Purchasers and Seery (Count III), on the other hand, does not involve a matter of “internal affairs” or of corporate governance, so it is governed by Texas law under the Plan.<sup>279</sup>

As an initial matter, because HMIT does not present either a “colorable”—or even plausible claim—that Seery breached his fiduciary duties, it cannot show that it has alleged a “colorable” or plausible claim for secondary liability for the same alleged wrongdoing.<sup>280</sup> In addition, HMIT’s civil conspiracy claim against the Claims Purchasers and Seery is based entirely on Dondero’s speculation and unsupported inferences and, thus, HMIT has not “colorably” alleged, or even plausibly alleged, its conspiracy claim. Under Texas law, “civil conspiracy is a theory of vicarious liability and not an independent tort.”<sup>281</sup> “[T]he elements of civil conspiracy [are] “(1) two or more persons; (2) an object to be accomplished; (3) a meeting of minds on the object or course of action; (4) one or more unlawful, overt acts; and (5) damages as the proximate result.”<sup>282</sup> While HMIT alleges that “Defendants conspired with each other to unlawfully breach fiduciary duties,”<sup>283</sup> it is simply a “legal conclusion” and not the kind of allegation that the court must assume to be true even for purposes of determining plausibility under a motion to dismiss.<sup>284</sup>

HMIT repeats four times that Seery provided MNPI to Farallon and Stonehill as a “as a quid pro quo” for “additional compensation,”<sup>285</sup> each time based upon conclusory allegations based “upon information and belief” and, frankly, pure speculation from Dondero that his imagined “scheme,” “covert quid pro quo,” and secret “conspiracy” between Seery, on the one hand, and Farallon and Stonehill, on the other,<sup>286</sup> must have occurred because “[i]t made no sense for the [Claims] Purchasers to invest millions of dollars for assets that – per the publicly available information – did not offer a sufficient potential profit to justify the publicly disclosed risk” (i.e., “[t]he counter-intuitive nature of the purchases at issue compels the conclusion that the [Claims] Purchasers acted on inside information and Seery’s assurance of great profits.”)<sup>287</sup> Importantly, HMIT admits that the Claims Purchasers would have turned a profit based on the information available to them at the time of their acquisitions of the Purchased Claims.<sup>288</sup> HMIT’s allegations about the level of potential profits were contradicted by their own allegations and other evidence admitted at the June 8 Hearing. But Dondero’s speculation about what level of projected return would be sufficient to justify the acquisition of the claims by the Claims Purchasers, or any other third-party investor, does not give rise to a plausible inference that they acted improperly.<sup>289</sup> Thus, HMIT cannot meet

<sup>288</sup> See, e.g., id. ¶ 3 (alleging that acquiring the claims “did not offer a sufficient potential profit to justify the publicly disclosed risk”)(emphasis added); ¶ 43 (“Furthermore, although the publicly available projections suggested only a small margin of error on any profit potential for its significant investment . . . .”); ¶ 49 (“Yet, in this case, it would have been impossible for Stonehill and Farallon (in the absence of inside information) to forecast any significant profit at the time of their multi-million-dollar investments given the publicly available, negative financial information.”) (third emphasis added).

its burden, under the Gatekeeper Colorability Test, of making a prima facie showing that its allegations do not lack foundation or merit. Nor can it meet a plausibility standard.

In addition, contrary to the Proposed Complaint’s statement that it would have been “impossible for Stonehill and Farallon (in the absence of insider information) to forecast any significant profit at the time of their multi-million-dollar investments,” the evidence showed there were already reports in the financial press that MGM was engaging with Amazon, Apple, and others in selling its media portfolio, and thus the prospect of an MGM transaction increasing the value of, and return on, the Purchased Claims, “at the time of their multi-million-dollar investments” was publicly available information.<sup>290</sup> HMIT’s suggestion that the Claims Purchasers were in possession of inside information not publicly available when they acquired the Purchased Claims is simply not plausible. Nor is HMIT’s allegation that “[u]pon information and belief” Farallon “conducted no due diligence but relied on Seery’s profit guarantees” plausible. The allegations regarding Farallon not conducting any due diligence are based, again, entirely on Dondero’s speculation and inferences he made from what Patel and Linn (of Farallon) allegedly told him on May 28, 2021; Dondero did not testify that either Patel or Linn ever told him specifically that they had conducted no due diligence. HMIT’s allegations in the Proposed Complaint that Farallon “conducted no due diligence,” are based on Dondero’s speculation, unsubstantiated, and contradicted by the testimony of Seery, who testified that emails to him from Linn in June 2020 and later in January 2021 indicated to him that Farallon, at least, had been conducting some level of due diligence in that they had been following and paying attention to the <sup>290</sup> The court notes, as well, that the Claim Purchasers acquired the UBS claims in August 2021—approximately two and a half months after the announcement of the MGM-Amazon transaction (which was on May 26, 2021)—a fact that HMIT makes no attempt to harmonize with its conspiracy theory that the Claims Purchasers profited from the misuse of MNPI allegedly given to them by Seery.

Highland case.<sup>291</sup> In addition, there are no allegations in the Proposed Complaint regarding whether Stonehill conducted due diligence or not, and Patrick testified that neither he nor HMIT had any personal knowledge of how much due diligence Farallon or Stonehill did prior to acquiring the Purchased Claims.<sup>292</sup> The court finds and concludes that HMIT's allegations of aiding and abetting and conspiracy in Counts II and III of the Proposed Complaint are based on unsubstantiated inferences and speculation, lack internal consistency, and lack consistency with verifiable public facts. Accordingly, HMIT has failed to show that these claims have a foundation and merit and has also failed to show that they are plausible.

- c) HMIT's Proposed Claims Set Forth in Counts IV (Equitable Disallowance), V (Unjust Enrichment and Constructive Trust), and VI (Declaratory Relief) of the Proposed Complaint
  - i. Count IV (Equitable Disallowance).

In Count IV of its Proposed Complaint, HMIT seeks "equitable disallowance" of the claims acquired by Farallon's and Stonehill's special purpose entities Muck and Jessup, "to the extent over and above their initial investment," and, in the alternative, equitable subordination of their claims to all claims and interests, including HMIT's unvested Class 10 Contingent Claimant Trust Interest, "given [their] willful, inequitable, bad faith conduct" of allegedly "purchasing the Claims based on material non-public information" and being "unfairly advantaged" in "earning significant profits on their purchases."<sup>293</sup> As noted above, these remedies are not available to HMIT.<sup>294</sup>

First, HMIT's request to equitably subordinate the Purchased Claims to all claims and interests is not permitted because Bankruptcy Code § 510(c), by its terms, permits equitable subordination of a claim to other claims or an interest to other interests but does not permit equitable subordination of a claim to interests.

Second, “equitable” disallowance of claims is not an available remedy in the Fifth Circuit pursuant to the Mobile Steel case.<sup>295</sup>

Third, reconsideration of an already-allowed claim in a bankruptcy case can only be accomplished through Bankruptcy Code § 502(j), which, pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 9024, allows reconsideration of allowance of a claim that was allowed following a contest (which is certainly the case with respect to the Purchased Claims) based on the “equities of the case.” But this is only if the request for reconsideration is made within the one-year limitation prescribed in Rule 60(c) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. HMIT’s request for disallowance of Muck and Jessup’s Purchased Claims (if it could somehow be construed as a request for reconsideration of their claims), is clearly untimely, as it is being made well beyond a year since their allowance by this court following contests and approval of Rule 9019 settlements. Thus, the court finds that HMIT has not alleged a colorable or even plausible claim in Count IV of the Proposed Complaint and, therefore, the Motion for Leave should be denied.

ii. Count V (Unjust Enrichment and Constructive Trust)

In Count V of the Proposed Complaint, HMIT alleges that, “by acquiring the Claims using [MNPI], Stonehill and Farallon were unjustly enriched and gained an undue advantage over other creditors and former equity” and that “[a]llowing [the Claims Purchasers] to retain their ill-gotten benefits would be unconscionable;” thus, HMIT alleges, the Claims Purchasers “should be forced to disgorge all distributions over and above their original investment in the Claims as restitution for their unjust enrichment” and “a constructive trust should be imposed on such proceeds . . . .”<sup>296</sup>

HMIT alleges further that “Seery was also unjustly enriched by his participation in this scheme and he should be required to disgorge or restate all compensation he has received from the outset of his collusive activities” and “[a]lternatively he should be required to disgorge and restate all compensation received since the Effective Date” over which a constructive trust should be imposed.<sup>297</sup> HMIT has not alleged a colorable or even a plausible claim for unjust enrichment or constructive trust in Count V.

Under Texas law,<sup>298</sup> “[u]njust enrichment is not an independent cause of action but rather characterizes the result of a failure to make restitution of benefits either wrongfully or passively received under circumstances which give rise to an implied or quasi-contractual obligation to repay.”<sup>299</sup> Thus, “when a valid, express contract covers the subject matter of the parties’ dispute, there can be no recovery under a quasi-contract theory.”<sup>300</sup> Here, as noted above, HMIT’s only alleged injury is a diminution of the value of its unvested Contingent Claimant Trust Interest by virtue of Seery’s allegedly having wrongfully obtained excessive compensation, with the help of the Claims Purchasers. Yet Seery’s compensation is governed by express agreements (i.e., the Plan and the CTA). Thus, HMIT’s claim based on unjust enrichment is not an available theory of recovery.

iii. Count VI (Declaratory Relief)

HMIT seeks declaratory relief in Count VI of the Proposed Complaint, essentially, that Dondero’s conspiracy theory is correct and that HMIT’s would succeed on the merits with respect

<sup>298</sup> Under the Plan, Texas law governs HMIT’s “claim” for unjust enrichment because it is not a “corporate governance matter.” (Plan Art. XII.M.) It also governs HMIT’s “claim” for constructive trust, which “is merely a remedy used to grant relief on the underlying cause of action.” Sherer v. Sherer, 393 S.W.3d 480, 491 (Tex. App. 2013).

to the Proposed Claims if it were permitted leave to bring them in an adversary proceeding.<sup>301</sup> But, a request for declaratory relief is not “an independent cause of action”<sup>302</sup> and “in the absence of any underlying viable claims such relief is unavailable.”<sup>303</sup> This court has already found and concluded that HMIT would not have constitutional or prudential standing to bring the underlying causes of action in the Proposed Complaint. This court has also found and concluded that all of the Proposed Claims are without foundation or merit and are not even plausible and are all; being brought for the improper purpose of continuing Dondero’s vexatious, harassing, bad-faith litigation. Thus, HMIT would not be entitled to pursue declaratory judgement relief as requested in Count VI of the Proposed Complaint.

d) HMIT Has No Basis to Seek Punitive Damages

HMIT separately alleges that the Claims Purchasers’ and Seery’s “misconduct was intentional, knowing, willful, in bad faith, fraudulent, and in total disregard of the rights of others,” thus entitling HMIT to an award of punitive damages under applicable law. But, HMIT abandoned its proposed fraud claim that was in its Original Proposed Complaint, so its sole claim for primary liability is Seery’s alleged breach of his fiduciary duties. And under Delaware law, the “court cannot award punitive damages in [a] fiduciary duty action.”<sup>304</sup>

3. HMIT Does Not Present “Colorable” Claims Under this Court’s Gatekeeper Colorability Test Because It Seeks to Bring the Proposed Complaint for Improper Purposes of Harassment and Bad-Faith, Vexatiousness.

Under this court’s Gatekeeper Colorability Test, in addition to showing that its allegations and claims are not without foundation or merit, HMIT must also show that the Proposed Claims are not being brought for any improper purpose. Taking into consideration the court’s knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings and the parties and the evidence presented at the hearing on the Motion for Leave, the court finds that HMIT is acting at the behest of, and under the control or influence of, Dondero in continuing to pursue harassing, bad faith, vexatious litigation to achieve his desired result in these bankruptcy proceedings. So, in addition to failing to show that its Proposed Claims have foundation and merit, HMIT cannot show that it is pursuing the Proposed Claims for a proper purpose and, thus, cannot meet the requirements under the Gatekeeper Colorability Test; HMIT’s Motion for Leave should be denied.

IV. CONCLUSION

The court concludes, having taken into consideration both its knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings and the parties and the evidence presented at the hearing on the Motion for Leave, that HMIT’s Motion for Leave should be denied for three independent reasons: (1) HMIT would lack constitutional standing to bring the Proposed Claims (and, thus, the federal courts would lack subject matter jurisdiction over the Proposed Claims); (2) even if HMIT would have constitutional standing to pursue the Proposed Claims, it would lack prudential standing to bring the Proposed Claims; and (3) even if HMIT would have both constitutional standing and prudential standing to bring the Proposed Claims, it has not met its burden under the Gatekeeper Colorability Test of showing that its Proposed Claims are “colorable” claims—that the Proposed Claims are not without foundation, not without merit, and not being pursued for an improper purpose. Moreover, even if this court’s Gatekeeper Colorability Test should be replaced with a Rule 12(b)(6) “plausibility” standard, the Proposed Claims are not plausible.

Accordingly,

IT IS ORDERED that HMIT’s Motion for Leave be, and hereby is DENIED.

ORDER DENYING APPLICATION FOR EXPEDITED HEARING [DE # 3700]

This Order is issued in response to the Application for Expedited Hearing on Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding (“Expedited Haring Request”) [DE # 3700] filed by Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“HMIT” or “Movant”) on March 28, 2023, at 4:09 p.m. C.D.T. The Expedited Hearing Request seeks a hearing within three days, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, on HMIT’s Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding (“Motion for Leave”) which was filed on March 28, 2023, at 4:02 p.m. C.D.T.

The court has concluded that no emergency or other good cause exists, pursuant to Fed. R. Bankr. Proc. 9006, and the Expedited Hearing Request will be denied. The Motion for Leave will be set in the ordinary course (after 21 days’ notice to affected parties)—i.e., after April 18, 2023.

The Motion for Leave is 37 pages in length and contains 350 pages of attachments. It seeks leave from the bankruptcy court—pursuant to the bankruptcy court’s “gatekeeping” role<sup>1</sup> under the confirmed Chapter 11 plan of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland” or “Reorganized Debtor”)—to sue at least the following parties: Muck Holdings, LLC (“Muck”); Jessup Holdings, LLC (“Jessup”); Farallon Capital Management, LLC (“Farallon”); Stonehill Capital Management, LLC (“Stonehill”); James P. Seery, Jr. (“Seery”); and John Doe Defendant Nos. 1-10 (collectively, the “Affected Parties”). The conduct that is described as a basis for the desired lawsuit is certain trading of unsecured claims that occurred in 2021 during the Highland bankruptcy case.<sup>2</sup> It appears that millions of dollars of damages are sought by Movant, who was formerly the largest indirect (ultimate) equity holder of Highland. The legal theories (e.g., breaches of fiduciary duties; fraud; conspiracy; equitable disallowance) are novel in the bankruptcy claims trading context. The bankruptcy court, pursuant to the Highland plan, will need to analyze whether such claims are “colorable” such that leave to sue should be granted.

The Affected Parties—and other parties in interest in the underlying bankruptcy case, for that matter—should be afforded a reasonable opportunity to respond to the Motion for Leave.

While Movant, HMIT, has alleged that it may be facing a statute of limitations defense as to

some claims after April 16, 2023, it appears that Movant has known about the conduct underlying the desired lawsuit for well over a year, based on activity that has occurred in the bankruptcy court. See, e.g., Memorandum Opinion and Order Granting James Dondero's Motion to Remand Adversary Proceeding to State Court, Denying Fee Reimbursement Request, and Related Rulings, Dondero v. Alvarez & Marsal CRF Management, LLC and Farallon Capital Management LLC [DE # 22], in Adv. Proc. # 21-03051 (January 4, 2022). Thus, the need for an emergency hearing is dubious. Accordingly

IT IS ORDERED that the Expedited Hearing Request is denied.

Counsel shall contact the Courtroom Deputy for a setting on the Motion for Leave, which setting shall be no sooner than April 19, 2023.

ORDER PERTAINING TO THE HEARING ON HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST'S MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE ADVERSARY PROCEEDING

[DE ## 3699 & 3760]

Based on the court's review of all of the parties' pleadings and briefing relating to the above-referenced motion and supplemental motion ("Motion for Leave"), the court has determined that there may be mixed questions of fact and law implicated by the Motion for Leave—and, in particular, pertaining to the court's required inquiry into whether "colorable" claims may exist, as described in the Motion for Leave. Therefore, the parties will be permitted to present evidence (including witness testimony) at the June 8, 2023 hearing if they so choose. This may include examining any witness for whom a Declaration or Affidavit has already been filed. The parties will be allowed no more than three hours of presentation time each (allocated three hours to the movant and three hours to the aggregate respondents). This allocated presentation time may be spent in whatever manner the parties believe will be useful to the court (argument/evidence).

Seery, Jr. or James Dondero in advance of the June 8 hearing (“June 8 Hearing”) on HMIT’s Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding [Dkt. No. 3699] and Supplement to Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding [Dkt. 3760] (together, the “Motion for Leave”), Mr. Seery and Mr. Dondero shall be made available for depositions (“Depositions”) on a date and at a time agreeable to the parties that is no earlier than May 31, 2023, and no later than June 7, 2023, and no discovery or depositions of any other party or witness will be permitted prior to the June 8 hearing; and
- (2) None of the parties shall be entitled to any other discovery, including the production of documents from Mr. Seery or Mr. Dondero, or any other party or witness pursuant to a subpoena duces tecum, or otherwise, prior to the conduct of the Depositions or to the court’s ruling on the Motion for Leave following the June 8, 2023 hearing;

Case No. 19-34054-sgj11

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER GRANTING JOINT MOTION TO EXCLUDE EXPERT EVIDENCE [DE # 3820]

I. INTRODUCTION.

BEFORE THIS COURT is yet another dispute in the continuing saga of the Chapter 11 bankruptcy case of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland” or “Reorganized Debtor”).

The Reorganized Debtor has been operating under a confirmed Chapter 11 plan for approximately two years now—a plan having been confirmed on February 22, 2021. The plan was never stayed; it went effective in August 2021; and it was affirmed almost in its entirety by the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit (in late summer 2022). A petition for writ of certiorari regarding the plan confirmation order has been pending at the United States Supreme Court since January 2023. Millions of dollars have been paid out to creditors under the plan, although the plan has not been completed.

This court uses the words “continuing saga” because there is a mountain of litigation that is still pending. First, there are numerous adversary proceedings still pending, in which the Reorganized Debtor and a Litigation Trustee appointed under the plan are seeking to liquidate claims that Highland has against others, in order to augment the pot of money available for unsecured creditors. Some of these adversary proceedings involve what seem like simple suits on promissory notes (albeit very large promissory notes), and others involve highly complex torts. There are numerous appeals pending and, from time to time, petitions for writs of mandamus have been filed post-confirmation. And there are new lawsuits popping up around every corner it seems.

To be sure, this post-confirmation litigation is not the “usual stuff,” and the adverse parties in this ongoing post-confirmation litigation are not the “usual suspects.” For example, the numerous post-confirmation adversary proceedings do not involve preference lawsuits or other Chapter 5 avoidance actions against non-insider creditors—as we so often see proliferate in Chapter 11 cases post-confirmation. And we do not have long-running proof of claim objections pending post-confirmation—because all of the proof of claim objections regarding non-insider creditors were resolved long ago (with major compromises reached and settlements approved by the court—some after formal mediation). And as for the myriad appeals, the non-insider creditors in this case—with proofs of claim asserted in the hundreds of millions of dollars—overwhelmingly supported Highland’s confirmed plan and, therefore, they have not been appellants on any of the aforementioned appeals.

So who has been the adverse party in this deluge of post-confirmation litigation? The founder and former Chief Executive Officer (“CEO”) of Highland, Mr. James Dondero personally, and entities that he controls (e.g., family trusts; investment advisory firms; managed funds; and other entities—frequently organized offshore—that were not themselves debtors in the Highland Chapter 11 case but assert party-in-interest status in various capacities). To be clear, Mr. Dondero takes umbrage at the suggestion that all of the adverse parties in these numerous post-confirmation scuffles are controlled by him.

Which brings us to the current, post-confirmation contested matter before the court. Currently, a party called Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“HMIT”), a Delaware trust, has filed a “gatekeeper motion”—that is, a motion seeking leave from this court to file an adversary proceeding in the bankruptcy court against the Reorganized Debtor’s CEO and certain investors who purchased allowed unsecured claims in this case post-confirmation and pre-Effective Date (as further described below). HMIT’s gatekeeper motion has given birth to a sideshow, so to speak, regarding what, if any, evidence the court ought to consider in connection with HMIT’s gatekeeper motion—the latest “act” in such sideshow focusing on the propriety of considering expert testimony.

Who or what exactly is HMIT? HMIT is an entity with no employees and no income whose only asset is a contingent right of recovery under the Highland confirmed plan—by virtue of HMIT having held a majority (99.5%) of the limited partnership interests in Highland pre-confirmation, which interests were classified in the plan in a “Class 10” (that was projected to receive no recovery). Mr. Dondero asserts that he does not control HMIT. HMIT represents that, since on or about August 2022, it has been solely controlled by a Mr. Mark Patrick (a former employee of Highland who left Highland one week after its Plan was confirmed and went to work for an entity called “Skyview Group,” that was formed by certain former Highland employees, and apparently now advises various affiliate entities of Mr. Dondero).<sup>1</sup> While HMIT only has one asset (the “Class 10” contingent interest), Mark Patrick has testified that HMIT is liable on a $62.6 million-dollar indebtedness that it owes to The Dugaboy Investment Trust (a family trust of which Mr. Dondero is the lifetime beneficiary), pursuant to a promissory note made by HMIT in favor of Dugaboy, in 2015, in exchange for Dugaboy transferring to HMIT an ownership interest in Highland. See Transcript 6/8/23 Hearing, at pp. 304-308 [DE # 3843]. See also Highland Exh. 51 from 6/8/23 Hearing [DE # 3817]. Mr. Patrick has testified that Dugaboy and HMIT have a settlement, pursuant to which, Dugaboy is paying HMIT’s attorney’s fees. Transcript 6/8/23 Hearing, at p. at 313:2-18 [DE # 3843].

II. HMIT’S MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE LAWSUIT (a.k.a. THE “GATEKEEPER MOTION”).

To understand the procedural motion now before the court—which deals with whether or not the bankruptcy court should allow or exclude expert witness testimony and documents (more fully described below)—one must understand the context in which it is being considered, which is the hearing on HMIT’s Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding that was filed by HMIT (the “HMIT Motion for Leave”), which this court loosely refers to sometimes as the “Gatekeeping Motion.”

The HMIT Motion for Leave, as alluded to, requests leave from the bankruptcy court to file a post-confirmation, post-Effective Date adversary proceeding pursuant to this bankruptcy court’s “gatekeeping” orders and, specifically, the gatekeeping, injunction, and exculpation provisions of the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [DE # 1943], as modified (the “Plan”). The HMIT Motion for Leave, with attachments, as first filed, was 387 pages in length, and the attachments included a proposed complaint and two sworn declarations of the aforementioned former CEO of the Reorganized Debtor, Mr. Dondero. The HMIT Motion for Leave was later amended to eliminate the declarations of Mr. Dondero. DE ## 3815 & 3816. In a nutshell, HMIT desires leave to sue certain parties regarding the post-confirmation, pre-Effective Date purchase of allowed unsecured claims. The proposed defendants would be:

Mr. James P. Seery, Jr., who now serves as the CEO of the Reorganized Debtor and also serves as the Trustee of the Highland Claimant Trust created pursuant to the Plan, and also was previously Highland’s Chief Restructuring Officer (“CRO”) during the case, then CEO, and, also, an Independent Board Member of Highland’s general partner during the Highland case. Mr. Seery is best understood as the man who took Mr. Dondero’s place running Highland—per the request of the Official Unsecured Creditors Committee.

Certain Claims Purchasers, known as Farallon Capital Management, LLC (“Farallon”); Muck Holdings, LLC (“Muck”), which was a special purpose entity created by Farallon to purchase unsecured claims against Highland; Stonehill Capital Management, LLC (“Stonehill”); and Jessup Holdings, LLC (“Jessup”), which was a special purpose entity created by Stonehill to purchase unsecured claims against Highland (collectively, the “Claims Purchasers”). The Claims Purchasers purchased $240 million face value of unsecured claims post-confirmation and pre-Effective Date—which claims had already been allowed during the Highland case—in the spring of 2021 and another $125 million face value allowed unsecured claims in August 2021. Bankruptcy Rule 3001(e) notices—giving notice of same—were filed on the bankruptcy clerk’s docket regarding these purchases. The claims had previously been held by the creditors known as the Crusader Redeemer Committee, Acis Capital, HarbourVest, and UBS (three of these four creditors formerly served on the Official Unsecured Creditors Committee during the Highland bankruptcy case).

John Doe Defendant Nos. 1-10, which are described to be “currently unknown individuals or business entities who may be identified in discovery as involved in the wrongful transactions at issue.”

The proposed plaintiffs would be:

HMIT, which represents that it was the largest equity holder in Highland and held a 99.5% limited partnership interest (specifically, Class B/C limited partnership interests). HMIT represents that it currently holds a Class 10 interest under the confirmed Highland plan, which gives it a contingent interest in the Claimant Trust created under the plan, and as defined in the Claimant Trust Agreement (“CTA”).

Reorganized Debtor, as a nominal party. HMIT wishes to bring its complaint on behalf of itself and derivatively on behalf of the Reorganized Debtor.

Highland Claimant Trust, as a nominal party. HMIT wishes to bring its complaint on behalf of itself and derivatively on behalf of the Highland Claimant Trust.

The gist of the complaint that HMIT seeks leave to file is as follows. HMIT asserts that something seems amiss regarding the post-confirmation/pre-Effective Date purchase of claims by the Claims Purchasers. Actually, more bluntly, HMIT asserts that “wrongful conduct occurred” and “improper trades” were made. HMIT Motion for Leave, 7. HMIT believes the Claim Purchasers paid around $160 million for the $365 million face amount of claims they purchased. HMIT believes that this amount was too high for any rational claim purchaser (particularly hedge funds who expect high returns) to have paid for the claims—based on Highland’s Disclosure Statement and Plan projections regarding the projected distributions under the Plan to holders of allowed unsecured claims. Also, Mr. Dondero purports to have concluded from conversations he had with representatives of one of the Claims Purchasers that they did no due diligence before purchasing the claims. Therefore, HMIT surmises, Mr. Seery must have given these claims purchasers material nonpublic information (“MNPI”) regarding Highland that convinced them that it was to their economic advantage to purchase the claims. In particular, HMIT surmises Mr. Seery shared MNPI regarding the likely imminent sale of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios, Inc. (“MGM”), in which Highland had, directly and indirectly, substantial holdings. Indeed, MGM was ultimately purchased by Amazon after a sale process that had been quite publicly discussed in media reports for several months<sup>2</sup> and that was officially announced to the public in late May 2021 (just a few weeks after the Claims Purchasers purchased some of their claims, but a few months before certain of their claims—the UBS claims—were purchased).<sup>3</sup> Note that Highland and entities it controlled tendered their MGM holdings in connection with the Amazon transaction (they did not sell their holdings while the MGM-Amazon deal was under discussion and/or not made public). In summary, while HMIT’s proposed complaint is lengthy and at times hard to follow, it boils down to allegations that: (a) Mr. Seery filed (or caused to be filed) deflated, pessimistic, misleading projections regarding the value of the Debtor’s estate in connection with the Plan, (b) then induced very sophisticated unsecured creditors (who, incidentally, are not complaining) to discount and sell their claims to the likewise very sophisticated Claims Purchasers, (c) which Claims Purchasers are allegedly friendly with Mr. Seery, and are now happily approving Mr. Seery’s allegedly excessive compensation demands post-Effective Date (resulting in less money in the pot to pay off the creditor body in full, and, thus, a diminished likelihood that HMIT will realize any recovery on its contingent Class 10 interest). HMIT argues that Mr. Seery should be required to disgorge his compensation. It appears that HMIT also seeks other damages.

The individual counts that HMIT wants to allege are:

I. Breach of Fiduciary Duty (as to Mr. Seery)

<sup>2</sup> See Highland Exh. 25 (“MGM has held preliminary talks with Apple, Netflix and other larger media companies . . . . MGM, in particular, seems like a logical candidate to sell this year. Its owners include Anchorage Capital, Highland Capital and Solus Alternative Asset Management, hedge funds that acquired the company out of bankruptcy in 2010.”) (article dated 1/26/20); Highland Exh. 26 (describing prospects of an MGM sale noting that, among its largest shareholders, was “Highland Capital Management, LP”) (article October 11, 2020). See also Highland Exhs. 27-30 & 34 (various other articles regarding possible sale/suitors of MGM, dated in years 2020 and 2021, and ultimately announcing sale to Amazon on May 26, 2021, for $8.4 billion).

<sup>3</sup> The MGM-Amazon deal was ultimately consummated in March 2022 for approximately $6.1 billion, net of cash acquired, plus approximately $2.5 billion in debt that Amazon assumed and immediately repaid.

- II. Breach of Fiduciary Duty and Knowing Participation in Breach of Fiduciary Duty (as to Claims Purchasers)
- III. Fraud by Misrepresentation and Material Nondisclosure (as to all proposed defendants)<sup>4</sup>
- IV. Conspiracy (as to all proposed defendants)
- V. Equitable Disallowance (as to Muck and Jessup)
- VI. Unjust Enrichment and Constructive Trust (as to all proposed defendants)
- V. Declaratory Judgment (as to all proposed defendants)

III. NEXT, THE DELUGE OF ACTIVITY, IN MULTIPLE COURTS, AFTER THE FILING OF THE HMIT MOTION FOR LEAVE.

After the HMIT Motion for Leave was filed on March 28, 2023, there was two-and-a-half months of activity regarding what type of hearing the bankruptcy court would hold and when on the HMIT Motion for Leave. A timeline is set forth below.

3/28/23: The HMIT Motion for Leave was filed, along with a request for emergency hearing on same. DE ## 3699 & 3700. HMIT requested that the court schedule a hearing on the motion “on three (3) days’ notice, and that any responses be filed no later than twenty-four hours before the scheduled hearing sought.” DE # 3700, 2. The HMIT Motion for Leave was 37 pages in length, plus another 350 pages of supporting exhibits, including two sworn declarations of Mr. Dondero.

3/31/23: Bankruptcy Court entered order denying an emergency hearing on the HMIT Motion for Leave. DE # 3713. The court stated that it would set the hearing on normal notice (at least 21 days’ notice), seeing no emergency.

4/4/23-4/12/23: HMIT pursued an unsuccessful interlocutory appeal and then a petition for writ of mandamus regarding the Bankruptcy Court’s denial of an emergency hearing at first the District Court and then the Fifth Circuit.

4/13/23: Highland filed a motion asking the Bankruptcy Court to set a briefing schedule on the HMIT Motion for Leave, indicating that Highland’s proposed timetable for same was opposed by HMIT. DE # 3738. The Claims Purchaser and Mr. Seery joined in that motion. DE ## 3740 & 3747. HMIT subsequently filed a response unopposed to a briefing schedule and status conference. DE # 3748.

<sup>4</sup> This Count III has gone in and out of the various drafts HMIT has filed with the court and was included in the latest version of the proposed complaint that was filed at DE # 3816.

4/21/23: HMIT filed a Brief [DE # 3758] before the status conference indicating it was opposed to there being any evidence at the ultimate hearing on the HMIT Motion for Leave—arguing the Bankruptcy Court did not need evidence in order to exercise its gatekeeping function and determine if HMIT has a “colorable” claim. Rather, the court need only engage in a Rule 12(b)(6)-type plausibility analysis.

4/24/23: The Bankruptcy Court held a status/scheduling conference; there was extensive discussion among all the parties regarding what type of hearing there needed to be on the HMIT Motion for Leave. HMIT was adamant there should be no evidence. Highland and Mr. Seery argued they ought to be able to cross-examine Mr. Dondero since his sworn declarations had been attached to the HMIT Motion for Leave as “objective evidence” that “supported” the HMIT Motion for Leave. DE #3699, p. 2. HMIT stated that it would withdraw Mr. Dondero’s declarations, but not if the court was going to allow evidence.

5/11/23: Bankruptcy Court entered Order [DE # 3781] fixing a briefing schedule for the parties and stating that the court would “advise the parties on or reasonably after May 18, 2023, whether the Court intend[ed] to conduct the hearing on an evidentiary basis.”

5/22/23: Bankruptcy Court issued an Order [DE # 3787] after receipt of briefing, stating that “the court has determined that there may be mixed questions of fact and law implicated by the Motion for Leave—and, in particular, pertaining to the court’s required inquiry into whether ‘colorable’ claims may exist, as described in the Motion for Leave. Therefore, the parties will be permitted to present evidence (including witness testimony) at the June 8, 2023 hearing if they so choose. This may include examining any witness for whom a Declaration or Affidavit has already been filed. The parties will be allowed no more than three hours of presentation time each (allocated three hours to the movant and three hours to the aggregate respondents). This allocated presentation time may be spent in whatever manner the parties believe will be useful to the court (argument/evidence).”

5/24/23: HMIT filed an emergency motion for expedited discovery or alternatively for continuance of the June 8, 2023 hearing. [DE # 3788 & 3789]. HMIT continued to urge that it did not think presentation of evidence was appropriate in connection with the HMIT Motion for Leave, but that “subject to and without waiving its objections, HMIT requests immediate leave to obtain all of its requested discovery on or before the specific dates identified in each deposition notice (with duces tecum), failing which the hearing on HMIT’s Motion for Leave should be continued until HMIT has obtained such discovery. The requested discovery is generally described in this Motion, but is set forth with particularity in the Deposition Notices with Duces Tecum attached as Exhibits A-E. [paragraph numbering omitted.] In summary, HMIT seeks expedited depositions of corporate representatives of Farallon Capital Management, LLC (“Farallon”), Stonehill Capital Management, LLC (“Stonehill”), Muck Holdings, LLC (“Muck”), Jessup Holdings, LLC (“Jessup”) and also seeks the deposition of James A. Seery, Jr. (“Seery”).” Deposition Notices were attached for each of these five parties. Nothing was stated about a possible need for (or intention to present) expert testimony.

5/26/23: The Bankruptcy Court held yet another status conference in response to HMIT’s newest emergency motion. The Bankruptcy Court referred to this as a “second hearing on what kind of hearing we were going to have” on the HMIT Motion for Leave. The court heard more discussions on whether it was appropriate to consider evidence at the hearing on the HMIT Motion for Leave. Nothing was mentioned about possible experts. The court, continuing to believe that there could be mixed questions of fact and law inherent in deciding the HMIT Motion for Leave, granted in part and denied in part HMIT's request for expedited discovery it sought of Mr. Seery and the Claims Purchasers. The Bankruptcy Court issued a follow-up order [DE # 3800] that provided: "(1) To the extent any party would like to depose either James P. Seery, Jr. or James Dondero in advance of the June 8 hearing ("June 8 Hearing") on HMIT's Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding [Dkt. No. 3699] and Supplement to Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding [Dkt. 3760] (together, the "Motion for Leave"), Mr. Seery and Mr. Dondero shall be made available for depositions ("Depositions") on a date and at a time agreeable to the parties that is no earlier than May 31, 2023, and no later than June 7, 2023, and no discovery or depositions of any other party or witness will be permitted prior to the June 8 hearing; and (2) None of the parties shall be entitled to any other discovery, including the production of documents from Mr. Seery or Mr. Dondero, or any other party or witness pursuant to a subpoena duces tecum, or otherwise, prior to the conduct of the Depositions or to the court's ruling on the Motion for Leave following the June 8, 2023 hearing" The Bankruptcy Court issued this ruling with the expectation—based on everything it heard—that HMIT did not wish for the court to consider evidence but, if it did, it thought it should get to depose Mr. Seery and the Claims Purchasers. The court reached what seemed like appropriate middle ground by allowing the deposition of Mr. Seery and allowing the other parties to depose Mr. Dondero (for whom sworn declarations had been submitted), but the court was not going to allow any more discovery (i.e., of the Claims Purchasers) at so late an hour. The court was aware that HMIT and Mr. Dondero had been seeking discovery from the Claims Purchasers in state court "Rule 202" proceedings for approximately two years.

June 5, 2023 (10:10 pm): HMIT filed its Witness and Exhibit List disclosing two potential expert witnesses (along with biographical information and a disclosure regarding the subject matter of their likely testimony).

June 7, 2023 (4:07 pm): A Joint Motion to Exclude Expert Testimony and Documents was filed by Highland, Mr. Seery, and the Highland Claimant Trust ("Motion to Exclude Expert Evidence").

June 8, 2023 (8:12 am): HMIT filed a Response to the Motion to Exclude Expert Evidence.

June 8, 2023 (9:30 am): The Bankruptcy Court commenced its hearing on the HMIT Motion for Leave. The parties desired for court to rule on whether the expert testimony and exhibits should be allowed into the record. After much discussion, the court informed parties that it had not had the opportunity to study their eleventh-hour filings, and that the court would go forward with the hearing as the court had earlier contemplated (three hours per side; no experts for now) and the court would take the Motion to Exclude Expert Evidence under advisement and would schedule a "Day 2" for the hearing on the HMIT Motion for Leave for the experts if it determined that was appropriate. The court gave Highland, Mr. Seery, and the Highland Claimant Trust a deadline of 6/12/23 to reply to HMIT's Response. They filed a Reply (in which the Claims Purchasers joined). The Bankruptcy Court ordered no more pleadings would be considered. HMIT filed another pleading on this topic on 6/13/23 [DE # 3845] and Highland and Mr. Seery responded to the HMIT additional pleading [DE # 3846] and then HMIT replied to their response [DE # 3847].

IV. TURNING, FINALLY, TO THE MOTION TO EXCLUDE EXPERT EVIDENCE

As indicated in the timeline above, HMIT designated on June 5, 2023, at 10:10 pm CDT, two expert witnesses to testify at the hearing on the HMIT Motion for Leave. The first one was Mr. Scott Van Meter, stating that he “may provide opinion testimony on issues relating to Mr. Seery’s compensation and claims trading.” The second one was Mr. Steve Pully, stating that he “may provide opinion testimony on issues relating to Mr. Seery’s claims trading.” To be clear, Mr. Seery is not alleged to have engaged in claims trading (i.e., he is not alleged to have either sold or purchased any claims in the Highland case). Rather, it is surmised by HMIT that Mr. Seery might have shared MNPI with the Claims Purchasers. Details about the two proposed experts’ education, experience, and the likely substance of their testimony were provided.

Further, with regard to Mr. Van Meter, HMIT disclosed that he had analyzed the claims trading in the Highland case and holds the opinion that there are “red flags” plausibly indicating the use of MNPI in connection with the claim purchasers’ investment in their claims –primarily among them the fact that the claims purchasers allegedly did not undertake due diligence. He also would apparently opine that Mr. Seery’s compensation is not reasonable or excessive because not based on any market study and because the Claims Purchasers, as large creditors on the post-confirmation oversight committee, have the ability to control it.

Further, with regard to Mr. Pully, HMIT disclosed that the projections in the publicly available information (presumably the Disclosure Statement and Plan and accompanying exhibits, the Bankruptcy Schedules, and Monthly Operating Reports) would not have rewarded the Claims Purchasers with the type of economic return that hedge funds/private equity firms would expect to realize. Thus, they must have had some MNPI to convince them that the claims purchasing was worthwhile.

There are procedural problems and substantive problems with the Proposed Experts (hereinafter so called).

A. The Procedural Problems.

The timeline set forth above is highly problematic. Highland, Mr. Seery, and the Highland Claimant Trust refer to the timeline here as tantamount to “trial by ambush.”

HMIT counters that it, in fact, complied with this court’s local rules and national rules as well. As to the local rules, Local Bankruptcy Rule 9014-1(c) of the Northern District of Texas requires, in contested matters, the exchange of exhibits and witness lists with opposing parties at least 3 calendar days before a scheduled hearing (unless a specific order otherwise applies). The hearing on the HMIT Motion for Leave was scheduled for June 8, 2023, at 9:30 am CDT, and HMIT filed its exhibit and witness list on June 5, 2023, at 10:10 pm CDT—technically three calendar days before the hearing, albeit less than 72 hours before the hearing. As for the national rules, HMIT states that it was under no duty to disclose the existence or substance of expert testimony prior to the exchange of witness lists, because national Rule 9014 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (“FRBP”), applying to contested matters, does not incorporate Rule 26(a)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (“FRCP”), which defines the content and timing for expert disclosures (unless the court directs otherwise, which it did not here).

HMIT’s focus on these rules is disingenuous. The court does not view the Proposed Experts as having been appropriately and timely disclosed in light of the two-and-a-half-month timeline set forth above and—most importantly—the bankruptcy court’s multiple prior conferences and orders setting the scope of the hearing and associated discovery. HMIT’s revelation (approximately 60 hours before the hearing on the HMIT Motion for Leave) that it sought to offer expert testimony came far too late. HMIT never raised even the prospect of expert testimony at any point in its multiple filings with the bankruptcy court (which consisted of many hundreds of pages) or during the two status/scheduling conferences on the HMIT Motion for Leave. During the two status/scheduling conferences, this court repeatedly asked HMIT what it wanted to do at the hearing on the HMIT Motion for Leave (as far as there being evidence or no evidence—zeroing in on the inconvenient complication for HMIT that it had already put in some evidence, through the filing of the declarations of Mr. Dondero in support of its motion, and this, at the very least, would entitle the parties to cross-examine him on the statements contained in the declarations). HMIT represented that it desired for the hearing to be conducted “on the pleadings only” and that it had or would withdraw the declarations of Mr. Dondero (it had not withdrawn the declarations as of the status/scheduling conferences). But, alternatively, if there would be evidence, HMIT wanted to conduct expedited discovery of documents, fact depositions, and corporate representative depositions. [DE # 3791]. HMIT made no mention of any experts. Only after the bankruptcy court had ruled on HMIT’s request for expedited discovery—and expressly limited the scope of discovery—did HMIT reveal its Proposed Experts [DE # 3818]. Obviously, the court would have fully vetted with the parties at the status/scheduling conferences the need for experts and the need for any discovery of them if HMIT mentioned it as a possibility.

Additionally, while HMIT focuses on the fact that FRBP 9014 excludes FRCP 26(a)(2)(b)’s requirements regarding expert witness disclosures and reports (absent the court directing otherwise), FRBP 9014 does include FRCP 26(b)(4)(A), in contested matters, which provides that “[a] party may depose any person who has been identified as an expert whose opinions may be presented at trial.” See FRBP 9014(b); FRBP 7026. As alluded to above, this bankruptcy court had limited pre-hearing discovery to “depositions of Mr. Dondero and/or Mr. Seery” in reliance on HMIT's representations, which omitted any reference to expert witnesses. By waiting until roughly 60 hours before the hearing to disclose the Proposed Experts, this resulted in Highland, Mr. Seery, and the Highland Claimant Trust not having sufficient time to seek to modify the court's prior status/scheduling orders, let alone take two expert depositions.

B. The Substantive Problems.

Finally, on a substantive level, the Proposed Experts' testimony and documents are inadmissible because they will not "help the trier of fact to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue." Fed. R. Evid. 702(a). Federal Rule of Evidence 702(a) provides that a witness who is qualified as an expert may testify in the form of an opinion or otherwise if, among other requirements, "the expert's scientific, technical, or otherwise specialized knowledge will help the trier of fact to understand the evidence or to determine a fact in issue."

The fact finder here at this stage, in the context of determining whether HMIT's proposed complaint asserts "colorable" claims under the gatekeeper provision of the Plan, obviously, is the bankruptcy judge. The judge, thus, may decide whether the Proposed Experts would help her analyze or understand an issue. This court is well within its discretion to conclude that the Proposed Experts would not advance the judge's analysis. This bankruptcy judge has had years of experience (both before and after her 17 years as a bankruptcy judge) with the topic of claims purchasing that sometimes occurs during a bankruptcy case. The court notes, anecdotally, that the activity of investing in distressed debt (which frequently even occurs during a bankruptcy case—sometimes referred to as "claims trading") is ubiquitous and has, indeed, been for a couple of decades. As noted by one scholar:

The creation of a market in bankruptcy claims is the single most important development in the bankruptcy world since the Bankruptcy Code's enactment in 1978. [Citations omitted.] Claims trading has revolutionized bankruptcy by making it a much more market-driven process. [Citations omitted.] . . . The development of a robust market for all types of claims against debtors has changed the cast of characters involved in bankruptcies. In addition to long-standing relational creditors, like trade creditors or a single senior secured bank or bank group, bankruptcy cases now involve professional distressed debt investors, whose interests and behavior are often quite different than traditional relational counterparty creditors.

ADAM J. LEVITIN, BANKRUPTCY MARKETS: MAKING SENSE OF CLAIMS TRADING, 4 BROOK. J. CORP. FIN. & COM. L. 64, 65 (2010).

This judge has likewise had decades of experience with hedge funds and private equity funds. The court understands very well financial concepts such as return on investment, risk, and the handicapping of how certain events might impact recoveries. This court can take judicial notice that there was volatility in the capital markets during the time period of this case that would certainly factor into decisions to buy or sell claims.<sup>5</sup> This court understands the concepts of MNPI and fiduciary duties. The judge remembers very well when the possibility of an MGM-Amazon transaction flooded the news in late 2020 and 2021, and then became a reality. The court remembers asking the parties in the Highland case during open court about it, since it was widely known that Highland and its affiliates owned direct or indirect interests in MGM stock. This was before, by the way, certain of the claims purchases that are at issue here were made.

Finally, this judge has decades of experience with executive compensation in bankruptcy cases and in connection with post-confirmation trusts.<sup>6</sup> In fact, this court approved Mr. Seery's compensation early on during the bankruptcy case (in 2020), and his compensation was negotiated by the former members of the Official Unsecured Creditors Committee, among others. Mr. Seery's compensation during this bankruptcy case was obviously subject to a motion, notice and a hearing, and was fully disclosed. Mr. Seery's base compensation now is the same as what this court approved back in 2020. Certainly, in a bankruptcy case, one size does not fit all. Highland is a unique case that has involved great contentiousness and hundreds of millions of dollars of assets. Mr. Seery's compensation reflects these circumstances, among other things.

In summary, with all due respect to the Proposed Experts, it is hard for this court to conceive how they could help this court to understand the evidence or determine a fact in issue relative to the gatekeeping motion—as contemplated by Fed. R. Evid. 702(a)—when this court deals with the issues presented by motion, and similar issues, somewhat regularly.

Accordingly, the court will exercise its discretion under Fed. R. Evid 702(a) and exclude the Proposed Experts testimony and HMIT Exhibits 39-52 relating to same.

A further opinion and order will be forthcoming on the HMIT Motion for Leave.

is merely to further the point that a long-term bankruptcy judge with Chapter 11 experience typically has developed expertise regarding executive compensation issues pre-and post-confirmation in Chapter 11 cases.

Dear Counsel:

Please see the following message from Judge Jernigan:

"With regard to the Evidentiary Proffer ("Proffer") of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust ("HMIT") filed at DE # 3858 on 6/19/23 (i.e., after the 6/8/23 hearing on HMIT's Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding [DE # 3699] and after the court's written 6/16/23 ruling regarding the admissibility of the proposed expert evidence), the court has determined that the Proffer is unnecessary. Rule 103(a)(2) does not apply if "the substance" of the excluded evidence "was apparent from the context." Fed. R. Evid. 103(a)(2). Here, "the substance" of the excluded evidence was quite apparent from the "context"--more specifically, the witness and exhibit list filed by HMIT, the proposed exhibits offered [see DE # 3818], and the statements of HMIT's counsel on the record at the 6/8/23 hearing.

The court is aware of the motion to strike the Proffer [DE # 3860] and the Joinder therein [DE # 3861]. The court concludes it is appropriate to grant the motion to strike. The court directs counsel for movants to upload a form of order that grants their motion to strike. The order shall direct the Clerk to mark DE # 3858 as stricken from the record as both filed without authority and unnecessary pursuant to FRE 103(a)(2).

The parties are directed to file no more pleadings in the bankruptcy court regarding this issue of the proposed/excluded expert evidence relative to DE # 3699. The court has ruled [at DE # 3854]."

Thank you,
Traci

Case No. 19-34054-sgj-11

ORDER DENYING MOTION OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST SEEKING RELIEF PURSUANT TO FEDERAL RULES OF BANKRUPTCY
PROCEDURE 7052, 9023, AND 9024

On September 8, 2023, Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“HMIT”) filed its Motion to Alter or Amend Order, To Amend or Make Additional Findings, for Relief from Order, or, Alternatively, for New Trial Under Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure 7052, 9023, and 9024 and Incorporated Brief (hereinafter, the “Motion”).<sup>1</sup> In the Motion, HMIT requests that the court alter or amend its findings set forth in its 105-page Memorandum Opinion and Order, dated August

HMIT now wants the bankruptcy court to reconsider certain findings and conclusions (or make additional ones—or even grant a new hearing) with regard to the Order Denying HMIT’s Motion for Leave—specifically pertaining to the subject of HMIT’s lack of standing (which was one of multiple reasons the court gave for issuing the Order Denying HMIT’s Motion for Leave). The ground articulated by HMIT is as follows: “because post-hearing financial disclosure filings in the bankruptcy matter further evidence [sic] that the court’s standing determinations are incorrect and should be corrected.” Motion, at ¶ 3.<sup>6</sup> In other words, HMIT suggests that certain “post-hearing financial disclosure filings” filed in the main Highland bankruptcy case by the Reorganized Debtor (on July 6, 2023<sup>7</sup> and July 21, 2023<sup>8</sup>) somehow now demonstrate that HMIT, indeed, has standing to pursue the adversary proceeding that it sought leave to file.

The Motion is denied. First, the court sees no reasonable grounds to reopen the record with these “post-hearing financial disclosures.” For one thing, the “post-hearing financial disclosure filings” are not materially different than information that was already on file in the bankruptcy

case for all to see, before the June 8, 2023 hearing. See Bankr. Dkt. Nos. 3756 & 3757 (routine Post-Confirmation Reports, filed by the Reorganized Debtor on April 21, 2023, which show liabilities, disbursements, and “Remaining investments, notes, and other assets”—albeit without specific values ascribed to the latter). So, to the extent HMIT is arguing that the “post-hearing financial disclosure filings” are something akin to newly discovered evidence or otherwise a ground for granting a new hearing or altering findings, HMIT’s argument lacks merit. Moreover, even if this court were to consider the “post-hearing financial disclosure filings,” the court disagrees with HMIT’s central argument that they demonstrate that HMIT’s contingent interest is “in the money” and, thus, that it has both constitutional and prudential standing to pursue the adversary proceeding it wants to file. Notably, HMIT does not give proper attention to the voluminous supplemental notes in the “post-hearing financial disclosure filings” that are integral to understanding the numbers therein. For example, as mentioned in Note 5 therein, the administrative expenses and legal fees of the Reorganized Highland and the post-confirmation trust continue to deplete their assets, due to the fact that “(b) approximately twenty (20) matters are being actively litigated in at least 9 different forums; and (c) based on history, new litigation can be expected.” This significant and widespread litigation results in massive indemnification obligations, as well as massive, continuing legal fees and expenses. The assets shown in the “post-hearing financial disclosure filings” will only be available for distribution after satisfaction of all legal fees and expenses and indemnity obligations. As also noted in Note 5 therein, it is expected that the Highland post-confirmation trust and its subsidiaries will operate at an operating loss prospectively. The information in the “adjustments” column of the assets section of the post-hearing financial disclosures “does not assume any expected future operating cash burn, which is expected to be significant.” Additionally, as indicated in Note 6, sometimes Highland has been unable to obtain full and complete information regarding asset values for inclusion in the post-hearing financial disclosures—thus impacting the accuracy of some valuations used. For example,

The value of SE Multifamily Holdings LLC maintained on this balance sheet is $15.7 million, which is a component of the “Investments” line item and is based on a several years stale book-basis balance sheet. Notwithstanding Dondero-entities’ previous disclosures of this interest at values of $20 million and $12 million, Highland also received interest from Dondero to acquire the interest for $3.8 million, among other assets. . . . Highland has initiated proceedings in Delaware to receive books and records relating to SE Multifamily Holdings LLC, for which it has the contractual right and has been seeking for approximately a year, but for which Dondero controlled entities have not provided to date.

In summary, HMIT argues no reasonable grounds to justify any of the relief sought in the Motion.

Accordingly,

IT IS ORDERED that the Motion be, and hereby is, DENIED.

with respect to its appeal of the Order Granting Motion to Dismiss Adversary Proceeding in which Contingent Interest Holders in Chapter 11 Plan Trust Seek a Post-Confirmation Valuation of Trust Assets [Doc.26-27] which was entered by the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas on May 24, 2024.

I. STATEMENT OF ISSUES TO BE PRESENTED ON APPEAL

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in granting The Highland Parties' Motion to Dismiss Complaint to (I) Compel Disclosures About the Assets of the Highland Claimant Trust and (II) Determine (A) Relative Value of Those Assets, and (B) Nature of Plaintiffs' Interests in the Claimant Trust.
2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred by dismissing Count I under Rule 12(b)(6) based on the Bankruptcy Court's finding that Appellants could not prove any facts that would entitle them to the relief that they sought when the Appellants properly alleged that they have a legal and equitable right to information under the Claimant Trust Agreement and under Delaware and Texas law.
3. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred by dismissing Count II because it was predicated on Count I and was therefore not justiciable under Rule 12(h)(3) when Count I was improperly dismissed.
4. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred by dismissing Count III because it was predicated on Count I and was therefore not justiciable under Rule 12(b)(1) when Count I was improperly dismissed.
5. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in dismissing Count III because the Bankruptcy Court found that Appellants were asking it to issue an opinion based on a set of hypothetical facts and was therefore not justiciable under Rule 12(b)(1) for lack of subject matter jurisdiction when Count III seeks only a declaration that the Claimant Trust assets exceed the obligations of the bankruptcy estate or must be deemed to do so such that Appellants' contingent trust interests are effectively vested, or as an equitable matter, must be treated as vested because the putative defendants are preventing the conditions for formal vesting from occurring.

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. Movant Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“Movant”) seeks leave to file a complaint in Delaware Chancery Court seeking the removal of James P. Seery, Jr. (“Mr. Seery”) as Trustee of the Claimant Trust created pursuant to the plan of reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland” or the “Debtor”). Under applicable Delaware law, removal of a trustee is warranted when the trustee commits a breach of trust, substantially impairs the administration of the trust through the Trustee’s continued service, is unwilling or unable to perform his duties properly, or has hostility toward one or more beneficiaries that threatens efficient administration of the trust. As set forth below in greater detail, all four of these circumstances exist here.

2. Mr. Seery has breached his duties, including his duty of loyalty by using Claimant Trust assets to fund a separate indemnity sub-trust (to pay his own potential legal expenses – in a blatant conflict of interest) instead of using those assets to pay the claims of Claimant Trust beneficiaries. In addition, Mr. Seery is overtly hostile to Movant—the holder of Class 10 claims and the largest holder of Contingent Trust Interests under the Claimant Trust. Either of these circumstances alone justifies Mr. Seery’s removal, but the combination requires it. The attached proposed Delaware complaint states a “colorable” claim, and this Motion should be granted.

II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. Highland’s Plan Contemplated Orderly “Monetization” of Highland’s Assets, Payment of Eleven Classes of Claims, and Winding Up of Highland’s Business

3. The Bankruptcy Court entered an order (the “Confirmation Order”) confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) (the “Plan”) on February 22, 2021.<sup>2</sup> In broad strokes, the Plan called for “the orderly wind-down of the Debtor’s estate, including the sale of assets and certain of its funds over time, with the Reorganized Debtor continuing to manage certain other funds, subject to the oversight of the Claimant Trust Oversight Board.”<sup>3</sup>

4. The Plan contemplated payment of 11 classes of claims. Classes 1 through 7 have already been paid. The remainder are: Class 8, comprising general unsecured claims, of which 93% of allowed claims have been paid;<sup>4</sup> Class 9, comprising subordinated claims; Class 10, comprising Class B/C limited partnership interest claims; and Class 11, comprising Class A limited partnership interest claims.<sup>5</sup> Highland’s former equity holders were assigned Class 10 and 11 claims. Movant Hunter Mountain Investment Trust is the only holder of Class 10 claims and owner of the lion’s share of the residual equity in Highland.<sup>6</sup>

5. The Plan contemplated that all of Highland’s assets would be managed through three entities: (1) a Claimant Trust, (2) a Litigation Sub-Trust, and (3) the Reorganized Debtor.<sup>7</sup> The Claimant Trust was tasked with administering “Claimant Trust Assets” and serving as the Reorganized Debtor’s limited partner.<sup>8</sup> The Litigation Sub-Trust, a sub-trust of the Claimant Trust, was tasked with pursuing “Estate Claims.”<sup>9</sup> And the Reorganized Debtor was tasked with

<sup>8</sup> The Plan defines “Claimant Trust Assets” to mean all assets of the estate that are not “Reorganized Debtor Assets,” including all causes of action, available cash, proceeds realized from such assets, any rights of setoff or recoupment and other defenses with respect to such assets, any assets transferred to the Claimant Trust by the Reorganized Debtor, the limited partnership interests in the Reorganized Debtor, and the ownership interests in the Reorganized Debtor’s new general partner. See Plan at Art. I, § B, ¶ 26.

<sup>9</sup> See Plan at Art. IV, § A. The Plan defines “Estate Claims” to mean “any and all estate claims and causes of action against [James] Dondero, [Mark] Okada, other insiders of the Debtor, and any of their related entities, including any promissory notes held by any of the foregoing. Plan at Art. I, § B, ¶ 60; Dkt. 354, Ex. A at p. 4 (defining “Estate Claims” to mean “claims and causes of action against Mr. Dondero, Mr. Okada, other insiders of the Debtor, and each of the Related Entities, including any promissory notes held by any of the foregoing.”).

administering the “Reorganized Debtor Assets” and managing the wind down of the “Managed Funds.”<sup>10</sup>

B. The Confirmation Order and the Plan Contemplated the Creation of a Claimant Trust Managed by Mr. Seery under the Supervision of an Oversight Board

6. The confirmed Plan contemplated the creation of a “Claimant Trust,” to be created pursuant to a separate Claimant Trust Agreement, the “CTA.”<sup>11</sup> According to the Bankruptcy Court, the whole reason for the Claimant Trust was to “manage and monetize the Claimant Trust Assets for the benefit of the Debtor’s economic stakeholders.”<sup>12</sup> The Court further observed that, upon full payment of allowed claims, the Claimant Trust contemplated that “any residual value would then flow to the holders of Class 10 (Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests), and Class 11 (Class A Limited Partnership Interests).”<sup>13</sup>

7. Beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust are termed “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries,” a term defined to mean (1) holders of allowed general unsecured claims, (2) holders of allowed subordinated claims, and upon certification by the Claimant Trustee that holders of allowed general unsecured and allowed subordinated claims have been paid in full with interest, and (3) holders of allowed Class A and B/C limited partnership interests.<sup>14</sup> Notably, the CTA repeatedly instructs that the Claimant Trustee is to act “with a view toward maximizing value in a reasonable time” for the purpose of

<sup>10</sup> See Plan at Art. IV, § B. The Plan defines “Reorganized Debtor Assets” to mean “any limited and general partnership interests held by the Debtor, the management of the Managed Funds and those Causes of Action (including, without limitation, claims for breach of fiduciary duty), that, for any reason, are not capable of being transferred to the Claimant Trust.” Plan at Art. I, § B, ¶ 115. The Plan defines “Managed Funds” to mean Highland Multi-Strategy Credit Fund, L.P., Highland Restoration Partners, L.P., and any other investment vehicle managed by Highland pursuant to an executory contract. Plan at Art. I, § B, ¶ 84.

distributing the Claimant Trust assets to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.<sup>15</sup> Consistent with the Confirmation Order’s description of the Plan’s waterfall, upon paying the holders of claims in Classes 1-9 in full with interest, the Claimant Trustee is obligated to file with the Bankruptcy Court a certification (called the “GUC Certification” in the CTA) deeming holders of Class A, B, and C limited partnership interests (i.e., Class 10 and 11 claims holders) “Beneficiaries” of the CTA with entitlement to distributions of residual assets under the terms of the CTA.<sup>16</sup>

8. Under the Plan, Mr. Seery is the designated Claimant Trustee tasked with the obligation to oversee the administration and distribution of Claimant Trust Assets to unsecured claims and equity interests represented by Classes 8 through 11.<sup>17</sup> Importantly, both the Confirmation Order and the Plan contemplated that Mr. Seery’s management of the Claimant Trust would be supervised by a five-member committee (comprised of at least two disinterested members), referred to in the CTA as the “Oversight Board.”<sup>18</sup>

9. In its Confirmation Order, the Bankruptcy Court described the Oversight Board’s role and its membership at some length. According to the Court, “[t]he Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, the management and monetization of the Claimant Trust Assets, and the management of the Reorganized Debtor...will all be managed and overseen by the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee.”<sup>19</sup> In terms of the Board’s membership, the Court explained that the members of the Unsecured Creditors Committee (“UCC”) had volunteered to serve as the initial members of the

Oversight Board.<sup>20</sup> The Confirmation Order goes on to discuss in detail the initial members and their qualifications to serve.<sup>21</sup> In approving their appointment, the Court emphasized Mr. Seery’s testimony that “he believe[d] the selection of the . . . members of the Claimant Trust Oversight Board [was] in the best interests of Debtor’s economic constituents.”<sup>22</sup> Plainly, the Court believed that a five-member Board would oversee Mr. Seery’s conduct as Claimant Trustee to ensure that the Plan would be fully performed.

10. The Plan likewise contemplated that the five-member Oversight Board would supervise Mr. Seery’s monetization of Claimant Trust assets and his management and distribution of those assets after monetization. Indeed, the Plan expressly stated that the Oversight Board would oversee “the management and monetization of the Claimant Trust Assets, [] the management of the Reorganized Debtor . . . and the Litigation Sub-Trust . . . , subject to the terms of the Claimant Trust Agreement.”<sup>23</sup> The CTA, in turn, provides that the Oversight Board “shall,” among other things: (1) “consult with and advise the Claimant Trustee and Litigation Trustee as to the administration and management of the Claimant Trust and the Litigation Sub-Trust;” and (2) “oversee, review, and govern the activities of the Claimant Trust, including the Litigation Sub-Trust, and the performance of the Claimant Trustee and Litigation Trustee.”<sup>24</sup> The CTA further limits the Claimant Trustee’s power to undertake certain actions without “vote of a simple majority of the Oversight Board pursuant to the notice and quorum requirements” of the Agreement.<sup>25</sup> Thus, the Claimant Trustee should consult the Oversight Board before terminating or extending the term of the Claimant Trust, litigating or settling any “Material Claims,” selling or monetizing certain assets, including Reorganized Debtor assets valued at greater than $3 million, making certain cash distributions to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, making distributions on “Disputed Claims,” reserving cash or cash equivalents to meet contingent liabilities (including indemnification obligations), borrowing, investing Claimant Trust assets, changing the Claimant Trustee’s compensation, or retaining certain counsel, experts, advisors, or other professionals.<sup>26</sup> In other words, the Oversight Board, as originally conceived, was contemplated to have a substantial governance role in the day-to-day activities of the Claimant Trust and the Claimant Trustee.

11. In its September 7, 2022 opinion, confirming the Plan in part, the Fifth Circuit likewise observed that, “[t]he whole operation is overseen by a Claimant Trust Oversight Board (the “Oversight Board”) comprised of four creditor representatives and one restructuring advisor.”<sup>27</sup> Notably, in the same opinion, the Fifth Circuit struck down a provision of the Plan purporting to exculpate from liability parties other than Highland, the UCC and its members, and the three independent directors appointed to manage Highland during bankruptcy, holding that broader exculpation was inconsistent with 11 U.S.C. § 524(e).<sup>28</sup> In short, the Fifth Circuit refused to exculpate Mr. Seery for actions taken in his role as Claimant Trustee and expressed the understanding that his post-confirmation conduct as Trustee of the Claimant Trust would be affirmatively overseen by an independent Oversight Board.

C. The Plan Did Not Contemplate, but the Court Subsequently Approved, the Creation of an Indemnity Subtrust

12. One entity the Plan did not contemplate was an indemnity sub-trust designed to cover potential post-confirmation claims against estate professionals. Instead, Mr. Seery testified extensively during the hearing on Plan confirmation that Highland would obtain director and officer (“D&O”) insurance to cover any claims against or liabilities imposed on those individuals charged with implementing the Plan. Indeed, one of the conditions to the Plan becoming effective was “the Debtor obtaining D&O Insurance acceptable to the Debtor, the Committee, the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee, and the Litigation Trustee.”<sup>29</sup> Nonetheless, four months after Plan confirmation, Highland filed a motion with the Bankruptcy Court seeking authorization to create a new “Indemnity Subtrust” designed to maintain an indemnity trust account with a balance of “not less than $25 million” that would conditionally indemnify post-confirmation professionals “in lieu of obtaining D&O insurance.”<sup>30</sup>

13. The parties to be conditionally indemnified under the Indemnity Subtrust include Mr. Seery as Claimant Trustee, the Oversight Board and its members (described below), their professionals, the Litigation Trustee, the Reorganized Debtor and its partners, members, directors, and officers, and the new general partner of the Reorganized Debtor and its partners, members, directors, and officers (including Mr. Seery).<sup>31</sup> In support of the Subtrust Motion, Mr. Seery testified that he and other post-confirmation management “intend[ed] to look for insurance coverage that would appropriately replace the Indemnity Trust if that’s a more efficient vehicle.”<sup>32</sup> Over various objections, the Court granted Highland’s Subtrust Motion on July 21, 2021.<sup>33</sup>

<sup>33</sup> Order Approving Debtor’s Motion for Entry of an Order (I) Authorizing the (A) creation of an Indemnity Subtrust and (B) Entry into an Indemnity Trust Agreement and (II) Granting Related Relief, Dkt. 2599.

14. The Subtrust Motion identified Mr. Seery as the “Indemnity Trust Administrator.”<sup>34</sup> In his capacity as Administrator, Mr. Seery was given total control of the administration of the Indemnity Subtrust:

...For any action contemplated or required in connection with the operation of the Indemnity Trust, and for any guidance or instruction to be provided to the Indemnity Trustee, such function, rights and responsibility shall be vested in the Indemnity Trust Administrator, and the Indemnity Trustee will take written directions from the Indemnity Trust Administrator, in such form specified in the Indemnity Trust Agreement and otherwise satisfactory to the Indemnity Trustee.<sup>35</sup>

And although Highland’s motion assured the Court that “[b]eneficiaries will not be involved in or have any rights with respect to the administration of the Indemnity Trust or have any right to direct the actions of the Indemnity Trustee with respect to the Indemnity Trust or the assets held in the Indemnity Trust Account,” Highland carved out Mr. Seery (to the extent he is acting in his capacity as Indemnity Trust Administrator) from that exclusion.<sup>36</sup>

D. Despite Governance Protections Contained in the Confirmation Order, the Plan, and the CTA, with Regard to Indemnification Issues, Mr. Seery Operates with Unfettered Discretion and without Supervision of the Contemplated Oversight Board

15. Notwithstanding that creditor constituencies voted to support, and the Bankruptcy Court approved, the Plan, understanding that there would be a partially independent, five-member Oversight Board supervising the monetization and distribution of estate assets, that contemplated governance structure has long since been ignored and has failed to safeguard the Claimant Trust. The representations in the Plan, the findings by this Court, and the belief of the Fifth Circuit that Mr. Seery’s conduct as Claimant Trustee would be affirmatively overseen to assure that the Plan would be fully performed, are – at least as to the appropriate use of funds and indemnification -- all false.

16. The five-member Board no longer exists. Instead, the Board is comprised of two claims buyers (and current Claimant Trust Beneficiaries)—Muck Holdings and Jessup Holdings—and one ostensibly disinterested member, Richard Katz,<sup>37</sup> about whom no information demonstrating independence was provided with his appointment.<sup>38</sup> Although the CTA mandates that the Board includes two disinterested members, there has only ever been Mr. Katz. That contrivance creates potential governance problems. For example, the Board must in many instances approve actions undertaken by the Claimant Trustee by a “majority” vote.<sup>39</sup> But if any Board member has a conflict or potential conflict of interest with respect to an issue at hand (including, without limitation, a pecuniary interest in the issue), then the conflicted member cannot vote.<sup>40</sup> In the case of the current three-member Board, any potential conflict of interest thus derails a majority vote and precludes the Board from approving actions contemplated by the Claimant Trustee.

17. Even without this governance problem, contrary to the impression left by the provisions of the Plan discussed above,<sup>41</sup> the Claimant Trust lacks the requisite safeguards to prevent abuse by the Claimant Trustee. That has proven particularly problematic when it comes to the Claimant Trust’s indemnity obligations. Specifically, the CTA states:

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the Claimant Trustee shall distribute to the holders of Trust Interests at least annually the Cash on hand net of any amounts that...(d) are necessary to satisfy or reserve for other liabilities incurred or anticipated by the Claimant Trustee in accordance with the Plan and this Agreement (including, but not limited

<sup>37</sup> While Movants have little to go on, if Mr. Katz is the Richard Katz of Torque Point Advisors, he may have interacted with Mr. Seery while he was at Lehman Brothers. See TORQUE POINT ADVISORS, <https://www.torquepointllc.com/> (last visited Dec. 20, 2023) (involved in restructuring of Lehman Brothers Holdings Inc.) and Jim Seery, LINKEDIN, (listing Lehman Brothers, 1999-2009) [App. 110-112]. Furthermore, the Claims Purchasers, Muck and Jessup are proposed defendants, together with Mr. Seery and others, in a separate proposed adversary proceeding involving allegations of use of material non-public information. As such, Movant has alleged that at least two members of the Oversight Board are in an alleged conspiracy with Mr. Seery. See Hunter Mountain Investment Trust’s Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding, Dkt. 3816.

to, indemnification obligations and similar expenses in such amounts and for such period of time as the Claimant Trustee determines, in good faith, may be necessary and appropriate, which determination shall not be subject to consent of the Oversight Board, may not be modified without the express written consent of the Claimant Trustee, and shall survive the termination of the Claimant Trustee)....<sup>42</sup>

18. In other words, Mr. Seery, both as the Claimant Trustee and as the Indemnity Trust Administrator, effectively has the sole authority to reserve for potential indemnification obligations without any Oversight Board or other supervision. This is problematic because Mr. Seery (both as claimant Trustee and as the owner of the Reorganized Debtor's general partner) is one of the principal indemnified parties who stand to benefit from the funding of the indemnification reserve. That means Mr. Seery has a vested financial interest in all decisions he makes regarding the indemnification reserve, including how much to reserve and whether to pay out of the reserve to indemnified parties, including himself. Mr. Seery's unfettered right over the Indemnity Sub-Trust is a material deviation from the Plan: while the Plan always contemplated a conditional indemnification right to certain parties, such right was to be supervised by the Oversight Board. Not only has the Oversight Board with its mechanism for independent members been removed from the supervision of the indemnification res, but the sole party with authority over the indemnification res, Mr. Seery, is conflicted.

E. Mr. Seery Has Used the Indemnification Reserve to Avoid Paying Creditors in Full and to Benefit Himself

19. Mr. Seery has used the Claimant Trust and the Indemnity Subtrust to his own pecuniary advantage. The Claimant Trust now has more than sufficient assets to pay holders of Classes 8 and 9 in full with interest with surplus available to former equity. Yet it has failed to do so, despite the mandate of the CTA that Mr. Seery act expeditiously to maximize value for Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. Instead, he has been funding an increasingly sizeable indemnification reserve without any discernable justification other than as a subterfuge for avoiding certifying that holders of Class 10 and 11 claims (including Movant) are Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

20. Based on a consolidated balance sheet filed on July 6, 2023, the Claimant Trust has about $250 million in assets (of which an estimated $180 million is cash) and, at that time, only about $126 million in remaining non-Dondero-related Class 8 and 9 claims.<sup>43</sup>

Since that time, the Post-Confirmation Reports for the period ending September 30, 2023 reflect that an additional $14,361,077 has been paid to GUCs, with $6,805,592 being paid to GUC Classes 6 and 7, leaving a balance of $119,222,451 remaining in Class 8 and 9 claims (subtracting the total “Paid Cumulative” from the “Total Allowed” amounts as reflected on page 7 of those Reports and adding in the amounts paid to GUC Classes 6 and 7).<sup>44</sup> The Reports do not disclose the current cash position of the Claimant Trust. Cash may have increased or decreased. But in the worst case, adjusting the cash from amounts shown in the May 31, 2023 Balance Sheet by the amount paid out to Classes 8 and 9, the Trust still has cash of at least $165 million, and remaining Class 8 and 9 claims that now total less than $120 million.

22. Notably, the Claimant Trust’s balance sheet assets do not include a fully cash-funded at least $35 million indemnity account (reportedly now $50 million) that presumably may be used to pay creditors in the event it is not consumed by the estate’s professionals.<sup>45</sup> In addition, to reduce the Claimant Trust’s book value, Highland purports to add “non-book” adjustments to the balance sheet. One such adjustment gives zero asset value to certain notes payable by Mr. Dondero and his alleged affiliates.<sup>46</sup> However, $70 million of those notes are now fully bonded by cash deposited in the registry of the District Court.<sup>47</sup>

23. Another accounting “adjustment” creates a $90 million “additional indemnification reserve,” on top of the at least $35 (or $50) million cash indemnity reserve, with no explanation.<sup>48</sup> Indeed, were it not for the at least $125-140 million in inappropriate indemnity reserves—which is $100 million more than Debtor originally proposed it would need in insurance coverage when it sought approval of the Indemnity Subtrust—Highland’s creditors could have been paid, the estate closed, and the residual estate returned to equity months if not years ago.

24. As the Post-Confirmation Reports reveal, all of the administrative claims, secured claims, and priority claims have been paid in full.<sup>49</sup> Thus, as a practical matter, the Claimant Trust could pay the Class 8 and 9 claims in full with interest, Mr. Seery could file the GUC Certification,<sup>50</sup> and Movant (along with other Holders of Class A, B, and C of limited partnership interests) would become a fully vested Claimant Trust Beneficiary under the terms of the CTA.<sup>51</sup> All of these steps could be, and indeed, should have been, completed without any interference from the Indemnity Subtrust Administrator.

25. The failure to pay creditors has had a material impact on the Movant and other Holders of Class A, B, and C of limited partnership interests. In the first nine months of 2023, Debtor and the Claimant Trust accumulated $48,447,234 in (undisclosed) expenses,<sup>52</sup> for an average of $5.4 million per month. Even after the voluntary stay of the Kirschner litigation, which appears to have been a significant cost-driver, the Debtor and the Claimant Trust have continued to accumulate $4.6 million per month in expenses. While monies to pay Class 8 and Class 9 Claims remain unimpaired, cash to pay the former equity holders continues to disappear as undisclosed expenses.

26. As explained below in greater detail, the proposed Delaware Complaint sets forth claims that are both plausible under federal pleading standards<sup>53</sup> and “colorable” under this Court’s articulated gatekeeping standard.

III. ARGUMENT

A. The Proposed Complaint Alleges a Colorable Claim That Mr. Seery Should be Removed as Claimant Trustee

27. According to this Court, to state a “colorable” claim under the gatekeeping provision of the Plan (the “Gatekeeper Provision”), a moving party must do more than allege a “plausible” claim for relief—the standard applied by federal district courts in deciding whether a claim can proceed under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6).<sup>54</sup> Instead, a movant in this Court must survive an “additional level of review.”<sup>55</sup> Specifically, the movant bears the “burden of making a prima facie case that its proposed claims are not without foundation, are not without merit, and are not being pursued for any improper purpose such as harassment.”<sup>56</sup> And in deciding whether the movant has met this prima facie burden, the Court “may, and should, take into consideration its knowledge of the bankruptcy proceedings and the parties and any additional evidence presented at the hearing on the Motion for Leave.”<sup>57</sup> The Court termed this new standard the “Gatekeeper Colorability Test.”<sup>58</sup>

28. As set forth below, Movant’s Delaware complaint meets the Court’s Gatekeeper Colorability Test because it sets forth a prima facie case under Delaware law that Mr. Seery should

<sup>54</sup> Movant has objected and continues to object to the Court’s ruling with respect to the standard that should be applied under the Gatekeeper Provision. Movant has appealed the Court’s rulings regarding this standard. See Hunter Mountain Investment Trust’s Second Notice of Appeal, Dkt. 3945. No admission is made by or on behalf of Movant in connection with this Motion regarding the “colorability” standard applied by the Court or the Court’s related substantive and procedural rulings. Movant expressly reserves all of Movant’s substantive and procedural rights and waives none of the same in connection with this Motion, the proposed Complaint, or otherwise. Movant believes the proper standard is set forth in Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007) (holding a plaintiff must plead “enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face” in order to survive a motion to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)), and that this standard is also satisfied by this Motion.

be removed as Claimant Trustee. Moreover, Movant's Delaware complaint is not brought for any improper purpose but, rather, to protect Movant's sizeable residual interest in the Claimant Trust.

1) Movant's Delaware Complaint Sets Forth a Prima Facie Case for Removal of Mr. Seery as Claimant Trustee

29. Under Delaware law, the Court of Chancery may remove the trustee of a Delaware statutory trust "on [its] own initiative or on petition of a trustor, another officeholder, or beneficiary" in any of five circumstances:

- a) The officeholder has committed a breach of trust; or
- b) The continued service of the officeholder substantially impairs the administration of the trust; or
- c) The court, having due regard for the expressed intention of the trustor and the best interests of the beneficiaries, determines that notwithstanding the absence of a breach of trust, there exists:
  - i. A substantial change in circumstances;
  - ii. Unfitness, unwillingness or inability of the officeholder to administer the trust or perform its duties properly; or
  - iii. Hostility between the officeholder and beneficiaries or other officeholders that threatens the efficient administration of the trust.

Del. Code Ann. tit. 12, § 3327 (emphases added). As set forth below in greater detail, Movant is an intended beneficiary of the Claimant Trust and, as such, Movant is entitled to ask a Delaware court to remove Mr. Seery as Claimant Trustee because he has engaged in multiple acts warranting his removal under Delaware statute. Accordingly, Movant's complaint sets forth a prima facie case, and the Court should grant its Motion and allow the case to proceed.

2) Movant Has Standing to Seek Mr. Seery's Removal

30. At the outset, in reality, Movant should be recognized as being "in the money" and a vested beneficiary with the associated standing to pursue the proposed Delaware complaint. In any event, however, Movant also has standing to seek removal of Mr. Seery because Movant is an intended (albeit contingent) beneficiary of the Claimant Trust under the CTA. All beneficiaries, including contingent beneficiaries, have standing under Delaware law to seek to remove a trustee. To argue otherwise – that only “vested” beneficiaries under the CTA may bring such an action – is to impermissibly limit the statute.

31. The Delaware Code does not define the term “beneficiary,” but Delaware courts follow the RESTATEMENT (THIRD) OF TRUSTS,<sup>59</sup> which defines beneficiaries to include contingent beneficiaries:

Persons who are beneficiaries: in general. The “beneficiaries” of a trust are the persons or classes of persons, or the successors in interest of persons or class members, upon whom the settlor manifested an intention to confer beneficial interests (vested or contingent) under the trust, plus persons who hold powers of appointment (special or general) or have reversionary interests by operation of law. Also included are persons who have succeeded to interests of beneficiaries by assignment, inheritance, or otherwise.<sup>60</sup>

32. Further, the RESTATEMENT expressly contemplates that contingent beneficiaries may file suit to enforce a private trust:

“Beneficiaries.” A suit to enforce a private trust ordinarily (see Reporter’s Note) may be maintained by any beneficiary whose rights are or may be adversely affected by the matter(s) at issue. The beneficiaries of a trust include any person who holds a beneficial interest, present or future, vested or contingent.<sup>61</sup>

And “enforcement” extends to “enforcement proceedings in a more comprehensive sense, such as petitions for removal of a trustee . . . even though no breach-of-trust issue is involved.”<sup>62</sup>

33. Delaware courts routinely hold that, in interpreting undefined statutory terms, courts must give those terms a “reasonable and sensible meaning in light of their intent and purpose.” Angstadt v. Red Clay Consol. Sch. Dist., 4 A.3d 382, 390 (Del. 2010). In ascertaining the “reasonable and sensible meaning” of terms, Delaware courts rely on dictionaries as a source of interpretation.

34. Black’s Law Dictionary defines “beneficiary” as, among other things, “[s]omeone who is designated to receive the advantages from an action or change . . . or to receive something as a result of a legal arrangement or instrument” and includes both “contingent beneficiar[ies]” and “direct beneficiar[ies]” within the definition without any qualification regarding their rights.<sup>63</sup> By contrast, Black’s distinguishes an “incidental beneficiary” as a “third-party beneficiary, who, though benefiting indirectly, is not intended to benefit from a contract and thus does not acquire rights under the contract.”<sup>64</sup> Nothing in the CTA indicates that Movants are merely “incidental beneficiaries.”

35. In light of the RESTATEMENT and the definition in Black’s Law Dictionary, it is reasonable and sensible to interpret the word “beneficiary” used in Section 3327 of the Delaware statute to include contingent beneficiaries. Rules of statutory interpretation support this conclusion. As the Delaware Supreme Court has explained, a court “may not engraft upon a statute language which has been clearly excluded therefrom by the Legislature.” Guiricich v. Emtrol Corp., 449 A.2d 232, 238 (Del. 1982) (citing Wilmington Trust Co. v. Barry, 338 A.2d 575, 578 (Del Super. 1975), aff’d, 359 A.2d 664 (Del. 1976)). If the Delaware Legislature had intended that only “vested” beneficiaries could bring an action to remove a trustee, as opposed to any beneficiary (whether residual or contingent), it would have so specified. In this case, the relevant statute—Del. Code Ann. tit. 12, § 3327—uses the term “beneficiary” without defining or limiting it. Accordingly, a court may not do what the Delaware Legislature refused to do by engrafting the term “vested” into the statute to qualify the term “beneficiary.”

36. Delaware courts refuse to read statutory language restrictively to exclude certain classes of beneficiaries. See Estate of Tigani, No. CV 7339-ML, 2016 WL 593169, at *14 (Del. Ch. Feb. 12, 2016) (holding that the “statute’s use of the general term beneficiary, without any language restricting the class of beneficiary to whom it refers, fairly encompasses a vested beneficiary subject to divestiture”); Estate of Necastro, No. C.A. 10,538, 1991 WL 29958, at *1 (Del. Ch. Feb. 28, 1991) (rejecting a “restrictive reading” of “beneficiary” under 12 Del.C. § 2302(d) and instead holding that “Exceptants [whom the parties characterized as “contingent beneficiaries”] have standing . . . based upon their indirect interest in a share of the estate through their status as beneficiaries of a testamentary trust”).

37. In short, neither the applicable Delaware statute nor Delaware case law limits the term “beneficiary” to “vested” beneficiaries to the exclusion of contingent ones.

38. The Claimant Trustee will no doubt argue that the language of the CTA purportedly strips Movant of its standing to seek removal of the Trustee. In particular, the CTA states that holders of Contingent Trust Interests (including Movant) “shall not have any rights under this Agreement, unless and until the Claimant Trustee files with the Bankruptcy Court a certification that all GUC Beneficiaries have been paid indefeasibly in full, including, to the extent applicable, all accrued and unpaid post-petition interest consistent with the Plan and all Disputed Claims have been resolved (the ‘GUC Payment Certification’).”<sup>65</sup> The Agreement further states that “Equity Holders will only be deemed ‘Beneficiaries’ under this Agreement upon the filing of a GUC Payment Certification with the Bankruptcy Court.”<sup>66</sup> But Delaware law makes clear that a trust agreement, however worded, may not strip the trustee’s duty of good faith and fair dealing.<sup>67</sup> And in this case, observance of that duty precludes any argument that the language of the CTA undercuts Movant’s standing.

39. Under Delaware law, unless the governing trust agreement says otherwise, the trustee of a statutory trust has those duties set forth in common law, including the duties of loyalty, good faith, and due care. See Del. Code Ann. tit. 12, § 3809; Rende v. Rende, No. 2021-0734-SEM, 2023 WL 2180572, at *11 (Del. Ch. Feb. 23, 2023). And while a governing trust agreement may expressly disclaim these duties (although this one does not), Delaware law prohibits the elimination of the duty of good faith and fair dealing. In re National Collegiate Student Loan Trusts Litigation, 251 A.3d 116, 185-86 (Del. Ch. 2020) (“While parties may agree to waive default fiduciary duties, the DSTA forbids parties from eliminating the “implied contractual covenant of good faith and fair dealing.”) (citing Del. Code. Ann. tit. 12, § 3806(c)).

40. The duty of good faith and fair dealing is particularly important here, where Movant’s status as a “beneficiary” under the CTA is purportedly dependent upon Mr. Seery’s discretion to file a GUC Certification declaring Movant’s status as such. “Stated in its most general terms, the implied covenant requires a party in a contractual relationship to refrain from arbitrary or unreasonable conduct which has the effect of preventing the other party to the contract from receiving the fruits of the bargain.” Dunlap v. State Farm Fire and Cas. Co., 878 A.2d 434, 442 (Del. 2005) (internal quotations omitted). “Thus, parties are liable for breaching the covenant when their conduct frustrates the overarching purpose of the contract by taking advantage of their position to control implementation of the agreement’s terms.” Id. (internal quotations omitted).

41. Given the purpose of the covenant, “it is possible to rest a claim of breach of the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing on the assertion that defendants have deliberately prevented the occurrence of conditions precedent.” Injective Labs Inc. v. Wang, No. CV 22-943-WCB, 2023 WL 3318477, at *7 (D. Del. May 9, 2023) (quoting Benerofe v. Cha, No. 14614, 1998WL 83081, at *6 (Del. Ch. Feb. 20, 1998)). See also Snow Phipps Grp., LLC v. Kcake Acquisition, Inc., No. CV 2020-0282-KSJM, 2021 WL 1714202, at *53 (Del. Ch. Apr. 30, 2021) (noting the duty of good faith and fair dealing “requires some cooperation ... either by refraining from conduct that will prevent or hinder the occurrence of that condition or by taking affirmative steps to cause its occurrence”) (internal quotes omitted).

42. Mr. Seery’s failure and refusal to pay the Class 8 and 9 creditors, in an attempt to prevent the Contingent Interest Holders’ interests from vesting under the terms of the CTA, falls squarely within the scope of the duty of good faith and fair dealing. In Injective Labs Inc. v. Wang, the defendant asserted a counterclaim for the breach of the implied duty of good faith and fair dealing. The defendant argued that plaintiff breached the implied duty by “sending a belated request that [defendant] satisfy a condition precedent, knowing that it was effectively impossible for him to do so.” Injective Labs Inc. v. Wang, 2023 WL 3318477, at *7. The court rejected plaintiff’s motion to dismiss the counterclaim, holding “[t]hat allegation, and in particular the allegation that [plaintiff] knew that [defendant] would be unable to satisfy the condition precedent . . . is directed to the type of conduct that typically falls within the scope of the implied duty of good faith and fair dealing.” Id.

43. In another case, the Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit affirmed summary judgment against a defendant because the defendant “did not exercise good faith under the contract by attempting to hinder the occurrence of the condition precedent in the contract.” Unit Trainship, Inc. v. Soo Line R. Co., 905 F.2d 160, 162-63 (7th Cir. 1990). There, the parties entered a contract for the running of a unit-train between Chicago and Seattle. Id. at 161. Because the running of the unit-train required the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission (“ICC”), the parties filed a joint petition with the ICC seeking approval. Id. Thereafter, one party moved to withdraw from the ICC proceeding and failed to participate in the joint petition, thereby stymieing the condition precedent to the performance of the contract. Id. The Seventh Circuit, applying Illinois law, which is similar in this regard to Delaware law, held that “where a party’s obligation is subject to a condition precedent, a duty of good faith and fair dealing is imposed upon that party to cooperate and to not hinder the occurrence of the condition.” Id. at 163.

44. These cases inform the Claimant Trustee’s contractual duties under Delaware law. In Injective Labs Inc., the plaintiff/counterclaim defendant prevented the performance of a condition precedent, which violated the duty of good faith and fair dealing. 2023 WL 3318477, at *7. In Unit Trainship, one of the parties to the relevant contract prevented the occurrence of a condition precedent, which violated the duty of good faith and fair dealing. 905 F.2d at 163. Similarly, here the Claimant Trustee is deliberately refusing to pay the unsecured creditors in Classes 8 and 9 with interest, thereby breaching his duty to pay Classes 10 and 11. That violates the Trustee’s duty of good faith and fair dealing and fatally undermines any argument that Movant lacks standing to seek removal of the Trustee.

45. As other RESTATEMENT jurisdictions have recognized, Mr. Seery’s conduct warrants treating those classes as fully vested. “[V]esting cannot be postponed by unreasonable delay in distributing an estate and [] when there is such delay, contingent interests vest at the time distribution should have been made.” Estate of Cornell v. Johnson, 367 P.3d 173, 178 (Idaho 2016) (emphasis added) (discussed in RESTATEMENT (SECOND) OF TRUSTS, § 198 (1959)); see also Edwards v. Gillis, 146 Cal.Rptr.3d 256, 263 (Cal.App. 4 Dist., 2012) (“when there is [unreasonable] delay contingent interests vest at the time distribution should have been made.”). As set forth above, the Claimant Trust had sufficient assets to pay unsecured creditors in Classes 8 and 9 in full with interest at least as early as July 2023, and in all probability as early as September 2022.<sup>68</sup> And the CTA requires Mr. Seery as Claimant Trustee to “make timely distributions and not unduly prolong the duration of the Claimant Trust.”<sup>69</sup> Had Mr. Seery fulfilled that mandate, he could and should have distributed remaining funds to Classes 8 and 9 by July 2023, filed the GUC Certification with the Court, and begun distributing remaining assets to Classes 10 and 11. In short, Movant’s interests were properly vested under the CTA many months ago, and Delaware law therefore treats Movant as a Claimant Trust Beneficiary, regardless of the language of the CTA.

46. Indeed, any argument that the CTA precludes Movant from vindicating its rights (including by seeking removal of the Trustee) only underscores why Delaware law is crafted the way it is. Were it not for the duty of good faith and fair dealing imposed by Delaware law, Mr. Seery arguably could increase the funds set aside for indemnification continually, hold final distributions to Class 8 and Class 9 creditors in abeyance, and refuse to file the GUC Certification based on the theoretical possibility that he might in the future need to draw upon more than the originally contemplated indemnity reserve of $25 million to pay his own legal expenses (all while drawing a salary of $150,000 per month). And it appears that, for now, Mr. Seery is content to do just that. This is exactly the kind of conflict that Section 3327 of the Delaware Code was designed to prevent, and the duty of good faith and fair dealing in Delaware precludes the Claimant Trustee from relying on the language of the CTA to prevent the Delaware courts from remedying the conflict. Under these circumstances, Movant has standing to proceed under Delaware law.

3) Delaware Law Mandates Movant's Complaint Proceed in Delaware Court

47. Under Delaware law, beneficial owners of a trust are entitled to seek redress in the courts of Delaware, regardless of the language of the relevant trust agreement: “Except by agreeing to arbitrate any arbitrable matter in a specified jurisdiction or in the State, a beneficial owner who is not a trustee may not waive its right to maintain a legal action or proceeding in the courts of the State with respect to matters relating to the organization or internal affairs of a statutory trust.” Del. Code Ann. tit. 12, § 3804(e) (emphasis added). This is because the removal of a trustee is a “matter[] relating to the organization or internal affairs of a statutory trust.” United Bhd. of Carpenters Pension Plan v. Fellner, C.A. No. 9475-VCN, 2015 WL 894810, at *2 n. 13 (Del. Ch. Feb. 26, 2015). Where a company’s internal affairs are involved, Delaware law disregards the forum selection clause in the parties’ trust agreement. Id.

48. Because Movant’s Delaware complaint seeks relief relating to the internal affairs of the Claimant Trust, Movant is entitled to have its dispute decided by the courts of Delaware, regardless of any contrary choice of forum clause in the CTA.<sup>70</sup> The Court should permit Movant to file its Delaware complaint in the Delaware Chancery Court.

4) There Are Multiple Grounds for Seery’s Removal

49. As set forth in the proposed Delaware Complaint, Mr. Seery’s removal as Claimant Trustee is warranted for multiple reasons. Specifically, Mr. Seery has breached his duty of loyalty by failing to pay creditors, failing to file the GUC Certification, and failing to certify that equity holders in Classes 10 and 11 (of which Movant is the largest) are vested under the CTA. Seery has failed to act expeditiously as required under the terms of the CTA,<sup>71</sup> and has failed to maximize the value of the Claimant Trust for the benefit of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries by filing unnecessary proceedings, including the Kirschner Action, and spending inordinate amounts of cash. Those breaches of duty warrant Mr. Seery's removal under Del. Code Ann. tit. 12, § 3327(1). Further, Mr. Seery's roles as both Claimant Trustee and as Indemnity Subtrust Administrator substantially impairs the administration of the Claimant Trust, warranting his removal under Del. Code Ann. tit. 12, § 3327(2). In addition, Mr. Seery's removal is warranted under Del. Code Ann. tit. 12, § 3327(3)(b) and (c) because he is unwilling to perform his duties as Claimant Trustee, and has manifested a personal hostility toward, and conflict with, Movant and the holders of Contingent Trust Interests.

a) Mr. Seery Has Breached His Duty of Loyalty

50. The facts set forth above demonstrate without doubt that Mr. Seery has breached his duty of loyalty in administering the Claimant Trust. A trustee breaches the duty of loyalty by acting in his own self-interest “[i]nstead of evaluating what was in the best interests of [a] [t]rust.” Paradee v. Paradee, No. 4988-VCL, 2010 WL 3959604, at *10 (Del. Ch. Oct. 5, 2010). “Self-interested transactions involving a fiduciary or one in a confidential relationship with another are presumptively fraudulent and voidable in equity. If the transaction is challenged, the burden of persuasion to justify upholding the transaction is on the fiduciary.” Hardy v. Hardy, No. CIV.A. 7531-VCP, 2014 WL 3736331 at *8 (Del. Ch. July 29, 2014) (internal quotations omitted). Significantly, and importantly in this case, an inequitable action taken “does not become permissible simply because it is legally possible” within the letter of the law or the language of an agreement. Coster v. UIP Companies, Inc., 255 A.3d 952, 953 (Del. 2021) (citing Schnell v. Chris-Craft Indus., Inc., 285 A.2d 437, 439 (Del. 1971)). Self-dealing amounts to a breach of duty of loyalty. See Tagliatalata v. Galvin, No. 5841-MA, 2015 WL 757880, at *4 (Del. Ch. Feb. 23, 2015); Walls v. Peck, Civ. A. No. 497, 1979 WL 26236, at *4 (Del. Ch. Oct. 24, 1979); GEORGE GLEASON BOGERT, THE LAW OF TRUSTS AND TRUSTEES, § 543 (3d ed. 2019) (“The trustee must administer the trust with complete loyalty to the interests of the beneficiary, without consideration of the personal interests of the trustee or the interests of third persons.”).

51. Indeed “[u]nlike corporate law, ‘[u]nder trust law, self-dealing on the part of a trustee is virtually prohibited.’” Stegemeier v. Magness, 728 A.2d 557, 563 (Del. 1999) (citing Oberly v. Kirby, 592 A.2d 445, 466 (Del. 1991)). As a result, the interested trustee bears the burden of persuasion to justify upholding the transaction. Id.

52. In this case, as the Delaware Complaint alleges, Mr. Seery has breached his duty of loyalty. That breach was inevitable given the manner in which Mr. Seery and Highland constructed the Claimant Trust and the Indemnity Subtrust. As set forth above, Mr. Seery is the Trustee of the Claimant Trust with an absolute duty to manage and administer that trust for the benefit of the Trust’s beneficiaries. But Mr. Seery is also the Indemnity Trust Administrator charged with funding and spending an indemnity reserve for the benefit of Indemnified Parties, including himself. His duties as Claimant Trustee and Indemnity Subtrustee are in hopeless conflict as a result of this arrangement.

53. As now apparent, that conflict has manifested to the detriment of the intended beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust, including Movant. Essentially, Mr. Seery is seeking to hold the assets of the Claimant Trust hostage by reserving an increasing and inexplicably gigantic indemnity reserve to benefit the Indemnified Parties, including himself.

54. But consider the nature of claims potentially triggering indemnification, such as the insider trading claims against Mr. Seery, Muck and Jessop.<sup>72</sup> If the potentially indemnified parties prevail, there can be no judgment to indemnify. If the potentially indemnified parties lose, the nature of the claim is such that there would be no indemnity owed – so how could $125 million in indemnification reserves be needed? That large indemnity reserve is antithetical to the interests of the intended beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust.

55. Moreover, Mr. Seery's conduct in contravention of his duty of loyalty to beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust contravenes the language and intent of the Plan itself. The Plan does not require holders of Class 10 and 11 claims (or parties related thereto) to grant releases of liability to the Claimant Trustee or the Indemnified Parties, but by refusing to pay out Classes 8 and 9 and refusing to issue the required GUC Certification in favor of funding up to $125 million in indemnity reserves, that is functionally what Mr. Seery is seeking to leverage Classes 10 and 11 (and even other non-parties) to provide.<sup>73</sup>

56. Forcing Classes 10 and 11 to bear the cost of Mr. Seery's indemnification reserve also goes beyond what the CTA allows. Paragraph 8.2 of that Agreement expressly allows parties to sue Mr. Seery and other indemnified parties for actions that constitute fraud, willful misconduct, or gross negligence, provided that they seek Bankruptcy Court approval to proceed on such claims. In other words, not even the CTA contemplates that Classes 10 and 11 would grant full, general releases to the Indemnified Parties, much less fund their defense for cognizable claims under the Agreement. By trying to insulate himself from all claims as a condition of performing his mandatory duties under the CTA, Mr. Seery is putting his personal self-interest ahead of the beneficiaries of the Trust.

57. There is ample case law holding that a trustee may not make a release (or its equivalent) a condition of performing his duties to a trust. Indeed, as the Delaware Chancery Court has explained, “[a]lthough the practice of demanding a release is widespread, a trustee who insists on a release as the price [of] doing what is in the best interests of the trust—and what the trustee's fiduciary duties therefore require—engages in self-interested conduct by extracting a personal benefit at the expense of the trust and its beneficiaries.” J.P. Morgan Tr. Co. of Delaware, Tr. of Fisher 2006 Tr. v. Fisher, No. CV 12894-VCL, 2021 WL 2407858, at *22 n.9 (Del. Ch. June 14, 2021), judgment entered sub nom (noting that “[t]he trustee’s insistence on a release may also fuel the beneficiaries’ concern about improper conduct, as it did in this case”).

58. Similarly, the Southern District of New York has held that a fiduciary’s refusal to distribute assets without getting a release can constitute a breach of fiduciary duty:

Defendants also argue that the demand for a release was not a breach of fiduciary duty because there is no merit to KeyBank’s underlying claims. I have held for the reasons stated above that some of KeyBank’s claims have been properly pleaded and survive a motion to dismiss. Even if that were not the case, however, the First Amended Complaint properly alleges that the refusal to deliver stock to which KeyBank was entitled – based on the defendants’ self-interested insistence that they be released from KeyBank’s claims – was an abuse of defendants’ control of the buyer that had nothing to do with the buyer’s legitimate business interests and that instead served only the self-interests of the defendants themselves.

Keybank Nat’l Ass’n v. Franklin Advisers, Inc., 616 B.R. 14, 44 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 2020).

59. In yet another similar case, the Southern District of New York held that a trustee breached its fiduciary duties by insisting on indemnification before carrying out its contractual obligations. In FMS Bonds, Inc. v. Bank of New York Mellon, the plaintiffs, holders of industrial revenue bonds, filed suit for breach of contract and breach of fiduciary duty against the indenture trustee responsible for servicing the bonds. No. 15 CIV. 9375 (ER), 2016 WL 4059155, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. July 28, 2016). The plaintiffs alleged the trustee failed to file a timely proof of claim in the bankruptcy proceedings on behalf of the entities obligated to make payments under the bonds. Id. at 7. The trustee offered to file a late proof of claim, but only if the plaintiffs agreed to “further indemnification protection” for the trustee. Id. The plaintiffs argued that “where the Trustee’s ‘gross negligence’ prevented bondholders from collecting on the Bonds, the Trustee’s inaction and insistence on further indemnification in order to rectify that gross negligence was a breach of the Trustee’s fiduciary duties.” Id. at 13. The trustee moved to dismiss plaintiffs’ breach of fiduciary duty claim, and the court denied the motion, stating that the plaintiffs' allegations "that the Trustee . . . breached its fiduciary duties by insisting on indemnification before taking further action" properly pleaded a breach of fiduciary duty claim. Id. at 14.

60. The reasoning of these cases applies with equal force here. Mr. Seery is obligated under the CTA to administer the Claimant Trust expeditiously, with an aim toward maximizing value for the Trust's intended beneficiaries, and to distribute the Claimant Trust's assets to those beneficiaries within a reasonable time. Instead of doing so, Mr. Seery is increasing the indemnity reserve so he can indemnify himself and others against future, unidentified lawsuits, potentially in perpetuity. In other words, like the trustees in Fisher, Keybank National Association, and FMS Bonds, Mr. Seery is refusing to comply with his obligations under the relevant trust agreement to extract some benefit for himself. That is a breach of the duty of loyalty, and that is a sufficient basis for Movant to seek Mr. Seery's removal under Delaware law.

b) Mr. Seery's Continued Service Substantially Impairs the Administration of the Trust

61. Mr. Seery's dual roles as Claimant Trustee and Indemnity Subtrust Administrator create an irreconcilable conflict of interest that substantially impairs the administration of the trust. As Claimant Trustee, Mr. Seery has duties to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries to timely pay the remaining Class 8 and 9 claims, and file the GUC Certification. However, Mr. Seery, as an Indemnified Party as well as Indemnity Subtrust Administrator, instead is using the assets of the Claimant Trust to fund a $35-50 million cash reserve to the Indemnity Subtrust and create an additional $90 million "indemnity reserve." In other words, Mr. Seery has chosen to pursue creation of an "indemnity wall" rather than perform his duties as Claimant Trustee. Under these circumstances, Mr. Seery's continued service as Claimant Trustee while he also serves as Indemnity Subtrust Administrator impairs the administration of the Claimant Trust, warranting his removal as Trustee.

c) Mr. Seery Is Hostile to Movant, the Largest Class 10 Equity Holder

62. “Removal of a trustee is appropriate where ‘there exists . . . hostility between the trustee[] and the beneficiaries that threatens the efficient administration of the trust.’” Matter of Jeremy Paradise Dynasty Tr., No. CV 2021-0354-KSJM, 2021 WL 3625375, at *1 (Del. Ch. Aug. 17, 2021). Where, as here, hostility rises to the point of preventing trust funds from being distributed, removal is appropriate. See, e.g., Tagliatela v. Galvin, No. CIV.A. 5841-MA, 2013 WL 2122044, at *3 (Del. Ch. May 14, 2013) (“The ongoing hostility and lack of communication and trust between the Trustee and three of her siblings have prevented the trust funds from being distributed to the six beneficiaries in a reasonable time after the settlor’s death. . . . I conclude that it is in the best interest of the beneficiaries here to remove [the Trustee.]”).

63. There can be no doubt that Mr. Seery is hostile to Movant and the holders of Class 10 and 11 claims (the holders of Contingent Trust Interests under the CTA). Among other things:

- Mr. Seery has provided testimony on repeated occasions accusing Class 10 and 11 claims holders of “bad faith” and other misconduct;
- Mr. Seery has helped facilitate lawsuits against Class 10 and 11 claims holders, including the Kirschner Action;
- Mr. Seery has helped facilitate the filing of motions against Class 10 and 11 claims holders, including a Motion to Deem the Dondero Parties Vexatious Litigants, currently pending in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas;
- Mr. Seery not only has failed to communicate with the Class 10 and 11 claim holders about the estate’s finances, but opposes their efforts to obtain such information;<sup>74</sup> and
- Mr. Seery has resisted and opposed relief sought by Class 10 and 11 claims holders, even where that relief was reasonable and designed to benefit the estate as a whole.<sup>75</sup>

The claim holders have requested this information since at least June 2022 (Dkt. 3382), which was approximately $80 million in estate expenses ago. See ¶ 25 supra.

<sup>75</sup> See Highland Capital Management, L.P.’s Memorandum of Law in Support of its Motion to Deem the Dondero Entities Vexatious Litigants and for Related Relief, Case No. 21-00881 (N.D. 64. The hostility described herein between Mr. Seery and the beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust is more than sufficient to warrant Mr. Seery's removal. In Tagliatela, the court removed the trustee because "ongoing hostility and lack of communication" between the trustee and beneficiaries "prevented the trust funds from being distributed" to the beneficiaries in a reasonable time. 2013 WL 2122044, at *3. Similarly, here, the hostility between Mr. Seery and the beneficiaries is so extreme that Mr. Seery refuses to administer the trust funds without first establishing an indemnity fund with potentially more than one hundred million dollars. That is impermissible under Delaware law.

65. For all the foregoing reasons, Movant's Delaware complaint sets forth a prima facie claim for removal of Mr. Seery as Trustee of the Claimant Trust, consistent with the applicable legal standard and also even consistent with this Court's new Gatekeeper Colorability Test.

B. Movant Seeks to File its Delaware Complaint for a Proper Purpose

66. Even though Movant does not agree with the Court's Gatekeeper Colorability Test, Movant can readily satisfy the next element of that test because it has a legitimate and proper reason to seek Mr. Seery's removal under Delaware law. As the allegations above make clear, Movant has no other legal avenue available to protect its sizeable interest in the assets of the Claimant Trust.

67. The latest information from the Highland Parties is that the Indemnity Subtrust now holds reportedly $50 million in cash, and that an additional $90 million of the Claimant Trust assets have been held in an indemnity reserve. That means that at least $140 million is currently being held for indemnity—on the sole authority of Mr. Seery in order to protect himself. Contrary to the representations in the Subtrust Motion, the amount now held for indemnity is 560% of the original $25 million represented. By comparison, for the pre-effective date period, the entire bankruptcy case only cost approximately $40 million in administrative fees through August 10, 2021.<sup>76</sup>

68. The Plan and Trusts have now turned into nothing more than vehicles for Mr. Seery to leverage to seek to force Class 10 and 11 Equity Holders, and even related party non-equity holders, to deliver releases and other consideration to Mr. Seery and the Indemnified Parties. By his conduct, Mr. Seery seeks the complete exculpation the Fifth Circuit denied him.<sup>77</sup> Under the guise of “indemnity,” he holds assets that belong to beneficiaries, vested and contingent, entirely hostage at his sole and unfettered discretion. Meanwhile, Seery continues to collect his monthly compensation of $150,000 per month, plus authorize over $5 million in undisclosed monthly expenses. The present circumstances demonstrate that, if not stopped, Seery will continue to use his position in this manner until the Trusts are exhausted and the Plan is entirely frustrated. The creation of the Trusts and limitless authority of Mr. Seery have resulted in a conflict of interest which cannot be resolved without a court’s appropriate, and entirely necessary, equitable resolution.

69. In short, the claims to remove Mr. Seery as Claimant Trustee are not without foundation, not without merit, and not being pursued for an improper purpose. Based on the Delaware law described herein, Movant meets the applicable legal standard, and also even this Court’s Gatekeeper Colorability Test, and the Court should allow Movant to proceed with its complaint in Delaware.

IV. CONCLUSION

For all of the forgoing reasons, this Motion should be granted.

COMPLAINT TO REMOVE THE TRUSTEE

Plaintiff, Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“HMIT”), by and through its undersigned counsel, hereby brings the following Complaint seeking the removal of Defendant James P. Seery, Jr. as Trustee of the Highland Claimant Trust (the “Claimant Trust”) pursuant to 12 Del. C. § 3327(1), (3)(b), and/or (3)(c). In support, HMIT respectfully states as follows:

I. PARTIES

1. Plaintiff HMIT is a Delaware statutory trust that was formerly the largest equity holder in Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Debtor”), holding a 99.5% limited partnership interest. HMIT is now the largest holder of a Contingent Trust Interest in the Claimant Trust pursuant to the terms of the Claimant Trust Agreement (“CTA”).<sup>1</sup>

2. Defendant James P. Seery, Jr. (“Mr. Seery or Seery”) is an individual citizen and resident of the State of New York. Mr. Seery may be served with process at 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1805, Dallas, Texas 75201. Mr. Seery acts as the Claimant Trustee under the CTA and as Trust Administrator of the Indemnity Subtrust as described herein. Mr. Seery may be served with process pursuant to 10 Del. C. § 3114 because he serves as the trustee of a Delaware statutory trust.

II. JURISDICTION

3. This Court has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 10 Del. C. § 341 and 12 Del. C. § 3327.

III. STANDING

4. HMIT seeks to have this Court remove Mr. Seery as Claimant Trustee of the Claimant Trust pursuant to 12 Del. C. § 3327. HMIT has standing as Plaintiff in this proceeding because it is a beneficiary within the meaning of Delaware trust law and, at a minimum, a contingent beneficiary under the terms of the Claimant Trust.

IV. FACTS

A. The Claimant Trust Agreement

5. In a chapter 11 bankruptcy proceeding in the Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, the Debtor filed and the Bankruptcy Court confirmed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as modified) (In re Highland Capital Management LP, Case No. 19-34054-sgj11 in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Doc. 1943 at Ex. A) (the “Plan”).

6. Pursuant to the Plan, assets of the bankruptcy estate of the Debtor were transferred to the Claimant Trust.

7. The CTA identifies different “classes” of trust interests. In particular, Class 8 interests were distributed to Holders of Allowed Class 8 General Unsecured Claims; Class 9 interests were distributed to Holders of Allowed Class 9 Subordinated Claims; Class 10 interests were distributed to Holders of Allowed Class 10 Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests; and Class 11 interests were distributed to Holders of Allowed Class 11 Class A Limited Partnership Interests.

8. The CTA directs Seery, as Claimant Trustee, “to litigate and settle Claims in Class 8 and Class 9.” (CTA at ¶ 2.3(b)(ii).)

9. After Class 8 and Class 9 interest holders are paid in full, the CTA directs Seery, as Claimant Trustee, to file with the Bankruptcy Court a “GUC Payment Certification.” (CTA at ¶ 5.1(c).)

10. As described in the CTA, Class 10 and Class 11 interests are “Contingent Trust Interests,” meaning they will not “vest” under the terms of the CTA until Class 8 and Class 9 interest holders are paid in full and the Claimant Trustee files the GUC Payment Certification. (CTA at ¶¶ 1.1(m) and 5.1(c).)

11. Among other things, the CTA requires Mr. Seery to pay the remaining Class 8 and 9 claims in full and file the GUC Certification, thereby “vesting” the Class 10 and 11 Equity Interests under the terms of the CTA. (CTA at ¶¶ 1.1(h), 1.1(aa), and 5.1.) In addition, he has the duty to do so timely and “not unduly prolong the duration of the Claimant Trust.” (CTA at ¶¶ 2.2(b), 3.2(a), and 3.3(a).)

12. The Claimant Trust expressly does not indemnify parties for acts which are determined by order a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute willful fraud, willful misconduct, or gross negligence. (CTA at ¶ 8.2.)

B. The Indemnity Subtrust

13. Months after confirmation of the chapter 11 Plan and creation of the Claimant Trust, the Bankruptcy Court authorized the creation of the Indemnity Subtrust. The Indemnity Subtrust was created to provide a source of conditional indemnity, in lieu of liability insurance coverage, to parties identified as “Indemnified Parties” in Section 8.2 of the CTA, including Mr. Seery and the Claimant Trust Oversight Board to the extent they otherwise qualify under the terms of the CTA. According to the terms of the motion filed with the bankruptcy court seeking to create the Indemnity Subtrust, Mr. Seery placed himself in the position of Trust Administrator of the Indemnity Subtrust (to whom the trustee of the Indemnity Subtrust answers). Accordingly, Mr. Seery has exercised sole control of both the Claimant Trust and Indemnity Subtrust with respect to all matters concerning indemnity.

14. Mr. Seery has an irresolvable conflict of interest whereby he has exclusive control over the Indemnity Subtrust—to the detriment of the Class 8 and 9 Claimants, and the Class 10 and 11 Equity Interests. In such position, Mr. Seery enjoys power in his sole and absolute discretion to direct administration of all aspects of the Indemnity Subtrust for his own benefit, and all matters relating to indemnity with respect to the Claimant Trust.

15. The sole conditional beneficiaries of the Indemnity Subtrust are the Indemnified Parties as defined in Section 8.2 of the Claimant Trust Agreement, including Seery himself and the Claimant Trust Oversight Board.

C. The Claimant Trust Has Sufficient Assets to Pay Class 8 and 9 Interest Holders

16. Based on a consolidated balance sheet filed on July 6, 2023, the Claimant Trust has about $250 million in assets (of which $180 million is cash) and only about $126 million in Class 8 and 9 claims.

17. Notably, the Claimant Trust’s balance sheet assets do not include a fully cash-funded at least $35 million indemnity account (reportedly now $50 million) that presumably may be used to pay creditors to the extent it is not consumed by the estate’s professionals. (See Notice of Filing of Current Balance Sheet of the Highland Claimant Trust, Dkt. 3872 at Ex. A, Note 1.)<sup>2</sup> To reduce the Claimant Trust’s book value, the Debtor purports to add “non-book” adjustments to the balance sheet. One such adjustment gives zero asset value to the notes payable by alleged affiliates of Jim Dondero. (See id. at Ex. A.) However, $70 million of those notes are fully bonded by cash deposited in the registry of the district court. See Case No. 3:31-cv-00881-X (N.D. Tex.), Order Granting Joint Agreed Emergency Motion

for Order Approving Stipulation for the Bonding of Judgments and Stays of Executions Pending Appeals [Dkt. 149] and Notices of Bonding [Dkts. 151, 152, and 160-162].<sup>3</sup>

18. Additionally, Mr. Seery declared a supplemental “indemnity account” now holding approximately $90 million, on top of the $35 (or $50) million cash indemnity reserve, for the benefit of the Indemnified Parties (including Mr. Seery).

19. Were it not for the inappropriate $125 million (or more) indemnity reserve, Debtor’s creditors could and should have been paid, the estate closed and the residual returned to former equity months ago.

20. As a practical matter, the Claimant Trust could pay the Class 8 and 9 claims in full with interest, Mr. Seery could file the GUC Certification, and the Equity interests, including Plaintiff’s, would fully “vest” under the terms of the CTA. All of these steps could be, and indeed, should have been, completed without any interference with the Indemnity Sub-Trust or Indemnity Trust.

D. Mr. Seery Refuses to Pay Class 8 and 9 Interest Holders, and thereby Seeks to Prevent HMIT’s Class 10 Interests from Vesting, to Advance His Own Self-Interest.

21. As a result of Mr. Seery’s roles as both Claimant Trustee and Trust Administrator of the Indemnity Subtrust, Mr. Seery is determined to hold the assets of the Claimant Trust “hostage” by creating an indemnity reserve and/or funding the

Indemnity Subtrust to solely benefit the Indemnified Parties, including himself personally.

22. Mr. Seery's use of the Claimant Trust Asset's to build an indemnity "wall" for his own benefit rather than paying off the Class 8 and 9 claims, reflects an attempt to avoid "vesting" of equity Classes 10 and 11 under the CTA, of which HMIT is the largest interest holder. Such conduct is adverse to the interests of the Beneficiaries and the Contingent Beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust, including HMIT.

23. Mr. Seery's serving as both the Claimant Trustee and as the Trust Administrator of the Indemnity Subtrust therefore creates an irresolvable conflict of interest.

24. Seery has duties to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries which include, without limitation: a) paying the remaining Class 8 and 9 claims in full, b) filing the GUC Certification, and c) vesting the Class 10 and 11 Equity Interests under the terms of the CTA. (CTA at ¶¶ 1.1(h), 1.1(aa), and 5.1.) In addition, Mr. Seery has the duty to do so timely and "not unduly prolong the duration of the Claimant Trust." (CTA at ¶¶ 2.2(b), 3.2(a), and 3.3(a).)

25. But, because Mr. Seery is a conditionally Indemnified Party, he self-servingly chooses essentially to use assets of the Claimant Trust to both fund a cash reserve to the Indemnity Subtrust, reportedly now totaling $50 million, and on top of that, create an additional “indemnity reserve” of some $90 million in cash in the Claimant Trust. Meanwhile, Mr. Seery continues to collect substantial income in his capacity as Claimant Trustee rather than winding up the estate.

26. Simply put, Seery has chosen to dedicate assets of the Claimant Trust to erect an “indemnity wall” in front of himself instead of performing his remaining duties as the Claimant Trustee.

27. De facto, but for Mr. Seery’s deliberate failure to pay the remaining Class 8 and 9 claims in full with interest from the liquid assets in the Trust, the Class 10 and 11 Equity Holders are Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

28. Notwithstanding that creditor constituencies voted to support, and the Bankruptcy Court approved, the Plan, understanding that there would be a partially independent, five-member Oversight Board supervising the monetization and distribution of estate assets, that contemplated governance structure has long since been ignored and has failed to safeguard the Claimant Trust. The representations in the Plan, the findings by the Bankruptcy Court, and the belief of the Fifth Circuit that Mr. Seery’s conduct as Claimant Trustee would be affirmatively overseen to assure that the Plan would be fully performed, are – at least as to the appropriate use of funds and indemnification -- all false.

E. Mr. Seery’s Refusal to Administer the CTA Has Created Hostility between Mr. Seery and the Beneficiaries

29. The Claimant Trust, of which Mr. Seery is Trustee, owns the limited partnership interests in the Reorganized Debtor.<sup>4</sup>

30. In the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas, Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”), the Reorganized Debtor, filed a Motion to Deem the Dondero Entities Vexatious Litigants and for Related Relief, (Dist. Ct. Case No. 3:21-cv-00881-X, Dkt. No. 136) and filed a Memorandum of Law (Id. at Dkt. No. 137) in support thereof.

31. In the Memorandum of Law, the Reorganized Debtor (under the control of the Claimant Trust), defines “Dondero Entities” as including HMIT (Movant herein) in footnote 1, page 1. The Memorandum of Law declares that, “The Dondero Entities—all of which are dominated and controlled by or acting in concert with Dondero, HCMLP’s co-founder and ousted Chief Executive Officer—are engaged in a coordinated litigation strategy spanning nearly three years to wear down HCMLP and its management and undermine HCMLP’s confirmed Plan.” (Id., p. 1.) The Memorandum further states, “Thereafter, directly and through the Dondero Entities, he began interfering with the management of the estate, threatening HCMLP employees, challenging nearly every action taken to further HCMLP’s reorganization, commencing new (and frivolous) litigation against HCMLP and its management both insider and outside of Bankruptcy Court...” (Id. at p. 2.)

32. In particular, with respect to HMIT, the reorganized Debtor’s, Memorandum states, “[s]eparately, in March 2023, HMIT sought leave to sue HCMLP for allegedly breaching its fiduciary duty and other obligations to HMIT—a prepetition equity holder.... However, HMIT’s putative complaint is emblematic of the Dondero Entities’ unceasing litigation--...” (Id. at ¶ 30, p. 26.) Ironically, the Memorandum was wrong: HMIT’s referenced motion sought leave to bring derivative claims on behalf of HCMLP.

33. Mr. Seery’s hostility to Dondero is also well documented in hearing testimony, depositions, and declarations Mr. Seery has provided since October of 2020.<sup>5</sup>

<sup>5</sup> See Highland Capital Management, L.P.’s Memorandum of Law in Support of its Motion to Deem the Dondero Entities Vexatious Litigants and for Related Relief, Case No. 21-00881 (N.D. Tex.), Dkt. 137 (wherein the Reorganized Debtor (under the control of the Claimant Trust), defines “Dondero Entities” as including HMIT (Movant herein) at fn. 1; states “The Dondero Entities—all of which are dominated and controlled by or acting in concert with Dondero, HCMLP’s co-founder and ousted Chief Executive Officer—are engaged in a coordinated litigation strategy spanning nearly three years to wear down HCMLP and its management and undermine HCMLP’s confirmed Plan.” Id., at ¶ 1.; “Thereafter, directly and through the Dondero Entities, he began interfering with the management of the estate, threatening HCMLP employees, challenging nearly every action taken to further HCMLP’s reorganization, commencing new (and frivolous) litigation against HCMLP and its management both insider and outside of Bankruptcy Court...” Id. at ¶ 4; “Separately, in March 2023, HMIT sought leave to sue HCMLP for allegedly breaching its fiduciary duty and other obligations to HMIT—a prepetition equity holder.... However, HMIT’s putative complaint is emblematic of the Dondero Entities’ unceasing litigation--...” Id. at ¶ 30); Dec. 14, 2020 Depo. Tr. at 37:22-25 (“He has an interest in sticking his fingers in virtually everything but not providing any value. That’s pretty consistent.”); Aug. 4, 2021 Hr’g Tr. at 66:15-18 (“We wanted to make sure we had a clean, fast transaction. And based upon our dealings with the Dondero entities, we didn’t think we could possibly have that.”); June 2, 2023 Depo. Tr. at 113:17-20 (“... I don’t think this was a complicated case at all. I think this could have been easily resolved. And with normal commercial actors, it would have been.”).

34. Based on the above, there can be no question that Mr. Seery (a) is overtly hostile to Dondero, (b) contends that Dondero controls HMIT, and (c) is hostile to HMIT directly. Such hostility is well beyond mere discord.

V. CAUSES OF ACTION

35. Pursuant to 12 Del. C. § 3327, an “officeholder,” including a trustee “may be removed in accordance with the terms of the governing instrument.” 12 Del. C. § 3327. Additionally, “the Court of Chancery may remove an officeholder on the Court’s own initiative or on petition of a trustor, another officeholder, or beneficiary” in any of five circumstances:

- 1) The officeholder has committed a breach of trust; or
- 2) The continued service of the officeholder substantially impairs the administration of the trust; or
- 3) The court, having due regard for the expressed intention of the trustor and the best interests of the beneficiaries, determines that notwithstanding the absence of a breach of trust, there exists:
  - a) A substantial change in circumstances;
  - b) Unfitness, unwillingness or inability of the officeholder to administer the trust or perform its duties properly; or
  - c) Hostility between the officeholder and beneficiaries or other officeholders that threatens the efficient administration of the trust.

12 Del. C. § 3327 (emphasis added).

Count I
(Removal of Seery for Breach of the Duty of Trust)

36. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporates the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs.

37. As Claimant Trustee, Mr. Seery owes duties to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries to pay the remaining Class 8 and 9 claims in full and file the GUC Certification, thereby vesting the Class 10 and 11 Equity Interests under the terms of the CTA. (CTA at ¶¶ 1.1(h), 1.1(aa), and 5.1.) In addition, he has the duty to do so timely and “not unduly prolong the duration of the Claimant Trust.” (CTA at ¶¶ 2.2(b), 3.2(a), and 3.3(a).)

38. Mr. Seery also has a duty of loyalty and may not act in his own self-interest to the detriment of the Claimant Trust.

39. Mr. Seery has engaged in self-dealing and otherwise breached his duty of loyalty by refusing to pay the Class 8 and 9 Claims in full with interest and refusing to file the GUC Payment Certification in an effort to prevent Class 10 and 11 equity interests from “vesting” under the terms of the CTA, in order to create a “wall” of indemnity for his own benefit while continuing to collect professional fees.

40. Mr. Seery’s conduct constitutes a breach of the duty of loyalty and a breach of trust warranting Mr. Seery’s removal.

Count II

(Removal of Mr. Seery for Impairment of the Administration of the Trust)

41. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporates the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs.

42. The administration of the CTA requires payment to the remaining Class 8 and 9 creditors and the filing of the GUC Certification.

43. The Claimant Trust has more than sufficient funds to pay the remaining Class 8 and 9 creditors with interest. Nevertheless, Mr. Seery refuses to do so.

44. By refusing to pay the Class 8 and 9 creditors, thereby preventing the Class 10 and 11 equity interests from “vesting” under the terms of the CTA, despite the Claimant Trust having ample money to do so, Mr. Seery is substantially impairing the administration of the Trust, warranting his removal.

Count III

(Removal of Mr. Seery for Unwillingness to Administer the Trust)

45. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporates the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs.

46. The administration of the CTA requires payment to the remaining Class 8 and 9 creditors and the filing of the GUC Certification.

47. The Claimant Trust has more than sufficient funds to pay the remaining Class 8 and 9 creditors with interest. Nevertheless, Mr. Seery refuses to do so.

48. By refusing to pay the Class 8 and 9 creditors, thereby preventing the Class 10 and 11 equity interests from “vesting” under the terms of the CTA, despite the Claimant Trust having ample money to do so, Mr. Seery is necessarily unwilling to administer the trust, warranting his removal.

Count IV
(Removal of Mr. Seery because his Continued Services Substantially Impairs the Administration of the Trust)

49. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporates the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs.

50. Mr. Seery’s dual roles as Claimant Trustee and Indemnity Subtrust Administrator creates an irreconcilable conflict of interest.

51. As Claimant Trustee, Mr. Seery has duties to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries to timely pay the remaining Class 8 and 9 claims, file the GUC Certification, and “vest” the Class 10 and 11 Equity Interests under the terms of the CTA.

52. However, Mr. Seery, as an Indemnified Party and as Indemnity Subtrust Administrator, is instead using assets of the Claimant Trust to fund a $50 million cash reserve to the Indemnity Subtrust and create an additional $90 million “indemnity reserve.”

53. Mr. Seery's choice to pursue creation of an "indemnity wall" as Indemnity Subtrust Administrator rather than perform his duties as Claimant Trustee substantially impairs the administration of the trust, warranting his removal.

Count V

(Removal of Mr. Seery due to Hostility that Threatens Administration of the Trust)

54. Plaintiff re-alleges and incorporates the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs.

55. The hostility between Mr. Seery and the beneficiaries does not merely "threaten" the efficient administration of the Claimant Trust, it has in fact led to Mr. Seery refusing to administer the Claimant Trust at all, warranting Mr. Seery's removal.

VI. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff HMIT respectfully requests that this Court:

(i) remove James P. Seery, Jr. as Claimant Trustee for the Highland Claimant Trust;

(ii) appoint a neutral and professional successor trustee that is not indemnified by the assets of the Claimant Trust;

(iii) award Plaintiff all costs and attorneys' fees against Defendant pursuant to 12 Del. C. § 3584; and

(iv) grant Plaintiff any and all other relief, at law or in equity, to which it is entitled.

ARTICLE II. ESTABLISHMENT OF THE CLAIMANT TRUST

2.1 Creation of Name of Trust.

(a) The Claimant Trust is hereby created as a statutory trust under the Delaware Statutory Trust Act and shall be called the “Highland Claimant Trust.” The Claimant Trustee shall be empowered to conduct all business and hold all property constituting the Claimant Trust Assets in such name in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth herein.

(b) The Trustees shall cause to be executed and filed in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware the Certificate of Trust and agree to execute, acting solely in their capacity as Trustees, such certificates as may from time to time be required under the Delaware Statutory Trust Act or any other Delaware law.

2.2 Objectives.

(a) The Claimant Trust is established for the purpose of satisfying Allowed General Unsecured Claims and Allowed Subordinated Claims (and only to the extent provided herein, Allowed Class A Limited Partnership Interests and Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests) under the Plan, by monetizing the Claimant Trust Assets transferred to it and making distributions to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. The Claimant Trust shall not continue or engage in any trade or business except to the extent reasonably necessary to monetize and distribute the Claimant Trust Assets consistent with this Agreement and the Plan and act as sole member and manager of New GP LLC. The Claimant Trust shall provide a mechanism for (i) the monetization of the Claimant Trust Assets and (ii) the distribution of the proceeds thereof, net of all claims, expenses, charges, liabilities, and obligations of the Claimant Trust, to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in accordance with the Plan. In furtherance of this distribution objective, the Claimant Trust will, from time to time, prosecute and resolve objections to certain Claims and Interests as provided herein and in the Plan.

(b) It is intended that the Claimant Trust be classified for federal income tax purposes as a “liquidating trust” within the meaning of section 301.7701-4(d) of the Treasury Regulations. In furtherance of this objective, the Claimant Trustee shall, in his business judgment, make continuing best efforts to (i) dispose of or monetize the Claimant Trust Assets and resolve Claims, (ii) make timely distributions, and (iii) not unduly prolong the duration of the Claimant Trust, in each case in accordance with this Agreement.

2.3 Nature and Purposes of the Claimant Trust.

(a) The Claimant Trust is organized and established as a trust for the purpose of monetizing the Claimant Trust Assets and making distributions to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in a manner consistent with “liquidating trust” status under Treasury Regulation Section 301.7701-4(d). The Claimant Trust shall retain all rights to commence and pursue all Causes of Action of the Debtor other than (i) Estate Claims, which shall be assigned to and commenced and pursued by the Litigation Trustee pursuant to the terms of the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, and (ii) Causes of Action constituting Reorganized Debtor Assets, if any, which shall be commenced and pursued by the Reorganized Debtor at the direction of the Claimant Trust as sole member of New GP LLC pursuant to the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement. The Claimant Trust and Claimant Trustee shall have and retain, and, as applicable, assign and transfer to the Litigation Sub-Trust and Litigation Trustee, any and all rights, defenses, cross-claims and counter-claims held by the Debtor with respect to any Claim as of the Petition Date. On and after the date hereof, in accordance with and subject to the Plan, the Claimant Trustee shall have the authority to (i) compromise, settle or otherwise resolve, or withdraw any objections to Claims against the Debtor, provided, however, the Claimant Trustee shall only have the authority to compromise or settle any Employee Claim with the unanimous consent of the Oversight Board and in the absence of unanimous consent, any such Employee Claim shall be transferred to the Litigation Sub-Trust and be litigated, comprised, settled, or otherwise resolved exclusively by the Litigation Trustee and (ii) compromise, settle, or otherwise resolve any Disputed Claims without approval of the Bankruptcy Court, which authority may be shared with or transferred to the Litigation Trustee in accordance with the terms of the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement. For the avoidance of doubt, the Claimant Trust, pursuant to section 1123(b)(3)(B) of the Bankruptcy Code and applicable state trust law, is appointed as the successor-in-interest to, and representative of, the Debtor and its Estate for the retention, enforcement, settlement, and adjustment of all Claims other than Estate Claims, the Employee Claims, and those Claims constituting Reorganized Debtor Assets.

(b) The Claimant Trust shall be administered by the Claimant Trustee, in accordance with this Agreement, for the following purposes:

(i) to manage and monetize the Claimant Trust Assets in an expeditious but orderly manner with a view towards maximizing value within a reasonable time period;

(ii) to litigate and settle Claims in Class 8 and Class 9 (other than the Employee Claims, which shall be litigated and/or settled by the Litigation Trustee if the Oversight Board does not unanimously approve of any proposed settlement of such Employee Claim by the Claimant Trustee) and any of the Causes of Action included in the Claimant Trust Assets (including any cross-claims and counter-claims); provided, however, that Estate Claims transferred to the Litigation Sub-Trust shall be litigated and settled by the Litigation Trustee pursuant to the terms of the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement;

(iii) to distribute net proceeds of the Claimant Trust Assets to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries;

(iv) to distribute funds from the Disputed Claims Reserve to Holders of Trust Interests or to the Reorganized Debtor for distribution to Holders of Disputed Claims in each case in accordance with the Plan from time to time as any such Holder's Disputed Claim becomes an Allowed Claim under the Plan;

(v) to distribute funds to the Litigation Sub-Trust at the direction the Oversight Board;

(vi) to serve as the limited partner of, and to hold the limited partnership interests in, the Reorganized Debtor;

(vii) to serve as the sole member and manager of New GP LLC, the Reorganized Debtor's general partner;

(viii) to oversee the management and monetization of the Reorganized Debtor Assets pursuant to the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, in its capacity as the sole member and manager of New GP LLC pursuant to the terms of the New GP LLC Documents, all with a view toward maximizing value in a reasonable time in a manner consistent with the Reorganized Debtor's fiduciary duties as investment adviser to the Managed Funds; and

(ix) to perform any other functions and take any other actions provided for or permitted by this Agreement and the Plan, and in any other agreement executed by the Claimant Trustee.

2.4 Transfer of Assets and Rights to the Claimant Trust; Litigation Sub-Trust.

(a) On the Effective Date, pursuant to the Plan, the Debtor shall irrevocably transfer, assign, and deliver, and shall be deemed to have transferred, assigned, and delivered, all Claimant Trust Assets and related Privileges held by the Debtor to the Claimant Trust free and clear of all Claims, Interests, Liens, and other encumbrances, and liabilities, except as provided in the Plan and this Agreement. To the extent certain assets comprising the Claimant Trust Assets, because of their nature or because such assets will accrue or become transferable subsequent to the Effective Date, and cannot be transferred to, vested in, and assumed by the Claimant Trust on such date, such assets shall be considered Reorganized Debtor Assets, which may be subsequently transferred to the Claimant Trust by the Reorganized Debtor consistent with the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement after such date.

(b) On or as soon as practicable after the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust shall irrevocably transfer, assign, and deliver, and shall be deemed to have transferred, assigned, and delivered, all Estate Claims and related Privileges held by the Claimant Trust to the Litigation Sub-Trust Trust free and clear of all Claims, Interests, Liens, and other encumbrances, and liabilities, except as provided in the Plan, this Agreement, and the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement. Following the transfer of such Privileges, the Litigation Trustee shall have the power to waive the Privileges being so assigned and transferred.

(c) On or before the Effective Date, and continuing thereafter, the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, shall provide (i) for the Claimant Trustee's and Litigation Trustee's reasonable access to all records and information in the Debtor's and Reorganized Debtor's possession, custody or control, (ii) that all Privileges related to the Claimant Trust Assets shall transfer to and vest exclusively in the Claimant Trust (except for those Privileges that will be transferred and assigned to the Litigation Sub-Trust in respect of the Estate Claims), and (iii) subject to Section 3.12(c), the Debtor and Reorganized Debtor shall preserve all records and documents (including all electronic records or documents), including, but not limited to, the Debtor's file server, email server, email archiving system, master journal, SharePoint, Oracle E-Business Suite, Advent Geneva, Siepe database, Bloomberg chat data, and any backups of the foregoing, until such time as the Claimant Trustee, with the consent of the Oversight Board and, if pertaining to any of the Estate Claims, the Litigation Trustee, directs the Reorganized Debtor, as sole member of its general partner, that such records are no longer required to be preserved. For the purposes of transfer of documents, the Claimant Trust or Litigation Sub-Trust, as applicable, is an assignee and successor to the Debtor in respect of the Claimant Trust Assets and Estate Claims, respectively, and shall be treated as such in any review of confidentiality restrictions in requested documents.

(d) Until the Claimant Trust terminates pursuant to the terms hereof, legal title to the Claimant Trust Assets (other than Estate Claims) and all property contained therein shall be vested at all times in the Claimant Trust as a separate legal entity, except where applicable law in any jurisdiction requires title to any part of the Claimant Trust Assets to be vested in the Claimant Trustee, in which case title shall be deemed to be vested in the Claimant Trustee, solely in his capacity as Claimant Trustee. For purposes of such jurisdictions, the term Claimant Trust, as used herein, shall be read to mean the Claimant Trustee.

2.5 Principal Office. The principal office of the Claimant Trust shall be maintained by the Claimant Trustee at the following address: 100 Crescent Court, Suite 1850, Dallas, Texas 75201.

2.6 Acceptance. The Claimant Trustee accepts the Claimant Trust imposed by this Agreement and agrees to observe and perform that Claimant Trust, on and subject to the terms and conditions set forth herein and in the Plan.

2.7 Further Assurances. The Debtor, Reorganized Debtor, and any successors thereof will, upon reasonable request of the Claimant Trustee, execute, acknowledge and deliver such further instruments and do such further acts as may be necessary or proper to transfer to the Claimant Trustee any portion of the Claimant Trust Assets intended to be conveyed hereby and in the Plan in the form and manner provided for hereby and in the Plan and to vest in the Claimant Trustee the powers, instruments or funds in trust hereunder.

2.8 Incidents of Ownership. The Claimant Trust Beneficiaries shall be the sole beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust and the Claimant Trustee shall retain only such incidents of ownership as are necessary to undertake the actions and transactions authorized herein.

The Claimant Trustee may resign as Claimant Trustee of the Claimant Trust by an instrument in writing delivered to the Bankruptcy Court and Oversight Board at least thirty (30) days before the proposed effective date of resignation. The Claimant Trustee shall continue to serve as Claimant Trustee after delivery of the Claimant Trustee's resignation until the proposed effective date of such resignation, unless the Claimant Trustee and a simple majority of the Oversight Board consent to an earlier effective date, which earlier effective date shall be no earlier than the date of appointment of a successor Claimant Trustee in accordance with Section 3.9 hereof becomes effective.

The Interim Trustee shall be subject to all the terms and conditions applicable to a Claimant Trustee hereunder. Such Interim Trustee shall not be limited in any manner from exercising any rights or powers as a Member of the Oversight Board merely by such Person’s appointment as Interim Trustee.

3.10 Continuance of Claimant Trust. The death, resignation, or removal of the Claimant Trustee shall not operate to terminate the Claimant Trust created by this Agreement or to revoke any existing agency (other than any agency of the Claimant Trustee as the Claimant Trustee) created pursuant to the terms of this Agreement or invalidate any action taken by the Claimant Trustee. In the event of the resignation or removal of the Claimant Trustee, the Claimant Trustee shall promptly (i) execute and deliver, by the effective date of resignation or removal, such documents, instruments, records, and other writings as may be reasonably requested by his successor to effect termination of the exiting Claimant Trustee’s capacity under this Agreement and the conveyance of the Claimant Trust Assets then held by the exiting Claimant Trustee to the successor Claimant Trustee; (ii) deliver to the successor Claimant Trustee all non-privileged documents, instruments, records, and other writings relating to the Claimant Trust as may be in the possession or under the control of the exiting Claimant Trustee, provided, the exiting Claimant Trustee shall have the right to make and retain copies of such documents, instruments, records and other writings delivered to the successor Claimant Trustee and the cost of making such copies shall be a Claimant Trust Expense to be paid by the Claimant Trust; and (iii) otherwise assist and cooperate in effecting the assumption of the exiting Claimant Trustee’s obligations and functions by his successor, provided the fees and expenses of such assistance and cooperation shall be paid to the exiting Claimant Trustee by the Claimant Trust. The exiting Claimant Trustee shall irrevocably appoint the successor Claimant Trustee as his attorney-in-fact and agent with full power of substitution for it and its name, place and stead to do any and all acts that such exiting Claimant Trustee is obligated to perform under this Section 3.10.

3.11 Claimant Trustee as “Estate Representative”. The Claimant Trustee will be the exclusive trustee of the Claimant Trust Assets for purposes of 31 U.S.C. § 3713(b) and 26 U.S.C. § 6012(b)(3), as well as the representative of the Estate appointed pursuant to section 1123(b)(3)(B) of the Bankruptcy Code (the “Estate Representative”) with respect to the Claimant

Trust Assets, with all rights and powers attendant thereto, in addition to all rights and powers granted in the Plan and in this Agreement; provided that all rights and powers as representative of the Estate pursuant to section 1123(b)(3)(B) shall be transferred to the Litigation Trustee in respect of the Estate Claims and the Employee Claims. The Claimant Trustee will be the successor-in-interest to the Debtor with respect to any action pertaining to the Claimant Trust Assets, which was or could have been commenced by the Debtor prior to the Effective Date, except as otherwise provided in the Plan or Confirmation Order. All actions, claims, rights or interest constituting Claimant Trust Assets are preserved and retained and may be enforced, or assignable to the Litigation Sub-Trust, by the Claimant Trustee as an Estate Representative.

Such books and records shall be maintained as reasonably necessary to facilitate compliance with the tax reporting requirements of the Claimant Trust and the requirements of Article VII herein. Except as otherwise provided herein, nothing in this Agreement requires the Claimant Trustee to file any accounting or seek approval of any court with respect to the administration of the Claimant Trust, or as a condition for managing any payment or distribution out of the Claimant Trust Assets.

(b) The Claimant Trustee shall provide quarterly reporting to the Oversight Board and Claimant Trust Beneficiaries of (i) the status of the Claimant Trust Assets, (ii) the balance of Cash held by the Claimant Trust (including in each of the Claimant Trust Expense Reserve and Disputed Claim Reserve), (iii) the determination and any re-determination, as applicable, of the total amount allocated to the Disputed Claim Reserve, (iv) the status of Disputed Claims and any resolutions thereof, (v) the status of any litigation, including the pursuit of the Causes of Action, (vi) the Reorganized Debtor's performance, and (vii) operating expenses; provided, however, that the Claimant Trustee may, with respect to any Member of the Oversight Board or Claimant Trust Beneficiary, redact any portion of such reports that relate to such Entity's Claim or Equity Interest, as applicable and any reporting provided to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries may be subject to such Claimant Trust Beneficiary's agreement to maintain confidentiality with respect to any non-public information.

(c) The Claimant Trustee may dispose some or all of the books and records maintained by the Claimant Trustee at the later of (i) such time as the Claimant Trustee determines, with the unanimous consent of the Oversight Board, that the continued possession or maintenance of such books and records is no longer necessary for the benefit of the Claimant Trust, or (ii) upon the termination and winding up of the Claimant Trust under Article IX of this Agreement; provided, however, the Claimant Trustee shall not dispose of any books and records related to the Estate Claims or Employee Claims without the consent of the Litigation Trustee. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Claimant Trustee shall cause the Reorganized Debtor and its subsidiaries to retain such books and records, and for such periods, as are required to be retained pursuant to Section 204-2 of the Investment Advisers Act or any other applicable laws, rules, or regulations.

As compensation for any services rendered by the Claimant Trustee in connection with this Agreement, the Claimant Trustee shall receive compensation of $150,000 per month (the "Base Salary"). Within the first forty-five days following the Confirmation Date, the Claimant Trustee, on the one hand, and the Committee, if prior to the Effective Date, or the Oversight Board, if on or after the Effective Date, on the other, will negotiate go-forward compensation for the Claimant Trustee which will include (a) the Base Salary, (b) a success fee, and (c) severance.

(ii) Expense Reimbursements. All reasonable out-of-pocket expenses of the Claimant Trustee in the performance of his or her duties hereunder, shall be reimbursed as Claimant Trust Expenses paid by the Claimant Trust.

(b) Professionals.

(ii) Fees and Expenses of Professionals. The Claimant Trustee shall pay the reasonable fees and expenses of any retained professionals as Claimant Trust Expenses.

3.14 Reliance by Claimant Trustee. Except as otherwise provided herein, the Claimant Trustee may rely, and shall be fully protected in acting or refraining from acting, on any resolution, statement, certificate, instrument, opinion, report, notice, request, consent, order or other instrument or document that the Claimant Trustee has no reason to believe to be other than genuine and to have been signed or presented by the proper party or parties or, in the case of facsimiles, to have been sent by the proper party or parties, and the Claimant Trustee may conclusively rely as to the truth of the statements and correctness of the opinions or direction expressed therein. The Claimant Trustee may consult with counsel and other professionals, and any advice of such counsel or other professionals shall constitute full and complete authorization and protection in respect of any action taken or not taken by the Claimant Trustee in accordance therewith. The Claimant Trustee shall have the right at any time to seek instructions from the Bankruptcy Court, or any other court of competent jurisdiction concerning the Claimant Trust Assets, this Agreement, the Plan, or any other document executed in connection therewith, and any such instructions given shall be full and complete authorization in respect of any action taken or not taken by the Claimant Trustee in accordance therewith. The Claimant Trust shall have the right to seek Orders from the Bankruptcy Court as set forth in Article IX of the Plan.

3.15 Commingling of Claimant Trust Assets. The Claimant Trustee shall not commingle any of the Claimant Trust Assets with his or her own property or the property of any other Person.

3.16 Delaware Trustee.

(a) The Delaware Trustee shall have the limited power and authority, and is hereby authorized and empowered, to (i) accept legal process served on the Claimant Trust in the State of Delaware; and (ii) execute any certificates that are required to be executed under the Delaware Statutory Trust Act and file such certificates in the office of the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware, and take such action or refrain from taking such action under this Agreement, in either case as may be directed in a writing delivered to the Delaware Trustee by the Claimant Trustee and upon which the Delaware Trustee shall be entitled to conclusively and exclusively rely; provided, however, that the Delaware Trustee shall not be required to take or to refrain from taking any such action if the Delaware Trustee shall believe, or shall have been advised by counsel, that such performance is likely to involve the Delaware Trustee in personal liability or to result in personal liability to the Delaware Trustee, or is contrary to the terms of this Agreement or of any document contemplated hereby to which the Claimant Trust or the Delaware Trustee is or becomes a party or is otherwise contrary to law. The Parties agree not to instruct the Delaware Trustee to take any action or to refrain from taking any action that is contrary to the terms of this Agreement or of any document contemplated hereby to which the Claimant Trust or the Delaware Trustee is or becomes party or that is otherwise contrary to law. Other than as expressly provided for in this Agreement, the Delaware Trustee shall have no duty or power to take any action for or on behalf of the Claimant Trust. For the avoidance of doubt, the Delaware Trustee will only have such rights and obligations as expressly provided by reference to the Delaware Trustee hereunder. The Delaware Trustee shall not be entitled to exercise any powers, nor shall the Delaware Trustee have any of the duties and responsibilities, of the Claimant Trustee set forth herein. The Delaware Trustee shall be one of the trustees of the Claimant Trust for the sole and limited purpose of fulfilling the requirements of Section 3807 of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act and for taking such actions as are required to be taken by a Delaware Trustee under the Delaware Statutory Trust Act. The duties (including fiduciary duties), liabilities and obligations of the Delaware Trustee shall be limited to those expressly set forth in this Section 3.16 and there shall be no other duties (including fiduciary duties) or obligations, express or implied, at law or in equity, of the Delaware Trustee. To the extent that, at law or in equity, the Delaware Trustee has duties (including fiduciary duties) and liabilities relating thereto to the Claimant Trust, the other parties hereto or any beneficiary of the Claimant Trust, it is hereby understood and agreed by the other parties hereto that such duties and liabilities are replaced by the duties and liabilities of the Delaware Trustee expressly set forth in this Agreement.

(b) The Delaware Trustee shall serve until such time as the Claimant Trustee removes the Delaware Trustee or the Delaware Trustee resigns and a successor Delaware Trustee is appointed by the Claimant Trustee in accordance with the terms hereof. The Delaware Trustee may resign at any time upon the giving of at least thirty (30) days' advance written notice to the Claimant Trustee; provided, that such resignation shall not become effective unless and until a successor Delaware Trustee shall have been appointed by the Claimant Trustee in accordance with the terms hereof. If the Claimant Trustee does not act within such thirty (30) day period, the Delaware Trustee may apply to the Court of Chancery of the State of Delaware for the appointment of a successor Delaware Trustee.

(c) Upon the resignation or removal of the Delaware Trustee, the Claimant Trustee shall appoint a successor Delaware Trustee by delivering a written instrument to the outgoing Delaware Trustee. Any successor Delaware Trustee must satisfy the requirements of Section 3807 of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act. Any resignation or removal of the Delaware Trustee and appointment of a successor Delaware Trustee shall not become effective until a written acceptance of appointment is delivered by the successor Delaware Trustee to the outgoing Delaware Trustee and the Claimant Trustee and any undisputed fees, expenses and indemnity due to the outgoing Delaware Trustee are paid. Following compliance with the preceding sentence, the successor Delaware Trustee shall become fully vested with all of the rights, powers, duties and obligations of the outgoing Delaware Trustee under this Agreement, with like effect as if originally named as Delaware Trustee, and the outgoing Delaware Trustee shall be discharged of its duties and obligations under this Agreement.

(d) The Delaware Trustee shall be paid such compensation as agreed to pursuant to a separate fee agreement. The Claimant Trust shall promptly advance and reimburse the Delaware Trustee for all reasonable out-of-pocket costs and expenses (including reasonable legal fees and expenses) incurred by the Delaware Trustee in connection with the performance of its duties hereunder.

(e) WTNA shall not be responsible or liable for any failure or delay in the performance of its obligations under this Agreement arising out of or caused, directly or indirectly, by circumstances beyond its control, including without limitation, any act or provision of any present or future law or regulation or governmental authority; acts of God; earthquakes; fires; floods; wars; terrorism; civil or military disturbances; sabotage; epidemics; riots; interruptions, loss or malfunctions of utilities, computer (hardware or software) or communications service; accidents; labor disputes; acts of civil or military authority or governmental actions; or the unavailability of the Federal Reserve Bank wire or telex or other wire or communication facility.

(f) Any corporation or association into which WTNA may be converted or merged, or with which it may be consolidated, or to which it may sell or transfer all or substantially all of its corporate trust business and assets as a whole or substantially as a whole, or any corporation or association resulting from any such conversion, sale, merger, consolidation or transfer to which the Delaware Trustee is a party, will be and become the successor Delaware Trustee under this Agreement and will have and succeed to the rights, powers, duties, immunities and privileges as its predecessor, without the execution or filing of any instrument or paper or the performance of any further act.

The Oversight Board will be comprised of five (5) Members appointed to serve as the board of managers of the Claimant Trust, at least two (2) of which shall be disinterested Members selected by the Creditors’ Committee (such disinterested members, the “Disinterested Members”). The initial Members of the Oversight Board will be representatives of Acis, the Redeemer Committee, Meta-e Discovery, UBS, and David Pauker. David Pauker and Paul McVoy, the representative of Meta-e Discovery, shall serve as the initial Disinterested Board Members; provided, however, that if the Plan is confirmed with the Convenience Class or any other convenience class supported by the Creditors’ Committee, Meta-

4.2 Authority and Responsibilities.

(a) The Oversight Board shall, as and when requested by either of the Claimant Trustee and Litigation Trustee, or when the Members otherwise deem it to be appropriate or as is otherwise required under the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or this Agreement, consult with and advise the Claimant Trustee and Litigation Trustee as to the administration and management of the Claimant Trust and the Litigation Sub-Trust, as applicable, in accordance with the Plan, the Confirmation Order, this Agreement, and Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement (as applicable) and shall have the other responsibilities and powers as set forth herein. (b) The Oversight Board shall also (i) monitor and oversee the administration of the Claimant Trust and the Claimant Trustee's performance of his or her responsibilities under this Agreement, (ii) as more fully set forth in the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, approve funding to the Litigation Sub-Trust, monitor and oversee the administration of the Litigation Sub-Trust and the Litigation Trustee's performance of his responsibilities under the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, and (iii) perform such other tasks as are set forth herein, in the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement, and in the Plan.

(c) The Claimant Trustee shall consult with and provide information to the Oversight Board in accordance with and pursuant to the terms of the Plan, the Confirmation Order, and this Agreement to enable the Oversight Board to meet its obligations hereunder.

(d) Notwithstanding any provision of this Agreement to the contrary, the Claimant Trustee shall not be required to (i) obtain the approval of any action by the Oversight Board to the extent that the Claimant Trustee, in good faith, reasonably determines, based on the advice of legal counsel, that such action is required to be taken by applicable law, the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or this Agreement or (ii) follow the directions of the Oversight Board to take any action the extent that the Claimant Trustee, in good faith, reasonably determines, based on the advice of legal counsel, that such action is prohibited by applicable law the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or this Agreement.

(e) Notwithstanding provision of this Agreement to the contrary, with respect to the activities of the Reorganized Debtor in its capacity as an investment adviser (and subsidiaries of the Reorganized Debtor that serve as general partner or in an equivalent capacity) to any Managed Funds, the Oversight Board shall not make investment decisions or otherwise participate in the investment decision making process relating to any such Managed Funds, nor shall the Oversight Board or any member thereof serve as a fiduciary to any such Managed Funds. It is agreed and understood that investment decisions made by the Reorganized Debtor (or its subsidiary entities) with respect to Managed Funds shall be made by the Claimant Trustee in his capacity as an officer of the Reorganized Debtor and New GP LLC and/or such persons who serve as investment personnel of the Reorganized Debtor from time to time, and shall be subject to the fiduciary duties applicable to such entities and persons as investment adviser to such Managed Funds.

4.3 Fiduciary Duties. The Oversight Board (and each Member in its capacity as such) shall have fiduciary duties to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries consistent with the fiduciary duties that the members of the Creditors' Committee have to unsecured creditors and shall exercise its responsibilities accordingly; provided, however, that the Oversight Board shall not owe fiduciary obligations to any Holders of Class A Limited Partnership Interests or Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests until such Holders become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in accordance with Section 5.1(c) hereof; provided, further, that the Oversight Board shall not owe fiduciary obligations to a Holder of an Equity Trust Interest if such Holder is named as a defendant in any of the Causes of Action, including Estate Claims, in their capacities as such, it being the intent that the Oversight Board's fiduciary duties are to maximize the value of the Claimant Trust Assets, including the Causes of Action. In all circumstances, the Oversight Board shall act in the best interests of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and in furtherance of the purpose of the Claimant Trust. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Agreement, the foregoing shall not eliminate the implied contractual covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

4.4 Meetings of the Oversight Board. Meetings of the Oversight Board are to be held as necessary to ensure the operation of the Claimant Trust but in no event less often than quarterly. Special meetings of the Oversight Board may be held whenever and wherever called for by the Claimant Trustee or any Member; provided, however, that notice of any such meeting shall be duly given in writing no less than 48 hours prior to such meeting (such notice requirement being subject to any waiver by the Members in the minutes, if any, or other transcript, if any, of proceedings of the Oversight Board). Unless the Oversight Board decides otherwise (which decision shall rest in the reasonable discretion of the Oversight Board), the Claimant Trustee, and each of the Claimant Trustee's designated advisors may, but are not required to, attend meetings of the Oversight Board.

4.5 Unanimous Written Consent. Any action required or permitted to be taken by the Oversight Board in a meeting may be taken without a meeting if the action is taken by unanimous written consents describing the actions taken, signed by all Members and recorded. If any Member informs the Claimant Trustee (via e-mail or otherwise) that he or she objects to the decision, determination, action, or inaction proposed to be made by unanimous written consent, the Claimant Trustee must use reasonable good faith efforts to schedule a meeting on the issue to be set within 48 hours of the request or as soon thereafter as possible on which all members of the Oversight Board are available in person or by telephone. Such decision, determination, action, or inaction must then be made pursuant to the meeting protocols set forth herein.

4.6 Manner of Acting.

(a) A quorum for the transaction of business at any meeting of the Oversight Board shall consist of at least three Members (including no less than one (1) Disinterested Member); provided that if the transaction of business at a meeting would constitute a direct or indirect conflict of interest for the Redeemer Committee, Acis, and/or UBS, at least two Disinterested Members must be present for there to be a quorum. Except as set otherwise forth herein, the majority vote of the Members present at a duly called meeting at which a quorum is present throughout shall be the act of the Oversight Board except as otherwise required by law or as provided in this Agreement. Any or all of the Members may participate in a regular or special meeting by, or conduct the meeting through the use of, conference telephone, video conference, or similar communications equipment by means of which all Persons participating in the meeting may hear each other, in which case any required notice of such meeting may generally describe the arrangements (rather than or in addition of the place) for the holding hereof. Any Member participating in a meeting by this means is deemed to be present in person at the meeting. Voting (including on negative notice) may be conducted by electronic mail or individual communications by the applicable Trustee and each Member.

(b) Any Member who is present and entitled to vote at a meeting of the Oversight Board when action is taken is deemed to have assented to the action taken, subject to the requisite vote of the Oversight Board, unless (i) such Member objects at the beginning of the meeting (or promptly upon his/her arrival) to holding or transacting business at the meeting; (ii) his/her dissent or abstention from the action taken is entered in the minutes of the meeting; or (iii) he/she delivers written notice (including by electronic or facsimile transmission) of his/her dissent or abstention to the Oversight Board before its adjournment. The right of dissent or abstention is not available to any Member of the Oversight Board who votes in favor of the action taken.

(c) Prior to a vote on any matter or issue or the taking of any action with respect to any matter or issue, each Member shall report to the Oversight Board any conflict of interest such Member has or may have with respect to the matter or issue at hand and fully disclose the nature of such conflict or potential conflict (including, without limitation, disclosing any and all financial or other pecuniary interests that such Member may have with respect to or in connection with such matter or issue, other than solely as a holder of Trust Interests). A Member who, with respect to a matter or issue, has or who may have a conflict of interest whereby such Member's interests are adverse to the interests of the Claimant Trust shall be deemed a "Conflicted Member" who shall not be entitled to vote or take part in any action with respect to such matter or issue. In the event of a Conflicted Member, the vote or action with respect to such matter or issue giving rise to such conflict shall be undertaken only by Members who are not Conflicted Members and, notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, the affirmative vote of only a majority of the Members who are not Conflicted Members shall be required to approve of such matter or issue and the same shall be the act of the Oversight Board.

(d) Each of Acis, the Redeemer Committee, and UBS shall be deemed "Conflicted Members" with respect to any matter or issue related to or otherwise affecting any of their respective Claim(s) (a "Committee Member Claim Matter"). A unanimous vote of the Disinterested Members shall be required to approve of or otherwise take action with respect to any Committee Member Claim Matter and, notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the same shall be the act of the Oversight Board.

4.7 Tenure of the Members of the Oversight Board. The authority of the Members of the Oversight Board will be effective as of the Effective Date and will remain and continue in full force and effect until the Claimant Trust is terminated in accordance with Article IX hereof. The Members of the Oversight Board will serve until such Member's successor is duly appointed or until such Member's earlier death or resignation pursuant to Section 4.8 below, or removal pursuant to Section 4.9 below.

4.8 Resignation. A Member of the Oversight Board may resign by giving prior written notice thereof to the Claimant Trustee and other Members. Such resignation shall become effective on the earlier to occur of (i) the day that is 90 days following the delivery of such notice, (ii) the appointment of a successor in accordance with Section 4.10 below, and (iii) such other date as may be agreed to by the Claimant Trustee and the non-resigning Members of the Oversight Board.

4.9 Removal. A majority of the Oversight Board may remove any Member for Cause or Disability. If any Committee Member has its Claim disallowed in its entirety the representative of such entity will immediately be removed as a Member without the requirement for a vote and a successor will be appointed in the manner set forth herein. Notwithstanding the foregoing, upon the termination of the Claimant Trust, any or all of the Members shall be deemed to have resigned.

4.10 Appointment of a Successor Member.

(a) In the event of a vacancy on the Oversight Board (whether by removal, death, or resignation), a new Member may be appointed to fill such position by the remaining Members acting unanimously; provided, however, that any vacancy resulting from the removal, resignation, or death of a Disinterested Member may only be filled by a disinterested Person unaffiliated with any Claimant or constituency in the Chapter 11 Case; provided, further, that if an individual serving as the representative of a Committee Member resigns from its role as representative, such resignation shall not be deemed resignation of the Committee Member itself and such Committee Member shall have the exclusive right to designate its replacement representative for the Oversight Board. The appointment of a successor Member will be further evidenced by the Claimant Trustee's filing with the Bankruptcy Court (to the extent a final decree has not been entered) and posting on the Claimant Trustee's website a notice of appointment, at the direction of the Oversight Board, which notice will include the name, address, and telephone number of the successor Member.

(b) Immediately upon the appointment of any successor Member, the successor Member shall assume all rights, powers, duties, authority, and privileges of a Member hereunder and such rights and privileges will be vested in and undertaken by the successor Member without any further act. A successor Member will not be liable personally for any act or omission of a predecessor Member.

(c) Every successor Member appointed hereunder shall execute, acknowledge, and deliver to the Claimant Trustee and other Members an instrument accepting the appointment

under this Agreement and agreeing to be bound thereto, and thereupon the successor Member without any further act, deed, or conveyance, shall become vested with all rights, powers, trusts, and duties of a Member hereunder.

4.11 Compensation and Reimbursement of Expenses. Unless determined by the Oversight Board, no Member shall be entitled to compensation in connection with his or her service to the Oversight Board; provided, however, that a Disinterested Member shall be compensated in a manner and amount initially set by the other Members and as thereafter amended from time to time by agreement between the Oversight Board and the Disinterested Member. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Claimant Trustee will reimburse the Members for all reasonable and documented out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the Members in connection with the performance of their duties hereunder (which shall not include fees, costs, and expenses of legal counsel).

4.12 Confidentiality. Each Member shall, during the period that such Member serves as a Member under this Agreement and following the termination of this Agreement or following such Member's removal or resignation, hold strictly confidential and not use for personal gain any material, non-public information of or pertaining to any Person to which any of the Claimant Trust Assets relates or of which such Member has become aware in the Member's capacity as a Member ("Confidential Trust Information"), except as otherwise required by law. For the avoidance of doubt, a Member's Affiliates, employer, and employer's Affiliates (and collectively with such Persons' directors, officers, partners, principals and employees, "Member Affiliates") shall not be deemed to have received Confidential Trust Information solely due to the fact that a Member has received Confidential Trust Information in his or her capacity as a Member of the Oversight Board and to the extent that (a) a Member does not disclose any Confidential Trust Information to a Member Affiliate, (b) the business activities of such Member Affiliates are conducted without reference to, and without use of, Confidential Trust Information, and (c) no Member Affiliate is otherwise directed to take, or takes on behalf of a Member or Member Affiliate, any actions that are contrary to the terms of this Section 4.12.

(a) General Unsecured Claim Trust Interests. On the date hereof, or on the date such Claim becomes Allowed under the Plan, the Claimant Trust shall issue General Unsecured Claim Trust Interests to Holders of Allowed Class 8 General Unsecured Claims (the "GUC Beneficiaries"). The Claimant Trustee shall allocate to each Holder of an Allowed Class 8 General Unsecured Claim a General Unsecured Claim Trust Interest equal to the ratio that the amount of each Holder's Allowed Class 8 Claim bears to the total amount of the Allowed Class 8 Claims. The General Unsecured Claim Trust Interests shall be entitled to distributions from the Claimant Trust Assets in accordance with the terms of the Plan and this Agreement.

(b) Subordinated Claim Trust Interests. On the date hereof, or on the date such Claim becomes Allowed under the Plan, the Claimant Trust shall issue Subordinated Claim Trust Interests to Holders of Class 9 Subordinated Claims (the "Subordinated Beneficiaries"). The Claimant Trustee shall allocate to each Holder of an Allowed Class 9 Subordinated Claim a Subordinated Claim Trust Interest equal to the ratio that the amount of each Holder's Allowed Class 9 Claim bears to the total of amount of the Allowed Class 9. The Subordinated Trust Interests shall be subordinated in right and priority to the General Unsecured Claim Trust Interests. The Subordinated Beneficiaries shall only be entitled to distributions from the Claimant Trust Assets after each GUC Beneficiary has been repaid in full with applicable interest on account of such GUC Beneficiary's Allowed General Unsecured Claim, and all Disputed General Unsecured Claims have been resolved, in accordance with the terms of the Plan and this Agreement.

(c) Contingent Trust Interests. On the date hereof, or on the date such Interest becomes Allowed under the Plan, the Claimant Trust shall issue Contingent Interests to Holders of Allowed Class 10 Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests and Holders of Allowed Class 11 Class A Limited Partnership Interests (collectively, the "Equity Holders"). The Claimant Trustee shall allocate to each Holder of Allowed Class 10 Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests and each Holder of Allowed Class 11 Class A Limited Partnership Interests a Contingent Trust Interest equal to the ratio that the amount of each Holder's Allowed Class 10 or Class 11 Interest bears to the total amount of the Allowed Class 10 or Class 11 Interests, as applicable, under the Plan. Equity Holders will only be deemed "Beneficiaries" under this Agreement upon the filing of a GUC Payment Certification with the Bankruptcy Court, at which time the Contingent Trust Interests will vest and be deemed "Equity Trust Interests." The Equity Trust Interests shall be subordinated in right and priority to Subordinated Trust Interests, and distributions on account thereof shall only be made if and when Subordinated Beneficiaries have been repaid in full on account of such Subordinated Beneficiary's Allowed Subordinated Claim, in accordance with the terms of the Plan, the Confirmation Order, and this Agreement. The Equity Trust Interests distributed to Allowed Holders of Class A Limited Partnership Interests shall be subordinated to the Equity Trust Interests distributed to Allowed Holders of Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests.

5.2 Interests Beneficial Only. The ownership of the beneficial interests in the Claimant Trust shall not entitle the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries to any title in or to the Claimant Trust Assets (which title shall be vested in the Claimant Trust) or to any right to call for a partition or division of the Claimant Trust Assets or to require an accounting. No Claimant Trust Beneficiary shall have any governance right or other right to direct Claimant Trust activities.

5.3 Transferability of Trust Interests. No transfer, assignment, pledge, hypothecation, or other disposition of a Trust Interest may be effected until (i) such action is unanimously approved by the Oversight Board, (ii) the Claimant Trustee and Oversight Board have received such legal advice or other information that they, in their sole and absolute discretion, deem necessary to assure that any such disposition shall not cause the Claimant Trust to be subject to entity-level taxation for U.S. federal income tax purposes, and (iii) either (x) the Claimant Trustee and Oversight Board, acting unanimously, have received such legal advice or other information that they, in their sole and absolute discretion, deem necessary or appropriate to assure that any such disposition shall not (a) require the Claimant Trust to comply with the registration and/or reporting requirements of the Securities Act, the Exchange Act, the TIA, or the Investment Company Act or (b) cause any adverse effect under the Investment Advisers Act, or (y) the Oversight Board, acting unanimously, has determined, in its sole and absolute discretion, to cause the Claimant Trust to become a public reporting company and/or make periodic reports under the Exchange Act (provided that it is not required to register under the Investment Company Act or register its securities under the Securities Act) to enable such disposition to be made. In the event that any such disposition is allowed, the Oversight Board and the Claimant Trustee may add such restrictions upon such disposition and other terms of this Agreement as are deemed necessary or appropriate by the Claimant Trustee, with the advice of counsel, to permit or facilitate such disposition under applicable securities and other laws.

5.4 Registry of Trust Interests.

(a) Registrar. The Claimant Trustee shall appoint a registrar, which may be the Claimant Trustee (the "Registrar"), for the purpose of recording ownership of the Trust Interests as provided herein. The Claimant Trustee shall cause to be kept at the office of the Registrar, or at such other place or places as shall be designated by the Registrar from time to time, a registry of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and the Equity Holders (the "Trust Register"), which shall be maintained pursuant to such reasonable regulations as the Claimant Trustee and the Registrar may prescribe.

(c) Access to Register by Beneficiaries. The Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and their duly authorized representatives shall have the right, upon reasonable prior written notice to the Claimant Trustee, and in accordance with reasonable regulations prescribed by the Claimant Trustee, to inspect and, at the expense of the Claimant Trust Beneficiary make copies of the Trust Register, in each case for a purpose reasonable and related to such Claimant Trust Beneficiary's Trust Interest.

5.5 Exemption from Registration. The Parties hereto intend that the rights of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries arising under this Claimant Trust shall not be "securities" under applicable laws, but none of the Parties represent or warrant that such rights shall not be securities or shall not be entitled to exemption from registration under the applicable securities laws. The Oversight Board, acting unanimously, and Claimant Trustee may amend this Agreement in accordance with Article IX hereof to make such changes as are deemed necessary or appropriate with the advice of counsel, to ensure that the Claimant Trust is not subject to registration and/or reporting requirements of the Securities Act, the Exchange Act, the TIA, or the Investment Company Act. The Trust Interests shall not have consent or voting rights or otherwise confer on the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries any rights similar to the rights of a shareholder of a corporation in respect of any actions taken or to be taken, or decisions made or to be made, by the Oversight Board and/or the Claimant Trustee under this Agreement.

5.6 Absolute Owners. The Claimant Trustee may deem and treat the Claimant Trust Beneficiary of record as determined pursuant to this Article 5 as the absolute owner of such Trust Interests for the purpose of receiving distributions and payment thereon or on account thereof and for all other purposes whatsoever.

5.7 Effect of Death, Incapacity, or Bankruptcy. The death, incapacity, or bankruptcy of any Claimant Trust Beneficiary during the term of the Claimant Trust shall not (i) entitle the representatives or creditors of the deceased Beneficiary to any additional rights under this Agreement, or (ii) otherwise affect the rights and obligations of any of other Claimant Trust Beneficiary under this Agreement.

5.8 Change of Address. Any Claimant Trust Beneficiary may, after the Effective Date, select an alternative distribution address by providing notice to the Claimant Trustee identifying such alternative distribution address. Such notification shall be effective only upon receipt by the Claimant Trustee. Absent actual receipt of such notice by the Claimant Trustee, the Claimant Trustee shall not recognize any such change of distribution address.

5.9 Standing. No Claimant Trust Beneficiary shall have standing to direct the Claimant Trustee to do or not to do any act or to institute any action or proceeding at law or in equity against any party upon or with respect to the Claimant Trust Assets. No Claimant Trust Beneficiary shall have any direct interest in or to any of the Claimant Trust Assets.

5.10 Limitations on Rights of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

(a) The Claimant Trust Beneficiaries shall have no rights other than those set forth in this Agreement, the Confirmation Order, or the Plan (including any Plan Supplement documents incorporated therein).

(b) In any action taken by a Claimant Trust Beneficiary against the Claimant Trust, a current or former Trustee, or a current or former Member, in their capacity as such, the prevailing party will be entitled to reimbursement of attorneys' fees and other costs; provided, however, that any fees and costs shall be borne by the Claimant Trust on behalf of any such Trustee or Member, as set forth herein.

(c) A Claimant Trust Beneficiary who brings any action against the Claimant Trust, a current or former Trustee, or a current or former Member, in their capacity as such, may be required by order of the Bankruptcy Court to post a bond ensuring that the full costs of a legal defense can be reimbursed. A request for such bond can be made by the Claimant Trust or by Claimant Trust Beneficiaries constituting in the aggregate at least 50% of the most senior class of Claimant Trust Interests.

(d) Any action brought by a Claimant Trust Beneficiary must be brought in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas. Claimant Trust Beneficiaries are deemed to have waived any right to a trial by jury

(e) The rights of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries to bring any action against the Claimant Trust, a current or former Trustee, or current or former Member, in their capacity as such, shall not survive the final distribution by the Claimant Trust.

ARTICLE VI.
DISTRIBUTIONS

6.1 Distributions.

(a) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, the Claimant Trustee shall distribute to holders of Trust Interests at least annually the Cash on hand net of any amounts that (a) are reasonably necessary to maintain the value of the Claimant Trust Assets pending their monetization or other disposition during the term of the Claimant Trust, (b) are necessary to pay or reserve for reasonably incurred or anticipated Claimant Trust Expenses and any other expenses incurred by the Claimant Trust (including, but not limited to, any taxes imposed on or payable by the Claimant Trustee with respect to the Claimant Trust Assets), (c) are necessary to pay or reserve for the anticipated costs and expenses of the Litigation Sub-Trust, (d) are necessary to satisfy or reserve for other liabilities incurred or anticipated by the Claimant Trustee in accordance with the Plan and this Agreement (including, but not limited to, indemnification obligations and similar expenses in such amounts and for such period of time as the Claimant Trustee determines, in good faith, may be necessary and appropriate, which determination shall not be subject to consent of the Oversight Board, may not be modified without the express written consent of the Claimant Trustee, and shall survive termination of the Claimant Trustee), (e) are necessary to maintain the Disputed Claims Reserve, and (f) are necessary to pay Allowed Claims in Class 1 through Class 7. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this paragraph, the Claimant Trustee shall exercise reasonable efforts to make initial distributions within six months of the Effective Date, and the Oversight Board may not prevent such initial distributions unless upon a unanimous vote of the Oversight Board. The Claimant Trustee may otherwise distribute all Claimant Trust Assets on behalf of the Claimant Trust in accordance with this Agreement and the Plan at such time or times as the Claimant Trustee is directed by the Oversight Board.

(b) At the request of the Reorganized Debtor, subject in all respects to the provisions of this Agreement, the Claimant Trustee shall distribute Cash to the Reorganized Debtor, as Distribution Agent with respect to Claims in Class 1 through 7, sufficient to satisfy Allowed Claims in Class 1 through Class 7.

(c) All proceeds of Claimant Trust Assets shall be distributed in accordance with the Plan and this Agreement.

6.2 Manner of Payment or Distribution. All distributions made by the Claimant Trustee on behalf of the Claimant Trust to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries shall be payable by the Claimant Trustee directly to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries of record as of the twentieth (20th) day prior to the date scheduled for the distribution, unless such day is not a Business Day, then such date or the distribution shall be the following Business Day, but such distribution shall be deemed to have been completed as of the required date.

6.3 Delivery of Distributions. All distributions under this Agreement to any Claimant Trust Beneficiary shall be made, as applicable, at the address of such Claimant Trust Beneficiary (a) as set forth on the Schedules filed with the Bankruptcy Court or (b) on the books and records of the Debtor or their agents, as applicable, unless the Claimant Trustee has been notified in writing of a change of address pursuant to Section 5.6 hereof.

6.4 Disputed Claims Reserves. There will be no distributions under this Agreement or the Plan on account of Disputed Claims pending Allowance. The Claimant Trustee will maintain a Disputed Claims Reserve as set forth in the Plan and will make distributions from the Disputed Claims Reserve as set forth in the Plan.

6.5 Undeliverable Distributions and Unclaimed Property. All undeliverable distributions and unclaimed property shall be treated in the manner set forth in the Plan.

6.6 De Minimis Distributions. Distributions with a value of less than $100 will be treated in accordance with the Plan.

6.7 United States Claimant Trustee Fees and Reports. After the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust shall pay as a Claimant Trust Expense, all fees incurred under 28 U.S.C. § 1930(a)(6) by reason of the Claimant Trust's disbursements until the Chapter 11 Case is closed. After the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust shall prepare and serve on the Office of the United States Trustee such quarterly disbursement reports for the Claimant Trust as required by the Office of the United States Trustee Office for as long as the Chapter 11 Case remains open.

ARTICLE VII. TAX MATTERS

7.1 Tax Treatment and Tax Returns.

(a) It is intended for the initial transfer of the Claimant Trust Assets to the Claimant Trust to be treated as a grantor trust for federal income tax purposes (and foreign, state, and local income tax purposes where applicable) as if the Debtor transferred the Claimant Trust Assets (other than the amounts set aside in the Disputed Claim Reserve, if the Claimant Trustee makes the election described below) to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and then, immediately thereafter, the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries transferred the Claimant Trust Assets to the Claimant Trust. Consistent with such treatment, (i) it is intended that the Claimant Trust will be treated as a grantor trust for federal income tax purposes (and foreign, state, and local income tax purposes where applicable), (ii) it is intended that the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries will be treated as the grantors of the Claimant Trust and owners of their respective share of the Claimant Trust Assets for federal income tax purposes (and foreign, state, and local income tax purposes where applicable). The Claimant Trustee shall file all federal income tax returns (and foreign, state, and local income tax returns where applicable) for the Claimant Trust as a grantor trust pursuant to Treasury Regulation Section 1.671-4(a).

(b) The Claimant Trustee shall determine the fair market value of the Claimant Trust Assets as of the Effective Date and notify the applicable Beneficiaries of such valuation, and such valuation shall be used consistently by all parties for all federal income tax purposes.

(c) The Claimant Trustee may file an election pursuant to Treasury Regulation 1.468B-9(c) to treat the Disputed Claims Reserve as a disputed ownership fund, in which case the Claimant Trustee will file federal income tax returns and pay taxes for the Disputed Claim Reserve as a separate taxable entity.

7.2 Withholding. The Claimant Trustee may withhold from any amount distributed from the Claimant Trust to any Claimant Trust Beneficiary such sum or sums as are required to be withheld under the income tax laws of the United States or of any state or political subdivision thereof. Any amounts withheld pursuant hereto shall be deemed to have been distributed to and received by the applicable Beneficiary. As a condition to receiving any distribution from the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee may require that the Beneficiary provide such holder's taxpayer identification number and such other information and certification as may be deemed necessary for the Claimant Trustee to comply with applicable tax reporting and withholding laws. If a Beneficiary fails to comply with such a request within one year, such distribution shall be deemed an unclaimed distribution and treated in accordance with Section 6.5(b) of this Agreement.

ARTICLE VIII. STANDARD OF CARE AND INDEMNIFICATION

8.1 Standard of Care. None of the Claimant Trustee, acting in his capacity as the Claimant Trustee or in any other capacity contemplated by this Agreement or the Plan, the Delaware Trustee, acting in its capacity as Delaware Trustee, the Oversight Board, or any current or any individual Member, solely in their capacity as Members of the Oversight Board, shall be personally liable to the Claimant Trust or to any Person (including any Claimant Trust Beneficiary) in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust, unless it is ultimately determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or, if the Bankruptcy Court either declines to exercise jurisdiction over such action, or cannot exercise jurisdiction over such action, such other court of competent jurisdiction that the acts or omissions of any such Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or Member constituted fraud, willful misconduct, or gross negligence. The employees, agents and professionals retained by the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or individual Member shall not be personally liable to the Claimant Trust or any other Person in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust, unless it is ultimately determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or, if the Bankruptcy Court either declines to exercise jurisdiction over such action, or cannot exercise jurisdiction over such action, such other court of competent jurisdiction that such acts or omissions by such employee, agent, or professional constituted willful fraud, willful misconduct or gross negligence. None of the Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or any Member shall be personally liable to the Claimant Trust or to any Person for the acts or omissions of any employee, agent or professional of the Claimant Trust or Claimant Trustee taken or not taken in good faith reliance on the advice of professionals or, as applicable, with the approval of the Bankruptcy Court, unless it is ultimately determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or, if the Bankruptcy Court either declines to exercise jurisdiction over such action, or cannot exercise jurisdiction over such action, such other court of competent jurisdiction that the Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or Member acted with gross negligence or willful misconduct in the selection, retention, or supervision of such employee, agent or professional of the Claimant Trust.

8.2 Indemnification. The Claimant Trustee (including each former Claimant Trustee), WTNA in its individual capacity and as Delaware Trustee, the Oversight Board, and all past and present Members (collectively, in their capacities as such, the "Indemnified Parties") shall be indemnified by the Claimant Trust against and held harmless by the Claimant Trust from any losses, claims, damages, liabilities or expenses (including, without limitation, attorneys' fees, disbursements, and related expenses) to which the Indemnified Parties may become subject in connection with any action, suit, proceeding or investigation brought or threatened against any of the Indemnified Parties in their capacity as Claimant Trustee, Delaware Trustee, Oversight Board, or Member, or in connection with any matter arising out of or related to the Plan, this Agreement, or the affairs of the Claimant Trust, unless it is ultimately determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or other court of competent jurisdiction that the Indemnified Party's acts or omissions constituted willful fraud, willful misconduct, or gross negligence. If the Indemnified Party becomes involved in any action, proceeding, or investigation in connection with any matter arising out of or in connection with the Plan, this Agreement or the affairs of the Claimant Trust for which an indemnification obligation could arise, the Indemnified Party shall promptly notify the Claimant Trustee and/or Oversight Board, as applicable; provided, however, that the failure of an Indemnified Party to promptly notify the Claimant Trustee and/or Oversight Board of an indemnification obligation will not excuse the Claimant Trust from indemnifying the Indemnified Party unless such delay has caused the Claimant Trust material harm. The Claimant Trust shall pay, advance or otherwise reimburse on demand of an Indemnified Party the Indemnified Party's reasonable legal and other defense expenses (including, without limitation, the cost of any investigation and preparation and attorney fees, disbursements, and other expenses related to any claim that has been brought or threatened to be brought) incurred in connection therewith or in connection with enforcing his or her rights under this Section 8.2 as a Claimant Trust Expense, and the Claimant Trust shall not refuse to make any payments to the Indemnified Party on the assertion that the Indemnified Party engaged in willful misconduct or acted in bad faith; provided that the Indemnified Party shall be required to repay promptly to the Claimant Trust the amount of any such advanced or reimbursed expenses paid to the Indemnified Party to the extent that it shall be ultimately determined by Final Order that the Indemnified Party engaged in willful fraud, willful misconduct, or gross negligence in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust with respect to which such expenses were paid; provided, further, that any such repayment obligation shall be unsecured and interest free. The Claimant Trust shall indemnify and hold harmless the employees, agents and professionals of the Claimant Trust and Indemnified Parties to the same extent as provided in this Section 8.2 for the Indemnified Parties. For the avoidance of doubt, the provisions of this Section 8.2 shall remain available to any former Claimant Trustee, WTNA in its individual capacity and as Delaware Trustee, or Member or the estate of any decedent Claimant Trustee or Member, solely in their capacities as such. The indemnification provided hereby shall be a Claimant Trust Expense and shall not be deemed exclusive of any other rights to which the Indemnified Party may now or in the future be entitled to under the Plan or any applicable insurance policy. The failure of the Claimant Trust to pay or reimburse an Indemnified Party as required under this Section 8.2 shall constitute irreparable harm to the Indemnified Party and such Indemnified Party shall be entitled to specific performance of the obligations herein. The terms of this Section 8.2 shall survive the termination of this Agreement and the resignation or removal of any Indemnified Party.

8.3 No Personal Liability. Except as otherwise provided herein, neither of the Trustees nor Members of the Oversight Board shall be subject to any personal liability whatsoever, whether in tort, contract, or otherwise, to any Person in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust to the fullest extent provided under Section 3803 of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act, and all Persons asserting claims against the Claimant Trustee, Litigation Trustee, or any Members, or otherwise asserting claims of any nature in connection with the affairs of the Claimant Trust, shall look solely to the Claimant Trust Assets for satisfaction of any such claims.

8.4 Other Protections. To the extent applicable and not otherwise addressed herein, the provisions and protections set forth in Article IX of the Plan will apply to the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, the Litigation Trustee, and the Members.

ARTICLE IX. TERMINATION

9.1 Duration. The Trustees, the Claimant Trust, and the Oversight Board shall be discharged or dissolved, as the case may be, at such time as: (a) the Litigation Trustee determines that the pursuit of Estate Claims is not likely to yield sufficient additional proceeds to justify further pursuit of such Estate Claims, (b) the Claimant Trustee determines that the pursuit of Causes of Action (other than Estate Claims) is not likely to yield sufficient additional proceeds to justify further pursuit of such Causes of Action, (c) the Claimant Trustee determines that the pursuit of sales of other Claimant Trust Assets is not likely to yield sufficient additional proceeds to justify further pursuit of such sales of Claimant Trust Assets, (d) all objections to Disputed Claims and Equity Interests are fully resolved, (e) the Reorganized Debtor is dissolved, and (f) all Distributions required to be made by the Claimant Trustee to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries under the Plan have been made, but in no event shall the Claimant Trust be dissolved later than three years from the Effective Date unless the Bankruptcy Court, upon motion made within the six-month period before such third anniversary (and, in the event of further extension, by order of the Bankruptcy Court, upon motion made at least six months before the end of the preceding extension), determines that a fixed period extension (not to exceed two years, together with any prior extensions) is necessary to facilitate or complete the recovery on, and liquidation of, the Claimant Trust Assets.

9.2 Distributions in Kind. Upon dissolution of the Claimant Trust, any remaining Claimant Trust Assets that exceed the amounts required to be paid under the Plan will be transferred (in the sole discretion of the Claimant Trustee) in Cash or in-kind to the Holders of the Claimant Trust Interests as provided in the Claimant Trust Agreement.

9.3 Continuance of the Claimant Trustee for Winding Up. After dissolution of the Claimant Trust and for purpose of liquidating and winding up the affairs of the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee shall continue to act as such until the Claimant Trustee's duties have been fully performed. Prior to the final distribution of all remaining Claimant Trust Assets, the Claimant Trustee shall be entitled to reserve from such assets any and all amounts required to provide for the Claimant Trustee's own costs and expenses, including a reserve to fund any potential indemnification or similar obligations of the Claimant Trust, until such time as the winding up of the Claimant Trust is completed. Upon the dissolution of the Claimant Trust and completion of the winding up of the assets, liabilities and affairs of the Claimant Trust pursuant to the Delaware Statutory Trust Act, the Claimant Trustee shall prepare, execute and file a certificate of cancellation with the State of Delaware to terminate the Claimant Trust pursuant to Section 3810 of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act (such date upon which the certificate of cancellation is filed shall be referred to as the "Termination Date"). If the Delaware Trustee's signature is required for purposes of filing such certificate of cancellation, the Claimant Trustee shall provide the Delaware

Trustee with written direction to execute such certificate of cancellation, and the Delaware Trustee shall be entitled to conclusively and exclusively rely upon such written direction without further inquiry. Upon the Termination date, the Claimant Trustee shall retain for a period of two (2) years, as a Claimant Trust Expense, the books, records, Claimant Trust Beneficiary lists, and certificated and other documents and files that have been delivered to or created by the Claimant Trustee. At the Claimant Trustee's discretion, all of such records and documents may, but need not, be destroyed at any time after two (2) years from the Termination Date.

9.4 Termination of Duties. Except as otherwise specifically provided herein, upon the Termination Date of the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, the Oversight Board and its Members shall have no further duties or obligations hereunder.

9.5 No Survival. The rights of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries hereunder shall not survive the Termination Date, provided that such Claimant Trust Beneficiaries are provided with notice of such Termination Date.

ARTICLE X. AMENDMENTS AND WAIVER

The Claimant Trustee, with the consent of a simple majority of the Oversight Board, may amend this Agreement to correct or clarify any non-material provisions. This Agreement may not otherwise be amended, supplemented, otherwise modified, or waived in any respect except by an instrument in writing signed by the Claimant Trustee and with the unanimous approval of the Oversight Board, and the approval of the Bankruptcy Court, after notice and a hearing; provided that the Claimant Trustee must provide the Oversight Board with prior written notice of any non-material amendments, supplements, modifications, or waivers of this Agreement. No amendment or waiver of this Agreement that adversely affects the Delaware Trustee shall be effective unless the Delaware Trustee has consented thereto in writing in its sole and absolute discretion.

ARTICLE XI. MISCELLANEOUS

11.1 Trust Irrevocable. Except as set forth in this Agreement, establishment of the Claimant Trust by this Agreement shall be irrevocable and shall not be subject to revocation, cancellation or rescission by the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

11.2 Bankruptcy of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. The dissolution, termination, bankruptcy, insolvency or other similar incapacity of any Claimant Trust Beneficiary shall not permit any creditor, trustee, or any other Claimant Trust Beneficiary to obtain possession of, or exercise legal or equitable remedies with respect to, the Claimant Trust Assets.

11.3 Claimant Trust Beneficiaries have No Legal Title to Claimant Trust Assets. No Claimant Trust Beneficiary shall have legal title to any part of the Claimant Trust Assets.

11.4 Agreement for Benefit of Parties Only. Nothing herein, whether expressed or implied, shall be construed to give any Person other than the Claimant Trustee, Oversight Board, and the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries any legal or equitable right, remedy or claim under or in respect of this Agreement. The Claimant Trust Assets shall be held for the sole and exclusive benefit of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

11.5 Notices. All notices, directions, instructions, confirmations, consents and requests required or permitted by the terms hereof shall, unless otherwise specifically provided herein, be in writing and shall be sent by first class mail, facsimile, overnight mail or in the case of mailing to a non-United States address, air mail, postage prepaid, addressed to:

Any provision hereof which is prohibited or unenforceable in any jurisdiction shall, as to such jurisdiction, be ineffective to the extent of such prohibition or unenforceability without invalidating the remaining provisions hereof, and any such prohibition or unenforceability in any jurisdiction shall not invalidate or render unenforceable such provisions in another jurisdiction.

11.7 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed by the parties hereto in separate counterparts, each of which when so executed and delivered shall be an original, but all such counterparts shall together constitute but one and the same instrument.

11.8 Binding Effect, etc. All covenants and agreements contained herein shall be binding upon, and inure to the benefit of, the Claimant Trust, the Claimant Trustee, and the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, and their respective successors and assigns. 11.10 Governing Law. This Agreement shall in all respects be governed by, and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Delaware, including all matters of constructions, validity and performance.

11.11 Consent to Jurisdiction. Each of the parties hereto, each Member (solely in their capacity as Members of the Oversight Board), and each Claimant Trust Beneficiary consents and submits to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court for any action or proceeding instituted for the enforcement and construction of any right, remedy, obligation, or liability arising under or by reason of this Agreement, the Plan or any act or omission of the Claimant Trustee (acting in his capacity as the Claimant Trustee or in any other capacity contemplated by this Agreement or the Plan), Litigation Trustee (acting in his capacity as the Litigation Trustee or in any other capacity contemplated by this Agreement or the Plan), the Oversight Board, or any individual Member (solely in their capacity as Members of the Oversight Board); provided, however, that if the Bankruptcy Court either declines to exercise jurisdiction over such action or cannot exercise jurisdiction over such action, such action may be brought in the state or federal courts located in the Northern District of Texas.

11.12 Transferee Liabilities. The Claimant Trust shall have no liability for, and the Claimant Trust Assets shall not be subject to, any claim arising by, through or under the Debtor except as expressly set forth in the Plan or in this Agreement. In no event shall the Claimant Trustee or the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries have any personal liability for such claims. If any liability shall be asserted against the Claimant Trust or the Claimant Trustee as the transferee of the Claimant Trust Assets on account of any claimed liability of, through or under the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trustee may use such part of the Claimant Trust Assets as may be necessary to contest any such claimed liability and to pay, compromise, settle or discharge same on terms reasonably satisfactory to the Claimant Trustee as a Claimant Trust Expense.

Highland Claimant Trust
Summarized Consolidated Balance Sheet <sup>(1)</sup>
As of May 31, 2023

Notes:

(1) This presentation is not in accordance with US GAAP and is unaudited, but has nevertheless been prepared in good faith and with the intention of providing the reader with a comprehensive understanding of the remaining assets and liabilities of the Highland Claimant Trust, Highland Capital Management, LP, HCMLP GP LLC, and Highland Litigation Trust (the "Consolidated Entities"). These entities have each been aggregated on a stand-alone basis, with intercompany amounts eliminated. Funds and entities that may otherwise be consolidated by one or more of the Consolidated Entities under US GAAP are not fully consolidated and rather are included solely at their equity value. For example, if Highland Capital Management, LP is a 20% investor in a managed fund with assets of $100 million and liabilities of zero that would normally require consolidation under US GAAP, the presentation contained herein reflects an investment of $20 million as opposed to fully consolidating the $100 million fund and reflecting minority interest of $80 million. The value of the Highland Indemnity Trust is not included herein. As of May 31, 2023, $35 million has been funded to the Highland Indemnity Trust. Highland Indemnity Trust beneficiaries are Claimant Trust Indemnified Parties. Any unused assets remaining after satisfying indemnification obligations will be transferred to the Highland Claimant Trust or otherwise be distributed to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in accordance with the Indemnity Trust Agreement. For presentation purposes, it is assumed that outstanding indemnification obligations will consume the entirety of the Highland Indemnity Trust. Further, no current recovery amount has been ascribed to the "Kirschner Adversary" as all such value is considered to be contingent, nor have any liabilities been reserved for various success fees payable to professionals associated with the Kirschner Adversary or any other litigations. Such liabilities are also contingent in nature.

(2) Amounts already authorized for distribution, but reserved in the Disputed Claims Reserve related to resolution of pending disputed claims.

(3) Value reflected herein consists primarily of ownership in private funds and subsidiaries, valued using NAV as the practical expedient, public & private investments (including residual sale escrows), valued at fair value, and SE Multifamily Holdings, LLC, valued using book equity value as of the most recent financials received. See note 6 for further information. There is substantial risk and uncertainty with respect to the timing and ultimate cash value to be received from monetizations of these investments and such value could ultimately be materially impacted by actual monetizations.

(4) Book amounts reflect principal amounts outstanding on various notes, without discount, adjustment, or estimates of future costs of collection, with two exceptions. The first exception is to the note receivable from Hunter Mountain Investment Trust for which over $90 million of principal and interest is currently due, payable, and in default. These notes are a component of the "Kirschner Adversary" which is currently stayed. These principal and interest amounts are fully reserved based on the assumption that Hunter Mountain Investment Trust has no other assets other than a contingent, unvested interest in the Highland Claimant Trust. That assumption is subject to change. The second exception relates to the note receivable from Highland Select Equity Master Fund, LP. This amount is fully reserved based on the pendency of the Ch. 7 proceeding for Highland Select Equity Master Fund, LP and the minimal remaining value of Highland Select Equity Master Fund, LP's assets, which is expected to be further consumed (at least in part) by trustee and professional fees. Aside from these exceptions, approximately $65 million of these principal amounts (further described below) are subject to ongoing litigation with various note counterparties who are contesting the validity of their obligations. These disputed amounts are contained within the "Balance per books" column herein without discount or adjustment. While the makers have asserted defenses, Highland believes they are meritless and is confident that judgments will ultimately be entered in Highland's favor. However, based on Mr. Dondero's history of failing to satisfy judgments entered against his affiliates by others (e.g., UBS, the Redeemer Committee, Joshua Terry, and Patrick Daugherty), the effect of complete non-payment of principal is reflected in the "adjustments" column, which also assumes non-payment of the currently performing $18 million note receivable from The Dugaboy Investment Trust. Ultimate recoveries from these notes could differ materially from the current principal outstanding depending on the outcome of the pending litigation and no recovery can be assured. Accrued interest is captured in the "Other assets" line item, subject to the exceptions discussed within this footnote. While there is currently a report & recommendation from the bankruptcy court for summary judgment, plus costs of collection, no costs of collection are reflected as assets on this balance sheet, so would be incremental. The estimated amount of such costs of collections are over $3 million.

Detail of note principal amounts subject to report & recommendations of the bankruptcy court, currently pending in district court (excludes accrued interest):

Note Maker	Principal O/S	Comments
NexPoint Advisors, LP	$ 25	Consists of a single note
NexPoint Real Estate Partners, LLC	12	fka HCRE Partners, LLC; five underlying notes comprise balance
NexPoint Asset Management, LP	11	fka Highland Capital Management Fund Advisors, LP; four underlying notes comprise balance
James Dondero	10	Three underlying notes comprise balance
Highland Capital Management Services, Inc.	7	Five underlying notes comprise balance
Sub-total	$ 65

(5) The book equity amount reflects a multitude of estimates including, but not limited to the value of investments and collectability of notes receivable. For book purposes, no contingent liabilities or indemnification reserves have been recorded as liabilities that would reduce book equity, notwithstanding that it is currently expected that there will be a) a need to maintain further highly material indemnification reserves; and b) further incurrence of springing contingent liabilities if distribution milestones are achieved. The amount of further incremental indemnification reserves are currently expected to exceed $90 million, and may ultimately be greater, which will be required to be funded (at least in part) prior to any further material distributions to Trust Beneficiaries. In the absence of a global settlement that, among other things, fully and finally releases all Claimant Trust Indemnified Parties, Highland believes the additional indemnification reserves are required because, among other reasons, (a) based on the so-called "Dondero exclusion," insurance is likely to remain cost-prohibitive and/or unsatisfactory, leaving the Claimant Trust and Indemnity Trust assets as the sole sources of funding for indemnity obligations, (b) approximately twenty (20) matters are being actively litigated in at least 9 different forums; and (c) based on history, new litigation can be expected. Any unused assets remaining after satisfaction of indemnity obligations will be distributed as required by the Indemnity Trust Agreement. The amount of incremental springing contingent liabilities are expected to range from $5 million to $15 million, which are exclusive of various success fees associated with recoveries under the "Kirschner Adversary" and others. No reserves have been accrued for any current, pending, or threatened litigation brought by any Dondero-related parties. Lastly, it is expected that the trust and its subsidiaries will operate at an operating loss prospectively. The corresponding information in the "adjustments" column above is an estimate of the effects of these incremental indemnification reserves and contingent liabilities, but does not assume any expected future operating cash burn, which is expected to be significant.

(6) The value of SE Multifamily Holdings LLC maintained on this balance sheet is $15.7 million, which is a component of the "Investments" line item and is based on a several years stale book-basis balance sheet. Notwithstanding Dondero-entities' previous disclosures of this interest at values of $20 million and $12 million, Highland also received interest from Dondero to acquire the interest for $3.8 million, among other assets. The purpose of this adjustment is to assume that the holding could be monetized at the lower $3.8 million level, which would result in a $11.9 million decrease to Highland's book equity if it were hypothetically transacted at that level. Highland has initiated proceedings in Delaware to receive books and records relating to SE Multifamily Holdings LLC, for which it has the contractual right and has been seeking for approximately a year, but for which Dondero-controlled entities have not provided to date.

(7) Amounts described herein represent the face amounts of outstanding allowed and pending claims. The pending claim amounts do not include amounts that are the subject of various appeals or that are unliquidated. The allowed and pending claims (along with accrued interest) could ultimately be satisfied in part or in full using 1) the assets of the disputed claims reserve, 2) the residual amount of cash in the indemnity trust after satisfying all indemnification obligations, and 3) the residual amount of cash remaining after monetizing all other non-cash assets and paying liabilities and future expenses.

The information contained in this summarized consolidated balance sheet (the "Summary") is based on estimates, and therefore should not be relied upon, as actual results may differ materially from the estimates contained herein.

This Summary is neither an offer nor a solicitation of an offer to buy or sell securities.

Information contained herein is not indicative of, nor does it guarantee, future results. The information contained in this Summary is based on matters as they exist as of the date of preparation and not as of any future date. Valuations do not reflect performance in different economic or market cycles and there can be no assurances that valuations will be achieved. Trust Beneficiaries may experience materially different results and outcomes.

Binding Bonding Agreement

This Binding Bonding Agreement (“Agreement”) is entered into by and between Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland”) and James Dondero, NexPoint Asset Management, L.P., NexPoint Advisors, L.P., NexPoint Real Estate Partners, LLC, and Highland Capital Management Services, Inc. (the “Judgment Debtors”) (along with Highland, collectively the “Parties”) with respect to judgments entered in US Dist. Court Case No. 3:21-cv-00881-X and its consolidated cause numbers (the “Judgments” in the “District Court Case”).

RECITALS

WHEREAS, as of July 31, 2023, the Judgments entered in the District Court Case on July 6, 2023, total $68,902,707.24 (“Combined Judgment Amount”), inclusive of principal, pre- and post-judgment interest, and awarded fees and expenses;

WHEREAS, Highland and the Judgment Debtors dispute the finality of certain of the Judgments;

WHEREAS, Highland may execute upon the Judgments thirty (30) days after the entry of a final Judgment, unless the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “District Court”) orders otherwise;

WHEREAS, the Judgment Debtors may stay execution of such Judgments by providing a supersedeas bond in conformance with the District Court’s rules (“Bond”) for each Judgment Debtor;

WHEREAS, the Parties seek to avoid the motion practice, expense, and harm caused by execution of the Judgments;

NOW THEREFORE, the Parties agree as follows:

AGREEMENT

1. The Parties will request the District Court to enter separate judgments (“Individual Judgment Amount”) for each Judgment Debtor against each respective Judgment Debtor as follows (which the parties agree to consolidate for the purposes of appeal). Each Judgment Debtor shall Bond in the amount of 111% of its Individual Judgment Amount (“Individual Bond Amount”) as set forth below (the Individual Bond Amounts collectively the “Combined Bond Amount”):

Party	Individual Judgment Amount	Individual Bond Amount
NexPoint Asset Management, L.P.	$3,628,692.37	$4,027,848.53

NexPoint Asset Management, L.P.	$8,441,524.65	$9,370,092.36
NexPoint Advisors, L.P.	$25,849,816.94	$28,693,296.80
NexPoint Real Estate Partners, LLC	$13,251,661.00	$14,709,343.70
Highland Capital Management Services, Inc.	$7,578,620.41	$8,412,268.66
James Dondero	$10,152,391.87	$11,269,154.90
Total	$68,902,707.24	$76,482,004.95

2. The Judgment Debtors shall Bond the Combined Bond Amount according to the following schedule (“Bonding Schedule”):

Date <sup>1</sup>	Additional Bonded Amount	Combined Bonded Amount
August 11, 2023	$30,000,000.00	$30,000,000.00
August 18, 2023	$10,000,000.00	$40,000,000.00
August 25, 2023	$10,000,000.00	$50,000,000.00
September 8, 2023	$10,000,000.00	$60,000,000.00
October 11, 2023	$16,482,004.95	$76,482,004.95

3. In substitution for posting Bond, if, and only if, the registry of the District Court is willing to accept USD$ cash in lieu of a Bond conforming with the rules of the District Court, a Judgment Debtor may post cash as security to an interest-bearing account (if the registry maintains such an account) with the Registry of the District Court (“Cash Security”). For all purposes under this Agreement, including calculation of the Combined Bonded Amount under the Bonding Schedule, a Judgment Debtor shall be credited as having posted a Bond equivalent to 111% of all amounts posted as Cash Security only if (a) the interest rate payable on such Cash Security by the registry of the District Court is equal to or greater than the 5.35% Federal Judgment Rate applicable to the Judgments (or, if less, the “Top-up Interest” is paid as described in footnote 2 below) and (b) all interest paid on the Cash Security becomes part of the Cash Security and remains in the Registry of the District Court and available to satisfy the Judgments. If the Registry of the District Court is not willing to accept a Cash Security or does not accrue and apply interest to the Cash Security as required by the immediately preceding sentence hereof, the Judgment Debtor must post the required amount in the form of a supersedeas Bond consistent with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the Local Rules for the District Court. Consistent with the foregoing,

interest generated by any acceptable USD$ cash deposit to the Registry of the District Court shall be treated as part of the Bond with respect to the right of collection after finalization of appeals.<sup>2</sup>

4. Upon posting of (a) Bond or (b) if acceptable to the Registry of the District Court, Cash Security in substitution of a Bond, the Judgment Debtors shall notify Highland in writing to counsel of record of the Judgment Debtor(s) on whose behalf such Bond or Cash Security was posted and the amount of Combined Bond Amount posted for the purposes of satisfaction of the Bonding Schedule. Except as set forth in footnote 1, failure to post the required Combined Bond Amount by the calendar date above shall constitute an event of default permitting Highland to immediately begin enforcement and collection proceedings for the unbonded amounts against each Judgment Debtor.
5. Each of the Judgment Debtors hereby represents and warrants on its own behalf that it has not since January 1, 2023, engaged in any Fraudulent Transfers. For the purposes of this Agreement, "Fraudulent Transfer" shall have its meaning as defined in 11 U.S.C. §§ 544, 548.
6. None of the Judgment Debtors shall transfer any of its assets with a value of over $100,000 in one or a series of related transactions (an "Asset Transfer"), without providing five days (5) written notice to Highland (the "Notice") except that Notice is not required for (i) ordinary and customary payments to vendors, employees, contractors, or consultants, including for any bonuses that are already scheduled in the current compensation schedule, all consistent with recent past practice; (ii) payments made pursuant to the terms of a contract executed and effective prior to January 1, 2023 (payments under paragraph 6(i) and (ii) are referred to as "Ordinary Course Payments"), or (iii) transfers and transactions made for the purpose of bonding the Judgments. Notwithstanding the foregoing, other than with respect to Ordinary Course Payments being made pursuant to already existing written agreements, the Judgment Debtors shall provide Notice to Highland of all contemplated Asset Transfers between or among any Judgment Debtor, on the one hand, and any of Mr. Dondero or Scott Ellington or either of their immediate families or either of their affiliated entities (including Highgate Consulting Group, Inc., d/b/a Skyview Group ("Skyview")), on the other (any such contemplated Asset Transfer, an "Insider Transaction"). For the avoidance of doubt, items such as contractual payments to Skyview and its employees, scheduled bonus amounts, and medical reimbursements are not required to be disclosed to Highland so long as they otherwise constitute Ordinary Course Payments. While Notice of all other Insider Transactions is required, the Parties do not intend to restrict Asset

<sup>2</sup> As set forth above, the interest rate for by the deposit of Cash Security must be equal to or greater than the 5.35% statutory post-judgment interest rate applicable to the Judgments. In the event that the Cash Security interest rate available at the Registry of the District Court is less than the statutory 5.35% post-judgment interest rate applicable to the Judgments, each the Judgment Debtor shall post additional Cash Security or post additional Bond in the amount of the dollar difference between the Cash Security interest rate payable at the Registry of the District Court (as applied to the Judgments) and the 5.35% post-judgment statutory interest rate applicable to the Judgments ("Top-Up Interest"). Top-Up Interest must be deposited with the Registry of the District Court and added to the Cash Security on the first business day of each month. Failure to timely deposit Top-Up Interest shall be an event of default hereunder permitting Highland to immediately begin enforcement and collection proceedings for the unbonded amounts against each Judgment Debtor.

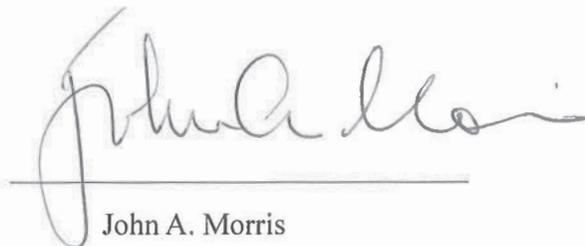

Transfers made as Ordinary Course Payments. The provisions of this Paragraph 6 shall expire (a) for each Judgment Debtor upon the posting of a Bond or Cash Security for its Individual Bond Amount or (b) upon the complete satisfaction of the Bonding Schedule. If Highland objects in writing to any Asset Transfer or Insider Transaction, the proposed transaction(s) may only be pursued if Highland has not moved on shortened notice and as expedited a basis as the District Court will accommodate for injunctive or other relief within 5 days of written notice of a Judgment Debtor's objection to Highland's objection (the Parties all hereby consent to having a motion under this provision heard on shortened notice or on an emergency basis), and such period has not been extended pursuant to a written agreement between the parties or by the Court upon good cause shown.

7. Prior to completion of the Bonding Schedule, and promptly following execution of this Agreement and entry of an order of the District Court approving this Agreement (and in any event on or before August 11, 2023), the Judgment Debtors shall grant (or cause to be granted) to Highland properly perfected, first-priority security interests (the "Liens") in collateral collectively up to the amount of $76.4 million ("Interim Collateral"). To the extent the Liens are perfected through the filing of a UCC-1, the Liens will be recorded with UCC-1 filings in Dallas County, Texas, and in the state of incorporation/formation of the debtor listed in the applicable UCC-1. Each Lien shall be released with respect to each Judgment Debtor as each Judgment Debtor posts a Bond or Cash Security equal to its Individual Bond Amount in accordance with this Agreement as follows: upon approval by the District Court of any Bond or Cash Security equal to an Individual Bond Amount, Highland shall release its lien and security interest on Interim Collateral in the amount of such Bond or Cash Security with respect to the asset of the particular Judgment Debtor posting such Bond or Cash Security.
8. So long as the Judgment Debtors are in strict compliance with the Bonding Schedule (time being of the essence), and paragraphs 6 and 7 concerning Interim Collateral, Highland shall take no action to execute upon the Judgments.
9. Upon execution of this Agreement, the Parties agree that they shall immediately submit this Agreement to the District Court as a stipulation to be entered on the District Court Case docket and approved by the Court.

REMOTE DEPOSITION OF
JAMES SEERY

MONDAY, DECEMBER 14, 2020

REPORTED BY:
KIM A. MCCANN, RMR, CRR, CSR

JAMES SEERY - 12/14/2020

1 inquiry. I think that, depending on the asset,
2 you could think of a myriad of ways to sell it.
3 Some you'd go out and do a highly public
4 marketing process. Some you would do much more
5 quietly. It really depends on the business that 6 it's in. It depends on the kinds of contracts
7 it's in; depends on the customers it's in;
8 depends on the fragility of the business or the 9 strength of the business.

11 Q. Well, you were aware of, were you
12 not, that Mr. Dondero had an interest in 13 purchasing SSP?

14 A. I was not aware Mr. Dondero had an 15 interest in purchasing SSP.

16 Q. Were you told at any time that the 17 SSP transaction would be something that 18 Mr. Dondero would have an interest in?

19 A. That he would have an interest in the 20 transaction? I'm sure he would have an interest
21 in the transaction as evidenced by -- let me
22 finish -- as evidenced by this litigation. He 23 has an interest in sticking his fingers in 24 virtually everything but not providing any value.
25 That's pretty consistent.

1 JAMES SEERY - 12/14/2020

2 C E R T I F I C A T E

3 I, Kim A. McCann, RMR, CRR, CSR in and 4 for the State of Texas, do hereby certify:

5 That JAMES SEERY, the witness whose
6 deposition is hereinbefore set forth, was duly
7 sworn by me and that such deposition is a true
8 record of the testimony given by such witness;

9 That pursuant to FRCP Rule 30,
10 signature of the witness was not requested by the 11 witness or other party before the conclusion of 12 the deposition;

13 I further certify that I am not related 14 to any of the parties to this action by blood or 15 marriage; and that I am in no way interested in 16 the outcome of this matter.

17 IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto
18 set my hand this December 14, 2020.

1 reached a transaction agreement with Stonelake. We thought
2 that that was in the best interests of the estate. We liked
3 the terms. And then we subsequently got, again, an over-the-
4 transom bid that it struck us as odd because we didn't show it
5 to any Dondero entities. It was not shown out by brokers.
6 And we did that specifically to avoid any litigation. So how 7 it was -- we're still investigating, but how someone
8 determined that we had sold it and showed up $70,000 more,
9 very odd numbers, we are -- we are looking at.

10 But we determined that with respect to the Maple Avenue
11 property, we needed to get it closed, a quick sale, with a 12 counterparty that we were confident would perform, and we do
13 not want any litigation related to that sale or that property.
14 It's not a giant piece of property. It's not a huge interest
15 the Debtor has. Net, it will be around $5 million. But we 16 wanted to make sure that we had a clean, fast transaction.
17 And based upon our dealings with the Dondero entities, we 18 didn't think we could possibly have that.

19 In addition, as Mr. Pomerantz mentioned earlier, as I
20 pointed out, this property has been owned by Highland for 15
21 years. Up through the filing of the case and the imposition
22 of the independent board, Mr. Dondero controlled it. There's 23 nothing that goes on at the property other than Uchi pays the 24 rent. It's triple net. There's nothing that anybody who'd
25 operated and owned this property for 15 years, in my opinion,

2 And, again, read my last paragraph. I can understand
3 getting bored reading that thing, but please read the last 4 paragraph to know that it's going to get worse if we have 5 another one of these hearings and I do find contempt.

6 So, all right. Well, we will see you all I guess on the 7 19th is my next -- I think that's where we have our next
8 hearing.

Amazon on Thursday said it had closed its $8.5 billion deal to buy MGM, combining the fabled movie maker behind “Rocky” and “James Bond” with the online retailing giant as it looks to draw consumers through more streaming video.

In a statement, Amazon said it would welcome all MGM employees to the company and work with the studio’s leadership, indicating there would not be layoffs. Its decision to close comes after a deadline passed for the U.S. Federal Trade Commission to challenge the deal.

The Seattle-based retailer announced the transaction in May 2021, saying MGM offered a trove of content to draw consumers to its fast-shipping and streaming club Prime, which costs $14.99 per month in the United States.

Nearly a year later, Amazon is clear of regulatory hurdles. The European Commission approved the deal Tuesday, with no conditions. Likewise, Amazon earlier informed the FTC that it had “substantially complied” with requests for information about the deal.

The FTC declined comment.

A leader in home-delivered medical supplies for individuals living with chronic conditions, CCS is expanding its patient education, monitoring, and coaching services to unify the patient experience

DALLAS, Aug. 10, 2022 /PRNewswire/ -- CCS, which now includes CCS Medical and CCS Health, has announced an expansion of its business. The company – a leading provider of home-delivered medical supplies for those living with diabetes or other chronic conditions – will be expanding the education, monitoring, and coaching services it offers to create a more collaborative approach to care. This new model incorporates the delivery of products with access to accredited clinicians supported by proprietary data and technology to simplify the patient experience. In addition, CCS has created a new strategic advisory board and added three new advisory board members to help redefine chronic care management at home.

CCS supports more than 200,000 patients living with chronic conditions in the United States and delivers more than 1.2 million shipments of medical supplies to patients in their own homes. Through its Health and Medical units, CCS works with more than 400 employers and more than 1,800 managed care plans nationally to offer a more hands-on, educational approach to supporting their population of patients with diabetes. After over a quarter of a century delivering medical supplies and more than a decade providing chronic care management services for individuals living with diabetes, CCS has the experience, data, and patient and provider relationships in place to create a new era of patient-driven, proactive chronic care management.

CCS now has two main divisions. First, CCS Health couples high-touch, human engagement with technology to assist patients with education and coaching on disease management and product adoption. Second, CCS Medical offers the most advanced technology and trusted brand names in continuous glucose monitoring and insulin pump therapy, along with the other medical product and device needs of the patient.

With CCS as their partner, patients are more likely to get on therapy and stay on therapy, improving patient outcomes and reducing costs. For example, CCS tracked an average drop of 1.15 points in patient A1C values for a large national health plan as part of CCS's LivingLinked™ offering, which is a clinical education program. Also, CCS's diabetes clinical care management program, called LivingConnected®, with a large employer group yielded a cost reduction of 45% for those enrolled vs. not enrolled.

"The LivingConnected program through CCS has increased adherence to the diabetes standards of care, improving the health of our employees and their spouses with diabetes, while generating substantial savings for program participants," said Heather Hormel, Senior

"The number of people being diagnosed with diabetes in the United States has been on the rise and is expected to continue to accelerate – and the pandemic has only made things worse," said Tony Vahedian, CEO of CCS. "It's clear how we have historically provided care to patients with diabetes needs to evolve. That's why we made the decision to accelerate updates to our own business model. These changes will enable our team to surround patients with the tools, resources, and support they need to manage their own care in a simpler way."

As part of the company's expansion, CCS kicked off a new Strategic Advisory Board to help integrate additional trusted clinical and technological leadership guidance as part of this business transition. The distinguished experts in their field who comprise the CCS Strategic Advisory Board include:

- Francine Kaufman, MD – Distinguished Professor Emerita of Pediatrics at the Keck School of Medicine of the University of Southern California and Children's Hospital Los Angeles. Francine is also a practicing endocrinologist, as well as the former president of the American Diabetes Association.
- Christos M. Cotsakos, Ph.D. – Founder, chairman, and CEO of Pennington Ventures, a digital transformation, financial, and strategic management firm. He is the former chairman and CEO of E*TRADE and took the company public in 1996 as one of a handful of internet entrepreneurs and pioneers. He also served as global co-CEO of AC Nielsen and co-founded ArrowPath Venture Capital. Christos has held senior strategic roles at the intersection of healthcare and technology for more than 25 years.
- Jean-Claude Saghbini – Chief Technology Officer at Lumeris. With decades of technology leadership experience, he has held leadership positions at a wide array of healthcare companies, including Wolters Kluwer Health and Cardinal Health.

"Considering the majority of people with newly diagnosed diabetes do not receive adequate care management education and training in the first year, it's no surprise that the healthcare industry and employers continue to grapple with less than optimal adherence and outcomes with this population of patients," said Dr. Kaufman. Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”), by and through its undersigned counsel, submits this Memorandum of Law<sup>1</sup> in support of its motion (the “Motion”) to deem the above-captioned defendants, their affiliated entities, and any person or entity controlled by or acting in concert with James Dondero (collectively, the “Dondero Entities”)<sup>2</sup> vexatious litigants and for related relief. In support of the Motion, HCMLP states as follows:

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT<sup>3</sup>

1. The Dondero Entities—all of which are dominated and controlled by or acting in concert with Dondero, HCMLP’s co-founder and ousted Chief Executive Officer—are engaged in a coordinated litigation strategy spanning nearly three years to wear down HCMLP and its management and undermine HCMLP’s confirmed Plan. The Dondero Entities have clogged the dockets of this Court, the Bankruptcy Court, and the Fifth Circuit and have wasted untold judicial and estate resources. Accordingly, HCMLP asks this Court to (a) declare the Dondero Entities vexatious, (b) enjoin them from commencing or pursuing any claim or cause of action in this Court or the Bankruptcy Court against any “Covered Party” without this Court’s written permission, and (c) require that they file a copy of this Court’s order finding them vexatious in any pending or future litigation or proceeding.

2. Dondero’s “strategy” is not new; he has used litigation as a weapon to harass and exact revenge against his perceived enemies for years. Prior to its 2019 bankruptcy, Dondero fostered a culture of scorched-earth, vindictive litigation at HCMLP, suing anyone who challenged him or refused to cave to his demands. That culture spawned litigation in courts and arbitration panels in Texas, Delaware, New York, and foreign jurisdictions like the Cayman Islands, Bermuda, and Guernsey lasting more than a decade.

3. But Dondero’s litigation “strategy” caught up with him. A series of adverse rulings forced HCMLP to file bankruptcy in October 2019. HCMLP’s unsecured creditors Committee was comprised largely of litigation claimants who were intimately familiar with Dondero’s tactics. The Committee immediately sought to remove Dondero from control of HCMLP. To avoid appointment of a chapter 11 trustee, HCMLP, Dondero, and the Committee entered into a settlement in January 2020, which removed Dondero and appointed an Independent Board to manage and oversee HCMLP’s bankruptcy.

4. In late 2020, after the Committee rejected Dondero’s settlement offers as inadequate—thus blocking Dondero’s efforts to regain control of HCMLP—he vowed to “burn down the place” unless they capitulated to his demands. Thereafter, directly and through the Dondero Entities, he began interfering with the management of the estate, threatening HCMLP employees, challenging nearly every action taken to further HCMLP’s reorganization, commencing new (and frivolous) litigation against HCMLP and its management both inside and outside of the Bankruptcy Court, violating Bankruptcy Court orders, filing multiple motions to recuse, and appealing nearly everything resulting in nearly 30 total appeals.<sup>4</sup>

<sup>4</sup> With a few narrow exceptions, these appeals have been rejected and reviewing courts have sometimes been blunt in their characterization. For example, this Court expressed its belief that Dondero’s arguments were intended to “bamboozle” (see ¶ 27 infra), and the Fifth Circuit described the Dondero Entities’ collective objections to confirmation as “blunderbuss” (see ¶ 17 infra).

vii The Pending Actions Prove the Need for Additional Sanctions

29. On February 6, 2023, certain of the Dondero Entities filed a motion for leave to file a complaint against HCMLP seeking information about HCMLP’s current assets, the results of its asset sales, and the amounts distributed to creditors.<sup>116</sup> While HCMLP objected to certain of the allegations, it acknowledged that—based on the relief sought—the Gatekeeper was not implicated. The Dondero Entities then filed their action as an adversary proceeding which will likely be dismissed as a matter of law.<sup>117</sup>

30. Separately, in March 2023, HMIT sought leave to sue HCMLP for allegedly breaching its fiduciary and other obligations to HMIT—a prepetition equity holder.<sup>118</sup> The Bankruptcy Court held an evidentiary hearing on June 8, 2023, and HCMLP believes HMIT’s motion for leave will be denied. However, HMIT’s putative complaint is emblematic of the Dondero Entities’ unceasing litigation—largely (a) restating the litany of false statements in their letters to the UST about alleged insider trading and (b) seeking to create standing so the Dondero Entities can re-litigate settled issues (e.g., the HarbourVest settlement).

<sup>114</sup> Ex. 80, Appx. 2840. HMIT cited the DAF’s TSSB complaint to support its allegation that its alleged claims against HCMLP regarding insider trading were “colorable” and should pass through the Gatekeeper. B.D.I. 3699 ¶ 37 (The TSSB “opened in investigation into the subject matter of the insider trades at issue” and the “continuing nature of this investigation underscores HMIT’s position that the claims described in [HMIT’s complaint] are plausible and certainly far more than ‘colorable.’”).

<sup>115</sup> Ex. 78, Appx. 2295-2296 (The TSSB “has completed its review of the complaint ... against [HCMLP]. The issues raised in the complaint and information provided to our Agency were given full consideration, and a decision was made that no further regulatory action is warranted at this time.”)

EXHIBIT A

Binding Bonding Agreement

This Binding Bonding Agreement (“Agreement”) is entered into by and between Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland”) and James Dondero, NexPoint Asset Management, L.P., NexPoint Advisors, L.P., NexPoint Real Estate Partners, LLC, and Highland Capital Management Services, Inc. (the “Judgment Debtors”) (along with Highland, collectively the “Parties”) with respect to judgments entered in US Dist. Court Case No. 3:21-cv-00881-X and its consolidated cause numbers (the “Judgments” in the “District Court Case”).

RECITALS

WHEREAS, as of July 31, 2023, the Judgments entered in the District Court Case on July 6, 2023, total $68,902,707.24 (“Combined Judgment Amount”), inclusive of principal, pre- and post-judgment interest, and awarded fees and expenses;

WHEREAS, Highland and the Judgment Debtors dispute the finality of certain of the Judgments;

WHEREAS, Highland may execute upon the Judgments thirty (30) days after the entry of a final Judgment, unless the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “District Court”) orders otherwise;

WHEREAS, the Judgment Debtors may stay execution of such Judgments by providing a supersedeas bond in conformance with the District Court’s rules (“Bond”) for each Judgment Debtor;

WHEREAS, the Parties seek to avoid the motion practice, expense, and harm caused by execution of the Judgments;

NOW THEREFORE, the Parties agree as follows:

AGREEMENT

1. The Parties will request the District Court to enter separate judgments (“Individual Judgment Amount”) for each Judgment Debtor against each respective Judgment Debtor as follows (which the parties agree to consolidate for the purposes of appeal). Each Judgment Debtor shall Bond in the amount of 111% of its Individual Judgment Amount (“Individual Bond Amount”) as set forth below (the Individual Bond Amounts collectively the “Combined Bond Amount”):

NexPoint Asset Management, L.P.	$3,628,692.37	$4,027,848.53

NexPoint Asset Management, L.P.	$8,441,524.65	$9,370,092.36
NexPoint Advisors, L.P.	$25,849,816.94	$28,693,296.80
NexPoint Real Estate Partners, LLC	$13,251,661.00	$14,709,343.70
Highland Capital Management Services, Inc.	$7,578,620.41	$8,412,268.66
James Dondero	$10,152,391.87	$11,269,154.90
Total	$68,902,707.24	$76,482,004.95

2. The Judgment Debtors shall Bond the Combined Bond Amount according to the following schedule (“Bonding Schedule”):

Date <sup>1</sup>	Additional Bonded Amount	Combined Bonded Amount
August 11, 2023	$30,000,000.00	$30,000,000.00
August 18, 2023	$10,000,000.00	$40,000,000.00
August 25, 2023	$10,000,000.00	$50,000,000.00
September 8, 2023	$10,000,000.00	$60,000,000.00
October 11, 2023	$16,482,004.95	$76,482,004.95

3. In substitution for posting Bond, if, and only if, the registry of the District Court is willing to accept USD$ cash in lieu of a Bond conforming with the rules of the District Court, a Judgment Debtor may post cash as security to an interest-bearing account (if the registry maintains such an account) with the Registry of the District Court (“Cash Security”). For all purposes under this Agreement, including calculation of the Combined Bonded Amount under the Bonding Schedule, a Judgment Debtor shall be credited as having posted a Bond equivalent to 111% of all amounts posted as Cash Security only if (a) the interest rate payable on such Cash Security by the registry of the District Court is equal to or greater than the 5.35% Federal Judgment Rate applicable to the Judgments (or, if less, the “Top-up Interest” is paid as described in footnote 2 below) and (b) all interest paid on the Cash Security becomes part of the Cash Security and remains in the Registry of the District Court and available to satisfy the Judgments. If the Registry of the District Court is not willing to accept a Cash Security or does not accrue and apply interest to the Cash Security as required by the immediately preceding sentence hereof, the Judgment Debtor must post the required amount in the form of a supersedeas Bond consistent with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and the Local Rules for the District Court. Consistent with the foregoing,

4. Upon posting of (a) Bond or (b) if acceptable to the Registry of the District Court, Cash Security in substitution of a Bond, the Judgment Debtors shall notify Highland in writing to counsel of record of the Judgment Debtor(s) on whose behalf such Bond or Cash Security was posted and the amount of Combined Bond Amount posted for the purposes of satisfaction of the Bonding Schedule. Except as set forth in footnote 1, failure to post the required Combined Bond Amount by the calendar date above shall constitute an event of default permitting Highland to immediately begin enforcement and collection proceedings for the unbonded amounts against each Judgment Debtor.
5. Each of the Judgment Debtors hereby represents and warrants on its own behalf that it has not since January 1, 2023, engaged in any Fraudulent Transfers. For the purposes of this Agreement, "Fraudulent Transfer" shall have its meaning as defined in 11 U.S.C. §§ 544, 548.
6. None of the Judgment Debtors shall transfer any of its assets with a value of over $100,000 in one or a series of related transactions (an "Asset Transfer"), without providing five days (5) written notice to Highland (the "Notice") except that Notice is not required for (i) ordinary and customary payments to vendors, employees, contractors, or consultants, including for any bonuses that are already scheduled in the current compensation schedule, all consistent with recent past practice; (ii) payments made pursuant to the terms of a contract executed and effective prior to January 1, 2023 (payments under paragraph 6(i) and (ii) are referred to as "Ordinary Course Payments"), or (iii) transfers and transactions made for the purpose of bonding the Judgments. Notwithstanding the foregoing, other than with respect to Ordinary Course Payments being made pursuant to already existing written agreements, the Judgment Debtors shall provide Notice to Highland of all contemplated Asset Transfers between or among any Judgment Debtor, on the one hand, and any of Mr. Dondero or Scott Ellington or either of their immediate families or either of their affiliated entities (including Highgate Consulting Group, Inc., d/b/a Skyview Group ("Skyview")), on the other (any such contemplated Asset Transfer, an "Insider Transaction"). For the avoidance of doubt, items such as contractual payments to Skyview and its employees, scheduled bonus amounts, and medical reimbursements are not required to be disclosed to Highland so long as they otherwise constitute Ordinary Course Payments. While Notice of all other Insider Transactions is required, the Parties do not intend to restrict Asset

<sup>2</sup> As set forth above, the interest rate for by the deposit of Cash Security must be equal to or greater than the 5.35% statutory post-judgment interest rate applicable to the Judgments. In the event that the Cash Security interest rate available at the Registry of the District Court is less than the statutory 5.35% post-judgment interest rate applicable to the Judgments, each the Judgment Debtor shall post additional Cash Security or post additional Bond in the amount of the dollar difference between the Cash Security interest rate payable at the Registry of the District Court (as applied to the Judgments) and the 5.35% post-judgment statutory interest rate applicable to the Judgments ("Top-Up Interest"). Top-Up Interest must be deposited with the Registry of the District Court and added to the Cash Security on the first business day of each month. Failure to timely deposit Top-Up Interest shall be an event of default hereunder permitting Highland to immediately begin enforcement and collection proceedings for the unbonded amounts against each Judgment Debtor.

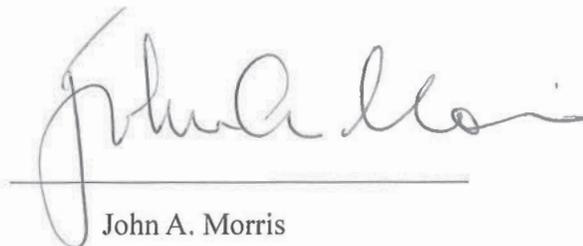

Transfers made as Ordinary Course Payments. The provisions of this Paragraph 6 shall expire (a) for each Judgment Debtor upon the posting of a Bond or Cash Security for its Individual Bond Amount or (b) upon the complete satisfaction of the Bonding Schedule. If Highland objects in writing to any Asset Transfer or Insider Transaction, the proposed transaction(s) may only be pursued if Highland has not moved on shortened notice and as expedited a basis as the District Court will accommodate for injunctive or other relief within 5 days of written notice of a Judgment Debtor's objection to Highland's objection (the Parties all hereby consent to having a motion under this provision heard on shortened notice or on an emergency basis), and such period has not been extended pursuant to a written agreement between the parties or by the Court upon good cause shown.

7. Prior to completion of the Bonding Schedule, and promptly following execution of this Agreement and entry of an order of the District Court approving this Agreement (and in any event on or before August 11, 2023), the Judgment Debtors shall grant (or cause to be granted) to Highland properly perfected, first-priority security interests (the "Liens") in collateral collectively up to the amount of $76.4 million ("Interim Collateral"). To the extent the Liens are perfected through the filing of a UCC-1, the Liens will be recorded with UCC-1 filings in Dallas County, Texas, and in the state of incorporation/formation of the debtor listed in the applicable UCC-1. Each Lien shall be released with respect to each Judgment Debtor as each Judgment Debtor posts a Bond or Cash Security equal to its Individual Bond Amount in accordance with this Agreement as follows: upon approval by the District Court of any Bond or Cash Security equal to an Individual Bond Amount, Highland shall release its lien and security interest on Interim Collateral in the amount of such Bond or Cash Security with respect to the asset of the particular Judgment Debtor posting such Bond or Cash Security.
8. So long as the Judgment Debtors are in strict compliance with the Bonding Schedule (time being of the essence), and paragraphs 6 and 7 concerning Interim Collateral, Highland shall take no action to execute upon the Judgments.
9. Upon execution of this Agreement, the Parties agree that they shall immediately submit this Agreement to the District Court as a stipulation to be entered on the District Court Case docket and approved by the Court.

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland” or the “Debtor,” as applicable), and the Highland Claimant Trust (the “Claimant Trust,” and together with Highland, the “Highland Parties”), the defendants in the above-captioned adversary proceeding, hereby submit this memorandum of law in support of their Motion to Dismiss Complaint to (I) Compel Disclosures About the Assets of the Highland Claimant Trust and (II) Determine (A) Relative Value of Those Assets, and (B) Nature of Plaintiffs’ Interest in the Claimant Trust (the “Motion”) seeking to dismiss the above-captioned action (the “Action”).

1. The Complaint should be dismissed in its entirety. Pursuant to Rule 12(b)(1), this Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over the Action because the Claims are either moot or seek impermissible advisory opinions. Even if the Court had jurisdiction (and it does not), the Claims should be dismissed under Rule 12(b)(6) because they fail to state claims as a matter of law.

2. Under the express terms of the CTA and the Plan, holders of Contingent Trust Interests are not “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries” and have no rights, including information rights, unless and until their contingent, inchoate interests vest. Despite holding only unvested Contingent Trust Interests with no rights in the Claimant Trust, Plaintiffs stubbornly seek “financial information” regarding the Claimant Trust Assets and specifically request: (a) an accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets, (b) a determination as to the value of those assets compared to liabilities, and (c) a determination whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “will vest.”

3. Count One, which seeks an accounting of the assets and liabilities of the Claimant Trust, has been rendered moot by the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet filed in July 2023 and other publicly-available information, which discloses the very information demanded. The relief sought in Count Three, namely, a determination as to whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests are “likely to vest,” is moot, seeks an impermissible advisory opinion, and is barred by collateral estoppel. In September 2023, four months after the Complaint was filed, this Court found that whether the Contingent Trust Interests might someday vest is dependent on a multitude of unknown and unknowable factors, for example, the amount of senior indemnification expenses that must be reserved for and ultimately paid by the Claimant Trust. Based, in part on those unknown senior expenses, this Court determined that the Contingent Trust Interests were “not in the money.” This Court lacks jurisdiction to render an opinion on Count Three and, to the extent that it could, it already has and Plaintiffs are collaterally estopped from re-litigating this issue. For the same reasons, there is no declaratory relief available to Plaintiffs that has not already been addressed in the Court’s prior ruling.

4. Even if the Court had subject matter jurisdiction over the Claims, the Complaint fails as a matter of law under Rule 12(b)(6). Plaintiffs’ equitable claim (Count One) is foreclosed by the plain and unambiguous terms of the CTA, the Plan, and this Court’s prior orders. Plaintiffs, as holders of Contingent Trust Interests, have no rights—including information rights—under the CTA. Under the circumstances, equity cannot abrogate the terms of that agreement or be used to create non-existent rights or extra-contractual duties, such as those relating to the disclosure of financial information or an accounting. This is especially so when Plaintiffs and their affiliates have unclean hands as vexatious adversaries to the entity against who they claim to seek equity.<sup>3</sup> Plaintiffs’ claims for declaratory relief (Counts Two and Three) also fail as a matter of law because there is no cognizable underlying claim. For the reasons herein and discussed further below, the Complaint should be dismissed.

II. RELEVANT BACKGROUND

A. The Bankruptcy Case

5. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), Highland filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code (the “Bankruptcy Case”). As of the Petition Date, Highland had three classes of limited partnership interests (Class A, Class B, and Class C). See Disclosure Statement [Docket No. 1473], ¶ F(4). The Class A interests were held by The Dugaboy Investment Trust (“Dugaboy”),<sup>4</sup> Mark Okada’s family trusts, and Strand Advisors, Inc. The Class B and C interests were held by Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“HMIT”). Id. On January 9, 2020, an independent board of directors, which included James P. Seery, Jr., was appointed to manage Highland’s Bankruptcy Case and estate. [Docket No. 339]. Mr. Seery was appointed Highland’s Chief Executive Officer and Chief Restructuring Officer in July 2020. [Docket No. 854].

B. The Plan

6. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered the Order Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Bankr. Docket No. 1943] (the “Confirmation Order”), which confirmed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) [Bankr. Docket No. 1943-1] (the “Plan”). The Plan became effective on August 11, 2021 [Docket No. 2700] (the “Effective Date”). Pursuant to the Plan:

- General Unsecured Claims were classified as Class 8 and Subordinated Claims were classified as Class 9.

- HMIT’s Class B Limited Partnership Interest and Class C Limited Partnership Interest were classified as Class 10.
- Class A Limited Partnership Interests, including Dugaboy’s, were classified as Class 11.
- The Claimant Trust, a Delaware statutory trust, was established pursuant to that certain Claimant Trust Agreement, effective as of August 11, 2021 (the “CTA”),<sup>5</sup> for the benefit of “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries;”<sup>6</sup>
- Holders of allowed general and subordinated unsecured Claims (i.e., Class 8 and 9) received beneficial interests in the Claimant Trust (collectively, the “Trust Interests”) and became “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries;” and
- Holders of the Debtor’s prepetition partnership interests (i.e., Class 10 and 11) were allocated unvested contingent interests (the “Contingent Trust Interests”) in the Claimant Trust that would vest if, and only if, the Claimant Trustee certifies that all Claimant Trust Beneficiaries (i.e., Class 8 and 9) have been paid in full, Class 8 has received post-petition interest, and all disputed claims in Class 8 and 9 have been resolved.

(See generally Plan Art. III, IV.)

C. Information Rights Under the CTA

7. By design, the clear terms of the CTA limit information rights. Section 3.12(a) of the CTA provides that the Claimant Trustee has no duty to provide an accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets to any party, including Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. CTA, § 3.12(a) (“Except as otherwise provided herein, nothing in this Agreement requires the Claimant Trustee to file any accounting ....”).

8. Section 3.12(b) of the CTA provides limited information rights solely to “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries”:

The Claimant Trustee shall provide quarterly reporting to the Oversight Board and Claimant Trust Beneficiaries of (i) the status of the Claimant Trust Assets, (ii) the balance of Cash held by the Claimant Trust (including in each of the Claimant Trust Expense Reserve and Disputed Claim Reserve), (iii) the determination and any re-

determination, as applicable, of the total amount allocated to the Disputed Claim Reserve, (iv) the status of Disputed Claims and any resolutions thereof, (v) the status of any litigation, including the pursuit of the Causes of Action, (vi) the Reorganized Debtor's performance, and (vii) operating expenses; provided, however, that the Claimant Trustee may, with respect to any Member of the Oversight Board or Claimant Trust Beneficiary, redact any portion of such reports that relate to such Entity's Claim or Equity Interest, as applicable and any reporting provided to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries may be subject to such Claimant Trust Beneficiary's agreement to maintain confidentiality with respect to any non-public information.

CTA, § 3.12(b).

9. Nothing in the CTA or the Plan grants any other information rights, and, in fact, the CTA is clear that there are no information rights outside those in Section 3.12(b). See CTA, § 5.10(a) ("The Claimant Trust Beneficiaries shall have no rights other than those set forth in this Agreement, the Confirmation Order, or the Plan (including any Plan Supplement documents incorporated therein)"). Thus, the only entities with information rights under the Plan are "Claimant Trust Beneficiaries," and those rights (a) are limited, (b) do not include rights to asset or subsidiary level information, and (c) can be further limited by the Claimant Trustee as appropriate to "maintain confidentiality."

10. Under the express terms of the Plan, the CTA, and this Court's prior orders, the "Claimant Trust Beneficiaries"<sup>7</sup> are the holders of Allowed Claims in Class 8 and Class 9. See CTA, § 1.1(h); Plan Art. I.B.27.<sup>8</sup> HMIT holds Class 10 interests and Dugaboy holds Class 11 interests, and therefore, neither Plaintiff is a "Claimant Trust Beneficiary." Instead, Plaintiffs hold

the Holders of Allowed General Unsecured Claims, Holders of Allowed Subordinated Claims, and, only upon certification by the Claimant Trustee that the Holders of such Claims have been paid indefeasibly in full plus, to the extent applicable, post-petition interest at the federal judgment rate in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth herein, Holders of Allowed Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests, and Holders of Allowed Class A Limited Partnership Interests.

unvested “Contingent Trust Interests.” See, e.g., Plan, Art. I.B.44; CTA, §§ 1.1(h), 5.1(c). Contingent Trust Interests “shall not have any rights under” the CTA, and holders of such interests will not “be deemed ‘Beneficiaries’” “unless and until” they vest in accordance with the Plan and CTA. Id. Specifically, under the CTA, Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests in the Claimant Trust will not vest and Plaintiffs will have no rights under the CTA unless and until (a) all Class 8 and Class 9 Claims are paid indefeasibly in full with interest, (b) all disputed claims are resolved, and (c) the Claimant Trustee certifies as much to this Court. Id. Class 8 and Class 9 Claims cannot be paid until indemnification claims are satisfied.<sup>9</sup> It is indisputable that Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests have not vested under the terms of the Plan and the CTA. See Highland Cap., 2023 WL 5523949, at *35. Plaintiffs are not “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries” and have no information rights.

D. Dugaboy Files the Valuation Motion

11. On June 30, 2022, Dugaboy filed its Motion for Determination of the Value of the Estate and Assets Held by the Claimant Trust [Docket No. 3382] (the “Initial Valuation Motion”), seeking “a determination by this Court of the current value of the estate and an accounting of the assets currently held by the Claimant Trust and available for distribution to creditors.” Thereafter, on September 21, 2022, Dugaboy filed a supplemental motion [Docket No. 3533] (the “Supp. Valuation Motion” and, together with the Original Valuation Motion, the “Valuation Motion”). Therein, Dugaboy requested that the Court enter “an order: (i) finding that Dugaboy has standing in these bankruptcy proceedings under 11 U.S.C. § 1109(b), Delaware trust law, and Article III of the United States Constitution; and (ii) setting an evidentiary hearing to ascertain the assets currently available for distribution to allowed claimants, to determine the current value of those assets, and to determine whether there is a potential for settling the estate now ....” The Valuation Motion was supported by HMIT. [Docket No. 3467]. Highland objected to the Valuation Motion. [Docket No. 3465].

<sup>9</sup> See, e.g., CTA Art. 6.1 (providing that distributions to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries are junior to the Claimant Trust’s expenses, including, among other things, amounts “necessary to pay or reserve for reasonably incurred or anticipated Claimant Trust Expenses,” which include indemnification costs). This priority of payment under the Plan and CTA was upheld by the Fifth Circuit when affirming this Court’s order authorizing the creation of the indemnity sub-trust, the purpose of which was to reserve or retain any cash reasonably necessary to satisfy contingent liabilities. See In the Matter of Highland Cap. Mgt., L.P., 57 F4th 494, 502 (5th Cir 2023).

12. On November 15, 2022, the Court held a status conference, during which the Court expressed concerns about whether the Valuation Motion should be filed as an adversary proceeding since it sought equitable relief. On December 7, 2022, after the parties submitted briefing on this issue, [see Docket Nos. 3637, 3638, 3639], the Court issued its order [Docket No. 3645] (the “Valuation Order”), in which it found that an adversary proceeding was necessary with regard to the relief sought in the Valuation Motion. The Court explained that “the essence of the Dugaboy Value Motions is a request for an accounting,” which constitutes “equitable relief that does not appear to be provided for in the confirmed chapter 11 plan.” Id. at 4. The Court further found that “Dugaboy and HMIT have not pointed to any provision of the CTA that establishes a right to an accounting,” and “[i]t would appear that Dugaboy and HMIT may be frustrated that they did not negotiate or obtain the same oversight rights as the actual Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in the Plan and CTA.” Valuation Order at 5 (quoting CTA §§ 3.12(a), (b)).

13. On May 10, 2023, Plaintiffs commenced this Action against Highland and the Claimant Trust by filing their complaint [Adv. Pro. No. 23-03038, Docket No. 1] (the “Complaint”). In their Complaint, Plaintiffs seek an equitable accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets so they can determine if their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests “are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests, making them Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.”

14. In their first count (“Count One”), Plaintiffs request an accounting “regarding the Claimant Trust Assets, including the amount of cash and the remaining non-cash assets, and details of all transactions that have occurred since the wall of silence was erected, and all liabilities.” Plaintiffs maintain, inter alia, that “[d]ue to the lack of transparency into the assets of the Claimant Trust, Plaintiffs are unable to determine whether their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests may vest into Claimant Trust Interests.” Compl. ¶¶ 82-88.<sup>10</sup>

15. In their second count (“Count Two”), Plaintiffs seek a declaratory judgment regarding the value of the Claimant Trust Assets. Plaintiffs specifically maintain that “[o]nce Defendants are compelled to provide information about the Claimant Trust Assets, Plaintiffs seek a determination from the Court of the relative value of the Claimant Trust Assets compared to the bankruptcy estate obligations.” Compl. ¶ 90.

16. In their third count (“Count Three,” and collectively with Count One and Count Two, the “Claims”), Plaintiffs seek a declaration and determination that “[i]n the event that the Court determines that the Claimant Trust assets exceed the obligations of the bankruptcy estate in an amount sufficient so that all Allowable Claims may be indefeasibly paid ... the conditions are such that their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests, making them Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.” Compl. ¶ 94.

F. The Court Denies HMIT Leave to File Adversary Proceeding

17. Around the same time, HMIT separately filed its Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding [Docket No. 3699], which was later supplemented and

<sup>10</sup> Plaintiffs allege that Highland “failed and refused to file quarterly 2015.3 reports, leaving stakeholders, including Plaintiffs, in the dark about the value of the estate and the mix of assets it held, bought or sold.” Compl. ¶ 41. Plaintiffs’ allegations about the lack of transparency in the Bankruptcy Case is tired and purposefully misleading. Highland has complied with every single pre- and post-Effective Date disclosure obligation—except for the Rule 2015.3 disclosure. The Fifth Circuit has denied Dugaboy’s appeal of the denial of its post-confirmation motion to compel compliance with Rule 2015.3, (see Case No. 22-10831, Document No. 46), and this Court has found that “it is not as though the Claimant Trustee is operating ‘under the radar’” (Valuation Order at 5). Moreover, as previously disclosed in this Court, the failure to file the 2015.3 reports during the case was a direct result of actions of persons who work for Plaintiffs and their affiliates, and in any event, at all time Plaintiffs’ control person had full access to the information they cry about. Nevertheless, Plaintiffs continue with their baseless allegations about the lack of transparency in this case.

modified [Docket Nos. 3760, 3815, and 3816] (collectively, the “Motion for Leave”).<sup>11</sup> In the Motion for Leave, HMIT sought leave to sue Highland, Mr. Seery, Stonehill, and Farallon<sup>12</sup> falsely alleging both direct and derivative claims for “insider trading” and breach of fiduciary duty (the “Proposed Claims”).

18. On August 25, 2023, this Court issued its order denying the Motion for Leave on multiple grounds. See Highland Cap., 2023 WL 5523949 (the “Order Denying Leave”). In the Order Denying Leave, the Court found that, inter alia: (a) HMIT was not a “Claimant Trust Beneficiary” and not a “beneficial owner” of the Claimant Trust; (b) HMIT should not be treated as a “Claimant Trust Beneficiary” after “considering the current value of the Claimant Trust Assets ...”; (c) HMIT held “only an unvested contingent interest in the Claimant Trust,” and “HMIT’s status as a ‘beneficiary’ of the Claimant Trust is defined by the CTA itself, pure and simple;” and (d) the Court “does not have the power to equitably deem HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interest to be vested ....” Id. at 35.

G. Highland Files the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet Ahead of Mediation in July 2023

19. On April 20, 2023, James Dondero and certain of his controlled affiliates (collectively, the “Dondero Parties”) filed their Motion to Stay and to Compel Mediation [Docket No. 3752] (the “Mediation Motion”), which was granted, in part, on August 2, 2023, [Docket No. 3897].<sup>13</sup> On July 6, 2023, in furtherance of mediation and in compliance with an agreed-upon Court order [Docket 3870], Highland filed a pro forma adjusted balance sheet [Docket No. 3872] (the “Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet”). The Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet disclosed a point-in-time $152 million in assets (of which only $37 million was cash or restricted cash) and $130 million in liabilities for a total equity value of $22 million, which, even assuming the equity value could be distributed (and it cannot be), is well short of the $126 million needed to pay Allowed Class 8 and Class 9 claims (exclusive of interest).

20. The information disclosed on the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet was consistent with information that had already been disclosed in the Bankruptcy Case as of April 2023, [see Bankr. Docket Nos. 3756 and 3757] (the “Post-Confirmation Reports”), and through these disclosures should have resolved any good faith dispute around receiving sufficient information with which to make a global settlement offer. These enhanced Post-Confirmation Reports were publicly filed to provide interested parties substantially more information than was required. See, e.g., Docket No. 3757 at 13-15 (Addendum showing (i) “Quarter-ending cash, Disputed Claims Reserve, and Indemnity Trust summary;” (ii) liabilities, including remaining disputed/expunged or pending claims, (iii) disbursements to Classes 8 and 9, and (iv) “Remaining investments, notes, and other assets”).

H. HMIT Seeks Reconsideration of Order Denying Leave Based on the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet

21. On September 8, 2023, HMIT filed its motion for reconsideration of the Order Denying Leave [Docket No. 3905] (the “Motion to Reconsider”), falsely and misleadingly contending that the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet (a) provided an accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets and (b) proved that (i) the value of the Claimant Trust Assets exceeded liabilities and (ii) HMIT was “in the money” and (c) its interests were likely to vest and that HMIT therefore had standing as a “Claimant Trust Beneficiary.” On October 6, 2023, the Court denied the Motion to Reconsider [Docket No. 3936] (the “Order Denying Reconsideration”). The Court found that, in pertinent part, the Balance Sheet did not “demonstrate that HMIT’s contingent interest is ‘in the money,” noting that “HMIT does not give proper attention to the voluminous supplemental notes” in the Balance Sheet that are “integral to understanding the numbers therein.” Id. at 3 (citing Notes 5 and 6 of the Balance Sheet which show that Highland will operate at an “operating loss prospectively,” and that the administrative expenses and legal fees continue to deplete assets, among other things). The Court also found that the Balance Sheet did not constitute “newly discovered evidence” because it did not contain information that was materially different from the information disclosed on the Post-Confirmation Reports, filed three months earlier. Id. at 2-3.

III. ARGUMENT

A. The Court Does Not Have Subject Matter Jurisdiction Over Counts One and Three

22. The Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate Counts One and Three. Counts One and Three are moot, and Count Three impermissibly seeks an advisory opinion.

1. Legal Standard

23. A motion under Rule 12(b)(1) must be considered before any motion on the merits because subject matter jurisdiction is required to determine the validity of any claim. See Moran v. Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, 27 F.3d 169, 172 (5th Cir. 1994). “Lack of subject matter jurisdiction may be found in any one of three instances: (1) the complaint alone; (2) the complaint supplemented by undisputed facts evidenced in the record; or (3) the complaint supplemented by undisputed facts plus the court’s resolution of disputed facts.” Ramming v. United States, 281 F.3d 158, 161 (5th Cir. 2001) (per curiam). “The burden of proof for a Rule 12(b)(1) motion to dismiss is on the party asserting jurisdiction.” Id. “A case is properly dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction when the court lacks the statutory or constitutional power to adjudicate the case.” Home Builders Ass’n of Mississippi, Inc. v. City of Madison, Miss., 143 F.3d 1006, 1010 (5th Cir. 1998) (internal quotations omitted).

2. Counts One and Three are Moot

i. Count One is Moot in Light of the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet

24. Count One is moot in light of the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet and must be dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction under Rule 12(b)(1). For a court to have subject matter jurisdiction over a suit, a “controversy must remain live throughout the suit’s existence.” Bazzrea v. Mayorkas, 3:22-CV-265, 2023 WL 3958912, at *3 (S.D. Tex. June 12, 2023). “A case becomes moot—and therefore no longer a ‘Case’ or ‘Controversary’ for purpose of Article III—when the issues presented are no longer ‘live’ or the parties lack a legally cognizable interest in the outcome.” Yarls v. Bunton, 905 F.3d 905, 909 (5th Cir. 2018) (internal quotations omitted).

25. Here, the issue presented in Count One is no longer “live.” In Count One, Plaintiffs seek (a) “information regarding the Claimant Trust assets,” including the amount of assets and liabilities, so that (b) Plaintiffs can “determine whether their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests may vest into Claimant Trust Interests.” Compl. ¶¶ 82-88. As discussed supra, the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet provides this very information. It shows the value of the Claimant Trust Assets, the Claimant Trust’s liabilities, and the potential equity value available for Claimant Trust Beneficiaries (assuming all Claimant Trust Assets are liquidated at current valuations and liabilities are fixed). HMIT admitted as much in its Motion to Reconsider when it specifically (but incorrectly) maintained that, based on the assets and liabilities shown on the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet, “[HMIT’s] Contingent Claimant Trust Interest will vest, or put colloquially, [HMIT] is ‘in the money.’” Motion to Reconsider ¶¶ 5-8 (emphasis added).<sup>14</sup> The Post-

<sup>14</sup> Although Plaintiffs have effectively admitted the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet moots their requested relief, as this Court is aware, the current value of the Claimant Trust Assets does not dictate when or if Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests will ever vest. Whether and when Contingent Trust Interests may someday vest depends upon the satisfaction of the conditions set forth in the CTA and the Plan, and this Court “does not have the power to equitably deem HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interest to be vested ...” regardless of whether the value of the pro forma assets exceeds the pro forma value of the liabilities on a particular date. Order Denying Leave at *35.

Confirmation Reports, filed prior to the Complaint in filed in April 2023, similarly disclose the financial information requested in Count One, including, inter alia, the cash and the identification of remaining assets.

26. The Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet and Post-Confirmation Reports have thus eliminated the “actual controversy” at the core of Count One, and there is no conceivable relief available to Plaintiffs through this claim that has not already been provided. Count One is therefore moot. See Bazzrea, 2023 WL 3958912, at *4 (finding plaintiffs’ claims moot where events that occurred after the complaint was filed “eliminated the actual controversy—the court cannot provide effectual relief and thus the plaintiffs’ claims are moot.”) Accordingly, Plaintiffs have not met their burden to establish that the Court has subject matter jurisdiction over Count One, and it should be dismissed under Rule 12(b)(1).

ii. Count Three is Moot Because the Court has Already Held that Contingent Claimant Interests are Not “In the Money”

27. Count Three, seeking a declaration regarding whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests, making them Claimant Trust Beneficiaries,” Compl. ¶ 94, is moot because the Court already decided this issue. As discussed above, in its Motion to Reconsider, HMIT incorrectly argued that the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet showed that HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interests were “in the money” and likely to vest, rendering HMIT a “Claimant Trust Beneficiary.” In its Order Denying Reconsideration, the Court found that Contingent Trust Interests are not “in the money,”<sup>15</sup> and that HMIT is, therefore, not a Claimant Trust Beneficiary. As the Court explained, Plaintiffs’ reliance on the assets and liabilities disclosed on the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet in support of its argument that its interests

were “likely to vest” demonstrated a fundamental misunderstanding of the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet and the vesting mechanics in the CTA. Again, under the CTA, Contingent Trust Interests vest only if, among other things, Class 8 and Class 9 are paid in full. And as the Court further stated, the Claimant Trust Assets at any point in time will only be available for distribution to those classes after they are monetized and all fees and expenses, including indemnification obligations, are satisfied. See Order Denying Reconsideration at 3. In other words, as this Court found, unless and until such contingent obligations are known and satisfied and all Class 8 and Class 9 Claims have been actually paid in full, Contingent Trust Interests are not “in the money” and will not “vest.”

28. The Court’s finding in its Order Denying Reconsideration, in which the Court determined that Contingent Trust Interests are not “in the money,” has thus eliminated any “live” controversy presented by the relief sought in Count Three, namely, a determination whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests.” For the foregoing reasons, Counts One and Three are moot. The Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction over Counts One and Three under Rule 12(b)(1), and such claims should be dismissed.

3. Count Three Improperly Seeks an Advisory Opinion

29. The Court also does not have subject matter jurisdiction to rule on Count Three because it impermissibly seeks an advisory opinion. Under Article III of the Constitution, “no justiciable controversy is presented when ... the parties are asking for an advisory opinion.” Paragon Asset Co. Ltd v. Gulf Copper & Mfg. Corp., 1:17-CV-00203, 2020 WL 1892953, at *1 (S.D. Tex. Feb. 11, 2020) (internal quotations omitted). The “well-established constitutional ban on advisory opinions” seeks to ensure that federal courts determine “specific disputes between parties, rather than hypothetical legal questions, and in doing so, conserve judicial resources.” Texas v. Travis County, 272 F. Supp. 3d 973, 980 (W.D. Tex. 2017), aff’d sub nom. Texas v. Travis

County, Texas, 910 F.3d 809 (5th Cir 2018); see also Hodgson v. H. Morgan Daniel Seafoods, Inc., 433 F.2d 918, 920 (5th Cir. 1970) (“We cannot render an advisory opinion on hypothetical or abstract facts.”)

30. In Count Three, Plaintiffs impermissibly ask the Court to determine whether (a) current Claimant Trust Beneficiaries “may be indefeasibly paid” and (b) “Contingent Claimant Trust Interests are likely to vest.” Compl. ¶ 94 (emphasis added). Any such determination is dependent upon several hypothetical future events concerning, among other things, asset values and recoveries (e.g., whether the Fifth Circuit sustains the Dondero Parties’ appeal in the Notes Litigation, and the Claimant Trust actually recovers the bonded amounts), actual future Claimant Trust expenses, and the nature and extent of indemnification obligations.<sup>16</sup> As discussed supra, indemnification expenses are senior to distributions to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, and Claimant Trust Beneficiaries cannot be paid in full unless and until such indemnification expenses are liquidated and satisfied. Contingent Trust Interests therefore cannot vest unless and until indemnification claims are known and paid (and all Class 8 and Class 9 Claims are thereafter paid).

31. In light of the widespread litigation, additional threatened litigation, and continued accrual of related legal fees and expenses, the amount of indemnification obligations remains unknown. Thus, any determination as to whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “are likely to vest” is contingent upon a number of unknown and contingent variables, including (a) the amount of indemnification obligations and (b) and whether sufficient cash remains to pay Classes 8 and 9 in full after those indemnification obligations (and other expenses) are satisfied. Such an abstract determination is precisely the type of relief precluded by the constitutional ban on advisory opinions. See JPay LLC v. Burton, 3:22-CV-1492-E, 2023 WL 5253041, at *10 (N.D. Tex. Aug. 15, 2023) (dismissing case for lack of subject matter jurisdiction and declining “to render an advisory opinion on the value of the aggregated claims of a contingent, theoretical class” where such determination is contingent on a “hypothetical facts”). Accordingly, Plaintiffs have failed to show that the Court has subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate Count Three, and it should be dismissed under Rule 12(b)(1).

B. Count Three is Barred by Collateral Estoppel

32. Count Three is also barred by the doctrine of collateral estoppel. Collateral estoppel is referred to as “issue preclusion” and prevents relitigating the same issues or facts decided in a prior proceeding. Collateral estoppel precludes the re-litigation of issues or facts actually litigated in the original action, whether or not the second suit is based on the same cause of action. See Houston Professional Towing Ass'n v. City of Houston, 812 F.3d 443, 447 (5th Cir. 2016). “By precluding parties from contesting matters that they have had a full and fair opportunity to litigate, [collateral estoppel] protect[s] against the expense and vexation attending multiple lawsuits, conserve judicial resources, and foster reliance on judicial action by minimizing the possibility of inconsistent decisions.” In re Reddy Ice Holdings, Inc., 611 B.R. 802, 808 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2020) (internal quotations omitted). Collateral estoppel applies when: “(1) the issue at stake is identical to the one involved in the earlier action; (2) the issue was actually litigated in the prior action; and (3) the determination of the issue in the prior action was a necessary part of the judgment in that action.” Oyekwe v. Research Now Group, Inc., 542 F. Supp. 3d 496, 506 (N.D. Tex. 2021), appeal dismissed, 21-10580, 2021 WL 8776378 (5th Cir Dec. 28, 2021). These elements are easily met here.

33. The issue presented by Count Three—whether Plaintiffs’ “Contingent Claimant Trust Interests are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests” (Compl. ¶ 94)—is the same as the issue at stake, and actually litigated, in connection with the Motion for Leave. In support of its Motion to Reconsider, HMIT argued that it had standing to assert its Proposed Claims because HMIT was “in the money” and its Contingent Trust Interests “will vest.” See Motion to Reconsider. In adjudicating the Motion to Reconsider, the Court determined that HMIT did not have standing to bring the Proposed Claims because its Contingent Trust Interests were not “in the money.” See Order Denying Reconsideration at 3. The issue of whether Contingent Trust Interests were “in the money” for purposes of the Motion to Reconsider, and whether Contingent Trust Interests are “likely to vest,” for purposes of this Complaint, are one and the same. This issue was, without question, litigated in connection with the Motion for Leave. The issue was raised by HMIT in its Motion to Reconsider, contested by the Highland Parties, submitted to this Court for adjudication, and expressly determined. See Reddy, 611 B.R. at 810 (“The requirement that an issue be ‘actually litigated’ for collateral estoppel purposes simply requires that the issue is raised, contested by the parties, submitted for determination by the court, and determined.”) (internal quotations omitted). The first and second elements of collateral estoppel are thus met.

34. The third prong of collateral estoppel—whether the Court’s prior ruling on this same issue was necessary or essential to the Order Denying Reconsideration—is likewise satisfied. The Court’s finding that Contingent Trust Interests were not “in the money” was necessary to the Court’s ultimate determination that HMIT did not have standing to assert the Proposed Claims. In other words, to determine whether HMIT could file the Motion for Leave, and later whether to grant the Motion to Reconsider, the Court was required to consider whether Contingent Trust Interests have vested. This was the only issue underlying the Motion to Reconsider, and it was necessary to the Order Denying Reconsideration. Plaintiffs are therefore collaterally estopped from re-litigating this same issue of whether their Contingent Trust Interests will vest. See In re

Derosa-Grund, 567 B.R. 773, 798 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2017) (debtor collaterally estopped from re-litigating issue of whether debtor owned film treatment where this same issue “was necessary” to determination on motion to reopen; was determined; and “Debtor cannot now relitigate this issue in an effort to prove that EMG owns the Treatment”).<sup>17</sup> Accordingly, Count Three is barred by collateral estoppel, and for this additional reason, this claim should be dismissed.

C. Plaintiffs’ Claims Fail as a Matter of Law

35. Even if the Court had subject matter jurisdiction over Counts Two and Three, the Complaint fails to state plausible claims upon which relief can be granted under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) as to all Counts. To survive a motion to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must plead “enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). “A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009). “The plausibility standard is not akin to a ‘probability requirement,’ but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.” Id. (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556). “Where a complaint pleads facts that are ‘merely consistent with’ a defendant’s liability, it ‘stops short of the line between possibility and plausibility of entitlement to relief.’” Id. (quoting Twombly, 550

<sup>17</sup> Although Dugaboy was not a party in the Motion for Leave, literal identity of the parties is not required as part of the collateral estoppel analysis so long as the party against whom enforcement is sought was in privity with a party involved in the initial decision. Privity exists where a non-party’s interests were adequately represented in the first suit. See Derosa-Grund, 567 B.R. at 798 n. 21 (Bankr S.D. Tex. 2017) (noting “federal courts will bind a nonparty whose interests were represented adequately by a party in the original suit,” and “[t]he Fifth Circuit has found that adequate representation exists between a party and a non-party ‘where a party to the original suit is so closely aligned to the non-party’s interests as to be his virtual representative.’”) (quoting Terrell v. DeConna, 877 F.2d 1267, 1270 (5th Cir. 1989)). Here, there can be no question that Dugaboy’s interests were sufficiently aligned as to the issue of whether Contingent Trust Interests have vested, where both Dugaboy and HMIT hold those interests and Dugaboy was funding HMIT’s litigation. See Meador v. Oryx Energy Co., 87 F. Supp. 2d 658, 665 (E.D. Tex. 2000) (non-party’s interests were “sufficiently aligned” with party in previous suit for purposes of claim preclusion where, in both cases, “the plaintiffs’ claims derive solely from rights” alleging arising from the same conveyance that was interpreted conclusively in prior suit).

U.S. at 557). “When well-pleaded facts fail to meet th[e] [Twombly] standard, the complaint has alleged—but it has not shown—that the pleader is entitled to relief.” Id. at 679. Dismissal is proper under Rule 12(b)(6) when, taking the facts alleged in the complaint as true, it appears that the plaintiff “cannot prove any set of facts that would entitle it to the relief it seeks.” C.C. Port, Ltd. v. Davis-Penn Mortg. Co., 61 F.3d 288, 289 (5th Cir. 1995). “[I]t is clearly proper in deciding a 12(b)(6) motion to take judicial notice of matters of public record.” Johnson v. Wells Fargo Bank, NA, 999 F. Supp. 2d 919, 926 (N.D. Tex. 2014) (internal quotations omitted). Courts have “complete discretion” to either accept or exclude such evidence for purposes of the motion to dismiss. Id.

1. Plaintiffs’ Equitable Accounting Claim Fails as a Matter of Law

36. Count One, which seeks an accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets, fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted under Rule 12(b)(6).

i. Plaintiffs Have No Rights to Financial Information Because They are Not Claimant Trust Beneficiaries

37. Plaintiffs have no rights to information regarding the Claimant Trust Assets.

38. First, as discussed above and as this Court has found, it is indisputable that Plaintiffs, holding only “Contingent Trust Interests,” are not “Beneficiaries” under the CTA.<sup>18</sup> See Order Denying Leave at *35. As such, Plaintiffs have no rights under the CTA. See id. (quoting CTA, § 5.1(c)). Plaintiffs ignore this language and fail to offer any support for their broad request for financial information, other than vaguely asserting that they “are unable to determine whether their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests may vest into Claimant Trust Interests.” Compl. ¶ 83. As this Court found, while Plaintiffs may be “frustrated” that they did not negotiate the same rights

as the “actual Claimant Trust Beneficiaries,” (Valuation Order at 5), there is simply no foundation—in law, equity, or otherwise—for Plaintiffs’ request for financial information. Plaintiffs acknowledge that they are not “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries” but nevertheless imply, without any supporting facts or authority, that they should not only be treated as such, but should receive information not otherwise available to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. In so arguing, Plaintiffs blatantly disregard the plain terms of the CTA, the Plan, and this Court’s prior orders, which expressly foreclose the relief sought in their Claims.

39. Second, and for largely these same reasons, equitable relief is not available where, as here, the parties’ rights and obligations at issue are set forth in the agreement. See In re Am. Home Mortg. Holdings, Inc., 386 Fed. Appx. 209, 212-13 (3d Cir. 2010) (affirming bankruptcy court’s denial of equitable relief to distributions under trust documents where, among other things, the trust documents controlled distribution of monthly payments, and the Trust Certificate “cannot be rewritten on equitable grounds,” and noting “[i]n interpreting the provisions of the Trust Documents, we apply Delaware law, which instructs that a party is bound by the plain meaning of clear and unequivocal contract terms.”); Grunstein v. Silva, CIV.A. 3932-VCN, 2009 WL 4698541, at *6 (Del. Ch. Dec. 8, 2009) (“Where those [fiduciary] rights arise from a contract that specifically addresses the matter at issue, the court evaluates the parties’ conduct within the framework they themselves crafted, instead of imposing more broadly defined equitable duties.”).

40. Here, the CTA expressly provides that (a) Plaintiffs are not Beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust, and, therefore, (b) Plaintiffs have no rights under the CTA. See supra ¶¶ 10-13. supra. Accordingly, the plain language of the CTA forecloses the notion that Plaintiffs have any right—equitable or otherwise—to financial information on the Claimant Trust Assets. Plaintiffs’

attempt to re-write the CTA on equitable grounds in order to grant non-beneficiaries information rights is entirely without merit.

41. Third, even if Plaintiffs were Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, any information rights would still be limited. Section 3819(a) of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act (the “Trust Act”) governs information rights for beneficiaries of Delaware statutory trusts and ascribes primacy to the trust’s agreement:

Except to the extent otherwise provided in the governing instrument of a statutory trust, each beneficial owner of a statutory trust ... has the right, subject to such reasonable standards ... as may be established by the trustees or other persons who have authority to manage the business and affairs of the statutory trust, to obtain from the statutory trust from time to time upon reasonable demand for any purpose reasonably related to the beneficial owner's interest as a beneficial owner of the statutory trust ....

12 Del. C. § 3819(a) (emphasis added); see also In re Natl. Coll. Student Loan Trusts Litig., 251 A.3d 116, 150 (Del. Ch. 2020) (Trust Agreements “are the governing instruments of the Trusts under the DST Act.”) Here, the CTA does “otherwise provide.” As discussed supra, pursuant to the CTA and the Plan, only “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries,” by design, have information rights, which are set forth in section 3.12(b) of the CTA. See CTA § 3.12(b) (providing that the only entities with information rights under the Plan are “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.”) And the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries’ rights (a) are limited, (b) do not include rights to asset or subsidiary level information, and (c) can be further limited by the Claimant Trustee as appropriate to “maintain confidentiality.”

42. Any duties running from the Claimant Trustee to actual Beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust relating to the disclosure of information are expressly limited by the CTA. 12 Del. C. § 3806(c) (“To the extent that ... a trustee ... has duties (including fiduciary duties) to a ... beneficial owner or to another person that is a party to or is otherwise bound by a governing instrument, the trustee’s ... duties may be ... restricted or eliminated by provisions in the governing instrument ....”) Thus, even the actual Claimant Trust Beneficiaries would not have the broad information rights that Plaintiffs (who, again, are not even Claimant Trust Beneficiaries) seek here. This further undermines Plaintiffs’ unsupported allegations that they have any equitable rights to information on the Claimant Trust Assets.

ii. Any Claim for an Equitable Accounting Fails Under Delaware Law

43. To the extent Count One is treated as one for an accounting cognizable in equity, it likewise fails. Under Delaware law,<sup>19</sup> an accounting is not a cause of action sounding in equity. Williams v. Lester, 2023-0042-SG, 2023 WL 4883610, at *3 (Del. Ch. Aug. 1, 2023). It is an equitable remedy by which a fiduciary may be caused to account for property subject to trust. Id. A claim for an accounting lies only where “(i) there are mutual accounts between parties, (ii) a fiduciary relationship exists and the defendant has a duty to account, or (iii) the accounts are all on one side but there are circumstances of great complication.” Bus. Funding Group, Inc. v. Architectural Renovators, Inc., C.A. 12655, 1993 WL 104611, at *2 (Del. Ch. Mar. 31, 1993); see also McMahon v. New Castle Assoc., 532 A2d 601, 605 (Del. Ch. 1987) (“[A] request for an accounting by a fiduciary is a recognized basis for chancery jurisdiction,” noting “equity shall rarely, if ever, have to be resorted to in order to determine the state of accounts in a purely commercial relationship.”); 12 Del. C. § 3806(c). Where, as here, an agreement sets forth the fiduciary relationship between the parties, an extra-contractual relationship cannot be created. See Grunstein v. Silva, CIV.A. 3932-VCN, 2009 WL 4698541, at *6 (Del. Ch. Dec. 8, 2009) (“Where those [fiduciary] rights arise from a contract that specifically addresses the matter at issue, the court evaluates the parties’ conduct within the framework they themselves crafted, instead of imposing more broadly defined equitable duties.”)

<sup>19</sup> There can be no dispute that Delaware law applies to Plaintiffs’ Claims. The Claimant Trust is a statutory trust formed under the laws of Delaware and governed by the Trust Act. Trust Act, 12 Del. C. § 3801 et seq.

44. The CTA governs the parties' rights and obligations. Pursuant to the CTA, Plaintiffs, as holders of Contingent Trust Interests, "shall have no rights" thereunder, and there is no underlying fiduciary relationship between the Claimant Trustee and Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs do not allege as such, nor could they. The Court cannot impose any duties of disclosure other than what is set forth in the CTA. Plaintiffs' equitable accounting claim fails as a matter of law. See Bus. Funding Group, 1993 WL 104611, at *2 (denying claim for equitable accounting where "the parties' relationship, which is defined exclusively by the purchase and sale agreements, involves an arm's-length commercial dealing and bears none of the earmarks of a fiduciary relationship," noting the "plaintiff negotiated the protection it needed in the [] agreements," which "does not create a fiduciary relationship"); Natl. Coll., 251 A.3d at 150 ("[T]he plain language of the Trust Agreement forecloses any notion that the Owner Trustee owes any extra-contractual duties (fiduciary or otherwise)" to non-owner deal parties, noting "[i]f the drafters of the Trust Agreement ... had intended the Owner Trustee to administer the Trusts in the interests of another deal party, the Trust Agreements would have said so.").<sup>20</sup>

45. Under these circumstances, Plaintiffs fail to show why equity should abrogate the terms of the CTA agreement to create extra-contractual rights relating to the disclosure of financial information or an accounting. This is especially true in light of Plaintiff HMIT's "unclean hands." HMIT is a defendant in an action on a note owed to Highland with current principal and interest owed in excess of $98 million. See Adv. Pro. No. 21-03076-sgj, Docket No. 1, Count 24 (breach of contract claim arising out of HMIT note). HMIT cannot seek equitable relief relating to the disclosure of assets of the Claimant Trust when HMIT’s own behavior has violated principles of equity and righteous dealing on issues relevant to the instant Action. Plaintiffs’ equitable claim for financial information on the Claimant Trust is without foundation or support, blatantly disregards the CTA and other applicable documents, and fails to allege a cognizable claim. For this additional reason, Count One should be dismissed.

<sup>20</sup> See also Henry v. CitiMortgage, Inc., 4:11-CV-83, 2011 WL 2261166, at *8 (E.D. Tex. May 10, 2011), report and recommendation adopted, 2011 WL 2214007 (E.D. Tex. June 7, 2011) (dismissing claim for equitable accounting where "Plaintiff does not explain why she is entitled to an accounting, let alone allege any facts to support her requests," noting "an accounting is an equitable remedy and not an independent cause of action."); Johnson v. Wells Fargo Bank, NA, 999 F. Supp 2d 919, 935 (N.D. Tex. 2014) (dismissing plaintiff's request for equitable relief because there is a contract between the parties that governs the dispute.)

2. Plaintiffs’ Claims for Declaratory Relief Fail as a Matter of Law

46. Plaintiffs’ claims for declaratory relief—Counts Two and Three—also fail to state claims under Rule 12(b)(6). To sustain a claim for declaratory or injunctive relief, a plaintiff must first plead a viable underlying cause of action. See Collin County, Tex. v. Homeowners Ass’n for Values Essential to Neighborhoods, 915 F.2d 167, 170-71 (5th Cir. 1990)) (the “federal declaratory judgment act is remedial only ... it is the defendant's underlying cause of action against the plaintiff that is litigated in a suit under the act”); see also Henry, 2011 WL 2261166, at *8 (“The Declaratory Judgment Act is a procedural device that creates no substantive rights and requires the existence of a justiciable controversy.”); Sivertson v. Citibank, N.A. as Tr. for Registered Holders of WAMU Asset-Back Certificates WAMU Series No. 2007-HE2 Tr., 390 F. Supp. 3d 769, 794 (E.D. Tex. 2019) (same). “Where all the substantive, underlying claims are subject to dismissal, a claim for declaratory relief cannot survive.” Wallace v. U.S. Bank, N.A., No. 4:17-CV-437, 2018 WL 1224508, at *2 (E.D. Tex. Mar. 9, 2018).

47. Plaintiffs’ Claims for declaratory relief in Counts Two and Three fail to state plausible claims because there is no underlying controversy. They are premised on Count One, which, as discussed, is not a cognizable claim. See Compl. ¶¶ 90 (“[o]nce Defendants are compelled to provide information about the Claimant Trust Assets, Plaintiffs seek a determination from the Court of the relative value of the Claimant Trust Assets compared to the bankruptcy estate obligations,” and a declaration that “the conditions are such that their Contingent

Claimant Trust Interests are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests”) (emphasis added). Since there is no basis to “compel” the disclosure of financial information and Count One fails as a matter of law, Plaintiffs’ claims for declaratory relief, which are dependent upon such disclosure, likewise fail as a matter of law. See Johnson, 999 F. Supp. 2d at 935 (“Because the undersigned has determined that none of Plaintiffs claims can withstand dismissal at this time, Plaintiff’s requests for declaratory and injunctive relief as well as an accounting cannot survive.”)<sup>21</sup>

48. The value of the Claimant Trust Assets and liabilities at any given point is irrelevant to a determination whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “are likely to vest.” Contingent Trust Interests cannot vest until (a) all Claimant Trust Assets are liquidated, (b) all expenses, including indemnification expenses, are known and have been satisfied, and (c) Claimant Trust Beneficiaries are thereafter paid in full. Until these and other critical variables are known, the financial information Plaintiffs seek in their Complaint is meaningless for purposes of determining “vesting.” See supra ¶¶ 36-27. There is no justiciable controversy underlying Plaintiffs’ claims for declaratory relief. Counts Two and Three should be dismissed. The Claims fail as a matter of law, and the Complaint should be dismissed in its entirety.

IV. CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, Highland respectfully requests that the Court grant the Motion and enter an order in the form annexed to the Motion as Exhibit A, and grant such further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

I. INTRODUCTION

1. To avoid consideration on the merits of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust’s (“HMIT”) well-founded motion for leave (“Motion for Leave”) to bring suit in Delaware (the “Delaware Complaint”) to remove James Seery (“Seery”) as Claimant Trustee because of his conflicts of interest and hostility towards HMIT, Highland Capital Management, L.P., the reorganized debtor in this chapter 11 case (“HCMLP”), and the Highland Claimant Trust (“Claimant Trust”) (collectively, “Highland”) filed a motion (“Motion to Stay”) requesting the Court to indefinitely stay all proceedings in connection with HMIT’s Motion for Leave.<sup>2</sup> In short, Highland is attempting to insulate Seery from having to justify his conduct to the Delaware court tasked with protecting Delaware trusts from conflicted hostile trustees. Even worse, Highland seeks to prevent prompt effective appellate review of this matter by preventing this Court from resolving its merits.

II. PERTINENT BACKGROUND

2. The Delaware Complaint seeks to remove Seery because he continues to breach his fiduciary duties, including his duty of loyalty, by, among other things, using an exorbitant amount of the Claimant Trust to fund a separate indemnity sub-trust (to pay his own legal expenses), and hold still other funds in reserve, rather than using those funds to pay the claims of Claimant Trust beneficiaries. The only plausible explanation for Seery’s refusal to pay the Class 8 and 9 creditors is an effort to try to prevent the Contingent Interest Holders’ interests (including those held by HMIT) from being recognized as vested under terms of the Claimant Trust Agreement (“CTA”), an action that is clearly not in the best interests of the unsecured creditors or equity (i.e. Classes 8, 9, 10 and 11).<sup>3</sup>

4. Highland argues in its Motion to Stay that all proceedings related to the Motion for Leave should be indefinitely stayed until entry of a final, non-appealable order in a separately filed adversary proceeding commenced by Dugaboy Investment Trust (“Dugaboy”) and HMIT (“Valuation Proceeding”). In the Valuation Proceeding, the parties seek a determination by the Court of the value of the estate and an accounting of the assets held by the Claimant Trust. Highland moved to dismiss the Valuation Proceeding, arguing, among other things, that both Dugaboy and HMIT lack standing because they are purportedly not beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust.<sup>6</sup> Highland alternatively argued that the claims in the Valuation Proceeding should be dismissed because: (1) the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction, (2) HMIT improperly seeks an advisory opinion, (3) the claims are barred by collateral estoppel, and (4) the claims fail as a matter of law.<sup>7</sup> Dugaboy and HMIT opposed the motion to dismiss.<sup>8</sup>

5. Highland argues in its Motion to Stay that the Motion for Leave should be indefinitely stayed until the Valuation Proceeding is finally concluded, including appeals, because a ruling on whether HMIT is a beneficiary of the Claimant Trust in the Valuation Proceeding will “necessarily dispose” of the Motion for Leave. Highland also argues that HMIT will not be harmed by a stay because a stay will not force HMIT to “wait any time for that issue to be litigated.”<sup>9</sup> Highland is incorrect and its Motion should be denied for two primary reasons. First, HMIT will be prejudiced by an indefinite stay of the Motion for Leave and Highland will not be harmed by a denial of the requested stay. Second, the standing issues in the Delaware Complaint and the Valuation Proceeding are not identical because the two proceedings assert different bases for the claims asserted in each proceeding. Thus, the Court should deny the Motion.

A. Highland Does Not Even Attempt to and Cannot Satisfy the Legal Standard for Seeking a Stay

6. When asked to consider whether to grant a stay of litigation, this Court must determine “(1) whether the applicant has made a strong showing of likelihood to succeed on the merits; (2) whether the movant will be irreparably harmed absent a stay; (3) whether issuance of a stay will substantially injure other interested parties; and (4) where the public interest lies.” Texas v. United States, 40 F.4th 205, 215 (5th Cir. 2022) (quoting Thomas v. Bryant, 919 F.3d 298, 303 (5th Cir. 2019)); see also McCoy v. SC Tiger Manor, LLC, No. CV 19-723-JWD-SDJ, 2022 WL 164537, at *1 (M.D. La. Jan. 18, 2022) (applying these four factors to deny motion to stay pending resolution of related action). The applicant’s “burden is a substantial one, as a stay is an ‘extraordinary remedy.’” Texas v. United States, 40 F.4th 205, 215 (5th Cir. 2022) (quoting Thomas v. Bryant, 919 F.3d 298, 303 (5th Cir. 2019). “The Supreme Court has characterized the circumstances in which a stay is appropriate as ‘rare.’” Jamison v. Esurance Ins. Servs., Inc., No. 3:15-CV-2484-B, 2016 WL 320646, at *4 (N.D. Tex. Jan. 27, 2016) (quoting Landis v. N. Am. Co., 299 U.S. 248, 255 (1936)).

7. Notably, the Motion to Stay lacks this standard (or any standard at all), and Highland fails to even attempt to satisfy it in their brief other than to recount a superficial and incorrect analysis of the harm that would be suffered by HMIT if the stay is granted (as discussed below). This alone is fatal to the Motion to Stay being granted.

8. Rather than addressing the appropriate factors, Highland instead cites to one irrelevant criminal case in which the Fifth Circuit denied a stay of an appeal that the government requested based on its position that it would eventually dismiss the appeal if a superseding indictment survived dismissal. In doing so, the Fifth Circuit cited Landis for the unremarkable proposition that the “power to stay proceedings is incidental to the power inherent in every court to control the disposition of the causes on its docket with economy of time and effort for itself, for counsel, and for litigants.”<sup>10</sup>

9. A stay is not appropriate simply because other litigation pends involving a similar or even the same standing question. See Jamison v. Esurance Ins. Servs., Inc., No. 3:15-CV-2484-B, 2016 WL 320646, at *4 (N.D. Tex. Jan. 27, 2016). For example, in Jamison, the defendant requested a stay pending the Supreme Court’s rulings on two separate cases addressing standing and mootness questions that were also present in the Jamison case. Id. at *1. The Northern District of Texas rejected the request, finding, that “[b]ecause standing is a subject matter jurisdiction question, it can be raised at any time during the litigation.” Id. at *4. Accordingly, “[a]llowing the case to proceed inflict[ed] no significant hardship” because the defendant could raise the standing issue after the Supreme Court’s ruling, if applicable. Id. Thus, the court denied the defendant’s motion to stay. Id.; see also Alexander v. Navient Sols., Inc., No. 5:15-CV-00837-RP, 2016 WL 11588317, at *2 (W.D. Tex. Feb. 19, 2016) (denying motion to stay, which sought to stay proceeding pending resolution of standing issue in U.S. Supreme Court case, because “[s]tanding is jurisdictional, and Defendant can reassert at any time that this Court lacks the jurisdiction to hear Plaintiffs’ claim”).

10. The Supreme Court has held that “[o]nly in rare circumstances will a litigant in one cause be compelled to stand aside while a litigant in another settles the rule of law that will define the rights of both.” Landis, 299 U.S. at 255. For example, in Landis, respondents sought to enjoin enforcement of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 by arguing that it was unconstitutional. Id. at 249. After respondents filed suit, several other lawsuits seeking the same relief were filed throughout the country. Id. at 250. The Government filed a motion to stay in order to secure an early determination of its rights by proceeding with certain test cases. Id. at 250-51. Although the stay was initially granted, the Supreme Court granted certiorari and vacated the “unreasonable” stay order because “the proceedings in the District Court have continued more than a year. With the possibility of an intermediate appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals, a second year or even more may go by before this court will be able to pass upon the Act.” Id. at 256. Here, a cursory examination of the various appeals in this bankruptcy establishes that it will take several years for proceedings and their later appeals to be finally concluded.<sup>11</sup>

<sup>11</sup> For example, while the Court issued its final reports recommending summary judgment in the Notes Cases on December 5, 2022, and January 17, 2023, the District Court did not issue its orders adopting the reports until July 6, 2023, and the briefing schedule in the Fifth Circuit has not even been issued, yet. Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P. v. Dondero, et al., Consol. Case No. 3:21-cv-00881-x (N. D. Tex.), Dkts. 89, 97, 135; In the Matter of Highland Capital Management, L.P., Case No. 23-10911 (5th Cir.). As another example, with respect to the appeal of the HarbourVest settlement order, the notice of appeal was filed on February 1, 2021, and the Fifth Circuit did not issue its decision until July 31, 2023, 910 days later. Dkt. 1870; Matter of Highland Capital Management, L.P., No. 22-10960, 2023 WL 4861770 (5th Cir. July 31, 2023). With respect to the appeal of the UBS settlement order, the notice of appeal was filed on May 27, 2021, and the Fifth Circuit did not issue its decision until July 28, 2023, 792 days later. Dkt. 2398; Matter of Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., No. 22-10983, 2023 WL 4842320 (5th Cir. July 28, 2023). With respect to the appeal of the Plan order, the notice of appeal was filed on March 1, 2021, and the Fifth Circuit did not issue its decision until August 19, 2022, 536 days later. Dkt. 1957; In re Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., No. 19-34054-SGJ11, 2022 WL 3959550 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 30, 2022). With respect to the appeal of the Order approving the trust, the notice of appeal was filed on August 4, 2021, and the Fifth Circuit did not issue its decision until January 11, 2023, 525 days later. Dkt. 2673; Matter of Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P., 57 F.4th 494 (5th Cir. 2023).

B. A Stay Would Unduly Harm HMIT and a Denial of a Stay Would Not Harm Highland

11. Highland's Motion to Stay should be denied because HMIT will suffer irreparable harm as a result of an indefinite stay of the Motion for Leave (and, by extension, its prosecution of the claims in the Delaware Complaint). Highland ignores the delay that will necessarily occur if a stay is ordered and instead focuses on the fact that a stay "will not force HMIT to wait any time for that issue [of whether it is a beneficiary of the Claimant Trust] to be litigated and decided, much less an 'indefinite' or even 'lengthy' time."<sup>12</sup> Highland misses the point. It is not the delay of a decision on this one issue that matters, it is the delay of HMIT's ability to move forward with its claims in the Delaware Complaint so that can Seery can be removed that matters.

12. As detailed in its Motion for Leave, HMIT has pleaded serious allegations against Seery that require his immediate removal as trustee. These allegations, include, but are not limited to, breaching his duty of loyalty by failing to pay creditors, failing to file the GUC Certification, failing to certify that equity holders are vested under the CTA, failing to maximize the value of the Claimant Trust for the benefit of its beneficiaries by filing unnecessary proceedings, and spending inordinate amounts of cash on unnecessary professional fees.<sup>13</sup> Seery has also used the Claimant Trust to his own pecuniary advantage by funding an increasingly sizable indemnification reserve that enables Seery to remain employed at $150,000 a month, and is the excuse for Seery to avoid certifying that HMIT and other Class 10 and 11 holders are Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.<sup>14</sup> These actions (and inactions) by Seery are ongoing and will continue to prejudice and harm HMIT as long as they continue. For example, Seery will continue to unnecessarily spend funds as a false cover for Seery's

failure to certify that HMIT is “in the money,” a tactic also intended to prevent HMIT from ever challenging Seery's tenure as trustee.

13. In other words, it is not the delay in having the specific standing issue decided, as Highland suggests, that could harm HMIT. The harm to HMIT is the delay in having the allegations in the Delaware Complaint addressed by a court because Seery’s unlawful behavior continues without effective oversight. There is no visibility into precisely what is being paid from the Indemnity Sub-trust, enabling excessive spending to go unchecked. One only needs to look at the hearing participants list for nearly every hearing, no matter how minor, to see the huge number of lawyers attending in addition to the already large number appearing. With the burn rate shown by the last several quarterly reports (averaging approximately $5.4 million a month for 2023),<sup>15</sup> the harm of a multi-year delay is manifest. Highland’s Motion to Stay fails to address these issues or any of the allegations raised related to Seery in the Motion for Leave.

14. What this means is that HMIT will be severely harmed regardless of this Court’s ultimate decision on the standing issue if the stay is granted. If the Court denies Highland’s request for a stay, HMIT will be able to immediately appeal if this Court agrees with Highland and finds that HMIT lacks standing in the Valuation Proceeding and in the Motion for Leave. But if the stay is granted and the Court agrees with Highland and finds that the HMIT lacks standing in the Valuation Proceeding, Highland will argue that HMIT must wait years (through all appeals of the Valuation Proceeding decision) to have the standing issue in the Motion for Leave addressed by an appellate court, which is exactly what Highland seeks in bringing its Motion to Stay.

15. Even worse, if an indefinite stay is granted, as Highland requests, and if this Court, the District Court, or the Fifth Circuit agrees with HMIT and finds that it has standing in the Valuation Proceeding, HMIT still would be unable to move forward with its Motion for Leave until all appeals in the Valuation Proceeding are concluded under the requested stay. In other words, even if HMIT is correct and successful at every level of appeal in the Valuation Proceeding, it will still be prejudiced by being forced to delay the Motion for Leave and prosecuting the Delaware Complaint for several years while the Valuation Proceeding works its way through the appellate process. And as the Fifth Circuit held in In re Ramu Corp., “[e]ven discretionary stays, however, will be reversed when they are ‘immoderate or of an indefinite duration.’” 903 F.2d 312, 318 (5th Cir. 1990) (citing McKnight v. Blanchard, 667 F.2d 477, 479 (5th Cir. 1982)). While it is obvious that Highland and Seery would prefer this outcome, it is unfair and prejudicial to HMIT, and therefore impermissible. The only way to avoid this possible outcome is for the Motion for Leave to proceed as scheduled.

16. On the other hand, a denial of the requested stay will not harm Highland, let alone irreparably harm Highland as required by the standards set forth above. Highland’s premise for its Motion to Stay, that a stay will “conserve judicial resources and the time, effort, and expense of the litigants,”<sup>16</sup> is not true. As Highland recognizes, it has already briefed whether HMIT is a beneficiary of the Trust in the Valuation Proceeding.<sup>17</sup> Nowhere in its Motion to Stay does Highland explain how it would be prejudiced or harmed by briefing an issue that it has already briefed and that it contends is identical in both proceedings.

17. Highland also waited two weeks before making its Motion for Stay and set the motion for its hearing after the deadline for its response to the Motion for Leave. It surely then had at least partially prepared a response – or is it really going to admit it was so certain of this Court’s decision that it did nothing?

18. If Highland argues that the Motion for Leave constitutes an unnecessary expense to the estate, that argument fails for multiple reasons. First, it is the almost entirely opaque expenditure of $5.4 million per month by the Seery-directed estate that is the issue in the motion for leave. Sunlight will be the best disinfectant. Second, this argument rings hollow, as it can be made any time that Highland faces a motion it does not want to defend, even though Highland regularly insists that its own offensive motions (such as the Motion for Sanctions brought against Scott Ellington that was abruptly abandoned in mid-hearing and which could have been resolved by Highland with a phone call) are entirely necessary. Third, if there is anything that the estate should be spending its money on, it is explaining to the Claimant Trust beneficiaries and contingent beneficiaries what exactly is being done with their money by their fiduciaries.

C. The Standing Issues Raised in the Valuation Proceeding and the Motion for Leave Are Not Identical

19. Even if Highland satisfied the above standard, which it did not, Highland's Motion to Stay turns on its mistaken belief that whether HMIT has standing is identical in both the Valuation Proceeding and the Motion for Leave/Delaware Complaint. Highland is incorrect.

20. As discussed above, while HMIT seeks information about the Claimant Trust's assets in the Valuation Proceeding, it seeks to have Seery removed as Trustee as part of the Delaware Complaint because he has breached his fiduciary duties and because he has breached the duties of good faith and fair dealing. As a result, not only is standing in the Delaware Complaint based on HMIT's status as a beneficiary under Delaware law, but it is also based on Seery's failure to file a GUC Certification declaring HMIT's status and confirming that HMIT is "in the money" so that Seery can use this manipulation to, among other self-serving things, argue against HMIT's standing. In its Motion for Leave, HMIT seeks to remove Seery and alleges that it has standing to do so not only because it should be recognized as being "in the money," but also because HMIT must be treated as a beneficiary under applicable Delaware law, lest Seery's conflicted position and breaches of the duty of good faith and fair dealing give him the opportunity to unilaterally deprive HMIT of what should

21. The claims asserted by HMIT in the Valuation Proceeding, on the other hand, are not mainly premised on Seery's breaches and failure to allow HMIT's interest to vest. That suit instead largely seeks information to enable the proposed plaintiffs to protect their interests. In other words, although similar, the reasoning and bases for HMIT's standing is not identical in the two proceedings, and therefore a decision on HMIT's standing in the Valuation Proceeding will not be identical to the issue as it is framed in the Motion for Leave. Indeed, because of the multiple arguments in each of the cases, the Valuation Proceeding decision may not address the issues in the Motion for Leave to file the Delaware Complaint at all. And if the Court does make a ruling on standing in the Valuation Proceeding that Highland wishes to rely upon in this proceeding, it could attempt to make that argument at that time, as discussed above in Jamison. Therefore, a stay of the proceedings related to the Motion for Leave is inappropriate.<sup>20</sup>

D. HMIT will be Prejudiced by Denial of its Right to have the Substantive Issues Resolved by a Delaware Court.

22. As set forth in the Motion for Leave, HMIT's rights under the Claimant Trust Agreement are subject to Delaware law to be decided by a Delaware Court. See Motion for Leave at ¶¶ 47–48 (citing Del. Code Ann. Tit. 12, § 3804(e)). HMIT has the right to have its asserted claims

<sup>20</sup> As an alternative to a stay, Highland requests that the Court give Highland a 21-day extension of time to respond to the Motion for Leave if the Court denies the Motion to Stay. Motion to Stay at fn 2. Initially, Highland has already asked for and received a one-week extension to respond to the Motion for Leave, therefore no further extension should be necessary. Additionally, given that Highland's eight-page Motion could have been made within days of the filing of the Motion for Leave, this Court should not condone Highland's arrogant effort to force delay with the timing of its Motion to Stay. Either Highland really has partially prepared its response to the Motion for Leave, making its argument that it is seeking to save the estate money disingenuous, or it deliberately decided to wait until the last minute to seek its relief, thereby attempting to achieve prejudicial delay, regardless of the Court's decision. Either way Highland is acting in bad faith and that too is reason to deny the Motion to Stay, and to allow only the most minimal time to respond to the Motion for Leave, if any.

decided by a Delaware Court. This is because the removal of a trustee is a “matter[] relating to the organization or internal affairs of a statutory trust.” United Bhd. of Carpenters Pension Plan v. Fellner, C.A. No. 9475-VCN, 2015 WL 894810, at *2 n. 13 (Del. Ch. Feb. 26, 2015). Where a company’s internal affairs are involved, Delaware law disregards the forum selection clause in the parties’ trust agreement. Id. The Claimant Trust Agreement’s governing Delaware law squarely rejects Highland’s assertion that a determination of the Valuation Proceeding by a Texas court serves as an adequate substitute for a Delaware court adjudicating HMIT’s substantive rights under the Claimant Trust Agreement.

23. Highland, not HMIT, chose to make the Claimant Trust a Delaware entity governed by both Delaware law and the Delaware courts under the internal affairs doctrine. See id. Accordingly, both HMIT as putative plaintiff and Highland as the author of the Claimant Trust have selected Delaware as the proper forum for adjudication of their substantive rights regarding HMIT’s claims in this case. See In re Volkswagen of Am., Inc. 545 F.3d 304, 314 (5th Cir. 2010) (courts generally should give deference to a plaintiff’s choice of forum). The Motion to Stay is nothing but a transparent attempt, formulated years after the approval of the Claimant Trust Agreement’s provisions, to prevent a substantive determination of HMIT’s rights by the Claimant Trust-mandated Delaware court.

IV. CONCLUSION

24. As the court stated in Gold v. Johns-Manville Sales Corp., the case cited by Highland in support of its Motion to Stay, a party must demonstrate “a clear case of hardship or inequity” if there is “even a fair possibility” that a stay would damage the other party before a stay will be issued. 723 F.2d 1068, 1075-76 (3d Cir. 1983). And as Highland recognized in its Motion, “Courts are sensitive to the prejudice a stay would have on the non-moving party, such as ‘the hardship of being forced to wait an indefinite and ... lengthy time before their causes are heard.”<sup>21</sup> This is exactly the case here. An indefinite stay of the Motion for Leave will harm HMIT, and a denial of the stay will not impact Highland in any meaningful way, let alone irreparably harm Highland as required under the law set forth above. Therefore, the Motion to Stay should be denied in its entirety.

HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST’S SUPPLEMENT TO RESPONSE TO MOTION TO STAY

Hunter Mountain Investment Trust submits the following Supplement to Response to Stay in anticipation of the status conference, currently scheduled for June 12, 2024.

On January 1, 2024, Hunter Mountain Investment Trust ("HMIT") filed its Motion for Leave to File a Delaware Complaint [Dkt. No. 4000] (the "Motion for Leave"). HMIT filed the Motion for Leave, seeking permission to file a complaint in Delaware asking the court to remove James Seery as Clamant Trustee as a result of his breach of his fiduciary duties.

HCMLP and the Highland Claimant Trust filed a motion ("Motion to Stay") asking the court to indefinitely stay all proceeding in connection with HMIT's Motion for Leave. On January 31, 2024, the court issued an Order Granting in Part Highland's Motion to Stay Contested Matter, in which the court stayed all proceedings until the court issued an order determining The Highland Parties' Motion to Dismiss Complaint to (I) Compel Disclosures About the Assets of the Highland Claimant Trust and (II) Determine (A) Relative Value of Those Assets, and (B) Nature of Plaintiffs' Interests in the Claimant Trust [Adv. Proc. 23-03038-sgj, Dkt. No. 13], and holds a status conference with the parties in connection with the Motion for Leave to consider whether to terminate or extend the stay.

On May 24, 2024, the court issued its opinion on the Motion to Dismiss Complaint and the court scheduled a status conference pursuant to the order for June 12, 2024.

HMIT is filing this supplement to bring additional cases to the court's attention that are relevant to the standing issue. Specifically, attached is Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of the opinion issued by the Delaware Supreme Court in Morris v. Spectra Energy Partners (DE) GP, LP, 246 A.3d 121, 136 (Del. 2021).

Morris demonstrates how the Delaware Supreme Court has held that a standing analysis should be more flexible when a defendant controls the facts giving rise to standing. By way of example, although standing to assert derivative claims in the context of mergers typically requires equity ownership, there are exceptions. One of these exceptions includes when “the merger itself is the subject to a fraud claim, perpetrated to deprive shareholders of their standing to bring or maintain a derivative action.” Morris, 246 A.3d at 129 (Del. 2021). Morris stands for the proposition that strict adherence to formulaic standing on a motion to dismiss must yield where the defendant's allegedly unfair conduct attempts to destroy standing.<sup>2</sup>

Similarly, HMIT also submits a true and correct copy of the following case: Shaev v. Wyly, 1998 WL 13858, at *4 (Del. Ch. Jan. 6, 1998) (equitable standing allowed to challenge excessive compensation of directors because “to deny standing on these facts would insulate defendants from potential liability for their alleged misdeeds”), as Exhibit B.

Supreme Court of Delaware.

Paul MORRIS, on behalf of all similarly situated unitholders of Spectra Energy Partners, L.P., Plaintiff Below, Appellant, v.

No. 489, 2019

Submitted: October 28, 2020

Decided: January 22, 2021

Synopsis

Background: Former minority unitholder of acquired master limited partnership brought class action against general partner, alleging that merger exchange ratio was unfair because general partner agreed to merger that did not reflect material value of his derivative claims. The Court of Chancery, Sam Glasscock, Vice Chancellor, 2019 WL 4751521, dismissed the action. Minority unitholder appealed.

Holdings: The Supreme Court, Seitz, C.J., held that:

[1] challenge to fairness of merger itself was preserved for appeal;

[2] arguments about materiality were preserved for appeal; and

[3] derivative claim was material at motion to dismiss stage.

Reversed and remanded.

Procedural Posture(s): On Appeal; Motion to Dismiss for Lack of Standing.

[1] Corporations and Business Organizations Effect of merger, acquisition, reorganization, or dissolution
Corporations and Business Organizations Fairness of transaction
With limited exceptions, a merger extinguishes an equity owner's standing to pursue a derivative claim against the target entity's directors or controller, but the same plaintiff has standing to pursue a post-closing suit if they challenge the validity of the merger itself as unfair because the controller failed to secure the value of a material asset, like derivative claims that pass to the acquirer in the merger.

To establish standing to pursue a claim challenging a merger because the equity owners are not being fairly compensated for the value of material derivative claims, the plaintiff must allege a viable derivative claim, that is material to the overall transaction, and will not be pursued by the buyer and is not reflected in the merger consideration.

[3] Appeal and Error Corporations and other organizations
De novo review applies to a Court of Chancery's finding that a plaintiff lacked standing to pursue his post-merger claims challenging the fairness of a merger consideration for failure to recoup some or all of the value of the derivative claims.

Constitutional Law ➦ Advisory Opinions
Standing is required to ensure that the litigation before the tribunal is a “case or controversy” that is appropriate for the exercise of the court’s judicial powers; it allows Delaware courts, as a matter of self-restraint, to avoid the rendering of advisory opinions at the behest of parties who are mere intermeddlers.

Standing is properly a threshold question that a court may not avoid.

- [7] Action ➦ Persons entitled to sue
If a plaintiff alleges a direct claim, it means that the equity owner has alleged that they have suffered the injury, and will receive the benefit of any recovery; thus, at least at the pleading stage, the plaintiff has met the injury-in-fact requirement and properly invoked the court’s jurisdiction to redress an injury.

- [8] Corporations and Business
Organizations ➦ Derivative action as distinct from direct or individual action in general
For a derivative action, the equity owner acts in a representative capacity on behalf of an entity; in that representative capacity, the plaintiff steps into the shoes of the entity and asserts the injury on its behalf.

- [9] Corporations and Business
Organizations ➦ Effect of merger, acquisition, reorganization, or dissolution
An equity owner does not have standing to pursue derivative claims post-merger except when the merger itself is the subject to a fraud claim, perpetrated to deprive shareholders of their standing to bring or maintain a derivative action, and when the merger is essentially a reorganization that does not affect the equity owner’s relative ownership in the post-merger enterprise.

- [10] Corporations and Business
Organizations ➦ Fairness of transaction
Corporations and Business
Organizations ➦ Good faith and fiduciary duties

To state a direct claim with respect to a merger, a stockholder must challenge the validity of the merger itself, usually by charging the directors with breaches of fiduciary duty resulting in unfair dealing or unfair price.

- [11] Corporations and Business
Organizations ➦ Purchase or Sale of Stock to or from Director, Officer, or Agent
A cause of action for misuse of confidential corporate information, requires a plaintiff to demonstrate that: (1) the corporate fiduciary possessed material, nonpublic company information, and (2) the corporate fiduciary used that information improperly by making trades because she was motivated, in whole or in part, by the substance of that information.

- [12] Appeal and Error ➦ Nature or Subject-Matter of Issues or Questions Challenge to fairness of merger itself was preserved for appeal by former minority unitholder of acquired master limited partnership, in action against general partner, where minority unitholder alleged that former public unitholders were harmed because general partner allowed acquiring business to engineer “roll up” of minority-held units involving merger between limited partnership and acquiring business on terms that were patently unfair and unreasonable to limited partnership and its public unitholders, and that could not have been approved in good faith by new conflicts committee or general partner's board.

[13] Appeal and Error ➔ Nature or subject-matter in general

Arguments about materiality were preserved for appeal of dismissal of class action that had been brought by former minority unitholder of acquired master limited partnership alleging that merger exchange ratio was unfair because general partner agreed to merger that did not reflect material value of his derivative claims, since general partner disputed how court should consider litigation risk when assessing materiality by arguing that minority unitholder's chance of prevailing on derivative claims was "toss-up" or "one-in-five" chance.

[14] Partnership ➔ Persons entitled to sue; standing

Derivative claim was material at motion to dismiss stage, and therefore former minority unitholder of acquired master limited partnership had standing to bring class action alleging that merger exchange ratio was unfair because general partner agreed to merger that did not reflect material value of his derivative claims; even if it was proper to discount $660 million in damages alleged in complaint to reflect public unitholders' interest in derivative recovery, $112 million pro rata interest in derivative claim recovery was comparable to public unitholders' 17 percent proportional interest in merger consideration that was valued at $3.3 billion, i.e., $112 million had to be compared to $561 million.

When the court is faced with a post-merger claim challenging the fairness of a merger based on the defendant's failure to secure value for derivative claims, (1) a court must decide whether the underlying derivative claims were viable; (2)

the derivative claim recovery as pled must be material in relation to the merger consideration, and (3) the court should assess whether the complaint alleges that the acquirer would not assert the underlying derivative claim and did not provide value for it.

12 Cases that cite this headnote

[16] Pretrial Procedure ➔ Parties, Defects as to Pretrial Procedure ➔ Construction of pleadings

When assessing standing at the motion to dismiss stage of the proceedings, a court must accept the plaintiff's factual allegations as true and draw all reasonable inferences in his favor; this does not mean that the court is bound by unreasonable, unsupported, or speculative derivative suit damages claims, but if it is reasonably conceivable that the plaintiff could recover the damages claimed in the complaint, the court must accept that allegation as true for purposes of the motion to dismiss for lack of standing.

If the plaintiff has alleged a viable derivative claim, where it is reasonably conceivable that the claim is material when compared to the merger consideration and could result in the damages pled in the complaint challenging the merger on fairness grounds, the plaintiff has satisfied the materiality requirement at the motion to dismiss stage for standing purposes; a percentage-based risk reduction should not be applied at the pleading stage of the proceedings.

2 Cases that cite this headnote

Standing is concerned only with the question of who is entitled to mount a legal challenge and not with the merits of the subject matter in controversy.

Opinion

[1] With limited exceptions, a merger extinguishes an equity owner's standing to pursue a derivative claim against the target entity's directors or controller. But the same plaintiff has standing to pursue a post-closing suit if they challenge the validity of the merger itself as unfair because the controller failed to secure the value of a material asset—like derivative claims that pass to the acquirer in the merger. Given the difficulties of pursuing such claims, not the least of which is proof that the equity owner received an unfair merger price for their ownership interest, the plaintiff might not prevail on the merits, but they have sufficiently alleged a direct claim to survive a motion to dismiss for lack of standing.

After a $3.3 billion “roll up” of minority-held units involving a merger between Enbridge, Inc. (“Enbridge”) and Spectra Energy Partners L.P. (“SEP”), Paul Morris, a former SEP minority unitholder, lost standing to litigate an alleged $661 million derivative suit on behalf of SEP against its general partner, Spectra Energy Partners (DE) GP, LP (“SEP GP”). Morris reprised the derivative claim dismissal by filing a new class action complaint that alleged the Enbridge/SEP merger exchange ratio was unfair because SEP GP agreed to a merger *125 that did not reflect the material value of his derivative claims.

The Court of Chancery granted SEP GP's motion to dismiss the new complaint for lack of standing. The court held that, to have standing to bring a post-merger claim, Morris had to allege a viable and material derivative claim that the buyer would not assert and provided no value for in the merger. Focusing on the materiality requirement, the court first discounted the $661 million recovery to $112 million to reflect the public unitholders' beneficial interest in the derivative litigation recovery. Then, the court discounted the $112 million further to $28 million to reflect what the court estimated was a one in four chance of success in the litigation. After the discounting, the $28 million—less than 1% of the merger consideration—was immaterial to a $3.3 billion merger.

On appeal, Morris argues that the court should not have dismissed the plaintiff's direct claims for lack of standing. We agree with Morris and find that, on a motion to dismiss for lack of standing, he has sufficiently pled a direct claim attacking the fairness of the merger itself for SEP GP's failure to secure value for his pending derivative claims. Thus, we reverse the Court of Chancery's judgment and remand for further proceedings.

I.

Prior to selling to Enbridge, SE Corp agreed to a 50-50 joint venture with Phillips 66 whereby Phillips would contribute

$1.5 billion and SE Corp would contribute a one-third interest in two long haul natural gas pipelines, implying a $1.5 billion valuation of the contributed assets. Because SEP owned the assets, the parties proposed a “reverse dropdown” to sell the assets from SEP to SE Corp. To purchase the assets from SEP, SE Corp offered to “(i) surrender 20 million SEP limited partner units to SEP for redemption ... and (ii) waive its right to receive up to $4 million in incentive distribution rights [ ] for twelve consecutive quarters ...”<sup>3</sup> SEP GP authorized a conflicts committee to evaluate the reverse dropdown.

SEP's limited partnership agreement required the general partner's conflicts committee to act in “subjective good faith.”<sup>4</sup> According to the complaint's allegations, a financial advisor identified three ways the transaction would provide value to SEP: the redeemed units, the waived distribution rights, and other reduced cash flow due to the loss of assets. Later, however, the adviser included only the first two components as consideration—valued at $946 million—and issued a fairness opinion. The conflicts committee recommended approval, and SEP GP's board approved the reverse dropdown.

After reviewing SEP's books and records, the plaintiff filed a class action derivative *126 complaint on behalf of all owners of SEP public units against SEP GP and SE Corp. The complaint alleged that SEP only received $946 million in the reverse dropdown when SE Corp valued the assets at $1.5 billion. Morris pleaded three derivative claims, including a claim for breach of the limited partnership agreement's “good faith” obligation in approving the reverse dropdown.<sup>5</sup> The court dismissed two of the claims for failure to state a claim, but declined to dismiss the breach of the “good faith” obligation claim. The court found, after drawing all reasonable inferences in Morris's favor, that the complaint “made adequate allegations showing that under reasonably conceivable circumstances a facially unreasonable gap in consideration exists sufficient to infer subjective bad faith.”<sup>6</sup> According to the court, “it was ‘reasonably conceivable that the General Partner acted in subjective bad faith.’”<sup>7</sup> The parties conducted discovery and SEP GP moved for summary judgment. During the litigation, and with the motion summary judgment pending, Enbridge acquired SE Corp in a stock-for-stock merger, becoming SEP GP's ultimate parent and controller of SEP.

In March 2018, SEP's stock price declined by twenty percent in reaction to announcements from the Federal Energy

Regulatory Commission (“FERC”). SEP recognized in its filings with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission that “[t]he change in FERC's policy has had a negative impact on the MLP sector” and that SEP “would attempt to mitigate the impact of the policy change.”<sup>8</sup> In May, Enbridge offered a stock-for-stock exchange to buyout SEP's public unitholders. SEP's public unitholders would receive 1.0123 common shares of Enbridge in exchange for each publicly held common unit of SEP based on the SEP common units' and Enbridge common shares' closing price on the NYSE as of May 16, 2018. SEP closed at a unit price of $33.10 and Enbridge common shares closed at $32.70. According to the plaintiff, this was an opportunistic offer to squeeze out the public unitholders due to an artificially depressed trading price. Another three-member SEP GP conflicts committee went to work, two of whom were on the committee that reviewed the reverse dropdown transaction.

Morris's counsel sent a letter to the conflicts committee and told them that the derivative claim was worth more than $500 million and must be taken into account when negotiating the merger exchange ratio. Counsel also noted that the proposed offer was “woefully inadequate” and “fail[ed] to provide SEP and its public unitholders with any value associated with” the derivative claim.<sup>9</sup> After Morris's counsel met with the conflicts committee's legal and financial advisors, the conflicts committee ultimately determined that the value of the derivative claim, net of defense costs, “was less than $0.”<sup>10</sup> The conflicts *127 committee also found the value of the reverse dropdown to SEP to be about $1.5 billion after adding back the reduced distributions its advisor previously excluded.

As the parties negotiated the buyout, the conflicts committee decided to give no value to the derivative claim but attributed $4 million in saved litigation costs. They also agreed to an exchange ratio “whereby Enbridge would acquire all publicly held SEP units at an exchange ratio of 1.111 shares of Enbridge stock for each publicly held unit of SEP.”<sup>11</sup> On August 24, 2018, SEP announced a definitive merger agreement with Enbridge and its wholly-owned subsidiaries where Enbridge would acquire all publicly held SEP units at an exchange ratio of 1.111 shares of Enbridge stock for each publicly held unit of SEP. The transaction was not subject to approval by a majority of the minority unitholders. The transaction was approved on December 13, 2018. At that time, Enbridge affiliates held about 83% of the outstanding units. About 39% of publicly held units voted in favor of the transaction. After the deal closed, the court dismissed the derivative claim by stipulation of the parties.<sup>12</sup>

After another books and records request, Morris filed this class action on February 8, 2019 against SEP GP, as SEP's general partner, for breaching SEP's limited partnership agreement and the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing. Morris claimed that the conflicts committee and SEP GP's board of directors failed to attribute appropriate value to the pre-merger derivative claim or secure any value for the claim. SEP GP moved to dismiss for lack of standing and failure to state a claim.

[2] The Court of Chancery dismissed Morris's complaint for lack of standing without reaching the arguments for failure to state a claim. The court applied the three-part test from its decision in In re Primedia, Inc. Shareholders Litigation.<sup>13</sup> The Primedia test applies to claims challenging a merger because the equity owners are not being fairly compensated for the value of material derivative claims. To establish standing the plaintiff must allege a viable derivative claim, that is material to the overall transaction, and will not be pursued by the buyer and is not reflected in the merger consideration.<sup>14</sup>

The court found Morris's derivative claim viable because it had already survived a motion to dismiss.<sup>15</sup> Also, the parties did not dispute that SEP's public unitholders received no value for the derivative claim, Enbridge did not intend to pursue the derivative claims post-merger, and Morris pled damages of $661 million. But the court dismissed Morris's two direct claims. First, the court discounted the $661 potential recovery to $112 million to reflect the public unitholders' proportionate share of the litigation recovery. And second, the court discounted the $112 million further to about $28 million to reflect a one-in-four chance of prevailing in the litigation. Finally, the court compared the $28 million to the $3.3 billion merger transaction and found it immaterial. Thus, the court granted SEP GP's motion to dismiss for lack of standing without reaching SEP GP's alternative *128 argument that Morris failed to state a claim for relief.

II.

On appeal the parties have focused their attention on the Court of Chancery's application of its Primedia decision to assess standing. To reiterate, under Primedia's three-part test, which applies to claims alleging an unfair merger because the price does not reflect the value of derivative claims, the plaintiff must allege a viable derivative claim assessed by a motion to dismiss standard.<sup>16</sup> The plaintiff must also allege that the derivative claim was material to the overall merger transaction, will not be pursued by the buyer, and is not reflected in the merger consideration.<sup>17</sup>

According to Morris, the Court of Chancery should not have dismissed his complaint for lack of standing because he pled in detail a direct claim that satisfied the Primedia factors. The parties and the court agreed that the derivative claim was viable because it had survived a motion to dismiss. They also agreed that Enbridge would not assert the claim and provided no value for the claim in the exchange ratio. And, as Morris alleged, the $112 million potential recovery was material to the $3.3 billion transaction. According to Morris, if the Court of Chancery had accepted his well-pleaded factual allegations as true and drawn all reasonable inferences in his favor, it would not have discounted the potential value of the claim such that it became immaterial to the merger value.

The defendants counter that Morris supposedly did not challenge the fairness of the exchange ratio, undermining the claim that SEP GP did not negotiate fair consideration for the public unitholders' SEP units. For the litigation discount issue, the defendants contend that Morris conceded in the Court of Chancery that the derivative claim should be discounted for litigation risk. The defendants also argue that discounting for litigation risk is consistent with prior cases.<sup>18</sup> And, according to the defendants, the "fraud exception to the continuous ownership rule" is the proper method to assess the plaintiff's standing to assert post-merger claims.<sup>19</sup>

[3] We review de novo the Court of Chancery's finding that the plaintiff lacked standing to pursue his post-merger claims challenging the fairness of the merger consideration for failure to recoup some or all of the value of the derivative claims.<sup>20</sup>

A.

[4] [5] [6] The Court of Chancery dismissed Morris's complaint for lack of standing. Standing "refers to the right of a party to invoke the jurisdiction of a court to enforce a claim or redress a grievance.”<sup>21</sup> Standing *129 is required to “ensure that the litigation before the tribunal is a ‘case or controversy’ that is appropriate for the exercise of the court’s judicial powers.”<sup>22</sup> It allows Delaware courts, “as a matter of self-restraint,” to “avoid the rendering of advisory opinions at the behest of parties who are mere intermeddlers.”<sup>23</sup> “[S]tanding is properly a threshold question that the Court may not avoid.”<sup>24</sup>

[8] [9] In contrast, for a derivative action, the equity owner acts in a representative capacity on behalf of an entity. In that representative capacity, the plaintiff steps into the shoes of the entity and asserts the injury on its behalf.<sup>28</sup> If the equity holder has successfully jumped over 8 Del. C. § 327 of the Delaware General Corporation Law, Court of Chancery Rule 23.1, and our decisional law hurdles, standing exists to pursue a derivative claim on behalf of the entity.<sup>29</sup> But, under Lewis v. Anderson,<sup>30</sup> the equity owner no longer has standing to pursue derivative claims post-merger except in two instances—when the merger itself is the subject to a fraud claim, perpetrated to deprive shareholders of their standing to bring or maintain a derivative action; and when the merger is essentially a reorganization that does not affect the equity owner’s relative ownership in the post-merger enterprise.<sup>31</sup>

The Supreme Court and the Court of Chancery are frequently called upon to *130 draw the dividing line between direct and derivative claims following a merger. Our recent decision in El Paso Pipeline GP Co., L.L.C. v. Brinckerhoff<sup>32</sup> is particularly relevant here, as it addressed standing following a merger in the context of a master limited partnership. In El Paso, the plaintiff filed derivative claims on behalf of the limited partnership against the general partner claiming that the limited partnership substantially overpaid for the assets in a transaction. While the derivative suits were pending, the limited partnership was acquired in a merger. Although the Court of Chancery recognized that a merger typically results in the plaintiff losing standing to pursue pending derivative claims, it characterized the plaintiff’s claims as both direct and derivative, circumventing the post-merger standing impediment. The court also held that, even if the plaintiff’s claims were purely derivative, they survived the merger because dismissal would leave the minority equity owners without a remedy for the general partner’s unfair dealing.

On appeal, this Court reversed. First, we noted that standing in corporate cases is a threshold inquiry because it implicates the exercise of the court’s jurisdiction.<sup>33</sup> We observed that derivative standing is a “creature of equity” that allows a court of equity to hear claims by equity owners “to prevent a complete failure of justice on behalf of the corporation.”<sup>34</sup> We also viewed standing as a fluid concept, that can change as a result of “a myriad of subsequent legal or factual causes that occur while the litigation is in progress” such as the loss of the plaintiff’s status as an equity holder.<sup>35</sup> If standing is lost, “the court lacks the power to adjudicate the matter, and the action will be dismissed as moot unless an exception applies.”<sup>36</sup>

Second, we held that the plaintiff brought his claims as derivative claims, and his claims remained derivative claims throughout the litigation. Even though the plaintiff’s derivative claims involved a limited partnership, where most rights are governed by agreement rather than fiduciary duties, our Court held that Tooley v. Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette, Inc.,<sup>37</sup> and its two-part test for drawing a line between direct and derivative claims, applied.<sup>38</sup> Under Tooley, the court must answer *131 two questions: “[w]ho suffered the alleged harm—the corporation or the suing stockholder individually,” and “who would receive the benefit of the recovery or other remedy?”<sup>39</sup> In El Paso, we found under Tooley that the limited partnership suffered the harm and would benefit from any recovery. Thus, the plaintiff’s claims were purely derivative, and under Lewis v. Anderson the derivative claims passed to the buyer following the merger. The plaintiff no longer had standing to pursue the derivative claims.

Finally, and directly relevant to this appeal, we recognized in El Paso that, even though the plaintiff lost standing to pursue derivative claims post-merger, a narrow avenue of relief was still available to the plaintiff—a direct claim challenging the validity of the merger when the general partner failed to secure the value of material derivative claims in the merger for the minority equity owners:

Under our law, equity holders confronted by a merger in which derivative claims will pass to the buyer have the right to challenge the merger itself as a breach of the duties they are owed. In many cases, it might be difficult to allege that the value they are receiving in the merger is unfair simply as a result of the failure to consider value associated with their derivative suit. But that reality may also suggest that, even according full value to the potential recovery in the derivative suit (rarely a guarantee), the plaintiffs still received fair value in the merger. ... The derivative plaintiff's recourse was to file a money damages challenge to the merger and prove that the failure to accord value to the limited partnership in the merger was somehow violative of his rights.<sup>40</sup>

In reaching this conclusion, we relied on our decision in Parnes v. Bally Entertainment Corp.<sup>41</sup> In Parnes, the plaintiff alleged that in negotiations between Bally Entertainment Corp. and Hilton Hotels Corp., the CEO's actions—requiring a bribe of “several substantial cash payments and asset transfers” before consenting to a merger—resulted in the stockholders receiving an unfair price.<sup>42</sup> After the merger closed, the Court of Chancery found the claim derivative and dismissed the complaint for lack of standing. We reversed, finding that the complaint “directly challenges the fairness of the process and the price in the Bally/Hilton merger.”<sup>43</sup>

We distinguished the direct claim attacking the merger itself from the derivative claim in Kramer v. Western Pacific Industries.<sup>44</sup> In Kramer, the plaintiff alleged “wrongful transactions associated with the merger (such as the award of golden parachutes) [that] reduced the amount paid to [the target's] stockholders,” but “did not allege that the merger *132 price was unfair or that the merger was obtained through unfair dealing.”<sup>45</sup> Our Court held that the complaint stated only a derivative claim for mismanagement.<sup>46</sup> Although the plaintiff alleged that wrongful transactions associated with the merger reduced the amount paid to the target's stockholders, “it did not allege that the merger price was unfair or that the merger was obtained through unfair dealing.”<sup>47</sup> That “such a claim is asserted in the context of a merger does not change its fundamental nature.”<sup>48</sup>

[10] Thus, in Kramer what the plaintiff failed to plead was a challenge to the merger itself rather than attack the side benefits secured by some merger participants. After Parnes, “to state a direct claim with respect to a merger, a stockholder must challenge the validity of the merger itself, usually by charging the directors with breaches of fiduciary duty resulting in unfair dealing and/or unfair price.”<sup>49</sup> Finally, in Parnes we separated the standing inquiry from whether the complaint states a claim for relief.<sup>50</sup> After reversing the court on standing, we also reversed the court's conclusion that the complaint failed to state a claim under Rule 12(b)(6) because the complaint alleged sufficient facts of unfairness to overcome business judgment rule review.<sup>51</sup>

B.

As noted in Parnes, “it is often difficult to determine whether a stockholder is challenging the merger itself, or alleged wrongs associated with the merger ....”<sup>52</sup> After Parnes, the Court of Chancery was left to fill in the details. It was not an easy assignment. In Golaine v. Edwards,<sup>53</sup> the plaintiff challenged a $20 million payment to Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co., L.P. (“KKR”) made in connection with a merger between The Gillette Company and Duracell International, Inc. KKR's affiliate, KKR Associates, L.P., owned 34% of Duracell's outstanding common stock. The defendants filed a motion to dismiss and claimed that Golaine's challenge to the $20 million payment was a derivative rather than direct claim because the plaintiff failed to allege that the merger terms were tainted by the $20 million fee. In granting the defendants' motion to dismiss, the court concluded that the fee did not taint the merger negotiation process or the merger terms. Thus, the transaction was not unfair to Duracell's non-KKR stockholders, and the plaintiff failed to state an individual claim. It also held that the complaint failed to plead facts rebutting the business judgment rule's presumptive applicability to the Duracell board's decision to award KKR the fees or plead facts to support a waste claim.

*133 In applying Parnes, the court in Golaine focused less on standing and more on the merits of a post-merger direct claim, and remarked about how the two inquiries overlap at times:

the derivative-individual distinction as articulated in Parnes is revealed as primarily a way of judging whether a plaintiff has stated a claim on the merits. ... Parnes can be straightforwardly read as stating the following basic proposition: a target company stockholder cannot state a claim for breach of fiduciary duty in the merger context unless he adequately pleads that the merger terms were tainted by unfair dealing. If the plaintiff cannot meet that pleading standard, then he has simply not stated a claim under Rule 12(b)(6). This merits focus of Parnes is, in my view, a more candid approach that places primary emphasis on whether compensable injury to the target stockholders is alleged rather than on whether the target stockholder's complaint has articulated only a waste or mismanagement claim for which there is likely no proper plaintiff on earth.<sup>54</sup>

In In re Massey Energy Co. Derivative & Class Action Litigation,<sup>55</sup> stockholders of a coal mining corporation filed derivative suits against the board and company officers for lack of oversight and to hold them responsible for the financial harm from a tragic mine disaster. While the derivative suits progressed, Massey's board entered into a merger agreement with another mining company. The plaintiffs sought a preliminary injunction to prevent the merger from closing, claiming that the Massey Board should have negotiated to have the derivative claims transferred into a litigation trust for the benefit of Massey stockholders. According to the plaintiffs, the merger was unfair because it allowed the buyer to acquire Massey without paying fair value for the value of the derivative claims.

While the merger had not yet closed and the court viewed the case through a preliminary injunction lens, the court had to grapple with the value of derivative claims and the loss of standing to pursue them once the merger closed.<sup>56</sup>

First, the court found the Caremark<sup>57</sup> claims against the defendants viable. Second, and fatal to the plaintiffs' preliminary injunction claim, the court found that a best-case successful recovery of $95 million was immaterial to an $8.5 billion merger. Thus, given the relative immateriality of the derivative claims, the court was not persuaded on a preliminary injunction record that the merger would likely be found to be economically unfair to the Massey stockholders for failing to capture the value of the derivative claims. Importantly, the court did not couch its ruling on standing grounds. Instead, *134 the court found that the plaintiff had failed to demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits to earn a preliminary injunction enjoining the merger.

[11] After Golaine and Massey, the Court of Chancery in Primedia gathered the strands of these and other post-Parnes cases and knitted them together into a three-part test. In Primedia, the plaintiffs filed a derivative action on Primedia Inc.'s behalf and alleged that KKR traded on inside information in a 2002 preferred stock purchase. They sought disgorgement of KKR's profits under Brophy v. Cities Service Co.<sup>58</sup> While they litigated the derivative case, Primedia, Inc. merged with a private equity entity. The plaintiffs then filed a class action suit and alleged that the merger terms were unfair because the Primedia directors failed to obtain any value for the Brophy claim. They also argued that the merger conferred a special benefit on KKR because KKR knew any acquirer was unlikely to pursue the Brophy claim post-merger. The special benefit, according to the plaintiffs, required court review of the merger under entire fairness.

Recognizing that the post-merger class action complaint required application of the Parnes decision, on a motion to dismiss the Court of Chancery read Parnes to require first an inquiry into standing, and second, an evaluation of the merits of the claims.<sup>59</sup> Drawing from the court's Golaine and Massey decisions, the court distilled the standing inquiry into a three-part test:

A plaintiff claiming standing to challenge a merger directly under Parnes because of a board's alleged failure to obtain value for an underlying derivative claim must meet a three part test. First, the plaintiff must plead an underlying derivative claim that has survived a motion to dismiss or otherwise could state a claim on which relief could be granted. Second, the value of the derivative claim must be material in the context of the merger. Third, the complaint challenging the merger must support a pleadings-stage inference that the acquirer would not assert the underlying derivative claim and did not provide value for it.<sup>60</sup>

The Court of Chancery found the Brophy derivative claim viable because it *135 would survive a motion to dismiss. For the materiality requirement, the court found potential recoverable damages of $190 million plus substantial prejudgment interest, which was material when compared to the $330 million merger. The court also noted that the amounts were material even if discounted to reflect the minority stockholders' beneficial interest in the litigation recovery. Primedia's minority stockholders owned 42% of its outstanding stock. Their pro rata share of the merger consideration was $133 million. Their pro rata share of a $190 million recovery on the Brophy claim would be $80 million.

In a parting comment illustrating the materiality of the derivative claims, the court risk-adjusted the potential recovery and found it material in relation to the proceeds the minority would receive in the merger:

Clearly there is risk in the litigation, and to succeed, plaintiffs will have to prove materiality and scienter. These challenges, however, are not similar to those that led Chancellor Strine in Massey Energy to discount so heavily the value of the derivative claims. If I assume prevailing on the Brophy claim was a toss-up, or even a 1-in-5 proposition, the risk-adjusted, pre-interest recoveries for the minority of $40 million and $16 million, respectively, remain material when compared to their $133 million share of the proceeds from the Merger.<sup>61</sup>

After finding that the derivative claims were viable and material, the court also found that the acquirer would not assert the Brophy claim post-merger and provided no value for it in the merger consideration. Turning to whether the plaintiffs stated a claim for relief, the court held that it was reasonably conceivable that KKR received a special benefit in the merger because no acquirer likely would have pursued the Brophy claim post-merger, and the defendants did not extract value for or take steps to preserve the Brophy claim. Thus, the entire fairness standard of review applied to the merger, and the plaintiffs alleged sufficient grounds that the merger was not entirely fair.<sup>62</sup>

[12] [13] In this appeal the procedural issues do not warrant lengthy discussion. After a review of the record, we are satisfied that Morris preserved for appeal a challenge to the fairness of the merger itself, and SEP GP disputed how the court should consider litigation risk when assessing materiality. Morris alleged that former public unitholders were harmed because “SEP GP has allowed Enbridge to engineer the Roll-Up Transaction on terms that were patently unfair and unreasonable to SEP and its public unitholders, and that could not have been approved in good faith by the New Conflicts Committee or the SEP GP Board.”<sup>63</sup> Specifically, Morris pled that “the New Conflicts Committee and the SEP GP Board utterly failed to attempt to (i) appropriately value the Derivative Claim, or (ii) secure any value for the Derivative Claim in its negotiations concerning the Roll-Up Transaction.”<sup>64</sup> SEP GP also argued that Morris's chance *136 of prevailing on the derivative claims was a “toss-up” or a “one-in-five” chance, essentially copying the odds from the Primedia decision.<sup>65</sup> Thus, the parties preserved their appellate arguments about materiality.

[14] The main issue on appeal is whether the Court of Chancery stayed true to the standard of review on a motion to dismiss for lack of standing. In other words, did the court accept as true all reasonable factual allegations in the complaint and consider whether it was reasonably conceivable that Morris asserted a direct claim that could lead to a $661 million recovery on the derivative claims? After our review of the complaint, we find that the court strayed from the proper standard of review, and Morris had standing to pursue his post-merger complaint.

As discussed earlier, to have standing, the plaintiff must plead a direct claim. Under Parnes, to plead a direct claim, the plaintiff must allege that the merger itself was unfair, “by charging the directors with breaches of fiduciary duty resulting in unfair dealing and/or unfair price.”<sup>66</sup> When the court is faced with a post-merger claim challenging the fairness of a merger based on the defendant's failure to secure value for derivative claims, we think that the Primedia framework provides a reasonable basis to conduct a pleadings-based analysis to evaluate standing on a motion to dismiss.

[15] First, the court must decide whether the underlying derivative claims were viable, meaning they would survive a motion to dismiss. Meritless derivative claims would have no impact on the merger price. Second, the derivative claim recovery as pled must be material in relation to the merger consideration. An immaterial derivative claim would have little or no impact on the merger price. For example, a $10 million derivative claim could not reasonably be expected to be material to a $1 billion merger value. The same derivative claim would be material to a $20 million merger. And finally, the court should also assess whether the complaint alleges that the acquirer would not assert the underlying derivative claim and did not provide value for it.<sup>67</sup>

[16] When assessing standing at the motion to dismiss stage of the proceedings, the court must accept the plaintiff's factual allegations as true and draw all reasonable inferences in his favor. This does not mean that the court is bound by unreasonable, unsupported, or speculative derivative suit damages claims. But if it is reasonably conceivable that the plaintiff could recover the damages claimed in the complaint, the court must accept that allegation as true for purposes of the motion to dismiss for lack of standing.

Here, the parties do not dispute the viability of the derivative claim. Morris's derivative claim survived a motion to dismiss.

*137 The parties also did not dispute that SEP GP secured no value for the derivative claim, and Enbridge would not assert the claim post-merger. Regarding materiality, Morris alleged that his derivative claim could lead to a more than $660 million damages award, including prejudgment interest, which was material when compared to a $3.3 billion merger.<sup>68</sup> The court could reasonably infer that if Morris prevailed on his challenge to the reverse dropdown transaction, Morris could recover at least $660 million.

The court, however, discounted the potential $660 million recovery to $112 million to reflect the minority unitholders' 17% beneficial interest in the derivative litigation recovery. The Court of Chancery then reduced the $112 million further to account for litigation risk because it was still “a litigable question whether Reduced GP Cash Flow represented value to the Partnership in the Reverse Dropdown, which would vindicate the Defendant's approval of the transaction objectively.”<sup>69</sup> The court also held that even if SEP GP's valuation was incorrect, it would not breach the limited partnership agreement because Morris would still have to prove “the work of the Defendant's advisor, Simmons, on the Reverse Dropdown did not fit in the parameters of Section 7.10(b) of the Second A & R LPA.”<sup>70</sup> The court observed that Morris would have to demonstrate that “SEP GP did not ‘reasonably believe’ that the valuation of the transaction was within Simmons' competence, negating any ‘safe harbor’ for the Defendant.”<sup>71</sup> Finally, Morris would also “have to demonstrate the Defendant's subjective bad faith to recover damages on behalf of SEP ....”<sup>72</sup> Taking these difficulties into account, the court concluded:

I find that the chance of success of the Derivative Claim was slim, and certainly less than one-in-four. Twenty-five percent of $112,370,000 is $28,092,500. This represents less than one percent of the total value of the Roll-Up. One percent is not material in the context of the Roll-Up. The Plaintiff consequently does not have standing to pursue his claims.<sup>73</sup>

We see two errors in the court's materiality analysis at the motion to dismiss stage of the proceedings. First, as discussed earlier, the court must accept Morris's factual allegations as true and draw all reasonable inferences in his favor.<sup>74</sup> In its prior decision the court found that Morris's complaint "made adequate allegations showing that under reasonably conceivable circumstances a facially unreasonable gap in consideration exists sufficient to infer subjective bad faith."<sup>75</sup> Thus, "it was 'reasonably conceivable that the General Partner acted in subjective bad faith.'"<sup>76</sup> It was *138 also reasonably conceivable that, had Morris succeeded in the derivative suit challenging the reverse drop down transaction, the recovery could have been at least $660 million. Applying a further litigation risk discount at the pleading stage was inconsistent with the court's standard of review on a motion to dismiss for lack of standing.

Second, even if it was proper to discount the $660 million in damages alleged in the complaint to reflect the public unitholders' interest in the derivative recovery, to maintain equivalence, the court should have compared the $112 million pro rata interest in the derivative claim recovery to the public unitholders' proportional interest in the merger consideration. The public unitholders had a 17% interest in SEP. The merger consideration was valued at $3.3 billion. An apples-to-apples comparison would have compared $112 million to $561 million.<sup>77</sup> Under this calculation, the derivative claim was material at the motion to dismiss stage.

Neither Massey nor Primedia require a different result. As discussed earlier, in Massey the plaintiffs alleged in their complaint Caremark damages equal to the damages that the company suffered from the mining disaster—estimated to be $900 million to $1.4 billion. Even though the plaintiffs pled a viable Caremark claim, the court refused to equate the value of the Caremark claim with the damages suffered from the mine explosion. Unlike here, where Morris is entitled to certain presumptions in his favor, the court made its assessment as part of a preliminary injunction motion, where likelihood of success is one of the requirements. The court properly took into consideration the substantive difficulties confronting the plaintiff in proving and collecting on their Caremark claims. On an extensive record before the court, it predicted that the best-case recovery was $95 million, based not on the full damages caused the company by the mine disaster but on the policy limits for directors' and officers' insurance coverage. The plaintiff did not show a likelihood that it would succeed on its challenge to the fairness of the merger for failing to secure value for a $95 million derivative claim recovery as part of a $8.5 billion merger.<sup>78</sup> Importantly, the court did not apply a percentage reduction based on litigation risk. Instead, on a substantial record, the court gave the plaintiffs the benefit of their realistic, best-case recovery.

Primedia is also distinguishable. The court in Primedia found that the plaintiffs' Brophy claim was material and did not face the same impediments to recovery as the plaintiffs faced in Massey. It was only after the court found that the plaintiffs had a strong and material derivative case that the court concluded its analysis with what can be best characterized as confirmation of its materiality conclusion.

The court stated that even if the Brophy claim "was a toss-up, or even a 1-in-5 proposition, the risk-adjusted, pre-interest recoveries for the minority of $40 million and $16 million, respectively, remain material when compared to their $133 million share of the proceeds from the Merger."<sup>79</sup> As we interpret the court's percentage risk adjustment, *139 it served only as a hypothetical to illustrate the strength and materiality of the plaintiffs' claims even if there were obstacles to recovery.

[17] In any event, on a motion to dismiss for lack of standing, we are not addressing the likelihood of success on a preliminary injunction record. A percentage-based risk reduction should not be applied at this stage of the proceedings. If the plaintiff has alleged a viable derivative claim, where it is reasonably conceivable that the claim is material when compared to the merger consideration and could result in the damages pled in the complaint, the plaintiff has satisfied the materiality requirement at the motion to dismiss stage for standing purposes. Morris has met this standard and his claims should not be dismissed for lack of standing.

III.

[18] Standing is concerned “only with the question of who is entitled to mount a legal challenge and not with the merits of the subject matter in controversy.”<sup>80</sup> If the court finds that the plaintiff has standing, on the defendant's motion the court should also consider a motion to dismiss for failure to state

a claim. For the first time on appeal, SEP GP has asked us to consider its motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. Because the record is complex and it is not clear what has been incorporated by reference, we think that the Court of Chancery should consider the motion first. It also might be a better use of the court's scarce resources to consider a motion for summary judgment, after the completion of discovery, rather than a motion to dismiss. But we leave it to the Court of Chancery's discretion. We reverse the Court of Chancery's judgment and remand for further proceedings. Jurisdiction is not retained.

Opinion

STEELE, Vice Chancellor.

*1 On defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment, I find that where plaintiff: (1) currently owns shares in two independent corporations that used to stand in a parent/wholly-owned subsidiary relationship and (2) once had legal standing as a shareholder of the parent to bring a double derivative action on behalf of the former subsidiary for its directors' alleged breach of fiduciary duty but (3) lost that legal standing when the parent "spun-off" the subsidiary, plaintiff nonetheless has equitable standing to bring a derivative action on behalf of the former subsidiary to recover for the alleged breach of fiduciary duty, even though the challenged actions occurred before plaintiff could have owned shares in the subsidiary.

Facts

Plaintiff, David B. Shaev, brings this derivative action on behalf of Sterling Commerce, Inc. ("Commerce"). Commerce was formed in December of 1995 as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Sterling Software, Inc. ("Software"). Plaintiff has owned shares of Software for several years, but he first became a shareholder of Commerce on September 30, 1996, as the result of a spin-off in which he received shares of Commerce as a dividend.

Plaintiff alleges that the options, which may extract from Commerce between $139 million and $245 million, constitute excessive compensation to defendants. Plaintiff concedes that because he was a Software shareholder on March 8, 1996, he could have challenged the option plan at that time by filing a double derivative suit on Commerce's behalf. Once the Commerce spin-off was complete, and Software was no longer Commerce's parent, however, plaintiff lost his legal standing to bring a double derivative action on Commerce's behalf. Thus, on February 20, 1997, plaintiff filed suit derivatively on Commerce's behalf, alleging that defendants, "most of [whom] have two or three other full-time jobs ... as their primary occupations" and "cannot reasonably be expected to devote full time attention and service to the business of Commerce,"<sup>3</sup> breached their fiduciary duty of loyalty by granting themselves excessive compensation in a self-interested transaction. Plaintiff seeks, inter alia, rescission of the option plan.

Defendants filed a Motion for Summary Judgment, arguing that because the board enacted the option plan when Commerce was a wholly-owned subsidiary of Software, they owed fiduciary duties solely to Software and its shareholders. Although plaintiff held Software shares at the time the options were granted, he did not bring suit in his capacity as a Software shareholder, double derivatively. Defendants contend that they owed plaintiff no fiduciary duty as a “prospective” shareholder of Commerce and that plaintiff lacks standing to sue as a current shareholder of Commerce, because he does not satisfy the contemporaneous ownership requirement of 8 Del. C. § 327.

Discussion

*2 A motion for summary judgment may be granted when no genuine issue of material fact is in dispute, and the moving party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.<sup>4</sup> It is undisputed that at the time the option plan was created, Commerce was a wholly-owned subsidiary of Software. Defendants contend that under Anadarko Petroleum Corp. v. Panhandle Eastern Corp.,<sup>5</sup> “[t]he directors of a wholly owned subsidiary cannot be held liable to post-spin stockholders for actions taken by those directors prior to the spin-off.”<sup>6</sup> Defendants argue that Anadarko is directly on point and mandates that summary judgment be granted in their favor.

A brief discussion of Anadarko's facts will reveal that the case is not on all fours with the instant case. In Anadarko, the Supreme Court addressed “whether a corporate parent and directors of a wholly-owned subsidiary owe fiduciary duties to the prospective stockholders of the subsidiary after the parent declares its intention to spin-off the subsidiary.”<sup>7</sup> On August 20, 1986, Panhandle, the parent corporation of Anadarko, announced that on October 1, 1986, it would “distribut[e] one share of Anadarko common stock for each issued and outstanding share of Panhandle stock held of record on September 12, 1986.”<sup>8</sup> To increase the value of the spin-off, representatives of the two corporations applied, successfully, to the New York Stock Exchange to create a market in Anadarko stock before the date of distribution. Approximately three million Anadarko shares were traded on a when-issued basis, reflecting the value of Anadarko as an independent entity, before the dividend distribution date.<sup>9</sup> On September 30, 1996, one day before the distribution date, Anadarko's board, by a 3-2 vote, agreed to modify existing contracts between Panhandle and Anadarko in a manner that was favorable to Panhandle and unfavorable to Anadarko.

Anadarko sued Panhandle and the three former Anadarko directors who had approved the contract modifications. On appeal, Anadarko argued that the contracts were voidable because they were “unfair and were approved in violation of fiduciary duties owed to the prospective stockholders of Anadarko.”<sup>10</sup> The Supreme Court began its analysis by stating two settled rules of law: (1) “a parent does not owe a fiduciary duty to its wholly-owned subsidiary,”<sup>11</sup> and (2) “in a parent and wholly-owned subsidiary context, the directors of the subsidiary are obligated only to manage the affairs of the subsidiary in the best interests of the parent and its shareholders.”<sup>12</sup> Anadarko argued, inter alia, that the case at bar presented an exception to these general rules because “by setting a record date for the dividend distribution and by establishing a market for Anadarko shares to be traded on a when-issued basis,” Panhandle created a class of beneficial owners of Anadarko stock to whom it and the Anadarko directors owed fiduciary duties.<sup>13</sup> The Supreme Court disagreed and held that even under the unique circumstances presented, no fiduciary duties were owed to the prospective Anadarko shareholders before the date of distribution.

*3 Anadarko is not controlling in the present case. Software did nothing between the announcement of the spin-off and the distribution date that could arguably suggest it created fiduciary duties where there otherwise were none, and plaintiff does not claim that Commerce's directors owed him a duty as a prospective Commerce shareholder. Unlike Anadarko, the spin-off in the present action had not been announced, and may not even have been contemplated, at the time the events now challenged as a breach of fiduciary duty took place. While the general fiduciary duty rules of parents and wholly-owned subsidiaries stated in Anadarko apply, the distinct scenario addressed in Anadarko is not in issue here. At the time the option plan was enacted, Commerce owed fiduciary duties only to Software and Software's shareholders. That is why, as both parties concede, plaintiff could have filed a double derivative action on Commerce's behalf between March 8 and September 30. Plaintiff never instituted such an action, however. Instead, plaintiff filed a derivative action as a current Commerce shareholder.

This brings us to defendants' second argument. It is undisputed that the option plan was enacted on February 12, 1996, but that plaintiff did not become a Commerce shareholder until September 30, 1996. Thus, defendants contend that plaintiff lacks standing to bring this derivative action, and this Court must grant defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment as a matter of law, because plaintiff was not a Commerce shareholder at the time of the alleged wrong. 8 Del. C. § 327 states:

In any derivative suit instituted by a stockholder of a corporation, it shall be averred in the complaint that the plaintiff was a stockholder of the corporation at the time of the transaction of which he complains or that his stock devolved upon him by operation of law.

Plaintiff argues that this presents a catch-22; he alleges that he can make out a case of corporate wrongdoing but, because of the strict application of some technical legal rules, he can sue neither derivatively nor double derivatively, and the alleged wrongdoers are insulated from suit. Plaintiff contends that a court of equity cannot sanction such a result. Indeed, this Court stated as much in Helfand v. Gambee.<sup>14</sup>

The plaintiff in Helfand owned shares in Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation (“Fox of N.Y.”). Fox of N.Y. produced and distributed films and, through its wholly-owned subsidiary, National Theaters Corp. (“NTC”), owned and operated movie theatres. In 1951, pursuant to an antitrust consent decree, Fox of N.Y. began a reorganization to separate its film production and distribution assets from its theatre assets. The result of the reorganization, in simplified terms, was that Fox of N.Y. and NTC were dissolved and replaced by two new corporations, respectively, Fox of Delaware and National Theatres, Inc. (“NTI”). The former shareholders of Fox of N.Y., including the plaintiff, held two shares of stock for each share of Fox of N.Y. they had owned, one in Fox of Delaware and one in NTI. The shares in Fox of Delaware represented the shareholders’ interest in Fox’s film production and distribution business, and the shares in NTI represented the shareholders’ interest in Fox’s theatre business.

*4 The plaintiff later filed a derivative action on behalf of NTI seeking an accounting by its directors, who had also been directors of NTC, for their activities both before and after the reorganization. The director defendants moved to dismiss portions of the complaint on the grounds that, under section 327, the plaintiff had no standing to sue for alleged wrongdoing that occurred before she became a shareholder of NTI. It should be noted, although the Helfand Court did not, that before September of 1952, the plaintiff could have filed a double derivative action on behalf of NTC.

This Court allowed the plaintiff to pursue her derivative action, despite the language of section 327 and the fact that the plaintiff had voted in favor the reorganization. The Court found that the purpose of section 327, to prevent the purchasing of shares for the purpose of bringing a derivative action to recover for wrongdoing antedating the purchase, would not be served by preventing the plaintiff’s suit because she was not such a purchaser.<sup>15</sup> The Court also noted that section 327 was not enacted “to prevent the correction of corporate wrongdoing.”<sup>16</sup> Furthermore, the plaintiff had owned shares in Fox of N.Y. since 1941. Thus, the Court stated: “the fact that she holds two pieces of paper instead of one as evidence of her 1941 investment in Fox of New York should not ... foreclose her from complaining of acts antedating the incorporation of [NTI] when such corporation is in effect a successor to Fox of New York.”<sup>17</sup>

This case is analogous to Helfand. Plaintiff here did not purchase shares in Commerce to bring suit for actions taken before he was a shareholder. Like the plaintiff in Helfand, plaintiff here “was not a direct party to a transaction which made [him] a stockholder de novo.”<sup>18</sup> Rather, plaintiff has owned shares in Software for several years, and he became a shareholder in Commerce only because Software declared the stock dividend. Thus, the sole aim of section 327 would not be served by denying plaintiff standing to sue.<sup>19</sup> To the contrary, to deny standing on these facts would insulate defendants from potential liability for their alleged misdeeds.

Defendants argue that Helfand is no longer good law, having been implicitly overruled by Anadarko. Again, I believe defendants’ interpretation of Anadarko misses the mark. The contemporaneous ownership requirement of section 327 was not implicated in Anadarko because the former subsidiary corporation brought suit on its own behalf; no shareholder sued derivatively. Anadarko’s holding, that under the circumstances of that case, the parent corporation did not assume fiduciary duties with respect to a class of prospective shareholders the parent created by its own actions, has no applicability to the present case, where plaintiff seeks relief for alleged wrongs that occurred when plaintiff could not have been a prospective shareholder because the impending spin-off had not been announced and may not even have been contemplated.

Conclusion

*5 Plaintiff, as a Software shareholder, had the right to bring a double derivative action on behalf of Commerce for a period of months. Why he did not do so is unclear. I decide only that Software's decision to divest itself of its entire interest in Commerce cannot, as a matter of law, deprive plaintiff of standing to bring a derivative action on behalf of Commerce, even where the challenged actions occurred before plaintiff owned shares in Commerce.

DESIGNATION OF RECORD ON APPEAL

Pursuant to Rules 8009(a)(1)(A)-(B) and (a)(4) of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, Dugaboy Investment Trust and Hunter Mountain Investment Trust ("Appellants") hereby designate the following items to be included in the record and identifies the following issues with respect to its appeal of the Order Granting Motion to Dismiss Adversary Proceeding in which Contingent Interest Holders in Chapter 11 Plan Trust Seek a Post-Confirmation Valuation of Trust Assets [Doc.26-27] which was entered by the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas on May 24, 2024.

I. STATEMENT OF ISSUES TO BE PRESENTED ON APPEAL

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in granting The Highland Parties' Motion to Dismiss Complaint to (I) Compel Disclosures About the Assets of the Highland Claimant Trust and (II) Determine (A) Relative Value of Those Assets, and (B) Nature of Plaintiffs' Interests in the Claimant Trust.
2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred by dismissing Count I under Rule 12(b)(6) based on the Bankruptcy Court's finding that Appellants could not prove any facts that would entitle them to the relief that they sought when the Appellants properly alleged that they have a legal and equitable right to information under the Claimant Trust Agreement and under Delaware and Texas law.
3. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred by dismissing Count II because it was predicated on Count I and was therefore not justiciable under Rule 12(h)(3) when Count I was improperly dismissed.
4. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred by dismissing Count III because it was predicated on Count I and was therefore not justiciable under Rule 12(b)(1) when Count I was improperly dismissed.
5. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in dismissing Count III because the Bankruptcy Court found that Appellants were asking it to issue an opinion based on a set of hypothetical facts and was therefore not justiciable under Rule 12(b)(1) for lack of subject matter jurisdiction when Count III seeks only a declaration that the Claimant Trust assets exceed the obligations of the bankruptcy estate or must be deemed to do so such that Appellants' contingent trust interests are effectively vested, or as an equitable matter, must be treated as vested because the putative defendants are preventing the conditions for formal vesting from occurring.

COMPLAINT TO (I) COMPEL DISCLOSURES ABOUT THE ASSETS OF THE HIGHLAND CLAIMANT TRUST AND
(II) DETERMINE (A) RELATIVE VALUE OF THOSE ASSETS, AND
(B) NATURE OF PLAINTIFFS' INTERESTS IN THE CLAIMANT TRUST

Plaintiffs The Dugaboy Investment Trust (“Dugaboy”) and Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“HMIT” and collectively with Dugaboy, the “Plaintiffs”) file this adversary complaint (the “Complaint”) against Defendants Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCM” or the “Debtor”) and the Highland Claimant Trust (the “Claimant Trust,” and collectively with HCM, the “Defendants”), seeking: (1) disclosures about all distributions and an accounting of the assets and liabilities currently held in the Claimant Trust; (2) a determination of the value of the assets and liabilities; and (3) declaratory relief setting forth the nature of Plaintiffs’ interests in the Claimant Trust.

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. As holders of Contingent Claimant Trust Interests<sup>1</sup> that vest into Claimant Trust Interests once all creditors are paid in full, and as defendants in litigation pursued by Marc S. Kirschner (“Kirschner”) as Trustee of the Litigation Sub-Trust (which seeks to recover damages on behalf of the Claimant Trust), Plaintiffs file this Complaint to obtain information about the assets and liabilities of the Claimant Trust, which was established to monetize and liquidate the assets of the HCM bankruptcy estate.

2. Defendants’ October 21, 2022, January 24, 2023, and April 21, 2023 post-confirmation reports show that even with inflated claims and below-market sales of assets, cash available – if not squandered in self-serving litigation – is more than enough to pay class 8 and class 9 creditors in full. With more than $100 million in assets left to monetize (not even counting related party notes), and almost $550,000 in assets already monetized, even after burning through more than $100 million in professional fees, there is and was more than enough money to pay the inflated $387 million in creditor claims the Debtor allowed. These numbers compel the question

<sup>1</sup> Capitalized terms not defined have the meanings set forth herein. If no meaning is set forth herein, the terms have the meaning set forth in the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization (as Modified) [Docket No. 1808].

– “What was all of this for, other than to justify outsize fees and bonuses for the professionals involved?” See paragraphs 17-18 below. And despite repeated and increasingly specific requests, the Debtor has never provided granular enough information to specifically identify all of the monies raised and where all the money has gone, including another hundred million dollars that appears to be unaccounted. Id.

3. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the entire estate would benefit from a close evaluation of current assets and liabilities. Such evaluation will also show whether assets were marked below appraised value during the pandemic and unreasonably held on the books at those crisis period values, along with overstated liabilities, to justify continued litigation. That litigation has served to enable James P. Seery (“Mr. Seery”) and other estate professionals to carefully extract nearly every last dollar out of the estate (along with incentive fees), leaving little or nothing for the owners that built the company.

4. Significantly, Kirschner seems to concede the merits of Plaintiffs’ position. After Plaintiffs began seeking the relief sought herein (originally by way of motion), Kirschner himself sought a stay of the massive litigation he instituted to evaluate whether the estate actually needed to collect additional funds. Plaintiffs and other defendants in that litigation agreed to the stay but could not convince the Debtor to provide the kind of fulsome disclosure that would allow Plaintiffs to evaluate for themselves the status of the estate, which secrecy continues to leave Plaintiffs with suspicions that prevent an overall resolution of the bankruptcy with no further need for indemnification reserves. Rather, Debtor continues to provide summary information that is not sufficient to enable Plaintiffs to determine the amounts of money being spent on administration and litigation, and not sufficient to determine whether if all litigation ceased, the estate could pay all creditors with money to spare for equity. Plaintiffs are especially concerned because the information they have gleaned suggests inappropriate self-dealing that undermines confidence in the Debtor's financial reporting, making the relief sought herein all the more important.

5. While grave harm has already been done by the Defendants' excessive litigation and unnecessary secrecy, valuation now would at least enable the Court to put an end to this already long-running case and salvage some value for equity. As this Court observed in In re ADPT DFW Holdings, where there is significant uncertainty about insolvency, protections must be put in place so that the conduct of the case itself does not deplete the equity. In some cases, the protection is in the form of an equity committee; here a prompt valuation of the estate is needed.

6. Upon information and belief, during the pendency of HCM's bankruptcy proceedings, creditor claims and estate assets have been sold in a manner that fails to maximize the potential return to the estate, including Plaintiffs. Rather, Mr. Seery, first acting as Chief Executive Officer and Chief Restructuring Officer of the Debtor and then as the Claimant Trustee, facilitated the sale of creditor claims to entities that had undisclosed business relationships with Mr. Seery; entities that Mr. Seery knew would approve inflated compensation to him when the hidden but true value of the estate's assets were realized. Because Mr. Seery and the Debtor have failed to operate the estate in the required transparent manner, they have been able to justify pursuit of unnecessary avoidance actions (for the benefit of the professionals involved), even though the assets of the estate, if managed in good faith, should be sufficient to pay all creditors.

7. Further, by understating the value of the estate and preventing open and robust scrutiny of sales of the estate's assets, Mr. Seery and the Debtor have been able to justify actions to further marginalize equity holders that otherwise would be in the money, such as including plan and trust provisions that disenfranchise equity holders such as Plaintiffs by preventing them from having any input or information unless the Claimant Trustee certifies that all other interest holders have been paid in full. Because of the lack of transparency to date, unless the relief sought herein is granted, there will be no checks and balances to prevent a wrongful failure to certify, much less any process to ensure that the estate has been managed in good faith so as to enable all interest holders, including the much-maligned equity holders, to receive their due.

8. By demonizing the estate equity holders, withholding information, and manipulating the sales of claims and assets, Mr. Seery and the Claimant Trust have maximized the potential for a grave miscarriage of justice and at this time it appears their underhanded plan is succeeding.

9. By June 30, 2022, the estate had $550 million in cash and approximately $120 million of other assets despite paying what appears in reports to be over $60 million in professional fees and selling assets non-competitively, perhaps as much as $75 million below market price.<sup>2</sup> As detailed below, total pre-confirmation professional fees are now over $100 million.

10. On information and belief, the value of the assets in the estate as of June 1, 2022 was:

Highland Capital Assets		Value in Millions
		Low	High
Cash as of Feb 1, 2022		$125.00	$125.00

<sup>2</sup> Examples of non-competitive sales are set forth in letters to the United States Trustee dated October 5, 2021, November 3, 2021 and May 11, 2022.

Affiliate Notes <sup>3</sup>		$50.00	$60.00
Other (Misc. and legal)		$5.00	$20.00
Total (Current Cash + Remaining Assets)		$663.72	$688.84

11. By June 2022, Mr. Seery had also engineered settlements making the inflated face amount of the major claims against the estate $365 million, but which traded for significantly less.

Creditor	Class 8	Class 9	Beneficiary	Purchase Price
Redeemer	$137.0	$0.0	Claim buyer 1	$65 million
ACIS	$23.0	$0.0	Claim buyer 2	$8.0
HarbourVest	$45.0	$35.0	Claim buyer 2	$27.0
UBS	$65.0	$60.0	Claim buyers 1 & 2	$50.0
TOTAL	$270.0	$95.0		$150.0 million

12. Mr. Seery made no efforts to buy the claims into the estate or resolve the estate efficiently. Mr. Seery never made a proposal to the residual holders or Mr. Dondero and never responded to the many settlement offers from Mr. Dondero with a reorganization (as opposed to liquidation) plan, even though many of Mr. Dondero's offers were in excess of the amounts paid by the claims buyers.

13. Instead, Mr. Seery brokered transactions enabling colleagues with long-standing but undisclosed business relationships to buy the claims without the knowledge or approval of the Court. Because the claims sellers were on the creditors committee, Mr. Seery and those creditors had been notified that “Creditors wishing to serve as fiduciaries on any official committee are advised that they may not purchase, sell or otherwise trade in or transfer claims against the Debtor while they are committee members absent an order of the Court.” These transactions are particularly suspect because, depending on the claim, the claims buyers paid amounts only fractionally higher, equivalent to, or, in some cases, less than the value the Plan estimated would be paid three years later. Sophisticated claims buyers responsible to investors of their own would not pay what appeared to be full price unless they had material non-public information that the claims could and would be monetized for much more than the public estimates made at the time of Plan confirmation – as indeed they have been.

14. On information and belief, Mr. Seery provided such information to claims buyers, rather than buying the claims in to the estate for the roughly $150 million for which they were sold. By May 2021, when the claims transfers were announced to the Court, the estate had over $100 million in cash and access to additional liquidity that could have been used to retire the claims for the sale amounts, leaving an operating business in the hands of its equity owners.

15. Specifically, Mr. Seery could and should have investigated seeking sufficient funds from equity to pay all claims and return the estate to the equity holders. This was an obvious path because the estate had assets sufficient to support a $59 million line of credit, as Mr. Seery eventually obtained. If funds had been raised to pay creditors in the amounts for which claims were sold, much of the massive administrative costs run up by the estate would never have been incurred because the larger amounts would not have been needed. One such avoided cost would be the post-effective date litigation pursued by Mr. Kirschner, as Litigation Trustee for the Litigation Sub-Trust, whose professionals likely charged over $2000 an hour for senior lawyers and over $800 an hour for first year associates (data obtained from other cases because there has been no disclosure in the HCM bankruptcy of the cost of the Kirschner litigation). However, buying the claims to resolve the bankruptcy and enabling equity to resume operations would not have had the critical benefit to Mr. Seery that his scheme contained: placing the decision on his incentive bonus, perhaps as much as $30 million or more, in the hands of grateful business colleagues who received outsized rewards for the claims they were steered into buying. The parameters of Mr. Seery's incentive compensation is yet another item cloaked in secrecy, contrary to the general rule that the hallmark of the bankruptcy process is transparency. These circumstance show why Plaintiffs are right to be concerned and why it is critical that transparency be achieved.

16. But worse still, even with all of the manipulation that appears to have occurred, Plaintiffs believe that the combination of cash and other assets held by the Claimant Trust in its own name and held in various funds, reserve accounts, and subsidiaries, if not depleted by unnecessary litigation, would still be sufficient to pay all Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in full, with interest now.

17. Set forth below is Plaintiffs’ best estimate of the assets of the estate. Plaintiffs have been seeking information to enable to them to confirm the accuracy of their estimates, but the Debtor has refused to provide the necessary information to do so. Indeed, after the last quarterly report, in which Debtor provided some but not all of the information Plaintiffs were seeking, Plaintiffs sent a revised list, more precisely targeting the remaining information sought. Because Debtor failed to respond, it remained necessary to file this adversary proceeding.

18. This is Plaintiffs’ best estimate of the assets of the Highland estate and its cash flows. It is obvious that even if off by a significant percent, no further litigation to collect assets for the estate is needed to pay creditors. Moreover, the ample solvency of the estate was or should have been obvious to the estate professionals for quite some time, making the substantial cash burn in the estate utterly unconscionable.

19. In short, it appears that the professionals representing HCM, the Claimant Trust, and the Litigation Sub-Trust have been litigating claims against Plaintiffs and others, even though the only beneficiaries of any recovery from such litigation would be Plaintiffs in this adversary proceeding (and of course the professionals pressing the claims). It is only the cost of the pursuit of those claims that threatens to depress the value of the Claimant Trust sufficiently to justify continued pursuit of the claims, creating a vicious cycle geared only to enrich the professionals, including Mr. Seery, and to strip equity holders of any meaningful recovery. Even with the stay of the Kirschner litigation, the Debtor continues to pursue litigation, such as its vexatious litigant motion, and presumably opposing this litigation, that unnecessarily depletes the estate.

20. Based upon the restrictions imposed on Plaintiffs, including the unprecedented inability for Plaintiffs, as holders of Contingent Claimant Trust Interests, to access virtually any financial information related to the Claimant Trust, Plaintiffs have little to no insight into the value of the Claimant Trust assets versus the Claimant Trust's obligations and no method to independently ascertain those amounts until Plaintiffs become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. Because Mr. Seery and the professionals benefiting from Mr. Seery's actions have ensured that Plaintiffs are in the dark regarding the estate's assets and liabilities, as well as the estate's professional and incentive fees that are rapidly depleting the estate, there is a compelling need for the relief sought herein.

21. In bringing this Complaint, Plaintiffs are seeking transparency about the assets currently held in the Claimant Trust and their value—information that would ultimately benefit all creditors and parties-in-interest by moving forward the administration of the Bankruptcy Case.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

22. This adversary proceeding arises under and relates to the above-captioned Chapter 11 bankruptcy case (the "Bankruptcy Case") pending before the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the "Court").

23. The Court has jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334.

24. This matter is a core proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(A) and (O).

25. In the event that it is determined that the Court, absent consent of the parties, cannot enter final order or judgments over this matter, Plaintiffs do not consent to the entry of a final order by the Court.

CASE BACKGROUND

30. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), HCM, a 25-year Delaware limited partnership in good standing, filed for Chapter 11 restructuring in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware.

31. At the time of its chapter 11 filing, HCM had approximately $400 million in assets (ultimately monetized for much more as a result of market events, such as the sale of HCM’s portfolio companies for substantial profits, as was always planned by Mr. Dondero) and had only insignificant debt owing to Jeffries, with whom it had a brokerage account, and one other entity, Frontier State Bank. [Dkt. No. 1943, ¶ 8]. HCM’s reason for seeking bankruptcy protection was to restructure judgment debt stemming from an adverse arbitration award of approximately $190 million issued in favor of the Redeemer Committee of the Crusader Funds, which, after offsets and adjustments, would have been resolved for about $110 million. Indeed, the Redeemer Committee sold its claim for about $65 million, well below the expected $110 million,<sup>4</sup> and indeed, even below amounts for which Dondero offered to buy the claim.

<sup>4</sup> Reports that Redeemer Committee was paid $78 million note that in addition to the claim, the Committee sold other assets as well, which on information and belief, amounted to about $13 million.

32. At the urging of the newly-appointed Unsecured Creditors Committee (the “Committee”), and over the objection of HCM and its management, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court transferred the bankruptcy case to this Court on December 4, 2019. It seems likely that the creditors sought this transfer to take advantage of antipathy the Court had exhibited to HCM and its management in the ACIS bankruptcy.<sup>5</sup> Shortly after the transfer, and likewise influenced by the adverse characterizations of HCM management in the ACIS bankruptcy, the U.S. Trustee, notwithstanding the Debtor’s apparent solvency, sought appointment of a chapter 11 trustee.

33. To avoid the appointment of a chapter 11 trustee and the potential liquidation of a potentially solvent estate, the Committee and the Debtor agreed that Strand Advisors, Inc., HCM’s general partner, would appoint a three-member independent board (the “Independent Board”) to manage HCM during its bankruptcy. The three board members were:

- a. James P. Seery, Jr. – (who was selected by arbitration awardee and Committee member, the Redeemer Committee);
- b. John Dubel – (who was selected by Committee member UBS); and
- c. Former Judge Russell Nelms – (who was selected by the Debtor).

34. The Bankruptcy Court almost immediately and then repeatedly let the Debtor’s professionals know that its feelings about Mr. Dondero and other equity holders had not changed – a disclosure that led inexorably to the many acts that now threaten to wipe out entirely the value of the equity. For example, at one of the earliest hearings, the Court rejected recommendations by

<sup>5</sup> For example, at a hearing in Delaware Bankruptcy Court on the Motion to Transfer Venue to this Court, Mr. Pomerantz, counsel for Debtor stated, “The debtor filed the case in this district because it wanted a judge to preside over this case that would look at what’s going on with this debtor, with this debtor’s management, this debtor’s post-petition conduct, without the baggage of what happened in a previous case, which contrary to what Acis and the committee says, has very little do with this debtor.” [December 2, 2019 Hearing Transcript at 79, Case No. 19012239 (CSS), Docket No. 181]. The taint of the ACIS case can be seen in that, without having read or even seen the supposedly offending complaint, during the ACIS case Judge Jernigan called Mr. Dondero not just vexatious, but “transparently vexatious,” for allegedly having sued Moody’s for failing to downgrade certain CLOs that ACIS had been manipulating in violation of its indentures and even though the Plaintiff in the supposedly offending case was not Mr. Dondero or any company he controlled [September 23, 2020 Hearing Transcript at 51-52, In re Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLC, Case No. 18-30264-SGJ-11, Docket No. 1186].

Judge Nelms, suggesting he was bamboozled because he was under management's spell. Specifically, Judge Jernigan admitted that normally "Bankruptcy Courts should defer heavily to the reasonable exercise of business judgment by a board... But I'm concerned that Dondero or certain in-house counsel has -- you know, they're smart, they're persuasive... they have exercised their powers of persuasion or whatever to make the Board and the professionals think that there is some valid prospect of benefit to Highland with these [actions], when it's really all about . . . Mr. Dondero." [February 19, 2020 Hearing Transcript at 177.]

35. At around the same time that the Court telegraphed animus towards Mr. Dondero, it also squelched oversight by responsible professionals who could and would have ensured transparency. When the Committee and the Debtor reported to the Court that they had agreed to use Judge Jones and Judge Isgur in Houston as mediators to potentially resolve the bankruptcy case, Judge Jernigan stated that she was "surprised that Judge Jones' or Judge Isgur's staff expressed that they had availability." Debtor's counsel then asked if he could independently follow up with staff for Judges Jones and Isgur regarding their availabilities, and Judge Jernigan said, "I'll take it from here." Six days later, Judge Jernigan simply said, "my continued thought on that [mediation by Judges Jones and Isgur] is that they just don't have meaningful time." [July 14, 2020 Hearing Transcript at 121.] In retrospect, this avoided scrutiny of the case by professionals who would recognize and potentially curtail the Court's unprecedented, immediately biased conduct of the case. This sent a powerful message to Mr. Seery and the other professionals who developed strategies to enrich themselves to the detriment of any possibility of a quick reorganization with equity regaining control.

36. Meanwhile, not realizing the turn the bankruptcy was about to take, Mr. Dondero had agreed to step down as CEO of the Debtor and to the appointment of an Independent Board only because he was assured that new, independent management would expedite an exit from bankruptcy, preserve the Debtor's business as a going concern, and retain and compensate key employees whose work was critical to ensuring a successful reorganization.

37. None of that happened. Almost immediately, Mr. Seery emerged as the de facto leader of the Independent Board. On July 14, 2020, the Court retroactively appointed Mr. Seery Chief Executive Officer and Chief Restructuring Officer, vesting him with the fiduciary responsibilities of a registered advisor to investors and fiduciary responsibilities to the estate. [Dkt. No. 854]. And although Mr. Seery publicly represented that he intended to restructure and preserve HCM's business, privately he was engineering a much different plan.

38. Mr. Seery's public-facing statements stand in stark contrast to what actually happened under his direction and control. For example, Mr. Seery initially reported consistently positive reviews of the Debtor's employees, describing the Debtor's staff as a "lean" and "really good team." He also testified: "My experience with our employees has been excellent. The response when we want to get something done, when I want to get something done, has been first-rate. The skill level is extremely high."

39. Yet, despite these glowing reviews, Mr. Seery failed to put a key employee retention program into place, and although key employees supported Mr. Seery and the Debtor through the plan process, ultimately Mr. Seery fired most of those employees. It was clear that Mr. Seery was firing anyone with perceived loyalty to Mr. Dondero, no doubt leaving remaining staff fearful of challenging Mr. Seery, lest they too be fired.

40. From the start, and before there was much litigation to speak of, the Court regularly referred to Mr. Dondero and related parties as "vexatious litigants," emboldening the Debtor to do the same, even while admitting it had not presented evidence that Mr. Dondero was a vexatious litigant. This was plainly a carryover from the ACIS case where the Court labelled Mr. Dondero a “transparently” vexatious litigant based on pleadings she had only heard about from parties opposing Dondero and admittedly had not read herself. Ironically, the first time Mr. Dondero was labeled “vexatious” by the Court in the HCM case, he was defending himself from three lawsuits initiated by the Debtor and had commented on proposed settlements in the case, but had not himself initiated any actions in the case. Thereafter, though, the Debtor and its professionals repeated the mantra that Dondero and his companies were vexatious litigants to successfully oppose sharing information about the estate with them.

41. In addition to the Debtor’s mistreatment of employees, under the control of the Independent Board, most of the ordinary checks and balances that are the hallmark of bankruptcy were ignored. Despite providing regular and robust financial information to the Committee, the Debtor inexplicably failed and refused to file quarterly 2015.3 reports, leaving stakeholders, including Plaintiffs, in the dark about the value of the estate and the mix of assets it held, bought or sold. Amplifying the lack of transparency, Mr. Seery further engineered transactions that also served to hide the real value of the estate.

42. For example, he authorized the Debtor to settle the claims of HarbourVest (which claims had initially been valued at $0) for $80 million, in order to acquire HarbourVest’s interest in Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. (“HCLOF”), gain HarbourVest’s vote in favor of its Plan, and hide the value of Debtor’s interest in HCLOF by placing it into a non-reporting subsidiary. This created another pocket of non-public information because the pleadings supporting the 9019 settlement valued the HCLOF interest at $22 million, when, on information and belief, it was worth $34.1 million at the time, about $40 million when the settlement was consummated, and over $55 million 90 days later when the MGM sale was announced.

43. At the same time, Mr. Seery and the Independent Board deliberately shut out equity holders from any discussion surrounding the plan of reorganization or HCM's efforts to emerge from bankruptcy as a going concern. Indeed, as noted above, Mr. Seery failed to meaningfully respond to the many proposals made by residual equity holders to resolve the estate and never encouraged any dialogue between creditors and equity holders. These failures only contributed to the difficulty of getting stakeholders' buy-in for a reorganization plan and significantly undermined an efficient exit from bankruptcy.

44. Worse still, while knowing that HCM had sufficient resources to emerge from bankruptcy as a going concern (and, on information and belief, while knowing that the estate was solvent), Mr. Seery and the Independent Board failed to propose any plan of reorganization that contemplated HCM's continued post-confirmation existence. Instead, and inexplicably, the very first plan proposed contemplated liquidation of the company, as did all subsequent plans.

45. While secretly engineering the total destruction of HCM, Mr. Seery also privately settled multiple proofs of claim against the estate at inflated levels that were unreasonable multiples of the Debtor's original estimates. He did this notwithstanding the Debtor's early and vehement objection to many of the claims as baseless. But instead of litigating those objections in a manner that would have exposed the true value of the claims, on information and belief, Mr. Seery settled the claims as a means of brokering sales of the claims at 50-60% of their face values. That is, the inflated values softened up claims sellers to induce them to sell. Had the Debtor instead fought the inflated proofs of claim in open court, it could have settled the claims for closer to true value and ensured that the estate had sufficient resources to pay them.

46. It is also no coincidence that virtually all original proofs of claim were sold to buyers that had prior business relationships with Mr. Seery and/or affiliates of Grosvenor (a company with which Mr. Seery has a long personal history)—buyers that ultimately would be positioned to approve a favorable compensation and bonus structure for Mr. Seery.

47. That the claims sales happened at all is curious in light of the scant publicly-available information about the value of the estate. It would have been impossible, for example, for any of the claims buyers to conduct even modest due diligence to ascertain whether the purchases made economic sense. In fact, the publicly-available information purported to show a net decrease in the estate’s asset value by approximately $200 million in a matter of months during the global pandemic. Dkt. 2949. Given the sophistication of the claims-buyers, their purchases of claims at prices that in some cases exceeded published expected recoveries (according to the schedules then available to the public) would only make sense if they obtained inside information regarding the transactions undertaken by Debtor management that would justify the transfer pricing.

48. And indeed, the claims could and would be monetized for much more than the publicly-available information suggested (as only one with inside information would know). In October 2022, $250 million was paid to Class 8 holders. That is about 85% of the inflated proofs of claim and $90 million more than plan projections. On information and belief, claims buyers have thus had an over 170% annualized return thus far, with more to come. On information and belief, Mr. Seery will use this “success” to justify an incentive bonus estimated in the range of $30 million or more, while engineering the estate to prevent equity holders from objecting or even knowing.

49. At the same time, the Claimant Trust has made no distributions to Contingent Claimant Trust Interest holders and has argued in various proceedings that no such distributions are likely. No wonder. The cost of holding open the estate, including unnecessary litigation costs, appears to have exceeded $140 million post-confirmation, and seems geared to ensure that no such distributions can occur, even though it can now be projected that the litigation is not needed to pay creditors. See Docket No. 3410-1.

50. It is worth noting that it appears that virtually all of the claims trades brokered on behalf of Committee members seem to have occurred while those entities remained on the Committee. Yet at the outset of their service, Committee members were instructed by the United States Trustee that “Creditors wishing to serve as fiduciaries on any official committee are advised that they may not purchase, sell or otherwise trade in or transfer claims against the Debtor while they are committee members absent an order of the Court.” Thus, the claims trades violated Committee members’ fiduciary duty to the estate while lining the pockets of Mr. Seery and other Debtor professionals, to the detriment of creditors and residual equity holders.

51. The sales of claims were not the only transactions shrouded in secrecy. As further detailed in other litigation, assets were sold with insufficient disclosures, no competitive bidding, no data room, and without inviting equity (which may have at one time had the knowledge to make the highest bid) to participate in the sales process. Indeed, on occasion assets were sold for amounts less than Mr. Dondero’s written offers. This exacerbated the harms caused by the lack of transparency characterized by the Court’s indifference to the Debtor’s complete failure to abide by its Rule 2015 disclosure obligations.

52. In short, the lack of transparency combined with at least the appearance of bias, if not actual bias of the Bankruptcy Court, emboldened and enabled an opportunistic CRO to manipulate the bankruptcy to enrich himself, his long-time business associates, and the professionals continuing to litigate to collect fees to pay claims that, but for that manipulation, could have been resolved with money left over for equity.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. Plaintiffs Hold Contingent Claimant Trust Interests

53. As of the Petition Date, HCM had three classes of limited partnership interests (Class A, Class B, and Class C). See Disclosure Statement [Docket No. 1473], ¶ F(4).

54. The Class A interests were held by Dugaboy, Mark Okada (“Okada”), personally and through family trusts, and Strand Advisors, Inc. (“Strand”), HCM’s general partner. The Class B and C interests were held by HMIT. Id.

55. In the aggregate, HCM’s limited partnership interests were held: (a) 99.5% by HMIT; (b) 0.1866% by Dugaboy, (c) 0.0627% by Okada, and (d) 0.25% by Strand.

56. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered the Order (i) Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Docket No. 1943] (the “Confirmation Order”) [Docket No. 1808] (the “Plan”).

57. In the Plan, General Unsecured Claims are Class 8 and Subordinated Claims are Class 9. See Plan, Article III, ¶ H(8) and (9).

58. In the Plan, HCM classified HMIT’s Class B Limited Partnership Interest and Class C Limited Partnership Interest (together, Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests) as Class 10, separately from that of the holders of Class A Limited Partnership Interests, which are Class 11 and include Dugaboy’s Limited Partnership Interest. See Plan, Article III, ¶ H(10) and (11).

59. According to the Plan, Contingent Claimant Trust Interests distributed to the Holders of Class A Limited Partnership Interests are subordinate to the Contingent Claimant Trust Interests distributed to the Holders of Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests. See Plan, Article I, ¶44.

60. In the Confirmation Order, the Court found that the Plan properly separately classified those equity interests because they represent different types of equity security interests in HCM and different payment priorities pursuant to that certain Fourth Amended and Restated Agreement of Limited Partnership of Highland Capital Management, L.P., dated December 24, 2015, as amended (the “Limited Partnership Agreement”). Confirmation Order, ¶36; Limited Partnership Agreement, §3.9 (Liquidation Preference).

61. The Court overruled objections to the Plan lodged by entities it deemed related to Mr. Dondero, including Dugaboy. In doing so, the Court acknowledged that Dugaboy has a residual ownership interest in HCM and therefore “technically” had standing to object to the Plan. See Confirmation Order, ¶¶ 17-18.

62. Based on the Debtor’s financial projections at the time of confirmation, however, the Court found that the plan objectors’ “economic interests in the Debtor appear to be extremely remote.” Id., ¶ 19; see also id., ¶ 17 (“the remoteness of their economic interests is noteworthy”).

63. The Plan went Effective (as defined in the Plan) on August 11, 2021, and HCM became the Reorganized Debtor (as defined in the Plan) on the Effective Date. See Notice of Occurrence of the Effective Date of Confirmed Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. [Docket No. 2700].

64. The Plan created the Claimant Trust, which was established for the benefit of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, which is defined to mean:

the Holders of Allowed General Unsecured Claims, Holders of Allowed Subordinated Claims, including, upon Allowance, Disputed General Unsecured Claims and Disputed Subordinated Claims that become Allowed following the Effective Date, and, only upon certification by the Claimant Trustee that the Holders of such Claims have been paid indefeasibly in full plus, to the extent all Allowed unsecured Claims, excluding Subordinated Claims, have been paid in full post-petition interest from the Petition Date at the Federal Judgment Rate in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement and all Disputed Claims in Class 8 and Class 9 have been resolved, Holders of Allowed Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests, and Holders of Allowed Class A Limited Partnership Interests

See Plan, Article I, ¶27; see also Claimant Trust Agreement, Article I, 1.1(h).

65. Plaintiffs hold Contingent Claimant Trust Interests, which will vest into Claimant Trust Interests upon infeasible payment of Allowed Claims.

66. Depending on the realization of asset value less debts, Plaintiffs may become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

67. The Post Confirmation Quarterly Reports for the First Quarter of 2023 [Docket No. 3756 and 3757], show distributions of $270,205,592 to holders of general unsecured claims, which is 68% of the total allowed general unsecured claims of $397,485,568. This amount is far greater than was anticipated at the time of confirmation of the Plan. About $277 million has been distributed to creditors when secured, priority and administrative creditors are also considered.

B. Debtor Has Failed To Disclose Claimant Trust Assets

68. Upon information and belief, the value of the estate, as held in the Claimant Trust, has changed markedly since Plan confirmation. Not only have many of the assets held by the estate fluctuated in value based on market conditions, with some increasingly in value dramatically, but Plaintiffs are aware that many of the major assets of the estate have been liquidated or sold since Plan confirmation, locking in increased value to the estate.

69. The estate is solvent and has always been solvent. Nonetheless, Mr. Seery has remained committed to maximizing professional fees and incentive fees by increasing the total claims amount to justify litigation to satisfy those inflated claims.

70. As noted above, by June of 2022, starting with $125 million in cash, the estate liquidated other assets of over $416 million, building a cash war chest of over $541 million. Thus, with the remaining less-liquid assets, the total value of the estate's assets as of June 2022 was over $600 million, excluding related party notes.

71. Contrasting those assets with the claims against the estate demonstrates that further collection of assets was (and is) unnecessary.

72. As set forth above, while the inflated face amount of the claims sold was $365 million, the sale price was about $150 million. The estate therefore easily had the resources to retire the claims for the sale amounts, leaving an operating business in the hands of its equity owners.

73. Instead, Mr. Seery liquidated estate assets at less-than-optimal prices, without competitive process, without including residual equity holders, and in all cases required strict non-disclosure agreements from the buyers to prevent any information flowing to the public, the residual equity, or the Court. This uncharacteristic secrecy enabled Mr. Seery and the professionals to maintain the delicate balance of keeping just enough assets to pay professionals and incentive fees but still maintain the pretense that further litigation was needed.

74. Each effort by Plaintiffs, Mr. Dondero and related companies to obtain information to assess whether interference was necessary to stop the continued looting has been vigorously opposed, and ultimately rejected by an apparently biased Court. Plaintiffs were unable to cause the Debtor to provide the most basic of reports, including Rule 2015 statements, and Plaintiffs' efforts to obtain even the most basic details regarding asset sales and professional fees have all been denied. Rather, such details are in the hands of a select few, such as the Oversight Board of the Claimant Trust.

75. The Plan requires the Claimant Trustee to determine the fair market value of the Claimant Trust Assets as of the Effective Date and to notify the applicable Claimant Trust Beneficiaries of such a valuation, as well as distribute tax information to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries as appropriate. See Plan, ¶Art. IV(B)(9).

76. But no like information regarding valuation of the Claimant Trust Assets is available to Plaintiffs as holders of Contingent Claimant Trust Interests, even though Plaintiffs, as contingent beneficiaries of a Delaware statutory trust, are entitled to financial information relating to the trust.

C. Plaintiffs Are Kirschner Adversary Proceeding Defendants

77. On October 15, 2021, Marc S. Kirschner, as Litigation Trustee of the Litigation Sub-Trust, commenced the Kirschner Adversary Proceeding against twenty-three defendants, including Plaintiffs, alleging various causes of action. See Marc S. Kirschner, as Litigation Trustee of the Litigation Sub-Trust vs. James Dondero, et al., Adv. Pro. No. 21-03076-sgj, Adv. Proc. No. 21-03076, Docket No. 1 (as amended by Docket No. 158).

78. The Litigation Sub-Trust was established within the Claimant Trust as a wholly owned subsidiary of the Claimant Trust for the purpose of investigating, prosecuting, settling, or otherwise resolving the Estate Claims, with any proceeds therefrom to be distributed by the Litigation Sub-Trust to the Claimant Trust for distribution to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. See Plan, Article IV, ¶ (B)(4).

79. Any recovery from the Kirschner Adversary Proceeding will be distributed to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

80. Depending on the realization of asset value less debts, Plaintiffs may become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

81. The Litigation Sub-Trust is pursuing claims against Plaintiffs in the Kirschner Adversary Proceeding, which, if they become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, would be the recipients of distributions of such recovery (less the cost of litigation). Therefore, Plaintiffs require the requested information in order to properly analyze and evaluate the claims asserted against them in the Kirschner Adversary Proceeding and to determine whether those claims have any validity.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Disclosures of Claimant Trust Assets and Request for Accounting)

82. Plaintiffs repeat and re-allege the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

83. Due to the lack of transparency into the assets of the Claimant Trust, Plaintiffs are unable to determine whether their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests may vest into Claimant Trust Interests.

84. Certain information about the Claimant Trust Assets has already been provided to others, including Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and the Oversight Board for the Claimant Trust.

85. Information about the Claimant Trust Assets would help Plaintiffs evaluate whether settlement of the Kirschner Adversary Proceeding and other proceedings is feasible, which would further the administration of the bankruptcy estate, benefitting all parties in interest.

86. This Court specifically retained jurisdiction to ensure that distributions to Holders of Allowed Equity Interests are accomplished pursuant to the provisions of the Plan. See Plan, Article XI.

87. The Plan provides that distributions to Allowed Equity Interests will be accomplished through the Claimant Trust and Contingent Claimant Trust Interests. See Plan Article III, (H)(10) and (11).

88. The Defendants should be compelled to provide information regarding the Claimant Trust assets, including the amount of cash and the remaining non-cash assets, and details of all transactions that have occurred since the wall of silence was erected, and all liabilities.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Declaratory Judgment Regarding Value of Claimant Trust Assets)

89. Plaintiffs repeat and re-allege the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

90. Once Defendants are compelled to provide information about the Claimant Trust assets, Plaintiffs seek a determination from the Court of the relative value of the Claimant Trust assets compared to the bankruptcy estate obligations.

91. If the value of the Claimant Trust assets exceeds the obligations of the estate, then several pending adversary proceedings aimed at recovering value for HCM's estate can be justly deemed unnecessary to pay creditors in full. As such, the pending adversary proceedings could be brought to a swift close, allowing creditors to be paid and the Bankruptcy Case to be brought to a close, ultimately stopping the bloodshed.

92. In addition, professionals associated with the estate—including but not limited to Mr. Seery, Pachulski, Development Specialists, Inc., Kurtzman Carson Consultants, Quinn Emanuel, Mr. Kirschner, and Hayward & Associates—are continuing to incur and receive millions of dollars a month in professional fees, thereby further eroding an estate that is either solvent or could be bridged by a settlement that would pay the spread between current assets and current allowed creditor claims. Fees for Pachulski range from $460 an hour for associates to $1,265 per hour for partners, and fees for Quinn Emanuel lawyers range from $830 an hour for first year associate to over $2100 per hour for senior partners. At these rates, depletion of the estate will occur rapidly.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Declaratory Judgment and Determination Regarding Nature of Plaintiff's Interests)

93. Plaintiffs repeat and re-allege the allegations in each of the foregoing paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

94. In the event that the Court determines that the Claimant Trust assets exceed the obligations of the bankruptcy estate in an amount sufficient so that all Allowable Claims may be indefeasibly paid, Plaintiffs seek a declaration and a determination that the conditions are such that their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests, making them Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.<sup>6</sup>

95. Such a declaration and a determination by the Court would further assist parties in interest, such as Plaintiffs, to ascertain whether the estate is capable of paying all creditors in full and also paying some amount to residual interest holders, as contemplated by the Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for judgment as follows:

- (i) On the First Claim for Relief, Plaintiffs seek an order compelling Defendants to disclose the assets currently held in the Claimant Trust, transactions completed that affect the Claimant Trust directly or indirectly, and all liabilities of the Claimant Trust;; and
- (ii) On the Second Claim for Relief, Plaintiffs seek a determination of the relative value of those assets in comparison to the claims of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries; and
- (iii) On the Third Claim for Relief, Plaintiffs seek a determination that the conditions are such that all current Claimant Trust Beneficiaries could be paid in full, with

<sup>6</sup> To be clear, Plaintiffs do not ask the Court to determine that they are Claimant Trust Beneficiaries or otherwise to convert their contingent interests into non-contingent interests. All of that must be done according to the terms of the Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement.

such payment causing Plaintiffs' Contingent Claimant Trust Interests to vest into Claimant Trust Interests; and

(iv) Such other and further relief as this Court deems just and proper.

ORDER REGARDING ADVERSARY PROCEEDINGS TRIAL SETTING AND ALTERNATIVE SCHEDULING ORDER

An adversary complaint is set for trial routinely at the time of its filing. Special settings or pretrial conferences may be scheduled by contacting the appropriate Courtroom Deputy.

TRIAL is set before the Honorable Stacey G Jernigan at 1100 Commerce Street, 14th Floor, Courtroom #1, Dallas, Texas 75242 the week of November 20, 2023. Docket call for this trial will be held on November 13, 2023 at 01:30 pm at 1100 Commerce Street, 14th Floor, Courtroom #1, Dallas, Texas 75242. A pretrial conference shall be scheduled by the parties at least seven (7) calendar days prior to trial docket call in a complex adversary proceeding if the parties anticipate that trial will exceed one day or if there are preliminary matters that should be addressed by the Court prior to the commencement of trial.

PART I: INSTRUCTIONS

1. Plaintiff is responsible for ensuring that proper service is provided to each defendant. The Clerk shall issue one original summons, which shall be conformed by the plaintiff for service on multiple defendants. Federal Bankruptcy Rule 7004(e) requires you to serve the fully completed SUMMONS form and a copy of the COMPLAINT on each defendant within seven (7) days of issuance. In addition, the Court also directs that this ORDER be served with the SUMMONS and COMPLAINT.
2. Plaintiff shall file a RETURN on the SUMMONS with a CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE that provides the name and address of each party served and the manner of service.
3. If a trial setting is passed for settlement at trial docket call and no written request is filed to retain the case on the Court's docket, an automatic Dismissal Without Prejudice shall be entered on or after four (4) weeks. The Court's Trial Calendar is available on the court's web site at www.txnb.uscourts.gov.

PART II: GENERAL PROVISIONS GOVERNING DISCOVERY

1. Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, the disclosures required by Federal Bankruptcy Rule 7026(a) shall be made within fourteen (14) days of the entry of a scheduling order, including the Alternative Scheduling Order contained in Part III below (which shall become effective on the forty-sixth day following the entry of this Order).
2. Unless the parties agree or the Court orders otherwise, Federal Bankruptcy Rule 7026(f) requires that parties shall confer to consider the nature and basis of their claims and defenses and the possibilities for a prompt settlement or resolution of the case, to make or arrange for the disclosures required by Federal Bankruptcy Rule 7026(a)(1), to develop a proposed discovery plan, and to submit a proposed scheduling order. The parties shall confer with each other regarding these matters within thirty (30) days of the service of the Summons unless the Court orders otherwise.
3. During such conference, the parties may agree to waive the requirement of submitting their own proposed scheduling order and may follow the terms and deadlines contained in the Alternative Scheduling Order set forth in Part III below (the "Alternative Scheduling Order"). If the parties do not submit a proposed scheduling order or do not schedule a status conference with the Court to discuss the provisions and deadlines of a scheduling order within forty-five days of the filing of this adversary proceeding, then the parties are deemed to have consented to the terms of the Alternative Scheduling Order.

PART III: ALTERNATIVE SCHEDULING ORDER

The Court directs compliance with the following schedule:

1. Discovery must be completed forty-five (45) days prior to Docket Call. The names and addresses of experts must be exchanged sixty (60) days prior to Docket Call.
2. A Joint Pretrial Order in compliance with Local District Court Rule 16.4 shall be filed, served, and uploaded for Court entry seven (7) days prior to Docket Call. All counsel (or a pro se party) are responsible for preparing the Joint Pretrial Order, which shall contain the following: (a) a summary of the claims and defenses of each party; (b) a statement of stipulated facts; (c) a list of the contested issues of fact; (d) a list of contested issues of law; (e) an estimate of the length of trial; (f) a list of additional matters which would aid in the disposition of the case; and (g) the signature of each attorney (or pro se party).
3. Each exhibit shall be marked with an exhibit label. Except for impeachment documents, all exhibits, along with a list of witnesses to be called, shall be exchanged with opposing counsel (or pro se party) fourteen (14) days prior to Docket Call. Each party shall also file a list of exhibits and witnesses fourteen (14) days prior to Docket Call. All exhibits not objected to in writing by Docket Call shall be admitted into evidence at trial without further proof, except for objections to relevance. Written objections to exhibits will be taken up either at the beginning or during the course of the actual trial or at any pretrial conference.
4. Written Proposed Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law shall be filed seven (7) days prior to Docket Call. Trial briefs shall be filed addressing contested issues of law seven (7) days prior to Docket Call.
5. Unless otherwise directed by the Presiding Judge, all dispositive motions must be heard no later than fourteen (14) days prior to Docket Call. Accordingly, all dispositive motions must be filed no later than forty-five (45) days prior to Docket Call, unless the Court modifies this deadline.
6. All parties and counsel must certify to full compliance with this Order at Docket Call. If a resetting is allowed by the Court, the plaintiff or plaintiff's attorney shall notify all other parties and shall file with the Clerk a certificate of service indicating the manner, date, and to whom notice was given.
7. If the case is reset, all the deadlines in Part III nos. 1 through 5 will be shifted to the newly scheduled Docket Call date in the absence of a contrary Court order.
8. Sanctions may be imposed for failure to comply with this Order.

Having considered (a) the Motion and (b) the Highland Parties' Memorandum of Law in Support of Highland Capital Management, L.P. and the Highland Claimant Trust's Motion to Dismiss Complaint [Docket No. ___] (the "Memorandum of Law"); and this Court having jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334; and this Court having found that venue of this proceeding and the Motion in this District is proper pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1409; and this Court having found that the Highland Parties' notice of the Motion and opportunity for a hearing on the Motion were appropriate under the circumstances and that no other notice need be provided; and this Court having determined that the legal and factual bases set forth in the Motion establish good cause for the relief granted herein; and upon all of the proceedings had before this Court; and after due deliberation and sufficient cause appearing therefor, and for the reasons set forth in the record on this Motion, it is HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

1. The Motion is GRANTED.
2. The Action is DISMISSED with prejudice.

Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“Highland” or the “Debtor,” as applicable), and the Highland Claimant Trust (the “Claimant Trust,” and together with Highland, the “Highland Parties”), the defendants in the above-captioned adversary proceeding, hereby submit this memorandum of law in support of their Motion to Dismiss Complaint to (I) Compel Disclosures About the Assets of the Highland Claimant Trust and (II) Determine (A) Relative Value of Those Assets, and (B) Nature of Plaintiffs’ Interest in the Claimant Trust (the “Motion”) seeking to dismiss the above-captioned action (the “Action”).

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT<sup>2</sup>

1. The Complaint should be dismissed in its entirety. Pursuant to Rule 12(b)(1), this Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction over the Action because the Claims are either moot or seek impermissible advisory opinions. Even if the Court had jurisdiction (and it does not), the Claims should be dismissed under Rule 12(b)(6) because they fail to state claims as a matter of law.

2. Under the express terms of the CTA and the Plan, holders of Contingent Trust Interests are not “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries” and have no rights, including information rights, unless and until their contingent, inchoate interests vest. Despite holding only unvested Contingent Trust Interests with no rights in the Claimant Trust, Plaintiffs stubbornly seek “financial information” regarding the Claimant Trust Assets and specifically request: (a) an accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets, (b) a determination as to the value of those assets compared to liabilities, and (c) a determination whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “will vest.”

3. Count One, which seeks an accounting of the assets and liabilities of the Claimant Trust, has been rendered moot by the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet filed in July 2023 and other publicly-available information, which discloses the very information demanded. The relief sought in Count Three, namely, a determination as to whether Plaintiffs' Contingent Trust Interests are "likely to vest," is moot, seeks an impermissible advisory opinion, and is barred by collateral estoppel. In September 2023, four months after the Complaint was filed, this Court found that whether the Contingent Trust Interests might someday vest is dependent on a multitude of unknown and unknowable factors, for example, the amount of senior indemnification expenses that must be reserved for and ultimately paid by the Claimant Trust. Based, in part on those unknown senior expenses, this Court determined that the Contingent Trust Interests were "not in the money." This Court lacks jurisdiction to render an opinion on Count Three and, to the extent that it could, it already has and Plaintiffs are collaterally estopped from re-litigating this issue. For the same reasons, there is no declaratory relief available to Plaintiffs that has not already been addressed in the Court's prior ruling.

4. Even if the Court had subject matter jurisdiction over the Claims, the Complaint fails as a matter of law under Rule 12(b)(6). Plaintiffs' equitable claim (Count One) is foreclosed by the plain and unambiguous terms of the CTA, the Plan, and this Court's prior orders. Plaintiffs, as holders of Contingent Trust Interests, have no rights—including information rights—under the CTA. Under the circumstances, equity cannot abrogate the terms of that agreement or be used to create non-existent rights or extra-contractual duties, such as those relating to the disclosure of financial information or an accounting. This is especially so when Plaintiffs and their affiliates have unclean hands as vexatious adversaries to the entity against who they claim to seek equity.<sup>3</sup> Plaintiffs' claims for declaratory relief (Counts Two and Three) also fail as a matter of law because there is no cognizable underlying claim. For the reasons herein and discussed further below, the Complaint should be dismissed.

II. RELEVANT BACKGROUND

A. The Bankruptcy Case

5. On October 16, 2019 (the “Petition Date”), Highland filed a voluntary petition for relief under chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code (the “Bankruptcy Case”). As of the Petition Date, Highland had three classes of limited partnership interests (Class A, Class B, and Class C). See Disclosure Statement [Docket No. 1473], ¶ F(4). The Class A interests were held by The Dugaboy Investment Trust (“Dugaboy”),<sup>4</sup> Mark Okada’s family trusts, and Strand Advisors, Inc. The Class B and C interests were held by Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“HMIT”). Id. On January 9, 2020, an independent board of directors, which included James P. Seery, Jr., was appointed to manage Highland’s Bankruptcy Case and estate. [Docket No. 339]. Mr. Seery was appointed Highland’s Chief Executive Officer and Chief Restructuring Officer in July 2020. [Docket No. 854].

B. The Plan

6. On February 22, 2021, the Court entered the Order Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) and (ii) Granting Related Relief [Bankr. Docket No. 1943] (the “Confirmation Order”), which confirmed the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (as Modified) [Bankr. Docket No. 1943-1] (the “Plan”). The Plan became effective on August 11, 2021 [Docket No. 2700] (the “Effective Date”). Pursuant to the Plan:

- General Unsecured Claims were classified as Class 8 and Subordinated Claims were classified as Class 9.

- HMIT’s Class B Limited Partnership Interest and Class C Limited Partnership Interest were classified as Class 10.
- Class A Limited Partnership Interests, including Dugaboy’s, were classified as Class 11.
- The Claimant Trust, a Delaware statutory trust, was established pursuant to that certain Claimant Trust Agreement, effective as of August 11, 2021 (the “CTA”),<sup>5</sup> for the benefit of “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries;”<sup>6</sup>
- Holders of allowed general and subordinated unsecured Claims (i.e., Class 8 and 9) received beneficial interests in the Claimant Trust (collectively, the “Trust Interests”) and became “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries;” and
- Holders of the Debtor’s prepetition partnership interests (i.e., Class 10 and 11) were allocated unvested contingent interests (the “Contingent Trust Interests”) in the Claimant Trust that would vest if, and only if, the Claimant Trustee certifies that all Claimant Trust Beneficiaries (i.e., Class 8 and 9) have been paid in full, Class 8 has received post-petition interest, and all disputed claims in Class 8 and 9 have been resolved.

(See generally Plan Art. III, IV.)

7. By design, the clear terms of the CTA limit information rights. Section 3.12(a) of the CTA provides that the Claimant Trustee has no duty to provide an accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets to any party, including Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. CTA, § 3.12(a) (“Except as otherwise provided herein, nothing in this Agreement requires the Claimant Trustee to file any accounting ....”).

8. Section 3.12(b) of the CTA provides limited information rights solely to “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries”:

The Claimant Trustee shall provide quarterly reporting to the Oversight Board and Claimant Trust Beneficiaries of (i) the status of the Claimant Trust Assets, (ii) the balance of Cash held by the Claimant Trust (including in each of the Claimant Trust Expense Reserve and Disputed Claim Reserve), (iii) the determination and any re-

determination, as applicable, of the total amount allocated to the Disputed Claim Reserve, (iv) the status of Disputed Claims and any resolutions thereof, (v) the status of any litigation, including the pursuit of the Causes of Action, (vi) the Reorganized Debtor's performance, and (vii) operating expenses; provided, however, that the Claimant Trustee may, with respect to any Member of the Oversight Board or Claimant Trust Beneficiary, redact any portion of such reports that relate to such Entity's Claim or Equity Interest, as applicable and any reporting provided to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries may be subject to such Claimant Trust Beneficiary's agreement to maintain confidentiality with respect to any non-public information.

9. Nothing in the CTA or the Plan grants any other information rights, and, in fact, the CTA is clear that there are no information rights outside those in Section 3.12(b). See CTA, § 5.10(a) ("The Claimant Trust Beneficiaries shall have no rights other than those set forth in this Agreement, the Confirmation Order, or the Plan (including any Plan Supplement documents incorporated therein)"). Thus, the only entities with information rights under the Plan are "Claimant Trust Beneficiaries," and those rights (a) are limited, (b) do not include rights to asset or subsidiary level information, and (c) can be further limited by the Claimant Trustee as appropriate to "maintain confidentiality."

10. Under the express terms of the Plan, the CTA, and this Court's prior orders, the "Claimant Trust Beneficiaries"<sup>7</sup> are the holders of Allowed Claims in Class 8 and Class 9. See CTA, § 1.1(h); Plan Art. I.B.27.<sup>8</sup> HMIT holds Class 10 interests and Dugaboy holds Class 11 interests, and therefore, neither Plaintiff is a "Claimant Trust Beneficiary." Instead, Plaintiffs hold

the Holders of Allowed General Unsecured Claims, Holders of Allowed Subordinated Claims, and, only upon certification by the Claimant Trustee that the Holders of such Claims have been paid indefeasibly in full plus, to the extent applicable, post-petition interest at the federal judgment rate in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth herein, Holders of Allowed Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests, and Holders of Allowed Class A Limited Partnership Interests.

unvested “Contingent Trust Interests.” See, e.g., Plan, Art. I.B.44; CTA, §§ 1.1(h), 5.1(c). Contingent Trust Interests “shall not have any rights under” the CTA, and holders of such interests will not “be deemed ‘Beneficiaries’” “unless and until” they vest in accordance with the Plan and CTA. Id. Specifically, under the CTA, Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests in the Claimant Trust will not vest and Plaintiffs will have no rights under the CTA unless and until (a) all Class 8 and Class 9 Claims are paid indefeasibly in full with interest, (b) all disputed claims are resolved, and (c) the Claimant Trustee certifies as much to this Court. Id. Class 8 and Class 9 Claims cannot be paid until indemnification claims are satisfied.<sup>9</sup> It is indisputable that Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests have not vested under the terms of the Plan and the CTA. See Highland Cap., 2023 WL 5523949, at *35. Plaintiffs are not “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries” and have no information rights.

D. Dugaboy Files the Valuation Motion

11. On June 30, 2022, Dugaboy filed its Motion for Determination of the Value of the Estate and Assets Held by the Claimant Trust [Docket No. 3382] (the “Initial Valuation Motion”), seeking “a determination by this Court of the current value of the estate and an accounting of the assets currently held by the Claimant Trust and available for distribution to creditors.” Thereafter, on September 21, 2022, Dugaboy filed a supplemental motion [Docket No. 3533] (the “Supp. Valuation Motion” and, together with the Original Valuation Motion, the “Valuation Motion”). Therein, Dugaboy requested that the Court enter “an order: (i) finding that Dugaboy has standing in these bankruptcy proceedings under 11 U.S.C. § 1109(b), Delaware trust law, and Article III of the United States Constitution; and (ii) setting an evidentiary hearing to ascertain the assets currently available for distribution to allowed claimants, to determine the current value of those assets, and to determine whether there is a potential for settling the estate now ....” The Valuation Motion was supported by HMIT. [Docket No. 3467]. Highland objected to the Valuation Motion. [Docket No. 3465].

<sup>9</sup> See, e.g., CTA Art. 6.1 (providing that distributions to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries are junior to the Claimant Trust’s expenses, including, among other things, amounts “necessary to pay or reserve for reasonably incurred or anticipated Claimant Trust Expenses,” which include indemnification costs). This priority of payment under the Plan and CTA was upheld by the Fifth Circuit when affirming this Court’s order authorizing the creation of the indemnity sub-trust, the purpose of which was to reserve or retain any cash reasonably necessary to satisfy contingent liabilities. See In the Matter of Highland Cap. Mgt., L.P., 57 F4th 494, 502 (5th Cir 2023).

12. On November 15, 2022, the Court held a status conference, during which the Court expressed concerns about whether the Valuation Motion should be filed as an adversary proceeding since it sought equitable relief. On December 7, 2022, after the parties submitted briefing on this issue, [see Docket Nos. 3637, 3638, 3639], the Court issued its order [Docket No. 3645] (the “Valuation Order”), in which it found that an adversary proceeding was necessary with regard to the relief sought in the Valuation Motion. The Court explained that “the essence of the Dugaboy Value Motions is a request for an accounting,” which constitutes “equitable relief that does not appear to be provided for in the confirmed chapter 11 plan.” Id. at 4. The Court further found that “Dugaboy and HMIT have not pointed to any provision of the CTA that establishes a right to an accounting,” and “[i]t would appear that Dugaboy and HMIT may be frustrated that they did not negotiate or obtain the same oversight rights as the actual Claimant Trust Beneficiaries in the Plan and CTA.” Valuation Order at 5 (quoting CTA §§ 3.12(a), (b)).

13. On May 10, 2023, Plaintiffs commenced this Action against Highland and the Claimant Trust by filing their complaint [Adv. Pro. No. 23-03038, Docket No. 1] (the “Complaint”). In their Complaint, Plaintiffs seek an equitable accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets so they can determine if their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests “are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests, making them Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.”

14. In their first count (“Count One”), Plaintiffs request an accounting “regarding the Claimant Trust Assets, including the amount of cash and the remaining non-cash assets, and details of all transactions that have occurred since the wall of silence was erected, and all liabilities.” Plaintiffs maintain, inter alia, that “[d]ue to the lack of transparency into the assets of the Claimant Trust, Plaintiffs are unable to determine whether their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests may vest into Claimant Trust Interests.” Compl. ¶¶ 82-88.<sup>10</sup>

15. In their second count (“Count Two”), Plaintiffs seek a declaratory judgment regarding the value of the Claimant Trust Assets. Plaintiffs specifically maintain that “[o]nce Defendants are compelled to provide information about the Claimant Trust Assets, Plaintiffs seek a determination from the Court of the relative value of the Claimant Trust Assets compared to the bankruptcy estate obligations.” Compl. ¶ 90.

16. In their third count (“Count Three,” and collectively with Count One and Count Two, the “Claims”), Plaintiffs seek a declaration and determination that “[i]n the event that the Court determines that the Claimant Trust assets exceed the obligations of the bankruptcy estate in an amount sufficient so that all Allowable Claims may be indefeasibly paid ... the conditions are such that their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests, making them Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.” Compl. ¶ 94.

F. The Court Denies HMIT Leave to File Adversary Proceeding

17. Around the same time, HMIT separately filed its Emergency Motion for Leave to File Verified Adversary Proceeding [Docket No. 3699], which was later supplemented and

<sup>10</sup> Plaintiffs allege that Highland “failed and refused to file quarterly 2015.3 reports, leaving stakeholders, including Plaintiffs, in the dark about the value of the estate and the mix of assets it held, bought or sold.” Compl. ¶ 41. Plaintiffs’ allegations about the lack of transparency in the Bankruptcy Case is tired and purposefully misleading. Highland has complied with every single pre- and post-Effective Date disclosure obligation—except for the Rule 2015.3 disclosure. The Fifth Circuit has denied Dugaboy’s appeal of the denial of its post-confirmation motion to compel compliance with Rule 2015.3, (see Case No. 22-10831, Document No. 46), and this Court has found that “it is not as though the Claimant Trustee is operating ‘under the radar’” (Valuation Order at 5). Moreover, as previously disclosed in this Court, the failure to file the 2015.3 reports during the case was a direct result of actions of persons who work for Plaintiffs and their affiliates, and in any event, at all time Plaintiffs’ control person had full access to the information they cry about. Nevertheless, Plaintiffs continue with their baseless allegations about the lack of transparency in this case.

modified [Docket Nos. 3760, 3815, and 3816] (collectively, the “Motion for Leave”).<sup>11</sup> In the Motion for Leave, HMIT sought leave to sue Highland, Mr. Seery, Stonehill, and Farallon<sup>12</sup> falsely alleging both direct and derivative claims for “insider trading” and breach of fiduciary duty (the “Proposed Claims”).

18. On August 25, 2023, this Court issued its order denying the Motion for Leave on multiple grounds. See Highland Cap., 2023 WL 5523949 (the “Order Denying Leave”). In the Order Denying Leave, the Court found that, inter alia: (a) HMIT was not a “Claimant Trust Beneficiary” and not a “beneficial owner” of the Claimant Trust; (b) HMIT should not be treated as a “Claimant Trust Beneficiary” after “considering the current value of the Claimant Trust Assets ...”; (c) HMIT held “only an unvested contingent interest in the Claimant Trust,” and “HMIT’s status as a ‘beneficiary’ of the Claimant Trust is defined by the CTA itself, pure and simple;” and (d) the Court “does not have the power to equitably deem HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interest to be vested ...” Id. at 35.

19. On April 20, 2023, James Dondero and certain of his controlled affiliates (collectively, the “Dondero Parties”) filed their Motion to Stay and to Compel Mediation [Docket No. 3752] (the “Mediation Motion”), which was granted, in part, on August 2, 2023, [Docket No. 3897].<sup>13</sup> On July 6, 2023, in furtherance of mediation and in compliance with an agreed-upon Court order [Docket 3870], Highland filed a pro forma adjusted balance sheet [Docket No. 3872] (the “Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet”). The Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet disclosed a point-in-time $152 million in assets (of which only $37 million was cash or restricted cash) and $130 million in liabilities for a total equity value of $22 million, which, even assuming the equity value could be distributed (and it cannot be), is well short of the $126 million needed to pay Allowed Class 8 and Class 9 claims (exclusive of interest).

20. The information disclosed on the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet was consistent with information that had already been disclosed in the Bankruptcy Case as of April 2023, [see Bankr. Docket Nos. 3756 and 3757] (the “Post-Confirmation Reports”), and through these disclosures should have resolved any good faith dispute around receiving sufficient information with which to make a global settlement offer. These enhanced Post-Confirmation Reports were publicly filed to provide interested parties substantially more information than was required. See, e.g., Docket No. 3757 at 13-15 (Addendum showing (i) “Quarter-ending cash, Disputed Claims Reserve, and Indemnity Trust summary;” (ii) liabilities, including remaining disputed/expunged or pending claims, (iii) disbursements to Classes 8 and 9, and (iv) “Remaining investments, notes, and other assets”).

H. HMIT Seeks Reconsideration of Order Denying Leave Based on the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet

21. On September 8, 2023, HMIT filed its motion for reconsideration of the Order Denying Leave [Docket No. 3905] (the “Motion to Reconsider”), falsely and misleadingly contending that the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet (a) provided an accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets and (b) proved that (i) the value of the Claimant Trust Assets exceeded liabilities and (ii) HMIT was “in the money” and (c) its interests were likely to vest and that HMIT therefore had standing as a “Claimant Trust Beneficiary.” On October 6, 2023, the Court denied the Motion to Reconsider [Docket No. 3936] (the “Order Denying Reconsideration”). The Court found that, in pertinent part, the Balance Sheet did not “demonstrate that HMIT’s contingent interest is ‘in the money,” noting that “HMIT does not give proper attention to the voluminous supplemental notes” in the Balance Sheet that are “integral to understanding the numbers therein.” Id. at 3 (citing Notes 5 and 6 of the Balance Sheet which show that Highland will operate at an “operating loss prospectively,” and that the administrative expenses and legal fees continue to deplete assets, among other things). The Court also found that the Balance Sheet did not constitute “newly discovered evidence” because it did not contain information that was materially different from the information disclosed on the Post-Confirmation Reports, filed three months earlier. Id. at 2-3.

III. ARGUMENT

A. The Court Does Not Have Subject Matter Jurisdiction Over Counts One and Three

22. The Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate Counts One and Three. Counts One and Three are moot, and Count Three impermissibly seeks an advisory opinion.

1. Legal Standard

23. A motion under Rule 12(b)(1) must be considered before any motion on the merits because subject matter jurisdiction is required to determine the validity of any claim. See Moran v. Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, 27 F.3d 169, 172 (5th Cir. 1994). “Lack of subject matter jurisdiction may be found in any one of three instances: (1) the complaint alone; (2) the complaint supplemented by undisputed facts evidenced in the record; or (3) the complaint supplemented by undisputed facts plus the court's resolution of disputed facts.” Ramming v. United States, 281 F.3d 158, 161 (5th Cir. 2001) (per curiam). “The burden of proof for a Rule 12(b)(1) motion to dismiss is on the party asserting jurisdiction.” Id. “A case is properly dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction when the court lacks the statutory or constitutional power to adjudicate the case.” Home Builders Ass'n of Mississippi, Inc. v. City of Madison, Miss., 143 F.3d 1006, 1010 (5th Cir. 1998) (internal quotations omitted).

2. Counts One and Three are Moot

i. Count One is Moot in Light of the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet

24. Count One is moot in light of the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet and must be dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction under Rule 12(b)(1). For a court to have subject matter jurisdiction over a suit, a “controversy must remain live throughout the suit’s existence.” Bazzrea v. Mayorkas, 3:22-CV-265, 2023 WL 3958912, at *3 (S.D. Tex. June 12, 2023). “A case becomes moot—and therefore no longer a ‘Case’ or ‘Controversary’ for purpose of Article III—when the issues presented are no longer ‘live’ or the parties lack a legally cognizable interest in the outcome.” Yarls v. Bunton, 905 F.3d 905, 909 (5th Cir. 2018) (internal quotations omitted).

25. Here, the issue presented in Count One is no longer “live.” In Count One, Plaintiffs seek (a) “information regarding the Claimant Trust assets,” including the amount of assets and liabilities, so that (b) Plaintiffs can “determine whether their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests may vest into Claimant Trust Interests.” Compl. ¶¶ 82-88. As discussed supra, the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet provides this very information. It shows the value of the Claimant Trust Assets, the Claimant Trust’s liabilities, and the potential equity value available for Claimant Trust Beneficiaries (assuming all Claimant Trust Assets are liquidated at current valuations and liabilities are fixed). HMIT admitted as much in its Motion to Reconsider when it specifically (but incorrectly) maintained that, based on the assets and liabilities shown on the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet, “[HMIT’s] Contingent Claimant Trust Interest will vest, or put colloquially, [HMIT] is ‘in the money.’” Motion to Reconsider ¶¶ 5-8 (emphasis added).<sup>14</sup> The Post-

<sup>14</sup> Although Plaintiffs have effectively admitted the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet moots their requested relief, as this Court is aware, the current value of the Claimant Trust Assets does not dictate when or if Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests will ever vest. Whether and when Contingent Trust Interests may someday vest depends upon the satisfaction of the conditions set forth in the CTA and the Plan, and this Court “does not have the power to equitably deem HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interest to be vested ...” regardless of whether the value of the pro forma assets exceeds the pro forma value of the liabilities on a particular date. Order Denying Leave at *35.

Confirmation Reports, filed prior to the Complaint in filed in April 2023, similarly disclose the financial information requested in Count One, including, inter alia, the cash and the identification of remaining assets.

26. The Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet and Post-Confirmation Reports have thus eliminated the “actual controversy” at the core of Count One, and there is no conceivable relief available to Plaintiffs through this claim that has not already been provided. Count One is therefore moot. See Bazzrea, 2023 WL 3958912, at *4 (finding plaintiffs’ claims moot where events that occurred after the complaint was filed “eliminated the actual controversy—the court cannot provide effectual relief and thus the plaintiffs’ claims are moot.”) Accordingly, Plaintiffs have not met their burden to establish that the Court has subject matter jurisdiction over Count One, and it should be dismissed under Rule 12(b)(1).

ii. Count Three is Moot Because the Court has Already Held that Contingent Claimant Interests are Not “In the Money”

27. Count Three, seeking a declaration regarding whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests, making them Claimant Trust Beneficiaries,” Compl. ¶ 94, is moot because the Court already decided this issue. As discussed above, in its Motion to Reconsider, HMIT incorrectly argued that the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet showed that HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interests were “in the money” and likely to vest, rendering HMIT a “Claimant Trust Beneficiary.” In its Order Denying Reconsideration, the Court found that Contingent Trust Interests are not “in the money,”<sup>15</sup> and that HMIT is, therefore, not a Claimant Trust Beneficiary. As the Court explained, Plaintiffs’ reliance on the assets and liabilities disclosed on the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet in support of its argument that its interests

were “likely to vest” demonstrated a fundamental misunderstanding of the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet and the vesting mechanics in the CTA. Again, under the CTA, Contingent Trust Interests vest only if, among other things, Class 8 and Class 9 are paid in full. And as the Court further stated, the Claimant Trust Assets at any point in time will only be available for distribution to those classes after they are monetized and all fees and expenses, including indemnification obligations, are satisfied. See Order Denying Reconsideration at 3. In other words, as this Court found, unless and until such contingent obligations are known and satisfied and all Class 8 and Class 9 Claims have been actually paid in full, Contingent Trust Interests are not “in the money” and will not “vest.”

28. The Court’s finding in its Order Denying Reconsideration, in which the Court determined that Contingent Trust Interests are not “in the money,” has thus eliminated any “live” controversy presented by the relief sought in Count Three, namely, a determination whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests.” For the foregoing reasons, Counts One and Three are moot. The Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction over Counts One and Three under Rule 12(b)(1), and such claims should be dismissed.

3. Count Three Improperly Seeks an Advisory Opinion

29. The Court also does not have subject matter jurisdiction to rule on Count Three because it impermissibly seeks an advisory opinion. Under Article III of the Constitution, “no justiciable controversy is presented when ... the parties are asking for an advisory opinion.” Paragon Asset Co. Ltd v. Gulf Copper & Mfg. Corp., 1:17-CV-00203, 2020 WL 1892953, at *1 (S.D. Tex. Feb. 11, 2020) (internal quotations omitted). The “well-established constitutional ban on advisory opinions” seeks to ensure that federal courts determine “specific disputes between parties, rather than hypothetical legal questions, and in doing so, conserve judicial resources.” Texas v. Travis County, 272 F. Supp. 3d 973, 980 (W.D. Tex. 2017), aff’d sub nom. Texas v. Travis

County, Texas, 910 F.3d 809 (5th Cir 2018); see also Hodgson v. H. Morgan Daniel Seafoods, Inc., 433 F.2d 918, 920 (5th Cir. 1970) (“We cannot render an advisory opinion on hypothetical or abstract facts.”)

30. In Count Three, Plaintiffs impermissibly ask the Court to determine whether (a) current Claimant Trust Beneficiaries “may be indefeasibly paid” and (b) “Contingent Claimant Trust Interests are likely to vest.” Compl. ¶ 94 (emphasis added). Any such determination is dependent upon several hypothetical future events concerning, among other things, asset values and recoveries (e.g., whether the Fifth Circuit sustains the Dondero Parties’ appeal in the Notes Litigation, and the Claimant Trust actually recovers the bonded amounts), actual future Claimant Trust expenses, and the nature and extent of indemnification obligations.<sup>16</sup> As discussed supra, indemnification expenses are senior to distributions to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, and Claimant Trust Beneficiaries cannot be paid in full unless and until such indemnification expenses are liquidated and satisfied. Contingent Trust Interests therefore cannot vest unless and until indemnification claims are known and paid (and all Class 8 and Class 9 Claims are thereafter paid).

31. In light of the widespread litigation, additional threatened litigation, and continued accrual of related legal fees and expenses, the amount of indemnification obligations remains unknown. Thus, any determination as to whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “are likely to vest” is contingent upon a number of unknown and contingent variables, including (a) the amount of indemnification obligations and (b) and whether sufficient cash remains to pay Classes 8 and 9 in full after those indemnification obligations (and other expenses) are satisfied. Such an abstract determination is precisely the type of relief precluded by the constitutional ban on advisory opinions. See JPay LLC v. Burton, 3:22-CV-1492-E, 2023 WL 5253041, at *10 (N.D. Tex. Aug. 15, 2023) (dismissing case for lack of subject matter jurisdiction and declining “to render an advisory opinion on the value of the aggregated claims of a contingent, theoretical class” where such determination is contingent on a “hypothetical facts”). Accordingly, Plaintiffs have failed to show that the Court has subject matter jurisdiction to adjudicate Count Three, and it should be dismissed under Rule 12(b)(1).

32. Count Three is also barred by the doctrine of collateral estoppel. Collateral estoppel is referred to as “issue preclusion” and prevents relitigating the same issues or facts decided in a prior proceeding. Collateral estoppel precludes the re-litigation of issues or facts actually litigated in the original action, whether or not the second suit is based on the same cause of action. See Houston Professional Towing Ass'n v. City of Houston, 812 F.3d 443, 447 (5th Cir. 2016). “By precluding parties from contesting matters that they have had a full and fair opportunity to litigate, [collateral estoppel] protect[s] against the expense and vexation attending multiple lawsuits, conserve judicial resources, and foster reliance on judicial action by minimizing the possibility of inconsistent decisions.” In re Reddy Ice Holdings, Inc., 611 B.R. 802, 808 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2020) (internal quotations omitted). Collateral estoppel applies when: “(1) the issue at stake is identical to the one involved in the earlier action; (2) the issue was actually litigated in the prior action; and (3) the determination of the issue in the prior action was a necessary part of the judgment in that action.” Oyekwe v. Research Now Group, Inc., 542 F. Supp. 3d 496, 506 (N.D. Tex. 2021), appeal dismissed, 21-10580, 2021 WL 8776378 (5th Cir Dec. 28, 2021). These elements are easily met here.

33. The issue presented by Count Three—whether Plaintiffs’ “Contingent Claimant Trust Interests are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests” (Compl. ¶ 94)—is the same as the issue at stake, and actually litigated, in connection with the Motion for Leave. In support of its Motion to Reconsider, HMIT argued that it had standing to assert its Proposed Claims because HMIT was “in the money” and its Contingent Trust Interests “will vest.” See Motion to Reconsider. In adjudicating the Motion to Reconsider, the Court determined that HMIT did not have standing to bring the Proposed Claims because its Contingent Trust Interests were not “in the money.” See Order Denying Reconsideration at 3. The issue of whether Contingent Trust Interests were “in the money” for purposes of the Motion to Reconsider, and whether Contingent Trust Interests are “likely to vest,” for purposes of this Complaint, are one and the same. This issue was, without question, litigated in connection with the Motion for Leave. The issue was raised by HMIT in its Motion to Reconsider, contested by the Highland Parties, submitted to this Court for adjudication, and expressly determined. See Reddy, 611 B.R. at 810 (“The requirement that an issue be ‘actually litigated’ for collateral estoppel purposes simply requires that the issue is raised, contested by the parties, submitted for determination by the court, and determined.”) (internal quotations omitted). The first and second elements of collateral estoppel are thus met.

34. The third prong of collateral estoppel—whether the Court’s prior ruling on this same issue was necessary or essential to the Order Denying Reconsideration—is likewise satisfied. The Court’s finding that Contingent Trust Interests were not “in the money” was necessary to the Court’s ultimate determination that HMIT did not have standing to assert the Proposed Claims. In other words, to determine whether HMIT could file the Motion for Leave, and later whether to grant the Motion to Reconsider, the Court was required to consider whether Contingent Trust Interests have vested. This was the only issue underlying the Motion to Reconsider, and it was necessary to the Order Denying Reconsideration. Plaintiffs are therefore collaterally estopped from re-litigating this same issue of whether their Contingent Trust Interests will vest. See In re

Derosa-Grund, 567 B.R. 773, 798 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. 2017) (debtor collaterally estopped from re-litigating issue of whether debtor owned film treatment where this same issue “was necessary” to determination on motion to reopen; was determined; and “Debtor cannot now relitigate this issue in an effort to prove that EMG owns the Treatment”).<sup>17</sup> Accordingly, Count Three is barred by collateral estoppel, and for this additional reason, this claim should be dismissed.

C. Plaintiffs’ Claims Fail as a Matter of Law

35. Even if the Court had subject matter jurisdiction over Counts Two and Three, the Complaint fails to state plausible claims upon which relief can be granted under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6) as to all Counts. To survive a motion to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6), a plaintiff must plead “enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). “A claim has facial plausibility when the plaintiff pleads factual content that allows the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the misconduct alleged.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009). “The plausibility standard is not akin to a ‘probability requirement,’ but it asks for more than a sheer possibility that a defendant has acted unlawfully.” Id. (quoting Twombly, 550 U.S. at 556). “Where a complaint pleads facts that are ‘merely consistent with’ a defendant’s liability, it ‘stops short of the line between possibility and plausibility of entitlement to relief.’” Id. (quoting Twombly, 550

<sup>17</sup> Although Dugaboy was not a party in the Motion for Leave, literal identity of the parties is not required as part of the collateral estoppel analysis so long as the party against whom enforcement is sought was in privity with a party involved in the initial decision. Privity exists where a non-party’s interests were adequately represented in the first suit. See Derosa-Grund, 567 B.R. at 798 n. 21 (Bankr S.D. Tex. 2017) (noting “federal courts will bind a nonparty whose interests were represented adequately by a party in the original suit,” and “[t]he Fifth Circuit has found that adequate representation exists between a party and a non-party ‘where a party to the original suit is so closely aligned to the non-party’s interests as to be his virtual representative.’”) (quoting Terrell v. DeConna, 877 F.2d 1267, 1270 (5th Cir. 1989)). Here, there can be no question that Dugaboy’s interests were sufficiently aligned as to the issue of whether Contingent Trust Interests have vested, where both Dugaboy and HMIT hold those interests and Dugaboy was funding HMIT’s litigation. See Meador v. Oryx Energy Co., 87 F. Supp. 2d 658, 665 (E.D. Tex. 2000) (non-party’s interests were “sufficiently aligned” with party in previous suit for purposes of claim preclusion where, in both cases, “the plaintiffs’ claims derive solely from rights” alleging arising from the same conveyance that was interpreted conclusively in prior suit).

U.S. at 557). “When well-pleaded facts fail to meet th[e] [Twombly] standard, the complaint has alleged—but it has not shown—that the pleader is entitled to relief.” Id. at 679. Dismissal is proper under Rule 12(b)(6) when, taking the facts alleged in the complaint as true, it appears that the plaintiff “cannot prove any set of facts that would entitle it to the relief it seeks.” C.C. Port, Ltd. v. Davis-Penn Mortg. Co., 61 F.3d 288, 289 (5th Cir. 1995). “[I]t is clearly proper in deciding a 12(b)(6) motion to take judicial notice of matters of public record.” Johnson v. Wells Fargo Bank, NA, 999 F. Supp. 2d 919, 926 (N.D. Tex. 2014) (internal quotations omitted). Courts have “complete discretion” to either accept or exclude such evidence for purposes of the motion to dismiss. Id.

1. Plaintiffs’ Equitable Accounting Claim Fails as a Matter of Law

36. Count One, which seeks an accounting of the Claimant Trust Assets, fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted under Rule 12(b)(6).

i. Plaintiffs Have No Rights to Financial Information Because They are Not Claimant Trust Beneficiaries

37. Plaintiffs have no rights to information regarding the Claimant Trust Assets.

38. First, as discussed above and as this Court has found, it is indisputable that Plaintiffs, holding only “Contingent Trust Interests,” are not “Beneficiaries” under the CTA.<sup>18</sup> See Order Denying Leave at *35. As such, Plaintiffs have no rights under the CTA. See id. (quoting CTA, § 5.1(c)). Plaintiffs ignore this language and fail to offer any support for their broad request for financial information, other than vaguely asserting that they “are unable to determine whether their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests may vest into Claimant Trust Interests.” Compl. ¶ 83. As this Court found, while Plaintiffs may be “frustrated” that they did not negotiate the same rights

as the “actual Claimant Trust Beneficiaries,” (Valuation Order at 5), there is simply no foundation—in law, equity, or otherwise—for Plaintiffs’ request for financial information. Plaintiffs acknowledge that they are not “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries” but nevertheless imply, without any supporting facts or authority, that they should not only be treated as such, but should receive information not otherwise available to Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. In so arguing, Plaintiffs blatantly disregard the plain terms of the CTA, the Plan, and this Court’s prior orders, which expressly foreclose the relief sought in their Claims.

39. Second, and for largely these same reasons, equitable relief is not available where, as here, the parties’ rights and obligations at issue are set forth in the agreement. See In re Am. Home Mortg. Holdings, Inc., 386 Fed. Appx. 209, 212-13 (3d Cir. 2010) (affirming bankruptcy court’s denial of equitable relief to distributions under trust documents where, among other things, the trust documents controlled distribution of monthly payments, and the Trust Certificate “cannot be rewritten on equitable grounds,” and noting “[i]n interpreting the provisions of the Trust Documents, we apply Delaware law, which instructs that a party is bound by the plain meaning of clear and unequivocal contract terms.”); Grunstein v. Silva, CIV.A. 3932-VCN, 2009 WL 4698541, at *6 (Del. Ch. Dec. 8, 2009) (“Where those [fiduciary] rights arise from a contract that specifically addresses the matter at issue, the court evaluates the parties’ conduct within the framework they themselves crafted, instead of imposing more broadly defined equitable duties.”).

40. Here, the CTA expressly provides that (a) Plaintiffs are not Beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust, and, therefore, (b) Plaintiffs have no rights under the CTA. See supra ¶¶ 10-13. supra. Accordingly, the plain language of the CTA forecloses the notion that Plaintiffs have any right—equitable or otherwise—to financial information on the Claimant Trust Assets. Plaintiffs’

attempt to re-write the CTA on equitable grounds in order to grant non-beneficiaries information rights is entirely without merit.

41. Third, even if Plaintiffs were Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, any information rights would still be limited. Section 3819(a) of the Delaware Statutory Trust Act (the “Trust Act”) governs information rights for beneficiaries of Delaware statutory trusts and ascribes primacy to the trust’s agreement:

Except to the extent otherwise provided in the governing instrument of a statutory trust, each beneficial owner of a statutory trust ... has the right, subject to such reasonable standards ... as may be established by the trustees or other persons who have authority to manage the business and affairs of the statutory trust, to obtain from the statutory trust from time to time upon reasonable demand for any purpose reasonably related to the beneficial owner's interest as a beneficial owner of the statutory trust ....

12 Del. C. § 3819(a) (emphasis added); see also In re Natl. Coll. Student Loan Trusts Litig., 251 A.3d 116, 150 (Del. Ch. 2020) (Trust Agreements “are the governing instruments of the Trusts under the DST Act.”) Here, the CTA does “otherwise provide.” As discussed supra, pursuant to the CTA and the Plan, only “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries,” by design, have information rights, which are set forth in section 3.12(b) of the CTA. See CTA § 3.12(b) (providing that the only entities with information rights under the Plan are “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.”) And the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries’ rights (a) are limited, (b) do not include rights to asset or subsidiary level information, and (c) can be further limited by the Claimant Trustee as appropriate to “maintain confidentiality.”

42. Any duties running from the Claimant Trustee to actual Beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust relating to the disclosure of information are expressly limited by the CTA. 12 Del. C. § 3806(c) (“To the extent that ... a trustee ... has duties (including fiduciary duties) to a ... beneficial owner or to another person that is a party to or is otherwise bound by a governing instrument, the trustee’s ... duties may be ... restricted or eliminated by provisions in the governing instrument ....”) Thus, even the actual Claimant Trust Beneficiaries would not have the broad information rights that Plaintiffs (who, again, are not even Claimant Trust Beneficiaries) seek here. This further undermines Plaintiffs’ unsupported allegations that they have any equitable rights to information on the Claimant Trust Assets.

ii. Any Claim for an Equitable Accounting Fails Under Delaware Law

43. To the extent Count One is treated as one for an accounting cognizable in equity, it likewise fails. Under Delaware law,<sup>19</sup> an accounting is not a cause of action sounding in equity. Williams v. Lester, 2023-0042-SG, 2023 WL 4883610, at *3 (Del. Ch. Aug. 1, 2023). It is an equitable remedy by which a fiduciary may be caused to account for property subject to trust. Id. A claim for an accounting lies only where “(i) there are mutual accounts between parties, (ii) a fiduciary relationship exists and the defendant has a duty to account, or (iii) the accounts are all on one side but there are circumstances of great complication.” Bus. Funding Group, Inc. v. Architectural Renovators, Inc., C.A. 12655, 1993 WL 104611, at *2 (Del. Ch. Mar. 31, 1993); see also McMahon v. New Castle Assoc., 532 A2d 601, 605 (Del. Ch. 1987) (“[A] request for an accounting by a fiduciary is a recognized basis for chancery jurisdiction,” noting “equity shall rarely, if ever, have to be resorted to in order to determine the state of accounts in a purely commercial relationship.”); 12 Del. C. § 3806(c). Where, as here, an agreement sets forth the fiduciary relationship between the parties, an extra-contractual relationship cannot be created. See Grunstein v. Silva, CIV.A. 3932-VCN, 2009 WL 4698541, at *6 (Del. Ch. Dec. 8, 2009) (“Where those [fiduciary] rights arise from a contract that specifically addresses the matter at issue, the court evaluates the parties’ conduct within the framework they themselves crafted, instead of imposing more broadly defined equitable duties.”)

44. The CTA governs the parties' rights and obligations. Pursuant to the CTA, Plaintiffs, as holders of Contingent Trust Interests, "shall have no rights" thereunder, and there is no underlying fiduciary relationship between the Claimant Trustee and Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs do not allege as such, nor could they. The Court cannot impose any duties of disclosure other than what is set forth in the CTA. Plaintiffs' equitable accounting claim fails as a matter of law. See Bus. Funding Group, 1993 WL 104611, at *2 (denying claim for equitable accounting where "the parties' relationship, which is defined exclusively by the purchase and sale agreements, involves an arm's-length commercial dealing and bears none of the earmarks of a fiduciary relationship," noting the "plaintiff negotiated the protection it needed in the [] agreements," which "does not create a fiduciary relationship"); Natl. Coll., 251 A.3d at 150 ("[T]he plain language of the Trust Agreement forecloses any notion that the Owner Trustee owes any extra-contractual duties (fiduciary or otherwise)" to non-owner deal parties, noting "[i]f the drafters of the Trust Agreement ... had intended the Owner Trustee to administer the Trusts in the interests of another deal party, the Trust Agreements would have said so.").<sup>20</sup>

45. Under these circumstances, Plaintiffs fail to show why equity should abrogate the terms of the CTA agreement to create extra-contractual rights relating to the disclosure of financial information or an accounting. This is especially true in light of Plaintiff HMIT's "unclean hands." HMIT is a defendant in an action on a note owed to Highland with current principal and interest owed in excess of $98 million. See Adv. Pro. No. 21-03076-sgj, Docket No. 1, Count 24 (breach of contract claim arising out of HMIT note). HMIT cannot seek equitable relief relating to the disclosure of assets of the Claimant Trust when HMIT's own behavior has violated principles of equity and righteous dealing on issues relevant to the instant Action. Plaintiffs' equitable claim for financial information on the Claimant Trust is without foundation or support, blatantly disregards the CTA and other applicable documents, and fails to allege a cognizable claim. For this additional reason, Count One should be dismissed.

June 7, 2011) (dismissing claim for equitable accounting where "Plaintiff does not explain why she is entitled to an accounting, let alone allege any facts to support her requests," noting "an accounting is an equitable remedy and not an independent cause of action."); Johnson v. Wells Fargo Bank, NA, 999 F. Supp 2d 919, 935 (N.D. Tex. 2014) (dismissing plaintiff's request for equitable relief because there is a contract between the parties that governs the dispute.)

2. Plaintiffs' Claims for Declaratory Relief Fail as a Matter of Law

46. Plaintiffs' claims for declaratory relief—Counts Two and Three—also fail to state claims under Rule 12(b)(6). To sustain a claim for declaratory or injunctive relief, a plaintiff must first plead a viable underlying cause of action. See Collin County, Tex. v. Homeowners Ass'n for Values Essential to Neighborhoods, 915 F.2d 167, 170-71 (5th Cir. 1990)) (the “federal declaratory judgment act is remedial only ... it is the defendant's underlying cause of action against the plaintiff that is litigated in a suit under the act”); see also Henry, 2011 WL 2261166, at *8 (“The Declaratory Judgment Act is a procedural device that creates no substantive rights and requires the existence of a justiciable controversy.”); Sivertson v. Citibank, N.A. as Tr. for Registered Holders of WAMU Asset-Back Certificates WAMU Series No. 2007-HE2 Tr., 390 F. Supp. 3d 769, 794 (E.D. Tex. 2019) (same). “Where all the substantive, underlying claims are subject to dismissal, a claim for declaratory relief cannot survive.” Wallace v. U.S. Bank, N.A., No. 4:17-CV-437, 2018 WL 1224508, at *2 (E.D. Tex. Mar. 9, 2018).

47. Plaintiffs' Claims for declaratory relief in Counts Two and Three fail to state plausible claims because there is no underlying controversy. They are premised on Count One, which, as discussed, is not a cognizable claim. See Compl. ¶¶ 90 (“[o]nce Defendants are compelled to provide information about the Claimant Trust Assets, Plaintiffs seek a determination from the Court of the relative value of the Claimant Trust Assets compared to the bankruptcy estate obligations,” and a declaration that “the conditions are such that their Contingent

Claimant Trust Interests are likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests”) (emphasis added). Since there is no basis to “compel” the disclosure of financial information and Count One fails as a matter of law, Plaintiffs’ claims for declaratory relief, which are dependent upon such disclosure, likewise fail as a matter of law. See Johnson, 999 F. Supp. 2d at 935 (“Because the undersigned has determined that none of Plaintiffs claims can withstand dismissal at this time, Plaintiff’s requests for declaratory and injunctive relief as well as an accounting cannot survive.”)<sup>21</sup>

48. The value of the Claimant Trust Assets and liabilities at any given point is irrelevant to a determination whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests “are likely to vest.” Contingent Trust Interests cannot vest until (a) all Claimant Trust Assets are liquidated, (b) all expenses, including indemnification expenses, are known and have been satisfied, and (c) Claimant Trust Beneficiaries are thereafter paid in full. Until these and other critical variables are known, the financial information Plaintiffs seek in their Complaint is meaningless for purposes of determining “vesting.” See supra ¶¶ 36-27. There is no justiciable controversy underlying Plaintiffs’ claims for declaratory relief. Counts Two and Three should be dismissed. The Claims fail as a matter of law, and the Complaint should be dismissed in its entirety.

IV. CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, Highland respectfully requests that the Court grant the Motion and enter an order in the form annexed to the Motion as Exhibit A, and grant such further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. Plaintiffs filed this adversary proceeding against Defendants Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”) and the Highland Claimant Trust (the “Claimant Trust”) (collectively, “Defendants”) to obtain critical information about the assets and liabilities of the Claimant Trust, which was established under the Order Confirming the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (the “Plan”) [Bankr. Dkt. 1943-1] for the benefit of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries to monetize and liquidate the assets of the HCMLP bankruptcy estate.<sup>1</sup> Plaintiffs have sought this information since June 2022, while HCMLP spent the last 18 months exhausting significant resources to keep the financial status of the estate out of the public eye. Ironically, in the interim, the litigation trustee voluntarily stayed his avoidance action, effectively acknowledging what Plaintiffs have been arguing – that there is more than enough money in the estate to pay all creditors with interest. This is consistent with the disclosure of the Pro-Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet (“Balance Sheet”)<sup>2</sup> in July 2023 evidencing that Plaintiffs are in the money<sup>3</sup> after all creditors have been paid with interest.

2. At the same time, HCMLP and the Claimant Trust have blocked Plaintiffs (and have indicated an intent to continue to block them) from seeking relief to which they would otherwise be entitled, by contending without evidence that Plaintiffs have no standing because they are purportedly not “in the money” – i.e., able or even likely to recover anything from the Claimant Trust.

3. Given Plaintiffs’ established interest and Defendants’ “heads-I-win, tails-you-lose” arguments, further disclosure of the estate’s financial status is warranted and required. As a result,

<sup>3</sup> “In the money” is a colloquial term that has been used in this case to mean that the net assets of the Claimant Trust are sufficient to make it certain and/or likely that the Class 10 and/or 11 Claimholders will be entitled to payment from the estate.

Plaintiffs bring three claims in this adversary proceeding: Count One requests an accounting; Count Two requests a declaratory judgment regarding the value of the Claimant Trust assets; and Count Three requests a declaratory judgment and determination regarding the nature of Plaintiffs' interests in the Claimant Trust. These claims are necessary to rebut HCMLP and the Claimant Trust's continued disputation of the financial status of the estate.

4. Although the Balance Sheet disclosed the positive net value of the estate, HCMLP and the Claimant Trust continue to deny the estate's solvency and to block Plaintiffs' efforts to gain further insight into the financial condition of the estate — what assets are being sold and what expenses can be avoided. Plaintiffs are entitled to the information that will enable them to advocate to maximize recovery for former equity who are in the money.

5. Defendants' motion to dismiss should be seen in this light, and also viewed with skepticism due to the conflicts of interest, discussed below, that taint the decision-making of the Debtor and Claimant Trustee - who have a vested interest in obscuring the finances of Claimant Trust in order to justify keeping the estate open and maintaining lucrative positions for its administrators.<sup>4</sup>

6. Defendants engage in doublespeak when they argue that the disclosure of the Balance Sheet moots the Plaintiffs' claims, while also arguing that Plaintiffs cannot rely on the Balance Sheet because it reflects nothing more than alleged "estimates" and that market forces will cause variances. They cannot have it both ways.

7. Defendants also claim, albeit mistakenly, that Plaintiffs are collaterally estopped because the Bankruptcy Court already ruled in a separate proceeding that the Balance Sheet did not establish that Plaintiffs were in the money.<sup>5</sup> Plaintiffs disagree with Defendants' interpretation of the Balance Sheet, the appealed conclusions and impact of the Court's order, and whether collateral estoppel applies. The Court’s order was not essential to the Court’s determination on standing in those other proceedings. Furthermore, The Dugaboy Investment Trust (“Dugaboy”) was not a party to those proceedings and, therefore, is not subject to collateral estoppel.

8. Plaintiffs’ claims present ripe, justiciable controversies, and this Court has subject matter jurisdiction over Plaintiffs’ claims. If Defendants’ interpretation is wrong, then Plaintiffs have a right to protect their in the money status and to determine how the assets are currently being monetized and maximized for their benefit. If Defendants are correct in their interpretation of the data in the Balance Sheet, which they are not and for the sake of argument only, then Plaintiffs are still entitled to further investigate the current financial condition of the estate in light of continued litigation and monetization of assets. Either way, Plaintiff should be allowed to proceed with this action.

9. Thus, Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss should be denied for several reasons. First, neither the Balance Sheet nor the Court's order denying reconsideration moot Counts One or Three. Second, Count Three does not seek an advisory opinion. Third, Count Three is not barred by collateral estoppel. Fourth, Count One sufficiently states a claim for an accounting. Lastly, Counts Two and Three sufficiently state a claim for declaratory judgment.

II. BACKGROUND

10. Dugaboy and Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“HMIT”) (collectively, “Plaintiffs”) are documented holders of denominated Contingent Claimant Trust Interests that become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries after all creditors are paid in full.<sup>6</sup> The Claimant Trust Agreement (“CTA”) evidences an intent that Plaintiffs become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries when Claimant Trust assets are sufficient to pay all lower ranked claims in full with interest.<sup>7</sup>

11. Defendants filed post-confirmation reports (dated October 21, 2022, January 24, 2023, and April 21, 2023) (“Post-Confirmation Quarterly Reports”) demonstrating that there is more than enough money in the estate to satisfy legitimate indemnity obligations and to otherwise pay Class 8 and 9 creditors in full.<sup>8</sup> With more than $100 million in assets remaining to monetize (not even counting related party notes), and almost $550 million in assets already monetized, there is enough money to pay the $387 million in allowed creditor claims.<sup>9</sup> The Post-Confirmation Quarterly Reports for the first quarter of 2023 also show distributions of $270,205,592 to holders of unsecured claims, which is 68% of the total value of allowed general unsecured claims of $397,485,568.<sup>10</sup> This amount is far greater than what was represented at the time of confirmation of the Plan.<sup>11</sup>

12. Plaintiffs have previously sought additional financial information without success.<sup>12</sup> Specifically, Plaintiffs have asked for more granular information to allow an even more detailed evaluation to specifically identify all of the money raised and how it has been used and distributed, including at least a hundred million dollars not clearly accounted for, based on the Defendants’ financial filings.<sup>13</sup> But Defendants steadfastly refuse to provide this information.<sup>14</sup> Instead,

Defendants argue that Plaintiffs are wrong – that Plaintiffs are not in the money – but Defendants do so without providing any documentation to support their position.

13. Unquestionably, the value of the estate, as held in the Claimant Trust, has significantly changed since Plan confirmation.<sup>15</sup> Many of the estate’s major assets have been liquidated or sold since then, increasing the value of the estate, and many of the assets held by the estate have significantly increased in value, also increasing the value of the estate.<sup>16</sup> But these current proceedings will enable Plaintiffs to further evaluate the current value of the estate, evaluate and protect the distributions to which Plaintiffs are entitled, and evaluate whether those who should be safeguarding the estate’s value are doing so rather than enabling continual waste. Meanwhile, the selective financial information that has been provided suggests that inappropriate self-dealing has occurred - which on its own justifies a full accounting.<sup>17</sup>

14. Likewise, Defendants have failed to provide an ongoing portrait of the estate’s finances. These current proceedings are therefore warranted so Plaintiffs and the bankruptcy court can know exactly what information is being utilized to stymie Plaintiffs’ efforts to challenge Defendants’ administration of the estate and Claimant Trust and Defendants’ attempts to justify unnecessary litigation by the estate against its own beneficiaries. The refusal to provide access to additional financial information is especially troublesome given the blatant conflict of interest that exists. James Seery is both the Claimant Trustee and the Trust Administrator of the Indemnity Subtrust (to whom the trustee of the Indemnity Subtrust answers).<sup>18</sup> This creates an irresolvable conflict whereby Seery purports to have exclusive control over the Indemnity Subtrust—to the detriment of all Claimants and holders of Equity Interests. As the Trust Administrator of the Indemnity Subtrust, Seery directs administration of all aspects of the Indemnity Subtrust in his sole discretion.<sup>19</sup> The sole beneficiaries of the Indemnity Subtrust are the Indemnified Parties as defined in Section 8.2 of the CTA and subject to its terms, including Seery himself.

15. Seery has the following duties under the Claimant Trust: a) pay the remaining Class 8 and 9 claims in full, b) file the GUC Certification, and c) vest the Class 10 and 11 Equity Interests.<sup>20</sup> In addition, he has the legal duty to do so timely and “not unduly prolong the duration of the Claimant Trust.”<sup>21</sup> But because he is an Indemnified Party, subject to the terms of the CTA, Seery chooses to use the remaining assets of the Claimant Trust to both fund a cash reserve to the Indemnity Subtrust, reportedly now totaling $50 million and, on top of that, create an additional “indemnity reserve” of some $90 million<sup>22</sup> in the Claimant Trust. Simply put, Seery has chosen (unilaterally and self-servingly) to dedicate the assets of the Claimant Trust to erect an “indemnity wall” in front of himself instead of using available funds consistent with his duties as the Claimant Trustee. These facts justify closer scrutiny of the Claimant Trust’s finances.

16. By concealing the details of the Claimant Trust, Seery, as Claimant Trustee, can continue to frustrate the Plan by refusing to pay Class 8 and 9 claims holders, refusing to file the GUC Certification confirming that Plaintiffs are in the money, and thereby render the treatment of all remaining constituents under the Plan, both claimants and former equity, illusory. All claimants, including the Plaintiffs, have a right and, given Defendants’ positions, a need to understand how the Claimant Trust is currently handling their money and interests.

A. The Balance Sheet Does Not Moot Count One.

17. Defendants argue in their Motion that “Count one is moot in light of the Balance Sheet and must be dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction under Rule 12(B)(1).” Motion at ¶ 24. Specifically, Defendants argue that the Balance Sheet, which was filed on July 6, 2023, and discloses financial information as of May 31, 2023, “shows the value of the Claimant Trust Assets, the Claimant Trust liabilities, and the potential equity value available for Claimant Trust Beneficiaries (assuming all Claimant Trust Assets are liquidated at current valuations and liabilities are fixed),” and has “thus eliminated the ‘actual controversy’ between the parties. Motion at ¶¶ 25-26. But they are wrong. The dispute remains ongoing, not the least of which because of Defendants contentions and arguments that the Balance Sheet is not conclusive.

18. Defendants themselves argued on April 24, 2023, a month before the as-of date on the Balance Sheet, that “Mr. Dondero and Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy keep telling the Court assets exceed liabilities. Assets exceed liabilities. And you know our position on that, Your Honor. They may; they may not.”<sup>23</sup> Defendants’ telling observation contradicts their mootness argument and—importantly—reinforces Plaintiffs’ claims for further disclosures. If the Balance Sheet provides all necessary information and is accurate, then it should be easy for Defendants to admit that holders of Contingent Claimant Trust Interests have vested into Claimant Trust Interests. If Defendants want to contest the logical conclusion drawn from the Balance Sheet—the only currently-available disclosure of its kind—then Defendants should be compelled to produce the financial information necessary to support their position.<sup>24</sup> But Defendants refuse to do so. They instead ask this Court to rely on their ambiguous ipsi dixits without supporting proof.<sup>25</sup>

19. Additionally, despite disclosing only the Balance Sheet, Defendants have argued that Plaintiffs should not rely on it. Taken as true, the Balance Sheet confirms Plaintiffs' in the money status. Nonetheless, Plaintiffs are entitled to more detailed information, particularly in light of Defendants' arguments disclaiming their own Balance Sheet.

20. For example, the information contained in the Balance Sheet provides information as of May 31, 2023, but estate administration is ongoing.<sup>26</sup> Defendants argue as much: the Balance Sheet specifically states that the information contained in it "is based on matters as they exist as of the date of preparation and not as of any future date."<sup>27</sup>

21. Additionally, although the Balance Sheet assigns values to the Claimant Trust's assets and liabilities, it is unaudited and provides no detail regarding what is included in those values or how they were determined.<sup>28</sup> Thus, because there is no description of which assets have been sold or what value was realized as a result of those sales, there is no way to determine the current extent to which asset sales were materially mismanaged, causing Plaintiffs to be damaged. Further, there is no information that would allow the parties or the Court to determine the reasonableness of all of the administrative costs that have been incurred to date and will be incurred in the future.<sup>29</sup> While the Balance Sheet certainly demonstrates that Plaintiffs are in the money, additional information is needed to make sure that the benefits which will flow to Plaintiffs are maximized and not wasted.

22. With respect to assets, there is no detail regarding the “Investments,” only a vague estimation that $118 million of Investments exist. The Debtor filed an addendum to its March 31, 2023 Operating Report (Bankr. Dkt. 3757 at Addendum Item 5) (“Addendum”)<sup>30</sup> disclosing certain remaining assets, but even that is opaque. For example, the Addendum discloses “[p]ost-sale escrows” from “two private equity companies.”<sup>31</sup> But there is no disclosure of which companies it refers to, the amounts of the escrows, the conditions precedent to the release of the escrows, or the anticipated timing.<sup>32</sup> Additionally, the Debtor holds “direct or indirect interest in two private funds.”<sup>33</sup> But Debtor has not disclosed which funds. What are their respective liquidity rules? Have they been going up or down in value? The Debtor also lists “other misc.,” which includes “future revenue streams and receivables” without detail.<sup>34</sup> With respect to cash, while the Plaintiffs can estimate the estate’s cash balance, where that cash is sitting and what structural or accounting restrictions are in place on its use remain unclear. Finally, Plaintiffs do not have a current perspective on future cash flows, their amounts, and their probability of continuing.

23. With respect to liabilities, the Balance Sheet shows $15 million in “[o]ther liabilities” and a purported adjustment of $13 million additional “[o]ther liabilities.”<sup>35</sup> What is the basis for these liabilities? Are they owed to estate-affiliated parties that may be subject to negotiation or third-party service providers such as the office lease for which there really is no basis for negotiation? What is the payment deadline on these liabilities and is there interest running? What are the off-balance sheet “springing contingent liabilities” in Note 5 to the Balance Sheet?<sup>36</sup>

24. Further, the Balance Sheet purports to make four “adjustments” totaling $198 million in reduction in the value of the estate. While the notes explain the two asset-related “adjustments,” there is no explanation of the basis for and amount of the $90 million “[a]dditional indemnification reserves” and the aforementioned $13 million in “[o]ther liabilities.”

25. Financial statements of a company typically are comprised of a balance sheet, income statement, and a cash flow statement (also, if applicable, a Statement of Changes to Shareholder Equity). These collectively give a more detailed perspective of the company’s finances, including but not limited to regarding what expenses have been incurred to date and likely will need to be incurred into the future and what revenues likely will be generated. Even with a company in liquidation, it is important to understand what, if any, expenses would need to continue and what, if any, additional cash will be generated. This information is vital to any party seeking to wrap up the estate. Further disclosures are required to facilitate the important decisions necessary to resolve this estate that has been “liquidating” post-Effective Date for over two and a half years—with no end in sight.

26. Notably, Defendants have previously raised the above-stated issues to avoid reliance on the Balance Sheet—the very same document they now incredibly claim “moots” Plaintiffs’ Count One. Specifically, Defendants seek to disclaim any reliance on the Balance Sheet by stating that it is merely an estimate and should not be relied upon by anyone: “The information contained in this summarized consolidated balance sheet (the “Summary”) is based on estimates, and therefore should not be relied upon, as actual results may differ materially from the estimates contained herein.”<sup>37</sup> But this is true gamesmanship. Defendants cannot provide estimates to claim that Defendants have received everything they need and then disclaim the reliability of that very same information. This classic doublespeak is precisely the type of “litigation posturing” that the Fifth Circuit warned about in Fontenot v. McCraw, 777 F.3d 741, 747-48 (5th Cir. 2015), when it stated that courts must give closer attention when a defendant claims to have mooted a case through the defendant’s “voluntary conduct,” as opposed to “official acts of third parties.”

27. Plainly, Defendants’ production of the Balance Sheet does not resolve Plaintiffs’ claims. The financial status of the Claimant Trust and whether/when Plaintiffs are entitled to distributions is an ongoing controversy as a result of the ongoing sale of assets and distributions. When there is an ongoing controversy, a case is not moot. Franciscan All., Inc. v. Becerra, 47 F.4th 368, 377 n.40 (5th Cir. 2022) (“if there is an ongoing dispute giving a plaintiff standing, the case is not moot.”); Laza v. City of Palestine, No. 6:17-CV-00533-JDK, 2021 WL 2856685, at *7 (E.D. Tex. July 8, 2021) (case is not moot because “[t]his controversy is ongoing and live . . . and Plaintiff has a concrete interest in the matter.”); In re RE Palm Springs II, LLC, No. 3:20-CV-3486-B, 2021 WL 3213013, at *3 (N.D. Tex. July 29, 2021) (“Thus, under § 363(m), the sale of the Property does not moot SRC’s appeal because there is an ongoing issue, which was properly preserved, as to whether HPS acted in good faith.”); Friends of Lydia Ann Channel v. U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, No. 2:15-CV-514, 2016 WL 6876652, at *6 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 22, 2016) (case is not moot because “[t]here are ongoing controversies”). In sum, Count One should not be dismissed because Defendants’ provision of information at one point in time, months ago, (the reliability of which Defendants have expressly disavowed) does not moot this ongoing controversy.

B. The Court’s Order Denying Reconsideration Does Not Moot Count Three.

28. Defendants argue that Count Three, which seeks a declaration regarding that Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests are at least “likely to vest into Claimant Trust Interests, making them Trust Beneficiaries,” is moot because the Court purportedly already decided this issue. Motion at ¶ 27. Specifically, Defendants argue that Plaintiff HMIT’s Motion to Reconsider filed with respect to the Order Denying Leave, “incorrectly argued that the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet showed that HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interests were ‘in the money,’ and likely to vest, and that the Court subsequently found that Contingent Trust Interests are not ‘in the money.’” Motion at ¶ 27. Defendants claim that this eliminated any live controversy presented by Count Three. Motion at ¶ 28. Defendants are incorrect.

29. A case becomes moot when “an intervening event renders the court unable to grant the litigant any effective relief whatever.” Franciscan All., Inc. v. Becerra, 553 F. Supp. 3d 361, 368 (N.D. Tex. 2021); see also DeOtte v. State, 20 F.4th 1055, 1064 (5th Cir. 2021) (stating a case is moot when “any set of circumstances . . . eliminates [the] actual controversy after the commencement of a lawsuit”). However, “[a]s long as the parties have a concrete interest, however small, in the outcome of the litigation, the case is not moot.” Franciscan All., 553 F. Supp. 3d at 368.

30. As the cases cited above demonstrate, an ongoing controversy, such as the one that exists here, cannot be mooted. This Court’s dicta that HMIT was not “in the money” at the time it issued its order is based on information that Defendants refuse to stand behind. It does not mean that HMIT is not “in the money” now nor does it mean that HMIT will never be “in the money.” And, finally, the order on which Defendants seek to rely is currently on appeal and may be overturned.<sup>38</sup>

31. In sum, Plaintiffs have a concrete interest in a determination that its Contingent Trust Interests are effectively vested and this Court’s previous order does not eliminate that interest. Thus,

Count Three is not moot and cannot be dismissed. Defendants’ Motion should be denied because it is based on flawed legal arguments and misapprehends the nature of Plaintiffs’ claims.

C. Count Three Does Not Seek an Advisory Opinion.

32. Defendants next argue that Count Three should be dismissed because it purportedly seeks an impermissible “advisory opinion,” and, therefore, the Court does not have subject matter jurisdiction to rule on the claim.<sup>39</sup> Specifically, Defendants argue that Plaintiffs’ requests for relief about whether they are or will be entitled to be paid are dependent on a number of unknown and contingent variables, rendering the request an “abstract determination” that is impermissible. Motion at ¶¶ 30-31.

33. “Although [d]eclaratory judgments cannot be used to seek an opinion advising what the law would be on a hypothetical set of facts . . . , declaratory judgment plaintiffs need not actually expose themselves to liability before bringing suit.” Frye v. Anadarko Petroleum Corp., 953 F.3d 285, 294 (5th Cir. 2019) (internal quotations omitted). “Basically, the question in each case is whether the facts alleged, under all the circumstances, show that there is a substantial controversy, between the parties having adverse legal interests, of sufficient immediacy and reality to warrant the issuance of a declaratory judgment.” Id. (quotation omitted).

34. Here, Count Three is not dependent upon hypothetical facts. Count Three is only dependent upon a resolution of whether the “Claimant Trust assets exceed the obligations of the bankruptcy estate in an amount sufficient so that all Allowable Claims may be indefeasibly paid[.]”<sup>40</sup> Contrary to Defendants’ argument, this does not require the Court to consider hypothetical future events like the outcome of the appeal in the Notes Litigation,<sup>41</sup> future Claimant Trust expenses, or the

nature and extent of indemnification obligations. Motion at ¶ 30. Instead, Count Three seeks a declaration that, at the time that this proceeding is decided, the Claimant Trust assets exceed the obligations of the bankruptcy estate such that Plaintiffs' Contingent Trust Interests are effectively vested. There is nothing "abstract" about this request. This is not an advisory opinion and the Court should reject Defendants' request to dismiss Count Three.

D. Count Three Is Not Barred by Collateral Estoppel.

35. Defendants next argue that Count Three should be dismissed because it is barred by the doctrine of collateral estoppel. Specifically, Defendants argue that the issue presented by Count Three, whether Plaintiffs' Contingent Interests are likely to vest, is purportedly the same issue already litigated in connection with HMIT's Motion to Reconsider. Motion at ¶ 33.

36. Collateral estoppel only applies if "(1) the issue at stake [is] identical to the one involved in the prior action; (2) the issue [was] actually litigated in the prior action; and (3) the determination of the issue in the prior action [was] a necessary part of the judgment in that earlier action." Hacienda Records, L.P. v. Ramos, 718 Fed. App'x 223, 228 (5th Cir. 2018) (emphases added). The Fifth Circuit has held that a previous decision is not "necessary" to the final judgment when it is "incidental, collateral, or immaterial to that judgment." Hicks v. Quaker Oats Co., 662 F.2d 1158, 1168 (5th Cir. 1981) ("it has always been the rule that although an issue was fully litigated and a finding made on the issue in prior litigation, the prior judgment will not act as collateral estoppel as to the issue if the issue was not necessary to the rendering of the prior judgment, and hence was incidental, collateral, or immaterial to that judgment."). See also OJSC Ukrnafta v. Carpatsky Petroleum Corp., No. CV H-09-891, 2018 WL 5921228, at *6-8 (S.D. Tex. Nov. 13, 2018) (same). But the issue raised in Count Three is neither identical to the issues litigated in connection with HMIT's Motion to Reconsider nor was it a necessary part of the Court's resulting order.

37. This Court’s prior decision does not address the current issue in dispute and certainly does not mean that HMIT (or somehow Dugaboy, who was not a party in those proceedings) is not “in the money” now, nor does it mean that HMIT (or Dugaboy) will never be “in the money.” Accordingly, the issue at stake (as well as the parties) are not identical and collateral estoppel does not apply.

38. This Court’s previous finding was not a necessary part of this Court’s decision on HMIT’s Motion for Leave or HMIT’s Motion to Reconsider. The Court initially denied HMIT’s Motion for Leave without any consideration of whether HMIT was “in the money.” Therefore, the issue of whether HMIT was “in the money” cannot have been a “necessary” part of the Court’s order. It also cannot be said to have been fully and fairly litigated, another prerequisite for collateral estoppel,<sup>42</sup> because it was only able to be raised in a post judgment motion without discovery or a hearing.<sup>43</sup>

39. Furthermore, the Court conceded that its dicta on whether HMIT was “in the money” was not necessary to its decision denying the Motion to Reconsider. Specifically, the Court found that there were no reasonable grounds to reopen the record based on the post-hearing financial disclosures because it believed that they were not materially different than the Post-Confirmation Reports filed by Debtor on April 21, 2023.<sup>44</sup> The Court went on to state that: “[s]o, to the extent HMIT is arguing that the ‘post-hearing financial disclosure filings’ are something akin to newly discovered evidence or otherwise a ground for a new hearing or altering findings, HMIT’s argument lacks merit. Moreover, even if this court were to consider the ‘post-hearing financial disclosure filings,’ the court disagrees with HMIT's central argument that they demonstrate HMIT's contingent interest is 'in the money....'"<sup>45</sup> In other words, per the Court's words, the finding on which Defendants seek to rely was unnecessary dicta and not a basis for the application of collateral estoppel. Hicks, 662 F.2d at 1168. Accordingly, collateral estoppel does not apply and Count Three should not be dismissed.

E. Count One Sufficiently States a Claim for Disclosures of Claimant Trust Assets and Request for Accounting.

1. Plaintiffs have a legal right to obtain the information that they seek in this proceeding.

40. Defendants argue that Plaintiffs have no right to any financial information as a matter of law because they allegedly hold only Contingent Trust Interests and are not beneficiaries under the CTA. Motion at ¶¶ 38-41. According to Defendants, the language of the CTA makes clear that only current beneficiaries have rights to information under the CTA. Defendants are incorrect. Plaintiffs are intended (albeit contingent) beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust.

Persons who are beneficiaries: in general. The "beneficiaries" of a trust are the persons or classes of persons, or the successors in interest of persons or class members, upon whom the settlor manifested an intention to confer beneficial interests (vested or contingent) under the trust, plus persons who hold powers of appointment (special or general) or have reversionary interests by operation of law. Also included are persons who have succeeded to interests of beneficiaries by assignment, inheritance, or otherwise.<sup>47</sup>

42. Delaware courts routinely hold that, when interpreting undefined statutory terms, courts must give those terms a "reasonable and sensible meaning in light of their intent and purpose." Angstadt v. Red Clay Consol. Sch. Dist., 4 A.3d 382, 390 (Del. 2010). In ascertaining the "reasonable

43. Black’s Law Dictionary defines “beneficiary” as, among other things, “[s]omeone who is designated to receive the advantages from an action or change . . . or to receive something as a result of a legal arrangement or instrument” and includes both “contingent beneficiar[ies]” and “direct beneficiar[ies]” within the definition without any qualification regarding their rights.<sup>48</sup> By contrast, Black’s distinguishes an “incidental beneficiary” as a “third-party beneficiary, who, though benefiting indirectly, is not intended to benefit from a contract and thus does not acquire rights under the contract.”<sup>49</sup> Nothing in the CTA indicates that Plaintiffs are merely “incidental beneficiaries.”

44. In light of the RESTATEMENT and the definition in Black’s Law Dictionary, it is reasonable and sensible to interpret the word “beneficiary” as used in Section 3327 of the Delaware statute to include contingent beneficiaries. Rules of statutory interpretation support this conclusion.

45. As the Delaware Supreme Court explained, a court “may not engraft upon a statute language which has been clearly excluded therefrom by the Legislature.” Giuricich v. Emtrol Corp., 449 A.2d 232, 238 (Del. 1982) (citing Wilmington Trust Co. v. Barry, 338 A.2d 575, 578 (Del Super. Ct. 1975), aff’d, 359 A.2d 664 (Del. 1976)). If the Delaware Legislature had intended that only “vested” beneficiaries could bring an action to remove a trustee, as opposed to any beneficiary (whether residual or contingent), it would have so specified. In this case, the relevant statute—Del. Code Ann. tit. 12, § 3327—uses the term “beneficiary” without defining or limiting it. Accordingly, a court may not do what the Delaware Legislature refused to do by engrafting the term “vested” into the statute to qualify the term “beneficiary.”

Feb. 12, 2016) (holding that the “statute’s use of the general term beneficiary, without any language restricting the class of beneficiary to whom it refers, fairly encompasses a vested beneficiary subject to divestiture”); Estate of Necastro, No. C.A. 10,538, 1991 WL 29958, at *1 (Del. Ch. Feb. 28, 1991) (rejecting a “restrictive reading” of “beneficiary” under 12 Del.C. § 2302(d) and instead holding that “Exceptants [whom the parties characterized as “contingent beneficiaries”] have standing . . . based upon their indirect interest in a share of the estate through their status as beneficiaries of a testamentary trust”). In short, neither the applicable Delaware statute nor Delaware case law limits the term “beneficiary” to vested beneficiaries, to the exclusion of contingent ones.

47. Defendants argue, incorrectly, that the language of the CTA purportedly strips Plaintiffs of standing. In particular, Defendants argue that the CTA provides that holders of Contingent Trust Interests (including Plaintiffs) “shall not have any rights under this Agreement, unless and until the Claimant Trustee files with the Bankruptcy Court a certification that all GUC Beneficiaries have been paid indefeasibly in full, including, to the extent applicable, all accrued and unpaid post-petition interest consistent with the Plan and all Disputed Claims have been resolved (the ‘GUC Payment Certification’).”<sup>50</sup> They further argue that the agreement provides that “Equity Holders will be deemed ‘Beneficiaries’ under this Agreement only upon the filing of a GUC Payment Certification with the Bankruptcy Court.”<sup>51</sup> But Delaware law makes clear that a trust agreement, however worded, may not strip the trustee’s duty of good faith and fair dealing and, importantly, the

CTA does not disclaim any such duties.<sup>52</sup> Here, observance of that duty precludes the argument that the language of the CTA destroys Plaintiffs' standing.

48. Under Delaware law, unless the governing trust agreement says otherwise, the trustee of a statutory trust has those duties set forth in common law, including the duties of loyalty, good faith, and due care. See Del. Code Ann. tit. 12, § 3809; Rende v. Rende, No. 2021-0734-SEM, 2023 WL 2180572, at *11 (Del. Ch. Feb. 23, 2023). And while a governing trust agreement may expressly disclaim these duties (although this one does not), Delaware law prohibits the elimination of the duty of good faith and fair dealing. In re National Collegiate Student Loan Trusts Litigation, 251 A.3d 116, 185-86 (Del. Ch. 2020) (“While parties may agree to waive default fiduciary duties, the DSTA forbids parties from eliminating the “implied contractual covenant of good faith and fair dealing.”) (citing Del. Code. Ann. tit. 12, § 3806(c)).

49. Here, the duty of good faith and fair dealing is particularly important where Plaintiffs' status as “beneficiaries” under the Agreement is purportedly dependent upon Mr. Seery's discretion to file a GUC Certification declaring them as such. “Stated in its most general terms, the implied covenant requires a party in a contractual relationship to refrain from arbitrary or unreasonable conduct which has the effect of preventing the other party to the contract from receiving the fruits of the bargain.” Dunlap v. State Farm Fire and Cas. Co., 878 A.2d 434, 442 (Del. 2005) (internal quotations omitted).

50. As other RESTATEMENT jurisdictions have recognized, Mr. Seery's refusal to give the GUC Certification and recognize Plaintiffs vesting of Classes 10 and 11 warrants treating those classes as fully vested. “[V]esting cannot be postponed by unreasonable delay in distributing an estate and [...] when there is such delay, contingent interests vest at the time distribution should have been made.” Estate of Cornell v. Johnson, 367 P.3d 173, 178 (Idaho 2016) (emphasis added) (discussed in RESTATEMENT (SECOND) OF TRUSTS § 198 (1959)); see also Edwards v. Gillis, 146 Cal.Rptr.3d 256, 263 (Cal. Ct. App. 4 Dist., 2012) (“when there is [unreasonable] delay contingent interests vest at the time distribution should have been made.”).

51. As set forth above, the Claimant Trust had sufficient assets to pay unsecured creditors in Classes 8 and 9 in full with interest at least as early as May 2023, and in all probability as early as September 2022.<sup>53</sup> And the CTA requires Mr. Seery as Claimant Trustee to “make timely distributions and not unduly prolong the duration of the Claimant Trust.”<sup>54</sup> Had Mr. Seery fulfilled that mandate, he could and should have distributed remaining funds to Classes 8 and 9 in July 2023 at the latest, filed the GUC Certification with the Court, and begun distributing remaining assets to Classes 10 and 11. In short, Plaintiffs’ contingent interests should have vested many months ago. Therefore, the law treats Plaintiffs as Claimant Trust Beneficiaries regardless of the language of the CTA.

52. In sum, the Plan defines the “Contingent Claimant Trust Interests” to include the Claimant Trust Interests distributed to Holders of Class A, B, and C Limited Partnership Interests.<sup>55</sup> The CTA defines “Contingent Trust Interests” to be the contingent interests in the Claimant Trust to be distributed to the Class A, B, and C Limited Partnership Interests.<sup>56</sup> Finally, the CTA defines “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries to include Class A, B and C Limited Partnership Interests upon the filing of the GUC certification.<sup>57</sup> Class A, B and C Limited Partnership Interests are intentionally defined as contingent or secondary beneficial interests in the Plan and the CTA and are therefore not mere incidental or third-party beneficiaries.<sup>58</sup> Plaintiffs have standing and a right to seek the information that they request in their Complaint.

2. Plaintiffs' accounting claim is sufficient under Delaware and Texas law.

53. Defendants also argue that Count One must be dismissed to the extent it is treated as an equitable accounting claim. Motion at ¶ 43. Specifically, Defendants argue that an accounting is not a cause of action in equity but only an equitable remedy where a fiduciary may be compelled to provide an account for property subject to trust. Defendants further argue that here, the CTA governs the rights of the parties and does not provide Plaintiffs as holders of Contingent Trust Interests with any rights. Motion at ¶ 44. Defendants are wrong once again.

54. Initially, as explained immediately above, Plaintiffs have legal rights, including a right to an accounting that under Delaware law, including the Delaware Statutory Trust Act, as well as the CTA. Therefore, Count One is proper under Delaware law.

55. Alternatively, Plaintiffs are entitled to bring an accounting claim under Texas law. “Questions of substantive law are controlled by the laws of the state where the cause of action arose, but matters of remedy and procedure are governed by the laws of the state where the action is sought to be maintained.” Wells Fargo Bank Texas, N.A. v. Foulston Siefkin LLP, 348 F. Supp. 2d 772, 783 (N.D. Tex. 2004), vacated on other grounds, 465 F.3d 211 (5th Cir. 2006). Defendants assert that an action for an accounting “is an equitable remedy.” Motion at ¶ 43. Thus, Defendants arguments based on Delaware law are misplaced because the law of the state where the action is sought to be maintained, Texas, applies in this regard. Motion at ¶¶ 39–45.

56. Under Texas law, courts have jurisdiction over claims seeking to “determine the powers, responsibilities, duties, and liability of a trustee,” including “claims for a trust accounting.”

Berry v. Berry, 646 S.W.3d 516, 527–28 (Tex. 2022). “Any interested person” may bring such a claim. Id. (citation omitted). An “interested person” includes a “beneficiary” as well as any other “person who is affected by the administration of the trust.” Id. at 528 (citation omitted). A “beneficiary” is “a person for whose benefit property is held in trust, regardless of the nature of the interest.” Id. (citation omitted). An “interest” includes “any interest, whether legal or equitable or both, present or future, vested or contingent, defeasible or indefeasible.” Id. (citation omitted). “Whether a person, excluding a trustee or named beneficiary, is an interested person may vary from time to time and must be determined according to the particular purposes of and matter involved in any proceeding.” Id. (citation and internal marks omitted).

57. In this case, the Plan created the Claimant Trust, which was established for the benefit of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. Complaint at ¶ 64. “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries” include, by definition, “Holders of Allowed Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests, and Holders of Allowed Class A Limited Partnership Interests.” Complaint at ¶ 64. Plaintiffs are holders of those partnership interests. Complaint at ¶¶ 53–59. As explained above, because Plaintiffs are beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust, they may bring claims under Texas law against the Claimant Trust for a trust accounting.

58. Defendants argue that Plaintiffs cannot sue for an accounting because their interests are contingent. Motion at ¶ 38. But under Texas law, the holder of “any interest, whether legal or equitable or both, present or future, vested or contingent, defeasible or indefeasible,” as “may vary from time to time,” may bring a claim for an accounting against the trustee. Hill v. Hunt, No. CIV.A. 3:07-CV-2020-, 2009 WL 5178021, at *2 (N.D. Tex. Dec. 30, 2009) (citing Tex. Prop. Code § 111.004(6)).

59. Further, because Plaintiffs can request an accounting under Texas law, Defendants’ objection to Plaintiffs’ claims for declaratory relief necessarily fails because, contrary to Defendant’s failed assertion, Plaintiffs have stated an underlying cause of action for the declaratory relief (an accounting). Motion at ¶¶ 46–47.

3. Defendants have not adequately demonstrated that either Plaintiff has unclean hands.

60. Defendants argue without authority that HMIT should be denied relief as a result of its “unclean hands.” Motion at ¶ 45. Defendants’ only support for this claim is a one-sentence reference to a currently pending lawsuit against HMIT, among others, for breach of a promissory note.<sup>59</sup> Not only was this lawsuit brought by a different party than those involved in this litigation, but Defendants fail to provide any evidence of any wrongdoing by HMIT (let alone Dugaboy) other than bald conclusory allegations in a complaint, let alone evidence of wrongdoing related to the allegations in this dispute.

F. Counts Two and Three Sufficiently State a Claim for Declaratory Judgment.

61. Defendants argue that Counts Two and Three, which seek declaratory relief, also fail to state a claim under Fed. R. Civ. P. § 12(b)(6) because they are based on Count One, and Count One is not a cognizable claim. Motion at ¶ 47. For the reasons discussed above, Count One does state a valid claim and therefore Counts Two and Three should not be dismissed.

62. Defendants also argue, without authority, that the value of the assets and liabilities of the Clamant Trust at any given point in time is irrelevant to whether Plaintiffs’ Contingent Trust Interests are likely to vest because the Contingent Trust Interests cannot vest until several conditions are satisfied, including the liquidation of assets and expenses being paid. Motion at ¶ 48. Specifically, Defendants argue that “until these and other critical variables are known, the financial information Plaintiffs seek in their Complaint is meaningless for purposes of determining ‘vesting’”<sup>60</sup> and therefore there is no controversy underlying these claims. Even if Defendants were correct, and they are not, and these other variables must be determined first, the financial information sought by Defendants is exactly the information that will be necessary under the CTA to determine these variables and to determine when and how much Plaintiffs will be paid once these events occur. Defendants, of course, do not dispute this. In other words, it is nonsensical to claim that the requested information is “meaningless” just because the amounts payable to Plaintiffs may change in the future. The exact amounts do not need to be established at this time. The Court should decline Defendants’ request to dismiss Counts Two and Three.

IV. CONCLUSION

63. Wherefore, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court deny the Motion in its entirety and grant any further relief as the Court deems proper and just.

Respectfully submitted,

In a statement, Amazon said it would welcome all MGM employees to the company and work with the studio’s leadership, indicating there would not be layoffs. Its decision to close comes after a deadline passed for the U.S. Federal Trade Commission to challenge the deal.

The Seattle-based retailer announced the transaction in May 2021, saying MGM offered a trove of content to draw consumers to its fast-shipping and streaming club Prime, which costs $14.99 per month in the United States.

Nearly a year later, Amazon is clear of regulatory hurdles. The European Commission approved the deal Tuesday, with no conditions. Likewise, Amazon earlier informed the FTC that it had “substantially complied” with requests for information about the deal.

The FTC declined comment.

CCS now has two main divisions. First, CCS Health couples high-touch, human engagement with technology to assist patients with education and coaching on disease management and product adoption. Second, CCS Medical offers the most advanced technology and trusted brand names in continuous glucose monitoring and insulin pump therapy, along with the other medical product and device needs of the patient.

With CCS as their partner, patients are more likely to get on therapy and stay on therapy, improving patient outcomes and reducing costs. For example, CCS tracked an average drop of 1.15 points in patient A1C values for a large national health plan as part of CCS's LivingLinked™ offering, which is a clinical education program. Also, CCS's diabetes clinical care management program, called LivingConnected®, with a large employer group yielded a cost reduction of 45% for those enrolled vs. not enrolled.

"The LivingConnected program through CCS has increased adherence to the diabetes standards of care, improving the health of our employees and their spouses with diabetes, while generating substantial savings for program participants," said Heather Hormel, Senior

"The number of people being diagnosed with diabetes in the United States has been on the rise and is expected to continue to accelerate – and the pandemic has only made things worse," said Tony Vahedian, CEO of CCS. "It's clear how we have historically provided care to patients with diabetes needs to evolve. That's why we made the decision to accelerate updates to our own business model. These changes will enable our team to surround patients with the tools, resources, and support they need to manage their own care in a simpler way."

As part of the company's expansion, CCS kicked off a new Strategic Advisory Board to help integrate additional trusted clinical and technological leadership guidance as part of this business transition. The distinguished experts in their field who comprise the CCS Strategic Advisory Board include:

The Highland Parties, the defendants in the above-captioned adversary proceeding, reply to Plaintiffs' Response [Docket No. 17] (the "Response") and respectfully submit the following in further support of their Motion seeking to dismiss the Action.<sup>1</sup>

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. The Claimant Trust is a Delaware statutory trust that was created by the Plan and is governed by the Delaware Statutory Trust Act. Under the Trust Act, whether a party is a beneficiary (here, a Claimant Trust Beneficiary) is determined by the plain language of the governing instrument (here, the CTA). Under the CTA, Plaintiffs (a) hold only contingent, unvested interests in the Claimant Trust, (b) are not Claimant Trust Beneficiaries, and (c) will not become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries unless they vest—and Plaintiffs will not vest unless and until all senior claims, including indemnification claims, are indefeasibly paid in full, all contingent claims in Class 8 and 9 are resolved, and the Claimant Trustee has certified as much to this Court, none of which has occurred.

2. To avoid the applicable language in the Plan and CTA, Plaintiffs argue—for the first time—that beneficiary status is determined by Delaware common law, not the CTA or the Trust Act. Plaintiffs are wrong. The Act explicitly defines the "beneficial owners" of a Delaware Statutory Trust by reference to the "governing instrument of the statutory trust." In other words, the CTA determines when and if Plaintiffs are Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. Under the CTA, Plaintiffs are not Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and have no rights as beneficiaries.

3. In addition to their new legal theory, Plaintiffs continue to assert that this Court should deem them Claimant Trust Beneficiaries because they are "in the money" and are "likely to vest." But this Court has already determined that is not how the CTA or Plan works. Under the

Plan and CTA, whether Plaintiffs are “in the money” based on estimated assets and liabilities at a particular moment in time has no bearing on whether they have “vested” or are “likely to vest.”

4. Moreover, this Court has already ruled that it lacks “the power to equitably deem HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interest to be vested....” Ultimately, under the Plan, the CTA, and applicable law, Plaintiffs are not Claimant Trust Beneficiaries—and will not become Claimant Trust Beneficiaries unless and until they have actually vested. The Motion should be dismissed under Rules 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

II. REPLY

A. Plaintiffs Are Not Beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust Under Delaware Law

5. In the Response, Plaintiffs assert a new, but flawed, legal argument as to why they should be considered beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust. Plaintiffs’ argument, however, ignores the statutory law governing the Claimant Trust and the clear language of the Plan and CTA.

6. Plaintiffs argue that Delaware trust law does not define “beneficiary” and that this Court must ignore the CTA and apply the definition of “beneficiary” in the Restatement (Third) of Trusts (the “Restatement”). The Claimant Trust, however, is a Delaware statutory trust governed by the Delaware Statutory Trust Act (the “Trust Act,” Chapter 38 of Title 12 of the Delaware Code).<sup>2</sup> Contrary to Plaintiffs’ assertions, the Trust Act defines “beneficial owner” and uses that term exclusively to refer to the beneficial owners (i.e., the beneficiaries of a Delaware statutory trust). Under the Trust Act, a trust’s “beneficial owners” are “any owner[s] of a beneficial interest in a statutory trust, the fact of ownership to be determined and evidenced ... in conformity to the applicable provisions of the governing instrument of the statutory trust.”<sup>3</sup> In other words, a statutory trust’s “beneficial owners” are the parties defined as such in the trust’s governing instrument.<sup>4</sup> And, because the Trust Act expressly defines “beneficial owners,” the Trust Act expressly precludes the application of any other definition of beneficiary, including that set forth in the Restatement. See 12 Del. C. § 3809 (“Except to the extent otherwise provided in the governing instrument of a statutory trust or in this subchapter, the laws of this State pertaining to trusts are hereby made applicable to statutory trusts”) (emphasis added).

7. Accordingly, the determination of whether Plaintiffs are “beneficiaries” of the Claimant Trust begins and ends with the CTA, which defines “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries” as:

the Holders of Allowed General Unsecured Claims, Holders of Allowed Subordinated Claims, and, only upon certification by the Claimant Trustee that the Holders of such Claims have been paid indefeasibly in full plus, to the extent applicable, post-petition interest at the federal judgment rate in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth herein, Holders of Allowed Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests, and Holders of Allowed Class A Limited Partnership Interests.<sup>5</sup>

Plaintiffs, who hold Class 10 and 11 interests, are not “Claimant Trust Beneficiaries” and “shall not have any rights under” the CTA and will not “be deemed ‘Beneficiaries’” “unless and until” they vest in accordance with the Plan and CTA.<sup>6</sup> The CTA and Plan are clear and unambiguous. Plaintiffs’ attempts to avoid the CTA, the Plan, and applicable law are unavailing.<sup>7</sup>

8. But even if the Restatement’s definition of “beneficiary” applied (it does not), Plaintiffs’ argument would still fail. In Paul Capital Advisors, LLC,<sup>8</sup> the Delaware Chancery Court looked to the Restatement to determine whether a party was a “beneficiary” of a Delaware common

law (not statutory) trust. Applying the Restatement’s definition,<sup>9</sup> the Chancery Court found that a trust’s “beneficiaries” are the persons defined as “beneficiaries” in the trust’s governing document:

According to the Defendants, [the fact that the trust agreements specify who the beneficiary is] ends the inquiry—the Plaintiffs are not beneficiaries. I agree. If the language of a trust’s governing document “is unambiguous, the Court looks no further and does not consider extrinsic evidence of intent.” The Court cannot “look to extrinsic evidence to read ambiguity into an unambiguous contract.” This is particularly true where, as here, the Trust Agreements at issue are fully integrated. The Trust Agreements identify only one beneficiary: MHT. “If the drafters of the Trust Agreement[s] ... had intended the [Trust Advisor] to administer the [Exchange] Trusts in the interests of another deal party, the Trust Agreements would have said so.” They do not. It is thus manifest from the language of the Trust Agreements that the settlor, MHT, intended itself to be the only beneficiary.<sup>10</sup>

The Chancery Court, finding that the movant was not a “beneficiary” under the governing instrument, dismissed the action for lack of standing.<sup>11</sup>

9. Likewise, Plaintiffs are not beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust under the clear and unambiguous language of the Plan and CTA. Highland, as settlor, did not “manifest its intention” to include Plaintiffs as beneficiaries. In fact, the Plan and the CTA expressly exclude Dugaboy and HMIT from the definition of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. Plaintiffs are not beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust and lack standing under the CTA and Delaware law<sup>12</sup> to “compel” an accounting.

<sup>12</sup> Plaintiffs state that “as explained immediately above, Plaintiffs have legal rights, including a right to an accounting that [sic] under Delaware law, including the Delaware Statutory Trust Act, as well as the CTA.” Response, ¶ 54. Plaintiffs’ conclusory statement is unsupported and unsupportable. Plaintiffs have not “explained” why they have rights; they simply assert they have rights as beneficiaries because they want to be beneficiaries. That is not how the law works.

B. All Counts Should Be Dismissed for Failure to State a Claim

10. The gravamen of all three Counts in the Complaint is that the Claimant Trustee must provide Plaintiffs with information sufficient to show that Plaintiffs are “in the money” and then deem them vested Claimant Trust Beneficiaries under the CTA.<sup>13</sup> In asserting their Counts, Plaintiffs admit, as they must, that the CTA—not Delaware common law—governs Plaintiffs’ status as “beneficiaries” of the Claimant Trust. But as this Court has already found, Plaintiffs are not “in the money” and are not, and will not be, Claimant Trust Beneficiaries with rights under the CTA, unless and until they vest in accordance with the terms of the CTA.

11. Counts One and Three Are Moot: This Court previously found that, based on the disclosures in the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet, HMIT is “not in the money” and not a Claimant Trust Beneficiary. Yet Plaintiffs—despite their admissions in the Motion to Reconsider that the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet was sufficient to show Plaintiffs were “in the money”—continue to demand information to determine “whether their Contingent Claimant Trust Interests may vest into Claimant Trust Interests” under the CTA. Compl. ¶ 83. The Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet provided that information<sup>14</sup> and showed that Plaintiffs were not “in the money.”<sup>15</sup>

<sup>13</sup> In fact, Plaintiffs’ motives are highly suspect since they seek “information” to review all of the Claimant Trust’s post-effective date transactions, not just to determine whether they are “in the money.” Compl. ¶88 (“Defendants should be compelled to provide information regarding the Claimant Trust assets, including the amount of cash and the remaining non-cash assets, and details of all transactions that have occurred since the wall of silence was erected, and all liabilities.”) (emphasis added). This betrays an improper intent to second-guess—and potentially challenge—Highland’s business judgment.

12. Count Three Seeks an Advisory Opinion: Plaintiffs assert they should be deemed vested Claimant Trust Beneficiaries under the CTA. Plaintiffs allege that vesting is determined by “whether the ‘Claimant Trust assets exceed the obligation of the bankruptcy estate in an amount sufficient so that all Allowable Claims may be indefeasibly paid,’” and therefore is “not dependent upon hypothetical facts.” Plaintiffs are (willfully) misconstruing the terms of the CTA. Whether current Claimant Trust Beneficiaries “may be indefeasibly paid” and contingent claims “likely to vest”<sup>16</sup> is irrelevant. As this Court has found, under the CTA, among other things, Claimant Trust Beneficiaries must be actually paid in full before contingent interests will vest, and whether they will be (and whether Plaintiffs will vest) is contingent upon unknown and unknowable facts.

13. Count Three Is Barred by Collateral Estoppel: This Court previously found that Plaintiffs are not “in the money” and cannot be deemed vested under the CTA. See Order Denying Leave at *34-35; Order Denying Reconsideration at 3-4. Plaintiffs maintain that Count Three is not barred by collateral estoppel because the prior decision did not address whether Plaintiffs are “in the money’ now” or whether they will “never be ‘in the money.’” Response ¶ 37. But the issues of whether Plaintiffs’ contingent interests are “likely to vest” or whether Plaintiffs are “in the money now” are one and the same with the Court’s prior determination that HMIT is not “in the money” because the conditions to vesting in the CTA have not occurred and remain unknown. Further, whether HMIT was “in the money” was a “necessary” part of the Court’s prior order. This Court found “HMIT’s status as a ‘beneficiary’ of the Claimant Trust is defined by the CTA itself, pure and simple” and expressly rejected HMIT’s argument that “its Contingent Claimant Trust Interest makes it a contingent beneficiary of the Claimant Trust, which makes it a present ‘beneficial owner’ under Delaware trust law.” Order Denying Leave at *34-35.<sup>17</sup> In the Order Denying Reconsideration, the Court reiterated its finding that HMIT is not “in the money” and that its contingent interests have not vested under the Plan and CTA.<sup>18</sup>

C. Counts Two and Three for Declaratory Relief Fail as a Matter of Law

14. Counts Two and Three, which seek declaratory relief, fail to state plausible claims under Rule 12(b)(6) because there is no underlying controversy. These Counts, seeking declarations (a) regarding the Claimant Trust’s assets and liabilities and (b) whether Plaintiffs’ interests are likely to vest, are premised entirely on Count One. See Compl. ¶ 90 (“Once Defendants are compelled to provide information about the Claimant Trust Assets, Plaintiffs seek a determination from the Court of the relative value of the Claimant Trust Assets compared to the bankruptcy estate obligations...” (emphasis added)). As discussed, Count One fails as a matter of law because Plaintiffs are not Claimant Trust Beneficiaries and have no right to information—let alone to “compel” the disclosure of information—under the CTA. The relief sought in Count One is also moot. Plaintiffs claim to seek additional financial information for the purpose of knowing whether they are, or will foreseeably be, Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. But this Court has already found that, based on the Pro Forma Adjusted Balance Sheet, they are not. For all the reasons discussed in the Motion and further herein, any additional financial information will not change this result. Because Count One does not present a justiciable controversy

<sup>17</sup> The Court explained that (i) “HMIT’s status as a ‘beneficiary’ of the Claimant Trust is defined by the CTA itself, pure and simple”; (ii) under the CTA “‘Contingent Trust Interests’ ‘shall not have any rights under this Agreement’ and will not ‘be deemed ‘Beneficiaries’ under this Agreement,’ ‘unless and until’ they vest in accordance with the Plan and the CTA”, and (iii) “[i]t is undisputed that HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interest has not vested under the terms of the Plan and the CTA, and the court does not have the power to equitably deem HMIT’s Contingent Trust Interest to be vested....” Id. at *34-35.

<sup>18</sup> As noted in the Motion, Dugaboy’s interests are aligned with HMIT’s interests regarding whether Contingent Trust Interests have vested, and therefore, privity exists for purposes of collateral estoppel. See Motion ¶ 34 n. 17.

underlying Plaintiffs' claims for declaratory relief in Counts Two and Three, all three Counts should be dismissed.

III. CONCLUSION

The Highland Parties respectfully request that the Court grant the Motion, dismiss the Complaint in its entirety, and grant any additional relief the Court deems appropriate.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - FEBRUARY 14, 2024 - 9:33 A.M.

2                   THE CLERK: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy
3 Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is
4 now in session, The Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

5                   THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. All
6 right. We have a setting this morning in the adversary styled
7 Dugaboy Investment Trust and Hunter Mountain Investment Trust
8 versus Highland, Adversary 23-3038.

9                   We have the Highland Parties' motion to dismiss the 10 adversary.

11                  Who is appearing for the Movant, Highland?

12                  MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. It's John
13 Morris from Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones for the Movant.

14                  THE COURT: All right. Thank you. And who do we
15 have appearing for Plaintiffs/Respondents?

16                  MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Good morning, Your Honor. It's
17 Deborah Deitsch-Perez from Stinson.

18                  THE COURT: All right.

19                  MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And I would ask: Is anybody else
20 having a little trouble hearing? The volume seems lower than 21 usual here.

22                  THE COURT: All right. It's loud and clear for the 23 Court. What about you, Mr. Morris?

24                  MR. MORRIS: It's no problem for me, Your Honor.

25                  THE COURT: Okay.

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. I'll just listen hard.

2 THE COURT: All right. Well, I assume these are the
3 only appearances we have.

4 As a reminder to folks on the WebEx, if you're a party in
5 interest, fine, you can use both video and audio. But if you
6 are not a case party in interest, the rules from Washington
7 say it's supposed to be only an audio listen-in format for 8 you.

9 All right. So let me quickly talk about our time issues.
10 I have to give a CLE presentation on the other side of 11 downtown at 12:00 noon today, so I really need to stop at 12 about 11:30 or 11:35. You all have given a two-hour time
13 estimate, so do you all think that is what you're going to 14 need, an hour each?

15 MR. MORRIS: I do, Your Honor. I don't know that
16 I'll need all that time, but I'll try and limit my opening
17 remarks to 45 minutes and save 15 for rebuttal.

18 THE COURT: All right. What about you, Ms. Deitsch-
19 Perez? Any issues there?

20 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I would say the same.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. Well, with that, Mr.
22 Morris, I'll hear from you.

23 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE MOVANTS

24 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. John Morris;
25 Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; for the Movant, Highland

1 Capital.

2 Your Honor, in the famous words of an old New Yorker, Yogi
3 Berra, this is déjà vu all over again. Less than eight months
4 ago, this Court issued rulings that held that HMIT was not a
5 Claimant Trust beneficiary because its contingent interests
6 have not vested. This Court ruled that HMIT was not in the 7 money. This Court ruled that HMIT's rights as a contingent
8 trust holder were determined solely with reference to the 9 Claimant Trust agreement, and under the Claimant Trust
10 agreement's clear and unambiguous provisions, they have no
11 rights today.

12 Now, in their complaint, HMIT and Dugaboy basically ask
13 for the same relief that they sought last year. They want
14 information for the purported purpose of establishing that
15 they are in the money, even though they told this Court last 16 summer, based on available information, that they were in the 17 money. They want a declaration that the value of trust assets
18 exceeds the value of the trust liabilities, and they want a 19 declaration that their contingent interests are likely to 20 vest.

21 And I'll talk more about this in a moment, but it's really
22 interesting, if you look at the last footnote of their
23 complaint, they expressly ask the Court not to rule as to 24 whether or not they are Claimant Trust beneficiaries. They
25 only want the Court to rule in a declaratory judgment that

1 they're likely to vest. We'll talk about that more in a
2 minute.

3 We need clear rulings on each of these matters, on each of
4 the bases for which Highland moves to dismiss this complaint,
5 because, you know, obviously, saying it once or twice hasn't 6 been enough, so we need to say it one more time, loudly and 7 clearly.

8 I've got a deck that I'll ask Andrea Bates to put up on
9 the screen. I hope to go through it fairly quickly.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Bates, if you can put our deck up,
12 please.

13 And I'd like to begin, once it's on the screen, just going
14 through the three counts of the complaint. These are the 15 counts that we're seeking to dismiss. They're -- they are,
16 frankly, fairly straightforward.

17 (Pause.)

18 MS. BATES: Apologies. I got kicked out of the 19 WebEx.

20 MR. MORRIS: Okay. (Pause.) Okay, great. If we can
21 go to the next slide, please.

22 So, the first count, Your Honor, the first count of the 23 complaint seeks the disclosure of trust assets and accounting,
24 and an accounting. In Paragraph 83, they make it clear, they 25 say, due to the lack of transparency into the assets of the

1 Claimant Trust, Plaintiffs are unable to determine whether the
2 contingent Claimant Trust interests may vest into Claimant
3 Trust interests. That's really an important allegation,
4 because it's a concession. And there are other concessions.
5 If you look at Paragraph 66, for example, it's a concession
6 that they're not Claimant Trust beneficiaries. They know
7 that. Right? No dispute. But they're seeking information to 8 determine whether they may vest. That's what they're asking
9 for.

10 And the next piece of this slide is also important because 11 they're not just asking for information about assets and 12 liabilities. They're asking for "details of all transactions
13 that have occurred." Even under their theory of trying to 14 figure out if they're in the money, why could that possibly be
15 relevant? Details of transactions that have occurred. You
16 know, Your Honor, we were here before the Court last spring on 17 the mediation motion, and I recall Your Honor specifically
18 asking Ms. Ruhland, what information? Because they were
19 seeking information then for the mediation. What information
20 could you possibly need other than assets and liabilities?
21 And she didn't really have an answer.

22 Your Honor asked us -- and ordered us, frankly -- to
23 produce that information, and we did. And that's the 24 information that we'll talk about in a moment that HMIT relied 25 upon to represent to the Court that it believed that the

1 entity was in the money.

2 But the important point here is why are they asking for
3 details about transactions that have occurred? It's just a --
4 it's just -- when we talk about the equities at the end, I'm
5 going to come back to that.

6 The important point here for Count One, Your Honor, they
7 don't cite to or rely on any provision of the plan. They
8 don't cite to or rely upon any provision of the Claimant Trust
9 agreement. They don't cite to or rely upon any statute. This
10 is a purely equitable claim.

11 If we can go to the next slide, please.

12 Count Two seeks a declaratory judgment concerning the 13 value of the assets relative to the liabilities, but it's a
14 conditional request. It requires that the Defendants be
15 compelled to provide the information. And that's what it says
16 in Paragraph 90. And it flows from that, according to them,
17 that if assets exceed liabilities, all kinds of great things
18 are going to happen. All affirmative proceedings can be 19 deemed unnecessary. The bankruptcy court -- case can be
20 brought to a close, and the bloodshed will stop.

21 But what's really interesting about this, and it portrays
22 the intent of Hunter Mountain in this proceeding, is that they
23 only want the affirmative proceeding to stop. If you look at 24 Paragraph 91, and it's quoted there in the footnote, they only
25 want pending adversary proceedings and get recovering value of

1 the HCMF -- HC -- the Highland estate.

2 So, presumably, they'll be allowed, right, they'll get
3 paid. All creditors, according to them, if assets exceed
4 liabilities, they get paid. And then all of the indemnified
5 parties have nothing to use to defend themselves under the
6 indemnities. That's what they're looking to do. It's really
7 clear. And the Court should understand that they're not
8 really ambiguous here. They want to look at all of the 9 transactions. They want to, even under their theory that
10 Class 8 and Class 9 should get paid, they should get 11 everything else, there should be nothing left, and they should
12 be able to continue to sue Mr. Seery and the Reorganized
13 Debtor and the Claimant Trust and my firm from now until the 14 end of time. That's the motivation here.

15 Let's look at Count Three. Count Three, they want a
16 declaratory judgment regarding the nature of their interests
17 in the Claimant Trust. But not really. But not really. What 18 they want is a declaration and a determination that there are
19 conditions, that the conditions are such that the contingent
20 interests are "likely to vest." Again, if you look at the 21 footnote, and we'll look at it in detail, they're again not
22 asking the Court, because they know what the answer is going
23 to be, they're not asking the Court to find that they are 24 Claimant Trust beneficiaries, just that they are likely to 25 vest at some point in the future.

1           They don't cite to or rely upon any provision of the plan.
2           Again, they don't cite to or rely upon any provision in the 3           Claimant Trust agreement or in any statute. It's a purely
4           equitable claim.

5           If we can go to the next slide.

6           The terms of the Claimant Trust agreement determine when
7           and if Plaintiffs are Claimant Trust beneficiaries, full stop.
8           Under the Delaware Statutory Trust Act, whether a party is a
9           beneficiary here, a Claimant Trust beneficiary, is determined
10          by the plain language of the governing instrument -- here, the 11          Claimant Trust agreement. And the plan, frankly, because the 12          plan provisions matter in Articles III and IV. They also 13          provide the same conditions for vesting.

14          We cited in our papers a case called Paul Capital
15          Advisors. Paul Capital Advisors is from the Delaware Chancery
16          Court. And what's really interesting about that case, Your 17          Honor, is in that case the plaintiff was seeking to remove a
18          trustee. A lawyer by the name of Michael Hurst defended that 19          case, and Mr. Hurst -- who's a -- Mr. Ellington's counsel
20          today; he was before Your Honor in December on the Ellington
21          stalking matter; he's a longtime lawyer for Mr. Dondero -- Mr.
22          Hurst actually urged the court to dismiss the case on the 23          grounds that the plaintiff wasn't a beneficiary under the 24          plain terms of that trust agreement. And the court granted
25          the motion to dismiss, just like the Court should grant the

1 motion to dismiss today.

2 So one of Mr. Dondero's own lawyers was in the Delaware
3 Chancery Court making the exact same argument that we're
4 making today, and that is, even referring to the Restatement,
5 a trust's beneficiaries are the people who are defined as
6 beneficiaries in the trust governing documents or that are
7 otherwise reflective of the settlor's intent. That's what
8 Paul Capital Advisors holds.

9 Here, the settlor specifically decided to exclude HMIT and
10 Dugaboy as holders of the Class 10 and 11 claims from the 11 definition of Claimant Trust beneficiaries. We know that.
12 We're going to look at that language in a moment.

13 The Claimant Trust agreement includes very specific
14 provisions concerning vesting, none of which refer to,
15 concern, or are dependent on the value of the trust assets and 16 liabilities at any moment in time.

17 Being in the money is legally irrelevant under the plain
18 terms of the plan and under the plain terms of the Claimant
19 Trust agreement and on the plain terms of the case that Mr.
20 Hurst successfully argued in the Delaware Chancery Court known
21 as Paul Capital Advisors.

22 If we can go to the next slide.

23 Let's look at the provisions. Let's see. Right? Because 24 one of the bases for the motion to dismiss is that they have
25 no rights under the plan. Neither Hunter Mountain nor Dugaboy

1 have any rights under the plan. And, you know, if you follow
2 Capital Advisors, and, really, just as the Court did last
3 summer when it decided, I think properly and appropriately,
4 that Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy's rights are determined
5 solely under the provisions of the plan, let's just look at 6 those provisions.

7 The Claimant Trust agreement, in Section 3.12,
8 specifically says that the agreement doesn't require the
9 Claimant Trustee to file any accounting. That's the reasoning
10 sought in Count One. Can't do it. No. Right? There's no
11 obligation to do it.

12 If we can go to the next slide.

13 Section 3.12(b) provides -- requires the Claimant Trustee
14 to provide quarterly reporting to Oversight Board and Claimant
15 Trust beneficiaries. Again, no allegation that Hunter
16 Mountain or Dugaboy is an Oversight Board member. No
17 allegation that they're Claimant Trust beneficiaries. In 18 fact, the whole purpose of the complaint, supposedly, is to 19 get information so that they can determine whether or not
20 they're likely to vest.

21 So, there's a concession that they're not Claimant Trust
22 beneficiaries. And so only those two groups of people,
23 Oversight Board members and Claimant Trust beneficiaries, are 24 entitled to receive these quarterly reports. And because
25 Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy don't fall into either group, they

1 have no rights under Section 3.12(b).

2 Just to make it abundantly clear -- if we go to the next
3 slide -- let's look at the definition of Claimant Trust
4 beneficiary. Again, this is right out of the Claimant Trust
5 agreement, Section 1.1(h). And it says, holders of allowed
6 general unsecured claims or allowed subordinated claims, and
7 only upon the certification of the Claimant Trustee that all
8 holders of claims have been paid indefeasibly in full. That's 9 a reference to Class 10 and 11 with the holders of the former
10 limited partnership interests. Only then do they vest.
11 That's how they vest. You've got to file this certification
12 saying that everybody has been paid in full.

13 And they say, oh, gee, well, if assets exceed liabilities,
14 that must mean they're in the money and the Trustee should 15 just pay them in full.

16 But that's not what that trust agreement says. And let's
17 be clear. The trust agreement and the plan were adopted and 18 confirmed by this Court more than three years ago now. It was 19 the first week of February 2021. Those documents were subject
20 to appeal, but nothing we're talking about today is -- was 21 ever the subject of appeals. Right? So these are the
22 agreements. They're sacrosanct. The Delaware Chancery Court
23 says you've got to follow the agreement. So let's do that.

24 If we can go to the next slide.

25 Distributions. So, right, the Claimant Trustee has to

1 certify that everybody has been paid in full. But what about
2 distributions? When are they going to get paid in full?
3 According to the plain and unambiguous terms of the Claimant
4 Trust agreement, the Claimant Trust agreement shall distribute
5 to holders of trust interests at least annually the cash on
6 hand -- here's the important word: net -- net of any amounts
7 that, among other things, if you go down to (d), are necessary
8 to satisfy or reserve for other liabilities incurred or 9 anticipated by the Claimant Trustee, in accordance with the 10 plan and this agreement, including but not limited to 11 indemnification obligations.

12 So it doesn't matter if assets exceed liabilities. We 13 don't believe that they do. We don't believe that there is 14 any reason to even engage in the debate. And the reason for 15 that is because we've got substantial indemnification
16 obligations that must be reserved for. And if -- and -- and 17 -- we'll talk about that more in a moment.

18 But that's the key. That's the key here. They don't 19 vest. Right? Class 10 and 11 does not vest until the 20 Claimant Trustee certifies that everybody has been paid in 21 full. And nobody is going to be paid in full as long as the 22 Claimant Trust has indemnification obligations that must be
23 satisfied. The Claimant Trustee is a fiduciary. He owes the 24 beneficiaries of indemnification rights the duty to make sure
25 that the Claimant Trust has sufficient assets to satisfy the

1 indemnification obligations.

2       And do you know who's not here today, Your Honor? Any
3 Claimant Trust beneficiary. Any Claimant Trust beneficiary
4 who would -- there is nobody here complaining that Mr. Seery
5 is abusing his rights. There's no -- nobody is complaining
6 that he should be distributing the cash. Nobody is
7 complaining that, you know, he's overwithholding. And we'll
8 talk more about why, actually, what he's doing is proper,
9 although that's not an issue before the Court today. The only
10 issue before the Court, frankly, is Section 6.1. And it says
11 the trust must reserve amounts necessary or deemed necessary
12 to satisfy indemnity obligations.

13       If we can go to the next slide, please.

14       So now let's get to the motion to dismiss itself now that
15 we have an understanding of exactly what the Claimant Trust
16 agreement and the plan provide. Let's look back at what the 17 Court did. The Court issued two very important rulings last 18 year on these very issues. And in the Court's lengthy
19 decision on the Hunter Mountain motion for leave, the Court
20 concluded, quote, HMIT's status as a beneficiary of the 21 Claimant Trust was designed by the Claimant Trust agreement
22 itself, pure and simple. The Court was right then, and the 23 Court will be right today when presumably it stands by its 24 prior ruling.

25       Under the Claimant Trust agreement, contingent trust

1 interests have no rights until they vest. And there's no
2 dispute that they have not vested because the Claimant Trustee
3 has not filed a certification that everybody is getting paid
4 in full. That's what the language of the document says. We
5 really are done here.

6 But there's more, because after that hearing Hunter
7 Mountain made another motion and said, wait, Your Honor, those 8 disclosures that you required Highland to make in support of 9 mediation, they show we're in the money. They've already 10 swung and they've missed at this. They said, oh, we're in the 11 money. And Your Honor, unlike HMIT, actually read the 12 disclosures and actually saw all of the contingencies in 13 there.

14 It's ironic that HMIT, of all people, would be telling the
15 Court that they're in the money when their beneficial owners
16 are actually appealing the $70 million Notes Litigation, when 17 their beneficial owners are playing fast and loose with the 18 value of assets that they control, such as HCRE. Right? But 19 they're still here with the same tired story, maybe we're in 20 the money.

21 Your Honor, you've ruled on this and we're done, as far as 22 I'm concerned. You found, among other things, that they
23 failed to give proper attention to the notes to the financial
24 statements that were integral to understanding the numbers. I
25 hope that they've done that now.

1 Your Honor ruled that they failed to take into account the
2 widespread litigation that's caused massive indemnification
3 claims and legal fees, all of which must be satisfied.

4 Based on this Court's decision less than five months ago
5 -- I think it was actually eight months ago -- Counts One and
6 Three are moot and they're otherwise barred by collateral
7 estoppel.

8 If we can go to the next slide, please.

9 Count Two must also be dismissed because it depends on 10 Highland being "compelled to provide information about the 11 Claimant Trust assets." That's in Paragraph 90. So if the 12 Court doesn't compel Highland, the Court has no ability to 13 make the declaration that's sought.

14 But even if you could, right, there's -- Plaintiffs have
15 no legally cognizable right. They don't cite to anything.
16 They don't have an equitable claim to compel Highland to 17 provide trust -- the information. There is no underlying
18 controversy to be resolved. They have no right to this
19 information. They have no equitable claim to this
20 information.

21 As we set forth in Paragraph 39 of our moving brief, they
22 can't come here seeking equity that's barred by the plain
23 terms of the trust agreement. The trust agreement, again,
24 reflects the settlor's intent. The settlor intended that he
25 would provide or that the Claimant Trustee would provide

1 limited information to the claimant board members and Claimant
2 Trust beneficiaries, of which neither Hunter Mountain nor
3 Dugaboy are one. They can't use equity to just override the
4 very plain meaning of the operative documents and the intent
5 of the settlor.

6 The Claimant Trust agreement is determinative. Since the
7 value of the trust assets and liabilities at any moment in
8 time is irrelevant to the question of vesting, there is no
9 justiciable controversy to resolve.

10 So, two reasons. I don't think the Court can order
11 Highland to produce any information, so it fails for that
12 reason. And even if it did, the whole issue is completely
13 irrelevant, given the plain terms of the trust agreement and 14 the plan, so there is no justiciable controversy.

15 If we can go to the next slide.

16 Some other grounds to dismiss Count One. Right? Again,
17 no legal right to the information or an accounting. Again,
18 the request for equitable relief is barred by the plain terms
19 of the trust agreement since they're not Claimant Trust
20 beneficiaries.

21 And it's worth noting, as I mentioned earlier when we saw
22 the very provision in the trust agreement, even Claimant Trust
23 beneficiaries have no right to an accounting, or any right to 24 any information beyond that provided in Section 3.12. But,
25 again, I don't want to suggest that Hunter Mountain or Dugaboy

1 have any entitlement. It's just to contrast where actual
2 trust beneficiaries lie vis-à-vis Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy.

3 If we can go to the next slide.

4 Other grounds to dismiss Count Three. Again, in Count
5 Three, Plaintiffs seek a declaration as to whether or not the
6 Claimant Trust beneficiaries may be indefeasibly paid and
7 whether the conditions are such that their claimant -- you
8 know, contingent Claimant Trust interests are likely to vest
9 into Claimant Trust interests, making them Claimant Trust
10 beneficiaries, yet another admission that they're not Claimant
11 Trust beneficiaries today.

12 These are inquiries that would require the Court to, among
13 other things, handicap the likelihood of Mr. Dondero's appeal
14 in the Notes Litigation and the amount that is going to be
15 needed to satisfy future indemnity obligations.

16 I have a reference in this bullet to Docket No. 3880.
17 Your Honor, that's the other piece of information that I think 18 the Court required Highland to produce in connection with the 19 mediation, where we identified all of the outstanding
20 litigation that we have. You know, we are here today. I was 21 in Dallas two weeks ago before Judge Scholer to have oral
22 argument on the Advisors' appeal of the judgment that was 23 entered in favor of Highland and against them a couple of 24 years ago.

25 We obviously had a lot of paperwork to deal with on the

1 motion for leave, you know, to sue my firm that was withdrawn
2 in the face of a Rule 11 motion.

3 You know, these are all things that weren't even on that
4 list. We've got the appeal now of the original Hunter
5 Mountain decision. Again, with so many issues on appeal, I
6 don't even know if the District Court will ever get to the
7 standing question, because there's like literally dozens of 8 issues on appeal.

9 We were in Houston last week for a Fifth Circuit argument
10 on Your Honor's order conforming the plan to the original
11 Fifth Circuit decision on confirmation.

12 All of these things are expensive. Mr. Dondero is famous 13 for complaining about how expensive this is, and yet he
14 continues to drive these costs. This hearing is making it
15 much less -- it's making it less likely that he's ever going
16 to be in the money. Every time we have another court
17 appearance, every time he files another complaint, every time
18 he, you know, does things to cause us to spend money, his
19 being in the money -- not that it's legally relevant; I don't 20 want to make any suggestion that it is -- but that's why we 21 need these indemnification reserves, because there is no end
22 in sight.

23 We do have a vexatious litigant motion, Your Honor.
24 Hopefully, that will be successful. Hopefully, that will
25 curtail things in the future. But, you know, remains to be

1 seen. That's just something that we feel we need to do.

2 The Plaintiffs tacitly admit that these requests are for
3 impermissible advisory opinions. Obviously, they are. Any
4 time you're asking the Court to make a determination about
5 what's likely to happen in the future that has no legal
6 significance whatsoever, it's an advisory opinion.

7 And, again, this is what I referred to earlier. If you
8 look at Footnote 6 to Paragraph 94 of the complaint, oddly,
9 they don't ask the Court to determine that they're Claimant
10 Trust beneficiaries. Maybe it's because they've already
11 admitted that they're not. I don't know. They're not asking
12 the Court to convert their contingent interests into 13 noncontingent interests. Again, maybe because they're -- it's
14 an acknowledgement and an admission that that can't happen.
15 But here's the tell, because those issues must be done in 16 accordance with the plan and the CTA. We agreed. There's no
17 dispute. There is no judiciable, justiciable dispute here.
18 We agreed that all of these issues are decided by the plain
19 terms of the plan.

20 I think that's my last slide, so you can take this down.

21 I just briefly want to finish up with just some
22 observations about equities. As a matter of law, equity can't
23 trump contractual terms. But if for some reason the Court
24 even wanted to consider the question, I would ask the Court to
25 take very seriously Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy's pleadings

1 where they're asking not for information regarding assets and
2 liabilities, but they want a review of all of the prior
3 transactions. They want to second-guess everything the 4 Claimant Trustee has done to date. That smells. Right? And
5 it's not the first time we've dealt with this issue. You
6 know, Your Honor can take judicial notice of their pleadings
7 in the Fifth Circuit when they were appealing that 2015.3
8 ruling. They explicitly told the Fifth Circuit they want
9 information so that they can bring more claims. Right?

10 So there's not a good faith basis for this. There's not a
11 legal basis for it. There's not an equitable basis for it.
12 The Court has ruled on these issues multiple times already.
13 There is no judiciable controversy before the Court. And for 14 all of those reasons, the Court should just dismiss this 15 complaint.

16 I have nothing further, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, you referred to 18 the list of pending matters. And last night at 10:00 o'clock 19 in bed, I meant to pull this up because it was referred to in 20 one of the pleadings as well, and I didn't do it. Could you
21 tell me the docket entry that appears at?

22 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, I think it's 3880. I apologize.
23 I'm actually looking at my phone. I wouldn't typically do
24 this, but I'm going to see if I can quickly find that. But I
25 believe it's 3880.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 (Court confers with Clerk.)

3 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Ms. Deitsch-Perez?

4 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENTS

5 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Thank you. This adversary
6 proceeding actually has deep roots. It was started by motion
7 a long time ago, long before that balance sheet was filed.
8 And it was done because the Claimant Trustee and the estate
9 have consistently obscured the available resources in order to 10 make it harder for the residual equity holders to investigate
11 whether the estate has been mismanaged, to their detriment.

12 THE COURT: Did you say --

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Mr. Morris talked --

14 THE COURT: Can I -- you said they've obscured the 15 resources?

16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. They've obscured what's in
17 the estate. If you -- we'll look more closely at that balance
18 sheet, Your Honor. In addition to not having filed the 2015
19 reports, the balance sheet, you're right, has a number of 20 notes on it. But the notes -- and we'll look at those and go
21 through them -- don't -- don't -- aren't illuminating. If you
22 look at the face of the balance sheet, there is enough money
23 to pay everybody and have money left over.

24 You have to rely on obscure, undetailed notes and 25 assertions and assumptions to say maybe, maybe there won't be

1 money left over. But on the face of the balance sheet, there
2 is enough money to pay everybody.

3 And if there's enough money to pay everybody, the leftover
4 money is HMIT's. It's not -- it's not the professionals'.
5 It's not the Claimant Trustee's. What's being used now is the
6 residual -- old residual equity's money.

7 So Mr. Morris brought up mediation, and that was an
8 interesting point, because in the papers, arguing about
9 whether or not Your Honor should grant mediation, the estate
10 and Mr. Seery made it very clear there would only be a
11 resolution if there were complete and total releases given and 12 all litigation stopped. So that was clear. We understood
13 that. And what was at stake, obviously, in any mediation is 14 what's left. So, what are the residual -- what's the 15 residual?

16 But if we can't find out what the residual is and we can't
17 find out what actually is being released, this estate can't 18 ever end. It's not the Plaintiffs here who are keeping the 19 engine going. It's the Defendants, because they know exactly
20 how to push the buttons to raise suspicions about whether 21 something untoward has gone on.

22 And so let me test the premise of the Defendants here with
23 a hypothetical. Because, remember, Defendants arguments for
24 dismissal turn on the contention that the Claimant Trust
25 agreement prevents Plaintiffs from being considered

1 beneficiaries, no matter how much money the Claimant Trust has
2 -- or squandered, for that matter -- if Mr. Seery doesn't
3 authorize payment of Class 8 and 9 creditors in full and
4 affirmatively certify that Classes 10 and 11 are
5 beneficiaries. So, unless he does that, it's the Defendants'
6 position Plaintiffs have no means of redress.

7       So let's test that with a hypothetical. Let's say that
8 Mr. Seery, let's say that the Claimant Trustee, to keep
9 earning his $150,000 a month indefinitely, massively
10 overspends professional fees to justify an objectively
11 unreasonable indemnity reserve of $125 million. And let's say
12 he deliberately dribbles out payments to Class 8 and 9 so that 13 eventually the combination of interest, administration, and
14 professional fees is sufficient to eliminate the amounts that 15 would otherwise be payable to the last dollar of 8 and 9, much
16 less Classes 10 and 11.

17       And let's make the hypothetical even more extreme. What
18 if Mr. Seery moved money into the Indemnity Subtrust and paid
19 it to phantom vendors? I'm not saying he did that. I don't
20 want stories about how we're accusing him of something. This 21 is a hypothetical. But let's say he did that. He put it in
22 the subtrust, paid it to phantom vendors, who kicked it back
23 to him, in order to keep the amount low enough to pay the last
24 dollar to Classes 8 and 9.

25       Under the Defendants' theory here, that can't ever be

1 discovered, much less remedied. And so that's why, that's why
2 there is an equitable argument here, and a practical argument,
3 Your Honor.

4 Because Your Honor has said you want this to end. This
5 has to end. Well, the only way it can end is if there's
6 sunshine, if there's enough disclosure and investigation so
7 everybody can get comfortable that releases are appropriate
8 and the money that could be left is left there, and then
9 everybody can go home. Because we are all really tired of 10 this. But it's the Defendants that are keeping it going.

11 THE COURT: Let me interrupt you. There are many 12 jurisdictional arguments, as you all know. Many issues for 13 this Court, legal issues here. But here are two things that 14 stand out above all. And one is do the Plaintiffs have a
15 contractual right to the information they seek or not. Why
16 should the Court look beyond the Creditor Trust agreement, the 17 plan, the confirmation order, which are final? These issues
18 were never complained about. There's not enough transparency
19 in the trust agreement language: No one ever made that
20 argument. It's not on appeal.

21 So, again, many jurisdictional arguments here, but why
22 should I ignore clear contractual terms here? It almost feels
23 like modifying the plan three years down the road. So --

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It's not --

25 THE COURT: So, --

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I'll say it's not, Your Honor.
2 It's not, Your Honor, because under Delaware law and under the
3 good faith and fair dealing, every contract in Delaware --
4 we're not in -- it's not a Texas contract -- in Delaware,
5 there's a covenant of good faith and fair dealing. And when a
6 party to a contract actually does things that prevent someone
7 else from obtaining the benefits under the contract, then you
8 don't read the contract literally, you read it to prevent the 9 wrongdoer from getting the benefit of their wrongdoing. And 10 that's --

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That's the reason Your Honor can
13 and must allow this case to go forward. Because, otherwise,
14 there is a terrible, terrible law that's being created. It
15 enables somebody to --

16 THE COURT: Well, you say it's terrible law, but,
17 again, the trust agreement was out there for consumption
18 before the confirmation hearing. And your clients --

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, --

20 THE COURT: -- or others could have come in and said,
21 this just doesn't work, this lack of transparency, this lack 22 of oversight, this lack of access to information. And you
23 didn't.

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, who would have
25 thought that the --

1 THE COURT: And not only that, but this is not -- I
2 have no reason to believe this is atypical language. In the
3 dozens if not hundreds of post-confirmation liquidating trust
4 agreements I've seen, it looks like standard fare.

5 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, there is no -- no one
6 could have contemplated at the time that we would be in the 7 situation that we are now, with information not having been
8 provided. Many Chapter 11s are much more cooperative.
9 They're not liquidations. They're reorganizations. They're
10 -- people are trying to end the estate, so they're sharing
11 information. This is not a circumstance that could have been 12 contemplated. And Your Honor can do something about it now.

13 THE COURT: Well, which brings me to my second sort
14 of overarching issue that stands out, of all the different
15 issues. And these are my own words more than anything I think
16 I've read. It feels like what you're asking for, if there's a
17 jurisdictional way to get there, if there's a legal way to get
18 there, it feels like it would be a meaningless exercise,
19 because the value in the trust is going down daily. It's 20 going down hourly, as we speak. The value I could determine,
21 if this goes to trial, would be completely meaningless a
22 month, two months, five months, three years later, because of 23 all the litiga...

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, but on that theory --

25 THE COURT: Please don't interrupt until I finish. I

1 want to make sure my point is clear. My law clerk --

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay.

3 THE COURT: -- did bring in to me the list --

4 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I understand.

5 THE COURT: -- the list of litigation. And even
6 this, if we pulled up the right one, it's several months old,
7 so even this is very dated.

8 But let me put it in very plain terms. It kind of feels
9 like your client is its worst enemy in getting this relief,
10 because your client, because of the fifty-something appeals
11 and because of the motions for leave to bring litigation, is 12 causing the value of this trust to plummet. And we're never 13 -- it seems like a meaningless exercise. I'll never be able 14 to make a declaratory judgment as your client wants me to, if 15 I can get there legally and jurisdictionally. How could I get 16 to a point of being able to value the trust and value the 17 likelihood, determine the likelihood that your client is in 18 the money when the legal fees are going up hourly because of 19 all of these appeals?

20 I'm not saying your client isn't entitled to appeal, but
21 I'm just saying he may be his own worst enemy. That strategy
22 means he's probably never going to be in the money.

23 So these are my -- I just, I'm wanting you hopefully to 24 focus on these two biggest overarching issues in my brain.

25 The trust agreement --

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay.

2 THE COURT: -- says what it says.

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And I can do that, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: I'm supposed to respect contractual
5 terms. So that's overarching issue number one in my mind.

6 But second, again, I don't know what the legal term would
7 be for meaningless exercise, but it's just, it's almost like
8 an impossibility thing to ever declare a value that means
9 anything when it's going to be different two weeks from now, 10 --

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, --

12 THE COURT: -- a month from now, a year from now.

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, it's not an
14 impossibility. That, one, we would endeavor to do this really
15 quickly and efficiently so that the cost of this is not
16 material to what's in the estate.

17 But secondly, these kinds of exercises are done all the 18 time in litigation. You estimate the future values. You --
19 an expert can assist Your Honor in determining what is a
20 reasonable indemnification reserve. These are things that can
21 be done. This is what lawyers and judges do.

22 THE COURT: This is off the chart. This is not like
23 any other situation I can think of. This is off the chart
24 with the amount of post-confirmation litigation. I mean, if 25 you can point me to something analogous out there, I'd love to

1 see it.

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: The fact that there isn't a case
3 exactly like this doesn't change the fact that there are 4 professionals who can look at this, can look at what has been
5 spent so far, can look at whether hearings could have two or 6 three lawyers instead of ten, and make an estimate of the 7 amount that's appropriate for an indemnity reserve. That's
8 something that's susceptible of proof and determination.

9 It's not impossible for Your Honor to decide that, and
10 it's not fruitless. Someone can say, hey, wait a minute,
11 every hearing you had, you know, ten people from Pachulski and 12 ten people from Quinn, even though they're no longer really
13 involved, and ten people from Willkie. And so if you can rein
14 that in, the Court can say, this is what a reasonable
15 indemnification would be and this is what's left. And so,
16 yes, it will finally create a path for us to resolve this
17 estate.

18 But without this information, we're left with suspicion
19 and uncertainty. How do you resolve something when you don't 20 even know what's left? We don't -- because the reporting is
21 quarterly, we've heard rumors in the marketplace that Class 8
22 has been paid in full. So I would ask Mr. Morris, is that
23 correct? Has Class 8 already been paid in full? We don't 24 know. I mean, can you tell us, what's the amount of the 25 estate right now? We don't know. Because we don't know what

1 those notes mean. And Your Honor isn't -- and Your Honor
2 doesn't know and can't know without shedding a light on this
3 what that balance sheet really means.

4 And Mr. Morris makes a big deal about, oh, there are
5 admissions in the complaint then they don't know if they're in
6 the money. Your Honor, the complaint was filed before the 7 balance sheet. So when in the last proceeding HMIT said it's
8 in the money, that's because it knew from the balance sheet
9 it's in the money. So you know now, you can look at that
10 balance sheet and say on the face of it, okay, there is more
11 -- there are more assets than liabilities. In order to 12 determine that that wouldn't be the case, you'd need a lot
13 more information about what those notes that you point to in
14 the denial of reconsideration actually mean.

15 But here, the estate is trying to say no, not only do the 16 Plaintiffs not get to know that information, we're not telling
17 Your Honor, either. We're just putting a lid on it. And so
18 we can all go on fighting because we don't have the 19 disinfectant of information.

20 And so -- and now we'll get into more of the law. Your 21 Honor asked, how can I do this? Delaware law requires this
22 Court to afford standing to all beneficiaries, including
23 contingent ones. And especially when it's alleged that vested
24 status is being withheld in contravention of the duty of good
25 faith and fair dealing.

1           So let's go to Slide 3.

2           Okay. Let's take a look at where we started and why, why
3 we're so upset about this. If you look at the value of the 4 estate as of June of '22, there was somewhere in the mid-$600
5 million in assets. And at the start, there was something
6 under $400 million in claims. And so now, as of the end of
7 '23 -- go back a second, go back, Mike, one more -- as of the 8 end of '23, there was about $120 million of Class 8 and 9
9 remaining. But remember, there was -- you know, if you
10 subtract 400 from 650, you've got $250 million. That's a
11 pretty big cushion.

12           So let's go forward and look at what we know from the 13 balance sheet. So, if we -- and we've put references there.
14 But if we go through -- you can see from the face of the 15 balance sheet there is a net value -- that's after everybody,
16 8 and 9 have been paid off -- of $122 million. So, in order
17 to get rid of that, you have to assume the indemnification is 18 going to eat up all of that.

19           Now, think about what the indemnification means. If in 20 fact there was no wrongdoing, well, there'll be no judgment to 21 indemnify.

22           THE COURT: But what about the --

23           MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: If in fact --

24           THE COURT: What about the professional fees?

25           MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: $122 million, Your Honor?

1 THE COURT: Well, we're three years post-
2 confirmation, with no end in sight to these appeals.

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I think it defies
4 belief that they could reasonably spend $122 million. And the 5 point is, if we can get this information and really have
6 satisfaction that maybe there's really nothing bad that's
7 happened and there are no -- there's no hidden money anywhere,
8 and we know what's there, this can end. This can end.

9 THE COURT: Do you --

10 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We can finally see the light at 11 the end of the tunnel.

12 THE COURT: I mean, again, we're here for legal 13 argument, but you're saying this could end. This is never 14 going to end. This is never going to end. I stayed things in 15 2023, at your client's request, to take another crack at 16 mediation. Okay? Even though we did mediation, even though I
17 stayed everything in 2020 before confirmation and ordered
18 global mediation and things didn't work out, your clients and 19 Mr. Dondero convinced me, two years post-confirmation, stay
20 everything again, because we don't think we got attention or 21 respect from the mediators. The Debtor was focused on other
22 people, like UBS and the Redeemer Committee and Joshua Terry.

23 So I don't know what happened, and I don't want to know
24 what happened. It's not my role to know what happened in the 25 most recent mediation exercise. But I do know that it's

1 enough to convince me this will never end. When things were
2 stayed --

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And Your Honor, --

4 THE COURT: When things were stayed and the legal
5 fees weren't -- well, they were probably continuing to accrue
6 because there were still appeal deadlines out there right and
7 left that had to be addressed. But it's not going to settle.
8 It's going to go on forever whether you get this information
9 or not.

10 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I'm telling you, and 11 I represent the Plaintiffs, that the only thing that can 12 enable this to end is to have sufficient information to be 13 able to say, okay, I know what this all means, I know what
14 we'll get, I know what we're foregoing.

15 How can anything ever settle if you don't know what you're 16 giving up and you don't know what you're getting? How would 17 that be possible? How would that be fair to parties to say,
18 you should settle but you don't know what you're giving up and 19 you don't know what you're getting? We're trying to get to 20 the point where we could end this.

21 Shall I go on, Your Honor?

22 THE COURT: Yes, please.

23 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. Mike, next slide.

24 Okay. This is just a quick summary of the Defendants'
25 arguments. Mootness, collateral estoppel, advisory opinion,

1 standing, failure to state a claim, and unclean hands.

2 Let's go to the next.

3 Okay. So, ironically, the Defendants argue that the
4 balance sheet filed on July 6th eliminates the controversy
5 among the party, parties, mootng the claims. But that can't
6 be true, and Defendants won't provide the information to fill
7 out the notes on the balance sheet and when -- when the
8 balance sheet on its face shows assets exceed liabilities but 9 the Defendants continue to maintain that they don't but
10 without any analysis of why that's so.

11 Let's go on to the next.

12 But the Defendants shouldn't be able to have it both ways.
13 If the balance sheet and financial statements are insufficient
14 to determine whether assets exceed liabilities, as they claim,
15 then the claims can't be moot. And, of course, a claim can't
16 be dismissed simply because a defendant says in a pleading
17 that a particular document shows that plaintiffs lack standing
18 when the document itself does no such thing.

19 On its face, the balance sheet shows assets exceed
20 liabilities. But if there's any doubt or ambiguity, that 21 means discovery is needed, not that claims should be
22 dismissed. This is a fact issue on which Plaintiffs are 23 entitled to discovery and trial.

24 The next slide.

25 So, I mean, in response to the mootness arguments,

1 Plaintiffs cite cases that -- uncontroversial cases that say,
2 when there's still a controversy, that claims are not moot.
3 And if you'll look at Defendants' reply, they don't address
4 any of that.

5 The Defendants also rely on the Court's order denying
6 reconsideration of the HMIT gatekeeper regarding insider
7 trading to say that it either moots Count Three or is the 8 basis to collaterally estop Plaintiffs from proceeding. And
9 there are numerous reasons that that's wrong.

10 So, one, the Court's dicta -- and it was dicta, because 11 the Court had a lot of other reasons that it disposed of the 12 matter -- is based on information that the Defendants now
13 refuse to stand behind. And the Court's order doesn't address
14 whether HMIT is in the money now or when the complaint was 15 filed or whether it will ever. And it certainly doesn't 16 exclude the potential that Plaintiffs would certainly be in 17 the money but for Claimant Trustee's alleged breaches of good
18 faith and fair dealing. So there's nothing about the Court's
19 original or reconsideration order that precludes standing
20 here.

21 Moreover, the order is obviously one that's on appeal and
22 may be overturned.

23 Next slide.

24 If we look more closely at the requirements of collateral
25 estoppel, Defendants are ignoring the basic elements of the

1 doctrine. So, one, the question is, are the claims identical?
2 And they're not, for the reasons that I mentioned. The issues
3 were obviously not necessary to the reconsideration decision
4 since the Court stated it had several grounds for its
5 decision.

6 More importantly, the Court's decision was made on a
7 summary record in a gatekeeper proceeding. The -- so there
8 was no discovery on that issue. And the Defendants have never 9 fully detailed to the Plaintiff or the Court what's in the 10 Claimant Trust, what's in the Indemnity Subtrust. We don't 11 know.

12 So the balance sheet is summary information. The notes
13 are not explained. And no one, not the Plaintiffs, not the 14 Court, has had an opportunity to test the data and assumptions
15 there, including undisclosed contingent liabilities and $198
16 million in off-balance-sheet adjustments.

17 So let's go to the next slide.

18 So I just urge the Court to go back and look at the 19 balance sheet. And we have a picture of it up here. But if 20 you look at it, you'll see notes. For example, Note 3. Value
21 reflected herein consists primarily of ownership in private
22 funds and subsidiaries. What funds? What are their assets?
23 How liquid? Have they been sold? For a loss or gain? What's
24 the resulting change in cash balance?

25 There's another note for other liabilities. To whom are

1 they owed? Note 5. The amount of further incremental
2 indemnification reserves are currently expected to exceed $90
3 million and may be greater. $50 million? $90 million? $125
4 million? What's the math? What's the math behind that and
5 how much has been used? What's been put aside? Who is
6 getting it?

7 It says $35 million has been funded into the Indemnity
8 Trust. What's the balance now? Did the additional funds
9 reduce the value of the Claimant Trust? Did the money come
10 out of current earnings, so maybe it hasn't reduced it?

11 Incremental springing contingent liabilities that range
12 from $5 to $15 million. What are they? How much? When are 13 they likely to crystallize?

14 These are among the questions that are unanswered from 15 that balance sheet.

16 And let's go to Slide 12.

17 And so while -- Your Honor has pointed out many times that
18 the August 25, 2023 opinion is very long, over a hundred
19 pages, very detailed. And I concede: It is over a hundred
20 pages. It is long. It has many sentences in it, and it has a
21 lot of discussion. But there's no analysis about the value of 22 the assets and liabilities or the net value of the Claimant
23 Trust or what has been moved into the Indemnity Subtrust or 24 why and was it justified. None of that is addressed.

25 The Court's October 6th opinion is short and it's cursory,

1 because it also doesn't analyze the value of the assets or
2 liabilities or the net value of the Claimant Trust or what has
3 been moved into the Indemnity Subtrust or why and whether it's
4 justified. It simply states HMIT does not give proper
5 attention to the voluminous supplemental notes in the balance
6 sheet that were allegedly, this is a quote, "integral to
7 understanding the numbers therein."

8 But what do those supplemental notes mean? The Debtor is 9 vigorously shielding any scrutiny, while at the same time
10 arguing that this Court's nonsubstantive reference to those
11 notes collaterally estops Plaintiffs from bringing this
12 action. But without access to information with which to 13 challenge the other side, a party doesn't have a full and fair
14 opportunity to be heard, and therefore any ruling based on 15 that kind of proceeding can't have collateral estoppel effect.

16 Okay. So, again, this is just a summary. No full and 17 fair opportunity prevents collateral estoppel, and the fact
18 that there were numerous other grounds and a lack of reasoning
19 to the issue that's being asserted here should serve
20 collateral estoppel makes collateral estoppel inappropriate.

21 Okay. The Debtor also -- the Defendants argue that Count
22 Three seeks an advisory opinion. It doesn't. It seeks a
23 declaration concerning Plaintiffs' status that could be based
24 on simple math from the face of the balance sheet that
25 presently, presently there's enough money to pay everybody.

1 And so there would be a -- need to be a whole lot more
2 explanation for the Defendants justifying why that's not the
3 case.

4 So let's look at a hypothetical to see if Defendants'
5 assertions about standing make sense. So let's say in a
6 breach of contract case a broker fails to sell the plaintiff a
7 million dollars' worth of shares that are at that time selling
8 for a dollar each. Can the defendant move to dismiss, saying
9 that plaintiff has no standing because the shares might go
10 down in value, eliminating any damages? I'm sure Your Honor
11 would say obviously not. But isn't that what the Defendants
12 here are saying? It's -- they're saying it's possible they'll 13 spend enough money to prevent the former equity from getting 14 anything. But that doesn't mean that Plaintiffs lack standing
15 now.

16 The Claimant Trust had sufficient assets to pay unsecured
17 creditors in Class 8 and 9 in full, with interest, at least as
18 early as mid-2023, maybe as early as September '22. Had Mr.
19 Seery fulfilled his mandate, he should have distributed that
20 and made the GUC certification. So Plaintiffs' contingent
21 interests should have officially vested many months ago. And 22 because of the duty of good faith and fair dealing, the Court
23 --

24 THE COURT: What about Section 6.1 of the credit
25 trust agreement?

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: You have to imply -- you have to
2 add into that a duty of good faith and fair dealing. And so
3 if Mr. -- if the Claimant Trustee has not taken those actions
4 for the express purpose of making sure to silence -- trying to
5 silence Class 10 and 11 and prevent them from getting money
6 and being able to spend it all, you know, paying -- holding
7 back enough to eventually pay a dollar -- a dollar less to
8 Class 9, and using the rest of the money. So, Your Honor,
9 because of the duty of good faith and fair dealing, 6.1 does
10 not tie Your Honor's hands.

11 And let's look at the Slide 16.

12 THE COURT: The Trustee is required to reserve
13 amounts necessary for indemnification obligations and the 14 administration expenses of the trust are entitled to payment
15 ahead of any classes under the plan. Class 8, Class 9, as 16 well as --

17 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Uh-huh.

18 THE COURT: -- 10, 11.

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, but is not -- is 20 there not any limit on how much can be set aside? Let's say
21 there were -- there was $300 million left over.

22 THE COURT: This is where I go back --

23 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Could a Claimant --

24 THE COURT: -- to your client is in control of its
25 own destiny here. This --

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, basically, is Your Honor
2 saying --

3 THE COURT: This should all be over. This should all
4 be over, three years post-confirmation. It should all be
5 over.

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. And --

7 THE COURT: They stayed --

8 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. And if we --

9 THE COURT: They stayed the mega-lawsuit. They
10 stayed the mega-lawsuit for the reasons you are suggesting.

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: The unjustified mega-lawsuit that
12 shouldn't have been brought in the first place. They stayed 13 it. Very nice. They stayed it because they didn't -- they 14 knew they didn't need that money. They knew it was 15 unjustified. So they stayed it.

16 THE COURT: So that would suggest to me proper
17 exercise of business judgment, litigation judgment. But they 18 have no control over all of these appeals and all of the --

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But --

20 THE COURT: -- litigation that your clients pursue.

21 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, my clients pursue
22 litigation because they don't have the information to know
23 whether they're -- wrongdoing is occurring. And the hallmark
24 of this bankruptcy --

25 THE COURT: That doesn't apply with regard to the

1 appeals. And, again, --

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. And the appeals --

3 THE COURT: -- if your client wants to appeal, that
4 is what's beautiful about our system. You can appeal and
5 maybe get judgments overturned. But --

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That's right.

7 THE COURT: -- it's a strategy here. Right? As long
8 as you keep doing that, --

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: No, it's --

10 THE COURT: As long as you keep doing that, HMIT and
11 Dugaboy's contingent interests, any recovery on them is going
12 to continue to become less and less likely.

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But so Your Honor, is Your Honor
14 actually suggesting that they should lie down and not 15 challenge anything to save a buck, and so if things have
16 happened --

17 THE COURT: No. You heard what I said. Appeal away.
18 Appeal away. No trial judge, no bankruptcy judge gets things
19 right a hundred percent of the time. So appeal away. But 20 don't complain about maybe not being in the money, when the 21 greatest risk, it sounds like, to your client not being in the 22 money is the professional fees continuing to impair value.
23 And we could never get to a point in time where we could --
24 you know, again, my words earlier, meaningless exercise. How 25 could I ever make a declaratory judgment about value or the

1 likelihood of your client recovering as long as there are
2 dozens of appeals continuing to cause the liabilities to
3 increase, the expenses to increase?

4 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, that's, I mean, --

5 THE COURT: You're asking the Court to do something
6 impossible.

7 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It's not impossible, because
8 these appeals -- appeals like this happen all the time, and
9 there are certainly professionals who are involved --

10 THE COURT: Name one bankruptcy case in history where
11 there have been this many appeals.

12 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It -- there don't -- there
13 doesn't have to be another one with this many appeals. You
14 just look at the cost of an appeal in any case and figure out
15 whether, with what's going on here, what is the appropriate
16 amount to set aside for that cost. It's eminently doable. It
17 doesn't -- we don't have to have an exact case to match it to.
18 We just need to have -- are there ever appeals of whether a
19 release is overbroad? Sure. Are there ever appeals about
20 whether a gatekeeper is appropriate? Sure. Are there ever
21 appeals about whether the dismissal of a claim is appropriate?
22 Sure. Those are all things that someone can look at and say,
23 well, this is an appropriate amount to be spent on that, and 24 so this is an appropriate amount to hold aside for resolving
25 it.

1 But what we're saying is if we can get sufficient
2 disclosure, we can figure out whether or not there -- it ought
3 to be ended. But without that, we're left saying, what's
4 being hidden here? What's actually left? What's been done?
5 And so that's why -- and this is a problem that comes up in
6 trusts all the time when there's not sufficient disclosure of 7 what's in the trust. So that's why, under the Restatement of
8 Trusts, --

9 THE COURT: Wait, wait, wait. This is what happens
10 all the time? I don't know what kind of --

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah. In other words, that --

12 THE COURT: What post-confirmation trust agreement
13 that's been approved as part of a plan does this happen all
14 the time?

15 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I'm not talking about -- about
16 trusts in bankruptcies in particular. I'm talking about --

17 THE COURT: That's what we're dealing with here.

18 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, --

19 THE COURT: And I'm just telling you: One time, I've
20 wracked my brains, and one time since I've been on the bench
21 -- I'm coming up on my 18-year anniversary.

22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Uh-huh.

23 THE COURT: I'm old. But one time I have had
24 litigation about what the heck is going on with the post-
25 confirmation creditor trust.

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Uh-huh.

2 THE COURT: The facts were so very different. It was
3 a creditor trust agreement, and I think it had a three-year
4 term on it. The trust was going to be wrapped up in three
5 years. And Year 3 came along and there was a motion to extend
6 it. We're not done, we want to expand it, I don't know, six
7 months, maybe a year. And then that time frame went by and
8 there was another motion to extend it. So it was extended
9 another year. And then it happened again.

10 And a creditor objected, saying, I want to know what the 11 heck is going on. And I looked at the docket sheet and I'm 12 like, gosh, there aren't any appeals out there, there's hardly 13 any activity that's going on. And so we had a hearing. And 14 the trustee was getting a flat fee that was rather large for 15 the size of that estate, where unsecured creditors were 16 probably going to get less than ten cents on the dollar. And 17 we ended up having another hearing where we find out that the 18 oversight committee hadn't met in like three years and these 19 creditors who are likely to get five cents on the dollar, they 20 had just mentally checked out a long time ago.

21 And even in that situation, I was struggling with my
22 power, my jurisdiction, to put any equitable oversight
23 mechanisms in place when the creditors had voted on this, when
24 the creditors got to see the creditor trust agreement before
25 the confirmation hearing and no one complained. And luckily,

1 that situation was resolved. The creditor trustee said, we're
2 going to wrap it up in six months. I'm no longer going to
3 take my compensation. And it was some tax issue that no one
4 had been focusing on properly, like I think maybe the company
5 hadn't done tax returns in a gazillion years before
6 confirmation.

7 But the point I'm getting at is, again, many, many legal
8 issues out there, but the overarching issue I keep coming back
9 to is there's a creditor trust agreement that everyone got
10 notice of and the Court approved. And contractual terms are 11 something I'm supposed to respect. And you're asking me, on 12 an equitable basis, to overrule this. This has maybe far-
13 reaching effects for everyone who strikes a bargain in Chapter
14 11 with, Here's our plan, here's what the liquidating trust is 15 going to be governed by, here's the hearing, speak now or 16 forever hold your peace, I approve it. And --

17 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: You're right, Your Honor, that it
18 has far-reaching effects. And if you don't do something to 19 shine a light on this and enable the disclosure and the 20 hearing, you will embolden claimant trustees to do exactly
21 what's happening here, maybe in even worse circumstances. And 22 the difference between the case you mention and the case here
23 is -- actually weighs in favor of intercession sooner here
24 because there is so much money involved.

25 So there's -- it's not a piddling amount that, you know,

1 where creditors are only getting a couple cents on the dollar
2 anyway, so, you know, they're going to get three cents or two
3 cents. It's of less magnitude. Here, there is an enormous
4 amount of money that may be squandered. And so it's more
5 important to look hard at this and impose the covenant of good
6 faith and fair dealing.

7 And that's why the Restatement of Trusts says that
8 beneficiaries of a trust are -- include contingent
9 beneficiaries. And then if you take --

10 Let's go to the next slide, Mike.

11 Okay. Delaware courts also look to Black's Law
12 Dictionary. And that's important here, because it actually
13 includes contingent beneficiaries and direct beneficiaries
14 within the definition, without any qualification, but
15 expressly distinguishes an incidental beneficiary or someone
16 who's going to be a beneficiary by virtue of a separate
17 contract. And nothing in the Claimant Trust agreement
18 indicates that Plaintiffs are merely incidental beneficiaries.
19 And that's important because in that Paul case that Defendants
20 rely on so heavily, they were incidental beneficiaries. It
21 was a separate document, not the trust agreement itself, that
22 would give rise to the status of the plaintiffs.

23 And so Delaware -- go to 18 -- Delaware courts make a
24 point of not -- of not reading statutory language
25 restrictively to exclude classes of beneficiaries. And so

1 while they are not absolutely on point, they are thematically
2 on point, and to say that if someone is even a contingent
3 beneficiary, they ought to have the rights that one has under
4 the Delaware law.

5 And so -- go to -- move -- next slide.

6 And the duty of good faith and fair dealing is not
7 disclaimed in the Claimant Trust agreement, and moreover, it
8 cannot be disclaimed. So that's something Your Honor has to 9 take into account. And the impact of a duty of good faith and 10 fair dealing is that a party is basically estopped from 11 raising a provision that they are using in conjunction with 12 their own wrongdoing.

13 So if the Claimant Trustee is deliberately not paying out
14 $8 million in full in order to keep an unreasonable amount in 15 reserve and be able to be employed at $150,000 a month, you
16 know, being paid the same thing now, when most of the 17 liquidation has already been done, as, you know, when there
18 were a million things going on and a lot of management. So it
19 does seem unreasonable, and the Claimant Trustee has the power
20 to keep that going basically forever.

21 Next slide.

22 And so -- and when I said earlier, you know, this is a
23 common thing, what I meant was cases like Estate of Cornell
24 and Edwards. It's just a -- it's a universal problem that you
25 can prevent or postpone vesting unreasonably and prevent

1 distribution by your own acts.

2 And if you look at the Defendants' reply, there is not one
3 word about these concepts, about whether or not the Court has
4 the power and, really, must stop a trustee from raising their
5 own interest over the interests of the beneficiaries,
6 including the contingent beneficiaries.

7 Next slide.

8 So, and I really covered this to some degree, but
9 Defendants' reliance on Paul Capital, which is an unpublished
10 case, is misplaced. The interests here are not incidental.
11 They're not derived from an outside contract. The court in 12 Paul Capital also relied on the fact that the trust agreement
13 -- agreements in that case were fully integrated, which was a
14 reason they didn't look to that outside contract. But in 15 fact, there's no merger clause in the CTA, so that's another
16 difference.

17 Next.

18 Defendants' entire argument that Plaintiffs are not
19 entitled to an accounting turns on its erroneous conclusion
20 that Plaintiffs are not beneficiaries under the CTA. And now
21 they also point to -- which I don't believe they did in their 22 papers -- they also point to the general rule that an
23 accounting is not done as a matter of course. But this Court
24 has the power under Texas law to impose an accounting when 25 there are questions, as there are here, that need to be

1 answered in order for the parties to make sensible decisions
2 about what ought to be done going forward.

3 Then, unclean hands, it's a one-sentence argument in the 4 Defendants' brief referring to the Kirschner litigation, which
5 it doesn't actually identify by name and doesn't say anything
6 about the fact that it was voluntarily stayed. And the claim
7 against HMIT, and it is breach of contract, so it's really
8 hard to understand how being a defendant in a breach of 9 contract action is unclean hands. And the Plaintiffs made
10 these points in response to Defendants' motion, and 11 Defendants' reply brief is conspicuously silent of any 12 rebuttal.

13 Okay. So, Defendants' motion to dismiss needs to be
14 denied so that Plaintiffs finally have a full and fair
15 opportunity to challenge Defendants' assertion.

16 Even if this Court disdains Plaintiffs and sympathizes
17 with the Claimant Trustee, the Court is making law here. And 18 as we've pointed out, the law would create this platform for 19 claimant trustees to enshrine themselves and to do things
20 under a veil of secrecy. And that's not something that I
21 would think this Court would want to do.

22 If there's enough money to pay all of Classes 8 and 9, the
23 remainder belongs to Classes 10 and 11, not the estate
24 professionals. Money left over after --

25 THE COURT: Let me ask you.

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- Class 8 and 9 are paid --

2 THE COURT: Again, that's just not entirely correct,
3 because of 6.1. It is in there that indemnification
4 obligations must be reserved for. And let me ask you: How
5 many times have your clients tried to sue Mr. Seery?

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I -- a couple. And the point is 7 if he --

8 THE COURT: Only a couple?

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes.

10 THE COURT: Only a couple? So, --

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. But --

12 THE COURT: So they're required to reserve amounts
13 necessary. How much is your client or your clients seeking to 14 recover from Mr. Seery in those couple of lawsuits? I think
15 there have been more than two attempts.

16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I don't think it's -- I don't
17 think the -- I don't think the amounts sought are the issue.
18 It's -- it's there's -- and I'm not counsel of record in the
19 insider trading case, but I don't remember a large amount.
20 The -- in the case we're bringing to --

21 THE COURT: The insider trading case? The insider
22 trading case? Are you talking about the Stonehill/Farallon
23 thing?

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah. Yes. I don't -- that --
25 you asked about every case where Mr. Seery is mentioned. So I

1 don't think there's a big number there. And the case --

2 THE COURT: Wait, wait, wait.

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- that I have --

4 THE COURT: You don't think there is a big number
5 there? You don't remember the prayer for relief in that?

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I don't, Your Honor. It's not --
7 I'm not the lawyer of record in the case.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But let me point out, if --

10 THE COURT: I think it was rather open-ended and 11 large. Okay? But, and then there's the professional fees and 12 expenses that have priority.

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, --

14 THE COURT: I mean, I just, I want to hear: Are you
15 asking me to disregard Section 6.1 on equitable grounds? I
16 think at bottom you are, and I just want to hear you answer
17 that question.

18 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I'm going to answer
19 that question, but I'm also going to point out that the 20 indemnification, if in fact there is intentional wrongdoing
21 that occurred, the estate is not obligated to indemnify. If
22 in fact the Claimant Trustee prevails in a claim or Mr. Seery
23 prevails in a claim, there is no judgment to indemnify. So
24 we're only talking about professional fees.

25 And yes, Your Honor, you don't ignore 6.1. You read it

1 with a duty of good faith and fair dealing applied in it, and
2 that enables you to allow this case to proceed, which is
3 necessary if we are ever going to end this matter.

4 And I will tell you, you asked about what's being sought
5 from Mr. Seery.

6 THE COURT: Can someone on your team -- can someone
7 on your team tell me how many pending appeals there are right
8 now? Because the chart that I asked my law clerk to pull is 9 several months old.

10 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We can -- I'm -- we can submit it
11 after the fact, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Okay. I wanted to know right now, but --

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We'll send something.

14 THE COURT: I wanted to know right now, when I'm --

15 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I mean, I don't know right now
16 how many there are.

17 THE COURT: Is -- are there a dozen?

18 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And I wouldn't want to try and
19 count while I'm sitting here.

20 THE COURT: Are there a dozen? Can you say, are 21 there more than a dozen?

22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I don't know, Your Honor. I
23 think many of them have wound down, and so the only -- we're
24 awaiting decision. So I don't know.

25 But appeals, of their nature, are generally not that

1 expensive. There's no discovery. You write a brief. You go
2 and argue it.

3 THE COURT: That is not my recollection whatsoever
4 from reviewing fee apps for 18 years or for practicing law 17
5 years. You know. If --

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I agree, if there
7 were not -- if the Defendants didn't bring six or seven people
8 to New Orleans or Houston when there is an appeal, I would 9 think that it would cost less. There's no reason, in this day
10 and age, where you can -- if you're only listening, you can --
11 you can do that from your office, because the Court provides 12 an audio link. There's no reason to have that many people
13 travel clear across the country to go sit and listen to 14 arguments. So, is there a reason things cost more than they
15 should? Absolutely. But that's not the Plaintiffs.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: This Court could look at what is 18 left and say, you know what, in my experience, taking into 19 account your 18 years, this is -- this is what this many 20 proceedings should cost. That's the amount of -- and even if 21 you add a little cushion -- that's the appropriate amount of 22 indemnity, and everything else can be distributed. You can do
23 that, Your Honor. You have the -- there are professionals who 24 could give expert testimony, and with that, between that and
25 Your Honor's experience, you can figure that out. It's not a

1 black box.

2 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, your rebuttal,
3 please.

4 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

5 If nothing else, counsel's presentation proved one thing,
6 and that is this proceeding should be dismissed. She insists
7 -- she had her presentation up on the board -- that they're in 8 the money. We disagree. We disagree both with the analysis
9 and with its legal significance.

10 But just as HMIT contended last summer that they were in 11 the money, counsel today is ratifying that and saying they're 12 in the money. If they're in the money, why do they need this 13 information? They don't.

14 Let me just start with the rebuttal, because it's going to 15 be some random points just because I'm -- I've taken some 16 notes.

17 The concept that three-plus years ago Heller Draper,
18 Munsch Hardt, Bonds Ellis couldn't foresee that we would be
19 here is mind-boggling, and, then, legally irrelevant. You
20 know who had the foresight to see that we might be here? The 21 Creditors' Committee. They're actually the ones who drove 22 this process on the Claimant Trust agreement. It's why the 23 agreement says exactly what it says. It's an agreement
24 between parties that defines the beneficial owners' rights and 25 the limitations on those rights.

1           There is a reason that contingent trust beneficiaries are
2 not owed any duty whatsoever until their claims vest and that
3 they have no rights under the Claimant Trust agreement or the
4 plan, at least as it pertains to the Claimant Trust agreement,
5 until their rights vest. The vesting process was not an
6 accident. It was intended to make sure that Mr. Dondero could
7 not do exactly what counsel is making plain she wants to do
8 today, and that is get information in order to second-guess
9 every decision that Mr. Seery has made. Okay?

10           Everybody on our side of the table knew, based on Mr.
11 Dondero's very long history of litigation, that this was a
12 possible end result, and they prepared for it. That Mr.
13 Dondero's lawyers did not is on them. The Court should not be
14 rewriting the agreement today.

15           Ms. Deitsch-Perez contends that somehow we have obscured
16 resources. No such thing has ever occurred. Okay? The plan
17 and the Claimant Trust agreement provide very specific rules
18 on what must be disclosed. There are other rules that require
19 disclosures. There is no allegation whatsoever that the 20 Claimant Trustee or the Claimant Trust has failed to meet its 21 obligations to make the disclosures required under the
22 Claimant Trust agreement and under the law.

23           And in fact -- this is another point that just gets 24 obscured in all of this, like a suggestion that somehow Mr.
25 Seery is some rogue guy doing stuff all by himself. That's

1 false. It's baseless. There is a Claimant Oversight Board
2 with an independent member and with two members who have a
3 substantial stake in the Claimant Trust. And there are many
4 Claimant Trust beneficiaries, not one of whom is here to 5 complain, not one of whom is concerned about the lack of
6 disclosure, not one of whom is concerned about the reserves
7 that have been made in this case.

8 There's really nothing more to talk about, but I have to 9 respond to certain of the other points. This notion that 10 somehow assets that exceed liabilities are the property of 11 HMIT is legally incorrect. That's as polite as I can say it.
12 Your Honor focused on it. 6.1. It is what it is. But I do
13 need to make the point that there is no way that anybody could 14 make a reasonable estimate of indemnification claims. It's
15 not just appeals, Your Honor. That's one aspect, and I
16 appreciate Your Honor focusing on it. But we have litigation
17 in Guernsey. We have litigation in the Southern District of 18 New York. We have, you know, these suits. He doesn't want --
19 he is just looking for information.

20 He tried to sue my firm on this ridiculous theory that we 21 were actually his lawyer way back in September 2019. Like,
22 really? It was withdrawn in the face of a Rule 11 motion.
23 But you know what? My firm incurred expenses defending
24 itself.

25 These things don't stop. There is another lawsuit to

1 remove Mr. Seery. That's been stayed pending the outcome
2 here, because just like they have no legal right or equitable
3 claim to obtain any information from the trust, they have no
4 legal right or equitable claim to remove Mr. Seery. But we're
5 going to have to do that.

6 The money in the trust is not HMIT's. They have no legal
7 or equitable claim to that money unless and until all senior
8 claims and expenses are satisfied. And that will not happen
9 as long as there's pending litigation.

10 You know, you're encouraged to make an estimate. What
11 happens if your estimate is wrong, Your Honor? What happens
12 if you come up with a ruling and say the estimate is $50
13 million and that's what Mr. Seery reserves, because he's going 14 to comply with any order this Court issues, and at the end of 15 $50 million there's still litigation and he or other
16 indemnified parties have been sued? And now what? Now what 17 happens then?

18 That's why this is completely untenable and it has no
19 basis in law, fact, or equity.

20 Dicta? Your Honor's decision that HMIT was not in the 21 money was dicta? That was the whole basis for the motion.
22 The motion sought reconsideration on the basis that they were
23 in the money and therefore had standing. It's not dicta.
24 It's the holding, after an analysis of the balance sheet,
25 after showing the faulty logic in HMIT's presentation. That

1 it's a balance sheet, Your Honor. It's not cash. You don't
2 spend what's on a balance sheet, you can't buy anything with
3 what's on the balance sheet, because what's on the balance
4 sheet is a bunch of contingent stuff. Like the Notes
5 Litigation. $70 million. They're here telling you they're in 6 the money, and they treat that $70 million as being in the 7 Claimant Trust's pocket. It's not. Not only is it not in the
8 Claimant Trust's pocket, Mr. Dondero is doing everything he
9 can to make sure it never gets in the Claimant Trust's pocket.

10 This is their disingenuous theory of what the balance
11 sheet means.

12 Again, apologies for the somewhat disparate nature of the 13 rebuttal.

14 Duty of good faith and fair dealing. You've heard that a
15 lot. Where is it in the complaint? What cause of action here
16 is dependent on duty of good faith and fair dealing? Nothing.
17 You won't find it. The words aren't there. This is a request
18 for information and two requests for declaratory judgment that 19 assets exceed liabilities and that they may vest someday in 20 the future. Their complaint, the only thing that's the 21 subject of this motion, has nothing to do with the duty of 22 good faith and fair dealing.

23 The Kirschner action. It was stayed. But you know what,
24 Your Honor? It wasn't dismissed. It was stayed because
25 responsible parties like Mr. Kirschner and Mr. Seery said,

1 let's pause and see what happens. There may come a time when
2 we start that litigation. There may come a time. Right? It
3 wasn't dismissed.

4 So the notion that we've made a decision that it's not
5 necessary is wrong. The decision was made that we don't have
6 to spend that money today. Let's keep it on ice and let's see
7 if we need to in the future.

8 Willkie. We heard some disparaging remarks about
9 Willkie's participation in these proceedings. Well, you know
10 what, Your Honor? Mr. Seery, God bless him, never retained
11 personal counsel in this case until HMIT sought leave to sue
12 him. Willkie is in this case only because Mr. Dondero made
13 the decision to go after Mr. Seery. Mr. Seery is entitled to 14 indemnification, he has indemnification, and I'm delighted
15 that the Willkie firm is by my side.

16 If Mr. Seery -- if Mr. Dondero has regrets about Willkie's
17 participation, he shouldn't sue Mr. Seery anymore. Maybe they 18 wouldn't have such a role.

19 Listen to what they're saying, Your Honor. Listen to Ms.
20 Deitsch-Perez's hypotheticals. What if they find out that 21 there's overpayments to professionals? What if there's 22 payments to phantom vendors? What if they learn someday that
23 Mr. Dondero -- Mr. Seery has engaged in wrongdoing? If this
24 is what they want to hold out for, if this is what they want
25 to continue to litigate for, because they think one day maybe

1 they might have something, somebody did something wrong, it's
2 Mr. Dondero's prerogative. But this is not a vehicle to give
3 him information to pursue those claims. It's just not.

4 Standing. There's no standing motion here. We're not
5 saying dismiss this because they don't have standing to spring
6 the claims. We're saying that they don't have any legal right
7 to seek information because of the plain terms of the Claimant
8 Trust agreement and the plan. It's not a standing question,
9 it's about whether they have a legal right, and the plain
10 terms of the operative documents state definitively that they 11 do not.

12 They can't settle without the information.

13 (Pause.)

14 THE COURT: Whoops. We just lost you, Mr. Morris.
15 We just lost your sound.

16 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Am I back?

17 THE COURT: You're back.

18 MR. MORRIS: Okay. People settle claims, known and 19 unknown, all the time. Okay? Mr. Dondero should look at his 20 success rate in litigation in this case and decide what he's 21 really holding out for. He should look at the success in 22 bringing the suit against my firm. He should look at what
23 happened when we had the evidentiary hearing in Hunter
24 Mountain and it was revealed that he was actually the party
25 who engaged in inside information. He was actually the person

1 who lied to Mr. Seery about what was happening with MGM. He
2 should think about his lack of success, the lack of merit,
3 what happened in the Notes Litigation, how ridiculous the
4 supposed oral agreement defense was. He should ask Mr.
5 Rukavina how the hearing went in front of Judge Scholer last
6 week on the appeal.

7 And he's holding out for more claims? This is what he
8 wants to do for his life? God bless him. We will reserve
9 everything.

10 Mr. Dondero is not the principal. He doesn't get some
11 final say over the propriety of the actions of the Claimant
12 Trustee or my firm. He doesn't have that right. That's what
13 the Claimant Trust agreement was intended to do. It reflects
14 the settlor's intent. And the settlor's intent was that Mr.
15 Dondero or Hunter Mountain or Dugaboy would get a check at the 16 end of the day if and when all senior claims and expenses were 17 paid and satisfied. That has not happened, so they don't get 18 a check. It's really that simple. It may be hard for him to 19 take, and I appreciate that, but he should have thought about 20 these issues three-plus years ago when all of this was 21 proposed, because other people thought about it, and here we 22 are.

23 And the Court has, I respectfully say, no authority, no
24 jurisdiction to override the plain terms of an agreement that 25 has been affirmed by this Court and has been affirmed by the

1 Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. There has never been a
2 challenge to these provisions that they just want you to
3 completely ignore.

4 Just one moment, Your Honor.

5 (Pause.)

6 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I actually have nothing
7 further unless the Court has any questions.

8 THE COURT: Okay. I only have one question. And let 9 me preface it by saying that I don't pay much attention to 10 appeals and satellite litigation unless something is brought 11 to me. I mean, there just are not enough hours in the day for 12 me. Plus it's just, it's not of my concern. Right? An 13 appellate court is going to do what it's going to do and issue
14 a mandate to me at some point, if appropriate. And the same
15 with satellite litigation. It's either going to somehow be 16 brought before me or not.

17 So you may think that I'm aware, lawyers, parties may 18 think that I'm aware at all times of different things going on 19 out there, but I'm really only sort of aware. I don't know
20 how many pending appeals there are right now. But I do know
21 that someone who seemed to know what he was talking about,
22 another judge in Texas, not here, told me that Highland has
23 spawned more appeals at the Fifth Circuit than any other -- I
24 don't know if he said bankruptcy case in history or Chapter
25 11. And he said, are you proud of that? Hahaha. And I said

1 no. I'm not even remotely proud of that. And I haven't
2 double-checked his figures, but he's kind of a numbers wonky
3 lovable geek, so I think he probably knew what he was talking
4 about.

5 But finally getting to my question, Mr. Morris: You
6 alluded to there's a vexatious litigant motion pending, and
7 you reminded me I heard about that at a hearing many months
8 ago. I think you said it was before Judge Brantley Starr, a
9 district judge here in this district. Is that correct?

10 MR. MORRIS: It is correct, Your Honor. And we filed
11 our reply papers last Friday, so it's been fully briefed.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Well, even though I don't closely
13 monitor appeals, satellite litigation, I may be monitoring
14 that.

15 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, may I make one
16 rebuttal, by the way, to Mr. Morris's presentation? I just 17 have one comment.

18 THE COURT: If it's 30 seconds. But this is out of 19 order. Usually, Movant goes last. I assume this is going to 20 be hugely important.

21 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It is important. It's something
22 Your Honor raised and Mr. Morris raised, so I want to point
23 something out so there is no misunderstanding. There was a
24 lot of talk about, well, the Plaintiff should have done
25 something about this at the time of the plan. If Your Honor

1 recalls, at the time of the plan the projections were that
2 Classes 8 and 9 would recover a fraction of their value. So
3 there was no reason Classes 10 and 11 should be -- should have
4 anticipated the issues that have arisen now. And I just want
5 to remind everybody of that.

6 MR. MORRIS: And just one sentence, Your Honor. Mr.
7 Dondero acquired every single asset that Highland has. He was
8 in Highland's offices with full access to all information
9 through October. He had Mr. Waterhouse, the CFO, onsite until 10 just before the confirmation hearing, and there was no
11 objection to those projections.

12 What happened is Mr. Seery and his team did a great job
13 and benefited from a rising market, and yet here we're going
14 to be subjected to more litigation. It's brilliant.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, I am finished hearing
16 everything. And with respect to that comment for the 17 Plaintiffs, I continue to think this is a very important
18 issue, of the many issues, of the many jurisdictional issues
19 here. And there are so many issues, I'm not sure, if you
20 prioritize the issues, where this one falls on the list. And 21 yet as a bankruptcy judge I am obsessed a bit with the issue
22 of the impact on the Chapter 11 world.

23 We have liquidating Chapter 11s with -- or even if they're
24 not liquidating, we have Chapter 11s where there's a
25 litigation trust like this one where there is sometimes a

1 discussion, when are you going to get the creditor trust
2 agreement on file? Oh, it's going to be part of a plan
3 supplement, and the plan supplement will be filed, you know,
4 ten days before the confirmation hearing. Whatever. I'm just
5 giving you a typical fact pattern. And it's part of the 6 evidence. It's part of the information. It's not just
7 evidence at the confirmation hearing. It's usually on file
8 several days before the confirmation hearing, where it's out
9 there for consumption, for people to complain about if they
10 think there are objectionable terms. And we just have this in 11 dozens and dozens of cases.

12 And I can even go further back in my brain here. I mean,
13 Chapter 11, very soon after the case was filed, we had a U.S.
14 Trustee saying conversion to Chapter 7 or appointment of a
15 Chapter 11 trustee. You know, we can't have Mr. Dondero as 16 the manager of this Debtor anymore. And despite that 17 argument, we put in place a corporate governance mechanism
18 that Mr. Dondero agreed to. And my point is there's always 19 been a huge amount of oversight by what we considered the 20 fulcrum security here, the unsecured creditors. A huge amount
21 of oversight. A huge amount of oversight in this case that
22 was negotiated in response to a very active Creditors'
23 Committee and a U.S. Trustee saying can't have a debtor-in-
24 possession here.

25 So why do I go back? I mean, it's really troublesome for

1 any judge to hear, We have suspicion. We are worried about a
2 breach of good faith and fair dealing. What if there are
3 fictional vendors?

4 I mean, this case has been full of extensive oversight.
5 And not only could the Plaintiffs here have complained about
6 the terms of the creditor trust agreement, heck, they could
7 have said convert this sucker to Chapter 7, because a Chapter
8 7 trustee will have -- there will be a lot of transparency for
9 everything that happens in winding down this estate.

10 So, rambling, yes, I'm rambling. I do that. But the 11 philosophical issue here, I just, it's hard for me to ignore,
12 because, looming, we have the jurisdictional issues, but what
13 you're asking me to do is something that it's just a fact
14 pattern we see all the time of plans with litigation trust
15 agreements. And we all know what the terms are going to be,
16 and we can all argue about those terms if we don't think
17 they're appropriate, and we all know that the future is
18 uncertain and things could change, and that's just the way it
19 is. Here it is. Live with it or not.

20 Anyway, but so that's a big deal, the contractual rights
21 here.

22 And as I said earlier, another kind of overarching issue
23 is it feels like kind of a meaningless exercise when we have 24 the asset side of the balance sheet but the liabilities just
25 grow unlike any other case. It's fair to say unlike any case.

1 There have been more appeals generated at the Fifth Circuit
2 from this case than any Chapter 11 ever, and maybe any
3 bankruptcy ever.

4 There was a reference to, well, yeah, there are lots of
5 appeals, but you don't need to send six lawyers to New Orleans
6 or have people. But I was just writing down as I was thinking
7 through this, and Mr. Morris alluded to some of it, we've had
8 at least the following law firms involved for either Mr.
9 Dondero or entities he controls: Munsch Hardt; Bonds Ellis;
10 Heller Draper; Louis Phillips' firm, I think that's Kelly
11 Hart; the Stinson law firm; Sawnie McEntire's law firm; Ms.
12 Ruhland, Amy Ruhland; Lang Winshew; and I forget the name of 13 the lawyers who represented the Charitable Trusts.

14 MR. MORRIS: Mazin Sbaiti.

15 THE COURT: The Sbaiti law firm.

16 So I've just rattled off from memory nine law firms, okay?
17 I'm not even sure I've captured them all. Probably not. So
18 it's, on all sides of this, I can't remember if I've said this
19 in court or I've just maybe said it back in chambers, but I'll
20 say it: This feels like the Disneyland case. Have I ever
21 said that in court yet? Do you know what I mean by that? I
22 probably haven't.

23 The famous quote of Walt Disney, when someone asked him
24 about the theme park and when it would be finished, and he
25 said, Disneyland will never be finished as long as there are

1 creative people with imaginations. I mean, this is like the
2 Disneyland case. It will never be finished as long as there
3 are certain parties and lawyers who have imagination and keep
4 filing stuff. I don't mean to be flippant, but I really am
5 trying to emphasize what I said. Sure, people are entitled to 6 appeal, but how can you complain about 'I don't know if I'm in
7 the money or not' when there's just no end in sight?

8 So I'm going to obviously take this under advisement, and
9 we will carefully look at every argument and every case,
10 because that's what we do. That's what we're duty-bound to 11 do. We don't knee-jerk anything around here. But I am very,
12 very troubled by some of the arguments. And it's what made me
13 ask about the vexatious litigant motion and its status,
14 because it just feels so beyond the pale to make accusations
15 of some sort of breach of good faith and fair dealing and
16 raise the specter of lack of transparency and something
17 untoward may be going on, when these were the terms negotiated
18 as far as post-confirmation oversight, we have an Oversight
19 Committee, and I think every rational person knows that the 20 professional fees and the indemnification obligations and the 21 appeals and the satellite litigation are why we can't wrap
22 this up. Okay?

23 So let that soak in. And we will get an opinion out as 24 soon as we can make it happen.

25 All right. We're adjourned.

[26] Memorandum of opinion granting motion to dismiss adversary proceeding in which contingent interest holders in Chapter 11 Plan Trust seek a post-confirmation valuation of Trust assets) Entered on 5/24/2024

Volume 11

APPELLANT RECORD

with respect to its appeal of the Order Granting Motion to Dismiss Adversary Proceeding in which Contingent Interest Holders in Chapter 11 Plan Trust Seek a Post-Confirmation Valuation of Trust Assets [Doc.26-27] which was entered by the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas on May 24, 2024.

I. STATEMENT OF ISSUES TO BE PRESENTED ON APPEAL

1. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in granting The Highland Parties' Motion to Dismiss Complaint to (I) Compel Disclosures About the Assets of the Highland Claimant Trust and (II) Determine (A) Relative Value of Those Assets, and (B) Nature of Plaintiffs' Interests in the Claimant Trust.
2. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred by dismissing Count I under Rule 12(b)(6) based on the Bankruptcy Court's finding that Appellants could not prove any facts that would entitle them to the relief that they sought when the Appellants properly alleged that they have a legal and equitable right to information under the Claimant Trust Agreement and under Delaware and Texas law.
3. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred by dismissing Count II because it was predicated on Count I and was therefore not justiciable under Rule 12(h)(3) when Count I was improperly dismissed.
4. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred by dismissing Count III because it was predicated on Count I and was therefore not justiciable under Rule 12(b)(1) when Count I was improperly dismissed.
5. Whether the Bankruptcy Court erred in dismissing Count III because the Bankruptcy Court found that Appellants were asking it to issue an opinion based on a set of hypothetical facts and was therefore not justiciable under Rule 12(b)(1) for lack of subject matter jurisdiction when Count III seeks only a declaration that the Claimant Trust assets exceed the obligations of the bankruptcy estate or must be deemed to do so such that Appellants' contingent trust interests are effectively vested, or as an equitable matter, must be treated as vested because the putative defendants are preventing the conditions for formal vesting from occurring.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - APRIL 24, 2023 - 1:39 P.M.

2                   THE COURT: I will now turn to our Highland matters.
3 We have two of them. The first one we had scheduled I think
4 may have been worked out, but it is the Dugaboy and Hunter
5 Mountain adversary proceeding -- or, well, not adversary
6 proceeding, a motion for leave to file an adversary proceeding
7 regarding valuation. This is Case No. 19-34054.

8                   Who do we have appearing for the Movant this afternoon?

9                   MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Good morning, Your Honor. This
10 is Deborah Deitsch-Perez from Stinson for the Movants.

11                  THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Do we have you
12 representing both Movants, Ms. Deitsch-Perez?

13                  MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That's correct.

14                  THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, I see you have 15 your video turned on. You're representing the Debtor today,
16 or Reorganized Debtor; is that correct?

17                  MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor. Good afternoon.

18                  THE COURT: Good afternoon.

19                  Do we have any other appearances on this matter?

20                  All right. Well, am I correct you've worked out something 21 procedurally on this?

22                  MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah, let me report. We have 23 been negotiating over several weeks about information to be 24 provided to the Movants, and additional information was indeed
25 provided on Friday. I don't know if you've noticed, but the

1 reports have an additional section with some additional
2 information.

3 We're going through it. We think there are probably still 4 some -- some additional information that we need, and so we
5 will first reach out to Mr. Morris and attempt to negotiate
6 over that information. And if we are successful, wonderful.
7 If we are unsuccessful, because the Debtor has agreed that a
8 gatekeeper motion is not necessary since the adversary would 9 just be seeking a valuation and not monetary or other relief,
10 we will then proceed to -- if we cannot work things out with 11 the Debtor, we'll proceed to file an adversary, which will be 12 slightly different than the one that was attached to the 13 gatekeeper motion because we will explain what additional 14 information is needed and why the information we have is not 15 sufficient. So it should narrow the scope of the adversary.

16 THE COURT: All right. Thank you. Mr. Morris, 17 anything you want to add??

18 MR. MORRIS: Yes, just briefly, Your Honor. The 19 Reorganized Debtor does not believe Hunter Mountain or Dugaboy
20 is entitled to any information whatsoever. They certainly 21 have no legal right to the information. It's why they have to 22 pursue equitable -- an equitable claim. Not an equitable 23 right, but an equitable claim.

24 Counsel is certainly correct that we negotiated in good
25 faith to try to provide the information that the Reorganized

1 Debtors believed was -- might be useful to the extent that 2 someone was really interested in settling the case. We were
3 unable to come to an agreement. So, under Mr. Seery's
4 leadership, we acted unilaterally. We produced a wealth of 5 information on Friday night, including claims data, cash, cash
6 in reserve, cash in the Claimant Trust, assets, general
7 descriptions of assets that remain.

8 If they want to pursue a lawsuit, we'll accept service,
9 with the proviso that we set forth in our opposition to the 10 original motion, and that is everybody will be held
11 accountable for unsupported and unsubstantiated allegations.

12 But the ball is in their court. We have produced what 13 we're prepared to produce. If they want to continue with 14 litigation, I guess that's what we'll do.

15 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, we hope that the Debtor
16 will continue to negotiate and will hear why we explain --
17 when we explain why the information isn't enough. So, ever
18 the optimist, I hold out some hope that we will be able to do
19 this, if not through this proceeding, through the motion for a 20 greater stay and for mediation that's also before Your Honor.

21 So, one way or the other, we do hope to resolve this. If 22 we can't, we will bring the adversary. And I thank you, Mr.
23 Morris, for agreeing to accept service.

24 THE COURT: All right. Just a procedural question.
25 Ms. Deitsch-Perez, will you be actually withdrawing this

1 motion for leave, or are you all doing some sort of order
2 setting forth what you've all agreed to and announced? Just 3 let me know, so I know what to be expecting.

4 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I think we will try to have an 5 agreed order to enforce what we're doing. If we fail in that,
6 I don't suppose it matters very much. We can withdraw the 7 application and just proceed to file the adversary. I'd 8 rather get an agreed order up, though, setting forth that the 9 Debtor has agreed that a gatekeeper is not necessary and that,
10 as a result, we'll be filing the adversary. So, that's what I 11 hope, Your Honor, we'll get.

12 THE COURT: All right. Well, just for the record, it
13 doesn't really matter to me whether you withdraw it or I have 14 an agreed order. I'm just trying to simplify life. I know
15 sometimes the Clerk's Office personnel will reach out -- we 16 need an order, we need an order, we need an order -- if 17 there's a motion pending that doesn't have an order to match
18 to it, and I'm just trying to avoid headaches in that regard.

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That's why we'll make it clear
20 what we do one way or the other.

21 THE COURT: Very good.

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just for the Court's
23 convenience, I apologize that I don't have the docket numbers,
24 but the information that we posted and we intended to and did
25 post it on the docket so that it was available to everybody

1 equally, it's at the back of the two quarterly operating
2 reports. There's one filed on behalf of the Reorganized
3 Debtor and then there's one filed on behalf of the Claimant
4 Trust. But I believe the information in the back of each of 5 those reports is the same.

6 So, just in case the Court has any curiosity about what 7 we've disclosed, I just wanted to make sure Your Honor knew
8 where to find it.

9 THE COURT: Okay. I've got the docket right in front
10 of me, and I see on Friday Docket No. 3756 was filed by the 11 Reorganized Debtor, Post-Confirmation Report, and then Docket
12 3757 was filed by the Claimant Trust. So, thank you. I've 13 noted those if we want to go back and look.

14 All right. Well, that concludes this Dugaboy/Hunter Trust
15 motion for leave.

16 Let's now turn to the other Hunter Mountain motion for 17 leave. We have a status conference -- I think it's a hearing
18 on what kind of hearing we're going to have -- on Docket Entry
19 No. 3699. So we probably have a larger appearance list on 20 this one, so I'll do roll call.

21 Appearing for Hunter Mountain, who do we have?

22 MR. MCENTIRE: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is 23 Sawnie McEntire and my partner Roger McCleary with Parsons
24 McEntire McCleary representing Hunter Mountain.

25 THE COURT: Okay. Now I'm going to just do a roll

1 call. For the Reorganized Debtor, Mr. Morris, will you be 2 taking the lead on that?

3 MR. MORRIS: Yes, I will, Your Honor. Good
4 afternoon.

5 THE COURT: Good afternoon.

6 All right. We have four, potentially, named Claims
7 Purchasers. So I'll ask, who do we have representing Muck
8 Holdings?

9 MR. MCILWAIN: Your Honor, Brent McIlwain here from 10 Holland & Knight. I represent Farallon Capital Management,
11 Stonehill Capital Management, Muck Holdings, and Jessup
12 Holdings, LLC.

13 THE COURT: Okay. So you represent all four of the 14 Claims Purchasers?

15 MR. MCILWAIN: That's correct, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: All right. James Seery is a potential
17 Defendant identified. Who do we have representing Mr. Seery?

18 MR. STANCIL: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is 19 Mark Stancil from Willkie Farr & Gallagher. I'm joined by my 20 colleague Josh Levy and our co-counsel from Reed Smith, Omar
21 Alaniz.

22 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

23 Do we have any other lawyers appearing in this?

24 MR. STANCIL: I think that's it, Your Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right. Well, so, again, I think

1 we're having a hearing on what kind of hearing we're going to 2 have on your motion for leave, Mr. McEntire. What did you
3 want to say?

4 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, that's correct, Your Honor.
5 Good afternoon again.

6 I think there are several issues before the Court during 7 this status conference. One is the date of the hearing. I
8 think we certainly preliminarily had agreed over the last 10
9 days that May 18 was the logical date in light of the motion
10 practice.

11 The length of the hearing, Mr. Morris has suggested over 12 four hours or approximately four hours. I've suggested one 13 and a half hours.

14 And then there is an issue about whether or not evidence 15 should be allowed.

16 There is a fourth issue that I just want to make sure that 17 the Court is aware. I don't want to be accused of waiting 18 this issue as the proceedings progress. And that is we have 19 raised an issue about Mr. Morris's representation and whether 20 he has a conflict of interest. We did this in writing in our 21 reply brief several weeks ago. As a consequence, Mr. Seery
22 now has new counsel, Mr. Morris of course to represent the 23 Highland parties, the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant --
24 the Highland Claimant Trust. We are concerned that he has a 25 conflict of interest. It is unclear from whom he is taking

1 his direction or from whom he is deriving his authority.

2 And equally important if not more important, he is taking 3 positions that are inconsistent with the best interests of the 4 Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trust.

5 I don't think this is the type of issue that could be 6 resolved today. However, I want to make sure it's on the 7 record so I'm not accused of waiting as we proceed. But 8 otherwise, it's the date of the hearing, the length of the 9 hearing, and whether or not evidence is allowed.

10 I'm prepared to address the merits of our thoughts on each
11 of those last three -- the date, the length, and the evidence
12 issues -- if the Court wishes, or I could wait until after 13 other counsel have made their comments. But I'm prepared to 14 move forward as the Court wishes.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, I am not going to 16 address a conflicts of interest issue today. I think I heard
17 you saying you don't anticipate the Court would. But I don't 18 have any sort of pleading in front of me on that, so we'll 19 just make that clear from the get-go.

20 One of the reasons I'm making that clear from the get-go
21 is I have not read the brief you filed I don't know what time
22 on Friday, Docket No. 3758, Mr. McEntire. And then I see an 23 objection you filed Friday, Docket No. 3761. And then last 24 night at 9:30 a supplemental support document. I take it none
25 of --

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Right.

2 THE COURT: -- these issues raised the conflict of 3 interest issue.

4 MR. MCENTIRE: We addressed the conflicts of issues
5 in -- certainly in our filing last night. But the brief on 6 Friday and the objection on Friday is addressing the Court's
7 email and Mr. Morris's request to hold an evidentiary hearing.
8 And we oppose that. We object to the conduct of an 9 evidentiary hearing. And the brief that we filed -- the 10 objection we filed was supported by case law. I've seen 11 nothing from Mr. Morris or any of the other counsel in the 12 case responding to our objection or the cases we've cited.

13 But Your Honor, if you wish, I could just move forward
14 right now and address the evidentiary issue, if you wish.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'm backing up. This 16 shows 9:10 a.m. this morning, the 3761. Am I on the wrong
17 thing?

18 MR. MCENTIRE: I think you're -- what we did this 19 morning at Mr. Morris's request is we sent in a redline
20 version of the revised complaint to the Court's attention.
21 The actual revised complaint was filed last night, and all 22 that was done this morning was, at Mr. Morris's request, to 23 facilitate his review of the new complaint, was to redline it.

24 THE COURT: All right. Well, and then, okay, the 25 brief you filed was at 4:55 p.m. Friday.

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.

2 THE COURT: I can assure you, we were still all
3 working then, but unless you notify my courtroom deputy that 4 you have filed something sort of on the eve of a hearing,
5 we're not necessarily in chambers going to go back and scroll
6 the docket. We had court on other matters this morning, so we 7 were focused on that. I've not seen your brief. But anyway,
8 you can argue obviously what you want to argue.

9 Okay. So let's talk about -- I think you wanted to talk
10 about evidence first.

11 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.

12 THE COURT: So I'm happy to hear about that topic
13 first. Because, obviously, the other issues -- length of 14 hearing, date of hearing -- hinge on that. So what do you --

15 MR. MCENTIRE: I agree.

16 THE COURT: What do you say about this?

17 MR. MCENTIRE: All right. Well, earlier, I think,
18 last week, or perhaps it was the end of the previous week, Mr.
19 Morris had issued an email requesting a four-hour hearing
20 because he wanted to cross-examine Mr. Dondero and otherwise
21 have a full-blown evidentiary hearing. Opening statements,
22 final argument, and witness examinations.

23 We responded immediately by email objecting to the 24 evidentiary format. There was a series of exchanges between 25 my office, Mr. Morris's office, and your chambers, Your Honor,

1 where Ms. Ellison indicated that you were initially inclined
2 to grant an evidentiary hearing.

3 That was followed by an email on April 19th of last week
4 where you suggested in your email that the issue of 5 colorability, which is really the gatekeeper function that the 6 Court's serving, as the Court is aware, that the standard for 7 colorability was somehow greater than the standard for 8 plausibility under a 12(b)(6) motion.

9 In the email, Ms. Ellison suggested that it was perhaps 10 the Court's initial thinking that there was a higher hurdle
11 associated with the gatekeeping function than a traditional 12 12(b)(6) inquiry.

13 We have done substantial research following that email
14 exchange, and I will also point out to the Court we actually 15 briefed the 12(b)(6) standard in our original emergency motion
16 for leave. So this is not new to us. We had actually briefed 17 it originally in our original motion that was filed back in 18 late March. March 28th, I believe.

19 But in light of the Court's communication, we did further 20 research. We have found no cases that suggest that the 21 inquiry for colorability is greater than the plausibility
22 standard under Twombly. In fact, we found cases that suggest 23 just the opposite. The Gonzalez case which was cited is a 24 Northern District of Texas case. It was a gatekeeper case.
25 Not a bankruptcy case. But it was a gatekeeper case on an

1 ERISA claim that simply said that the plaintiff simply had to 2 be able to establish an arguable claim.

3 The Deepwater Horizon case, which is a Fifth Circuit case,
4 also states that the case -- the claim must only have some 5 possible validity.

6 So the threshold inquiry is very, very low. Evidence is 7 not allowed.

8 The Gonzalez case also suggested that the Court, similar 9 to a 12(b)(6) inquiry, is limited to the four corners of the 10 principal pleading -- in this case, the complaint, or now the 11 revised complaint.

12 So we don't believe that --

13 THE COURT: So, Mr. McEntire, --

14 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: -- let me -- help me with this. I'm 16 walking through -- because obviously the question we're 17 drilling down on is what is the appropriate legal standard for 18 the Court to apply --

19 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

20 THE COURT: -- in performing the gatekeeping
21 function. So I started the same place I guess you and 22 everyone else started, and that is with the plan, the 23 gatekeeping provision in the plan. And it starts on the 24 bottom of Page 50 and goes over to 51.

25 And you probably discovered, the same as I discovered,

1 that it doesn't give the appropriate legal standard. It just 2 says that the Bankruptcy Court -- that no enjoined party may 3 commence or pursue a claim or cause of action of any kind
4 against any protected party without the Bankruptcy Court --
5 turn over to Page 51 -- first determining, after notice and a
6 hearing, that such claim or cause of action represents a 7 colorable claim of any kind. And then the last sentence of 8 that paragraph: "The Bankruptcy Court will have sole and 9 exclusive jurisdiction to determine whether a claim or cause
10 of action is colorable."

11 Okay? So all that really tells us is that there has to be 12 notice and a hearing. That doesn't say what kind of hearing,
13 evidentiary or otherwise, and doesn't elaborate on colorable.

14 So, beyond that, here was my legal thinking. And maybe
15 this is all fully explored in your brief. I just don't know.
16 I thought, well, what legal standard do Bankruptcy Courts
17 apply in the Barton Doctrine context when someone is seeking 18 leave to sue a bankruptcy trustee? And then I thought, what 19 legal standard do Bankruptcy Courts apply in a Louisiana World
20 Exposition-type context if an unsecured creditors' committee
21 or other party brings a Louisiana World Exposition motion, 22 saying, we'd like leave to sue a party because the debtor-in-
23 possession is conflicted or whatever reason.

24 And so before we get to Deepwater Horizon and the other
25 cases, did you find any legal authority in the Barton Doctrine

1 context that you think sheds light? Because that seems to me
2 the most analogous context, right?

3 MR. MCENTIRE: Specifically to answer -- to respond
4 to your question directly, the answer is no. What we did find 5 specifically, though, was the case, as I'd indicated, the 6 Fifth Circuit directs that a 12(b)(6) standard be applied to 7 the issue of colorability. And that's the Trippodo case.

8 THE COURT: The what case?

9 MR. MCENTIRE: And that's also cited -- the Trippodo.
10 T-R-I-P-P-E-D-O [sic]. That is a Southern District of Texas
11 case that cites a Fifth Circuit precedent that directs that a 12 12(b)(6) standard be used as a template, if you will, for 13 determining colorability. And we've also cited that in our 14 brief.

15 THE COURT: And that, was that the one that was in an 16 ERISA context?

17 MR. MCENTIRE: No, ma'am. That was Gonzalez. And 18 that's cited on Page 7 of our brief.

19 THE COURT: And so --

20 MR. MCENTIRE: That was a gatekeeper -- a gatekeeper
21 issue. Before you -- you have to satisfy certain criteria
22 before the Court will allow the ERISA to even be filed, the 23 ERISA claim to even be filed. And so it was akin to a
24 gatekeeper function. And they applied specifically a 25 colorability or 12(b)(6) standard.

1 THE COURT: I'm sorry. What was the context? What
2 was -- who was seeking to sue whom over what in the Trippodo
3 case?

4 MR. MCENTIRE: The -- it was an ERISA claim. It was 5 in the -- I believe it's the Northern --

6 THE COURT: Oh, I thought you said is not an ERISA
7 claim.

8 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, no, I apologize. I may have 9 sorted my words. It was an ERISA claim. It was in the 10 Northern District of Texas, I believe. I have it right here.
11 One second. Yes, it's Northern District of Texas. It's a 12 2002 case. It was dealing with the amendment of pleadings to 13 bring forth an ERISA claim. And the issue there is whether or 14 not there's a colorable claim or whether it was frivolous or 15 futile. And the court determined that a -- that before you
16 even get to the 12(b)(6) level -- this case can actually stand
17 for the proposition that it's -- that it's even less than a 18 12(b)(6) standard. But before you even get there, you have to 19 address it from a futility or frivolity or is there any 20 evidence. The actual words that are used are, one second,
21 "any arguable claim."

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. MCENTIRE: Not plausibility. Not on the merits.
24 But any arguable claim. It's the lowest of possible
25 thresholds.

1 THE COURT: All right. Well, --

2 MR. MCENTIRE: And that's --

3 THE COURT: -- so, but just to be clear, you didn't
4 find anything in the Barton Doctrine context out there?

5 MR. MCENTIRE: I did not.

6 THE COURT: And what about --

7 MR. MCENTIRE: Now, to be honest --

8 THE COURT: Say again?

9 MR. MCENTIRE: To be clear, I did not -- I did not -- 10 I apologize. We did not specifically look at Barton. I'll be 11 glad to do that and supplement as necessary.

12 THE COURT: Okay. And Louisiana World, you didn't 13 find anything that would shed light in that line of cases?

14 MR. MCENTIRE: I think we did. I believe Louisiana
15 World supports our position here.

16 THE COURT: It says what legal standard applies?

17 MR. MCENTIRE: One second. One second, Your Honor,
18 please.

19 (Counsel confer.)

20 MR. MCENTIRE: One moment, please, Your Honor.

21 (Counsel confer.)

22 MR. MCENTIRE: Can I -- I might have to supplement
23 that. I have someone looking for it right this second.

24 (Counsel confer.)

25 MR. MCENTIRE: It was a conflict issue.

1 (Counsel confer.)

2 MR. MCENTIRE: The Louisiana World case, it was a
3 little bit off topic. It had to do with a conflict of 4 interest where the creditors' committee had a conflict on 5 (inaudible) and the Court determined that the case should go
6 forward. And --

7 THE COURT: I know it was a different context. I'm 8 just trying to find something analogous to this gatekeeper 9 motion. And the most analogous things I could think of was 10 motions for leave that have been filed in a Bankruptcy Court
11 pursuant to the Barton Doctrine, wanting to sue a bankruptcy
12 trustee, where the Bankruptcy Court acts as a gatekeeper, and 13 then a Louisiana World-type situation where a creditors'
14 committee files a motion seeking leave to sue somebody,
15 arguing the debtor is not doing it, for either conflicts or 16 some other reason.

17 All right. So, assuming your case authority is the 18 guiding authority here and it's a Rule 12(b)(6)-type context, 19 you're saying I should look at the four corners of the 20 documents, or anything else the Fifth Circuit has said I can 21 look at, take judicial notice of, in a 12(b)(6) context and 22 not hear evidence?

23 But part of the reason we're having this dispute, right,
24 is because you've put forward some evidence? Do I understand
25 that correctly? And I have not dove into weeds on this yet,

1 but I understand there were affidavits submitted by you.

2 Correct?

3 MR. MCENTIRE: In order to make this determination,
4 you do not need to consider the Dondero affidavits that Mr.
5 Morris has raised. You do not need to consider any of the 6 documents that are actually associated with our motion.

7 We recognize that the application under the 12(b)(6)
8 standard, you'd be relegated to the four corners of the actual 9 complaint itself -- in this case, the revised complaint.

10 The 12(b)(6) standard is a guide. We take that to mean
11 that it's a low standard. It's, at most, a plausibility
12 standard, but we believe actually less.

13 We've provided the Dondero declaration -- declarations,
14 plural; there were two -- together with some documents to give 15 -- provide additional background for the Court. But Mr.
16 Morris has raised an objection. And under the circumstances,
17 assuming the Court follows the guideline of the Trippodo case, 18 then we would understand the Court would not consider the 19 actual Dondero declarations.

20 THE COURT: Does that mean you're withdrawing the 21 affidavits?

22 MR. MORRIS: I object to that, Your Honor. I really 23 -- I'll let counsel finish. This is just not right.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I'm not sure what --

1 THE COURT: Your response to that?

2 MR. MCENTIRE: I think what we're doing is the 3 correct legal statement and articulation of what the law is.
4 Whether Mr. Morris likes it or not, I suppose, you know, with 5 all due deference to Mr. Morris, it's not a question of 6 whether I'm doing something that he likes. It's what I think 7 is legally correct. And I think that I've presented that as 8 best as I can to the Court.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Well, you never --

10 MR. MCENTIRE: By the way, --

11 THE COURT: Assuming I would allow withdrawal of the 12 affidavits, is that what you're seeking to do?

13 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. If the Court is suggesting that 14 if I leave the affidavits attached to the motion that the 15 Court is going to allow this to become, effectively, a trial
16 on the merits -- when it shouldn't be, because that's not what 17 this is about, this is not a test of witness credibility, this 18 is not a test of the ultimate merits of the claim -- if that 19 is the situation that I'm being placed, then the answer is we 20 would not want to withdraw them but we will.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Well, you don't want to but you
22 will? I mean, I --

23 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, correct. We do.

24 THE COURT: I feel like that means I need to explore
25 this a little, because I don't want -- well, any time

1 affidavits are put forward in this Court, or I think any other
2 court I know of, parties are always given the chance to cross-
3 examine an affiant or a declarant. Okay? We always allow 4 that if there's an objection to the underlying motion. So, --

5 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, here, --

6 THE COURT: -- I just want to make sure you're clear,
7 you put it in and then the other side said, well, we want a
8 chance to cross-examine the affiant. I allow that --

9 MR. MCENTIRE: Then --

10 THE COURT: -- always, a hundred percent, as does 11 every other judge I know. If there's an affidavit, if someone 12 wants to cross-examine them, obviously, there might be two 13 sides of the story. So I just want to be clear on what your 14 desired outcome is --

15 MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough. I understand.

16 THE COURT: -- and request is.

17 MR. MCENTIRE: I understand the Court's statement.

18 We withdraw the Dondero affidavits for purposes of this 19 exercise and your consideration.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. MORRIS: Can I be heard, Your Honor?

22 THE COURT: Yes. I'm going to let you be heard on 23 that. But any other argument you want to make, Mr. McEntire?

24 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. One last thing. We did find the 25 reference to Louisiana World, and it was determined that no

1 evidence was appropriate and that the court should limit its 2 inquiry based upon the allegations in the pleading, and in 3 that case, to determine whether it was a colorable claim,
4 which would, if pursued successfully, could have increased the 5 value of the estate. So, the Louisiana World case does 6 suggest that there's not an evidentiary component to this 7 inquiry.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Let me be clear. You first said
9 it held no evidence was appropriate, and then you said
10 suggest. So, did the court actually tackle what is the legal 11 standard and is evidence appropriate? Did it actually tackle
12 those specific issues? That's all I really care about.
13 Because I've read the case.

14 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. The citation in our brief is 15 that the Court need not be satisfied that there's an 16 evidentiary basis on the merits of the claim to be asserted.
17 And we have cited the Louisiana World case at Pages 252 and 18 253. Allegations were sufficient and no evidentiary hearing 19 was necessary to determine -- in this case it was a breach of 20 fiduciary duty claim -- whether it had -- whether it was 21 appropriately colorable to move forward.

22 THE COURT: Okay. Courtney, you can be drilling down 23 on that.

24 All right. Anything else?

25 MR. MCENTIRE: On the evidence issue, no, Your Honor.

1 We would, again, if the Court has time, we would encourage the 2 Court to read our brief. We believe we've laid out the law
3 fairly succinctly and clearly, and we stand by our brief --

4 THE COURT: All right.

5 MR. MCENTIRE: -- and our objection.

6 THE COURT: Well, of course I have time and I will
7 read it, but I just, given when it was filed and that I wasn't
8 alerted to it being there, I'm just explaining why I have not 9 read it yet.

10 All right. Mr. Morris, your argument?

11 MR. MORRIS: Good afternoon, Your Honor. John Morris
12 for the Claimant Trust and for the Reorganized Debtor.

13 Your Honor, we understood this to be a status conference.
14 We didn't understand this to be a day for rulings by the 15 Court. We didn't understand there was an issue for the Court
16 to determine today. Hunter Mountain has now filed two briefs
17 on the topic of the standard of colorability, and they've made
18 an exhaustive argument, doing all of this before we -- before 19 any of the objecting parties have had an opportunity to be 20 heard.

21 Our brief is due on May 4th, and we respectfully request
22 that the Court, subject to other comments that I have this 23 afternoon, withhold judgment on anything that's happened here
24 today.

25 Mr. McEntire has completely misstated the law. He has no

1 understanding, apparently, of what a gatekeeper is and how it
2 functions under Barton. And there's been no reference at all
3 to the purpose of the gatekeeper, which is set forth
4 explicitly, clearly, and in great detail in the Court's
5 confirmation order. Okay?

6 12(b)(6), I don't want to -- I don't want to get too far
7 ahead of myself, but 12(b)(6) has nothing to do with this 8 case. Of course this has turned into a bit of a circus, Your 9 Honor, as it always does in Highland. This was a very simple
10 matter. Hunter Mountain filed a motion for leave to file a 11 complaint under the gatekeeper provision of Highland's plan.
12 They attached a copy of their proposed complaint. And 13 Paragraph 1 of their motion says, The motion is separately
14 supported by the declarations of James Dondero dated May 22nd
15 -- May 2022 and February 2023.

16 And these aren't just two declarations, Your Honor.
17 There's almost 400 pages of attachments to these declarations.
18 And now, 10 days before our opposition is due, because Mr.
19 Dondero fears being cross-examined, Hunter Mountain just 20 willy-nilly thinks they can withdraw those affidavit and 21 declarations? That is greatly prejudicial, and I just can't 22 believe what I just heard.

23 They don't want to do it, they don't want to subject their 24 client to some cross-examination, when they put their 25 declarations into evidence, when they said that their motion

1 was based on these declarations.

2 We should have that opportunity, Your Honor. Forget about 3 the standard. As Your Honor rightly pointed, the rule is very 4 clear. You offer declarations; we get to cross-examine.

5 On Friday night, we got Hunter Mountain's objection.
6 Their, really, their second attempt to deal with colorability.
7 Last night, they filed what they characterize as support or a
8 supplemental document, which Hunter Mountain insists is not an 9 amendment of their pleading.

10 Your Honor, I've had Hunter Mountain provide the Court
11 with a blackline. I would respectfully request that the Court
12 instruct Hunter Mountain to file it on the docket so that it
13 becomes part of the official record in this case. If Your 14 Honor reviews the blackline version, which is not on the 15 docket but was emailed earlier today at my request, the Court
16 will see just how extensive the changes are to this pleading.
17 So here they are, without leave of Court, without filing a
18 motion to amend, without anything, they simply dump a brand
19 new complaint on us 10 days before our opposition is due, and 20 today tell us they're not going to include the Dondero
21 declarations.

22 This is all terribly wrong, Your Honor. This is not the 23 way the process is supposed to work. I've seen a lot in this 24 case, but this is a new standard for chaos.

25 The changes are extensive. And I just want to point out a

1 couple of them. They now claim that Mr. Seery exercised
2 "despotic control" over the Debtor. I believe I have the 3 right to inquire as to the factual basis for that ridiculous
4 allegation.

5 They allege in Paragraph 2 of the newly-amended complaint
6 that Seery "failed to cause the Debtor to make financial 7 disclosures, as required."

8 Your Honor has been in this case since December of 2019.
9 As this Court is aware, the single only financial disclosure
10 that was not filed with the Court was pursuant to Rule 2015.3.
11 Mr. Dondero commissioned his investigation. As his 12 declarations say, he caused Mr. Rukavina and Mr. Draper to 13 complain to the U.S. Trustee's Office. Nothing.

14 They objected to confirmation. They made a motion. They 15 went to the District Court. They went to the Fifth Circuit.
16 That one single document is not a basis to say that Mr. Seery
17 failed to cause the Debtor to make financial disclosures.

18 We have the right, Your Honor, under the -- under the 19 gatekeeper, under this Court's confirmed plan -- which, by the 20 way, is worth nothing that in their newly-amended proposed 21 complaint they specifically say they do not challenge the 22 confirmation order. And I would encourage the Court to look 23 at Paragraphs 77 through 80. They don't challenge that order.
24 And that order tells us that we have the ability to inquire as 25 to the good faith nature of these allegations. It has nothing

1 to do with 12(b)(6).

2 Because these changes are so extensive, Your Honor, we 3 think we need a further change to the schedule. We believe
4 the law says that this is an amendment that requires a
5 resetting of the clock. But we don't need that much time,
6 Your Honor. We need just a brief adjustment to the schedule.
7 And we specifically propose that the objection deadline be
8 extended by one week, from May 4th to May 11th. The reply
9 deadline should be extended by one week, from May 11th to May 10 18th. And the hearing date should be extended by one week, 11 from May 18th to May 25th, or any day the following week after 12 Memorial Day.

13 The objecting parties should not be prejudiced by Hunter
14 Mountain's continued evolution of their claims. This is -- 15 and this approach is completely fair and reasonable.

16 And we want to touch just for a moment on this concept of 17 derivative standing. Again, Your Honor, we plan on addressing 18 this in detail in our submission. We shouldn't be required to 19 set forth all of our arguments before they're fully 20 formulated, pursuant to the Court's scheduling order. But I
21 do want to make a couple of points.

22 Another attorney representing Hunter Mountain filed what 23 it called the valuation motion. The first iteration, Your 24 Honor will recall, was actually filed by Doug Draper on behalf
25 of Dugaboy last summer. Then Louis Phillips represented

1 Hunter Mountain. When that motion was denied, the Stinson
2 firm came in and represented Hunter Mountain. They filed a
3 new valuation motion.

4 Here's the irony, Your Honor. Mr. Dondero and Hunter
5 Mountain and Dugaboy keep telling the Court assets exceed 6 liabilities. Assets exceed liabilities. And you know our 7 position on that, Your Honor. They may; they may not. It's 8 also irrelevant at the end of the day because of the 9 indemnification claims. And we'll talk about that more in a 10 moment.

11 But the important thing is that, if assets exceed 12 liabilities, how could anybody other than, according to Hunter
13 Mountain, Hunter Mountain have been harmed by anything?
14 Creditors, according to Mr. Dondero, are getting paid in full.
15 How could any of these allegations have harmed any beneficial
16 holder of an interest in the Claimant Trust today? According 17 to Mr. Dondero, they're going to get paid a hundred cents on 18 the dollar. Where's the damages?

19 There's no derivative claim here. This is a -- this is an 20 action by and for Hunter Mountain and nobody else. And it's 21 frivolous. And we will prove that.

22 Make no mistake. The Trust and the Reorganized Debtor has 23 a substantial outcome in this motion, and that's why I'm here.
24 I'm here because the Trust has substantial indemnification
25 obligations. Mr. Dondero seems to forget that. But those

1 indemnification obligations are real, and the Trust and the 2 Reorganized Debtor have an affirmative duty on behalf of the 3 Claimant Trust beneficiaries to make sure that baseless
4 litigation is nipped in the bud. And that's why I'm here.

5 There is no rule of law that says you let the fox into the 6 henhouse simply because the fox fabricates a story that the 7 henhouse is on fire. The henhouse is not on fire, and an 8 evidentiary hearing will prove that.

9 As for the subject at hand, it's important to remember
10 that the underlying motion is not a defendant's motion to 11 dismiss, but rather it's Hunter Mountain's motion for leave to 12 file a complaint under the gatekeeper. The burden has 13 shifted. They have the burden, not the putative defendants,
14 but Hunter Mountain.

15 The gatekeeper provision was contained in Highland's plan,
16 it was confirmed by this Court, and it was confirmed -- it was 17 affirmed by the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

18 We appreciate the Court's preliminary view that an 19 evidentiary hearing is appropriate here, and we understand why
20 there's two reasons for that: Because they put declarations
21 into the record; and more importantly, because the gatekeeper
22 provision requires it.

23 Hunter Mountain's objection to an evidentiary hearing is 24 disingenuous. Mr. Patrick, Mr. Dondero, Hunter Mountain, they 25 all know the gatekeeper analysis is not a 12(b)(6) analysis,

1 for at least the following reasons. Mr. Dondero and his 2 affiliates have been fighting the gatekeeper provision since
3 the moment it was proposed. They fought it at confirmation,
4 they appealed it to the Fifth Circuit, they objected when this 5 Court entered an order approving the gatekeeper without 6 modification, in conformity with the Fifth Circuit's decision,
7 and then going back to the Fifth Circuit to challenge the 8 gatekeeper.

9 Why would you do all of that? Why would you spend that 10 money? Why would you exhaust every potential avenue? If you
11 thought it meant nothing, if you thought it was a less 12 standard than 12(b)(6), who would do that? I think their 13 conduct proves that they know the standard is substantially
14 higher. And if they only read the Court's confirmation order, 15 they would know that for certain.

16 Hunter Mountain's own pleadings prove that they know this 17 is not a 12(b)(6) standard. If they thought it was a 12(b)(6)
18 standard, they wouldn't have specifically and expressly asked
19 the Court to look beyond the four corners of the complaint.
20 Right? That's what they did in Paragraph 1 of their motion,
21 the very first document filed here, Docket No. 3699, Paragraph 22 1: The motion is supported by the declarations of Jim 23 Dondero.

24 Why would you do that if you thought all the Court had to 25 do was look at the four corners? They'll never be able to

1 rationally explain that. They're attempting to, and I hope
2 the Court won't let them, they're attempting to withdraw the 3 declarations today because they found out afterwards that when 4 you put declarations into the record people are allowed to 5 cross-examine.

6 The Court should not allow Hunter Mountain to play these 7 games.

8 There's more. They know they don't have the goods here.
9 How do you know they don't have the goods here? Because the 10 facts are based on Mr. Dondero and Mr. Dondero alone. This 11 email that he sent to Mr. Seery in December 2017, as well as 12 this phone call or phone calls that he allegedly had with one
13 or two representatives of Farallon. This is all Mr. Dondero.
14 He had all of this information in the spring of 2021. Did he 15 bring anything to this Court's attention? No. You know what 16 he did? He sought discovery. And he filed a 202 petition in 17 Texas state court.

18 If you have the goods, if you have the evidence, bring 19 your claim. He didn't do that because he knew he didn't have 20 the evidence. He knew he didn't have the goods. So they went 21 fishing. They went fishing to state -- Texas state court, and 22 they came up with nothing. Right? It was removed to this 23 Court.

24 Your Honor will recall that in early 2022 Your Honor had a 25 hearing and remanded it back to state court. Mr. Dondero

1 filed another declaration with another version of his phone
2 call with Farallon. And Texas state court dismissed the 3 petition.

4 Hunter Mountain waits seven months. I don't know why they 5 wait seven months, but they wait seven months. They have the 6 same evidence. They don't file a complaint. Instead, Hunter
7 Mountain files another 202 petition, searching for evidence.
8 They went fishing again, and again went home empty, with Mr.
9 Dondero's third recitation of his conversation with Farallon,
10 but a second and different Texas state court said, no dice, no
11 discovery.

12 That's why they're here now, because they swung and they 13 missed twice. They have no better evidence today than they 14 did in the spring of 2001 [sic] when a decision was made that 15 they didn't have enough to bring an action. They know
16 12(b)(6) is not the standard here, Your Honor.

17 Mr. Stancil is here today on behalf of Mr. Seery. I
18 understand Mr. Stancil wants to introduce himself to the Court
19 and provide some very preliminary views on the gatekeeper
20 standard and related matters. Highland -- Holland & Knight is 21 here on behalf of the Claim Purchasers, and I'm sure they'll 22 want to weigh in.

23 In the end, Your Honor, this was supposed to be a status
24 conference. There's nothing for the Court to decide. A 25 scheduling order was in place, and we'd respectfully request

1 that it be adjusted in light of, you know, these amended
2 pleadings. I don't know why they -- you know, their amended
3 pleadings. Just look at the blackline.

4 We should have the allotted time to respond to these 5 issues, and we will do so. And I'm very confident that at the 6 completion of briefing the Court will find it not only
7 appropriate but necessary to hear evidence on this motion.

8 That's all I have, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: All right. Let me be clear. The 10 redline, should I have it somehow? It was not filed on the 11 docket. You're wanting --

12 MR. MORRIS: It was not, Your Honor, --

13 THE COURT: Okay.

14 MR. MORRIS: -- just to be clear. I think -- I
15 brought to Mr. McEntire's attention this morning that the 16 Court's prior instruction in this case was that when you were 17 going to file amended documents, when you were going to use 18 amended documents, that blacklines should be filed with the 19 Court. And a blackline was sent I believe to Ms. Ellison and 20 to all counsel of record, but it wasn't filed on the docket.
21 And I respectfully request that it be put on the docket,
22 because I think that needs to be part of the record of this
23 case.

24 THE COURT: Okay. I just -- I got from Traci the 25 redline.

1 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Just open it up. You'll see.

2 THE COURT: It was not sent to her until 12:00 noon,
3 and then she sent it to me at 1:00-something. So I've got it
4 now. All right. There it is. It's 43 pages.

5 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor? May I respond very 6 quickly to the --

7 MR. MORRIS: No. Your Honor? Your Honor?

8 THE COURT: I'll let you have rebuttal argument at 9 the end, --

10 MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.

11 THE COURT: -- after I've heard from all of the other
12 parties in interest.

13 So, who wants to go next? Mr. McIlwain or counsel for Mr.
14 Seery, Mr. Stancil? Who wants to go next?

15 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I think it's -- well, this 16 is Mark Stancil for Mr. Seery. I think it's my turn.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. STANCIL: And I'll try to be brief, Your Honor.
19 I think it'd be helpful mostly to explain just in a little bit
20 of detail why we agree completely with Mr. Morris's statement
21 that Your Honor should await full briefing on this issue.
22 Just in response to certain of the comments made earlier by 23 the Plaintiffs, I'd like to just sort of maybe level-set a 24 little bit.

25 For starters, I was confused that Mr. McEntire said he did

1 not look for cases under Barton, because Your Honor
2 specifically cited Barton in the confirmation order in 3 approving the gatekeeper provision, which I believe it's in 4 Paragraph 80 in the confirmation order on Page 58. That's 5 Docket No. 1943. And Your Honor specifically cites the 6 Supreme Court's Barton Doctrine.

7 Moreover, that followed recitation of the extensive
8 factual findings that supported the requirement of a rigorous 9 gatekeeping requirement, including Paragraph 77, which the 10 Court found as fact that Mr. Dondero and the Dondero-related 11 entities have harassed the Debtor, which has resulted in 12 further substantial, costly, and time-consuming litigation for 13 the Debtor.

14 And as particularly relevant here, the Court further found
15 that this harassment had been specifically directed at Mr.
16 Seery, among others.

17 The Court further found in Paragraph 78 that Mr. Dondero's 18 abuse of litigation "was consistent with his comments as set
19 forth in Mr. Seery's credible testimony that if Mr. Dondero's 20 plan proposal was not accepted he would 'burn down the 21 place.'"

22 So, accordingly, Your Honor, the reference to Barton is 23 very much a robust gatekeeping entity -- requirement. And 24 we're exactly today where the Court had predicted in entering 25 this order, that the costs and distraction of this litigation

1 are substantial. And if all we're doing is replicating a
2 12(b)(6) hearing on a motion for leave, we're actually not 3 doing anything to reduce, as the Court made clear, the 4 burdens, distractions, of litigation.

5 The Fifth Circuit likewise cited Barton in its order
6 affirming the confirmation order. Specifically, it also 7 explained that the provisions, these gatekeeper provisions
8 requiring advance approval were meant to "screen and prevent 9 bad-faith litigation." Well, that -- if that means only what 10 the Plaintiffs say it does, then it really doesn't do anything
11 at all to screen. There's no gatekeeping because their 12 version of what that means is always policed under 12(b)(6)
13 standards.

14 Moreover, the essence of bad faith is saying things in a
15 complaint that are not true and are easily proved to be false.
16 You know, the irony of their position is if you lard a 17 complaint up with absolute falsehoods and lies, well, those 18 have to be taken as true, and so, you know, they'll survive
19 the motion to dismiss, and so therefore we can file it. That 20 would turn the bad faith essence of the gatekeeping provisions
21 here on their head.

22 So we think this is all about Barton and its progeny. But 23 I would also provide Your Honor with maybe a 30-second preview
24 of why we think Barton does have clear support for evidentiary
25 hearings.

1           We -- I will refer Your Honor to a recent decision of the 2 Fifth Circuit in a case In re Foster, 2023 WL 20872. And that
3 was from January of this year, in which the Fifth Circuit
4 affirmed a determination that a post-effective-date litigation
5 could not be brought against the trustee. It's got a little 6 bit of a complicated history, but I would -- I'll summarize to 7 say the suit was filed in the state court, removed to federal 8 court, and then there was a bankruptcy hearing, evidentiary
9 hearing, and ultimately the Bankruptcy Court's decision was 10 affirmed.

11           And we know there's an evidentiary hearing because if we 12 look at the District Court's appeal opinion in that case, 2022
13 WL 160240 at *3, it specifically notes an evidentiary hearing
14 because they had put a factual question before the Court.

15           But as a further preview to a brief that you'll be 16 receiving from us, I think our count is up to nine circuits
17 that apply an abuse of discretion standard to reviews of 18 determinations under Barton. And of course, an abuse of 19 discretion standard on appeal makes no sense if one is 20 applying a mere 12(b)(6) standard, which, of course, is de
21 novo.

22           One brief word on Louisiana World, Your Honor, because I
23 believe the analogy they were drawing there is akin to a 24 creditors' committee standing analysis. We're not at all 25 agreeing that that level of analysis is appropriate here, but

1 I would add just a couple of things about that case.

2 First of all, that's a pre-effective-date question of a
3 committee's standing to bring a cause of action. This, we're 4 talking about repeated findings of abuse of process, giving
5 rise to a gatekeeper action that applies beyond the effective
6 date.

7 But that aside for the moment, even in the creditors'
8 committee context, those creditors also have to show that the 9 underlying action is both colorable and also that the party
10 that didn't bring it was unjustified. So the Court looks 11 beyond the mere 12(b)(6) standard in that context.

12 And I would just flatly disagree with Mr. McEntire's 13 characterization of that decision as saying that evidence is 14 not required. If Your Honor looks at Footnote 15 in that 15 decision, which is at Page 248, so we're at 858 F.2d 233 at 16 248, the court explained why "an evidentiary hearing was 17 unnecessary under the circumstances." And the circumstances
18 the court goes on to note are that the officers and directors
19 "did not object at any time to the committee's application"
20 and further found that the committee had demonstrated the 21 existence of a potential cause of action, and the officers and 22 directors neither refuted any of the committee's claims nor 23 objected to them. "Under the circumstances, we are at a loss
24 to understand just what could have been gained from an 25 evidentiary hearing on an application which drew no

1 objections."

2 So, respectfully, Your Honor, I don't think that case
3 could possibly stand for a blanket rule that evidence is not
4 appropriate in support of this, this -- even that analysis.

5 I think, Your Honor, the most important thing I'd like to 6 ask for is the opportunity, as Mr. Morris mentioned, to write
7 all this down for you instead of reading case snippets for 8 you. We're in the middle of writing our brief. And it has 9 changed quite a bit. We think the brief will be very helpful.

10 I would add, moreover, that there's no harm to be had by 11 having an evidentiary hearing. If after full briefing Your 12 Honor were to decide, you know what, this is a 12(b)(6)
13 standard -- we don't think you will; we think it's actually a 14 slam dunk to the contrary -- but the Court can, like in many 15 bench trials, decline to rely on evidence and just say, hey,
16 I'm not going to look at that, and here's -- here's where we 17 go. But at least then the hearing will be -- we'll have it,
18 and we'll have the record.

19 More importantly, we actually think there's enormous value
20 in getting this right, as the Court of Appeals has told us
21 getting it right under Barton and applying the correct
22 scrutiny is required.

23 So, unless the Court has questions, I can turn it back to 24 Mr. Morris or to Mr. McIlwain.

25 THE COURT: All right. I don't think I have

1 questions at the moment of you, but I'll turn to Mr. McIlwain
2 and see if I have any questions for the collective group at 3 that point. And of course, I'll go back to Mr. McEntire as 4 well.

5 All right. Mr. McIlwain, go ahead.

6 MR. MCILWAIN: Thank you, Your Honor. Brent McIlwain
7 here, again, from Holland & Knight for the Claim Purchasers.
8 Your Honor, I'll be brief and just echo what Mr. Stancil and 9 Mr. Morris said.

10 I guess, from a practical standpoint, though, what I'm 11 most concerned about here is the procedure by which we've 12 gotten to where we've gotten. It started with a motion for 13 leave to file this complaint on what was supposed to be three 14 days' notice. The Court denied that, rightly. That was 15 appealed, and then there was a mandamus to the Fifth Circuit,
16 all -- all of which were denied.

17 Here we are on the eve of this status conference,
18 objections are filed, new pleadings are filed. I think what's 19 being demonstrated is precisely why this Court has a 20 gatekeeper order in place. Mr. Dondero and his counsel are 21 vexatious litigators, and they're looking for any opportunity 22 to get a leg up on us. On anybody in their path, frankly.
23 And the Court should give us a reasonable opportunity to brief
24 this, should give us a reasonable opportunity to present our 25 case, and we should know what we're fighting against. Are we

1 fighting against a motion for leave that's supported by 2 affidavit or not? And if we're not, they need to file a new 3 motion or strike the affidavits on the record.

4 We can't have this ever-evolving pushing against a rope to 5 determine what exactly we're fighting against. And the Court,
6 the Court and the parties who are the subject, frankly, of 7 what are fantastical make-believe theories from Mr. Dondero
8 are entitled to know what the story is. And we're entitled to 9 know what the pleading is. And if the pleading is -- as soon
10 as the pleading is set, then we can respond.

11 So we're here to ask the Court, if we want to set a 12 hearing, let's close the pleadings as it relates to Hunter
13 Mountain. They shouldn't be even filing any further. Because 14 if they're going to file something further, we need more time.
15 And I'm okay with the schedule that Mr. Morris has outlined,
16 but, frankly, it's generous to Hunter Mountain.

17 Anyway, Your Honor, I don't have anything substantively to 18 add, but we will include a comprehensive response in our 19 responsive brief whenever that filing, whenever we can 20 determine exactly what we're responding to.

21 Thank you, ma'am.

22 THE COURT: All right. Mr. McEntire, you're the 23 Movant, you have the last word.

24 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am. Thank you. I'll try to 25 be brief here.

1 Mr. Morris says -- I wrote down his words -- if you have
2 the evidence, bring the claim. The revised --

3 THE COURT: I'm sorry, I did not -- I didn't hear
4 what you said. Could you repeat what you just said?

5 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am. Mr. Morris just told the 6 Court that if they have the evidence, bring the claim. We 7 have the evidence. And all you need to do is to look at the 8 four corners of the revised claim that is before you. And you
9 do not need to look at the Dondero declarations.

10 THE COURT: Let me --

11 MR. MCENTIRE: And we withdraw the Dondero --

12 THE COURT: Let me -- can I stop you right there? I 13 mean, --

14 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

15 THE COURT: -- the point was made by I forget which 16 lawyer now that your original motion for leave attached
17 something like 387 pages of not just Dondero affidavits, but 18 other evidentiary support. So I'd just like you to respond to 19 that.

20 MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

21 THE COURT: Why did you initially out of the gate
22 think the Court needed to consider 387 pages of attachments?
23 And --

24 MR. MCENTIRE: We never saw this, Your Honor, we 25 never saw this as an evidentiary inquiry.

1 THE COURT: But --

2 MR. MCENTIRE: That was simply background for the 3 Court. The allegations themselves can --

4 THE COURT: But stop. Why would you -- call it
5 background, evidence, whatever you want to call it -- why
6 would you submit all of that if you think I just need to look
7 at the four corners and apply a 12(b)(6) standard?

8 MR. MCENTIRE: I would suggest -- fair enough. I
9 would suggest that probably 80 to 90 percent if not more of 10 those documents are from the Court's docket. They are simply 11 docket references in the Court's docket. Very little is 12 outside the four corners of the proceedings that you've been 13 administering, Your Honor.

14 They're also referenced in the four corners of our 15 pleading. The allegations are set forth in the four corners
16 of our pleading. You don't need to go to the docket -- you 17 may, if you wish -- but you don't need to go to the docket to 18 look at those documents, because the allegations speak for 19 themselves.

20 And the revised complaint that is before you or that was 21 with our motion -- and by the way, responding to one of other
22 counsel's statements, I don't have to seek leave to amend a 23 complaint that has not been filed yet. What we're seeking to 24 do is we're seeking to bring forth to the Court a complaint
25 for your consideration as to whether we state a colorable

1 claim. And we don't need Mr. Dondero's declarations, and we 2 don't -- you don't need to go look at all those documents.
3 You can look at the four corners of our complaint and make 4 that decision.

5 And to -- so we -- Mr. Morris's invitation is we have the 6 evidence, bring the claim. That's exactly what we're doing.
7 Because if you review the claim, much of which is financial in 8 nature -- and by the way, the -- with all due deference to Mr.
9 Morris, I've heard the name Mr. Dondero probably 50 times
10 during this hearing. And we don't need Mr. Dondero to support
11 the four corners of this complaint. And if you look at the 12 complaint itself, there's no reference to Mr. Dondero -- or if 13 there is, it's very few -- in the complaint itself. And this 14 is -- Mr. Dondero is not bringing this particular motion.
15 This is a motion by Hunter Mountain. Mr. Dondero is not 16 directing the filing of this motion. This is a motion filed
17 on behalf of Dondero and -- excuse me, on behalf of Hunter
18 Mountain, and hopefully on behalf of the Reorganized Debtor
19 and the Claimant Trust.

20 And so when we hear Mr. Dondero, it's an attempt to 21 distract the Court. And what we need to do is just take a 22 step back, not have distractions, look at the complaint, and 23 under a 12(b)(6) standard, which is the appropriate standard
24 at most, I think the Court will find that we have stated far
25 more than a colorable claim.

1 I will also point out that Mr. Morris has not identified
2 one single case suggesting or supporting his position. Not
3 one single case. And counsel for Mr. Seery has really not 4 addressed the Louisiana case that we've identified in an 5 effective way.

6 THE COURT: He said -- he said --

7 MR. MCENTIRE: If he wants additional --

8 THE COURT: He said that was in a pre-confirmation
9 context, and he pointed out the recent Foster case. What is 10 your response to the recent Foster case?

11 MR. MCENTIRE: The issue here is colorability. And I
12 don't have the recent Foster case before me. The issue is 13 colorability. There's nothing in the Court's gatekeeping
14 protocols in the plan that changes the standard. The standard 15 is the same as the Fifth Circuit has articulated, and that is 16 to -- that it's not a fruitless claim, --

17 THE COURT: But the question is, --

18 MR. MCENTIRE: -- that there's some evidence.

19 THE COURT: The question is whether the hearing that 20 is required by the plan -- which said the Bankruptcy Court,
21 after notice and a hearing, will determine whether an action
22 should go forward -- whether the hearing contemplates
23 evidence. Does the Court need to hear evidence? And to me, 24 that partly turns on what my legal standard is.

25 In Foster Mortgage, --

1 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

2 THE COURT: -- the court heard evidence. And it was 3 a Barton motion, which, as I identified, I think is a pretty
4 darn analogous situation.

5 And I'll just let you know, my law clerk found a case from 6 the Third Circuit, Barton Creek, where they considered
7 evidence. Vistacare Group, 678 F.3d 218 (3rd Cir. 2012).

8 So, again, I am just here to figure out what kind of 9 hearing we set. And maybe --

10 MR. MCENTIRE: That --

11 THE COURT: Maybe it's just -- maybe it's premature.
12 Maybe I can't make that decision today because I have 13 apparently very different views on whether evidence is 14 appropriate and what my legal standard is. Maybe we need to 15 just hear the briefing --

16 MR. MCENTIRE: We will take a look at the Foster
17 case, Your Honor. And, as appropriate, I will -- we'll 18 provide counsel our views on that. He's raised the issue, and 19 we would like to be able to respond.

20 With regard to the schedule, I would suggest to the Court
21 that the schedule as it exists is appropriate and sufficient 22 because there's more than 24 or 25 days to respond to this 23 pleading. And -- number one. Number two, regardless of how 24 Mr. Morris liked to characterize the redline or the blackline
25 or whatever-line, the bottom line is the pleading has actually

1 been streamlined. We've actually dropped a claim. We dropped
2 one of the causes of action. And what has been included --

3 THE COURT: Which one was dropped?

4 MR. MCENTIRE: -- is the fraud that --

5 THE COURT: Which one was dropped?

6 MR. MCENTIRE: Fraud. We dropped fraud. We 7 reorganized the pleading with a very large introductory 8 section. And so what appears to be a lot of redline is a lot
9 of just procedural reorientation of the pleading.

10 And the other thing I would point out, we have asserted a 11 fraudulent concealment discovery rule allegation, and we have 12 enhanced our conflict allegations against Mr. Seery.

13 We have also taken advantage of the financial data that 14 just came out last week and incorporated some of that.

15 So a lot of this has occurred and a lot of our changes to 16 the pleading have occurred or additions have occurred since 17 the filing of the original motion. And so we don't believe 18 there's -- the substantive nature of our allegations have not 19 changed. We have added one or two additional declaratory
20 judgment actions, and that's it.

21 And so setting aside attempts to mischaracterize
22 expediently what may or may not be, I simply ask the Court to 23 look at what's before it and to try to kind of pierce through 24 the argument and perhaps a misdirection. Because, very 25 clearly, the case has actually been lessened and is more

1 streamlined than anything.

2 With that, Your Honor, I would simply go back and say
3 this. I don't believe we need to extend the briefing deadline
4 any further. Mr. Dondero is not necessary for this Court's 5 inquiry to determine what the appropriate standard is and 6 whether evidence is required. We believe we are correct. We 7 will brief the Foster case and take a look at it since counsel
8 has raised it.

9 And I would, again, underscore the fact that Mr. Morris
10 came in here today, talked for 30 minutes, and didn't offer
11 the Court one single case citation.

12 Thank you.

13 THE COURT: All right. Well, he did start out by 14 saying he didn't think we were going to discuss legal 15 authority today.

16 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I don't want to reopen the 17 wound, but if Your Honor wants cases, I've got -- I think I'm 18 -- I have nine I could cite at the moment for the standard of 19 review under Barton. It is not a 12(b)(6) standard. I assume 20 Your Honor will ask if she wants those today or just wants to 21 get those in our brief.

22 THE COURT: I want to --

23 MR. STANCIL: But I would hate for the record --

24 THE COURT: I want to get briefs. And in thinking
25 through what kind of mini-scheduling order we're going to

1 have, I'm going to think out loud a bit. I will just tell
2 you, I feel like this is -- deciding what is a colorable
3 claim, I just strongly am inclined to think it's a mixed
4 question of fact and law. Okay? And I am strongly inclined
5 to think the Court's best guidance is from the Barton Doctrine
6 cases.

7 And, again, I remember that Foster case from January.
8 It's been three months since I've read it and I can't remember
9 if they talked about legal standard or what kind of hearing
10 you have to any great extent. But I do know the Court in Fort 11 Worth heard evidence on that.

12 And, again, this Third Circuit case, Vistacare -- hang on.
13 The court, just in Footnote 12, the Third Circuit points out
14 evidence was presented and considered.

15 So I tend to think those are the most analogous cases, the 16 Barton Doctrine cases. So I am going to allow briefing on (a)
17 is it appropriate for the Court to hear evidence, and (b) any 18 authority you can find regarding what is the appropriate legal 19 standard. Colorable. I mean, those are actually closely
20 overlapping issues, right? I guess they're one and the same,
21 right? Because plausible, Rule 12(b)(6), you usually stick
22 within the four corners of the documents, although you can 23 take judicial notice of pleadings and the record in the case.
24 But it looks like most of these Barton Doctrine cases have 25 allowed evidence, suggesting it's at least a different

1 standard than 12(b)(6).

2 So I'm going to allow briefing on that, and we're going to 3 talk about dates. But I'm just, I'm trying to decide -- and 4 maybe I should get your comments on this, actually -- should 5 we have legal briefing on other issues besides just what does
6 the colorability standard entail.

7 Because here are a couple of things that just kind of make 8 me wonder, do we need an evidentiary hearing or not? Do we 9 have a legal question here about is all of this -- is this 10 complaint, the claims in the complaint, would these be 11 administrative expense claims that should have been asserted a 12 long time ago? Does anyone want to talk about that? I mean, 13 maybe I'm getting way ahead of myself. But the whole idea of 14 Hunter Mountain is bringing these derivatively on behalf of 15 the Reorganized Debtor. Well, maybe that negates my theory.
16 I don't know. But I just think is this something -- maybe I'm 17 all off. Maybe you all have thought about this a little more.

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, yeah, if I may.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: Number one, I hope whatever schedule the 21 Court decides upon, that we stick to the schedule and that we 22 don't have random briefs getting filed.

23 At this point, Your Honor, whether it's May 4th or May 24 11th, I think the objecting parties are going to address the 25 two issues that you've identified, whether or not this should

1 be an evidentiary hearing and the standard of colorability.
2 I'm also quite confident that other legal issues will be
3 addressed, including whether or not Hunter Mountain has a
4 legal right to even assert a derivative claim, whether or not 5 duties are owed that would support some of these causes of 6 action.

7 So there are other legal issues that we plan to address.
8 But I would respectfully request that, whether it's May 4th or 9 May 11th, you allow the objecting parties to file their 10 papers, and then whether it's May 11th or May 18th, Hunter
11 Mountain gets one and only one chance to respond in their 12 reply. That's what the scheduling order is intended to do.

13 And I heard Mr. McEntire refer to yet another so-called 14 supplement, and I don't want to chase a new brief every two 15 days. That's not the way the process --

16 THE COURT: Well, --

17 MR. MORRIS: -- is intended to work.

18 THE COURT: -- absolutely. We're going to have --

19 MR. MORRIS: And -- and --

20 THE COURT: -- a firm scheduling order. But what I
21 was thinking out loud about was would I hear or consider,
22 entertain briefing on any subject besides the legal standard
23 and do we have evidence. Because there are a couple legal 24 issues out there swirling around. I don't know if my 25 administrative expense argument/concern even makes sense,

1 because I'm not sure who's saying who was harmed here. But
2 maybe it just doesn't make sense.

3 But another thing swirling around is do we have 4 essentially complaints about claims trading? Claims trading?
5 And I don't know if we want to get into that or not, but 6 claims trading in bankruptcy is a pretty unregulated -- it's 7 just kind of between the claims trader and the transferee.
8 And so as far as do we have a colorable claims here, I'm 9 wondering if there's some legal briefing with regard to the 10 nature of the claims.

11 Thoughts?

12 MR. MORRIS: Well, --

13 THE COURT: Do we want to keep this solely legal 14 standard and evidence, or allow briefing of a broader nature?
15 I'm trying to be clear up front because I don't want one party 16 giving me a huge brief going into 14 issues if that's not what 17 --

18 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. And I would only say, Your Honor, 19 that this motion is, in certain respects, no different than 20 any other motion. A party files a motion, people are allowed 21 to object, there's a reply, and there's a hearing. And we 22 don't want that process to change one bit.

23 We think that there's a legal issue. If any objecting
24 party believes that there's a legal issue that they feel like 25 bringing to the Court's attention, it'll be contained in the

1 opposition brief. If Hunter Mountain wants to reply to that,
2 they may. If they don't, they don't.

3 We have a schedule. You know, we'll just ask you for a
4 one-week adjustment to take into account the latest pleadings
5 that have been filed. But otherwise, this is a motion,
6 there's an opposition, there's a reply, and there's a hearing.
7 And we really would prefer to just keep it that way.

8 MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I agree with Mr. Morris, Judge, 9 at least on the issue of the sequencing of the objection and 10 the reply.

11 We still believe that May 4th is an appropriate date and 12 we ought to keep the original schedule as they requested
13 because of the nature of the pleadings that are before the 14 Court, as I mentioned.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, I've been scrolling
16 through the redline. I see a lot of red. I know you say some 17 of it's just rearranged, but I see a lot of red. So I think 18 their request for a little more time is appropriate.

19 So, May 11th for objections and any briefs in support of 20 objections. May 18th for a reply of Hunter Mountain and any 21 briefing in support of the reply. And then a hearing May 25th
22 or thereafter. Speak up, anyone who disagrees with this 23 scheduling.

24 MR. MCENTIRE: Our statement, I just note it for the 25 record, Your Honor.

1           So, with regard to the evidentiary issue, obviously, if
2 the Court determines that it's going to be an evidentiary
3 hearing, which we object to and oppose, I would reserve the 4 opportunity to revisit the issue of withdrawing Mr. Dondero's
5 declarations.

6           I will tell the Court, we're prepared to do so if this is 7 not an evidentiary hearing, and we do not believe it should be 8 an evidentiary hearing.

9           THE COURT: All right.

10          MR. MCENTIRE: I believe -- I think my position --

11          THE COURT: Wait. I'm hearing argument again. Right
12 now, I'm just talking about dates.

13          MR. MCENTIRE: Understood.

14          THE COURT: And May 25th or as soon thereafter as you
15 can be heard. Any opposition to that? I mean, basically, I'm 16 just asking you to speak up, Mr. Morris's suggestion of these 17 new dates: Anything you want to say about that?

18          MR. MCENTIRE: I do believe that my corporate 19 representative is going to be unavailable on May 25th, and so
20 we would ask that we keep the original schedule.

21          MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I would propose, as an 22 alternative to the 25th, since the 26th is the Friday before
23 Memorial Day weekend, either the 30th, the 31st, or June 1st, 24 with the 31st and the 1st being ideal, so we don't have to 25 travel on the holiday weekend. I don't know what other folks'

1 schedules look like, but --

2 THE COURT: Okay.

3 MR. MORRIS: -- that seems to make sense to me.

4 THE COURT: What about May 31st or June 1st? And 5 Traci, please let me know if I'm offering something I can't.

6 THE CLERK: Judge Jernigan, will you be giving a full
7 day for the hearing? If so, neither one of those dates work.
8 You could do the day after Memorial Day, May 30th. Or Friday
9 of that week, May 2nd. I'm sorry, June 2nd.

10 MR. MORRIS: I'd prefer May 30th.

11 THE COURT: All right.

12 MR. MCENTIRE: My corporate representative -- my 13 corporate representative is not available on May 30th. He's 14 returning on the 31st from a vacation. And so, under the 15 circumstances, we would request June 2nd.

16 THE COURT: Anyone have a problem with June 2nd?

17 MR. MORRIS: Can we go -- can we go with May 24th?

18 MR. MCENTIRE: My corporate representative is out the 19 week from May 21st to May 31st.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Say again.

21 MR. MCENTIRE: I just received an --

22 MR. MORRIS: June 2nd.

23 THE COURT: Wait. Wait, wait, wait, wait. May 21st
24 through May 31st?

25 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.

1 THE COURT: Okay. I'm just --

2 MR. MCENTIRE: So, under the circumstances, we would 3 request --

4 THE COURT: I'm just letting you know, I am going to 5 set aside a whole day. Okay? I don't know positively is it
6 going to be evidentiary. What I'll do is, after the reply
7 briefs, shortly after May 18th, I'll notify people you're 8 going to be allowed to put on evidence or not.

9 But for your planning purposes, based on what I've looked 10 at right now, again, the Barton Doctrine cases by analogy, it
11 looks like the Court has discretion to hear evidence. Okay?
12 So if people want to put on evidence, they're entitled to put 13 on evidence. Okay? You don't have to. Nobody has to. But I
14 think the Court in its discretion is going to hear it.

15 So I may read the briefs and do research, and if I change
16 my mind, I'll let you all know May 19th or 20th.

17 All right. So, that being the case, it's difficult,
18 because we're trying to find a whole day just in case we need
19 the whole day. You just said your client representative, 20 which is -- who is your client representative?

21 MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. Patrick.

22 THE COURT: He's gone May 21st through 31st?

23 MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: All right. Did I hear June 2nd did not 25 work for somebody else?

1 MR. MORRIS: Correct. Yeah, Your Honor. I'll be --
2 I'll be out of the country beginning the evening of the 2nd,
3 returning the following Tuesday, so whatever date that is. I
4 think the 6th. So I'd be prepared to go on the 8th or the 9th
5 of June.

6 THE COURT: Okay. So, I'm sorry, you're out the 2nd
7 through 9th? Is that what I heard?

8 MR. MORRIS: The 2nd -- the 2nd through the 6th, but 9 I wouldn't want to do it on the 7th.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Well, --

11 MR. MORRIS: Or Thursday or Friday, June 8 or 9.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Anyone have a problem with June 8
13 or 9?

14 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, the 8th is vastly 15 superior, but I will confess the 9th is a college friend who 16 will be staying at my house with my wife and kids, and my wife
17 shouldn't be subjected to having to host him, but -- so if the 18 8th is available, I will beg for the Court's indulgence. But 19 I'll be here on the 9th if that's requested.

20 THE COURT: Okay. Everyone good, --

21 MR. MCENTIRE: I might need a note.

22 THE COURT: -- June 8th? Everybody good with that?
23 Okay. I'm hearing no objection. Traci, am I available?

24 THE CLERK: Yes. You have a Chapter 13 docket that 25 afternoon, but I am sure we can work something out with Mr.

1 Powers.

2 THE COURT: Okay. So --

3 MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor? Your Honor, this is 4 Sawnie McEntire. For the record, I do need to lodge my 5 objection, but I understand the conflicts. And so, subject to 6 my objection, we agree to that date.

7 THE COURT: All right. So we'll start 9:30 in the 8 morning, June 8th. And so I'm going to look for a scheduling
9 order that uses these revised dates that I think I've heard
10 you all will live with. May 11th for objections to the motion 11 for leave, and that will include any briefs in support of the 12 objections. And then May 18th for Hunter Mountain's reply and 13 any briefing in the reply that responds to the objections.
14 And shortly after that my courtroom deputy will let lawyers
15 know, yes, she's going to hear evidence, or no, she's not 16 going to have evidence. And the hearing will be June 8th at 17 9:30 in the morning.

18 Any other housekeeping matters while we are here? I mean,
19 these are the only pleadings that are going to be allowed.
20 How about that, among other things, as a housekeeping matter?
21 Just these pleadings, except, obviously, if we have live
22 witnesses and evidence on the 8th, you'll be bound by the 23 Local Rule that says witness and exhibit lists are due three 24 days before. Anything else that you all can think of?

25 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if I may, I greatly

1 appreciate your patience today. But I did want to just
2 inquire as to the status of the decisions on the SE
3 Multifamily HCRE matter as well as the motion to dismiss that 4 was argued back in January. Not because I intentionally or 5 unintentionally seek to pressure the Court, but I do think
6 that those decisions will be helpful one way or the other
7 resolving, you know, or getting some clarity in this case.

8 THE COURT: All right. Well, the next of those two 9 items that comes out will be the SE Multihousing matter. My 10 law clerk that's working on that is right over here to my 11 right. And we think before the end of the week, but we are 12 juggling lots of things, as you might imagine. So that one is 13 next, and I'm hesitating to give you a time estimate on the 14 other one, but it'll be next in the queue. We've had lots of 15 different adversary proceedings in other cases that we've had 16 to --

17 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

18 THE COURT: -- work on. But I think, again, SE is 19 probably towards the end of this week.

20 MR. MORRIS: All right. We appreciate the guidance,
21 Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay. She's giving me a thumbs up like 23 I'm not overpromising. You can't see her from the video.

24 All right. So, everyone clear? I want to say in the 25 strongest terms that I don't want an avalanche of pleadings.

1 Is everyone a hundred percent clear that we get the objections
2 with supportive briefing May 11th, reply with supportive
3 briefing on the 18th, and that's it? That's it. Other than 4 witness and exhibit lists, --

5 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

6 THE COURT: -- if we have evidence. Everybody clear?
7 Any questions?

8 MR. MCENTIRE: No, ma'am. Thank you. Thank you for 9 your time.

10 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. We are adjourned.

11 THE CLERK: All rise.

Proceedings recorded by electronic sound recording;

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - JANUARY 24, 2024 - 9:32 A.M.

2                   THE CLERK: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy
3 Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is
4 now in session, The Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

5                   THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. All
6 right. We have a video hearing this morning in certain 7 Highland Capital Management matters. We're not going to do an 8 appearance roll call because we've started a new, I think,
9 more efficient system where we just have people log in their 10 appearance when they come onto the video WebEx. And so we're 11 going to rely on that.

12                  All right. So we have two matters. One has been long-13 scheduled. It's Highland's motion for a bad faith finding and 14 attorneys' fees against NexPoint Real Estate Partners in 15 connection with proof of claim litigation. So we have that 16 set.

17                  And then we had an expedited motion to stay a contested
18 matter set by Highland. Highland is wanting to stay any 19 litigation on a newly-filed motion by Hunter Mountain
20 Investment Trust to sue Mr. Seery in the Delaware Chancery
21 Court or Delaware state court system.

22                  I'm thinking it probably makes sense to consider that 23 expedited motion for a stay first. Does anyone on the line
24 disagree with that sequence?

25                  MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, this is John Morris from

1 Pachulski for Highland. I don't disagree with it. I was 2 prepared to handle the other matter first, simply because it
3 was filed first, but I defer to the Court if that's the 4 Court's wishes.

5 THE COURT: Well, I'm just thinking it's probably the 6 shorter matter and there may be folks who will drop off, I
7 don't know, maybe.

8 MR. MORRIS: Oh. Then that makes sense.

9 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, I'll hear what 10 Highland wants to say first, please.

11 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Good morning, Your Honor. Before
12 I get to that, just a couple of housekeeping matters. I don't 13 mean to be the policeperson here, but there are, at least 14 showing on my screen, a number of participants just by phone
15 number. There's somebody who's identified as Participant. It
16 may be that the Court has the information as to the identity
17 of these folks, but I thought the purpose was to disclose the 18 identity of anybody who's attending this hearing.

19 So I see, for example, phone numbers beginning with 202 or 20 312. There's somebody who's listed, at least on my screen, as 21 "Participant." I don't think that was the intent of the rule.
22 And, again, I don't mean to be the policeperson here.
23 Somebody just joined with a telephone number beginning 469.

24 If I'm mistaken, you know, please just correct me, but I
25 thought the idea was that there would be transparency as to 1 who was here.

2 THE COURT: Okay. The idea is, because of national
3 rules at the Administrative Office of the Courts, post-
4 September 21, 2023, because of so-called anti-broadcasting
5 rules, if you're a participant in the case you may watch by 6 video a court proceeding, but if you're not a participant you
7 can only listen in, audio.

8 So it may be that those that you're seeing is just, you
9 know, they may have chosen to use the term Participant, but 10 they may be only audio. Of course, it seems less --

11 MR. MORRIS: Okay.

12 THE COURT: -- significant when we don't have human 13 beings taking the witness stand in the courtroom.

14 So, Mike, can you answer, are the anonymous people, are 15 they all audio?

16 THE CLERK: No. They're not. Not -- excuse me. Let 17 me do this, Judge.

18 Okay. Anyone with a number, you need to identify yourself
19 for the Court. I see a 202, a 312, and a 469 and 703. If you 20 cannot identify yourself, we will have to expel you from the 21 hearing.

22 THE COURT: And, again, --

23 (Inaudible interruption.)

24 THE COURT: Again, if you aren't identified, you're 25 going to be expelled from the WebEx. You can always call in,

1 audio, but you -- not my rule. A rule from Washington, DC.
2 So, does anyone at this point want to identify themselves?

3 (No response.)

4 THE COURT: Okay. Hearing no identification, they'll 5 be expelled. And then, again, if they want to call in, they 6 can call in, but no video WebEx.

7 All right. Any other housekeeping matters?

8 MR. MORRIS: Just one other, Your Honor. It's with 9 some very mixed feelings that I report to the Court that our 10 star paralegal, Aja Cantey, has left us. She has moved on to 11 become the head bankruptcy paralegal at Paul Weiss. You know
12 how much I rely on my paralegals. But my sadness has been 13 assuaged a bit by Andrea Bates, who joined us recently. She 14 is on the line today. She'll be assisting me in today's 15 hearing.

16 I just wanted to, you know, let the Court knows that there
17 has been a change, that we have supreme confidence in Ms.
18 Bates, who joins us from Skadden Arps.

19 THE COURT: Okay.

20 MR. MORRIS: And I just -- I just didn't want there
21 to be any surprises there.

22 THE COURT: All right. Thank you for announcing
23 that.

24 MR. SANJANA: Your Honor, I'm sorry to interrupt.
25 Your Honor?

1 THE COURT: Yes?

2 MR. SANJANA: I'm sorry to interrupt.

3 THE COURT: Who is this?

4 MR. SANJANA: Hi. This is Jason Sanjana at Reorg --
5 this is Jason Sanjana at Reorg Research. I was the 202
6 number. And I just wanted to -- I was always on audio, and 7 I'm on audio now.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MR. SANJANA: But I was on mute until now. So, --

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. SANJANA: -- I just wanted to let you know that.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. SANJANA: But it may have been appearing as on 14 WebEx for you, but it isn't.

15 THE COURT: Okay. All right. I appreciate you
16 clarifying that for us, Jason.

17 Okay. Anything else?

18 MR. MORRIS: No, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: All right. Well, we had this motion to 20 stay the contested matter of Hunter Mountain wanting relief
21 from the gatekeeper provision to sue Mr. Seery in Delaware.
22 So I'll hear what Highland has to say with regard to its 23 motion for a stay.

24 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor. John
25 Morris; Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; for Highland Capital

1 Management. We're here today on Highland's motion for a very
2 limited stay of Hunter Mountain's motion for leave to sue Mr.
3 Seery.

4 I have a short deck to use to assist in today's 5 presentation, and I would ask Ms. Bates to put that up on the 6 screen.

7 While we're waiting for that, just so it's clear, the 8 motion was originally filed at Docket No. 4013.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. MORRIS: And, you know, as an overarching theme
11 here, the basis for the stay is that the issues in the motion
12 for leave pertaining to whether or not Hunter Mountain is a 13 beneficiary under the Claimant Trust Agreement are the very 14 issues that are going to be -- that have been fully briefed
15 and that are going to be argued just three weeks from now in 16 connection with Highland's motion to dismiss Hunter Mountain's
17 valuation complaint.

18 And I think that the easiest thing to do here, Your Honor, 19 if we can -- if we could go to the next slide, is just to 20 think about what's -- what the pleadings are. What's the 21 relief that is being requested and what's the basis for the 22 relief?

23 And so you'll see -- and this is in our motion -- but I
24 find it helpful to actually focus on exactly what the 25 complaint is. The complaint that we're seeking to stay

1 includes four or five causes of action. You'll find up on the 2 screen Paragraph 35 of the proposed complaint. It follows the 3 heading Roman Numeral V, Causes of Action. And this is the 4 basis for the complaint. It's solely relying on Delaware
5 corporate law, Section 3327 of the Delaware corporate law.
6 And that law allows, you know, certain people the ability to 7 seek the removal of the Trustee.

8 As set forth in Hunter Mountain's own pleading, under 9 Section 3327, relief can be sought only if it's in accordance 10 with the governing instrument, and Hunter Mountain is not
11 making that claim here, or by a trustor, another officeholder,
12 or a beneficiary. There's no contention that Hunter Mountain
13 is a trustor, there's no contention that it's a court, there's 14 no contention that it's another officeholder.

15 Therefore, under Hunter Mountain's complaint that they 16 seek to file to remove Mr. Seery, they must be a beneficiary.
17 This Court must determine that Hunter Mountain is a
18 beneficiary. That's what their complaint says, and there 19 really can't be any dispute about that because each of the 20 causes of action uses the very highlighted language that 21 follows from the statute that they're relying upon.

22 And let's compare that with Hunter Mountain's motion --
23 complaint for valuation information. So if we can go to the 24 next slide. They have three causes of action in that lawsuit,
25 and every one of those causes of action also requires a

1 determination that Hunter Mountain is a beneficiary under the 2 Claimant Trust Agreement.

3 The first cause of action can be found in Paragraphs 82 to 4 88, and it demands disclosure of trust assets and an
5 accounting. They claim that they need the information, quote,
6 to determine whether their claimant -- contingent Claimant
7 Trust interests may vest into Claimant Trust interests.

8 You know, for me, Your Honor, that's already a -- 9 shouldn't they know they're not beneficiaries? They have 10 already conceded in Paragraph 83 that they are not holders of 11 Claimant Trust interests but merely have unvested contingent
12 Claimant Trust interests.

13 But beyond that, as the Court knows from prior litigation,
14 only Claimant Trust beneficiaries have rights to obtain
15 information, and those rights are severely limited.

16 So you have a concession that Hunter Mountain is not a 17 Claimant Trust beneficiary. You have a document that's been 18 adopted by this Court, approved by this Court, approved by the 19 Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals, that expressly gives only 20 Claimant Trust beneficiaries very limited information rights.
21 And Hunter Mountain here seeks to ignore all of that.

22 They don't care that they're not a Claimant Trust
23 beneficiary. They don't care that they're seeking more than 24 even Claimant Trust beneficiaries are entitled to. They don't 25 care that they're seeking information that they have no right

1 to receive.

2 But the whole premise of Count One is dependent on whether
3 they're a Claimant Trust beneficiary, which is the exact same
4 issue that has to be decided in the motion to remove Mr.
5 Seery.

6 The second cause of action is for declaratory judgment on 7 the value of the trust assets. That can be found in 8 Paragraphs 89 to 92. And, you know, these are their words.
9 This isn't my -- these aren't my words. This isn't argument.
10 This is just asking the Court to read Hunter Mountain's own
11 pleading. And it depends -- the second cause of action
12 depends on whether the Defendants have been compelled to 13 provide the information about the Claimant Trust assets. The 14 Court can't make a declaratory judgment unless Highland has 15 been compelled to provide the information. But for the 16 reasons I just discussed, Highland can't be compelled to 17 provide any information to Hunter Mountain or Dugaboy because 18 they're not Claimant Trust beneficiaries.

19 For the same reasons, the third cause of action, which 20 seeks declaratory judgment regarding the nature of the 21 Plaintiffs' interests, you know, there's a whole host of 22 reasons why these causes of action are deficient and why the 23 motion to dismiss ought to be granted, but I'll save that for 24 February 14th. The point now is that, just like the second
25 cause of action, they seek a determination that the Claimant

1 Trust interests are likely to vest, an advisory opinion if 2 I've ever heard of one. But be that as it may, it -- still,
3 it's an acknowledgement that they're not Claimant Trust
4 beneficiaries.

5 And so, in both cases, in both lawsuits, the central
6 question is, is Hunter Mountain a Claimant Trust beneficiary?

7 If we can go to the next slide, let's look at the 8 briefing, because there's really no dispute about this.
9 There's no dispute about it at all. Look at Highland's motion
10 to dismiss the valuation complaint. Right up in Paragraph 2,
11 we say explicitly: Despite holding only unvested contingent
12 trust interests with no rights in the Claimant Trust,
13 Plaintiffs stubbornly seek financial information regarding 14 Claimant Trust assets. This is the basis for the motion to 15 dismiss, that they're not Claimant Trust beneficiaries.

16 And it's not as if this is the only place in the pleading
17 where this is discussed. If you go to Docket No. 14 in this 18 adversary proceeding, as you can see in the footnote, there's 19 an extensive analysis that explains why Plaintiffs have no
20 rights to financial information, precisely because they're not 21 Claimant Trust beneficiaries.

22 And it's not as if Hunter Mountain says we're wrong, it's 23 not an issue. They know it's an issue, and they go to great 24 lengths to address it.

25 If we can go to the next slide. This is from their

1 opposition to the motion to dismiss. In Paragraph 10, they
2 say the Claimant Trust Agreement evidences an intent that
3 Plaintiffs become Claimant Trust beneficiaries when Claimant
4 Trust assets are sufficient to pay all lower-ranked claims in 5 full, with interest. Again, their pleading, not mine. And it
6 shows that they understand the hurdle they have to come --

7 Now, there's lots of other stuff in these pleadings
8 regarding other theories for why these claims fail, but all of 9 them fail if they're not a Claimant Trust beneficiary.

10 And I'd ask the Court to pay particular attention to 11 Paragraphs 40 to 52 in Hunter Mountain's pleading in 12 opposition to the motion to dismiss. As you can see in the 13 footnote, they have an extensive legal argument as to why
14 Plaintiffs are allegedly -- why Plaintiffs allegedly, quote,
15 have a legal right to obtain the information they seek.
16 That's the same issue that's got to be decided in the motion
17 for leave to sue Mr. Seery.

18 And what's really interesting, Your Honor, is not only do
19 they make the argument in opposition to the motion to dismiss,
20 they basically cut-and-pasted -- I credit Mr. Demo for helping 21 me out; he pointed this out to me this morning, so I want to 22 give credit where credit is due -- they cut-and-pasted the 23 exact same argument in their motion for leave to sue Mr.
24 Seery. So if you just compare Paragraphs 41 to 46 of Hunter
25 Mountain's opposition to Highland's motion to dismiss the

1 valuation complaint to Paragraphs 31 to 37 of Hunter
2 Mountain's motion for leave to sue Mr. Seery, you'll see
3 they're making the exact same argument as to why they contend
4 they're a Claimant Trust beneficiary.

5       Again, don't take our word for it. This isn't argument.
6 This is just looking at their own pleading. Right? They're 7 saying in both cases they're Claimant Trust beneficiaries.
8 They're fighting it, right? They know they have to get over 9 that hurdle, because if they don't they can't pursue these 10 claims.

11       If we can go to the next slide. You've got Highland's
12 reply. Again, extensive discussion. It's the very first 13 point in the very first paragraph, under the Trust Act,
14 whether a party is a beneficiary: Here, a Claimant Trust
15 beneficiary is determined by the plain language of the 16 governing trust -- here, the Claimant Trust Agreement.

17       And, again, if you take a look at the footnote, our reply
18 in Paragraphs 5 through 9 provides further argument as to why
19 Plaintiffs are not beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust under 20 the plan, the Claimant Trust Agreement, or under applicable
21 law.

22       So I think it's pretty clear from the pleadings, it's 23 pretty clear from the parties' positions, it's pretty clear
24 from the Delaware law that Hunter Mountain relies upon to move
25 Mr. Seery, Section 3327, that the causes of action in that

1 proposed complaint and the causes of action in Hunter
2 Mountain's valuation complaint all depend on whether or not
3 Hunter Mountain is a beneficiary under the plan, under the 4 Claimant Trust Agreement, and under Delaware law. And all of 5 those issues are going to be argued in just three weeks. All
6 of those issues are going to be decided by the Court
7 thereafter.

8 If we can go to, yeah, this next slide. So, yesterday,
9 Hunter Mountain filed its response to the motion for a stay.
10 And I just want to address some of the arguments that were 11 made.

12 You know, the first argument that they made concerned the 13 legal standard. They said, oh, Highland didn't use the proper 14 legal standard. We disagree. This isn't a motion for 15 injunctive relief. It's not a motion for a stay pending
16 appeal. It's a motion asking the Court to prudently police
17 its own docket.

18 And here's, here's the irony, Your Honor. Again, don't 19 take my word for it. Take Ms. Deitsch-Perez and her clients'
20 word for it. Because just last year, in connection with their 21 motion for a stay pending the mediation, in a pleading that 22 was filed on 4/20, they said that the Court has the discretion
23 to issue a stay. They relied on Clinton v. Jones, exactly as 24 Highland has done to seek a stay in this case. Okay? So the 25 very standard and the case citation that they criticize today

1 is the very standard and case citation that they relied upon
2 last April.

3 And here, it gets even better. Because Ms. Deitsch-Perez,
4 on behalf of her client, Hunter Mountain, joined in Dugaboy
5 and Mr. Dondero's motion for a stay. She and her client
6 personally adopted the very standard that they're criticizing
7 today. You can't make this stuff up.

8 The standard is the right standard. The Court certainly 9 has the discretion to police its own docket.

10 The second point that they make is that, you know, they'll 11 be really prejudiced without a stay. I say it's the exact 12 opposite. Everybody will be prejudiced without a stay. The 13 Court will be prejudiced. Highland will be prejudiced. Mr.
14 Dondero. Hunter Mountain. All of us will be prejudiced
15 because we will wind up litigating the exact same issue twice.
16 We will expend further resources. And of greatest concern to 17 us is that we might wind up with inconsistent results.

18 There's no question that -- I shouldn't say there's no
19 question. In all likelihood, a decision will be had on 20 Highland's motion to dismiss the valuation complaint in short
21 order, since argument is scheduled just three weeks from now
22 and the matter is fully briefed. And as Your Honor knows,
23 that -- if we prevail and the Court finds, as it's indicated
24 in prior rulings, that Hunter Mountain is not a Claimant Trust
25 beneficiary and has no rights to this information, and they

1 appeal that, that'll get assigned to a particular district
2 judge.

3 If the stay is denied and we proceed with the litigation
4 of the Hunter Mountain complaint that seeks to remove Mr.
5 Seery and we prevail on that one, that'll go to a different
6 judge, in all likelihood, since there's more than, I think,
7 two dozen judges in the District Court. They'll be on 8 completely separate tracks. And you run the -- you run the 9 real risk -- I mean, actually, it's not a real risk, from our 10 point, given the substance -- but you definitely run the risk
11 of inconsistent decisions.

12 So I know, and I'll close in a moment with some comments
13 about the wisdom of this whole exercise, but I know -- I know
14 how much Mr. Dondero, you know, wants to challenge Mr. Seery.
15 But that doesn't -- that doesn't make it the efficient thing
16 to do. It doesn't make it the fair thing to do, when we're 17 litigating the exact same issues right now.

18 The third, the third notion, the third argument they make 19 is really they attempt to rewrite their complaint. They try 20 to suggest that the issues are not identical. They suggest 21 that, you know, they've got theories of breach of fiduciary 22 duty and good faith and fair dealing. You know what, Your 23 Honor? You just have to go back to Paragraph 35 of the 24 proposed complaint. That are the legal theories of their 25 case. And to the extent that there's a notion of fiduciary

1 duty in there, it is predicated on Section 337. In fact, it's 2 predicated -- if you'll give me just one moment -- it's 3 predicated on Section 337 -- 3327(1): The officeholder has 4 committed a breach of trust.

5 It's not a stand -- there is no standalone breach of 6 fiduciary duty claim, nor could there be. Because as the 7 Court is likely aware, there's a very specific provision in 8 the trust agreement that's been affirmed by this Court, the 9 District Court, the Fifth Circuit, that specifically
10 disclaimed any fiduciary duty to anybody but a Claimant Trust
11 beneficiary. So you couldn't have a standalone breach of 12 fiduciary duty claim. It just doesn't exist.

13 So they can try if they want to characterize their claims
14 however they want. They should be held to the pleading that 15 they filed. It's the one that we'll be defending if the 16 motion for stay is denied or if the Debtor sees the light of 17 day.

18 But I do want to close with just some general observations
19 about this. Right? They want to -- they suggest, you know, 20 Highland wants to avoid the suit to remove Mr. Seery. No, we 21 don't. What we want to do is the right thing here. There is 22 no dispute that neither Mr. Dondero, Mr. Patrick, or Hunter
23 Mountain serve on the Claimant Trust Board. They have no
24 personal knowledge of anything concerning the Claimant
25 Oversight Board. And Hunter Mountain's proposed complaint

1 cites no facts concerning the governance of the Claimant
2 Oversight Board.

3 Instead, they seek to file another complaint, borne out of 4 grievances, based on rank speculation, untenable inferences,
5 and fabricated tales, lacking in common sense, frankly, that 6 is woefully ignorant of the evidence that has already been 7 admitted against it.

8 According to Hunter Mountain, the Claimant Trust Board is 9 missing in action. They have abandoned their fiduciary duty.
10 They have ceded control of the Claimant Trust to Mr. Seery to 11 do what he wishes, even if it's acting against Stonehill and 12 Farallon's own interests. Right? The complaint said, oh, Mr.
13 Seery is arbitrarily withholding distributions so he can 14 supposedly enrich himself by getting the same salary that this 15 Court approved it'll be four years ago in July.

16 You can't make this stuff up, Your Honor. The whole
17 premise doesn't make any sense at all. Why doesn't it make 18 any sense at all? Because Mr. Dondero [sic] is accountable.
19 He is fully accountable. He's accountable for the Claimant
20 Oversight Board and he is accountable to every holder of an 21 actual vested claimant beneficial interest in the trust. He 22 owes them fiduciary duties. Hunter Mountain is not in that 23 group. But Mr. Seery is most definitely accountable to the 24 people who had allowed claims and the people today who are 25 Claimant Trust beneficiaries.

1           And here's the thing. Hunter Mountain knows that the 2 Claimant Oversight Board is not missing in action. Hunter
3 Mountain knows that Mr. Seery is not acting unilaterally. How 4 does it know that? Because we had a trial last June. And 5 during that trial -- you can find this at Docket No. --

6           MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor? I -- Your Honor, I
7 regret --

8           THE COURT: Stop.

9           MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- interrupting.

10          THE COURT: Okay. What do you want to say, Ms.
11 Deitsch-Perez?

12          MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I regret interrupting Mr. Morris,
13 but this is not an evidentiary hearing and Mr. Morris is now
14 testifying to things that are not in his pleadings. It's just 15 not a fair way to proceed and the Court should not allow it.
16 Thank you.

17          THE COURT: Okay.

18          MR. MORRIS: If I may, Your Honor, just to --

19          THE COURT: Go ahead.

20          MR. MORRIS: We received a response -- we received a 21 response yesterday --

22          THE COURT: Uh-huh.

23          MR. MORRIS: -- that accused Highland of filing this 24 motion for the stay in order to avoid having this heard. I'd 25 like to -- all I'm doing is responding to the very argument

1 that they made yesterday.

2 THE COURT: Okay. You may respond. I overrule that 3 objection.

4 MR. MORRIS: Thank you. So, and this is all really
5 important, because there's evidence in the record at Exhibits
6 39, 40, and 41 that were admitted last June that show a very 7 active, responsible Claimant Oversight Board fulfilling their 8 fiduciary duties in negotiating an incentive compensation
9 package for Mr. Seery. And they want to file a complaint
10 that says the Claimant Oversight Board has abandoned its 11 responsibilities, that they're missing in action.

12 And I want to be really careful here. I want to -- I 13 want to really be transparent here, frankly. Stonehill and 14 Farallon are two of the biggest claimholders. They both hold 15 seats on the board. Does it make any sense at all that they 16 would allow Mr. Seery to do all this at their own expense if 17 they didn't think it was justified?

18 This is very important, Your Honor. No one who holds a 19 valid, vested claim in the Claimant Trust, who is a Claimant
20 Trust beneficiary, not one of them is complaining about Mr.
21 Seery's management. Not one of them is complaining about his 22 decisions concerning reserves. Not one of them is 23 complaining about whether he has or hasn't made distributions
24 or how much he's distributing. Not one of them has suggested
25 to the Court that Mr. Seery is acting unlawfully. Nobody

1 holding a claim, a vested claim in the trust is complaining
2 about anything. The only person complaining is Mr. Dondero,
3 the same person who has been the sole source of litigation
4 since the effective date.

5 He and his counsel should be careful for what they wish
6 for. If Highland's motion for a stay is denied, Highland
7 will respond to the motion and will serve another Rule 11
8 motion, just as it did when Mr. Dondero filed his ridiculous
9 lawsuit claiming that my firm actually represented him
10 personally back in 2019. Your Honor may have seen how this 11 ended. It ended with the withdrawal of that motion. And 12 this motion will head for the same result.

13 And I say all of this, Your Honor, because I want to be 14 respectful. I want to make sure everybody's eyes are wide
15 open. I want to ensure everybody understands that we're not 16 seeking a stay here because we're afraid of anything. And I
17 want everybody to know that if the stay is denied or this 18 motion is ever heard, that the first thing that's going to 19 happen is there will be a response and a Rule 11 motion,
20 because it has no basis in law and it has no basis in fact.
21 Highland seeks a stay not to avoid a hearing on the merits
22 but because it makes no sense to keep litigating the same
23 issue over and over again. We are not the same. The stay
24 should be granted.

25 Thank you, Your Honor.

1 THE COURT: I have two follow-up questions. First,
2 I think I heard you say February 14th is when the Court --

3 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

4 THE COURT: -- is set to have a hearing on the 5 motion to dismiss the complaint seeking valuation. Correct?

6 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

7 THE COURT: And --

8 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: And your motion for a stay here is 10 'Please stay hearing this latest Hunter Mountain motion to 11 file a complaint until not only this Court has ruled on the 12 February 14th matter but until all levels of appeals have 13 been exhausted on that.' Am I correct about your request?

14 MR. MORRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Okay. And my second question: When Ms.
16 Deitsch-Perez started objecting to your argument, I think you
17 were alluding to a trial this Court had on Hunter Mountain's
18 motion to sue Farallon and Stonehill as well as Mr. Seery
19 with regard to what I'll call claims purchasing activity. Is 20 that what you were alluding to?

21 MR. MORRIS: It was, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. MORRIS: And I was alluding to it for the very 24 singular purpose of pointing out that there was evidence
25 admitted into the record against Hunter Mountain that shows

1 the Claimant Oversight Board fulfilling its fiduciary duties
2 and doing exactly what this Court would expect the Claimant
3 Oversight Board would do.

4 And I point that out only to contrast that evidence,
5 which has already been admitted, with allegations in the 6 proposed complaint that somehow the Claimant Oversight Board
7 has ceded control to Mr. Seery and they're missing in action.
8 It's just -- they know it's not true. They have the 9 evidence.

10 THE COURT: Okay. And I said two follow-up
11 questions, but I actually have this additional question.
12 This was on my brain, this -- I couldn't remember what month
13 -- the trial, where I ruled on whether Hunter Mountain should 14 be granted leave to sue Farallon and Stonehill and Mr. Seery.
15 This was on my brain because, you know, I've issued a lot of 16 opinions during the Highland case, but I remembered writing
17 extensively on whether Hunter Mountain had standing back in 18 connection with that motion. And in fact, I'm going to hold 19 it up.

20 MR. MORRIS: Yep.

21 THE COURT: I wrote a 105-page opinion -- which I
22 don't know if anyone besides my law clerk and I read it,
23 because it's not entertaining -- but I wrote a 105-page
24 opinion denying Hunter Mountain -- different lawyer at the 25 time, not Ms. Deitsch-Perez -- denying Hunter Mountain leave

1 to sue what I'll call the Claims Purchasers -- Farallon,
2 Stonehill, as well as Mr. Seery. They wanted to sue Mr.
3 Seery for breach of fiduciary duty. And I had multiple 4 reasons for denial, but lack of standing was one of those 5 reasons.

6 And I went and printed the opinion yesterday to refresh
7 my memory, did I rule on this already? I thought I ruled on 8 this already. And 23 pages of my 105-page opinion deals with 9 the lack of standing of Hunter Mountain. Twenty-three pages,
10 and 85 footnotes, by the way, within that 23 pages, so it's a 11 very dense 23 pages. I went through constitutional standing
12 and I went through prudential standing, and I said Hunter
13 Mountain failed under both tests.

14 So this is a very longwinded question: What I'm hearing
15 you argue, Mr. Morris, is I'm going to rule one way or 16 another on February 14th, and then there will likely be 17 appeals, so let's don't have to reinvent the wheel. But is 18 there something about my opinion, my 105-page opinion, that 19 isn't -- I mean, have I already addressed this, or is there 20 something I missed in that opinion regarding standing? Has 21 something changed? This was August 2023.

22 So maybe it's not fair to ask you, because this was more
23 the Claims Purchasers' lawyers' fight, right, and Mr.
24 Seery's, more than --

25 MR. MORRIS: Right.

1 THE COURT: -- the Reorganized Debtor? They were
2 the ones who briefed it and argued it. So maybe it's not
3 something that you bothered to read in detail. But I feel 4 like I've ruled on this. And --

5 MR. MORRIS: So, --

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, may --

7 THE COURT: First Mr. Morris, and then I'll let you,
8 Ms. Deitsch-Perez.

9 MR. MORRIS: So, a couple of observations, Your 10 Honor.

11 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

12 MR. MORRIS: First of all, I read every word that 13 Your Honor wrote, --

14 THE COURT: I'm sorry.

15 MR. MORRIS: -- as I do for all judicial.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, right?

18 Second of all, this issue was addressed by the Court. It
19 was addressed pretty extensively. It was addressed further,
20 frankly, on -- there was a subsequent post-trial motion by 21 Hunter Mountain challenging that very finding --

22 THE COURT: The motion for reconsideration.

23 MR. MORRIS: -- and it challenged that very finding.

24 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

25 MR. MORRIS: That's right. It challenged that very

1 finding based on the same pro forma balance sheet that's at 2 -- that we're saying kind of moots this whole exercise, at 3 least the valuation proceeding.

4 But I'm sure Your Honor is not aware of it, but Hunter
5 Mountain has appealed that decision, and they are 6 challenging, you know, every word, I think, in your order.
7 Every word in seven interlocutory orders that preceded it.

8 And unlike the resolution of the issue that will be had 9 on February 14th, where Hunter Mountain's lack of beneficial
10 ownership in the Claimant Trust is front and center, that 11 issue is one of a very, very long laundry list of issues that 12 are going to the District Court. And we have no reason to 13 believe, we have no -- right? It's one of a million issues, 14 and there's no certainty at all that the District Court is 15 ever going to get to that issue. Right? We don't know how 16 they're going to -- it's just starting now. I don't even 17 think the opening brief -- I think the opening brief might 18 have been filed a day or two ago. I'll start looking at that 19 shortly.

20 But, so that's why we didn't think that was particularly 21 relevant. We did note that in our footnote. I mean, we did 22 point out that this -- that, you know, there is an appeal of 23 the Hunter Mountain decision of last June. But given the 24 girth of the appeal and the number of matters that are being 25 adjudicated, you know, I wouldn't -- we're not here saying

1 you should stay the latest Hunter Mountain motion in order to 2 get a result there, because it doesn't seem, you know, maybe
3 they address it, maybe they don't. There's no way to say
4 because it's just not -- it's just buried in there. It's 5 buried in the laundry list.

6 Another thing I'll say is that you did, you did address
7 it. You did address it pretty comprehensively. But we have 8 new pleadings, you know, with arguably some new shades of 9 argument. But the motion for leave to remove Mr. Seery is 10 based solely on Section 3327 of the Delaware law, which turns
11 right back to the terms of the Claimant Trust.

12 I'm sure that we're going to wind up at the same spot,
13 whether it's through res judicata, collateral estoppel. I
14 mean, I think we've made a number of these arguments already.
15 But the point here is, why do we have to litigate these 16 issues for a third time?

17 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

18 All right. Ms. Deitsch-Perez, I'll hear from you.

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. And Mr. Aigen is going to 20 pull up a PowerPoint.

21 Just to -- and go to Slide 2. But just to jump ahead, the 22 motion for leave is predicated on Delaware Code 3327, and it
23 has in it a number of criteria for why a trustee should be 24 removed. The issues are entirely different than in a
25 valuation proceeding, and a Delaware court may well have a

1 different view of what a beneficiary is for the purpose of 2 Delaware Code 3327 and the importance of making sure that
3 Delaware trustees are not hostile or unable to act.

4 I'm also going to jump ahead and answer one of the -- what
5 Mr. Morris added in his last slide, which was new, claiming 6 that, oh, no, it's perfectly clear that the Oversight Board is 7 on the job, so really you, as an equitable matter, you
8 shouldn't worry about this, because Mr. Seery is supervised.

9 One, that's not in his pleadings. But more importantly,
10 he's mixing apples and oranges, because the evidence in the 11 former trial had to do with approving his compensation. The 12 issue in the motion for leave to bring a suit to remove Mr.
13 Seery is the fact that the Claimant Trust structurally does 14 not -- it gives Mr. Seery complete discretion over the issue
15 of moving money into the indemnity subtrust. It's an entirely 16 different issue than the issue that was raised in the trial in 17 June, and Mr. Morris should and probably does know that, and 18 so has been -- well, his comment was misleading at best.

19 THE COURT: Okay. Different --

20 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But let's take a look at --

21 THE COURT: Different causes of action, different
22 theories, but still it boils down to whether Hunter Mountain
23 is a Claimant Trust beneficiary, right?

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Or whether it will be treated as 25 a Claimant Trust beneficiary, --

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- which is an additional basis.

3 THE COURT: I don't know what that distinction, where 4 it comes from.

5 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: The distinction is that the 6 parties cannot waive, in Delaware, the duty of good faith and 7 fair dealing. And so if Mr. Seery is taking actions that 8 prevent or attempt to prevent the Class 10 and 11 from 9 becoming beneficiaries, then under Delaware law he would not 10 be able to raise a lack of that status as a defense under 11 3327.

12 THE COURT: You're talking about the cause of action
13 --

14 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And so if --

15 THE COURT: Stop. You're talking about the cause of 16 action and defenses thereto. We're talking about standing,
17 which, as I mentioned, 23 pages, 85 footnotes, the last time
18 Hunter Mountain wanted to sue Mr. Seery and Farallon and 19 Stonehill. Some of it was constitutional standing, but a few 20 pages was standing under Delaware law, and I said not a 21 Claimant Trust beneficiary. Okay?

22 Regardless of what the causes of action and theories are,
23 Hunter Mountain has to be a Claimant Trust beneficiary.

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Or --

25 THE COURT: I've written on that extensively already,

1 and it sounds like I'm going to have to write on it one way or 2 another extensively after February 14th.

3 Why should we not stay this new motion to file a new 4 lawsuit, rather than reinvent the wheel again? Maybe it's 5 going to be different --

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, --

7 THE COURT: -- with the valuation motion versus what
8 I wrote in Summer 2023. I don't know. I haven't started
9 looking at the pleadings in depth. But what is illogical --

10 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor?

11 THE COURT: -- about this? I mean, this is, again,
12 it's about judicial resources, efficiency, parties' resources.
13 Why on earth would --

14 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: No, Your Honor, what it --

15 THE COURT: Go ahead.

16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: The reason is there's a reason
17 that the Supreme Court has a very high standard to stay other 18 judicial proceedings. So not only must the applicant make a 19 showing of likelihood of success, but the issue is whether 20 they will be irreparably harmed by not having a stay and 21 whether another party would be harmed by having a stay.

22 And here, because Highland seeks to stay this matter for 23 years, if it turns out in the end that Your Honor's decision
24 is overturned and Hunter Mountain is found to have standing,
25 it will be too late to do anything about it if the cases are

1 not allowed to proceed in tandem.

2 Parties have a right to have their cases heard. The fact
3 that there are similar issues means at some point there may be 4 res judicata or collateral estoppel that deals with it. But 5 there's not a rule that only one case can go forward.

6 Under Highland's theory, virtually Hunter Mountain could
7 not bring any claims, anymore, ever. And that's not the law.
8 Hunter Mountain is entitled to have this decided.

9 It may well be that Your Honor thinks there's no
10 difference because of 3327 and is going to rule the same way.
11 We don't think that that's correct. We think we will convince 12 you that because Hunter Mountain is moving under 3327, there 13 is a difference in standing. And in any event, that it should 14 go to a Delaware court for that determination to be made. But 15 if Your Honor stays this proceeding, --

16 THE COURT: And by the way, by the way, what does the 17 Trust Agreement say about where things get litigated?

18 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Delaware law says that you --
19 that --

20 THE COURT: I asked what the Trust Agreement said.

21 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Delaware law --

22 THE COURT: I asked what the trust agreement said,
23 because it would trump, right? A contractual agreement would 24 --

25 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: No. That's the -- exactly. It

1 doesn't trump. Under Delaware law, and we cite a case for 2 this, it's in the brief, a venue provision in an agreement
3 does not override having matters of Delaware internal affairs
4 decided in Delaware. So, no, the Trust Agreement does not
5 automatically override Delaware law.

6 And so this goes back to the Landis -- the standard for 7 stay under Landis. Who's harmed? Which harm is irreparable?
8 Because Highland seeks to stay this matter for years. And 9 Your Honor knows how long the Fifth -- the District Court and 10 the Fifth Circuit have been taking to get to rulings. It 11 could be one, two, two and a half, three, if it goes up to the 12 Supreme Court. It could be years. And by that time, Mr.
13 Seery will have continued doing the very things that the 14 complaint seeks to challenge. That's not fair.

15 I understand there may be a tiny amount of additional 16 work. Mr. Morris says this is all the same. Well, if it's 17 all the same, then he's already done the work. And if Your 18 Honor is convinced it's all the same, well, then you cut-and-
19 paste the old opinion and put it down and the parties could go
20 forward with their appeals.

21 The prior standing decision is up on appeal. The parties
22 are entitled to go forward and have -- and have their judicial 23 process. There is -- the amount of money Highland spends on 24 these matters, such as bringing -- bringing the sanctions
25 claim against Mr. Ellington and then suddenly dropping it in

1 the middle, it defies belief that their -- the real interest
2 here isn't conserving resources. If in fact these are 3 duplicative matters, then it will be easy enough to write them
4 up.

5 And because Highland waited two weeks after the motion to 6 leave was filed and only a week before its response was due,
7 is it really credible that it hasn't already largely written
8 its response? Was it so sure that this Court would do as it
9 asked that it didn't bother to respond, that it set a hearing
10 for a date after its response was due? That seems improbable, 11 Your Honor. I certainly hope that they've gotten this largely 12 written.

13 But in any event, we've given them -- they asked for and 14 we've given them an additional week to write up its response
15 to the motion to leave. I'd ask that the Court allow this to 16 proceed, because Highland simply doesn't meet the standard,
17 the very, very high standard for a motion to stay here.

18 THE COURT: All right.

19 MR. MORRIS: If I may, just a few comments, Your 20 Honor?

21 THE COURT: Very briefly. Two minutes. Because I 22 thought this was going to be a short matter, and we've been 23 going --

24 MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

25 THE COURT: -- fifty minutes. Five-oh minutes. So,

1 go ahead.

2 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. Okay. Just, it's not the exact
3 same thing. It has the exact same legal gating issue: Are 4 they a beneficiary?

5 If the Court denies the stay -- and I assure the Court, I
6 haven't written one word of this thing yet -- but if the Court
7 denies the stay, we are going to be in major litigation. We 8 reserve the right to take discovery. There will be an 9 evidentiary hearing, of that I'm absolutely certain, when we 10 get to that point, as appropriate under the gatekeeping order
11 that's been adopted by this Court. So it will be expensive,
12 it will be time-consuming, and it will ultimately yield
13 absolutely nothing for the Movants here.

14 You know, we didn't set the date for today. Ms. Deitsch-
15 Perez is exactly wrong about that. The Court set the date for 16 today. We filed an emergency motion a week ahead of time.
17 It's not like we waited until the last second. Right?

18 So I just, I take offense with all of that. I take 19 offense to the reference to the Ellington sanctions motion.
20 That got resolved because Mr. Ellington finally said he wasn't 21 going to sue Mr. Seery. Had he done that when we asked him a 22 hundred times before that, we never would have filed the 23 motion. He refused to do it. That's why the motion was 24 filed. And it was resolved -- not withdrawn, but resolved --
25 only after Mr. Ellington and his lawyer finally said they

1 weren't going to sue Mr. Seery.

2 So, you know, facts matter, Your Honor. Facts are very
3 important to me. And I want to make sure that the factual
4 record is a hundred percent accurate.

5 The fact of the matter is, at the end of the day, the 6 Court should grant the stay. You know, if Hunter Mountain
7 really wanted Mr. Dondero [sic] out, they should have included
8 it in their complaint last summer and they shouldn't be 9 allowed to come up with new claims that aren't even in the 10 proposed complaint that's on file right now. There is no
11 claim for breach of the duty of good faith and fair dealing.
12 There isn't. And so they don't get to come here and argue
13 against the stay based on a pleading that has yet to be filed.

14 The Court should grant the stay.

15 THE COURT: All right.

16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor?

17 THE COURT: No. I'm done. I've heard enough.

18 I am going to grant a stay. It's going to be slightly
19 different from what is requested here. I'm going to grant a 20 -- well, I'm going to grant a stay on this newest HMIT motion
21 to sue Mr. Seery until at least the time I rule on the 22 valuation motion, the motion to dismiss the valuation
23 complaint. Okay? So it's argued February 14th. We know how 24 this case works. I get voluminous submissions. I try to 25 carefully go through them and make a careful ruling. And so

1 will I get a ruling out in April? That's just a wild guess,
2 okay, but it's probably a reasonable guess.

3 So what I envision doing is having something like a status
4 conference/scheduling conference shortly after I rule on the 5 motion to dismiss the valuation complaint and decide, are we 6 going to continue the stay to let maybe any appeals -- in 7 fact, I'll probably set a status/scheduling conference shortly
8 after the deadline for a notice of appeal. And we'll see, is 9 there an appeal pending, what's going on big-picture, should I
10 continue the stay? Okay? So I'm not saying it's going to be 11 a two- or three-year stay, but I'm saying it's going to be at 12 least an until-later-this-year stay, and we'll see where 13 things stand in this case.

14 Now, let me give you a couple of reasons. I don't think
15 the four-prong TRO standard test applies here: Irreparable 16 harm; likelihood of success on the merits; balancing the 17 parties' interests; the public interest. I don't feel the 18 need to make that evaluation here because I do think this is 19 just policing the Court's own docket, which of course any 20 court has the discretion to police its own docket, in the 21 interest of judicial economy and reducing expense. And so I 22 am going to elaborate on that and why I'm exercising my 23 discretion as such.

24 As I've alluded to a couple of times, August 25, 2023, 25 Docket Entry No. 3903, this Court issued a 105-page opinion in

1 what I would call a very similar context, if not squarely down
2 the middle of the fairway the same context. And the context,
3 for the record, was Hunter Mountain, through a different
4 attorney -- not Ms. Deitsch-Perez, a different attorney --
5 filed a motion for leave to sue Mr. Seery and Farallon and 6 Stonehill, Claims Purchasers, for different causes of action.
7 One of them was breach of fiduciary duty by Mr. Seery, I note,
8 but there were different causes of action.

9 As I've noted here, and I'm saying this for the record in 10 case there's an appeal of this order granting stay today, in 11 the 105-page opinion that I issued denying Hunter Mountain
12 leave to file the lawsuit against Mr. Seery and the Claims
13 Purchasers, I did spend 23 pages, dense pages with 85
14 footnotes, explaining why I thought in that context Hunter
15 Mountain has no constitutional standing as well as no
16 prudential standing to sue Mr. Seery and the Claims 17 Purchasers.

18 I note that the prior lawyer for Hunter Mountain, not Ms.
19 Deitsch-Perez, gave very little oral argument or written
20 argument on that. In fact, as I remember, he said, The person
21 aggrieved standard is what applies and we're a person
22 aggrieved.

23 And the Fifth Circuit as well as the U.S. Supreme Court
24 seem to love the topic of standing. Okay? And I thought we 25 needed a very thorough discussion of standing, okay, because I

1 thought, more likely than not, that's going to be the first
2 issue -- of course, because it could be bear on subject matter
3 jurisdiction -- that's going to be the first issue that a
4 District Court, the Fifth Circuit, even the U.S. Supreme Court
5 is going to focus on. So, 23 pages, 85 footnotes.

6 Now, there may be more or different things to say when we 7 have the motion to dismiss on the valuation complaint. Okay?

8 (Echoing.)

9 THE COURT: Please turn off your speakers, whoever 10 that is.

11 I will note that Delaware law, that would be the narrower
12 question of prudential standing, right? And in my 23 pages, I 13 actually spent more time on constitutional standing than 14 prudential standing. And as Mr. Morris notes, the 105-page
15 opinion is chock-full of other stuff besides standing. Okay?
16 Colorability of the claim that Hunter Mountain wanted to bring 17 and what is the standard the Court should apply under the 18 gatekeeping provision. Okay? So, lots of other things.

19 Yes, it may be years before a higher court rules or 20 different courts rule. And it may be slightly nuanced and 21 different for the valuation thing. But I don't know why
22 anyone would reasonably think I would go down this trail a 23 third time for the same party. Okay? I went down it ad
24 nauseam August 25, 2023. It sounds like I'm going to go down
25 it ad nauseam again February 14th and thereafter, as I decide

1 what to do.

2 As far as abuse of discretion, I think my bosses -- the 3 District Court, the Fifth Circuit, the Supreme Court -- would 4 want to slap my hand if I didn't grant the stay. It's not 5 just judicial economy to me, it's not just efficiency of the 6 parties, but it's my bosses. It's the District Court, the 7 Fifth Circuit. Why are you going to make us look at this yet
8 again? Okay?

9 Maybe I'll have something different to say. Maybe I'll 10 have something more to say in connection with the valuation 11 motion. I don't know. And that's why I'm leaving open the 12 possibility that we're going to have a status conference after 13 I've ruled, after notices of appeal may have been filed, and 14 we'll figure out, do I go forward with this motion for leave?
15 I'll have a better idea, is there something new and different
16 at this point?

17 But there is no way any responsible court would go forward
18 a third time considering Hunter Mountain's standing under 19 Delaware law, under constitutional law, as a Claimant Trust
20 beneficiary. Okay? There's no way any reasonable court would 21 do that, with it twice having been teed up. Okay?

22 So that is the ruling of the Court. We will put it on our 23 tickler system to set a status conference on whether to 24 continue a stay in place after I've ruled on the valuation
25 motion to dismiss.

1 All right. Please upload an order, Mr. Morris, that 2 reflects that.

3 MR. MORRIS: Okay. And just so there's no ambiguity,
4 any further briefing on the motion for leave is also
5 suspended? Is that right?

6 THE COURT: Correct. Yes. Correct. And, again, --

7 MR. MORRIS: All right.

8 THE COURT: -- I just want to say one more thing,
9 actually, for the record. Not whining to anyone, but it's 10 going to sound like whining. I checked yesterday, and I'm not 11 even sure my numbers are perfectly accurate, it may be more
12 than this, but I counted in the Highland case I have issued 13
13 -- well, there are 13 published opinions from this Court. And 14 then if you go back to Acis, which was, one might say, a 15 precursor to Highland, there were five more published
16 opinions. And that's not even counting Reports and 17 Recommendations to the District Court, of which there are many 18 more, probably close to a dozen. And then I've heard -- I've 19 heard; I've never checked it -- that there were something like 20 55 appeals. And that was I think about a year ago someone 21 announced that in court.

22 So, again, I mean, this is not just about the parties,
23 although I care about the parties and the lawyers. This is 24 about judicial efficiency. This is overwhelming to the 25 system, so to speak. Okay? And so, again, I think it would

1 be an abuse of discretion for sure if I didn't grant the 2 motion to stay.

3 All right. I've said enough. And with that, we'll go on 4 to Highland's motion for a bad faith finding and attorneys'
5 fees against I call it HCRE, but I guess it's changed its name
6 a long time ago to NexPoint Real Estate Partners, LLC. All
7 right. Mr. Morris, are you presenting that?

8 MR. MORRIS: I am, Your Honor. Thank you very much.
9 John Morris, Pachulski Stang, for Highland.

10 We're here on this hearing, Your Honor, to argue 11 Highland's motion for a bad faith finding for an award of 12 attorneys' fees in connection with the proof of claim and the 13 prosecution of the proof of claim by HCRE.

14 The motion was originally filed at Docket 3851, and if Ms.
15 Bates can put up the next deck, I'll walk the Court through 16 this. This is pretty straightforward.

17 The starting point, the starting point here, Your Honor, 18 as it ought to be, is HCRE's claim. And if we could just,
19 yeah, go to this page. What I've put up on the screen here,
20 or what Ms. Bates has put up on the screen, is a slide that 21 shows two pieces of evidence, two documents that were admitted
22 into evidence in this matter. The first is HCRE's proof of 23 claim, and the second is HCRE's response to Highland's
24 objection to that proof of claim. And these documents are 25 critical (chiming) because it sets forth the entire basis for,

1 you know, for this litigation.

2 In the proof of claim, HCRE said, among other things, that
3 it contends that all or a portion (chiming) of Highland's
4 interest in an entity called SE Multifamily, quote, does not
5 belong to the Debtor. Or may be property of (garbled).

6 So this is the proof of claim. They're saying all or a
7 portion of Highland's interest in SE Multifamily isn't
8 Highland's. Right? But Your Honor knows that that's just a 9 statement without regard to how they get there. A proof of 10 claim -- and this is really simple, and it's why this motion,
11 I think, is pretty simple -- a proof of claim has to have some 12 basis in the law. Somebody could have a breach of contract.
13 Somebody could have a slip and fall. There could be a 14 personal injury case against the Debtor. There could be a 15 claim for breach of fiduciary duty or other tortious conduct.
16 But there's got to be a legal theory on which a claimant is 17 seeking to recover against the Debtor.

18 And the claimant here, HCRE, set forth those legal 19 theories in their response. And that's the box that's below
20 it. And it's based on the very agreement that's at issue, the 21 Amended and Restated (garbled) LLC Agreement for SE
22 Multifamily. It says, After reviewing the documentation, 23 HCRE, quote, believes the organizational documents relating to 24 SE Multifamily Holdings, LLC improperly allocates the 25 ownership percentages -- so that's the issue -- of the members

1 thereto due to mutual mistake, lack of consideration, and 2 failure of consideration. And these are the legal theories.
3 They claim to reform, rescind, or modify the agreement.

4 Again, not argument, don't accept anything I say, just 5 accept what HCRE says. These are their pleadings. They told
6 the Court that they believed that Highland didn't have a right
7 to its interest in SE Multifamily. They told the Court that 8 they believed the document improperly allocated the 9 percentages. They told the Court that Highland provided no
10 consideration. They told the Court that they had claims for 11 reformation, to rescind the agreement, or to modify the 12 agreement. That's the whole basis for this litigation.

13 If we could go to the next slide. Because let's just look 14 at some very simple terms of the agreement. This is 15 unambiguous. Right? And this is an agreement that's drafted
16 by Highland, by HCRE, all under Mr. Dondero's control.
17 Everybody's rowing in the same direction. The testimony here
18 was consistent, not only among Highland and HCRE witnesses
19 but also, and very, very importantly, BH Equities. Right?
20 We haven't spent a lot of time talking about BH Equities, but 21 that evidence is in the record. BH Equities testified up, 22 down, and sideways that the agreement was consistent with its 23 intent, that it was fully aware that Highland had only put in 24 $49,000, that Highland was getting a 46.0 percent interest.
25 Right?

1 But in addition to BH Equities, Mr. Dondero, and we'll
2 talk about this more in a moment, and Mr. McGraner testified
3 to the same thing. And how could they not? Just look at 4 these provisions. The first box is Schedule A to the 5 agreement. It says, right, in contrast to the $291 million
6 that was credited to HCRE Partners -- they actually didn't 7 put in any of that; that's what the testimony showed -- 8 Highland actually put in $49,000. But these are the 9 percentages that they wrote.

10 And Your Honor will recall that in the 48 hours before
11 the document was signed -- this is evidence in the record;
12 I'm sorry I don't have citations to the specific exhibits --
13 but there's a back-and-forth in emails between Freddy Chang,
14 I believe it was, and BH Equities about Schedule A and about 15 the contributions.

16 And so none of this is an accident. And it's not just 17 stated in Section -- ii Schedule A. It's set forth --
18 Highland's interest was set forth in Section 1.7, in Section
19 6.1A, in Section 9.3E, which is the liquidation provision.
20 Right? This was the waterfall in the event of a liquidation.
21 So these are the plain, unambiguous, uncontested terms of the 22 agreement that everybody agreed to when the document was 23 signed.

24 We can go to the next slide.

25 Despite that, Mr. Dondero swore under the penalty of 1 perjury that the proof of claim was true and correct.

2 Remember, the proof of claim said that this really wasn't
3 Highland's interest in SE Multifamily. I don't understand
4 how he could do that, given the plain terms of the agreement.
5 But his testimony was short and precise and unambiguous. It
6 can be found at Pages 55 to 59. It's quoted there -- it's 7 cited there in the footnote. If you just read those four 8 pages, Your Honor.

9 And Your Honor cited to this pretty extensively on Pages
10 4 and 5 of the Court's decision in this matter. I've 11 summarized just some of the Court's findings. It's not the 12 Court's findings; it's Mr. Dondero's admissions. He didn't 13 -- he didn't personally do any due diligence of any kind to 14 make sure that Exhibit A was truthful and accurate before he 15 authorized it to be filed. He filed it.

16 He didn't review or provide comments to the proof of 17 claim or Exhibit A before it was filed. He didn't review the 18 applicable agreements or any documents before signing the 19 proof of claim. He had no idea whose -- where the genesis of 20 the proof of claim was, who at HCRE worked with or who 21 provided information to Bonds Ellis to allow Bonds Ellis to 22 prepare the proof of claim. He had no information about what 23 information was given to Bonds Ellis to formulate the proof
24 of claim. He didn't know whether Bonds Ellis ever 25 communicated with anybody the real estate group regarding the

1 proof of claim.

2 He also testified that he never specifically asked
3 anybody in the real estate group if the proof of claim was 4 truthful and accurate before he authorized it to be filed.
5 He didn't check with any member of the real estate group to 6 see whether or not they believed the proof of claim was 7 truthful and accurate. He failed to -- he admitted he failed
8 to do anything to make sure the proof of claim was truthful
9 and accurate before he authorized his electronic signature to 10 be affixed and have it filed on behalf of HCRE.

11 That's bad faith, Your Honor. You can't rely on some 12 vague process or say 'I'm just relying on others,' because if 13 that's the case, that's what I -- that's we said in our 14 reply, that's the very important person defense, right? He's 15 too busy, he just relies on others, he just signs stuff, and 16 he's got no obligation to do anything. How do you sign
17 something under the penalty of perjury in that milieu?

18 If the Court doesn't grant our motion here, it will be 19 sending a signal that people can sign proofs of claim with no
20 knowledge of the substance of the claim, with no knowledge of 21 whether the claim is valid, with no knowledge as to whether 22 or not the Court should take the time to adjudicate a
23 disputed claim.

24 That's what will happen. Right? That will be the 25 signal, that very important people are absolved of the 1 responsibility of doing basic due diligence before signing a

2 proof of claim.

3 I think the signing of the proof of claim, the filing of 4 the proof of claim, given what we know now, in particular
5 what we know now, is bad faith.

6 And I know that HCRE in their opposition said, oh, well,
7 you know, Mr. McGraner did stuff. I would urge the Court to 8 look at Pages 109 to 112 of the transcript, because Mr.
9 McGraner kind of distanced himself from the proof of claim.
10 He said he didn't authorize it, he didn't approve the filing.
11 He said he never gave any documents to Mr. Sauter. He never 12 discussed the proof of claim with Mr. Dondero or anybody at 13 Bonds Ellis. He didn't provide any comments to the proof of 14 claim. He deferred to counsel. He didn't know if Mr. Sauter 15 gave any documents to Bonds Ellis. He never gave the 16 information to Bonds Ellis. He never discussed it with 17 anybody but D.C. Sauter. Right?

18 So the two people, the only two people who are authorized
19 to act on behalf of HCRE did absolutely nothing to make sure
20 that there was at least a modicum of credibility, at least 21 some basic level of diligence, at least some good-faith basis
22 to assert that this interest that Highland has in SE
23 Multifamily could be subject to challenge. Right? They did 24 nothing.

25 If we can go to the next slide.

1           And then, as Your Honor will recall, they tried to 2 withdraw the proof of claim. Right? That in and of itself
3 we contend was an act of bad faith, and it was an act of bad
4 faith for multiple reasons. There's no dispute that they 5 tried to -- they filed their motion to withdraw the proof of 6 claim immediately after taking Highland's depositions but 7 immediately before I was about to depose their witness. It's 8 a naked attempt to try to procure a patently unfair
9 litigation advantage, particularly in light of the fact that 10 HCRE was simultaneously trying to preserve its claims for 11 another day.

12           If they had just -- and Your Honor made this point at the 13 hearing, right? Just say unequivocally you're done with 14 this. They couldn't do it. They tried to save it for 15 another day.

16           And so the withdrawal of -- a motion to withdraw the 17 proof of claim we're not saying is always bad faith. Look at 18 what I say in the title of this slide. Under these 19 circumstances, when you file it after taking discovery but 20 before subjecting your people to discovery, and when you try
21 to preserve your claims for another day, the Court properly
22 denied that motion for leave to withdraw the proof of claim.
23 And it stunk. And Your Honor I think rightly questioned
24 whether or not this was, you know, a threat to the integrity
25 of the bankruptcy system and the claims process, whether or

1 not this amounted to gamesmanship.

2 But it didn't end there. In closing argument, HCRE
3 persisted with its attempt to try to preserve their claim.
4 This is bad faith. They continued down the exact same path.
5 They told the Court in closing argument at Pages 180 to 181
6 of the transcript, quote, They want you to make findings that 7 we can't raise any of these other issues, decisions, et
8 cetera, going forward. That's not proper on proofs of claim.
9 Going forward. They wanted to preserve this issue for the 10 future.

11 But this issue is their proof of claim. This issue is 12 based on the legal theory set forth in Paragraph 5 of HCRE's
13 response to the objection, the response that says they have 14 claims for rescission, to rescind, to modify the agreement.
15 Right? That's the whole legal theory of it. But they wanted
16 Your Honor to simply say the proof of claim is gone but you
17 all can go pursue another day the legal theories that 18 underlied the entire process.

19 That's (garbled), Your Honor. That's what this is all 20 about, the claims process. You have a claim. You have legal 21 theories on which the claim is based. If your claim is 22 denied or if the objection to the claim is sustained, done.
23 They wouldn't have it. It's why the proof of -- it's why the 24 motion withdraw was denied and why the Court should find that 25 their attempt to preserve these claims for the future is bad

1 faith.

2 And the interesting thing, Your Honor, is this is
3 (chiming) one of the very few rulings in the case that Mr.
4 Dondero didn't appeal. I think even he acknowledges, like,
5 like, this is just not -- that he didn't -- he didn't want
6 this seeing the light of day in the District Court.

7 If we can go to the next slide. And this really 8 amplifies the bad faith in filing the proof of claim. It's 9 the testimony about the nature of the claim. And again, I --
10 we talk about this exhaustively in our papers, and so I 11 haven't cited to everything, but this is just some of the 12 nuggets from, you know, the testimony that's out there.

13 Right?

14 Consideration. Mr. McGraner testified that Highland 15 bankrolled HCRE's business. Your Honor can take judicial 16 notice that Highland loaned millions of dollars to HCRE.
17 Right? Those are part of the Notes Litigation that HCRE is 18 now strenuously trying to avoid repaying in its appeal.

19 Right? They're appealing that to the Fifth Circuit and 20 they're trying -- right? We bankrolled the business, we 21 shouldn't have our interest, and they don't want to pay the 22 money back. It really -- this is chutzpa, where I'm from.

23 Right?

24 Going on to the question of consideration -- because,
25 again, this is in Paragraph 5 of the pleading -- there's the

1 admission that HCRE didn't have the financial wherewithal to 2 close on the Key Bank loan by itself and it needed Highland
3 to provide capital -- flexibility by co-signing on the loan.
4 Right? Couldn't have done the deal without Highland, but 5 they want to take the interest away from us. Bankrolled the 6 whole project, but they want to take the deal away from us.

7 They include Highland in order to provide tax benefits,
8 but they want to take the deal away from us. Both Mr.
9 Dondero and Mr. McGraner were very clear that tax benefits
10 was one of the reasons Highland was in this. And if Your 11 Honor will recall, in the closing argument, I pointed Your 12 Honor to just one of the tax returns that showed something 13 like $30-plus million in income was allocated to Highland in 14 order to shelter it from taxes. Right? I don't know that 15 there's anything illegal about it. I take no opinion about 16 it. Right? I have no view on it. But The Little Engine
17 That Could that put in the $49,000 was suddenly stuck with 18 $31 million of income. I'll wait to hear an explanation as 19 to why Highland was included in the deal and whether taxes
20 were a part of it.

21 Mr. McGraner also testified just --

22 (Audio cuts out.)

23 THE COURT: Okay. What happened?

24 MR. MORRIS: (begins speaking)

25 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Morris, we lost your sound

1 for about 20 seconds, so if you could kind of repeat the last 2 20 seconds.

3 MR. MORRIS: Sure. So I'll try and summarize. On 4 the consideration piece, they know there was consideration.
5 They pursued a claim based on lack of consideration, but in 6 the first point there's an admission about Highland having 7 both bankrolled the whole operation, and in the second point
8 there's the admission from Mr. McGraner that the deal would 9 never have gotten done without Highland's financial 10 wherewithal. And Mr. Dondero and Mr. McGraner admitted that 11 there were tax benefits. And Your Honor saw those tax 12 benefits, right? In my closing argument, I pointed to just 13 one of the tax returns showing that Highland -- I called it
14 The Little Engine That Could, who put in the $49,000, somehow 15 got -- somehow got $31 million of income assigned to it.
16 Right?

17 This was not an accident. Highland was there for tax
18 reasons. Again, I take no view as to the propriety of that 19 at this time, but the notion that there was no consideration
20 is just -- it was ridiculous then, and their admissions show
21 that it was ridiculous.

22 The next bullet point shows Mr. McGraner's admissions
23 that on March 15, 2019, the deadline was approaching to amend 24 the original LLC agreement to admit BH Equities and to have 25 it retroactive to the prior August. He admitted that he

1 reviewed the draft Schedule A, which is what we looked at,
2 right? It showed $49,000 and a 46.06 percent interest for 3 Highland. He saw that it unambiguously showed Highland
4 making a $49,000 contribution, getting the 46.06 percent
5 interest. He believed Schedule A reflected his understanding
6 of the terms between Highland and HCRE, and he knew of no
7 obligation that Highland had to make any future capital
8 contributions. I've cited to all of the testimony very 9 specifically.

10 Mr. McGraner admitted that the allocation of the interest
11 in Schedule A was consistent with the parties' negotiation of 12 the waterfall and other provisions in the amended LLC
13 agreement, that HCRE understood it accurately reflected the 14 parties' intent.

15 How do you (garbled) proof of claim saying you have to 16 reform, rescind, modify the agreement, when all of this is in 17 your head? How do you do that in good faith? They both 18 admitted that Schedule A reflected the parties' intent at the 19 time it was signed.

20 It's the last bullet point that's really the head
21 scratcher. What happened is Mr. Dondero, who also caused 22 Highland to file for bankruptcy, didn't like the consequences
23 of his decision. Nothing happened here, as I said in my 24 closing argument, that doesn't happen in every bankruptcy
25 case. The assets of the Debtor are marshaled for distribution

1 to the creditors. Highland's interest in HCRE is an asset of 2 the estate. HCRE challenged Highland's title to that asset.
3 That's what this litigation is about. And the only reason
4 they challenged the title is because they didn't like the 5 consequences of Mr. Dondero's decision to file Highland for 6 bankruptcy.

7 That's not good faith. If that were good faith, every 8 equity owner of every business would be able to claw back
9 everything they'd given to a company, every loan that they'd 10 given to a company, every -- like, they can't do that. That's 11 not what the law -- there's no basis for that theory.

12 Finally, just deal with the attorneys' fees issues
13 quickly. You know, the challenges to our fees are both petty
14 and baseless, frankly. They said we should have avoided
15 discovery. I don't know how you say that. We shouldn't have 16 taken depositions. They took depositions, and we shouldn't 17 have done that? We should have gone to trial where they had 18 discovery and we didn't? That doesn't make a lot of sense to 19 me, and I can't imagine it would make sense to any objective
20 participant.

21 They claim our legal fees are per se excessive. The total
22 legal fee is less than five percent of the value of Highland's
23 interest in SE Multifamily, not according to us but according 24 to Mr. Dondero's family trust, Dugaboy. They told this Court
25 in -- on June 30, 2022, I think, in the very first motion for

1 information, that Highland's interest in SE Multifamily was
2 $20 million. So we spent less than five percent of the value
3 of that to get good, clean title. I don't think that's 4 excessive by any means, particularly with the amount of hoops
5 we were required to jump through.

6 Unidentified timekeepers. They say three people were not 7 identified. It was a de minimis amount of money. We've 8 addressed that in the brief.

9 Travel time. You know, again, an even more de minimis --
10 I think that's right -- a more de minimis amount of money, 11 less than $10,000 for me and Ms. Winograd to go to Dallas. We 12 billed out at half-time. They admit it. And ironically, you 13 know, our compensation for nonworking travel time was part of 14 the agreement that was authorized when Mr. Dondero was still 15 the head of Highland. I don't know how you criticize that 16 today when it's part of Mr. Dondero's own agreement.

17 Finally, they take issue with Mr. Adler's relatively 18 modest invoice. I think he charged $700 an hour. He 19 (garbled) 30 hours or something in August 2022 as we were 20 preparing for depositions. Mr. Dondero and Mr. McGraner have 21 admitted that tax issues were a driving force in including
22 Highland in this. And if you look at the Amended and Restated
23 LLC Agreement in the section that comes after Section A, there
24 is a multipage tax analysis that I can't possibly get my head
25 around. I'm not a tax lawyer. And we needed some help to 1 understand kind of what the tax implications were.

2 I think, under the circumstances, the need for the tax
3 services was completely warranted, and the amounts here are 4 relatively modest to the whole. You know, it's 30-some-odd
5 hours in connection with depositions at a $700 hourly rate,
6 when my firm doesn't provide tax advice.

7 So, you know, Your Honor, I think I'm done. I think
8 there's multiple reasons for finding the bad faith here. This 9 proof of claim should never have been filed. You know, if 10 they wanted to withdraw it, they shouldn't have taken our 11 depositions and they should have given us a clean bill of 12 health without trying to reserve some right to bring future
13 challenges to our title to the asset.

14 And once we got to the trial, it became clear that there's 15 absolutely no basis for the claim, that through the admissions
16 there is no question that the document reflected the intent of 17 parties. Highland provided more than adequate consideration
18 for its interest. It continues to hold its interest today.
19 It continues, you know, to receive its allocation of income.
20 And there's a reason for all of that.

21 And for those reasons, Your Honor, I think the time has 22 come to start holding people to account here. You know, we 23 did it, as I mentioned, with the Rule 11 on the motion for 24 leave to sue us. We were able to get rid of that. I think 25 the Court really needs to try to bring some discipline to this

1 process instead of allowing people -- instead of allowing Mr.
2 Dondero and those working at his direction to just file things
3 irresponsibly, without basis of fact, you know, just -- just 4 because.

5 It's not a thing. You know, that's not what this Court
6 ought to be doing. It's not what I ought to be doing. It's 7 not what I want to be doing, I'll tell you that right now.
8 And so I think there's a real need for a bad faith finding in 9 this particular case. I think there's a real need for there
10 to be consequences of putting the Court and the Reorganized
11 Debtor through this process. Because this -- if Mr. Dondero
12 had only searched his own memory, if he had only asked Mr.
13 McGraner, hey, did the agreement actually reflect the intent
14 of the parties, how could this ever have gotten filed? That's 15 all he had to do, was ask himself the question. All he had to 16 do was ask Mr. McGraner. Right? We wouldn't be here, Your 17 Honor.

18 And for those reasons, we ask the Court to find that this
19 whole filing and prosecution of this claim was in bad faith
20 (chiming), that we should get an award of attorneys' fees.

21 THE COURT: All right.

22 MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

23 THE COURT: A couple of follow-up questions. Thank 24 you. I think you just answered this question with your 25 closing comment, that you think there was bad faith in both

1 the filing and the prosecution.

2 So, as I understand it, the filing of the proof of claim
3 itself you say is bad faith because you say it was a baseless
4 proof of claim, and it was signed without any due diligence on 5 the part of the person who signed it, Mr. Dondero? And then 6 we obviously had months of prosecution, if you will,
7 litigation, after Highland's objection. And then the timing
8 of the withdrawal I would say is kind of a third thing I hear
9 being argued, correct?

10 MR. MORRIS: Yeah. I would just summarize it this 11 way. The filing of the proof of claim itself was bad faith
12 for all of the reasons that I've stated. The motion to 13 withdraw under these circumstances was also bad faith because 14 they did it after taking discovery and tried to protect their 15 own witnesses from discovery while trying to preserve the 16 claims. They wanted to assert them at another day. Counsel
17 said it in his closing. You know, going forward. That's what 18 he said. And then the third thing is the substance. There is 19 no basis to reform the contract. There's, like, there's no
20 factual basis for the claim itself.

21 THE COURT: Okay. And my last question -- famous
22 last words, my last question -- if I were to award attorneys'
23 fees here, I'm looking at sort of a summary page for 24 Pachulski's fees. I'm looking at Docket 2852-6. I think this 25 was an Exhibit F to that motion.

1           So, I always use timelines in my life. While HCRE filed
2 its proof of claim on April 8, 2020, and then Highland
3 objected to it in an omnibus pleading on July 30, 2020,
4 Pachulski has started the clock running, so to speak, August
5 21st. So, to the extent there were fees incurred, looking at 6 this, after the proof of claim was filed, 2020, thereafter I
7 note HCRE filed a response to the objection October 19, 2020,
8 then the move to disqualify Wick Phillips, dah, dah, dah, dah,
9 dah, April 14, 2021.

10           I had understood you weren't billing time for the 11 disqualification motion, but in fact it looks like you're only 12 asking for time starting August 2021, correct?

13           MR. MORRIS: That's right. My intent -- and I think 14 we started the clock then because that's -- you know, we may 15 have filed an omnibus objection, I think we did file, and 16 we're not including time for that. So that's when -- that's 17 when the fees started to become incurred.

18           THE COURT: Okay.

19           MR. MORRIS: And if I made a mistake anywhere, I
20 apologize, Your Honor, but the intent was certainly to 21 include, consistent with Your Honor's prior order, every 22 minute of time that was expended in connection with the 23 disqualification motion.

24           THE COURT: Okay. I just --

25           MR. MORRIS: Okay. I'm reminded, actually, I'm

1 actually reminded that August 7th was also the effective date,
2 so that's probably why we used that date.

3 THE COURT: Okay. Understood. Understood.

4 All right. I think those are all my questions, so I will 5 hear from HCRE, or NexPoint Real Estate, I think they may 6 prefer to be called. Who is making the argument there?

7 THE CLERK: He's on mute, Judge.

8 THE COURT: Okay. You're on mute. Is it Mr.
9 Gameros?

10 THE CLERK: Yes.

11 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Gameros, you're on mute.

12 MR. GAMEROS: No, I'm not. There we go.

13 THE COURT: Okay. Here we go.

14 MR. GAMEROS: Sorry. Good morning, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Good morning.

16 MR. GAMEROS: Bill Gameros for NexPoint Real Estate.
17 I'm going to hopefully show a PowerPoint. Let's see. I just 18 want to make sure that this is showing. Can everyone see it?

19 THE COURT: Not yet.

20 MR. GAMEROS: All right. Nope. How about that? No.

21 THE COURT: We're not here on our court equipment.

22 Do others -- Mr. Morris, do you see it?

23 MR. MORRIS: I do not, Your Honor.

24 THE COURT: Okay.

25 MR. GAMEROS: Let me try it this way. I'm sorry.

1 THE COURT: We do not -- oops, now something is
2 starting to happen. Or was. For a --

3 MR. GAMEROS: How about now?

4 THE COURT: Here we go. Oh.

5 MR. GAMEROS: Is it showing now?

6 THE COURT: Oh, here we go. We have it now, yes.

7 MR. GAMEROS: All right. I'm sorry about that, Your
8 Honor.

9 THE COURT: Okay.

10 MR. GAMEROS: Hate to waste the Court's time.

11 THE COURT: No problem.

12 MR. GAMEROS: All right. We're here in response to 13 HCMLP's motion for a bad faith finding and attorneys' fees.
14 First, what are they asking for? Over $800,000 in fees to 15 defend a singular proof of claim that had for it as actions
16 six short depositions, not lengthy, limited written discovery,
17 and a single-day evidentiary hearing.

18 NREP only has one matter before this Court, the proof of 19 claim. It has discrete ownership. You've already seen that 20 from Mr. Morris's slides. BH Equities. Mr. McGraner actually 21 has a remote interest in it. There are a bunch of folks that 22 have interests in it, so it's a discrete ownership structure.

23 And it's not a vexatious litigant. It didn't appeal when 24 the Court denied and overruled the proof of claim. It hasn't 25 done anything else.

1 It didn't file its claim in bad faith. We're going to go
2 through that with some detail. It's never conducted itself in 3 bad faith in front of this Court in any step in the process.

4 But most importantly today, Your Honor, two things.
5 First, there's not a single case cited in Mr. Morris's slide
6 deck, and it's -- there's none cited for a very simple reason.
7 There is no authority regarding fees for an alleged bad faith
8 proof of claim under 105. We couldn't find it. We looked for 9 it. It hasn't happened. There's no authority for it. He 10 hasn't showed you any, and the authorities that he had showed,
11 there's none in his slide, but we're going to go through them
12 in detail, Your Honor, there's no basis to award attorneys'
13 fees.

14 I think intellectually the Court should look at this as a 15 two-step process. First, is the proof of claim and its 16 prosecution done in bad faith? I think the answer is going to 17 be a resounding no. But if the Court thinks there is a bad
18 faith -- is bad faith activity, the second step is what fees
19 are possibly awardable.

20 First, it's styled as a bad faith finding. You look at 21 when the proof of claim was filed and the process that got 22 there. Your Honor, in our response brief, we provide detailed 23 citations to the trial transcript that says a variety of 24 things, including Bonds Ellis never talked to Mr. Dondero, 25 but, contrary to what Mr. Morris told you this morning, Mr.

1 McGraner did. So there are folks at NREP that were working
2 with Bonds Ellis when they filed the proof of claim.

3 But he did so, candidly, with one of the best bankruptcy
4 -- that NREP filed its proof of claim with one of the best
5 bankruptcy shops in the Metroplex is telling. They wanted to 6 do it, and they wanted to do it right, and they hired very 7 competent counsel to do that.

8 These two cases I think are important. It's not just if 9 there's a mistake in the proof of claim, you don't sanction
10 them. And just beating the proof of claim. Is not enough if 11 they lose. Undenied authority. And I think it's telling
12 here.

13 This Court has seen a lot of litigation on proofs of 14 claim. Objections to all of them, with a host of settlements.
15 That just didn't happen here, but that doesn't make those 16 prior proofs of claim in bad faith, even though they would 17 like you to think that that's true. It's not true and it's 18 not fair. It's also not right.

19 How did they do it? First, they hired Bonds Ellis. And 20 part of that process was Bonds Ellis did the drafting. Mr.
21 Dondero testified as to how he signed it and the basis on 22 which he signed it. Because despite all the derision from 23 HCMLP about the process and not believing in it, the reality
24 is the process exists, it's what happened, it's what was done,
25 and they coordinated with counsel in its filing.

1 Just because it's not enforceable, for whatever reason,
2 doesn't make it sanctionable.

3 What were they trying to accomplish? They did try to 4 reallocate. They wanted a reallocation because HCMLP only put 5 in a tiny amount of capital and it wasn't providing any 6 services.

7 I don't think it's in dispute that the bankruptcy case has 8 been adversarial. I sat through the prior hour this morning.
9 Mr. Morris made reference to it during this particular motion
10 as well. But it also made the amendment impractical. Not in 11 dispute.

12 Importantly, Your Honor, in your opinion disallowing the 13 claim and sustaining HCMLP's objection, you didn't find that 14 it was done in bad faith, and Mr. Morris asked you to do it
15 several times at trial. Quite frankly, Your Honor, this 16 ground has been plowed. We don't need to plow it again. The 17 chance for the bad faith finding was last year. He didn't get 18 what he wanted, so now he's taking a second swing at this 19 particular piñata, and it's not right.

20 But look what happened in the reply brief. These are what 21 are items of bad faith. Bad motive, animus, ill will. That's 22 Yorkshire. That's the surreptitious bankruptcy filing.
23 Brown. First, not bad faith. What happens in Brown, of 24 course, it's a home case, a loan servicer looking to 25 foreclose. And the sanction itself was tiny. Not $800,000.

1 It was a small sanction. And this Court, you, Your Honor,
2 specifically looked at that case in the past.

3 Page (phonetic) (garbled). Intentional, deceitful, bad
4 faith, theft. That is not what happened here. Not even 5 close.

6 Lopez. They don't discuss Lopez again. They never 7 mention it. Why? Because Lopez has the 'but for' test in it
8 for fees. But this case, unlike Lopez, which had multiple 9 motions to compel, had none.

10 Your Honor, this case had one hearing before the 11 evidentiary trial. A scheduling conference. I'm sorry, it
12 had two. The motion to withdraw, which we believe should have 13 been granted. Your Honor didn't grant it. I understand the 14 Court's ruling. We didn't appeal it. I'm not appealing it
15 right now. But we did try to withdraw the proof of claim.
16 But Lopez finds bad faith under 105 for discovery abuse. It
17 doesn't even apply to these facts.

18 So, looking at the Court's inherent powers, it's not a 19 standard fee application under the Code, that matters, but 20 most importantly, they've got to provide a causal link for 21 'but for.' Lopez tells you that. Hagar in the Supreme Court
22 tells you that.

23 What happens instead at the motion to withdraw, Mr. Morris
24 tells you he wants to win on the merits. The difference in a 25 withdrawn proof of claim and a disallowed proof of claim is

1 zero. There would have been no difference at all. Nothing
2 has changed. Except for the 'but for' causation analysis on 3 fees. They spent over $375,000 to get there.

4 I mentioned it in the reply brief. It's on the slide.
5 The Johnson factors. Completely absent from their reply
6 brief. They genuflect at it in the initial motion. But me
7 telling you the Johnson factors, Your Honor, is like telling
8 you the standard for summary judgment. You don't want to hear
9 it.

10 However, eight out of twelve Johnson factors do not favor
11 this particular fee app. Time and labor required for 12 everything after the withdrawal. Not required.

13 Novelty and difficulty. It's a proof of claim. It's 14 neither novel nor difficult.

15 Preclusion of other employment. There's no evidence of 16 that.

17 The customary fee for work in the community. Candidly, 18 it's against it. Eight hundred grand for fighting a proof of 19 claim is pretty stout.

20 Time limitations. There were none.

21 The amount involved and the results obtained. Candidly,
22 Your Honor, almost twice the fees for the same outcome.

23 Undesirability of the case. No evidence of that.

24 And awards in similar cases. Here, Your Honor, the 25 absence of 105 cases for proofs of claim, there are no

1 comparable awards. And I think that's important.

2 What is the standard you should be using in assessing
3 whether to use your 105 powers? Clear and convincing, Your
4 Honor. Your Honor needs to have a firm belief or conviction
5 that this was done with malice, ill intent, bad faith, et 6 cetera. That's not here.

7 Why do you know that? Mr. McGraner had his deposition
8 taken. He showed up at trial. Mr. Dondero had his 9 deposition. Showed up at trial. At no instance were they 10 running away from testifying. Quite the contrary. They came 11 to court, they answered Mr. Morris's questions, they answered
12 my questions. If Your Honor had questions, they would have 13 answered them, too.

14 They took this very seriously. This wasn't some slapdash
15 proof of claim. They were really trying to get something 16 accomplished.

17 Fees. Your Honor, this is the fee table. I turned it 18 sideways. It's in our response to the motion. I think it's 19 absolutely shocking. The number of hours that were expended
20 and the fees that were expended, the cumulative total -- this 21 is just for selected timekeepers, not everybody -- but I'd 22 point Your Honor to the very bottom, post-motion to withdraw.
23 If they had just said yes, we'll take the win, they wouldn't 24 have had to spend $350,000 for these selected timekeepers, 25 over $375,000 with the rest. That is a clear failure of the 1 'but for' test in Lopez and the cases that it cites.

2 So, our conclusion, Your Honor. First, the reply doesn't
3 change anything. They don't give you any new authority or any 4 basis to award sanctions or bad faith analysis, if for no
5 other reason than the record is already closed. You've seen
6 this all before. And when asked repeatedly for a bad faith
7 finding, you didn't give it to them. No bad faith in the 8 filing of the claim.

9 The requested fees are reasonable and necessary. Your 10 Honor, so they flunk the Johnson factors. They fail the 'but 11 for' test.

12 Respectfully, Your Honor, their motion should be denied.
13 If it's not going to be denied, we would like an opportunity
14 to file supplemental briefing addressing the new authorities
15 in the reply brief. Your Honor, I don't think we need to go
16 there. I think you should deny it outright.

17 Subject to questions from the Court, that concludes my 18 presentation.

19 THE COURT: All right. A few follow-up questions.
20 In arguing about the size of the potential fees if I get to 21 bad faith, you've had a little bit of a theme of: It was just 22 a proof of claim, it was not difficult, and this was not some 23 "slapdash proof of claim." So you emphasize not reasonable
24 fees for addressing the proof of claim, and you also stress
25 can't find any authority where attorneys' fees have been

1 allowed for having to defend against a proof of claim.

2 Here's what I want you to address. Here is what is going
3 through my brain here. This wasn't a proof of claim where,
4 oops, they actually paid our invoice, we're not really owed
5 this amount, sorry, mistake. It's not a situation where you
6 filed a $105,000 proof of claim and in fact only $97,000 was 7 due and owing. And I just use those as very common examples
8 we see in the Bankruptcy Court.

9 This was, while not a liquidated amount, while not an 10 amount used in the proof of claim, it was basically a 11 multimillion-dollar issue, right? And I don't know if it was 12 a tens-of-millions-of-dollar issue or more than that, but it
13 was a multimillion-dollar issue, right?

14 MR. GAMEROS: Yes, Your Honor, I understand that.

15 THE COURT: I mean, that's stating the obvious,
16 right, because you're saying that Highland wasn't really 17 entitled to a 46-percent-whatever ownership interest in 18 Multifamily, it would be something much, much lower than that.
19 Okay. So I think we had in the record Mr. Dondero says the 20 equity interest is worth $20 million. And we know there was a 21 Key Bank loan of up to $500 million-plus. I mean, the proof
22 of claim seeking reformation was ultimately a many-
23 multimillion-dollar claim, if the theory prevailed, right?

24 MR. GAMEROS: That's right, Your Honor. It could 25 have been.

1 THE COURT: Okay. So, again, assuming I get to the 2 bad faith finding, I mean, shouldn't I look at these fees in 3 that context? I mean, it wasn't just a proof of claim; it was 4 a potentially multimillion dollar hit to the estate, a bundle
5 of value that wouldn't be there for the creditors. Is that 6 fair, or no?

7 MR. GAMEROS: Your Honor, I think it's blending some 8 issues in a way that I don't think are appropriate. I think
9 for analyzing whether or not it's a bad faith filing or bad
10 faith prosecution, you have to look to see ill motive, animus,
11 et cetera, and that's not present here. Instead, --

12 THE COURT: Yes. I'm just saying --

13 MR. GAMEROS: -- you've got Mr. Dondero --

14 THE COURT: I'm just saying assuming I get there.
15 And I totally recognize I've got to look at the overall facts
16 of the filing of the claim, of the prosecution, of the 17 withdrawal. I have to look at all that to see do we have bad
18 faith.

19 But assuming I get there, you've challenged the 20 reasonableness. And it wasn't just some proof of claim. It's 21 a complicated proof of claim, right? It's potentially a multi 22 --

23 MR. GAMEROS: Your Honor, I understand that.

24 THE COURT: Okay, go ahead.

25 MR. GAMEROS: I'm sorry for interrupting, Your Honor.

1 Go ahead.

2 THE COURT: Oh, I'm just saying it was pretty darn
3 complicated, the proof of claim. It wasn't quantified. And 4 even though it wasn't quantified, it was clearly a
5 multimillion dollar claim being asserted at the end of the 6 day, the ownership interest that HCRE was trying to challenge.

7 MR. GAMEROS: That's the position, Your Honor. And 8 they looked at that particular position at the time of filing
9 and said the capital wasn't right, and their response to the 10 objection lays out the different legal arguments. That's 11 exactly what happened.

12 THE COURT: Okay. My next question is I think you're 13 arguing that because I did not specifically find bad faith in 14 my opinion -- I'm in the mood to talk about lengthy opinions
15 today; it was a 39-page opinion, with 127 footnotes,
16 disallowing the proof of claim -- because I did not make a 17 finding of bad faith there, I'm somehow precluded at this 18 juncture. Am I hearing your argument correctly?

19 MR. GAMEROS: Your Honor, I didn't say precluded. I
20 just said we don't need to plow that ground again.

21 THE COURT: Well, --

22 MR. GAMEROS: I think you left the door open for this 23 particular motion.

24 THE COURT: Uh-huh.

25 MR. GAMEROS: And that's what you did in your

1 opinion. And I just think you were asked repeatedly to make a
2 bad faith finding, and at the time when you ruled disallowing
3 the proof of claim, you didn't do it. You didn't say bad
4 faith.

5 THE COURT: Okay.

6 MR. GAMEROS: That's all.

7 THE COURT: Okay. And then I guess my last question
8 is you said if they, Highland, if they had just said yes, take 9 the win, we wouldn't have all these fees. But I really want
10 to drill down. Would that really have been a win, or would it
11 have been a temporary stand-down? I mean, I begged you all to 12 wrap it all up with language in connection with the withdrawal 13 of the proof of claim. You know, agreed you weren't going to 14 raise this issue again. And your client wouldn't let you do
15 that.

16 So is it really fair to say, if they had just said yes and 17 taken the win, we wouldn't have had these fees, when it 18 appeared very likely that it was going to be new litigation in 19 a different forum? What is your response to that?

20 MR. GAMEROS: Your Honor, we're looking back at what 21 happened with hindsight, and I think if we're going to see the 22 maybe-bad we should also see the maybe-good.

23 What's happened, in hindsight? Zero. Nothing. NREP
24 hasn't done anything. Its proof of claim was disallowed last 25 year, and nothing else has happened.

1 I think what really happened at the hearing and the motion
2 to withdraw and what we were hearing from Highland, candidly,
3 is they wanted to put a pin in that's our number forever,
4 can't talk about it, don't want to do that. And the agreement
5 allows for amendment.

6 And that was what we were hung up on. What if we need to 7 amend this thing in the future? We don't want to be stuck
8 with a 46 percent number that we can never get away from. And 9 that was the problem. That was it.

10 THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Gameros.

11 Any rebuttal, Mr. Morris?

12 MR. GAMEROS: Thank you, Your Honor.

13 MR. MORRIS: I do. I'll be brief. It's exactly a 14 $20 million issue. It's not millions of dollars. It's 15 exactly $20 million. As I like to say, don't take my word for 16 it, take Mr. Dondero's word for it.

17 In Dugaboy's pleading that was filed under seal on June
18 30, 2022, he included his analysis of the value of Highland's
19 assets. I don't want to go through them all, but I'm happy to 20 report that he valued Highland's interest in SE Multifamily in 21 that document that he represented to the Court was worth $20
22 million. So, from our perspective, we were fighting to get 23 good, clean title to a $20 million asset. That's Point #1.

24 Point #2, of course, the Court has inherent power under 25 105 to enter orders of this type. I -- honestly, you know,

1 the cases are what the cases are. So there's never been a
2 case exactly like this. You know what? I've been doing this 3 for a while. I've never seen a proof of claim as baseless as 4 this one.

5 So the whole concept of the 'but for' thing, I'll talk
6 about in a minute, but there's no question that the Court has 7 the power to enter orders of this type, and I don't even think 8 counsel disputes that.

9 I do want to address the notion that we asked the Court
10 repeatedly for a bad faith finding and the Court declined to 11 do it. That's because this Court does its job and does its 12 job well. And I understood Your Honor when you denied it
13 without prejudice. It was telling. And apparently counsel
14 got the signal, too, that you want to make sure that, before
15 you enter an order of that type, that HCRE has due process.
16 And that's why it's denied without prejudice. Because I was 17 raising the issue for the first time at the podium, and you
18 reluctantly, properly, prudently decided that probably isn't 19 fair. And so you wanted to make sure that this thing was 20 fully briefed. And it's been briefed, and that's why we're 21 here today, not because you made a decision back in November
22 of 2022 that there was no bad faith, but simply that you
23 wanted to make sure that HCRE had a full opportunity to 24 address the charge.

25 Getting to the 'but for' issue. But for the filing of,

1 frankly, a fraudulent, baseless proof of claim, Highland would
2 have more than $800,000 in its pocket today.

3 But for the filing of a motion to withdraw that sought an 4 unfair litigation advantage while trying to preserve for the 5 future more challenges to Highland's clear and good title to 6 this asset, Highland would have more money in its pocket.

7 But for the conduct of a trial, the taking of depositions,
8 and all of the rest of it, we wouldn't be here today.
9 Highland would have more than $800,000 in its pocket.

10 The notion that we should have taken the win, frankly, is 11 offensive. That we should have just allowed them. He wants 12 the benefit of the $300,000 on the theory that we should have 13 allowed him to take our depositions, not take their 14 depositions, and fight another day. I just -- I'm speechless.
15 I'll just leave it at that. The argument speaks for itself.

16 No motive? They had no motive here? They don't have ill 17 will? They showed up at the hearing? Goodness, I hope that 18 doesn't absolve them from filing a proof of claim with no
19 basis in fact or law. Of course they showed up at the 20 hearing. They would have been in contempt of court at that 21 point had they not.

22 The only reason, apparently, they filed the proof of claim
23 is because they didn't like the unintended consequences of the 24 Highland bankruptcy that Mr. Dondero filed. In what world, in 25 what courtroom, under what law, is that a good faith basis for

1 pursuing a proof of claim, because you don't like the 2 unintended consequences of your own decisions? That's bad
3 motive right there. To try to deny a debtor a $20 million
4 asset because you didn't like the way it turned out.

5 Mr. Dondero, Mr. McGraner, HCRE were perfectly happy for 6 Highland to have a 46.06 percent interest in exchange for a 7 $49,000 contribution right up until the day they filed that 8 proof of claim. Maybe until the day they filed for 9 bankruptcy. I didn't ask that particular question.

10 It's not good faith to come to this Court, to file a proof
11 of claim, to go through all of this, because you don't like 12 the consequences of your own decision.

13 The Court really needs to ask itself whether or not it
14 wants to sanction this. Whether it wants to allow litigants,
15 claimants, to file proofs of claim with no due diligence, no
16 basis in fact, no basis in law. I don't think the Court
17 should do that. I think the bad faith finding is easy, 18 frankly.

19 And with respect to our legal fees, they are what they 20 are. The notion that this was overstaffed is kind of crazy.
21 It was me, Ms. Winograd, and Ms. Cantey. We billed, the three 22 of us, more than 82 percent of the total fee. And if you take 23 out Mr. Adler, it's probably close to if not in excess of 90 24 percent of it. It is what it is.

25 My rates are higher than some of the attorneys Mr. Dondero

1 hires. It is what it is. He knew about that when he hired
2 us. They're market rates. Clients from east coast to west
3 coast, from north to south, pay those rates every day, with 4 bankruptcy court approval. I'm sorry if he doesn't like to 5 pay those kinds of rates at this point in time, but they are 6 what they are and my client is entitled to get reimbursed for 7 this bad faith conduct.

8 I have nothing further, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

10 Well, no surprise, we'll take this under advisement and 11 issue a written opinion and order.

12 No surprise, I'm going to say like I always say, we'll get 13 to this as soon as our calendar will allow, but I'm not going 14 to promise a date on that.

15 Obviously, I'm going to be refreshing my memory, going
16 back and studying the memorandum opinion and order I issued 17 sustaining Highland's objection to this proof of claim and 18 going back and looking at the transcript from that hearing
19 that was submitted.

20 And I say this a lot, that timelines matter a heck of a 21 lot to me and they reveal a heck of a lot. And I will be 22 studying the timeline here and considering its significance.

23 Some of the important facts that will matter here are that 24 the HCRE proof of claim, again, was filed timely in this case.
25 April 8, 2020. It was signed by Mr. Dondero as the

1 representative of HCRE.

2 The evidence I do remember is that Mr. Dondero was 3 president and sole manager of HCRE and he had signed the 4 limited liability agreement for SE Multifamily Holdings, I
5 think is the name of the entity. He had signed the agreement
6 for both Highland and HCRE. There was an original LLC
7 agreement and there was also an amended LLC agreement.

8 And again, I always think timelines -- again, I've said it
9 a million times -- are very revealing. This was not a very 10 ancient transaction, a very old transaction, in the Highland 11 universe. The evidence I saw -- and again, I always create a 12 timeline -- was that it was actually August 23, 2018 that this 13 SE Multifamily entity was created, and then it was sometime 14 early first quarter of 2019 where there was an amendment of 15 the LLC agreement that brought in the BH entity and its six
16 percent interest. And then, of course, it was October 2019
17 when the bankruptcy was filed.

18 Again, why am I mentioning this? I'm mentioning it
19 because this was fairly recent in Highland history that this 20 whole SE Multifamily transaction, Project Unicorn, was done.
21 And that matters to me because I would think memories should 22 have been fresh relative to a lot of other things we've looked 23 at during this case. And so that really is weighing on my 24 brain here with regard to the bad faith possibility on the 25 filing of the proof of claim and the prosecution. It, in my

1 view, could have been a quick process, doing the due diligence
2 and assembling, you know, is there a good faith basis for this
3 proof of claim or not. And that concerns me. That concerns
4 me.

5 It, as I recall hearing the evidence, looked like, oh my 6 goodness, look at the consequences now of this bankruptcy, and 7 Highland falling out of the status of being a friendly partner
8 with HCRE. We don't like this. We don't like this and we 9 want to change this.

10 So, again, I'm sort of thinking out loud here. I'm sort
11 of revealing where I'm leaning right now. It seems like this 12 was a recent-enough transaction where someone could have 13 assembled information pretty quickly and figured out if there
14 was any basis to argue reformation.

15 And I never did have a clear idea why they would pack up
16 their marbles and want to go home if there was some evidence.
17 And again, the Bankruptcy Rules require the Court to enter an 18 order whether withdrawal should be permitted or not. I very 19 much wanted this to go away, and then there wasn't -- 20 wordsmithing could not come up with a sentence everyone would 21 agree on to make it go away.

22 So I will, again, be drilling down on the evidence here as 23 to whether we have bad faith, but that's some of the timeline
24 and evidence I'm going to be drilling down on here.

25 I think The Little Engine That Could was the phrase Mr.

1 Morris argued. I remember very well the evidence was that
2 Highland put in $49,000 to get its membership interest in SE
3 Multifamily Holdings, but I already heard that it was required
4 ultimately to be a cosigner on a $500 million loan from Key
5 Bank. It provided resources, at least until some point during 6 the bankruptcy, to SE Multifamily. And again, the tax benefit
7 of absorbing the income from the entity, which, again, it's 8 nothing to sneeze at here.

9 All of that I think was addressed pretty thoroughly in my 10 earlier opinion, but again, I'm going to go back and look at 11 it and the evidence and give you a thorough ruling one way or 12 another on the indicia of bad faith as well as the 13 reasonableness of fee-shifting.

14 All right. It sounds like I'm going to see you on 15 February 14th, or some of you, and so I shall see you then.
16 We're adjourned.

17 THE CLERK: All rise.

18 MR. GAMEROS: Your Honor?

19 THE COURT: I'm sorry?

20 MR. GAMEROS: Your Honor?

21 THE COURT: Yes.

22 MR. GAMEROS: Yeah, I'm sorry. I did ask, if you
23 weren't going to deny it outright, if I could file a brief
24 surreply. Is that allowed?

25 THE COURT: No. I've got enough on briefing on this.

1 Thank you.

2 MR. GAMEROS: All right. Thank you.

1 DALLAS, TEXAS - JUNE 12, 2024 - 10:04 A.M.

2 THE CLERK: All rise.

3 THE COURT: Please be seated. We will now begin a
4 status conference we have set in Highland Capital, Case No.
5 19-34054. This pertains to an order staying a contested
6 matter that was initiated by Hunter Mountain Investment Trust.

7 All right. So let's get our lawyer appearances. We'll 8 ask for Hunter Mountain, your appearance, please?

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Good morning, Your Honor. This
10 is Deborah Deitsch-Perez from Stinson for Hunter Mountain.
11 Mr. Aigen is also on the line, I see, and he may assist me by 12 pulling up a PowerPoint.

13 THE COURT: All right. I'm not sure why we're going 14 to need a PowerPoint, but things are complex, shall we say, in 15 this case as a general matter.

16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: A short one.

17 THE COURT: So we will see what that's going to be 18 about.

19 All right. For the Debtor, who do we have appearing?

20 MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. It's John 21 Morris from Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones on behalf of 22 Highland Capital Management, LP.

23 THE COURT: Okay. I should say Reorganized Debtor,
24 not Debtor. We're a few years down the road.

25 All right. Do we have other lawyers who want to appear

1 today?

2 MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, this is Mark Stancil from 3 Willkie Farr & Gallagher. I'm joined by my colleague, Josh
4 Levy. We represent Mr. Seery.

5 THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

6 Would that be all of our lawyer appearances, I presume?

7 All right. Well, let's be clear about why we are here.
8 And I'm sure the lawyers will correct me if I'm wrong. There
9 was a motion filed, I don't know, I would say January-ish of 10 this year by Hunter Mountain Trust -- I'll call it a 11 Gatekeeper Motion -- where Hunter Mountain was wanting leave
12 of this Court to file a lawsuit in the Delaware Chancery Court
13 against Mr. Seery regarding his role as the Claimant Trust
14 Trustee. And we had a hearing January 25th, and the Court
15 indicated it would stay the motion because I had -- I think
16 that was when I had under advisement, maybe I'd just taken
17 under advisement a Hunter Mountain motion for leave to file --
18 to go forward with another type of suit involving -- I think
19 it was the Valuation Suit.

20 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor? Your Honor?

21 THE COURT: Okay. So, anyway, I know I stayed the 22 motion for leave to go forward in Delaware Chancery Court.
23 Ms. Deitsch-Perez, what were you wanting to say?

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I was going to say I believe Your 25 Honor stayed the case awaiting your hearing and decision of

1 the motion to dismiss the valuation complaint.

2 MR. MORRIS: Correct.

3 THE COURT: All right. So, and I did go back and 4 look at my order a few days ago, and I said we'd have a status
5 conference after I ruled on that, right? So that's why we're
6 here?

7 MR. MORRIS: Yes.

8 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I think so. What Your Honor said
9 was that you thought it was possible that your decision in the 10 valuation case might bear on the motion to stay -- on the 11 motion for leave, and so you stayed the matter, said we would 12 have a status conference after it was decided. After it was 13 decided, we called Ms. Ellison and asked for a status
14 conference so that we could address whether or not the 15 dismissal of the valuation complaint had any bearing on this 16 matter.

17 In a nutshell, the Court dismissed the valuation complaint
18 on the ground that the Plaintiffs had no standing to seek the 19 valuation because the conditions in the CTA had not been met.
20 Putting aside whether the parties believe that was correct --
21 it is being appealed -- the motion for leave is materially
22 different and cannot and should not be decided on the same
23 basis. And that's what we're here to discuss today.

24 THE COURT: All right. So we're here on the status
25 conference because I ruled we would have a status conference

1 down the road to look at whether should we continue to stay
2 the Hunter Mountain motion for leave to go forward in the 3 Delaware Chancery Court.

4 So we're here pursuant to my prior order. And your 5 client, Hunter Mountain, is arguing this is materially
6 different, and so I can't figure out for the life of me why
7 this is materially different. I'm just going to share my 8 thinking right now. I have ruled three times now, right, that 9 Hunter Mountain doesn't have standing. And I --

10 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I --

11 THE COURT: And if it didn't have standing Time 1, 2, 12 and 3, why on earth would it have standing now?

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I'm prepared to 14 explain why it's different. But if Your Honor has already 15 decided on the basis of what you already have before you that 16 Hunter Mountain has no standing, even though, here, the 17 allegations concern -- are that Mr. Seery is deliberately 18 manipulating the estate to maintain his tenure at his 19 $150,000-a-month job by not paying creditors and refusing to 20 issue the certification. And that allegation, and the fact
21 that the law requires that this be decided by a Delaware
22 court, if those things are not enough for Your Honor to 23 believe that this matter is different and should be decided 24 differently, then we would ask that you simply rule that 25 Hunter Mountain has no standing and is not entitled to have a

1 Delaware court make the decision of the matters at issue in 2 the motion for leave, and we would take it up at the same time
3 as the valuation motion, so that the issue that Your Honor was 4 concerned about --

5 THE COURT: What do you mean, you would take it up at 6 the same time as the valuation motion?

7 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: In other words, if Your Honor
8 were to rule right now, as you've indicated, that you believe
9 that --

10 THE COURT: Right. You would appeal, and then what?
11 What do you mean?

12 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: If I could finish, Your Honor.
13 If Your Honor ruled that Hunter Mountain has no standing to 14 seek leave to sue Mr. Seery in Delaware court and that the CTA
15 overrides Delaware law if Delaware law --

16 THE COURT: Got it, got it, got it.

17 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Right? Okay. If Your Honor were 18 to rule that and deny the motion for leave, we would appeal
19 that at the same time -- on the same timeline as the appeal of 20 the valuation decision. And then Your Honor's concern about 21 potentially conflicting rulings would not exist. We would 22 consent to the same court hearing both so that we --

23 THE COURT: What makes you think a district judge
24 would consolidate these two appeals? Or I guess it would be 25 three appeals.

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We have no control over that, but
2 we would consent to it. The Debtor has expressed a concern
3 about inconsistent rulings, and so if both parties sought for 4 them to be -- the matters to be heard by the same judge --
5 we've done that in the past with all the -- with the reports
6 and recommendations arising out of the withdrawal of the 7 reference -- in every instance where the parties have 8 requested the same judge to hear appeals from this Court, the 9 District Court has agreed.

10 So while I certainly don't presume to control the District
11 Court, we have good evidence that they would do so. And that 12 would be the most efficient. It would minimize the chances of 13 inconsistent rulings.

14 THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to hear your PowerPoint
15 and see if there's something I'm missing, but this is really 16 -- you said extremely different, or words to that effect. But 17 I'm going to tell you right now, I would not -- to all the 18 lawyers -- I would not be presumptuous and think that some 19 district judge, let's say the one who has the current Hunter
20 Mountain appeals, I don't know if it's one judge or two, is 21 going to say, sure, we'll consolidate.

22 I mean, that's just not the way they work. Maybe you got 23 lucky. Probably it was the Note Litigation, okay, where it 24 made a ton of sense to consolidate that. But let me just be 25 blunt. Bankruptcy is not their priority. The Constitution

1 requires that criminal matters be their priority. They're 2 just, you know, they're not going to --

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, all we can do is ask.

4 THE COURT: They don't see the world the way we 5 bankruptcy nerds see the world. Okay? That's just my 6 experience. And I don't expect them to.

7 But, anyway, I -- who, by the way, has the Hunter Mountain
8 appeals? Do we have that handy? I'm just curious.

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I don't --

10 THE COURT: Judge Ada Brown? Does she have all of 11 them, or just --

12 MR. MORRIS: She does. She has the main appeal of 13 the order denying the motion for leave to sue Mr. Seery, 14 Stonehill, and Farallon, the one that was the subject of the 15 evidentiary hearing last June. She does have that matter
16 right now.

17 THE COURT: And right now, do we have a judge
18 assigned to the more recent order denying --

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That was just --

20 THE COURT: -- Hunter Mountain leave?

21 MR. MORRIS: Not that I know of.

22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That was --

23 MR. MORRIS: That notice of appeal was just filed, I
24 think, on June 7th, and I don't know if that's been assigned 25 yet.

1 THE COURT: My law clerk over here is saying no.
2 You're correct; there's no judge assigned to that. So we, you
3 know, we --

4 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: So it is possible, then, that we
5 could ask Judge Brown to hear all three. That's a 6 possibility.

7 MR. MORRIS: May I be heard at some point, Your
8 Honor?

9 THE COURT: Well, absolutely. Absolutely. But I am 10 just, I'm focusing on procedure at the moment. And we'll let 11 you explain why you think this is different, but surely you
12 know where my brain is.

13 I've ruled three times now that Hunter Mountain does not
14 have standing under the terms of the plan and under Delaware
15 law. And three times, we have written lengthy opinions on 16 that. And my impression, after sitting here 18 years, is the 17 District Court is going to be very irritated with me and 18 everyone else if I rule yet a fourth time on this and there is 19 an appeal sent their way. Consolidation or no consolidation, 20 at some point judicial economy and efficiency of the parties
21 rears its head.

22 I mean, why wouldn't I stay this further and see how Judge
23 Brown rules in the other matter? Heck, --

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, the --

25 THE COURT: -- at some point this plan could go

1 effective. I mean, excuse me, could be fully implemented.
2 But I think we know why it hasn't been. My impression is 3 certainly all we have left is to resolve all the litigation
4 involving your client.

5 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, the reason you cannot 6 stay it is because the Fifth Circuit and the Supreme Court
7 have a very high standard for staying litigation, and by 8 staying it you would be effectively denying the very relief 9 that's being sought. Hunter Mountain is entitled to try to 10 end this by removing a trustee with a conflict who is eating
11 up the costs -- the money in the estate. And we're entitled 12 to have that decided. And by staying it, you are effectively
13 denying the relief. That's what's impermissible. The Fifth 14 Circuit and the Supreme Court have set a very high bar to 15 staying litigation.

16 This is not like the motion for mediation, where we 17 harbored no illusion whatsoever that Your Honor would stay
18 litigation over the Debtor's objection. The only --

19 THE COURT: Okay. It never would have occurred to me
20 this was analogous to the motion to stay litigation. I think 21 it's analogous to three different motions your client has 22 filed and I've ruled on. I don't know, --

23 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I will show you why
24 it's different.

25 THE COURT: -- what number of pages, Courtney, were

1 our three rulings? And I say three because --

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor?

3 THE COURT: -- there was a motion for 4 reconsideration. I mean, a couple hundred pages of ink spilt
5 that some district judge --

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor?

7 THE COURT: -- has got to read? And why are we doing
8 the same thing over and over? It's like the famous --

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That's what I --

10 THE COURT: -- Einstein saying. You know, the famous 11 Einstein saying. What did he say?

12 MR. MORRIS: The definition of insanity, Your Honor,
13 doing the same thing over and over again, expecting a 14 different result? That was going to be my opening line.

15 THE COURT: Oh, wow. Oh, wow. Okay. Well, that's 16 --

17 MR. MORRIS: So we're in the same place.

18 THE COURT: -- definitely the one I was thinking.

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, the difference --

20 THE COURT: Okay. Ms. Deitsch, just --

21 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: The difference is that this was

22 --

23 THE COURT: -- let's make -- just make your 24 presentation and then we'll hear Mr. Morris's presentation.

25 If something is horribly lost on me, this is your chance to

1 show me that I am totally missing the boat on why this
2 situation is different.

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. There are two points here.
4 One is we would like you to understand why it's different and 5 see why it's different. But if you have already made up your 6 mind, then simply deny the motion for leave, opine that the 7 CTA overrides Delaware law, and the most efficient path is to 8 have this evaluation and the insider trading case be appealed
9 where that will be the most efficient use of resources.

10 So let me go -- could I ask --

11 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I apologize.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Before we do the whole PowerPoint, 13 --

14 MR. MORRIS: I would love to be heard on the 15 procedural point. Just the procedural point.

16 THE COURT: All right. You may, Mr. Morris.

17 MR. MORRIS: There is no motion to dismiss pending
18 before the Court. What you're being asked to do, the Court
19 doesn't have the authority to do. What we're here today to 20 decide is whether or not to extend the stay. The answer is 21 either going to be yes or no.

22 If the stay is extended, we're done. If the stay is not 23 extended, then we're going to have to answer the complaint.
24 And we're going to make a motion to dismiss. And we're going
25 to have a whole -- with a Rule 11 motion, because this is all

1 collaterally estopped. But putting that aside for the moment,
2 going to the District Court would be appropriate only if 3 Hunter Mountain agrees that the issues are the exact same as 4 raised in the stay.

5 You're about to hear a presentation that says, oh, no, no,
6 they're not. These issues have never been heard before,
7 they've never been briefed before, and there is no chance that 8 it would be appropriate that the Court would have the 9 authority to send this -- to make a decision on a case on a 10 matter that's never been briefed. Right?

11 It's either a stay or it's not a stay. If it's a stay,
12 let's go home. If it's not a stay, then we're going to answer
13 the complaint with a motion to dismiss, and they can come back
14 and tell us at that time, in writing, with notice, why they're 15 not collaterally estopped by Your Honor's prior orders.

16 That's all.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And that would normally be the 19 case, Your Honor, but here the Court can sua sponte deny the 20 motion. The Court has said repeatedly that it views it as the 21 same. And so we are saying we would forego further briefing
22 if Your Honor wanted to simply sua sponte dismiss the matter
23 so that it could be appealed. And so it could be appealed on 24 the same timeline more or less as the other matters that are 25 proceeding.

1 I'll continue on now with --

2 THE COURT: Okay. Well, --

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- with the presentation.

4 THE COURT: I'll state the obvious. And as Mr.
5 Morris said but I think you know very well, Ms. Deitsch-Perez,
6 this is just a motion to unstay the contested matter -- I
7 mean, it may be premature to call it a contested matter -- to 8 unstay proceedings on Hunter Mountain's motion for leave to 9 file a complaint in the Delaware Chancery Court. Should I
10 keep the stay in place or not? Okay? So, --

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I understand we're --

12 THE COURT: -- I don't think anyone has any confusion
13 about that, and it's the reason why I said something about you 14 having a PowerPoint. I was a little surprised that you would 15 have a PowerPoint on this, but if you do, you do. I'll let 16 you present it.

17 But I would never jump ahead, just so everyone is crystal
18 clear, I would never jump ahead to a substantive ruling today
19 that I'm denying your motion for leave to file the complaint
20 in the Delaware Chancery Court. It would be either we're 21 continuing the stay, we're going to continue the stay, please 22 upload a new order supplementing my prior order saying the 23 stay is going to be continued until whatever we decide, or 24 it's going to be the stay is lifted, parties have, you know,
25 21 days to respond to Hunter Mountain's motion for leave to

1 file a complaint. Okay? So I hope there was no confusion on
2 that.

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: No, Your Honor, we were simply 4 responding to your repeated suggestion that this is the same
5 and Hunter Mountain has no standing and the CTA overrides
6 Delaware law, which was, if that was already determined and 7 you did not need further explanation from the Reorganized
8 Debtor on that in opposition, because we've already filed the 9 motion for leave, then we would not argue as a procedural
10 point that Your Honor could not simply make a decision.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I understand that Mr. Morris is 13 saying he does not want that because the whole goal here is to 14 delay this long enough so that we can never be heard in 15 Delaware. So I understand Mr. Morris's position.

16 MR. MORRIS: You know, Your Honor, I just, I so 17 regret these ad hominem attacks. The fact of the matter is we 18 don't have a pleading. We're about to hear arguments from Ms.
19 Deitsch-Perez for the very first time. She's never briefed
20 these issues. And I'm just going to leave it at that. This 21 is just so improper.

22 THE COURT: All right. Well, how lengthy is your 23 PowerPoint, and is it really geared towards the stay issue?

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It is, Your Honor. It's seven 25 slides.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It's not very long. And there is 3 nothing that we are going to raise that the Debtor is not 4 aware of.

5 THE COURT: All right. Well, I'll let you present
6 your seven slides. And, again, I think we're all crystal
7 clear. This is just about is it time to lift the stay. And 8 we've had a lot of preliminary discussions and I've made a lot
9 of comments because it just seemed like the common-sense
10 approach we might all agree to was let the District Court
11 decide your appeal. She may say --

12 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We do not agree to that --

13 THE COURT: -- Hunter Mountain has standing. She may 14 say Hunter Mountain has standing, let them go forward with 15 their valuation thing, with their suit they want to file
16 against Farallon and whoever the other one was, I can't 17 remember. You know, let them -- they have standing. She may 18 view the plan documents, the Claimant Trust Agreement,
19 Delaware law different. If she does, then absolutely I
20 probably should lift the stay in this matter. I mean, I
21 guess. I don't know.

22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor?

23 THE COURT: But it just seems like a matter of 24 efficiency. You filed the appeals. You want it heard.
25 You're entitled to that. Let that happen, and then we'll

1 figure out where we go from there. Except, as we well know,
2 probably one party will file an appeal to the Fifth Circuit.
3 So I'm just trying to understand what is rational here, and --

4 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: The Fifth Circuit has already 5 rejected this very maneuver. And we have a slide that will 6 tell you the --

7 THE COURT: Maneuver? What maneuver? What maneuver?
8 Whose maneuver?

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: The maneuver is to stay a case,
10 but it's the Debtor's request, to stay a case while awaiting 11 other cases' decisions on standing. That's not proper. All 12 of the cases should go up at the same time. If there's a 13 dispositive ruling on standing at some point, well, it could 14 be raised at that time. But there's no reason to stay, to 15 prevent a party from having its day in court, because of the 16 potential that another case is going to decide a similar or 17 even the very same --

18 THE COURT: Okay. Present your PowerPoint and we'll 19 perhaps better understand.

20 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. So, I'm --

21 Mike, if you can pull it up and go to Slide 2.

22 Okay. So, and before I get to that, yesterday we filed a
23 notice of supplemental authority because since -- this is a 24 very unusual circumstance.

25 THE COURT: Where did you file that?

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: In the bankruptcy. We filed a
2 copy of the Morris v. Spectra Delaware case that the Debtor
3 already had because we had found it, I think Mr. Aigen
4 deserves the credit for this, and had provided it to the other
5 counsel for HMIT to --

6 THE COURT: Okay. Just so you know, I've not seen
7 it, I've not read it. So, --

8 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. I will describe it --

9 THE COURT: And I would not have been looking for it
10 before a status conference.

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. I will -- it's very easy
12 to describe. It's a Delaware case. And that was a case where 13 someone was attempting to challenge -- a former shareholder
14 was attempting to challenge a merger. And normally the rule
15 in Delaware is, if you're not a shareholder, you can't 16 challenge it anymore. You're not a shareholder; you can't 17 challenge the merger.

18 But the claim there was that the Defendants had wrongfully 19 caused the merger to eliminate the shareholders' ability to 20 complain. And the Delaware Supreme Court said, gee, if 21 someone deliberately does something to strip someone of their 22 standing, we're not going to allow that, so we are going to 23 allow someone who is no longer a shareholder to still complain
24 about the merger.

25 And this is what we found, this is the most analogous

1 Delaware law we have found, and shows that it is appropriate,
2 if someone does something that prevents someone from having
3 standing, the Court should still allow the case to go forward.

4 So that's one reason why this is different. But the right
5 to be heard in Delaware on an issue of the workings of a 6 trust, on the issue of removing a trust, that's something that 7 is subject to Delaware law and has to be decided by a Delaware
8 court. And we cited in the opposition to the stay the United 9 Brotherhood case and the Delaware statute that provides that.

10 And so that's another reason this case is different than 11 the insider trading case or the valuation case, because this 12 expressly involves the internal workings of a trust, which,
13 even if you had a contract that had a venue provision,
14 Delaware law says you can ignore that because this is 15 important enough that we want this resolved by a Delaware
16 court.

17 So, in Your Honor's decision dismissing the valuation
18 proceeding, you relied on the Plaintiff's supposed agreement 19 to the CTA as precluding them from challenging it or from 20 invoking the duty of good faith and fair dealing. And I think 21 you said something like that earlier today also. But that 22 analysis is wrong here.

23 First, Hunter Mountain didn't negotiate or agree to the 24 CTA. If you remember, at the time of the plan, the estate's
25 projections were that payments would only be made through

1 Class 8. So Classes 10 or 11 had no reason to address the 2 CTA.

3 But second, the duty of good faith and fair dealing can,
4 should, really, must be raised when a party's actions actually
5 prevent a condition precedent from occurring.

6 So the Court's conclusion that the existence of a 7 condition precedent -- in other words, the conditions for 8 vesting -- precludes a claim for good faith and fair dealing 9 ignores the whole body of law that a party can't take 10 advantage of his own wrongdoing.

11 So this isn't a case -- this usually comes up in the 12 circumstance where somebody is claiming there's a breach of 13 good faith and fair dealing because a party didn't do
14 something that's expressly not required by the contract, where 15 the duty of good faith and fair dealing is being used to 16 contradict the contract. But that's not what's happening
17 here.

18 Here, the complaint that is sought to be brought in 19 Delaware is saying that Mr. Seery is thwarting the occurrence
20 of the condition precedent, and the Plaintiff is entitled to 21 have its allegations taken as true. And if that is true, that 22 is the classic case for the invocation of good faith and fair
23 dealing.

24 And we cite in the motion for leave the Dunlap case, the 25 Injective Labs case, and the Snow Phipps case, all of which

1 are cases where there was some condition in the contract that
2 the other side was alleged to be preventing from happening,
3 and the courts allowed those -- either allowed the -- said
4 that the parties (inaudible) to make that clear or allow the 5 claim to go forward.

6 So these cases are directly counter to this case's
7 mistaken conclusion that the vesting provision precludes HMIT
8 from raising the good faith and fair dealing here. This is 9 exactly when you must raise good faith and fair dealing, and 10 it's entirely appropriate. So it is not like the valuation
11 case, which was asking for information. It's not exactly like 12 the insider trading case, either. Here, it is exactly when 13 good faith and fair dealing governs.

14 So, for all of these reasons, the Court's prior decisions
15 aren't governing here and are not a basis for staying or 16 denying the gatekeeper matter.

17 But as we've said, if the Court's already decided 18 otherwise, we would not object to the procedure of the Court
19 sua sponte simply sending this on. What would not be fair 20 would be stalling this case to prevent HMIT from seeking the 21 Delaware decision-making to which it's entitled. And that's 22 why, when the issue is a stay of court proceedings, the Fifth
23 Circuit and the Supreme Court have a very high bar.

24 Mike, next slide. Mike, Slide 3. Okay.

25 Okay. So let's remember the standard for obtaining a

1 stay: A strong showing of likelihood to succeed on the 2 merits; whether the movant -- that's the Debtor here -- will
3 be irreparably harmed absent a stay; whether the issuance of a
4 stay will injure other interested parties -- Hunter Mountain;
5 and where the public interest lies.

6 And the Supreme Court has characterized the circumstances
7 in which a stay is appropriate as rare. And that's the Landis
8 case cited by the Northern District.

9 And Highland, in the motion for stay, doesn't address this 10 standard at all. And in the initial hearing we had, Highland 11 said, and the Court seemed to agree, well, the standard isn't 12 required because, remember, when you all sought a stay for the 13 mediation, you didn't raise the standard.

14 But that was very different, because for the mediation we 15 had no illusion that Your Honor would grant a stay over the 16 objection of the Debtor. So, really, what we were talking 17 about in that circumstance is a consensual stay. And then the 18 standard wouldn't apply.

19 Let's go to Slide 4, Mike.

20 Okay. And here is the case, the Jamison case, which 21 relied on Supreme Court Landis case, said the defendant
22 requested a stay pending the Supreme Court's rulings on two 23 different cases where the same or virtually the same standing
24 question was raised, and the Court denied the motion, saying 25 that, because standing is an issue that can be raised at any

1 time, there was no reason to stay, because if the Supreme
2 Court made a ruling that was dispositive it could be raised
3 when that happened.

4 And that's exactly what the circumstance is here. The 5 case should go forward, and if the Fifth Circuit makes a 6 dispositive ruling, if there's a dispositive ruling that would 7 end one of these other cases and is not distinguishable, it
8 could be raised at that time.

9 So, go to the next slide.

10 Okay. And so the Fifth Circuit has also said
11 discretionary stays, even when -- if they are lengthy or 12 indefinite, should not be granted. That is exactly what the 13 Debtor is asking for here. Let's take a look at how long 14 things have been taking.

15 Go to Slide 6.

16 Okay. The Notes cases, the Court's reports and 17 recommendations, December '22, the Notes case is still pending
18 in the Fifth Circuit, the HarbourVest settlement. And this is 19 not including the lower court, the District Court intermediate 20 action. Two years. UBS, I mean, huge amounts of time. It's 21 one and half to two years. All of them.

22 So if in fact the Court were to stay until a final 23 decision, or even the decision of the next court, we are 24 talking about a long enough time that it creates the very harm
25 that the motion for leave -- that the complaint that Hunter

1 Mountain is trying to file is seeking to avoid.

2 This Court knows how long it takes to get through the 3 District Court, out of the Fifth Circuit, much less, as we 4 have with the release matter, going all the way to the Supreme
5 Court.

6 So, if Hunter Mountain has to await a final nonappealable
7 decision of the valuation proceeding before it can even start
8 to seek to remove Seery in Delaware court, even winning would 9 be a pyrrhic victory, because Mr. Seery will have remained 10 employed and spending money and moving money into the 11 indemnity subtrust for two or more years. And so a stay
12 thereby creates irreparable harm for Hunter Mountain.

13 So, in sum, using the Claimant Trust Agreement to preclude 14 Hunter Mountain from seeking removal of the Trustee actually 15 underscores why Delaware law is crafted the way it is. Were 16 it not for the duty of good faith and fair dealing imposed by 17 Delaware law, Mr. Seery could arguably continually increase
18 the funds set aside for indemnification, indefinitely withhold 19 final distributions to Class 9 -- we believe Class 8 has 20 already been paid in full -- and refuse to file the GUC
21 certification.

22 Would it be okay if he paid everything other than $10 and 23 refused to issue the GUC certification based on a theoretical 24 possibility that he might need more money for indemnification?
25 The amount that's been set aside for indemnification is so

1 much more than the $25 million that was originally
2 contemplated at the time of the plan. So this is exactly the 3 kind of conflict that Delaware Code Section 3327 regarding the 4 removal of trustees is designed to prevent. It's designed to 5 prevent the conflict where the trustee has a reason to hold
6 onto the money that he or it is holding in trust for another
7 party.

8 This is -- whatever the excess is, that belongs to Hunter
9 Mountain. It doesn't belong to the professionals. It doesn't 10 belong to Mr. Seery. And so someone who does not have this 11 conflict should be making these decisions. And Hunter
12 Mountain is entitled to go to Delaware for that decision.

13 So, putting this on ice is simply allowing the Claimant
14 Trust to avoid scrutiny, and we would ask that Your Honor not 15 do that.

16 Thank you.

17 THE COURT: Mr. Morris?

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I just want to begin where 19 counsel left off. The excess -- if there is such a thing, and 20 I don't know that there is, and I don't know that anybody will 21 know until the case is over -- but the so-called excess
22 belongs first to indemnified parties. Indemnified parties
23 have a contractual right to be indemnified, frankly, before
24 Class 8 or Class 9 receive a nickel, let alone Class 10 or 11.

25 So let's be really clear that what's happening here, as

1 Your Honor alluded to earlier, is that resources must be
2 husbanded because of the ongoing onslaught of litigation.
3 This case could be over tomorrow if Mr. Dondero would give a
4 release to all protected parties.

5 So, just a little bit of background, though. Obviously,
6 this issue of Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy's standing has been
7 percolating for exactly two years. It was in June of 2022
8 that Mr. Draper on behalf of Dugaboy brought the first 9 valuation motion. He was soon joined by Mr. Phillips on 10 behalf of Hunter Mountain. That effort was the subject of 11 substantial briefing over the rights or so-called rights or 12 potential rights of Class 10 and Class 11, and ultimately Your 13 Honor decided that the relief they sought was not appropriate 14 as a contested matter and had to proceed as an adversary
15 proceeding.

16 The next calendar year, 2023, we have a new lawyer for 17 Hunter Mountain, Sawnie McEntire and his firm. Again, the 18 issues of standing and Hunter Mountain's unvested contingent 19 interest and the meaning of that were the subject of 20 substantial litigation in 2023.

21 Now we've got a third lawyer, the Stinson firm, again
22 representing Hunter Mountain, again raising basically the 23 exact same issue.

24 Your Honor has issued multiple decisions that go into 25 great detail. I want to just read just a couple of lines from

1 the Court's most recent decision that was filed at Docket No.
2 26 in Adversary Proceeding 23-03038.

3 On Page 29, the Court wrote that the Court "finds and 4 concludes that under the terms of the CTA and Delaware law,
5 Plaintiffs are not beneficiaries or beneficial owners of the 6 Claimant Trust who would be entitled to assert rights under 7 the CTA. The Claimant Trust is a Delaware statutory trust
8 governed by the Delaware Statutory Trust Act, and the Trust
9 Act does define 'Beneficial Owner' and uses that term
10 exclusively to refer to the beneficiaries of a Delaware
11 statutory trust. Specifically, under the Trust Act, a trust's
12 -- a statutory trust's beneficial owners are any owners of a 13 beneficial interest in a statutory trust, the fact of 14 ownership to be determined and evidenced in conformity with 15 the applicable provisions of the governing instrument of the 16 statutory trust."

17 Your Honor went on at Page 30, said, "It appears that 18 Plaintiffs may be frustrated that they did not negotiate or 19 obtain the same oversight rights as the actual Claimant Trust
20 beneficiaries in the plan and the CTA. The plan, with the 21 incorporated CTA, was confirmed over three years ago now, and 22 neither the Plaintiff -- neither of the Plaintiffs objected or 23 appealed to the terms of the plan or the CTA that dictate
24 those oversight rights. The Fifth Circuit, in September of 25 2022, affirmed the confirmation order and the terms of the

1 plan and its incorporated documents, including the CTA, in all
2 respects other than striking certain exculpations."

3 Then, finally, Your Honor pointed out that "Plaintiffs 4 make an argument that an implied covenant of good faith and 5 fair dealing under Delaware law necessarily means that the 6 terms of the CTA that govern the parties' rights here,
7 including the information rights and the rights to an 8 accounting from the Claimant Trustee that Plaintiffs seek in 9 Count One can be overridden here. The Court disagrees. The 10 Court will not use the implied covenant of good faith to 11 override the rights and responsibilities that were bargained
12 for in the trust agreement."

13 An exhaustive opinion. It is collateral estoppel at this 14 point. I frankly think that Rule 11 gets implicated when 15 lawyers continue to push issues that have already been 16 decided.

17 It is the exact same issue. There is no claim for breach 18 of good faith and fair dealing in the complaint. Just look at 19 the proposed complaint that was filed at Docket No. 4000.
20 Exhibit 1. There are five causes of action. Every one of 21 them is premised not on a breach of good faith and fair
22 dealing but on a breach of Delaware Corporate Law 3327. And 23 as Your Honor knows from the extensive briefing that we've 24 had, the Court looks to the trust document to determine the 25 rights of the beneficiaries, and only beneficiaries have

1 rights under 3327.

2 This is law of the case. These parties are collaterally
3 estopped from continuing to do this. The fact that they 4 suggest that they could just bring lawsuit after lawsuit after 5 lawsuit after lawsuit, where standing is always going to a 6 threshold issue, until every single judge in the Northern 7 District of Texas has an opportunity to weigh in is 8 preposterous.

9 Let me go through -- let me just refer and respond to a
10 couple of these last points. The statute that Ms. Deitsch-11 Perez cited in her first slide, 3804(e), it only applies if 12 you're a beneficial owner. This Court has decided multiple 13 times Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy are not beneficial owners.

14 Next. The duty of good faith and fair dealing, as I
15 mentioned, it's not even a claim in the proposed complaint.
16 And I know of no law, and I don't think anybody will ever be 17 able to cite any law, that suggests a party to a contract owes 18 a duty of good faith and fair dealing to someone with no
19 rights under the contract. How is that even -- how does that 20 even make sense?

21 I have no rights under the contract, that's what this 22 Court has already held, but somehow Mr. Seery has an implied
23 duty of good faith and fair dealing. Makes absolutely no
24 sense.

25 The standard of likelihood of success on the merits.

1 Right? I don't think that standard applies when the Court is 2 just policing its docket. But even if it did, likelihood of 3 success on the merits? It's a certainty. The Court has 4 already decided. We have won. Right? They can't -- they 5 have no standing. So there's a hundred-percent certainty that 6 we're likely to succeed on the merits.

7 This is not going to be lengthy or indefinite, and I will,
8 you know, just say, Your Honor, that the Plaintiffs here have 9 some control over this. There probably hasn't been five 10 percent of the appeals where we don't get eventually some 11 request for an extension of time. It happens every time.
12 They're taking weeks now to file their appellate record.
13 They're within the rules. They have the right to do. But if 14 they want this to proceed more quickly, stop asking for 15 extensions of time. We'll move quickly. We don't have a 16 problem doing that at all.

17 Mr. Seery owes no --

18 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your -- I have to interrupt on 19 that.

20 THE COURT: You will have your rebuttal time, but let 21 Mr. Morris finish, please.

22 MR. MORRIS: Mr. Seery owes no duties to Hunter
23 Mountain and to Dugaboy. He never has. We have an agreement.
24 The agreement has been affirmed. The merits of that have been 25 decided multiple times.

1           The Court should continue the stay here. The Court should 2 allow the District Court, and, if necessary, the Fifth
3 Circuit, to opine and let it take its course. Right? We're
4 happy to work as quickly as they want. Not on an expedited
5 basis, but within the rules. And if they do the same, I think 6 this will get decided much quicker than they think.

7           In the alternative, Your Honor, if the Court for any 8 reason wants to lift the stay, we would request 30 days to 9 file an opposition here, and we will be filing a Rule 11.

10          I do just want to mention one last thing. Because as 11 counsel pointed out, they filed a so-called supplement at 7:00
12 p.m. Eastern Time last night on the docket. I was out with my 13 wife at the theater, and really haven't had any opportunity to 14 look at this in any detail.

15          I will tell you that I -- Ms. Deitsch-Perez and I emailed 16 multiple times yesterday. She and Mr. Aigen have been 17 emailing me multiple times in the last week. No courtesy of a 18 heads up. No suggestion that maybe we should adjourn this.
19 No citation in their pleading as to why they think they get to 20 file a surreply the eve before trial. There's no rule that 21 allows them to do so.

22          And I would just, you know, just very quickly, Your Honor, 23 the two cases that they cite are from 2021 and 1998. Those 24 cases were decided even before Mr. Draper filed his first 25 motion for valuation information two years ago.

1           The cases are easily distinguishable. They have nothing
2 to do with statutory trusts. They have nothing to do with the 3 definition of beneficiaries. They have nothing to do with 4 Section 3327.

5           But I will say, Your Honor, if, upon reflection, the Court
6 has any thought that those cases are at all relevant, we would 7 respectfully request the opportunity to brief it. I don't 8 think it's necessary. I think the filing was improper. But 9 even if the Court accepts them, I think those cases are so
10 easily distinguishable that it won't matter. But if, you
11 know, it's not fair to be treated this way, to email multiple 12 times, to give no notice, to file it 15 hours before a 13 hearing, with no rule citation, with no right to do so, and 14 expect the Court or expect me, frankly, to be prepared to 15 fully address it. I've addressed it as best I'm able under 16 the circumstances.

17           I think the motion to stay should be extended until a
18 court of competent jurisdiction issues a final nonappealable,
19 you know, affirmation, determination, on Your Honor's motion
20 to dismiss the valuation proceeding.

21           THE COURT: All right. Before I hear any last word
22 from Ms. Deitsch-Perez, I know Mr. Seery's counsel made an 23 appearance. Is there anything you would like to say?

24           MR. STANCIL: No, Your Honor. I think Mr. Morris
25 covered it quite well.

1 THE COURT: All right. Ms. Deitsch-Perez, you get 2 the last word.

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I've explained why
4 this case is different and why a party cannot prevent another
5 party from gaining rights under a contract. That is the 6 epitome of breaching the contract by breaching the duty of 7 good faith and fair dealing which is inherent in the contract.

8 Mr. Morris's argument that, oh, the stay is of no great
9 moment because you could move expeditiously is incorrect,
10 because, for example, the delays in the record, that is not
11 something -- and he well knows, that is not something a party
12 can control. The Court moves the record and the parties are 13 stuck with however long that takes. And if one were to look 14 at the record of the extensions in the appeals, they have -- 15 equally well if not more so than the Debtor's side. And so I 16 take exception to that.

17 And finally, the Reorganized Debtor is something of a 18 bully. Every time that they don't like something, there has 19 been a threat that we're going to seek sanctions. It's a way 20 of trying to scare lawyers from exercising their duties to 21 their clients. If he's going to make -- if the Debtor is 22 going to make a sanctions motion, we'll fight it. We've 23 fought it before. Sometimes they've threatened it and not 24 done it.

25 But it is, I will point out, it is itself a violation of

1 Rule 11 to willfully and disingenuously threaten sanctions to 2 try and prevent litigation. And that's what we think is going
3 on here. It's a club.

4 If this matter is stayed, Hunter Mountain -- it's no
5 different than if this Court simply denied the motion, because 6 the passage of time will eviscerate what's in the estate.

7 Thank you.

8 THE COURT: I'm going to ask this question. I've 9 asked it before in prior hearings, but I'm asking it again.
10 And I always am asking it because of, well, a couple reasons.
11 I've raised the issue of judicial economy and concerns about 12 the efficient administration of justice and what's in the 13 interest of the parties. How many appeals do we have pending
14 or have been made since confirmation of the plan in February
15 2021? And I'm concerned about judicial economy, yes, but I'm 16 also --

17 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, --

18 THE COURT: Let me -- here is another reason I ask.
19 It is argued as part of the lawsuit you want to file that Mr.
20 Seery isn't wrapping things up. But, of course, part of that 21 hinges on are there appeals still pending. Okay? So I ask 22 for those two reasons. I don't know if anyone has it at their 23 fingertips, but it is --

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor?

25 THE COURT: -- germane to everything I've heard here.

1 Okay? So who has --

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, there --

3 THE COURT: -- the answer at their fingertips?

4 Either one of you?

5 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, there are not very 6 many appeals still pending, but I would point out that some of 7 these have been successful. That Your Honor's contempt
8 decision was reversed. The release issue was partially 9 reversed. So, --

10 THE COURT: Reversed and remanded for me to have 11 follow-up hearings. So not done, by the way, but anyway,
12 we'll have a hearing on that remand at some point.

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But these are --

14 THE COURT: So, but anyway, the question was how 15 many.

16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And I don't know exactly how 17 many, but there are relatively few. If the issue is how much 18 money is needed to be set aside for indemnification, there are 19 relatively few appeals pending.

20 THE COURT: That is a non-answer. Okay?

21 MR. MORRIS: I'm counting, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I would object to an off-the-cuff
24 response.

25 MR. MORRIS: I'm counting.

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We will follow up with the Court
2 and give you an exact number.

3 THE COURT: You know what, I --

4 MR. MORRIS: I believe -- I think --

5 THE COURT: My decision today is likely not going to 6 hinge on the precise answer here. Okay? I'm just asking a 7 question because I'm worried about judicial economy and what's 8 efficient, and I'm worried about a lingering continuing
9 argument that Mr. Seery is not wrapping things up quickly
10 enough. And I think the answer --

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: There's not a hundred million
12 dollars.

13 THE COURT: -- to this question is relevant to both
14 of those concerns. Having the precise answer, you know, no,
15 but I'd like a ballpark answer --

16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Here's the --

17 THE COURT: -- at least, if not precise.

18 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the ballpark --

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Here's the important answer, Your 20 Honor.

21 MR. MORRIS: The ballpark --

22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It's there's not a hundred 23 million dollars' worth of legal work left to do.

24 THE COURT: I just --

25 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It's --

1 THE COURT: -- asked for the answer to a question,
2 not an argument.

3 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

4 THE COURT: Mr. Morris, do you have an answer?

5 MR. MORRIS: It's approximately 55. But that 6 includes --

7 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: There are not 55 appeals
8 outstanding.

9 THE COURT: Stop interrupting. I want to hear the 10 complete answer.

11 Fifty-five is what, the number of notices of appeal ever
12 filed since the plan was confirmed?

13 MR. MORRIS: There are approximately 55 appeals that 14 have been filed in the Highland bankruptcy case. Some of 15 them, admittedly, include both an appeal to the District Court
16 and then, you know, depending on the outcome there, an appeal
17 to the Fifth Circuit. So it might involve the same case.

18 THE COURT: Okay.

19 MR. MORRIS: But there have been 55 appeals. Could 20 be 54, could be 56, something like that.

21 THE COURT: Okay.

22 MR. MORRIS: And there's -- and there's probably --
23 there's probably at least eight or ten in the pipeline.

24 THE COURT: Eight or ten, do you mean still pending
25 when you say in the pipeline?

1 MR. MORRIS: Still pending. Either haven't been
2 briefed at all; they've been briefed and we're waiting for a
3 court to rule; you know, it's in the District Court so we'll 4 have to await the outcome there and then see if we go to the 5 Fifth Circuit. I think there are -- I think we're waiting on 6 several decisions for the Fifth Circuit. I think there are 7 three matters in the pipeline in the Fifth Circuit, and 8 there's probably four or five in the District Court.

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Most of which have been largely 10 briefed, so that we are awaiting decision. It's a small 11 handful where there's still work to be done.

12 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just -- your decision last 13 week, we don't even have a judge in the District Court. The 14 notion that this is somehow, you know, on the precipice of 15 completing litigation, it's just not realistic. I'll just 16 leave it --

17 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That's not the point. The point
18 --

19 THE COURT: Look, I've heard about this enough. I
20 know that sometimes, luck of the draw, you have a judge, let's
21 say a district judge who doesn't have criminal jury trials
22 week, week, week, week, week, for the next six months, and 23 sometimes you have someone who just wrapped up something huge
24 and can get to an appeal quickly. We're coming up on August
25 before we know it, when we have changes of law clerks, new law

1 clerks coming in. And just who knows. Nobody can predict.
2 But I just wanted sheer numbers.

3 And my last question on this is, we technically had a
4 three-year trust duration, right? And I'm sure this is like 5 every other one I've ever seen in all these years: There's an 6 ability to extend the life of the trust. Am I correct that in 7 August we have a three-year end of trust --

8 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

9 THE COURT: -- unless otherwise extended, Mr. Morris?

10 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, you're exactly right. And 11 we will be filing a motion, probably in the next week or two,
12 to continue the trust, precisely because of all of this 13 litigation will not be resolved on the third anniversary. So 14 you're exactly right, Your Honor. We're in the process of 15 drafting it. I can't see how it will be opposed, but I'm sure 16 it will be.

17 We'll have a chart of all of the outstanding litigation.
18 Your Honor will see how many pieces of litigation are still 19 outstanding at that time. But I do expect to file that with 20 the Court in the next week or two.

21 THE COURT: All right. And I won't get ahead of 22 myself, but, really, the only thing, I'm guessing, after close 23 to three years, that is left as far as trust administration is 24 concluding these lawsuits. Probably all the assets have been 25 liquidated, right, at this point? Or --

1 MR. MORRIS: You know, I don't know off the top of my
2 head. I think there are a handful of assets, there may be a
3 few assets that remain unsold. There's some, you know,
4 managerial responsibilities over certain funds that we have to 5 dispose of. But all of that is kind of irrelevant because all
6 of that, I'm certain, will be completed before the end of the 7 litigation cycle. You know, like, we can talk about the cases
8 that are pending, but, you know, we had a new case filed just 9 recently, right, for leave to remove Jim Seery as Trustee.
10 And so, you know, if there's -- that's -- we're talking about 11 the litigation that's pending. We also have to be concerned
12 with what litigation Mr. Dondero might bring in the future.
13 And, you know, if he can promise that he'll never bring 14 another lawsuit, we might have a different view. But, you 15 know, with the threat of ongoing litigation, yeah, we're just 16 going to have to continue to husband resources.

17 But back to your specific question of the length of the 18 trust, we do expect to file a motion shortly to extend the 19 life of the trust, probably by a year, maybe two, but probably 20 by a year.

21 THE COURT: Okay. All right. The Court --

22 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I really apologize, but I
23 just have to tell you that I'm really low battery on my 24 computer. For some reason, my charger is not working. And if 25 I go blank, you'll know why. I'll switch to my phone.

1 THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

2 As far as the ruling here today, I will extend the stay of 3 this what I'll call a contested matter. Even though we don't
4 have a response to Hunter Mountain's motion for leave to file
5 the Delaware lawsuit on file yet, I'm calling it a contested
6 matter that's been initiated by the Hunter Mountain motion.
7 I'm going to extend the stay on letting the contested matter
8 go forward until all appeals have been finally exhausted in 9 connection with this Court's prior orders in which it has 10 ruled Hunter Mountain does not have stay to either file the 11 lawsuit -- oh, yes, I'm misspeaking, I meant to say standing
12 just now when I said stay. The parties know the orders I'm 13 talking about. Twice now, this Court has ruled that Hunter
14 Mountain does not have standing to pursue litigation. The 15 first time was in connection with when Hunter Mountain wanted
16 to sue claims purchasers Farallon and Stonegate, I think it
17 was called, Stonehill, and Mr. Seery concerning certain claims 18 trading that, I'll call it, that happened during the case.

19 I ruled extensively then, and I hear Judge Brown has it on 20 appeal now, why this Court thought Hunter Mountain did not 21 have standing under the confirmation order, the plan, the 22 Claimant Trust Agreement, or Delaware law.

23 And then I understand there's a new appeal when the Court
24 ruled Hunter Mountain doesn't have standing to pursue a
25 valuation complaint.

1           So, until all appeals, whether it ends in the District
2 Court or ends in the Fifth Circuit or I suppose a cert
3 petition could be filed to the Supreme Court, until all of 4 those appeals have been exhausted, this matter will not go
5 forward.

6           I have not been convinced today that the standing issues
7 now with regard to this newest Hunter Mountain motion are 8 sufficiently different where I should go forward and hear the 9 motion for leave.

10           So, as I've alluded to a couple of times, I think it's in 11 the interests of judicial economy and the efficient
12 administration of justice and in the interests of the parties
13 that I continue the stay in effect. I think there are very 14 real issues that we do have, collateral estoppel and law of 15 the case and other sorts of estoppel issues that would even 16 preclude me, should preclude me, from looking at the current 17 motion for leave.

18           But I will nevertheless look at the four-prong test for 19 stays that traditionally are applied. Prong #1, whether there 20 has been a showing of likelihood of success on the merits.
21 Again, I view that I've already ruled on this, and I've spilt
22 much ink on this, written well over a hundred pages on this.
23 And I think there is a likelihood of success on the merits
24 with regard to the issue of Hunter Mountain not having 25 standing on appeal.

1 I think there would be certainly harm and injury here,
2 I'll say irreparable harm, if we had to go through this yet
3 again, yet again, yet again. The balance of harms certainly 4 -- well, I don't just find the Reorganized Debtor to be
5 harmed. Whether Hunter Mountain realizes it or not, everyone
6 is going to be harmed if more litigation, more expense, is 7 incurred litigating the same darn thing again. And again,
8 based on what I've heard today, I don't see it any 9 differently.

10 The cases that were filed at 7:00 p.m. Central Time last 11 night, as I said, I wasn't even aware of it. I haven't looked 12 at them. But they are older cases. It's not like something 13 hot off the press from last week that Hunter Mountain would be 14 justified in putting before the Court if it was germane. And 15 just glancing at them, they don't seem to be relevant to this 16 situation, where you have a plan that went out on notice,
17 voting, opportunity for people to object, the Court approved
18 the plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement in a confirmation
19 order that was appealed.

20 We have, on top of that, the Delaware law that seemed to 21 be fairly dispositive that Hunter Mountain is not to be deemed 22 a beneficial owner of the trust.

23 So it is not in anyone's interest, as far as balancing of 24 harms here, in this matter going forward, as long as the 25 issues are primed for an appellate judge to either say you got

1 it wrong, Judge Jernigan, or you got it right. And the public
2 interest is, I think, in favor of judicial economy and 3 efficient administration of justice in this regard.

4 So if I go to the four-pronged test, it results in, I
5 think, the stay being extended here. But, again, this is kind
6 of a unique animal. I'm not sure that's even the way we 7 should view it. The way we should view it is I've been asked
8 again and again and again to rule on this issue. I've ruled
9 on it -- I say three times because I did a lengthy order on a 10 motion to reconsider the first time I did an order on this.
11 So I have done three lengthy rulings on this.

12 I guess I'm just going to say, in closing, and I want this 13 to be helpful but I'm guessing it might not be: The optics
14 here, Ms. Deitsch-Perez, look terrible. Terrible. I mean, 15 how else should it look to the Court? It's just like this has 16 become a blood sport and the optics make it look like, well, 17 it's not about justice and fairness. It's taken this very 18 ugly turn some time ago that let's try --

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We agree the --

20 THE COURT: -- let's try to destroy Mr. Seery. What 21 else is a rational judge supposed to think?

22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, Mr. Seery --

23 THE COURT: Now it's gotten to the point of raising 24 the same issue again and again and again. And guess what. If 25 this was going forward, if there was not going to be a stay in

1 place, I would be inclined to consider Rule 11 sanctions. How 2 many times is it proper for a party to keep asking for the 3 same thing again and again? You know, we'll use a different
4 counsel this time. We'll say it's different this time. It's 5 not different.

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, it is different, and 7 Mr. Seery -- and put it -- take it away from Mr. Seery. The 8 Claimant Trustee is the fiduciary for the parties who may 9 benefit ultimately from the Claimant Trust. And so they have 10 a right to make sure that the Claimant Trustee is not 11 preventing their rights from vesting. It is a perfectly
12 legitimate exercise. It is a perfectly legitimate endeavor.

13 And the optics do look bad. It looks like that the estate
14 is doing everything it can to prevent scrutiny of that.

15 So we agree the optics are bad, but in exactly the 16 opposite way. If there were transparency here, if we could 17 actually get a trustee who doesn't have this conflict, this 18 case could be resolved.

19 THE COURT: The 55 appeals, eight or ten of which are 20 still in the pipeline. Relatively few, as you said. But we 21 are three years post-effective date. That was the optics I'm 22 talking about. There is no reason for this case not to be 23 over except for this. That's the optics I'm talking about.

24 And it's one thing to legitimately exercise your right to 25 appeal, a party's right to appeal when they disagree. God

1 bless America. That's what our judicial system is about. But 2 when you start bringing the same motion again and again and
3 again, that is definitely Rule 11 territory and definitely
4 affects credibility. Okay?

5 Mr. Morris, if you're still there, please upload a simple
6 form of order reflecting what the Court ruled today.

7 We are adjourned.

8 MR. MORRIS: I am. Thank you. Thank you, Your
9 Honor.

10 THE CLERK: All rise.

1                   DALLAS, TEXAS - FEBRUARY 14, 2024 - 9:33 A.M.

2                   THE CLERK: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy
3 Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is
4 now in session, The Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

5                   THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. All
6 right. We have a setting this morning in the adversary styled
7 Dugaboy Investment Trust and Hunter Mountain Investment Trust
8 versus Highland, Adversary 23-3038.

9                   We have the Highland Parties' motion to dismiss the 10 adversary.

11                   Who is appearing for the Movant, Highland?

12                   MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. It's John
13 Morris from Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones for the Movant.

14                   THE COURT: All right. Thank you. And who do we
15 have appearing for Plaintiffs/Respondents?

16                   MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Good morning, Your Honor. It's
17 Deborah Deitsch-Perez from Stinson.

18                   THE COURT: All right.

19                   MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And I would ask: Is anybody else
20 having a little trouble hearing? The volume seems lower than 21 usual here.

22                   THE COURT: All right. It's loud and clear for the 23 Court. What about you, Mr. Morris?

24                   MR. MORRIS: It's no problem for me, Your Honor.

25                   THE COURT: Okay.

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. I'll just listen hard.

2 THE COURT: All right. Well, I assume these are the
3 only appearances we have.

4 As a reminder to folks on the WebEx, if you're a party in
5 interest, fine, you can use both video and audio. But if you
6 are not a case party in interest, the rules from Washington
7 say it's supposed to be only an audio listen-in format for 8 you.

9 All right. So let me quickly talk about our time issues.
10 I have to give a CLE presentation on the other side of 11 downtown at 12:00 noon today, so I really need to stop at 12 about 11:30 or 11:35. You all have given a two-hour time
13 estimate, so do you all think that is what you're going to 14 need, an hour each?

15 MR. MORRIS: I do, Your Honor. I don't know that
16 I'll need all that time, but I'll try and limit my opening
17 remarks to 45 minutes and save 15 for rebuttal.

18 THE COURT: All right. What about you, Ms. Deitsch-
19 Perez? Any issues there?

20 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I would say the same.

21 THE COURT: Okay. Very good. Well, with that, Mr.
22 Morris, I'll hear from you.

23 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE MOVANTS

24 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. John Morris;
25 Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones; for the Movant, Highland

1 Capital.

2 Your Honor, in the famous words of an old New Yorker, Yogi
3 Berra, this is déjà vu all over again. Less than eight months
4 ago, this Court issued rulings that held that HMIT was not a
5 Claimant Trust beneficiary because its contingent interests
6 have not vested. This Court ruled that HMIT was not in the
7 money. This Court ruled that HMIT's rights as a contingent
8 trust holder were determined solely with reference to the 9 Claimant Trust agreement, and under the Claimant Trust
10 agreement's clear and unambiguous provisions, they have no
11 rights today.

12 Now, in their complaint, HMIT and Dugaboy basically ask
13 for the same relief that they sought last year. They want
14 information for the purported purpose of establishing that
15 they are in the money, even though they told this Court last
16 summer, based on available information, that they were in the 17 money. They want a declaration that the value of trust assets
18 exceeds the value of the trust liabilities, and they want a 19 declaration that their contingent interests are likely to 20 vest.

21 And I'll talk more about this in a moment, but it's really
22 interesting, if you look at the last footnote of their
23 complaint, they expressly ask the Court not to rule as to 24 whether or not they are Claimant Trust beneficiaries. They
25 only want the Court to rule in a declaratory judgment that

1 they're likely to vest. We'll talk about that more in a
2 minute.

3 We need clear rulings on each of these matters, on each of
4 the bases for which Highland moves to dismiss this complaint,
5 because, you know, obviously, saying it once or twice hasn't 6 been enough, so we need to say it one more time, loudly and 7 clearly.

8 I've got a deck that I'll ask Andrea Bates to put up on
9 the screen. I hope to go through it fairly quickly.

10 THE COURT: Okay.

11 MR. MORRIS: Ms. Bates, if you can put our deck up,
12 please.

13 And I'd like to begin, once it's on the screen, just going
14 through the three counts of the complaint. These are the 15 counts that we're seeking to dismiss. They're -- they are,
16 frankly, fairly straightforward.

17 (Pause.)

18 MS. BATES: Apologies. I got kicked out of the 19 WebEx.

20 MR. MORRIS: Okay. (Pause.) Okay, great. If we can
21 go to the next slide, please.

22 So, the first count, Your Honor, the first count of the 23 complaint seeks the disclosure of trust assets and accounting,
24 and an accounting. In Paragraph 83, they make it clear, they 25 say, due to the lack of transparency into the assets of the

1 Claimant Trust, Plaintiffs are unable to determine whether the
2 contingent Claimant Trust interests may vest into Claimant
3 Trust interests. That's really an important allegation,
4 because it's a concession. And there are other concessions.
5 If you look at Paragraph 66, for example, it's a concession
6 that they're not Claimant Trust beneficiaries. They know
7 that. Right? No dispute. But they're seeking information to 8 determine whether they may vest. That's what they're asking
9 for.

10 And the next piece of this slide is also important because 11 they're not just asking for information about assets and 12 liabilities. They're asking for "details of all transactions
13 that have occurred." Even under their theory of trying to 14 figure out if they're in the money, why could that possibly be
15 relevant? Details of transactions that have occurred. You
16 know, Your Honor, we were here before the Court last spring on
17 the mediation motion, and I recall Your Honor specifically
18 asking Ms. Ruhland, what information? Because they were
19 seeking information then for the mediation. What information
20 could you possibly need other than assets and liabilities?
21 And she didn't really have an answer.

22 Your Honor asked us -- and ordered us, frankly -- to
23 produce that information, and we did. And that's the 24 information that we'll talk about in a moment that HMIT relied 25 upon to represent to the Court that it believed that the

1 entity was in the money.

2 But the important point here is why are they asking for
3 details about transactions that have occurred? It's just a --
4 it's just -- when we talk about the equities at the end, I'm
5 going to come back to that.

6 The important point here for Count One, Your Honor, they
7 don't cite to or rely on any provision of the plan. They
8 don't cite to or rely upon any provision of the Claimant Trust
9 agreement. They don't cite to or rely upon any statute. This
10 is a purely equitable claim.

11 If we can go to the next slide, please.

12 Count Two seeks a declaratory judgment concerning the
13 value of the assets relative to the liabilities, but it's a
14 conditional request. It requires that the Defendants be
15 compelled to provide the information. And that's what it says
16 in Paragraph 90. And it flows from that, according to them,
17 that if assets exceed liabilities, all kinds of great things
18 are going to happen. All affirmative proceedings can be 19 deemed unnecessary. The bankruptcy court -- case can be
20 brought to a close, and the bloodshed will stop.

21 But what's really interesting about this, and it portrays
22 the intent of Hunter Mountain in this proceeding, is that they
23 only want the affirmative proceeding to stop. If you look at 24 Paragraph 91, and it's quoted there in the footnote, they only
25 want pending adversary proceedings and get recovering value of

1 the HCMF -- HC -- the Highland estate.

2 So, presumably, they'll be allowed, right, they'll get
3 paid. All creditors, according to them, if assets exceed
4 liabilities, they get paid. And then all of the indemnified
5 parties have nothing to use to defend themselves under the
6 indemnities. That's what they're looking to do. It's really
7 clear. And the Court should understand that they're not
8 really ambiguous here. They want to look at all of the 9 transactions. They want to, even under their theory that
10 Class 8 and Class 9 should get paid, they should get 11 everything else, there should be nothing left, and they should
12 be able to continue to sue Mr. Seery and the Reorganized
13 Debtor and the Claimant Trust and my firm from now until the 14 end of time. That's the motivation here.

15 Let's look at Count Three. Count Three, they want a
16 declaratory judgment regarding the nature of their interests
17 in the Claimant Trust. But not really. But not really. What 18 they want is a declaration and a determination that there are
19 conditions, that the conditions are such that the contingent
20 interests are "likely to vest." Again, if you look at the 21 footnote, and we'll look at it in detail, they're again not
22 asking the Court, because they know what the answer is going
23 to be, they're not asking the Court to find that they are 24 Claimant Trust beneficiaries, just that they are likely to 25 vest at some point in the future.

1           They don't cite to or rely upon any provision of the plan.
2           Again, they don't cite to or rely upon any provision in the 3           Claimant Trust agreement or in any statute. It's a purely
4           equitable claim.

5           If we can go to the next slide.

6           The terms of the Claimant Trust agreement determine when
7           and if Plaintiffs are Claimant Trust beneficiaries, full stop.
8           Under the Delaware Statutory Trust Act, whether a party is a
9           beneficiary here, a Claimant Trust beneficiary, is determined
10          by the plain language of the governing instrument -- here, the 11          Claimant Trust agreement. And the plan, frankly, because the 12          plan provisions matter in Articles III and IV. They also 13          provide the same conditions for vesting.

14          We cited in our papers a case called Paul Capital
15          Advisors. Paul Capital Advisors is from the Delaware Chancery
16          Court. And what's really interesting about that case, Your 17          Honor, is in that case the plaintiff was seeking to remove a
18          trustee. A lawyer by the name of Michael Hurst defended that 19          case, and Mr. Hurst -- who's a -- Mr. Ellington's counsel
20          today; he was before Your Honor in December on the Ellington
21          stalking matter; he's a longtime lawyer for Mr. Dondero -- Mr.
22          Hurst actually urged the court to dismiss the case on the 23          grounds that the plaintiff wasn't a beneficiary under the 24          plain terms of that trust agreement. And the court granted
25          the motion to dismiss, just like the Court should grant the

1 motion to dismiss today.

2 So one of Mr. Dondero's own lawyers was in the Delaware
3 Chancery Court making the exact same argument that we're
4 making today, and that is, even referring to the Restatement,
5 a trust's beneficiaries are the people who are defined as
6 beneficiaries in the trust governing documents or that are
7 otherwise reflective of the settlor's intent. That's what
8 Paul Capital Advisors holds.

9 Here, the settlor specifically decided to exclude HMIT and
10 Dugaboy as holders of the Class 10 and 11 claims from the 11 definition of Claimant Trust beneficiaries. We know that.
12 We're going to look at that language in a moment.

13 The Claimant Trust agreement includes very specific
14 provisions concerning vesting, none of which refer to,
15 concern, or are dependent on the value of the trust assets and
16 liabilities at any moment in time.

17 Being in the money is legally irrelevant under the plain
18 terms of the plan and under the plain terms of the Claimant
19 Trust agreement and on the plain terms of the case that Mr.
20 Hurst successfully argued in the Delaware Chancery Court known
21 as Paul Capital Advisors.

22 If we can go to the next slide.

23 Let's look at the provisions. Let's see. Right? Because 24 one of the bases for the motion to dismiss is that they have
25 no rights under the plan. Neither Hunter Mountain nor Dugaboy

1 have any rights under the plan. And, you know, if you follow
2 Capital Advisors, and, really, just as the Court did last
3 summer when it decided, I think properly and appropriately,
4 that Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy's rights are determined
5 solely under the provisions of the plan, let's just look at 6 those provisions.

7 The Claimant Trust agreement, in Section 3.12,
8 specifically says that the agreement doesn't require the
9 Claimant Trustee to file any accounting. That's the reasoning
10 sought in Count One. Can't do it. No. Right? There's no
11 obligation to do it.

12 If we can go to the next slide.

13 Section 3.12(b) provides -- requires the Claimant Trustee
14 to provide quarterly reporting to Oversight Board and Claimant
15 Trust beneficiaries. Again, no allegation that Hunter
16 Mountain or Dugaboy is an Oversight Board member. No
17 allegation that they're Claimant Trust beneficiaries. In 18 fact, the whole purpose of the complaint, supposedly, is to 19 get information so that they can determine whether or not
20 they're likely to vest.

21 So, there's a concession that they're not Claimant Trust
22 beneficiaries. And so only those two groups of people,
23 Oversight Board members and Claimant Trust beneficiaries, are 24 entitled to receive these quarterly reports. And because
25 Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy don't fall into either group, they

1 have no rights under Section 3.12(b).

2 Just to make it abundantly clear -- if we go to the next
3 slide -- let's look at the definition of Claimant Trust
4 beneficiary. Again, this is right out of the Claimant Trust
5 agreement, Section 1.1(h). And it says, holders of allowed
6 general unsecured claims or allowed subordinated claims, and
7 only upon the certification of the Claimant Trustee that all
8 holders of claims have been paid indefeasibly in full. That's 9 a reference to Class 10 and 11 with the holders of the former
10 limited partnership interests. Only then do they vest.
11 That's how they vest. You've got to file this certification
12 saying that everybody has been paid in full.

13 And they say, oh, gee, well, if assets exceed liabilities,
14 that must mean they're in the money and the Trustee should 15 just pay them in full.

16 But that's not what that trust agreement says. And let's
17 be clear. The trust agreement and the plan were adopted and 18 confirmed by this Court more than three years ago now. It was
19 the first week of February 2021. Those documents were subject
20 to appeal, but nothing we're talking about today is -- was 21 ever the subject of appeals. Right? So these are the
22 agreements. They're sacrosanct. The Delaware Chancery Court
23 says you've got to follow the agreement. So let's do that.

24 If we can go to the next slide.

25 Distributions. So, right, the Claimant Trustee has to

1 certify that everybody has been paid in full. But what about
2 distributions? When are they going to get paid in full?
3 According to the plain and unambiguous terms of the Claimant
4 Trust agreement, the Claimant Trust agreement shall distribute
5 to holders of trust interests at least annually the cash on
6 hand -- here's the important word: net -- net of any amounts
7 that, among other things, if you go down to (d), are necessary
8 to satisfy or reserve for other liabilities incurred or
9 anticipated by the Claimant Trustee, in accordance with the 10 plan and this agreement, including but not limited to 11 indemnification obligations.

12 So it doesn't matter if assets exceed liabilities. We 13 don't believe that they do. We don't believe that there is 14 any reason to even engage in the debate. And the reason for 15 that is because we've got substantial indemnification
16 obligations that must be reserved for. And if -- and -- and 17 -- we'll talk about that more in a moment.

18 But that's the key. That's the key here. They don't 19 vest. Right? Class 10 and 11 does not vest until the 20 Claimant Trustee certifies that everybody has been paid in 21 full. And nobody is going to be paid in full as long as the
22 Claimant Trust has indemnification obligations that must be
23 satisfied. The Claimant Trustee is a fiduciary. He owes the 24 beneficiaries of indemnification rights the duty to make sure
25 that the Claimant Trust has sufficient assets to satisfy the

1 indemnification obligations.

2           And do you know who's not here today, Your Honor? Any
3 Claimant Trust beneficiary. Any Claimant Trust beneficiary
4 who would -- there is nobody here complaining that Mr. Seery
5 is abusing his rights. There's no -- nobody is complaining
6 that he should be distributing the cash. Nobody is
7 complaining that, you know, he's overwithholding. And we'll
8 talk more about why, actually, what he's doing is proper,
9 although that's not an issue before the Court today. The only
10 issue before the Court, frankly, is Section 6.1. And it says
11 the trust must reserve amounts necessary or deemed necessary
12 to satisfy indemnity obligations.

13           If we can go to the next slide, please.

14           So now let's get to the motion to dismiss itself now that
15 we have an understanding of exactly what the Claimant Trust
16 agreement and the plan provide. Let's look back at what the 17 Court did. The Court issued two very important rulings last
18 year on these very issues. And in the Court's lengthy
19 decision on the Hunter Mountain motion for leave, the Court
20 concluded, quote, HMIT's status as a beneficiary of the 21 Claimant Trust was designed by the Claimant Trust agreement
22 itself, pure and simple. The Court was right then, and the 23 Court will be right today when presumably it stands by its 24 prior ruling.

25           Under the Claimant Trust agreement, contingent trust

1 interests have no rights until they vest. And there's no
2 dispute that they have not vested because the Claimant Trustee
3 has not filed a certification that everybody is getting paid
4 in full. That's what the language of the document says. We
5 really are done here.

6 But there's more, because after that hearing Hunter
7 Mountain made another motion and said, wait, Your Honor, those
8 disclosures that you required Highland to make in support of 9 mediation, they show we're in the money. They've already 10 swung and they've missed at this. They said, oh, we're in the 11 money. And Your Honor, unlike HMIT, actually read the 12 disclosures and actually saw all of the contingencies in 13 there.

14 It's ironic that HMIT, of all people, would be telling the
15 Court that they're in the money when their beneficial owners
16 are actually appealing the $70 million Notes Litigation, when 17 their beneficial owners are playing fast and loose with the 18 value of assets that they control, such as HCRE. Right? But 19 they're still here with the same tired story, maybe we're in 20 the money.

21 Your Honor, you've ruled on this and we're done, as far as
22 I'm concerned. You found, among other things, that they
23 failed to give proper attention to the notes to the financial
24 statements that were integral to understanding the numbers. I
25 hope that they've done that now.

1 Your Honor ruled that they failed to take into account the
2 widespread litigation that's caused massive indemnification
3 claims and legal fees, all of which must be satisfied.

4 Based on this Court's decision less than five months ago
5 -- I think it was actually eight months ago -- Counts One and
6 Three are moot and they're otherwise barred by collateral
7 estoppel.

8 If we can go to the next slide, please.

9 Count Two must also be dismissed because it depends on
10 Highland being "compelled to provide information about the 11 Claimant Trust assets." That's in Paragraph 90. So if the 12 Court doesn't compel Highland, the Court has no ability to 13 make the declaration that's sought.

14 But even if you could, right, there's -- Plaintiffs have
15 no legally cognizable right. They don't cite to anything.
16 They don't have an equitable claim to compel Highland to 17 provide trust -- the information. There is no underlying
18 controversy to be resolved. They have no right to this
19 information. They have no equitable claim to this
20 information.

21 As we set forth in Paragraph 39 of our moving brief, they
22 can't come here seeking equity that's barred by the plain
23 terms of the trust agreement. The trust agreement, again,
24 reflects the settlor's intent. The settlor intended that he
25 would provide or that the Claimant Trustee would provide

1 limited information to the claimant board members and Claimant
2 Trust beneficiaries, of which neither Hunter Mountain nor
3 Dugaboy are one. They can't use equity to just override the
4 very plain meaning of the operative documents and the intent
5 of the settlor.

6 The Claimant Trust agreement is determinative. Since the
7 value of the trust assets and liabilities at any moment in
8 time is irrelevant to the question of vesting, there is no
9 justiciable controversy to resolve.

10 So, two reasons. I don't think the Court can order
11 Highland to produce any information, so it fails for that
12 reason. And even if it did, the whole issue is completely
13 irrelevant, given the plain terms of the trust agreement and
14 the plan, so there is no justiciable controversy.

15 If we can go to the next slide.

16 Some other grounds to dismiss Count One. Right? Again,
17 no legal right to the information or an accounting. Again,
18 the request for equitable relief is barred by the plain terms
19 of the trust agreement since they're not Claimant Trust
20 beneficiaries.

21 And it's worth noting, as I mentioned earlier when we saw
22 the very provision in the trust agreement, even Claimant Trust
23 beneficiaries have no right to an accounting, or any right to 24 any information beyond that provided in Section 3.12. But,
25 again, I don't want to suggest that Hunter Mountain or Dugaboy

1 have any entitlement. It's just to contrast where actual
2 trust beneficiaries lie vis-à-vis Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy.

3 If we can go to the next slide.

4 Other grounds to dismiss Count Three. Again, in Count
5 Three, Plaintiffs seek a declaration as to whether or not the
6 Claimant Trust beneficiaries may be indefeasibly paid and
7 whether the conditions are such that their claimant -- you
8 know, contingent Claimant Trust interests are likely to vest
9 into Claimant Trust interests, making them Claimant Trust
10 beneficiaries, yet another admission that they're not Claimant
11 Trust beneficiaries today.

12 These are inquiries that would require the Court to, among
13 other things, handicap the likelihood of Mr. Dondero's appeal
14 in the Notes Litigation and the amount that is going to be
15 needed to satisfy future indemnity obligations.

16 I have a reference in this bullet to Docket No. 3880.
17 Your Honor, that's the other piece of information that I think
18 the Court required Highland to produce in connection with the 19 mediation, where we identified all of the outstanding
20 litigation that we have. You know, we are here today. I was 21 in Dallas two weeks ago before Judge Scholer to have oral
22 argument on the Advisors' appeal of the judgment that was 23 entered in favor of Highland and against them a couple of 24 years ago.

25 We obviously had a lot of paperwork to deal with on the

1 motion for leave, you know, to sue my firm that was withdrawn
2 in the face of a Rule 11 motion.

3 You know, these are all things that weren't even on that
4 list. We've got the appeal now of the original Hunter
5 Mountain decision. Again, with so many issues on appeal, I
6 don't even know if the District Court will ever get to the
7 standing question, because there's like literally dozens of 8 issues on appeal.

9 We were in Houston last week for a Fifth Circuit argument
10 on Your Honor's order conforming the plan to the original
11 Fifth Circuit decision on confirmation.

12 All of these things are expensive. Mr. Dondero is famous
13 for complaining about how expensive this is, and yet he
14 continues to drive these costs. This hearing is making it
15 much less -- it's making it less likely that he's ever going
16 to be in the money. Every time we have another court
17 appearance, every time he files another complaint, every time
18 he, you know, does things to cause us to spend money, his
19 being in the money -- not that it's legally relevant; I don't 20 want to make any suggestion that it is -- but that's why we 21 need these indemnification reserves, because there is no end
22 in sight.

23 We do have a vexatious litigant motion, Your Honor.
24 Hopefully, that will be successful. Hopefully, that will
25 curtail things in the future. But, you know, remains to be

1 seen. That's just something that we feel we need to do.

2 The Plaintiffs tacitly admit that these requests are for
3 impermissible advisory opinions. Obviously, they are. Any
4 time you're asking the Court to make a determination about
5 what's likely to happen in the future that has no legal
6 significance whatsoever, it's an advisory opinion.

7 And, again, this is what I referred to earlier. If you
8 look at Footnote 6 to Paragraph 94 of the complaint, oddly,
9 they don't ask the Court to determine that they're Claimant
10 Trust beneficiaries. Maybe it's because they've already
11 admitted that they're not. I don't know. They're not asking
12 the Court to convert their contingent interests into
13 noncontingent interests. Again, maybe because they're -- it's
14 an acknowledgement and an admission that that can't happen.
15 But here's the tell, because those issues must be done in 16 accordance with the plan and the CTA. We agreed. There's no
17 dispute. There is no judiciable, justiciable dispute here.
18 We agreed that all of these issues are decided by the plain
19 terms of the plan.

20 I think that's my last slide, so you can take this down.

21 I just briefly want to finish up with just some
22 observations about equities. As a matter of law, equity can't
23 trump contractual terms. But if for some reason the Court
24 even wanted to consider the question, I would ask the Court to
25 take very seriously Hunter Mountain and Dugaboy's pleadings

1 where they're asking not for information regarding assets and
2 liabilities, but they want a review of all of the prior
3 transactions. They want to second-guess everything the
4 Claimant Trustee has done to date. That smells. Right? And
5 it's not the first time we've dealt with this issue. You
6 know, Your Honor can take judicial notice of their pleadings
7 in the Fifth Circuit when they were appealing that 2015.3
8 ruling. They explicitly told the Fifth Circuit they want
9 information so that they can bring more claims. Right?

10 So there's not a good faith basis for this. There's not a
11 legal basis for it. There's not an equitable basis for it.
12 The Court has ruled on these issues multiple times already.
13 There is no judiciable controversy before the Court. And for 14 all of those reasons, the Court should just dismiss this
15 complaint.

16 I have nothing further, Your Honor.

17 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, you referred to 18 the list of pending matters. And last night at 10:00 o'clock
19 in bed, I meant to pull this up because it was referred to in 20 one of the pleadings as well, and I didn't do it. Could you
21 tell me the docket entry that appears at?

22 MR. MORRIS: Yeah, I think it's 3880. I apologize.
23 I'm actually looking at my phone. I wouldn't typically do
24 this, but I'm going to see if I can quickly find that. But I
25 believe it's 3880.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 (Court confers with Clerk.)

3 THE COURT: Okay. All right. Ms. Deitsch-Perez?

4 OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENTS

5 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Thank you. This adversary
6 proceeding actually has deep roots. It was started by motion
7 a long time ago, long before that balance sheet was filed.
8 And it was done because the Claimant Trustee and the estate
9 have consistently obscured the available resources in order to 10 make it harder for the residual equity holders to investigate
11 whether the estate has been mismanaged, to their detriment.

12 THE COURT: Did you say --

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Mr. Morris talked --

14 THE COURT: Can I -- you said they've obscured the 15 resources?

16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. They've obscured what's in
17 the estate. If you -- we'll look more closely at that balance
18 sheet, Your Honor. In addition to not having filed the 2015
19 reports, the balance sheet, you're right, has a number of 20 notes on it. But the notes -- and we'll look at those and go
21 through them -- don't -- don't -- aren't illuminating. If you
22 look at the face of the balance sheet, there is enough money
23 to pay everybody and have money left over.

24 You have to rely on obscure, undetailed notes and
25 assertions and assumptions to say maybe, maybe there won't be

1 money left over. But on the face of the balance sheet, there
2 is enough money to pay everybody.

3 And if there's enough money to pay everybody, the leftover
4 money is HMIT's. It's not -- it's not the professionals'.
5 It's not the Claimant Trustee's. What's being used now is the
6 residual -- old residual equity's money.

7 So Mr. Morris brought up mediation, and that was an
8 interesting point, because in the papers, arguing about
9 whether or not Your Honor should grant mediation, the estate
10 and Mr. Seery made it very clear there would only be a
11 resolution if there were complete and total releases given and 12 all litigation stopped. So that was clear. We understood
13 that. And what was at stake, obviously, in any mediation is 14 what's left. So, what are the residual -- what's the 15 residual?

16 But if we can't find out what the residual is and we can't
17 find out what actually is being released, this estate can't 18 ever end. It's not the Plaintiffs here who are keeping the 19 engine going. It's the Defendants, because they know exactly
20 how to push the buttons to raise suspicions about whether
21 something untoward has gone on.

22 And so let me test the premise of the Defendants here with
23 a hypothetical. Because, remember, Defendants arguments for
24 dismissal turn on the contention that the Claimant Trust
25 agreement prevents Plaintiffs from being considered

1 beneficiaries, no matter how much money the Claimant Trust has
2 -- or squandered, for that matter -- if Mr. Seery doesn't
3 authorize payment of Class 8 and 9 creditors in full and
4 affirmatively certify that Classes 10 and 11 are
5 beneficiaries. So, unless he does that, it's the Defendants'
6 position Plaintiffs have no means of redress.

7       So let's test that with a hypothetical. Let's say that
8 Mr. Seery, let's say that the Claimant Trustee, to keep
9 earning his $150,000 a month indefinitely, massively
10 overspends professional fees to justify an objectively
11 unreasonable indemnity reserve of $125 million. And let's say
12 he deliberately dribbles out payments to Class 8 and 9 so that 13 eventually the combination of interest, administration, and
14 professional fees is sufficient to eliminate the amounts that 15 would otherwise be payable to the last dollar of 8 and 9, much
16 less Classes 10 and 11.

17       And let's make the hypothetical even more extreme. What
18 if Mr. Seery moved money into the Indemnity Subtrust and paid
19 it to phantom vendors? I'm not saying he did that. I don't
20 want stories about how we're accusing him of something. This 21 is a hypothetical. But let's say he did that. He put it in
22 the subtrust, paid it to phantom vendors, who kicked it back
23 to him, in order to keep the amount low enough to pay the last
24 dollar to Classes 8 and 9.

25       Under the Defendants' theory here, that can't ever be

1 discovered, much less remedied. And so that's why, that's why
2 there is an equitable argument here, and a practical argument,
3 Your Honor.

4 Because Your Honor has said you want this to end. This
5 has to end. Well, the only way it can end is if there's
6 sunshine, if there's enough disclosure and investigation so
7 everybody can get comfortable that releases are appropriate
8 and the money that could be left is left there, and then
9 everybody can go home. Because we are all really tired of 10 this. But it's the Defendants that are keeping it going.

11 THE COURT: Let me interrupt you. There are many 12 jurisdictional arguments, as you all know. Many issues for 13 this Court, legal issues here. But here are two things that
14 stand out above all. And one is do the Plaintiffs have a
15 contractual right to the information they seek or not. Why
16 should the Court look beyond the Creditor Trust agreement, the 17 plan, the confirmation order, which are final? These issues
18 were never complained about. There's not enough transparency
19 in the trust agreement language: No one ever made that
20 argument. It's not on appeal.

21 So, again, many jurisdictional arguments here, but why
22 should I ignore clear contractual terms here? It almost feels
23 like modifying the plan three years down the road. So --

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It's not --

25 THE COURT: So, --

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I'll say it's not, Your Honor.
2 It's not, Your Honor, because under Delaware law and under the
3 good faith and fair dealing, every contract in Delaware --
4 we're not in -- it's not a Texas contract -- in Delaware,
5 there's a covenant of good faith and fair dealing. And when a
6 party to a contract actually does things that prevent someone
7 else from obtaining the benefits under the contract, then you
8 don't read the contract literally, you read it to prevent the 9 wrongdoer from getting the benefit of their wrongdoing. And 10 that's --

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That's the reason Your Honor can
13 and must allow this case to go forward. Because, otherwise,
14 there is a terrible, terrible law that's being created. It
15 enables somebody to --

16 THE COURT: Well, you say it's terrible law, but,
17 again, the trust agreement was out there for consumption
18 before the confirmation hearing. And your clients --

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, --

20 THE COURT: -- or others could have come in and said,
21 this just doesn't work, this lack of transparency, this lack 22 of oversight, this lack of access to information. And you
23 didn't.

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, who would have
25 thought that the --

1 THE COURT: And not only that, but this is not -- I
2 have no reason to believe this is atypical language. In the
3 dozens if not hundreds of post-confirmation liquidating trust
4 agreements I've seen, it looks like standard fare.

5 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, there is no -- no one
6 could have contemplated at the time that we would be in the
7 situation that we are now, with information not having been
8 provided. Many Chapter 11s are much more cooperative.
9 They're not liquidations. They're reorganizations. They're
10 -- people are trying to end the estate, so they're sharing
11 information. This is not a circumstance that could have been 12 contemplated. And Your Honor can do something about it now.

13 THE COURT: Well, which brings me to my second sort
14 of overarching issue that stands out, of all the different
15 issues. And these are my own words more than anything I think
16 I've read. It feels like what you're asking for, if there's a
17 jurisdictional way to get there, if there's a legal way to get
18 there, it feels like it would be a meaningless exercise,
19 because the value in the trust is going down daily. It's
20 going down hourly, as we speak. The value I could determine,
21 if this goes to trial, would be completely meaningless a
22 month, two months, five months, three years later, because of 23 all the litiga...

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, but on that theory --

25 THE COURT: Please don't interrupt until I finish. I

1 want to make sure my point is clear. My law clerk --

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay.

3 THE COURT: -- did bring in to me the list --

4 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I understand.

5 THE COURT: -- the list of litigation. And even
6 this, if we pulled up the right one, it's several months old,
7 so even this is very dated.

8 But let me put it in very plain terms. It kind of feels
9 like your client is its worst enemy in getting this relief,
10 because your client, because of the fifty-something appeals
11 and because of the motions for leave to bring litigation, is 12 causing the value of this trust to plummet. And we're never 13 -- it seems like a meaningless exercise. I'll never be able 14 to make a declaratory judgment as your client wants me to, if
15 I can get there legally and jurisdictionally. How could I get 16 to a point of being able to value the trust and value the 17 likelihood, determine the likelihood that your client is in 18 the money when the legal fees are going up hourly because of 19 all of these appeals?

20 I'm not saying your client isn't entitled to appeal, but
21 I'm just saying he may be his own worst enemy. That strategy
22 means he's probably never going to be in the money.

23 So these are my -- I just, I'm wanting you hopefully to 24 focus on these two biggest overarching issues in my brain.

25 The trust agreement --

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay.

2 THE COURT: -- says what it says.

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And I can do that, Your Honor.

4 THE COURT: I'm supposed to respect contractual
5 terms. So that's overarching issue number one in my mind.

6 But second, again, I don't know what the legal term would
7 be for meaningless exercise, but it's just, it's almost like
8 an impossibility thing to ever declare a value that means
9 anything when it's going to be different two weeks from now, 10 --

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, --

12 THE COURT: -- a month from now, a year from now.

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, it's not an
14 impossibility. That, one, we would endeavor to do this really
15 quickly and efficiently so that the cost of this is not
16 material to what's in the estate.

17 But secondly, these kinds of exercises are done all the 18 time in litigation. You estimate the future values. You --
19 an expert can assist Your Honor in determining what is a
20 reasonable indemnification reserve. These are things that can
21 be done. This is what lawyers and judges do.

22 THE COURT: This is off the chart. This is not like
23 any other situation I can think of. This is off the chart
24 with the amount of post-confirmation litigation. I mean, if 25 you can point me to something analogous out there, I'd love to

1 see it.

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: The fact that there isn't a case
3 exactly like this doesn't change the fact that there are
4 professionals who can look at this, can look at what has been
5 spent so far, can look at whether hearings could have two or
6 three lawyers instead of ten, and make an estimate of the 7 amount that's appropriate for an indemnity reserve. That's
8 something that's susceptible of proof and determination.

9 It's not impossible for Your Honor to decide that, and
10 it's not fruitless. Someone can say, hey, wait a minute,
11 every hearing you had, you know, ten people from Pachulski and 12 ten people from Quinn, even though they're no longer really
13 involved, and ten people from Willkie. And so if you can rein
14 that in, the Court can say, this is what a reasonable
15 indemnification would be and this is what's left. And so,
16 yes, it will finally create a path for us to resolve this
17 estate.

18 But without this information, we're left with suspicion
19 and uncertainty. How do you resolve something when you don't 20 even know what's left? We don't -- because the reporting is
21 quarterly, we've heard rumors in the marketplace that Class 8
22 has been paid in full. So I would ask Mr. Morris, is that
23 correct? Has Class 8 already been paid in full? We don't 24 know. I mean, can you tell us, what's the amount of the 25 estate right now? We don't know. Because we don't know what

1 those notes mean. And Your Honor isn't -- and Your Honor
2 doesn't know and can't know without shedding a light on this
3 what that balance sheet really means.

4 And Mr. Morris makes a big deal about, oh, there are
5 admissions in the complaint then they don't know if they're in
6 the money. Your Honor, the complaint was filed before the
7 balance sheet. So when in the last proceeding HMIT said it's
8 in the money, that's because it knew from the balance sheet
9 it's in the money. So you know now, you can look at that
10 balance sheet and say on the face of it, okay, there is more
11 -- there are more assets than liabilities. In order to 12 determine that that wouldn't be the case, you'd need a lot
13 more information about what those notes that you point to in
14 the denial of reconsideration actually mean.

15 But here, the estate is trying to say no, not only do the 16 Plaintiffs not get to know that information, we're not telling
17 Your Honor, either. We're just putting a lid on it. And so
18 we can all go on fighting because we don't have the 19 disinfectant of information.

20 And so -- and now we'll get into more of the law. Your
21 Honor asked, how can I do this? Delaware law requires this
22 Court to afford standing to all beneficiaries, including
23 contingent ones. And especially when it's alleged that vested
24 status is being withheld in contravention of the duty of good
25 faith and fair dealing.

1 So let's go to Slide 3.

2 Okay. Let's take a look at where we started and why, why
3 we're so upset about this. If you look at the value of the 4 estate as of June of '22, there was somewhere in the mid-$600
5 million in assets. And at the start, there was something
6 under $400 million in claims. And so now, as of the end of
7 '23 -- go back a second, go back, Mike, one more -- as of the 8 end of '23, there was about $120 million of Class 8 and 9
9 remaining. But remember, there was -- you know, if you
10 subtract 400 from 650, you've got $250 million. That's a
11 pretty big cushion.

12 So let's go forward and look at what we know from the 13 balance sheet. So, if we -- and we've put references there.
14 But if we go through -- you can see from the face of the 15 balance sheet there is a net value -- that's after everybody,
16 8 and 9 have been paid off -- of $122 million. So, in order
17 to get rid of that, you have to assume the indemnification is 18 going to eat up all of that.

19 Now, think about what the indemnification means. If in 20 fact there was no wrongdoing, well, there'll be no judgment to 21 indemnify.

22 THE COURT: But what about the --

23 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: If in fact --

24 THE COURT: What about the professional fees?

25 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: $122 million, Your Honor?

1 THE COURT: Well, we're three years post-
2 confirmation, with no end in sight to these appeals.

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I think it defies
4 belief that they could reasonably spend $122 million. And the
5 point is, if we can get this information and really have
6 satisfaction that maybe there's really nothing bad that's
7 happened and there are no -- there's no hidden money anywhere,
8 and we know what's there, this can end. This can end.

9 THE COURT: Do you --

10 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We can finally see the light at 11 the end of the tunnel.

12 THE COURT: I mean, again, we're here for legal
13 argument, but you're saying this could end. This is never 14 going to end. This is never going to end. I stayed things in 15 2023, at your client's request, to take another crack at 16 mediation. Okay? Even though we did mediation, even though I
17 stayed everything in 2020 before confirmation and ordered
18 global mediation and things didn't work out, your clients and
19 Mr. Dondero convinced me, two years post-confirmation, stay
20 everything again, because we don't think we got attention or 21 respect from the mediators. The Debtor was focused on other
22 people, like UBS and the Redeemer Committee and Joshua Terry.

23 So I don't know what happened, and I don't want to know
24 what happened. It's not my role to know what happened in the 25 most recent mediation exercise. But I do know that it's

1 enough to convince me this will never end. When things were
2 stayed --

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And Your Honor, --

4 THE COURT: When things were stayed and the legal
5 fees weren't -- well, they were probably continuing to accrue
6 because there were still appeal deadlines out there right and
7 left that had to be addressed. But it's not going to settle.
8 It's going to go on forever whether you get this information
9 or not.

10 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I'm telling you, and
11 I represent the Plaintiffs, that the only thing that can 12 enable this to end is to have sufficient information to be
13 able to say, okay, I know what this all means, I know what
14 we'll get, I know what we're foregoing.

15 How can anything ever settle if you don't know what you're 16 giving up and you don't know what you're getting? How would
17 that be possible? How would that be fair to parties to say,
18 you should settle but you don't know what you're giving up and 19 you don't know what you're getting? We're trying to get to 20 the point where we could end this.

21 Shall I go on, Your Honor?

22 THE COURT: Yes, please.

23 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Okay. Mike, next slide.

24 Okay. This is just a quick summary of the Defendants'
25 arguments. Mootness, collateral estoppel, advisory opinion,

1 standing, failure to state a claim, and unclean hands.

2 Let's go to the next.

3 Okay. So, ironically, the Defendants argue that the
4 balance sheet filed on July 6th eliminates the controversy
5 among the party, parties, mootng the claims. But that can't
6 be true, and Defendants won't provide the information to fill
7 out the notes on the balance sheet and when -- when the
8 balance sheet on its face shows assets exceed liabilities but
9 the Defendants continue to maintain that they don't but
10 without any analysis of why that's so.

11 Let's go on to the next.

12 But the Defendants shouldn't be able to have it both ways.
13 If the balance sheet and financial statements are insufficient
14 to determine whether assets exceed liabilities, as they claim,
15 then the claims can't be moot. And, of course, a claim can't
16 be dismissed simply because a defendant says in a pleading
17 that a particular document shows that plaintiffs lack standing
18 when the document itself does no such thing.

19 On its face, the balance sheet shows assets exceed
20 liabilities. But if there's any doubt or ambiguity, that 21 means discovery is needed, not that claims should be
22 dismissed. This is a fact issue on which Plaintiffs are 23 entitled to discovery and trial.

24 The next slide.

25 So, I mean, in response to the mootness arguments,

1 Plaintiffs cite cases that -- uncontroversial cases that say,
2 when there's still a controversy, that claims are not moot.
3 And if you'll look at Defendants' reply, they don't address
4 any of that.

5 The Defendants also rely on the Court's order denying
6 reconsideration of the HMIT gatekeeper regarding insider
7 trading to say that it either moots Count Three or is the
8 basis to collaterally estop Plaintiffs from proceeding. And
9 there are numerous reasons that that's wrong.

10 So, one, the Court's dicta -- and it was dicta, because 11 the Court had a lot of other reasons that it disposed of the 12 matter -- is based on information that the Defendants now
13 refuse to stand behind. And the Court's order doesn't address
14 whether HMIT is in the money now or when the complaint was 15 filed or whether it will ever. And it certainly doesn't
16 exclude the potential that Plaintiffs would certainly be in
17 the money but for Claimant Trustee's alleged breaches of good
18 faith and fair dealing. So there's nothing about the Court's
19 original or reconsideration order that precludes standing
20 here.

21 Moreover, the order is obviously one that's on appeal and
22 may be overturned.

23 Next slide.

24 If we look more closely at the requirements of collateral
25 estoppel, Defendants are ignoring the basic elements of the

1 doctrine. So, one, the question is, are the claims identical?
2 And they're not, for the reasons that I mentioned. The issues
3 were obviously not necessary to the reconsideration decision
4 since the Court stated it had several grounds for its
5 decision.

6 More importantly, the Court's decision was made on a
7 summary record in a gatekeeper proceeding. The -- so there
8 was no discovery on that issue. And the Defendants have never 9 fully detailed to the Plaintiff or the Court what's in the 10 Claimant Trust, what's in the Indemnity Subtrust. We don't 11 know.

12 So the balance sheet is summary information. The notes
13 are not explained. And no one, not the Plaintiffs, not the 14 Court, has had an opportunity to test the data and assumptions
15 there, including undisclosed contingent liabilities and $198
16 million in off-balance-sheet adjustments.

17 So let's go to the next slide.

18 So I just urge the Court to go back and look at the 19 balance sheet. And we have a picture of it up here. But if 20 you look at it, you'll see notes. For example, Note 3. Value
21 reflected herein consists primarily of ownership in private
22 funds and subsidiaries. What funds? What are their assets?
23 How liquid? Have they been sold? For a loss or gain? What's
24 the resulting change in cash balance?

25 There's another note for other liabilities. To whom are

1 they owed? Note 5. The amount of further incremental
2 indemnification reserves are currently expected to exceed $90
3 million and may be greater. $50 million? $90 million? $125
4 million? What's the math? What's the math behind that and
5 how much has been used? What's been put aside? Who is
6 getting it?

7 It says $35 million has been funded into the Indemnity
8 Trust. What's the balance now? Did the additional funds
9 reduce the value of the Claimant Trust? Did the money come
10 out of current earnings, so maybe it hasn't reduced it?

11 Incremental springing contingent liabilities that range
12 from $5 to $15 million. What are they? How much? When are 13 they likely to crystallize?

14 These are among the questions that are unanswered from 15 that balance sheet.

16 And let's go to Slide 12.

17 And so while -- Your Honor has pointed out many times that
18 the August 25, 2023 opinion is very long, over a hundred
19 pages, very detailed. And I concede: It is over a hundred
20 pages. It is long. It has many sentences in it, and it has a
21 lot of discussion. But there's no analysis about the value of 22 the assets and liabilities or the net value of the Claimant
23 Trust or what has been moved into the Indemnity Subtrust or 24 why and was it justified. None of that is addressed.

25 The Court's October 6th opinion is short and it's cursory,

1 because it also doesn't analyze the value of the assets or
2 liabilities or the net value of the Claimant Trust or what has
3 been moved into the Indemnity Subtrust or why and whether it's
4 justified. It simply states HMIT does not give proper
5 attention to the voluminous supplemental notes in the balance
6 sheet that were allegedly, this is a quote, "integral to
7 understanding the numbers therein."

8 But what do those supplemental notes mean? The Debtor is 9 vigorously shielding any scrutiny, while at the same time
10 arguing that this Court's nonsubstantive reference to those
11 notes collaterally estops Plaintiffs from bringing this
12 action. But without access to information with which to 13 challenge the other side, a party doesn't have a full and fair
14 opportunity to be heard, and therefore any ruling based on
15 that kind of proceeding can't have collateral estoppel effect.

16 Okay. So, again, this is just a summary. No full and
17 fair opportunity prevents collateral estoppel, and the fact
18 that there were numerous other grounds and a lack of reasoning
19 to the issue that's being asserted here should serve
20 collateral estoppel makes collateral estoppel inappropriate.

21 Okay. The Debtor also -- the Defendants argue that Count
22 Three seeks an advisory opinion. It doesn't. It seeks a
23 declaration concerning Plaintiffs' status that could be based
24 on simple math from the face of the balance sheet that
25 presently, presently there's enough money to pay everybody.

1 And so there would be a -- need to be a whole lot more
2 explanation for the Defendants justifying why that's not the
3 case.

4 So let's look at a hypothetical to see if Defendants'
5 assertions about standing make sense. So let's say in a
6 breach of contract case a broker fails to sell the plaintiff a
7 million dollars' worth of shares that are at that time selling
8 for a dollar each. Can the defendant move to dismiss, saying
9 that plaintiff has no standing because the shares might go
10 down in value, eliminating any damages? I'm sure Your Honor
11 would say obviously not. But isn't that what the Defendants
12 here are saying? It's -- they're saying it's possible they'll 13 spend enough money to prevent the former equity from getting 14 anything. But that doesn't mean that Plaintiffs lack standing
15 now.

16 The Claimant Trust had sufficient assets to pay unsecured
17 creditors in Class 8 and 9 in full, with interest, at least as
18 early as mid-2023, maybe as early as September '22. Had Mr.
19 Seery fulfilled his mandate, he should have distributed that
20 and made the GUC certification. So Plaintiffs' contingent
21 interests should have officially vested many months ago. And 22 because of the duty of good faith and fair dealing, the Court
23 --

24 THE COURT: What about Section 6.1 of the credit
25 trust agreement?

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: You have to imply -- you have to
2 add into that a duty of good faith and fair dealing. And so
3 if Mr. -- if the Claimant Trustee has not taken those actions
4 for the express purpose of making sure to silence -- trying to
5 silence Class 10 and 11 and prevent them from getting money
6 and being able to spend it all, you know, paying -- holding
7 back enough to eventually pay a dollar -- a dollar less to
8 Class 9, and using the rest of the money. So, Your Honor,
9 because of the duty of good faith and fair dealing, 6.1 does
10 not tie Your Honor's hands.

11 And let's look at the Slide 16.

12 THE COURT: The Trustee is required to reserve
13 amounts necessary for indemnification obligations and the 14 administration expenses of the trust are entitled to payment
15 ahead of any classes under the plan. Class 8, Class 9, as 16 well as --

17 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Uh-huh.

18 THE COURT: -- 10, 11.

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, but is not -- is 20 there not any limit on how much can be set aside? Let's say
21 there were -- there was $300 million left over.

22 THE COURT: This is where I go back --

23 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Could a Claimant --

24 THE COURT: -- to your client is in control of its
25 own destiny here. This --

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, basically, is Your Honor
2 saying --

3 THE COURT: This should all be over. This should all
4 be over, three years post-confirmation. It should all be
5 over.

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. And --

7 THE COURT: They stayed --

8 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. And if we --

9 THE COURT: They stayed the mega-lawsuit. They
10 stayed the mega-lawsuit for the reasons you are suggesting.

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: The unjustified mega-lawsuit that
12 shouldn't have been brought in the first place. They stayed 13 it. Very nice. They stayed it because they didn't -- they 14 knew they didn't need that money. They knew it was 15 unjustified. So they stayed it.

16 THE COURT: So that would suggest to me proper
17 exercise of business judgment, litigation judgment. But they 18 have no control over all of these appeals and all of the --

19 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But --

20 THE COURT: -- litigation that your clients pursue.

21 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, my clients pursue
22 litigation because they don't have the information to know
23 whether they're -- wrongdoing is occurring. And the hallmark
24 of this bankruptcy --

25 THE COURT: That doesn't apply with regard to the

1 appeals. And, again, --

2 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. And the appeals --

3 THE COURT: -- if your client wants to appeal, that
4 is what's beautiful about our system. You can appeal and
5 maybe get judgments overturned. But --

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: That's right.

7 THE COURT: -- it's a strategy here. Right? As long
8 as you keep doing that, --

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: No, it's --

10 THE COURT: As long as you keep doing that, HMIT and
11 Dugaboy's contingent interests, any recovery on them is going
12 to continue to become less and less likely.

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But so Your Honor, is Your Honor
14 actually suggesting that they should lie down and not 15 challenge anything to save a buck, and so if things have
16 happened --

17 THE COURT: No. You heard what I said. Appeal away.
18 Appeal away. No trial judge, no bankruptcy judge gets things
19 right a hundred percent of the time. So appeal away. But 20 don't complain about maybe not being in the money, when the 21 greatest risk, it sounds like, to your client not being in the 22 money is the professional fees continuing to impair value.
23 And we could never get to a point in time where we could --
24 you know, again, my words earlier, meaningless exercise. How 25 could I ever make a declaratory judgment about value or the

1 likelihood of your client recovering as long as there are
2 dozens of appeals continuing to cause the liabilities to
3 increase, the expenses to increase?

4 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, that's, I mean, --

5 THE COURT: You're asking the Court to do something
6 impossible.

7 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It's not impossible, because
8 these appeals -- appeals like this happen all the time, and
9 there are certainly professionals who are involved --

10 THE COURT: Name one bankruptcy case in history where
11 there have been this many appeals.

12 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It -- there don't -- there
13 doesn't have to be another one with this many appeals. You
14 just look at the cost of an appeal in any case and figure out
15 whether, with what's going on here, what is the appropriate
16 amount to set aside for that cost. It's eminently doable. It
17 doesn't -- we don't have to have an exact case to match it to.
18 We just need to have -- are there ever appeals of whether a
19 release is overbroad? Sure. Are there ever appeals about
20 whether a gatekeeper is appropriate? Sure. Are there ever
21 appeals about whether the dismissal of a claim is appropriate?
22 Sure. Those are all things that someone can look at and say,
23 well, this is an appropriate amount to be spent on that, and 24 so this is an appropriate amount to hold aside for resolving
25 it.

1 But what we're saying is if we can get sufficient
2 disclosure, we can figure out whether or not there -- it ought
3 to be ended. But without that, we're left saying, what's
4 being hidden here? What's actually left? What's been done?
5 And so that's why -- and this is a problem that comes up in
6 trusts all the time when there's not sufficient disclosure of 7 what's in the trust. So that's why, under the Restatement of
8 Trusts, --

9 THE COURT: Wait, wait, wait. This is what happens
10 all the time? I don't know what kind of --

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah. In other words, that --

12 THE COURT: What post-confirmation trust agreement
13 that's been approved as part of a plan does this happen all
14 the time?

15 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I'm not talking about -- about
16 trusts in bankruptcies in particular. I'm talking about --

17 THE COURT: That's what we're dealing with here.

18 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Well, --

19 THE COURT: And I'm just telling you: One time, I've
20 wracked my brains, and one time since I've been on the bench
21 -- I'm coming up on my 18-year anniversary.

22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Uh-huh.

23 THE COURT: I'm old. But one time I have had
24 litigation about what the heck is going on with the post-
25 confirmation creditor trust.

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Uh-huh.

2 THE COURT: The facts were so very different. It was
3 a creditor trust agreement, and I think it had a three-year
4 term on it. The trust was going to be wrapped up in three
5 years. And Year 3 came along and there was a motion to extend
6 it. We're not done, we want to expand it, I don't know, six
7 months, maybe a year. And then that time frame went by and
8 there was another motion to extend it. So it was extended
9 another year. And then it happened again.

10 And a creditor objected, saying, I want to know what the 11 heck is going on. And I looked at the docket sheet and I'm 12 like, gosh, there aren't any appeals out there, there's hardly 13 any activity that's going on. And so we had a hearing. And 14 the trustee was getting a flat fee that was rather large for 15 the size of that estate, where unsecured creditors were 16 probably going to get less than ten cents on the dollar. And 17 we ended up having another hearing where we find out that the 18 oversight committee hadn't met in like three years and these 19 creditors who are likely to get five cents on the dollar, they 20 had just mentally checked out a long time ago.

21 And even in that situation, I was struggling with my
22 power, my jurisdiction, to put any equitable oversight
23 mechanisms in place when the creditors had voted on this, when
24 the creditors got to see the creditor trust agreement before
25 the confirmation hearing and no one complained. And luckily,

1 that situation was resolved. The creditor trustee said, we're
2 going to wrap it up in six months. I'm no longer going to
3 take my compensation. And it was some tax issue that no one
4 had been focusing on properly, like I think maybe the company
5 hadn't done tax returns in a gazillion years before
6 confirmation.

7 But the point I'm getting at is, again, many, many legal
8 issues out there, but the overarching issue I keep coming back
9 to is there's a creditor trust agreement that everyone got
10 notice of and the Court approved. And contractual terms are 11 something I'm supposed to respect. And you're asking me, on 12 an equitable basis, to overrule this. This has maybe far-
13 reaching effects for everyone who strikes a bargain in Chapter
14 11 with, Here's our plan, here's what the liquidating trust is 15 going to be governed by, here's the hearing, speak now or 16 forever hold your peace, I approve it. And --

17 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: You're right, Your Honor, that it
18 has far-reaching effects. And if you don't do something to 19 shine a light on this and enable the disclosure and the
20 hearing, you will embolden claimant trustees to do exactly
21 what's happening here, maybe in even worse circumstances. And
22 the difference between the case you mention and the case here
23 is -- actually weighs in favor of intercession sooner here
24 because there is so much money involved.

25 So there's -- it's not a piddling amount that, you know,

1 where creditors are only getting a couple cents on the dollar
2 anyway, so, you know, they're going to get three cents or two
3 cents. It's of less magnitude. Here, there is an enormous
4 amount of money that may be squandered. And so it's more
5 important to look hard at this and impose the covenant of good
6 faith and fair dealing.

7 And that's why the Restatement of Trusts says that
8 beneficiaries of a trust are -- include contingent
9 beneficiaries. And then if you take --

10 Let's go to the next slide, Mike.

11 Okay. Delaware courts also look to Black's Law
12 Dictionary. And that's important here, because it actually
13 includes contingent beneficiaries and direct beneficiaries
14 within the definition, without any qualification, but
15 expressly distinguishes an incidental beneficiary or someone
16 who's going to be a beneficiary by virtue of a separate
17 contract. And nothing in the Claimant Trust agreement
18 indicates that Plaintiffs are merely incidental beneficiaries.
19 And that's important because in that Paul case that Defendants
20 rely on so heavily, they were incidental beneficiaries. It
21 was a separate document, not the trust agreement itself, that
22 would give rise to the status of the plaintiffs.

23 And so Delaware -- go to 18 -- Delaware courts make a
24 point of not -- of not reading statutory language
25 restrictively to exclude classes of beneficiaries. And so

1 while they are not absolutely on point, they are thematically
2 on point, and to say that if someone is even a contingent
3 beneficiary, they ought to have the rights that one has under
4 the Delaware law.

5 And so -- go to -- move -- next slide.

6 And the duty of good faith and fair dealing is not
7 disclaimed in the Claimant Trust agreement, and moreover, it
8 cannot be disclaimed. So that's something Your Honor has to 9 take into account. And the impact of a duty of good faith and 10 fair dealing is that a party is basically estopped from 11 raising a provision that they are using in conjunction with 12 their own wrongdoing.

13 So if the Claimant Trustee is deliberately not paying out
14 $8 million in full in order to keep an unreasonable amount in 15 reserve and be able to be employed at $150,000 a month, you
16 know, being paid the same thing now, when most of the 17 liquidation has already been done, as, you know, when there
18 were a million things going on and a lot of management. So it
19 does seem unreasonable, and the Claimant Trustee has the power
20 to keep that going basically forever.

21 Next slide.

22 And so -- and when I said earlier, you know, this is a
23 common thing, what I meant was cases like Estate of Cornell
24 and Edwards. It's just a -- it's a universal problem that you
25 can prevent or postpone vesting unreasonably and prevent

1 distribution by your own acts.

2 And if you look at the Defendants' reply, there is not one
3 word about these concepts, about whether or not the Court has
4 the power and, really, must stop a trustee from raising their
5 own interest over the interests of the beneficiaries,
6 including the contingent beneficiaries.

7 Next slide.

8 So, and I really covered this to some degree, but
9 Defendants' reliance on Paul Capital, which is an unpublished
10 case, is misplaced. The interests here are not incidental.
11 They're not derived from an outside contract. The court in 12 Paul Capital also relied on the fact that the trust agreement
13 -- agreements in that case were fully integrated, which was a
14 reason they didn't look to that outside contract. But in 15 fact, there's no merger clause in the CTA, so that's another
16 difference.

17 Next.

18 Defendants' entire argument that Plaintiffs are not
19 entitled to an accounting turns on its erroneous conclusion
20 that Plaintiffs are not beneficiaries under the CTA. And now
21 they also point to -- which I don't believe they did in their
22 papers -- they also point to the general rule that an
23 accounting is not done as a matter of course. But this Court
24 has the power under Texas law to impose an accounting when
25 there are questions, as there are here, that need to be

1 answered in order for the parties to make sensible decisions
2 about what ought to be done going forward.

3 Then, unclean hands, it's a one-sentence argument in the 4 Defendants' brief referring to the Kirschner litigation, which
5 it doesn't actually identify by name and doesn't say anything
6 about the fact that it was voluntarily stayed. And the claim
7 against HMIT, and it is breach of contract, so it's really
8 hard to understand how being a defendant in a breach of 9 contract action is unclean hands. And the Plaintiffs made
10 these points in response to Defendants' motion, and 11 Defendants' reply brief is conspicuously silent of any 12 rebuttal.

13 Okay. So, Defendants' motion to dismiss needs to be
14 denied so that Plaintiffs finally have a full and fair
15 opportunity to challenge Defendants' assertion.

16 Even if this Court disdains Plaintiffs and sympathizes
17 with the Claimant Trustee, the Court is making law here. And 18 as we've pointed out, the law would create this platform for
19 claimant trustees to enshrine themselves and to do things
20 under a veil of secrecy. And that's not something that I
21 would think this Court would want to do.

22 If there's enough money to pay all of Classes 8 and 9, the
23 remainder belongs to Classes 10 and 11, not the estate
24 professionals. Money left over after --

25 THE COURT: Let me ask you.

1 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- Class 8 and 9 are paid --

2 THE COURT: Again, that's just not entirely correct,
3 because of 6.1. It is in there that indemnification
4 obligations must be reserved for. And let me ask you: How
5 many times have your clients tried to sue Mr. Seery?

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I -- a couple. And the point is
7 if he --

8 THE COURT: Only a couple?

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes.

10 THE COURT: Only a couple? So, --

11 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yes. But --

12 THE COURT: So they're required to reserve amounts
13 necessary. How much is your client or your clients seeking to 14 recover from Mr. Seery in those couple of lawsuits? I think
15 there have been more than two attempts.

16 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I don't think it's -- I don't
17 think the -- I don't think the amounts sought are the issue.
18 It's -- it's there's -- and I'm not counsel of record in the
19 insider trading case, but I don't remember a large amount.
20 The -- in the case we're bringing to --

21 THE COURT: The insider trading case? The insider
22 trading case? Are you talking about the Stonehill/Farallon
23 thing?

24 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Yeah. Yes. I don't -- that --
25 you asked about every case where Mr. Seery is mentioned. So I

1 don't think there's a big number there. And the case --

2 THE COURT: Wait, wait, wait.

3 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: -- that I have --

4 THE COURT: You don't think there is a big number
5 there? You don't remember the prayer for relief in that?

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I don't, Your Honor. It's not --
7 I'm not the lawyer of record in the case.

8 THE COURT: Okay.

9 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: But let me point out, if --

10 THE COURT: I think it was rather open-ended and 11 large. Okay? But, and then there's the professional fees and 12 expenses that have priority.

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, --

14 THE COURT: I mean, I just, I want to hear: Are you
15 asking me to disregard Section 6.1 on equitable grounds? I
16 think at bottom you are, and I just want to hear you answer
17 that question.

18 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I'm going to answer
19 that question, but I'm also going to point out that the 20 indemnification, if in fact there is intentional wrongdoing
21 that occurred, the estate is not obligated to indemnify. If
22 in fact the Claimant Trustee prevails in a claim or Mr. Seery
23 prevails in a claim, there is no judgment to indemnify. So
24 we're only talking about professional fees.

25 And yes, Your Honor, you don't ignore 6.1. You read it

1 with a duty of good faith and fair dealing applied in it, and
2 that enables you to allow this case to proceed, which is
3 necessary if we are ever going to end this matter.

4 And I will tell you, you asked about what's being sought
5 from Mr. Seery.

6 THE COURT: Can someone on your team -- can someone
7 on your team tell me how many pending appeals there are right
8 now? Because the chart that I asked my law clerk to pull is
9 several months old.

10 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We can -- I'm -- we can submit it
11 after the fact, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: Okay. I wanted to know right now, but --

13 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: We'll send something.

14 THE COURT: I wanted to know right now, when I'm --

15 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I mean, I don't know right now
16 how many there are.

17 THE COURT: Is -- are there a dozen?

18 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: And I wouldn't want to try and
19 count while I'm sitting here.

20 THE COURT: Are there a dozen? Can you say, are 21 there more than a dozen?

22 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: I don't know, Your Honor. I
23 think many of them have wound down, and so the only -- we're
24 awaiting decision. So I don't know.

25 But appeals, of their nature, are generally not that

1 expensive. There's no discovery. You write a brief. You go
2 and argue it.

3 THE COURT: That is not my recollection whatsoever
4 from reviewing fee apps for 18 years or for practicing law 17
5 years. You know. If --

6 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I agree, if there
7 were not -- if the Defendants didn't bring six or seven people
8 to New Orleans or Houston when there is an appeal, I would 9 think that it would cost less. There's no reason, in this day
10 and age, where you can -- if you're only listening, you can --
11 you can do that from your office, because the Court provides 12 an audio link. There's no reason to have that many people
13 travel clear across the country to go sit and listen to 14 arguments. So, is there a reason things cost more than they
15 should? Absolutely. But that's not the Plaintiffs.

16 THE COURT: Okay.

17 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: This Court could look at what is 18 left and say, you know what, in my experience, taking into 19 account your 18 years, this is -- this is what this many 20 proceedings should cost. That's the amount of -- and even if 21 you add a little cushion -- that's the appropriate amount of 22 indemnity, and everything else can be distributed. You can do
23 that, Your Honor. You have the -- there are professionals who 24 could give expert testimony, and with that, between that and
25 Your Honor's experience, you can figure that out. It's not a

1 black box.

2 THE COURT: All right. Mr. Morris, your rebuttal,
3 please.

4 MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

5 If nothing else, counsel's presentation proved one thing,
6 and that is this proceeding should be dismissed. She insists
7 -- she had her presentation up on the board -- that they're in
8 the money. We disagree. We disagree both with the analysis
9 and with its legal significance.

10 But just as HMIT contended last summer that they were in 11 the money, counsel today is ratifying that and saying they're 12 in the money. If they're in the money, why do they need this 13 information? They don't.

14 Let me just start with the rebuttal, because it's going to 15 be some random points just because I'm -- I've taken some 16 notes.

17 The concept that three-plus years ago Heller Draper,
18 Munsch Hardt, Bonds Ellis couldn't foresee that we would be
19 here is mind-boggling, and, then, legally irrelevant. You
20 know who had the foresight to see that we might be here? The 21 Creditors' Committee. They're actually the ones who drove
22 this process on the Claimant Trust agreement. It's why the 23 agreement says exactly what it says. It's an agreement
24 between parties that defines the beneficial owners' rights and 25 the limitations on those rights.

1           There is a reason that contingent trust beneficiaries are
2 not owed any duty whatsoever until their claims vest and that
3 they have no rights under the Claimant Trust agreement or the
4 plan, at least as it pertains to the Claimant Trust agreement,
5 until their rights vest. The vesting process was not an
6 accident. It was intended to make sure that Mr. Dondero could
7 not do exactly what counsel is making plain she wants to do
8 today, and that is get information in order to second-guess
9 every decision that Mr. Seery has made. Okay?

10           Everybody on our side of the table knew, based on Mr.
11 Dondero's very long history of litigation, that this was a
12 possible end result, and they prepared for it. That Mr.
13 Dondero's lawyers did not is on them. The Court should not be
14 rewriting the agreement today.

15           Ms. Deitsch-Perez contends that somehow we have obscured
16 resources. No such thing has ever occurred. Okay? The plan
17 and the Claimant Trust agreement provide very specific rules
18 on what must be disclosed. There are other rules that require
19 disclosures. There is no allegation whatsoever that the 20 Claimant Trustee or the Claimant Trust has failed to meet its 21 obligations to make the disclosures required under the
22 Claimant Trust agreement and under the law.

23           And in fact -- this is another point that just gets 24 obscured in all of this, like a suggestion that somehow Mr.
25 Seery is some rogue guy doing stuff all by himself. That's

1 false. It's baseless. There is a Claimant Oversight Board
2 with an independent member and with two members who have a
3 substantial stake in the Claimant Trust. And there are many
4 Claimant Trust beneficiaries, not one of whom is here to
5 complain, not one of whom is concerned about the lack of
6 disclosure, not one of whom is concerned about the reserves
7 that have been made in this case.

8 There's really nothing more to talk about, but I have to 9 respond to certain of the other points. This notion that 10 somehow assets that exceed liabilities are the property of 11 HMIT is legally incorrect. That's as polite as I can say it.
12 Your Honor focused on it. 6.1. It is what it is. But I do
13 need to make the point that there is no way that anybody could 14 make a reasonable estimate of indemnification claims. It's
15 not just appeals, Your Honor. That's one aspect, and I
16 appreciate Your Honor focusing on it. But we have litigation
17 in Guernsey. We have litigation in the Southern District of 18 New York. We have, you know, these suits. He doesn't want --
19 he is just looking for information.

20 He tried to sue my firm on this ridiculous theory that we 21 were actually his lawyer way back in September 2019. Like,
22 really? It was withdrawn in the face of a Rule 11 motion.
23 But you know what? My firm incurred expenses defending
24 itself.

25 These things don't stop. There is another lawsuit to

1 remove Mr. Seery. That's been stayed pending the outcome
2 here, because just like they have no legal right or equitable
3 claim to obtain any information from the trust, they have no
4 legal right or equitable claim to remove Mr. Seery. But we're
5 going to have to do that.

6 The money in the trust is not HMIT's. They have no legal
7 or equitable claim to that money unless and until all senior
8 claims and expenses are satisfied. And that will not happen
9 as long as there's pending litigation.

10 You know, you're encouraged to make an estimate. What
11 happens if your estimate is wrong, Your Honor? What happens
12 if you come up with a ruling and say the estimate is $50
13 million and that's what Mr. Seery reserves, because he's going
14 to comply with any order this Court issues, and at the end of 15 $50 million there's still litigation and he or other
16 indemnified parties have been sued? And now what? Now what
17 happens then?

18 That's why this is completely untenable and it has no
19 basis in law, fact, or equity.

20 Dicta? Your Honor's decision that HMIT was not in the 21 money was dicta? That was the whole basis for the motion.
22 The motion sought reconsideration on the basis that they were
23 in the money and therefore had standing. It's not dicta.
24 It's the holding, after an analysis of the balance sheet,
25 after showing the faulty logic in HMIT's presentation. That

1 it's a balance sheet, Your Honor. It's not cash. You don't
2 spend what's on a balance sheet, you can't buy anything with
3 what's on the balance sheet, because what's on the balance
4 sheet is a bunch of contingent stuff. Like the Notes
5 Litigation. $70 million. They're here telling you they're in
6 the money, and they treat that $70 million as being in the
7 Claimant Trust's pocket. It's not. Not only is it not in the
8 Claimant Trust's pocket, Mr. Dondero is doing everything he
9 can to make sure it never gets in the Claimant Trust's pocket.

10 This is their disingenuous theory of what the balance
11 sheet means.

12 Again, apologies for the somewhat disparate nature of the 13 rebuttal.

14 Duty of good faith and fair dealing. You've heard that a
15 lot. Where is it in the complaint? What cause of action here
16 is dependent on duty of good faith and fair dealing? Nothing.
17 You won't find it. The words aren't there. This is a request
18 for information and two requests for declaratory judgment that 19 assets exceed liabilities and that they may vest someday in 20 the future. Their complaint, the only thing that's the 21 subject of this motion, has nothing to do with the duty of 22 good faith and fair dealing.

23 The Kirschner action. It was stayed. But you know what,
24 Your Honor? It wasn't dismissed. It was stayed because
25 responsible parties like Mr. Kirschner and Mr. Seery said,

1 let's pause and see what happens. There may come a time when
2 we start that litigation. There may come a time. Right? It
3 wasn't dismissed.

4 So the notion that we've made a decision that it's not
5 necessary is wrong. The decision was made that we don't have
6 to spend that money today. Let's keep it on ice and let's see
7 if we need to in the future.

8 Willkie. We heard some disparaging remarks about
9 Willkie's participation in these proceedings. Well, you know
10 what, Your Honor? Mr. Seery, God bless him, never retained
11 personal counsel in this case until HMIT sought leave to sue
12 him. Willkie is in this case only because Mr. Dondero made
13 the decision to go after Mr. Seery. Mr. Seery is entitled to 14 indemnification, he has indemnification, and I'm delighted
15 that the Willkie firm is by my side.

16 If Mr. Seery -- if Mr. Dondero has regrets about Willkie's
17 participation, he shouldn't sue Mr. Seery anymore. Maybe they 18 wouldn't have such a role.

19 Listen to what they're saying, Your Honor. Listen to Ms.
20 Deitsch-Perez's hypotheticals. What if they find out that 21 there's overpayments to professionals? What if there's 22 payments to phantom vendors? What if they learn someday that
23 Mr. Dondero -- Mr. Seery has engaged in wrongdoing? If this
24 is what they want to hold out for, if this is what they want
25 to continue to litigate for, because they think one day maybe

1 they might have something, somebody did something wrong, it's
2 Mr. Dondero's prerogative. But this is not a vehicle to give
3 him information to pursue those claims. It's just not.

4 Standing. There's no standing motion here. We're not
5 saying dismiss this because they don't have standing to spring
6 the claims. We're saying that they don't have any legal right
7 to seek information because of the plain terms of the Claimant
8 Trust agreement and the plan. It's not a standing question,
9 it's about whether they have a legal right, and the plain
10 terms of the operative documents state definitively that they 11 do not.

12 They can't settle without the information.

13 (Pause.)

14 THE COURT: Whoops. We just lost you, Mr. Morris.
15 We just lost your sound.

16 MR. MORRIS: Okay. Am I back?

17 THE COURT: You're back.

18 MR. MORRIS: Okay. People settle claims, known and 19 unknown, all the time. Okay? Mr. Dondero should look at his 20 success rate in litigation in this case and decide what he's 21 really holding out for. He should look at the success in 22 bringing the suit against my firm. He should look at what
23 happened when we had the evidentiary hearing in Hunter
24 Mountain and it was revealed that he was actually the party
25 who engaged in inside information. He was actually the person

1 who lied to Mr. Seery about what was happening with MGM. He
2 should think about his lack of success, the lack of merit,
3 what happened in the Notes Litigation, how ridiculous the
4 supposed oral agreement defense was. He should ask Mr.
5 Rukavina how the hearing went in front of Judge Scholer last
6 week on the appeal.

7 And he's holding out for more claims? This is what he
8 wants to do for his life? God bless him. We will reserve
9 everything.

10 Mr. Dondero is not the principal. He doesn't get some
11 final say over the propriety of the actions of the Claimant
12 Trustee or my firm. He doesn't have that right. That's what
13 the Claimant Trust agreement was intended to do. It reflects
14 the settlor's intent. And the settlor's intent was that Mr.
15 Dondero or Hunter Mountain or Dugaboy would get a check at the 16 end of the day if and when all senior claims and expenses were 17 paid and satisfied. That has not happened, so they don't get 18 a check. It's really that simple. It may be hard for him to 19 take, and I appreciate that, but he should have thought about 20 these issues three-plus years ago when all of this was 21 proposed, because other people thought about it, and here we 22 are.

23 And the Court has, I respectfully say, no authority, no
24 jurisdiction to override the plain terms of an agreement that 25 has been affirmed by this Court and has been affirmed by the

1 Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. There has never been a
2 challenge to these provisions that they just want you to
3 completely ignore.

4 Just one moment, Your Honor.

5 (Pause.)

6 MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I actually have nothing
7 further unless the Court has any questions.

8 THE COURT: Okay. I only have one question. And let 9 me preface it by saying that I don't pay much attention to 10 appeals and satellite litigation unless something is brought 11 to me. I mean, there just are not enough hours in the day for 12 me. Plus it's just, it's not of my concern. Right? An
13 appellate court is going to do what it's going to do and issue
14 a mandate to me at some point, if appropriate. And the same
15 with satellite litigation. It's either going to somehow be 16 brought before me or not.

17 So you may think that I'm aware, lawyers, parties may 18 think that I'm aware at all times of different things going on 19 out there, but I'm really only sort of aware. I don't know
20 how many pending appeals there are right now. But I do know
21 that someone who seemed to know what he was talking about,
22 another judge in Texas, not here, told me that Highland has
23 spawned more appeals at the Fifth Circuit than any other -- I
24 don't know if he said bankruptcy case in history or Chapter
25 11. And he said, are you proud of that? Hahaha. And I said

1 no. I'm not even remotely proud of that. And I haven't
2 double-checked his figures, but he's kind of a numbers wonky
3 lovable geek, so I think he probably knew what he was talking
4 about.

5 But finally getting to my question, Mr. Morris: You
6 alluded to there's a vexatious litigant motion pending, and
7 you reminded me I heard about that at a hearing many months
8 ago. I think you said it was before Judge Brantley Starr, a
9 district judge here in this district. Is that correct?

10 MR. MORRIS: It is correct, Your Honor. And we filed
11 our reply papers last Friday, so it's been fully briefed.

12 THE COURT: Okay. Well, even though I don't closely
13 monitor appeals, satellite litigation, I may be monitoring
14 that.

15 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, may I make one
16 rebuttal, by the way, to Mr. Morris's presentation? I just 17 have one comment.

18 THE COURT: If it's 30 seconds. But this is out of 19 order. Usually, Movant goes last. I assume this is going to 20 be hugely important.

21 MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: It is important. It's something
22 Your Honor raised and Mr. Morris raised, so I want to point
23 something out so there is no misunderstanding. There was a
24 lot of talk about, well, the Plaintiff should have done
25 something about this at the time of the plan. If Your Honor

1 recalls, at the time of the plan the projections were that
2 Classes 8 and 9 would recover a fraction of their value. So
3 there was no reason Classes 10 and 11 should be -- should have
4 anticipated the issues that have arisen now. And I just want
5 to remind everybody of that.

6 MR. MORRIS: And just one sentence, Your Honor. Mr.
7 Dondero acquired every single asset that Highland has. He was
8 in Highland's offices with full access to all information
9 through October. He had Mr. Waterhouse, the CFO, onsite until 10 just before the confirmation hearing, and there was no
11 objection to those projections.

12 What happened is Mr. Seery and his team did a great job
13 and benefited from a rising market, and yet here we're going
14 to be subjected to more litigation. It's brilliant.

15 THE COURT: All right. Well, I am finished hearing
16 everything. And with respect to that comment for the
17 Plaintiffs, I continue to think this is a very important
18 issue, of the many issues, of the many jurisdictional issues
19 here. And there are so many issues, I'm not sure, if you
20 prioritize the issues, where this one falls on the list. And 21 yet as a bankruptcy judge I am obsessed a bit with the issue
22 of the impact on the Chapter 11 world.

23 We have liquidating Chapter 11s with -- or even if they're
24 not liquidating, we have Chapter 11s where there's a
25 litigation trust like this one where there is sometimes a

1 discussion, when are you going to get the creditor trust
2 agreement on file? Oh, it's going to be part of a plan
3 supplement, and the plan supplement will be filed, you know,
4 ten days before the confirmation hearing. Whatever. I'm just
5 giving you a typical fact pattern. And it's part of the 6 evidence. It's part of the information. It's not just
7 evidence at the confirmation hearing. It's usually on file
8 several days before the confirmation hearing, where it's out
9 there for consumption, for people to complain about if they
10 think there are objectionable terms. And we just have this in 11 dozens and dozens of cases.

12 And I can even go further back in my brain here. I mean,
13 Chapter 11, very soon after the case was filed, we had a U.S.
14 Trustee saying conversion to Chapter 7 or appointment of a
15 Chapter 11 trustee. You know, we can't have Mr. Dondero as 16 the manager of this Debtor anymore. And despite that 17 argument, we put in place a corporate governance mechanism
18 that Mr. Dondero agreed to. And my point is there's always 19 been a huge amount of oversight by what we considered the 20 fulcrum security here, the unsecured creditors. A huge amount
21 of oversight. A huge amount of oversight in this case that
22 was negotiated in response to a very active Creditors'
23 Committee and a U.S. Trustee saying can't have a debtor-in-
24 possession here.

25 So why do I go back? I mean, it's really troublesome for

1 any judge to hear, We have suspicion. We are worried about a
2 breach of good faith and fair dealing. What if there are
3 fictional vendors?

4 I mean, this case has been full of extensive oversight.
5 And not only could the Plaintiffs here have complained about
6 the terms of the creditor trust agreement, heck, they could
7 have said convert this sucker to Chapter 7, because a Chapter
8 7 trustee will have -- there will be a lot of transparency for
9 everything that happens in winding down this estate.

10 So, rambling, yes, I'm rambling. I do that. But the
11 philosophical issue here, I just, it's hard for me to ignore,
12 because, looming, we have the jurisdictional issues, but what
13 you're asking me to do is something that it's just a fact
14 pattern we see all the time of plans with litigation trust
15 agreements. And we all know what the terms are going to be,
16 and we can all argue about those terms if we don't think
17 they're appropriate, and we all know that the future is
18 uncertain and things could change, and that's just the way it
19 is. Here it is. Live with it or not.

20 Anyway, but so that's a big deal, the contractual rights
21 here.

22 And as I said earlier, another kind of overarching issue
23 is it feels like kind of a meaningless exercise when we have 24 the asset side of the balance sheet but the liabilities just
25 grow unlike any other case. It's fair to say unlike any case.

1 There have been more appeals generated at the Fifth Circuit
2 from this case than any Chapter 11 ever, and maybe any
3 bankruptcy ever.

4 There was a reference to, well, yeah, there are lots of
5 appeals, but you don't need to send six lawyers to New Orleans
6 or have people. But I was just writing down as I was thinking
7 through this, and Mr. Morris alluded to some of it, we've had
8 at least the following law firms involved for either Mr.
9 Dondero or entities he controls: Munsch Hardt; Bonds Ellis;
10 Heller Draper; Louis Phillips' firm, I think that's Kelly
11 Hart; the Stinson law firm; Sawnie McEntire's law firm; Ms.
12 Ruhland, Amy Ruhland; Lang Winshew; and I forget the name of 13 the lawyers who represented the Charitable Trusts.

14 MR. MORRIS: Mazin Sbaiti.

15 THE COURT: The Sbaiti law firm.

16 So I've just rattled off from memory nine law firms, okay?
17 I'm not even sure I've captured them all. Probably not. So
18 it's, on all sides of this, I can't remember if I've said this
19 in court or I've just maybe said it back in chambers, but I'll
20 say it: This feels like the Disneyland case. Have I ever
21 said that in court yet? Do you know what I mean by that? I
22 probably haven't.

23 The famous quote of Walt Disney, when someone asked him
24 about the theme park and when it would be finished, and he
25 said, Disneyland will never be finished as long as there are

1 creative people with imaginations. I mean, this is like the
2 Disneyland case. It will never be finished as long as there
3 are certain parties and lawyers who have imagination and keep
4 filing stuff. I don't mean to be flippant, but I really am
5 trying to emphasize what I said. Sure, people are entitled to
6 appeal, but how can you complain about 'I don't know if I'm in
7 the money or not' when there's just no end in sight?

8 So I'm going to obviously take this under advisement, and
9 we will carefully look at every argument and every case,
10 because that's what we do. That's what we're duty-bound to 11 do. We don't knee-jerk anything around here. But I am very,
12 very troubled by some of the arguments. And it's what made me
13 ask about the vexatious litigant motion and its status,
14 because it just feels so beyond the pale to make accusations
15 of some sort of breach of good faith and fair dealing and
16 raise the specter of lack of transparency and something
17 untoward may be going on, when these were the terms negotiated
18 as far as post-confirmation oversight, we have an Oversight
19 Committee, and I think every rational person knows that the 20 professional fees and the indemnification obligations and the 21 appeals and the satellite litigation are why we can't wrap
22 this up. Okay?

23 So let that soak in. And we will get an opinion out as 24 soon as we can make it happen.

25 All right. We're adjourned.

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED THAT:

1. The Motion is GRANTED on the terms and conditions set forth herein, and the United States Trustee’s objection to the Motion is OVERRULED.

2. The Term Sheet is approved and the Debtor is authorized to take such steps as may be necessary to effectuate the settlement contained in the Term Sheet, including, but not limited to: (i) implementing the Document Production Protocol; and (ii) implementing the Protocols.

3. The Debtor is authorized (A) to compensate the Independent Directors for their services by paying each Independent Director a monthly retainer of (i) $60,000 for each of the first three months, (ii) $50,000 for each of the next three months, and (iii) $30,000 for each of the following six months, provided that the parties will re-visit the director compensation after the sixth month and (B) to reimburse each Independent Director for all reasonable travel or other expenses, including expenses of counsel, incurred by such Independent Director in connection with its service as an Independent Director in accordance with the Debtor’s expense reimbursement policy as in effect from time to time.

5. The Debtor is authorized to purchase an insurance policy to cover the Independent Directors.

Mr. Dondero's role as an employee of the Debtor will be subject at all times to the supervision, direction and authority of the Independent Directors. 10. No entity may commence or pursue a claim or cause of action of any kind against any Independent Director, any Independent Director's agents, or any Independent

The Court will have sole jurisdiction to adjudicate any such claim for which approval of the Court to commence or pursue has been granted.

The Board of Directors of Strand Advisors, Inc.
c/o Highland Capital Management, L.P.
300 Crescent Court, Suite 700
Dallas, Texas 75201

Re: Highland Capital Management L.P. (the “Company”)

Dear Fellow Board Members:

This letter agreement (“Agreement”) sets forth the terms and conditions of the engagement of the undersigned James P. Seery, Jr. (“I”, “me” or “my”), as Chief Executive Officer (“CEO”) and Chief Restructuring Officer (“CRO”), effective as of March 15, 2020 (the “Commencement Date”), by the Company and its affiliates to perform financial advisory services as detailed below.

I appreciate the trust you have placed in me by asking me to assume these roles and thank you for the opportunity to continue to work with you to restructure the Company.

Roles:

I will serve as the CEO and CRO of the Company during its Chapter 11 bankruptcy case (the “Bankruptcy Case”) currently pending in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas (the “Bankruptcy Court”).

In those roles, I will be responsible for overall management of the business of the Company in Chapter 11 including, directing the reorganization and restructuring of the Company, monetization of assets, resolution of claims, development and negotiation of a plan of reorganization or liquidation, and implementation of such a plan.

My direct reports will include the individuals at the Company that currently report to the Board of Directors of Strand Advisors, Inc. (the “Board”) or such other individuals employed by the Company as I determine should report to directly to me. In the event that the Board determines to restructure the reporting lines or functions of the Company, my direct reports will be amended in accordance with the Board approved restructuring.

At all times, I will remain a full member of the Board entitled to vote on all matters other than those on which I am conflicted.

003113

I will devote as much time to this engagement as I determine is required to execute my responsibilities as CEO and CRO. I will have no specific on-site requirements in Dallas, but will be on site as much as I determine is necessary to execute my responsibilities as CEO and CRO, consistent with Covid-19 orders applicable to Dallas and New York City.

Limitations on Services

My services under this engagement are limited to those specifically noted in this Agreement and do not include legal, accounting, or tax-related assistance or advisory services. For the avoidance of doubt, I am not providing any legal services in connection with this engagement and will have not any duties as a lawyer to the Company, the Board, or any of the Company's employees. The accuracy and completeness of all information submitted to me by the Company are the sole responsibility of the Company, and I will be entitled to rely on such information without independent investigation or verification.

In my role as CEO and CRO, I will act as an independent professional contractor to the Company and will not be an employee of the Company. I will provide and pay for my own benefits, including medical benefits, by J.P Seery & Co. LLC or otherwise.

Fees and Expenses:

In consideration of my acceptance of this engagement and performance of the services pursuant to this Agreement, the Company shall pay the following:

1. Compensation for Services:

- a. Base Compensation: As compensation for my services as CEO and CRO of the Company, the Company shall pay me $150,000.00 per calendar month ("Base Compensation"). Base Compensation shall be due and payable at the start of each calendar month. Consistent with current Board compensation practice, invoices rendered by me to the Company are due and payable by the Company on receipt. Payment of the Base Compensation will be retroactive to March 15, 2020.
- b. Bonus Compensation/Restructuring Fee:
  - i. The Company has agreed to pay me a restructuring fee upon confirmation of either a Case Resolution Plan or a Monetization Vehicle Plan in each case as defined below (the "Restructuring Fee").
  - ii. Case Resolution Restructuring Plan
    1. On confirmation of any plan or reorganization or liquidation based on resolution of a material amount of the outstanding claims and their respective treatment, even if such plan includes (x) a debtor/creditor trust or similar monetization and claims resolution vehicle, (y) post-confirmation litigation of certain of the claims, and (z) post-confirmation monetization of debtor assets (a "Case Resolution Plan"):
      - a. $1,000,000 on confirmation of the Case Resolution Plan;
      - b. $500,000 on the effective date of the Case Resolution Plan; and
      - c. $750,000 on completion of cash or property distributions to creditors as contemplated by the Case Resolution Plan.

iii. Debtor/Creditor Monetization Vehicle Restructuring Fee:

1. On confirmation of any plan or reorganization or liquidation based on a debtor/creditor trust or similar asset monetization and claims resolution vehicle that does not include agreement among the debtor and creditors on a material amount of the outstanding claims and their respective treatment at confirmation (a "Monetization Vehicle Plan"):
  - a. $500,000 on confirmation of the Monetization Vehicle Plan;
  - b. $250,000 on the effective date of the Monetization Vehicle Plan; and
  - c. A contingent restructuring fee to be determined by the board or oversight committee installed to oversee the implementation of any Monetization Vehicle Plan based on the CEO/CRO (or acting as trustee) based upon performance under the plan after all material distributions under the Monetization Vehicle Plan are made.

2. Out-of-Pocket Expenses: In addition to the Base and Bonus Compensation, I shall be entitled to reimbursement for actual and reasonable out-of-pocket expenses ("Expenses") incurred in connection with the provision of services hereunder. Expenses will be billed along with Base Compensation and shall be paid by the Company at the same time. Expenses will be generally consistent with expenses incurred to date as a member of the Board.

Bankruptcy Court Approval

Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, I understand that this Agreement is contingent, in all respects, on the approval of the Bankruptcy Court. I also understand that the Company will seek approval of this Agreement in stages and that the Company will first seek approval of my retention as CEO and CRO and the payment of the Base Compensation and will defer seeking Bankruptcy Court approval of the Restructuring Fee until there have been further developments in the Bankruptcy Case.

Conflicts and Other Engagements

I am not aware of any potential conflicts of interest based on my understanding of the various parties involved in this matter to date.

The Company is aware that this engagement is not an exclusive engagement of my time, and that I have and will continue to have other business engagements and investments unrelated to the Company. Nothing in this Agreement or otherwise precludes me from representing or working with or for any other person or entity in matters not directly related to the services being provided to the Company under this Agreement. However, I will not take on any engagements directly adverse to the Company during the term of this engagement.

Privilege

I understand that in the course of this engagement, I may become party to or my services may become part of work product of legal counsel to the Company (the Company's in-house and outside counsel are collectively referred to as "Counsel"), and all communications between Counsel and me relating to this engagement shall be protected from disclosure to third parties under the attorney work product doctrine and/or the attorney-client privilege, and, therefore, shall be treated by me as privileged and confidential. I further understand that the Company has the exclusive right to waive the attorney-client privilege, and Counsel has the exclusive right to waive the protections afforded under the attorney work-product doctrine.

Termination of Engagement

This Agreement may be terminated at any time by either the Company or by me upon two weeks advance written notice given to the other party. The termination of this Agreement shall not affect my right to receive, and the Company's obligation to pay, any and all Base Compensation and Expenses incurred (even if not billed) prior to the giving of the termination notice; provided, however, that (i) if this Agreement is terminated by me, the amount of Base Compensation owed shall be calculated based on the actual number of days worked during the applicable month and I will return any Base Compensation received in excess of such amount and (ii) if this Agreement is terminated by the Company, Base Compensation shall be deemed fully earned as of the first day of any month. Bonus Compensation shall be earned by me immediately upon termination of me by the Company; provided, however, I shall not be entitled to Bonus Compensation if (a) the Bankruptcy Case is converted to chapter 7 or dismissed; (b) a chapter 11 trustee is appointed in the Bankruptcy Case; (c) I am terminated by the Company for Cause; or (d) I resign prior to confirmation of a plan or court approval of a sale as described in the Fees and Expense/Compensation for Services section hereof. For purposes of this Agreement, "Cause" means any of the following grounds for termination of my engagement, in each case as reasonably determined by the Board within 60 days of the Board becoming aware of the existence of the event or circumstance: (A) fraud, embezzlement, or any act of moral turpitude or willful misconduct on my part; (B) conviction of or the entry of a plea of nolo contendere by me for any felony; (C) the willful breach by me of any material term of this Agreement; or (D) the willful failure or refusal by me to perform my duties to the Company, which, if capable of being cured, is not cured on or before fifteen (15) days after my receipt of written notice from the Company.

Conditional Requirement to Seek Further Bankruptcy Court Approval of Agreement

The official committee of unsecured creditors in the Bankruptcy Case (the "Committee") may, upon two weeks advance written notice to the Company, require the Company to file a motion with the Bankruptcy Court on normal notice seeking a continuation of this Agreement and if such motion is not filed, this Agreement will terminate at the expiration of such two week period. If the Company files such motion, I will be entitled to my Base Compensation through and including the date on which a final order is entered on such motion by the Bankruptcy Court. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the Committee may not deliver such notice to the Company until a date which is more than ninety days following the date the Bankruptcy Court enters an order approving this Agreement.

Indemnification

As a material part of the consideration to me under this Agreement, the Company agrees (i) to indemnify and hold harmless me and any of my affiliates (the “Indemnified Party”), to the fullest extent lawful, from and against any and all losses, claims, costs, damages or liabilities (or actions in respect thereof), joint or several, arising out of or related to this Agreement, my engagement under this Agreement, or any actions taken or omitted to be taken by me or the Company in connection with this Agreement and (ii) to reimburse the Indemnified Party for all expenses (including, without limitation, the reasonable fees and expenses of counsel) as they are incurred in connection with investigating, preparing, pursuing, defending, settling or compromising any action, suit, dispute, inquiry, investigation or proceeding, pending or threatened, brought by or against any person (including, without limitation, any shareholder or derivative action, or any fee dispute), arising out of or relating to this Agreement, or such engagement, or actions. However, the Company shall not be liable under the foregoing indemnity and reimbursement agreement for any loss, claim, damage or liability which is finally judicially determined by a court of competent jurisdiction to have resulted primarily from the willful misconduct or gross negligence of the Indemnified Party.

The indemnification and insurance currently covering my role as a director shall be extended to me and fully cover me as provided therein in my roles as CEO and CRO.

Miscellaneous

This Agreement (a) constitutes the entire agreement of the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof and supersedes any other communications, understandings or agreements among the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof, and (b) may be modified, amended or supplemented only by written agreement among all the parties hereto.

This Agreement is subject to approval by the Bankruptcy Court. As part of such approval the Company shall request that any such order approving this Agreement contain a provision extending the protections afforded to me as a Board Member pursuant to Paragraph 10 of the Order Approving Settlement with Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course entered by the Bankruptcy Court on January 9, 2020 [Docket No. 339] to my role as CEO and CRO, which Order prohibits the commencement of any action against me without first obtaining Bankruptcy Court approval to initiate such action.

This Agreement and all controversies arising from or related to performance hereunder shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of New York. The parties hereby submit to the jurisdiction of and venue in the federal and state courts located in New York City and waive any right to trial by jury in connection with any dispute related to this Agreement.

This Agreement shall be binding upon the parties and their respective successors and assigns, and no other person shall acquire or have any right under or by virtue of this Agreement.

Failure of any party at any time to require performance of any provision of this Agreement shall not affect the right to require full performance thereof at any time thereafter, and the waiver by any party of a breach of such provisions shall not be taken as or held to be a waiver of any subsequent breach or as nullifying the effectiveness of such provision.

Notices provided for in this Agreement shall be in writing and shall be deemed to have been duly given when delivered by hand or overnight courier or three days after it has been mailed by United States registered mail, return receipt requested, postage prepaid, addressed to the respective address set forth above in this Agreement, or to such other address as either party may have furnished to the other in writing in accordance herewith.

This Agreement and my rights and duties hereunder shall not be assignable or delegable by me.

The Company may withhold from any amounts payable under this Agreement such Federal, state and local taxes as may be required to be withheld pursuant to any applicable law or regulation.

This Agreement may be executed (including by electronic execution) in any number of counterparts, each of which when so executed shall be deemed an original, but all such counterparts shall constitute one and the same instrument. Delivery of an executed counterpart of this Agreement by electronic mail shall have the same force and effect as the delivery of an original executed counterpart of this Agreement.

Please confirm the foregoing is in accordance with your understanding by signing and returning a copy of this Agreement, whereupon it shall become binding and enforceable in accordance with its terms.

HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT, L.P., as debtor and debtor-in-possession in the above-captioned cases (the “Debtor”), is sending you this document and the accompanying materials (the “Disclosure Statement”) because you are a creditor or interest holder in connection with the Fifth Amended Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P., dated November 24, 2020, as the same may be amended from time to time (the “Plan”).<sup>2</sup> The Debtor has filed a voluntary petition under chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code, as amended (the “Bankruptcy Code”).

This Disclosure Statement has not yet been approved by the Bankruptcy Court as containing adequate information within the meaning of section 1125(a) of the Bankruptcy Code. The Debtor intends to seek an order or orders of the Bankruptcy Court (a) approving this Disclosure Statement as containing adequate information and (b) confirming the Plan.

A copy of the Plan is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

The Debtor believes that the Plan is fair and equitable, will maximize the value of the Debtor’s Estate, and is in the best interests of the Debtor and its constituents. The Reorganized Debtor will be managed by New GP LLC – a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Claimant Trust. This structure will allow for continuity in the Managed Funds and an orderly and efficient monetization of the Debtor’s Assets.

The Claimant Trust, the Litigation Trust, or the Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, will institute, file, prosecute, enforce, abandon, settle, compromise, release, or withdraw any and all Causes of Action without any further order of the Bankruptcy Court, and the Claimant Trust and Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, will sell, liquidate, or otherwise monetize all Claimant Trust Assets and Reorganized Debtor Assets and resolve all Claims, except as otherwise provided in the Plan, the Claimant Trust Agreement, or the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement.

ARTICLE I.
EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This Disclosure Statement is provided for informational purposes only.

In the opinion of the Debtor, the Plan is preferable to the alternatives described in this Disclosure Statement because it provides for the highest distributions to the Debtor's creditors and interest holders. The Debtor believes that any delay in confirmation of the Plan would result in significant administrative expenses resulting in less value available to the Debtor's constituents. In addition, any alternative other than confirmation of the Plan could result in extensive delays and increased administrative expenses resulting in smaller distributions to Holders of Allowed Claims and Equity Interests than that which is proposed under the Plan. Accordingly, the Debtor recommends that all Holders of Claims and Equity Interests support confirmation of the Plan.

This Executive Summary is being provided to Holders of Allowed Claims and Equity Interests as an overview of the material items addressed in the Disclosure Statement and the Plan, which is qualified by reference to the entire Disclosure Statement and by the actual terms of the Plan (including all exhibits attached hereto and to the Plan and the Plan Supplement), and should not be relied upon for a comprehensive discussion of the Disclosure Statement and/or the Plan. Section 1125 of the Bankruptcy Code requires a debtor to prepare a disclosure statement containing information of a kind, and in sufficient detail, to enable a hypothetical reasonable investor to make an informed judgment regarding acceptance or rejection of the plan of reorganization or liquidation. As such, this Disclosure Statement is being submitted in accordance with the requirements of section 1125 of the Bankruptcy Code. This Disclosure Statement includes, without limitation, information about:

- the Debtor's operating and financial history;
- the significant events that have occurred to date;
- the Confirmation process; and
- the terms and provisions of the Plan, including key aspects of the Claimant Trust and the Reorganized Debtor, certain effects of Confirmation of the Plan, certain risk factors relating to the Plan, and the manner in which distributions will be made under the Plan.

The Debtor believes that any alternative to Confirmation of the Plan would result in significant delays, litigation, and additional costs, and ultimately would diminish the Debtor's value. Accordingly, the Debtor strongly supports confirmation of the Plan.

A. Summary of the Plan

The Plan represents a significant achievement for the Debtor. As discussed herein, the Plan provides that the Claimant Trust will receive the majority of the Debtor's assets, including Causes of Action. The assets being transferred to the Claimant Trust are referred to, collectively, as the Claimant Trust Assets. The Claimant Trust will – for the benefit of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries – monetize the Claimant Trust Assets, pursue the Causes of Action, and work to conclude the various lawsuits and litigation claims pending against the Estate.

The Plan also provides for the reorganization of the Debtor. This will be accomplished by the cancellation of the Debtor’s current Equity Interests, which consist of partnership interests held by: The Dugaboy Investment Trust;<sup>3</sup> the Hunter Mountain Investment Trust (“Hunter Mountain”); Mark Okada, personally and through family trusts; and Strand, the Debtor’s general partner. On the Effective Date, the Debtor or the Reorganized Debtor, as applicable, will issue new Class A Limited Partnership Interests to (i) the Claimant Trust, as limited partner, and (ii) New GP LLC, as general partner, and will admit (a) the Claimant Trust as the limited partner of the Reorganized Debtor, and (b) New GP LLC as the general partner of the Reorganized Debtor. The Claimant Trust, as limited partner, will ratify New GP LLC’s appointment as general partner of the Reorganized Debtor. The Reorganized Debtor will be managed by the Claimant Trust, as the managing member of New GP LLC.

The Reorganized Debtor will oversee the monetization of the Reorganized Debtor Assets, which consist of, among other Assets, the management of the Managed Funds. The net proceeds from the Reorganized Debtor Assets will ultimately be distributed to the Claimant Trust and available for distribution to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries.

The following is an overview of certain other material terms of the Plan:

- Allowed Priority Non-Tax Claims will be paid in full;
- Allowed Retained Employee Claims will be Reinstated;
- Allowed Convenience Claims will receive the lesser of (i) 85% of their Allowed Claim or (ii) such Holder’s Pro Rata share of the Convenience Claims Cash Pool (i.e., $13,150,000). Holders of Convenience Claims can elect the treatment provided to General Unsecured Claims by making the GUC Election on their Ballots;
- Allowed General Unsecured Claims and Allowed Subordinated Claims will receive their Pro Rata share of Claimant Trust Interests. The Claimant Trust Interests distributed to Allowed General Unsecured Claims will be senior to those distributed to Allowed Subordinated Claims as set forth in the Claimant Trust Agreement. Holders of General Unsecured Claims that are liquidated as of the Confirmation Date can elect the treatment provided to Convenience Class Election by reducing their Claims to $1,000,000 and making the Convenience Class Election on their Ballots; and
- Allowed Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests and Allowed Class A Limited Partnership Interests will receive their Pro Rata share of the Contingent Claimant Trust Interests.

<sup>3</sup> The Dugaboy Investment Trust is a Delaware trust created to manage the assets of James Dondero and his family.

B. An Overview of the Chapter 11 Process

Chapter 11 is the principal business reorganization chapter of the Bankruptcy Code. Pursuant to chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code, a debtor may remain in possession of its assets and business and attempt to reorganize its business for the benefit of such debtor, its creditors, and other parties in interest. A plan of reorganization sets forth the means for satisfying claims against and interests in a debtor. Confirmation of a plan of reorganization by a bankruptcy court makes the plan binding upon the debtor and any creditor of or interest holder in the debtor, whether or not such creditor or interest holder (i) is impaired under or has accepted the plan or (ii) receives or retains any property under the plan.

The commencement of a Chapter 11 case creates an estate comprised of all of the legal and equitable interests of a debtor in property as of the date that the bankruptcy petition is filed. Sections 1107 and 1108 of the Bankruptcy Code provide that a debtor may continue to operate its business and remain in possession of its property as a “debtor-in-possession,” unless the bankruptcy court orders the appointment of a trustee. The filing of a bankruptcy petition also triggers the automatic stay provisions of section 362 of the Bankruptcy Code which provide, among other things, for an automatic stay of all attempts to collect prepetition claims from a debtor or otherwise interfere with its property or business. Except as otherwise ordered by the bankruptcy court, the automatic stay generally remains in full force and effect until the consummation of a plan of reorganization or liquidation, following confirmation of such plan of reorganization.

The Bankruptcy Code provides that upon commencement of a chapter 11 bankruptcy case, the Office of the United States Trustee may appoint a committee of unsecured creditors and may, in its discretion, appoint additional committees of creditors or of equity interest holders if necessary to assure adequate representation. Please see ARTICLE II for a discussion of the U.S. Trustee and the statutory committees.

Upon the commencement of a chapter 11 bankruptcy case, all creditors and equity interest holders generally have standing to be heard on any issue in the chapter 11 proceedings pursuant to section 1109(b) of the Bankruptcy Code.

The formulation and confirmation of a plan is the principal objective of a chapter 11 case. The plan sets forth the means of satisfying the claims against and equity interests in the debtor.

C. Purpose and Effect of the Plan

1. The Plan of Reorganization

The Debtor is reorganizing pursuant to chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. As a result, the Confirmation of the Plan means that the Debtor’s business will continue to operate following confirmation of the Plan through the Claimant Trust and the Reorganized Debtor to monetize assets for distribution to Holders of Allowed Claims. The Claimant Trust will hold the Claimant Trust Assets and manage the efficient monetization of, the Claimant Trust Assets. The Claimant Trust will also manage the Reorganized Debtor through the Claimant Trust’s ownership of the Reorganized Debtor’s general partner, New GP LLC. The Claimant Trust will also be the sole limited partner in the Reorganized Debtor. The Reorganized Debtor will manage the wind down of the Managed Funds as well as the monetization of the balance of the Reorganized Debtor Assets. The Claimant Trust will also establish a Litigation Sub-Trust in accordance with the Plan, which will also be for the benefit of the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. The Litigation Sub-Trust will receive the Estate Claims. The Litigation Trustee shall be the exclusive trustee of the Estate Claims included in the Claimant Trust Assets subject to oversight by the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee

A bankruptcy court's confirmation of a plan binds the debtor, any entity acquiring property under the plan, any holder of a claim or an equity interest in a debtor and all other entities as may be ordered by the bankruptcy court in accordance with the applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code to the terms and conditions of the confirmed plan, whether or not such Entity voted on the plan or affirmatively voted to reject the plan.

2. Plan Overview

The Plan provides for the classification and treatment of Claims against and Equity Interests in the Debtor. For classification and treatment of Claims and Equity Interests, the Plan designates Classes of Claims and Classes of Equity Interests. These Classes and Plan treatments take into account the differing nature and priority under the Bankruptcy Code of the various Claims and Equity Interests.

The following chart briefly summarizes the classification and treatment of Claims and Equity Interests under the Plan.<sup>4</sup> Amounts listed below are estimated.

In accordance with section 1122 of the Bankruptcy Code, the Plan provides for eight Classes of Claims against and/or Equity Interests in the Debtor.

The projected recoveries set forth in the table below are estimates only and therefore are subject to change. For a complete description of the Debtor's classification and treatment of Claims or Equity Interests, reference should be made to the entire Plan and the risk factors described in ARTICLE IV below. For certain classes of Claims, the actual amount of Allowed Claims could be materially different than the estimated amounts shown in the table below.

<sup>4</sup> This chart is only a summary of the classification and treatment of Claims and Equity Interests under the Plan. References should be made to the entire Disclosure Statement and the Plan for a complete description.

Class	Type of Claim or Interest	Estimated Prepetition Claim Amount [1]	Impaired	Entitled to Vote	Estimated Recovery
1	Jefferies Secured Claim	$0.00	No	No	100%
2	Frontier Secured Claim[2]	$5,209,964	Yes	Yes	100%
3	Other Secured Claims	$551,116	No	No	100%
4	Priority Non-Tax Claim	$16,489	No	No	100%
5	Retained Employee Claim	$0	No	No	100%
6	PTO Claims [3]	$1,181,886	No	No	100%
7	Convenience Claims[4]	$12,064,333	Yes	Yes	85.00%
8	General Unsecured Claims[5]	$180,442,199	Yes	Yes	85.31%
9	Subordinated Claims	Undetermined	Yes	Yes	Undetermined
10	Class B/C Limited Partnership Interests	N/A	Yes	Yes	Undetermined
11	Class A Limited Partnership Interests	N/A	Yes	Yes	Undetermined

[1] Excludes Priority Tax Claims and certain other unclassified amounts totaling approximately $1.1 million owed to Joshua and Jennifer Terry and Acis under a settlement agreement.

[2] Excludes interest accrued postpetition estimated at $318,000, which will be paid on the Effective Date. The Liquidation Analysis/Financial Projections provide for the payment of postpetition interest.

[3] Represents outstanding PTO Claims as of September 30, 2020. PTO Claims are subject to adjustment depending on the amount of actual prepetition PTO Claims outstanding as of the Effective Date. PTO claims are accounted for in the Liquidation Analysis/Financial Projections as an administrative claim and will be paid out in ordinary courses pursuant to applicable state law.

[4] Represents the estimated gross prepetition amount of Convenience Claims with a total payout amount estimated at 85% of $12.06 million, or $10.25 million. This number includes approximately $1.113 million of potential Rejection Claims and assumes that Holders of Allowed General Unsecured Claims that are each less than $2.50 million opt into the Convenience Class.

[5] Assumes no recovery for UBS, the HarbourVest Entities, IFA, Hunter Mountain, and an Allowed Claim of only $3,722,019 for Mr. Daugherty (each as discussed further below). Assumes $1.440 million of potential rejection damage claims. The Liquidation Analysis/Financial Projections assume Highland RCP, LP and Highland RCP Offshore, LP offset their Claim of $4.4 million against amounts owed to the Debtor.

3. Voting on the Plan

Under the Bankruptcy Code, acceptance of a plan by a Class of Claims or Equity Interests is determined by calculating the number and the amount of Claims voting to accept, based on the actual total Allowed Claims or Equity Interests voting on the Plan. Acceptance by a Class of Claims requires more than one-half of the number of total Allowed Claims in the Class to vote in favor of the Plan and at least two-thirds in dollar amount of the total Allowed Claims in the Class to vote in favor of the Plan. Acceptance by a Class of Equity Interests requires at least two-thirds in amount of the total Allowed Equity Interests in the Class to vote in favor of the Plan.

Under the Bankruptcy Code, only Classes of Claims or Equity Interests that are “Impaired” and that are not deemed as a matter of law to have rejected a plan under Section 1126 of the Bankruptcy Code are entitled to vote to accept or reject the Plan. Any Class that is “Unimpaired” is not entitled to vote to accept or reject a plan and is conclusively presumed to have accepted the Plan. As set forth in Section 1124 of the Bankruptcy Code, a Class is “Impaired” if the legal, equitable, or contractual rights attaching to the claims or equity interests of that Class are modified or altered.

Pursuant to the Plan, Claims and Equity Interests in Class 2 and Class 7 through Class 11 are Impaired by the Plan, and only the Holders of Claims and Equity Interests in those Classes are entitled to vote to accept or reject the Plan. Whether a Holder of a Claim or Equity Interest in Class 2 and Class 7 through Class 11 may vote to accept or reject the Plan will also depend on whether the Holder held such Claim or Equity Interest as of November 23, 2020 (the “Voting Record Date”). The Voting Record Date and all of the Debtor’s solicitation and voting procedures shall apply to all of the Debtor’s Creditors and other parties in interest.

Pursuant to the Plan, Claims in Class 1 and Class 3 through Class 6 are Unimpaired by the Plan, and such Holders are deemed to have accepted the Plan and are therefore not entitled to vote on the Plan.

Pursuant to the Plan, there are no Classes that will not receive or retain any property and no Classes are deemed to reject the Plan.

4. Confirmation of the Plan

(a) Confirmation Generally

“Confirmation” is the technical term for the Bankruptcy Court’s approval of a plan of reorganization or liquidation. The timing, standards and factors considered by the Bankruptcy Court in deciding whether to confirm a plan of reorganization are discussed below.

The confirmation of a plan by the Bankruptcy Court binds the debtor, any issuer of securities under a plan, any person acquiring property under a plan, any creditor or equity interest holder of a debtor, and any other person or entity as may be ordered by the Bankruptcy Court in accordance with the applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code. Subject to certain limited exceptions, the order issued by the Bankruptcy Court confirming a plan discharges a debtor from any debt that arose before the confirmation of such plan and provides for the treatment of such debt in accordance with the terms of the confirmed plan.

(b) The Confirmation Hearing

ARTICLE II.
BACKGROUND TO THE CHAPTER 11 CASE AND SUMMARY OF
BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDINGS TO DATE

A. Description and History of the Debtor’s Business

Prior to the Petition Date, the Debtor was a multibillion-dollar global alternative investment manager founded in 1993 by James Dondero and Mark Okada. A pioneer in the leveraged loan market, the firm evolved over twenty-five years, building on its credit expertise and value-based approach to expand into other asset classes.

As of the Petition Date, the Debtor operated a diverse investment platform, serving both institutional and retail investors worldwide. In addition to high-yield credit, the Debtor’s investment capabilities include public equities, real estate, private equity and special situations, structured credit, and sector- and region-specific verticals built around specialized teams. Additionally, the Debtor provided shared services to its affiliated registered investment advisers.

B. The Debtor’s Corporate Structure

The Debtor is headquartered in Dallas, Texas. The Debtor itself is a Delaware limited partnership and one of the principal operating arms of the Debtor’s business. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor employed approximately 76 people, including executive-level management employees, finance and legal staff, investment professionals, and back-office accounting and administrative personnel.

Pursuant to various contractual arrangements, the Debtor, as of the Petition Date, provided money management and advisory services for approximately $2.5 billion of assets under management shared services for approximately $7.5 billion of assets managed by a variety of affiliated and unaffiliated entities, including other affiliated registered investment advisers. None of these affiliates filed for Chapter 11 protection. As of September 30, 2020, the Debtor provided money management and advisory services for approximately $1.641 billion of assets under management and shared services for approximately $7.136 billion of assets managed by a variety of affiliated and unaffiliated entities, including other affiliated registered investment advisers. Further, on the Petition Date, the value of the Debtor’s Assets was approximately $566.5 million. As of September 30, 2020, the total value of Debtor’s Assets totaled approximately $328.3 million.

The drop in the value of the Debtor’s Assets and assets under management was caused, in part, by the COVID-19 global pandemic. Specifically, the decline was the result of, among other things, the drop in value of the Debtor’s assets generally, the loss of value in the Prime Accounts discussed below, the professional and other costs associated with the Chapter 11 Case, and the reserve of approximately $59 million against a loan receivable listed as an asset.

Asset	10/16/2019	9/30/2020

[1] Includes decrease in value of assets, costs of Chapter 11 Cases, and assets sold to satisfy liabilities.

[2] Net of reserve of $59 million.

The Debtor’s organizational chart is attached hereto as Exhibit B. The organizational chart is not all inclusive and certain entities have been excluded for the sake of brevity.

C. Business Overview

The Debtor’s primary means of generating revenue has historically been from fees collected for the management and advisory services provided to funds that it manages, plus fees generated for services provided to its affiliates. For additional liquidity, the Debtor, prior to the Petition Date, would sell liquid securities in the ordinary course held through its prime brokerage account at Jefferies, LLC (“Jefferies”), as described in additional detail below. The Debtor would also, from time to time, sell assets at non-Debtor subsidiaries and distribute those proceeds to the Debtor in the ordinary course of business. During calendar year 2018, the Debtor’s stand-alone annual revenue totaled approximately $50 million. During calendar year 2019, the Debtor’s stand-alone revenue totaled approximately $36.1 million.

D. Prepetition Capital Structure

1. Jefferies Margin Borrowings (Secured)

The Debtor is party to that certain Prime Brokerage Customer Agreement with Jefferies dated May 24, 2013 (the “Brokerage Agreement”). Pursuant to the terms of the Brokerage Agreement and related documents, the Debtor maintains a prime brokerage account with Jefferies (the “Prime Account”). A prime brokerage account is a unique type of brokerage account that allows sophisticated investors to, among other things, borrow both money on margin to purchase securities and common stock to facilitate short positions. A prime brokerage account also serves as a custodial account and holds client securities in the prime broker’s street name.

As of the Petition Date, the Debtor held approximately $57 million of equity in liquid and illiquid securities (the “Securities”) in the Prime Account. Pursuant to the Brokerage Agreement, the Debtor granted a lien in favor of Jefferies in the Securities and all of the proceeds thereof.

However, because of the economic distress caused by the COVID-19 global pandemic, the value of the Securities held in the Prime Account dropped since the Petition Date, and Jefferies has exerted significant pressure on the Debtor to liquidate the Securities to satisfy margin calls. As of September 30, 2020, the equity value of the Securities in the Prime Account was approximately $23.3 million, and the Debtor owed no amounts to Jefferies. The Debtor has been actively selling Securities to cover operating expenses and professional fees.

2. The Frontier Bank Loan (Secured)

The Debtor and Frontier State Bank (“Frontier Bank”) are parties to that certain Loan Agreement dated as of August 17, 2015 (the “Original Frontier Loan Agreement”), pursuant to which Frontier Bank loaned to the Debtor the aggregate principal amount of $9.5 million. On March 29, 2018, the Debtor and Frontier Bank entered into that certain First Amended and Restated Loan Agreement (the “Amended Frontier Loan Agreement”), amending and superseding the Original Frontier Loan Agreement. Pursuant to the Amended Frontier Loan Agreement, Frontier Bank made an additional $1 million loan to the Debtor (together with the borrowings under the Original Frontier Loan Agreement, the “Frontier Loan”). The Frontier Loan matures on August 17, 2021.

Pursuant to that certain Security and Pledge Agreement dated August 17, 2015, between Frontier Bank and the Debtor, as amended by the Amended Frontier Loan Agreement, the Debtor’s obligations under the Frontier Loan are secured by 171,724 shares of voting common stock of MGM Holdings, Inc. (collectively, the “Frontier Collateral”).

The aggregate principal balance of the Frontier Loan was approximately $5.2 million. As of September 30, 2020, the value of the Frontier Collateral was approximately $13.1 million, and approximately $318,000 in postpetition interest had accrued.

3. Other Unsecured Obligations

As discussed below, the Plan provides for four Classes of unsecured claims: (i) PTO Claims, (ii) the Convenience Claims, (iii) the General Unsecured Claims, and (iv) the Subordinated Claims.

The Debtor has various substantial litigation claims asserted against it, which have been classified as General Unsecured Claims. In addition, as of the Petition Date, the Debtor had ordinary course trade debt, unaccrued employee bonus obligations and loan repayment, and contractual commitments to various affiliated and unaffiliated non-Debtor entities for capital calls, contributions, and other potential reimbursement or funding obligations that were potentially in the tens of millions of dollars. The Debtor is still assessing these claims and its liability for such amounts. These Claims have been classified as Convenience Claims and Subordinated Claims.

4. Equity Interests

The Debtor is a Delaware limited partnership. As of the Petition Date, the Debtor had three classes of limited partnership interest (Class A, Class B, and Class C). The Class A interests were held by The Dugaboy Investment Trust, Mark Okada, personally and through family trusts, and Strand, the Debtor's general partner. The Class B and C interests were held by Hunter Mountain.

In the aggregate, the Debtor's limited partnership interests were held: (a) 99.5% by Hunter Mountain; (b) 0.1866% by The Dugaboy Investment Trust, (c) 0.0627% by Mark Okada, personally and through family trusts, and (d) 0.25% by Strand.

E. SEC Filings

The Debtor is an investment adviser registered with the SEC as required by the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. As a registered investment adviser, the Debtor is required to file (at least annually) a Form ADV. The Debtor's current Form ADV is available at <https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/>.

Following the Effective Date, it is anticipated that the Reorganized Debtor will maintain its registration with the SEC as a registered investment adviser.

F. Events Leading Up to the Debtor's Bankruptcy Filings

The Chapter 11 Case was precipitated by the rendering of an Arbitration Award (as that term is defined below) against the Debtor on May 9, 2019, by a panel of the American Arbitration Association (the "Panel"), in favor of the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Fund (the "Redeemer Committee").

The Debtor was formerly the investment manager for the Highland Crusader Funds (the "Crusader Funds") that were formed between 2000 and 2002. In September and October 2008, as the financial markets in the United States began to fail, the Debtor was flooded with redemption requests from Crusader Funds' investors, as the Crusader Funds' assets lost significant value.

On October 15, 2008, the Debtor placed the Crusader Funds in wind-down, thereby compulsorily redeeming the Crusader Funds' limited partnership interests. The Debtor also declared that it would liquidate the Crusader Funds' remaining assets and distribute the proceeds to investors.

However, disputes concerning the distribution of the assets arose among certain investors. After several years of negotiations, a Joint Plan of Distribution of the Crusader Funds

(the “Crusader Plan”), and the Scheme of Arrangement between Highland Crusader Fund and its Scheme Creditors (the “Crusader Scheme”), were adopted in Bermuda and became effective in August 2011. As part of the Crusader Plan and the Crusader Scheme, the Redeemer Committee was elected from among the Crusader Funds’ investors to oversee the Debtor’s management of the Crusader Funds.

Between October 2011 and January 2013, in accordance with the Crusader Plan and the Crusader Scheme, the Debtor distributed in excess of $1.2 billion to the Crusader Funds’ investors. The Debtor distributed a further $315.3 million through June 2016.

However, disputes subsequently arose between the Redeemer Committee and the Debtor. On July 5, 2016, the Redeemer Committee (a) terminated and replaced the Debtor as investment manager of the Crusader Fund, (b) commenced an arbitration against the Debtor (the “Arbitration”), and (c) commenced litigation in Delaware Chancery Court, to, among other things, obtain a status quo order in aid of the arbitration, which order was subsequently entered.

Following an evidentiary hearing, the Panel issued (a) a Partial Final Award, dated March 6, 2019 (the “March Award”), (b) a Disposition of Application for Modification of Award, dated March 14, 2019 (the “Modification Award”), and (c) a Final Award, dated May 9, 2019 (the “Final Award” and together with the March Award and the Modification Award, the “Arbitration Award”). Pursuant to the Arbitration Award, the Redeemer Committee was awarded gross damages against the Debtor in the aggregate amount of $136,808,302; as of the Petition Date, the total value of the Arbitration Award was $190,824,557, inclusive of interest

Prior to the Petition Date, the Redeemer Committee moved in the Chancery Court to confirm the Arbitration Award. For its part, the Debtor moved to vacate parts of the Final Award contending that certain aspects were procedurally improper. The Redeemer Committee’s motion to confirm the Arbitration Award and the Debtor’s motion to vacate were fully briefed and were scheduled to be heard by the Chancery Court on the day the Debtor filed for bankruptcy

On the Petition Date, the Debtor believed that the aggregate value of its assets exceeded the amount of its liabilities; however, the Debtor filed the Chapter 11 Case because it did not have sufficient liquidity to immediately satisfy the Award or post a supersedeas bond necessary to pursue an appeal.

G. Additional Prepetition Litigation

In addition to the litigation with the Redeemer Committee described above, the Debtor, both directly and through certain subsidiaries, affiliates, and related entities, was party to substantial prepetition litigation. Although the Debtor disputes the allegations raised in this litigation and believes it has substantial defenses, this litigation has resulted in substantial Claims against the Debtor’s Estate, each of which has been classified as a General Unsecured Claim. To the extent that these litigation Claims cannot be resolved consensually, they will be litigated by the Claimant Trustee or Reorganized Debtor, as applicable. The Debtor’s major prepetition litigation is as follows:

- Redeemer Committee: The dispute with the Redeemer Committee is described in ARTICLE II.F above. As discussed in ARTICLE II.R, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order approving a settlement that resolves the Redeemer Committee's claims against the Estate; however, that order is currently subject to appeal.
- Acis Capital Management, L.P., & Acis Capital Management GP, LLC: On January 30, 2018, Joshua Terry filed involuntary bankruptcy petitions against both Acis Capital Management, L.P. ("Acis LP") and its general partner, Acis Capital Management GP, LLC ("Acis GP," and collectively with Acis LP, "Acis") in the Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, the Honorable Judge Jernigan presiding (the same judge presiding over the Chapter 11 Case), Case No. 18-30264-SGJ (the "Acis Case"). Mr. Terry had been an employee of the Debtor and a limited partner of Acis LP. Mr. Terry was terminated in June 2016, and obtained a multi-million dollar arbitration award against Acis. Overruling various objections, the Bankruptcy Court entered the orders for relief for the Acis debtors in April 2018, and a chapter 11 trustee was appointed. The Debtor filed a proof of claim against Acis and an administrative claim. Acis disputes the Debtor's claim, and the Debtor has not received any distributions on its claim to date. On January 31, 2019, Acis's chapter 11 plan was confirmed, and Mr. Terry become the sole owner of reorganized Acis. Several appeals remain pending, including an appeal of the entry of the Acis orders for relief and the Acis confirmation order.

The Acis trustee commenced a lawsuit against the Debtor, among others, alleging fraudulent conveyance and other causes of action in relation to the Debtor's alleged prepetition effort to control and transfer away Acis's assets to avoid paying Mr. Terry's claim. After the confirmation of the Acis plan, reorganized Acis allegedly supplanted the Acis Trustee as plaintiff and filed an amended complaint against the Debtor and other defendants, which claims comprise Acis's pending proof of claim against the Debtor.

As discussed in ARTICLE II.R, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order approving a settlement that resolves Acis's claims against the Estate; however, that order is currently subject to appeal.

- UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG London Branch: UBS Securities LLC ("UBS Securities") filed a proof of claim in the amount of $1,039,957,799.40 [Claim No. 190] (the "UBS Securities Claim"), and UBS AG, London Branch ("UBS London," and together with UBS Securities, "UBS") filed a substantively identical proof of claim in the amount of $1,039,957,799.40 [Claim No. 191] (the "UBS London Claim" and together with the UBS Securities Claim, the "UBS Claim"). The UBS Claim was based on the amount of a judgment UBS received on a breach of contract claim against funds related to the Debtor that were unable to honor margin calls in 2008. Although the Debtor had no obligation under UBS's contracts with the funds, UBS alleges the Debtor is liable for the judgment because it (i) breached an alleged duty to ensure that the funds could pay UBS, (ii) caused or permitted $233 million in alleged fraudulent transfers to be made by

Highland Financial Partners, L.P. (“HFP”) in March 2009, and (iii) is an alter ego of the funds. The Debtor believes there are meritorious defenses to most, if not all, of the UBS Claim for numerous reasons, including: (i) decisions by the New York Appellate Division that limited UBS’s claims to the March 2009 transfers that it alleges were fraudulent; (ii) those decisions should also apply to any alter ego claim (which at this time has not been formally asserted against the Debtor); (iii) UBS settled claims relating to $172 million of the $233 million in alleged fraudulent transfers and the Debtor is covered by the release; and (iv) the March 2009 transfers were in any event part of a wholly legitimate transaction that did not target UBS and for which HFP received fair consideration. Those and several additional defenses are described in the Debtor’s Objection to Proofs of Claim 190 and 191 of UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG, London Branch [D.I. 928].

On October 19, 2020, both the Debtor and the Redeemer Committee filed motions seeking partial summary judgment of the UBS Claim, which, if granted, will significantly decrease the UBS Claim.<sup>5</sup> UBS responded to these motions on November 6, 2020 [D.I. 1341]. On November 20, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court granted partial summary judgment in favor of the Debtor and the Redeemer Committee. It is anticipated that the Bankruptcy Court will enter a formal order within the next couple of weeks.

- Patrick Daugherty: Patrick Daugherty has Filed a Proof of Claim for “at least $37,483,876.62” [Claim Nos. 67; 77] (the “Daugherty Claim”).<sup>6</sup> Mr. Daugherty is a former limited partner and employee of the Debtor. The Daugherty Claim has three components, and Mr. Daugherty asserts claims: (1) for indemnification for any taxes Mr. Daugherty is required to pay as a result of the IRS audit of the Debtor’s 2008-2009 tax return; (2) for defamation arising from a 2017 press release posted by the Debtor; and (3) arising from a pending Delaware lawsuit against the Debtor, which seeks to recover a judgment of $2.6 million in respect of Highland Employee Retention Assets (“HERA”), plus interest, from assets Mr. Daugherty claims were fraudulently transferred to the Debtor. The Daugherty Claim also seeks (a) the value of Mr. Daugherty’s asserted interest in HERA, which he values at approximately $26 million; and (b) indemnification for fees incurred in the Delaware action and in previous litigation in Texas State Court. The Debtor believes that the Daugherty Claim should be allowed in the amount of

On November 17, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court approved Mr. Daugherty’s request to amend the Daugherty Claim from the bench.

$3,722,019; however, the Debtor believes, for various reasons, that the balance of the Daugherty Claim lacks merit. The Debtor's defenses to the Daugherty Claim are described in the Debtor's (i) Objection to Claim No. 77 of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty and (ii) Complaint to Subordinate Claim of Patrick Hagaman Daugherty [D.I. 1008].

H. The Debtor's Bankruptcy Proceeding

On October 16, 2019, the Debtor commenced a voluntary case under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware (the "Delaware Bankruptcy Court"). On December 4, 2019, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court entered an order transferring venue of the Chapter 11 Case to the Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division (the "Bankruptcy Court").<sup>7</sup> The Debtor continues to operate its business and manage its properties as debtor-in-possession under the jurisdiction of the Bankruptcy Court and in accordance with the applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code and orders of the Bankruptcy Court.

An immediate effect of commencement of the Chapter 11 Case was the imposition of the automatic stay under the Bankruptcy Code which, with limited exceptions, enjoins the commencement or continuation of all collection efforts, the enforcement of liens against property of the Debtor, and the continuation of litigation against the Debtor during the pendency of the Chapter 11 Case. The automatic stay will remain in effect, unless modified by the Bankruptcy Court, until the later of the Effective Date and the date indicated in any order providing for the implementation of such stay or injunction.

I. First Day Relief

On or about the Petition Date, the Debtor filed certain "first day" motions and applications (the "First Day Motions") with the Delaware Bankruptcy Court seeking certain immediate relief to aid in the efficient administration of this Chapter 11 Case and to facilitate the Debtor's transition to debtor-in-possession status. A brief description of each of the First Day Motions and the evidence in support thereof is set forth in the Declaration of Frank Waterhouse in Support of First Day Motions [D.I. 11] (the "First Day Declaration"). At a hearing on October 19, 2019, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court granted virtually all of the relief initially requested in the First Day Motions [D.I. 39, 40, 42-44].

The Delaware Bankruptcy Court subsequently entered an order authorizing the Debtor to pay critical vendor claims on a final basis [D.I. 168]. Following the transfer of the Chapter 11 Case to the Bankruptcy Court, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order authorizing the Debtor to continue its cash management system on a final basis [D.I. 379].

The First Day Motions, the First Day Declaration, and all orders for relief granted in this case can be viewed free of charge at <https://www.kccllc.net/hcmlp>.

J. Other Procedural and Administrative Motions

On and after the Petition Date, the Debtor also filed a number of motions and applications to retain professionals and to streamline the administration of the Chapter 11 Case, including:

- Interim Compensation Motion. On October 29, 2019, the Debtor filed the Debtor's Motion Pursuant o Sections 105(a), 330 and 331 of the Bankruptcy Code for Administrative Order Establishing Procedures for Interim Compensation and Reimbursement of Expenses of Professionals [D.I. 72] (the "Interim Compensation Motion"). The Interim Compensation Motion sought to establish procedures for the allowance and payment of compensation and reimbursement of expenses for attorneys and other professionals whose retentions are approved by the Bankruptcy Court pursuant to section 327 or 1103 of the Bankruptcy Code and who will be required to file applications for allowance of compensation and reimbursement of expenses pursuant to section 330 and 331 of the Bankruptcy Code. On November 14, 2019, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court entered an order granting the Interim Compensation Motion [D.I. 141].
- Ordinary Course Professionals. On October 29, 2019, the Debtor filed the Motion of the Debtor for an Order Authorizing the Debtor to Retain, Employ, and Compensate Certain Professionals Utilized by the Debtor in the Ordinary Course of Business [D.I. 75] (the "OCP Motion"). The OCP Motion sought authority for the Debtor to retain and compensate certain professionals in the ordinary course of its business. On November 26, 2019, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court entered an order granting the OCP Motion [D.I. 176].
- Retention Applications. During the course of the chapter 11 case, the Delaware Bankruptcy Court or Bankruptcy Court, as applicable, have approved a number of applications by the Debtor seeking to retain certain professionals pursuant to sections 327, 328 and/or 363 of the Bankruptcy Code, including Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones LLP as legal counsel [D.I. 183], Development Specialists, Inc. as chief restructuring officer and financial advisor [D.I. 342], Kurtzman Carson Consultants LLC as administrative advisor [D.I. 74], Mercer (US) Inc. as compensation consultant [D.I. 381], Hayward & Associates PLLC as local counsel [D.I. 435], Foley Gardere, Foley & Lardner LLP as special Texas counsel [D.I. 513], Deloitte Tax LLP as tax services provider [D.I. 551], Wilmer Cutler Pickering Hale and Dorr LLP as regulatory and compliance counsel [D.I. 669], and Hunton Andrews Kurth LLP as special tax counsel [D.I. 763].

K. United States Trustee

While the Chapter 11 Case was pending in the Delaware Bankruptcy Court, the U.S. Trustee for Region 3 appointed Jane Leamy as the attorney for the U.S. Trustee in connection with this Chapter 11 Case (the "Delaware U.S. Trustee"). Following the transfer of the Chapter 11 Case to the Bankruptcy Court, the Delaware U.S. Trustee no longer represented the U.S. Trustee, and the U.S. Trustee for Region 6 appointed Lisa Lambert as the attorney for the U.S. Trustee in connection with this Chapter 11 Case (the "Texas U.S. Trustee," and together with the Delaware U.S. Trustee, the “U.S. Trustee”). The Debtor has worked cooperatively to address concerns and comments from the U.S. Trustee’s office during this Chapter 11 Case.

L. Appointment of Committee

On October 29, 2019, the Delaware U.S. Trustee appointed the Committee in this Chapter 11 Case [D.I. 65]. The members of the Committee are (a) Redeemer Committee of Highland Crusader Fund, (b) Meta-e Discovery, (c) UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG London Branch, and (d) Acis Capital Management, L.P. and Acis Capital Management GP, LLP. Meta-E Discovery is a vendor to the Debtor. The other members of the Committee are litigants in prepetition litigation with the Debtor as described in ARTICLE II.G. The Bankruptcy Court approved the retention of Sidley Austin LLP as counsel to the Committee [D.I. 334], Young Conaway Stargatt & Taylor, LLP as Delaware co-counsel to the Committee [D.I. 337], and FTI Consulting, Inc. as financial advisor to the Committee [D.I. 336].

M. Meeting of Creditors

The meeting of creditors under section 341(a) of the Bankruptcy Code was initially scheduled for November 20, 2019, at 9:30 a.m. (prevailing Eastern Time) at the J. Caleb Boggs Federal Building, 844 N. King Street, Room 3209, Wilmington, Delaware 19801, and was rescheduled to December 3, 2019, at 10:30 a.m. (prevailing Eastern Time). At the meeting of creditors, the Delaware U.S. Trustee and creditors asked questions of a representative of the Debtor.

Following the transfer of the Chapter 11 Case to the Bankruptcy Court, the Texas U.S. Trustee scheduled an additional meeting of creditors under section 341(a) for January 9, 2020, at 11:00 a.m. (prevailing Central Time) at the Office of the U.S. Trustee, 1100 Commerce Street, Room 976, Dallas, Texas 75242, at the conclusion of that meeting, the Texas U.S. Trustee continued the meeting to January 22, 2020. The Texas U.S. Trustee and creditors asked questions of a representative of the Debtor at the January 9 and January 22, 2020 meetings.

N. Schedules, Statements of Financial Affairs, and Claims Bar Date

The Debtor filed its Schedules of Assets and Liabilities and Statements of Financial Affairs (the “Schedules”) on December 19, 2019 [D.I. 247-248]. A creditor whose Claim is set forth in the Schedules and not identified as contingent, unliquidated or disputed may have elected to file a proof of claim against the Debtor.

The Bankruptcy Court established (i) April 8, 2020 as the deadline for Creditors (other than governmental units) to file proofs of claim against the Debtor; (ii) April 13, 2020, as the deadline for any governmental unit (as such term is defined in section 101(27) of the Bankruptcy Code), (iii) April 23, 2020, and as the deadline for any investors in any fund managed by the Debtor to file proofs of claim against the Debtor; and (iv) May 26, 2020 as the deadline for the Debtor’s employees to file proofs of claim against the Debtor pursuant to and accordance with Court’s order entered on April 3, 2020 [D.I. 560].<sup>8</sup> Consequently, the bar date for filing proofs of claims has passed and any claims filed after the applicable bar date will be considered late filed.

O. Governance Settlement with the Committee

On January 9, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court entered the Order Approving Settlement with Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course [D.I. 339] (the “Settlement Order”).

Among other things, the Settlement Order approved a term sheet (the “Term Sheet”) agreed to by the Debtor and the Committee pursuant to which the Debtor agreed to abide by certain protocols governing the production of documents and certain protocols governing the operation of the Debtor’s business (the “Operating Protocols”). Under the Operating Protocols, the Debtor agreed to seek consent from the Committee prior to entering into certain “Transactions” (as defined in the Operating Protocols. The Operating Protocols were amended on February 21, 2020, with the consent of the Committee [D.I. 466].

Pursuant to the Term Sheet, the Debtor also granted the Committee standing to pursue certain estate claims and causes of action against Mr. Dondero, Mr. Okada, other insiders of the Debtor, and the Related Entities (as defined in the Operating Protocols) (collectively, the “Estate Claims”). To the extent permitted, the Estate Claims and the ability to pursue the Estate Claims are being transferred to either the Claimant Trust or Litigation Sub-Trust pursuant to the Plan.

In connection with the Settlement Order, an independent board of directors was also appointed at Strand, the Debtor’s general partner (the “Independent Board”). The members of the Independent Board are John S. Dubel, James P. Seery, Jr., and Russell Nelms. The Independent Board was tasked with managing the Debtor’s operations during the Chapter 11 Case and facilitating a reorganization or orderly liquidation of the Debtor’s Estate.

P. Appointment of James P. Seery, Jr., as Chief Executive Officer and Chief Restructuring Officer

Following their appointment in January 2020, the Independent Board determined that it would be more efficient for the Debtor to have a traditional corporate management structure, i.e. a fully engaged chief executive officer supervised by the Independent Board. The Independent Board ultimately determined that Mr. Seery – a member of the Independent Board – had the requisite experience and expertise to lead the Debtor. On June 23, 2020, the Debtor filed Debtor’s Motion Under Bankruptcy Code Sections 105(a) and 363(b) for Authorization to Retain James P. Seery, Jr., as Chief Executive Officer, Chief Restructuring Officer and Foreign Representative Nunc Pro Tunc to March 15, 2020 [D.I. 774] (the “Seery Retention Motion”) to retain Mr. Seery as chief executive officer, chief restructuring officer, and foreign representative.

The Bankruptcy Court entered an order approving the Seery Retention Motion on July 16, 2020 [D.I. 854]. Mr. Seery was retained as the Debtor’s chief executive officer and the duties of Bradley Sharp of DSI as the Debtor’s chief restructuring officer and foreign representative were transferred to Mr. Seery.

Q. Mediation

On August 3, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court entered the Order Directing Mediation [D.I. 912] pursuant to which the Bankruptcy Court ordered the Debtor, the Committee, UBS, Acis, the Redeemer Committee, and Mr. Dondero into mediation and appointed Sylvia Mayer and Allan Gropper as the mediators (the “Mediators”). The mediation began on August 27, 2020, and is still open as of the date of this Disclosure Statement

Terry and Jennifer G. Terry (Claim No. 156), and (c) Acis Capital Management, L.P. (Claim No. 159) and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith* [D.I. 1087] (the “Acis Settlement Motion”).

  - Mr. and Mrs. Terry in the amount of $425,000 plus 10% simple interest (calculated on the basis of a 360-day year from and including June 30, 2016), in full and complete satisfaction of the proof of claim filed by the Terry Parties [Claim No. 156];
  - Acis LP in the amount of $97,000, which amount represents the legal fees incurred by Acis LP with respect to the NWCC, LLC v. Highland CLO Management, LLC, et al., Index No. 654195/2018 (N.Y. The Settlement Agreement also provides that within five days of the Bankruptcy Court's approval of the Settlement Agreement and the General Release, the Debtor will move to withdraw, with prejudice, the proofs of claim that the Debtor filed in the Acis bankruptcy cases and the motion filed by the Debtor in the Acis bankruptcy cases seeking an administrative claim for postpetition services provided to Acis.

On October 5, 2020, James Dondero filed an objection to the Acis Settlement Motion [D.I. 1121] (the "Dondero Objection"). On October 28, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order approving the Acis Settlement Motion and overruling the Dondero Objection in its entirety [D.I. 1347]. On November 9, 2020, Mr. Dondero filed a notice of his intent to appeal the order approving the Acis Settlement Motion.

The foregoing is a summary only, and all parties are encouraged to review the Acis Settlement Motion and related documents for additional information on the Settlement Agreement and General Release.

2. Settlement with the Redeemer Committee

The Debtor, Eames, Ltd., the Redeemer Committee, and the Crusader Funds (collectively, the "Settling Parties") executed a settlement (the "Redeemer Stipulation"). The Redeemer Stipulation was also executed, solely with respect to paragraphs 10 through 15 thereof, by Hockney, Ltd., Strand, Highland CDO Opportunity Master Fund, L.P., Highland Credit Strategies Master Fund, L.P., Highland Credit Opportunities CDO, L.P., House Hanover, LLC, and Alvarez & Marsal CRF Management, LLC (collectively, the "Additional Release Parties"). On September 23, 2020, the Debtor filed Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order Approving Settlements with (A) the Redeemer Committee of the Highland Crusader Funds (Claim No. 72), and (B) the Highland Crusader Funds (Claim No. 81), and Authorizing Actions Consistent Therewith [D.I. 1089] seeking approval of the Redeemer Stipulation (the "Redeemer Settlement Motion").

The Redeemer Stipulation contains the following material terms, among others:

- The proof of claim filed by the Redeemer Committee [Claim No. 72] will be Allowed in the amount of $137,696,610 as a General Unsecured Claim;
- The proof of claim filed by the Crusader Funds [Claim No. 81] will be Allowed in the amount of $50,000 as a General Unsecured Claim;
- The Debtor and Eames, Ltd., each (a) consented to the cancellation of certain interests in the Crusader Funds held by them, and (b) agreed that they will not object to the cancellation of certain interests in the Crusader Funds held by the Charitable Donor Advised Fund;4

- The Debtor and the Redeemer Committee agreed to a form of amendment to the shareholders' agreement for Cornerstone Healthcare Group and to a process to monetize Cornerstone Healthcare Group;

- All litigation between the Debtor, Eames, Ltd., and the Additional Highland Release Parties (as defined in the Redeemer Stipulation) on the one hand, and the Redeemer Committee and the Crusader Funds, on the other hand, will cease.

On October 16, 2020, UBS filed an objection to the Redeemer Settlement Motion [D.I. 1190] (the "UBS Objection"). On October 22, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court entered an order approving the Redeemer Settlement Motion and overruling the UBS Objection in its entirety [D.I. 1273]. On November 6, 2020, UBS filed a notice of its intent to appeal the order approving the Redeemer Settlement Motion.

The foregoing is a summary only, and all parties are encouraged to review the Redeemer Settlement Motion and related documents for additional information on the Redeemer Stipulation.

S. Certain Outstanding Material Claims

As discussed above, April 8, 2020, was the general bar date for filing proofs of claim. The Debtor has begun the process of resolving those Claims. Although each Claim represents a potential liability of the Estate, the Debtor believes that, in addition to UBS's Claim, the Claims filed by Integrated Financial Associates, Inc. ("IFA"), the HarbourVest Entities,<sup>9</sup> and Hunter Mountain represent the largest unresolved Claims against the Estate.

- IFA Proof of Claim. IFA filed a proof of claim [Claim No. 93] (the "IFA Claim") seeking damages in the amount of $241,002,696.73 arising from the purported joint control of the Debtor and NexBank, SSB, and the Debtor's management of various lenders to IFA. The Debtor believes that IFA's claim should be disallowed in its entirety. IFA's claim and the Debtor's defenses thereto are described in greater detail in the Objection to Proof of Claim No. 93 of Integrated Financial Associates, Inc. [D.I. 868]. On October 4, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court entered the Order Approving Stipulation Regarding Proof of Claim No. 93 of Integrated Financial Associates, Inc. [D.I. 1126], which capped the IFA Claim, for all purposes, at $8,000,000.
- HarbourVest Entities Proofs of Claim. The HarbourVest Entities are investors in Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. ("HCLOF") and filed proofs of claim against the

Debtor's Estate [Claim No. 143, 147, 149, 150, 153, 154] (the "HarbourVest Claims"). The Debtor included an assertion of "no liability" in respect of the HarbourVest Claims in its Debtor's First Omnibus Objection to Certain (a) Duplicate Claims; (b) Overstated Claims; (c) Late-Filed Claims; (d) Satisfied Claims; (e) No-Liability Claims; and (f) Insufficient Documentation Claims [D.I. 906]. HarbourVest provided a response in its HarbourVest Response to Debtor's First Omnibus Objection to Certain (A) Duplicate Claims; (B) Overstated Claims; (C) Late-Filed Claims; (D) Satisfied Claims; (E) No-Liability Claims; and (F) Insufficient-Documentation Claims [D.I. 1057]. The HarbourVest Entities' response argued that the Debtor's objection should be overruled, and set forth allegations in support of claims under federal and state law and Guernsey law, including claims for fraud, violations of securities laws, breaches of fiduciary duties, and RICO violations. The Debtor intends to vigorously defend the HarbourVest Claims on various grounds, including, among others, the failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, the lack of reasonable reliance, the lack of misrepresentations, the lack of reasonable reliance, the failure to mitigate damages, the parties' agreements bar or otherwise limit the Debtor's liability, and waiver and estoppel. The HarbourVest Entities invested approximately $80 million in HCLOF but seek an allowed claim in excess of $300 million dollars (after giving effect to treble damages for the alleged RICO violations).

- Hunter Mountain Proof of Claim. Hunter Mountain is one of the Debtor's limited partners. Hunter Mountain filed a proof of claim [Claim No. 152] seeking a $60,298,739 indemnification claim against the Debtor because of the Debtor's alleged failures to make priority distributions to Hunter Mountain under the Debtor's Partnership Agreement. The Debtor believes that it has meritorious defenses to Hunter Mountain's claim. Hunter Mountain's claim and the Debtor's defenses to such claim are described in greater detail in the Debtor's (i) Objection to Claim No. 152 of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust and (ii) Complaint to Subordinate Claim of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust and for Declaratory Relief [D.I. 995]. The Debtor believes that Hunter Mountain's proof of claim should either be disallowed in its entirety or subordinated in its entirety.

In addition to the foregoing, the UBS Claim (in the amount of $1,039,957,799.40) and the Daugherty Claim (in the amount of $40,710,819.42) remain outstanding. As set forth above, partial summary judgment on the UBS Claim was granted in favor of the Debtor and the Redeemer Committee on November 20, 2020, and a formal order is expected to be entered within the next couple of weeks.

The Daugherty Claim has been allowed for voting purposes only in the amount of $9,134,019 [D.I. 1422]. In a bench ruling on November 20, 2020, the Bankruptcy Court allowed UBS Claims for voting purposes only in the amount of $94,761,076 [D.I. 1646].

T. Treatment of Shared Service and Sub-Advisory Agreements

As discussed in the Plan, the Reorganized Debtor will manage the wind down of the Managed Funds. However, it is not anticipated that either the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust will assume or assume and assign the contracts between the Debtor and certain Related Entities<sup>10</sup> pursuant to which the Debtor provides shared services and sub-advisory services to those Related Entities.

Currently, the Debtor receives approximately $2.2 million per month in revenue from such contracts. However, in order to service those contracts, the Debtor must maintain a full staff and the cost of providing services under such contracts, among other factors, has historically resulted in a net loss to the Debtor. As such, the Debtor does not believe that assuming these contracts would benefit the Estate.

Further, the contracts generally contain anti-assignment provisions which the Debtor believes may be enforceable under 11 U.S.C. § 365(c). These provisions, therefore, would arguably prevent the assignment of such contracts without the consent of the Debtor's contract counterparty. However, even if 11 U.S.C. § 365(c) would not prevent assignment, the contracts are generally terminable at will by either party. As such, assuming and assigning such contracts without the consent of the contract counterparty would be of nominal or no benefit to the Estate. It is doubtful that any assignee would provide consideration to the Debtor for the assignment of such contract as the contract counterparty could simply terminate the contract immediately following assignment. As such, the Debtor does not believe that there is any benefit to the Estate in attempting to assign these contracts.

Notwithstanding the foregoing disclosure, the Debtor is currently assessing whether it is both possible and in the best interests of the Estate to assume and assign such shared services and sub-advisory agreements to a Related Entity.

During the course of this Chapter 11 Case, Mr. Daugherty stated that he would be willing to assume the Debtor's obligations under the shared service and sub-advisory contracts. The Independent Directors reviewed Mr. Daugherty's proposal and for the foregoing reasons, among others, determined that it was not workable and would provide no benefit to the Estate.

U. Portfolio Managements with Issuer Entities

The Debtor is party to certain portfolio management agreements (including any ancillary agreements relating thereto collectively being the "Portfolio Management Agreements" and each a "Portfolio Management Agreement") with ACIS CLO 2017-7 Ltd., Brentwood CLO, Ltd., Gleneagles CLO, Ltd., Greenbriar CLO, Ltd., Highland CLO 2018-1, Ltd., Highland Legacy Limited, Highland Loan Funding V Ltd., Highland Park CDO I, Ltd., Pam Capital Funding LP, PamCo Cayman Ltd., Rockwall CDO II Ltd., Rockwall CDO Ltd., Southfork CLO Ltd., Stratford CLO Ltd., Westchester CLO, Ltd., Aberdeen Loan Funding, Ltd., Bristol Bay Funding Ltd. Eastland CLO, Ltd., Grayson CLO, Ltd., Highland Credit Opportunities CDO Ltd., Jasper CLO, Ltd., Liberty Cayman Holdings, Ltd., Liberty CLO, Ltd., Red River CLO, Ltd., Valhalla CLO, Ltd. (each an "Issuer" and collectively the "Issuers") wherein the Debtor agreed to generally provide certain services to each Issuer in the Debtor's capacity as a portfolio manager in exchange for certain fees as described in the applicable Portfolio Management Agreement.

<sup>10</sup> For the avoidance of doubt, the Debtor does not consider any of the Issuers (as defined herein) to be a Related Entity.

The Issuers filed proofs of claim [Claim No. 165, 168, and 169] asserting claims against the Debtor for damages arising from, relating to or otherwise concerning (i) such Issuer's Portfolio Management Agreement(s) with the Debtor, including, without limitation, failure to perform or other breach of the Portfolio Management Agreement(s), rejection of the Portfolio Management Agreement(s), any cure amount as a result of assumption of the Portfolio Management Agreement(s), any adequate assurance of future performance as a result of assumption of the Portfolio Management Agreement(s), and any failure to provide and pay for indemnification or other obligations under the Portfolio Management Agreement(s); and (ii) the action or inaction of the Debtor to the detriment of such Issuer (collectively, the "Issuer Claims"). The Debtor believes that it has satisfied its obligations to the Issuers; that the Issuer Claims lack merit; and that the Debtor will have no liability with respect to the Issuer Claims. However, such proofs of claim remain outstanding.

The Issuers have taken the position that the rejection of the Portfolio Management Agreements (including any ancillary documents) would result in material rejection damages and have encouraged the Debtor to assume such agreements. Nonetheless, the Issuers and the Debtor are working in good faith to address any outstanding issues regarding such assumption. The Portfolio Management Agreements may be assumed either pursuant to the Plan or by separate motion filed with the Bankruptcy Court.

The Debtor is still assessing its options with respect to the Portfolio Management Agreements, including whether to assume the Portfolio Management Agreements.

V. Resignation of James Dondero

On October 9, 2020, Mr. Dondero resigned as an employee and portfolio manager of the Debtor.

W. Exclusive Periods for Filing a Plan and Soliciting Votes

Under the Bankruptcy Code, a debtor has the exclusive right to file and solicit acceptance of a plan or plans of reorganization for an initial period of 120 days from the date on which the debtor filed for voluntary relief. If a debtor files a plan within this exclusive period, then the debtor has the exclusive right for 180 days from the petition date to solicit acceptances to the plan. During these exclusive periods, no other party in interest may file a competing plan of reorganization; however, a court may extend these periods upon request of a party in interest and "for cause."

The Debtor filed motions to extend the exclusive period, and the Bankruptcy Court entered the following orders granting such applications:

- Order Granting Debtor's Motion for Entry of an Order Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1121(d) and Local Rule 3016-1 Extending the Exclusivity Periods for the Filing and Solicitation of Acceptances of a Chapter 11 Plan [D.I. 460];
- Agreed Order Extending Exclusive Periods by Thirty Days [D.I. 668];

- Order Granting Debtor’s Third Motion for Entry of an Order Pursuant to 11 U.S.C. § 1121(d) and Local Rule 3016-1 Further Extending the Exclusivity Periods for the Filing and Solicitation of Acceptances of a Chapter 11 Plan [D.I. 820]; and
- Order Further Extending the Debtor’s Exclusive Period for Solicitation of Acceptance of a Chapter 11 Plan [D.I. 1092].

Pursuant to the foregoing orders, the Bankruptcy Court extended the exclusivity period through June 12, 2020, for the filing of a plan, which was subsequently extended through July 13, 2020, and again through August 12, 2020. The Bankruptcy Court also extended the exclusivity period for the solicitation of votes to accept such plan through August 11, 2020, which was subsequently extended through September 10, 2020, and again through October 13, 2020, and December 4, 2020.

X. Negotiations with Constituents

The Debtor, Mr. Dondero, and certain of the creditors have been negotiating a consensual reorganization plan for the Debtor that contemplates the Debtor continuing its business largely in its current form. Those negotiations have yet to reach conclusion but are continuing, and the negotiations were part of the previously discussed mediation. There is no certainty that those negotiations will reach a consensual resolution of the Debtor’s bankruptcy case.

Y. Highland Capital Management, L.P. Retirement Plan and Trust

The Highland Capital Management, L.P. Retirement Plan And Trust (“Pension Plan”) is a single-employer defined benefit pension plan covered by Title IV of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended (“ERISA”). 29 U.S.C. §§ 1301-1461.

The Debtor is the contributing sponsor of the Pension Plan. As such, the PBGC asserts that Debtor is liable to contribute to the Pension Plan the amounts necessary to satisfy the minimum funding standards in ERISA and the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (“IRC”). See 29 U.S.C. §§ 1082, 1083; 26 U.S.C. §§ 412, 430. As the sponsor of the Pension Plan, the PBGC asserts Debtor is also liable for insurance premiums owed to PBGC. See 29 U.S.C. §§ 1306, 1307. The PBGC asserts that any members of the contributing sponsor’s controlled-group within the meaning of 29 U.S.C. §§ 1301(a)(13), (14) are also jointly and severally liable with the Debtor for such obligations relating to the Pension Plan.

The Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation (“PBGC”), the federal agency that administers the pension insurance program under Title IV of ERISA, filed contingent proofs of claims against the Debtors for (1) the Pension Plan’s potential underfunded benefit liabilities; (2) the potential unliquidated unpaid minimum funding contributions owed to the Pension Plan; and (3) the potential unliquidated insurance premiums owed to PBGC. The PBGC acknowledges that, as of the date of this Disclosure Statement, there is nothing currently owed by the Debtor to the PBGC.

The Debtor reserves the right to contest any claims filed by the PBGC for any reason.

Upon the Effective Date, the Reorganized Debtor shall be deemed to have assumed the Pension Plan and shall comply with all applicable statutory provisions of ERISA and the Internal Revenue Code (the “IRC”), including, but not limited to, satisfying the minimum funding standards pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §§ 412, 430, and 29 U.S.C. §§ 1082, 1083; paying the PBGC premiums in accordance with 29 U.S.C. §§ 1306 and 1307; and administering the Pension Plan in accordance with its terms and the provisions of ERISA and the IRC. In the event that the Pension Plan terminates after the Plan of Reorganization Effective Date, the PBGC asserts that the Reorganized Debtor and each of its controlled group members will be responsible for the liabilities imposed by Title IV of ERISA.

No provision contained in the Disclosure Statement, the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or the Bankruptcy Code (including section 1141 thereof), shall be construed as discharging, releasing, exculpating, or relieving any person or entity, including the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or any person or entity in any capacity, from any liability or responsibility, if any, with respect to the Pension Plan under any law, government policy, or regulatory provision. PBGC and the Pension Plan shall not be enjoined or precluded from enforcing such liability or responsibility against any person or entity as a result of any of the provisions for satisfaction, release, injunction, exculpation, and discharge of claims in the Plan, Confirmation Order, or the Bankruptcy Code.

F. Means for Implementation of the Plan

1. Summary

The Plan will be implemented through (i) the Claimant Trust, (ii) the Litigation Sub-Trust, and (iii) the Reorganized Debtor.

On the Effective Date, all Class A Limited Partnership Interests, including the Class A Limited Partnership Interests held by Strand, as general partner, and Class B/C Limited Partnerships in the Debtor will be cancelled, and new Class A Limited Partnership Interests in the Reorganized Debtor will be issued to the Claimant Trust and New GP LLC – a newly-chartered limited liability company wholly-owned by the Claimant Trust. The Claimant Trust, as limited partner, will ratify New GP LLC's appointment as general partner of the Reorganized Debtor, and on and following the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust will be the Reorganized Debtor's limited partner and New GP LLC will be its general partner. The Claimant Trust, as limited partner, and New GP LLC, as general partner, will execute the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, which will amend and restate, in all respects, the Debtor's current Limited Partnership Agreement. Following the Effective Date, the Reorganized Debtor will be managed consistent with the terms of the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement by New GP LLC. The sole managing member of New GP LLC will be the Claimant Trust, and the Claimant Trustee will be the sole officer of New GP LLC on the Effective Date.

Following the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust will administer the Claimant Trust Assets pursuant to the Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement, and the Litigation Trustee will pursue, if applicable, the Estate Claims pursuant to the terms of the Litigation Sub-Trust Agreement and the Plan. The Reorganized Debtor will administer the Reorganized Debtor Assets and, if needed, with the utilization of a Sub-Servicer, which administration will include, among other things, managing the wind down of the Managed Funds.

Although the Reorganized Debtor will manage the wind down of the Managed Funds, it is currently anticipated that neither the Reorganized Debtor nor the Claimant Trust will assume or assume and assign the contracts between the Debtor and certain Related Entities pursuant to which the Debtor provides shared services and sub-advisory services to those Related Entities. The Debtor believes that the continued provision of the services under such contracts will not be cost effective.

The Reorganized Debtor will distribute all proceeds from the wind down to the Claimant Trust, as its limited partner, and New GP LLC, as its general partner, in each case in accordance with the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement. Such proceeds, along with the proceeds of the Claimant Trust Assets, will ultimately be distributed to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries as set forth in the Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement.

The Claimant Trustee shall be the exclusive trustee of the Claimant Trust Assets, excluding the Estate Claims and the Litigation Trustee shall be the exclusive trustee with respect to the Estate Claims in each case for purposes of 31 U.S.C. § 3713(b) and 26 U.S.C. § 6012(b)(3), as well as the representative of the Estate appointed pursuant to section 1123(b)(3)(B) of the Bankruptcy Code with respect to the Claimant Trust Assets. The Claimant Trustee shall also be responsible for resolving all Claims and Equity Interests in Class 8 through Class 11, under the supervision of the Claimant Trust Oversight Committee.

Upon the creation of the Litigation Sub-Trust, the Claimant Trust shall irrevocably transfer and assign to the Litigation Sub-Trust the Estate Claims. The Debtor may serve a notice on the Committee and parties to Executory Contracts or Unexpired Leases to be assumed or assigned reflecting the Debtor's or Reorganized Debtor's intention to assume or assign the Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease in connection with the Plan and setting forth the proposed cure amount (if any).

If a dispute regarding (1) the amount of any payments to cure a default, (2) the ability of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or any assignee to provide “adequate assurance of future performance” (within the meaning of section 365 of the Bankruptcy Code) under the Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease to be assumed or assigned or (3) any other matter pertaining to assumption or assignment, the cure payments required by section 365(b)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code will be made following the entry of a Final Order or orders resolving the dispute and approving the assumption or assignment.

Assumption or assignment of any Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease pursuant to the Plan or otherwise and full payment of any applicable cure amounts pursuant to Article V.C of the Plan shall result in the full release and satisfaction of any cure amounts, Claims, or defaults, whether monetary or nonmonetary, including defaults of provisions restricting the change in control or ownership interest composition or other bankruptcy-related defaults, arising under any assumed or assigned Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease at any time prior to the effective date of assumption or assignment. Any and all Proofs of Claim based upon Executory Contracts or Unexpired Leases that have been assumed or assigned in the Chapter 11 Case, including pursuant to the Confirmation Order, and for which any cure amounts have been fully paid pursuant to Article V.C of the Plan, shall be deemed disallowed and expunged as of the Effective Date without the need for any objection thereto or any further notice to or action, order, or approval of the Bankruptcy Court.

B. Provisions Governing Distributions

1. Dates of Distributions

Except as otherwise provided in the Plan, on the Effective Date or as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter (or if a Claim is not an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest on the Effective Date, on the date that such Claim or Equity Interest becomes an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest, or as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter), each Holder of an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest against the Debtor shall receive the full amount of the distributions that the Plan provides for Allowed Claims or Allowed Equity Interests in the applicable Class and in the manner provided herein. If any payment or act under the Plan is required to be made or performed on a date that is not on a Business Day, then the making of such payment or the performance of such act may be completed on the next succeeding Business Day, but shall be deemed to have been completed as of the required date. If and to the extent there are Disputed Claims or Equity Interests, distributions on account of any such Disputed Claims or Equity Interests shall be made pursuant to the provisions provided in the Plan. Except as otherwise provided in the Plan, Holders of Claims and Equity Interests shall not be entitled to interest, dividends or accruals on the distributions provided for therein, regardless of whether distributions are delivered on or at any time after the Effective Date.

Upon the Effective Date, all Claims and Equity Interests against the Debtor shall be deemed fixed and adjusted pursuant to the Plan and none of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust will have liability on account of any Claims or Equity Interests except as set forth in the Plan and in the Confirmation Order. All payments and all distributions made by the Distribution Agent under the Plan shall be in full and final satisfaction, settlement and release of all Claims and Equity Interests against the Debtor and the Reorganized Debtor.

At the close of business on the Distribution Record Date, the transfer ledgers for the Claims against the Debtor and the Equity Interests in the Debtor shall be closed, and there shall be no further changes in the record holders of such Claims and Equity Interests. The Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, the Trustees, and the Distribution Agent, and each of their respective agents, successors, and assigns shall have no obligation to recognize the transfer of any Claims against the Debtor or Equity Interests in the Debtor occurring after the Distribution Record Date and shall be entitled instead to recognize and deal for all purposes hereunder with only those record holders stated on the transfer ledgers as of the close of business on the Distribution Record Date irrespective of the number of distributions to be made under the Plan to such Persons or the date of such distributions.

2. Distribution Agent

Except as provided herein, all distributions under the Plan shall be made by the Claimant Trustee, as Distribution Agent, or by such other Entity designated by the Claimant Trustee, as a Distribution Agent on the Effective Date or thereafter. The Reorganized Debtor will be the Distribution Agent with respect to Claims in Class 1 through Class 7.

The Claimant Trustee, or such other Entity designated by the Claimant Trustee to be the Distribution Agent, shall not be required to give any bond or surety or other security for the performance of such Distribution Agent's duties unless otherwise ordered by the Bankruptcy Court.

The Distribution Agent shall be empowered to (a) effect all actions and execute all agreements, instruments, and other documents necessary to perform its duties under the Plan; (b) make all distributions contemplated hereby; (c) employ professionals to represent it with respect to its responsibilities; and (d) exercise such other powers as may be vested in the Distribution Agent by order of the Bankruptcy Court, pursuant to the Plan, or as deemed by the Distribution Agent to be necessary and proper to implement the provisions of the Plan.

The Distribution Agent shall not have any obligation to make a particular distribution to a specific Holder of an Allowed Claim if such Holder is also the Holder of a Disputed Claim.

3. Cash Distributions

Distributions of Cash may be made by wire transfer from a domestic bank, except that Cash payments made to foreign creditors may be made in such funds and by such means as the Distribution Agent determines are necessary or customary in a particular foreign jurisdiction.

4. Disputed Claims Reserve

On or prior to the Initial Distribution Date, the Claimant Trustee shall establish, fund and maintain the Disputed Claims Reserve(s) in the appropriate Disputed Claims Reserve Amounts on account of any Disputed Claims.

As used above, "Disputed Claims Reserve" means the appropriate reserve(s) or account(s) to be established on the Initial Distribution Date and maintained by the Claimant

Trustee for distributions on account of Disputed Claims that may subsequently become an Allowed Claim.

“Disputed Claims Reserve Amount” means, for purposes of determining the Disputed Claims Reserve, the Cash that would have otherwise been distributed to a Holder of a Disputed Claim at the time any distributions of Cash are made to the Holders of Allowed Claims. The amount of the Disputed Claim upon which the Disputed Claims Reserve is calculated shall be: (a) the amount set forth on either the Schedules or the filed Proof of Claim, as applicable; (b) the amount agreed to by the Holder of the Disputed Claim and the Claimant Trustee or Reorganized Debtor, as applicable; (c) the amount ordered by the Bankruptcy Court if it enters an order disallowing, in whole or in part, a Disputed Claim; or (d) as otherwise ordered by the Bankruptcy Court, including an order estimating the Disputed Claim.

HarbourVest and Mr. Daugherty have objected to the mechanisms for calculating the amount of the Disputed Claims Reserve with respect to the HarbourVest Claim and the Daugherty Claim, respectively, and intend to press their objections at the hearing for confirmation of the Plan.

5. Distributions from the Disputed Claims Reserve

The Disputed Claims Reserve shall at all times hold Cash in an amount no less than the Disputed Claims Reserve Amount. To the extent a Disputed Claim becomes an Allowed Claim pursuant to the terms of the Plan, within 30 days of the date on which such Disputed Claim becomes an Allowed Claim pursuant to the terms of the Plan, the Claimant Trustee shall distribute from the Disputed Claims Reserve to the Holder thereof any prior distributions, in Cash, that would have been made to such Allowed Claim if it had been Allowed as of the Effective Date. For the avoidance of doubt, each Holder of a Disputed Claim that subsequently becomes an Allowed Claim will also receive its Pro Rata share of the Claimant Trust Interests. If, upon the resolution of all Disputed Claims any Cash remains in the Disputed Claims Reserve, such Cash shall be transferred to the Claimant Trust and be deemed a Claimant Trust Asset.

6. Rounding of Payments

Whenever the Plan would otherwise call for, with respect to a particular Person, payment of a fraction of a dollar, the actual payment or distribution shall reflect a rounding of such fraction to the nearest whole dollar (up or down), with half dollars being rounded down. To the extent that Cash to be distributed under the Plan remains undistributed as a result of the aforementioned rounding, such Cash or stock shall be treated as “Unclaimed Property” under the Plan.

7. De Minimis Distribution

Except as to any Allowed Claim that is Unimpaired under the Plan, none of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Distribution Agent shall have any obligation to make any Plan Distributions with a value of less than $100, unless a written request therefor is received by the Distribution Agent from the relevant recipient at the addresses set forth in Article VI.I of the Plan within 120 days after the later of the (i) Effective Date and (ii) the date such Claim becomes an Allowed Claim. De minimis distributions for which no such request is timely received shall revert to the Claimant Trust. Upon such reversion, the relevant Allowed Claim (and any Claim on account of missed distributions) shall be automatically deemed satisfied, discharged and forever barred, notwithstanding any federal or state escheat laws to the contrary.

8. Distributions on Account of Allowed Claims

Except as otherwise agreed by the Holder of a particular Claim or as provided in the Plan, all distributions shall be made pursuant to the terms of the Plan and the Confirmation Order. Except as otherwise provided in the Plan, distributions to any Holder of an Allowed Claim shall, to the extent applicable, be allocated first to the principal amount of any such Allowed Claim, as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes and then, to the extent the consideration exceeds such amount, to the remainder of such Claim comprising accrued but unpaid interest, if any (but solely to the extent that interest is an allowable portion of such Allowed Claim).

9. General Distribution Procedures

The Distribution Agent shall make all distributions of Cash or other property required under the Plan, unless the Plan specifically provides otherwise. All Cash and other property held by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, for ultimate distribution under the Plan shall not be subject to any claim by any Person.

10. Address for Delivery of Distributions

Distributions to Holders of Allowed Claims, to the extent provided for under the Plan, shall be made (1) at the addresses set forth in any written notices of address change delivered to the Debtor and the Distribution Agent; (2) at the address set forth on any Proofs of Claim Filed by such Holders (to the extent such Proofs of Claim are Filed in the Chapter 11 Case), (2), or (3) at the addresses in the Debtor's books and records.

If there is any conflict or discrepancy between the addresses set forth in (1) through (3) in the foregoing sentence, then (i) the address in Section (2) shall control; (ii) if (2) does not apply, the address in (1) shall control, and (iii) if (1) does not apply, the address in (3) shall control.

11. Undeliverable Distributions and Unclaimed Property

If the distribution to the Holder of any Allowed Claim is returned to the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust as undeliverable, no further distribution shall be made to such Holder, and Distribution Agent shall not have any obligation to make any further distribution to the Holder, unless and until the Distribution Agent is notified in writing of such Holder's then current address.

Any Entity that fails to claim any Cash within six months from the date upon which a distribution is first made to such Entity shall forfeit all rights to any distribution under the Plan and such Cash shall thereafter be deemed an Claimant Trust Asset in all respects and for all purposes. Entities that fail to claim Cash shall forfeit their rights thereto and shall have no claim whatsoever against the Debtor's Estate, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trust, or against any Holder of an Allowed Claim to whom distributions are made by the Distribution Agent.

12. Withholding Taxes

In connection with the Plan, to the extent applicable, the Distribution Agent shall comply with all tax withholding and reporting requirements imposed on them by any Governmental Unit, and all distributions made pursuant to the Plan shall be subject to such withholding and reporting requirements. The Distribution Agent shall be entitled to deduct any U.S. federal, state or local withholding taxes from any Cash payments made with respect to Allowed Claims, as appropriate. As a condition to receiving any distribution under the Plan, the Distribution Agent may require that the Holder of an Allowed Claim entitled to receive a distribution pursuant to the Plan provide such Holder's taxpayer identification number and such other information and certification as may be deemed necessary for the Distribution Agent to comply with applicable tax reporting and withholding laws. If a Holder fails to comply with such a request within one year, such distribution shall be deemed an unclaimed distribution. Any amounts withheld pursuant hereto shall be deemed to have been distributed to and received by the applicable recipient for all purposes of the Plan.

13. Setoffs

The Distribution Agent may, to the extent permitted under applicable law, set off against any Allowed Claim and any distributions to be made pursuant to the Plan on account of such Allowed Claim, the claims, rights and causes of action of any nature that the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Distribution Agent may hold against the Holder of such Allowed Claim that are not otherwise waived, released or compromised in accordance with the Plan; provided, however, that neither such a setoff nor the allowance of any Claim hereunder shall constitute a waiver or release by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee of any such claims, rights and causes of action that the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or Claimant Trustee possesses against such Holder. Any Holder of an Allowed Claim subject to such setoff reserves the right to challenge any such setoff in the Bankruptcy Court or any other court with jurisdiction with respect to such challenge.

14. Surrender of Cancelled Instruments or Securities

As a condition precedent to receiving any distribution pursuant to the Plan on account of an Allowed Claim evidenced by negotiable instruments, securities, or notes canceled pursuant to Article IV of the Plan, the Holder of such Claim will tender the applicable negotiable instruments, securities, or notes evidencing such Claim (or a sworn affidavit identifying the negotiable instruments, securities, or notes formerly held by such Holder and certifying that they have been lost), to the Distribution Agent unless waived in writing by the Distribution Agent.

15. Lost, Stolen, Mutilated or Destroyed Securities

In addition to any requirements under any applicable agreement and applicable law, any Holder of a Claim or Equity Interest evidenced by a security or note that has been lost, stolen, mutilated, or destroyed will, in lieu of surrendering such security or note to the extent required by the Plan, deliver to the Distribution Agent: (i) evidence reasonably satisfactory to the Distribution Agent of such loss, theft, mutilation, or destruction; and (ii) such security or indemnity as may be required by the Distribution Agent to hold such party harmless from any damages, liabilities, or costs incurred in treating such individual as a Holder of an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest. Upon compliance with Article VI.O of the Plan as determined by the Distribution Agent, by a Holder of a Claim evidenced by a security or note, such Holder will, for all purposes under the Plan, be deemed to have surrendered such security or note to the Distribution Agent.

C. Procedures for Resolving Contingent, Unliquidated and Disputed Claims

1. Filing of Proofs of Claim

Unless such Claim appeared in the Schedules and is not listed as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated, or such Claim has otherwise been Allowed or paid, each Holder of a Claim was required to file a Proof of Claim on or prior to the Bar Date.

2. Disputed Claims

Following the Effective Date, each of the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, may File with the Bankruptcy Court an objection to the allowance of any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest or any other appropriate motion or adversary proceeding with respect thereto, which shall be litigated to Final Order or, at the discretion of the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trustee, as applicable, compromised, settled, withdrew or resolved without further order of the Bankruptcy Court, and (ii) unless otherwise provided in the Confirmation Order, the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, are authorized to settle, or withdraw any objections to, any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interests following the Effective Date without further notice to creditors (other than the Entity holding such Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest) or authorization of the Bankruptcy Court, in which event such Claim or Equity Interest shall be deemed to be an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest in the amount compromised for purposes of the Plan.

3. Procedures Regarding Disputed Claims or Disputed Equity Interests

No payment or other distribution or treatment shall be made on account of a Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest unless and until such Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest becomes an Allowed Claim or Equity Interests and the amount of such Allowed Claim or Equity Interest, as applicable, is determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or by stipulation between the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust, as applicable, and the Holder of the Claim or Equity Interest.

4. Allowance of Claims and Equity Interests

Following the date on which a Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest becomes an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest after the Distribution Date, the Distribution Agent shall make a distribution to the Holder of such Allowed Claim or Equity Interest in accordance with the Plan.

Allowance of Claims

After the Effective Date and subject to the other provisions of the Plan, the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, will have and will retain any and all rights and defenses under bankruptcy or nonbankruptcy law that the Debtor had with respect to any Claim. Except as expressly provided in the Plan or in any order entered in the Chapter 11 Case prior to the Effective Date (including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order), no Claim or Equity Interest will become an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest unless and until such Claim or Equity Interest is deemed Allowed under the Plan or the Bankruptcy Code or the Bankruptcy Court has entered an order, including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order, in the Chapter 11 Case allowing such Claim or Equity Interest.

Estimation

Subject to the other provisions of the Plan, the Debtor, prior to the Effective Date, and the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, after the Effective Date, may, at any time, request that the Bankruptcy Court estimate (a) any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest pursuant to applicable law and in accordance with the Plan and (b) any contingent or unliquidated Claim pursuant to applicable law, including, without limitation, section 502(c) of the Bankruptcy Code, and the Bankruptcy Court will retain jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. §§ 157 and 1334 to estimate any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest, contingent Claim or unliquidated Claim, including during the litigation concerning any objection to any Claim or Equity Interest or during the pendency of any appeal relating to any such objection. All of the aforementioned objection, estimation and resolution procedures are cumulative and not exclusive of one another. Claims or Equity Interests may be estimated and subsequently compromised, settled, withdrawn or resolved by any mechanism approved by the Bankruptcy Court. The rights and objections of all parties are reserved in connection with any such estimation proceeding.

Disallowance of Claims

Any Claims or Equity Interests held by Entities from which property is recoverable under sections 542, 543, 550, or 553 of the Bankruptcy Code, or that are a transferee of a transfer avoidable under sections 522(f), 522(h), 544, 545, 547, 548, 549, or 724(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, shall be deemed disallowed pursuant to section 502(d) of the Bankruptcy Code, and holders of such Claims or Interests may not receive any distributions on account of such Claims or Interests until such time as such Causes of Action against that Entity have been settled or a Bankruptcy Court Order with respect thereto has been entered and all sums due, if any, to the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, by that Entity have been turned over or paid to the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable.

EXCEPT AS OTHERWISE PROVIDED HEREIN OR AS AGREED TO BY THE DEBTOR, REORGANIZED DEBTOR, OR CLAIMANT TRUSTEE, AS APPLICABLE, ANY AND ALL PROOFS OF CLAIM FILED AFTER THE BAR DATE SHALL BE DEEMED DISALLOWED AND EXPUNGED AS OF THE EFFECTIVE DATE WITHOUT ANY FURTHER NOTICE TO OR ACTION, ORDER, OR APPROVAL OF THE BANKRUPTCY COURT, AND HOLDERS OF SUCH CLAIMS MAY NOT RECEIVE ANY DISTRIBUTIONS ON ACCOUNT OF SUCH CLAIMS, UNLESS SUCH LATE PROOF OF CLAIM HAS BEEN DEEMED TIMELY FILED BY A FINAL ORDER.

D. Effectiveness of the Plan

1. Conditions Precedent to the Effective Date

The Effective Date of the Plan will be conditioned upon the satisfaction or waiver by the Debtor (and, to the extent such condition requires the consent of the Committee, the consent of the Committee with such consent not to be unreasonably withheld), pursuant to the provisions of Article VIII.B of the Plan of the following:

- the Plan and the Plan Documents, including the Claimant Trust Agreement and the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, and all schedules, documents, supplements and exhibits to the Plan shall have been Filed in form and substance reasonably acceptable to the Debtor and the Committee.
- The Confirmation Order shall have been entered, not subject to stay pending appeal, and shall be in form and substance reasonably acceptable to the Debtor and the Committee. The Confirmation Order shall provide that, among other things, (i) the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trustee, or the Litigation Trustee are authorized to take all actions necessary or appropriate to effectuate and consummate the Plan, including, without limitation, (a) entering into, implementing, effectuating, and consummating the contracts, instruments, releases, and other agreements or documents created in connection with or described in the Plan, (b) assuming the Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases set forth in the Plan Supplement, (c) making all distributions and issuances as required under the Plan; and (d) entering into any transactions as set forth in the Plan Documents; (ii) the provisions of the Confirmation Order and the Plan are nonseverable and mutually dependent; (iii) the implementation of the Plan in accordance with its terms is authorized; (iv) pursuant to section 1146 of the Bankruptcy Code, the delivery of any deed or other instrument or transfer order, in furtherance of, or in connection with the Plan, including any deeds, bills of sale, or assignments executed in connection with any disposition or transfer of Assets contemplated under the Plan, shall not be subject to any Stamp or Similar Tax; and (v) the vesting of the Claimant Trust Assets in the Claimant Trust and the Reorganized Debtor Assets in the Reorganized Debtor, in each case as of the Effective Date free and clear of liens and claims to the fullest extent permissible under applicable law pursuant to section 1141(c) of the Bankruptcy Code except with respect to such Liens, Claims, charges and other encumbrances that are specifically preserved under the Plan upon the Effective Date.
- All documents and agreements necessary to implement the Plan, including without limitation, the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, the Claimant Trust Agreement, and the New GP LLC Documents, in each case in form and substance reasonably acceptable to the Debtor and the Committee, shall have (a) been tendered for delivery, and (b) been effected by, executed by, or otherwise deemed binding upon, all Entities party thereto and shall be in full force and effect. All conditions precedent to such documents and agreements shall have been satisfied or waived pursuant to the terms of such documents or agreements.

- All authorizations, consents, actions, documents, approvals (including any governmental approvals), certificates and agreements necessary to implement the Plan, including, without limitation, the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement, the Claimant Trust Agreement, and the New GP LLC Documents, shall have been obtained, effected or executed and delivered to the required parties and, to the extent required, filed with the applicable governmental units in accordance with applicable laws and any applicable waiting periods shall have expired without any action being taken or threatened by any competent authority that would restrain or prevent effectiveness or consummation of the Restructuring.
- The Professional Fee Reserve shall be funded pursuant to the Plan in an amount determined by the Debtor in good faith.

2. Waiver of Conditions

The conditions to effectiveness of the Plan set forth in Article VIII of the Plan (other than that the Confirmation Order shall have been entered) may be waived in whole or in part by the Debtor (and, to the extent such condition requires the consent of the Committee, the consent of the Committee), without notice, leave or order of the Bankruptcy Court or any formal action other than proceeding to confirm or effectuate the Plan. The failure to satisfy or waive a condition to the Effective Date may be asserted by the Debtor regardless of the circumstances giving rise to the failure of such condition to be satisfied. The failure of the Debtor to exercise any of the foregoing rights will not be deemed a waiver of any other rights, and each right will be deemed an ongoing right that may be asserted at any time by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable.

3. Effect of Non-Occurrence of Conditions to Effectiveness

Unless waived as set forth in Article VIII.B of the Plan, if the Effective Date of the Plan does not occur within twenty calendar days of entry of the Confirmation Order, the Debtor may withdraw the Plan and, if withdrawn, the Plan shall be of no further force or effect.

4. Dissolution of the Committee

On the Effective Date, the Committee will dissolve, and the members of the Committee and the Committee's Professionals will cease to have any role arising from or relating to the Chapter 11 Case, except in connection with final fee applications of Professionals for services rendered prior to the Effective Date (including the right to object thereto). The Professionals retained by the Committee and the members thereof will not be entitled to assert any fee claims for any services rendered to the Committee or expenses incurred in the service of the Committee after the Effective Date, except for reasonable fees for services rendered, and actual and necessary costs incurred, in connection with any applications for allowance of Professional Fees pending on the Effective Date or filed and served after the Effective Date pursuant to the Plan. Nothing in the Plan shall prohibit or limit the ability of the Debtor's or Committee's Professionals to represent either of the Trustees or to be compensated or reimbursed per the Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement in connection with such representation.

E. Exculpation, Injunction, and Related Provisions

1. General

3. Exculpation

Subject in all respects to Article XII.D of the Plan, to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, no Exculpated Party will have or incur, and each Exculpated Party is hereby exculpated from, any claim, obligation, suit, judgment, damage, demand, debt, right, Cause of Action, remedy, loss, and liability for conduct occurring on or after the Petition Date in connection with or arising out of (i) the filing and administration of the Chapter 11 Case; (ii) the negotiation and pursuit of the Disclosure Statement, the Plan, or the solicitation of votes for, or confirmation of, the Plan; (iii) the funding or consummation of the Plan (including the Plan Supplement) or any related agreements, instruments, or other documents, the solicitation of votes on the Plan, the offer, issuance, and Plan Distribution of any securities issued or to be issued pursuant to the Plan, including the Claimant Trust Interests, whether or not such Plan Distributions occur following the Effective Date; (iv) the implementation of the Plan; and (v) any negotiations, transactions, and documentation in connection with the foregoing clauses (i)-(v); provided, however, the foregoing will not apply to (a) any acts or omissions of an Exculpated Party arising out of or related to acts or omissions that constitute bad faith, fraud, gross negligence, criminal misconduct, or willful misconduct or (b) Strand or any Employee other than with respect to actions taken by such Entities from the date of appointment of the Independent Directors through the Effective Date. This exculpation shall be in addition to, and not in limitation of, all other releases, indemnities, exculpations, any other applicable law or rules, or any other provisions of the Plan, including Article IV.C.2 of the Plan, protecting such Exculpated Parties from liability.

4. Releases by the Debtor

On and after the Effective Date, each Released Party is deemed to be, hereby conclusively, absolutely, unconditionally, irrevocably, and forever released and discharged by the Debtor and the Estate, in each case on behalf of themselves and their respective successors, assigns, and representatives, including, but not limited to, the Claimant Trust and the Litigation Sub-Trust from any and all Causes of Action, including any derivative claims, asserted on behalf of the Debtor, whether known or unknown, foreseen or unforeseen, matured or unmatured, existing or hereafter arising, in law, equity, contract, tort or otherwise, that the Debtor or the Estate would have been legally entitled to assert in their own right (whether individually or collectively) or on behalf of the holder of any Claim against, or Interest in, a Debtor or other Person.

- sues, attempts to sue, or threatens or works with or assists any entity or person to sue, attempt to sue, or threaten the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trust, the Litigation Sub-Trust, or any of their respective employees or agents, or any Released Party on or in connection with any claim or cause of action arising prior to the Effective Date,
- has taken any action that, impairs or harms the value of the Claimant Trust Assets or the Reorganized Debtor Assets, or
- (x) upon the request of the Claimant Trustee, has failed to provide reasonable assistance in good faith to the Claimant Trustee or the Reorganized Debtor with respect to (1) the monetization of the Claimant Trust Assets or Reorganized Debtor Assets, as applicable, or (2) the resolution of Claims, or (y) has taken any action that impedes or frustrates the Claimant Trustee or the Reorganized Debtor with respect to any of the foregoing.

Provided, however, that the release provided pursuant to Article IX.D of the Plan will vest and the Employee will be indefeasibly released pursuant to Article IX.D of the Plan if such Employee's release has not been deemed null and void and of no force and effect on or prior to the date that is the date of dissolution of the Claimant Trust pursuant to the Claimant Trust Agreement.

By executing the Senior Employee Stipulation embodying this release, each Senior Employee acknowledges and agrees, without limitation, to the terms of this release and the tolling agreement contained in the Senior Employee Stipulation.

The provisions of this release and the execution of a Senior Employee Stipulation will not in any way prevent or limit any Employee from (i) prosecuting its Claims, if any, against the Debtor's Estate, (ii) defending him or herself against any claims or causes of action brought against the Employee by a third party, or (iii) assisting other persons in defending themselves from any Estate Claims brought by the Litigation Trustee (but only with respect to Estate Claims brought by the Litigation Trustee and not collection or other actions brought by the Claimant Trustee).

In addition to the obligations set forth in Article IX.D of the Plan, as additional consideration for the foregoing releases, the Senior Employees will waive their rights to certain deferred compensation owed to them by the Debtor. As of the date hereof, the total deferred compensation owed to the Senior Employees was approximately $3.9 million, which will be reduced by approximately $2.2 million to approximately $1.7 million. That reduction is composed of a reduction of (i) approximately $560,000 in the aggregate in order to qualify as Convenience Claims, (ii) approximately $510,000 in the aggregate to reflect the Convenience Claims treatment of 85% (and may be lower depending on the number of Convenience Claims), and (iii) of approximately $1.15 million in the aggregate to reflect an additional reduction of 40%.

As of the date of this Disclosure Statement, the Debtor has not identified any Causes of Action against any Released Parties. However, as set forth above, during the Chapter 11 Case, the Committee was granted sole standing to investigate and pursue the Estate Claims, which may include Causes of Action against certain of the Released Parties. As of the date of this Disclosure Statement, the Committee has not identified any Estate Claims against any Released Parties. The Debtor currently believes that there are no material Estate Claims or other Causes of Action against any Released Party.

5. Preservation of Rights of Action

Maintenance of Causes of Action

Except as otherwise provided in the Plan, after the Effective Date, the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust will retain all rights to commence, pursue, litigate or settle, as appropriate, any and all Causes of Action included in the Reorganized Debtor Assets or Claimant Trust Assets, as applicable, whether existing as of the Petition Date or thereafter arising, in any court or other tribunal including, without limitation, in an adversary proceeding Filed in the Chapter 11 Case and, as the successors in interest to the Debtor and the Estate, may, and will have the exclusive right to, enforce, sue on, settle, compromise, transfer or assign (or decline to do any of the foregoing) any or all of the Causes of Action without notice to or approval from the Bankruptcy Court.

Preservation of All Causes of Action Not Expressly Settled or Released

Unless a Cause of Action against a Holder of a Claim or an Equity Interest or other Entity is expressly waived, relinquished, released, compromised or settled in the Plan or any Final Order (including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order), such Cause of Action is expressly reserved for later adjudication by the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust, as applicable (including, without limitation, Causes of Action not specifically identified or of which the Debtor may presently be unaware or that may arise or exist by reason of additional facts or circumstances unknown to the Debtor at this time or facts or circumstances that may change or be different from those the Debtor now believes to exist) and, therefore, no preclusion doctrine, including, without limitation, the doctrines of res judicata, collateral estoppel, issue preclusion, claim preclusion, waiver, estoppel (judicial, equitable or otherwise) or laches will apply to such Causes of Action as a consequence of the confirmation, effectiveness, or consummation of the Plan based on the Disclosure Statement, the Plan or the Confirmation Order, except where such Causes of Action have been expressly released in the Plan or any other Final Order (including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order). In addition, the right of the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust to pursue or adopt any claims alleged in any lawsuit in which the Debtor is a plaintiff, defendant or an interested party, against any Entity, including, without limitation, the plaintiffs or co-defendants in such lawsuits, is expressly reserved.

6. Injunction

Upon entry of the Confirmation Order, all holders of Claims and Equity Interests and other parties in interest, along with their respective Related Persons, shall be enjoined from taking any actions to interfere with the implementation or consummation of the Plan.

Except as expressly provided in the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or a separate order of the Bankruptcy Court, all Entities who have held, hold, or may hold Claims against or Equity Interests in the Debtor (whether proof of such Claims or Equity Interests has been filed or not and whether or not such Entities vote in favor of, against or abstain from voting on the Plan or are presumed to have accepted or deemed to have rejected the Plan) and other parties in interest, along with their respective Related Persons, are permanently enjoined, on and after the Effective Date, with respect to such Claims and Equity Interests, from (i) commencing, conducting, or continuing in any manner, directly or indirectly, any suit, action, or other proceeding of any kind (including any proceeding in a judicial, arbitral, administrative or other forum) against or affecting the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or the property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, (ii) enforcing, levying, attaching (including any prejudgment attachment), collecting, or otherwise recovering by any manner or means, whether directly or indirectly, any judgment, award, decree, or order against the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or the property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, (iii) creating, perfecting, or otherwise enforcing in any manner, directly or indirectly, any encumbrance of any kind against the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or the property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, (iv) asserting any right of setoff, directly or indirectly, against any obligation due from the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or against property or interests in property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust; and (v) acting or proceeding in any manner, in any place whatsoever, that does not conform to or comply with the provisions of the Plan.

The injunctions set forth herein shall extend to any successors of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and the Claimant Trust and their respective property and interests in property.

Subject in all respects to Article XII. D of the Plan, no Entity may commence or pursue a claim or cause of action of any kind against any Protected Party that arose from or is related to the Chapter 11 Case, the negotiation of the Plan, the administration of the Plan or property to be distributed under the Plan, the wind down of the business of the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, the administration of the Claimant Trust, or the transactions in furtherance of the foregoing without the Bankruptcy Court (i) first determining, after notice, that such claim or cause of action represents a colorable claim of bad faith, criminal misconduct, willful misconduct, fraud, or gross negligence against a Protected Party and (ii) specifically authorizing such Entity to bring such claim against any such Protected Party; provided, however, the foregoing will not apply to Strand or any Employee other than with respect to actions taken by such Entities from the date of appointment of the Independent Directors through the Effective Date. As set forth in Article XI of the Plan, the Bankruptcy Court will have sole jurisdiction to adjudicate any such claim for which approval of the Bankruptcy Court to commence or pursue has been granted.

7. Term of Injunctions or Stays

Unless otherwise provided in the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or in a Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court, all injunctions or stays arising under or entered during the Chapter 11 Case under section 105 or 362 of the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise, and in existence on the Confirmation Date, shall remain in full force and effect until the later of the Effective Date and the date indicated in the order providing for such injunction or stay.

8. Continuance of January 9 Order

Unless otherwise provided in the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or in a Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court, the restrictions set forth in paragraphs 9 and 10 of the Order Approving Settlement with Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors Regarding Governance of the Debtor and Procedures for Operations in the Ordinary Course, entered by the Bankruptcy Court on January 9, 2020 [D.I. 339] shall remain in full force and effect following the Effective Date until the dissolution of each of the Claimant Trust and the Litigation Trust.

F. Article XII.D of the Plan

Article XII.D of the Plan provides that, notwithstanding anything in the Plan to the contrary, nothing in the Plan will affect or otherwise limit or release any non-Debtor Entity's (including any Exculpated Party's) duties or obligations, including any contractual and indemnification obligations, to the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or any other Entity whether arising under contract, statute, or otherwise.

G. Binding Nature of Plan

On the Effective Date, and effective as of the Effective Date, the Plan, including, without limitation, the provisions in Article IX of the Plan, will bind, and will be deemed binding upon, all Holders of Claims against and Equity Interests in the Debtor and such Holder's respective successors and assigns, to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, notwithstanding whether or not such Holder will receive or retain any property or interest in property under the Plan. All Claims and Debts shall be fixed and adjusted pursuant to the Plan. The Plan shall also bind any taxing authority, recorder of deeds, or similar official for any county, state, Governmental Unit or parish in which any instrument related to the Plan or related to any transaction contemplated thereby is to be recorded with respect to any taxes of the kind specified in Bankruptcy Code section 1146(a)

H. Statutory Requirements for Confirmation of the Plan

At the Confirmation Hearing, the Bankruptcy Court will determine whether the Plan satisfies the requirements of section 1129 of the Bankruptcy Code. The Debtor believes that: (i) the Plan satisfies or will satisfy all of the statutory requirements of chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code; (ii) the Debtor has complied or will have complied with all of the requirements of chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code; and (iii) the Plan has been proposed in good faith. Specifically, the Debtor believes that the Plan satisfies or will satisfy the applicable confirmation requirements of section 1129 of the Bankruptcy Code set forth below.

- The Plan complies with the applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code;
- The Debtor has complied and will comply with the applicable provisions of the Bankruptcy Code;
- The Plan has been proposed in good faith and not by any means forbidden by law;
- Any payment made or promised under the Plan for services or for costs and expenses in, or in connection with, the Debtor's bankruptcy case, or in connection with the Plan and incident to the case, has been or will be disclosed to the Bankruptcy Court, and any such payment: (i) made before the confirmation of the Plan is reasonable; or (ii) is subject to the approval of the Bankruptcy Court as reasonable if it is to be fixed after confirmation of the Plan;

- Each Class of Claims or Equity Interests that is entitled to vote on the Plan will have accepted the Plan, or the Plan can be confirmed without the approval of such voting Class pursuant to section 1129(b) of the Bankruptcy Code;
- Except to the extent that the Holder of a particular Claim will agree to a different treatment of its Claim, the Plan provides that Administrative Expense Claims and Priority Claims will be paid in full in Cash on the Effective Date, or as soon thereafter as is reasonably practicable;
- Confirmation of the Plan will not likely be followed by the liquidation or the need for further financial reorganization of the Debtor or any successor thereto under the Plan;
- The Debtor has paid or will pay all fees payable under section 1930 of title 28, and the Plan provides for the payment of all such fees on the Effective Date; and
- The Plan provides for the continuation after the Effective Date of payment of all retiree benefits, if applicable.

1. Best Interests of Creditors Test

Often called the “best interests” test, section 1129(a)(7) of the Bankruptcy Code requires that the bankruptcy court find, as a condition to confirmation of a chapter 11 plan, that each holder of a claim or equity interest in each impaired class: (i) has accepted the plan; or (ii) among other things, will receive or retain under the plan property of a value, as of the effective date of the plan, that is not less than the amount that such Person would receive if the debtor were liquidated under chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code. To make these findings, the Bankruptcy Court must: (a) estimate the net Cash proceeds (the “Liquidation Proceeds”) that a chapter 7 trustee would generate if the Debtor’s Chapter 11 Case were converted to a chapter 7 case on the Effective Date and the assets of such Debtor’s Estate were liquidated; (b) determine the distribution (the “Liquidation Distribution”) that each non-accepting Holder of a Claim or Equity Interest would receive from the Liquidation Proceeds under the priority scheme dictated in chapter 7; and (c) compare each Holder’s Liquidation Distribution to the distribution under the Plan that such Holder would receive if the Plan were confirmed and consummated.

2. Liquidation Analysis

Any liquidation analysis, including the estimation of Liquidation Proceeds and Liquidation Distributions, with respect to the Debtor (the “Liquidation Analysis”) is subject to numerous assumptions and there can be no guarantee that the Liquidation Analysis will be accurate. No order or finding has been entered by the Bankruptcy Court estimating or otherwise fixing the amount of Claims and Equity Interests at the projected amounts of Allowed Claims and Equity Interests set forth in the Liquidation Analysis. In preparing the Liquidation Analysis, the Debtor has projected an amount of Allowed Claims and Equity Interests that represents its best estimate of the chapter 7 liquidation dividend to Holders of Allowed Claims and Equity Interests. The estimate of the amount of Allowed Claims and Equity Interests set forth in the Liquidation Analysis should not be relied on for any other purpose, including, without limitation, any determination of the value of any Plan Distribution to be made on account of Allowed Claims and Equity Interests under the Plan and Disclosure Statement.

The full Liquidation Analysis is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

Furthermore, any chapter 7 trustee appointed in a chapter 7 liquidation would have to confront all of the issues described in this Disclosure Statement, including the prepetition litigation claims. This process would be significantly time-consuming and costly, and reduce any recoveries available to the Debtor's Estate. The Debtor believes that liquidation under chapter 7 would result in (i) smaller distributions being made to creditors than those provided for in the Plan because of the additional administrative expenses involved in the appointment of a trustee and attorneys and other professionals to assist such trustee, (ii) additional expenses and claims, some of which would be entitled to priority, which would be generated during the liquidation and from the rejection of executory contracts in connection with the cessation of the Debtor's operations, and (iii) the failure to realize greater value from all of the Debtor's assets.

Therefore, the Debtor believes that confirmation of the Plan will provide each Holder of a Claim with a greater recovery than such Holder would receive pursuant to the liquidation of the Debtor under chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code.

3. Feasibility

Section 1129(a)(11) of the Bankruptcy Code requires that the bankruptcy court find that confirmation is not likely to be followed by the liquidation, or the need for further financial reorganization of the Debtor, or any successor to the Debtor, unless the plan contemplates such liquidation or reorganization. For purposes of demonstrating that the Plan meets this "feasibility" standard, the Debtor has analyzed the ability of the Claimant Trust and the Reorganized Debtor to meet their obligations under the Plan and to retain sufficient liquidity and capital resources to conduct their business. A copy of the financial projections prepared by the Debtor is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

The Debtor believes that the Plan meets the feasibility requirement set forth in section 1129(a)(11) of the Bankruptcy Code. In connection with the development of the Plan and for the purposes of determining whether the Plan satisfies this feasibility standard, the Debtor analyzed their ability to satisfy their financial obligations while maintaining sufficient liquidity and capital resources. The Debtor believes that its available Cash and any additional proceeds from the Debtor's Assets will be sufficient to allow the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and the Claimant Trust, as applicable, to make all payments required to be made under the Plan. Accordingly, the Debtor believes that the Plan is feasible.

4. Valuation

In order to provide information and full disclosure to parties in interest regarding the Debtor's assets, the Debtor estimates that its value and the total value of its Assets, as of September 30, 2020, was approximately $328.3 million.

5. Acceptance by Impaired Classes

The Bankruptcy Code requires, as a condition to confirmation, that, except as described in the following section, each class of claims or equity interests that is impaired under a plan, accepts the plan. A class that is not "impaired" under a plan is deemed to have accepted the plan and, therefore, solicitation of acceptances with respect to such class is not required. A class is "impaired" unless the plan: (i) leaves unaltered the legal, equitable, and contractual rights to which such claim or interest entitles the holder of such claim or interest; or (ii) notwithstanding any contractual provision or applicable law that entitles the holder of such claim or interest to demand or receive accelerated payment of such claim or interest after the occurrence of a default— (a) cures any such default that occurred before or after the commencement of the Chapter 11 Case, other than a default of a kind specified in section 365(b)(2) of the Bankruptcy Code or of a kind that section 365(b)(2) expressly does not require to be cured; (b) reinstates the maturity of such claim or interest as such maturity existed before such default; (c) compensates the holder of such claim or interest for any damages incurred as a result of any reasonable reliance by such holder on such contractual provision or such applicable law; (d) if such claim or such interest arises from any failure to perform a nonmonetary obligation, other than a default arising from failure to operate a nonresidential real property lease subject to section 365(b)(1)(A), compensates the holder of such claim or such interest (other than the debtor or an insider) for any actual pecuniary loss incurred by such holder as a result of such failure; and (e) does not otherwise alter the legal, equitable, or contractual rights to which such claim or interest entitles the holder of such claim or interest.

Section 1126(c) of the Bankruptcy Code defines acceptance of a plan by a class of impaired claims as acceptance by holders of at least two-thirds in dollar amount and more than one-half in number of claims in that class, but for that purpose counts only those who actually vote to accept or to reject the plan and are not insiders. Section 1126(d) of the Bankruptcy Code defines acceptance of a plan by a class of equity interests as acceptance by holders of at least two-thirds in amount of the allowed interests of such class. Thus, a class of claims will have voted to accept the plan only if two-thirds in amount and a majority in number actually voting cast their ballots in favor of acceptance. Section 1126(d) of the Bankruptcy Code, except as otherwise provided in section 1126(e) of the Bankruptcy Code, defines acceptance of a plan by a class of impaired equity interests as acceptance by holders of at least two-thirds in amount of equity interests in that class actually voting to accept or to reject the plan.

Pursuant to section 1129 of the Bankruptcy Code, the Holders of Claims or Equity Interests in any voting class must accept the Plan for the Plan to be confirmed without application of the "fair and equitable test" to such Class, and without considering whether the Plan "discriminates unfairly" with respect to such Class, as both standards are described herein.

6. Confirmation Without Acceptance by Impaired Classes

Section 1129(b) of the Bankruptcy Code allows a bankruptcy court to confirm a plan even if less than all impaired classes entitled to vote on the plan have accepted it, provided that the plan has been accepted by at least one impaired class of claims. Pursuant to section 1129(b) of the Bankruptcy Code, notwithstanding an impaired Class's rejection or deemed rejection of the Plan, the Plan will be confirmed, at the Debtor's request, in a procedure commonly known as "cram down," so long as the Plan does not "discriminate unfairly" and is "fair and equitable" with respect to each Class of Claims or Equity Interests that is impaired under, and has not accepted, the Plan.

7. No Unfair Discrimination

This test applies to classes of claims or equity interests that are of equal priority and are receiving different treatment under the Plan. The test does not require that the treatment be the same or equivalent, but that such treatment be "fair." In general, bankruptcy courts consider whether a plan discriminates unfairly in its treatment of classes of claims of equal rank (e.g., classes of the same legal character). Bankruptcy courts will take into account a number of factors in determining whether a plan discriminates unfairly and, accordingly, a plan could treat two classes of unsecured creditors differently without unfairly discriminating against either class.

8. Fair and Equitable Test

This test applies to classes of different priority and status (e.g., secured versus unsecured) and includes the general requirement that no class of claims receive more than 100% of the amount of the allowed claims in such class. As to the dissenting class, the test sets different standards depending on the type of claims or equity interests in such class:

The condition that a plan be "fair and equitable" to a non-accepting Class of Secured Claims includes the requirements that: (a) the Holders of such Secured Claims retain the liens securing such Claims to the extent of the Allowed amount of the Claims, whether the property subject to the liens is retained by the debtor or transferred to another entity under the Plan; and (b) each Holder of a Secured Claim in the Class receives deferred Cash payments totaling at least the Allowed amount of such Claim with a present value, as of the Effective Date of the Plan, at least equivalent to the value of the secured claimant's interest in the debtor's property subject to the liens.

The condition that a plan be "fair and equitable" with respect to a non-accepting Class of unsecured Claims includes the requirement that either: (a) the plan provides that each Holder of a Claim of such Class receive or retain on account of such Claim property of a value, as of the Effective Date of the plan, equal to the allowed amount of such Claim; or (b) the Holder of any Claim or Equity Interest that is junior to the Claims of such Class will not receive or retain under the plan on account of such junior Claim or Equity Interest any property.

The condition that a plan be "fair and equitable" to a non-accepting Class of Equity Interests includes the requirements that either: (a) the plan provides that each Holder of an Equity Interest in that Class receives or retains under the plan, on account of that Equity Interest, property of a value, as of the Effective Date of the plan, equal to the greater of (i) the allowed amount of any fixed liquidation preference to which such Holder is entitled, (ii) any fixed redemption price to which such Holder is entitled, or (iii) the value of such interest; or (b) if the Class does not receive such an amount as required under (a), no Class of Equity Interests junior to the non-accepting Class may receive a distribution under the plan.

To the extent that any class of Claims or Class of Equity Interests rejects the Plan, the Debtor reserves the right to seek (a) confirmation of the Plan under section 1129(b) of the Bankruptcy Code and/or (b) modify the Plan in accordance with Article XIII.C of the Plan.

The Debtor believes that the Plan and the treatment of all Classes of Claims and Equity Interests under the Plan satisfy the foregoing requirements for non-consensual confirmation of the Plan.

ARTICLE IV. RISK FACTORS

ALL HOLDERS OF CLAIMS AND EQUITY INTERESTS SHOULD READ AND CONSIDER CAREFULLY THE RISK FACTORS SET FORTH HEREIN, AS WELL AS ALL OTHER INFORMATION SET FORTH OR OTHERWISE REFERENCED IN THIS DISCLOSURE STATEMENT. THESE FACTORS SHOULD NOT BE REGARDED AS CONSTITUTING THE ONLY RISKS PRESENT IN CONNECTION WITH THE DEBTOR'S BUSINESS OR THE PLAN AND ITS IMPLEMENTATION.

A. Certain Bankruptcy Law and Other Considerations

1. Parties in Interest May Object to the Debtor's Classification of Claims and Equity Interests, or Designation as Unimpaired.

Section 1122 of the Bankruptcy Code provides that a plan may place a claim or an equity interest in a particular class only if such claim or equity interest is substantially similar to the other claims or equity interests in such class. The Debtor believes that the classification of Claims and Equity Interests under the Plan complies with the requirements set forth in the Bankruptcy Code because the Debtor created Classes of Claims and Equity Interests, each encompassing Claims or Equity Interests, as applicable, that are substantially similar to the other Claims and Equity Interests in each such Class. Nevertheless, there can be no assurance that the Holders of Claims or Equity Interests or the Bankruptcy Court will reach the same conclusion.

There is also a risk that the Holders of Claims or Equity Interests could object to the Debtor's designation of Claims or Equity Interests as Unimpaired, and the Bankruptcy Court could reach the same conclusion.

2. The Debtor May Not Be Able to Secure Confirmation of the Plan.

Section 1129 of the Bankruptcy Code sets forth the requirements for confirmation of a chapter 11 plan and requires, among other things, findings by the bankruptcy court that: (i) such plan "does not unfairly discriminate" and is "fair and equitable" with respect to any non-accepting classes; (ii) confirmation of such plan is not likely to be followed by a liquidation or a need for further financial reorganization unless such liquidation or reorganization is contemplated by the plan; and (c) the value of distributions to Holders of Claims within a particular class under such plan will not be less than the value of distributions such holders would receive if the debtor was liquidated under chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code.

There can be no assurance that the Bankruptcy Court will confirm the Plan. The Bankruptcy Court could decline to confirm the Plan if it found that any of the statutory requirements for confirmation had not been met.

If the Plan is not confirmed by the Bankruptcy Court, there can be no assurance that any alternative plan of reorganization or liquidation would be on terms as favorable to Holders of Claims as the terms of the Plan. In addition, there can be no assurance that the Debtor will be able to successfully develop, prosecute, confirm and consummate an alternative plan that is acceptable to the Bankruptcy Court and the Debtor's creditors.

3. The Conditions Precedent to the Effective Date of the Plan May Not Occur.

As more fully set forth in Article IX of the Plan, the Effective Date of the Plan is subject to a number of conditions precedent. If such conditions precedent are not waived or not met, the Effective Date will not take place.

4. Continued Risk Following Effectiveness.

Even if the Effective Date of the Plan occurs, the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and Claimant Trust will continue to face a number of risks, including certain risks that are beyond its control, such as changes in assets, asset values, and increasing expenses. Some of these concerns and effects typically become more acute when a case under the Bankruptcy Code continues for a protracted period without indication of how or when the case may be completed. As a result of these risks and others, there is no guarantee that a chapter 11 plan of liquidation reflecting the Plan will achieve the Debtor's stated goals.

In addition, at the outset of the Chapter 11 Case, the Bankruptcy Code provides the Debtor with the exclusive right to propose the Plan and prohibits creditors and others from proposing a plan. The Debtor will have retained the exclusive right to propose the Plan upon filing its petition. If the Bankruptcy Court terminates that right, however, or the exclusivity period expires, there could be a material adverse effect on the Debtor's ability to achieve confirmation of the Plan in order to achieve the Debtor's stated goals.

5. The Effective Date May Not Occur.

Although the Debtor believes that the Effective Date may occur quickly after the Confirmation Date, there can be no assurance as to such timing or as to whether the Effective Date will, in fact, occur.

6. The Chapter 11 Case May Be Converted to Cases Under Chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code

If the Bankruptcy Court finds that it would be in the best interest of creditors and/or the debtor in a chapter 11 case, the Bankruptcy Court may convert a chapter 11 bankruptcy case to a case under chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code. In such event, a chapter 7 trustee would be appointed or elected to liquidate the debtor's assets for distribution in accordance with the priorities established by the Bankruptcy Code. The Debtor believes that liquidation under chapter 7 would result in significantly smaller distributions being made to creditors than those provided for in the Plan because of (a) the likelihood that the assets would have to be sold or otherwise disposed of in a disorderly fashion over a short period of time, rather than selling the assets in an orderly and controlled manner, (b) additional administrative expenses involved in the appointment of a chapter 7 trustee, and (c) additional expenses and Claims, some of which would be entitled to priority, that would be generated during the liquidation.

7. Claims Estimation

There can be no assurance that the estimated Claim amounts set forth herein are correct, and the actual amount of Allowed Claims may differ from the estimates. The estimated amounts are subject to certain risks, uncertainties, and assumptions. Should one or more of these risks or uncertainties materialize, or should underlying assumptions prove incorrect, the actual amount of Allowed Claims may vary from those estimated herein.

8. The Financial Information Contained Herein is Based on the Debtor's Books and Records and, Unless Otherwise Stated, No Audit was Performed.

The financial information contained in this Disclosure Statement has not been audited. In preparing this Disclosure Statement, the Debtor relied on financial data derived from their books and records that was available at the time of such preparation. Although the Debtor has used its reasonable business judgment to ensure the accuracy of the financial information provided in this Disclosure Statement and, while the Debtor believes that such financial information fairly reflects its financial condition, the Debtor is unable to warrant or represent that the financial information contained herein and attached hereto is without inaccuracies.

B. Risks Related to Recoveries under the Plan

1. The Reorganized Debtor and/or Claimant Trust May Not Be Able to Achieve the Debtor's Projected Financial Results

The Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust, as applicable, may not be able to achieve their projected financial results. The Financial Projections represent the best estimate of the Debtor's future financial performance, which is necessarily based on certain assumptions regarding the anticipated future performance of the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust, as well as the United States and world economies in general, and the investment industry in which the Debtor operates. The Debtor's Financial Projections include key assumptions on (i) target asset monetization values, (ii) timing of asset monetization, and (iii) costs to effectuate the Plan. In terms of achieving target asset monetization values, the Debtor faces issues including investment assets with cross-ownership across related entities and challenges associated with collecting notes due from affiliates. The Debtor's Financial Projections anticipate that all investment assets will be sold by 2022, which may be at risk due to the semi-liquid or illiquid nature of the Debtor's assets, as well as general market conditions, including the sustained impact of COVID-19. Costs are based on estimates and may increase with delays or any other unforeseen factor. If the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust do not achieve their projected financial results, the recovery for Claimant Trust Beneficiaries may be negatively affected and the Claimant Trust may lack sufficient liquidity after the Effective Date.

2. Claim Contingencies Could Affect Creditor Recoveries

The estimated Claims and projected creditor recoveries set forth in this Disclosure Statement are based on various assumptions the actual amount of Allowed Claims may differ from the estimates. Should one or more of the underlying assumptions ultimately prove incorrect, the actual Allowed amounts of Claims may vary materially from the estimated Claims contained in this Disclosure Statement. Moreover, the Debtor cannot determine with any certainty at this time, the number or amount of Claims that will ultimately be Allowed. Such differences may materially and adversely affect, among other things, the percentage recoveries to Holders of Allowed Claims under the Plan.

3. If Approved, the Debtor Release Could Release Claims Against Potential Defendants of Estate Causes of Action With Respect to Which the Claimant Trust Would Otherwise Have Recourse

The Claimant Trust Assets will include, among other things, Causes of Action, including Estate Claims that will be assigned to the Litigation Sub-Trust. The Committee's investigation of potential Estate Claims is still ongoing. Because the Committee has not concluded its investigation as of the date hereof, and such investigation will be transferred to the Litigation Trustee, there is no certainty of whether there are viable Estate Claims against any of the Released Parties. In the event there are viable Estate Claims against any of the Released Parties, such claims cannot be pursued for the ultimate benefit of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries if the Debtor Release is approved.

C. Investment Risk Disclaimer

1. Investment Risks in General.

The Reorganized Debtor is and will remain a registered investment adviser under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, and the Reorganized Debtor will continue advising the Managed Funds. No guarantee or representation is made that the Reorganized Debtor's or the Managed Funds' investment strategy will be successful, and investment results may vary substantially over time.

2. General Economic and Market Conditions and Issuer Risk.

Any investment in securities carries certain market risks. Investments by the Reorganized Debtor, the Managed Funds, or the Claimant Trust may decline in value for any number of reasons over which none of the Managed Funds, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trust, or the Claimant Trustee may have control, including changes in the overall market and other general economic and market conditions, such as interest rates, availability of credit, inflation rates, economic uncertainty, changes in laws, currency exchange rates and controls and national, international political circumstances (including wars and security operations), and acts of God (including pandemics like COVID-19). The value of the Managed Funds or the assets held by the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust may also decline as a result of factors pertaining to particular securities held by the Managed Funds, Reorganized Debtor, or Claimant Trust, as applicable, such as perception or changes in the issuer's management, the market for the issuer's products or services, sources of supply, technological changes within the issuer's industry, the availability of additional capital and labor, general economic conditions, political conditions, acts of God, and other similar conditions. All of these factors may affect the level and volatility of security prices and the liquidity and the value of the securities held by the Managed Fund, Reorganized Debtor, or Claimant Trust. Unexpected volatility or illiquidity could impair the Managed Funds', Reorganized Debtor's, or Claimant Trust's profitability or result in it suffering losses.

ARTICLE V.

ALTERNATIVES TO CONFIRMATION AND EFFECTIVENESS OF THE PLAN

If no chapter 11 plan can be confirmed, the Chapter 11 Case may be converted to a case under chapter 7 of the Bankruptcy Code in which case, a trustee would be elected or appointed to liquidate the Debtor's assets. If the Plan is not confirmed by the Bankruptcy Court, there can be no assurance that any alternative plan of reorganization or liquidation would be on terms as favorable to Holders of Claims as the terms of the Plan. In addition, there can be no assurance that the Debtor will be able to successfully develop, prosecute, confirm and consummate an alternative plan that is acceptable to the Bankruptcy Court and the Debtor's creditors.

ARTICLE VI.

U.S. FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE PLAN

Implementation of the Plan will have federal, state, local or foreign tax consequences to the Debtor and Holders of Equity Interests as well as Holders of Claims. No tax opinion or ruling has been sought or will be obtained with respect to any tax consequences of the Plan, and the following discussion does not constitute and is not intended to constitute either a tax opinion or tax advice to any person.

The following discussion summarizes certain U.S. federal income tax consequences of the Plan to the Debtor and to Holders of Claims. This discussion assumes that each Holder of Claims is for United States federal income tax purposes:

- An individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States for federal income tax purposes;
- a corporation (or other entity treated as a corporation for United States federal income tax purposes) created or organized in or under the laws of the United States, any state thereof or the District of Columbia;
- any other person that is subject to U.S. federal income taxation on a net income basis.
- an estate the income of which is subject to United States federal income tax without regard to its source; or
- a trust (1) that is subject to the primary supervision of a United States court and the control of one or more United States persons or (2) that has a valid election in effect under applicable treasury regulations to be treated as a United States person.

This discussion also assumes that each Holder holds the Claims as capital assets under Section 1221 of the Internal Revenue Code.

The summary provides general information only and does not purport to address all of the federal income tax consequences that may be applicable to the Debtor or to any particular Holder of Claims in light of such Holder's own individual circumstances. In particular, the summary does not address the federal income tax consequences of the Plan to Holders of Claims that may be subject to special rules, such as non-U.S. persons, insurance companies, financial institutions, regulated investment companies, broker-dealers, persons who acquired Claims as part of a straddle, hedge, conversion transaction or other integrated transaction, or persons who acquired Claims in connection with the performance of services; persons who hold Claims through a partnership or other pass-through entity and tax-exempt organizations. The summary does not address foreign, state, local, estate or gift tax consequences of the Plan, nor does it address the federal income tax consequences to Holders of Equity Interests.

This summary is based on the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Internal Revenue Code"), the final, temporary and proposed Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder, judicial decisions and administrative rulings and pronouncements of the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS"), all as in effect on the date hereof and all of which are subject to change (possibly with retroactive effect) by legislation, judicial decision or administrative action. Moreover, due to a lack of definitive authority, substantial uncertainties exist with respect to various tax consequences of the Plan.

THE TAX CONSEQUENCES TO THE HOLDERS OF CLAIMS OR EQUITY INTERESTS MAY VARY BASED UPON THE INDIVIDUAL CIRCUMSTANCES OF EACH HOLDER. MOREOVER, THE TAX CONSEQUENCES OF CERTAIN ASPECTS OF THE PLAN ARE UNCERTAIN DUE TO THE LACK OF APPLICABLE LEGAL PRECEDENT AND THE POSSIBILITY OF CHANGES IN THE APPLICABLE TAX LAW. THERE CAN BE NO ASSURANCE THAT THE IRS WILL NOT CHALLENGE ANY OF THE TAX CONSEQUENCES DESCRIBED HEREIN, OR THAT SUCH A CHALLENGE, IF ASSERTED, WOULD NOT BE SUSTAINED. ACCORDINGLY, EACH HOLDER OF A CLAIM OR EQUITY INTEREST SHOULD CONSULT WITH ITS OWN TAX ADVISOR REGARDING THE FOREIGN, FEDERAL, STATE AND LOCAL TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE PLAN.

A. Consequences to the Debtor

It is anticipated that the consummation of the Plan will not result in any federal income tax liability to the Debtor. The Debtor is a partnership for federal income tax purposes. Therefore, the income and loss of the Debtor is passed-through to the Holders of its Equity Interests, and the Debtor does not pay federal income tax.

1. Cancellation of Debt

Generally, the discharge of a debt obligation of a debtor for an amount less than the adjusted issue price (in most cases, the amount the debtor received on incurring the obligation, with certain adjustments) creates cancellation of indebtedness ("COD") income that must be included in the debtor's income. Due to the nature of the Impaired Claims, it is anticipated that the Debtor will not recognize any material amount of COD income. If any such COD income is recognized, it will be passed-through to the Holders of its Equity Interests, and the Holders of such Equity Interest generally will be required to include such amounts in income, unless a Holder is entitled to exclude such amounts from income under Section 108 of the Internal Revenue Code, based on the Holder's individual circumstances.

2. Transfer of Assets

Pursuant to the Plan, the Debtor's assets (including the Claimant Trust Assets and Reorganized Debtor Assets) will be transferred directly or indirectly to the Claimant Trust. For federal income tax purposes, any such assets transferred to the Claimant Trust will be deemed to have been transferred to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries followed by the transfer by such Holders to the Claimant Trust of such assets in exchange for the respective Holders' beneficial interests in the Claimant Trust. The Claimant Trust thereafter will be treated as a grantor trust for federal income tax purposes. See U.S. Federal Income Tax Treatment of the Claimant Trust, below.

The Debtor's transfer of its assets pursuant to the Plan will constitute a taxable disposition of such assets. As discussed above, the Debtor is a partnership for federal income tax purposes. Any gain or loss recognized as a result of the taxable disposition of such assets will be passed through to the Holders of Equity Interests in the Debtor. The Debtor will not be required to pay any tax as a result of such disposition.

B. U.S. Federal Income Tax Treatment of the Claimant Trust

It is intended that the Claimant Trust will be treated as a "grantor trust" for U.S. federal income tax purposes. In general, a grantor trust is not a separate taxable entity. The IRS, in Revenue Procedure 94-45, 1994-2 C.B. 684, set forth the general criteria for obtaining an advanced ruling as to the grantor trust status of a liquidating trust under a chapter 11 plan. Consistent with the requirements of Revenue Procedure 94-45, the Claimant Trust Agreement requires all relevant parties to treat, for U.S. federal income tax purposes, the transfer of the Debtor's assets to the Claimant Trust as (i) a transfer of such assets to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries (to the extent of the value of their respective interests in the applicable Claimant Trust Assets) followed by (ii) a transfer of such assets by such beneficiaries to the Claimant Trust (to the extent of the value of their respective interests in the applicable Claimant Trust Assets), with the beneficiaries being treated as the grantors and owners of the Claimant Trust.

The Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement generally provide that the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries must value the assets of the Claimant Trust consistently with the values determined by the Claimant Trustee for all U.S. federal income tax purposes. As soon as possible after the Effective Date, the Claimant Trustee, based upon his good faith determination after consultation with his counsel and other advisors, shall inform the beneficiaries in writing as to his estimate of the value of the assets transferred to the Claimant Trust and the value of such assets allocable to each Class of beneficiaries.

Consistent with the treatment of the Claimant Trust as a grantor trust, the Claimant Trust Agreement will require each beneficiary to report on its U.S. federal income tax return its allocable share of the Claimant Trust's income, gain, loss or deduction that reflects the beneficiary's interest in the interim and final distributions to be made by the Claimant Trust. Furthermore, certain of the assets of the Claimant Trust will be interests in the Reorganized Debtor, which will be a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The income, gain, loss or deduction of the Reorganized Debtor will also flow through the Claimant Trust to the beneficiaries of the Claimant Trust. Therefore, a beneficiary may incur a federal income tax liability with respect to its allocable share of the income of the Claimant Trust (including the income of the Reorganized Debtor) whether or not the Claimant Trust has made any distributions to such beneficiary. The character of items of income, gain, deduction, and credit to any beneficiary and the ability of such beneficiary to benefit from any deduction or losses will depend on the particular situation of such beneficiary. The interests of the beneficiaries may shift from time to time as the result of the allowance or disallowance of claims that have not been allowed at the Effective Date, which could give rise to tax consequences both to the Holders of claims that have, and have not been, allowed at the Effective Date. The Claimant Trustee will file with the IRS tax returns for the Claimant Trust as a grantor trust pursuant to Treasury Regulation Section 1.671-4(a) and will also send to each beneficiary a separate statement setting forth such beneficiary's share of items of Trust income, gain, loss, deduction, or credit. Each beneficiary will be required to report such items on its U.S. federal income tax return. Holders are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the appropriate federal income tax treatment of distributions from the Claimant Trust.

The discussion above assumes that the Claimant Trust will be respected as a grantor trust for U.S. federal income tax purposes. If the IRS were to challenge successfully such classification, the U.S. federal income tax consequences to the Claimant Trust and the beneficiaries could differ materially from those discussed herein (including the potential for an entity level tax to be imposed on all income of the Claimant Trust).

C. Consequences to Holders of Allowed Claims

1. Recognized Gain or Loss

In general, each Holder of an Allowed Claim will recognize gain or loss in an amount equal to the difference between (i) the "amount realized" by such Holder in satisfaction of its Claim (other than any Claim for accrued but unpaid interest) and (ii) such holder's adjusted tax basis in such Claim (other than any Claim for accrued but unpaid interest). In general, the "amount realized" by a Holder will equal the sum of any cash and the aggregate fair market value of any property received by such Holder pursuant to the Plan (for example, such Holder's undivided beneficial interest in the assets of the Claimant Trust). A Holder that receives or is deemed to receive for U.S. federal income tax purposes a non-cash asset under the Plan in respect of its Claim should generally have a tax basis in such asset in an amount equal to the fair market value of such asset on the date of its receipt or deemed receipt. See U.S. Federal Income Tax Treatment of the Claimant Trust, above for more information regarding the tax treatment of the Claimant Trust Interests.

Where gain or loss is recognized by a Holder, the character of such gain or loss as long-term or short-term capital gain or loss or as ordinary income or loss will be determined by a number of factors, including the tax status of the Holder, whether the claim constitutes a capital asset in the hands of the Holder and how long it has been held, whether the claim was acquired at a market discount, and whether and to what extent the Holder had previously claimed a bad debt deduction.

A Holder who, under the Plan, receives in respect of an Allowed Claim an amount less than the Holder's tax basis in the Allowed Claim may be entitled to a deduction for U.S. federal income tax purposes. The rules governing the character, timing and amount of such a deduction place considerable emphasis on the facts and circumstances of the Holder, the obligor and the instrument with respect to which a deduction is claimed. Holders of Allowed Claims, therefore, are urged to consult their tax advisors with respect to their ability to take such a deduction.

2. Distribution in Discharge of Accrued Unpaid Interest

Pursuant to the Plan, a distribution received in respect of Allowed Claims will be allocated first to the principal amount of such Claims, with any excess allocated to unpaid accrued interest. However, there is no assurance that the IRS would respect such allocation for federal income tax purposes. In general, to the extent that an amount received (whether cash or other property) by a Holder of a claim is received in satisfaction of interest that accrued during its holding period, such amount will be taxable to the Holder as interest income if not previously included in the Holder's gross income. Conversely, a Holder generally recognizes a deductible loss to the extent that it does not receive payment of interest that has previously been included in its income. Holders of Claims are urged to consult their tax advisors regarding the allocation of consideration and the deductibility of unpaid interest for tax purposes.

3. Information Reporting and Withholding

All distributions to Holders of Allowed Claims under the Plan are subject to any applicable withholding tax requirements. Under federal income tax law, interest, dividends, and other reportable payments, may, under certain circumstances, be subject to "backup withholding" (currently at a rate of up to 24%). Backup withholding generally applies if the Holder (a) fails to furnish its social security number or other taxpayer identification number ("TIN"), (b) furnishes an incorrect TIN, (c) fails properly to report interest or dividends, or (d) under certain circumstances, fails to provide a certified statement, signed under penalty of perjury, that the TIN provided is its correct number and that it is not subject to backup withholding. Backup withholding is not an additional tax but merely an advance payment, which may be refunded to the extent it results in an overpayment of tax. Certain persons are exempt from backup withholding, including, in certain circumstances, corporations and financial institutions.

D. Treatment of the Disputed Claims Reserve

Pursuant to the Plan, the Claimant Trustee may file an election pursuant to Treasury Regulation 1.468B-9(c) to treat the Disputed Claims Reserve as a disputed ownership fund, in which case the Claimant Trustee will file federal income tax returns and pay taxes for the Disputed Claims Reserve as a separate taxable entity. Such taxes will be paid out of the Disputed Claims Reserve and therefore may reduce amounts paid to Holders of Allowed Claims from the Claimant Trust. If the Claimant Trustee does not make such an election to treat the Disputed Claims Reserve as a separate taxable entity, the net income, if any, earned in the Disputed Claims Reserve will be taxable to the Holders of Allowed Claims in accordance with the principles discussed above under the heading “U.S. Federal Income Tax Treatment of the Claimant Trust”, possibly in advance of any distributions to the Holders.

AS INDICATED ABOVE, THE FOREGOING IS INTENDED TO BE A SUMMARY ONLY AND NOT A SUBSTITUTE FOR CAREFUL TAX PLANNING WITH A TAX PROFESSIONAL. THE TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE PLAN ARE COMPLEX AND, IN SOME CASES, UNCERTAIN. ACCORDINGLY, EACH HOLDER OF A CLAIM OR EQUITY INTEREST IS STRONGLY URGED TO CONSULT WITH HIS OWN TAX ADVISOR REGARDING THE TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE PLAN.

ARTICLE VII.
RECOMMENDATION

In the opinion of the Debtor, the Plan is preferable to the alternatives described in this Disclosure Statement because it provides for the highest distribution to the Debtor’s creditors and interest holders. In addition, any alternative other than confirmation of the Plan could result in extensive delays and increased administrative expenses resulting in smaller distributions to Holders of Allowed Claims and Equity Interests than that which is proposed under the Plan. Accordingly, the Debtor recommends that all Holders of Claims and Equity Interests support confirmation of the Plan.

ARTICLE IV.

MEANS FOR IMPLEMENTATION OF THIS PLAN

A. Summary

As discussed in the Disclosure Statement, the Plan will be implemented through (i) the Claimant Trust, (ii) the Litigation Sub-Trust, and (iii) the Reorganized Debtor.

The Claimant Trust, as limited partner, will ratify New GP LLC’s appointment as general partner of the Reorganized Debtor, and on and following the Effective Date, the Claimant Trust will be the Reorganized Debtor’s limited partner and New GP LLC will be its general partner. The Debtor believes that the continued provision of the services under such contracts will not be cost effective.

The Reorganized Debtor will distribute all proceeds from the wind down to the Claimant Trust, as its limited partner, and New GP LLC, as its general partner, in each case in accordance with the Reorganized Limited Partnership Agreement. Such proceeds, along with the proceeds of the Claimant Trust Assets, will ultimately be distributed to the Claimant Trust Beneficiaries as set forth in this Plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement.

B. Claims Based on Rejection of Executory Contracts or Unexpired Leases

Any Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease not assumed or rejected on or before the Effective Date shall be deemed rejected, pursuant to the Confirmation Order. Any Person asserting a Rejection Claim shall File a proof of claim within thirty days of the Effective Date. Any Rejection Claims that are not timely Filed pursuant to this Plan shall be forever disallowed and barred. If one or more Rejection Claims are timely Filed, the Claimant Trustee may File an objection to any Rejection Claim.

Rejection Claims shall be classified as General Unsecured Claims and shall be treated in accordance with ARTICLE III of this Plan.

C. Cure of Defaults for Assumed or Assigned Executory Contracts and Unexpired Leases

Any monetary amounts by which any Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease to be assumed or assigned hereunder is in default shall be satisfied, under section 365(b)(1) of the Bankruptcy Code, by the Debtor upon assumption or assignment thereof, by payment of the default amount in Cash as and when due in the ordinary course or on such other terms as the parties to such Executory Contracts may otherwise agree. The Debtor may serve a notice on the Committee and parties to Executory Contracts or Unexpired Leases to be assumed or assigned reflecting the Debtor’s or Reorganized Debtor’s intention to assume or assign the Executory Contract or Unexpired Lease in connection with this Plan and setting forth the proposed cure amount (if any).

ARTICLE VI.
PROVISIONS GOVERNING DISTRIBUTIONS

A. Dates of Distributions

Except as otherwise provided in this Plan, on the Effective Date or as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter (or if a Claim is not an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest on the Effective Date, on the date that such Claim or Equity Interest becomes an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest, or as soon as reasonably practicable thereafter), each Holder of an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest against the Debtor shall receive the full amount of the distributions that this Plan provides for Allowed Claims or Allowed Equity Interests in the applicable Class and in the manner provided herein. If any payment or act under this Plan is required to be made or performed on a date that is not on a Business Day, then the making of such payment or the performance of such act may be completed on the next succeeding Business Day, but shall be deemed to have been completed as of the required date. If and to the extent there are Disputed Claims or Equity Interests, distributions on account of any such Disputed Claims or Equity Interests shall be made pursuant to the provisions provided in this Plan. Except as otherwise provided in this Plan, Holders of Claims and Equity Interests shall not be entitled to interest, dividends or accruals on the distributions provided for therein, regardless of whether distributions are delivered on or at any time after the Effective Date.

Upon the Effective Date, all Claims and Equity Interests against the Debtor shall be deemed fixed and adjusted pursuant to this Plan and none of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust will have liability on account of any Claims or Equity Interests except as set forth in this Plan and in the Confirmation Order. All payments and all distributions made by the Distribution Agent under this Plan shall be in full and final satisfaction, settlement and release of all Claims and Equity Interests against the Debtor and the Reorganized Debtor.

At the close of business on the Distribution Record Date, the transfer ledgers for the Claims against the Debtor and the Equity Interests in the Debtor shall be closed, and there shall be no further changes in the record holders of such Claims and Equity Interests. The Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, the Trustees, and the Distribution Agent, and each of their respective agents, successors, and assigns shall have no obligation to recognize the transfer of any Claims against the Debtor or Equity Interests in the Debtor occurring after the Distribution Record Date and shall be entitled instead to recognize and deal for all purposes hereunder with only those record holders stated on the transfer ledgers as of the close of business on the Distribution Record Date irrespective of the number of distributions to be made under this Plan to such Persons or the date of such distributions.

B. Distribution Agent

Except as provided herein, all distributions under this Plan shall be made by the Claimant Trustee, as Distribution Agent, or by such other Entity designated by the Claimant Trustee, as a Distribution Agent on the Effective Date or thereafter. The Reorganized Debtor will be the Distribution Agent with respect to Claims in Class 1 through Class 7.

The Claimant Trustee, or such other Entity designated by the Claimant Trustee to be the Distribution Agent, shall not be required to give any bond or surety or other security for the performance of such Distribution Agent's duties unless otherwise ordered by the Bankruptcy Court.

The Distribution Agent shall be empowered to (a) effect all actions and execute all agreements, instruments, and other documents necessary to perform its duties under this Plan; (b) make all distributions contemplated hereby; (c) employ professionals to represent it with respect to its responsibilities; and (d) exercise such other powers as may be vested in the Distribution Agent by order of the Bankruptcy Court, pursuant to this Plan, or as deemed by the Distribution Agent to be necessary and proper to implement the provisions hereof.

The Distribution Agent shall not have any obligation to make a particular distribution to a specific Holder of an Allowed Claim if such Holder is also the Holder of a Disputed Claim.

C. Cash Distributions

Distributions of Cash may be made by wire transfer from a domestic bank, except that Cash payments made to foreign creditors may be made in such funds and by such means as the Distribution Agent determines are necessary or customary in a particular foreign jurisdiction.

D. Disputed Claims Reserve

On or prior to the Initial Distribution Date, the Claimant Trustee shall establish, fund and maintain the Disputed Claims Reserve(s) in the appropriate Disputed Claims Reserve Amounts on account of any Disputed Claims.

E. Distributions from the Disputed Claims Reserve

The Disputed Claims Reserve shall at all times hold Cash in an amount no less than the Disputed Claims Reserve Amount. To the extent a Disputed Claim becomes an Allowed Claim pursuant to the terms of this Plan, within 30 days of the date on which such Disputed Claim becomes an Allowed Claim pursuant to the terms of this Plan, the Claimant Trustee shall distribute from the Disputed Claims Reserve to the Holder thereof any prior distributions, in Cash, that would have been made to such Allowed Claim if it had been Allowed as of the Effective Date. For the avoidance of doubt, each Holder of a Disputed Claim that subsequently becomes an Allowed Claim will also receive its Pro Rata share of the Claimant Trust Interests. If, upon the resolution of all Disputed Claims any Cash remains in the Disputed Claims Reserve, such Cash shall be transferred to the Claimant Trust and be deemed a Claimant Trust Asset.

F. Rounding of Payments

Whenever this Plan would otherwise call for, with respect to a particular Person, payment of a fraction of a dollar, the actual payment or distribution shall reflect a rounding of such fraction to the nearest whole dollar (up or down), with half dollars being rounded down. To the extent that Cash to be distributed under this Plan remains undistributed as a result of the aforementioned rounding, such Cash or stock shall be treated as “Unclaimed Property” under this Plan.

G. De Minimis Distribution

Except as to any Allowed Claim that is Unimpaired under this Plan, none of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Distribution Agent shall have any obligation to make any Plan Distributions with a value of less than $100, unless a written request therefor is received by the Distribution Agent from the relevant recipient at the addresses set forth in ARTICLE VI.J hereof within 120 days after the later of the (i) Effective Date and (ii) the date such Claim becomes an Allowed Claim. De minimis distributions for which no such request is timely received shall revert to the Claimant Trust. Upon such reversion, the relevant Allowed Claim (and any Claim on account of missed distributions) shall be automatically deemed satisfied, discharged and forever barred, notwithstanding any federal or state escheat laws to the contrary.

H. Distributions on Account of Allowed Claims

Except as otherwise agreed by the Holder of a particular Claim or as provided in this Plan, all distributions shall be made pursuant to the terms of this Plan and the Confirmation Order. Except as otherwise provided in this Plan, distributions to any Holder of an Allowed Claim shall, to the extent applicable, be allocated first to the principal amount of any such Allowed Claim, as determined for U.S. federal income tax purposes and then, to the extent the consideration exceeds such amount, to the remainder of such Claim comprising accrued but unpaid interest, if any (but solely to the extent that interest is an allowable portion of such Allowed Claim).

I. General Distribution Procedures

The Distribution Agent shall make all distributions of Cash or other property required under this Plan, unless this Plan specifically provides otherwise. All Cash and other property held by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, for ultimate distribution under this Plan shall not be subject to any claim by any Person.

J. Address for Delivery of Distributions

Distributions to Holders of Allowed Claims, to the extent provided for under this Plan, shall be made (1) at the addresses set forth in any written notices of address change delivered to the Debtor and the Distribution Agent; (2) at the address set forth on any Proofs of Claim Filed by such Holders (to the extent such Proofs of Claim are Filed in the Chapter 11 Case), (2), or (3) at the addresses in the Debtor’s books and records.

If there is any conflict or discrepancy between the addresses set forth in (1) through (3) in the foregoing sentence, then (i) the address in Section (2) shall control; (ii) if (2) does not apply, the address in (1) shall control, and (iii) if (1) does not apply, the address in (3) shall control.

K. Undeliverable Distributions and Unclaimed Property

If the distribution to the Holder of any Allowed Claim is returned to the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust as undeliverable, no further distribution shall be made to such Holder, and Distribution Agent shall not have any obligation to make any further distribution to the Holder, unless and until the Distribution Agent is notified in writing of such Holder's then current address.

Any Entity that fails to claim any Cash within six months from the date upon which a distribution is first made to such Entity shall forfeit all rights to any distribution under this Plan and such Cash shall thereafter be deemed an Claimant Trust Asset in all respects and for all purposes. Entities that fail to claim Cash shall forfeit their rights thereto and shall have no claim whatsoever against the Debtor's Estate, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trust, or against any Holder of an Allowed Claim to whom distributions are made by the Distribution Agent.

L. Withholding Taxes

In connection with this Plan, to the extent applicable, the Distribution Agent shall comply with all tax withholding and reporting requirements imposed on them by any Governmental Unit, and all distributions made pursuant to this Plan shall be subject to such withholding and reporting requirements. The Distribution Agent shall be entitled to deduct any U.S. federal, state or local withholding taxes from any Cash payments made with respect to Allowed Claims, as appropriate. As a condition to receiving any distribution under this Plan, the Distribution Agent may require that the Holder of an Allowed Claim entitled to receive a distribution pursuant to this Plan provide such Holder's taxpayer identification number and such other information and certification as may be deemed necessary for the Distribution Agent to comply with applicable tax reporting and withholding laws. If a Holder fails to comply with such a request within one year, such distribution shall be deemed an unclaimed distribution. Any amounts withheld pursuant hereto shall be deemed to have been distributed to and received by the applicable recipient for all purposes of this Plan.

M. Setoffs

The Distribution Agent may, to the extent permitted under applicable law, set off against any Allowed Claim and any distributions to be made pursuant to this Plan on account of such Allowed Claim, the claims, rights and causes of action of any nature that the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Distribution Agent may hold against the Holder of such Allowed Claim that are not otherwise waived, released or compromised in accordance with this Plan; provided, however, that neither such a setoff nor the allowance of any Claim hereunder shall constitute a waiver or release by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee of any such claims, rights and causes of action that the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or Claimant Trustee possesses against such Holder. Any Holder of an Allowed Claim subject to such setoff reserves the right to challenge any such setoff in the Bankruptcy Court or any other court with jurisdiction with respect to such challenge.

N. Surrender of Cancelled Instruments or Securities

As a condition precedent to receiving any distribution pursuant to this Plan on account of an Allowed Claim evidenced by negotiable instruments, securities, or notes canceled pursuant to ARTICLE IV of this Plan, the Holder of such Claim will tender the applicable negotiable instruments, securities, or notes evidencing such Claim (or a sworn affidavit identifying the negotiable instruments, securities, or notes formerly held by such Holder and certifying that they have been lost), to the Distribution Agent unless waived in writing by the Distribution Agent.

O. Lost, Stolen, Mutilated or Destroyed Securities

In addition to any requirements under any applicable agreement and applicable law, any Holder of a Claim or Equity Interest evidenced by a security or note that has been lost, stolen, mutilated, or destroyed will, in lieu of surrendering such security or note to the extent required by this Plan, deliver to the Distribution Agent: (i) evidence reasonably satisfactory to the Distribution Agent of such loss, theft, mutilation, or destruction; and (ii) such security or indemnity as may be required by the Distribution Agent to hold such party harmless from any damages, liabilities, or costs incurred in treating such individual as a Holder of an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest. Upon compliance with ARTICLE VI.O of this Plan as determined by the Distribution Agent, by a Holder of a Claim evidenced by a security or note, such Holder will, for all purposes under this Plan, be deemed to have surrendered such security or note to the Distribution Agent.

ARTICLE VII.
PROCEDURES FOR RESOLVING CONTINGENT, UNLIQUIDATED AND DISPUTED CLAIMS

A. Filing of Proofs of Claim

Unless such Claim appeared in the Schedules and is not listed as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated, or such Claim has otherwise been Allowed or paid, each Holder of a Claim was required to file a Proof of Claim on or prior to the Bar Date.

B. Disputed Claims

Following the Effective Date, each of the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trustee, as applicable, may File with the Bankruptcy Court an objection to the allowance of any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest or any other appropriate motion or adversary proceeding with respect thereto, which shall be litigated to Final Order or, at the discretion of the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trustee, as applicable, compromised, settled, withdrew or resolved without further order of the Bankruptcy Court, and (ii) unless otherwise provided in the Confirmation Order, the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, are authorized to settle, or withdraw any objections to, any Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interests following the Effective Date without further notice to creditors (other than the Entity holding such Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest) or authorization of the Bankruptcy Court, in which event such

C. Procedures Regarding Disputed Claims or Disputed Equity Interests

No payment or other distribution or treatment shall be made on account of a Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest unless and until such Disputed Claim or Disputed Equity Interest becomes an Allowed Claim or Equity Interests and the amount of such Allowed Claim or Equity Interest, as applicable, is determined by order of the Bankruptcy Court or by stipulation between the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust, as applicable, and the Holder of the Claim or Equity Interest.

D. Allowance of Claims and Equity Interests

1. Allowance of Claims

After the Effective Date and subject to the other provisions of this Plan, the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, will have and will retain any and all rights and defenses under bankruptcy or nonbankruptcy law that the Debtor had with respect to any Claim. Except as expressly provided in this Plan or in any order entered in the Chapter 11 Case prior to the Effective Date (including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order), no Claim or Equity Interest will become an Allowed Claim or Equity Interest unless and until such Claim or Equity Interest is deemed Allowed under this Plan or the Bankruptcy Code or the Bankruptcy Court has entered an order, including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order, in the Chapter 11 Case allowing such Claim or Equity Interest.

2. Estimation

All of the aforementioned objection, estimation and resolution procedures are cumulative and not exclusive of one another. Claims or Equity Interests may be estimated and subsequently compromised, settled, withdrawn or resolved by any mechanism approved by the Bankruptcy Court. The rights and objections of all parties are reserved in connection with any such estimation proceeding.

3. Disallowance of Claims

Any Claims or Equity Interests held by Entities from which property is recoverable under sections 542, 543, 550, or 553 of the Bankruptcy Code, or that are a transferee of a transfer avoidable under sections 522(f), 522(h), 544, 545, 547, 548, 549, or 724(a) of the Bankruptcy Code, shall be deemed disallowed pursuant to section 502(d) of the Bankruptcy Code, and holders of such Claims or Interests may not receive any distributions on account of such Claims or Interests until such time as such Causes of Action against that Entity have been settled or a Bankruptcy Court Order with respect thereto has been entered and all sums due, if any, to the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable, by that Entity have been turned over or paid to the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust, as applicable.

EXCEPT AS OTHERWISE PROVIDED HEREIN OR AS AGREED TO BY THE DEBTOR, REORGANIZED DEBTOR, OR CLAIMANT TRUSTEE, AS APPLICABLE, ANY AND ALL PROOFS OF CLAIM FILED AFTER THE BAR DATE SHALL BE DEEMED DISALLOWED AND EXPUNGED AS OF THE EFFECTIVE DATE WITHOUT ANY FURTHER NOTICE TO OR ACTION, ORDER, OR APPROVAL OF THE BANKRUPTCY COURT, AND HOLDERS OF SUCH CLAIMS MAY NOT RECEIVE ANY DISTRIBUTIONS ON ACCOUNT OF SUCH CLAIMS, UNLESS SUCH LATE PROOF OF CLAIM HAS BEEN DEEMED TIMELY FILED BY A FINAL ORDER.

ARTICLE VIII.

- The Professional Fee Reserve shall be funded pursuant to this Plan in an amount determined by the Debtor in good faith.

B. Waiver of Conditions

The conditions to effectiveness of this Plan set forth in this ARTICLE VIII (other than that the Confirmation Order shall have been entered) may be waived in whole or in part by the Debtor (and, to the extent such condition requires the consent of the Committee, the consent of the Committee), without notice, leave or order of the Bankruptcy Court or any formal action other than proceeding to confirm or effectuate this Plan. The failure to satisfy or waive a condition to the Effective Date may be asserted by the Debtor regardless of the circumstances giving rise to the failure of such condition to be satisfied. The failure of the Debtor to exercise any of the foregoing rights will not be deemed a waiver of any other rights, and each right will be deemed an ongoing right that may be asserted at any time by the Debtor, the Reorganized

Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, as applicable.

C. Effect of Non-Occurrence of Conditions to Effectiveness

ARTICLE IX.

EXCULPATION, INJUNCTION AND RELATED PROVISIONS

A. General

Notwithstanding anything contained in the Plan to the contrary, the allowance, classification and treatment of all Allowed Claims and Equity Interests and their respective distributions and treatments under the Plan shall take into account the relative priority and rights of the Claims and the Equity Interests in each Class in connection with any contractual, legal and equitable subordination rights relating thereto whether arising under general principles of equitable subordination, section 510 of the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise.

This exculpation shall be in addition to, and not in limitation of, all other releases, indemnities, exculpations, any other applicable law or rules, or any other provisions of this Plan, including ARTICLE IV.C.2, protecting such Exculpated Parties from liability.

D. Releases by the Debtor

By executing the Senior Employee Stipulation embodying this release, each Senior Employee acknowledges and agrees, without limitation, to the terms of this release and the tolling agreement contained in the Senior Employee Stipulation.

The provisions of this release and the execution of a Senior Employee Stipulation will not in any way prevent or limit any Employee from (i) prosecuting its Claims, if any, against the Debtor's Estate, (ii) defending him or herself against any claims or causes of action brought against the Employee by a third party, or (iii) assisting other persons in defending themselves from any Estate Claims brought by the Litigation Trustee (but only with respect to Estate Claims

Except as otherwise provided in this Plan, after the Effective Date, the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust will retain all rights to commence, pursue, litigate or settle, as appropriate, any and all Causes of Action included in the Reorganized Debtor Assets or Claimant Trust Assets, as applicable, whether existing as of the Petition Date or thereafter arising, in any court or other tribunal including, without limitation, in an adversary proceeding Filed in the Chapter 11 Case and, as the successors in interest to the Debtor and the Estate, may, and will have the exclusive right to, enforce, sue on, settle, compromise, transfer or assign (or decline to do any of the foregoing) any or all of the Causes of Action without notice to or approval from the Bankruptcy Court.

2. Preservation of All Causes of Action Not Expressly Settled or Released

Unless a Cause of Action against a Holder of a Claim or an Equity Interest or other Entity is expressly waived, relinquished, released, compromised or settled in this Plan or any Final Order (including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order), such Cause of Action is expressly reserved for later adjudication by the Reorganized Debtor or Claimant Trust, as applicable (including, without limitation, Causes of Action not specifically identified or of which the Debtor may presently be unaware or that may arise or exist by reason of additional facts or circumstances unknown to the Debtor at this time or facts or circumstances that may change or be different from those the Debtor now believes to exist) and, therefore, no preclusion doctrine, including, without limitation, the doctrines of res judicata, collateral estoppel, issue preclusion, claim preclusion, waiver, estoppel (judicial, equitable or otherwise) or laches will apply to such Causes of Action as a consequence of the confirmation, effectiveness, or consummation of this Plan based on the Disclosure Statement, this Plan or the Confirmation Order, except where such Causes of Action have been expressly released in this Plan or any other Final Order (including, without limitation, the Confirmation Order). In addition, the right of the Reorganized Debtor or the Claimant Trust to pursue or adopt any claims alleged in any lawsuit in which the Debtor is a plaintiff, defendant or an interested party, against any Entity, including, without limitation, the plaintiffs or co-defendants in such lawsuits, is expressly reserved.

F. Injunction

Upon entry of the Confirmation Order, all holders of Claims and Equity Interests and other parties in interest, along with their respective Related Persons, shall be enjoined from taking any actions to interfere with the implementation or consummation of the Plan.

Except as expressly provided in the Plan, the Confirmation Order, or a separate order of the Bankruptcy Court, all Entities who have held, hold, or may hold Claims against or Equity Interests in the Debtor (whether proof of such Claims or Equity Interests has been filed or not and whether or not such Entities vote in favor of, against or abstain from voting on the Plan or are presumed to have accepted or deemed to have rejected the Plan) and other parties in interest, along with their respective Related Persons, are permanently enjoined, on and after the Effective Date, with respect to such Claims and Equity Interests, from (i) commencing, conducting, or continuing in any manner, directly or indirectly, any suit, action, or other proceeding of any kind (including any proceeding in a judicial, arbitral, administrative or other forum) against or affecting the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or the property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, (ii) enforcing, levying, attaching (including any prejudgment attachment), collecting, or otherwise recovering by any manner or means, whether directly or indirectly, any judgment, award, decree, or order against the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or the property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, (iii) creating, perfecting, or otherwise enforcing in any manner, directly or indirectly, any encumbrance of any kind against the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or the property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust, (iv) asserting any right of setoff, directly or indirectly, against any obligation due from the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust or against property or interests in property of any of the Debtor, the Independent Directors, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trust; and (v) acting or proceeding in any manner, in any place whatsoever, that does not conform to or comply with the provisions of the Plan.

The injunctions set forth herein shall extend to any successors of the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, and the Claimant Trust and their respective property and interests in property.

Subject in all respects to ARTICLE XII.D, no Entity may commence or pursue a claim or cause of action of any kind against any Protected Party that arose from or is related to the Chapter 11 Case, the negotiation of this Plan, the administration of the Plan or property to be distributed under the Plan, the wind down of the business of the Debtor or Reorganized Debtor, the administration of the Claimant Trust, or the transactions in furtherance of the foregoing without the Bankruptcy Court (i) first determining, after notice, that such claim or cause of action represents a colorable claim of bad faith, criminal misconduct, willful misconduct, fraud, or gross negligence against a Protected Party and (ii) specifically authorizing such Entity to bring such claim against any such Protected Party; provided, however, the foregoing will not apply to Strand or any Employee other than with respect to actions taken by such Entities from the date of appointment of the Independent Directors through the Effective Date. As set forth in ARTICLE XI, the Bankruptcy Court will have sole jurisdiction to adjudicate any such claim for which approval of the Bankruptcy Court to commence or pursue has been granted.

G. Term of Injunctions or Stays

Unless otherwise provided in this Plan, the Confirmation Order, or in a Final Order of the Bankruptcy Court, all injunctions or stays arising under or entered during the Chapter 11 Case under section 105 or 362 of the Bankruptcy Code, or otherwise, and in existence on the Confirmation Date, shall remain in full force and effect until the later of the Effective Date and the date indicated in the order providing for such injunction or stay.

On the Effective Date, and effective as of the Effective Date, the Plan, including, without limitation, the provisions in ARTICLE IX, will bind, and will be deemed binding upon, all Holders of Claims against and Equity Interests in the Debtor and such Holder's respective successors and assigns, to the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, notwithstanding whether or not such Holder will receive or retain any property or interest in property under the Plan. All Claims and Debts shall be fixed and adjusted pursuant to this Plan. The Plan shall also bind any taxing authority, recorder of deeds, or similar official for any county, state, Governmental Unit or parish in which any instrument related to the Plan or related to any transaction contemplated thereby is to be recorded with respect to any taxes of the kind specified in Bankruptcy Code section 1146(a).

ARTICLE XI. RETENTION OF JURISDICTION

B. Modification of Plan

Effective as of the date hereof and subject to the limitations and rights contained in this Plan: (a) the Debtor reserves the right, in accordance with the Bankruptcy Code and the Bankruptcy Rules, to amend or modify this Plan prior to the entry of the Confirmation Order with the consent of the Committee, such consent not to be unreasonably withheld; and (b) after the entry of the Confirmation Order, the Debtor may, after notice and hearing and entry of an order of the Bankruptcy Court, amend or modify this Plan, in accordance with section 1127(b) of the Bankruptcy Code or remedy any defect or omission or reconcile any inconsistency in this Plan in such manner as may be necessary to carry out the purpose and intent of this Plan.

C. Revocation of Plan

If the Debtor revokes or withdraws this Plan prior to the Confirmation Date, then: (i) this Plan shall be null and void in all respects; (ii) any settlement or compromise embodied in this Plan, assumption of Executory Contracts or Unexpired Leases effected by this Plan and any document or agreement executed pursuant hereto shall be deemed null and void except as may be set forth in a separate order entered by the Bankruptcy Court; and (iii) nothing contained in this Plan shall: (a) constitute a waiver or release of any Claims by or against, or any Equity Interests in, the Debtor or any other Entity; (b) prejudice in any manner the rights of the Debtor or any other Entity; or (c) constitute an admission, acknowledgement, offer or undertaking of any sort by the Debtor or any other Entity.

E. Entire Agreement

H. Reservation of Rights

Except as expressly set forth herein, this Plan shall have no force or effect unless and until the Bankruptcy Court enters the Confirmation Order and the Effective Date occurs. Neither the filing of this Plan, any statement or provision contained herein, nor the taking of any action by the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trustee, or any other Entity with respect to this Plan shall be or shall be deemed to be an admission or waiver of any rights of: (1) the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, or the Claimant Trustee with respect to the Holders of Claims or Equity Interests or other Entity; or (2) any Holder of a Claim or an Equity Interest or other Entity prior to the Effective Date.

Neither the exclusion or inclusion by the Debtor of any contract or lease on any exhibit, schedule, or other annex to this Plan or in the Plan Documents, nor anything contained in this Plan, will constitute an admission by the Debtor that any such contract or lease is or is not an executory contract or lease or that the Debtor, the Reorganized Debtor, the Claimant Trustee, or their respective Affiliates has any liability thereunder.

Notwithstanding any such holding, alteration or interpretation, the remainder of the terms and provisions of this Plan will remain in full force and effect and will in no way be affected, impaired, or invalidated by such holding, alteration, or interpretation. The Confirmation Order will constitute a judicial determination and will provide that each term and provision of this Plan, as it may have been altered or interpreted in accordance with the foregoing, is valid and enforceable pursuant to its terms.

Statement of Assumptions

- A. Plan effective date is January 31, 2021.
- B. All investment assets are sold by December 31, 2022.
- C. All demand notes are collected in the year 2021.
- D. All notes receivable with maturity dates beyond 12/31/2022 are sold in Q4 2022; in the interim interest income and principal payments are collected as they become due.
- E. Fixed assets used in daily business operations are sold in February 2021.
- F. Accrual for employee bonuses as of January 2021 are reversed and not paid.
- G. All Management advisory or shared service contracts are terminated on their terms by the effective date or shortly thereafter
- H. Post-effective date, the reorganized Debtor would retain three HCMLP employees as contractors to help monetize the remaining assets.
  - I. Litigation Trustee budget is $6,500,000.
  - J. Unrealized gains or losses are not recorded on a monthly basis; all gains or losses are recorded as realized gains or losses upon sale of asset.
- K. Plan does not provide for payment of interest to Class 8 holders of general unsecured claims, as set forth in the Plan. If holders of general unsecured claims receive 100% of their allowed claims, they would then be entitled to receive interest at the federal judgement rate, prior to any funds being available for claims or interest of junior priority.
- L. Plan assumes zero allowed claims for UBS, IFA, the HarbourVest entities (collectively "HV") and Hunter Mountain Investment Trust ("HM").
- M. Claim amounts listed in Plan vs. Liquidation schedule are subject to change; claim amounts in Class 8 assume $0 for UBS, IFA, HM and HV.

- N. With the exception of Class 2 - Frontier, Classes 1-7 will be paid in full within 30 days of effective date.
- O. Class 7 payout limited to 85% of each individual creditor claim or in the aggregate $13.15 million. Plan currently projects Class 7 payout of $9.96 million.
- P. See below for Class 8 estimated payout schedule; payout is subject to certain assets being monetized by payout date:
  - o By September 30, 2021 - $50,000,000
  - o By March 31, 2022 – additional $50,000,000
  - o By June 30, 2022 – additional $25,000,000
  - o All remaining proceeds are assumed to be paid out on or soon after all remaining assets are monetized.

Chapter 11

Case N. 19-34054 (SGJ)

MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANTS JAMES D. DONDERO, DUGABOY INVESTMENT TRUST, GET GOOD TRUST, AND STRAND ADVISORS, INC.’S MOTION TO STAY AND MOTION TO COMPEL MEDIATION

I. INTRODUCTION

Defendants James D. Dondero, Strand Advisors, Inc., Dugaboy Investment Trust, and Get Good Trust (collectively, the “Dondero Defendants”) hereby file this Motion to Stay and to Compel Mediation (the “Motion”). This bankruptcy case has been pending a long time, and the professional fee burn has been tremendous. That professional spend is in part what caused Marc S. Kirschner, as Trustee of the Litigation Sub-Trust (the “Litigation Trustee”), to move to stay the adversary proceeding filed by the Litigation Trustee against the Dondero Defendants and others. During the hearing on Kirschner’s motion to stay, the Court expressed willingness to entertain a broader stay of proceedings to facilitate mediation and eventual settlement of all pending disputes between the parties. The Dondero Defendants agree that an attempted resolution is long overdue, and mediation is the best and least expensive method of accomplishing that goal. But in addition, mediation is an opportunity for the Debtor to finally provide information that is critically important to ultimate resolution, including information regarding the value of the estate and its current and contingent liabilities—information that, for whatever, reason has been shrouded in secrecy throughout these bankruptcy proceedings.

Accordingly, and as set forth in greater detail below, the Court should employ its inherent powers to fashion a stay that will (1) pause the numerous adversary proceedings and disputes still being litigated in the context of the Highland Capital Management, L.P. bankruptcy (“HCMLP Bankruptcy”), (2) require the parties to submit their remaining disputes to mediation, and (3) mandate disclosure by the Debtor and Claimant Trustee of information that will allow the parties to meaningfully discuss global resolution. The Dondero Defendants’ Motion should be granted.

II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. The Parties Fail To Reach A Global Resolution In Mediation, And The Court Confirms A “Monetization” Plan

As the Court is aware, the Dondero Defendants fought hard to reach agreement with the Debtor to implement a plan of reorganization that would resolve the estate, pay all creditors in full, and allow Highland Capital Management, L.P. (“HCMLP”) to emerge from bankruptcy as a going concern. See Order Confirming Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, L.P. (As Modified) (“Confirmation Order”), Bankr. Dkt. 1943, ¶ 17. To facilitate what the Court has deemed a “grand bargain” between the parties, the Court ordered the Debtor, Acis Capital Management GP, LLC and Acis Capital Management, L.P. (collectively, “Acis”), UBS Securities LLC and UBS AG London Branch (collectively, “UBS”), the Redeemer Committee, and Mr. Dondero to mediation in the summer of 2020. Id., ¶ 15; see also Bankr. Dkt. 912.

Notably, when the parties initially raised the possibility of mediation with the Bankruptcy Court, they told the Court that all parties desired to mediate before two specific sitting bankruptcy judges—Judge David Jones and Judge Marvin Isgur. See July 8, 2020 Hr’g Tr. at 10:19-11:15, attached hereto as Ex. A. At the time, Debtor’s counsel explained that mediation should involve

“two general areas”—resolution of the claims of Acis and UBS and resolution of issues the Debtor might have with Mr. Dondero and related entities (what Debtor’s counsel deemed a “plan mediation process” aimed at “global resolution”). Id. The Court pushed back on the parties’ mediator selections, expressing its disbelief that Judges Jones and Isgur would have availability because of their busy schedules. Id. at 44:23-48:21, 51:10-53:24. As a result, the Court took control of the mediator selection process, ultimately assigning two totally different mediators to the job: Retired Bankruptcy Judge Alan Gropper from the Southern District of New York and Sylvia Mayer, a former bankruptcy practitioner turned mediator/arbitrator in Houston. See July 14, 2020 Hr’g Tr. at 121:8-129:5, attached hereto as Ex. B; see also Confirmation Order, Bankr. Dkt. 1943, ¶ 15. Nonetheless, at the time, the Court agreed that “[t]his isn’t the type of case that needs to be in bankruptcy for months and months and months,” in part because ““we have the issue of professional fees accruing, of course, like every case.” July 14, 2020 Hr’g Tr., Ex. B, at 117:2-7.

In the end, however, the mediation did not result in any “grand bargain.” That is not surprising: in advance of mediation, the Debtor and its management refused to respond to Mr. Dondero’s numerous offers to settle the estate and pay creditors in full.<sup>1</sup> When pressed by Mr. Dondero’s counsel for a response, the Debtor made clear that any global resolution involving Mr. Dondero would come at an unreasonable price. The Debtor then used mediation as an opportunity to broker two-way settlements with Acis, UBS, and the Redeemer Committee. See Confirmation Order, Bankr. Dkt. 1943, ¶ 15. At no point during the mediation process did any party ever make any demand of Mr. Dondero, nor did the mediators solicit any offer from Mr. Dondero. Ultimately, mediation resulted in settlements between the Debtor and Acis, and the Debtor and the Redeemer Committee, but no other immediate resolution. Id.

<sup>1</sup> The Debtor also refused to permit the participation of other key individuals in the mediation process, including former employees Scott Ellington and Isaac Leventon, whose deep knowledge regarding HCMLP’s pre-petition litigation may have proven useful in discussions regarding a global resolution.

Following mediation, it became clear that the Debtor was not interested in brokering a deal involving Mr. Dondero, even if Mr. Dondero's proposals were superior to the plan being proposed by the Debtor. In fact, on January 28, 2021, Mr. Dondero and other entities, through counsel, proposed a plan that contained significant guarantees, promised to pay creditors and holders of allowed claims more than the plan proposed by the Debtor, and preserved HCMLP's business as a going concern. See Declaration of Davor Rukavina ("Rukavina Dec."), ¶ 2 & Ex. 1. In response, the Debtor made clear that it would defer to the judgment of the UCC regarding which plan to adopt; counsel for the UCC explained that it would not negotiate with Mr. Dondero and that Mr. Dondero would instead need to negotiate with the UCC members themselves; and at least two of the UCC members, through counsel, and through multiple communications, refused to negotiate regarding Mr. Dondero's competing plan, saying he would have to "do more" than what he was proposing, but without ever explaining what that "more" should have been. Rukavina Dec., ¶ 3. In other words, neither the Debtor nor the UCC gave serious consideration to Mr. Dondero's proposed plan, and neither engaged in any real negotiation with Mr. Dondero.

Ultimately, over the Dondero Defendants' objection, the Bankruptcy Court confirmed the Debtor's Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization (the "Plan") on February 22, 2021. See Plan Confirmation Order, Bankr. Dkt. 1943. The Plan became effective on August 11, 2021 (the "Effective Date"). See Dkt. 2700. Unlike Mr. Dondero's proposed plan, the confirmed Plan contemplated a liquidation rather than a reorganization of HCMLP's business. At no point prior to Plan confirmation did the Debtor disclose key financials (through Rule 2015.3 reports or otherwise), such as total assets held by the Debtor and its subsidiaries, total claims to be paid by the estate, cash being held by the Debtor for potential indemnity claims, or valuation estimates prepared by third parties.

B. The Litigation Trustee Commences An Adversary Proceeding, And Professionals Continue To Drain The Estate

In the face of a Plan that did not promise creditors payment in full, the Litigation Trustee sought to bridge the gap by commencing an adversary proceeding against the Dondero Defendants and numerous other defendants two months later, on October 15, 2021. See Kirschner v. Dondero, et al., Adv. Proc. No. 21-03076-sgj (the “Kirschner Adversary”).

Since Plan confirmation, James P. Seery, now acting as Trustee for the Claimant Trust, has continued to sell and monetize assets of the estate for the benefit of Claimant Trust Beneficiaries. The Dondero Defendants have reason to believe that process is nearing an end and that the estate has sufficient funds to pay all creditors in full with interest, leaving sufficient cash and other liquid assets to pay a return to residual equity stakeholders in Classes 10 and 11. See Bankr. Dkt. 3662, at ¶¶ 10-11. Yet there continue to be disputes, adversary proceedings, and appeals filed in relation to the HCMLP Bankruptcy. Those proceedings have caused a significant professional burn—to the tune of millions of dollars a month—impacting potential recovery to creditors and residual equity stakeholders.

For context, it appears that, by June 20, 2022, the estate had nearly $550 million in cash and approximately $120 million in other assets:

Highland Capital Assets		Value in Millions
		Low	High
Cash as of Feb 1, 2022		$125.00	$125.00
Recently Liquidated	$246.30
Highland Select Equity	$55.00
Highland MultiStrat Credit Fund	$51.44
MGM Shares	$26.00
Portion of HCLOF	$37.50
Total of Recent Liquidations	$416.24	$416.24	$416.24
Current Cash Balance		$541.24	$541.24
Remaining Assets
Highland CLO Funding, LTD		$37.50	$37.50
Korea Fund		$18.00	$18.00
SE Multifamily		$11.98	$12.10
Affiliate Notes <sup>2</sup>		$50.00	$60.00
Other (Misc. and legal)		$5.00	$20.00
Total (Current Cash + Remaining Assets)		$663.72	$688.84

See Bankr. Dkt. 3662, ¶ 10 & Ex. A, ¶¶ 6-7. Yet between the Effective Date of the Plan and December 31, 2022, the Claimant Trust made non-claims holder cash disbursements of approximately $34.9 million, and HCMLP made non-claims holder cash disbursements totaling nearly $100 million. Compare Bankr. Dkt. 3653, p. 2 (listing total cash disbursements since Effective Date), with id., p. 7 (listing disbursements to various claims holders); Bankr. Dkt. 3652, p. 2. And the Claimant Trustee has now paid distributions to allowed claims holders of approximately $261 million, or approximately 64% of allowed claims. See Bankr. Dkt. 3653 at p. 7.

The seemingly endless and significant professional burn in the face of what the Dondero Defendants believe to be a solvent estate ultimately prompted the Dondero Defendants to seek critical information regarding the value of the estate from the Debtor and the Claimant Trust that has never been disclosed to the public. Among other efforts, pre-confirmation, the Dondero Defendants sought the appointment of an examine to independently value the estate. See Bankr. Dkt. 1752. Then, in June 2022, the Dondero Defendants filed a motion to determine the value of the estate. See Bankr. Dkt. 3382. And most recently, in a Motion for Leave to File Valuation Adversary Proceeding (“Valuation Motion”), the Dondero Defendants pointed out that, if their estimations are correct, then the Kirschner Adversary can only benefit some of the residual stakeholders currently being sued in that proceeding. Bankr. Dkt. 3662 at ¶ 18. Almost ten months have passed and an estimated average of $4.7 million in costs have been incurred since the Dondero Defendants first sought the information.

Shortly thereafter, on March 24, 2023, the Litigation Trustee filed a motion to stay the Kirschner Adversary. See Kirschner Adversary, Dkt. 324. In response, the Dondero Defendants filed an objection and competing motion to stay, arguing that the Court should enter a broader stay than that proposed by the Litigation Trustee and compel the parties to mediate during the pendency of any stay. See id., Dkt. 329; see also Bankr. Dkt. 3702. In particular, the Dondero Defendants sought to stay proceedings on the Debtor’s objection to Scheduled Claims 3.65 and 3.66 of Highland CLO Management, Ltd. and proceedings on the Valuation Motion in favor of a simple information exchange and mediation. Eventually, however, the Dondero Defendants withdrew their objection to the Litigation Trustee’s motion to stay, in part to stop the professional fee burn occurring in the Kirschner Adversary.

At the hearing on the Litigation Trustee’s motion to stay, the Court indicated a willingness to entertain a broader stay of proceedings and to compel mediation of remaining disputes. This motion is an attempt to facilitate that type of near-term resolution.

III. LEGAL STANDARD

A federal court has the inherent power to control its own docket, including the power to stay proceedings before it. Clinton v. Jones, 520 U.S. 681, 706 (1997) (citing Landis v. N. Am. Co., 299 U.S. 248, 254–55 (1936) (“[T]he power to stay proceedings is incidental to the power inherent in every court to control the disposition of causes on its docket with economy of time and effort for itself, for counsel, and for litigants.”)). When considering motions to stay, courts “must weigh competing interests and maintain an even balance.” Landis, 299 U.S. at 254.

It is likewise within the Court’s inherent authority under 11 U.S.C. § 105 to refer contested matters to mediation. See In re Sargeant Farms, Inc., 224 B.R. 842 (Bankr. M.D. Fla.) (“[I]t is quite apparent the bankruptcy court has the authority and power to promulgate rules associated with court-ordered mediation and, where necessary, to require the parties to participate in same.”). Indeed, this Court previously invoked its inherent authority to order various parties to the HCMLP Bankruptcy to mediation. See Bankr. Dkt. 912.

IV. THE DONDERO DEFENDANTS’ MOTION SHOULD BE GRANTED

A. A Broader Stay Is Warranted

A broad stay of proceedings relating to the HCMLP Bankruptcy is necessary to preserve private and judicial resources, and to preserve what is left of the Debtor’s estate. Although the Court already has stayed the Kirschner Adversary, that stay alone will not stop the professional spend on other disputes and litigation relating to the HCMLP Bankruptcy, will not encourage the parties to reach a global resolution of pending disputes, and will not facilitate the close of the HCMLP Bankruptcy.

The Court should aim higher by entering a broader stay sufficient to accomplish these goals. Specifically, and at a minimum, the Court should stay the following proceedings:

- Proceedings on the Debtor’s Objection to Scheduled Claim 3.65 and 3.66 of

Highland CLO Management, Ltd., Bankr. Dkt. 3657;

- Proceedings on the Valuation Motion, Bankr. Dkt. 3662;
- Any other outstanding adversary proceedings or contested matters currently pending before this Court that are not sub judice.<sup>3</sup>

Ordering a stay of these proceedings is well within the Court's inherent power to manage its own docket for the purpose of conserving both party and judicial resources. See Landis, 299 U.S. at 254-55. If the Kirschner Adversary remains stayed while the parties continue to fight about numerous other issues, that limited stay will have little effect on stopping the bleed. At the present burn rate, described above, professional fees and expenses will quickly overwhelm what little is left in the estate for payment of remaining estate liabilities.

It goes without saying that there is substantial water under the bridge. It remains the Dondero Defendants' position that there is no reason that HCMLP's highly solvent estate should have been liquidated, nor should estate professionals have facilitated sizeable claims trades to a handful of insiders for meager consideration, to the detriment of creditors and stakeholders. See generally Dkt. 3662 & Exs. A-1 – A-3. The Debtor and the Liquidation Trustee likely have a different view. But despite years of litigation, the HCMLP Bankruptcy and related disputes continue. The parties can continue to fight and spend resources, or the fights can be put on hold, an attempt at resolution can be made, and the acrimony can be put to rest. The Dondero

<sup>3</sup> Notably, in the consolidated notes cases currently pending in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas, the Debtor recently sought leave to file a lengthy Motion to Deem the Dondero Entities Vexatious Litigants and for Related Relief ("Vexatious Litigant Motion"), which seeks to have more than 20 individuals and entities (some of whom have never appeared in the notes cases) deemed "vexatious." See Highland Capital Mgmt., L.P. v. Highland Capital Mgmt. Fund Advisors, L.P., Case No. 3:21-cv-881-X, Dkt. No. 102 & Ex. A. Suffice it to say, the cost of responding to that motion alone will be substantial and require the participation of potentially dozens of law firms. For that reason, should the Court decide to grant this Motion, the Dondero Defendants also request that the Court order the Debtor to refrain from pursuing, or seek to stay, the Vexatious Litigant Motion during the pendency of any stay of these bankruptcy proceedings.

Defendants' Motion for a broader stay should be granted.

B. The Court Should Order All Relevant Stakeholders To Mediation

One core reason that limited stay of the Kirschner Adversary is insufficient is that the stay lacks any mechanism aimed at achieving a global resolution of the remaining issues between the parties. Even if the Kirschner Adversary is rendered moot by the full payment of all creditors' claims, significant disputes between Mr. Dondero and his affiliates and the Debtor and its current management would remain. Such disputes include, but are not limited to, numerous pending adversary proceedings, any claims that Mr. Dondero or his affiliates may have against third parties in relation to the HCMLP Bankruptcy or pending adversary proceedings, and the scope of any releases to be given to HCMLP and its current management, which are necessary to finally bring the bankruptcy to a close. Given the complexity of these issues, the long history of litigation and mistrust that has developed between the parties, and the Court's limited resources, mediation presents a viable and low-cost opportunity to reach a global resolution.

This Court has expressed doubt about the potential success of mediation because the prior mediation in the HCMLP Bankruptcy failed to achieve a global resolution. As set forth above, part of the problem was that stakeholders previously ordered to mediation refused to deal with Mr. Dondero, and the appointed mediators were not able to facilitate broader discussions. For that reason, the Dondero Defendants request the entry of an order compelling mediation that:

- Requires all parties currently engaged in adversary proceeding relating to the HCMLP Bankruptcy to attend mediation (the "Mediating Parties")<sup>4</sup>;
- Within 30 days, requires those parties to agree to the appointment of one or more sitting or retired United States Bankruptcy or Judges (outside of the Northern District of Texas) to be appointed as mediators;

<sup>4</sup> Those parties would include, at a minimum, the Debtor, the Claimant Trustee, Mr. Dondero, The Dugaboy Investment Trust, Get Good Trust, Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, Stonehill Capital Management, Farallon Capital Management, Muck Holdings, and Jessup Holdings.

- Within 30 days of the appointment of any mediators, requires the parties to exchange information that the mediators deem necessary to the facilitation of the mediation, including at a minimum the information set forth in Section C, below; and
- Requires mediation to occur on or before August 31, 2023.

There is no downside to issuing an order compelling the parties to mediation. If mediation is successful, then the HCMLP Bankruptcy and related adversary proceedings will be fully and finally resolved, and the remaining estate will be preserved for the benefit of creditors and other stakeholders. If mediation is unsuccessful, the cost is minimal, and nothing is lost. At the very least, compelling the parties to mediation might facilitate meaningful conversations that expedite resolution of pending disputes and ultimately save the estate money. The Dondero Defendants' Motion to compel mediation should be granted.

C. The Court Should Require The Disclosure Of Critical Financial Information By The Debtor And Claimant Trust Prior To Mediation

Finally, any order compelling mediation should require the Debtor and/or Claimant Trustee to disclose the financial information required to assess the extent of the bankruptcy estate's assets and liabilities. Again, there is a valuable opportunity to reach a global resolution of the parties' outstanding disputes—including the Litigation Trustee's claims against defendants and the Dondero Defendants' potential claims against third parties or the Debtor—but the Dondero Defendants cannot consider resolution without this information. Specifically, the Dondero Defendants request that any order compelling mediation require the Debtor and/or Claimant Trustee to disclose, within thirty (30) days of entry of appointment of any mediator, the following information:

- Consolidated annual and consolidated quarterly financials for the Claimant Trust prepared in accordance with Generally Accepted Accounting Principles (GAAP), including relevant supporting schedules and footnotes for the entire period the Claimant Trust has been operating and for the period immediately preceding the transfer of assets and liabilities to the Claimant Trust;<sup>5</sup>

- Stand-alone annual and quarterly financials prepared in accordance with sound accounting principles consistently applied for the Trust, including relevant supporting schedules and footnotes for the entire period the Claimant Trust has been operating and for the period immediately preceding the transfer of assets and liabilities to the Claimant Trust;
- Restricted and unrestricted cash balances as of the end of each calendar quarter from Q3 2021 through Q1 2023, including information regarding whether restricted cash balances are being reserved for particular expenses, indemnities, or disputed claims and, if so, identifying those specifically;
- Aggregate amounts paid and remaining amounts owed to allowed class 8 claimholders as of March 31, 2023;
- Aggregate amounts paid and remaining amounts owed to allowed class 9 claimholders as of March 31, 2023;
- Remaining pending disputed and administrative claims, including the claimholder and face amount of the claim, as of March 31, 2023;
- Cumulative amounts funded to the Indemnity Trust as of March 31, 2023;
- Total interest-bearing debt outstanding as of March 31, 2023;
- The net proceeds to the Claimant Trust and/or HCMLP of the following assets: Trussway, Targa, SSP, Cornerstone, HCLOF, MGM (directly held shares), Maple Avenue, and PetroCap Partners III; and
- List of material assets remaining, including assets available for sale, remaining notes to be collected, investment assets to be collected, membership interests to be recognized and monetized, and summary of other miscellaneous assets.

The above information will reveal whether the estate has sufficient assets to pay its creditors. If the estate does have sufficient assets to pay creditors in full, and the Dondero Defendants have reason to believe that it does, then the Kirschner Adversary proceeding is moot, and the parties should be able to bring the HCMLP Bankruptcy to a swift close. That is something the parties must understand in order to resolve remaining disputes. While the Dondero Defendants believe that this information should be publicly available to ensure transparency in the HCMLP Bankruptcy proceeding, they are also amenable to receiving this information pursuant to a reasonable and appropriate protective order and pursuant to a process prescribed by an appointed mediator to address the Debtor's concerns about confidentiality, if any.

V. CONCLUSION

It is time to bring the HCMLP Bankruptcy to a close. But the only meaningful way to do so is to enter a broad stay, order the parties to mediation, and require disclosure of information that is necessary to facilitate global resolution. The Court's stay of the Kirschner Adversary is a step, but it is not sufficient. The Court should exercise its inherent powers to issue an order (1) broadly staying disputes and adversary proceedings relating to the HCMLP Bankruptcy, (2) compelling current litigants to mediate, and (3) requiring the disclosure of financial information that will enable meaningful negotiations between the parties. The Dondero Defendants respectfully request that the Court grant this Motion.

1     burdened this estate for many years.

2             Since the last hearing, Your Honor, I've had discussions
3 with both Committee counsel, Mr. Clemente, and counsel for 4 each of the Committee members regarding a mediation process
5 that I think, subject to Your Honor's concurrence, has broad
6 support among the major parties, just proving to Your Honor
7 that the parties can come together and agree on something in 8 this case.

9             There is consensus that the Court should order a mediation
10 that would encompass essentially two general areas. First,
11 the mediation would seek to resolve the claims of Acis and 12 UBS, to the extent the parties cannot reach agreement on their 13 own prior to the commencement of the mediation.

14             However, resolving claims against the estate is really 15 only one part of the equation. A true global resolution would 16 also (audio gap) the Debtor's estate may have against Jim
17 Dondero and related entities, claims that I'm sure Your Honor
18 recalls the Committee bargained for the ability to prosecute
19 in connection with the global settlement approved by Your 20 Honor in January.

21             I've spoken with Mr. Lynn, Mr. Dondero's counsel. I know
22 he's participating in the hearing. And he has indicated that 23 Mr. Dondero is willing to participate in a plan mediation
24 process to see if a global resolution can be reached.

25             The Debtor and the Committee have also discussed the names

1 of potential mediators, and subject, of course, to Your
2 Honor's approval, the Debtor and the Committee have reached
3 out to Judge Jones' clerk for the Southern District of Texas
4 and he has told us that he has the time and the willingness to 5 mediate.

6 We also believe that, if available, since there is a lot
7 in terms of mediation in this case, that it may be helpful to 8 have two mediators. And if Judge Isgur -- we haven't reached 9 out to him -- is also available, we believe that both of those 10 judges possess the qualities that this case would need to 11 resolve -- to give the best chance of resolving the claims and 12 the plan process in an efficient and a timely manner.

13 We would contemplate that the parties would submit fees to 14 the mediator by July 31st, and the mediation would occur
15 sometime in the second half of August.

16 Notwithstanding the mediation process, however, Your 17 Honor, the Debtor is moving forward towards expeditiously
18 filing a plan, which will not need to wait for mediation to 19 conclude. And in that regard, Your Honor, the Debtor and the 20 Committee have worked cooperatively over the last several 21 weeks to draft a plan that would allow the Debtor to emerge
22 from Chapter 11 as quickly as possible -- you know, 120 days
23 or so after it would be filed.

24 The Debtor and the Committee and its members recognize 25 that the administrative fees attending to the continued

1 raises a lot of questions in my brain. Anything else?

2 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, would you mind saying
3 what newspaper you found it in? Because not everything one
4 reads in the newspaper is accurate, but we will definitely --

5 THE COURT: Oh, yeah. I know --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: -- follow up on it and --

7 THE COURT: Fake news really is a thing.

8 MR. POMERANTZ: I didn't say fake news.

9 THE COURT: Oh, I know, I know. It's not really a 10 good term. But Business Insider? Is that reputable? Or no?
11 I thought I saw it in one of the local papers, too. I mean, 12 someone tell me if that's, --

13 MR. POMERANTZ: We -- we --

14 THE COURT: -- you know, something unreliable.

15 MR. POMERANTZ: We will investigate it, Your Honor.
16 I don't know what confidentiality restrictions would be on 17 whether if any of those entities -- but we will get the 18 information. If there's any concern on confidentiality,
19 perhaps we could have an in-camera on that. But before we get 20 ahead of ourselves, let me broach the issue with the Board and 21 Mr. Sharp and then be in a position to act and respond more 22 intelligently.

23 THE COURT: Okay. My last topic is to come back to 24 mediation. I was surprised that Judge Jones' or Judge Isgur's
25 staff expressed that they had availability. They are the

1 busiest judges in the country right now. I'm wondering when
2 were they contacted. Was it really recently, or a week or two 3 ago? Because they've probably gotten ten new mega-cases in 4 the past two weeks.

5 MR. POMERANTZ: So, Your Honor, the last -- the last 6 two weeks, again, probably since June 15th, we had been 7 discussing the structure of a mediation. We, the Debtor,
8 proposed perhaps a combination of Judge Isgur and Jones. We 9 initially had that conversation with Mr. Clemente, and then we 10 socialized it with the rest of the Committee members. As of 11 last Thursday, I believe it was, we had consensus that Judge
12 Jones, and if available, also Judge Isgur, would make sense.

13 I sent an email to Judge Jones' clerk, indicating that we 14 had a hearing today, that it would be helpful if we got a 15 response, and this morning, two hours before the hearing,
16 Judge Jones' clerk responded and told Mr. Clemente and I that 17 he is available and ready and suggested that we have a 18 conference with -- again, I'm not sure if it'll be him or his 19 clerk, to talk about availability. Of course, we didn't want 20 to go ahead and have that discussion until, you know, we got 21 Your Honor's input on it.

22 THE COURT: Okay. I mean, a couple of things come to 23 mind. One is I am just flabbergasted that they would have any 24 availability. I know they're -- I'm aware of Judge Jones
25 doing hearings on weekends.

1 But second, I'm also concerned what is their idea of 2 availability. Because in order for a mediator to meaningfully
3 help you on this, I mean, it's going to take not just hours
4 but days of time, unless you want the mediator to just have a
5 30,000-foot view. And I mean, I just cannot imagine, --

6 MR. POMERANTZ: So, --

7 THE COURT: -- once again, that they would have days
8 and days to come up to speed with, you know, 11 years of 9 litigation or however long it was, not that long, with UBS,
10 you know the years with Acis, you know, the various alleged 11 claims and causes of action, and, you know, the Byzantine 12 structure here. I mean, you know, not that they have to be,
13 you know, as educated as a judge presiding over litigated
14 matters, but I just cannot imagine they could meaningfully
15 spend time on this.

16 So what are you all envisioning? Because I know what I'm 17 envisioning, and maybe we're not seeing it the same way. I
18 mean, what are you thinking? That you'll go in and spend a 19 day with, you know, maybe just each of you doing a 25-page
20 white paper, and you'll either settle it by the end of the day
21 or not, or what?

22 MR. POMERANTZ: So, let me start by saying that when 23 everyone raised the issue of Judge Jones and Isgur, everyone
24 had the same potential concern that Your Honor has mentioned.
25 You know, my firm and me personally, I'm involved in a couple

1 of cases before Judge Jones now, significant cases. So there
2 was a concern.

3 I think people also generally thought that if they 4 accepted and they knew what they were getting into, they would 5 want to do a good job and they'd have the time.

6 We have not had the ability to have an extensive
7 discussion. That discussion could either occur with Mr.
8 Clemente and myself speaking to the clerk or the judge, or if 9 Your Honor -- nothing stops Your Honor from picking up the 10 phone, speaking to Judge Jones and asking him as well.

11 But I expect it to be a very intensive mediation process.
12 I do understand that Judge Jones only does mediations in 13 person, so this would require people getting to Houston, 14 which, in my experience, while I have participated in 15 mediations virtually on the phone, it's a lot more effective
16 to be in person. We would anticipate detailed mediation
17 briefs. We would envision each of the parties speaking to 18 Judge Jones to give him their perspective. But it would be -- 19 it would be a significant assignment.

20 Again, whether we would conclude at the end of August, I 21 don't know, but I would contemplate a good two, three days of 22 in-person mediation at the end of August, and then probably,
23 if necessary, to set up for something else, which, again,
24 there are several different things. And I mentioned in my 25 opening remarks why I think people like Judge Jones -- and

1 this is also why we thought about Judge Isgur as well -- it's
2 not often you have two mediators, but two mediators,
3 especially judges who work together and who are pretty adept
4 at mediation, I mean, you know, having a bankruptcy judge be a
5 mediator is fine, but Judge Jones and Isgur, they have done a 6 lot of that, and I understand have continued to do that,
7 notwithstanding themselves getting busy.

8 So I can't answer Your Honor's question of whether they 9 know what they are getting themselves into. I would hope that 10 by, again, a combination, or Mr. Clemente and I speaking to 11 them or Your Honor speaking to them, they would understand.
12 And if they are willing to do it -- obviously, Highland is a 13 high-profile case; I know judges, sitting judges, often like 14 to help out their brethren who are sitting on the bench. So 15 if they are ready and able to do it, we'd think we'll have 16 lucked out, and we think they would be great to aid the 17 process.

18 If for some reason they don't really appreciate or if 19 Judge Jones doesn't appreciate what it is, then we can go back
20 to square one, and, you know, I'm sure find other people as 21 well. But we'd like to sort of give it a shot.

22 THE COURT: Okay.

23 MR. BJORK: Your Honor?

24 THE COURT: Yes?

25 MR. BJORK: May I be heard? This is Jeff Bjork with

1 California, not New York. New York, you know, has quarantined
2 --

3 MR. POMERANTZ: Yes.

4 THE COURT: -- people traveling from Texas. Well,
5 and remind me: August 25th. That was just sort of an
6 internal target date you all had created?

7 MR. POMERANTZ: Yeah. It was around, you know,
8 again, the end of August, you know, that we'd, you know, do
9 around that time.

10 THE COURT: Uh-huh. All right. You know, I'm -- 11 I've been talking to lawyers in different cases, where the 12 topic of mediation is being discussed, about more and more 13 mediators, and this is private mediators, are becoming very 14 adept with Zoom mediation. And what I thought was noteworthy
15 -- I hadn't thought through this, you know. I thought, well,
16 you can do mediation like this. You know, if you can do court
17 by video, why can't you do mediation by video, what's the big 18 deal? But there are private mediators who apparently have 19 become every adept very fast at having these separate caucus
20 rooms, okay? So when you have mediation involving, you know,
21 12 different constituencies, you know, the mediator will close
22 out all the other conference rooms and go to these three 23 people, and then close that out and go to these eight people
24 in this other room. And it just really hadn't occurred to me
25 that, oh, if you're not live and in person, how do you that,

1 you know, the going back and forth from room to room? And 2 they've got some tricks worked out where some of them are 3 doing that. And I just don't know that any sitting judges are 4 going to have that all worked out.

5 I have a couple of names in mind. And I have not talked
6 to either of these folks, but I had thought of these people.
7 You know, they're going to cost you money. They're not going 8 to be free mediators like Judge Jones and Judge Isgur. But 9 two people. One, I had thought of retired Judge Jim Peck. I
10 don't know if he has availability, or, you know, a conflict or 11 anything like that, but he's someone I happened to have gone
12 to baby judge school with back in 2006, and, you know, have 13 somewhat of a friendship with him. And I thought of him
14 because not only does he have a personality that I think might 15 fit this situation, but, as you know if you ever had a case
16 with him, I mean, he's just so very smart. You know, he dealt 17 -- handled the Lehman case. You know, he's not going to be -- 18 he'll be a very quick study, is what I'm thinking, as far as 19 whatever factual background he would need to assemble to get 20 up to speed.

21 And, again, I just worry -- and I'm going to get on the 22 phone and talk to Judge Jones and Judge Isgur -- but I'm just 23 really worried if they will devote the amount of time for this 24 to have a meaningful shot at settling.

25 Another name I thought of is a lawyer in Houston who was

1 at Weil Gotshal many years, Sylvia Mayer. I don't know if any 2 of you know her, but she pretty much does mediation and
3 arbitration full-time now, and she is one of the people I am
4 aware has mastered this Zoom separate conference rooms. So,
5 once again, you know, a very quick study, I think, my 6 impression from past dealings with her.

7 There may be many other names we could add to that list,
8 but you might want to all kind of talk offline about those as 9 well.

10 But here's what I want to do.

11 (Audio interruption.)

12 THE COURT: Was someone wanting to speak up?

13 Okay. I am going to think on this more between now and 14 the 14th. And, again, I'm going to be reaching out to Isgur
15 and Jones, and might reach out to Jim Peck and Sylvia Mayer as 16 well, just to have a lot of options out there. And then we'll 17 talk on the 14th about what my research has revealed in 18 talking to these folks.

19 So, everyone, just let's continue to think on this 20 mediation thing. But, again, I want this to be meaningful.
21 I'm very worried that, you know, if all you get is one day,
22 even a long day, with these folks, that it's just not at all 23 realistic that there would be a chance at settling. So I've 24 really got to think on this.

25 As far as the motions before the Court, I'm going to grant

1 nothing else, we'll go ahead and adjourn for today. And I'll 2 keep -- if there's anything worthwhile to report on the 3 mediation front before we have our hearing on the 14th, I'll 4 have my courtroom deputy reach out to all counsel by email and 5 let you know. Okay? All right.

6 MR. POMERANTZ: Thank you very much, Your Honor.

7 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Thank you. We stand adjourned.

9 THE CLERK: All rise.

1 face-to-face mediation right now.

2 But on the topic of mediation, you know, I've heard some
3 things that, you know, we all know, but I've heard some things
4 from Mr. Seery that are important to stress today. This isn't 5 the type of case that needs to be in bankruptcy for months and 6 months and months and months. Okay? We have the issue of the 7 professional fees accruing, of course, like every case. But 8 we have a company where -- it's a strange fit for bankruptcy,
9 right, this kind of company. And it's so dependent on people
10 to provide value. And people can bolt. You know, people can 11 get weary of the bankruptcy and want to be somewhere else
12 where that taint is not there in the marketplace.

13 The issue of the UCC protocols was brought up by Mr.
14 Seery, and I know that is something that is going to be 15 cumbersome, you know, for this company to be in bankruptcy
16 long-term.

17 So, I want to go to Mr. Seery, and it may be unusual for 18 me to reach out to you and ask this, but I want to hear from 19 you: Do you think mediation is a waste-of-time pipe dream,
20 for lack of a better term? I really want mediation to happen,
21 because I don't know how we quickly get a confirmed plan if we 22 have, well, the voting issue, for one, right? We have to, at 23 a minimum, figure out what is UBS's voting claim. What's its 24 claim for voting purposes? What is Acis's claim for voting
25 purposes? A looming, huge issue in my mind. So I feel like

1 the field, but somebody who's got the opportunity and time to
2 do it. And then, if it's unsuccessful, then, as Mr. Pomerantz
3 and Ms. Patel alluded to, then perhaps we may need some 4 judicial help to move those goal lines a little bit.

5 But I do think that mediation -- and I apologize for the 6 length of my answer -- could be a very helpful way to do it,
7 provided we get there quickly.

8 THE COURT: All right. I guess my other question I
9 wanted your view on is structure. You know, when someone --
10 Mr. Pomerantz, I think -- told me that he or others had 11 reached out to our judges in Houston, Judge Jones and Judge
12 Isgur, my initial reaction -- and, frankly, my continued
13 thought on that -- is they just don't have meaningful time,
14 because I don't think one day of cajoling is going to be 15 enough to get -- you know, you're a billion dollars apart on 16 UBS, right? The Debtor, I guess, thinks zero is the amount of 17 their claim, and UBS thinks it's a billion, and it's been 18 litigated for 11 years. And then I personally know, you know,
19 how Acis feels about its positions.

20 So, anyway, what I'm getting at is structure. I in some 21 ways think what we need here is sort of a master statesman-
22 type person who would spend meaningful time, not just a day or 23 two, but days or even weeks trying to reach a grand 24 compromise.

25 On the other hand, in my experience -- I've never done

1 that in a case as judge. But as a lawyer, I felt like that
2 kind of person can hijack a case, and we don't need that here.
3 We have wonderful professionals, a wonderful Board, a
4 wonderful CEO. We don't need that kind of help, I worry.

5 So, I guess where I'm evolving, you know, we've got the 6 two-sitting-judge option that would be free mediators that 7 could give you a day or two. Maybe. And then we have kind of 8 the master statesman who might be in there for weeks, trying 9 to help you reach a grand compromise.

10 Another option, I think, is one or two mediators who just 11 zero in, you know, on the UBS claim versus -- and the Acis
12 claim. And I have a couple of private mediators in mind that 13 have very good video capabilities to have a sophisticated
14 video mediation.

15 So, all of this rambling to say, Do you think we need to 16 just zero in on Acis and UBS and maybe have one or two people
17 to do formal video mediation with those two parties, or do we 18 need sort of more of a grand pooh-bah, grand compromise-type 19 person?

20 MR. SEERY: My view, Your Honor, is that we should 21 focus on the claims, but they're not just going to be two-
22 party, because we do have other active constituents. I think 23 Redeemer, with their party in interest status, is going to 24 want to be part of it.

25 I think if we can focus on those, we have the

1 professionals to help drive the grander bargain that I've 2 alluded to in some of those discussions we've been having. So
3 they haven't progressed as far as I would like, but they have 4 progressed. We do need the bottom line number for where 5 claims are going to come out. But also that will help frame a 6 little bit as to what parties expect in terms of distributions
7 on their claims.

8 And I think the reason that we had some impetus behind a
9 sitting judge -- frankly, I didn't know that sitting judges
10 couldn't be paid. I think that's -- there should be a 11 standard rate, because we shouldn't take people's time for 12 free in these cases, and I know judges work extremely hard and 13 if they're going to put in extra time, then they should maybe
14 be compensated, but that's a whole different issue.

15 I don't think we should get too hung up on the cost. We 16 are -- the costs of this case are extremely high, and we are,
17 with best intents, sometimes getting ourselves wrapped up in 18 things that should be, I think, more swiftly and economically
19 dealt with and dispatched.

20 So, if we can get a good mediator, and I think the reason
21 folks think about a judge is -- a sitting judge, it's not just 22 the vast experience that folks -- judges like yourself have,
23 Your Honor, and in particular with these issues, but also the 24 requirement that all the participants, notwithstanding the 25 professionals and -- that you see here, the requirement that

1 all the participants know that they're dealing with a sitting
2 judge, there's a certain decorum that's required. But that, I
3 think we get anyway. But there's also a -- there's less
4 willingness to go to the furthest reaches of your argument
5 when you have someone who's on the bench who sees those types
6 of positions taken frequently and can dispatch with them more
7 readily.

8 So, I think there are a number of individuals that I've 9 dealt with in the past who would have the ability, the 10 gravitas, for lack of a better term, to be able to help push
11 the parties in the right direction. And I think it's a matter
12 of finding somebody, as you said, with both the capabilities,
13 which we'll find, but also the capacity in terms of the time
14 to do it. And then, in the video age, maybe some facility in 15 being able to make that happen both rapidly and effectively on 16 screen.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.
19 And I'd just make a couple of comments.

20 THE COURT: Okay.

21 MR. POMERANTZ: You know, as Mr. Seery said, we were 22 predisposed towards a sitting judge. And while we did share
23 the same concerns about the timing of Judge Jones and Isgur,
24 we understand you've probably been in communication with them,
25 and if that's not going to work, we appreciate it. We want

1 this mediation to be effective and we want someone to spend
2 the time with it. And if you didn't feel that they, you know,
3 could commit to that, we totally appreciate that.

4 We thought long and hard about the people that you
5 identified at the last hearing, former Judge Peck and Sylvia
6 Mayer. We've done our diligence. The Debtor would be willing 7 to mediate before Sylvia Mayer. We think that, based upon our 8 diligence, the people we've spoken to, that she, if she 9 otherwise had the time and the abil... the time to devote to 10 it, that being a former big-firm lawyer in permanent practice
11 now as a mediator, that the Debtor would find her acceptable.

12 THE COURT: All right. Does anyone else wish to 13 comment? Because I have a very positive view of Sylvia Mayer, 14 and certainly her video capabilities, I think, are far and 15 away better than a few other people I've chatted with.

16 MS. PATEL: Your Honor?

17 MR. CLEMENTS: Your Honor? Oh, I'm sorry.

18 MS. PATEL: Go ahead.

19 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, --

20 THE COURT: Not that I would ever, you know, put that 21 ahead of, you know, overall abilities, but it just is an added
22 plus, a huge plus right now during COVID.

23 Go ahead.

24 MR. CLEMENTE: Your Honor, Matt Clemente on behalf of 25 the Committee. Just a couple observations, building a little

1 bit on what Mr. Seery said.

2 We had consensus among the Committee around Judge Isgur
3 and Judge Jones. I think the view, the consensus view -- and,
4 again, I use the word consensus and not unanimity because I
5 want Your Honor to understand that -- is that having a sitting
6 judge, ideally, given the personalities as you've expressed
7 and I think as Mr. Seery has expressed, provides the best
8 possibility for a successful mediation. It may not be that 9 overlord that spends three weeks, but, you know, it is a 10 strong personality that -- not that any of the names that have 11 been raised aren't tremendously to be respected, but that 12 would be respected by all of the parties simply by the fact
13 that they're a sitting judge.

14 With that said, Your Honor, and, again, the speed. Again, 15 I don't have unanimity from the Committee, but there is 16 consensus to see if Sitting Judge Green from the Southern 17 District of New York would have the time and the capability to 18 spend. And I know Your Honor has concerns about the time. I 19 think Judge Isgur and Judge Jones occupy a special place in 20 terms of how busy they are, but at least among the Committee
21 members, there's been discussion that that may be a suitable
22 approach in terms of identifying a mediator and accomplishing
23 the objectives of having a very strong mediation, mediator, on 24 a timely basis, that has the best possibility of success.

25 That being said, Your Honor, based on what Mr. Pomerantz

1 said, if Mr. Green is not acceptable or if Your Honor doesn't 2 wish for us to go in that direction, I do have consensus among 3 the Committee members to move forward with Ms. Mayer as 4 mediator.

5 So, a little -- maybe a little convoluted in my comments
6 there, Your Honor, but the main thrust is I think there is 7 consensus among the Committee to consider a sitting judge, and 8 Judge Green would be someone who would be satisfactory. And 9 if he's not acceptable, or I should say acceptable but not 10 able to do it, Ms. Mayer would be acceptable to the Committee.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, let me put this out
12 there. I talked on a no-names basis with Ms. Mayer last 13 Friday. And it was actually more in the nature of making 14 inquiries about how an organization she's connected with, the 15 AAA -- you've heard of the American Arbitration Association;
16 they, of course, do mediation -- what their experience and 17 capabilities were with many, many parties and video mediation.
18 And as you might guess, they have a lot of experience already 19 -- you know, a number well in excess of a hundred; I can't 20 remember -- of doing video mediations with many parties and 21 having the different constituencies in this caucus room and 22 that caucus room. And, very importantly, having lots of IT
23 staff to give instructions, to give help, to, you know, tackle
24 technology problems.

25 But in that discussion, I learned that there is a panel

1 that AAA has put together of 12 mediators that have bankruptcy
2 expertise. And, of course, Sylvia Mayer is one of those
3 people. But Retired Bankruptcy Judge Gropper -- is it Groper
4 or Gropper from the Southern District of New York? I always 5 forget which way he pronounces his name. Anyway, he is on 6 that. He is on that panel of 12.

7 Mr. Seery, you're grinning like you want to say something
8 about this.

9 MR. SEERY: No. Only on the Gropper/Groper, because 10 there's a professional that I know that is similarly named,
11 and I believe -- and I believe Judge Groper -- I may have it
12 wrong, but I think it's -- it's Judge Groper and Dan Gropper.
13 But that's the best I --

14 MR. NEIER: It's Dan Groper and Judge Gropper. I
15 actually had a mediation with the two of them when they argued 16 about the pronunciation of their name.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Well, Gropper. So we -- it's 18 Gropper. Okay.

19 A VOICE: Yes.

20 THE COURT: My point was, without -- I've not talked 21 to him at all. And by the way, I haven't personally reached
22 out to Jim Peck, but we'll stop that discussion about him.
23 But after getting off the call with Sylvia Mayer and a couple
24 of other people at the AAA Friday, I put together in my brain,
25 maybe we could have a Sylvia Mayer/Allan Gropper tag team, two

1 mediators. Okay? I don't know how that would affect the 2 cost, but that might be the way to go in such a complex case.
3 You know, maybe they could divvy up among themselves. One
4 would be the primary mediator on Acis, one would be the 5 primary mediator on UBS, but they would both work together.

6 If you all want to think on that, digest that a little,
7 and we, you know, decide definitely next week on the 21st, we
8 could do that. Or we could just all say, yeah, that's a good
9 game plan, and I can get on the phone after this. Or it
10 actually may be tomorrow, because I have a terrible hearing
11 that I've got to prepare for at 9:30 in the morning tomorrow.
12 It may be tomorrow.

13 But do people want to let that soak in a little bit, or 14 shall -- I mean, --

15 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, this is Jeff Pomerantz.

16 THE COURT: -- frankly, I can order it either way. I 17 can order it. But I just really want to be conciliatory to 18 the parties who are owed the money and have to pay the money,
19 if you want to think on it some.

20 MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, it's Jeff Pomerantz.
21 Having my newly-minted CEO on the phone, Mr. Seery, I would 22 ask him, and if he says that it would be okay, then it would 23 be okay with me.

24 MR. SEERY: Be fine with me.

25 THE COURT: Okay.

1 yesterday counsel for Mr. Dondero filed a joinder in the 2 Debtors' objection to Acis's claim. So, again, just thinking
3 about this in the context of mediation, I think, with that 4 joinder, they will be a necessary party. So, going back to 5 Mr. Seery's point, this is not just --

6 THE COURT: Oh, absolutely. Mr. Dondero is --

7 MS. PATEL: -- a two-party --

8 THE COURT: -- going to be a required party in 9 mediation. Absolutely. So, --

10 MS. PATEL: Thank you, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: All right. Well, if there's nothing
12 further, we'll see you on the 21st. And, again, my courtroom
13 deputy may be reaching out before then if we've got things
14 nailed down on mediation.

GLOBAL NOTES TO POST CONFIRMATION REPORT

The Reorganized Debtor has filed the attached post-confirmation report (the “PCR”) in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division (the “Court”), on behalf of debtor Highland Capital Management, L.P., Case No. 19-34054 (SGJ) (the “Bankruptcy Case”). The Reorganized Debtor prepared the PCR with the assistance of the Reorganized Debtor’s employees, advisors, and professionals. The PCR was prepared solely for the purpose of complying with the post-confirmation quarterly reporting requirements established by the United States Trustee Program (see <https://www.justice.gov/ust/chapter-11-operating-reports>). The PCR should not be relied upon by any persons for any information in connection with current or future financial conditions or events relating to the Reorganized Debtor or its estate.

The financial information contained in the PCR is preliminary, unaudited, limited in scope, and is not prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America nor in accordance with other applicable non-bankruptcy law. In preparing the PCR, the Reorganized Debtor relied on financial data from the books and records available to it at the time of such preparation, as well as certain filings on the docket in the Bankruptcy Case. Although the Reorganized Debtor made commercially reasonable efforts to ensure the accuracy and completeness of the PCR, inadvertent errors or omissions may exist. The Reorganized Debtor reserves the right to amend and supplement the PCR as may be necessary or appropriate.

Part 2: Preconfirmation Professional Fees and Expenses

In Section A of the PCR, the Reorganized Debtor listed the bankruptcy related professionals employed in connection with the Bankruptcy Case.

In Section B of the PCR, the Reorganized Debtor listed non-bankruptcy professionals, those that would have been retained absent the Bankruptcy Case, and the ordinary course professionals (“OCP”). Hunton Andrews Kurth LLP (“Hunton”) and Wilmer Cutler Pickering Hale and Dorr

LLP (“Wilmer Hale”) were originally ordinary course professionals but were later employed professionals. The amounts listed for Hunton and Wilmer Hale include the OCP payments and employed professional payments.

In Section C of the PCR, the Reorganized Debtor totals all payments included in Sections A and B, along with payments made to professional employed by the official committee of unsecured creditors (the “Committee”).

The approved current quarter, approved cumulative, and paid cumulative will have the same amount listed due to approval and payment of final fee applications.

Part 3: Recoveries of the Holders of Claims and Interests under Confirmed Plan

The payments made to holders of General Unsecured Claims were disbursed from the Claimant Trust, but for presentation purposes, have been included in Part 3 of the post-confirmation report for the Reorganized Debtor.

The presentation contained in this PCR does not reflect the material and necessary reserves that will be taken in accordance with Reorganized Debtor’s governing documents and the Plan.

The Debtor reserves all right to object to any claim in accordance with the terms of the Plan.

1. The parties identified on Exhibit A annexed hereto (each, a “Party” and collectively, the “Parties”) are directed to participate in a mediation (the “Mediation”) to be conducted by former Judge Layn Phillips and Mr. Greg Danilow of Phillips ADR Enterprises, P.C. (together, the “Mediator”) pursuant to the terms of this Order. Each Party shall designate a client representative with authority to settle on behalf of the respective Party and who will attend the Mediation and must continue participating in the Mediation as requested by the Mediator.

2. Subject to the terms of this Order, the Mediator shall determine the structure of the Mediation and which Parties should be invited or required to participate in any particular

Mediation session depending upon the content of such session. The Parties acknowledge that the Mediator may have ex parte communications with one or more Parties prior to or during the course of the Mediation.

3. The Dondero Parties, on the one hand, and the Highland Parties, on the other hand, shall each timely pay one-half of the costs and expenses related to the Mediator and the Mediation as and when required by the Mediator.

4. Each of the Parties and their client representatives will participate in the Mediation in good faith.

5. The Mediator may request information from any Party but cannot compel any Party to provide any information.

6. The Mediation shall be completed within 90 days of the entry of this Order. Within five (5) business days after the conclusion of the Mediation, the Mediator will file a report with the Court stating only whether a settlement, in whole or in part, has been reached (the “Report”).

7. The following matters shall be stayed (collectively, the “Stayed Matters”) until the Mediator files his Report:

- Highland Capital Management L.P.’s Motion for (A) Bad Faith Finding and (B) Attorneys’ Fees Against NexPoint Real Estate Partners LLC (f/k/a HCRC Partners, LLC) in Connection with Proof of Claim 146 [Dkt. 3851];
- The Dugaboy Investment Trust’s (“Dugaboy”) and HMIT’s Complaint to (I) Compel Disclosures about the Assets of the Highland Claimant Trust and (II) Determine (A) Relative Value of Those Assets, and (B) Nature of Plaintiffs’ Interests in the Claimant Trust [Adv. Pro. No. 23-03038, Dkt. 1]; and
- Dugaboy’s Motion to Preserve Evidence and Compel Forensic Imaging of James P. Seery, Jr.’s iPhone [Dkt. 3802].

8. Unless the Parties jointly otherwise agree in writing, other than the Stayed Matters, no other contested matter, motion, adversary proceeding, action, or proceeding in this or any other court shall be stayed or suspended as a result of this Order. Unless the Parties jointly agree in writing, this Order shall not be (a) filed with, or disclosed to, any court other than the this Court; or (b) used or relied upon by any Party to seek a stay, suspension, or delay of any litigation pending outside of the this Court.

9. If the Mediation does not result in the dismissal with prejudice of any of the Stayed Matters, then counsel for the Parties in each applicable Stayed Matter shall (a) confer in good faith to adopt a new scheduling order, and (b) if they are unable to jointly adopt a new scheduling order, seek a status conference with the Court to be conducted within 14 days of the Mediator's filing of the Report or as soon thereafter as this Court is available.

10. Regardless of the outcome of the Mediation, it is the order of this Court that the contents of the Mediation, including any statements or representations made by the Mediator, any Party, or any client representative (or attorney or agent of a client representative), agent, or attorney of a Party during the course of the Mediation, are confidential and privileged. Unless permitted or required by applicable law, none of the Parties, their client representatives (or attorney or agent of a client representative), agents, or attorneys, or the Mediator, may reveal such information to any non-party or to any court, including, without limitation, in any pleadings or submissions, and none may be examined in any judicial or administrative proceeding (or any discovery relating to such a proceeding) regarding anything they may have said, seen, or heard during the course of the Mediation. No term sheet or other document or draft thereof prepared in the course of the Mediation will ever be the subject of discovery nor will such documents ever be admissible at any trial. "In the course of the mediation" includes the Mediation sessions themselves, as well as materials submitted to the Mediator in advance of or during the Mediation, verbal or written communications with the Mediator (or including the Mediator) before or after the Mediation sessions, and communications among the Parties specifically denominated as “in the course of mediation” and memorialized as such via electronic mail or otherwise among the Parties contemporaneously or in advance of that communication. Without limiting any provision of this Order, all communications occurring, and information exchanged, in the course of the Mediation will be entitled to all protections applicable under Federal Rule of Evidence 408 or any other protections afforded to settlement and compromise communications under other applicable law.

11. Except as specifically set forth herein, all relief requested in the Mediation Motion is DENIED.

12. The Court shall retain jurisdiction to hear and determine all matters and disputes arising from or related to the implementation, interpretation, or enforcement of this Order.
