MAIN CASE
In re Highland Capital Management, L.P., Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 (Bankr. N.D. Tex.)
Date	Motion or Claim	Movant / Objector	Summary of Motion or Claim	Status
7/30/20	First Omnibus Objection to Certain (A) Duplicate Claims; (B) Overstated Claims; (C) Late-Filed Claims; (D) Satisfied Claims; (E) No Liability Claims; and (F) Insufficient-Documentation Claims [DI[1] 906] (solely with respect to Proof of Claim No. 146 Filed by HCRE Partners, LLC)	Claimant: HCRE Objector: Highland	HCRE asserted Highland had no interest in SE Multifamily due to mutual mistake and lack of consideration. After engaging in substantial discovery and litigating Highland's motion to disqualify HCRE's counsel due to conflict of interest, HCRE filed a motion to withdraw its proof of claim [DI 3443]. Highland objected [DI 3487]. The Court held a hearing on September 12, 2022 and denied withdrawal of the claim after Dondero would not agree to refrain from filing the same claim in a different forum [DI 3525].	CONCLUDED: Trial was held November 1, 2022. On April 28, 2023, the Court entered its order sustaining Highland's objection to HCRE's claim, and disallowing the claim [DI 3767].
9/23/20	Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with (a) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP LLC (Claim No. 23), (b) Joshua N. Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (Claim No. 156), and (c) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (Claim No. 159) and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [DI 1087]	Movant: Highland Objectors: Dondero	Acis filed a claim for at least $75 million. Acis's claim resulted from an involuntary bankruptcy initiated when Dondero refused to satisfy an arbitration award and instead fraudulently transferred assets to leave Acis judgment proof. Highland settled for an allowed Class 8 claim of $23 million and approximately $1 million in cash. Dondero objected to the settlement [DI 1121] alleging it was unreasonable and constituted vote buying. The Acis Settlement Motion was approved and Dondero's objection was overruled [DI 1302].	CONCLUDED: Dondero appealed [DI 1347]. On March 18, 2022, this Court dismissed the appeal as constitutionally moot [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:20-cv-03390-X, DI 25].
11/18/20	Motion of the Debtor Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. §§ 105(a) and 363(b) for Authority to Enter into Sub-Servicer Agreements [DI 1424]	Movant: Highland Objectors: Dondero	Highland filed a motion seeking to retain a sub-servicer to assist in its reorganization consistent with the proposed plan. Dondero alleged the sub-servicer was not needed, was too expensive, and would not be subject to Bankruptcy Court jurisdiction [DI 1447].	CONCLUDED: Dondero withdrew his objection [DI 1460] after forcing Highland to incur costs responding [DI 1459]
11/19/20	James Dondero's Motion for Entry of an Order Requiring Notice and Hearing for Future Estate Transactions Occurring Outside of the Ordinary Course [DI 1439]	Movant: Dondero	Dondero alleged Highland sold assets in violation of 11 U.S.C. § 363 and without providing Dondero a chance to bid. Dondero requested an emergency hearing [DI 1443]. Dondero filed this motion despite having agreed to the Protocols governing such sales.	CONCLUDED: Dondero withdrew this motion [DI 1622] after Highland and the Committee were forced to incur costs responding and preparing for trial [DI 1546, 1551].
12/8/20	Motion for Order Imposing Temporary Restrictions on Debtor's Ability, as Portfolio Manager, to Initiate Sales by Non-Debtor CLO Vehicles [DI 1522, 1528]	Movants: Advisors[2] Funds	Movants sought to prevent Highland from causing the CLOs to sell assets without Movants' consent. Movants provided no support for this position, which directly contradicted the terms of the CLO Agreements. The Motion was filed notwithstanding the Protocols governing such sales. Movants requested an emergency hearing [DI 1523].	CONCLUDED: The motion was denied [DI 1605] and was characterized as "frivolous."
12/23/20	Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with HarbourVest (Claim Nos. 143, 147, 150, 153, 154) and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [DI 1625]	Movant: Highland Objectors: Dondero Trusts[3] CLOH	HarbourVest asserted claims in excess of $300 million in connection with an investment in a fund indirectly managed by Highland for, among other things, fraud and fraudulent inducement, concealment, and misrepresentation. Highland settled for an $80 million allowed Class 8 and 9 claim and the transfer of certain assets to a Highland subsidiary. Dondero and the Trusts alleged the settlement was unreasonable; was a windfall to HarbourVest; and vote buying [DI 1697, 1706]. CLOH argued the settlement could not be effectuated under the operative documents [DI 1707]. After analyzing Highland's response, CLOH publicly withdrew its objection. The settlement was approved and the remaining objections were overruled [DI 1788].	APPEAL: The Trusts appealed [DI 1870]. This Court affirmed and dismissed Dugaboy's appeal for lack of standing [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-00261-L, DI 38]. Dugaboy appealed [DI 40]. Oral argument held May 1, 2023. On August 22, 2023, the Fifth Circuit affirmed this Court's order [Case No. 22-10960, Document 00516866778 P]. CLOH and DAF separately filed a complaint in this Court alleging, among other things, the settlement was a breach of duty and a RICO violation. See infra.

[DI 1748].	CONCLUDED: The motion was denied [DI 1960].
1/20/21	James Dondero's Objection to Debtor's Proposed Assumption of Executory Contracts and Cure Amounts Proposed in Connection Therewith [DI 1784]	Objector: Dondero	Dondero objected to Highland's proposed assumption of two limited partnership agreements [DI 1719].	CONCLUDED: Dondero withdrew his objection [DI 1876] after forcing Highland to incur costs responding.
1/22/20	Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization [DI 1472]	Objectors: Dondero [DI 1661] Trusts [DI 1667] Senior Employees [DI 1669] Advisors & Funds [DI 1670] HCRE [DI 1673] CLOH [DI 1675] NexBank Entities [DI 1676]	All objections to the Plan were consensually resolved prior to the confirmation hearing except for the objections of the Dondero Entities and the U.S. Trustee. The U.S. Trustee did not press its objection at confirmation. All objections were overruled and the Confirmation Order was entered. The Confirmation Order specifically found that Dondero threatened to "burn the place down" if his case resolution plan was not accepted.	APPEAL: Dondero, the Trusts, the Advisors, and the Funds appealed [DI 1957, 1966, 1970, 1972]. On August 19, 2022, the Fifth Circuit affirmed the Confirmation Order in all respects except with respect to the exculpation. [Case No. 21-10449, DI 00516439341]. On September 2, 2022, the Funds petitioned for rehearing requesting the Fifth Circuit limit the Gatekeeper. On September 7, 2022, the Fifth Circuit granted rehearing but did not grant the requested relief. [DI 516462923]. Highland moved to conform the Plan on September 9, 2022. [DI 3503]. The Dondero Entities objected [DI 3539, 3540, 3551] requesting the Bankruptcy Court limit the Gatekeeper. On February 27, 2023, the Court issued its order granting motion to conform [DI 3672]. The Advisors' appeal of the order was certified for direct appeal to the Fifth Circuit. [Case No. 23-10534]. Oral argument held February 8, 2023; appeal sub judice. Highland and the Dondero Entities filed petitions for writ of cert. to SCOTUS on issues of (a) standard of care and (b) exculpation provision in Plan. Case No. 22-631 (Jan. 5, 2023); Case No. 22-669 (Jan. 16, 2023). Solicitor General was invited to file a brief in Supreme Court cases expressing the views of the United States, and brief was filed on October 19, 2023.
1/24/21	Application for Allowance of Administrative Expense Claim [DI 1826]; [rel. Adv. Proc. No. 21-3010-sgj]	Movants: Advisors	The Advisors sought an administrative expense claim for approximately $14 million alleging they overpaid Highland under certain Shared Services Agreements ("SSAs") and Payroll Reimbursement Agreements ("PRAs"). Highland brought a breach of contract claim against the Advisors for failure to pay amounts owed under the SSAs and PRAs [AP No. 21-3010, DI 1]. The claims were consolidated under AP 21-3010 since both arose from the SSAs and PRAs. After a two-day trial, the Court granted Highland's breach of contract claim, denied the Advisors' admin claim. [AP No. 21-3010, DI 124], and entered judgment [AP No. 21-3010, DI 126].	APPEAL: The Advisors' appeal [AP. No. 21-3010, DI 128] was docketed to Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:22-cv-02170. Oral argument was held January 30, 2023, and appeal is sub judice.

Date	Motion or Claim	Movant / Objector	Summary of Motion or Claim	Appeal
3/18/21	James Dondero, Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., NexPoint Advisors, L.P., The Dugaboy Investment Trust, The Get Good Trust, and NexPoint Real Estate Partners, LLC, f/k/a HCRE Partners, LLC, a Delaware Limited Liability Company's Motion to Recuse Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 455 [DI 2060]	Movants: Dondero Advisors Trusts HCRE	In March 2021, the Dondero Entities filed a motion to recuse Judge Jernigan [DI 2060, 2061, 2062] (the "Original Recusal Motion"). Judge Jernigan denied the motion finding, among other things, it was untimely and failed to show bias. [DI 2083] (the "Recusal Order"). The Movants appealed [DI 2149, 2169, 2203]. In February 2022, this Court entered its Memorandum Opinion and Order [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-00879-K, DI 39], finding the Recusal Order was a non-appealable interlocutory order. Notwithstanding this Court's Order, in July 2022, Movants filed a supplemental motion to recuse in the Bankruptcy Court, [DI 3470] (the "Supplemental Recusal Motion"), requesting entry of a final, appealable recusal order. On September 1, 2022, the Bankruptcy Court denied the Supplemental Recusal Motion finding it "procedurally improper," [DI 3479], but invited Movants to file (i) a "simple motion" seeking an amended order removing the "reservation of rights" and/or (ii) a new motion to recuse in front of the Bankruptcy Court. On September 27, 2022, Movants filed a renewed motion to recuse [DI 3541] (the "Renewed Recusal Motion"), and then on October 17, 2022, filed an amended renewed motion to recuse, [DI 3570]. On March 6, 2023, the Bankruptcy Court entered its order denying the amended renewed motion to recuse [DI 3676]. Movants filed a petition for writ of mandamus on April 4, 2023 to the District Court [Case No. 21-cv-879, Docket no. 41]. The next day, the District Court entered an order directing the clerk to unfile the mandamus petition [Docket no. 42].	CONCLUDED: Petitioners immediately filed their Petition for Writ of Mandamus [Case 3:23-cv-00726-S, Docket No. 1]. On April 30, 2024, following argument on the Advisors' appeal of the admin claim, (see supra), this Court informed counsel off the record that it would be issuing an order denying the Mandamus Petition.
4/14/21	Debtor's Motion to Disqualify Wick Phillips Gould & Martin, LLP as Counsel to HCRE Partners, LLC and for Related Relief [DI 2196]	Movant: Highland Objector: HCRE [DI 2278]	After Wick Philips refused to withdraw, Highland moved to disqualify them from serving as counsel to HCRE in connection with the prosecution of HCRE's Proof of Claim on the ground that Wick Phillips jointly represented Highland and HCRE (and others) in the negotiation, drafting and formation of the contracts at issue and therefore was conflicted.	CONCLUDED: In December 2021, the Bankruptcy Court granted the motion disqualifying Wick Phillips from serving as counsel to HCRE [DI 3106]
4/15/21	Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlement with UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG London Branch and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [DI 2199]	Movant: Highland	UBS) asserted claims against Highland in excess of $1 billion arising from two Highland-managed funds' breach of contract. The settlement resolved over ten years of litigation but had to be renegotiated after Highland discovered Dondero-controlled Highland had caused the funds to fraudulently transfer over $300 million in assets to Sentinel Reinsurance Ltd. ("Sentinel"), a Cayman-based entity controlled by Dondero and Ellington, in 2017 to thwart UBS's ability to collect on its judgment. Only Dondero [DI 2295] and Dugaboy [DI 2268, 2293] objected. The UBS settlement was approved in May 2021 [DI 2389].	CONCLUDED: The Dondero Entities appealed [DI 2398]. In September 2022, this Court affirmed the Bankruptcy Court's settlement order, [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-01295-X, DI 34], finding, in pertinent part, that in their' "zeal to bamboozle this Court," they omitted critical facts. Id. at 12. In October 2022, the Dondero Entities appealed this Court's order to the Fifth Circuit [USCA Case No. 22-10983]. On August 21, 2023, the Fifth Circuit affirmed this Court's order [id. at Document 00516864561].

4/23/21	Motion for Modification of Order Authorizing Appointment of James P. Seery, Jr. Due to Lack of Subject Matter Jurisdiction [DI 2242]	Movants: DAF CLOH	Over 9 months after its entry and post-confirmation of the Plan, DAF and CLOH filed a motion to modify the July Order, alleging the Bankruptcy Court lacked subject matter jurisdiction. Highland opposed the motion [DI 2311] arguing it was a collateral attack barred by res judicata, among other things. The Committee joined the opposition [DI 2315]. The Motion was denied on June 25, 2021 [DI 2506]. DAF and CLOH appealed, [DI 2513], but moved to stay the appeal pending the Fifth Circuit's determination of the appeal of the Confirmation Order [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-01585-S, DI 10]. This Court granted the stay motion [DI 21] and, in connection with the Partially Opposed Motion for Extension of Time to File Appellants'' Opening Brief, directed the appellants to file their opening brief within 14 days of resolution of the Confirmation Order [DI 19], which they failed to do.	APPEAL: In September 2022, after the Fifth Circuit affirmed the Confirmation Order, Highland moved for summary affirmance [DI 23]. Appellants opposed [DI 24], and filed a motion to reopen the appeal [DI 25], which Highland opposed [DI 27]. Because they missed the deadline to file their opening brief, Appellants also filed a belated motion for an extension of time [DI 29], claiming "excusable neglect." In November 2022, this Court ordered the appeal remain abated pending resolution of the DAF parties' Fifth Circuit appeal of the order holding them in contempt [USCA Case No. 22-11036, DI 34], on the ground that it was a "related case."
4/27/21	Debtor's Motion for an Order Requiring the Violators to Show Cause Why They Should Not Be Held in Civil Contempt for Violating Two Court Orders [DI 2247]	Movant: Highland	Highland filed a motion by order to show cause why Dondero, CLOH, DAF, and their counsel should not be held in contempt of court for violating the January and July Orders. The Bankruptcy Court entered an order to show cause [DI 2255] and set an in-person hearing for June 8, 2021. On August 4, 2021, following briefing and an evidentiary hearing, the Court held Dondero, CLOH, DAF and others (the "Contemnors") in contempt of court [DI 2660].	APPEAL: In August 2021, the Contemnors appealed [DI 2712, 2713, 2758]. In September 2022, this Court affirmed the Bankruptcy Courts order in relevant part [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-01974-X, DI 49]. In October 2022, the Contemnors appealed to the Fifth Circuit [USCA Case No. 22-11036]. Oral argument held September 5, 2023, appeal sub judice.
4/29/21	Motion to Compel Compliance with Bankruptcy Rule 2015.3 [DI 2256]	Movants: Trusts	The Trusts filed a motion seeking to compel Highland to file certain reports under Bankruptcy Rule 2015.3 [DI 2256]. Highland [DI 2341] and the Committee [DI 2343] opposed the motion. Following a hearing in June 2021 [DI 2442], the motion was adjourned and later denied as moot after Highland's Plan became effective. [DI 2812].	APPEALS: In August 2022, following the Trusts' appeal, [DI 2840], this Court dismissed the appeal as constitutionally moot [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-02268-S, DI 21]. The Dondero Entities appealed to the Fifth Circuit. [USCA Case No. 22-10831]. In February 22023, the Fifth Circuit issued its order and judgment affirming the District Court [USCA Case No. 22-10831, Docket Nos. 46, 47].
6/25/21	Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order (i) Authorizing the (a) Creation of an Indemnity Subtrust and (b) entry into an Indemnity Trust Agreement and (ii) Granting Related Relief [DI 2491]	Movant: Highland	Highland filed a motion seeking authority to create an indemnity trust to secure the Reorganized Highland, Claimant Trust, and Litigation Trust's indemnification obligations [DI 2491]. Dondero, HCMFA, NPA, and Dugaboy objected [DI 2563] arguing it was an improper plan modification. A hearing was held in July 2021 and Highland's motion was granted [DI 2599].	APPEAL: After the Dondero Entities appealed [DI 2673], this Court affirmed the Bankruptcy Court's order [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-01895-D, DI 45]. The Dondero Entities appealed. [USCA Case No. 22-10189]. In January 2023, the Fifth Circuit affirmed this Court's order [USCA Case No. 22-10189, Document No. 90-1].

7/8/21	Motion of the Debtor for Entry of an Order (I) Authorizing the Sale of Certain Property and (II) Granting Related Relief [DI 2535]	Movant: Highland Objector: NPA	Highland filed a motion seeking authority to sell certain real property [DI 2535]. NPA objected [DI 2621] arguing Highland created a sale process designed to exclude NPA without a sound business justification.	CONCLUDED: A hearing was held on August 4, 2021 and Highland's motion was granted over NPA's objection [DI 2687].
7/8/21	Motion of the Debtor for Entry of an Order (I) Authorizing the Sale and/or Forfeiture of Certain Limited Partnership Interests and Other Rights and (II) Granting Related Relief [DI 2537]	Movant: Highland Objector: NPA	Highland filed a motion seeking authorization to sell, among other things, certain limited partnership interests in PetroCap Partners III, L.P. [DI 2537]. NPA objected, seeking to inject itself into the bidding process. [DI 2626].	CONCLUDED: In August 2021, the Bankruptcy Court overruled NPA's objection and granted Highland's motion [DI 2699].

NPA objected [DI 2977, 3015], sought permission to employ a fee examiner to review the fee applications, and sought expansive discovery. Highland objected. [DI 3465]. After Dugaboy amended its Valuation Motion in September 2022 [DI 3533, 3535], Highland filed its reply in further opposition [DI 3614].	STATUS: During a hearing held in November 2022, the Court questioned whether the relief could only be obtained through an adversary proceeding and requested additional briefing [DI 3625]. After reviewing the supplemental briefs, the Court ruled an adversary proceeding was required [DI 3645]. On May 10, 2023, Dugaboy and Hunter Mountain filed a complaint seeking declaratory relief as to the value of the Claimant Trust assets and their interest therein [AP No. 23-03038-sgj, Docket No. 1]. On November 22, 2023, Highland filed a motion to dismiss the valuation complaint [id. at Docket No. 13], and oral argument is scheduled for February 14, 2024.
2/6/23	Motion for Leave to File Proceeding [DI 3662]	Movants: Dugaboy and Hunter Mountain Investment Trust Objector: Highland	Following the ruling on the Valuation Motion, Dugaboy and Hunter Mountain Investment Trust filed a motion for leave to file a complaint against Highland seeking information about the estate's current assets, results of asset sales, and amounts distributed to creditors.	STATUS: On May 10, 2023, the parties filed a stipulation withdrawing the motion [DI 3662].
3/28/23	Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding [DI 3699]	Movant: Hunter Mountain Investment Trust Objector: Highland, Highland Claimant Trust, James P. Seery, Jr., Farallon, Stonehill	Hunter Mountain seeks leave of the Bankruptcy Court to file a complaint against defendants Seery, Stonehill, and Farallon alleging both direct and derivative claims on behalf of Highland of insider trading and breach of fiduciary duty. The proposed complaint alleges that Seery engaged in a quid pro quo with Stonehill and Farallon by which Seery put Stonehill and Farallon on the Oversight Board in exchange for a "rubber stamp" of Seery's compensation as CEO of Highland.	APPEALS Trial was held June 8, 2023, and on August 25, 2023, the Bankruptcy Court issued its order denying the motion for leave [DI 3904]. HMIT appealed, and briefing is in process [Case No. 3:23-cv-02071].

Seery, Jr.'s Phone [DI 3802]	Movant: Dugaboy	Dugaboy seeks to preserve the ESI contained on Seery's iPhone and to permit the recoveryof his text messages. The basis for this motion was information learned through discovery in a separate action brought by Scott Ellington, Highland's former general counsel, against a former Highland employee, in which Ellington subpoenad Highland's independent directors and bankruptcy counsel, as well as other parties to the bankruptcy case, requiring a motion for a protective order. See infra.	The timing of Highland's objection must be fixed.

Dondero and Strand moved to sue Highland's counsel, PSZJ, alleging for the first time that PSZJ had represented them since 2019 and violated its fiduciary duties by simultaneously representing Highland in matters adverse to Dondero and Strand. PSZJ opposed the motion and threatened to seek sanctions if the motion was not withdrawn.	CONCLUDED Dondero and Strand withdrew the motion [DI 4015].
1/1/24	Motion for Leave to File Delaware Complaint [DI 4000]	Movant: Hunter Mountain Investment Trust	HMIT moved for leave to petition to remove Seery as Claimant Trustee based on HMIT's alleged status as a Claimant Trust "beneficiary." HMIT opposed Highland's request to stay the motion pending final resolution of Highland's motion to dismiss the valuation complaint in AP 23-03038-sgj, which will resolve HMIT's status as a "Claimant Trust Beneficiary."	STATUS The Bankruptcy Court granted the stay, holding that the motion is stayed until at least the court rules on the motion to dismiss the valuation complaint [DI 4033].

Date	Motion / Complaint	Plaintiff	Summary of Proceeding	Status
12/7/20	Plaintiff Highland Capital Management, L.P.'s Emergency Motion for a Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction against Mr. James Dondero [DI 2]	Movant: Highland	In December 2020, after Dondero interfered with the management of the estate and threatened certain employees, Highland commenced an adversary proceeding and sought [DI 2] and obtained a TRO [DI 10] and a Preliminary Injunction [DI 59] against Dondero prohibiting him from interfering with Highland's estate and enjoining him from engaging in other wrongful conduct.	CONCLUDED: Dondero appealed to this Court [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-01590-N] (which declined to hear the interlocutory appeal), and filed a petition for writ of mandamus from the Fifth Circuit. Ultimately, a consensual injunction was entered [DI 182] and the writ of mandamus was withdrawn.
1/7/21	Plaintiff's Motion for an Order Requiring Mr. James Dondero to Show Cause Why He Should Not Be Held in Civil Contempt for Violating the TRO [DI 48]	Movant: Highland	In late December 2020, Highland discovered Dondero had violated the TRO by, among other things, again interfering with the management of the estate and conspiring with Highland's then-general counsel and assistant general counsel to coordinate offensive litigation against Highland. An extensive evidentiary hearing was held in March 2021, and on June 7, 2021, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order finding Dondero in contempt of court [DI 190].	APPEALS: Dondero appealed [DI 212]. In August 2022, this Court affirmed in substantial part [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-01590-N, DI 42]. Dondero appealed to the Fifth Circuit [USCA Case Number 22-10889]. These letters reiterated the arguments made by these parties in their December motion that the Bankruptcy Court denied as "frivolous." Highland sought to prevent the Dondero Entities from improperly interfering in the management of the estate. In January 2021, the parties agreed to entry of a TRO [DI 20] and later a final disposition of the matter pursuant to Bankruptcy Rule 9019 [DI 2589].	CONCLUDED: In September 2021, the Court entered its order approving the settlement [DI 2829].

2/17/21	Debtor's Emergency Motion for a Mandatory Injunction Requiring the Advisors to Adopt and Implement a Plan for the Transition of Services by February 28, 2021 [DI 2]	Plaintiff: Highland	Highland's Plan called for a substantial reduction in its work force. As a result, Highland terminated certain shared services agreements and attempted to negotiate a transition plan with the Advisors to enable them to continue providing services to their funds without interruption, but the Advisors would not say "yes." Concerned the Advisors would be unable to service its clients, Highland commenced this action to force the Advisors to adopt a transition plan.	CONCLUDED: During the hearing, the Advisors announced for the first time they had cobbled together their own transition plan. An order was entered in February 2021 [DI 25] making factual findings and ruling the injunction was moot.

1/22/21	Complaint for (i) Breach of Contract and (ii) Turnover of Property of the Debtor's Estate [DI 1]	Plaintiff: Highland	After Dondero and four affiliates (HCMFA, NPA, HCMS, HCRE) refused to satisfy over $60 million on certain promissory notes, Highland filed collection actions against each Dondero Entity. See AP Nos. 21-03003-sgj; 21-03004-sgj; 21-03005-sgj; 21-03006-sgj; 21-03007-sgj. Three months after the complaint was filed, the Dondero Entities moved to withdraw the reference. Following a hearing in May 2021, the Bankruptcy Court recommended the Bankruptcy Court adjudicate pre-trial matters, including consideration (but not determination) of dispositive motions. This Court adopted the R&Rs and the actions were later consolidated. Dondero amended his answer to assert, among other things, that he and his sister, Nancy Dondero, entered an undisclosed oral agreement claiming the notes would be forgiven upon fulfillment of certain conditions subsequent (the "Alleged Agreement Defense"). All Dondero Entities (except, initially, HCMFA) adopted the Alleged Agreement Defense. Dondero, NPA, and HCRE also asserted Highland "negligently" caused their defaults under the term notes by not effectuating the payments on their behalf. In support of this "negligence" defense, the Dondero Entities moved to extend expert discovery to litigate the legal issue of whether Highland had an affirmative "duty" to effectuate payments on their behalf. The Bankruptcy Court denied the motion, finding, in pertinent part, that expert testimony on legal issues was improper. The Dondero Entities sought improperly sought reconsideration in this Court. HCMFA contended the HCMFA notes were "void" or "unenforceable" due to "mutual mistake," and specifically, that Waterhouse, HCMFA's treasurer and Highland's former CFO, lacked authority to execute the notes and signed them by "mistake" ("HCMFA's Mistake Defense"). HCMFA subsequently sought leave to assert that Waterhouse did not sign the HCMFA notes at all. After a hearing on HCMFA's motion for leave, the Bankruptcy Court denied the motion on the ground that the proposed additional defense (that Waterhouse did not sign the notes) was futile. HCMFA again improperly sought reconsideration in this Court. In December 2021, Highland moved for Partial Summary Judgment. Following a hearing in April 2022, the Bankruptcy Court issued its Report & Recommendation (the "R&R"), recommending Partial Summary Judgment in favor of Highland. In the R&R, the Bankruptcy Court found no reasonable trier of fact could find the Alleged Agreement existed, the Alleged Agreement Defense did not pass the "straight-face test," and "there was a complete lack of evidence" supporting the Alleged Agreement Defense. The Bankruptcy Court also found no reasonable trier of fact could believe HCMFA's Mistake Defense ("the 'Mutual Mistake' defense—like the 'oral agreement' defense asserted by the other Note Maker Defendants—is farfetched, to say the least, especially in the context of a multi-billion company with perhaps the world's most iconic and well-known public accounting firm serving as its auditors."). In August 2022, Highland filed a notice of attorneys' fees and backup documentation in support of the proposed judgments. The Dondero Entities objected. Highland responded in September 2022. The Dondero Entities then filed an unauthorized reply in support of their objection. Highland moved to strike on the grounds it was not permitted under Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9033 or the parties' Stipulation. Highland then moved to supplement its backup documentation to include two invoices inadvertently omitted. The Dondero Entities filed a meritless objection which was overruled. In November 2022, the Bankruptcy Court issued a supplemental R&R overruling the Dondero Entities' objections to the Proposed Judgment. The Dondero Entities objected and Highland responded.	APPEALS: On July 6, 2 023, the District Court entered an order adopting the Bankruptcy Court's R&R, granting partial summary judgment on breach of the notes and entering judgment [Case No. 3:21-cv-00881-X, DI 128]. The Court also entered orders finding moot (a) Highland's motion to Strike Defendants' Unauthorized Reply and (b) NPA/HCMS/HCRE's objection to the Bankruptcy Court's order denying the motion to extend expert discovery [DI 135]. Defendants appealed this Court's orders to the Fifth Circuit [USCA No. 23-10911], and briefing is in process.

HCMFA NOTES LITIGATION II Highland Capital Management, L.P. v. Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P., Adv. Proc. No. 21-03082-sgj (Bankr. N.D. Tex.)
Date	Motion / Complaint	Plaintiff	Summary of Proceeding	Status
11/9/21	Complaint for (i) Breach of Contract and (ii) Turnover of Property of the Debtor's Estate [DI 1]	Plaintiff: Highland	In November 2021, Highland commenced another collection action against HCMFA for breach of two additional promissory notes (the "Pre-2019 Notes") that were subject to a prepetition standstill agreement that Dondero entered into with himself. This action was consolidated with the main litigations. HCMFA adopted the Alleged Agreement Defense asserted in the main litigation. During discovery, Dondero was forced to change story his story yet again, stating he, not his sister, entered into the Alleged Agreement. Highland moved for summary judgment. After a hearing, the Bankruptcy Court issued its Report & Recommendation recommending summary judgment be entered against HCMFA, finding, "[t]he Alleged Oral Agreement Defense appears to be a 'cut-and-paste' of the same alleged 'oral agreement' defense that was ultimately asserted in the Five Earlier-Filed Note Actions by four of the five Note Maker Defendants (all but HCMFA)" and the defense "morphed" as the five earlier-filed Main Note Litigation progressed, "The only summary judgment evidence submitted by HCMFA in support of its Alleged Oral Agreement Defense is the conclusory, self-serving, unsubstantiated declarations of Dondero and his sister regarding the existence of the Alleged Oral Agreements." HCMFA objected to the R&R in this Court and to Highland's proposed judgment in Bankruptcy Court. The Bankruptcy Court issued its supplemental R&R recommending this Court overrule HCMFA"s objections to the proposed judgment. HCMFA filed the same objection to the supplemental R&R in this Court, and Highland responded.	APPEALS: On July 6, 2 023, the District Court entered an order adopting the Bankruptcy Court's R&R, granting summary judgment on breach of the notes and entering judgment [Case No. 3:21-cv-00881-X, DI 133]. Defendant appealed this Court's orders to the Fifth Circuit [USCA No. 23-10911], and briefing is in process.

UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG London Branch vs. Highland Capital Management L.P., Adv. Pro. No. 21-03020-sgj (Bankr. N.D. Tex.)
Date	Motion / Complaint	Plaintiff	Summary of Proceeding	Status
3/31/21	Original Complaint for Injunctive Relief [DI 3]	Plaintiff: UBS	In early 2021, Highland discovered certain former employees under Dondero's direction caused certain entities to transfer $300 million in face amount of cash and securities to Sentinel to avoid the judgment in favor of UBS. UBS then sought to enjoin Highland from allowing funds under its management to make transfers to Sentinel, its affiliates, or transferees pending decision as to whether assets were fraudulently transferred. On June 8, 2022, Highland filed motion to withdraw its answer and consent to judgment [DI 169]	CONCLUDED: On August 23, 2022, the Court granted Highland's motion to withdraw the answer, and a permanent injunction was issued [DI 185]. At the hearing, the Court said it would assess the evidence to determine whether a criminal referral was warranted.

Date	Motion / Complaint	Plaintiff	Summary of Proceeding	Status
4/12/21	Original Complaint	Plaintiffs: DAF CLOH	The Dondero Entities filed their original complaint in April 2021 in this Court alleging Highland and Seery violated SEC rules, breached fiduciary duties, engaged in self-dealing, and violated RICO in connection with its settlement with HarbourVest [Dist. Ct. Case No. 21-cv-00842-B]. The Dondero Entities brought this complaint even though CLOH previously withdrew its objection to the HarbourVest settlement. Highland believes the complaint is frivolous and represents a collateral attack on the order approving the HarbourVest settlement. On May 19, 2021, Highland filed a motion to enforce the reference and have the case referred to the Bankruptcy Court [DI 22]. Highland also filed a motion to dismiss the complaint (the "Original MTD") [DI 26]. After the motions were briefed, the Dondero Entities moved to stay the proceeding pending resolution of the confirmation appeal [DI 55] (the "First Stay Motion"). Highland opposed the First Stay Motion. In September 2021, the Court entered an order enforcing the reference [DI 64], and this matter was sent to the Bankruptcy Court under Adv. Proc. No. 21-3067. On November 18, 2021, five days prior to the hearing on the Original MTD, the Dondero Entities filed an amended motion to stay the proceedings pending resolution of the appeal of the confirmation order [DI 69] (the "Second Stay Motion"), in which they reiterated the arguments in the First Stay Motion, and attached a motion to withdraw the reference [id. at Exhibit A], which reiterated the same arguments in the Dondero Entities' opposition to Highland's motion to enforce the order of reference. In March 2022, the Court dismissed the action on collateral and judicial estoppel grounds [DI 100]. The Dondero Entities appealed and that appeal was consolidated with their appeal of the order denying their motion for a stay [3:21-cv-03129-B]. On September 2, 2022 [DI 28], this Court reversed the Bankruptcy Court's finding that Plaintiffs' claims were barred by collateral estoppel. On judicial estoppel, this Court affirmed the Bankruptcy Court's finding that the first two elements were satisfied but remanded to determine if CLOH's inconsistent position was "inadvertent." Highland filed its renewed Motion to Dismiss on October 14, 2022 [DI 122, 123]. On November 18, 2022, Plaintiffs filed a renewed motion to withdraw the reference [DI 128].	APPEALS: A hearing on both motions was held on January 25, 2023. On February 6, 2023, the Bankruptcy Court issued its R&R, recommending denial of Plaintiffs' renewed motion to withdraw the reference [DI 158], and, on February 21, 2023, the Dondero Entities objected to the R&R [Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:22-cv-02802-S, DI 3]. The R&R is pending final decision of the District Court. On June 25, 2023, the Bankruptcy Court issued its order granting Highland's renewed motion to dismiss [AP No. 21-03067-sgj, DI 167]. On June 27, 2023, DAF/CLOH appealed the order dismissing the action [DI 168]. The appeal is docketed to Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:23-cv-01503-G. Briefing is complete, appeal sub judice.

Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-01710-N, DI 1]. DAF's allegations duplicated allegations Dugaboy made in proofs of claim filed in the Bankruptcy Court and in its complaint filed in this Court. DAF never served the Complaint but filed a motion to stay (which was also not served) pending appeal of the confirmation order [DI 6]. In September 2021, the Court stayed the proceeding [DI 7]. Highland then voluntarily appeared, and moved for reconsideration of the stay order [DI 8] and to dismiss [DI 11]. In May 2022, the Court lifted the stay and referred the case to the Bankruptcy Court. Highland filed its amended motion to dismiss in May 2022 [DI 19, 20] arguing the complaint asserted time-barred administrative expense claims. In September 2022, following a hearing, the Court dismissed the complaint as time-barred [DI 42, 43].	CONCLUDED: DAF filed a notice of appeal on October 5, 2022 [Case No. 3:22-cv-02280-S] but on February 21, 2023 (the day its opening brief was due) notified counsel it no longer intended to pursue it. A joint stipulation dismissing the appeal with prejudice was filed on February 22, 2023 [DI 9].

Case No. 3:21-cv-01169-N, DI 1]. PCMG is owned and controlled by Dondero, and held less than a 0.05% interest in the investment vehicle. Highland believed the complaint was frivolous. PCMG never served the Complaint but filed a motion to stay (which was also not served) pending appeal of the confirmation order [DI 6]. In September 2021, the Court stayed the proceeding [DI 7]. Highland then voluntarily appeared, and moved for reconsideration of the stay order [DI 8] and to dismiss [DI 11]. In May 2022, the Court lifted the stay and referred the case to the Bankruptcy Court. Highland filed its amended motion to dismiss on June 16, 2022 [DI 20, 21] arguing the complaint asserted time-barred administrative expense claims. PCMG withdrew the complaint in July 2022 after forcing Highland to incur substantial expense litigating the matter.	CONCLUDED: An amended Stipulation of Dismissal of Adversary Proceeding (with prejudice) [DI 27] was filed on August 1, 2022.

OTHER DONDERO-RELATED LITIGATION
Date	Parties	Summary of Litigation	Status
2009	UBS, Highland, Multiple Highland Entities	In 2008, two funds managed by Highland breached their contractual obligations to UBS by failing to meet a margin call. UBS filed suit in New York Supreme Court in 2009. After a decade of litigation, UBS secured a $1 billion plus judgment against the two funds and sought to hold Highland, among others, liable as an alter ego. Judgment, Index No. 650097/2009, Docket No. 646 (N.Y. Sup. Feb. 10, 2020). UBS and the Dondero Entities continue to litigate. UBS filed a turnover motion in February 2023 seeking to hold Dondero and Scott Ellington, his long-time general counsel, liable for the full $1 billion plus judgment. Special Turnover Petition, Index No. UNASSIGNED, Docket No. 142 (N.Y. Sup. Feb. 8, 2023).	This matter is currently being litigated.
2018	Joshua Terry, Acis, Highland, Neutra, Ltd., HCLOF	After Joshua Terry secured an $8 million arbitration award against Acis, Dondero caused the stripping of Acis's assets to make it judgment proof. Terry subsequently filed an involuntary bankruptcy petition. Case No. 18-30264-sgj11 (Bankr. N.D. Tex.). Through Acis's confirmed plan of reorganization, Terry became Acis's sole owner. The Acis bankruptcy was marked by extremely acrimonious litigation and multiple adverse credibility findings regarding Dondero and other Highland employees (acting at Dondero's direction). In the Acis bankruptcy, the Bankruptcy Court issued: Bench Ruling and Memorandum of Law in Support of: (A) Final Approval of Disclosure Statement; and (B) Confirmation of Chapter 11 Trustee's Third Amended Joint Plan [DI 827] Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law, and Order Granting Final Approval of Disclosure Statement and Confirming the Third Amended Joint Plan for Acis Capital Management LP and Acis Capital Management GP LLC, as Modified [DI 829] Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law, and Order Granting Final Approval of Disclosure Statement and Confirming the Third Amended Joint Plan for Acis Capital Management LP and Acis Capital Management GP LLC, as Modified [DI 830] Highland and its proxies appealed to this Court and the Fifth Circuit but their appeals were denied: Civ. Case No. 3:19-cv-00291-D; USCA Case No. 19-10847. As soon as the injunction in Acis's plan expired, Dondero (through NSOF) immediately filed suit against Acis and Terry, among others, in the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York (Civ. Case No. 1:21-cv-04384). The court dismissed Dondero's federal claims and NSOF appealed to the Second Circuit (USCA Case No. 22-1912). The appeal is pending. Stymied in federal court, Dondero, again through NSOF, filed a substantially similar action against Acis and Terry, among others, in New York state court. Index No. 653654/2022 (N.Y. Sup. 2022). Motions to dismiss NSOF's state law action are sub judice. Immediately after the expiration of the injunction in Acis' plan, Dondero—through NSOF—filed suit against Acis, Terry, and others in the Southern District of New York alleging they violated their fiduciary duties to NSOF as an investor in a CLO managed by Acis (and which had been managed by Dondero prior to the Acis bankruptcy). Civ. Case No. 21-cv-04384-GHW (S.D.N.Y. May 14, 2021). Dondero's litigation caused Acis to halt distributions from its managed CLOs thus depriving HCMLP of approximately $20 million in proceeds. The Southern District of New York dismissed Dondero's litigation. NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust v. Acis Cap. Mgmt., L.P., 620 F.Supp. 3d 36 (S.D.N.Y. 2022). Undeterred, Dondero appealed to the Second Circuit (Case No. 22-1912 (2d Cir.)), re-filed his breach of fiduciary duty claims in New York state court (Index No. 653654/2022 (N.Y. Sup. 2022)), asserted duplicative counterclaims in another pending litigation involving Acis (Case No. 23-cv-11059-GHW (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 24, 2021)), and filed a lawsuit against HCLOF in the Royal Court of Guernsey alleging HCLOF unfairly prejudiced CLOH by settling with Acis, rather than suing it (No. 106-25786898 (Royal Court of Guernsey))	CONCLUDED: On July 9, 2021, the Fifth Circuit affirmed the bankruptcy court's order confirming the Chapter 11 plan, concluding the appeal of plan injunction was moot [USCA Case No. 19-10847, Doc. No. 00515931634]. In a lengthy opinion, the Royal Court of Guernsey criticized CLOH (and Murphy, its co-director), dismissed the Guernsey action, and required CLOH to pay HCLOF's legal fees and costs. The Dondero Entities asserted claims against HCLOF in New York that largely duplicated the claims in the Guernsey action. Case No. 1:21-cv-11059-GHW, D.I. 77 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 30, 2023). The New York action was dismissed with prejudice.

STATE COURT ACTIONS
James Dondero, Petitioner v. Alvarez Marsal, et al.,* Cause No. DC-21-09534 (95th Civil District Court, Tex. July 22, 2021)
Date	Motion	Movant / Objector	Summary of Motion	Status
7/22/21	Verified Petition to Take Deposition Before Suit and Seek Documents	Movant: Dondero	Dondero sought pre-suit discovery from Farallon, a purchaser of certain claims in the Bankruptcy Case, and Alvarez. Dondero alleged Farallon breached certain U.S. Trustee requirements when it purchased claims. Dondero also alleged Farallon purchased those claims because of its relationship to Seery and Seery was leveraging his relationship with Farallon to ensure he remained in control of Highland. Farallon and Alvarez removed the action to the Bankruptcy Court [DI 1]. Dondero moved to remand [DI 4]. On January 4, 2022, the Court remanded the case [DI 22, 23].	CONCLUDED: The state court dismissed the matter as without merit
Ellington v. Daugherty,* Cause No. DC-22-00304 (101st Jud. Dist. Tex. 2022)
Date	Motion	Plaintiff / Defendant	Summary of Motion	Status
1/11/22	Plaintiff's Original Petition, Application for Temporary Restraining Order, Temporary Injunction, and Permanent Injunction	Plaintiff: Scott Ellington Defendant: Patrick Daugherty	Scott Ellington, Highland's former general counsel, sued Daugherty, a former Highland employee, for stalking; Ellington subpoenaed Highland's independent directors, Highland's bankruptcy counsel, and other parties to the bankruptcy case requiring a motion for a protective order in New Jersey; Ellington moved to hold an independent director in contempt, in violation of the gatekeeper order; Ellington subpoenaed deposition of another independent director. Farallon and Alvarez removed the action to the Bankruptcy Court [DI 1]. Dondero moved to remand [DI 4]. On January 4, 2022, the Court remanded the case [DI 22, 23].	Dondero's long-time legal counsel was using the pretext of a "stalking" lawsuit to seek to discovery from Highland that they have improperly used in the Highland bankruptcy. Highland asked plaintiff if he would agree not to use discovery in connection with the stalking action to bring claims against Highland, but he refused. Highland then filed a contempt motion against plaintiff for violating the gatekeeper order. During trial, the parties settled, and the contempt motion with dismissed as moot. [DI 3991].

1/20/23	Petitioner Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Verified Rule 202 Petition	Movant: Hunter Mountain Investment Trust	Hunter Mountain Investment Trust sought pre-suit discovery from Farallon and Stonehill as purchasers of certain claims. Hunter Mountain's petition is substantially similar to the petition for pre-suit discovery filed by Dondero in Texas state court in July 2021.	CONCLUDED: The state court dismissed the matter as without merit.
Date	Motion	Movant / Plaintiff	Summary of Motion	Status
5/5/23	Verified Complaint for Specific Performance to inspect and Copy Books and Records	Plaintiff: Highland	Highland filed complaint seeking specific performance of the SE Multifamily operating agreement, First Amended and Restated Limited Liability Company Agreement, dated March 15, 2019, effective as of August 23, 2018, to allow Highland to inspect books and records after defendants SE Multifamily Holdings LLC and HCRE refused to make available for inspection and copying SE Multifamily's books and records as is required by Agreement.	Highland was forced to bring an action for specific performance when Dondero failed to comply with his unambiguous contractual obligation to provide Highland with access to SEM's books and records.

STOCKHOLDERS

Section 1.1. Annual Meetings. An annual meeting of stockholders shall be held for the election of directors at such date, time and place, either within or without the State of Delaware, as may be designated by resolution of the Board of Directors from time to time. Any other proper business may be transacted at the annual meeting.

Section 1.2. Special Meetings. Special meetings of stockholders for any purpose or purposes may be called at any time by the Board of Directors, or by a committee of the Board of Directors which has been duly designated by the Board of Directors and whose powers and authority, as expressly provided in a resolution of the Board of Directors, include the power to call such meetings, but such special meetings may not be called by any other person or persons.

Section 1.3. Notice of Meetings. Whenever stockholders are required or permitted to take any action at a meeting, a written notice of the meeting shall be given which shall state the place, date and hour of the meeting, and, in the case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called. Unless otherwise provided by law, the certificate of incorporation or these by-laws, the written notice of any meeting shall be given not less than ten nor more than sixty days before the date of the meeting to each stockholder entitled to vote at such meeting. If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be given when deposited in the mail, postage prepaid, directed to the stockholder at his address as it appears on the records of the corporation.

Section 1.4. Quorum. Except as otherwise provided by law, the certificate of incorporation or these by-laws, at each meeting of stockholders the presence in person or by proxy of the holders of shares of stock having a majority of the votes which could be cast by the holders of all outstanding shares of stock entitled to vote at the meeting shall be necessary and sufficient to constitute a quorum. In the absence of a quorum, the stockholders so present may, by majority vote, adjourn the meeting from time to time in the manner provided in Section 1.4 of these by-laws until a quorum shall attend. Shares of its own stock belonging to the corporation or to another corporation, if a majority of the shares entitled to vote in the election of directors of such other corporation is held, directly or indirectly, by the corporation, shall neither be entitled to vote nor be counted for quorum purposes; provided, however, that the foregoing shall not limit the right of the corporation to vote stock, including, but not limited to, its own stock, held by it in a fiduciary capacity.

Section 1.5. Organization. Meetings of stockholders shall be presided over by the Chairman of the Board, if any, or in his absence by the Vice Chairman of the Board, if any, or in his absence, by the President, or in his absence by a Vice President, or in the absence of the foregoing persons by a chairman designated by the Board of Directors, or in the absence of such designation by a chairman chosen at the meeting. The Secretary shall act as secretary of the meeting, but in his absence the chairman of the meeting may appoint any person to act as secretary of the meeting.

Section 1.6. Voting: Proxies. Except as otherwise provided by the certificate of incorporation, each stockholder entitled to vote at any meeting of stockholders shall be entitled to one vote for each share of stock held by him which has voting; power upon the matter in questions. Each stockholder entitled to vote at a meeting of stockholders may authorize another person or persons to act for him by proxy, but no such proxy shall be voted or acted upon after three years from its date, unless the proxy provides for a longer period. A duly executed proxy shall be irrevocable if it states that it is irrevocable and if, and only as long as, it is coupled with an interest sufficient in law to support an irrevocable power. A stockholder may revoke any proxy which is not irrevocable by attending the meeting and voting in person or by filing an instrument in writing revoking the proxy or another duly executed proxy bearing a later date with the Secretary of the corporation. Voting at meetings of stockholders need not be by written ballot and need not be conducted by inspectors of election unless so determined by the holders of shares of stock having a majority of the votes which could be cast by the holders of all outstanding shares of stock entitled to vote thereon which are present in person or by proxy at such meeting. At all meetings of stockholders for the election of directors, a plurality of the votes cast shall be sufficient to elect. All other elections and questions shall, unless otherwise provided by law, the certificate of incorporation or these by-laws, be decided by the vote of the holders of shares of stock having a majority of the votes which could be cast by the holders of all shares of stock entitled to vote thereon which are present in person or represented by proxy at the meeting.

Section 1.7. Fixing Date for Determination of Stockholders of Record. In order that the corporation may determine the stockholders entitled to notice of or to vote at any meeting of stockholders or any adjournment thereof, or to express consent to corporate action in writing without a meeting, or entitled to receive payment of any dividend or other distribution or allotment of any rights, or entitled to exercise any rights in respect of any change, conversion or exchange of stock or for the purpose of any other lawful action, the Board of Directors may fix a record date, which record date shall not precede the date upon which the resolution fixing the record date is adopted by the Board of Directors and which record date: (1) in the case of determination of stockholders entitled to vote at any meeting of stockholders or adjournment thereof, shall, unless otherwise required by law, not be more than sixty nor less than ten days before the date of such meeting; (2) in the case of determination of stockholders entitled to express consent to corporate action in writing without a meeting, shall not be more than ten days from the date upon which the resolution fixing the record date is adopted by the Board of Directors; and (3) in the case of any other action, shall not be more than sixty days prior to such other action. If no record date is fixed: (1) the record date for determining stockholders entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of stockholders shall be at the close of business on the day next preceding the day on which notice is given, or, if notice is waived, at the close of business on the day next preceding the day on which the meeting is held; (2) the record date for determining stockholders entitled to express consent to corporate action in writing without a meeting when no prior action of the Board of Directors is required by law, shall be the first date on which a signed written consent setting forth the action taken or proposed to be taken is delivered to the corporation in accordance with applicable law, or, if prior action by the Board of Directors is required by law, shall be at the close of business on the day on which the Board of Directors adopts the resolution taking such prior action; and (3) the record date for determining stockholders for any other purpose shall be at the close of business on the day on which the Board of Directors adopts the resolution relating thereto. A determination of stockholders of record entitled to vote of or to vote at a meeting of stockholders shall apply to any adjournment of the meeting; provided, however, that the Board of Directors may fix a new record date for the adjourned meeting.

Section 1.8. List of Stockholders Entitled to Vote. The Secretary shall prepare and make, at least ten days before every meeting of stockholders, a complete list of the stockholders entitled to vote at the meeting, arranged in alphabetical order, and showing the address of each stockholder and the number of shares registered in the name of each stockholder. Such list shall be open to the examination of any stockholder, for any purpose germane to the meeting, during ordinary business hours, for a period of at least ten days prior to the meeting, either at a place within the city where the meeting is to be held, which place shall be specified in the notice of the meeting, or, if not so specified, at the place where the meeting is to be held. The list shall also be produced and kept at the time and place of the meeting during the whole time thereof and may be inspected by any stockholder who is present. Upon the willful neglect or refusal of the directors to produce such a list at any meeting for the election of directors, they shall be ineligible for election to any office at such meeting. The stock ledger shall be the only evidence as to who are the stockholders entitled to examine the stock ledger, the list of stockholders or the books of the corporation, or to vote in person or by proxy at any meeting of stockholders.

Section 1.9. Action by Consent of Stockholders. Unless otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation, any action required or permitted to be taken at any annual or special meeting of the stockholders may be taken without a meeting, without prior notice and without a vote, if a consent in writing, setting forth the action so taken, shall be signed by the holders of outstanding stock having not less than the minimum number of votes that would be necessary to authorize or take such action at a meeting at which all shares entitled to vote thereon were present and voted. Prompt notice of the taking of the corporate action shall be given to those stockholders who have not consented in writing.

ARTICLE II
BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Board of Directors shall initially consist of the persons named as directors in the certificate of incorporation, and each director so elected shall hold office until the first annual meeting of stockholders or until his successor is elected and qualified. At the first annual meeting of stockholders and at each annual meeting thereafter, the stockholders shall elect directors each of whom shall hold office for a term of one year or until his successor is selected and qualified. Any director may resign at any time upon written notice to the corporation. Any newly created directorship or any vacancy occurring in the Board of Directors for any cause may be filled by a majority of the remaining members of the Board of Directors, although such majority is less than a quorum, or by a plurality of the votes cast at a meeting of stockholders, and each director so elected shall hold office until the expiration of the term of office of the director whom he has replaced or until his successor is elected and qualified.

Section 2.3. Regular Meetings. Regular meetings of the Board of Directors may be held at such places within or without the State of Delaware and at such times as the Board of Directors may from time to time determine, and if so determined notices thereof need not be given.

Section 2.4. Special Meetings. Special meetings of the Board of Directors may be held at any time or place within or without the State of Delaware whenever called by the President, any Vice President, the Secretary, or by any member of the Board of Directors. Notice of special meeting of the Board of Directors shall be given by the person or persons calling the meeting at least twenty-four hours before the special meeting.

Section 2.5. Telephonic Meetings Permitted. Members of the Board of Directors, or any committee designated by the Board of Directors, may participate in a meeting thereof by means of conference telephone or similar communications equipment by means of conference telephone or similar communications equipment by means of which all persons participating in the meeting can hear each other, and participation in a meeting pursuant to this by-law shall constitute presence in person at such meeting.

Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of any regular or special meeting of the stockholders, directors, or members of a committee of directors need be specified in any written waiver of notice.

Section 7.4. Interested Directors; Quorum. No contract or transaction between the corporation and one or more of its directors or officers, or between the corporation and any other corporation, partnership, association, or other organization in which one or more of its directors or officers have a financial interest, shall be void or voidable solely for this reason, or solely because the director or officer is present at or participates in the meeting of the Board of Directors or committee thereof which authorizes the contract or transaction, or solely because his or their votes are counted for such purpose, if: (1) the material facts as to his relationship or interest and as to the contract or transaction are disclosed or are known to the Board of Directors or the committee, and the Board of Directors or committee in good faith authorizes the contract or transaction by the affirmative votes of a majority of the disinterested directors, even though the disinterested directors be less than a quorum; or (2) the material facts as to his relationship or interest and as to the contract or transaction are disclosed or are known to the stockholders entitled to vote thereon, and the contract or transaction is specifically approved in good faith by vote of the stockholders; or (3) the contract or transaction is fair as to the corporation as of the time it is authorized, approved or ratified, by the Board of Directors, a committee thereof, or the stockholders. The corporation shall so convert any records so kept upon the request of any person entitled to inspect the same.

Section 7.6. Amendment of By-Laws. These by-laws may be altered or repealed, and new by-laws made, by the Board of Directors, but the stockholders may make additional by-laws and may alter and repeal any by-laws whether adopted by them or otherwise.

PORTFOLIO MANAGER COMMENTARY (unaudited)

September 30, 2023 Highland Global Allocation Fund

Performance Overview

For the twelve months ended September 30, 2023, the Highland Global Allocation Fund (the "Fund") experienced a total market price return of +2.49% and a total NAV return of +6.30%. The Fund's benchmark, the FTSE All World Index returned 21.49%.

Manager Discussion

The Fund's largest investment themes during the year included real estate, Telecom, and Energy. Energy and public REITs were among the largest contributors to the Fund's performance. The Fund's largest detractors included private real estate and single name shorts.

MidWave Wireless, previously known as TerreStar, the Fund's largest position, was a positive contributor to performance during the year. MidWave Wireless is a privately held, nationwide licensee of wireless spectrum, an asset that most people use every day. Spectrum is the radio frequency that carries all wireless communication signals. The Federal Communications Commission (the "FCC"), which has regulatory oversight in the space, administers spectrum for non-federal use. The FCC typically sells or assigns initial wireless spectrum licenses to market participants using an auction process. Access to spectrum may also be attained through the secondary market, which allows licensees like MidWave Wireless to transfer, sell, or lease spectrum, in whole or in part.

MidWave Wireless's value is derived from two spectrum assets: a license for 1.7 GHz band spectrum covering 11 of the top 30 U.S. markets and approximately 19% of the population; and a license for 8 MHz of flexible use spectrum in the 1.4 GHz band covering the entire nation which currently enables wireless medical telemetry ("WMTS"). Flexible use for the 1.4 GHz band became effective on August 29, 2023, allowing the company to deploy its spectrum for use in a variety of additional services and technologies. On September 21, 2023, TerreStar changed its name to MidWave Wireless to reflect its status more accurately as one of the largest independent mid-band holders in the United States.

The Fund continues to maintain an allocation to energy MLPs, which positively contributed to performance during the year. MLPs (as measured by the Alerian MLP Index, "AMZ") returned 32.40% while the Alerian Midstream Energy Index ("AMNA", a proxy for broader midstream performance including C-Corps) returned 15.98%. We remain constructive on the long-term outlook for midstream energy.

The Fund uses shorts to protect from and/or to take advantage of quantifiable systematic and issuer-related risks. Shorts had a negative impact on performance during the period.

Returns shown in the chart and table do not reflect taxes that a shareholder would pay on Fund distributions or on the sale of the Fund shares.

Performance results reflect the contractual waivers and/or reimbursements of fund expenses by the Advisor. Absent this limitation, performance results would have been lower. The Expense Cap expired on January 31, 2019.

Effective on February 13, 2019, the Highland Global Allocation Fund converted from an open-end fund to a closed-end fund, and began trading on the NYSE under the symbol HGLB on February 19, 2019. The performance data presented above reflects that of Class Z shares of the Fund when it was an open-end fund, HCOYX. Month-end returns since March 2019 reflect market prices. The closed-end Fund pursues the same investment objective and strategy as it did before its conversion.

The performance data quoted here represents past performance and is no guarantee of future results. Investment returns and principal value will fluctuate so that an investor's shares, when redeemed, may be worth more or less than their original cost. Current performance may be lower or higher than the performance data quoted. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, please visit our website at www.nexpointassetmgmt.com.

Stock prices may fall or fail to rise over time for several reasons, including general financial market conditions and factors related to a specific issuer or industry. The Fund invests in growth stocks that may be more volatile because they are more sensitive to market conditions. The Fund invests in mid-cap companies which may entail greater risks and less liquidity due to narrower product lines and more limited resources than larger companies. The Fund may invest in foreign securities which may cause more volatility and less liquidity due to currency changes, political instability and accounting differences. The Fund's investments in derivatives may involve more volatility and less liquidity because of the risk that an investment may not correlate to the performance of the underlying securities.

Mutual fund investing involves risk including the possible loss of principal.

(a) All or part of this security is pledged as collateral for short sales. The fair value of the securities pledged as collateral was $153,782,434.
(b) Non-income producing security.
(c) Securities with a total aggregate value of $141,965,577, or 55.9% of net assets, were classified as Level 3 within the three-tier fair value hierarchy. Please see Notes to Financial Statements for an explanation of this hierarchy, as well as a list of unobservable inputs used in the valuation of these instruments.
(d) Represents fair value as determined by the Investment Adviser pursuant to the policies and procedures approved by the Board of Trustees (the "Board"). The Board has designated the Investment Adviser as "valuation designee" for the Fund pursuant to Rule 2a-5 of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended. The Investment Adviser considers fair valued securities to be securities for which market quotations are not readily available and these securities may be valued using a combination of observable and unobservable inputs. Securities with a total aggregate value of $141,965,577, or 55.9% of net assets, were fair valued under the Fund's valuation procedures as of September 30, 2023. Please see Notes to Financial Statements.
(e) Affiliated issuer. Assets with a total aggregate fair value of $175,061,613, or 68.9% of net assets, were affiliated with the Fund as of September 30, 2023.
(f) Restricted Securities. These securities are not registered and may not be sold to the public. There are legal and/or contractual restrictions on resale. The Fund does not have the right to demand that such securities be registered. The values of these securities are determined by valuations provided by pricing services, brokers, dealers, market makers, or in good faith under the policies and procedures established by the Board. Additional Information regarding such securities follows:

Restricted Security	Security Type	Acquisition Date	Cost of Security ($)	Fair Value at Year End ($)	Percent of Net Assets %
MidWave Wireless, Inc. (fka Terrestar Corp.)	U.S. Equity	11/14/2014	48,015,562	59,727,467	23.4%
MPM Holdings, Inc.	U.S. Equity	5/15/2019	—	3,652,420	1.4%

(g) As described in the Fund's prospectus, a company is considered to be a non-U.S. issuer if the company's securities principally trade on a market outside of the United States, the company derives a majority of its revenues or profits outside of the United States, the company is not organized in the United States, or the company is significantly exposed to the economic fortunes and risks of regions outside the United States.
(h) Senior loans (also called bank loans, leveraged loans, or floating rate loans) in which the Fund invests generally pay interest at rates which are periodically determined by reference to a base lending rate plus a spread (unless otherwise identified, all senior loans carry a variable rate of interest). These base lending rates are generally (i) the Prime Rate offered by one or more major United States banks, (ii) the lending rate offered by one or more European banks such as the Secured Overnight Financing Rate ("SOFR") or (iii) the Certificate of Deposit rate. As of September 30, 2023, the SOFR 1 Month and SOFR 3 Month rates were 5.43% and 5.66%, respectively. Senior loans, while exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "1933 Act"), contain certain restrictions on resale and cannot be sold publicly. Senior secured floating rate loans often require prepayments from excess cash flow or permit the borrower to repay at its election. The degree to which borrowers repay, whether as a contractual requirement or at their election, cannot be predicted with accuracy. As a result, the actual remaining maturity maybe substantially less than the stated maturity shown.
(i) Perpetual security with no stated maturity date.
(j) Step Coupon Security. Coupon rate will either increase (step-up bond) or decrease (step-down bond) at regular intervals until maturity. Interest rate shown reflects the rate currently in effect.
(k) Tri-Party Repurchase Agreement.
(l) This security was purchased with cash collateral held from securities on loan. The total value of such securities as of September 30, 2023 was $12.
(m) Rate reported is 7 day effective yield.
(n) No dividend payable on security sold short.
(o) As of September 30, 2023, $4,559,655 in cash was segregated or on deposit with the brokers to cover investments sold short and is included in "Other Assets & Liabilities, Net".

* Per share data prior to February 15, 2019 has been adjusted to give effect to an approximately 1 to 1.4217 reverse stock split as part of the conversion to a closed-end fund. (Note 1)
(a) Per share data was calculated using average shares outstanding during the period.
(b) The Net Asset Value per share and total return have been calculated based on net assets which include adjustments made in accordance with U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles required at period end for financial reporting purposes. These figures do not necessarily reflect the Net Asset Value per share or total return experienced by the shareholder at period end.
(c) Total return is based on fair value per share for periods after February 15, 2019. Distributions are assumed for purposes of this calculation to be reinvested at prices obtained under the Fund's Dividend Reinvestment Plan. Prior to February 15, 2019, total return is at net asset value assuming all distributions are reinvested. For periods with waivers/reimbursements, had the Fund's Investment Adviser not waived or reimbursed a portion of expenses, total return would have been lower.
(d) All ratios for the period have been annualized, unless otherwise indicated.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Note 1. Organization

Highland Global Allocation Fund (the "Fund") is organized as an unincorporated business trust under the laws of The Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The Fund is registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"), as a diversified, closed-end management investment company. This report covers information for the year ended September 30, 2023.

On November 8, 2018, shareholders of the Fund approved a proposal authorizing the Board of Trustees (the "Board") of the Fund to convert the Fund from an open-end fund to a closed-end fund at a special meeting of shareholders. The Board took action to convert the Fund to a closed-end fund effective shortly after 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time on February 14, 2019 (the "Conversion Date"). The Fund also effected an approximately 1-for-1.4217 reverse stock split of the Fund's issued and outstanding shares on February 14, 2019, thereby reducing the number of shares outstanding. Shareholders were paid cash for any fractional shares resulting from the reverse stock split. The Fund began listing its shares for trading on the New York Stock Exchange (the "NYSE") on February 19, 2019 under the ticker symbol "HGLB". The Fund may issue an unlimited number of common shares, par value $0.001 per share ("Common Shares"). Prior to the Conversion Date, the Fund issued Class A, Class C, and Class Y shares.

Note 2. Significant Accounting Policies

The following summarizes the significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements.

Use of Estimates

The Fund is an investment company that follows the investment company accounting and reporting guidance of Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") Topic 946 Financial Services— Investment Companies applicable to investment companies. The Fund's financial statements have been prepared in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP"), which require NexPoint Asset Management, L.P. (formerly Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P.) ("NexPoint" or the "Investment Adviser") to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of increases or decreases in net assets from operations during the reporting period. Changes in the economic environment, financial markets and any other parameters used in determining these estimates could cause actual results to differ materially.

Pursuant to Rule 2a-5 under the 1940 Act, the Board has designated NexPoint as the Fund's valuation designee to perform the fair valuation determination for securities and other assets held by the Fund. NexPoint acting through its Valuation Committee, is responsible for determining the fair value of investments for which market quotations are not readily available. The Valuation Committee is comprised of officers of NexPoint and certain of NexPoint's affiliated companies and determines fair value and oversees the calculation of the NAV. The Valuation Committee is subject to Board oversight and certain reporting and other requirements intended to provide the Board the information it needs to oversee NexPoint's fair value determinations.

The Fund's investments are recorded at fair value. In computing the Fund's net assets attributable to shares, securities with readily available market quotations on the NYSE, National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotation ("NASDAQ") or other nationally recognized exchange, use the closing quotations on the respective exchange for valuation of those securities. Securities for which there are no readily available market quotations will be valued pursuant to policies adopted by NexPoint and approved by the Fund's Board. Typically, such securities will be valued at the mean between the most recently quoted bid and ask prices provided by the principal market makers. If there is more than one such principal market maker, the value shall be the average of such means. Securities without a sale price or quotations from principal market makers on the valuation day may be priced by an independent pricing service. Generally, the Fund's loan and bond positions are not traded on exchanges and consequently are valued based on a mean of the bid and ask price from the third-party pricing services or broker-dealer sources that the Investment Adviser has determined to have the capability to provide appropriate pricing services.

Securities for which market quotations are not readily avail- able, or for which the Fund has determined that the price received from a pricing service or broker-dealer is "stale" or otherwise does not represent fair value (such as when events materially affecting the value of securities occur between the time when market price is determined and calculation of the Fund's net asset value ("NAV"), will be valued by the Fund at fair value, as determined by the Valuation Committee in good faith in accordance with procedures established by NexPoint and approved by the Board, taking into account factors reasonably determined to be relevant, including, but not limited to: (i) the fundamental analytical data relating to the investment; (ii) the nature and duration of restrictions on disposition of the securities; and (iii) an evaluation of the forces that influence the market in which these securities are purchased and sold. In these cases, the Fund's NAV will reflect the affected portfolio securities' fair value as determined in the judgment of the Valuation Committee instead of being determined by the market. Using a fair value pricing methodology to value securities may result in a value that is different from a security's most recent sale price and from the prices used by other investment companies to calculate their NAVs. Determination of fair value is uncertain because it involves subjective judgments and estimates.

There can be no assurance that the Fund's valuation of a security will not differ from the amount that it realizes upon the sale of such security. Those differences could have a material impact to the Fund. The NAV shown in the Fund's financial statements may vary from the NAV published by the Fund as of its period end because portfolio securities transactions are accounted for on the trade date (rather than the day following the trade date) for financial statement purposes.

Fair Value Measurements

The Fund has performed an analysis of all existing investments and derivative instruments to determine the significance and character of inputs to their fair value determination. The levels of fair value inputs used to measure the Fund's investments are characterized into a fair value hierarchy. Where inputs for an asset or liability fall into more than one level in the fair value hierarchy, the investment is classified in its entirety based on the lowest level input that is significant to that investment's valuation. The three levels of the fair value hierarchy are described below:

Level 1 — Quoted unadjusted prices for identical instruments in active markets to which the Fund has access at the date of measurement;

Level 2 — Quoted prices for similar instruments in active markets; quoted prices for identical or similar instruments in markets that are not active, but are valued based on executed trades; broker quotations that constitute an executable price; and alternative pricing sources supported by observable inputs are classified within Level 2. Level 2 inputs are either directly or indirectly observable for the asset in connection with market data at the measurement date; and

Level 3 — Model derived valuations in which one or more significant inputs or significant value drivers are unobservable. In certain cases, investments classified within Level 3 may include securities for which the Fund has obtained indicative quotes from broker-dealers that do not necessarily represent prices the broker may be willing to trade on, as such quotes can be subject to material management judgment. Unobservable inputs are those inputs that reflect the Fund's own assumptions that market participants would use to price the asset or liability based on the best available information.

The Investment Adviser has established policies and procedures, as described above and approved by the Board, to ensure that valuation methodologies for investments and financial instruments that are categorized within all levels of the fair value hierarchy are fair and consistent. A Pricing Committee has been established to provide oversight of the valuation policies, processes and procedures, and is comprised of personnel from the Investment Adviser and its affiliates. The Pricing Committee meets monthly to review the proposed valuations for investments and financial instruments and is responsible for evaluating the overall fairness and consistent application of established policies.

As of September 30, 2023, the Fund's investments consisted of senior loans, asset-backed securities, bonds and notes, common stocks, preferred stocks, LLC interests, master limited partnerships, registered investment companies, cash equivalents, repurchase agreements, exchange-traded funds, rights, warrants, reverse repurchase agreements, and securities sold short. The fair value of the Fund's loans, bonds and asset-backed securities are generally based on quotes received from brokers or independent pricing services. Loans, bonds and asset-backed securities with quotes that are based on actual trades with a sufficient level of activity on or near the measurement date are classified as Level 2 assets. Senior loans, bonds and asset-backed securities that are priced using quotes derived from implied values, indicative bids, or a limited number of actual trades are classified as Level 3 assets because the inputs used by the brokers and pricing services to derive the values are not readily observable.

The fair value of the Fund's common stocks, registered investment companies, rights and warrants that are not actively traded on national exchanges are generally priced using quotes derived from implied values, indicative bids, or a limited amount of actual trades and are classified as Level 3 assets because the inputs used by the brokers and pricing services to derive the values are not readily observable. Exchange-traded options are valued based on the last trade price on the primary exchange on which they trade. If an option does not trade, the mid-price, which is the mean of the bid and ask price, is utilized to value the option. At the end of each calendar quarter, the Investment Adviser evaluates the Level 2 and 3 assets and liabilities for changes in liquidity, including but not limited to: whether a broker is willing to execute at the quoted price, the depth and consistency of prices from third party services, and the existence of contemporaneous, observable trades in the market. Additionally, the Investment Adviser evaluates the Level 1 and 2 assets and liabilities on a quarterly basis for changes in listings or delistings on national exchanges.

Due to the inherent uncertainty of determining the fair value of investments that do not have a readily available market value, the fair value of the Fund's investments may fluctuate from period to period. Additionally, the fair value of investments may differ significantly from the values that would have been used had a ready market existed for such investments and may differ materially from the values the Fund may ultimately realize. Further, such investments may be subject to legal and other restrictions on resale or otherwise be less liquid than publicly traded securities.

September 30, 2023 Highland Global Allocation Fund

Investments designated as Level 3 may include assets valued using quotes or indications furnished by brokers which are based on models or estimates without observable inputs and may not be executable prices. In light of the developing market conditions, the Investment Adviser continues to search for observable data points and evaluate broker quotes and indications received for portfolio investments.

For the year ended September 30, 2023, there was one Common Stock position that transferred into Level 3. Determination of fair value is uncertain because it involves subjective judgments and estimates that are unobservable. The cost price methodology was updated for one investment to more relevant methodology given the passage of time since the original acquisition date. Additionally, the Option price methodology for another investment was updated to account for a recent transaction that occurred.

The following is a summary of significant unobservable inputs used in the fair valuations of assets and liabilities categorized within Level 3 of the fair value hierarchy:

Category	Fair Value at 9/30/2023 $	Valuation Technique	Unobservable Inputs	Input Value(s) (Arithmetic Mean)
U.S. Equity/Non-U.S. Equity	76,370,680	Multiples Analysis	Unadjusted Price/MHz-PoP	$0.10 - $0.90 ($0.48)
		Discounted Cash Flow	Discount Rate	11.0% - 13.0% (12.0%)
		Transaction Indication of Value	Enterprise Value ($ mm)	$841
			Offer Price per Share	$1.10
		Liquidation Analysis	Recovery Rate	40% - 100.0% (70.0%)

		Option Pricing Model	Volatilty	25.0% - 35.0% (30.0%)
U.S. LLC Interest	23,126,103	Discounted Cash Flow	Discount Rate	5.73% - 9.93% (8.49%)
		Direct Capitalization Method	Capitalization Rates	5.125% - 5.625% (5.375%)
		Transaction Indication of Value	Cost ($ mm)	$3.65
		Net Asset Value	N/A	N/A
U.S. Preferred Stock	3,446,437	Transaction Indication of Value	Enterprise Value ($ mm)	$281.4 - $366.1 ($323.8)
		Option Pricing Model	Volatilty	70.0% - 90.0% (80.0%)
Non-U.S. Asset-Backed Security	10	Net Asset Value	N/A	N/A
Non-U.S. Registered Investment Company	3,607,189	Net Asset Value	NAV	N/A
	141,965,577

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Fund's bank loan and asset-backed securities are: discount rate and volatility. Significant increases (decreases) in any of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly lower (higher) fair value measurement.

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Fund's LLC interests are: discount rate, capitalization rate and cost price. A significant increase (decrease) in any of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly higher (lower) fair value measurement.

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Fund's common equity securities are: unadjusted price/MHz-PoP multiple, discount rate, enterprise value, tender offer per share, and recovery rate. Significant increases (decreases) in any of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly lower (higher) fair value measurement.

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Fund's preferred equity securities are: enterprise value and volatility. Significant increases (decreases) in any of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly lower (higher) fair value measurement.

In addition to the unobservable inputs utilized for various valuation methodologies, the Investment Adviser frequently uses a combination of two or more valuation methodologies to determine fair value for a single holding. In such instances, the Investment Adviser assesses the methodologies and ascribes weightings to each methodology. The weightings ascribed to any individual methodology ranged from as low as 25% to as high as 100% as of September 30, 2023. The selection of weightings is an inherently subjective process, dependent on professional judgement. These selections may have a material impact to the concluded fair value for such holdings.

Certain Illiquid Positions Classified as Level 3

As of September 30, 2023, the Fund held an investment in the common shares of MidWave Wireless ("MidWave") valued at $59,727,467, or 23.2% of net assets, and U.S. Senior Loans valued at $22,289,158 or 8.7% of net assets. MidWave does not currently generate revenue and primarily derives its value from holding licenses of two wireless spectrum assets. The license with respect to one such spectrum asset was previously terminated by the FCC and subsequently restored on April 30, 2020 on a limited conditional basis. The restoration of such license, in current form, requires MidWave to meet certain deployment milestones for wireless medical telemetry service ("WMTS") during a 39-month period. Upon satisfaction of the deployment milestones, MidWave, as it stands today, will be able use such spectrum for other services besides WMTS as long as those services do not interfere with WMTS and MidWave continues to provide WMTS.

As of now, if MidWave is unsuccessful in satisfying such deployment milestones, or if other services cannot be implemented in a manner that does not interfere with WMTS, the value of the MidWave equity would likely be materially negatively impacted. In determining the fair value of MidWave, the Investment Adviser has assigned a high probability of success on both conditions based on consultation with the company and its consultants.

The Fund may hold other illiquid positions that are classified as Level 3 that are not described here. Please see Note 7 for additional disclosure of risks from investments in illiquid securities.

Security Transactions

Security transactions are accounted for on the trade date. Realized gains (losses) on investments sold are recorded on the basis of the specific identification method for both financial statement and U.S. federal income tax purposes taking into account any foreign taxes withheld.

Income Recognition

Corporate actions (including cash dividends) are recorded on the ex-dividend date, net of applicable withholding taxes, except for certain foreign corporate actions, which are recorded as soon after ex-dividend date as such information becomes available and is verified. Interest income is recorded on the accrual basis.

Accretion of discount on taxable bonds and loans is computed to the maturity date, while amortization of premium on taxable bonds and loans is computed to the earliest call date, both using the effective yield method. Withholding taxes on foreign dividends have been provided for in accordance with the Fund's understanding of the applicable country's tax rules and rates.

Return of Capital Reclassification

Adjustment to income associated with return of capital from income received in prior period. Information related to these adjustments was not received until after the finalization of the prior period financial statements.

U.S. Federal Income Tax Status

The Fund is treated as a separate taxpayer for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The Fund intends to qualify each year as a "regulated investment company" under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, and will distribute substantially all of their taxable income and gains, if any, for the tax year, and as such will not be subject to U.S. federal income taxes. In addition, the Fund intends to distribute, in each calendar year, all of their net investment income, capital gains and certain other amounts, if any, such that the Fund should not be subject to U.S. federal excise tax. Therefore, no U.S. federal income or excise tax provisions are recorded. The Fund recognizes interest and penalties, if any, related to unrecognized tax benefits as income tax expense in the Statement of Operations.

The Investment Adviser has analyzed the Fund's tax positions taken on U.S. federal income tax returns for all open tax years (current and prior three tax years), and has concluded that no provision for U.S. federal income tax is required in the Fund's financial statements. The Fund's U.S. federal and state income and U.S. federal excise tax returns for tax years for which the applicable statutes of limitations have not expired are subject to examination by the Internal Revenue Service and state departments of revenue. Furthermore, the Investment Adviser of the Fund is also not aware of any tax positions for which it is reasonably possible that the total amounts of unrecognized tax benefits will significantly change in the next 12 months.

Distributions to Shareholders

The Fund declares and pays investment income distributions quarterly. The Fund typically declares and pays distributions from net realized capital gains in excess of capital loss carryforwards annually.

Statement of Cash Flows

Information on financial transactions which have been settled through the receipt or disbursement of cash is presented in the Statement of Cash Flows. The cash amount shown in the Statement of Cash Flows is the amount included within the Fund's Statement of Assets and Liabilities and includes cash on hand at its custodian bank and/or sub-custodian bank(s), cash equivalents, foreign currency and restricted cash held at broker(s).

Cash & Cash Equivalents

The Fund considers liquid assets deposited with a bank and certain short-term debt instruments of sufficient credit quality with original maturities of three months or less to be cash equivalents. The Fund also considers money market instruments that invest in cash equivalents to be cash equivalents. These investments represent amounts held with financial institutions that are readily accessible to pay Fund expenses or purchase investments. Cash and cash equivalents are valued at cost plus accrued interest, which approximates fair value. The value of cash equivalents denominated in foreign currencies is determined by converting to U.S. dollars on the date of this financial report. These balances may exceed the federally insured limits under the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC").

Foreign Currency

Accounting records of the Fund are maintained in U.S. dollars. Foreign currencies, investments and other assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into U.S. dollars at exchange rates using the current 4:00 PM London Time Spot Rate. Fluctuations in the value of the foreign currencies and other assets and liabilities resulting from changes in exchange rates, between trade and settlement dates on securities transactions and between the accrual and payment dates on dividends, interest income and foreign withholding taxes, are recorded as unrealized foreign currency gains (losses). Realized gains (losses) and unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on investment securities and income and expenses are translated on the respective dates of such transactions. The effects of changes in foreign currency exchange rates on investments in securities are not segregated in the Statement of Operations from the effects of changes in market prices of those securities, but are included with the net realized and unrealized gain or loss on investment securities.

Securities Sold Short

The Fund may sell securities short. A security sold short is a transaction in which the Fund sells a security it does not own in anticipation that the market price of that security will decline. When the Fund sells a security short, it must borrow the security sold short from a broker-dealer and deliver it to the buyer upon conclusion of the transaction. A Fund may have to pay a fee to borrow particular securities and is often obligated to pay over any dividends or other payments received on such borrowed securities. In some circumstances, a Fund may be allowed by its prime broker to utilize proceeds from securities sold short to purchase additional investments, resulting in leverage. Securities and cash held as collateral for securities sold short are shown on the Investment Portfolio. Cash held as collateral for securities sold short is classified as restricted cash on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities, as applicable. Restricted cash in the amount of $4,559,655 was held with the broker for the Fund. Additionally, securities valued at $84,963,162 were posted in the Fund's segregated account for collateral for short sales. The Fund's loss on a short sale could be unlimited in cases where the Fund is unable, for whatever reason, to close out its short position.

Other Fee Income

Fee income may consist of origination/closing fees, amendment fees, administrative agent fees, transaction break-up fees and other miscellaneous fees. Origination fees, amendment fees, and other similar fees are nonrecurring fee sources. Such fees are received on a transaction by transaction basis and do not constitute a regular stream of income and are recognized when incurred.

Note 3. Derivative Transactions

The Fund is subject to equity securities risk, interest rate risk and currency risk in the normal course of pursuing its investment objective. The Fund enters into derivative transactions for the purpose of hedging against the effects of changes in the value of portfolio securities due to anticipated changes in market conditions, to gain market exposure for residual and accumulating cash positions and for managing the duration of fixed income investments.

Options

The Fund may utilize options on securities or indices to varying degrees as part of its principal investment strategy. An option on a security is a contract that gives the holder of the option, in return for a premium, the right to buy from (in the case of a call) or sell to (in the case of a put) the writer of the option the security underlying the option at a specified exercise or "strike" price. The writer of an option on a security has the obligation upon exercise of the option to deliver the underlying security upon payment of the exercise price or to pay the exercise price upon delivery of the underlying security. The Fund may hold options, write option contracts, or both.

If an option written by a Fund expires unexercised, a Fund realizes on the expiration date a capital gain equal to the premium received by a Fund at the time the option was written. If an option purchased by a Fund expires unexercised, a Fund realizes a capital loss equal to the premium paid. Prior to the earlier of exercise or expiration, an exchange-traded option may be closed out by an offsetting purchase or sale of an option of the same series (type, underlying security, exercise price and expiration). There can be no assurance, however, that a closing purchase or sale transaction can be effected when a Fund desires. A Fund will realize a capital gain from a closing purchase transaction if the cost of the closing option is less than the premium received from writing the option, or, if the cost of the closing option is more than the premium received from writing the option, a capital loss. A Fund will realize a capital gain from a closing sale transaction if the premium received from the sale is more than the original premium paid when the option position was opened, or a capital loss, if the premium received from a sale is less than the original premium paid.

During the year ended September 30, 2023, the Fund did not enter into options transactions. The Fund may invest in written options to provide leveraged short exposure, and purchased options to provide leveraged long exposure, to the underlying equity, which is consistent with the investment strategies of the Fund.

Swap Contracts

The Fund may use swaps as part of its investment strategy or to manage their exposure to interest, commodity, and currency rates as well as adverse movements in the debt and equity markets. Swap agreements are privately negotiated in the over-the-counter ("OTC") market or may be executed in a multilateral or other trade facility platform, such as a registered exchange ("centrally cleared swaps"). For OTC swaps, any upfront premiums paid and any upfront fees received are shown as swap premiums paid and swap premiums received in the Statements of Assets and Liabilities, respectively, and amortized over the life of the swap. The daily fluctuation in market value is recorded as unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on OTC Swaps in the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. Premiums paid or received are recognized as realized gain or loss in the Statement of Operations. Total return swaps are agreements to exchange the return generated by one instrument for the return generated by another instrument; for example, the agreement to pay interest in exchange for a market or commodity-linked return based on a notional amount. To the extent the total return of the market or commodity-linked index exceeds the offsetting interest obligation, the Fund will receive a payment from the counterparty. To the extent it is less, the Fund will make a payment to the counterparty. Periodic payments received or made by the Fund are recorded in "Net realized gain (loss) on swap contracts" on the accompanying Statements of Operations and Changes in Net Assets as realized gains or losses, respectively. As of September 30, 2023, the Fund held no open swap contracts.

Reverse Repurchase Agreements

The Fund may engage in reverse repurchase agreement transactions with respect to instruments that are consistent with the Fund's investment objective or policies. This creates leverage for the Fund because the cash received can be used to purchase other securities.

A reverse repurchase transaction is a repurchase transaction in which the Fund is the seller of securities or other assets and agrees to repurchase them at a date certain or on demand. Pursuant to the Repurchase Agreement, the Fund may agree to sell securities or other assets to Mizuho Securities for an agreed upon price (the "Purchase Price"), with a simultaneous agreement to repurchase such securities or other assets from Mizuho Securities for the Purchase Price plus a price differential that is economically similar to interest. The price differential is negotiated for each transaction. This creates leverage for the Fund because the cash received can be used to purchase other securities.

At September 30, 2023, the Fund had investments in a reverse repurchase agreement with a gross value of $3,581,000, which is reflected as reverse repurchase agreements on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The value of the related collateral exceeded the value of the reverse repurchase agreements at September 30, 2023. The collateral pledged for the reverse repurchase agreements includes Agency Collateralized Mortgage Obligations and cash, both of which are reflected on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. The Fund's average daily balance was $3,553,110 at a weighted average interest rate of 7.67% for the days outstanding.

Additional Derivative Information

The Fund is required to disclose; a) how and why an entity uses derivative instruments; b) how derivative instruments and related hedged items are accounted for; c) how derivative instruments and related hedged items affect an entity's financial position, financial performance and cash flows; and d) how the netting of derivatives subject to master netting arrangements (if applicable) affects the net exposure of the Fund related to the derivatives.

To reduce counterparty credit risk with respect to over-the-counter ("OTC") transactions, the Fund has entered into master netting arrangements, established within the Fund's International Swap and Derivatives Association, Inc. ("ISDA") master agreements, which allows the Fund to make (or to have an entitlement to receive) a single net payment in the event of default (close-out netting) for outstanding payables and receivables with respect to certain OTC derivative positions in forward currency exchange contracts for each individual counterparty. In addition, the Fund may require that certain counterparties post cash and/or securities in collateral accounts to cover its net payment obligations for those derivative contracts subject to ISDA master agreements. If the counterparty fails to perform under these contracts and agreements, the cash and/or securities will be made available to the Fund.

Certain ISDA master agreements include credit related contingent features which allow counterparties to OTC

derivatives to terminate derivative contracts prior to maturity in the event the Fund's net assets decline by a stated percentage or the Fund fails to meet the terms of its ISDA master agreements, which would cause the Fund to accelerate payment of any net liability owed to the counterparty.

For financial reporting purposes, the Fund does not offset derivative assets and derivative liabilities that are subject to netting arrangements in the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

Bankruptcy or insolvency laws of a particular jurisdiction may impose restrictions on or prohibitions against the right of offset in bankruptcy, insolvency or other events.

Collateral terms are contract specific for OTC derivatives. For derivatives traded under an ISDA master agreement, the collateral requirements are typically calculated by netting the mark to market amount for each transaction under such agreement and comparing that to the value of any collateral currently pledged by the Fund or the counterparty.

For financial reporting purposes, cash collateral that has been pledged to cover obligations of the Fund, if any, is reported in restricted cash on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities. Generally, the amount of collateral due from or to a party must exceed a minimum transfer amount threshold before a transfer has to be made. To the extent amounts due to the Fund from its counterparties are not fully collateralized, contractually or otherwise, the Fund bears the risk of loss from counterparty non-performance.

There were no derivative instruments held as of September 30, 2023.

Note 4. Securities Lending

The Fund has a securities lending agreement with The Bank of New York Mellon ("BNY" or the "Lending Agent").

Securities lending transactions are entered into by the Fund under the Securities Lending Agreement, ("SLA") which permits the Fund, under certain circumstances such as an event of default, to offset amounts payable by the Fund to the same counterparty against amounts receivable from the counterparty to create a net payment due to or from the Fund.

The following is a summary of securities lending agreements held by the Fund, with cash collateral of overnight maturities and non-cash collateral which would be subject to offset as of September 30, 2023:

Gross Amount of Recognized Assets (Value of Securities on Loan)	Value of Cash Collateral Received[1]	Value of Non-Cash Collateral Received[1]	Net Amount
$—	$ 12	$ —	$ —

[1] Collateral received in excess of fair value of securities on loan is not presented in this table. The total cash collateral received by the Fund is disclosed in the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

The value of loaned securities and related collateral outstanding at September 30, 2023 are shown in the Investment Portfolio. The value of the collateral held may be temporarily less than that required under the lending contract. As of September 30, 2023, the cash collateral was invested in repurchase agreements and the non-cash collateral consisted of U.S. Treasury Bills, Notes, Bonds and U.S. Treasury Inflation Indexed Bonds with the following maturities:

Remaining Contractual Maturity of the Underlying Collateral, as of September 30, 2023

	Overnight and Continuous	<30 Days	Between 30 & 90 Days	>90 Days	Total
Repurchase Agreements	$ 12	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ 12
U.S. Government Securities	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ —
Total	$ 12	$ —	$ —	$ —	$ 12

The Fund could seek additional income by making secured loans of its portfolio securities through its custodian. Such loans would be in an amount not greater than one-third of the value of the Fund's total assets. BNY would charge a fund fees based on a percentage of the securities lending income.

The market value of the loaned securities is determined at the close of each business day of the Fund and any additional required collateral is delivered to the Fund, or excess collateral is returned by the Fund, on the next business day.

The Fund would receive collateral consisting of cash (U.S. and foreign currency), securities issued or guaranteed by the U.S. government or its agencies or instrumentalities, sovereign debt, convertible bonds, irrevocable bank letters of credit or such other collateral as may be agreed on by the parties to a securities lending arrangement, initially with a value of 102% or 105% of the market value of the loaned securities and thereafter maintained at a value of 100% of the market value of the loaned securities. If the collateral consists of non-cash collateral, the borrower would pay the Fund a loan premium fee. If the collateral consists of cash, BNY would reinvest the cash. Although voting rights, or rights to consent, with respect to the loaned securities pass to the borrower, the Fund would recall the loaned securities upon reasonable notice in order that the securities could be voted by the Fund if the holders of such securities are asked to vote upon or consent to matters materially affecting the investment. The Fund also could call such loans in order to sell the securities involved.

Securities lending transactions were entered into pursuant to SLAs, which would provide the right, in the event of default (including bankruptcy or insolvency) for the non-defaulting party to liquidate the collateral and calculate a net exposure to the defaulting party or request additional collateral. In the event that a borrower defaulted, the Fund, as lender, would offset the market value of the collateral received against the market value of the securities loaned. The value of the collateral is typically greater than that of the market value of the securities loaned, leaving the lender with a net amount payable to the defaulting party. However, bankruptcy or insolvency laws of a particular jurisdiction may impose restrictions on or prohibitions against such a right of offset in the event of an SLA counterparty's bankruptcy or insolvency. Under the SLA, the Fund can reinvest cash collateral, or, upon an event of default, resell or repledge the collateral, and the borrower can resell or repledge the loaned securities. The risks of securities lending also include the risk that the borrower may not provide additional collateral when required or may not return the securities when due. To mitigate this risk, each Fund benefits from a borrower default indemnity provided by BNY. BNY's indemnity generally provides for replacement of securities lent or the approximate value thereof.

Note 5. U.S. Federal Income Tax Information

The character of income and gains to be distributed is determined in accordance with income tax regulations which may differ from GAAP. These differences include (but are not limited to) investments organized as partnerships for tax purposes, foreign taxes, investments in futures, losses deferred to off-setting positions, tax treatment of organizational start-up costs, losses deferred due to wash sale transactions, tax treatment of net investment loss and distributions in excess of net investment income, dividends deemed paid upon shareholder redemption of Fund shares and tax attributes from Fund reorganizations. Reclassifications are made to the Fund's capital accounts to reflect income and gains available for distribution (or available capital loss carryovers) under income tax regulations. These reclassifications have no impact on net investment income, realized gains or losses, or NAV of the Fund. The calculation of net investment income per share in the Financial Highlights table excludes these adjustments.

As of September 30, 2023, the most recent tax year-end, permanent differences chiefly resulting from non-deductible expenses from partnerships and return of capital were identified and reclassified among the components of the Fund's net assets as follows:

Distributable Earnings (Accumulated Loss)	Paid-in-Capital
$671,177	$ (671,177)

At September 30, 2023, the most recent tax year-end, components of distributable earnings on a tax basis is as follows:

Undistributed Income	Undistributed Long-Term Capital Gains	Other Temporary Differences	Accumulated Capital and Other Losses	Net Tax Appreciation (Depreciation)
$—	$ —	$ (4)	$(419,630,570)	$ (28,542,878)

As of September 30, 2023, the Fund has capital loss carryovers as indicated below. The capital loss carryovers are available to offset future realized capital gains.

No Expiration Short-Term	No Expiration Long-Term	Total
$124,381,884	$295,248,686	$419,630,570

The tax character of distributions paid during the years ended September 30, 2023 and September 30, 2022 were as follows:

	Distributions Paid From:
	Ordinary Income[(1)]	Long-Term Capital Gains	Return of Capital[(2)]
2023	$10,001,548	$ —	$12,474,020
2022	7,285,771	—	13,622,562

(1) For tax purposes, short-term capital gains distributions, if any, are considered ordinary income distributions.
(2) Additional Information will be distributed on Form 1099 at the end of the calendar year.

The Federal tax cost and gross unrealized appreciation and depreciation on investments (including foreign currency and derivatives, if applicable) held by the Fund at September 30, 2023 were as follows:

Gross Appreciation	Gross Depreciation	Net Appreciation/ (Depreciation)	Federal Tax Cost
$33,732,130	$(62,275,008)	$ (28,542,878)	$333,639,180

For Federal income tax purposes, the cost of investments owned at September 30, 2023 were different from amounts reported for financial reporting purposes primarily due to investments in partnerships, defaulted bonds, other securities and deferred wash sale losses.

Note 6. Advisory, Administration, Service and Distribution, Trustee, and Other Fees

Investment Advisory Fees and Administration Fees

For its investment advisory services, the Fund pays the Investment Adviser a monthly fee, computed and accrued daily, based on an annual rate of the Fund's Average Daily Managed Assets. Average Daily Managed Assets of the Fund means the average daily value of the total assets of the Fund less all accrued liabilities of a Fund (other than the aggregate amount of any outstanding borrowings constituting financial leverage). The Fund's contractual advisory fee with NexPoint for the year ended September 30, 2023 was 0.40%.

The Fund has entered into an administration agreement with SEI Investments Global Funds Services ("SEI"), a wholly owned subsidiary of SEI Investments Company, and pays SEI a fee for administration services. The Investment Adviser generally assists in all aspects of the Fund's administration and operations and furnishes offices, necessary facilities, equipment and personnel.

Additionally, the Fund may invest in securities issued by other investment companies, including investment companies that are advised by the Investment Adviser or its affiliates, to the extent permitted by applicable law and/or pursuant to exemptive relief from the SEC, and exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"). Fees and expenses of such investments will be borne by shareholders of the investing Fund, and the Investment Adviser voluntarily waives the higher of the two fees for the portion of the Fund's investment advisory fee attributable to its investment in the affiliated investment company. Voluntary amounts waived are reflected in the statement of operations.

Fees Paid to Officers and Trustees

Each Trustee, who oversees all of the funds in the NexPoint Fund Complex, receives an annual retainer of $150,000 payable in quarterly installments and allocated among each portfolio in the NexPoint Fund Complex based on relative net assets. The annual retainer for a Trustee who does not oversee all of the funds in the NexPoint Fund Complex is prorated based on the portion of the $150,000 annual retainer allocable to the funds overseen by such Trustee. The Chairman of the Audit Committee and the Chairman of the Board each receive an additional annual payment of $10,000 payable in quarterly installments and allocated among each portfolio in the NexPoint Fund Complex based on relative net assets. Trustees are reimbursed for actual out-of-pocket expenses relating to attendance at meetings. The "NexPoint Fund Complex" consists of all of the registered investment companies advised by the Investment Adviser or its affiliated advisers as of the date of this report and NexPoint Capital, Inc., a closed-end management investment company that has elected to be treated as a business development company under the 1940 Act.

The Fund pays no compensation to its officers.

The Trustees do not receive any separate compensation in connection with service on Committees or for attending Board or Committee Meetings. The Trustees do not have any pension or retirement plan.

Other Matters

NexPoint has entered into a Services Agreement (the "Services Agreement") with Skyview Group ("Skyview"), effective February 25, 2021, pursuant to which NexPoint will receive administrative and operational support services to enable it to provide the required advisory services to the Fund. The Investment Adviser, and not the Fund, will compensate all Investment Adviser and Skyview personnel who provide services to the Fund.

Effective July 12, 2022, certain Skyview personnel became dual-employees of NexPoint Services, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Investment Adviser. The same services are being performed by the dual-employees. The Investment Adviser, and not the Fund, will compensate all Investment Adviser, Skyview, and dual-employee personnel who provide services to the Fund.

Note 7. Disclosure of Significant Risks and Contingencies

The Fund's risks include, but are not limited to, some or all of the risks discussed below. For further information on the Fund's risks, please refer to the Fund's Prospectus and Statement of Additional Information.

Asset-Backed Securities Risk

The risk of investing in asset-backed securities, and includes interest rate risk, prepayment risk and the risk that the Fund could lose money if there are defaults on the loans underlying these securities. Investments in asset-backed securities may also be subject to valuation risk.

Credit Risk

The value of debt securities owned by the Fund may be affected by the ability of issuers to make principal and interest payments and by the issuer's or counterparty's credit quality. If an issuer cannot meet its payment obligations or if its credit rating is lowered, the value of its debt securities may decline. Lower quality bonds are generally more sensitive to these changes than higher quality bonds. Nonpayment would result in a reduction of income to the Fund, a reduction in the value of the obligation experiencing nonpayment and a potential decrease in the Fund's net asset value and the market price of the Fund's shares.

Derivatives Risk

Derivatives Risk is a combination of several risks, including the risks that: (1) an investment in a derivative instrument may not correlate well with the performance of the securities or asset class to which the Fund seeks exposure, (2) derivative contracts, including options, may expire worthless and the use of derivatives may result in losses to the Fund, (3) a derivative instrument entailing leverage may result in a loss greater than the principal amount invested, (4) derivatives not traded on an exchange may be subject to credit risk, for example, if the counterparty does not meet its obligations (see also "Counterparty Risk"), and (5) derivatives not traded on an exchange may be subject to liquidity risk and the related risk that the instrument is difficult or impossible to value accurately.

Effective August 19, 2022 (the "Compliance Date"), Rule 18f-4 under the 1940 Act (the "Derivatives Rule") replaced the asset segregation regime of Investment Company Act Release No. 10666 (Release 10666) with a new framework for the use of derivatives by registered funds. As of the Compliance Date, the SEC rescinded Release 10666 and withdrew no-action letters and similar guidance addressing a fund's use of derivatives and began requiring funds to satisfy the requirements of the Derivatives Rule. As a result, on or after the Compliance Date, the Fund will no longer engage in "segregation" or "coverage" techniques with respect to derivatives transactions and will instead comply with the applicable requirements of the Derivatives Rule.

The Derivatives Rule mandates that a fund adopt and/or implement: (i) value-at-risk limitations (VaR); (ii) a written derivatives risk management program; (iii) new Board oversight responsibilities; and (iv) new reporting and recordkeeping requirements. In the event that a fund's derivative exposure is 10% or less of its net assets, excluding certain currency and interest rate hedging transactions, it can elect to be classified as a limited derivatives user (Limited Derivatives User) under the Derivatives Rule, in which case the fund is not subject to the full requirements of the Derivatives Rule. Limited Derivatives Users are excepted from VaR testing, implementing a derivatives risk management program, and certain Board oversight and reporting requirements mandated by the Derivatives Rule. However, a Limited Derivatives User is still required to implement written compliance policies and procedures reasonably designed to manage its derivatives risks.

Equity Securities Risk

The risk that stock prices will fall over short or long periods of time. In addition, common stocks represent a share of ownership in a company, and rank after bonds and preferred stock in their claim on the company's assets in the event of bankruptcy. In addition to these risks, preferred stock and convertible securities are also subject to the risk that issuers will not make payments on securities held by the Fund, which could result in losses to the Fund. The credit quality of preferred stock and convertible securities held by the Fund may be lowered if an issuer's financial condition changes, leading to greater volatility in the price of the security.

High Yield Debt Securities Risk

The risk that below investment grade securities or unrated securities of similar credit quality (commonly known as “high yield securities” or “junk securities”) are more likely to default than higher rated securities. The Fund’s ability to invest in high-yield debt securities generally subjects the Fund to greater risk than securities with higher ratings. Such securities are regarded by the rating organizations as predominantly speculative with respect to capacity to pay interest and repay principal in accordance with the terms of the obligation. The market value of these securities is generally more sensitive to corporate developments and economic conditions and can be volatile. Market conditions can diminish liquidity and make accurate valuations difficult to obtain.

Illiquid and Restricted Securities Risk

The investments made by the Fund may be illiquid, and consequently the Fund may not be able to sell such investments at prices that reflect the Investment Adviser’s assessment of their value or the amount originally paid for such investments by the Fund. Illiquidity may result from the absence of an established market for the investments as well as legal, contractual or other restrictions on their resale and other factors. Furthermore, the nature of the Fund’s investments, especially those in financially distressed companies, may require a long holding period prior to profitability. Restricted securities (i.e., securities acquired in private placement transactions) and illiquid securities may offer higher yields than comparable publicly traded securities. The Fund, however, may not be able to sell these securities when the Investment Adviser considers it desirable to do so or, to the extent they are sold privately, may have to sell them at less than the price of otherwise comparable securities. Restricted securities are subject to limitations on resale which can have an adverse effect on the price obtainable for such securities. Also, if in order to permit resale the securities are registered under the Securities Act at the Fund’s expense, the Fund’s expenses would be increased.

Industry Focus Risk

As the Fund may invest a significant portion of its assets in particular sectors or industries, the performance of the Fund may be closely tied to the performance of companies in a limited number of sectors or industries. Currently, the Fund focuses its investments in the energy, telecommunications and utilities sectors and, in certain instances, in a limited number of issuers within each of those sectors. Companies in a single sector often share common characteristics, are faced with the same obstacles, issues and regulatory burdens and their securities may react similarly to adverse market conditions. To the extent a Fund focuses its investments in particular issuers, countries, geographic regions, industries or sectors, the Fund may be subject to greater risks of adverse developments in such areas of focus than a fund that invests in a wider variety of issuers, countries, geographic regions, industries, sectors or investments. The price movements of investments in a particular sector or industry may be more volatile than the price movements of more broadly diversified investments.

Interest Rate Risk

The risk that fixed income securities will decline in value because of changes in interest rates. When interest rates decline, the value of fixed rate securities already held by the Fund can be expected to rise. Conversely, when interest rates rise, the value of existing fixed rate portfolio securities can be expected to decline. A fund with a longer average portfolio duration will be more sensitive to changes in interest rates than a fund with a shorter average portfolio duration.

Leverage Risk

The Fund may use leverage in its investment program, including the use of borrowed funds and investments in certain types of options, such as puts, calls and warrants, which may be purchased for a fraction of the price of the underlying securities. While such strategies and techniques increase the opportunity to achieve higher returns on the amounts invested, they also increase the risk of loss. To the extent the Fund purchases securities with borrowed funds, its net assets will tend to increase or decrease at a greater rate than if borrowed funds are not used. If the interest expense on borrowings were to exceed the net return on the portfolio securities purchased with borrowed funds, the Fund’s use of leverage would result in a lower rate of return than if the Fund was not leveraged.

LIBOR Discontinuation Risk

Certain debt securities, derivatives and other financial instruments have traditionally utilized LIBOR as the reference or benchmark rate for interest rate calculations. However, following allegations of manipulation and concerns regarding liquidity, in July 2017 the U.K. Financial Conduct Authority, which regulates LIBOR, announced that it would cease its active encouragement of banks to provide the quotations needed to sustain LIBOR. The ICE Benchmark Administration Limited, the administrator of LIBOR, ceased publishing most liquid U.S. LIBOR maturities on June 30, 2023. It is possible that a subset of U.S. dollar LIBOR settings will continue to be published on a “synthetic” basis. It is expected that market participants transitioned to the use of alternative reference or benchmark rates prior to the applicable LIBOR publication cessation date. Additionally, although regulators have encouraged the development and adoption of alternative rates such as the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (“SOFR”),

the future utilization of LIBOR or of any particular replacement rate remains uncertain.

Although the transition process away from LIBOR became increasingly well-defined in advance of the discontinuation dates, the impact on certain debt securities, derivatives and other financial instruments remains uncertain. Market participants have adopted alternative rates such as SOFR or otherwise amended financial instruments referencing LIBOR to include fallback provisions and other measures that contemplated the discontinuation of LIBOR or other similar market disruption events, but neither the effect of the transition process nor the viability of such measures is known. Further, uncertainty and risk remain regarding the willingness and ability of issuers and lenders to include alternative rates and revised provisions in new and existing contracts or instruments. To facilitate the transition of legacy derivatives contracts referencing LIBOR, the International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc. launched a protocol to incorporate fallback provisions. However, there are obstacles to converting certain longer term securities and transactions to a new benchmark or benchmarks and the effectiveness of one alternative reference rate versus multiple alternative reference rates in new or existing financial instruments and products has not been determined. Certain proposed replacement rates to LIBOR, such as SOFR, which is a broad measure of secured overnight U.S. Treasury repo rates, are materially different from LIBOR, and changes in the applicable spread for financial instruments transitioning away from LIBOR will need to be made to accommodate the differences. Furthermore, the risks associated with the expected discontinuation of LIBOR and transition to replacement rates may be exacerbated if an orderly transition to an alternative reference rate is not completed in a timely manner.

The utilization of an alternative reference rate, or the transition process to an alternative reference rate, may adversely affect the Fund's performance.

Alteration of the terms of a debt instrument or a modification of the terms of other types of contracts to replace LIBOR or another interbank offered rate ("IBOR") with a new reference rate could result in a taxable exchange and the realization of income and gain/loss for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The Internal Revenue Service (the "IRS") has issued final regulations regarding the tax consequences of the transition from IBOR to a new reference rate in debt instruments and non-debt contracts. Under the final regulations, alteration or modification of the terms of a debt instrument to replace an operative rate that uses a discontinued IBOR with a qualified rate (as defined in the final regulations) including true up payments equalizing the fair market value of contracts before and after such IBOR transition, to add a qualified rate as a fallback rate to a contract whose operative rate uses a discontinued IBOR or to replace a fallback rate that uses a discontinued IBOR with a qualified rate would not be taxable.

The IRS may provide additional guidance, with potential retroactive effect.

Management Risk

The risk associated with the fact that the Fund relies on the Investment Adviser's ability to achieve its investment objective. The Investment Adviser may be incorrect in its assessment of the intrinsic value of the companies whose securities the Fund holds, which may result in a decline in the value of fund shares and failure to achieve its investment objective.

Mid-Cap Company Risk

The risk that investing in securities of mid-cap companies may entail greater risks than investments in larger, more established companies. Mid-cap companies tend to have more narrow product lines, more limited financial resources and a more limited trading market for their stocks, as compared with larger companies. As a result, their stock prices may decline significantly as market conditions change.

MLP Risk

The risk that the MLPs in which the Fund invests will fail to be treated as partnerships for U.S. federal income tax purposes. If an MLP does not meet current legal requirements to maintain its partnership status, or if it is unable to do so because of tax or other law changes, it would be treated as a corporation for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The classification of an MLP as a corporation for U.S. federal income tax purposes could have the effect of reducing the amount of cash available for distribution by the MLP and the value of the Fund's investment in any such MLP. As a result, the value of the Fund's shares and the cash available for distribution to Fund shareholders could be materially reduced.

MLP Tax Risk

The risk that the MLPs in which the Fund invests will fail to be treated as partnerships for U.S. federal income tax purposes. If an MLP does not meet current legal requirements to maintain its partnership status, or if it is unable to do so because of tax or other law changes, it would be treated as a corporation for U.S. federal income tax purposes. In that case, the MLP would be obligated to pay U.S. federal income tax (as well as state and local taxes) at the entity level on its taxable income and distributions received by the Fund would be characterized as dividend income to the extent of the MLP's current and accumulated earnings and profits for federal tax purposes. The classification of an MLP as a corporation for U.S. federal income tax purposes could have the effect of reducing the amount of cash available for distribution by the MLP and the value of the Fund's investment in any such MLP. As a result, the value of the Fund's shares and the cash available for distribution to Fund shareholders could be reduced.

Non-U.S. Securities Risk

The risk associated with investing in non-U.S. issuers. Investments in securities of non-U.S. issuers involve certain risks not involved in domestic investments (for example, fluctuations in foreign exchange rates (for non-U.S. securities not denominated in U.S. dollars); future foreign economic, financial, political and social developments; nationalization; exploration or confiscatory taxation; smaller markets; different trading and settlement practices; less governmental supervision; and different accounting, auditing and financial recordkeeping standards and requirements) that may result in the Fund experiencing more rapid and extreme changes in value than a fund that invests exclusively in securities of U.S. companies. These risks are magnified for investments in issuers tied economically to emerging markets, the economies of which tend to be more volatile than the economies of developed markets. In addition, certain investments in non-U.S. securities may be subject to foreign withholding and other taxes on interest, dividends, capital gains or other income or proceeds. Those taxes will reduce the Fund's yield on any such securities.

Non-Payment Risk

Debt instruments are subject to the risk of non-payment of scheduled interest and/or principal. Non-payment would result in a reduction of income to the Fund, a reduction in the value of the security experiencing non-payment and a potential decrease in the NAV of the Fund. There can be no assurance that the liquidation of any collateral would satisfy the borrower's obligation in the event of non-payment of scheduled interest or principal payments, or that such collateral could be readily liquidated. Moreover, as a practical matter, most borrowers cannot satisfy their debts by selling their assets. Borrowers pay their debts from the cash flow they generate.

Pandemics and Associated Economic Disruption

An outbreak of respiratory disease caused by a novel coronavirus ("COVID-19") was first detected in China in late 2019 and subsequently spread globally. This coronavirus has resulted in, and may continue to result in, closed borders, enhanced health screenings, disruptions to healthcare service preparation and delivery, quarantines, cancellations, and disruptions to supply chains, workflow operations and consumer activity, as well as general concern and uncertainty. The impact of this coronavirus has resulted in substantial economic volatility. Health crises caused by outbreaks, such as the coronavirus outbreak, may exacerbate other pre-existing political, social and economic risks. The impact of this outbreak, and other epidemics and pandemics that may arise in the future, could continue to negatively affect the worldwide economy, as well as the economies of individual countries, individual companies, including certain Fund service providers and issuers of the Fund's investments, and the markets in general in significant and unforeseen ways. In addition, governments, their regulatory agencies, or self-regulatory organizations may take actions in response to the pandemic, including significant fiscal and monetary policy changes, that may affect the instruments in which the Fund invests or the issuers of such instruments. Any such impact could adversely affect the Fund's performance.

Real Estate Securities Risk

The securities of issuers that own, construct, manage or sell residential, commercial or industrial real estate are subject to risks in addition to those of other issuers. Such risks include: changes in real estate values and property taxes, overbuilding, variations in rental income, interest rates and changes in tax and regulatory requirements, such as those relating to the environment. Performance of a particular real estate security depends on the structure, cash flow and management skill of the particular company.

Regulatory Risk

The risk that to the extent that legislation or state or federal regulators impose additional requirements or restrictions with respect to the ability of financial institutions to make loans in connection with highly leveraged transactions, the availability of loan interests for investment by the Fund may be adversely affected.

REIT-Specific Risk

Equity REITs may be affected by changes in the value of the underlying property owned by the trusts, while mortgage REITs may be affected by the quality of any credit extended. Further, equity and mortgage REITs are dependent upon management skill and are not diversified. Such trusts are also subject to heavy cash flow dependency, defaults by borrowers, self-liquidation, and the possibility of failing to qualify for special tax treatment under Subchapter M of the Code and to maintain an exemption under the 1940 Act. Any rental income or income from the disposition of such real estate could adversely affect its ability to retain its tax status, which would have adverse tax consequences on its shareholders. Finally, certain REITs may be self-liquidating at the end of a specified term, and run the risk of liquidating at an economically inopportune time.

REIT Tax Risk for REIT Subsidiaries

In addition to the REIT Subsidiary, the Fund may form one or more subsidiaries that will elect to be taxed as REITs beginning with the first year in which they commence material operations. In order for each subsidiary to qualify and maintain its qualification as a REIT, it must satisfy certain requirements set forth in the Code and Treasury Regulations that depend on various factual matters and circumstances. The Fund and the Investment Adviser intend to structure each REIT subsidiary and its activities in a manner designed to satisfy all of these requirements. However, the application of such requirements is not entirely clear, and it is possible that the IRS may interpret or apply those requirements in a manner that jeopardizes the ability of such REIT subsidiary to satisfy all of the requirements for qualification as a REIT.

Restrictions on Resale Risk

Senior Loans may not be readily marketable and may be subject to restrictions on resale. Interests in Senior Loans generally are not listed on any national securities exchange or automated quotation system and no active market may exist for many of the Senior Loans in which the Fund may invest. To the extent that a secondary market may exist for certain of the Senior Loans in which the Fund invests, such market may be subject to irregular trading activity, wide bid/ask spreads and extended trade settlement periods.

Securities Lending Risk

The Fund will continue to receive interest on any securities loaned while simultaneously earning interest on the investment of the cash collateral in short-term money market instruments. However, the Fund will normally pay lending fees to broker-dealers and related expenses from the interest earned on such invested collateral. Any decline in the value of a portfolio security that occurs while the security is out on loan is borne by the Fund, and will adversely affect performance. There may be risks of delay in receiving additional collateral or risks of delay in recovery of the securities, loss of rights in the collateral should the borrower of the securities fail financially and possible investment losses in the investment of collateral. Any loan may be terminated by either party upon reasonable notice to the other party.

Senior Loans Risk

The risk that the issuer of a senior may fail to pay interest or principal when due, and changes in market interest rates may reduce the value of the senior loan or reduce the Fund's returns. The risks associated with senior loans are similar to the risks of high yield debt securities. Senior loans and other debt securities are also subject to the risk of price declines and to increases in interest rates, particularly long-term rates. Senior loans are also subject to the risk that, as interest rates rise, the cost of borrowing increases, which may increase the risk of default. In addition, the interest rates of floating rate loans typically only adjust to changes in short-term interest rates; long- term interest rates can vary dramatically from short-term interest rates. Therefore, senior loans may not mitigate price declines in a long-term interest rate environment. The Fund's investments in senior loans are typically below investment grade and are considered speculative because of the credit risk of their issuers.

Short Sales Risk

The risk of loss associated with any appreciation on the price of a security borrowed in connection with a short sale. The Fund may engage in short sales that are not made "against-the-box," which means that the Fund may sell short securities even when they are not actually owned or otherwise covered at all times during the period the short position is open. Short sales that are not made "against-the-box" involve unlimited loss potential since the market price of securities sold short may continuously increase.

Small-Cap Company Risk

The risk that investing in the securities of small-cap companies either directly or indirectly through investments in ETFs, closed-end funds or mutual funds ("Underlying Funds") may pose greater market and liquidity risks than larger, more established companies, because of limited product lines and/or operating history, limited financial resources, limited trading markets, and the potential lack of management depth. In addition, the securities of such companies are typically more volatile than securities of larger capitalization companies.

Underlying Funds Risk

The risk associated with investing in Underlying Funds. The Fund may invest in Underlying Funds subject to the limitations set forth in the 1940 Act. Underlying Funds typically incur fees that are separate from those fees incurred directly by the Fund; therefore, the Fund's purchase of Underlying Funds' securities results in the layering of expenses. The Fund's shareholders indirectly bear a proportionate share of the operating expenses of Underlying Funds (including advisory fees) in addition to bearing the Fund's expenses.

Value Investing Risk

The risk of investing in undervalued stocks that may not realize their perceived value for extended periods of time or may never realize their perceived value. Value stocks may respond differently to market and other developments than other types of stocks. Value-oriented funds will typically underperform when growth investing is in favor.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (concluded)

Note 10. Legal Matters

The Fund received a shareholder demand letter dated March 1, 2018, from an individual purporting to be a shareholder of the Fund (the "Demand Letter"). The Demand Letter alleged that the current and former Board breached their fiduciary duties, and the Investment Adviser breached its advisory agreement, in relation to the Fund's investment in shares of an affiliated mutual fund, the Highland Energy MLP Fund (previously a series of the Trust). The Fund held $15.5 million (or 61.5%) of the Highland Energy MLP Fund, which has now been liquidated. Upon receipt of the Demand Letter, the Board formed a Demand Review Committee ("DRC") comprised entirely of independent trustees to investigate these claims and to make a recommendation to the Board regarding whether pursuit of these claims is in the best interests of the Fund. Aided by independent counsel to the committee, the DRC engaged in a thorough and detailed review of the allegations contained in the Demand Letter. Upon completion of its evaluation, the DRC recommended that the Fund's independent trustees, who represent a majority of the Board, reject the demand specified in the shareholder Demand Letter.

After considering the report of the DRC, the independent trustees unanimously agreed and rejected the demand, noting that the Demand Letter contained material factual errors and incorrect assumptions, and the proposed suit was meritless and should not be pursued. A copy of the report was provided to the purported shareholder and her counsel.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the purported shareholder (the "Plaintiff") filed a shareholder derivative and class action lawsuit against certain members of the Board and the Investment Adviser on September 5, 2018 (the "Shareholder Litigation"). The Fund is a nominal defendant in the litigation, which is brought on behalf of the Fund. On May 26, 2020, the Court granted a motion to dismiss for all defendants on all claims. The Court concluded that the contract and fiduciary duty claims are barred by the Board's independent and good-faith investigation of those claims, and that the purported class action claims can only be filed derivatively. The case is Lanotte v. Highland Global Allocation Fund et al, 3:18-cv-02360 (N.D. Tex.). The shareholder appealed the dismissal to the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit. Oral argument was heard on March 2, 2021. On March 28, 2023, the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit affirmed the decision to dismiss the Plaintiff's case. The case has gone final and been administratively closed for all purposes.

Note 11. Asset Coverage

The Fund is required to maintain 300% asset coverage with respect to amounts outstanding (excluding short-term borrowings). Asset coverage is calculated by subtracting the Fund's total liabilities, not including any amount representing bank loans and senior securities, from the Fund's total assets and dividing the result by the principal amount of the borrowings outstanding. As of the dates indicated below, the Fund's debt outstanding and asset coverage was as follows:

Date	Total Amount Outstanding ($)	% of Asset Coverage of Indebtedness
9/30/2023	3,581,000	7,286.6
9/30/2022	—	—

Note 12. Indemnification

Under the Fund's organizational documents, the officers and Trustees have been granted certain indemnification rights against certain liabilities that may arise out of performance of their duties to the Fund. Additionally, in the normal course of business, the Fund may enter into contracts with service providers that contain a variety of indemnification clauses. The Fund's maximum exposure under these arrangements is dependent on future claims that may be made against the Fund and, therefore, cannot be estimated.

Note 13. Subsequent Events

Management has evaluated the impact of all subsequent events on the Fund through the date the financial statements were issued, and has determined that there were no subsequent events to report which have not already been recorded or disclosed in these financial statements and accompanying notes.

These financial statements are the responsibility of the Fund's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Fund's financial statements based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) ("PCAOB") and are required to be independent with respect to the Fund in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our procedures included confirmation of securities owned as of September 30, 2023, by correspondence with the custodian, transfer agent, issuers, agent banks, and brokers; when replies were not received, we performed other auditing procedures. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION (unaudited)

Investment Objective and Strategy Overview

The Fund's investment objective is to seek long-term growth of capital and future income (future income means the ability to pay dividends in the future). Please refer to Note 7 for a discussion of the Fund's current investment risks.

The Fund seeks to achieve its investment objectives by investing in a portfolio of U.S. and foreign equity, debt and money market securities. Under normal market conditions, the Fund intends to invest at least 50% of its net assets in equity securities and at least 40% (plus any borrowings for investment purposes) of its net assets in securities of non-U.S. issuers. The Fund intends to invest approximately 40% or more of its net assets in securities of non-U.S. issuers at all times, however, in the event of unfavorable market conditions the Fund may invest less than 40% (but not less than 30%) of its assets in securities of non-U.S. issuers. For purposes of determining whether securities held by the Fund are securities of a non-U.S. issuer, a company is considered to be a non-U.S. issuer if the company's securities principally trade on a market outside of the United States, the company derives a majority of its revenues or profits outside of the United States, the company is not organized in the United States, or the company is significantly exposed to the economic fortunes and risks of regions outside the United States.

Equity securities in which the Fund may invest include common stock, preferred stock, securities convertible into common stock, rights and warrants or securities or other instruments whose price is linked to the value of common stock. The equity securities in which the Fund invests may be of any capitalization, may be denominated in any currency and may be located in emerging markets.

The Fund may also invest in debt securities of any kind, including debt securities of varying maturities, debt securities paying a fixed or fluctuating rate of interest, inflation-indexed bonds, structured notes, loan assignments, loan participations, asset-backed securities, debt securities convertible into equity securities, and securities issued or guaranteed by the U.S. Government or its agencies or instrumentalities, by foreign governments or international agencies or supranational entities or by domestic or foreign private issuers. The Fund may invest in debt securities of any credit quality, including below investment grade securities (also known as "high yield securities" or "junk securities"). Such securities are rated below investment grade by a nationally recognized statistical rating organization ("NRSRO") or are unrated but deemed by the Investment Adviser to be of comparable quality. The Fund may invest without limitation in below investment grade or unrated securities, including in insolvent borrowers or borrowers in default.

The Fund may also invest in senior loans to domestic or foreign corporations, partnerships and other entities that operate in a variety of industries and geographic regions ("Borrowers") ("Senior Loans"). Senior Loans are business loans that have a right to payment senior to most other debts of the Borrower.

The Fund invests primarily in companies that the portfolio manager believes have solid growth prospectus and/or attractive valuations. The portfolio manager's value management style employs a relative approach to identify companies across all economic sectors and geographic regions that are undervalued relative to the market, their peers, their historical valuation or their growth rate. In addition, the Fund's portfolio manager may employ event-driven investment strategies that analyze transactions in order to predict a likely outcome and invest the Fund's assets in a way that seeks to benefit from that outcome.

When choosing investment markets, Fund management considers various factors, including economic and political conditions, potential for economic growth and possible changes in currency exchange rates. In addition to investing in securities of non-U.S. issuers, the Fund actively manages its exposure to foreign currencies through the use of forward currency contracts and other currency derivatives. The Fund may own foreign cash equivalents or foreign bank deposits as part of the Fund's investment strategy. The Fund may also invest in non-U.S. currencies for hedging and speculative purposes.

The Fund's portfolio may include pooled investment vehicles, including exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"), that provide exposure to foreign equity securities and that invest in both developed and emerging markets, including ETFs that seek to track the performance of securities of a single country. The Fund may invest up to 5% of its net assets in warrants and may also use derivatives, primarily swaps (including equity, variance and volatility swaps), options and futures contracts on securities, interest rates, commodities and/or currencies, as substitutes for direct investments the Fund can make and, to the extent permitted by the 1940 Act, to hedge various investments for risk management and speculative purposes.

The Fund will limit its investments in pooled investment vehicles that are excluded from the definition of "investment company" under the 1940 Act by Section 3(c)(1) or Section 3(c)(7) of the 1940 Act, such as private equity funds and hedge funds, to no more than 15% of its net assets. This limitation does not apply to any collateralized loan obligations, collateralized debt obligations and/or collateralized mortgage obligations, certain of which may rely on Section 3(c)(1) or 3(c)(7) of the 1940 Act.

The Fund seeks to provide exposure to the investment returns of real assets that trade in the commodity markets, including through investment in certain commodity-linked instruments and pooled investment vehicles, such as master limited partnership ("MLP") investments that are principally engaged in one or more aspects of the exploration, production, processing, transmission, marketing, storage or delivery of energy-related commodities, such as natural gas, natural gas liquids, coal, crude oil or refined petroleum products, in addition to exchange-traded notes and ETFs that generate returns tied to a particular commodity or commodity market index.

Except as otherwise expressly noted in the Statement of Additional Information ("SAI"), all percentage limitations and ratings criteria apply at the time of purchase of securities, except that the limit on borrowing described herein is applied on a continual basis.

The Fund may borrow an amount up to 33 1/3% of its total assets (including the amount borrowed). The Fund may borrow for investment purposes and for temporary, extraordinary or emergency purposes. To the extent the Fund borrows more money than it has cash or short-term cash equivalents and invests the proceeds, the Fund will create financial leverage. The use of borrowing for investment purposes increases both investment opportunity and investment risk.

The Fund's portfolio manager may sell a security for a variety of reasons, such as to invest in a company offering or superior investment opportunities.

The portfolio manager may sell short securities of a company that it believes: (i) is overvalued relative to normalized business and industry fundamentals or to the expected growth that the portfolio manager believes the company will achieve; (ii) has a weak competitive position relative to peers; (iii) engages in questionable accounting practices;

(iv) shows declining cash flow and/or liquidity; (v) has distribution estimates that the portfolio manager believes are too high; (vi) has weak competitive barriers to entry; (vii) suffers from deteriorating industry and/or business fundamentals; (viii) has a weak management team; (ix) will see multiple contraction; (x) is not adapting to changes in technological, regulatory or competitive environments; or (xi) provides a hedge against the Fund's long exposure, such as a broad based market ETF. Technical analysis may be used to help in the decision making process. The Fund may engage in short sales that are not made "against-the-box," which means that the Fund may sell short securities even when they are not actually owned or offset at all times during the period the short position is open and could result in unlimited loss.

Additional Portfolio Information

The Investment Adviser and its affiliates manage other accounts, including registered and private funds and individual accounts. Although investment decisions for the Fund are made independently from those of such other accounts, the Investment Adviser may, consistent with applicable law, make investment recommendations to other clients or accounts that may be the same or different from those made to the Fund, including investments in different levels of the capital structure of a company, such as equity versus senior loans, or that involve taking contradictory positions in multiple levels of the capital structure. The Investment Adviser has adopted policies and procedures that address the allocation of investment opportunities, execution of portfolio transactions, personal trading by employees and other potential conflicts of interest that are designed to ensure that all client accounts are treated equitably over time. Nevertheless, this may create situations where a client could be disadvantaged because of the investment activities conducted by the Investment Adviser for other client accounts. When the Fund and one or more of such other accounts is prepared to invest in, or desire to dispose of, the same security, available investments or opportunities for each will be allocated in a manner believed by the Investment Adviser to be equitable to the Fund and such other accounts. The Investment Adviser also may aggregate orders to purchase and sell securities for the Fund and such other accounts. Although the Investment Adviser believes that, over time, the potential benefits of participating in volume transactions and negotiating lower transaction costs should benefit all accounts including the Fund, in some cases these activities may adversely affect the price paid or received by the Fund or the size of the position obtained or disposed of by the Fund.

Disclosure of Fund Expenses

As a shareholder of a Fund, you incur two types of costs: (1) transaction costs, including sales charges (loads) on purchases and redemption fees; and (2) ongoing costs, including management fees; distribution (12b-1) and service fees; and other Fund expenses. This example is intended to help you understand the ongoing costs (in dollars) of investing in your Fund and to compare these costs with the ongoing costs of investing in other mutual funds. The example is based on an investment of $1,000 invested at the beginning of the period and held for the six-month period October 1, 2022 through March 31, 2023, unless otherwise indicated. This table illustrates your Fund's costs in two ways:

Actual Expenses: The first part of the table provides information about actual account values and actual expenses. You may use the information in this line, together with the amount you invested, to estimate the expenses that you paid over the period. Simply divide your account value by $1,000 (for example, an $8,600 account value divided by $1,000 = 8.6), then multiply the result by the number in the first line under the heading entitled "Expenses Paid During Period" to estimate the expenses you paid on your account during this period.

Hypothetical Example for Comparison Purposes: The second part of the table provides information about hypothetical account values and hypothetical expenses based on your Fund's actual expense ratio and an assumed rate of return of 5% per year before expenses, which is not your Fund's actual return. The actual expense ratio includes voluntary fee waivers or expense reimbursements by the Fund's investment adviser. The expense ratio would be higher had the fee waivers or expense reimbursements not been in effect. The hypothetical account values and expenses may not be used to estimate the actual ending account balance or expenses you paid for the period. You may use this information to compare the ongoing costs of investing in your Fund and other funds. To do so, compare this 5% hypothetical example with the 5% hypothetical examples that appear in the shareholder reports of the other funds. Please note that the expenses shown in the table are meant to highlight your ongoing costs only and do not reflect any transactional costs, such as sales charges (loads) or redemption fees. Therefore, the second part of the table is useful in comparing ongoing costs only, and will not help you determine the relative total costs of owning different funds. In addition, if these transactional costs were included, your costs would have been higher.

	Beginning Account Value 4/1/23 ($)	Ending Account Value 9/30/23 ($)	Annualized Expense Ratios	Expenses Paid During Period[(1)] ($)
Actual Fund Return
	1,000.00	1,004.90	2.05%	10.30
Hypothetical 5% Return (before expenses)
	1,000.00	1,014.79	2.05%	10.35

(1) Expenses are equal to the Fund's annualized expense ratio multiplied by the average account value over the period, multiplied by the number of days in the most recent fiscal half-year, divided by the number of days in the full fiscal year (183/365).

Approval of Investment Advisory Agreement

The Fund has retained NexPoint Asset Management, L.P. (the "Investment Adviser") to manage the assets of the Fund pursuant to an investment advisory agreement between the Investment Adviser and the Fund (the "Agreement"). The Agreement has been approved by the Fund's Board of Trustees, including a majority of the Independent Trustees. The Agreement continues in effect from year- to-year, provided that such continuance is specifically approved at least annually by the vote of holders of at least a majority of the outstanding shares of the Fund or by the Board of Trustees and, in either event, by a majority of the Independent Trustees of the Fund casting votes at a meeting called for such purpose.

During a meeting with the Investment Adviser held on August 10, 2023, and separately with independent trustee counsel on August 18, 2023, the Board of Trustees considered information bearing on the continuation of the Agreement for an additional one-year period. The Board of Trustees further discussed and considered information with respect to the continuation of the Agreement at a Board meeting held on September 14-15, 2023.

Following review and discussion of the Agreement and information provided by the Investment Adviser discussed below, at the meeting held on September 14-15, 2023, the Board of Trustees, including the Independent Trustees, approved the continuance of the Agreement for a one-year period commencing on November 1, 2023. As part of its review process, the Board of Trustees requested, through Fund counsel and independent legal counsel, and received from the Investment Adviser, various information and written materials, including: (1) information regarding the financial soundness of the Investment Adviser and the profitability of the Agreement to the Investment Adviser; (2) information on the advisory, legal and compliance personnel of the Investment Adviser, including ongoing updates regarding the Highland Capital Management L.P. ("HCMLP") bankruptcy; (3) information regarding the role of Skyview Group ("Skyview") as a service provider to the Investment Adviser pursuant to the services agreement between Skyview and the Investment Adviser (the "Skyview Services Agreement") to assist the Investment Adviser in providing certain services to the Fund pursuant to the Agreement, as well as information regarding the Investment Adviser's oversight role over Skyview; (4) information on the internal compliance procedures of the Investment Adviser, including policies and procedures for personal securities transactions, conflicts of interest and with respect to cybersecurity, business continuity and disaster recovery; (5) comparative information showing how the Fund's fees and operating expenses compare to those of other accounts of the Investment Adviser, if any, with investment strategies similar to those of the Fund; (6) information on the investment performance of the Fund, including comparisons of the Fund's performance against that of other registered investment companies and comparable funds managed by the Investment Adviser that follow investment strategies similar to those of the Fund; (7) information regarding brokerage and portfolio transactions; and (8) information on any legal proceedings or regulatory audits or investigations affecting the Investment Adviser, including potential claims in the HCMLP bankruptcy. Throughout the annual contract renewal process, the Board of Trustees requested that the Investment Adviser provide additional information and responses regarding various matters in connection with the Board of Trustee's review and consideration of the Agreement. It was further noted that throughout the process, the Board of Trustees, including separately the Independent Trustees, had also met in executive sessions to further discuss the materials and information provided.

In addition, the Board of Trustees received an independent report from FUSE Research Network ("FUSE"), an independent third-party provider of investment company data, relating to the Fund's performance and expenses compared to the performance and expenses of a group of funds deemed by FUSE to be comparable to the Fund (the "peer group"), and to a larger group of comparable funds (the "peer universe"). The Board of Trustees also received data relating to the Fund's leverage and distribution rates as compared to its peer group.

The Board of Trustees discussed the materials and information provided by the Investment Adviser in detail over the course of multiple meetings, including the Investment Adviser's responses to the Board of Trustees' specific written questions, comparative fee and performance information and information concerning the Investment Adviser's business and financial condition. The factors considered and the determinations made by the Board of Trustees in connection with the approval of the renewal of the Agreement with the Investment Adviser are set forth below but are not exhaustive of all matters that were discussed by the Board of Trustees.

The Board of Trustees' evaluation process with respect to the Investment Adviser is an ongoing one. In this regard, the Board of Trustees also took into account discussions with management and information provided to the Board of Trustees at meetings of the Board of Trustees over the course of the year and in past years with respect to the services provided by the Investment Adviser to the Fund, including quarterly performance reports prepared by management containing reviews of investment results and prior presentations from the Investment Adviser with respect to the Fund. The information received and considered by the Board of Trustees in connection with the Board's determination to approve the continuance of the Agreement was both written and oral.

The Board of Trustees reviewed various factors that were discussed in a legal memorandum provided by independent counsel regarding trustee responsibilities in considering the Agreement, the detailed information provided by the Investment Adviser and other relevant information. The Board of Trustees also considered other factors (including conditions and trends prevailing generally in the economy, the securities markets, and the effect of the COVID-19 pandemic on the Fund and the industry). Some of the factors that figured particularly in the Board of Trustees' deliberations are described below, although individual Trustees may have evaluated the information presented differently from one another, giving different weights to various factors. In addition, the Board of Trustees' conclusions may be based in part on its consideration of the advisory arrangements in prior years and on the Board of Trustees' ongoing regular review of fund performance and operations throughout the year. The Board of Trustees' conclusions as to the approval of the Agreement were based on a comprehensive consideration of all information provided to the Board of Trustees without any single factor being dispositive in and of itself.

Throughout the process, the Board of Trustees had the opportunity to ask questions of and request additional information from the Investment Adviser. The Board of Trustees was assisted by legal counsel for the Trust and the Independent Trustees were also separately assisted by independent legal counsel throughout the process. The Board of Trustees also met separately without representatives of the Investment Adviser present. The Independent Trustees were advised by and met in executive sessions with their independent legal counsel at which no representatives of management were present to discuss the proposed continuation of the Agreement.

The nature, extent, and quality of the services to be provided by the Investment Adviser.

The Board of Trustees considered the Investment Adviser's services as investment manager to the Fund.

The Board of Trustees considered the portfolio management services to be provided by the Investment Adviser under the Agreement and the activities related to portfolio management, including use of technology, research capabilities and investment management staff. The Board of Trustees also considered the relevant experience and qualifications of the personnel providing advisory services, including the background and experience of the members of the Fund's portfolio management team. The Board of Trustees reviewed the management structure, assets under management and investment philosophies and processes of the Investment Adviser. The Board of Trustees also reviewed and discussed information regarding the Investment Adviser's compliance policies, procedures and personnel, including compensation arrangements, and with respect to valuation, cybersecurity, business continuity and disaster recovery. The Board of Trustees also considered the Investment Adviser's risk management and monitoring processes. The Board of Trustees took into account the terms of the Agreement and considered that, the Investment Adviser, subject to the direction of the Board of Trustees, is responsible for providing advice and guidance with respect to the Fund and for managing the investment of the assets of the Fund. The Board of Trustees also took into account that the scope of services provided to the Fund and the undertakings required of the Investment Adviser in connection with those services, including with respect to its own and the Fund's compliance programs, had expanded over time as a result of regulatory, market and other developments. The Board of Trustees also considered any operational, staffing and organizational changes with respect to the Investment Adviser over the prior year, and the fact that there were no material operational or compliance issues with respect to the Fund or decrease in the level and quality of services provided to the Fund as a result. The Board of Trustees also considered the Investment Adviser's legal and regulatory history. The Board of Trustees also considered the Investment Adviser's current litigation matters related to the HCMLP bankruptcy and took into account the Investment Adviser's representation that such matters have not impacted the quality and level of services the Investment Adviser provides to the Fund under the Agreement.

The Investment Adviser's services in coordinating and overseeing the activities of the Fund's other service providers, as well of the services provided by Skyview to the Investment Adviser under the Skyview Services Agreement, were also considered. The Board of Trustees also evaluated the expertise and performance of the personnel of the Investment Adviser who performed services for the Fund throughout the year. They also considered the quality of the Investment Adviser's compliance oversight program with respect to the Fund's service providers. The Board of Trustees also considered both the investment advisory services and the nature, quality and extent of any administrative and other non-advisory services, including shareholder servicing and distribution support services, that are provided to the Fund and its shareholders by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates, as well as considered the services provided by Skyview to the Investment Adviser under the Skyview Services Agreement. The Board of Trustees noted that the level and quality of services to the Fund by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates had not been materially impacted by the HCMLP bankruptcy and took into account the Investment Adviser's representations that the level and quality of the services provided by the Investment Adviser and their affiliates, as well as of those services provided by Skyview to the Investment Adviser under the Skyview Services Agreement, would continue to be provided to the Fund at the same or higher level and quality.

The Board of Trustees also considered the significant risks assumed by the Investment Adviser in connection with the services provided to the Fund, including entrepreneurial risk and ongoing risks including investment, operational, enterprise, litigation, regulatory and compliance risks with respect to the Fund. The Board of Trustees also noted various cost savings initiatives that had been implemented by the Investment Adviser with respect to the Fund and the other funds in the Highland complex over the years. The Board of Trustees considered the Investment Adviser's financial condition and financial wherewithal. The Board of Trustees also considered the financial condition and operations of the Investment Adviser during the COVID-19 pandemic and noted that there had been no material disruption of the Investment Adviser's services to the Fund and that the Investment Adviser had continued to provide the same level, quality and extent of services to the Fund.

The Board of Trustees also noted that on a regular basis it receives and reviews information from the Fund's Chief Compliance Officer (CCO) regarding the Fund's compliance policies and procedures established pursuant to Rule 38a-1 under the 1940 Act. The Board of Trustees also took into account the Investment Adviser's risk assessment processes.

In considering the nature, extent, and quality of the services provided by the Investment Adviser, the Board of Trustees also took into account its knowledge of the Investment Adviser's management and the quality of the performance of its duties, through discussions and reports and interactions during the preceding year and in past years.

The Board of Trustees concluded that the Investment Adviser had the quality and depth of personnel and investment methods essential to performing its duties under the Agreement, and that the nature and the quality of such advisory services supported the approval of the Agreement.

The Investment Adviser's historical performance.

In considering the Fund's performance, the Board of Trustees noted that it reviews at its regularly scheduled meetings information about the Fund's performance results. The Board of Trustees considered the performance of the Fund as described in the quarterly and other reports provided by management over the course of the year. The Board of Trustees noted that the Investment Adviser reviewed with the Board of Trustees on at least a quarterly basis detailed information about the Fund's performance results, portfolio composition and investment strategies. The Board of Trustees reviewed the historical performance of the Fund over various time periods and reflected on previous discussions regarding matters bearing on the Investment Adviser's performance at its meetings throughout the year. The Board of Trustees discussed the historical performance of the Fund and considered the relative performance of the Fund and its portfolio management team as compared to that of the Fund's peer group as selected by FUSE, as well as comparable indices. Among other data, the Board of Trustees also received data with respect to the Fund's leverage, discounts and distribution rates as compared to its peer group.

The Board of Trustees reviewed and considered the FUSE report, which provided a statistical analysis comparing the Fund's investment performance, expenses and fees to those of comparable funds for various periods ended June 30, 2023 and management's discussion of the same, including the effect of current market conditions on the Fund's more-recent performance. The Board of Trustees also received a review of the data contained in the FUSE report from representatives of FUSE. The Board of Trustees noted that while it found the data provided by FUSE, the independent third-party data provider, generally useful, it recognized its limitations, including in particular that the data may vary depending on the end date selected and the results of the performance comparisons may vary depending on the selection of the peer group. The Board of Trustees also took into account management's discussion of the category in which the Fund was placed for comparative purposes, including any differences between the Fund's investment strategy and the strategy of the funds in the Fund's respective category, as well as compared to the peer group selected by FUSE. The Board of Trustees also took into account its discussions with management over the course of the year regarding factors that contributed to the performance of the Fund, including presentations with the Fund's portfolio managers.

Among other data relating specifically to the Fund's performance, the Board of Trustees considered that the Fund outperformed (based on NAV) its benchmark, the FTSE All World Index, for the three-year period ended June 30, 2023, but underperformed its benchmark for the one-, five-, and ten-year periods ended June 30, 2023. The Board of Trustees then considered that the Fund (based on NAV) had outperformed its peer group median for the three-year period ended June 30, 2023; underperformed its peer group median for the one-year period ended June 30, 2023; and was in line with the performance of its peer group median for the five-and ten-year periods ended June 30, 2023. The Board of Trustees also took into account the unique mandate of the Fund as compared to the other funds in its peer group. The Board of Trustees also took into account management's discussion of the Fund's performance, including with respect to the Fund's discount as compared to the Fund's performance based on NAV, its distribution rate relative to its peers, as well as a discussion of certain of the Fund's holdings and actions already taken and other plans to potentially address the Fund's discount.

The Board of Trustees concluded that the Fund's overall performance and other relevant factors supported the continuation of the Agreement with respect to the Fund for an additional one-year period.

The costs of the services to be provided by the Investment Adviser and the profits to be realized by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates from the relationship with the Fund.

The Board of Trustees also gave consideration to the fees payable under the Agreement, the expenses the Investment Adviser incur in providing advisory services and the profitability to the Investment Adviser from managing the Fund, including: (1) information regarding the financial condition of the Investment Adviser and regarding profitability from the relationship with the Fund; (2) information regarding the total fees and payments received by the Investment Adviser for its services and, with respect to the Investment Adviser, whether such fees are appropriate given economies of scale and other considerations; (3) comparative information showing (a) the fees payable under the Agreement versus the investment advisory fees of certain registered investment companies and comparable funds that follow investment strategies similar to those of the Fund and (b) the expense ratios of the Fund versus the expense ratios of certain registered investment companies and comparable funds that follow investment strategies similar to those of the Fund; and (4) information regarding the total fees and payments received and the related amounts waived and/or reimbursed by the Investment Adviser and whether such fees are appropriate.

The Board of Trustees considered that the Fund's total net expenses were lower than its peer group median and that the Fund's advisory fees were lower than its peer group median. The Board of Trustees took into account management's discussion of the Fund's expenses, including any differences in its investment strategy from other funds in the peer group, and the amounts waived and/or reimbursed by the Investment Adviser.

The Board of Trustees also considered the so-called "fallout benefits" to the Investment Adviser with respect to the Fund, such as the reputational value of serving as Investment Adviser to the Fund, potential fees paid to the Investment Adviser's affiliates by the Fund or portfolio companies for services provided, the benefits of scale from investment by the Fund in affiliated funds, and the benefits of research made available to the Investment Adviser by reason of brokerage commissions (if any) generated by the Fund's securities transactions. The Board of Trustees concluded that the benefits received by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates were reasonable in the context of the relationship between the Investment Adviser and the Fund.

After such review, the Board of Trustees determined that the profitability to the Investment Adviser and its affiliates from their relationship with the Fund, if any, was not excessive.

The extent to which economies of scale would be realized as the Fund grows and whether fee levels reflect these economies of scale for the benefit of shareholders.

The Board of Trustees also considered the effect of the Fund's growth in assets under management on its fees. The Board of Trustees noted that the Fund does not currently contain breakpoints in its advisory fee schedule. The Board of Trustees took into account the Investment Adviser's discussion of the fee structure, including that the Fund benefits from a waiver of a portion of its advisory fees, which the Investment Adviser believes can be more effective than breakpoints at controlling overall costs borne by shareholders. The Board of Trustees also noted the FUSE report, which compared fees among peers, included the Fund's contractual fee schedule at different asset levels. The Board of Trustees also noted the current size of the fund. The Board of Trustees noted that, if the Fund's assets increase over time, the Fund may realize other economies of scale if assets increase proportionally more than certain other fixed expenses. The Board of Trustees concluded that the fee structure is reasonable, and with respect to the Investment Adviser, should result in a sharing of economies of scale in view of the information provided. The Board of Trustees determined to continue to review the ways and extent to which economies of scale might be shared between the Investment Adviser, on the one hand, and shareholders of the Fund, on the other, as the assets in the Fund grow.

Conclusion.

Following a further discussion of the factors above, it was noted that in considering the approval of the Agreement, no single factor was determinative to the decision of the Board of Trustees. Rather, after weighing all factors and considerations, including those discussed above, the Board of Trustees, including separately, the Independent Trustees, unanimously agreed that the Agreement, including the advisory fee to be paid to the Investment Adviser, is fair and reasonable to the Fund in light of the services that the Investment Adviser provides, the expenses that it incurs and the reasonably foreseeable asset levels of the Fund.

Dividend Reinvestment Plan

Unless the registered owner of Common Shares elects to receive cash by contacting Global Shares ("Global Shares" or the "Plan Agent"), as agent for shareholders in administering the Plan, a registered owner will receive newly issued Common Shares for all dividends declared for Common Shares of the Fund. If a registered owner of Common Share selects not to participate in the Plan, they will receive all dividends in cash paid by check mailed directly to them (or, if the shares are held in street or other nominee name, then to such nominee) by Global Shares, as dividend disbursing agent. Shareholders may elect not to participate in the Plan and to receive all dividends in cash by sending written instructions or by contacting Global Shares, as dividend disbursing agent, at the address set forth below. Participation in the Plan is completely voluntary and may be terminated or resumed at any time without penalty by contacting the Plan Agent before the dividend record date; otherwise such termination or resumption will be effective with respect to any subsequently declared dividend. Some brokers may automatically elect to receive cash on the shareholders' behalf and may reinvest that cash in additional Common Shares of the Fund for them. The Plan Agent will open an account for each shareholder under the Plan in the same name in which such shareholder's Common Shares are registered. Whenever the Fund declares a dividend payable in cash, non-participants in the Plan will receive cash and participants in the Plan will receive the equivalent in Common Shares. The Common Shares will be acquired by the Plan Agent through receipt of additional unissued but authorized Common Shares from the Fund ("newly issued Common Shares"). The number of newly issued Common Shares to be credited to each participant's account will be determined by dividing the dollar amount of the dividend by the lesser of (i) the net asset value per Common Share determined on the Declaration Date and (ii) the market price

per Common Share as of the close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange (the "NYSE") on the Declaration Date. The Plan Agent maintains all shareholders' accounts in the Plan and furnishes written confirmation of all transactions in the accounts, including information needed by shareholders for tax records. Common Shares in the account of each Plan participant will be held by the Plan Agent on behalf of the Plan participant, and each shareholder proxy will include those shares purchased or received pursuant to the Plan. The Plan Agent will forward all proxy solicitation materials to participants and vote proxies for shares held under the Plan in accordance with the instructions of the participants. In the case of shareholders such as banks, brokers or nominees which hold shares for others who are the beneficial owners, the Plan Agent will administer the Plan on the basis of the number of Common Shares certified from time to time by the record shareholder's name and held for the account of beneficial owners who participate in the Plan. There will be no brokerage charges with respect to Common Shares issued directly by the Fund. The automatic reinvestment of dividends will not relieve participants of any federal, state or local income tax that may be payable (or required to be withheld) on such dividends. Accordingly, any taxable dividend received by a participant that is reinvested in additional Common Shares will be subject to federal (and possibly state and local) income tax even though such participant will not receive a corresponding amount of cash with which to pay such taxes. Participants who request a sale of shares through the Plan Agent are subject to a $2.50 sales fee and pay a brokerage commission of $0.05 per share sold. The Fund reserves the right to amend or terminate the Plan. There is no direct service charge to participants in the Plan; however, the Fund reserves the right to amend the Plan to include a service charge payable by the participants. All correspondence concerning the Plan should be directed to the Plan Agent.

Control Persons and Principal Shareholders

As of September 30, 2023, the Trustees and officers of the Fund as a group owned less than 1% of the then outstanding shares of each class of shares of the Fund.

Control persons are presumed to control a Fund for purposes of voting on matters submitted to a vote of shareholders due to their beneficial ownership of 25% or more of a Fund's outstanding voting securities.

Unless otherwise noted, as of September 30, 2023, no persons known by the Fund owned 25% or more of Fund's outstanding shares.

A person who beneficially owns, either directly or indirectly, more than 25% of the voting securities of the Fund or acknowledges the existence of such control may be presumed to control the Fund. A control person could potentially control the outcome of any proposal submitted to the shareholders for approval, including changes to the Fund's fundamental policies or terms of the investment advisory agreement with the Investment Adviser.

Item 7. Disclosure of Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures for Closed-End Management Investment Companies.

NEXPOINT ASSET MANAGEMENT, L.P.
PROXY VOTING POLICY

Purpose and Scope

The purpose of these voting policies and procedures (the "Policy") is to set forth the principles and procedures by which NexPoint Asset Management, L.P. (the "Company") votes or gives consents with respect to the securities owned by Clients for which the Company exercises voting authority and discretion.[1] For avoidance of doubt, this includes any proxy and any shareholder vote or consent, including a vote or consent for a private company or other issuer that does not involve a proxy. These policies and procedures have been designed to help ensure that votes are cast in the best interests of Clients in accordance with the Company's fiduciary duties and Rule 206(4)-6 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (the "Advisers Act").

[1] In any case where a Client has instructed the Company to vote in a particular manner on the Client's behalf, those instructions will govern in lieu of parameters set forth in the Policy.

This Policy applies to securities held in all Client accounts (including Retail Funds and other pooled investment vehicles) as to which the Company has explicit or implicit voting authority. Implicit voting authority exists where the Company's voting authority is implied by a general delegation of investment authority without reservation of proxy voting authority to the Client.

If the Company has delegated voting authority to an investment sub-adviser with respect to any Retail Fund, such sub-adviser will be responsible for voting all proxies for such Retail Funds in accordance with the sub-adviser's proxy voting policies. The Compliance Department, to provide oversight over the proxy voting by sub-advisers and to ensure that votes are executed in the best interests of the Retail Funds, shall (i) review the proxy voting policies and procedures of each Retail Fund sub-adviser to confirm that they comply with Rule 206(4)-6, both upon engagement of the sub-adviser and upon any material change to the sub-adviser's proxy voting policies and procedures, and (ii) require each such sub-adviser to provide quarterly certifications that all proxies were voted pursuant to the sub-adviser's policies and procedures or to describe any inconsistent votes.

General Principles

The Company and its affiliates engage in a broad range of activities, including investment activities for their own accounts and for the accounts of various Clients and providing investment advisory and other services to Clients. In the ordinary course of conducting the Company's activities, the interests of a Client may conflict with the interests of the Company, other Clients and/or the Company's affiliates and their clients. Any conflicts of interest relating to the voting of proxies, regardless of whether actual or perceived, will be addressed in accordance with these policies and procedures. The guiding principle by which the Company votes all proxies is to vote in the best interests of each Client by maximizing the economic value of the relevant Client's holdings, taking into account the relevant Client's investment horizon, the contractual obligations under the relevant advisory agreements or comparable documents and all other relevant facts and circumstances at the time of the vote. The Company does not permit voting decisions to be influenced in any manner that is contrary to, or dilutive of, this guiding principle.

Voting Procedures

Third-Party Proxy Advisors

The Company may engage a third-party proxy advisor ("Proxy Advisor") to provide proxy voting recommendations with respect to Client proxies. Proxy Advisor voting recommendation guidelines are generally designed to increase investors' potential financial gain. When considering whether to retain or continue retaining any particular Proxy Advisor, the Compliance Department will ascertain, among other things, whether the Proxy Advisor has the capacity and competency to adequately analyze proxy issues. In this regard, the Compliance Department will consider, among other things: the adequacy and quality of the Proxy Advisor's staffing and personnel; the robustness of its policies and procedures regarding its ability to (a) ensure that its proxy voting recommendations are based on current and accurate information and (b) identify and address any conflicts of interest and any other considerations that the Compliance Department determines would be appropriate in considering the nature and quality of the services provided by the Proxy Advisor. To identify and address any conflicts that may arise on the part of the Proxy Advisor, the Compliance Department will ensure that the Proxy Advisor notifies the Compliance Department of any relevant business changes or changes to its policies and procedures regarding conflicts.

Third-Party Proxy Voting Services

The Company may utilize a third-party proxy voting service ("Proxy Voting Service") to monitor holdings in Client accounts for purposes of determining whether there are upcoming shareholder meetings or similar corporate actions and to execute Client proxies on behalf of the Company pursuant to the Company's instructions, which shall be given in a manner consistent with this Policy. The Compliance Department will oversee each Proxy Voting Service to ensure that proxies have been voted in a manner consistent with the Company's instructions.

Monitoring

Subject to the procedures regarding Nonstandard Proxy Notices described below, the Compliance Department of the Company shall have responsibility for monitoring Client accounts for proxy notices. Except as detailed below, if proxy notices are received by other employees of the Company, such employees must promptly forward all proxy or other voting materials to the Compliance Department.

Portfolio Manager Review and Instruction

From time to time, the settlement group of the Company may receive nonstandard proxy notices, regarding matters including, but not limited to, proposals regarding corporate actions or amendments ("Nonstandard Proxy Notices") with respect to securities held by Clients. Upon receipt of a Nonstandard Proxy Notice, a member of the settlement group (the "Settlement Designee") shall send an email notification containing all relevant information to the Portfolio Manager(s) with responsibility for the security and R-Settlement@highlandcapital.com. Generally, the relevant Portfolio Manager(s) shall deliver voting instructions for Nonstandard Proxy Notices by replying to the email notice sent to the Portfolio Manager(s) and R-Settlement@highlandcapital.com by the Settlement Designee or by sending voting instructions to R-Settlement@highlandcapital.com and R-Settlement@highlandcapital.com. Any conflicts for Nonstandard Proxy Notices should also be disclosed to the Compliance Department. In the event a Portfolio Manager orally conveys voting instructions to the Settlement Designee or any other member of the Company's settlement group, that Settlement Designee or member of the Company's settlement group shall respond to the original notice email sent to R-Settlement@highlandcapital.com detailing the Portfolio Manager(s) voting instructions.

With regard to standard proxy notices, on a weekly basis, the Compliance Department will send a notice of upcoming proxy votes related to securities held by Clients and the corresponding voting recommendations of the Proxy Advisor to the relevant Portfolio Manager(s). Upon receipt of a proxy notice from the Compliance Department, the Portfolio Manager(s) will review and evaluate the upcoming votes and recommendations. The Portfolio Managers may rely on any information and/or research available to him or her and may, in his or her discretion, meet with members of an issuer's management to discuss matters of importance to the relevant Clients and their economic interests. Should the Portfolio Manager determine that deviating from the Proxy Advisor's recommendation is in a Client's best interest, the Portfolio Manager shall communicate his or her voting instructions to the Compliance Department.

In the event that more than one Portfolio Manager is responsible for making a particular voting decision and such Portfolio Managers are unable to arrive at an agreement as to how to vote with respect to a particular proposal, they should consult with the applicable Chief Compliance Officer (the "CCO") for guidance.

Voting

Upon receipt of the relevant Portfolio Managers' voting instructions, if any, the Compliance Department will communicate the instructions to the Proxy Voting Service to execute the proxy votes.

Non-Votes

It is the general policy of the Company to vote or give consent on all matters presented to security holders in any vote, and these policies and procedures have been designated with that in mind. However, the Company reserves the right to abstain on any particular vote if, in the judgment of the CCO, or the relevant Portfolio Manager, the effect on the relevant Client's economic interests or the value of the portfolio holding is insignificant in relation to the Client's portfolio, if the costs associated with voting in any particular instance outweigh the benefits to the relevant Clients or if the circumstances make such an abstention or withholding otherwise advisable and in the best interests of the relevant Clients not to vote. Such determination may apply in respect of all Client holdings of the securities or only certain specified Clients, as the Company deems appropriate under the circumstances. As examples, a Portfolio Manager may determine: (a) not to recall securities on loan if, in his or her judgment, the matters being voted upon are not material events affecting the securities and the negative consequences to Clients of disrupting the securities lending program would outweigh the benefits of voting in the particular instance or (b) not to vote proxies relating to certain foreign securities if, in his or her judgment, the expense and administrative inconvenience outweighs the benefits to Clients of voting the securities.

Conflicts of Interest

The Company's Compliance Department is responsible for monitoring voting decisions for any conflicts of interest, regardless of whether they are actual or perceived. All voting decisions contrary to the recommendation of a Proxy Advisor require a mandatory conflicts of interest review by the Compliance Department, which will include a consideration of whether the Company or any Portfolio Manager or other person recommending or providing input on how to vote has an interest in the vote that may present a conflict of interest.

In addition, all Company investment professionals are expected to perform their tasks relating to the voting of proxies in accordance with the principles set forth above, according the first priority to the best interest of the relevant Clients. If at any time a Portfolio Manager or any other investment professional becomes aware of a potential or actual conflict of interest regarding any particular voting decision, he or she must contact the Compliance Department promptly and, if in connection with a proxy that has yet to be voted, prior to such vote. If any investment professional is pressured or lobbied, whether from inside or outside the Company, with respect to any particular voting decision, he or she should contact the Compliance Department promptly. The CCO will use his or her best judgment to address any such conflict of interest and ensure that it is resolved in accordance with his or her independent assessment of the best interests of the relevant Clients.

In the event of a conflict, the Company may choose to address such conflict by: (i) voting in accordance with the Proxy Advisor's recommendation; (ii) the CCO determining how to vote the proxy (if the CCO approves deviation from the Proxy Advisor's recommendation, then the CCO shall document the rationale for the vote); (iii) "echo voting" or "mirror voting" the proxy in the same proportion as the votes of other proxy holders that are not Clients; or (iv) with respect to Clients other than Retail Funds, notifying the affected Client of the material conflict of interest and seeking a waiver of the conflict or obtaining such Client's voting instructions. Where the Compliance Department deems appropriate, third parties may be used to help resolve conflicts. In this regard, the CCO or his or her delegate shall have the power to retain fiduciaries, consultants or professionals to assist with voting decisions and/or to delegate voting or consent powers to such fiduciaries, consultants or professionals.

Where a conflict of interest arises with respect to a voting decision for a Retail Fund, the Company shall disclose the conflict and the rationale for the vote taken to the Retail Fund's Board of Directors/Trustees at the next regularly scheduled quarterly meeting. The Compliance Department will maintain a log documenting the basis for the decision and will furnish the log to the Board of Trustees.

Material Conflicts of Interest

The following relationships or circumstances are examples of situations that may give rise to a material conflict of interest for purposes of this Policy. This list is not exclusive or determinative; any potential conflict (including payments of the types described below but less than the specified threshold) should be identified to the Company's Compliance Department:

(i) The issuer is a Client of the Company, or of an affiliate, accounting for more than 5% of the Company's or affiliate's annual revenues.

(ii) The issuer is an entity that reasonably could be expected to pay the Company or its affiliates more than $1 million through the end of the Company's next two full fiscal years.

(iii) The issuer is an entity in which a "Covered Person" (as defined in the Company's Policies and Procedures Designed to Detect and Prevent Insider Trading and to Comply with Rule 17j-1 of the 1940Act (the "Code of Ethics")) has a beneficial interest contrary to the position held by the Company on behalf of Clients.

(iv) The issuer is an entity in which an officer or partner of the Company or a relative of any such person is or was an officer, director or employee, or such person or relative otherwise has received more than $150,000 in fees, compensation and other payment from the issuer during the Company's last three fiscal years; provided, however, that the Compliance Department may deem such a relationship not to be a material conflict of interest if the Company representative serves as an officer or director of the issuer at the direction of the Company for purposes of seeking control over the issuer.

(v) The matter under consideration could reasonably be expected to result in a material financial benefit to the Company or its affiliates through the end of the Company's next two full fiscal years (for example, a vote to increase an investment advisory fee for a Retail Fund advised by the Company or an affiliate).

(vi) Another Client or prospective Client of the Company, directly or indirectly, conditions future engagement of the Company on voting proxies in respect of any Client's securities on a particular matter in a particular way.

Table of Contents

(vii) The Company holds various classes and types of equity and debt securities of the same issuer contemporaneously in different Client portfolios.

(viii) Any other circumstance where the Company's duty to serve its Clients' interests, typically referred to as its "duty of loyalty," could be compromised.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, a conflict of interest described above shall not be considered material for the purposes of this Policy in respect of a specific vote or circumstance if:

The securities in respect of which the Company has the power to vote account for less than 1% of the issuer's outstanding voting securities, but only if: (i) such securities do not represent one of the 10 largest holdings of such issuer's outstanding voting securities and (ii) such securities do not represent more than 2% of the Client's holdings with the Company.

The matter to be voted on relates to a restructuring of the terms of existing securities or the issuance of new securities or a similar matter arising out of the holding of securities, other than common equity, in the context of a bankruptcy or threatened bankruptcy of the issuer.

Recordkeeping

Following the submission of a proxy vote, the Registrant will maintain a report of the vote and all relevant documentation.

The Registrant shall retain records relating to the voting of proxies and the Company shall conduct due diligence, including on Proxy Voting Services and Proxy Advisors, as applicable, to ensure the following records are adequately maintained by the appropriate party:

(i) Copies of this Policy and any amendments thereto.

(ii) A current copy of the Proxy Advisor's voting guidelines, as amended.

(iii) A copy of each proxy statement that the Company receives regarding Client securities. The Company may rely on a third party to make and retain, on the Company's behalf, a copy of a proxy statement, provided that the Company has obtained an undertaking from the third party to provide a copy of the proxy statement promptly upon request.

(iv) Records of each vote cast by the Company on behalf of Clients. The Company may satisfy this requirement by relying on a third party to make and retain, on the Company's behalf, a record of the vote cast, provided that the Company has obtained an undertaking from the third party to provide a copy of the record promptly upon request.

(v) A copy of any documents created by the Company that were material to making a decision how to vote or that memorializes the basis for that decision.

(vi) A copy of each written request for information on how the Company voted proxies on behalf of the Client, and a copy of any written response by the Company to any (oral or written) request for information on how the Company voted.

Table of Contents

These records shall be maintained and preserved in an easily accessible place for a period of not less than five years from the end of the Company's fiscal year during which the last entry was made in the records, the first two years in an appropriate office of the Company.[2]

Enforcement of this Policy

It shall be the responsibility of the Compliance Department to handle or coordinate the enforcement of this Policy. The Compliance Department will periodically sample proxy voting records to ensure that proxies have been voted in accordance with this Policy, with a particular focus on any proxy votes that require additional analysis (e.g., proxies voted contrary to the recommendations of a Proxy Advisor).

2 If the Company has essentially immediate access to a book or record (on the Company's proprietary system or otherwise) through a computer located at an appropriate office of the Company, then that book or record will be considered to be maintained at an appropriate office of the Company. "Immediate access" to books and records includes that the Company has the ability to provide promptly to Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") examination staff hard copies of the books and records or access to the storage medium. The party responsible for the applicable books and records as described above shall also be responsible for ensuring that those books and records for the first two years are either physically maintained in an appropriate office of the Company or that the Company otherwise has essentially immediate access to the required books and records for the first two years.

If the Compliance Department determines that a Proxy Advisor or Proxy Voting Service may have committed a material error, the Compliance Department will investigate the error, taking into account the nature of the error, and seek to determine whether the Proxy Advisor or Proxy Voting Service is taking reasonable steps to reduce similar errors in the future.

In addition, no less frequently than annually, the Compliance Department will review the adequacy of this Policy to ensure that it has been implemented effectively and to confirm that this Policy continues to be reasonably designed to ensure that proxies are voted in the best interest of Clients.

Disclosures to Clients and Investors

The Company includes a description of its policies and procedures regarding proxy voting in Part 2 of Form ADV, along with a statement that Clients can contact the CCO to obtain a copy of these policies and procedures and information about how the Company voted with respect to a Client's securities. This Policy is, however, subject to change at any time without notice.

As a matter of policy, the Company does not disclose how it expects to vote on upcoming proxies. Additionally, the Company does not disclose the way it voted proxies to unaffiliated third parties without a legitimate need to know such information.

(a)(2) Other Accounts Managed by Portfolio Manager(s) or Management Team Member and Potential Conflicts of Interest

Other Accounts Managed by Portfolio Manager(s) or Management Team Member

The following table provides information about funds and accounts, other than the Registrant, for which the Registrant's portfolio manager is primarily responsible for the day-to-day portfolio management as of September 30, 2023.

Potential Conflicts of Interests

The Adviser is an affiliate of NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("NexPoint"). The Adviser and/or its general partner, limited partners, officers, affiliates and employees provide investment advice to other parties and manage other accounts and investment vehicles similar to the Registrant. For the purposes of this section, the term "NAM" shall include the Adviser and its affiliated investment advisors, and all affiliates listed on its Form ADV, as filed via an amendment with the SEC October 23, 2020 (CRD No. 149653).

In connection with such other investment management activities, the Adviser and/or its general partner, limited partners, officers, affiliates and employees may decide to invest the funds of one or more other accounts or recommend the investment of funds by other parties, rather than the Registrant's monies, in a particular security or strategy. In addition, the Adviser and such other persons will determine the allocation of funds from the Registrant and such other accounts to investment strategies and techniques on whatever basis they consider appropriate or desirable in their sole and absolute discretion.

NAM has built a professional working environment, a firm-wide compliance culture and compliance procedures and systems designed to protect against potential incentives that may favor one account over another. NAM has adopted policies and procedures that address the allocation of investment opportunities, execution of portfolio transactions, personal trading by employees and other potential conflicts of interest that are designed to ensure that all client accounts are treated equitably over time. Nevertheless, NAM furnishes advisory services to numerous clients in addition to the Registrant, and NAM may, consistent with applicable law, make investment recommendations to other clients or accounts (including accounts that have performance or higher fees paid to NAM or in which portfolio managers have a personal interest in the receipt of such fees) that may be the same as or different from those made to the Registrant. In addition, NAM, its affiliates and any of their partners, directors, officers, stockholders or employees may or may not have an interest in the securities whose purchase and sale the Adviser recommends to the Registrant. Actions with respect to securities of the same kind may be the same as or different from the action that the Adviser, or any of its affiliates, or any of their partners, directors, officers, stockholders or employees or any member of their families may take with respect to the same securities. Moreover, the Adviser may refrain from rendering any advice or services concerning securities of companies of which any of the Adviser's (or its affiliates') partners, directors, officers or employees are directors or officers, or companies as to which the Adviser or any of its affiliates or partners, directors, officers and employees of any of them has any substantial economic interest or possesses material non-public information.

The Adviser, its affiliates or their partners, directors, officers or employees similarly serve or may serve other entities that operate in the same or related lines of business, including accounts managed by an investment adviser affiliated with the Adviser. Accordingly, these individuals may have obligations to investors in those entities or funds or to other clients, the fulfillment of which might not be in the best interests of the Registrant. As a result, the Adviser will face conflicts in the allocation of investment opportunities to the Registrant and other funds and clients. In order to enable such affiliates to fulfill their fiduciary duties to each of the clients for which they have responsibility, the Adviser will endeavor to allocate investment opportunities in a fair and equitable manner, pursuant to policies and procedures adopted by the Adviser and its advisory affiliates that are designed to manage potential conflicts of interest, which may, subject to applicable regulatory constraints, involve pro rata co-investment by the funds and such other clients or may involve a rotation of opportunities among the funds and such other clients. The Registrant will only make investments in which the Adviser or an affiliate hold an interest to the extent permitted under the 1940 Act and SEC staff interpretations or pursuant to the terms and conditions of the exemptive order received by certain advisers and funds affiliated with the Registrant, dated April 19, 2016. For example, exemptive relief is not required for the Registrant to invest in syndicated deals and secondary loan market transactions in which the Adviser or an affiliate has an interest where price is the only negotiated point. The order applies to all "Investment Companies," which includes future closed-end investment companies registered under the 1940 Act that are managed by affiliated advisers, which includes the Registrant. The Registrant, therefore, may in the future invest in accordance with the terms and conditions of the exemptive order. To mitigate any actual or perceived conflicts of interest, allocation of limited offering securities (such as IPOs and registered secondary offerings) to principal accounts that do not include third party investors may only be made after all other client account orders for the security have been filled. However, there can be no assurance that such policies and procedures will in every case ensure fair and equitable allocations of investment opportunities, particularly when considered in hindsight.

Conflicts may arise in cases when clients and/or the Adviser and other affiliated entities invest in different parts of an issuer's capital structure, including circumstances in which one or more clients own private securities or obligations of an issuer and other clients may own public securities of the same issuer. In addition, one or more clients may invest in securities, or other financial instruments, of an issuer that are senior or junior to securities, or financial instruments, of the same issuer that are held by or acquired for, one or more other clients. For example, if such issuer encounters financial problems, decisions related to such securities (such as over the terms of any workout or proposed waivers and amendments to debt covenants) may raise conflicts of interests. In such a distressed situation, a client holding debt securities of the issuer may be better served by a liquidation of the issuer in which it may be paid in full, whereas a client holding equity securities of the issuer might prefer a reorganization that holds the potential to create value for the equity holders. In the event of conflicting interests within an issuer's capital structure, NAM will generally pursue the strategy that NAM believes best reflects what would be expected to be negotiated in an arm's length transaction, but in all instances with due consideration being given to NAM's fiduciary duties to each of its accounts (without regard to the nature of the accounts involved or fees received from such accounts). This strategy may be recommended by one or more NAM investment professionals. A single person may make decisions with respect to more than one part of an issuer's capital structure. NAM personnel board members may still make recommendations to the applicable investment professional(s). A portfolio manager with respect to any applicable NAM registered investment company clients ("Retail Accounts") will make an independent determination as to which course of action he or she determines is in the best interest of the applicable Retail Accounts. NAM may use external counsel for guidance and assistance. The Adviser and its affiliates have both subjective and objective procedures and policies in place designed to manage potential conflicts of interest involving clients so that, for example, investment opportunities are allocated in a fair and equitable manner among the Registrant and such other clients. An investment opportunity that is suitable for multiple clients of the Adviser and its affiliates may not be capable of being shared among some or all of such clients due to the limited scale of the opportunity or other factors, including regulatory restrictions imposed by the 1940 Act. There can be no assurance that the Adviser's or its affiliates' efforts to allocate any particular investment opportunity fairly among all clients for whom such opportunity is appropriate will result in an allocation of all or part of such opportunity to the Registrant. Not all conflicts of interest can be expected to be resolved in favor of the Registrant.

Another type of conflict may arise if one client account buys a security and another client account sells or shorts the same security. Currently, such opposing positions are generally not permitted within the same account without prior trade approval by the Adviser's Chief Compliance Officer. However, a portfolio manager may enter into opposing positions for different clients to the extent each such client has a different investment objective and each such position is consistent with the investment objective of the applicable client. In addition, transactions in investments by one or more affiliated client accounts may have the effect of diluting or otherwise disadvantaging the values, prices or investment strategies of other client accounts.

Because certain client accounts may have investment objectives, strategies or legal, contractual, tax or other requirements that differ (such as the need to take tax losses, realize profits, raise cash, diversification, etc.), an affiliated adviser may purchase, sell or continue to hold securities for certain client accounts contrary to other recommendations. In addition, an affiliated adviser may be permitted to sell securities or instruments short for certain client accounts and may not be permitted to do so for other affiliated client accounts.

As a result of the Fund's arrangements with the Adviser, there may be times when NexPoint, the Adviser or its affiliates have interests that differ from those of the Fund's shareholders, giving rise to a conflict of interest. The Fund's officers serve or may serve as officers, directors or principals of entities that operate in the same or a related line of business as the Fund does, or of investment funds managed by the Adviser or its affiliates. Similarly, the Adviser or its affiliates may have other clients with similar, different or competing investment objectives. In serving in these multiple capacities, they may have obligations to other clients or investors in those entities, the fulfillment of which may not be in the best interests of the Fund or its shareholders. For example, the Fund's officers have, and will continue to have, management responsibilities for other investment funds, accounts or other investment vehicles managed or sponsored by the Adviser and its affiliates. The Fund's investment objective may overlap, in part or in whole, with the investment objective of such affiliated investment funds, accounts or other investment vehicles. As a result, those individuals may face conflicts in the allocation of investment opportunities among the Registrant and other investment funds or accounts advised by or affiliated with the Adviser. The Adviser will seek to allocate investment opportunities among eligible accounts in a manner that is fair and equitable over time and consistent with its allocation policy. However, the Fund can offer no assurance that such opportunities will be allocated to it fairly or equitably in the short-term or over time.

In addition, it is anticipated that a portion of the Registrant's assets will be represented by real estate investment trusts ("REITs"), asset backed securities and/or collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs") sponsored, organized and/or managed by the Adviser and its affiliates or its historical affiliates. The Adviser will monitor for conflicts of interest in accordance with its fiduciary duties and will provide the independent trustees of the Registrant with an opportunity to periodically review the Registrant's investments in such REITs, asset-backed securities and/or CLOs and assure themselves that continued investment in such securities remains in the best interests of the Registrant and its shareholders. The Adviser may effect client cross-transactions where it causes a transaction to be effected between the Registrant and another client advised by the Adviser or any of its affiliates. The Adviser may engage in a client cross-transaction involving the Registrant any time that the Adviser believes such transaction to be fair to the Registrant and the other client of the Adviser or its affiliates. As further described below, the Adviser may effect principal transactions where the Registrant may make and/or hold an investment, including an investment in securities, in which the Adviser and/or its affiliates have a debt, equity or participation interest, in each case in accordance with applicable law, which may include the Adviser obtaining the consent and approval of the Registrant prior to engaging in any such principal transaction between the Registrant and the Adviser or its affiliates.

The Adviser may direct the Registrant to acquire or dispose of investments in cross trades between the Registrant and other clients of the Adviser or its affiliates in accordance with applicable legal and regulatory requirements. In addition, to the extent permitted by the 1940 Act and SEC staff interpretations, the Registrant may make and/or hold an investment, including an investment in securities, in which the Adviser and/or its affiliates have a debt, equity or participation interest, and the holding and sale of such investments by the Registrant may enhance the profitability of the Adviser's own investments in such companies.

(a)(3) Compensation Structure of Portfolio Manager(s) or Management Team Members

NAM's financial arrangements with its portfolio managers, its competitive compensation and its career path emphasis at all levels reflect the value senior management places on key resources. Compensation may include a variety of components and may vary from year to year based on a number of factors, including the relative performance of a portfolio manager's underlying account, the combined performance of the portfolio managers' underlying accounts, and the relative performance of the portfolio managers' underlying accounts measured against other employees. The principal components of compensation include a base salary, a discretionary bonus and various retirement benefits.

Base compensation. Generally, portfolio managers receive base compensation based on their seniority and/or their position with NAM, which may include the amount of assets supervised and other management roles within NAM. Base compensation is determined by taking into account current industry norms and market data to ensure that NAM pays a competitive base compensation.

Discretionary compensation. In addition to base compensation, portfolio managers may receive discretionary compensation, which can be a substantial portion of total compensation. Discretionary compensation can include a discretionary cash bonus paid to recognize specific business contributions and to ensure that the total level of compensation is competitive with the market.

Because each person's compensation is based on his or her individual performance, NAM does not have a typical percentage split among base salary, bonus and other compensation. Senior portfolio managers who perform additional management functions may receive additional compensation in these other capacities. Compensation is structured such that key professionals benefit from remaining with NAM.

The following table sets forth the dollar range of equity securities beneficially owned by the portfolio manager in the Registrant as of September 30, 2023.

Item 10. Submission of Matters to a Vote of Security Holders.

There have been no material changes to the procedures by which the shareholders may recommend nominees to the Registrant's Board.

Item 11. Controls and Procedures.

(a) Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and Procedures. The Registrant maintains disclosure controls and procedures that are designed to ensure that information required to be disclosed in the Registrant's filings under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Exchange Act") and the 1940 Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the periods specified in the rules and forms of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Such information is accumulated and communicated to the Registrant's management, including its principal executive officer and principal financial officer, as appropriate, to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosure. The Registrant's management, including the principal executive officer and principal financial officer, recognizes that any set of controls and procedures, no matter how well designed and operated, can provide only reasonable assurance of achieving the desired control objectives.

Table of Contents

The Registrant's principal executive and principal financial officers, or persons performing similar functions, have concluded that the Registrant's disclosure controls and procedures (as defined in Rule 30a-3(c) under the 1940 Act (17 CFR 270.30a-3 (c)) are effective, as of a date within 90 days of the filing date of the report that includes the disclosure required by this paragraph, based on their evaluation of these controls and procedures required by Rule 30a-3(b) under the 1940 Act (17 CFR 270.30a-3(b)) and Rules 13a-15(b) or 15d-15(b) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (17 CFR 240.13a-15(b) or 240.15d-15(b)).

(b) There were no changes in the Registrant's internal control over financial reporting (as defined in Rule 30a-3(d) under the 1940 Act (17 CFR 270.30a-3(d)) that occurred during the period covered by this report that has materially affected, or is reasonably likely to materially affect, the Registrant's internal control over financial reporting.

Item 12. Disclosure of Securities Lending Activities for Closed-End Management Investment Companies.

(1) Gross income from securities lending activities: $0

(2) All fees and/or compensation for securities lending activities and related services: $0

(3) Aggregate fees/compensation: $0

(4) Net income from securities lending activities: $10,143

(b) The Registrant may lend up to 33 1/3% of the Registrant's total assets held by the Fund's custodian to certain qualified brokers, except those securities which the Registrant or the Advisor specifically identifies as not being available. By lending its investment securities, the Registrant attempts to increase its net investment income through the receipt of interest on the loan. Any gain or loss in the market price of the securities loaned that might occur and any interest or dividends declared during the term of the loan would accrue to the account of the Registrant. Risks of delay in recovery of the securities or even loss of rights in the collateral may occur should the borrower of the securities fail financially. Risks may also arise to the extent that the value of the collateral decreases below the value of the securities loaned. Upon entering into a securities lending transaction, the Registrant receives cash or other securities as collateral in an amount equal to or exceeding 100% of the current market value of the loaned securities with respect to securities of the U.S. government or its agencies, 102% of the current market value of the loaned securities with respect to U.S. securities and 105% of the current market value of the loaned securities with respect to foreign securities. Any cash received as collateral is generally invested by the Fund's custodian acting in its capacity as securities lending agent. Non-cash collateral is not disclosed in the Registrant's Statement of Assets and Liabilities as it is held by the lending agent on behalf of the Registrant and the Registrant does not have the ability to re-hypothecate those securities. A portion of the dividends received on the collateral may be rebated to the borrower of the securities and the remainder is split between the Fund's custodian, as the securities lending agent, and the Registrant.

PORTFOLIO MANAGER COMMENTARY (unaudited)

As of December 31, 2022 Highland Income Fund (NYSE: HFRO)

Performance Overview
For the twelve-month period ended December 31, 2022, Highland Income Fund (the "Fund" or "HFRO") experienced a total market price return of 1.70% and a total NAV return of 3.39%. Over the same period, the Fund's benchmark, the Credit Suisse Leveraged Loan Index (the "Index"), returned -1.06%.

Top contributors to performance during the year included MGM Holdings, shorts and market hedges. Publicly traded real estate exposure was among the largest detractors to performance during the year.

Manager's Discussion
2022 has been eventful with respect to regulatory, geopolitical, and macroeconomic factors. Markets began 2022 under pressure stemming from concerns around rising inflation, stretched equity valuations, and the prospect of rising interest rates. The pressure continued into February as Russia invaded Ukraine, resulting in a backlash of economic sanctions that drove crude oil prices above $100 a barrel for the first time since 2014. This oil supply shock added to the fears that already existed in the market around rising inflation. Regardless of the regulatory, geopolitical, and macroeconomic environment — the Fund was able to adapt accordingly and outperformed its benchmark by a substantial margin.

We expect to see the uncertainty and unpredictability of the market, economy, and geopolitical environment continue, and therefore consider resiliency to be an important investment feature (and one that we believe is already well represented across the portfolio). In our view, the most compelling opportunities are in areas that either call for a more active approach to investment management or require specialized expertise to unlock value. In many cases, these investments not only have strong growth potential but we believe can also weather periods of market volatility, as they tend to be less driven by market forces.

In March 2022, we completed the $40 million common share buyback program. Over the six-month period the Fund repurchased $40 million common shares at a weighted average price per share of $11.32. Results of the buy-back are posted to the Fund website. (https://nexpointassetmgmt.com/income-fund/) under the "Monthly Repurchases" section.

Portfolio Discussion
MGM Holdings ("MGM") was a positive contributor to performance during the year. MGM owns one of the world's deepest libraries of premium film and television content, with more than 4,000 titles in the company's film content library including iconic film franchises like James Bond, Rocky, Creed, The Magnificent Seven, Thelma & Louise, and many others. MGM also has over 17,000 episodes of programming in the company's television content library, including hit shows like The Handmaid's Tale, Fargo, and Vikings. The company has collectively won more than 180 Academy Awards and 100 Emmys.

The Fund's initial investment was in the company's debt, which converted to equity when MGM emerged from bankruptcy in 2010. On May 26, 2021, MGM and Amazon issued a press release announcing that the companies had entered into a definitive merger agreement under which Amazon would acquire MGM for a purchase price of $8.45 billion. The transaction closed in March 2022 for $8.45 billion.

Throughout the last few years the Fund has increased its allocation to Self-Storage Real Estate through its investments in SAFStor and NexPoint Storage Partners. SAFStor is a vertically-integrated, volume-driven developer/owner of institutional-quality self-storage. The Company's focus is on mitigating market and development risk. Accordingly, we (1) employ a data-driven approach, (2) target a geographically-diverse portfolio, and (3) partner with best-in-class capital providers, general contractors and management partners, including Extra Space Storage, CubeSmart, and Life Storage. To date, SAFStor has developed, constructed and managed over 7 million square feet and 55,000 units of class-A storage located through the continental United States. NexPoint Storage is a real estate investment platform that specializes in the self-storage sector. A product of NexPoint's 2020 acquisition of Jernigan Capital, NexPoint Storage invests in newly built, multi-story, climate controlled, Class-A self-storage facilities — known as "Generation V" facilities—located in dense and growing markets throughout the United States. NexPoint Storage acquires and selectively develops GenV self-storage facilities.

In December 2022, NexPoint Storage Partners, Inc. announced that it became the sole owner of 29 new, well-located, and high-quality self-storage properties developed by SAFStor. The acquisition brings NexPoint Storage to a total asset value of approximately $1.7 billion with 71 wholly owned and operating properties and one additional property expected to open in February 2023.

The newly acquired properties are in high-density, high-growth submarkets in major U.S. markets and are expected to benefit from demographics very similar to those of the existing NexPoint Storage portfolio, including strong household incomes, a high percentage of renters, and barriers to new development. The markets of the newly acquired properties include Baltimore, Cleveland, Detroit, Houston, Miami/Ft. Lauderdale, Nashville, New Orleans, Philadelphia, and Washington D.C.

The Fund has increased its exposure to life Science real estate and in February 2023 NexPoint announced a proposal for a new life sciences district at the Former EDS campus. TxS District is a proposed 200-acre life sciences development in Plano, Texas. The project, named to signify “Technology x Science,” is designed to foster innovation and collaboration among companies and institutions across the life science sector.

The project centers on the 91-acre main campus, which previously served as headquarters for Electronic Data Systems (EDS). The district would incorporate 109 additional acres in the Legacy neighborhood. In total, the project would create over 4 million square feet of lab, office, and therapeutic production space across four phases of construction.

Phases one and two propose transforming two existing buildings on the main campus into 970,000 square feet of world-class lab and office space and 120,000 square feet of amenity space. Initial site improvement plans also include a public park, an amphitheater, and connectivity to the nearby Legacy retail development.

We believe the proposed project can be achieved through a public-private partnership. The firm is engaging with the City of Plano about NexPoint’s development plans and the project’s impact on the surrounding area.

NexPoint is collaborating with CRB, a leading global provider of sustainable engineering, architecture, construction, and consulting solutions to the life sciences industry, to provide architectural and engineering services throughout the four proposed phases of construction.

NexPoint engaged JLL as the project’s leasing agent. JLL has a dedicated life sciences team that works across the country and has been involved in the development of some of the top life sciences ecosystems in the U.S.

NexPoint purchased the main campus in 2018 and has been acquiring the additional acreage since then. The firm has been involved in several life science deals including its investment in IQHQ, a life science REIT that operates in life science clusters on the East and West Coasts.

We appreciate the engagement and support from shareholders throughout 2022 and look forward to continuing to implement these initiatives in the year ahead.

The Fund may invest in foreign securities which may cause more volatility and less liquidity due to currency changes, political instability and accounting differences.

[1] Quality is calculated as a percentage of total credit instruments held by the portfolio. Sectors and holdings are calculated as a percentage of total net assets. The quality ratings reflected were issued by Standard & Poors, a nationally recognized statistical rating organization. Ratings are measured on a scale that generally ranges from AAA (highest) to D (lowest). Quality ratings reflect the credit quality of the underlying bonds in the Fund's portfolio and not that of the Fund itself. Credit quality ratings assigned by a rating agency are subjective opinions, not statements of fact, and are subject to change, including daily. The ratings assigned by credit rating agencies are but one of the considerations that the Fund's investment adviser incorporates into its credit analysis process, along with such other issuer specific factors as cash flows, capital structure and leverage ratios, ability to deleverage through free cash flow, quality of management, market positioning and access to capital, as well as such security-specific factors as the terms of the security (e.g., interest rate, and time to maturity) and the amount of any collateral.

[3] Excludes the Fund's investment in a cash equivalent.

(a) Non-income producing security.

(b) Securities with a total aggregate value of $752,868,908, or 79.6% of net assets, were classified as Level 3 within the three-tier fair value hierarchy. Please see Notes to Financial Statements for an explanation of this hierarchy, as well as a list of unobservable inputs used in the valuation of these instruments.

(c) Represents fair value as determined by the Investment Adviser pursuant to the policies and procedures approved by the Board of Trustees (the "Board"). The Board has designated the Investment Adviser as "valuation designee" for the Fund pursuant to Rule 2a-5 of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended. The Investment Adviser considers fair valued securities to be securities for which market quotations are not readily available and these securities may be valued using a combination of observable and unobservable inputs. Securities with a total aggregate value of $752,868,908, or 79.6% of net assets, were fair valued under the Fund's valuation procedures as of December 31, 2022. Please see Notes to Financial Statements.

(d) Restricted Securities. These securities are not registered and may not be sold to the public. There are legal and/or contractual restrictions on resale. The Fund does not have the right to demand that such securities be registered. The values of these securities are determined by valuations provided by pricing services, brokers, dealers, market makers, or in good faith under the policies and procedures established by the Board. Additional Information regarding such securities follows:

(e) Affiliated issuer. Assets with a total aggregate fair value of $750,571,576, or 79.3% of net assets, were affiliated with the Fund as of December 31, 2022.

(f) Senior loans (also called bank loans, leveraged loans, or floating rate loans) in which the Fund invests generally pay interest at rates which are periodically determined by reference to a base lending rate plus a spread (unless otherwise identified, all senior loans carry a variable rate of interest). These base lending rates are generally (i) the Prime Rate offered by one or more major United States banks, (ii) the lending rate offered by one or more European banks such as the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR") or (iii) the Certificate of Deposit rate. As of December 31, 2022, the LIBOR USD 3 Month rates were 4.77%. Senior loans, while exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "1933 Act"), contain certain restrictions on resale and cannot be sold publicly. Senior secured floating rate loans often require prepayments from excess cash flow or permit the borrower to repay at its election. The degree to which borrowers repay, whether as a contractual requirement or at their election, cannot be predicted with accuracy. As a result, the actual remaining maturity maybe substantially less than the stated maturity shown.

(g) Variable or floating rate security. The rate shown is the effective interest rate as of period end. The rates on certain securities are not based on published reference rates and spreads and are either determined by the issuer or agent based on current market conditions; by using a formula based on the rates of underlying loans; or by adjusting periodically based on prevailing interest rates.

(h) Securities exempt from registration under Rule 144A of the 1933 Act. These securities may only be resold in transactions exempt from registration to qualified institutional buyers. The Board has determined these investments to be liquid. At December 31, 2022, these securities amounted to $107,264,904 or 11.3% of net assets.

(i) No interest rate available.

(j) Interest only security ("IO"). These types of securities represent the right to receive the monthly interest payments on an underlying pool of mortgages. Payments of principal on the pool reduce the value of the "interest only" holding.

(k) The issuer is, or is in danger of being, in default of its payment obligation.

(l) Perpetual security with no stated maturity date.

(m) There is currently no rate available.

(n) Variable or floating rate security. The base lending rates are generally the lending rate offered by one or more European banks such as the LIBOR. The interest rate shown reflects the rate in effect December 31, 2022.

(o) Securities (or a portion of securities) on loan. As of December 31, 2022, the fair value of securities loaned was $389,253. The loaned securities were secured with cash and/or securities collateral of $402,719. Collateral is calculated based on prior day's prices.

(p) Step Coupon Security. Coupon rate will either increase (step-up bond) or decrease (step-down bond) at regular intervals until maturity. Interest rate shown reflects the rate currently in effect.

(q) Represents value held in escrow pending future events. No interest is being accrued.

(r) Tri-Party Repurchase Agreement.

(s) This security was purchased with cash collateral held from securities on loan. The total value of such securities as of December 31, 2022 was $402,719.

(t) Rate reported is 7 day effective yield.

(u) As of December 31, 2022, investments with a total aggregate value of $36,203,269 were fully or partially segregated with broker(s)/custodian as collateral for reverse repurchase agreements.

(v) As of December 31, 2022, $6,782,322 in cash was segregated or on deposit with the brokers to cover investments sold short and is included in "Other Assets & Liabilities, Net".

* Per share data prior to November 3, 2017 has been adjusted to give effect to an approximately 2 to 1 reverse stock split as part of the conversion to a closed-end fund.
 For the six-month period ended December 31, 2018. Effective April 11, 2019, the Fund had a fiscal year change from June 30 to December 31.
‡ Reflects the financial highlights of Class Z of the open-end fund prior to the conversion.
(a) Per share data was calculated using average shares outstanding during the period.
(b) The Net Asset Value per share and total return have been calculated based on net assets which include adjustments made in accordance with U.S. Generally Accepted Accounting Principles required at period end for financial reporting purposes. These figures do not necessarily reflect the Net Asset Value per share or total return experienced by the shareholder at period end.
(c) Total return is based on market value per share for periods after November 3, 2017. Distributions are assumed for purposes of this calculation to be reinvested at prices obtained under the Fund's Dividend Reinvestment Plan. Prior to November 3, 2017, total return is at net asset value assuming all distributions are reinvested. For periods with waivers/reimbursements, had the Fund's investment adviser not waived or reimbursed a portion of expenses, total return would have been lower.
(d) Not annualized.
(e) Excludes 12b-1 fees from partial period operating as an open-end fund. Following the conversion on November 3, 2017, the Fund is no longer subject to 12b-1 fees.
(f) Includes dividends and fees on securities sold short.
(g) All ratios for the period have been annualized, unless otherwise indicated.
(i) Represents the total dollar amount of commissions paid on portfolio transactions divided by total number of portfolio shares purchased and sold for which commissions were charged. The period prior to the Conversion Date is not presented.

Note 1. Organization

Highland Income Fund (the "Fund") is organized as an unincorporated business trust under the laws of The Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The Fund is registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"), as a non-diversified, closed-end management investment company. On September 25, 2017, the Fund acquired the assets of Highland Floating Rate Opportunities Fund (the "Predecessor Fund"), a series of NexPoint Funds I (formerly Highland Funds I), a Delaware statutory trust. The Fund is the successor to the accounting and performance information of the Predecessor Fund.

On July 29, 2019, the Fund issued 5.4 million 5.375% Series A Cumulative Preferred shares (NYSE: HFRO.PR.A) with an aggregate liquidation value of $135 million. Subsequently on August 9, 2019, the underwriters exercised their option to purchase additional overallotment shares of $10mm, resulting in a total Preferred outstanding offering of $145mm.

The Series A Cumulative Preferred shares are perpetual, non-callable for five years, and have a liquidation preference of $25.00 per share. Distributions are scheduled quarterly, with payments beginning on September 30, 2019. Series A Preferred shares trade on the NYSE. Moody's Investors Service has assigned an A1 rating to the preferred shares.

On October 13, 2021, the Board authorized the repurchase of $40 million common shares over a six-month period. Under this program from October 2021 to March 2022, the Fund repurchased 3,533,986, at an average price of $11.29, for a total investment of $40.0 million. Upon retirement of the repurchased shares, the net asset value was $50.4 million, or $14.26 per share.

Note 2. Significant Accounting Policies

The following summarizes the significant accounting policies consistently followed by the Fund in the preparation of its financial statements.

Use of Estimates

The Fund is an investment company that follows the investment company accounting and reporting guidance of Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") Topic 946 Financial Services — Investment Companies applicable to investment companies. The Fund's financial statements have been prepared in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP"), which require NexPoint Asset Management, L.P. (formerly Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, L.P.) ("NexPoint" or the "Investment Adviser") to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of increases or decreases in net assets from operations during the reporting period. Changes in the economic environment, financial markets and any other parameters used in determining these estimates could cause actual results to differ materially.

Fund Valuation

The net asset value ("NAV") of the Fund's common shares is calculated daily on each day that the NYSE is open for business as of the close of the regular trading session on the NYSE, usually 4:00 PM, Eastern Time. The NAV is calculated by dividing the value of the Fund's net assets attributable to common shares by the numbers of common shares outstanding.

Pursuant to Rule 2a-5 under the 1940 Act, the Board has designated NexPoint as the Fund's valuation designee to perform the fair valuation determination for securities and other assets held by the Fund. NexPoint acting through its "Valuation Committee," is responsible for determining the fair value of investments for which market quotations are not readily available. The Valuation Committee is comprised of officers of NexPoint and certain of NexPoint's affiliated companies and determines fair value and oversees the calculation of the NAV. The Valuation Committee is subject to Board oversight and certain reporting and other requirements intended to provide the Board the information it needs to oversee NexPoint's fair value determinations.

The Fund's investments are recorded at fair value. In computing the Fund's net assets attributable to shares, securities with readily available market quotations on the NYSE, National Association of Securities Dealers Automated Quotation ("NASDAQ") or other nationally recognized exchange, use the closing quotations on the respective exchange for valuation of those securities. Securities for which there are no readily available market quotations will be valued pursuant to policies and procedures adopted by NexPoint and approved by the Board. Typically, such securities will be valued at the mean between the most recently quoted bid and ask prices provided by the principal market makers. If there is more than one such principal market maker, the value shall be the average of such means. Securities without a sale price or quotations from principal market makers on the valuation day may be priced by an independent pricing service. Generally, the Fund's loan and bond positions are not traded on exchanges and consequently are valued based on a mean of the bid and ask price from the third-party pricing services or broker-dealer sources that the Investment Adviser has determined to have the capability to provide appropriate pricing services.

Securities for which market quotations are not readily available, or for which the Fund has determined that the price received from a pricing service or broker-dealer is "stale" or otherwise does not represent fair value (such as when events materially affecting the value of securities occur between the time when market price is determined and calculation of the Fund's NAV, will be valued by the Fund at fair value, as determined by the Valuation Committee in good faith in accordance with policies and procedures established by NexPoint and approved by the Board, taking into account factors reasonably determined to be relevant, including, but not limited to: (i) the fundamental analytical data relating to the investment; (ii) the nature and duration of restrictions on disposition of the securities; and (iii) an evaluation of the forces that influence the market in which these securities are purchased and sold. In these cases, the Fund's NAV will reflect the affected portfolio securities' fair value as determined in the judgment of the Valuation Committee instead of being determined by the market. Using a fair value pricing methodology to value securities may result in a value that is different from a security's most recent sale price and from the prices used by other investment companies to calculate their NAVs. Determination of fair value is uncertain because it involves subjective judgments and estimates.

There can be no assurance that the Fund's valuation of a security will not differ from the amount that it realizes upon the sale of such security. Those differences could have a material impact to the Fund. The NAV shown in the Fund's financial statements may vary from the NAV published by the Fund as of its period end because portfolio securities transactions are accounted for on the trade date (rather than the day following the trade date) for financial statement purposes.

Deferred Financing Costs on the Preferred Stock

Deferred financing costs on the preferred shares consist of fees and expenses incurred in connection with the closing of the preferred stock offerings, and are capitalized at the time of payment. Based on ASC 480-10-S99, preferred stock that, by its terms, is contingently redeemable upon the occurrence of an event that is outside of the issuer's control should be classified as mezzanine equity; therefore, these costs are only amortized once it is probable the shares will become redeemable. As of December 31, 2022, the Fund is compliant with all contingent redemption provisions of the preferred offering, therefore the financing costs are currently unamortized until probable. Deferred financing costs of $5.2 million are presented net with the mezzanine equity on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

Issuer	Shares at December 31, 2021	Beginning Value as of December 31, 2021	Issuance Net Liquidation Value	Deferred Issuance Costs	Paydowns	Balance net of Deferred Financing Costs at December 31, 2022	Shares at December 31, 2022

The Fund has performed an analysis of all existing investments and derivative instruments to determine the significance and character of inputs to their fair value determination. The levels of fair value inputs used to measure the Fund's investments are characterized into a fair value hierarchy. Where inputs for an asset or liability fall into more than one level in the fair value hierarchy, the investment is classified in its entirety based on the lowest level input that is significant to that investment's valuation. The three levels of the fair value hierarchy are described below:

Level 1 — Quoted unadjusted prices for identical instruments in active markets to which the Fund has access at the date of measurement;

Level 2 — Quoted prices for similar instruments in active markets; quoted prices for identical or similar instruments in markets that are not active, but are valued based on executed trades; broker quotations that constitute an executable price; and alternative pricing sources supported by observable inputs are classified within Level 2. Level 2 inputs are either directly or indirectly observable for the asset in connection with market data at the measurement date; and

Level 3 — Model derived valuations in which one or more significant inputs or significant value drivers are unobservable. In certain cases, investments classified within Level 3 may include securities for which the Fund has obtained indicative quotes from broker-dealers that do not necessarily represent prices the broker may be willing to trade on, as such quotes can be subject to material management judgment. Unobservable inputs are those inputs that reflect the Fund's own assumptions that market participants would use to price the asset or liability based on the best available information.

The Investment Adviser has established policies and procedures, as described above and approved by the Board, to ensure that valuation methodologies for investments and financial instruments that are categorized within all levels of the fair value hierarchy are fair and consistent. A Pricing Committee has been established to provide oversight of the valuation policies, processes and procedures, and is comprised of personnel from the Investment Adviser and its affiliates. The Pricing Committee meets monthly to review the proposed valuations for investments and financial instruments and is responsible for evaluating the overall fairness and consistent application of established policies.

As of December 31, 2022, the Fund's investments consisted of common stocks, U.S. senior loans, collateralized loan obligations, preferred stock, LLC interests, exchange-traded funds, warrants, registered investment companies, corporate bonds and notes, a master limited partnership, rights, repurchase agreements, a reverse repurchase agreement, and a cash equivalent. The fair value of the Fund's senior loans and bonds are generally based on quotes received from brokers or independent pricing services. Loans, bonds and asset-backed securities with quotes that are based on actual trades with a sufficient level of activity on or near the measurement date are classified as Level 2 assets. Loans and bonds that are priced using quotes derived from implied values, indicative bids, or a limited number of actual trades are classified as Level 3 assets because the inputs used by the brokers and pricing services to derive the values are not readily observable. The fair value of the Fund's futures contracts are valued based on the settlement price established each day by the board of trade or exchange on which they principally trade and are classified as Level 1 liabilities.

The fair value of the Fund's common stocks, registered investment companies, rights and warrants that are not actively traded on national exchanges are generally priced using quotes derived from implied values, indicative bids, or a limited amount of actual trades and are classified as Level 3 assets because the inputs used by the brokers and pricing services to derive the values are not readily observable. Exchange-traded options are valued based on the last trade price on the primary exchange on which they trade. If an option does not trade, the mid-price, which is the mean of the bid and ask price, is utilized to value the option.

At the end of each calendar quarter, the Investment Adviser evaluates the Level 2 and 3 assets and liabilities for changes in liquidity, including but not limited to: whether a broker is willing to execute at the quoted price, the depth and consistency of prices from third party services, and the existence of contemporaneous, observable trades in the market. Additionally, the Investment Adviser evaluates the Level 1 and 2 assets and liabilities on a quarterly basis for changes in listings or delistings on national exchanges.

Reverse repurchase agreements are priced at their acquisition cost, and assessed for credit adjustments, which represent fair value. These investments will generally be categorized as Level 2 liabilities.

Due to the inherent uncertainty of determining the fair value of investments that do not have a readily available market value, the fair value of the Fund's investments may fluctuate from period to period. Additionally, the fair value of investments may differ significantly from the values that would have been used had a ready market existed for such investments and may differ materially from the values the Fund may ultimately realize. Further, such investments may be subject to legal and other restrictions on resale or otherwise be less liquid than publicly traded securities.

The inputs or methodology used for valuing securities are not necessarily an indication of the risk associated with investing in those securities. A summary of the inputs used to value the Fund's assets and liabilities as of December 31, 2022, is as follows:

Investments designated as Level 3 may include assets valued using quotes or indications furnished by brokers which are based on models or estimates without observable inputs and may not be executable prices. In light of the developing market conditions, the Investment Adviser continues to search for observable data points and evaluate broker quotes and indications received for portfolio investments.

December 31, 2022 Highland Income Fund

Determination of fair value is uncertain because it involves subjective judgements and estimates that are unobservable. The following is a summary of significant unobservable inputs used in the fair valuations of assets and liabilities categorized within Level 3 of the fair value hierarchy:

Category	Fair Value at 12/31/22 $	Valuation Technique	Unobservable Inputs	Range Input Value(s) (Average Input Value)

		Liquidation Analysis	Recovery Rate	40% -100% (70%)
		Discounted Cash Flow	Discount Rate	8.75% -32.50% (15.70%)
			Capitalization Rate	5.13% - 9.50% (6.75%)
		Transaction Analysis	Multiple of EBITDA less CAPEX	12.50x - 15.00x (13.75x)

In addition to the unobservable inputs utilized for various valuation methodologies, the Fund frequently uses a combination of two or more valuation methodologies to determine fair value for a single holding. In such instances, the Fund assesses the methodologies and ascribes weightings to each methodology. The weightings ascribed to any individual methodology ranged from as low as 10% to as high as 90% as of December 31, 2022. The selection of weightings is an inherently subjective process, dependent on professional judgement. These selections may have a material impact to the concluded fair value for such holdings.

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Fund's Preferred Stock are the discount rate and volatility. Significant decreases (increases) in any of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly higher (lower) fair value measurement.

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Fund's U.S. Senior Loans are the discount rate and volatility. Significant decreases (increases) in any of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly higher (lower) fair value measurement.

The significant unobservable input used in the fair value measurement of the Fund's LLC interests is the discount rate. Significant decreases (increases) in any of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly higher (lower) fair value measurement.

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Fund's common stock are the unadjusted price/MHz-PoP multiple, EBITDA multiple, revenue multiple, discount rate, price per sq. ft., enterprise value, NAV per share multiple, and capitalization rate. Significant increases (decreases) in any of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly lower (higher) fair value measurement. Generally, a change in the assumption used for the risk discount is accompanied by a directionally opposite change in the assumption for the price/MHz-PoP multiple.

Security Transactions

Security transactions are accounted for on the trade date. Realized gains/(losses) on investments sold are recorded on the basis of the specific identification method for both financial statement and U.S. federal income tax purposes taking into account any foreign taxes withheld.

Income Recognition

Corporate actions (including cash dividends) are recorded on the ex-dividend date, net of applicable withholding taxes, except for certain foreign corporate actions, which are recorded as soon after ex-dividend date as such information becomes available and is verified. Interest income and PIK are recorded on the accrual basis.

Accretion of discount on taxable bonds and loans is computed to the maturity date, while amortization of premium on taxable bonds and loans is computed to the earliest call date, whichever is shorter, both using the effective yield method. Withholding taxes on foreign dividends have been provided for in accordance with the Fund's understanding of the applicable country's tax rules and rates.

The Fund records distributions received from investments in real estate investment trusts ("REIT") and partnerships in excess of income from underlying investments as a reduction of cost of investments and/or realized gain. Such amounts are based on estimates if actual amounts are not available, and actual amounts of income, realized gain and return of capital may differ from the estimated amounts. The Fund adjusts the estimated amounts once the issuers provide information about the actual composition of the distributions.

U.S. Federal Income Tax Status

The Fund is treated as a separate taxpayer for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The Fund intends to qualify each year as a "regulated investment company" under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (the "Code"), as amended, and will distribute substantially all of its taxable income and gains, if any, for the tax year, and as such will not be subject to U.S. federal income taxes. In addition, the Fund intends to distribute, in each calendar year, all of its net investment income, capital gains and certain other amounts, if any, such that the Fund should not be subject to U.S. federal excise tax. Therefore, no U.S. federal income or excise tax provisions are recorded. The Fund recognizes interest and penalties, if any, related to unrecognized tax benefits as income tax expense in Statement of Operations. There were no interest or penalties during the year ended December 31, 2022.

The Investment Adviser has analyzed the Fund's tax positions taken on U.S. federal income tax returns for all open tax years (current and prior three tax years), and has concluded that no provision for U.S. federal income tax is required in the Fund's financial statements. The Fund's U.S. federal and state income and U.S. federal excise tax returns for tax years for which the applicable statutes of limitations have not expired are subject to examination by the Internal Revenue Service and state departments of revenue. Furthermore, the Investment Adviser of the Fund is also not aware of any tax positions for which it is reasonably possible that the total amounts of unrecognized tax benefits will significantly change in the next 12 months.

The Fund plans to pay distributions from net investment income monthly and net realized capital gains annually to common shareholders. To permit the Fund to maintain more stable monthly distributions and annual distributions, the Fund may from time to time distribute less than the entire amount of income and gains earned in the relevant month or year, respectively. The undistributed income and gains would be available to supplement future distributions. In certain years, this practice may result in the Fund distributing, during a particular taxable year, amounts in excess of the amount of income and gains earned therein. Such distributions would result in a portion of each distribution occurring in that year to be treated as a return of capital to shareholders. Shareholders of the Fund will automatically have all distributions reinvested in Common Shares of the Fund issued by the Fund in accordance with the Fund's Dividend Reinvestment Plan (the "Plan") unless an election is made to receive cash. The number of newly issued Common Shares to be credited to each participant's account will be determined by dividing the dollar amount of the dividend by the lesser of (i) the NAV per Common Share determined on the Declaration Date and (ii) the market price per Common Share as of the close of regular trading on the NYSE on the Declaration Date. Participants in the Plan requesting a sale of securities through the plan agent of the Plan are subject to a sales fee and a brokerage commission.

Statement of Cash Flows

Information on financial transactions which have been settled through the receipt or disbursement of cash is presented in the Statement of Cash Flows. The cash amount shown in the Statement of Cash Flows is the amount included within the Fund's Statement of Assets and Liabilities and includes cash on hand at its custodian bank and/or sub-custodian bank(s) cash equivalents, foreign currency and restricted cash held at broker(s).

Cash & Cash Equivalents

The Fund considers liquid assets deposited with a bank and certain short-term debt instruments of sufficient credit quality with original maturities of three months or less to be cash equivalents. These investments represent amounts held with financial institutions that are readily accessible to pay Fund expenses or purchase investments. Cash and cash equivalents are valued at cost plus accrued interest, which approximates fair value. The value of cash equivalents denominated in foreign currencies is determined by converting to U.S. dollars on the date of this financial report.

These balances may exceed the federally insured limits under the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC").

Foreign Currency

Accounting records of the Fund are maintained in U.S. dollars. Foreign currencies, investments and other assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated into U.S. dollars at exchange rates using the current 4:00 PM London Time Spot Rate. Fluctuations in the value of the foreign currencies and other assets and liabilities resulting from changes in exchange rates, between trade and settlement dates on securities transactions and between the accrual and payment dates on dividends, interest income and foreign withholding taxes, are recorded as unrealized foreign currency gains/(losses). Realized gains/(losses) and unrealized appreciation/(depreciation) on investment securities and income and expenses are translated on the respective dates of such transactions. The effects of changes in foreign currency exchange rates on investments in securities are not segregated in the Statement of Operations from the effects of changes in market prices of those securities, but are included with the net realized and unrealized gain or loss on investment securities.

Securities Sold Short

The Fund may sell securities short. A security sold short is a transaction in which the Fund sells a security it does not own in anticipation that the market price of that security will decline. When the Fund sells a security short, it must borrow the security sold short from a broker-dealer and deliver it to the buyer upon conclusion of the transaction. The Fund may have to pay a fee to borrow particular securities and is obligated to pay over any dividends or other payments received on such borrowed securities. In some circumstances, the Fund may be allowed by its prime broker to utilize proceeds from securities sold short to purchase additional investments, resulting in leverage. Cash held as collateral for securities sold short is classified as restricted cash on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities, as applicable. Restricted cash in the amount of $6,782,322 was held with the broker for the Fund. Securities valued at $39,693,247 were posted in the Fund's segregated account as collateral.

Other Fee Income

Fee income may consist of origination/closing fees, amendment fees, administrative agent fees, transaction break-up fees and other miscellaneous fees. Origination fees, amendment fees, and other similar fees are nonrecurring fee sources. Such fees are received on a transaction by transaction basis and do not constitute a regular stream of income and are recognized when incurred.

Conversion Costs

In conjunction with the shareholder proposal to convert the Fund from an open-end fund to a C-Corporation (see Note 1), the Fund has incurred legal fees and other fees in preparation of this conversion. These conversion costs include both actual and estimated fees, and are included in the Statement of Operations as conversion fees.

Note 3. Derivative Transactions

The Fund is subject to equity securities risk, interest rate risk and currency risk in the normal course of pursuing its investment objectives. The Fund enters into derivative transactions for the purpose of hedging against the effects of changes in the value of portfolio securities due to anticipated changes in market conditions, to gain market exposure for residual and accumulating cash positions and for managing the duration of fixed income investments.

Futures Contracts

A futures contract represents a commitment for the future purchase or sale of an asset at a specified price on a specified date. The Fund may invest in interest rate, financial and stock or bond index futures contracts subject to certain limitations. The Fund invests in futures contracts to manage its exposure to the stock and bond markets and fluctuations in currency values. Buying futures tends to increase the Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument while selling futures tends to decrease the Fund's exposure to the underlying instrument, or economically hedge other Fund investments. With futures contracts, there is minimal counterparty credit risk to the Fund since futures contracts are exchange-traded and the exchange's clearinghouse, as counterparty to all traded futures, guarantees the futures against default. The Fund's risks in using these contracts include changes in the value of the underlying instruments, non-performance of the counterparties under the contracts' terms and changes in the liquidity of the secondary market for the contracts. Futures contracts are valued at the settlement price established each day by the board of trade or exchange on which they principally trade.

Upon entering into a financial futures contract, the Fund is required to pledge to the broker an amount of cash and/or other assets equal to a certain percentage of the contract amount, known as initial margin deposit. Subsequent payments, known as variation margins, are made or can be received by the Fund each day, depending on the daily fluctuation in the fair value of the underlying security. The Fund records an unrealized gain/(loss) equal to the daily variation margin. Should market conditions move unexpectedly, the Fund may not achieve the anticipated benefits of the futures contracts and may incur a loss. The Fund recognizes a realized gain/(loss) on the expiration or closing of a futures contract.

During the year ended December 31, 2022, the Fund entered into futures transactions for the purpose of hedging against the effects of changes in the value of portfolio securities due to anticipated changes in market conditions, and to gain market exposure for residual and accumulating cash positions. Cash held as collateral for futures contracts is shown on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities as "Restricted Cash — Futures." As of December 31, 2022, the Fund did not have any cash held as collateral for futures contract.

Options

The Fund may utilize options on securities or indices to varying degrees as part of their principal investment strategy. An option on a security is a contract that gives the holder of the option, in return for a premium, the right to buy from (in the case of a call) or sell to (in the case of a put) the writer of the option the security underlying the option at a specified exercise or "strike" price. The writer of an option on a security has the obligation upon exercise of the option to deliver the underlying security upon payment of the exercise price or to pay the exercise price upon delivery of the underlying security. The Fund may hold options, write option contracts, or both.

If an option written by the Fund expires unexercised, the Fund realizes on the expiration date a capital gain equal to the premium received by the Fund at the time the option was written. If an option purchased by the Fund expires unexercised, the Fund realizes a capital loss equal to the premium paid. Prior to the earlier of exercise or expiration, an exchange-traded option may be closed out by an offsetting purchase or sale of an option of the same series (type, underlying security, exercise price and expiration). There can be no assurance, however, that a closing purchase or sale transaction can be effected when the Fund desires.

The Fund will realize a capital gain from a closing purchase transaction if the cost of the closing option is less than the premium received from writing the option, or, if the cost of the closing option is more than the premium received from writing the option, a capital loss. The Fund will realize a capital gain from a closing sale transaction if the premium received from the sale is more than the original premium paid when the option position was opened, or a capital loss, if the premium received from a sale is less than the original premium paid.

As of December 31, 2022, the Fund did not hold written options.

Reverse Repurchase Agreements

The Fund may engage in reverse repurchase agreement transactions with respect to instruments that are consistent with the Fund's investment objective or policies. This creates leverage for the Fund because the cash received can be used to purchase other securities.

A reverse repurchase transaction is a repurchase transaction in which the Fund is the seller of securities or other assets and agrees to repurchase them at a date certain or on demand. Pursuant to the Repurchase Agreement, the Fund may agree to sell securities or other assets to Mizuho Securities for an agreed upon price (the "Purchase Price"), with a simultaneous agreement to repurchase such securities or other assets from Mizuho Securities for the Purchase Price plus a price differential that is economically similar to interest. The price differential is negotiated for each transaction. This creates leverage for the Fund because the cash received can be used to purchase other securities.

At December 31, 2022, the Fund had investments in a reverse repurchase agreement with a gross value of $21,722,000, which is reflected as reverse repurchase agreements on the consolidated statement of assets and liabilities. The value of the related collateral exceeded the value of the reverse repurchase agreements at December 31, 2022. The collateral pledged for the reverse repurchase agreements includes Agency Collateralized Mortgage Obligations and cash, both of which are reflected on the consolidated statement of assets and liabilities. The Fund's average daily balance was $7,124,753 at a weighted average interest rate of 4.97% for the days outstanding.

Additional Derivative Information

The Fund is required to disclose; a) how and why an entity uses derivative instruments; b) how derivative instruments and related hedged items are accounted for; c) how derivative instruments and related hedged items affect an entity's financial position, financial performance and cash flows; and d) how the netting of derivatives subject to master netting arrangements (if applicable) affects the net exposure of the Fund related to the derivatives.

The fair value of derivative instruments on the Statement of Assets and Liabilities have the following risk exposure at December 31, 2022:

	Fair Value
Risk Exposure	Asset Derivative	Liability Derivative
Equity Price Risk	$ —[1]	$ —[1]

[1] As of December 31, 2022, the Fund did not have any outstanding derivatives. Includes cumulative unrealized depreciation of futures contracts as reported in the Investment Portfolio, if applicable, and within the components of net assets section of the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

The effect of derivative instruments on the Statement of Operations for the year ended December 31, 2022, is as follows:

Risk Exposure	Net Realized Gain/(Loss) on Derivatives	Net Change in Unrealized Appreciation/ (Depreciation) on Derivatives
Equity Price Risk	$ 41,955,904[(1)]	$ 4,568,959[(2)]

(1) Statement of Operations location: Realized gain (loss) on futures and written options contracts.
(2) Statement of Operations location: Net change in unrealized appreciation (depreciation) on futures contracts.

The average monthly volume of derivative activity for the year ended December 31, 2022, is as follows:

Income Fund	Units/ Contracts	Appreciation/ (Depreciation)

The Fund had insignificant levels of written options transactions during the year ended December 31, 2022.

Note 4. Securities Lending

Effective January, 7, 2020, the Fund entered into a securities lending agreement with The Bank of New York Mellon (“BNY” or the “Lending Agent”).

Securities lending transactions are entered into by the Fund under the Securities Lending Agreement (“SLA”), which permits the Fund, under certain circumstances such as an event of default, to offset amounts payable by the Fund to the same counterparty against amounts receivable from the counterparty to create a net payment due to or from the Fund.

The following is a summary of securities lending agreements held by the Fund, with cash collateral of overnight maturities, which would be subject to offset as of December 31, 2022:

Gross Amount of Recognized Assets (Value of Securities on Loan)	Value of Cash Collateral Received[(1)]	Value of Non-Cash Collateral Received	Net Amount
$389,253	$ 389,253	$ —	$ —

(1) Collateral received in excess of market value of securities on loan is not presented in this table. The total cash collateral received by the Fund is disclosed in the Statement of Assets and Liabilities.

Amounts designated as (—) are $0.

The value of loaned securities and related collateral outstanding at December 31, 2022 are shown in the Investment Portfolio. The value of the collateral held may be temporarily less than that required under the lending contract. As of December 31, 2022, the cash collateral was invested in repurchase agreements with the following maturities:

Remaining Contractual Maturity of the Agreements, as of December 31, 2022

	Overnight and Continuous	<30 Days	Between 30 & 90 Days	>90 Days	Total
Repurchase Agreements	$ 402,719	$ —	$ —	$ —	$402,719
Total	$ 402,719	$ —	$ —	$ —	$402,719

Amounts designated as (—) are $0.

The Fund could seek additional income by making secured loans of its portfolio securities through its custodian. Such loans would be in an amount not greater than one-third of the value of the Fund’s total assets. BNY would charge a fund fees based on a percentage of the securities lending income.

The fair value of the loaned securities is determined at the close of each business day of the Fund and any additional required collateral is delivered to the Fund, or excess collateral is returned by the Fund, on the next business day.

The Fund would receive collateral consisting of cash (U.S. and foreign currency), securities issued or guaranteed by the U.S. government or its agencies or instrumentalities, sovereign debt, convertible bonds, irrevocable bank letters of credit or such other collateral as may be agreed on by the parties to a securities lending arrangement, initially with a value of 102% or 105% of the market value of the loaned securities and thereafter maintained at a value of 100% of the market value of the loaned securities. If the collateral consists of non-cash collateral, the borrower would pay the Fund a loan premium fee. If the collateral consists of cash, BNY would reinvest the cash in repurchase agreements and money market accounts. Although voting rights, or rights to consent, with respect to the loaned securities pass to the borrower, the Fund would recall the loaned securities upon reasonable notice in order that the securities could be voted by the Fund if the holders of such securities are asked to vote upon or consent to matters materially affecting the investment. The Fund also could call such loans in order to sell the securities involved.

Securities lending transactions were entered into pursuant to SLAs, which would provide the right, in the event of default (including bankruptcy or insolvency) for the non-defaulting party to liquidate the collateral and calculate a net exposure to the defaulting party or request additional collateral. In the event that a borrower defaulted, the Fund, as lender, would offset the market value of the collateral received against the market value of the securities loaned. The value of the collateral is typically greater than that of the market value of the securities loaned, leaving the lender with a net amount payable to the defaulting party. However, bankruptcy or insolvency laws of a particular jurisdiction may impose restrictions on or prohibitions against such a right of offset in the event of an SLA counterparty's bankruptcy or insolvency. Under the SLA, the Fund can reinvest cash collateral, or, upon an event of default, resell or repledge the collateral, and the borrower can resell or repledge the loaned securities. The risks of securities lending also include the risk that the borrower may not provide additional collateral when required or may not return the securities when due. To mitigate this risk, the Fund benefits from a borrower default indemnity provided by BNY. BNY's indemnity generally provides for replacement of securities lent or the approximate value thereof.

The character of income and gains to be distributed is determined in accordance with income tax regulations which may differ from GAAP. These differences include (but are not limited to) investments organized as partnerships for tax purposes, tax treatment of organizational start-up costs, losses deferred due to wash sale transactions, and tax attributes from Fund reorganizations. Reclassifications are made to the Fund's capital accounts to reflect income and gains available for distribution (or available capital loss carryovers) under income tax regulations. These reclassifications have no impact on net investment income, realized gains or losses, or NAV of the Fund. The calculation of net investment income per share in the Financial Highlights table excludes these adjustments.

For the year ended December 31, 2022, permanent differences chiefly resulting from return of capital distributions paid by the Fund were identified and reclassified among the components of the Fund's net assets as follows:

Distributable Earnings (Accumulated Losses)	Paid-in-Capital
$4,877,268	$ (4,877,268)

At December 31, 2022, the Fund's most recent tax year end, components of distributable earnings (accumulated losses) on a tax basis are as follows:

Other Temporary Losses	Accumulated Capital Losses	Unrealized Appreciation (Depreciation)[1]
$—	$(193,465,924)	$(315,342,241)

[1] Any differences between book-basis and tax-basis net unrealized appreciation/(depreciation) are primarily due to wash sales, non-taxable dividends, partnerships, PFICs, REIT basis adjustments and difference in premium amortization methods for book and tax.

As of December 31, 2022, the Fund has capital loss carryovers as indicated below. The capital loss carryovers are available to offset future realized capital gains to the extent provided in the Code and regulations promulgated thereunder. To the extent that these carryover losses are used to offset future capital gains, the gains offset will not be distributed to shareholders. During the year ended December 31, 2022, the Fund utilized $142,321,291 of capital carryforwards to offset capital gains.

No Expiration Short- Term	No Expiration Long-Term	Total
$—	$(193,465,924)	$(193,465,924)

The tax character of distributions paid during the last two fiscal years ended December 31, is as follows:

	Ordinary Income	Long-term Capital Gain	Return of Capital
2022	$35,874,540	$ —	$27,155,040
2021	15,595,827	—	50,110,849

Amounts designated as (—) are $0.

Unrealized appreciation (depreciation) at December 31, 2022, based on cost of investments, securities sold short and foreign currency transactions for U.S. federal income tax purposes was:

Gross Appreciation	Gross Depreciation	Net Appreciation/ (Depreciation)	Cost
$131,976,649	$ (447,318,890)	$ (315,342,241)	$ 1,405,718,901

Qualified Late Year Ordinary and Post October Losses

Under current laws, certain capital losses and specified losses realized after October 31 may be deferred and treated as occurring on the first day of the following fiscal year. For the fiscal year ended December 31, 2022, the Fund did not defer any qualified late year ordinary nor post October losses.

Note 6. Investment Advisory, Administration and Trustee Fees

For its investment advisory services, the Fund pays the Investment Adviser a monthly fee, computed and accrued daily, based on an annual rate of the Fund's Average Daily Managed Assets. Average Daily Managed Assets of a Fund means the average daily value of the total assets of a Fund less all accrued liabilities of a Fund (other than the aggregate amount of any outstanding borrowings constituting financial leverage). On occasion, the Investment Adviser voluntarily waives additional fees to the extent assets are invested in certain affiliated investments.

The table below shows the Fund's contractual advisory fee with the Investment Adviser for the year ended December 31, 2022:

Annual Fee Rate to the Investment Advisor	> 1 Billion	> 2 Billion
0.65%	0.60%	0.55%

Administration Fee

The Investment Adviser provides administrative services to the Fund. For its services, the Investment Adviser receives an annual fee, payable monthly, in an amount equal to 0.20% of the average weekly value of the Fund's Managed Assets. Under a separate sub-administration agreement, the Investment Adviser delegates certain administrative functions and pays the sub-administrator directly for these sub-administration services. Effective October 1, 2018, the Investment Adviser entered into an administrative services agreement with SEI Investments Global Funds Services, a wholly owned subsidiary of SEI Investments Company.

Fees Paid to Officers and Trustees

Each Trustee who oversees all of the funds in the NexPoint Fund Complex receives an annual retainer of $150,000 payable in quarterly installments and allocated among each portfolio in the NexPoint Fund Complex based on relative net assets. The annual retainer for a Trustee who does not oversee all of the funds in the NexPoint Fund Complex is prorated based on the portion of the $150,000 annual retainer allocable to the funds overseen by such Trustee. The Chairman of the Audit Committee and the Chairman of the Board each receive an additional annual payment of $10,000 payable in quarterly installments and allocated among each portfolio in the NexPoint Fund Complex based on relative net assets. The "NexPoint Fund Complex" consists of all of the registered investment companies advised by the Investment Adviser or its affiliated advisers as of the date of this report and NexPoint Capital, Inc., a closed-end management investment company that has elected to be treated as a business development company under the 1940 Act.

The Fund pays no compensation to its officers, all of whom are employees of the Investment Adviser or one of its affiliates.

Trustees are reimbursed for actual out-of-pocket expenses relating to attendance at meetings.

The Trustees do not receive any separate compensation in connection with service on Committees or for attending Board or Committee Meetings. The Trustees do not have any pension or retirement plan.

Expedited Settlement Agreements

On June 15, 2017 and May 14, 2019, the Fund entered into Expedited Settlement Agreements with two major dealers in the floating rate loan market, pursuant to which the Fund has the right to designate certain loans it sells to the dealer to settle on or prior to three days from the trade date in exchange for a quarterly fee (the "Expedited Settlement Agreements"). The Expedited Settlement Agreements are designed to reduce settlement times from the standard seven days to three days for eligible loans. For the year ended December 31, 2022, the Expedited Settlement Agreement was not used by the Fund.

While the Expedited Settlement Agreements are intended to provide the Fund with additional liquidity with respect to such loans, and may not represent the exclusive method of expedited settlement of such loans, no assurance can be given that the Expedited Settlement Agreements or other methods for expediting settlements will provide the Fund with sufficient liquidity in the event of abnormally large redemptions.

Other Matters

NexPoint has entered into a Services Agreement (the "Services Agreement") with Skyview Group ("Skyview"), effective February 25, 2021, pursuant to which NexPoint will receive administrative and operational support services to enable it to provide the required advisory services to the Fund. The Investment Adviser, and not the Fund, will compensate all Investment Adviser and Skyview personnel who provide services to the Fund.

Effective July 12, 2022, certain Skyview personnel became dual-employees of NexPoint Services, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Investment Adviser. The same services are being performed by the dual-employees. The Investment Adviser, and not the Fund, will compensate all Investment Adviser, Skyview, and dual-employee personnel who provide services to the Fund.

Indemnification

Under the Fund's organizational documents, the officers and Trustees have been granted certain indemnification rights against certain liabilities that may arise out of performance of their duties to the Fund. Additionally, in the normal course of business, the Fund may enter into contracts with service providers that contain a variety of indemnification clauses. The Fund's maximum exposure under these arrangements is dependent on future claims that may be made against the Fund and, therefore, cannot be estimated.

Note 7. Disclosure of Significant Risks and Contingencies

The Fund's investments expose the Fund to various risks, certain of which are discussed below. Please refer to the Fund's Prospectus and Statement of Additional Information for a full listing of risks associated with the Fund's investments.

Concentration in Real Estate Securities Risk

Although the Fund does not invest directly in real estate, the Fund will concentrate its investments in investment vehicles that invest principally in real estate and real estate related securities, its portfolio will be significantly impacted by the performance of the real estate market and may experience more volatility and be exposed to greater risk than a more diversified portfolio. The values of companies engaged in the real estate industry are affected by: (i) changes in general economic and market conditions; (ii) changes in the value of real estate properties; (iii) risks related to local economic conditions, overbuilding and increased competition; (iv) increases in property taxes and operating expenses; (v) changes in zoning laws; (vi) casualty and condemnation losses; (vii) variations in rental income, neighborhood values or the appeal of property to tenants; (viii) the availability of financing and (ix) changes in interest rates and leverage.

Counterparty Risk

Counterparty risk is the potential loss the Fund may incur as a result of the failure of a counterparty or an issuer to make payments according to the terms of a contract. Counterparty risk is measured as the loss the Fund would record if its counterparties failed to perform pursuant to the terms of their obligations to the Fund. Because the Fund may enter into over-the-counter forwards, options, swaps and other derivative financial instruments, the Fund may be exposed to the credit risk of its counterparties. To limit the counterparty risk associated with such transactions, the Fund conducts business only with financial institutions judged by the Investment Adviser to present acceptable credit risk.

Credit Risk

The value of debt securities owned by the Fund may be affected by the ability of issuers to make principal and interest payments and by the issuer's or counterparty's credit quality. If an issuer cannot meet its payment obligations or if its credit rating is lowered, the value of its debt securities may decline. Lower quality bonds are generally more sensitive to these changes than higher quality bonds. Non-payment would result in a reduction of income to the Fund, a reduction in the value of the obligation experiencing non-payment and a potential decrease in the Fund's net asset value and the market price of the Fund's shares.

Currency Risk

A portion of the Fund's assets may be quoted or denominated in non-U.S. currencies. These securities may be adversely affected by fluctuations in relative currency exchange rates and by exchange control regulations. The Fund's investment performance may be negatively affected by a devaluation of a currency in which the Fund's investments are quoted or denominated. Further, the Fund's investment performance may be significantly affected, either positively or negatively, by currency exchange rates because the U.S. dollar value of securities quoted or denominated in another currency will increase or decrease in response to changes in the value of such currency in relation to the U.S. dollar.

Derivatives risk is a combination of several risks, including the risks that: (1) an investment in a derivative instrument may not correlate well with the performance of the securities or asset class to which the Fund seeks exposure, (2) derivative contracts, including options, may expire worthless and the use of derivatives may result in losses to the Fund, (3) a derivative instrument entailing leverage may result in a loss greater than the principal amount invested, (4) derivatives not traded on an exchange may be subject to credit risk, for example, if the counterparty does not meet its obligations (see also "Counterparty Risk"), and (5) derivatives not traded on an exchange may be subject to liquidity risk and the related risk that the instrument is difficult or impossible to value accurately.

Effective August 19, 2022 (the "Compliance Date"), Rule 18f-4 under the 1940 Act (the "Derivatives Rule") replaced the asset segregation regime of Investment Company Act Release No. 10666 (Release 10666) with a new framework for the use of derivatives by registered funds. As of the Compliance Date, the SEC rescinded Release 10666 and withdrew no-action letters and similar guidance addressing a fund's use of derivatives and began requiring funds to satisfy the requirements of the Derivatives Rule. As a result, on or after the Compliance Date, the Fund will no longer engage in "segregation" or "coverage" techniques with respect to derivatives transactions and will instead comply with the applicable requirements of the Derivatives Rule. The Derivatives Rule mandates that a fund adopt and/or implement: (i) value-at-risk limitations (VaR); (ii) a written derivatives risk management program; (iii) new Board oversight responsibilities; and (iv) new reporting and record-keeping requirements. In the event that a fund's derivative exposure is 10% or less of its net assets, excluding certain currency and interest rate hedging transactions, it can elect to be classified as a limited derivatives user (Limited Derivatives User) under the Derivatives Rule, in which case the fund is not subject to the full requirements of the Derivatives Rule. Limited Derivatives Users are excepted from VaR testing, implementing a derivatives risk management program, and certain Board oversight and reporting requirements mandated by the Derivatives Rule. However, a Limited Derivatives User is still required to implement written compliance policies and procedures reasonably designed to manage its derivatives risks.

Distressed and Defaulted Securities Risk

The Fund may invest in companies that are troubled, in distress or bankrupt. As such, they are subject to a multitude of legal, industry, market, environmental and governmental forces that make analysis of these companies inherently difficult. Further, the Investment Adviser relies on company management, outside experts, market participants and personal experience to analyze potential investments for the Fund. There can be no assurance that any of these sources will prove credible, or that the resulting analysis will produce accurate conclusions.

Equity Securities Risk

The risk that stock prices will fall over short or long periods of time. In addition, common stocks represent a share of ownership in a company, and rank after bonds and preferred stock in their claim on the company's assets in the event of bankruptcy. In addition to these risks, preferred stock and convertible securities are also subject to the risk that issuers will not make payments on securities held by the Fund, which could result in losses to the Fund. The credit quality of preferred stock and convertible securities held by the Fund may be lowered if an issuer's financial condition changes, leading to greater volatility in the price of the security.

Exchange-Traded Funds ("ETF") Risk

The risk that the price movement of an ETF may not exactly track the underlying index and may result in a loss. In addition, shareholders bear both their proportionate share of the Fund's expenses and similar expenses of the underlying investment company when the Fund invests in shares of another investment company.

Financial Services Industry Risk

The risk associated with the fact that the Fund's investments in Senior Loans are arranged through private negotiations between a borrower ("Borrower") and several financial institutions. Investments in the financial services sector may be subject to credit risk, interest rate risk, and regulatory risk, among others. Banks and other financial institutions can be affected by such factors as downturns in the U.S. and foreign economies and general economic cycles, fiscal and monetary policy, adverse developments in the real estate market, the deterioration or failure of other financial institutions, and changes in banking or securities regulations. The financial services industry is subject to extensive government regulation, which can limit both the amounts and types of loans and other financial commitments financial services companies can make and the interest rates and fees they can charge. Profitability is largely dependent on the availability and cost of capital funds, and can fluctuate significantly when interest rates change. Because financial services companies are highly dependent on short-term interest rates, they can be adversely affected by downturns in the U.S. and foreign economies or changes in banking regulations. Losses resulting from financial difficulties of Borrowers can negatively affect financial services companies. The financial services industry is currently undergoing relatively rapid change as existing distinctions between financial service segments become less clear. This change may make it more difficult for the Investment Adviser to analyze investments in this industry. Additionally, the recently increased volatility in the financial markets and implementation of the recent financial reform legislation may affect the financial services industry as a whole in ways that may be difficult to predict.

Hedging Risk

The Fund may engage in "hedging," the practice of attempting to offset a potential loss in one position by establishing an opposite position in another investment. Hedging strategies in general are usually intended to limit or reduce investment risk, but can also be expected to limit or reduce the potential for profit. For example, if the Fund has taken a defensive posture by hedging its portfolio, and stock prices advance, the return to investors will be lower than if the portfolio had not been hedged. No assurance can be given that any particular hedging strategy will be successful, or that the Investment Adviser will elect to use a hedging strategy at a time when it is advisable.

High Yield Debt Securities Risk

The risk that below investment grade securities or unrated securities of similar credit quality (commonly known as "high yield securities" or "junk securities") are more likely to default than higher rated securities. The Fund's ability to invest in high-yield debt securities generally subjects the Fund to greater risk than securities with higher ratings. Such securities are regarded by the rating organizations as predominantly speculative with respect to capacity to pay interest and repay principal in accordance with the terms of the obligation. The market value of these securities is generally more sensitive to corporate developments and economic conditions and can be volatile. Market conditions can diminish liquidity and make accurate valuations difficult to obtain.

Certain investments made by the Fund may be illiquid, and consequently the Fund may not be able to sell such investments at prices that reflect the Investment Adviser's assessment of their value or the amount originally paid for such investments by the Fund. Illiquidity may result from the absence of an established market for the investments as well as legal, contractual or other restrictions on their resale and other factors. Furthermore, the nature of the Fund's investments, especially those in financially distressed companies, may require a long holding period prior to profitability.

Restricted securities (i.e., securities acquired in private placement transactions) and illiquid securities may offer higher yields than comparable publicly traded securities. The Fund, however, may not be able to sell these securities when the Investment Adviser considers it desirable to do so or, to the extent they are sold privately, may have to sell them at less than the price of otherwise comparable securities. Restricted securities are subject to limitations on resale which can have an adverse effect on the price obtainable for such securities. Also, if in order to permit resale the securities are registered under the Securities Act at the Fund's expense, the Fund's expenses would be increased.

Interest Rate Risk

The risk that fixed income securities will decline in value because of changes in interest rates. When interest rates decline, the value of fixed rate securities already held by the Fund can be expected to rise. Conversely, when interest rates rise, the value of existing fixed rate portfolio securities can be expected to decline. A fund with a longer average portfolio duration will be more sensitive to changes in interest rates than a fund with a shorter average portfolio duration.

On July 27, 2017, the head of the United Kingdom's Financial Conduct Authority announced that it will stop encouraging banks to provide the quotations needed to sustain LIBOR. The ICE Benchmark Administration Limited, the administrator of LIBOR, ceased publishing most LIBOR maturities, including some US LIBOR maturities, on December 31, 2021, and is expected to cease publishing the remaining and most liquid US LIBOR maturities on June 30, 2023. It is expected that market participants will transition to the use of alternative reference or benchmark rates prior to the applicable LIBOR cessation date. Additionally, although regulators have encouraged the development and adoption of alternative rates, such as the Secured Overnight Financing Rate ("SOFR"), the future utilization of LIBOR or of any particular replacement rate remains uncertain.

Although the transition process away from LIBOR has become increasingly well-defined in advance of the anticipated discontinuation dates, the impact on certain debt securities, derivatives and other financial instruments remains uncertain. It is expected that market participants will adopt alternative rates such as SOFR or otherwise amend financial instruments referencing LIBOR to include fallback provisions and other measures that contemplate the discontinuation of LIBOR or other similar market disruption events, but neither the effect of the transition process nor the viability of such measures is known. Further, uncertainty and risk remain regarding the willingness and ability of issuers and lenders to include alternative rates and revised provisions in new and existing contracts or instruments. To facilitate the transition of legacy derivatives contracts referencing LIBOR, the International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc. launched a protocol to incorporate fallback provisions. While the transition process away from LIBOR has become increasingly well-defined in advance of the expected LIBOR cessation dates, there are obstacles to converting certain longer term securities and transactions to a new benchmark or benchmarks and the effectiveness of one alternative reference rate versus multiple alternative reference rates in new or existing financial instruments and products has not been determined. Furthermore, the risks associated with the cessation of LIBOR and transition to replacement rates may be exacerbated if an orderly transition to alternative reference rates is not completed in a timely manner. Certain proposed replacement rates to LIBOR, such as SOFR, which is a broad measure of secured overnight US Treasury repo rates, are materially different from LIBOR, and changes in the applicable spread for financial instruments transitioning away from LIBOR will need to be made to accommodate the differences. Furthermore, the risks associated with the expected discontinuation of LIBOR and transition to replacement rates may be exacerbated if an orderly transition to an alternative reference rate is not completed in a timely manner. As market participants transition away from LIBOR, LIBOR's usefulness may deteriorate and these effects could be experienced until the permanent cessation of the majority of U.S. LIBOR rates in 2023. The transition process may lead to increased volatility and illiquidity in markets that currently rely on LIBOR to determine interest rates. LIBOR's deterioration may adversely affect the liquidity and/or market value of securities that use LIBOR as a benchmark interest rate.

Alteration of the terms of a debt instrument or a modification of the terms of other types of contracts to replace LIBOR or another interbank offered rate ("IBOR") with a new reference rate could result in a taxable exchange and the realization of income and gain/loss for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") has issued final regulations regarding the tax consequences of the transition from IBOR to a new reference rate in debt instruments and non-debt contracts. Under the final regulations, alteration or modification of the terms of a debt instrument to replace an operative rate that uses a discontinued IBOR with a qualified rate (as defined in the final regulations) including true up payments equalizing the fair market value of contracts before and after such IBOR transition, to add a qualified rate as a fallback rate to a contract whose operative rate uses a discontinued IBOR or to replace a fallback rate that uses a discontinued IBOR with a qualified rate would not be taxable. The IRS may provide additional guidance, with potential retroactive effect.

Leverage Risk

The Fund may use leverage in its investment program, including the use of borrowed funds and investments in certain types of options, such as puts, calls and warrants, which may be purchased for a fraction of the price of the underlying securities. While such strategies and techniques increase the opportunity to achieve higher returns on the amounts invested, they also increase the risk of loss. To the extent the Fund purchases securities with borrowed funds, its net assets will tend to increase or decrease at a greater rate than if borrowed funds are not used. If the interest expense on borrowings were to exceed the net return on the portfolio securities purchased with borrowed funds, the Fund's use of leverage would result in a lower rate of return than if the Fund were not leveraged.

Management Risk

The risk associated with the fact that the Fund relies on the Investment Adviser's ability to achieve its investment objective. The Investment Adviser may be incorrect in its assessment of the intrinsic value of the companies whose securities the Fund holds, which may result in a decline in the value of fund shares and failure to achieve its investment objective.

Mortgage-Backed Securities Risk

The risk of investing in mortgage-backed securities, and includes interest rate risk, liquidity risk and credit risk, which may be heightened in connection with investments in loans to "subprime" borrowers. Certain mortgage-backed securities are also subject to prepayment risk. Mortgage-backed securities, because they are backed by mortgage loans, are also subject to risks related to real estate, and securities backed by private-issued mortgages may experience higher rates of default on the underlying mortgages than securities backed by government-issued mortgages. The Fund could lose money if there are defaults on the mortgage loans underlying these securities.

Non-Diversification Risk

The risk that an investment in the Fund could fluctuate in value more than an investment in a diversified fund. As a non-diversified fund for purposes of the 1940 Act, the Fund may invest a larger portion of its assets in the securities of fewer issuers than a diversified fund. The Fund's investments in fewer issuers may result in the Fund's shares being more sensitive to the economic results of those issuers. An investment in the Fund could fluctuate in value more than an investment in a diversified fund.

Non-U.S. Securities Risk

The Fund may invest in non-U.S. securities. Investing in non-U.S. securities involves certain risks not involved in domestic investments, including, but not limited to: fluctuations in foreign exchange rates; future foreign economic, financial, political and social developments; different legal systems; the possible imposition of exchange controls or other foreign governmental laws or restrictions; lower trading volume; much greater price volatility and illiquidity of certain non-U.S. securities markets; different trading and settlement practices; less governmental supervision; changes in currency exchange rates; high and volatile rates of inflation; fluctuating interest rates; less publicly available information; and different accounting, auditing and financial recordkeeping standards and requirements.

Options Risk

There are several risks associated with transactions in options on securities. For example, there are significant differences between the securities and options markets that could result in an imperfect correlation between these markets, causing a given transaction not to achieve its objectives. A transaction in options or securities may be unsuccessful to some degree because of market behavior or unexpected events.

When the Fund writes a covered call option, the Fund forgoes, during the option's life, the opportunity to profit from increases in the market value of the security covering the call option above the sum of the premium and the strike price of the call, but retains the risk of loss should the price of the underlying security decline. The writer of an option has no control over the time when it may be required to fulfill its obligation and once an option writer has received an exercise notice, it must deliver the underlying security in exchange for the strike price.

When the Fund writes a covered put option, the Fund bears the risk of loss if the value of the underlying stock declines below the exercise price minus the put premium. If the option is exercised, the Fund could incur a loss if it is required to purchase the stock underlying the put option at a price greater than the market price of the stock at the time of exercise plus the put premium the Fund received when it wrote the option. While the Fund's potential gain in writing a covered put option is limited to distributions earned on the liquid assets securing the put option plus the premium received from the purchaser of the put option, the Fund risks a loss equal to the entire exercise price of the option minus the put premium.

Pandemics and Associated Economic Disruption

An outbreak of respiratory disease caused by a novel coronavirus was first detected in China in late 2019 and subsequently spread globally ("COVID-19"). This coronavirus has resulted, and may continue to result in, the closing of borders, enhanced health screenings, disruptions to healthcare service preparation and delivery, quarantines, cancellations, disruptions to supply chains and customer activity, as well as general anxiety and economic uncertainty. Health crises caused by outbreaks of disease, such as the coronavirus, may exacerbate other preexisting political, social and economic risks. The impact of this outbreak, and other epidemics and pandemics that may arise in the future, could continue to negatively affect the global economy, as well as the economies of individual countries, individual companies and the market in general in significant and unforeseen ways. For example, a widespread health crisis such as a global pandemic could cause substantial market volatility, exchange trading suspensions and closures, and impact the Fund's ability to complete repurchase requests. Any such impact could adversely affect the Fund's performance, the performance of the securities in which the Fund invests, lines of credit available to the Fund and may lead to losses on your investment in the Fund. In addition, the increasing interconnectedness of markets around the world may result in many markets being affected by events or conditions in a single country or region or events affecting a single or small number of issuers.

The United States responded to the coronavirus pandemic and resulting economic distress with fiscal and monetary stimulus packages, including the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (the "CARES Act") passed in late March 2020. The CARES Act provides for over $2.2 trillion in resources to small businesses, state and local governments, and individuals adversely impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. In late December 2020, the government also passed a spending bill that included $900 billion in stimulus relief for the COVID-19 pandemic. Further, in March 2021, the government passed the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021, a $1.9 trillion stimulus bill to accelerate the United States' recovery from the economic and health effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition, in mid-March 2020, the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") cut interest rates to historically low levels and announced a new round of quantitative easing, including purchases of corporate and municipal government bonds. The Fed also enacted various programs to support liquidity operations and funding in the financial markets, including expanding its reverse repurchase agreement operations, which added $1.5 trillion of liquidity to the banking system; establishing swap lines with other major central banks to provide dollar funding; establishing a program to support money market funds; easing various bank capital buffers; providing funding backstops for businesses to provide bridging loans for up to four years; and providing funding to help credit flow in asset-backed securities markets. In addition, the Fed extended credit to small- and medium-sized businesses. As the Fed "tapers" or reduces the amount of securities it purchases pursuant to quantitative easing, and/or if the Fed raises the federal funds rate, there is a risk that interest rates will rise, which could expose fixed-income and related markets to heightened volatility and could cause the value of a fund's investments, and the fund's NAV, to decline, potentially suddenly and significantly. As a result, the Fund may experience high redemptions and, as a result, increased portfolio turnover, which could increase the costs that the Fund incurs and may negatively impact the Fund's performance. There is no assurance that the U.S. government's support in response to COVID-19 economic distress will offset the adverse impact to securities in which the Fund may invest and future governmental support is not guaranteed.

Preferred Share Risk

The risk associated with the issuance of preferred shares to leverage the common shares. When preferred shares are issued, the NAV and market value of the common shares become more volatile, and the yield to the holders of common shares will tend to fluctuate with changes in the shorter-term dividend rates on the preferred shares. The Trust will pay (and the holders of common shares will bear) all costs and expenses relating to the issuance and ongoing maintenance of the preferred shares, including higher advisory fees. Accordingly, the issuance of preferred shares may not result in a higher yield or return to the holders of the common shares. If the dividend rate and other costs of the preferred shares approach the net rate of return on the Fund's investment portfolio, the benefit of leverage to the holders of the common shares would be reduced. If the dividend rate and other costs of the preferred shares exceed the net rate of return on the Fund's investment portfolio, the leverage will result in a lower rate of return to the holders of common shares than if the Fund had not issued preferred shares.

Preferred Stock Risk

Preferred stock, which may include preferred stock in real estate transactions, represents an equity or ownership interest in an issuer that pays dividends at a specified rate and that has precedence over common stock in the payment of dividends. In the event an issuer is liquidated or declares bankruptcy, the claims of creditors and owners of bonds take precedence over the claims of those who own preferred and common stock. If interest rates rise, the fixed dividend on preferred stocks may be less attractive, causing the price of preferred stocks to decline. Preferred stock may have mandatory sinking fund provisions, as well as provisions allowing the stock to be called or redeemed prior to its maturity, which can have a negative impact on the stock's price when interest rates decline. Unlike interest on debt securities, preferred stock dividends are payable only if declared by the issuer's board. The value of convertible preferred stock can depend heavily upon the value of the security into which such convertible preferred stock is converted, depending on whether the market price of the underlying security exceeds the conversion price.

Real Estate Investment Trust Risk

Real estate investments are subject to various risk factors. Generally, real estate investments could be adversely affected by a recession or general economic downturn where the properties are located. Real estate investment performance is also subject to the success that a particular property manager has in managing the property.

Real Estate Market Risk

The Fund is exposed to economic, market and regulatory changes that impact the real estate market generally through its investment in NFRO REIT Sub, LLC, NFRO REIT Sub II, LLC, and NFRO SFR REIT, LLC (together the "REIT Subsidiaries"), which may cause the Fund's operating results to suffer. A number of factors may prevent the REIT Subsidiaries' properties and other real estate-related investments from generating sufficient net cash flow or may adversely affect their value, or both, resulting in less cash available for distribution, or a loss, to us. These factors include: national, regional and local economic conditions; changing demographics; the ability of property managers to provide capable management and adequate maintenance; the quality of a property's construction and design; increases in costs of maintenance, insurance, and operations (including energy costs and real estate taxes); potential environmental and other legal liabilities; the level of financing used by each REIT Subsidiary and the availability and cost of refinancing; potential instability, default or bankruptcy of tenants in the properties owned by each REIT Subsidiary; the relative illiquidity of real estate investments in general, which may make it difficult to sell a property at an attractive price or within a reasonable time frame.

Securities Lending Risk

The Fund may make secured loans of its portfolio securities. Any decline in the value of a portfolio security that occurs while the security is out on loan is borne by the Fund, and will adversely affect performance. Also, there may be delays in recovery of securities loaned, losses in the investment of collateral, and loss of rights in the collateral should the borrower of the securities fail financially while holding the security.

Senior Loans Risk

The risk associated with Senior Loans, which are typically below investment grade and are considered speculative because of the credit risk of their issuers. As with any debt instrument, Senior Loans are generally subject to the risk of price declines and as interest rates rise, the cost of borrowing increases, which may increase the risk of default. In addition, the interest rates of floating rate loans typically only adjust to changes in short-term interest rates; long-term interest rates can vary dramatically from short-term interest rates. The secondary market for loans is generally less liquid than the market for higher grade debt. Less liquidity in the secondary trading market could adversely affect the price at which the Fund could sell a loan, and could adversely affect the NAV of the Fund's shares. The volume and frequency of secondary market trading in such loans varies significantly over time and among loans. Declines in interest rates may increase prepayments of debt obligations and require the Fund to invest assets at lower yields. No active trading market may exist for certain Senior Loans, which may impair the ability of the Fund to realize full value in the event of the need to liquidate such assets. Adverse market conditions may impair the liquidity of some actively traded Senior Loans.

Short Sales Risk

Short sales by the Fund that are not made where there is an offsetting long position in the asset that it is being sold short theoretically involve unlimited loss potential since the market price of securities sold short may continuously increase. Short selling allows the Fund to profit from declines in market prices to the extent such decline exceeds the transaction costs and costs of borrowing the securities. However, since the borrowed securities must be replaced by purchases at market prices in order to close out the short position, any appreciation in the price of the borrowed securities would result in a loss. Purchasing securities to close out the short position can itself cause the price of securities to rise further, thereby exacerbating the loss. The Fund may mitigate such losses by replacing the securities sold short before the market price has increased significantly. Under adverse market conditions, the Fund might have difficulty purchasing securities to meet margin calls on its short sale delivery obligations, and might have to sell portfolio securities to raise the capital necessary to meet its short sale obligations at a time when fundamental investment considerations would not favor such sales.

If other short positions of the same security are closed out at the same time, a "short squeeze" can occur where demand exceeds the supply for the security sold short. A short squeeze makes it more likely that the Fund will need to replace the borrowed security at an unfavorable price.

Structured Finance Securities Risk

A portion of the Fund's investments may consist of equipment trust certificates, collateralized mortgage obligations, collateralized bond obligations, collateralized loan obligations or similar instruments. Such structured finance securities are generally backed by an asset or a pool of assets, which serve as collateral. Depending on the type of security, the collateral may take the form of a portfolio of mortgage loans or bonds or other assets. The Fund and other investors in structured finance securities ultimately bear the credit risk of the underlying collateral. In some instances, the structured finance securities are issued in multiple tranches, offering investors various maturity and credit risk characteristics, often categorized as senior, mezzanine and subordinated/equity according to their degree of risk. The riskiest securities are the equity tranche, which bears the bulk of defaults from the bonds or loans serving as collateral, and thus may protect the other, more senior tranches from default. If there are defaults or the relevant collateral otherwise underperforms, scheduled payments to senior tranches of such securities take precedence over those of mezzanine tranches, and scheduled payments to mezzanine tranches take precedence over those to subordinated/equity tranches. A senior tranche typically has higher ratings and lower yields than the underlying securities, and may be rated investment grade. Despite the protection from the equity tranche, other tranches can experience substantial losses due to actual defaults, increased sensitivity to defaults due to previous defaults and the disappearance of protecting tranches, market anticipation of defaults and aversion to certain structured finance securities as a class.

Valuation Risk

Certain of the Fund's assets are fair valued, including the Fund's investment in equity issued by TerreStar Corporation ("TerreStar"). TerreStar is a nonoperating company that does not currently generate substantial revenue and which primarily derives its value from licenses for use of two spectrum frequencies, the license with respect to one of which was granted a conditional waiver by the FCC on April 30, 2020. The fair valuation of TerreStar involves significant uncertainty as it is materially dependent on estimates of the value of both spectrum licenses.

Gain Contingency

Claymore Holdings, LLC, a partially-owned affiliate of the Fund, is engaged in ongoing litigation that could result in a possible gain contingency to the Fund. The probability, timing, and potential amount of recovery, if any, are unknown.

Note 10. Asset Coverage

The Fund is required to maintain 300% asset coverage with respect to amounts outstanding (excluding short-term borrowings) under its various leverage facilities. Additionally, the Fund is required to maintain 200% asset coverage with respect to the preferred share issuance as well as its various leverage facilities. Asset coverage is calculated by subtracting the Fund's total liabilities, not including any amount representing bank borrowings and senior securities, from the Fund's total assets and dividing the result by the principal amount of the borrowings outstanding. As of the dates indicated below, the Fund's debt outstanding and asset coverage was as follows:

1 For the six-month period ended December 31, 2018. Effective April 11, 2019, the Fund had a fiscal year change from June 30 to December 31.

2 As referenced in Note 1, the Fund issued $145mm in preferred shares subject to the 200% Asset Coverage of Indebtedness requirements under the 1940 Act.

Note 11. Unconsolidated Significant Subsidiaries

In accordance with Regulation S-X and GAAP, the Fund is not permitted to consolidate any subsidiary or other entity that is not an investment company, including those in which the Fund has a controlling interest unless the business of the controlled subsidiary consists of providing services to the Fund. In accordance with Regulation S-X Rules 3-09 and 4-08(g), the Fund evaluates its unconsolidated controlled subsidiaries as significant subsidiaries under the respective rules. As of December 31, 2022, NFRO REIT Sub, LLC, NFRO REIT Sub II, LLC, and NFRO SFR REIT, LLC were considered significant unconsolidated subsidiaries under Regulation S-X Rule 4-08(g). This subsidiary is wholly owned by the Fund. Based on the requirements under Regulation S-X Rule 4-08(g), the summarized financial information of these unconsolidated subsidiaries is presented below:

Management has evaluated the impact of all subsequent events on the Fund through the date the financial statements were issued, and has determined that there were no such subsequent events to report which have not already been recorded or disclosed in these financial statements and accompanying notes.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT REGISTERED PUBLIC ACCOUNTING FIRM

To the Shareholders and Board of Trustees of Highland Income Fund:

Opinion on the Financial Statements

We have audited the accompanying statement of assets and liabilities, including the investment portfolio, of Highland Income Fund (the "Fund") as of December 31, 2022, the related statements of operations and cash flows for the year then ended, the statements of changes in net assets for each of the two years in the period then ended, the related notes, and the financial highlights for each of the three years in the period then ended (collectively referred to as the "financial statements"). In our opinion, the financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Fund as of December 31, 2022, the results of its operations and its cash flows for the year then ended, the changes in net assets for each of the two years in the period then ended, and the financial highlights for each of the three years in the period then ended, in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The Fund's financial highlights for the years ended December 31, 2019, and prior, were audited by other auditors whose report dated April 10, 2020, expressed an unqualified opinion on those financial highlights.

Basis for Opinion

These financial statements are the responsibility of the Fund's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on the Fund's financial statements based on our audits. We are a public accounting firm registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States) ("PCAOB") and are required to be independent with respect to the Fund in accordance with the U.S. federal securities laws and the applicable rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the PCAOB.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the PCAOB. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement whether due to error or fraud.

Our audits included performing procedures to assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to error or fraud, and performing procedures that respond to those risks. Such procedures included examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. Our procedures included confirmation of securities owned as of December 31, 2022, by correspondence with the custodian, agent banks, transfer agents, issuers and brokers; when replies were not received from brokers, we performed other auditing procedures. Our audits also included evaluating the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

We have served as the Fund's auditor since 2020.

The Fund's investment objective is to provide a high level of current income, consistent with preservation of capital.

The Fund seeks to achieve its objective by investing directly and indirectly (e.g., through derivatives that are the economic equivalent of direct investments) in the following categories of securities and instruments: (i) floating rate loans and other securities deemed to be floating rate investments; (ii) investments in securities or other instruments directly or indirectly secured by real estate, including real estate investment trusts ("REITs"), preferred equity, securities convertible into equity securities and mezzanine debt; and (iii) other instruments, including, but not limited to, secured and unsecured fixed-rate loans and corporate bonds, distressed securities, mezzanine securities, structured products (including but not limited to mortgage-backed securities, collateralized loan obligations and asset-backed securities), convertible and preferred securities, equities (public and private), and futures and options.

The Fund will invest at least 25% of its assets in investments in securities or other instruments directly or indirectly secured by real estate, including REITs, preferred equity, securities convertible into equity securities and mezzanine debt.

Floating Rate Investments. Floating rate investments are debt obligations of companies or other entities, the interest rates of which float or vary periodically based upon a benchmark indicator of prevailing interest rates. Floating rate investments may include, by way of example, floating rate debt securities, money market securities of all types, repurchase agreements with remaining maturities of no more than 60 days, collateralized loan obligations and asset backed securities. The reference in the Fund's investment objective to capital preservation does not indicate that the Fund may not lose money. NexPoint seeks to employ strategies that are consistent with capital preservation, but there can be no assurance that the Investment Adviser will be successful in doing so. In making floating rate investments for the Fund, the Fund's Investment Adviser will seek to purchase instruments that it believes are undervalued or will provide attractive income, while attempting to minimize losses.

Floating rate loans in which the Fund invests are expected to be adjustable rate senior loans ("Senior Loans") to domestic or foreign corporations, partnerships and other entities that operate in a variety of industries and geographic regions ("Borrowers"). Senior Loans are business loans that have a right to payment senior to most other debts of the Borrower. Senior Loans generally are arranged through private negotiations between a Borrower and several financial institutions (the "Lenders") represented in each case by one or more such Lenders acting as agent (the "Agent") of the several Lenders. On behalf of the Lenders, the Agent is primarily responsible for negotiating the loan agreement ("Loan Agreement") that establishes the relative terms and conditions of the Senior Loan and rights of the Borrower and the Lenders.

The Fund may invest in securities of any credit quality. Senior Loans are typically below investment grade securities (also known as "high yield securities" or "junk securities"). Such securities are rated below investment grade by a nationally recognized statistical rating organization ("NRSRO") or are unrated but deemed by the Investment Adviser to be of comparable quality. The Fund may invest without limitation in below investment grade or unrated securities, including in insolvent borrowers or borrowers in default.

The Fund may invest in participations ("Participations") in Senior Loans, may purchase assignments ("Assignments") of portions of Senior Loans from third parties, and may act as one of a group of Lenders originating a Senior Loan ("Primary Lender"). Senior Loans often are secured by specific assets of the Borrower, although the Fund may invest without limitation in Senior Loans that are not secured by any collateral. When the Fund acts as a Primary Lender, the Fund or Investment the Adviser could be subject to allegations of lender liability. Senior Loans in which the Fund invests generally pay interest at rates that are periodically re-determined by reference to a base lending rate plus a spread.

Real Estate Investments. The Fund defines securities of issuers conducting their principal business activities in the real estate industry to include common stock, convertible or non-convertible preferred stock, warrants, convertible or non-convertible secured or unsecured debt, and partnership or membership interests issued by:

- commercial mortgage-backed securities ("CMBS"), residential mortgage-backed securities ("RMBS") and other real estate credit investments, which include existing first and second mortgages on real estate, either originated or acquired in the secondary market, and secured, unsecured and/or convertible notes offered by real estate operating companies ("REOCs") and REITs;
- publicly traded REITs managed by affiliated or unaffiliated asset managers and their foreign equivalents ("Public REITs");
- REOCs;
- private real estate investment funds managed by affiliated or unaffiliated institutional asset managers ("Private Real Estate Investment Funds");

- registered closed-end funds that invest principally in real estate (collectively, "Public Investment Funds");
- real estate exchange traded funds ("ETFs"); and
- publicly-registered non-traded REITs ("Non-Traded REITs") and private REITs, generally wholly-owned by the Fund or wholly-owned or managed by an affiliate.

REITs are pooled investment vehicles that invest primarily in income-producing real estate or real estate-related loans or interests, and REOCs are companies that invest in real estate and whose shares trade on public exchanges. Foreign REIT equivalents are entities located in jurisdictions that have adopted legislation substantially similar to the REIT tax provisions in that they provide for favorable tax treatment for the foreign REIT equivalent and require distributions of income to shareholders. The Fund may enter into certain real estate and real-estate related investments through its wholly-owned REIT subsidiaries, NFRO REIT Sub, LLC, NFRO REIT Sub II, LLC, and NFRO SFR REIT, LLC (together the "REIT Subsidiaries"). With respect to the Fund's real estate investments, the Investment Adviser seeks to: (i) recognize and allocate capital based upon where the Investment Adviser believes we are in the current real estate cycle, and as a result (ii) minimize drawdowns during market downturns and maximize risk adjusted returns during all market cycles, though there can be no assurance that this strategy will achieve this objective. The Fund will rely on the expertise of the Investment Adviser and its affiliates to determine the appropriate structure for structured credit investments, which may include bridge loans, common and preferred equity or other debt-like positions, as well as the acquisition of such instruments from banks, servicers or other third parties.

Preferred equity and mezzanine investments in real estate transactions come in various forms which may or may not be documented in the borrower's organizational documents. Generally, real estate preferred equity and/or mezzanine investments are typically junior to first mortgage financing but senior to the borrower's or sponsor's equity contribution. The investments are typically structured as an investment by a third-party investor in the real estate owner or various affiliates in the chain of ownership in exchange for a direct or indirect ownership interest in the real estate owner entitling it to a preferred/priority return on its investment. Sometimes, the investment is structured much like a loan where (i) "interest" on the investment is required to be paid monthly by the "borrower" regardless of available property cash flow; (ii) the entire investment is required to be paid by a certain maturity date; (iii) default rate "interest" and penalties are assessed against the "borrower" in the event payments are not made timely; and (iv) a default in the repayment of investment potentially results in the loss of management and/or ownership control by the "borrower" in the company in favor of the investor or other third-party.

Other Investments. The Fund may invest up to 15% of its net assets in entities that are excluded from registration under the 1940 Act by virtue of section 3(c)(1) and 3(c)(7) of the 1940 Act (such as private equity funds or hedge funds). This limitation does not apply to any collateralized loan obligations, certain of which may rely on Section 3(c)(1) or 3(c)(7) of the 1940 Act.

In addition, the Fund may invest in equity securities of companies of any market capitalization, market sector or industry. Equity securities of U.S. or non-U.S. issuers in which the Fund may invest include common stocks, preferred stocks, convertible securities, depositary receipts and warrants to buy common stocks. The Fund may invest in securities issued by other investment companies, including investment companies that are advised by the Investment Adviser or its affiliates, to the extent permitted by applicable law and/or pursuant to exemptive relief from the SEC, and exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"). Fees and expenses of such investments will be borne by shareholders of the investing fund (the Fund), and the Investment Adviser voluntarily waives the higher of the two fees for the portion of the Fund's management fee attributable to the Fund's investment in the affiliated investment company.

The Fund's investment in fixed income securities may include convertible securities. A convertible security is a bond, debenture, note, preferred stock or other security that may be converted into or exchanged for a prescribed amount of common stock or other equity security of the same or a different issuer within a particular period of time at a specified price or formula. A convertible security entitles the holder to receive interest paid or accrued on debt or the dividend paid on preferred stock until the convertible security matures or is redeemed, converted or exchanged. Before conversion, convertible securities have characteristics similar to nonconvertible income securities in that they ordinarily provide a stable stream of income with generally higher yields than those of common stocks of the same or similar issuers, but lower yields than comparable nonconvertible securities. The value of a convertible security is influenced by changes in interest rates, with investment value declining as interest rates increase and increasing as interest rates decline. The credit standing of the issuer and other factors also may have an effect on the convertible security's investment value. Convertible securities rank senior to common stock in a corporation's capital structure but are usually subordinated to comparable nonconvertible securities. Convertible securities may be subject to redemption at the option of the issuer at a price established in the convertible security's governing instrument. Depending on the relationship of the conversion price to the market value of the underlying securities, convertible securities may trade more like equity securities than debt instruments.

The Fund may invest without limitation in warrants and may also use derivatives, primarily swaps (including equity, variance and volatility swaps), options and futures contracts on securities, interest rates, non-physical commodities and/or currencies, as substitutes for direct investments the Fund can make. The Fund may also use derivatives such as swaps, options (including options on futures), futures, and foreign currency transactions (e.g., foreign currency swaps, futures and forwards) to any extent deemed by the Investment Adviser to be in the best interest of the Fund, and to the extent permitted by the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"), to hedge various investments for risk management and speculative purposes.

The Fund may also engage in short sales of securities and may seek additional income by making secured loans of its portfolio securities.

The Fund may engage in securities lending by making secured loans of its portfolio securities amounting to not more than one-third of its total assets, thereby realizing additional income.

The Fund may invest in illiquid and restricted securities. Illiquid securities are those that cannot be disposed of within seven days in the ordinary course of business at approximately the amount at which the Fund has valued the securities.

The Fund may invest without limitation in securities (including loans) of non-U.S. issuers, including emerging market issuers. Such securities (including loans) may be denominated in U.S. dollars, non-U.S. currencies or multinational currency units. Except as otherwise expressly noted in the Statement of Additional Information ("SAI"), all percentage limitations and ratings criteria apply at the time of purchase of securities.

The Fund may borrow an amount up to 33 1/3% of its total assets (including the amount borrowed) and may use leverage in the form of preferred shares in an amount up to 50% of the Fund's total assets (including the amount borrowed. The Fund may borrow for investment purposes and for temporary, extraordinary or emergency purposes. To the extent the Fund borrows more money than it has cash or short-term cash equivalents and invests the proceeds, the Fund will create financial leverage. The use of borrowing for investment purposes increases both investment opportunity and investment risk.

When adverse market, economic, political or currency conditions domestically or abroad occur, the Fund may temporarily invest all or a portion of its total assets in defensive investments. Such investments may include fixed-income securities, high quality money market instruments, cash and cash equivalents. To the extent the Fund takes a temporary defensive position, it may not achieve its investment objective.

The Fund is a non-diversified fund as defined in the 1940 Act, but it intends to adhere to the diversification requirements applicable to regulated investment companies ("RICs") under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended. The Fund is not intended to be a complete investment program.

Additional Portfolio Information

The Investment Adviser and its affiliates manage other accounts, including registered and private funds and individual accounts. Although investment decisions for the Fund are made independently from those of such other accounts, the Investment Adviser may, consistent with applicable law, make investment recommendations to other clients or accounts that may be the same or different from those made to the Fund, including investments in different levels of the capital structure of a company, such as equity versus senior loans, or that involve taking contradictory positions in multiple levels of the capital structure. The Investment Adviser has adopted policies and procedures that address the allocation of investment opportunities, execution of portfolio transactions, personal trading by employees and other potential conflicts of interest that are designed to ensure that all client accounts are treated equitably over time. Nevertheless, this may create situations where a client could be disadvantaged because of the investment activities conducted by the Investment Adviser for other client accounts. When the Fund and one or more of such other accounts is prepared to invest in, or desire to dispose of, the same security, available investments or opportunities for each will be allocated in a manner believed by the Investment Adviser to be equitable to the Fund and such other accounts. The Investment Adviser also may aggregate orders to purchase and sell securities for the Fund and such other accounts. Although the Investment Adviser believes that, over time, the potential benefits of participating in volume transactions and negotiating lower transaction costs should benefit all accounts including the Fund, in some cases these activities may adversely affect the price paid or received by the Fund or the size of the position obtained or disposed of by the Fund.

Dividend Reinvestment Plan

Unless the registered owner of Common Shares elects to receive cash by contacting American Stock Transfer & Trust Company ("AST" or the "Plan Agent"), as agent for shareholders in administering the Plan, a registered owner will receive newly issued Common Shares for all dividends declared for Common Shares of the Fund. If a registered owner of Common Shares elects not to participate in the Plan, they will receive all dividends in cash paid by check mailed directly to them (or, if the shares are held in street or other nominee name, then to such nominee) by AST, as dividend disbursing agent.

Shareholders may elect not to participate in the Plan and to receive all dividends in cash by sending written instructions or by contacting AST, as dividend disbursing agent, at the address set forth below.

Participation in the Plan is completely voluntary and may be terminated or resumed at any time without penalty by contacting the Plan Agent before the dividend record date; otherwise such termination or resumption will be effective with respect to any subsequently declared dividend. Some brokers may automatically elect to receive cash on the shareholders' behalf and may reinvest that cash in additional Common Shares of the Fund for them. The Plan Agent will open an account for each shareholder under the Plan in the same name in which such shareholder's Common Shares are registered.

Whenever the Fund declares a dividend payable in cash, non-participants in the Plan will receive cash and participants in the Plan will receive the equivalent in Common Shares. The Common Shares will be acquired by the Plan Agent through receipt of additional unissued but authorized Common Shares from the Fund ("newly issued Common Shares"). The number of newly issued Common Shares to be credited to each participant's account will be determined by dividing the dollar amount of the dividend by the lesser of (i) the net asset value per Common Share determined on the Declaration Date and (ii) the market price per Common Share as of the close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange (the "NYSE") on the Declaration Date. The Plan Agent maintains all shareholders' accounts in the Plan and furnishes written confirmation of all transactions in the accounts, including information needed by shareholders for tax records. Common Shares in the account of each Plan participant will be held by the Plan Agent on behalf of the Plan participant, and each shareholder proxy will include those shares purchased or received pursuant to the Plan. The Plan Agent will forward all proxy solicitation materials to participants and vote proxies for shares held under the Plan in accordance with the instructions of the participants. In the case of shareholders such as banks, brokers or nominees which hold shares for others who are the beneficial owners, the Plan Agent will administer the Plan on the basis of the number of Common Shares certified from time to time by the record shareholder's name and held for the account of beneficial owners who participate in the Plan. There will be no brokerage charges with respect to Common Shares issued directly by the Fund.

The automatic reinvestment of dividends will not relieve participants of any federal, state or local income tax that may be payable (or required to be withheld) on such dividends. Accordingly, any taxable dividend received by a participant that is reinvested in additional Common Shares will be subject to federal (and possibly state and local) income tax even though such participant will not receive a corresponding amount of cash with which to pay such taxes. Participants who request a sale of shares through the Plan

Agent are subject to a $2.50 sales fee and pay a brokerage commission of $0.05 per share sold. The Fund reserves the right to amend or terminate the Plan. There is no direct service charge to participants in the Plan; however, the Fund reserves the right to amend the Plan to include a service charge payable by the participants. All correspondence concerning the Plan should be directed to the Plan Agent at American Stock Transfer & Trust Company, LLC 6201 15th Avenue Brooklyn, NY 11219; telephone (718) 921-8200.

Shareholder Loyalty Program

To promote loyalty and long-term alignment of interests among the Company's shareholders, the Investment Adviser offers an incentive to shareholders that buy and hold the Company's common shares for a period of at least twelve months through its Shareholder Loyalty Program (the "Program"). To participate in the Program, existing shareholders must open an account (the "Account") with the Program's administrator, Maxim Group, LLC ("Maxim"). Subsequently, if a participant makes contributions to the Account during a defined trading period to purchase shares, the Investment Adviser will make a corresponding contribution equal to 2% of the participant's contributions. For example, if a participant contributes $10,000 to the Account during a defined trading period to purchase shares, the Investment Adviser will make a corresponding contribution of $200, to purchase additional shares for the participant (the "Bonus Shares"). In addition, Program participants will not be required to pay any customary selling commissions or distribution fees on the purchase of shares under the Program. The Investment Adviser will bear the costs of brokerage fees in connection with the Program. While the portion of the Company's common shares that are acquired through the participant's contribution will vest immediately, Bonus Shares will not vest until the first anniversary of the date that the Bonus Shares were purchased. Vested shares will be held in the Account and Bonus Shares will be held in an account at Maxim for the conditional benefit of the shareholder. Under the Program, Participants must purchase a minimum of $10,000 worth of shares in the initial subscription and $5,000 in each Subsequent subscription, unless the Investment Adviser, in its sole discretion, decides to permit subscriptions for a lesser amount. If the Company's common shares are trading at a discount, Maxim will purchase common shares on behalf of participants in open-market purchases. If the Company's common shares are trading at a premium, Maxim may purchase common shares on behalf of participants in open market purchases or the Company may sell common shares to the shareholder Loyalty Program by means of a prospectus or otherwise. All dividends received on shares that are purchased under the Program will be automatically reinvested through the Program. A participant's interest in a dividend paid to the holder of a vested share will vest immediately. A participant's interest in a dividend paid to the holder of a Bonus Share will vest at the same time that the Bonus Share's vesting requirements are met. In addition, for dividends paid to holders of shares that were purchased with a participant's contributions, the Investment Adviser will take a corresponding contribution to the amount of the reinvested dividend equal to 2% of the dividend amount. Maxim maintains all shareholders' accounts in the Program and furnishes written confirmation of all transactions in the accounts, including information needed by shareholders for tax records. Shares in the account of each Program participant will be held by Maxim on behalf of the Program participant, and each shareholder proxy will include those shares purchased or received pursuant to a Program. Maxim will forward all proxy solicitation materials to participants and vote proxies for shares held under the Program in accordance with the instructions of the participants. In the case of shareholders such as banks, brokers or nominees which hold shares for others who are the beneficial owners, Maxim will administer the Program on the basis of the number of common shares certified from time to time by the record shareholder's name and held for the account of beneficial owners who participate in the Program. The Company and the Investment Adviser reserve the right to amend or terminate the Program. To help align the interests of the Investment Adviser's employees with the interests of the Company's shareholders, the Investment Adviser offers a similar program to its employees. Participants in the Program should be aware that their receipt of Bonus Shares under the Program constitutes taxable income to them. In addition, such participants owe taxes on that portion of any distribution that constitutes taxable income in respect of shares of our common stock held in their Program accounts, whether or not such shares of common stock have vested in the hands of the participants. To the extent any payments or distributions under the Program are subject to U.S. federal, state or local taxes, the Company, any participating affiliate of the Company or the agent for the Program may satisfy its tax withholding obligation by (1) withholding shares of Stock allocated to the participant's account, (2) deducting cash from the participant's account or (3) deducting cash from any other compensation the participant may receive. Program participants should consult their tax advisers regarding the tax consequences to them of participating in the Program. The Program may create an incentive for shareholders to invest additional amounts in the Company. Because the Investment Adviser's management fee is based on a percentage of the assets of the Company, the Program will result in increased net revenues to the Investment Adviser if the increase in the management fee due to the increased asset base offsets the costs associated with establishing and maintaining the Program.

Approval of Highland Income Fund Advisory Agreement.

The Fund has retained NexPoint Asset Management, L.P. (the "Investment Adviser") to manage the assets of the Fund pursuant to an investment advisory agreement between the Investment Adviser and the Fund (the "Agreement"). The Agreement has been approved by the Fund's Board of Trustees, including a majority of the Independent Trustees. The Agreement continues in effect from year-to-year, provided that such continuance is specifically approved at least annually by the vote of holders of at least a majority of the outstanding shares of the Fund or by the Board of Trustees and, in either event, by a majority of the Independent Trustees of the Fund casting votes virtually at a meeting called for such purpose.

During a telephonic meeting with the Investment Adviser held on August 19, 2022, and separately with independent counsel on September 1, 2022, the Board of Trustees considered information bearing on the continuation of the Agreement for an additional one-year period. The Board of Trustees further discussed and considered information with respect to the continuation of the Agreement at Board meetings held telephonic on September 15-16, 2022 and in person on September 28, 2022.

On March 25, 2020, as a result of health and safety measures put in place to combat the global COVID-19 pandemic, the Securities and Exchange Commission issued an exemptive order (the "Order") pursuant to Sections 6(c) and 38(a) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"), that temporarily exempts registered investment management companies from the in-person voting requirements under the 1940 Act, subject to certain requirements, including that votes taken pursuant to the Order are ratified at the next in-person meeting. The Board determined that reliance on the Order was necessary or appropriate due to the circumstances related to current or potential effects of COVID-19. Following in person and telephonic review and discussion of the Agreement and information provided by the Adviser discussed above, at a telephonic meeting held on October 21, 2022, the Board of Trustees, including the Independent Trustees, approved the continuance of the Agreement for a one-year period commencing on November 1, 2022. As part of its review process, the Board of Trustees requested, through Fund counsel and independent legal counsel, and received from the Investment Adviser, various information and written materials, including: (1) information regarding the financial soundness of the Investment Adviser and the profitability of the Agreement to the Investment Adviser; (2) information on the advisory, legal and compliance personnel of the Investment Adviser, including ongoing updates regarding the Highland Capital Management L.P. ("HCMLP") bankruptcy; (3) information regarding the role of Skyview Group ("Skyview") as a service provider to the Investment Adviser pursuant to the services agreement between Skyview and the Investment Adviser (the "Skyview Services Agreement") to assist the Investment Adviser in providing certain services to the Fund pursuant to the Agreement and the Administration Services Agreement between the Investment Adviser and the Fund, as well as information regarding the Investment Adviser's oversight role over Skyview; (4) information on the internal compliance procedures of each of the Investment Adviser, including policies and procedures for personal securities transactions, conflicts of interest and with respect to cybersecurity, business continuity and disaster recovery; (5) comparative information showing how the Fund's fees and operating expenses compare to those of other accounts of the Investment Adviser, if any, with investment strategies similar to those of the Fund; (6) information on the investment performance of the Fund, including comparisons of the Fund's performance against that of other registered investment companies and comparable funds managed by the Investment Adviser that follow investment strategies similar to those of the Fund; (7) information regarding brokerage and portfolio transactions; and (8) information on any legal proceedings or regulatory audits or investigations affecting the Investment Adviser, including potential claims in the HCMLP bankruptcy. After the August 2022 meeting and throughout the annual contract renewal process, including at the September 15-16, 2022 and September 28, 2022 Board meetings, the Board of Trustees requested that the Investment Adviser provide additional information and written responses regarding various matters in connection with the Board of Trustee's review and consideration of the Agreement. It was further noted that throughout the process, the Board of Trustees, including separately the Independent Trustees, had also met in executive sessions to further discuss the materials and information provided.

In addition, the Board of Trustees received an independent report from FUSE Research Network ("FUSE"), an independent third-party provider of investment company data, relating to the Fund's performance and expenses compared to the performance and expenses of a group of funds deemed by FUSE to be comparable to the Fund (the "peer group"), and to a larger group of comparable funds (the "peer universe").

The Board of Trustees discussed the materials and information provided by the Investment Adviser in detail over the course of multiple meetings, including the Investment Adviser's responses to the Board of Trustees' specific written questions, comparative fee and performance information and information concerning the Investment Adviser's business and financial condition. The factors considered and the determinations made by the Board of Trustees in connection with the approval of the renewal of the Agreement with the Investment Adviser are set forth below but are not exhaustive of all matters that were discussed by the Board of Trustees.

The Board of Trustees' evaluation process with respect to the Investment Adviser is an ongoing one. In this regard, the Board of Trustees also took into account discussions with management and information provided to the Board of Trustees at meetings of the Board of Trustees over the course of the year and in past years with respect to the services provided by the Investment Adviser to the Fund, including quarterly performance reports prepared by management containing reviews of investment results and prior presentations from the Investment Adviser with respect to the Fund. The information received and considered by the Board of Trustees in connection with the Board's determination to approve the continuance of the Agreement was both written and oral.

The Board of Trustees reviewed various factors that were discussed in a legal memorandum provided by independent counsel regarding trustee responsibilities in considering the Agreement, the detailed information provided by the Investment Adviser and other relevant information. The Board of Trustees also considered other factors (including conditions and trends prevailing generally in the economy, the securities markets, and the effect of the COVID-19 pandemic on the Fund and the industry). Some of the factors that figured particularly in the Board of Trustees' deliberations are described below, although individual Trustees may have evaluated the information presented differently from one another, giving different weights to various factors. In addition, the Board of Trustees' conclusions may be based in part on its consideration of the advisory arrangements in prior years and on the Board of Trustees' ongoing regular review of fund performance and operations throughout the year. The Board of Trustees' conclusions as to the approval of the Agreement were based on a comprehensive consideration of all information provided to the Board of Trustees without any single factor being dispositive in and of itself.

Throughout the process, the Board of Trustees had the opportunity to ask questions of and request additional information from the Investment Adviser. The Board of Trustees was assisted by legal counsel for the Trust and the Independent Trustees were also separately assisted by independent legal counsel throughout the process. The Board of Trustees also met separately without representatives of the Investment Adviser present. The Independent Trustees were advised by and met in executive sessions with their independent legal counsel at which no representatives of management were present to discuss the proposed continuation of the Agreement.

The nature, extent, and quality of the services to be provided by the Investment Adviser.

The Board of Trustees considered the Investment Adviser's services as investment manager to the Fund.

The Board of Trustees considered the portfolio management services to be provided by the Investment Adviser under the Agreement and the activities related to portfolio management, including use of technology, research capabilities and investment management staff. The Board of Trustees also considered the relevant experience and qualifications of the personnel providing advisory services, including the background and experience of the members of the Fund's portfolio management team. The Board of Trustees reviewed the management structure, assets under management and investment philosophies and processes of the Investment Adviser, including with respect to liquidity management. The Board of Trustees also reviewed and discussed information regarding the Investment Adviser's compliance policies, procedures and personnel, including compensation arrangements, and with respect to valuation, cybersecurity, business continuity and disaster recovery. The Board of Trustees also considered the Investment Adviser's risk management and monitoring processes. The Board of Trustees took into account the terms of the Agreement and considered that, the Investment Adviser, subject to the direction of the Board of Trustees, is responsible for providing advice and guidance with respect to the Fund and for managing the investment of the assets of the Fund. The Board of Trustees also took into account that the scope of services provided to the Fund and the undertakings required of the Investment Adviser in connection with those services, including with respect to its own and the Fund's compliance programs, had expanded over time as a result of regulatory, market and other developments. The Board of Trustees also considered operational, staffing and organizational changes with respect to the Investment Adviser over the prior year, including in connection with the transitions of certain shared services arrangements and the fact that there were no material operational or compliance issues with respect to the Fund or decrease in the level and quality of services provided to the Fund as a result. The Board of Trustees also considered the Investment Adviser's legal and regulatory history. The Board of Trustees also considered the Investment Adviser's current litigation matters related to the HCMLP bankruptcy and took into account the Investment Adviser's representation that such matters would not impact the quality and level of services the Investment Adviser will provide to the Fund under the Agreement.

The Investment Adviser's services in coordinating and overseeing the activities of the Fund's other service providers, as well of the services provided by Skyview to the Investment Adviser under the Skyview Services Agreement, were also considered. The Board of Trustees also evaluated the expertise and performance of the personnel of the Investment Adviser who performed services for the Fund throughout the year. They also considered the quality of the Investment Adviser's compliance oversight program with respect to the Fund's service providers. The Board of Trustees also considered both the investment advisory services and the nature, quality and extent of any administrative and other non-advisory services, including shareholder servicing and distribution support services that are provided to the Fund and its shareholders by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates, as well as considered the services provided by Skyview to the Investment Adviser under the Skyview Services Agreement. The Board of Trustees noted that the level and quality of services to the Fund by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates had not been materially impacted by the HCMLP bankruptcy and took into account the Investment Adviser's representations that the level and quality of the services provided by the Investment Adviser and their affiliates, as well as of those services provided by Skyview to the Investment Adviser under the Skyview Services Agreement, would continue to be provided to the Fund at the same or higher level and quality.

The Board of Trustees also considered the significant risks assumed by the Investment Adviser in connection with the services provided to the Fund, including entrepreneurial risk and ongoing risks including investment, operational, enterprise, litigation, regulatory and compliance risks with respect to the Fund. The Board of Trustees also noted various cost savings initiatives that had been implemented by the Investment Adviser with respect to the Fund and the other funds in the Highland complex over the years. The Board of Trustees considered the Investment Adviser's financial condition and financial wherewithal. The Board of Trustees also considered the financial condition and operations of the Investment Adviser during the COVID-19 pandemic and noted that there had been no material disruption of the Investment Adviser's services to the Fund and that the Investment Adviser had continued to provide the same level, quality and extent of services to the Fund.

The Board of Trustees also noted that on a regular basis it receives and reviews information from the Fund's Chief Compliance Officer (CCO) regarding the Fund's compliance policies and procedures established pursuant to Rule 38a-1 under the 1940 Act. The Board of Trustees also took into account the CCO's ongoing reports concerning the CCO's oversight of the risk assessment processes.

In considering the nature, extent, and quality of the services provided by the Investment Adviser, the Board of Trustees also took into account its knowledge of the Investment Adviser's management and the quality of the performance of its duties, through discussions and reports and interactions during the preceding year and in past years.

The Board of Trustees concluded that the Investment Adviser had the quality and depth of personnel and investment methods essential to performing its duties under the Agreement, and that the nature and the quality of such advisory services supported the approval of the Agreement.

The Investment Adviser's historical performance.

In considering the Fund's performance, the Board of Trustees noted that it reviews at its regularly scheduled meetings information about the Fund's performance results. The Board of Trustees considered the performance of the Fund as described in the quarterly and other reports provided by management over the course of the year. The Board of Trustees noted that the Investment Adviser reviewed with the Board of Trustees on at least a quarterly basis detailed information about the Fund's performance results, portfolio composition and investment strategies. The Board of Trustees reviewed the historical performance of the Fund over various time periods and reflected on previous discussions regarding matters bearing on the Investment Adviser's performance at its meetings throughout the year. The Board of Trustees discussed the historical performance of the Fund and considered the relative performance of the Fund and its portfolio management team as compared to that of the Fund's peer group as selected by FUSE, as well as comparable indices. Among other data, the Board of Trustees also received data with respect to the Fund's leverage, discounts and distribution rates as compared to its peer group.

The Board of Trustees reviewed and considered the FUSE report, which provided a statistical analysis comparing the Fund's investment performance, expenses and fees to those of comparable funds for various periods ended June 30, 2022 and management's discussion of the same, including the effect of current market conditions on the Fund's more-recent performance. The Board of Trustees also received a review of the data contained in the FUSE report from representatives of FUSE. The Board of Trustees noted that while it found the data provided by FUSE, the independent third-party data provider, generally useful, it recognized its limitations, including in particular that the data may vary depending on the end date selected and the results of the performance comparisons may vary depending on the selection of the peer group. The Board of Trustees also took into account management's discussion of the category in which the Fund was placed for comparative purposes, including any differences between the Fund's investment strategy and the strategy of the funds in the Fund's respective category, as well as compared to the peer group selected by FUSE. The Board of Trustees also took into account its discussions with management over the course of the year regarding factors that contributed to the performance of the Fund, including presentations with the Fund's portfolio managers.

Among other data relating specifically to the Fund's performance, the Board took note of the peer group of tactical allocation funds and FUSE's explanation of the same that a peer group of tactical allocation funds better reflects the Fund's objective of seeking to provide a high level of current income through investment in a highly diverse set of securities and using a wide array of strategies.

The Board of Trustees then considered that the Fund had outperformed its benchmark, the Credit Suisse Leveraged Loan USD Index, as well as its peer group median for the one-, three-, five-, and ten-year periods ended June 30, 2022. The Board also took into account management's discussion of the Fund's performance, including its recent performance differences in the Fund's strategy from the funds in its peer group. The Board also noted management discussion of actions previously taken and potential further actions to be taken to address the Fund's discount.

The Board of Trustees concluded that the Fund's overall performance and other relevant factors supported the continuation of the Agreement with respect to the Fund for an additional one-year period.

The costs of the services to be provided by the Investment Adviser and the profits to be realized by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates from the relationship with the Fund.

The Board of Trustees also gave consideration to the fees payable under the Agreement, the expenses the Investment Adviser incur in providing advisory services and the profitability to the Investment Adviser from managing the Fund, including: (1) information regarding the financial condition of the Investment Adviser and regarding profitability from the relationship with the Fund; (2) information regarding the total fees and payments received by the Investment Adviser for its services and, with respect to the Investment Adviser, whether such fees are appropriate given economies of scale and other considerations; (3) comparative information showing (a) the fees payable under the Agreement versus the investment advisory fees of certain registered investment companies and comparable funds that follow investment strategies similar to those of the Fund and (b) the expense ratios of the Fund versus the expense ratios of certain registered investment companies and comparable funds that follow investment strategies similar to those of the Fund; and (4) information regarding the total fees and payments received and the related amounts waived and/or reimbursed by the Investment Adviser for administrative services with respect to the Fund under separate agreements and whether such fees are appropriate. The Board of Trustees took into account the management fee structure, including that management fees for the Fund were based on the Fund's total managed assets.

Among other data, the Board of Trustees considered that the Fund's total net expenses were higher than its peer group median and that the Fund's net management fees (the Fund's actual advisory fee plus actual administrative fee) were lower than those of its peer group median. The Board of Trustees also took into account management's discussion of the Fund's expenses.

The Board of Trustees also considered the so-called "fallout benefits" to the Investment Adviser with respect to the Fund, such as the reputational value of serving as Investment Adviser to the Fund, potential fees paid to the Investment Adviser's affiliates by the Fund or portfolio companies for services provided, including administrative services provided to the Fund by the Investment Adviser pursuant to separate agreements, the benefits of scale from investment by the Fund in affiliated funds, and the benefits of research made available to the Investment Adviser by reason of brokerage commissions (if any) generated by the Fund's securities transactions. The Board of Trustees concluded that the benefits received by the Investment Adviser and its affiliates were reasonable in the context of the relationship between the Investment Adviser and the Fund.

After such review, the Board of Trustees determined that the profitability to the Investment Adviser and its affiliates from their relationship with the Fund was not excessive.

The extent to which economies of scale would be realized as the Fund grows and whether fee levels reflect these economies of scale for the benefit of shareholders.

The Board of Trustees also considered the effect of the Fund's growth in assets under management on its fees. The Board of Trustees noted that breakpoints recently have been added to the Fund's advisory fee schedule. The Board of Trustees also took into account the Adviser's discussion of the fee structure, including that the Fund also benefits from a waiver of a portion of its advisory and administration fees, which the Investment Adviser believes can be more effective than breakpoints at controlling overall costs borne by shareholders. The Board of Trustees also noted the FUSE report, which compared fees among peers, and included the Fund's contractual fee schedule at different asset levels. The Board of Trustees noted that the Fund's contractual advisory fee is lower than its peer group at all asset levels. The Board of Trustees noted that, if the Fund's assets increase over time, The Board of Trustees also generally noted that, if the Fund's assets increase over time, the Fund may realize other economies of scale if assets increase proportionally more than certain other fixed expenses. The Board of Trustees concluded that the fee structure is reasonable, and with respect to the Investment Adviser, should result in a sharing of economies of scale in view of the information provided. The Board of Trustees determined to continue to review the ways and extent to which economies of scale might be shared between the Investment Adviser, on the one hand, and shareholders of the Fund, on the other.

Conclusion.

Following a further discussion of the factors above, it was noted that in considering the approval of the Agreement, no single factor was determinative to the decision of the Board of Trustees. Rather, after weighing all factors and conside rations, including those discussed above, the Board of Truste es, including separately, the Independent Trustees, unanimously agreed that the Agreement, including the advis ory fee to be paid to the Investment Adviser, is fair and reas onable to the Fund in light of the services that the Investment Adviser provides, the expenses that it incurs and the reasonably foreseeable asset levels of the Fund.

Item 5. Audit Committee of Listed Registrants.

(a) The Registrant has a separately-designated standing Audit Committee established in accordance with Section 3(a)(58)(A) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"). It is composed of the following Trustees, each of whom is not an "interested person" as defined in the 1940 Act:

Item 6. Investments.

(a) Schedule of Investments in securities of unaffiliated issuers as of the close of the reporting period is included as part of the Annual Report to shareholders filed under Item 1 of this form.

(b) Not applicable.

Item 7. Disclosure of Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures for Closed-End Management Investment Companies.

PROXY VOTING POLICY

Purpose and Scope

The purpose of these voting policies and procedures (the "Policy") is to set forth the principles and procedures by which NexPoint Asset Management, L.P. (the "Company") votes or gives consents with respect to the securities owned by Clients for which the Company exercises voting authority and discretion.[1] For avoidance of doubt, this includes any proxy and any shareholder vote or consent, including a vote or consent for a private company or other issuer that does not involve a proxy. These policies and procedures have been designed to help ensure that votes are cast in the best interests of Clients in accordance with the Company's fiduciary duties and Rule 206(4)-6 under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (the "Advisers Act").

This Policy applies to securities held in all Client accounts (including Retail Funds and other pooled investment vehicles) as to which the Company has explicit or implicit voting authority. Implicit voting authority exists where the Company's voting authority is implied by a general delegation of investment authority without reservation of proxy voting authority to the Client.

If the Company has delegated voting authority to an investment sub-adviser with respect to any Retail Fund, such sub-adviser will be responsible for voting all proxies for such Retail Funds in accordance with the sub-adviser's proxy voting policies. The Compliance Department, to provide oversight over the proxy voting by sub-advisers and to ensure that votes are executed in the best interests of the Retail Funds, shall (i) review the proxy voting policies and procedures of each Retail Fund sub-adviser to confirm that they comply with Rule 206(4)-6, both upon engagement of the sub-adviser and upon any material change to the sub-adviser's proxy voting policies and procedures, and (ii) require each such sub-adviser to provide quarterly certifications that all proxies were voted pursuant to the sub-adviser's policies and procedures or to describe any inconsistent votes.

General Principles

The Company and its affiliates engage in a broad range of activities, including investment activities for their own accounts and for the accounts of various Clients and providing investment advisory and other services to Clients. In the ordinary course of conducting the Company's activities, the interests of a Client may conflict with the interests of the Company, other Clients and/or the Company's affiliates and their clients. Any conflicts of interest relating to the voting of proxies, regardless of whether actual or perceived, will be addressed in accordance with these policies and procedures. The guiding principle by which the Company votes all proxies is to vote in the best interests of each Client by maximizing the economic value of the relevant Client's holdings, taking into account the relevant Client's investment horizon, the contractual obligations under the relevant advisory agreements or comparable documents and all other relevant facts and circumstances at the time of the vote. The Company does not permit voting decisions to be influenced in any manner that is contrary to, or dilutive of, this guiding principle.

Third-Party Proxy Advisors

The Company may engage a third-party proxy advisor ("Proxy Advisor") to provide proxy voting recommendations with respect to Client proxies. Proxy Advisor voting recommendation guidelines are generally designed to increase investors' potential financial gain. When considering whether to retain or continue retaining any particular Proxy Advisor, the Compliance Department will ascertain, among other things, whether the Proxy Advisor has the capacity and competency to adequately analyze proxy issues. In this regard, the Compliance Department will consider, among other things: the adequacy and quality of the Proxy Advisor's staffing and personnel; the robustness of its policies and procedures regarding its ability to (a) ensure that its proxy voting recommendations are based on current and accurate information and (b) identify and address any conflicts of interest and any other considerations that the Compliance Department determines would be appropriate in considering the nature and quality of the services provided by the Proxy Advisor. To identify and address any conflicts that may arise on the part of the Proxy Advisor, the Compliance Department will ensure that the Proxy Advisor notifies the Compliance Department of any relevant business changes or changes to its policies and procedures regarding conflicts.

Third-Party Proxy Voting Services

The Company may utilize a third-party proxy voting service ("Proxy Voting Service") to monitor holdings in Client accounts for purposes of determining whether there are upcoming shareholder meetings or similar corporate actions and to execute Client proxies on behalf of the Company pursuant to the Company's instructions, which shall be given in a manner consistent with this Policy. The Compliance Department will oversee each Proxy Voting Service to ensure that proxies have been voted in a manner consistent with the Company's instructions.

[1] In any case where a Client has instructed the Company to vote in a particular manner on the Client's behalf, those instructions will govern in lieu of parameters set forth in the Policy.

Monitoring

Subject to the procedures regarding Nonstandard Proxy Notices described below, the Compliance Department of the Company shall have responsibility for monitoring Client accounts for proxy notices. Except as detailed below, if proxy notices are received by other employees of the Company, such employees must promptly forward all proxy or other voting materials to the Compliance Department.

Portfolio Manager Review and Instruction

From time to time, the settlement group of the Company may receive nonstandard proxy notices, regarding matters including, but not limited to, proposals regarding corporate actions or amendments ("Nonstandard Proxy Notices") with respect to securities held by Clients. Upon receipt of a Nonstandard Proxy Notice, a member of the settlement group (the "Settlement Designee") shall send an email notification containing all relevant information to the Portfolio Manager(s) with responsibility for the security and [.com]. Generally, the relevant Portfolio Manager(s) shall deliver voting instructions for Nonstandard Proxy Notices by replying to the email notice sent to the Portfolio Manager(s) and [.com] by the Settlement Designee or by sending voting instructions to [.com] and [.com]. Any conflicts for Nonstandard Proxy Notices should also be disclosed to the Compliance Department. In the event a Portfolio Manager orally conveys voting instructions to the Settlement Designee or any other member of the Company's settlement group, that Settlement Designee or member of the Company's settlement group shall respond to the original notice email sent to [.com] detailing the Portfolio Manager(s) voting instructions.

With regard to standard proxy notices, on a weekly basis, the Compliance Department will send a notice of upcoming proxy votes related to securities held by Clients and the corresponding voting recommendations of the Proxy Advisor to the relevant Portfolio Manager(s). Upon receipt of a proxy notice from the Compliance Department, the Portfolio Manager(s) will review and evaluate the upcoming votes and recommendations. The Portfolio Managers may rely on any information and/or research available to him or her and may, in his or her discretion, meet with members of an issuer's management to discuss matters of importance to the relevant Clients and their economic interests. Should the Portfolio Manager determine that deviating from the Proxy Advisor's recommendation is in a Client's best interest, the Portfolio Manager shall communicate his or her voting instructions to the Compliance Department.

In the event that more than one Portfolio Manager is responsible for making a particular voting decision and such Portfolio Managers are unable to arrive at an agreement as to how to vote with respect to a particular proposal, they should consult with the applicable Chief Compliance Officer (the "CCO") for guidance.

Voting

Upon receipt of the relevant Portfolio Managers' voting instructions, if any, the Compliance Department will communicate the instructions to the Proxy Voting Service to execute the proxy votes.

Supplemental Information of Issuers

In the event that the Company becomes aware that an issuer has filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") supplemental information in response to a Proxy Advisor's voting recommendation, sufficiently in advance of the submission deadline which would reasonably be expected to affect the Company's voting determination, the Compliance Department will review such supplemental information and provide the supplemental information to the relevant Portfolio Manager(s). The Portfolio Manager shall communicate to the Compliance Department whether or not the previously provided voting instructions should be changed, and the Compliance Department document the extent to which the supplemental information was considered and/or impacted the voting.

Non-Votes

It is the general policy of the Company to vote or give consent on all matters presented to security holders in any vote, and these policies and procedures have been designated with that in mind. However, the Company reserves the right to abstain on any particular vote if, in the judgment of the CCO, or the relevant Portfolio Manager, the effect on the relevant Client's economic interests or the value of the portfolio holding is insignificant in relation to the Client's portfolio, if the costs associated with voting in any particular instance outweigh the benefits to the relevant Clients or if the circumstances make such an abstention or withholding otherwise advisable and in the best interests of the relevant Clients not to vote. Such determination may apply in respect of all Client holdings of the securities or only certain specified Clients, as the Company deems appropriate under the circumstances. As examples, a Portfolio Manager may determine: (a) not to recall securities on loan if, in his or her judgment, the matters being voted upon are not material events affecting the securities and the negative consequences to Clients of disrupting the securities lending program would outweigh the benefits of voting in the particular instance or (b) not to vote proxies relating to certain foreign securities if, in his or her judgment, the expense and administrative inconvenience outweighs the benefits to Clients of voting the securities.

Conflicts of Interest

The Company's Compliance Department is responsible for monitoring voting decisions for any conflicts of interest, regardless of whether they are actual or perceived. All voting decisions contrary to the recommendation of a Proxy Advisor require a mandatory conflicts of interest review by the Compliance Department, which will include a consideration of whether the Company or any Portfolio Manager or other person recommending or providing input on how to vote has an interest in the vote that may present a conflict of interest.

In addition, all Company investment professionals are expected to perform their tasks relating to the voting of proxies in accordance with the principles set forth above, according the first priority to the best interest of the relevant Clients. If at any time a Portfolio Manager or any other investment professional becomes aware of a potential or actual conflict of interest regarding any particular voting decision, he or she must contact the Compliance Department promptly and, if in connection with a proxy that has yet to be voted, prior to such vote. If any investment professional is pressured or lobbied, whether from inside or outside the Company, with respect to any particular voting decision, he or she should contact the Compliance Department promptly. The CCO will use his or her best judgment to address any such conflict of interest and ensure that it is resolved in accordance with his or her independent assessment of the best interests of the relevant Clients.

In the event of a conflict, the Company may choose to address such conflict by: (i) voting in accordance with the Proxy Advisor's recommendation; (ii) the CCO determining how to vote the proxy (if the CCO approves deviation from the Proxy Advisor's recommendation, then the CCO shall document the rationale for the vote); (iii) "echo voting" or "mirror voting" the proxy in the same proportion as the votes of other proxy holders that are not Clients; or (iv) with respect to Clients other than Retail Funds, notifying the affected Client of the material conflict of interest and seeking a waiver of the conflict or obtaining such Client's voting instructions. Where the Compliance Department deems appropriate, third parties may be used to help resolve conflicts. In this regard, the CCO or his or her delegate shall have the power to retain fiduciaries, consultants or professionals to assist with voting decisions and/or to delegate voting or consent powers to such fiduciaries, consultants or professionals.

Where a conflict of interest arises with respect to a voting decision for a Retail Fund, the Company shall disclose the conflict and the rationale for the vote taken to the Retail Fund's Board of Directors/Trustees at the next regularly scheduled quarterly meeting. The Compliance Department will maintain a log documenting the basis for the decision and will furnish the log to the Board of Trustees.

Material Conflicts of Interest

The following relationships or circumstances are examples of situations that may give rise to a material conflict of interest for purposes of this Policy. This list is not exclusive or determinative; any potential conflict (including payments of the types described below but less than the specified threshold) should be identified to the Company's Compliance Department:

(i) The issuer is a Client of the Company, or of an affiliate, accounting for more than 5% of the Company's or affiliate's annual revenues.

(ii) The issuer is an entity that reasonably could be expected to pay the Company or its affiliates more than $1 million through the end of the Company's next two full fiscal years.

(iii) The issuer is an entity in which a "Covered Person" (as defined in the Company's Policies and Procedures Designed to Detect and Prevent Insider Trading and to Comply with Rule 17j-1 of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "Code of Ethics")) has a beneficial interest contrary to the position held by the Company on behalf of Clients.

(iv) The issuer is an entity in which an officer or partner of the Company or a relative of any such person is or was an officer, director or employee, or such person or relative otherwise has received more than $150,000 in fees, compensation and other payment from the issuer during the Company's last three fiscal years; provided, however, that the Compliance Department may deem such a relationship not to be a material conflict of interest if the Company representative serves as an officer or director of the issuer at the direction of the Company for purposes of seeking control over the issuer.

(v) The matter under consideration could reasonably be expected to result in a material financial benefit to the Company or its affiliates through the end of the Company's next two full fiscal years (for example, a vote to increase an investment advisor y fee for a Retail Fund advised by the Company or an affiliate).

(vi) Another Client or prospective Client of the Company, directly or indirectly, conditions future engagement of the Company on voting proxies in respect of any Client's securities on a particular matter in a particular way.

(vii) The Company holds various classes and types of equity and debt securities of the same issuer contemporaneously in different Client portfolios.

(viii) Any other circumstance where the Company's duty to serve its Clients' interests, typically referred to as its "duty of loyalty," could be compromised.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, a conflict of interest described above shall not be considered material for the purposes of this Policy in respect of a specific vote or circumstance if:

The securities in respect of which the Company has the power to vote account for less than 1% of the issuer's outstanding voting securities, but only if: (i) such securities do not represent one of the 10 largest holdings of such issuer's outstanding voting securities and (ii) such securities do not represent more than 2% of the Client's holdings with the Company.

The matter to be voted on relates to a restructuring of the terms of existing securities or the issuance of new securities or a similar matter arising out of the holding of securities, other than common equity, in the context of a bankruptcy or threatened bankruptcy of the issuer.

Recordkeeping

Following the submission of a proxy vote, the Fund will maintain a report of the vote and all relevant documentation.

The Fund shall retain records relating to the voting of proxies and the Company shall conduct due diligence, including on Proxy Voting Services and Proxy Advisors, as applicable, to ensure the following records are adequately maintained by the appropriate party:

(i) Copies of this Policy and any amendments thereto.

(ii) A current copy of the Proxy Advisor's voting guidelines, as amended.

(iii) A copy of each proxy statement that the Company receives regarding Client securities, including any supplemental information an issuer files with the SEC that the Company becomes aware of. The Company may rely on a third party to make and retain, on the Company's behalf, a copy of a proxy statement, provided that the Company has obtained an undertaking from the third party to provide a copy of the proxy statement promptly upon request.

(iv) Records of each vote cast by the Company on behalf of Clients. The Company may satisfy this requirement by relying on a third party to make and retain, on the Company's behalf, a record of the vote cast, provided that the Company has obtained an undertaking from the third party to provide a copy of the record promptly upon request.

(v) A copy of any documents created by the Company that were material to making a decision how to vote or that memorializes the basis for that decision.

(vi) A copy of each written request for information on how the Company voted proxies on behalf of the Client, and a copy of any written response by the Company to any (oral or written) request for information on how the Company voted.

These records shall be maintained and preserved in an easily accessible place for a period of not less than five years from the end of the Company's fiscal year during which the last entry was made in the records, the first two years in an appropriate office of the Company.[2]

Enforcement of this Policy

It shall be the responsibility of the Compliance Department to handle or coordinate the enforcement of this Policy. The Compliance Department will periodically sample proxy voting records to ensure that proxies have been voted in accordance with this Policy, with a particular focus on any proxy votes that require additional analysis (e.g., proxies voted contrary to the recommendations of a Proxy Advisor).

If the Compliance Department determines that a Proxy Advisor or Proxy Voting Service may have committed a material error, the Compliance Department will investigate the error, taking into account the nature of the error, and seek to determine whether the Proxy Advisor or Proxy Voting Service is taking reasonable steps to reduce similar errors in the future.

In addition, no less frequently than annually, the Compliance Department will review the adequacy of this Policy to ensure that it has been implemented effectively and to confirm that this Policy continues to be reasonably designed to ensure that proxies are voted in the best interest of Clients.

Disclosures to Clients and Investors

As a matter of policy, the Company does not disclose how it expects to vote on upcoming proxies. Additionally, the Company does not disclose the way it voted proxies to unaffiliated third parties without a legitimate need to know such information.

[2] If the Company has essentially immediate access to a book or record (on the Company's proprietary system or otherwise) through a computer located at an appropriate office of the Company, then that book or record will be considered to be maintained at an appropriate office of the Company. "Immediate access" to books and records includes that the Company has the ability to provide promptly to Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") examination staff hard copies of the books and records or access to the storage medium. The party responsible for the applicable books and records as described above shall also be responsible for ensuring that those books and records for the first two years are either physically maintained in an appropriate office of the Company or that the Company otherwise has essentially immediate access to the required books and records for the first two years.

Item 8. Portfolio Managers of Closed-End Management Investment Companies.

(a)(1) Identification of Portfolio Manager(s) or Management Team Members and Description of Role of Portfolio Manager(s) or Management Team Members

The Registrant's portfolio manager, who is primarily responsible for the day-to-day management of the Registrant's portfolio, is James Dondero.

James Dondero — Mr. Dondero is the founder and principal of NexPoint Asset Management, LP ("NPA"), a Dallas-based alternative investment firm. Mr. Dondero has over 30 years of experience investing across the alternative landscape. In that time, he established a number of integrated businesses to manage investments in real estate, private equity, and high-yield and structured credit, among other areas. Mr. Dondero holds various leadership roles across the NPA businesses; he serves as a portfolio manager for several funds and is an officer and director at NPA's publicly traded REITs. Additionally, Mr. Dondero holds director positions at several companies within financial services, real estate, and other industries. He is the chairman of NexBank Capital, Inc. and a director of SeaOne Holdings, LLC. A dedicated philanthropist, Mr. Dondero actively contributes to initiatives in education, veterans' affairs, and community and economic development, and has been instrumental in supporting a number of civic and cultural institutions in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. (a)(2) Other Accounts Managed by Portfolio Manager(s) or Management Team Member and Potential Conflicts of Interest

Potential Conflicts of Interests

NexPoint Asset Management, L.P. ("NAM" or the "Adviser") and/or its general partner, limited partners, officers, affiliates and employees provide investment advice to other parties and manage other accounts and private investment vehicles similar to the Registrant. For the purposes of this section, the term "Highland" shall include the Adviser and its affiliated investment advisors, and all affiliates listed on its Form ADV, as filed via an amendment with the SEC January 20th, 2022 (CRD No. 149653).

In connection with such other investment management activities, the Adviser and/or its general partner, limited partners, officers, affiliates and employees may decide to invest the funds of one or more other accounts or recommend the investment of funds by other parties, rather than the Registrant's monies, in a particular security or strategy. In addition, the Adviser and such other persons will determine the allocation of funds from the Registrant and such other accounts to investment strategies and techniques on whatever basis they consider appropriate or desirable in their sole and absolute discretion.

Highland has built a professional working environment, a firm-wide compliance culture and compliance procedures and systems designed to protect against potential incentives that may favor one account over another. Highland has adopted policies and procedures that address the allocation of investment opportunities, execution of portfolio transactions, personal trading by employees and other potential conflicts of interest that are designed to ensure that all client accounts are treated equitably over time. Nevertheless, Highland furnishes advisory services to numerous clients in addition to the Registrant, and Highland may, consistent with applicable law, make investment recommendations to other clients or accounts (including accounts that have performance or higher fees paid to Highland or in which portfolio managers have a personal interest in the receipt of such fees) that may be the same as or different from those made to the Registrant. In addition, Highland, its affiliates and any of their partners, directors, officers, stockholders or employees may or may not have an interest in the securities whose purchase and sale the Adviser recommends to the Registrant. Actions with respect to securities of the same kind may be the same as or different from the action that the Adviser, or any of its affiliates, or any of their partners, directors, officers, stockholders or employees or any member of their families may take with respect to the same securities. Moreover, the Adviser may refrain from rendering any advice or services concerning securities of companies of which any of the Adviser's (or its affiliates') partners, directors, officers or employees are directors or officers, or companies as to which the Adviser or any of its affiliates or partners, directors, officers and employees of any of them has any substantial economic interest or possesses material non-public information.

The Adviser, its affiliates or their partners, directors, officers or employees similarly serve or may serve other entities that operate in the same or related lines of business, including accounts managed by an investment adviser affiliated with the Adviser. Accordingly, these individuals may have obligations to investors in those entities or funds or to other clients, the fulfillment of which might not be in the best interests of the Registrant. As a result, the Adviser will face conflicts in the allocation of investment opportunities to the Registrant and other funds and clients. In order to enable such affiliates to fulfill their fiduciary duties to each of the clients for which they have responsibility, the Adviser will endeavor to allocate investment opportunities in a fair and equitable manner, pursuant to policies and procedures adopted by the Adviser and its advisory affiliates that are designed to manage potential conflicts of interest, which may, subject to applicable regulatory constraints, involve pro rata co-investment by the funds and such other clients or may involve a rotation of opportunities among the funds and such other clients. The Registrant will only make investments in which the Adviser or an affiliate hold an interest to the extent permitted under the 1940 Act and SEC staff interpretations or pursuant to the terms and conditions of the exemptive order received by certain advisers and funds affiliated with the Registrant, dated April 19, 2016. For example, exemptive relief is not required for the Registrant to invest in syndicated deals and secondary loan market transactions in which the Adviser or an affiliate has an interest where price is the only negotiated point. The order applies to all "Investment Companies," including future closed-end investment companies registered under the 1940 Act that are managed by affiliated advisers, which includes the Registrant. The Registrant, therefore, may in the future invest in accordance with the terms and conditions of the exemptive order. To mitigate any actual or perceived conflicts of interest, allocation of limited offering securities (such as IPOs and registered secondary offerings) to principal accounts that do not include third party investors may only be made after all other client account orders for the security have been filled. However, there can be no assurance that such policies and procedures will in every case ensure fair and equitable allocations of investment opportunities, particularly when considered in hindsight.

Conflicts may arise in cases when clients and/or the Adviser and other affiliated entities invest in different parts of an issuer's capital structure, including circumstances in which one or more clients own private securities or obligations of an issuer and other clients may own public securities of the same issuer. In addition, one or more clients may invest in securities, or other financial instruments, of an issuer that are senior or junior to securities, or financial instruments, of the same issuer that are held by or acquired for, one or more other clients. For example, if such issuer encounters financial problems, decisions related to such securities (such as over the terms of any workout or proposed waivers and amendments to debt covenants) may raise conflicts of interests. In such a distressed situation, a client holding debt securities of the issuer may be better served by a liquidation of the issuer in which it may be paid in full, whereas a client holding equity securities of the issuer might prefer a reorganization that holds the potential to create value for the equity holders. In the event of conflicting interests within an issuer's capital structure, Highland generally will pursue the strategy that Highland believes best reflects what would be expected to be negotiated in an arm's length transaction, but in all instances with due consideration being given to Highland's fiduciary duties to each of its accounts (without regard to the nature of the accounts involved or fees received from such accounts). This strategy may be recommended by one or more Highland investment professionals. A single person may make decisions with respect to more than one part of an issuer's capital structure. Highland personnel board members may still make recommendations to the applicable investment professional(s). A portfolio manager with respect to any applicable Highland registered investment company clients ("Retail Accounts") will make an independent determination as to which course of action he or she determines is in the best interest of the applicable Retail Accounts. Highland may use external counsel for guidance and assistance. The Adviser and its affiliates have both subjective and objective procedures and policies in place designed to manage potential conflicts of interest involving clients so that, for example, investment opportunities are allocated in a fair and equitable manner among the Registrant and such other clients. An investment opportunity that is suitable for multiple clients of the Adviser and its affiliates may not be capable of being shared among some or all of such clients due to the limited scale of the opportunity or other factors, including regulatory restrictions imposed by the 1940 Act. There can be no assurance that the Adviser's or its affiliates' efforts to allocate any particular investment opportunity fairly among all clients for whom such opportunity is appropriate will result in an allocation of all or part of such opportunity to the Registrant. Not all conflicts of interest can be expected to be resolved in favor of the Registrant.

Another type of conflict may arise if one client account buys a security and another client account sells or shorts the same security. Currently, such opposing positions are generally not permitted within the same account without prior trade approval by the Adviser's Chief Compliance Officer. However, a portfolio manager may enter into opposing positions for different clients to the extent each such client has a different investment objective and each such position is consistent with the investment objective of the applicable client. In addition, transactions in investments by one or more affiliated client accounts may have the effect of diluting or otherwise disadvantaging the values, prices or investment strategies of other client accounts.

Because certain client accounts may have investment objectives, strategies or legal, contractual, tax or other requirements that differ (such as the need to take tax losses, realize profits, raise cash, diversification, etc.), an affiliated adviser may purchase, sell or continue to hold securities for certain client accounts contrary to other recommendations. In addition, an affiliated adviser may be permitted to sell securities or instruments short for certain client accounts and may not be permitted to do so for other affiliated client accounts.

As a result of the Fund's arrangements with NexPoint, there may be times when NexPoint, the Adviser or its affiliates have interests that differ from those of the Fund's shareholders, giving rise to a conflict of interest. The Fund's officers serve or may serve as officers, directors or principals of entities that operate in the same or a related line of business as the Fund does, or of investment funds managed by the Adviser or its affiliates. Similarly, the Adviser or its affiliates may have other clients with similar, different or competing investment objectives. In serving in these multiple capacities, they may have obligations to other clients or investors in those entities, the fulfillment of which may not be in the best interests of the Fund or its shareholders. For example, the Fund's officers have, and will continue to have, management responsibilities for other investment funds, accounts or other investment vehicles managed or sponsored by the Adviser and its affiliates. The Fund's investment objective may overlap, in part or in whole, with the investment objective of such affiliated investment funds, accounts or other investment vehicles. As a result, those individuals may face conflicts in the allocation of investment opportunities among the Registrant and other investment funds or accounts advised by or affiliated with the Adviser. The Adviser will seek to allocate investment opportunities among eligible accounts in a manner that is fair and equitable over time and consistent with its allocation policy. However, the Fund can offer no assurance that such opportunities will be allocated to it fairly or equitably in the short-term or over time.

In addition, it is anticipated that a portion of the Registrant's assets will be represented by real estate investment trusts ("REITs"), asset backed securities and/or collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs") sponsored, organized and/or managed by the Adviser and its affiliates or its historical affiliates. The Adviser will monitor for conflicts of interest in accordance with its fiduciary duties and will provide the independent trustees of the Registrant with an opportunity to periodically review the Registrant's investments in such REITs, asset-backed securities and/or CLOs and assure themselves that continued investment in such securities remains in the best interests of the Registrant and its shareholders. The Adviser may effect client cross-transactions where it causes a transaction to be effected between the Registrant and another client advised by the Adviser or any of its affiliates. The Adviser may engage in a client cross-transaction involving the Registrant any time that the Adviser believes such transaction to be fair to the Registrant and the other client of the Adviser or its affiliates. As further described below, the Adviser may effect principal transactions where the Registrant may make and/or hold an investment, including an investment in securities, in which the Adviser and/or its affiliates have a debt, equity or participation interest, in each case in accordance with applicable law, which may include the Adviser obtaining the consent and approval of the Registrant prior to engaging in any such principal transaction between the Registrant and the Adviser or its affiliates.

The Adviser may direct the Registrant to acquire or dispose of investments in cross trades between the Registrant and other clients of the Adviser or its affiliates in accordance with applicable legal and regulatory requirements. In addition, to the extent permitted by the 1940 Act and SEC staff interpretations, the Registrant may make and/or hold an investment, including an investment in securities, in which the Adviser and/or its affiliates have a debt, equity or participation interest, and the holding and sale of such investments by the Registrant may enhance the profitability of the Adviser's own investments in such companies.

NAM's financial arrangements with its portfolio managers, its competitive compensation and its career path emphasis at all levels reflect the value senior management places on key resources. Compensation may include a variety of components and may vary from year to year based on a number of factors, including the pre-tax relative performance of a portfolio manager's underlying account, the pre-tax combined performance of the portfolio manager's underlying accounts, and the pre-tax relative performance of the portfolio manager's underlying accounts measured against other employees. Portfolio managers are compensated generally based on their investment performance. The portfolio managers and other investment professionals are ranked based on the alpha generated by their portfolio versus their target index benchmark. Their investment performance is evaluated both versus a target index benchmark return and also compared to the returns of their peers at NAM and its affiliates. Other attributes which may be considered in the evaluation process are communication, teamwork, attitude and leadership.

The target indices for the Registrant's portfolio managers are the Morningstar Bank Loan Fund Category and CS Leveraged Loan Index.

NAM is owned by Highland Capital Management Services, Inc., a Delaware corporation ("HCM Services") and its general partner, Strand Advisors XVI, Inc., of which Mr. James Dondero is the sole stockholder. HCM Services is controlled by Mr. Dondero and Mr. Mark Okada by virtue of their respective share ownership. Mr. Dondero does not receive compensation based upon investment performance of the funds for which he serves as portfolio manager and instead shares in the profits of NAM.

The principal components of compensation include a base salary, a discretionary bonus and various retirement benefits.

Base compensation. Generally, portfolio managers receive base compensation based on their seniority and/or their position with NAM, which may include the amount of assets supervised and other management roles within NAM. Base compensation is determined by taking into account current industry norms and market data to ensure that NAM pays a competitive base compensation.

Discretionary compensation. In addition to base compensation, portfolio managers may receive discretionary compensation, which can be a substantial portion of total compensation. Discretionary compensation can include a discretionary cash bonus paid to recognize specific business contributions and to ensure that the total level of compensation is competitive with the market.

Because each person's compensation is based on his or her individual performance, NAM does not have a typical percentage split among base salary, bonus and other compensation. Senior portfolio managers who perform additional management functions may receive additional compensation in these other capacities. Compensation is structured such that key professionals benefit from remaining with NAM.

The following table sets forth the dollar range of equity securities beneficially owned by the portfolio managers in the Registrant as of December 31, 2022.

Name of Portfolio Managers	Dollar Ranges of Equity Securities Beneficially Owned by Portfolio Managers

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

This quarterly report contains forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 that are subject to risks and uncertainties. In particular, statements relating to our liquidity and capital resources, our performance and results of operations contain forward-looking statements. Furthermore, all of the statements regarding future financial performance (including market conditions and demographics) are forward-looking statements. We caution investors that any forward-looking statements presented in this quarterly report are based on management's current beliefs and assumptions made by, and information currently available to, management. When used, the words "anticipate," "believe," "expect," "intend," "may," "might," "estimate," "project," "should," "will," "would," "result," "could," "future," "continue," "if," the negative version of these words and similar expressions that do not relate solely to historical matters are intended to identify forward-looking statements. You can also identify forward-looking statements by discussions of strategy, plans or intentions.

Forward-looking statements are subject to risks, uncertainties and assumptions and may be affected by known and unknown risks, trends, uncertainties and factors that are beyond our control. Should one or more of these risks or uncertainties materialize, or should underlying assumptions prove incorrect, actual results may vary materially from those anticipated, estimated or projected. We caution you therefore against relying on any of these forward-looking statements.

Some of the risks and uncertainties that may cause our actual results, performance, liquidity or achievements to differ materially from those expressed or implied by forward-looking statements include, among others, the following:

- Unfavorable changes in economic conditions and their effects on the real estate industry generally and our operations and financial condition, including inflation, rising interest rates, tightening monetary policy or recession, which may limit our ability to access funding and generate returns for shareholders;

- Our loans and investments expose us to risks similar to and associated with real estate investments generally;

- Commercial real estate-related investments that are secured, directly or indirectly, by real property are subject to delinquency, foreclosure and loss, which could result in losses to us;

- Risks associated with the ownership of real estate, including dependence on tenants and compliance with laws and regulations related to ownership of real property;

- Risks associated with our investment in diverse issuers, industries and investment forms and classes, both in real estate and in non-real estate sectors, including common equity, preferred equity securities, options or other derivatives, short sale contracts, secured loans of securities, reverse repurchase agreements, structured finance securities, below investment grade senior loans, bonds, convertible instruments, joint ventures, and emerging markets;

- Fluctuations in interest rate and credit spreads, could reduce our ability to generate income on our loans and other investments, which could lead to a significant decrease in our results of operations, cash flows and the market value of our investments;

- The use of leverage to finance our investments;

- Risks associated with our loans and investments in debt instruments including, senior loans, mezzanine loans, collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs"), and structured finance securities;

- Our loans and investments are concentrated in terms of type of interest, geography, asset types, industry and sponsors and may continue to be so in the future;

- We have a substantial amount of indebtedness which may limit our financial and operating activities and may adversely affect our ability to incur additional debt to fund future needs;

- We have limited operating history as a standalone company and may not be able to operate our business successfully, find suitable investments, or generate sufficient revenue to make or sustain distributions to our shareholders;

- We may not replicate the historical results achieved by other entities managed or sponsored by affiliates of NexPoint Advisors, L.P. ("NexPoint" or our "Sponsor"), members of the NexPoint Real Estate Advisors X, L.P. (our "Adviser") management team or their affiliates.

- We are dependent upon our Adviser and its affiliates to conduct our day-to-day operations; thus, adverse changes in their financial health or our relationship with them could cause our operations to suffer;

- Our Adviser and its affiliates face conflicts of interest, including significant conflicts created by our Adviser's compensation arrangements with us, including compensation which may be required to be paid to our Adviser if our advisory agreement is terminated, which could result in decisions that are not in the best interests of our shareholders;

- We pay substantial fees and expenses to our Adviser and its affiliates, which payments increase the risk that you will not earn a profit on your investment;

- If we fail to qualify as a real estate investment trust (a "REIT") for U.S. federal income tax purposes, cash available for distributions to be paid to our shareholders could decrease materially, which would limit our ability to make distributions to our shareholders; and

- Any other risks included under Part I, Item 1A, "Risk Factors," of our Annual Report on Form 10-K filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") on March 31, 2023.

While forward-looking statements reflect our good faith beliefs, they are not guarantees of future performance. They are based on estimates and assumptions only as of the date of this quarterly report. We undertake no obligation to update or revise any forward-looking statement to reflect changes in underlying assumptions or factors, new information, data or methods, future events or other changes, except as required by law.

NEXPOINT DIVERSIFIED REAL ESTATE TRUST AND SUBSIDIARIES
NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. Organization and Description of Business

NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust (the "Company", "we", "us", or "our") was formed in Delaware and has elected to be taxed as a real estate investment trust (a "REIT"). Substantially all of the Company's business is conducted through NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust Operating Partnership, L.P. (the "OP"), the Company's operating partnership. The Company conducts its business (the "Portfolio") through the OP and its wholly owned taxable REIT subsidiaries ("TRSs"). The Company's wholly owned subsidiary, NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust OP GP, LLC (the "OP GP"), is the sole general partner of the OP. As of September 30, 2023, there were 2,000 partnership units of the OP (the "OP Units") outstanding, of which 100.0% were owned by the Company.

On July 1, 2022 (the "Deregistration Date"), the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") issued an order pursuant to Section 8(f) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "Investment Company Act") declaring that the Company has ceased to be an investment company under the Investment Company Act (the "Deregistration Order"). The issuance of the Deregistration Order enabled the Company to proceed with full implementation of its new business mandate to operate as a diversified REIT that focuses primarily on investing in various commercial real estate property types and across the capital structure, including but not limited to equity, mortgage debt, mezzanine debt and preferred equity (the "Business Change").

The Company is externally managed by NexPoint Real Estate Advisors X, L.P. (the "Adviser"), through an agreement dated July 1, 2022, amended on October 25, 2022 and April 11, 2023, (the "Advisory Agreement"), by and among the Company and the Adviser for an initial three-year term that will expire on July 1, 2025 and successive one-year terms thereafter unless earlier terminated. The Adviser manages the day-to-day operations of the Company and provides investment management services. The Company had no employees as of September 30, 2023. All of the Company's investment decisions are made by the Adviser, subject to general oversight by the Adviser's investment committee and our board of trustees (the "Board"). The Adviser is wholly owned by NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (the "Sponsor" or "NexPoint").

As a diversified REIT, the Company's primary investment objective is to provide both current income and capital appreciation. The Company seeks to achieve this objective through the Business Change. Target underlying property types primarily include, but are not limited to, single-family rentals, multifamily, self-storage, life science, office, industrial, hospitality, net lease and retail. The Company may, to a limited extent, hold, acquire or transact in certain non-real estate securities.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Readers of this Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q ("Quarterly Report") should refer to the audited financial statements and notes to consolidated financial statements of the Company for the year ended December 31, 2022, which are included in our 2022 Annual Report on Form 10-K ("2022 Annual Report"), filed with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and also available on our website (nxdt.nexpoint.com), since we have omitted from this Quarterly Report certain footnote disclosures which would substantially duplicate those contained in such audited financial statements. You should also refer to Note 2, Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, in the notes to consolidated financial statements in our 2022 Annual Report for further discussion of our significant accounting policies and estimates. Information contained on, or accessible through, our website is not incorporated by reference into and does not constitute a part of this Quarterly Report or any other report or documents we file or furnish with the SEC.

Income Taxes

As a REIT for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the Company may deduct earnings distributed to stockholders against the income generated by our REIT operations. The Company continues to be subject to income taxes on the income of its taxable REIT subsidiaries. Our consolidated net loss before income taxes was $67.6 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and $99.9 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. The Company's consolidated balance sheet as of September 30, 2023 consists of a $2.2 million net deferred tax asset at NHF TRS, LLC and a $1.5 million net deferred tax liability at NREO TRS, Inc. for a consolidated net Deferred Tax asset of $0.7 million.

The Company's tax provision for interim periods is determined using an estimate of its annual current and deferred effective tax rates, adjusted for discrete items. Our effective tax rates for the three and nine months ended September 30, 2023 were (0.49)% and (1.45)%, respectively. Our effective tax rate differs from the U.S. federal statutory corporate tax rate of 21.0% primarily due to our REIT operations generally not being subject to federal income taxes.

3. Business Change

As discussed in Note 1, on the Deregistration Date, the SEC issued an order pursuant to Section 8(f) of the Investment Company Act declaring that the Company has ceased to be an investment company under the Investment Company Act. The issuance of the Deregistration Order enabled the Company to proceed with full implementation of the Business Change. Upon the Deregistration Order, the Company discontinued the use of guidance in FASB ASC 946. To effectuate this change, the fair values of the Company's investments became the July 1, 2022 cost basis. The change also required the consolidation of several investments that were previously not required to be consolidated under FASB ASC 946.

4. Investments in Real Estate Subsidiaries

The Company conducts its operations through the OP, which owns several real estate properties through single asset limited liability companies that are special purpose entities ("SPEs"). The Company consolidates the SPEs that it controls as well as any VIEs where it is the primary beneficiary. All of the properties the SPEs own are consolidated in the Company's consolidated financial statements. The assets of each entity can only be used to settle obligations of that particular entity, and the creditors of each entity have no recourse to the assets of other entities or the Company.

As of September 30, 2023, the Company, through the OP, owned four properties through SPEs. The following table represents the Company's ownership in each property by virtue of its 100% ownership of the SPEs that directly own the title to each property as of September 30, 2023:

Property Name		Location	Year Acquired	Effective Ownership Percentage at September 30, 2023
White Rock Center		Dallas, Texas	2013	100 %

Acquisitions

There were no acquisitions by the Company for the nine months ended September 30, 2023.

6. Debt

Cityplace Debt

The Company has debt on its real estate property pursuant to a Loan Agreement, originally dated August 15, 2018 and subsequently amended (the "Loan Agreement"). The debt is limited recourse to the Company and encumbers the property. The debt had an original maturity of September 8, 2022, and the Company deferred the maturity date with the lender to May 8, 2023, with the possibility to extend for an additional four months to September 8, 2023 provided certain metrics were met. On May 8, 2023, the lender agreed to defer the maturity of the Cityplace debt by four months to September 8, 2023. Also on May 8, 2023, the parties to the Loan Agreement agreed to convert the index upon which the interest rate is based to the one-month secured overnight financing rate ("SOFR") effective as of the first interest period beginning on or after May 8, 2023. On September 8, 2023, the lender agreed to defer the maturity of the Cityplace debt by six months to March 8, 2024. The debt restructuring per the terms of the Twelfth Omnibus Amendment Agreement is considered a debt modification. The purpose of the deferral was to allow for continued discussions around refinancing the debt. Management recognizes that finding an alternative source of funding is necessary to repay the debt by the maturity date. Management is evaluating multiple options to fund the repayment of the $142.9 million principal balance outstanding as of September 30, 2023, including refinancing the debt, securing additional equity or debt financing, selling a portion of the portfolio, or any combination thereof. Management believes that there is sufficient time before the maturity date and that the Company has sufficient access to capital to ensure the Company is able to meet its obligations as they become due. Due to the short term nature of the debt, the fair value of the debt is approximately the outstanding balance. The below table contains summary information related to the mortgages payable (dollars in thousands):

	Outstanding principal as of September 30, 2023	Interest Rate	Maturity Date
Note A-1	$ 101,535	7.69 %	3/8/2024
Note A-2	22,211	11.69 %	3/8/2024
Note B-1	12,782	7.69 %	3/8/2024
Note B-2	3,173	11.69 %	3/8/2024
Mezzanine Note 1	2,796	11.69 %	3/8/2024
Mezzanine Note 2	399	11.69 %	3/8/2024
Mortgages payable	142,896
Deferred financing costs, net	(335)
Mortgages payable, net	$ 142,561

The weighted average interest rate of the Company's debt related to its Cityplace investment was 8.5% as of September 30, 2023 and 7.3% as of December 31, 2022.

The Loan Agreement contains customary events of default, including defaults in the payment of principal or interest, defaults in compliance with the covenants contained in the documents evidencing the loan, defaults in payments under any other security instrument covering any part of the property, whether junior or senior to the loan, and bankruptcy or other insolvency events. As of September 30, 2023, the Company believes it is in compliance with all covenants.

Notes Payable

On August 9, 2022, the Company borrowed approximately $13.3 million from the seller, Gabriel Legacy, LLC to finance its acquisition of 21.5 acres of land in Plano, Texas held through NexPoint Dominion Land, LLC, a wholly owned subsidiary of the OP. Due to the short term nature of the note, the fair value of the note is approximately the outstanding balance. The note bears interest at an annual rate equal to the WSJ Prime Rate and matures on August 8, 2025.

Credit Facility

On January 8, 2021, the Company entered into a $30.0 million credit facility (the "Credit Facility") with Raymond James Bank, N.A. and drew the full balance. The Credit Facility, as amended, would have matured on November 6, 2023, (see Note 16 for information regarding the extension of the maturity date of the Credit Facility) and as of September 30, 2023, bore interest at the one-month SOFR plus 4.25%. During the nine months ended September 30, 2023, the Company paid down $9.0 million on the Credit Facility. As of September 30, 2023, the Credit Facility had an outstanding balance of $2.0 million. Due to the short term nature of the debt, the fair value of the debt is approximately the outstanding balance. Management believes that the Company has sufficient access to capital to ensure the Company is able to meet its obligations as they become due.

Revolving Credit Facility

On May 22, 2023, the Company entered into a $20.0 million revolving credit facility (the "NexBank Revolver") with NexBank, in the initial principal balance of $20.0 million, with the option for the Company to receive additional disbursements thereunder up to a maximum of $50.0 million. As of September 30, 2023, the NexBank Revolver bears interest at one-month SOFR plus 3.50% and matures on May 20, 2024, with the option to extend the maturity by one year, twice. Due to the short term nature of the debt, the fair value of the debt is approximately the outstanding balance. As of September 30, 2023, the NexBank Revolver had an outstanding balance of $20.0 million.

Deferred Financing Costs

The Company defers costs incurred in obtaining financing and amortizes the costs over the terms of the related loans using the straight-line method, which approximates the effective interest method. Deferred financing costs, net of amortization, are recorded as a reduction from the related debt on the Company's consolidated balance sheet. Upon repayment of or in conjunction with a material change in the terms of the underlying debt agreement, any unamortized costs are charged to loss on extinguishment of debt and modification costs.

Prime Brokerage Borrowing

Effective July 2, 2022, the Company entered a prime brokerage account with Jefferies to hold securities owned by the Company. The Company from time to time borrows against the value of these securities. As of September 30, 2023, the Company had a margin balance of approximately $1.8 million outstanding with Jefferies bearing interest at the Overnight Bank Funding Rate plus 0.50%. Securities with a fair value of approximately $6.9 million are pledged as collateral against this margin balance. This arrangement has no stated maturity date. Due to the floating interest rate nature of the debt, the fair value of the debt is approximately the outstanding balance.

Schedule of Debt Maturities

The aggregate scheduled maturities, including amortizing principal payments, of total debt for the next five calendar years subsequent to September 30, 2023 are as follows (in thousands):

	Mortgages Payable	Notes Payable	Prime Brokerage Borrowing	Total
2023	$ —	$ 2,000	$ —	$ 2,000

10. Life Settlement Portfolio

As of June 30, 2023, the Company, through one of its TRSs, owned 100% of the outstanding equity and debt of Specialty Financial Products, Ltd. ("SFP"), an Ireland domiciled private company with limited liability and a Designated Activity Company. At the proposal of NexAnnuity Asset Management, L.P. ("NexAnnuity"), an affiliate of the Adviser, SFP was formed for the purpose of entering into acquisitions of U.S. life settlement policies approved by NexAnnuity and funded by the issuance of debt securities, or the Structured Note purchased by the Company. SFP utilizes proceeds from maturing life settlement contracts to repay the Structured Note and to further invest in life settlement contracts. On June 30, 2023, as the Company owned the outstanding ordinary shares of and Structured Note issued by SFP, the Company consolidated SFP in its entirety. On September 1, 2023, the Company, through one of its TRSs, entered into a contribution agreement to transfer the Structured Note in SFP and all its rights, title and interests to a related party NexAnnuity Holdings, Inc. ("NHI") and its wholly owned subsidiaries. The Company also transferred all of its ordinary shares in SFP to a separate share trustee. In exchange, the Company was issued 68,500 shares of Class A Preferred Stock in NHI. As a result, the Company now holds none of the outstanding equity and debt of SFP, and SFP no longer meets the requirements for consolidation under ASC 810 – Consolidation. The Company will have no continuing involvement with SFP. As such, SFP has been deconsolidated herein as of September 1, 2023. The Class A Preferred Stock in NexAnnuity Holdings, Inc. is accounted for as an investment in an equity security. However, management has elected to account for the investment using the fair value option and presented it as Investments, at fair value. The fair value of the Class A Preferred Stock is its original issue price of $1,000 per share due to the recent nature of the transaction. Dividends on the Class A Preferred Stock are cumulative and are payable quarterly on March 31, June 30, September 30, and December 31 at an annual rate of 8.0% for years one through seven, 9.5% for years eight through ten, 11.0% for years eleven through thirteen, and 12.0% for years fourteen through sixteen and thereafter.

The transfer of the Structured Note qualified as a sale under ASC 860 – Transfers and Servicing as (1) the transfer legally isolated the transferred assets from the transferor, (2) the transferee has the right to pledge or exchange the transferred assets and no condition both constrains the transferee's right to pledge or exchange the assets and provides more than a trivial benefit to the transferor, and (3) the transferor does not maintain effective control over the transferred assets.

Restricted Share Units. Under the 2023 LTIP, restricted share units may be granted to the participants and typically vest over a three to five-year period for officers, employees and certain key employees of the Adviser and annually for trustees. The most recent grant of restricted share units to officers, employees and certain key employees of the Adviser will vest over a four-year period. Beginning on the date of grant, restricted share units earn dividends that are payable in cash on the vesting date. On April 4, 2023, pursuant to the 2023 LTIP, the Company granted 37,313 restricted share units to its trustees, on April 4, 2023, the Company granted 566,169 restricted share units to its officers and other employees of the Adviser. 12. Earnings (Loss) Per Share

Basic earnings (loss) per share is computed by dividing net income (loss) attributable to common shareholders by the weighted average number of the Company's common shares outstanding and excludes any unvested restricted share units issued pursuant to the 2023 LTIP.

Diluted earnings (loss) per share is computed by adjusting basic earnings per share for the dilutive effect of the assumed vesting of restricted share units. During periods of net loss, the assumed vesting of restricted share units is anti-dilutive and is not included in the calculation of earnings (loss) per share.

The following table sets forth the computation of basic and diluted earnings (loss) per share (in thousands, except per share amounts):

		Three Months Ended September 30, 2023	Nine Months Ended September 30, 2023
Numerator for loss per share:
Net income (loss) attributable to common shareholders		$ (69,113)	$ (104,811)
Denominator for loss per share:
Weighted average common shares outstanding		37,187	37,177
Denominator for basic and diluted loss per share		37,187	37,177
Weighted average unvested restricted share units		603	398
Denominator for diluted loss per share	(1)	37,187	37,177
Loss per weighted average common share:
Basic		$ (1.86)	$ (2.82)
Diluted		$ (1.86)	$ (2.82)

(1) For the three and nine months ended September 30, 2023, excludes approximately 397,900 and 603,482 shares, related to assumed vesting of RSUs as the effect would be anti-dilutive.

13. Related Party Transactions

Advisory and Administrative Fees

Prior to the Deregistration Date, the Company was party to an investment advisory agreement (the "Former Advisory Agreement") with an affiliate of the Adviser (the "Former Adviser") pursuant to which the Former Adviser provided investment advisory services to the Company and certain of its subsidiaries. The Company's contractual fee under the Former Advisory Agreement was an annual fee, payable monthly, in an amount equal to 1.00% an amount (the "Former Managed Assets") equal to the total assets of the Company, including any form of investment leverage, minus all accrued expenses incurred in the normal course of operations, but not excluding any liabilities or obligations attributable to investment leverage obtained through (i) indebtedness of any type (including, without limitation, borrowing through a credit facility or the issuance of debt securities), (ii) the issuance of preferred stock or other preference securities, (iii) the reinvestment of collateral received for securities loaned in accordance with the Company's investment objectives and policies, and/or (iv) any other means. The Former Adviser was permitted to waive a portion of its fees.

Prior to the Deregistration Date, the Company was also party to an administration services agreement (the "Administration Services Agreement") pursuant to which the Former Adviser previously performed administrative functions for us in connection with our operation as a closed-end investment company. For its services, the Former Adviser received an annual fee, payable monthly, in an amount equal to 0.20% of the average weekly value of the Former Managed Assets.

In connection with the Business Change and effective on the Deregistration Date, the Company terminated its investment advisory agreement and its administrative services agreement with the Former Adviser and entered into the Advisory Agreement with the Adviser, a subsidiary of NexPoint. The Company also terminated the investment advisory agreements between NexPoint and its wholly owned subsidiaries, NexPoint Real Estate Opportunities, LLC ("NREO") and NexPoint Real Estate Capital, LLC, effective on the Deregistration Date. Pursuant to the Advisory Agreement, subject to the overall supervision of our Board, the Adviser manages the day-to-day operations of the Company, and provides investment management services.

As of September 30, 2023, as consideration for the Adviser's services under the Advisory Agreement, we pay our Adviser an annual fee (the "Advisory Fee") of 1.00% of Managed Assets and an annual fee (the "Administrative Fee" and, together with the Advisory Fee, the "Fees") of 0.20% of the Company's Managed Assets (defined below).

On April 11, 2023, we entered into an amendment to the Advisory Agreement whereby the monthly installment of the Fees shall be paid in cash unless the Adviser elects, in its sole discretion, to receive all or a portion of the monthly installment of the Fees in common shares of the Company, subject to certain restrictions including that in no event shall the common shares issued to the Adviser under the Advisory Agreement exceed five percent of the number of common shares or five percent of the voting power of the Company outstanding prior to the first such issuance (the "Share Cap") and that in no event shall the common shares issued to the Adviser under the Advisory agreement exceed 6,000,000 common shares; provided, however, that the Share Cap will not apply if the Company's shareholders have approved issuances in excess of the Share Cap. At the Company's annual meeting of shareholders, the Company's shareholders did not approve issuances in excess of the Share Cap. During the three and nine months ended September 30, 2023, we issued 14,588.75 and 14,588.75 common shares, respectively, to the Advisor in payment of the Fees in an amount of $0.16 million and $0.16 million, respectively .

Under the Advisory Agreement, "Managed Assets" means an amount equal to the total assets of the Company, including any form of leverage, minus all accrued expenses incurred in the normal course of operations, but not excluding any liabilities or obligations attributable to leverage obtained through (i) indebtedness of any type (including, without limitation, borrowing to purchase or develop real estate or other investments, borrowing through a credit facility, or the issuance of debt securities), (ii) the issuance of preferred shares or other preference securities, (iii) the reinvestment of collateral received for securities loaned in accordance with the Company's investment objectives and policies, and/or (iv) any other means. In the event the Company holds collateralized mortgage-backed securities ("CMBS") where the Company holds the controlling tranche of the securitization and is required to consolidate under GAAP all assets and liabilities of a specific CMBS trust, the consolidated assets and liabilities of the consolidated trust will be netted to calculate the allowable amount to be included as Managed Assets. In addition, in the event the Company consolidates another entity it does not wholly own as a result of owning a controlling interest in such entity or otherwise, Managed Assets will be calculated without giving effect to such consolidation and instead such entity's assets, leverage, expenses, liabilities and obligations will, on a pro rata basis consistent with the Company's percentage ownership, be considered those of the Company for purposes of calculation of Managed Assets. The Adviser computes Managed Assets as of the end of each fiscal quarter and then computes each installment of the Fees as promptly as possible after the end of the month with respect to which such installment is payable.

Revolving Credit Facility

On May 22, 2023, the Company entered into the NexBank Revolver pursuant to which the Company in the initial principal amount of $20.0 million, with the option for the Company to receive additional disbursements thereunder up to a maximum of $50.0 million, and bears interest at one-month SOFR plus 3.50% and matures on May 20, 2024. The Company drew the $20.0 million on May 22, 2023. The fair value of the revolving credit facility is equal to its carrying value as the Company has the ability to repay the outstanding principal at par value at any time. As of September 30, 2023, the NexBank Revolver had an outstanding balance of $20.0 million.

Reimbursement of Expenses; Expense Cap

The Company is required to pay directly or reimburse the Adviser for all of the documented "operating expenses" (all out-of-pocket expenses of the Adviser in performing services for us, including but not limited to the expenses incurred by the Adviser in connection with any provision by the Adviser of legal, accounting, financial, due diligence, investor relations or other services performed by the Adviser that outside professionals or outside consultants would otherwise perform and our pro rata share of rent, telephone, utilities, office furniture, equipment, machinery or other office, internal and overhead expenses of the Adviser required for our operations) and any and all expenses (other than underwriters' discounts) paid or to be paid by us in connection with an offering of our securities, including, without limitation, our legal, accounting, printing, mailing and filing fees and other documented offering expenses (collectively, "Offering Expenses"), paid or incurred by the Adviser or its affiliates in connection with the services it provides to us pursuant to the Advisory Agreement. Direct payment of operating expenses by us together with reimbursement of operating expenses to the Adviser, plus compensation expenses relating to equity awards granted under a long-term incentive plan and all other corporate general and administrative expenses of the Company, including the Fees payable under the Advisory Agreement, could not exceed 1.5% (the "Expense Cap") of Managed Assets, calculated as of the end of each quarter, for the twelve-month period which followed the Company's receipt of the Deregistration Order; provided, however, that this limitation did not apply to Offering Expenses, legal, accounting, financial, due diligence and other service fees incurred in connection with extraordinary litigation and mergers and acquisitions or other events outside the ordinary course of our business or any out-of-pocket acquisition or due diligence expenses incurred in connection with the acquisition or disposition of certain real estate-related investments; provided, further, in the event the Company consolidated another entity that it does not wholly own as a result of owning a controlling interest in such entity or otherwise, expenses would have been calculated without giving effect to such consolidation and instead such entity's expenses would have been, on a pro rata basis consistent with the Company's percentage ownership, be considered those of the Company for purposes of calculation of expenses. On occasion, the Adviser may waive additional fees to the extent assets are invested in certain affiliated investments. The Adviser may, at its discretion and at any time, waive its right to reimbursement for eligible out-of-pocket expenses paid on the Company's behalf. Once waived, these expenses are considered permanently waived and become non-recoupable in the future. The Expense Cap expired on June 30, 2023.

The Advisory Agreement has an initial term of three years that will expire on July 1, 2025, and successive additional one-year terms thereafter unless earlier terminated. We have the right to terminate the Advisory Agreement on 30 days' written notice upon the occurrence of a cause event (as defined in the Advisory Agreement). The Advisory Agreement can be terminated by us or the Adviser without cause upon the expiration of the then-current term with at least 180 days' written notice to the other party prior to the expiration of such term. The Adviser may also terminate the agreement with 30 days' written notice if we have materially breached the agreement and such breach has continued for 30 days before we are given such notice. In addition, the Advisory Agreement will automatically terminate in the event of Advisers Act Assignment (as defined in the Advisory Agreement) unless we provide written consent. A termination fee will be payable to the Adviser by us upon termination of the Advisory Agreement for any reason, including non-renewal, other than a termination by us upon the occurrence of a cause event or due to an Advisers Act Assignment. The termination fee will be equal to three times the Fees earned by the Adviser during the twelve month period immediately preceding the most recently completed calendar quarter prior to the effective termination date; provided, however, if the Advisory Agreement is terminated prior to the one year anniversary of the date of the Advisory Agreement, the Fees earned during such period will be annualized for purposes of calculating the Fees.

For the three and nine months ended September 30, 2023, the Company incurred Administrative Fees and Advisory Fees of $3.5 million and $10.7 million, which excludes $0 and $2.0 million, respectively, in fees that were waived to comply with the Expense Cap. Should the Fees and expenses and any other items subject to the Expense Cap have been less than the 1.5% limit for the twelve-month period subsequent to the Deregistration Date, some or all of the deferred expenses could be recouped by the Adviser up to the Expense Cap. No Advisory Fees were recouped by the Adviser as of September 30, 2023.

Guaranties of NexPoint Storage Partners, Inc. Debt

On September 14, 2022, the Company entered into guaranties (the "BS Guaranties") for the benefit of JPMorgan Chase Bank, National Association ("JPM") and any additional or subsequent lenders from time to time (collectively, "BS Lender") under a loan agreement (the "BS Loan Agreement"), pursuant to which the Company guaranteed certain obligations of the borrowers ("BS Borrower") under the BS Loan Agreement. The Company, through its ownership in NSP, owns an indirect interest in BS Borrower and entered into the BS Guaranties as a condition of BS Lender lending to BS Borrower under the BS Loan Agreement. Pursuant to the BS Guaranties, the Company guaranteed certain carrying obligations, including interest payments, of BS Borrower and certain recourse obligations of BS Borrower pertaining to exculpation or indemnification of BS Lender. The BS Guaranties also provide that the Company may be required to repay principal amounts upon the occurrence of certain events, including certain action or inaction by BS Borrower, but does not provide for a full guarantee of repayment in all circumstances. The BS Loan Agreement provides for a single initial advance of the loan in the amount of $221.8 million to BS Borrower on the closing date, and provides BS Borrower the right to request additional advances in connection with subsequently acquired properties. Amounts outstanding under the BS Loan Agreement are due and payable on March 9, 2024 which date may, at the option of BS Borrower, be extended for an additional six months upon the satisfaction of certain terms and conditions. Borrowings outstanding under the BS Loan

Agreement are secured by mortgages on real property owned by one or more of the borrowers comprising BS Borrower and bear interest at the one-month SOFR, subject to a floor of 0.5%, plus an applicable spread of approximately 4.0% with respect to approximately $184.9 million of initial principal thereunder and approximately 5.4% with respect to approximately $36.9 million of initial principal thereunder.

On December 8, 2022 and in connection with a restructuring of NSP, the Company, together with NREF, Highland Opportunities and Income Fund ("HFRO") and NexPoint Real Estate Strategies Fund (collectively, the "Co-Guarantors"), as guarantors, entered into a Sponsor Guaranty Agreement in favor of Extra Space Storage, LP ("Extra Space") pursuant to which the Company and the Co-Guarantors guaranteed obligations of NSP with respect to NSP's newly created Series D Preferred Stock and two promissory notes in an aggregate principal amount of approximately $64.2 million issued to Extra Space. The guaranties by the Company and the Co-Guarantors are capped at $97.6 million, which cap amount will be reduced as the guaranteed obligations of NSP are paid. Each of the Company and the Co-Guarantors generally guaranteed the foregoing obligations of NSP up to the cap amount on a pro rata basis with respect to its percentage ownership of NSP's common stock. On February 15, 2023, NSP paid down approximately $15.0 million of these promissory notes, resulting in an aggregate principal amount of approximately $49.2 million. As of September 30, 2023, the maximum liability of the Company under the guaranties was approximately $71.0 million. The Company has not recorded a contingent liability due to NSP being current on all debt and preferred dividend payments and in compliance with all debt compliance provisions of the Sponsor Guaranty Agreement. As of September 30, 2023, the Company owns approximately 53.0% of the total outstanding shares of common stock of NSP.

Separately, on September 14, 2022, the Company entered into a Guaranty Agreement (Recourse Obligations), dated September 14, 2022 (the "CMBS Guaranty") for the benefit of JPM and any additional or subsequent lenders from time to time (collectively, the "CMBS Lender") under a loan agreement (the "CMBS Loan Agreement"), by and among the borrowers thereunder (collectively, "CMBS Borrower") and the CMBS Lender. The Company, through its ownership in NSP, owns an indirect interest in CMBS Borrower and entered into the CMBS Guaranty as a condition of CMBS Lender lending to CMBS Borrower under the CMBS Loan Agreement. Pursuant to the CMBS Guaranty, the Company guaranteed certain recourse obligations of CMBS Borrower pertaining to exculpation or indemnification of CMBS Lender. The CMBS Guaranty also provides that the Company may be required to repay principal amounts upon the occurrence of certain events, including certain action or inaction by CMBS Borrower, but does not provide for a full guarantee of repayment in all circumstances. The CMBS Loan Agreement provides for a loan of $356.5 million to CMBS Borrower. Amounts outstanding under the CMBS Loan Agreement are due and payable on September 9, 2024 which date may, at the option of CMBS Borrower, be extended for three successive one-year terms upon the satisfaction of certain terms and conditions. Borrowings outstanding under the CMBS Loan Agreement are secured by mortgages on real property owned by one or more of the borrowers comprising CMBS Borrower and bear interest at one-month SOFR plus a spread of approximately 3.6%, which will increase by 0.1% upon a second extension of the loan maturity and by an additional approximately 0.15% upon a third extension of the loan maturity.

14. Commitments and Contingencies

Commitments

On December 8, 2022 and in connection with a restructuring of NSP, the Company, together with the Co-Guarantors, as guarantors, entered into a Sponsor Guaranty Agreement in favor of Extra Space pursuant to which the Company and the Co-Guarantors guaranteed obligations of NSP with respect to NSP's newly created Series D Preferred Stock and two promissory notes in an aggregate principal amount of approximately $64.2 million issued to Extra Space. The guaranties by the Company and the Co-Guarantors are capped at $97.6 million, which cap amount will be reduced as the guaranteed obligations of NSP are paid. Each of the Company and the Co-Guarantors generally guaranteed the foregoing obligations of NSP up to the cap amount on a pro rata basis with respect to its percentage ownership of NSP's common stock. On February 15, 2023, NSP paid down approximately $15.0 million of these promissory notes, resulting in an aggregate principal amount of approximately $49.2 million. As of September 30, 2023, the maximum liability of the Company under the guaranties was approximately $71.0 million. The Company has not recorded a contingent liability due to NSP being current on all debt and preferred dividend payments and in compliance with all debt compliance provisions of the Sponsor Guaranty Agreement. As of September 30, 2023, the Company owns approximately 53.0% of the total outstanding shares of common stock of NSP. See Note 13 for additional information.

The Company is a limited guarantor and an indemnitor on one of NHT's loans with an aggregate principal amount of $77.4 million outstanding, as of September 30, 2023. The Company has not recorded a contingent liability as NHT is current on all debt payments and in compliance with all debt compliance provisions.

Contingencies

In the normal course of business, the Company is subject to claims, lawsuits, and legal proceedings. While it is not possible to ascertain the ultimate outcome of all such matters, management believes that the aggregate amount of such liabilities, if any, in excess of amounts provided or covered by insurance, will not have a material adverse effect on the consolidated balance sheets or consolidated statements of operations and comprehensive income (loss) of the Company. The Company is not involved in any material litigation nor, to management's knowledge, is any material litigation currently threatened against the Company or its properties or subsidiaries.

Environmental liabilities could have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, assets, cash flows or results of operations. As of September 30, 2023, the Company was not aware of any environmental liabilities. There can be no assurance that material environmental liabilities do not exist.

Claymore and Allenby are engaged in ongoing litigation that could result in a possible gain contingency to the Company. The probability, timing, and potential amount of recovery, if any, are unknown.

Item 2. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

The following is a discussion and analysis of our financial condition and our historical results of operations. The following should be read in conjunction with our financial statements and accompanying notes included herein and with our annual report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2022 (our "Annual Report"), filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC") on March 31, 2023. This discussion contains forward-looking statements that involve risks and uncertainties. Our actual results could differ materially from those projected, forecasted, or expected in these forward-looking statements as a result of various factors, including, but not limited to, those discussed below and elsewhere in this quarterly report. See "Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements" in this report and "Risk Factors" in Part I, Item 1A, "Risk Factors" of our Annual Report.

Overview

As of September 30, 2023, our Portfolio consisted primarily of debt and equity investments in the single-family rental, self-storage, office, hospitality, life science and multifamily sectors. Substantially all of our business is conducted through the OP. The OP GP is the sole general partner of the OP and is owned 100% by the Company. As of September 30, 2023, there were 2,000 OP Units outstanding, of which 100% were owned by us.

On July 1, 2022, or the Deregistration Date, the SEC issued the Deregistration Order pursuant to Section 8(f) of the Investment Company Act declaring that the Company has ceased to be an investment company under the Investment Company Act. The issuance of the Deregistration Order enabled the Company to proceed with full implementation the Business Change. As a result of the Business Change, we have not provided a comparison of our financial statements to prior periods in which we were operating as a registered investment company because it would not be useful to our shareholders.

As a diversified REIT, the Company's primary investment objective is to provide both current income and capital appreciation. The Company seeks to achieve this objective through the Business Change. Target underlying property types primarily include, but are not limited to, single-family rentals, multifamily, self-storage, life science, office, industrial, hospitality, net lease and retail. The Company may, to a limited extent, hold, acquire or transact in certain non-real estate securities. We are externally managed by the Adviser through the Advisory Agreement, by and among the Company and the Adviser. The Advisory Agreement was dated July 1, 2022, and amended on October 25, 2022 and April 11, 2023, for an initial three-year term that will expire on July 1, 2025 and successive one-year terms thereafter unless earlier terminated. The Adviser is wholly owned by our Sponsor.

We have elected to be taxed as a REIT under Sections 856 through 860 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"). To qualify as a REIT, we must meet a number of organizational and operational requirements, including a requirement that we distribute at least 90% of our REIT taxable income to our shareholders. As a REIT, we will be subject to federal income tax on our undistributed REIT taxable income and net capital gain and to a 4% nondeductible excise tax on any amount by which distributions we pay with respect to any calendar year are less than the sum of (1) 85% of our ordinary income, (2) 95% of our capital gain net income and (3) 100% of our undistributed income from prior years. We believe we qualify for taxation as a REIT under the Code, and we intend to continue to operate in such a manner, but no assurance can be given that we will operate in a manner so as to qualify as a REIT. Taxable income from certain non-REIT activities is managed through one or more TRS entities and are subject to applicable federal, state, and local income and margin taxes.

The macroeconomic environment remains challenging as central banks have continued to rapidly raise interest rates. The rising rate environment, coupled with large bank failures in early 2023 and ongoing economic uncertainty, has limited credit availability to commercial real estate. Less available and more expensive debt capital has had pronounced effects on the capital markets, making property acquisitions and other investments harder to finance. Similar factors also impact the timing of and proceeds generated from asset sales and our ability to obtain debt capital.

On October 15, 2021, Marc S. Kirschner, as litigation trustee of a litigation subtrust formed in connection with the bankruptcy proceedings of Highland, a former affiliate of our Sponsor, filed a lawsuit (the "Bankruptcy Trust Lawsuit") against various persons and entities, including our Sponsor and James Dondero. In addition, on February 8, 2023, UBS Securities and its affiliate (collectively "UBS") filed a lawsuit in the Supreme Court of the State of New York, County of New York against Mr. Dondero and a number of entities currently or previously affiliated with Mr. Dondero, seeking to collect on $1.3 billion in judgments UBS obtained against entities that were managed indirectly by Highland (the "UBS Lawsuit"). Neither the Bankruptcy Trust Lawsuit nor the UBS Lawsuit include claims related to our business or our assets.

Our Sponsor and Mr. Dondero have informed us they believe the Bankruptcy Trust Lawsuit has no merit and Mr. Dondero has informed us he believes the UBS Lawsuit has no merit; we have been advised that the defendants named in each of the lawsuits intend to vigorously defend against the claims. We do not expect the Bankruptcy Trust Lawsuit or the UBS Lawsuit will have a material effect on our business, results of operations or financial condition.

On February 22, 2023, as previously disclosed, the Board formed an independent special committee to oversee a review of the potential impact to the Company of the UBS Lawsuit and the Bankruptcy Trust Lawsuit. The special committee retained Reichman Jorgensen Lehman Feldberg LLP ("Reichman Jorgensen") as independent legal counsel to advise the special committee on the review. Reichman Jorgensen has reported to the special committee that they have substantially completed their review and found no evidence that the Company engaged in any conduct that would expose it to liability from the UBS Lawsuit or the Bankruptcy Trust Lawsuit. On June 13, 2023, the special committee delivered these findings to the Board. Following the review of the special committee, we reaffirm our expectation that neither the Bankruptcy Trust Lawsuit nor the UBS Lawsuit will have a material effect on our business, results of operations or financial condition.

Macroeconomic trends, including increases in inflation and rising interest rates, may adversely impact our business, financial condition and results of operations. Inflation in the United States has recently accelerated and is currently expected to continue at an elevated level in the near-term. Rising inflation could have an adverse impact on our operating expenses and our floating rate mortgages and credit facilities, as these costs could increase at a rate higher than our rental and other revenue. There is no guarantee we will be able to mitigate the impact of rising inflation. The Federal Reserve has raised interest rates to combat inflation and restore price stability. In addition, to the extent our exposure to increases in interest rates on any of our debt is not eliminated through interest rate swaps and interest rate protection agreements, such increases will result in higher debt service costs which will adversely affect our cash flows. We cannot make assurances that our access to capital and other sources of funding will not become constrained, which could adversely affect the availability and terms of future borrowings, renewals or refinancings. Such future constraints could increase our borrowing costs, which would make it more difficult or expensive to obtain additional financing or refinance existing obligations and commitments, which could slow or deter future growth.

Components of Our Revenues and Expenses

Revenues

Rental income. Our rental income is primarily attributable to the rental revenue from our investment in Cityplace Tower, a 42-story, 1.35 million-square-foot, trophy office building acquired in 2018 as well as rental income from two retail properties. Our rental income also includes utility reimbursements, late fees, common area maintenance reimbursements, and other rental fees charged to tenants.

Interest income. Interest income includes interest earned from our debt investments.

Dividend income. Dividend income includes dividends from our equity investments.

Other income. Other income includes ancillary income earned from tenants such as non-refundable fees, parking fees, and other miscellaneous fees charged to tenants and income items.

Property management fees. Property management fees include fees paid to NexVest, our property manager, for managing each property directly or indirectly owned by us (see Note 13 to our unaudited consolidated financial statements).

Real estate taxes and insurance. Real estate taxes include the property taxes assessed by local and state authorities depending on the location of each property owned directly or indirectly by us. Insurance includes the cost of commercial, general liability, and other needed insurance for each property owned directly or indirectly by us.

Property general and administrative expenses. Property general and administrative expenses include the costs of marketing, professional fees, general office supplies, and other administrative related costs of each property owned directly or indirectly by us.

Corporate general and administrative expenses. Corporate general and administrative expenses include, but are not limited to, audit fees, legal fees, listing fees, board of trustee fees, investor relations costs and payments of reimbursements to our Adviser for operating expenses. Corporate general and administrative expenses and the Advisory Fees and Administrative Fees paid to our Adviser will not exceed the Expense Cap for the 12 months subsequent to the Deregistration Date, calculated in accordance with the Advisory Agreement. The Expense Cap does not limit the reimbursement by us of expenses related to securities offerings paid by our Adviser. The Expense Cap also does not apply to legal, accounting, financial, due diligence, and other service fees incurred in connection with mergers and acquisitions, extraordinary litigation, or other events outside our ordinary course of business or any out-of-pocket acquisition or due diligence expenses incurred in connection with the acquisition or disposition of real estate assets. Additionally, in the sole discretion of the Adviser, the Adviser may elect to waive reimbursement for eligible out-of-pocket expenses paid on the Company's behalf. Once waived, such expenses are considered permanently waived and become non-recoupable in the future.

Conversion expense - Conversion expenses include the costs of the Business Change in conjunction with the Deregistration Order, which primarily include legal fees and other fees incurred in preparation for or as a direct result of the conversion. These conversion expenses are included in the consolidated statement of operations and comprehensive income (loss) as conversion expenses.

Depreciation and amortization. Depreciation and amortization costs primarily include depreciation of our real properties and amortization of acquired in-place leases on property owned directly or indirectly by us.

Interest Expense. Interest expense primarily includes the cost of interest expense on debt, the amortization of deferred financing costs, if any, and the related impact of interest rate derivatives, if any, used to manage our interest rate risk.

Equity in Earnings (Losses) of Unconsolidated Ventures. Equity in earnings (losses) of unconsolidated ventures represents the change in our basis in equity method investments resulting from our share of the investments' income and expenses. Profit and loss from equity method investments for which we've elected the fair value option are classified in divided income, change in unrealized gains and realized gains as applicable.

Income Tax Expense. Income tax expense is primarily derived from taxable gains from asset sales and other income earned from investments held in our TRSs.

Unrealized Gain (Loss) on Investments. Unrealized gains and losses represent changes in fair value for equity method investments, CLO equity investments, bonds, common stock, convertible notes, LLC interests, LP interests, rights and warrants, and senior loans for which the fair value option has been elected.

Realized Gain (Loss) on Investments. The Company recognizes the excess, or deficiency, of net proceeds received, less the carrying value of such investments, as realized gains or losses, respectively. The Company reverses cumulative, unrealized gains or losses previously reported in its Consolidated Statements of Operations on both the Successor and Predecessor basis with respect to the investment sold at the time of the sale.

The change in our net income (loss) for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and the net loss for the nine months ended September 30, 2023 primarily relates to mark-to-market losses on our investments accounted for at fair value partially offset by interest and dividends.

Revenues

Rental income. Rental income was $5.4 million and $5.4 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and $15.5 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. Interest and dividends. Interest and dividends totaled $6.9 million and approximately $8.4 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and $25.4 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was a decrease of $1.6 million between the three months ended June 30, 2023, and the three months ended September 30, 2023, which was primarily due to a decrease in equity dividends.

Other income. Other income was approximately $97.0 thousand and $22.0 thousand for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and $128.0 thousand for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was an increase of $75.0 thousand between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023, which was primarily due to an increase in asset management fees on a property.

Property operating expenses. Property operating expenses were $1.5 million and $2.5 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and $5.6 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was a decrease of $1.0 million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023, which was primarily due to a decrease in one-time repair and maintenance expenses. Real estate taxes and insurance. Real estate taxes and insurance costs were $1.4 million and $1.3 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and $4.1 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was an increase of $20.0 thousand between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023, which was primarily due to an increase in property taxes at Cityplace Tower. Real estate taxes and insurance expenses consist primarily of expenses from our investment in Cityplace Tower.

Advisory and administrative fees. For the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, the Company incurred Administrative Fees and Advisory Fees of $3.5 million and $3.7 million, which excludes $0 and $2.0 million in fees that were waived to comply with the Expense Cap, and $10.7 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023, which excludes $(2.0) million in fees that were deferred to comply with the Expense Cap. There was an increase of approximately $1.8 million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023. The decrease in periods was primarily due to the expiration of the Expense Cap on June 30, 2023. The fees that were deferred to comply with the Expense Cap have been waived and cannot be recouped by the Adviser.

Property general and administrative expenses. Property general and administrative expenses were $0.8 million and $1.0 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and $2.6 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. Conversion expenses. Conversion expenses were $0.0 million and $1.3 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and $1.4 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was a decrease of approximately $1.3 million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023, which was primarily driven by a decrease in legal fees and audit related fees associated to the conversion of the predecessor.

Depreciation and amortization. Depreciation and amortization costs were $3.8 million and $3.6 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and $10.9 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was an increase of approximately $0.2 million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023, which was primarily due to a decrease in amortization of leases. Depreciation and amortization expenses consist primarily of expenses from our investment in Cityplace Tower. Due to the Business Change, the fair value of our real estate properties as of July 1, 2022 became the new cost basis for the Company. This change reset the depreciable basis of our properties as well as caused the recognition of new intangible lease assets.

Interest expense. Interest expense was $4.2 million and approximately $3.8 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and approximately $11.4 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was an increase of approximately $0.4 million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023, which was primarily due to an increase in interest expense at Cityplace Tower attributed to an increase in interest rates and the NexBank Revolver.

Equity in income (losses) of unconsolidated ventures. Equity in income (losses) of unconsolidated ventures was $(0.4) million and $0.4 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and $0.0 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was a decrease of approximately $0.8 million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023, which was primarily driven by an increase in net income at Marriott Uptown, a 255 key upscale hotel located in Dallas, Texas which is owned by the Company.

Income tax expense. The Company has recorded income tax expense (benefit) of $0.3 million and $0.3 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and $1.4 million associated with the TRSs for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was no change between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023. The tax expense is partially offset by the quarterly change in valuation allowance on a deferred tax asset of $(0.4) million for a net expense of $0.3 million for the three months ended September 30, 2023, that is recorded on the Consolidated Statement of Operations.

Change in unrealized gains (losses). Unrealized gains (losses) from our investments accounted for at fair value was $(61.6) million and $(9.3) million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and $(89.6) million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was a decrease of $52.3 million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023. The decrease is largely driven by mark-to-market losses on NSP common equity of $54.9 million and VineBrook LP interest of $20.9 million offset by mark-to-market gains on NREF OP Units of $3.7 million and mark-to-market gains on our legacy CLOs of $13.4 million.

Realized gains (losses). Realized gains (losses) were $(0.9) million and $(0.9) million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and $(0.7) million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was a decrease of $0.0 million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023. The decrease was primarily driven by realized losses on common stock of Elme Communities of $0.8 million, Whitestone REIT of $1.1 million, and realized losses on SFP of $1.3 million .

Non-GAAP Measurements

Net Operating Income and Same Store Net Operating Income

Net Operating Income ("NOI") is a non-GAAP financial measure of performance. NOI is used by investors and our management to evaluate and compare the performance of our properties to other comparable properties, to determine trends in earnings and to compute the fair value of our properties as NOI is calculated by adjusting net income (loss) to add back (1) interest expense, (2) Advisory Fees and Administrative Fees, (3) the impact of depreciation and amortization expenses as well as gains or losses from the sale of operating real estate assets that are included in net income (loss) computed in accordance with GAAP, (4) corporate general and administrative expenses, (5) income tax expenses, (6) conversion expenses, (7) non-operating property investment revenue, (8) realized and change in unrealized gains (losses) generated from non-real estate investments, and (9) equity in income (losses) of unconsolidated equity method ventures.

The cost of funds is eliminated from net income (loss) because it is specific to our particular financing capabilities and constraints. The cost of funds is also eliminated because it is dependent on historical interest rates and other costs of capital as well as past decisions made by us regarding the appropriate mix of capital, which may have changed or may change in the future. Corporate general and administrative expenses, advisory fees and administrative fees, conversion expenses, and income tax expenses are eliminated because they do not reflect continuing operating costs of the property. Depreciation and amortization expenses are eliminated because they may not accurately represent the actual change in value in our properties that result from use of the properties or changes in market conditions. While certain aspects of real property do decline in value over time in a manner that is reasonably captured by depreciation and amortization, the value of the properties as a whole have historically increased or decreased as a result of changes in overall economic conditions instead of from actual use of the property or the passage of time. Equity in income (losses) of unconsolidated equity method ventures are eliminated because they do not reflect continuing operating costs of the property. Gains and losses from the sale of real property vary from property to property and are affected by market conditions at the time of sale, which will usually change from period to period. Also, expenses that are incurred upon acquisition of a property do not reflect continuing operating costs of the property owner. These gains and losses can create distortions when comparing one period to another or when comparing our operating results to the operating results of other real estate companies that have not made similarly timed purchases or sales. Non-operating property investment revenue and realized and unrealized gains (losses) from non-real estate investments are eliminated as they do not reflect continuing operating costs of the properties. We believe that eliminating these items from net income (loss) is useful because the resulting measure captures the actual ongoing revenue generated and actual expenses incurred in operating our properties as well as trends in occupancy rates, rental rates and operating costs.

However, the usefulness of NOI is limited because it excludes corporate general and administrative expenses, interest expense, Advisory Fees and Administrative Fees, conversion expenses, income tax expenses, depreciation and amortization expense, and gains and losses from the sale of operating real estate assets that are included in net income (loss) as determined under GAAP, non-operating property investment revenue and realized and change in unrealized gains and losses generated from non-real estate investments, and equity in income or losses of unconsolidated equity method ventures, all of which may be material values. NOI may fail to capture significant trends in these components of net income, which further limits its usefulness.

NOI is a measure of the operating performance of our properties but does not measure our performance as a whole. NOI is therefore not a substitute for net income (loss) as computed in accordance with GAAP. This measure should be analyzed in conjunction with net income (loss) computed in accordance with GAAP and discussions elsewhere in "—Results of Operations" regarding the components of net income (loss) that are eliminated in the calculation of NOI.

Other companies may use different methods for calculating NOI or similarly entitled measures and, accordingly, our NOI may not be comparable to similarly entitled measures reported by other companies that do not define the measure exactly as we do.

We define "Same Store NOI" as NOI for our properties that are comparable between periods and that are stabilized. Please see below for a discussion of properties included as Same Store (defined below). We view Same Store NOI as an important measure of the operating performance of our properties because it allows us to compare operating results of properties owned for the entirety of the current and comparable periods and therefore eliminates variations caused by acquisitions or dispositions from the beginning of the compared period to the end of the current period.

Real estate taxes and insurance costs were $78.5 thousand and $62.8 thousand for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and approximately $223.3 thousand for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was an increase of approximately $16.0 thousand, or approximately 25.4%, between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023. The majority of the increase is related to a decrease in recoverable taxes.

Property management fees. Property management fees were $19.6 thousand and $18.5 thousand for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and approximately $55.3 thousand for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was an increase of approximately $1.0 thousand, or approximately 5.3%, between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023. The majority of the increase is related to an increase in gross receipts upon which property management fees are calculated.

Property general and administrative expenses. Property general and administrative expenses were $29.6 thousand and $13.5 thousand for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023, and $52.8 thousand for the nine months ended September 30, 2023. There was an increase of $17.0 thousand, or approximately 130.8% between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023. The majority of the increase is related to an increase in miscellaneous legal fees.

FFO and AFFO

We believe that net income (loss), as defined by GAAP, is the most appropriate earnings measure. We also believe that funds from operations ("FFO"), as defined by the National Association of Real Estate Investment Trusts ("NAREIT") and adjusted funds from operations ("AFFO") are important non-GAAP supplemental measures of operating performance for a REIT.

Since the historical cost accounting convention used for real estate assets requires depreciation except on land, such accounting presentation implies that the value of real estate assets diminishes predictably over time. However, since real estate values have historically risen or fallen with market and other conditions, presentations of operating results for a REIT that use historical cost accounting for depreciation could be less informative. Thus, NAREIT created FFO as a supplemental measure of operating performance for REITs that excludes historical cost depreciation and amortization, among other items, from net income (loss), as defined by GAAP. FFO is defined by NAREIT as net income (loss) computed in accordance with GAAP, excluding gains or losses from real estate dispositions, plus real estate depreciation and amortization. We compute FFO attributable to common shareholders in accordance with NAREIT's definition.

AFFO makes certain adjustments to FFO in order to arrive at a more refined measure of the operating performance of our Portfolio. There is no industry standard definition of AFFO and practice is divergent across the industry. AFFO adjusts FFO to remove items such as equity based compensation expense and the amortization of deferred financing costs incurred in connection with obtaining long-term debt financing, and change in unrealized gains (losses). We believe AFFO is useful to investors as a supplemental gauge of our operating performance and is useful in comparing our operating performance with other REITs that are not as involved in the aforementioned activities.

We believe that the use of FFO and AFFO, combined with the required GAAP presentations, improves the understanding of operating results of REITs among investors and makes comparisons of operating results among such companies more meaningful. While FFO and AFFO are relevant and widely used measures of operating performance of REITs, they do not represent cash flows from operations or net income (loss) as defined by GAAP and should not be considered as an alternative or substitute to those measures in evaluating our liquidity or operating performance. FFO and AFFO do not purport to be indicative of cash available to fund our future cash requirements. Further, our computation of FFO and AFFO may not be comparable to FFO and AFFO reported by other REITs that do not define FFO in accordance with the current NAREIT definition or that interpret the current NAREIT definition or define AFFO differently than we do.

The following table reconciles our calculations of FFO and AFFO to net income (loss), the most directly comparable GAAP financial measure, for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and nine months ended September 30, 2023 (in thousands, except per share amounts):

The three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and nine months ended September 30, 2023

FFO was $(63.2) million and $(9.4) million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and $(89.7) million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023, which was an increase of approximately $(53.8) million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023. The change in our FFO between the periods primarily relates to an increase in unrealized losses.

AFFO was $(2.4) million and $(0.5) million for the three months ended September 30, 2023 and June 30, 2023 and $(3.1) million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023, which was a decrease of approximately $(1.9) million between the three months ended June 30, 2023 and the three months ended September 30, 2023. The change in our AFFO between the periods primarily relates to an increase in interest expense.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

Our short-term liquidity requirements consist primarily of funds necessary to pay for debt maturities, operating expenses and other expenditures including:

- capital expenditures to continue the ongoing development of Cityplace Tower;
- interest expense and scheduled principal payments on outstanding indebtedness (see "—Obligations and Commitments" below);
- recurring maintenance necessary to maintain our properties;
- distributions necessary to qualify for taxation as a REIT;
- income taxes for taxable income generated by TRS entities;
- acquisition of additional properties or investments;
- advisory and administrative fees payable to our Adviser;
- general and administrative expenses;
- reimbursements to our Adviser; and
- property management fees.

We expect to meet our short-term liquidity requirements generally through net cash provided by operations and existing cash balances. As of September 30, 2023, we had $3.7 million of cash available to meet our short-term liquidity requirements. As of September 30, 2023, we also had $34.1 million of restricted cash held in reserve by the lender on the Cityplace debt. These reserves include escrows for property taxes and insurance, reserves for tenant improvements as well as required excess collateral.

Our long-term liquidity requirements consist primarily of funds necessary to pay for the costs of acquiring additional properties, make additional accretive investments pursuant to our investment strategy, renovations and other capital expenditures to improve our properties and scheduled debt payments and distributions. We expect to meet our long-term liquidity requirements through various sources of capital, which may include a revolving credit facility and future debt or equity issuances, existing working capital, net cash provided by operations, long-term mortgage indebtedness and other secured and unsecured borrowings, and property and non-real estate asset dispositions. However, there are a number of factors that may have a material adverse effect on our ability to access these capital sources, including the state of overall equity and credit markets, our degree of leverage, our unencumbered asset base and borrowing restrictions imposed by lenders (including as a result of any failure to comply with financial covenants in our existing and future indebtedness), general market conditions for REITs, our operating performance and liquidity, market perceptions about us and restrictions on sales of properties under the Code. The success of our business strategy will depend, in part, on our ability to access these various capital sources.

In addition to our ongoing renovation of Cityplace, our other properties will require periodic capital expenditures and renovation to remain competitive. We estimate an additional $190 million to $210 million of capital expenditures to complete the Cityplace renovation. Also, acquisitions, redevelopments, or expansions of our properties will require significant capital outlays. Long-term, we may not be able to fund such capital improvements solely from net cash provided by operations because we must distribute annually at least 90% of our REIT taxable income, determined without regard to the deductions for dividends paid and excluding net capital gains, to qualify and maintain our qualification as a REIT, and we are subject to tax on any retained income and gains. As a result, our ability to fund capital expenditures, acquisitions, or redevelopment through retained earnings long-term is limited. Consequently, we expect to rely heavily upon the availability of debt or equity capital for these purposes. If we are unable to obtain the necessary capital on favorable terms, or at all, our financial condition, liquidity, results of operations, and prospects could be materially and adversely affected.

The macroeconomic environment remains challenging as central banks have continued to rapidly raise interest rates. The rising rate environment, coupled with large bank failures in early 2023 and ongoing economic uncertainty, has limited credit availability to commercial real estate. Less available and more expensive debt capital has had pronounced effects on the capital markets, making property acquisitions and other investments harder to finance. Similar factors also impact the timing of and proceeds generated from asset sales and our ability to obtain debt capital.

We believe that our available cash, expected operating cash flows, and potential debt or equity financings will provide sufficient funds for our operations, anticipated scheduled debt service payments and dividend requirements for the twelve-month period following September 30, 2023.

Cash Flows

The following table presents selected data from our consolidated statements of cash flows for the nine months ended September 30, 2023 (in thousands):

	For the Nine Months Ended September 30
	2023
Net cash provided by (used in) operating activities	$(18,474)
Net cash provided by (used in) investing activities	15,991
Net cash provided by (used in) used in financing activities	(8,332)
Net decrease in cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash	(10,815)
Cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash, beginning of period	48,649
Cash, cash equivalents and restricted cash, end of period	$37,834

Cash flows from operating activities. During the nine months ended September 30, 2023, net cash provided by (used in) operating activities was $(18.5) million. Cash flows from operating activities was primarily driven by an income tax payment of $10.7 million.

Cash flows from investing activities. During the nine months ended September 30, 2023, net cash provided by (used in) investing activities was $16.0 million. Cash flows from investing activities was primarily driven by proceeds from the sale of several equities and senior loans.

Cash flows from financing activities. During the nine months ended September 30, 2023, net cash provided by (used in) financing activities was $(8.3) million. Cash flows from financing activities was primarily driven by notes payable borrowings of $20.0 million, offset by credit facility repayments of $9.0 million, and dividends paid to common shareholders of $16.9 million.

Debt

Mortgage Debt

As of September 30, 2023, our consolidated subsidiaries had aggregate mortgage debt outstanding to third parties of approximately $142.9 million at a weighted average interest rate of 8.5%. See Note 7 to our unaudited consolidated financial statements for additional information.

We intend to invest in additional real estate investments as suitable opportunities arise and adequate sources of equity and debt financing are available. We expect that future investments in properties, including any improvements or renovations of current or newly acquired properties, will depend on and will be financed by, in whole or in part, our existing cash, future borrowings and the proceeds from additional issuances of common shares or other securities or investment and property dispositions.

Although we expect to be subject to restrictions on our ability to incur indebtedness, we expect that we will be able to refinance existing indebtedness or incur additional indebtedness for acquisitions or other purposes, if needed. However, there can be no assurance that we will be able to refinance our indebtedness, incur additional indebtedness or access additional sources of capital, such as by issuing common shares or other debt or equity securities, on terms that are acceptable to us or at all.

Furthermore, following the completion of our renovation and development programs and depending on the interest rate environment at the applicable time, we may seek to refinance our floating rate debt into longer-term fixed rate debt at lower leverage levels.

Credit Facility

On January 8, 2021, the Company entered into the Credit Facility with Raymond James Bank, N.A. and drew the full balance. The Credit Facility, as amended, matures on November 6, 2023 and as of September 30, 2023, bore interest at the one-month SOFR plus 4.25%. During the three and nine months ended September 30, 2023, the Company paid down $3.0 million and $9.0 million, respectively on the Credit Facility. As of September 30, 2023, the Credit Facility had an outstanding balance of $2.0 million. For additional information regarding our Credit Facility, see Note 6.

Revolving Credit Facility

On May 22, 2023, the Company entered into the NexBank Revolver with NexBank , with the option for the Company to receive additional disbursements thereunder up to a maximum amount of $50.0 million. As of September 30, 2023, the NexBank Revolver bears interest at one-month SOFR plus 3.50% and matures on May 20, 2024, with the option to extend the maturity by one year, twice. As of September 30, 2023, the NexBank Revolver had an outstanding balance of $20.0 million.

Credit Facility

The Credit Facility will mature on November 6, 2023 and is subject to monthly amortization payments through the maturity date. We believe we will have adequate liquidity to pay these obligations when they come due.

Revolving Credit Facility

The NexBank Revolver will mature on May 20, 2024, with the option to extend the maturity by one year, twice, and is subject to monthly interest payments through the maturity date, with the remaining principal being due on the maturity date. We believe we will have adequate liquidity to pay these obligations when they come due.

Cityplace Debt

On May 8, 2023, we received lender consent to defer the maturity of the Cityplace debt to September 8, 2023. Also on May 8, 2023, the parties to the loan agreement agreed to convert the index upon which the interest rate is based to one-month SOFR effective as of the first interest period beginning on or after May 8, 2023. On September 8, the lender agreed to defer the maturity of the Cityplace debt by six months to March 8, 2024. The purpose of the deferral was to allow for continued discussions around refinancing the debt. Management recognizes that finding an alternative source of funding is necessary to repay the debt by the maturity date. Management believes that there is sufficient time before the maturity date and that the Company has sufficient access to capital to ensure the Company is able to meet its obligations as they become due.

Advisory Agreement

As consideration for the Adviser's services under the Advisory Agreement, we pay our Adviser the Fees, which includes the Advisory Fee equal to 1.00% of Managed Assets and the Administrative Fee equal to 0.20% of the Company's Managed Assets. The Advisory Agreement provides that the Fees shall be paid in cash, unless the Adviser, in its sole discretion, elects to have all or a portion of the monthly installment of the Fees paid in common shares of the Company, subject to certain restrictions. For additional information, see Notes 14 and 17 to our unaudited consolidated financial statements.

We also generally reimburse our Adviser for operating or offering expenses it incurs on our behalf or in connection with the services it performs for us. Direct payment of operating expenses by us together with reimbursement of operating expenses to the Adviser, plus compensation expenses relating to equity awards granted under a long-term incentive plan and all other corporate general and administrative expenses of the Company, including the Fees payable under the Advisory Agreement, may not exceed the Expense Cap of 1.5% of Managed Assets, calculated as of the end of each quarter, for the twelve-month period following the Company's receipt of the Deregistration Order; provided, however, that this limitation will not apply to Offering Expenses, legal, accounting, financial, due diligence and other service fees incurred in connection with extraordinary litigation and mergers and acquisitions or other events outside the ordinary course of our business or any out-of-pocket acquisition or due diligence expenses incurred in connection with the acquisition or disposition of certain real estate-related investments; provided, further, in the event the Company consolidates another entity that it does not wholly own as a result of owning a controlling interest in such entity or otherwise, expenses will be calculated without giving effect to such consolidation and instead such entity's expenses will, on a pro rata basis consistent with the Company's percentage ownership, be considered those of the Company for purposes of calculation of expenses. The Adviser may, at its discretion and at any time, waive its right to reimbursement for eligible out-of-pocket expenses paid on the Company's behalf. Once waived, these expenses are considered permanently waived and become non-recoupable in the future. The Expense Cap expired on June 30, 2023.

As of September 30, 2023, a total of $3.1 million in Fees to the Adviser have been waived to comply with the Expense Cap. Should the Company's Fees and expenses subject to the Expense Cap be less than the 1.5% limit for the twelve month period subsequent to the Deregistration Date, some or all of the deferred expenses could be recouped by the Adviser up to the Expense Cap. No Advisory Fees were recouped by the Adviser as of September 30, 2023, and all such deferred fees were waived.

Income Taxes

We anticipate that we will continue to qualify to be taxed as a REIT for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and we intend to continue to be organized and to operate in a manner that will permit us to qualify as a REIT. However, we can give no assurance that we will maintain REIT qualification. To qualify as a REIT, we must meet certain organizational and operational requirements, including a requirement to distribute at least 90% of our annual "REIT taxable income", as defined by the Code, to stockholders. As a REIT, we will be subject to federal income tax on our undistributed REIT taxable income and net capital gain and to a 4% nondeductible excise tax on any amount by which distributions we pay with respect to any calendar year are less than the sum of (1) 85% of our ordinary income, (2) 95% of our capital gain net income and (3) 100% of our undistributed income from prior years. Taxable income from certain non-REIT activities is managed through a TRS and is subject to applicable federal, state, and local income and margin taxes. The Company has recorded a current income tax expense of $1.4 million associated with the TRSs for the nine months ended September 30, 2023, which is largely driven by income from the Company's legacy CLO investments and investments in debt instruments not secured by mortgages on real property. The tax expense is partially increased by the quarterly change in valuation allowance on a deferred tax asset of $1.6 million and partially offset by a return-to-provision adjustment of $1.5 million for a net expense of $1.4 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023, that is recorded on the Consolidated Statement of Operations.

If we fail to qualify as a REIT in any taxable year, we could be subject to U.S. federal income tax on our taxable income at regular corporate income tax rates, and dividends paid to our shareholders would not be deductible by us in computing taxable income. Any resulting corporate liability could be substantial and could materially and adversely affect our net income (loss) and net cash available for distribution to stockholders. Unless we were entitled to relief under certain Code provisions, we also would be disqualified from re-electing to be taxed as a REIT for the four taxable years following the year in which we failed to qualify to be taxed as a REIT. As of September 30, 2023, we believe we are in compliance with all applicable REIT requirements.

We evaluate the accounting and disclosure of tax positions taken or expected to be taken in the course of preparing our tax returns to determine whether the tax positions are "more-likely-than-not" (greater than 50% probability) of being sustained by the applicable tax authority. Tax positions not deemed to meet the more-likely-than-not threshold would be recorded as a tax benefit or expense in the current year. Our management is required to analyze all open tax years, as defined by the statute of limitations, for all major jurisdictions, which include federal and certain states. As of September 30, 2023 and to our knowledge, we have no examinations in progress and none are expected at this time.

We recognize our tax positions and evaluate them using a two-step process. First, we determine whether a tax position is more likely than not to be sustained upon examination, including resolution of any related appeals or litigation processes, based on the technical merits of the position. Second, we will determine the amount of benefit to recognize and record the amount that is more likely than not to be realized upon ultimate settlement.

We had no material unrecognized tax benefit or expense, accrued interest or penalties as of September 30, 2023. We and our subsidiaries are subject to federal income tax as well as income tax of various state and local jurisdictions. The 2021, 2020 and 2019 tax years remain open to examination by tax jurisdictions to which our subsidiaries and we are subject. When applicable, we recognize interest and/or penalties related to uncertain tax positions on our consolidated statements of operations and comprehensive income (loss).

Dividends

We intend to make regular quarterly dividend payments to holders of our common shares. U.S. federal income tax law generally requires that a REIT distribute annually at least 90% of its REIT taxable income, without regard to the deduction for dividends paid and excluding net capital gains. As a REIT, we will be subject to federal income tax on our undistributed REIT taxable income and net capital gain and to a 4% nondeductible excise tax on any amount by which distributions we pay with respect to any calendar year are less than the sum of (1) 85% of our ordinary income, (2) 95% of our capital gain net income and (3) 100% of our undistributed income from prior years. We intend to make regular quarterly dividend payments of all or substantially all of our taxable income to holders of our common shares out of assets legally available for this purpose, if and to the extent authorized by our Board. Before we make any dividend payments, whether for U.S. federal income tax purposes or otherwise, we must first meet both our operating requirements and debt service on our debt payable. If our cash available for distribution is less than our taxable income, we could be required to sell assets, borrow funds or raise additional capital to make cash dividends or we may make a portion of the required dividend in the form of a taxable distribution of stock or debt securities.

We will make dividend payments based on our estimate of taxable earnings per common share, but not earnings calculated pursuant to GAAP. Our dividends and taxable income and GAAP earnings will typically differ due to items such as depreciation and amortization, fair value adjustments, differences in premium amortization and discount accretion, investments held through our TRSs, book/tax differences on income derived from partnerships, and non-deductible general and administrative expenses. Our quarterly dividends per share may be substantially different than our quarterly taxable earnings and GAAP earnings per share. Our Board declared a dividend on our common shares of $0.15 per share which was paid on September 29, 2023 to shareholders of record on August 15, 2023. Our Board declared a dividend on our Series A Preferred Shares of $0.34375 per share which was paid on September 30, 2023 to shareholders of record on September 25, 2023. We expect that dividends on our common shares, when, if and as declared by our Board, will be declared on a quarterly basis.

Through September 30, 2023, the Company has not generated sufficient cash flow from operations, as disclosed on the Consolidated Statement of Cash Flows, to cover the dividend authorized for payment on December 29, 2023. The purpose of paying the dividend partially in shares and partially in cash is to alleviate the cash outflow to the Company. The Company may revert to paying the dividend in cash at some point in the future when cash flow from operations supports such a cash dividend. However, there can be no assurance that cash flow from operations will be able to support a cash dividend in the future.

Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements

As of September 30, 2023, we had the following off-balance sheet arrangements that have or are reasonably likely to have a current or future effect on our financial condition, changes in financial condition, revenues or expenses, results of operations, liquidity, capital expenditures or capital resources.

Commitments

The Company is the guarantor on three secured loans to, and dividend payments with respect to Series D Preferred Stock of NSP, an affiliate of the Adviser, with the secured loans having an aggregate principal amount of approximately $563.3 million outstanding as of September 30, 2023. NSP is current on all debt and dividend payments and in compliance with all debt compliance provisions. See Note 13 for additional information.

The Company is a limited guarantor and an indemnitor on one of NHT's loans with an aggregate principal amount of $77.4 million as of September 30, 2023. The obligations include a customary environmental indemnity and a so-called "bad boy" guarantee, which is generally only applicable if and when the borrower directly, or indirectly through an agreement with an affiliate, joint venture partner or other third party, voluntarily files a bankruptcy or similar liquidation or reorganization action or takes other actions that are fraudulent or improper. NHT is current on all debt payments and in compliance with all debt compliance provisions.

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

During the nine months ended September 30, 2023, there have been no material changes in our critical accounting policies and estimates from those disclosed in our Annual Report.

Inflation

The real estate market has not been directly affected by inflation in the past several years due to increases in rents nationwide. Our lease terms are generally for a period of one year or more and rental rates reset to market if renewed. The majority of our leases also contain protection provisions applicable to reimbursement billings for utilities.

Inflation may also affect the overall cost of debt, as the implied cost of capital increases. The Federal Reserve has recently started raising interest rates to combat inflation and restore price stability and is expected to continue to raising interest rates in response to or in anticipation of continued inflation concerns. We intend to mitigate these risks through long-term fixed interest rate loans and interest rate hedges.

REIT Tax Election

We have elected to be taxed as a REIT under Sections 856 through 860 of the Code. To qualify as a REIT, we must meet a number of organizational and operational requirements, including a requirement that we distribute at least 90% of our “REIT taxable income,” as defined by the Code, to our shareholders. Taxable income from certain non-REIT activities are managed through one or more TRS entities and is subject to applicable federal, state, and local income and margin taxes. The Company has recorded a current income tax expense of $1.4 million associated with the TRSs for the nine months ended September 30, 2023, which is largely driven by income from the Company’s legacy CLO investments and investments in debt investments not secured by mortgages on real property. The tax expense increased primarily as a result of the quarterly change in the valuation allowance on a deferred tax asset of $1.6 million and was partially offset by a return-to-provision adjustment of $1.5 million for a net expense of $1.4 million for the nine months ended September 30, 2023, that is recorded on the Consolidated Statement of Operations. We believe we qualify for taxation as a REIT under the Code, and we intend to continue to operate in such a manner, but no assurance can be given that we will operate in a manner so as to qualify as a REIT.

Item 4. Controls and Procedures

Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and Procedures

As required by Rule 13a-15(b) and Rule 15d-15(b) under the Exchange Act, our management, including our President and Chief Financial Officer, evaluated, as of September 30, 2023, the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and procedures as defined in Exchange Act Rule 13a-15(e) and Rule 15d-15(e). Based on that evaluation, our President and Chief Financial Officer concluded that our disclosure controls and procedures were effective as of September 30, 2023, to provide reasonable assurance that information required to be disclosed by us in reports filed or submitted under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified by the rules and forms of the Exchange Act and is accumulated and communicated to management, including the President and Chief Financial Officer, as appropriate to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosures.

We believe, however, that a controls system, no matter how well designed and operated, cannot provide absolute assurance that the objectives of the controls systems are met, and no evaluation of controls can provide absolute assurance that all control issues and instances of fraud or error, if any, within a company have been detected.

Changes in Internal Control over Financial Reporting

There has been no change in our internal control over financial reporting (as such term is defined in Rules 13a-15(f) and 15d-15(f) under the Exchange Act) that occurred during the quarter ended September 30, 2023 that has materially affected, or is reasonably likely to materially affect, our internal control over financial reporting.

PART I

Item 1. Business.

Organization

NexPoint Capital, Inc. (the "Company"), which may also be referred to as "we," "us," or "our," incorporated on September 30, 2013 (inception date) as a Delaware limited liability company. The Company is an externally managed, non-diversified, closed-end management investment company that has elected to be regulated as a business development company ("BDC") under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"). The Company is an investment company and accordingly follows the Investment Company accounting and reporting guidance under Topic 946 of the Financial Accounting Standards Board's ("FASB") Accounting Standards Codification, as amended ("ASC"), Financial Services—Investment Companies. The Company's investment objective is to generate current income and capital appreciation primarily through investments in middle-market healthcare companies, middle-market companies in non-healthcare sectors, syndicated floating rate debt of large public and nonpublic companies and collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs"). The Company has elected to be treated as a regulated investment company ("RIC") under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code") and intends each year to qualify and be treated as such.

The Company issued 21,739.13 LLC units to NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (the "Adviser") on May 27, 2014 (initial fund-raising date), at $9.20 per share for $200,000 in total proceeds. On June 10, 2014, the Company converted to a Delaware corporation, NexPoint Capital, Inc. As part of the conversion to a Delaware corporation, the member of the Company converted 21,739.13 LLC units into 21,739.13 shares of the Company's common stock, representing an equivalent price of $9.20 per share based on the fair value of the assets contributed by the Adviser in connection with the formation of the Company, as determined by the board of directors (the "Board") at the time of the conversion.

On September 2, 2014 (commencement of operations), in connection with a private placement of shares of our common stock to the Adviser and its affiliates, the Company issued an aggregate of approximately 1,086,954 shares of common stock at a price of $9.20 per share, which price represents the public offering price of $10.00 per share less selling commissions and dealer manager fees, for aggregate proceeds of approximately $10.0 million.

As a result of the private placement to the Adviser and its affiliates, the Company successfully satisfied the minimum offering requirement and officially commenced operations on September 2, 2014. In connection with the satisfaction of the minimum offering requirement and the commencement of our operations, the Investment Advisory Agreement became effective and the base investment advisory fee and any incentive fees, as applicable, payable to the Adviser under the Investment Advisory Agreement began to accrue. In aggregate as of December 31, 2022, the Adviser controls 2,549,002 total shares, including reinvestment of dividends, for a net amount of approximately $14.1 million.

The Company has retained the Adviser to manage certain aspects of its affairs on a day-to-day basis. NexPoint Securities, Inc. (the "Dealer Manager"), an entity under common ownership with the Adviser, served as the dealer manager of the continuous public offering prior to the termination of the offering. The Adviser and Dealer Manager are related parties and will receive fees, distributions and other compensation for services related to the continuous public offering and the investment and management of the Company's assets. The Company's continuous public offering ended on February 14, 2018.

Overview of Our Business

Our investment activities are managed by the Adviser and supervised by the Board, of which a majority of the members are independent of the Company. The Adviser has also entered into a Services Agreement with Skyview Group ("Skyview"), effective February 25, 2021, pursuant to which the Adviser will receive administrative and operational support services to enable it to provide the required advisory services to the Company. The Adviser will compensate all Adviser and Skyview personnel who provide services to the Company.

Our investment objective is to generate high current income and long-term capital appreciation. We seek to achieve our objective by using the experience of the Adviser's healthcare, credit and structured products teams to source, evaluate and structure investments, identify attractive investment opportunities that are primarily debt investments that generate high income without creating undue risk for the portfolio, make equity investments where we believe there will be attractive risk-adjusted returns that compensate for the lack of current income, and make investments in debt and equity tranches of CLOs that deliver income and high relative value. We will focus on companies that are stable, have positive cash flow, and the ability to grow their business model.

Our investment policy is to invest, under normal circumstances, at least 80% of our total assets in debt and equity of middle market companies, with an emphasis on healthcare companies, syndicated floating rate debt of large public and nonpublic companies, and mezzanine and equity tranches of CLOs. Middle-market companies include companies with annual revenues between $50 million and $2.5 billion and syndicated floating rate debt refers to loans and other instruments originated by a bank to a corporation that are sold off, or syndicated, to investors in pieces. We consider a healthcare company to be a company that is engaged in the design, development, production, sale, management or distribution of products, services or facilities used for or in connection with the healthcare industry. Additionally, we consider the term healthcare company to include companies that are materially impacted by the healthcare industry (such as a contractor that derives significant revenue or profit from the construction of hospitals). We may invest without limit in companies that are not in the healthcare sector.

We leverage the expertise of the Adviser with regard to distressed investing and restructuring to make opportunistic investments in distressed companies. We utilize the Adviser's credit underwriting capability to identify the types of companies we believe will provide high current income and/or long-term capital appreciation. In addition to the investments in the healthcare industry, we may invest a portion of our capital in other opportunistic investments in which the Adviser has expertise and where we believe an opportunity exists to achieve above-average risk-adjusted yields and returns. These types of opportunities may include: (1) direct lending or origination investments, (2) investments in stressed or distressed situations, (3) structured product investments, (4) equity investments and (5) other investment opportunities not typically available in other BDCs. Opportunistic investments may range from broadly syndicated deals to direct lending deals in both private and public companies and may include foreign investments. We believe this is the best approach to achieving our dual mandate of attempting to generate a high yield while also attempting to produce capital appreciation.

We seek to invest primarily in securities deemed by the Adviser to be high income generating debt investments and income generating equity securities of privately held companies in the United States. The portfolio may be concentrated primarily in senior floating rate debt securities, although we may invest without limit in securities that rank lower than senior secured instruments and may invest without limit in investments with a fixed rate of interest. We may buy syndicated loans, various tranches of CLOs and other debt instruments in the secondary market as well as originate debt so we can tailor the investment parameters more precisely to our needs. We also may invest a portion of the portfolio in equity securities that are non-income producing, when doing so will help us achieve our objective of long-term capital appreciation. We expect the size of our positions may range from $250 thousand to $5 million, although investments may be larger as our asset base increases. We may selectively make investments in amounts larger than $5 million in some of our portfolio companies. We may make smaller investments. We may also invest without limitation in warrants and may also use derivatives, primarily swaps (including equity, variance and volatility swaps), options and futures contracts on securities, interest rates, commodities and/or currencies, as substitutes for direct investments the Company can make. We may also use derivatives such as swaps, options (including options on futures), futures, and foreign currency transactions (e.g., foreign currency swaps, futures and forwards) to any extent deemed by the Adviser to be in the best interest of the Company, and to the extent permitted by the 1940 Act, to hedge various investments for risk management and speculative purposes. We may invest up to 15% of our net assets in entities that are excluded from registration under the 1940 Act by virtue of sections 3(c)(1) and 3(c)(7) of the 1940 Act (such as private equity funds or hedge funds). This limitation does not apply to any CLOs, certain of which may rely on section 3(c)(1) or 3(c)(7) of the 1940 Act.

We expect that many of the securities in which we invest will be rated below investment grade by independent rating agencies or would be rated below investment grade if they were rated. These securities, which may be referred to as "junk," have predominantly speculative characteristics with respect to the issuer's capacity to pay interest and repay principal. In addition, we expect that many of our debt investments will include floating interest rates that reset on a periodic basis and typically will not require the borrowers to pay down the outstanding principal of such debt prior to maturity.

As of December 31, 2022, our investment portfolio, with a total fair value of $53.3 million, consisted of 39 positions in portfolio companies (calculated as a percentage of investments: 21.7% in first lien senior secured loans, 5.0% in second lien senior secured loans, 5.1% in corporate bonds, 0.0% in asset-backed securities, 0.3% in warrants, 36.6% in common stock, 22.5% in preferred stocks and 8.8% in LLC interests. As of December 31, 2022, the debt investments in our portfolio carry a weighted average cost price of 94.17% on par or stated value, as applicable, and our estimated gross annual portfolio yield (which represents the expected yield to be generated by us on our investment portfolio based on the composition of our portfolio as of such date), prior to leverage costs, was 3.51% based on the amortized cost of our investments. The portfolio yield does not represent an actual investment return to stockholders and does not include income from CLO equity.

Recent Developments

On January 5, 2023, the Board of the Company declared a cash distribution of $0.09 per share of the Company's common stock, par value $0.001 per share, payable on January 23, 2023, to the stockholders of record on December 31, 2022.

Table of Contents

Business & Investment Strategies

We focus our healthcare investments primarily on opportunities in companies we believe will benefit from the long-term changes in the healthcare industry as a result of the aging demographic of Baby Boomers, implementation of payment system reforms and advances in medical technologies. It is our belief that the changing demographic landscape in the United States, where approximately 10,000 people per day turn 65 years of age, coupled with advances in medical technologies that are enabling Americans to live longer, will produce strong growth in demand for healthcare. At the same time, changes in the U.S. healthcare reimbursement system, including the implementation of alternative payment model are creating disruption in the healthcare sector, affecting each sub-sector differently, and will produce a positive impact for some sub-sectors and a negative impact for others. We also believe some companies are better positioned to take advantage of these changes while others will consolidate with stronger players. Based on our deep understanding of the healthcare sector, we believe these developments will create a changing landscape for years to come.

Our primary areas of focus within the healthcare sector will be in the pharmaceuticals, devices, life sciences and facilities sub-sectors as we believe these will be the most significant beneficiaries of technological advances and the implementation of alternative payment models. We will also make opportunistic investments, including short sales, in other sub-sectors we believe will fare poorly during this period of transition.

However, the Adviser and its affiliates have a core competency in other, non-healthcare sectors, such as the industrials & manufacturing, chemicals & materials, energy efficiency & green fuels, climate tech & renewables and real estate. When identifying potential middle-market investments for the portfolio, we focus on the attributes listed below. It is our belief that investments exhibiting these characteristics are the best investments to allow the Company to meet its investment objective with an acceptable level of risk. The attributes discussed below are general guidelines and not all investment opportunities may exhibit each of these qualities. Each investment opportunity is analyzed on a case-by-case basis by our investment professionals and the portfolio manager:

- Focus on growing economic sectors - We seek companies that operate in or focus a substantial amount of their resources on economic sectors we believe will benefit from the current economic environment, including primarily the healthcare sector. Our view is that some sectors will be adversely impacted by rising rates while others will see tangible benefits. We think companies in our perceived “winning” sectors represent a better risk profile for our investments.
- High level of inherent value - We seek companies that have inherent value but need additional financing to implement their business plan fully and realize their full value. These businesses are typically smaller companies that cannot access traditional means of financing but have a solid business where additional investment of capital and economies of scale can unlock an outsized level of value. In some cases, we may take equity stakes in these businesses as well as debt positions to achieve our dual objectives of high current income and long-term capital appreciation.
- Strong risk/reward characteristics - We seek investments where we believe we are compensated for the risk assumed. An investment opportunity may become more appealing if the terms of the investment are improved such as the interest rate, or if structural protections are added to decrease our perceived risk.
- Proven management team - We seek companies that have proven management teams that understand the impact the upcoming regulatory and interest rate environment will have on their business. We are not seeking investments in start-up companies or companies with unproven technologies or business models or companies with relatively inexperienced management. Our view is that it will take experienced, seasoned veterans to understand and navigate the pitfalls resulting from the Federal Reserve’s actions regarding interest rates and quantitative easing as well as a potentially increasing tax environment and changes to the economy from implementation of value-based payment models. We believe these companies have a better chance of delivering value long-term to investors.
- Strong cash flow and business models - We seek stable and proven businesses with strong cash flow that are able to adequately service their debt load. With an increase in interest rates, we believe financing will become more expensive and only companies with steady cash flow and business models will weather the storm. Businesses that have strong infrastructure, business models and processes will be better able to service their debt.
- Stable and proven businesses - We seek companies that have a proven business model and strong strategic position within their industry. With the upheaval we believe will be evident in the next few years, we think growing a stable and proven business will be difficult enough. Trying to build out a new business model in a chaotic environment will be exponentially more difficult in our opinion and compensating for that level of risk will be difficult.

Potential Competitive Strengths

We believe the breadth, depth and experience of the Adviser's senior management and investment team provides a significant advantage in sourcing, analyzing, monitoring and managing investment opportunities. As discussed above, the Adviser has entered into a Services Agreement with Skyview pursuant to which the Adviser may utilize Skyview's back office operations team that has years of experience in settling and tracking bank loan investments and its dedicated team that operates registered funds, works with third party service providers, interacts with portfolio managers to provide timely information and portfolio statistics, and has experience interacting with legal counsel, auditors, other third-party service providers and the Board.

We believe the long-term investment horizon we are afforded through the BDC structure will allow us flexibility to find the investments that will deliver the highest value to our investors. Unlike a typical private equity or venture fund, we are not required to return capital once a liquidity event is realized in an underlying investment. Because of the permanent capital vehicle structure, we believe we can offer an institutional-type strategy focused on the healthcare sector with institutional management capabilities to investors.

The Adviser and its affiliates have significant experience investing in the healthcare sector, across all sectors, all asset classes and in structured products. The Adviser and its affiliates' investments have spanned the range from large capitalization companies that are publicly traded to small, privately held companies and to distressed companies that have been successfully turned around. We believe the Adviser and its affiliates' expertise in underwriting credit across all sectors will give us an advantage in identifying and investing in the best middle-market companies in direct lending situations, syndicated loans and CLOs.

Investment Criteria/Guidelines

We believe there are currently, and will continue to be, significant investment opportunities in middle-market companies and larger private companies, particularly in the healthcare sector and particularly in income producing securities, in the United States. Additionally, we believe there continues to be attractive investment opportunities in the syndicated floating rate debt and CLO markets.

Target businesses will typically exhibit some or all of the following characteristics:

- exposure to healthcare sub-sectors we believe will benefit from implementation of alternative payment models;
- exposure to non-healthcare sub-sectors we believe will benefit from a rising interest rate environment and the Federal Reserve's policies in response to rising rates;
- a U.S. base of operations;
- an experienced management team executing a long-term growth strategy;
- discernable downside protection through recurring revenue or strong tangible asset coverage;
- defensible niche product/service;
- products and services with distinctive competitive advantages or other barriers to entry;
- stable and predictable free cash flows;
- existing indebtedness that may be refinanced on attractive terms;
- low technology and market risk;
- strong customer relationships; and
- low to moderate capital expenditure requirements.

We expect that deal flow and idea generation for investments will primarily originate from the Adviser and its affiliates' existing and extensive network of informal and unconventional deal sources in the middle-market business community. Once potential investments have been identified, we, through our Adviser, will conduct a rigorous due diligence process that draws from our Adviser's investment experience, industry expertise and network of contacts. Our Adviser will then work with outside counsel to structure loans with strong creditor protections and contractual controls over borrower operations. Our Adviser will work to obtain extensive operating and financial covenants, detailed reporting requirements, governance rights and board seats to protect our investment while allowing the borrower the necessary flexibility to successfully execute its business plan. We will actively monitor and manage our portfolio with regard to individual company performance as well as general market conditions. Investment decisions on new originations generally will include an analysis of the impact of the new loan on our broader portfolio, including a "top-down" assessment of portfolio structure and risk exposure.

Investments in Middle-Market Healthcare Companies

Our portfolio of middle-market investments will have a focus on companies in the healthcare sector as we believe there is a large and growing investment opportunity in this sector. Changes in the U.S. healthcare reimbursement system, including the implementation of value-based payment models are creating a dramatic upheaval in the healthcare sector, affecting each sub-sector differently, and will produce a positive impact for some sub-sectors and a negative impact for others.

We believe some companies are better positioned to take advantage of these changes while others will consolidate with stronger players. Based on our deep understanding of the healthcare sector, we believe these developments will create a changing landscape for years to come.

Healthcare is a defensive and stable sector that has experienced out-sized growth and consistency during the past four decades. There are three primary growth drivers of healthcare: (1) demographics, (2) price inflation and (3) per-person utilization of care. The historical demographic growth rate has been 1.00%. Price inflation in healthcare has added an additional 5.64%, more than double the baseline U.S. GDP growth rate since 1970 of 2.79%. Per-person utilization is a function of access to health insurance as well as aging demographics. In the past three decades, the population above age 90 has tripled and is expected to quadruple over the next three decades. Due to these drivers, healthcare has moved from 3% of GDP in 1980 to approximately 18% today and is expected to continue to grow.

Investments in Middle-Market Non-Healthcare Companies

In response to elevated inflation, the Federal Reserve (the "Fed") has raised Fed Funds from effectively zero at the start of 2022 to over 4.25% by year-end and commenced with Quantitative Tightening by reducing its balance sheet after two years of growth. We believe that higher interest rates will make it more difficult for middle-market companies in all sectors to raise debt and equity capital. Furthermore, the capital requirements of business in many sectors will be enormous in coming years as companies catch up on delayed capital spending and make required investments to adapt to structural economic changes brought on by COVID-19. These companies will, in our opinion, turn more and more to specialty finance vehicles, such as us, to procure the capital they need for growth. We view the financing of middle-market companies to be an underserved area, presenting enormous opportunities.

Investments in Large Syndicated Floating Rate Debt

A portion of the investments we make in middle-market companies are expected to be in the form of floating rate instruments. Also, a portion of the portfolio will be invested in large syndicated floating rate debt of non-public and public companies. Syndicated floating rate debts are loans originated by a bank to a corporation that are sold off, or syndicated, to investors in pieces. Floating rate loans have a base rate that adjusts periodically plus a spread over the base rate. The base rate is typically the secured overnight financing rate (SOFR) and resets every 90 days. With rates resetting in an environment where the prevailing base rate is increasing, the income stream from a floating rate instrument will increase.

Syndicated floating rate debt offers certain benefits:

High current income. Historically, floating rate loans have lower yields than high yield bonds, due in part to better credit and interest-rate risk profile, but still offer an attractive risk-reward income dynamic.

Adjustable coupon payment. Floating rate loans are structured so that interest rates reset on a predetermined schedule. When interest rates rise, coupon payments increase, and vice versa, with little lag time (typically 90 days or less). This feature greatly reduces the interest rate, or duration, risk inherent in high yield bonds, which typically never reset. Therefore, as rates rise, the value of a high yield bond should decline while the value of a floating rate loan should remain stable.

Priority in event of default. In the event of a default, floating rate loans typically have a higher position in a company's capital structure, have first claim to assets and greater covenant protection than high yield bonds. As a result, floating rate loans have generally recovered a greater percentage of value than high yield bonds. Also, the default rate for floating rate loans has historically been lower than defaults of high yield bonds.

Reduced Volatility. The return of floating rate loans has historically had a low correlation to most asset classes and a negative correlation with some asset classes. Therefore, adding floating rate loans to a portfolio should reduce volatility and risk.

Table of Contents

In our view, an allocation to large syndicated floating rate debt provides stable value with high current income and offers the portfolio liquidity.

Investments in CLOs

We view CLOs as an excellent way to gain exposure to syndicated floating rate debt at a less expensive price and higher yield with greater upside potential for capital appreciation while minimizing interest rate risk. CLO vehicles are entities formed to manage a portfolio of syndicated bank loans. The CLO vehicle raises capital by issuing equity and multiple tranches of debt and uses the proceeds to buy the underlying portfolio of syndicated bank loans. The syndicated bank loans the CLO is allowed to purchase is limited by criteria established within the documents governing the CLO. The CLO also has certain priority of payment provisions or "waterfall" provisions that benefit the higher rated debt tranches. Documents governing CLOs typically provide for adjustments to the "waterfall" in the event certain tests are triggered, diverting cash to the higher rated debt tranches.

Investment Process Overview

Sourcing. We believe that identifying middle-market companies that represent attractive debt investment opportunities requires a different sourcing network than is required for investments in larger companies. Whereas larger companies typically hire an investment bank to help develop marketing materials and run a financing process involving a large number of potential lenders to ensure pricing is determined by the market, middle-market companies typically do not have the resources to hire large financial advisers or investment banks. While these lending opportunities are far less competitive, they are more difficult to source.

We expect that deal flow and idea generation for investments will primarily originate from the Adviser and its affiliates' existing and extensive network of informal and unconventional deal sources in the middle-market business community. Built over 20 years, this deal sourcing network includes accountants, attorneys, bankers, brokers, insurance agents, consultants, private equity firms and financial advisers who have access to small-cap companies. Additionally, we have forged contacts specific to the healthcare and energy industry that includes all sub-sectors, as well as other sectors.

The contacts in the Adviser's network generally operate outside of the established investment banking infrastructure and typically play a limited introductory role to companies and their management teams. In addition, the Adviser promotes a culture in which sourcing is considered a focus for all of its investment professionals.

Due Diligence. We believe it is critical to conduct extensive due diligence on investment targets, and in evaluating new investments. We, through our Adviser, will conduct a rigorous due diligence process that draws from our Adviser's investment experience, industry expertise and network of contacts. Our Adviser intends to conduct extensive due diligence and perform thorough credit analysis on each potential portfolio company investment. In conducting due diligence, we expect that our Adviser will use publicly available information and private information provided by borrowers, their financial sponsors and their advisers. Our Adviser expects to use its relationships with former and current management teams, consultants, competitors, bankers, private equity firms and investment bankers to gain further insights into businesses and industries, generally, and our potential portfolio companies, specifically.

Our due diligence will typically include the following elements (although not all elements will necessarily form part of each due diligence review):

- thorough review of historical and pro forma financial information, including an analysis of collateral coverage, cash flow and valuation multiples and quality of earnings;
- review of capital structure, including leverage and equity amounts, participants and intercreditor arrangements;
- analysis of the business of the prospective portfolio company, including drivers of growth, customer and supplier concentrations, fixed versus variable costs and sensitivity analyses (with a focus on downside scenario analysis);
- analysis of the industry in which the prospective portfolio company operates, including its competitive position, industry size and growth rates, competitive outlook, barriers to entry, and technological, regulatory and similar considerations;
- interviews with management, employees, customers and vendors and analysis of management's track record, quality, breadth and depth;
- anticipated form of any potential restructuring, potential liquidation value and potential for collateral impairment;
- preparation or review of material contracts and loan documents;
- anticipated timing of covenant breaches and default cure provisions;
- research relating to the company's business, industry, markets, products and services;
- background checks on key managers when appropriate; and

Table of Contents

- third-party research relating to the company's management, industry, markets, products and services and competitors.

Additional due diligence with respect to any investment may be conducted on our behalf by attorneys and independent accountants as well as other outside advisers, as appropriate.

Structuring Originations. Our Adviser's team has substantial expertise in structuring and documenting loans originated to middle-market companies. Our Adviser works with outside counsel to structure loans with strong creditor protections and contractual controls over borrower operations. Our Adviser works to obtain extensive operating and financial covenants, detailed reporting requirements, governance rights and board seats to protect our investment while allowing the borrower the necessary flexibility to successfully execute its business plan. We believe that our Adviser's extensive experience allows it to anticipate issues and maximize our potential recovery upon the occurrence of adverse events, and our Adviser is able to seek to structure our loan and credit documentation to protect us from risks identified in the due diligence process. Our Adviser also evaluates the broader capital structure of the borrower to ensure that we have strong rights as compared to other participants in the borrower's capital structure.

Portfolio Management and Monitoring. We actively monitor and manage our portfolio with regard to individual company performance as well as general market conditions. Investment decisions on new originations generally include an analysis of the impact of the new loan on our broader portfolio, including a "top-down" assessment of portfolio structure and risk exposure. This assessment includes a review of portfolio concentration by issuer, industry, geography and type of credit as well as an evaluation of our portfolio's exposure to macroeconomic factors and cyclical trends.

We believe that consistent, active monitoring of individual companies and the broader market is integral to portfolio management and a critical component of our investment process. Our Adviser uses several methods of evaluating and monitoring the performance and fair value of our investments, including the following:

- frequent discussions with management and sponsors, including board observation rights where possible;
- comparing/analyzing financial performance to the portfolio company's business plan, as well as our internal projections developed at underwriting;
- tracking portfolio company compliance with covenants, as well as other metrics identified at the initial investment stage, such as acquisitions, divestitures, product development and specified management hires; and
- periodic review of each asset in the portfolio and more rigorous monitoring of "watch list" positions.

Competition

Our primary competitors to provide financing to middle-market companies include public and private funds, including other business development companies, commercial and investment banks, commercial financing companies, and, to the extent they provide an alternative form of financing, private equity funds. As the economic recovery continues, we expect that we may face enhanced competition in the future. Many of our competitors are substantially larger and have considerably greater financial, technical and marketing resources than we do. For example, some competitors may have a lower cost of funds and access to funding sources that are not available to us. In addition, some of our competitors may have higher risk tolerances or different risk assessments, which could allow them to consider a wider variety of investments and establish more relationships than us. Furthermore, many of our competitors are not subject to the regulatory restrictions that the 1940 Act will impose on us as a BDC and that the Code will impose on us as a RIC. For additional information concerning the competitive risks we face, see "Risk Factors—Risks Relating to our Business and Structure—The highly competitive market for investment opportunities in which we operate may limit our investment opportunities."

Administration

We do not have any direct employees, and our day-to-day investment operations are managed by our Adviser. Our officers will be employees of the Adviser. Some of our executive officers described under "Management of the Company" are also officers of the Adviser. See "The Adviser and the Administrator—Administration Agreement."

Regulation

We have filed an election to be treated as a BDC under the 1940 Act and to be treated as a RIC under Subchapter M of the Code and intend each year to qualify and be eligible to be treated as such. As a RIC, we generally do not have to pay corporate-level U.S. federal income taxes on any net ordinary income or capital gains that we timely distribute to our stockholders as dividends. The 1940 Act contains prohibitions and restrictions relating to transactions between business development companies and their affiliates (including any Advisers or sub-advisers), principal underwriters and affiliates of those affiliates or underwriters and requires that a majority of the directors of a BDC be persons other than "interested persons," as that term is defined in the 1940 Act. In addition, the 1940 Act provides that we may not change the nature of our business so as to cease to be, or to withdraw our election as, a BDC unless approved by a majority of our outstanding voting securities.

We may invest up to 100% of our assets in securities acquired directly from issuers in privately negotiated transactions. With respect to such securities, we may, for the purpose of public resale, be deemed an "underwriter" as that term is defined in the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the "Securities Act"). Our intention is to not write (sell) or buy put or call options to manage risks associated with the publicly traded securities of our portfolio companies, except that we may enter into hedging transactions to manage the risks associated with interest rate fluctuations to the extent that we are permitted to engage in such hedging transactions without registering with the U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC") as a commodity pool operator. However, we may purchase or otherwise receive warrants to purchase the common stock of our portfolio companies in connection with acquisition financing or other investments. Similarly, in connection with an acquisition, we may acquire rights to require the issuers of acquired securities or their affiliates to repurchase them under certain circumstances. We also do not intend to acquire securities issued by any investment company that exceed the limits imposed by the 1940 Act. Under these limits, we generally cannot acquire more than 3% of the voting stock of any registered investment company, invest more than 5% of the value of our total assets in the securities of one investment company or invest more than 10% of the value of our total assets in the securities of investment companies in the aggregate. With regard to that portion of our portfolio invested in securities issued by investment companies, it should be noted that such investments might subject our stockholders to additional expenses. None of these policies is fundamental and each may be changed without stockholder approval.

To the extent that we utilize a REIT subsidiary that directly incurs leverage in the form of debt (as opposed to non-recourse borrowings made through special purpose vehicles), the amount of such recourse leverage used by us will be consolidated and treated as senior securities for purposes of complying with the 1940 Act's limitations on leverage. Accordingly, it is our present intention to utilize leverage through debt or borrowings in an amount not to exceed 50% of our total assets (i.e., to maintain 200% asset coverage), less the amount of any nonrecourse direct debt or borrowing by a REIT subsidiary, if any. Because a REIT subsidiary's preferred shares would represent a small amount of leverage by the REIT subsidiary, such leverage will also be consolidated for purposes of complying with the 1940 Act's limitations on our ability to issue preferred shares.

Qualifying Assets

Under the 1940 Act, a BDC may not acquire any asset other than assets of the type listed in Section 55(a) of the 1940 Act, which are referred to as qualifying assets, unless, at the time the acquisition is made, qualifying assets represent at least 70% of the company's total assets. The principal categories of qualifying assets relevant to our proposed business are the following:

1. Securities purchased in transactions not involving any public offering from the issuer of such securities, which issuer (subject to certain limited exceptions) is an eligible portfolio company, or from any person who is, or has been during the preceding 13 months, an affiliated person of an eligible portfolio company, or from any other person, subject to such rules as may be prescribed by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). An eligible portfolio company is defined in the 1940 Act as any issuer which:
    a. is organized under the laws of, and has its principal place of business in, the United States;
    b. is not an investment company (other than a small business investment company wholly owned by the BDC) or a company that would be an investment company but for certain exclusions under the 1940 Act; and
    c. satisfies any of the following:
        i. does not have any class of securities listed on a national securities exchange or has any class of securities listed on a national securities exchange subject to a $250 million market capitalization maximum; or
        ii. is controlled by a BDC or a group of companies including a BDC, the BDC actually exercises controlling influence over the management or policies of the eligible portfolio company, and, as a result, the BDC has an affiliated person who is a director of the eligible portfolio company.
2. Securities of any eligible portfolio company which we control.
3. Securities purchased in a private transaction from a U.S. issuer that is not an investment company or from an affiliated person of the issuer, or in transactions incident thereto, if the issuer is in bankruptcy and subject to reorganization or if the issuer, immediately prior to the purchase of its securities was unable to meet its obligations as they came due without material assistance other than conventional lending or financing arrangements.

4. Securities of an eligible portfolio company purchased from any person in a private transaction if there is no ready market for such securities and we already own 60% of the outstanding equity of the eligible portfolio company.
5. Securities received in exchange for or distributed on or with respect to securities described in (1) through (4) above, or pursuant to the exercise of warrants or rights relating to such securities.
6. Cash, cash equivalents, U.S. Government securities or high-quality debt securities maturing in one year or less from the time of investment.

The regulations defining and interpreting qualifying assets may change over time. We expect to adjust our investment focus as needed to comply with and/or take advantage of any regulatory, legislative, administrative or judicial actions in this area.

Managerial Assistance to Portfolio Companies

In addition, a BDC must have been organized and have its principal place of business in the United States and must be operated for the purpose of making investments in the types of securities described in (1), (2) or (3) above. However, in order to count portfolio securities as qualifying assets for the purpose of the 70% test, the BDC must either control the issuer of the securities or must offer to make available to the issuer of the securities (other than small and solvent companies described above) significant managerial assistance. When a BDC purchases such securities in conjunction with one or more other persons acting together, one of the other persons in the group may make available such managerial assistance. Making available managerial assistance means any arrangement whereby the BDC, through its directors, officers or employees, offers to provide, and, if accepted, does so provide, significant guidance and counsel concerning the management, operations or business objectives and policies of a portfolio company. As our administrator, the Adviser has agreed to provide such managerial assistance on our behalf to portfolio companies that request this assistance. We may receive fees for these services and will reimburse the Adviser for the actual costs incurred in providing managerial assistance on our behalf, subject to the review and approval by the Board, including our independent directors.

Temporary Investments

Pending investment in other types of qualifying assets, as described above, our investments may consist of cash, cash equivalents, U.S. Government securities or high-quality debt securities maturing in one year or less from the time of investment, which we refer to, collectively, as temporary investments, so that 70% of our assets are qualifying assets. Typically, we will invest in U.S. Treasury bills or in repurchase agreements, so long as such agreements are fully collateralized by cash or securities issued by the U.S. Government or its agencies. A repurchase agreement involves the purchase by an investor, such as us, of a specified security and the simultaneous agreement by the seller to repurchase it at an agreed-upon future date and at a price which is greater than the purchase price by an amount that reflects an agreed-upon interest rate. Our Adviser intends to monitor the creditworthiness of the counterparties with which we enter into repurchase agreement transactions.

Senior Securities

We are permitted, under specified conditions, to issue multiple classes of indebtedness and one class of stock senior to our common stock if our asset coverage, as defined in the 1940 Act, is at least equal to 200% immediately after each such issuance. In addition, while any senior securities remain outstanding, we must make provisions to prohibit any distribution to our stockholders or the repurchase of such securities or shares unless we meet the applicable asset coverage ratios at the time of the distribution or repurchase.

We may also borrow amounts up to 5% of the value of our total assets for temporary or emergency purposes without regard to asset coverage. For a discussion of the risks associated with leverage, see “Risk Factors—Risks Relating to our Business and Structure—Regulations governing our operation as a BDC will affect our ability to raise, and the way in which we raise, additional debt or equity capital.”

Code of Ethics

We and the Adviser have each adopted a code of ethics pursuant to Rule 17j-1 under the 1940 Act that establishes procedures for personal investments and restricts certain personal securities transactions. Personnel subject to each code may invest in securities for their personal investment accounts, including securities that may be purchased or held by us, so long as such investments are made in accordance with the code’s requirements. In addition, each code of ethics is attached as an exhibit to the registration statement of which this prospectus is a part and is available on the EDGAR Database on the SEC’s Internet site at http://www.sec.gov. You may also obtain copies of each code of ethics, after paying a duplicating fee, by electronic request at the following Email address: publicinfo@sec.gov.

Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures

We have delegated our proxy voting responsibility to our Adviser. The Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures of our Adviser are described below. The guidelines are reviewed periodically by our Adviser and our non-interested directors, and, accordingly, are subject to change. For purposes of these Proxy Voting Policies and Procedures described below, "we" "our" and "us" refers to our Adviser.

Introduction

As an Adviser registered under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act"), we have a fiduciary duty to act solely in the best interests of our clients. As part of this duty, we recognize that we must vote client securities in a timely manner free of conflicts of interest and in the best interests of our clients.

These policies and procedures for voting proxies for our investment advisory clients are intended to comply with Section 206 of, and Rule 206(4)-6 under the Advisers Act.

Proxy Policies

We vote proxies relating to our clients' portfolio securities in what we perceive to be the best interest of our clients' stockholders. We review on a case-by-case basis each proposal submitted to a stockholder vote to determine its impact on the portfolio securities held by our clients. In most cases, we will vote in favor of proposals that we believe are likely to increase the value of our clients' portfolio securities. Although we will generally vote against proposals that may have a negative impact on our clients' portfolio securities, we may vote for such a proposal if there exist compelling long-term reasons to do so.

Our proxy voting decisions are made by the senior officers who are responsible for monitoring each of clients' investments. To ensure that our vote is not the product of a conflict of interest, we require that: (1) anyone involved in the decision making process disclose to our Chief Compliance Officer any potential conflict that he or she is aware of and any contact that he or she has had with any interested party regarding a proxy vote; and (2) employees involved in the decision making process or vote administration are prohibited from revealing how we intend to vote on a proposal in order to reduce any attempted influence from interested parties. Where conflicts of interest may be present, we will disclose such conflicts, including to us, and may request guidance on how to vote such proxies.

Proxy Voting Records

You may obtain information without charge about how we voted proxies by making a written request for proxy voting information to: Investor Relations, 300 Crescent Court, Suite 700, Dallas, Texas 75201, or by calling us collect at (844) 485-9167.

Privacy Principles

We are committed to maintaining the privacy of our stockholders and to safeguarding their non-public personal information. The following information is provided to help you understand what personal information we collect, how we protect that information and why, in certain cases, we may share information with select other parties.

Generally, we do not receive any non-public personal information relating to our stockholders. The only information we collect from you is your name, address, number of shares you hold and your social security number. This information is used only so that we can send you annual reports and other information about us, and send you proxy statements or other information required by law. We will maintain physical, electronic and procedural safeguards designed to protect the non-public personal information of our stockholders. We do not disclose any non-public personal information about our stockholders or former stockholders to anyone except as described below.

- Authorized Employees of the Adviser and Its Affiliates. It is our policy that only authorized employees of the Adviser and its affiliates with a legitimate business need for the information will have access to it.

Table of Contents

- Service Providers. We may disclose your personal information to companies that provide services on our behalf, such as record keeping, processing your trades, and mailing you information. These companies are required to protect your information and use it solely for the purpose for which they received it.
- Courts and Government Officials. If required by law, we may disclose your personal information in accordance with a court order or at the request of government regulators. Only that information required by law, subpoena, or court order will be disclosed.

Other

We are prohibited under the 1940 Act from participating in certain transactions with our affiliates without the prior approval of our independent directors and, in some cases, of the SEC. Any person that owns, directly or indirectly, five percent or more of our outstanding voting securities will be our affiliate for purposes of the 1940 Act, and we are generally prohibited from buying or selling any security from or to, or entering into certain "joint" transactions (which could include investments in the same portfolio company) with such affiliates, absent the prior approval of our independent directors and/or appropriate exemptive relief. Our Adviser and its affiliates, including persons that control, are controlled by, or are under common control with, us or our Adviser, are also considered to be our affiliates under the 1940 Act, and we are generally prohibited from buying or selling any security from or to, or entering into "joint" transactions with such affiliates without the prior approval of our independent directors and, in some cases, exemptive relief from the SEC.

We may, however, invest alongside the Adviser's, and its affiliates' other clients in certain circumstances where doing so is consistent with applicable law and SEC staff interpretations and specific exemptive relief from the SEC. For example, we may invest alongside such accounts consistent with guidance promulgated by the staff of the SEC permitting us and such other accounts to purchase interests in a single class of privately placed securities so long as certain conditions are met, including that our Adviser, acting on our behalf and on behalf of other clients, negotiates no term other than price. We and the Adviser have obtained an exemptive order dated April 19, 2016 from the SEC to permit co-investments among the Company and other accounts managed by the Adviser or its affiliates, subject to certain conditions. We may also invest alongside our Adviser's other clients as otherwise permissible under regulatory guidance, applicable regulations and the allocation policy of our Adviser and its affiliates (including clients that may pay higher fees to the Adviser or its affiliates or in which our portfolio managers have personal interest in the receipt of such fess). If sufficient securities or loan amounts are available to satisfy our and each such account's proposed demand, we expect that the opportunity will be allocated in accordance with our Adviser's pre-transaction determination. Where there is an insufficient amount of an investment opportunity to satisfy us and other accounts sponsored or managed by our Adviser or its affiliates, the allocation policy further provides that allocations among us and such other accounts will generally be made pro rata, based on the amount that each such party would have invested if sufficient securities or loan amounts were available. The allocation policies and procedures are intended to assist the Adviser and its affiliates in ensuring that investment opportunities will be allocated to us fairly and equitably.

We will be subject to periodic examination by the SEC for compliance with the 1940 Act. Under the 1940 Act, we are required to provide and maintain a bond issued by a reputable fidelity insurance company to protect us against larceny and embezzlement. Furthermore, as a BDC, we are prohibited from protecting any director or officer against any liability to us or our stockholders arising from willful misfeasance, bad faith, gross negligence or reckless disregard of the duties involved in the conduct of such person's office.

We and the Adviser will each be required to adopt and implement written policies and procedures reasonably designed to prevent violation of the U.S. federal securities laws, review these policies and procedures annually for their adequacy and the effectiveness of their implementation, and designate a chief compliance officer to be responsible for administering the policies and procedures.

We are not generally able to issue and sell our common stock at a price below current net asset value per share. We may, however, issue and sell our common stock, or warrants, options or rights to acquire our common stock, at a price below the then-current net asset value per share of our common stock if the Board determines that such sale is in the best interests of us and our stockholders, and if our stockholders approve such sale within the preceding 12 months. In any such case, the price at which our securities are to be issued and sold may not be less than a price that, in the determination of the Board, closely approximates the fair value of such securities as determined by the Adviser, as the Company's valuation designee.

Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002

The Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 (the "Sarbanes-Oxley Act") imposes a wide variety of regulatory requirements on publicly held companies and their insiders. Many of these requirements will affect us. For example:

- pursuant to Rule 13a-14 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended ("Exchange Act"), our Chief Executive Officer and Chief Financial Officer must certify the accuracy of the financial statements contained in our periodic reports;
- pursuant to Item 307 of Regulation S-K under the Securities Act, our periodic reports must disclose our conclusions about the effectiveness of our disclosure controls and procedures;
- pursuant to Rule 13a-15 of the Exchange Act, our management must prepare an annual report regarding its assessment of our internal control over financial reporting.
- pursuant to Item 308 of Regulation S-K under the Securities Act and Rule 13a-15 under the Exchange Act, our periodic reports must disclose whether there were significant changes in our internal controls over financial reporting or in other factors that could significantly affect these controls subsequent to the date of their evaluation, including any corrective actions with regard to significant deficiencies and material weaknesses.

The Sarbanes-Oxley Act requires us to review our current policies and procedures to determine whether we comply with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and the regulations promulgated under it. We will continue to monitor our compliance with all regulations that are adopted under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and will take actions necessary to ensure that we are in compliance with that act.

Brokerage Allocation and Other Practices

Since we intend to generally acquire and dispose of our investments in privately negotiated transactions, we expect to infrequently use brokers in the normal course of our business. Subject to policies established by the Board, the Adviser will be primarily responsible for the execution of the publicly traded securities portion of our portfolio transactions and the allocation of brokerage commissions. The Adviser does not execute transactions through any particular broker or dealer, but seeks to obtain the best net results for us, considering such factors as (i) price (including the applicable brokerage commission or dealer spread), (ii) size of the order, (iii) difficulty of execution, (iv) operational facilities of the firm, (v) promptness of execution and past history in executing orders, (vi) clearance and settlement capabilities, (vii) research capabilities, (viii) access to markets and distribution network, (ix) the firm's risk and skill in positioning blocks of securities and (x) trade error rate and ability or willingness to correct errors. While the Adviser will generally seek reasonably competitive trade execution costs, we will not necessarily pay the lowest spread or commission available. Subject to applicable legal requirements, the Adviser may select a broker based partly upon brokerage, research or other services provided to it and us and any other clients. In return for such services, we may pay a higher commission than other brokers would charge if the Adviser determines in good faith that such commission is reasonable in relation to the services provided.

Tax Matters

The following is a general summary of some of the important U.S. federal income tax considerations affecting us and our common shareholders that are "United States persons" within the meaning of the Code, and does not address any state, local, foreign or other tax consequences. It reflects provisions of the Code, existing Treasury regulations, and other applicable authority, as of the date of this annual report. These authorities may be changed, possibly with retroactive effect, or subject to new legislative, administrative, or judicial interpretations. This summary does not purport to be a complete description of the U.S. federal income tax considerations applicable to our common shareholders. For example, except as otherwise specifically noted herein, we have not described certain tax considerations that may be relevant to certain types of holders subject to special treatment under the U.S. federal income tax laws, including shareholders subject to the U.S. federal alternative minimum tax, insurance companies, tax-exempt organizations, pension plans and trusts, RICs, dealers in securities, shareholders holding our shares through tax-advantaged accounts (such as 401(k) plans or individual retirement accounts), financial institutions, shareholders holding our shares as part of a hedge, straddle, or conversion transaction, entities that are not organized under the laws of the United States or a political subdivision thereof, and persons who are neither citizens nor residents of the United States. This summary assumes that investors hold our common shares as capital assets (within the meaning of the Code). Please consult your tax advisor about U.S. federal, state, local, foreign or other tax laws applicable to you, as the tax consequences to an investor in our common shares will depend on the facts of his, her or its particular situation.

Taxation of the Company

We have elected to be treated as a RIC under Subchapter M of the Code and intend each year to qualify and to be eligible to be treated as such.

In order to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, we must, among other things:

(i) derive at least 90% of our gross income for each taxable year from: (a) dividends, interest (including tax-exempt interest), payments with respect to certain securities loans, gains from the sale or other disposition of stock, securities or foreign currencies, or other income (including but not limited to gains from options, futures and forward contracts) derived with respect to our business of investing in such stock, securities or foreign currencies; and (b) net income derived from interests in "qualified publicly traded partnerships";

(ii) diversify our holdings so that, at the end of each quarter of our taxable year, (a) at least 50% of the market value of our total assets consists of cash and cash items, U.S. government securities, the securities of other RICs and other securities limited, in respect of any one issuer, to an amount not greater than 5% of the value of our total assets and not more than 10% of the outstanding voting securities of such issuer, and (b) not more than 25% of the value of our total assets is invested, including through corporations in which we own a 20% or more voting stock interest, (x) in the securities (other than U.S. government securities and the securities of other RICs) of any one issuer or of two or more issuers that we control, as determined under applicable Code rules, and that are determined to be engaged in the same business or similar or related trades or businesses, or (y) in the securities of one or more "qualified publicly traded partnerships"; and

(iii) distribute to our shareholders with respect to each taxable year at least 90% of the sum of our "investment company taxable income" (as that term is defined in the Code, without regard to the deduction for dividends paid—generally taxable ordinary income and the excess, if any, of net short-term capital gains over net long-term capital losses) and any net tax-exempt interest income (the excess of our gross tax-exempt interest over certain disallowed deductions), for such year, in a manner qualifying for the dividends paid deduction.

If we qualify as a RIC (i.e., satisfy the source of income and diversification requirements described in (i) and (ii) above) and satisfy the annual distribution requirement described in (iii) above, we will not be subject to U.S. federal income tax on income distributed in a timely manner to our shareholders in the form of dividends (including Capital Gain Dividends, as defined below).

If, for any taxable year, we were to fail to meet the income, diversification or distribution tests described above, we could in some cases cure such failure, including by paying a corporate-level tax, paying interest, making additional distributions or disposing of certain assets. If we were ineligible to or otherwise did not cure any such failure for any year, or if we were otherwise to fail to qualify as a RIC accorded special tax treatment for such year, we would be subject to tax on our taxable income at corporate rates, and all distributions from earnings and profits, including any distributions of net long-term capital gains, would be taxable to shareholders as ordinary income. Some portions of such distributions might be eligible for the dividends-received deduction in the case of corporate shareholders and might be eligible to be treated as "qualified dividend income" and thus taxable at the lower long-term capital gain rate in the case of shareholders taxed at individual rates, provided, in both cases, the shareholder met certain holding period and other requirements in respect of our shares (as described below). In addition, we might be required to recognize unrealized gains, pay substantial taxes and interest and make substantial distributions before requalifying as a RIC.

We intend to distribute at least annually to our shareholders all or substantially all of our investment company taxable income (computed without regard to the dividends-paid deduction) and, in general, our net capital gain (that is, the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss, in each case determined with reference to any loss carryforwards). Any investment company taxable income we retain will be subject to a corporate-level tax at regular corporate rates. We may also retain for investment our net capital gain. If we retain any net capital gain, it will be subject to corporate-level tax at regular corporate rates on the amount retained, but we may designate the retained amount as undistributed capital gains in a timely notice to our shareholders who would then, in turn, be (i) required to include in income for U.S. federal income tax purposes, as long-term capital gain, their shares of such undistributed amount, and (ii) entitled to credit their proportionate shares of the tax we paid on such undistributed amount against their U.S. federal income tax liabilities, if any, and to claim refunds on a properly-filed U.S. tax return to the extent the credit exceeds such liabilities. If we make this designation, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the tax basis of shares owned by one of our shareholders would be increased by an amount equal to the difference between the amount of undistributed capital gains included in the shareholder's gross income under clause (i) of the preceding sentence and the tax deemed paid by the shareholder under clause (ii) of the preceding sentence. We are not required to, and there can be no assurance we will, make this designation if we retain all or a portion of our net capital gain in a taxable year.

In determining its net capital gain, including in connection with determining the amount available to support a Capital Gain Dividend (as defined below), its taxable income, and its earnings and profits, a RIC generally may elect to treat part or all of any post-October capital loss (defined as any net capital loss attributable to the portion of the taxable year after October 31 or, if there is no such loss, the net long-term capital loss or net short-term capital loss attributable to such portion of the taxable year) or late-year ordinary loss (generally, the sum of its net ordinary loss from the sale, exchange or other taxable disposition of property, attributable to the portion of the taxable year after October 31, as if incurred in the succeeding taxable year.

If in a calendar year we fail to distribute at least an amount equal to the sum of 98% of our ordinary income for such year and 98.2% of our capital gain net income (adjusted for certain ordinary losses) for the one-year period ending on October 31 of such year (unless an election is made to use our taxable year), plus any such undistributed amounts from the prior year, we will be subject to a nondeductible 4% excise tax on the undistributed amounts. For purposes of the required excise tax distribution, a RIC's ordinary gains and losses from the sale, exchange or other taxable disposition of property that would otherwise be taken into account after October 31 of a calendar year generally (unless an election is made to use our taxable year) are treated as arising on January 1 of the following calendar year. Also, for these purposes, we will be treated as having distributed any amount on which we have been subject to corporate income tax in the taxable year ending with the calendar year. We reserve the right to pay the excise tax when circumstances warrant.

We are authorized to borrow funds and to sell assets in order to satisfy distribution requirements. However, under the 1940 Act, we are not permitted to make distributions to our stockholders while our debt obligations and other senior securities are outstanding unless certain "asset coverage" tests are met. Moreover, our ability to dispose of assets to meet our distribution requirements may be limited by (1) the illiquid nature of our portfolio and/or (2) other requirements relating to our qualification as a RIC, including the diversification test described above. If we dispose of assets in order to meet the distribution test described above or to avoid the excise tax on undistributed amounts, we may make such dispositions at times that, from an investment standpoint, are not advantageous.

We are not permitted to deduct capital losses in excess of capital gains ("net capital losses") against our net investment income. Instead, potentially subject to certain limitations, we may carry net capital losses from any taxable year forward to subsequent taxable years to offset capital gains, if any, realized during such subsequent taxable year. Capital loss carryforwards are reduced to the extent they offset current-year net realized capital gains, whether we retain or distribute such gains. Net capital losses will be carried forward to one or more subsequent taxable years without expiration to offset capital gains realized during such subsequent taxable years; any such carryforward losses will retain their character as short-term or long-term.

Our ability to use net capital losses may be limited following the occurrence of certain (i) acquisitive reorganizations and (ii) shifts in the ownership of our shares by a shareholder owning or treated as owning 5% or more of our shares (each, an "ownership change"). The Code may similarly limit our ability to use any of our other capital losses, or ordinary losses, that have accrued but have not been recognized (i.e., "built-in" losses) at the time of an ownership change to the extent they are realized within the five-year period following the ownership change.

Distributions not in excess of our current and accumulated earnings and profits are taxable to shareholders even if we paid them from income or gains, we earned before a shareholder invested in our shares (and such income and gains thus were included in the price the shareholder paid for its shares). Such distributions are taxable whether shareholders receive them in cash or reinvest them in additional shares through our distribution reinvestment plan. A shareholder who reinvests such distributions in shares through our distribution reinvestment plan will be treated as having received a dividend equal to the fair market value of the new shares issued to the shareholder.

Dividends and other distributions we pay are generally treated under the Code as received by shareholders at the time the dividend or distribution is made. However, a dividend paid to shareholders in January of a year generally is deemed to have been paid by us on December 31 of the preceding year, if the dividend was declared and payable to shareholders of record on a date in October, November or December of that preceding year.

The price of common shares purchased at any time may reflect the amount of a forthcoming distribution. If you purchase common shares just prior to a distribution, you will receive a distribution that will be taxable to you even though it economically represents in part a return of your invested capital.

Your broker or other intermediary will send you information after the end of each year setting forth the amount and tax status of any dividends or other distributions, we pay to you.

For U.S. federal income tax purposes, distributions of investment income are generally taxable as ordinary income. Taxes on distributions of capital gains are determined by how long we have owned or are treated as having owned the investments that generated them, rather than how long a shareholder has owned his or her shares. In general, we will recognize long-term capital gain or loss on investments we have owned (or are deemed to have owned) for more than one year, and short-term capital gain or loss on investments we have owned (or are deemed to have owned) for one year or less. Distributions of net capital gain that we properly report as capital gain dividends ("Capital Gain Dividends") will generally be taxable to shareholders as long-term capital gains. Distributions from capital gains are generally made after applying any available capital loss carryforwards. Distributions of net short-term capital gain (that is, the excess of net short-term capital gain over net long-term capital loss) will generally be taxable to shareholders receiving such distributions as ordinary income. Distributions of investment income we report as derived from "qualified dividend income" will be taxed in the hands of individuals at the rates applicable to long-term capital gain, provided holding period and other requirements are met at both the shareholder and corporate level. We do not expect a significant portion of our distributions to be derived from qualified dividend income.

In order for some portion of the dividends received by one of our shareholders to be qualified dividend income, we must meet holding period and other requirements with respect to some portion of the dividend-paying stocks in our portfolio and the shareholder must meet holding period and other requirements with respect to our shares. In general, a dividend will not be treated as qualified dividend income (at either the corporate or shareholder level) (1) if the dividend is received with respect to any share of stock held for fewer than 61 days during the 121-day period beginning on the date which is 60 days before the date on which such share becomes ex-dividend with respect to such dividend (or, in the case of certain preferred stock, 91 days during the 181-day period beginning 90 days before such date), (2) to the extent that the recipient is under an obligation (whether pursuant to a short sale or otherwise) to make related payments with respect to positions in substantially similar or related property, (3) if the recipient elects to have the dividend income treated as investment income for purposes of the limitation on deductibility of investment interest, or (4) if the dividend is received from a foreign corporation that is (a) not eligible for the benefits of a comprehensive income tax treaty with the United States (with the exception of dividends paid on stock of such a foreign corporation readily tradable on an established securities market in the United States) or (b) treated as a passive foreign investment company.

In general, dividends of net investment income received by our corporate shareholders will qualify for the dividends-received deduction generally available to corporations to the extent of the amount of eligible dividends we receive from domestic corporations for the taxable year. A dividend we receive will not be treated as a qualifying dividend (i) if it has been received with respect to any share of stock that we have held for less than 46 days (91 days in the case of certain preferred stock) during the 91-day period beginning on the date which is 45 days before the date on which such share becomes ex-dividend with respect to such dividend (during the 181-day period beginning 90 days before such date in the case of certain preferred stock) or (ii) to the extent that we are under an obligation (pursuant to a short sale or otherwise) to make related payments with respect to positions in substantially similar or related property. Moreover, the dividends-received deduction may be disallowed or reduced (i) if the corporate shareholder fails to satisfy the foregoing requirements with respect to our shares or (ii) by application of various provisions of the Code (for instance, the dividends-received deduction is reduced in the case of a dividend received on debt-financed portfolio stock (generally, stock acquired with borrowed funds)). We do not expect a significant portion of our distributions to be eligible for this corporate dividends-received deduction.

Any distribution of income that is attributable to (i) income we receive in lieu of dividends with respect to securities on loan pursuant to a securities lending transaction or (ii) dividend income we receive on securities we temporarily purchased from a counterparty pursuant to a repurchase agreement under which for U.S. federal income tax purposes we are treated as a lender, such distribution will not constitute qualified dividend income to individual shareholders and will not be eligible for the dividends-received deduction for corporate shareholders.

Effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 2017 and before January 1, 2026, the Code generally allows individuals and certain other non-corporate entities a deduction for 20% of "qualified publicly traded partnership income," such as income from MLPs, and a deduction for 20% of qualified REIT dividends. Recently issued proposed regulations, which are currently in effect, allow a RIC to pass the character of its qualified REIT dividends through to its shareholders provided certain holding period requirements are met. As a result, a shareholder in the Company will be eligible receive the benefit of the same 20% deduction with respect to any qualified REIT dividends included in Company distributions that is available to direct investors in REITs, but a shareholder in the Company will not currently receive the benefit of the 20% deduction with respect to any MLP income included in Company distributions.

The Code generally imposes a 3.8% Medicare contribution tax on the "net investment income" of certain individuals, estates and trusts to the extent their income exceeds certain amounts. Net investment income generally includes for this purpose dividends we pay, including any capital gain dividends and net capital gains recognized on the sale or exchange of our shares. Shareholders are advised to consult their tax advisors regarding the possible implications of this additional tax on their investment with us.

If for any taxable year we were not a "publicly offered" RIC within the meaning of Code Section 67(c)(2)(B), certain of our direct and indirect expenses, including the management fee, the incentive fee and certain other advisory expenses, would be subject to special "pass-through" rules. Such rules would treat these expenses as additional dividends to certain of our direct or indirect shareholders (generally including other RICs that are not "publicly offered," individuals and entities that compute their taxable income in the same manner as an individual) and, under current law, are not deductible by those shareholders that are individuals (or entities that compute their taxable income in the same manner as an individual).

Return of Capital Distributions

If, for any taxable year, our total distributions exceed both current and accumulated earnings and profits, the excess will generally be treated as a tax-free return of capital up to the amount of your tax basis in our shares. The amount treated as a tax-free return of capital will reduce your tax basis in our shares, thereby increasing your potential gain or reducing your potential loss on the subsequent sale of our shares. Any amounts distributed to you in excess of your tax basis in our shares will be taxable to you as capital gain.

Distributions we pay with respect to our shares are generally subject to U.S. federal income tax as described herein to the extent they do not exceed our realized income and gains, even though such dividends and distributions may economically represent a return of a particular shareholder's investment. Such distributions are likely to occur in respect of shares purchased at a time when our net asset value reflects either unrealized gains, or realized but undistributed income or gains, that were therefore included in the price the shareholder paid. Such distributions may reduce the value of our shares below the shareholder's cost basis in those shares. As described above, we are required to distribute realized income and gains regardless of whether our net asset value also reflects unrealized losses.

Tax Implications of Certain Investments

Some debt obligations with a fixed maturity date of more than one year from the date of issuance that we acquire in the secondary market may be treated as having "market discount." Very generally, market discount is the excess of the stated redemption price of a debt obligation (or in the case of an obligation issued with OID (as defined below), its "revised issue price") over the purchase price of such obligation. Subject to the discussion below regarding Section 451 of the Code, generally, any gain recognized on the disposition of, and any partial payment of principal on, a debt obligation having market discount is treated as ordinary income to the extent the gain, or principal payment, does not exceed the "accrued market discount" on such debt obligation. Alternatively, a holder may elect to accrue market discount currently. As of the date of this prospectus, we have made this election, and therefore we are required to include currently any accrued market discount on such debt obligations in our taxable income (as ordinary income) and thus distribute it over the terms of the obligations, even though payment of those amounts is not received until a later time, upon partial or full repayment or disposition of the applicable debt obligations. We reserve the right to revoke this election at any time pursuant to applicable IRS procedures. The rate at which market discount accrues, and thus is included in our income, will depend upon which of the permitted accrual methods we elect.

In addition, some debt obligations with a fixed maturity date of more than one year from the date of issuance (and zero-coupon debt obligations with a fixed maturity date of more than one year from the date of issuance) that we originate or acquire will be treated as debt obligations that are issued originally at a discount. Generally, the amount of the original issue discount ("OID") is treated as interest income and is included in taxable income (and we are required to distribute it) over the term of the debt obligation, even though payment of that amount is not received until a later time, upon partial or full repayment or disposition of the debt obligation. In addition, payment-in-kind ("PIK") securities we originate or acquire will give rise to income which is required to be distributed and is taxable even though we receive no interest payment in cash on the security during the year in which the income was accrued.

Some debt obligations with a fixed maturity date of one year or less from the date of issuance that we originate or acquire may be treated as having OID or, in certain cases, "acquisition discount" (very generally, the excess of the stated redemption price over the purchase price). Generally, we will be required to include the OID or acquisition discount in income (as ordinary income) over the term of the debt obligation and thus distribute it over the term of the debt obligation, even though payment of that amount is not received until a later time, upon partial or full repayment or disposition of the debt obligation. The rate at which OID or acquisition discount accrues, and thus is included in our income, will depend upon which of the permitted accrual methods we elect.

Some preferred securities may include provisions that permit the issuer, at its discretion, to defer the payment of distributions for a stated period without any adverse consequences to the issuer. If we own a preferred security that is deferring the payment of its distributions, we may be required to report income for U.S. federal income tax purposes to the extent of any such deferred distribution even though we have not yet actually received the cash distribution.

As a result of holding the foregoing kinds of obligations, we may be required to pay out as an income distribution each year an amount which is greater than the total amount of cash interest (or dividends in the case of preferred securities) we actually received. Such distributions may be made from, among other things, our cash assets or cash generated from our liquidation of portfolio securities. We may realize gains or losses from such liquidations. In the event we realize net long-term or short-term capital gains from such transactions, our shareholders may receive a larger capital gain or ordinary dividend, respectively, than they would in the absence of such transactions.

Investments in distressed debt obligations that are at risk of or in default present special tax issues. Tax rules are not entirely clear about issues such as whether and to what extent we should recognize market discount on these debt obligations; when we may cease to accrue interest, OID or market discount; when and to what extent we may take deductions for bad debts or worthless securities; and how we should allocate payments received on obligations in default between principal and income. We will address these and other related issues when, as and if we invest in such obligations, in order to seek to ensure that we distribute sufficient income to preserve our eligibility for treatment as a RIC and do not become subject to U.S. federal income or excise tax.

A portion of the OID accrued on certain high-yield discount obligations we own may not be deductible to the issuer and will instead be treated as a dividend paid by the issuer for purposes of the dividends-received deduction. In such cases, if the issuer of the obligation is a domestic corporation, dividend payments we make may be eligible for the dividends-received deduction to the extent of the deemed dividend portion of such OID.

Our transactions in foreign currencies, foreign currency-denominated debt obligations and certain foreign currency options, futures contracts and forward contracts (and similar instruments) may give rise to ordinary income or loss to the extent such income or loss results from fluctuations in the value of the foreign currency concerned. Such ordinary income treatment may accelerate our distributions to shareholders and increase the distributions taxed to shareholders as ordinary income. We cannot carry forward any net ordinary losses so created to offset income or gains earned in subsequent years.

Special tax rules may change the treatment of gains and losses we recognize when we make certain investments outside the United States. The application of these special rules may accelerate or increase our recognition of ordinary income or loss, and affect the timing, amount and/or character of our distributions. In addition, dividend, interest, capital gains and other income we receive from investments outside the United States may be subject to withholding and other taxes imposed by foreign countries. Tax treaties between the United States and other countries may reduce or eliminate such taxes. We do not expect that we will be eligible to elect to treat any foreign taxes we pay as paid by our shareholders, and therefore shareholders will not be entitled to claim a credit or deduction for such taxes on their own tax returns. Foreign taxes we pay or are withheld from us will reduce the return from our underlying investments.

Some of our investments outside the United States, including our CLO investments, may be treated as investments in passive foreign investment companies ("PFICs"), as defined below, and could subject us to U.S. federal income tax (including interest charges) on distributions received from a PFIC or on proceeds received from the disposition of shares in a PFIC, which tax cannot be eliminated by making distributions to our shareholders. However, we may elect to avoid the imposition of that tax. For example, we may elect to treat a PFIC as a "qualified electing fund" ("QEF") (i.e., make a "QEF election"), in which case we will be required to include our share of the PFIC's income and net capital gain annually, regardless of whether it receives any distribution from the PFIC. Alternatively, we may elect to mark the gains (and to a limited extent the losses) in such holdings "to the market" as though we had sold (and, solely for purposes of this mark-to-market election, repurchased) our holdings in those PFICs on the last day of our taxable year. Such gains and losses are treated as ordinary income and loss. The QEF and mark-to-market elections may have the effect of accelerating the recognition of income (without the receipt of cash) and increasing the amount required to be distributed for us to avoid taxation. Making either of these elections therefore may require us to liquidate other investments (including when it is not advantageous to do so) to meet our distribution requirement, which also may accelerate the recognition of gain and affect our total return. Dividends paid by PFICs will not be eligible to be treated as qualified dividend income. In addition, whether a foreign corporation is a PFIC is not always entirely clear. Therefore, there is a risk, for example, that we may not realize that a foreign corporation in which we invest is a PFIC for U.S. federal tax purposes and thus we may fail to timely make a QEF or mark-to-market election in respect of that corporation, in which event we could be subject to the U.S. federal income taxes and interest charges described above.

A PFIC is any foreign corporation in which (i) 75% or more of the gross income for the taxable year is passive income, or (ii) the average percentage of the assets (generally by value, but by adjusted tax basis in certain cases) that produce, or are held for the production of, passive income is at least 50%. Generally, passive income for this purpose means dividends, interest (including income equivalent to interest), royalties, rents, annuities, the excess of gains over losses from certain property transactions and commodities transactions, income from certain notional principal contracts, and foreign currency gains. Passive income for this purpose does not include rents and royalties received by the foreign corporation from active business and certain income received from related persons.

If we own (directly or indirectly) 10% or more of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock of a foreign corporation or 10% or more of the total value of shares of all classes of stock of a foreign corporation that is treated as a controlled foreign corporation ("CFC") (including equity tranche investments and certain debt tranche investments in a CLO treated as CFC), we are a "U.S. Shareholder" for purposes of the CFC provisions of the Code. A CFC is a foreign corporation that, on any day of its taxable year, is owned (directly, indirectly, or constructively) more than 50% (measured by voting power or value) by U.S. Shareholders. A U.S. Shareholder is required to include in gross income for U.S. federal income tax purposes for each taxable year of the U.S. Shareholder its pro rata share of its CFC's "subpart F income" for the CFC's taxable year ending within the U.S. Shareholder's taxable year whether or not such income is actually distributed by the CFC. Subpart F income generally includes interest, OID, dividends, net gains from the disposition of stocks or securities, net gains from transactions (including futures, forward, and similar transactions) in commodities, receipts with respect to securities loans, and net payments received with respect to equity swaps and similar derivatives. Subpart F income is treated as ordinary income, regardless of the character of the CFC's underlying income. To the extent we invest in CFCs, if any, and recognize subpart F income in excess of actual cash distributions from such CFCs, if any, we may be required to sell assets (including when it is not advantageous to do so) to generate the cash necessary to distribute as dividends to our shareholders all of our income and gains and therefore to eliminate any corporate-level tax liability.

We may make certain investments through one or more wholly-owned entities treated as corporations for U.S. federal income tax purposes. Such corporations may be required to pay U.S. federal, state and local corporate income or other tax on their earnings, which ultimately will reduce the return on our underlying investments.

Income we realize from or the proceeds of dispositions of our non-U.S. investments may be subject to non-U.S. withholding or other taxes. We may otherwise be subject to non-U.S. taxation on repatriation proceeds generated from those investments or to other transaction-based non-U.S. taxes on those investments. Those withholding taxes or other taxes as well as any U.S. withholding taxes applicable to our investments, including in respect of investments in our wholly-owned subsidiaries, if any, will reduce the return on our investments.

Our derivative transactions, as well as any of our other hedging, short sale or similar transactions, may be subject to one or more special tax rules (including, for instance, notional principal contract, mark-to-market, constructive sale, straddle, wash sale and short-sale rules). These rules may affect whether gains and losses we recognize are treated as ordinary or capital and/or as short-term or long-term, accelerate our recognition of income or gains, defer losses, and cause adjustments in the holding periods of our securities. The rules could therefore affect the amount, timing and/or character of our distributions to shareholders.

Because the tax rules applicable to derivative financial instruments are in some cases uncertain under current law, an adverse determination or future guidance by the IRS with respect to these rules (which determination or guidance could be retroactive) may affect whether we have made sufficient distributions, and otherwise satisfied the relevant requirements, to maintain our qualification as a RIC and avoid a corporate-level tax.

Certain of our derivative transactions and investments in foreign currency-denominated instruments, and any of our transactions in foreign currencies and hedging activities, are likely to produce a difference between our book income and the sum of our taxable income and net tax-exempt income (if any). If such a difference arises, and our book income is less than the sum of our taxable income and net tax-exempt income (if any), we could be required to make distributions exceeding book income to qualify as a RIC that is accorded special tax treatment and to avoid a corporate-level tax. In the alternative, if our book income exceeds the sum of our taxable income and net tax-exempt income (if any), the distribution (if any) of such excess generally will be treated as (i) a dividend to the extent of our remaining earnings and profits (including earnings and profits arising from any tax-exempt income), (ii) thereafter, as a return of capital to the extent of the recipient's basis in its shares, and (iii) thereafter, as gain from the sale or exchange of a capital asset.

Pursuant to a notice issued by the IRS and Treasury Regulations that have yet to be issued but may apply retroactively, a portion of our income (including income allocated from certain pass-through entities) that is attributable to a residual interest in a real estate mortgage investment conduit or taxable mortgage pool (referred to in the Code as an "excess inclusion") will be subject to U.S. federal income tax in all events. This notice also provides, and the regulations are expected to provide, that excess inclusion income of a RIC will be allocated to shareholders of the RIC in proportion to the dividends received by such shareholders, with the same consequences as if the shareholders held the related interest directly. As a result, to the extent we invest in any such interests, it may not be a suitable investment for certain tax-exempt shareholders. Although we do not expect to make investments that generate or pass- through excess inclusion income in the manner described above, we may make such investments, and may need to make certain elections set forth in the IRS notice governing such matters.

In general, excess inclusion income allocated to shareholders (i) cannot be offset by net operating losses (subject to a limited exception for certain thrift institutions), (ii) will constitute unrelated business taxable income ("UBTI") to entities (including a qualified pension plan, an individual retirement account, a 401(k) plan, a Keogh plan or other tax-exempt entity) subject to tax on UBTI, thereby potentially requiring such an entity that is allocated excess inclusion income, and otherwise might not be required to file a U.S. federal income tax return, to file such a tax return and pay tax on such income, and (iii) in the case of a non-U.S. shareholder, will not qualify for any reduction in U.S. federal withholding tax. A shareholder will be subject to U.S. federal income tax on such inclusions notwithstanding any exemption from such income tax otherwise available under the Code.

Our ability to pursue our investment strategy, including a strategy focused on investments in CLOs, certain debt instruments and the generation of fee income, may be limited by our intention to qualify as a RIC and our strategy may bear adversely on our ability to so qualify.

Backup Withholding

Your broker or other intermediary may be required to withhold, for U.S. federal backup withholding tax purposes, a portion of the dividends, distributions and redemption proceeds payable to a non-corporate shareholder who fails to provide the broker or other intermediary with the shareholder's correct taxpayer identification number (in the case of an individual, generally, such individual's social security number) or to make the required certification, or who has been notified by the IRS that such shareholder is subject to backup withholding. Certain shareholders are exempt from backup withholding. Backup withholding is not an additional tax and any amount withheld may be refunded or credited against your U.S. federal income tax liability, if any, provided that you furnish the required information to the IRS.

Sale or Exchange of Our Shares

If you sell or otherwise dispose of our common shares, you will generally recognize a gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between your tax basis in such shares and the amount you receive in exchange for such shares. Any such gain or loss generally will be long-term capital gain or loss if you have held (or are treated as having held) such shares for more than one year at the time of sale. All or a portion of any loss you realize on a taxable sale or exchange of your shares will be disallowed if you acquire other shares from us (whether through the automatic reinvestment of dividends or otherwise) within a 61-day period beginning 30 days before and ending 30 days after your sale or exchange of our shares. In such case, the basis of the shares acquired will be adjusted to reflect the disallowed loss. In addition, any loss realized upon a taxable sale or exchange of our shares held (or deemed held) by you for six months or less will be treated as long-term, rather than short-term, to the extent of any capital gain dividends received (or deemed received) by you with respect to those shares.

You may be entitled to offset your Capital Gain Dividends with capital loss. The Code contains a number of statutory provisions affecting the circumstances under which capital loss may be offset against capital gain and limiting the use of loss from certain investments and activities. Accordingly, if you have capital losses, we urge you to consult your tax advisor.

Upon the sale or exchange of our common shares, your broker or other intermediary generally will be required to provide you and the IRS with cost basis and certain other related tax information about the shares you sold or exchanged. This cost basis reporting requirement is effective for shares purchased, including through dividend reinvestment. Please consult your broker or other intermediary for more information regarding available methods for cost basis reporting and how to select a particular method. Please consult your tax advisor to determine which available cost basis method is best for you.

When we make a tender offer for our shares (as described in "Share Repurchase Program") and you tender all common shares you hold, or are considered to be holding, and you do not hold (directly or by attribution) any other units of our shares (e.g., preferred shares, if any), you will be treated as having sold your shares and generally will realize a capital gain or loss. If you tender fewer than all of your common shares or continue to hold (directly or by attribution) other units of our shares (e.g., preferred shares, if any), there is some risk that you may be treated as having received a distribution under Section 301 of the Code ("Section 301 distribution") unless the redemption is treated as being either (i) "substantially disproportionate" or (ii) otherwise "not essentially equivalent to a dividend" under the relevant rules of the Code. A Section 301 distribution is not treated as a sale or exchange giving rise to a capital gain or loss, but rather is treated as a dividend to the extent supported by our current and accumulated earnings and profits, with the excess treated as a return of capital reducing your tax basis in Company shares, and thereafter as capital gain. Where a redeeming shareholder is treated as receiving a dividend, there is a risk that non-tendering shareholders whose interests in the Company increase as a result of such tender will be treated as having received a taxable distribution from us. Dividend treatment of a tender would also affect the amount and character of income that we are required to distribute for the year in which the redemption occurred. It is possible that such a dividend would qualify as "qualified dividend income"; otherwise, it would be taxable as ordinary income. To the extent we recognize net gains on the liquidation of portfolio securities to meet such tenders, we will be required to make additional distributions to our common shareholders.

Non-U.S. Shareholders

Distributions we pay to shareholders that are not "U.S. persons" within the meaning of the Code ("foreign shareholders") and that we properly report as (1) Capital Gain Dividends, (2) interest-related dividends, and (3) short-term capital gain dividends, each as defined below and subject to certain conditions described below, generally are not subject to withholding of U.S. federal income tax.

In general, the Code defines (1) "short-term capital gain dividends" as distributions of net short-term capital gains in excess of net long-term capital losses and (2) "interest-related dividends" as distributions from U.S. source interest income of types similar to those not subject to U.S. federal income tax if earned directly by an individual foreign shareholder, in each case to the extent such distributions are properly reported as such by us in a written notice to shareholders. The exceptions to withholding for Capital Gain Dividends and short-term capital gain dividends do not apply to (A) distributions to an individual foreign shareholder who is present in the United States for a period or periods aggregating 183 days or more during the year of the distribution and (B) distributions attributable to gain that is treated as effectively connected with the conduct by the foreign shareholder of a trade or business within the United States under special rules regarding the disposition of U.S. real property interests. The exception to withholding for "interest-related dividends" does not apply to distributions to a foreign shareholder (A) that has not provided a satisfactory statement that the beneficial owner is not a U.S. person, (B) to the extent that the dividend is attributable to certain interest on an obligation if the foreign shareholder is the issuer or is a 10% shareholder of the issuer, (C) that is within certain foreign countries that have inadequate information exchange with the United States, or (D) to the extent the dividend is attributable to interest paid by a person that is a related person of the foreign shareholder and the foreign shareholder is a controlled foreign corporation. We are permitted to report such part of our dividends as interest-related and/or short-term capital gain dividends as are eligible, but are not required to do so. In the case of shares held through an intermediary, the intermediary may withhold even if we report all or a portion of a payment as an interest-related or short-term capital gain dividend to shareholders.

Foreign shareholders should contact their intermediaries regarding the application of these rules to their accounts.

Distributions to foreign shareholders other than Capital Gain Dividends, interest-related dividends, and short-term capital gain dividends (e.g., dividends attributable to dividend and foreign-source interest income or to short-term capital gains or U.S. source interest income to which the exception from withholding described above does not apply) are generally subject to withholding of U.S. federal income tax at a rate of 30% (or lower applicable treaty rate).

A foreign shareholder is not, in general, subject to U.S. federal income tax on gains (and is not allowed a deduction for losses) realized on the sale of our shares unless (i) such gain is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business carried on by such holder within the United States, (ii) in the case of an individual holder, the holder is present in the United States for a period or periods aggregating 183 days or more during the year of the sale and certain other conditions are met, or (iii) certain special rules relating to gain attributable to the sale or exchange of U.S. real property interests apply to the foreign shareholder's sale of our shares.

Foreign shareholders with respect to whom income from us is effectively connected with a trade or business conducted by the foreign shareholder within the United States will in general be subject to U.S. federal income tax on the income derived from us at the graduated rates applicable to U.S. citizens, residents or domestic corporations, whether such income is received in cash or reinvested in additional units of our shares and, in the case of a foreign corporation, may also be subject to a branch profits tax. If a foreign shareholder is eligible for the benefits of a tax treaty, any effectively connected income or gain will generally be subject to U.S. federal income tax on a net basis only if it is also attributable to a permanent establishment maintained by the shareholder in the United States. More generally, foreign shareholders who are residents of a country with an income tax treaty with the United States may obtain different tax results than those described herein and are urged to consult their tax advisors.

In order to have qualified for any exemption from withholding described above (to the extent applicable) or for lower withholding tax rates under income tax treaties, or to establish an exemption from backup withholding, a foreign shareholder must have complied with applicable certification and filing requirements relating to its non-U.S. status (including, in general, furnishing an IRS Form W-8BEN, Form W-8BEN-E or substitute form). Foreign shareholders should contact their tax advisors in this regard.

Special rules (including withholding and reporting requirements) apply to foreign partnerships and those holding our shares through foreign partnerships. Additional considerations may apply to foreign trusts and estates. Investors holding our shares through foreign entities should consult their tax advisors.

A foreign shareholder may be subject to state and local tax and to the U.S. federal estate tax in addition to the U.S. federal tax on income referred to above.

Other Reporting and Withholding Requirements

Sections 1471-1474 of the Code, and the U.S. Treasury Regulations and IRS guidance issued thereunder (collectively, "FATCA"), generally require us to obtain information sufficient to identify the status of each of our shareholders under FATCA or under an applicable intergovernmental agreement (an "IGA"). If a shareholder fails to provide the required information or otherwise fails to comply with FATCA or an IGA, we or our agent may be required to withhold under FATCA 30% of ordinary dividends that we pay to that shareholder and, after December 31, 2018, 30% of the gross proceeds of the sale, redemption or exchange of our shares and certain capital gain dividends we pay to that shareholder. If we make a payment that is subject to FATCA withholding, we, or our agent, are required to withhold even if the payment would otherwise be exempt from withholding under rules applicable to non-U.S. shareholders (e.g., Capital Gain Dividends, short-term capital gain dividends and interest-related dividends). You are urged to consult your tax advisor regarding the applicability of FATCA and any other reporting requirements. In addition, foreign countries are considering, and may implement, laws similar in purpose and scope to FATCA.

The discussions set forth herein do not constitute tax advice, and you are urged to consult your own tax adviser to determine the specific U.S. federal, state, local and foreign tax consequences to you of investing with us.

Item 1A. Risk Factors.

Before you invest in our shares you should be aware of various risks associated with an investment in shares of our common stock, as well as risks generally associated with investment in a company with investment objectives, investment policies, capital structure or trading markets similar to ours. You should carefully consider these risk factors, together with all of the other information included in this annual report on Form 10-K and the other reports and documents filed by us with the SEC before you decide whether to make an investment in our common stock. The risks set out below are not the only risks we face. Additional risks and uncertainties not currently known to us or that we currently deem to be immaterial also may materially adversely affect our business, financial condition and/or results of operations. If any of the following events occur, our business, financial condition and results of operations could be materially adversely affected. In such case, our net asset value and the trading price of our common stock could decline, and you may lose all or part of your investment.

Geopolitical concerns and other global events, including, without limitation, trade conflict, national and international political circumstances (including wars, terrorist acts or security operations) and pandemics or other severe public health events, have contributed and may continue to contribute to volatility in global equity and debt markets. Such concerns have contributed and may continue to contribute to volatility in global equity and debt markets.

An outbreak of respiratory disease caused by a novel coronavirus was first detected in China in December 2019 and subsequently spread globally ("COVID-19"). This coronavirus has resulted and may continue to result in the closing of borders, enhanced health screenings, healthcare service preparation and delivery, quarantines, cancellations, disruptions to supply chains and customer activity, as well as general anxiety and economic uncertainty.

The impact of this coronavirus may be short-term or may last for an extended period of time and has resulted in and may continue to result in a substantial economic downturn. Health crises caused by outbreaks of disease, such as the coronavirus, may exacerbate other pre-existing political, social and economic risks. This impact of this outbreak, and other epidemics and pandemics that may arise in the future, could continue to negatively affect the global economy, as well as the economies of individual countries, individual companies and the market in general in significant and unforeseen ways. For example, a widespread health crisis such as a global pandemic could cause substantial market volatility, exchange trading suspensions and closures, and impact the Company's ability to complete repurchase requests. Any such impact could adversely affect the Company's performance, the performance of the securities in which the Company invests, lines of credit available to the Company and may lead to losses on your investment in the Company. In addition, the increasing interconnectedness of markets around the world may result in many markets being affected by events or conditions in a single country or region or events affecting a single or small number of issuers.

The United States responded to the coronavirus pandemic and resulting economic distress with fiscal and monetary stimulus packages, including the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (the "CARES Act") passed in late March 2020. The CARES Act provides for over $2.2 trillion in resources to small businesses, state and local governments, and individuals adversely impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Further, in March 2021, the government passed the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021, a $1.9 trillion stimulus bill to accelerate the United States' recovery from the economic and health effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition, in mid-March 2020, the Fed cut interest rates to historically low levels and announced a new round of quantitative easing, including purchases of corporate and municipal government bonds. The Fed also enacted various programs to support liquidity operations and funding in the financial markets, including expanding its reverse repurchase agreement operations, which added $1.5 trillion of liquidity to the banking system; establishing swap lines with other major central banks to provide dollar funding; establishing a program to support money market funds; easing various bank capital buffers; providing funding backstops for businesses to provide bridging loans for up to four years; and providing funding to help credit flow in asset-backed securities markets. In addition, the Fed extended credit to small- and medium-sized businesses. As the Fed "tapers" or reduces the amount of securities it purchases pursuant to quantitative easing, and/or if the Fed raises the federal funds rate, there is a risk that interest rates will rise, which could expose fixed-income and related markets to heightened volatility and could cause the value of a fund's investments, and the fund's NAV, to decline, potentially suddenly and significantly. As a result, the Company may experience high redemptions and, as a result, increased portfolio turnover, which could increase the costs that the Company incurs and may negatively impact the Company's performance. There is no assurance that the U.S. government's support in response to COVID-19 economic distress will offset the adverse impact to securities in which the Company may invest and future governmental support is not guaranteed.

In addition to the factors described above, other factors described herein that may affect market, economic and geopolitical conditions, and thereby adversely affect our business include, without limitation:

- economic slowdown in the U.S. and internationally;
- changes in interest rates and/or a lack of availability of credit in the U.S. and internationally;
- commodity price volatility; and
- changes in law and/or regulation, and uncertainty regarding government and regulatory policy.

Risks Relating to our Business and Structure

Operating under the constraints imposed on us as a BDC and RIC may hinder the achievement of our investment objective.

The 1940 Act and the Code impose numerous constraints on the operations of business development companies and RICs that do not apply to certain other investment vehicles managed by the Adviser and its affiliates. Business development companies are required, for example, to invest at least 70% of their total assets primarily in securities of U.S. private or thinly traded public companies, cash, cash equivalents, U.S. government securities and other high-quality debt instruments that mature in one year or less from the date of investment. Subject to certain exceptions for follow-on investments and distressed companies, an investment in an issuer that has outstanding securities listed on a national securities exchange may be treated as qualifying assets only if such issuer has a common equity market capitalization that is less than $250 million at the time of such investment. In addition, qualification for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders requires satisfaction of source-of-income, asset diversification and distribution requirements. We and our Adviser have limited experience operating under the constraints applicable to BDCs, which may hinder our ability to take advantage of attractive investment opportunities and to achieve our investment objective. As a result, we cannot assure you that our Adviser will be able to operate our business successfully under these constraints. Any failure to do so could subject us to enforcement action by the SEC, cause us to fail to satisfy the requirements for qualifying to be treated as a RIC, cause us to fail the 70% test described above or otherwise have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition or results of operations.

We may be precluded from investing in what we believe are attractive investments if such investments are not qualifying assets for purposes of the 1940 Act. If we do not invest a sufficient portion of our assets in qualifying assets, we could violate the 1940 Act provisions applicable to business development companies and possibly lose our status as a BDC, which would have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. Similarly, these rules could prevent us from making follow-on investments in existing portfolio companies (which could result in the dilution of our position) or could require us to dispose of investments at inopportune times in order to comply with the 1940 Act. If we need to dispose of such investments quickly, it may be difficult to do so on favorable terms, or at all. For example, we may have difficulty finding a buyer and, even if we do find a buyer, we may have to sell such investments for less than we could have received if we were able to sell them at a later time.

We depend upon key personnel of the Adviser and its affiliates.

We are an externally managed BDC and therefore we do not have any internal management capacity or employees. We will depend on the diligence, skill and network of business contacts of the Adviser to achieve our investment objective. We expect the Adviser to evaluate, negotiate, structure, close and monitor our investments in accordance with the terms of the Investment Advisory Agreement.

We depend upon the senior professionals of the Adviser to maintain relationships with potential sources of lending opportunities, and we intend to rely heavily upon these relationships to provide us with potential investment opportunities. We cannot assure you that these individuals will continue to indirectly provide investment advice to us. We do not intend to purchase any "key person" insurance coverage respecting such investment personnel. If these individuals do not maintain their existing relationships with our Adviser, maintain existing relationships or develop new relationships with other sources of investment opportunities, we may not be able to grow our investment portfolio. In addition, individuals with whom the senior professionals of our Adviser have relationships are not obligated to provide us with investment opportunities. Therefore, we can offer no assurance that such relationships will generate investment opportunities for us.

If our Adviser is unable to manage our investments effectively, we may be unable to achieve our investment objective.

Our ability to achieve our investment objective will depend upon our ability to manage and grow our business. This will depend, in turn, on our Adviser's ability to identify, invest in and monitor companies that meet our investment criteria. The achievement of our investment objective on a cost-effective basis will depend upon our Adviser's execution of our investment process, its ability to provide competent, attentive and efficient services to us and our access to financing on acceptable terms. Our Adviser will have substantial responsibilities under the Investment Advisory Agreement. The personnel of our Adviser are engaged in other business activities and may be called upon to provide managerial assistance to our portfolio companies, either of which could distract them, divert their time and attention such that they could no longer dedicate a significant portion of their time to our businesses or otherwise slow our rate of investment. Any failure to manage our business and our future growth effectively could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

An investment in our shares is not an investment in existing funds, accounts or other investment vehicles managed by the Adviser or its affiliates except to the extent that we, consistent with the 1940 Act, invest in such entities. Our performance, therefore, is distinct from the prior performance of such entities.

Our primary focus in making investments generally differs from that of existing investment funds, accounts or other investment vehicles that are or have been managed or sponsored by the Adviser or its affiliates. In addition, investors in our common stock are not acquiring an interest in any such investment funds, accounts or other investment vehicles that are or have been managed or sponsored by the Adviser or its affiliates. While we may consider co-investing in portfolio investments with other investment funds, accounts or investment vehicles managed or sponsored by the Adviser or its affiliates, our ability to make such investments will be limited by the 1940 Act, including, potentially, requiring the prior approval of our independent directors. We and the Adviser have obtained an exemptive order dated April 19, 2016 from the SEC to permit co-investments among the Company and other accounts managed by the Adviser or its affiliates, subject to certain conditions. We may also invest alongside our Adviser's other clients as otherwise permissible under regulatory guidance, applicable regulations and the allocation policy of our Adviser and its affiliates. We also cannot assure you that we will replicate the historical results achieved by the Adviser or its affiliates, and we caution you that our investment returns could be substantially lower than the returns achieved by them in prior periods. Additionally, all or a portion of the prior results may have been achieved in particular market conditions which may never be repeated.

The highly competitive market for investment opportunities in which we operate may limit our investment opportunities.

A number of entities compete with us to make the types of investments we plan to make in middle- market companies. We compete with public and private funds, including other business development companies, commercial and investment banks, commercial financing companies, and, to the extent they provide an alternative form of financing, private equity funds. Additionally, as competition for investment opportunities increases, alternative investment vehicles, such as hedge funds, may invest in middle-market companies. As a result of these new entrants, competition for investment opportunities in middle-market companies may intensify. Many of our potential competitors are substantially larger and have access to considerably greater financial, technical and marketing resources than we do. For example, some competitors may have a lower cost of funds and access to funding sources that are not available to us which could allow them to offer more favorable terms to borrowers. In addition, some of our competitors have higher risk tolerances or different risk assessments, which could allow them to consider a wider variety of investments and establish more relationships than us. Furthermore, many of our competitors are not subject to the regulatory restrictions the 1940 Act imposes on us as a BDC. We cannot assure you that the competitive pressures we face will not have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. Also, as a result of this competition, we may not be able to take advantage of attractive investment opportunities from time to time, and we can offer no assurance that we will be able to identify and make investments that are consistent with our investment objective. Participants in our industry compete on several factors, including price, flexibility in transaction structuring, customer service, reputation, market knowledge and speed in decision-making. We will not seek to compete primarily based on the interest rates we offer, and we believe that some of our competitors may make loans with interest rates that are lower than the rates we offer. We may lose investment opportunities if we do not match our competitors' pricing, terms and structure. However, if we match our competitors' pricing, terms and structure, we may reduce our net investment income and increase our risk of credit loss.

The global capital markets are in a period of disruption and instability. These market conditions materially and adversely affected debt and equity capital markets in the United States and abroad, which could have a negative impact on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Uncertainties surrounding the sovereign debt of a number of European Union (EU) countries and the viability of the EU have disrupted and may in the future disrupt markets in the United States and around the world. If one or more countries leave the EU or the EU dissolves, the world's securities markets likely will be significantly disrupted. On January 31, 2020, the UK left the EU, commonly referred to as "Brexit," and the UK ceased to be a member of the EU. Following a transition period during which the EU and the UK Government engaged in a series of negotiations regarding the terms of the UK's future relationship with the EU, the EU and the UK Government signed an agreement on December 30, 2020 regarding the economic relationship between the UK and the EU. This agreement became effective on a provisional basis on January 1, 2021 and formally entered into force on May 1, 2021.. While the full impact of Brexit is unknown, Brexit has already resulted in volatility in European and global markets. There remains significant market uncertainty regarding Brexit's ramifications, and the range of potential outcomes of possible political, regulatory, economic, and market outcomes are difficult to predict. This uncertainty may affect other countries in the EU and elsewhere, and may cause volatility within the EU, triggering prolonged economic downturns in certain countries within the EU. Despite the influence of the lockdowns, and the economic bounce back, Brexit has had a material impact on the UK's economy. Additionally, trade between the UK and the EU did not benefit from the global rebound in trade in 2021, and remained at the very low levels experienced at the start of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic in 2020, highlighting Brexit's potential long-term effects on the UK economy. In addition, Brexit may create additional and substantial economic stresses for the UK, including a contraction of the UK economy and price volatility in UK stocks, decreased trade, capital outflows, devaluation of the British pound, wider corporate bond spreads due to uncertainty and declines in business and consumer spending as well as foreign direct investment. Brexit may also adversely affect UK-based financial firms that have counterparties in the EU or participate in market infrastructure (trading venues, clearing houses, settlement facilities) based in the EU. Additionally, the spread of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic is likely to continue to stretch the resources and deficits of many countries in the EU and throughout the world, increasing the possibility that countries may be unable to make timely payments on their sovereign debt. These events and the resulting market volatility may have an adverse effect on the performance of the Company.

Political and military events, including in Russia, North Korea, Venezuela, Iran, Ukraine, Syria, and other areas of the Middle East, and nationalist unrest in Europe and South America, also may cause market disruptions. As a result of continued political tensions and armed conflicts, including the Russian invasion of Ukraine commencing in February of 2022, the extent and ultimate result of which are unknown at this time, the United States and the EU, along with the regulatory bodies of a number of countries, have imposed economic sanctions on certain Russian corporate entities and individuals, and certain sectors of Russia's economy, which may result in, among other things, the continued devaluation of Russian currency, a downgrade in the country's credit rating, and/or a decline in the value and liquidity of Russian securities, property or interests. These sanctions could also result in the immediate freeze of Russian securities and/or funds invested in prohibited assets, impairing the ability of the Company to buy, sell, receive or deliver those securities and/or assets. These sanctions or the threat of additional sanctions could also result in Russia taking counter measures or retaliatory actions, which may further impair the value and liquidity of Russian securities. The United States and other nations or international organizations may also impose additional economic sanctions or take other actions that may adversely affect Russia-exposed issuers and companies in various sectors of the Russian economy. Any or all of these potential results could lead Russia's economy into a recession. Economic sanctions and other actions against Russian institutions, companies, and individuals resulting from the ongoing conflict may also have a substantial negative impact on other economies and securities markets both regionally and globally, as well as on companies with operations in the conflict region, the extent to which is unknown at this time. The United States and the EU have also imposed similar sanctions on Belarus for its support of Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

Additional sanctions may be imposed on Belarus and other countries that support Russia. Any such sanctions could present substantially similar risks as those resulting from the sanctions imposed on Russia, including substantial negative impacts on the regional and global economies and securities markets.

Any return of the U.S. or global economic downturn or a recession period in the United States could adversely impact our investments. In addition, social and political tensions and conflict around the world, and particularly in the Middle East, may continue to contribute to increased market volatility, may have long-term effects on the U.S. and worldwide financial markets and may cause further economic uncertainty or deterioration in the United States and worldwide. We do not know how long the financial markets will continue to be affected by these events and cannot predict the effects of these or similar events in the future on the U.S. economy and securities markets, the global economy and securities markets or on our investments. We monitor developments and seek to manage our investments in a manner consistent with achieving our investment objective, but there can be no assurance that we will be successful in doing so, and we may not timely anticipate or manage existing, new or additional risks, contingencies or developments, including regulatory developments in the current or future market environment.

While these conditions persist, we and other companies in the financial services sector may be required to, or may choose to, seek access to alternative markets for debt and equity capital. Equity capital may be difficult to raise because, subject to certain limited exceptions, as a BDC, we are not generally able to issue and sell our common stock at a price below net asset value per share without first obtaining approval for such issuance from our stockholders and independent directors. In addition, the debt capital that will be available to us, if at all, may be at a higher cost and on terms and conditions that may be less favorable than we expect, which, if incurred, could negatively affect our financial performance and results in the future. In addition, the portfolio companies in which we invest may not be able to service or refinance their debt, which could materially and adversely affect our financial condition, as we could experience reduced income or even losses. The inability to raise capital and the risk of portfolio company defaults may have a negative effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. Another prolonged period of market illiquidity may also cause us to reduce the volume of loans we originate and/or fund below historical levels and adversely affect the value of our portfolio investments, which could have a material and adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Moreover, recent market conditions have made, and may in the future make, it difficult to extend the maturity of or refinance our existing indebtedness and any failure to do so could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. The illiquidity of our investments may make it difficult for us to sell such investments if required. As a result, we may realize significantly less than the value at which we have recorded our investments.

Capital markets volatility also affects our investment valuations. While most of our investments will not be publicly traded, applicable accounting standards require us to assume as part of our valuation process that our investments are sold in a principal market to market participants (even if we plan on holding an investment through its maturity). As a result, volatility in the capital markets can adversely affect our valuations.

We have elected to be treated as a RIC and intend each year to qualify and to be eligible to be treated as such. If we fail to qualify for treatment as a RIC, we will, among other things, be subject to corporate-level income tax.

We have elected to be treated as a RIC under Subchapter M of the Code and intend each year to qualify and be eligible to be treated as such. In order to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, we must meet certain gross income, diversification and distribution requirements. A RIC generally is not subject to tax at the corporate level on income and gains from investments that are timely distributed to shareholders. Our ability to pursue our investment strategy, including a strategy focused on investments in CLOs, certain debt instruments and the generation of fee income, may be limited or adversely affected by our intention to qualify as a RIC and our strategy may bear adversely on our ability to so qualify. Our failure to qualify as a RIC would result in, among other things, corporate-level taxation, and consequently, a reduction in the value of an investment in our shares.

If we failed to qualify for treatment as a RIC, we would be subject to tax on all our taxable income at regular corporate rates and all of our distributions from earnings and profits (including from net long-term capital gains) would be taxable to stockholders as ordinary income. We would not be able to deduct distributions to stockholders, nor would we be required to make such distributions. Distributions, including distributions of net long-term capital gain, would generally be taxable to our stockholders as ordinary dividend income to the extent of our current and accumulated earnings and profits. Subject to certain limitations under the Code, corporate stockholders would be eligible to claim a dividends-received deduction with respect to such dividends, and non-corporate stockholders would generally be able to treat such dividends as "qualified dividend income," which is subject to reduced rates of U.S. federal income tax. To the extent such distributions exceed our current and accumulated earnings and profits, such excess distributions will be treated first as a return of capital to the extent of a stockholder's tax basis in his or her shares, and then as a capital gain. Reducing a stockholder's tax basis will have the effect of increasing his or her gain (or reducing loss) on a subsequent sale of shares. If we fail to qualify as a RIC for a period greater than two consecutive taxable years, to qualify as a RIC in a subsequent year we may be subject to regular corporate tax on any net built-in gains with respect to certain of our assets (i.e., the excess of the aggregate gains, including items of income, over aggregate losses that would have been realized with respect to such assets if we had been liquidated) that we elect to recognize on requalification or when recognized over the next ten years.

Our distributions may exceed our net investment income. As a result, portions of the distributions that we make may represent a return of capital to you for tax purposes, which will lower your tax basis in your shares and reduce the amount of funds we have available for investment in targeted assets.

A return of capital is a return of your investment rather than a return of earnings or gains derived from our investment activities and will be made after the offering, including any fees payable to our Adviser. Although a return of capital is not currently taxable, it will lower your tax basis in your shares, which may increase your gain or decrease your loss in connection with a sale of our shares.

We may have difficulty paying our required distributions if we recognize income before or without receiving cash representing such income.

For U.S. federal income tax purposes, we will include in income certain amounts that we have not yet received in cash, such as original issue discount, which may arise if we receive warrants in connection with the making of a loan or possibly in other circumstances, or PIK interest, which represents contractual interest added to the loan balance and due at the end of the loan term. Such original issue discount, which could be significant relative to our overall investment assets and increases in loan balances as a result of PIK interest will be included in income before we receive any corresponding cash payments. We also may be required to include in income certain other amounts that we will not receive in cash.

Accordingly, in order to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, we may be required to distribute income accrued prior to the receipt of cash and thus we may have to sell some of our investments at times we would not consider advantageous, raise additional debt or equity capital or reduce new investment originations to meet these distribution requirements.

We may retain a portion of our earnings and be subject to excise tax on such earnings.

If we fail to distribute in a calendar year at least an amount equal to the sum of 98% of our ordinary income for such year and 98.2% of our capital gain net income (adjusted for certain ordinary losses) for the one-year period ending on October 31 of such year (unless an election is made to use our taxable year), plus any such undistributed amounts from the prior year, we will be subject to a nondeductible 4% excise tax on the undistributed amounts. We reserve the right to pay the excise tax when circumstances warrant.

Potential tax consequences if we were not a “publicly offered” RIC

If for any taxable year we were not a “publicly offered” RIC within the meaning of Code Section 67(c)(2)(B), certain of our direct and indirect expenses, including the management fee, the incentive fee and certain other advisory expenses, would be subject to special “pass-through” rules. Such rules would treat these expenses as additional dividends to certain of our direct or indirect shareholders (generally including other RICs that are not “publicly offered,” individuals and entities that compute their taxable income in the same manner as an individual) and, under current law, are not deductible by those shareholders that are individuals (or entities that compute their taxable income in the same manner as an individual).

To qualify for the special tax treatment accorded to RICs and their shareholders, we must, among other things, distribute to our shareholders with respect to each taxable year at least 90% of the sum of our “investment company taxable income” (as that term is defined in the Code, without regard to the deduction for dividends paid—generally taxable ordinary income and the excess, if any, of net short-term capital gains over net long-term capital losses) and any net tax-exempt interest income (the excess of our gross tax-exempt interest over certain disallowed deductions), for such year, in a manner qualifying for the dividends paid deduction. If we were not a “publicly offered” RIC within the meaning of Code Section 67(c)(2)(B) for any taxable year, such status would potentially render distributions to our shareholders non-deductible by virtue of the terms of our distribution reinvestment plan, which would bear adversely on our ability to satisfy the distribution requirements to qualify as a RIC accorded special tax treatment for such year.

If we make loans to borrowers that include PIK interest or accretion of original issue discount provisions, this could increase the risk of default by our borrowers.

Some of the loans we make or acquire may provide for the payment by borrowers of PIK interest or accreted original issue discount at maturity. Such loans have the effect of deferring a borrower’s payment obligation until the end of the term of the loan, which may make it difficult for us to identify and address developing problems with borrowers in terms of their ability to repay us. Particularly in a rising interest rate environment, loans containing PIK and original issue discount provisions can give rise to negative amortization on a loan, resulting in a borrower owing more at the end of the term of a loan than what it owed when the loan was originated. Any such developments may increase the risk of default on our loans by borrowers.

Any PIK interest payments we receive will increase our assets under management and, as a result, will increase the amount of base management fees payable by us to our Adviser.

Certain of our debt investments may contain provisions providing for the payment of PIK interest. Because PIK interest results in an increase in the size of the loan balance of the underlying loan, the receipt by us of PIK interest will have the effect of increasing our assets under management. As a result, because the base management fee that we pay to our Adviser is based on the value of our consolidated gross assets, the receipt by us of PIK interest will result in an increase in the amount of the base management fee payable by us regardless of whether the PIK interest income is ever realized. In addition, any such increase in a loan balance due to the receipt of PIK interest will cause such loan to accrue interest on the higher loan balance, which will result in an increase in our pre-incentive fee net investment income and, as a result, an increase in incentive fees that are payable by us to our Adviser.

Regulations governing our operation as a BDC will affect our ability to raise, and the way in which we raise, additional debt or equity capital.

We expect that we will require a substantial amount of capital. We may issue debt securities or preferred stock and/or borrow money from banks or other financial institutions, which we refer to collectively as “senior securities,” up to the maximum amount permitted by the 1940 Act. Under the provisions of the 1940 Act, we will be permitted as a BDC to issue senior securities only in amounts such that our asset coverage, as defined in the 1940 Act, equals at least 200% after each issuance of senior securities. If the value of our assets declines, we may be unable to satisfy this test. If that happens, we may be required to sell a portion of our investments at a time when such sales may be disadvantageous and, depending on the nature of our leverage, repay a portion of our indebtedness.

Senior Securities. If we issue senior securities, we will be exposed to typical risks associated with leverage, including an increased risk of loss. If we issue preferred stock, such securities would rank “senior” to common stock in our capital structure, and preferred stockholders would have separate voting rights, dividend and liquidation rights, and possibly other rights, preferences or privileges more favorable than those granted to holders of our common stock. Furthermore, the issuance of preferred stock could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a transaction or a change of control that might involve a premium price for our common stockholders or otherwise be in your best interest.

Table of Contents

Additional Common Stock. The Board may decide to issue common stock to finance our operations rather than issuing debt or other senior securities. As a BDC, we are not generally able to issue and sell our common stock at a price below current net asset value per share. We may, however, issue or sell our common stock at a price below the current net asset value of the common stock, or sell warrants, options or rights to acquire such common stock, at a price below the current net asset value of the common stock if the Board determines that such sale is in the best interests of us and our stockholders, and if our stockholders approve such sale within 12 months prior to such sale. In any such case, the price at which our securities are to be issued and sold may not be less than a price which, in the determination of the Board, closely approximates the fair value of such securities as determined by the Adviser, as the Company's valuation designee. We also may conduct rights offerings at prices per share less than the net asset value per share, subject to the requirements of the 1940 Act. If we raise additional funds by issuing additional common stock or senior securities convertible into, or exchangeable for, our common stock, the ownership percentage of our stockholders at that time would decrease, and our stockholders may experience dilution.

If we enter into securitization transactions, we may be subject to additional risks.

In addition to issuing securities to raise capital as described above, we may securitize our loans to generate cash for funding new investments. To securitize loans, we may create a wholly-owned subsidiary, contribute a pool of loans to the subsidiary and have the subsidiary issue primarily investment grade debt securities to purchasers who we would expect to be willing to accept a substantially lower interest rate than the loans earn. Even though we expect the pool of loans that we contribute to any such securitization vehicle to be rated below investment grade, because the securitization vehicle's portfolio of loans would secure all of the debt issued by such vehicle, a portion of such debt may be rated investment grade, subject in each case to market conditions that may require such portion of the debt to be over collateralized and various other restrictions. If applicable accounting pronouncements or SEC staff guidance require us to consolidate the securitization vehicle's financial statements with our financial statements, any debt issued by it would be generally treated as if it were issued by us for purposes of the asset coverage ratio applicable to us. In such case, we would expect to retain all or a portion of the equity and/or subordinated notes in the securitization vehicle. Our retained equity would be exposed to any losses on the portfolio of loans before any of the debt securities would be exposed to such losses. Accordingly, if the pool of loans experienced a low level of losses due to defaults, we would earn an incremental amount of income on our retained equity, but we would be exposed, up to the amount of equity we retained, to that proportion of any losses we would have experienced if we had continued to hold the loans in our portfolio. We would have no direct ability to enforce the payment obligations on the loans contributed to the securitization vehicle. We may hold subordinated debentures in any such securitization vehicle and, if so, we would not consider such securities to be senior securities. An inability to successfully securitize our loan portfolio could limit our ability to grow our business and fully execute our business strategy and adversely affect our earnings, if any. Moreover, the successful securitization of a portion of our loan portfolio might expose us to losses as the residual loans in which we do not sell interests will tend to be those that are riskier and less liquid. Any fee payable under any servicing or collateral management agreement in respect of the securitization would be offset in an amount equal to the base management fee payable under the Investment Advisory Agreement.

As part of the securitization transaction, we would likely enter into an agreement under which we would be required to repurchase any loan (or participation interest therein) which was sold to the securitization vehicle in breach of any representation or warranty made by us with respect to such loan on the date such loan was sold.

The structure of a securitization transaction is intended to prevent, in the event of our bankruptcy, the consolidation of the securitization vehicle with our operations. If the true sale of these assets were not respected in the event of our insolvency, a trustee or debtor-in-possession might reclaim the assets of the securitization vehicle for our estate. However, in doing so, we would become directly liable for all of the indebtedness then outstanding under the securitization transaction, which would equal the full amount of debt of the securitization vehicle reflected on our consolidated balance sheet.

Recourse to us by the securitization vehicle would be limited and generally consistent with the terms of other similarly structured finance transactions. In a securitization transaction, we would sell and/or contribute to the securitization vehicle all of our ownership interest in certain of our portfolio loans and participations for the purchase price and other consideration set forth in the securitization agreement. This transfer would be structured by its terms to provide limited recourse to us by the securitization vehicle relating to certain representations and warranties with respect to certain characteristics including title and quality of the portfolio loans that were transferred to the securitization vehicle. If we breached these representations and warranties and such breach materially and adversely affected the value of the portfolio loans or the interests of holders of notes issued by the securitization vehicle, then we could be required to (a) cure such breach in all material respects, (b) repurchase the portfolio loan or loans subject to such breach or (c) remove the portfolio loan or loans subject to such breach from the pool of loans and other assets held by the securitization vehicle and substitute a portfolio loan or loans that meet the requirements of the securitization documents. This repurchase and substitution obligation of us would constitute the sole remedy available against us for any breach of a representation or warranty related to the portfolio loans transferred to the securitization vehicle.

We intend to finance our investments with borrowed money, which will magnify the potential for gain or loss on amounts invested and may increase the risk of investing in us.

The use of leverage magnifies the potential for gain or loss on amounts invested. We expect to incur leverage through a credit facility and, from time to time, intend to incur additional leverage to the extent permitted under the 1940 Act. The use of leverage is generally considered a speculative investment technique and increases the risks associated with investing in our securities. In the future, we may borrow from, and issue senior securities, to banks, insurance companies and other lenders. Holders of these senior securities will have fixed dollar claims on our assets that are superior to the claims of our common stockholders, and we would expect such holders to seek recovery against our assets in the event of a default. We may pledge up to 100% of our assets and may grant a security interest in all of our assets under the terms of any debt instruments into which we may enter. In addition, under the terms of any credit facility or other debt instrument we enter into, we are likely to be required by its terms to use the net proceeds of any investments that we sell to repay a portion of the amount borrowed under such facility or instrument before applying such net proceeds to any other uses.

If the value of our assets decreases, leveraging would cause net asset value to decline more sharply than it otherwise would have had we not leveraged, thereby magnifying losses or eliminating our equity stake in a leveraged investment. Similarly, any decrease in our revenue or income will cause our net income to decline more sharply than it would have had we not borrowed. Such a decline would also negatively affect our ability to make dividend payments on our common stock or preferred stock. Our ability to service our debt will depend largely on our financial performance and will be subject to prevailing economic conditions and competitive pressures. In addition, our common stockholders will bear the burden of any increase in our expenses as a result of our use of leverage, including interest expenses and any increase in the management fee payable to our Adviser.

As a BDC, we generally are required to meet a coverage ratio of total assets to total borrowings and other senior securities, which includes all of our borrowings and any preferred stock that we may issue in the future, of at least 150%. If this ratio declines below 150%, we cannot incur additional debt and could be required to sell a portion of our investments to repay some debt at a time when it is disadvantageous to do so. This could have a material adverse effect on our operations, and we may not be able to make distributions. The amount of leverage that we employ will depend on the Adviser's and the Board's assessment of market conditions and other factors at the time of any proposed borrowing. We cannot assure you that we will be able to obtain credit on terms acceptable to us or at all.

In addition, the terms of indebtedness that we incur in the future could impose financial and operating covenants that restrict our business activities, including limitations that may hinder our ability to finance additional loans and investments or make the distributions required to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders under the Code. Furthermore, the terms of any credit facility and other indebtedness that we incur in the future may contain various covenants which, if not complied with, could accelerate repayment, thereby materially and adversely affecting our liquidity, financial condition, results of operations and our ability to pay distributions to our stockholders.

As of December 31, 2022, the Company did not utilize any leverage.

We may enter into reverse repurchase agreements, which are another form of leverage.

We may enter into reverse repurchase agreements. A repurchase agreement is an agreement by a bank or other financial institution to buy securities or another asset with a corresponding agreement that it will resell these same securities or assets to the same seller for an agreed-upon price on a certain day (often the next day). A reverse repurchase agreement is the same as a repurchase agreement, but from the perspective of the buyer rather than the seller. Under a reverse repurchase agreement, we will pledge our assets as collateral to secure a short- term loan. Generally, the other party to the agreement makes the loan in an amount equal to a percentage of the fair value of the pledged collateral. At the maturity of the reverse repurchase agreement, we will be required to repay the loan and correspondingly release our collateral.

Our use of reverse repurchase agreements, if any, involves many of the same risks involved in our use of leverage, as the proceeds from reverse repurchase agreements generally will be invested in additional securities. There is a risk that the market value of the securities acquired in the reverse repurchase agreement may decline below the price of the securities that we have sold but we will remain obligated to repurchase pursuant to the terms of the repurchase agreement.

In addition, there is a risk that the market value of the securities retained by us may decline. If a buyer of securities under a reverse repurchase agreement were to file for bankruptcy or experience insolvency, we may be adversely affected. Also, in entering into reverse repurchase agreements, we would bear the risk of loss to the extent that the proceeds of such agreements at settlement are less than the fair value of the underlying securities being pledged.

Reverse repurchase agreements are considered leverage under the 1940 Act. We may "set aside" liquid assets, or engage in other appropriate measures, to "cover" obligations with respect to transactions in reverse repurchase agreements. As a result of such segregation, our obligations under such transactions will not be considered senior securities representing indebtedness for purposes of the 1940 Act and our use of leverage through reverse repurchase agreements will not be limited by the 1940 Act.

We are exposed to risks resulting from the current low interest rate environment.

Since we will borrow money to make investments, our net investment income depends, in part, upon the difference between the rate at which we borrow funds and the rate at which we invest those funds. The current, historically low interest rate environment can, depending on our cost of capital, depress our net investment income, even though the terms of our investments generally will include a minimum interest rate. In addition, any reduction in the level of interest rates on new investments relative to interest rates on our current investments could adversely impact our net investment income, reducing our ability to service the interest obligations on, and to repay the principal of, our indebtedness, as well as our capacity to pay dividends. Any such developments would result in a decline in our net asset value and in the trading price of our common stock.

When interest rates increase, floating rate interest rate reset features on debt instruments may make it more difficult for borrowers to repay their loans, and separately, will make it easier for the Adviser to meet its income incentive fee threshold without any additional effort.

Beginning in March 2022, the U.S. Federal Reserve (the "Fed") began increasing interest rates and has signaled the potential for further increases. It is difficult to accurately predict the pace at which the Fed will increase interest rates any further, or the timing, frequency or magnitude of any such increases, and the evaluation of macro-economic and other conditions could cause a change in approach in the future. A rise in the general level of interest rates can be expected to lead to higher interest rates applicable to our debt investments, particularly since our strategy includes investments in floating rate loans. Accordingly, an increase in interest rates would make it easier for us to meet or exceed the incentive fee hurdle and may result in a substantial increase of the amount of incentive fees payable to the Adviser with respect to Pre- Incentive Fee Net Investment Income.

There is also a risk that our borrowers will be unable to pay escalating interest amounts if general interest rates rise, resulting in a default under their loan documents with us. This could also cause borrowers to shift cash from other productive uses to the payment of interest, which may have a material adverse effect on their business and operations and could, over time, lead to increased defaults. In addition, increasing payment obligations under floating rate loans may cause borrowers to refinance or otherwise repay our loans earlier than they otherwise would, requiring us to incur management time and expense to re-deploy such proceeds, including on terms that may not be as favorable as our existing loans. We expect that many of our debt investments will include floating interest rates that reset on a periodic basis and typically do not require the borrowers to pay down the outstanding principal of such debt prior to maturity. These features of our debt investments will increase our risk of losing a substantial amount of our investments if borrowers are unable to pay the increased interest resulting from these reset provisions or if borrowers are unable to repay or refinance their debts at maturity.

Because loans are not ordinarily registered with the SEC or any state securities commission or listed on any securities exchange, there is usually less publicly available information about such instruments. In addition, loans may not be considered "securities" for purposes of the federal securities laws and, as a result, as a purchaser of these instruments, we may not be entitled to the anti-fraud protections of the federal securities laws. In the course of investing in such instruments, we may come into possession of material nonpublic information and, because of prohibitions on trading in securities of issuers while in possession of such information, we may be unable to enter into a transaction in a publicly traded security of that issuer when it would otherwise be advantageous for us to do so. Alternatively, we may choose not to receive material nonpublic information about an issuer of such loans, with the result that we may have less information about such issuers than other investors who transact in such assets.

Any failure on our part to maintain our status as a BDC would reduce our operating flexibility.

If we lose our status as a BDC, we might be regulated as a closed-end investment company under the 1940 Act, which would subject us to substantially more regulatory restrictions under the 1940 Act and correspondingly decrease our operating flexibility. For example, if we were to be regulated as a closed-end investment company under the 1940 Act, we would be further limited in the amount of leverage we could incur and would face additional restrictions governing our ability to engage in transactions with our affiliates.

Since we intend to use debt to finance our investments, and we may use debt financing, changes in interest rates may affect our cost of capital and net investment income.

Interest rate fluctuations may have a substantial negative impact on our investments, the value of our common stock and our rate of return on invested capital. Since we intend to use debt to finance investments, our net investment income will depend, in part, upon the difference between the rate at which we borrow funds and the rate at which we invest those funds. As a result, we can offer no assurance that a significant change in market interest rates will not have a material adverse effect on our net investment income. In periods of rising interest rates when we have debt outstanding, our cost of funds will increase, which could reduce our net investment income. Conversely, in periods of falling interest rates, the probability that our loans and other investments in portfolio companies will be pre-paid increases. In such periods, we can offer no assurance that we will be able to make new loans on the same terms, or at all. If we cannot make new loans on terms that are the same or better than the investments that are repaid, then our results of operations and financial condition will be adversely affected. We expect that our investments will be financed primarily with equity and long-term debt. We may use interest rate risk management techniques in an effort to limit our exposure to interest rate fluctuations. These techniques may include various interest rate hedging activities to the extent permitted by the 1940 Act. These activities may limit our ability to participate in the benefits of lower interest rates with respect to the hedged portfolio. Adverse developments resulting from changes in interest rates or hedging transactions could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. Additionally, our ability to engage in hedging transactions may also be adversely affected by recent rules adopted by the CFTC, unless we register with the CFTC as a commodity pool operator.

You should also be aware that a rise in the general level of interest rates can be expected to lead to higher interest rates applicable to our debt investments. Accordingly, an increase in interest rates would make it easier for us to meet or exceed the incentive fee hurdle rate and may result in a substantial increase in the amount of incentive fees payable to our Adviser with respect to Pre-Incentive Fee Net Investment Income.

There are significant potential conflicts of interest that could affect our investment returns.

As a result of our arrangements with the Adviser, there may be times when our Adviser has interests that differ from those of our stockholders, giving rise to a conflict of interest.

There are conflicts of interest related to the obligations of the Adviser or its affiliates to other clients.

The Adviser or its affiliates may have other clients with similar, different or competing investment objectives. In serving in these multiple capacities, they may have obligations to other clients or investors in those other entities, the fulfillment of which may not be in the best interests of us or our stockholders. For example, our Adviser and its affiliates manage or sponsor other investment funds, accounts or other investment vehicles. Our investment objective may overlap with the investment objectives of such affiliated investment funds, accounts or other investment vehicles. As a result, our Adviser may face conflicts of interest in the allocation of investment opportunities among us and other investment funds, accounts or other investment vehicles advised by or affiliated with our Adviser. Our Adviser will seek to allocate investment opportunities among eligible accounts in a manner that is fair and equitable over time and consistent with its allocation policy. However, we can offer no assurance that such opportunities will be allocated to us fairly or equitably in the short-term or over time. Where we are able to co- invest consistent with the requirements of the 1940 Act and SEC exemptive relief, if sufficient securities or loan amounts are available to satisfy our and each such account's proposed demand, the opportunity will be allocated in accordance with our Adviser's pre-transaction determination and the requirements of the exemptive relief. If there is an insufficient amount of an investment opportunity to satisfy our demand and that of other accounts sponsored or managed by our Adviser or its affiliates, the allocation policy and exemptive relief further provides that allocations among us and such other accounts will generally be made pro rata based on the amount that each such party would have invested if sufficient loan amounts were available. However, there can be no assurance that we will be able to participate in all suitable investment opportunities.

Our Adviser or its affiliates may, from time to time, possess material non-public information, limiting our investment discretion.

Principals of our Adviser and its affiliates may serve as directors of, or in a similar capacity with, companies in which we invest, the securities of which are purchased or sold on our behalf. If we obtain material nonpublic information with respect to public companies, or we become subject to trading restrictions under the internal trading policies of those companies or as a result of applicable law or regulations, we could be prohibited for a period of time from purchasing or selling the securities of such companies, and this prohibition may have an adverse effect on us.

Our management and incentive fee structure may create incentives for our Adviser that are not fully aligned with the interests of our stockholders and may induce our Adviser to make speculative investments.

In the course of our investing activities, we will pay management and incentive fees to our Adviser. The incentive fee payable by us to our Adviser may create an incentive for our Adviser to make investments on our behalf that are risky or more speculative than would be the case in the absence of such a compensation arrangement. The management fee is based on our consolidated gross assets. As a result, investors in our common stock will invest on a "gross" basis and receive distributions on a

"net" basis after expenses, resulting in a lower rate of return than one might achieve through direct investments. Because the management fee is based on our consolidated gross assets, our Adviser will benefit if and when we issue additional equity, incur debt or use leverage. The use of leverage will increase the likelihood of default under any credit facility or other debt instruments we enter into, which would disfavor the holders of our common stock, including investors in this offering.

Under the incentive fee structure, our Adviser may benefit when capital gains are recognized and, because our Adviser determines when a holding is sold, our Adviser controls the timing of the recognition of such capital gains. The Board is charged with protecting our interests by monitoring how our Adviser addresses these and other conflicts of interest associated with its management services and compensation. While they are not expected to review or approve each investment or realization, our independent directors will periodically review our Adviser's services and fees as well as its portfolio management decisions and portfolio performance. In connection with these reviews, our independent directors will consider whether such fees and our expenses (including those related to leverage) remain appropriate. As a result of this arrangement, our Adviser or its affiliates may from time to time have interests that differ from those of our stockholders. Unlike that portion of the incentive fee based on income, there is no hurdle rate applicable to the incentive fee based on net capital gains. As a result, our Adviser may seek to invest more capital in investments that are likely to result in capital gains as compared to income producing securities. This practice could result in our investing in more speculative securities than would otherwise be the case, which could result in higher investment losses, particularly during economic downturns.

The Investment Advisory Agreement and the Administration Agreement with the Adviser were not negotiated on an arm's length basis and may not be as favorable to us as if they had been negotiated with an unaffiliated third party.

The Investment Advisory Agreement and the Administration Agreement were negotiated between related parties. Consequently, their terms, including fees payable to our Adviser, may not be as favorable to us as they might be had they been negotiated with an unaffiliated third party. In addition, in deciding whether and how vigorously to enforce our rights and remedies under these agreements, our Board may, to the extent consistent with applicable law, take into account the value of our ongoing relationship with our Adviser, our administrator and their respective affiliates.

Our ability to enter into transactions with our affiliates will be restricted, which may limit the scope of investments available to us.

We are prohibited under the 1940 Act from participating in certain transactions with our affiliates without the prior approval of our independent directors and, in some cases, of the SEC. Any person that owns, directly or indirectly, five percent or more of our outstanding voting securities will be our affiliate for purposes of the 1940 Act, and we are generally prohibited from buying or selling any security from or to or entering into certain "joint" transactions (which could include investments in the same portfolio company) with such affiliates, absent the prior approval of our independent directors. Our Adviser and its affiliates, including persons that control, are controlled by, or are under common control with, us or our Adviser, are also considered to be our affiliates under the 1940 Act, and we are generally prohibited from buying or selling any security from or to, or entering into "joint" transactions with such affiliates without the prior approval of our independent directors and, in some cases, exemptive relief from the SEC.

We may, however, invest alongside the Adviser's, and its affiliates' other clients in certain circumstances where doing so is consistent with applicable law, SEC staff interpretations and/or appropriate exemptive relief from the SEC. For example, we may invest alongside such accounts consistent with guidance promulgated by the staff of the SEC permitting us and such other accounts to purchase interests in a single class of privately placed securities so long as certain conditions are met, including that our Adviser, acting on our behalf and on behalf of other clients, negotiates no term other than price. We and the Adviser have obtained an exemptive order dated April 19, 2016 from the SEC to permit co-investments among the Company and other accounts managed by the Adviser or its affiliates, subject to certain conditions. We may also invest alongside our Adviser's other clients as otherwise permissible under regulatory guidance, applicable regulations and the allocation policy of our Adviser and its affiliates. Under this allocation policy, a calculation, based on the type of investment, will be applied to determine the amount of each opportunity to be allocated to us. This allocation policy will be periodically reviewed by our Adviser and approved by our independent directors. We expect that these determinations will be made similarly for other accounts sponsored or managed by our Adviser and its affiliates. If sufficient securities or loan amounts are available to satisfy our and each such account's proposed demand, we expect that the opportunity will be allocated in accordance with our Adviser's pre- transaction determination. Where there is an insufficient amount of an investment opportunity to satisfy us and other accounts sponsored or managed by our Adviser or its affiliates, the allocation policy further provides that allocations among us and such other accounts will generally be made pro rata based on the amount that each such party would have invested if sufficient securities or loan amounts were available. These allocation policies and procedures are intended to assist the Adviser and its affiliates in ensuring that investment opportunities will be allocated to us fairly and equitably.

In situations where co-investment with other accounts managed by our Adviser or its affiliates is not permitted or appropriate, our Adviser and its affiliates will need to decide which client will proceed with the investment. Our Adviser's allocation policy provides, in such circumstances, for investments to be allocated on a random or rotational basis to assure that all clients have fair and equitable access to such investment opportunities. Moreover, except in certain circumstances, we will be unable to invest in any issuer in which a fund managed by our Adviser or its affiliates has previously invested. Similar restrictions limit our ability to transact business with our officers or directors or their affiliates. These restrictions may limit the scope of investment opportunities that would otherwise be available to us.

The Adviser may be entitled to receive substantial compensation from us if we consummate a liquidity event, which could negatively impact our investment returns.

In the future, the Board may consider various types of transactions to provide liquidity to stockholders, including: (i) a listing of our shares on a national securities exchange; (ii) a merger or another transaction approved by the Board in which our stockholders will receive cash or securities of a listed company; and (3) a sale of all or substantially all of our assets for cash or other consideration. In the event that the Board approves a sale or merger of our company, it is likely that such a transaction would cause a termination of the Investment Advisory Agreement. Upon the termination of the Investment Advisory Agreement, we would be potentially required to make a one-time payment to the Adviser in an amount based upon the market value of its interest in us as of the date of termination. This potential obligation to make a substantial payment to the Adviser in the event of sale or merger of our company or sale of our assets may limit the amount that our stockholders will receive upon the consummation of a liquidity event.

Because we expect to distribute substantially all of our ordinary income and net realized capital gains to our stockholders, we will need additional capital to finance our growth and such capital may not be available on favorable terms, or at all.

We will need capital to fund growth in our investment portfolio. We may issue debt securities or borrow from financial institutions in order to obtain this additional capital. A reduction in the availability of new capital could limit our ability to grow. We will be required to distribute at least 90% of our ordinary income and realized net short-term capital gains in excess of realized net long-term capital losses, if any, to our stockholders to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their stockholders. As a result, these earnings will not be available to fund new investments. If we fail to obtain additional capital to fund new investments, this could limit our ability to grow, which may have an adverse effect on the value of our securities.

In addition, as a BDC, we are generally required to maintain a ratio of at least 200% of total assets to total borrowings, which may restrict our ability to borrow in certain circumstances.

The valuation process for certain of our portfolio holdings creates a conflict of interest.

Many of our portfolio investments are expected to be made in the form of securities that are not publicly traded. As a result, the fair value of these securities will be determined by the Adviser in good faith as described elsewhere in this annual report. In connection with that determination, investment professionals from our Adviser will provide portfolio company valuations based upon the most recent portfolio company financial statements available and projected financial results of each portfolio company. The participation of our Adviser's investment professionals in our valuation process, could result in a conflict of interest as the management fee paid to our Adviser is based, in part, on our consolidated gross assets.

Many of our portfolio investments will be recorded at fair value as determined in good faith by the Adviser, as the Company's valuation designee. As a result, there will be uncertainty as to the value of our portfolio investments.

Many of our portfolio investments will take the form of securities that are not publicly traded. The fair value of securities and other investments that are not publicly traded may not be readily determinable, and we value these securities at fair value as determined in good faith by the Adviser, as the Company's valuation designee pursuant to Board approved policies and procedures including to reflect significant events affecting the value of our securities. As discussed in more detail under "Discussion of Operating Plans — Critical Accounting Policies," most, if not all, of our investments (other than cash and cash equivalents) are expected to be classified as Level 3 under ASC Topic 820, Fair Value Measurement. This means that our portfolio valuations are based on unobservable inputs and our own assumptions about how market participants would price the asset or liability in question. Inputs into the determination of fair value of our portfolio investments requires significant management judgment or estimation.

Even if observable market data are available, such information may be the result of consensus pricing information or broker quotes, which include a disclaimer that the broker would not be held to such a price in an actual transaction. Consensus pricing is a methodology for the determination of fair value based on quotations from market makers. These quotations include a disclaimer that the market maker would not be held to such a price in an actual transaction. The non-binding nature of consensus pricing and/or quotes accompanied by disclaimers materially reduces the reliability of such information. We have retained the services of one or more independent service providers to review the valuation of these securities periodically. The types of factors that the Adviser may take into account in determining the fair value of our investments generally include, as appropriate, comparison to publicly traded securities including such factors as yield, maturity and measures of credit quality, the enterprise value of a portfolio company, the nature and realizable value of any collateral, the portfolio company's ability to make payments and its earnings and discounted cash flow, the markets in which the portfolio company does business and other relevant factors. Because such valuations, and particularly valuations of private securities and private companies, are inherently uncertain, may fluctuate over short periods of time and may be based on estimates, our determinations of fair value may differ materially from the values that would have been used if a ready market for these securities existed. In addition, the determination of fair value and thus the amount of unrealized losses we may incur in any year, is, to a degree, subjective, in that it is based on unobservable inputs and certain assumptions. Our net asset value could be adversely affected if our determinations regarding the fair value of our investments were materially higher than the values that we ultimately realize upon the disposal of such securities.

Each quarter, the fair value of each investment in our portfolio. that is not publicly-traded is determined in good faith by the Board or by the Adviser, pursuant to Board-approved policies and procedures. Any changes in fair value are recorded in our statement of operations as a net change in unrealized appreciation or depreciation.

We may experience fluctuations in our quarterly results.

We could experience fluctuations in our quarterly operating results due to a number of factors, including the interest rate payable on the senior securities we acquire, the default rate on such securities, the level of our expenses, variations in, and the timing of the recognition of, realized and unrealized gains or losses, the degree to which we encounter competition in our markets and general economic conditions. As a result of these factors, results for any period should not be relied upon as being indicative of performance in future periods.

Changes in laws or regulations governing our operations may adversely affect our business or cause us to alter our business strategy.

We and our portfolio companies will be subject to regulation at the local, state and federal level. We are also subject to federal, state and local laws and are subject to judicial and administrative decisions that affect our operations, including maximum interest rates, fees and other charges, disclosures to portfolio companies, the terms of secured transactions, collection and foreclosure proceedings and other trade practices. If these laws, regulations or decisions change, or if we expand our business into additional jurisdictions, we may have to incur significant expenses in order to comply or we might have to restrict our operations. New legislation may be enacted or new interpretations, rulings or regulations could be adopted, including those governing the types of investments we or our portfolio companies are permitted to make, any of which could harm us and our stockholders, potentially with retroactive effect. In particular, in July 2010, the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, or the Dodd-Frank Act, became law. The Dodd-Frank Act set forth a legislative framework for the regulation of the financial services industry generally, including certain over-the-counter derivatives, such as swaps, in which the Company may invest. The effects of the Dodd- Frank Act on the financial services industry depends, in large part, upon the extent to which regulators exercise the authority granted to them and the approaches taken in implementing regulations. While the continued impact of the Dodd-Frank Act on us and our portfolio companies may not be known for an extended period of time, the Dodd-Frank Act, along with other legislative and regulatory proposals directed at the financial services industry or affecting taxation that are proposed or pending in the U.S. Congress, may negatively impact the operations, cash flows or financial condition of us or our portfolio companies, impose additional costs on us or our portfolio companies, intensify the regulatory supervision of us or our portfolio companies or otherwise adversely affect our business or the business of our portfolio companies. In addition, if we do not comply with applicable laws and regulations, we could lose any licenses we hold for the conduct of our business and may be subject to civil fines and criminal penalties. Significant uncertainty currently exists in the market regarding the ramifications of any repeal or reform of certain parts of the Dodd Frank Act, and the range and potential implications of possible political, regulatory, economic and market outcomes are difficult to predict.

In particular, effective August 19, 2022 (the "Compliance Date"), Rule 18f-4 under the 1940 Act (the "Derivatives Rule") replaced the asset segregation regime of Investment Company Act Release No. 10666 (Release 10666) with a new framework for the use of derivatives by registered funds. As of the Compliance Date, the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") rescinded Release 10666 and withdrew no-action letters and similar guidance addressing a fund's use of derivatives and began requiring funds to satisfy the requirements of the Derivatives Rule. As a result, on or after the Compliance Date, the Company will no longer engage in "segregation" or "coverage" techniques with respect to derivatives transactions and will instead comply with the applicable requirements of the Derivatives Rule.

The Derivatives Rule mandates that a fund adopt and/or implement: (i) value-at-risk limitations (VaR); (ii) a written derivatives risk management program; (iii) new Board oversight responsibilities; and (iv) new reporting and recordkeeping requirements. In the event that a fund's derivative exposure is 10% or less of its net assets, excluding certain currency and interest rate hedging transactions, it can elect to be classified as a limited derivatives user (Limited Derivatives User) under the Derivatives Rule, in which case the fund is not subject to the full requirements of the Derivatives Rule. Limited Derivatives Users are excepted from VaR testing, implementing a derivatives risk management program, and certain Board oversight and reporting requirements mandated by the Derivatives Rule. However, a Limited Derivatives User is still required to implement written compliance policies and procedures reasonably designed to manage its derivatives risks.

The Derivatives Rule also provides special treatment for reverse repurchase agreements, similar financing transactions and unfunded commitment agreements. Specifically, a fund may elect whether to treat reverse repurchase agreements and similar financing transactions as "derivatives transactions" subject to the requirements of the Derivatives Rule or as senior securities equivalent to bank borrowings for purposes of Section 18 of the Investment Company Act of 1940. In addition, when-issued or forward settling securities transactions that physically settle within 35-days are deemed not to involve a senior security. Additionally, changes to the laws and regulations governing our operations related to permitted investments may cause us to alter our investment strategy in order to avail ourselves of new or different opportunities. Such changes could result in material differences to the strategies and plans set forth in this prospectus and may shift our investment focus from the areas of expertise of our Adviser to other types of investments in which our Adviser may have little or no expertise or experience. Any such changes, if they occur, could have a material adverse effect on our results of operations and the value of your investment.

The Board may change our investment objective, operating policies and strategies without prior notice or stockholder approval.

The Board has the authority to modify or waive certain of our operating policies and strategies without prior notice and without stockholder approval (except as required by the 1940 Act). However, absent stockholder approval, we may not change the nature of our business so as to cease to be, or withdraw our election as, a BDC. We cannot predict the effect any changes to our current operating policies and strategies would have on our business, operating results and value of our stock. Nevertheless, the effects of any such changes may adversely affect our business and impact our ability to make distributions and since our shares are not expected to be listed on a national securities exchange for the foreseeable future, stockholders will be limited in their ability to sell their shares in response to any changes in our investment objective, operating policies and strategies.

We will incur significant costs as a result of being a public company.

As a public company, we will incur legal, accounting and other expenses, including costs associated with the periodic reporting requirements applicable to a company whose securities are registered under the Exchange Act as well as additional corporate governance requirements, including requirements under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and other rules implemented by the SEC.

Provisions of the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware and our certificate of incorporation and bylaws could deter takeover attempts and have an adverse effect on the price of our common stock.

The General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware ("DGCL"), contains provisions that may discourage, delay or make more difficult a change in control of us or the removal of our directors. Our certificate of incorporation and bylaws contain provisions that limit liability and provide for indemnification of our directors and officers. These provisions and others also may have the effect of deterring hostile takeovers or delaying changes in control or management. We are subject to Section 203 of the DGCL, the application of which is subject to any applicable requirements of the 1940 Act. This section generally prohibits us from engaging in mergers and other business combinations with stockholders that beneficially own 15% or more of our voting stock, or with their affiliates, unless our directors or stockholders approve the business combination in the prescribed manner. The Board will adopt a resolution exempting from Section 203 of the DGCL any business combination between us and any other person, subject to prior approval of such business combination by the Board, including approval by a majority of our directors who are not "interested persons." If the resolution exempting business combinations is repealed or the Board does not approve a business combination, Section 203 of the DGCL may discourage third parties from trying to acquire control of us and increase the difficulty of consummating such an offer.

We have also adopted measures that may make it difficult for a third party to obtain control of us, including provisions of our certificate of incorporation classifying the Board in three classes serving staggered three-year terms, and provisions of our certificate of incorporation authorizing the Board to classify or reclassify shares of our unissued preferred stock in one or more classes or series, to cause the issuance of additional shares of our stock, and to amend our certificate of incorporation, without stockholder approval, to increase or decrease the number of shares of stock that we have authority to issue. These provisions, as well as other provisions of our certificate of incorporation and bylaws, may delay, defer or prevent a transaction or a change in control that might otherwise be in the best interests of our stockholders. In addition, if we issue preferred stock, such securities would rank "senior" to common stock in our capital structure, resulting in preferred stockholders having separate voting rights, dividend and liquidation rights, and possibly other rights, preferences or privileges more favorable than those granted to holders of our common stock.

Our Adviser can resign on 120 days' notice, and we may not be able to find a suitable replacement within that time, resulting in a disruption in our operations that could adversely affect our financial condition, business and results of operations.

Our Adviser has the right, under the Investment Advisory Agreement, to resign at any time upon not less than 120 days' written notice, whether we have found a replacement or not. If our Adviser resigns, we may not be able to find a new Adviser or hire internal management with similar expertise and ability to provide the same or equivalent services on acceptable terms within 120 days, or at all. If we are unable to do so quickly, our operations are likely to experience a disruption, our financial condition, business and results of operations as well as our ability to pay distributions are likely to be adversely affected. In addition, the coordination of our internal management and investment activities is likely to suffer if we are unable to identify and reach an agreement with a single institution or group of executives having the expertise possessed by our Adviser and its affiliates. Even if we are able to retain comparable management, whether internal or external, the integration of such management and their lack of familiarity with our investment objective may result in additional costs and time delays that may adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations.

The Adviser has the right to resign under the Administration Agreement, whether we have found a replacement or not. If the Adviser resigns, we may not be able to find a new administrator or hire internal management with similar expertise and ability to provide the same or equivalent services on acceptable terms, or at all. If we are unable to do so quickly, our operations are likely to experience a disruption, our financial condition, business and results of operations as well as our ability to pay distributions are likely to be adversely affected. In addition, the coordination of our internal management and administrative activities is likely to suffer if we are unable to identify and reach an agreement with a service provider or individuals with the expertise possessed by the Adviser. Even if we are able to retain a comparable service provider or individuals to perform such services, whether internal or external, their integration into our business and lack of familiarity with our operations may result in additional costs and time delays that may adversely affect our business, financial condition and results of operations.

As a public company, we will be subject to regulations not applicable to private companies, such as provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. Efforts to comply with such regulations will involve significant expenditures, and non-compliance with such regulations may adversely affect us.

As a public company, we will be subject to regulations not applicable to private companies, including provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and the related rules and regulations promulgated by the SEC. Our management will be required to report on our internal control over financial reporting pursuant to Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and rules and regulations of the SEC thereunder. We will be required to review on an annual basis our internal control over financial reporting, and on a quarterly and annual basis, to evaluate and disclose changes in our internal control over financial reporting. Once we no longer qualify as an emerging growth company, Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act will generally require an attestation from our independent registered public accounting firm on the effectiveness of our internal control over financial reporting. We cannot be certain as to the timing of the completion of our evaluation, testing and remediation actions or the impact of the same on our operations, and we may not be able to ensure that the process is effective or that our internal control over financial reporting is or will be effective in a timely manner. In the event that we are unable to develop or maintain an effective system of internal controls and maintain or achieve compliance with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act and related rules, we may be adversely affected.

We depend on information systems, and systems failures could significantly disrupt our business, which may, in turn, negatively affect our ability to pay dividends to our stockholders.

Our business depends on the communications and information systems of the Adviser. In addition, certain of these systems are provided to the Adviser by third-party service providers. Any failure or interruption of such systems, including as a result of the termination of an agreement with any such third-party service provider, could cause delays or other problems in our activities. Our financial, accounting, data processing, backup or other operating systems and facilities may fail to operate properly or become disabled or damaged as a result of a number of factors including events that are wholly or partially beyond our control and adversely affect our business. There could be:

- sudden electrical or telecommunications outages;

Table of Contents

- natural disasters such as earthquakes, tornadoes and hurricanes;
- disease pandemics;
- events arising from local or larger scale political or social matters, including terrorist acts; and
- cyber-attacks.

Cyber-attacks, disruptions, or failures that affect our service providers or counterparties may adversely affect us and our stockholders, including by causing losses for us or impairing our operations. For example, our or our service providers' assets or sensitive or confidential information may be misappropriated, data may be corrupted, and operations may be disrupted (e.g., cyber-attacks or operational failures may cause the release of private stockholder information or confidential information, interfere with the processing of stockholder transactions, impact the ability to calculate our NAV, and impede trading). In addition, cyber-attacks, disruptions, or failures may cause reputational damage and subject us or our service providers to regulatory fines, litigation costs, penalties or financial losses, reimbursement or other compensation costs, and/or additional compliance costs. While we and our service providers may establish business continuity and other plans and processes to address the possibility of cyber-attacks, disruptions, or failures, there are inherent limitations in such plans and systems, including that they do not apply to third parties, such as other market participants, as well as the possibility that certain risks have not been identified or that unknown threats may emerge in the future. Similar types of operational and technology risks are also present for issuers of our investments, which could have material adverse consequences for such issuers, and may cause our investments to lose value. In addition, cyber-attacks involving our counterparty could affect such counterparty's ability to meet its obligations to us, which may result in losses to us and our stockholders. Furthermore, as a result of cyber-attacks, disruptions, or failures, an exchange or market may close or issue trading halts on specific securities or the entire market, which may result in us being, among other things, unable to buy or sell certain securities or financial instruments or unable to accurately price its investments. We cannot directly control any cybersecurity plans and systems put in place by its service providers, our counterparties, issuers in which we invest, or securities markets and exchanges.

These events, in turn, could have a material adverse effect on our operating results and negatively affect the market price of our common stock and our ability to pay dividends to our stockholders.

If we internalize our management functions, your interest in us could be diluted, and we could incur other significant costs associated with being self-managed.

The Board may decide in the future to pursue exemptive relief from the SEC in order to internalize our management functions. If we do so, we may elect to negotiate to acquire the Adviser's assets and personnel. At this time, we cannot anticipate the form or amount of consideration or other terms relating to any such acquisition. Such consideration could take many forms, including cash payments, promissory notes and shares of our common stock. The payment of such consideration could result in dilution of your interest as a stockholder and could reduce the earnings per share attributable to your investment.

In addition, while we would no longer bear the costs of the various fees and expenses, we expect to pay to the Adviser under the Investment Advisory Agreement, we would incur the compensation and benefits costs of our officers and other employees and consultants that are being paid by the Adviser or its affiliates. In addition, we may issue equity awards to officers, employees and consultants. These awards would decrease net income and may further dilute your investment in us. We cannot reasonably estimate the amount of fees we would save or the costs we would incur if we became self-managed. If the expenses we assume as a result of an internalization are higher than the expenses we avoid paying to the Adviser, our earnings per share would be lower as a result of the internalization than it otherwise would have been, potentially decreasing the amount of funds available to distribute to our stockholders and the value of our shares. As we are currently organized, we do not have any employees. If we elect to internalize our operations, we would employ personnel and would be subject to potential liabilities commonly faced by employers, such as workers disability and compensation claims and other employee-related liabilities and grievances.

If we internalize our management functions, we could have difficulty integrating these functions as a standalone entity. Currently, individuals employed by the Adviser and its affiliates perform asset management and general and administrative functions, including accounting and financial reporting, for multiple entities. These personnel have a great deal of know-how and experience. We may fail to properly identify the appropriate mix of personnel and capital needs to operate as a standalone entity. An inability to manage an internalization transaction effectively could thus result in our incurring excess costs and/or suffering deficiencies in our disclosure controls and procedures or our internal control over financial reporting. Such deficiencies could cause us to incur additional costs, and our management's attention could be diverted from effectively managing our investments.

Internalization transactions have also, in some cases, been the subject of litigation. Even if these claims are without merit, we could be forced to spend significant amounts of money defending such claims, which would reduce the amount of funds we have available for investment in targeted assets.

We, through our investment in a REIT Subsidiary, may be subject to the risks associated with investing in real estate-related securities.

We may form a REIT Subsidiary that is generally subject to the same investment policies and restrictions as we are. The adviser would not charge an additional fee on assets held in the REIT Subsidiary. We intend to limit investments in any REIT Subsidiaries and related entities to the extent necessary to qualify as a RIC for tax purposes. In general, and subject to certain exceptions not applicable here, a RIC is not permitted to invest, including through corporations in which the RIC owns a 20% or more voting stock interest, more than 25% of its total assets in any one issuer, or in any two or more issuers which the taxpayer controls and which are determined to be engaged in the same or similar trades or businesses or related trades or businesses. Investments in REITs such as a REIT Subsidiary may be affected by changes in the real estate markets generally as well as changes in the values of the specific properties owned by a REIT or securing the mortgages owned by the REIT. REITs are dependent upon the management skill and abilities of those persons or entities responsible for managing their investments. REITs are by definition not diversified as their permitted investments are significantly limited by the provisions of the Code.

Because of minimum distribution requirements imposed by the Code, REITs tend to be dependent on the acquisition of assets with high positive cash flows. The minimum distribution requirements also tend to limit the degree to which REITs can retain and redeploy capital. REITs are particularly vulnerable to defaults by their borrowers and there are significant limitations on their ability to realize income from property acquired as a result of foreclosure. REITs investing in healthcare properties are subject to complex rules on how they can acquire and operate those properties while maintaining their REIT status.

Risks Related to our Investments

Our investments may be risky, and you could lose all or part of your investment.

We invest primarily in debt investments and to a lesser extent, selected equity investments in middle-market healthcare companies. The portfolio companies in which we invest may have, or may be permitted to incur, other debt ranking equally with, or senior to, the debt securities in which we invest. By their terms, such debt instruments may provide that the holders are entitled to receive payment of interest or principal on or before the dates on which we are entitled to receive payments in respect of the debt securities in which we invest. Also, in the event of insolvency, liquidation, dissolution, reorganization or bankruptcy of a portfolio company, holders of debt instruments ranking senior to our investment in that portfolio company would typically be entitled to receive payment in full before we receive any distribution in respect of our investment. After repaying senior creditors, the portfolio company may not have sufficient assets to repay its obligation to us in full, or at all. In the case of debt ranking equally with debt securities in which we invest, we would have to share any distributions on an equal and ratable basis with other creditors holding such debt in the event of an insolvency, liquidation, dissolution, reorganization or bankruptcy of the relevant portfolio company.

Secured Loans. When we extend first lien senior secured, second lien senior secured and unitranche loans, we will generally take a security interest in the available assets of these portfolio companies, including the equity interests of their subsidiaries. We expect this security interest to help mitigate the risk that we will not be repaid. However, there is a risk that the collateral securing our loans may decrease in value over time, may be difficult to sell in a timely manner, may be difficult to appraise and may fluctuate in value based upon the success of the business and market conditions, including as a result of the inability of the portfolio company to raise additional capital. Also, in the case of first lien loans, our lien may be subordinated to claims of other creditors and, in the case of second lien loans, our lien will be subordinated to claims of other creditors. In addition, deterioration in a portfolio company's financial condition and prospects, including its inability to raise additional capital, may be accompanied by deterioration in the value of the collateral for the loan. Consequently, the fact that a loan is secured does not guarantee that we will receive principal and interest payments according to the loan's terms, or at all, or that we will be able to collect on the loan should we be forced to enforce our remedies.

The rights we may have with respect to the collateral securing loans we make to our portfolio companies with senior debt outstanding may also be limited pursuant to the terms of one or more intercreditor agreements that we enter into with the holders of such senior debt. Under a typical intercreditor agreement, at any time that obligations benefiting from first-priority liens are outstanding, any of the following actions that may be taken in respect of the collateral will be at the direction of the holders of the obligations secured by the first-priority liens:

- the ability to commence enforcement proceedings against the collateral;
- the ability to control the conduct of such proceedings;
- the approval of amendments to collateral documents;
- releases of liens on the collateral; and
- waivers of past defaults under collateral documents.

We may not have the ability to control or direct such actions, even if our rights are adversely affected.

Mezzanine Loans. Our mezzanine investments will generally be subordinated to senior loans and will generally be unsecured. This may result in greater risk and volatility or a loss of principal. These investments may involve additional risks that could adversely affect our investment returns. To the extent interest payments associated with such debt are deferred, such debt may be subject to greater fluctuations in valuations, and such debt could subject us and our stockholders to non-cash income as described above under "Risk Factors—Risks Relating to our Business and Structure—We may have difficulty paying our required distributions if we recognize income before or without receiving cash representing such income." Since we generally will not receive any substantial repayments of principal prior to the maturity of our mezzanine debt investments, such investments are riskier than amortizing loans. We can offer no assurance that the proceeds, if any, from sales of collateral securing other loans of a portfolio company would be sufficient to satisfy our unsecured obligations after payment in full of all secured loan obligations. If such proceeds were not sufficient to repay the outstanding secured loan obligations, then our unsecured claims would rank equally with the unpaid portion of such secured creditors' claims against the portfolio company's remaining assets, if any.

We expect in the future to invest in securities that are rated below investment grade by rating agencies or that may be rated below investment grade if they were so rated. Below investment grade securities, which are often referred to as 'junk bonds,' are viewed as speculative investments because of concerns with respect to the issuer's capacity to pay interest and repay principal.

Derivative Transactions. We may invest without limitation in warrants and may also use derivatives, primarily swaps (including equity, variance and volatility swaps), options and futures contracts on securities, interest rates, commodities and/or currencies, as substitutes for direct investments the Company can make. We may also use derivatives such as swaps, options (including options on futures), futures, and foreign currency transactions (e.g., foreign currency swaps, futures and forwards) to any extent deemed by the Adviser to be in the best interest of the Company, and to the extent permitted by the 1940 Act, to hedge various investments for risk management and speculative purposes (collectively, "Derivative Transactions"). We may use any or all types of Derivative Transactions which we are authorized to use at any time; no particular strategy will dictate the use of one type of Derivative Transaction rather than another, as use of any authorized Derivative Transaction will be a function of numerous variables, including market conditions. Derivative Transactions involve certain risks and special considerations. Risks of Derivative Transactions include the imperfect correlation between the value of such instruments and the underlying assets, the possible default of the other party to the transaction or illiquidity of the derivative instruments. Furthermore, the ability to successfully use Derivative Transactions depends on the Adviser's ability to predict pertinent market movements. Because many derivatives are "leveraged," and thus provide significantly more market exposure than the money paid or deposited when the transaction is entered into, a relatively small adverse market movement may not only result in the loss of the entire investment, but may also expose the Company to the possibility of a loss exceeding the original amount invested. Thus, the use of Derivative Transactions may result in losses greater than if they had not been used, may require the Company to sell or purchase portfolio securities at inopportune times or for prices other than current market values, may limit the amount of appreciation the Company can realize on an investment or may cause the Company to hold a security that it might otherwise sell. The use of foreign currency transactions can result in the Company incurring losses as a result of the imposition of exchange controls, the suspension of settlements or the inability of the Company to deliver or receive a specified currency. Additionally, amounts paid by the Company as premiums and cash or other assets held in margin accounts with respect to Derivative Transactions are not otherwise available to the Company for investment purposes.

If a put or call option purchased by the Company is not sold when it has remaining value, and if the market price of the underlying security remains equal to or greater than the exercise price (in the case of a put), or remains less than or equal to the exercise price (in the case of a call), the Company will lose its entire investment in the option.

Also, where a put or call option on a particular security is purchased to hedge against price movements in a related security, the price of the put or call option may move more or less than the price of the related security. If restrictions on exercise were imposed, the Company might be unable to exercise an option it had purchased. If the Company were unable to close out an option that it had purchased on a security, it would have to exercise the option in order to realize any profit or the option may expire worthless.

In addition, as noted above, the SEC adopted the Derivatives Rule in October 2020, which introduces a new framework for the use by registered investment companies of derivatives and many related instruments.

The Company's Derivative Transactions are generally subject to numerous special and complex tax rules. Because the tax rules applicable to such transactions may be uncertain under current law, an adverse determination or future IRS guidance with respect to these rules (which determination or guidance could be retroactive) may affect whether the Company has made sufficient distributions, and otherwise satisfied the relevant requirements, to maintain its qualification as a RIC and avoid Company-level U.S. federal income or excise taxes. The Company's investments in derivative instruments may be limited by the Company's intention to qualify for treatment as a RIC and could adversely affect the Company's ability to so qualify.

Equity Investments. We may make selected equity investments. In addition, when we invest in first lien, second lien, unitranche or mezzanine loans, we may acquire warrants to purchase equity securities. Our goal is ultimately to dispose of these equity interests and realize gains upon our disposition of such interests. However, the equity interests we receive may not appreciate in value and, in fact, may decline in value. The value of equity interests acquired by the Company could decline if the financial condition of the companies in which the Company holds an equity interest declines, or if overall market and economic conditions deteriorate. An issuer's financial condition could decline as a result of poor management decisions, competitive pressures, technological obsolescence, undue reliance on suppliers, labor issues, shortages, corporate restructurings, fraudulent disclosures, irregular and/or unexpected activity among retail investors or other factors. Accordingly, we may not be able to realize gains from our equity interests, and any gains that we do realize on the disposition of any equity interests may not be sufficient to offset any other losses we experience.

We are subject to risks associated with middle-market companies.

Investing in middle-market companies involves a number of significant risks, including:

- these companies may have limited financial resources and may be unable to meet their obligations under their debt securities that we hold, which may be accompanied by a deterioration in the value of any collateral and a reduction in the likelihood of us realizing any guarantees we may have obtained in connection with our investment;
- they typically have shorter operating histories, narrower product lines and smaller market shares than larger businesses, which tend to render them more vulnerable to competitors' actions and changing market conditions, as well as general economic downturns;
- they are more likely to depend on the management talents and efforts of a small group of persons; therefore, the death, disability, resignation or termination of one or more of these persons could have a material adverse impact on our portfolio company and, in turn, on us;

- generally, little public information exists about these companies, and we are required to rely on our Adviser to obtain adequate information to evaluate the potential returns from investing in these companies;
- they generally have less predictable operating results, may from time to time be parties to litigation, may be engaged in rapidly changing businesses with products subject to a substantial risk of obsolescence, and may require substantial additional capital to support their operations, finance expansion or maintain their competitive position. In addition, our executive officers, directors and our Adviser may, in the ordinary course of business, be named as defendants in litigation arising from our investments in these portfolio companies; and
- they may have difficulty accessing the capital markets to meet future capital needs, which may limit their ability to grow or to repay their outstanding indebtedness upon maturity.

We are a non-diversified investment company within the meaning of the 1940 Act, and therefore we are not limited by the 1940 Act with respect to the proportion of our assets that may be invested in securities of a single issuer.

We are classified as a non-diversified investment company within the meaning of the 1940 Act, which means that we are not limited by the 1940 Act with respect to the proportion of our assets that we may invest in securities of a single issuer. Our election to be treated as an intention to qualify and be eligible to be treated as a RIC, however, has its own diversification requirement with which we intend to comply. To the extent that we assume large positions in the securities of a small number of issuers, our net asset value may fluctuate to a greater extent than that of a diversified investment company as a result of changes in the financial condition or the market's assessment of the issuer. We may also be more susceptible to any single economic or regulatory occurrence than a diversified investment company. Beyond the asset diversification requirements associated with our qualification as a RIC under the Code and certain contractual diversification requirements under a credit facility or other agreements, we do not have fixed guidelines for diversification, and our investments could be concentrated in relatively few portfolio companies.

Our portfolio may be concentrated in a limited number of portfolio companies, industries and/or sectors which will subject us to a risk of significant loss if any of these companies defaults on its obligations under any of its debt instruments or if there is a downturn in a particular industry or sector.

Our portfolio may be concentrated in a limited number of portfolio companies, industries and/or sectors. Beyond the asset diversification requirements associated with our qualification as a RIC under the Code and certain contractual diversification requirements of a credit facility or other agreements, we do not have fixed guidelines for diversification. As a result, the aggregate returns we realize may be significantly adversely affected if a small number of investments perform poorly or if we need to write down the value of any one investment. Additionally, our investments may be concentrated in relatively few industries or sectors. As a result, a downturn in any particular industry or sector in which we are invested could also significantly impact the aggregate returns we realize.

The lack of liquidity in our investments may adversely affect our business.

We will generally make investments in private companies. Private companies have reduced access to the capital markets, resulting in diminished capital resources and ability to withstand financial distress. Furthermore, substantially all of our investments in private companies will be subject to legal and other restrictions on resale or will otherwise be less liquid than publicly traded securities.

The illiquidity of our investments may make it difficult for us to sell such investments if the need arises. In addition, if we are required to liquidate all or a portion of our portfolio quickly, we may realize significantly less than the value at which we have previously recorded our investments. In addition, we may face other restrictions on our ability to liquidate an investment in a portfolio company to the extent that we have material non-public information regarding such portfolio company or if an investment is held by one of our subsidiaries and is subject to contractual limitations on sale, such as the limitations on transfer of assets under certain circumstances under a credit facility. These and similar risks may also be applicable to thinly-traded companies in which we may invest.

Price declines and illiquidity in the corporate debt markets may adversely affect the fair value of our portfolio investments, reducing our net asset value through increased net unrealized depreciation.

As a BDC, we are required to carry our investments at market value or, if no market value is ascertainable, at fair value as determined in good faith by the Adviser under our valuation policy and process. As part of the valuation process, we may take into account the following types of factors, if relevant, in determining the fair value of our investments:

- a comparison of the portfolio company's securities to publicly traded securities;
- the enterprise value of a portfolio company;
- the nature and realizable value of any collateral;
- the portfolio company's ability to make payments and its earnings;
- the markets in which the portfolio company does business; and
- changes in the interest rate environment and the credit markets generally that may affect the price at which similar investments may be made in the future and other relevant factors.

When an external event such as a purchase transaction, public offering or subsequent equity sale occurs, we use the pricing indicated by the external event to corroborate our valuation. We record decreases in the market values or fair values of our investments as unrealized depreciation. Declines in prices and liquidity in the corporate debt markets may result in significant net unrealized depreciation in our portfolio. The effect of all of these factors on our portfolio may reduce our net asset value by increasing net unrealized depreciation in our portfolio. Depending on market conditions, we could incur substantial realized losses and may suffer additional unrealized losses in future periods, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition, results of operations and cash flows.

The Adviser may effectuate short sales that subject us to unlimited loss potential.

The Adviser may enter into transactions in which it sells a security it does not own, which we refer to as a short sale, in anticipation of a decline in the market value of the security. Short sales for our account theoretically will involve unlimited loss potential since the market price of securities sold short may continuously increase. Under adverse market conditions, the Adviser might have difficulty purchasing securities to meet short sale delivery obligations and may have to cover short sales at suboptimal prices. Further, if other short positions of the same security are closed out at the same time, a "short squeeze" can occur where demand exceeds the supply for the security sold short. A short squeeze makes it more likely that the Adviser will need to replace the borrowed security at an unfavorable price.

Our investments in the healthcare industry are subject to numerous risks, including competition, extensive government regulation and commercial difficulties.

Our investments in portfolio companies in the healthcare industry, particularly the pharmaceuticals, devices, life sciences and facilities sub-sectors are subject to numerous risks. The successful and timely implementation of the business model of our healthcare portfolio companies depends on their ability to adapt to changing technologies and introduce new products. As competitors continue to introduce competitive products, the development and acquisition of innovative products and technologies that improve efficacy, safety and cost- effectiveness are important to the success of such portfolio companies. The success of new product offerings will depend on many factors, including the ability to properly anticipate and satisfy customer needs, obtain regulatory approvals on a timely basis, develop and manufacture products in an economic and timely manner, obtain or maintain advantageous positions with respect to intellectual property, and differentiate products from those of competitors. Failure by our portfolio companies to introduce planned products or other new products or to introduce products on schedule could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Further, the development of products by pharmaceuticals, devices, life sciences and facilities companies in the healthcare industry requires significant research and development, clinical trials and regulatory approvals. The results of product development efforts may be affected by a number of factors, including the ability to innovate, develop and manufacture new products, complete clinical trials, obtain regulatory approvals and reimbursement in the United States and abroad, or gain and maintain market approval of products. In addition, regulatory review processes by U.S. and foreign agencies may extend longer than anticipated as a result of decreased funding and tighter fiscal budgets. Further, patents attained by others can preclude or delay the commercialization of a product. There can be no assurance that any products now in development will achieve technological feasibility, obtain regulatory approval, or gain market acceptance. Failure can occur at any point in the development process, including after significant funds have been invested. Products may fail to reach the market or may have only limited commercial success because of efficacy or safety concerns, failure to achieve positive clinical outcomes, inability to obtain necessary regulatory approvals, failure to achieve market adoption, limited scope of approved uses, excessive costs to manufacture, the failure to establish or maintain intellectual property rights, or the infringement of intellectual property rights of others.

Changes in healthcare laws and other regulations applicable to some of our portfolio companies' businesses may constrain their ability to offer their products and services.

There has also been an increased political and regulatory focus on healthcare laws in recent years, and new legislation could have a material effect on the business and operations of some of our portfolio companies by increasing their compliance and other costs of doing business, requiring significant systems enhancements, or rendering their products or services less profitable or obsolete. In particular, the Food and Drug Administration ("FDA"), has established regulations, guidelines and policies to govern the development and approval of pharmaceuticals and medical devices, as have foreign regulatory authorities, which affect some of our portfolio companies. Any change in regulatory requirements due to the adoption by the FDA and/or foreign regulatory authorities of new legislation, regulations, or policies may require some of our portfolio companies to amend existing clinical trial protocols or add new clinical trials to comply with these changes. Such amendments to existing protocols and/or clinical trial applications or the need for new ones, may significantly impact the cost, timing and completion of the clinical trials. Also, may have adverse effects on certain healthcare sub-sectors due to changes in payer-mix, patient volumes, as well as other changes to the current law.

We may hold the debt securities of leveraged companies that may, due to the significant volatility of such companies, enter into bankruptcy proceedings.

Leveraged companies may experience bankruptcy or similar financial distress. The bankruptcy process has a number of significant inherent risks. Many events in a bankruptcy proceeding are the product of contested matters and adversary proceedings and are beyond the control of the creditors. A bankruptcy filing by an issuer may adversely and permanently affect the issuer. If the proceeding is converted to a liquidation, the value of the issuer may not equal the liquidation value that was believed to exist at the time of our investment. The duration of a bankruptcy proceeding is also difficult to predict, and a creditor's return on investment can be adversely affected by delays until a plan of reorganization or liquidation ultimately becomes effective. The administrative costs in connection with a bankruptcy proceeding are frequently high and would be paid out of the debtor's estate prior to any return to creditors. Because the standards for classification of claims under bankruptcy law are vague, our influence with respect to the class of securities or other obligations we own may be lost by increases in the number and amount of claims in the same class or by different classification and treatment. In the early stages of the bankruptcy process, it is often difficult to estimate the extent of, or even to identify, any contingent claims that might be made. In addition, certain claims that have priority by law (for example, claims for taxes) may be substantial, eroding the value of any recovery by holders of other securities of the bankrupt entity.

Depending on the facts and circumstances of our investments and the extent of our involvement in the management of a portfolio company, upon the bankruptcy of a portfolio company, a bankruptcy court may recharacterize our debt investments as equity interests and subordinate all or a portion of our claim to that of other creditors. This could occur even though we may have structured our investment as senior debt.

Economic recessions or downturns could impair the ability of our portfolio companies to repay loans and increase our costs, which, in turn, could increase our non-performing assets, decrease the value of our portfolio, reduce our volume of new loans and otherwise harm our operating results.

Many of our portfolio companies may be susceptible to economic slowdowns or recessions and may be unable to repay our loans during these periods. Therefore, our non-performing assets are likely to increase and the value of our portfolio is likely to decrease during these periods. Adverse economic conditions may also decrease the value of collateral securing some of our loans and the value of our equity investments. Economic slowdowns or recessions could lead to financial losses in our portfolio and a decrease in revenues, net income and assets. Unfavorable economic conditions also could increase our funding costs, limit our access to the capital markets or result in a decision by lenders not to extend credit to us. These events could prevent us from making new investments, increase credit losses and harm our operating results, which could have an adverse effect on our results of operations.

We may be subject to risks associated with syndicated loans.

From time to time, we may acquire interests in syndicated loans. Under the documentation for such loans, a financial institution or other entity typically is designated as the administrative agent and/or collateral agent. This agent is granted a lien on any collateral on behalf of the other lenders and distributes payments on the indebtedness as they are received. The agent is the party responsible for administering and enforcing the loan and generally may take actions only in accordance with the instructions of a majority or two-thirds of the holders of commitments and/or principal amount of the associated indebtedness. In most cases, we do not expect to hold a sufficient amount of the indebtedness to be able to compel any actions by the agent. For example, in many cases, our investments may represent less than the amount of associated indebtedness sufficient to compel such actions or represent subordinated debt which is precluded from acting and, consequently, we would only be able to direct such actions if instructions from us were made in conjunction with other holders of associated indebtedness that together with us compose the requisite percentage of the related indebtedness then entitled to take action. Conversely, if holders of the required amount of the associated indebtedness (excluding amounts held by us) desire to take certain actions, such actions may be taken even if we did not support such actions. Furthermore, if an investment is subordinated to one or more senior loans made to the applicable obligor, our ability to exercise such rights may be subordinated to the exercise of such rights by the senior lenders. Accordingly, we may be precluded from directing such actions unless we act together with other holders of the indebtedness. If we are unable to direct such actions, we cannot assure you that the actions taken will be in our best interests.

If an investment is a syndicated revolving loan or delayed drawdown loan, other lenders may fail to satisfy their full contractual funding commitments for such loan, which could create a breach of contract, result in a lawsuit by the obligor against the lenders and adversely affect the fair market value of our investment.

There is a risk that a loan agent may become bankrupt or insolvent. Such an event would delay, and possibly impair, any enforcement actions undertaken by holders of the associated indebtedness, including attempts to realize upon the collateral securing the associated indebtedness and/or direct the agent to take actions against the related obligor or the collateral securing the associated indebtedness and actions to realize on proceeds of payments made by obligors that are in the possession or control of any other financial institution. In addition, we may be unable to remove the agent in circumstances in which removal would be in our best interests. Moreover, agented loans typically allow for the agent to resign with certain advance notice.

Our investments in CLOs may be riskier and less transparent to us and our stockholders than direct investments in the underlying companies.

We intend to invest in CLOs. Generally, there may be less information available to us regarding the underlying debt investments held by CLOs than if we had invested directly in the debt of the underlying companies. As a result, our stockholders will not know the details of the underlying securities of the CLOs in which we will invest. Our CLO investments will also be subject to the risk of leverage associated with the debt issued by such CLOs and the repayment priority of senior debt holders in such CLOs. Our investments in prospective portfolio companies may be risky, and we could lose all or part of our investment.

Table of Contents

Our financial results may be affected adversely if one or more of our equity or mezzanine debt investments in a CLO vehicle defaults on its payment obligations or fails to perform as we expect.

We intend to invest in the equity and mezzanine trances in CLOs, which involve a number of significant risks. CLOs are typically highly levered, and therefore the equity and mezzanine tranches that we will invest in are subject to a higher risk of total loss. In particular, investors in CLOs indirectly bear risks of the underlying debt investments held by such CLOs. We will generally have the right to receive payments only from the CLOs, and will generally not have direct rights against the underlying borrowers or the entity that sponsored the CLOs. Although it is difficult to predict whether the prices of indices and securities underlying CLOs will rise or fall, these prices (and, therefore, the prices of the CLOs) will be influenced by the same types of political and economic events that affect issuers of securities and capital markets generally.

The investments we intend to make in CLOs will likely be thinly traded or have only a limited trading market. CLO investments are typically privately offered and sold in the primary and secondary markets. As a result, investments in CLOs may be characterized as illiquid securities. In addition to the general risks associated with investing in debt securities, CLOs carry additional risks, including, but not limited to: (i) the possibility that distributions from the underlying loans will not be adequate to make interest or other payments; (ii) the quality of the underlying loans may decline in value or default; and (iii) the complex structure of the security may not be fully understood at the time of investment and may produce disputes with the CLO or unexpected investment results. Further, our investments in equity and mezzanine tranches of CLOs will be subordinate to the senior debt tranches thereof.

Investments in structured vehicles, including equity and mezzanine debt instruments issued by CLOs, involve risks, including credit risk and market risk. Changes in interest rates and credit quality may cause significant price fluctuations. Additionally, changes in the underlying loans held by a CLO may cause payments on the instruments we hold to be reduced, either temporarily or permanently. Structured investments, particularly the subordinated interests in which we invest, are less liquid than many other types of securities and may be more volatile than the loans underlying the CLOs in which we invest.

Certain tax consequences of our investments

There are various tax risks with respect to some of our investments, including but not limited to, the risks discussed below.

Some of our investments outside the United States, including our CLO investments, may be treated as investments in passive foreign investment companies ("PFICs"), as defined below, and could subject us to U.S. federal income tax (including interest charges) on distributions received from a PFIC or on proceeds received from the disposition of shares in a PFIC, which tax cannot be eliminated by making distributions to our shareholders. However, we may elect to avoid the imposition of that tax. For example, we may elect to treat a PFIC as a "qualified electing fund" ("QEF") (i.e., make a "QEF election"), in which case we will be required to include our share of the PFIC's income and net capital gain annually, regardless of whether it receives any distribution from the PFIC. Alternatively, we may elect to mark the gains (and to a limited extent the losses) in such holdings "to the market" as though we had sold (and, solely for purposes of this mark-to-market election, repurchased) our holdings in those PFICs on the last day of our taxable year. Such gains and losses are treated as ordinary income and loss. The QEF and mark-to-market elections may have the effect of accelerating the recognition of income (without the receipt of cash) and increasing the amount required to be distributed for us to avoid taxation. Making either of these elections therefore may require us to liquidate other investments (including when it is not advantageous to do so) to meet our distribution requirement, which also may accelerate the recognition of gain and affect our total return.

If we own (directly or indirectly) 10% or more of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock of a foreign corporation or 10% or more of the total value of shares of all classes of stock of a foreign corporation that is treated as a controlled foreign corporation ("CFC") (including equity tranche investments and certain debt tranche investments in a CLO treated as CFC), we are a "U.S. Shareholder" for purposes of the CFC provisions of the Code. A CFC is a foreign corporation that, on any day of its taxable year, is owned (directly, indirectly, or constructively) more than 50% (measured by voting power or value) by U.S. Shareholders. A U.S. Shareholder is required to include in gross income for U.S. federal income tax purposes for each taxable year of the U.S. Shareholder its pro rata share of its CFC's "subpart F income" for the CFC's taxable year ending within the U.S. Shareholder's taxable year whether or not such income is actually distributed by the CFC. Subpart F income is treated as ordinary income, regardless of the character of the CFC's underlying income. To the extent we invest in CFCs, if any, and recognize subpart F income in excess of actual cash distributions from such CFCs, if any, we may be required to sell assets (including when it is not advantageous to do so) to generate the cash necessary to distribute as dividends to our shareholders all of our income and gains and therefore to eliminate any corporate-level tax liability.

Investments in distressed debt obligations that are at risk of or in default present special tax issues. Tax rules are not entirely clear about issues such as whether and to what extent we should recognize market discount on these debt obligations, when we may cease to accrue interest, OID or market discount, when and to what extent we may take deductions for bad debts or worthless securities and how we should allocate payments received on obligations in default between principal and income. We will address these and other related issues when, as and if we invest in such obligations, in order to seek to ensure that we distribute sufficient income to preserve our eligibility for treatment as a RIC and do not become subject to U.S. federal income or excise tax.

Our derivative transactions, as well as any of our other hedging, short sale or similar transactions, may be subject to one or more special tax rules (including, for instance, notional principal contract, mark-to-market, constructive sale, straddle, wash sale and short-sale rules). These rules may affect whether gains and losses we recognize are treated as ordinary or capital and/or as short-term or long-term, accelerate our recognition of income or gains, defer losses, and cause adjustments in the holding periods of our securities. The rules could therefore affect the amount, timing and/or character of our distributions to shareholders.

Because the tax rules applicable to derivative financial instruments are in some cases uncertain under current law, an adverse determination or future guidance by the IRS with respect to these rules (which determination or guidance could be retroactive) may affect whether we have made sufficient distributions, and otherwise satisfied the relevant requirements, to maintain our qualification as a RIC and avoid a corporate-level tax.

To qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, we must meet certain source-of-income, asset diversification and annual distribution requirements. Our ability to pursue our investment strategy may be limited or adversely affected by our intention to qualify as a RIC and our strategy may bear adversely on our ability to so qualify.

We may not realize gains from our equity investments.

When we invest in mezzanine loans or senior secured loans, we may also invest in the equity securities of the borrower or acquire warrants or other equity securities as well. In addition, we may invest directly in the equity securities of portfolio companies. Our goal is ultimately to dispose of such equity interests and realize gains upon our disposition of such interests. However, the equity interests we receive may not appreciate in value and, in fact, may decline in value. Accordingly, we may not realize gains from our equity interests, and any gains that we do realize on the disposition of such equity interests may not be sufficient to offset any other losses we experience.

Our failure to make follow-on investments in our portfolio companies could impair the value of our portfolio, and our ability to make follow-on investments in certain portfolio companies may be restricted.

Following an initial investment in a portfolio company, we may make additional investments in that portfolio company as "follow-on" investments, in order to:

- increase or maintain in whole or in part our equity ownership percentage;
- exercise warrants, options or convertible securities that were acquired in the original or subsequent financing; or
- attempt to preserve or enhance the value of our investment.

We will have the discretion to make any follow-on investments, subject to the availability of capital resources, the limitations of the 1940 Act, the requirements associated with qualifying for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders and contractual requirements under a credit facility or otherwise. We may elect not to make follow-on investments or otherwise lack sufficient funds to make those investments. The failure to make follow-on investments may, in some circumstances, jeopardize the continued viability of a portfolio company and our initial investment, or may result in a missed opportunity for us to increase our participation in a successful operation. Even if we have sufficient capital to make a desired follow-on investment, we may elect not to make a follow-on investment because we do not want to increase our exposure to the portfolio company, because we prefer other opportunities or because we are inhibited by compliance with BDC requirements, or our contractual requirements or the desire to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders.

Because we may not hold controlling equity interests in our portfolio companies, we may not be in a position to exercise control over our portfolio companies or to prevent decisions by management of our portfolio companies that could decrease the value of our investments.

Although we intend to take controlling equity positions in some of our portfolio companies, we do not intend to take a controlling equity interest in all of our portfolio companies. In addition, we may not be in a position to control any portfolio company by investing in its debt securities. As a result, we will be subject to the risk that a portfolio company may make business decisions with which we disagree, and the stockholders and management of a portfolio company may take risks or otherwise act in ways that are adverse to our interests. Due to the lack of liquidity for the debt and equity investments that we will typically hold in our portfolio companies, we may not be able to dispose of our investments in the event we disagree with the actions of a portfolio company, and we may therefore suffer a decrease in the value of our investments.

Defaults by issuers of our holdings will harm our operating results.

A portfolio company's failure to satisfy financial or operating covenants imposed by us or other lenders could lead to defaults and, potentially, termination of its loans and foreclosure on its assets. This could trigger cross-defaults under other agreements and jeopardize such portfolio company's ability to meet its obligations under the debt or equity securities that we hold. Our investments in loans of such issuers may be placed on non-accrual status under those circumstances, if principal and/or interest payments become overdue or if there is a reasonable doubt that principal or interest will be collected. We may incur expenses to the extent necessary to seek recovery upon default or to negotiate new terms, which may include the waiver of certain financial covenants, with a defaulting portfolio company. A payment default on a loan to a portfolio company or a default leading to the acceleration of debt of a portfolio company could cause the loan to such portfolio company held by us to become, or to be deemed to be, a defaulted obligation under a credit facility. This, in turn, could result in a coverage test under a credit facility not being met and the diversion of distributions of assets to pay down debt under the credit facility rather than to make distributions. Such a portfolio company default could also lead to an event of default and acceleration under a credit facility and liquidation by the related lender of the assets securing the credit facility. Any such diversion of cash flow or any event of default could result in our being unable to make distributions to our stockholders in amounts sufficient to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, or at all, and could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. Investments in issuers that are in default or that have been placed on non-accrual status have in the past represented and may in the future represent a significant portion of our portfolio.

Our Adviser's liability will be limited under the Investment Advisory Agreement, and we have agreed to indemnify our Adviser against certain liabilities, which may lead our Adviser to act in a riskier manner on our behalf than it would when acting for its own account.

Under the Investment Advisory Agreement, our Adviser will not assume any responsibility to us other than to render the services called for under that agreement, and it will not be responsible for any action of the Board in following or declining to follow our Adviser's advice or recommendations. Our Adviser maintains a contractual, as opposed to a fiduciary, relationship with us. Under the terms of the Investment Advisory Agreement, our

Adviser, its officers, members, personnel, and any person controlling or controlled by our Adviser will not be liable to us, any subsidiary of ours, our directors, our stockholders or any subsidiary's stockholders or partners for acts or omissions performed in accordance with and pursuant to the Investment Advisory Agreement, except those resulting from acts constituting negligence or misconduct. In addition, we have agreed to indemnify our Adviser and each of its officers, directors, members, managers and employees from and against any claims or liabilities, including reasonable legal fees and other expenses reasonably incurred, arising out of or in connection with our business and operations or any action taken or omitted on our behalf pursuant to authority granted by the Investment Advisory Agreement, except where attributable to negligence or misconduct. These protections may lead our Adviser to act in a riskier manner when acting on our behalf than it would when acting for its own account.

We may be obligated to pay our Adviser incentive compensation even if we incur a net loss due to a decline in the value of our portfolio.

Our Investment Advisory Agreement entitles our Adviser to receive incentive compensation on income regardless of any capital losses. In such case, we may be required to pay our Adviser incentive compensation for a fiscal quarter even if there is a decline in the value of our portfolio or if we incur a net loss for that quarter.

Any incentive fee payable by us that relates to our net investment income may be computed and paid on income that may include interest that has been accrued but not yet received. If a portfolio company defaults on a loan that is structured to provide accrued interest, it is possible that accrued interest previously included in the calculation of the incentive fee will become uncollectible. Our Adviser is not under any obligation to reimburse us for any part of the incentive fee it received that was based on accrued income that we never received as a result of a default by an entity on the obligation that resulted in the accrual of such income, and such circumstances would result in our paying an incentive fee on income we never received.

We may not apply or be approved for an SBIC license.

An affiliate of the Company may apply for a license to form an SBIC. If such an application is made and approved and the SBA so permits, we anticipate that the SBIC license would be transferred to a wholly-owned subsidiary of ours. Following such transfer, we anticipate that the SBIC subsidiary would be allowed to issue SBA-guaranteed debentures, subject to certain regulatory requirements. SBA guaranteed debentures carry long-term fixed rates that are generally lower than rates on comparable bank and other debt. We cannot assure that we will make an application for an SBIC license, be successful in receiving an SBIC license from the SBA or that the SBA will permit such license to be transferred to us. If we do receive an SBIC license, there is no minimum amount of SBA-guaranteed debentures that must be allocated to us.

Our portfolio companies may prepay loans, which prepayment may reduce our yields if capital returned cannot be invested in transactions with equal or greater expected yields.

The loans in our investment portfolio may be prepayable at any time. It is not clear at this time when each loan may be prepaid. Whether a loan is prepaid will depend both on the continued positive performance of the portfolio company and the existence of favorable financing market conditions that allow such company the ability to replace existing financing with less expensive capital. As market conditions change, we do not know when, and if, prepayment may occur for each portfolio company. In the case of some of these loans, having the loan prepaid may reduce the achievable yield for us if the capital returned cannot be invested in transactions with equal or greater expected yields, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

The disposition of our investments may result in contingent liabilities.

We currently expect that a significant portion of our investments will involve private securities. In connection with the disposition of an investment in a private company, we may be required to make representations about the business and financial affairs of the portfolio company typical of those made in connection with the sale of a business. We may also be required to indemnify the purchasers of such investment to the extent that any such representations turn out to be inaccurate or with respect to certain potential liabilities. These arrangements may result in contingent liabilities that ultimately yield funding obligations that must be satisfied through our return of certain distributions previously made to us.

We may expose ourselves to risks if we engage in hedging transactions.

If we engage in hedging transactions, we may expose ourselves to risks associated with such transactions. We may borrow under a credit facility in currencies selected to minimize our foreign currency exposure or use instruments such as forward contracts, currency options and interest rate swaps, caps, collars and floors to seek to hedge against fluctuations in the relative values of our portfolio positions from changes in currency exchange rates and market interest rates. Hedging against a decline in the values of our portfolio positions caused by these risks does not eliminate the possibility of fluctuations in the values of such positions or prevent losses if the values of such positions decline for other reasons. Such hedging transactions may also limit the opportunity for gain if the values of the underlying portfolio positions should increase. Moreover, it may not be possible to hedge against an exchange rate or interest rate fluctuation that is so generally anticipated that we are not able to enter into a hedging transaction at an acceptable price. Our ability to engage in hedging transactions may also be adversely affected by recent rules adopted by the CFTC unless we register as a commodity pool operator. While we may enter into such transactions to seek to reduce currency exchange rate and interest rate risks, unanticipated changes in currency exchange rates or interest rates may result in poorer overall investment performance than if we had not engaged in any such hedging transactions. In addition, the degree of correlation between price movements of the instruments used in a hedging strategy and price movements in the portfolio positions being hedged may vary. Moreover, for a variety of reasons, we may not seek to establish a perfect correlation between such hedging instruments and the portfolio holdings being hedged. Any such imperfect correlation may prevent us from achieving the intended hedge and expose us to risk of loss. In addition, it may not be possible to hedge fully or perfectly against currency fluctuations affecting the value of securities denominated in non-U.S. currencies because the value of those securities is likely to fluctuate as a result of factors not related to currency fluctuations.

Investments in securities of foreign companies, if any, may involve significant risks in addition to the risks inherent in U.S. investments.

We may make investments in securities of foreign companies. Investing in foreign companies may expose us to additional risks not typically associated with investing in U.S. companies. These risks include changes in exchange control regulations, political and social instability, expropriation, imposition of foreign taxes, less liquid markets and less available information than is generally the case in the U.S., higher transaction costs, less government supervision of exchanges, brokers and issuers, less developed bankruptcy laws, difficulty in enforcing contractual obligations, lack of uniform accounting and auditing standards and greater price volatility.

In addition, any investments we make that are denominated in a foreign currency will be subject to the risk that the value of a particular currency will change in relation to one or more other currencies. Among the factors that may affect currency values are trade balances, the level of short-term interest rates, differences in relative values of similar assets in different currencies, long-term opportunities for investment and capital appreciation, and political developments. We may employ hedging techniques to minimize these risks, but we can offer no assurance that we will, in fact, hedge currency risk, or, that if we do, such strategies will be effective.

We may invest in foreign sovereign debt and the foreign governmental issuers of debt of the governmental authorities that control repayment of the debt may be unable or unwilling to repay principal or pay interest when due.

Investments in sovereign debt involve special risks. Foreign governmental issuers of debt or the governmental authorities that control the repayment of the debt may be unable or unwilling to repay principal or pay interest when due. In the event of default, there may be limited or no legal recourse. Political conditions, especially a sovereign entity's willingness to meet the terms of its debt obligations, are of considerable significance. The ability of a foreign sovereign issuer, especially an emerging market country, to make timely payments on its debt obligations will also be strongly influenced by the sovereign issuer's balance of payments, including export performance, its access to international credit facilities and investments, fluctuations of interest rates and the extent of its foreign reserves. In addition, there is no bankruptcy proceeding with respect to sovereign debt on which a sovereign has defaulted and the Company may be unable to collect all or part of its investment in a particular issue. Foreign investment in certain sovereign debt is restricted or controlled to varying degrees, including requiring governmental approval for the repatriation of income, capital or proceeds of sales by foreign investors. These restrictions or controls may at times limit or preclude foreign investment in certain sovereign debt and increase our costs and expenses.

We are not obligated to complete a liquidity event by a specified date; therefore, it will be difficult for an investor to sell his or her shares.

We intend to seek to complete a liquidity event for our stockholders within five years following the completion of our offering stage. We expect that the Board, in the exercise of the requisite standard of care applicable to directors under Delaware law, will determine to pursue a liquidity event when it believes that then-current market conditions are favorable for a liquidity event, and that such a transaction is in the best interests of our stockholders. A liquidity event could include (1) a listing of our shares on a national securities exchange, (2) the sale of all or substantially all of our assets either on a complete portfolio basis or individually followed by a liquidation or (3) a merger or another transaction approved by the Board in which our stockholders likely will receive cash or shares of a publicly traded company. However, there can be no assurance that we will complete a liquidity event within such time or at all. If we do not successfully complete a liquidity event, liquidity for an investor's shares will be limited to our share repurchase program, which we have no obligation to maintain.

We intend to offer to repurchase your shares on a quarterly basis. Only a limited number of shares will be repurchased, however, and, to the extent you are able to sell your shares under the repurchase program, you may not be able to recover the amount of your investment in those shares.

We intend to commence tender offers to allow you to tender your shares on a quarterly basis at a price equal to 90% of our public offering price in effect on the date of repurchase. The share repurchase program will include numerous restrictions that limit your ability to sell your shares. We intend to limit the number of shares repurchased pursuant to our share repurchase program as follows:

- we currently intend to limit the number of shares to be repurchased during any calendar year to the number of shares we can repurchase with the proceeds we receive from the sale of shares of our common stock under our distribution reinvestment plan, although at the discretion of the Board, we may also use cash on hand, cash available from borrowings and cash from liquidation of securities investments as of the end of the applicable period to repurchase shares;
- we will limit the number of shares to be repurchased in any calendar year to 10% of the weighted average number of shares outstanding in the prior calendar year, or 2.5% in each quarter;
- unless you tender all of your shares, you must tender at least 25% of the shares you have purchased and must maintain a minimum balance of $2,500 subsequent to submitting a portion of your shares for repurchase by us; and
- to the extent that the number of shares tendered for repurchase exceeds the number of shares we are able to repurchase, we will repurchase shares as nearly as may be pro-rata, except as permitted by Rule 13e-4 of the Exchange Act, not on a first-come, first- served basis. Further, we will have no obligation to repurchase shares if the repurchase would violate the restrictions on distributions under federal law or Delaware law, which prohibits distributions that would cause a corporation to fail to meet statutory tests of solvency. These limits may prevent us from accommodating all repurchase requests made in any year. The Board may amend, suspend or terminate the repurchase program upon 30 days' notice. We will notify you of such developments (1) in our quarterly reports or (2) by means of a separate mailing to you, accompanied by disclosure in a current or periodic report under the Exchange Act. In addition, although we have adopted a share repurchase program, we will have discretion to not repurchase your shares, to suspend the plan and to cease repurchases. Further, the plan has many limitations and should not be relied upon as a method to sell shares promptly or at a desired price.

The timing of our repurchase offers pursuant to our share repurchase program may be at a time that is disadvantageous to our stockholders.

When we make quarterly repurchase offers pursuant to our share repurchase program, we may offer to repurchase shares at a price that is lower than the price that investors paid for shares. As a result, to the extent investors have the ability to sell their shares to us as part of our share repurchase program, the price at which an investor may sell shares, which we expect to be 90% of the offering price in effect on the date of repurchase, may be lower than what an investor paid in connection with the purchase of shares.

In addition, in the event an investor chooses to participate in our share repurchase program, the investor will be required to provide us with notice of intent to participate prior to knowing what the net asset value per share will be on the repurchase date. Although an investor will have the ability to withdraw a repurchase request prior to the repurchase date, to the extent an investor seeks to sell shares to us as part of our share repurchase program, the investor will be required to do so without knowledge of what the repurchase price of our shares will be on the repurchase date.

There is a risk that you may not receive distributions or that our distributions may not grow over time.

We cannot assure you that we will achieve investment results that will allow us to make a specified level of cash distributions or year-to-year increases in cash distributions. Also, due to the asset coverage test applicable to us as a BDC, we may be limited in our ability to make distributions. Finally, if more stockholders receive cash dividends and other distributions rather than opt to participate in our distribution reinvestment plan, we may be forced to liquidate some of our investments and raise cash in order to make distribution payments. All distributions will be paid at the discretion of the Board and will depend on our earnings, our financial condition, qualification for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, compliance with applicable BDC regulations and such other factors as the Board may deem relevant from time to time. We cannot assure you that we will pay distributions to our stockholders in the future.

Investing in our shares may involve an above average degree of risk and is intended for long-term investors.

The investments we make in accordance with our investment objective and strategies may result in a higher amount of risk than alternative investment options and volatility or loss of principal. Our investments in portfolio companies may be highly speculative and aggressive, and therefore, an investment in our shares may not be suitable for an investor with a lower risk tolerance. In addition, our common stock is intended for long-term investors.

We may allocate the net proceeds from the offering in ways with which you may not agree.

We will have significant flexibility in investing the net proceeds of our public offering. You will be unable to evaluate the manner in which the net proceeds of the offering will be invested or the economic merit of our expected investments and, as a result, we may use the net proceeds from the offering to invest in investments with which you may not agree. We intend to invest, under normal circumstances, at least 80% of our total assets in debt and equity of middle-market companies, with an emphasis on healthcare companies, syndicated floating rate debt of large public and non-public companies and mezzanine and equity tranches of CLOs. Additionally, we will not provide you with information on potential investments prior to our acquisition of such investments. In addition, we have flexibility under our investment policy to invest a significant portion of our assets in investments that are not debt or equity investments in middle-market companies. The failure of our management to apply net proceeds from this offering effectively or find investments that meet our investment criteria in sufficient time or on acceptable terms could result in unfavorable returns and could cause a material adverse effect on you.

Share Repurchase Program

On a quarterly basis, the Company intends to offer to repurchase shares of common stock on such terms as may be determined by the Board in its complete and absolute discretion unless, in the judgment of the independent directors of the Board, such repurchases would not be in the best interests of the Company's stockholders or would violate applicable law. The Company will conduct such repurchase offers in accordance with the requirements of Rule 13e-4 of the Exchange Act and the 1940 Act. Any offer to repurchase shares of common stock will be conducted solely through tender offer materials mailed to each stockholder.

The Company currently intends to limit the number of shares of common stock to be repurchased during any calendar year to the number of shares of common stock it can repurchase with the proceeds it receives from the sale of shares of common stock under its distribution reinvestment plan. At the discretion of the Board, the Company may also use cash on hand, cash available from borrowings and cash from liquidation of securities investments as of the end of the applicable period to repurchase shares of common stock. In addition, the Company will limit the number of shares of common stock to be repurchased in any calendar year to 10.0% of the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding in the prior calendar year, or 2.5% in each quarter, though the actual number of shares of common stock that the Company offers to repurchase may be less in light of the limitations noted above. The Company intends to offer to repurchase such shares of common stock at a price equal to 90% of the offering price in effect on each date of repurchase. In months in which the Company repurchases shares of common stock pursuant to its share repurchase program, it expects to conduct repurchases on the same date that it holds its first weekly closing in such month for the sale of shares of common stock in its continuous public offering. The Board may amend, suspend or terminate the share repurchase program at any time, upon 30 days' notice.

We will repurchase shares from a stockholder in the event of the stockholder's death or Qualifying Disability, as defined below, upon such shares being presented to us for repurchase. The repurchase price for repurchases in connection with a stockholder's death or Qualifying Disability will be the NAV as determined for the next weekly pricing period commencing after the receipt by our transfer agent of a repurchase request in proper form.

We will not be obligated to repurchase shares if more than 360 days have elapsed since the date of the death or Qualifying Disability of a stockholder. Further, the Board will have no obligation to repurchase shares if it would cause us to violate federal law or Delaware law. Moreover, the Board has the right to suspend or terminate this repurchase right to the extent that it determines it is in our best interest to do so. This repurchase right will terminate on the date that our shares are listed on a national securities exchange or are included for quotation in a national securities market. All shares to be repurchased must be (i) fully transferable and not be subject to any liens or other encumbrances and (ii) free from any restrictions on transfer. If we determine that a lien or other encumbrance or restriction exists against the shares requested to be repurchased, we will not repurchase any such shares.

In order for a disability to be considered a "Qualifying Disability," (1) the stockholder must receive a determination of disability based upon a physical or mental condition or impairment arising after the date the stockholder acquired the shares to be repurchased, and (2) such determination of disability must be made by the governmental agency responsible for reviewing the disability retirement benefits that the stockholder could be eligible to receive (the “Applicable Governmental Agency”). For purposes of this repurchase right, Applicable Governmental Agencies are limited to the following:

- if the stockholder paid Social Security taxes and, therefore, could be eligible to receive Social Security disability benefits, then the Applicable Governmental Agency is the Social Security Administration, or the agency charged with the responsibility for administering Social Security disability benefits at that time if other than the Social Security Administration;
- if the stockholder did not pay Social Security taxes and, therefore, could not be eligible to receive Social Security disability benefits, but the stockholder could be eligible to receive disability benefits under the Civil Service Retirement System (the “CSRS”), then the Applicable Governmental Agency is the U.S. Office of Personnel Management or the agency charged with the responsibility for administering CSRS benefits at that time if other than the U.S. Office of Personnel Management; or
- if the stockholder did not pay Social Security taxes and, therefore, could not be eligible to receive Social Security benefits, but suffered a disability that resulted in the stockholder’s discharge from military service under conditions that were other than dishonorable and, therefore, could be eligible to receive military disability benefits, then the Applicable Governmental Agency is the Department of Veterans Affairs or the agency charged with the responsibility for administering military benefits at that time if other than the Department of Veterans Affairs.

Disability determinations by governmental agencies for purposes other than those listed above, including, but not limited to, workers’ compensation insurance, the administration or enforcement of the Rehabilitation Act or Americans with Disabilities Act, or waiver of insurance premiums, will not entitle a stockholder to the repurchase right. Further, as the following disabilities do not entitle a worker to Social Security disability benefits, they do not qualify the stockholder for the repurchase right, except in the limited circumstances when the stockholder is awarded disability benefits by one of the Applicable Governmental Agencies described above: (a) disabilities occurring after the legal retirement age; and (b) disabilities that do not render a worker incapable of performing substantial gainful activity.

All stockholder repurchase requests must be accompanied by: (1) the investor’s initial application for disability benefits and (2) a Social Security Administration Notice of Award, a U.S. Office of Personnel Management determination of disability under CSRS, a Department of Veterans Affairs record of disability-related discharge or such other documentation issued by the Applicable Governmental Agency that we deem acceptable and that demonstrates an award of disability benefits.

If you tender all common shares you hold, or are considered to be holding, and you do not hold (directly or by attribution) any other units of our shares (e.g., preferred shares, if any), you will be treated as having sold your shares and generally will realize a capital gain or loss. If you tender fewer than all of your common shares or continue to hold (directly or by attribution) other units of our shares (e.g., preferred shares, if any), you may be treated as having received a distribution under Section 301 of the Code (“Section 301 distribution”) unless the redemption is treated as being either (i) “substantially disproportionate” or (ii) otherwise “not essentially equivalent to a dividend” under the relevant rules of the Code. A Section 301 distribution is not treated as a sale or exchange giving rise to a capital gain or loss, but rather is treated as a dividend to the extent supported by our current and accumulated earnings and profits, with the excess treated as a return of capital reducing your tax basis in Company shares, and thereafter as capital gain. In such a case, there is a risk that non-tendering shareholders whose interests in us increase as a result of such tender will be treated as having received a taxable distribution from us.

To the extent we recognize net gains on the liquidation of portfolio securities to meet such tenders, we will be required to make additional distributions to our common shareholders.

For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021, 2020, and 2019, the Company did not repurchase any shares as part of its death and disability program. For the year ended December 31, 2018, the Company also repurchased 3,752 shares as part of its death and disability program. For the year ended December 31, 2016, the Company also repurchased 15,553 shares as part of its death and disability program. For the years ended December 31, 2017, 2015 and 2014, the Company did not repurchase any shares as part of its death and disability program.

Distributions

Subject to the Board's discretion and applicable legal restrictions, we intend to authorize and declare ordinary cash distributions on a weekly basis to be paid out quarterly. We will then calculate each stockholder's specific distribution amount for the period using record and declaration dates, and each stockholder's distributions will begin to accrue on the date we accept each stockholder's subscription for shares of our common stock. From time to time, we may also pay special interim distributions in the form of cash or shares of common stock at the discretion of the Board. We also intend to distribute any net capital gains (i.e., realized net long-term capital gains in excess of realized net short-term capital losses) at least annually out of the assets legally available for such distributions. For example, the Board may periodically declare share distributions in order to reduce our NAV per share if necessary, to ensure that we do not sell shares at a price below NAV per share. Each year a statement on Form 1099-DIV, identifying the source of the distributions (i.e., paid from ordinary income, paid from net capital gains on the sale of securities, and/or a return of capital, which is generally a nontaxable distribution), will be mailed to our stockholders. Our distributions may exceed our earnings and profits. As a result, a portion of the distributions we make may represent a return of capital for tax purposes. A return of capital is a return of your investment rather than a return of earnings or gains derived from our investment activities and will be made after deduction of the fees and expenses payable in connection with the offering, including any fees payable to the Adviser. There can be no assurance that we will be able to pay distributions at a specific rate or at all.

In order to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, we must, among other things, distribute to our stockholders for each taxable year at least 90% of our investment company taxable income, which is generally our ordinary income and realized net short-term capital gains in excess of realized net long-term capital losses, if any, on an annual basis out of the assets legally available for such distributions. In addition, we also intend to distribute any realized net capital gains (i.e., realized net long-term capital gains in excess of realized net short-term capital losses) at least annually out of the assets legally available for such distributions.

We have adopted an "opt in" distribution reinvestment plan for our stockholders. As a result, if we make a cash distribution, then stockholders will receive distributions in cash unless they specifically "opt in" to the distribution reinvestment plan so as to reinvest their cash distributions in additional shares of our common stock. However, certain state authorities or regulators may impose restrictions from time to time that may prevent or limit a stockholder's ability to participate in our distribution reinvestment plan. If you do not elect to participate in the plan, you will automatically receive any distributions we declare in cash. Stockholders who receive distributions in the form of shares of common stock will generally be subject to the same federal, state and local tax consequences as stockholders who elect to receive their distributions in cash.

We intend to use newly issued shares to implement the plan. The number of shares to be issued to a stockholder is determined by dividing the total dollar amount of the distribution payable by the NAV determined in the last weekly closing of the month.

We may fund our cash distributions to stockholders from any sources of funds available to us, including offering proceeds, borrowings, net investment income from operations, capital gains proceeds from the sale of assets, non-capital gains proceeds from the sale of assets and expense reimbursements from the Adviser. We have not established limits on the amount of funds we may use from available source to make distributions.

On a quarterly basis, we will send information to all stockholders of record regarding distributions paid to our stockholders in such quarter.

Overview

We were formed in Delaware on September 30, 2013 and formally commenced operations on September 2, 2014. We are an externally managed, closed-end, non-diversified management investment company that has elected to be regulated as a BDC under the 1940 Act. In addition, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, we have elected to be treated as a RIC (Regulated Investment Company) under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code") with retroactive effect to the date we elected to be treated as a BDC. As a BDC, we are also subject to certain constraints, including limitations imposed by the 1940 Act and the Code.

NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (the "Adviser"), which serves as the adviser of the Company, is registered with the SEC as an adviser under the Advisers Act. Under the general supervision of our board of directors (the "Board") the Adviser will carry out the investment and reinvestment of the net assets of the Company, will furnish continuously an investment program with respect to the Company, and determine which securities should be purchased, sold or exchanged. In addition, the Adviser will supervise and provide oversight of the Company's service providers.

The Adviser has also entered into a Services Agreement with Skyview Group ("Skyview"), effective February 25, 2021, pursuant to which the Adviser will receive administrative and operational support services to enable it to provide the required advisory services to the Company. The Adviser will compensate all Adviser and Skyview personnel who provide services to the Company.

Effective July 12, 2022, certain Skyview personnel became dual-employees of NexPoint Services, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Adviser. The same services are being performed by the dual-employees. The Adviser, and not the Company, will compensate all Adviser, Skyview, and dual-employee personnel who provide services to the Company.

Our investment objective is to generate high current income and long-term capital appreciation. We seek to achieve our objective by using the experience of the healthcare, credit and structured products teams of the Adviser and its affiliates to source, evaluate and structure investments, identify attractive investment opportunities that are primarily debt investments that generate high income without creating undue risk for the portfolio, make equity investments where we believe there will be attractive risk-adjusted returns that compensate for the lack of current income, and make investments in debt and equity tranches of collateralized loan obligations, or CLOs, that deliver income and high relative value. We will focus on companies that are stable, have positive cash flow and the ability to grow their business model.

Our investment policy is to invest, under normal circumstances, at least 80% of our total assets in debt and equity of middle-market companies, with an emphasis on healthcare companies, syndicated floating rate debt of large public and nonpublic companies and mezzanine and equity tranches of CLOs. Middle-market companies include companies with annual revenues between $50,000,000 and $2,500,000,000 and syndicated floating rate debt refers to loans and other instruments originated by a bank to a corporation that are sold off, or syndicated, to investors in pieces. We consider a healthcare company to be a company that is engaged in the design, development, production, sale, management or distribution of products, services or facilities used for or in connection with the healthcare industry. Additionally, we consider companies that are materially impacted by the healthcare industry (such as a contractor that derives significant revenue or profit from the construction of hospitals) as being engaged in the healthcare industry. We may invest without limit in companies that are not in the healthcare sector.

We will leverage the expertise of our Adviser with regard to distressed investing and restructuring to make opportunistic investments in distressed companies. We will utilize the Adviser's credit underwriting capability to identify the types of companies we believe will provide high current income and/or long-term capital appreciation. In addition to the investments in the healthcare industry, we may invest a portion of our capital in other opportunistic investments in which the Adviser has expertise and where we believe an opportunity exists to achieve above average risk adjusted yields and returns. These types of opportunities may include: (1) direct lending or origination investments, (2) investments in stressed or distressed situations, (3) structured product investments, (4) equity investments and (5) other investment opportunities not typically available in other BDCs. Opportunistic investments may range from broadly syndicated deals to direct lending deals in both private and public companies and may include foreign investments. We believe this is the best approach to achieving our dual mandate of attempting to generate a high yield while also attempting to produce capital appreciation.

We seek to invest primarily in securities deemed by the Adviser to be high income generating debt investments and income generating equity securities of privately held companies in the United States. We expect the portfolio will be concentrated primarily in senior floating rate debt securities, although we may invest without limit in securities which rank lower than senior secured instruments and may invest without limit in investments with a fixed rate of interest. We will buy syndicated loans, various tranches of CLOs and other debt instruments in the secondary market as well as originate debt so we can tailor the investment parameters more precisely to our needs. We also intend to invest a portion of the portfolio in equity securities that are non-income producing, when doing so will help us achieve our objective of long-term capital appreciation. We expect the size of our positions will range from less than $1,000,000 to $20,000,000, although investments may be larger as our asset base increases. We may selectively make investments in amounts larger than $20,000,000 in some of our portfolio companies. While our asset base increases, we may make smaller investments. We may invest up to 15% of our net assets in entities that are excluded from registration under the 1940 Act by virtue of section 3(c)(1) and 3(c)(7) of the 1940 Act (such as private equity funds or hedge funds). This limitation does not apply to any CLOs, certain of which may rely on Section 3(c)(1) or 3(c)(7) of the 1940 Act.

We expect that many of the securities in which we invest will be rated below investment grade by independent rating agencies or would be rated below investment grade if they were rated. These securities, which may be referred to as "junk", have predominantly speculative characteristics with respect to the issuer's capacity to pay interest and repay principal. In addition, we expect that many of our debt investments will include floating interest rates that reset on a periodic basis and typically will not require the borrowers to pay down the outstanding principal of such debt prior to maturity.

We and the Adviser have obtained an exemptive order dated April 19, 2016 from the SEC to permit co-investments among the Company and certain other accounts managed by the Adviser or its affiliates, subject to certain conditions.

Public Offering

As a result of a series of private placements to the Adviser, we successfully satisfied the minimum offering requirement and officially commenced operations on September 2, 2014. In connection with the satisfaction of the minimum offering requirement and the commencement of our operations, the Investment Advisory Agreement became effective and the base management fee and any incentive fees, as applicable, payable to the Adviser under the Investment Advisory Agreement began to accrue. In aggregate as of December 31, 2022, the Adviser controls 2,549,002 total shares, including reinvestment of dividends, for a net amount of approximately $14.1 million. In February 2018, we closed our continuous public offering of shares of common stock.

Revenues

We generate a significant portion of our total revenue in the form of interest on the debt securities that we hold. We expect that the senior debt we invest in will generally have stated terms of 3 to 5 years and that the subordinated debt we invest in will generally have stated terms of 5 to 7 years. Our senior and subordinated debt investments bear interest at a fixed or floating rate. Interest on debt securities is generally payable monthly, quarterly or semiannually. In addition, some of our investments provide for deferred interest payments or payment-in-kind, or PIK, interest. We may also generate revenues in the form of dividends and other distributions on the equity or other securities we may hold. In addition, we may generate revenues in the form of commitment, closing, origination, structuring or diligence fees, monitoring fees, fees for providing managerial assistance, consulting fees, prepayment fees and performance-based fees. Any such fees generated in connection with our investments will be recognized as earned.

Expenses

We expect that our primary operating expenses will include the payment of fees to the Adviser under the Investment Advisory Agreement, our allocable portion of overhead expenses under the Administration Agreement and other operating costs described below. Prior to December 20, 2017, the Adviser was waiving most fees, subject to possible recoupment for expenses pertaining to periods from and after June 10, 2016. Effective December 20, 2017, the Adviser ended its voluntary waiver of advisory and administration fees. We bear all out-of-pocket costs and expenses of our operations and transactions, including:

- our organization (expenses initially paid by the Adviser until sufficient equity proceeds are raised);
- calculating our net asset value and net asset value per share (including the costs and expenses of independent valuation firms);

Table of Contents

- the costs of this and all future offerings of common shares and other securities, and other incurrence of debt;
- the base management fee and any incentive fee;
- distributions on our shares;

- transfer agent and custody fees and expenses;
- the actual costs incurred by the Adviser as our administrator in providing managerial assistance to those portfolio companies that request it;
- amounts payable to third parties relating to, or associated with, evaluating, making and disposing of investments;
- brokerage fees and commissions;
- registration fees;
- listing fees;
- taxes;
- director fees and expenses;
- costs associated with our reporting and compliance obligations under the 1940 Act and applicable U.S. federal and state securities laws;
- the costs of any reports, proxy statements or other notices to our stockholders, including printing costs;

- litigation, indemnification and other non-recurring or extraordinary expenses;
- direct costs and expenses of administration and operation, including audit and legal costs;
- fees and expenses associated with marketing efforts, including deal sourcing fees and marketing to financial sponsors;
- dues, fees and charges of any trade association of which we are a member; and
- all other expenses reasonably incurred by us or the Adviser in connection with administering our business.

During periods of asset growth, we expect our general and administrative expenses to be relatively stable or decline as a percentage of total assets and increase during periods of asset declines.

Expense Limitation

Pursuant to an expense limitation agreement (the “Expense Limitation Agreement”), the Adviser is contractually obligated to waive fees and, if necessary, pay or reimburse certain other expenses to limit ordinary “Other Expenses” to 1.0% of the quarter-end value of the Company’s gross assets through the one-year anniversary of the effective date of the registration statement. Under the Expense Limitation Agreement, “Other Expenses” are all expenses with the exception of advisor and administration fees, organization and offering costs and the following: (i) interest, taxes, dividends tied to short sales, brokerage commissions, and other expenditures which are capitalized in accordance with U.S. GAAP; (ii) expenses incurred indirectly as a result of investments in other investment companies and pooled investment vehicles; (iii) other expenses attributable to, and incurred as a result of, our investments; (iv) expenses payable to the Adviser, as administrator, for providing significant managerial assistance to our portfolio companies; and (v) other extraordinary expenses (including litigation expenses) not incurred in the ordinary course of our business. The obligation will automatically renew for one-year terms unless it is terminated by the Company or the Adviser upon written notice within 120 days of the end of the current term or upon termination of the Investment Advisory Agreement. The Expense Limitation Agreement will continue through at least April 30, 2023.

Table of Contents

Any expenses waived or reimbursed by the Adviser pursuant to the Expense Limitation Agreement are subject to possible recoupment by the Adviser within three years from the date of the waiver or reimbursement. The recoupment by the Adviser will be limited to the amount of previously waived or reimbursed expenses and cannot cause the Company's expenses to exceed any expense limitation in place at the time of recoupment or waiver.

Results of Operations for the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021, and 2020

Revenues

We generate a significant portion of our investment income in the form of interest on the debt securities we purchase or originate. We have invested primarily in broadly syndicated bank loans of private companies. Bank loans generally pay interest at rates which are periodically determined by reference to a base lending rate plus a spread. The base lending rate is typically the three-month LIBOR. The settlement of bank loans differs from the settlement of many other equity or debt instruments. Bank loans are manually settled through the agent by assignment. As a result, settlement can take an undetermined amount of time. Currently, according to data provided by Markit Partners, bank loans settle, on average, on the seventeenth day after the trade date. Generally, interest does not begin to accrue to the buyer until seven business days after the trade date.

Our CLO equity pays quarterly dividends based on excess cash flow available after the CLO's payment "waterfall" provisions. Both Grayson and PAMCO CLOs are past their respective investment periods, and as a result, excess cash flow is expected to decline over time. We, therefore, expect that the quarterly dividends paid by the investment will similarly decline.

Contractual Obligations and Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements

We may become a party to financial instruments with off-balance sheet risk in the normal course of our business to meet the financial needs of our portfolio companies. These instruments may include commitments to extend credit and involve, to varying degrees, elements of liquidity and credit risk in excess of the amount recognized in the balance sheet. As of December 31, 2022 and December 31, 2021, we had no outstanding commitments to fund investments.

We have certain contracts under which we have material future commitments. We have entered into the Investment Advisory Agreement with the Adviser in accordance with the 1940 Act. Under the Investment Advisory Agreement, the Adviser provides us with investment advisory and management services. For these services, we pay (1) a management fee equal to a percentage of the average value of our gross assets and (2) an incentive fee based on our performance.

The incentive fee consists of two parts. The first part, which is calculated and payable quarterly in arrears, equals Pre-Incentive Fee Net Investment Income for the immediately preceding calendar quarter and is subject to a hurdle rate, expressed as a rate of return on our net assets, equal to 1.875% per quarter. As a result, the Adviser will not earn this incentive fee for any quarter until our pre-incentive fee net investment income for such quarter exceeds the hurdle rate of 1.875%. Once our pre-incentive fee net investment income in any quarter exceeds the hurdle rate, the Adviser will be entitled to a "catch-up" fee equal to the amount of the pre-incentive fee net investment income in excess of the hurdle rate, until our pre-incentive fee net investment income for such quarter equals 2.34375% of the Company's net assets at the end of such quarter. This "catch-up" feature allows the Adviser to recoup the fees foregone as a result of the existence of the hurdle rate. Thereafter, the Adviser will receive 20.0% of our pre-incentive fee net investment income. For purposes of calculating this part of the incentive fee, "Pre-Incentive Fee Net Investment Income" means interest income, distribution income and any other income (including any other fees, other than fees for providing managerial assistance, such as commitment, origination, structuring, diligence and consulting fees or other fees that we receive from portfolio companies) accrued during the calendar quarter, minus our operating expenses for the quarter (including the base management fee, expenses payable under the Administration Agreement and any interest expense and any dividends paid on any issued and outstanding preferred stock, but excluding the incentive fee). Pre-Incentive Fee Net Investment Income includes, in the case of investments with a deferred interest feature (such as original issue discount, debt instruments with PIK interest and zero-coupon securities), accrued income that we have not yet received in cash. Pre-Incentive Fee Net Investment Income does not include any realized capital gains, realized capital losses or unrealized capital appreciation or depreciation.

The second part of the incentive fee, which is referred to as the incentive fee on capital gains, is determined and payable in arrears as of the end of each calendar year (or upon termination of the Investment Advisory Agreement). This fee equals 20.0% of our incentive fee capital gains, which will equal our realized capital gains on a cumulative basis from formation, calculated as of the end of the applicable period, computed net of all realized capital losses (proceeds less amortized cost) and unrealized capital depreciation on a cumulative basis, less the aggregate amount of any previously paid capital gains incentive fees. We will accrue for the capital gains incentive fee, which, if earned, will be paid annually. We will accrue for the capital gains incentive fee based on net realized and unrealized gains; however, under the terms of the Investment Advisory Agreement, the fee payable to the Adviser will be based on realized gains and no such fee will be payable with respect to unrealized gains unless and until such gains are actually realized. For the years ended December 31, 2022 and December 31, 2011, the Company incurred $0 and $0 of incentive fees on capital gains, respectively Since inception, the Company has accrued $0 of incentive fees on capital gains in aggregate. Effective December 20, 2017, the Adviser ended its voluntary waiver of incentive fees. No such fees have been paid with respect to realized gains as of December 31, 2022.

Under the Administration Agreement, the Adviser furnishes us with office facilities and equipment, provides us clerical, bookkeeping and record keeping services at such facilities and provides us with other administrative services necessary to conduct our day-to-day operations. We will reimburse the Adviser for the allocable portion (subject to the review and approval of the Board) of overhead and other expenses incurred by it in performing its obligations under the Administration Agreement, including rent, the fees and expenses associated with performing compliance functions and our allocable portion of the cost of our chief financial officer and chief compliance officer and their respective staffs, to the extent that such expenses do not exceed an annual rate of 0.4% of our gross assets. The Adviser also provides on our behalf significant managerial assistance to those portfolio companies to which we are required to offer to provide such assistance and any expenses payable to the Adviser for such managerial assistance are not subject to the cap on reimbursement.

Our organization and offering costs together are limited to 1% of total gross proceeds raised and are not due and payable to the Adviser to the extent they exceed that amount. The cumulative aggregate amount of organization and offering costs exceeds 1% of total proceeds raised. Subsequent to the termination of the Offering, the Adviser forfeited the right to reimbursement of the remaining $4,305,091 of these costs.

If any of the contractual obligations discussed above is terminated, our costs under any new agreements that we enter into may increase. In addition, we would likely incur significant time and expense in locating alternative parties to provide the services we receive under our Investment Advisory Agreement and our Administration Agreement. Any new investment advisory agreement would also be subject to approval by our stockholders.

If for any taxable year we were not a “publicly offered” RIC within the meaning of Code Section 67(c)(2)(B), certain of our direct and indirect expenses, including the management fee, the incentive fee and certain other advisory expenses, would be subject to special “pass-through” rules. Such rules would treat these expenses as additional dividends to certain of our direct or indirect stockholders (generally including individuals and entities that compute their taxable income in the same manner as an individual) and as deductible by those stockholders, subject to the 2% “floor” on miscellaneous itemized deductions and other significant limitations on itemized deductions set forth in the Code.

In order to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, we are required under the Code, among other things, to distribute at least 90% of our net ordinary income and net short-term capital gains in excess of net long-term capital losses, or “investment company taxable income,” to our stockholders on an annual basis. We intend to authorize and declare quarterly distributions to be paid quarterly to our stockholders as determined by the Board. In addition, we also intend to distribute any realized net capital gains (i.e., realized net long-term capital gains in excess of realized net short-term capital losses) at least annually.

We may not be able to achieve operating results that will allow us to make distributions at a specific level or to increase the amount of our distributions from time to time. In addition, we may be limited in our ability to make distributions due to the asset coverage requirements applicable to us as a BDC under the 1940 Act. If we do not distribute a certain percentage of our income annually, we will suffer adverse U.S. federal income tax consequences, including possible failure to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders. We cannot assure stockholders that they will receive any distributions.

We have adopted an “opt in” distribution reinvestment plan for our stockholders. As a result, if we declare a cash distribution, our stockholders will receive distributions in cash unless they specifically “opt in” to the distribution reinvestment plan to have their cash distributions reinvested in additional shares of our common stock. However, certain state authorities or regulators may impose restrictions from time to time that may prevent or limit a stockholder’s ability to participate in our distribution reinvestment plan. Although distributions paid in the form of additional shares of our common stock will generally be subject to U.S. federal, state and local taxes in the same manner as cash distributions, stockholders participating in our dividend reinvestment plan will not receive any corresponding cash distributions with which to pay any such applicable taxes.

On June 24, 2020, the Board of Directors approved a change in its dividend and capital gains distribution schedule from monthly distributions to quarterly distributions, effective immediately. The first quarterly distribution was paid on October 12, 2020 to shareholders of record as of September 30, 2020. For the year ended December 31, 2022, the Company made the following distributions:

Related Party Transactions

We have entered into a number of business relationships with affiliated or related parties, including the following:

- We entered into the Investment Advisory Agreement with the Adviser. James Dondero, our president, controls the Adviser by virtue of his control of its general partner, NexPoint Advisors GP, LLC.
- Pursuant to an expense limitation agreement, the Adviser has agreed to waive fees or, if necessary, reimburse us to limit certain expenses to 1.0% of the quarter-end value of our gross assets.
- The Adviser provides us with the office facilities and administrative services necessary to conduct our day-to-day operations pursuant to the Administration Agreement.
- The dealer manager, NexPoint Securities, Inc., is an affiliate of the Adviser.
- In aggregate as of December 31, 2022, the Adviser controls 2,549,002 total shares of the common stock of the Company, including reinvestment of dividends, for a net amount of approximately $14.1 million.
- Cumulatively since inception, the Adviser has paid $2,275,000 to voluntarily reimburse the Company for certain unrealized losses on investments. Had these payments not been made, the NAV as of December 31, 2022, would have been lower. These payments are not recoupable by the Adviser.

The Adviser and its affiliates also sponsor, or manage, and may in the future sponsor or manage, other investment funds, accounts or investment vehicles (together referred to as "accounts") that have investment mandates that are similar, in whole and in part, with ours. The Adviser and its affiliates may determine that an investment is appropriate for us and for one or more of those other accounts. In such event, depending on the availability of such investment and other appropriate factors, and pursuant to the Adviser's allocation policy and co-investment relief, the Adviser or its affiliates may determine that we should invest side-by-side with one or more other accounts. We do not intend to make any investments if they are not permitted by applicable law and interpretive positions of the SEC and its staff, or if they are inconsistent with the Adviser's allocation procedures and co-investment relief.

In addition, we and the Adviser have each adopted a formal code of ethics that governs the conduct of our and the Adviser's officers, directors and employees. Our officers and directors also remain subject to the duties imposed by both the 1940 Act and the Delaware General Corporations Law.

Critical Accounting Policies

The preparation of the financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses. Changes in the economic environment, financial markets and any other parameters used in determining such estimates could cause actual results to differ. We have identified the following as critical accounting policies.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments

We will value our investments in accordance with ASC Topic 820, Fair Value Measurements and Disclosure, or ASC Topic 820. ASC Topic 820 defines fair value, establishes a framework for measuring fair value and expands disclosures about assets and liabilities measured at fair value. ASC Topic 820's definition of fair value focuses on exit price in the principal, or most advantageous, market and prioritizes the use of market-based inputs over entity-specific inputs within a measurement of fair value.

The portfolio will often include debt investments and equity investments that are fair valued. The portion of our portfolio that receives values from independent third parties are valued at their mid quotations obtained from unaffiliated market makers, other financial institutions that trade in similar investments or based on prices provided by independent third-party pricing services. For investments where there are no available bid quotations, fair value is derived using proprietary models that consider the analyses of independent valuation agents as well as credit risk, liquidity, market credit spreads, and other applicable factors for similar transactions.

Due to the nature of our strategy, our portfolio will include relatively illiquid investments that are privately held. Valuations of privately held investments are inherently uncertain, may fluctuate over short periods of time and may be based on estimates. The determination of fair value may differ materially from the values that would have been used if a ready market for these investments existed. Our net asset value could be materially affected if the determinations regarding the fair value of our investments were materially higher or lower than the values that we ultimately realize upon the disposal of such investments.

Pursuant to Rule 2a-5 under the 1940 Act, the Board has designated the Adviser as the Company's valuation designee to perform the fair valuation determination for securities and other assets held by the Company. Pursuant to board approved policies and procedures, the Adviser, is responsible for determining the fair value of the portfolio investments that are not publicly traded, whose market prices are not readily available on a quarterly basis in good faith or any other situation where portfolio investments require a fair value determination. Rule 2a-5 states that a market quotation is readily available only when that quotation is a quoted price (unadjusted) in active markets for identical investments that the Company can access at the measurement date, provided that a quotation will not be readily available if it is not reliable. Market quotations may also not be "readily available" if a significant event occurs that causes the Adviser to believe that the market price of a security no longer represents the security's current value at the time of the Company's NAV determination.

The valuation process is conducted at the end of each fiscal quarter, with a portion of our valuations of portfolio companies without market quotations subject to review by the independent valuation firms each quarter. When an external event with respect to one of our portfolio companies, such as a purchase transaction, public offering or subsequent equity sale occurs, we expect to use the pricing indicated by such external event to corroborate our valuation.

With respect to investments for which market quotations are not readily available, the Adviser undertakes a multi-step valuation process each quarter, as described below:

- The valuation process begins with each portfolio company or investment being initially valued by investment professionals of the Adviser responsible for credit monitoring or independent third-party valuation firms.
- Preliminary valuation conclusions are then documented and discussed with a committee comprised of certain senior management employees of the Adviser (the "Valuation Committee").
- The Audit and Qualified Legal Compliance Committee of the Board, in assistance of Board valuation oversight, reviews portfolio valuation, including oversight of valuations determined by the Adviser and the Valuation Committee pursuant to the policies and procedures approved by the Board.
- At least once each quarter, the valuations for approximately one quarter of the portfolio investments that have been fair valued are reviewed by an independent valuation firm such that, over the course of a year, each material portfolio investment that has been fair valued shall have been reviewed by an independent valuation firm at least once.
- Based on this information, the Adviser discusses valuations and determines the fair value of each investment in our portfolio in good faith pursuant to board-approved policies and procedures.

Organization Costs

Organization costs include the cost of incorporation, such as the cost of legal services and other fees pertaining to our organization. Organization costs, together with offering costs, are limited to 1% of total gross proceeds raised in the offering and are not due and payable to the Adviser to the extent they exceed that amount. For the year ended December 31, 2022, 2021, and 2020, the Adviser did not incur any organization costs on our behalf.

Offering Costs

Our offering costs include legal fees, promotional costs and other costs pertaining to the public offering of our shares of common stock and are capitalized and amortized to expense over one year. For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Adviser incurred offering costs of $0, $0, and $0, respectively, on our behalf. For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Company capitalized $0, $0, and $0, respectively, of offering costs. Of the capitalized offering costs, $0, $0, and $0 were amortized to expense during the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, respectively. As of December 31, 2022, and December 31, 2021, $0 and $0 remained on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities, respectively.

Organization costs and offering costs are limited to 1% of total gross proceeds raised in this offering and are not due and payable to the Adviser to the extent they exceed that amount. As of December 31, 2022, the cumulative aggregate amount of $5,327,574 of organization and offering costs exceeds 1% of total proceeds raised. Subsequent to the termination of the Offering, the Adviser forfeited the right to reimbursement of the remaining $4,305,091 of these costs.

Investment Transactions and Related Investment Income and Expense

We record our investment transactions on a trade date basis, which is the date when we have determined that all material terms have been defined for the transactions. These transactions could possibly settle on a subsequent date depending on the transaction type. All related revenue and expenses attributable to these transactions are reflected on the Statements of Operations commencing on the trade date unless otherwise specified by the transaction documents. Realized gains and losses on investment transactions are recorded on the specific identification method. We accrue interest income if we expect that ultimately, we will be able to collect it. Generally, when an interest payment default occurs on a loan in our portfolio, or if our management otherwise believes that the issuer of the loan will not be able to service the loan and other obligations, we place the loan on non-accrual status and will cease recognizing interest income on that loan until all principal and interest is current through payment or until a restructuring occurs, such that the interest income is deemed to be collectible. However, we remain contractually entitled to this interest. We may make exceptions to this policy if the loan has sufficient collateral value and is in the process of collection. Accrued interest is written off when it becomes probable that such interest will not be collected, and the amount of uncollectible interest can be reasonably estimated. We also accrue for delayed compensation, which is a pricing adjustment payable by the parties to a secondary loan trade that closes late, intended to assure that neither party derives an economic advantage from the delay. Delayed compensation begins calculating at the loan's specific coupon rate if a trade hasn't settled within 7 business days of trading. Original issue discounts, market discounts or premiums are accreted or amortized using the effective interest method as interest income and will be accreted or amortized over the maturity period of the investments. We will record prepayment premiums on loans and debt securities as interest income. Dividend income, if any, will be recognized on an accrual basis to the extent that we expect to collect such amount.

We may have investments in our portfolio that contain a PIK interest provision. Any PIK interest will be added to the principal balance of such investments and is recorded as income, if the portfolio company valuation indicates that such PIK interest is collectible. In order to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, substantially all of our income (including PIK interest) must be distributed to stockholders in the form of dividends, even if we have not collected any cash.

Interest expense is recorded on an accrual basis. Certain expenses related to legal and tax consultation, due diligence, rating fees, valuation expenses and independent collateral appraisals may arise when we make certain investments.

Loan Origination, Facility, Commitment and Amendment Fees

We may receive fees in addition to interest income from loans during the life of the investment. We may receive origination fees upon the origination of an investment. These origination fees are initially deferred and deducted from the cost basis of the investment and subsequently accreted into income over the term of the loan. We may receive facility, commitment and amendment fees, which are paid to us on an ongoing basis. Facility fees, sometimes referred to as asset management fees, are accrued as a percentage periodic fee on the base amount (either the funded facility amount or the committed principal amount). Commitment fees are based upon the undrawn portion committed by us and are recorded on an accrual basis. Amendment fees are paid in connection with loan amendments and waivers and are accounted for upon completion of the amendments or waivers, generally when such fees are receivable. Any such fees are included in other income on the Statements of Operations.

Net Realized Gains or Losses and Net Change in Unrealized Appreciation or Depreciation

We measure net realized gains or losses by the difference between the net proceeds from the repayment or sale and the amortized cost basis of the investment, without regard to unrealized appreciation or depreciation previously recognized, but considering unamortized upfront fees and prepayment penalties. Net change in unrealized appreciation or depreciation will reflect the change in portfolio investment values during the reporting period, including any reversal of previously recorded unrealized appreciation or depreciation, when gains or losses are realized.

U.S. Federal Income Taxes

We have elected to be treated as a RIC under Subchapter M of the Code and intend each year to qualify and be eligible to be treated as such. As a RIC, we generally will not have to pay corporate-level federal income taxes on any investment company taxable income or net capital gains that we distribute as dividends to our stockholders. In order to qualify for the special tax treatment accorded RICs and their shareholders, we must meet certain gross income, diversification, and distribution requirements.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

Please refer to Note 2 to the financial statements included herein for discussion of recent accounting pronouncements.

Item 7A. Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk

We are subject to financial market risks, most significantly changes in interest rates. As of December 31, 2021, 63% (based on fair value) of the investments in our portfolio had floating interest rates. These investments are usually based on a floating LIBOR and typically have interest rate reset provisions that adjust applicable interest rates under such loans to current market rates on a monthly or quarterly basis.

Pursuant to the terms of the TRS which expired on June 10, 2020, we paid fees to BNP Paribas a rate equal to one-month LIBOR plus 2.00% per annum on the utilized notional amount of the loans subject to the TRS in exchange for the right to receive the economic benefit of a pool of loans having a maximum notional market value amount of $60,000,000. Pursuant to the terms of the Financing Arrangement, which was paid down and closed on April 15, 2020, we paid fees to the BNPP entities at floating rate based on the asset type, but generally one-month LIBOR plus 1.30% per annum on the amount borrowed.

To the extent that any present or future credit facilities or other financing arrangements that we or any of our subsidiaries enter into are based on a floating interest rate, we will be subject to risks relating to changes in market interest rates. In periods of rising interest rates when we or our subsidiaries have such debt outstanding, or financing arrangements in effect, our interest expense would increase, which could reduce our net investment income, especially to the extent we hold fixed rate investments.

A rise in the general level of interest rates can be expected to lead to higher interest rates applicable to our debt investments, especially to the extent that we predominantly hold variable-rate investments, and to declines in the value of any fixed- rate investments we hold. To the extent that a majority of our investments may be in variable-rate investments, an increase in interest rates could make it easier for us to meet or exceed the hurdle rate for the income incentive fee payable to the Adviser and may result in a substantial increase in our net investment income, and also to the amount of incentive fees payable to our Adviser with respect to our increasing pre-incentive fee net investment income.

In July 2017, the Financial Conduct Authority (the authority that regulates LIBOR) announced it intends to stop compelling banks to submit rates for the calculation of LIBOR after 2021. The Alternative Reference Rates Committee (“ARRC”) has proposed the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (“SOFR”) as the recommended alternative to USD-LIBOR for use in derivatives and other financial contracts that are currently indexed to USD-LIBOR. ARRC has proposed a paced market transition plan to SOFR from USD-LIBOR and organizations are currently working on industry wide and company specific transition plans as it relates to derivatives and cash markets exposed to USD-LIBOR. We have material contracts that are indexed to USD-LIBOR and are monitoring this activity and evaluating the related risks. Please refer to “LIBOR Transition and Associated Risk” for more information.

In connection with the COVID-19 pandemic, the Fed and other central banks have reduced certain interest rates and LIBOR has decreased. A prolonged reduction in interest rates will reduce our gross investment income and could result in a decrease in our net investment income if such decreases in LIBOR are not offset by a corresponding increase in the spread over LIBOR that we earn on any portfolio investments, a decrease in in our operating expenses, including with respect to our income incentive fee, or a decrease in the interest rate of our floating interest rate liabilities tied to LIBOR.

Assuming that the Statement of Assets and Liabilities as of December 31, 2022, were to remain constant and that we took no actions to alter our existing interest rate sensitivity, the following table shows the annualized impact of hypothetical base rate changes in interest rates.

Change in interest rates	Increase (decrease) in interest income	(Increase) decrease in interest expense	Increase (decrease) in NII
Down 25 basis points	$ —	$ —	$ —

Although we believe that this analysis is indicative of our existing sensitivity to interest rate changes, it does not adjust for changes in the credit market, credit quality, the size and composition of the assets in our portfolio and other business developments, including borrowing under future credit facilities or other borrowing. Accordingly, we can offer no assurances that actual results would not differ materially from the analysis above.

We may in the future hedge against interest rate fluctuations by using standard hedging instruments such as interest rate swaps, futures, options and forward contracts to the limited extent permitted under the 1940 Act and applicable commodities laws. While hedging activities may insulate us against adverse changes in interest rates, they may also limit our ability to participate in the benefits of lower interest rates with respect to the investments in our portfolio with fixed interest rates.

(1) Unless otherwise noted, the Company did not "control" and was not an "affiliated person" of any of its portfolio companies, each as defined in the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the "1940 Act"). In general, under the 1940 Act, the Company would be presumed to "control" a portfolio company if it owned 25% or more of its voting securities or had the power to exercise control over the management or policies of such portfolio company, and would be an "affiliated person" of a portfolio company if it owned 5% or more of its voting securities. Additionally, companies under common control (e.g., companies with a common owner of greater than 25% of their respective voting securities) are affiliates under the 1940 Act.

(2) All investments are denominated in United States Dollars.

(3) Amortized cost represents the original cost adjusted for the amortization of premiums and/or accretion of discounts, as applicable, on investments.

(4) Senior secured loans in which the Company invests generally pay interest at rates which are periodically determined by reference to a base lending rate plus a spread (unless otherwise identified, all senior secured loans carry a variable rate of interest). These base lending rates are generally (i) the Prime Rate offered by one or more major United States banks, (ii) the lending rate offered by one or more European banks such as the London Interbank Offered Rate ("LIBOR") or (iii) the coupon rate. Rate shown represents the actual rate at December 31, 2022. Senior secured loans, while exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 (the "1933 Act"), contain certain restrictions on resale and cannot be sold publicly. Senior secured floating rate loans often require prepayments from excess cash flow or permit the borrower to repay at its election. The degree to which borrowers repay, whether as a contractual requirement or at their election, cannot be predicted with accuracy. As a result, the actual remaining maturity may be substantially less than the stated maturity shown.

(5) The investment is not a qualifying asset under Section 55 of the 1940 Act. A business development company, such as the Company ("BDC"), may not acquire any asset other than a qualifying asset, unless at the time the acquisition is made, qualifying assets represent at least 70% of the business development company's total assets. Non-qualifying assets represented 4.8% of the Company's total assets as of December 31, 2022.

NexPoint Capital, Inc. (the "Company") is an externally managed, non-diversified, closed-end management investment company that has elected to be regulated as a business development company ("BDC") under the "1940 Act". The Company follows the investment company accounting and reporting guidance of the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") Topic 946 Financial Services—Investment Companies. The Company's investment objective is to generate current income and capital appreciation primarily through investments in middle-market healthcare companies, middle-market companies in non-healthcare sectors, syndicated floating rate debt of large public and nonpublic companies and collateralized loan obligations. The Company has elected to be treated for federal income tax purposes, and intends to qualify annually thereafter, as a regulated investment company ("RIC"), under Subchapter M of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"). In this report, "we," "us" and "our" refer to NexPoint Capital, Inc.

The Company was formed in Delaware on September 30, 2013 and formally commenced operations on September 2, 2014 upon satisfying the minimum offering requirement by raising gross proceeds of $10.0 million in connection with a private placement with NexPoint Advisors, L.P. (the "Adviser"), our external advisor. The Company's continuous public offering ended on February 14, 2018.

Note 2 — Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Accounting

The accompanying financial statements of the Company are prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP"). Additionally, the accompanying financial statements of the Company and related financial information have been prepared pursuant to the requirements for reporting on Form 10-K and Article 6 of Regulation S-X.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of increases and decreases in net assets from operations during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Statements of Cash Flows

Information on financial transactions which have been settled through the receipt or disbursement of cash is presented in the Statements of Cash Flows. The cash amount shown in the Statements of Cash Flows is the amount included within the Company's Statements of Assets and Liabilities and includes cash on hand at its custodian bank.

Table of Contents

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers liquid assets deposited with a bank, money market funds, and certain short-term debt instruments with original maturities of three months or less to be cash equivalents. These investments represent amounts held with financial institutions that are readily accessible to pay Company expenses or purchase investments. Cash and cash equivalents are valued at cost plus accrued interest, which approximates fair value. The value of cash equivalents denominated in foreign currencies, if any, is determined by converting to U.S. dollars on the date of the Statements of Assets and Liabilities. As of December 31, 2022 and 2021, the Company had cash and cash equivalents of $1,629,846 and $2,811,171, respectively. As of December 31, 2022 and 2021, $1,420,428 and $2,704,193 was held in the State Street U.S. Government Money Market Fund, and $209,418 and $106,978 was held in a custodial account with State Street Bank and Trust Company, respectively.

Securities Sold Short and Restricted Cash

The Company may sell securities short. A security sold short is a transaction in which the Company sells a security it does not own in anticipation that the market price of that security will decline. When the Company sells a security short, it must borrow the security sold short from a broker-dealer and deliver it to the buyer upon conclusion of the transaction. The Company may have to pay a fee to borrow particular securities and is often obligated to pay over any dividends or other payments received on such borrowed securities. Cash held as collateral for securities sold short is classified as restricted cash on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities, when applicable. Securities held as collateral for securities sold short are shown on the Schedules of Investments for the Company, as applicable. As of December 31, 2022 and 2021, the Company did not have any securities sold short.

When securities are sold short, the Company intends to limit exposure to a possible market decline in the value of its portfolio companies through short sales of securities that the Adviser believes possess volatility characteristics similar to those being hedged. In addition, the Company may use short sales for non-hedging purposes to pursue its investment objective. Subject to the requirements of the 1940 Act and the Code, the Company will not make a short sale if, after giving effect to such sale, the market value of all securities sold short by the Company exceeds 25% of the value of its total assets.

Other Fee Income

Fee income may consist of origination/closing fees, amendment fees, administrative agent fees, transaction break-up fees and other miscellaneous fees. Origination fees, amendment fees, and other similar fees are non-recurring fee sources. Such fees are received on a transaction by transaction basis and do not constitute a regular stream of income. For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020 the Company recognized $0, $4,651 and $108,535 of fee income, respectively.

It is the Company's policy to hold the investments at fair value. Accounting Standards Codification Topic 820, Fair Value Measurements and Disclosure ("ASC Topic 820") defines fair value as the price that would be received from the sale of an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. ASC Topic 820 also establishes a three-tier fair value hierarchy, which prioritizes the inputs used in measuring fair value. These tiers include: Level 1, defined as observable inputs such as quoted prices in active markets; Level 2, which includes inputs such as quoted prices for similar securities in active markets and quoted prices for identical securities where there is little or no activity in the market; and Level 3, defined as unobservable inputs for which little or no market data exists, therefore requiring an entity to develop its own assumptions.

Pursuant to Rule 2a-5 under the 1940 Act, the Board has designated the Adviser as the Company's valuation designee to perform the fair valuation determination for securities and other assets held by the Company. The Company determines the net asset value of its investment portfolio each quarter, or more frequently as needed. Securities that are publicly-traded are valued at the reported closing price on the valuation date. Securities that are not publicly-traded are valued at fair value as determined in good faith by the Adviser as valuation designee, pursuant to board-approved policies and procedures. In connection with that determination, the Adviser will consider portfolio company valuations based on relevant inputs, including indicative dealer quotes, values of like securities, recent portfolio company financial statements and forecasts, and valuations prepared by third-party valuation services. Rule 2a-5 states that a market quotation is readily available only when that quotation is a quoted price (unadjusted) in active markets for identical investments that the Company can access at the measurement date, provided that a quotation will not be readily available if it is not reliable. Market quotations may also not be "readily available" if a significant event occurs that causes the Adviser to believe that the market price of a security no longer represents the security's current value at the time of the Company's NAV determination.

With respect to investments for which market quotations are not readily available, the Adviser undertakes a multi-step valuation process each quarter, as described below:

- The valuation process begins with each portfolio company or investment being initially valued by investment professionals of the Adviser responsible for credit monitoring or independent third party valuation firms.
- Preliminary valuation conclusions are then documented and discussed with the Valuation Committee.
- At least once each quarter, the valuations for approximately one quarter of the portfolio investments that have been fair valued are reviewed by an independent valuation firm such that, over the course of a year, each material portfolio investment that has been fair valued shall have been reviewed by an independent valuation firm at least once.
- Based on this information, the Adviser discusses valuations and determines the fair value of each investment in the portfolio in good faith pursuant to board-approved policies and procedures.

As of December 31, 2022, the Company held the following investments for which a sufficient level of current, reliable market quotations were not available:

Determination of fair value involves subjective judgments and estimates. Accordingly, the notes to the Company's financial statements will refer to the uncertainty with respect to the possible effect of such valuations, and any change in such valuations, in the Company's financial statements. Below is a description of factors that the Adviser and the Valuation Committee may consider when valuing the Company's debt and equity investments.

Valuation of fixed income investments, such as loans and debt securities, depends upon a number of factors, including prevailing interest rates for like securities, expected volatility in future interest rates, call features, put features and other relevant terms of the debt. For investments without readily available market prices, the Company may incorporate these factors into discounted cash flow models to arrive at fair value. Other factors that the Adviser and the Valuation Committee may consider include the borrower's ability to adequately service its debt, the fair market value of the portfolio company in relation to the face amount of its outstanding debt and the quality of collateral securing the Company's debt investments.

The Company's equity investments in portfolio companies for which there is no liquid public market will be valued at fair value. The Adviser and the Valuation Committee, in its analysis of fair value, may consider various factors, such as multiples of earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization ("EBITDA"), cash flows, net income, revenues or, in limited instances, book value or liquidation value. All of these factors may be subject to adjustments based upon the particular circumstances of a portfolio company or the Company's actual investment position. For example, adjustments to EBITDA may take into account compensation to previous owners or acquisition, recapitalization, restructuring or other related items.

The Adviser and the Valuation Committee may also look to private merger and acquisition statistics, public trading multiples discounted for illiquidity and other factors, valuations implied by third-party investments in the portfolio companies or industry practices in determining fair value. The Adviser and the Valuation Committee may also consider the size and scope of a portfolio company and its specific strengths and weaknesses, as well as any other factors it deems relevant in assessing the value. Generally, the value of the Company's equity interests in public companies for which market quotations are readily available will be based upon the most recent closing public market price.

If the Company receives warrants or other equity-linked securities at nominal or no additional cost in connection with an investment in a debt security, the Company will allocate the cost basis in the investment between the debt securities and any such warrants or other equity-linked securities received at the time of origination. The Adviser and the Valuation Committee will subsequently value these warrants or other equity-linked securities received at fair value.

As applicable, the Company values its Level 2 assets by using the midpoint of the prevailing bid and ask prices from dealers on the date of the relevant period end, which is provided by an independent third-party pricing service and screened for validity by such service. For investments for which the third-party pricing service is unable to obtain quoted prices, the Company obtains bid and ask prices directly from dealers who make a market in such investments.

To the extent that the Company holds investments for which no active secondary market exists and, therefore, no bid and ask prices can be readily obtained, the Adviser and the Valuation Committee utilize an independent third-party valuation service to value such investments in a manner consistent with the Company's multistep valuation process previously described.

The Company periodically benchmarks the bid and ask prices received from the third-party pricing service and/or dealers, as applicable, and valuations received from the third-party valuation service against the actual prices at which it purchases and sells its investments. The Company believes that these prices are reliable indicators of fair value. The Adviser and the Valuation Committee review and approve the valuation determinations made with respect to these investments in a manner consistent with the Company's valuation procedures.

As of December 31, 2022, the Company's investments consisted of senior secured loans, asset-backed securities, common stocks, LLC interests, preferred stocks, corporate bonds, and warrants, which may be purchased for a fraction of the price of the underlying securities. The fair value of the Company's loans, bonds and asset-backed securities are generally based on quotes received from brokers or independent pricing services. Loans, bonds and asset-backed securities with quotes that are based on actual trades with a sufficient level of activity on or near the measurement date are classified as Level 2 assets. Loans, bonds and asset-backed securities that are priced using quotes derived from implied values, indicative bids or a limited number of actual trades are classified as Level 3 assets because the inputs used by the brokers and pricing services to derive the values are not readily observable.

The fair value of the Company's common stocks and options that are not actively traded on national exchanges are generally priced using quotes derived from implied values, indicative bids, or a limited amount of actual trades and are classified as Level 3 assets because the inputs used by the brokers and pricing services to derive the values are not readily observable. Exchange traded options are valued based on the last trade price on the primary exchange on which they trade. If an option does not trade, the mid-price is utilized to value the option.

At the end of each calendar quarter, the Adviser evaluates the Level 2 and 3 investments for changes in liquidity, including: whether a broker is willing to execute at the quoted price, the depth and consistency of prices from third party services, and the existence of contemporaneous, observable trades in the market. Additionally, management evaluates the Level 1 and 2 assets and liabilities on a quarterly basis for changes in listings or delistings on national exchanges.

Due to the inherent uncertainty of determining the fair value of investments that do not have a readily available market price, the fair value of the Company's investments may fluctuate from period to period. Additionally, the fair value of investments may differ significantly from the values that would have been used had a ready market existed for such investments and may differ materially from the values the Company may ultimately realize. Further, such investments may be subject to legal and other restrictions on resale or otherwise less liquid than publicly traded securities.

The inputs or methodology used for valuing investments are not necessarily an indication of the risk associated with investing in those investments. The following are summaries of the Company's investments categorized within the fair value hierarchy as of December 31, 2022 and December 31, 2021:

Investments designated as Level 3 may include investments valued using quotes or indications furnished by brokers which are based on models or estimates and may not be executable prices. In light of the developing market conditions, the Adviser continues to search for observable data points and evaluate broker quotes and indications received for investments. Determination of fair values is uncertain because it involves subjective judgments and estimates that are unobservable. Transfers from Level 2 to Level 3 are due to a decrease in market activity (e.g. frequency of trades), which resulted in a decrease of available market inputs to determine price. For the year ended December 31, 2022, there were 0 transfers from Level 2 to Level 3. For the year ended December 31, 2021, there were no transfers from Level 2 to Level 3. Transfers from Level 3 to Level 2 and from Level 2 to Level 1 are due to an increase in market activity (e.g. frequency of trades), which resulted in an increase of available market inputs to determine price.

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Company's LLC interests are: discount rate and multiples of EBITDA. Significant increases (decreases) in those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly lower (higher) fair value measurement. The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Company's common equity securities are: multiple of EBITDA, price/MHz-PoP multiple, liquidity discount, discount rate, enterprise value, and transaction price. Significant increases (decreases) in any of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly lower (higher) fair value measurement. The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Company's bank loan securities are: discount rate and spread adjustment. Significant increases (decreases) in either of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly lower (higher) fair value measurement.

Table of Contents

The significant unobservable inputs used in the fair value measurement of the Company's asset-backed securities are: discount rate and broker quote indication of value. Significant increases (decreases) in either of those inputs in isolation could result in a significantly lower (higher) fair value measurement. The significant unobservable input used in the fair value measurement of the Company's warrant securities is: volatility assumption. Significant increases (decreases) in this input in isolation could result in a significantly lower (higher) fair value measurement.

Derivative Transactions

The Company is subject to equity price risk, interest rate risk and foreign currency exchange rate risk in the normal course of pursuing its investment objective. The Company may invest without limitation in warrants and may also use derivatives, primarily swaps (including equity, variance and volatility swaps), options and futures contracts on securities, interest rates, commodities and/or currencies, as substitutes for direct investments the Company can make. The Company may also use derivatives such as swaps, options (including options on futures), futures, and foreign currency transactions (e.g., foreign currency swaps, futures and forwards) to any extent deemed by the Adviser to be in the best interest of the Company, and to the extent permitted by the 1940 Act, to hedge various investments for risk management and speculative purposes.

The Company purchases options, subject to certain limitations. The Company may invest in options contracts to manage its exposure to the stock and bond markets and fluctuations in foreign currency values. Writing puts and buying calls tend to increase the Company's exposure to the underlying instrument while buying puts and writing calls tend to decrease the Company's exposure to the underlying instrument, or economically hedge other Company investments. The Company's risks in using these contracts include changes in the value of the underlying instruments, nonperformance of the counterparties under the contracts' terms and changes in the liquidity of the secondary market for the contracts. Options are valued at the last sale price, or if no sales occurred on that day, at the last quoted bid price. As of and during the year ended December 31, 2022 and 2021, the Company did not hold options.

Investment Transactions

Investment transactions are accounted for on trade date. Realized gains (losses) on investments sold are recorded on the basis of specific identification method for both financial statement and U.S. federal income tax purposes. Payable for investments purchased and receivable for investments sold on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities, if any, represents the cost of purchases and proceeds from sales of investment securities, respectively, for trades that have been executed but not yet settled.

Income Recognition

Corporate actions (including cash dividends from common stock and equity tranches of asset-backed securities) are recorded on the ex-dividend date, net of applicable withholding taxes, except for certain foreign corporate actions, which are recorded as soon after the ex-dividend date as such information becomes available. Interest income is recorded on the accrual basis. The Company does not accrue as a receivable for interest or dividends on loans, asset-backed securities and other securities if there is a reason to doubt the Company's ability to collect such income. For loans with contractual PIK (payment-in-kind) interest income, which represents contractual interest accrued and added to the loan balance that generally becomes due at maturity, we will not accrue PIK interest if we believe that the PIK interest is no longer collectible. Loan origination fees, original issue discount and market discount are capitalized and such amounts are amortized as interest income over the respective term of the loan or security. Upon the prepayment of a loan or security, any unamortized loan origination fees and original issue discount are recorded as interest income.

Accretion of discounts and amortization of premiums on taxable bonds, loans and asset-backed securities are computed to the call or maturity date, whichever is shorter, using the effective yield method. Withholding taxes on foreign dividends have been provided for in accordance with the Company's understanding of the applicable country's tax rules and rates.

Offering costs include legal fees, promotional costs and other costs pertaining to the public offering of our shares of common stock and are also paid by the Adviser. Selling commissions and fees of $0, $0, and $0 were paid for the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, respectively.

Earnings Per Share

In accordance with the provisions of ASC Topic 260—Earnings per Share ("ASC Topic 260"), basic earnings per share is computed by dividing earnings available to common stockholders by the weighted average number of shares outstanding during the period. Other potentially dilutive common shares, and the related impact to earnings, are considered when calculating earnings per share on a diluted basis.

Table of Contents

The following table sets forth the computation of the weighted average basic and diluted net increase in net assets per share from operations:

Note 4 — Related Party Transactions and Arrangements

Investment Advisory Fee

Payments for investment advisory services under the Company's investment advisory agreement (the "Investment Advisory Agreement") and administrative services agreement (the "Administration Agreement") are equal to (a) a base management fee calculated at an annual rate of 2.0% of the average value of the Company's gross assets at the end of the two most recently completed calendar quarters and (b) an incentive fee based on the Company's performance. Effective June 5, 2017, the Investment Advisory Agreement and the Administration Agreement were amended to exclude cash and cash equivalents from the calculation of gross assets for the purpose of calculating investment advisory and administration fees.

For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Company incurred investment advisory fees payable to the Adviser of $1,096,487, $1,220,044 and $1,192,535, respectively. Amounts waived for investment advisory fees or administrative fees pertaining to periods prior to June 10, 2016 are not recoupable, but amounts waived for investment advisory fees or administrative fees pertaining to periods from and after June 10, 2016 are subject to recoupment by the Adviser within three years from the date that such fees were otherwise payable, provided that the recoupment will be limited to the amount of such voluntarily waived fees from and after June 10, 2016 and will not cause the sum of the Company's investment advisory fees, administration fees, Other Expenses (as defined under "Expense Limits and Reimbursements" below), and any recoupment to exceed the annual rate of 3.40% of average gross assets. Effective December 20, 2017, the Adviser ended its voluntary waiver of advisory fees.

Incentive Fee

The incentive fee consists of two parts. The first part, which is referred to as the subordinated incentive fee on income, is calculated and payable quarterly in arrears, and equals 20.0% of "pre-incentive fee net investment income" for the immediately preceding quarter and is subject to a hurdle rate, expressed as a rate of return on the Company's net assets, as defined in the Investment Advisory Agreement, equal to 1.875% per quarter. As a result, the Adviser will not earn this incentive fee for any quarter until the Company's pre-incentive fee net investment income for such quarter exceeds the hurdle rate of 1.875%. Once the Company's pre-incentive fee net investment income in any quarter exceeds the hurdle rate, the Adviser will be entitled to a "catch-up" fee equal to the amount of the pre-incentive fee net investment income in excess of the hurdle rate, until the Company's pre-incentive fee net investment income for such quarter equals 2.34375% of the Company's net assets at the end of such quarter. This "catch-up" feature allows the Adviser to recoup the fees foregone as a result of the existence of the hurdle rate in that quarter. Thereafter, the Adviser will receive 20.0% of the Company's pre-incentive fee net investment income from the quarter.

Appx. 000391

The second part of the incentive fee, which is referred to as the incentive fee on capital gains, is determined and payable in arrears as of the end of each calendar year (or upon termination of the Investment Advisory Agreement). This fee equals 20.0% of the Company's incentive fee capital gains, which will equal the Company's realized capital gains on a cumulative basis from formation, calculated as of the end of the applicable period, computed net of all realized capital losses (proceeds less amortized cost) and unrealized capital depreciation on a cumulative basis, less the aggregate amount of any previously paid capital gains incentive fees. The Company will accrue for the capital gains incentive fee, which, if earned, will be paid annually. The Company will accrue for the capital gains incentive fee based on net realized and unrealized gains; however, under the terms of the Investment Advisory Agreement, the fee payable to the Adviser will be based on realized gains and no such fee will be payable with respect to unrealized gains unless and until such gains are actually realized.

For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Company incurred $0, $0 and recognized a reduction of $0 of incentive fees on capital gains, respectively. Since inception, the Company has accrued $0 of incentive fees on capital gains in aggregate. Effective December 20, 2017, the Adviser ended its voluntary waiver of incentive fees. No such fees have been paid with respect to realized gains to the Adviser as of December 31, 2022.

Administration Fee

Pursuant to the Administration Agreement with the Adviser, the Company also reimburses the Adviser for expenses necessary for its performance of services related to the Company's administration and operations. The amount of the reimbursement will be the lesser of (1) the Company's allocable portion of overhead and other expenses incurred by the Adviser in performing its obligations under the Administration Agreement and (2) 0.40% of the Company's average gross assets, (excluding cash and cash equivalents). The Adviser is required to allocate the cost of such services to the Company based on objective factors such as assets, revenues, time allocations and/or other reasonable metrics. The Board assesses the reasonableness of such reimbursements based on the breadth, depth and quality of such services as compared to the estimated cost to the Company of obtaining similar services from third-party service providers known to be available. In addition, the Board will consider whether any single third-party service provider would be capable of providing all such services at comparable cost and quality. Finally, the Board will compare the total amount paid to the Adviser for such services as a percentage of the Company's net assets to the same ratio as reported by other comparable BDCs.

For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Company incurred administration fees payable to the Adviser of $226,948, $244,754 and $245,534, respectively. Amounts waived for management fees or administrative services expenses pertaining to periods prior to June 10, 2016 are not recoupable, but amounts waived for management fees or administrative services, expenses pertaining to periods from and after June 10, 2016 are subject to recoupment by the Adviser within three years from the date that such fees were otherwise payable, provided that the recoupment will be limited to the amount of such voluntarily waived fees from and after June 10, 2016 and will not cause the sum of the Company's advisory fees, administration fees, Other Expenses, and any recoupment to exceed the annual rate of 3.40% of average gross assets. Effective December 20, 2017, the Adviser ended its voluntary waiver of administration fees.

Organization and Offering Costs

Organization costs include the cost of incorporating, such as the cost of legal services and other fees pertaining to our organization, and are paid by the Adviser. For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Adviser did not incur or pay organization costs on our behalf.

Offering costs include legal fees, promotional costs and other costs pertaining to the public offering of our shares of common stock, and are capitalized and amortized to expense over one year. The Company's continuous public offering ended on February 14, 2018.

Table of Contents

Organization costs and offering costs are limited to 1% of total gross proceeds raised in the offering and are not due and payable to the Adviser to the extent they exceed that amount. As of December 31, 2022, the cumulative aggregate amount of $5,327,574 of organization and offering costs exceeds 1% of total proceeds raised. Subsequent to the termination of the offering, the Adviser forfeited the right to reimbursement of the remaining $4,305,091 of these costs.

Fees Paid to Officers and Directors

Each director who oversees all of the portfolios in the Fund Complex receives an annual retainer of $150,000 payable in quarterly installments and allocated among each portfolio in the Fund Complex based on relative net assets. The annual retainer for a director who does not oversee all of the portfolios in the Fund Complex is prorated based on the portion of the $150,000 annual retainer allocable to the portfolios overseen by such director. Directors are reimbursed for actual out-of-pocket expenses relating to attendance at meetings. In addition, the Chairman of the Board and the Chairman of the Audit and Qualified Legal Committee each receive an additional payment of $10,000 payable in quarterly installments and allocated among each portfolio in the Fund Complex based on relative net assets. The Directors do not receive any separate compensation in connection with service on

Committees or for attending Board or Committee Meetings. They do not have any pension or retirement plan. The "Fund Complex" consists of all of the RICs advised by the Adviser and any affiliates as of the period covered by this report. The Company pays no compensation to any of its officers, all of whom are employed by the Adviser, its affiliates or Skyview Group, Inc. ("Skyview").

For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Company recorded an expense relating to director fees of $18,170, $17,781 and $20,123, respectively, which represents the allocation of the director fees to the Company. As of December 31, 2022, there was no expenses payable relating to director fees.

Expense Limits and Reimbursements

Pursuant to an expense limitation agreement, the Adviser is contractually obligated to waive fees and, if necessary, pay or reimburse certain other expenses to limit the ordinary "Other Expenses" to 1.0% of the quarter-end value of the Company's gross assets through the one year anniversary of the effective date of the registration statement (the "Expense Limitation Agreement"). Under the Expense Limitation Agreement, "Other Expenses" are all expenses with the exception of advisor and administration fees, organization and offering costs and the following: (i) interest, taxes, dividends tied to short sales, brokerage commissions, and other expenditures which are capitalized in accordance with GAAP; (ii) expenses incurred indirectly as a result of investments in other investment companies and pooled investment vehicles; (iii) other expenses attributable to, and incurred as a result of, our investments; (iv) expenses payable to the Adviser, as administrator, for providing significant managerial assistance to our portfolio companies; and (v) other extraordinary expenses (including litigation expenses) not incurred in the ordinary course of our business. The obligation will automatically renew for one-year terms unless it is terminated by the Company or the Adviser upon written notice within 60 days of the end of the current term or upon termination of the Investment Advisory Agreement. The Expense Limitation Agreement will continue through at least April 30, 2023.

Any expenses waived or reimbursed by the Adviser pursuant to the Expense Limitation Agreement are subject to possible recoupment by the Adviser within three years from the date of the waiver or reimbursement. The recoupment by the Adviser will be limited to the amount of previously waived or reimbursed expenses and cannot cause the Company's expenses to exceed any expense limitation in place at the time of recoupment or waiver.

Reimbursable Expenses Table

The cumulative total of fees waived by the Adviser under the Expense Limitation Agreement, which are recoupable as of December 31, 2022 is $1,022,343. This balance, and the balances in the tables below, only include amounts pertaining to the Expense Limitation Agreement, and do not include waived advisory and administration fees subject to recoupment discussed earlier in Note 4. There can be no assurance that the Expense Limitation Agreement will remain in effect or that the Adviser will reimburse any portion of the Company's expenses in future quarters not covered by the Expense Limitation Agreement. Amounts shown do not include the amounts committed by the Adviser to voluntarily reimburse the Company for unrealized losses, all of which are not recoupable.

Net Increase from Amounts Committed by Affiliates

For the years ended December 31, 2022 and December 31, 2021, the Adviser did not voluntarily reimburse the Company for unrealized losses sustained. Cumulatively since inception, the Adviser has committed $2,275,000 to voluntarily reimburse the Company for such losses. Had these commitments not been made, since inception, the net asset value ("NAV") as of December 31, 2022 would have been lower by approximately this amount.

Table of Contents

Amounts committed and paid by the Adviser to reimburse for unrealized losses are nonrecurring, and investors should not expect the Adviser to make similar commitments or payments in the future.

Receivable from Adviser / Payable to Adviser

As of December 31, 2022 and December 31, 2021, $92,216 and $95,458 were owed from the Adviser to the Company, respectively, largely related to the expense limitation agreement.

As of December 31, 2022 and December 31, 2021, the Company owed $314,993 and $378,587, respectively, to the Adviser, largely related to advisory fees, and administration fees.

Indemnification

Under the Company's organizational documents, the officers and Directors have been granted certain indemnification rights against certain liabilities that may arise out of performance of their duties to the Company. Additionally, in the normal course of business, the Company may enter into contracts with service providers that contain a variety of indemnification clauses. The Company's maximum exposure under these arrangements is dependent on future claims that may be made against the Company and, therefore, cannot be estimated.

The Company has elected to be treated for federal income tax purposes, and intends to qualify annually, as a RIC under Subchapter M of the Code. To maintain its qualification as a RIC, the Company must, among other things, meet certain source-of-income and asset diversification requirements and distribute to its stockholders, for each taxable year, at least 90% of its "investment company taxable income," which is generally the Company's net ordinary income plus the excess, if any, of realized net short-term capital gains over realized net long-term capital losses. As a RIC, the Company will not be subject to corporate-level federal income taxes on any income that it timely distributes to its stockholders. The Company intends to make distributions in an amount sufficient to maintain its RIC status each year and to avoid any federal income taxes on income so distributed. The Company will also be subject to nondeductible federal excise taxes if it does not distribute at least 98% of net ordinary income, 98.2% of any capital gain net income, if any, and any recognized and undistributed income from prior years on which it paid no federal income taxes.

The character of income and capital gains to be distributed is determined in accordance with the Code, U.S. Treasury regulations, and other applicable authority, which may differ from GAAP. These differences include (but are not limited to) investments organized as partnerships for tax purposes, total return swaps, loan investments, and losses deferred due to wash sale transactions. Reclassifications are made to the Company's capital accounts to reflect income and gains available for distribution (or available capital loss carryovers) under the Code, U.S. Treasury regulations, and other applicable authority. These reclassifications have no impact on net investment income, realized gains or losses, or net asset value of the Company. The calculation of net investment income per share in the Financial Highlights table excludes these adjustments.

As of December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Company made the following permanent book tax differences and reclasses:

Paid in capital excess of par value	$(533,512)	$ 2,104,942	$(1,621,021)
Distributions in excess of net investment income[(1)]	(308,998)	1,143,870	1,541,871
Accumulated realized gains[(1)]	842,510	(3,248,812)	79,150

(1) Amounts are included in distributable earnings (accumulated loss) on the Statements of Assets and Liabilities.

During the year ended December 31, 2022, the differences between book and tax accounting were due primarily to non-deductible excise taxes and partnerships, basis adjustments of loan investments, distribution re-designations and non-REIT return of capital.

For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Company's tax year end, components of distributable earnings on a tax basis are as follows:

Undistributed ordinary income	$ —	$ 72,812	$ 687,291
Net tax appreciation/(depreciation)	(1,567,035)	2,708,891	(6,021,808)
Undistributed capital gains	—	—	—
Other temporary differences	(883,602)	(910,576)	1,315,827

For the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Company had $(30,814,250), $(30,077,894) and $(24,156,099) of capital loss carryovers, respectively.

The tax character of shareholder distributions attributable to the fiscal years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, were as follows:

Paid Distributions attributable to:	2022	2021	2020
Ordinary income	$1,526,458	$3,633,179	$4,409,400
Return of capital	1,999,373	—	—
Long term gain	—	—	—

Unrealized appreciation and depreciation at December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, based on cost of investments for U.S. federal income tax purposes were as follows:

	Gross appreciation	Gross (depreciation)	Net appreciation/ (depreciation)	Cost
December 31, 2022	$ 7,373,938	$ (8,940,973)	$(1,567,035)	$54,860,750
December 31, 2021	4,599,564	(1,890,673)	2,708,891	57,527,420
December 31, 2020	7,723,451	(13,745,259)	(6,021,808)	70,690,423

The tax adjustments that impact cost are wash sales, partnerships and basis adjustments on loan investments.

Uncertainty in Income Taxes

The Company will evaluate its tax positions to determine if the tax positions taken meet the minimum recognition threshold in connection with accounting for uncertainties in income tax positions taken or expected to be taken for the purposes of measuring and recognizing tax benefits or liabilities in the financial statements. Recognition of a tax benefit or liability with respect to an uncertain tax position is required only when the position is "more likely than not" to be sustained assuming examination by taxing authorities. The Company's tax returns are subject to examination by the Internal Revenue Service for a period of three fiscal years after they are filed. The Company recognizes interest and penalties, if any, related to unrecognized tax liabilities as income tax expense in the Statements of Operations. During the years ended December 31, 2022, 2021 and 2020, the Company did not incur any interest or penalties. Furthermore, management of the Company is also not aware of any tax positions for which it is reasonably possible that the total amounts of unrecognized tax benefits will significantly change in the next 12 months.

Note 6 — Share Repurchase Program

On a quarterly basis, the Company intends to offer to repurchase shares of common stock on such terms as may be determined by the Board in its complete and absolute discretion unless, in the judgment of directors who are not "interested persons" of the Company (as defined in the 1940 Act), such repurchases would not be in the best interests of the Company's stockholders or would violate applicable law. The Company will conduct such repurchase offers in accordance with the requirements of Rule 13e-4 of the Exchange Act, and the 1940 Act. Any offer to repurchase shares of common stock will be conducted solely through tender offer materials furnished to each stockholder.

The Company currently intends to limit the number of shares of common stock to be repurchased during any calendar year to the number of shares of common stock it can repurchase with the proceeds it receives from the sale of shares of common stock under its distribution reinvestment plan. At the discretion of the Board, the Company may also use cash on hand, cash available from borrowings and cash from liquidation of securities investments as of the end of the applicable period to repurchase shares of common stock. In addition, the Company will limit the number of shares of common stock to be repurchased in any calendar year to 10.0% of the weighted average number of shares of common stock outstanding in the prior calendar year, or 2.5% in each quarter, though the actual number of shares of common stock that the Company offers to repurchase may be less in light of the limitations noted above. The Company intends to offer to repurchase such shares of common stock at a price (i) not less than the net asset value per share (the "NAV Per Share") of the Company's common stock next calculated following the Expiration Date, and (ii) not more than 2.5% greater than the NAV Per Share as of such date. The Board may amend, suspend or terminate the share repurchase program at any time, upon 30 days' notice.

The Company conducted its quarterly tender offer for the first quarter of 2022 from February 23, 2022, until expiration of March 23, 2022 at 4:00 p.m. New York City time, during which the Company offered to purchase for cash up to 2.5% of its outstanding shares of common stock. During the first quarter tender offer, 85,999 shares of the Company were tendered for repurchase, constituting approximately 0.86% of the Company's outstanding shares.

The Company conducted its quarterly tender offer for the second quarter of 2022 from May 20, 2022, until expiration of June 21, 2022 at 4:00 p.m. New York City time, during which the Company offered to purchase for cash up to 2.5% of its outstanding shares of common stock. During the second quarter tender offer, 102,662 shares of the Company were tendered for repurchase,constituting approximately 1.03% of the Company's outstanding shares.

The Company conducted its quarterly tender offer for the third quarter of 2022 from August 19, 2022, until expiration of September 19,2022 at 4:00 p.m. New York City time, during which the Company offered to purchase for cash up to 2.5% of its outstanding shares of common stock. During the third quarter tender offer, 195,785 shares of the Company were tendered for repurchase, constituting approximately 1.97% of the Company's outstanding shares.

The Company conducted its quarterly tender offer for the fourth quarter of 2022 from November 18, 2022, until expiration of December 19, 2022 at 4:00p.m. New York City time, during which the Company offered to purchase for cash up to 2.5% of its outstanding shares of common stock. During the fourth quarter tender offer, 94,263 shares of the Company were tendered for repurchase, constituting approximately 0.95% of the Company's outstanding shares.

For the year ended December 31, 2022, the Company repurchased 0 shares as part of its death and disability repurchase program.

Note 7 — Credit Facility and Leverage Facilities

On October 19, 2017, the Company entered into a financing arrangement (the "Financing Arrangement") with BNP Paribas Prime Brokerage International, Ltd., BNP Prime Brokerage, Inc., and BNP Paribas (together, the "BNPP Entities"). Under the Financing Agreement, the BNPP Entities may make margin loans to the Company at a rate of one-month LIBOR + 1.30%. The BNPP Entities have the right to cap the amount of margin loans with prior notice to the Company. The Financing Arrangement may be terminated by either the Company or the BNPP Entities with 179 days notice. On April 15, 2020, the Financing Arrangement was paid down and closed. At December 31, 2022, there were no current outstanding or fair value amounts.

Direct interest expense	$ —	$ —	$ 176,911

(1) The Financing Arrangement with BNP was fully paid down and closed as of April 15, 2020, the average daily amount outstanding is calculated through April 15, 2020. The 2.67% represents the weighted average interest rate from January 1, 2020 through April 15, 2020.

The Company is required to maintain 200% asset coverage with respect to its borrowings outstanding. Asset coverage is calculated by subtracting the Company's total liabilities, not including any amount representing bank loans and senior securities, from the Company's total assets and dividing the result by the principal amount of the borrowings outstanding. As of the dates indicated below, the Company's borrowings outstanding and asset coverage was as follows:

BNP Paribas Total Return Swap

On June 13, 2017, the Company entered into the TRS with BNP Paribas over one or more loans, with a maximum aggregate notional amount of the portfolio debt securities subject to the TRS of $40 million. The agreements between the Company and BNP Paribas, which collectively establish the TRS, are referred to herein as the "TRS Agreement."

On April 2, 2018, the Company amended and restated the TRS Agreement with BNP Paribas. The amended and restated TRS Agreement, effective April 10, 2018 increased the maximum aggregate notional amount of the portfolio debt securities subject to the TRS to $60 million. On June 10, 2020, the TRS expired.

Under the terms of the TRS, the Company or BNP Paribas were required to post additional collateral, on a dollar-for-dollar basis, in certain circumstances, including in the event of depreciation or appreciation in the value of the underlying loans. The limit on the additional collateral that the Company was required to post pursuant to the TRS was equal to the difference between the full notional amount of the loans underlying the TRS and the amount of cash collateral already posted by the Company. The amount of collateral required to be posted was determined primarily on the basis of the aggregate value of the underlying securities.

The Company had the option to terminate the TRS at any time more than one month prior to the TRS's scheduled termination date upon providing no less than 30 days' prior notice to BNP Paribas.

For purposes of the asset coverage ratio test applicable to the Company as a BDC, the Company would have treated the outstanding notional amount of the TRS, less the initial amount of any cash collateral required to be posted by the Company under the TRS, as a senior security for the life of that instrument. As of and for the year ended December 31, 2022, the Company has $0 in receivable from BNP Paribas.

Table of Contents

Further, for purposes of Section 55(a) under the 1940 Act, the Company treats each security underlying the TRS as a qualifying asset if such security is a loan and the obligor on such loan is an eligible portfolio company, and as a non-qualifying asset if the obligor is not an eligible portfolio company.

As of December 31, 2022 and 2021, there were no positions held in the TRS.

As a result of decreases in the market value of certain of the Company's assets pledged at derivative counterparties, the Company was required to post additional collateral relating to its margin requirements. The Company experienced delays posting collateral with one counterparty and received an Event of Default notice dated March 23, 2020; however, the Company covered the margin call on March 24, 2020 and received a formal waiver on the Event of Default notice from the counterparty dated April 2, 2020.

Note 8 — Economic Dependency and Commitments and Contingencies

The Adviser has entered into a Services Agreement with Skyview, effective February 25, 2021, pursuant to which the Adviser will receive administrative and operational support services to enable it to provide the required advisory services to the Company. The Adviser, and not the Company, will compensate all Adviser and Skyview personnel who provide services to the Company.

From time to time, the Company may be involved in legal proceedings in the normal course of its business. Although the outcome of such litigation cannot be predicted with any clarity, management is of the opinion, based on the advice of legal counsel, that final dispositions of any litigation should not have a material adverse effect on the financial position of the Company as of December 31, 2022.

Unfunded commitments to provide funds to portfolio companies are not recorded in the Company's Statements of Assets and Liabilities. Since these commitments may expire without being drawn upon, the total commitment amount does not necessarily represent future cash requirements. The Company has sufficient liquidity to fund these commitments. As of December 31, 2022, the Company had no unfunded debt commitments.

In the normal course of business, the Company enters into contracts and agreements that contain a variety of representations and warranties that provide general indemnification. The Company's maximum exposure under these agreements is unknown, as this would involve future claims that may be made against the Company that have not occurred. The Company believes the risk of material obligations under these indemnities to be low.

Note 9 — Market and Other Risk Factors

The primary risks of investing in the Company are described below in alphabetical order:

Concentration Risk

The Company is classified as a non-diversified investment company within the meaning of the 1940 Act, which means that it is not limited by the 1940 Act with respect to the proportion of the Company's assets that it may invest in securities of a single issuer. To the extent that the Company assumes large positions in the securities of a small number of issuers, the Company's net asset value may fluctuate to a greater extent than that of a diversified investment company as a result of changes in the financial condition or the market's assessment of the issuer. The Company may also be more susceptible to any single economic or regulatory occurrence than a diversified investment company. Beyond the asset diversification requirements associated with the Company's qualification as a RIC under the Code and certain contractual diversification requirements under a credit facility or other agreements, the Company does not have fixed guidelines for diversification, and its investments could be concentrated in relatively few portfolio companies. As a result, the aggregate returns the Company realizes may be significantly adversely affected if a small number of investments perform poorly or if the Company needs to write down the value of any one investment. Additionally, the Company's investments may be concentrated in relatively few industries. As a result, a downturn in any particular industry in which the Company is invested could also significantly impact the aggregate returns realized.

Table of Contents

Covenant-Lite Loans Risk

Loans in which the Company invests include covenant-lite loans, which carry more risk to the lender than traditional loans as they may contain fewer or less restrictive covenants on the borrower than traditionally included in loan documentation or may contain other borrower friendly characteristics. The Company may experience relatively greater difficulty or delays in enforcing its rights on its holdings of certain covenant-lite loans and debt securities than its holdings of loans or securities with the usual covenants.

Counterparty Credit Risk

Counterparty credit risk is the potential loss the Company may incur as a result of the failure of a counterparty or an issuer to make payments according to the terms of a contract. Counterparty credit risk is measured as the loss the Company would record if its counterparties failed to perform pursuant to the terms of their obligations to the Company. Because the Company may enter into over-the-counter forwards, options, swaps and other derivative financial instruments, the Company may be exposed to the credit risk of its counterparties. To limit the counterparty credit risk associated with such transactions, the Company conducts business only with financial institutions judged by the Adviser to present acceptable credit risk.

Credit Risk

Debt securities are subject to the risk of non-payment of scheduled interest and/or principal. Non-payment would result in a reduction of income to the Company, a reduction in the value of the obligation experiencing non-payment and a potential decrease in the Company's net asset value.

Investments rated below investment grade are commonly referred to as high-yield, high risk or "junk debt." They are regarded as predominantly speculative with respect to the issuing company's continuing ability to meet principal and/or interest payments. Investments in high yield debt and high yield senior loans may result in greater net asset value fluctuation than if the Company did not make such investments. Corporate debt obligations, including senior loans, are subject to the risk of non-payment of scheduled interest and/or principal.

Non-payment would result in a reduction of income to the Company, a reduction in the value of the corporate debt obligation experiencing non-payment and a potential decrease in the net asset value of the Company. Some of the loans the Company makes or acquires may provide for the payment by borrowers of Payment-In-Kind ("PIK") interest or accreted original issue discount at maturity. Such loans have the effect of deferring a borrower's payment obligation until the end of the term of the loan, which may make it difficult for the Company to identify and address developing problems with borrowers in terms of their ability to repay debt. Particularly in a rising interest rate environment, loans containing PIK and original issue discount provisions can give rise to negative amortization on a loan, resulting in a borrower owing more at the end of the term of a loan than what it owed when the loan was originated. Any such developments may increase the risk of default on the Company's loans by borrowers.

Because loans are not ordinarily registered with the SEC or any state securities commission or listed on any securities exchange, there is usually less publicly available information about such instruments. In addition, loans may not be considered "securities" for purposes of the anti-fraud protections of the federal securities laws and, as a result, as a purchaser of these instruments, the Company may not be entitled to the anti-fraud protections of the federal securities laws. In the course of investing in such instruments, the Company may come into possession of material nonpublic information and, because of prohibitions on trading in securities of issuers while in possession of such information, the Company may be unable to enter into a transaction in a publicly-traded security of that issuer when it would otherwise be advantageous for us to do so. Alternatively, the Company may choose not to receive material nonpublic information about an issuer of such loans, with the result that the Company may have less information about such issuers than other investors who transact in such assets.

Foreign Securities Risk

Investments in foreign securities involve certain factors not typically associated with investing in U.S. securities, such as risks relating to (i) currency exchange matters, including fluctuations in the rate of exchange between the U.S. dollar (the currency in which the books of the Company are maintained) and the various foreign currencies in which the Company's portfolio securities will be denominated and costs associated with conversion of investment principal and income from one currency into another; (ii) differences between the U.S. and foreign securities markets, including the absence of uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards and practices and disclosure requirements, and less government supervision and regulation; (iii) political, social or economic instability; and (iv) the extension of credit, especially in the case of sovereign debt.

Illiquid Securities Risk

The Company will generally make investments in private companies. Substantially all of these investments will be subject to legal and other restrictions on resale or will otherwise be less liquid than publicly traded securities. The illiquidity of the Company's investments may make it difficult for the Company to sell such investments if the need arises. In addition, if it is required to liquidate all or a portion of its portfolio quickly, the Company may realize significantly less than the value at which it has previously recorded its investments. In addition, it may face other restrictions on its ability to liquidate an investment in a portfolio company to the extent that it has material non-public information regarding such portfolio company or if an investment is held by one of its subsidiaries and is subject to contractual limitations on sale, such as the limitations on transfer of assets under certain circumstances under a credit facility.

The Company may seek to address its short-term liquidity needs by carefully managing the settlements of its portfolio transactions, including transactions in loans, by maintaining short-term liquid assets sufficient to meet reasonably anticipated obligations, and by maintaining a credit facility.

Interest Rate Risk

Interest Rate risk is the risk that fixed income securities will decline in value because of changes in interest rates. When interest rates decline, the value of fixed rate securities already held by the Company can be expected to rise. Conversely, when interest rates rise, the value of existing fixed rate portfolio securities can be expected to decline. A company with a longer average portfolio duration will be more sensitive to changes in interest rates than a fund with a shorter average portfolio duration Recent and potential future changes in government monetary policy may affect the level of interest rates.

Investments in Foreign Markets Risk

Investments in foreign markets involve special risks and considerations not typically associated with investing in the United States. These risks include revaluation of currencies, high rates of inflation, restrictions on repatriation of income and capital, and adverse political and economic developments. Moreover, securities issued in these markets may be less liquid, subject to government ownership controls, tariffs and taxes, subject to delays in settlements, and their prices may be more volatile. The Company may be subject to capital gains and repatriation taxes imposed by certain countries in which they invest. Such taxes are generally based on income and/or capital gains earned or repatriated. Taxes are accrued based upon net investment income, net realized gains and net unrealized appreciation as income and/or capital gains are earned.

Leverage Risk

The Company may use leverage in its investment program, including the use of borrowed funds and investments in certain types of options, such as puts, calls and warrants, which may be purchased for a fraction of the price of the underlying securities. While such strategies and techniques increase the opportunity to achieve higher returns on the amounts invested, they also increase the risk of loss. To the extent the Company purchases securities with borrowed funds, its net assets will tend to increase or decrease at a greater rate than if borrowed funds are not used. If the interest expense on borrowings were to exceed the net return on the portfolio securities purchased with borrowed funds, the Company's use of leverage would result in a lower rate of return than if the Company were not leveraged.

LIBOR Transition and Associated Risk

LIBOR is the average offered rate for various maturities of short-term loans between major international banks who are members of the British Bankers Association. LIBOR is the most common benchmark interest rate index used to make adjustments to variable-rate loans. It is used throughout global banking and financial industries to determine interest rates for a variety of financial instruments (such as debt instruments and derivatives) and borrowing arrangements.

Table of Contents

Due to manipulation allegations in 2012 and reduced activity in the financial markets that it measures, in July 2017, the Financial Conduct Authority (the "FCA"), the United Kingdom financial regulatory body, announced a desire to phase out the use of LIBOR by the end of 2021 and that it will stop encouraging banks to provide the quotations needed to sustain LIBOR. The ICE Benchmark Administration Limited, the administrator of LIBOR, ceased publishing most LIBOR maturities, including some US LIBOR maturities, on December 31, 2021, and is expected to cease publishing the remaining and most liquid US LIBOR maturities on June 30, 2023. It is expected that market participants have or will transition to the use of alternative reference or benchmark rates prior to the applicable LIBOR publication cessation date. Additionally, although regulators have encouraged the development and adoption of alternative rates, such as the Secured Overnight Financing Rate ("SOFR"), the future utilization of LIBOR or of any particular replacement rate remains uncertain.

Although the transition process away from LIBOR has become increasingly well defined in advance of the anticipated discontinuation dates, the impact on certain debt securities, derivatives and other financial instruments remains uncertain. It is expected that market participants will adopt alternative rates such as SOFR or otherwise amend financial instruments referencing LIBOR to include fallback provisions and other measures that contemplate the discontinuation of LIBOR or other similar market disruption events, but neither the effect of the transition process nor the viability of such measures is known. Further, uncertainty and risk remain regarding the willingness and ability of issuers and lenders to include alternative rates and revised provisions in new and existing contracts or instruments. To facilitate the transition of legacy derivatives contracts referencing LIBOR, the International Swaps and Derivatives Association, Inc. launched a protocol to incorporate fallback provisions. While the transition process away from LIBOR has become increasingly well defined in advance of the expected LIBOR cessation dates, there are obstacles to converting certain longer term securities and transactions to a new benchmark or benchmarks and the effectiveness of one alternative reference rate versus multiple alternative reference rates in new or existing financial instruments and products has not been determined. Furthermore, the risks associated with the cessation of LIBOR and transition to replacement rates may be exacerbated if an orderly transition to alternative reference rates is not completed in a timely manner. Certain proposed replacement rates to LIBOR, such as SOFR, which is a broad measure of secured overnight US Treasury repo rates, are materially different from LIBOR, and changes in the applicable spread for financial instruments transitioning away from LIBOR will need to be made to accommodate the differences. Furthermore, the risks associated with the expected discontinuation of LIBOR and transition to replacement rates may be exacerbated if an orderly transition to an alternative reference rate is not completed in a timely manner. As market participants transition away from LIBOR, LIBOR's usefulness may deteriorate and the effects could be experienced until the permanent cessation of the majority of U.S. LIBOR rates in 2023. The transition process may lead to increased volatility and illiquidity in markets that currently rely on LIBOR to determine interest rates. LIBOR's deterioration may adversely affect the liquidity and/or market value of securities that use LIBOR as a benchmark interest rate.

Alteration of the terms of a debt instrument or a modification of the terms of other types of contracts to replace LIBOR or another interbank offered rate ("IBOR") with a new reference rate could result in a taxable exchange and the realization of income and gain/loss for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") has issued final regulations regarding the tax consequences of the transition from IBOR to a new reference rate in debt instruments and non-debt contracts. Under the final regulations, alteration or modification of the terms of a debt instrument to replace an operative rate that uses a discontinued IBOR with a qualified rate (as defined in the final regulations) including true up payments equalizing the fair market value of contracts before and after such IBOR transition, to add a qualified rate as a fallback rate to a contract whose operative rate uses a discontinued IBOR or to replace a fallback rate that uses a discontinued IBOR with a qualified rate would not be taxable. The IRS may provide additional guidance, with potential retroactive effect.

Operational and Technology Risk

The risk that cyber-attacks, disruptions, or failures that affect the Funds' service providers, counterparties, market participants, or issuers of securities held by the Funds may adversely affect the Funds and its shareholders, including by causing losses for the Funds or impairing Fund operations.

Options Risk

There are several risks associated with transactions in options on securities. For example, there are significant differences between the securities and options markets that could result in an imperfect correlation between these markets, causing a given transaction not to achieve its objectives. A transaction in options or securities may be unsuccessful to some degree because of market behavior or unexpected events.

Table of Contents

When the Company writes a covered call option, the Company forgoes, during the option's life, the opportunity to profit from increases in the market value of the security covering the call option above the sum of the premium and the strike price of the call, but retains the risk of loss should the price of the underlying security decline. The writer of an option has no control over the time when it may be required to fulfill its obligation and once an option writer has received an exercise notice, it must deliver the underlying security in exchange for the strike price.

When the Company writes a covered put option, the Company bears the risk of loss if the value of the underlying stock declines below the exercise price minus the put premium. If the option is exercised, the Company could incur a loss if it is required to purchase the stock underlying the put option at a price greater than the market price of the stock at the time of exercise plus the put premium the Company received when it wrote the option. While the Company's potential gain in writing a covered put option is limited to distributions earned on the liquid assets securing the put option plus the premium received from the purchaser of the put option, the Company risks a loss equal to the entire exercise price of the option minus the put premium.

Pandemics and Associated Economic Disruption Risk

An outbreak of respiratory disease caused by a novel coronavirus was first detected in China in December 2019 and subsequently spread globally. This coronavirus has resulted and may continue to result in the closing of borders, enhanced health screenings, healthcare service preparation and delivery, quarantines, cancellations, disruptions to supply chains and customer activity, as well as general anxiety and economic uncertainty. The impact of this coronavirus may be short-term or may last for an extended period of time and has resulted in a substantial economic downturn. Health crises caused by outbreaks of disease, such as the coronavirus, may exacerbate other pre-existing political, social and economic risks. This outbreak, and other epidemics and pandemics that may arise in the future, could negatively affect the global economy, as well as the economies of individual countries, individual companies and the market in general in significant and unforeseen ways. For example, a widespread health crisis such as a global pandemic could cause substantial market volatility, exchange trading suspensions and closures, impact the Company's ability to complete tender offer requests, and affect Company performance. Any such impact could adversely affect the Company's performance, the performance of the issuers in which the Company invests, lines of credit available to the Company and may lead to losses on your investment in the Company. In addition, the increasing interconnectedness of markets around the world may result in many markets being affected by events or conditions in a single country or region or events affecting a single or small number of issuers.

The United States responded to the coronavirus pandemic and resulting economic distress with fiscal and monetary stimulus packages, including the CARES Act passed in late March 2020. The CARES Act provides for over $2.2 trillion in resources to small businesses, state and local governments, and individuals adversely impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. Further, in March 2021, the government passed the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021, a $1.9 trillion stimulus bill to accelerate the United States' recovery from the economic and health effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. In addition, in mid-March 2020, the Fed cut interest rates to historically low levels and announced a new round of quantitative easing, including purchases of corporate and municipal government bonds. The Fed also enacted various programs to support liquidity operations and funding in the financial markets, including expanding its reverse repurchase agreement operations, which added $1.5 trillion of liquidity to the banking system; establishing swap lines with other major central banks to provide dollar funding; establishing a program to support money market funds; easing various bank capital buffers; providing funding backstops for businesses to provide bridging loans for up to four years; and providing funding to help credit flow in asset-backed securities markets. In addition, the Fed extended credit to small- and medium-sized businesses. As the Fed "tapers" or reduces the amount of securities it purchases pursuant to quantitative easing, and/or if the Fed raises the federal funds rate, there is a risk that interest rates will rise, which could expose fixed-income and related markets to heightened volatility and could cause the value of a fund's investments, and the fund's NAV, to decline, potentially suddenly and significantly. As a result, the Company may experience high redemptions and, as a result, increased portfolio turnover, which could increase the costs that the Company incurs and may negatively impact the Company's performance. There is no assurance that the U.S. government's support in response to COVID-19 economic distress will offset the adverse impact to securities in which the Company may invest and future governmental support is not guaranteed.

Senior Loans Risk

The risk that the issuer of a senior loan may fail to pay interest or principal when due, and changes in market interest rates may reduce the value of the senior loan or reduce the Company's returns. The risks associated with senior loans are similar to the risks of high yield debt securities. Senior loans and other debt securities are also subject to the risk of price declines and to increases in interest rates, particularly long-term rates. Senior loans are also subject to the risk that, as interest rates rise, the cost of borrowing increases, which may increase the risk of default. In addition, the interest rates of floating rate loans typically only adjust to changes in short-term interest rates; long-term interest rates can vary dramatically from short-term interest rates. Therefore, senior loans may not mitigate price declines in a long-term interest rate environment. The Company's investments in senior loans are typically below investment grade and are considered speculative because of the credit risk of their issuers.

LIBOR is the average offered rate for various maturities of short-term loans between major international banks who are members of the British Bankers Association. LIBOR is the most common benchmark interest rate index used to make adjustments to variable-rate loans. It is used throughout global banking and financial industries to determine interest rates for a variety of financial instruments (such as debt instruments and derivatives) and borrowing arrangements. Due to manipulation allegations in 2012 and reduced activity in the financial markets that it measures, in July 2017, the Financial Conduct Authority, the United Kingdom financial regulatory body, announced a desire to phase out the use of LIBOR by the end of 2021. Please refer to "LIBOR Transition and Associated Risk" for more information.

Structured Finance Securities Risk

A portion of the Company's investments may consist of equipment trust certificates, collateralized mortgage obligations, collateralized bond obligations, collateralized loan obligations ("CLO") or similar instruments. Such structured finance securities are generally backed by an asset or a pool of assets, which serve as collateral. Depending on the type of security, the collateral may take the form of a portfolio of mortgage loans or bonds or other assets. The Company and other investors in structured finance securities ultimately bear the credit risk of the underlying collateral. In some instances, the structured finance securities are issued in multiple tranches, offering investors various maturity and credit risk characteristics, often categorized as senior, mezzanine and subordinated/equity according to their degree of risk. The riskiest securities are the equity tranche, which bears the bulk of defaults from the bonds or loans serving as collateral, and thus may protect the other, more senior tranches from default. If there are defaults or the relevant collateral otherwise underperforms, scheduled payments to senior tranches of such securities take precedence over those of mezzanine tranches, and scheduled payments to mezzanine tranches take precedence over those to subordinated/equity tranches. A senior tranche typically has higher ratings and lower yields than the underlying securities, and may be rated investment grade. Despite the protection from the equity tranche, other tranches can experience substantial losses due to actual defaults, increased sensitivity to defaults due to previous defaults and the disappearance of protecting tranches, market anticipation of defaults and aversion to certain structured finance securities as a class.

Short-Selling Risk

Short sales by the Company that are not made where there is an offsetting long position in the asset that it is being sold short theoretically involve unlimited loss potential since the market price of securities sold short may continuously increase. Short selling allows the Company to profit from declines in market prices to the extent such decline exceeds the transaction costs and costs of borrowing the securities. However, since the borrowed securities must be replaced by purchases at market prices in order to close out the short position, any appreciation in the price of the borrowed securities would result in a loss. Purchasing securities to close out the short position can itself cause the price of securities to rise further, thereby exacerbating the loss. The Company may mitigate such losses by replacing the securities sold short before the market price has increased significantly. Under adverse market conditions, the Company might have difficulty purchasing securities to meet margin calls on its short sale delivery obligations, and might have to sell portfolio securities to raise the capital necessary to meet its short sale obligations at a time when fundamental investment considerations would not favor such sales. Further, if other short positions of the same security are closed out at the same time, a "short squeeze" can occur where demand exceeds the supply for the security sold short. A short squeeze makes it more likely that the Adviser will need to replace the borrowed security at an unfavorable price.

Valuation Risk

Certain of the Company's assets are fair valued, including the Company's investment in equity issued by TerreStar Corporation ("TerreStar"). TerreStar does not currently generate revenue and primarily derives its value from holding licenses of two wireless spectrum assets. The license with respect to one such spectrum asset was previously terminated by the FCC and subsequently restored on April 30, 2020 on a limited conditional basis. The restoration of such license requires TerreStar to meet certain deployment milestones for wireless medical telemetry service ("WMTS") during a 39-month period. Upon satisfaction of the deployment milestones, TerreStar will be able use such spectrum for other services besides WMTS as long as those services do not interfere with WMTS and TerreStar continues to provide WMTS.

If TerreStar is unsuccessful in satisfying such deployment milestones, or if other services cannot be implemented in a manner that does not interfere with WMTS, the value of the TerreStar equity would likely be materially negatively impacted. In determining the fair value of TerreStar, the Adviser has assigned a high probability of success on both conditions based on consultation with the company and its consultants.

(2) The continuous issuance of common stock may cause an incremental increase in net asset value per share due to the sale of shares at the then prevailing public offering price and the receipt of net proceeds per share by the Company in excess of net asset value per share on each subscription closing date. The per share data was derived by computing (i) the sum of (A) the number of shares issued in connection with subscriptions and/or distribution reinvestment on each share transaction date times (B) the differences between the net proceeds per share and the net asset value per share on each share transaction date, divided by (ii) the total shares outstanding at the end of the period. The Company's continuous public offering ended on February 14, 2018.

(3) Amount rounds to less than $0.005 per share.

(4) Total returns are historical and assume changes in share price and reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions, and assume no sales charge. Distributions, if any, are assumed for purposes of this calculation to be reinvested at prices obtained under the Company's Dividend Reinvestment Plan. Had the Adviser not absorbed a portion of expenses, total returns would have been lower.

(5) Represents the total dollar amount of commissions paid on portfolio transactions divided by total number of portfolio shares purchased and sold for which commissions were charged.

Valuation of Portfolio Investments—Certain Level 3 Portfolio Investments in Loans, Asset Backed Securities, Common Stocks, LLC Interests and Warrants Valued Using Significant Unobservable Inputs Developed by Management

Critical Audit Matter Description

As discussed in Note 2 to the financial statements, the Company held investments classified as Level 3 investments under accounting principles generally accepted in United States of America. These investments are valued using various valuation techniques to estimate the fair value of investments based on the specific characteristics of the investments and certain significant unobservable inputs. The fair value of the Company's Level 3 investments was approximately $28.5 million of the Company's $53.3 million total investments at fair value as of December 31, 2022.

We identified the valuation of Level 3 investments as a critical audit matter because of the judgments necessary for management to select valuation techniques and to use significant unobservable inputs to estimate the fair value. This required a high degree of auditor judgment and extensive audit effort, including the need to involve fair value specialists who possess significant valuation experience to evaluate the appropriateness of the valuation techniques and the significant unobservable inputs, when performing audit procedures to audit management's estimate of fair value of Level 3 investments.

How the Critical Audit Matter Was Addressed in the Audit

Our audit procedures related to valuation techniques and unobservable inputs used by management to estimate the fair value of Level 3 investments included the following, among others:

- Evaluating the appropriateness of the valuation techniques used and testing the significant unobservable inputs by comparing them to external sources.
- Evaluating the appropriateness of significant changes in valuation techniques or significant unobservable inputs used in the valuations.
- Testing the accuracy of the underlying data used by the Company in its analysis.
- Comparing the significant assumptions used by management to current industry and economic trends.
- Performing sensitivity analysis of significant assumptions to evaluate changes in the fair value estimate.

Table of Contents

- Utilizing our fair value specialists to develop an independent estimate of the fair value in instances where the selection of valuation techniques or significant unobservable inputs were more subjective, and compared our estimates to management's estimates.
- Utilizing our fair value specialists to develop an independent fair value range for certain investments and comparison of management's estimate to each of the independently developed fair value ranges.
- Developing the independent fair value range involved testing the data used in the models and developing significant unobservable inputs in order to evaluate the reasonableness of management's fair value estimate for a portion of the Level 3 investments.
- For investments where management's process for determining the fair value was tested, professionals with specialized skill and knowledge were used to assist in evaluating the reasonableness of comparative yields and discount rates used by management for certain investments.
- Evaluating management's ability to reasonably estimate fair value by comparing management's historical estimates to subsequent transactions, taking into account changes in market or investment specific conditions, where applicable.

We have served as auditor of one or more of NexPoint Advisors, LP's investment companies since 2018.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - JUNE 8, 2023 - 9:42 A.M.

2 THE CLERK: All rise. United States Bankruptcy Court

3 for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is now in

4 session, The Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

5 THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. All

6 right. We are here this morning for a setting in Highland.

7 This is on a motion of Hunter Mountain for leave to file an

8 adversary proceeding. I will start out by getting appearances

9 from lawyers in the courtroom.

10 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. Sawnie McEntire

11 along with my partner Roger McCleary and Tim Miller on behalf

12 of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, Ltd.

13 THE COURT: Thank you.

14 MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris,

15 Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, for the Reorganized Highland,

16 for the Highland Claimant Trust. I'm joined by Mr. Pomerantz,

17 Mr. Demo, and Ms. Winograd.

18 THE COURT: Good morning.

19 MR. STANCIL: Good morning, Your Honor. Mark Stancil

20 from Willkie Farr & Gallagher for Mr. Seery. I'm joined by my 21 colleague Josh Levy.

22 THE COURT: Good morning.

23 MR. MCILWAIN: Good morning, Your Honor. Brent

24 McIlwain from Holland & Knight here for Muck Holding, LLC,

25 Jessup Holdings, LLC, Farallon Capital Management, LLC, and

1 Stonehill Capital Management, LLC.
2 THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Is that all of
3 our lawyer appearances? I know we have observers on the 4 WebEx, but I assume you are just observers. We scheduled this
5 to be a live hearing for participants.
6 All right. Well, we had some ground rules for how this
7 would go forward today. We, of course, have had two -- I call
8 them hearings on what kind of hearing we're going to have.
9 We've had two status conferences. And so our ground rules
10 were set. Three hours of total presentation time for each the 11 Movant and the aggregate Respondents. We also had an order
12 regarding what discovery would or would not be allowed.
13 And to my surprise, there were a flurry of pleadings.
14 We're a few minutes late getting out here because we were 15 trying to digest what was filed late yesterday and into the 16 night.
17 So I understand we have a controversy about a couple of 18 expert witnesses who were listed on Monday on the Movants'
19 exhibit and witness list. And I've seen a motion to exclude 20 the expert witnesses' testimony. And I think we need to 21 address that right off the bat. I don't want to take too much
22 time on this, because, again, we're going to finish today, and 23 I won't let this housekeeping matter eat into our three hours,
24 but I want to get going. So I'll hear from Movant, Mr.
25 McEntire.

1 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, may --
2 THE COURT: Go ahead.
3 MR. STANCIL: We moved to exclude, so I would propose
4 that my colleague, Mr. Levy, address this motion very briefly
5 if --
6 THE COURT: Well, I guess --
7 MR. STANCIL: Or I will do as --
8 THE COURT: -- that actually makes sense.
9 MR. STANCIL: Okay.
10 THE COURT: I was thinking Mr. McEntire teed up the 11 issue, but I suppose you did with the motion to exclude. So,
12 Counsel?
13 MR. LEVY: Thank you, Your Honor. Josh Levy on 14 behalf of Mr. Seery.
15 So, we think our papers largely speak for themselves, but
16 two additional points we'd like to raise. In the response
17 filed by Hunter Mountain this morning, and this is Docket
18 Entry 3828, in Paragraph 11, they argue that this is a bench
19 hearing on colorability, not a trial where junk science is a 20 concern. But junk science is precisely what they're trying to 21 introduce here. They have raised two expert witnesses, one
22 who purports to be an expert in compensation but has no
23 experience whatsoever in evaluating compensation, and they 24 provide no methodology for their conclusion.
25 For example, they claim to have identified red flags.

1 They never explain what those red flags are, why they are red
2 flags, or how they determined they were red flags. This is
3 junk science, precisely what the Federal Rules are designed to 4 exclude.
5 But that shouldn't detract from the broader procedural
6 point that this is the first time we're hearing about expert
7 witnesses, at 10:00 p.m. three days before the hearing. This
8 is a trial by ambush. This motion was filed in March, we've 9 been litigating this motion for over two months now, and this
10 is the first time we're hearing about any expert witnesses.
11 As Your Honor noted, we've had multiple conferences.
12 We've had rules setting the ground rules for this hearing.
13 We've had orders setting the scope of discovery. But now
14 Hunter Mountain is trying to pull a bait-and-switch. After 15 never mentioning any experts, after obtaining orders limiting 16 the scope of discovery, they then wait until right before the 17 hearing to disclose their experts, ensuring that these experts
18 are insulated from any kind of discovery and can ambush us at 19 the hearing.
20 I'm happy to answer any other questions, but we believe 21 they should be excluded and the accompanying exhibits should 22 also be excluded.
23 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. And the 24 accompanying exhibits, I don't review exhibits before a trial
25 or a hearing because I don't know what's going to be objected

1 to and admitted. So do you want to point out, were there
2 expert reports in the proposed exhibits?
3 MR. LEVY: These were charts and analyses prepared by 4 their experts, not actual expert reports.
5 THE COURT: Okay.
6 MR. LEVY: In their witness and exhibit list, Hunter
7 Mountain included several paragraphs that I guess serves as 8 what would be their expert reports. And then it would be
9 Exhibits 39 through 52, which consist of CVs, materials
10 reviewed, and then what they term "data charts" prepared by 11 their experts.
12 THE COURT: 39 through 52? Oh, I'm looking at the 13 wrong exhibit notebook. Oh.
14 (Pause.)
15 THE COURT: Okay. Here we go. All right. No
16 questions at this time.
17 Mr. McEntire?
18 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. May I proceed?
19 THE COURT: You may.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: Again, my presentation and response is 21 subject to our objection concerning that any evidence is being 22 admitted for any purpose, other than what we believe is the 23 proper standard of review. So my response and our offer of 24 these experts is subject to that objection.
25 With that said, Mr. Levy's argument he just presented to

1 the Court presupposes that my client has a duty under 9014 to
2 provide a report, which we do not; to provide detailed
3 disclosures, which we do not, because 9014 is specifically
4 exempted from the scope of Rule 26. What we did, we didn't
5 have to do. What we did, and I made the decision to provide
6 them some disclosure and identification of who they were,
7 their backgrounds, and --
8 THE COURT: Well, let me stop you.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.
10 THE COURT: "What we did, we didn't have to do." The 11 Local Rules, first of all, do require an exhibit and witness
12 list. And --
13 MR. MCENTIRE: We've provided that.
14 THE COURT: I know. I know. But you -- I thought I
15 heard you --
16 MR. MCENTIRE: No, no.
17 THE COURT: -- saying you didn't have to do that.
18 You do have to do that.
19 MR. MCENTIRE: No, no, no.
20 THE COURT: But I guess what you're saying is --
21 MR. MCENTIRE: What we provided was more than what 22 the Local Rules require.
23 THE COURT: How so?
24 MR. MCENTIRE: We provided CVs. We provided their
25 backgrounds. We disclosed in the actual witness description

1 who they were and the key components of their opinions. And
2 we refer to their data charts. That is not something that the
3 Local Rule requires.
4 THE COURT: Okay. Well, let me back up. We have our
5 Local Rules, but then we had our two status conferences --
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.
7 THE COURT: -- on what the format of the hearing --
8 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.
9 THE COURT: -- would be.
10 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.
11 THE COURT: And, of course, there was extensive
12 discussion, evidence or no evidence? What did the legal 13 standard, colorability, require?
14 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.
15 THE COURT: And I came out in the end and said, if 16 people want to put on witnesses, they're entitled to put on 17 witnesses. I think there may be a mixture of a fact question
18 and law question on colorability. So, and then I set a three-
19 hour time limit and I said, if someone wants to depose Mr.
20 Seery and Mr. Dondero, they can, but no more discovery other
21 than that. Okay?
22 MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.
23 THE COURT: Why then did you not say, well, wait,
24 Judge, if it's going to be evidence, we're just letting you
25 know, in full disclosure, we might call a couple of experts,

1 and this may impact your decision on what kind of discovery
2 can happen. And this may impact your decision on whether
3 three hours each side is enough.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, in fairness, I don't
5 think we had made a final decision to actually designate any
6 experts. And at the time, the focus was on other witnesses.
7 But there was no exclusion, there was no limitation at all on
8 my right to bring an expert. And the Rules are very clear.
9 And the Court's --
10 THE COURT: But I specifically limited discovery, and 11 it was on your motion. It was on your motion we set the 12 hearing on --
13 MR. MCENTIRE: Actually, --
14 THE COURT: You know, did you need a continuance,
15 because if we were going to have evidence, maybe you needed a
16 continuance. And then there was a discovery issue raised.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: To be clear, Your Honor, I'm looking 18 at your orders.
19 THE COURT: Got them in front of me.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: Your order of May 26, 2023. You said,
21 You can put on your witnesses and the Court is going to rule.
22 You made no limitations as to who the witnesses would be.
23 Your order did not limit the scope of witnesses to simply Mr.
24 Seery or Mr. Dondero. In fact, any suggestion that you did
25 limit the witnesses is contrary --

1 THE COURT: Now, which order are you looking at?
2 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm looking at the May 26, 2023 order,
3 Page 51, Lines 3 through 14.
4 THE COURT: Okay.
5 MR. MCENTIRE: You also stated --
6 THE COURT: I have -- have I entered three orders on 7 this? I've got a May 10th order. I've got a May 22nd order.
8 MR. MCENTIRE: And I would also point out, Your
9 Honor, --
10 THE COURT: Could you answer my question? I want to 11 look at what you're looking at.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.
13 THE COURT: Here we -- this is the one. Okay. Aha.
14 Okay. May 26.
15 MR. MCENTIRE: Page 51, Lines 3 through 14.
16 THE COURT: I've entered three orders on what kind of 17 hearing we're going to have. Okay. So you're looking where?
18 MR. MCENTIRE: Page 51, Lines 3 through 14. "You can 19 put on your witnesses."
20 THE COURT: Page 51?
21 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.
22 THE COURT: Oh. You're looking at a transcript, not 23 the order.
24 MR. MCENTIRE: That's right. I apologize.
25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah, I'm looking at the transcript
2 from the hearing.
3 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm looking at my order.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: And the order, the order also 5 specifies no limitation at all in connection with the -- the 6 --
7 THE COURT: But my order was based on what was
8 discussed that day.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: And what was --
10 THE COURT: If you had said, hmm, Judge, if you're 11 going to allow evidence, we may call a couple of experts, then
12 there would have been a whole discussion about that and did I
13 need to limit the discovery, as I did. And there would have 14 been a whole discussion of, well, three hours, three hours
15 each side, is that going to be enough if we have experts?
16 MR. MCENTIRE: The discovery ruling that you made was 17 on my motion, and at the time I was not seeking to take any 18 expert depositions. And you denied my request to take ample
19 discovery. You limited my right to take only one deposition,
20 without documents.
21 The issue of taking expert discovery was not even on the 22 table. However, you made it very --
23 THE COURT: Well, that's my point precisely. The 24 whole purpose of the hearing was, what kind of hearing are we 25 going to have on June 8th?

1 MR. MCENTIRE: I understand. And our position --
2 THE COURT: We had already had one status conference
3 on argument only versus evidence. And I allowed you all to
4 file some briefing, which you did. And then I issued an order
5 after the briefing, saying, I think I should allow evidence on 6 the colorability question. I'm not forcing anyone to put on 7 evidence, but if you want to put on evidence, you can.
8 And then you filed your motions and we had the next status
9 conference on what kind of hearing we're going to have. And 10 there was more argument: We don't think the evidence is 11 appropriate, but if evidence is appropriate, we want you to 12 continue the hearing to allow all kinds of discovery. I don't
13 know what. And it was right before Memorial Day, and I hated
14 the fact that a bunch of subpoenas were going to go out and 15 ruin people's holidays. But there was no discussion then of,
16 okay, but just so you know, since you have made the ruling
17 that evidence can come in, we're going to have a couple of 18 experts.
19 MR. MCENTIRE: As I've already mentioned, Your Honor,
20 we had not made a decision to call experts at that time. We 21 made a decision to call the experts shortly before we filed
22 our designations.
23 The point here is this. The Rules do not require me to 24 provide any more disclosure than I have. I have gone over and 25 above the Local Rules.

1 If the Court believes that it would have allowed more time
2 for this hearing, I would advise the Court that opposing
3 counsel vehemently opposed any type of postponement or 4 continuance. The discovery that I was requesting was 5 discovery from fact witnesses. Experts were not at issue at 6 that time. Experts are --
7 THE COURT: Because --
8 MR. MCENTIRE: -- at issue now.
9 THE COURT: -- nobody knew that experts might be 10 called.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: I have a right to call experts, Your 12 --
13 THE COURT: It changes the whole complexion.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: But I have a right to call experts,
15 under the Rules. I have a right, a fundamental due process --
16 let me -- may I finish, Your Honor? A fundamental due process
17 right to call experts. Their attempt to charge some type of 18 Daubert challenge is nothing but a shotgun blast on the wall,
19 having no meaning at all. At a minimum, I have a right to put 20 the witnesses on the stand and we'll have a Daubert hearing.
21 If they want more time, they need to ask for it. They 22 didn't ask for it. Their solution is to strike my experts,
23 which is improper. It would be improper for this Court to 24 strike my experts when they have been properly tendered under 25 the Local Rules. They have not cited an alternative remedy.

1 If they want the alternative remedy, they need to ask the
2 Court.
3 THE COURT: My next question is: How do you propose
4 to get this all done in only three hours?
5 MR. MCENTIRE: We intend to move quickly.
6 THE COURT: But, see, now they, I'm guessing,
7 prepared their case assuming there weren't going to be
8 experts. And they, if they're good lawyers, which I know you
9 all are, they have their script of the kind of things they 10 were going to ask the witnesses.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, did they have a --
12 THE COURT: And now they've got to carve out time for 13 two last-minute experts?
14 MR. MCENTIRE: They had an option. And one of the 15 options was they could have called me up on Tuesday and asked
16 for their depositions and I probably would have agreed.
17 THE COURT: I already said no depositions except 18 Seery and Dondero.
19 MR. MCENTIRE: Then they could have come and filed a
20 different kind of motion with the Court.
21 Their only remedy that they're seeking is a draconian one.
22 There are other options that are more consistent with the 23 implementation of due process here, Your Honor, not striking
24 my experts, which were properly identified under the Local 25 Rules.

1 If the Court is going to strike my experts, note our
2 objection. We are tendering our experts. We will put -- like
3 to put a proffer on for the Fifth Circuit or for the appellate
4 process. But if the Court is going to strike our experts,
5 then it needs to do so. We object because we have done
6 everything correctly.
7 THE COURT: Okay. Here's another problem. I have
8 not had time to process their motion to exclude. Beyond the 9 procedural issues, they are saying junk science, that there's 10 inadequate expertise on the part of I guess at least one of 11 them regarding executive compensation. I haven't had -- they 12 filed their motion to exclude at 4:00-something yesterday.
13 Okay?
14 MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.
15 THE COURT: Now, yeah, I could have stayed up all
16 night. I stayed up pretty late anyway, by the way. But --
17 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, --
18 THE COURT: -- I haven't even had the time to process
19 and intelligently rule on their motion --
20 MR. MCENTIRE: I appreciate that, and I'll respect --
21 THE COURT: -- as far as the --
22 MR. MCENTIRE: I'll respect the Court's statement.
23 THE COURT: -- junk science argument.
24 MR. MCENTIRE: I'll respect the Court's statement.
25 Their process and the procedure they've adopted is improper,

1 because if you're going to have a Daubert hearing, that's a
2 live hearing. Or they're going to have to have evidence to
3 support their challenge. This is simply a conclusory shotgun
4 blast on the wall, Your Honor.
5 If you even want to consider a Daubert challenge, the 6 proper procedure is to put the witnesses on the stand and have
7 an opportunity to have a proffer of evidence and a cross-
8 examination. That's the proper procedure. Throwing something
9 and innuendo and rhetoric and conclusions is not a proper
10 Daubert motion at all. The Court could deny their Daubert
11 motion just on those grounds.
12 THE COURT: I'm not going to rule on a motion that
13 I've barely had a chance to read, not to mention your response
14 that was filed at 8:00-something this morning.
15 MR. MORRIS: It was.
16 MR. MCENTIRE: It was. Well, then the option is you
17 need to continue the proceeding to allow the experts to take 18 the stand.
19 THE COURT: Well, I know you have thought on that,
20 but here is something I'm contemplating doing. We'll go
21 forward with the hearing in the manner my order said we would 22 go forward with it. My, I guess, Order #3 of my three orders.
23 And at the end of the evidence, you can argue in closing, each
24 of you, why we should keep the evidence open to come back
25 another day on only the experts. But time matters. If you've

1 all already used your three hours on each side, then are we
2 going to come back for five minutes on each of them? I mean,
3 I don't know.
4 And then, of course, I would have to, if I ruled in that
5 way, I believe I would have to give them a chance to depose
6 these people.
7 MR. MCENTIRE: I think that would be reasonable.
8 THE COURT: Okay. But you think you can get all of 9 your evidence in, other than your experts, and your opening
10 statement, if any, your closing argument, if any, in three
11 hours?
12 MR. MCENTIRE: I'll do my best.
13 THE COURT: Well, if you -- it's not a matter of --
14 I'm just saying this may all be an academic argument, because 15 I'm not increasing this to more than three hours each. We've 16 fully vetted that.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, what the Court is then doing by 18 virtue of your ruling is that you're making me actually
19 present my evidence in a shortened form today, two hours, two 20 and a half hours, not knowing how -- whether or not you are 21 actually going to allow experts.
22 So, without the certainty, I will have to abbreviate my
23 entire presentation, giving them the advantage of putting more
24 evidence on than I, in an effort to anticipate a positive
25 ruling, which you're not prepared to provide yet. And so I'm

1 actually being penalized.

2 THE COURT: Counsel, we had two status conferences on

3 what kind of hearing we were going to have.

4 MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.

5 THE COURT: Now, the fact that you had not decided

6 your strategy for this hearing, that's not my fault. Again,

7 we had two hearings on what kind of hearing we were going to

8 have today. We could have fully vetted this. I could have

9 heard about the experts, I could have decided if we were going

10 to continue the hearing past June 8th, could have decided if

11 we were going to allow more depositions.

12 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, --

13 THE COURT: I could have fully studied the merits of 14 the motion to exclude and decided if this is junk science or

15 not.

16 MR. MCENTIRE: I would request a ruling at this time,

17 Your Honor, on the experts. If you are not inclined to

18 provide a ruling to me on the experts at this time, I would

19 effectively be penalized on my time limits. I will have to

20 set aside enough time to put the experts on, not knowing, not

21 knowing whether you're going to give me the opportunity to do

22 so until the end of the day. And that would be -- that would

23 be punishment.

24 THE COURT: Isn't this going to be just preparing

25 your case you would have -- I mean, going forward with your

1 case the way you would have?
2 MR. MCENTIRE: No, I don't -- really don't think so.
3 I think there's --
4 THE COURT: I mean, --
5 MR. MCENTIRE: There's a difference.
6 THE COURT: -- you did not prepare your witnesses and 7 your possible cross-examination with the expectation of I'll 8 get my two experts in?
9 MR. MCENTIRE: My -- of course. But the point is,
10 then I'm going to have to set aside a half an hour or maybe
11 even longer from my other witness preparations, not knowing
12 whether you'll even give me that time.
13 THE COURT: Isn't the other side going to have to do
14 the very same thing?
15 MR. MCENTIRE: No.
16 THE COURT: Why not? They don't know how I'm going
17 to rule. I don't know how I'm going to rule. I have not 18 studied the motion to exclude the way I should.
19 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Well, Your Honor, we request a
20 ruling now. But if the Court is not inclined to do so, please
21 note our objection.
22 THE COURT: All right. I'll give the Movants the 23 last word. And I say "Movants" plural. I'm trying to 24 remember where I saw a joinder and when I did not. Did I see
25 a joinder? I can't remember.

1 MR. MORRIS: Can we just have a moment, Your Honor?
2 THE COURT: Okay. Okay.
3 MR. MCILWAIN: Your Honor, my clients did file a
4 joinder, but --
5 THE COURT: Okay.
6 MR. MCILWAIN: -- I'm going to let them handle this.
7 THE COURT: Okay.
8 (Pause.)
9 THE COURT: Counsel?
10 MR. LEVY: Thank you, Your Honor. Two brief points
11 we'd like to make. The first is on the Rules. So, Hunter
12 Mountain is focused on Rule 26(a) regarding reports. However,
13 Rule 26(b) applies to contested matters under Rule 9014. And 14 as we explain in Paragraph -- we explain in our brief, that --
15 or, in Paragraph 19 of our brief, that under Rule 26(b) we're
16 entitled to depose the experts.
17 And so we agree with Your Honor's suggestion that if 18 there's going to be any sort of experts, then we need the 19 opportunity to depose them. This is Rule 26(b)(4)(A), which 20 expressly does apply to contested matters under Bankruptcy
21 Rule 9014(b).
22 The second point is we agree with the approach Your Honor
23 has proposed. We think, for today, both sides can put on 24 their full cases without expert witnesses. Both sides can
25 have the full three hours, which should address Hunter

1 Mountain's concern. And if Your Honor decides at the
2 conclusion of the hearing that expert testimony would be
3 helpful, then we could take the opportunity to depose their 4 experts and then come back for an additional half-hour for
5 each side to address any expert testimony that Your Honor
6 believes would be helpful.
7 THE COURT: Okay. Is your proposal that you each
8 today would be limited to two and a half/two and a half? Or 9 three/three, and then another hour, 30 minutes/30 minutes, if 10 I --
11 MR. LEVY: Three/three.
12 THE COURT: -- decide to allow any experts?
13 MR. LEVY: Yeah. Three. Three and three for each
14 side, the hearing contemplated by Your Honor's orders, today.
15 And if Your Honor decides that expert testimony would be 16 helpful, we could come back for an hour, for half an hour on 17 each side, regarding experts.
18 THE COURT: All right. Mr. McEntire, what about
19 that?
20 Oh, I'm sorry, did you --
21 MR. STANCIL: Oh, I'm sorry. Just one additional 22 point, Your Honor. We would ask that Your Honor's ruling on 23 the ultimate admissibility of this be limited to what they've 24 actually put in front of us. The day for the hearing is 25 today, so I think I'd like -- I'd suspect Your Honor would

1 like to avoid another raft of submissions. So we would just
2 ask that they live or die with what they've said in the way of
3 methodology, disclosures, and the like.
4 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. McEntire, this seems like the 5 best of all worlds, maybe.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, it may be the best of the worlds
7 in which we're operating.
8 My first position is that the experts are admissible,
9 period. And the Rules do not require anything more than what 10 we've already done. In fact, we've done more than we were 11 supposed to.
12 THE COURT: What is your argument about 26(b)(4), 13 which --
14 MR. MCCLEARY: If they want to take a deposition,
15 they could have called me up and asked for it.
16 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I was --
17 THE COURT: Wait a second. They were under a court
18 order. Okay?
19 MR. MCENTIRE: They could have -- they could have 20 sought --
21 THE COURT: They were under my order. Okay? They 22 would have been violating my order if they had done it.
23 MR. STANCIL: I was also, Your Honor, I was in a --
24 THE COURT: Not to mention that it was --
25 MR. STANCIL: I was in an airplane from 9:00 a.m.

1 Tuesday until 9:00 p.m. Tuesday.
2 THE COURT: I'm surprised a lot of you got here, with
3 the Martian atmosphere that I saw pictures of.
4 Yes. That's not realistic, to think that you disclose an
5 expert on Monday for a Thursday hearing and they can call you
6 up and --
7 MR. MCENTIRE: The other --
8 THE COURT: -- quickly put together a deposition.
9 So, --
10 MR. MCENTIRE: Sure. The other option, --
11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: -- of course, Your Honor, as I
13 mentioned before, and I'm not going to repeat myself, is they 14 -- there's other forms of relief they could seek. But under 15 the circumstances, and in light of your apparent leaning on 16 the issue, then this is the best under the circumstances that 17 they've suggested. We'd like an hour each.
18 I would also point out that -- well, anyway, that's it,
19 Your Honor. Thank you.
20 THE COURT: All right. So we are going to go forward
21 as planned, three hours/three hours. No experts today. In 22 making your closings -- well, this is kind of awkward. I'm 23 trying to think if we really have closing arguments, when you
24 don't know if it's -- it doesn't seem to make sense. Like, I
25 guess we could have closing arguments if you want, subject to

1 supplementing your closing arguments if we come back a second
2 day with the experts. Okay?
3 And I'm not making a ruling today on the motion to 4 exclude. I'm going to hear what I hear. And maybe what we'll
5 do is I'll give you a placeholder hearing if we're going to 6 come back on the experts. Then I'll go back and read the 7 motion, the response, and make my ruling on are we coming back
8 for another day of experts. Okay? Got it?
9 And with regard to the comment about not adding to, I
10 think that's a fair point. You can't add new exhibits that 11 the expert might talk about or that you might want me to 12 consider between now and whenever the tentative day two is.
13 MR. MCENTIRE: Understand. We agree with that.
14 THE COURT: Okay.
15 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, there is one -- one
16 exhibit that has a small typo transcription of a number on it.
17 So we would like to substitute for that. It's a minor detail.
18 But I'll provide opposing counsel with that. But it's very 19 minor.
20 THE COURT: You have it today, I presume?
21 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, we have it.
22 THE COURT: Okay. So as long as you hand it to them
23 today.
24 MR. STANCIL: No objection, Your Honor. We do -- I
25 think someone is back at the office working on a short reply

1 on our motion, which I assume we could file in support of -- I
2 mean, we filed our motion. They filed an opposition. I
3 assume we would be entitled under the Rules to file a short
4 reply on the actual exclusion issue.
5 THE COURT: That is fair, but let's talk about
6 timing. You said someone is back at the office working on it.
7 Could you get it on file by Monday?
8 MR. STANCIL: Yes, ma'am.
9 THE COURT: Okay. Then that'll be allowed if it's 10 filed by the end of the day Monday.
11 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I'm providing a copy of 12 Exhibit 43 to opposing counsel, which is the substitute
13 exhibit.
14 And obviously, we'd like to have an opportunity to respond
15 to what their filing is on Monday.
16 THE COURT: No. I mean, motion, response, reply.
17 That's all our Rules permit. Okay? Motion, response, reply.
18 Okay.
19 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.
20 THE COURT: All right. Well, with that, do the 21 parties want to make opening statements? If so, Mr. McEntire, 22 you go first.
23 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. We have a PowerPoint
24 I would like to utilize, if I could.
25 THE COURT: You may.

1 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, before we get to that, the
2 Plaintiff has objected to virtually every single exhibit that
3 we have. Should we deal with the evidence first, because I
4 don't want to refer to documents or evidence in my opening
5 that they're objecting to. They've literally objected to 6 every single exhibit except one, although I think they're
7 withdrawing certain of those objections.
8 I don't -- I don't know if the Court has had an 9 opportunity to see the objection that was filed to the 10 exhibits.
11 THE COURT: That was what was filed like at 11:00
12 last night or so?
13 MR. MORRIS: That's right.
14 THE COURT: Okay.
15 MR. MORRIS: And so at 2:00, 3:00, 4:00, 5:00 o'clock
16 this morning, I actually typed out a response that I'd like to 17 hand up to the Court. But we've got to resolve the 18 evidentiary issues before we get to this.
19 THE COURT: Okay. Well, --
20 MR. MORRIS: And I don't know what their position is 21 going to be --
22 THE COURT: -- as a housekeeping matter, let's do
23 that first. And let's start with the Movants' exhibits. Do
24 we have any stipulations on admissibility of Movants'
25 exhibits?

1 MR. MORRIS: So, if I understand correctly, Your
2 Honor, you'd like to know if we object to any of their
3 exhibits first?
4 THE COURT: Yes. And --
5 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
6 THE COURT: -- we'll hold --
7 MR. MORRIS: Because we have very limited objections.
8 THE COURT: Yes. We're going to keep on hold for now
9 your exhibits to the expert-related, --
10 MR. MORRIS: Yes.
11 THE COURT: -- your objections to the expert-related
12 ones.
13 MR. MORRIS: Right. I think -- I think --
14 THE COURT: So let's not talk about, for this moment,
15 --
16 MR. MORRIS: 39 --
17 THE COURT: -- 39 through 52.
18 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
19 THE COURT: But as for 1 through 38 or 53 through 80,
20 do the Respondents have objections?
21 MR. LEVY: Yes, Your Honor. We have very limited
22 objections.
23 THE COURT: Okay.
24 MR. LEVY: So, the three to which we object in their
25 entirety are Exhibits 24, 25, and 76, all of which we object

1 to on relevance grounds.
2 Exhibits 24 and 25 are email correspondence between
3 counsel in an unrelated state court matter where Mr. Seery is 4 responding to a third-party subpoena regarding the 5 preservation of his text messages on his iPhone. This has 6 absolutely nothing to do with whether or not the Movants have
7 stated a colorable claim for breach of fiduciary duties.
8 What this appears to be is related to an entirely separate
9 motion raised by Dugaboy regarding the preservation of Mr.
10 Seery's iPhone. So we object to Exhibits 24 and 25 because 11 they have simply nothing to do with the issues in this 12 hearing.
13 We also object to Exhibit 76, which is a filing from two
14 years ago in a different bankruptcy matter, from Acis,
15 regarding an injunction in place in that -- in that plan about 16 issues that -- that occurred before the bankruptcy was in 17 place. So this is just an entirely different case from issues
18 that arose many, many years ago that, again, has nothing to do
19 with this case.
20 THE COURT: This was whether the Acis plan injunction
21 barred some lawsuit?
22 MR. LEVY: Exactly.
23 THE COURT: Okay. Okay. Is that all?
24 MR. LEVY: We also have limited objections to certain
25 exhibits that we think are admissible for the -- for the fact

1 they're said, but not the truth of the matter asserted.
2 For example, Exhibits 1 and 2 are complaints filed in
3 those actions. We have no objection to those coming in, but
4 not for the truth of the matter asserted. These are advocacy
5 pieces and pleadings. They're not actually substantive
6 evidence.
7 And we would have similar -- similar objections to
8 Exhibits 4, 6, 11, --
9 THE COURT: Wait. 4 is James Dondero Handwritten 10 Notes, May 2021.
11 MR. LEVY: Yes.
12 THE COURT: Okay.
13 MR. LEVY: So, we have no objection to that coming
14 into evidence.
15 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
16 MR. LEVY: But there are -- those are hearsay.
17 They're not admissible standing by themselves for the truth of 18 the matter asserted.
19 THE COURT: Okay.
20 MR. LEVY: And Exhibit 6 are news articles.
21 Similarly, they're hearsay, but we have no objection to them
22 coming in. They're admissible for the fact that they're 23 published, but not the truth of the matter asserted.
24 THE COURT: Okay.
25 MR. LEVY: Exhibit 11, which is a motion filed by the

1 Debtor. Similarly, it's for -- we have no objection to
2 anything on the docket coming in, but anything that's an
3 advocacy piece, like a motion as opposed to an order, we think
4 is not admissible for the truth of the matter asserted.
5 And that would be a similar objection, then, for Exhibit
6 58, which is a complaint.
7 Exhibits 59, 60, and 61 are -- are letters by counsel for 8 Mr. Dondero to the U.S. Trustee's Office. We similarly have 9 no objection to that coming in, but not for the truth of the 10 matter asserted.
11 And Exhibits 62 and 63, Exhibit 62 is an attorney
12 declaration attaching, similarly, documents that are -- that 13 are advocacy pieces.
14 And Exhibit 63 appears to be an asset chart prepared by 15 counsel. So it would be a similar objection.
16 And Exhibit 66 also is a declaration attaching documents.
17 No objections to those coming in, but not for the truth of
18 the matter asserted.
19 Exhibits 72, 73, and 74 are all -- well, 72 are press
20 articles. 73 and 74 are briefs. We don't object to that 21 coming in, but we object to it being admitted for the truth of 22 the matter asserted.
23 And similarly, Exhibit 80 is a pleading in an SDNY
24 bankruptcy. We have no objection to that coming in, but not 25 for the truth of the matter asserted.

1 And finally, Exhibits 81, 82, 83 don't specify particular
2 documents. They appear to largely be reservations of rights.
3 And so we would likewise reserve our right to object once we
4 see any specific documents --
5 THE COURT: Okay.
6 MR. LEVY: -- admitted under these exhibits.
7 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. --
8 MR. LEVY: And I understand my colleague has an
9 objection to Exhibit 5.
10 MR. MORRIS: Exhibit 5, which is the subject, I
11 believe, of an unopposed sealing motion. That document has to 12 do with purported restrictions on certain securities. Since
13 it's subject to a sealing motion, I don't want to say too much
14 more than that, other than that -- we don't think it should be 15 admitted, because you can just see from the information on the 16 document that it was created after the termination of a shared 17 services agreement.
18 However, I'm hopeful that we can resolve the issue by 19 simply stipulating that in December 2020 MGM was on a
20 restricted list. What that means, what the consequences of 21 it, the rest of it can be the subject of discussion. But if 22 they're trying to get that document in for that particular
23 fact, we would stipulate to it in order to resolve that 24 dispute.
25 THE COURT: All right. Well, that's lots to respond

1 to, Mr. McCleary. Why don't we start with the outright
2 objections: 24, 25. It's apparently text messages related to
3 Mr. Seery's iPhone. I know we've got another motion pending
4 out there that's not set today regarding Mr. Seery's iPhone.
5 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor. Well, as the Court
6 is aware, we've attempted to get discovery from Mr. Seery in
7 relation to the allegations in this lawsuit. And by the way,
8 all of our exhibits that we're tendering are subject to our
9 objections that this should not be an evidentiary hearing. I
10 just want to make that clear.
11 THE COURT: Understood.
12 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Thank you. So, we're not 13 waiving that.
14 The Exhibits 24 and 25 are relevant to the fact that he's 15 -- he's not preserving information that is relevant to the 16 claims in this lawsuit. And that also is something that is a
17 factor in the colorability of our claims in this case.
18 THE COURT: How?
19 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, there is an effort, we believe,
20 underway to not have information available for us to discover.
21 And it reflects that they have been involved in providing --
22 we think supports -- providing material nonpublic information
23 to other people that would be in his phone. And we want him
24 to preserve it. And we think the fact that he is not is 25 evidence that supports the colorability of our claims.

1 THE COURT: So, --

2 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, this --

3 THE COURT: No. No. I'm processing that. You're

4 wanting the Court to receive into evidence a text that may say

5 something like, I delete messages periodically on my phone, to

6 support your claim that you have a colorable claim that some

7 sort of improper insider disclosure of information and insider

8 trading is going on? He said he had an automatic delete

9 feature on his phone; therefore, he -- that must be evidence

10 of a colorable claim for insider trading. That's the 11 argument?

12 MR. MCENTIRE: May I add to it, supplement, Your

13 Honor? Mr. Seery, in his deposition, indicated that he did

14 receive a text message that he had recently reviewed from

15 Stonehill in February of 2021. To the extent, however, that

16 is inconsistent with the fact that he has an automatic delete

17 button, suggesting to me that certain text messages have been

18 selectively saved and some other messages have been not

19 selectively saved.

20 THE COURT: We don't have that motion set today.

21 MR. MCENTIRE: This is not -- that has nothing to do

22 with the motion. It has to do with the fact that what is

23 being presented to the Court in response, the Respondents'

24 argument, is a selected window, a selected picture, that is --

25 distorts the reality of what we think has been destroyed

1 evidence.
2 Mr. Seery can't save one message that may be helpful to
3 them and not save others that may not be. And it is
4 inconsistent with the notion that this automatic delete button
5 was already in effect, so why does he have one favorable
6 message? That's why it's relevant.
7 THE COURT: Maybe he stopped using the automatic
8 delete after --
9 MR. MCENTIRE: No, he didn't at this time, Your
10 Honor.
11 THE COURT: Well, --
12 MR. MCENTIRE: That's the relevance.
13 THE COURT: So, --
14 MR. MCCLEARY: And he should never have used it, Your 15 Honor, given his role and responsibilities.
16 THE COURT: We don't have that motion set today.
17 What is the content of these emails? February 16th, March 18 10th, 2023? What is the content, for me to really zero in --
19 MR. LEVY: I have --
20 THE COURT: -- on relevance or not.
21 MR. LEVY: -- copies of the emails, if that would be 22 helpful --
23 THE COURT: Okay.
24 MR. LEVY: -- to Your Honor.
25 THE COURT: Well, you know, now I'm seeing them, so I

1 don't know what the big deal is if --
2 MR. LEVY: As Your Honor can see, these are emails
3 between counsel regarding preservation, which has nothing to 4 do with whether there are colorable claims for fiduciary
5 duties.
6 I'll add that -- and to show that this has nothing to do
7 with this case and it is an attempt to generate a fishing
8 expedition for documents in an entirely unrelated motion, we 9 had a meet-and-confer where we represented to the counsel
10 bringing that motion that we have been able to recover the 11 text messages from the iCloud.
12 And so this is really just a sideshow. It has nothing to 13 do with the issues of the colorability of claims for breach of 14 fiduciary duties. It should not be introduced into evidence
15 in this hearing.
16 THE COURT: All right. I'm going to sustain the 17 objection, but this is without prejudice to you re-urging 18 admission of these messages at the hearing on the motion
19 regarding Mr. Seery's phone. Okay? Now, --
20 MR. MCCLEARY: That's as to 24 and 25, Your Honor?
21 THE COURT: Correct. And let's go now to the other
22 one, the Exhibit 76, the Acis-related document, the relevance
23 of that. Statement of Interested Party in Response to Motion
24 of NexPoint to Confirm Discharge or Plan Injunction Does Not 25 Bar Suit, or Alternatively, for Relief from All Applicable

1 Injunctions.
2 What is the relevance for today's matter?
3 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, this is background of 4 pleadings and just background information generally to support
5 the allegations made in the case and the background.
6 THE COURT: What do you mean, background?
7 MR. MCCLEARY: Kind of the history relative to the 8 claims trading and relative to the claims of the use of 9 insider information.
10 THE COURT: Okay. Be more specific, because I
11 certainly have a background education on Acis litigation.
12 (Pause.)
13 MR. MCCLEARY: Yeah. Your Honor, this is a data
14 point that is referred to in one of our experts' data charts,
15 I believe, so --
16 THE COURT: All right. So let's just carry that to 17 --
18 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes.
19 THE COURT: I'm just going to mark it as carried
20 along with 39 through 62, related to the experts.
21 (HMIT's Exhibits 39 through 62 and Exhibit 76 carried.)
22 THE COURT: Okay. What about all of these objections
23 that we don't object per se but we want it clear that the 24 documents are not being offered for the truth of the matter
25 asserted because there's hearsay?

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I'll let Mr. McCleary
2 address all of those.
3 I want to point out one exception, and that is Exhibit #4,
4 which are handwritten notes from Mr. Jim Dondero. Those are
5 not -- they are being offered for the truth of the matter
6 asserted because it's an admission of a party opponent in 7 these proceedings, and that's Farallon. They reflect
8 significant statements and admissions by Farallon, which are 9 not hearsay. It's an exception to the hearsay rule. And 10 they're being offered for more -- they are being offered for 11 the truth of the matter asserted, because -- and it's 12 admissible in that format.
13 THE COURT: But are you referring to hearsay within 14 hearsay? Because there would be, I guess -- I guess the 15 handwritten notes of Mr. Dondero are his hearsay, and then
16 you're saying there's --
17 MR. MCENTIRE: So, this is reflecting statements made
18 to Mr. Dondero that are admissions of a party opponent.
19 MR. LEVY: None of that has been established. These 20 are not notes from anybody at Farallon or Stonehill which 21 could potentially be a party admission. These are notes by 22 Mr. Dondero about what was purportedly said by somebody else,
23 and there's no evidence that these were kept in the regular 24 course of business.
25 This is hearsay and hearsay within hearsay. And this

1 could be established in testimony, but it can't be admitted --
2 the document can't be admitted to speak on behalf of a third
3 person who's not here.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, I agree, we'd need
5 to lay a foundation. But that's not the purpose of this
6 discussion right now. I am simply advising the Court that
7 once I lay a foundation, it comes in for all purposes. It
8 comes in as an admission of a party opponent.
9 MR. LEVY: It is not an admission of a party
10 opponent. It is not notes or statements by any actual
11 defendant. These are notes by Mr. Dondero being introduced 12 for his own benefit. It is not a party admission.
13 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to carry that one. If 14 one of the witnesses that's on the witness stand -- well,
15 presumably Mr. Dondero will be called -- we can get context at 16 that time and decide if it's appropriate to let it in and let 17 you cross-examine him on them if that's going to come in. All
18 right? So we'll carry this one.
19 Anything else, though, unique, or can we consider as a
20 batch all these other objections to -- most of them being 21 pleadings, not all of them but a lot of them -- that the 22 Respondents just want it clear that they're not being offered
23 for the truth of the matter asserted? Your response?
24 MR. MCCLEARY: They're, again, largely data points
25 relied on by experts in the course of coming up with their

1 opinions and just setting the background and history of the
2 claims trading.
3 THE COURT: Well, then which ones are data points?
4 Because I just need to carry those, right? If they're not
5 being offered for any other reason.
6 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, I would have to -- we would have
7 to refer to the charts of the experts, Your Honor, to 8 determine that on all of them.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: In order to facilitate this, may I
10 make a suggestion, Your Honor? We'll agree that if we're 11 going to offer anything that he's identified other than for 12 the purposes indicated, we will advise the Court. Otherwise,
13 we'll accept the limitations imposed. And as we go through,
14 if we offer an exhibit that is more than the truth -- if we 15 are offering it for the truth of the matter asserted, we will 16 advise the Court, and then we could take it up then. I'm just 17 trying to get the ball rolling.
18 THE COURT: Okay. Well, that's still going to be a
19 time-consuming thing, maybe. But, okay. Just, when we start
20 the clock here -- very shortly, I hope -- I want people clear
21 that when you make objections, that counts against your three
22 hours. Okay? All right?
23 MR. LEVY: Okay. Understood, Your Honor.
24 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, we have certainly made
25 objection to some of their exhibits.

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, shall we turn to those
2 now?
3 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.
4 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, they objected to every
5 single exhibit except one, so let's be clear.
6 THE COURT: Okay.
7 MR. MORRIS: If they're withdrawing them, that's 8 fine.
9 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --
10 MR. MORRIS: But let's be clear.
11 MR. MCCLEARY: -- we are not withdrawing our general
12 objection to all the evidence, of course. Just --
13 THE COURT: Okay. Let me just say for the record
14 right now, I understand and you are preserving for all
15 purposes your ability to argue on appeal that it was error for 16 the Court to consider any evidence. Okay? You have not 17 waived that argument by --
18 MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you.
19 THE COURT: -- now --
20 MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you. We can have --
21 THE COURT: -- agreeing to the admission of anybody's
22 exhibit or offering your own exhibits.
23 MR. MCCLEARY: And we could have a running objection
24 on that basis, on relevance to all the witnesses and the 25 evidence that they offer on that basis. I would request that.

1 THE COURT: Well, okay, let me be clear. Relevance.
2 Your argument is that no evidence is relevant because the
3 Court doesn't need to consider any evidence --
4 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.
5 THE COURT: -- on the colorability issue. You've got
6 a running objection. It's not destroyed for appeal purposes.
7 Okay?
8 MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you, Your Honor. Then, subject
9 to that, in terms --
10 MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry to interrupt, but --
11 MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.
12 MR. MORRIS: -- would it be helpful if I gave the 13 Court my list so she can see --
14 MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.
15 MR. MORRIS: -- what the --
16 MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.
17 MR. MORRIS: Okay. May I approach, Your Honor?
18 THE COURT: You may. I'm not sure, if everything has 19 been objected to, I'm not sure how --
20 MR. MORRIS: Because I've tried -- I've tried to 21 organize it in a way that would be helpful.
22 THE COURT: Okay.
23 (Pause.)
24 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Your --
25 THE COURT: I'm ready.

1 MR. MCCLEARY: -- Honor, yes.
2 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
3 MR. MCCLEARY: So, we are withdrawing our objections,
4 other than the general objections to relevance based on the
5 evidentiary nature of the proceeding, to Exhibits 1 and 2.
6 With respect to 3, this is a verified petition to take
7 deposition for suit and seek documents filed on July 22, 2021.
8 We object on the grounds of relevance and hearsay to that. Is
9 that --
10 THE COURT: Well, --
11 MR. MORRIS: I don't -- I don't understand this one.
12 THE COURT: This --
13 MR. MCCLEARY: Is that, I'm sorry, is that your #11?
14 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
15 MR. MCCLEARY: All right. We withdraw our objection
16 to #3, subject to our general objection.
17 On Exhibit 4, we object to relevance and hearsay on a
18 verified amended petition to take deposition before suit and 19 seek documents.
20 THE COURT: Okay. This is my time to hear your 21 argument. And we're going to be here --
22 MR. MORRIS: Can I -- can I do this here? It's going
23 to be much quicker.
24 THE COURT: What do you mean? Do what here?
25 MR. MORRIS: So, if you just follow the chart that I

1 gave the Court, --

2 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

3 MR. MORRIS: -- Section A is a list of exhibits that

4 they've objected to. Those exhibits are in the right-hand

5 column.

6 At the same time, they are offering the exact same

7 exhibits into evidence on their exhibit list. I don't

8 understand how they can offer their exhibits and object to 9 ours.

10 MR. MCCLEARY: Counsel. I'm sorry. We've already

11 told them that, subject to our general objection, we'll

12 withdraw the objections to those exhibits.

13 MR. MORRIS: Right. So can we agree that all

14 objections to Section A are withdrawn?

15 MR. MCCLEARY: Subject to the general objection, yes.

16 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

17 THE COURT: Okay. So, --

18 MR. MORRIS: That's going to be much quicker.

19 THE COURT: -- 11, 34, 2, 46, 42, 38, 41, 39, 40,

20 and various attachments to Highland Exhibits 5 are withdrawn.

21 So, admitted by stipulation.

22 (Debtors' Exhibits 2, 11, 34, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 46 are

23 received into evidence. Certain attachments to Debtors'

24 Exhibit 5 are received into evidence.)

25 MR. MORRIS: And to make this easy, Your Honor, at

1 some point I hope later today, but perhaps tomorrow, we'll
2 slap a caption on this, we'll file it on the docket, so that,
3 you know, an appellate court, if necessary, can follow along.
4 But I think that we've just stipulated that all of the 5 exhibits identified in Section A of this document are -- the 6 objections have been withdrawn.
7 THE COURT: Okay.
8 MR. MCCLEARY: Subject to the general objections.
9 MR. MORRIS: Right. That gets us -- I'm going to 10 jump to Section C, because I think the same is true. Section
11 C identifies all exhibits that each party has taken from the 12 docket. And you can see from Footnote 4, the Court can take 13 judicial notice under Federal Rule of Evidence 201, we've just 14 had the discussion about whether or not any of them would be 15 limited for purposes of the truth of the matter asserted, but
16 all of the exhibits identified in Section C I think the Court
17 can take judicial notice of because they're on a docket.
18 THE COURT: Response?
19 MR. MORRIS: And so I would respectfully request that 20 they withdraw their objections to anything in Section C.
21 THE COURT: Response, Mr. McCleary?
22 MR. MCCLEARY: I understand the Court can take 23 judicial notice of those, Your Honor, but they do contain 24 irrelevant and hearsay information also.
25 MR. MORRIS: The hearsay, I think that we just had

1 the discussion. I mean, if there's something that he wants to
2 really point out at this point that I can respond to. But we
3 would agree that advocacy pieces shouldn't be offered for the 4 truth of the matter asserted. Court orders, on the other
5 hand, are law of the case.
6 THE COURT: So, I mean, it's the very same situation
7 we just addressed with your own exhibits. You have a lot of 8 court filings. And they didn't have a problem with it, as 9 long as everyone knew advocacy was not being accepted for the 10 truth of the matter asserted.
11 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --
12 THE COURT: Isn't this the same thing?
13 MR. MCCLEARY: -- they're not offering it for the 14 truth of the matter asserted. That's one thing. And 15 certainly the Court can take judicial notice. We do object to 16 the extent they're offering Exhibits 6 through 10 for the
17 truth of the matter asserted.
18 MR. MORRIS: Well, let me check those.
19 THE COURT: Well, --
20 MR. MCCLEARY: I'm sorry. 6, 7, uh -- (pause).
21 THE COURT: Those are orders of --
22 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
23 THE COURT: -- courts.
24 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. They're orders of the Court.
25 MR. MCCLEARY: The orders are not relevant, Your

1 Honor.

2 THE COURT: Explain.

3 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, they have not demonstrated that

4 the orders that they seek to introduce are relevant. They

5 have orders regarding, for example, the contempt proceedings

6 that are irrelevant to these proceedings. And prejudicial

7 under 403.

8 THE COURT: All right. Shall I take a five- or ten-

9 minute break? Let me -- I think I've been very generous by 10 not starting the clock yet on the three hours/three hours.

11 MR. MCCLEARY: Appreciate that.

12 THE COURT: But here's how we do things in bankruptcy

13 court. And I don't mean to talk down to anyone. I don't

14 know, you may appear in bankruptcy court every day of your

15 life. But we expect counsel to get together ahead of time and

16 stipulate to the admissibility of as many exhibits as you can.

17 If there's a preservation of rights here and there, fine. But

18 we --

19 MR. MCCLEARY: Maybe if we take --

20 THE COURT: You know, --

21 MR. MCCLEARY: We can try to --

22 THE COURT: -- helping everyone to understand, --

23 MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

24 THE COURT: -- we have thousands of cases in our

25 court.

1 MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.
2 THE COURT: And this is just something we have to do
3 to give all parties their day in court when they need time.
4 And so --
5 MR. MCCLEARY: If you'd like us to take ten minutes
6 and try to narrow this, we certainly --
7 THE COURT: Okay. With everybody understanding you
8 should have taken the ten minutes before we got here. But,
9 again, when I say three hours, --
10 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
11 THE COURT: -- that's what I meant. Okay?
12 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.
13 THE COURT: So we'll take a ten-minute break.
14 THE CLERK: All rise.
15 (A recess ensued from 10:42 a.m. until 10:54 a.m.)
16 THE CLERK: All rise.
17 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. Have we 18 reached agreements on some of these exhibits?
19 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, we have agreed on the ones
20 that we can agree on, and we announced that to the Court with 21 respect to the Paragraph A items that the Court's already 22 ruled on.
23 I would like to point out to the Court that we just got 24 their objections handed to us right before the hearing. We 25 filed ours last night. So we didn't --

1 THE COURT: At 11:00-something, right?
2 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor, but we did --
3 THE COURT: Okay. Well, okay. So I guess your point
4 is you want to make sure I'm annoyed with everyone, not just 5 selective of you.
6 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --
7 THE COURT: I mean, exhibit lists were filed Monday.
8 So I don't know why on Tuesday people were not on the phone
9 saying, you know, or Wednesday morning at the latest.
10 MR. MCCLEARY: Sure. And we haven't had much of an 11 opportunity, in fairness, to consider their objections and 12 respond because we just received them right at the time of the 13 hearing, just before the hearing started.
14 Your Honor, we would urge our objections to Exhibit #4.
15 We've objected to this petition to take deposition before suit
16 and seek documents on the basis of relevance and hearsay.
17 They have a number of pleadings in other matters that have 18 nothing to do with, frankly, the colorability standard in this
19 case. And this is an example.
20 THE COURT: Okay. This is the time for me to hear
21 specific objections and what the basis is, and not just --
22 MR. MORRIS: Can we go back --
23 THE COURT: -- a category.
24 MR. MCCLEARY: Yeah.
25 MR. MORRIS: Can we go back to my way? Because it's

1 just going to be much faster. It really will be. Right? We
2 -- Category 1, A and C, we dealt with. Category B, --
3 THE COURT: Well, we dealt with A.
4 MR. MORRIS: Right. And --
5 THE COURT: All of those are withdrawn, and they are 6 admitted by stipulation.
7 MR. MORRIS: Right.
8 MR. MCCLEARY: Subject to --
9 THE COURT: Category C, --
10 MR. MCCLEARY: -- the general objections.
11 THE COURT: -- I'm not sure we're to closure on.
12 MR. MORRIS: Um, --
13 THE COURT: Are we to closure on C? Are you
14 stipulating?
15 MR. MCCLEARY: No. We are not stipulating on C.
16 MR. MORRIS: Let's do them one at a time.
17 MR. MCCLEARY: I have not had an opportunity to -- to 18 --
19 MR. MORRIS: Let's do them one at a time.
20 MR. MCCLEARY: Have not had an opportunity to look at 21 each and every one of these, Your Honor. Because we did just 22 get these.
23 THE COURT: Okay.
24 MR. MCCLEARY: But generally --
25 THE COURT: If we have not wrapped this up in 15

1 minutes, we're just going to start, and you can object the
2 old-fashioned way. But I'm telling all lawyers here,
3 objections count against your time. Okay?
4 MR. MORRIS: And I'd move for the admission of all of 5 our exhibits right now, then.
6 THE COURT: Okay.
7 MR. MORRIS: So let him -- let -- put him on the 8 clock and let's go.
9 THE COURT: Okay. So, 15 minutes. Let start going
10 through everything except Category A.
11 MR. MORRIS: Number 4?
12 MR. MCCLEARY: Number 4, Your Honor, we object on the
13 basis of relevance and hearsay.
14 MR. MORRIS: Okay. My response to that, Your Honor,
15 and this will be my response -- this is in Section B of my 16 outline --
17 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
18 MR. MORRIS: Okay? They object to Exhibits 3, 4, 5,
19 and 9. These are Mr. Dondero's prior sworn statements. You
20 just heard his lawyer stand here and tell the Court that 21 somehow his handwritten notes should be admissible as an
22 admission. You know what he did? He testified four different
23 times under oath. That's Exhibits 3, 4, 5, and 9. Sworn 24 statements.
25 They come into evidence not as hearsay but under Federal

1 Rule of Evidence 801(d)(1). It's beyond -- the notion that
2 they can prove a colorable claim and that it's not relevant
3 that he's got diametrically different -- he's got four
4 different statements, now five with his notes, he's got five
5 different statements. Doesn't that go to the colorability of 6 these claims?
7 We believe it does. That's the basis for the introduction
8 of these documents into evidence.
9 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. McCleary, your response?
10 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, it's a verified amended
11 petition, Your Honor, in another matter, to -- before suit to 12 seek documents. Has nothing to do with the merits of this 13 case and our motion for leave. So we object on the grounds of 14 relevance and hearsay.
15 THE COURT: Well, since they're prior sworn
16 statements of Mr. Dondero, --
17 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, then they might -- if they want
18 to use it later to impeach, they can try to do that, but they
19 have to lay the foundation.
20 THE COURT: What about 801(d)(1)?
21 MR. MCCLEARY: Again, relevance, Your Honor.
22 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. Those are --
23 MR. MCCLEARY: And Mr. --
24 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
25 THE COURT: Those are going to be admitted.

1 MR. MCCLEARY: By the way, on hearsay, Mr. Dondero is
2 not Hunter Mountain. So when he argues that these are
3 admissions, they're not admissions by Hunter Mountain.
4 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the only piece of evidence,
5 literally the only piece of evidence they have are the words
6 out of Mr. Dondero's mouth. There is no evidence, there will
7 be no evidence of a quid, a pro, or a quo. There will be no
8 evidence other than what Mr. Dondero testifies to --
9 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --
10 MR. MORRIS: -- about what he was told. There will 11 be no evidence that there was a meaningful relationship
12 between Mr. Seery and Ms. -- and Farallon and Stonehill.
13 There will be no evidence, none, that Farallon and Stonehill 14 rubber-stamped Mr. Seery's compensation package. Nothing.
15 The only thing we have are going to be the words out of Mr.
16 Dondero's mouth and these notes that just showed up. And
17 these statements --
18 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor?
19 THE COURT: Okay. Counsel, I mean, it just feels 20 like --
21 MR. MORRIS: It's --
22 THE COURT: -- if notes get in, then sworn statements
23 of Mr. Dondero should get in. Right?
24 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, he's making arguments,
25 closing arguments, opening arguments, trying to run out the

1 clock. We objected to relevance, and we stand on our
2 objection.
3 THE COURT: Okay.
4 MR. MCCLEARY: And on hearsay.
5 THE COURT: I'll admit 3, 4, 5, and 9.
6 (Debtors' Exhibits 3, 4, 5, and 9 are received into
7 evidence.)
8 MR. MORRIS: Section E.
9 MR. MCCLEARY: I'm sorry. So our objections are
10 overruled?
11 THE COURT: They are overruled.
12 MR. MCCLEARY: On 3, 4, 5?
13 THE COURT: And 9.
14 MR. MORRIS: Section E of my outline.
15 MR. MCCLEARY: What about 6?
16 THE COURT: That's not --
17 MR. MORRIS: Well, --
18 THE COURT: Well, I don't --
19 MR. MORRIS: -- it would -- it would --
20 THE COURT: Let's go back to C. I'm not clear if 21 we're to closure on Section C.
22 MR. MORRIS: I'll let Counsel go through --
23 THE COURT: And 6 is within Section C.
24 MR. MORRIS: I'll let Counsel go through each one,
25 one at a time.

1 MR. MCCLEARY: No. That's all right. If you want to
2 go through, you have them lumped in. Yeah, I think it'd
3 probably be quickest if, frankly, we just go down the list,
4 Your Honor. Frankly.
5 THE COURT: Well, you've got ten minutes left.
6 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. We object to #6, memorandum and 7 opinion order granting Dondero's motion to remand, on the
8 basis of relevance and hearsay.
9 THE COURT: Overruled. I can take judicial notice
10 under 201 of that. So 6 is admitted.
11 (Debtors' Exhibit 6 is received into evidence.)
12 MR. MCCLEARY: We object to Exhibits 7 and 8 on the 13 grounds of relevance. 7 on relevance and hearsay, and 8 on
14 relevance.
15 MR. MORRIS: I'll take 7 first, Your Honor.
16 THE COURT: Okay.
17 MR. MORRIS: It's an order dismissing Mr. Dondero's
18 202 petition. That 202 petition sought discovery on the basis
19 of the exact same so-called insider trading claims that Hunter
20 Mountain is asserting today.
21 I think it's not only relevant, it's almost dispositive
22 that a Texas state court heard the exact same -- or, actually,
23 not the exact same, because Mr. Dondero changed his story so
24 many times -- but heard a version, I think Versions 1, 2, and 25 3, of this insider trading and would not even give them

1 discovery.

2 So when the Court considers whether or not there's a

3 colorable claim here, I think it ought to think about what a

4 Texas state court decided on not whether or not they have

5 colorable claims, whether or not they're even entitled to

6 discovery. I think it's very relevant. Move for its

7 admission right now.

8 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, it's ironic, because at 9 that hearing counsel for the Respondents was arguing that it

10 ought to be this Court that considers what discovery is 11 appropriate.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Well, obviously, you can argue

13 about that, but, again, I think I can take judicial notice of 14 this. Right?

15 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, we argue that it's not relevant,

16 Your Honor, and it is the --

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. MCCLEARY: 7 is not relevant and is hearsay.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: Number 8, --

21 THE COURT: Objection is overruled.

22 MR. MCCLEARY: Overruled?

23 THE COURT: And so 7 is admitted.

24 (Debtors' Exhibit 7 is received into evidence.)

25 MR. MCCLEARY: 8 is our verified petition. And we

1 object on the grounds of relevance.
2 MR. MORRIS: You know, Your Honor, if I really had
3 the time and the patience to do this, I think I'd find this
4 document attached to Mr. McEntire's affidavit that's on their 5 exhibit list.
6 But to speed this up just a little bit, how could their 7 202 petition that sought discovery on the basis of the very
8 same insider trading allegation not be relevant? It's a
9 judicial order. You can take notice of it. And it's 10 incredibly relevant that a second Texas state court heard the 11 same allegations that they're presenting to you as colorable
12 and said no, you're not getting discovery.
13 MR. MCCLEARY: We don't know why they made that 14 order, Your Honor. They could have simply accepted the 15 opposition's arguments that this Court had jurisdiction and 16 should consider what discovery ought to be done.
17 THE COURT: Overruled.
18 MR. MCCLEARY: It's not relevant to our --
19 THE COURT: I admit 8.
20 MR. MORRIS: Next?
21 MR. MCCLEARY: Overruled?
22 THE COURT: Yes.
23 (Debtors' Exhibit 8 is received into evidence.)
24 MR. MCCLEARY: The declaration of James Dondero. I
25 think we withdrew the Dondero --

1 THE COURT: Right.
2 MR. MCCLEARY: -- declarations. If it --
3 THE COURT: It's --
4 MR. MCCLEARY: Numbered -- I'm sorry, #9.
5 THE COURT: 9. I've already checked it as admitted.
6 MR. MCCLEARY: If you want to -- if you want to offer
7 #9, they can offer it.
8 THE COURT: It's admitted. I've already --
9 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.
10 THE COURT: -- said.
11 MR. MCCLEARY: Number 10. It's an order denying our 12 second Rule 202 petition. And we object to it on relevance,
13 Your Honor.
14 THE COURT: Same objection. It's overruled. It's 15 admitted.
16 (Debtors' Exhibit 10 is received into evidence.)
17 MR. MCCLEARY: Number 12, 13, and -- 12 and 13 are 18 correspondence regarding resignation letters. We object on 19 grounds of relevance.
20 THE COURT: Wait. Did we skip 11 for a reason?
21 MR. MCCLEARY: Pardon me?
22 THE COURT: Did we skip 11 for a reason?
23 MR. MCCLEARY: We only have it --
24 THE COURT: Oh, wait. It's already admitted by 25 stipulation.

1 MR. MCCLEARY: Yeah, and we have --
2 MR. MORRIS: That's the one --
3 MR. MCCLEARY: We have our general objection.
4 MR. MORRIS: That's the one exhibit that they didn't
5 object to.
6 THE COURT: Okay.
7 MR. MCCLEARY: We only had our general objection with 8 respect to that.
9 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Thank you.
10 MR. MCCLEARY: On 12 --
11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
12 MR. MCCLEARY: -- and 13, those are correspondence
13 regarding resignations. We object on the grounds of 14 relevance.
15 MR. MORRIS: So, the relevance of that, Your Honor,
16 is to show that when Mr. Dondero sent this email to Mr. Seery
17 in December 2020, he had absolutely no relationship to 18 Highland, had absolutely no duty to Highland, had absolutely
19 no reason to send this email to Highland. He wasn't in 20 control of Highland. He wasn't --
21 If they'll stipulate to this, that's fine. He wasn't in 22 control. He had no authority to do anything. He couldn't 23 effectuate trades. He wasn't there. And that's what these 24 documents are intended to prove.
25 THE COURT: Okay. Why are we -- this is --

1 MR. MCCLEARY: Because there are --
2 THE COURT: Some of this stuff, I mean, --
3 MR. MCCLEARY: There are other agreements.
4 THE COURT: -- is no big deal. Right?
5 MR. MCCLEARY: Sub-advisory agreements, other
6 agreements that he had under which he had a responsibility to 7 make the communications regarding material nonpublic
8 information that he made. So this is simply irrelevant, Your
9 Honor.
10 THE COURT: I overrule. I mean, again, I don't --
11 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.
12 (Debtors' Exhibits 12 and 13 are received into evidence.)
13 MR. MCCLEARY: Number 14, --
14 THE COURT: You're both giving me just a lot of 15 background that I already have, but of course a Court of 16 Appeals --
17 MR. MORRIS: That's why we --
18 THE COURT: -- isn't going to have it.
19 MR. MORRIS: Yep.
20 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, #14, Exhibit 14, we object on 21 the grounds of relevance and hearsay.
22 THE COURT: Okay. Wait a minute. We skipped 13
23 because -- why? Oh, wait, that was, I'm sorry, 12 and 13 --
24 MR. MORRIS: Yes.
25 THE COURT: -- where I've overruled the objection and

1 admitted.

2 Okay. Go ahead.

3 MR. MCCLEARY: 14, we object on the grounds of 4 relevance and hearsay, Your Honor.

5 MR. MORRIS: I'm just going to make this real quick,

6 Your Honor. Here's the thing. This Court knows it. It's

7 actually facts that cannot be disputed because they're subject

8 of court orders.

9 As the Court will recall, beginning in late November 2020

10 continuing through late December 2020, Mr. Dondero was engaged

11 in a continuous pattern of interference with Highland's

12 business and trading. It was the subject of the TRO, which is 13 why the TRO is relevant.

14 Your Honor will recall that at the end of November Mr.

15 Dondero attempted to stop Mr. Seery from trading in Avaya

16 stock. On December 3rd is when he sent this threatening

17 email, text message, to Mr. Dondero [sic]. It caused us to 18 get the TRO.

19 Your Honor will recall on December 16, 2020, that's when

20 we had the hearing on Mr. Dondero's motion to try to stop Mr.

21 Seery from trading in the CLOs that the Court dismissed as

22 frivolous and granted the directed verdict of Highland.

23 So, that's December 16. He sends this email about MGM on

24 December 17th. And what happens on December 18th? More

25 interference with Highland's business. It's a matter of --

1 beyond dispute. It's law of the case at this point because
2 that's the subject of the contempt order. And the Court found
3 that, after -- after hours, on December 18th, Hunter Covitz
4 told Mr. Dondero that Mr. Seery was again trying to trade in
5 Avaya stock, and within a day or two Mr. Dondero was again
6 interfering it, and that's what led to the second -- to the 7 first contempt order.
8 So all of these documents are relevant to show motive and 9 what was happening. This email was not sent for any 10 legitimate purpose. The evidence is just overwhelming. And 11 it's not -- it's not like, oh, that's an argument we're 12 making. Between the TRO and the contempt order, it's law of 13 the case. He was interfering with Highland's business nonstop
14 for thirty days, including the day before he sent this email
15 and the day after he sent the email.
16 THE COURT: Okay.
17 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, this is a lawsuit or an 18 effort to file a lawsuit on behalf of Hunter Mountain
19 Investment Trust, not James Dondero. And as much as Counsel
20 wants to make this about Jim Dondero and attack him, this is a
21 different case. So this exhibit has nothing to do with the 22 claims in this lawsuit. It's not relevant. And hearsay.
23 MR. MORRIS: The only evidence is Mr. Dondero. It's 24 -- could not be more relevant.
25 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. I'm admitting this.

1 And so we're --

2 MR. MCCLEARY: Uh, --

3 THE COURT: It's 14. It's -- how far?

4 MR. MCCLEARY: 14. Exhibit 15 is where we are, Your

5 Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 (Debtors' Exhibit 14 is received into evidence.)

8 THE COURT: 15.

9 MR. MORRIS: Oh, that's -- that's the contempt order.

10 And so these contain the judicial findings that are now beyond

11 dispute that Mr. Dondero was engaged in interfering with

12 Highland's business after the TRO was entered on December

13 10th.

14 THE COURT: Okay. Again, my own orders, --

15 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, it's not --

16 THE COURT: -- I can take judicial notice of --

17 MR. MCCLEARY: It's --

18 THE COURT: -- under the Federal Rules of Evidence.

19 MR. MCCLEARY: It's --

20 THE COURT: 201.

21 MR. MCCLEARY: We simply object as not relevant. We

22 object based on Federal Rule of Evidence 403. Any possible

23 relevance is outweighed by the prejudice. And we object on 24 the grounds of hearsay, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: Prejudice? Prejudice? They're orders I

1 issued. I'm going to be prejudiced by my own orders?

2 MR. MCCLEARY: Uh, well, --

3 THE COURT: I don't --

4 MR. MCCLEARY: -- Hunter Mountain will be.

5 THE COURT: Okay. I'll overrule.

6 (Debtors' Exhibit 15 is received into evidence.)

7 THE COURT: I'll tell you what. We're out of our --

8 well, we've get probably 30 seconds left. Anything that we

9 can maybe knock out to not have eat into your three hours?

10 Both of you?

11 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, we filed written

12 objections to all of these exhibits. We urge those

13 objections. 16.

14 THE COURT: I know, but this is your chance to argue

15 why your objections have merit. I can -- we can just --

16 MR. MCCLEARY: Because, well, obviously, we're

17 talking about pleadings and filings in other matters. The 18 evidence that they're trying to use to impugn Jim Dondero,

19 which has nothing to do with the merits of HMIT's claims and 20 allegations of insider trades.

21 THE COURT: Okay. A lot of this is articles.

22 Articles, articles, articles about MGM.

23 MR. MCCLEARY: On the articles, Your Honor, subject

24 to our general objection, we'll withdraw the objections to the 25 articles if they'll agree to the articles that we've offered.

1 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we didn't lodge an objection
2 to their articles.
3 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.
4 MR. MORRIS: And just so, if anybody is keeping track
5 at home, this is Item B on the list that I created earlier
6 this morning.
7 THE COURT: Okay. So, 25 through 30 are articles.
8 Those are admitted by stipulation. Nothing is about the truth
9 of the matter asserted. They're just articles that were out
10 there for --
11 MR. MORRIS: Right. I would just --
12 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes.
13 THE COURT: -- the world.
14 MR. MORRIS: Just so we're clear, it's Exhibits 25, 6
15 -- 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30.
16 THE COURT: Right.
17 (Debtors' Exhibits 25 through 30 are received into 18 evidence.)
19 MR. MORRIS: And so, yes, those are all articles.
20 They have their articles. Exhibit 72.
21 THE COURT: Oh, and 34 is another one. So that's 22 admitted as well.
23 MR. MORRIS: Yes.
24 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.
25 (Debtors' Exhibit 34 is received into evidence.)

1 THE COURT: Okay. Well, we're out of time, so as for
2 the others, they can offer them the old-fashioned way if they
3 want to, you can object the old-fashioned way, and it eats
4 into both of your three hours.
5 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.
6 THE COURT: Okay. Let's hear opening statements.
7 And by the way, before we wrap up today, I'm going to say
8 out loud everything I've admitted so we're all crystal clear
9 on what's in the record. This has been a bit chaotic.
10 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Understood.
11 THE COURT: So, Caroline is going to be the keeper of 12 our time over here. And if the judge ever interrupts you,
13 she's going to stop the timer. Okay?
14 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.
15 THE COURT: I hope I won't any more, but you may 16 proceed.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: No, I appreciate it. Thank you. Can
18 you see it, Your Honor?
19 THE COURT: I can, yes. Thanks.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: Can opposing counsel see it?
21 MR. MORRIS: Yes, sir.
22 MR. MCENTIRE: All right.
23 THE COURT: And I'm just going to ask everyone who 24 has a PowerPoint today, can I get a hard copy --
25 MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

1 THE COURT: -- before we close?

2 MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

4 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT

5 TRUST

6 MR. MCENTIRE: May it please the Court, Your Honor,

7 at this time I'll be providing the opening statement on behalf

8 of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust. It is a Delaware trust.

9 Mark Patrick, who's in the courtroom, is the Administrator.

10 He will be one of the witnesses that you'll hear today.

11 Hunter Mountain Investment Trust is the former 99.5

12 percent equity holder, currently classified as a Class 10

13 contingent beneficiary under the Claimant Trust Agreement. It

14 is active in supporting various entities that in turn support

15 charities throughout North Texas.

16 Your Honor, this is not an ordinary claims-trading case.

17 I know the Court made those references in one of the hearings,

18 and I wanted to more clearly respond. This has different

19 indicia. An ordinary claims-trading case is normally outside

20 the purview of the bankruptcy court. What makes this

21 different is that we're involving, we believe and allege,

22 breaches of fiduciary duty of the Debtor-in-Possession's CEO

23 and the Trustee.

24 It involves also aiding and abetting by the entities that

25 actually acquired the claims. And that falls into the

1 category of willful misconduct.
2 It also involves injury to the Reorganized Debtor and to
3 the Claimant Trust. Ordinarily, a claims trade would not
4 involve injury to the estate or the reorganized debtor. Here,
5 we have alleged that it has. And the injury takes the form of
6 unearned excessive fees that Mr. Seery has garnered as a
7 result of his relationship and arrangements, as we have
8 alleged, with the Claims Purchasers.
9 During the course of my presentation today, I'll be 10 referring to the Claims Purchasers as the collective of 11 Farallon, Stonehill, Muck, and Jessup.
12 I would like to briefly discuss some of the issues that
13 have already been presented to the Court, just to make sure
14 that this record is clear.
15 Can you please continue?
16 We don't believe the Barton Doctrine is applicable. I
17 believe that precedent is very clear that the Barton Doctrine
18 deals with proceedings in other courts, and the various 19 standards and requirements of Barton do not apply if in fact
20 we're coming to the Court and filing the proceeding in the 21 court where the Trustee was actually appointed.
22 And so I think that the law is clear. And this is Judge
23 Houser here in the Northern District of Texas in the case In 24 re Provider Meds. And she makes very clear that the standard
25 for granting leave to sue here is actually less stringent than

1 a 12(b)(6) plausibility standard. So if there is any issue as
2 to what standard this Court should be applying to the -- to
3 this process, we believe it's a 12(b)(6) standard, confined to
4 the four corners of the document.
5 If the Court wishes to consult the documents that are
6 referred to in the four corners of the petition or complaint,
7 it may do so.
8 But the standard here is even more flexible than a
9 standard plausibility. Our evidence, though, achieves the 10 standard of plausibility as well.
11 The In re Deepwater Horizon case is another important
12 case. That's a Fifth Circuit case. A plaintiff's claim is 13 colorable if it can allege standing and the elements necessary
14 to state a claim on which relief could be granted. Defining a
15 colorable claim as one with some possible validity. I don't
16 have to prove my case today. I didn't have to prove my case
17 in the prior hearings. I have to prove sufficient
18 allegations, not evidence, but sufficient allegations to show
19 that it has some possible basis of validity.
20 Possible basis of validity. We're not here talking about 21 likelihoods. We're not here talking about prima facie
22 evidence. We're not here talking about probabilities. We're
23 talking about something less than plausibility. But, again,
24 we achieve plausibility.
25 A colorable claim is defined as one which is plausible or

1 not without merit. These are various cases from around the
2 country. The colorable claim requirement is met if a
3 committee has asserted claims for relief that, on appropriate
4 proof, would allow recovery. On appropriate proof. We're not
5 required to put on that proof today, Your Honor.
6 Courts have determined that a court need not conduct an
7 evidentiary hearing, but must ensure that the claims do not
8 lack any merit whatsoever. We submit that our claims have 9 substantial merit and deserve the opportunity to initiate our 10 proceedings, have an opportunity to conduct discovery. And if 11 they want to file a 12(b)(6) motion before this judge, before
12 you, they can do so. If they want to file a motion for 13 summary judgment, they can do so. But at this juncture, they 14 cannot, and at this juncture this Court should not consider
15 evidence in making its determination.
16 Standing under Delaware law. The Funds have collectively
17 really hit the standing issue hard. I think it's easily
18 resolved. First of all, it's clear that a beneficial owner
19 has standing to bring a derivative action. Under Delaware
20 law, a beneficial owner has a right to bring a derivative
21 action on behalf of the -- against the trustee.
22 So the issue is, am I a beneficial owner? As a contingent
23 beneficiary in Class 10, and that's the Court's inquiry here,
24 do I qualify as a beneficial owner? And I think that Delaware
25 law is clear that, by not limiting it to only vested

1 interests, by not limiting it only to immediate beneficiaries,
2 they are not -- they are not extending the scope of the
3 statute to contingent beneficiaries. And this is consistent
4 with the laws around the country, because even Texas
5 recognizes that an unvested contingent beneficiary has a
6 property right to protect.
7 Even Mr. Seery admitted in his deposition that a unvested
8 contingent interest is in the nature of a property right. If 9 you have a property right, that property right can be abused.
10 If you have a property right, that property right, whether 11 it's inchoate or not, it can be abused, it can be 12 misappropriated, and you could become aggrieved. And that is 13 the constitutional standard for standing: Is Hunter Mountain
14 Investment Trust aggrieved? And the answer is yes.
15 Contingent beneficiaries from around the country, in 16 addition to Mr. Seery's admission that we have a property
17 interest, contingent beneficiary has standing. This is the 18 Smith v. Clearwater case on Slide 11. Very clearly, they say
19 that even if it's subject to a future event. Their argument
20 is that Mr. Seery has not certified Hunter Mountain as in the 21 money. We believe we are in the money. That's a different
22 issue. We believe he should certify, in the discharge of his 23 duties. That's a different issue.
24 But even assuming his case -- his argument for a moment,
25 their argument is that since he's not done that act, which we

1 also challenge and criticize that he's not done that act, that
2 we can't qualify to bring this case. Well, that's not what
3 the law is, that even an unvested interest, a contingent
4 interest, has a right.
5 Slide 12. This is the State of Illinois. Despite the 6 fact that interest is contingent and may not vest in 7 possession, you still have a right to protect what you have.
8 And you have standing to bring a cause of action.
9 The Claimant Trust Agreement, by the way, suggests that we
10 have no vested interest, and they'll likely argue that point.
11 But the point there is the law says that's irrelevant. If 12 it's an inchoate interest, if it's potentially vested in the 13 future, that's what imbues you with standing.
14 And in any event, the Claimant Trust Agreement is subject
15 to Delaware trust law, and they can't get around that. They 16 can say whatever they want to say in the agreement to try to 17 block us from participation, but it's still subject to 18 Delaware trust law, and Delaware trust law does not draw a
19 distinction between vested or unvested.
20 The State of Missouri: There is no dispute in this case
21 that the future -- that future beneficiaries have standing to 22 bring an accounting action, whether they're vested or 23 contingent. The Bucksbaum case. Article III standing exists,
24 constitutional standing, including discretionary
25 beneficiaries, have long been permitted to bring suits to

1 redress trustees' breaches of trust. This applies not only to
2 our standing as an individual plaintiff, which we've brought,
3 but also in our standing -- in our capacity seeking to bring a
4 derivative action to benefit the Claimant Trust of the 5 Reorganized Debtor. Both are permitted under this law under 6 these cases.
7 An interest -- in the Mayfield case, an interest is any
8 interest, whether legal or equitable or both, vested,
9 contingent, defeasible, or indefeasible. So the unilateral
10 self-serving wording of the Claimant Trust does not abrogate
11 our right to bring the claim.
12 I'd like to talk briefly about fiduciary duties. We know
13 that Mr. Seery has fiduciary duties to the estate when he was 14 the CEO prior to the effective date. We allege that he 15 breached those fiduciary duties, and that gives us standing to 16 bring the claim that we have brought for breaching fiduciary
17 duties, causing damages that are accruing post-effective date.
18 In the Xtreme Power case, again, the directors can either
19 appear on both sides of the transaction or expect to derive 20 any personal financial benefit. We are alleging that Mr.
21 Seery engaged in self-dealing. We allege that he engaged in 22 self-dealing by arriving at an understanding where he could
23 put business allies -- whether you call them friends, business
24 allies, close acquaintances -- on the committee, the Oversight
25 Board that would ultimately oversee his compensation, which,

1 in the context of this case, makes no sense and it is
2 excessive.
3 Muck is a specially -- special-purpose entity of Farallon.
4 Farallon acquired the claims, created Muck to do the job.
5 Muck is now on the Oversight Board.
6 Jessup. Jessup is a special-purpose entity, a shell
7 created by Stonehill. Stonehill bought the claims, funneled
8 the money through Jessup. Jessup is now on the Oversight
9 Board. Jessup and Muck -- and by the way, the principals in 10 Farallon are actually the representatives from Muck on the 11 Oversight Board. So there's no suggestion that there's really
12 a distinct corporate relationship here.
13 Michael Linn, who is a principal at Farallon. You'll hear
14 his name today, throughout today. He actually is a
15 representative of the Oversight Board, dealing with Mr. Seery
16 and negotiating Mr. -- I put negotiation in quotes --
17 negotiating Mr. Seery's compensation.
18 I'd like to talk very briefly about background. We took
19 Mr. Seery's deposition. I was unaware of this. I now know
20 it. Perhaps the Court was already aware of it. This is Mr.
21 Seery's first job as a CEO of any debtor. This is the first
22 time Mr. Seery has ever been a chief restructuring officer.
23 This is the first time Mr. Seery has ever been the CEO of a
24 reorganized debtor. This is the first time that he's served
25 as a trustee post-effective date. However, his compensation

1 is excessive and not market-driven, and there's a reason for
2 that. We believe and we allege that it's a quid pro quo
3 because of prior relationships with Farallon and Stonehill.
4 Farallon and Stonehill are hedge funds, Your Honor. They
5 created their special-purpose entities on the eve of this 6 transaction simply to take the title to the claims, but the 7 money is going upstream.
8 Seery has a relationship with Farallon. Do we know the 9 full extent of that relationship? No. We have been deprived
10 of discovery. We attempted to get the discovery in the state
11 court 202 process. We were denied for reasons not articulated
12 in the court's order.
13 We attempted to get the discovery here that the Court
14 refused under the last hearing about these relationships.
15 So what we do have begins to put the pieces of the puzzle
16 together. And sufficient is more than plausible. It is more
17 than colorable.
18 We know that Mr. Seery went on a meet-and-greet trip to 19 Farallon's offices in 2017. Didn't have to. He was trying to 20 cultivate a business relationship. Farallon was important to 21 him.
22 We know that in 2019 he was no longer with Guggenheim
23 Securities. He goes out to Farallon's offices for another
24 meet-and-greet and he specifically meets with the two
25 principals who are reflected in Mr. Dondero's notes, Raj Patel

1 and Michael Linn.

2 We know that in June 2020 Farallon emailed Seery. This is

3 after Mr. Seery becomes the CEO. He says, "Congratulations.

4 We're monitoring what you're doing."

5 Seery's relationship with Stonehill. These are all --

6 this is all before what we believe to be the events that are

7 at issue in this case. We believe that -- represented

8 Stonehill in the Blockbuster bankruptcy proceeding. There was

9 an objection to a document. Mr. Seery was involved in the 10 Blockbuster proceedings. Stonehill was one of his many 11 clients on the committee that he represented.

12 We know that Stonehill is actively involved in one of Mr.

13 Seery's charities in New York. We know that he sent text

14 messages to Mr. Seery in February of 2021, wanting to know how

15 to get involved in this bankruptcy.

16 Farallon and Stonehill were strangers to this bankruptcy.

17 They weren't creditors. They were encouraged and they came 18 into this process.

19 Farallon and Stonehill have not denied any of our

20 allegations. They are not putting any evidence on today. We

21 allege that these relationships was based and founded upon a

22 quid pro quo. I'll scratch your back; you scratch mine. You

23 give me some information; I want to evaluate these claims.

24 And, by the way, we're going to be on the Oversight Board, or

25 you're going to put us on the Oversight Board, or by default

1 we'll be on the Oversight Board, and we'll work out your
2 compensation agreement.
3 Mr. Seery also has an established relationship with 4 Stonehill.
5 I like to have a timeline of certain events. This is not
6 all of the relevant events, but this can give you a quick
7 picture. We know that Mr. Dondero sent an email to Mr. Seery
8 in December of 2020 relating to MGM. It is undisputed that 9 Mr. -- that Farallon emailed Seery, Mr. Seery, in January of 10 2021 if there was a path to get information regarding the 11 claims for sales. Mr. Seery says he never responded to it,
12 but we know that this entity, Farallon, got deeply involved in 13 buying these claims shortly after this email.
14 We have the Claimant Trust Agreement suddenly being 15 amended to not have a base fee, but now we're going to 16 incorporate a success participation fee. As part of a plan,
17 we're not criticizing that, but suddenly the vehicle for post-
18 effective date bonuses is being created.
19 The Debtors' analysis comes out in association with the 20 plan confirmation. It projects a 71.32 percent recovery for 21 Class 8 and Class 9, and those are the principal classes we're
22 talking about. 95 percent -- 98 percent of all of the claims
23 here are in Class 8 and Class 9, until you get to us, Class
24 10.
25 71.32 percent of Class 8 means that Farallon and Stonehill

1 will get less than about a six percent internal rate return on
2 their $163 million investment, which they have never denied.
3 That is not a hedge fund investment goal. Investment -- hedge
4 funds like these companies, they go for 38, 40, 50 percent of
5 returns. Who would ever invest $163 million on a distressed
6 asset that's not collateralized with only an expectation of an
7 internal rate of turn of six percent? But that's going to be
8 the evidence before the Court. That does not make any 9 financial, rational wisdom at all.
10 The plan is confirmed. It's undisputed that Stonehill 11 contacts Seery after the plan is confirmed to want to know how 12 to get involved. They have phone calls after this text
13 message. Muck is created on March 9. We know from Mr.
14 Seery's deposition that Farallon told Seery that six days
15 later they bought the claims. All the claims, by the way,
16 when I say bought the claims, it's everything except UBS. To 17 our knowledge. They may have negotiated the paperwork back
18 then, but the claims transfers did not occur until the summer.
19 All the other claims involved, the claims transfers were filed
20 with this Court in mid-April and at the end of April.
21 Tim Cournoyer removes MGM from the restricted list. Tim
22 Cournoyer is an employee of Highland. Well, it tells us that
23 MGM was on the restricted list and there should be no
24 discussion about MGM, but there was. There was discussions
25 about MGM, and Mr. Dondero is going to testify to that.

1 And we also know that the HarbourVest settlement was
2 consummated during this period of time. If it had been on the
3 restricted list, as it was, that transaction should never have
4 occurred. But it did occur. This Court ordered it. It
5 approved it. And I'm not challenging -- we're not challenging
6 that settlement. It is done. That is done. What we are 7 challenging is the fact that Mr. Seery is actively involved in 8 using inside material nonpublic information.
9 Jessup Holdings is created shortly thereafter, on April
10 8th. We have claims settling on April 30th. The Acis claim 11 is transferred to Muck -- that's Farallon -- on April 16. The 12 Redeemer and Crusader are all transferred on April 30th.
13 Stonehill and Farallon never deny that they did no due --
14 that they failed to do due diligence. We allege that there
15 was no due diligence. And that relies in significant part
16 upon Mr. Dondero. But now, because we have Mr. Seery's
17 deposition, it also relies upon Mr. Seery's admissions in 18 deposition, because he says he never opened up a data room, he 19 doesn't know what due diligence they did. Farallon says the 20 only due diligence they did is they talked to Jim Seery. And 21 how do you invest $163 million, or $10 million or $50 million,
22 whatever the part is, with an internal rate of return six
23 percent, only on the advice of Mr. Seery, who's never been a
24 trustee or a CEO before, unless there's something going on?
25 Your Honor, public announcement of MGM on May 26th. On

1 May 28th, two days later, Mr. Dondero calls Farallon. It took
2 Mr. Dondero or his group a few days, a week or so, to even
3 understand who -- that Farallon was involved, because the 4 registrations for Muck and Jessup did not disclose their
5 principals, did not even disclose addresses. They were shell
6 -- they were companies that came in in the last minute to buy
7 these claims incognito, frankly.
8 They found out that Farallon was involved. They had a
9 call initially with Raj Patel, who is the principal of 10 Farallon. He has three conversations total: One with Mr.
11 Patel and two with Michael Linn. Michael Linn was the one
12 responsible for these claim purchases. Patel admitted that
13 Farallon relied exclusively on Seery and did no due diligence.
14 Linn rejected the premium to sell. The evidence you'll hear
15 today, that Mr. Linn rejected a premium up to 40 percent to 16 sell the claims. He actually said he would not sell at all
17 because he was told by Mr. Seery that the claims were too
18 valuable.
19 That is evidence of insider trading. Specifically, they 20 said they were very optimistic about MGM and they were 21 unwilling to sell because Seery said too valuable.
22 We have -- these are the purchases. This is where the 23 Class 9 claims fall. And keep in mind -- Tim, go back -- that 24 $95 million of this upside potential is being told, at least
25 to the publicly available information, that you're never going

1 to get there. Yet 95 -- $95 million is allocated to this
2 category. So Class 8 is $275 million. Class 9 is 29 -- $95
3 million.
4 Next.
5 So we have the evidence that you'll hear today. Farallon
6 admitted the timing. No due diligence, never denied by the 7 Claim Purchasers. Based upon material nonpublic information.
8 That's our allegation. Purchased over $160 million. This is 9 never denied by the Claims Purchasers. They purchased claims
10 when the return on investment was highly doubtful. Maximum
11 expected annual rate of return, assuming publicly-available
12 information, was approximately six percent, and that is 13 totally atypical of what a hedge fund would seek.
14 Insider information. We're not talking about just MGM.
15 The Respondents want to narrow the Court's inquiry. This is 16 much larger than MGM. MGM is a part of it, it's a big part of 17 it, but it's not the only part of it. It's other assets.
18 Portfolio companies. Other invested assets. There's a lot of 19 money out there, and it was never disclosed during the 20 ordinary course of the bankruptcy, for reasons that the Court
21 already knows, in terms of asset values. How does someone 22 come in and purchase distressed assets, claims, without any 23 understanding of what assets are backing those claims, when 24 there's no publicly-available information there to do it and 25 there's no evidence, no indication, no statement that actually

1 due diligence was done?
2 That right there, without anything else, makes our claims
3 plausible. You don't have to prove insider trading by direct
4 evidence. Nobody's going to admit that they did something
5 wrong. You prove it circumstantially, and we've cited cases
6 and we'll give you cases to that effect.
7 Next.
8 We have material nonpublic information. It is very clear
9 that Mr. Dondero on December 17th sent this email, not just to 10 Mr. Seery but to several other individuals, including lawyers.
11 It states that he'd just gotten off a board call. A pre-board
12 call. The update, he provides the update. Active
13 diligencing. It's probably a first-quarter event. We can 14 scour all of the other media documents that are in evidence,
15 both from us and them, and you're not going to find any
16 indication anywhere that a board member has said, guys, gals,
17 it's going to be a probable first-quarter event. That's 18 material nonpublic information.
19 THE COURT: By the way, you all objected to this
20 exhibit.
21 MR. MCENTIRE: No, this is my exhibit.
22 THE COURT: We spent --
23 MR. MCENTIRE: I did not. They objected to this.
24 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we didn't object to it, and 25 that is the one exhibit that they did not object to.

1 THE COURT: Oh, it is?
2 MR. MORRIS: Nobody objected to this exhibit.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm not going to object to this
4 exhibit, Your Honor.
5 THE COURT: Okay. It's a different version.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.
7 THE COURT: Okay. It was a different email around
8 that same time frame.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: So just --
10 THE COURT: Apologies. We stopped the clock.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: This -- my next exhibit is simply a
12 demonstrative, but I just want the Court to understand that 13 MGM is no small matter here and Mr. Seery did testify in 14 deposition that it probably made up $450 million. He was 15 pretty close.
16 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I object to this
17 demonstrative. There is no evidence in the record. It's not 18 cited to anything. We're not just going to start putting up
19 stuff on the screen that we like.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: Excuse me. I'm not offering this
21 document into evidence.
22 MR. MORRIS: I don't care. The Court shouldn't be 23 seeing a demonstrative exhibit that contains matters that are 24 never going to be in the record.
25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: I disagree. I can put the data in the
2 record.
3 May I proceed?
4 MR. MORRIS: But you didn't.
5 THE COURT: Okay. I'm not considering the truth of 6 this until and unless I get evidence of this.
7 MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough. But the point is this,
8 Mr. Seery has conceded in deposition that between the 9 institutional funds and the CLOs, there's a lot of MGM
10 securities and stock. We're talking a lot of money. We're
11 not talking about just Highland Capital's investment.
12 You can skip the next slide. Skip.
13 So, rumors versus material nonpublic information. They 14 can talk all day long, and if they want to use their time
15 doing this, they can. There's a difference between rumor and 16 actual material nonpublic information. Rumor from 17 undocumented sources, lack of clarity, lack of timing. There
18 is no -- there's no debate that a lot of people knew that 19 maybe MGM might be for sale. Maybe they wouldn't. Sometimes 20 it falls apart, you know. But the point is a board member is 21 telling someone that there's a probable event in the first
22 quarter of 2021. That is definite, specific, and it comes
23 from the highest authority. That is -- if that's not material
24 and public information, I don't know what could be.
25 Classic indications of insider trading. You have to have

1 a tipper with access to MNPI. Here, we know that Mr. Seery,
2 if he's the tipper, we allege he's the tipper -- and these are
3 words of art out of case law, by the way -- he has access to
4 information about MGM. He has access about asset values,
5 projected values. He has a relationship. We believe he has a
6 very strong relationship. It's more than just social
7 acquaintances. He's giving congratulatory emails. He's
8 getting solicitations. He's solicited. Benefits received.
9 We know what the benefits are. They get the opportunity to 10 invest money with huge upside.
11 There was a point mentioned some time ago that, well, only 12 -- only the sellers really have the grievance. Well, Your 13 Honor, we have a right to start our lawsuit and do some 14 discovery, because, frankly, a lot of sellers have big-boy
15 agreements. They say, you don't sue me if I have MNPI. I
16 don't sue you if you have MNPI. We have mutual releases.
17 Let's go by our way. Everybody's happy. We're not going to 18 come back and see each other ever again.
19 That's one of the things we're being deprived of here.
20 But otherwise, what we have here is a colorable plan. We've 21 asked for the communications with the sellers. We can't get
22 it. We have here an email.
23 Next.
24 We have here an email. This actually -- you'll hear Mr.
25 Dondero say this actually reflects three communications. Raj

1 Patel, Farallon, bought it because of Seery. Mr. Dondero
2 contacted Mr. Patel and says, Raj Patel bought it because of
3 Seery. 50 to 70 percent's not compelling. Class 8. 50
4 percent, 70 percent. Give you a 30 percent to 40 percent
5 premium. Not compelling. I ain't going to sell. Ask what
6 would be compelling. Nothing. No offer. Bought in February/
7 March. We now know the time frame. We know that Stonehill is 8 communicating with them and we know that Farallon has been
9 just communicating with Mr. Seery. Bought assets with claims.
10 It's not just the MGM. It's not just the portfolio companies
11 and other assets. It's also the claims.
12 Well, what are the claims? It's the claims against Mr.
13 Dondero. Well, how would they know about all this if there's 14 no due diligence and there's no evidence of any due diligence
15 before you? 130 percent of costs, not compelling, no counter.
16 Mr. Dondero's angry. Discovery is coming.
17 Atypical behaviors are also circumstantial evidence of 18 insider trading. We have strange behaviors here, Judge. We 19 have a vast majority of the claim value is acquired by only 20 two entities post-confirmation. Most significant claims are 21 only owned by two entities who were strangers to the whole
22 process.
23 The removal of -- and Mr. Morris offered to stipulate.
24 The sudden removal of MGM from the compliance list in April of 25 2021 -- by the way, the removal doesn't cleanse the MNPI. If

1 you have material nonpublic information because you received
2 it from Mr. Dondero, the fact that Mr. Dondero's no longer
3 employed by Highland Capital or no longer directly or formally
4 affiliated doesn't cleanse the MNPI.
5 We have no due diligence, regardless of the significant
6 nine-digit numbers, and we have no rational explanation of why
7 this kind of money would be invested when they're projecting 8 an actual loss, if -- a modest return at best for Class 8 and 9 a loss for Class 9.
10 Insider trading can be proved by circumstantial evidence,
11 Your Honor. No fraudster, no person who's done wrong is going 12 to admit to it, so you look for the classic -- you look for 13 the classic elements. And that's what we had here. And we
14 have alleged all of this in our pleadings. Not in extraneous
15 evidence. Within the four corners of our pleadings. And 16 that's why we have a plausible claim.
17 You know, I believe it's Rule 8, Rule 9 of the Federal --
18 you have to require specificity in a fraud claim. Well, this 19 is not a fraud claim. This is a different claim. But we have 20 provided specificity that passes the smell test of 21 colorability. We have provided specificity that would satisfy
22 even more stringent requirements under 12(b)(6).
23 The plan analysis. This is a, I think, a document
24 admitted by everyone. Mr. Seery has testified that this
25 projection of 71.32 percent for Class 8 came out in February

1 of 2021 and never changed, all the way up to the effective
2 date.
3 So this is what the public believed. This is what the 4 public knew. And if this was all that Farallon and if is all
5 that Stonehill had access to, that means that they were going
6 to lose their entire investment on Class 9. They bought UBS
7 at a loss to begin with. And on the other three investments,
8 they were going to get a very, very modest, minor return, six
9 percent over three years, or even less. That is not what 10 hedge funds do.
11 Seery's excessive post-effective date compensation. We 12 have obtained no discovery from Farallon or Stonehill in this
13 regard, but we know that he had no prior experience. We know
14 that the award that was given him was not market-based, even 15 though the self-serving documents that have been produced and 16 that are attached to their exhibit list suggests a robust
17 negotiation. Well, they were robust without any kind of 18 reality check in the real world about whether it was market-
19 supported. None. Mr. Seery has admitted to that.
20 It was not lowered. He's making $1.8 million a year right
21 now, with most -- a lot of the assets already sold, the 22 reorganization done. All they're doing now is monetizing
23 assets. He's getting $1.8 million. He's got 11 people
24 working for him. And then he has a bonus, a bonus that is --
25 increases significantly with his ability to recover for Muck,

1 Jessup, Farallon, and Stonehill.
2 And in the absence of -- if we were really dealing with
3 uncertainty and risk, then that may be another issue, but here
4 we're dealing with entities that already know that they're
5 going to get a payday and they already have. They've already
6 made about a $170 million return -- 170 percent return, excuse
7 me -- over and above the original investment, when they were
8 projected to actually lose money.
9 Just so you know, we have over $534 million of cash that 10 has been basically monetized, and out of that, $203 million in 11 total expenses -- $277 million to Class 8 and -- and -- 1
12 through 7, and Class 8 distributors. Excuse me, creditors.
13 Even if you take -- if you take out the alleged obligations of 14 Mr. Dondero on the promissory note cases, that still leaves
15 over $100 million available, which puts us in the money. Puts 16 us in the money. And the fact that you have $203 million of 17 expenses in a case of this nature is part of our claim, is 18 that we have delay actions. We have a situation where Mr.
19 Seery is continuing to receive $1.8 million a year on a slow
20 pace to monetize, paying other professionals, when this could 21 have been over a long time ago. That's part of our 22 allegations. It's not part of any valuation motion. It's 23 actually in our allegations.
24 I'm going to reserve the rest. I think that's my opening
25 statement, Your Honor. I'm going to reserve the rest for my

1 closing. And let me see. Yes, that's right. And thank you
2 for your time.
3 THE COURT: All right. Caroline, how much time was
4 that?
5 THE CLERK: Thirty-four minutes and 27 seconds.
6 THE COURT: Thirty-four minutes and 37 seconds.
7 Okay.
8 THE CLERK: Twenty-seven.
9 THE COURT: Oh, 27. Okay.
10 MR. MCENTIRE: Thirty-four minutes?
11 MR. MCCLEARY: Thirty-four minutes.
12 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I do have hard copies of my 13 short slide presentation.
14 THE COURT: All right. You may approach.
15 And Mr. McEntire, are you going to give me your PowerPoint
16 later, hard copies later?
17 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. I found one typo and 18 I'd like to fix one typo and then we'll give it to you.
19 THE COURT: Okay.
20 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS
21 MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris,
22 Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, for Highland Capital Management
23 and the Claimant Trust.
24 I want to be fairly brief because I really want to focus
25 on the evidence. I look forward to Your Honor hearing from

1 Mr. Seery so that he could clear up a lot of the misleading
2 statements that were just made.
3 The Court is here today on a gatekeeper function, and
4 we're delighted that the gatekeeper exists. We're delighted
5 that the Court will have an opportunity, after considering
6 evidence, to determine whether or not these claims are 7 actually colorable.
8 There's -- there were a lot of conclusory statements I
9 just heard. There were a lot of assumptions that were made.
10 There were a lot of misleading statements that were made. At 11 the end of the day, what the Court is going to be asked to do
12 is to decide whether, in light of the evidence, do these 13 claims stand up on their own? And they do not.
14 And let me begin by saying that I made a mistake a couple
15 of weeks ago. If we can go to Slide 1. I told Your Honor
16 that you were the sixth body to consider these insider trading
17 claims. Based on Hunter Mountain's exhibit list, there is 18 actually one more, and I'll get to that in a moment. So
19 you're actually -- this is the seventh attempt to peddle these 20 claims to one body or another.
21 The first was Mr. Dondero's 202 petition.
22 Everything I have here, Your Honor, is footnoted to 23 evidence. Okay?
24 So, Footnote 1, you can look in the paragraphs of Mr.
25 Dondero's petition, his amended petition, his declaration,

1 where he makes the same allegations. Again, I misspeak. Not
2 the same allegations. Different versions of the allegations
3 that are being presented today concerning insider trading.
4 He did it three times. The Texas state court said no
5 discovery. In October of 2021, Douglas Draper wrote an
6 extensive letter to the U.S. Trustee, setting forth the same
7 allegations. You can find them at our Exhibit 5. It's 8 attachment Exhibit A, Pages 6 through 11. Compare them to the 9 allegations that are being made by Hunter Mountain today. The 10 U.S. Trustee's Office took no action.
11 Mr. Rukavina followed up with the same thing to the same
12 body in November of 2021. You can see where his allegations
13 of insider trading are made and quid pro quo and all the rest
14 of it. Again, they took no action.
15 The one that I don't have on this chart because I didn't
16 -- I made the chart last week and then was unavailable. Mr.
17 Rukavina sent a second letter. And you can find that at 18 Plaintiffs' Exhibit 61. And in Plaintiffs' Exhibit 61, you'll 19 see that Mr. Rukavina sent yet another letter to the U.S.
20 Trustee's Office on May 11, 2022.
21 And these are all really important, right? The U.S.
22 Trustee's Office has oversight responsibility for matters
23 including claims trading. That's their job. They took three
24 different swings at this. And these are pages of allegations.
25 6 to 11. 9 to 13. We think it's very important that the

1 Court look at what was told to the U.S. Trustee's Office. And
2 you're going to hear Mr. Seery testify that Highland has never
3 heard from the U.S. Trustee's Office concerning any of these
4 allegations or any of the other allegations that are set forth
5 in Mr. Rukavina and Mr. Draper's letter. Never. Declined to 6 even initiate an investigation.
7 Hunter Mountain filed its own 202 petition. It boggles my
8 mind that they try to create distance with Mr. Dondero,
9 because the whole petition, like this whole complaint, is 10 based on Mr. Dondero. He submitted a declaration alleging the 11 same insider trading case, and a second Texas state court said
12 I'm not even giving you discovery. We know that's the result.
13 But the best is the Texas State Securities Board. I think
14 we're going to hear testimony that Mr. Dondero or somebody 15 under his control is the one who filed the complaint with the 16 Texas State Securities Board. Who would be the better body to 17 assess whether or not there's insider trading than a
18 securities board? I can't imagine there's a better body.
19 They did an investigation. Mr. Dondero could have told them
20 anything he wanted. I'm sure he did. And they wrote in their
21 motion in Paragraph 37 one of the reasons they have colorable
22 claims is the investigation is ongoing.
23 Much to their dismay, I'm sure, two days before our
24 opposition was due, the Texas State Securities Board said,
25 we've looked at the complaint, we've done our investigation,

1 and we're not taking any action. You can find that, Your
2 Honor, Footnoted 5 at Exhibit 33.
3 You are now the seventh body who's being asked -- and 4 you're being asked to do substantially more than any of the 5 other prior bodies were. The Texas state courts were being
6 asked, just let them have discovery. They said no. The U.S.
7 Trustee's Office, charged with the responsibility of looking
8 at claims trading, said, I'm not going to investigate. I know
9 what you've told me. No. The Texas State Securities Board.
10 Insider trading, insider trading. I'm not doing an 11 investigation. I'm not doing anything. And now they want to 12 come here and engage in, you know, in expensive, long
13 litigation over the same claims nobody else would touch.
14 Can we go to the next slide?
15 Mr. Dondero's email. Good golly. "Amazon and Apple are 16 in the data room." There's a hundred articles out there that 17 they're putting into evidence that say that. "Both continue
18 to express material interest." There's a hundred articles out 19 there that say that. "Probably a first-quarter event. Will 20 update as facts change."
21 There will not be any evidence that he ever updated
22 anybody, because that wasn't the purpose of this, as Your
23 Honor will recall. He had an axe to grind.
24 And I direct your -- I don't direct the Court to do
25 anything -- I ask the Court to take a look at our opposition

1 to the motion, in Paragraphs 23 to 25, where we cite to
2 extensive evidence, all of which is now part of the record,
3 showing just what was happening, from the moment he got fired
4 on October 10th until the end of the year, with the 5 interference, with the interference, with the threats, with 6 the TRO. It was nonstop.
7 Was this email sent in good faith by somebody who owed no
8 duty to anybody? Or was it really just another attempt -- and 9 this is why the gatekeeper is so important, because I think
10 that's exactly what this Court is supposed to do: Is this a
11 good-faith claim? Is this a claim that's made in good faith?
12 It can't be. And you know why? You know what's -- you know
13 what's -- I'll just say it now. I won't even save it for 14 cross.
15 Remember the HarbourVest settlement that they're making so
16 much, you know, about? Mr. Dondero is the tipper. According 17 to him, he gave Mr. Seery inside information. According to 18 him, Mr. Seery abused it by engaging in the HarbourVest
19 transaction. But Mr. Dondero filed an extensive objection to 20 the HarbourVest settlement and never said a word about this,
21 because that wasn't on his mind at the time. The email was 22 sent in order to interfere. And when that failed, he's trying
23 to play gotcha now. It's ridiculous.
24 He owed no duty to Highland. It would have been a breach
25 of his own duty to MGM to share that information at that

1 period of time.

2 The shared services agreement. They don't help him. Mr.
3 Dondero has nothing to do with that. Highland is providing
4 services. He's not providing services to Highland. Highland
5 was providing. We had already given notice of termination.
6 We had already had our plan and disclosure -- we had already
7 had our disclosure statement approved. We were weeks away
8 from confirmation. Please.

9 And the Wall Street Journal article on December 21st at 10 Exhibit 27, that's not your garden-variety Wall Street Journal
11 article, because it specifically says that investment bankers
12 were engaged to start a formal process. The investment
13 bankers are identified by name. Something has changed.
14 Anybody could see that.

15 Yes, there were rumors for a long time. Nobody had ever
16 said there was a formal process. Nobody had ever said
17 investment bankers had ever been hired. Nobody had ever
18 identified those investment bankers. Right? I mean, just the 19 world changed.

20 If you can go to the next slide.

21 You know, before I get to the next slide in too much
22 detail, quid pro quo. We look at it as quid. Did he -- is 23 there any evidence that he actually gave anybody material
24 nonpublic inside information? The answer is going to be no.
25 The quo is the relationship. And I'm not going to spend too

1 much time on that now. But wait until you hear Mr. Seery
2 testify as to the actual facts about his relationship.
3 Because some of what we just heard is mind-boggling, that
4 little -- that little page from the Blockbuster case, like, 14
5 years ago, where Farallon was one of a group of people who Jim
6 Seery never met. Like, the stretch, what they're trying to do
7 is beyond the pale. But I'm delighted to have Mr. Seery sit
8 in the box and answer all the questions they want to ask him
9 about his relationship with Farallon and Stonehill.
10 But getting to the point, the quid pro quo. The quo is 11 they fixed his compensation? Are you kidding me? They 12 rubber-stamped his compensation? Highland and Mr. Seery and 13 the board are alleged to have negotiated? There's nothing
14 alleged. There are facts. There is evidence. It is beyond
15 dispute. If you look, just for example, right, they take 16 issue with his salary? The salary was fixed by this Court in 17 2020. Without objection. He's getting the exact same salary
18 that he ever got.
19 You'll hear that it's a full-time job. Your Honor knows
20 better than anybody in this courtroom, other than me, perhaps,
21 the litigation burden that's been placed on this man. He has
22 no other income. He doesn't do anything else. This is a
23 full-time job. It's the exact same job that he had when Your 24 Honor approved his compensation package three years ago,
25 without a raise. They didn't give him a nickel more. Not one

1 nickel. It's outrageous.
2 The balance of his compensation, of which he has not yet
3 received a nickel, is exactly what this Court would want
4 somebody in Mr. Seery's position to do. It aligns his
5 interests with his constituency. Not with Stonehill. Not
6 with Farallon. With all creditors. The greater the recovery,
7 the greater the bonus. Outrageous, right? Remarkable, isn't
8 it? Only in their world.
9 If Your Honor can go back to Mr. Rukavina's letter,
10 because this is where it all -- that's where it all starts
11 from. Like, excessive compensation. Mr. Rukavina, I don't 12 know how he did this, why he did it, what it was based on. He 13 actually told the U.S. Trustee's Office that they thought Mr.
14 Seery made $50 million. It's in the letter. $50 million,
15 they told the U.S. Trustee's Office he made. It's footnoted,
16 so you can go find it. It's right there, at Page 14. Quote,
17 Seery's success fee could approximate $50 million.
18 $8.8 million is what he's making. They think that's 19 excessive? What do they think he should make? Three? Five?
20 We're not going to hear that. But that's what this case is 21 about. You just heard counsel in his opening statement. He 22 literally said the only thing at issue is his compensation.
23 And that has to be the case, because if there was -- if there
24 was no claims trading, UBS and HarbourVest and Acis, right,
25 the Redeemer Committee, they would all still be holding these

1 claims today.
2 When Stonehill and Farallon acquired the claims, they were
3 all allowed. There was no debate about what the claims were.
4 If they held the claims today, they would be worth the exact
5 same amount of money, only a different person would be
6 benefitting from it.
7 So the case actually is only about Mr. Seery's
8 compensation. And they've moved the goalposts, as often
9 happens in this courtroom, from rubber-stamping -- I'll give 10 you what you want. When I hear rubber-stamp, I hear, you make 11 a demand and I'll give it to you. And now they realize, when 12 they see the negotiation -- because it's in evidence, it's 13 just the documents, you can see the board minutes -- what do
14 we, doctor the board minutes and they should get discovery
15 because we doctored the board minutes? The board minutes show
16 a four-month negotiation with an Independent Board member
17 fully involved. It's mind-boggling. It's actually -- well,
18 I'll just leave it at that.
19 Next slide. Last slide. Let me finish up. Three of the 20 four sellers were former Committee members. Mr. Dondero
21 agreed that Committee members would have access to special
22 nonpublic inside information as part of the protocols, as part
23 of the corporate governance settlement. He agreed to that.
24 These are the people who got abused? These are the people who 25 didn't know what was happening? Committee members and

1 HarbourVest, probably one of the biggest and most
2 sophisticated funds in the world, didn't know what was
3 happening? They got abused? Stonehill and Farallon took 4 advantage of them?
5 If you read their pleadings closely, they actually allege,
6 and I don't -- I don't know if there'll ever be any evidence
7 of this -- but they actually allege that -- I forget which --
8 oh, somebody is an investor in Stonehill and Farallon, and so
9 the theory is one of the sellers is an investor in Farallon.
10 So not only did they abuse, they abused one of their own
11 investors. Like, this is not a colorable claim. This is 12 ridiculous.
13 None of the claims sellers are here. Sophisticated people
14 who -- who -- right? Mr. Dondero could pick up the phone and 15 say, hey, guys, you got ripped off. You sold your claims when 16 you shouldn't have. They had an unfair advantage.
17 Nobody's here. Where is anybody complaining? They're not
18 going to because they cut a deal that they thought was good
19 for them at the time. In hindsight, maybe they have regrets.
20 Right? We all have regrets sometimes in hindsight. But that 21 doesn't create a claim.
22 We've heard so much about what hedge funds would get and 23 how much and is this rational? The fact of the matter is, at 24 the time Mr. Dondero had his phone call on May 28th, UBS had 25 not been purchased, although MGM had already been announced.

1 So when they talk about MGM, maybe it's the fact -- and this
2 is in evidence -- maybe it's the fact that, two days before,
3 the MGM-Amazon deal actually was publicly announced. It
4 actually was. So maybe when they say, hey, yeah, we like MGM,
5 because, you know, that just -- that just got announced.
6 Maybe that happened.
7 But at the end of the day, the claims that they bought, if 8 you just look at the claims that were purchased at the time he
9 had the conversation, all Mr. Seery had to do was meet
10 projections and they were going to get $33 million in two 11 years. A 30 percent return in two years. I don't know. That 12 doesn't -- that doesn't sound crazy to me. Doesn't sound
13 crazy to me. It certainly doesn't create a colorable claim,
14 just because they think that Farallon or Stonehill -- there's 15 not going to be any evidence of Farallon or Stonehill's risk
16 profile. There's not going to be any evidence of Farallon or 17 Stonehill's, you know, expected returns. There's not going to 18 be any evidence at all about what due diligence they did or 19 didn't do, other than what comes out of Mr. Dondero's mouth,
20 as usual.
21 Mr. Dondero -- and let's look at what's going to come out
22 of Mr. Dondero's mouth. He has multiple sworn statements.
23 I'm going to take his notes and they're going to become mine.
24 I'll put him on notice right now. Because those notes bear no
25 relationship to the evolution of his sworn statements over

1 time.

2 The first time he mentions MGM in a sworn statement is two

3 years after the fact in Version #5. That's a colorable claim?

4 You want -- you want to oversee a litigation, or maybe it gets

5 removed to the district court, maybe I get lucky to be in

6 front of a jury, and I'll have Mr. Dondero explain how it took

7 him five tries before he could write down the letters MGM.

8 Not a colorable claim. No evidence against Stonehill

9 whatsoever. Zero. Zero. Never spoke to them. There's no

10 colorable claim here, Your Honor.

11 I'm going to turn the podium over to Mr. Stancil to talk

12 about the law.

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES P. SEERY, JR.

15 MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor. Mark Stancil,

16 counsel for Mr. Seery. But I'm going to just very briefly

17 address a few legal points. And I actually mean briefly.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. STANCIL: I'll come back to a good bit of this in 20 closing as time permits.

21 I heard Mr. McEntire say Barton doesn't apply. I would

22 encourage him to start with what the gatekeeping order

23 actually says. Here it is. This is in -- it's in the plan.

24 Your Honor has confirmed it. The question we have in terms of 25 what standard applies is, what does this order mean? Well, we

1 think that's going to be clear. It's not what they think the
2 word "colorable" would mean in other contexts. It's not what
3 they think they should have to satisfy now that they have a
4 theory. It's, what does this mean?
5 And we'll get into some of the additional evidence from 6 Your Honor's order at the time, later in closing.
7 Next slide, please.
8 But let me just start to say I'm awfully surprised to hear
9 him say that he doesn't believe Barton applies, because the 10 order says that it does. This is Paragraph 80 of the 11 confirmation order. It says that the Court has statutory 12 authority to approve the gatekeeper provision under these 13 sections of the Bankruptcy Code. The gatekeeper provision is 14 also within the spirit of the Supreme Court's Barton Doctrine.
15 The gatekeeper provision is also consistent with the notion of 16 a pre-filing injunction to deter vexatious litigants that has 17 been approved by the Fifth Circuit in such cases as Baum v.
18 Blue Moon Ventures.
19 So I think it is impossible, and respectfully, Your Honor,
20 it's law of the case. This is what the order is based on.
21 The day for objecting to what's in the confirmation order is 22 long gone.
23 So let me come back, then -- first slide, please -- and 24 I'll just very briefly give you a little legal framework for 25 what we're going to be arguing to you later in closing.

1 So, Barton does require a prima facie showing. That is
2 Vistacare and plenty of other cases. That is more than a
3 12(b)(6) standard, Your Honor. Numerous courts agree. And in
4 fact, as you'll hear us discuss later, Judge Houser's opinion
5 is not to the contrary, because she said explicitly, I'm not
6 applying Barton. So anything that they're relying on for what
7 Barton requires from that opinion is dicta. But we can show
8 you case after case after case, and we will, to show that
9 Barton requires evidentiary hearings.
10 Here's a point, this third bullet here is something I have 11 not heard a single word in all of the briefing and ink that 12 has been spilled and in as long as we've been here this 13 morning, is what is a gatekeeping order doing if all it does 14 is reproduce a 12(b)(6) standard? That's what they say. In 15 fact, they're actually saying it's even lower. Now I think I
16 heard them say it's even lower than a 12(b)(6) standard.
17 That makes no sense whatsoever. We've just shown you that 18 this gatekeeping order was imposed consistent with Barton and 19 vexatious litigant principles. Later I will walk Your Honor
20 through factual findings that you made detailing the vexatious
21 litigation, detailing the abuses. The notion that the gate is 22 the same gate that every other litigant who hasn't 23 demonstrated that record of bad faith is absurd, and it serves
24 no purpose.
25 And as Mr. Morris described, Hunter Mountain woefully,

1 woefully violates any prima facie showing. And we'll get into
2 a little bit more exactly how that works.
3 We are going to ask this Court, in addition to ruling that
4 Barton applies and that they've failed it, we're going to ask
5 this Court, respectfully, to please consider ruling on
6 multiple independent grounds as well. We know there's a
7 penchant for appeals and appeals upon appeals. So we will
8 argue to Your Honor, although we will largely spare you
9 another rehash of our briefs, but we will explain to Your
10 Honor why they do lack standing to bring this claim as a
11 matter of Delaware law. And there was a lot of fuzzing up
12 about constitutional standing and Delaware law. Not 13 necessary.
14 If -- we will be happy to rely on our pleadings here, but 15 on Page 27 of the Claimant Trust Agreement, that's what
16 defines their rights under Delaware law, and they were talking
17 about how beneficial owners under Delaware law have standing.
18 Well, are they beneficial owners? They are not. Equity
19 holders -- this is in Paragraph C, Page 27 of the Claimant
20 Trust Agreement -- Equity holders will only be deemed
21 beneficiaries under this agreement upon the filing of a
22 payment certification with the bankruptcy court, at which time
23 the contingent trust interests will vest and be deemed equity
24 trust interests.
25 They are not beneficial owners of squat. That has not

1 happened.
2 And last, Your Honor, we will -- and I will organize this
3 for Your Honor in closing as well -- we would ask you to rule
4 on a straight-up 12(b)(6) standard as an alternative, because
5 we know what's coming on appeal and we think their complaint
6 collapses under its own weight. You heard Mr. Morris
7 detailing their own math shows significant returns. You'll 8 also hear us describe how they have nothing but mere
9 conclusions and naked assertions upon information and belief
10 but unsupported.
11 Iqbal and Twombly would still apply under their 12(b)(6)
12 standard, especially, and perhaps even more with a heightened
13 standard under Rule 9(b), because they're essentially alleging
14 some version of fraud, it sounds like.
15 They're never going to get there, Your Honor. All we 16 would ask is for a full record to take inevitably,
17 unfortunately, to the Court of Appeals.
18 And I think Mr. -- I'm not sure which of my colleagues
19 will be speaking briefly for Holland & Knight, but I'll just 20 turn it over to them.
21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. McIlwain?
22 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIM PURCHASERS
23 MR. MCILWAIN: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll be even 24 briefer. Brent McIlwain here for the Claim Purchasers.
25 Your Honor, Mr. McEntire stated to this Court that my

1 clients have never denied any of this. In fact, in his reply,
2 he says, The Claim Purchasers do not deny that they invested
3 over $163 million. We do not deny that we did not due
4 diligence, we do not deny that we refused to sell our claims
5 at any price, and we do not deny that we invested the claims
6 at what is, at best, a low ROI.
7 We had no duty to answer to HMIT or Mr. McEntire. We had 8 no duty when we bought these claims to -- we had no duties to 9 any creditor. We had -- it was a bilateral agreement with a
10 third party. And frankly, Your Honor, it's not Mr. Dondero's
11 or HMIT's business what due diligence we did and what
12 information that we obtained.
13 But I will tell you right now, Your Honor, we were very 14 careful in our pleadings to not bring issues of fact, because 15 this -- HMIT has been chasing my clients, obviously, based on 16 the notes that were presented in the initial PowerPoint, it
17 was a -- it's retribution. It's retribution for not agreeing
18 to sell the claims to Mr. Dondero when he offered to purchase
19 at a 40 percent premium.
20 And Your Honor, when I look at that note, it's 21 interesting, because I hadn't seen the note, obviously, until 22 it showed up on the exhibit list. When you look at that note,
23 I think it's -- I think it's very interesting. To the extent
24 it was contemporaneous, I don't know. But what it shows, it
25 shows that if you're a hammer, everything's a nail. And Mr.

1 Dondero is a vexatious litigator. And what did he write down?
2 Discovery to follow.
3 But my question is this. Who was trying to trade on
4 inside information? Mr. Dondero was offering a 40 percent
5 premium, allegedly, on the cost. What information did he
6 have? Certainly, he had inside information.
7 My client owed no duty to Mr. Dondero. My client owed no
8 duty to anybody in this estate at the time of these claims
9 purchase.
10 And Your Honor, we talk a lot about -- or, it's been
11 talked a lot of insider trading. These are claims trades. I
12 think the Court honed in on this from the very get-go. The 13 Court does not have a role in claims trades. There's a 3001
14 notice that's filed post-claims trade, but there's no
15 requirement that there's Court approval.
16 And these aren't securities. It's not as if we're trading
17 claims and it could benefit or hurt you based on some equity
18 position that you're going to obtain. We obtained claims that 19 had been settled, they were litigated heavily, and the most 20 that we can obtain is the amount of the claim. And that is,
21 as Mr. Morris stated, all that changed was the name of the 22 claimant. That's all. Because the claims didn't increase in 23 value based on the trade.
24 Your Honor, our pleadings, I think, speak for themselves
25 in terms of you really -- you really don't have to consider

1 evidence, from our perspective, to determine that this
2 proposed complaint has no merit and is not plausible and
3 presents no colorable claims.
4 The gatekeeper provision, and we're going to talk a lot
5 about that today, obviously, right, requires that Mr. Dondero
6 establish a prima facie case that the claims have some
7 plausibility. If you can simply write down allegations, file
8 a motion for leave and attach those allegations and say, Your 9 Honor, you have to take all these as true, the gatekeeper has 10 no meaning. There's no point in having a gatekeeper
11 provision.
12 And in summary, Your Honor, what -- and I think Mr. Morris
13 honed in on this specifically -- this really comes down to 14 compensation. Right? Because this -- the allegation is that 15 my clients purchased claims, presumably at a discount, right,
16 based on some inside information, which we obviously deny, but
17 we don't have to put that at issue today. For what purpose?
18 For what purpose? So we got inside information from Mr. Seery
19 so that we could then scratch his back on compensation on the 20 back-end?
21 Your Honor, there is no reason that my clients need to be
22 involved in this litigation. If HMIT thinks that this -- that 23 they have a claim against Mr. Seery for excessive
24 compensation, they can -- they could have brought such a
25 gatekeeper motion, or a motion for leave under the gatekeeper

1 provision, without including my clients. Why did they include
2 my clients? They included my clients because my clients did
3 not sell to Mr. Dondero when he called, unsolicited, to try to
4 get information. It's retribution. And that's what a
5 vexatious litigator does, and that's why the gatekeeper
6 provision is in place.
7 I'll reserve the rest for closing, Your Honor.
8 THE COURT: All right. Caroline, what was the 9 collective time of the Respondents?
10 THE CLERK: Twenty-eight minutes and 37 seconds.
11 THE COURT: Twenty-eight minutes, 37 seconds.
12 All right. Well, let's talk about should we take a lunch
13 break now? I'm thinking we should, because any witness is 14 going to be, I'm sure, more than an hour. So can you all get 15 by with 30 minutes, or do you need 45 minutes? I'll go with 16 the majority vote on this.
17 (Counsel confer.)
18 MR. MCENTIRE: 1:00 o'clock. 45 minutes.
19 MR. MORRIS: 40 minutes, whatever. 1:00 o'clock?
20 THE COURT: We'll come back at 1:00 o'clock.
21 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.
22 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.
23 THE CLERK: All rise.
24 (A luncheon recess ensued from 12:19 p.m. until 1:05 p.m.)
25 THE CLERK: All rise.

1 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're
2 going back on the record in the Highland matter, the Hunter
3 Mountain motion for leave to file lawsuit.
4 I'll just let you know that at 1:30 we're going to take
5 probably what will be a five-minute break, maybe ten minutes
6 at the most, because I have a 1:30 motion to lift stay docket.
7 Just looking at the pleadings, I really think maybe one is 8 going to be resolved and it won't be more than five or ten
9 minutes. So whoever is on witness stand can either just stay
10 there, because I think we won't be finished, or you can take a 11 bathroom break or whatever. All right? So, it's video, the 12 1:30 docket.
13 All right. So, Mr. McEntire, are you ready to call your 14 first witness?
15 MR. MCENTIRE: I am, Your Honor.
16 THE COURT: Okay.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: May I proceed?
18 THE COURT: You may.
19 MR. MCENTIRE: At this time, Hunter Mountain calls
20 Mr. James Dondero.
21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, welcome. If you
22 could find your way to the witness box, I will swear you in 23 once you're there. It looks like you've got lots of notebooks
24 there. Please raise your right hand.
25 (The witness is sworn.)

1 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may be
2 seated.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm not familiar with your procedure.
4 Should I approach the -- here to --
5 THE COURT: If you would, unless you're having --
6 MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine.
7 THE COURT: -- any kind of --
8 MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine. I'm not.
9 THE COURT: -- knee issues or, you know, sometimes
10 people want to stay seated for that reason.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, again, my tender of Mr.
12 Dondero as a witness is subject to our running objection on 13 the evidentiary format.
14 THE COURT: Understood.
15 JAMES DAVID DONDERO, HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST'S
16 WITNESS, SWORN
17 DIRECT EXAMINATION
18 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
19 Q Mr. Dondero, would you state your full name for the 20 record, please?
21 A James David Dondero.
22 Q With whom are you currently -- what company are you
23 currently affiliated with?
24 A Founder and president of NexPoint.
25 Q All right. And I think the Court is well aware, but would

1 you just briefly describe your prior affiliation with -- was
2 it Highland Capital?
3 A Yes.
4 Q What was that affiliation?
5 A President and founder for 30 years, and then to facilitate
6 an expeditious resolution of the estate I handed the reins to
7 three Independent Board members and I became a portfolio
8 manager until October of -- I was an unpaid portfolio manager
9 until October of '20.
10 Q Thank you, sir. Do you have any current official position
11 with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust?
12 A No.
13 Q Can you describe for us, sir, any actual or control you
14 attempt to exercise on the business affairs of Hunter Mountain
15 Investment Trust?
16 A None.
17 Q Are you -- do you have any official legal relationship
18 with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust where you can attempt to 19 exercise either direct or indirect control over Hunter
20 Mountain Investment Trust?
21 A I do not.
22 Q Did you participate -- personally participate in the 23 decision of whether or not to file the proceedings that are 24 currently pending before Judge Jernigan?
25 A I did not.

1 Q As the former CEO of Highland Capital, are you familiar
2 with the types of assets that Highland Capital owned? On the
3 petition date?
4 A Yes.
5 Q And have you been monitoring these proceedings and the
6 disclosures in these proceedings since the petition date?
7 A Yes.
8 Q Okay. Can you describe generally for me the types of 9 assets on the petition date that Highland Capital owned? The 10 types of assets? Describe the types of assets -- companies,
11 stocks, securities, whatever, whatever you -- however you
12 would describe it.
13 A There were some securities, but it was primarily 14 investments in private equity companies and interests in 15 funds.
16 Q Okay. I've heard the term portfolio company. What is a
17 portfolio company?
18 A A portfolio company would be a private equity company that 19 we controlled a majority of the equity and appointed and held
20 accountable the management teams.
21 Q Would there be separate management, separate boards, for 22 those portfolio companies?
23 A Yes.
24 Q All right. How many portfolio companies were there on the 25 petition date, if you're aware? If you recall?

1 A Half a dozen, of different sizes.
2 Q Can you identify the names, if you recall?
3 A Yes.
4 Q What are those names?
5 A Trussway, Cornerstone, some small -- Carey International,
6 CFA, SSP Holdings. Yeah, to a lesser extent, OmniCare.
7 Q All right.
8 A Or, um, --
9 Q In addition to the portfolio --
10 A Sorry.
11 Q -- of companies in which Highland Capital would own
12 interests, did Highland also have interests in various funds?
13 A Yes. I said OmniCare. I meant OmniMax, I think was the 14 name.
15 Q What type of funds?
16 A I'm sorry. The funds were usually funds that we were 17 invested in or seeded or managed. So they're things like
18 Multistrat, Restoration, a Korea fund, PetroCap.
19 Q Are these managed funds by Highland Capital? Or were 20 they?
21 A Yes. Pretty much, with the exception of PetroCap. We 22 were a minority -- a minority -- a large -- a large minority
23 investor with a sub-advisor.
24 Q Did Highland Capital Management on the petition date own
25 an interest, a direct security interest in MGM?

1 A Yes. And I -- yes.
2 Q Did the various portfolio companies that you've
3 identified, did one or more of those portfolio companies also 4 own MGM stock?
5 A Yes.
6 Q Did the various funds that you've identified, did one or
7 more of those funds also own MGM stock?
8 A Yes. Between -- yes. Between the CLOs, the funds,
9 Highland directly, it was about $500 million that eventually
10 got taken out for about a billion dollars.
11 Q Okay. $500 million is what you said?
12 A Approximately. Depending on what mark, what time frame.
13 But ultimately they got taken out for about a billion dollars.
14 Q Okay. And as a consequence of these investments,
15 significant investment -- first of all, how would you describe
16 that magnitude of investments? Is that a significant
17 investment from the perspective of MGM?
18 A Yes.
19 Q As a consequence, what role, if any, did you play in terms
20 of MGM's governance? Were you -- did you become a member of 21 the board of directors?
22 A Yes. I was a board member for approximately ten years,
23 and myself and the president of Anchorage, between our two 24 entities, we had a majority of the equity in MGM.
25 Q Okay. If there was a third party, not familiar with the

1 management of Highland Capital, who had been monitoring these
2 bankruptcy proceedings as you have, was there any way that a
3 third-party stranger to this bankruptcy proceeding could, from 4 your perspective, actually appreciate or identify the -- all
5 the details of the investments that Highland Capital had?
6 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.
7 It calls for speculation. He's not here as an expert today.
8 He shouldn't be allowed to testify what a third party would or 9 wouldn't have thought or known.
10 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I'll --
11 THE COURT: I'll overrule.
12 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
13 Q Mr. Dondero?
14 A The disclosures in the Highland bankruptcy were scant. I
15 think there was six or eight line items listed, the 16 descriptions of which were limited. But it didn't include --
17 it didn't include a broad listing of all the funds, and it
18 didn't include subsidiaries or any net value or any offsetting
19 liabilities or risks of any of the underlying companies or 20 investments, either.
21 MR. MCENTIRE: Would you put up Exhibit 3, please?
22 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
23 Q Mr. Dondero, we're going to -- do you have a screen in 24 front of you as well?
25 A Yes.

1 Q We're going to put up Exhibit 3, and I'm going to ask you
2 some questions about it. First of all, would you identify
3 Exhibit 3?
4 A It didn't come up on my screen yet.
5 Q Still not up there?
6 A Yes. Now it is.
7 Q Can you identify Exhibit 3, please?
8 (Discussion.)
9 Q There we go. Mr. Dondero, would you identify Exhibit 3,
10 please?
11 A This was an email I sent to Compliance and relevant people
12 to put -- to put MGM on the restricted list.
13 Q It indicates it was on December 17, 2020. Did you
14 personally author this email?
15 A Yes.
16 Q You sent it to multiple individuals, including Mr.
17 Surgent. Was Mr. Surgent an attorney at Highland Capital at 18 the time?
19 A He was head of compliance for both organizations.
20 Q Scott Ellington? Is he an attorney? Was he an attorney
21 at the time?
22 A He's the general counsel of Highland.
23 Q You also sent it to someone at NexPoint Advisors, Jason
24 Post. Who is Mr. Post?
25 A Mr. Post was head of compliance at NexPoint Advisors and a

1 subordinate of Thomas Surgent's.
2 Q Jim Seery. Mr. Seery, of course. You also addressed it
3 to Mr. Seery?
4 A Yes.
5 Q It says, Trading Restrictions Re: MGM Material Nonpublic
6 Information. What did you mean by the term "material
7 nonpublic information"?
8 A Material nonpublic information is when you have material
9 nonpublic information that the public does not have, and it
10 essentially makes you an insider and restricts you from 11 trading.
12 Q All right. It says, Just got off a pre-board call.
13 First of all, you generated this in the ordinary course of 14 your business, did you not?
15 A Um, --
16 Q This email.
17 A Yes.
18 Q Okay.
19 A Yes.
20 Q And --
21 A Any restricted list. Restricted list items happen all the 22 time in the normal course of business.
23 Q And you've maintained a copy of this email as well, have 24 you not?
25 A I'm sure we have one. I don't have it personally.

1 Q Fair enough. But you're -- you have -- you have access
2 and custody over emails, correct?
3 A Not any of my Highland emails.
4 Q But those were left. Right?
5 A Yes. Yes.
6 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I mean, he's leading the 7 witness at this point, so I'm just --
8 MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine.
9 MR. MORRIS: I'm just --
10 THE COURT: Okay. Sustained.
11 MR. MORRIS: -- going to be sensitive to it.
12 THE COURT: Sustained.
13 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
14 Q Mr. -- this is a true and accurate copy of the email that 15 you sent, is it not?
16 A It appears to be.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: At this time, I would offer Exhibit 3
18 into evidence, Your Honor.
19 THE COURT: Okay. I'm looking through what we 20 admitted earlier. Did we not --
21 MR. MCENTIRE: This already may be in evidence.
22 THE COURT: Yes. I'm --
23 MR. MCENTIRE: I don't --
24 THE COURT: Was there any objection?
25 MR. MORRIS: There wasn't. I mean, --

1 THE COURT: I think there was an objection that I
2 overruled.
3 MR. MORRIS: No. There wasn't. I mean,
4 unfortunately, we've gotten the short end of the stick here,
5 because all of their documents are in evidence, and I got
6 caught short because I'm going to have to do it the old-
7 fashioned way. But yes, this is in evidence.
8 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Fair enough.
9 MR. MORRIS: Because -- actually got through all of 10 their documents.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.
12 THE COURT: Okay. All right.
13 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
14 Q So, Mr. --
15 THE COURT: So it's in evidence.
16 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
17 Q -- Dondero, going back to Exhibit 3, it says, Just got off
18 a pre-board call.
19 Is that the MGM board, a pre-board call?
20 A Yes.
21 Q What is a pre-board call?
22 A It's a pre-board call that usually sets the agenda. And,
23 again, myself and the Anchorage guys, we would move in 24 locksteps, in a coordinated fashion, generally, in terms of 25 agenda and company policy.

1 Q It says, Update is as follows. Amazon and Apple actively
2 diligencing in the data room.
3 What was your understanding of -- of -- what was your
4 intent in conveying that information to the recipients?
5 A The intent was really in the last sentence, or second-to-
6 last sentence, that the transaction was likely to close.
7 Amazon had come back. We had turned Amazon away earlier in 8 the year at $120 a share, and they said they wouldn't be 9 willing to pay more. And --
10 THE COURT: Is there an objection?
11 MR. MORRIS: There is an objection. None of this was 12 shared with Mr. Seery, all of this background that we're -- 13 that we're doing. He -- I would request that we stick with 14 the -- only the information that was given to Mr. Seery, like 15 -- like he's talking about his intent. Like, who cares at 16 this point?
17 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --
18 MR. MORRIS: This is what Mr. Seery got.
19 THE COURT: Okay. What is your response to that?
20 MR. MCENTIRE: I have a response to -- well, they've 21 -- they've questioned his intent in sending this in his 22 opening statement.
23 MR. MORRIS: Ah.
24 MR. MCENTIRE: And I'm trying to make it clear what 25 his intent was.

1 MR. MORRIS: So, you know what, Your Honor? Quid pro
2 quo. Now we're going to do a real quid pro quo. He can ask
3 him about his intent, and then he can't object to all of the 4 other documents and exhibits that I say prove that this was
5 here only to interfere with Mr. Seery's trading activity.
6 I'll do that quid pro quo.
7 MR. MCENTIRE: May I proceed, Your Honor?
8 THE COURT: You may. Objection is overruled.
9 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
10 Q Mr. Dondero, what was your intent in communicating --
11 A Okay.
12 Q -- that probably a first-quarter event? What was your
13 understanding?
14 A After 30 years of compliance education: Taint one, taint
15 all. We were all sitting together. I -- the trading desk was 16 right outside my desk. All the employees of Highland that 17 would eventually move to NexPoint, all the ones that would 18 eventually move to Skyview, all the ones that eventually moved
19 to Jim Seery, were all within 30 feet of my desk.
20 Q What do you mean by "Taint one, taint all"?
21 A That's a compliance concept that, as a professional, you
22 have a responsibility, when you are in possession of material
23 nonpublic information, to put something on the restricted list
24 so that it's not traded. Okay? And you can't -- one person
25 can't sit in their cube and say they know something and not

1 tell anybody else, such that the rest of the organization
2 trades. That's not the way compliance works.
3 Q It says also no -- also, any sales are subject to a
4 shareholder agreement.
5 What was the meaning of that or the intent of that?
6 A There was a stringent shareholder agreement, particularly 7 among the board members, that no shares could be bought or 8 sold without approval of the company.
9 Q The company here being MGM?
10 A MGM, yes.
11 Q What is a restricted list?
12 A A restricted list is when you believe as an investment
13 professional that you have material nonpublic information, you
14 notify Compliance, and then Compliance notifies the entire 15 organization and prevents any trading in that security.
16 Q You mentioned the doctrine taint one, taint all. If an 17 individual or -- if an individual within a company setting is 18 found to have traded on material nonpublic information, what 19 is the potential consequence or sanction?
20 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. This is like a
21 legal conclusion. He's not a law enforcement officer. He's 22 not a securities officer. What are we doing?
23 MR. MCENTIRE: I can rephrase.
24 THE COURT: Okay. He's going to rephrase.
25 BY MR. MCENTIRE:

1 Q Based upon your years -- based upon your years of
2 experience as a board member of MGM, based upon your years of
3 experience as a CEO of Highland Capital and an executive that 4 trades in securities and has sold securities, what is your
5 understanding, from a non-legal perspective, of what the risks
6 are associated with trading on material nonpublic information?
7 A You could be -- you would be fired from the organization
8 if you did. You could be banned from the securities industry.
9 The industry can shut down the -- or, the SEC can shut down
10 the advisor or they can fine the advisor.
11 Q Do you know what a compliance log is?
12 A Yes.
13 Q Should MGM have been placed on a compliance log at 14 NexPoint?
15 A Throughout the organization -- throughout the 16 organization, it should -- it should and it was on all -- at 17 all organizations, yes.
18 Q Should it have been placed on a -- on a compliance log to 19 Highland Capital, from your perspective?
20 A Yes.
21 Q Can you give us any explanation of why, to your knowledge,
22 why MGM would be taken off the restricted list in April of 23 2021 at Highland Capital?
24 A When an investment professional puts something on the 25 restricted list, in order for it to come off the restricted

1 list, the material nonpublic information has to be public. So
2 there has to be a cleansing that occurs by the company.
3 Q To the extent that you were no longer affiliated with 4 Highland Capital in the early portion, the first quarter of
5 2021, does that somehow cleanse the material nonpublic
6 information that you identified?
7 A It does not.
8 Q Why not?
9 A Because the -- it -- the company hasn't -- the company
10 didn't come out and make public the information that we knew 11 from a private perspective that the transaction was about to 12 go through.
13 Q You sat here during opening statements when Mr. Morris
14 referred to the various news coverage and media coverage
15 concerning MGM and the fact that people had expressed interest
16 in buying in the past?
17 A Yes. And at the board level, we had entertained numerous 18 ones. There were rumors that had no basis in fact, and there
19 were negotiations we had with people that were never in the 20 news. But none of them got to this degree of certainty where 21 it was going to close within a couple months.
22 Q From your perspective as an investment professional, with 23 the years of experience that you described for the Court, what
24 is the difference between receiving an email from a board
25 member such as yourself and rumors or suggestions of possible

1 sale in the media?
2 A I knew with certainty from the board level that Amazon had
3 hit our price, agreed to hit our price, and it was going to
4 close in the next couple months.
5 Q That's not rumor or innuendo; that's hard information from
6 a member of the MGM board?
7 A Correct.
8 MR. MCENTIRE: All right. You can take that down,
9 please, Tim.
10 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
11 Q I want to talk a little bit about due diligence. When you
12 were the chief executive officer of Highland Capital, --
13 A Yes.
14 Q -- can you tell us whether Highland Capital ever involved
15 itself in the acquisition of distressed assets?
16 A Yes. We did a fair amount of investing in distressed
17 assets.
18 Q What is a distressed asset?
19 A It's something that trades at a discount, where the 20 certainty and the timing of realizations or contractual
21 obligations is uncertain.
22 Q Is a -- well, let me back up. Has Highland -- did
23 Highland Capital ever invest in unsecured claims in connection
24 with bankruptcy proceedings?
25 A Yes.

1 Q And in terms of the -- on the spectrum of risk, where does
2 an unsecured creditor claim in a bankruptcy proceeding kind of
3 rank in terms of the uncertainties or risk, from your
4 perspective?
5 A It's high risk. It's a -- yeah, it would be highly-
6 distressed, generally.
7 Q Explain to us -- I know the Court is very familiar with 8 claims trading. Explain to us from your perspective as an
9 investment -- a seasoned investment expert or executive what 10 those risks are. What types of risk are associated with such 11 an investment?
12 A You have to evaluate the assets tied to the claim
13 specifically. Or if it's an unsecured in general, the assets
14 in general in the estate.
15 You have to handicap the realization that a distressed
16 seller might not get full value for something. You have to 17 handicap the likelihood around that. And then you have to 18 handicap the timing, and then you have to handicap the 19 expenses and the other obligations of the estate, and then 20 handicap risk items that aren't known or that are difficult if 21 not impossible to underwrite, like unknown litigation or last-
22 minute litigation or claims or something.
23 Q And all these handicapping, this handicapping process, how 24 does that impact the price or the investment that you're
25 willing to make? Generally?

1 A Generally, you put a much higher discount rate. You know,
2 like if you would do debt at 10 percent and a normal public
3 equity at a 15 percent return, you would do distressed or
4 private equity investing at a 20, 25 percent return
5 expectation to offset the risk and the unknowns.
6 Q In order to handicap an investment in an unsecured
7 creditor's claim appropriately to reach an informed decision,
8 what type of data would you need to have access to?
9 MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question.
10 He's not here as an expert. He's here as a fact witness. He 11 should -- he should limit himself to that instead of talking
12 about what investors should be doing.
13 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, with all due
14 respect, he's here as the former CEO of Highland Capital. He 15 has experience, firsthand knowledge experience, and he also 16 has expertise because of his education, his career, and 17 training.
18 And again, there's no limitation here under the Rules
19 about what type of information I can elicit from him in this
20 proceeding. This is, whether you call it expert testimony, I
21 call it personal knowledge, but it has some expert aspects to 22 it, but I think that's fair and appropriate.
23 THE COURT: Well, I think you can ask what kind of 24 data would you rely on, would Highland Capital or entities
25 he's been in charge of rely on, --

1 MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.
2 THE COURT: -- but not what would people rely on. So
3 I sustain the objection partially.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: All right.
5 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
6 Q Mr. Dondero, I'll rephrase the question. When you were
7 the chief executive officer of Highland Capital before Mr.
8 Seery took the reins, and you, your company, Highland Capital,
9 was investing in an unsecured creditor's claims, what due
10 diligence, what type of information would you expect your team
11 to explore and investigate?
12 A Sure. Distressed investment in a trade claim would be 13 among our thickest folders, it would be among our most 14 diligenced items, because you have those three buckets, the 15 value of the assets, again, and the ability and timing of 16 monetization of those as a not strong -- as a weak seller, and 17 then you would have the litigation or claims against those,
18 and then you would have to also have a third section of 19 analysis for the litigation risk of the estate overall.
20 Q What type of legal analysis or legal due diligence would
21 you have required as the CEO of Highland Capital?
22 A At Highland, we would have had third-party law firms, in 23 addition to our own legal staff, in addition to our own
24 business professionals, reviewing all the analysis and the 25 assumptions.

1 Q With regard to a financial analysis, what types of
2 financial due diligence would you have required?
3 A It would have been a detailed -- a detailed analysis of 4 all the cash flows on the particular underlying investments,
5 and an evaluation and valuation of what those companies or
6 investments were worth.
7 Q Why is it important to look at the underlying value of the 8 asset?
9 A Because that -- those are what will be monetized in order
10 to give you a return on the claims or securities that you buy
11 in a distressed situation.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Tim, would you please put up Exhibit
13 4?
14 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I don't mean to be
15 monitoring your time, but we're at the 1:30 --
16 THE COURT: I was just checking the clock here.
17 Let's do take a break. So, --
18 MR. MCENTIRE: All right.
19 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can we have an instruction
20 to the witness not to --
21 THE COURT: Yes.
22 MR. MORRIS: -- look at his phone and not to confer
23 with anybody? Because we had that incident once before.
24 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I don't --
25 THE WITNESS: I don't have my phone.

1 THE COURT: Okay.
2 THE WITNESS: My phone's at the front desk.
3 THE COURT: So, no discussions with your lawyers or
4 -- I guess he doesn't have his phone -- during this break.
5 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.
6 THE COURT: All right. So, I really think this will
7 take five minutes, so don't go far.
8 (Off the record, 1:33 p.m. to 1:47 p.m.)
9 THE COURT: Okay. We will go back on the record,
10 then, in the Highland matter.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm just going to grab him right now.
12 THE COURT: Okay. We are, for the record, waiting on 13 Mr. Dondero to take his place again on the witness stand.
14 (Pause.)
15 THE COURT: All right, Mr. Dondero. We're ready for 16 you to resume your testimony.
17 All right. Mr. McEntire, you may proceed.
18 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you, Your Honor.
19 DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED
20 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
21 Q Mr. Dondero, when we left off, I was just putting up what
22 I requested as Exhibit 4.
23 MR. MCENTIRE: And Tim, if you can put that back up,
24 please.
25 BY MR. MCENTIRE:

1 Q Mr. Dondero, can you identify Exhibit #4, please?
2 A Yes. These are notes I took contemporaneous with three
3 conversations with guys at Farallon.
4 Q I didn't quite hear you. Did you say contemporaneous?
5 A Yes.
6 Q So, you say with three conversations. Who were the 7 conversations with?
8 A One was with Raj Patel that was fairly short, and he
9 deflected me to Mike Linn, who was the portfolio manager in 10 charge and had done the transactions.
11 Q Which transactions?
12 A The buying of the claim, the Highland claims.
13 Q All right. And what was your purpose in making these 14 notes?
15 A We'd been trying nonstop to settle the case for two-plus
16 years. We'd been counseled that it was a Kabuki dance that 17 would just, you know, all settle at the end, and it never 18 quite happened that way. And when we heard the claims traded,
19 we realized there were new parties to potentially negotiate to 20 resolve the case.
21 The ownership was initially hidden, but we were able to 22 find out pretty quickly that Farallon was Muck. So I reached
23 out the Farallon guys.
24 Q All right. And were you ever able at that time to 25 determine who was affiliated with Jessup, the other special-

1 purpose entity?
2 A We -- initially, we thought Farallon was all of the
3 entities. We didn't find out about Stonehill -- it was more
4 difficult and they had taken more efforts to hide the
5 ownership in Stonehill. We didn't find out for two more
6 months.
7 Q So your first conversation was with Mr. Patel?
8 A Yes.
9 Q And did you call him?
10 A Yes.
11 Q Your first entry, there's a 28 on the left-hand side.
12 What does that 28 refer to, if you recall?
13 A That was the date, I believe.
14 Q Do you believe it was May 28th?
15 A Yes.
16 Q What makes you believe that?
17 A That's what it says.
18 Q Okay. Raj Patel --
19 THE COURT: Is there a way you can show the words
20 that are cut off?
21 MR. MCENTIRE: On this particular one, I can't, Your 22 Honor. We tried, but we can't. No.
23 THE COURT: If I look in the notebook, can I see it?
24 MR. MCENTIRE: I don't think so. I think this is --
25 what you see is exactly what's in the notebook. It's the same

1 document. This is how -- how we -- this is how we have it.
2 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
3 Q Mr. Patel. Who is Mr. Patel?
4 A He's Mike Linn's boss. He's head of -- I believe head of
5 credit at Farallon.
6 Q Okay. And Farallon is based where, if you know?
7 A San Francisco.
8 Q And what kind of company is Farallon, if you know?
9 A They -- they look a lot like Highland. Well, they do real 10 estate. They do hedge funds. They do -- they don't do as 11 many 40 Act or retail funds, but they're -- they're an 12 investor.
13 Q Mr. Patel. What did he tell you during this phone call?
14 A That he bought it because Seery told him to buy it and
15 they had made money with Seery before.
16 Q All right. And how long did the call last?
17 A Not long.
18 Q Okay. You said he referred you to Mr. -- who was the 19 person?
20 A To Mike Linn.
21 Q Who is Mike Linn?
22 A Mike Linn is a portfolio manager that works for Mr. Patel.
23 Q And did you call Mr. Linn?
24 A Yes.
25 Q All right. The notes here, do these reflect several

1 conversations?
2 A The first one reflects a conversation with Raj Patel, and
3 then the rest of it reflects two conversations with Mike Linn.
4 Q All right. Where does the first conversation with Mike
5 Linn start and where does it end?
6 A It ends -- it begins at the 50, 70 cents. We knew that
7 they had -- that the claims had traded around 50 cents. And I
8 said we'd be willing to pay 70 cents. We'd like to prevent
9 the $5 million-a-month burn. We'd like to buy your claims.
10 Q Why 70 cents? What was -- what was that all about?
11 A I was trying to give them a compelling premium that was 12 still less than I had offered the UCC three months earlier.
13 Q And so you have: Not compelling, Class 8. What does that 14 mean?
15 A He said that was -- he just said 70 cents wasn't
16 compelling.
17 Q There's a reference to: Asked what would be compelling.
18 Was that a question you asked him?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And what was his response?
21 A He said he had no offer. And he -- we had heard he paid
22 50 cents and I offered him 70 cents and then -- but he was 23 clear to me that he wouldn't tell me what he paid. And so the 24 next time I called him I -- I -- instead of just making it
25 cents on the dollar, I said I'd pay 130 percent of whatever he

1 did pay. You don't have to tell me what you paid, but I'll
2 pay you 30 percent more than you paid, you know, a couple
3 months ago. And -- or we thought they notified the Court when
4 they just bought it, but they had actually negotiated buying
5 it back in February. January or February. So --
6 Q Who told you that they bought it in February or March time
7 frame?
8 A He did.
9 Q Okay. Was this during the first or the second phone --
10 MR. MORRIS: I apologize for interrupting. Who's the 11 "he"?
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Mike Linn.
13 THE WITNESS: Mike Linn.
14 MR. MORRIS: Thank you so much.
15 MR. MCENTIRE: I'll make sure the record --
16 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
17 Q Mike Linn --
18 A Yes.
19 Q -- told you that Farallon had bought their interest in the 20 claims back in the February or March time frame?
21 A Yes.
22 Q All right. Bought assets with claims. What does that 23 refer to?
24 A He said it wasn't compelling because he said Seery told
25 him it would be worth a lot more. He -- he confirmed what Raj

1 said, that -- I said, do you realize the estate is spending $5
2 million a month on legal fees? That, you know, you should
3 want to sell this thing. And he said Seery told him it was
4 worth a lot more and there were claims and litigation beyond
5 the asset value.
6 Q You offered him 40 to 50 percent premium. What is that?
7 A That's what the 70 cents on the 50 cents represents. And 8 then I changed the dialogue to I'll pay you 130 percent of 9 whatever your cost was. And he said, not compelling. And 10 then I, both -- both calls, I pressed him, what price would he 11 offer at? And he said he had no offer, he wasn't willing to 12 sell.
13 Q The 130 percent of cost, not compelling, was that in the 14 second or the third call with Mr. Linn?
15 A It was at my third and final call with Farallon. My 16 second call with Mike Linn was the 130 percent of cost.
17 Q And he said not compelling? You put it in quotation
18 marks?
19 A Yep.
20 Q And then you said, no counter. What does that mean?
21 A He wouldn't -- he wouldn't give an offer, he wouldn't give 22 a price at which he would sell.
23 Q What did Mike Linn tell you, in effect, with regard to his
24 due diligence that Farallon had undertaken?
25 A When I -- when I told him about the risks and the

1 litigation and the burn, he said he wasn't following the case,
2 he wasn't aware of it, he was depending on Jim Seery.
3 Q What, if anything, did Michael Linn tell you about MGM?
4 A That was more the initial Raj Patel call, where he said we
5 bought it because he was very optimistic regarding MGM.
6 Q Okay. Did you have any understanding when he first got
7 his optimism about MGM?
8 A No. He just said that's why they had bought it initially,
9 they were very optimistic about MGM.
10 Q That's why they had bought it initially?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And they had bought it initially in the February-March
13 time frame?
14 A Yes.
15 Q And that -- would you -- does that predate the public
16 disclosure of the MGM sale to Amazon?
17 A Yes.
18 Q Substantially by a couple of months?
19 A Yes.
20 Q I'd like to turn your attention now to a different topic.
21 MR. MCENTIRE: And Tim, if you could pull up Exhibit
22 8, please.
23 I believe this document is already in evidence, Your
24 Honor.
25 THE COURT: 8 is?

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Oh, by the way, I offer Exhibit 4 into
2 evidence.
3 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
4 Q Let me ask you a couple quick questions.
5 THE COURT: Is there an objection?
6 MR. MORRIS: Nope.
7 THE COURT: Okay. 4 is admitted.
8 (Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Exhibit 4 is received
9 into evidence.)
10 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
11 Q Exhibit 8.
12 MR. MORRIS: I apologize, Your Honor. Just one
13 caveat. It's not for the truth of the matter asserted; it's 14 for what his impressions were at the time.
15 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --
16 MR. MORRIS: This is what he wrote down. I don't -- 17 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm offering it for the truth of the 18 matter asserted.
19 MR. MORRIS: Okay. And I object to that extent.
20 This --
21 MR. MCENTIRE: Let me --
22 MR. MORRIS: Can I voir dire? Can I voir dire? May 23 I do --
24 MR. MCENTIRE: May I finish my statement that I was 25 --

1 THE COURT: Let him finish, and then --
2 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.
3 THE COURT: -- you can.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: I am offering it for the truth of the 5 matter asserted because these are documents that were prepared
6 contemporaneously, it's an exception to the hearsay rule and
7 reflects admissions of a -- of an adverse party. Admissions
8 that are adverse to their interests. Declarations of interest
9 adverse to their interest and admissions of an adverse party
10 contemporaneously recorded. And so that's why I'm offering
11 it.
12 MR. MORRIS: For all purposes?
13 THE COURT: Okay. Let me have you point me to the 14 exact hearsay exception. I understand this hearsay exception
15 you're arguing for the hearsay within the hearsay, the party
16 opponent exception. But it's technically hearsay of Mr.
17 Dondero, even though he's here on the stand.
18 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I could lay a foundation, then.
19 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
20 Q Mr. Dondero, --
21 THE COURT: Well, no. I'm asking for what your --
22 MR. MCENTIRE: It's --
23 THE COURT: -- rule reference is.
24 MR. MCENTIRE: I don't have the Rules with me right
25 this second. It's 803(1) --

1 (Discussion.)
2 MR. MCENTIRE: All right. Well, it's -- it's
3 admissible under several categories. It's not hearsay because 4 it's an admission of a party opponent. It's also an admission
5 under 803(1), present sense impression. It's also admissible
6 --
7 THE COURT: So you say it's Mr. Dondero's statement
8 describing or explaining an event --
9 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.
10 THE COURT: -- or admission made while or immediately
11 after the declarant perceived it?
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. It's also a record of a
13 regularly-conducted activity, which is 803(6). And I think
14 it's also not technically hearsay because it's also an 15 admission of a party. So, this --
16 THE COURT: Well, that's the hearsay within the 17 hearsay.
18 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
19 THE COURT: But I'm -- I'm --
20 MR. MORRIS: That can't possibly be right. I can't 21 go back to my hotel right now and write down that he told me
22 that he did a bad thing and come in here tomorrow and say he 23 admitted he did a bad thing because it's in my notes.
24 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --
25 MR. MORRIS: That's can't possibly be the law.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --
2 MR. MORRIS: That's not the law.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: There are two hearsay issues here.
4 One is whether this is a business record or otherwise
5 qualifies as an exception to the hearsay rule, and then
6 there's an internal hearsay issue of whether or not what Mr.
7 Patel and Mr. --
8 THE COURT: You haven't established the business
9 record exception. Okay?
10 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm prepared to lay the foundation
11 right this second. At this moment.
12 THE COURT: You may proceed.
13 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
14 Q Mr. Dondero, is this a document that was generated by you
15 in the ordinary course of your business?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Did you have personal knowledge when you recorded this 18 document?
19 A Yes.
20 Q You personally recorded this document, correct?
21 A Yes.
22 Q And you have had custody of this document. Correct?
23 A Yes.
24 Q And this is --
25 MR. MCENTIRE: That's a -- that's a business record,

1 Your Honor.
2 MR. MORRIS: May I, Your Honor?
3 THE COURT: You may.
4 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
5 VOIR DIRE EXAMINATION
6 BY MR. MORRIS:
7 Q Where's the document now? How come it's -- how come it's 8 cut off?
9 A I don't know.
10 Q Do you have the document today? How come we're looking at 11 a document that's cut off?
12 A I'm sure we have it somewhere. I don't have it.
13 MR. MORRIS: So, number one, Your Honor, we don't
14 have the actual document. We have a partial document.
15 Number two, let's talk about it for a second.
16 BY MR. MORRIS:
17 Q You say that you do this in the ordinary course of 18 business. What's the purpose of taking these notes?
19 A When I'm starting negotiation with somebody new on 20 something complicated and I don't know what their concerns or 21 rationale is going to be, I take little notes like this.
22 Q And is it -- is it the purpose of it to capture the 23 important things that are going on in the conversation?
24 A So I know next time how to address it differently, you
25 know.

1 Q That's not my question. My question is, is the purpose of
2 taking notes so that you have a written record of the 3 important points that you discussed?
4 A Yes, so I know how to address it the next time.
5 Q Okay. And among the important points that you never put
6 down on these notes was the letters MGM. Is that correct?
7 A Correct.
8 Q Okay. And you never put down here that Michael Linn told
9 you he wasn't following the case, correct?
10 A No, I did not.
11 Q Okay.
12 A But it was --
13 Q And --
14 A Yeah. But I --
15 Q That --
16 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if this is --
17 MR. MCENTIRE: (faintly) This is voir dire of the 18 witness for a business record exception.
19 MR. MORRIS: No, because --
20 THE COURT: Overruled.
21 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.
22 BY MR. MORRIS:
23 Q Mr. Patel wouldn't tell you how much he paid and that's 24 why you didn't write it down, right?
25 A Mr. Patel told me he bought it because of Seery. My

1 conversation was very short with him. That was one of the few
2 things he said. Linn said he wouldn't sell it because he
3 didn't find it compelling.
4 Q Okay.
5 A And Linn was the one who wouldn't tell me --
6 Q Okay.
7 A -- the price.
8 Q But -- but even though you took these notes to write down
9 things that you thought were important, you didn't write down
10 MGM. Correct?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And you didn't write down that anybody was very optimistic
13 about MGM. Correct?
14 A No, I did not.
15 Q And you didn't write down that Mr. Linn told you he wasn't
16 following the case. Correct?
17 A Well, he said the same thing Patel said about he bought it
18 because of Seery. He did confirm that. I didn't see any 19 reason to write that again.
20 Q You didn't -- you never wrote it down. Not once. Not -- 21 there's nothing about again, right. You never wrote down that 22 --
23 A No, I did write --
24 Q -- anybody ever told you they weren't following the case.
25 Correct?

1 A Correct.
2 Q Okay.
3 A But I wrote down that he bought it because of Seery.
4 Q Okay.
5 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, no objection. It can go in.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.
7 THE COURT: Wait. Did you just say no objections?
8 MR. MORRIS: Except -- except for the hearsay on 9 hearsay. It can't possibly be an admission. It's his -- it's 10 his notes. This is what he wrote. It can come in for that 11 purpose. It's -- it's a -- that's what he's testified to, and 12 I can't object to that. But it can't possibly come in as an
13 admission against Farallon.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I disagree.
15 MR. MORRIS: That's the point.
16 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, I disagree. This 17 is otherwise admissible, and it can come. I think that's 18 really, Your Honor, that's really the weight it's going to be 19 given. It comes in. He's not making an objection to its 20 admissibility. And if he wants to argue the weight of the 21 document, that's a different issue.
22 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, if I may.
23 THE COURT: You may.
24 MR. STANCIL: The second layer of hearsay goes to 25 whether this is a statement by Farallon. It is a statement by

1 Mr. Dondero of what he heard, what he says he heard Farallon
2 say. 801(d) refers to, when they're talking about an opposing
3 party statement, made by the party, not made by a listener who
4 says he heard the party. This is classic hearsay within
5 hearsay. It's not admissible for that purpose.
6 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection, and --
7 but I'm still struggling to understand what the Respondents
8 have agreed to. Because --
9 MR. MORRIS: That -- that this is what he claims to 10 have written down. I mean, right? So, so --
11 THE COURT: Okay.
12 MR. MORRIS: -- a present sense impression.
13 THE COURT: So, it is admitted as Mr. Dondero's
14 present sense impression, but it's not admitted as to the 15 truth of anything that Claims Purchasers may have said.
16 MR. MORRIS: And -- and the --
17 THE COURT: That's what you're saying?
18 MR. MORRIS: Yes. And the most important thing is 19 that he's testified that the purpose of the notes was to 20 capture the things that were important that he was told. And 21 we've established what he wasn't told.
22 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. I believe the document is in 23 evidence, Your Honor.
24 THE COURT: Exhibit 4 is in evidence. But, again,
25 there's no admission in here as to what Claims Purchasers

1 testified as to.
2 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, they haven't testified yet
3 because --
4 THE COURT: This is what he --
5 THE DEFENDANT: I understand. I understand.
6 THE COURT: -- he says he remembers.
7 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. So, --
8 THE COURT: It's sort of an --
9 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, just so we're clear for our 10 record, this is not admitted for the truth of what Farallon is 11 purported to have said.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Correct.
13 THE COURT: Correct.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: This --
15 MR. STANCIL: Thank you.
16 MR. MCENTIRE: This is offered for the truth of what
17 Mr. -- Mr. Dondero recalls them saying.
18 THE COURT: Okay.
19 MR. MCENTIRE: In part.
20 THE COURT: I think -- I think we're on the same page
21 now. I think. I think.
22 (Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Exhibit 4 is received
23 into evidence.)
24 MR. MCENTIRE: All right. May I proceed, Your Honor?
25 THE COURT: You may.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Can you please put up Exhibit 8,
2 please? And I believe this document has been put into
3 evidence --
4 THE COURT: It is.
5 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.
6 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
7 Q Mr. Dondero, this document is a -- part of a -- the 8 Court's docket. It was filed on February 1, 2021, if you
9 could go to the top upper banner. It's Debtors' Notice of 10 Filing of Plan Supplement of the Fifth Amended Plan of 11 Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, as Modified.
12 Do you see that?
13 A Yes.
14 Q I'll direct your attention, --
15 MR. MCENTIRE: If you could go to Page 4, please, for 16 me, Tim.
17 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
18 Q Page 4 has a schedule, a plan analysis and a liquidation
19 analysis. Do you see that?
20 A Yes.
21 Q All right. For Class 8, what does it identify that is 22 being projected for distributions to the general unsecured
23 claims for Class 8?
24 A 71.3 percent.
25 Q What percentage is being identified that will be

1 distributed to Class 9?
2 A 9, no distribution.
3 Q No distribution? All right. Mr. Dondero, in Paragraph --
4 I'm going to give you a piece of paper.
5 MR. MCENTIRE: Can you just give me a piece of paper
6 real quick?
7 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
8 Q I'm handing you a piece of paper and I'm --
9 A Okay. Thank you.
10 Q Mr. Dondero, in our complaint in this case, the proposed 11 complaint in this case, we allege that Class 8 had a total of 12 $270 million, the claims that were purchased by Farallon and 13 Stonehill had a face value in Class 8 of $270 million. Would 14 you write that number down?
15 And assuming that this was public information that was 16 available in February of 2021 at 71.32 percent, --
17 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. That's an 18 assumption not in evidence. He hasn't laid a foundation for 19 what was available in February in 2021.
20 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
21 Q Mr. Dondero, according to --
22 THE COURT: Wait. Are you going to respond, or are 23 you just going to --
24 MR. MCENTIRE: I'll rephrase the question.
25 THE COURT: -- rephrase? Okay.

1 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
2 Q According to the document that is identified as Exhibit #8
3 that says that 71.32 percent is the anticipated projected
4 payout on Class 8 claims, what is 71.32 percent of the face
5 value of the claims that were purchased?
6 A About $192 million.
7 Q $192 million? And assuming for a moment that, as alleged
8 by Hunter Mountain in this case, that $163 million was 9 actually used to purchase the Class 8 claims, what is the 10 difference?
11 A About $30 million.
12 Q A little less than that, isn't it? Or is the number --
13 A Yeah. $28 million or whatever.
14 Q $28 million? And based upon your years of experience in 15 running Highland Capital, being involved in the purchase of 16 unsecured claims, being involved in investigating and 17 acquiring distressed assets, that return over a two-year
18 period, is that the kind of return that a hedge fund would 19 typically -- you would expect to receive?
20 MR. MORRIS: I just want to make sure that -- because 21 the question changed a little bit in the middle. If he wants
22 to ask him if he would have made the investment, that's fine.
23 But he should not be permitted to testify as to what any other
24 investor, including the ones who purchased these claims, would 25 have done. Every -- there's different risk profiles. He can

1 testify to whatever he wants about himself.
2 THE COURT: Sustained.
3 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
4 Q Go ahead. Based upon your experience at Highland Capital,
5 would Highland Capital have ever acquired those claims based
6 upon that kind of return over two years? For a distressed
7 asset such as this?
8 A No.
9 Q Why not?
10 A It's below a debt level return that you could get on high-
11 rated assets with certainty. It's --
12 Q What do you mean by it's below -- below a debt return that 13 you could get on collateralized assets? What do you mean by 14 that?
15 A I think in this case the debt that the Debtor put in place
16 paid 12, 13 percent and was triple secured or whatever. So no
17 one would buy the residual claims for an 8 percent compounded,
18 whatever that $28 million works out to.
19 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor. He 20 shouldn't be talking about or testifying to what other people
21 might do.
22 THE WITNESS: Well, we --
23 THE COURT: This is --
24 THE WITNESS: We would never have done that.
25 THE COURT: This is --

1 MR. MCENTIRE: He would not have.
2 THE COURT: -- Highland, not nobody. Okay.
3 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
4 Q Mr. Dondero, and what is it about the fact that these
5 claims are not collateralized that impacts the decision-
6 makers, from your perspective?
7 A You have all the risk that the $205 million of expenses
8 this estate has currently paid grows to $300 or $400 million.
9 You know, you have the risk that other litigation regarding 10 Seery violating the Advisers Act --
11 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.
12 THE WITNESS: -- results in --
13 THE COURT: Sustained.
14 THE WITNESS: -- expenses.
15 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
16 Q Just respond to my question, sir. What does the fact
17 about not being collateralized, how does that impact the 18 decision-maker's --
19 A Well, I was trying to answer it. You just have all kinds
20 of residual risk of bad acts that have happened at the estate
21 or expenses increasing or whatever.
22 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike the phrase "bad acts,"
23 Your Honor.
24 THE COURT: Overruled.
25 BY MR. MCENTIRE:

1 Q What did you mean by that? What did you mean by "bad
2 acts"?
3 A We've highlighted it in a lot of complaints. There's been
4 several violations of the Advisers Act.
5 MR. MORRIS: Move to strike, Your Honor. It's a
6 legal conclusion.
7 THE COURT: Sustained.
8 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
9 Q Mr. Dondero, are you familiar with an entity known as NHF?
10 A Yes.
11 Q What is NHF?
12 A A NexPoint hedge fund. It was a closed-in fund that we 13 manage still to this day at NexPoint. The name has changed to 14 NXDT.
15 Q Was NHF publicly traded?
16 A It -- yeah, it's a publicly-traded equity. It's a closed-
17 in fund, technically, but it's a publicly-traded security.
18 Q What -- what is your affiliation with NHF?
19 A I'm the portfolio manager.
20 Q And, again, what are your responsibilities as the 21 portfolio manager?
22 A To optimize the portfolio and hopefully exceed investor
23 expectations.
24 Q Have you become aware that Stonehill was purchasing MGM
25 stock in the first quarter of 2021? And NHF?

1 A Yes. We believe -- we're able to demonstrate from
2 Bloomberg records, on the Bloomberg terminal, they show up as 3 holders and purchasers in the -- in the first few months of 4 2021.
5 Q What magnitude?
6 A I think it was one of their top equity positions. It was
7 about six million bucks.
8 MR. MCENTIRE: Can you put up the chart? This is for 9 demonstrative purposes only.
10 I'm not offering this chart into evidence, Your Honor.
11 It's simply a demonstration. Or a demonstrative.
12 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, there's no such thing.
13 MR. MCENTIRE: There is.
14 MR. MORRIS: A demonstrative has to be based on 15 evidence. A demonstrative is supposed to summarize evidence.
16 You don't put up a demonstrative until --
17 THE COURT: All right. What's your response to that?
18 MR. MCENTIRE: That I'm about to walk through some 19 points where he can establish as a point of evidence, and then
20 we can talk about it. Demonstratives, demonstratives are used
21 all the time, Your Honor.
22 MR. MORRIS: It's to --
23 THE COURT: Well, they summarize evidence.
24 MR. MORRIS: It's to summarize evidence.
25 THE COURT: Yes. So, --

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, this is --
2 THE COURT: -- you can elicit the evidence, and then
3 if this chart seems to summarize whatever he testifies as to,
4 then --
5 MR. MCENTIRE: All right.
6 THE COURT: -- then I think maybe you can put it up.
7 MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. -- you can take it down, Tim.
8 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
9 Q Mr. Dondero, do you have an understanding of how much
10 total distributions have been paid to date in the Highland
11 bankruptcy?
12 A I believe the Class 8 -- the 1 through 7 was only about 13 $10 million. I believe Class 8 got $260 or $270 million so 14 far.
15 Q All right. And do you have an understanding of what the 16 total amount of expenses are?
17 A Total expenses paid to date was $203 million. $205
18 million.
19 Q So the -- the -- there's a rough approximation between the 20 professional expenses and the actual all proofs of claim; is 21 that correct?
22 A There is, yeah, a ratio, and -- yes.
23 Q The total cash flow, if you add those two together, what 24 are they? What are they approximately?
25 A $470 million.

1 Q $470 million? And do you understand that the -- that the
2 Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trust would have more than 3 sufficient assets to reach Class 10 where Hunter Mountain is
4 currently located, even setting aside the claims against you?
5 A Correct. There's $57 million of cash on the balance
6 sheet, net of a couple million today, I guess. And then
7 there's $100 million of other assets.
8 MR. MCENTIRE: Reserve the rest of my questions.
9 Reserve the rest of my questions, Your Honor.
10 THE COURT: Okay. Pass the witness.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: Could I have my time estimate?
12 THE COURT: Yes. Caroline?
13 THE CLERK: (faintly) As of right now, we are at 81
14 minutes, so --
15 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.
16 THE COURT: That was 81 minutes total?
17 THE CLERK: Yes.
18 THE COURT: Okay.
19 MR. MORRIS: May I proceed, Your Honor?
20 THE COURT: You may.
21 CROSS-EXAMINATION
22 BY MR. MORRIS:
23 Q Good afternoon, Mr. Dondero.
24 A Good to see you.
25 Q My pleasure. Do you know an attorney named Ronak

1 (phonetic) Patel?
2 A Is that Rakhee that they call --
3 Q Could be. Do you know an attorney named Rakhee Patel?
4 A There was a Rakhee Patel, I believe, early in the Acis
5 case.
6 Q Let me try --
7 A I'm not -- I've never met her.
8 Q Let me try this differently.
9 A Okay.
10 Q Did you ever meet with the Texas State Securities Board?
11 A No.
12 Q Did anybody acting on your behalf ever file a complaint
13 with the Texas State Securities Board?
14 A No.
15 Q Do you know if anybody's filed a complaint with the Texas
16 State Securities Board? About Highland?
17 A I believe you covered it earlier. Mark Patrick.
18 Q Mark Patrick what?
19 A I guess he did, or Hunter Mountain did, or the DAF did. I
20 don't -- I don't know.
21 Q Did you ever speak with Mark Patrick about a TSSB
22 investigation of Highland?
23 A No.
24 Q Okay. Why do you think Mark Patrick knows about the TSSB
25 investigation of Highland?

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection to form. Calls for
2 speculation. He's just established that he's never --
3 THE WITNESS: I don't know.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: -- talked to Mark Patrick.
5 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
6 THE COURT: Okay. Sustained.
7 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
8 BY MR. MORRIS:
9 Q Have you ever seen the draft Hunter Mountain complaint in 10 this case?
11 A No.
12 Q Okay. I think you testified a moment ago that Amazon had 13 hit MGM's price by December 17th. Do I have that right?
14 A Yes.
15 Q Okay. Then how come you didn't say that in your email to
16 Mr. Seery?
17 A Your best practices and typical practices, when you put it
18 on the restricted list, is to just give as little information
19 as possible so that the inside information isn't promulgated
20 specifically throughout the organization and leaked --
21 Q So, --
22 A -- throughout the organization.
23 Q So, even though your intent was to convey information to 24 Mr. Seery, you didn't actually tell him the truth, right? You
25 didn't tell him that Amazon had actually hit the stock price.

1 Right?
2 A I wouldn't characterize it that way.
3 Q Okay. In fact, all you told him was that they were
4 interested. Isn't that right?
5 A I wasn't telling him anything. I was telling Compliance,
6 as an investment professional, that it needed to be on the 7 restricted list because we were in possession of material
8 nonpublic information regarding a merger that was going to go
9 through shortly. Or in the next few months.
10 Q Is it your testimony that, as of December 17th, Amazon had 11 made an offer that was acceptable to MGM?
12 A Yeah, we were going into -- that's what the board meeting
13 was. We were going into exclusive negotiations to culminate
14 the merger with them.
15 Q Okay. I think you have a binder there of our exhibits.
16 If you can go to #11.
17 A Which one?
18 MR. MORRIS: May I approach?
19 THE WITNESS: Sure.
20 (Pause.)
21 BY MR. MORRIS:
22 Q That's your email, sir, right?
23 A Yes.
24 Q Okay. It doesn't say anything about Amazon hitting the 25 price, right?

1 A It doesn't need to.
2 Q In fact, it still mentions Apple, doesn't it? Why did you
3 feel the need to mention Apple if Amazon had already hit the 4 price?
5 A The only way you generally get something done at 6 attractive levels in business is if two people are interested.
7 Q But why weren't you -- why were you creating a story for 8 the Compliance Department when the whole idea was to be
9 transparent so they would understand what was happening? Why
10 would you create a story that differed from the facts?
11 A It didn't differ from the facts, and it's not a story.
12 It's a, we have material nonpublic information. Please put 13 this on the restricted list. And --
14 Q But that -- but you said Amazon and Apple are actively 15 diligencing and they're in the data room. Do you see that?
16 A That's true.
17 Q So, even though -- you know what, I'll move on. But this
18 -- this doesn't say what you testified to earlier, that Apple
19 hit the -- that Amazon hit the price. Right? Can we just 20 agree on that?
21 A Well, agree that it doesn't have to and it's not supposed
22 to.
23 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike. I just want --
24 THE COURT: Sustained.
25 BY MR. MORRIS:

1 Q -- you to -- I want you to just work with me here. You
2 did not tell the Compliance Department that Apple -- that
3 Amazon had hit the strike price. Right? Isn't that correct?
4 That's not what this email says?
5 A The -- you can pull up a hundred of these type emails.
6 They're not specific.
7 MR. MORRIS: I'm going to move to strike and I'm just 8 going to ask you, --
9 THE COURT: Sustained.
10 BY MR. MORRIS:
11 Q -- because you testified to one thing, and I just want to
12 make clear that you told the Compliance Department something
13 different. Can we just agree on that?
14 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, may I respond to his 15 motions to strike? I think he's becoming argumentative.
16 THE COURT: Could you speak into the mic, --
17 MR. MCENTIRE: I can.
18 THE COURT: -- please.
19 THE COURT: He's becoming argumentative. And I think
20 it's very clear that, if he asks a question, the witness has a
21 right to respond. I think his answers are totally responsive.
22 And I don't think anything should be struck.
23 THE COURT: Okay. Your question was you didn't put 24 in there anything about it hit the strike price --
25 MR. MORRIS: He didn't --

1 THE COURT: -- or whatever?
2 MR. MORRIS: He didn't -- he didn't tell the
3 Compliance Department what he just testified to. In fact, he
4 told the Compliance Department something very different.
5 That's all I'm asking.
6 THE COURT: And I think that's just a yes or no.
7 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
8 BY MR. MORRIS:
9 Q Yes or no? You told the Compliance Department something
10 different than what was actually happening?
11 A That's not true.
12 Q Oh.
13 A Exactly what was here, what was happening. I didn't give 14 more detail, which is more hearsay.
15 Q Okay. If somebody was filing -- following the Highland
16 bankruptcy, they would have known that MGM was very important,
17 right?
18 A You'd have to show me where. I don't -- I don't see it in 19 any of the bankruptcy --
20 Q You don't think that that's true?
21 A I didn't see it in any of the public filings.
22 Q Do you remember we were here two years ago on this very
23 day, June 8, 2021, for the second contempt hearing? You sat
24 in that very witness box during the second contempt hearing?
25 Remember that? That was two years ago.

1 A I remember sitting in the box. What are you asking?
2 Q And do you remember that that was just a few days after
3 MGM had announced its deal with Amazon?
4 A I -- I don't remember -- I -- was that the day the judge
5 was hopeful that would lead to a resolution of the case?
6 Q Exactly. So, --
7 A Okay.
8 Q -- Judge Jernigan certainly knew that MGM was important.
9 Right?
10 A Yes.
11 Q And she's a bankruptcy judge, right?
12 A Yes.
13 Q And she was overseeing the bankruptcy case, right?
14 Correct?
15 A Yes.
16 Q And the very first thing when she walked in the door two
17 years ago on this day was, oh my goodness, MGM, they have a
18 deal, maybe we can finally get to a settlement. Right?
19 A And I wish she had pushed on that.
20 Q Do you --
21 A And I remember you guys dismissing it.
22 Q Do you think she had material nonpublic inside
23 information?
24 A No, I don't think so.
25 Q She probably learned it in the bankruptcy case, right?

1 A Yeah.
2 Q Okay. Do you believe Mr. Seery sold any MGM securities
3 between the day you sent your email and the day the Amazon
4 deal was announced on May 26th?
5 A I don't know.
6 Q Do you -- so you have no knowledge? Let's do this a
7 different way. You have no basis to say that Mr. Seery sold
8 any MGM securities between the moment you sent this email on 9 December 17th and the day the Amazon deal was announced on May 10 26th. Correct?
11 A I'm sorry. Just to clarify, you're saying sold, not 12 bought, right? You're not asking me if --
13 Q I'll do either way.
14 A Okay.
15 Q Fair point.
16 A Sure.
17 Q Very fair point.
18 A Okay.
19 Q Do you believe that Mr. Seery engaged in any transactions
20 of MGM securities between those two relevant data points?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Okay. What do you think he did?
23 A The HarbourVest transaction.
24 Q Okay. So, you learned about the HarbourVest transaction
25 when?

1 A When it was filed.
2 Q And that was on December 23rd. Do you remember that?
3 A Yes.
4 Q It was just less than a week after you sent your email,
5 right?
6 A Yes.
7 Q And do you remember that you filed an objection to the 8 HarbourVest settlement?
9 A Yes.
10 Q And you're the one who gave Mr. Seery this material
11 nonpublic inside information, right?
12 A Yes.
13 Q Did you object to the HarbourVest settlement on the basis
14 that Mr. Seery was engaging in insider trading?
15 A Not then, I don't think. I believe --
16 Q You didn't, right? Even though it was happening at the 17 exact same moment, the very -- within a week of you giving him
18 this information. He's announcing that he's doing this 19 settlement and you don't say a word. Isn't that right?
20 A Because I delegated the responsibility to Compliance by 21 notifying them of material nonpublic information, and 22 Compliance should hold the organization accountable.
23 Compliance is separate and discrete from management.
24 Compliance reports to the SEC.
25 Q You filed a 15-page objection to the settlement, didn't

1 you?
2 A I don't -- I don't know.
3 Q Did you tell Judge Jernigan that Mr. Seery was doing bad?
4 A Not then. I think a month later, two months later.
5 Q Even though you knew what was happening, you didn't say
6 anything, right?
7 A I -- I'm not responsible for all the filings. I --
8 Q Even though it's under your name?
9 A Correct.
10 Q How about -- how about CLO Holdco? Did CLO Holdco file an 11 objection to the HarbourVest settlement?
12 A I -- I don't know which entities did, but it -- whatever
13 entities that were in control that could did, eventually, when 14 they found out, you know, and -- but did -- did they, within a 15 week or contemporaneously? No. It was right around the 16 holidays. A lot of people weren't paying attention. You guys
17 were trying to rush the HarbourVest thing through.
18 Q Sir, CLO Holdco filed an objection, claiming that it was
19 entitled to purchase the HarbourVest interests in HCLOF
20 because it had a right of first refusal, right? Isn't that
21 right?
22 A Okay. I -- what ultimately governs the --
23 Q Isn't that right?
24 A I don't -- okay.
25 Q It's really just yes or no.

1 A I don't know.
2 Q If you don't remember, that's fine.
3 A I don't remember, yeah.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, would he please give the 5 witness an opportunity to answer? He's interrupted three 6 times in less than five seconds. Give the witness an 7 opportunity to respond.
8 MR. MORRIS: This is real easy stuff.
9 THE COURT: Okay.
10 MR. MORRIS: I'm trying to cross him here.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, with all due respect, he's 12 making it very difficult because he's being very aggressive --
13 MR. MORRIS: Nah.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: -- and he's interrupting the witness.
15 MR. MORRIS: I would never.
16 THE COURT: Okay. I don't feel the need to do that 17 right now, but I will -- I will consider your request.
18 THE WITNESS: Can I give a complete answer to his 19 last question, or one that I'd like to be my answer on the 20 record?
21 THE COURT: Go ahead.
22 THE WITNESS: The governing responsibility as a
23 registered investment advisor is you're not allowed to buy
24 back from investors fund interests or investments unless you
25 offer it to everybody else, in writing, in that fund first.

1 That's the Investment Advisers Act as I understand it, and
2 that is what was improper in the HarbourVest transaction. I
3 mean, besides the fact that the pricing was wrong, they misled
4 HarbourVest. And I know HarbourVest hasn't complained, but 5 just because your investors don't complain doesn't mean you
6 can rip them off.
7 MR. MORRIS: I'd really move to strike the entirety
8 of the answer, Your Honor.
9 THE COURT: Granted.
10 BY MR. MORRIS:
11 Q Mr. Dondero, HC --
12 A I'm not going to -- I'm not answering any more questions
13 unless I can answer that question with that answer, --
14 Q Mr. Dondero, do you --
15 A -- because I believe it's responsive.
16 Q Do you remember that CLO Holdco withdrew their objection?
17 A I --
18 Q To the HarbourVest settlement?
19 A I don't remember.
20 Q Do you remember that's really when Grant Scott left the 21 scene?
22 A I don't --
23 Q He thought it was inappropriate for them to withdraw,
24 right?
25 A I don't remember all the details. I know they made some

1 mistakes, and there's a tolling agreement against Kane's
2 (phonetic) firm for making mistakes, and, you know, whatever.
3 But I -- I don't remember all the details.
4 Q And a couple of months later, you conspired with Mr.
5 Patrick to try to sue Mr. Seery in order to try to get that
6 very same interest in HCLOF, right?
7 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I have to object. There's 8 no foundation and it's also highly argumentative and I move to 9 object. That's a -- that's a question asked in bad faith.
10 THE WITNESS: I deny any conspiring.
11 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
12 THE COURT: Sustained.
13 BY MR. MORRIS:
14 Q In April, Mr. Patrick filed a lawsuit on behalf of CLO
15 Holdco a couple of weeks after getting appointed as the head
16 of CLO Holdco and the DAF about the HarbourVest settlement.
17 Isn't that right?
18 A I believe so.
19 Q Okay. And you worked with him on that, right?
20 A I -- I did not work with him on that. I was very just 21 tangentially aware.
22 Q Okay.
23 MR. MORRIS: I'm just going to refer the Court -- I'm 24 going to move for the admission into evidence of the second
25 contempt order.

1 THE COURT: Exhibit what?
2 MR. MORRIS: Just one moment, Your Honor.
3 (Pause.)
4 MR. MORRIS: You know what, I don't know that I have
5 it on the list. I'm just going to ask the Court to take
6 judicial notice. We had a hearing two years ago to this day,
7 and the Court found in the order that it entered at the 8 conclusion of that hearing that Mr. Patrick had abdicated his 9 responsibility to Mr. Seery. It's one of the reasons why Mr.
10 Seery wasn't held in contempt of Court. And I'd like -- I'd 11 like Counsel to address it now.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah, I'll -- you said Seery, didn't
13 you?
14 MR. MORRIS: Oh, sorry. I said Seery. I meant
15 Dondero.
16 MR. MCENTIRE: (faintly) Also, I believe it's 17 entirely irrelevant. Judicial -- taking judicial --
18 THE COURT: Would you speak in the microphone,
19 please?
20 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm sorry. Taking judicial notice of 21 something that is utterly irrelevant is not necessary, not 22 appropriate. What this Court did two years ago roughly to the 23 day -- and I assume he's correct -- has no bearing on anything
24 before the Court today. Nothing. This has zero connection, 25 nexus, under any analysis, any fair scrutiny, dealing with the

1 colorability of the claim that Hunter Mountain, who was not
2 involved in those proceedings, is trying to advance here. And
3 it would be -- it would be improper for this Court to even
4 take it under judicial notice.
5 THE COURT: Okay. Response?
6 MR. MORRIS: Can I respond?
7 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
8 MR. MORRIS: Okay. So, Your Honor, I'm going to move
9 for the introduction into evidence of Exhibit 45. It is the 10 Charitable DAF complaint that was filed in the federal
11 district court on April 12, 2021, under the direction of Mark
12 Patrick, who today stands here as the representative of Hunter
13 Mountain.
14 This was the complaint, if Your Honor will recall, that 15 they tried to amend and we had a hearing here about the 16 circumstances, because that amendment was going to name Mr.
17 Seery personally, in violation of the gatekeeper order.
18 Right?
19 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
20 MR. MORRIS: And so it is all tied together. If you
21 go to Paragraph 77 of this exhibit, it says, HCLOF holds
22 equity in MGM Studio. This is the exact same transaction,
23 right? So, so Mr. Dondero says, I gave Mr. Seery inside
24 information, he violated all of these things in the 25 HarbourVest transaction, even though he didn't say a word

1 then, and here, while it's still on the restricted list,
2 before the Amazon deal is announced, they're actually in court
3 saying that they should be entitled to acquire that same asset
4 that Mr. Seery supposedly acquired improperly. He wants it
5 for himself.
6 I mean, are you kidding me? It's not relevant?
7 THE COURT: I overrule the relevance objection. It's
8 admitted.
9 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. And 45 is admitted, Your
10 Honor?
11 THE COURT: 45 is admitted.
12 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
13 (Debtors' Exhibit 45 is received into evidence.)
14 MR. MCENTIRE: Just, Your Honor, I was identifying my 15 objection in connection with his original request that you
16 take something under --
17 THE COURT: Would you speak in the microphone?
18 Again, we --
19 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. My original objection was 20 addressing his request of you, Your Honor, to take something
21 under judicial notice. I want to make sure my objection is 22 also lodged with regard to Exhibit 45, which I understand
23 you've overruled.
24 THE COURT: Correct.
25 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

1 THE COURT: It is so noted.
2 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
3 THE COURT: You've objected and I've admitted it.
4 MR. MORRIS: And I think I've said this already, but 5 the reason that we're requesting the Court take judicial 6 notice of its order on the second contempt proceeding is 7 because it shows that Mr. Dondero and Mr. Patrick worked
8 together, in violation of the gatekeeper, to try to suit Mr.
9 Seery to obtain the interest in HCLOF that he is sitting here
10 today saying somehow that Mr. Seery wrongfully acquired, even 11 though he didn't say a word at the time.
12 THE COURT: Okay. So now we're talking about not
13 Exhibit 45 --
14 MR. MORRIS: Yes.
15 THE COURT: -- but the order that was entered --
16 MR. MORRIS: Correct.
17 THE COURT: -- regarding the filing of Exhibit 45?
18 MR. MORRIS: Exactly.
19 THE COURT: Someone is going to need to give me a
20 docket entry number before we're done here.
21 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
22 THE COURT: I can and will take judicial notice of 23 that, but I need to have it --
24 MR. MCENTIRE: So I assume, for the record, my 25 objection is overruled?

1 THE COURT: Your objection is overruled.
2 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.
3 MR. MORRIS: All right.
4 BY MR. MORRIS:
5 Q You mentioned something about, I think, was it NXDT or
6 NHF?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And just let me see if I can do it this way. Right? So
9 there used to be a fund known as the NexPoint Strategic 10 Opportunities Fund, right?
11 A Yes.
12 Q Okay. And in 2020 that was a closed-in fund. Correct?
13 A Yes.
14 Q And it traded under the ticker symbol NHF, correct?
15 A Yes.
16 Q And then late in 2021 the name of the fund was changed to 17 NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust, correct?
18 A Yes.
19 Q And the ticker symbol changed from NHF to NXDT, correct?
20 A Yes.
21 Q And then it became a REIT the following year, right?
22 A Yes.
23 Q And I'm just going to refer to these letters as the Fund;
24 is that fair?
25 A That's fine.

1 Q For purposes of these questions. And you were the Fund's
2 portfolio manager, the president, the principal executive
3 officer, correct?
4 A Yes.
5 Q And another entity that you controlled, NexPoint Advisors,
6 provided advisory services to the Fund, correct?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And you controlled NexPoint Advisors at all times,
9 correct?
10 A Yes.
11 Q Okay. And the Fund was publicly traded, right?
12 A Yes.
13 Q And the Fund owned shares of MGM at the end of 19 -- at 14 the end of 2020, correct?
15 A Yes.
16 Q In fact, as of December 2020, MGM was one of the Fund's
17 ten largest holdings, with -- valued at over $25 million.
18 Isn't that right?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And by the end of 2021, MGM was the Fund's fifth largest 21 holding, with assets -- with a value of over $40 million.
22 Correct?
23 A Yes.
24 Q And the Fund also held MGM common stock indirectly; isn't
25 that right?

1 A Yes.
2 Q In fact, when the Amazon deal closed at the -- in March of
3 2022, the Fund issued a press release disclosing that it stood
4 to receive over $125 million on the MGM shares that it held
5 directly and indirectly. Correct?
6 A We issued several press releases. I don't remember --
7 Q Okay. Do you remember that, that as a result of the MGM
8 sale, the Fund was expected to receive approximately $126
9 million?
10 A Yes.
11 Q Okay.
12 A Roughly.
13 Q All right. In October 2020, just a few weeks before you
14 sent your email, the Fund announced the commencement of a
15 tender offer to acquire outstanding shares at a certain price.
16 Correct?
17 A Yeah, I believe so.
18 Q And you authorized that, right?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And when a fund acquires shares and then retires them, the 21 shareholders who did not tender consequently own a larger
22 percentage of the fund than they did before the tender,
23 correct?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Okay. And the tender was completed in January, in the

1 first week of January 2001 [sic], correct?
2 A I don't remember when it was complete.
3 Q It started at the end of October 2020, and it ended
4 sometime in January '21. Is that fair?
5 A Okay. I don't remember. Okay.
6 Q Do you want me to refresh your recollection?
7 A I'm just saying I don't remember.
8 Q Yeah, okay.
9 A I'm not dis...
10 Q Okay.
11 A -- denying it. I just don't remember the exact dates.
12 (Discussion.)
13 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can I mark for 14 identification purposes Plaintiffs' Exhibit -- I'm just going
15 to call it 100, to see if it refreshes the witness's
16 recollection?
17 THE COURT: You may mark it.
18 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
19 THE COURT: We'll see where it goes from there.
20 (Debtors' Exhibit 100 is marked for identification.)
21 BY MR. MORRIS:
22 Q So, I've put --
23 MR. MCENTIRE: Hold it. Your Honor, I think we're 24 now marking exhibits that we haven't put on an exhibit list.
25 MR. MORRIS: I'm trying to refresh his recollection.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.
2 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --
4 THE COURT: Yes.
5 MR. MORRIS: Okay? I haven't offered it in -- I
6 haven't offered it --
7 THE COURT: I've not admitted -- I don't know what it
8 is. I haven't admitted it yet. I'm waiting.
9 MR. MORRIS: I haven't offered it into evidence. He 10 said he doesn't remember, --
11 THE COURT: Okay.
12 MR. MORRIS: -- I've got an SEC document here, and 13 I'm going to try and refresh his recollection.
14 THE COURT: Okay.
15 BY MR. MORRIS:
16 Q You're familiar with these forms, right?
17 A Generally.
18 Q In fact, in fact, you sign them in your capacity as the 19 fund portfolio manager, right? Your signature is put on it,
20 anyway?
21 A Generally.
22 Q Yeah. And do you see that this is the Form N-CSR that was 23 filed with the SEC at the end of 2001 [sic] on behalf of 24 NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust?
25 A Yes.

1 Q Okay. So if you just turn to Page 16. And the numbers
2 are kind of at the bottom in the middle of the page. You'll
3 see the notes to the consolidated financial statements.
4 A Yes.
5 Q Okay. And Note 1 discusses the organization. Do you see
6 that?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And at the bottom of the left-hand column, it says, On 9 January 8, 2021, the company announced the final result of its 10 exchange offer pursuant to which the company purchased the 11 company's outstanding -- the company's common shares in 12 exchange for certain consideration.
13 Do you see that?
14 A Yes.
15 Q That's a reference to the tender offer that you authorized
16 at the end of October, correct?
17 A Yes.
18 Q And then at the bottom it says, The company share --
19 company -- excuse me. I strike that. It says, quote, The 20 common shares at a price of $12 per common share, for an
21 aggregate purchase price of approximately $125 -- $105
22 million. Upon retirement of the repurchased shares, the net
23 asset value was $152 million, or $17.41 million.
24 Do you see that?
25 A Yes.

1 Q Does that refresh your recollection that the tender offer
2 was completed at the beginning of January?
3 A Yes.
4 Q And that's with all of the MGM stock that the Fund still
5 owned at that time, right?
6 A Yeah. We -- we didn't -- we didn't violate --
7 Q You didn't --
8 A We didn't -- we didn't violate like Seery did. We didn't
9 sell any shares or buy shares.
10 Q Okay.
11 MR. MORRIS: I'm going to move to strike that, Your
12 Honor.
13 THE COURT: So granted.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, I've actually got a 15 response to his motion to strike. This entire inquiry is 16 irrelevant.
17 MR. MORRIS: Not --
18 MR. MCENTIRE: This has no relevance at all in 19 connection with the allegations that we're making in this 20 case.
21 THE COURT: Your response?
22 MR. MORRIS: My response, Your Honor, if you ask me
23 -- let me just get a few more questions. He personally owned
24 shares in the Fund. The Fund owned shares in MGM. And 25 notwithstanding the restricted material, this is the insider,

1 and he is benefiting from himself through the Fund's
2 repurchase of these shares in the tender offer, and he went
3 and he had substantial holdings. I'll get to that in a
4 minute.
5 So he is actually doing something worse than what Mr.
6 Seery -- what he accuses Mr. Seery of, because he's buying
7 shares for his own personal benefit. Right? He's the 8 insider. Right? And the Fund owns the shares directly.
9 There's never going to be an allegation that HCLOF ever owned
10 any MGM stock. Never.
11 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to allow this.
12 Obviously, on redirect, you can further question on this --
13 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --
14 THE COURT: -- to --
15 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, his suggestions
16 and his accusations are purely argumentative.
17 THE COURT: Would you please speak in the microphone?
18 We --
19 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, he's standing in the way, Your
20 Honor.
21 THE COURT: Well, --
22 MR. MCENTIRE: It's irrelevant.
23 THE COURT: There are two. There's room for both of
24 you.
25 Continue. Go ahead.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: It's entirely irrelevant, and it's
2 argumentative.
3 THE COURT: Okay. Overruled. You can continue.
4 BY MR. MORRIS:
5 Q You did own an awful lot of the Fund's shares, didn't you?
6 A I owned some.
7 Q You owned some? You owned millions, right?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay. And as a result of the tender, you owned a greater
10 interest of the Fund, right?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And therefore you owned a greater number -- a greater
13 portion of the MGM stock, the $125 million of MGM stock that 14 was owned directly and indirectly by the Fund, correct?
15 A You do know insiders weren't permitted to participate in 16 the tender, which would have kept my percentage the same.
17 Q Sir, you benefitted -- you didn't stop the tender, right?
18 You didn't say, now I know what's going to happen, I should 19 stop it? You benefitted from the tender. Can we just agree 20 on that?
21 A I did everything I was supposed to do, notifying
22 Compliance. If they thought it was material, they would have 23 -- it was in their hands once I notified Compliance of the 24 material --
25 Q Okay.

1 A -- nonpublic information.
2 Q I appreciate that. I just want --
3 A It wasn't my responsibility to do Compliance's job to call
4 you or call --
5 Q Okay.
6 A -- the SEC or call anybody else.
7 Q But you will agree that, even though you had material
8 nonpublic inside information, you didn't take any steps to 9 stop the tender, correct?
10 A The tender was for a relatively small amount of the stock.
11 But I did -- I would -- it would not be my responsibility to 12 change or adjust the tender --
13 Q Okay.
14 A -- or what was happening.
15 Q Okay. And then the last question is, you benefitted from 16 the tender because the Fund repurchased shares, which 17 increased your percentage ownership of the Fund, and therefore 18 your percentage ownership of the MGM shares that were held
19 directly and indirectly. Is that fair?
20 A Marginally, I guess. Yes.
21 Q Okay. From the -- from the millions of shares, you would 22 describe it as marginal? Okay.
23 Let me move on. You've testified now that you spoke with 24 representatives of Farallon in the late spring, I guess
25 beginning on May 28th. Right?

1 A Yes.
2 Q And that was two days after the MGM deal was publicly
3 announced, correct?
4 A Yes.
5 Q Okay. And had you ever communicated with Mr. Patel before
6 that phone call?
7 A I don't believe so.
8 Q And then you spoke with Mr. Linn shortly after?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Had you ever spoken with Mr. Linn before that phone call
11 with Mr. Linn?
12 A I don't believe so.
13 Q So these phone calls were the very first time that you
14 ever spoke to either one of these gentlemen. Is that right?
15 A That I can remember.
16 Q Okay.
17 A If I ran into them at --
18 Q Uh-huh.
19 A -- a conference a decade ago, I don't know, but --
20 Q And they told you that they bought the shares in the 21 February-March time frame, right?
22 A Yes.
23 Q And you have no reason to dispute that, correct?
24 A Correct.
25 Q Okay. And you didn't know how much they had paid for the

1 claims as a result of these conversations, correct?
2 A They did not admit a price.
3 Q Okay. And it's your testimony that there wasn't
4 sufficient information in the public for them to buy -- this
5 is your view -- that there wasn't sufficient information in 6 the public to justify their purchases. Is that your view?
7 A Correct.
8 Q And even though you didn't think there was sufficient
9 information in the public, you were prepared to pay 30 percent
10 more than they did, right?
11 A Yes.
12 Q And is that because you were 30 percent more irrational
13 than them or because you had material nonpublic inside
14 information?
15 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Argumentative, Your Honor.
16 THE COURT: Overruled.
17 THE WITNESS: Even at a 30 percent premium, it was 18 less than I offered the UCC several months earlier, number
19 one.
20 Number two, I was still under the illusion there was a
21 desire to resolve the place, not burn it down. You know,
22 there was -- all the original members were happy to sell at 23 $150 million. It was a $500 or $600 million estate. There
24 should be $400 or $500 million of residual value. It
25 shouldn't all be going out the door to lawyers and others.

1 BY MR. MORRIS:
2 Q You were willing to pay 30 percent more for an unknown
3 purchase price, 30 percent more of an unknown purchase price,
4 at a moment that you didn't believe there was sufficient
5 information to buy the claims, correct?
6 A You have a couple misstatements in there. The Grosvenor
7 piece was public. The Grosvenor piece traded at $67 million.
8 So we knew that piece trade at around 50 cents. We knew from 9 people in the marketplace the other pieces were trading right
10 around that level.
11 So I wasn't just offering 30 percent on any willy-nilly
12 number, 130 percent of any willy-nilly number. I knew they
13 had paid around 50, 60 cents. And so I was offering 30
14 percent more than that. Thirty percent more than $150
15 million, call it $200 million. I had offered $230 or $240
16 million to resolve the whole estate before the plan went
17 effective, and I got no response from the original UCC
18 members.
19 Q So why didn't you just try to settle the case with them?
20 Why did you try to buy the claim? Why, if you had these new 21 people, and your good intentions were to finally get to a
22 settlement of the case, why didn't you say, hey, guys, how do
23 we resolve the case? Why did you want to buy the claims at a
24 30 percent premium over what they paid with no knowledge and 25 no diligence, according to you? Can you explain that to Judge

1 Jernigan?
2 A Because Seery told them to hold on, don't worry, they were
3 going to make $270 million.
4 Q That doesn't answer my question. Why didn't you try --
5 you had new owners. Why didn't you try to settle with them?
6 A When someone owns an asset, buying their asset is settling
7 with them. What claim does Farallon have against us? At that
8 point, they had no claims against us.
9 Q It doesn't settle the case, does it?
10 A But if we owned all the claims, it would settle the case.
11 Just like if Seery had objected to the claims trading that 12 they were supposed to give written notice to the Court, he had 13 enough cash on the balance sheet to buy and retire all the 14 claims.
15 Q All right. Let's go back, I apologize, to that Exhibit
16 11. No, it's not Exhibit 11. I think it's their Exhibit 4,
17 your notes.
18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I have -- just have one
19 moment?
20 THE COURT: You may.
21 MR. MORRIS: Can you tell me how long I've been 22 going? That's really my question.
23 THE CLERK: So, on cross, --
24 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
25 THE CLERK: -- you've been going for 32 minutes.

1 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Trying to speed this up.
2 BY MR. MORRIS:
3 Q All right. So, do we have your handwritten notes, which
4 are Exhibit 4, in this binder? Oh.
5 THE COURT: Do you want to put it up again on the 6 screen?
7 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, if you're listening and you
8 can do that, that would be great. If not, --
9 (Discussion.)
10 MS. CANTY: One second, John.
11 MR. MORRIS: All right. He -- he's got it.
12 THE COURT: Okay.
13 BY MR. MORRIS:
14 Q Okay. So, I just -- I just want to make -- you know,
15 follow up on a few questions I asked you earlier on voir dire.
16 So, these are your notes, right, and you said you write down
17 the important stuff. Correct?
18 A I write down, yeah, the stuff I thought I would need for 19 the next call.
20 Q Okay. And, you know, again, just so we have it all in one
21 spot, it doesn't say anything about MGM. Correct?
22 A It does not.
23 Q It doesn't say anything about a quid pro quo, correct?
24 A Quid pro? Uh, no, it does not.
25 Q It doesn't say anything at all about Mr. Seery's

1 compensation, correct?
2 A It does not.
3 Q It doesn't say anything about the sharing of material
4 nonpublic inside information, correct?
5 A When I told them discovery was coming, that was my
6 response to I knew they had traded on material nonpublic
7 information.
8 Q Okay. That -- you told them that?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Is that what you're saying now?
11 A Yes.
12 Q Oh, so that's what you told them? They didn't tell you
13 that; that's what you told them?
14 A Yes.
15 Q And that's why you wanted discovery, right?
16 A I thought it would be a lot easier to get discovery on a
17 situation like this than it has been for the last two years,
18 yes.
19 Q Okay. Um, --
20 A In fact, I told them that it would be coming in the next
21 few weeks. And this has been a couple years.
22 Q And that's exactly what you did, right?
23 A Well, we've been trying for two years to get --
24 Q Right.
25 A -- discovery in this.

1 Q Okay. So you filed your Texas 202, right?
2 A I don't know who filed what.
3 Q That was the one by Mr. Sbaiti that was filed under your
4 name? Do you remember that?
5 A Generally.
6 Q Okay. Let's take a quick look at that document. It's #3
7 in our binder.
8 A Binder #3?
9 (Discussion.)
10 MR. MORRIS: Okay. I think #3 is in evidence, Your
11 Honor.
12 THE WITNESS: Number 3 is in evidence.
13 THE COURT: Yes.
14 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
15 THE COURT: It is.
16 BY MR. MORRIS:
17 Q And if you can turn to the last page, Mr. Dondero. Page
18 8.
19 A Yes.
20 Q Okay. And that's your signature, right?
21 A Yes.
22 Q And you verified that this document was true and correct
23 within the best of your personal knowledge, correct?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Did you read it before you signed it?

1 A Probably.
2 Q You don't recall doing that?
3 A Not at this moment.
4 Q And you may not have. Is that fair?
5 A No, I probably did. Do you have a question?
6 Q I'm just wondering if you signed it or not.
7 A I did sign it.
8 Q Okay. Good. So, can you go to Paragraph 21? Well, let's
9 start at Paragraph 20. It says that Mr. Seery, quote, has an 10 age-old connection to Farallon, and upon information and 11 belief, advised Farallon to purchase the claims.
12 Do you see that?
13 A Yes.
14 Q And then the next paragraph you refer to the telephone
15 call that you had with Michael Linn, right?
16 A Yes.
17 Q It doesn't refer to any phone call with Mr. Patel,
18 correct?
19 A It does not.
20 Q And the only reason that you swore under oath you were 21 told that Farallon purchased the claims was because of 22 Farallon's, quote, prior dealings with Mr. Seery. Correct?
23 In Paragraph 21, it says, Relying entirely on Mr. Seery's
24 advice solely because of their prior dealings?
25 A Yes.

1 Q Okay. You didn't -- you didn't swear under oath at that
2 time that you were told that they bought the claims because of 3 MGM. Right?
4 A If you're asking if this is -- it seems like it's not
5 complete, if that's what you're asking me.
6 Q I'm not asking you that. I'm asking you what -- I'm
7 asking you to confirm that you swore under oath to the Texas
8 state court, just weeks after you had these conversations,
9 about what you were told concerning Farallon's purchase of the 10 claims.
11 I'm focused on Paragraph 21. The only reason that you
12 gave, that you told the Texas state court under oath, was that 13 Farallon told you they bought their claims because of their
14 prior dealings with Seery. Right?
15 A Yeah. And that's true. And that's consistent with what
16 I've said.
17 Q Okay. You didn't say anything about MGM, correct?
18 A Correct.
19 Q You didn't say anything about a quid pro quo, correct?
20 A Correct.
21 Q You didn't say anything about Mr. Seery's compensation.
22 Correct?
23 A I did not.
24 Q You didn't say anything about the sharing of material
25 nonpublic inside information, correct?

1 A Different document, different purposes.
2 Q Well, but that's now two documents. You have your notes
3 and you had this document, neither one of which say any of 4 those things. Fair?
5 A Different documents, different purposes. I don't know if 6 that's --
7 Q Is it fair that neither one of those documents say any of
8 those things?
9 A It's fair that they don't all match.
10 Q Okay. Okay. Well, that's a fair statement. Let's go to 11 the next one. Do you remember the next year you filed an 12 amended petition?
13 A What tab?
14 Q That's -- I appreciate that. It's Tab 4. Do you see at 15 the last page you've again signed a verification?
16 A Yep.
17 Q And do you see this one's filed with the Texas state court
18 on May 2, 2022?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And you swore under oath that this statement was complete,
21 true, and accurate to the best of your knowledge, correct?
22 A Yes.
23 Q Okay. Can you go to Page 5, please?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Directing your attention to Paragraph 23, do you see where

1 you say now that Farallon was relying, quote, on Mr. Seery's
2 say-so because they had made so much money in the past when
3 Mr. Seery told them to purchase claims.
4 Do you see that?
5 A Yes.
6 Q Again, you don't say anything about MGM, correct?
7 A Correct.
8 Q Again, you don't say anything about material nonpublic
9 inside information, correct?
10 A Well, on 24 it does. Right? Mr. Seery had inside
11 information on the price and value of claims. So, you've got 12 to look at all of the bullet points.
13 Q But that's not the paragraph where you're talking --
14 that's -- it says, in other words. That's not the paragraph
15 where you're describing your conversation with Farallon.
16 That's your interpretation of it, correct, just as you just
17 said?
18 A (no immediate response)
19 Q You told -- I'm sorry. I should let you finish the 20 answer. That's your interpretation of it, correct?
21 A Well, I'm reading all the bullets in aggregate, and it's 22 -- it's a picture of material information shared by Seery, not
23 just MGM or one particular investment, but on all the other
24 assets that aren't detailed in any of the public filings,
25 also.

1 Q The only -- the only point I want to make, I think we can
2 agree on this --
3 A Okay.
4 Q -- is that you believed that Mr. Seery gave them material
5 nonpublic inside information. Farallon never told you that.
6 Isn't that true? That's why you wanted discovery?
7 A They said they relied on him and did no diligence of their
8 own. They were very express -- explicit about that.
9 Q Okay. Can you answer my question now?
10 A Which -- I thought -- that does, --
11 Q You concluded --
12 A -- yes.
13 Q -- that Mr. Seery gave them material nonpublic inside
14 information. They never told you that. Fair?
15 A They said they relied on -- solely on Seery, didn't buy it 16 for any other reason, and they did no due diligence of their 17 own.
18 Q Okay. Let's go to the next one. Now, the no-due-
19 diligence part, that's not in any version we've seen, right?
20 That's something that you just --
21 A No, no, --
22 Q -- that you're just testifying to now? That's not in your 23 notes, it's not in Version 1, and it's not in this version,
24 correct?
25 A Well, let's go back to the Linn one, because when I was

1 going back and forth and he wouldn't give a price, he kept
2 saying, Seery told us it's worth a lot more. And I kept
3 saying, you've got to look at the burn, you've got to look at
4 the professionals. And --
5 Q Okay.
6 A -- that's --
7 Q Shortly after this, you filed yet another declaration,
8 right?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Uh-huh. Can you turn to #5? And this is another version
11 of your recollection of what you were told, correct? In 12 Paragraph 2?
13 A These are all -- I don't know why you're saying they're 14 different. They're all the same. They're just slightly
15 different verbiage. What's the major difference between any 16 of them?
17 Q I'll ask, I'll ask you the question. The question is, you
18 had never written in any of the prior versions that they 19 didn't do any due diligence; isn't that right? You never -- 20 you never talked about their due diligence in any prior 21 version, correct?
22 A It's all -- it's all the same version. I don't -- some 23 versions --
24 Q Can you answer my question?
25 A I don't know. I don't know --

1 Q Which --
2 A -- which ones included which -- I don't --
3 Q We've just looked at them. Do you want to look at them
4 again?
5 A I just looked at one page in the other one and it was five
6 pages. I just looked at the one page and I found two or three
7 things --
8 Q Your notes --
9 A -- it didn't include, but --
10 MR. MORRIS: You know what. I don't want to argue.
11 They say what they say, Your Honor, and I would ask the Court
12 to look carefully at our objection to the motion because we 13 lay all of this out.
14 Your Honor can -- here's the point, because I do want to 15 finish up right now. There are five different versions of 16 this conversation. They're laid out in the brief. And the 17 question that you have to ask yourself, Your Honor, is, if you
18 allow this case to go forward, how do they make a colorable
19 claim when the story keeps changing?
20 And I'll just leave it at that, because, you know, the 21 last version says MGM for the first time. Like, it comes out
22 of nowhere. This -- his notes don't say it, he hasn't 23 testified that that's what he was told, but somehow that's in 24 his sworn statement.
25 So I'm just going to rest on the papers, because this is

1 -- I don't want to be argumentative.
2 THE COURT: Okay.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I'll object to the argument of 4 counsel. He's just doing another opening statement here, and 5 it's inappropriate and not proper.
6 THE COURT: Okay. I agree. This is Q and A.
7 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
8 THE COURT: So, --
9 BY MR. MORRIS:
10 Q Do you know -- do you have any knowledge or information as 11 to how Mr. Seery's compensation was established?
12 A Uh, --
13 Q Withdrawn. I'm talking now not in his capacity as an 14 independent director or the CEO of the Debtor. I'm only
15 talking about in his capacity as the CEO of the Reorganized
16 Debtor and the Claimant Trustee. Do you have any personal
17 knowledge as to how his compensation was established?
18 A The knowledge I have is that the Claimant Trust gives full
19 latitude to change it at almost any time they want. Add more
20 to it, add more than that we've seen, double it in the future
21 if reserves are reversed. It can do anything it wants. And I
22 guess we've seen some redacted partial statements of his
23 compensation, but that's all I know.
24 Q Okay. You have no knowledge about how Mr. Seery's
25 compensation package was determined, correct?

1 A I was not involved.
2 Q Okay. You've never -- I'll just leave it at that.
3 MR. MORRIS: I have nothing further, Your Honor.
4 THE COURT: Okay. Pass the witness. I'm sorry, I
5 guess I should ask, do any of the other responding parties
6 have examination?
7 MR. STANCIL: No, Your Honor.
8 THE COURT: No? Okay. Redirect?
9 MR. MCENTIRE: Just very briefly, Your Honor.
10 THE COURT: Okay.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you, Your Honor.
12 REDIRECT EXAMINATION
13 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
14 Q Mr. Dondero, you remember the questions about Judge
15 Jernigan walking into the courtroom on June 8 two years ago
16 saying, MGM is sold, maybe we can settle this case? Do you
17 recall those questions?
18 A Yes.
19 Q And do you remember Mr. Morris's dramatic suggestion that,
20 well, how did Judge Jernigan know, or to that effect?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Well, that had already been announced, had it not,
23 publicly?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Several weeks before?

1 A Yes.
2 Q I'd like to direct your attention -- do you still have
3 Exhibit 4 that he handed you? Do you have Exhibit 4 there?
4 A Uh, --
5 Q His exhibit?
6 A Is that the notes?
7 Q No, it's -- Exhibit 4 is the verified amended petition to 8 take deposition before suit -- take -- in the state court. To 9 -- deposition.
10 A You've got to give me more of a clue. I'm sorry. There's 11 like six binders.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. Morris, can you show us where the
13 exhibit --
14 MR. MORRIS: Sure. Which one is it?
15 MR. MCENTIRE: It's Exhibit 4. I'm going to talk to 16 him about Exhibit 4 (inaudible) that you've have used with 17 this witness.
18 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
19 Q I assume -- Mr. Dondero, were you assuming from the tone
20 and the substantive content of his questions that Mr. Morris
21 is suggesting that your notes are not reliable?
22 A He was trying to make it seem like the versions were
23 different. They were all 90 percent the same. Different --
24 it seemed like different emphasis for different purposes. And 25 then you have to remember we learned more about Farallon and

1 Stonehill over time. Like, in the beginning, when I had --
2 when I -- we didn't even know Stonehill was involved when I --
3 Q Sure.
4 A -- first talked to -- when --
5 Q Well, he made the big suggestion about you never talked
6 about due diligence before. Turn to Exhibit 4, Paragraph 23,
7 which he did not address with you. Can you turn to Paragraph
8 23 of Exhibit 4? Mr. Morris omitted to refer you to this 9 particular paragraph.
10 A 23? Go ahead.
11 Q Would you read it into the record?
12 A (reading) On a telephone call between Petitioner and 13 Michael Linn, a representative of Farallon, Michael Linn
14 informed the Petitioner Farallon had purchased the claim
15 sight-unseen and with no due diligence, a hundred percent
16 relying on Mr. Seery's say-so, because they had made so much
17 in the past with Mr. -- when Mr. Seery had (overspoken).
18 Q Now, since you've an opportunity to see other paragraphs
19 and other -- that he was otherwise not selecting, you did
20 refer to the -- to what Mr. Linn had told you about in May of 21 2021?
22 A Yes. I've been very consistent. Listen, I believe
23 Farallon tapes all their conversations. So, eventually, as 24 this goes further, I purposefully --
25 Q Well, let's --

1 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.
2 THE WITNESS: Okay.
3 THE COURT: Sustained.
4 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
5 Q He also did not direct your attention or the Court's
6 attention to Paragraph 27 of Exhibit 4, selecting --
7 presumably strategically selecting not to refer to that
8 paragraph. Do you see Paragraph 27?
9 A Yes.
10 Q Could you read that into the record, please?
11 A (reading) However, Mr. Seery is privy to material
12 nonpublic information, inside information of many of the 13 securities that Highland deals in, as well as the funds that 14 Mr. Seery manages through Highland. One of these assets was a
15 publicly-traded security that Highland was an insider of, and 16 therefore should not have traded, whether directly or 17 indirectly, given its possession of insider information.
18 Q Isn't that paragraph just basically addressing MGM?
19 A Yeah, that's the only major position we had that that 20 would apply to.
21 Q So the suggestion that you're just making this MGM stuff
22 up is not true. It's consistent with what you've (inaudible)
23 in other courts as well, correct?
24 A Yes. I believe it's disingenuous to say that there's 25 different versions of my story.

1 Q Well, let's continue with Mr. Morris's strategy. Go to
2 Exhibit 3, please. Mr. Morris suggested that there's no
3 reference at all in any of these prior pleadings about Mr.
4 Seery's excess conversation. Do you recall that series of 5 questions?
6 A Yes. Or his statements, yes.
7 Q Yes. And he did not direct your --
8 MR. MORRIS: I move to strike. I asked him if he had 9 any knowledge of the man's compensation package. That's what
10 I asked him.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: No, sir. Your Honor, that's not what 12 he asked him. That was one of the questions he asked. The 13 other question was, there's nothing in here about 14 compensation. That's what I'd like to address now.
15 MR. MORRIS: Oh, go right ahead.
16 THE COURT: Okay.
17 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
18 Q Directing your attention --
19 THE COURT: You can ask. I'd have to go back and 20 check the record whether you had that second question you
21 mentioned. I remember questions about does he have knowledge
22 of Seery's compensation. I just can't remember if he asked,
23 --
24 MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.
25 THE COURT: -- were there references to it in the --

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --
2 THE COURT: -- prior pleadings.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: -- for the record, we'll make it clear
4 that there is a reference.
5 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
6 Q If I could direct your attention to Paragraph 23, Exhibit
7 -- as to --
8 MR. MORRIS: What exhibit is it?
9 MR. MCENTIRE: It's Exhibit 3.
10 MR. MORRIS: Hold on one second.
11 MS. MUSGRAVE: Your exhibit.
12 THE COURT: Highland's Exhibit 3.
13 MR. MORRIS: Give me a moment.
14 THE COURT: Page what?
15 MR. MCENTIRE: It's Paragraph 22 on Page 5.
16 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. My Exhibit 3?
17 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
18 Q Could you read for me, please, Mr. --
19 MR. MORRIS: Hold on one second. It's my Exhibit 3
20 or your exhibit?
21 MR. MCENTIRE: It's your exhibit. This is Hunter
22 Mountain's binder.
23 MR. MORRIS: Ah, I apologize.
24 MR. MCENTIRE: You were just using it.
25 MR. MORRIS: Okay. All right. Go ahead. What

1 paragraph were you?
2 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
3 Q I'd direct your attention, Mr. Dondero, to Paragraph 22.
4 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
5 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
6 Q Would you read -- would you read Paragraph 22 into the
7 record, please?
8 A (reading) Mr. Seery had much to gain by brokering a sale
9 of the claim suggested to Muck, mainly his knowledge that 10 Farallon as a friendly investor would allow him to remain as 11 Highland's CEO with virtually unfettered discretion to 12 administer Highland. In addition, Mr. Seery's written 13 compensation package incentivized him to continue the 14 bankruptcy for as long as possible.
15 Q There was also a series of questions to you about a
16 transaction involving NexPoint -- NexPoint Diversified Real
17 Estate Trust. Do you recall those questions?
18 A Yeah. Let's talk about that.
19 Q All right. Tell me what the transaction was.
20 A I'm sorry. The tender that he was asking about or --
21 Q Yes, the tender.
22 A There was -- investors wanted some shares retired, and we 23 didn't have enough cash on the balance sheets. So we tendered
24 in the form of giving them Preferred, which was like equity
25 but a better dividend or a more secured dividend, and 20

1 percent cash. And then insiders weren't allowed to
2 participate. But the whole tender was only for eight or ten
3 percent of the nominal amount outstanding. And again, you've
4 got a package of securities, so you didn't get any -- you
5 didn't cash. And although it reduced the share count, it also
6 increased the Preferred or the claims against the company. So
7 it was marginally accretive, I guess.
8 Q All right.
9 A But, again, as far as inside information is concerned,
10 Compliance is a separate party organization that reports up to 11 the SEC. Has a dotted line to me. Reports to the SEC. They 12 make sure everything we do is compliant.
13 Q Mr. Dondero, --
14 A Yeah. Can --
15 Q -- you didn't participate in the transaction, did you?
16 A No. Insiders weren't allowed to participate in the 17 transaction.
18 MR. MCENTIRE: Reserve the rest of my questions, Your
19 Honor.
20 THE COURT: Any recross?
21 RECROSS-EXAMINATION
22 BY MR. MORRIS:
23 Q The reference to the compensation that we just looked at,
24 that was your own personal view, not something that anybody
25 from Farallon ever told you, correct? You can go back and 1 look.

2 A Yeah, that --
3 Q I mean, it's not a trick question.
4 A Yeah, that was my pleading.
5 Q Okay. And that was your own speculation, if you will? It
6 had nothing to do with anything Farallon ever told you,
7 correct?
8 A I never discussed Seery's compensation with Farallon.
9 Q Okay. Thank you, sir, very much. Just one last question.
10 The price of the tender --
11 A Yes.
12 Q -- was based in part on the value of the MGM stock,
13 correct?
14 A The tender was based on market price --
15 Q And --
16 A -- of where the closed-in fund was trading. It was
17 trading at a discount. And the discount to NAV, the NAV
18 included MGM accurately marked at whatever time.
19 Q I appreciate that.
20 MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.
21 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, that concludes 22 your testimony.
23 THE WITNESS: Thank you.
24 THE COURT: You are excused from the witness box.
25 (The witness steps down.)

1 THE COURT: We probably should take a break, right?
2 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
3 THE COURT: Caroline, do you want to give them the
4 aggregate time used?
5 THE CLERK: Yes. The Defendants used 91 minutes
6 right now. And the Respondents together, 86 minutes.
7 THE COURT: Okay. I thought it was going to be 8 higher than that.
9 (Laughter.)
10 MR. MCENTIRE: That's what it feels like.
11 MR. MORRIS: You were wishing.
12 THE COURT: I was wishing. Okay. A ten-minute
13 break.
14 THE CLERK: All rise.
15 (A recess ensued from 3:17 p.m. until 3:28 p.m.)
16 THE CLERK: All rise.
17 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're back
18 on the record in the Highland matter. Mr. McEntire, you may 19 call your next witness.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, Hunter Mountain would call
21 Mr. Seery adversely.
22 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, we're waiting for Mr.
23 Morris for just 60 more seconds. I think he's on his way back
24 to the courtroom.
25 THE COURT: Okay. I just noticed.

1 Did I hear you say you're going to call him virtually?
2 MR. MCENTIRE: Adversely.
3 THE COURT: Oh, adversely? Okay. I'm so used to 4 hearing the word "virtually" the past few years.
5 Oh, and there he is. Okay.
6 MR. SEERY: I'm sorry, Your Honor.
7 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, welcome.
8 MR. SEERY: Good afternoon, Your Honor.
9 THE COURT: Please raise your right hand.
10 (The witness is sworn.)
11 THE WITNESS: I do.
12 THE COURT: All right. You may be seated.
13 JAMES P. SEERY, JR., HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST'S
14 ADVERSE WITNESS, SWORN
15 DIRECT EXAMINATION
16 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
17 Q Mr. Seery, would you please state your full name for the 18 record?
19 A James P. Seery, Jr.
20 Q And you and I met for the first time I believe it was last
21 Friday in your deposition; is that correct?
22 A You were by video.
23 Q I mean, --
24 A We didn't actually meet.
25 Q Correct. You are currently the CEO of the Reorganized

1 Debtor?
2 A That's correct.
3 Q Prior to your appointment as the CEO of the Reorganized
4 Debtor, you've never served as a CEO of a reorganized debtor
5 in the past, have you?
6 A I have not.
7 Q You previously served as the chief executive officer of 8 Highland Capital as a Debtor-In-Possession. Is that correct?
9 A That's correct.
10 Q And that was the first time you'd ever served in a
11 position such as that; is that correct?
12 A As the CEO of a debtor, yes.
13 Q Right. You also now currently serve as a Trustee for the 14 Highland Claimant Trust, which was put into effect after the 15 effective date of the plan, correct?
16 A Yes, I'm the Claimant Trustee.
17 Q All right. That's the first time --
18 THE COURT: Mr. McEntire, we usually require standing
19 at the podium. I mean, do you need --
20 MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine. I'm totally fine.
21 THE COURT: Okay. That's --
22 MR. MCENTIRE: I forgot.
23 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.
24 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
25 Q That was -- and your capacity as the Trustee for the

1 Claimant Trust, that's a first experience as well, correct?
2 A As the Claimant Trustee, yes.
3 Q All right. And in these various capacities as a CEO of 4 the Reorganized Debtor, do you consider yourself to be subject
5 to the Investment Advisers Act?
6 A No, I don't I'm subject to the Investment Advisers Act. I
7 think Highland in certain capacities could be.
8 Q All right. But do you have any duties that -- that you
9 are required to fulfill under the Investment Advisers Act
10 accordingly?
11 A Do I?
12 Q Yes.
13 A I believe Highland does. I don't know that I have any 14 personal duties.
15 Q All right, sir. Let me now talk a little bit about your 16 duties that you did have at Highland. You agree that when you
17 were at Highland you had fiduciary duties that you owed to the 18 estate?
19 A Yes.
20 Q What were those duties?
21 A To generally treat the estate on an honest and fair
22 matter.
23 Q Avoid conflicts of interest?
24 A Yes.
25 Q Not self-deal?

1 A Yes.
2 Q Do you agree with me that you would have a duty not to
3 trade on material inside -- material nonpublic information?
4 A Generally, I would have a duty to not trade on material
5 nonpublic information, yes.
6 Q Can you think of an exception?
7 A There may be. I just don't think of any one off the top
8 of my head.
9 Q So, today, you would agree, for purposes of these
10 proceedings, that you would have an obligation as the CEO of 11 the Debtor-In-Possession not to participate in a transaction
12 involving material nonpublic information? Agreed?
13 A It would depend. So, for example, if I was trading with 14 someone else who had material nonpublic information, that 15 might be a permissible transaction.
16 Q The HarbourVest transaction, you were involved in 17 negotiating the HarbourVest settlement?
18 A Yes, I was.
19 Q Did that involve any component related to MGM stock?
20 A No, it did not.
21 Q There was no involvement at all concerning the transfer of 22 MGM stock to any entity as a result of that transaction?
23 A None whatsoever.
24 Q Okay. And does HCLOF not have a participation at this
25 time in MGM stock?

1 A We call it H-C-L-O-F.
2 Q Yes.
3 A It does not own MGM stock, and as I far as I know, never
4 owned MGM stock.
5 Q Okay. You agree you received an email from Mr. Dondero in 6 December of 2020. We've had it here before. You've seen it
7 in the courtroom, correct?
8 A Yes.
9 Q Okay. Did you ever send -- forward that email to anyone
10 else?
11 A I'm sorry. Could you repeat that?
12 Q Did you forward that email on to anyone else?
13 A I believe I did, yes.
14 Q To whom?
15 A I certainly discussed it with counsel. I believe I
16 forwarded it to counsel, both the Pachulski firm and the 17 WilmerHale firm. Thomas Surgent had gotten it. He was on the 18 email. And I also forwarded it, I believe -- certainly,
19 discussed it -- with the other independent directors.
20 Q Okay. I'm not going to talk about your conversations with 21 other lawyers in-house, okay, or your outside counsel. Did
22 you take any steps yourself personally to make sure that MGM
23 stock was placed on a restricted list at Highland Capital
24 after you received that email?
25 A No. MGM was already on the restricted list at Highland

1 Capital.
2 Q Okay. And is that because of Mr. Dondero's position on
3 the board of MGM?
4 A It -- I believe that's the reason. It was on before I got
5 to Highland.
6 Q Okay. And you agree, do you not, sir, that the email that
7 you received from Mr. Dondero also contained material
8 nonpublic information?
9 A I don't think so, no.
10 MR. MCENTIRE: Would you put up Exhibit -- our 11 Exhibit 4, please?
12 MR. MORRIS: 4?
13 MR. MCENTIRE: 4.
14 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
15 Q Did H-C-L-O-F -- I'll refer to it as HCLOF, you refer to 16 it as H-C-L-O-F -- did that -- did HCLOF own any funds that
17 owned MGM stock?
18 A HCLOF had interest in certain Highland-managed CLOs that 19 did own some.
20 Q As a result of the Highland settlement -- excuse me, the 21 HarbourVest settlement, was there any impact on who owned some
22 of those CLO funds?
23 A No.
24 Q Okay. How was the CLOs, the funds, handled, if at all, in 25 the -- in the HarbourVest settlement?

1 A They didn't have any impact whatsoever on the HarbourVest
2 settlement.
3 Q Looking at Exhibit 4 for a moment, please, did the 4 interests, did the interests in -- HarbourVest's interests in
5 any of those CLOs transfer?
6 A No, they did not.
7 Q Okay. And did HCLOF acquire any interest in any of those
8 CLO's as a consequence of the HarbourVest settlement?
9 A No, it did not.
10 Q Looking at Exhibit 4. Excuse me, Exhibit 3 is what I
11 meant to say. Exhibit 3.
12 THE COURT: Hunter Mountain Exhibit 3?
13 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.
14 THE COURT: Okay.
15 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. Excuse me.
16 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
17 Q This is the email that we were just referring to that you
18 received, correct?
19 A Yes.
20 Q And you don't think -- you knew that Mr. Dondero was on 21 the board of directors of MGM?
22 A Yes.
23 Q And he -- as a member of the board of directors, when you
24 received this, you see where he indicated that it was probably 25 a first-quarter event? Do you see that?

1 A I see what it says, yes.
2 Q Okay. And you did not think that that was material
3 nonpublic information?
4 A No, I did not.
5 Q When he indicated that Amazon and Apple were actively
6 diligencing -- are diligencing in the data room, both continue
7 to express material interest, coming from a member of the 8 board of directors of MGM, you did not think that was material
9 nonpublic information?
10 A I did not, no.
11 Q You know the difference between a newspaper article or a
12 media article that discusses rumors of a possible sale and the 13 difference between that and a member of the board of directors
14 saying that a sale is going to occur? You understand the 15 difference between the two?
16 A Between the two things you just outlined?
17 Q Yes.
18 A Yes. One you said a sale is going to occur, and the other
19 you said a media report. But it would depend on what's in the 20 media report. Some media reports are pure speculation.
21 Others have a lot of detail, and they clearly came from an
22 inside source, and that's why the market moves on them.
23 Q Okay. So what you're suggesting to me, that there was 24 some indication in the media press before you received this 25 email suggesting that there was actually going to be a sale in

1 the first quarter of 2021?
2 A I don't know if it had a first-quarter event in it, but
3 certainly it was clear from the media reports and the actual
4 quotes from Kevin Ulrich of Anchorage, who was the chairman at 5 MGM, that a transaction had to take place very quickly. And 6 in fact, the transaction did not take place in the first
7 quarter.
8 Q Okay. So you -- when you received this particular email,
9 you did not think that it was requiring any additional 10 protection at -- in any way? Is that what you're suggesting
11 to this Court?
12 A That the email required additional protection?
13 Q That you didn't take additional steps to make sure that it
14 was maintained on the restricted list.
15 A It was already on the restricted list, so there was no
16 change.
17 Q Was it --
18 A I --
19 MR. MORRIS: Hold on. Let him finish.
20 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
21 A I was suspicious when I got the email, but I didn't think 22 I had to do anything else than the steps I told you I just 23 took.
24 Q Yeah, I'm not asking whether you were suspicious or not.
25 My question's a little bit different. You understand that MGM

1 was taken off your restricted list in April of 2021?
2 A I understand that that's what you've recently shown me. I
3 wasn't aware of that fact or I didn't have a recollection of 4 that fact, but certainly April of 2021 would be beyond the
5 first quarter. Mr. Dondero was not an employee, an affiliate,
6 subject to a contractual relationship. He had no duty to 7 Highland and Highland had no duty to him. And in fact, it was
8 quite antagonistic by that time. So it would be appropriate
9 to take MGM off the restricted list at the end of that time.
10 Q Well, hopefully you won't take this as argumentative, but
11 I object as nonresponsive. That really wasn't my question.
12 Okay? My question --
13 THE COURT: Sustained.
14 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
15 Q -- is a little bit different. As far as you were 16 concerned, MGM was on the restricted list and stayed on the 17 restricted list all the way until the public announcement in 18 May of 2021?
19 A That's not true.
20 Q When did you first become aware it was taken off the 21 restricted list?
22 A I didn't -- I wasn't aware that it had come off the 23 restricted list. I would have assumed it would have been off
24 the restricted list once Mr. Dondero had been severed from 25 Highland.

1 Q I see. Now, Mr. Dondero has relayed a conversation that
2 he had with Mr. Patel and Mr. Linn, suggesting that they were
3 particularly optimistic about MGM based upon what you told
4 them.
5 A I --
6 Q Let me finish. If that occurred, are you suggesting that
7 that is a lie?
8 A Two things. One is I don't think he actually testified to 9 that. I think he said he had a conversation with Mr. Patel.
10 Then he had a different conversation with Mr. Linn, and a
11 subsequent conversation with Mr. Linn. So the way he laid it
12 out were multiple conversations.
13 Q Agreed.
14 A I don't -- I don't know which one you're talking about.
15 Q Mr. Dondero testified that Mr. Patel was particularly 16 optimistic about the investment because of what he had learned
17 from Mr. -- from you about MGM.
18 MR. MORRIS: I dispute that characterization. Why
19 can't he just ask the question?
20 MR. MCENTIRE: That is my question. If that --
21 THE COURT: What is the question? I'm not sure I
22 hear the question.
23 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm getting lost because I'm getting
24 interrupted. I'll try to rephrase it again.
25 MR. MORRIS: It's my first objection.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: And I --
2 THE COURT: Go ahead.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm just going to rephrase, Your
4 Honor.
5 THE COURT: Just rephrase your question.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.
7 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
8 Q Mr. Dondero has testified that Farallon advised him in May 9 of 2021 that they were optimistic about MGM based upon what 10 you told them. Assuming that to be the case, do you deny that
11 happened?
12 A I do deny that happened. Because I can't -- I don't know
13 what Farallon told him, but I never told Farallon anything.
14 And a conversation on May 28th, after the May 26th
15 announcement that MGM was going through, might make people
16 optimistic that it could go through, but there was a very 17 difficult FTC process that MGM would have to go through.
18 Q And I'm referring to that. If Farallon stated that they 19 were optimistic about MGM based upon what you had told them, 20 --
21 A That would not be true.
22 Q -- that would be false?
23 A That would not be true.
24 Q And is Mr. Dondero says that's what Farallon told them,
25 that would also be false?

1 A That's correct.
2 Q So we have your statement, we have what may be Farallon's
3 statement, and we have what Mr. Dondero believes may have been
4 Farallon's statement, and you're saying the latter two are
5 just not true?
6 A I didn't have a conversation with Farallon about MGM that
7 -- that I recall --
8 Q Well, you're on the witness stand.
9 A -- virtually at any time.
10 Q You're on the witness stand.
11 A Oh, I'm aware of where I am sitting.
12 Q Yeah. Good. We've got that cleared up. Now, are you
13 suggesting that -- that you may not specifically recall this 14 conversation?
15 A No, I am not saying that at all. After May 26th, when the 16 MGM announcement was made and it was public, I may have had 17 conversations with a number of people about MGM.
18 Q Well, let's make sure the record is clear. Did you call
19 Farallon on May 26th and say, hey, did you know that MGM just 20 sold?
21 A No, I don't recall any such conversation, and I wouldn't
22 have had to, since it was in the paper.
23 Q I'm not talking about what's in the paper. I'm talking
24 about conversations between you and Farallon.
25 A Yeah. I don't recall having a conversation with Farallon

1 on May 26th.
2 Q How about May 27th?
3 A Not that I recall, no.
4 Q How about May 28th?
5 A Not that I recall off the top of my head.
6 Q And we understand that that's the day that Mr. Dondero
7 actually had his conversation that he's reported, at least,
8 with Farallon. Do you recall that?
9 A That's what he claims, yes.
10 Q You were with a company called River -- you're a lawyer,
11 correct?
12 A I am. I'm in retired status.
13 Q Okay. I wish I was.
14 A It's simply retiring your license and not having to take
15 the CLE.
16 Q Understood. Now, you were with a company called River
17 Birch?
18 A Yes.
19 Q And from River Birch, you went to Guggenheim Securities?
20 A That's correct.
21 Q At Guggenheim Securities, did you go to Farallon and meet
22 with Mr. Patel in their offices in San Francisco?
23 A I believe we did, yes.
24 Q You call it a meet-and-greet?
25 A I do, yes.

1 Q That was in 2017?
2 A 2017, 2018. I'm not exactly sure when it was.
3 Q And one of the purposes of meet-and-greet is to solicit
4 business or to see if a business opportunity -- see if it
5 exists?
6 A That's not correct, no.
7 Q What is a meet-and-greet for, then?
8 A It's to meet the people at the fund and to greet the 9 people at the fund. Introduce them to other people in your 10 firm.
11 Q Just because it's going to be fun, or does it have a
12 business angle to it?
13 A Oh, it hopefully will be fun, yes, but it's done in order
14 to build a relationship over time. You're not in there
15 soliciting business. If you do that, you won't do very well.
16 Q Okay. Fair enough. So you're there trying to develop a
17 relationship with Farallon?
18 A Guggenheim was, yes.
19 Q And you were part of it?
20 A That's correct.
21 Q And what was your job at Guggenheim?
22 A I was co-head of credit.
23 Q Is that a fairly significant position at Guggenheim?
24 A Not really, no.
25 Q It's not significant at all?

1 A No.
2 Q All right.
3 A Which is why --
4 Q Well, you left --
5 A Which is why they don't have that business.
6 Q Okay. So is that why you left Guggenheim?
7 A It -- I did, yeah. It wasn't a good fit for either
8 Guggenheim or for me, because it really wasn't something --
9 Q When did you --
10 A -- that they were set up to do.
11 Q -- leave Guggenheim?
12 A In 2019.
13 Q And then you went back to Farallon to meet with them
14 again, did you not?
15 A I met with Farallon while I was in San Francisco with my 16 wife.
17 Q Okay. Did you call ahead to arrange the meeting, or was 18 it just a --
19 A I --
20 Q -- a blind call?
21 A I did call ahead, yes.
22 Q A cold call, I guess, is the word -- the phrase that they
23 use. Okay. So -- and was that a meet-and-greet?
24 A That was again, yes.
25 Q Again, what were you trying to do? Develop a relationship

1 with Farallon?
2 A I was trying to catch up with them after having met them
3 previously. And that was just Raj Patel. And this one I also 4 met Michael Linn.
5 Q Okay. What kind of business were you in when you met with 6 them the second time?
7 A I wasn't doing anything.
8 Q What were you hoping to do?
9 A I was hoping to get back into the investing side of the 10 business, from running a credit-type lending business at 11 Guggenheim, which is what they tried to do and it didn't work
12 out. And I wanted to get back to what I was doing more at 13 River Birch, but I was looking at other opportunities,
14 whatever came along.
15 Q Well, what were the different options that you were 16 looking at?
17 A I was looking at potentially getting back into investing,
18 joining potentially a restructuring firm, any options like
19 that. I was not looking to become a lawyer again.
20 Q And why would meeting and greeting with Farallon fit in 21 within that scenario, the strategic scenarios that you've just 22 discussed?
23 A They're a giant hedge fund.
24 Q A giant hedge fund?
25 A Yes.

1 Q And so it would be good to have a relationship with a
2 giant hedge fund, wouldn't it?
3 A And to know what their thinking of the markets, where the 4 opportunity set might be, who they are dealing with and 5 interacting with. Those are -- those are valuable things to 6 know over time.
7 Q And --
8 A And you need to maintain those relationships in order to 9 be --
10 Q Sure.
11 A -- part of any business.
12 Q Sure. These meet-and-greets can actually evolve and 13 provide relationship benefits, correct?
14 A I don't -- I'm not sure what you mean by relationship
15 benefits.
16 Q Sloppy words for -- on my part. They can evolve into 17 something that is a meaningful relationship?
18 A They could over time, yes.
19 Q And we know that after you became the CEO of Highland 20 Capital that you received a call from, was it Farallon, to 21 congratulate you on your appointment?
22 A It was an email.
23 Q And that was in the summer of 2020, shortly after your
24 meet-and-greet out in San Francisco?
25 A Your calendar's a bit off, but it was in June of 2020, so

1 that would have been more than shortly after, but yes.
2 Q Okay. And who contacted you to congratulate you on your
3 appointment?
4 A This was my appointment as an independent director. I had
5 not yet been appointed as CEO or CRO. This was in June of 6 2020, and it was Michael Linn.
7 Q Michael Linn? Was it a telephone call?
8 A I think 30 seconds ago I said it was an email.
9 Q Fair enough. Do you still have that email?
10 A I do, yes.
11 Q Okay. He contacted you again, "he" being Michael Linn, he 12 contacted you again in January of 2021, did he not?
13 A That's correct, yes.
14 Q He wanted to see if he could get involved somehow in the 15 Highland bankruptcy?
16 A Well, he congratulated -- he didn't congratulate -- he 17 wished me a happy new year, and he basically said it looks
18 like you're -- again, he's following the case -- it looks like
19 you're doing good work. Is there any way for us to get
20 involved? We're interested in claims or buying assets.
21 Q Okay. And Stonehill. Now, you know the founder of 22 Stonehill, do you not?
23 A No, I don't know him. I've met him several times.
24 Q Doesn't he come by and stop in and talk with you when
25 you're in Stonehill's offices? And that's happened recently?

1 A Your use of the plural is incorrect, and you know that
2 from the deposition. I was in Stonehill's office one time,
3 and I was in a meeting with Mr. Stern. We ended up having a
4 board meeting from Stonehill's office with the other
5 participants on video, and Mr. Motulsky came in and said
6 hello.
7 Q All right. And who's Mr. Motulsky?
8 A He's the founder of Stonehill.
9 Q I see. And did you know Mr. Motulsky before that?
10 A I'd interacted with Mr. Motulsky over the years at --
11 mostly at industry-type functions.
12 Q Okay. Now, Stonehill is also a hedge fund?
13 A Yes.
14 Q Are they different than Farallon in that regard, or 15 similar?
16 A I don't know as much about what their business is. They 17 certainly do a direct lending component, so I know that they 18 -- they will do some direct lending, which I don't think is 19 something Farallon really does. Farallon is much bigger, as I
20 understand it, but I don't really know the size of Stonehill.
21 Q Okay.
22 A I know they're not a $50 billion fund like Farallon.
23 Q And do you know Mr. Stern at Farallon?
24 A I now know him, yes, because he was -- he's really the 25 representative on the -- no, he's not the representative on

1 the board, but he is the one who manages the Stonehill and
2 Jessup positions for Stonehill.
3 Q Well, we know that after you were CEO of Highland, you
4 also got a text message, correct, a text message from someone
5 at Stonehill, correct?
6 A Mr. Stern sent me a text message reintroducing himself --
7 I don't know if it was re- or just introducing -- and sent me
8 his email and asked me to contact him about the case. This 9 was at the end of February/beginning of March 2021, after the 10 confirmation order.
11 Q Okay. After the -- after the confirmation order?
12 A Yes.
13 Q I believe the confirmation order -- I may be wrong -- I
14 thought it was like the 21st, 22nd, somewhere in there. Does 15 that sound right to you?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Okay. So, shortly after confirmation, then, Farallon
18 calls you to congratulate you and wants to see how they can
19 get involved?
20 A No. There was no congratulations there. Shortly after 21 the confirmation order, which I believe was at least a week to 22 ten days after confirmation, I got the communication from Mr.
23 Stern to try to connect about the case.
24 Q All right.
25 A He's at Stonehill, not Farallon.

1 Q Correct. Now, --
2 A You said Farallon.
3 Q I misspoke, then. Thank you for correcting me. Let's
4 talk about -- you live in New York?
5 A I do.
6 Q You're involved with a charity called Team Rubicon?
7 A Yes.
8 Q And Team Rubicon is a -- is that a veterans-type charity?
9 A Yeah. It's a veteran-led organization, and what it does
10 is connects veterans to disasters. And mostly in the U.S.,
11 but also all over. So if there's a flood, if there's a
12 hurricane, if there's an earthquake, veterans who have been 13 trained in -- by the military in ready response and really 14 being able to handle themselves when things are bad are 15 deployed to help the communities that are hit. So I think
16 that Team Rubicon likes to think, you know, on your worst day
17 they're your best friend.
18 Q So you're -- are you on the board?
19 A No, I'm not.
20 Q You're on the Host Committee?
21 A I was on the Host Committee last year, and I'll be on the 22 Host Committee this year.
23 Q Okay. And you have charity events?
24 A We have a charity event, yes.
25 Q Okay. And the purpose of the charity event is to raise a

1 bunch of money?
2 A That's correct.
3 Q Okay. Have you been successful in the past?
4 A I do my best. Team Rubicon is a big organization. It's
5 done very well raising money. It doesn't have an endowment.
6 The founder's theory was that if people give us money, we're
7 supposed to spend it on helping other people. And so each
8 year it has to raise more money.
9 Q And Stonehill has been -- has contributed to your charity?
10 A I believe Stonehill, one or two years, and I should know
11 this, and I didn't look it up after our deposition, gave 12 $10,000.
13 Q Okay. Maybe once, maybe twice?
14 A Maybe twice.
15 Q Okay.
16 A I hope more.
17 Q Okay. And they also attend your -- your actual charity
18 events, do they not?
19 A No.
20 Q All right. They just give money?
21 A That's right. And the Mike Stern who's on the board of 22 Team Rubicon is not the Mike Stern who is at Stonehill. It's 23 an older gentleman who's in Texas who just happens to give a
24 lot of money to --
25 Q All right.

1 A -- Team Rubicon.
2 Q You also represented Blockbuster. Take that back. Were
3 you the lawyer or the attorney representing the Creditors
4 Committee, the UCC, in the Blockbuster bankruptcy?
5 A No, I was not.
6 Q Tell me what your capacity was.
7 A I represented a group of bondholders, secured bondholders.
8 So I represented the group.
9 Q And was Stonehill a member of that group?
10 A Not that I recall, but your pleadings seem to indicate
11 that they were. So if they were, they were a small 12 participant. The largest participant was Carl Icahn, who 13 owned about 30 percent of it. Then the others who were big 14 were DK, Davidson Kempner, Monarch, Owl Creek. Those were the 15 big players.
16 Q Well, --
17 A When Carl Icahn is in your group, you remember that.
18 Q Yeah, well, Carl Icahn is not here. We're talking about 19 Stonehill right now.
20 A And I said I don't remember them actually being a part of 21 it. If they were, --
22 Q Okay. Well, let me -- let me give you what I'm going to 23 mark as Exhibit 80. That's your name at the top, right?
24 (Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Exhibit 80 is marked 25 for identification.)

1 A That's correct, yes.
2 Q You were at the time with Sidley & Austin?
3 A That's correct, yes.
4 Q This is In re Blockbuster.
5 MR. MCENTIRE: Scroll down, please.
6 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
7 Q And steering group of senior -- involves -- well, let's
8 count them. Let's see. One, two, three, four, five. Five
9 entities comprising the backstop lenders. Is that correct?
10 A I think that's the steering group. So, in order to 11 represent the group, you need to try to assemble a large-
12 enough group that it's material to the company. And then the 13 company, if you're -- particularly if you're over 50 percent,
14 will pay the fees of the group. And you don't represent any 15 individual member of the group. I've never represented Carl
16 Icahn. I represent the group. And if folks want to stay in 17 the group, they can stay. If they want to trade out of the 18 group, they do. And the company will generally continue to 19 pay the fees, and you represent the group so long as you have 20 a controlling interest in the -- whatever the issue is.
21 Q Well, that's interesting, because now what you're telling
22 me is that this group right here, this is kind of like the 23 executive committee of the group.
24 A No, it's called the steering group, and it doesn't 25 necessarily --

1 Q That's fine.
2 A Well, it's not an executive committee. It doesn't
3 necessarily include just the largest. Some large holders
4 won't be on it. The largest holders here by a long shot were 5 Icahn, who --
6 Q I'm not talking about --
7 A -- unloaded, as I say, over 30 percent. Monarch, Owl
8 Creek, and I just don't recall Stonehill being a part of it.
9 Q I'm not really interested in Carl Icahn. I just want to 10 establish this is a steering group in which you were the lead
11 counsel and Blockbuster was on it. Is that correct?
12 A Yes.
13 Q Excuse me. Not Blockbuster.
14 A I'm sorry.
15 Q Stonehill.
16 A No, it's the Blockbuster case in 2010, and Stonehill was 17 apparently on it, but I just don't have a recollection of 18 their involvement.
19 Q All right. So when Mr. -- who sent you the text message
20 in February of 2021 from Stonehill?
21 A Michael Stern.
22 Q And had you actually met him before?
23 A I think I had, but we didn't know each --
24 Q All right.
25 A You know, we certainly didn't know each other, we'd never

1 worked on anything together, but I --
2 Q Do you have all your text messages from that period of
3 time, that first quarter of 2021?
4 A I believe I do, yes.
5 Q They're saved?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Okay. When did the automatic delete button on your cell
8 phone start?
9 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, objection. We've covered
10 this this morning. I believe this is a motion coming down the 11 pike, and I thought we had -- thought we had had tabled this 12 preservation issue.
13 MR. MCENTIRE: This has a direct bearing on his 14 communications with Farallon and Stonehill in this period of 15 time, Your Honor. We have one text message that he's 16 identified, and I have a right to examine whether there are 17 others. Or if not, why not.
18 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, he's --
19 MR. MCENTIRE: That's a legitimate -- I'm not 20 finished. That's a legitimate area of inquiry in this 21 examination.
22 MR. STANCIL: He's testified he has them all. Your 23 Honor did not order document discovery. I think that's it for 24 purposes of today's hearing, Your Honor.
25 THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection.

1 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
2 Q After this text message that you received from Stonehill
3 in February 2021, did you have any follow-up?
4 A Well, his text message, I don't recall what it said other
5 than I was -- I do recall that he gave me his email address,
6 because I didn't have it. And we just didn't know each other
7 well enough. But we definitely had follow -up. He wanted to 8 talk to me, and at some point we talked.
9 Q And when did you talk?
10 A I'm sorry?
11 Q When did you talk?
12 A When? I -- it was at the, initially, end of February, 13 beginning of March. So it would have been somewhere in that 14 -- in that time period.
15 Q End of February, beginning of March? And we also know
16 that you next talked to Farallon, according to your testimony,
17 and they advised you they had already purchased all their
18 claims as of March 15, correct?
19 A On March 15th, they sent me an email that said they had 20 purchased an interest in claims, and --
21 Q So -- go ahead.
22 A I'm not finished. And then at some point after that, we
23 arranged a quick discussion, because that was a curious --
24 Q I want to assure you I will always let you finish.
25 A Thank you very much.

1 Q Unlike others. So, with that said, Mr. Seery, can you
2 identify -- let me back up. Was there a data room set up at 3 Highland Capital for claims investors to come in and look at 4 data?
5 A No, there was not.
6 Q Are you aware, sitting here today, that Farallon did any
7 due diligence in connection with its investment in the claims
8 it purchased that are at issue in this proceeding?
9 A I have indication that they did some, yes. I don't know
10 how much they did.
11 Q What is the indication?
12 A In the email in June of 2020, Mr. Linn said that he and 13 his associate were following the case, thought it was --
14 that's the one that congratulated me on being an independent
15 director, and that they were paying attention to the case.
16 And it -- I don't recall the exact other items in there, but
17 it was clear that they were following the Highland matter.
18 And then in the email in January 2021, he also indicated that 19 they'd been following the case further, and said, Looks like
20 you have things well in hand, or something to that effect. So
21 --
22 Q Do you have that email, too? Have you saved that email?
23 A They're all saved, yeah.
24 Q Okay. So let's talk about that. But you had no data room
25 that would allow them to come in and actually investigate the

1 underlying assets. Is that correct?
2 A Not in respect of anybody trying to buy claims. We did
3 have a data room with respect to financing.
4 Q Please listen to my question. I'll get to it. Data room
5 for claims investors. There was no data room set up on or 6 before March 15 to allow Farallon to come in and investigate
7 its investment in this claim?
8 A That's correct.
9 Q There was no data room set up prior to March 15 to allow 10 Stonehill to come in and investigate its investment in the 11 claims it purchased. Is that correct?
12 A That's correct.
13 Q Can you identify any due diligence, sitting here today --
14 let me back up. You heard Mr. Dondero's testimony about 15 portfolio companies, correct?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Portfolio companies are companies in which Highland
18 Capital has an interest that actually have separate and 19 distinct management. Is that correct?
20 A Generally. And it -- I disagree with some of his 21 testimony, but generally that's correct, yes.
22 Q Well, okay. Let's just take on the part that you agree
23 with. With regard to those portfolio companies, was there
24 anything that was disclosed in the Highland publicly-available
25 financials that would allowed a detailed analysis of

1 Highland's investments in each of those portfolio companies?
2 A I don't know. Certainly, in the four or five sets of
3 projections that were filed, there were financial projections.
4 I'm not sure exactly what was included in each one or in the
5 disclosure statement.
6 Q Fair enough. Well, I'll represent to you I don't think
7 there's detailed information on each individual portfolio
8 company.
9 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, he's not here to testify. I
10 move to strike.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.
12 THE COURT: Sustained.
13 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
14 Q In that regard, Mr. Seery, can you identify what Farallon
15 did to investigate the underlying asset value of any of these
16 portfolio companies?
17 A I don't have any knowledge as to what Farallon did before
18 it bought claims.
19 Q Can you identify what due diligence Stonehill did to 20 investigate the underlying asset value in any of these
21 portfolio companies?
22 A I don't -- I mean, in connection with claims purchasing, I
23 have no idea what Stonehill did.
24 Q Now, I understand that you solicited -- perhaps I don't 25 recall correctly. Did you solicit both Farallon and Stonehill

1 to participate in a bid to provide exit financing?
2 A I don't think that's fair. I solicited Farallon because I
3 knew they already owned claims. Stonehill reached out to me,
4 and that was one of the things they were interested in doing,
5 if there was financing needs.
6 Q Okay.
7 A And at the time they reached out, which was right after
8 confirmation -- right after confirmation and the confirmation
9 order, we didn't know what our needs would be. We didn't
10 really, at the early stage, think we needed exit financing.
11 When we looked at some of the difficulty we were going to have 12 -- for example, collecting notes and realizing on assets -- we 13 realized that we were going to need some exit financing in 14 order to have enough money to support the enterprise to 15 monetize the assets.
16 Q And I think you used the -- I think the phrase you used,
17 you are the straw man or a straw man bid? Is that what you
18 called it the other day?
19 A We did. You set up a very typical competitive process to 20 do exit financing.
21 Q And what was the --
22 A And what -- well, I --
23 Q -- suggest --
24 A I was going to get to your straw man. And one of the 25 things you do is you assess what the market's going to look

1 like, what you think the market looks like, what you think a
2 financing would be good for the enterprise, the flexibility
3 you need, how you'd structure it. And then you put that out
4 to prospective lenders and say, Here's our straw man. This is
5 what we'd like you to consider in terms of financing. And
6 then they do their work and come back. And they can either
7 say, that looks great, or we have a totally different idea of 8 what the financing might be, or some other combination of 9 those things.
10 Q Mr. Seery, thank you for that answer, but I need to ask
11 you to do me a favor. I'm on the clock, and so I'd just like 12 to get my questions out, if you'd try to respond. Okay?
13 A Uh-huh.
14 Q Because your answers, as long as they may be, are 15 impacting me a little bit.
16 So let me ask this question. In the straw man proposal
17 that you put out for bid, what was the suggested interest
18 rate?
19 A You know, you asked me that the other day, and I think I
20 was slightly off. So it -- and I -- but I did tell you that 21 it depended. There was -- I don't recall what the rate was,
22 but it starts -- if everybody wants to put out money -- and I
23 apologize for the length of the answer -- they look and they 24 say, well, what if I get paid back in six months? Nobody
25 wants to do that. So, duration makes a difference. So

1 there's an interest rate. There's upfront fees. There's
2 often exit fees. And sometimes there's other amounts. So,
3 our -- my recollection is that our straw man was somewhere in 4 the low teens on the high end, and then closer to high single-
5 digits on the low end. Something in that range.
6 Q And Farallon indicated to you they were not interested,
7 correct?
8 A No, not exactly. What Farallon said was they didn't --
9 they signed an NDA because we invited them in. We invited in 10 six folks. Five signed NDAs. Two of the -- I invited in 11 Farallon. I invited in Stonehill. Well, Stonehill called me.
12 I invited in Contrarian because they had bought claims. And 13 then two lenders that I knew. And Farallon did the work and 14 came back and said, this isn't really what we do. And the 15 other guys, you're telling me, which I was, that other people
16 are more competitive. And so it's not really what we do, we 17 don't think the returns are good enough, but if you need us,
18 because now they're already invested in the claims, call us.
19 Q Okay.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: And again, I'll object as
21 nonresponsive. Your Honor, that was a very long answer
22 talking about a lot of other entities. My only question was 23 what the interest rate was.
24 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we oppose the motion to 25 strike. I think it's --

1 MR. MCENTIRE: No, I didn't strike it. I said -- my
2 objection was nonresponsive. I will now follow it up with a
3 motion to strike his answer.
4 THE COURT: Overruled. Okay.
5 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
6 Q Mr. Seery, you just told us that the interest rate was in
7 the high single digits to in the 12 and 13 percent range.
8 A No, I was giving you the all-in return for the lender.
9 That's a very different --
10 Q All-in return?
11 A -- thing for the -- than an interest rate.
12 Q That's even better.
13 A And it depended on the time.
14 Q Fair enough.
15 Q So if -- the shorter the duration, the higher the 16 effective return, because he's not getting the return for as 17 long a period of time. If I have $100 million and I get 10
18 percent, I get just $10 million. But if I have that out for 19 $3 million, I've earned $30 million. So maybe that gets 20 squeezed in the longer it's out.
21 Q And Farallon said that the interest rate or the return
22 rate was not what they were looking for?
23 A They indicated two things. I believe I've said this 24 several times. One is they said, this isn't really what we 25 do, a $50-ish million dollar loan to do an exit. But we're in

1 the case. If you need us, call us. Included in that was, it
2 doesn't look attractive enough to us because you're telling me
3 other guys are more competitive.
4 Q Okay. And do you know what kind of rate of return they
5 were going to get on the investment of the -- on the claims at 6 a 71 percent projected return rate?
7 A If we only hit the plan, Farallon's two purchases, based 8 on the numbers you get -- you gave, over a two-year period,
9 would be 38.9 percent.
10 Q Okay, but we're going to talk about that in a second.
11 Okay. How much -- how much did Farallon actually invest?
12 A I'd have to look back at your numbers. They're in your 13 pleading. I don't know what they actually paid. I just have 14 it from your pleading.
15 Q Okay. And do you have paperwork that -- can you
16 (inaudible) calculation here?
17 A I have a calculator that, when I looked at your numbers, I
18 ran that, and I --
19 Q I see. All right.
20 A I'm able to remember certain things.
21 Q So, so if it's projected that the internal rate of return
22 is only six percent, do you disagree with that?
23 A A hundred percent disagree. There's -- that's virtually 24 impossible.
25 Q Okay.

1 A And that's, by the way, for hitting the plan.
2 Q I'm sorry?
3 A That's for hitting the 70 -- the 71-and-change percent.
4 Q I want to ask you a question about that. The 71-percent-
5 and-change --
6 A Uh-huh.
7 Q -- that came out of the plan for Class 8, --
8 A Yes.
9 Q -- that was for Class 8, correct?
10 A Correct.
11 Q There was zero expected return to Class 9, correct?
12 A That's correct. They would only get upside, and I think
13 it says in the projections, based upon our view at the time,
14 litigation that could ensue, and that was part of the plan.
15 Q And as I understand it, that 71-and-some-change --
16 A Uh-huh.
17 Q -- projected return rate never changed from the date of 18 confirmation all the way up to the effective date. Am I
19 correct?
20 A The -- we didn't change the projections that we'd filed
21 with the plan because the plan was confirmed. We didn't need
22 to change the projections that were filed with the plan.
23 Q The NDAs, as you understand it, can you tell me
24 specifically when the NDAs were signed?
25 A I know it's the first week of April to the second week of

1 April. Blue Torch may have signed -- who actually ended up
2 doing the financing -- they may have signed it a week or so
3 before. They'd been around offering financing a number of 4 times in the past.
5 Q Fair enough. But we know that you understood as of March
6 15th that Farallon had already made their investments? I
7 mean, claims?
8 A That's what they told me in that email, yes.
9 Q Okay. When did Stonehill sign the NDA?
10 A In and around the same time.
11 Q But you don't know when Stonehill actually purchased their
12 claims?
13 A I don't know exactly when. I know generally that by the 14 end of April, early May, they were -- they were the holder of 15 the Redeemer claim. And --
16 (Interruption.)
17 A -- I can't remember whether it was from them or whether it
18 was from --
19 Q Did you ever communicate with Stonehill during the time
20 that they were doing their due diligence on the exit
21 financing?
22 A Yes.
23 Q Okay. Did they come to your offices?
24 A I don't know if we were back yet. I think we were back,
25 but I don't recall them coming to our offices. I think it was

1 all virtual. It's early '21, so there would have been
2 vaccines. It would have been very -- very -- I don't recall
3 them coming to the offices at that time.
4 Q But just to be clear, you don't know, you can't give the 5 Court a date when Stonehill actually completed their
6 investments in either Redeemer or HarbourVest?
7 A No, I don't. I don't know. Did -- just --
8 Q That was my question.
9 A When you say Redeemer or HarbourVest, they never bought
10 HarbourVest.
11 Q It was just Redeemer?
12 A Correct.
13 Q All right. You understand that Muck is an entity, a
14 special-purpose entity created by Farallon?
15 A That's my understanding, yes.
16 Q And you understand Jessup is a special-purpose entity
17 created by Stonehill?
18 A That's my understanding, yes.
19 Q Muck and Jessup are both on the Oversight Committee?
20 A They are. They -- those entities are the --
21 Q Is it the Oversight Committee or the Oversight Board?
22 A Same thing.
23 Q Fair enough.
24 A I'll consider them the same.
25 Q And there's a third member, too, correct?

1 A That's correct.

2 Q Okay.

3 A Independent member.

4 Q Okay. So you have a three-person board; is that right?

5 A That's correct.

6 Q And one of their jobs is to make decisions concerning your

7 compensation?

8 A The structure of the Claimant Trust Agreement provides

9 that I'm to negotiate with the -- either the Committee or the

10 Oversight Board. And the compensation in the Claimant Trust

11 Agreement is a base salary of $150,000, which is -- a month,

12 which is the same as the one in the case, plus severance, plus

13 a success fee. And it's very specific that that will be

14 negotiated by the -- either the Committee or then the 15 Oversight Board.

16 Q And Michael Linn, who Mr. Dondero has referred to, he's 17 actually on the Oversight Board, is he not?

18 A He's the Muck representative on the Oversight Board.

19 Q All right.

20 A Yes.

21 Q If I understand it correctly, you are currently receiving,

22 as the Trustee, $150,000 a month. Is that correct?

23 A That's incorrect.

24 Q What are you receiving?

25 A I receive $150,000 a month as the Trustee and the CEO of 1 Highland Capital.

2 Q Well, --
3 A So I have --
4 Q -- fair enough.
5 A I have both roles. The Trustee, for example, doesn't 6 manage the team, they actually work for Highland Capital, and 7 I'm the CEO of Highland Capital.
8 Q There was some suggestion that the $150,000 was something
9 that the Court had passed upon prior to the effective date or 10 part of the plan. This is a separate negotiated item that you
11 -- that you allegedly negotiated that was awarded to you post-
12 effective date, correct?
13 A That's false.
14 Q Okay. So the $150,000 had a discount that was supposed to 15 drop down to $75,000 after a period of time. That never 16 happened, did it?
17 A The -- you seem to be mixing concepts. But the $150,000 a
18 month was set by the plan and the -- and the Claimant Trust
19 Agreement as the "base salary." That wasn't going to move.
20 When we -- it never was supposed to move.
21 When I began negotiating with the Oversight Board for the 22 success fee, they pushed back and said, we would like that to 23 step down. So in our -- I did not say, oh, that's a great
24 idea. We ended up negotiating, and they included a provision
25 that we would renegotiate depending on the level of work.

1 That's one of the provisions.
2 Q Okay. But renegotiate down to $75,000 after a period of
3 time, but that never happened?
4 A Initially, I believe it was supposed to step down to 5 $75,000 automatic, subject to renegotiation that it go back
6 up, not a structure that I particularly liked. And since
7 then, we've negotiated on that point.
8 Q So you currently are making $150,000 a month?
9 A That's correct.
10 Q How often do you come to Dallas?
11 A Usually I'm here at least once a month. Usually it's 12 between two and four days.
13 Q Okay. And you have a staff here in Dallas at Highland
14 Capital, correct?
15 A Yes.
16 Q How many people?
17 A Eleven.
18 Q Eleven people?
19 A Uh-huh.
20 Q Working full-time?
21 A Yes.
22 Q And you're still making $1.8 million a year?
23 A Yes.
24 Q You also have a bonus structure, correct?
25 A That's correct.

1 Q And that's performance-based?
2 A That's correct.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: Can you pull up the agreement please?
4 Okay.
5 (Pause.)
6 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
7 Q All right. Do you see --
8 MR. MCENTIRE: We're having technical difficulty
9 here.
10 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
11 Q All right. Can you identify this document?
12 MR. MCENTIRE: What exhibit number is this?
13 MR. MILLER: 28.
14 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
15 Q Exhibit 28.
16 MR. MCENTIRE: I believe this is already in evidence.
17 THE COURT: Hunter Mountain Exhibit 28?
18 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor.
19 THE COURT: Okay.
20 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
21 Q This is the memorandum of agreement. Do you see that?
22 A Yes.
23 Q On the third line, it says -- and your name is identified
24 here. You're the Claimant Trustee, correct?
25 A Claimant Trustee/CEO.

1 Q Engaged in robust, arm's length, and good-faith
2 negotiations regarding the incentive compensation program.
3 As part of this robust, arm's length, and good-faith
4 negotiation, did you personally conduct any independent search
5 in the marketplace?
6 A I did -- what do you mean by search in the marketplace?
7 Q Well, did you try to do a market study? I asked that
8 question in your deposition.
9 A I didn't know if you were asking a different question.
10 Q Same question.
11 A You mean market study on compensation?
12 Q Yes.
13 A No, I did not.
14 Q Are you aware of whether or not any member of the 15 Oversight Board or Oversight Committee did a market study?
16 A On compensation?
17 Q On compensation.
18 A I'm not aware that they did one, no.
19 Q So this robust, arm's length, and good-faith negotiation,
20 as far as you know, is divorced from any market study database
21 or -- or methods. Is that correct?
22 A I don't believe that's correct, no.
23 Q I see. So did -- was any third-party consultant hired?
24 A Not by me or Highland or the Trust, no.
25 Q All right.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Can you scroll down a little bit,
2 please?
3 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
4 Q You signed this agreement, correct?
5 A Yes.
6 Q And we have Michael Linn signing on behalf of Muck, who
7 also is with Farallon, correct?
8 A That's correct.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: Scroll down.
10 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
11 Q And by the way, this is a heavily-redacted document. The 12 redactions deal with what?
13 A The redactions deal with the portion that would go to the 14 team as opposed to going to me.
15 Q Are we talking about the 11-member team?
16 A Correct.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: Can you scroll down? Stop. Go back.
18 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
19 Q So we have the assumed allowed claim amounts under Section
20 D. Do you see that?
21 A Yes.
22 Q Class 9, $98 million and some change. Class 8, $295
23 million and some change. Then we go into the incentive
24 payment tiers. Do you see that?
25 A Yes.

1 Q What's the purpose of the tiers?
2 A The purpose of the tiers was to set additional
3 compensation so that, the more recovery, the higher the 4 compensation. So, below Tier 1, there was really effectively
5 no bonus, is my recollection. And then in each tier there
6 would be a percentage.
7 So the first tier is $10 million. There would be a
8 percentage of that $10 million that could be allocated for 9 bonus. Then in the next tier it would be $56 million. A
10 portion of that would be allocated for bonus. And it's 11 weighted more heavily to the higher-recovery tiers, meaning it
12 incentivizes both me and the team to try to reach deeper into
13 Class 8 and Class 9 and get higher recoveries.
14 Q Okay. So the idea is, the more difficult it is to get the 15 recoveries, the higher percentage you should get, because if 16 you're successful then you should be rewarded accordingly? Is 17 that kind of how it works?
18 A I'm not sure if difficult is the term, but it's a
19 combination of both expertise, difficulty, and time.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: All right. Can you scroll down,
21 please? Next page.
22 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
23 Q And here are your actual tier participations. They go --
24 you said basically nothing Tier 1, up through 6 percent. So
25 Tier 1 is the 71 percent, right?

1 A It's .72 percent, and it's of the -- that's the first
2 piece. You have to get to Tier 1. So if we had not -- I
3 believe it's structured is if we don't get to Tier 1, for 4 example, we don't hit the plan, right around the plan number
5 of 71-and-change cents, then there wouldn't -- there wouldn't 6 be upside.
7 So it was very much structured in a way that you had to 8 perform. And then the better the performance, the bigger the 9 percentages of the tier.
10 Q So, in theory, Mr. Seery, by the time you get down to Tier
11 4 and Tier 5, it's a little bit less certain that you're ever
12 going to get there. Is that right?
13 A Well, out of the gate, going deeper was uncertain. It's a
14 question of being able to execute well on the assets and being 15 able to control the costs and being able to make 16 distributions. It wasn't based on what we just got for the 17 assets. It's actually based on actual distributions --
18 Q I understand that.
19 A -- to Class 8 and 9 claimants.
20 Q I understand that. And the idea is, is that it take a lot
21 more effort -- the theory was it might take a lot more effort
22 to get all the way to the bottom of Tier 5 to pay all the 23 Class 9 claims, right?
24 A And maybe a little luck.
25 Q Yeah. And Class 10 is not even factored into this, is it?

1 A No, it is not.
2 Q And so you didn't consider Class 10. You stopped at Tier
3 5?
4 A That's correct.
5 Q So your entitlement to a 6 percent return, or a 6 percent
6 bonus on the recoveries, you say it's there to incentivize
7 you. You didn't expect that to actually happen, did you, when
8 you signed this? Is that your testimony?
9 MR. STANCIL: I object to the form of the question.
10 It mischaracterizes the agreement.
11 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
12 Q You didn't expect it to happen, did you, sir?
13 THE WITNESS: Well, the six --
14 THE COURT: Wait. I'm sorry. Could you rephrase the 15 question?
16 MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.
17 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
18 Q Are you telling the judge that you really didn't expect
19 that to happen and that's why you were entitled to a higher
20 percentage?
21 A No. We didn't expect to reach Class 9 and go deep into 22 Class 9, but we certainly held out the possibility that we 23 could. And it's not six percent. It's six percent of the 24 increment. These are cumulative. So you get .72 of Tier 1.
25 You get 1.17 of Tier 2. And you can add those, and you earn

1 them when you've actually made the distribution, but you don't
2 get paid until you get all your distribution or we're
3 relatively done or there's a renegotiation. Because the
4 Committee wanted to make sure that I didn't say, hey, I hit
5 Tier 3, time to go, I got a better job.
6 Q So, Mr. Seery, if Farallon told Mr. Dondero that they
7 wouldn't sell basically at any price because you said it was 8 too valuable, and they rejected a 40 or 50 percent premium, if
9 they said that, is that -- is that a lie?
10 A That I -- rephrase that, please. I don't -- didn't quite 11 understand your question.
12 Q Yeah. You've heard the testimony that Farallon, Michael 13 Linn, told Mr. Dondero that they were not going to sell their 14 claim at any amount because you had told them it was too
15 valuable. Is that a lie?
16 A I think that's -- yeah, I don't think that's true.
17 Q Okay. And obviously, if they're not going to be willing 18 to sell at any amount, they must be pretty certain they're 19 going to hit Tier 5. Would that just be a lie?
20 A That -- that conversation was before this negotiation.
21 That -- there's no -- they could not have had any expectation,
22 either when they had that conversation in May or when we had
23 this discussion that I was going to hit Tier 5 and I hadn't
24 hit Tier 5. And the idea that they wouldn't sell at any price
25 is complete utter nonsense, because they're capped on what

1 they can get.
2 Q So if -- sure. Okay. So, but if Farallon told --
3 A But that's what you said.
4 Q If Farallon told Mr. Dondero that they wouldn't even sell
5 at 130 percent of the purchase price because you told them it
6 would be too valuable, is that a lie?
7 A I never told them it would be too valuable. I don't -- I
8 don't know any of the other parts that you're saying, the 130
9 percent of an unknown number, some guess number that Mr.
10 Dondero had. I never told them it would be too valuable.
11 That would be their own assessment of where we were at the end
12 of May 2021.
13 Q If they said that you told them not to sell, that it was 14 too valuable, is that a lie?
15 A That's untrue, yes.
16 Q If they told him -- if they told him that he told you --
17 that you told them it was too valuable because of MGM, is that 18 a lie?
19 A Yes.
20 Q How many shares of stock did Highland Capital own?
21 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, one second. What is my time?
22 How much time do I have?
23 THE CLERK: Right now you're at --
24 MR. MCENTIRE: So I'm almost two and a half hours in?
25 THE CLERK: Just about. A little under.

1 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
2 Q I'm going to have to speed up here, Mr. Seery.
3 THE COURT: A little under two and a half, you said.
4 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
5 Q Mr. Seery, I want to make sure. Highland Capital owns
6 interests in the CLOs. What is the CLOs' stake in the MGM
7 stock, or what was it?
8 A Highland Capital does not own any interest in any of the 9 CLOs it manages. It has a fee stream, and it can have certain
10 deferred fees that it can get, but it didn't own any interest
11 in any of the CLOs that it managed.
12 Q Fair enough. How about the portfolio companies?
13 A Did Highland Capital own interests in the portfolio
14 companies?
15 Q Yes.
16 A Some of the ones Mr. Dondero listed, but they weren't 17 portfolio companies. So he said OmniMax, but we didn't have 18 any management of OmniMax. We just had debt that converted to 19 equity, but we didn't control the -- the thing. That was 20 during the case, the company.
21 Q Did Multistrat have an interest in MGM?
22 A Multistrat owned MGM, yes.
23 Q Okay. And did your company, Highland Capital -- your 24 company -- Highland Capital have an interest in Multistrat?
25 A Highland Capital owns 57 percent of Multistrat, yes.

1 Q And did Highland Capital have an interest in any other
2 portfolio companies that have an interest in -- had a stake in
3 MGM?
4 A RCP. Restoration Capital Partners.
5 Q And do you recall what the value of that was?
6 A It shifted over time. I don't -- I don't know what time
7 you're talking about.
8 Q And isn't it true that 90 percent of all the securities
9 that Highland Capital owned at the time that the sale went
10 public was roughly 90 percent of all of Highland Capital's
11 securities?
12 MR. STANCIL: Objection, Your Honor. I don't know
13 what that question is asking.
14 THE COURT: I don't understand it, either.
15 Could you rephrase?
16 MR. MCENTIRE: I'll try to.
17 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
18 Q At the time that the announcement was made about Amazon
19 buying MGM in May of 2021, what percentage of all the 20 securities did MGM comprise of the securities that were owned
21 by Highland Capital?
22 A Of the securities that were directly owned by Highland
23 Capital, it may have been -- I'm thinking of public or semi-
24 public securities, the 150,000 or 170,000 that we had that 25 were subject to the Frontier lien. Might have been almost all

1 of the securities that we owned. It wasn't -- it was a good
2 position, but it wasn't a huge driver for the directly-owned
3 shares. There was more value in the Multistrat and the RCP.
4 Q What percent of shares of all --
5 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I'm sorry, I'm having
6 trouble hearing the end of Mr. Seery's answers. So I know
7 it's not his --
8 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.
9 THE COURT: Okay. If you could make sure you speak
10 into the mic.
11 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I'm sorry.
12 MR. STANCIL: I'm having trouble with Mr. McEntire
13 talking over the end of Mr. Seery's answers.
14 THE COURT: Ah.
15 MR. STANCIL: I'm having trouble following.
16 THE COURT: Okay.
17 MR. STANCIL: I apologize.
18 THE COURT: Okay. Could you --
19 MR. MCENTIRE: I didn't know I was doing that.
20 THE COURT: Well, --
21 MR. MCENTIRE: I'll try to do better.
22 BY MR. MCENTIRE:
23 Q Mr. Seery, of all the stock that Highland Capital owned in 24 May of 2021, what percentage of that was (inaudible) stock?
25 A Hopefully this is clear. Highland Capital did not own a

1 lot of stock. Highland Capital did have a direct ownership
2 interest in MGM, so that might have been the vast majority of
3 the stock that Highland Capital owned. It did own interest in
4 other entities, like its investment in RCP or its investment
5 in Multistrat. But of the stock that it owned directly, that 6 was probably it, and that's the one that was liened up to 7 Frontier.
8 Q Mr. Seery, did Highland Capital own approximately 170,000
9 shares of MGM stock in May of 2021?
10 A Yes. You -- I'm sorry. You asked me what percentage, and 11 I think I said roughly that amount of stock liened up to 12 Frontier, and that that might have been almost all of the 13 stock we owned.
14 Q Does Highland Capital own a direct interest in HCLOF?
15 A In HC --
16 Q HCLOF?
17 A HCLOF? Yes. Highland Capital owns a small direct
18 interest, and a large indirect interest which we got through
19 the settlement with HarbourVest.
20 Q And the entity in which you acquired the indirect
21 interest, what's the name of that entity?
22 A I don't recall. It's a -- it's a single-shell special-
23 purpose entity that we own all of it and it has no other
24 assets.
25 Q And just to make sure that the record is clear, you deny

1 under oath that HCLOF has any interest -- or had any interest
2 in MGM stock?
3 A HCLOF has never owned MGM stock and still doesn't own MGM
4 stock. It's never owned it.
5 Q Um, --
6 A At least -- at least, as long as I've been in this case.
7 MR. MCENTIRE: One second, Your Honor, please.
8 (Pause.)
9 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm going to have to pass the witness
10 because of time sensitivities, Your Honor, so I'll pass the 11 witness at this time.
12 THE COURT: Okay. Cross?
13 CROSS-EXAMINATION
14 BY MR. MORRIS:
15 Q Mr. Seery?
16 A Yes, sir.
17 Q You just covered a lot of what we would have covered, so I
18 want to be really, really quick here. Okay? We're not
19 covering old ground. Let's just start with the HarbourVest 20 settlement. Do you recall that Mr. Dondero sent the email to 21 you on December 17th?
22 A Yes.
23 Q Okay. When did you reach the agreement with HarbourVest
24 on the settlement?
25 A December 10th.

1 Q Okay.
2 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I'd like to move into
3 evidence Exhibit 31. Actually, let me lay a foundation first.
4 Can you give the witness --
5 MR. MCENTIRE: Is this a new exhibit?
6 MR. MORRIS: No. It's Exhibit 31.
7 MR. MCENTIRE: Can I see it, Tim, please?
8 MR. MORRIS: It's in your box.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: Give me a minute.
10 MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.
11 THE COURT: Okay. We're about to focus on Highland 12 Exhibit what?
13 MR. MORRIS: 31.
14 THE COURT: Okay.
15 MR. MORRIS: Do you have it, Your Honor?
16 THE COURT: I do.
17 BY MR. MORRIS:
18 Q Do you have it, Mr. Seery?
19 A I do, yes.
20 MR. MORRIS: Do you have it, sir?
21 MR. MCENTIRE: I do. Thank you.
22 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
23 BY MR. MORRIS:
24 Q Can you just tell the Court what this is?
25 A This is an email chain. It starts from me to the other

1 independent directors, copying counsel, to outline the terms
2 of the HarbourVest settlement that I had just made the offer
3 to HarbourVest to settle on these terms on December 8th. And 4 this was the product of a number of negotiations that had
5 taken place over the prior weeks, and this was the final offer
6 that I was making to them to settle.
7 Q Directing your attention to the bottom of the first page,
8 the first email dated December 8, 2020 at 6:46 p.m., can you
9 just read the first sentence out loud.
10 A I lost -- you lost me.
11 Q That begins, "As discussed yesterday."
12 A Oh. "As discussed yesterday, after consultation with John
13 Morris" -- that would be you -- "regarding litigation risks,
14 this evening I made an offer" -- it says "and," but it should 15 have said "an" -- "offer to HarbourVest to settle their 16 claims. The following are the proposed terms."
17 Q Okay. Just stop right there. And you were -- this is the 18 report that you gave to the independent directors?
19 A The other independent directors.
20 Q Right.
21 A I was also one.
22 Q Right. And did Mr. Dubel respond?
23 A He did, yes.
24 Q And can you just describe briefly what your understanding
25 was of his response?

1 A Dubel responds a couple hours after I sent the original
2 email: "Jim, this basically looks like a $10 million -- net
3 $10 million payment to HV." That's HarbourVest. "Is that
4 correct? Does the 72-cent recovery include the $22-1/2
5 million that we get from the transfer of HCLOF interests?
6 Remind me again, post-effective date, who is managing HCLOF?"
7 So I think my understanding was Mr. Dubel was querying me
8 on some of the terms that I had set forth here, including that 9 the value of the claim in our estimation was going to be about 10 $9.9 million, meaning they would have a $45 million senior
11 claim, a $35 million junior claim, and we thought, based on 12 the values we had then, it was going to pay out about $9.9
13 million.
14 Q Okay. And was this offer accepted?
15 A Yes, it was.
16 Q When was it accepted?
17 A I think I just said. On -- on December 10th.
18 Q Okay. And did the terms that you described for the other
19 independent directors on December 8th, did they change in any 20 way at all from that reflected in this email until the time we 21 got to the 9019 hearing?
22 A Not at all, no.
23 Q Okay. I see that you mention in here that you -- it says,
24 quote, "The interests have a marked value of $22-1/2 million,
25 according to Hunter Covitz." Do you see that?

1 A That's correct, yes.
2 Q Who's Hunter Covitz?
3 A Hunter Covitz was a Highland employee. He ran the 4 structured products business. So he was responsible for 5 making sure that the CLO we managed, which was AC7, was 6 compliant and was -- with the indentures. He also was 7 responsible for monitoring the -- what we call the 1.0 CLOs,
8 even though they weren't really CLOs, they were more like
9 closed-in funds. And he also kept track of the Acis -- CLOs
10 that HCLOF had an interest in that were managed by Acis.
11 Q Okay. And do you recall how he conveyed to you the NAV?
12 A Well, I talked to him numerous times, so this wasn't our 13 -- I didn't just call him up at the end and say, what's the 14 NAV? I had had discussions with him while I was negotiating
15 with HarbourVest. And at some point, he or someone -- he told
16 me the amount, and at some point he gave me a NAV statement
17 that actually showed the NAV of HCLOF, which at 11/30 was 18 roughly $45 million.
19 Q Okay. Can you turn to Exhibit 31-A, the next document in 20 the binder?
21 A Mine's completely blacked out.
22 THE COURT: I'm sorry, what number?
23 MR. MORRIS: 31-A.
24 THE COURT: Oh.
25 MR. MORRIS: And the first two pages are redacted

1 just because they're not relevant and they're business
2 information.
3 BY MR. MORRIS:
4 Q But can you turn to the last page, sir?
5 A Yes.
6 Q Can you tell the judge what this is?
7 A So this is a net asset value statement from HCLOF. That's
8 Highland CLO Funding, Limited. That's the Guernsey entity
9 that -- that held these interests. And this is a net asset
10 amount, and it shows what the net -- what the net asset value
11 is as of this time on a carryforward basis of $45.191 million.
12 Q Okay. And where did you get this document?
13 A I believe I got it from Covitz. It's generated by an 14 entity called Elysium, which is the fund administrator for 15 HCLOF, and I believe they're out of Guernsey.
16 Q And did you rely on this document in setting the proposal
17 to HarbourVest?
18 A Well, both the conversations with Covitz and the document.
19 And frankly, HarbourVest got the same documents because they 20 were -- they held a membership interest in HCLOF. So he --
21 Michael Pugatch knew what the NAV was.
22 Q And would Mr. Dondero or entities controlled by him who 23 also have interests in HCLOF, is it your understanding that
24 they would have also had this document available?
25 A All members would --

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Excuse me. Excuse me. I object to
2 that question, the question being "and the entities controlled
3 by Mr. Dondero." There's no foundation for this witness to 4 answer a question like that.
5 BY MR. MORRIS:
6 Q Who else owned --
7 THE COURT: Sustained.
8 BY MR. MORRIS:
9 Q -- an interest in HCLOF?
10 THE COURT: Go ahead.
11 THE WITNESS: It would have been DAF.
12 BY MR. MORRIS:
13 Q The DAF?
14 A Yeah.
15 Q Okay. Let's just ask this question. Is it your 16 understanding that these NAV valuation reports were made to 17 all holders of interests in HCLOF?
18 A Yes. And that would include the DAF. And I did leave off
19 that there were three former Highland employees long gone, or 20 at least not around at this point, who also owned very small 21 interests, and they would have gotten those statements as 22 well.
23 Q And does HCLOF also produce audited financial statements?
24 A It does, yes.
25 Q Can you go to Exhibit 60, please?

1 A Six zero?
2 Q Yes, sir. A couple of questions here. Is this a document
3 that Highland would have received in the ordinary course of
4 business?
5 A Yes, it is.
6 Q Okay. And what is the NAV depicted on this page as of the 7 end of the year 2020?
8 A Well, you have to look through it, because this document
9 is actually dated 4/21/21, --
10 Q Okay.
11 A -- which you can see on Page 10 where it's signed. And 12 that shows a net asset value of $50.4 million as of 12/31/21.
13 12/20. I'm sorry. And -- but it wasn't prepared until -- the 14 audits aren't done and we don't get this document until after 15 the directors sign off in April.
16 Q Okay.
17 MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor, I move for the admission
18 into evidence of these three HarbourVest-related documents,
19 30, 31-A, and 60.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: No objection.
21 THE COURT: They're admitted.
22 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
23 (Debtors' Exhibits 30, 31-A, and 60 are received into 24 evidence.)
25 BY MR. MORRIS:

1 Q Okay. Let me move on. We've seen Mr. Dondero's email
2 today. You've seen that before, correct?
3 A Yes.
4 Q Okay. What was your reaction when you got it?
5 A I was highly suspicious.
6 Q Why is that?
7 A Well, not to replow too much old ground, but this came
8 after he threatened me. He threatened me in writing. I'd 9 never been threatened in my career. I've never heard of 10 anyone else in this business who's been threatened in their 11 career. So anything I would get from him, I was going to be 12 highly suspicious.
13 It also followed the imposition of a TRO for interfering
14 with the business. He knew what was in the TRO and he knew
15 what it applied to, and it restricted him from communicating 16 with me or any of the other independent directors without
17 Pachulski being on it.
18 Furthermore, Pachulski had advised Mr. Dondero's counsel
19 that not only could they not communicate with us, if they 20 wanted to communicate they had to prescreen the topics.
21 And how do we know that? Because Dondero filed a motion
22 to modify the TRO. And that was all before this email.
23 In addition, that followed the termination of the shared
24 service arrangements, the approval of the disclosure
25 statement, and the demand to collect on the demand notes that

1 Mr. Dondero and his entities were liable for.
2 So at that point, he'd been interfering with the business,
3 he had threatened me, he was subject to a TRO, and I got this
4 email and I was highly suspicious.
5 Q Did you ever share this email with anybody at Farallon?
6 A No.
7 Q Did you ever share this email with anybody at Stonehill?
8 A No. And just to be clear, not just the email, the 9 contents. Never discussed it with them.
10 Q That was going to be my next question. Did you ever share
11 any information about MGM with anybody?
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
13 MR. MORRIS: I'm asking the question.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: No, you're leading.
15 MR. MORRIS: This is the whole --
16 MR. MCENTIRE: You're leading the witness.
17 THE COURT: Overruled. Finish the question.
18 BY MR. MORRIS:
19 Q Did you ever share any information concerning with MGM
20 with anybody at Stonehill before you learned that they had 21 purchased claims?
22 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
23 THE COURT: Overruled.
24 THE WITNESS: No. No, I did not.
25 BY MR. MORRIS:

1 Q Did you ever share any information with anybody at
2 Farallon concerning MGM before you learned that they purchased
3 their claims?
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
5 THE WITNESS: No, I did not.
6 THE COURT: Overruled.
7 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.
8 (Pause.)
9 THE WITNESS: You know, you just asked me something
10 about Stonehill.
11 THE COURT: No.
12 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.
13 BY MR. MORRIS:
14 Q Yeah. No question.
15 A I wanted to clarify one.
16 Q What did you want to clarify, sir?
17 A Certainly didn't share anything about this email, any of 18 the contents of it. I don't know if I ever -- I don't know
19 exactly when Stonehill bought their claims, and they were 20 subject to the NDA to do the financing process. So I know
21 when Farallon told me they had bought their claims and I know
22 we never had any discussions at all before they acquired their 23 claims, and I don't know when Stonehill got those -- their 24 claims, so I don't know when -- what was in the data room or 25 what -- what might have been discussed about MGM while they

1 were under an NDA.
2 Q Okay.
3 A But certainly nothing -- I never shared the contents of 4 this email, the substance of this email, the email at all.
5 That's what I wanted to clarify.
6 Q What data room are you talking about, sir?
7 A This was the data room related to the exit financing where
8 we sought exit financing and ultimately got exit financing
9 from Blue Torch Capital.
10 Q And who put together the data room?
11 A DSI, which was our financial consultants, and our finance
12 team.
13 Q And why did you -- did you delegate responsibility for 14 creating the data room to DSI and the members of your team you
15 just identified?
16 A Yeah, of course.
17 Q How come?
18 A I don't really know how to put together a data room.
19 Q Did you -- did you direct them to put anything in the data
20 room?
21 A Not specifically. We had a deck that we -- that certainly
22 I worked on and commented on, which would have been a general
23 overview of the -- of the post-reorganized Highland and the --
24 and the -- and the Claimant Trust. So I certainly commented
25 on that. But the specific information in the data room, I

1 don't -- I never looked at it. I don't know what it is.
2 Q How many -- how many entities who were participating in
3 the exit facility process wound up making bids or offers?
4 A There were five that signed NDAs. Three provided
5 substantive proposals. One was verbal. That was Bardin Hill,
6 who'd been contacting me throughout the case, and they do this
7 kind of financing, and they submitted a competitive bid.
8 Stonehill in writing, and then amended, a more aggressive one,
9 in writing. And Blue Torch probably three, and the most
10 aggressive.
11 Q And did you give the -- did you give the opportunity to 12 your age-old friends at Stonehill?
13 A They're not my age-old friends. And no, they lost. They 14 were second, they were close, it was a good real proposal, but 15 they didn't win.
16 Q So, --
17 A Blue Torch won.
18 Q So is it fair to say that you -- did you pick the best
19 proposal that you thought provided the best value for the 20 company that you were managing?
21 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, again, for the last ten 22 minutes, we've had nothing but leading questions. And it just 23 is --
24 MR. MORRIS: Fine. Happy to --
25 THE COURT: Sustained. Rephrase.

1 BY MR. MORRIS:
2 Q Why did you pick Stone -- why did you pick Blue -- Blue-?
3 A Blue Torch.
4 Q Blue Torch, over the other bids?
5 A It was the best bid. So, structurally, it was the least 6 expensive, although they were extremely close. I had a lot of 7 confidence in Blue Torch because this type of financing is
8 what they do. And while you can never have a hundred percent
9 confidence that if somebody goes through the -- this is an
10 LOI, right, so this is a letter of intent. When they go
11 further, they may -- they may not complete it. But I had a
12 high degree of confidence that they would get there, because,
13 again, that's what they do. And they were the -- they were 14 just the better bid.
15 Q Okay. Do you recall that in Mr. Dondero's notes he wrote
16 down that he was told that Farallon had purchased their claims
17 in February or March?
18 A I saw that on what he claimed, yes.
19 Q And is that consistent with what you were told by Farallon
20 in March?
21 A They told me they acquired the claims -- they had acquired
22 the claims on March 15th, by email. I don't know if they
23 acquired them in February or March. Or even January. I know
24 they said they had them on March 15.
25 Q Did you ever speak with Farallon about anything having to

1 do with the purchase of their claims?
2 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
3 THE COURT: Overruled.
4 THE WITNESS: Not -- not before they sent me that
5 email.
6 MR. MORRIS: I apologize. Withdrawn.
7 BY MR. MORRIS:
8 Q Before -- before learning of their purchase, had you had
9 any discussions with them about potential claim purchases?
10 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection.
11 THE WITNESS: No.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Leading.
13 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.
14 THE COURT: Overruled.
15 THE WITNESS: No, I didn't.
16 BY MR. MORRIS:
17 Q Okay. Before you learned that Stonehill had purchased
18 claims in the Highland bankruptcy, had you ever had any 19 conversation with them about the potential purchase of claims?
20 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
21 THE WITNESS: No, I don't -- I don't --
22 THE COURT: Overruled.
23 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. I don't -- I don't believe
24 so, no.
25 BY MR. MORRIS:

1 Q Do you have any knowledge at all as to how the sellers
2 went about selling their claims?
3 A I have some knowledge now, post-effective date, that I
4 believe I have some understanding, but not a great one.
5 Q Did you ever communicate with any of the sellers about the
6 potential sale of their claims prior to the time their claims
7 were sold?
8 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
9 THE COURT: Overruled.
10 THE WITNESS: I did have a conversation with Eric
11 Felton who was the Redeemer representative on the Creditors'
12 Committee. And it came out of one of the emails I got. I
13 think it indicated that --
14 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection, hearsay, Your Honor. I
15 mean, hearsay, Your Honor.
16 THE COURT: Okay.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: It's hearsay.
18 THE COURT: Okay. He's about to say something that's 19 hearsay is the objection. Any response?
20 MR. MORRIS: I'm not offering it for the truth of the 21 matter asserted. I'm offering it for Mr. Seery's state of 22 mind and the extent of his communications. How about that?
23 MR. MCENTIRE: I don't see how you could offer it for 24 anything other than for the truth of the matter asserted.
25 It's coming from a third party, so I object to hearsay.

1 MR. MORRIS: Okay. You know what? We --
2 BY MR. MORRIS:
3 Q Other than the one conversation --
4 THE COURT: Are you withdrawing the question or do I
5 need --
6 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. This is just --
7 THE COURT: Okay. You're withdrawing the question.
8 MR. MORRIS: I'll withdraw the question.
9 THE COURT: Okay.
10 BY MR. MORRIS:
11 Q Other than the one conversation with Mr. Felton, did you
12 ever have a conversation with any seller prior to the time you
13 learned that Farallon or Stonehill --
14 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
15 BY MR. MORRIS:
16 Q -- purchased the claims?
17 THE COURT: Overruled.
18 THE WITNESS: No.
19 BY MR. MORRIS:
20 Q Did you play any role in facilitating or recommending to 21 Farallon or Muck that it purchase claims?
22 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
23 THE COURT: Overruled.
24 THE WITNESS: No. None whatsoever.
25 BY MR. MORRIS:

1 Q Did you play any role in facilitating or recommending that
2 Stonehill or Jessup purchase claims?
3 A No.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
5 THE COURT: Overruled.
6 THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.
7 BY MR. MORRIS:
8 Q All right. Let's just finish up with compensation. Can 9 you go to Exhibit 41, please? Can you just identify that 10 document for the Court?
11 A This is the -- it's a memorandum agreement that sits on 12 top of an outline. It is the December 2 incentive
13 compensation agreed terms for Highland Capital --
14 Q Okay.
15 A -- and the Trust.
16 Q And when was this signed?
17 A It would have been -- the date is December 6th.
18 Q And --
19 A 2021. I'm sorry.
20 Q Okay. And when did you and the Committee members begin
21 discussing your compensation package?
22 A Shortly after the effective date, which was August 11,
23 2021.
24 Q And were there any negotiations during that intervening
25 three- or four-month period?

1 A Considerable negotiations during that period, yes.
2 Q Can you go to the last page of Exhibit 41? Can you
3 describe that for the Court? I know it's hard to read, but --
4 A I --
5 Q -- the numbers don't matter so much as the infor... you
6 know, just, can you just describe --
7 A Yeah.
8 Q -- what's being conveyed?
9 A So it's very hard to read, but it says -- because it's
10 small -- Seery Proposal 1, Oversight Counter 1, Seery Proposal
11 2, Oversight Counter 2, and then it continues down. My 12 recollection is that we had four or five rounds of back-and-
13 forth that were meaningful. But it -- but it even took a
14 detour in the middle, because it started with my proposal,
15 which was pretty robust, and their response to me that they 16 didn't like the structure or the amount, and so then we 17 started talking about that. And then they -- after we were 18 kind of hitting numbers and structure at the same time, they 19 came back to me and said, stop, we've got to agree on the 20 structure before we agree on the amounts.
21 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I'm going to object as 22 it's hearsay and move to strike. This is -- he's not talking
23 about the document. He's talking about something outside of 24 the four corners of the document. I object to hearsay.
25 MR. MORRIS: Hearsay? There's no statement.

1 THE COURT: There was --
2 MR. MORRIS: It's a description of what happened.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: But he's actually referring to 4 statements in his substantive comments.
5 THE COURT: Overruled. Okay.
6 MR. MORRIS: I move for the admission into evidence
7 of Exhibit 41.
8 THE COURT: Any objection?
9 MR. MCENTIRE: That's the memorandum agreement, Mr.
10 Morris? Is that it?
11 MR. MORRIS: Yes, sir.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: No objection.
13 THE COURT: Admitted.
14 (Debtors' Exhibit 41 is received into evidence.)
15 BY MR. MORRIS:
16 Q Can we go backwards to Exhibit 39, please? Can you
17 describe for the Court what that is?
18 A This is a redacted copy of minutes of the board meeting on 19 August 21 -- 26, 2021.
20 Q And there's a lot of stuff redacted there. Do you have an 21 understanding as to why there is redactions?
22 A It would have nothing to do with these issues that we're
23 discussing or the alleged quid pro quo.
24 Q Okay. Can you just read out loud the last portion that's 25 unredacted on the second page, beginning with "Mr. Seery

1 reviewed"?
2 A It actually says, "Mr. Seery also presented the board with
3 an overview of his incentive compensation program proposal,
4 which would include not only Mr. Seery but the current HCMLP
5 team. The terms and structure of the proposal had been
6 previewed with the board in prior operating models presented
7 by Mr. Seery. Mr. Seery reviewed the proposal and stated his 8 view that the proposal was market-based and was designed to 9 align incentive between himself and the HCMLP team on the one
10 hand and the Claimant Trust beneficiaries on the other. The 11 board asked questions regarding the proposal and determined
12 that it would consider the proposal and revert to Mr. Seery
13 with a counterproposal."
14 Q All right. When you were -- when you were shown one of 15 these documents before, you were asked to identify Mr. Linn,
16 but you weren't asked about the others. Do you see Richard
17 Katz there?
18 A Yes.
19 Q Who's that?
20 A He's the independent member.
21 Q Did he play any role in the negotiation of your
22 compensation package?
23 A Yes. He was actively involved.
24 Q Okay. And how about Mr. Provost? Who's he?
25 A He is the Jessup person. Jessup is the board member.

1 He's their representative on the board.
2 Q Okay.
3 MR. MORRIS: And I move for admission into evidence
4 of Exhibit 39.
5 MR. MCENTIRE: No objection, Your Honor.
6 THE COURT: Admitted.
7 (Debtors' Exhibit 39 is received into evidence.)
8 BY MR. MORRIS:
9 Q Let's go to Exhibit 40, please. Can you just describe for 10 the Court what that is?
11 A This is a subsequent board meeting minutes, August 30,
12 2021.
13 Q And can you just read into the record -- why are there
14 redactions?
15 A Again, they would -- if there are redactions, it would 16 have nothing to do with the issues that are being brought up
17 in this motion.
18 Q And can you just read into the record the paragraph
19 beginning, "Mr. Katz"?
20 A "Mr. Katz began the meeting by walking the Oversight Board
21 and Mr. Seery through the Oversight Board's counterproposal to 22 the HCMLP incentive compensation proposal, including the 23 review of the spreadsheet and summary of the counterproposal.
24 Discussion was joined by Mr. Linn and Mr. Stern. Mr. Seery
25 asked numerous questions and received detailed responses from

1 the Oversight Board. Mr. Seery and the Oversight Board agreed
2 to continue the discussion and negotiations regarding the
3 proposed incentive compensation plan for the Claimant Trustee
4 and the -- and the HCMLP."
5 Q So they didn't accept your original proposal that you made
6 in the earlier document?
7 A They did not.
8 Q Okay. And did negotiations continue?
9 A They did, yes.
10 MR. MORRIS: Before we go on, I move for admission
11 into evidence Exhibit 40.
12 THE COURT: Any --
13 MR. MCENTIRE: No objection.
14 THE COURT: It's admitted.
15 (Debtors' Exhibit 40 is received into evidence.)
16 BY MR. MORRIS:
17 Q Can you go to Exhibit 59, please? Can you describe for 18 the Court what this is?
19 A This is an email string between me and the Oversight Board
20 regarding the compensation proposal.
21 Q Okay. And directing your attention to the bottom, I
22 guess, of the second page, there is an email from Mr. Katz
23 dated October 26. Do you see that?
24 A At the bottom of the second -- oh, yes, yes.
25 Q Okay. Can you just read the sentence at the bottom of the

1 page beginning "We propose"?
2 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, I would, first of
3 all, object to him just reading from the document until it's 4 been put into evidence.
5 THE COURT: I'm sorry, say again?
6 MR. MCENTIRE: I would object to Exhibit --
7 THE COURT: We can't pick things up on the record
8 when you don't speak in a mic.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: I object to him simply reading from 10 the document before the document is offered into evidence.
11 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Accepted into evidence.
13 MR. MORRIS: Sure. I'd move it into evidence.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: I object as hearsay.
15 MR. MORRIS: This is a present sense recollection --
16 recorded. It's a clear business record. It's a negotiation
17 that's happening over time. Mr. Seery is here to answer any 18 questions about authenticity.
19 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, it's an email
20 string involving communications with third parties. That's 21 hearsay in and of itself. And it's not been established that 22 this is a business record. And Mr. Morris's statements to 23 that effect, frankly, don't carry his burden. There's 24 internal hearsay contained throughout the document, Your
25 Honor, even if it is a business record.

1 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just to be clear, let me
2 respond.
3 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
4 MR. MORRIS: Exceptions to hearsay rule. 803(1)
5 present sense impression; (2) -- (3) existing mental
6 impression, state of mind about motive, (5) recorded
7 recollection, (6) records of regularly-conducted activity, or 8 Federal Rule of Evidence 807, residual exception for 9 trustworthy and probative evidence. I'll take any of them.
10 MR. MCENTIRE: None of them apply.
11 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
12 THE COURT: Okay. Overruled.
13 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.
14 THE COURT: I admit it. 59's admitted.
15 (Debtors' Exhibit 59 is received into evidence.)
16 BY MR. MORRIS:
17 Q Can you just read that last sentence at the bottom of that
18 page?
19 A This is from Rich Katz to me.
20 Q Uh-huh.
21 A (reading) We propose doing this in two stages. First,
22 we'd like to come to agreement on structural, underscored,
23 elements of the ICP.
24 ICP means incentive compensation program or plan.
25 Only after we'd done that, when the board had greater

1 understanding of what plan they were pricing, would we haggle
2 out the specific numbers, underscore, tier attachment points,
3 and percentage participation in each tier.
4 Q Okay. And going to the right-hand part of that, do you
5 see where it says, Salary J.S. Only?
6 A Yes.
7 Q Can you just, you know, generally describe for the Court
8 what the debate is or the negotiation that's happening on that 9 particular point?
10 A Well, this was brought up earlier. The salary was 11 $150,000 a month. That was the same salary that I'd had 12 during the case that was approved by the Court. It had been
13 approved by the Committee, approved by the other independent 14 members. That was continuing. It was also contained as an
15 actual base salary in the plan and the Claimant Trust
16 Agreement, and they were never amended.
17 The Committee came back to me and said, we'd like that to 18 step down. And they'd like it to step down on a definitive 19 specific schedule, because they had a view that that would 20 incentivize me to work faster to make distributions before the 21 stepdown and that I wouldn't linger in the role. And the 22 yellow --
23 Q Can you just read the yellow out loud?
24 A That's --
25 Q Read the whole thing.

1 A That's my response.
2 Q Read the whole thing.
3 A (reading) Based on the required expertise, volume, and
4 personal risk of the work today, I do not think that any 5 formulaic reduction in base comp is appropriate. With the 6 complexity and amount of issues that I have to manage on a
7 daily basis, I currently do not have capacity to take on 8 significant outside work. Of course, things can change. If
9 they do, I am open to discussing reduction in the base. I
10 have no interest in sitting around doing nothing, having no
11 risk, and collecting the full base compensation. We can 12 include prefatory language and an agreement to revisit our 13 terms, but I do not see an avenue to set parameters to lock in 14 an agreement for the future at this time.
15 And then there's another paragraph on severance.
16 Q You can stop there.
17 MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions.
18 THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness.
19 MR. MCENTIRE: Do you have any questions?
20 A VOICE: No.
21 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. How much time do I have,
22 please?
23 THE CLERK: So, the limit is at two hours and 32
24 minutes.
25 MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

1 REDIRECT EXAMINATION

2 BY MR. MCENTIRE:

3 Q Just a couple questions very quickly, Mr. Seery. Highland

4 Capital Management paid HarbourVest cash as part of the 5 settlement, correct?

6 A That's incorrect.

7 Q There was no cash component at all?

8 A There was not.

9 Q And in connection with the HarbourVest settlement,

10 HarbourVest transferred an interest in HCLOF to Highland

11 Capital or an entity affiliated with Highland Capital; is that 12 not correct?

13 A That's correct.

14 Q And that -- that entity -- and HCLOF, and HCLOF had an

15 interest in various CLOs, correct?

16 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I object. This is beyond

17 the scope of my cross, or redirect, however you prefer.

18 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, you spent a lot of time on 19 HarbourVest. I'm just trying to clear it up.

20 MR. MORRIS: I didn't say the word CLO. I did not

21 say the word CLO.

22 THE COURT: Overruled. He can go there.

23 If you'd please move the mic towards your voice.

24 BY MR. MCENTIRE:

25 Q And HCLOF had an interest in various CLOs, correct?

1 A I believe it had an interest in five CLOs. Oh, that's not
2 true. It had an interest in five of the 1.0 CLOs. It also
3 owned one hundred -- basically, somewhere between 87 and a
4 hundred percent of Acis 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7, which is about a
5 billion dollars of CLOs to 10 (inaudible) leveraged vehicles,
6 and they owned basically all the equity, so that was the 7 driver of the value.
8 Q And various entities that were -- I mean, some of these
9 various CLOs had an interest in MGM stock, correct?
10 A The 1. -- the Highland 1.0s did. The value drivers I just 11 described -- Acis 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 -- had no interest in MGM.
12 Q But one of them did have an interest in MGM?
13 A That's not correct.
14 Q What did you just say?
15 A 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 did not have any interest in MGM.
16 Q Were there any CLOs that had an interest in MGM?
17 A Some of the 1.0 CLOs did, --
18 Q I see.
19 A -- yes.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: Pass the witness.
21 MR. MORRIS: No further questions.
22 THE COURT: Mr. Seery, I want to ask you one thing.
23 THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor.
24 EXAMINATION BY THE COURT
25 THE COURT: We dance around it a lot. The Highland

1 ownership of MGM stock. If think -- if you could confirm I've
2 heard this correct -- you said Highland itself owned 170,000
3 shares that were subject to a Frontier Bank lien?
4 THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor. I believe that's the
5 right amount. So, Highland directly owned about 170,000
6 shares. Those were liened up to Frontier. They were -- they
7 were never transferred. Highland never sold any MGM stock.
8 THE COURT: Okay. So Frontier still holds it or 9 what?
10 THE WITNESS: No. In fact, post-effective -- I
11 believe it was post-effective date, and with cash generated,
12 we -- we paid off the Frontier loan, --
13 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
14 THE WITNESS: -- released that lien, and then we held
15 those shares in MGM until the merger was consummated.
16 THE COURT: Okay.
17 THE WITNESS: So we tendered our shares into the -- 18 into the merger and got the merger consideration, which was 19 cash.
20 THE COURT: Okay. And so there was that. But other
21 than that, you said Highland owned 50 percent of Multistrat,
22 which owned some MGM stock?
23 THE WITNESS: Multistrat had a -- I don't recall the 24 amount, but a material amount of MGM stock. That also -- so,
25 Highland owned 57 percent of Multistrat. Is also the manager

1 of Multistrat.
2 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
3 THE WITNESS: Multistrat did not sell any MGM stock.
4 It also tendered them into the merger as well.
5 THE COURT: Okay. And then you said Highland owned
6 some percentage of Restoration --
7 THE WITNESS: Restorations Capital Partners.
8 THE COURT: -- Capital Partners, which owned some
9 MGM stock?
10 THE WITNESS: Similarly, Highland is the manager of 11 what we call RCP. RCP owned a material amount of MGM stock.
12 RCP did not sell any MGM stock. However, in 2019, you'll 13 recall that Mr. Dondero sold $125 million of stock
14 postpetition out of RCP. It was MGM stock. He sold it back
15 to MGM. We had a -- we had a hearing on it, because 16 subsequently the Independent Board learned about it, the 17 Committee learned about it, they had not -- it had not been
18 disclosed, but there was a -- what we thought was a binding
19 agreement with MGM, and MGM indicated that they were going to 20 hold us to it, and so we had a hearing about approving that
21 transaction. The Committee was not happy.
22 THE COURT: Okay. I'm fuzzy on when that was. You
23 said?
24 THE WITNESS: That would have been in early 2020,
25 probably April-ish timeframe.

1 THE COURT: Okay.
2 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?
3 THE WITNESS: The transaction was in November, I
4 believe.
5 MR. MORRIS: If it's helpful, Your Honor, you can
6 find it at Docket 487.
7 THE COURT: Okay.
8 MR. MORRIS: I think that's the objection from the 9 Committee where the issue was -- comes up at least at one
10 time.
11 THE COURT: Okay. And then I think this is the last 12 category I heard, that HCM and its specially-created sub owned 13 just over 50 percent of HCLOF, and it in turn owns interest in 14 a lot of CLOs, and a few of those, what you call the 1.0 CLOs,
15 did own some MGM stock?
16 THE WITNESS: That's correct. So if you look on the 17 audited financials that we had introduced into evidence,
18 you'll see actually every asset that HCLOF owns. There's no
19 MGM in there. It does own interest. There were minority
20 interests in five or six of the 1.0 CLOs. Grayson,
21 Greenbrier, Gleneagles, Brentwood, Liberty, and one other.
22 And it had interest in those, but it never owned any MGM stock
23 and it never traded any MGM stock. It didn't own any.
24 THE COURT: All right. Did I cover the universe of 25 what MGM stock was owned by Highland or something Highland had

1 an interest in?
2 THE WITNESS: Yeah. So, the ones that HCLOF had an
3 interest in that I just listed, those -- Jasper was the other
4 one. I apologize. The -- they owned -- they owned MGM stock
5 among their other -- they had a lot of other assets. The 6 other CLOs, the 1.0 CLOs that Highland had, every one of them
7 owned MGM stock. None of them sold or bought any stock.
8 Those all tendered into the merger as well. Highland did not
9 own any interest in any of those entities.
10 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
11 THE WITNESS: It just managed them.
12 THE COURT: Okay. And this is my last question.
13 Someone brought up or it came up today that exactly two years
14 ago today -- I didn't remember we were on an anniversary of 15 that -- but was when we had a hearing, and I think it was a
16 contempt hearing, but I had, I guess, read in the media, like
17 many other human beings, an article about the MGM-Amazon
18 transaction, and I had said I had hope in my heart and brain
19 that this could be an impetus or a triggering event for maybe 20 a settlement. And that was kind of quickly pooh-poohed, if 21 you will.
22 Remind me why I was quickly persuaded, oh well, I guess
23 that's not going to happen. I just can't remember what I
24 heard that day.
25 THE WITNESS: Well, it was widely known that

1 Highland, meaning not the 171,000 --
2 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
3 THE WITNESS: -- but the entities that Highland or
4 related entities, including DAF, the other Dondero entities,
5 controlled a lot of Highland stock, as even Mr. Dondero said
6 between Anchorage --
7 THE COURT: You mean MGM?
8 THE WITNESS: MGM, I'm sorry. Between -- there were
9 only five major holders. There was the two we just mentioned
10 and Davidson Kempner and Monarch and Owl Creek, and just a few
11 other big holders.
12 And so Your Honor would have learned it from the case, but
13 you also would have learned it from the paper, that any time a
14 holder is mentioned, it's first Anchorage, because they owned 15 the biggest piece, and Kevin Ulrich, who was the chairman of 16 Anchorage, was also the chairman of MGM. And then Highland
17 was always mentioned.
18 The reason that it didn't have some great amount of 19 capital that went on to Highland, although there was money
20 from RCP and there was money from MGM, is Highland doesn't own
21 the stock that's -- or interests in the 1.0 CLOs that owned
22 all of it. We just manage it.
23 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
24 THE WITNESS: And that goes to various other
25 entities, including, in large part, to Dondero entities. So

1 there wasn't a big windfall to Highland from that.
2 The possibility of some upside from HCLOF, because it
3 owned small interests in those five, there was some value in 4 that, but a lot of it got tied up in the litigation that other
5 entities, Dondero entities, are bringing against U.S. Bank and 6 Acis, which has tied up everything in that -- those
7 distributions.
8 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you. You are 9 excused from the stand.
10 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.
11 MR. STANCIL: I owe you a docket number, Your Honor.
12 You said don't let us leave before we give you a docket number
13 for that second contempt order. We promised to come back. It
14 was #2660.
15 THE COURT: Okay. Got it.
16 MR. STANCIL: Which -- did we move that into
17 evidence?
18 MR. MORRIS: No. We asked the Court to take judicial 19 notice.
20 THE COURT: I will take judicial notice of 2660, --
21 MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor.
22 THE COURT: -- I already said. Thank you.
23 THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.
24 THE COURT: You're excused.
25 (The witness steps down.)

1 THE COURT: All right. Are you going to have any
2 other evidence, Mr. McEntire?
3 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, as I respond to your
4 question, I think we have 30 -- approximately 30 minutes left.
5 THE CLERK: Twenty-six, yes.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Twenty-six. We do have another
7 witness. We also have a closing final argument. And we also 8 have an opportunity -- we want to reserve an opportunity for 9 our experts that is still under advisement.
10 So my first action would be to ask for an extension of 11 time, or we would like to add to our time limit. Instead of 12 just three hours, we'd like to increase the time so we can
13 accomplish all these things.
14 I mean, if the Court is unwilling to give us additional
15 time, then I will be forced not to call another witness. I
16 will move to a very short final argument. I need to preserve
17 some time for my experts, should you allow them to testify.
18 THE COURT: Well, --
19 MR. MORRIS: May I respond?
20 THE COURT: -- you don't have to preserve time. I'm 21 either going to allow you to put on your experts, and we said
22 30 minutes/30 minutes, --
23 MR. MORRIS: That was what I was going to say, Your
24 Honor.
25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. MORRIS: There's no prejudice here. Nobody's
2 being harmed. There's no appellate issue. I thought we were
3 really clear. Everybody gets their three hours today. We
4 will file our reply brief on Monday. The Court will determine
5 both whether it needs to hear expert testimony and whether or 6 not our motion should be sustained. If the Court denies the 7 motion, we'll take a couple of depositions and each side will
8 get whatever period of time the Court orders.
9 But, you know, the attempts to create an appellate record
10 are just -- you know, that's not -- there's no issue here. He 11 can -- he's got 26 minutes. He can put on his witness, he can 12 make his closing in the 26 minutes that they've always had.
13 THE COURT: All right. Well, we have --
14 MR. MCENTIRE: May I caucus? May I caucus very 15 quickly, Your Honor?
16 THE COURT: Okay. Uh-huh. And while you're 17 caucusing, we have our game plan on the experts. We know how 18 that's going to happen. And I'm not extending the three
19 hours.
20 MR. MORRIS: (sotto voce) We have 62 minutes?
21 (Pause.)
22 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, accordingly, I'll just --
23 we'll move into a final argument at this time.
24 THE COURT: Okay. So you rest?
25 MR. MCENTIRE: I rest.

1 THE COURT: All right.
2 MR. MORRIS: We call Mark Patrick.
3 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Patrick, you've been
4 called to the witness stand.
5 MR. MORRIS: I just need to find my examination
6 notes. Just give me one moment, please.
7 THE COURT: All right. Please raise your right hand.
8 Could you remain standing, please.
9 (The witness is sworn.)
10 THE COURT: All right. You may be seated.
11 MARK PATRICK, DEBTORS' WITNESS, SWORN
12 DIRECT EXAMINATION
13 BY MR. MORRIS:
14 Q Hi, Mr. Patrick.
15 A Hello.
16 Q Did you ever meet with anybody at the Texas State
17 Securities Board?
18 A No.
19 Q Do you know if -- do you know anybody who ever met with 20 anybody at the Texas State Securities Board concerning 21 Highland?
22 A Yes.
23 Q And who met with the Texas State Securities Board
24 concerning Highland?
25 A Ronnie (phonetic) Patel.

1 Q And is that a lawyer?
2 A Yes.
3 Q Do you know who retained Mr. -- that lawyer?
4 A Yes.
5 Q Who retained that lawyer?
6 A The DAF, the Charitable DAF Fund. Or one of its entities.
7 Q Okay. And is it your understanding that the DAF Fund or 8 one of its charitable entities filed a complaint with the 9 Texas State Securities Board?
10 A Yes.
11 Q Okay. Thank you very much. Does Hunter Mountain owe any 12 money to Mr. Dondero?
13 A No.
14 Q Is there a promissory note that's outstanding that Mr.
15 Dondero has pursuant to which Hunter Mountain owes him $60-
16 plus million?
17 A No.
18 Q Who created Hunter Mountain?
19 A Well, I don't recall specifically. I just recall the 20 facts that, when Hunter Mountain was created, Thomas Surgent,
21 the chief compliance officer of Highland Capital Management,
22 who was representing the Dugaboy Investment Trust as well as
23 Highland Capital legally with respect to that transaction,
24 requested to Rand that the Hunter Mountain Investment Trust be
25 created for purposes of Highland filing its ADV with the SEC.

1 It was my understanding that when the ADV would be filed, sort
2 of the ownership change would -- chain would stop at Hunter
3 Mountain.
4 Q Okay. Dugaboy is Mr. Dondero's family trust, correct?
5 A No. But I'll help you along. Just please use the full
6 name of the trust.
7 Q If I refer to the Trust, will you know that that's -- is
8 that for the Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, or do you want
9 me to use trust --
10 A There's no entity called Dugaboy. Just Dugaboy. There's 11 not.
12 Q Okay.
13 A It's a shorthand. I'm --
14 Q Okay. I'll refer to Dugaboy then, okay?
15 A What are we referring to?
16 Q The trust known as Dugaboy.
17 A Okay. Fair enough. Go ahead.
18 Q Okay. Did Dugaboy contribute a portion of its ownership
19 interest in Highland to the Highland -- to the Hunter Mountain
20 Investment Trust?
21 A Contribute? No.
22 Q Did it transfer?
23 A Yes.
24 Q And did it receive in exchange a promissory note from
25 Hunter Mountain?

1 A Yes, it did.
2 Q Okay. And Mr. Dondero is the lifetime beneficiary of
3 Dugaboy, correct?
4 A Yes and no. It's a placeholder -- a placeholder provision
5 that's never been used.
6 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, pardon me. Pardon me.
7 Objection, relevance, Your Honor.
8 THE COURT: Relevance?
9 MR. MORRIS: This is -- we've been told so many times
10 that Mr. Dondero has no interest in this case, he has nothing
11 to do with Hunter Mountain. He's the lifetime beneficiary of 12 Dugaboy. And if I --
13 THE WITNESS: That provision has never been invoked.
14 He's received no money through that provision.
15 THE COURT: Okay. Just wait. We're resolving --
16 MR. MORRIS: Right.
17 THE COURT: -- an objection at the moment.
18 BY MR. MORRIS:
19 Q Can we turn to Exhibit 51?
20 THE COURT: I'm still working on the objection.
21 MR. MORRIS: I'm going to try and lay a foundation.
22 Okay?
23 THE COURT: Okay. So he's withdrawing the question.
24 MR. MCCLEARY: He's withdrawing the question? Okay.
25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 BY MR. MORRIS:
2 Q You have a binder in front of you, sir. Can you go to
3 Exhibit 51?
4 THE COURT: And this is Highland's Exhibit 51?
5 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
6 THE COURT: Okay.
7 BY MR. MORRIS:
8 Q And is that a promissory note that was made --
9 A Yes, it is.
10 Q -- that was made by Hunter Mountain in favor of Dugaboy
11 back in 2015?
12 MR. MCCLEARY: Objection, relevance, Your Honor.
13 MR. MORRIS: I'm trying to connect Mr. Dondero to 14 Hunter Mountain.
15 THE COURT: Okay. Overruled.
16 THE WITNESS: Yeah. It's a secured promissory note
17 with the amount of approximately $62.6 million signed by 18 Beacon Mountain, LLC, --
19 MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.
20 THE WITNESS: -- as administrator for Hunter Mountain
21 Investment Trust.
22 BY MR. MORRIS:
23 Q Okay. And as the -- what's your role with Hunter Mountain
24 today?
25 A And it's in favor, just to answer your question, it's in

1 favor of the Dugaboy Investment Trust. That's where I was
2 just being a little stickler --
3 Q I appreciate that.
4 A -- previously. Sorry.
5 Q I do.
6 A Okay. What is your question?
7 Q What's your role with Hunter Mountain today?
8 A I am the administrator.
9 Q When did you become the administrator?
10 A On or about August of 2022.
11 Q Okay. How did you become the administrator?
12 A Through the acquisition of Rand Advisors.
13 Q And does Hunter Mountain have any employees?
14 A No.
15 Q Does it have any operations?
16 A No.
17 Q Does it generate any revenue?
18 A Not -- not currently.
19 Q Okay. Did it generate any revenue in 2022?
20 A No.
21 Q Does it own any assets?
22 A Yes.
23 Q What does it own?
24 A It has -- it's my understanding it has a contingent
25 beneficiary interest in the Claimants Trust.

1 Q And that's the only asset it has, right?
2 A Correct.
3 Q So that if it -- if that interest has no value, then
4 Hunter Mountain has no ability to pay the Dugaboy note. Fair?
5 A (sotto voce) If that interest has no value?
6 That is correct.
7 Q Okay.
8 MR. MORRIS: I move Exhibit 51 into evidence.
9 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, relevance. Objection.
10 THE COURT: Your response?
11 MR. MORRIS: Mr. Dondero desperately needs Hunter
12 Mountain to win in this lawsuit because otherwise his family
13 trust will get nothing on this $63 million note.
14 THE COURT: Okay. Overrule the objection. It's
15 admitted.
16 (Debtors' Exhibit 51 is received into evidence.)
17 BY MR. MORRIS:
18 Q Neither you or any representative of Hunter Mountain has 19 ever spoken with any representative of Farallon, correct?
20 A Correct.
21 Q Neither you nor any representative of Hunter Mountain has 22 ever spoken with anybody at Stonehill, correct?
23 A Correct.
24 Q You have -- neither you nor Hunter Mountain have any 25 personal knowledge about a quid pro quo, correct?

1 A (sotto voce) Nor Hunter Mountain have any personal
2 knowledge about a quid pro quo.
3 Correct.
4 Q Neither you nor anybody at Hunter Mountain have any
5 personal knowledge about how Mr. Seery's compensation package
6 was determined, correct?
7 A Correct.
8 Q Neither you nor anybody at Hunter Mountain had any 9 knowledge about the terms of Mr. Seery's compensation package
10 until the Highland parties voluntarily disclosed that in 11 opposition to the Hunter Mountain motion, correct?
12 A No. I --
13 MR. STANCIL: Objection, relevance, Your Honor.
14 THE COURT: Overruled.
15 THE WITNESS: No. I seem to -- I seem to have an 16 awareness that the performance fee was amended at a certain
17 time post-confirmation, or, you know, around the confirmation
18 time period. And so that's with respect to the compensation.
19 I -- just myself.
20 BY MR. MORRIS:
21 Q Can you tell Judge Jernigan everything you know or 22 everything you knew before receiving Highland's opposition to 23 this motion about Mr. Seery's compensation as the CEO of the 24 Reorganized Debtor at the Claimant Trustee?
25 MR. MCCLEARY: Objection, Your Honor. That's

1 overboard and an unclear question.
2 THE COURT: Overruled. He's gone through some
3 specific things now. I guess he's just trying to encompass
4 anything we haven't covered.
5 THE WITNESS: Yeah. I had a -- I personally had a
6 general understanding that Mr. Seery's compensation changed
7 after the claims trading to put in a performance-based-type
8 measure. But I do recall that it was always very -- it was 9 unclear exactly the terms.
10 BY MR. MORRIS:
11 Q Okay. Did you learn anything else?
12 A Such as?
13 Q Just, did you ever learn anything else about Mr. Seery's
14 compensation package that you haven't testified to yet?
15 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, objection. Vague.
16 THE COURT: Overruled.
17 THE WITNESS: No.
18 BY MR. MORRIS:
19 Q Okay. Neither you nor Hunter Mountain has any personal
20 knowledge whatsoever about any due diligence that Stonehill 21 did in connection with the purchase of claims, correct?
22 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, he's getting into 23 allegations in the complaint which involve attorney work
24 product, so we object on the basis of invading the attorney
25 work product.

1 THE COURT: Overruled.
2 THE WITNESS: Can you restate the question again?
3 BY MR. MORRIS:
4 Q Yes, sir. Neither you nor Hunter Mountain have any
5 personal knowledge as to what due diligence Stonehill did
6 before purchasing its claims in this case, correct?
7 MR. MCCLEARY: Objection. Attorney work product.
8 Invasion of that. Could I --
9 THE COURT: I just ruled.
10 MR. MCCLEARY: I understand.
11 THE COURT: I just --
12 MR. MCCLEARY: Could I have a running objection to 13 this line of questioning on that basis, Your Honor, invasion
14 of attorney work product?
15 THE COURT: Why don't you explain why it's attorney
16 work product. I'm missing --
17 MR. MCCLEARY: Because they might -- he would have 18 knowledge from the efforts and investigation through attorneys
19 in the case. I assume he's not asking -- you can't separate
20 that, potentially. So he's getting into attorney work
21 product.
22 MR. MORRIS: I'm asking for facts.
23 THE COURT: He's asking for facts. I overrule.
24 BY MR. MORRIS:
25 Q Can you answer the question, sir?

1 A Yeah. I'm not aware -- I'm not personally aware of how
2 much work Farallon did, or Stonehill.
3 Q You have no knowledge whatsoever about the diligence
4 Stonehill did before purchasing its claims, correct?
5 A Well, I would generalize now is that they did nothing.
6 Q And that's on the basis of Mr. Dondero's testimony,
7 correct?
8 A I would just call it on a basis of our general inquiry,
9 which would be including, in part, Mr. Dondero's testimony.
10 Q What else are you relying upon for your conclusion that 11 you just described other than Mr. Dondero's? What other 12 facts?
13 A Yeah, we -- yeah, we have not uncovered any facts that 14 indicated that they did conduct any due diligence of any sort.
15 Q Okay. And are you -- do you have any personal knowledge
16 as to what Farallon did in connection with its due diligence
17 prior to buying its claim?
18 A Yeah. We have not been able to find any facts that would 19 suggest that Farallon conducted any due diligence of any kind.
20 Q Okay.
21 MR. MORRIS: One second, Your Honor.
22 (Pause.)
23 BY MR. MORRIS:
24 Q Who's paying Hunter Mountain's legal fees?
25 A Hunter Mountain is paying -- is legally obligated and

1 paying its own legal fees.
2 Q If it generates no income and its only assets is the
3 interest in Highland, where is it getting the funds to pay
4 legal fees?
5 MR. MCCLEARY: Objection, Your Honor. This is
6 irrelevant and invades the attorney-client privilege.
7 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I'm happy to read a Fifth
8 Circuit case that says the identity of a third-party payer of 9 attorneys' fees is not privileged. I would refer them to In 10 re Grand Jury Subpoena, 913 F.2d 1118, a 1990 Fifth Circuit
11 case. I can read from Judge Jones' opinion, but you tell me
12 how much you want to hear on this.
13 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule your objection. He can 14 answer.
15 THE WITNESS: There is a settlement agreement by 16 Hunter Mountain Investment Trust as well as the Dugaboy
17 Investment Trust that provides for the payment of attorney
18 fees.
19 MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.
20 THE COURT: Okay. Cross?
21 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor, briefly.
22 CROSS-EXAMINATION
23 BY MR. MCCLEARY:
24 Q Mr. Patrick, how would you describe Mr. Dondero's
25 relationship with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust today?

1 A None.
2 Q You were asked some -- let me ask you about litigation,
3 and litigation involving the sub-trust. Has Hunter Mountain
4 been involved in litigation with Mr. Kirschner?
5 A Yes.
6 Q Okay. And what is your understanding of Mr. Kirschner's
7 role?
8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, while I would love for them
9 to continue --
10 MR. MCCLEARY: He's the --
11 MR. MORRIS: -- to use their time, I object that 12 it's beyond the scope of my examination. They passed on the 13 witness. They rested their case. He should be limited to the 14 scope of my inquiry.
15 THE COURT: Okay. How does this tie to direct?
16 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, it -- just very generally.
17 This is --
18 THE COURT: Okay. I need to know how it ties to the 19 direct.
20 MR. MCCLEARY: This doesn't tie directly to the 21 direct, Your Honor.
22 THE COURT: Then it's beyond the scope, you
23 acknowledge?
24 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.
25 THE COURT: Okay. Sustained, then.

1 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.
2 BY MR. MCCLEARY:
3 Q Mr. Patrick, has Hunter Mountain Investment filed any
4 litigation as a plaintiff other than its efforts to be a
5 plaintiff in this lawsuit and its action as a petitioner in 6 the Rule 201 matter earlier this year in Dallas state court?
7 A The 202.
8 Q 202, yes.
9 A No, it has not.
10 Q All right. And then it's -- has it been a party, then, to 11 any other litigation other than the efforts to file this 12 action, the Rule 202 action, and has it been a defendant in 13 any lawsuits?
14 A To my understanding, no.
15 Q Is it involved as a defendant in the Kirschner litigation?
16 A Yes.
17 Q Mr. Kirschner is suing Hunter Mountain; is that correct?
18 A That is correct.
19 Q Okay. So, is Hunter Mountain a vexatious litigant?
20 MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. This is now
21 really beyond the scope. We're not doing -- this is -- we're 22 not doing it. I'm not letting -- because there's a vexatious
23 litigant motion pending now in the district court right now
24 before Judge Starr. This has nothing to do with anything I
25 asked.

1 THE COURT: Okay.
2 MR. MCCLEARY: They're trying to draw --
3 THE COURT: You've already asked him is it a party in 4 any other litigation besides the 202 and this attempted one,
5 so where are we going with this?
6 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, they're just trying to draw Mr.
7 Dondero into this and -- this vexatious litigant argument, and
8 we're just developing the fact that obviously Hunter Mountain
9 has only filed -- attempting to file this action and a Rule
10 202 proceeding. So they're not involved in a lot of 11 litigation and they're not a vexatious litigant.
12 THE COURT: Okay. I think I'll sustain that and we 13 can just move on.
14 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Then I'll pass the witness.
15 Thank you, Your Honor.
16 THE COURT: Okay. Any redirect?
17 MR. MORRIS: No, thank you, Your Honor.
18 THE COURT: All right. You are excused, Mr. Patrick.
19 (The witness steps down.)
20 THE COURT: Anything else?
21 MR. MORRIS: Just a time check for both sides and 22 let's get to closings.
23 THE COURT: Okay. Caroline?
24 THE CLERK: Movant has 23 minutes left and the 25 Respondents have 47.

1 THE COURT: 23 and 47. Any other evidence from the
2 Respondents?
3 MR. MORRIS: That is a fair question.
4 (Discussion.)
5 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I just want to confirm 6 that all the exhibits that they did not object to have been
7 admitted into evidence.
8 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me --
9 MR. MCCLEARY: We do offer them.
10 MR. MORRIS: Oh.
11 THE COURT: Hang on.
12 MR. MORRIS: Did I get Exhibit 45, Your Honor?
13 THE COURT: Just a moment. I'm doing two things at 14 once here. 45 is in.
15 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
16 THE COURT: All right. On HMIT's exhibits, okay,
17 first, as we all know, 29 through 52 are carried until -- if 18 we have another hearing with the experts.
19 (HMIT's Exhibits 29 through 52 carried.)
20 THE COURT: I'm showing we have -- and speak up if
21 anyone questions this -- I show that we have Hunter Mountain
22 Exhibits 3 and 4, and then 7 through 10, 12 through 23, and 26
23 through 38, and 53 through 57, 64, 65, and then 67 through 24 seventy --
25 (HMIT's Exhibits 3, 4, 7-10, 12-23, 26-38, 53-57, 64, 65,

1 67-70 are received into evidence.)
2 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I apologize. From 36 --
3 26 to 32 are in?
4 THE COURT: I believe that was part of the 5 stipulation, Mr. Morris, right?
6 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes.
7 MR. MORRIS: I think that's right.
8 THE COURT: Okay.
9 MR. MORRIS: We really didn't object to very many.
10 THE COURT: Yes.
11 MR. MCCLEARY: That would be 25, too. That would
12 include 25?
13 MR. STANCIL: No. Objection. 25 is not --
14 THE COURT: It's not admitted.
15 MR. STANCIL: It's not in evidence.
16 THE COURT: 25 and 24 were not admitted.
17 MR. MORRIS: Correct. Those are my emails.
18 THE COURT: Okay. So --
19 MR. MCCLEARY: 25 is an article.
20 THE COURT: Your 25 was John Morris Email Re: Text
21 Messages dated March 10, 2023.
22 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.
23 THE COURT: Okay. I can't remember where I left off.
24 I think I left off -- I'll just repeat after the expert
25 exhibits that are carried. I've admitted 53 through 57. I

1 have admitted 64, 65, 67 through 71.
2 (HMIT's Exhibit 71 is received into evidence.)
3 Now, I'm not sure if I ended up admitting 72. That was
4 the articles. I can't remember if you stipulated on that 5 finally.
6 MR. MORRIS: I said they --
7 MR. MCCLEARY: They had no objection.
8 MR. MORRIS: -- they come in --
9 THE COURT: Not for the truth of the matter asserted.
10 MR. MORRIS: -- self -- exactly.
11 THE COURT: Okay.
12 MR. MORRIS: Self-authenticating.
13 THE COURT: So 72 is in.
14 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.
15 (HMIT's Exhibit 72 is received into evidence.)
16 THE COURT: Then we had some pleadings. I think 73,
17 74, 75 are in, but again, not for the truth of the matter
18 asserted in any advocacy on 73 and 74. And then 77, 78, 79
19 are in. And that's it.
20 (HMIT's Exhibits 73, 74, 75, 77, 78, and 79 are received
21 into evidence.)
22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I didn't make an
23 appearance, but I was taking notes (inaudible).
24 MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I believe 80 should be in.
25 MR. MORRIS: No objection to 80. It's on our -- it's

1 part of our Exhibit 5.

2 THE COURT: Okay. 80 is in. Admitted.

3 (HMIT's exhibit 80 is received into evidence.)

4 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. That's really Section A of that

5 thing that I gave you this morning.

6 THE COURT: If Ms. Deitsch-Perez wants to consult

7 with the Hunter Mountain lawyers, she can. I don't know --

8 MR. MORRIS: Can I go through quickly mine, Your

9 Honor? Because we actually never had the opportunity to put

10 our exhibits in.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Let's make sure we're to --

12 MR. MORRIS: Okay. I'm sorry. I'm sorry.

13 THE COURT: -- closure on the Hunter Mountain

14 exhibits.

15 MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry.

16 THE COURT: Anything I said that you disagree with?

17 I don't think --

18 (Pause.)

19 THE COURT: Okay. Let's hurry up. What is the 20 controversy?

21 A VOICE: Roger? The Court's addressing you.

22 MR. MCCLEARY: Oh. Excuse me, Your Honor. So, just

23 a little unclear of whether you have Exhibits 21 through 25

24 admitted.

25 THE COURT: I have 21, 22, and 23. Not 24. Not 25.

1 Okay. Anything else?
2 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Then we do offer 24 and 25.
3 THE COURT: You offered them. I did not admit them.
4 MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. 76. I believe -- was that --
5 you're carrying?
6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Carried.
7 MR. MCCLEARY: You're carrying that?
8 THE COURT: Okay. I carried that and --
9 MR. MCCLEARY: It's part of the expert issue.
10 THE COURT: Okay. Yes, part of the expert. So it's 11 carried.
12 (HMIT's Exhibit 76 is carried.)
13 (Pause.)
14 MR. MCCLEARY: I understand you've admitted 53
15 through 83, although some of them have now not been approved.
16 THE COURT: All right. Well, we need to clarify. 58
17 through 63, you think you offered them and I admitted them,
18 but not for the truth? I remember that being discussed for 58
19 through 63. Are you actually offering them?
20 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes. 58 through 63.
21 THE COURT: All right. And Mr. Morris, you
22 ultimately agreed that yes, but not for the truth of the 23 matter asserted?
24 MR. MORRIS: That's right, Your Honor.
25 THE COURT: Okay. So they are admitted. Okay.

1 (HMIT's Exhibits 58 through 63 are received into
2 evidence.)
3 THE COURT: And then there was an objection to the
4 Mark Patrick declaration for the same thing, not for the truth
5 of the matter asserted.
6 MR. MORRIS: Exactly.
7 THE COURT: But you agree as long as it's --
8 MR. MORRIS: Correct.
9 THE COURT: Okay. So what that means is, to recap,
10 53 through 75 are admitted, although some of those are only --
11 they're not for the truth of the matter asserted. And then 77
12 through 80 are admitted. Okay?
13 MR. MCCLEARY: And 76? We offered 76.
14 THE COURT: That's -- we carried it. We carried it.
15 It relates to the expert.
16 MR. MCCLEARY: Carried it.
17 (Pause.)
18 MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you, Your Honor.
19 THE COURT: Okay. Now let's straighten out
20 Highland's exhibits. So, I'm showing 1 through 16 have been
21 admitted, and then 25 through 31-A?
22 MR. MORRIS: 25 through 31-A?
23 THE COURT: I'm sorry. Yes. 25 through 31-A.
24 MR. MORRIS: Okay.
25 THE COURT: And then 34. And then 39, 40, 41, and

1 then 45. 51, 59, and 60.
2 MR. MORRIS: Okay. So I'm going to do my best not to 3 burden the Court. I'm trying to focus. We move for the
4 admission into evidence of Exhibit 32, which is Mr. Dondero's
5 objection to the HarbourVest settlement. And the reason that
6 we're offering it is because he made no mention of any concern
7 at all that the settlement implicated material nonpublic
8 inside information.
9 THE COURT: All right. Any objection?
10 MR. MCCLEARY: 32?
11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
12 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor. Relevance and
13 hearsay.
14 THE COURT: Overruled. And I can take judicial 15 notice of it in any event.
16 (Debtors' Exhibit 32 is received into evidence.)
17 MR. MORRIS: We move for the admission into evidence
18 of Exhibit 33, which is the recent letter from the Texas State
19 Securities Board declining to take any action after conducting
20 an investigation of the Dugaboy complaint.
21 THE COURT: Okay. Any objection?
22 MR. MCCLEARY: We object on the grounds of relevance,
23 403, hearsay, and authenticity, Your Honor.
24 And I also, I think it's important that the decision by a
25 regulatory body has no bearing on this cause of action or the

1 colorability of this claim, and the Texas State Securities
2 Board will tell you that. This is completely and utterly
3 irrelevant to your inquiry, Your Honor.
4 THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the relevance
5 objection. Certainly, it goes to colorability. It's some 6 evidence. It's some evidence. A regulatory body did not
7 choose to go forward --
8 MR. MCCLEARY: But that could be for --
9 THE COURT: -- on the complaint.
10 MR. MCCLEARY: That could be for reasons entirely
11 unrelated.
12 THE COURT: True, true. It's some evidence.
13 MR. MORRIS: That's speculation.
14 MR. MCCLEARY: Not for this.
15 THE COURT: But what is the authenticity objection?
16 MR. MCCLEARY: Well, there's no demonstration. I
17 don't believe they sponsored that with anyone.
18 THE COURT: Pardon? Say again?
19 MR. MCCLEARY: They didn't sponsor that with anyone.
20 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I actually -- if they really 21 put me to it, because I was reading the Rules of Evidence in 22 the wee hours of the morning, I am certain that there's an
23 exception for government documents and government statements
24 and government decisions.
25 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, as to its authenticity, I

1 could produce a witness from Highland who said they got it, if
2 that's really what we're doing. That it's the letter, they
3 got it from the TSSB, if we're really doing authenticity.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, it's hearsay and
5 there is no authenticity issue and it's irrelevant. I
6 understand --
7 MR. STANCIL: What is the authenticity issue, Mr.
8 McEntire?
9 THE COURT: I'm trying to understand the authenticity
10 issue. You think this is a --
11 MR. STANCIL: Do you think it's a real letter or a
12 fake letter?
13 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, I'm going to 14 address the Court and not you, okay?
15 Your Honor, --
16 THE COURT: Well, address by speaking in a --
17 MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah. Thank you.
18 THE COURT: Okay. I'm just saving the court reporter
19 from grief, okay?
20 MR. MCENTIRE: It is hearsay, and it is hearsay that 21 is calculated to be misrepresented or mischaracterized because 22 it's utter speculation as to the basis for their decision.
23 And if it's -- utter speculation is the basis of your
24 decision, it has no reason to come in. There's no --
25 THE COURT: What you're telling me, it goes to the

1 weight of the evidence. Okay?
2 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, --
3 THE COURT: Okay. You're not telling me it's 4 inadmissible hearsay.
5 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, it is inadmissible hearsay.
6 MR. MORRIS: Can I just, for one second?
7 THE COURT: Please.
8 MR. MORRIS: Paragraph 34 of their motion, Your 9 Honor. Quote, "The Court also should be aware that the Texas
10 State Securities Board opened an investigation into the 11 subject matter of the insider tradings at issue, and this 12 investigation has not been closed. The continuing nature of 13 this investigation underscores HMIT's position that the claims
14 described in the attached adversary proceeding are plausible
15 and certainly far more than merely colorable."
16 They used the investigation to try to convince you that 17 their claims are colorable, and now we have a letter saying
18 there's nothing.
19 THE COURT: Okay. You want to explain that to me?
20 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, we put no evidence in, in this
21 proceeding --
22 THE COURT: You put what?
23 MR. MCENTIRE: We have put no evidence in, in this
24 proceeding, --
25 THE COURT: You filed a pleading under Rule 11

1 suggesting this was highly relevant, right?
2 MR. MCENTIRE: We filed a motion. Yes, we did.
3 THE COURT: Under Rule 11.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. Of course we did.
5 THE COURT: Okay.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Of course we did.
7 THE COURT: Suggesting this Texas State Securities
8 Board complaint and investigation was highly relevant.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: The fact that it had opened an 10 investigation and was conducting an investigation is 11 irrelevant. Its decision to stop the investigation without 12 further elaboration or clarification, this is why it calls for 13 utter speculation.
14 MR. MORRIS: Your --
15 THE COURT: Okay. Do you have the hearsay exception
16 that applies? I'm looking at my evidence rules right now for 17 the government record or public record. Is it 803(8) that we 18 need to have addressed here?
19 MR. STANCIL: 803(8), Your Honor.
20 A VOICE: Yeah, public records.
21 THE COURT: Okay.
22 MR. STANCIL: Public record. Sets out --
23 THE COURT: Public records, 803(8), hearsay
24 exception. Moreover, you pled allegations suggesting this 25 investigation was really relevant. So I overrule your

1 objection, and so that means 33 is admitted.

2 (Debtors' Exhibit 33 is received into evidence.)

3 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. I continue.

4 Exhibit 36 --

5 MR. MCENTIRE: Which one was that?

6 MR. MORRIS: That was 33.

7 So now we're up to 36, Your Honor. I'm going to skip some 8 of these.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: But this is just the Court's order

11 approving Mr. Seery's original --

12 THE COURT: I'm waiting for any objection for the 13 record. Do we have an objection, Mr. McCleary?

14 MR. MCCLEARY: 36, relevance, Your Honor.

15 MR. MORRIS: The relevance is that this Court

16 approved without objection Mr. Seery's compensation package in

17 an amount that included a base salary of $150,000, which the

18 Claimant Purchasers and the independent director saw fit to 19 continue.

20 THE COURT: Objection overruled. It's admitted.

21 (Debtors' Exhibit 36 is received into evidence.)

22 MR. MORRIS: I think 38 may be on their list. Yeah,

23 38 is in as their 26, right? So that should be admitted.

24 THE COURT: Admitted.

25 (Debtors' Exhibit 38 is received into evidence.)

1 MR. MCCLEARY: If it's on our list, we agree.
2 THE COURT: Okay. It's admitted.
3 MR. MORRIS: That's it, Your Honor.
4 THE COURT: Okay. Do you all need a five-minute
5 break before we do closing arguments?
6 MR. MORRIS: I'd be grateful.
7 THE COURT: Okay.
8 MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.
9 THE COURT: Will do.
10 THE CLERK: All rise
11 (A recess ensued from 5:49 p.m. to 5:57 p.m.)
12 THE CLERK: All rise.
13 THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.
14 We're back on the record in the Highland matter. Closing
15 arguments. Just for everyone's benefit, time -- you said 47
16 minutes and 23 minutes back several minutes ago, and then we 17 had all the housekeeping stuff. So I'm not sure if that's 18 where we are right now or if --
19 MR. MCENTIRE: I'm waiting for my monitor guy to be
20 here.
21 THE COURT: Okay. Okay.
22 So Caroline, is it still 47 and 23?
23 THE CLERK: Yes.
24 THE COURT: That's when we started the housekeeping
25 stuff.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: So 27 minutes?
2 THE COURT: Twenty-three.
3 THE CLERK: Twenty-three.
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Twenty-three? Can I get a five-minute
5 warning, please? Would you pull up the PowerPoint? And let's
6 go to Slide 39.
7 May I proceed, Your Honor?
8 THE COURT: You may.
9 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST
10 MR. MCENTIRE: So, before I go to the PowerPoint, I'd 11 like to kind of give a high-altitude overview of the situation
12 as I see it from the evidence perspective. We don't believe 13 this should have been an evidentiary hearing. Evidence has 14 been allowed.
15 We had a situation where, if you believe Mr. Dondero's
16 testimony as contrasted with Mr. Seery's testimony, you have a
17 credibility issue. So the Court is now conducting an inquiry
18 presumably on the basis in part on the credibility of 19 witnesses. And if you engage -- and if you want to indulge
20 that type of inquiry, the credibility of witnesses, without
21 allowing the Plaintiff in this case or the Movant in this case
22 to conduct some level of meaningful discovery, I would suggest
23 we have been deprived of due process, because without 24 documents to test Mr. Seery's statements, we are being 25 deprived of something that's basically very fundamental in our

1 judicial process.
2 And therefore, it underscores our argument and our
3 rationale why this shouldn't be an evidentiary hearing,
4 because I don't believe the Court can consider credibility
5 issues.
6 We have, on the one hand, unequivocal notes from Mr.
7 Dondero prepared contemporaneously that would suggest that
8 someone admitted to him and stated to him that they did in 9 fact obtain material nonpublic information. Mr. Seery says
10 that didn't happen. I specifically said, is that a lie? Yes,
11 it's not true. Well, that's a real problem, because that's 12 not the criteria that this Court should use for determining 13 whether we have a colorable claim. A colorable claim is 14 whether there is some possibility. It's something less, even 15 less stringent than a 12(b)(6) standard, plausibility. We 16 have that.
17 If you look at our pleadings, we have set forth all of the 18 facts we need, all the elements we need to establish a trade
19 on material inside information, nonpublic information. We 20 have evidence -- we have allegations that there was no due
21 diligence. And Farallon's lawyer stood up here -- well, I'm 22 not going to really address that today. But if there was any 23 day to address it, it was today. We have no evidence to 24 suggest they did do due diligence. Even Mr. Seery said, I
25 don't know what due diligence they did. We have evidence to

1 suggest that the only due diligence they did was to talk to
2 Mr. Seery, who has told -- who told them that this is very
3 valuable, don't -- this is a really good -- a good investment
4 here, it's a lot better than the 71 percent that's on our
5 disclosures.
6 And Judge, that evidence supports the colorability of the 7 claim. And if you go down the pathway of saying, well, I'm 8 not sure about Mr. Dondero because he had been held in
9 contempt two years ago, that's a real problem. That's a
10 problem for this Court. And I'm going to suggest that's why
11 this should have been a four-corners deliberation. Even 12 Farallon and Stonehill suggest this should be a four-corners
13 deliberation.
14 We have evidence now of no due diligence. We have 15 evidence before you that suggests that they did learn about 16 MGM before the announcement date. We have evidence that Mr.
17 Seery did trade on -- did -- was aware and received
18 information of material nonpublic information. And for him, a
19 CEO of his reputed stature, to sit here and say that was not
20 material and that was nonpublic defies common sense. It
21 defies reasonableness. That goes to credibility.
22 Mr. Dondero's notes speak volumes. The trades themselves
23 speak volumes. Mr. Dondero established that the interest --
24 return of interest here is to be less than one -- it's in the 25 one digits, and hedge funds trade in the 30, 40, 50 percent

1 range. Well, if that's the case, we have Farallon walking
2 away from a return on the exit financing of 13 percent, and
3 that wasn't good enough for him. How could six percent be 4 good enough for him? There's something missing here. There's 5 something not right.
6 And we're entitled to get our lawsuit on file and do some
7 discovery. And if they want to do a 12(b)(6), they do a
8 12(b)(6). If they want to do a Rule 56 after discovery, they 9 could do a Rule 56, all in this Court. But to address this
10 threshold issue now based upon this, what happened here today,
11 is a fundamental denial of due process.
12 I'd like to go to my pleadings.
13 Can you go to Slide 39, please?
14 First of all, let there be no doubt -- 39. Slide 39. 38.
15 38, please.
16 We can plead on information and belief. We have a right
17 to plead on information and belief. And the Fifth Circuit --
18 that is an acknowledged procedural practice in the Fifth
19 Circuit. And if some of our allegations are based upon 20 information and belief, so be it. The test here is not at 21 this stage. The test here is whether I have sufficient 22 factual allegations, whether on information and belief or 23 otherwise, to satisfy at most a plausibility standard. That's 24 it.
25 And if they want to challenge us at a later date, they

1 can. Rule 56. 12(b)(6). Or standing. But we have standing.
2 We have standing. We have standing under Delaware law. We're
3 a contingent beneficial interest that has standing under
4 Delaware law and all other law. All -- even Texas agrees that 5 a contingent interest has standing, an inchoate interest as
6 Mr. Seery described. A property interest. You have property
7 interest, you have standing.
8 THE COURT: Let me ask you.
9 And Caroline, turn the clock off when the Court
10 interrupts.
11 Just so you know, I mean, my analysis here is standing
12 first. Does your client have standing? Because we all know
13 that's a subject matter jurisdiction inquiry and I have to 14 explore that first. And then I've said many times the legal 15 standard question for colorability. That's kind of the second
16 place I go --
17 MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.
18 THE COURT: -- if I find there's standing. But can 19 you tell me, have there been appellate decisions that are 20 relevant today on standing? Contrary to what people may 21 expect, I don't follow every appellate decision from every 22 appeal in the Highland case. Okay? I wait until I get a
23 mandate --
24 MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.
25 THE COURT: -- to where I have to act on something.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.
2 THE COURT: So I feel like I've learned at some point
3 that some either district judge or Fifth Circuit said some
4 party didn't have standing. And I don't know if it was Hunter
5 Mountain or some other trust.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Not --
7 THE COURT: And is there anything they said that, if
8 it wasn't Hunter Mountain, could be relevant here?
9 MR. MCENTIRE: I hope somebody kicks me if I'm wrong,
10 what I'm about to say. I'm not aware of any such issue --
11 THE COURT: Okay.
12 MR. MCENTIRE: -- dealing with Hunter Mountain
13 Investment Trust. I am not.
14 THE COURT: But any other party that might somehow
15 bear on this case?
16 MR. MORRIS: I apologize, Your Honor, I was
17 distracted. For which issue?
18 THE COURT: Standing. Because I was saying my first 19 thing I've got to tackle in ruling on this is standing of 20 Hunter Mountain. And I seem to remember learning that either
21 the district court on an appeal or the Fifth Circuit on some 22 appeal from Highland --
23 MR. MORRIS: Correct.
24 THE COURT: -- said some party didn't have standing.
25 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

1 THE COURT: And I don't know if it was --
2 MR. MORRIS: Dugaboy on the 2015.3, for sure, was a
3 Fifth Circuit standing decision.
4 THE COURT: Okay.
5 MR. MORRIS: I think there was a district court order
6 that preceded that.
7 THE COURT: Okay.
8 MR. MORRIS: That was the subject of the appeal.
9 THE COURT: The Dugaboy --
10 MR. MORRIS: 2015.3.
11 THE COURT: -- motion to require those --
12 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.
13 THE COURT: -- 2015.3 statements. Okay.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: So what we have here -- we can go back
15 on the clock if you'd like.
16 THE COURT: Yes, please.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: How much time do I have?
18 THE CLERK: You have just under 16 minutes.
19 MR. MCENTIRE: Sixteen? Okay. Give me a two-minute
20 warning. Sorry.
21 Your Honor, what we have here --
22 THE COURT: I don't think the U.S. Supreme Court
23 justices will give you a two-minute warning, but maybe I'm 24 wrong.
25 MR. MCENTIRE: Would you give me a two-minute

1 warning, please?
2 THE COURT: And I'm sure not a Supreme Court justice.
3 MR. MCENTIRE: What we have here is we have a 99.5
4 percent equity interest that has now been relegated to a
5 category of contingent interest, which we don't believe we
6 should be, and that's part of our declaratory judgment relief
7 we're asking for, which we have standing to do that at a
8 minimum because we want to be treated like a Class 9.
9 If they want to treat us like a Class 10, I have an 10 argument for that, and it's more than colorable. It's 11 persuasive. It's -- it is a winning argument. And that is we 12 do have standing in our individual capacity, and we have given
13 you a whole bunch of cases in our PowerPoint, or we will give 14 you a whole bunch of cases in our PowerPoint and in our 15 briefing to support that.
16 We also have given you Delaware case law that says we have
17 standing under Delaware trust law to bring a derivative action
18 against the Trustee. We have done everything appropriate
19 here.
20 We have the -- a demand upon Seery obviously would be
21 futile to prosecute the claim. A demand upon the Oversight
22 Board would be futile to make a demand on Muck and Jessup,
23 because they're Defendants and they're SPEs of Farallon and 24 Stonehill. And a demand upon Mr. Kirschner would be futile.
25 They suggest that there's an assignment of some sort, but that

1 would be a modification -- of the claims over to the 2 Litigation Trust, but that would be a modification of the 3 plan.
4 There's been no assignment of this claim, or these claims,
5 to the Litigation Trust Trustee. But even if there had been,
6 we pled that in the alternative as well. And it would be
7 futile to make a demand on Mr. Kirschner because he's suing
8 Hunter Mountain.
9 So we are an appropriate party. The only, then, issue
10 becomes whether or not we have standing under Delaware law to 11 bring a derivative action. And we have briefed that and we --
12 and that's included in our PowerPoint. The answer is yes.
13 I'd like to go briefly to Page -- next slide.
14 In our factual section, we set forth why this investment
15 would defy any kind of rational economic sense in the absence
16 of material nonpublic information as a factual allegation
17 supported by data, supported by dates, supported by time.
18 Based upon that, we also have allegations that are framed
19 around the admissions that Mr. Michael Linn provided. We have 20 allegations that he turned down a 30 or 40 percent premium in 21 our petition. We have allegations that they admitted that 22 they did no due diligence. We have allegations that they 23 admitted that they got material -- basically information about
24 MGM.
25 And again, it's not all about MGM. It's about the values

1 of all the portfolio companies. They want to make it about
2 MGM. If they do, we win. But it's much broader than that.
3 And we have standing to bring this claim because if we're
4 right Mr. Seery will have to return excess compensation and
5 the Claims Purchasers will have to disgorge. And that's going
6 to help not just Hunter Mountain. That's going to help other
7 creditors who haven't been paid yet.
8 So this is not exclusively -- Hunter Mountain would 9 substantially benefit. I'm not suggesting otherwise. But it
10 also benefits innocent stakeholders other than Hunter
11 Mountain. And that's why we are an appropriate party. We 12 don't have a conflict of interest to bring this. Everybody on 13 their side of the table does. There's no one else who could 14 bring this.
15 Your Honor, it's very clear when the trades took place.
16 We give dates and times. It's very clear that -- next slide,
17 40. It's very clear that their investment was over $160
18 million. If it isn't, I don't see any denials. All we got 19 today was a lame statement from the lawyer saying we're not 20 here today to deny this.
21 MR. MORRIS: I'm offended.
22 THE COURT: He's offended by being called lame.
23 MR. MCENTIRE: Not you lame personally.
24 MR. MORRIS: Oh, thanks for the clarification.
25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: A lame statement by you. In fact, it
2 wasn't even you, so --
3 In any event, Your Honor, --
4 MR. MORRIS: I've been called worse.
5 MR. MCENTIRE: -- the point being is that there was
6 no -- there's not -- never been an attempt to deny the factual
7 allegations in our pleadings dealing with Farallon and 8 Stonehill. None at all.
9 And so -- not that that's ultimately relevant, because 10 that's an evidentiary issue outside of the four corners of our 11 pleading, but it does -- it just stands out and screams. It
12 screams. And it screams volumes.
13 So right, now based upon our pleadings -- we even plead in 14 Paragraph 42, Paragraph 42, exactly what they invested. This 15 is what you have before you. No one has disputed it. It's in 16 the four corners of our pleading. We've got dates, times,
17 amounts. We have admissions to Mr. -- well, we have 18 admissions from Michael Linn, Paragraph 47. We have -- we do
19 plead upon information and belief the quid pro quo on 20 compensation. And frankly, the evidence here today is that 21 the compensation is excessive. And the experts will further
22 confirm that it is excessive. $1.8 million with a bonus
23 program in place to pay him another $8, $9, $10 million, when 24 in fact the risks don't exist and there's no uncertainty and 25 therefore the percentages make no sense. That's --

1 THE COURT: What do you mean, the risks don't exist
2 and there is no uncertainty?
3 MR. MCENTIRE: If Mr. Seery is telling Farallon and
4 Stonehill don't sell, this could be really valuable, it's 5 inconsistent with the notion that the schedule and the 6 performance -- performance schedule in the compensation
7 agreement is rationally justified. Because if it's really
8 certain or it's likely you're going to make a lot of money,
9 there's no reason to give him six percent to incentivize him
10 because it's already a done deal.
11 And the whole point here is that I scratch your back, you
12 scratch mine. They make a lot of money on their deal and he 13 gets a lot of money on the backside post-effective date.
14 Post-effective date.
15 Next slide, 49.
16 It would have been impossible, based upon the publicly-
17 available information in Paragraph 49, impossible for 18 Stonehill and Farallon, in the absence of inside information,
19 to forecast any significant profit when they made their 20 investments. It's not possible. Because given the amount of 21 the Claim 8 and Claim 9 claims -- they actually invested in 22 Claim 9 with a zero return. It's projected to be a negative
23 result. On Claim 8, even if you allocate their entire 24 purchase price to Claim 8, they're going to get something less
25 than a 10 percent return paid out over a couple years. Nobody

1 invests that kind of money in an unsecured creditor asset that
2 hasn't been collateralized. There's something wrong here.
3 And we have a right to have our day in court to show that.
4 We have our right to take a true deposition of Mr. Seery with
5 documents. We have a right to take Farallon and Stonehill's
6 deposition with documents. And we have tried to get 7 information and we have been turned down at every turn. We
8 have a right to have our day in court, Your Honor.
9 We have allegations of excessive compensation. I know Mr.
10 Morris suggested the other day that we didn't have any such
11 allegations. They're here. The whole idea here is that Mr.
12 Seery would really profit on the backside. And, you know, he 13 actually testified, I believe -- I won't do that because 14 that's outside the four corners of our pleading. But the --
15 there is a quid pro quo. We allege there's a quid pro quo
16 upon information and belief. And we also allege willfully and 17 knowingly, we allege conduct that falls clearly within the 18 exceptions.
19 None of this -- none of these claims were released. Mr.
20 Seery's not an exculpated party in the context of how we --
21 proposing to sue him here. None of the protected parties, to 22 the extent that Muck and Jessup claim to be protected parties,
23 they're not protected here, because all of the claims we're
24 making are on the basis of willful misconduct and bad faith,
25 which are the standards that they used and incorporated in the

1 plan and in the gatekeeper provisions.
2 How much time do I have?
3 THE CLERK: Right now you have --
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Thirty seconds?
5 THE CLERK: -- seven minutes left.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Next slide, please.
7 Mr. Seery has admitted that he has a duty to avoid self-
8 dealing. We allege that he did self-deal. There is clearly a
9 relationship. We have a right to explore the depths of that
10 relationship. Well, already we know there is a relationship.
11 We have investments in charities, contributions to charities,
12 meet-and-greets, congratulatory emails. It's not as if 13 Farallon and Stonehill are strangers, or Mr. Seery's a
14 stranger to them. It's not like that at all. They contacted
15 him to get involved.
16 And by placing -- by acquiring these claims -- and by the 17 way, this is the most significant trading activity in your
18 bankruptcy, in this bankruptcy proceeding. Post-confirmation.
19 Post-confirmation. By acquiring these claims, they were 20 guaranteed to be put onto the Oversight Board. By acquiring 21 these claims, they were guaranteed to be put in a position --
22 into a position where they would adjust, monitor, compensate
23 Mr. Seery. That's the terms of the Claimant Trust. Those are 24 the terms.
25 And it's interesting, because one of the amendments that's

1 in evidence to the plan, I think it's either the third or the
2 fourth amendment, that came out of nowhere right before
3 confirmation, they changed the structure of the Claimant Trust
4 to go off a standard base pay and added in a bonus structure
5 at the last minute. That's evidence.
6 Mr. Seery has acknowledged, we have alleged he had duties
7 to avoid self-dealing, to always look out for the best
8 interests of the estate, to avoid conflicts of interest.
9 Well, here, to the extent that there is a quid pro quo, he is 10 self-dealing and he has injured the Reorganized Debtor and 11 he's injured the Claimant Trust, because that's just less
12 money.
13 And we also allege, Your Honor, it's also an allegation
14 that --
15 THE COURT: And let me ask, the sole injury here is 16 compensation was more than it would have been if not for the 17 sale of the claims to Farallon and Stonehill --
18 MR. MCENTIRE: That's one of the injuries.
19 THE COURT: -- and therefore less money at the end of 20 the day for creditors and ultimately Hunter Mountain?
21 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. And we also allege that, as part 22 of this arrangement, conspiracy, as we allege conspiracy, we 23 have seen over $200 million flow out of the coffers of this
24 estate in the form of --
25 THE COURT: What do you mean, as a result of the

1 alleged conspiracy? What do you mean?
2 MR. MCENTIRE: A delay, a postponement, making long-
3 term payouts, keeping the litigation alive. They actually
4 suggested to Mr. Linn, don't settle these claims, don't sell
5 out, because this is asset-backed, and we also have claims.
6 And so --
7 THE COURT: Wait, what? Say again?
8 MR. MCENTIRE: One of the things that Mr. Linn told
9 Mr. Dondero, according to Mr. Dondero's notes, is we have --
10 this is very valuable, we're buying assets and we're buying
11 into claims, the litigation claims that are being asserted in 12 this bankruptcy proceeding.
13 THE COURT: Yes. Got it.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah. And so the whole idea here is,
15 is that people are funneling money in and taking money out of 16 the coffers of this estate to fuel future litigation in order
17 to have a bigger payday at the end for Class 8 and Class 9.
18 That's exactly what those notes suggest.
19 THE COURT: I don't understand the correlation. What 20 correlation are you making? Because of the claims being 21 purchased, what?
22 MR. MCENTIRE: The claims being purchased allow Muck
23 and Jessup to be in a position to award compensation. We've 24 talked about that.
25 THE COURT: I got that.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: That's one type of injury. The other
2 injury is, and we have alleged it, is the fact that these
3 claims become very valuable not only because they're asset-
4 backed but because also the litigation claims that Mr.
5 Kirschner is prosecuting.
6 THE COURT: But how does the purchase of the claims
7 impact that? They were allowed claims at certain amounts
8 before, and after the purchase they're still allowed claims.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. Seery is telling them that,
10 basically, this is our plan, this is what we're doing, this is 11 --
12 THE COURT: That was the plan of reorganization that
13 was confirmed by the Court. I don't get how something
14 changed. I'm trying to get to what are the injuries that your 15 client has suffered. And I get the compensation argument
16 you're making, but I don't get the rest of it.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: If Mr. Dondero had been in a position,
18 or one of his entities had been in a position, or even Hunter
19 Mountain, and I'm not sure why Hunter Mountain -- be in a
20 position to have acquired the claims, then we would -- this 21 bankruptcy wouldn't even be in existence anymore. It'd be 22 over. All creditors would be paid. It would be done. Be
23 over. And that is an allegation we have made --
24 THE COURT: How do I know that?
25 MR. MCENTIRE: Because all the creditors would have

1 been paid off.
2 THE COURT: How do I know, if he would have purchased
3 the claims, that's what would have happened?
4 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, that's what he testified to 5 today here. I don't want to get off on a rabbit trail.
6 THE COURT: I'm trying to understand the injury, --
7 MR. MCENTIRE: Sure. I understand.
8 THE COURT: -- because that's part of my analysis
9 here.
10 MR. MCENTIRE: The focus, the focus is on the 11 compensation. And once they aid and abet, once they aid and 12 abet a breach of fiduciary duties, they are subject to 13 disgorgement, and disgorgement of all of their ill-gotten 14 gains. And the ill-gotten gains are now well over --
15 approaching over $100,000 million.
16 THE COURT: How do you get to that number?
17 MR. MCENTIRE: Easily. We know how much they 18 purchased, which has never been denied. We know how much has 19 been distributed to Class 8. And we know what percentage of 20 Class 8 they own. They own about 95 percent of all Class 8
21 claims. So if $270,000 million has been distributed to Class
22 8, they got 90 percent of that, 95 percent of it has already
23 gone to them, Farallon and Stonehill.
24 THE COURT: But it would have gone to the sellers of 25 the claims as well. I'm trying to make the connection.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: That's not the injury. The injury is
2 what -- that is a consequence of their conduct. The injury is
3 the compensation. All right? That's a distinct injury. They 4 are subject to disgorgement as a consequence because they have
5 done wrong, and the law should not tolerate -- should not
6 tolerate and allow wrongdoers to get away. And that's where
7 the unjust enrichment and disgorge --
8 THE COURT: And what are your best cases for that,
9 that they would have to disgorge --
10 MR. MCENTIRE: We have cited --
11 THE COURT: -- the Purchasers would have to disgorge
12 --
13 MR. MCENTIRE: We have cited cases in our brief.
14 THE COURT: I'm asking you now to --
15 MR. MCENTIRE: I don't have them in front of me right
16 this second. But an aider and abettor --
17 THE COURT: The CVC case, is that your best case?
18 MR. MCENTIRE: I don't have the cases in front of me.
19 I can say this, that the case law is robust, and I can supply
20 you --
21 THE COURT: It is not robust. That's why I'm asking
22 you to zero in. I read your CVC case from the Third Circuit,
23 and I'm wondering, is that your strongest case?
24 MR. MCENTIRE: No. I think we -- I think we have a
25 lot of strong cases. I'm not sure that it is the strongest.

1 THE COURT: Tell me which ones, so I --
2 MR. MCENTIRE: Ma'am, I just said I don't have it in
3 front of me. If you'll look --
4 THE COURT: Okay. Well, this is closing argument
5 where you present law in support of your position.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, actually, I'm arguing facts
7 right now. But Your Honor, what I want to tell you is if 8 you'd like me to submit a letter brief on that, I will.
9 THE COURT: No.
10 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Then I won't. It's in my 11 brief. All of our authorities are in the brief.
12 In conclusion, --
13 THE COURT: Okay. So that was the CVC case from the 14 Third Circuit which dealt with an insider who purchased
15 claims, statutory insider, a board member, a 28-percent equity
16 owner, who purchased claims during the case to be in a
17 position to file a competing plan and didn't disclose to the 18 board or file a 3001(e) notice. Okay. There was -- claims
19 shouldn't be allowed at more than what the purchaser paid for 20 it.
21 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.
22 THE COURT: Okay. I'm asking you, is that your best
23 case? Because you also cited Adelphia, which seemed kind of 24 factually off the mark. And so I really --
25 MR. MCENTIRE: I -- I'm sorry, --

1 THE COURT: I need to know, because I've made clear
2 from the beginning, --
3 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.
4 THE COURT: -- I'm struggling with how is there a
5 cause of action related to claims trading.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: (chuckles)
7 THE COURT: I don't know why you're giggling. This
8 is --
9 MR. MCENTIRE: No, I'm not. But --
10 THE COURT: -- serious stuff. Okay?
11 MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed. Agreed.
12 THE COURT: A bankruptcy estate is being charged ka-
13 ching, ka-ching -- not bankruptcy estate -- the post-
14 confirmation trust. Ka-ching, ka-ching, ka-ching. So this is 15 serious stuff.
16 MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed.
17 THE COURT: I need to, you know, colorable claim.
18 MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed.
19 THE COURT: Colorable claim.
20 MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed.
21 THE COURT: Even if plausibility is the standard,
22 which I've expressed my doubt about that, how do you have a
23 plausible claim? What is your best case?
24 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. This --
25 THE COURT: Just to recap what I'm focused on,

1 purchaser and seller, okay? I can see where breach of
2 contract, maybe some sort of torts between those two. Okay.
3 I can see where the U.S. Trustee, the SEC, I don't know, the 4 Texas State Securities Board, they might get concerned about 5 allegations of insider trading and there might be a regulatory
6 action. But the estate? Again, the post-confirmation trust
7 --
8 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.
9 THE COURT: -- and a contingent beneficiary. I'm 10 trying to understand what is the best legal authority that 11 might support a colorable claim. And we talked about the CVC
12 case and Adelphia. I'm trying to figure out what are other
13 cases you think I should really hone in on to understand this.
14 MR. MCENTIRE: All right. At the very beginning this 15 morning, during my opening statement, I had said this is not 16 your typical claims-handling case, because I recall from our 17 last conference you asked that question a couple of times.
18 This is not your typical claims-handling case. And it's not a
19 typical claims-handling case because we have a fiduciary that 20 we claim breached his duties that were owed to the estate.
21 And he self-dealt. And he -- this has nothing to do with the 22 plan. This has something to do with what Mr. Seery did
23 outside the corners of the plan. Perhaps he used the plan
24 expediently. He self-dealt.
25 That's why this is not just between a seller and a buyer

1 of a claim. That's number one.
2 We have been denied an opportunity to discover the 3 communications between the sellers and the buyers, and my
4 guess is we have big boy agreements that prevent the sellers
5 from ever coming back at anybody for fraud. My expectation,
6 that's the case. We should have a right to go explore that.
7 So that's why they're not here.
8 THE COURT: Why? I mean, what would that tell you?
9 What would that tell you?
10 MR. MCENTIRE: That --
11 THE COURT: If there's a big boy agreement, if 12 there's not, what --
13 MR. MCENTIRE: It would tell us --
14 THE COURT: -- consequence would that have for this 15 --
16 MR. MCENTIRE: It would tell us --
17 THE COURT: -- proposed lawsuit?
18 MR. MCENTIRE: It would answer Mr. Morris's question
19 that he's raised several times, this is the seller's issue,
20 this is not -- this is not the Hunter Mountain's issue. It is 21 Hunter Mountain's issue. Hunter Mountain as an equity
22 interest-holder should be in a position to be certified as a
23 Class 9 beneficiary now pursuant to our declaratory judgment
24 action. That's number one.
25 Number two. As a contingent beneficiary, it is entitled

1 to protect its interests and bring suits if it sees that
2 something has happened that is incorrect and is a tort
3 involving the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trust. That
4 is the nature and the essence of our claim.
5 And as a consequence, the aiders and abettors should not
6 be allowed to walk away unharmed. They should be required to 7 disgorge their ill-gotten profits. And that calculation is 8 easily done, as I've just demonstrated.
9 Your Honor, that's all I have. Thank you very much.
10 THE COURT: Thank you.
11 MR. MCENTIRE: And we talked -- we'd need an 12 opportunity to argue on the issue of experts, because --
13 whether you're just going to take it under advisement, I'm not 14 sure how you're going to handle that.
15 THE COURT: I'm going to read the pleadings and then
16 I'm going to let you all know are we coming back for another
17 day.
18 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.
19 THE COURT: All right. Who is making the closing
20 argument -- do we have three closing arguments?
21 MR. STANCIL: Yes.
22 MR. MCILWAIN: We're going to do it in reverse order.
23 MR. MORRIS: Reverse order in.
24 THE COURT: Okay. Reverse order of --
25 MR. STANCIL: Keep it interesting.

1 MR. MORRIS: I think I was last on the opening.
2 THE COURT: -- importance?
3 (Laughter.)
4 THE COURT: No. Just kidding. Just kidding.
5 MR. MORRIS: We're assuming you remember what the 6 original order was.
7 MR. STANCIL: Yeah, right, right.
8 MR. MORRIS: It was so many hours ago.
9 THE COURT: Okay. Oh, so many hours ago.
10 MR. MCILWAIN: I think I was referred to earlier as 11 the lame lawyer.
12 THE COURT: Oh, you were. I think --
13 MR. MCILWAIN: So I'll start. I think --
14 THE COURT: I think you --
15 MR. MCILWAIN: Or maybe it was the lame argument,
16 whatever. Whatever.
17 THE COURT: I think you were the lame one.
18 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIM PURCHASERS
19 MR. MCILWAIN: Your Honor, Brent McIlwain here for 20 the Claim Purchasers.
21 Let me start, I guess, by saying I understand now why
22 Hunter Mountain did not want to put on evidence, because the 23 evidence that they put on, frankly, made their case much
24 worse.
25 As we argued or we stated in the opening statement, our

1 position is that you can look within the four corners of this
2 document and determine that there is no plausible or colorable
3 claim. What the evidence showed is that Mr. Dondero allegedly 4 had a call with one -- with Farallon, not with Stonehill, with
5 Farallon, Farallon wouldn't tell him what they paid, Farallon
6 did not accept an offer of 130 or 140 percent of whatever they
7 paid for the claim, and he thinks they did no due diligence,
8 right? He had nothing in his notes about MGM. So he can say
9 that he thought that they were positive because of MGM, but 10 it's certainly not -- I don't think the Court should take that 11 evidence with any credibility.
12 But interestingly, what Mr. Dondero says is, well, how do
13 you know how much they paid for these claims? He goes, well,
14 there was a market for the claims, right? They were all
15 trading at 50 or 60 cents. But yet no one would ever buy
16 these claims without any due diligence because the projections
17 in the plan indicate that they wouldn't -- they wouldn't get a
18 return.
19 Well, if there's a market for the claims and he's willing 20 to pay 30 or 40 percent more than whatever someone purchased,
21 certainly there is a market for the claims. And he is the 22 only one, frankly, that had inside information. That's why he 23 was willing to maybe pay more.
24 Or, alternatively, the case that you were describing 25 before, Mr. Dondero maybe wanted to buy the claims so he could

1 control the case, right, so he could dismiss any litigation
2 that was pending against himself so he could avoid the ire of
3 the estate that is aimed at him.
4 It also -- the Court's inquiry as to what the injury is I
5 think is precisely on point. The only injury offered at this
6 point really is that somehow my client's agreed-to higher
7 compensation that is reasonable or appropriate in return for 8 some inside information on claims that were allegedly trading
9 at 50 or 60 cents in any instance. And what the evidence
10 showed is that, one, Mr. Dondero never had any information
11 about that, about the compensation that Seery is receiving 12 when this complaint was filed, when this motion for leave was 13 filed.
14 And so if you judge the complaint within the four corners,
15 there is no -- there is no quid pro quo, right? Because he 16 says, well, there's obviously something up here because they 17 wouldn't have bought these claims without due diligence, and 18 they must have agreed to higher compensation, and that's why
19 it all happened. And if we throw all this out here, then
20 we'll get to do the discovery that we wanted to do.
21 Importantly, if you look at his notes, right, the first
22 thing that's written down is discovery to follow, because
23 that's how he operates. That's how a serial litigator
24 operates. Discovery to follow so that I can pay you back for 25 not selling your claim to me. Right? So I can't control the

1 world, so I can't control this case, you're going to pay. And
2 we're all paying. Every one of us here. Right? There's 15
3 lawyers in the courtroom and probably 10 on the phone, right?
4 We're all paying.
5 And so when Mr. McEntire says I'm not getting my day in 6 court, we've had an entire day in court. We've had three
7 hearings to decide what this hearing is going to be. And he's
8 gotten more than his day in court for, frankly, what is word
9 salad. This complaint doesn't pass any test, whether it's 10 12(b)(6) or under the Barton Doctrine. It's simply 11 allegations that are thrown out there, and they're saying, so
12 that we can do more discovery to determine if we actually have 13 allegations. Because they want to continue to harass people,
14 they want to continue to be a thorn in everyone's side, so
15 that perhaps they can avoid further litigation against Mr.
16 Dondero or they can convince somebody to settle with Mr.
17 Dondero.
18 It doesn't make any sense, Your Honor, and this is exactly
19 why there is a gatekeeper provision, right. That's why the 20 Court imposed this.
21 And you ask yourself, why would someone sell these claims?
22 Obviously, the sellers of the claims have not shown up.
23 Whether they're big boy, it doesn't matter, because the Court
24 and this estate had nothing to do with those sales. But they 25 haven't shown back up. I can -- I can venture a guess why, if

1 I was involved with Mr. Dondero, I would sell my claim, right?
2 Because I wouldn't have to be here. And that's exactly why
3 the Court should not authorize this complaint to be filed and
4 the gatekeeper provision of the order should prevent it. And
5 frankly, this should be shut down and we should not have to 6 have continued litigation over experts, or anything else, for 7 that matter. And frankly, we should just be able to go on and 8 let Mr. Seery do his job.
9 Because I think the evidence was pretty clear that his 10 compensation is reasonable and it was in line, frankly, with 11 what he was making before. And candidly -- and maybe it's 12 because Mr. McEntire is not involved in bankruptcy cases, but 13 this is similar compensation that I see in numerous cases, and 14 it's tiered to incentivize Mr. Seery to do his job, and he's 15 doing his job.
16 So, with that, Your Honor, I'll cede the rest of the time
17 to the other parties.
18 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.
19 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES P. SEERY, JR.
20 MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor. I'm going to 21 focus -- and I'm going to put my little clock up so Mr. Morris
22 doesn't, you know, give me the hook here.
23 THE COURT: Okay.
24 MR. STANCIL: But first --
25 THE COURT: Next time we're all here, maybe I'll have

1 one of those red, what do you call them, the buzzer.
2 MR. STANCIL: Oh, the big light?
3 THE COURT: The red light.
4 MR. STANCIL: We used to joke that the judge I
5 clerked for wished he had a trapdoor and he could just pull
6 the lever when it was done.
7 THE COURT: Okay.
8 (Laughter.)
9 MR. STANCIL: Maybe I shouldn't have put that in your 10 head.
11 THE COURT: Who was that? Are we going to say who 12 that was?
13 MR. STANCIL: So Your Honor, I'm going to try to set
14 the legal framework. I'm going to ask you -- and I think we 15 have our -- we have the deck. It's the little -- if we could 16 put that up and start on Slide 2.
17 I'd like to address what standard applies, and then I'd 18 like to spend a few minutes asking Your Honor again not only
19 to rule on multiple alternative grounds, but also I'd like to 20 walk through what if you did this on a pure 12(b)(6), because 21 it's going to collapse.
22 So, well, we'll just jump in. I said at the beginning
23 that we know that the question here is not what does the word
24 colorable mean in isolation. We wouldn't do that in any 25 context. We would always look and see what the operative

1 language here is in the Court's confirmation order. So the
2 question is, what did the Court mean, it must represent a
3 colorable claim?
4 So we mentioned before Paragraph 80 of the confirmation
5 order. That cites Barton. It cites the vexatious litigant
6 cases. I've not heard one word from Mr. McEntire answering
7 how it can be that we're here on a sub-12(b)(6) standard he 8 now says when the Court articulated this legal authority and 9 this legal basis in the confirmation order. If he believed 10 that, the time to make that argument was on the confirmation
11 appeal, and that's over.
12 But let me then say, how did we get, how did the Court get
13 to Paragraph 80? Well, that came after a series of factual
14 findings in the confirmation order -- in fact, actually, Josh,
15 do you have the hard copy of this?
16 MR. LEVY: Yeah.
17 MR. STANCIL: If I could hand that to the Court.
18 May I approach, Your Honor?
19 THE COURT: You may. Thanks.
20 MR. STANCIL: And I don't propose to go through every 21 slide, Your Honor.
22 THE COURT: Okay.
23 MR. STANCIL: But if you could turn to Slide #5.
24 This is Paragraph 77 of the Court's confirmation order.
25 Factual support for gatekeeper provision.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Excuse me. May I have a copy? I
2 can't see it.
3 THE COURT: Oh.
4 MR. LEVY: Oh, yeah, sure, sure.
5 MR. STANCIL: And can we get a copy of yours as well,
6 --
7 MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.
8 MR. STANCIL: -- while we're at it? Thanks.
9 The facts supporting the need for the gatekeeper provision
10 are as follows. I will not read them all, but if you scroll
11 about eight lines down, it says, During the last several 12 months, Mr. Dondero and the Dondero-related entities have 13 harassed the Debtor, which has resulted in further 14 substantial, costly, and time-consuming litigation for the 15 Debtor. And then there are six separate enumerated examples
16 of that.
17 Paragraph 78 on the next slide. Findings regarding 18 Dondero postpetition litigation. The Bankruptcy Court finds
19 that the Dondero postpetition litigation was a result of Mr.
20 Dondero failing to obtain creditor support for his plan
21 proposal and consistent with his comments, as set forth in Mr.
22 Seery's credible testimony, that if Mr. Dondero's plan
23 proposal was not accepted he would, quote, burn down the 24 place.
25 Next slide. This is Paragraph 79. Necessity of the

1 gatekeeper provision. If you would just skim to the bottom of
2 that first column, it says, Approval of the gatekeeper
3 provision will prevent baseless litigation designed merely to 4 harass the post-confirmation entities charged with monetizing
5 the Debtors' assets for the benefit of its economic
6 constituents, will avoid abuse of the court system and preempt
7 the use of judicial time that properly could be used to 8 consider the meritorious claims of other litigants.
9 And then came Paragraph 80, which we've just discussed.
10 With respect, Your Honor, the question is, what is the meaning
11 of Paragraph 80? And in context, following those paragraphs 12 regarding vexatious litigation and abuse of litigation, it is 13 simply implausible to suggest that colorability is a sub-
14 12(b)(6) standard.
15 And that is Mr. McEntire's contention today, that the 16 gatekeeping order is actually lower than the threshold that 17 every other litigant faces. Everyone else has to file a
18 claim, pass a 12(b)(6), and on they go to get to discovery.
19 Mr. McEntire believes that the gatekeeping order imposes less
20 than that on him, and then he's treated just like everybody
21 else. It makes no sense whatsoever.
22 So I'll skip Slides 8 and 9, Your Honor, but that's where
23 the Fifth Circuit described the gatekeeping orders, affirmed
24 them in relevant part, citing Barton. There is no mystery
25 here.

1 If you could flip, Your Honor, to Slide 10 very briefly.
2 We've talked about this case a little bit in one of our status
3 hearings, In re Vistacare Group. This is the leading case
4 that describes what it is that one does under a Barton
5 analysis, and it says that the trustee must make a -- pardon
6 me -- a party seeking leave to sue a trustee must make a prima
7 facie case against the trustee, showing that its claim is not
8 without foundation. A prima facie case is more than a
9 12(b)(6).
10 And I would direct Your Honor to the language in the third
11 bullet. It involves a greater degree of flexibility than a
12 Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss because the bankruptcy court,
13 which, given its familiarity with the underlying facts and the 14 parties, is uniquely situated to determine whether a claim
15 against the trustee has merit. Boy howdy, are we -- I'm 16 sorry. My kids are going to tease me for that.
17 But this -- no case has ever proved the wisdom of that 18 statement, Your Honor. We are here, and the Court is all too
19 familiar with the facts and the parties of this case. And 20 we're not here on an adversary proceeding. We're here on a
21 contested matter. And Your Honor has the authority on any 22 contested matter to take evidence, and a broad, broad
23 discretion as to what evidence is appropriate to meet that 24 standard.
25 So we have laid out briefly in Slide 11 what -- why we

1 believe that -- or how we believe that the prima facie showing
2 would work. And in short -- and maybe this will help us going
3 forward -- we believe that if they make -- if a party seeking 4 relief under the gatekeeping order says things, we have the 5 right to rebut them, like in a burden-shifting or a burden of 6 production -- pardon me -- analysis. So you can say that the 7 sun rises in the west, but we can bring in evidence to say it
8 doesn't, it rises in the east. And that's the plausibility
9 threshold.
10 And here, and if Your Honor would flip to the next slide,
11 I'm not sure it's entirely fair to say, even after they have 12 purported to withdraw their evidence, that they've really done
13 so. And we disagreed with Mr. McEntire, and advised him of 14 such leading up to this hearing, that we do not agree that his 15 redactions fully excise all of the evidentiary assertions from 16 his motion.
17 And I'll just pick one example here on Slide 12. On the 18 left is Paragraph 32 of the motion for leave prior to the 19 purported withdrawal. On the right is Paragraph 32 after the 20 withdrawal. Your Honor will see all they've withdrawn are the 21 citations. It's verbatim. It's the same allegations. And 22 they have argued various facts and put them in evidence. So
23 even if it were true, and it's not, but even if it were true
24 that all you get here is a 12(b)(6) ruling in the ordinary
25 case if you put no evidence in dispute, they forfeited that

1 right by putting these facts and evidence in dispute in their
2 motion.
3 The fact that they have withdrawn evidentiary support for 4 their evidentiary assertions does not relieve them of the 5 reality that they have made all sorts of factual arguments in 6 their motion for leave, and as a contested matter we have the 7 right to address it.
8 I'm proposing, Your Honor, unless you have questions on 9 the cases on 13, 14, those are the cases where we have 10 described the hearings that have been held under Vistacare and 11 Foster, and I know more about the down-in-the-weeds of Foster
12 than I ever cared to, but I don't want to repeat what's in our 13 briefs.
14 If Your Honor is willing to flip to Page 15, this is an 15 argument I've alluded to briefly, but boy, we don't hear -- we 16 have not heard a single thing as to what function the 17 gatekeeper serves, particularly in context of Your Honor's
18 factual findings in the confirmation order, if all it means is 19 12(b)(6) or lower. It just, it's an unanswerable point that 20 they just persist in ignoring.
21 But I'd like to address very briefly that third bullet,
22 because at various times and in their brief they have cited,
23 Hunter Mountain has cited, down here we call it Louisiana
24 World, I think in the Second Circuit we call it STN, but this 25 UCC derivative standing. There are, in fact, two elements one

1 has to pass for that, and that's a different context. The
2 first is colorability as it's used in that context, and that
3 is often a 12(b)(6) standard in that context. But still to 4 have standing, to bring that claim on behalf of the estate,
5 you have to show a cost-benefit analysis. As we've heard
6 today, we've probably spent more in legal fees today, or over
7 the last three months, than the purportedly excessive
8 compensation to Mr. Seery. And so I would respectfully
9 submit, if we were here on a Louisiana World or STN hearing,
10 this would be an open-and-shut case just as well.
11 So if I could, Your Honor, if you are willing to jump
12 ahead to Slide 17, I'd like to ask you -- and I do want to 13 address the standing jurisdictional question a little bit.
14 THE COURT: Okay.
15 MR. STANCIL: Not to get into the weeds of standing,
16 because I think we have briefed that out the wazoo in our 17 papers, and I read this morning -- I think it was this morning
18 -- from the Claimant Trust Agreement, which says they're not a
19 beneficial interest.
20 But my understanding is that Article III standing, whether 21 there is a theoretical injury in any way, that is -- that goes
22 to Your Honor's subject matter jurisdiction under Article III,
23 but that is not true of statutory standing under Delaware law
24 or prudential standing. Those are -- those go to basically
25 whether they state a claim.

1 So, Your Honor, I believe, can -- and I've confessed to my
2 colleague that the only way I remember this is I screwed it up
3 really, really badly when I was clerking years ago -- but I
4 believe Your Honor can, and in this case should, rule on the
5 standing ground in the alternative. Not on the Article III.
6 Article III is binary. They either have it or they don't.
7 But on the statutory standing, you can say -- I think you can
8 hold that they do not have standing under Delaware law to 9 pursue the claim, but even if they do have standing, and then
10 reach the remainder.
11 And we know we're headed for appeal. We've heard --
12 pretty much two-thirds of the time this morning has been 13 laying the groundwork for an appeal. And we would only like
14 -- we would like to make sure that we give the Fifth Circuit a
15 fulsome record.
16 So I would like to ask Your Honor to flip to Page 19. And 17 this is really the end of, I think, what we need to do. So,
18 Your Honor, what if we were here just on 12(b)(6)? So we've 19 got a quid, we've got a pro, we've got a quo. They fail at 20 each turn. Let me spend most of my time on the quid. I'll 21 let the documents of which the Court can take judicial notice
22 speak for themselves. I will let the bare-bones nature of the 23 assertion -- and it's okay to put in a complaint something on 24 information and belief, but you still have to pass Iqbal and 25 Twombly. I can't say upon information and belief that I was

1 denied a starting position on the Knicks, right? I would like
2 to believe that's the case, but it still has to be a plausible
3 allegation.
4 Let's look at this chart. And this chart is taken right
5 out of our brief. These are their numbers. This is at the 6 bottom. And I want to -- I would like to take head-on this 7 proposition that this is not a rational investment on their
8 numbers.
9 So let's take the Stonehill purchase of Redeemer. They 10 paid $78 million to earn a projected profit, according to the 11 November 30 disclosure statement, of $19.71 million. By my 12 arithmetic, that is a return of 25.27 percent. Even by Mr.
13 Dondero's lights, that's a pretty good return.
14 I'm going to come back to why that's not the end of the 15 return, but let's look at the Farallon purchase of Acis.
16 Spent $8 million. Projected profit, $8.4 million. I'll take
17 105 percent return any day.
18 Let's look at the Farallon purchase of HarbourVest.
19 Purchase price, $27 million. Projected profit, $5.09 million.
20 That is -- oh, I can't read my own writing anymore -- I think
21 that is 18.85 percent. I would again gladly take that every 22 day of the week, whether it's a distressed asset or otherwise.
23 But let me make one really important point that Mr.
24 Dondero obfuscated, Mr. McEntire does not acknowledge, and it
25 is just a fact. These are projected profits if all Mr. Seery

1 does is hit the plan. November 30, 2021. If he does no
2 better than what he thought these assets were worth then, this
3 is the expected return. So for those trades that we've talked
4 about, that's a slam dunk even on that.
5 But let's look about -- we'll talk about upside. Because,
6 as Your Honor knows from doing bankruptcy cases, upside, it's
7 all about upside for people who are purchasing claims. So it
8 isn't just that their returns were capped at these already-
9 ample percentages. If Class 8, for example, of Redeemer paid
10 out in full, they would be making not -- oh, gosh, I'm not
11 sure I should do this on the fly -- but they'd be recovering
12 $137 million on the Class 8 claim, not the $97.71 million. So
13 there's another $40 million of upside.
14 Even if it's a low-probability event, that's a -- hedge
15 funds do that all day every day.
16 Same here with Acis. Paid $8 million, expected $16.4
17 million, but they could get up to $23 million.
18 Now, we've heard so much about how Class 9 was worthless,
19 worthless, worthless. No, it's not. There's always the 20 potential for upside. Paid $27 million. Could recover $45
21 million just on Class 8. Could recover another $35 million on 22 Class 9. They could recover $80 million on a $27 million
23 purchase. Now, the probability of that is complicated, but 24 it's not zero. We know that it's not zero. All we've heard
25 from them today is that Mr. Seery is -- could pay off 8 and 9

1 in full. So I don't think that is even remotely plausible.
2 Let's talk briefly about UBS. They like to talk about UBS
3 for the projected profit of $3.61 million in loss. But that
4 was -- that's in August, and that claim trades.
5 So a couple of things that happened between the November
6 30 disclosure statement setting that projected value and the 7 purchase of the UBS claim in August. Number one is we are 8 nine, ten months past the worst of COVID. And Your Honor
9 could take judicial notice of massive market movements just if 10 you do nothing.
11 We don't need to get to that, because we talked all
12 morning about MGM. May 26th, it's announced publicly. May 13 26, 2021.
14 So the notion that a purchaser of a UBS claim in the 15 summer of 2021, after this MGM transaction is announced, would 16 think, you know what, I think these claims are only worth what
17 they were worth back in November, is not plausible.
18 And so this is why the comparisons to the debt, the exit
19 financing, well, 12 percent. That's a 12 percent capped
20 return. We're talking here about returns of 25 percent, 105
21 percent, 18.85 percent, just based on projections at the --
22 sort of in the darkest days post-COVID.
23 So it's not plausible. If a court were looking at this
24 just under the 12(b)(6) standard, we would be -- we'd be 25 dismissing this claim as well. And we really -- respectfully,

1 Your Honor, we need that ruling. We think we need that ruling
2 so that whatever the -- whatever they may say the standard is
3 in the Fifth Circuit, we only have to go one time. And we
4 really believe that we're entitled to that.
5 I'll let Your Honor -- I will just stand on the deck and 6 our briefs on the pro and the quo. But meet-and-greets, these
7 are just conclusory allegations in the complaint. He says
8 they worked -- that he worked for them 10 or 15 years ago,
9 which some of that's not even true, but even if it were all
10 true, if I were beholden to every client I've met at a
11 schmooze fest or everybody I worked for in a group 20 years
12 ago or 15 years ago, you know, I would be incapable of 13 operating without a conflict of interest. And it's just not
14 plausible. This is something that needs to go.
15 Unless the Court has questions, I will cede the remainder
16 of our time to Mr. Morris.
17 THE COURT: No questions. Thank you.
18 CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE REORGANIZED DEBTOR
19 MR. MORRIS: Thank you so much, Your Honor, for your 20 patience. It's been a very long day. I am very grateful that 21 we're going to finish today.
22 As I said at the beginning, I believe this exercise, as 23 difficult as it may have been, is so important and so vital,
24 preserving this estate and what's left of it.
25 The gatekeeper exists for very important reasons. Your

1 Honor made those findings in her order that has been upheld on
2 appeal. And we're here to make sure that frivolous litigation
3 is not commenced against my clients, or, frankly, against
4 Stonehill and Farallon, given their capacity as Claimant
5 Oversight Board members.
6 Hunter Mountain confuses argument with facts. There's no
7 facts here to support anything, and that's what the gatekeeper
8 is about. The gatekeeper is making sure that there's a good-
9 faith basis to pursue claims. And as Mr. Stancil points out,
10 it is certainly acceptable to state things upon information
11 and belief. But the point of the gatekeeper is if somebody
12 says -- not somebody says -- somebody offers proof that those 13 beliefs are wrong, you no longer have a plausible claim. And 14 that's why we thought it was so important to go through this 15 exercise today. Because the facts show that their beliefs are 16 simply wrong, and the entire complaint is based on their 17 beliefs.
18 There is zero evidence concerning the compensation other
19 than their belief that the compensation is excessive. The 20 case is over. Like, you could stop there. I'm going to go
21 through a bunch of things that -- you could stop there.
22 I want to actually begin backwards, though, in time, with 23 the HarbourVest settlement. Right? After two years of 24 litigation and re-litigation and re-litigation of the 25 HarbourVest settlement, the claims of insider trading, finally

1 the Court has before it admissible indisputable evidence that
2 Mr. Seery negotiated the terms of the HarbourVest settlement
3 before he ever got this notorious email from Mr. Dondero.
4 That should be a finding of fact in Your Honor's order and it
5 should never be -- nobody should ever make that allegation
6 again. It's over. You have the documents. You have the 7 email from Mr. Seery to the board, here are the terms, and
8 those are the terms Your Honor approved.
9 And there's more. Because this is so important for us,
10 because we're tired of being accused of wrongdoing. We're
11 tired of being falsely accused of wrongdoing.
12 $22-1/2 million. That's the valuation Mr. Seery put on 13 it. You can see that he's doing it to his Independent Board
14 colleagues, copying his lawyers. He's telling them where he 15 got it, from Hunter Covitz. The evidence is now in the 16 record. It came from a regularly-published NAV report from 17 November 30th. It was seven days old. It can never be 18 disputed again that $22.5 million was a fair value, not based 19 on some subjective view of Mr. Seery but based on the person
20 who gave him the report that everybody relies upon that Mr.
21 Dondero got.
22 And it was ratified yet again in the audited financial
23 statements that came out, and it shows for the period ending
24 -- this is Exhibit 60, I believe -- for the period ending
25 December 31, 2020, $50 million. Okay, so it went up a few

1 million dollars in December.
2 This is their case? This is the case? Your Honor I know
3 is still working on the motion to dismiss. That's Mark
4 Patrick, right? That's the complaint that he brought. That's 5 what this is about. I don't mean to confuse the issue, but
6 it's time to put this stuff to rest, because it's wrong. Mr.
7 Dondero has lost and he's got to get over it at some point.
8 But here's the best piece of evidence about this whole
9 shenanigans about MGM being inside information. Mr. Dondero
10 filed a 15-page objection to the HarbourVest settlement and 11 didn't say a word about it. How is that possible? Six days
12 before the settlement, he sends this email. Two weeks later,
13 in January, he files a 15-page objection and doesn't mention
14 anything about insider trading, MGM, or any wrongdoing by Mr.
15 Seery. In fact, he argues the exact opposite, that Mr. Seery
16 cut a bad deal. How is that possible? This is a plausible
17 claim?
18 It gets better, or worse, depending on your point of view.
19 CLO Holdco filed an objection and they said they're entitled
20 to buy the asset. This is Mr. Dondero's, you know, operating 21 arm of the DAF. They lost -- they actually had an honorable
22 person who concluded, I don't really have that right. But 23 these are the claims that Mr. Patrick is asserting, and he 24 asserted them on April -- in April, before the MGM deal was 25 announced. Right? And Your Honor found, and that's why it

1 was so important for the Court to take judicial notice of the
2 second contempt order, because Mr. Dondero was intimately
3 involved in bringing those claims and in bringing those claims
4 against -- or trying to bring those claims against Mr. Seery,
5 in violating of the gatekeeper. This is all tied together.
6 I have to tell you, I don't know why we're not doing Rule
7 11. Forget about colorable claims. This is a fraud on the 8 Court. It really is. And I don't know when it's going to 9 stop. I'd love to move on with my life, to be honest with
10 you.
11 The tender offer. He's out there doing a tender offer
12 benefitting as the fund that he manages acquires more shares
13 and his interest goes up and the value goes up with all these 14 MGM holdings. Really? And he's going to accuse Mr. Seery of 15 wrongdoing?
16 There was one point of Mr. Dondero's testimony that made
17 my heart skip a beat. It's when he referred to the need to 18 get discovery. And why did it skip a beat? Because he 19 actually had a moment of candor where he admitted that the 20 notion that Mr. Seery gave them material nonpublic inside
21 information was his thought. It's not anything that Farallon
22 ever told him. And then it spins and it spins and it spins,
23 and finally when he gets to the fifth version of his sworn 24 statement MGM suddenly appears. It's not right. Colorable
25 claims? Fraudulent claims.

1 What's the undisputed evidence right now? I'll take Mr.
2 Dondero at his word that Mr. Patel told him that Farallon
3 bought the claims in February or March. How did they
4 reconcile that with the undisputed testimony that Mr. Seery
5 thereafter invited Farallon to participate in the exit
6 financing? And they signed an NDA in early April. Why would 7 you sign an NDA if you already got inside information? Who
8 would do that? What would be the purpose of that?
9 How do you reconcile the fact that, according to Mr.
10 Dondero, the claims were already in Farallon's pocket when 11 they signed an NDA to get information for an exit facility.
12 Is that plausible?
13 We've heard Mr. McEntire say a bunch of times it's much
14 broader than MGM. Not only not a scintilla of evidence, but 15 no substantive allegation. Again, confusing argument with 16 facts. Because he had -- yes, Mr. Seery had access to inside
17 information relative to Highland. He's the CEO. But where is 18 the evidence that he shared anything with anybody? There is 19 nothing.
20 Mr. Dondero admitted in his motion -- in a moment of 21 candor, he said that's what he concluded based on the fact
22 that Mr. Patel supposedly told him, I bought because Seery
23 told me to. He made the inference. No evidence. Nothing.
24 They're bringing this case for the benefit of innocent
25 parties? These people have told you time and again that

1 assets exceed liabilities. What innocent parties? Where are
2 they and how come they're not -- let's get to that point, too.
3 Because they're saying, oh, Mr. Seery is, like, just not
4 declaring the end of this. Seriously? How much do they think
5 Mr. Seery should reserve for indemnification claims as we do
6 trials like this with a mountain of lawyers billing $800,
7 $1,500 an hour? Seriously? Mr. Seery is somehow acting in 8 bad faith by not declaring the end of this case? How much is 9 he supposed to reserve? They keep skipping over that. We'll
10 talk about that in the mediation motion. We'll talk about 11 that in the Hunter Mountain motion in July. Who's prosecuting
12 that? Mr. Dondero's lawyer. I know there's a really big 13 separation between Hunter Mountain and Mr. Dondero, but 14 Stinson is prosecuting that claim on behalf of Hunter Mountain
15 when they're seeking information.
16 And they complain about the legal fees? We've put our 17 pens down. Kirschner put his pens down. We put down the 18 claim objection. What we're doing is defense at this point.
19 We're awaiting the ruling on the notes litigation, and we 20 will very much prosecute the vexatious litigant motion if 21 Judge Starr grants the pending motion to exceed the page limit
22 that's been out there for months. I'm not sure what's 23 happening there. We'll do that for sure. But otherwise,
24 we're just playing defense.
25 We're here today because they've made a motion, a motion

1 that lacks any good-faith basis whatsoever. And that's why
2 today was so important, so the Court could hear the witnesses.
3 They could -- the Court -- I mean, think about it. Texas
4 State Securities Board. The audacity of saying that somehow a
5 letter from the Texas State Securities Board saying they're 6 taking no action after conducting an investigation of 7 Dugaboy's claim of insider trading is irrelevant? Like, what?
8 I've told you before, all we do is play Whack-A-Mole.
9 Whack-A-Mole. They make an argument, we prove it's frivolous,
10 so they just make a new argument. Their pleading says their 11 claims are colorable because there's an open investigation.
12 Now there's no investigation and they say that's irrelevant.
13 How can they say that with a straight face? I couldn't.
14 I want to talk about Mr. Seery. I want to finish with my 15 Mr. Seery. I may not use all my time. We can go home early.
16 (Laughter.)
17 THE COURT: It's past early.
18 MR. MORRIS: But this guy has worked doggedly, Your 19 Honor, and I will defend him until the end of time. He's a
20 man who has so far exceeded expectations. And they're saying
21 he's not -- he's overpaid? The guy is overpaid? When he's 22 into Class 9? When he's being pursued with these frivolous
23 claims? Every day he's being attacked. How much do they
24 think he should be paid? I would have loved to -- I hope --
25 no, I don't hope. I don't think there's any reason to hear

1 expert testimony. I think Your Honor should exercise -- the
2 Court should exercise its discretion and say there's no need,
3 the Court doesn't need to hear expert testimony.
4 But if we do, I'll be delighted to hear their expert's
5 view on what Mr. Seery -- if it's not $8.8 million for all
6 these years, what should it be, after he takes an estate from 7 71 percent on the 8s to, according to them, assets exceed 8 liabilities, 9s are paid in full?
9 You know what? If they put their pens down, maybe there
10 would be a conversation. But as long as we keep doing this 11 ridiculous, baseless, frivolous litigation, Mr. Seery is going
12 to conserve resources, because he's got to pay people like me
13 to defend him and to defend the estate. This is a preview of 14 what we'll talk about at the mediation motion. He's doing a
15 great job. He's devoting his life to it. He has no other
16 income. He's got no other job. It's wrong.
17 The claims are not only not colorable, they are frivolous.
18 I ask the Court to stop this in its tracks right now.
19 Thank you very much.
20 THE COURT: Thank you.
21 All right. Is there any time for the Movant to have the 22 last word, which we usually give the Movant the last word.
23 THE CLERK: The Movant, I think, has a little under 24 -- maybe about a minute left.
25 THE COURT: Anything you want to say in a minute?

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, just I'll take 30 seconds. How 2 is that?
3 THE COURT: Okay.
4 REBUTTAL CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN
5 MR. MCENTIRE: I just want to direct your attention
6 to our reply brief, specific paragraphs that address your
7 question about authorities. We do cite several cases on Page
8 41, 40 and 41, dealing with the issue of unjust enrichment.
9 That's it.
10 Thank you, Your Honor, very much.
11 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Unjust enrichment?
12 MR. MCENTIRE: Disgorgement.
13 THE COURT: Okay. But I was really, you know, claims
14 trading in the bankruptcy context, just your best --
15 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I think the cases that you
16 identified were our best cases. The --
17 THE COURT: Okay.
18 MR. MCENTIRE: -- Adelphia and the other cases.
19 THE COURT: All right. Well, --
20 MR. MCENTIRE: There are other cases, Your Honor, in 21 different contexts. There's also the Washington Mutual case
22 dealing with equitable disallowance. There's also the Mobile
23 Steel case, a Fifth Circuit --
24 THE COURT: Mobile Steel? Oh, my goodness. Okay.
25 MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. All right.

1 THE COURT: 1968? Or no. That doesn't mean it isn't
2 still quoted often, but --
3 MR. MCENTIRE: Those would also be relevant.
4 THE COURT: Equitable subordination --
5 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.
6 THE COURT: -- when there's bad acts.
7 MR. MCENTIRE: And Footnote #10 in the Mobile Steel
8 case. That is relevant, too. Just, --
9 THE COURT: Okay.
10 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.
11 THE COURT: All right. So I gave a deadline of 12 Monday, right, --
13 MR. STANCIL: Yes.
14 THE COURT: -- to reply to the response to the 15 motion in limine?
16 MR. STANCIL: Yes, Your Honor. Do you want time
17 before you leave for the day? I mean, it's not going to be 18 that long, so 4:00 o'clock Monday? Does that work for you?
19 THE COURT: I don't care. I probably won't start
20 looking at it until the next day.
21 MR. STANCIL: But I will -- I'll just reserve and so
22 I don't have my associates --
23 THE COURT: Yes. I think these days midnight, 11:59
24 p.m., is what lawyers tend to want.
25 MR. STANCIL: Oh, not this lawyer.

1 THE COURT: Oh, well, okay. Okay. So I'll just have
2 to look at this, and probably by Friday of next week I will
3 reach out through Traci and let you know what my decision is 4 on whether we're going to have another day of just 30 minutes,
5 30 minutes of experts.
6 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, another housekeeping
7 matter. You'd wanted a copy of our PowerPoint, --
8 THE COURT: Yes.
9 MR. MCENTIRE: -- which I'm pleased to give you. We 10 found a typo that we can correct electronically on the version
11 I showed.
12 THE COURT: Uh-huh.
13 MR. MCENTIRE: I likely will send that to you and I
14 can copy opposing counsel. Is that --
15 THE COURT: Okay. Send it to Traci Ellison, my 16 courtroom deputy.
17 MR. MCENTIRE: All right.
18 THE COURT: And she'll --
19 MR. MCENTIRE: We'll do that first thing in the 20 morning.
21 THE COURT: Okay.
22 MR. MCENTIRE: So you'll have a copy --
23 MR. STANCIL: Can we get the hard copy that -- from 24 today, though?
25 MR. MCENTIRE: No, that had a typo on it. I really

1 don't want to share it. We fixed it.
2 THE COURT: What? I'm sorry, what?
3 MR. MORRIS: That's fine.
4 MR. STANCIL: Never mind.
5 THE COURT: Do I not need to know?
6 MR. STANCIL: Let's all go home.
7 THE COURT: Okay. And then my last question is --
8 and there was a mention of the CLO Holdco lawsuit, where 9 there's a pending motion to dismiss. There's an opinion I'm 10 writing well underway. I just keep getting sidetracked by 11 other things. Imagine that. So I know that people are 12 wanting to get an answer to that. So, trust me, it's going to 13 get done here pretty soon.
14 You mentioned Brantley Starr. I mean, it is not my role
15 to pick up the phone and call him and say hey, --
16 MR. MCENTIRE: No, I wasn't suggesting that.
17 THE COURT: -- District Judge, get busy on that.
18 MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah.
19 THE COURT: But I'll at least tell you, I know the 20 man seems to have more jury trials than any judge I've seen in 21 this building, so I suspect he's working late hours trying to 22 get things done.
23 MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah.
24 THE COURT: What do we have upcoming? We have what
25 you called the mediation motion. When is that set?

1 MR. MORRIS: June 26.
2 THE COURT: June 26th. Be here before we know it.
3 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. And just to keep the Court
4 informed, the Movant's reply was due today. We gave them a
5 week extension. They asked earlier today. I saw in my email
6 we gave them. So I think you should expect the reply on the 7 15th. The hearing is the 26th, and that's not in person.
8 THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm very interested to dive
9 into those pleadings. I knew the motion was coming because 10 one of the lawyers said at a prior hearing it would be coming.
11 So I haven't read any of those pleadings, but, well, I'm just 12 very interested to hear how this plays out. I mean, I've said
13 it before.
14 MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.
15 THE COURT: We had global mediation in summer of 16 2020. We had two very fine mediators. We had a heck of a lot
17 settled, to my amazement. But we're now way down the road and 18 whole lot of money has been eaten up fighting lots of stuff.
19 I mean, it would have to be pens down. There's an enormous
20 amount out there that would have to be part of it, and I just 21 don't know if everyone is fully appreciating that. I hope
22 they are. Anyone listening. We're really, really far down
23 the road now, and there's just how many appeals? Someone at 24 one time told me there were 26. I bet it's more than that by 25 now.

1 MR. MORRIS: I think that's right. I think we argued
2 on Monday, what is it, the sixth of nine appeals in the Fifth
3 Circuit. And we've got, you know, a cert petition that we're
4 waiting to hear from on the Supreme Court. And yeah, there's 5 still a couple dozen matters in the district court.
6 THE COURT: Okay.
7 MR. MORRIS: Not one of them, not one of them we're 8 prosecuting, with the exception of waiting on the Court to 9 rule on the Report and Recommendation on the notes litigation
10 and vexatious litigant. We are not the plaintiff, movant, in 11 anything.
12 THE COURT: We've got adversaries. The Reports and 13 Recommendations. That's just made everything go a lot slower.
14 But all right. So we have that. And anything else coming up?
15 MR. MORRIS: I think on July 11th maybe there is a
16 hearing scheduled on Hunter Mountain. If you recall, Hunter
17 Mountain had that valuation motion last year that you denied
18 on the grounds that they didn't have a legal right to 19 valuation information. They made a motion earlier this year
20 for leave to file an adversary proceeding to assert an 21 equitable claim and some other declaratory relief, is my
22 recollection.
23 While we filed an opposition, we didn't oppose the relief
24 requested, so that motion got resolved. They have filed an 25 adversary proceeding. And I think, if I remember correctly,

1 our response to the complaint, maybe that's what due. Oh, the
2 11th is a status conference. It could be a status conference,
3 maybe to set a scheduling order.
4 THE COURT: Okay.
5 MR. MORRIS: But that's it. I think that's the only
6 thing on the calendar.
7 THE COURT: That's a lot.
8 MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.
9 THE COURT: Anything else? Okay.
10 MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor.
11 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.
12 THE CLERK: All rise.

Item 11 Disclosure Information

In this Item, we ask for information about your disciplinary history and the disciplinary history of all your advisory affiliates. We use this information to determine whether to grant your application for registration, to decide whether to revoke your registration or to place limitations on your activities as an investment adviser, and to identify potential problem areas to focus on during our on-site examinations. One event may result in "yes" answers to more than one of the questions below. In accordance with General Instruction 5 to Form ADV, "you" and "your" include the filing adviser and all relying advisers under an umbrella registration.

Your advisory affiliates are: (1) all of your current employees (other than employees performing only clerical, administrative, support or similar functions); (2) all of your officers, partners, or directors (or any person performing similar functions); and (3) all persons directly or indirectly controlling you or controlled by you. If you are a "separately identifiable department or division" (SID) of a bank, see the Glossary of Terms to determine who your advisory affiliates are.

If you are registered or registering with the SEC or if you are an exempt reporting adviser, you may limit your disclosure of any event listed in Item 11 to ten years following the date of the event. If you are registered or registering with a state, you must respond to the questions as posed; you may, therefore, limit your disclosure to ten years following the date of an event only in responding to Items 11.A.(1), 11.A.(2), 11.B.(1), 11.B.(2), 11.D.(4), and 11.H.(1)(a). ITEM 4. ADVISORY BUSINESS

We are the sub-adviser to Rand Advisors Series I Insurance Fund (the "Rand Fund"), and adviser to the Rand PE Fund I, L.P. (the "Rand PE Fund") and Atlas IDF, LP (the "Atlas Fund") (all such entities shall collectively be referred to as the "Funds" or "Clients"), all of which are unregistered investment funds. The Rand Fund held its initial offering in October 2013. The Rand PE Fund and the Atlas Fund were funded in 2015.

OWNERSHIP

Rand Advisors, LLC ("Rand," "Adviser", "we" or "us") is owned 100% by Rand Advisors Holding Corp and was founded in 2013 by John Honis.

TYPES OF ADVISORY SERVICES

The Funds are our sole advisory clients at this time. The Funds seek to achieve their respective investment objectives primarily through the strategies described in "ITEM 8. METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES, AND RISK OF LOSS" and in the Private Placement Memoranda (each, a "PPM") for each Fund.

REGULATORY ASSETS UNDER MANAGEMENT

As of December 31, 2022, the amount of our total discretionary regulatory assets under management was $148,241,158.

All assets are managed on a discretionary basis.

ITEM 5. FEES AND COMPENSATION

For providing investment advisory services, Rand typically charges the Client a management fee and other fees as necessary and agreed to (including, but not limited to, expenses related to servicing accounts, such as administration and legal services). Fees may be deducted directly from the Funds.

We have entered into a shared services agreement with Highgate Consulting Group Inc., d.b.a Skyview ("HCG or "Highgate"). Please refer to the PPM for each Fund for a list of services to be provided by HCG.

The Funds incur brokerage and other transaction costs associated with Rand's management of Client Accounts. Please see the section titled ITEM 12 Brokerage Practices of this ADV Part 2 for a discussion of Rand's brokerage practices.

FEE SCHEDULE

Please refer to the PPM or other applicable offering documents for each of the Funds for a detailed description of fees, expenses and use of proceeds.

UNREGISTERED INVESTMENT FUNDS

As compensation for our advisory services, each of the Funds typically pays Rand management fees based on each Fund's agreements. Management fees are based upon outstanding capital accounts or amounts of committed capital. In some cases, certain investors in one Fund may pay a different fee than others based on the terms of their agreement with Rand.

In addition to management fees, brokerage and transaction costs, investors in the Funds will indirectly bear the fees and expenses paid by the Funds, including custody fees, administration, legal, audit and tax preparation fees, overhead allocation, and certain other fees and expenses. Each of the Fund's PPM's or offering documents include more detailed information about the fees and expenses paid by each of the Funds.

OTHER COMPENSATION

Fund Accounts may hold significant positions, individually or collectively, in the securities issued by a company. Accordingly, Rand may have the right to appoint a board member or officer for such company. Rand may appoint an employee or a third party to such position as it sees fit in the best interest of Rand and the Funds. Employees are permitted to retain all compensation received for such positions except to the extent contrary to the governing documents for one or more Fund Accounts, in which case the proportion of such compensation related to such Fund Account(s) will be paid to those Account(s) (generally in proportion to relative assets of the Fund Account as of the date paid).

In addition, to the extent permitted by the offering and/or governing documents of the applicable advised accounts, Rand and/or its affiliates receive other fees for services provided to portfolio companies, provided such fees are on arms-length terms. See also ITEM 10 Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations.

We have established procedures designed to address possible conflicts of interest that such board or officer positions might present, including requiring authorization from the Chief Compliance Officer prior to an officer or employee serving as a board member. As a result of such activities, Rand may acquire confidential information, which may restrict Fund Accounts from transacting in certain securities. As a result, we may not initiate a transaction on behalf of Clients which we otherwise might have.

ITEM 6. PERFORMANCE-BASED FEES

At this time, we do not charge any performance-based or incentive-based fees or allocations. These are fees or allocations based on a share of capital gains on, or capital appreciation of, the assets of the client.

ITEM 7. TYPES OF CLIENTS

Our sole advisory clients are the Atlas IDF, Rand PE Fund 1 and the Rand Series 1 Fund, all being limited partnerships.

ITEM 8. METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES, AND RISK OF LOSS

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The items below are general descriptions of the types of investment strategies we currently utilize, although we may add or subtract from this list based on various factors including macro-economic conditions.

INVESTMENT STRATEGIES

The Rand Series 1 Fund

Bank Loan Strategy

Rand's bank loan strategy seeks to generate attractive absolute returns by opportunistically making investments across the capital structure, with a core focus in senior secured bank loans. The bank loan strategy is long-biased and U.S. focused.

Structured Finance Investments

Rand invests in various structured finance instruments, including collateralized loan obligations and collateralized debt obligations. The rate of return on the structured finance instrument may be determined by applying a multiplier to the rate of total return on the reference loan or loans. Application of a multiplier is comparable to the use of financial leverage, a speculative technique. Leverage magnifies the potential for gain and the risk of loss, because of a relatively small decline in the value of a reference loan could result in a relatively large loss for the value of a structured finance instrument.

Please see the PPM for the Rand Series 1 Fund for a complete description of the investment objectives and strategies of the fund.

The Rand PE Fund 1

The Rand PE Fund's strategy is to invest in small- to medium-sized companies that are involved in (or are the target of) acquisition attempts or tender offers, and/or in companies involved in work-outs, liquidations, spin-offs, reorganizations, bankruptcies or similar transactions.

Please see the PPM for the Rand Series 1 Fund for a complete description of the investment objectives and strategies of the fund.

The Atlas IDF Fund

> The Atlas Fund's strategy may include investing in long and short equity positions, arbitrage, bank loans, cash, fixed income securities, high yield bonds, derivative transactions, foreign investments, companies, money market instruments, collateralized loan obligations and currency hedging. Please see the PPM for the Rand PE Fund 1 for a complete description of the investment objectives and strategies of the fund.
> Please see the PPM for the Atlas IDF Fund for a complete description of the investment objectives and strategies of the fund.

METHOD OF ANALYSIS

The investment process used by Rand to evaluate potential investments employs a combination of rigorous qualitative (issuer, portfolio and legal considerations) and quantitative (structural, cash flow, collateral valuation and pricing/relative value) analysis. Rand uses a proprietary quantitative analytical tool and 3rd party software in connection with gathering information on investments. The sell discipline is largely enforced by ongoing monitoring of individual names.

Other sources of information include obtaining and reviewing due diligence packages prepared by debt issuers and underwriters of institutional private placements and meetings with management of issuers.

MATERIAL RISKS OF SIGNIFICANT STRATEGIES

Some, but not necessarily all, of the risks involved in the strategies used by Rand in order to meet the stated investment objectives in the Funds include:

- Credit
- Illiquid Securities
- Inflation
- Investment in Distressed Assets
- Investments in Structured Finance Instruments
- Investments in Senior Secured Loans
- Maturity
- Market or Interest Rates
- Valuation of Portfolio Holdings
- Competition
- Volatility
- Market Liquidity

- Over-the-Counter-Trading
- Leverage

MATERIAL RISKS OF METHODS OF ANALYSIS

Qualitative Analysis – The major risk involved with qualitative analysis is that it is subjective in nature; assigning probability and impacts to risks is a subjective exercise.

Quantitative Analysis – The major risk involved with the use of quantitative risk analysis is the limited availability of data. Therefore, any lack of data concerning the structure, cash flow, collateral valuation and pricing/relative value of the underlying investment can restrict the Adviser's ability to perform thorough research into the suitability of the investment for the Funds.

Please refer to the PPM or other offering documents for each Fund for a complete description of the risks involved with the investment strategies of the Funds.

ITEM 9. DISCIPLINARY INFORMATION

We do not have any information to disclose concerning the Adviser or John Honis, Mark Patrick or Shawn Raver. We adhere to high ethical standards.

ITEM 10. OTHER FINANCIAL INDUSTRY ACTIVITIES AND AFFILIATIONS

We have no industry activities or affiliations to disclose. Additional information regarding potential conflicts of interest is provided in Item 11 Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading and the Conflicts of Interest description in the PPM or offering documents for each of the Funds.

ITEM 11. CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

We maintain a policy of strict compliance with the highest standards of ethical business conduct and the provisions of applicable federal securities laws, including rules and regulations promulgated by the SEC, and have adopted policies and procedures described in our Code of Ethics. The Code of Ethics applies to each of our "access persons" as defined in the U.S. Investment Advisers Act of 1940. It is designed to ensure compliance with legal requirements of our standard of business conduct.

A complete copy of our Code of Ethics is available to any client or prospective client upon request.

STANDARDS OF CONDUCT

We and our access persons are expected to comply with all applicable federal and state laws and regulations. Access persons are expected to adhere to the highest standards of ethical conduct and maintain confidentiality of all information obtained with respect to client matters and bring any risk issues, violations, or potential violations to the attention of our Chief Compliance Officer. Access persons are expected to deal with clients fairly and disclose any activity that may create an actual or potential conflict of interest between them and us or any client.

ETHICAL BUSINESS PRACTICES

Falsification or alteration of records or reports, also known as a prohibited financial practice, or knowingly approving such conduct is prohibited. Payments to government officials or employees are prohibited except for political contributions approved by our Chief Compliance Officer. We seek to outperform our competition fairly and honestly and seek competitive advantages through superior performance not illegal or unethical dealings. Access persons are strictly prohibited from (i) participating in online blogging and communication with the media, and (ii) spreading of false rumors pertaining to any publicly traded company.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Access persons must maintain the confidentiality of our proprietary and confidential information and that of our clients, and must not disclose that information unless the necessary approval is obtained. We have a particular duty and responsibility, as investment adviser, to safeguard client information. Information concerning the identity and transactions of investors is confidential, and such information will only be disclosed to those access persons and outside parties who need to know it in order to fulfill their responsibilities.

GIFT AND ENTERTAINMENT POLICY

Access persons are permitted, on occasion, to accept gifts and invitations to attend entertainment events. When doing so, however, employees should always act in our best interests and that of our clients and should avoid any activity that might create an actual or perceived conflict of interest or impropriety in the course of our business relationships. Under no circumstances may (i) gifts of cash or cash equivalents be accepted or (ii) any gifts be received in consideration or recognition of any services provided to, or transactions entered into by, Client Accounts.

PERSONAL TRADING

Personal Trading Policy

Access persons are allowed to trade reportable securities. Access persons are not permitted to trade any security of which we or a Client own any portion of the capital structure or that is on our restricted list without permission. Access persons who violate the personal trading policy are reprimanded in accordance with the sanctions provisions outlined in the Code of Ethics. Personal securities transactions are reviewed by the Chief Compliance Officer or his/her designee for compliance with the personal trading policy and applicable SEC rules and regulations.

Prohibition against Insider Trading

We forbid any access person from trading, either personally or on behalf of others, including the Funds, on material non-public information or communicating material non-public information to others in violation of the law or duty owed to another party. This conduct is frequently referred to as "insider trading". The concepts of material non-public information, penalties for insider trading, and processes for identifying insider trading are addressed in detail in the Compliance Manual and Code of Ethics.

Reporting Requirements

In compliance with SEC rules, access persons are required to disclose all of their reportable securities holdings within 10 days of becoming an access person, within 10 days of opening a new account, and annually thereafter. Additionally, at the end of each month after quarter-end, all access persons must report all transactions in reportable securities over which the access person had any direct or indirect beneficial ownership. Access persons are also required annually to affirm all reportable transactions from the prior year.

POTENTIAL CONFLICTS

Rand and its affiliates may engage in a broad range of activities, including activities for their own account and for the accounts of the Clients. This section describes various potential conflicts that may arise in respect of its business, as well as how Rand addresses such conflicts of interest. The discussion below does not describe all conflicts that may arise.

Any of the potential conflicts of interest will be discussed and resolved on a case by case basis. Rand's determination as to which factors are relevant, and the resolution of such conflicts, will be made using Rand's best judgment, but in its sole discretion. In resolving conflicts, Rand will take into consideration the interests of the relevant clients, the circumstances giving rise to the conflict and applicable laws.

Certain procedures for resolving specific conflicts of interest are set forth below. The following list is not all inclusive and for a complete description of the conflicts of interest for a particular Fund, please read the applicable PPM or offering documents.

Allocation of Investment Opportunities

Rand may act as investment adviser to clients that have similar investment objectives and pursue similar strategies. Certain investments identified by Rand may be appropriate for multiple clients. Investment decisions for such clients are made by Rand in its best judgment, but in its discretion, taking into account such factors as Rand believes relevant. Such factors may include investment objectives, regulatory restrictions, current holdings, availability of cash for investment, the size of investments generally, and limitations and restrictions on a Client's Account that are imposed by such client.

Conflicts Related to Investment Activities

Rand has an incentive to allocate assets into vehicles that produce the greatest fees for Rand. Each of these situations give rise to a potential conflict of interest in the allocation of investment opportunities. As previously described, Rand has adopted trade allocation policies and procedures that seek to ensure fair and equitable access to investment opportunities for all accounts.

Trade Aggregation

In some circumstances, Rand may seek to buy or sell the same securities contemporaneously for multiple client accounts. Rand may, in appropriate circumstances aggregate securities trades for a client with similar trades for other clients, but is not required to do so. In particular, Rand may determine not to aggregate transactions that relate to portfolio management decisions that are made independently for different accounts or if Rand and/or its affiliates determine that aggregation is not practicable, not required or inconsistent with client direction.

Errors

Rand's responsibility for its trade errors is set forth in the governing documents for the relevant Fund. No soft-dollars may be used to satisfy any trade errors. In addition, Rand may not use the securities in one client's account to settle the trade error in another client's account.

Conflicts Related to Valuation

Rand may have a role in determining asset values with respect to client accounts and may be required to price an asset when a market price is unavailable or unreliable. This may give rise to a conflict of interest because Rand may be paid an asset-based fee on certain client accounts. In order to mitigate these conflicts, Rand and its affiliates determine asset values in accordance with valuation procedures, which generally are set forth in Rand's Compliance Manual.

Other Potential Conflicts

Rand or its affiliates may invest (or recommend that one of the Funds invest) in securities issued by one of the Funds and may hedge derivative positions by buying or selling securities issued by one of the Funds. A potential conflict may arise in such circumstances because Rand may be incentivized to favor one Fund that issues securities over the Fund on whose behalf Rand is making the investment. In addition to the Funds, some of Rand's service providers are issuers of securities. Rand may determine that it is in the best interests of one of the Funds to purchase securities issued by one of these entities. Rand has adopted policies and procedures designed to address conflicts of interest arising from the foregoing activities. Furthermore, it is Rand's general policy not to take into account the fact that an issuer is a client, service provider or vendor when making investment decisions.

Certain qualified employees and affiliates may invest in the Funds either through general partner entities or as limited partners, shareholders or otherwise. Rand generally reduces or waives all or a portion of the management fee related to the investments by such persons.

Conflicts Related to Information Possessed by or Provided by Rand

Certain persons within Rand or its affiliates may receive or create information (e.g., proprietary technical models) that is not generally available to the public. Rand has no obligation to provide such information to any of the Funds or effect transactions for any of the Funds on the basis of such information and in many cases Rand or its affiliates will be prohibited from trading for the Funds based on the information. Similarly, one Fund may have access to information regarding Rand's transactions or views that is not available to one of the other Funds, and may act on that information through accounts managed by persons other than Rand or its affiliates. Such transactions may negatively impact other clients (e.g., through market movements or decreasing availability or liquidity of securities).

ITEM 12. BROKERAGE PRACTICES

BROKER-DEALER SELECTION

Rand has an obligation to obtain "best execution" for Client transactions considering the execution price and overall commission costs paid and certain other factors. Our trading desk route orders to various broker-dealers for execution at their discretion. Where possible, we deal directly with the dealers who make a market in the securities involved, except in those circumstances where it believes better prices and execution are available elsewhere.

Factors involved in selecting brokerage firms include such factors as:

Broker Specific

- Size of broker
- Reputation
- Quality of service
- Experience
- Financial stability and creditworthiness
- Financial statements
- Regulatory filings
- Standing in financial community
- Ability to handle block trades
- Acceptable record of delivery and payment on past transactions
- Quality of research and investment information provided

Transaction Specific

- Best available execution
- Market knowledge regarding specific industries and securities
- Access to sources of supply or markets
- Nature of the market for the security

THE APPROVAL PROCESS

Rand's trading desk is only allowed to trade with approved broker-dealers.

If a Fund Account is under the custody of one brokerage firm and another brokerage firm is a selling group member for an underwriting syndicate, such a Client Account may not be able to participate in the purchase of securities in the underwriting because the custodial brokerage firm was not a selling group member. In addition, to the extent that a Client directs brokerage trades to be placed with a particular broker, the allocation of securities transactions may be impacted.

DIRECTED BROKERAGE

Due to the nature of the Adviser's business, Rand does not currently allow directed brokerage.

TRADE AGGREGATION

Rand does not have any separately managed accounts. Please see Item 11 Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions, and Personal Trading and the PPM and offering documents for each Fund for additional information regarding Rand's trade aggregation procedures.

ITEM 13. REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

We provide reporting as agreed with each of our Clients. Please refer to the PPM or offering documents for each Fund for a description of the reporting practices for each Fund.

ITEM 14. CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

Rand may pay compensation to a third-party/broker-dealer who refer prospective investors to us. Prior to paying such referral fees, we will verify that the third party is appropriately registered to receive such compensation. Please refer to the PPM or offering documents for each of the Funds for information regarding client referrals.

ITEM 15. CUSTODY

Because the Advisor is under common control with the general partner of the Atlas IDF, Rand PE 1 and Rand Series 1 funds, we may be deemed to have custody of those Funds' assets. Assets for which we have custody are held only at qualified custodians and in accordance with applicable regulations. These regulations require us to maintain Fund assets with a qualified custodian in a separate account for each Fund under each Fund's name. The Funds' securities and other assets are held in the custody or US Bank and State Street.

ITEM 16. INVESTMENT DISCRETION

We intend to manage the Funds on a discretionary basis. For a description of limitations imposed on our discretionary authority to manage securities, please see Item 4 Advisory Business and the PPM or offering documents for each Fund.

All investors of the Funds must complete the subscription documentation we required in order to accept an investment, which may include a joinder to the applicable governing documents of the vehicle. This documentation includes an authorization granting us investment discretion for the Funds.

ITEM 17. VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

SECURITIES HELD IN CLIENT ACCOUNTS

Rand's proxy voting policy ensures proxies are voted on behalf of each Fund Account's securities and in the best economic interests of such Fund Account, without regard to the interests of Rand or any other Fund under Rand's management. Rand evaluates the subject matter of each proxy and votes on behalf of the Fund Account in accordance to the guidelines set forth in our proxy voting policy.

If Rand determines that there is a potential material conflict of interest in voting a proxy, it will abstain from voting. Rand also may determine not to vote proxies with respect to securities of any issuer if it determines it would be in its Client's overall best interests not to vote.

OBTAINING A COPY OF THE POLICY

Clients and prospective clients can obtain a copy of the proxy voting policy or information on how we voted proxies by contacting our Chief Compliance Officer at mpatrick@randadvisors.com.

ITEM 18. FINANCIAL INFORMATION

We are required to provide you with certain financial information or disclosures about our financial condition. We have no financial commitment that would impair our ability to meet any contractual and fiduciary commitments to you, our client. We have not been the subject of any bankruptcy proceedings.

In no event shall we charge advisory fees that are both in excess of twelve hundred dollars and more than six months in advance of advisory services rendered.

1 N. Dondero
2 THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Good morning.
3 My name is Manuel Garcia. I'm a
4 certified legal videographer in
5 association with TSG Reporting, Inc.
6 Due to the severity of COVID-19,
7 and following the practice of social
8 distancing, I will not be in the same
9 room with the witness, but will record
10 the deposition remotely.
11 The reporter, Annette Arlequin,
12 also will not be in the same room and
13 will swear the witness remotely.
14 Do all parties stipulate to the 15 validity of this video recording and
16 remote swearing, and that it will be
17 admissible in the courtroom as if it
18 had been taken following Rule 30 of the 19 Federal Rules of Civil Procedures and 20 the State's rules where this case is 21 pending?
22 MR. MORRIS: Yes.
23 I would ask if anybody objects,
24 to speak up. If you don't object, then
25 we're going to go on negative notice

1 N. Dondero
2 here.
3 (No response.)
4 MR. MORRIS: Thank you very much.
5 And just to be clear, as I
6 communicated with Debra last evening,
7 the court reporter is not currently in
8 the State of Texas.
9 And I understand that counsel for
10 all defendants in the notes litigation
11 have waived any objection to the fact
12 that the oath is being administered
13 outside of the state.
14 If anybody disagrees or objects
15 to that, please speak up now.
16 Thank you very much.
17 Okay. You can swear the witness.

19 N A N C Y D O N D E R O, called as a
20 witness, having been duly sworn by a
21 Notary Public, was examined and 22 testified as follows:
23 THE WITNESS: Yes.
24 EXAMINATION BY
25 MR. MORRIS:

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Okay. Can you please state your
3 name for the record?
4 A. Nancy Dondero.
5 Q. And where are you located right
6 now, Ms. Dondero?
7 A. In the law office of Deborah
8 Deitsch-Perez.
9 Q. Are you in Dallas?
10 A. I am.
11 Q. Is there anybody in the room with 12 you right now?
13 A. Yes.
14 Q. Who is in the room with you?
15 A. Deborah Deitsch-Perez and Dan
16 Elms.
17 Q. Is there anybody else in the room
18 with you right now?
19 A. Electronically is Douglas Draper.
20 Q. Okay. Thank you very much.
21 Do you have a telephone with you
22 right now?
23 A. My cellphone?
24 Q. Yes.
25 A. Yes. It's in my purse.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Is it turned off?
3 A. It is -- well, yes, um-hmm. It's
4 on silent.
5 Q. Okay. Thank you very much.
6 My name is John Morris. I'm an
7 attorney at Patchulski Stang Ziehl & Jones.
8 We represent the reorganized Highland
9 Capital Management LP, and we're here for 10 your deposition today.
11 Do you understand that?
12 A. I do.
13 Q. Okay. Do you understand that
14 this deposition is being videotaped?
15 A. Yes.
16 Q. And do you understand that I may 17 seek to use that videotape in a court of 18 law?
19 A. Yes.
20 Q. Do you understand that you're not
21 allowed to communicate with anybody
22 concerning the substance of your testimony
23 until the deposition is completed?
24 A. Yes.
25 Q. Is there anything that would

1 N. Dondero
2 prevent you from answering my questions
3 today?
4 A. No.
5 Q. Do you have any problems with
6 your memory?
7 A. No.
8 Q. Are you on any drugs or
9 medications that might impair your ability
10 to answer questions today?
11 A. No.
12 Q. Have you ever been deposed
13 before?
14 A. Once, a number of years ago.
15 Q. Do you recall the subject matter
16 of the testimony or the circumstances in 17 which you gave a deposition?
18 A. Personal injury.
19 Q. And were you a witness or were 20 you the plaintiff in that matter?
21 A. Plaintiff.
22 Q. Okay. So let me just give you
23 the general ground rules so that there's --
24 so that this can be efficient.
25 This is a very difficult process

1 N. Dondero
2 in normal times. It's particularly
3 difficult because we're doing this
4 remotely.
5 So it is very important that you
6 allow me to finish my question before you
7 begin your answer.
8 Is that fair?
9 A. Yes.
10 Q. And it's very important that I
11 allow you to finish your answers before I
12 begin the next question.
13 And if I fail to do that, will
14 you let me know?
15 A. I will.
16 Q. Okay. If there is anything that 17 I ask you that you don't understand, will 18 you let me know that?
19 A. Yes.
20 Q. Okay. From time to time, we're
21 going to put some documents on the screen.
22 It's not a -- you know, it's not intended
23 to be a test.
24 If you see a document on the
25 screen and you think that you need to see a

1 N. Dondero
2 different portion of the document to put
3 what I'm asking you about in context, will
4 you let me know that?
5 A. Yes.
6 Q. Okay. I sent down to your lawyer
7 last week 29 hard copies of certain
8 documents.
9 Do you have those handy?
10 A. The big binder?
11 Q. Yes.
12 A. Yes.
13 Q. Okay. All right. We may refer
14 to those --
15 MR. RUKAVINA: John, hold up for
16 a second. This is the Davor Rukavina.
17 I'm one of the attorneys defending two 18 of the defendants. I just -- we
19 haven't taken appearances, John. I
20 just want to make sure that the record
21 is clear that Deborah will be
22 objecting, Ms. Deitsch-Perez will be
23 objecting for me so that I don't have 24 you to object. In other words, when
25 she objects, consider it an objection

1 N. Dondero
2 on behalf of my clients NexPoint and
3 HCM Financial Advisors.
4 Is that acceptable, John?
5 MR. MORRIS: Yes.
6 MR. RUKAVINA: Thank you. Then
7 there is no need for me to speak.
8 MR. MORRIS: Okay. We'll miss
9 you.
10 BY MR. MORRIS:
11 Q. If you need a break at any time,
12 will you let me know that?
13 A. Yes.
14 Q. Okay. It's very important that 15 all of your responses to my questions be 16 verbal so that the court reporter can take
17 it down, okay?
18 A. Okay.
19 Q. And you do understand that the 20 court reporter is going to record and 21 transcribe every word that you and I say
22 today, okay?
23 A. Yes.
24 Q. Okay. From time to time, a
25 lawyer might object to one of my questions.

1 N. Dondero
2 That gives me the opportunity to think
3 about whether or not the answer to the
4 question would be admissible if I didn't
5 correct it.
6 I may ask you to just answer the 7 question because I don't think the 8 objection is going to be sustained. Just 9 let the lawyers do their thing. And unless
10 your lawyer directs you not to answer a
11 question, I would ask that you answer every 12 question that I ask, okay?
13 A. Yes.
14 Q. Thank you.
15 That's where you need to give the 16 verbal answer.
17 Just to go through a couple of
18 definitions so that I don't have to say
19 full names on certain things throughout the 20 day.
21 If I use the word "Dugaboy," will
22 you understand that I'm referring to The 23 Dugaboy Investment Trust?
24 A. Yes.
25 Q. If I use the word "Highland,"

1 N. Dondero
2 will you understand that I'm referring only
3 to the entity that was known as Highland
4 Capital Management LP, both before the
5 bankruptcy filing and after the bankruptcy
6 filing?
7 A. Okay.
8 Q. If I use the phrase "LP
9 agreement" -- withdrawn.
10 Are you familiar with the fourth
11 amended and restated limited partnership
12 agreement of Highland Capital Management
13 LP?
14 A. Yes.
15 Q. Okay. And if I refer to that
16 document as the "LP agreement," will you
17 understand what I'm referring to?
18 A. Yes.
19 Q. Do you understand that you're
20 here today both in your individual capacity
21 and in your capacity as the trustee or the 22 30 -- what's called the 30(b)(6)
23 representative for Dugaboy?
24 A. Yes.
25 Q. And have you done anything to

1 N. Dondero
2 prepare for today's deposition?
3 A. Yes.
4 Q. Can you tell me what you did to
5 prepare for today's deposition?
6 A. I met with my attorney. And I
7 reviewed your big binder.
8 Q. When did you meet with your
9 attorneys?
10 A. Yesterday.
11 Q. Is that the only time that you
12 conferred with your attorneys in 13 preparation for today's deposition?
14 A. In person, yes.
15 Q. Okay. And how long did you meet
16 in person yesterday?
17 A. Four hours, four and a half
18 hours.
19 Q. And where did you meet?
20 A. At Deborah's office.
21 Q. And was anybody present there
22 other than your attorneys?
23 A. No.
24 Q. Was anybody on speakerphone or
25 otherwise communicating during the meeting

1 N. Dondero
2 that was not one of your attorneys?
3 A. No.
4 Q. I think you mentioned, or you may
5 have implied, that you communicated with 6 your attorneys in preparation for today's
7 deposition but it wasn't in person.
8 Do I have that right?
9 A. Correct.
10 Q. Okay. Did you speak with them on 11 the phone?
12 A. Zoom meeting.
13 Q. And how many Zoom meetings did
14 you have in preparation for today's
15 deposition?
16 A. Three.
17 Q. Okay. And can you tell me when
18 those three Zoom meetings occurred?
19 A. Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.
20 Q. And can you tell me how long each
21 of those meetings took place, each of those
22 Zoom meetings took place?
23 A. Approximately an hour.
24 Q. Did anybody other than your
25 attorneys participate in any of those three

1 N. Dondero
2 Zoom meetings?
3 A. No.
4 Q. Did you review any documents in
5 preparation for today's deposition other
6 than the documents that I provided?
7 A. No.
8 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: To be fair, I
9 think we did give her the Dugaboy
10 notice. I don't remember if it's in 11 your binder.
12 MR. MORRIS: Deborah, are you
13 referring to the 30(b)(6) notice?
14 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes.
15 MR. MORRIS: I appreciate that.
16 It was not in the binder.
17 BY MR. MORRIS:
18 Q. Other than the 30(b)(6) notice
19 that was in the binder and the 29 documents
20 that I provided to you, did you review
21 anything else, Ms. Dondero, in preparation
22 for today's deposition?
23 A. Not that I'm aware of.
24 Q. Was your brother present or did
25 your brother participate in any of the four

1 N. Dondero
2 preparation meetings that you described?
3 A. No.
4 Q. Since the beginning of the year,
5 since January 1st, 2021, have you
6 communicated with your brother at any time
7 about the promissory notes that are the 8 subject of this litigation?
9 A. Not that I recall.
10 Q. You don't recall ever speaking to 11 your brother in 2021 about the promissory
12 notes that are the subject of the 13 litigation.
14 Do I have that right?
15 A. That's correct. I do not recall.
16 Q. Do you recall if you had any
17 conversations with your brother at any time
18 in 2021 about any of the defenses that he 19 is asserting in the litigation?
20 A. What do you -- can you be more
21 specific?
22 Q. Are you aware that your brother
23 is a defendant in the lawsuits in which --
24 withdrawn.
25 Are you aware that you are a

1 N. Dondero
2 defendant in certain lawsuits?
3 A. Yes.
4 Q. Are you aware that your brother
5 is also a defendant in certain lawsuits?
6 A. Yes.
7 Q. Are you aware that your brother
8 has asserted certain defenses to the claims
9 that are being asserted against him in 10 those lawsuits?
11 A. Yes.
12 Q. Did you ever discuss with your 13 brother at any time in 2021 any aspect of 14 the defenses that he is asserting in the 15 lawsuits?
16 A. No.
17 Q. Did you discuss with your brother
18 at any time in 2021 who would represent you
19 in connection with the lawsuits?
20 A. No, I don't believe so.
21 Q. Did you communicate with your --
22 and when I use the word "communication," I
23 want to be clear, I mean any form of 24 communication; either a meeting in public,
25 on the telephone, by email or text.

1 N. Dondero
2 Do you understand that?
3 A. Yes.
4 Q. Okay. Did you -- and did you
5 understand that when I asked the last few
6 questions about your communications with 7 your brother?
8 A. Yes, sir.
9 Q. Okay. In 2021, had you
10 communicated with your brother at any time
11 about who would represent Dugaboy?
12 A. Not that I remember.
13 Q. You're the trustee of Dugaboy.
14 Do I have that right?
15 A. Yes.
16 Q. Okay. And Mr. Draper represents
17 Dugaboy in Highland's bankruptcy case; is 18 that right?
19 A. Yes, sir.
20 Q. Your brother and people working
21 for him identified and selected Mr. Draper
22 to serve as Dugaboy's counsel, correct?
23 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Object to the
24 form.
25 A. I'm sorry. Can you ask that

1 N. Dondero
2 again?
3 Q. Sure.
4 Your brother -- you didn't select
5 Mr. Draper to represent Dugaboy; is that
6 right?
7 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Object to the
8 form.
9 A. I believe he was referred.
10 Q. And who was he referred to?
11 A. Me.
12 Q. Who referred Mr. Draper to you?
13 A. I do not remember.
14 Q. It's your testimony that
15 Mr. Draper was referred to you, and you
16 decided to retain Mr. Draper?
17 A. I don't -- I don't know.
18 Q. Do you know who decided to retain
19 Mr. Draper?
20 A. I do not.
21 Q. Do you know who identified
22 Mr. Draper as a possible attorney for 23 Dugaboy?
24 A. I do not know.
25 Q. Do you know when Mr. Draper was

1 N. Dondero
2 retained?
3 A. No.
4 Q. Do you recall when you first
5 spoke to Mr. Draper -- withdrawn.
6 Do you recall when you first
7 communicated with Mr. Draper?
8 A. A couple of months ago.
9 Q. Would it have been before or
10 after July 1st, 2021?
11 A. I don't know.
12 Q. It might have been before; it
13 might have been after.
14 Do I have that right?
15 A. Correct.
16 Q. Can you identify any matter that 17 Mr. Draper has handled in the Highland 18 bankruptcy other than his representation of 19 Dugaboy in these notes litigations?
20 A. I would have to look. I don't
21 know offhand.
22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah, John, I
23 don't -- this isn't a topic on the 24 Dugaboy 30(b)(6). If you need her to 25 go back and check the engagement -- I

1 N. Dondero
2 mean, it's not something that I believe
3 she's been prepared on. And so I don't
4 think it's fair to have a memory test
5 on the dates of these things.
6 MR. MORRIS: Okay. I appreciate
7 that, Deborah. I'm asking -- so let's
8 clarify and say this was not a 30(b)(6)
9 topic. It's not something that she 10 should have prepared for. But I -- she 11 is here in her individual capacity, and 12 I'll stipulate that these particular
13 questions are in her individual
14 capacity.
15 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, but in 16 her individual capacity, it's not the 17 subject of the notes litigation. And 18 then I would object that it's really
19 beyond the scope.
20 MR. MORRIS: Okay. There is no
21 scope because she's here in her
22 individual capacity. But the objection
23 is noted. Thank you very much.
24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Thank you.
25 BY MR. MORRIS:

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Did you ever consider hiring an
3 attorney for Dugaboy other than Mr. Draper?
4 A. No.
5 Q. Did you ever spend any time
6 trying to identify an attorney who would
7 represent Dugaboy?
8 A. No.
9 Q. The Stinson firm represents you
10 personally in this litigation; is that
11 right?
12 A. That's incorrect.
13 Q. Who -- do you know the name of 14 Ms. Deitsch-Perez's law firm?
15 A. Her law firm is Stinson.
16 Q. And does that law firm represent
17 you in your individual capacity?
18 A. Okay.
19 Q. That's okay.
20 A. She represents -- okay. Dan is
21 here representing me personally.
22 Q. Okay. And Dan is with the 23 Stinson firm, correct?
24 A. That's incorrect.
25 Q. What firm --

1 N. Dondero
2 A. Dan is with Greenberg Traurig.
3 Q. Ah. And I appreciate that.
4 A. Sure.
5 Q. Is that Dan Elms?
6 A. Correct.
7 Q. When did you retain Mr. Elms?
8 A. Mid to late summer.
9 Q. How did you identify Mr. Elms as 10 your counsel?
11 A. He was referred by Deborah.
12 Q. And Deborah is Deborah
13 Deitsch-Perez, counsel for certain other
14 defendants in this lawsuit; is that right?
15 A. Correct.
16 Q. Okay. Did you consider hiring
17 anybody to represent you in this litigation
18 other than Mr. Elms?
19 A. No. I trusted Deborah's
20 referral.
21 Q. Had you worked with Deborah
22 before she referred Mr. Elms to you?
23 A. On this matter? Yes.
24 Q. On any other matters?
25 A. No.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. When did you first communicate
3 with Ms. Deitsch-Perez?
4 A. Prior to this deposition being
5 scheduled in June.
6 Q. Was she your counsel at the time?
7 A. Yes.
8 Q. When did you retain her?
9 A. To the best of my recollection,
10 it had to be late April or May of this
11 year.
12 Q. So Ms. Deitsch-Perez was 13 representing you and your brother at the 14 same time? Do I have that right?
15 A. Yes.
16 Q. Do you have any agreements of any
17 kind with your brother concerning these
18 lawsuits?
19 Withdrawn. That wasn't a good
20 question.
21 Do you have any agreements or
22 understandings with your brother concerning
23 the defense of these lawsuits?
24 A. I'm sorry. I don't understand
25 the question.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Have you heard the word
3 "indemnification" before or "indemnity"?
4 A. Yes.
5 Q. Okay. Do you have an
6 understanding of what that means?
7 A. Generally.
8 Q. What's your general understanding
9 of the term "indemnity"?
10 A. That one forgives another
11 person's error.
12 Q. Okay. I'm going to try and give
13 you a little bit of a different definition
14 and see if you understand it.
15 Did your brother ever offer to 16 satisfy and pay any judgment that might be 17 entered against you in connection with 18 these litigations?
19 A. No.
20 Q. Do you have any agreement of any
21 kind or any understanding that he would be 22 responsible for the outcome of these
23 lawsuits?
24 A. Only what is written in the trust
25 agreement.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Do you know whether the trust
3 agreement protects you in your individual
4 capacity as opposed to your capacity as the
5 trustee of the Dugaboy trust?
6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Object to the
7 form.
8 A. I'm sorry. Can you reask that
9 question, Mr. Morris?
10 Q. Sure.
11 Do you know whether the trust
12 agreement indemnifies you in your
13 individual capacity, or is it only in your 14 capacity as the trustee of the Dugaboy
15 trust?
16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Object to the
17 form.
18 A. That's a legal question I don't
19 feel comfortable answering.
20 Q. All right. I appreciate that it
21 may have legal implications, but I just
22 want to know what is in your head as a
23 factual matter.
24 Is it your personal
25 understanding, whether it's right or wrong,

1 N. Dondero
2 that you are indemnified in your personal
3 capacity under the trust, under the Dugaboy
4 trust?
5 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Object to the
6 form.
7 A. I would have to think about that.
8 Q. Okay. Did your brother ever
9 offer to pay any costs and expenses that 10 you incur in your personal capacity in 11 connection with this lawsuit?
12 A. I don't understand.
13 Q. Okay. So you're a defendant in 14 your individual capacity in four different
15 lawsuits.
16 Do you understand that?
17 A. Yes.
18 Q. And Dugaboy is also a defendant
19 in the same lawsuits, right?
20 A. Yes.
21 Q. Okay. So I'm asking you whether
22 your brother ever offered to pay any costs
23 or expenses that you incur in your 24 individual capacity in connection with 25 these lawsuits?

1 N. Dondero
2 A. No.
3 Q. Okay. Greenberg Traurig only
4 represents you in your individual capacity.
5 Do I have that right?
6 A. Yes.
7 Q. Okay. Do you have any agreement
8 with anybody as to who would pay the 9 invoices rendered by Greenberg Traurig?
10 A. Yes.
11 Q. And what agreement is that?
12 A. That Dugaboy will pay Greenberg
13 Traurig's expenses, bills.
14 Q. Okay. So pursuant to that 15 agreement, you won't have to pay any legal 16 expenses associated with the defense of 17 these lawsuits in your individual capacity.
18 Do I have that right?
19 A. Yes, sir.
20 Q. Okay. Let's just get some 21 background here.
22 Are you currently employed,
23 ma'am?
24 A. I am.
25 Q. By whom?

1 N. Dondero
2 A. Crescent Research Services.
3 Q. Do you have a direct or indirect
4 ownership in that entity?
5 A. I do.
6 Q. And what is the nature of your
7 interest?
8 A. I own the company.
9 Q. 100 percent; is that fair?
10 A. Yes.
11 Q. Okay. And what is the nature of 12 the business of Crescent Research?
13 A. It's an investigative firm.
14 Q. And do you oversee the day-to-day
15 operations of Crescent Research?
16 A. I do.
17 Q. And how many employees does
18 Crescent Research have?
19 A. I have an outside contractor at 20 certain times when the workload demands it.
21 Otherwise, it is just me.
22 Q. Okay. And how long have you
23 owned and operated Crescent Research?
24 A. Since 1997.
25 Q. Have you owned and operated

1 N. Dondero
2 Crescent Research on a continuous basis
3 since 1997 until today?
4 A. Correct.
5 Q. Have you had any other employment
6 since 1997 other than the work that you do
7 for Crescent Research?
8 A. No.
9 Q. Did you obtain a college degree?
10 A. I did.
11 Q. Where did you attend college?
12 A. Penn State.
13 Q. And you graduated from Penn
14 State?
15 A. Correct.
16 Q. And when was that?
17 A. 1987.
18 Q. What was your degree in?
19 A. Hotel restaurant management.
20 Q. Was it a BA or BS?
21 A. I believe it's a BS.
22 Q. Okay. Do you have any
23 postgraduate degrees?
24 A. No.
25 Q. Do you hold any licenses of any

1 N. Dondero
2 kind other than your driver's license?
3 A. I do.
4 Q. Can you describe for me every
5 license that you hold other than your
6 driver's license?
7 A. I'm a real estate agent. I am
8 notary. I have several professional
9 licenses. Asset recovery specialist.
10 Those are off the top of my head that I
11 remember.
12 Q. What is an asset recovery
13 specialist license?
14 A. It's licensed through -- I don't 15 remember the organization. You have to --
16 I'm not sure how to answer that,
17 Mr. Morris.
18 Q. Can you tell me what asset
19 recovery is generally in the context of 20 your license?
21 A. Certainly.
22 It's finding assets for companies
23 that have gone bankrupt.
24 Q. So do you typically get hired by 25 an estate fiduciary, a bankruptcy estate

1 N. Dondero
2 fiduciary?
3 A. I haven't done asset recovery in
4 a number of years.
5 Q. Okay. As opposed to licenses, do
6 you have any certifications of any kind?
7 A. Not that I recall.
8 Q. Can you tell me generally what
9 you did professionally between the time you
10 graduated from Penn State in 1987 and the 11 time you formed and began working for 12 Crescent Research?
13 A. Immediately out of college, I
14 worked for a company called Royal Schutt.
15 Is an investigative firm. I built up their 16 background division. The company closed.
17 I took the background division and opened
18 up a company called Info-Back Services. I
19 ran that for a number of years in New 20 Jersey.
21 When I moved to Florida, I
22 transferred that company and it became
23 Crescent Research Services.
24 We predominately do preemployment
25 background screening, tenant research, and

1 N. Dondero
2 I do a lot of trial prep for various
3 attorneys.
4 Q. All right. I think you mentioned
5 three things. The first was preemployment
6 background.
7 Do I have that right?
8 A. Yes.
9 Q. And can you just describe
10 generally what preemployment background
11 pertains to?
12 A. When people are applying for a
13 job, I do the screening on their
14 application prior to them being hired.
15 Q. Okay. And what was the second
16 piece?
17 A. I do tenant screening as well,
18 which is the equivalent for people renting
19 properties.
20 And the third component would be
21 trial prep.
22 Q. And what about trial prep? What
23 does that mean? Can you help me to 24 understand what investigative services you
25 provide in the area of trial prep?

Page 38

1 N. Dondero
2 A. Certainly.
3 I work for private attorneys. I
4 worked for the public defender's office.
5 I've worked to capital murder cases on
6 down. I look for discrepancies in
7 statements. I find witnesses, take
8 statements and so forth. I help the lawyer
9 prepare for trial.
10 Q. Okay. You're familiar with a
11 company, the company that we identified
12 earlier, called Highland Capital Management
13 LP?
14 Do I have that right?
15 A. Yes.
16 Q. Oh, by the way, did you ever hear
17 of a person named James P. Seery, Jr.?
18 A. In regards to this case, yes.
19 Q. Did you ever investigate
20 Mr. Seery?
21 A. No.
22 Q. Did you ever investigate any of 23 the independent directors who were
24 appointed at Strand Advisors?
25 A. Can you tell me who they are?

Page 39

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Russell Nelms or John Dubel?
3 A. No.
4 Q. Have you undertaken any
5 investigation of any current or former
6 employee of Highland since October 19th,
7 2019?
8 A. No.
9 Q. Are you aware that Highland is 10 the company that your brother founded with 11 Mark Okada in the 1990s?
12 A. Yes.
13 Q. And you're aware that Highland
14 filed for bankruptcy, correct?
15 A. Yes.
16 Q. Do you know when that occurred?
17 A. October of '19, I believe.
18 Q. Okay. I'll tell you it is 19 October 19th, 2019. And if it's okay with 20 you, I'd like to refer to October 19th,
21 2019, as the petition date.
22 Is that okay?
23 A. Certainly.
24 Q. Okay. When did you find out that
25 Highland filed for bankruptcy?

Page 40

1 N. Dondero
2 A. It was either the day after --
3 when it appeared in the Dallas Morning
4 News.
5 Q. So you didn't have any advanced
6 notice that your brother was going to file
7 Highland for bankruptcy; is that right?
8 A. I did not.
9 Q. Did you speak to your brother
10 after learning that Highland filed for
11 bankruptcy?
12 A. I would imagine I called him,
13 sure.
14 Q. Do you have any recollection of 15 what was said in the phone call that you
16 imagine occurred?
17 A. No.
18 Q. Okay. Do you directly or 19 indirectly own any economic interest in 20 Highland today?
21 A. No.
22 Q. Do you understand that if I use
23 the phrase "directly or indirectly," I'm 24 asking whether you own it in your personal
25 name or through a company that you might

Page 41

1 N. Dondero
2 own, such as Crescent Research?
3 A. Okay.
4 Q. Do you understand the phrase
5 "directly or indirectly"?
6 A. No.
7 Can you elaborate, please?
8 Q. Sure.
9 A direct interest would be an
10 interest that you hold in your own name, in 11 the name of Nancy Dondero.
12 Do you understand that?
13 A. Okay.
14 Q. And an indirect interest is an
15 interest that you own through some other
16 vehicle, through some other entity in which
17 you also have an ownership interest.
18 Do you understand that?
19 A. Okay.
20 Q. Okay. So --
21 A. Yes. But are you referring to --
22 Q. Go ahead.
23 A. I'm just not clear.
24 Do you mean like Highland funds
25 or stock?

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. I'm only talking about Highland
3 Capital Management LP.
4 A. No, I have no interest.
5 Q. Have you ever directly or
6 indirectly owned any limited partnership
7 interests in Highland?
8 A. No.
9 Q. Have you ever directly or
10 indirectly owned any interest of any kind
11 in Highland?
12 A. No.
13 Q. Do you directly or indirectly
14 have any claims against Highland that you
15 know of?
16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And, again,
17 you are still talking about Nancy
18 Dondero?
19 MR. MORRIS: Yes, I am. Thank
20 you.
21 A. No, sir.
22 Q. Did you have an understanding of 23 the nature of Highland's business as of the 24 petition date?
25 A. Generally.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. And what did you understand the
3 nature of Highland's business to be as of 4 the petition date?
5 A. A hedge fund.
6 Q. Do you have any understanding of
7 what a hedge fund is?
8 A. Not really.
9 Q. I appreciate that.
10 By the way, do you know if
11 Crescent Research has any claims against
12 Highland?
13 A. That's a very good question.
14 There may be -- I think I am creditor for a
15 very little bit of money, but I'm not
16 positive on that, if that was settled.
17 Q. Do you recall filing any claim
18 against Highland on behalf of Crescent
19 Research?
20 A. I can't say definitely one way or 21 the other, but...
22 Q. Okay. It's a matter of record.
23 I don't mean to test your memory. It's
24 okay.
25 So other than your understanding

1 N. Dondero
2 that Highland was a hedge fund, do you have
3 any understanding or did you have any
4 understanding as of the petition date
5 regarding the nature of Highland's
6 business?
7 A. Since the petition date?
8 Q. As of the petition date.
9 A. No.
10 Q. Do you have any -- I apologize.
11 A. I know obviously it's a financial
12 company, and it has funds and so forth.
13 Q. Have you learned anything about
14 the nature of Highland's business since the 15 petition date? Anything additional?
16 A. No.
17 Q. Okay. Do you have an
18 understanding of the industry that Highland
19 operates in or that Highland operated in 20 prior to the petition date?
21 A. Sure. Yes.
22 Q. What industry did you understand
23 Highland to be operating in prior to the 24 petition date?
25 A. The financial industry.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Were you ever employed by
3 Highland at any time?
4 A. No.
5 Q. Did you ever serve as an officer
6 or director of Highland at any time?
7 A. No.
8 Q. Have you ever heard of an entity
9 called Strand Advisors Inc.?
10 A. Yes.
11 Q. Can we refer to that entity as
12 "Strand"?
13 A. Yes, sir.
14 Q. Do you know if Strand has any
15 relationship to Highland?
16 A. General partner.
17 Q. Do you recall when you learned
18 that Strand was Highland's general partner?
19 A. A number of years ago, I believe.
20 Q. Do you recall how you learned
21 that Strand was Highland's general partner?
22 A. I do not.
23 Q. Do you recall if you read it or 24 if somebody told that to you?
25 A. I do not recall.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Do you recall the circumstances
3 under which you learned that Strand was
4 Highland's general partner?
5 A. No, sir.
6 Q. Have you done anything to try to
7 verify whether Strand was in fact
8 Highland's general partner?
9 A. No.
10 Q. Have you ever been employed by
11 Strand?
12 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Object to the
13 form.
14 BY MR. MORRIS:
15 Q. You can answer. That's one of 16 those situations your lawyer can object to 17 preserve the question. I think the 18 question is fine, so you can answer the
19 question.
20 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Do you mean
21 technically like hired and worked as a
22 W-2 employee?
23 MR. MORRIS: Yes.
24 A. Okay. And that's a no, a W-2
25 employee.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Okay. Have you ever served as an
3 officer or director of Strand?
4 A. No, sir.
5 Q. Have you ever been employed by
6 any entity in which you believed your
7 brother had a direct or indirect ownership
8 interest?
9 A. No, sir.
10 Q. Have you ever served as an 11 officer or director for any entity in which 12 you believed your brother had a direct or 13 indirect ownership interest?
14 A. No, sir.
15 Q. Has Crescent Research ever
16 provided services to Highland?
17 A. Yes.
18 Q. When did Crescent Research first
19 provide services to Highland?
20 A. It's been a number of years. The 21 actual beginning, I don't know.
22 Q. And did you, in your capacity as
23 the owner of Crescent Research, run
24 individualized background checks on 25 prospective employees of Highland?

1 N. Dondero
2 A. Yes.
3 Q. Okay. Did Crescent Research
4 provide any services for Highland other
5 than that?
6 A. No, not that I'm aware of.
7 Q. Okay. Have you ever been
8 employed in the financial services
9 industry?
10 A. No, sir.
11 Q. Other than as it may relate to 12 this case, do you have any experience
13 making decisions in the area of executive
14 compensation?
15 A. No.
16 Q. Do you hold yourself out as an
17 expert in the area of executive
18 compensation?
19 A. No.
20 Q. Have you ever taken any classes
21 or courses concerning executive
22 compensation?
23 A. No.
24 Q. Have you ever been compensated
25 for services rendered by you in the area of

1 N. Dondero
2 executive compensation?
3 A. No.
4 Q. Have you ever conferred with
5 anybody who you believed to be an expert in 6 the area of executive compensation?
7 A. No, sir.
8 Q. Have you ever prepared any
9 analysis of any kind concerning executive
10 compensation?
11 A. No, sir.
12 Q. Have you ever asked anyone to 13 prepare any analysis of any kind in the 14 area of executive compensation?
15 A. No.
16 Q. Has anyone ever prepared an
17 analysis for you in the area of executive
18 compensation?
19 A. I'm sorry, sir. Can you repeat
20 that question?
21 Q. Sure.
22 Did anybody ever prepare any
23 analysis for you that covered the topic --
24 any topic concerning executive
25 compensation?

1 N. Dondero
2 A. No.
3 Q. Do you have any knowledge as to
4 how executives are compensated in the
5 financial industry?
6 A. Just a general awareness.
7 Q. And what is the basis, what is
8 the foundation of your general awareness?
9 A. Obviously the better a company
10 does, probably the more the CEO is paid.
11 Q. Do you have any understanding of
12 how executives are compensated in the
13 financial industry other than that?
14 A. No, sir.
15 Q. All right. So now I'm going to 16 ask you the same questions in your capacity
17 as the trustee of Dugaboy.
18 Did Dugaboy ever prepare any 19 written analysis concerning executive
20 compensation?
21 A. No, sir.
22 Q. Has Dugaboy ever asked anybody to
23 prepare any analysis on any issue
24 concerning executive compensation?
25 A. No.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Have you in your capacity as the
3 trustee of Dugaboy ever prepared any
4 analysis on the issue of executive
5 compensation?
6 A. No.
7 Q. Have you ever done any analysis
8 of the compensation that your brother
9 received from Highland over time?
10 A. Not that I am aware of.
11 Q. Do you have any information that 12 you can share with me concerning the 13 compensation that you your brother received
14 from Highland at any moment in time?
15 A. In general terms, sure.
16 Q. What can you share with me in 17 general terms?
18 A. I know Jim was not highly paid.
19 I know for the last couple of years, his 20 salary has been roughly less than a
21 million, 500, 700,000, somewhere in that 22 ballpark.
23 Q. Did you play any role in the 24 setting of his salary?
25 A. I'm sorry?

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Did you personally ever play any
3 role in the setting of Mr. Dondero's
4 salary?
5 A. In the salary that we are talking
6 about, no, I did not.
7 Q. Thank you.
8 Did Dugaboy play any role in the
9 setting of Mr. Dondero's salary?
10 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Do you mean
11 setting or approving, John?
12 BY MR. MORRIS:
13 Q. Let's go with setting first.
14 A. Okay. No.
15 Q. Did Dugaboy play any role in 16 approving Mr. Dondero's salary?
17 A. It has that right, but I don't 18 believe it did in the salary that he had at
19 the time.
20 Q. Okay. I just want to nail this
21 down.
22 To the best of your recollection,
23 Dugaboy never played a role in approving
24 Mr. Dondero's salary.
25 Do I have that right?

1 N. Dondero
2 A. Can you rephrase that so I
3 understand?
4 Q. Sure.
5 Can you think of any year in
6 which Dugaboy approved of Mr. Dondero's
7 salary from Highland?
8 A. His actual salary?
9 Q. Correct.
10 A. Not -- we are not talking about
11 the notes now; you are talking about
12 salary?
13 Q. Yes.
14 A. No -- yes, okay, not to my
15 recollection.
16 Q. Do you know what Mr. Dondero's
17 total compensation was in the year 2017?
18 A. His total compensation, no.
19 Q. Did you ever ask anybody what his 20 compensation was in the year 2017?
21 A. Not that I recall.
22 Q. Do you know what Mr. Dondero's
23 total compensation was in 2018?
24 A. When you're saying "total," you
25 mean just from Highland or from any entity?

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. I'm just talking about Highland.
3 A. Okay. Didn't we talk about those
4 numbers?
5 Q. We talked about salary before.
6 A. Right.
7 Q. And now I'm asking you about
8 total compensation.
9 Do you understand that.
10 A. No, I don't.
11 Q. Let me try again. Thank you for 12 letting me know that. And I encourage you
13 to let me know if you don't understand a
14 question.
15 Do you know what Mr. Dondero's
16 total compensation was from Highland in 17 2017?
18 A. No, I do not.
19 Q. Did you ever ask anybody what
20 Mr. Dondero's total compensation from
21 Highland was in 2017?
22 A. No. Other than the figures that 23 we are talking about. Because I'm still
24 not understanding, John. I'm sorry.
25 Q. Well, do you understand that

1 N. Dondero
2 salary is just one component of
3 Mr. Dondero's compensation?
4 A. That's correct.
5 Q. Okay.
6 A. Um-hmm. That, I understand.
7 Q. Okay. And so do you understand
8 that I'm moving from salary to total
9 compensation, and I'm asking for the value
10 of any benefits he received from Highland
11 when I use the word "compensation"?
12 A. Okay. And --
13 Q. So with that understanding, I'm
14 going to start again.
15 Do you know what Mr. Dondero's
16 total compensation was in 2017?
17 A. I do not know.
18 Q. Did you ever ask anybody what
19 Mr. Dondero's total compensation was in 20 2017?
21 A. No.
22 Q. Did Dugaboy know what
23 Mr. Dondero's compensation was in 2017?
24 A. I do not believe so.
25 Q. To the best of your knowledge,

1 N. Dondero
2 did anybody on behalf of Dugaboy ever try
3 to ascertain what Mr. Dondero's total
4 compensation was in 2017?
5 A. To the best of my knowledge, no.
6 Q. Do you know what Mr. Dondero's
7 total compensation from Highland was in 8 2018?
9 A. No.
10 Q. Did you ever ask anybody what
11 Mr. Dondero's total compensation was in 12 2018?
13 A. I don't believe so.
14 Q. Did Dugaboy know what
15 Mr. Dondero's total compensation was for 16 2018?
17 A. I don't think so.
18 Q. To the best of your knowledge,
19 did anybody ever ask on behalf of Dugaboy
20 what Mr. Dondero's total compensation from
21 Highland was in 2018?
22 A. I don't recall. I don't know.
23 Q. Do you know what Mr. Dondero's
24 total compensation was in 2019?
25 A. No.

1 N. Dondero
2 Q. Did you ever ask anybody what
3 Mr. Dondero's total compensation was in 4 2019?
5 A. Not that I remember.
6 Q. Did Dugaboy know what
7 Mr. Dondero's total compensation from
8 Highland was in 2019?
9 A. I don't believe so.
10 Q. Do you know whether Dugaboy ever
11 asked anybody what Mr. Dondero's total
12 compensation was from Highland in 2019?
13 A. I don't think so.
14 THE WITNESS: Would it be okay if
15 we take a break?
16 MR. MORRIS: Just a couple more
17 questions, Deborah.
18 You know what, I apologize. Of 19 course, of course we can take a break.
20 MR. DRAPER: John, this is 21 Douglas. Let me raise an issue with
22 you.
23 MR. MORRIS: Do you want to do
24 this on the record?
25 MR. DRAPER: Well, we can do it

Page 58

1 N. Dondero
2 off the record. But I just noticed on
3 the participants you have Page
4 Montgomery and Deborah Newman, who are
5 not parties to this litigation, and I
6 would request that you ask them to get
7 off the line.
8 MR. MORRIS: Okay. I'll take it
9 under advisement, Douglas, but I will
10 point out that there have always been 11 people who have -- they actually have
12 an interest in this litigation, so I'm 13 not even going to address that. They 14 have an interest in the litigation,
15 okay?
16 MR. DRAPER: John --
17 MR. MORRIS: Let's go off the
18 record, please.
19 THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is
20 10:30. We are going off the record.
21 (Recess is taken.)
22 THE VIDEOGRAPHER: The time is
23 10:51. Back on the record.
24 BY MR. MORRIS:
25 Q. Ms. Dondero, can you hear me?

Page 59

1 N. Dondero
2 A. I can.
3 Q. Okay. Did you communicate with 4 anybody during the break about any of the 5 questions that I asked?
6 A. No.
7 Q. Did you communicate with anybody
8 on the break regarding any answers you gave
9 to any of the questions that I asked?
10 A. No.
11 Q. Did you communicate with anybody
12 on the break about any questions that I
13 might ask in the future?
14 A. No.
15 Q. Did you communicate with anybody
16 on the break about any answers you might
17 give in the future?
18 A. No.
19 Q. I believe you testified earlier
20 that you learned that your brother received
21 less than a million dollars in salary.
22 Do I have that right?
23 A. Yes.
24 Q. Can you tell me when you learned
25 that?

Page 60

1 N. Dondero
2 A. I don't remember.
3 Q. Do you remember how you learned
4 it?
5 A. No.
6 Q. Did you ever know that your
7 brother received a salary of a million
8 dollars from Highland?
9 A. A million dollars even?
10 Q. Yes.
11 A. No.
12 Q. Did you ever learn that your 13 brother had his salary increased to 14 two-and-a-half million dollars from 15 Highland?
16 A. When?
17 Q. I'm just asking if you ever
18 learned it.
19 A. Oh, no.

22 A. Not that I'm aware of.
23 Q. Let's talk about access to 24 financial information.

3 A. Yes.
4 Q. And what's your understanding of 5 the term "financial statements"?
6 A. Balance sheets, bank statements.
7 Q. Would it include profit and loss

12 A. I would imagine, yes.
13 Q. Using a definition of the term
14 financial statements that incorporates each

16 you ever review Highland's financial
17 statements prior to the petition date?
18 A. No, I haven't reviewed Highland's

3 A. Not off the top of my head, no.

15 of those three companies?
16 A. That was my understanding.
17 Q. And what was the basis for that
18 understanding?
19 A. The basis of that understanding
20 has to do with the forgiveness of the note.
21 Q. So how did you learn that
22 Highland had a direct or indirect economic 23 interest in each of the three portfolio
24 companies that you identified?
25 A. I believe it was from Jim.

20 Ms. Dondero's capacity as a 30(b)(6)
21 witness for Dugaboy.

25 Q. Did anybody ever tell you --

1 N. Dondero
2 withdrawn.
3 Did anybody ever give you or
4 Dugaboy any information concerning any loan
5 that Highland ever made to any of its
6 employees or officers that was forgiven in 7 whole or in part?

23 Q. Do you recall if the conversation
24 took place before or after the petition
