings are currently stayed by section 362 of the Bankruptcy Code.

C. The Proposed Settlement

18. On July 8, 2020, the Debtor informed this Court that it and Redeemer had reached a settlement in principle as to Redeemer’s claim and would file their agreement when certain language was finalized. Dkt. 817, July 8, 2020 Hr’g Tr.

19. Subsequently, and in parallel with the Debtor and Redeemer finalizing their agreement, the Debtor, Redeemer and other parties in interest, including UBS, proceeded with mediation. A brief summary of the terms of the Redeemer settlement was announced to the mediation parties on the first day of mediation, August 27, 2020.

20. Then, on September 23, 2010, the Debtor filed its Motion and Proposed Settlement. As the Debtor has acknowledged to this Court in the past, a settlement of the Redeemer Claim based on the Arbitration Award is not as simple or straightforward as with a typical arbitration award. Dkt. No. 817, July 8, 2020 Hr’g Tr. This is, in part, because of the obligations imposed by the Arbitration Award and Plan and Scheme that require Redeemer to transfer meaningful assets

¹¹ The Motion emphasizes that Redeemer “timely moved” to confirm the Arbitration Award, but implies that the timeliness of the Debtor’s Motion to Vacate is in question. See Mot. ¶¶ 17-18 n.4 (citing the three-month statutory time limit under the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. § 12). The Debtor’s Motion to Vacate was filed on June 6, 2019, less than six weeks after the Final Award was issued, and the Debtor’s brief was filed on July 10, 2019, pursuant to an ordered briefing schedule. See, e.g., Ex. A, Debtor Brief to Vacate at 9 (REDEEMER_001648).

to the Debtor's estate—i.e., the Deferred Fees and Cornerstone shares. Under the Proposed Settlement, Redeemer is relieved of those obligations, and the Debtor forfeits the estate's rights to those assets. Among other terms (in addition to an exchange of releases and discontinuation of litigation), under the Proposed Settlement:

- The Redeemer Claim would be allowed in the amount of $137,696,610. Mot. ¶ 23; Proposed Settlement ¶ 1.
- The Crusader Claim would be allowed in the amount of $50,000. Mot. ¶ 23; Proposed Settlement ¶ 2.
- Limited partner interests in Crusader held by (i) the Debtor, (ii) the DAF, and (iii) Eames, would be cancelled, and the “Reserved Distributions” associated with those interests would be forfeited. Mot. ¶ 23; Proposed Settlement ¶ 3.
- The Debtor would forfeit its right to collect approximately $32,313,000 of Deferred Fees owed to it upon Crusader's completed liquidation. Mot. ¶ 23; Proposed Settlement ¶ 5.
- The Debtor would forfeit its right to the Cornerstone shares held by Crusader, in exchange for an approximately $30,500,000 reduction of the Redeemer Claim “to account for the perceived fair market value of those shares,” and Redeemer and the Debtor would work together to monetize Cornerstone. Mot. ¶ 23; Proposed Settlement ¶ 8.

21. These terms purport to reflect two self-styled “substantial compromise[s]” and “other modest reductions” that were applied to reduce the Redeemer Claim from an asserted claim of $190,824,557 to an allowed claim of $137,808,302. See Mot. ¶ 28, 32; id. ¶¶ 27, 31. First, Redeemer “agreed to reduce the Damages Award by $21,592,000” (which the Debtor claims is “approximately two-thirds of the Deferred Fees” component of the so-called Damages Award), and in exchange, the Debtor agreed to forfeit its right to collect approximately $32,313,000 in Deferred Fees upon liquidation of Crusader. Mot. ¶ 27. Second, Redeemer agreed to reduce the $71,894,891 component of the so-called Damages Award “by approximately $30,500,000 to account for the perceived fair market value of” the Cornerstone shares, and in exchange, the Debtor agreed to forfeit its right to receive the Cornerstone shares. Mot. ¶ 31. Under the Proposed Settlement, Crusader would retain its minority interest in Cornerstone, and Redeemer would cooperate with the Debtor to liquidate the Cornerstone investment as a whole. Id. Finally, the parties agreed to further reduce the so-called Damages Award by approximately $924,255, for unspecified reasons.¹² Mot. ¶ 32.

D. The Cornerstone Shares

22. The Cornerstone shares undoubtedly provide value to whatever entity holds them. Crusader currently owns 14,830 shares (or approximately 40%) of Cornerstone. The Motion states that the “perceived fair market value” of those shares is $30.5 million ($2,059/share), Mot. ¶ 31, but does not provide any details whatsoever regarding whose “perception” this is, what it is based on, when it was calculated, or what information was taken into account to arrive at this valuation. And the Motion does not provide any evidence at all to support such a valuation.

24. The true value of Crusader’s Cornerstone shares (and thus, the true value of the rights forfeited by the Debtor) is much higher than the $30.5 million assigned to them for ¹² Under the Proposed Settlement, the Debtor and Eames would also forfeit all rights to “certain other monies as to which the Debtor and Eames may have had an interest in the absence of this Stipulation.” Proposed Settlement ¶ 5. But it is unclear what those “other monies” are. Other aspects of the Proposed Settlement are equally unclear, for example, the Debtor’s forfeiture of its interest in any “Reserved Distributions,” future “Distribution Fees,” and “Management Fees” that may relate either to “the Cancelled LP Interests or any other role or position of the Debtor with respect to the Crusader Funds (including but not limited to its role as the investment manager for the Crusader Funds until August 4, 2016).” Id. These unquantified fees that may be “currently accrued or that might have accrued in the future,” id., appear to provide value for the Crusader Claim that could be well beyond the $50,000 allowed claim. See Crusader Claim Rider at 2 (asserting a claim “[i]n the amount of any other compensation, fees or distributions which may now or in the future otherwise be owing to [the Debtor]”). These items were not sought in the Redeemer Claim. See generally Redeemer Claim Rider.

REDACTED

27. Moreover, based on the data made available to it and using the methodology described in the Declaration submitted herewith, Grant Thornton has calculated that the actual value of Cornerstone as of June 30, 2020 might be as high as between $116 million and $208.7 million, in the aggregate. GT Decl. ¶ 5. That means that Crusader’s 14,830 shares might have an actual value of between $46.5 million and $83.6 million, id. ¶ 6 (the “Grant Thornton Estimation”)—i.e., nearly triple the $30.5 million fair market value calculated REDACTED, which apparently forms the basis for the Debtor’s decision to forfeit its rights to Crusader’s 14,830 shares in exchange for a $30.5 million reduction of the Redeemer Claim in the Proposed Settlement.

ARGUMENT

28. The Debtor’s own evaluation of the deal it struck cannot and should not “be automatically accepted as reasonable” by this Court. In re Alfonso, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 2816, at *9 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. Sept. 6, 2019). Instead, when evaluating a claim compromise under Bankruptcy Rule 9019, the Court must be apprised “of the relevant facts and law so that it can make an informed and intelligent decision on whether the settlement proposed is fair and equitable to parties in interest.” Id. at *8; In re Rogumore, 393 B.R. 474, 480 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2008) (applying the court’s independent judgment and finding the proposed compromise must be denied).

29. Such information is necessary because, while settlements are desirable, the Court cannot “simply accept the [settling parties’] word that the settlement is reasonable,” nor can it “merely ‘rubber-stamp’” a settlement. In re Shankman, 2010 Bankr. LEXIS 619, at *9 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. Mar. 2, 2010) (Isgur, M.). Rather, a Court must determine whether the compromise struck is “fair, equitable, and in the best interest of the estate.” Id. at *7.¹⁴ To make that determination, the Court must balance the “terms of the compromise with the likely rewards of litigation” by considering several factors: “(1) The probability of success in the litigation, with due consideration for the uncertainty in fact and law; (2) The complexity and likely duration of the litigation and any attendant expense, inconvenience and delay; and (3) All other factors bearing on the wisdom of the compromise,” including the “best interests of the creditors, with proper deference to their reasonable views” and the “extent to which the settlement is truly the product of arms-length bargaining, and not of fraud or collusion.” E.g., id.; In re Alfonso, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 2816, at *8.

30. Importantly, the Court should not just consider whether the compromise as a whole is fair, rather, the Court must look at each component to determine whether the Proposed Settlement is in the best interest of the Debtor’s estate. See In re Allied Props., LLC, 2007 Bankr. LEXIS 2174, at *13 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. June 25, 2007) (Isgur, M.) (rejecting a settlement despite “[m]ost provisions” of the compromise being fair, equitable, and in the best interest of the debtor’s estate, because “two provisions do not meet this standard”). It is the Debtor’s burden to establish that the Proposed Settlement is within the range of reasonable alternatives and would lead to a fair and equitable claim settlement. Id. at *12.

31. Here, the Proposed Settlement includes several components that are not fair, equitable, or in the best interest of the Debtor’s estate. The Debtor acknowledges that it made “substantial compromises.” Mot. ¶¶ 28, 47. All settlements necessarily include compromises. But those compromises must be reasonable concessions, not capitulations. The Debtor misleadingly portrays those compromises as providing its estate with “immediate[]” benefits. Mot.

¹⁴ Unless noted, all internal quotations have been omitted.

¶ 64. UBS disagrees. In fact, those compromises—which provide no reductions for substantial litigation risk, and forfeit the estate’s rights to meaningful assets—provide Redeemer with a windfall to the detriment of the Debtor’s estate and other creditors.

32. For these reasons and others, there is sufficient basis to reject the Proposed Settlement based on the Bankruptcy Rule 9019 factors set forth by the Fifth Circuit.

A. The Debtor Is More Likely Than Not To Succeed On Its Motion To Vacate

33. Under the first factor, the Debtor argues that it is unlikely to succeed in contesting the Redeemer Claim because the claim is based on the Arbitration Award, which addressed every claim and argument asserted by the parties, after the Panel examined extensive evidence, heard lengthy argument, and made detailed legal and factual findings. Mot. ¶ 43. But the Proposed Settlement does not account for the fact that the Arbitration Award is contingent, disputed, and has never been confirmed by any court of competent jurisdiction.¹⁵

34. The Debtor argues that Redeemer “could simply move to lift the automatic stay for the sole purpose of having the Arbitration Award confirmed, thereby eliminating the alleged ‘contingent’ nature of the claim.” Mot. ¶ 46. But the Debtor ignores that, even if this Court granted Redeemer’s motion to lift the automatic stay, the Debtor’s Motion to Vacate is also fully briefed and pending before the Delaware Court. While litigation outcomes are never guaranteed, at minimum, the Debtor’s chance of success on its Motion to Vacate and Redeemer’s Motion to Confirm is much closer to 50% than the 0% chance of success the Proposed Settlement appears to assign to it, by applying no reduction to account for this litigation risk.

¹⁵ For this reason and others, UBS objected to Redeemer’s characterization of the Arbitration Award as an “executory contract” under 11 U.S.C. § 365, rather than as the prepetition litigation damages claim that it is. UBS Obj. ¶¶ 21-22 (citing, e.g., In re Denman, 513 B.R. 720, 723 (Bankr. W.D. Tenn. 2014) (“[A]n executory contract must be a ‘contract’ and not some other legal instrument.”)). The Debtor argues that this issue is “moot” because the Proposed Settlement does not treat the Arbitration Award as an executory contract.

35. As the Debtor itself argued in the Motion to Vacate, and as addressed more fully in the UBS Objection, see UBS Obj. ¶¶ 23-32, the Panel overstepped its fundamental authority as arbitrators by modifying certain aspects of the Partial Final Award, in violation of well-established state law, the Federal Arbitration Act, and Rule 50 of the AAA Commercial Arbitration Rules. See Weinberg v. Silber, 140 F. Supp. 2d 712, 724 (N.D. Tex. 2001) (“[T]he arbitrator shall not revisit his decision on the merits, as his authority to do so has expired.”), aff’d, 57 F. App’x 211 (5th Cir. 2003); 9 U.S.C. §10; AAA R-50 (“[Parties] may request the arbitrator, . . . , to correct any clerical typographical, or computational errors in the award,” but “[t]he arbitrator is not empowered to redetermine the merits of any claim already decided.”). The new Final Award improperly modified the Partial Final Award in two distinct ways.

36. First, the Final Award dramatically expanded the Debtor’s purported liability for Redeemer’s claim that the Debtor had improperly transferred the Barclays LP Interests to Eames. The Partial Final Award acknowledged Redeemer’s claims included the “payment of Distribution Fees” and “transfer of Barclays’ Fund interests without Redeemer Committee approval.” See PFA at 8; but see Mot. ¶ 54 (arguing the UBS Objection “conflates two separate and distinct issues” related to Barclays). Whereas the Partial Final Award discussed both claims and awarded Redeemer total damages in the amount of $14,452,275 (and prejudgment interest through March 6, 2019) for the Distribution Fee Claim, including for the Debtor’s “improper” transfer of Barclays LP Interests, the Panel elected in the Final Award to grant Redeemer an additional $21,768,743 in damages arising out of the Debtor’s “improper” transfer of the Barclays LP Interests. FA at 18. That is not all. The Final Award also awarded Redeemer prejudgment interest on these new compensatory damages—a sum that, on its own, adds yet another $9,042,623 to the award. Id. All told, the Panel’s modification of these aspects of the Partial Final Award resulted in a combined total of $30,811,366 in new damages for the Debtor’s transfers of the Barclays LP Interests—an amount Redeemer itself now refers to as the “Barclays Claim.” Redeemer Claim Rider at 2.¹⁶

37. Second, in the Final Award, the Panel reconsidered its prior ruling on prejudgment interest. The Panel had previously ordered that the Debtor pay Redeemer a finite amount of prejudgment interest (9% per simple interest annum) “through the date of this Partial Final Award” (March 6, 2019), PFA at 14, yet the Panel threw that limitation out entirely in the Final Award. After openly acknowledging its prior ruling, see FA at 14, the Panel announced in the Final Award that it was doing away with that March 6, 2019 end date and, instead, all such interest would run through “the earlier of the date paid or the entry of a final judgment,” id. at 2, 14. In addition to the $30.8 million in additional damages for the Barclays LP Interests, the additional interest contemplated by the Final Award accounted for at least another $5.7 million through the Petition Date, for a total of approximately $36.5 million in new damages.

38. Any suggestion that the two major modifications discussed above were attempts to correct “clerical, typographical, or computational errors,” AAA R-50, is belied by their sweeping impact. Prior to the Final Award, the aggregate amount of compensatory damages expressly awarded to Redeemer under the Partial Final Award was roughly $142 million (excluding fees and costs). The Panel’s two modifications described above, standing alone, immediately add no less than $36,500,000 to that compensatory damages sum—more than a 25% increase (in addition to mandatory injunctive relief purporting to require the Debtor to take the Barclays LP Interests from Eames and transfer them to Redeemer).¹⁷ FA at 18. The portions of the Final Award reflecting

¹⁷ Eames’s limited partner interests in Crusader are valued at several million dollars, and possibly more based on the other amounts related to these interests released in the Proposed Settlement. In addition to being subject to these improper, material modifications are examples of the Panel exceeding its authority and are subject to vacatur. Smith v. Transp. Workers Union of Am., 374 F.3d 372, 375 (5th Cir. 2004) (“If an arbitral panel exceeds its authority, it provides grounds for a court to vacate that aspect of its decision.”).

39. The Proposed Settlement does not appear to account for the very real risk that a court would vacate those aspects of the Arbitration Award, as the Debtor strongly believed itself when it advocated for vacatur on the same grounds described above to the Delaware Court. The Debtor argues now that “[t]hese procedural attacks on the Arbitration Award were considered and rejected by the Panel” and are unlikely to succeed “here” or in the Delaware Court, if the automatic stay were lifted. Mot. ¶ 49. But the Panel’s self-serving evaluation of its conduct is unreasonable and irrelevant to a court’s independent analysis of whether that same Panel exceeded its authority under the applicable law and rules.

40. In fact, the Panel’s own excuses for its conduct removes any doubt that it exceeded its authority. In the Final Award, the Panel claims the new damages awarded for the Barclays LP Interests were “clear” in the Partial Final Award but it left that “paragraph missing from the damages portion” inadvertently. FA at 9. But courts have considered, and rejected, this exact “explanation” before. See Wein v. Morris, 909 A.2d 1186, 1198 (N.J. Super. Ct. App. Div. 2006) (deciding that AAA Rule 46, the predecessor to Rule 50, does not allow modifications to address “inadvertent omissions” and “neither expressly states nor suggests that claims denied through inadvertence could also be revisited”).

vacatur for the reasons discussed above, the Debtor’s Motion to Vacate also challenged this injunctive relief on the basis that Eames was not a party to the arbitration and it was therefore outside of the Panel’s powers to award this relief. Ex. A, Debtor Brief to Vacate at 8, 15, 17-18.

41. To justify the settlement, the Debtor now credits Redeemer’s arguments that the Partial Final Award was labeled “Partial,” directed the parties to confer regarding the amount of certain damages, and left the hearing open for those issues to be agreed upon or decided by the Panel. Mot. ¶ 51. But this loses sight of an important distinction: the Panel did not leave the hearing open until all issues were resolved; the panel left the “hearing open until all issues set forth above have been agreed upon by the Parties or decided by the Tribunal.” PFA at 56. The issues “set forth above” did not include damages for the Barclays LP Interests or prejudgment interest because those issues had already been directly addressed and decided in the Partial Final Award. E.g., PFA at 14, 24. The Panel conceded as much, see FA at 14 (“In the March 6 Partial Final Award, we awarded damages and interest through the date of that award”), but decided to reach a different conclusion in the Final Award because, in its own view, the prior ruling in the Partial Final Award was “not determinative of this issue.” FA at 15. That is exactly what the Panel cannot do. A partial final award rendered on any issue is, by definition, determinative of the issue. See Fluor Daniel Intercontinental, Inc. v. GE, 2007 WL 766290, at *2-3 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 13, 2007); see also Trade & Transp., Inc. v. Nat. Petroleum Charterers Inc., 931 F.2d 191, 195 (2d Cir. 1991).

42. No court has ever ruled on the propriety of the Panel’s attempts to redetermine the merits of claims already decided. The Debtor argues that under the Federal Arbitration Act, this Court would be required to defer to the Panel’s exercise of its discretion under AAA Rule 8 to “interpret and apply” the AAA Rules, “so long as it is ‘within reasonable limits.’” Mot. ¶ 58 (quoting Commc’ns Workers of Am., AFL-CIO, v. Sw. Bell Tel. Co., 953 F.3d 822, 827 (5th Cir. 2020)) (emphasis added). But the Debtor cannot seriously expect that this Court (with its equitable powers) or the Delaware Court would view changes that fundamentally alter—and in this instance, significantly increase—the relief granted to Redeemer as a mere correction of a “clerical error” and a “reasonable” interpretation of AAA Rule 50. Nor does the Debtor’s Motion grapple with the fact that the modifications requested by Redeemer, which prompted changes in the Final Award, were requested too late under Rule 50.¹⁸

43. UBS recognizes that litigation is uncertain. But even if the likelihood of the Debtor prevailing on its Motion to Vacatur is assigned a 50% chance of success, that would suggest a $18,250,000 ($36,500,000 x 50%) reduction of the Redeemer Claim to account for that uncertainty, millions above the “modest” unspecified reduction of $924,255 included the Proposed Settlement. Mot. ¶ 32. UBS submits that the Debtor’s failure to take into account the litigation risk associated with its arguments for vacatur is an exercise of business judgment that falls below any range of reasonableness. In re Allied Props., LLC, 2007 Bankr. LEXIS 2174, at *20 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. June 25, 2007) (Isgur, M.) (requiring the trustee to “show that his decision falls within the range of reasonable litigation alternatives”).

B. This Court Or the Delaware Court Could Decide The Motions To Confirm And Vacate With Minimal Expenditure Of Time And Resources

44. Under the second factor, the Debtor seems to place the Redeemer Claim at both ends of this spectrum. To show that the complexity of litigation favors settlement, the Debtor asserts that issues in the Redeemer Claim “are fairly complex; litigation would require meaningful resources, would take time, and would delay the Debtor’s efforts to get to a confirmable plan.” Mot. ¶ 59. But as discussed above, the Debtor also acknowledges that its Motion to Vacate and Redeemer’s Motion to Confirm were both fully briefed prior to the Petition Date, and that

Redeemer “could simply move to lift the automatic stay for the sole purpose of having the Arbitration Award confirmed.” Id. ¶ 46.

45. UBS does not dispute that the Panel already made extensive findings of fact, legal rulings, and credibility determinations. The only issue left to be litigated is the propriety of the Panel’s modifications to the Arbitration Award at issue. No further discovery, evidence, or witness testimony is needed to decide that issue, so the remaining litigation would be a much “simpler” proceeding than the previous evidentiary hearing before the Panel, which featured four expert witnesses as well as eleven fact witnesses and spanned nine days. Mot. ¶ 43. Nor would this consume meaningful resources or cause significant delay—all that is left to do is for a court (this Court or the Delaware Court) to rule on the Debtor and Redeemer’s pending motions.¹⁹ In fact, the Debtor would likely spend only a very small sum of money in legal fees (if anything), to possibly reduce the Redeemer Claim by as much as $36,500,000.

C. The Proposed Settlement Is Not In The Best Interests Of All Creditors

46. Under the third factor, this Court must consider all other factors bearing on the wisdom of the Proposed Settlement, including most importantly, whether the Proposed Settlement is in the best interests of all the creditors. Applying this factor, courts generally look at “the consideration offered by the settling creditor and the degree to which creditors object.” In re Rogumore, 393 B.R. 474, 480 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2008); In re Shankman, 2010 Bankr. LEXIS 619,

¹⁹ The Motion also references how “notoriously complex” setoff issues would arise with respect to the Deferred Fees and Cornerstone shares in litigation. Mot. ¶ 59. To “make an informed and independent judgment, however, the court needs facts, not allegations.” Protective Comm. for Indep. Stockholders of TMT Trailer Ferry v. Anderson, 390 U.S. 414, 437 (1967); see In re Allied Props., LLC, 2007 Bankr. LEXIS 2174, at *15. The Debtor states, without citation, that “under principles of setoff, the Redeemer Committee may have only been required to tender shares equal in value to the recovery of its claim.” Mot. n.15. It is unclear how traditional principles of setoff—under which a Debtor’s monetary debt owed to a creditor is offset by a separate monetary debt owed by the creditor to the Debtor—applies to a situation like this one, where the Deferred Fees and Cornerstone shares are real assets owed to the Debtor. Without further elaboration, the Debtor does not show that this Court would need to address this “notoriously complex” issue.

at *9 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. Mar. 2, 2010) (Isgur, M.). Where a significant unsecured creditor affected by the Proposed Settlement—here, UBS—objects, “the Court must look to the reasonable views of” that creditor. Id. at *20 (rejecting a settlement when only two creditors “strenuously opposed” but it became “clear that they will not receive any benefit under the proposed compromise”).²⁰

47. The Debtor describes the Proposed Settlement as purportedly benefitting the estate, doing so “on reasonable terms,” and in the exercise of “sound business judgment.” Mot. ¶ 63. But the Proposed Settlement’s terms should not be viewed as anything approaching “reasonable” to any creditor, except Redeemer. When studied carefully, the supposed benefits to the estate are illusory. In re Shankman, 2010 Bankr. LEXIS 619, at *10 (rejecting the proposed settlement because it offered only “illusory benefits” and was not just, equitable, and in the best interests of the estate).

48. In addition to the lack of any reduction to account for the litigation uncertainty associated with the risk of vacatur discussed above, in the Proposed Settlement, the Debtor forfeits the right to meaningful assets that otherwise would be transferred to the estate and distributed pro rata among all of the estate’s unsecured creditors. This provides a windfall to Redeemer to the detriment of other creditors, by not only permitting Redeemer to receive more than its pro rata share of the Debtor’s estate, but also requiring the Debtor to forfeit the estate’s rights to valuable assets. When these components are factored in, Redeemer could receive a greater than 100% recovery on the Redeemer Claim, and all other creditors would lose out. Accordingly, this compromise violates the third factor that courts in the Fifth Circuit have focused on in evaluating settlements. In re Allied Props., LLC, 2007 Bankr. LEXIS 2174, at *18-19 (“Th[e third] factor focuses on the degree to which the compromise serves all creditors’ interests. The compromise provides no material benefits to the estate. Consequently, to the extent that the compromise gives Black Mountain assets that otherwise would be distributed pro rata among all the estate’s unsecured creditors, the compromise violates the third factor.”).

²⁰ The Motion asserts that the UBS Objection was the only objection made to the Redeemer Claim or Crusader Claim. Mot. ¶ 33 n.10. The number of creditors who object to a claim or settlement is not dispositive of this factor or the resolution. Regardless of whether any creditors object, “[t]he Court is obliged to independently consider whether the creditor’s best interests are being served.” In re Allied Props., LLC, 2007 Bankr. LEXIS 2174, at *27 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. June 25, 2007) (Isgur, M.). Even when no creditors object, a Court must reject a claim settlement if the compromise is not fair, equitable, and in the best interest of the debtor’s estate. In re Rogumore, 393 B.R. at 479 (finding a compromise was not fair, equitable, or in the best interests of the debtor’s estate “[a]lthough no objections to the motions were filed”).

1. The Debtor Would Forfeit Its Right To Collect Deferred Fees

49. The Debtor acknowledges that while the Panel found that $32,313,000 in Deferred Fees were prematurely taken by the Debtor, the Debtor ultimately would be entitled to those fees pursuant to the Plan and Scheme, upon the completion of the liquidation of Crusader. Mot. ¶¶ 25-27. In the Proposed Settlement, the Debtor and Redeemer claimed to have reached a “substantial compromise,” whereby Redeemer “agreed to reduce the Damage Award by $21,592,000,” which the Debtor characterizes as “approximately two-thirds” of the Deferred Fees component, in exchange for the Debtor forfeiting its right to collect the Deferred Fees. Mot. ¶ 27. According to the Debtor, this compromise results in the estate “immediately” receiving a benefit (through the reduction of the Damages Award), rather than waiting for the completion of Crusader’s liquidation and “litigating at some future date the merits of” the “faithless servant” defense. Mot. ¶ 64. This characterization of the compromise, and who it really “benefits,” is misleading at best.

50. As an initial matter, the Debtor’s claim that the Proposed Settlement discounted the Deferred Fee component of the Arbitration Award by “approximately two-thirds” is inaccurate. Mot. ¶ 27. The Deferred Fee component of the Arbitration Award listed in the Redeemer Claim is $43,105,395 (not $32,313,000), which includes $10,792,395 in pre-judgment interest.²¹ Redeemer Claim Rider at 1. Thus, an “apples-to-apples” or “claim-to-claim” comparison of the asserted claim and allowed claim would acknowledge that a reduction of the so-called Damages Award by approximately $21,592,000 is only one-half, rather than two-thirds, of the Deferred Fee component. Redeemer retains $21,513,395 of its claim based on the Deferred Fees ($43,105,395 - $21,592,000), and does not have to pay the Debtor $32,313,000 upon complete liquidation of Crusader. The Debtor, meanwhile, forfeits its right to receive any of the Deferred Fees indisputably owed to it upon Crusader’s completed liquidation.

51. None of Redeemer’s counterarguments (or the Debtor’s justifications) provides a reasonable basis for the Debtor to forfeit its right to $32,313,000 in Deferred Fees in the future altogether. First, Redeemer apparently expressed its view that it was entitled to recover all of the Deferred Fees found by the Panel to be prematurely taken. Mot. ¶ 26. But Redeemer previously argued, and the Panel agreed, that the Debtor’s conduct was improper because it transferred the Deferred Fees to itself too soon. Mot. ¶ 25. The Debtor’s entitlement to the Deferred Fees in the future was not in question, however. For this reason, the Panel made clear that “measuring the damages suffered by [Redeemer] by referencing the full amount of the Deferred Fees taken is not the same as literally ordering a return of the moneys.” PFA at 14; id. at 3. The Motion does not explain why Redeemer, not the Debtor, would be legally entitled to those fees under any scenario. Under the Plan and Scheme, contracts to which Redeemer is a party, the Debtor alone is entitled to those fees, and the Arbitration Award did not alter those rights in any way or order that the Debtor “return” or forfeit the fees.

52. Second, the Debtor implies that it will not receive the Deferred Fees until some point far in the future, when Crusader’s liquidation is complete, but the Debtor provides no facts to ascertain what assets besides the Cornerstone shares, if any, remain at Crusader to be liquidated or when Crusader’s liquidation may be completed. Crusader went into wind down in 2008—twelve years ago. See Mot. ¶ 11. The Arbitration Award suggests the Cornerstone shares are among the last assets at Crusader to be liquidated. PFA at 51 (discussing whether liquidation of the Cornerstone shares had delayed liquidation being completed). Therefore, it is entirely possible that Crusader may be liquidated before the close of this Chapter 11 Case. The uncertainty of when the Debtor’s estate will receive the Deferred Fees is not reason to forfeit them altogether.

53. Third, Redeemer’s argument that the Debtor would be barred from recovering any of the Deferred Fees from Crusader upon its complete liquidation because of the “faithless servant” doctrine is meritless and ignores the Debtor’s valid defenses. See Mot. ¶ 26. Redeemer contends that waiver and estoppel are inapplicable because “that is a defense that would only be required to be asserted when HCMLP made a claim for the Deferred Fees—as it did during the negotiations.” Mot. ¶ 28 n.9. However, recent negotiations were not the first time the Debtor sought to collect the Deferred Fees, meaning this defense was “required to be asserted” previously. When the Debtor asserted a counterclaim for the Deferred Fees during arbitration, Redeemer defended itself against that claim without ever raising the faithless servant defense. PFA at 49. Moreover, under the Proposed Settlement, the parties agreed to an allowed claim of $50,000 for the Crusader Claim—a claim based in its entirety on the same “faithless servant” doctrine—because, as the Debtor points out, it “is very likely to defeat this claim based on, among other things, affirmative defenses, including the statute of limitations, waiver, laches, and estoppel.” Mot. ¶ 58 n.14.

54. The Debtor’s forfeiture of its clear right to the Deferred Fees is not a sound exercise of business judgment. The $32,313,000 in Deferred Fees is a cash receivable, a valuable asset that Redeemer would otherwise be required to transfer to the estate upon liquidation of Crusader, at which point it would be available to increase all creditors’ pro rata recoveries on their allowed claims. That would be a real benefit to the estate, even if not an “immediate” one. In that scenario, Redeemer would end up giving more in real, cash assets to the Debtor through this pay-back obligation than it would receive on a pro rata basis recovery on its Deferred Fee Claim. Instead, Redeemer avoids this obligation altogether. There is nothing fair or equitable about this compromise from the perspective of all other creditors.

2. The Debtor Would Forfeit Its Right To Crusader’s Cornerstone Shares, Which May Be Worth Double The Value Assigned To Them For Settlement Purposes

55. Next, there is no dispute that the Arbitration Award requires Redeemer, simultaneously with a damages payment from the Debtor (including prejudgment interest), to have Crusader “tender its Cornerstone shares to [the Debtor].” FA at 17; PFA at 48; see Mot. ¶ 31. In the UBS Objection, UBS expressed concern regarding how the value of Crusader’s 14,380 Cornerstone shares would be taken into account when calculating the true value of the Redeemer Claim. UBS Objection ¶ 20. The Debtor dismisses these concerns as “moot” with little explanation: “these obligations were fully considered by the Debtor and form the basis for substantial compromises embedded in the Stipulation.” Mot. ¶¶ 35, 47. UBS’s concerns, however, are only heightened by the treatment of Crusader’s Cornerstone shares in the Proposed Settlement.

56. Under the Proposed Settlement, the Debtor “agreed to treat the Cornerstone Shares differently from the process required under the Arbitration Award.” Mot. ¶ 31. Rather than tendering the Cornerstone shares, Redeemer’s “Damage Award will be reduced by approximately $30.5 million to account for the perceived fair market value of those shares,” and Crusader will retain the shares. Id. This “substantial compromise” is actually a complete surrender.

57. As an initial matter, this reduction translates to Redeemer receiving over half of the Cornerstone component in its allowed claim. The Cornerstone component of the Arbitration Award listed in the Redeemer Claim is $71,894,891 (not $48,070,407, as the Debtor suggests), which includes $23,824,284 in pre-judgment interest.²² Redeemer Claim Rider at 1. Thus, an “apples-to-apples” or “claim-to-claim” comparison of the asserted claim and allowed claim would acknowledge that a reduction of the total payments by approximately $30.5 million is a less than 50% reduction of the Cornerstone component ($71,894,891). Put differently, Redeemer retains both $17,570,407 of its asserted claim based on the Cornerstone shares ($48,070,407 - $30,500,000), plus another $23.8 million (the full amount of pre-judgment interest awarded by the Final Award), for a total of $41,394,691 in an allowed claim to be paid pro rata from the estate. And on top of that, Redeemer retains the value of Crusader’s Cornerstone shares upon their liquidation, while the Debtor “does not have to purchase” Crusader’s Cornerstone shares for $48,070,407 in cash (which the Debtor points out it does not have).

58. But that is not the way that the Arbitration Award was supposed to operate and it is certainly not an equitable way to proceed in this Chapter 11 Case. The Debtor was supposed to pay to Redeemer a fixed amount, which included the Panel’s calculation of the fair market value of Crusader’s 14,380 shares in Cornerstone plus prejudgment interest. PFA at 48. In return, Crusader was required to tender its Cornerstone shares to the Debtor. That the Debtor does not have $48,070,407 in cash (right now) to pay the full amount assigned by the Panel to the Cornerstone component of the Damages Award is beside the point. Based on the Debtor's current asset valuation, no general unsecured creditors, other than perhaps certain retained employees, will receive a full recovery on account of their prepetition claims. But permitting Redeemer to avoid that downside by keeping both half of the amount that was supposed to be paid for the Cornerstone shares and the Cornerstone shares provides Redeemer with a windfall that the Panel did not contemplate.

59. Moreover, the Debtor's reduction of the Redeemer claim by $30.5 million falls below any reasonable range of valuation, including the Debtor Houlihan Valuation or even the Crusader Houlihan June Valuation. REDACTED higher than the $30.5 million

fair market value calculated in the Crusader Houlihan March Valuation and used by the Debtor for settlement purposes. It is unreasonable for the Debtor to accept a lower valuation calculated by the exact same financial firm, while failing to provide the Court with any explanation of what analysis the Debtor or Houlihan performed to determine that this lower value is reasonable (and should be fixed in March as opposed to June, when the value of Cornerstone increased in those three months). See In re Rogumore, 393 B.R. 474, 481 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2008) (rejecting a settlement under Rule 9019 and questioning why the estate should "be forced to accept the low valuation at whatever date," when "[n]o party to the Compromise adequately explained why the cash surrender value should be fixed at the March 24 value").

60. In fact, UBS believes that the valuation of Crusader's shares in Cornerstone is potentially nearly triple the $30.5 million calculated in the Crusader Houlihan March Valuation and used by the Debtor for settlement purposes. According to the Grant Thornton Estimation, the true value of Cornerstone as of June 30, 2020 might be between $116 million and $208.7 million. GT Decl. ¶ 5. This means that Crusader’s 14,830 shares might have a value of between $46.5 million and $83.6 million, id. ¶ 6, which Redeemer will receive upon a sale of Cornerstone.

61. Indeed, such a sale is contemplated by the Proposed Settlement. Specifically, the Proposed Settlement requires the Debtor to “in good faith, use commercially reasonable efforts to monetize all shares of capital stock of Cornerstone held by the Debtor, any funds managed by the Debtor, and the Crusader Funds,” and requires Redeemer to cooperate in the sale process. Mot. ¶ 23. According to the Debtor, Redeemer’s cooperation means that Cornerstone “may be sold as a whole, to the likely benefit of all creditors.” Mot. ¶ 64. Redeemer’s cooperation is an illusory benefit. If instead, Redeemer was required to comply with its obligations under the Arbitration Award, Crusader’s minority interest in Cornerstone would be transferred to the Debtor, and the Debtor would have the same ability to sell Cornerstone “as a whole.”²³ Plus, as UBS understands, Cornerstone is among the last of Crusader’s assets to be liquidated, so under the Plan and Scheme, the Debtor could (upon receipt of Crusader’s shares) trigger payment of the $32,313,000 of Deferred Fees due to the Debtor upon completion of the Crusader liquidation.

3. The Proposed Settlement May Result In Redeemer Recovering More Than 100% On Its Claim

62. All told, the Debtor’s forfeiture, and Redeemer’s retention, of the Deferred Fees and Cornerstone shares may in fact result in Redeemer recovering more than 100% on its claim. The Debtor’s Plan has not been approved and the general unsecured creditor class pro rata recovery remains uncertain, for a variety of reasons. See, e.g., First Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Dkt. No. 1079]. Under the Proposed Settlement, however, when the value of the forfeited assets are taken into account, Redeemer may fare far better than it would have under the underlying Arbitration Award and far better than other general unsecured creditors in this Chapter 11 Case.

63. To illustrate the potential windfall to Redeemer under the Proposed Settlement, a comparison of Redeemer’s recovery under the Arbitration Award versus its potential recovery under the Proposed Settlement is helpful. Under the Arbitration Award, the Debtor was required to pay Redeemer 118,929,666 (including prejudgment interest and attorneys’ fees) in damages and to pay Redeemer $71,894,891 (including prejudgment interest) in exchange for all of Crusader’s shares in Cornerstone. In exchange, Redeemer remained obligated to (i) tender Crusader’s Cornerstone shares; and (ii) pay the Debtor $32,313,000 in Deferred Fees upon liquidation of Crusader. As shown below, after accounting for its reciprocal obligations to the Debtor, and depending on the value of the Cornerstone shares to be tendered (which is disputed), the value of the Arbitration Award to Redeemer is between $74,911,557 (using the Grant Thornton Estimation) and $128,011,557 (using the Crusader Houlihan March Valuation):

Redeemer Recovery (Arbitration Award)

Highland Payments				$190,824,557
Pay Deferred Fees				($32,313,000)
REDACTED
Total Recovery	$74,911,557	$104,811,557	$103,111,557	$128,011,557

²⁴ For purposes of this chart, the highest ends of the ranges calculated by Grant Thorton and Houlihan (“HL”) are used, except for the Crusader Houlihan March Valuation, which uses the low end of the range, as the Debtor does.

64. Under the Proposed Settlement, however, Redeemer stands to gain far more. Depending on the valuation of the Cornerstone shares, Redeemer could receive or retain value in an amount up to $253,609,610 (based on the Grant Thornton Estimation) or $200,509,610 (based on the Crusader Houlihan March Valuation), each of which exceeds the face amount of the Redeemer Claim ($190,824,557) and the highest recovery it would have received under the Arbitration Award ($128,011,557), as reflected in the chart above.

Redeemer Recovery (Proposed Settlement)

Allowed Claim	$137,696,610
Release of Deferred Fees	$32,313,000
REDACTED
Total Recovery	$253,609,610	$223,709,610	$225,409,610	$200,509,610

65. Not only does the Proposed Settlement create a likelihood that Redeemer will recover more than 100% of its filed claim amount, it does so while depriving the Debtor’s estate of valuable assets that could be used to pay other creditors and increase their pro rata recovery. This contradicts any assertion that the “proposed settlement is in the best interests of the Debtor’s creditors.” See Mot. ¶ 62. Where, as here, the Proposed Settlement “adversely affect[s] recovery by the estate’s other creditors,” it is not “fair and equitable” and should be rejected. In re Alfonso, 2019 Bankr. LEXIS 2816, at *13 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. Sept. 6, 2019).

CONCLUSION

²⁵ For purposes of this chart, the highest ends of the ranges calculated by Grant Thornton and Houlihan (“HL”) are used, except for the Crusader Houlihan March Valuation, which uses the low end of the range, as the Debtor does.

66. For the foregoing reasons, UBS respectfully requests that the Court independently assess the merits of the Proposed Settlement. Upon doing so, UBS submits that the Court should deny the Motion and provide any such other and further relief to which UBS and all creditors might be entitled. UBS respectfully submits that such relief should include an Order requiring the Debtor to provide sufficient information for UBS and the Court to assess the true value of the Cornerstone shares held by Crusader, and/or an Order requiring the Debtor to obtain a valuation of Cornerstone from an independent, third-party financial advisor.

67. In the alternative, even if the Court approves the Proposed Settlement, UBS respectfully requests that when the Debtor and Redeemer have sold the Cornerstone shares, if the sale price of Crusader's 14,380 shares exceeds the $30,500,000 "perceived" fair market value assigned to them in the Proposed Settlement, the Court take the additional proceeds of that sale into consideration when calculating Redeemer's pro rata recovery from the Debtor's estate, under Section 105 of the Bankruptcy Code.

DECLARATION OF W. KEVIN MOENTMANN
IN SUPPORT OF OBJECTION TO THE DEBTOR’S MOTION FOR ENTRY OF AN ORDER APPROVING SETTLEMENTS WITH (A) THE REDEEMER COMMITTEE OF THE HIGHLAND CRUSADER FUND (CLAIM NO. 72), AND (B) THE HIGHLAND
CRUSADER FUNDS (CLAIM NO. 81)

I, W. Kevin Moentmann, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746(a), declare under penalty of perjury as follows:

1. I am a principal in the accounting firm of Grant Thornton LLP (“Grant Thornton” or “We”), financial advisor to UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch in this matter. I have over thirty years’ experience providing advisory services to healthcare entities for acquisition, regulatory compliance and for financial reporting purposes. My healthcare valuation experience includes the valuation of general and specialty hospitals; long term acute care hospitals, skilled nursing facilities, rehabilitation facilities; surgical centers; imaging centers; dialysis centers; general and specialty hospitals; hospice/home health entities and clinics. See Exhibit 1 for a copy of my bio.

¹ The Debtor’s last four digits of its taxpayer identification number are 6725. The headquarters and service address for the Debtor is 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, TX 75201.

2. I submit this Declaration in support of UBS's Objection to the Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlements with (A) The Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (Claim No. 72), and (B) The Highland Crusader Funds (Claim No. 81) based on my personal knowledge and a review of relevant documents accessible to me. Should additional information or documents be produced at a later date, the opinions and conclusions stated herein could be adjusted to reflect such information.

3. The subject of this declaration is to provide our findings regarding analysis of valuations prepared by Houlihan Lokey ("Houlihan") which estimate the fair value of Cornerstone Healthcare Group Holding, Inc. ("Cornerstone" or the "Company") as of June 30, 2020 (the "Valuation Date"). The valuations were performed for Highland Capital Management L.P. ("Highland" or "HCM") and Highland Crusader Fund ("Crusader"). I note Highland and Crusader entered into a settlement related to Crusader's equity interest in Cornerstone of $30.5 million.²

The analysis described below focuses on the more recently prepared June 30, 2020 Houlihan valuations and allows for a side-by-side comparison of the Houlihan valuations.

4. Our procedures included the following:
 - a. Requested information (see Exhibit 2 for a complete list of documents requested);

² Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlements with (A) The Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (Claim No. 72), and (B) The Highland Crusader Funds (Claim No. 81), and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith, Pg. 10

b. Reviewed information received (see Exhibit 3 for a complete list of documents received to date) with the key documents listed below being the focus of our review:

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - JULY 8, 2020 - 1:37 P.M.

2 THE COURT: All right. Hello. This is Judge
3 Jernigan. Hopefully you can all hear me. We're ready to 4 start the Highland hearings we have today, Case No. 19-34054.
5 Let's start off by getting appearances from those lawyers who 6 want to appear formally today. First, for the Debtor, do we 7 have Mr. Pomerantz or a team from Pachulski Stang?

8 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Jeff 9 Pomerantz; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; counsel for the 10 Debtors.

11 THE COURT: All right. Good afternoon. Anyone else
12 for the Debtors that wants to appear?

13 MR. ANNABLE: Yes, Your Honor. Yes, Your Honor.
14 Zachery Annable and Melissa Hayward, local counsel for the 15 Debtors.

16 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. All right. For 17 the Unsecured Creditors' Committee, I think I see Mr. Clemente
18 there on the screen.

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Matthew 20 Clemente; Sidley Austin; on behalf of the Creditors'
21 Committee.

22 THE COURT: All right. Very good. I know we have 23 lots of other folks on the line. I'm not sure who else might 24 want to formally appear. I'll check on some of the usuals.
25 For Acis, do we have Ms. Patel or Ms. Chiarello?

1 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel
2 and Annmarie Chiarello of the Winstead firm on behalf of Acis
3 Capital Management, LP. Also on the phone is Brian Shaw of 4 the Rogge Dunn Group.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. For the Redeemer
6 Committee, do we have anyone appearing for them?

7 MS. MASCHERIN: Good morning, Your Honor.

8 MR. PLATT: Your Honor, --

9 MS. MASCHERIN: Go ahead, Mark.

10 MR. PLATT: Sorry. Mark Platt, Your Honor, on behalf
11 of the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund. And, 12 obviously, Ms. Mascherin is on the screen as well.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. MASCHERIN: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Good afternoon. Let's see.

16 MR. PLATT: And Mr. Hankin is on the phone as well,

17 --

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. PLATT: -- Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: All right. Very good. All right. Any 21 other -- UBS, by chance?

22 (No response.)

23 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone for the CLO Issuers?

24 (No response.)

25 THE COURT: All right. Anyone I missed? U.S.

1 Trustee, perhaps?

2 (No response.)

3 THE COURT: All right. Well, --

4 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, --

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. LYNN: -- good afternoon. Michael Lynn and John

7 Bonds for Jim Dondero.

8 THE COURT: Oh, okay. Hello. How are you?

9 MR. LYNN: Well, thank you.

10 THE COURT: All right. Anyone else wishing to appear
11 at this time?

12 (No response.)

13 THE COURT: All right. We have a couple of matters
14 set on our calendar. A motion to extend the deadline for 15 removal of actions, to which I saw no written responses, and 16 then a third motion to extend exclusivity, and I saw a 17 Committee response to that.

18 I don't have on my hard calendar anything about a status
19 conference regarding mediation, but I found in our notes from 20 our hearing, I believe it was the UBS hearing in middle of 21 June, that I said, you know, we might want to talk about that 22 if we don't hear some rosy news or some developing positive
23 news today at the July 8th hearing. So we'll kind of put that 24 on the back burner and see if there's a need to talk about 25 that today.

1 All right. So, Mr. Pomerantz, are you going to start us
2 off?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, Your Honor. And actually, I had
4 some comments that sort of touched on a few of the issues you
5 talked about and I think it's apropos to talk about it in the 6 context of the motion to extend exclusivity, which I do note,
7 Your Honor, is not objected to.

8 We had asked in the motion for a 30-day extension and an
9 additional extension beyond that in increments of 30 days, up
10 to a maximum of 90 days, with the Creditors' Committee's 11 consent. We have read their response. We understand they are 12 accepting a 30-day extension, but wanted to put the Debtor and 13 I'm sure the Court on notice that, at the end of 30 days, they 14 don't anticipate any further extensions, which I think, based 15 upon the course of actions, will be just fine, because I 16 think, as I will report to Your Honor, we expect to be able to 17 file a plan by then.

18 But I thought I would take this time, Your Honor, and sort 19 of (audio gap) little context, and that is the (inaudible) to 20 give Your Honor just a brief update of the status of the case,
21 the status on the filing of the Debtor's plan, and as Your 22 Honor alluded to, the Debtor's thoughts regarding mediation,
23 because we have spent a lot of time since Your Honor first 24 raised the issue in the middle of June talking about it, and 25 we think we have a structure that has significant support from

1 the main parties in this case.

2 So, as I mentioned, Your Honor, at the hearing on June
3 30th, after stabilizing operations, the Board began to focus
4 on resolving the significant litigation claims that have been
5 filed against the estate. And the first step in that process,
6 Your Honor, is the Board wanted to commission an independent
7 analysis of those claims, not burdened by what had come before
8 it in connection with the analysis. So we spent a lot of 9 time, our firm did, providing detailed analysis on the major
10 claims against the estate, including the Acis claim, the UBS
11 claim, and the Redeemer claim.

12 Then the pandemic hit, and a lot of the Board's attention
13 was spent on dealing with the disruption to the Debtor's
14 business that was caused by the pandemic. However, during the 15 last couple of months, Your Honor, the Board has begun to 16 focus on engaging with UBS, Redeemer, and the Acis groups in 17 order to assess the ability to be able to resolve the claims
18 short of contested and time-consuming litigation. Because as 19 I mentioned to Your Honor on several occasions, the Board
20 intended, when it came in on January 9th, and I think has done
21 a good job, is changing the culture that had existed before,
22 the culture of litigation, to potentially a culture of 23 settlement and mediation.

24 And in that regard, Your Honor, I'm pleased to report that 25 the Debtor has reached an agreement in principle with the

1 Redeemer Committee regarding the allowance of the Redeemer
2 Committee's claim. The agreement is subject to resolution of 3 a few minor drafting issues, and the Debtor anticipates
4 seeking Court approval of a settlement in the near future.

5 With respect to Acis, Acis's claims, two weeks ago the 6 Independent Board made an offer to resolve the Acis claims.
7 At this point, has not heard back. Hopes to hear back from 8 Acis.

9 In the interim, the Debtor has also filed an objection to 10 the Acis claim, which it would intend to prosecute if it
11 cannot be resolved consensually, either before or in 12 connection with the mediation process that I will lay out that 13 we would propose to the Court in a few moments.

14 With respect to the UBS claim, Your Honor, the Board
15 believes that the Court's ruling on UBS's relief from stay
16 motion was a necessary first step before settlement
17 discussions could get off the ground, and the hope is that the 18 claim could be resolved through mediation, if not sooner, and 19 the parties discussing potentially different counterproposals.
20 None have been made yet, but it is the intention of the Board
21 to engage with UBS.

22 With respect to the mediation process, Your Honor, the 23 Board agrees with the comments that the Court made that 24 mediation could be a very useful tool and a catalyst to a
25 settlement. That would resolve the litigation that has

1 burdened this estate for many years.

2 Since the last hearing, Your Honor, I've had discussions
3 with both Committee counsel, Mr. Clemente, and counsel for 4 each of the Committee members regarding a mediation process
5 that I think, subject to Your Honor's concurrence, has broad
6 support among the major parties, just proving to Your Honor
7 that the parties can come together and agree on something in 8 this case.

9 There is consensus that the Court should order a mediation
10 that would encompass essentially two general areas. First,
11 the mediation would seek to resolve the claims of Acis and 12 UBS, to the extent the parties cannot reach agreement on their 13 own prior to the commencement of the mediation.

14 However, resolving claims against the estate is really 15 only one part of the equation. A true global resolution would 16 also (audio gap) the Debtor's estate may have against Jim
17 Dondero and related entities, claims that I'm sure Your Honor
18 recalls the Committee bargained for the ability to prosecute
19 in connection with the global settlement approved by Your 20 Honor in January.

21 I've spoken with Mr. Lynn, Mr. Dondero's counsel. I know
22 he's participating in the hearing. And he has indicated that 23 Mr. Dondero is willing to participate in a plan mediation
24 process to see if a global resolution can be reached.

25 The Debtor and the Committee have also discussed the names

1 of potential mediators, and subject, of course, to Your
2 Honor's approval, the Debtor and the Committee have reached
3 out to Judge Jones' clerk for the Southern District of Texas
4 and he has told us that he has the time and the willingness to 5 mediate.

6 We also believe that, if available, since there is a lot
7 in terms of mediation in this case, that it may be helpful to 8 have two mediators. And if Judge Isgur -- we haven't reached 9 out to him -- is also available, we believe that both of those 10 judges possess the qualities that this case would need to 11 resolve -- to give the best chance of resolving the claims and 12 the plan process in an efficient and a timely manner.

13 We would contemplate that the parties would submit fees to 14 the mediator by July 31st, and the mediation would occur
15 sometime in the second half of August.

16 Notwithstanding the mediation process, however, Your 17 Honor, the Debtor is moving forward towards expeditiously
18 filing a plan, which will not need to wait for mediation to 19 conclude. And in that regard, Your Honor, the Debtor and the 20 Committee have worked cooperatively over the last several 21 weeks to draft a plan that would allow the Debtor to emerge
22 from Chapter 11 as quickly as possible -- you know, 120 days
23 or so after it would be filed.

24 The Debtor and the Committee and its members recognize 25 that the administrative fees attending to the continued

1 administration of this case in bankruptcy is material, and
2 that one way to reduce them is to emerge from bankruptcy as 3 quickly as possible.

4 To that end, Your Honor, the Debtor is optimistic that it
5 will be able to file a plan by the end of the current
6 exclusivity period, which, if Your Honor grants the pending
7 motion, would be August 12th. And, at present, the plan
8 contemplates the creation of an asset monetization vehicle
9 that will seek to monetize the assets in an appropriate
10 manner.

11 The Debtor believes that the current plan is confirmable,
12 whether or not the Debtor is successful in resolving the large 13 claims against the estate, either consensually or in 14 mediation. Worst case, the claims litigation process can 15 proceed post-confirmation.

16 At the same time, however, Your Honor, the Independent 17 Board -- led by Mr. James Seery, who has testified before Your 18 Honor and who has been appointed as the Debtor's chief
19 executive officer, subject to Court approval, and that hearing
20 is scheduled for July 14th -- has also had positive
21 discussions with Jim Dondero regarding a plan structure that 22 would not only allow for the prompt exit from Chapter 11 but 23 could also inject some liquidity into the case that would 24 allow actual distributions to be made to creditors much more 25 expedited than perhaps waiting for the monetization of the 1 assets. And Mr. Seery continues to have those discussions

2 with Mr. Dondero, and he and the Board are cautiously
3 optimistic that they will bear fruit.

4 However, Your Honor, just to be clear, the Debtor intends
5 to file a plan by the expiration of exclusivity whether or not
6 Mr. Dondero is part of that plan, and his involvement will not
7 distract the Debtor from emerging from Chapter 11 as quickly
8 as possible.

9 So we feel we have presented some rosy news today in terms
10 of resolution of some of the claims and a path forward, that 11 we think this case is on a different trajectory than it was 12 quite some time ago, and we look forward to continuing a
13 dialogue with the parties before mediation and in mediation,
14 if Your Honor orders it, and hopefully can have a quick and 15 (inaudible) resolution of the case.

16 THE COURT: All right. I have a few questions, but 17 I'll turn to other lawyers to see what they have to say, and 18 their comments may answer some questions I have. Mr.
19 Clemente, go ahead.

20 MR. CLEMENTE: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you. Matthew 21 Clemente from Sidley on behalf of the Committee.

22 Mr. Pomerantz is correct with respect to exclusivity. As 23 we laid out in our papers, the Committee has no objection to 24 the additional 30 days of exclusivity through August 12th, and 25 the Committee sees no reason why a plan cannot be filed within

1 that time frame.

2 As we laid out in our papers, we at this time don't see
3 any reason for exclusivity to extend beyond August 12th. But 4 I do think that is consistent with the relief that the Debtor
5 is asking for.

6 To be sure, Your Honor, given the position of the 7 Committee and its constituency, we do not see any plan here
8 that gets done without our consent, frankly, and approval.
9 And we've made that point consistently to the Debtor, and we 10 continue to make that point. Filing a plan with which the 11 Debtor knows this constituency does not agree, frankly, we 12 think would be a waste of time and resources and will create
13 needless litigation, to which Your Honor expressed a strong
14 distaste for at the last hearing.

15 So, Your Honor, we will continue to work with the Debtor
16 in moving forward with a plan, and we are hopeful that the 17 Debtor will continue to understand the importance of working 18 cooperatively with the Committee to propose a plan the 19 Committee can support, as opposed to one it knows the 20 Committee will take issue with.

21 So, with that, Your Honor, again, we don't have any issue
22 or objection to the entry of the exclusivity order, but I did
23 want to make Your Honor aware of the Committee's views.

24 Second, Your Honor, with respect to mediation, the 25 Committee is supportive of the mediation proposal Mr.

1 Pomerantz laid out. Mr. Pomerantz touched on it, and the
2 Committee has been consistently clear, however, that the 3 mediation should not distract from the task of moving forward
4 with a plan, a plan, as Mr. Pomerantz told you, will be 5 designed to be confirmable even without claim resolution or 6 Mr. Dondero's involvement.

7 The Committee believes that it is important that the 8 claims be addressed first in the mediation, the claim 9 resolution issues, as they believe that that is the 10 appropriate sequencing. It can all happen as part of the same
11 mediation, but the Committee feels very strongly that the 12 claims should be addressed first in the context of that 13 mediation.

14 And with respect to Mr. Dondero's involvement, the 15 Committee is not opposed to having his involvement and the 16 Committee will negotiate in good faith during the mediation
17 and will be looking to the mediator to help determine the most 18 effective way to involve Mr. Dondero in the process -- again,
19 with the very strong view that the claims should be addressed
20 first in the context of that mediation.

21 That is all I have, Your Honor, but I'm happy, obviously,
22 to answer any questions you have.

23 THE COURT: Okay. Let's hear from anyone else. Any 24 other lawyers want to weigh in?

25 MS. PATEL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel

1 on behalf of Acis. And I will endeavor to not tread the same
2 ground that Mr. Pomerantz and Mr. Clemente have. But just to 3 kind of -- probably more so for the benefit of others that are 4 participating in the hearing, because I know Your Honor,
5 you're familiar with our matter, I hit on the two pieces of 6 litigation that I think, you know, bear discussing in the 7 context of mediation. And by the way, just to be clear, I
8 have -- I have no position different than Mr. Clemente with 9 respect to exclusivity.

10 But as Your Honor is aware, there is a lawsuit involving 11 Acis and Highland Capital Management. It's an adversary.
12 It's been through various permutations, the first of which 13 started roughly two years ago. I think we just passed the 14 two-year anniversary of the first adversary that all ended up
15 being consolidated down and added to over time. And 16 immediately prior to Highland's bankruptcy, that adversary was 17 effectively abated by virtue of the withdrawal of the 18 reference motion that was filed and argued and the Court was 19 writing what I understand to be a lengthy Report and 20 Recommendation in connection with. And that was then 21 ultimately stayed by Highland's bankruptcy case in October of 22 2019.

23 As Mr. Pomerantz indicated, Highland has now objected to 24 Acis's proof of claim. That just came roughly about two weeks
25 ago. And keeping in mind, Your Honor, that Acis's proof of 1 claim is its complaint in that adversary that I just 2 referenced.

3 At present, Acis's response is due somewhere around July
4 23rd, I believe, and there is a hearing scheduled on that 5 claim objection on August the 6th. So a hearing has been set
6 imminently.

7 Mr. Pomerantz and Mr. Couch were very kind to put in a
8 peremptory call immediately prior to the filing, and they 9 advised that they were going to be filing that claim objection
10 and that they were going to be setting it for hearing on 11 August the 6th, and I advised them that I had planned on being 12 on vacation that week, which is all a very long way of saying,
13 Your Honor, I think we're going to have to, in light of 14 mediation, work up an alternate schedule.

15 And I'm confident that we'll be able to reach that 16 alternate schedule, but we'll be keeping the mediation and its 17 scheduling and the parties with schedules in mind. Because it
18 doesn't seem to make an awful lot of sense to me to be 19 litigating the claim objection before we get to mediation.

20 On the -- on other fronts, and, again, you know, I know
21 Your Honor presided over the Acis case, obviously, for the 22 last two and half years, commencing with the involuntary
23 bankruptcy that touched off that case. But on the -- on the 24 related front, is, as I advised the Court at the status
25 conference during the Acis status conference, there was a suit

1 that was filed by Acis against Mr. Dondero, certain of 2 Highland Capital Management's employees, the former treasurer,
3 Mr. Waterhouse, as well as CLO Holdco, Grant Scott, and 4 certain of the Independent Directors of Highland CLO Funding.

5 And, you know, as Your Honor may recall, that suit was 6 filed to get ahead of the 546 or -- and/or Section 108 time
7 period cutoff. But that suit is now pending. In connection
8 with that litigation, Your Honor, there has been -- there are 9 a couple of answers that were filed and there's -- there have 10 been a panoply of motions to dismiss filed as well on various 11 grounds: Personal jurisdiction -- ranging from personal
12 jurisdiction, subject matter jurisdiction, 12(b)(6) grounds.
13 Kind of a smattering of a whole lot of things. And all of 14 that bundles together, Your Honor, into a whole lot more
15 litigation.

16 So, in thinking about that piece of litigation and its 17 overall impact on where the parties are, I endeavored to reach 18 out to all of the counsel, the various counsel for the 19 constituent groups therein to talk about what we were going to 20 do with that piece of litigation, certainly now that we are 21 discussing mediation. And I've had various positive at least
22 preliminary discussions with Mr. Bonds, counsel for Mr.
23 Dondero, and then also Mr. Kane, who is counsel for CLO Holdco
24 and Grant Scott, and they were generally receptive to the 25 concept of an abatement, pending mediation, just, again, so we

1 can put a pin in the litigation, see where we can get to in 2 the context of mediation, if some sort of resolution can be
3 reached that advances the collective ball and hopefully helps
4 to, if not resolve the litigation, perhaps reduce or certainly 5 streamline it.

6 I've reached out to, by email, to counsel for certain of 7 the other employees who are, at present, evaluating that --
8 the request for an agreed abatement, and I've also reached out
9 via email and phone to counsel for the Independent -- the two 10 Independent Directors for Highland CLO Funding. That's Mr.
11 Maloney and Ms. Matsumora. And I've not heard from them as 12 yet.

13 So, in connection with that, Your Honor, likely, at least 14 as of right now, my thought is that we would basically be 15 filing a motion tomorrow seeking to abate that piece of 16 litigation in connection with the mediation that we're 17 discussing today, and, of course, depending upon the outcome
18 of today. And we may seek to expedite that motion to abate if 19 the parties don't agree to extend at least present responsive
20 deadlines, et cetera. Because, again, it doesn't seem to make 21 an awful lot of sense to be continuing with litigation while 22 everyone is trying to get into resolution mode.

23 So, Your Honor, as you know, Acis has tried to remain
24 consistently in resolution mode, but we hear Your Honor loud
25 and clear and we will endeavor and try and streamline and at

1 least give the best-faith effort at trying to get things
2 resolved as expeditiously as possible as we can.

3 THE COURT: Well, if that is the case, why haven't --
4 why hasn't the Debtor heard back from you on the offer they 5 made two weeks ago?

6 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, the offer was made after --
7 shortly after the claim objection was filed. The claim
8 objection itself, Your Honor, is a two-page claim objection.
9 And, frankly, if I turn my camera around, you'd see that I am 10 surrounded by paper. We are analyzing the claim objection as 11 filed.

12 Your Honor, in terms of talking about Acis's claim, Acis, 13 as you know, has been -- has been attempting to discuss its 14 claim, and even during Acis's bankruptcy case, we engaged in 15 two different mediations to try and resolve the overarching -- 16 a lot of the facts that -- and circumstances that underlie the 17 complaint, and those were unsuccessful.

18 Shortly after the Board was appointed -- and by shortly, I
19 mean I think the hearing was in the morning; we ended up -- I
20 and Mr. Terry ended up having lunch with the Board and the 21 Board's counsel to again being fostering a relationship and to 22 begin discussing Acis's claim in earnest. And we had a 23 lengthy meeting at my offices -- if my memory serves, it was 24 in early February -- with Mr. Nelms and with Mr. Seery. And 25 then, frankly, didn't hear a whole heck of a lot with respect

1 to our claim or any type of negotiation. So the first thing
2 that we heard back with respect to it was just a couple of 3 weeks ago, and Your Honor, we --

4 (Audio interruptions.)

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MS. PATEL: We will --

7 THE COURT: Someone needs to put their phone on mute.
8 Okay. Thank you.

9 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor. We have 10 endeavored -- we have rolled up our sleeves and we are 11 analyzing the claim objection and trying to narrow the issues.
12 And we will be providing a substantive response back to the 13 Debtor as quickly as we can.

14 The settlement proposal, frankly, Your Honor, came in 15 while Mr. Terry was on vacation, so we did have a little bit 16 of time lapse on that.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Where are people going on vacation
18 these days? I can't get anywhere.

19 MS. PATEL: Your --

20 THE COURT: I've had to cancel a couple of vacations.
21 I don't know where people are going.

22 But okay. Well, I'm very disappointed, nevertheless, to 23 hear that there's been zero response in two weeks.

24 Anyone else wish to make a comment before I get to some 25 questions I have?

1 MR. LYNN: Your Honor, Michael Lynn for Jim Dondero.

2 This is just a comment. The Acis v. Dondero, et al. suit
3 parallels in many respects the objection to the claim filed by 4 the Debtor with respect to the Acis claim. We would probably 5 seek to join in the objection, if for no other reason than to 6 preserve our ability to address factual issues that the two
7 matters have in common, to ensure against a future preclusive
8 effect.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else?

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz
11 again. I have a couple of comments with respect to Ms.
12 Patel's. Would you like me to address them now?

13 THE COURT: Go ahead. Uh-huh.

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Okay. Your Honor, I think it's 15 helpful to the Court to understand sort of the big picture in 16 terms of our discussions with Acis. Prior to making a 17 settlement proposal, which, incidentally, occurred before the 18 claim objection was filed, a week or so ago -- well, actually,
19 a few week before that, we had offered to sit down and meet
20 with Acis with respect to their claim.

21 The initial response we received back was that, unless the 22 Guernsey lawsuit was dismissed, they were not interested in 23 sitting down and meeting with us. We were disappointed in 24 that because, as we have consistently maintained since the 25 Board has taken over, the Board does not control that Guernsey

1 lawsuit. But in any event, that was what Acis's position was.

2 Subsequently, a few weeks after that, we were told that
3 Acis would be willing to sit down and have a discussion with 4 us about their claim, similar to the discussions we had with 5 Redeemer and similar to the discussions we had with UBS.

6 To make that discussion most productive, two and a half
7 days into that -- I certainly realize two and a half days is 8 not a lot of time -- we provided Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw with a
9 draft of the objection, which was mostly identical to the one
10 that got filed. There was a couple of minor changes. We then 11 had a discussion with them. I'm not going to, of course, 12 reveal the substance of the discussion, but the purpose was to 13 go over our thoughts before it was filed. And we were told,
14 as Ms. Patel said, that Mr. Terry was on vacation, and we 15 didn't expect, after putting, as Ms. Patel said, a roughly 60-
16 page objection, that they would be able to turn it around.
17 Several days later, we called up Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw,
18 communicated orally a settlement proposal, told them that a 19 settlement -- told them that an objection would be filed and 20 offered to, at their convenience, to sit down and talk about 21 the claims.

22 We are still hopeful, Your Honor, in light of Ms. Patel's
23 comments that we will receive a response, that we will receive
24 a response. And to the extent we can narrow the issues down
25 and -- before mediation, I think those ought to be helpful.

1 We also spoke to Ms. Patel. She had indicated she had a
2 vacation scheduled. At the time, I think we were starting to 3 talk about mediation. And the Debtor has no intention of 4 mediating while litigating. We don't believe that's an
5 effective use of people's time. So while it is on for August
6 6th, to the extent Your Honor does order us to mediation and 7 mediation occurs at the end of August, we would anticipate 8 that the hearing on the claim objection would be set for some 9 time in September. But we are encouraged.

10 We also, after the additional litigations were filed by 11 Ms. Patel against Mr. Dondero and certain of the Debtor's
12 employees, who are still current employees, we had suggested 13 that it might make sense to have an abatement and a stay of 14 those proceedings, given the interrelatedness of those 15 proceedings and the matters in Acis's claim objection. They 16 initially rejected that, but I'm very happy to hear that their 17 view now is that it does make more sense to try to see if we 18 can coalesce around a mediation process without satellite
19 litigation occurring.

20 So we are -- we are, to the -- we're not a party to that 21 litigation. We weren't asked. The first time we had been 22 told that that litigation would be stayed was I heard it just 23 a few minutes ago. But we are very much in support of that 24 and hope that the parties can coalesce around a mediated
25 resolution as opposed to a litigated resolution.

1 THE COURT: Okay. Remind me again the amount of 2 Acis's proof of claim.

3 MR. POMERANTZ: I will let Ms. Patel answer that 4 because it's a little unclear and there are some -- been
5 disputes in terms of who said what about it. So I would ask
6 Ms. Patel to remind the Court of what they're claiming.

7 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, on the face of our -- of the 8 filed proof of claim, it states that the claim is in excess of 9 $75 million.

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Anyone else wish to 11 make a statement today?

12 (No response.)

13 THE COURT: All right. Well, as I said, I have a few
14 questions, some I came in here with and some sort of popped up
15 in my brain as I heard the presentations today.

16 Mr. Pomerantz, I mean, I feel in many ways I have sort of 17 only a 30,000-foot level understanding of certain things going 18 on outside of the courtroom. And here's what I mean by that.
19 You made a comment that the Board, you know, had to deal with 20 the destruction of the Debtor's business caused by the 21 pandemic. I think those were your exact words. I would like 22 to understand that better, because there was indeed a theme in 23 your motion to extend exclusivity of, you know, one of the 24 reasons we're not where we would like to be at this juncture
25 is, among other things, you know, we had the pandemic hit.

1 I don't have a full appreciation of how that has slowed
2 things down. I mean, I know there was one specific comment
3 that Jefferies issued margin calls and so that caused
4 liquidity issues. But other than that, I'm not -- I mean,
5 yes, the capital markets fell off a cliff in March, but my 6 impression, naïve as it may be, is that things have kind of 7 bounced back after March. So, tell me how the pandemic has 8 had an effect in trying to get to resolution of issues and a 9 plan.

10 MR. POMERANTZ: Absolutely, Your Honor. So, as I
11 think Your Honor knows in the calls, the Debtor's primary
12 assets consist of two things. One, public stock that it
13 trades through a proprietary account in its select account,
14 and other stocks, public stocks, which, as Your Honor
15 mentioned, the pandemic roiled the stock market, and for the 16 period of time in March and early April, given the fact that 17 the Debtor had margin accounts, a substantial amount of the 18 time spent primarily by Mr. Seery, who effectively started
19 becoming a CEO at that time -- we'll deal with his motion next 20 week -- if it wasn't for his efforts, his expertise and 21 acumen, the result could have been a lot worse.

22 So he's been spending a lot of time in dealing with 23 Jefferies, because, as Your Honor is aware, with margin
24 accounts, there is really limited protections that are 25 available under the Bankruptcy Code, and the automatic stay

1 and other protections don't necessarily apply, and Jefferies
2 could have turned around and sold all the stock. So the value
3 that was preserved took a lot of time and effort. That was 4 one area.

5 The second area, Your Honor, is the Debtor's assets also 6 include interests in private equity investments. A lot of the 7 Debtor's funds that it manages and which the Debtor has 8 significant interest in have a variety of different companies.
9 Each of those companies were dealing with the pandemic in 10 their own different ways, whether it was addressing issues of 11 applying for PPP loans, whether it was addressing employees,
12 there's capital structure issues, each of them are potentially 13 a Chapter 11 making all of their own.

14 So, again, the type of effort and time that it took --
15 again, principally, Mr. Seery, acting as CEO, but also, you
16 know, the other Board members -- was a lot, to stabilize those 17 investments and to make sure that they were not lost through 18 actions by lenders or whatnot.

19 And the third aspect is the Debtor manages funds, still 20 manages funds and actively manages funds. And managing funds
21 that have principally financial-type assets in this 22 environment has been extremely challenging.

23 As Your Honor accurately mentions, over the last couple
24 months the stock market has come to a little more stability.
25 Whether that will remain is anyone's guess. And during that

1 time, that's when a lot of the efforts that I've mentioned in 2 terms of the claims work has been put back on. But there was
3 a month or two period during the pandemic, the early stages,
4 that really impacted the Debtor's ability, and it was all-
5 hands-on-deck to address those issues.

6 At the same time, though, Your Honor, our firm was working
7 on the extensive analysis that was required to, for example,
8 address all the legal issues in connection with what I think I
9 recall is a 34-count complaint by Acis; for our firm to get up
10 to speed with respect to the UBS claim, which, as Your Honor
11 heard a few weeks ago, spanned 11 years of litigation; and 12 also to address the issues with Redeemer and be in a position
13 that, as I mentioned before, we have reached a settlement.

14 So, there were a lot of things going on. We had hoped to 15 be where we are now a couple of months ago. But I think the 16 Board, under the strong leadership of the Board and the strong 17 leadership of Mr. Seery, has effectively stabilized the 18 operations, and we have now been able to, the last couple of 19 months, really turn to how do we get out of this case, as 20 evidenced by the comments I made with the substantial effort
21 that's been made in the plan and the substantial progress I
22 think has been made on putting the Board in a position to sit 23 down and have meaningful discussions with creditors
24 (inaudible).

25 THE COURT: Okay. I mean, again, I don't -- I don't

1 have a witness here, but, well, remind me, what do we have set
2 July 14th?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: So, July 14th, Your Honor, we have 4 two motions. One is a motion to appoint Jim Seery as the 5 chief executive officer. Again, I will talk more about it in 6 connection with that hearing. If Your Honor recalls, as part 7 of the term sheet in January, there was a recognition by the 8 Committee and by the Debtor that instilling the Board was 9 obviously critical. It was critical to avoid this case going
10 into a different direction. And I think there was a 11 recognition that it would be important that somebody stepped 12 up and become the CEO.

13 It was too early to tell whether that somebody would come
14 from the Debtor's board, the newly-installed board, or someone 15 else, but there was a contemplated process. And while the 16 first couple of months of the case were spent, again, on 17 stabilizing operations, I think starting in mid-March and as 18 we went on it was pretty clear that, of the three people on 19 the Board, while all of them are providing invaluable services
20 in leading the Debtor to where it is now, Mr. Seery was 21 stepping up primarily because of his significant operational 22 background in connection with these types of assets. And he 23 has essentially been working a couple hundred hours a month or 24 thereabouts over the last few months doing the things I just 25 alluded to, and the Debtor has determined to seek his

1 retention as a CEO. Has had discussion with the Committee on
2 terms. They're not all finalized or resolved yet, but that
3 hopefully will be uncontested by the 14th.

4 Mr. Seery will also undertake the role of chief
5 restructuring officer, which, as Your Honor recalls, we 6 already have Brad Sharp as -- from DSI as chief restructuring
7 officer. They will essentially become financial advisor. DSI
8 has provided a valuable role to the Board and to counsel in 9 this case. But given that Mr. Seery will, if the Court
10 approves the motion, become the CEO, it would make sense that 11 he be the CRO as well, so it's a separate motion to 12 essentially transmute the DSI representation from a CRO
13 representation to a financial advisor representation. So the 14 two matters are on, Your Honor, but I've --

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. POMERANTZ: -- given Your Honor a preview.

17 THE COURT: Well, I'd like to hear testimony from 18 both of them on the 14th, Mr. Seery and Mr. Sharp.

19 Again, I -- I mean, ideally, we would have evidence at a
20 hearing on a motion to extend exclusivity. And I understand 21 you didn't have any objections, you worked out essentially an 22 agreement with the Committee. So, I mean, I understand you
23 didn't necessarily think that evidence would be needed.

24 But I, again, you know, my understanding is 30,000-foot
25 level. I'm just trying to understand, you know, with three

1 wonderful independent board members and with a CRO and all
2 these fantastic professionals, it just feels like we -- you
3 know, multiple things could be going on at once, and I kind of 4 feel like, you know, January 9th, six months ago, we had the 5 independent board installed. We had the protocol order with 6 the Committee worked out, you know, which we call it a
7 settlement, but it was mostly a mechanism to allow the 8 Committee to have oversight and monitoring. And it just feels 9 like, January 9th, okay, then we were in a position to really 10 start focusing on these big claims. We knew it was Acis and 11 we knew it was UBS, even though the bar date hadn't hit. And 12 it feels like to me we've -- I shouldn't say bought a lot of 13 time, but a lot of time has gone by for not as many results as 14 I would like.

15 Tell me why I'm being unfair. And, again, I go back to,
16 okay, if it's the pandemic, help me to understand what it was 17 about. You know, I kind of got scared by that phrase you
18 used, destruction to the Debtor's business caused by the 19 pandemic. I mean, I guess part of what I'm getting at here
20 is, Has there been a massive loss of value by the Debtor
21 caused by the pandemic, and that has been sort of a halting
22 event to being able to talk about a plan?

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, Your Honor, I believe, and I
24 actually went back to my notes, and I think I said disruption.
25 I didn't say destruction.

1 THE COURT: Oh.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: And if Your Honor heard destruction,

3 --

4 THE COURT: I heard destruction. Maybe I --

5 MR. POMERANTZ: -- or if I misspoke, I apologize.

6 But there wasn't any implication of a destruction in the 7 Debtor's business. Again, financial assets did take a hit.
8 There were some concerns in how, you know, to monetize those 9 assets, the stock assets, and working through the Jefferies
10 issues as well as the private equity issues.

11 And look, Your Honor: When the Board took over on January
12 9th, I think they recognized soon after their appointment that 13 there was a lot of stuff to do. There was -- it was a really 14 steep learning curve. Highland, as people have described it
15 in the hearings in this case, is an extremely complicated
16 structure of companies.

17 So, yes, perhaps things could have moved a little quicker.
18 Your Honor does recall the early stages of the case, we dealt 19 with motions for the appointment of a trustee by the United 20 States Trustee. There was other litigation over retention of 21 professionals and others, which, you know, Your Honor has 22 commented about in the past, and I think we're past that and 23 beyond that. But there has been a lot of work.

24 And, again, on the claims work, the Board, to be 25 independent, did not want to rely on the employees of the 1 Debtor in evaluating the various claims. So that took a lot

2 of time and effort.

3 So, you know, look, I think you could look at it two ways.
4 One way you could look at it, that it's been pending six
5 months and we don't have a plan yet, we don't have the claims
6 resolution. I would -- and I tend to be a glass-is-half-full
7 type of person -- I think the message that we are hearing
8 today is that the plan process is on track. We have resolved
9 one of the three major litigation claims. We have coalesced
10 around a mediation process that people can get behind and 11 hopefully have concluded at the end of August. That the 12 process is going to include not only the inbound claims
13 against the company but potentially the claims by the company
14 against some of the targets.

15 I think there is reason for optimism at this point in the 16 case. And while, you know, I wish it was May and we were 17 having this discussion, not July, I still think there has been 18 a lot of groundwork that was prepared to get to the place
19 we're here. And, you know, the Board is laser-focused on 20 getting results, and getting results quick.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Let me follow on about the 22 agreement in principle on the Redeemer claim. They had an 23 arbitration award. So that doesn't sound like a major
24 milestone to me, to be honest. Tell me why I'm wrong about 25 that. They had an arbitration award.

1 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure. Your Honor, they do have an
2 arbitration award, but there are several aspects of the 3 arbitration award that needed negotiation and resolution. A
4 significant part of the arbitration award was the Debtor's
5 obligation to repurchase some Cornerstone shares that Redeemer
6 had for a certain dollar amount. Well, obviously, the Debtor
7 in bankruptcy doesn't have the ability to write a check to 8 repurchase it.

9 There was issues on the Debtor's ability to ultimately 10 recoup different fees that the arbitrator had determined had 11 been taken inappropriately that had to be repaid, and to what 12 extent the Debtor would be entitled to a credit.

13 So, by no means am I telling Your Honor that the Redeemer
14 claims and issues were as difficult as the Acis and UBS claims
15 and issues. But there were a variety of issues, there were a 16 variety of matters that had to be discussed. You know, we 17 worked cooperatively with Redeemer and with Jenner & Block.
18 And we, again, have reached a resolution that is going to 19 provide a face amount of a claim which is materially less than 20 the claim that was on file.

21 But Your Honor, by no means am I trying to convince Your 22 Honor that this was the same type of work that needed to go
23 into -- resolve the others. But having said that, getting 24 that claim resolved, which the Debtor believes is the largest 25 legitimate claim against this estate, I think is an important

1 step forward that will lead towards hopefully the confirmation
2 of a plan and hopefully spur on efforts from all the parties
3 -- Acis, UBS, and the Debtor -- to try to make the same type
4 of progress in their claims.

5 THE COURT: Okay. All right. My next question is, I
6 mean, you've talked about -- I think it was the previous 7 hearing I heard you say a term sheet had been provided to the 8 Committee or going back and forth. I mean, help me to 9 understand what you're envisioning the plan is going to look
10 like in this case. I mean, I know there's a wide swing
11 between UBS being owed a billion dollars and being owed
12 nothing, and Acis being owed $70 million versus, you know,
13 nothing or wherever you think the number should be, or the 14 Debtor's board thinks the number should be. I know, you know,
15 these are giant questions. But can you answer for me what 16 you're envisioning?

17 I mean, again, one of the pleadings said, you know, the 18 plan should provide for orderly monetization of assets,
19 provide for a process for resolution of claims, and pursue
20 causes of action. I mean, again, that's kind of 30,000-foot
21 stuff. Tell me what you're envisioning.

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure. So, Your Honor, just to take a
23 step back, we -- this case was filed not necessarily for the 24 traditional reason that cases are filed. There weren't operational 25 fixes that needed to be done at the business.

1 THE COURT: Right.

2 MR. POMERANTZ: There wasn't a capital structure that
3 needed to be revised.

4 THE COURT: Right.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: Right? So, as everyone knows, the case
6 was filed because the Redeemer Committee got its arbitration award,
7 to prevent execution on that. Okay?

8 We also had a very complicated business. There are not many, I
9 think, examples of asset managers around the country of the type of 10 Highland Capital that actually go through a Chapter 11. And it
11 caused a tremendous amount of upheaval, of issues. Your Honor, 12 we've been dealing with the protocols on a daily basis with the 13 Committee. Your Honor has seen some of that.

14 So while the hope was, from the beginning of the case, to end
15 this case in a nice, tidy bow, get a resolution that would not only 16 resolve everyone's claims but also try to resolve the claims that 17 the estate had against third parties, as time was going by the 18 parties realized that there was nothing more bankruptcy could 19 provide this company. This company right now has litigation issues
20 to deal with that can be resolved with the help of the Bankruptcy
21 Court, as appropriate, in connection with the claims process. And 22 the Board -- and the Committee, for that matter -- were looking at 23 the substantial amount of fees that were being incurred by the 24 Debtor professionals and the Committee professionals which were 25 draining liquidity from the company and started to think, How can we

1 exit this case? Even if we can't get what has been referred to by 2 people as a grand bargain, how can we exit this case quickly and 3 efficiently?

4 So what really has to be done in terms of exiting the case?
5 Coming up with a way to monetize the assets, a structure in which 6 those assets can be monetized; not doing anything in the context of 7 a plan process that would in any way interfere with the 8 estate's obligations under the Advisers Act with the SEC or 9 otherwise; and coming up with a governance structure of who's 10 going to govern that.

11 So the plan that is currently contemplated -- and it's 12 more than a term sheet, Your Honor. We have had numerous 13 versions of the plan go back and forth. We are right now
14 waiting. The pen is in the hand of the Committee. We think 15 we are very close to having a form of a plan and a form of a 16 disclosure statement that would essentially contemplate some 17 type of trust vehicle that would monetize the assets. And the 18 structure of how that trust would work, whether it's one 19 trust, whether it's two, whether it's one trustee, whether 20 it's two, how that trust would be governed, who would be on 21 the governing board: Those are all issues that are currently 22 being worked out.

23 At the same time, the company is doing a thorough analysis
24 of every contract and every asset, to make sure that 25 assignment provisions and contract provisions and regulatory

1 issues, that we don't somehow trip up in connection with the 2 plan process.

3 So, essentially, at its core and at its minimum, it will 4 be transferring the assets into a monetization vehicle, some 5 type of trust vehicle, which, again, the corporate and 6 regulatory lawyers are working with us, with the bankruptcy
7 lawyers, to figure out the appropriate way, given the nature
8 of the Debtor's business, having an oversight board that has,
9 you know, creditor support. And if you ask Mr. Clemente,
10 it'll be total creditor identification of the people, which we 11 are in discussions of what the Board looks like after. And 12 monetization over time, and a way to resolve the claims over
13 time.

14 So that is essentially the concept. Again, to the extent
15 we can resolve the claims soon, to the extent we can work on a 16 negotiation with Mr. Dondero to bring in liquidity so that 17 creditors will not have to wait for the monetization of the 18 assets, which a lot of these assets are not assets that are 19 easily monetizable and it will take some time. But it is -- 20 the Debtor feels strongly and I think the Committee feels 21 equally as strongly that emerging from Chapter 11 with some 22 type of vehicle to monetize the assets, governance and 23 control, and a way to resolve remaining claims, that is the 24 minimum that can and should be accomplished and that the 25 Debtor is committed to accomplishing in short order.

1 If something else comes out of it where we get more,
2 again, where the claims are resolved or where we have a grand
3 bargain with Mr. Dondero, that's something we're going to 4 strive for. But at a minimum, it needs to be an asset
5 monetization vehicle, governance, and a way to -- a structure
6 to resolve claims.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Asset monetization vehicle. You
8 know, subject to regulatory lawyers and corporate lawyers
9 figuring out the exact mechanics, you're saying essentially
10 put the business of Highland into a trust or trusts, and then,
11 I guess, from cash flow of the business over time, the 12 creditors would be paid? Or are you saying something more 13 than that?

14 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, again, I think it's on an 15 asset-by-asset basis. And, you know, Mr. Seery, you know, is 16 -- has become very familiar with all the assets, now has a --
17 ideas in mind which he's shared with the Board on how to best
18 monetize the assets. Some assets, there may be a quick sale.
19 Some assets, it may be over time. So it's a combination.

20 This is not going to be a fire sale of the Debtor's
21 assets. It's not in the best interest of the Debtor, we 22 believe. It's not in the best interest of the creditors. We 23 don't think anyone is in favor of that. It's dealing with 24 each of the assets in an appropriate manner and figuring out
25 how to monetize them, recognizing that given -- even though

1 the stock market has bounced back, the market for privately-
2 owned businesses may not have bounced back as much.

3 So it's figuring out with the appropriate people,
4 appropriate governance structure, how best to monetize those 5 assets, recognizing that creditors want to be paid and they're 6 -- they don't want to be in the business of long-term holds.
7 So, the Debtor gets that. But it's really being a thoughtful
8 approach on how to get the best value from those assets.

9 THE COURT: Okay. There's nothing, though, being 10 discussed as far as a big chunk of cash distribution up front,
11 unless Dondero comes up with it?

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, potentially. I mean,
13 potentially, Mr. Dondero is a potential source of liquidity.
14 There are some significant assets that may be able to be 15 liquidated sooner rather than later. So it's something that's 16 in discussion.

17 But the lion's share of the value for creditors is likely 18 going to come over time, unless there is someone who, like Mr.
19 Dondero, who is essentially willing to buy back the company.
20 And that is something that's being explored.

21 So, look, we've had a lot of transparency with the 22 Committee. We have weekly meetings, the Board and the 23 Committee. We just started a few weeks ago. I think the 24 professionals are working together. They understand what the 25 assets are in the estate. So, to that end, I think we have

1 been working very cooperatively with our creditors over the 2 last few months and we're just seeking to do it the best way.

3 So nothing I've said today, nothing, you know, should come
4 as and will come as a surprise to the Committee, but we're
5 working better, recognizing that ultimately the creditors want
6 to be paid, and doing that in an appropriate manner and a
7 thoughtful manner is what the Debtor is committed to do with 8 its partner, the Committee, in this process.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Sort of jumping back, I forgot to 10 ask earlier when we were talking about Acis: Has the Fifth
11 Circuit rescheduled oral argument on the appeal of the Acis
12 confirmation order and order for relief?

13 MR. POMERANTZ: I believe -- Your Honor, maybe Ms.
14 Patel would know off the top of her head.

15 THE COURT: Ms. Patel?

16 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, it was -- it was briefly -- I
17 -- and I say briefly, it was briefly we had -- we got a notice
18 at some point, I believe in early June, that the Fifth Circuit
19 had reset oral argument. And then approximately, I can't 20 remember exactly, but it was like, I don't know, a week or 21 maybe ten days later, we got a notice that it was cancelled
22 again. We have not received notice that it is rescheduled, so
23 it is still pending. But it has not been taken off oral -- it
24 has not been taken off oral argument at some juncture.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I acknowledge that that is a

1 pandemic disruption for sure. It would have been nice to have
2 that resolved one way or another by now.

3 MS. PATEL: Agreed, Your Honor. We were trying to 4 figure out, frankly, in the week to ten days that it took from 5 the scheduling to how it was cancelled, exactly how our team
6 was going to get down to New Orleans. And the -- I think the 7 leading contender was to rent an RV and drive down so we could 8 safely get there. So it certainly has been a casualty of the 9 pandemic.

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Two more questions.
11 And this one has been a bit of a tough one for me to decide
12 whether I should broach this topic or not. You know, I read
13 the newspapers, the financial papers, just like everyone else,
14 and I saw a headline that I wished almost I wouldn't have 15 seen, and it was a headline about Dondero or Highland 16 affiliates getting three PPP loans. And, you know, I'm only 17 supposed to consider evidence I hear in the courtroom, right,
18 or things I hear in the courtroom, but I've got this 19 extrajudicial knowledge right now thanks to just keeping up on 20 current events. I decided I needed to ask about this.

21 What can you tell me about this, Mr. Pomerantz? I mean, I
22 assumed, from less-than-clear reporting, that it wasn't
23 Highland Capital Management, LP, but I'd like to hear anything
24 you can report about this.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: So, look, Your Honor, the first I

1 could say is that, to my knowledge, Highland Capital, the 2 Debtor, has not obtained a PPP loan. I know there have been 3 discussions with certain funds that basically have certain
4 assets, private operating companies, about obtaining PPP
5 loans. I don't have the specifics for Your Honor. I'm happy
6 to provide that.

7 Of course, to the extent Mr. Dondero, on any of his 8 affiliated funds that are under the control of the Debtor, I
9 would have no way of answering that, but I'm happy to follow
10 up with that with the Board and report back to Your Honor in 11 whatever appropriate manner you felt to obtain that 12 information.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let's have a report on that 14 on the 14th when we come in. You know, maybe Mr. Seery or Mr.
15 Sharp or some other person. But you can probably imagine the 16 different things going through my brain. You know, well,
17 first, let's see if it was -- you know, I don't -- again, I'm 18 not expecting it to be Highland Capital Management, LP. I
19 would be beyond shocked if, you know, that somehow happened
20 when they're in bankruptcy. And, you know, I think it would 21 require a 364 motion, just like any other borrowing, although 22 I know it's kind of a forgivable loan. Strange bird.

23 But then if it's some affiliate of Highland, I still feel 24 like we need some transparency and disclosure on that. I
25 mean, I -- and who were the human beings behind it. It just

1 raises a lot of questions in my brain. Anything else?

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, would you mind saying
3 what newspaper you found it in? Because not everything one
4 reads in the newspaper is accurate, but we will definitely --

5 THE COURT: Oh, yeah. I know --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: -- follow up on it and --

7 THE COURT: Fake news really is a thing.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: I didn't say fake news.

9 THE COURT: Oh, I know, I know. It's not really a
10 good term. But Business Insider? Is that reputable? Or no?
11 I thought I saw it in one of the local papers, too. I mean,
12 someone tell me if that's, --

13 MR. POMERANTZ: We -- we --

14 THE COURT: -- you know, something unreliable.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: We will investigate it, Your Honor.
16 I don't know what confidentiality restrictions would be on 17 whether if any of those entities -- but we will get the 18 information. If there's any concern on confidentiality,
19 perhaps we could have an in-camera on that. But before we get 20 ahead of ourselves, let me broach the issue with the Board and 21 Mr. Sharp and then be in a position to act and respond more
22 intelligently.

23 THE COURT: Okay. My last topic is to come back to 24 mediation. I was surprised that Judge Jones' or Judge Isgur's
25 staff expressed that they had availability. They are the

1 busiest judges in the country right now. I'm wondering when
2 were they contacted. Was it really recently, or a week or two 3 ago? Because they've probably gotten ten new mega-cases in 4 the past two weeks.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, the last -- the last 6 two weeks, again, probably since June 15th, we had been 7 discussing the structure of a mediation. We, the Debtor,
8 proposed perhaps a combination of Judge Isgur and Jones. We 9 initially had that conversation with Mr. Clemente, and then we 10 socialized it with the rest of the Committee members. As of 11 last Thursday, I believe it was, we had consensus that Judge
12 Jones, and if available, also Judge Isgur, would make sense.

13 I sent an email to Judge Jones' clerk, indicating that we 14 had a hearing today, that it would be helpful if we got a
15 response, and this morning, two hours before the hearing,
16 Judge Jones' clerk responded and told Mr. Clemente and I that 17 he is available and ready and suggested that we have a 18 conference with -- again, I'm not sure if it'll be him or his 19 clerk, to talk about availability. Of course, we didn't want
20 to go ahead and have that discussion until, you know, we got 21 Your Honor's input on it.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I mean, a couple of things come to 23 mind. One is I am just flabbergasted that they would have any 24 availability. I know they're -- I'm aware of Judge Jones
25 doing hearings on weekends.

1 But second, I'm also concerned what is their idea of 2 availability. Because in order for a mediator to meaningfully
3 help you on this, I mean, it's going to take not just hours
4 but days of time, unless you want the mediator to just have a
5 30,000-foot view. And I mean, I just cannot imagine, --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: So, --

7 THE COURT: -- once again, that they would have days
8 and days to come up to speed with, you know, 11 years of 9 litigation or however long it was, not that long, with UBS,
10 you know the years with Acis, you know, the various alleged 11 claims and causes of action, and, you know, the Byzantine 12 structure here. I mean, you know, not that they have to be,
13 you know, as educated as a judge presiding over litigated
14 matters, but I just cannot imagine they could meaningfully
15 spend time on this.

16 So what are you all envisioning? Because I know what I'm 17 envisioning, and maybe we're not seeing it the same way. I
18 mean, what are you thinking? That you'll go in and spend a 19 day with, you know, maybe just each of you doing a 25-page
20 white paper, and you'll either settle it by the end of the day
21 or not, or what?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: So, let me start by saying that when 23 everyone raised the issue of Judge Jones and Isgur, everyone
24 had the same potential concern that Your Honor has mentioned.
25 You know, my firm and me personally, I'm involved in a couple

1 of cases before Judge Jones now, significant cases. So there
2 was a concern.

3 I think people also generally thought that if they 4 accepted and they knew what they were getting into, they would
5 want to do a good job and they'd have the time.

6 We have not had the ability to have an extensive
7 discussion. That discussion could either occur with Mr.
8 Clemente and myself speaking to the clerk or the judge, or if 9 Your Honor -- nothing stops Your Honor from picking up the 10 phone, speaking to Judge Jones and asking him as well.

11 But I expect it to be a very intensive mediation process.
12 I do understand that Judge Jones only does mediations in 13 person, so this would require people getting to Houston,
14 which, in my experience, while I have participated in 15 mediations virtually on the phone, it's a lot more effective
16 to be in person. We would anticipate detailed mediation
17 briefs. We would envision each of the parties speaking to 18 Judge Jones to give him their perspective. But it would be --
19 it would be a significant assignment.

20 Again, whether we would conclude at the end of August, I
21 don't know, but I would contemplate a good two, three days of 22 in-person mediation at the end of August, and then probably,
23 if necessary, to set up for something else, which, again,
24 there are several different things. And I mentioned in my 25 opening remarks why I think people like Judge Jones -- and

1 this is also why we thought about Judge Isgur as well -- it's
2 not often you have two mediators, but two mediators,
3 especially judges who work together and who are pretty adept
4 at mediation, I mean, you know, having a bankruptcy judge be a
5 mediator is fine, but Judge Jones and Isgur, they have done a
6 lot of that, and I understand have continued to do that,
7 notwithstanding themselves getting busy.

8 So I can't answer Your Honor's question of whether they 9 know what they are getting themselves into. I would hope that 10 by, again, a combination, or Mr. Clemente and I speaking to 11 them or Your Honor speaking to them, they would understand.
12 And if they are willing to do it -- obviously, Highland is a
13 high-profile case; I know judges, sitting judges, often like
14 to help out their brethren who are sitting on the bench. So 15 if they are ready and able to do it, we'd think we'll have 16 lucked out, and we think they would be great to aid the 17 process.

18 If for some reason they don't really appreciate or if 19 Judge Jones doesn't appreciate what it is, then we can go back
20 to square one, and, you know, I'm sure find other people as 21 well. But we'd like to sort of give it a shot.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. BJORK: Your Honor?

24 THE COURT: Yes?

25 MR. BJORK: May I be heard? This is Jeff Bjork with

1 Latham, hi, on behalf of UBS. I apologize. I just wanted to
2 say that, from our perspective, we have concern, we raised
3 this concern about Judge Jones or Isgur having the time to 4 really evaluate the claims. I mean, as you noted, our claim
5 is complex, to say the least. So is Acis's. There's a lot of 6 history behind it.

7 And so while we appreciate the fact that there is a
8 mediation process that will be moving forward, we have raised
9 the prospect of having a separate mediator like Dan Weinstein
10 or someone of that ilk to serve as a mediator with respect to 11 our claim dispute, with the goal of trying to advance that in 12 advance of August.

13 So we have put that out to the Debtors. We raised that 14 today in advance of this hearing. We're happy to progress
15 that discussion. But I wanted you to understand, from our 16 perspective, we share your concern.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone else?

18 MR. POMERANTZ: So, just on that, Your Honor, --

19 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: -- you know, we understood UBS's
21 view. We believe each of the other Committee members and the 22 Committee believe Judge Jones would be the appropriate person.
23 And, again, I think we're all I think somewhat in the dark
24 here, and I think the next step is to really find out the time
25 that they have available to devote to it. And, again, if they

1 have the time to devote to it, I don't think Mr. Bjork could 2 challenge that Judge Jones would be an excellent mediator and
3 excellent to resolve a complicated issue like the UBS claim.

4 THE COURT: Uh-huh. But you all cannot go down to 5 Houston live anytime in the near future. I don't know if 6 you're reading. Houston is pretty much like New York was two
7 months ago. It's -- well, the death rate is not as terrible
8 because it's younger people getting it, but it's the hotspot
9 for coronavirus right now. And --

10 MR. POMERANTZ: And we understand that, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: And, again, you know, we're sitting 13 here on July 8th. A lot could change by August 25th. A lot
14 couldn't change. I'm not, you know, I'm not sure there are 15 other places in the country people like to travel to more. I
16 mean, you know, --

17 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: -- there are several places that are 19 hotspots. It may be challenging to do an in-person mediation.
20 I know on the Debtor's side we are committed to make it
21 happen. I might just ask Ms. Patel if she has the number of 22 the RV company she was going to -- because maybe that's an 23 appropriate way to get there.

24 THE COURT: All right. So, well, let's see. I was 25 going to say you'd be quarantined 14 days after, but you're in

1 California, not New York. New York, you know, has quarantined
2 --

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes.

4 THE COURT: -- people traveling from Texas. Well,
5 and remind me: August 25th. That was just sort of an
6 internal target date you all had created?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Yeah. It was around, you know,
8 again, the end of August, you know, that we'd, you know, do
9 around that time.

10 THE COURT: Uh-huh. All right. You know, I'm -- 11 I've been talking to lawyers in different cases, where the 12 topic of mediation is being discussed, about more and more
13 mediators, and this is private mediators, are becoming very 14 adept with Zoom mediation. And what I thought was noteworthy
15 -- I hadn't thought through this, you know. I thought, well,
16 you can do mediation like this. You know, if you can do court
17 by video, why can't you do mediation by video, what's the big 18 deal? But there are private mediators who apparently have 19 become every adept very fast at having these separate caucus
20 rooms, okay? So when you have mediation involving, you know,
21 12 different constituencies, you know, the mediator will close
22 out all the other conference rooms and go to these three 23 people, and then close that out and go to these eight people
24 in this other room. And it just really hadn't occurred to me
25 that, oh, if you're not live and in person, how do you that,

1 you know, the going back and forth from room to room? And 2 they've got some tricks worked out where some of them are 3 doing that. And I just don't know that any sitting judges are 4 going to have that all worked out.

5 I have a couple of names in mind. And I have not talked
6 to either of these folks, but I had thought of these people.
7 You know, they're going to cost you money. They're not going 8 to be free mediators like Judge Jones and Judge Isgur. But 9 two people. One, I had thought of retired Judge Jim Peck. I
10 don't know if he has availability, or, you know, a conflict or 11 anything like that, but he's someone I happened to have gone
12 to baby judge school with back in 2006, and, you know, have 13 somewhat of a friendship with him. And I thought of him
14 because not only does he have a personality that I think might 15 fit this situation, but, as you know if you ever had a case
16 with him, I mean, he's just so very smart. You know, he dealt 17 -- handled the Lehman case. You know, he's not going to be -- 18 he'll be a very quick study, is what I'm thinking, as far as 19 whatever factual background he would need to assemble to get 20 up to speed.

21 And, again, I just worry -- and I'm going to get on the 22 phone and talk to Judge Jones and Judge Isgur -- but I'm just 23 really worried if they will devote the amount of time for this 24 to have a meaningful shot at settling.

25 Another name I thought of is a lawyer in Houston who was

1 at Weil Gotshal many years, Sylvia Mayer. I don't know if any 2 of you know her, but she pretty much does mediation and
3 arbitration full-time now, and she is one of the people I am
4 aware has mastered this Zoom separate conference rooms. So,
5 once again, you know, a very quick study, I think, my 6 impression from past dealings with her.

7 There may be many other names we could add to that list,
8 but you might want to all kind of talk offline about those as 9 well.

10 But here's what I want to do.

11 (Audio interruption.)

12 THE COURT: Was someone wanting to speak up?

13 Okay. I am going to think on this more between now and 14 the 14th. And, again, I'm going to be reaching out to Isgur
15 and Jones, and might reach out to Jim Peck and Sylvia Mayer as 16 well, just to have a lot of options out there. And then we'll 17 talk on the 14th about what my research has revealed in 18 talking to these folks.

19 So, everyone, just let's continue to think on this 20 mediation thing. But, again, I want this to be meaningful.
21 I'm very worried that, you know, if all you get is one day,
22 even a long day, with these folks, that it's just not at all 23 realistic that there would be a chance at settling. So I've 24 really got to think on this.

25 As far as the motions before the Court, I'm going to grant

1 the motion to extend exclusivity for 30 days. Okay? So,
2 August 12th. And no potential add-ons for two 30-day
3 additional extensions, which, you know, the mechanism, I think
4 you were hoping not to have to come back to the Court, that if
5 the Committee agreed, you know, you could just automatically
6 get up to 90 days. I'm not quite clear. But the point is I'm 7 just extending to August 12th, and for now that's all I'm 8 going to do. Okay?

9 MR. POMERANTZ: Understood, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: And we didn't talk about the other 11 motion. That was sort of a no-brainer, I think, as far as 12 everyone was probably concerned, the motion to extend the 13 period to remove actions. The current deadline is July 14th.
14 You're wanting to extend that out to January 14th, 2021,
15 correct?

16 MR. POMERANTZ: Correct, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: All right. Is there anyone who wanted to 18 say anything about that one?

19 (No response.)

20 THE COURT: All right. So that -- I think there's 21 good cause to grant that motion as well.

22 The only other thing --

23 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, one --

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: One comment on what Your Honor said

1 about mediation. Again, I had a dialog with Albert, Judge
2 Jones' clerk. We may want to get him on the phone, Mr.
3 Clemente and I. Of course, we won't do it if Your Honor
4 doesn't think it's helpful. But it might be helpful. And,
5 again, I didn't know if that was going to be with Judge Jones
6 or if it was going to be with just his clerk, to talk about 7 days or whatnot.

8 But we'd be happy to get on the phone in order to give him
9 the parties' perspective, which, look, we all agree this has 10 to be a meaningful mediation. And perhaps hearing it also 11 from us in terms of what we expect and what we contemplate and 12 what we think the issues might be and whatnot could be 13 helpful.

14 If Your Honor doesn't want us to do that, that's fine.
15 But since I suspect his clerk will get back to me and say "Are 16 you available?" to Mr. Clemente and I, I just didn't want to 17 step on any toes and I wanted to check with Your Honor whether 18 you want us to take that call or not.

19 THE COURT: Okay. I got a little confused. You're 20 asking for a blessing to kind of continue the dialogue you've 21 already started with their offices?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: Well, I'm just asking. Again, I
23 don't want to be presumptuous.

24 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

25 MR. POMERANTZ: The fact that Your Honor is calling

1 Judge Jones is important. But I expect Judge Jones' clerk to 2 get back to us and say, "Are you available to have a
3 conversation?" And I just want to know what Your Honor's
4 pleasure is in terms of whether we should have it or not. I
5 think it might be helpful, but if Your Honor says, okay,
6 you've brought it here, you want to take it over from here, I
7 would obviously respect that. But just, just wanted to come
8 out of this hearing clear on what your expectations are in 9 terms of that communication.

10 THE COURT: Okay. I'll take it from here. And if 11 they call back, just say, you know, I understand Judge
12 Jernigan is going to be calling Judge Jones directly. And so
13 -- but I'll get on the phone this afternoon, so hopefully 14 there won't be any awkwardness on that.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right. Anything else?

17 The only other thing I was going to tie back to is I fully 18 expect that there would be across-the-board agreement to abate
19 the Acis newly-filed adversary, so I hope I would -- I don't 20 even remember who all the defendants are, but please make that 21 a priority, talking about that in the next few days, and 22 report to me on that on the 14th. Okay? Ms. Patel?

23 MS. PATEL: From Acis's perspective, yes, Your Honor,
24 will do. I'm on -- I'm all over it.

25 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, if there's

1 nothing else, we'll go ahead and adjourn for today. And I'll 2 keep -- if there's anything worthwhile to report on the 3 mediation front before we have our hearing on the 14th, I'll 4 have my courtroom deputy reach out to all counsel by email and 5 let you know. Okay? All right.

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

7 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Thank you. We stand adjourned.

9 THE CLERK: All rise.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - AUGUST 19, 2020 - 9:36 A.M.

2 THE COURT: Status conference in the Highland case
3 regarding the Acis proof of claim objection. I know we have 4 lots of folks on the video or phone this morning. I'm sure
5 not all of them are planning to participate. So I'm going to 6 do a roll call of those I think will definitely participate,
7 and then we'll open it up for anyone else who might wish to 8 make an appearance.

9 Mr. Pomerantz, I see you back. You're appearing for 10 Highland this morning?

11 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes, I am back, Your Honor, along 12 with Ira Kharasch from Pachulski Stang on behalf of the 13 Debtors.

14 THE COURT: All right.

15 MR. KHARASCH: Good morning, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Good morning. We're glad to see you. We 17 heard you were under the weather with something last time, so
18 we're glad that you look perfectly fine today.

19 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you very much, Your Honor.
20 Glad to be back.

21 THE COURT: All right. Now, I think I see Brian Shaw
22 there for Acis, correct? Mr. Shaw?

23 MR. SHAW: Yes. Yes, Your Honor. Brian Shaw on 24 behalf of Acis.

25 THE COURT: All right. I see Ms. Montgomery's name

1 up there for the Committee, correct?

2 MS. MONTGOMERY: (no audible response)

3 THE COURT: All right. I'm not hearing her. Let me
4 explain a couple things. I may have explained this in a
5 Highland matter before, or maybe not. With these video/audio
6 hearings, what we often do when we have dozens of people
7 participating is we here at the Court will mute everyone's
8 line when we're starting to hear distortion here or there.
9 And so you may not think you have muted yourself, and you'll 10 be correct; we have muted you. So if we can't hear you, we'll 11 need you to make sure you take yourself off mute.

12 And let me explain one more thing that I think people
13 might not be aware of. If you merely call in, okay, you don't 14 do WebEx where you can do video or audio, if you phone-call 15 in, to unmute yourself you need to press *6. Okay? So, we 16 have finally learned that people perhaps don't see that part
17 of the instructions or are not aware of that. So, to unmute
18 yourself if you are merely calling in, that's how you do it.

19 Okay. So, with that, I'll tell -- I'll say, Ms.
20 Montgomery, if you appeared, we did not hear you, so do you
21 want to try again?

22 MS. MONTGOMERY: I'm here, Your Honor, but I don't 23 intend to be participating actively. I think I'm mostly 24 listening today.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. Thank you.

1 All right. I think I see Mr. Bonds there for Mr. Dondero.

2 Is that correct?

3 MR. BONDS: Yes, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clubok, are you appearing
5 today for UBS?

6 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor. Andrew Clubok.

7 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning. All right. Anyone

8 --

9 MR. ANNABLE: Good morning.

10 THE COURT: Anyone else who wishes to appear

11 regarding this matter today?

12 MS. PATEL: Good morning, Your Honor. Rakhee Patel
13 on behalf of Acis.

14 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Anyone else?

15 MR. ANNABLE: Good morning, Your Honor. Zachery
16 Annable of Melissa Hayward as local counsel to the Debtor.

17 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Anyone else?

18 MS. MASCHERIN: Good morning, Your Honor. Terri
19 Mascherin; Jenner & Block; on behalf of the Redeemer Committee
20 of the Highland Crusader Fund.

21 THE COURT: All right. Good morning, Ms. Mascherin.
22 Anyone else?

23 All right. Well, Mr. Pomerantz or Mr. Kharasch, do you
24 want to start us out this morning? We continued this hearing
25 once already. And I think we talked about getting some sort

1 of written stipulation hopefully on file prior to this status
2 conference. I haven't seen it. So tell me where things
3 stand.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: Sure, Your Honor. This is Jeff
5 Pomerantz.

6 Over the last couple of weeks, Mr. Kharasch and I have had 7 multiple calls with counsel for Acis, Mr. Shaw and Ms. Patel,
8 to try to arrive at what we thought was an appropriate way to 9 proceed with the claim objection.

10 If Your Honor has looked at our claim objection even 11 briefly, you know it's in excess of 60 pages, and the response
12 is 70 pages, and that follows on a complaint that Acis had 13 filed. So there are a lot of issues that are dealt with in 14 the objection and are dealt with in the reply, and the hope
15 was that we would come to an agreement, which I think we have,
16 on how we should proceed, subject to, obviously, Your Honor's
17 acceptance.

18 The next hearing on the Acis objection, the objection to 19 Acis' claim, is currently scheduled for September 17th. And 20 as Your Honor is aware, we have mediation dates set with Judge 21 Gropper and Ms. Mayer for August 27th to September 4th, in the 22 hope of resolving not only the Acis claim, the UBS claim, as 23 well as other matters in the case.

24 Given the mediation and given that the parties -- at least
25 Acis and the Debtor -- believe that the best way to proceed

1 and narrow the issues is by cross-motions for summary
2 judgment, we would propose the following: We propose that we
3 would have the September 7th -- 17th date merely as a status
4 conference. That by September 16th, both Acis and the Debtor
5 would file cross-motions for summary judgment on the issues
6 that each of them believe are ripe for adjudication as a
7 matter of law by Your Honor and are not subject to disputed
8 facts.

9 Those motions would be filed according to the Local Rules
10 and the Bankruptcy Rules, and we would seek a hearing before 11 Your Honor on the summary judgment motions during the week of 12 October 19th.

13 During the interim, after the motions are filed, and even 14 before, we are going to work with Acis' counsel to see if we 15 can agree on a set of stipulated facts that would be used for 16 both the Debtor's summary judgment motion and Acis' summary
17 judgment motion.

18 And then, after the Court rules on the summary judgment
19 motions, whether that's at the hearing during the week of the 20 19th or thereafter, I think it's the Debtor and Acis' desire 21 to move expeditiously to a trial on the remaining issues. And 22 at least from the Debtor's perspective at that point, based 23 upon whatever Your Honor's rulings are or whatever is 24 remaining, we would be in a better position to assess what 25 type of discovery or what type of timing.

1 But rest assured, I think one thing that Acis and the
2 company and the Debtor agree on is we would like to, if we
3 can't resolve the matter by mediation, if Your Honor's rulings
4 on summary judgment don't facilitate resolution of the matter,
5 I think both sides would want to move expeditiously towards a
6 resolution through trial of any remaining factual issues.

7 So, essentially, we're asking for the 17th to be a status
8 conference and letting Your Honor know that we would both 9 intend to file cross-summary judgment motions by the 16th and 10 seek a hearing before Your Honor the week of the 19th of 11 October.

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, that sounds like a good
13 game plan to me, assuming this does not get worked out in 14 mediation.

15 I'll start by asking Ms. Patel or Mr. Shaw, will you weigh 16 in and confirm that that is how you all would like to proceed
17 as well?

18 MS. PATEL: Yes. Rakhee Patel for the record, Your 19 Honor, on behalf of Acis.

20 Yes, that's -- we are generally amenable to that -- to the 21 proposal as Mr. Pomerantz set forth. Obviously, any summary
22 judgment motion would need to be in compliance and the process
23 needs to be in compliance with 9014 and Rule 7056, and I think
24 that's the general basis of the agreement.

25 One thing that I would highlight, Your Honor, and I think

1 the parties have been consistent about this since the July
2 21st hearing, is that -- is, as Mr. Pomerantz identified, that
3 we would like to move this expeditiously to trial.

4 It is Acis' desire and our -- it was our expectation,
5 certainly, going into discussions on the process with Highland
6 and its counsel that hopefully the claim would be heard either
7 prior to or simultaneous with confirmation. So, and I know
8 that that brings in sort of a different issue, given the 9 posture of where we are right now with it being a claim
10 objection rather than an adversary proceeding. That is -- I
11 would like to reiterate sort of Acis' hope that this can all 12 be -- if it can't be resolved by agreement, that it would be 13 resolved before or simultaneous with confirmation of the plan,
14 any plan, in Highland's bankruptcy case.

15 One additional note just with respect to the discovery
16 point. Again, Acis is amenable to the summary judgment
17 process, but I think once mediation concludes -- and, again,
18 assuming mediation is not successful and that we are going to 19 nevertheless need to move forward with either a summary
20 judgment process or, frankly, preparations for trial -- in 21 order to keep with that timeline, I do think discovery is 22 going to need to commence shortly after mediation. And we can 23 talk and I'm always amenable and happy to talk with counsel
24 for Highland with respect to some reasonable discovery
25 limitations.

1 You know, we're not looking to -- we're not looking to
2 pile on with respect to discovery, Your Honor, but we are in a
3 situation where, at least vis-à-vis the claims as set forth in 4 the complaint, there has -- there was potential discovery that 5 was conducted during the course of Acis' bankruptcy case, but 6 there is still a significant amount of discovery that needs to 7 be done. It is not -- it is not a mountain of discovery, but 8 there is enough discovery I think that needs to be done that 9 it should commence in September, again, assuming that 10 mediation is unsuccessful.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.
13 Just a couple of points in response to Ms. Patel.

14 As I indicated, the Debtor desires to move this forward as 15 quickly as possible. We do have a hearing on the Debtor's
16 disclosure statement scheduled for September 29th. This 17 summary judgment motion would be set, if it's consistent with 18 your Court's calendar, the week of October 19th.

19 I'm not sure whether it's going to be feasibly possible,
20 if we stay on our current timeline for plan confirmation, to 21 have a trial in advance. But, again, as I've indicated
22 before, after Your Honor rules on the summary judgment motions
23 we will get together, figure out what remains to be litigated,
24 and we will try to litigate it as expeditiously as possible.
25 We just can't commit that, given the uncertainty on how the

1 summary judgment motion is going to go and given the current
2 plan timeline, to say that it'll be -- that we'll be in a
3 position to actually have a trial before confirmation.

4 With respect to discovery, there's nothing, obviously,
5 before Your Honor, but I would submit, Your Honor, that, given
6 that there's going to be pending cross-motions for summary
7 judgment that may or may not be opposed on the basis of the 8 existence of material issues of fact, that it would seem to us
9 to be a little premature to start discovery because I don't 10 think the parties will really know the extent to which 11 discovery will be necessary until after Your Honor rules on 12 the summary judgment motions.

13 So, obviously, there's nothing before Your Honor now. To 14 the extent there is discovery served and to the extent we 15 believe it's appropriate, that that be deferred until after 16 the hearings on summary judgment. We could come back to Your 17 Honor. To the extent it's something that we could work with 18 counsel and provide some discovery and not have it be 19 burdensome and be the cart before the horse, in our view, we 20 will do so. But just wanted to let Your Honor know we are not 21 necessarily agreeable that we should start discovery back and 22 forth, assuming mediation is not successful. But, again, we 23 can cross that bridge when we come to it.

24 THE COURT: All right.

25 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, if I may, briefly.

1 I hear Mr. Pomerantz on his point with respect to the 2 disclosure statement. I would note, however, that, as it
3 stands right now, Acis has an objected-to claim, so for 4 purposes of plan voting, we're, at a minimum, if we can't have 5 the claim objection heard prior to confirmation, we're at 6 least going to have a claim estimation hearing. So, and which 7 I would anticipate that, again, we would still need some 8 amount of discovery.

9 I think -- I always want to make sure that I'm 10 foreshadowing at least issues with respect to my presentation
11 to the Court, so I do just want to put this on the Court's 12 radar. I'm not sure that it's necessarily an issue that needs
13 to be decided necessarily today, but these are the issues that 14 we certainly have coming down the pike.

15 THE COURT: All right. Before I comment on these 16 issues, is there anyone else who wishes to be heard? For 17 example, Mr. Bonds, I cannot remember now off the top of my 18 head, was it a joinder in the Debtor's objection or did you
19 have separate arguments with regard to objecting to Acis'
20 proof of claim?

21 MR. BONDS: We had an objection as well, Your Honor.
22 And we perceive that we will be trying to mediate with the 23 Debtor and with Ms. Patel. And if we're unsuccessful, we'll 24 have to approach the Court for guidance.

25 THE COURT: All right. So, for now, you're content

1 to be sort of left out of this mini-scheduling order and you
2 don't anticipate the summary judgment process applying to you?

3 MR. BONDS: No, Your Honor, we do not.

4 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Have I covered
5 everyone who has an interest in this? Ms. Mascherin, Mr.
6 Clubok, you know, you're just observing? You care very much
7 how this issue turns out as far as the size of Acis' proof of 8 claim, but you all have not filed an objection on behalf of 9 your clients, correct?

10 MS. MASCHERIN: That's correct, Your Honor.

11 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, Andrew Clubok. We -- UBS
12 has filed an objection. And we -- we've preserved that. We 13 have no problem with the schedule that was outlined in terms
14 of their cross-motions for summary judgment. But we,
15 depending on, I suppose, whether our points are covered in 16 those motions, we would, you know, reserve the right to be 17 heard. I do expect -- I would assume those points will be 18 covered in the cross-motions for summary judgment.

19 THE COURT: All right. So, do you want to be 20 included in this sort of mini-scheduling order at this 21 juncture? Do you anticipate filing your own motion for 22 summary judgment?

23 MR. CLUBOK: We don't anticipate filing a motion for 24 summary judgment.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. CLUBOK: I suppose, if there's -- it sounds like
2 the parties -- we had not heard about this proposal until just
3 now, so it sounds like the parties are going to bring cross-
4 motions for summary judgment and no responses. I suppose, if 5 that's the process, we're fine not adding additional paper.
6 We would reserve the right, if possible, to be heard at a
7 hearing if our objections are not dealt with in those cross-
8 motions. I suppose that's a way to deal with it.

9 Also, in the course of the mediation, I assume we'll find
10 out more, and possibly, if it becomes clearer that there is a 11 clean issue that's not being addressed for some reason by the 12 parties that we feel a need to address, we could file our own
13 cross-brief.

14 I'm trying to think through, you know, on the fly here
15 about how to just preserve the right to say something,
16 although I think it's unlikely we will need to in that 17 process.

18 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me back up and 19 clarify my understanding. I thought that I heard one of you
20 say -- Mr. Pomerantz, I think -- that the Local Rules would 21 apply to the motions for summary judgment. And what I was 22 interpreting that to mean is responses could be filed to 23 motions for summary judgment in, you know, in a 21-day time
24 frame, and then maybe replies thereafter on a 10-day time
25 frame.

1 But am I creating more work here than you anticipated on
2 that?

3 MR. POMERANTZ: No, you are correct, Your Honor. We 4 would follow the Local Rules and be able to respond as 5 provided in the Local Rules.

6 THE COURT: All right. So, --

7 MS. PATEL: And that's Acis' understanding as well,
8 Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Okay. So, --

10 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. Well, then, if --

11 THE COURT: Go ahead. Mr. Clubok?

12 MR. CLUBOK: Well, I was going to say, if that's the 13 case, perhaps the parties would just agree that we will not 14 file anything. If we feel like there's a need to address our 15 objection after seeing the two cross-motions, we'll file it on 16 the deadline for the response, and that way either side could 17 reply. I doubt that will happen, but in case we have a need
18 for it, we'll preserve that opportunity, if that's acceptable
19 to everybody.

20 THE COURT: All right. That --

21 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, we would --

22 THE COURT: That sounds fair to me. Anyone want to 23 argue differently?

24 MR. BONDS: Your Honor, I'm not arguing differently,
25 but I would like the same opportunity for Mr. Dondero.

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, you know. Pomerantz,
2 Patel, either of you have any opposition to that? It sounds
3 fair to me, since they have filed their own objections.

4 MR. POMERANTZ: No opposition from the Debtor, Your
5 Honor.

6 MS. PATEL: No opposition from Acis, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me first see what
8 we can give you the 19th. I think you've picked a good week,
9 because that's normally our trial week, and we would not have 10 set a trial yet since we haven't had the trial docket call for 11 that week.

12 (Pause.)

13 THE COURT: All right. We can give you October 20th,
14 9:30.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Did you say 9:30, Your Honor?

16 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: October 20th at 9:30.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes. That would be fine, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Ms. Patel?

20 MS. PATEL: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Okay. So that's a Tuesday. Tuesday,
22 October 20th, at 9:30.

23 All right. Well, I don't want to address discovery at 24 this juncture, and I don't want to address the ultimate trial
25 setting.

1 I think, you know, Ms. Patel, you've already announced
2 that there has been a lot of discovery and you don't think you
3 would need a "mountain of discovery." So I think what we'll
4 do, if you tell me on October 20th -- which, fingers crossed,
5 I hope I can rule promptly. As you know, I have a lot of 6 familiarity with the original complaint, the adversary filed
7 by Acis. I'm not, you know, well-schooled yet in all of the 8 objections that have been filed yet. But if I can -- what we 9 will do, I will either rule on the 20th orally from the bench,
10 with a written ruling to come, or I'll tell you I need, you
11 know, some time. But we will address on the 20th discovery
12 needs, and I will anticipate allowing expedited discovery at 13 that point, if we have discovery needs, okay, so that we could 14 have a trial setting as soon as possible.

15 I don't know yet how that would coincide with 16 confirmation.

17 Ms. Patel, you're absolutely right that, at a minimum,
18 we'd need an estimation hearing before ballots and whatnot
19 could be counted. And so at this juncture I'd be highly 20 inclined to just want to do an actual claim allowance hearing, 21 if you're going to go through all that trouble of an
22 estimation hearing.

23 So, we're just going to have to figure out the timing of 24 all of this on October 20th. Whether I rule that day or not,
25 we'll leave that setting with a game plan on expedited

1 discovery and a hearing on -- you know, the trial, I should
2 say -- on the claim objection.

3 So, part of my reason for wanting this to remain silent
4 for now is, as you can imagine, I want everyone to be fully 5 focused on the mediation right now. I want everyone to give 6 it one hundred percent of their effort, without having 7 distractions of discovery and gearing up for whatever type of 8 trial we have.

9 So, I'm going to ask -- well, I'll ask, Mr. Pomerantz,
10 your team to be the scrivener on this very short partial 11 scheduling order, if it could just be consistent with 12 everything that's been announced here today.

13 Any last-minute housekeeping issues on this?

14 MR. POMERANTZ: None from the Debtor, Your Honor. We 15 will prepare the order.

16 THE COURT: All right. And, obviously, give Ms.
17 Patel, Mr. Bonds, and Mr. Clubok an opportunity to review it
18 and comment. But it should be short and sweet, and I would 19 think there wouldn't be any room for much controversy on it.
20 Okay?

21 MR. POMERANTZ: Absolutely.

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Well, you know, I don't know if good luck
25 is the right expression for the upcoming mediation, but I

1 trust you're all going to give it your strongest effort. It
2 would obviously be a wonderful outcome here if it's fruitful
3 mediation. All right? So, thank you. We're adjourned.

2 THE COURT: A little bit of a wait. I was trying to
3 make sure I was caught up on all of the late-day filings
4 yesterday. There were a few of them.

5 All right. This is Judge Jernigan, and we're ready to 6 start our setting in Highland Capital Management, Case No. 19-
7 34054. We have two motions set today where the Debtor is 8 seeking approval for compromise and settlement agreements, one
9 with Acis and related parties and one with Redeemer Committee
10 and the Crusader Fund.

11 All right. We have 70 or so people on the line, so we 12 have put you all on mute. But I am going to now take a roll
13 call, so you'll have to take yourself off mute when I call
14 your name for an appearance.

15 All right. First, for the Debtor team, do we have Mr.
16 Pomerantz and a team of others? Would you appear at this
17 time?

18 MR. KHARASCH: Good morning, Your Honor. Ira
19 Kharasch of Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones on behalf of the 20 Debtor and Debtor-in-Possession.

21 I'd first like to let the Court know that Mr. Pomerantz is 22 on the phone in a listening mode. He will not be appearing 23 today as he's still recuperating from successful surgery last 24 week, but glad to say that he's improving daily and looking 25 forward to appearing in front of Your Honor again in the very 1 near future.

2 THE COURT: All right.

3 MR. KHARASCH: I have with me today John Morris as 4 well as Greg Demo.

5 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to all of you.
6 And we wish Mr. Pomerantz well.

7 All right. For the Redeemer Committee, Crusader Funds, do
8 we have a team appearing for them this morning? Go ahead.

9 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor. Terri Mascherin of 10 Jenner & Block. I'm appearing today on behalf of both The 11 Redeemer Committee of the Crusader Funds and also the Crusader
12 Funds, --

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. MASCHERIN: -- whose claim is likewise resolved
15 in the settlement.

16 With me today on the line are my partner Mark Hankin, and 17 Mark Platt of Frost Brown Todd.

18 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to all of you.

19 All right. For Acis, do we have Ms. Patel and others
20 appearing this morning?

21 MS. PATEL: Yes. Good morning, Your Honor. Rakhee
22 Patel on behalf of Acis Capital Management, LP, with the 23 Winstead firm. Also on the line is Brian Shaw of the Rogge
24 Dunn Group, also counsel for Acis and counsel for Mr. Terry.
25 I'll let him announce if he has additional parties.

1 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Shaw, are you there with 2 us?

3 MR. SHAW: (no response)

4 THE COURT: Okay. Maybe technical --

5 MS. PATEL: Brian, we can't hear you.

6 (No response.)

7 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Shaw, --

8 MS. PATEL: Well, --

9 THE COURT: -- we put -- the Court put everyone on 10 mute, so if you could take yourself off mute if you are trying 11 to appear. (No response.) Well, maybe we'll get him at some 12 point when -- if he wants to speak up.

13 All right. We have several objecting parties this 14 morning. I'll start with Mr. Dondero's counsel. Do we have 15 Mr. Lynn or someone from his team on the phone or on the 16 video?

17 MR. WILSON: Yes, Your Honor. This is John Wilson
18 with Bonds Ellis Eppich Schafer Jones, LLP. I am joined today
19 by John Bonds, Michael Lynn, and Bryan Assink.

20 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to all of you.
21 All right.

22 MR. WILSON: Thank you.

23 THE COURT: We had Patrick Daugherty as an objecting 24 party to the Acis settlement. Do we have Mr. Kathman and his 25 team?

1 MR. KATHMAN: Good morning, Your Honor. Jason
2 Kathman on behalf of Mr. Daugherty.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

4 All right. We had UBS objecting to the Redeemer
5 Committee/Crusader Fund settlement. Do we have Mr. Clubok or 6 others appearing for UBS?

7 MR. CLUBOK: Good morning, Your Honor. This is 8 Andrew Clubok from Latham & Watkins, LLP on behalf of UBS.
9 I'm here with Sarah Tomkowiak, who will actually be leading 10 the proceedings for us today, and also Kimberly Posin.

11 THE COURT: All right. Good morning to all of you.
12 We had a few reservation of rights type limited
13 objections, so I'll check now on these parties. CLO Holdco:
14 Do we have Mr. Kane or others appearing?

15 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. John Kane on behalf of 16 CLO Holdco, specifically related to the Acis settlement.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Kane.

18 All right. HCLO Funding: Do we have either Mr. Maloney
19 or Ms. Matsumora on the line?

20 MS. MATSUMORA: Yes, Your Honor. This is Rebecca 21 Matsumora from King & Spalding. And Mr. Maloney may be 22 joining us later, once we turn to the Acis settlement.

23 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

24 HarbourVest filed a limited objection to the Acis
25 settlement. Do we have Ms. Driver or others appearing for

1 HarbourVest?

2 MS. WEISGERBER: Good morning, Your Honor. Erica
3 Weisgerber from Debevoise & Plimpton appearing for HarbourVest
4 this morning.

5 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

6 All right. Well, I think I've covered all of the parties
7 who filed a pleading today. I suspect the Unsecured
8 Creditors' Committee is out there. Do we have someone 9 appearing for them?

10 MR. CLEMENTE: Good morning, Your Honor. Matthew 11 Clemente from Sidley Austin on behalf of the Unsecured
12 Creditors' Committee.

13 THE COURT: All right. Good morning, Mr. Clemente.

14 All right. Is there anyone else who wishes to appear that 15 I did not hear from?

16 All right. Well, Mr. Kharasch, do you want to start us
17 off this morning?

18 MR. KHARASCH: I would like to, Your Honor, just very 19 briefly, before I turn it over to my partner, John Morris.

20 As you know, Your Honor, we're down to two motions to 21 approve the separate settlements, one with Acis and Josh and 22 Jennifer Terry on the one hand, as well as the Redeemer
23 Committee and the Highland Crusader Funds on the other.

24 There's one significant update in the case that may come
25 up during today's proceeding, it may not, but it's that Mr.

1 James Dondero has resigned from his position where he held the
2 title of Portfolio Manager where he managed certain assets
3 under the direction of the Independent Directors, and all
4 actions were subject to the protocols and director oversight.

5 Here's how we'd like to proceed, Your Honor, today. John 6 Morris of our firm, senior bankruptcy litigator, will be the 7 one to primarily handle most aspects of the 9019 settlement
8 motions, including putting on the testimony of our CEO, Mr.
9 James Seery, and responding to the objections. However, Greg 10 Demo will deal with the response to the technical arguments
11 raised by Mr. Daugherty.

12 If that works with the Court, I would now turn the floor
13 over to John Morris to present the motions.

14 THE COURT: All right. Let me just ask one
15 clarification on the Dondero announcement. Does that mean he 16 has no role at all with the Debtor only, or does it mean he 17 has no role with the various affiliates out there as well?

18 MR. KHARASCH: Your Honor, certainly, I mean, I would 19 defer to Mr. Seery when he gets on the stand, --

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. KHARASCH: -- but there's no role with the 22 Debtor. In terms of the word affiliates, Your Honor, that 23 gets a little tricky in the Highland case. Certainly, you
24 know, it's no -- no role with the controlled entities,
25 Highland's -- the Debtor's controlled entities. But,

1 obviously, the word affiliates could spill over to other
2 entities that are truly managed and owned by Mr. Dondero or 3 his various companies.

4 THE COURT: Okay. I know folks tend to bristle when 5 I use that word affiliate. I know there's nuance in some 6 situations. But all right.

7 Well, let's go ahead, then, and hear from Mr. Morris. And 8 I'll just say right now I don't think I need lengthy opening
9 statements. I don't know if that was your intention, to go
10 straight to the evidence. Certainly, if people feel like 11 they've got to say a word or two, I'll let that happen, but 12 we've done our best to read all the pleadings so I don't 13 really think I need much of an opening statement. I'd rather 14 go to evidence pretty quickly. Mr. Morris?

15 MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. Can you hear 16 me?

17 THE COURT: I can. Uh-huh.

18 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS

19 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. John Morris from Pachulski
20 Stang Ziehl & Jones for the Debtor. Thank you for the 21 guidance, Your Honor. I'll probably cut considerably on what 22 I had been prepared to say, but I appreciate the time that the 23 Court has taken to review our papers. I know that we didn't 24 get them in until last evening, although they weren't
25 particularly voluminous.

1 We're really pleased to be here today, Your Honor. This
2 case has just recently passed its one-year anniversary. We're 3 here today, really, quite excited to resolve two of the most
4 contentious, litigious cases that the Debtor has faced, both
5 on a pre-petition basis, and frankly, in certain respects, on 6 a post-petition basis. These cases with Acis -- and Acis, in 7 particular, Your Honor, you're very familiar with, and I just 8 wanted to let the Court know that our plan here is to proceed
9 first with the Redeemer settlement.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: And so let me just say a few words about 12 that. (garbled) I've shared with all of the objecting
13 parties, so there's no surprise here. I think everybody is 14 prepared for the path that we're going to go down. I'd like 15 to do my short opening. Ms. Patel and Mr. Shaw may -- I
16 apologize, Ms. Mascherin may speak on behalf of the Redeemer
17 Committee. Somebody may speak on behalf of the Crusader
18 Funds. UBS, who is the only objecting party, may choose to 19 make an opening. And I'll call Mr. Seery. And I'll do my 20 direct of Mr. Seery. I've got just a few exhibits to put into 21 the record, and we expect to rest. And I'll leave it to Mr.
22 Clubok and the Latham firm to decide how they want to respond.

23 So, once that's completed, we will shift to the Acis
24 settlement. I would propose to proceed in the same manner,
25 with a very short opening, put Mr. Seery on the stand to

1 testify as to the issues and the facts relating to the Acis
2 settlement, and hopefully we'll be done.

3 THE COURT: All right. So, in both situations, Mr.
4 Seery would be the only witness for --

5 MR. KHARASCH: Yes.

6 THE COURT: -- the Debtor. And I guess with regard
7 to the UBS objection to the Redeemer Committee/Crusader Fund
8 settlement, there is a person that was identified for UBS:
9 Moentmann. I'm not sure if I'm saying that correctly. Are we 10 anticipating having him as a witness? I guess I need to hear
11 from Mr. Clubok, but --

12 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah. Yeah, I don't -- I don't --

13 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I think --

14 MR. CLUBOK: -- I'll speak.

15 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Good morning, Your Honor. This this 16 is Sarah Tomkowiak on behalf of UBS.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Good morning.

18 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes, we do intend to present Mr.
19 Moentmann as a witness today.

20 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm getting ahead on 21 this because what I want to know is, do people -- can people
22 give me a time estimate at least of your direct? Okay? I'm 23 trying to figure out, are we going to need to put any time
24 limitations, reasonable time limitations on witnesses?

25 Mr. Morris, you acted like Mr. Seery would be fairly quick

1 in both situations.

2 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, I would appreciate 10 minutes for 3 an opening, and then certainly no more than 30 but hopefully
4 closer to 20 minutes for direct.

5 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Tomkowiak, what do you
6 think as far as time?

7 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yeah. We would like about the same,
8 approximately 10 minutes for our opening and about 20 minutes
9 to cross-examine Mr. Seery. And then I expect that our direct 10 of Mr. Moentmann would take about the same amount of time.

11 THE COURT: All right . Well, I've got some loose
12 estimates. If you start going well beyond those estimates,
13 I'm going to kind of rein it in, but I think this all sounds
14 very reasonable.

15 All right. Mr. Morris, you may make your opening
16 statement.

17 MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much, Your Honor. What I
18 want to do with my opening is just describe at a very high 19 level what we expect the evidence to show today. The Court is 20 obviously familiar with the settlement terms, so I'm not going 21 to spend any time with that. They're set forth both in our 22 papers and in the agreement itself. The Court is familiar
23 with the legal standard. So I'd like to spend a few minutes
24 at the end talking about the UBS objection and why the Debtor
25 firmly believes that it ought to be overruled.

1 As Your Honor is aware, the Debtor had served as the
2 investment manager of the Crusader Funds. In 2008, following
3 the stock market and financial crisis, the Debtor put the 4 Crusader Funds into (garbled). Disputes arose among the 5 interest holders of the Crusader Funds, and they spent a few
6 years fighting among themselves. And a few years later, they 7 came up with a plan and scheme, pursuant to which the Redeemer
8 Committee was formed. The Redeemer Committee had the -- had 9 the right, the unfettered right to decide when, how, and 10 whether the Debtor would continue on as its financial manager.
11 And in the summer of 2016, it decided to terminate the 12 Debtor's position as investment manager.

13 An arbitration ensued. Litigation, frankly, throughout --
14 throughout numerous countries and numerous courts ensued.
15 There were two cases in Aruba, I believe. There was a case in 16 the Cayman Islands. There was a case filed in the Delaware
17 Chancery Court. You had the arbitration. So I think there
18 was litigation going on on five different fronts.

19 The parties spent two years in arbitration, engaged in 20 extensive discovery and motion practice. They had a nine-day
21 trial in September of 2018, and ultimately the panel issued an 22 award, and that award came in three parts. The first part was 23 called a partial final award, which was rendered in March of 24 2019. That was followed, I think, about eight days later with 25 a modification award. And finally, in May, they issued their

1 final award.

2 All three awards are attached to my declaration. They
3 have been offered into evidence under seal. The sealing order
4 has already been entered, and that sealing order, I think, is 5 also one of our exhibits. I'm not moving them into evidence
6 yet. We'll get to that point. But I just wanted Your Honor
7 to know that the arbitration awards are very much part of the 8 record.

9 That award, I don't think there's any dispute that,
10 pursuant to the award, the Debtor was obligated to pay
11 approximately $190 million. Shortly after the award was 12 filed, the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds moved to 13 have the arbitration award confirmed in the Delaware Chancery
14 Court, and Highland moved for partial -- for a partial 15 vacation of that award.

16 Notably, Highland did not challenge any of the Court --
17 any of the arbitration panel's factual findings. They didn't 18 challenge any substance of the award. But they raised a 19 number of procedural defects that primarily went to the 20 overarching argument that the partial final award should have 21 been treated as the final award, such that any relief granted
22 in the modification award and the actual final award was 23 impermissible.

24 I think UBS has calculated the value of the awards given
25 post those two documents as approximately $36 million.

1 So, you've -- the Redeemer Committee has filed their claim
2 in this case of $490 million. The Crusader Funds have filed a
3 separate proof of claim for approximately $23 million, if I
4 remember correctly. And their basis for the Crusader's Fund
5 claim is that they sued to claw back certain fees that had 6 been paid to Highland in its role as investment manager.
7 Admittedly, I think -- I don't want to speak for the Crusader
8 Funds -- but I do think they acknowledge that there is some 9 overlap in those amounts.

10 You will hear from Mr. Seery today. Mr. Seery will 11 describe for you what he and an independent board of directors
12 did to educate themselves about the scope, nature, and value
13 of the Redeemer Committee's claim. They will -- Mr. Seery
14 will discuss the extensive advice that the board was given
15 with respect to these matters. Mr. Seery will also describe 16 for you the extensive negotiations that took place between the 17 Debtor and representatives of the Redeemer Committee and the 18 Crusader Funds. You will hear about communications between 19 and among lawyers, communications between and among 20 principals.

21 I recall, Your Honor, back in June, when we I think first
22 alerted to the Court that we were negotiating the settlement, 23 you expressed some mild surprise, because, after all, this is 24 an arbitration award, so what -- what, in fact, was there to 25 settle? And it was a very fair point, and we appreciated the

1 fact that you didn't have visibility into the specifics. But 2 lo and behold, there were really -- let's just call them very
3 two -- two very large issues.

4 And Mr. Seery will describe this in more detail for the 5 Court so it's part of the evidentiary record, but the first 6 issue related to something called deferred fees. Pursuant to 7 the plan and scheme that were agreed upon, Highland was 8 entitled to recover its fees as investment manager only upon 9 the completion of the Crusader Funds' liquidation. But in the 10 early part of 2016, as the panel found, Highland had helped 11 itself to approximately $32 million in deferred fees, and that 12 was one of the claims that the Crusader Fund and the Redeemer
13 Committee brought in the arbitration, and the arbitration
14 required that Highland return that $32 million plus interest.

15 So why is that an issue now in the settlement? It's an 16 issue because the Debtor chose a different path. Rather than 17 paying that money now and waiting for some time in the future
18 to seek to collect that money, it compromised. And it's a
19 very reasonable and fair and rational compromise, Your Honor.
20 They took two-thirds of the value of the deferred fee today
21 instead of having no settlement, continuing with the 22 litigation, having a fight on setoff issues, because 23 undoubtedly the Redeemer Committee would argue that they ought 24 to get paid a hundred-cent dollars. So we'd have another
25 litigation over setoff. We would have to wait until the

1 completion of the Crusader Funds' liquidation before we could
2 even make a demand for the deferred fee. And as Your Honor
3 knows, the Crusader Funds are going to have and the Redeemer
4 Committee will have an allowed claim in this case, and that 5 claim won't be satisfied until all distributions are made, and 6 those distributions won't be completed until all estate claims
7 are pursued.

8 It may be many years before this happens. And so the 9 Debtor, I think rationally, chose to take two-thirds now
10 rather than fight over setoff issues, rather than wait what 11 would likely be many years to even apply for it. And then
12 once they did that, we'd be litigating over the Redeemer
13 Committee's faithless servant defense, one that, if you read
14 the -- if you read the partial final award, I think it's fair
15 to say there would be risk here that the Debtor would get 16 nothing on the deferred fee. So that was one big issue that 17 we dealt with.

18 The other one related to Cornerstone. Under the terms of 19 the final order by the Court -- the panel, not the Court, but 20 the panel -- but the panel found that Highland acted 21 improperly and was required to buy -- basically buy out the 22 Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds' interest in 23 Cornerstone. They would have been required to pay $48 million
24 to do that.

25 Again, issues of setoff would have abounded. And frankly,

1 the Debtor doesn't have the money to pay that, doesn't think
2 it's, frankly, worth that price.

3 So, instead, negotiations, very, very solid negotiations,
4 the Debtor chose to allow the Redeemer Committee and the 5 Crusader Funds to retain those Cornerstone shares and instead 6 give us a credit of $30.5 million against the gross value of 7 the arbitration award.

8 So the $190 million is reduced first by $21 million for 9 the deferred fee; then, second, by $30-1/2 million for the 10 Cornerstone issue.

11 How did they arrive at the $30.5 million figure? We'll 12 hear Mr. Seery testify about the diligence that he did and 13 about how he relied in substantial part on certain valuation
14 reports that the Debtor receives in the ordinary course of 15 business from Houlihan Lokey.

16 He will tell you that these reports are provided by 17 Houlihan for a fee. They're provided not just with respect to 18 Cornerstone but with respect to lots of other assets that the 19 Debtor either owns or manages.

20 He will tell you that the Debtor relies on the Houlihan
21 reports for setting the marks on their books and for all kinds
22 of other reasons.

23 We believe that that, again, is a perfectly rational
24 statement, and we want to emphasize to the Court that we're 25 not here today to tell you that this is the absolute best

1 result that the Debtor could obtain, because no settlement can 2 ever represent that.

3 Instead, this is a compromise, where everybody gives a
4 little and everybody gets a little. And within that context,
5 no expert that comes in here after having spent 20 or 30 hours
6 doing their own analysis should be able to upset this apple
7 cart. And that's what you're going to hear from UBS's expert.
8 This is the only point that they really make, is that he did
9 his analysis and he thinks that the value is higher. And I
10 don't think that's the corpus of Rule 9019. It's the Debtor's
11 judgment. Is what the Debtor doing fair and reasonable? Has 12 the Debtor engaged in a process to educate itself? Has the 13 Debtor thoughtfully gone through negotiations? Is there a 14 rational basis for where the Debtor is coming out with? There
15 is no question as to all of those things.

16 And so those are the two big adjustments. Mr. Seery will 17 tell you that there was one other more modest adjustment that 18 was made, another million dollars in favor of the Debtor. But 19 that is the evidence that we plan on presenting, Your Honor.

20 We think that there will be no dispute that this
21 negotiation was arm's length, it was not the product of fraud
22 or collusion, and that it is in the paramount interest of the 23 Debtor and its estates and all constituents that this 24 litigation with the Redeemer Committee finally be brought to 25 an end.

1 I have no further comment, unless you have any questions,
2 Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Thank you. I guess I should ask Ms.
4 Mascherin, before I go to Ms. Tomkowiak: Did you have 5 anything you wanted to say, as you represent the settling
6 party, obviously?

7 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor, I would appreciate
8 it if you'd allow me just a brief set of remarks.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE REDEEMER COMMITTEE

11 MS. MASCHERIN: The standard, of course, that governs
12 us today is a familiar standard under Fifth Circuit law. In 13 the Debtor's papers, the Debtor has cited to In re Cajun
14 Electric Power Co-Op, Incorporated, 119 F.3d 349, a Fifth
15 Circuit decision from 1997. And the Fifth Circuit tells us
16 that approval is to be given to a settlement if it is fair and 17 equitable and in the best interest of the estate. And the 18 Fifth Circuit has guided courts to consider such issues as 19 probability of success in litigation, taking into account any 20 uncertainties in fact and in law; the complexity and likely 21 duration of a litigated resolution of the dispute, and any 22 attendant expense, inconvenience, and delay; and other
23 factors, such as whether the settlement would be in the best 24 interest of all creditors and whether the settlement was the 25 result of arm's-length negotiation.

1 Your Honor, I would -- I will submit that after you hear
2 Mr. Seery's testimony, and even in light of the Debtor's -- or 3 UBS's, rather -- effort now to turn this into a valuation
4 dispute over Cornerstone, that the Court will agree that this 5 settlement was in the reasonable business judgment of the 6 Debtor and is in the best interest of the creditors.

7 Just very briefly, Your Honor, the current state of 8 affairs is that the Redeemer Committee holds an arbitration
9 award entitling it to almost $190 million in damages. As part 10 of that award, as Mr. Morris said, the Debtor is required to 11 pay $48 million in principal plus an additional $21 million in 12 pre-judgment interest to purchase the 42 percent minority
13 interest in Cornerstone that's held by the Crusader Fund.

14 In addition, under that award, the Redeemer Committee is 15 entitled to the cancellation of several limited partnership
16 interests in Crusader Funds which the panel found Highland 17 Capital Management had obtained by way of breaching the 18 Crusader Fund plan of liquidation and breaching its fiduciary 19 duties.

20 Only one small piece of that limited partnership interest
21 relief was challenged by the Debtor in the action to confirm 22 or vacate the award, and only one small piece of that, which 23 we'll refer to, I think, in arguments later, perhaps, is the 24 Barclay's claim for a limited partnership interest which 25 Highland transferred to its wholly-owned affiliate Eames,

1 E-A-M-E-S, is at issue in UBS's objection.

2 In addition to the relief that the Redeemer Committee was
3 granted in the arbitration award, Your Honor, the Crusader
4 Fund, as Mr. Morris says, has asserted its own separate claim
5 to claw back certain fees paid in the past to the Debtor and 6 also to avoid the payment of any further fees under what New 7 York law recognizes as the Faithless Servant Doctrine, which I
8 will submit there is ample findings in the arbitration awards
9 in this case of breaches of fiduciary duty, and New York law
10 holds that when a servant has been found to have breached its 11 fiduciary duties and acted unfaithfully, that servant is not 12 entitled to further compensation from the client -- in this 13 case, the Crusader Fund.

14 Now, all of that, as Mr. Morris notes, would be for 15 litigation many years from now upon complete liquidation of 16 the Crusader Fund, because the deferred fees that the Crusader
17 Fund would seek to avoid paying would not be payable in any 18 event unless and until the Fund -- the Crusader Fund was 19 completely liquidated, which, as Mr. Morris notes, could not 20 happen until this claim is fully paid, because this claim now
21 is -- will be the single largest claim -- the single largest 22 asset, rather -- of the Crusader Fund.

23 Your Honor, this compromise, this settlement, would be to 24 the benefit of the Debtor's estate for several reasons. First
25 and foremost, as Mr. Morris emphasized, it will end all

1 disputes between the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Fund
2 on one hand and Highland Capital Management, the Debtor, on 3 the other, and would provide for releases of the Debtor and 4 several of its affiliates and employees in connection with the
5 settlement.

6 As a net matter, this compromise would reduce the amount
7 of the Redeemer Committee's damages claim to an allowed claim
8 of just over $137 million, a reduction of over $54 million
9 from the amount of the arbitration award.

10 This settlement would also allow a very modest claim to 11 the Crusader Funds of only $15,000, Your Honor.

12 It would provide for the same relief as the arbitration
13 panel ordered with respect to the disputed limited partnership
14 interests, including the interests that is currently held by 15 the Debtor's wholly-owned affiliate, Eames.

16 And, significantly, it would also relieve the Debtor of 17 its obligation to purchase the shares of Cornerstone that are 18 held by the Crusader Fund -- as I mentioned, a 42 percent
19 minority interest in that company -- which otherwise, under 20 the terms of the award, the Debtor would be required to pay a
21 total of $79 million to acquire. As Mr. Morris said and as I
22 believe Mr. Seery will testify, the Debtor doesn't have that 23 kind of money and has no interest in buying those shares. The 24 Debtor is in liquidation, and its interest is in monetizing
25 the 58 percent majority interest that it owns or controls in

1 Cornerstone.

2 And significantly, Your Honor, to that end, this 3 settlement also includes an agreement by my clients, the 4 Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Fund, to cooperate with 5 the Debtor so that the Cornerstone asset, the company as a
6 whole, can be monetized jointly. And we've even agreed upon
7 some terms, which I won't get into because they are 8 confidential, given that this is an asset that the Debtor will 9 be seeking to deal with in the future, but under those terms,
10 faithfully cooperate and will attempt to achieve a 11 monetization that would bring in substantial value of what the 12 Debtor could otherwise achieve holding a 58 percent interest
13 rather than a 100 percent interest in that asset.

14 So, Your Honor, in sum, I submit that this settlement was 15 in the reasonable business judgment of the Debtor and it amply
16 meets the requirements for approval that the Fifth Circuit set
17 forth in In re Cajun Electric Power Co-Op. Thank you.

18 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

19 All right. Now I will go back to UBS. Ms. Tomkowiak? Am
20 I saying your name correctly? Correct me if I'm not.

21 MS. TOMKOWIAK: It's pretty close for a first try.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. TOMKOWIAK: It's Tomkowiak.

24 THE COURT: Tomkowiak? Okay. Thank you. You may 25 proceed.

1 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you, Your Honor. Before I
2 proceed, I did want to raise one housekeeping issue that 3 hopefully will not count against my time, but I think it's 4 important to resolve it before I do my opening statement.

5 As you just heard from both the Debtor and Redeemer's
6 counsel, part of the -- one of two very large issues in this 7 settlement relate to the value of Cornerstone, and 8 specifically the value of Crusader's ownership interest in 9 Cornerstone. The Debtor put -- assigned a value to that of 10 $30.5 million, and they put that in their papers, they filed
11 that in court, they've said it here again here today, and 12 they've said that Mr. Seery intends to testify as to the 13 diligence that he purportedly did in order to arrive at that 14 number.

15 We've, you know, received documents from the Debtor and 16 Redeemer showing the valuations that were alluded to. The 17 numbers in those valuations are substantially higher. Our own
18 expert has also performed his own analysis of the valuations, 19 and his own valuation analysis, and we would like to be able
20 to testify to those numbers and talk about them.

21 Frankly, we're surprised that the Debtor doesn't want to 22 put those valuations into evidence, considering that it is the 23 Debtor's burden to show that the settlement had some rational
24 basis, as they just said.

25 But, and we have previewed that to the Debtor, and they

1 have expressed their views that those values and those 2 valuation reports are confidential and should not be part of 3 the public record. We think that is prejudicial. We think it
4 is prejudicial to put the lowest of the low of any of these 5 ranges into the public record without also being allowed --
6 allowing us to put on evidence that the true valuation is, in 7 fact, much higher.

8 Again, they put into the record that the perceived fair
9 market value of this asset, which is critical and central to 10 our objection and to their -- the value of the settlement and 11 whether or not it's fair and equitable, they've put that into 12 the record, and we would like to be able to get evidence into 13 the record relating to that number and relating to our 14 analysis of it and why we believe it's well, you know, below
15 any range of reasonableness.

16 We don't think it's confidential. We think it should all
17 be part of the public record. We do not object if the Court
18 wishes to proceed in some other manner, such as, you know,
19 sealing the courtroom, although, again, that's not our 20 preference. We would prefer to just be able to talk about the 21 evidence and the numbers. But we would welcome your Court's 22 guidance on this. You know, I believe, and I won't speak for 23 the Debtor's counsel, but I believe that that is -- was their 24 preference.

25 MR. MORRIS: May I be heard, Your Honor?

1 THE COURT: You may.

2 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Your Honor, the reports that are
3 being referred to are reports that were provided on a
4 confidential basis. They're stamped confidential. They were 5 produced pursuant to the protective order.

6 I'm a little confused as to why no effort has been made to 7 deal with the issue prior to the last 12 hours or so, because
8 (garbled). They received the documents as confidential
9 documents. There's no question about that.

10 And the important point here, Your Honor, is why are they 11 marked confidential. It's one thing to disclose a settlement
12 number. It's very different to disclose the analyses. There 13 may be discounts. There may be adjustments. We're about to 14 embark, if this settlement is approved, the Debtor and the 15 Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds are about to embark 16 on a sales and marketing process. That part is known to the 17 public. But the value, if the value -- I'm stunned that UBS
18 is surprised that we care. There's probably not many things
19 that we care about more than maintaining the confidence of the 20 value -- of our perception of value, how we get there, the 21 methodologies that were employed, and particularly when we're 22 about to go into the marketplace. And we believe this 23 information really does need to be kept confidential for that 24 reason.

25 The option that I can think of, Your Honor, and I know it

1 may not be popular with everybody here, but there is only one
2 objecting party. There's nobody else here. You've got your 3 statutory committee. You've got the U.S. Trustee. They've 4 got statutory obligations to continue to be part of the 5 process. You've got UBS and you've got the Debtor. I would 6 respectfully request that this part of the proceeding be 7 limited, or at least the portion when their expert witness is 8 testifying, because -- well, be limited to those folks, and 9 everybody else just has to go off the line. That would be my 10 proposal, Your Honor.

11 If this information gets into the marketplace, not only 12 the Debtor but the other stockholders, including the Crusader
13 Funds, will be harmed.

14 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, may I speak?

15 THE COURT: You may.

16 MS. MASCHERIN: May I, just briefly?

17 THE COURT: You may.

18 MS. MASCHERIN: On behalf of the Crusader Funds and 19 the Redeemer Committee, Your Honor, I join in Mr. Morris's
20 objection. We have produced in discovery and UBS has included
21 on its exhibit list the independent third-party valuations
22 that the Crusader Fund has obtained, pursuant to strict
23 confidentiality obligations, with respect to the Crusader
24 Funds' shares in the Cornerstone asset, as well as highly 25 confidential portions of reports by the Crusader Funds'

1 manager to the Redeemer Committee concerning its opinions
2 regarding the value of that asset.

3 And we share the concern. And there should be a concern,
4 I think, Your Honor, with respect to anyone who cares about
5 the Debtor's ability to maximize the value of the Cornerstone
6 asset. The market should not see the confidential valuation
7 reports and other advice that the Debtor and my clients
8 considered when we negotiated this compromise.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Let me --

10 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, may I --

11 THE COURT: Let me think about --

12 MS. TOMKOWIAK: May I briefly make just a couple 13 points?

14 THE COURT: Well, just a minute. Let me think about 15 the mechanics here. I know there was a declaration of your 16 expert submitted ahead of time. Have you filed under seal --
17 I've granted lots of sealing motions and I'm losing track --
18 have you filed under seal a valuation report of your expert?

19 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, we have filed these 20 papers under seal, to be cautious. Again, we view that 21 differently than an open proceeding. These documents were on 22 our exhibit list. No one objected to them. Some of these 23 documents we did not have a chance to file because, although 24 we've been asking for them for a very long time, we've only 25 received them in the last, you know, 36, 24 hours.

1 So while some of them are under seal, there are other more
2 recent valuations that would not be. And, again, we have a
3 very different view here of what would or would not be harmful
4 to a sales process.

5 We believe it is incredibly more harmful and prejudicial
6 to have put in their motion, and I'm looking at it -- Page 10,
7 Paragraph 31 -- to say that there's a $30.5 million perceived
8 fair market value of Crusader's 42 percent ownership in 9 Cornerstone, and then not be able to put into the public
10 record all of the numbers in these, you know, secret
11 valuations that suggest that it should be much, much higher
12 than that. Substantially higher than that. Double, triple 13 higher than that.

14 So that's our view. And, you know, again, we're willing 15 to proceed as the Court wishes, but, you know, we have a very 16 different view of who's really being harmed here, and, you
17 know, we think it's the estate and we think it's us.

18 THE COURT: All right. Well, what I was thinking is,
19 because this is going to be mechanically cumbersome and we're 20 not going to have complete certainty about the integrity of 21 the process if I say everyone has to leave the call except 22 UBS, Redeemer, the Debtor, and the Committee, there's always a 23 risk of someone somehow slipping by, I'm wondering if we can 24 have your witness later and he can testify about the under-
25 seal document without -- I don't know, can we have testimony

1 with him just referring to page whatever for the Court to look
2 at, without saying the numbers out loud? Is that a ridiculous
3 thought, or is that possible, do we all think?

4 MS. TOMKOWIAK: That might be possible, Your Honor,
5 when it comes to our witness. And it might be possible to,
6 for example, share slides with you in advance with respect to 7 both my opening and our experts so that only you could see
8 them but then we would talk about them vaguely.

9 I do, you know, I hesitate because we'd also like to use
10 these documents potentially in our cross-examination of Mr.
11 Seery. Again, we literally got some of these, you know,
12 yesterday. And so I'm not sure that that's -- entirely solves
13 the problem.

14 I mean, one other suggestion is that we could pause here
15 and switch to the Acis claim and try in the meantime to work
16 something out. You know, we've already proceeded down this 17 road, though.

18 MS. LAMBERT: Judge Jernigan?

19 THE COURT: Yes.

20 MS. LAMBERT: This is Lisa Lambert for the United 21 States Trustee. I had not anticipated needing to make an 22 appearance in this hearing, but the U.S. Trustee has asked for 23 sealed documents in this case, some of which have not been 24 sent. And in addition, we'd ask to be excluded specifically
25 as contemplated in the argument, but I wasn't sure the Court

1 was aware that we were on the call.

2 THE COURT: Okay. You're saying that if we have
3 sealed testimony or documents, the U.S. Trustee wants to be 4 included?

5 MS. LAMBERT: Yes.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MS. LAMBERT: And for those who have not e-mailed
8 those documents, we would be grateful if there were e-mailed,
9 because I do not have all of them yet.

10 THE COURT: Okay. All right. This is a little bit
11 --

12 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

13 THE COURT: -- challenging -- Mr. Morris, I'm going 14 to go to you -- in a vacuum. I mean, I don't know what the 15 whole set of documents are. I mean, a part of me is torn 16 here. If we have the UBS expert's information out there for 17 public consumption, will that alone, in the Debtor's view,
18 chill the bidding process? I mean, this is one objecting 19 party's view of the world, and, you know, perhaps it would 20 simply be perceived as one objecting party's view of the world
21 and not the end-all be-all on value. What do you think?

22 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. You know, I know this is a little 23 unusual, Your Honor, but can Mr. Seery be heard since he is 24 the CEO? I don't want to put him under oath and do -- but I
25 think he can probably articulate much better than I can as to

1 the Debtor's concern. He's very familiar with the documents.
2 He's reviewed them. And I don't know if -- Mr. Seery, are you
3 able to hear me? Do you want to speak up on this particular 4 topic?

5 MR. SEERY: I can hear you, yes. If the Court can 6 hear me, if the Court wants to hear me, I'm happy to --

7 THE COURT: I would like --

8 MR. SEERY: -- describe what these documents are and 9 how they derive into this issue.

10 THE COURT: Please. Go ahead.

11 MR. SEERY: Your Honor, each month -- and this is not 12 unique to the Debtor -- with respect to what our view is of -- 13 of the three -- two or three assets, the Debtor gets 14 valuations from a third-party service, in this case Houlihan
15 Lokey, which is probably the most prominent valuator of these 16 assets, these types of assets. They set a -- well, what we 17 call fair value. We use it for our NAV. Doesn't mean that 18 it's fair market value. It's their perception of what value
19 can be for these assets using various models and comparisons.

20 And we use those every month, we try to do it on a
21 consistent basis, and that's how we value all our liquid
22 assets.

23 Houlihan also does this service for a myriad of funds,
24 investment funds, as well as the retail funds that are smaller 25 affiliated with the Debtor but we don't control. So these

1 valuations for various assets go into the NAVs that those
2 entities produce.

3 Again, they're not fair market value, but perception using 4 models and desktop analysis as to what the value is, to allow 5 investors in the funds to understand movements in the value of 6 assets and get a sense of what the value may be.

7 In this case, the Debtor owns around three percent of 8 Cornerstone. RCP owns --

9 THE COURT: I'm sorry.

10 MR. SEERY: -- around 55 --

11 THE COURT: I got the math wrong. What is the 12 Debtor's ownership?

13 MR. SEERY: About three percent, Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 MR. SEERY: RCP, which is a fund called Restoration
16 Capital Partners, --

17 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

18 MR. SEERY: -- we've dealt with a little bit in the 19 case before, is a fund with third-party investors mostly, a --
20 an interest by some Dondero-affiliated entities, and about 16
21 percent owned by the Debtor. That owns 55 percent of 22 Cornerstone.

23 So, roughly, the Debtor's derivative interest in the asset
24 is around 11 percent, 12 percent. In that neighborhood. The 25 rest is owned by Crusader.

1 UBS -- we provide these documents on a regular basis to 2 the Unsecured Creditors' Committee. UBS sits on that 3 Committee. Our confidential information we provide to the 4 Debtor and provide to the Committee, and have been doing
5 exclusively for months, contains various valuations using 6 these marks, and then what we think we can achieve for various 7 outcomes.

8 We're working with Cornerstone management to put in a
9 management retention program and enhance that opportunity for 10 them so that interests are aligned. We think that's in the 11 best interest of RCP, with whom -- manage the asset. We think 12 it's in the best interest for the estate and our interest.
13 Also in the best interest for Crusader.

14 We hope to then be able to go to the market. We may or 15 may not be able to go to the market. The market may not be 16 ready. It may not be the right time. We may have to do
17 different things to the asset to get it in the best condition
18 to sell it. We may have to even think about (inaudible) to 19 get the best value. Because we have a duty to RCP as well.
20 Releasing the detail that's in these NAV valuations that we 21 get from Houlihan every month would be extremely detrimental
22 to that process.

23 The interests of the Debtor, as I said, it's material, but 24 there's significant third-party interests here. Significant 25 third-party interests. For UBS -- these are not the types of

1 reports that ever are or should be released generally, and
2 they will have an effect on the sale process.

3 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Mr. Seery.

4 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me go back.

5 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, may I -- may I just real
6 briefly reply to that?

7 THE COURT: Let me ask you this first. Are we -- I
8 want to make sure I understand the universe of documents we're 9 talking about. Is it just your expert plus these Houlihan
10 documents?

11 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Well, yes, and a couple of other 12 documents that were produced by the Redeemer Committee. The 13 -- those documents, I think what's confidential about them is 14 that they refer back to these Houlihan valuations.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Isn't there a simpler answer to 16 all of this, and that is, if I don't have a Houlihan person,
17 if I don't have the person who created these documents, then 18 they're hearsay I shouldn't allow in.

19 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Well, Your Honor, but we're not -- 20 we're not necessarily putting them in for the truth of what's 21 in them. In fact, we think what's in them is unreasonably low
22 and significantly flawed and inaccurate. But, you know, they 23 are relevant for other purposes, including the fact that they 24 are much, much higher than the perceived fair market value
25 that the Debtor put into their motion.

1 I was confused to hear Mr. Seery say that these don't show
2 anything about fair market value, and those were their words,
3 not ours. It's their burden to show that they had a rational
4 basis and sound business judgment in entering into this 5 settlement, so we are -- we should be allowed to explore with 6 Mr. Seery what, to quote the Debtor's counsel, what diligence
7 he did, including if he looked at these reports; why he didn't 8 accept the higher values that are in these reports; why he 9 took a value as of March, over six months ago, as opposed to 10 the much more recent values in these reports that show that 11 Cornerstone has continued to improve its performance. So, and 12 the -- of our expert, who is allowed to rely on hearsay and 13 allowed to explain what he did and what he reviewed in coming 14 to his own analysis that this asset is worth, you know, two to 15 three times the value that it's been assigned to it, the value
16 that the Debtor's estate is giving up and that Redeemer is 17 getting as part of this deal, which we just think is a
18 windfall. And I don't understand how the Court can have all
19 of the information available to make that independent judgment
20 without --

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MS. TOMKOWIAK: -- without seeking that information.

23 THE COURT: Okay. So I'm going to take --

24 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I mean, we want these assets to be 25 worth more. We want them to be able to monetize them and

1 maximize their recovery. We just -- we, again, disagree as to
2 what's more harmful, having one very low, incredibly low,
3 unreasonable number out in the public, or having, you know,
4 the -- all of the information out there in the public that
5 shows that the value of these assets is much higher.

6 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let's take this in chunks.
7 I'm not going to allow any evidence in regarding these 8 Houlihan reports. There was a way to do this, and I may or 9 may not have been amenable to this way, but you could have 10 subpoenaed the Houlihan person. I don't know what kind of 11 fight you would have had on your hand. Probably would have 12 had one. But without a Houlihan person to testify about this,
13 this is hearsay and I think it would be offered to prove the 14 truth of the matter asserted. So I'm not allowing the 15 Houlihan information in for that reason.

16 I'll say a couple of additional things. We have a 17 longstanding rule in this District that the Debtor can always 18 testify about value. Okay? So, it goes to, obviously, the 19 weight and credibility I give it, but -- so if he speaks about 20 value, he's entitled to speak about value. It's just how much
21 weight do I give it. He has the burden of proof.

22 The last thing I want to say on this topic is we all know
23 that, in a 9019 context, the Court is not technically required
24 to have a mini-trial. It needs to consider all facts and 25 circumstances that "bear on the wisdom of the settlement

1 proposed." But I think that is probably yet another reason to
2 keep this information out, that it's going a little bit beyond
3 what I think is necessary today. And, again, the Debtor is 4 either going to meet its burden or not. It has the burden.
5 So that's the Houlihan-related stuff.

6 You've alluded to Redeemer Committee or Crusader Fund
7 information. That's another category of stuff we're talking
8 about?

9 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes and no, Your Honor. I think we 10 also have presentations that were provided to the Crusader
11 Fund, I believe by Alvarez & Marsal, that show -- again,
12 discuss the valuation of Cornerstone as of particular dates,
13 and frankly, we believe, directly contradicts the testimony
14 that the Debtor has indicated that they intend to elicit from 15 Mr. Seery and shows how unreasonable the efforts were here.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, I think my ruling needs
17 to be consistent, then, with the ruling with regard to the 18 Houlihan information. I don't have an Alvarez & Marsal
19 witness. It would be hearsay without the Alvarez & Marsal
20 person here to testify about it. I think it would be offered
21 for the truth of the matter asserted. And so I'm not going to 22 allow that.

23 So, does that bring us down to just this one category of 24 Mr. Moentmann and his work product?

25 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I believe so, Your Honor, in terms

1 of, you know, can he testify about his, you know, his own
2 valuation, his own analysis of what he believes that these 3 assets are worth and the flaws that he's identified in the 4 Houlihan valuations as well, which I think, with respect to 5 his own analysis, you know, I believe it would be helpful for 6 the Court to hear the numbers and, you know, the flaws in what 7 Houlihan has done. That's part of his opinions. And I think
8 he could do that without, you know, referencing specific 9 numbers, if that's what the Court would prefer.

10 THE COURT: All right. So I'm going to go back again
11 to Mr. Morris and Ms. Mascherin. I'm inclined to let Mr.
12 Moentmann testify, and I can -- he can refer to his report
13 that's here under seal. And as long as he doesn't make 14 references to numbers of Houlihan, Alvarez & Marsal, I'm not 15 sure I'm convinced it would hurt the future marketing effort.
16 Again, wouldn't the market just say this is one objector's
17 opinion and they either give it weight or not?

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I probably should have said
19 this earlier. I am going to have a very short voir dire. And 20 I think, you know, if you would allow me to do that, the 21 Debtor expects to move to exclude this witness in its 22 entirety, in his entirety. He's a lovely man, I'm sure he 23 knows his work very well, but I don't think it's worth the 24 time, money, and effort to continue down this path on a 9019
25 motion. And so we will be making that motion.

1 I suppose if that motion is denied, you know, if he can be
2 limited in the manner you're describing, we could probably
3 live with that. But we do intend to make that motion.

4 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Mascherin, anything to 5 add?

6 MS. MASCHERIN: No, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. So that is the path we'll take.
8 We'll let Ms. Tomkowiak call Mr. Moentmann. We'll either
9 allow it or exclude it depending on where I go on that 10 request. And then, if he does testify, he will be directed to 11 just cross-reference his report that's here under seal and not 12 mention numbers of other experts that he may be critical of.

13 All right. So, with that, Ms. Tomkowiak, you may make 14 your opening statement.

15 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF UBS SECURITIES, LLC

16 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor. And to 17 -- just to be crystal clear, I do intend in that statement to 18 refer to the conclusions, his own, not those of anybody else.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 (Pause.)

21 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, as I -- I also appreciate
22 you taking the time to read all of our papers. As you know,
23 UBS strongly believes that the settlement is not fair, it is 24 not equitable, and it is not in the best interest of the 25 estate.

1 It is the Debtor's burden, that nobody disagrees about
2 that, to show that it has exercised business judgment within a
3 range of reasonableness. And the Debtor has not submitted to 4 this Court any evidence whatsoever to meet that burden. The 5 Debtor -- Mr. Seery testified at his deposition that he agreed
6 that the only thing before the Court to determine whether or 7 not the settlement is fair and equitable is their motion and 8 that's it.

9 As you've observed, no one from Houlihan Lokey intends to 10 come here and testify today. There is no evidence before you 11 to independently evaluate the true value of these two very 12 large issues, as the Debtor's counsel described them. It's 13 just Mr. Seery and his say so of what he thinks is reasonable.
14 And we don't think that that is enough to show that the 15 settlement is reasonable, we think there's been a complete
16 abdication of business judgment here, and we don't think this 17 is in the best interest of the estate.

18 We believe that the Debtor and Redeemer have negotiated a
19 sweetheart deal, frankly, that gives Redeemer a ginormous
20 windfall and deprives the estate of its right to these 21 meaningful assets that could be available to UBS and to other 22 creditors.

23 And, so, yes, in addition to harming the estate, this deal
24 is absolutely to the detriment of UBS, and we are a 25 significant unsecured creditor whose rights are affected by

1 this deal. Our views must be taken into consideration under 2 the Fifth Circuit law that Ms. Mascherin cited to. And 3 respectfully, we just don't think that the Debtor has met its 4 burden for giving Your Honor the full picture necessary to 5 fully understand the value of this settlement compared to the 6 arbitration award on which it's supposedly based.

7 I wanted to briefly talk a little bit about that
8 arbitration award, if you can go to the next slide. So,
9 again, that we all agree that the claim is based upon an
10 arbitration award. No court has ever confirmed this award.
11 It's not a final judgment. I want to walk you briefly through 12 the components of that award as they're relevant here. So,
13 Gail, if you could pull that up.

14 You know, Redeemer asserted a number of claims against 15 Highland and they're laid out here, including the panel's
16 findings. The first row is the uncontested claims. And by 17 that, I mean that, you know, no one has disputed that portions
18 of them should be subject to vacatur in Delaware law.

19 The next component, there are legal fees and costs that 20 the panel awarded to Redeemer. Next, we have the deferred fee
21 claim. And this was alluded to in the openings of the Debtor
22 and Redeemer as well. And the panel agreed with Redeemer that 23 Highland had, to quote the Debtor's counsel, helped itself to 24 over $32 million in fees that were supposed to be deferred
25 until the end of liquidation of the Crusader Fund.

1 The panel awarded Redeemer damages, but it did not relieve
2 Redeemer of its obligation to pay the Debtor those fees in the 3 future when they are due. And I don't think that is 4 reasonably in dispute here.

5 The Cornerstone award, as we've all acknowledged, that was 6 a finding by the panel that Highland did not act appropriately
7 in liquidating Cornerstone and Crusader's interest in 8 Cornerstone. And so the panel awarded Redeemer nearly $70
9 million for that claim. Or, I'm sorry, over $70 million for 10 that claim. And that was based on the panel's view at the 11 time, around a year or so ago, that the fair market value of 12 Crusader's interest in Cornerstone was $48 million,
13 approximately, and then plus pre-judgment interest, for a
14 total of $71 million.

15 And then there was also this claim relating to the 16 Barclay's interest. This particular award was included by the 17 panel as a modification to its first final award. That second
18 final award also increased the amount of pre-judgment interest
19 that Redeemer was receiving under the arbitration award by 20 extending the period of time by which they could receive that.

21 It's that portion of the Barclay's claim here, which is 22 approximately $30 million, and then another $6 million of pre-23 judgment interest. That is the subject of the motion to 24 vacate that was filed in Delaware a long time ago and was set
25 to be heard the day that the Debtor filed this case for

1 bankruptcy.

2 So, the sum of these components, in terms of what Redeemer
3 was owed, is approximately $190 million, but the story does 4 not end there, as the Debtor and Redeemer would like you to 5 believe. And I think, in fact, they acknowledge, you know,
6 this is not a straightforward arbitration award, because there
7 are reciprocal obligations that Redeemer still owed to the 8 Debtor. And Gail, if you could click here.

9 So, what's reflected here are the various setoffs and 10 other issues that we believe you need to consider when you
11 think about the true value of the arbitration award. So the 12 first one is the Cornerstone shares. We all agree that the 13 arbitration award required -- required Redeemer,
14 simultaneously with payment of the damages award, to give 15 back, to tender back to the Debtor, absolutely no question,
16 not in dispute, they were required to give those shares back
17 to the Debtor.

18 And so we've assigned here, just for purposes about 19 thinking about the arbitration award at the time it was 20 issued, a value of $48 million, which, again, is the fair
21 market value that the panel concluded was appropriate for 22 Cornerstone at the time this award was issued, which, again,
23 was a long time ago.

24 And then there was the payment of deferred fees. I think
25 you heard a lot about those today. These are the fees that,

1 again, the panel found that Highland took them too soon, but
2 they are required to get -- they are -- they have a right to
3 get them at some future point in time when the Crusader Funds
4 are fully liquidated. And so nothing about the arbitration
5 award relieved Redeemer of its obligation to pay those fees,
6 even though, necessarily, and as you can see by their name,
7 they were deferred until some future point in time.

8 And then finally here, you know, any -- we -- there's a
9 certain amount of contested claims. And, again, that relates
10 to the Barclay's claim and with respect to the amount of pre-
11 judgment interest that was included in the second final award.

12 That -- you know, Mr. Seery, I think, testified at his 13 deposition that he believed they had little chance of 14 succeeding on that motion, and they've assigned that zero
15 value in their settlement and gave one hundred percent of the 16 value of that to Redeemer. We believe that's inappropriate
17 and we believe that even if you take 50-50, although, you
18 know, we think it should be higher than that, but even if you
19 just assume for settlement purposes that they might win that 20 issue, they might lose that issue, and you take 50 percent of 21 those contested amounts that are subject to vacatur by the 22 Delaware Court, or frankly, by this Court, then, accounting
23 for that litigation risk, you should remove another $18
24 million from the value of this arbitration award.

25 And so, at the end of the day, you've got an adjusted

1 award of around $90 million, and that's what we believe is the
2 true value of the award.

3 If you go to the next slide. We really just have two 4 large problems with the proposed settlement. The first is the 5 Cornerstone shares. And, again, without getting into the 6 numbers, they are -- indisputably, the Debtor's fair market
7 value calculation is based on the very lowest end of the 8 valuation range prepared by Houlihan Lokey for Crusader, not 9 the Debtor. It's a bit confusing, but Houlihan Lokey actually 10 provided two different valuations: one for Crusader, one for 11 the Debtor. They used the one provided for Crusader, and they 12 took the very lowest end of that range as of March 2020. They 13 did it despite having a different valuation that had a higher
14 range and despite the Debtor's own policy of typically marking 15 assets at the mid-point.

16 They provided no basis for using a valuation in March,
17 when the COVID pandemic was in its very initial stages. The 18 market was very, very low. They've only said and we expect
19 Mr. Seery to testify that, well, that's when the parties first 20 started negotiating this deal. But the settlement wasn't 21 finalized until, you know, six months later, and the Debtor is 22 not bound by that valuation or some handshake deal. They 23 could have but they did not insist that more current numbers
24 were used.

25 And our expert, you know, we intend to offer his testimony

1 that they've used some very flawed assumptions and that the 2 30.5 is well below any range of reasonableness that you could
3 assign to the shares.

4 And then really the -- you know, we don't think that the 5 Debtor has appropriately taken litigation risk into account.
6 You know, they've given a very large litigation discount for a
7 claim regarding the deferred fees and this applicability of 8 the Faithless Servant Doctrine that hasn't even been filed. I
9 mean, that -- that litigation is hypothetical. It's not 10 pending. It's a future dispute that isn't even ripe yet. And 11 yet they've applied a very large litigation discount for that 12 claim.

13 Conversely, they've applied a zero litigation discount for 14 a claim that has been fully briefed to the Delaware court in 15 the form of a motion to vacate. And again, inexplicably, they 16 just (inaudible) amount and provided Redeemer with a hundred 17 percent of the value of that claim.

18 Can you go to the next slide?

19 You will hear from our expert, Mr. Moentmann. He's a 20 principal at Grant Thornton. He has over 30 years of 21 experience in valuations. He specializes in healthcare
22 valuations.

23 I heard Ms. Mascherin say that we would like to turn this 24 into a valuation case. Well, frankly, we don't see how 25 valuation is not relevant when the settlement includes the

1 forfeiture of a very, very meaningful asset such as
2 Cornerstone.

3 He's going to testify, again, that, in his opinion, when 4 he has looked at all of the information and corrected for 5 these assumptions, that the true value of Crusader's ownership
6 in Cornerstone as of June is, you know, as great as -- as much
7 as triple the value that has been assigned to it by Highland
8 as the "perceived fair market value."

9 We believe that this is the value that the estate is 10 giving up. The estate has the right to those shares, and we 11 believe that in forfeiting the right to them they're giving up
12 a meaningful asset that -- that's -- has a much greater value
13 than the amount taken into account by -- in the settlement.

14 And by the way, no one disputes that this asset is 15 performing better today than it was in June, and certainly 16 than it was in March, when they took the very, very lowest of 17 the range of valuations done at that time.

18 What that means is that, under the proposed settlement,
19 Redeemer actually does far better than it ever could under the 20 underlying arbitration award.

21 And if we can go to the next slide, where I have hopefully 22 provided redacted -- yep. And what that means is what the 23 Debtor has said and what Mr. Seery has testified is that he 24 expects the Debtor to be solvent. He expects that Redeemer
25 will recover one hundred percent of its allowed claim in real

1 or one hundred dollars. And so what that means here is that
2 they get to keep their $137 million allowed claim. They're 3 receiving a release of their obligation to pay $32.3 million
4 in deferred fees --

5 MS. MASCHERIN: I'm sorry, Your Honor. I must
6 object. This line I believe at the bottom essentially
7 includes the same, if you do the math, the very same values
8 that are discussed in the confidential documents that were 9 just the subject of their sidebar discussion.

10 THE COURT: All right. That does seem to be the 11 case, Ms. Tomkowiak. Agree? I can go backwards and figure 12 out --

13 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes, I do apologize. We --

14 THE COURT: -- what that redacted number is. So,
15 yes, move on to another screen, please.

16 MS. TOMKOWIAK: We redacted these on the fly, Your 17 Honor, and we just didn't redact the full column.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MS. TOMKOWIAK: So we apologize for that. I believe 20 it has now been fixed.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Sarah, does that address your 23 concern? So, --

24 MS. MASCHERIN: No, that's -- no, you're -- you still 25 have a reference in the last column, Counsel.

1 MS. TOMKOWIAK: The 30.5? That's public. That is --

2 MS. MASCHERIN: No, the other number, Counsel. The 3 other number comes from confidential documents.

4 THE COURT: Okay. I thought the --

5 MS. MASCHERIN: Unless I was misreading it.

6 THE COURT: I think it was Grant Thornton. There was 7 a -- there was the public number, the 30.5 March number, and 8 then there was the Grant Thornton number. I think she revised
9 it where those were the only two remaining, correct?

10 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Correct.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MS. MASCHERIN: I apologize, Your Honor. I misread
13 it.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Go ahead.

15 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Okay. Gail, if you could put that 16 back up.

17 The bottom line, then, Your Honor, is that when you take 18 into account one hundred percent recovery in real dollars on 19 the allowed claim, release of the obligation to pay $32.3
20 million in deferred fees in the future, retaining Crusader's
21 interest in Cornerstone as opposed to giving it back to the 22 estates, we believe that Redeemer could be receiving an actual 23 recovery of over one hundred percent of its filed claim under 24 the arbitration award. Grant Thornton's estimate, you know,
25 over $60 million -- $60 million over its allowed claim.

1 But even, even using the 30.5 perceived market value that 2 the Debtor assigned to Cornerstone in the settlement, they 3 still recover more than one hundred percent on their claim, as 4 reflected in that Final column.

5 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Tomkowiak, we have gone
6 well over the ten minutes. I know there have been lots of 7 starts and stops, but you need to wrap it up pretty soon.
8 Okay?

9 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Will do. Absolutely. All right.
10 And I guess I'll just -- I don't -- I don't have any more
11 slides.

12 I will just say that there's a genuine dispute, I think 13 that is apparent now, about the value of Cornerstone. We 14 don't think the Debtor has provided the Court with any 15 evidence, let alone sufficient evidence to accept their 16 valuation of this asset. We don't think Mr. Seery will 17 testify that he's ever talked to Houlihan about this 18 valuation. Houlihan is not here to defend their methodology.
19 And we, fundamentally, we agree that settlement is desirable,
20 we understand that, particularly here in this complex case,
21 and that it is tempting to approve and allow all of this
22 litigation to go away.

23 Quite frankly, UBS still believes that its claim can be 24 settled and the mediation is still open and we're hopeful that 25 we can resolve our claim, too, and we're making every effort

1 to do that. But this, this settlement is designed to overpay
2 Redeemer, frankly. We feel like it has bought their support
3 and they're working together with the Debtor to object to our
4 claim.

5 We think that, at minimum, the settlement should not be 6 approved without further information being provided to the 7 Court in the form of real evidence or an independent valuation
8 of Cornerstone being done.

9 Alternatively, Your Honor, the final thing I will say is 10 that, in the alternative, if Your Honor is inclined to approve
11 the settlement, the -- one of the terms of the settlement
12 requires the -- Redeemer and the Debtor to work together to 13 sell Cornerstone over a period of time. In the event that 14 sale occurs and the purchase price is, as UBS suspects it will 15 be, well above the value that's been calculated by the Debtor, 16 then we believe that it would be appropriate for the Court to 17 take Crusader's proceeds of that sale into consideration at 18 the time of plan confirmation, when distributions are to be 19 made, and any upside should be taken into account when 20 calculating Redeemer's actual recovery.

21 THE COURT: All right.

22 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I appreciate your indulgence, Your 23 Honor, and that's all I have.

24 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris, shall 25 we go ahead and have Mr. Seery testify now?

Seery - Direct

56

1 MR. MORRIS: I'd be delighted.

2 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, welcome back. I
3 need to swear you in. Please raise your right hand.

4 JAMES P. SEERY, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, SWORN

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may proceed.

6 THE WITNESS: Can you hear me, Your Honor?

7 THE COURT: We can hear you loud and clear. Thank 8 you.

9 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

10 DIRECT EXAMINATION

11 BY MR. MORRIS:

12 Q Good morning, Mr. Seery. Before we get into the 13 substance, let me just ask you. Is it your -- have you rolled 14 over here?

15 A I'm not known for that. The answer is no.

16 Q Okay. When were you appointed an independent director?

17 A In January of this year.

18 Q Okay. And you were appointed as the CEO in July; is that
19 right?

20 A That's correct.

21 Q And the Court approved that in the form of an order; is 22 that right?

23 A Yes, it is.

24 Q Okay. I want to move this along as efficiently as I can,
25 so let me ask you an open-ended question: Can you describe

001598

Seery - Direct

57

1 for the Court the diligence that you and the independent
2 directors did to familiarize yourself with the claims that are
3 being made by the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds?

4 A Yes. From the start, and obviously we have several
5 litigation claims, but Redeemer was a significant litigation
6 claim and they sit on the Committee. So right from the start,
7 even before the appointment as an independent director, I and 8 I'm relatively certain Mr. Dubel, read the Redeemer partial 9 arbitration award and then the final arbitration award. After 10 our appointment and our selection of Mr. Nelms as the third
11 director, I am quite sure that Mr. Nelms did the same thing.

12 So we looked at the awards, investigated with the Debtor's
13 team the underlying nature of the awards, what led to the 14 disputes. Then we worked with counsel, going through the 15 underlying case issues that the arbitration raised. And in 16 particular, the disputes between the partial final award and 17 the final award.

18 And that took place through our initial appointment, after 19 we got our feet wet, as I said, early in February and in 20 March, because we thought this was one of the key issues we 21 had to determine: Would we continue to litigate with Redeemer
22 or would we seek to reach an accommodation and a compromise
23 with respect to their arbitration award?

24 Q And did counsel provide you with written analyses,
25 including advice concerning the nature and scope of the 001599

1 Redeemer Committee's arbitration award?

2 A As with each of the claims that we've looked at, we've had
3 counsel, and I think the time records reflect it, do
4 significant work researching the underlying claims, getting to 5 know the underlying case law. In this case, looking at the 6 arbitration awards. Thinking about the defenses. Thinking
7 about and analyzing the issues that Highland raised,
8 challenging the final award. Analyzing the situation of the 9 Delaware Chancery Court, including the appeals. And then 10 report to us as an independent board on those issues.

11 Our practice -- you know, I don't have a specific 12 recollection if this is the case of every one of the claims --
13 our practice is to have a board meeting after those documents
14 that counsel's produced have been reviewed. Our practice is 15 to challenge them. Our practice is to challenge them quite 16 vigorously and send counsel back to do more work and hopefully 17 educate us in a way that we have a good understanding of the 18 risks and rewards with respect to various options with respect
19 to each of the litigation claims.

20 Q And did the board spend time and did you personally spend 21 time considering and getting advice on the issue of the 22 Faithless Servant defense?

23 A We did. To be frank, it's one that, despite having a lot
24 of experience in these areas, I had not heard of it before.
25 So the board requested that counsel do research and provide

1 additional written information regarding the defense, its 2 likelihood of success, and particularly with respect to the 3 facts that are outlined in the partial award and in the final
4 award and how those might impact attempts that we would have
5 to get around that defense.

6 Q All right. Let's shift from the diligence that you and 7 your fellow board members did to the manner of the 8 negotiations. Did you (audio gap) participate in the 9 negotiations?

10 A I'm sorry. There was a -- there was a beep.

11 Q Did you -- do you have personal knowledge as to the 12 negotiations that led to the agreement?

13 A I did, yes.

14 Q All right. Again, can you just describe in general terms
15 for the Court the process that the Debtor undertook in 16 negotiating the agreement that led to this motion?

17 A Well, there was extensive back and forth, as I think 18 everyone in the case knows, that we started with a hundred 19 percent case, and we negotiated that with Redeemer very 20 aggressively. Redeemer brought in Crusader at times. We 21 negotiated various points to -- where they gave and we did,
22 back and forth. We went back and did additional research on 23 some of their claims with respect to -- and particularly with 24 respect to the interests, which we can get into in detail,
25 that are extinguished in the award. We spent a ton of time

Seery - Direct

60

1 not only with our counsel but also with the Highland team to 2 understand the underlying history, how those interests were 3 obtained, whether they -- what did they cost when they 4 originally purchased them, how they potentially were found to 5 violate the -- the scheme. And then negotiated those points
6 with Redeemer.

7 Q And just to complete the record, did you personally speak
8 with one or more principals who were representing the 9 interests of the Redeemer Committee to negotiate any aspect of 10 the settlement?

11 A I did. We had many discussions, all telephonic, 12 negotiating the particular terms. We also had a number of 13 meetings with counsel with the entire board, with the 14 professional -- the personnel who represented Redeemer plus 15 their professionals, plus counsel and representatives of 16 Crusader in Zoom calls. So there were multiple sessions, both 17 on the phone directly with the Redeemer principal who sits on 18 the Committee as well as with the Redeemer principal and his 19 counsel.

20 Q All right. Let's talk about the adjustments that were 21 made to the gross value of the arbitration award of $190
22 million. Just to identify them, they include the issue of the 23 deferred fee. Do I have that right?

24 A Yes. I think you summarized it in the opening quite well.
25 Highland had, in the scheme that was approved originally to 001602

Seery - Direct

61

1 liquidate the Crusader Fund, Highland had agreed to a fee
2 arrangement where the vast majority of the fees were deferred,
3 and they were deferred until the end of the liquidation --
4 i.e., until all of the assets in the Crusader Fund had been 5 liquidated and funds were distributed, and then Highland would 6 be entitled to receive its fees. And along the lines, for a
7 variety of reasons that the arbitration panel did not give 8 much credence to, Highland took them before the end of the 9 liquidation.

10 Q And did the Debtor decide to reach a compromise with 11 respect to the amount of fees that it might have been owed had 12 it successfully requested them at the end of the day?

13 A We did. We obviously, or maybe not so obviously, but we 14 did start with asking for the full reduction, with the 15 argument that this liquidation will get done quickly, we've 16 only got a couple assets left in Crusader, and we should be 17 entitled to the full setoff.

18 Redeemer's position and Crusader's position was, wait a
19 second, you're asking us to pay you fees on account of a 20 scheme that you were breaching while you were supposedly 21 earning these fees, and then you took the fees that you earned
22 while you breached it early. And they were of the belief that 23 they did not have to pay any of those fees. So we negotiated
24 off of those two positions.

25 The arbitration award does not deal with the fees. It

001603

62

1 talks about the repayment of the $32 million plus the
2 interest, but it doesn't say what happens later. And it's a
3 -- it's a failing or (inaudible) in this, you know, for 4 Highland, but it doesn't -- it certainly doesn't give Highland
5 the award of the fees.

6 And we had similar arguments with respect to briefing
7 before the panel, arguments before the panel, where we were 8 arguing that we were -- we'd be entitled to get those fees at 9 the end, and that Redeemer and Crusader knew it, but there
10 were some holes in those arguments.

11 Q Let's see if we can identify that. Ultimately, the board
12 agreed with the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Fund to 13 accept a credit today for two-thirds the value of the total
14 deferred fee; is that right?

15 A That's the math in terms of what the reduction in the 16 claim is. It was hard-fought in that we wanted to make a 17 decision if we could get a full settlement with a number of 18 components or whether we would try to get pieces and litigate
19 the other piece. Redeemer wasn't interested in a partial 20 settlement. It was either full or litigate. And that left 21 us, we thought, exposed, both with respect to the time and 22 cost as well as the risk of a complete loss, which we factored
23 into our settlement.

24 Among other things, you know, and this will permeate the 25 case, and we'll talk about it with Acis as well, this case,

001604

63

1 the business runs the way it runs. It does have revenues and
2 the team does provide service to a number of counterparties
3 and they do a great job. So the employees of Highland are 4 able to execute and perform a valuable service to their shared
5 service counterparties and the funds to which they provide 6 investment management services. But these litigations have 7 been hanging over this case for most of ten years. And it's 8 remarkable in that, every time we try to settle one, someone
9 else wants to keep them going.

10 Q All right. Let's just talk about some of the factors that 11 the Debtor considered or may have considered in agreeing to 12 the compromise that you've described. Did the Debtor take 13 into account the possibility that if there was no agreement
14 that there would be a separate litigation on the question of 15 setoff and how the compensation would have been -- how the 16 compensation would go back and forth?

17 A Certainly. And we considered -- we considered whether 18 that litigation would happen in the Bankruptcy Court in front
19 of Judge Jernigan or whether we would be sent back to the 20 aforementioned Chancery Court, which as counsel for UBS noted,
21 those arguments have already been briefed. And the risks with 22 respect to both avenues in terms of pursuing a -- either a 23 knockout win or a partial win, the time delay, and then the 24 risk of a knockout loss or a partial loss.

25 And so we thought about that with respect to each of the 001605

1 settlement components.

2 Q All right. So, under the agreement, will the Debtor get
3 the value of $21 million with respect to the deferred fees
4 immediately upon the allowance of the claim?

5 A Well, it reduces the claim. So I think that that's a fair
6 -- that's a fair way to look at it. And each of the board
7 members analyzed it with that perspective.

8 Q And did you and the board members try to make any 9 determination as to how long the Debtor would have to wait
10 before it had the opportunity to request or demand the 11 deferred fee?

12 A We did. It's hard to estimate. So I think that it's, in 13 a vacuum, the Crusader Fund should be able to liquidate pretty
14 quickly. The problem is that the Crusader Fund's liquidation
15 are tied to Highland's liquidation or monetization. And the 16 timing on that, depending on the parties, can be uncertain.
17 We would hope to be able to monetize the assets quickly, but 18 we also are contemplating a litigation trustee. And as we've 19 seen, that -- that litigation can take some time with these 20 parties.

21 In addition, while we -- we had a grand bargain
22 opportunity, we continue to negotiate with Mr. Dondero, who's 23 made a material effort with his counsel on an ongoing but 24 certainly a recent movement. And that could expedite it.
25 It's very uncertain as to how long -- how long a complete

Seery - Direct

65

1 liquidation would take. If we -- if we were able to reach an
2 agreement with Mr. Dondero, we hopefully can, at least with 3 respect to part of the case, resolve it quickly. And I think
4 that that would be more of a pot plan type approach.

5 The problem with a pot plan is that we still have a number
6 of unresolved litigation claims that will take time to 7 resolve.

8 Q All right. So let's just focus on what would happen if we 9 didn't have the agreement. And just assume for the sake of 10 argument that at some point in the future, however many years
11 that may be, the Crusader Fund has completed its liquidation.
12 Do you have any reason to believe that at that time the 13 Crusader Fund would roll over and no longer assert the 14 Faithless Servant defense in the face of a demand for the 15 deferred fee?

16 A Well, I guess you'd have to look at it two ways. If -- if 17 the fees do not reduce the Crusader claim, Redeemer's claim,
18 then there would be nothing to roll over on. Because what's 19 really important that everybody has to understand is Highland 20 got the fees. It took them. It took the cash. And so the 21 only -- the only way that you have a deferral of recovery of 22 that fees, those fees, is if you pay back hundred-cent dollars
23 to Redeemer and Crusader, which would include the $32 million
24 plus the interest.

25 Q Okay. Are there any other reasons that you can think of 001607

Seery - Direct

66

1 at this time that the board and you as CEO took into account
2 in deciding on the compromise of the deferred fee issue?

3 A Of the fee component? Well, I think -- I think that --
4 that really summarized it. It's not that complex. The only
5 -- the complexity is really if you consider not settling, what 6 are your avenues to, if you will, be able to keep the full
7 amount of the fees and interest.

8 Q So, would it be fair to describe it as taking a certain
9 two-thirds of the fee today rather than a speculative chance
10 of getting a full fee at some undetermined time in the future,
11 after spending money to litigate the Faithless Servant
12 defense?

13 A I think that that -- that's very -- to be honest, it may 14 cabin it too much. We looked at this as a total settlement.
15 And so it's not just one piece. And in an effort to move this 16 case forward, we looked for the reasonableness of each 17 transaction as a whole, and I think that's a more full way to 18 look at it. We could litigate with Redeemer and Crusader for 19 another two years, maybe. I'm sure that there's ways to keep 20 it going and diminish all the assets of the estate in 21 litigation costs. But we thought that this was a fair and 22 equitable settlement as a whole, and this component we thought
23 was pretty straightforward. Getting the full amount of fees,
24 which we would have liked, we thought was not something that 25 we had much success -- much chance of a success if we 001608

Seery - Direct

67

1 litigated this.

2 Q Okay. Let's shift to Cornerstone. Can you just describe
3 for the Court what Cornerstone is and who the stakeholders
4 are. I think you -- I think you may have (garbled), but just 5 for context.

6 A Cornerstone is a portfolio company. It's Cornerstone
7 Healthcare Group. It's a portfolio company of Highland, in 8 that Highland owns about three percent of the equity.
9 Restoration Capital Partners, which is a liquidating fund, and 10 Highland, as the advisor to that fund, owns about 55 percent,
11 and Crusader owns about 52 [sic] percent. Cornerstone
12 operates in the LTAC space, which is Long Term Acute Care,
13 Senior, and Behavior Health. Senior living. And it has a
14 home hospice, a smaller home hospice and home -- home business
15 that also helps with rehab, and which -- and some of those are 16 newer acquisitions.

17 It's a -- it's a company that I believe Highland first got 18 involved with in 2007, I believe. And so it's been another
19 asset that's a long-term holding. We have a solid management
20 team. We like the -- we like the team a lot. We think that 21 they've performed and done a great job in incredibly difficult
22 circumstances, you know, through the first half of this year.
23 Against -- against that, some of the related entities, the 24 CLOs, have a loan, a term loan, and there's also other
25 mortgage debt and equipment financing at Cornerstone.

001609

Seery - Direct

68

1 Q And do you understand that the Crusader Fund's interest in
2 Cornerstone is a subject of the arbitration award?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And can you describe for the Court your understanding of 5 what the panel found and determined with respect to that 6 asset?

7 A The panel found that basically Highland has an obligation
8 to purchase Cornerstone back from -- those Cornerstone shares
9 back from Crusader. And it assigned a value of $48 million to 10 those shares, which was considerably in excess of fair market
11 value at the time of the award, we believed, as well as at all
12 times since then.

13 Q And you reached an agreement with the Redeemer Committee
14 on the treatment of the Crusader Fund's interest in 15 Cornerstone; is that right?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Can you describe the treatment of that interest for the 18 Court?

19 A What we agreed with Crusader is that we wouldn't buy back
20 the shares, because we don't have the capital to do that, that 21 we would reduce their total claim by about $30 million.

22 Q Okay. Before we get to that specific point, are there
23 other aspects of the settlement agreement that concern the 24 Cornerstone asset?

25 A Well, we -- the other piece of Cornerstone is really a 001610

Seery - Direct

69

1 Crusader issue. As I laid out the share holdings, the
2 combined Highland interest, if you will, is about 58 percent.
3 Crusader's is 42 percent. This is a private company. It does
4 not trade. It -- it is -- it was controlled by the majority
5 shareholders. And Crusader was interested in trying to find
6 some liquidity in either their shares --

7 (Audio cuts out.)

8 THE COURT: Uh-huh. Mr. Seery?

9 THE WITNESS: And so we --

10 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, we lost you for about 20
11 seconds there. You were speaking but we couldn't hear you.
12 So repeat the last 20 seconds, please.

13 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. I'm sorry, Your Honor.

14 That cut out. Highland owns or controls 58 percent, with RCP
15 as the main holder in Highland holding about three percent.
16 Highland's the manager for RCP. Crusader is a minority
17 holder. It has 42 percent. It really has no say or control
18 over the company and what it does.

19 Crusader was looking to create the opportunity to either
20 get real liquidity in for this interest, not just us reducing 21 our claim, or -- or at least the appearance of that, frankly.
22 And so what we have agreed is that, since RCP is actually a 23 liquidating fund and we want to monetize the asset, that we 24 will work with Crusader to try to monetize Cornerstone in 25 2021.

001611

Seery - Direct

70

1 Now, it -- there's -- the way the agreement works is that
2 we'll work in good faith to try to do that. If we're not able
3 to do that, there's really no -- there's no breach. There's 4 no -- there's no damages. There's no -- no penalty. And the 5 reason for that is that monetizing this asset may take work.
6 The management team, as I mentioned, is excellent. They're 7 doing a great job. And we're working with the management team
8 to assure their long-term commitment to the business and the 9 line of interests.

10 But there may be different ways to monetize this asset.
11 It may be that we sell parts of it. May be that we invest in 12 parts of it. It may be that we sell the whole company. It
13 may be that we would go to meet a banker with the management
14 team, that the banker says don't do it now, you should do x, 15 y, and z in order to enhance the value. While RCP is 16 liquidating, we are looking to procure value for their stake
17 in -- in Cornerstone. And we'll take all of those issues into 18 account. And even if Redeemer wants -- or Crusader wants to 19 sell but RCP doesn't and management doesn't, it's unlikely
20 that this asset will trade.

21 That said, as I mentioned, we are looking to see if we can 22 monetize it, and we are looking to try to cash out and 23 liquidate Redeemer -- RCP's interests as well.

24 Q As part of the negotiations that -- the board has agreed
25 to certain milestones and a schedule for the sale and 001612

Seery - Direct

71

1 marketing of the asset?

2 A We did. But as I mentioned earlier, I think this had a
3 lot more lead for Crusader than it exactly had for -- for me
4 and for Highland. We've talked to RCP about it and we talked
5 to management at Cornerstone about it.

6 Milestones with respect to a sale process, you know,
7 usually, the only thing you know for certain is that they
8 likely won't be met. And, really, they depend on the market.
9 If you tried to do the same milestones in 2020 as are -- our 10 aspiration to put up for 2021, there's no chance of that. And 11 so we'll have to see what the market looks like, and most 12 importantly, what the management team thinks is in the best
13 interest of the enterprise and what the bankers think is in 14 the best interest of the enterprise and then -- and question
15 -- equally importantly is what RCP wants to do.

16 Q All right. Now let's turn to the $30.5 million value. I
17 think you heard counsel for UBS refer to our pleading as -- I
18 forget what the exact term was, but an indicator or predictor 19 of -- of fair market value. Did you hear her in that 20 commentary?

21 A I heard it, yes.

22 Q Okay. And do you have a view as to whether that was 23 necessarily the best characterization of the -- of the --

24 A Yeah, I -- I think the reports that we get monthly and 25 that all investment firms get monthly are where they're

001613

1 referred to as fair value valuations. And they help set the 2 NAV.

3 There's a reason they're not called fair market value.
4 There's no market test whatsoever. And so they are -- they 5 are -- they are desktop model-driven valuations. You look for 6 comparables. You look for a DCF. You do a bottoms-up in 7 terms of asset value, depending on the type of asset. And you
8 try to come up with a reasonable way to assess the value of 9 the asset.

10 They are not market tests. So, and I can give you dozens
11 of examples of why they're not, really simple examples of why
12 they're not, as to -- as to fair market.

13 Nevertheless, we use them and rely on them. And investors
14 use them and rely on them. And Houlihan Lokey is probably the 15 preeminent firm doing this in the U.S.

16 Q Do you believe, if 30.5 doesn't represent a fair market
17 value, do you believe that it is nevertheless a fair and 18 reasonable place to come for purposes of the negotiation with 19 the Redeemer Committee?

20 A Certainly. It's typically within our range of 21 reasonableness. We look at, you know, where we have NAVs. We 22 considered the issues with respect to the business. You know,
23 we -- we thought about the total of 48. We considered where 24 third parties, you know, might want to purchase it. But we 25 did not go get a market test.

Seery - Direct

73

1 I'm quite certain that if UBS wanted to make a bid because 2 they thought it was so low, that if they took the advice of 3 their expert, they would have a willing seller, and -- and 4 Crusader would sell. We would certainly have a willing seller
5 in RCP. We'd -- happy to negotiate in the range that they 6 threw out. It's a giant bank. They should probably buy it if 7 it's that cheap.

8 Q Do you communicate with either officers or directors of 9 Cornerstone on a regular basis?

10 A I wouldn't say on a regular basis. I do -- I do
11 communicate with them. We have a team that serves as the 12 board of directors at Cornerstone, and they -- they deal on a 13 regular daily and weekly basis with the Cornerstone team, and 14 then they feed me the information and we analyze it and we 15 send them back.

16 So I have talked to the team at Cornerstone. I've 17 discussed the business with them and the approach we're taking 18 in the case, because it's obviously important to them. Their 19 -- their stock is -- it's a -- it's a big company. Their 20 stock is owned by a liquidating fund managed by Highland, a 21 liquidating fund suing Highland, and a small amount by 22 Highland. So I've tried to keep them up to speed. As I -- as 23 I said, we like the team. We think they're -- they're good
24 and we want to see them stay.

25 Q And does your work with the team and the communications

001615

Seery - Direct

74

1 that you've just described, do they help to inform you as to
2 the fairness and the reasonableness of the number that you
3 arrived at with the Redeemer Committee?

4 A It certainly -- it certainly factored in. Yeah. We 5 looked at the overall quality of the business, where it was in 6 the -- in cycle, the market that we're in now in terms of 7 where they have to perform, and considered the NAVs that we 8 have as well as the litigation risk with respect to -- with 9 respect to Crusader.

10 Q Do you have a view as to whether Cornerstone has done
11 anything in terms of its business model or business generally
12 that would cause valuation to fluctuate, or is it more
13 attributable to the fluctuations of the marketplace?

14 A Oh, well, I don't think that the value of Cornerstone has 15 moved or should move materially through the year. It probably 16 was depressed from a perception standpoint early, and I think 17 the team has done a good job. They've grown EBITDA from where 18 it was on a trailing basis to, you know, I think quite well.
19 And so the business is in a good, steady place.

20 The LTAC business is performing very well and I think is 21 -- is -- has proven itself to be a valuable asset in the -- in 22 the COVID. The senior living business is more challenged.
23 That business relies on a lot of capital, which we are 24 capital-constrained compared to some of the competitors. And 25 if we look at the public comps for those, those businesses, I

001616

Seery - Direct

75

1 think it's fair to say that some of the larger ones are
2 challenged. And I think the company has done a nice job.

3 But if -- I guess the question is, has -- do I think it's 4 materially different than it was early in the year? Depending 5 on perceptions, just like the market, you know, there's highs
6 and lows, but the company is doing a nice job. I think
7 they're planning on a steady pace.

8 Q Did -- you testified to it just a moment ago, but let's
9 talk about the Houlihan Lokey reports. Without going into any 10 substance, can you tell me how many assets or portfolio
11 companies does the Debtor commission Houlihan Lokey to produce
12 valuation reports similar to the one that's been described
13 there?

14 A Yeah. I don't have the exact number, because the Debtor
15 doesn't just do it for its portfolio companies. We have to 16 perform shared services for a myriad of funds, including 17 public funds, and Houlihan provides the -- the NAVs with 18 respect to their Level 2 and 3 assets as well.

19 Q And does the Debtor rely on those reports in the ordinary 20 course of its business?

21 A It does, yes.

22 Q Can you describe for the Court how the Debtor relies on 23 the Houlihan Lokey reports?

24 A In front of -- you know, Level -- Level 1 are assets that 25 have a market that you can look to directly to figure out the 001617

Seery - Direct

76

1 value of your asset. Think about Apple stock.

2 Level 2 assets are there is a market, but it may be more
3 -- more of a trade-by-appointment market. Think about not the 4 bigger high-yields, but high-yield loans, distressed or 5 stressed names where there's not a ton of market activity.

6 And Level 3 assets are ones where there's not real good
7 discernible market inputs and you try to value those on a
8 market -- on a model basis.

9 So, we use Houlihan reports in order to set the exit value
10 of various funds. We use it to report to the creditors in our 11 case. We use it for, as I said, like RCP, which is a fund
12 that gets -- strikes a NAV every month. And we use it with 13 respect to the CLO assets that we manage.

14 Q And to the best of your recollection, was the $30.5
15 million number that has been agreed upon, was that within the 16 range of any of the Houlihan Lokey reports that you reviewed
17 as you were considering whether or not to enter into the 18 agreement?

19 A The number we agreed, the 30.5, was in the range, and it
20 was in the range when we -- when we struck this deal, which I
21 think was April-May. So I think it would fit in the range in 22 the May Houlihan valuation. I don't know about each month.
23 As I said, there are -- because it's a desktop and model-
24 driven valuation, there are anomalies that show up. And we 25 try to review those with Houlihan to try to make it as 001618

Seery - Direct

77

1 accurate -- use as accurate information as they can. But
2 that, you know, their numbers in their model over model, we
3 like to use it consistently. And you'll see that with respect
4 to any kind of assets that get this type of valuation before
5 the -- as opposed to a market valuation.

6 Q Okay. Before we leave the topic, let me just ask you: Is 7 there anything else that you recall taking into account when 8 -- when you and the board decided to accept the $30.5 million
9 number?

10 A Well, we -- we didn't just -- we didn't just accept it.
11 As I say, we negotiated starting at 48, which we didn't think 12 there was a chance that we could sell it for that value. And 13 we negotiated with the Crusader and Redeemer interests to try
14 to come up with a settled amount.

15 So the same issues with respect to the deferred fees
16 factored in here. Again, it's a package deal, so we looked at 17 the litigation, the timing, the risk of not being able to get
18 a deal done and the damages that we would have, the potential
19 impact on RCP and Highland's interest in Cornerstone, the 20 impact on the management team at Cornerstone, the litigation
21 about the -- of who owns the equity interests. And so all of 22 those factors in trying to get to a deal weigh in as we 23 analyzed whether to do this transaction.

24 Q All right. I want to shift gears to one argument that has 25 been made by --

001619

Seery - Direct

78

1 THE COURT: Mr. Morris? I'm just letting you know,
2 you've gone 35 minutes. And I said I wouldn't, like, get the
3 shepherd hooks out after 30 minutes, but let's try to wrap it
4 up so we finish today. Okay?

5 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. No problem, Your Honor. I really
6 appreciate it. In fact, I'm going to wait and let UBS
7 question Mr. Seery on its theory concerning going back to 8 Chancery Court and I'll just skip that, because it's not --
9 it's not -- not my -- it's not our issue anyway.

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q Mr. Seery, let me just finish up, then, and see if we can 12 identify the various litigations that are being resolved if 13 this settlement approved. Would the settlement resolve the 14 Delaware Chancery Court litigation, to the best of your 15 knowledge?

16 A Yes, it would.

17 Q Are you aware that there's litigation pending between the 18 Redeemer Committee and the Debtor in the Cayman Islands?

19 A I -- I've heard of it. To be frank, we haven't looked at 20 it. It was part of the original discussions around all of the 21 open issues, but we expect that will be resolved as well.

22 Q And are you aware that there are two pending litigations
23 in Bermuda between the Redeemer Committee and the Debtor?

24 A Same -- same answer. We looked at those. We understood
25 what they -- you know, in terms of a board perspective.

001620

1 Counsel spent time on them. From a board perspective, it was 2 more of a sideshow. Those will be resolved. We thought the 3 main event was the arbitration award and the issues in 4 Delaware.

5 Q Okay. And did the -- did the elimination of the -- of all
6 of those litigations, the fees that might be incurred with 7 respect to them, the litigation risk, was that also a factor
8 in the board's determination to accept this settlement?

9 A Yeah, it always is. And again, not just the fees with 10 respect to this particular litigation but the overall case.
11 So it factors into analyzing whether this is a good, fair deal
12 for the entire estate and whether each component works to 13 support that overall thesis.

14 Q Okay. Last question. Can you explain to the Court why
15 the Debtor believes that this settlement is in the best
16 interest of the Debtor's estate?

17 A Hopefully, I've encapsulated that in the prior testimony,
18 but I think that, with respect to settling this claim, this 19 one was more straightforward than many of them,
20 notwithstanding the complexity of the arbitration award,
21 because there was an arbitration award. And it had been 22 litigated in front of the arbitration panel, which was an 23 esteemed panel, for a couple years, with tons of testimony,
24 tons of documents, and a partial finding and then a final
25 award that really hit on all the various issues with respect

Seery - Direct

80

1 to disputes among the parties.

2 And if we don't settle it at all, I think we're going to 3 be back in for potentially a lengthy litigation, depending on 4 what happens in the Chancery Court. If we lose in the 5 Chancery Court, it's a significant impact to the estate. So
6 we viewed this as reasonable. We continually updated it and 7 -- our analysis, and, you know, feel confident that this is in 8 the best interest of the estate, the Highland interests, the 9 creditors, the investors.

10 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness.

12 Ms. Mascherin, when I was doing my time calculations
13 earlier, I didn't take you into account. Do you have any 14 examination that's not duplicative of Mr. Morris?

15 MS. MASCHERIN: I'll make this easy, Your Honor. No.

16 THE COURT: Thank you. Ms. Tomkowiak, it is your 17 turn to examine Mr. Seery. Go ahead.

18 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor?

19 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you, Your Honor. My colleague,
20 Andy Clubok, will be cross-examining. Appreciate it.

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Clubok, go ahead.

22 MR. CLUBOK: Yes, Your Honor. Ms. Tomkowiak is going
23 to let me do this part of the proceeding.

24 CROSS-EXAMINATION

25 BY MR. CLUBOK:

001622

1 Q Mr. Seery, you just testified that the $30.5 million
2 assigned credit for Cornerstone was within the range of the 3 Houlihan Lokey reports that you get on a monthly basis.

4 Correct?

5 A Yes.

6 Q Okay. And, in fact, the -- have you reviewed the latest
7 Houlihan Lokey reports?

8 A I have.

9 Q Okay. And isn't it the case that -- or, what's the date
10 of that report, by the way?

11 A There's a draft in for September and there was one for 12 August.

13 Q So, that draft report for September has not been provided
14 to us, and certainly not been submitted to the Court.

15 Let me ask you, then, about the August valuation. It's 16 fair to say that $30.5 -- well, what Houlihan does is that 17 they give you a low and a high, and that's the so-called range
18 in the value of Cornerstone, in their valuation reports.

19 Correct?

20 A They do.

21 Q And typically what Highland does is it assumes the 22 midpoint is the best number to use for that -- for what it
23 uses those reports for. Correct?

24 A Yes. Yeah.

25 Q Okay. And in the August 2020 Houlihan report, there is a

Seery - Cross

82

1 low to high range, and in fact, 30.5 falls below the lowest
2 point in that range. Isn't that true?

3 A I don't recall the specifics of the report.

4 Q Well, you said that 30.5 falls within the range, and my 5 question to you, sir, is would you agree that, at least in the 6 August report, which is the latest that has been provided to 7 us, just, actually, about 24 hours ago, that 30.5 is below the 8 lowest point of the range and not within the range? Would you
9 agree with that?

10 A I don't know the answer off the top of my head. If I had 11 the report, I could look at it.

12 Q Yes, please. If you could look at the report and confirm 13 that.

14 A I don't have it.

15 Q Oh, I'm sorry. You said you don't have it? I see.

16 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I'm mindful of your order
17 and I don't want to run afoul of it, but Mr. Seery testified 18 under oath that he believes that 30.5 is in the range of the 19 Houlihan report, which I will proffer to you that it is not.
20 It is below the range. I would like to present the report to 21 show at least Mr. Seery that contention. I'm not using it for 22 hearsay to prove the truth. Frankly, I think the Houlihan
23 reports (echo) themselves what a reasonable expert will say.
24 But they certainly are in a range that is above the 30.5.

25 THE COURT: All right.

Seery - Cross

1 MR. CLUBOK: So I'd like to --

2 THE COURT: Let me start with your premise that he 3 testified inconsistently. My notes are that he said at the 4 time they struck the deal in April or May that this value was 5 within the range of the Houlihan modeling. Okay? So is 6 someone able to correct me one way or another? That -- I may 7 have written it down wrong, but that's what I thought I heard
8 and wrote down. Mr. --

9 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

10 THE COURT: Go ahead.

11 MR. MORRIS: Very briefly.

12 THE COURT: Go ahead.

13 MR. CLUBOK: If I may, I believe that is -- Your 14 Honor, I do believe that's what he said on the direct, but I
15 think under cross I asked him if it was in the range of the 16 most -- for the most recent report, and he said it was.
17 That's what I thought he just testified to in response to my 18 question. And if -- if that's the -- if -- Your Honor, if 19 there was a court reporter -- I don't have a real-time
20 transcript, so maybe I misheard it. But --

21 THE COURT: Well, Mr. Seery, why don't you just say
22 again what the answer to that question is, if we're confused
23 what you said. Go ahead.

24 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I think Your Honor had it
25 correctly. When we struck the deal, this was within the 001625

1 range, because I checked.

2 The ranges do move, and they have moved considerably,
3 which is one of the interesting things about these kinds of 4 valuations. Because it's model-input, it does move around
5 even though there's not a market to say that someone would pay
6 more or less for their stock. So, there would be times during 7 2020 that that number would be outside of the range. And even 8 in the -- in the May time frame, the April-May, I don't 9 remember exact numbers off the top of my head, it would be in 10 the -- in the lower end of the range.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Proceed.

12 MR. CLUBOK: Okay. I'll proceed with that, Your 13 Honor.

14 THE COURT: Okay.

15 BY MR. CLUBOK:

16 Q So we're clear, Mr. Seery, as we sit here today, the last 17 completed valuation, the most recent completed final
18 valuation, which was during August, for Houlihan Lokey has a 19 current range such that the lowest point of that range is 20 above the $30.5 million number, correct?

21 A I don't recall off the top of my head. You've represented
22 it. I wouldn't quibble with it.

23 Q And, in fact, the midpoint of the most current Houlihan
24 Lokey valuation is significantly higher than $30.5 million;
25 isn't that true?

1 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

2 THE COURT: Sustained.

3 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I -- this is where I would
4 like the read the exact numbers. I have the exact numbers
5 right here. I'm looking at them.

6 THE COURT: We --

7 MR. CLUBOK: And I -- I'm going -- I can impeach him.

8 THE COURT: We've already addressed this issue that 9 we would need a Houlihan witness if you're going to give 10 details about a Houlihan report. And he testified he didn't 11 know. He wouldn't quibble with you. So I think that was sort
12 of a lack of foundation objection Mr. Morris waged, and I'm 13 sustaining it. Okay.

14 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

15 BY MR. CLUBOK:

16 Q Did you, before submitting the settlement to the Court,
17 check the range of the most current available Houlihan Lokey
18 report before the settlement was submitted to the Court?

19 A I -- I think I may have. I don't -- I don't recall
20 specifically.

21 Q Okay. If we compare to the motion that you submitted, and 22 I think you explained that before the motion was filed you
23 read it carefully and discussed it with your lawyers and had 24 opportunity to ask questions with the other directors about 25 the entirety of the motion. Is that correct?

1 A I think -- I think we -- we fought about the word
2 carefully. I try to read everything carefully, but I assumed
3 you were trying to pin me down to some -- some super-fine
4 reading. I did read the motion. I did comment on the motion.
5 Yes.

6 Q Okay. Now, if we can put the motion up, please. This is 7 Debtor's motion. It's Docket No. 1099, I believe. Yes. You
8 were asked by Mr. Morris about the language that was 9 supposedly used in the motion that my colleague, Ms.
10 Tomkowiak, referenced in her opening. I just want to turn to 11 that exact language that was used in your motion. It's on 12 Page 10, Paragraph 31. And what it said in your motion is 13 that the damage award will be reduced by approximately $30.5
14 million to account for the perceived fair market value of 15 those shares.

16 Well, the first question I have is, before this was 17 submitted -- well, strike that. Fair to say you have not 18 performed what you would consider to be a fair market
19 valuation of the shares, or caused that to be performed before
20 filing this motion, correct?

21 A Yes.

22 Q Okay. But you did have documents from Houlihan Lokey that 23 reports a -- what they called a fair valuation, and that gives 24 a range of what Houlihan Lokey calls a fair valuation, and you
25 have them -- have available to you every month for the

1 Cornerstone shares, correct?

2 A Yes.

3 Q And do you know whether or not the fair valuation of the 4 most current Houlihan Lokey report that you had in your
5 possession prior to causing this to be submitted to the Court
6 put that fair valuation at, say, at least 50 percent higher
7 than 30.5?

8 A I don't know and I -- off the top of my head, I don't have 9 in front of me. I said I wouldn't quibble with you, but I
10 don't want to accede to your math.

11 Q You wouldn't -- but you wouldn't quibble, based on your --
12 you know enough to know about Cornerstone today that you
13 wouldn't quibble with that rough math? Correct?

14 A Without -- without -- I believe that the valuation in the 15 more current Houlihan values is higher than it was in May. I 16 don't know if it's higher than it was at the beginning of the 17 year off the top of my head. And I don't know whether 50
18 percent is the right number or 40 percent or 52 percent. I
19 take you at your word that it's higher and that this number
20 doesn't fall within the range.

21 Q Okay. Now let's go back, because you said, well, it did 22 fall within the range at one point. I guess you said back in 23 May it fell within the range. Is that correct?

24 A I believe that's correct, yes.

25 Q Okay. So there was a Houlihan Lokey report that was

1 available to you in May of 2020 that had a range where $30.5
2 million fell within, correct?

3 A There's a report every month. I'm not sure exactly which 4 report we looked at.

5 Q Well, the point on the -- I believe you did testify, this
6 is what the Judge heard, too, that there is a report that you
7 looked at around April or May that had a range from Houlihan
8 Lokey, and 30.5 fell within that range, and that's what you
9 used to in your mind justify the reasonableness of the $30.5
10 million at that time. Is that correct?

11 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

12 THE COURT: Overruled.

13 MR. MORRIS: Mischaracterizes.

14 THE COURT: Overruled. He can answer.

15 THE WITNESS: The answer is to, with respect to that 16 piece of the discussion, which went along with Mr. Morris's
17 analysis, yes. And it did fall the within the range.

18 BY MR. CLUBOK:

19 Q Right. And, in fact, --

20 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I would like to proffer that 21 the Houlihan Lokey report that was dated -- that was available
22 in April and May had a range that was, in fact, higher at the 23 low point than 30.5. And if we could use that document to 24 impeach Mr. Seery, or we could demonstrate, proffer evidence
25 that's not for hearsay but they're offering it for the truth

1 of the matter asserted. We think that (inaudible) and
2 certainly shows -- it impeaches Mr. Seery telling you
3 repeatedly that 30.5 at least fell within that range.

4 THE COURT: Well, I --

5 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I be heard?

6 THE COURT: I overrule -- I heard him say that at 7 various points during 2020 the modeling of Houlihan would go
8 to different points. I'm not sure what you think you're 9 impeaching. What --

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I --

11 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Morris, go ahead.

12 MR. CLUBOK: Well, Your Honor, I mean, --

13 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, go ahead.

14 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I would also point out, Your 15 Honor, consistent with exactly what you just said, that UBS's
16 witness, expert witness, which is one of the reasons why I
17 think he ought to be excluded, expressly says in his report
18 that the value came within the range of the Houlihan Lokey
19 valuation. I think it was from March. But he makes the 20 admission expressly. Expressly. It's --

21 MR. CLUBOK: That is not true. There is a Houlihan
22 Lokey report that I'm looking at right now that was for March
23 of 20 -- I know Mr. Seery just said off the top of his head
24 that the values fluctuate. There is -- I will represent there
25 is no Houlihan Lokey report since March, which was the lowest

90

1 point of COVID, through today, that ever had a range that was
2 provided to Highland where 30.5 falls within, as opposed to 3 below the range. So we have the reports. We have every 4 report they produced to us. We asked for all of them. We've 5 got them. We could offer them to the Court and you would see 6 that Mr. Seery's statement off the top of his head that it is 7 in the middle or that it varies or have been telling you that 8 it fluctuates and the ranges go up and down is just not true,
9 --

10 THE COURT: All right.

11 MR. CLUBOK: -- based on the actual Houlihan reports
12 that we have that they just provided to us a few days ago.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Let me take this in parts. I've 14 already ruled that the Houlihan reports will not get in, the 15 main reason out of two or three reasons being that it's 16 hearsay without a Houlihan person here. Okay? And someone 17 could have subpoenaed a Houlihan person and maybe I would have 18 been enforced that subpoena. All right?

19 But second, I just want to be clear what I'm hearing.
20 What I heard -- again, I've taken notes occasionally. The 21 testimony that I guess you're wanting to use the Houlihan
22 reports to impeach is that Mr. -- I heard Mr. Seery say that 23 when the deal was struck, the proposed compromise with the 24 Redeemer Committee was struck in April or May, that he thought
25 this $30.5 million value was in the range of the modeling --

001632

1 the models or the valuations that Houlihan had done. And I
2 have inferred from other comments and testimony that it was a
3 March -- it was March Houlihan modeling that he was looking at 4 at that point.

5 As for anything else, I'm not sure he used the word -- the 6 words ups and downs. I think he used the words that if you
7 would check at various points in time during 2020, Houlihan's
8 modeling showed different numbers for valuation, but he relied 9 on the information in the April-May time frame when the deal
10 was struck.

11 All right. So, based on what I've heard, I don't think
12 there is some independent grounds to try to get the Houlihan
13 reports in now as impeachment.

14 All right. So that's the ruling. Continue.

15 MR. CLUBOK: Okay.

16 BY MR. CLUBOK:

17 Q Today's fair market value of Cornerstone, in your best
18 judgment, with all the information you have available to you,
19 for 42 percent, is significantly above $30.5 million, correct?

20 A Fair market value? I don't have that information. I
21 don't -- I don't think that today, if you wanted to transact
22 those shares, in my opinion, other than an insider, that you
23 could sell those shares today for $30.5 million.

24 Q If the shares were being marketed and sold together, as 25 the settlement requires the Debtor to do in good faith over

1 the next year, the fair value estimates currently today
2 available to the Debtor show that it's worth significantly
3 more than $30.5 million; isn't that true?

4 A The Houlihan share value marks show a higher value, yes.
5 They're not fair market. Let's make sure we are precise.

6 Q Understood. Houlihan uses the phrase "fair value" in its 7 reports. And the current marks that you pay Houlihan to 8 provide to Highland shows today, October 20th, 2020, that the 9 value of 42 percent of Cornerstone is significantly higher
10 than $30.5 million, correct? The fair value? Whether or not 11 --

12 A I believe it's -- I believe it's higher. And the last one 13 we have is 8/31. I just don't remember the amount that it is.

14 Q Okay. You did not offer that information into evidence in 15 support of your motion? You chose not to do that, correct?

16 A I -- I chose -- I think -- I don't know what counsel put 17 in other than -- than me.

18 Q Well, you are aware, actually, that the only evidence that 19 counsel put in the record to support this motion is the motion
20 itself and your testimony?

21 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. He -- he's here
22 testifying. And --

23 (Audio interruption.)

24 MR. MORRIS: We'll -- we'll be putting our exhibits
25 in as well. But to continually refer to the motion itself as

1 the only evidence is just not right.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Overruled.

3 MR. CLUBOK: I'll move on, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

6 BY MR. CLUBOK:

7 Q You said in your direct that Houlihan -- you called them
8 the premier -- you used some superlative. Said they're the 9 premier valuation experts or something for -- for modeling or 10 -- some superlative about Houlihan. Do you recall that?

11 A Yes, I do. In terms of providing third-party valuations
12 to investment funds and others, I think they are the premier 13 firm.

14 Q Okay. Who -- you don't know who at Houlihan actually 15 works on the valuations for Cornerstone, correct?

16 A I don't, no.

17 Q You have no idea what the credentials are of anybody at 18 Houlihan who have done any work to help prepare those 19 valuations that you've got other than from them, correct?

20 A That's not true.

21 Q You're -- do you know the names of any of these -- their 22 people?

23 A No.

24 Q Okay. You've never spoken to any of them, correct?

25 A In regard to this assignment? No.

1 Q Yeah. You've never asked for anyone at Houlihan who works
2 on valuing Cornerstone to be available to you as part of due
3 diligence in preparing for this settlement review, though.

4 Correct?

5 A I -- I have not, no.

6 Q You yourself have never done a valuation of a health
7 company, healthcare company on your own, correct?

8 A On my own? No.

9 Q You have -- you've never heard -- I asked you on Saturday,
10 but before Saturday, at least, you'd never heard of something
11 called the Gordon Growth Model for estimating terminal value
12 with respect to healthcare funds. That is correct?

13 A I had not heard of it before Saturday, no.

14 Q You have no idea whether or not the choice of using a low
15 exit multiple as compared to using a Gordon Growth method
16 would affect a proper DCF analysis for analyzing a healthcare
17 company like Cornerstone, correct?

18 A No. That's not true.

19 Q Well, you don't know that the Gordon Growth method -- you
20 don't know how the Gordon Growth method factors into any 21 analysis of DCF, correct?

22 A That's not true.

23 MR. CLUBOK: Could we put up Mr. Seery's deposition?

24 BY MR. CLUBOK:

25 Q Well, you certainly don't know how the Gordon Growth

1 method factors into Houlihan's analysis of Cornerstone,
2 correct?

3 A I don't think they use it. They show on their valuations
4 a terminal multiple. And they do a DCF and do a terminal
5 multiple, which is the way virtually everybody does it in 6 these kinds of assets, because Gordon Growth focuses on 7 continued growth businesses that continually grow their 8 dividends.

9 Q Well, now, that -- that statement you gave about Gordon
10 Growth method, that's something you just learned between 11 Saturday and today, correct?

12 A That is correct.

13 Q Okay. Who told you that?

14 A I both looked it up and talked to professionals.

15 Q Who, exactly?

16 A I'd rather not say the names of my friends who provide me
17 help on these things.

18 Q Well, with all due respect, Mr. Seery, if it relates to 19 the basis for a statement you make, I'd just like the source
20 of that statement.

21 MS. LAMBERT: Your Honor, I object on the ground of 22 relevance. I've -- I've held my tongue for overall, but I
23 don't think this is really germane to the issues.

24 THE COURT: Sustained.

25 MR. MORRIS: I join in the objection.

1 THE COURT: I sustain.

2 BY MR. CLUBOK:

3 Q You expect, Mr. Seery -- well, per the settlement,
4 proposed settlement, Crusader would have (garbled) that a
5 claim valued -- a stipulated claim of about $137 million.
6 Correct?

7 A That's correct.

8 Q And also Redeemer would be allowed to keep their 42
9 percent interest in Cornerstone that the arbitration award had 10 otherwise said needed to be tendered to Highland, correct?

11 A That's correct.

12 Q You, based on your current analysis, expect that the -- 13 Redeemer would be fully paid in the full amount of that 14 allowed claim of roughly $137 million, according to current 15 thinking of the Debtors and creditors in the estate. Is that
16 correct?

17 A I can only speak to my thinking, and that we put forth
18 relatively conservative numbers in our projections, that 19 assuming that the denominator ends up where I believe it
20 should end up, which is the number of claims in the case,
21 which assumes UBS has a zero claim, and that Mr. Daugherty's
22 claim is capped at the amount that we've -- we've agreed to in 23 our papers, which I believe is around $3.7 million, and that 24 HarbourVest has a zero claim, and then there are some 25 assumptions around operating costs, I believe that we will be

1 able to pay these claims in full.

2 Q Well, but you've made it clear to Redeemer that your
3 current expectation is to be able to pay that $137 million
4 allowed claim in full, if everything goes the way you just 5 described you think it should go or you believe it will go?

6 A I've never had that discussion with Redeemer.

7 Q You have advised Redeemer in words or substance that you
8 expect there to be full payment of a $137 million allowed
9 claim under the settlement? Is that true?

10 A I don't believe I have.

11 Q You don't believe you've ever (inaudible) that, in words
12 or substance, with either Redeemer or any of its counsel?

13 A I don't believe I have, no.

14 Q Okay.

15 MR. CLUBOK: Just one moment, Your Honor, while I
16 (inaudible).

17 (Pause.)

18 BY MR. CLUBOK:

19 Q Mr. Morris asked you, asked you whether you roll over.
20 You said no. Then he asked you whether you thought that 21 Redeemer would roll over on one of their claims completely,
22 and you said no.

23 With respect to one point in the settlement, the EERS
24 (phonetic) interest, those (inaudible) that Highland currently 25 holds, if there was a settlement it would it extinguish

1 roughly five to six million dollars of your current
2 valuations. Is that right?

3 A I think that's about right.

4 Q And those -- that five to six million in value is one of 5 the issues that would be subject to a ruling on the vacatur
6 motion that we talked about, the idea that -- that additional 7 substantive elements were added to the arbitration award after 8 the first part of the award. Is that correct?

9 A I believe that's one of the issues that -- that I am 10 briefed.

11 Q Yeah. And on that issue, under this settlement, you're 12 giving a hundred percent credit to Crusader's or Redeemer's
13 claims with respect to that particular element. Correct?

14 A That's correct.

15 Q And, in fact, you're giving a hundred percent credit to 16 all of Redeemer's claims with respect to the amounts that were 17 disputed under the argument that claims added after the first
18 final arbitration award are impermissible, correct?

19 A I'm -- I just -- I'm not -- I'm not sure what you're 20 asking me there. I'm sorry.

21 Q Well, for example, that Barclay's claim is another claim
22 that's worth about $30 million in total. And that's -- that's 23 about $21 million awarded, about $9 million pre-judgment
24 interest. That $30 million, like the EERS, is subject to this 25 argument that it shouldn't be properly -- it was impermissibly

1 awarded by the arbitration panel because it came after the
2 first final award. Correct?

3 A I think that there's an argument to that effect, correct.

4 Q Yeah. And under the proposed settlement, you're giving it
5 a hundred percent -- you're giving a zero percent settlement
6 discount, or a very -- a zero percent settlement discount for 7 Highland, correct?

8 A That's correct.

9 Q Thank you.

10 MR. CLUBOK: I have nothing further.

11 THE COURT: All right. Redirect?

12 MR. MORRIS: Just a few questions, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Mr. Seery, if the Debtor walks away from this agreement, 17 has the Debtor done any analysis and taken advice on the 18 likelihood of succeeding in Chancery Court?

19 A The Debtor has, yes.

20 Q And can you share with the Court the Debtor's view as to 21 the likelihood of success in the Chancery Court?

22 MR. CLUBOK: Objection. Objection, Your Honor.

23 Just, number one, I don't think that's -- to the extent that
24 that's going to rely on advice of counsel, I just (inaudible).

25 We're going to get a -- the percentage that's based on --

Seery - Redirect

100

1 waiving the privilege. I raised that ahead of time.

2 MR. MORRIS: I appreciate that, counsel. We're
3 certainly not intending to waive the privilege. I'm just 4 asking for a statement as to the Debtor's position as to why
5 it does not believe it is likely to succeed in Chancery Court.
6 I'm not asking him to share any confidential communications,
7 but thank you for the comment.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Please proceed.

9 MR. CLUBOK: Um, --

10 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, you can answer.

11 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor. When we looked 12 at the Chancery Court, there is a number of the issues the 13 Debtor raised previously in the arbitration. There was a 14 partial award that clearly says it's a partial award. And 15 then the Debtor raised a number of procedural issues that 16 there were additions to the partial award between the partial 17 and the final. And the final goes through those in detail
18 with this panel that, as we said, is -- was esteemed and had 19 lot of work on it.

20 For example, in one section, they gave the whole rationale
21 in the partial and they left out the damage number. So they 22 -- they had ruled basically fully against the Debtor, but 23 without giving a number. And so Highland attempted to argue 24 that to the arbitration panel in between the partial and the 25 final. The arbitration panel said that's a scrivener's error,

001642

Seery - Redirect

101

1 we're allowed to do this, and they went through the analysis.

2 Our counsel looked at these issues again. And we thought
3 that the likelihood of success at the Chancery Court to re-
4 raise these issues was very low. So we did factor it in and 5 we did analyze it. It wasn't something that we missed. We 6 just didn't think it was a fruitful opportunity to litigate in 7 the Chancery Court.

8 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: All right. Any recross?

10 MR. CLUBOK: No, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I just move my exhibits
13 into evidence, and then I'll rest?

14 THE COURT: Okay. You may.

15 MR. MORRIS: Okay. The Debtor would like, then, to 16 move into evidence exhibits that are marked 1 through 4. And 17 to be specific, and we can take them one at a time, Exhibit 1
18 is Proof of Claim #72. That was filed, I believe, on behalf
19 of the Crusader Funds.

20 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, objection on hearsay
21 grounds, Your Honor. It has been offered into evidence.

22 THE COURT: All right.

23 MR. CLUBOK: It's the proof of claim.

24 MR. MORRIS: Object to the compromise. I'm not -- it
25 is the proof -- I'm not offering it for the truth of the

001643

1 matter asserted at all, actually.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. CLUBOK: That's fine. If it's not being offered
4 for the truth of the matter asserted, but just for those 5 purposes, then we have no objection.

6 THE COURT: Okay. So that --

7 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

8 THE COURT: -- is admitted. And to be clear where 9 this appears in the Court record, Docket Entry #1178, Debtor's
10 witness and exhibit list, I think it was attached to that as 11 Exhibit 1. That's admitted.

12 (Debtor's Exhibit 1 is received into evidence.)

13 MR. MORRIS: Exhibit 2 is Proof of Claim #81, is the 14 proof of claim filed by the Redeemer Committee. The Debtor
15 respectfully moves that exhibit into evidence as well.

16 THE COURT: Okay. Same sort of concept, for notice
17 purposes only, it's admitted.

18 (Debtor's Exhibit 2 is received into evidence.)

19 MR. MORRIS: Okay. And the Debtor also moves into 20 evidence the declaration of John Morris submitted in support
21 of the 9019 motion and the exhibits annexed thereto. To be 22 clear, Exhibit 1 to my declaration is the stipulation of 23 settlement. Exhibits 2, 3, and 4 are the partial final award,
24 the modification award, and the final award. Those three 25 documents have been filed under seal pursuant to a sealing

1 motion which is on our exhibit list as Exhibit #4. And I
2 think there might also be duplicate copies of the proofs of 3 claim attached to my declaration as well. But we'd move all
4 of those documents into evidence, subject to the sealing
5 order.

6 THE COURT: All right. Any objection? All right.

7 MR. CLUBOK: No objection, for the non-hearsay
8 purposes of those.

9 THE COURT: All right. So, Exhibit 3, with all of 10 those subparts, some of which are under seal, are admitted.

11 (Debtor's Exhibit 3, including subparts, is received into 12 evidence.)

13 MR. MORRIS: I do want to clarify, Your Honor, that 14 with respect to the three parts of the award, we're offering 15 them for the truth of the matter asserted insofar as they are 16 the findings of fact and the conclusions of law of the 17 arbitration panel.

18 MR. CLUBOK: No objection.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: Thank you.

22 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, and I do have a -- also 23 similar housekeeping. And I raise this with a trembling voice
24 because I really am -- very respectfully. I'd just like to 25 make a proffer that there are four Houlihan Lokey exhibits

1 that have been recently produced to us in the last few days.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. CLUBOK: If I can just make my proffer, then I'll 4 stop.

5 THE COURT: Let me -- let me stop -- let me stop you.
6 I'm not sure Mr. Morris was finished yet with the exhibits he 7 was going to offer. Let me clarify.

8 Are you finished, Mr. Morris?

9 MR. CLUBOK: Oh, I apologize.

10 MR. MORRIS: Just -- just to be clear, I think I was,
11 but Exhibit #4, which is the sealing order, we also offer into 12 evidence, just to support the sealing of Exhibits 2, 3, and 4
13 to my declaration.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, I can certainly take 15 judicial notice of that and we'll go ahead for clarity and 16 admit that as a witness -- as an exhibit.

17 (Debtor's Exhibit 4 is received into evidence.)

18 THE COURT: All right. So, with that, you rest, Mr.
19 Morris?

20 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. Now, Mr. Clubok, you were 22 saying?

23 MR. CLUBOK: I appreciate it, Your Honor. There are 24 -- we had a document request. We were provided four Bates-
25 labeled productions within the last few days of Houlihan Lokey

1 reports that are dated March 2020, June 2020, July 2020, and 2 August 2020, the only ones that they've been -- have been
3 provided to us during that time period.

4 I understand Your Honor ruled that they are hearsay and 5 can't come in for the truth of the matter, but we believe that 6 they should properly be admitted for the purpose of notice,
7 the fact that that information is available to Mr. Seery, and 8 also, frankly, for impeachment if we are allowed to present
9 that for the Court's view, at least under seal. I believe
10 we've already submitted two of them under seal on Friday
11 night. The other two, we just got like last night or the wee
12 hours of the morning yesterday. And we would like to proffer
13 that there are four Houlihan Lokey exhibits that were made
14 available to us that should be admitted for non-hearsay
15 purposes.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, I once again will make 17 clear for the record that I am not admitting those. I think 18 they are hearsay. I think you would need the creator or 19 supervisor of the reports here to properly offer them into 20 evidence.

21 I also think that, as I said earlier, I'm not required to 22 conduct a mini-trial and accept every piece of possible
23 evidence of valuation. I am supposed to, you know, consider 24 facts and circumstances that bear on the wisdom of the 25 compromise. And so I've heard valuation testimony from Mr.

1 Seery and what he considered the range of reasonableness.

2 Anyway, I primarily rely on the hearsay problem here in
3 not admitting these four exhibits. So that is the ruling.

4 If you want to put them into the record under seal for 5 purposes of maybe appeal purposes -- he or she made an error,
6 she didn't accept this stuff -- then obviously you can submit
7 them under seal for the court reporter to keep them in the 8 record. So I assume you'll coordinate after the hearing
9 getting those into the court reporter's hands under seal.

10 Okay?

11 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor. Thank you very 12 much. Appreciate it.

13 THE COURT: Okay. So, I guess at this point we've 14 had the Debtor rest and we're going to go to UBS's evidence.
15 I want to make the most efficient use of time possible. And 16 let me clarify. I had told you all I would stop at 12:30
17 Central time. It's 12:19. My quandary is that I have a 1:30
18 status conference in an adversary proceeding in another case,
19 and then I have a 2:30 hearing that should not last very long
20 in yet another case. So I have told you all you can come back
21 at 3:00 o'clock.

22 Is there anything worthwhile you think we can accomplish
23 in ten minutes, or shall we just break? What do you all 24 think?

25 MR. CLUBOK: What I do think, Your Honor, is if we

1 have the ten minutes, maybe we can work to make sure that we
2 have addressed any other confidentiality issues and make sure
3 that Mr. Morris and his law firm are comfortable with what 4 we're going to do with our next witness so we don't have an 5 accidental foot fault. I think that can be useful. We'll 6 spend the time doing that to make sure that --

7 THE COURT: Okay. You mean talk offline?

8 MR. CLUBOK: Yeah. The attorneys will talk amongst 9 themselves and just --

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. CLUBOK: We don't want to accidentally put 12 something up that is going to be objected to. We'd rather 13 show it -- now show it to Mr. Morris in advance and hopefully 14 work it out so that we don't have to accidentally put 15 something in the record they're, you know, going to object to.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, I am good with that.
17 And so let's talk about a couple of additional things. My 18 courtroom deputy I think has put up the instructions for how 19 to reconnect at 3:00 o'clock, because obviously we're going to 20 have to break this off and I have other video hearings. So,
21 you know, contact my courtroom deputy if you don't see those 22 instructions. The instructions should be on the website, as 23 far as numbers and passwords and whatnot to use for the new 24 setting or the new resumption of this hearing at 3:00 o'clock.

25 The next thing I will say is I think I told you all we

1 could go until 5:00 or 5:30-ish. I do want to again be 2 efficient and break when it makes sense to break. I have
3 availability to come back tomorrow at 9:30 in the morning. So
4 maybe you all could be thinking ahead with regard to the Acis
5 motion. You know, do you want to start late today and do your 6 darnedest to finish, or is that a pipe dream and we'll have to 7 come back tomorrow?

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just speaking for the 9 Debtor, I don't think that we're going to have -- I don't
10 anticipate having any of the same confidentiality issues.

11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

12 MR. MORRIS: I think that this was handled as 13 efficiently as it could under the circumstances. I have a 14 better sense of how to get this done. I'm hopeful that we 15 won't need but a few more minutes to finish the Redeemer, and 16 I'd like to try to get to as much of the Acis part as we can.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we will shoot to try to get 18 it done today if we can. And if that means we need to go a 19 little later than I've projected, we will, if we can avoid 20 coming back tomorrow.

21 All right. So I shall see you all at 3:00 o'clock Central 22 time. Okay.

23 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, if I -- this is Rakhee Patel.
24 If I could, just quickly on the Acis issue, I am unavailable
25 tomorrow morning, so I just wanted to put everybody -- to put

1 that out there. I haven't discussed that with either Mr.
2 Morris or Mr. Demo. But unfortunately, I've got an unmovable
3 conflict tomorrow morning. So, if it did run over, I wouldn't 4 be available. So if we could finish it today, that would be 5 greatly appreciated.

6 THE COURT: All right. Well, I have in my notes that 7 we'll have Mr. Seery again. And Mr. Daugherty was listed as a
8 witness, possible witness, by his lawyer. And then Ms.
9 Rappaport as a possible expert witness. I'm not a hundred
10 percent clear what the scope of that testimony would be. I 11 don't know if there are objections. But if we do in fact have 12 three witnesses, it may be a challenge finishing tonight.
13 But, you know, I will go past 5:00 or 5:30, but not insanely
14 past those hours. Okay? I don't want to be up here at 9:00
15 o'clock when we have staff who isn't getting paid overtime.
16 So, all right.

17 MR. MORRIS: We're grateful, Your Honor.

18 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. We stand adjourned.

19 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

20 THE CLERK: All rise.

21 (A recess ensued from 12:24 p.m. until 3:01 p.m.)

22 THE CLERK: All rise.

23 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. Welcome
24 back. We are going to resume our Highland hearing. It looks 25 like we've got a lot of folks on the phone once again.

1 When we broke at 12:20, the Debtor had rested on the
2 motion to approve the compromise with the Redeemer Committee
3 and the Crusader Fund, and we were about to hear from UBS and 4 their evidence objecting to the settlement.

5 Any housekeeping matters before we turn it over to Mr.
6 Clubok?

7 All right. Well, Mr. Clubok, are you there? Are you
8 ready to call your witness?

9 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, it's actually Ms. Tomkowiak.

10 THE COURT: Oh.

11 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I going to handle this portion of the 12 hearing.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MS. TOMKOWIAK: And we are ready to call Mr. (audio 15 gap).

16 THE COURT: Mr. Moentmann? Is that how you say the 17 name? Is it Mr. Moentmann?

18 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right.

20 MR. MOENTMANN: That's -- yes, that's correct.

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Moentmann, I need to 22 swear you in. So there you are. I can see you now. Please
23 raise your right hand.

24 W. KEVIN MOENTMANN, UBS SECURITIES, LLC'S WITNESS, SWORN

25 THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

Moentmann - Direct

111

1 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Great.

2 DIRECT EXAMINATION

3 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

4 Q And Mr. Moentmann, I understand that you've prepared some 5 demonstratives to assist with your testimony; is that correct?

6 A That is correct.

7 Q Okay.

8 MR. MORRIS: Excuse me. May I -- as I previewed
9 earlier, I have a motion. I'd like to voir dire. It'll be 10 about 12 questions, and then I'd like to make a motion to 11 exclude the witness's testimony. May I?

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, Ms. Tomkowiak, you knew
13 this was coming. Anything you want to say at this point?

14 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I don't think this is the motion. I
15 mean, I haven't -- I haven't -- I heard that earlier, but no
16 preview as to the grounds for a motion were provided.

17 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, what about that?

18 MR. MORRIS: It's voir dire, Your Honor. I would 19 just like to ask questions to see if this witness can provide 20 testimony consistent with Federal Rule of Evidence 702. I
21 just took his deposition yesterday.

22 THE COURT: Okay. You may proceed with voir dire.

23 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you.

24 VOIR DIRE EXAMINATION

25 BY MR. MORRIS:

001653

1 Q Sir, you had never heard of Cornerstone before this case;
2 is that right?

3 A That's correct.

4 Q And you were retained just a couple of weeks ago; is that
5 right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And you spent approximately 20 or 30 hours preparing your 8 analysis, right?

9 A Yes. Up until my deposition on Saturday, yes.

10 Q Yes. And without getting into the details, one of the 11 biggest drivers in the difference between the values that you
12 come up with and the values that Houlihan Lokey comes up with 13 is a difference in one aspect of the methodology, whereby you
14 use what's called the Growth Model and Houlihan Lokey uses
15 exit -- exit multiples. Do I have that right?

16 A That is one area, yes.

17 Q And it's one of the biggest areas; isn't that right?

18 A It's -- yes and no.

19 Q Okay. But you'll agree that the use of exit multiples in 20 the manner that Houlihan Lokey has done is an accepted
21 practice in the valuation industry; isn't that right?

22 A If the multiples selected are reasonable, yes.

23 Q Okay. The methodology is certainly accepted; is that
24 right?

25 A It's -- it's not the prevalent one that is accepted.

1 Q Okay. And your firm is Grant Thornton; is that right?

2 A Yes. That's right.

3 Q And Grant Thornton prepares valuation reports similar in 4 nature to the ones that Houlihan Lokey prepares; is that
5 right?

6 A Yes, we do.

7 Q And in fact, you personally consider Houlihan Lokey to be
8 a competitor; is that fair?

9 A Yes.

10 Q And you've reviewed Houlihan Lokey reports before being 11 engaged in this matter, haven't you?

12 A I have.

13 Q And based on your professional experience, you believe 14 Houlihan Lokey has a good reputation in the field of 15 valuation; isn't that correct?

16 A I believe it is a reputable firm, yes.

17 Q In fact, you're aware that from time to time Grant
18 Thornton's own audit clients have used Houlihan Lokey's
19 valuation services; isn't that right?

20 A I couldn't tell you specifically which clients, but I'm 21 sure they have, given the large number of audit clients that 22 we have, yes.

23 Q And those audit clients use Houlihan Lokey even though
24 Houlihan Lokey uses a methodology different from the one
25 employed by Grant Thornton; isn't that right?

1 A I couldn't say that affirmatively. I don't know if they
2 use a different methodology when they're performing the 3 valuation for our audit client.

4 Q Okay. You're aware, though, that your audit clients not
5 only use Houlihan Lokey but they actually rely on Houlihan
6 Lokey's valuation services; is that fair?

7 A Again, I'm assuming they do, just given the large number
8 of audit clients. We have, you know, thousand plus audit
9 clients, I would imagine, so I would assume that Houlihan is 10 doing some of them.

11 Q Okay. And --

12 A (overspoken)

13 Q I'm sorry to interrupt.

14 A Yeah. I was just -- I was actually just getting to answer
15 your question. So I'm sure they do and rely on Houlihan for 16 valuation.

17 Q Okay. Thank you, sir. Putting aside your own personal
18 views as reflected in your declaration, you have no reason to 19 believe that it was unreasonable for the Debtor to utilize
20 Houlihan Lokey's reports in this instance; isn't that correct?

21 A Well, I think I've pointed out several areas where I 22 think, given the assumptions made, that it -- it is 23 unreasonable.

24 Q Okay. I'm going to ask the question one more time and ask
25 you to listen very carefully. Putting aside your own personal

1 views as reflected in your declaration, you have no reason to
2 believe that it was unreasonable for the Debtor to utilize
3 Houlihan Lokey's reports in this instance; isn't that correct?

4 A Putting aside my -- my different viewpoint from a
5 valuation -- as a valuation professional, yes.

6 Q Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, Rule 702 requires that 8 qualified experts may only offer opinion testimony if four 9 specific conditions are satisfied.

10 One of those conditions is that the opinion testimony will 11 help a trier of fact understand the evidence or determine a 12 fact at issue. The only issue in this case is whether or not 13 this settlement is fair or reasonable. This is not a 14 valuation fight. This is not a fight over whether or not the 15 Debtor is maximizing value. This is a dispute over whether or 16 not the Debtor is properly exercising its business judgment,
17 whether it's done a fair and reasonable investigation and 18 diligence of the matters at issue. And I think, given the 19 witness's testimony just now that his own clients use Houlihan
20 Lokey and that he has no reason to believe that it would be 21 unreasonable for the Debtor to use Houlihan Lokey in this
22 instance, I don't see (garbled) respect to the witness.
23 Because I'm not challenging his qualifications. This is not a 24 Daubert motion. I just don't see how this is at all useful to 25 you as the trier of fact to understand the evidence and

1 determine a fact at issue.

2 Thank you, Your Honor.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Your response, Ms. Tomkowiak?

4 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Well, Your Honor, I feel like it's 5 important to acknowledge that -- he's saying this is not a
6 Daubert motion. This is not a 702 issue. This witness is 7 extremely qualified to provide his opinion on the valuation of 8 Cornerstone, which is an issue in the settlement. It does go
9 exactly to the question that Your Honor is being asked to 10 evaluate, which is, you know, is this settlement fair,
11 equitable, and in the best interest of the estates?

12 I don't understand this hypothetical about, putting aside
13 your opinion, do you have a view? I mean, his opinion is his 14 view. And I believe that it is absolutely relevant. He 15 should be allowed to testify to it. His testimony is based on 16 facts and data. It's the product of a reliable methodology
17 that everybody agrees, you know, can be applied to value an 18 asset. Is to apply that methodology to the facts of this 19 case.

20 So, you know, I understand that the Debtor chose not to 21 put on any evidence regarding the value of this incredibly 22 meaningful asset that they decided to give up in this 23 settlement, but that doesn't mean that UBS shouldn't be 24 allowed to do so in support of its valid objection to the 25 settlement.

Moentmann - Direct

117

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MS. TOMKOWIAK: So, I object and I believe we should
3 be allowed to proceed with our examination of Mr. Moentmann.

4 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the objection. I'm
5 going to allow some testimony. Go ahead.

6 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you. Okay.

7 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

8 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

9 Q And Mr. Moentmann, I think you prepared some slides to 10 assist with your testimony today; is that correct?

11 A That's correct.

12 Q Can you pull those up? All right. So, very briefly,
13 let's just go to the first slide. Please tell the Court,
14 where do you currently work?

15 A Yes. I work at Grant Thornton.

16 Q How long have you worked at Grant Thornton?

17 A For just over four years.

18 Q Briefly, what are your responsibilities at Grant Thornton?

19 A I'm the principal in the firm responsible for providing 20 valuation services. I provide those services extensively in 21 the healthcare industry to a variety of healthcare entities.

22 Q Where were you employed prior to (garbled)?

23 A I believe the question was prior employment. Was at a --
24 was at another professional services firm, CBIZ.

25 Q And what was your role at CBIZ?

001659

1 A My role at CBIZ, which is publicly-traded professional
2 services firm, was similar. I was a managing director
3 responsible for the Central Region, but provided valuation
4 services really across the country, and, again, extensively in 5 the healthcare industry.

6 Q What's your educational background?

7 A Yes. I'm -- my undergraduate degree was -- was a finance
8 degree from University of Missouri Columbia. I received my 9 MBA, again with a finance emphasis, from Washington University
10 in St. Louis.

11 Q Do you have any professional certifications?

12 A Yes. Two. One, the CFA. And the second, the CEIV.
13 That's a newer designation. I received it through the AICPA.
14 It's Certified -- as you can see there, it's Certified in 15 Entity and Intangible Valuations. But it addresses
16 specifically fair value determinations for publicly-traded
17 entities.

18 Q Over the course of your career, how many valuations have 19 you performed?

20 A I wish I'd kept a log, but over the course of thirty-plus
21 years, you know, maybe fifty or so a year, so well over a
22 thousand. Maybe close to two thousand.

23 Q How many of those have involved healthcare companies?

24 A My focus has been on healthcare really since the early
25 '90s, so maybe two-thirds of my valuation work and experience

1 has been healthcare-related.

2 Q Broadly speaking, when performing a valuation, what do you
3 do?

4 A Yes. All valuations, whether it's on a business or an
5 asset, regardless of the industry, we're looking at three
6 approaches to value: An income approach, a market approach,
7 and an asset or cost approach.

8 Q Are these methodologies commonly used and accepted by your 9 peers as well?

10 A Yes. Yes, they're widely accepted.

11 Q And when you're performing a valuation of a healthcare
12 company, in your day-to-day -- your role at your job, what is 13 the purpose of that valuation work?

14 A It ranges. Oftentimes, we're brought in pre-transaction
15 to assist healthcare entities with their M&A activity. If 16 we're assisting not-for-profits, it's a combination of their 17 M&A activity as well as providing regulatory support if that 18 valuation is ever challenged. We also provide valuations
19 post-transaction for financial reporting purposes.

20 Q And did you apply those same methodologies that you use in 21 your ordinary job to the assignment in this case?

22 A Yes, I did.

23 Q How many times have you testified under oath as an expert?

24 A Probably over -- over the last thirty years, maybe every 25 other year, so maybe -- maybe fifteen times.

Moentmann - Direct

120

1 Q Has any court ever rejected you as an expert?

2 A No.

3 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, at this time, pursuant to 4 Rule 702, I'd just like to tender Mr. Moentmann as an expert
5 in the field of valuation.

6 THE COURT: Any comment?

7 MR. MORRIS: No objection.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 MR. MORRIS: No objection.

10 THE COURT: He is so accepted.

11 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

12 Q Mr. Moentmann, what were you asked to do in this case?

13 A Yes. I was asked to assess the valuation of Cornerstone
14 based on the most recent information available, which in this 15 case were certain valuation reports that were prepared for 16 2020. The latest available up until a few days ago were the 17 June 30 reports.

18 Q Have you -- have you formed any opinions?

19 A Yes. We have.

20 Q Let's talk about your opinions. So if you can go to the 21 next slide. Can you please explain to the Court what your 22 first opinion is?

23 A Yes. The first opinion reflects my calculation of 24 Crusader's ownership interest in Cornerstone. It shows, as 25 presented in the second bullet on the slide here, that the 001662

1 subject equity interest ranges in value from $48 through $87
2 million.

3 Q If you can go to the next slide. Can you walk the Court
4 through your second opinion that's reflected on this slide?

5 A Yes. Yes, the -- the second opinion here focuses on 6 various issues that we identified in our review of the 7 information that was made available.

8 The first issue was the selection of very low market
9 multiples. The multiples used in the -- in the valuations
10 relative to what we observed in the marketplace were low, and 11 we did not see any explanatory information as to the selection
12 of those multiples.

13 The second, it was previewed a few minutes ago, and I
14 don't want to get too complex here, but involved the use of 15 the -- or, the estimate of the terminal value, their 16 methodology. And this was in the income approach that was 17 referenced earlier. The methodology that was used was market
18 multiples. They were essentially the same market multiples
19 that were applied in the market approach, rather than a Gordon
20 Growth method. And as I mentioned a few minutes ago, the 21 Gordon Growth method is what we typically see. It is the more
22 common of its -- in my experience.

23 I answered a question both yes and no because one could 24 use the market approach, an exit multiple, I think it was -- 25 as it was called in the question. But that exit multiple

1 still needs to be consistent with market data, and to the 2 first point here, we think that -- you know, I think -- I feel
3 the exit multiples is -- is low, in my opinion.

4 The third issue here involves a CARES Act loan that the 5 company has on its books. It's a $30 million liability. The 6 observation here is that, based on the information available,
7 we don't know to what extent, if any, this CARES Act loan is 8 forgivable.

9 Q Okay. And then I see the last bullet there references
10 inconsistencies between valuations. What do you mean by that?

11 A Yeah. The last bullet applies less to our conclusion and 12 more our observation of -- Houlihan had prepared reports as of 13 the same date for different clients, for Highland as well as 14 Crusader. And we're observing that they had a different value
15 opinion depending upon -- a different value range depending on 16 who the client was, even though the valuation was performed as 17 of the same date.

18 Q And I think you said you reviewed multiple valuations
19 provided by Houlihan. Were the issues you identified here --
20 in particular, the first and second issues -- present in all
21 of the valuations that you reviewed for Houlihan, regardless
22 of the particular time period?

23 A Yes. They were prevalent in all. I would say the CARES
24 Act loan I believe did not hit the books until April, so may 25 not have been prevalent in the early -- the early -- the

1 valuations prior to them.

2 Q What happens when you use, in your opinion, the right
3 assumptions?

4 A The use of the -- the right assumptions, is your question?
5 Right. I -- the use of the right -- could you repeat the 6 question?

7 THE COURT: Yes. Could you repeat your answer? You
8 broke off a little bit, sir.

9 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I've -- I've objected to the 10 question.

11 THE COURT: Oh. I didn't hear you were -- okay. You
12 objected to the question. And what is your basis?

13 MR. MORRIS: Just the use of the phrase the right
14 approach. Don't know if his opinion is any or more less valid
15 than any other opinion.

16 THE COURT: All right.

17 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Your Honor, I'm -- I can -- I'm happy
18 to rephrase the question.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

21 Q What happens when you use the approaches that you use, Mr.
22 Moentmann?

23 A Yes. The use of the assumptions that -- that I believe 24 are reasonable result in a valuation range -- actually, the 25 valuation range presented earlier.

1 Q You listened to Mr. Seery testify both at his deposition
2 and in court today; is that right?

3 A Yes, I did.

4 Q What are your reactions to his testimony as it relates to 5 the Cornerstone value?

6 A I've -- I had a handful of reactions to the testimony.
7 One was with regard to fair value and fair market value. And 8 as someone who's been in the valuation industry for over
9 thirty years, both premises of value, fair value and fair
10 market value, represent a valuation firm's, whether it's 11 Houlihan or Grant Thornton, it is that firm's opinion and best
12 estimate of a market participant value. Both definitions, 13 whether it's fair value or fair market value, focuses on 14 market participant, market participant concepts.

15 Another observation was the -- the use of -- the Gordon
16 Growth method only being applicable for dividend-paying 17 companies. And I can assure you, that's -- that is not the 18 case. This -- there are some methods, the discounted cash
19 flow method and -- and/or the Gordon Growth method, the use of 20 the Gordon Growth method to calculate a residual value or a 21 terminal value is used for all companies, regardless of 22 whether they're dividend-paying or not.

23 Q What is the most -- and by what, I mean by -- not the 24 information itself, but the date -- what is the most recent 25 value -- valuation information that you've been provided with

1 respect to Cornerstone?

2 A We -- we recently received a valuation, I think within the
3 last day or two, as of August 31st.

4 Q And so that was after you prepared and submitted the 5 declaration that you submitted in this case?

6 A Yes.

7 Q If we could go to that slide.

8 MS. TOMKOWIAK: So, consistent with Your Honor's
9 rulings, you know, we would proffer that we have this 10 information, the valuation performed by Houlihan in August, 11 but we have redacted it per this morning's rulings regarding 12 confidentiality.

13 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

14 Q Mr. Moentmann, my question is, without talking about the 15 numbers themselves, based on your of view of that valuation, 16 you know, what did it show in terms of, you know, trends in 17 the -- or performance with respect to the valuation of 18 Cornerstone?

19 A The valuation reflected an upward trend. Really, a 20 continued upward trend in the valuation of Cornerstone.

21 Q Were you able to tell if that was -- what that was based 22 on? Again, broadly speaking.

23 A Based on a quick review of it, yes. The -- that upward
24 trend in value was being driven primarily by the company's 25 continued strong performance and improvement in -- in 1 earnings.

2 Q If you took this latest valuation information, this latest
3 valuation into account in your own analysis, what impact would 4 it have?

5 A It would have a positive impact. The August information
6 reflecting the company's performance through August was 7 strengthening and is -- it would increase our valuation.

8 Q Let's go to the next point on the slide. So, I know that 9 you had summarized the various valuations that you have 10 reviewed. And, again, we have all of these valuations. We 11 have all of these numbers. Pursuant with the Court's rulings
12 this morning, we have redacted the numbers themselves except 13 for the $30.5 million that the Debtor has already put in the 14 public record and your own valuation. Do you understand --
15 have you reviewed the Debtor's motion for approval of the 16 settlement that we've been discussing today?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And you understand that in that motion they've represented
19 that, for settlement purposes, they valued Crusader's
20 ownership interest in Cornerstone at a perceived fair market
21 value of $30.5 million?

22 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

23 THE COURT: Okay. What exactly was it about the 24 question that you found objectionable?

25 MR. MORRIS: The number is the result of

Moentmann - Direct

127

1 negotiations. And I think Mr. Seery testified quite clearly
2 that the notion of perceived market value, you know, probably
3 was a little bit misstated. It's -- it's a negotiated number.
4 That's where we are. That's all.

5 THE COURT: Okay. If you could rephrase, I sustain
6 that objection.

7 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

8 Q You understand that the damage award in this case is,
9 according to the Debtor in the motion that it's filed, it's 10 reducing the Redeemer award by approximately $30.5 million to 11 account for the value that they've assigned to the Cornerstone
12 shares owned by Crusader, right?

13 A Yes. That's my understanding.

14 Q In your opinion and based on the accepted valuation
15 methodologies and standards in your field, is $30.5 million
16 within the range of reasonable valuation of Crusader's
17 interest in Cornerstone today, based on the information
18 available to you?

19 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

20 THE COURT: Overruled.

21 MR. MORRIS: The use of the phrase --

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

24 THE COURT: I overrule.

25 THE WITNESS: No. As shown here, our opinion of 001669

1 value is presented at the bottom here. I found $48 to $87
2 million, I mean, is significantly in excess of the agreed-to 3 amount.

4 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

5 Q Right. And then the same question as of June 30, 2020.
6 In your opinion and based on the accepted methodologies and 7 valuation standards in your field, is $30.5 million within any 8 range of a reasonable valuation of Crusader's interest in 9 Cornerstone, even as of June 30, 2020?

10 A Again, though, I misspoke on the earlier question. I was 11 referencing June on the earlier question. The August
12 valuation, as mentioned earlier, I think it would be only 13 higher than this. In both cases, no.

14 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Subject to redirect, I don't have any 15 further questions.

16 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness. Mr.
17 Morris, any questions?

18 MR. MORRIS: Just a few, Your Honor.

19 CROSS-EXAMINATION

20 BY MR. MORRIS:

21 Q Your valuation hasn't been market-tested, has it, sir?

22 A I'm not sure I understand the question of market testing.

23 Q It's not the result of any negotiation, is it?

24 A No, it is not.

25 Q Okay. And your valuation was prepared for purposes of 1 this motion; isn't that right?

2 A Yes, it was.

3 Q And you understand that the reports that were prepared by 4 Houlihan Lokey were prepared for the client's sole benefit,
5 not for purposes of litigation; is that right?

6 A Well, I'm not sure I understand that. I did not review
7 the engagement letter.

8 Q Okay. But you do understand that they -- because you
9 reviewed a number of monthly reports, you -- withdrawn. You
10 do understand that these reports are prepared monthly for the 11 benefit of Highland; is that right?

12 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Objection. This witness lacks
13 foundation on that.

14 THE COURT: Overruled. He can answer if he knows.

15 THE WITNESS: That's my understanding from the 16 testimony of Mr. Seery.

17 BY MR. MORRIS:

18 Q And in fact, you said that your firm prepares reports
19 similar in nature to the Houlihan reports, right?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And you don't prepare them in the ordinary course of your 22 business for purposes of litigation; is that right?

23 A Can you repeat the question?

24 Q Do you -- do you participate in the preparation of monthly
25 reports on behalf of clients?

1 A No, not in the context of -- of establishing an NAV.

2 Q Okay. I believe you testified that you could use a market
3 approach; there's nothing in the rules or principles of 4 valuation methodology that prohibits the use of a market
5 approach; is that right?

6 A Yes. I testified that a market approach is one of the 7 three primary approaches to value.

8 Q And I think -- I think on one of the slides there were a
9 couple of issues that were raised, and I think you testified
10 or you were asked whether the issues identified were prevalent
11 in each of the Houlihan Lokey reports. Do you remember that?

12 A Yes.

13 Q And that's -- they were prevalent because Houlihan Lokey
14 used consistently the same methodology; is that right?

15 A Yes. They used the same methodology.

16 Q And that's the methodology that you don't think they 17 should use but they think they should use; is that fair?

18 A With respect to the income approach, that's -- that is
19 correct.

20 Q Okay. Have you ever seen anybody publicly criticize
21 Houlihan Lokey for using a market approach as a methodology?

22 A Again, the question -- I think your question is 23 specifically to the use of the market approach within the 24 income approach and calculation of an exit multiple. I have 25 not seen any public statements regarding that topic.

1 Q And in fact, you can't identify any peer-reviewed article
2 or industry publication that specifically says that the Gordon
3 Growth Model is the preferred methodology as opposed to the 4 one employed by Houlihan Lokey; isn't that right?

5 A I can't point you to a peer-reviewed article, but I can
6 tell you from our review of peers what is the prevalent
7 methodology.

8 Q Okay. But nobody's out there writing that; that's your 9 interpretation of the marketplace. Is that fair?

10 A Well, I would say if the marketplace -- there are 11 publications that state how a discounted cash flow analysis is 12 to be performed. There's courses out there that address this.
13 So, --

14 Q Did you ever -- did you ever tell any of your clients who 15 use Houlihan Lokey that they shouldn't do it because Houlihan
16 Lokey uses a flawed methodology?

17 A I've never been asked or had the opportunity to comment on 18 Houlihan's valuation work.

19 Q In the competitive nature, in the competitive field of 20 competing for clients, you never tried to tell you clients,
21 don't use Houlihan, use Grant Thornton, we've got a better
22 method?

23 A I don't run into Houlihan that often in the healthcare
24 industry. I've got too much work myself to -- I find it poor
25 practice to badmouth my competition.

1 Q Good for you. I'm not surprised. Do you think -- do you
2 think Houlihan Lokey artificially manipulated their analysis
3 to come up with a lowball number?

4 A I don't -- I don't know what Houlihan -- I have no idea
5 what Houlihan was thinking with regard to their assumptions in 6 their analysis.

7 Q Did you make any attempt to reach out to anybody at 8 Houlihan to speak to them about their methodologies and the 9 areas that you claim to have identified?

10 A No, I did not contact Houlihan.

11 Q Can you think of -- does Houlihan have a reputation in the 12 industry for undervaluing assets?

13 A I'm not aware of Houlihan's reputation for overvaluing or 14 undervaluing assets.

15 Q So you, in your thirty years of practice, you've never 16 heard anything that causes you to conclude that Houlihan has a
17 reputation for undervaluing assets; is that fair?

18 A That's fair.

19 Q Okay. Can you think of any motivation that Houlihan Lokey 20 would have to undervalue the assets that are reflected in 21 Cornerstone?

22 A No, I'm not aware of Houlihan's motivations.

23 Q Okay. You said that the company was on an upward trend;
24 is that right?

25 A Yes. Specifically, the LTAC business, yes.

1 Q And do you recall yesterday I asked you about the cause of
2 any fluctuation in the value of Cornerstone and you told me
3 that it was the result of market forces and maybe COVID
4 issues?

5 A Yes. The upward trend could be attributed to market
6 forces, including COVID issues.

7 Q Right. Do you remember yesterday I'd asked you whether,
8 since coming to your conclusions, you've gone to your clients
9 and -- or informed your colleagues to try to find a buyer of 10 this grossly-undervalued asset? Remember I asked you about 11 that?

12 A Yes. I recall the question very well.

13 Q And you hadn't done so, right?

14 A I think it would be against our ethical guidelines, so I
15 have not done that.

16 Q Have you made any attempt to confer with either the 17 Redeemer Committee or the Debtor to see if you could, you
18 know, maybe Grant Thornton could act as a broker to, you know,
19 use their valuation report to sell this asset?

20 A No. We are not in the brokerage business.

21 Q Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions, Your Honor.

23 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, I have just a few
24 questions --

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MS. MASCHERIN: -- on cross, if I may.

2 THE COURT: You may. Go ahead, Ms. Mascherin.

3 MS. MASCHERIN: Thank you, Your Honor.

4 CROSS-EXAMINATION

5 BY MS. MASCHERIN:

6 Q Mr. Moentmann, am I correct that the earliest numbers that 7 you've referred to in the two different value estimates that 8 you gave on your last slide, the earliest of those dates was 9 June 30th of 2020? Is that correct?

10 A Yes, that is correct.

11 Q And that was based upon your review of Houlihan Lokey
12 valuation reports dated as -- for -- for the date as June
13 30th, 2020, correct?

14 A Yes. It was their reports as of that same date.

15 Q And would you agree, sir, based on your experience in 16 performing valuations, that that likely indicates a valuation
17 report that was prepared sometime after June 30th of 2020, so 18 as to take into consideration the company's performance during 19 the month of June?

20 A Yes, I would agree.

21 Q And do you have any idea, sir, when it was that either the 22 Crusader Fund or Highland Capital Management received
23 valuation reports for the Cornerstone asset valued as of June
24 30th of 2020?

25 A I don't recall specifically. I thought it was in -- in

1 July. It ought to have been subsequent to the June 30 date.

2 Q And you heard Mr. Seery testify this morning that the 3 negotiations that led to the compromised setoff for the value
4 of the Cornerstone asset took place in the March/April/May 5 time frame? Did you hear that testimony?

6 A Yes.

7 Q Now, in your report, sir, your declaration, and in your
8 testimony today, you made reference to certain different
9 reports that were prepared by Houlihan Lokey for different
10 clients. Do you recall that testimony, sir?

11 A Yes.

12 Q And what you meant by that is that, on the one hand, a 13 team from Houlihan Lokey does regular valuation reports under 14 contract for the Debtor, valuing the 50 -- approximately 58
15 percent or so interest that the Debtor owns or manages in 16 Cornerstone; is that correct?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And would you agree that the Debtor and its managed fund,
19 Restoration Capital Partners, together own the majority
20 interest of the shares in Cornerstone?

21 A Yes. I believe I even pointed that out in my declaration,
22 yes.

23 Q Right. And Crusader, on the other hand, owns something in 24 the low forty percents of the shares of Cornerstone, correct?

25 A Correct.

1 Q And would you agree, sir, that the -- based upon the
2 documents you've seen, the Crusader Fund's manager, Alvarez &
3 Marsal, contracts as well with a team from Houlihan Lokey to 4 value Cornerstone's interest in the Crusader -- or, in the
5 Cornerstone asset?

6 A Could you -- could you repeat the question?

7 Q Sure. You've seen documents that lead you to know, sir,
8 that Crusader likewise uses Houlihan Lokey to value Crusader's
9 low forty percent share of the Cornerstone asset, correct?

10 A Yes.

11 Q And you would agree that Cornerstone -- or, that 12 Crusader's interest in Cornerstone is a minority position?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And you would agree that the Houlihan Lokey valuations
15 that are provided to Crusader value Crusader's interest in 16 Cornerstone on a non-marketable minority interest basis,
17 correct?

18 A That's right.

19 Q And wouldn't you expect, sir, based upon your experience,
20 that there would be a difference in the value of -- in the 21 fair value estimate for a minority position in a privately-
22 traded company as compared to an estimate of value of a
23 majority interest in that same company?

24 A Generally speaking, yes.

25 MS. MASCHERIN: No further questions, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: All right. Redirect?

2 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Yes.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I just have one, one question.

5 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

6 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

7 Q Sir, even setting aside your opinion regarding the errors
8 and the flawed methodologies in the Houlihan reports, is it
9 fair to say that, just looking at the most recent valuation
10 that you were provided, in your opinion is $30.5 million
11 within any reasonable range of valuation for Crusader's share
12 of Cornerstone?

13 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.

14 THE COURT: Overruled.

15 THE WITNESS: No.

16 BY MS. TOMKOWIAK:

17 Q So, your answer?

18 A Yes. My response was no. Again, based on our analysis
19 and the valuation range that was presented, we don't -- I
20 don't believe it would be reasonable.

21 Q Okay.

22 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I have no further questions.

23 THE COURT: Any recross on that --

24 MR. MORRIS: Nothing, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: -- question?

1 MR. MORRIS: Nothing, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: I have one follow-up question.

3 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

4 THE COURT: I tend to think, and maybe I'm being 5 affected by certain healthcare Chapter 11s I've had in recent
6 months, but is it a tough time to value a healthcare business
7 like Cornerstone in 2020, with COVID? Are there challenges,
8 or am I making something up here?

9 THE WITNESS: I'd say it depends on the segment
10 within the healthcare industry. Some segments are of benefit.
11 I recently called three or four public companies in the 12 healthcare industry on behalf of a client that was selling 13 with -- a business within -- a segment of those within the 14 healthcare industry, and found all four public companies to be 15 highly interested and still very active in their acquisition
16 process.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 THE WITNESS: But I am aware there are some companies
19 that have been impacted. And that's -- that's the appearance
20 people --

21 THE COURT: Okay. Well, and maybe I asked it in too
22 general a way. I mean, the understanding I have of 23 Cornerstone is there's the long-term acute care business,
24 which you said is on an upward track, but then we have senior
25 living facilities as another big segment. So, focusing not

1 generally but more on private company in these segments in 2 healthcare, are there challenges with a company like this,
3 valuing it in a post-COVID/still under COVID times?

4 THE WITNESS: I think this is a segment with the 5 healthcare industry that -- where that challenge does not 6 exist. They're well-positioned for what's happening to the 7 population demographically within the United States. I think 8 the performance of the company during this time period is 9 reflective of the ability to continue to perform well and make 10 the evaluation process easier, if you will, or less -- less
11 impacted as compared to some of the other healthcare industry
12 peers.

13 THE COURT: So your answer is no, you don't think 14 there's any challenge valuing Cornerstone right now because of 15 the pandemic?

16 THE WITNESS: That's correct.

17 THE COURT: Okay. How big a segment of its revenue
18 is the senior care segment?

19 THE WITNESS: From a valuation perspective, on an 20 enterprise level, I believe it accounted for 10 to 20 percent
21 --

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 THE WITNESS: -- of the aggregate enterprise value.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 THE WITNESS: That's including all the real estate.

1 Yes.

2 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you.

3 I always give the lawyers a chance, if they want to ask
4 any follow-up questions, only based on the Court's question, I
5 think that's fair. So, anyone feel the need to ask a follow-
6 up question based on my questions?

7 MR. MORRIS: Just one, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 RECCROSS EXAMINATION

10 BY MR. MORRIS:

11 Q And that is, talking about COVID, does your valuation
12 assume that Cornerstone has received cash from the government
13 that is forgivable?

14 A We presented our value in a range to reflect that the cash
15 that was received, the $30 million that I referenced, could be 16 completely repayable or could be completely forgivable. We 17 weren't privy to information with regard to the forgiveness of 18 that liability.

19 Q Okay. But that, that liability and that influx of cash is 20 something that is unique to the COVID period. Is that fair?

21 A It's -- it's fair. The cash is, or was, at least in the 22 -- in the company, although, as mentioned earlier, so is the 23 liability. So, on the one hand, it's neutral. I received $30
24 million of cash; I have a liability for $30 million --

25 Q Certainly --

1 A -- (overspoken).

2 Q Certainly helps cash flow, doesn't it?

3 A Yes. And that's why I made the statement about -- it does
4 help liquidity, yeah.

5 MR. MORRIS: Okay. No further questions, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. Either Ms. Mascherin or 7 Tomkowiak?

8 All right. Well, thank you, Mr. Moentmann. We appreciate
9 your testimony.

10 THE WITNESS: Thank you.

11 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Tomkowiak, do you have 12 any other evidence?

13 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I don't have any other witnesses, 14 Your Honor. Give me one moment, Your Honor, to confer with my 15 colleagues.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 (Pause.)

18 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, I don't know if this is 19 particularly out of order, but I'm going to just ask Your 20 Honor if we may also proffer. There were two Houlihan Lokey
21 valuations that were prepared for Redeemer and also a 22 presentation that was produced to us by Redeemer, all of those 23 excluded by your order this morning. We just would like to be 24 able to offer them under the same terms that we offered the 25 Houlihan valuations for -- that were prepared for Highland.

1 We'll put them under seal and just proffer them for the 2 record. We think the collection of all that shows a very
3 different story than what Mr. Seery described. But we would 4 get that for the time being, yes, Your Honor, as to avoid 5 that.

6 THE COURT: All right. So, just to be clear, you've 7 offered those and I have declined to admit those for reasons
8 I've stated earlier today. But you can put them in the record
9 as an offer of proof under seal, so that if there's any appeal
10 the higher court can see what it was that I refused to allow.
11 Okay? So you're going to have to get with the courtroom
12 deputy later and submit those under seal to be kept in the 13 record in case there's an appeal, okay?

14 MR. CLUBOK: Thank you, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: All right. Any other evidence from UBS,
16 then? I think that's it, right?

17 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I would just -- I'd just ask 18 that it change sides to (garbled). In fairness (garbled), put 19 them all in, rather than being selective.

20 THE COURT: Okay. So you're saying that if -- you
21 want all --

22 MR. MORRIS: Otherwise (inaudible) better.

23 THE COURT: -- all of the Houlihan -- all of the 24 Houlihan reports should go in as part of the offer for proof?
25 Because your argument is if some of them were allowed in and

1 it was error, then all of them should go in. Is that your 2 point?

3 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

4 THE COURT: Okay.

5 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

6 THE COURT: So I don't know how far you mean to go
7 back in the past.

8 MR. MORRIS: Sure. Just to be very specific, from 9 March, I think, until August is the last one that has been 10 prepared by Houlihan, and it's been provided to UBS.

11 THE COURT: All right. So, Mr. Clubok, that is what 12 you're going to submit to the courtroom deputy to be your 13 offer of proof on this, March through August.

14 MR. CLUBOK: And first, Your Honor, that's fine, Your 15 Honor, with also the clear intention by doing that it reflects
16 that information, then -- and since -- now, since Mr. Morris
17 added that, then I'd (inaudible) there's also some sealed
18 testimony of Mr. Seery during his deposition that I didn't get 19 into because it was all, I thought, excluded under the same
20 rubric. And so the point-counterpoint, if Mr. Morris has an 21 offer of proof, that's fine, but if we just pull the whole
22 record in, the whole line, everything we got into, we could 23 put it in as an offer of proof and combine the information Mr.
24 Morris said and then the deposition testimony of Mr. Seery's
25 deposition. I would have explored all of this had I been

1 allowed to get into it. We make that as an offer of proof.

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

4 THE COURT: I'm very confused.

5 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, the Debtor -- this is -- this is 6 -- they offered the reports, Your Honor made the ruling, and 7 they're doing this because they actually made an offer of 8 proof. They actually sought to introduce this into evidence.
9 They had Mr. Seery on the stand. They could have done the 10 exact same thing. They can't clean it up now.

11 THE COURT: Agree.

12 MR. CLUBOK: We -- hold on a second.

13 THE COURT: I sustain that objection.

14 MR. CLUBOK: Your Honor, if I can just respond here.

15 THE COURT: I sustain that objection, okay?

16 All right. Anything else?

17 All right. Anything in rebuttal, Mr. Morris?

18 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. I'll hear closing arguments.

20 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I do want to keep this 22 relatively brief because I think the Debtor was easily -- are 23 you hearing background?

24 THE COURT: We're hearing a little bit of background.

25 Is that -- was that on Mr. Morris's end?

1 THE CLERK: Yes, because he's moving around.

2 THE COURT: Okay. I think it was just because you
3 were moving around, according to the court reporter. So,
4 anyway, but --

5 MR. MORRIS: I apologize.

6 THE COURT: -- I'm timing. Let's keep it within --

7 MR. MORRIS: It's five minutes.

8 THE COURT: -- you know, five to ten minutes per 9 argument, okay? You may proceed.

10 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Thank you very much, Your Honor.
11 I think this is a very, very simple case under the standards
12 of 9019, a standard the Court is quite familiar with. And I
13 don't think there's any dispute between or among the parties
14 is focusing on the terms of the compromise, determining the 15 probability of success in litigation, the complexity and 16 likely duration of the litigation, other factors that courts
17 in the Fifth Circuit have interpreted to mean the paramount
18 interests of creditors, with proper deference to their 19 reasonable views, and the extent to which the settlement is 20 truly the product of arm's-length bargaining and not fraud or 21 collusion.

22 I'll take the last point first, Your Honor, because it's 23 just so simple. There's absolutely compelling evidence that 24 this settlement was the product of lengthy negotiations
25 between counsel, between principals, between counsel and

1 principals. You've heard Mr. Seery testify quite credibly
2 that there was a lot of back and forth. And obviously, there
3 is no evidence of fraud and collusion. So I think we get a
4 hundred percent on that prong of the ledger.

5 With respect to the paramount interests of creditors, Your 6 Honor, as the evidence shows, the Debtor, in choosing to 7 exercise its judgment to enter into this settlement, will be 8 ending litigation, I think, in five different courts in three 9 different countries, litigation that has cost the estate an 10 enormous amount of money, and they're doing so on terms that 11 are really fair and reasonable. And that is the standard,
12 Your Honor. It is not, is the Debtor maximizing value? While 13 you always hope to do so, that's really difficult when you're 14 in a 9019 motion. I've never heard of a movant either have 15 the burden or even suggest that somehow they're entering into 16 a compromise that maximizes value.

17 We've heard from the one witness that UBS offered. I --
18 there's no reason to challenge his qualifications. I'm sure 19 that he's a perfectly able professional. But I think the 20 Court should take into account the context in which he 21 prepared his analysis. That analysis was prepared in a mere 22 20 or 30 hours. It was prepared solely for purposes of this
23 litigation. And to his credit, the witness testified
24 unambiguously that his own clients rely on Houlihan Lokey.
25 There's nothing -- fraud in the methodology that Houlihan

1 Lokey employs. And the ultimate question is that he has no
2 reason to believe that it was unreasonable for the Debtor to 3 rely on the Houlihan Lokey report.

4 The evidence also showed, Your Honor, though, that the 5 Houlihan Lokey report was not the only data point that Mr.
6 Seery considered. He testified unambiguously and unchallenged
7 that he also communicated with Cornerstone's management, with 8 Cornerstone's board of directors, that he gets regular updates
9 about the financial condition and the performance of the 10 business, and that he specifically used that information to 11 validate the (garbled) further negotiation on this (echoing).

12 With respect to the reasonable deference of creditors,
13 Your Honor -- I don't know if somebody's -- can put their 14 phone on mute.

15 With respect to the reasonable deference of creditors,
16 Your Honor, there's only one creditor here who is challenging
17 the Debtor's motion, and not surprisingly, that creditor, UBS, 18 has had a very longstanding dispute itself with -- with the 19 Redeemer Committee. And I think it would be fair if the Court
20 took that into account in terms of litigation and perhaps 21 prejudice and bias.

22 The likelihood of success, I think, goes to UBS's argument
23 that the Debtor really should walk away from this deal and go
24 back to Chancery Court to relitigate the issues that the panel
25 has already decided with respect to whether the procedural

1 issues and the rendering of the award were proper.

2 You know, we've had a chance to analyze. Mr. Seery
3 actually, I think, described in some detail how the panel came
4 about, about its decision. I think he testified quite clearly
5 that Highland would be a particularly unsympathetic litigant
6 in the Chancery Court, having voluntarily participated in 7 arbitration for years, an arbitration pursuant to which the 8 parties engaged in substantial discovery.

9 Your Honor has the evidentiary -- not the evidentiary
10 record, but Your Honor has the very extraordinarily detailed 11 findings of the panel. Those findings refer to substantial 12 evidence, both documented and testimonial evidence. The 13 findings made severe credibility findings, a lot of which,
14 quite frankly, are not flattering to the Debtor. And Mr.
15 Seery specifically testified that he took all of that into 16 account in assessing the probability or the likelihood of 17 success of going back to Chancery Court and prevailing.

18 With respect to the compromise that was made on the 19 deferred fees, in all honesty, Your Honor, I don't see how 20 that can be challenged on any rational basis. If you followed
21 UBS's path, we would have, in the first instance, another
22 litigation over setoff. And once that litigation was 23 resolved, whether it's hundred-cent dollars or bankruptcy
24 dollars, the Debtor would have to return that to Redeemer
25 Committee and then wait until this bankruptcy is over before

1 it can even ask for the deferred fee.

2 You've heard very, very clear, unambiguous testimony,
3 unchallenged testimony, from Mr. Seery that when they finally 4 do get around to making that request, they're going to be 5 involved in another litigation. Why? Because during the 6 negotiations, the Redeemer Committee made it crystal clear
7 that it was relying on the Faithless Servant defense. Is it
8 one that is, you know, common? It's not common, but it has 9 been used successfully. And the fear that Mr. Seery
10 specifically described is that the findings in the arbitration
11 award might give credence to the Faithless Servant defense.
12 And having gone through the setoff litigation, having paid the 13 money, having waited the time, having spent the cost to 14 litigate the issue again, they might lose. And I think if 15 Your Honor reads the partial final award, you may come to the 16 same conclusion.

17 Whether you do or you don't, Your Honor, the point is that 18 the evidence is crystal clear that there is a very strong 19 foundational evidentiary basis for the Debtor's decision to 20 enter into this award, and there's no question that it meets
21 the standard of 9019.

22 Again, Your Honor, we would remind the Court, not that I
23 need to, but that the test here isn't maximization of value.
24 It's not getting the most that you possibly can. It's taking 25 everything into account. Is this in the best interest of the 1 estate? And I do not think this is a close call.

2 Unless Your Honor has any questions, I have nothing
3 further.

4 THE COURT: I did have one follow-up question on the 5 deferred fee compromise. I'm wondering if you could generally
6 quantify: Assuming a hundred percent success for UBS, I'm 7 trying to figure out how big a discount the 20 percent -- I
8 mean, the $20 million number was. Because I understand $32
9 million is what Highland paid itself early. But then I
10 understand the component, the award component of the $190
11 million arbitration award, it was $43.105 million because of,
12 I guess, interest, calculating interest from the date they 13 paid themselves the $32 million until the time of the award.
14 Right? And the award, was it March of 2018 or September 2018?

15 MR. MORRIS: The partial final award was March.

16 THE COURT: Yes.

17 MR. MORRIS: The final award was May.

18 THE COURT: Okay. So I assume, then, we keep 19 calculating interest post --

20 MR. MORRIS: Until the petition date.

21 THE COURT: Until the petition date.

22 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

23 THE COURT: So we're at -- and it was a high interest
24 rate, right? Nine percent? High these days, right? Nine
25 percent?

1 MR. MORRIS: Well, just to be clear, Your Honor,
2 you're absolutely right, you have a great memory, it is nine
3 percent. But that's statutory interest in New York.

4 THE COURT: Right.

5 MR. MORRIS: Those of us who live in New York always
6 call it the absolute best investment you could make if you
7 actually have a liquid defendant. I mean, nine percent
8 guaranteed.

9 THE COURT: I'd rather have that --

10 MR. MORRIS: No doubt --

11 THE COURT: I'd rather have that than my mutual fund
12 right now. So, --

13 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

14 THE COURT: So we're talking close to $50 million.
15 But that's not even the whole story, right? Because they,
16 they'll get it -- not only would they maybe never have to pay
17 it back because of this Faithless Servant award, but even if 18 they did have to pay it back, it wouldn't be until the 19 Crusader Fund was liquidated, --

20 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

21 THE COURT: -- and litigation?

22 MR. MORRIS: Which can't happen until this -- which 23 can't happen until this case is completed, --

24 THE COURT: So, --

25 MR. MORRIS: -- which means the estate claims that

1 are going to be prosecuted by the UCC and any of its
2 successors against Mr. Dondero and his affiliates, all of that
3 has to play out. And UBS, more than anybody in this
4 courtroom, should know how long it takes to litigate with Mr.
5 Dondero. Maybe he'll have a change of heart. Maybe something
6 different will happen. But based on prior experience, I don't 7 think this Court or anybody should make any assumptions as to 8 this case being ended quickly.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: Just based on history.

11 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. I'll go to 12 friendly parties next.

13 Ms. Mascherin, anything you wanted to say as far as 14 closing argument?

15 MS. MASCHERIN: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.

16 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE REDEEMER COMMITTEE

17 MS. MASCHERIN: First of all, with regard to the 18 deferred fees, I think Your Honor has already made all the 19 points that I would have made had I argued that. Suffice it
20 to say that I think any reasonable person would conclude that 21 it is a reasonable compromise for the Debtor to retain two-
22 thirds of the $32.3 million that the Debtor, as the panel
23 found, as Mr. Seery testified, helped itself to in early 2016.
24 That amount -- there's no assurance that that amount would 25 ever come back to the estate upon complete liquidation of the

1 Fund, and the Redeemer Committee at least is quite confident
2 that, whether or not a settlement here, the factual findings
3 that were made in that arbitration certainly were replete with 4 findings of breaches of fiduciary duty, of willful misconduct,
5 and of other misconduct which would provide a firm basis for 6 showing that Highland was, in fact, a faithless servant.

7 I would submit that's why the Redeemer Committee fired
8 them as manager of the Fund when it -- when the Committee
9 learned that they had taken the $32.3 million without the 10 right to take it.

11 With regard to the likelihood of success assessment, Your 12 Honor, I would submit that the record is likewise clear. The 13 only issue that UBS raises with regard to the litigation, the 14 compromise of the litigation, has to do with two procedural 15 challenges that the Debtor had raised when -- in the 16 proceedings to confirm the award in Delaware. As Your Honor
17 knows, arbitration awards under the Federal Arbitration Act
18 are pretty close to sacrosanct. The grounds on which an 19 arbitration award can be challenged are quite limited.

20 The two procedural arguments that the Debtor made, one 21 having to do with whether pre-judgment interest should 22 continue to run after the date of partial final award, and the 23 other dealing with the relief that the panel, as Mr. Seery
24 testified, inadvertently omitted due to a scrivener's error
25 with respect to what was referred to in the arbitration as the

1 Barclay's claim, both of those procedural issues were raised
2 by the Debtor and were ruled upon by the arbitration panel.
3 And the panel found that it -- that because its first award
4 was specifically denominated as a partial award and not a
5 final award, that the panel had jurisdiction to award
6 additional pre-judgment interest for the small period between 7 March and May, which is all that was at issue with respect to 8 that disputed pre-judgment interest amount.

9 And likewise, the panel found that it had the power under 10 the AAA rules to correct the scrivener's error, the clerical
11 error that resulted in the omission -- the inadvertent
12 omission from the partial final award of the damages amount 13 that the panel was awarding for the finding it made in the 14 partial final award that Highland Capital Management had taken 15 -- had improperly taken for its own account any of the 16 partnership's interest that had belonged to Barclay's, and 17 Highland had done that despite the Committee's express
18 disapproval of the terms of a settlement with Barclay's.

19 Importantly, Your Honor, the AAA rules specifically
20 allocate to the panel the jurisdiction to interpret the AAA
21 rules. And the Fifth Circuit has held that in circumstances
22 like this, where the applicable arbitration awards -- or 23 arbitration rules give the arbitrator the jurisdiction to 24 interpret the rules, the arbitrator's findings bind the 25 parties to the arbitrator's interpretation, so long as it is

1 within reasonable limits, even where reasonable judges and
2 arbitrators could interpret the AAA rules differently.

3 That's coming from the Communication Workers of America, AFL-
4 CIO v. Southwestern Bell Telephone Company case, 953 F.3d 822,
5 a Fifth Circuit decision from this year, 2020, Your Honor.

6 And that's cited in our -- in the Debtor's motion to approve
7 the settlement.

8 So I think it certainly is the case that the Debtor made a
9 reasonable assessment that it would be unlikely to succeed if 10 it continued to prosecute in Delaware that motion to vacate
11 those two small parts of the arbitration award.

12 Finally, Your Honor, with regard to the Cornerstone asset,
13 let me review what the current state of facts is with regard
14 to that asset. And I feel that I must need to -- I must do
15 this this because Ms. Tomkowiak, if I said that correctly, Ms.
16 Tomkowiak suggested a couple of times that the Cornerstone
17 asset somehow is an asset of the Debtor's estate. She made
18 reference to the Debtor forfeiting the Cornerstone asset or 19 giving up the Cornerstone asset. That is, simply put, Your 20 Honor, a fallacy.

21 As things stand right now, the Crusader Fund owns 22 approximately 42 percent of the shares of Cornerstone. The 23 Debtor and its managed fund, Restoration Capital Partners, 24 owns the rest. The panel ordered the Debtor, as part of its 25 award, to pay the Crusader Fund $48 million in principal plus

1 approximately $24 million in pre-judgment interest on that
2 amount, for a total of $72 million. And the award
3 specifically provides that, upon payment of that amount to the 4 Crusader Fund, the Crusader Fund should transfer its 42
5 percent interest in Cornerstone to the Debtor.

6 Your Honor, it is undisputed that the Debtor doesn't have 7 $72 million to pay to purchase those shares. We heard Mr.
8 Seery today testify that the Debtor doesn't want to acquire 9 those shares. The Debtor is in liquidation. So what the 10 parties did here was reach a compromise.

11 In addition to the substantial offset of the arbitration
12 award relating to the two-thirds of the deferred fees that I
13 already spoke about, the parties also agreed to offset a
14 negotiated amount for a fair market value of Crusader's
15 minority 42 percent shares in Cornerstone as of the time of 16 the negotiations, as Mr. Seery testified, in the spring, late
17 spring of 2020. That offset that the parties agreed to as a
18 compromise was $30.5 million.

19 Now, to be clear, Crusader and the Redeemer Committee
20 would have the right not to enter into any settlement and to 21 ask Your Honor to confirm the arbitration award or to go back
22 to Delaware and seek to lift the stay to have the award
23 confirmed there. And if we did that, then we would continue 24 to hold a claim for seventy -- you know, a portion of which 25 $72 million would be for, for sale of that -- of those

1 Cornerstone shares to the Debtor.

2 But Your Honor, that's a fantasy. We much prefer to enter
3 into a settlement here. We think that the -- I would submit
4 that the compromise that my clients and the Debtor reached to 5 allow the Debtor not to have to purchase those shares, to 6 allow for what the parties agreed to as a reasonable offset to 7 the claim amount to account for the fact that the Debtor will 8 not be purchasing their shares, is eminently fair. And it's 9 of great value to the estate. The estate doesn't have to pay
10 to buy those shares and the Debtor gets, in addition, the 11 benefit of the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Fund
12 agreeing to compromise to try to monetize its minority
13 position in Cornerstone, along with the majority position
14 that's held by Highland Capital Management and its managed
15 fund, Restoration Capital Partners.

16 And as Mr. Seery testified, there are -- Restoration
17 Capital Partners is majority-owned by a number of independent 18 investors. They're entitled to the best value for their 19 shares in Cornerstone. My clients are entitled to the best
20 value for its shares in Cornerstone. And Highland is entitled 21 to the best value for the shares it owns in Cornerstone. And 22 that value can only be maximized, Your Honor, if the company
23 is available to be monetized as a whole.

24 So I would submit, Your Honor, the compromise is eminently 25 reasonable. The Debtor, I believe, has met its burden of,

1 under the applicable Fifth Circuit case law, of demonstrating
2 that the compromise is reasonable and is fair to the estate
3 and to the creditors of the estate. And we would ask that 4 Your Honor approve the settlement. Thank you.

5 THE COURT: Thank you. Ms. Tomkowiak, you're next.

6 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you, Your Honor.

7 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF UBS SECURITIES, LLC

8 MS. TOMKOWIAK: I'll try to keep (garbled) I'm 9 responding to two.

10 Your Honor, the -- this settlement is not fair, equitable,
11 or (garbled). We don't think it's a close call, either.
12 Whether you look at each component or you evaluate it as a 13 whole, as Mr. Seery purports to do, we think that the Debtor
14 did in fact roll over. The bottom line there is that the 15 compromises made by the Debtor result in Redeemer getting more
16 than a hundred percent recovery on their claim, in real
17 hundred-dollars, even using the very lowest possible value
18 that anybody has calculated for Crusader's Cornerstone shares,
19 as the Debtor did.

20 It's the Debtor's burden to show that it exercised 21 business judgment here within a range of reasonableness. They 22 haven't submitted any evidence to meet that burden or to allow 23 this Court to conduct the independent analysis that it's 24 supposed to do before approving this deal.

25 Again, the analysis of problems with it -- including with

1 respect to the way that the parties have allocated litigation
2 risk, giving a lot of value to claims which have not even 3 begun to be litigated and giving zero value to claims which,
4 in fact, are at the very late stages of litigation in Delaware
5 and could be dealt with in short order.

6 But the biggest problem, again, with the settlement is 7 that instead of the estate getting a meaningful asset that 8 could be worth up to $80 million, Redeemer effectively gets to 9 keep it and -- for $30 million.

10 We believe that the Debtor has grossly undervalued those 11 shares. Their fair market value calculation, or whatever they 12 want to call it -- they called it in their motion their fair
13 market value calculation -- is based on the very lowest end of 14 a valuation range prepared by Houlihan Lokey back in the 15 spring, despite the availability of much more recent 16 information.

17 Mr. Seery has provided no basis for using a valuation
18 back in March, and particularly in the midst of the 19 uncertainty caused by the developing pandemic at the time.
20 The testimony was, so that's when we started to negotiate this 21 deal. But the settlement was not finalized until six months
22 later. And so if there was a lot of back and forth, as Mr.
23 Morris just said in his closing, well, I guess that happened,
24 you know, six months ago, when apparently the Debtor has 25 chosen to freeze inexplicably the value of this asset.

1 Again, there is no evidence that that $30.5 million is 2 fair or within any range of reasonableness. Not only did the 3 Debtor not put in any evidence, it was successful in excluding
4 evidence that went directly to the valuation of this asset.

5 Despite succeeding on that, Mr. Seery did not quibble with 6 my colleague Mr. Clubok's questioning. He agreed with the 7 general proposition that the current value of Cornerstone is 8 higher today than what's been taken account into the 9 settlement.

10 This is a settlement of a, you know, a $190 million claim,
11 and UBS notes that the Debtor has scores of financial advisors
12 who are being paid tens of millions of dollars every month to 13 analyze claims and assets. We see their fee statements. And 14 not a single one of them, including Houlihan Lokey, anyone at 15 the premier firm of Houlihan Lokey whose names Mr. Seery did
16 not even know, are here to testify today. Or any of the other
17 financial advisors.

18 According to our expert, who is, you know, the only 19 evidence that is before this Court, Mr. Moentmann -- he does 20 this for a living; he values healthcare companies in the real 21 world, unlike Mr. Seery, who does not -- the value assigned to 22 Cornerstone in the settlement falls below any reasonable range
23 of what Cornerstone is worth today or even what it was worth
24 back in June, let alone back in March.

25 And yes, he prepared his opinion for purposes of this

1 litigation, but he's not a professional testifier. This is
2 what he does for a living. He testifies once every couple of 3 years. And he did a valuation analysis exactly like what he 4 would do in the real world for a healthcare company, as he's 5 done for the past 30 years.

6 And when he corrects for the significant flaws in the 7 assumptions used by Houlihan Lokey, the true value of the 8 asset that the Debtor is giving up -- they're giving up the 9 right to receive it. I understand that they don't have it,
10 but they -- the arbitration award explicitly said that they 11 have the right to get it. It is -- it should be theirs. And 12 they're giving up that asset. And according to Mr. Moentmann, 13 when he accounts for all of the significant flaws in the 14 assumptions used, that asset is worth double or triple what 15 the Debtor has assigned to it for settlement purposes.

16 Now, again, Mr. Seery testified today that he expects 17 Redeemer will recover one hundred percent of its allowed $137
18 million claim in real dollars. I don't -- based on those 19 numbers alone, I don't understand, respectfully, Ms.
20 Mascherin's argument that the Debtor somehow doesn't have the 21 ability to purchase the shares for $48 million.

22 I also, frankly, don't understand the argument that the 23 value can only be maximized when monetizing this asset as a
24 whole. And to be clear, I understand that argument, but I
25 don't get why that can only happen in a settlement where

1 Redeemer and the Debtor agree to work together to do that, as 2 opposed to the Debtor getting Crusader's portion of the 3 Cornerstone shares, as it was required to, and then working to 4 monetize that asset as a whole.

5 My final few points, Your Honor. I think the value of 6 Cornerstone -- it's been said a lot today that this is not a
7 valuation case, but it matters when you are looking at an 8 asset with potentially a $50 million swing in the true value
9 of it. That matters in the context of a case where the Debtor
10 has said that they expect to distribute $195 million to 11 creditors. So giving -- giving up the right to this asset
12 matters. And yes, it hurts the remaining major creditor,
13 which is UBS.

14 Now, Mr. Morris talked about, you know, UBS's motive and 15 our supposed prejudice and bias. And we have no longstanding 16 dispute with the Redeemer Committee. Ironically, it's 17 actually the Debtor and Redeemer who have had their 18 longstanding dispute. But now they've teamed up to object to 19 our claim and to, you know, strike this deal that we believe 20 provides Redeemer with a more than one hundred percent
21 recovery windfall.

22 So, Your Honor, we think the settlement should not be
23 approved, and we only -- don't think it should be approved
24 without holding the Debtor to its burden to provide actual 25 evidence, including evidence of the value of the Cornerstone

1 shares that are forfeited in this settlement.

2 And alternatively, I would just reiterate what I said in 3 my opening, that if you are inclined to approve the settlement
4 anyways, in the event that a sale of Cornerstone does occur in 5 the future and the purchase price is well above the value that 6 that asset has been assigned here, then we request that the 7 Court take the proceeds of that sale into consideration at the 8 time of plan confirmation when the distributions are to be 9 made. And it should -- the outcome of that sale should be 10 taken into account when calculating Redeemer's recovery.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MS. TOMKOWIAK: Thank you, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Thank you.

14 Well, I thank you all for your hard work in the pleadings
15 as well as the presentations here today. I assure you that 16 we've read the paperwork very carefully and considered all
17 your evidence carefully today.

18 As we know, with regard to this motion to approve
19 compromise of controversy, the Court is guided by Bankruptcy
20 Rule 9019. And that rule does not say a heck of a lot, but 21 we've got lots of jurisprudence to guide the Court. Cases
22 such as the AWECO case, the Jackson Brewing case, the TMT
23 Trailer Ferry case, Cajun Electric, Foster Mortgage, all of 24 these were cited in the papers. And the legal standards that 25 those cases instruct this Court to use are the Court has to

1 evaluate whether the compromise and settlement is fair and 2 equitable and in the best interest of creditors when 3 considering three things: One, the probability of success on 4 the merits in future litigation, with due consideration for 5 uncertainty of law and fact; two, the complexity and likely 6 duration of litigation and any attendant inconvenience and 7 delay; and three, all other factors bearing on the wisdom of 8 the compromise.

9 The Court is also supposed to consider the paramount
10 interests of the creditors.

11 So I will back up and find that we have had all required
12 notice of this motion. And when applying those legal 13 standards I just outlined, the Court finds that this 14 settlement is eminently reasonable, fair and equitable, in the 15 best interest of creditors, and so therefore I am approving
16 it.

17 I will note a couple of pieces of evidence, or more than a
18 couple, a few pieces of evidence that were especially 19 persuasive to me. First, I will say that Mr. Seery's 20 testimony was very credible to me. And I do believe that he 21 did not consider this a laydown by any means, and I don't 22 think it was by any means. The facts are that this settles
23 many, many years of litigation, as someone said, in five 24 different fora, in three different countries. And there was a
25 nine-day trial in front of a very respected arbitration panel.

1 And I agree with the verbiage of Ms. Mascherin that the
2 arbitration award is very much sacrosanct. This isn't a
3 situation where, you know, if I lifted the stay and allowed
4 things to go forward in the Delaware Court to see if they
5 would confirm the arbitration award, it's not a situation
6 where there would be a heck of a lot of arguments the Debtor
7 could make to refute the $190 million award or knock it down
8 very much. Things like fraud, misconduct, a very narrow set
9 of circumstances would have to be demonstrated. It certainly 10 wouldn't sit in the shoes of an appellate court.

11 So I think that is a very relevant factor that certainly 12 shows the Debtor didn't lay down here. The Debtor's options 13 were narrow with regard to challenging very many aspects of 14 the arbitration award.

15 I believe that Mr. Seery and the board did a lot of due 16 diligence as far as evaluating their options here. I believe 17 that there were good-faith arm's-length negotiations. And 18 specifically, the reductions, if you will, seem extremely 19 reasonable to this Court.

20 With regard to the $20 million credit on the $190 million
21 award for the deferred fees, it appears to me the Debtor got a
22 pretty good deal on that one. You know, it looks like to me
23 we really started at a number around $43 million that would 24 have gone up with time in interest. And there was a strong
25 argument that, once the Debtor paid that back, that there

1 would be no obligation to ever kick in under the Faithful
2 Servant Doctrine for the Redeemer Committee/Crusader to ever
3 have to pay it back again to the Debtor. So I think that $20
4 million number settled on is a very fair number.

5 With regard to the $30.5 million number for the 6 Cornerstone credit that has been so contentious today, I
7 respect the arguments, but ultimately it bears emphasizing
8 this was a negotiated amount, not a situation where there was 9 a precise valuation that was even required.

10 And I think it is very significant that we're talking
11 about a minority interest, a 42 percent minority interest that 12 Highland was required to buy back. And one could almost take 13 judicial notice that minority interests in private companies
14 are darn hard to value, and some might say should be 15 discounted.

16 And while I found Mr. Moentmann to certainly be well
17 qualified and explained well his different views, at bottom, I 18 don't find them to be as persuasive as Mr. Seery, in that he 19 has spent two weeks on the assignment and 20 to 30 hours. You
20 know, certainly, I think reasonable minds can differ, but at 21 bottom the $30.5 million number was within the range of 22 reasonableness for a compromise on this amount.

23 I'll just emphasize further that, with regard to 24 Cornerstone, I felt like the $30 million CARES Act loan should 25 be regarded as a huge question mark, uncertainty, as far as

1 affected value. The fact that no one knows if it's forgivable
2 or not, well, that's a pretty big deal. And it's just one of 3 many reasons I think there's a big range of possibilities
4 here, so that the number that the Debtor settled on is 5 certainly within the range of reasonableness.

6 All right. So, with that, I approve the compromise and 7 will look to Debtor's counsel to submit a form of order. All
8 right. Thank you again.

9 We now are going to turn to Acis, and let's talk about 10 timing. Mr. Morris, are you the key presenter on this one or 11 is Mr. Demo going to be?

12 MR. MORRIS: No, I will be the presenter on this one,
13 though Mr. Demo will address the Court certainly with respect
14 to two of the legal issues on the Daugherty objection. But 15 otherwise this one is all mine as well.

16 THE COURT: All right. So, shall we roll to 17 extremely brief opening statements? I guess one thing I'll 18 need you to tell me is, do we really have five objections, or 19 do we have two? Have the sort of limited objections been 20 resolved, or no?

21 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, that is an excellent
22 question. They haven't been resolved consensually, but they 23 ought to be, based on the testimony from Saturday's 24 deposition. And if I can, I'd be happy to just start with 25 that issue first, if you'll just give me a moment.

1 (Pause.)

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTOR

4 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Putting aside Mr. Dondero and Mr.

5 Daugherty for the moment, there are three other objections:

6 One by CLO (garbled). That was filed at Docket No. 1177. One

7 by Highland CLO Funding Limited, filed at Docket No. 1191.

8 And one filed by HarbourVest at Docket No. 1195.

9 I believe all three of these objections or responses
10 either objected to or reserved their right to object to one 11 provision of the settlement agreement pursuant to which the 12 Debtor would have the obligation to transfer its rights in an 13 entity called Highland HCF Advisors Limited to Acis if the 14 Debtor had received written advice from nationally-recognized
15 external counsel that it is even permissive -- permissible to 16 make that transfer.

17 That can be found, Your Honor -- the settlement agreement
18 is Exhibit 1 to my declaration, and I believe when I offer
19 that into evidence it'll be Exhibit #3. But that's where the 20 settlement can be found, and this is Paragraph 1(c). And that 21 matter really, from the Debtor's perspective, has been 22 resolved. Mr. Seery testified on Saturday and he will testify
23 again today that the Debtor has obtained the advice of the 24 WilmerHale firm, I believe, and that advice is that it is --
25 they cannot give the comfort that if they transferred that

1 asset that it would be legally permissible and that the Debtor
2 would bear no risk.

3 So, from my perspective, that objection or reservation of 4 rights, depending on the party, should be resolved.

5 There were two other issues, I think, raised. I know it
6 was HarbourVest. I'm not sure who the other one was. But 7 they're both related to whether or not the release applied to 8 them. HarbourVest in particular objected on the ground that 9 the release -- to make sure that the release doesn't release
10 any claims that HarbourVest may have. It does not, Your 11 Honor. I think a plain reading of the release shows that 12 HarbourVest is not implicated.

13 In addition, HCLOF also -- HarbourVest is an investor in 14 HCLOF. And HarbourVest -- HCLOF, rather, Your Honor, is 15 specifically excluded from the release. So HarbourVest is not 16 included, and HCLOF, the entity in which HarbourVest invested,
17 is actually specifically carved out of the release, so that 18 there's no ambiguity.

19 So I think, on that basis, Your Honor, perhaps it would be 20 most efficient to hear from those three particular parties.
21 You know, Mr. Seery will testify, and if you want to take him
22 out of turn and do that now on the issue of the advisors and 23 the advice that he's received, I'd be happy to do that.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, maybe we should first
25 hear from our objectors.

1 Let me start with HarbourVest. I have misplaced for a
2 minute my appearance. I think it was Ms. Weisgerber. Was it
3 Ms. Weisgerber who was appearing for HarbourVest?

4 MS. WEISGERBER: Yes.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MS. WEISGERBER: Yes, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Do you -- have you heard what you need to 8 hear to withdraw your limited objection, or no?

9 MS. WEISGERBER: Your Honor, I think we're -- we're 10 pleased to hear those updates from the Debtor. I think, from 11 our perspective, we'd just look to a couple of housekeeping
12 matters regarding documentation of this. Specifically with 13 respect to the release point, in the settlement itself there
14 are certain entities that are explicitly carved out of the 15 release, and we would ask that HarbourVest be included as an 16 explicitly carved-out party, for the avoidance of doubt,
17 whether that appears in the settlement agreement or in the 18 order approving the settlement.

19 So, I'll pause on that, and then I'll just turn to the 20 second issue, to confirm if the Debtors are amenable to that.

21 MR. MORRIS: Well, we don't have the exclusive right
22 in this regard. If you'll give me one moment, I'm going to 23 just confer --

24 (Pause.)

25 MR. MORRIS: -- the Court to the next issue, if you

1 may, while I'm trying to resolve this. Because that is
2 certainly our intent. We never intended HarbourVest to be
3 part of this. And we would have no objection if the Court,
4 either through an order or otherwise, made it clear that
5 HarbourVest is not subject to the release.

6 MS. PATEL: Well, let me chime in. Mr. Morris, if 7 it's me that you're looking to confer with, I'm not sure, or 8 if it's Mr. Seery, but I think I can go ahead and address
9 this.

10 And, Your Honor, just to back up for a quick second on 11 this issue, I wanted to just, of course, remind not only the 12 Court but the other parties of the overall structure here.
13 And as Your Honor may remember, Acis is the portfolio manager
14 for certain CLOs in which Highland CLO Funding owns the -- 15 either the majority or all of the equity strip and equity
16 piece.

17 Separate and apart from that, Highland CLO Funding's
18 investors, conversely, are an entity by the name of CLO
19 Holdco, who has filed a limited reservation of rights, solely,
20 frankly, on the HCF Advisor transfer piece. More on that in a
21 minute, if you care to hear it. But, and also HarbourVest.
22 And HarbourVest, just to refresh the Court's recollection and 23 the other parties, was the secret third-party investor that 24 you heard oodles and oodles and oodles of testimony regarding 25 during the Acis bankruptcy case.

1 And then Highland and certain Highland employees'
2 retirement funds own the other remaining two percent equity
3 interest in Highland CLO Funding.

4 So what we're really talking about here, Your Honor, in 5 connection with HarbourVest, is something that is one step
6 removed from even the equity piece. So I just want to be on 7 record as saying, number one, Acis would dispute very hotly
8 that any duties -- and whether any duties are owed to entities
9 such as CLO Holdco or HarbourVest or HCLOF. There is -- it's 10 frankly beyond the scope of the hearing today. And our 11 position is that, certainly as it relates to HarbourVest or 12 CLO Holdco, Acis owes no duties by virtue of its role as 13 portfolio manager to the Acis CLOs.

14 Secondly, Your Honor, let's go to the issue of whether 15 there are even any potential claims. And with respect to 16 that, you know, there's at least, if not by implication, and 17 perhaps not in connection directly with HarbourVest, but 18 others that are objecting, so I'll just go ahead and address
19 the issue now: There are implications of some sort of 20 mismanagement. And I and Acis want to be clear on record as 21 saying those are obviously hotly-disputed issues as well.
22 Your Honor, frankly, those types of implications or claims are 23 unfounded and specious with respect to any mismanagement
24 allegations, and are frankly offensive, given the facts here.
25 Many are based by certain of the objectors and have -- on

1 prior -- testimony provided prior to the confirmation and have
2 been soundly rejected by this Bankruptcy Court.

3 Second, these Acis CLOs, frankly, Your Honor, have 4 performed either as well or better than the broad CLO market
5 since Brigade took over from Highland. And as you may recall,
6 Your Honor, Brigade started behind a $300 million eight-ball
7 created by former Highland Capital Management leadership. So
8 to argue that there is some form of Acis mismanagement is 9 frankly just jaw-dropping.

10 All of this, Your Honor, is particularly remarkable in 11 light of the fact that these deals are some of the only deals
12 now -- and by deals, I mean, the Acis CLOs -- passed through 13 the investment period. They haven't been reset. Acis has 14 tried to engage in reset discussions, and Your Honor heard
15 about this in the Acis status conference and in the Acis
16 bankruptcy, but I want to make sure it's on the record here:
17 Acis tried to engage in reset discussions with HCLOF -- again,
18 the entity in which HarbourVest, et al. have the investments
19 -- but they've been rebuffed, and in fact have been sued by 20 HCLOF's investor once removed, CLO Holdco, and then ultimately 21 the DAF (phonetic), and been named in all the scorched-earth
22 litigation that HCLOF has brought against Acis and Mr. Terry
23 in this Court and all around the world.

24 So, this allegation that there is some form of 25 mismanagement and that there are claims that need to be

1 reserved, again, I think are angels on the heads of pins.

2 Nevertheless, I think, to the extent it makes somebody
3 feel better to include that language in there, I think
4 HarbourVest's rights -- and I'll be specific to HarbourVest
5 here, since they're the party raising the issue -- to the 6 extent that they are concerned that the release somehow
7 impacts them, to the extent that they flow through HCLOF, I
8 think that they're already covered. But if you want some 9 belt-and-suspenders language that they're not included either,
10 that their rights that flow through HCLOF are also excluded
11 from release, then I suppose that's okay.

12 THE COURT: All right. So, we got the agreement of 13 Acis that, for belts and suspenders, they are agreeable to 14 language in any order approving this settlement, if there
15 should be one, they're agreeable to clarification that 16 HarbourVest claims are not released pursuant to this
17 settlement.

18 So, Mr. Morris, back to you.

19 Mr. Seery, you all would be good with that extra language?

20 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

21 THE COURT: All right. So, with that assurance, Ms.
22 -- I'm sorry, Ms. Weisgerber, you are withdrawing the 23 HarbourVest objection. Is that correct?

24 MS. WEISGERBER: I just wanted to address briefly the 25 other issue regarding the transfer of Highland HCF Advisor and

1 confirm, so it will not go forward, whether it will either be
2 carved out of the settlement agreement or whether the Court
3 will not be approving that transfer as part of the settlement
4 order. Again, just confirm that it's been excepted, it's not
5 going forward, but we just want to be -- it to be confirmed
6 that, with our concerns if later the Debtors got subsequent 7 legal advice and attempted to engage in a transfer. I think,
8 again, we always say belts and suspenders, Your Honor, but,
9 you know, my client has a history here that we'd like to be 10 certain about what we're getting when dealing with all the 11 parties here.

12 THE COURT: Well, Mr. Morris, --

13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

14 THE COURT: -- we heard you say that you didn't get 15 the legal advice you needed and so you aren't going to be 16 transferring direct or indirect interests in HHCF pursuant to 17 the settlement agreement. Is there something you can add to 18 -- I don't know. This is it. There's --

19 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

20 THE COURT: Go ahead.

21 MR. MORRIS: If you want to put it in an order,
22 that's fine, but I don't see any reason to go and tinker over 23 language in the settlement agreement. If Your Honor, you'll 24 make a finding based on Mr. Seery's testimony that the Debtor
25 has received advice, and based on that advice, the asset will

1 not be transferred. And that'll be part of the order, it
2 seems to me. We don't need to do this.

3 THE COURT: All right. So, Ms. Patel, you agree?
4 It's not happening?

5 MS. PATEL: That's -- that is correct, Your Honor.
6 We understand that the Debtor attempted to and has otherwise
7 complied with the terms of the settlement agreement. They had
8 -- they did not get that opinion from nationally-recognized
9 counsel. And Acis understands where that ended up.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MS. PATEL: So, no. No problem.

12 THE COURT: All right. So there, there's your 13 answer, Ms. Weisgerber, on both of your points.

14 So I'll move on, I guess, to Highland CLO Funding now.
15 Are you in a position to say if your objections are resolved
16 by these announcements? Ms. Matsumura, are you there?

17 MS. MATSUMURA: Your Honor, my colleague, Mr.
18 Maloney, had joined the call, but perhaps he's having 19 technical difficulties.

20 Our -- based on what's been said here, our reservation or 21 rights has been resolved.

22 Of course, the other issue that we had that I don't think
23 Mr. Morris addressed was the business of the appeal. I don't 24 think we need anything else said on that. We just wanted to 25 note for the record that we don't consent to dismissing our

1 portion of that appeal.

2 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let's turn, then, to Mr.
3 Kane, CLO Holdco. Have you heard what you needed to hear to 4 get comfortable?

5 MR. KANE: Yes, Your Honor. John Kane for CLO
6 Holdco. The discussion about the satisfaction of our concerns
7 on Section 1(c) of the settlement agreement has resolved our 8 concerns.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Very good.

10 All right. So we're down, I guess, to Mr. Dondero and Mr.
11 Daugherty. All right. Mr. Morris, did you want to make 12 anything further as far as an opening statement, or call your 13 witness?

14 MR. MORRIS: Yes. You know what, I'm happy to call
15 the witness, and then I'll reserve my time for closing
16 argument, if Your Honor (garbled).

17 MR. DEMO: Mr. Morris, this is Greg Demo. Just as 18 one more brief item before we do that, certain of the 19 employees are also being released by this agreement. We've 20 had conversations with their counsel. They didn't file a
21 formal reservation, but they asked a few clarifying questions,
22 which I believe that we and Ms. Patel are in agreement with.
23 And so those employees who are being released by the 24 settlement with Acis, we did want to clarify on the record
25 that the release does not affect any of their rights against

1 -- to assert a claim against the estate. Some of these 2 employees have filed proofs of claim. Others may have 3 administrative claims. And the settlement does not affect 4 their rights under those claims.

5 The settlement also does not affect their rights under the 6 -- to vote for or against the plan.

7 And then, finally, if any of those employees are 8 subpoenaed or subject to discovery requests, it does not 9 affect their right to truthfully respond to those.

10 THE COURT: All right. Anyone disagree with that 11 announcement? (No response.) All right.

12 MS. PATEL: Acis confirms, confirms the agreement,
13 Your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

15 All right. So I promised people you will get ample time
16 to do closing arguments, but I think, given how late in the 17 day it is, we need to just go to the evidence. And so, Mr.
18 Morris, you call Mr. Seery?

19 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. The Debtor calls James 20 Seery.

21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Seery, are you there?
22 Can you hear me?

23 MR. SEERY: I am, Your Honor. Can you hear me?

24 THE COURT: We can hear you. We can't see you yet,
25 but if you'll say "Testing 1, 2" it'll pick you up.

Seery - Direct

179

1 MR. SEERY: Testing 1, 2.

2 THE COURT: All right. There you are. All right.

3 Well, I've sworn you in once today. Do you understand you're 4 still under oath?

5 MR. SEERY: I do, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. You may proceed.

7 MR. MORRIS: All right. Thank you very much, Your
8 Honor.

9 I don't know if anybody else has had the issue, but there
10 were a couple of times when the screen froze for a second or 11 three. So we'll just see how it goes.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 JAMES P. SEERY, DEBTOR'S WITNESS, PREVIOUSLY SWORN

14 DIRECT EXAMINATION

15 BY MR. MORRIS:

16 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Seery. We're here on the 9019 motion
17 for Acis. Can you describe for the Court generally the 18 diligence that you and the independent board members did to 19 educate yourself about the claims that the Debtor had against 20 Acis and the claims that Acis had against the Debtor?

21 A Yes. Recognizing that we're making a separate record, I
22 will -- I'll do all the points, but I'll try to do them
23 slightly more quickly, since it's very similar to what I
24 testified with respect to Redeemer.

25 When we were appointed as directors, we initially did a

001721

Seery - Direct

180

1 lot of work around various claimants and what claims they had,
2 particularly those who were on the Creditors' Committee. And
3 that necessarily led us to dig into the Acis bankruptcy case
4 and the issues surrounding both Mr. Terry and Acis, of which 5 the Court is very familiar.

6 Starting on the very first day of the case, when -- first
7 day that we were appointed, we actually met with Mr. Terry and 8 his counsel, discussed the issues that they raised with 9 respect to their claims and what they thought were substantial
10 claims coming out of the Acis bankruptcy against the Highland
11 estate.

12 After that, we engaged our counsel to research the claims,
13 to do significant work around the legal issues.

14 Early on, as those -- as that work was going on, Mr. Nelms
15 and I ended up going to a meeting with Mr. Terry and Ms.
16 Patel, extensive debriefing on their claims and challenging a 17 number of the positions that they had. We took that back and 18 did extensive work with the team, which is the team at both 19 Highland, in terms of the underlying factual issues related to 20 the Acis case, as well as the legal issues both from Acis and 21 as were articulated by Ms. Patel and Mr. Terry.

22 When they filed their claim, we dug into that completely
23 and analyzed it both with respect to the legal and factual
24 issues, and had numerous meetings with the board and with 25 counsel with respect to each and every section of the 001722

1 complaint, as well as the -- how that would dovetail into our
2 case.

3 Q Did you have an opportunity to review any of the Court's
4 decisions in the Acis bankruptcy case?

5 A Yes, we did. We -- I did, and I know that each Mr. Nelms
6 and Mr. Dubel did as well.

7 There were numerous decisions, including the confirmation
8 of orders and the (inaudible) that started, you know, back in 9 the arbitration decision, which we also all read, and then 10 right into the case, into the plan of reorganization, and the 11 specifics with respect to the various transfers that were 12 articulated or laid out in the Acis complaint.

13 Q Did you receive advice and review yourself the advice on 14 issues, on legal issues such as those arising out of the 15 Mirant decision, and did you read that case?

16 A I read -- I read Mirant. I read all of the cases cited in 17 Mirant. I think I read most of its progeny, although it's got 18 a lot of different avenues that courts have taken. I was 19 familiar with the case as an investor because we invested in 20 the Mirant debt back in -- when Mirant had filed, and so I was 21 familiar and aware of it.

22 I think the issues with respect to Mirant are some of the 23 things that I was already familiar with, but we dug in again,
24 and I certainly reread the cases.

25 Q And did the board request and did (inaudible) extensive

Seery - Direct

182

1 analyses, written memorandum covering the issues surrounding
2 the Acis claims?

3 A Like the Redeemer case, the Redeemer issues, we requested
4 memoranda from the Debtor's counsel. Debtor's counsel did
5 extensive work on the issues, both with respect to the Acis
6 case as well as the complaint coming out of the case. We had 7 extensive meetings regarding that memoranda, and then sent
8 counsel back to work harder and to come back, challenging
9 their assumptions and some of their conclusions. So it was -- 10 it was an aggressive effort by the team.

11 In addition, we incorporated the Highland team because 12 they had the factual underpinnings. We had our own analysis, 13 but we wanted to see if there was something we were missing to 14 really challenge some of the assumptions that we were making
15 with respect to the claims.

16 Q Thank you.

17 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, a lot of the factual
18 background is really contained in the Court's own rulings from 19 the Acis case, so we're not going to spend any time on that.
20 I would ask the Court to take judicial notice of its own
21 decisions, including the decisions not of this Court but of 22 the District Court on appeal with respect to the matters that 23 were handled in the Acis bankruptcy.

24 THE COURT: Okay. I'll do that.

25 MR. MORRIS: Is that -- 001724

Seery - Direct

183

1 THE COURT: I'll do that.

2 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you.

3 BY MR. MORRIS:

4 Q Mr. Seery, during the course of your diligence, did you
5 learn that Acis and the Debtor and related parties were 6 litigating in different forums?

7 A It didn't -- yeah, the answer is yes. We understood that.
8 We also, you know, received copies of litigation, and even 9 from related-party litigation, from my lawyer, Ms. Patel, the 10 lawyer for Mr. Terry, with respect to various litigations, 11 including the Guernsey litigation and litigation initiated in 12 New York. Obviously, the underlying pleadings from the 13 bankruptcy adversary proceeding in Acis that became the basis
14 of the proof of claim in this case.

15 Q And did you learn that there were also proceedings that 16 were pending, or frankly, that were commenced after you were 17 appointed, in the Texas state court system related to certain
18 of Highland's employees?

19 A Yes, and those, those we learned from the employees.
20 Basically, I think coming out of the Acis case and the 21 positions that Mr. Terry had, litigation was initiated against 22 certain employees that we thought was pretty aggressive
23 litigation, frankly. And it was certainly disturbing, even if 24 -- even if one is indemnified as an employee and there is some 25 insurance, it's unsettling to be sued. So it's certainly sent

001725

1 a ripple through the organization.

2 Q And under the proposed settlement that the Debtor has 3 negotiated with Acis and (garbled), is the litigation that
4 you've just described going to end, at least for the Debtor,
5 the employees that signed the releases, and the affiliates
6 that are specifically identified in the release?

7 A Yes. As a management team and a board of directors, but 8 also as a CEO, it's critical to us to try to get as much of 9 this litigation resolved as possible.

10 As the Court is aware, this is some other litigation
11 that's gone on for a really long time. It's multi-front. It
12 involves multiple parties. It has collateral damage like the 13 employees. And we wanted to try to resolve all of that 14 litigation, to the extent that we could. We can't bind this,
15 as the Court heard earlier some of the -- those who had 16 reservation of rights. We can't bind entities that we don't 17 own or control. And if it's an entity that we manage, it
18 would have to be in the best interests of that entity in order
19 for us to bind that entity.

20 So we wanted it to be as full as possible. We wanted it
21 to be -- if we were going to have a settlement, that it had to 22 be obviously fair and beneficial to the estate. And if we 23 weren't, we were going to take a pretty aggressive litigation
24 posture vis-à-vis the claims.

25 Q All right. Let's shift from -- well, before I shift, is

Seery - Direct

185

1 there anything that you think the Court wants to hear in 2 regard to the diligence that you and the board did to educate
3 yourself about the nature, scope, and value of the Acis
4 claims, Mr. and Mrs. Terry's claims, and the Debtor's claims
5 against Acis?

6 A I think the one additional factor that we have in this
7 claim as opposed to Redeemer -- because Redeemer, although it
8 wasn't completely done before the mediation, and there were 9 certainly hard negotiations after the mediation started, it
10 was outside of mediation. In addition to all the work that we 11 did leading up to our objection to claim, our initial 12 negotiations with Ms. Patel as counsel for Acis, and then Mr.
13 Terry and his own counsel, we also prepared for the mediation.
14 And that was an incredible amount of work, to really examine 15 our own positions, understanding the failings, the weaknesses,
16 and also the strengths, set up what we thought was the most 17 appropriate way to proceed in a mediation there. We hoped to 18 come out with a settlement, if possible, but knowing 19 (inaudible). So we had an additional step with respect to the 20 Acis claim that we didn't have in the Redeemer.

21 Q Well, let's talk about the period prior to the mediation,
22 because obviously you weren't able to, as in your testimony,
23 you weren't able to reach an agreement prior to that. But can 24 you describe for the Court in general terms how the 25 negotiations went, who took part in the negotiations, so the 001727

Seery - Direct

186

1 Court has a good mindset as to the level of arm's length of 2 discussions that took place?

3 A Well, in the pre-mediation negotiations, we, as I said,
4 had had extensive dealings with and among counsel, and the 5 board was kept regularly informed of any of those discussions.
6 In addition, each of the board members -- Mr. Dubel, Mr.
7 Nelms, and myself -- had direct negotiations with Mr. Terry
8 regarding the very specific pieces of his complaint or of the 9 Acis complaint. And those were numerous, and they went on for 10 a considerable amount of time.

11 We initially made settlement offers to Acis and to Mr.
12 Terry, really, around the -- around the crucible of what this 13 -- monetization plan. As I mentioned earlier this morning, we 14 still hoped to have a more grand bargain, and maybe that will 15 get rid of more litigation. As I mentioned further, Mr.
16 Dondero' has made a proposal that I think is -- certainly 17 merits additional work. But we, we set up the plan that is on 18 file that will in front of the Court on Thursday, and it's the 19 alternative plan, but it sets up a crucible that if you are --
20 if we're unable to settle, we're going to litigate claims.
21 And we're still going to be open to settling. I think that -- 22 that sort of fostered some early pre-mediation dialogue with 23 Acis and Mr. Terry to set up a possibility that something
24 could get done.

25 Q Is it fair to say that at certain points during these

001728

Seery - Direct

187

1 negotiations frustration set in? Did they -- were they
2 difficult negotiations? Were they -- how would you
3 characterize them?

4 A I would say, to be perfectly fair, and not at all
5 aggrandizing to anybody or flattering, they were arm's length
6 and they were hard negotiations, but they were extremely 7 professional. So I don't think there was, you know, ever any 8 particular difficulty, animus, you know, pre-mediation. The 9 mediation might have gotten a little hot, but at the 10 mediation, we don't want to go into details, but it was very 11 -- it was very professional. It was very arm's-length but it
12 was very professional. It was -- it was slow going.

13 Q I do want to spend just a moment talking about the 14 objection that the Debtor filed to the Acis claim. Do you
15 recall that the Debtor filed an objection to the Acis claim?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Do you recall the arguments? You know, in general, what 18 was the position that the Debtor took with respect to the Acis
19 claim in its objection?

20 A I think our objection had three main components. Number 21 one, and maybe it had good merit, it's legally valid, but some 22 very technical objections. So, we objected to some specific 23 allegations regarding either constructive fraudulent
24 conveyances or fraudulent conveyances, whereas the Acis
25 complaint alleges that the Debtor got them, and some of our 001729

Seery - Direct

188

1 objections were things like no, we didn't get them, a
2 subsidiary got it. And so that would be a technical
3 objection, which I think has merit. You know, as an equitable
4 argument, it could certainly be argued that, well, you control
5 that a hundred percent or 99-1/2 percent, so how do you say
6 you didn't get the benefit? So there were those types of 7 issues.

8 Some of them were, I think, what I would call (inaudible),
9 that they were excellent arguments and they would have been
10 very difficult for Acis and Mr. Terry to ever overcome.

11 The other big overriding objection that we had was that we 12 -- we wanted to get around the Mirant holding and really lean
13 on the equities of the case. And so our position was that,
14 while -- while Acis and Mr. Terry had gone through a difficult
15 time, they had a plan of reorganization, and ultimately -- 16 ultimately, Mr. Terry would receive the full amount of his 17 original arbitration award, less the amount he paid for the 18 equity, and that that should probably be enough from an 19 equitable perspective to satisfy him, as opposed to having 20 claims against our estate. Our estate.

21 And the third, which ties into this, was an interesting
22 Supreme Court case, and it just -- Punta -- it'll come back to 23 me. Which was an argument, I think it's a good argument, 24 hasn't been really applied in bankruptcy often, but that the 25 buyer of an estate doesn't get to get the benefit of claims

001730

1 because -- against the former owners of the estate or the
2 company because that was factored into the price.

3 I think the challenge with that is, in the bankruptcy
4 context, these claims are often preserved and always pursued.
5 Or often pursued. So there was a challenge to that part of 6 it. But I think we were -- you know, we had solid technical 7 grounds on many of the objections, and we had, I think, a
8 good, creative argument on merit -- on Mirant that really was 9 dependent, though, on the perception of the equities of the 10 case.

11 Q Okay. There is a mediation privilege here, so I don't 12 want to divulge anything about the mediation or the end -- the 13 following. Just some very specific questions. Did the -- was 14 -- did the Court enter an order pursuant to which the Debtor,
15 Acis, and others participated in the mediation?

16 A Yes.

17 Q Did the Debtor submit a mediation statement in connection
18 with the mediation?

19 A Yes, an extensive one.

20 Q And was the agreement -- I think it's already been 21 revealed to the Court, but we'll do it again -- was the 22 settlement -- were the settlement terms agreed upon during the 23 mediation?

24 A Yes. And the -- just to be clear and not to reveal the 25 specifics, that part of mediation was very hard-fought. And

Seery - Direct

190

1 then in order to get the actual terms of the deal done, which
2 was exceedingly difficult -- were just good negotiations on 3 each side, I think -- that was done just directly between the 4 parties without the mediators. The actual drafting of the 5 provisions, the structuring of the releases, the limitations
6 on those releases, those were negotiated by the parties
7 without the mediators. The product -- the settlement is a
8 product of the mediation, but those specific pieces were 9 actually done between the parties directly, without the 10 mediators.

11 Q Thank you for the clarification. So, at some point early 12 in the summer, the Debtor files an objection, pursuant to 13 which it claims it has no liability. Is that fair?

14 A I -- I think that's fair, yeah. I think we -- we believed 15 we had a defense to -- at least some defense to every one of 16 their points.

17 Q And then you come out of the mediation and you have this 18 agreement that we're now asking the Court to approve; is that
19 right?

20 A That's correct.

21 Q Okay. Can you just explain to the Court the factors that 22 you and your fellow board members took into account,
23 considered, debated, in deciding that this was a fair and 24 reasonable deal?

25 A Sure. We -- we did believe we had good, meritorious

001732

1 defenses, and certainly defenses that we put up in good faith,
2 but we had a lot of risk. And so when we went through each
3 count, we thought about the risks that the prior rulings of 4 the Court were in the Acis case and how that might affect our 5 own attempt to deflect our liability.

6 Some of them, we looked at and we thought those were 7 actually, if we could get that settlement as part of it, it
8 would be a pretty straightforward trade. So with respect to 9 an intercompany note that's about $10 million, it was arguably
10 (inaudible) transferred from -- from Acis, it was transferred 11 -- its claim was it was transferred to Highland. Highland 12 paid on the note. It was actually transferred to an entity
13 that Highland owns and controls. That transfer was done
14 without consideration, was about $10 million. We would have 15 been liable on that note.

16 We now believe that, for example, that one, we had very 17 little defense on other than a technical defense, and that we 18 would have -- we'd have -- not going to have any liability on 19 it because we effectively owe it to ourself, and now we 20 believe it can be recharacterized or should have been 21 recharacterized as equity in the first instance.

22 So, there are a number of provisions like that. And it's 23 a long complaint. There are a number of allegations that are 24 duplicative, but things like changing the fees. We thought
25 that you could argue that the fee change was a market change

Seery - Direct

192

1 and made sense in the context of what Highland was doing, and 2 I think that's a good, valid defense. The problem with it was
3 the timing. And like a lot of the things in the Acis case,
4 the timing did not help with respect to the equities tilting
5 in favor of Highland. They tilted more towards Acis and Mr.
6 Terry.

7 So when we went through count by count, we put risk
8 probabilities and thought about whether we would be able to 9 prevail or whether there was an opportunity to settle.

10 In addition, you know, just like Redeemer, if this case is 11 going to get resolved, we're going to have to reach
12 settlements. They're not going to be our opportune -- not 13 going to be the best outcome that we would hope. Our best 14 outcome was zero. Our best outcome with Redeemer would have 15 been to deduct everything. But these are settlements that we 16 think are fair and reasonable based upon the risks of -- the 17 likelihood of success, the risks and the rewards of the -- the 18 timing, and the cost.

19 Q And the cost that we're referring to is the cost of 20 litigation; do I have that right?

21 A That's correct.

22 Q Okay.

23 A But by the way, just the cost on these settlements is not 24 just the cost of the two sides' litigation. It's we have a
25 bankruptcy case that, you know, as I've testified before,

001734

Seery - Direct

193

1 Highland's employees do a really good job doing the job they
2 do. The company has a small operating burn. The case is just
3 chewing up the value of the assets. And if everything
4 litigates until the end, we're not going to be in a position
5 to make very good distributions at all.

6 So there's a compelling argument that we should be trying
7 to settle any claims that are meritorious. We have no reason
8 to settle claims that are not meritorious, but claims that are 9 meritorious, we should try to settle if we can.

10 Q Okay. Let's talk for a moment about some of the claims
11 other than the main Acis claims, because there's a few, and I
12 just -- quickly. Claim No. 156 is characterized in our -- as 13 the Terry claim. That's the claim that relates to the taking 14 of the retirement funds. Can you just explain to the Court
15 the board's rationale and their reasoning in deciding to treat
16 the claim in the manner that is being proposed under the 17 settlement?

18 A Yeah, I think this one is again pretty straightforward, 19 that Highland, you know, had arguable justification for the 20 treatment of that account. We went through it pretty closely.
21 It ended up with Mr. Terry and Mrs. Terry receiving no value
22 from the -- the value from his -- from his 401(k). And we 23 thought that this was a claim that was pretty straightforward
24 that should have been settled years ago. And that -- and it's 25 not a large amount of money, but it's, we think, in the 001735

1 context of the case, the right answer was to simply settle
2 that one for the full value of the claim.

3 Q Thank you. And Claim #155 is defined as the Acis, LP
4 claim. I think that's the claim arising out of the NWCC
5 litigation in New York. Can you just describe briefly for the 6 Court what that -- your understanding of what that claim is 7 and why the Debtor has chosen to enter into the agreement for 8 the settlement of that claim?

9 A Yeah. And this is another one. It's not as personal and 10 difficult in terms of settling it, but it is one that's 11 nettlesome. Highland -- it's a long saga, but Highland had 12 retained a party to assist with some (inaudible) kind of 13 financing. It turned out it didn't either want or need it.
14 It turned over the contract. It owed a small amount of money
15 under the contract. And then it just didn't pay. And that 16 party sued in New York Supreme Court, and then Highland was 17 deleterious. Its counsel just failed to respond.

18 Ultimately, after getting an extension, its counsel
19 responded. Its counsel responded, including with respect to 20 Acis. Unfortunately, Acis was controlled by a trustee, so
21 Acis then never -- never got the proper notices. And the case
22 proceeded to Acis's detriment, and this is the cost of the 23 fees to try to undo that, which ultimately Acis was able to 24 do. It's still, I believe, a defendant in the case, but was 25 able to -- to separate from default-type judgments and risks

1 it had incurred because Highland's counsel had not properly
2 dealt with the case.

3 Ultimately, the case went against Highland. I think it's 4 one that should not have gone against it. And what was a very 5 small amount that was owed is now a few hundred grand.

6 Q Hmm. And then the last piece of the puzzle, I believe, is 7 the satisfaction of the fees incurred in connection with 8 Guernsey. Can you describe for the Court your understanding
9 of what that provision of the settlement pertains to and why
10 the Debtor believes it's in the best interests of creditors to 11 do that?

12 A Yes. The Guernsey litigation was brought by HCLOF in 13 Guernsey. The Debtor was not part of it. However, the Debtor
14 has an advisory agreement through HCF that we talked about 15 earlier. And Acis and Mr. Terry took the view that we had the 16 ability to stop that litigation. We actually went out and had 17 outside counsel tell us we did not have that ability. And 18 after doing -- doing work on it. But it was one of those 19 issues, again, a nettlesome one, where HCLOF lost in Guernsey.
20 Guernsey is a loser-pays jurisdiction. And this is one of 21 those items that I suspect that, because of our case as a
22 manager, it was something that was really important to Mr.
23 Terry. And for the amount of the settlement, in order to get 24 the overall deal done, we agreed that we would compromise that 25 amount, his statutory amount, and then he could litigate for

1 his full fees.

2 So, rather than have either HCLOF or Acis go and spend
3 additional dollars to litigate in Guernsey to determine the 4 fees -- which we don't really know how that would have come
5 out, but there's at least a minimum, the statutory amount --
6 we compromised it.

7 Q Last question, as I did with the earlier settlement:
8 We've touched, I think, on all of the factors at play under a 9 9019 analysis, but can you just explain to the Court in your
10 own words why you and the Debtor and the independent board
11 members believe that this settlement is in the paramount
12 interests of creditors?

13 A Well, we, again, we went through a rigorous examination of 14 the risks and rewards of the litigation. The timing, the 15 costs overall to the estate, and the claims that Acis and Mr.
16 Terry had. The challenge that we had is that, where we are in 17 the case, it's not just creditors that are at -- potentially 18 on the other side, the creditors of Highland on the other 19 side. And that means that there's a risk that a finder of 20 fact, looking at the totality here, based upon Mirant and the 21 subsequent cases, when you balance the equities, they may not 22 always find that they tilt in Highland's favor. So the risks
23 that they would tilt against us was material, and that left us
24 open to potentially a significant award.

25 In addition, as I mentioned, of the total amount, we think

Seery - Direct

197

1 that the note was one that we actually owe, and we owe it to
2 somebody, but now we owe it to ourselves. So of the total
3 settlement amount, $10 million really is self-funding because 4 we're not going to have to pay that obligation.

5 So our view is that, overall, this is a -- like the 6 Redeemer. It's a fair total settlement that we can reach with 7 Acis and Mr. Terry. We can wrap up a number of litigations,
8 including litigations against the employees, and that is --
9 even though I think it's got good, meritorious defenses,
10 having that over one settlement, harder to bring this case to 11 a close, and we'd be -- we'd be relying every day on those 12 very employees. And I can tell you for certain that it was 13 important to them to eliminate that risk from their day-to-day
14 lives.

15 Q You know, I apologize, there was one other question I
16 wanted to ask with respect to the probability of success on 17 the merits. Did you and the independent board take into 18 account the credibility findings that this Court made in prior 19 decisions and the equities that the Court might interpret
20 based on the Court's prior findings in assessing the 21 likelihood of success on the merits?

22 A Yes. And the risk that we saw, frankly, is that if we 23 were just dealing in the pure world of constructive fraudulent
24 conveyance and we were dealing in a pure world where equities
25 were balanced and didn't tilt against us, then we would be 001739

Seery - Direct

198

1 more likely to push the litigation angle of it. I think this
2 case still should settle, but it would give us more likelihood 3 that we would have a probability of winning.

4 With the prior decisions, it puts a significant amount of 5 risk on the Mirant equities argument. And once we -- if we 6 were to lose that, or if it was to be found that these were 7 actual fraudulent conveyances, and based upon some of the 8 prior testimony, one might assess that there were some risks
9 there, that certainly leads us to believe that this is a fair
10 settlement.

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I have no further questions
12 and no further witnesses. But I would like at this time to 13 move for the introduction -- for the admission into evidence
14 of certain exhibits.

15 THE COURT: All right. Point me to where those 16 appear on the docket again.

17 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I really apologize. That's the 18 one docket number I don't have. I think we filed it on Friday
19 evening, if that helps.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Just a moment. Okay. Let me back
21 up. Your witness and exhibit list is at Docket 1202.

22 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

23 THE COURT: And I'm sorry, you're wanting to move
24 into evidence all of the items on here, or no?

25 MR. MORRIS: The four items, the first four items on 001740

1 there.

2 THE COURT: All right. So the three proofs of claim
3 at issue and then the declaration of Mr. Demo that I think was 4 just attaching the settlement agreement and related items,
5 correct?

6 MR. MORRIS: That's exactly right, Your Honor. Mr.
7 Demo's declaration can be found at Docket No. 1088.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 MR. MORRIS: And there was just the two exhibits, the 10 settlement agreement and the release. And the Debtor
11 respectfully moves for the admission into evidence of those 12 documents.

13 THE COURT: All right. Any objection? (No
14 response.) All right. Those four exhibits are admitted.
15 Again, they are found at Docket Entry 1202.

16 (Debtor's Exhibits are received into evidence.)

17 THE COURT: All right. So you have the passed the 18 witness. First, any friendly examination that is not 19 duplicative? Ms. Patel, anything from you?

20 MS. PATEL: No, Your Honor. We'd reserve anything
21 for redirect, if at all.

22 THE COURT: All right. So I'll turn now to counsel,
23 I guess, for Mr. Dondero first. Any cross-examination?

24 MR. WILSON: Yes, Your Honor. This is John Wilson
25 for Mr. Dondero.

Seery - Cross

200

1 THE COURT: Mr. Wilson, you have cross?

2 MR. WILSON: Yes, ma'am.

3 THE COURT: All right. Go ahead.

4 CROSS-EXAMINATION

5 BY MR. WILSON:

6 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Seery. Can you hear me?

7 A I can, yes.

8 Q All right. And we met over Zoom on Saturday, but again,
9 I'm John Wilson and I represent James Dondero. I just wanted
10 to ask you a few questions. And we -- Mr. Dondero and I don't 11 want to re-plow a lot of ground, but you described earlier
12 about how, when you were appointed to the independent board,
13 you began meeting with members of the Official Committee of 14 Unsecured Creditors and then to try to determine what their 15 claims were and began to undertake an analysis of those.
16 Would that be fair?

17 A Yes.

18 Q And in the process of doing so, the board instructed the 19 Pachulski firm to undertake specific legal analysis of the 20 Acis claims and all the causes of action asserted therein; is 21 that correct?

22 A That's correct.

23 Q And in fact, the board worked closely with counsel to 24 analyze the Acis proof of claim, correct?

25 A I -- you broke up. Did we work closely?

001742

1 Q Yes.

2 A Yes, we did.

3 Q All right. And you described that you requested memoranda
4 and conducted meetings with counsel, instructed counsel to go
5 back and work harder. Is that a fair characterization of what
6 you testified to a minute ago?

7 A I think that is part of it, yes.

8 Q Okay. So, through this process, when you were analyzing 9 the Acis proof of claim and becoming familiar with the 10 particular claims asserted therein, you became aware that this 11 was the subject of an adversary proceeding in the Acis
12 bankruptcy, correct?

13 A Yes.

14 Q And in fact, that there is -- the Acis proof of claim
15 attaches the second amended claim from the Acis versus 16 Highland adversary proceeding; is that correct?

17 A You broke up at the end, but I think the answer is yes, if 18 it was that it attaches the second amended complaint. I
19 believe that's correct.

20 Q Right. And that Acis v. Highland adversary proceeding had 21 been the subject of litigation at the time the Highland 22 bankruptcy was filed, right?

23 A I believe yes, it had commenced.

24 Q And that litigation had been proceeding for actually many 25 months, correct?

1 A Yeah. The Acis case and the adversary had been initiated
2 well before our filing.

3 Q Right. And you became aware through your analysis and 4 attempts to discover information about this claim that 5 discovery was being conducted in that adversary proceeding;
6 that's correct?

7 A I don't know that I ever saw any of the specifics of 8 discovery. I assume there was discovery.

9 Q Well, and I think you testified on Saturday that you were 10 aware that discovery was being conducted in the adversary
11 proceeding.

12 A I mean, I'm sure -- I'm sure I knew that there was 13 discovery in the adversary, but I don't -- I don't have a 14 specific recollection of what the discovery was. That's not 15 something --

16 Q Right. And my question wasn't whether you reviewed all 17 the discovery. It was just that you were aware that it was 18 being conducted, correct?

19 A I was aware that it had. I don't know that it was current 20 at the time that we got involved.

21 Q Now, I think that -- I think you've offered testimony that 22 you worked with the Pachulski firm in developing the written 23 objection that was ultimately filed to the Acis proof of 24 claim?

25 A That's correct.

1 Q And before that objection was filed, you and the other
2 members of the board reviewed it, right?

3 A Yes.

4 Q And the other members -- you and the other members of the 5 board took the position or agreed with the position taken in 6 the written objection, correct?

7 A Yes.

8 Q And the board approved the written objection before it was 9 filed?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q And so ultimately the Pachulski firm filed Highland's
12 objection to Acis' proof of claim on June 23rd, 2020?

13 A I believe that's correct. I don't know the date off the 14 top of my head.

15 Q And would you agree with me that the Highland objection
16 took a pretty aggressive stance with regard to the Acis proof
17 of claim?

18 A I agree, yes.

19 Q And in fact, the Highland objection took the position that 20 the Acis claim should be disallowed in its entirety; is that
21 right?

22 A That's correct.

23 Q I've got Bryan Assink from my firm here with me, and he's,
24 excuse me, going to try to share a document on -- on the 25 webcam. What we're going to look at is Exhibit G, which is

1 actually -- it's Dondero Exhibit G, which is actually the 2 Highland objection to the Acis proof of claim. Can you see
3 that on your screen?

4 A I can, yes.

5 Q All right. And if you look at the top of that, the very
6 top where it has the file stamp that shows that -- it shows
7 that it was indeed filed on 6/23/20, and it's Docker No. 771.
8 Can you go to Page 3 now? And I don't want to work through 9 the entire 65 pages of this document, but I'd like to kind of 10 work through some of the -- some of the statements made in the 11 preliminary statement that I think are intended as a --
12 somewhat of a summary of the positions taken in the document.

13 But if you look on Page -- if you look on Page 3, about 14 halfway down, the beginning of that Paragraph No. 2, where it
15 says, (inaudible) Terry keeps a $75 million windfall, which 16 would come not at Dondero's expense but from the pockets of 17 the Debtor's innocent creditors, including unsecured trade
18 creditors, the Redeemer Committee, the Highland Crusader Fund,
19 with an arbitration award of $191,824,557, and UBS Securities
20 (inaudible).

21 And so Highland took the position on June 23rd that Mr.
22 Terry was seeking a $75 million windfall, correct?

23 A That's correct.

24 Q And they took the position that that windfall was not 25 going to come at Mr. Dondero's expense but instead at the 1 expense of Debtor's innocent creditors, correct?

2 A That's what we said, yes.

3 MR. WILSON: All right. Can you go to Page --

4 BY MR. WILSON:

5 Q Now, this is the next page of the document, Page 4, where 6 it says that James Dondero and Mark Okada were Acis's sole
7 owners, and it's hornbook law that sole owners do not owe
8 fiduciary duties to their company.

9 MR. WILSON: Can we go to the top of Page 5?

10 (Pause.)

11 MR. WILSON: Sorry. Having technical difficulties.

12 BY MR. WILSON:

13 Q And starting at the bottom of that paragraph, it says that 14 Delaware law does not permit creditors of a limited
15 partnership to sue third parties for breach of fiduciary
16 duties, nor does it permit a trustee to sue on their behalf.
17 These claims are not and cannot as a matter of law be brought 18 for the benefit of Acis's foreign creditors.

19 And so on June 23rd, 2020, Highland was thinking that the 20 breach of the -- the breach of fiduciary duty claims could not 21 be brought as valid claims in the Highland bankruptcy,
22 correct?

23 A Yes.

24 MR. WILSON: And then go to the bottom of Paragraph

25 B.

1 BY MR. WILSON:

2 Q It says -- the last sentence of Paragraph B says that even
3 if the equities are applied as this Court once held they may,
4 there is no equity in permitting a new owner to sue persons
5 for conspiring with the old owner in order to parlay a $1
6 million investment into $75 million, at the expense of this
7 Debtor's creditors.

8 And once again, you're taking the -- I'm sorry -- Highland
9 is taking the position that there is no equity in Acis's claim
10 because they're parlaying a $1 million investment into $75
11 million at the expense of Debtor's creditors. And that was 12 Highland's position on June 23rd, 2020, correct?

13 A That's correct.

14 MR. WILSON: Go to Page -- actually, just go down a 15 little bit.

16 BY MR. WILSON:

17 Q And then with respect to the fraudulent transfer claims,
18 Highland took the position that, third, the fraudulent
19 transfer claims fail and may be summarily resolved because the 20 Debtor did not receive the benefit of the alleged fraudulent
21 transfers since, with one exception, it was not the transferee
22 of the transferred rights.

23 So Highland had taken the position on June 23rd, 2020 that 24 the fraudulent transfer claims must be fail and can be 25 summarily resolved, correct?

1 A That's correct.

2 MR. WILSON: All right. Go to D on the next page.

3 BY MR. WILSON:

4 Q And here in Paragraph D, it says there is nothing left of 5 the former Acis estate. Creditors were paid, Old Equity was 6 cancelled, and New Equity is held by a purchaser who paid $1
7 million, no different than if he had done so at an auction.
8 There is no estate to benefit.

9 So, and then it continues on, authorities before and after 10 Mirant hold that the (inaudible) recovery should be limited
11 based on equitable considerations. Unlike Mirant, in this 12 Court's Texas Rangers decision, this is not a case in which 13 the recovery will enable the debtor to satisfy outstanding 14 claims, obligations, or one in which creditors are forced to 15 take equity instead of cash and are depending on its value for 16 recovery on their claims. There is no estate and no equity to 17 support Mr. Terry's windfall.

18 So, Highland, on June 23rd, 2020, was taking the position
19 that there was no estate to benefit because all the creditors
20 have been paid and Old Equity was transferred and New Equity
21 was held by Josh Terry; is that correct?

22 A That's correct.

23 Q In Paragraph E, that's where Highland discusses how the 24 (inaudible) Doctrine holds that the purchase of controlling 25 equity in a company may not be used to control through

1 corporate machinery to turn around and assert claims against 2 the prior owners if the claims arose prior to the date when
3 the purchaser took control.

4 So Highland was saying on June 23rd, 2020 that the 5 (inaudible) Doctrine prohibited many of Terry's claims? Or 6 Acis's claims, I'm sorry. Is that correct?

7 A That's correct.

8 Q All right. Now, on Paragraph F. Acis (inaudible) seeking 9 $7 million in so-called overpayments have no legal basis and 10 should be summarily disallowed.

11 So Highland took the position on June 23rd, 2020 that the 12 overpayment claims can be summarily disposed and had no legal 13 basis, correct?

14 A That's correct, sir.

15 Q And 11G says that Acis's civil conspiracy claim also fails
16 as a matter of law because that claim is not recognized. So
17 now -- H. Acis's tortious interference claim fails as a
18 matter of law because it does not apply to at-will contracts.

19 I, Acis's breach of contract claim, like its claim for breach 20 of fiduciary duty, rests on the fallacy that Acis had legal 21 interests that were distinct from those of its sole owners.

22 J, alter ego liability was inadequately pled (inaudible)
23 claim, and moreover, is unavailable on the alleged grounds.

24 MR. WILSON: The top of the next page.

25 BY MR. WILSON:

1 Q And then K, you talk about Debtor's defenses that are
2 meritorious but may not be able to be decided summarily.

3 So, on these 55 pages of this claim, there's a lot of 4 legal argument and briefing over the objections, but I think
5 you would have to agree with me that Highland asserted the 6 position that every single one of the 34 Acis claims could be 7 resolved by summary disposition, correct?

8 A I don't -- I don't think that's correct. I think we said
9 that numerous of the claims could be dealt with by summary
10 disposition, and certain other ones we had meritorious
11 defenses that would have to be litigated because they were 12 fact-based.

13 Q But in any event, you would agree with me that the bulk of 14 this claim was argued could be disposed by summary
15 disposition, correct?

16 A That's correct.

17 MR. WILSON: All right. Now --

18 BY MR. WILSON:

19 Q And I think you told me on Saturday that, with respect to 20 your -- Highland's claim that there's no estate to benefit in 21 Acis, that if there was an estate it would be Josh Terry; is 22 that correct?

23 A I don't believe that's correct, no.

24 Q You don't believe that that's correct or you don't believe
25 that you testified to that?

1 A I'd probably say both.

2 Q Well, maybe I can refresh your recollection as to that.

3 MR. WILSON: Page --

4 BY MR. WILSON:

5 Q We've produced the infamous video. I'm going to try to 6 pull up Page 38 of the deposition that you gave on October 17,
7 2020.

8 MR. WILSON: It's at the top.

9 BY MR. WILSON:

10 Q So starting at Line 3, where it says, I don't think that 11 will be necessary, but in practical terms it's Acis's estate, 12 now just Terry. Mr. Morris asserted an objection. And the 13 answer was, Yeah, I think we would certainly from a litigation
14 perspective try to cabin it that way. And there are a bunch
15 of technical reasons for that, but it's certainly a bit
16 broader than that. There's not a big creditor body, but there
17 are still a few creditors. He is, in my understanding, the 18 only shareholder -- there are, you know, in fact, customers, 19 albeit the management of the investment outsourced some of the 20 funds, so we would -- you know, we tried and attempted to 21 draft it in a way that cabined it to a couple different
22 creditors that could be paid off in --

23 MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor? Your Honor, if I may, 24 just in the future I would respectfully request that if my 25 witness or my client is going to be cross-examined with

1 deposition testimony, and I've lodged an objection
2 specifically to preserve the objection, that the Court rule on 3 the objection before the answer is read into the record.

4 Thank you.

5 THE COURT: All right. So, I'm sorry, you had --

6 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

7 THE COURT: Let me be clear if you have a pending
8 objection at the moment.

9 MR. MORRIS: If it's not -- if the Court doesn't deem 10 it too late, since it's already been read into the record,
11 yes, I would just ask the Court to rule on the objection that 12 I made during the deposition. That's why we do that.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I got lost, I suppose, on 14 what the objection was that was lodged during the deposition.

15 MR. MORRIS: I objected to the form of the question
16 to the extent it calls for a legal conclusion.

17 THE COURT: All right.

18 MR. WILSON: And Your Honor, I'm --

19 MR. MORRIS: I just want it to be clear that if the 20 Court sustains the objection, that whatever Mr. Seery
21 testified to is not going to be somehow binding as some kind
22 of legal conclusion. That's all.

23 THE COURT: All right.

24 MR. WILSON: Your Honor, my response to that --

25 THE COURT: Response, Mr. Wilson?

1 MR. WILSON: Yes. My response to that objection will
2 be that I did not ask him for a legal conclusion. I asked him
3 a question in practical terms, if Acis's estate now is just 4 Terry.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the objection.

6 MR. MORRIS: All right. Thank you, Your Honor.

7 THE WITNESS: So I think I answered it correctly.
8 You asked me what I thought, and I said, from a -- this answer
9 is from a litigation perspective. That's the position we 10 took, yes. I think a moment ago you asked me what I thought
11 now from a factual perspective. Most of the issues are laid
12 out in my answer.

13 BY MR. WILSON:

14 Q Turn with me to -- on Page 9. I'm now going to direct 15 your attention to Paragraph 4 of the Highland objection on 16 Page 9, which says, The rights of creditors to be paid were 17 the legal basis of the Acis plan injunction, which is why the 18 injunction terminates once those creditors are paid in full.
19 Mr. Terry elected to acquire new equity for $1 million. He is 20 not entitled to receive another $75 million by claiming that 21 Acis was damaged by those transfers, much less from the 22 pockets of the Debtor's unpaid creditors. To impose on the 23 former partners and third parties such as the Debtor a duty to 24 restore $75 million to the former business, not to pay its 25 creditors but for the sole benefit of successor owner who

1 bought the diminished entity for $1 million, would be a
2 legally groundbreaking windfall, to say the least. The Acis
3 claim can and should summarily be disallowed in its entirety
4 on the record before the Court.

5 And so does that paragraph to you pretty much sum up
6 Highland's position on the Acis claim as of June 23rd, 2020?

7 A Yes. That's the position we took.

8 Q And the board believed in good faith that these arguments
9 it was making were meritorious, correct?

10 A That's correct.

11 Q And the board had a good faith belief that the legal 12 contentions made in Highland's objection were warranted by 13 existing law, correct?

14 A The legal what?

15 Q The legal contentions were warranted by existing law.

16 A Yes.

17 Q And the board had a good faith belief that the factual
18 contentions in Highland's objection had evidentiary support,
19 correct?

20 A That's correct.

21 Q And so Highland had a good faith belief that Acis's claim
22 could be disposed of, disposed of in its entirety on summary
23 judgment. Correct?

24 A Largely, yes.

25 Q And you agree with me that if claims can be disposed of

1 summarily, that would be a shorter and less expensive legal
2 process than a trial on those issues?

3 A If they are summarily dismissed, that is correct.

4 Q And in fact, an agreement was reached by the parties in 5 this case that Highland and Acis would file motions for 6 summary judgment regarding the Highland objection to the Acis
7 claim by September 16th, 2020, and that those motions would be 8 heard on October 20th, which is today. Do you recall that?

9 MR. MORRIS: Objection, --

10 MR. WILSON: I'm sorry, go ahead.

11 THE WITNESS: That's fine. We don't need to agree.
12 We took a very aggressive position that we wanted to get to 13 court as quickly as we could to put pressure on the Acis side.

14 BY MR. WILSON:

15 Q But my point in asking you these questions is -- so they 16 took the position that there was summary adjudication
17 available for these claims in the -- in the Bankruptcy Court.
18 Is that correct? Would you agree with that?

19 A We were definitely scheduled to have that, yes.

20 Q Okay. Because I read the Debtor's omnibus reply that came 21 in yesterday. And on Page 7, it says there was no indication
22 that summary adjudication is available in this Court. And I
23 just wanted to make that clear, that there was actually an 24 agreed-upon procedure that was approved by the Court. So
25 Highland's initial position was that if Highland paid the Acis

1 claim they were going to give a $75 million windfall to Terry,
2 correct? And we've just gone through reading a few times in 3 the objection. Can you agree with that?

4 A Yes.

5 Q But I think that you have previously described how there's 6 a counterargument to that windfall from Terry's perspective.

7 Is that right?

8 A There is a counterargument, yes.

9 Q And what would that counterargument be?

10 A In sum, when you look at Mirant and the related cases,
11 they do talk about restoring the estate. And so while we -- 12 we believed an argument was I think strong that the initial 13 injunction in Acis quote/unquote made Mr. Terry whole, there's 14 a strong argument to be made that the estate has claims and 15 that the owner of an estate who buys it through a plan open to 16 everybody is entitled to try to benefit from those claims. So
17 the recovery for the benefit of that enterprise is permitted, 18 and that just happens to be what the law is.

19 Moreover, while we said it was inequitable, there's a 20 counterargument that Mr. Terry would make, which is that he's 21 been -- he had a claim that could have been settled easily and 22 could have been paid off and it wasn't. Instead, there was a
23 long litigation. And it came about because assets from Acis
24 were pulled out of Acis. It's a pretty straightforward
25 factual recitation that we get from the prior decisions of

1 this Court. And there's a strong equitable argument that Mr.
2 Terry makes that his life has been turned upside down and
3 there's a lot of damage that comes from that. Now, we have,
4 as we lay out, what we thought were meritorious defenses, but 5 they do rely a lot on the equities.

6 Q Right. And we'll get to it now. In your deposition on 7 Saturday, I think you described this with a little more color.

8 (Pause.)

9 BY MR. WILSON:

10 Q On Lines 7 through 13, you were discussing the Highland
11 position related to the windfall, but starting I think and you
12 said equally on the other side, we could say that the man's 13 life was ripped out from him, that his position was taken 14 away, that he got an arbitration award that arguably the 15 Debtor and the Debtor's management at the time stripped away
16 all the assets (inaudible) to try to leave him with no
17 recovery. And then when he sought a recovery, they sought to 18 sue him in every jurisdiction in the world to make sure to 19 ruin the guy's life and put him in a position where, while for 20 some it might seem a windfall, to him it might seem just.

21 MR. WILSON: And skip down toward -- go on to that 22 next answer.

23 BY MR. WILSON:

24 Q Where it says, that it took a bunch of years of his life
25 and destroyed his career is not really our issue.

1 So these are the equities that you were considering when
2 you -- when the board decided to settle this claim, this Acis
3 claim?

4 A Overall. This is my summation. I wouldn't want to 5 engraft it necessarily on Mr. Dubel and Mr. Nelms. But 6 certainly this general position. I'm not quite sure why you
7 read it out. But yes, that's the other side, in a nutshell.

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is -- this is John
9 Morris. Mr. Seery made a point, frankly, that I was thinking
10 of, but it is an important point. There's really, in my 11 experience, no need to go to a deposition transcript unless 12 it's being used for impeachment purposes. If Counsel has a
13 question of my witness, I would -- I would respectfully
14 request that he simply ask it.

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

17 THE COURT: Mr. Wilson, what do you have to say about 18 that?

19 MR. WILSON: Yes, Your Honor.

20 THE COURT: I think he's correct. Anything you want
21 to challenge about that point?

22 MR. WILSON: Well, not really, Your Honor. I could 23 -- I could ask the questions, but I just, in that instance, I
24 thought it was easier to get the exact testimony on the 25 record. I don't think it's inadmissible for any purpose. And

1 he's, you know, he's welcome to comment on it if he needs to 2 or put it in context or -- I mean, if there's a (inaudible) or 3 something else, you know, I'll live with that. I was just 4 doing it for ease, instead of having to ask him a bunch of 5 individual pointed questions.

6 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we've got him here, so let's
7 just -- you know, we've got him here so we don't need to use
8 the deposition unless, you know, there's some impeachment
9 purpose.

10 So let me just ask you. You have -- you've been going 27
11 minutes on cross. I really want to break tonight at a point
12 that makes sense, which to me suggests we should finish this 13 witness. How much longer do you feel like you need?

14 MR. WILSON: I believe I'm at least halfway done, if 15 not further along, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right. Well, hmm. I'm going to ask
17 you to just speed it up. I'm going to stop -- well, here's 18 the deal. We have maybe two more witnesses, right? You all 19 have named Professor Rappaport, and Mr. Daugherty is named as 20 a witness. And I said I would come back tomorrow, but I'm 21 trying to respect the fact that Acis's counsel, their lead
22 counsel is not available tomorrow. So add to this
23 complication that, as we have been conducting this hearing
24 this afternoon, four objections to the disclosure statement
25 have been filed that at some point -- that at some I need to

219

1 read and a lot of other lawyers in the room need to read. And 2 I'm -- what is our hearing? It's Thursday. Is it 9:30 in the 3 morning Thursday? Yes. My law clerk is saying yes. So we're 4 running --

5 MS. MASCHERIN: I believe that's right.

6 THE COURT: We're running out of available hours
7 here. So, with respect, Mr. Wilson, I'm going to give you 15
8 more minutes. So we're going to pass the witness --

9 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, this is --

10 THE COURT: Yes?

11 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, this is Jason Kathman. And 12 I don't know if this helps or makes things more difficult, but 13 I think my cross of Mr. Seery is at least probably 20 or 30
14 minutes, and so I'm just telling you now, if the Court's
15 thinking about breaking now, and to give Mr. Wilson another 15
16 minutes, I'm not a five-minute cross-examination. I don't 17 think I'm an hour, but it's certainly more than five minutes.
18 So, again, I say that. I don't know if that helps or hurts, 19 but I wanted to pass that information if it affects the 20 Court's decision-making.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Wilson, continue. You've got 22 15 minutes to wrap it up.

23 MR. WILSON: Thank you, Your Honor.

24 BY MR. WILSON:

25 Q Now, Mr. Seery, is it true that prior to filing that 001761

1 Highland objection that we just reviewed that Highland made an
2 offer to settle the Acis claim for $4 million?

3 A We did. We made an initial settlement offer to Acis for 4 $4 million plus withdrawing our claims in the Acis case.

5 Q Okay. And around that same time, did Highland make an 6 offer to settle UBS's $1 billion proof of claim for 7 approximately $20 million?

8 A I think that's about the right amount, yes.

9 Q Okay. And you believe the Debtor in this case is solvent,
10 correct?

11 A Yeah. I believe, and I think I testified earlier, and 12 also on Saturday, that I believe that we have projections
13 that, if we are able to hit them, we have to improve on them,
14 and we have to keep our costs down, and if we have a claim
15 amount for UBS which we think is zero, and we do believe
16 that's the case, as well as zero for HarbourVest, which I
17 argue is the same, and Mr. Daugherty I believe it's 3.7, that 18 we would be very close to paying claims in full, yes.

19 Q So, based on those assumptions, you believe there'll be 20 room for equity to participate under the currently-filed plan?

21 A It would be -- it would be close, yeah, but there's a 22 potential, certainly. It would be close. But again, to -- 23 again, there's -- again, there's -- these are not -- it's not 24 a matter of distributing a sack of cash. These are assets
25 that we have to manage and then sell into the market. And as

1 we had testimony earlier on Cornerstone, these are not big,
2 giant high-grade companies. These are private, smaller
3 companies with issues and risks.

4 Q Okay. And it's your information that the allowed amount
5 of the UBS claims should be zero, right?

6 A Yes.

7 Q And I won't ask you again to give your reasons for that.
8 And can you -- there's been lots of argument and talk about
9 this all day today, but I think it's a pretty simple question.
10 But you would agree with me that, in the Fifth Circuit, and 11 that's based on U.S. Supreme Court precedent, that a 12 bankruptcy court should not approve a settlement unless it's 13 fair and equitable and in the best interest of the estate,
14 correct?

15 A I think that's generally the standard, yes.

16 Q Right. And you believe that, although Highland's 9019
17 motion to approve the Acis settlement doesn't actually use the 18 phrase "fair and equitable," I believe you testified that you
19 believe the Acis settlement is fair and equitable; is that
20 correct?

21 A Yes, I do believe that.

22 Q And can you briefly describe for me why that is that you
23 have that belief?

24 A Yeah. I believe I testified earlier that a lot of our 25 defenses were, you know, technical defenses, or that we have

1 the -- we had some straight legal defenses which we think are 2 very good, and then a lot of them rested on Mirant and the 3 equities. And that we felt strongly about the legal defenses.
4 The technicals are more difficult because I think a court of 5 equity could look through them. And the Mirant was really a
6 question of the -- of the equities and how they tilt.

7 And so you have to think your way through those based upon
8 the prior experience of this Court and Acis's prior 9 litigation, and there's, frankly, prior rulings talking about 10 certain of the valuations and the transfers. And the risks on 11 those were significant.

12 If we could win on Mirant and argue that there is no real 13 estate, I think that would be -- would have been an 14 interesting argument, and in a different circuit we may have 15 had a stronger argument. I think that Mirant in particular,
16 which, although I guess not for me to say, but I don't think 17 it's the right law, but it's the law. And so we have to -- we 18 have to adhere to the legal framework that we have, as well as 19 the factual underpinnings of the case, including the history
20 in Acis.

21 And so we think that, in the context of this case,
22 settling this multi-year litigation that involves a myriad of 23 different parties, a myriad of different courts, is a fair and 24 equitable settlement for this estate to try to move it
25 forward.

1 Q And you believe that the equities in this case tilt
2 heavily in favor of Terry and heavily against Highland,
3 correct?

4 A I wouldn't -- I wouldn't -- I wouldn't want to say that
5 directly. I don't think that that's necessarily the case. I
6 think that they tilt -- they tilt in Mr. -- in Acis's favor
7 and Mr. Terry's favor on a lot of the key issues. And I think
8 one could argue that they're heavily -- they heavily tilt on 9 -- you know, I think that there's a lot of -- there are 10 certainly equities in Highland's favor in terms of the 11 Highland team and what they do and how they perform, and the 12 creditors in the Highland estate and their claims against 13 Highland, but there are certainly -- certain of the equities
14 tilt very favorably towards Mr. Terry and Acis.

15 Q And in applying those standards that the Fifth Circuit
16 sets for approving a 9019 motion, do you understand that the 17 Fifth Circuit has instructed courts to consider certain 18 factors such as the probability of success on the litigation?
19 Is that correct?

20 A Yes.

21 Q And did you consider that factor in reaching a settlement
22 with Acis?

23 A We did, yes.

24 Q And we've talked about how Highland maintained the 25 position as of June 23rd, 2020 that the Acis claims should be

1 disallowed in its entirety, correct?

2 A That's correct.

3 Q All right. And the next factor that the Court is supposed
4 to consider is the expected duration and expense of 5 litigation. Did you consider that factor?

6 A We did.

7 Q And we talked about how it was Highland's position on June
8 23rd, 2020 that all of Acis's claims were amenable to summary
9 disposition, which is, as you agree, substantially less
10 expensive and time-consuming than a full trial, correct?

11 A Yes. If you are successful, it's much more efficient,
12 yes.

13 Q And did the board conduct a specific analysis as to the 14 time and expense that the litigation -- of the litigation
15 anticipated to resolve the Acis claim would require?

16 A I'm not sure what you mean by a specific analysis. It was 17 certainly part of our analysis that if we went forward with 18 summary judgment, we felt strongly that we had a real
19 opportunity to prevail on a certain number of the claims.
20 However, if we lost, we were going to be at a significant
21 disadvantage because that would have meant most likely then 22 showing that there were factual issues and most likely would 23 have hinted that there were some equitable issues. And that 24 would have put us in a very difficult position both in 25 litigating those claims and pushing the case forward.

1 Q Did the board come up with a specific number or a range of
2 numbers that it considered?

3 A I don't recall a specific number. I think at the 4 deposition you asked me what I thought it would cost to try
5 these claims. And from probably just one side I could come up
6 with that number. But as I testified before, there's multiple 7 sides here. And the case also continues to burn, from a legal 8 and professional fee perspective, additional overhead as that 9 trial would go on.

10 Q Okay. And even if the Acis settlement is approved, and we 11 know now that the Redeemer settlement is approved, the UBS
12 claim remains outstanding, which will require lengthy 13 litigation, correct?

14 A I disagree with that. The UBS claim does remain
15 outstanding, but we have summary judgment papers in front of 16 the Court, and they're very narrow issues. We think that the 17 vast majority of UBS's claims, which are against foreign 18 subsidiaries with no recourse to the Debtor whatsoever, are 19 going to be disposed of. So we're going to be down to what we 20 think are equally weak or unfortunately factual claims on 21 fraudulent conveyances. And -- but they're minimal dollar
22 amounts.

23 Q And did the board conduct an analysis of how long that 24 litigation is going to take?

25 A A specific analysis to how long a fraudulent conveyance

1 litigation would take? We haven't done a specific one, but
2 we've thought about it. This one's pretty straightforward
3 because it's not going to be real complicated in order to 4 value the assets because the assets that were returned by HFP
5 -- there's a much more difficult process for UBS because they 6 don't have a claim against HFP, which is the transferor. They
7 have a -- they have to get an alter ego first. So it is -- it
8 is -- there's a number of steps. But the defenses and the 9 valuation is very easy because these are assets that were,
10 just prior to the -- in the same year as the fraudulent
11 conveyance, I think, or maybe 14 months after, had been 12 purchased by Multi Strat, which was a firm that had third-
13 party investors as well.

14 Q Okay. And I just want to ask a handful more questions,
15 because I think I'm running out of time. But one of the other 16 factors that the Fifth Circuit looks at is whether the 17 settlement was reached by an arm's-length transaction. And I
18 would ask what you believe arm's-length bargaining means.

19 A What I think arm's-length bargaining means?

20 Q Yes.

21 A I think it's two parties that are on opposite sides, that 22 do not have undue influence on each other, that do not have -- 23 there's no collusion. There's no side deals. That they're 24 negotiating fairly and they're negotiating in their own
25 interests. That is the typical definition of arm's length.

1 Q And I believe that Highland has maintained a mediation
2 privilege as to the specific negotiations that were undertaken
3 in this case, but it's your position that this settlement was 4 conducted pursuant to an arm's-length bargaining?

5 A Absolutely. With or without the mediation. We have no --
6 no interests in -- nor does anyone else -- with Acis or with 7 Mr. Terry or his counsel. These were hard-fought. They were 8 multifaceted. They involved a lot of analysis. They did
9 involve the mediators and their -- their leaning on one side
10 or the other. We don't what they said specifically to Acis.
11 I only know what they said to our side. But it was the 12 product of a mediation.

13 But even without the mediation, this was -- this would 14 have been arm's length because it's folks without undue 15 influence on each other and no interests in each other's 16 sides.

17 Q Okay. If this settlement is approved, will it end all the 18 litigation regarding Acis's claims?

19 A Unfortunately, I don't think so. And we had a little bit
20 of a preview of that earlier. And frankly, unfortunately for 21 our cases, is limited by what we can do in our own case. But 22 it will end all litigation with respect to Acis and Mr. Terry
23 and Highland and the entities owned by Highland more than 51
24 percent, or more than 50 -- 50 or more percent, I think it is.
25 Anyone that we directly manage. And all of the employees at

1 Highland. So, in retrospect, it does solve all the 2 litigations related to Highland vis-à-vis Acis, Highland
3 employees, Mr. Terry and Mrs. Terry.

4 Q All right. But you'd agree with me that the substance of 5 many of these claims have been asserted against other parties
6 and they're pending in other places, including an adversary
7 proceeding in the Acis bankruptcy case?

8 A There are some. And to be fair, you know, we considered
9 whether we should try to involve third parties. There's 10 lawsuits against law firms that Acis and Mr. Terry have 11 brought. I don't know who brought each one. There's against 12 individual lawyers. We just -- we can only solve the problems
13 that we have control over and we can solve. I would love to 14 have been more expansive, but we didn't have, you know, the 15 facility or the legal right to do those, and we didn't want to 16 try to bring in more parties than we could or we would never 17 get this done.

18 Q Okay. Is it your position that we need the -- that any 19 two of the three large unsecured creditors who are members of 20 the Creditors' Committee, which you probably know them,
21 referring to Acis, UBS, and Redeemer, that you need the 22 support of two of those three to support the plan?

23 A I would say to do -- to do any kind of grand bargain, we 24 would need at least two of those three. And to have the 25 Committee not object, because it's a four-person Committee, we

1 would need two of four.

2 But I do think that, you know, with respect to the plan
3 that we have, we're going to need probably two of those 4 creditors, at least two of those creditors to support it. And 5 those negotiations are equally hard-fought, and the positions
6 that we're taking, you know, we're -- we feel very confident
7 in and we intend to pursue them.

8 THE COURT: All right.

9 BY MR. WILSON:

10 Q And so was that one of the motives --

11 THE COURT: Last question.

12 BY MR. WILSON:

13 Q -- for settling the Acis claim?

14 THE COURT: Last question, Mr. Wilson. It's been 15
15 minutes.

16 MR. WILSON: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Last question.

18 BY MR. WILSON:

19 Q Yes. So my question was: Was that part of your motive
20 for settling with Acis?

21 A Certainly, settling with Acis, settling with everybody,
22 you know, to try to resolve the case, if they're fair
23 settlements and in the best interest of the estate, we would 24 do it. We obviously are not settling with everybody. There
25 are claims that we think are (inaudible) and don't merit real

1 dollars, and we've been unable to settle those claims because 2 of that.

3 But yes, settling -- settling with Acis, settling with,
4 you know, any of the creditors, we think is critical to try
5 and move this case forward. You know, we would love to have 6 everybody settle. As I said, there are some claims we think
7 are worth zero and we would love to settle them at a dollar.
8 That may require some judicial intervention.

9 Q All right. Thank you, Mr. Seery.

10 MR. WILSON: That was my last question.

11 THE COURT: All right. Let's talk about whether 12 we're going to break or not.

13 Mr. Morris, is there any way you can predict how long your 14 redirect might take, not knowing what Mr. Kathman is going to 15 ask?

16 MR. MORRIS: At the moment, I have none, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Then I'm going to ask -- Mr.
18 Seery, I'm going to put your opinion above all others because 19 you have been testifying --

20 THE WITNESS: Sure.

21 THE COURT: -- a long time. If I cut -- if I limit
22 Mr. Daugherty's cross to 20 minutes, would you rather do that 23 and be done tonight or do you need to break? It's late,
24 obviously.

25 THE WITNESS: Your Honor, I'm open. I do most of my

1 work for the estate, and so it's really your call and your
2 staff's call. If you want to do it tomorrow, I'm certainly 3 ready to do that. If you want to do it tonight, we'll just 4 keep going. Either way.

5 THE COURT: All right.

6 THE WITNESS: I'm completely open. And I didn't mean
7 to throw it back at you like that, but, you know, you have a
8 staff and I -- I just have a small abode here.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Kathman, you've got 20 minutes
10 for your cross. And, you know, I'm sorry. We've just been 11 going a long time today and we just had a very extensive cross
12 by Mr. Wilson, so I'm hoping you can give some non-duplicative
13 cross for us. All right.

14 CROSS-EXAMINATION

15 BY MR. KATHMAN:

16 Q Mr. Seery, like Mr. Wilson, we met on Saturday at your 17 deposition, correct?

18 A That's correct.

19 MR. KATHMAN: And for the record, Jason Kathman for 20 Patrick Daugherty.

21 BY MR. KATHMAN:

22 Q Mr. Seery, Acis makes its money from managing CLOs,
23 correct?

24 A That's my understanding, yes.

25 Q Okay. And Acis was essentially Highland's CLO business;

1 isn't that right?

2 A I think that's fair, yes.

3 Q Okay. In fact, I think your words were Acis was just a
4 shell for Highland; isn't that right?

5 A I don't know if I said -- I think Acis as a corp was a
6 shell. I don't -- so I want to make sure we're not saying
7 shill. But having a shell corporation, there's nothing wrong
8 with it, that's where the Acis -- that's where the Highland
9 business was moved to, into the Acis corporate loan, and Acis
10 then took off from there. But it's the Highland -- it was the 11 Highland business, my understanding.

12 Q Highland's CLO business was moved to Acis and Acis ran 13 Highland's CLO business, correct?

14 A That's correct.

15 Q Okay. In fact, I think your testimony on Saturday was 16 Acis was Highland, right?

17 A Well, they're two -- they're two separate corporations.
18 There's nothing -- there's nothing wrong with being two 19 separate corporations. But Acis was Highland in that Highland 20 provided the employees. I don't believe at the time -- there
21 were partners in Acis, but I don't think there were employees
22 in Acis. I think they were all from -- from the Highland
23 business. And the payroll, everybody who worked there I
24 believe was on the Highland payroll.

25 Q Acis is the manager of certain CLOs, right?

1 A That's correct.

2 Q Okay. And as the manager of those CLOs, it owes certain
3 fiduciary duties to its client, the CLOs, correct?

4 A Yes. I think that's a fair assessment.

5 Q Okay. Under the Advisors Act, right?

6 A Yeah. That's correct.

7 Q And not just the CLOs, but also the investors in those 8 CLOs, correct?

9 A Well, I think it's actually more (garbled). I think it's 10 actually more the investors. The CLO is just a thing, so it's 11 sort of hard to owe a fiduciary duty to just a thing which is 12 just an investment vehicle.

13 Q Understood. So you would agree with me, then, Acis, as 14 the manager of the CLOs, owed fiduciary duties to the 15 investors in those CLOs.

16 A That's my understanding, yes.

17 Q Okay. And in exercising those duties, the manager, under 18 the Advisors Act, has a duty to subordinate its interest to 19 the interests of those investors in the CLOs, correct?

20 A I think, I think generally when you think about the 21 fiduciary duty, and I think that we -- I want to make sure I'm 22 very specific about this -- is that the manager has a duty --
23 fiduciary duties -- there's a whole bunch of legal analysis of 24 what they are -- but they are significant, serious (inaudible)
25 that the manager owes to the investors. And to the extent

1 that the manager's interests would somehow be -- somehow
2 interfere with the investors in the CLO, he's supposed to --
3 he or she is supposed to subordinate those to the benefit of 4 the investors.

5 Q Okay. So I think your answer, I think the answer to my 6 question was yes, the manager has to subordinate its interests
7 to the interests of the investors in the CLO, correct?

8 A Yeah. But your problem -- words was pretty loaded.
9 That's why I had to -- no self-interest. Not fees. There's a 10 whole bunch of different analysis. So I think it's fair to 11 say yes. I don't want to quibble with you about your 12 presentation. But we had a long discussion about this on 13 Saturday.

14 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may, I don't want to 15 interrupt Counsel's flow, but I'm not sure what the purpose of 16 this is, but I just want to make it clear that Mr. Seery is 17 not being offered as an expert on fiduciary duties, and to the 18 extent any of these questions are designed to elicit some type
19 of binding result on the Debtor, I would object.

20 THE COURT: What about that, Mr. Kathman?

21 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, may I respond?

22 THE COURT: Please.

23 MR. KATHMAN: I would like to respond to that, Your 24 Honor. There was a hearing held on March 4th in this hearing
25 where the Debtor put Mr. Seery on the stand and he testified

1 pretty extensively about what his duties are under the 2 Advisors Act. They were trying to pay people. Ms. Hayward
3 had him under direct examination and Mr. Seery testified there
4 about what the duties are under the Advisors Act.

5 So to the extent that Mr. Seery has already been asked
6 questions in this case about what an advisor's duties are 7 under the Advisors Act, I think that that has opened the door
8 and he can answer questions on what his understanding and 9 belief is under the Advisors Act.

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

11 MS. MASCHERIN: Your Honor, I'm going to also join in 12 with a relevance objection, and I fail to see how testimony at 13 a March hearing that was not a 9019 motion, what possible
14 relevance that has here.

15 THE COURT: Okay. How about the relevance objection,
16 Mr. Kathman? I'm a little concerned.

17 MR. KATHMAN: Sure, I'll answer the relevance
18 objection, Your Honor. The main thrust of one of our 19 objections is that the Acis releases are too -- are 20 essentially premature at this point. And the testimony I
21 think you're going to hear from Mr. Seery is that he didn't
22 consider at all whether Acis had violated its own Advisors Act
23 obligation to any of its investors. He's going to testify he 24 doesn't know who the investors are in the Acis CLOs and 25 whether Acis may have liability for violation of the Advisors

1 Act. That just purely wasn't something that he considered in 2 determining whether to grant these releases that are -- or 3 agree to these releases that were included in the settlement
4 agreement.

5 And so what I want to know, Your Honor, is, is there
6 potential liability that's there? And I'm getting at the 7 question, I'm asking Mr. Seery, did he consider those things?
8 His answer is going to be no. I took his deposition on 9 Saturday. And that's relevant, Your Honor, because as Mr.
10 Clemente -- and I'm almost done, Your Honor. As Mr. Clemente
11 said a couple of months ago, these things all looked at 12 individually can a lot of time be justified, but when you put 13 it in context and you look at the broader scope of things, you
14 have to examine all of these settlements and all of these 15 motions in the broader context.

16 And our argument, Your Honor, is that there's a whole lot
17 of litigation pending right now. We have the Committee that 18 has a deadline to potentially bring causes of action against 19 Highland CLO Funding. There's a HarbourVest objection on file
20 right now that involves stuff going on with Highland CLO
21 Funding. And all of those facts relate to potential
22 obligations that Acis has to Highland CLO Funding. You heard 23 Ms. Patel talk about that relation earlier when she was 24 speaking.

25 And so, Your Honor, part of our argument is that until we

1 know what the result of all of that litigation is, that these
2 releases are just a little premature. And Mr. Seery's
3 testimony is going to be he didn't consider any of that in 4 determining whether to approve the settlement.

5 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may --

6 THE COURT: You say these releases, plural. I mean,
7 we've already heard that HCLOF and Holdco and HarbourVest are 8 carved out.

9 MR. KATHMAN: I understand.

10 THE COURT: So it's all about the Highland release,
11 right? Or no? I mean, I don't know who you're talking about.

12 MR. KATHMAN: The answer to that question, Your 13 Honor, is the Committee, again, has specifically said in this 14 Court that they investigated the quote/unquote Byzantine 15 empire. They're undertaking an investigation right now of 16 whether to bring alter ego causes of action and fraudulent
17 transfer causes of action.

18 So the concern that I have and the concern my client has 19 is if at some point Highland CLO Funding and all of these 20 entities that are in the Highland Byzantine get collapsed back
21 into Highland, Highland has no ability to go back and point
22 the finger at Acis because it's given that release away, it's 23 given that release away in the settlement agreement.

24 THE COURT: I'm not understanding. Okay. Let's
25 start with this fundamental. Acis went through its own

1 bankruptcy. So I guess you're talking about post-confirmation
2 Acis.

3 MR. KATHMAN: Correct.

4 THE COURT: January 2018 --

5 MR. KATHMAN: Correct.

6 THE COURT: -- is the only Acis that claims can be 7 asserted against, okay?

8 MR. KATHMAN: Correct. Yes.

9 THE COURT: Post-January --

10 MS. PATEL: 2019, Your Honor, to be clear.

11 THE COURT: Oh, 2019? Okay.

12 MS. PATEL: Yes, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: Time flies.

14 MS. PATEL: Our plan went effective actually February
15 of 2019.

16 THE COURT: Time flies. So, can we agree that nobody 17 has any ability -- well, I say nobody. I mean, there are -- 18 there's the proof of claim of Highland. There's the 19 administrative expense claim in Acis's case that are being --
20 that's been compromised. But if anyone is going to say Acis
21 is part of an alter ego type theory, it's too late, right?
22 It's too late because --

23 A VOICE: Not the --

24 MR. MORRIS: Exactly.

25 THE COURT: That's not your argument? Then --

1 MR. KATHMAN: No, Your Honor.

2 THE COURT: -- I'm confused what, what the argument
3 is.

4 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, my argument is that
5 Highland CLO Funding or CLO Holdco or any of the entities that 6 the Committee is targeting, okay, --

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MR. KATHMAN: -- there are -- there are entities.
9 Back in July, remember Mr. Clemente came before this Court and 10 you put a 90-day deadline --

11 THE COURT: Right. Right.

12 MR. KATHMAN: -- on him to investigate those claims
13 and causes of action.

14 THE COURT: Uh-huh. Uh-huh.

15 MR. KATHMAN: Okay? That was just recently extended,
16 I think, last week. If any of those entitles, CLO Holdco, 17 Highland CLO Funding, or any other of those entities that the 18 Committee might target for alter ego, not Acis, --

19 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

20 MR. KATHMAN: -- if any of those entities are 21 ultimately determined to be the alter ego and are collapsed
22 back into Highland, and those entities, like Highland CLO
23 Funding, which the Debtor is carving out of this release, --

24 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

25 MR. KATHMAN: -- or CLO Holdco, which it's carving

1 out of the release, --

2 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

3 MR. KATHMAN: -- if those entities end up getting 4 clawed back, or even fraudulent transfers for the CLOs that 5 were transferred to those entities get brought back into 6 Highland, --

7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

8 MR. KATHMAN: -- Highland can't sue for anything that 9 Acis did post-confirmation because it's giving those releases
10 away in the settlement. I see I lost you.

11 THE COURT: Well, I -- I mean yes, that's the point
12 of the settlement.

13 A VOICE: Yeah.

14 THE COURT: But I'm not sure -- I'm not sure where 15 the questioning about fiduciary duties, where it ties into 16 this.

17 MR. KATHMAN: It's really, Your Honor -- and I can 18 probably skip a lot of this by asking Mr. Seery a penultimate
19 question: Did he consider any of this in determining whether 20 to approve the settlement or not? That will shortcut it.
21 That will shortcut it because his answer is going to be no,
22 that wasn't considered as a part of this settlement.

23 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

24 MS. PATEL: I still don't --

25 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I would just -- I would just

1 point out that his reliance on the UCC, which hasn't even 2 filed an objection to this motion, is misplaced for that very
3 reason. I don't see how he gets to piggyback on something Mr.
4 Clemente said a couple months ago in a different context in a
5 motion today in which the UCC doesn't take a position. It's -
6 - this is just so far afield, Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Kathman, I'm going to 8 sustain what is essentially a relevance objection. I'm not 9 connecting the dots on -- since we established at the 10 beginning of this hearing that there would be no release of 11 HCLO Funding or CLO Holdco or HarbourVest, no mutual releases, 12 I feel like the scenario you have defined as being your 13 concern, what if the Committee decides to bring causes of 14 action against them or seek alter ego remedies, I don't know
15 how that's impacted by this proposed settlement. I just don't 16 get it.

17 MR. KATHMAN: Yeah. Can I answer that, Your Honor,

18 THE COURT: Please.

19 MR. KATHMAN: -- and address that concern?

20 THE COURT: Please.

21 MR. KATHMAN: Okay. This really isn't the crux of 22 what our objection is, Your Honor. Is that if you -- and I'm 23 not asking the Court to, I'm just -- to agree with me. What 24 I'm proposing is that, in the event Highland CLO Funding has 25 some cause of action against Acis for breach of the Advisors

1 Act, okay, under the settlement as it is sitting right now
2 carved out, no problems. Correct? But if --

3 THE COURT: So, for post-January 2019, yeah.

4 MR. KATHMAN: Right. All I'm saying -- and I'm 5 talking about --

6 THE COURT: The others are barred by the confirmation
7 order, okay?

8 MR. KATHMAN: I'm talking about post -- post-
9 confirmation Acis causes of action, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: Uh-huh. Uh-huh.

11 MR. KATHMAN: If Highland CLO Funding were to have 12 causes of action for that, as currently proposed, yes, it's 13 carved out in the settlement agreement. But in the event
14 Highland CLO Funding is collapsed into the Debtor, okay, those 15 are causes of action that the Debtor would then have. Because 16 if Highland CLO Funding is collapsed into the Debtor, the 17 Debtor then possesses those causes of action against Acis for 18 violations of the Investors Act. But the Debtor would not be 19 able to bring those causes of action for violations of the 20 Investors Act because of these releases in the settlement
21 agreement. My point is it's premature.

22 THE COURT: I'm not sure I agree with you legally. I
23 mean, can you give me some authority for that?

24 MR. KATHMAN: I don't, Your Honor. To be honest with 25 you, no, off the top of your head, I do not have authority

1 that if it's collapsed back in there the -- if Highland --
2 well, I --

3 THE COURT: I disagree with the premise so I'm going
4 to find the line of questioning irrelevant, okay? So please 5 move on.

6 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

7 MR. KATHMAN: Can I ask my penultimate question?

8 THE COURT: Go ahead.

9 BY MR. KATHMAN:

10 Q The penultimate question being: Mr. Seery, in determining 11 whether to approve this settlement, did you consider whether 12 Acis might have violated its Investors -- its Advisors Act
13 duties to the investors in the Acis CLO?

14 MR. MORRIS: Objection.

15 MS. MATSUMURA: Objection, relevance.

16 THE COURT: Sustained.

17 MS. MATSUMURA: Sorry. This is Rebecca Matsumura
18 from Highland CLO Funding. I just want to state on the record
19 that we also object to the premise of this line of questioning
20 and don't understand why he would be raising these on behalf
21 of our client, and we would object to whatever alter ego
22 argument he seems to be suggesting.

23 THE COURT: All right.

24 MS. MATSUMURA: Thank you.

25 THE COURT: All right.

1 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, I don't have any further
2 questions.

3 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Any redirect, Mr.
4 Morris?

5 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: All right. Well, Mr. Seery, thank you.
7 That concludes your testimony, unless someone recalls you for 8 rebuttal tomorrow.

9 All right. So we're going to recess, and we'll start back
10 at 9:30 in the morning.

11 Do we want to talk a little bit about -- well, Mr. Morris,
12 are you resting? I shouldn't have assumed you're resting. I
13 think this was your only witness, correct?

14 MR. MORRIS: He was. We -- exhibits -- rebuttal.
15 And so we -- we went through the --

16 THE COURT: We did.

17 MR. MORRIS: -- Exhibits 1 through 4.

18 THE COURT: We did.

19 MR. MORRIS: So the Debtor does rest, Your Honor.
20 And I think it'll be up to Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Dondero as to 21 whether Mr. Daugherty is going to testify. He was on a 22 witness list. And whether Professor Rappaport is going to 23 testify. I think those are the only two potential witnesses,
24 if they're still planning on doing it.

25 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me double-check

1 with Ms. Patel. I can't remember if you filed a witness and 2 exhibit list. Did you have any separate evidence on this?
3 You did file a witness and exhibit -- but it didn't say, it
4 didn't designate a witness. It just said --

5 MS. PATEL: It did not, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay. So you're not going to put on any
7 evidence?

8 MS. PATEL: We are not putting on any additional 9 evidence, Your Honor. Our witness and exhibit list was 10 essentially a "Me, too" along with the Debtor.

11 THE COURT: Okay. So the Debtor has rested.

12 And Mr. Kathman, can I presume you're putting on Mr.
13 Daugherty if we reconvene tomorrow morning?

14 MR. KATHMAN: Well, that would have been a good
15 presumption before this argument here, Your Honor. I'm going 16 to talk to my client about that, because if Your Honor's not 17 going to hear any testimony about potential causes of action
18 that may exist and potential liabilities out there, that may 19 alleviate the need for Mr. Daugherty's testimony. So I'm 20 going to talk to him. And what I'd like to do is reserve my 21 right to call him tomorrow morning, but I can't tell you
22 definitively one way or the other as I sit here.

23 THE COURT: All right. And then Mr. Wilson, can you
24 tell us about witnesses you plan to call? Was there anyone
25 besides Professor Rappaport?

1 MR. WILSON: No, Your Honor. We had two witnesses on
2 our list, one of which was Mr. Seery, and I've covered
3 everything we need to cover with him, so I wasn't going to 4 recall him in our case in chief.

5 We do have potential scheduling issues with Professor
6 Rappaport. She is a practicing professor, and her teaching
7 schedule does not allow her to appear tomorrow morning. She 8 has somewhat of a limited schedule. She told us that Thursday
9 morning or Tuesday --

10 THE COURT: I'm sorry, she told you what?

11 MR. WILSON: That she was available Thursday morning
12 or Tuesday. Or next Tuesday.

13 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm sorry. We gave 14 this hearing date quite a while back. So you're saying even 15 if I went tonight until 8:00 o'clock she wasn't available
16 tonight; is that correct?

17 MR. WILSON: Well, I do believe she has another hour
18 available today.

19 THE COURT: Well, you know, it is 6:37 Central time,
20 and we've been going a very long time today. Remember, I've 21 had two other hearings besides these.

22 Let me ask this: Is there any objection to Professor 23 Rappaport? I'm not sure what the nature of her testimony is 24 going to be. And were there any objections, or no?

25 MR. MORRIS: You know, Your Honor, I actually was

1 planning on making another motion. Can we just take two
2 minutes and let me confer with my colleagues? If -- what I'm
3 considering, if it would be okay with counsel for Mr. Dondero,
4 is to just let the report in for what it is, without 5 testimony. I don't know if that's something that they would 6 consider. And then subject to, you know, consulting with my 7 client, that would be something that I might recommend in 8 order to move this along.

9 It sets forth her opinions. I'm not sure -- you know, and 10 if I don't object to it, I'm not sure why we need to hear from 11 the witness.

12 THE COURT: All right. What about that, Mr. Wilson?

13 MR. WILSON: If you'll allow me a real quick consult 14 with my co-counsel, I'll give you an answer.

15 THE COURT: Okay.

16 MR. MORRIS: Can we just take three minutes, Your 17 Honor?

18 THE COURT: Yes.

19 MR. MORRIS: Not a long break.

20 THE COURT: But yes, please, three minutes. There 21 may be people wanting to watch the World Series, but others of 22 us are just tired. Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: Thanks so much.

24 THE COURT: Okay. Three minutes.

25 (A recess ensued from 6:40 p.m. to 6:43 p.m.)

1 MS. PATEL: Your Honor, during the break if we could
2 also -- if Mr. Kathman wouldn't mind asking his client, I
3 believe Mr. Daugherty's on the hearing as well, if they could
4 make a decision. Assuming a couple dominoes fall into place,
5 if Mr. Daugherty's not going to testify, and assuming 6 Professor Rappaport's report is going to come in, I'm hoping
7 you close this tonight or talk about when we're going to do
8 closing those arguments if they're going to be lengthy.

9 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, Ms. Patel has always --
10 maybe sometimes, maybe not always, but sometimes a step ahead
11 of me. I have spoken with Mr. Daugherty and we're not going 12 to call him.

13 THE COURT: You are not going to call him? That's 14 what you said?

15 MR. KATHMAN: No.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. KATHMAN: No, we are not going to call him, Your 18 Honor.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: The Debtor is prepared to allow her
21 report to come in without testimony. And without objection.

22 THE COURT: I'm sorry, say again?

23 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the Debtor would consent, if 24 Mr. Dondero consents, the Debtor would consent to the 25 admission of Professor Rappaport's report into evidence

1 without objection, provided there's no testimony.

2 THE COURT: All right. So do we have Mr. Wilson
3 back?

4 MR. WILSON: Yes, Your Honor. Mr. Dondero will agree
5 to the admission of Professor Rappaport's report in lieu of 6 her testimony.

7 I would ask a couple things. Number one, that I be 8 allowed an opportunity to admit the exhibits on my exhibit
9 list, which include the report and Professor Rappaport's CV.

10 And then the second thing I would ask is that Judge Lynn
11 had prepared a closing argument and we would like sufficient
12 time to -- for him to give that before the close of this 13 hearing.

14 THE COURT: All right. Well, as far as Dondero's
15 exhibits, they are at Docket #1194. There are --

16 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, can I make a suggestion
17 with closing arguments, I mean, potentially?

18 THE COURT: Okay. Let me take these in steps. We 19 have Exhibits A through AA, A through Z plus AA, that I think 20 you're offering. That's --

21 MR. WILSON: Well, Your Honor, briefly, we're not 22 going to try to put in the Seery depo, the Seery video, or the 23 Nancy Rappaport depo.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. WILSON: I guess we'll just do Dondero Exhibits A

1 through X.

2 THE COURT: A through X have been offered. Does
3 anyone object?

4 MR. MORRIS: Just one second, Your Honor.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 (Pause.)

7 MR. MORRIS: Only to Exhibit P as in Peter. That is 8 the expert report. And as long as it's not being offered for 9 the truth of the matter asserted, it's being offered solely 10 for the purposes of expert testimony, the Debtor has no
11 objections to any other of the proffered A through X.

12 THE COURT: All right. Any other objections?

13 All right. With that caveat -- Mr. Wilson, I assume you
14 don't have any issue with the caveat on the Rappaport report.
15 So with that, I'll --

16 MR. WILSON: No, there is none.

17 THE COURT: I'll admit these.

18 (James Dondero's Exhibits A through X are received into 19 evidence.)

20 THE COURT: If I go to the docket, the expert report
21 of Professor Rappaport is actually there on the docket at 22 1194.

23 MR. WILSON: (inaudible). Yes, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay. So I need to read that before we 25 come back tomorrow, and I guess see if there's anything else

1 on here I haven't looked at.

2 So what we will do is we'll come back tomorrow morning for 3 closing arguments. And Mr. -- well, let me ask. I was going
4 to say 9:30, but would 10:00 o'clock, by chance, be a little
5 bit better? That'll help me look at this Professor Rappaport
6 report. I don't know how long it is, but --

7 MR. MORRIS: I will be available whatever time is 8 convenient for the Court. Can you give us some guidance as to 9 how long you will tolerate closing statements?

10 THE COURT: Tolerate. Your word. I think, you know,
11 20 minutes each ought to be plenty.

12 MR. MORRIS: That's fair.

13 THE COURT: So we'll start at 10:00 o'clock Central
14 and we'll hear those closing arguments. And when we're done
15 tomorrow or with this issue, I'd love to get a preview as far
16 as the disclosure statement hearing Thursday at 9:30. I think
17 I told you four. Five objections were filed in the last, you
18 know, few hours we've been in court. Every member of the 19 Creditors' Committee plus the Creditors' Committee filed an 20 objection. And I have not looked at them to know how lengthy 21 they are. But I'd love to get a preview on whether you're 22 going to be working and trying to resolve these and maybe
23 we'll start and adjourn, or if we're going to have a knock-
24 down drag-out. Okay?

25 MR. KATHMAN: Your Honor, I would like to offer two

1 exhibits. I don't think they're controversial. It's just the
2 Debtor's plan and disclosure statement. They were our PHD 23
3 and 24. They're filed at Docket #1079 and 1080 in the case.
4 It's the Debtor's plan and disclosure statement. I can't 5 imagine there's any objection to those.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. MORRIS: No objection.

8 THE COURT: All right. Those will be admitted.

9 (Patrick Daugherty's Exhibit 23 and 24 are received into 10 evidence.)

11 THE COURT: All right. So we'll see you at 10:00
12 o'clock in the morning.

13 MS. PATEL: Your Honor?

14 MR. ANNABLE: Your Honor?

15 MS. PATEL: If I may.

16 THE COURT: Briefly.

17 MS. PATEL: My apologies. I know I kind of started
18 off late in the hearing, but as I explained earlier today, I
19 have an in-movable conflict tomorrow morning. Mr. Shaw will 20 handle closing arguments for us. And may I be excused from 21 appearing tomorrow?

22 THE COURT: You are excused. Thank you. All right.
23 Good night.

24 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

25 MR. ANNABLE: Your Honor? Your Honor?

1 THE CLERK: All rise.

2 MR. ANNABLE: This is Zach Annable. Your Honor?

3 Your Honor?

4 THE COURT: This better be good, Mr. Annable.

5 MR. ANNABLE: I apologize. This is just a
6 housekeeping matter. For purposes of the continued hearing
7 tomorrow morning, I know it's too late for your staff to 8 probably set up the WebEx meeting information, but if you
9 could have Ms. Ellis distribute that to me tomorrow morning, I
10 will try to make sure to get it out to everybody. Just 11 letting you know we will need a new WebEx invitation for the 12 hearing tomorrow morning.

13 THE COURT: All right.

14 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. Thank you. Good catch.

15 THE CLERK: She's probably listening anyway. She 16 usually listens.

17 THE COURT: Yes. She -- hang on. Knowing Traci, she 18 is listening.

19 (Pause.)

20 THE COURT: Well, she surprised me. She didn't pick 21 up the phone. I promise you, she'll be all over it, so we'll

22 --

23 THE CLERK: I'll send an e-mail.

24 THE COURT: Yes. Mike's sending her an e-mail right
25 now, so you all will have it in plenty of time to get

1 connected. Okay. Thank you. Mr. Annable, that was worth it.
2 Okay?

3 MR. ANNABLE: Thank you, Your Honor.

4 THE CLERK: All rise.

I also moved the date to have the formal settlement docs done to October 9th.

So, incorporating all of the terms and revisions from our back-and-forth, the Rule 11 shall be as follows in bold:

- 1. Defendants shall pay Plaintiffs $425,000;
- 2. Dismissal with prejudice of all claims that were or could have been brought in the case;
- 3. The parties will mutually, fully, and comprehensively release each other with usual and customary releases (we do not intend to settle this matter if it is Defendants’ intent to use one of their thousands of entities, funds, or affiliates to sue, directly or indirectly, Mr. or Mrs. Terry);

however, the releases shall not release Highland CLO Funding Ltd.'s claims in Guernsey nor any claims of Acis Capital Management, LP or Acis Capital Management GP, LLC;

4. Defendants shall (a) take down the press release and letter from Highland's website (Ex. 4 and 5 to Plaintiffs' live pleading), and shall not otherwise publish same or similar through any other avenue, but Defendants may post the press release and letter with the revisions in the attached Exhibit 1, and (b) Defendants shall refrain from taking any affirmative steps to associate the press release or letter to Mr. Terry, e.g. through search engine optimization;
5. The parties will execute a formal settlement agreement that reflects the foregoing and other usual and customary settlement terms. If no such settlement agreement is signed by October 9, 2019 because of a dispute on its terms, the parties agree to proceed to a bench trial—and hereby expressly and knowingly waive their right to a jury--before Judge Moore starting on October 21st (with no discovery), and the Court shall determine breach of the Rule 11 Agreement, shall enter a declaratory judgment as to the terms of the settlement agreement, and shall award the prevailing party their attorneys' fees, costs and expenses (only those that accrued on or after the date of this Rule 11 Agreement).

Please respond with "agreed" and this will constitute a legally-enforceable agreement.

2. Ok
3. We are not releasing any of the Guernsey claims, nor do we expect Terry to release Acis' claims arising after the Acis BK. We are settling THIS case, and this case only. Agreed as to Guernsey and Acis BK (with the strike-out), but if Highland or its affiliates has a present intent to sue Mr. or Mrs. Terry, directly or indirectly, in any other fora, then we are not settling this case and will proceed to trial.

And this is the only reason my client came down $325K. So, if your client is not willing to take that modest and very reasonable step, and instead wants to continue attempting to besmirch my client and my firm's reputation online, then we'll go to trial on our theft and conversion claims.~~

I know you have some people out today, but since we continue to prepare for trial that starts a short three weeks from today, we need to get a Rule 11 in place by tomorrow at 5:00 pm. That's our drop-dead, i.e. our offer is withdrawn at that time and we can work to reschedule Pitt. We also need to move up our exchange of exhibits, etc., so that we have everything in advance of our pre-trial, which is two weeks from today.

I trust you understand the time-sensitivity of this.

Thanks,

Brian, this is consistent with what we discussed yesterday. As I mentioned, I have authority on the monetary competent. I need to get confirmation on the remaining items, which may not happen until Tuesday.

001807

In the meantime, per our discussion, we are pulling the Pitt Depo for this week. If we do not settle, we can schedule his depo for next week. The rescheduling of the depo will not be used as a reason for a continuance of the trial.

Matt Wirz, Wall Street Journal: Fake News, Sloppy and Malicious Reporting

November 30, 2017 Press Releases

The Wall Street Journal currently is involved in legal proceedings arising from the newspaper aiding a source, a former Highland employee, in violating a court order. The former employee since has been sentenced to jail for violating this court order. Is it appropriate for the Journal to publish a sensationalized article against Highland under such circumstances?

The following is Highland Capital Management’s response to that article, which ran online on November 26, 2017 and in print on November 27, 2017. The below follows a letter sent by Highland co-founder and president James Dondero to the editor in chief of the Wall Street Journal (WSJ), which can be found here: Highland Capital Management Letter to the Wall Street Journal, November 28, 2017

When a reporter with an agenda mischaracterizes the facts, it falls on the victim to set the record straight. This is just such a situation. Matthieu Wirz’s article about Highland was long on salacious language, but short on context and facts. Mr. Wirz’s record makes his agenda clear. Since June 2016, he has written 15 stories for which he was the sole reporter, four of which are negative stories about Highland. He has not written any negative pieces focused on any other investment managers. Despite our repeated efforts to provide Mr. Wirz with the actual facts, Mr. Wirz refuses to present an accurate picture of Highland. Interestingly he is the only WSJ author to write a negative article about Highland in the past ten years. The facts below are those that Mr. Wirz did not deem relevant in his latest printed attack on Highland’s business.

In stark contrast to Mr. Wirz’s current journalistic agenda, his earlier writings from 2004 to 2011 about our firm lauded Highland’s “legal judo” for the benefit of its investors. His tone radically changed in 2012 once he started using Patrick Daugherty, a former Highland portfolio manager, as a primary information source. Mr. Daugherty resigned and then embarked on a defamatory crusade when Highland rejected his exorbitant compensation demands in February 2012. In March 2012, Mr. Wirz published his first negative article about Highland on an unrelated dispute. The article quotes “people close to the matter,” which the facts indicate was none other than Mr. Daugherty.

Two months later, when Mr. Daugherty’s dispute with Highland went to court, Mr. Wirz’s first article on the dispute further relied on Mr. Daugherty’s skewed portrayal of Highland. In the resulting 2014 trial, the jury cleared Highland of Mr. Daugherty's allegations of mismanagement during the financial crisis, while Mr. Daugherty himself was found to be in breach of his fiduciary duties and ordered to pay Highland $3.2 million dollars. Most notably, the court put in place an injunction ordering Mr. Daugherty to cease disclosing Highland's confidential information. Despite these findings, Mr. Wirz continued to use Mr. Daugherty as a primary source in biased reporting about Highland's business, including with respect to matters wholly unrelated to Mr. Daugherty.

Astoundingly, Mr. Daugherty's misconduct was not deterred by the injunction against him. As recently as 2016, the court found Mr. Daugherty lied under oath about recent violations of the injunction. After seven different court hearings in which the judge repeatedly warned Mr. Daugherty of the consequences of his violations, the court ultimately found Mr. Daugherty in contempt of court and sentenced him to 38 days in jail.

In a separate set of violations still under investigation, Mr. Daugherty leaked confidential information to the WSJ. On Friday August 12, 2016, Highland provided the WSJ with a copy of the injunction order prohibiting Mr. Daugherty from leaking Highland's confidential information. The following Monday, Mr. Wirz again was on the phone with Mr. Daugherty discussing Highland's confidential information. The court ordered Mr. Wirz and the WSJ to provide information about these conversations to Highland, which the WSJ is appealing. Despite Mr. Daugherty having been found to have lied under oath about Highland, Mr. Wirz confirmed in writing as recently as yesterday that he continues to use Mr. Daugherty as a source in his Highland-related coverage, including the misleading November 27, 2017 WSJ article.

~~The November 27, 2017 article about Highland's employment dispute with another former employee, Josh Terry, is a continuation of his agenda-based and misleading journalism about Highland in the wake of the Mr. Daugherty dispute. Mr. Wirz once again failed to mention numerous salient facts, including that Mr. Terry's false and sensationalized allegations against Highland were simply part of Mr. Terry's extortion scheme against Highland. In late 2014, Mr. Terry tried to renegotiate his partnership agreement with Highland's principals to increase his interest in Highland affiliate Acis Capital Management, L.P. to a permanent 25 percent equity position. Though he declared that he loved working at Highland and wanted to spend the rest of his career here, he threatened to leave if his increased equity demands were not met. Highland explained that Mr. Terry's performance and track record did not warrant such a restructuring of his agreement. After Highland denied his requests, Mr. Terry commenced secretly recording conversations to extort in settlement the value he failed to achieve in negotiations.~~

~~Mr. Terry secretly recorded conversations at Highland for over 18 months. He recorded calls with investors, counterparties, attorneys, and employees without Highland's knowledge or consent. He recorded conversations with persons in various states and countries, in violation of federal and state wiretapping laws. He recorded, and later disclosed, Highland's privileged conversations with its attorneys on various transactions. During these recorded conversations, Mr. Terry repeatedly baited co-workers to elicit inflammatory or out-of-context statements so he could attempt to manufacture a whistleblower claim. After his termination on June 9, 2016, Mr. Terry selectively retained recordings with inflammatory statements, but deleted recordings that exonerated Highland or~~

~~tended to disprove Mr. Terry's narrative of the facts. Prior to filing his claims against Highland, Mr. Terry threatened to make wild allegations to the SEC unless Highland paid him over $10 million in ransom. It is telling that despite over 18 months of recordings, Mr. Terry did not make any allegations of impropriety by Highland until after he was terminated for cause.~~

~~Mr. Terry was terminated for improper sexual relations, poor performance and numerous compliance violations, among other things. Mr. Wirz's recent article states "Highland... used pretexts and false allegations of a sexual relationship with a coworker to fire [Mr. Terry]." Terry's own pleadings state "Terry did not have a sexual relationship with any of his subordinates." While Mr. Wirz would leave his readers believing Highland maliciously made up Mr. Terry's affairs as some form of retribution, Mr. Terry admitted, both at deposition and in the arbitration, that "I had an affair with Ms. [omitted] from mid 2013 to the end of 2014." The affair severely impacted the junior female employee's career and was indicative of a pattern of behavior that resulted in his ultimate termination. Once Highland proved that Mr. Terry lied in his pleadings about one of his affairs, we did not want to further disrupt the lives of its former employees nor did we need to prove anything else. While Highland continues to assert that Mr. Terry had at least three intra-office affairs, the WSJ's observation that Highland did not present enough evidence of additional affairs is not relevant in light of Mr. Terry's admission. Additionally, since Mr. Terry's departure, several additional women have come forward with allegations of sexual harassment and unwanted advances by Mr. Terry. Finally, numerous senior persons at Highland recommended that he be fired for both his sexual misconduct and numerous compliance violations. This was not a personal battle between Mr. Terry and Mr. Dondero. Highland was compelled to terminate Mr. Terry for his overall pattern of misconduct.~~

~~Highland made Mr. Wirz aware of this background. We also expressed concern to both Mr. Wirz and his editor on numerous occasions about Mr. Wirz's characterization of these inappropriate sexual relationships. Rather than seeking to understand the truth in our allegations of Mr. Terry's inappropriate sexual relationships, Mr. Wirz chose to write a story that misleads readers with the implication that Highland's very real accusations were baseless.~~

~~Mr. Wirz's article omits or twists key facts about the arbitration proceeding. Mr. Terry demanded for over $210 million in the arbitration. He was awarded less than four percent of that amount. Additionally, Mr. Terry lied under oath at the arbitration, including about his contacts with Mr. Daugherty after his departure from Highland.~~

~~Furthermore, though Mr. Terry testified that Highland relied on him as the primary driver of its CLO business, Mr. Terry failed to raise a single dollar of third party CLO equity for his Acis business, which was his key job responsibility. Mr. Terry's self-aggrandizing testimony to the contrary, Highland helped to create the CLO industry years before Mr. Terry arrived and he merely filled a senior vacancy on the structured products team. Notably, Highland has continued to grow its CLO business in his absence.~~

~~Mr. Wirz's article gratuitously raises unrelated legal disputes from Highland's past, but fails to mention those related to the subject of the article. In particular, Mr. Wirz did not report that Rogge Dunn, Mr. Terry's counsel, represented a group of clients opposed to Highland that were sanctioned, billed for costs, and admonished by the court in a prior matter. In that proceeding, Mr. Dunn's former client, a 62 year old CEO, served six months in jail for destroying evidence~~

~~and then repeatedly lying about it under oath. The defendants, including Mr. Dunn's clients, were fined over $750,000 for destruction of evidence while Mr. Dunn's firm was representing them. This was the largest sanctions award in Dallas County history. As a result, the defendants settled the lawsuit, paying to a Highland affiliate the largest commercial case settlement in Texas that year.^[1] Mr. Dunn, now seeking retribution against Highland, worked with Mr. Terry months before Mr. Terry was terminated, including consulting with Mr. Terry on how to make his secret recordings.~~

~~Highland's ongoing compensation dispute with Mr. Terry gave Mr. Wirz another opportunity to twist the facts of a Highland lawsuit. The article misleads its readers in several ways. First, Mr. Wirz wrote that Highland made "transfers" between investment vehicles, when he knows that did not occur. Rather, Mr. Wirz is aware that the transaction involved a mere six month extension of a previously existing credit facility. No Highland investors ever extended additional loans or "transferred" anything. Mr. Wirz was told this before he published, but only said that he "would take everything under consideration."~~

~~Mr. Wirz intentionally drafted the article to imply, if not state, that Highland breached a duty to its investors. Mr. Wirz suggested to Highland that he was going to draw just such a conclusion, only backing down after Highland engaged in numerous conversations with his editor. Prior to the article's publication, Highland provided Mr. Wirz with the written testimony of Mr. Terry's own expert showing Highland neither breached nor ever instructed Mr. Terry to breach any duty to Highland's investors. Mr. Wirz did not find this newsworthy. He also did not find newsworthy that Mr. Terry lost his wrongful termination claim, meaning that the arbitrators found that Highland did not ask Mr. Terry to breach any duties in relation to any transaction. While Mr. Wirz alleges that Highland engaged in improper transfers, Mr. Wirz omitted that the arbitration panel dismissed the fraudulent transfer claims against Highland. Finally, though Mr. Wirz mentions that Mr. Daugherty had alleged improper transfers in his earlier litigation with Highland, Mr. Wirz's article fails to mention that the jury found these allegations were baseless. Mr. Wirz intentionally reported incomplete facts, leading his readers to false conclusions.~~

Mr. Wirz, as part of his agenda, also mischaracterized several unrelated disputes. For example, Mr. Wirz focused on a prior arbitration regarding the Highland Credit Strategies Fund. The article focused on a small part of numerous issues raised by the wind down of this financial crisis-era hedge fund. Mr. Wirz refused to mention that Highland voluntarily bought out the remaining portfolio assets at the request and for the benefit of the investors. As part of the transaction, the lawsuit was resolved and the investors agreed to vacate and nullify the award against Highland. One investor requested WSJ retract an inaccurate, negative statement that was attributed to the investor in the Mr. Wirz's 2016 article about the dispute. The Credit Strategies Fund's final resolution not only maximized returns to investors, but also generated $10 million in value to Highland. However, these additional facts did not fit Mr. Wirz's narrative.

Mr. Wirz's Highland narrative does not have much room for either facts or context. Since Highland's founding in 1993, approximately 25 partners have come and gone from the firm. While Mr. Wirz paints Highland as constantly litigating against its former partners, Highland ~~only~~ has had ~~two such disputes in 24 years. Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Terry.~~ In Mr. Daugherty's case, a jury found him to have breached his fiduciary duty and a judge held him in contempt of court and sentenced him to jail. Mr. Daugherty also paid a $3.2 million judgment to Highland, and continues to owe additional amounts. Mr. Wirz neglected to mention any of these facts about his source. ~~The second dispute, Mr. Terry, is on going and Highland's numerous counterclaims against Mr. Terry will be substantially larger than the initial arbitration award.~~ While Highland regrets having to litigate with former employees, the firm cannot reward extortive behavior.

Mr. Wirz also refuses to cover any positive legal or other news about Highland. Though he states that Highland has fought with investors since the financial crisis, he fails to mention that Highland was vindicated in every case ultimately decided by a court. Mr. Wirz mentions Highland's financial crisis-era fights with counterparties, but fails to mention that Highland has achieved over $700 million in judgments and settlements for its investors. He also omits key industry context: despite these legal proceedings, Highland's litigation docket is less than similarly situated asset managers and is not particularly litigious.

Of the recent interaction with Mr. Wirz, Andrew Merrill, a senior partner at a financial communications firm involved in the matter whose clients manage over $10 trillion, said, "In all the media interactions we've witnessed, this was among the most biased, unfair treatments we have ever seen, especially considering Highland's willingness to engage in constructive dialogue and numerous attempts at information sharing."

Evidently, this is not an isolated incident at the Journal. Ray Dalio's account of Bridgewater's interaction with two WSJ reporters from January of this year indicates there is a pattern of this behavior. (See Mr. Dalio's account of Bridgewater's experience here: The Fake and Distorted News Epidemic and Bridgewater's Recent Experience with the Wall Street Journal).

As Mr. Dalio points out, the news media, unlike the asset management industry, exists without regulation and supervision. As such, there is no obvious recourse available to address unethical behavior. The closest proxy to regulatory standards in this instance is the Dow Jones Code of Conduct. (Read the full code of conduct here: Dow Jones Code of Conduct)

That document states:

*"Dow Jones will suffer...if our customers cannot assume that:
Our facts are accurate and fairly presented;
Our analyses represent our best independent judgments rather than our preferences, or those of our sources, advertisers, or information providers;
Our opinions represent only our own editorial philosophies; or
There are no hidden agendas in any of our journalistic undertakings.
All companies profess business integrity. But the impact of our work on the work of others, and on their lives and fortunes, places special responsibilities upon all Dow Jones employees."*

In his interactions with Highland, Mr. Wirz violated those stated principles. Highland made those transgressions known to his editors, yet the WSJ proceeded to allow an inaccurate, misleading, agenda-driven article to be published with conclusions directly informed by a biased source.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT

Mr. Gerard Baker
Editor in Chief
The Wall Street Journal

November 28, 2017

Dear Mr. Baker,

I write to make you aware of the situation around the Wall Street Journal's recent article about Highland Capital Management. The article, which ran online on November 26, 2017 and in print on November 27, 2017, included a litany of inaccurate and misleading information about Highland, despite extensive efforts by our firm to engage in constructive dialogue with both the reporter responsible and ultimately his editor to provide the relevant facts necessary to produce a fair and balanced report.

When a reporter with an agenda mischaracterizes the facts, it falls on the victim to set the record straight. This is just such a situation. Matthieu Wirz's article about Highland was long on salacious language, but short on context and facts. Mr. Wirz's record makes his agenda clear. Since June 2016, he has written 15 stories for which he was the sole reporter, four of which are negative stories about Highland. He has not written any negative pieces focused on any other investment managers. Despite our repeated efforts to provide Mr. Wirz with the actual facts, Mr. Wirz refuses to present an accurate picture of Highland. Interestingly he is the only WSJ author to write a negative article about Highland in the past ten years. The facts below are those that Mr. Wirz did not deem relevant in his latest printed attack on Highland's business.

In stark contrast to Mr. Wirz's current journalistic agenda, his earlier writings from 2004 to 2011 about our firm lauded Highland's "legal judo" for the benefit of its investors. His tone radically changed in 2012 once he started using Patrick Daugherty, a former Highland portfolio manager, as a primary information source. Mr. Daugherty resigned and then embarked on a defamatory crusade when Highland rejected his exorbitant compensation demands in February 2012. In March 2012, Mr. Wirz published his first negative article about Highland on an unrelated dispute. The article quotes "people close to the matter," which the facts indicate was none other than Mr. Daugherty.

Two months later, when Mr. Daugherty's dispute with Highland went to court, Mr. Wirz's first article on the dispute further relied on Mr. Daugherty's skewed portrayal of Highland. In the resulting 2014 trial, the jury cleared Highland of Mr. Daugherty's allegations of mismanagement during the financial crisis, while Mr. Daugherty himself was found to be in breach of his fiduciary duties and ordered to pay Highland $3.2 million dollars. Most notably, the court put in place an injunction ordering Mr. Daugherty to cease disclosing Highland's confidential information. Despite these findings, Mr. Wirz continued to use Mr. Daugherty as a primary source in biased reporting about Highland's business, including with respect to matters wholly unrelated to Mr. Daugherty.

Astoundingly, Mr. Daugherty's misconduct was not deterred by the injunction against him. As recently as 2016, the court found Mr. Daugherty lied under oath about recent violations of the injunction. After seven different court hearings in which the judge repeatedly warned Mr. Daugherty of the consequences of his violations, the court ultimately found Mr. Daugherty in contempt of court and sentenced him to 38 days in jail.

In a separate set of violations still under investigation, Mr. Daugherty leaked confidential information to the WSJ. On Friday August 12, 2016, Highland provided the WSJ with a copy of the injunction order prohibiting Mr. Daugherty from leaking Highland's confidential information. The following Monday, Mr. Wirz again was on the phone with Mr. Daugherty discussing Highland's confidential information. The court ordered Mr. Wirz and the WSJ to provide information about these conversations to Highland, which the WSJ is appealing. Despite Mr. Daugherty having been found to have lied under oath about Highland, Mr. Wirz confirmed in writing as recently as yesterday that he continues to use Mr. Daugherty as a source in his Highland-related coverage, including the misleading November 27, 2017 WSJ article.

~~The November 27, 2017 article about Highland's employment dispute with another former employee, Josh Terry, is a continuation of his agenda-based and misleading journalism about Highland in the wake of the Mr. Daugherty dispute. Mr. Wirz once again failed to mention numerous salient facts, including that Mr. Terry's false and sensationalized allegations against Highland were simply part of Mr. Terry's extortion scheme against Highland.~~

~~In late 2014, Mr. Terry tried to renegotiate his partnership agreement with Highland's principals to increase his interest in Highland affiliate Acis Capital Management, L.P. to a permanent 25 percent equity position. Though he declared that he loved working at Highland and wanted to spend the rest of his career here, he threatened to leave if his increased equity demands were not met. Highland explained that Mr. Terry's performance and track record did not warrant such a restructuring of his agreement. After Highland denied his requests, Mr. Terry commenced secretly recording conversations to extort in settlement the value he failed to achieve in negotiations. Mr. Terry secretly recorded conversations at Highland for over 18 months. He recorded calls with investors, counterparties, attorneys, and employees without Highland's knowledge or consent. He recorded conversations with persons in various states and countries, in violation of federal and state wiretapping laws. He recorded, and later disclosed, Highland's privileged conversations with its attorneys on various transactions. During these recorded conversations, Mr. Terry repeatedly baited co-workers to elicit inflammatory or out of context statements so he could attempt to manufacture a whistleblower claim. After his termination on June 9, 2016, Mr. Terry selectively retained recordings with inflammatory statements, but deleted recordings that exonerated Highland or tended to disprove Mr. Terry's narrative of the facts. Prior to filing his claims against Highland, Mr. Terry threatened to make wild allegations to the SEC unless Highland paid him over $10 million in ransom. It is telling that despite over 18 months of recordings, Mr. Terry did not make any allegations of impropriety by Highland until after he was terminated for cause.~~

~~Mr. Terry was terminated for improper sexual relations, poor performance and numerous compliance violations, among other things. Mr. Wirz's recent article states "Highland... used pretexts and false allegations of a sexual relationship with a coworker to fire [Mr. Terry]." Terry's own pleadings state "Terry did not have a sexual relationship with any of his subordinates." While Mr. Wirz would leave his readers believing Highland maliciously made up Mr. Terry's affairs as some form of retribution, Mr. Terry admitted, both at deposition and in the arbitration, that "I had an affair with Ms. [omitted] from mid-2013 to the end of 2014." The affair severely impacted the junior female employee's career and was indicative of a pattern of behavior that resulted in his ultimate termination. Once Highland proved that Mr. Terry lied in his pleadings about one of his affairs, we did not want to further disrupt the lives of its former employees nor did we need to prove anything else. While Highland continues to assert that Mr. Terry had at least three intra-office affairs, the WSJ's observation that Highland did not present enough evidence of additional affairs is not relevant in light of Mr. Terry's admission. Additionally, since Mr. Terry's departure, several additional women have come forward with allegations of sexual harassment and unwanted advances by Mr. Terry. Finally, numerous senior persons at Highland recommended that he be fired for both his sexual misconduct and numerous compliance violations. This was not a personal battle between Mr. Terry and Mr. Dondero. Highland was compelled to terminate Mr. Terry for his overall pattern of misconduct.~~

~~Highland made Mr. Wirz aware of this background. We also expressed concern to both Mr. Wirz and his editor on numerous occasions about Mr. Wirz's characterization of these inappropriate sexual relationships. Rather than seeking to understand the truth in our allegations of Mr. Terry's inappropriate sexual relationships, Mr. Wirz chose to write a story that misleads readers with the implication that Highland's very real accusations were baseless.~~

~~Mr. Wirz's article omits or twists key facts about the arbitration proceeding. Mr. Terry demanded for over $210 million in the arbitration. He was awarded less than four percent of that amount. Additionally, Mr. Terry lied under oath at the arbitration, including about his contacts with Mr. Daugherty after his departure from Highland.~~

~~Furthermore, though Mr. Terry testified that Highland relied on him as the primary driver of its CLO business, Mr. Terry failed to raise a single dollar of third party CLO equity for his Acis business, which was his key job responsibility. Mr. Terry's self aggrandizing testimony to the contrary, Highland helped to create the CLO industry years before Mr. Terry arrived and he merely filled a senior vacancy on the structured products team. Notably, Highland has continued to grow its CLO business in his absence.~~

~~Mr. Wirz's article gratuitously raises unrelated legal disputes from Highland's past, but fails to mention those related to the subject of the article. In particular, Mr. Wirz did not report that Rogge Dunn, Mr. Terry's counsel, represented a group of clients opposed to Highland that were sanctioned, billed for costs, and admonished by the court in a prior matter. In that proceeding, Mr. Dunn's former client, a 62-year-old CEO, served six months in jail for destroying evidence and then repeatedly lying about it under oath. The defendants, including Mr. Dunn's clients, were fined over $750,000 for destruction of evidence while Mr. Dunn's firm was representing them. This was the largest sanctions award in Dallas County history. As a result, the defendants settled the lawsuit, paying to a Highland affiliate the largest commercial case settlement in Texas that year.¹ Mr. Dunn, now seeking retribution against Highland, worked with Mr. Terry months before Mr. Terry was terminated, including consulting with Mr. Terry on how to make his secret recordings.~~

~~Highland's ongoing compensation dispute with Mr. Terry gave Mr. Wirz another opportunity to twist the facts of a Highland lawsuit. The article misleads its readers in several ways. First, Mr. Wirz wrote that Highland made "transfers" between investment vehicles, when he knows that did not occur. Rather, Mr. Wirz is aware that the transaction involved a mere six-month extension of a previously existing credit facility. No Highland investors ever extended additional loans or "transferred" anything. Mr. Wirz was told this before he published, but only said that he "would take everything under consideration."~~

~~Mr. Wirz intentionally drafted the article to imply, if not state, that Highland breached a duty to its investors. Mr. Wirz suggested to Highland that he was going to draw just such a conclusion, only backing down after Highland engaged in numerous conversations with his editor. Prior to the article's publication, Highland provided Mr. Wirz with the written testimony of Mr. Terry's own expert showing Highland neither breached nor ever instructed Mr. Terry to breach any duty to Highland's investors. Mr. Wirz did not find this newsworthy. He also did not find newsworthy that Mr. Terry lost his wrongful termination claim, meaning that the arbitrators found that Highland did not ask Mr. Terry to breach any duties in relation to any transaction. While Mr. Wirz alleges that Highland engaged in improper transfers, Mr. Wirz omitted that the arbitration panel dismissed the fraudulent transfer claims against Highland. Finally, though Mr. Wirz mentions that Mr. Daugherty had alleged improper transfers in his earlier litigation with Highland, Mr. Wirz's article fails to mention that the jury found these allegations were baseless. Mr. Wirz intentionally reported incomplete facts, leading his readers to false conclusions.~~

numerous issues raised by the wind down of this financial crisis-era hedge fund. Mr. Wirz refused to mention that Highland voluntarily bought out the remaining portfolio assets at the request and for the benefit of the investors. As part of the transaction, the lawsuit was resolved and the investors agreed to vacate and nullify the award against Highland. One investor requested WSJ retract an inaccurate, negative statement that was attributed to the investor in the Mr. Wirz's 2016 article about the dispute. The Credit Strategies Fund's final resolution not only maximized returns to investors, but also generated $10 million in value to Highland. However, these additional facts did not fit Mr. Wirz's narrative.

Mr. Wirz's Highland narrative does not have much room for either facts or context. Since Highland's founding in 1993, approximately 25 partners have come and gone from the firm. While Mr. Wirz paints Highland as constantly litigating against its former partners, Highland ~~only has had two such disputes in 24 years: Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Terry.~~ In Mr. Daugherty's case, a jury found him to have breached his fiduciary duty and a judge held him in contempt of court and sentenced him to jail. Mr. Daugherty also paid a $3.2 million judgment to Highland, and continues to owe additional amounts. Mr. Wirz neglected to mention any of these facts about his source. ~~The second dispute, Mr. Terry, is on going and Highland's numerous counterclaims against Mr. Terry will be substantially larger than the initial arbitration award. While Highland regrets having to litigate with former employees, the firm cannot reward extortion behavior.~~

Mr. Wirz also refuses to cover any positive legal or other news about Highland. Though he states that Highland has fought with investors since the financial crisis, he fails to mention that Highland was vindicated in every case ultimately decided by a court. Mr. Wirz mentions Highland's financial crisis-era fights with counterparties, but fails to mention that Highland has achieved over $700 million in judgments and settlements for its investors. He also omits key industry context: despite these legal proceedings, Highland's litigation docket is less than similarly situated asset managers and is not particularly litigious.

Of the recent interaction with Mr. Wirz, Andrew Merrill, a senior partner at a financial communications firm involved in the matter whose clients manage over $10 trillion, said, "In all the media interactions we've witnessed, this was among the most biased, unfair treatments we have ever seen, especially considering Highland's willingness to engage in constructive dialogue and numerous attempts at information sharing."

Equipped with that background, we urge you to address this behavior taking place in your newsroom. It certainly defies the standards of your publication and undermines the integrity of your journalistic undertakings. While we believe this comprehensive account of the treatment we have received from Mr. Wirz and the various editors responsible for his work sheds ample light on the issues at hand here, we are happy to discuss the situation with you further to help you better address these transgressions.

Further, since we were deprived of the opportunity to fairly and accurately respond to the serious allegations raised by Mr. Wirz in the recent article, we plan to make this communication public to correct the inaccurate information that was disseminated by the Wall Street Journal about Highland.

We appreciate your consideration of these matters.

Sincerely,

James Dondero
President and Co-founder
Highland Capital Management

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

14. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendants because they consented to the jurisdiction of this Court in Annex I, Section 11 of the Master Agreement, as follows:

Submission to Jurisdiction. Each party irrevocably and unconditionally (i) submits to the exclusive jurisdiction of any United States Federal or New York State court sitting in Manhattan, and any appellate court from any such court, solely for the purpose of any suit, action or proceeding brought to enforce its obligations under the Master Agreement or relating in any way to the Master Agreement or any Transaction under the Master Agreement and (ii) waives, to the fullest extent it may effectively do so, any defense of an inconvenient forum to the maintenance of such action or proceeding in any such court and any right of jurisdiction on account of its place of residence or domicile.

15. Venue is proper within this judicial county, pursuant to CPLR § 501 and Annex I, Section 11 of the Master Agreement.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. The Facility

16. On or around November 28, 2017, Managing Partner of Nearwater, James Peterson, was introduced to Frank Waterhouse, Chief Financial Officer of Highland.

17. Mr. Peterson first corresponded with Mr. Waterhouse through email on November 28, 2017, and, thereafter, coordinated a conference call for December 1, 2017 (the “Initial Call”).

18. On the Initial Call was: Mr. Waterhouse, David Klos (Controller of Highland), Hunter Covitz (Managing Director of Highland), Mr. Peterson, Jane Cho (Managing Director of Nearwater), and William Yang (Director of Nearwater).

19. During the Initial Call, Mr. Peterson provided an overview of the type of financing transactions offered by Nearwater and, based upon the information provided by Mr. Peterson during the Initial Call, Highland expressed the desire to move forward, and a further meeting was scheduled between Mr. Peterson and Mr. Covitz in New York.

20. Mr. Peterson and Mr. Covitz met in the Nearwater offices in New York on or around December 7, 2017 (the “Initial Meeting”) and the details of the potential financing were discussed in greater detail, including discussion of potential costs associated with consummating the financing under the terms of a financing facility (the “Facility”) and other fees associated with the Facility.

21. After the Initial Meeting, a bilateral non-disclosure agreement was exchanged, negotiated and entered into by both parties on December 8, 2017 (the “NDA”). On or around December 11, 2017, a detailed term sheet (the “Term Sheet”) was provided to Highland. The Term Sheet contained the following language:

Upon receipt of a detailed invoice, the Seller [Highland] will pay all reasonable out-of-pocket costs and expenses incurred by the Buyer [Nearwater] (including, without limitation, all reasonable fees, disbursements and expenses of one external counsel) in connection with the negotiation of (a) a finalized term sheet relating to the Facility Documents, (b) the Master Agreement, the Master Confirmation and each Transaction Supplement (collectively, the “Facility Documents”), and (c) any other documents prepared in connection with the Facility Documents, in each case regardless of whether any Transaction is entered into under the Facility Documents. For the avoidance of doubt, all other costs and expenses (including any expenses incurred after the Purchase Date) incurred by the Buyer will be the sole responsibility of the Buyer.

22. On or around December 12, 2017, Mr. Peterson emailed Mr. Covitz, asking Mr. Covitz if it made sense to engage counsel to begin the drafting and production of the documents necessary to establish the Highland Facility. On the same day, Mr. Covitz responded “Yes, I think it makes sense” and requested that the documents be sent to Highland’s external counsel, as well as to Tim Cournoyer, Assistant General Counsel of Highland, and Thomas Surgent, Chief Compliance Officer of Highland.

23. Over the next six weeks, NWCC and Highland negotiated the terms of the Facility. On January 26, 2018, NWCC and Highland agreed on and executed the final documents substantiating the Facility (the “Facility Documents”), which included the Master Agreement and specific language in Annex I to the Master Agreement (the “Supplemental Terms and Conditions”) regarding the reimbursement of legal expenses set forth below:

Expenses. Upon receipt of a detailed invoice, the Seller shall pay all reasonable out-of-pocket costs and expenses incurred by the Buyer (including, without limitation, all reasonable fees, disbursements and expenses of one external counsel) in connection with the negotiation of (a) a finalized term sheet relating to the Facility Documents (as defined below), (b) the Master Agreement, the Conforming Transaction Master Confirmation and each Conforming Transaction Supplement (collectively, the “Facility Documents”), and (c) any other documents prepared in connection with the Facility Documents, in each case regardless of whether any Transaction is entered into under the Facility Documents. For the avoidance of doubt, all other costs and expenses (including any expenses incurred after the Purchase Date) incurred by the Buyer shall be the sole responsibility of the Buyer.

B. The Upfront Amount

24. On or around January 17, 2018, Highland requested a borrowing under the Facility, and NWCC agreed.

25. On January 29, 2018, NWCC and Highland executed the transaction supplement (the “Conforming Transaction Supplement”) which outlined the terms on which NWCC would advance funds to Highland under the Facility. See Conforming Transaction Supplement, attached hereto as Exhibit C.

26. Under the Conforming Transaction Supplement, NWCC committed to advance funds against the delivery of securities on February 1, 2018.

27. As consideration for NWCC’s commitment under the Facility, Highland agreed to pay (a) an upfront fee (the “Upfront Amount”) equal to $87,784.64, and (b) periodic interest on the amount to be advanced. See Ex. C, and the Upfront Amount Invoice, attached hereto as Exhibit D.

C. The Default

28. On or around January 31, 2018, Mr. Covitz called Mr. Peterson and apprised him that Highland would not deliver the securities per the terms of the Conforming Transaction Supplement and that Highland would not meet its obligations under the Master Agreement due to an adverse ruling in a pending litigation.

29. This was the first time that NWCC was made aware of the pending litigation and any potential impact that it might have on Highland's ability to perform its contractual obligations.

30. On February 1, 2018, Highland defaulted on their contractual obligations under the Master Agreement by failing to deliver securities in connection therewith.

D. The External Counsel Fees & Upfront Amount

31. On February 5, 2018, NWCC sent Highland an invoice for $25,548.25 for costs incurred by NWCC's external counsel in connection with drafting of the Facility Documents. See External Counsel Fees Invoice, attached hereto as Exhibit E.

32. NWCC made repeated attempts to collect on amounts owed by Highland under the terms of the Facility, including:

- a. On or around February 5, 2018, NWCC invoiced Highland for $25,548.25 in external counsel fees (the "External Counsel Fees") incurred by NWCC in connection with the drafting and production of the Facility Documents.
- b. On or around February 13, 2018, NWCC contacted Highland via email regarding the unpaid status of the External Counsel Fees and Mr. Covitz replied, "thanks, I will look at the invoice and get back to asap."

- c. On or around March 15, 2018, NWCC again contacted Highland regarding the unpaid status of the External Counsel Fees.
- d. From March 2018 to July 2018, NWCC made multiple attempts by phone and email to contact and correspond with Highland regarding the unpaid status of the External Counsel Fees.

33. On or around June 12, 2018, Ms. Helen Kim of Highland contacted Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft LLP, the outside law firm retained by NWCC to prepare the Facility Documents, to attempt to process the External Counsel Fees. Ms. Kim then contacted NWCC, saying: “We will be remitting payment directly to Cadwalader.”

34. On July 17, 2018, NWCC sent Highland an invoice for $87,784.64—the Upfront Amount promised under the Master Agreement—and Mr. Covitz replied, “I see this Jim, sorry for the delay. Figuring it out now, will be back to you this week. I know we’ve had this CWT invoice for too long.”

35. Since January 31, 2018, Highland has repeatedly acknowledged its obligation to pay such amounts, yet, Highland has failed to remit any funds due NWCC under the Master Agreement.

36. The Master Agreement with Highland remains in place and Highland remains in default of their obligations thereunder.

37. NWCC declared an Event of Default based upon Highland’s failure to perform its obligations under the Master Agreement.

38. NWCC, as the nondefaulting party, is entitled to its attorneys’ fees in connection with this action based Highland’s default under the Master Agreement, and pursuant to Paragraph 11(g) of the same, which states:

The defaulting party shall be liable to the nondefaulting party for (i) the amount of all reasonable legal or other expenses incurred by the nondefaulting party in connection with or as a result of an Event of Default, (ii) damages in an amount equal to the cost (including all fees, expenses and commissions) of entering into replacement transactions and entering into or terminating hedge transactions in connection with or as a result of an Event of Default, and (iii) any other loss, damages, cost or expense directly arising or resulting from the occurrence of an Event of Default in respect of a Transaction.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
(Breach of Contract – The Master Agreement)

39. NWCC repeats and re-alleges each and every allegation contained in the prior paragraphs of the Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

40. The Master Agreement is a valid and enforceable contract.

41. Defendants executed and delivered the Master Agreement and, therefore, are bound by its terms.

42. NWCC fully performed its obligations under the Master Agreement.

43. Defendants breached the Master Agreement by refusing, failing, and/or neglecting to pay the sums due NWCC under the Agreement.

44. Under the Master Agreement, Defendants unconditionally agreed to:

Expenses. Upon receipt of a detailed invoice, the Seller shall pay all reasonable out-of-pocket costs and expenses incurred by the Buyer (including, without limitation, all reasonable fees, disbursements and expenses of one external counsel) in connection with the negotiation of (a) a finalized term sheet relating to the Facility Documents (as defined below), (b) the Master Agreement, the Conforming Transaction Master Confirmation and each Conforming Transaction Supplement (collectively, the “Facility Documents”), and (c) any other documents prepared in connection with the Facility Documents, in each case regardless of whether any Transaction is entered into under the Facility Documents. For the avoidance of doubt, all other costs and expenses (including any expenses incurred after the Purchase Date) incurred by the Buyer shall be the sole responsibility of the Buyer.

45. Defendants breached the Conforming Transaction Supplement to the Master Agreement by refusing, failing, and/or neglecting to pay the sums due NWCC under the Master Agreement.

46. Under the Conforming Transaction Supplement, Defendants unconditionally agreed to pay NWCC the Upfront Amount on February 1, 2018.

47. NWCC is entitled to judgment against Defendants for the foregoing amounts due and owing to NWCC pursuant to the Master Agreement, together with accrued pre- and post-judgment interest and attorneys' fees, costs and expenses.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
(Accounts Stated)

48. NWCC repeats and re-alleges each and every allegation contained in the prior paragraphs of the Complaint as if fully set forth herein.

49. On or around February 1, 2018, during the regular course of business, NWCC sent Highland an invoice for $87,784.64 for the Upfront Amount due under the Master Agreement.

50. Highland accepted and retained this invoice for a reasonable period of time without objection.

51. On or around February 5, 2018, during the regular course of business, NWCC sent Highland an invoice for $25,548.25 for costs incurred by NWCC's external counsel in connection with drafting of the Facility Documents.

52. Highland accepted and retained this invoice for a reasonable period of time without objection.

53. On or around June 12, 2018, Highland admitted that it owed the invoiced amount for the External Counsel Fees and stated that it would remit payment.

54. On or around July 17, 2018, Highland apologized to NWCC for the delay in remitting the invoiced amount for the External Counsel Fees.

55. NWCC is entitled to judgment against Defendants for the Upfront Amount and the External Counsel Fees due and owing to NWCC pursuant to the invoices provided to Defendants, which they accepted without objection, together with accrued pre- and post-judgment interest and attorneys' fees, costs and expenses.

WHEREFORE, for the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff NWCC, LLC respectfully requests that it be granted judgment against Defendants Highland CLO Management, LLC, Highland Capital Management, L.P., ACIS CLO 2014-3 Ltd., Highland CLO 2014-3R Ltd., Highland CLO 2014-3R LLC, Highland HCF ADVISOR, Ltd., as Trustee for Highland CLO Trust, Highland CLO Management Holdings, L.P., Highland CLO Management GP, LLC, and Highland HCF ADVISOR, Ltd., as follows:

- (a) On NWCC's First Cause of Action against Defendants, awarding it damages exceeding $275,000, along with interest;
- (b) On NWCC's Second Cause of Action against Defendants, awarding it damages of $113,332.89, along with interest;
- (c) NWCC's attorneys' fees, costs and expenses incurred in connection with this action pursuant to Paragraph 11(g) of the Master Agreement; and
- (d) Awarding such other and further relief as the Court deems just, proper and equitable.

THIRD AMENDED AND RESTATED
SUB-ADVISORY AGREEMENT

This Third Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement (as amended, modified, waived, supplemented or restated from time to time in accordance with the terms hereof, this “Agreement”), dated as of March 17, 2017, is entered into by and between Acis Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership, as the management company hereunder (in such capacity, the “Management Company”), and Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (“Highland”), as the sub-advisor hereunder (in such capacity, the “Sub-Advisor” and together with the Management Company, the “Parties”).

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the Parties entered into that certain Second Amended and Restated Sub-Advisory Agreement dated July 29, 2016 to be effective January 1, 2016 (the “Existing Agreement”);

WHEREAS, the Management Company from time to time has entered and will enter into portfolio management agreements, investment management agreements and/or similar agreements (each such agreement as amended, modified, waived, supplemented or restated, subject in each case to the requirements of Section 8, a “Management Agreement”) and related indentures, credit agreements, collateral administration agreements, service agreements or other agreements (each such agreement as amended, modified, waived, supplemented or restated, subject in each case to the requirements of Section 8, a “Related Agreement”), in each case as set forth on Appendix A hereto, as amended from time to time, pursuant to which the Management Company has agreed to provide portfolio and/or investment management services to certain funds and accounts and to certain collateralized loan obligation issuers and to borrowers in certain short-term or long-term warehouse or repurchase facilities in connection therewith (any such transaction, a “Transaction”, any fund, account, issuer, warehouse borrower or repurchase agreement seller in respect of any such Transaction, an “Account”, and the assets collateralizing each such Transaction and/or comprising the portfolio of such Account, a “Portfolio”);

WHEREAS, the Management Company and the Sub-Advisor desire to enter into this Agreement in order to permit the Sub-Advisor to provide certain limited services to assist the Management Company in performing certain obligations under the Management Agreements and Related Agreements;

WHEREAS, the Parties now desire to amend and restate the Existing Agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing recitals, and the receipt of good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties, intending to be legally bound, hereby agree that the Existing Agreement is hereby amended, restated and replaced in its entirety as follows.

1. Appointment; Limited Scope of Services.

(a) Highland is hereby appointed as Sub-Advisor to the Management Company for the purpose of assisting the Management Company in managing the Portfolios of each Account pursuant to the related Management Agreement and Related Agreements, in each case that have been included in the scope of this Agreement pursuant to the provisions of Section 8, subject to the terms set forth herein and subject to the supervision of the Management Company, and Highland hereby accepts such appointment.

(b) Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Sub-Advisor shall, during the term and subject to the provisions of this Agreement:

(i) make recommendations to the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager, investment manager or any similar capacity for any applicable Account as to the general composition and allocation of the Portfolio with respect to such Account among various types of securities, the nature and timing of the changes therein and the manner of implementing such changes, including recommendations as to the specific loans and other assets to be purchased, retained or sold by any such Account;

(ii) place orders with respect to, and arrange for, any investment by or on behalf of such Account (including executing and delivering all documents relating to such Account's investments on behalf of such Account or the Management Company, as applicable), upon receiving a proper instruction from the Management Company;

(iii) identify, evaluate, recommend to the Management Company, in its capacity as portfolio manager for such Account, and, if applicable, negotiate the structure and/or terms of investment opportunities within the specific investment strategy of the Management Company for such Account;

(iv) assist the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager for such Account in performing due diligence on prospective Portfolio investments by such Account;

(v) provide information to the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager for such Account regarding any investments to facilitate the monitoring and servicing of such investments and, if requested by the Management Company, provide information to assist in monitoring and servicing other investments by such Account

(vi) assist and advise the Management Company in its capacity as portfolio manager for such Account with respect to credit functions including, but not limited to, credit analysis and market research and analysis; and

(vii) assist the Management Company in performing any of its other obligations or duties as portfolio manager for such Account.

The foregoing responsibilities and obligations are collectively referred to herein as the "Services."

Notwithstanding the foregoing, all investment decisions will ultimately be the responsibility of, and will be made by and at the sole discretion of, the Management Company. Furthermore, the parties acknowledge and agree that the Sub-Advisor shall be required to provide only the services expressly described in this Section 1(b), and shall have no responsibility hereunder to provide any other services to the Management Company or any Transaction, including, but not limited to, administrative, management or similar services.

(c) The Sub-Advisor agrees during the term hereof to furnish the Services on the terms and conditions set forth herein and subject to the limitations contained herein. The Sub-Advisor agrees that, in performing the Services, it will comply with all applicable obligations of the Management Company set forth in the Management Agreements and the Related Agreements. In addition, with respect to any obligation that would be part of the Services but for the fact that the relevant Management Agreement or Related Agreement does not permit such obligation to be delegated by the Management Company to the Sub-Advisor, the Sub-Advisor, upon request in writing by the Management Company, shall work in good faith with the Management Company and shall use commercially reasonable efforts to assist the Management Company in satisfying all such obligations.

2. Compensation.

(a) As compensation for its performance of its obligations as Sub-Advisor under this Agreement in respect of any Transaction, the Sub-Advisor will be entitled to receive the Sub-Advisory Fee payable thereto. The “Sub-Advisory Fee” shall be payable in accordance with Appendix A attached hereto, as such appendix may be amended by the Parties from time to time.

(b) Each party shall bear its own expenses; provided that the Management Company shall reimburse the Sub-Advisor for any and all costs and expenses that are properly Company Expenses or that may be borne by the Management Company under the Management Company LLC Agreement.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, if on any date the Management Company determines that it would not have sufficient funds available to it to make a payment of Indebtedness, it shall have the right to defer any and all amounts payable to the Sub-Advisor pursuant to this Agreement, including any fees and expenses; provided that the Management Company shall promptly pay all such amounts on the first date thereafter that sufficient amounts exist to make payment thereof.

(d) From time to time, the Management Company may enter into sub-advisory agreements with certain management companies on similar terms to this Agreement. Promptly following the receipt of any fees pursuant to such sub-advisory agreements, the Management Company shall pay 100% of such fees to the Sub-Advisor.

3. Representations and Warranties.

(a) Each of the Management Company and the Sub-Advisor represents and warrants, as to itself only, that:

(i) it has full power and authority to execute and deliver, and to perform its obligations under, this Agreement;

(ii) this Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by it and constitutes its valid and binding, obligation, enforceable in accordance with its terms except as the enforceability hereof may be subject to (i) bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization moratorium, receivership, conservatorship or other similar laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether such enforcement is considered in a proceeding, in equity or at law);

(iii) no consent, approval, authorization or order of or declaration or filing with any government, governmental instrumentality or court or other person or entity is required for the execution of this Agreement or the performance by it of its duties hereunder, except such as have been duly made or obtained; and

(iv) neither the execution and delivery of this Agreement nor the fulfillment of the terms hereof conflicts with or results in a breach or violation of any of the terms or provisions of, or constitutes a default under, (A) its constituting and organizational documents; (B) the terms of any material indenture, contract, lease, mortgage, deed of trust, note, agreement or other evidence of indebtedness or other material agreement, obligation, condition, covenant or instrument to which it is a party or by which it is bound; (C) any statute applicable to it; or (D) any law, decree, order, rule or regulation applicable to it of any court or regulatory, administrative or governmental agency, body of authority or arbitration having or asserting jurisdiction over it or its properties, which, in the case of clauses (B) through (D) above, would have a material adverse effect upon the performance of its duties hereunder.

(b) The Sub-Advisor represents and warrants to the Management Company that it is a registered investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the "Advisers Act").

(c) The Management Company acknowledges that it has received Part 2 of Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Form ADV filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Sub-Advisor will provide to the Management Company an updated copy of Part 2 of its Form ADV promptly upon any amendment to such Form ADV being filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

4. Standard of Care; Liability; Indemnification.

(a) Sub-Advisor Standard of Care. Subject to the terms and provisions of this Agreement, the Management Agreements and/or the Related Agreements, as applicable, the Sub-Advisor will perform its obligations hereunder and under the Management Agreements and/or the Related Agreements in good faith with reasonable care using a degree of skill and attention no less than that which the Sub-Advisor uses with respect to comparable assets that it manages for others and, without limiting the foregoing, in a manner which the Sub-Advisor reasonably believes to be consistent with the practices and procedures followed by institutional managers of national standing relating to assets of the nature and character of the Portfolios, in each case except as expressly provided otherwise under this Agreement, the Management Agreements and/or the Related Agreements. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, the Sub-Advisor will follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties hereunder, under the Management Agreements and/or under the Related Agreements.

(b) Exculpation. To the fullest extent permitted by law, none of the Sub-Advisor, any of its affiliates, and any of their respective managers, members, principals, partners, directors, officers, shareholders, employees and agents (but shall not include the Management Company, its subsidiaries or member(s) and any managers, members, principals, partners, directors, officers, shareholders, employees and agents of the Management Company or its subsidiaries or member(s) (in their capacity as such)) (each a “Covered Person”) will be liable to the Management Company, any Member, any shareholder, partner or member thereof, any Account (or any other adviser, agent or representative thereof), or to any holder of notes, securities or other indebtedness issued by any Account (collectively, the “Management Company Related Parties”), for (i) any acts or omissions by such Covered Person arising out of or in connection with the provision of the Services hereunder, for any losses that may be sustained in the purchase, holding or sale of any security or debt obligation by any Account, or as a result of any activities of the Sub-Advisor, the Management Company or any other adviser to or agent of the Account or any other sub-advisor appointed by the Management Company to provide portfolio management services to any other delegatee of the Management Company or any other person or entity, unless such act or omission was made in bad faith or is determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, to be the result of gross negligence or to constitute fraud or willful misconduct (as interpreted under the laws of the State of Delaware) (each, a “Disabling Conduct”) on the part of such Covered Person, (ii) any mistake, gross negligence, misconduct or bad faith of any employee, broker, administrator or other agent or representative of the Sub-Advisor, provided that such employee, broker, administrator or agent was selected, engaged or retained by or on behalf of the Sub-Advisor with reasonable care, or (iii) any consequential (including loss of profit), indirect, special or punitive damages. To the extent that, at law or in equity, any Covered Person has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to any Management Company Related Party, no Covered Person acting under this Agreement shall be liable to such Management Company Related Party for its good-faith reliance on the provisions of this Agreement.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person shall have any personal liability to any Management Company Related Party solely by reason of any change in U.S. federal, state or local or foreign income tax laws, or in interpretations thereof, as they apply to any such Management Company Related Party, whether the change occurs through legislative, judicial or administrative action.

Any Covered Person in its sole and absolute discretion may consult legal counsel, accountants or other advisers selected by it, and any act or omission taken, or made in good faith by such Person on behalf of the Management Company or in furtherance of the business of the Management Company in good-faith reliance on and in accordance with the advice of such counsel, accountants or other advisers shall be full justification for the act or omission, and to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, no Covered Person shall be liable to any Management Company Related Party in so acting or omitting to act if such counsel, accountants or other advisers were selected, engaged or retained with reasonable care

(c) Indemnification. The Management Company shall and hereby does, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, indemnify and hold harmless any Covered Person from and against any and all claims, demands, liabilities, costs, expenses, damages, losses, suits, proceedings, judgments, assessments, actions and other liabilities, whether judicial, administrative, investigative or otherwise, of whatever nature, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated (“Claims”), that may accrue to or be incurred by any Covered Person, or in which any Covered Person may become involved, as a party or otherwise, or with which any Covered Person may be threatened, relating to or arising out of the Services, the activities of the Management Company Related Parties, or activities undertaken in connection with the Management Company Related Parties, or otherwise relating to or arising out of this Agreement, any Management Agreement and/or the Related Documents, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromise or as fines or penalties, and attorneys’ fees and expenses incurred in connection with the preparation for or defense or disposition of any investigation, action, suit, arbitration or other proceeding (a “Proceeding”), whether civil or criminal (all of such Claims, amounts and expenses referred to therein are referred to collectively as “Damages”), except to the extent that it shall have been determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, that such Damages arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of such Covered Person. The termination of any Proceeding by settlement, judgment, order, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that any Damages relating to such settlement, judgment, order, conviction or plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent or otherwise relating to such Proceeding arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of any Covered Persons.

Expenses (including attorneys’ fees) incurred by a Covered Person in defense or settlement of any Claim that may be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder may be advanced by the Management Company prior to the final disposition thereof upon receipt of a written undertaking by or on behalf of the Covered Person to repay the amount advanced to the extent that it shall be determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction that the Covered Person is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder. The right of any Covered Persons to the indemnification provided herein shall be cumulative of, and in addition to, any and all rights to which the Covered Person may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law or equity and shall be extended to the Covered Person’s successors, assigns and legal representatives. Any judgments against the Management Company and/or any Covered Persons in respect of which such Covered Person is entitled to indemnification shall first be satisfied from the assets of the Management Company, including Drawdowns, before such Covered Person is responsible therefor.

Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, the provisions of this Section 4(c) shall not be construed so as to provide for the indemnification of any Covered Person for any liability (including liability under Federal securities laws which, under certain circumstances, impose liability even on persons that act in good faith), to the extent (but only to the extent) that such indemnification would be in violation of applicable law, but shall be construed so as to effectuate the provisions of this Section 4(c) to the fullest extent permitted by law

(d) Other Sources of Recovery etc. The indemnification rights set forth in Section 4(c) are in addition to, and shall not exclude, limit or otherwise adversely affect, any other indemnification or similar rights to which any Covered Person may be entitled. If and to the extent that other sources of recovery (including proceeds of any applicable policies of insurance or indemnification from any Person in which any of the Transactions has an investment) are available to any Covered Person, such Covered Person shall use reasonable efforts to obtain recovery from such other sources before the Company shall be required to make any payment in respect of its indemnification obligations hereunder; provided that, if such other recovery is not available without delay, the Covered Person shall be entitled to such payment by the Management Company and the Management Company shall be entitled to reimbursement out of such other recovery when and if obtained

(e) Rights of Heirs, Successors and Assigns. The indemnification rights provided by Section 4(c) shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns of each Covered Person

(f) Reliance. A Covered Person shall incur no liability to any Management Company Related Party in acting upon any signature or writing reasonably believed by him, her or it to be genuine, and may rely in good faith on a certificate signed by an officer of any Person in order to ascertain any fact with respect to such Person or within such Person's knowledge. Each Covered Person may act directly or through his, her or its agents or attorneys.

(g) Rights Under Management Agreements and Related Agreements. The Management Company will ensure that the Sub-Advisor is provided substantially similar indemnification and exculpation rights as are afforded to the Management Company in its role as portfolio manager under any future Management Agreement or Related Agreement encompassed within the Services hereunder, and it is expressly acknowledged by the Parties that the Sub-Advisor may not consent to including a Management Agreement and the related Transaction and Related Agreements within the scope of this Agreement pursuant to Section 8 if such indemnification and exculpation rights are not reasonably acceptable to it.

5. Limitations on Employment of the Sub-Advisor; Conflicts of Interest.

(a) The services of the Sub-Advisor to the Management Company are not exclusive, and the Sub-Advisor may engage in any other business or render similar or different services to others including, without limitation, the direct or indirect sponsorship or management of other Transactions, investment-based accounts or commingled pools of capital, however structured, having investment objectives similar to those of the Management Company or the Accounts. Moreover, nothing in this Agreement shall limit or restrict the right of any manager, partner, officer or employee of the Sub-Advisor to engage in any other business or to devote his or her time and attention in part to any other business, whether of a similar or dissimilar nature to the Management Company or any Account, or to receive any fees or compensation in connection therewith.

(b) So long as this Agreement or any extension, renewal or amendment of this Agreement remains in effect, the Sub-Advisor shall be the only portfolio management sub-advisor for the Management Company. The Sub-Advisor assumes no responsibility under this Agreement other than to render the services called for hereunder. It is understood that directors, officers, employees, members and managers of the Management Company are or may become interested in the Sub-Advisor and its Affiliates as directors, officers, employees, partners, stockholders, members, managers or otherwise, and that the Sub-Advisor and directors, officers, employees, partners, stockholders, members and managers of the Sub-Advisor and its Affiliates are or may become similarly interested in the Management Company as members or otherwise.

(c) The Management Company acknowledges that various potential and actual conflicts of interest may exist with respect to the Sub-Advisor as described in the Sub-Advisor's Form ADV Part 2A and as described in Appendix B hereto, and the Management Company expressly acknowledges and agrees to the provisions contained in such Appendix B, as amended from time to time with mutual consent of the Parties.

6. Termination; Survival.

(a) This Agreement may be terminated, in its entirety or with respect to any Management Agreement, at any time without payment of penalty, by the Management Company upon 30 days' prior written notice to the Sub-Advisor.

(b) This Agreement shall terminate automatically with respect to any Management Agreement on the date on which (i) such Management Agreement has been terminated (and, if required thereunder, a successor portfolio manager has been appointed and accepted) or discharged; or (ii) the Management Company is no longer acting as portfolio manager, investment manager or in a similar capacity (whether due to removal, resignation or assignment) under such Management Agreement and the Related Agreements. Upon the termination of this Agreement with respect to any Management Agreement the Management Company shall provide prompt notice thereof to the Sub-Advisor, and Appendix A hereto shall be deemed to be amended by deleting such Management Agreement and the Related Agreements related thereto.

(c) All accrued and unpaid financial and indemnification obligations with respect to any conduct or events occurring prior to the effective date of the termination of this Agreement shall survive the termination of this Agreement.

7. Cooperation with Management Company. The Sub-Advisor shall reasonably cooperate with the Management Company in connection with the Management Company's compliance with its policies and procedures relating to oversight of the Sub-Advisor. Specifically, the Sub-Advisor agrees that it will provide the Management Company with reasonable access to information relating to the performance of Sub-Advisor's obligations under this Agreement.

8. Management Agreements and Related Agreements. The Sub-Advisor's duty to provide Services in connection with any Management Agreement shall not commence until (a) Appendix A to this Agreement has been amended by mutual agreement of the Parties to include such Management Agreement and the related Account, fund and/or account and Related Agreements and (b) the Sub-Advisor acknowledges receipt of such Management Agreement and each Related Agreement. The Sub-Advisor shall not be bound to comply with any amendment, modification, supplement or waiver to any Management Agreement or any Related Agreement until it has received a copy thereof from the Management Company. No amendment, modification, supplement or waiver to any Management Agreement or Related Agreement that, when applied to the obligations and rights of the Management Company under such Management Agreement or Related Agreement, affects (i) the obligations or rights of the Sub-Advisor hereunder; (ii) the amount of priority of any fees or other amounts payable to the Sub-Advisor hereunder; or (iii) any definitions relating to the matters covered in clause (i) or (ii) above, will apply to the Sub-Advisor under this Agreement unless in each such case the Sub-Advisor has consented thereto in writing (such consent not to be unreasonably withheld or delayed unless the Sub-Advisor determines in its reasonable judgment that such amendment, modification, supplement or waiver could have a material adverse effect on the Sub-Advisor).

9. Amendments; Assignments.

(a) Neither Party may assign, pledge, grant or otherwise encumber or transfer all or any part of its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement, in whole or in part, except (i) as provided in clauses (b) and (c) of this Section 9, without the prior written consent of the other Party and (ii) in accordance with the Advisers Act and other applicable law.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this Section 9, the Sub-Advisor may not assign its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement unless (i) the Management Company consents in writing thereto and (ii) such assignment is made in accordance with the Advisers Act and other applicable law.

(c) The Sub-Advisor may, without satisfying any of the conditions of Section 9(a) other than clause (ii) thereof (so long as such assignment does not constitute an assignment within the meaning of Section 202(a)(1) of the Advisers Act), (1) assign any of its rights or obligations under this Agreement to an affiliate; provided that such affiliate (i) has demonstrated ability, whether as an entity or by its principals and employees, to professionally and competently perform duties similar to those imposed upon the Sub-Advisor pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) has the legal right and capacity to act as Sub-Advisor under this Agreement, or (2) enter into (or have its parent enter into) any consolidation or amalgamation with, or merger with or into, or transfer of all or substantially all of its assets to, another entity; provided that, at the time of such consolidation, merger, amalgamation or transfer the resulting, surviving or transferee entity assumes all the obligations of the Sub-Advisor under this Agreement generally (whether by operation of law or by contract) and the other entity is a continuation of the Sub-Advisor in another corporate or similar form and has substantially the same staff; provided, further, that the Sub-Advisor shall deliver ten (10) Business Days' prior notice to the Management Company of any assignment or combination made pursuant to this sentence. Upon the execution and delivery of any such assignment by the assignee, the Sub-Advisor will be released from further obligations pursuant to this Agreement except to the extent expressly provided herein.

10. Advisory Restrictions. This Agreement is not intended to and shall not constitute an assignment, pledge or transfer of any Management Agreement or any part thereof. It is the express intention of the parties hereto that (i) the Services are limited in scope; and (ii) this Agreement complies in all respects with all applicable (A) contractual provisions and restrictions contained in each Management Agreement and each Related Agreement and (B) laws, rules and regulations (collectively, the "Advisory Restrictions"). If any provision of this Agreement is determined to be in violation of any Advisory Restriction, then the Services to be provided under this Agreement shall automatically without action by any person or entity be limited, reduced or modified to the extent necessary and appropriate to be enforceable to the maximum extent permitted by such Advisory Restriction.

11. Records; Confidentiality.

(a) The Sub-Advisor shall maintain or cause to be maintained appropriate books of account and records relating to its services performed hereunder, and such books of account and records shall be accessible for inspection by representatives of the Management Company and its accountants and other agents at any time during normal business hours and upon not less than three (3) Business Days' prior notice; provided, that the Sub-Advisor shall not be obligated to provide access to any non-public information if it in good faith determines that the disclosure of such information would violate any applicable law, regulation or contractual arrangement.

(b) The Sub-Advisor shall follow its customary procedures to keep confidential any and all information obtained in connection with the services rendered hereunder that is either (a) of a type that would ordinarily be considered proprietary or confidential, such as information concerning the composition of assets, rates of return, credit quality, structure or ownership of securities, or (b) designated as confidential obtained in connection with the services rendered by the Sub-Advisor hereunder and shall not disclose any such information to non-affiliated third parties except (i) with the prior written consent of the Management Company, (ii) such information as a rating agency shall reasonably request in connection with its rating of notes issued in connection with a Transaction or supplying credit estimates on any obligation included in the Portfolios, (iii) in connection with establishing trading or investment accounts or otherwise in connection with effecting transactions on behalf of the Management Company or any Account for which the Management Company serves as portfolio manager, (iv) as required by (A) applicable law or (B) the rules or regulations of any self-regulating organization, body or official having jurisdiction over the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates, (v) to its professional advisors (including, without limitation, legal, tax and accounting advisors), (vi) such information as shall have been publicly disclosed other than in known violation of this Agreement or shall have been obtained by the Sub-Advisor on a non-confidential basis, (vii) such information as is necessary or appropriate to disclose so that the Sub-Advisor may perform its duties hereunder, (viii) as expressly permitted in the final offering memorandum or any definitive transaction documents relating to any Transaction, or (ix) information relating to performance of the Portfolios as may be used by the Sub-Advisor in the ordinary course of its business. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it is agreed that the Sub-Advisor may disclose without the consent of any Person (1) that it is serving as Sub-Advisor to the Management Company and each Account, (2) the nature, aggregate principal amount and overall performance of the Portfolios, (3) the amount of earnings on the Portfolios, (4) such other information about the Management Company, the Portfolios and the Transactions as is customarily disclosed by Sub-Advisors to management vehicles similar to the Management Company, and (5) the United States federal income tax treatment and United States federal income tax structure of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and the related documents and all materials of any kind (including opinions and other tax analyses) that are provided to them relating to such United States federal income tax treatment and United States income tax structure. This authorization to disclose the U.S. tax treatment and tax structure does not permit disclosure of information identifying the Sub-Advisor, the Management Company, the Accounts or any other party to the transactions contemplated by this Agreement (except to the extent such information is relevant to U.S. tax structure or tax treatment of such transactions).

12. Notice. Any notice or demand to any party to this Agreement to be given, made or served for any purposes under this Agreement shall be given, made or served by sending the same by overnight mail, facsimile or email transmission or by delivering it by hand as follows (or to such other address, email address or facsimile number as shall have been notified to the other parties hereto):

(a) If to the Management Company:

Acis Capital Management, L.P.
300 Crescent Court
Suite 700
Dallas, TX 75201

(b) If to the Sub-Advisor:

Highland Capital Management, L.P.
300 Crescent Court
Suite 700
Dallas, TX 75201

13. Governing Law. This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of Texas. The parties unconditionally and irrevocably consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts located in the State of Texas and waive any objection with respect thereto, for the purpose of any action, suit or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby.

14. WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL. EACH OF THE PARTIES HERETO HEREBY KNOWINGLY, VOLUNTARILY AND INTENTIONALLY WAIVES ANY RIGHTS IT MAY HAVE TO A TRIAL BY JURY WITH RESPECT TO ANY LITIGATION BASED HEREON, OR ARISING OUT OF, UNDER, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, THIS AGREEMENT. EACH PARTY HERETO ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT IT HAS RECEIVED FULL AND SUFFICIENT CONSIDERATION FOR THIS PROVISION AND THAT THIS PROVISION IS A MATERIAL INDUCEMENT FOR ITS ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT.

15. Severability. The provisions of this Agreement are independent of and severable from each other, and no provision shall be affected or rendered invalid or unenforceable by virtue of the fact that for any reason any other or others of them may be invalid or unenforceable in whole or in part. Upon such determination that any term or other provision is invalid, illegal or incapable of being enforced, the parties hereto shall negotiate in good faith to modify this Agreement so as to effect the original intent of the parties.

16. No Waiver. The performance of any condition or obligation imposed upon any party hereunder may be waived only upon the written consent of the parties hereto. Such waiver shall be limited to the terms thereof and shall not constitute a waiver of any other condition or obligation of the other party under this Agreement. Any failure by any party to this Agreement to enforce any provision shall not constitute a waiver of that or any other provision or this Agreement.

17. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

18. Third Party Beneficiaries. Nothing in this Agreement will be construed to give any person or entity other than the parties to this Agreement, the Accounts and any person or entity with indemnification rights hereunder any legal or equitable right, remedy, or claim under or with respect to this Agreement or any provision of this Agreement. Except as provided in the foregoing sentence, this Agreement and all of its provisions and conditions are for the sole and exclusive benefit of the parties to this Agreement and their successors and assigns.

19. No Partnership or Joint Venture. Nothing set forth in this Agreement shall constitute, or be construed to create, an employment relationship, a partnership or a joint venture between the parties. Except as expressly provided herein or in any other written agreement between the parties, no party has any authority, express or implied, to bind or to incur liabilities on behalf of, or in the name of, any other party.

20. Entire Agreement. This Agreement, together with each Management Agreement and Related Agreement, constitutes the entire agreement of the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and undertakings, both written and oral, between the parties with respect to such subject matter.

Appendix A

The Management Company shall pay to the Sub-Advisor a Sub-Advisory Fee for the Services for the Accounts in an amount equal to the aggregate management fees that would be received by the Management Company for such Accounts if such management fees were calculated in exact conformity with the calculation of management fees for such Accounts, except that the management fee rates applied in such calculation were replaced by the fee rate set forth in the following table. Such fees shall be payable promptly (or at such time as is otherwise agreed by the parties) following the Management Company's receipt of management fees for such Accounts, it being understood that none of the foregoing shall prohibit the Management Company from waiving or entering into side letters with respect to management fees for such Accounts; provided that any such waived or reduced amounts shall not be recognized for purposes of calculating the fees payable by the Management Company hereunder. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the parties may agree to a different allocation from that set forth during any period in order to reflect the then current fair market value of the Services rendered.

APPENDIX B

Purchase and Sale Transactions; Brokerage

The Management Company acknowledges and agrees that the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates may acquire or sell obligations or securities, for its own account or for the accounts of its customers, without either requiring or precluding the acquisition or sale of such obligations or securities for the account of any Account. Such investments may be the same or different from those made by or on behalf of the Management Company or the Accounts.

Additional Activities of the Sub-Advisor

Nothing herein shall prevent the Sub-Advisor or any of its clients, its partners, its members, funds or other investment accounts managed by it or any of its affiliates, or their employees and their affiliates (collectively, the “Related Entities”), from engaging in other businesses, or from rendering services of any kind to the Management Company, its affiliates, any Account or any other Person or entity regardless of whether such business is in competition with the Management Company, its affiliates, such Account or otherwise. Without limiting the generality of the Sub-Advisor and its Related Entities may:

- (a) serve as managers or directors (whether supervisory or managing), officers, employees, partners, agents, nominees or signatories for the Management Company or any affiliate thereof, or for any obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Portfolio Assets or any affiliate thereof, to the extent permitted by their respective organizational documents and underlying instruments, as from time to time amended, or by any resolutions duly adopted by the Management Company, any Account, their respective affiliates or any obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Portfolio Assets (or any affiliate thereof) pursuant to their respective organizational documents;
- (b) receive fees for services of whatever nature rendered to the obligor or issuer in respect of any of the Portfolio Assets or any affiliate thereof;
- (c) be retained to provide services unrelated to this Agreement to the Management Company, any Account or their respective affiliates and be paid therefor, on an arm’s-length basis;
- (d) be a secured or unsecured creditor of, or hold a debt obligation of or equity interest in, the Management Company, any Account or any affiliate thereof or any obligor or issuer of any Portfolio Asset or any affiliate thereof;
- (e) sell any Portfolio Asset to, or purchase or acquire any Portfolio Asset from, any Account while acting in the capacity of principal or agent; provided, however, that any such sale or purchase effected by the Sub-Advisor shall be subject to applicable law and any applicable provisions of this Agreement, the related Management Agreement and Related Agreements, as applicable;
- (f) underwrite, arrange, structure, originate, syndicate, act as a distributor of or make a market in any Portfolio Asset;

(g) serve as a member of any “creditors’ board”, “creditors’ committee” or similar creditor group with respect to any Portfolio Asset; or

(h) act as portfolio manager, portfolio manager, investment manager and/or investment adviser or sub-advisor in collateralized bond obligation vehicles, collateralized loan obligation vehicles and other similar warehousing, financing or other investment vehicles.

As a result, such individuals may possess information relating to obligors and issuers of Portfolio Assets that is (a) not known to or (b) known but restricted as to its use by the individuals at the Sub-Advisor responsible for monitoring the Portfolio Assets and performing the Services under this Agreement. Each of such ownership and other relationships may result in securities laws restrictions on transactions in such securities by the Management Company and/or any Account and otherwise create conflicts of interest for the Management Company and/or any Account. The Management Company acknowledges and agrees that, in all such instances, the Sub-Advisor and its affiliates may in their discretion make investment recommendations and decisions that may be the same as or different from those made by the Management Company with respect to the investments of any Account and they have no duty, in making or managing such investments, to act in a way that is favorable to any Account.

The Management Company acknowledges that there are generally no ethical screens or information barriers between the Sub-Advisor and certain of its affiliates of the type that many firms implement to separate Persons who make investment decisions from others who might possess applicable material, non-public information that could influence such decisions. The officers or affiliates of the Sub-Advisor may possess information relating to obligors or issuers of Portfolio Assets that is not known to the individuals at the Sub-Advisor responsible for providing the Services under this Agreement. As a result, the Sub-Advisor may from time to time come into possession of material nonpublic information that limits the ability of the Sub-Advisor to effect a transaction for the Management Company and/or any Account, and the Management Company and/or such Account’s investments may be constrained as a consequence of the Sub-Advisor’s inability to use such information for advisory purposes or otherwise to effect transactions that otherwise may have been initiated on behalf of its clients, including the Management Company and/or such Account.

Unless the Sub-Advisor determines in its sole discretion that such Transaction complies with the conflicts of interest provisions set forth in the applicable Management Agreement and Related Agreements, he Sub-Advisor will not direct any Account to acquire or sell loans or securities entered into or issued by (i) Persons of which the Sub-Advisor, any of its affiliates or any of its officers, directors or employees are directors or officers, (ii) Persons of which the Sub-Advisor or any of its respective affiliates act as principal or (iii) Persons about which the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates have material non-public information which the Sub-Advisor deems would prohibit it from advising as to the trading of such securities in accordance with applicable law.

It is understood that the Sub-Advisor and any of its affiliates may engage in any other business and furnish investment management and advisory services to others, including Persons which may have investment policies similar to those followed by the Management Company with respect to the Portfolio Assets and which may own securities or obligations of the same class, or which are of the same type, as the Portfolio Assets or other securities or obligations of the obligors or issuers of the Portfolio Assets. The Sub-Advisor and its affiliates will be free, in their sole discretion, to make recommendations to others, or effect transactions on behalf of themselves or for others, which may be the same as or different from those effected with respect to the Collateral. Nothing in this Agreement, in the Management Agreements or in the Related Agreements shall prevent the Sub-Advisor or any of its affiliates, acting either as principal or agent on behalf of others, from buying or selling, or from recommending to or directing any other account to buy or sell, at any time, securities or obligations of the same kind or class, or securities or obligations of a different kind or class of the same obligor or issuer, as those directed by the Sub-Advisor to be purchased or sold on behalf of an Account. It is understood that, to the extent permitted by applicable law, the Sub-Advisor, its Related Entities, or any of their owners, directors, managers, officers, stockholders, members, partners, partnership committee members, employees, agents or affiliates or the other Covered Persons or any member of their families or a Person or entity advised by the Sub-Advisor may have an interest in a particular transaction or in securities or obligations of the same kind or class, or securities or obligations of a different kind or class of the same issuer, as those that may be owned or acquired by an Account. The Management Company agrees that, in the course of providing the Services, the Sub-Advisor may consider its relationships with other clients (including obligors and issuers) and its affiliates.

The Management Company agrees that neither the Sub-Advisor nor any of its affiliates is under any obligation to offer any investment opportunity of which they become aware to the Management Company or any Account or to account to the Management Company or any Account for (or share with the Management Company or any Account or inform the Management Company or any Account of) any such transaction or any benefit received by them from any such transaction. The Management Company understands that the Sub-Advisor and/or its affiliates may have, for their own accounts or for the accounts of others, portfolios with substantially the same portfolio criteria as are applicable to the Accounts. Furthermore, the Sub-Advisor and/or its affiliates may make an investment on behalf of any client or on their own behalf without offering the investment opportunity or making any investment on behalf of the Management Company or any Account and, accordingly, investment opportunities may not be allocated among all such clients. The Management Company acknowledges that affirmative obligations may arise in the future, whereby the Sub-Advisor and/or its affiliates are obligated to offer certain investments to clients before or without the Sub-Advisor offering those investments to the Management Company or any Account.

The Management Company acknowledges that the Sub-Advisor and its affiliates may make and/or hold investments in an obligor's or issuer's obligations or securities that may be pari passu, senior or junior in ranking to an investment in such obligor's or issuer's obligations or securities made and/or held by the Management Company or any Account, or in which partners, security holders, members, officers, directors, agents or employees of the Sub-Advisor and its affiliates serve on boards of directors, or otherwise have ongoing relationships or otherwise have interests different from or adverse to those of the Management Company and the Accounts.

Defined Terms

For purposes of this Appendix B, the following defined terms shall have the meanings set forth below:

“Portfolio” shall mean, with respect to any Account and/or Transaction, the assets held by or in the name of the Account or any subsidiary of the Account in respect of such Transaction, whether or not for the benefit of the related secured parties, securing the obligations of such Account.

“Portfolio Asset” shall mean any loan, eligible investment or other asset contained in the Portfolio.

“Transaction” shall mean any action taken by the Sub-Advisor on behalf of any Account with respect to the Portfolio, including, without limitation, (i) selecting the Portfolio Assets to be acquired by the Account, (ii) investing and reinvesting the Portfolio, (iii) amending, waiving and/or taking any other action commensurate with managing the Portfolio and (iv) instructing the Account with respect to any acquisition, disposition or tender of a Portfolio Asset or other assets received in respect thereof in the open market or otherwise by the Account.

FOURTH AMENDED AND RESTATED SHARED SERVICES AGREEMENT

This Fourth Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement (as amended, modified, waived, supplemented or restated from time to time in accordance with the terms hereof, this “Agreement”), dated as of March 17, 2017, is entered into by and between Acis Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership, as the management company hereunder (in such capacity, the “Management Company”), and Highland Capital Management, L.P., a Delaware limited partnership (“Highland”), as the staff and services provider hereunder (in such capacity, the “Staff and Services Provider” and together with the Management Company, the “Parties”).

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the Parties entered into that certain Third Amended and Restated Shared Services Agreement dated effective January 1, 2016 (the “Existing Agreement”);

WHEREAS, the Staff and Services Provider is a registered investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended (the “Advisers Act”);

WHEREAS, the Staff and Services Provider and the Management Company are engaged in the business of providing investment management services;

WHEREAS, the Staff and Services Provider is hereby being retained to provide certain back- and middle-office services and administrative, infrastructure and other services to assist the Management Company in conducting its business, and the Staff and Services Provider is willing to make such services available to the Management Company on the terms and conditions hereof;

WHEREAS, the Management Company may employ certain individuals to perform portfolio selection and asset management functions for the Management Company, and certain of these individuals may also be employed simultaneously by the Staff and Services Provider during their employment with the Management Company;

WHEREAS, each Person employed by both the Management Company and the Staff and Services Provider as described above (each, a “Shared Employee”) is and shall be identified on the books and records of each of the Management Company and the Staff and Services Provider (as amended, modified, supplemented or restated from time to time); and

WHEREAS, the Parties now desire to amend and restate the Existing Agreement.

NOW, THEREFORE, for good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties hereby agree that the Existing Agreement is hereby amended, restated and replaced in its entirety as follows.

ARTICLE I

DEFINITIONS

Section 1.01 Certain Defined Terms. As used in this Agreement, the following terms shall have the following meanings:

“Advisers Act” shall have the meaning set forth in the Recitals to this Agreement.

“Advisory Restriction” shall have the meaning set forth in Section 5.01(b).

“Affiliate” shall mean with respect to a Person, any other Person that directly, or indirectly through one or more intermediaries, controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with the first Person. The term “control” means (i) the legal or beneficial ownership of securities representing a majority of the voting power of any person or (ii) the possession, directly or indirectly, of the power to direct or cause the direction of the management and policies of a person, whether by contract or otherwise.

“Agreement” shall have the meaning set forth in the Preamble to this Agreement.

“Applicable Asset Criteria and Concentrations” means any applicable eligibility criteria, portfolio concentration limits and other similar criteria or limits which the Management Company instructs in writing to the Staff and Services Provider in respect of the Portfolio or one or more CLOs or Accounts, as such criteria or limits may be modified, amended or supplemented from time to time in writing by the Management Company;

“Applicable Law” shall mean, with respect to any Person or property of such Person, any action, code, consent decree, constitution, decree, directive, enactment, finding, guideline, law, injunction, interpretation, judgment, order, ordinance, policy statement, proclamation, formal guidance, promulgation, regulation, requirement, rule, rule of law, rule of public policy, settlement agreement, statute, writ, or any particular section, part or provision thereof, including the Risk Retention Rules, of any Governmental Authority to which the Person in question is subject or by which it or any of its property is bound.

“CLO or Account” shall mean a collateralized loan obligation transaction, including any type of short-term or long-term warehouse or repurchase facility in connection therewith, or a fund or account advised by the Management Company, as applicable.

“Covered Person” shall mean the Staff and Services Provider, any of its Affiliates, and any of their respective managers, members, principals, partners, directors, officers, shareholders, employees and agents (but shall not include the Management Company, its subsidiaries or member(s) and any managers, members, principals, partners, directors, officers, shareholders, employees and agents of the Management Company or its subsidiaries or member(s) (in their capacity as such)).

“Governmental Authority” shall mean (i) any government or quasi-governmental authority or political subdivision thereof, whether national, state, county, municipal or regional, whether U.S. or non-U.S.; (ii) any agency, regulator, arbitrator, board, body, branch, bureau, commission, corporation, department, master, mediator, panel, referee, system or instrumentality of any such government, political subdivision or other government or quasi-government entity, whether non-U.S. or U.S.; and (iii) any court, whether U.S. or non-U.S.

“Highland” shall have the meaning set forth in the preamble to this Agreement.

“Indebtedness” shall mean: (a) all indebtedness for borrowed money and all other obligations, contingent or otherwise, with respect to surety bonds, guarantees of borrowed money, letters of credit and bankers’ acceptances whether or not matured, and hedges and other derivative contracts and financial instruments; (b) all obligations evidenced by notes, bonds, debentures, or similar instruments, or incurred under bank guaranty or letter of credit facilities or credit agreements; (c) all indebtedness created or arising under any conditional sale or other title retention agreement with respect to any property of the Management Company or any subsidiary; (d) with respect to the Management Company, all indebtedness relating to the acquisition by the EU Originator Series of a collateral obligation that failed to settle (including any ineligible or defaulted collateral obligation) into a CLO; (e) all capital lease obligations; (f) all indebtedness guaranteed by such Person or any of its subsidiaries; (g) all capital lease obligations; (h) all indebtedness guaranteed by such Person or any of its subsidiaries.

“Management Company” shall have the meaning set forth in the preamble to this Agreement.

“Operating Guidelines” means any operating guidelines attached to any portfolio management agreement, investment management agreement or similar agreement entered into between the Management Company and a CLO or Account.

“Parties” shall have the meaning set forth in the preamble to this Agreement.

“Portfolio” means the Management Company’s portfolio of collateral loan obligations, debt securities (including equity investments or subordinated securities in a CLO such as a Retention Interest), other similar obligations, preferred return notes, financial instruments, securities or other assets held directly or indirectly by, or on behalf of, the Management Company from time to time;

“Securities Act” shall mean the Securities Act of 1933, as amended.

“Staff and Services Fee” shall have the meaning set forth in Section 3.01 of this Agreement.

“Staff and Services Provider” shall have the meaning set forth in the preamble to this Agreement.

“Shared Employee” shall have the meaning set forth in the Recitals to this Agreement.

Section 1.02 Interpretation. The following rules apply to the use of defined terms and the interpretation of this Agreement: (i) the singular includes the plural and the plural includes the singular; (ii) “or” is not exclusive (unless preceded by “either”) and “include” and “including” are not limiting; (iii) unless the context otherwise requires, references to agreements shall be deemed to mean and include such agreements as the same may be amended, supplemented, waived and otherwise modified from time to time; (iv) a reference to a law includes any amendment or modification to such law and any rules or regulations issued thereunder or any law enacted in substitution or replacement therefor; (v) a reference to a Person includes its successors and assigns; (vi) a reference to a Section without further reference is to the relevant Section of this Agreement; (vii) the headings of the Sections and subsections are for convenience and shall not affect the meaning of this Agreement; (viii) “writing”, “written” and comparable terms refer to printing, typing, lithography and other shall mean of reproducing words in a visible form (including telefacsimile and electronic mail); (ix) “hereof”, “herein”, “hereunder” and comparable terms refer to the entire instrument in which such terms are used and not to any particular article, section or other subdivision thereof or attachment thereto; and (x) references to any gender include any other gender, masculine, feminine or neuter, as the context requires.

ARTICLE II

SERVICES

Section 2.01 General Authority. Highland is hereby appointed as Staff and Services Provider for the purpose of providing such services and assistance as the Management Company may request from time to time to, and to make available the Shared Employees to, the Management Company in accordance with and subject to the provisions of this Agreement and the Staff and Services Provider hereby accepts such appointment. The Staff and Services Provider hereby agrees to such engagement during the term hereof and to render the services described herein for the compensation provided herein, subject to the limitations contained herein.

Section 2.02 Provision of Services. Without limiting the generality of Section 2.1 and subject to Section 2.4 (Applicable Asset Criteria and Concentrations) below, the Staff and Services Provider hereby agrees, from the date hereof, to provide the following back- and middle-office services and administrative, infrastructure and other services to the Management Company.

(a) Back- and Middle-Office: Assistance and advice with respect to back- and middle-office functions including, but not limited to, accounting, payments, operations, technology and finance;

(b) Legal/Compliance/Risk Analysis. Assistance and advice with respect to legal issues, compliance support and implementation and general risk analysis;

(c) Management of Collateral Obligations and CLOs and Accounts. Assistance and advice with respect to (i) the adherence to Operating Guidelines by the Management Company, and (ii) performing any obligations of the Management Company under or in connection with any back- and middle-office function set forth in any portfolio management agreement, investment management agreement or similar agreement in effect between the Management Company and any CLO or Account from time to time.

(d) Valuation. Advice relating to the appointment of suitable third parties to provide valuations on assets comprising the Portfolio and including, but not limited to, such valuations required to facilitate the preparation of financial statements by the Management Company or the provision of valuations in connection with, or preparation of reports otherwise relating to, a CLO or Account for which the Management Company serves as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity;

(e) Execution and Documentation. Assistance relating to the negotiation of the terms of, and the execution and delivery by the Management Company of, any and all documents which the Management Company considers to be necessary in connection with the acquisition and disposition of an asset in the Portfolio by the Management Company or a CLO or Account managed by the Management Company, CLO transactions involving the Management Company, and any other rights and obligations of the Management Company;

(f) Marketing. Provide access to marketing team representatives to assist with the marketing of the Management Company and any specified CLOs or Accounts managed by the Management Company conditional on the Management Company's agreement that any incentive compensation related to such marketing shall be borne by the Management Company;

(g) Reporting. Assistance relating to any reporting the Management Company is required to make in relation to the Portfolio or any CLO or Account, including reports relating to (i) purchases, sales, liquidations, acquisitions, disposals, substitutions and exchanges of assets in the Portfolio, (ii) the requirements of an applicable regulator, or (iii) other type of reporting which the Management Company and Staff and Services Provider may agree from time to time;

(h) Administrative Services. The provision of office space, information technology services and equipment, infrastructure and other related services requested or utilized by the Management Company from time to time;

(i) Shared Employees. The provision of Shared Employees and such additional human capital as may be mutually agreed by the Management Company and the Staff and Services Provider in accordance with the provisions of Section 2.03 hereof;

(j) Ancillary Services. Assistance and advice on all things ancillary or incidental to the foregoing; and

(k) Other. Assistance and advice relating to such other back- and middle-office services in connection with the day-to-day business of the Management Company as the Management Company and the Staff and Services Provider may from time to time agree.

For the avoidance of doubt, none of the services contemplated hereunder shall constitute investment advisory services, and the Staff & Services Provider shall not provide any advice to the Management Company or perform any duties on behalf of the Management Company, other than the back- and middle-office services contemplated herein, with respect to (a) the general management of the Management Company, its business or activities, (b) the initiation or structuring of any CLO or Account or similar securitization, (c) the substantive investment management decisions with respect to any CLO or Account or any related collateral obligations or securitization, (d) the actual selection of any collateral obligation or assets by the Management Company, (e) binding recommendations as to any disposal of or amendment to any Collateral Obligation or (f) any similar functions.

Section 2.03 Shared Employees.

(a) The Staff and Services Provider hereby agrees and consents that each Shared Employee shall be employed by the Management Company, and the Management Company hereby agrees and consents that each Shared Employee shall be employed by the Staff and Services Provider. The name, location and such other matters as the Parties desire to reflect with respect to each Shared Employee shall be identified on the books and records of each of the Management Company and the Staff and Services Provider, which may be amended in writing from time to time by the Parties to add or remove any Shared Employee to reflect the employment (or lack thereof) of such employee. Except as may otherwise separately be agreed in writing between the applicable Shared Employee and the Management Company and/or the Staff and Services Provider, in each of their discretion, each Shared Employee is an at-will employee and no guaranteed employment or other employment arrangement is agreed or implied by this Agreement with respect to any Shared Employee, and for avoidance of doubt this Agreement shall not amend, limit, constrain or modify in any way the employment arrangements as between any Shared Employee and the Staff and Services Provider or as between any Shared Employee and the Management Company, it being understood that the Management Company may enter into a short-form employment agreement with any Shared Employee memorializing such Shared Employee's status as an employee of the Management Company. If at any time any Shared Employee (or any other person employed by the Staff and Services provider who also provides services to the Management Company) shall be terminated from employment with the Staff and Services Provider or otherwise resigns or is removed from employment with the Staff and Services Provider, then such person may only serve as a separate direct employee of the Management Company upon the approval of the Management Company. The Staff and Services Provider shall ensure that the Management Company has sufficient access to the Shared Employees so that the Shared Employees spend adequate time to provide the services required hereunder. The Staff and Services Provider may also employ the services of persons other than the Specified Persons as it deems fit in its sole discretion

(b) Notwithstanding that the Shared Employees shall be employed by both the Staff and Services Provider and the Management Company, the Parties acknowledge and agree that any and all salary and benefits of each Shared Employee shall be paid exclusively by the Staff and Services Provider and shall not be paid or borne by the Management Company and no additional amounts in connection therewith shall be due from the Management Company to the Staff and Services Provider.

(c) To the extent that a Shared Employee participates in the rendering of services to the Management Company's clients, the Shared Employee shall be subject to the oversight and control of the Management Company and such services shall be provided by the Shared Employee exclusively in his or her capacity as a "supervised person" of, or "person associated with", the Management Company (as such terms are defined in Sections 202(a)(25) and 202(a)(17), respectively, of the Advisers Act).

(d) Each Party may continue to oversee, supervise and manage the services of each Shared Employee in order to (1) ensure compliance with the Party's compliance policies and procedures, (2) ensure compliance with regulations applicable to the Party and (3) protect the interests of the Party and its clients; provided that Staff and Services Provider shall (A) cooperate with the Management Company's supervisory efforts and (B) make periodic reports to the Management Company regarding the adherence of Shared Employees to Applicable Law, including but not limited to the 1940 Act, the Advisers Act and the United States Commodity Exchange Act of 1936, as amended, in performing the services hereunder.

(e) Where a Shared Employee provides services hereunder through both Parties, the Parties shall cooperate to ensure that all such services are performed consistently with Applicable Law and relevant compliance controls and procedures designed to prevent, among other things, breaches in information security or the communication of confidential, proprietary or material non-public information.

(f) The Staff and Services Provider shall ensure that each Shared Employee has any registrations, qualifications and/or licenses necessary to provide the services hereunder.

(g) The Parties will cooperate to ensure that information about the Shared Employees is adequately and appropriately disclosed to clients, investors (and potential investors), investment banks operating as initial purchaser or placement agent with respect to any CLO or Account, and regulators, as applicable. To facilitate such disclosure, the Staff and Services Provider agrees to provide, or cause to be provided, to the Management Company such information as is deemed by the Management Company to be necessary or appropriate with respect to the Staff and Services Provider and the Shared Employees (including, but not limited to, biographical information about each Shared Employee).

(h) The Parties shall cooperate to ensure that, when so required, each has adopted a Code of Ethics meeting the requirements of the Advisers Act ("Code of Ethics") that is consistent with applicable law and which is substantially similar to the other Party's Code of Ethics.

(i) The Staff and Services Provider shall make reasonably available for use by the Management Company, including through Shared Employees providing services pursuant to this Agreement, any relevant intellectual property and systems necessary for the provision of the services hereunder.

(j) The Staff and Services Provider shall require that each Shared Employee:

(i) certify that he or she is subject to, and has been provided with, a copy of each Party's Code of Ethics and will make such reports, and seek prior clearance for such actions and activities, as may be required under the Codes of Ethics;

(ii) be subject to the supervision and oversight of each Party's officers and directors, including without limitation its Chief Compliance Officer ("CCO"), which CCO may be the same Person, with respect to the services provided to that Party or its clients;

(iii) provide services hereunder and take actions hereunder only as approved by the Management Company;

(iv) provide any information requested by a Party, as necessary to comply with applicable disclosure or regulatory obligations;

(v) to the extent authorized to transact on behalf of the Management Company or a CLO or Account, take reasonable steps to ensure that any such transaction is consistent with any policies and procedures that may be established by the Parties and all Applicable Asset Criteria and Concentrations; and

(vi) act, at all times, in a manner consistent with the fiduciary duties and standard of care owed by the Management Company to its members and direct or indirect investors or to a CLO or Account as well as clients of Staff and Services Provider by seeking to ensure that, among other things, information about any investment advisory or trading activity applicable to a particular client or group of clients is not used to benefit the Shared Employee, any Party or any other client or group of clients in contravention of such fiduciary duties or standard of care.

(k) Unless specifically authorized to do so, or appointed as an officer or authorized person of the Management Company with such authority, no Shared Employee may contract on behalf or in the name of the Management Company, acting as principal.

Section 2.04 Applicable Asset Criteria and Concentrations. The Management Company will promptly inform the Staff and Services Provider in writing of any Applicable Asset Criteria and Concentrations to which it agrees from time to time and the Staff and Services Provider shall take such Applicable Asset Criteria and Concentrations into account when providing assistance and advice in accordance with Section 2.2 above and any other assistance or advice provided in accordance with this Agreement.

Section 2.05 Compliance with Management Company Policies and Procedures. The Management Company will from time to time provide the Staff and Services Provider and the Shared Employees with any policy and procedure documentation which it establishes internally and to which it is bound to adhere in conducting its business pursuant to regulation, contract or otherwise. Subject to any other limitations in this Agreement, the Staff and Services Provider will use reasonable efforts to ensure any services it and the Shared Employees provide pursuant to this Agreement complies with or takes account of such internal policies and procedures.

Section 2.06 Authority. The Staff and Services Provider's scope of assistance and advice hereunder is limited to the services specifically provided for in this Agreement. The Staff and Services Provider shall not assume or be deemed to assume any rights or obligations of the Management Company under any other document or agreement to which the Management Company is a party. Notwithstanding any other express or implied provision to the contrary in this Agreement, the activities of the Staff and Services Provider pursuant to this Agreement shall be subject to the overall policies of the Management Company, as notified to the Staff and Services Provider from time to time. The Staff and Services Provider shall not have any duties or obligations to the Management Company unless those duties and obligations are specifically provided for in this Agreement (or in any amendment, modification or novation hereto or hereof to which the Staff and Services Provider is a party).

Section 2.07 Third Parties.

(a) The Staff and Services Provider may employ third parties, including its affiliates, to render advice, provide assistance and to perform any of its duties under this Agreement; provided that notwithstanding the employment of third parties for any such purpose, the Staff and Services Provider shall not be relieved of any of its obligations or liabilities under this Agreement.

(b) In providing services hereunder, the Staff and Services Provider may rely in good faith upon and will incur no liability for relying upon advice of nationally recognized counsel (which may be counsel for the Management Company, a CLO or Account or any Affiliate of the foregoing), accountants or other advisers as the Staff and Services Provider determines, in its sole discretion, is reasonably appropriate in connection with the services provided by the Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement.

Section 2.08 Management Company to Cooperate with the Staff and Services Provider. In furtherance of the Staff and Services Provider's obligations under this Agreement the Management Company shall cooperate with, provide to, and fully inform the Staff and Services Provider of, any and all documents and information the Staff and Services Provider reasonably requires to perform its obligations under this Agreement.

Section 2.09 Power of Attorney. If the Management Company considers it necessary for the provision by the Staff and Services Provider of the assistance and advice under this Agreement (after consultation with the Staff and Services Provider), it may appoint the Staff and Services Provider as its true and lawful agent and attorney, with full power and authority in its name to sign, execute, certify, swear to, acknowledge, deliver, file, receive and record any and all documents that the Staff and Services Provider reasonably deems appropriate or necessary in connection with the execution and settlement of acquisitions of assets as directed by the Management Company and the Staff and Services Provider's powers and duties hereunder (which for the avoidance of doubt shall in no way involve the discretion and/or authority of the Management Company with respect to investments). Any such power shall be revocable in the sole discretion of the Management Company.

CONSIDERATION AND EXPENSES

Section 3.01 Consideration. As compensation for its performance of its obligations as Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement, the Staff and Services Provider will be entitled to receive the Staff and Services Fee payable thereto. The "Staff and Services Fee" shall be payable in accordance with Appendix A attached hereto, as such appendix may be amended by the Parties from time to time.

From time to time, the Management Company may enter into shared services agreements with certain management companies on similar terms to this Agreement. Promptly following the receipt of any fees pursuant to such shared services agreements, the Management Company shall pay 100% of such fees to the Staff and Services Provider.

Section 3.03 Costs and Expenses. Each party shall bear its own expenses; provided that the Management Company shall reimburse the Staff and Services Provider for any and all costs and expenses that may be borne properly by the Management Company.

Section 3.04 Deferral. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, if on any date the Management Company determines that it would not have sufficient funds available to it to make a payment of Indebtedness, it shall have the right to defer any all and amounts payable to the Staff and Services Provider pursuant to this Agreement, including any fees and expenses; provided that the Management Company shall promptly pay all such amounts on the first date thereafter that sufficient amounts exist to make payment thereof.

ARTICLE IV

REPRESENTATIONS AND COVENANTS

Section 4.01 Representations. Each of the Parties hereto represents and warrants that:

(a) It has full power and authority to execute and deliver, and to perform its obligations under, this Agreement;

(b) this Agreement has been duly authorized, executed and delivered by it and constitutes its valid and binding, obligation, enforceable in accordance with its terms except as the enforceability hereof may be subject to (i) bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization moratorium, receivership, conservatorship or other similar laws now or hereafter in effect relating to creditors' rights and (ii) general principles of equity (regardless of whether such enforcement is considered in a proceeding, in equity or at law);

(c) no consent, approval, authorization or order of or declaration or filing with any Governmental Authority is required for the execution of this Agreement or the performance by it of its duties hereunder, except such as have been duly made or obtained; and

(d) neither the execution and delivery of this Agreement nor the fulfillment of the terms hereof conflicts with or results in a breach or violation of any of the terms or provisions of, or constitutes a default under, (i) its constituting and organizational documents; or (ii) the terms of any material indenture, contract, lease, mortgage, deed of trust, note, agreement or other evidence of indebtedness or other material agreement, obligation, condition, covenant or instrument to which it is a party or by which it is bound.

ARTICLE V

COVENANTS

Section 5.01 Compliance; Advisory Restrictions.

(a) The Staff and Services Provider shall reasonably cooperate with the Management Company in connection with the Management Company's compliance with its policies and procedures relating to oversight of the Staff and Services Provider. Specifically, the Staff and Services Provider agrees that it will provide the Management Company with reasonable access to information relating to the performance of Staff and Services Provider's obligations under this Agreement.

(b) This Agreement is not intended to and shall not constitute an assignment, pledge or transfer of any portfolio management agreement or any part thereof. It is the express intention of the parties hereto that this Agreement and all services performed hereunder comply in all respects with all (a) applicable contractual provisions and restrictions contained in each portfolio management agreement, investment management agreement or similar agreement and each document contemplated thereby; and (b) Applicable Laws (collectively, the "Advisory Restrictions"). If any provision of this Agreement is determined to be in violation of any Advisory Restriction, then the services to be provided under this Agreement shall automatically be limited without action by any person or entity, reduced or modified to the extent necessary and appropriate to be enforceable to the maximum extent permitted by such Advisory Restriction.

Section 5.02 Records; Confidentiality.

The Staff and Services Provider shall maintain or cause to be maintained appropriate books of account and records relating to its services performed hereunder, and such books of account and records shall be accessible for inspection by representatives of the Management Company and its accountants and other agents at any time during normal business hours and upon not less than three (3) Business Days' prior notice; provided that the Staff and Services Provider shall not be obligated to provide access to any non-public information if it in good faith determines that the disclosure of such information would violate any applicable law, regulation or contractual arrangement.

The Staff and Services Provider shall follow its customary procedures to keep confidential any and all information obtained in connection with the services rendered hereunder that is either (a) of a type that would ordinarily be considered proprietary or confidential, such as information concerning the composition of assets, rates of return, credit quality, structure or ownership of securities, or (b) designated as confidential obtained in connection with the services rendered by the Staff and Services Provider hereunder and shall not disclose any such information to non-affiliated third parties, except (i) with the prior written consent of the Management Company, (ii) such information as a rating agency shall reasonably request in connection with its rating of notes issued by a CLO or supplying credit estimates on any obligation included in the Portfolio, (iii) in connection with establishing trading or investment accounts or otherwise in connection with effecting transactions on behalf of the Management Company or any CLO or Account for which the Management Company serves as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity, (iv) as required by (A) Applicable Law or (B) the rules or regulations of any self-regulating organization, body or official having jurisdiction over the Staff and Services Provider or any of its Affiliates, (v) to its professional advisors (including, without limitation, legal, tax and accounting advisors), (vi) such information as shall have been publicly disclosed other than in known violation of this Agreement or shall have been obtained by the Staff and Services Provider on a non-confidential basis, (vii) such information as is necessary or appropriate to disclose so that the Staff and Services Provider may perform its duties hereunder, (viii) as expressly permitted in the final offering memorandum or any definitive transaction documents relating to any CLO or Account, (ix) information relating to performance of the Portfolio as may be used by the Staff and Services Provider in the ordinary course of its business or (xx) such information as is routinely disclosed to the trustee, custodian or collateral administrator of any CLO or Account in connection with such trustee's, custodian's or collateral administrator's performance of its obligations under the transaction documents related to such CLO or Account. Notwithstanding the foregoing, it is agreed that the Staff and Services Provider may disclose without the consent of any Person (1) that it is serving as staff and services provider to the Management Company, (2) the nature, aggregate principal amount and overall performance of the Portfolio, (3) the amount of earnings on the Portfolio, (4) such other information about the Management Company, the Portfolio and the CLOs or Accounts as is customarily disclosed by staff and services providers to management vehicles similar to the Management Company, and (5) the United States federal income tax treatment and United States federal income tax structure of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and the related documents and all materials of any kind (including opinions and other tax analyses) that are provided to them relating to such United States federal income tax treatment and United States income tax structure. This authorization to disclose the U.S. tax treatment and tax structure does not permit disclosure of information identifying the Staff and Services Provider, the Management Vehicles, the CLOs or Accounts or any other party to the transactions contemplated by this Agreement (except to the extent such information is relevant to U.S. tax structure or tax treatment of such transactions).

EXCULPATION AND INDEMNIFICATION

Section 6.01 Standard of Care. Except as otherwise expressly provided herein, each Covered Person shall discharge its duties under this Agreement with the care, skill, prudence and diligence under the circumstances then prevailing that a prudent person acting in a like capacity and familiar with such matters would use in the conduct of an enterprise of a like character and with like aims. To the extent not inconsistent with the foregoing, each Covered Person shall follow its customary standards, policies and procedures in performing its duties hereunder. No Covered Person shall deal with the income or assets of the Management Company in such Covered Person's own interest or for its own account. Each Covered Person in its respective sole and absolute discretion may separately engage or invest in any other business ventures, including those that may be in competition with the Management Company, and the Management Company will not have any rights in or to such ventures or the income or profits derived therefrom

Section 6.02 Exculpation. To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person will be liable to the Management Company, any Member, or any shareholder, partner or member thereof, for (i) any acts or omissions by such Covered Person arising out of or in connection with the conduct of the business of the Management Company or its General Partner, or any investment made or held by the Management Company or its General Partner, unless such act or omission was made in bad faith or is determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, to be the result of gross negligence or to constitute fraud or willful misconduct (as interpreted under the laws of the State of Delaware) (each, a "Disabling Conduct") on the part of such Covered Person, (ii) any act or omission of any Investor, (iii) any mistake, gross negligence, misconduct or bad faith of any employee, broker, administrator or other agent or representative of such Covered Person, provided that such employee, broker, administrator or agent was selected, engaged or retained by or on behalf of such Covered Person with reasonable care, or (iv) any consequential (including loss of profit), indirect, special or punitive damages. To the extent that, at law or in equity, any Covered Person has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to the Management Company or any Member, no Covered Person acting under this Agreement shall be liable to the Management Company or to any such Member for its good-faith reliance on the provisions of this Agreement.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person shall have any personal liability to the Management Company or any Member solely by reason of any change in U.S. federal, state or local or foreign income tax laws, or in interpretations thereof, as they apply to the Management Company or the Members, whether the change occurs through legislative, judicial or administrative action.

Any Covered Person in its sole and absolute discretion may consult legal counsel, accountants or other advisers selected by it, and any act or omission taken, or made in good faith by such Person on behalf of the Management Company or in furtherance of the business of the Management Company in good-faith reliance on and in accordance with the advice of such counsel, accountants or other advisers shall be full justification for the act or omission, and to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, no Covered Person shall be liable to the Management Company or any Member in so acting or omitting to act if such counsel, accountants or other advisers were selected, engaged or retained with reasonable care.

Section 6.03 Indemnification by the Management Company. The Management Company shall and hereby does, to the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, indemnify and hold harmless any Covered Person from and against any and all claims, demands, liabilities, costs, expenses, damages, losses, suits, proceedings, judgments, assessments, actions and other liabilities, whether judicial, administrative, investigative or otherwise, of whatever nature, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated (“Claims”), that may accrue to or be incurred by any Covered Person, or in which any Covered Person may become involved, as a party or otherwise, or with which any Covered Person may be threatened, relating to or arising out of the investment or other activities of the Management Company or its General Partner, or activities undertaken in connection with the Management Company or its General Partner, or otherwise relating to or arising out of this Agreement, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromise or as fines or penalties, and attorneys’ fees and expenses incurred in connection with the preparation for or defense or disposition of any investigation, action, suit, arbitration or other proceeding (a “Proceeding”), whether civil or criminal (all of such Claims, amounts and expenses referred to therein are referred to collectively as “Damages”), except to the extent that it shall have been determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction, in a final nonappealable judgment, that such Damages arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of such Covered Person. The termination of any Proceeding by settlement, judgment, order, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that any Damages relating to such settlement, judgment, order, conviction or plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent or otherwise relating to such Proceeding arose primarily from Disabling Conduct of any Covered Persons.

Expenses (including attorneys’ fees) incurred by a Covered Person in defense or settlement of any Claim that may be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder may be advanced by the Management Company prior to the final disposition thereof upon receipt of a written undertaking by or on behalf of the Covered Person to repay the amount advanced to the extent that it shall be determined ultimately by a court of competent jurisdiction that the Covered Person is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder. The right of any Covered Persons to the indemnification provided herein shall be cumulative of, and in addition to, any and all rights to which the Covered Person may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law or equity and shall be extended to the Covered Person's successors, assigns and legal representatives. Any judgments against the Management Company and/or any Covered Persons in respect of which such Covered Person is entitled to indemnification shall first be satisfied from the assets of the Management Company, including Drawdowns, before such Covered Person is responsible therefor.

Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, the provisions of this Section 6.03 shall not be construed so as to provide for the indemnification of any Covered Person for any liability (including liability under Federal securities laws which, under certain circumstances, impose liability even on persons that act in good faith), to the extent (but only to the extent) that such indemnification would be in violation of applicable law, but shall be construed so as to effectuate the provisions of this Section 6.03 to the fullest extent permitted by law.

Section 6.04 Other Sources of Recovery etc. The indemnification rights set forth in Section 6.03 are in addition to, and shall not exclude, limit or otherwise adversely affect, any other indemnification or similar rights to which any Covered Person may be entitled. If and to the extent that other sources of recovery (including proceeds of any applicable policies of insurance or indemnification from any Person in which any of the CLOs or Accounts has an investment) are available to any Covered Person, such Covered Person shall use reasonable efforts to obtain recovery from such other sources before the Company shall be required to make any payment in respect of its indemnification obligations hereunder; provided that, if such other recovery is not available without delay, the Covered Person shall be entitled to such payment by the Management Company and the Management Company shall be entitled to reimbursement out of such other recovery when and if obtained.

Section 6.05 Rights of Heirs, Successors and Assigns. The indemnification rights provided by Section 6.03 shall inure to the benefit of the heirs, executors, administrators, successors and assigns of each Covered Person.

Section 6.06 Reliance. A Covered Person shall incur no liability to the Management Company or any Member in acting upon any signature or writing reasonably believed by him, her or it to be genuine, and may rely in good faith on a certificate signed by an officer of any Person in order to ascertain any fact with respect to such Person or within such Person's knowledge. Each Covered Person may act directly or through his, her or its agents or attorneys.

ARTICLE VII

TERMINATION

Section 7.01 Termination. Either Party may terminate this Agreement at any time upon at least thirty (30) days' written notice to the other.

ARTICLE VIII

MISCELLANEOUS

Section 8.01 Amendments. This Agreement may not be amended or modified except by an instrument in writing signed by each Party.

Section 8.02 Assignment and Delegation.

(a) Neither Party may assign, pledge, grant or otherwise encumber or transfer all or any part of its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement, in whole or in part, except (i) as provided in clauses (b) and (c) of this Section 8.02, without the prior written consent of the other Party and (ii) in accordance with Applicable Law.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in this Section 8.02, the Staff and Services Provider may not assign its rights or responsibilities under this Agreement unless (i) the Management Company consents in writing thereto and (ii) such assignment is made in accordance with Applicable Law.

(c) The Staff and Services Provider may, without satisfying any of the conditions of Section 8.02(a) other than clause (ii) thereof, (1) assign any of its rights or obligations under this Agreement to an Affiliate; provided that such Affiliate (i) has demonstrated ability, whether as an entity or by its principals and employees, to professionally and competently perform duties similar to those imposed upon the Staff and Services Provider pursuant to this Agreement and (ii) has the legal right and capacity to act as Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement, or (2) enter into (or have its parent enter into) any consolidation or amalgamation with, or merger with or into, or transfer of all or substantially all of its assets to, another entity; provided that, at the time of such consolidation, merger, amalgamation or transfer the resulting, surviving or transferee entity assumes all the obligations of the Staff and Services Provider under this Agreement generally (whether by operation of law or by contract) and the other entity is a continuation of the Staff and Services Provider in another corporate or similar form and has substantially the same staff; provided further that the Staff and Services Provider shall deliver ten (10) Business Days' prior notice to the Management Company of any assignment or combination made pursuant to this sentence. Upon the execution and delivery of any such assignment by the assignee, the Staff and Services Provider will be released from further obligations pursuant to this Agreement except to the extent expressly provided herein.

Section 8.03 Non-Recourse; Non-Petition.

(a) The Staff and Services Provider agrees that the payment of all amounts to which it is entitled pursuant to this Agreement shall be payable by the Management Company only to the extent of assets held in the Portfolio.

(b) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the liability of the Management Company to the Staff and Services Provider hereunder is limited in recourse to the Portfolio, and if the proceeds of the Portfolio following the liquidation thereof are insufficient to meet the obligations of the Management Company hereunder in full, the Management Company shall have no further liability in respect of any such outstanding obligations, and such obligations and all claims of the Staff and Services Provider or any other Person against the Management Company hereunder shall thereupon extinguish and not thereafter revive. The Staff and Services Provider accepts that the obligations of the Management Company hereunder are the corporate obligations of the Management Company and are not the obligations of any employee, member, officer, director or administrator of the Management Company and no action may be taken against any such Person in relation to the obligations of the Management Company hereunder.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, any Staff and Services Provider agrees not to institute against, or join any other Person in instituting against, the Management Company any bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, insolvency, moratorium or liquidation proceedings, or other proceedings under United States federal or state bankruptcy laws, or similar laws until at least one year and one day (or, if longer, the then applicable preference period plus one day) after the payment in full all amounts payable in respect of any Indebtedness incurred to finance any portion of the Portfolio; provided that nothing in this provision shall preclude, or be deemed to stop, the Staff and Services Provider from taking any action prior to the expiration of the aforementioned one year and one day period (or, if longer, the applicable preference period then in effect plus one day) in (i) any case or proceeding voluntarily filed or commenced by the Management Company, or (ii) any involuntary insolvency proceeding filed or commenced against the Management Company by a Person other than the Staff and Services Provider.

(d) The Management Company hereby acknowledges and agrees that the Staff and Services Provider's obligations hereunder shall be solely the corporate obligations of the Staff and Services Provider, and are not the obligations of any employee, member, officer, director or administrator of the Staff and Services Provider and no action may be taken against any such Person in relation to the obligations of the Staff and Services Provider hereunder.

(e) The provisions of this Section 8.03 shall survive termination of this Agreement for any reason whatsoever.

Section 8.04 Governing Law.

(a) This Agreement shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the State of Texas. The Parties unconditionally and irrevocably consent to the exclusive jurisdiction of the courts located in the State of Texas and waive any objection with respect thereto, for the purpose of any action, suit or proceeding arising out of or relating to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated hereby.

(b) The Parties irrevocably agree for the benefit of each other that the courts of the State of Texas and the United States District Court located in the Northern District of Texas in Dallas are to have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any disputes (whether contractual or non-contractual) which may arise out of or in connection with this Agreement and that accordingly any action arising out of or in connection therewith (together referred to as "Proceedings") may be brought in such courts. The Parties irrevocably submit to the jurisdiction of such courts and waive any objection which they may have now or hereafter to the laying of the venue of any Proceedings in any such court and any claim that any Proceedings have been brought in an inconvenient forum and further irrevocably agree that a judgment in any Proceedings brought in such courts shall be conclusive and binding upon the Parties and may be enforced in the courts of any other jurisdiction.

Section 8.05 WAIVER OF JURY TRIAL. EACH OF THE PARTIES HERETO HEREBY KNOWINGLY, VOLUNTARILY AND INTENTIONALLY WAIVES ANY RIGHTS IT MAY HAVE TO A TRIAL BY JURY IN RESPECT OF ANY LITIGATION BASED HEREON, OR ARISING OUT OF, UNDER, OR IN CONNECTION WITH, THIS AGREEMENT. EACH PARTY HERETO ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT IT HAS RECEIVED FULL AND SUFFICIENT CONSIDERATION FOR THIS PROVISION AND THAT THIS PROVISION IS A MATERIAL INDUCEMENT FOR ITS ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT.

Section 8.06 Severability. The provisions of this Agreement are independent of and severable from each other, and no provision shall be affected or rendered invalid or unenforceable by virtue of the fact that for any reason any other or others of them may be invalid or unenforceable in whole or in part. Upon such determination that any term or other provision is invalid, illegal or incapable of being enforced, the Parties shall negotiate in good faith to modify this Agreement so as to effect the original intent of the Parties.

Section 8.07 No Waiver. The performance of any condition or obligation imposed upon any Party may be waived only upon the written consent of the Parties. Such waiver shall be limited to the terms thereof and shall not constitute a waiver of any other condition or obligation of the other Party. Any failure by any Party to enforce any provision shall not constitute a waiver of that or any other provision or this Agreement.

Section 8.08 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts by facsimile or other written or electronic form of communication, each of which shall be deemed to be an original as against any Party whose signature appears thereon, and all of which shall together constitute one and the same instrument. This Agreement shall become binding when one or more counterparts hereof, individually or taken together, shall bear the signatures of all of the Parties reflected hereon as the signatories.

Section 8.09 Third Party Beneficiaries. This Agreement is for the sole benefit of the Parties hereto and their permitted assigns and nothing herein express or implied shall give or be construed to give to any Person, other than the Parties hereto and such permitted assigns, any legal or equitable rights hereunder. For avoidance of doubt, this Agreement is not for the benefit or and is not enforceable by any Shared Employee, CLO or Account or any investor (directly or indirectly) in the Management Company.

Section 8.10 No Partnership or Joint Venture. Nothing set forth in this Agreement shall constitute, or be construed to create, an employment relationship, a partnership or a joint venture between the Parties. Except as expressly provided herein or in any other written agreement between the Parties, no Party has any authority, express or implied, to bind or to incur liabilities on behalf of, or in the name of, any other Party.

Section 8.11 Independent Contractor. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, the Staff and Services Provider shall be deemed to be an independent contractor and, except as expressly provided or authorized herein, shall have no authority to act for or represent the Management Company or any CLO or Account in which the Management Company acts as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity in any manner or otherwise be deemed an agent of the Management Company or any CLO or Account in which the Management Company acts as portfolio manager or investment manager or in a similar capacity.

Section 8.12 Written Disclosure Statement. The Management Company acknowledges receipt of Part 2 of the Staff and Services Provider's Form ADV, as required by Rule 204-3 under the Advisers Act, on or before the date of execution of this Agreement.

Section 8.13 Headings. The descriptive headings contained in this Agreement are for convenience of reference only and shall not affect in any way the meaning or interpretation of this Agreement.

Section 8.14 Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement of the Parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes all prior agreements and undertakings, both written and oral, between the Parties with respect to such subject matter.

Section 8.15 Notices. Any notice or demand to any Party to be given, made or served for any purposes under this Agreement shall be given, made or served by sending the same by overnight mail or email transmission or by delivering it by hand as follows:

(a) If to the Management Company:

Acis Capital Management, L.P.
300 Crescent Court
Suite 700
Dallas, TX 75201

(b) If to the Staff and Services Provider:

Highland Capital Management, L.P.

Appendix A

The Management Company shall pay to the Staff and Services Provider a Staff and Services Fee for the services for the CLOs or Accounts in an amount equal to the aggregate management fees that would be received by the Management Company for such CLOs or Accounts if such management fees were calculated in exact conformity with the calculation of management fees for such CLOs or Accounts, except that the management fee rates applied in such calculation were replaced by the fee rate set forth in the following table. Such fees shall be payable promptly (or at such time as is otherwise agreed by the parties) following the Management Company's receipt of management fees for such CLOs or Accounts, it being understood that none of the foregoing shall prohibit the Management Company from waiving or entering into side letters with respect to management fees for such CLOs or Accounts; provided that any such waived or reduced amounts shall not be recognized for purposes of calculating the fees payable by the Management Company hereunder. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the parties may agree to a different allocation from that set forth during any period in order to reflect the then current fair market value of the Services rendered.

SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT

This Settlement Agreement, including all attachments, (the “Agreement”) is entered into as of September 9, 2020, by and among (i) Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”); (ii) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (“Acis LP”); (iii) Acis Capital Management GP LLC (“Acis GP” and together with Acis LP, “Acis”); (iv) Joshua N. Terry, individually and for the benefit of his individual retirement accounts, and (v) Jennifer G. Terry, individually and for the benefit of her individual retirement accounts and as trustee of the Terry Family 401-K Plan

Each of the foregoing are sometimes referred to herein collectively as the “Parties” and individually as a “Party.”

RECITALS

WHEREAS, on August 3, 2020, the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “Bankruptcy Court”) entered an Order Directing Mediation [Docket No. 912] pursuant to which HCMLP, Acis Capital Management L.P., and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC (together, the “Mediation Parties”), among others, were directed to mediate their disputes before Retired Judge Allan Gropper and Sylvia Mayer (together, the “Mediators”); and

WHEREAS, during the mediation, the Mediators made an economic proposal to resolve the Claims (the “Mediators’ Economic Proposal”), and each of the Mediation Parties accepted the Mediators’ Economic Proposal; and

WHEREAS, the Parties have negotiated and executed that certain General Release, dated as of even date herewith (the “Release”),¹ which, among other things, releases the Acis Released Claims and the HCMLP Released Claims; and

WHEREAS, the Parties desire to enter into this Agreement which incorporates, formalizes, and finalizes the Mediators’ Economic Proposal and which, when combined with the Release, will fully and finally resolve the Claims; and

WHEREAS, this Agreement and the Release attached hereto will be presented to the Bankruptcy Court for approval pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019 (“Rule 9019”);

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the above recitals, the covenants, conditions, and promises made herein, and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties agree as follows:

1. Settlement of Claims. In full and complete satisfaction of the Claims:

(a) The proof of claim filed by Acis in the HCMLP Bankruptcy Case on December 31, 2019 [Claim No. 23] will be allowed in the amount of $23,000,000 as a general unsecured claim;

¹ All capitalized terms used but not defined herein have the meanings given to them in the Release.

(b) On the effective date of a plan of reorganization and confirmed by the Bankruptcy Court, HCMLP will pay in cash to:

(i) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry $425,000, plus 10% simple interest (calculated on the basis of a 360-day year from and including June 30, 2016), in full and complete satisfaction of the proof of claim filed in the HCMLP Bankruptcy Case by Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry on April 8, 2020 [Claim No. 156];

(ii) Acis LP $97,000, which amount represents the legal fees incurred by Acis LP with respect to NWCC, LLC v. Highland CLO Management, LLC, et al., Index No. 654195-2018 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 2018), in full and complete satisfaction of the proof of claim filed by Acis LP in the HCMLP Bankruptcy Case on April 8, 2020 [Claim No. 159];

(iii) Joshua N. Terry $355,000 in full and complete satisfaction of the legal fees assessed against Highland CLO Funding, Ltd., in Highland CLO Funding v. Joshua Terry, [No Case Number], pending in the Royal Court of the Island of Guernsey;

(c) On the effective date of a plan of reorganization proposed by HCMLP and confirmed by the Bankruptcy Court, if HCMLP receives written advice of nationally recognized external counsel that it is legally permissible consistent with HCMLP's contractual and legal duties to transfer all of its direct and indirect right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. to Acis or its nominee and that doing so would not reasonably subject HCMLP to liability, HCMLP shall transfer all of its right, title and interest in Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd., whether its ownership is direct or indirect, to Acis or its nominee, subject at all times to Acis's right to unilaterally reject the transfer in its sole and absolute discretion;

(d) Within five (5) days of the Agreement Effective Date, HCMLP shall:

(i) Move to withdraw, with prejudice, its proof of claim [Claim No. 27] filed in In re Acis Capital Management, L.P., Case No. 18-30264-sgj11 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2018), and its proof of claim [Claim No. 13] filed in In re Acis Capital Management GP, LLC, Case No. 18-30265-sgj11 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2018);

(ii) Move to withdraw, with prejudice, Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Application for Administrative Expense Claim Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 503(b) filed in the Acis Bankruptcy Case [Docket No. 772];

(e) At all times after the execution of this Agreement:

(i) Only to the extent reasonably necessary to maintain the status quo in the Acis Appeals, the Parties shall cooperate in seeking to abate or otherwise stay the Acis Appeals vis-à-vis the Parties pending the occurrence of the Agreement Effective Date; and

(ii) HCMLP shall cooperate in good faith to promptly return to Acis all property of Acis that is in HCMLP's possession, custody, or control, including but not limited to e-mail communications.

2. Releases. The Release is (a) attached to this Agreement as Appendix A; (b) an integral component of the Mediator’s Economic Proposal and (c) incorporated by reference into this Agreement as if fully set forth herein.

3. Agreement Subject to Bankruptcy Court Approval.

(a) The effectiveness of this Agreement and the Parties’ obligations hereunder are conditioned in all respects on the approval of this Agreement and the Release by the Bankruptcy Court. The Parties agree to use reasonable efforts to have this Agreement and the Release expeditiously approved by the Bankruptcy Court by cooperating in the preparation and prosecution of a mutually agreeable motion and proposed order. The “Agreement Effective Date” will be the date of an order entered by the Bankruptcy Court approving this Agreement pursuant to a motion filed under Rule 9019.

(b) The Parties acknowledge and agree that the terms and conditions of this Agreement are conditioned, in all respects, on the execution of the Release by the Parties and the approval of the Release and this Agreement by the Bankruptcy Court. If either the Release or this Settlement Agreement are not approved by the Bankruptcy Court for any reason, this Agreement and the Release will be immediately null and void and of no further force and effect.

4. Representations and Warranties. Subject in all respects to Section 3, each Party represents and warrants to the other Party that such Party is fully authorized to enter into and perform the terms of this Agreement and that, as of the Agreement Effective Date, this Agreement and the Release will be fully binding upon each Party in accordance with their terms.

5. No Admission of Liability. The Parties acknowledge that there is a bona fide dispute with respect to the Claims. Nothing in this Agreement will imply, an admission of liability, fault or wrongdoing by HCMLP, the Acis Parties, or any other person, and the execution of this Agreement does not constitute an admission of liability, fault, or wrongdoing on the part of HCMLP, the Acis Parties, or any other person.

6. Successors-in-Interest. This Agreement shall be binding upon and shall inure to the benefit of each of the Parties and their representatives, successors, and assigns, including but not limited to any Chapter 7 trustee appointed for HCMLP.

7. Notice. Each notice and other communication hereunder will be in writing and will be sent by email and delivered or mailed by registered mail, receipt requested, and will be deemed to have been given on the date of its delivery, if delivered, and on the fifth full business day following the date of the mailing, if mailed to each of the Parties thereto at the following respective addresses or such other address as may be specified in any notice delivered or mailed as set forth below:

8. Advice of Counsel. Each of the Parties represents that such Party has: (a) been adequately represented by independent legal counsel of its own choice, throughout all of the negotiations that preceded the execution of this Agreement; (b) executed this Agreement upon the advice of such counsel; (c) read this Agreement, and understands and assents to all the terms and conditions contained herein without any reservations; and (d) had the opportunity to have this Agreement and all the terms and conditions contained herein explained by independent counsel, who has answered any and all questions asked of such counsel, or which could have been asked of such counsel, including, but not limited to, with regard to the meaning and effect of any of the provisions of this Agreement.

9. Entire Agreement. This Agreement contains the entire agreement and understanding concerning the subject matter of this Agreement, and supersedes and replaces all prior negotiations and agreements, written or oral and executed or unexecuted, concerning such subject matter. Each of the Parties acknowledges that no other Party, nor any agent of or attorney for any such Party, has made any promise, representation or warranty, express or implied, written or oral, not otherwise contained in this Agreement to induce any Party to execute this Agreement. The Parties further acknowledge that they are not executing this Agreement in reliance on any promise, representation or warranty not contained in this Agreement, and that any such reliance would be unreasonable. This Agreement will not be waived or modified except by an agreement in writing signed by each Party or duly authorized representative of each Party.

10. No Party Deemed Drafter. The Parties acknowledge that the terms of this Agreement are contractual and are the result of arms'-length negotiations between the Parties and their chosen counsel. Each Party and its counsel cooperated in the drafting and preparation of this Agreement. In any construction to be made of this Agreement, the Agreement will not be construed against any Party.

11. Future Cooperation. The Parties agree to cooperate and execute such further documentation as is reasonably necessary to effectuate the intent of this Agreement.

12. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts with the same force and effect as if executed in one complete document. Each Party's signature hereto will signify acceptance of, and agreement to, the terms and provisions contained in this Agreement. Photographic, electronic, and facsimile copies of signed counterparts may be used in lieu of the originals of this Agreement for any purpose.

13. Governing Law; Venue; Attorneys' Fees and Costs. The Parties agree that this Agreement will be governed by and will be construed according to the laws of the State of Texas without regard to conflict-of-law principles. Each of the Parties hereby submits to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court during the pendency of the HCMLP Bankruptcy Case and thereafter to the exclusive jurisdiction of the state and federal courts located in the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, with respect to any disputes arising from or out of this Agreement. In any action to enforce this Agreement, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover its reasonable and necessary attorneys' fees and costs (including experts).

GENERAL RELEASE

This GENERAL RELEASE (this “Release”), effective on the Effective Date (as defined below), is entered into by and among (i) Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”), (ii) Joshua N. Terry, individually and for the benefit of his individual retirement accounts, Jennifer G. Terry, individually and for the benefit of her individual retirement accounts and as trustee of the Terry Family 401-K Plan (collectively, the “Terry Parties”), (iii) Acis Capital Management L.P., and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC (collectively, “Acis”) (the Terry Parties and Acis, collectively, the “Acis Parties”), and (iii) those HCMLP Specified Parties (as defined below) who execute this Release (together, the “Parties”).

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the Parties have asserted or may assert claims that are defined in Section 1 below as the “Acis Released Claims” and the “HCMLP Released Claims” (collectively, the “Claims”); and

WHEREAS, on August 3, 2020, the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “Court”) entered an Order Directing Mediation [Docket No. 912] pursuant to which HCMLP, Acis Capital Management L.P., and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC (together, the “Mediation Parties”), among others, were directed to mediate their disputes before Retired Judge Allan Gropper and Sylvia Mayer (together, the “Mediators”); and

WHEREAS, during the mediation, the Mediators made an economic proposal to resolve the Claims (the “Mediators’ Economic Proposal”), and each of the Mediation Parties accepted the Mediators’ Economic Proposal; and

WHEREAS, the Parties desire to enter into a general release of all Claims which, when combined with the Mediators’ Economic Proposal, will fully and finally resolve the Claims; and

WHEREAS, except in Section 1.c below, this is a general release, meaning the Parties intend hereby to release any and all Claims which the Parties can release, and the Parties are unaware of any Claims between them which are not being released herein; and

WHEREAS, this Release will be appended or otherwise incorporated into a written settlement agreement (the “Settlement Agreement”) that will include the terms of the Mediators’ Economic Proposal and will be presented to the Court for approval pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9019 (“Rule 9019”), and is only effective upon the Effective Date.

NOW, THEREFORE, after good-faith, arms-length negotiations, and in consideration of the promises made herein and in the Mediators’ Economic Proposal, the Parties agree to release each other pursuant to and in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth below.

AGREEMENT

1. Releases.

a. Upon the Effective Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, and except as set forth in Section 1d below, each of the Acis Parties on behalf of himself, herself, or itself and each of their respective current or former advisors, trustees, directors, officers, managers, members, partners, employees, beneficiaries, shareholders, agents, participants, subsidiaries, parents, affiliates, successors, designees, and assigns hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, remises, and exonerates, and covenants never to sue, (A)(i) HCMLP; (ii) Strand; (iii) any entity of which greater than fifty percent of the voting ownership is held directly or indirectly by HCMLP and any entity otherwise controlled by HCMLP; and (iv) any entity managed by either HCMLP or a direct or indirect subsidiary of HCMLP (the foregoing (A)(i) through (A)(iv) the “HCMLP Entities”) and (B) with respect to each such HCMLP Entity, such HCMLP Entity’s respective current advisors, trustees, directors, officers, managers, members, partners, current or former employees, beneficiaries, shareholders, agents, participants, subsidiaries, parents, affiliates, successors, designees, and assigns, except as expressly set forth below (the “HCMLP Parties,” and together with the HCMLP Entities, the “HCMLP Released Parties”), for and from any and all claims, debts, liabilities, demands, obligations, promises, acts, agreements, liens, losses, costs and expenses (including, without limitation, attorney’s fees and related costs), damages, injuries, suits, actions, and causes of action of whatever kind or nature, whether known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, matured or unmatured, liquidated or unliquidated, contingent or fixed, at law or in equity, statutory or otherwise, including, without limitation, any claims, defenses, and affirmative defenses, whether known or unknown, including, without limitation, those which were or could have been asserted in, in connection with, or with respect to the Filed Cases, including the proofs of claim [Claim No. 23; 156; 159] filed by the Acis Parties in the HCMLP Bankruptcy Case and any objections or potential objections to the Plan or the confirmation thereof (collectively, the “Acis Released Claims”). This release is intended to be general. Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the term HCMLP Released Parties shall not include NexPoint Advisors (and any of its subsidiaries), the Charitable Donor Advised Fund, L.P. (and any of its subsidiaries, including CLO Holdco, Ltd.), Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. (and any of its subsidiaries), NexBank, SSB (and any of its subsidiaries), James Dondero, Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (or any trustee acting for the trust), Dugaboy Investment Trust (or any trustee acting for the trust), Grant Scott, David Simek, William Scott, Heather Bestwick, Mark Okada and his family trusts (and the trustees for such trusts in their representative capacities), McKool Smith, PC, Gary Cruciani, Lackey Hershman, LLP, Jamie Welton, or Paul Lackey.

b. Upon the Effective Date, and to the maximum extent permitted by law, each HCMLP Released Party hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely releases, relieves, acquits, remises, and exonerates, and covenants never to sue the (A) Acis Parties, (B) Acis CLO 2013-1Ltd., Acis CLO 2014-3 Ltd., Acis CLO 2014-4 Ltd., Acis CLO 2014-5 Ltd., Acis CLO 2015-6 Ltd. (collectively, the “Acis CLOs”), and (C) with respect to each such Acis Party and Acis CLO, to the extent applicable, such Acis Party and Acis CLO, their respective current advisors, trustees, directors, officers, managers, members, partners, current or former employees, beneficiaries, shareholders, agents, participants, subsidiaries, parents, affiliates, successors, designees, and assigns (the foregoing (A), (B), and (C), the “Acis Released Parties”), for and from any and all claims, debts, liabilities, demands, obligations, promises, acts, agreements, liens, losses, costs and expenses (including, without limitation, attorney’s fees and related costs), damages, injuries, suits, actions, and causes of action of whatever kind or nature, whether known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, matured or unmatured, liquidated or unliquidated, contingent or fixed, at law or in equity, statutory or otherwise, including, without limitation, any claims, defenses, and affirmative defenses, whether known or unknown, which were or could have been asserted in, in connection with, or with respect to the Filed Cases (collectively, the “HCMLP Released Claims”). This release is intended to be general. Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, this Section 1.b will not affect any right to payment under any notes, debt, equity, or other security issued by any Acis CLO and held by any HCMLP Released Party.

c. The HCMLP Released Parties shall also hereby forever, finally, fully, unconditionally, and completely release, relieve, acquit, remise, and exonerate, and covenant never to sue (A) U.S. Bank National Association, Moody’s Investor Services, Inc., and Brigade Capital Management, Inc. and (B) with respect to each such DAF Suit Defendant, to the extent applicable, such DAF Suit Defendant, their respective current advisors, trustees, directors, officers, managers, members, partners, current or former employees, beneficiaries, shareholders, agents, participants, subsidiaries, parents, affiliates, successors, designees, and assigns (the foregoing (A) and (B), the “DAF Suit Defendants”), for and from any and all claims, debts, liabilities, demands, obligations, promises, acts, agreements, liens, losses, costs and expenses (including, without limitation, attorney’s fees and related costs), damages, injuries, suits, actions, and causes of action of whatever kind or nature, whether known or unknown, suspected or unsuspected, matured or unmatured, liquidated or unliquidated, contingent or fixed, at law or in equity, statutory or otherwise, which were or could have been asserted in, in connection with, or with respect to the DAF Lawsuits. This release is not intended to be general.

d. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, if (A) any HCMLP Specified Party has not executed this Release on or before the Effective Date or (B) any HCMLP Released Party, including any HCMLP Specified Party, (i) sues, attempts to sue, or threatens or works with or assists any entity or person to sue, attempt to sue, or threaten any Acis Released Party on or in connection with any HCMLP Released Claim or any other claim or cause of action arising prior to the date of this Release, (ii) takes any action that, in HCMLP’s reasonable judgment, impairs or harms the value of HCMLP, its estate, and its assets; or (iii) in HCMLP’s reasonable judgment fails to use commercially reasonable efforts to support confirmation of the Plan and/or the monetization of HCMLP’s assets at their maximum value, then (a) such HCMLP Released Party (and only such HCMLP Released Party) will be deemed to have waived (x) the release and all other protections set forth in Section 1a hereof and will have no further rights, duties, or protections under this Release and (y) any releases set forth in the Plan, (b) the Acis Released Parties, as applicable, may, in their discretion, assert any and all Acis Released Claims against such HCMLP Released Party (and only such HCMLP Released Party), and (c) any statutes of limitation or other similar defenses are tolled against such HCMLP Released Party (and only such HCMLP Released Party) from the execution of this Release until ninety (90) days after the Acis Released Parties receive actual written notice of any violation of this Section 1d. For the avoidance of doubt, by signing this Release each of the HCMLP Specified Parties is acknowledging and agreeing, without limitation, to the terms of this Section 1.d and the tolling agreement set forth herein.

2. Withdrawal/Dismissal of Filed Cases. Within five days of the Effective Date, each Acis Released Party and HCMLP Released Party, to the extent applicable, will coordinate to cause the Filed Cases, including any appeals of any Filed Cases, to be dismissed with prejudice as to any Acis Released Party or HCMLP Released Party; provided, however, that there is no obligation to dismiss or withdraw the HCMLP Bankruptcy Case. For the avoidance of doubt, and consistent with this Section, (a) if HCMLP receives written advice of nationally recognized external counsel that it is legally permissible consistent with HCMLP's contractual and legal duties to direct Neutra, Ltd. to move to dismiss all of their appeals arising from the Acis Bankruptcy and that doing so would not reasonably subject HCMLP to liability, HCMLP shall direct Neutra, Ltd. to move to dismiss all of their appeals arising from the Acis Bankruptcy and (b) Acis shall move to dismiss with prejudice its claims against HCMLP asserted in any adversary proceeding in the Acis Bankruptcy Case. To the extent reasonably necessary to maintain the status quo in the Filed Cases, including any appeals thereof, prior to the Effective Date, each Acis Released Party and HCMLP Released Party shall reasonably cooperate in seeking to abate or otherwise stay the Filed Cases vis-à-vis the Parties.

3. Representations and Warranties.

a. Each of the Acis Parties represents and warrants to each of the HCMLP Released Parties and each of the HCMLP Specified Parties who have signed this Release that (a) he, she or it has full authority to release the Acis Released Claims and has not sold, transferred, or assigned any Acis Released Claim to any other person or entity, and that (b) to the best of his, her or its current knowledge, no person or entity other than the Acis Parties has been, is, or will be authorized to bring, pursue, or enforce any Acis Released Claim on behalf of, for the benefit of, or in the name of (whether directly or derivatively) any of the Acis Parties.

b. Each of HCMLP and each HCMLP Specified Party who has signed this Release represents and warrants to each of the Acis Parties that he, she or it has not sold, transferred, pledged, assigned or hypothecated any HCMLP Released Claim to any other person or entity.

c. Each HCMLP Specified Party and each of HCMLP and Strand represents and warrants to each of the Acis Parties that he, she, or it has full authority to release any HCMLP Released Claims that such HCMLP Specified Party, HCMLP, or Strand personally has against any Acis Party.

d. HCMLP represents and warrants that it is releasing the HCMLP Released Claims on behalf of the HCMLP Entities to the maximum extent permitted by any contractual or other legal rights HCMLP possesses. To the extent any of the HCMLP Entities dispute HCMLP's right to release the HCMLP Released Claims on behalf of any of the HCMLP Entities, HCMLP shall use commercially reasonable efforts to support the Acis Parties' position, if any, that such claims were released herein. For the avoidance of doubt, HCMLP will have no obligations to assist the Acis Parties under this Section if HCMLP has been advised by external counsel that such assistance could subject HCMLP to liability to any third party or if such assistance would require HCMLP to expend material amounts of time or money. HCMLP shall not argue in any forum that the non-signatory status of any of the HCMLP Entities to this Release shall in any way affect the enforceability of this Release vis-à-vis any of the HCMLP Entities. The Parties agree that all of the HCMLP Entities are intended third-party beneficiaries of this Release.

Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Acis Parties acknowledge and agree that their sole and exclusive remedy for the breach of the foregoing Sections 3b, 3c, and 3d will be that set forth in Section 1.d hereof.

4. Additional Definitions.

5. Miscellaneous.

a. For the avoidance of doubt, all rights, duties, and obligations of any HCMLP Released Party or Acis Released Party created by this Release or the Settlement Agreement shall survive its execution.

b. This Release, together with the Settlement Agreement and any exhibits thereto, contains the entire agreement between the Parties as to its subject matter and supersedes and replaces any and all prior agreements and undertakings between the Parties relating thereto.

c. This Release may not be modified other than by a signed writing executed by the Parties.

d. The effectiveness of this Release is subject in all respects to entry of an order of the Court approving this Release and the Settlement Agreement and authorizing HCMLP’s execution thereof.

e. This Release may be executed in counterparts (including facsimile and electronic transmission counterparts), each of which will be deemed an original but all of which together constitute one and the same instrument, and shall be effective against a Party upon the Effective Date.

f. This Release will be exclusively governed by and construed and enforced in accordance with the laws of the State of Texas, without regard to its conflicts of law principles, and all claims relating to or arising out of this Release, or the breach thereof, whether sounding in contract, tort, or otherwise, will likewise be governed by the laws of the State of Texas, excluding Texas’s conflicts of law principles. The Court will retain exclusive jurisdiction over all disputes relating to this Release. In any action to enforce this Release, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover its reasonable and necessary attorneys’ fees and costs (including experts).
