I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

All right. Let me give you some clue of when I'm going to be able to rule. I've been glancing at my email in hopes that something set tomorrow would go away, but that's not happening. I've got a hearing that I've been told will take all day tomorrow on a case involving a half-built hotel, luxury hotel in Palm Springs, California. So I have to spend the next I don't know how long getting ready for that hearing tomorrow, and then I have what looks like a full day of hearings Thursday, including you people coming back on something.

MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I was going to address that. We have Dugaboy's motion to enforce compliance on the 2015(3) reports.

THE COURT: That's what it was.

MR. POMERANTZ: Since we haven't gotten to the motion to modify the Seery order, my suggestion would be we use that time -- of course, Dugaboy, I'm not sure if they're on the phone. They're not here. I'm not sure that's time sensitive. But if Your Honor wanted to have a hearing on that motion, which was contemplated to take place today, the Debtor would be okay having that motion heard on Thursday, perhaps by WebEx, unless Your Honor wants us to stay here, which we would if you do, and then reschedule the 2015(3) motion.

But again, that wasn't my motion. It's Dugaboy's. I'm not sure Mr. Draper is on. But we obviously have some calendar issues.

MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor, just to complete it, I think also on Thursday the Court is supposed to hear HCRE and Highland Capital Management Services motions for leave to amend their complaint in the promissory note litigation against each of them. I think that's also on the calendar for Thursday. I don't expect that -- I hope that doesn't take very long, but that's also, I believe, on the calendar.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Draper, are you out there?

MR. PHILLIPS: I didn't see him on the list, Your Honor. I was just looking. But --

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Well, --

MR. PHILLIPS: What is the question? I can send him a text real quick.

THE COURT: Well, just have -- if you all could follow up with Traci Ellison, my courtroom deputy, tomorrow, I am perfectly happy to continue the motion to modify the Seery order to Thursday morning at 9:30 if Draper is willing to continue the 2015 motion.

MR. POMERANTZ: I know, if I was him, my first question would be is what times does the Court have available? We could work that through Ms. Ellison.

THE COURT: Yes. And I'm just letting you know -- talk to her. Okay. Number one, I'll do these by video, okay? WebEx. But I know I don't have any time Wednesday, and Thursday's a busy day.

We have court Friday morning at 9:30 in--?

THE CLERK: Cici's Pizza.

THE COURT: Cici's Pizza? That's not going to take very long, right?

THE CLERK: I don't think so.

THE COURT: I can potentially do something, you know, 10:00 o'clock Friday morning. Other than that, then you've got to wait a while, because I have a seven-day trial, live human beings in the courtroom starting next Monday. And so my point is mainly to tell you, as much as I would like to rule very, very fast, it's going to be, it looks like, a couple of weeks or so before I can give you a ruling on this.

MR. BRIDGES: Your Honor?

THE COURT: Yes?

MR. BRIDGES: May I? It's our motion. I would propose, if counsel would agree, that we just submit it on the papers.

THE COURT: Everybody good with that? I'm certainly good with that.

MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I'd like there to be argument. I have a lengthy argument. I think I'd like to address a number of the things that -- Mr. Bridges made his argument today. Okay?

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. POMERANTZ: His deck, it was entitled, Motion to Modify.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. POMERANTZ: So that's very nice of him, but I would like to make my argument.

THE COURT: Okay. Let's try to nail this down right now. Friday at 10:00 o'clock, can we do the oral argument WebEx?

MR. POMERANTZ: On that one, yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: On that one? Everybody good? Okay. So we'll come back Friday, 10:00 o'clock, WebEx, for that motion.

You know, I'm going to say a couple of things where -- I've leaned toward thinking this is a pretty simple motion before me, the motion for contempt, but when people offer into evidence documents, I read your documents. Okay? That's my duty. And so I have however many exhibits I admitted today that I am going to look at and see how they sway me one way or another on this issue. But I will tell you that my gut is there has been contempt of court. Okay? I don't see anything ambiguous at all about Paragraph 5 of my July 16th, 2020 order. Somebody may think I overreached, but if that was the case, someone should have argued at the time I was overreaching. Someone should have appealed the order. And I think it's a Shoaf/Espinosa problem at this point for anyone to argue about the enforceability of that order.

I think there's nothing ambiguous in the wording. Pursue is not ambiguous. There's nothing confusing about the requirement that any entity who wanted to sue or pursue a claim, you know, commence claim, pursue a claim against Mr. Seery, had to come to the Bankruptcy Court. Standard-fare gatekeeping order.

So what I'm going to be looking at is, do these documents I admitted into evidence change my view on that, and then the harder question is who of the alleged contemnors am I going to think it's clear and convincing committed contempt and -- who are the contemnors, and then, of course, what are the damages? Coercive or compensatory damages?

So, again, you know how I feel, to the extent that's helpful in your planning purposes. I'm pretty convinced contempt of court has occurred. It's just a matter of who's a contemnor and what are the damages.

I'll say a couple of remaining things. I continue to be frustrated, I think was the word people used, about unproductive ways we all spend our time. I am going to spend I don't know how many more hours drafting another ruling on a contempt motion, and attorneys' fees are through the roof. And, you know, I dangled out there a question I couldn't resist about MGM.

And I will tell you, I mean, someone mentioned about their stomach aching. Personal story, I could hardly sleep the night it became public about the Amazon purchase, because, silly me, maybe, I'm thinking game-changer. This is such potentially a windfall, an economic windfall. Maybe this could be the impetus to make everyone get in a room and say look, we've got this wonderful windfall of money. I don't know how much is owned directly or indirectly by the Debtor of MGM stock. I don't know how much the Debtor manages. I don't know how much, you know, some other entity. I know it's probably spread out in many different entities. But I know, I know because I listen, that one or more of the Highland-managed CLOs has some of this, and I think I read -- remember that HCLOF, which now Highland owns more than 50 percent of, has some of this stock. Right?

MR. DONDERO: Do you want to know what happened?

THE COURT: Oh.

A VOICE: No.

THE COURT: Well, okay. So, you know, I can understand I'm getting into maybe uncomfortable territory in a public proceeding, so I'll stop.

But, you know, do we need to set up a status conference? Do you all need to like talk about this? Am I just being naïve? Couldn't this be a game-changer, where maybe it would give new incentive to --

MR. POMERANTZ: Your Honor, I would -- he's been pretty quiet through the whole hearing, Mr. Clemente. He has the Committee, that a couple of people you've heard have sold claims. They're now held by other parties.

You know, the door is always open. I don't think this is going to be game-changer, unfortunately. We would like nothing more, as Debtor's counsel. We don't enjoy coming to Your Honor for contempt hearings.

Mr. Clemente said that it was productive. We would sure participate. But right now, we have creditors who are very angry that millions and millions of dollars have been spent on really a waste of time and a waste of the Court's time and a waste of everyone's time and eating into the creditors' money. So I would ask Mr. Clemente to address that.

MR. CLEMENTE: I'm here.

THE COURT: Yes, he's way in the back, hoping to be ignored.

MR. CLEMENTE: It's too cold, Your Honor, where I was sitting. For the record, Your Honor, --

THE COURT: I noticed some entity called Muck Holdings bought HarbourVest, according to the docket.

MR. CLEMENTE: That's correct. Muck Holdings bought HarbourVest, and I believe also the Acis claim, and then there's a different entity that bought the Redeemer claim.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: So, as we mentioned in our -- one of our pleadings, I think it was the retention pleading for Teneo, the Committee consists of two members currently, Meta-e and UBS.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: Obviously, Your Honor just approved the UBS settlement recently. The U.S. Trustee is aware of the make-up of the Committee, and is currently comfortable with the Committee maintaining a two-person membership at this point.

In terms of whether the MGM transaction is a game-changer, we've not yet seen, to Your Honor's point, how all of that rolls up through the various interests that the Debtor may or -- you know, may have --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. CLEMENTE: -- that would be implicated by the MGM transaction. If ultimately the MGM transaction has to actually occur, right? I mean, so, you know, just based on what I read in the public documents, we're not sure when that transaction may actually happen. But obviously it's a good thing for the Debtor's estate because it's going to recognize value for the estate.

In terms of whether it ultimately changes how Mr. Dondero, you know, wishes to proceed, that's entirely up to him, Your Honor. But we don't see it as something at this point that would suggest that there's an overall back to let's talk about a pot plan because of where the MGM transaction might ultimately come out.

So I don't know if that's helpful to Your Honor, but those are -- that's my perspective.

THE COURT: Well, and I'm not trying to, you know, push a pot plan on anyone.

MR. CLEMENTE: No, I understand.

THE COURT: I'm just saying it looked like an economic windfall. I just -- I don't know how much is Highland versus other entities in the so-called byzantine complex, but, gosh, I just hoped that there might be something there to change the dynamic of, you know, lawsuit, lawsuit, lawsuit, lawsuit, motion for contempt, motion for contempt.

MR. CLEMENTE: Agreed, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: And like I said, it was a very positive development obviously for the creditors for the Debtor. But whether it's the game-changer that Your Honor would envision, I'm not sure that I can suggest at this point that it is.

I think that, you know, obviously, we don't like to see these lawsuits continue to be filed. That's the whole point of the gatekeeper order, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: I didn't say anything during the hearing, but obviously the January 9th order, as Your Honor has said many times, was in the context of a trustee being appointed.

THE COURT: Right. Right.

MR. CLEMENTE: Right? So, and the July 16th order, very similar vein, it's an outshoot of that. In fact, it was contemplated in the January 9th settlement that a CEO could be appointed.

So I think, again, it's just -- it's important, the context in which that January 9th order came into play, for this very reason, so we could avoid this type of litigation, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. CLEMENTE: And so again, I didn't -- I obviously didn't rise to mention that during the hearing, but Your Honor is already aware of that. I didn't need to remind Your Honor of that.

THE COURT: Uh-huh. Okay.

MR. CLEMENTE: Anything else for me, Your Honor?

THE COURT: No. Thank you.

MR. CLEMENTE: Okay, then, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sorry I picked on you. But, all right. Well, again, I hope the message has landed in the way I hope will matter, and that is I'm going to look at your documents but I feel very strongly that, unless there's something in there that, whoa, is somehow eye-opening, I'm going to find contempt of court. It's just a matter of who and what the damages are. There's just not a thing in the world ambiguous about Paragraph 5 of the July 9th, 2020 order. So I'll get to it as soon as we humanly can get to it.

Mr. Morris, anything else?

MR. MORRIS: Nothing. No, thank you.

THE COURT: I guess I'll see you Thursday on the WebEx. Thank you.

THE CLERK: All rise.

DALLAS, TEXAS - JUNE 8, 2023 - 9:42 A.M.

THE CLERK: All rise. United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas, Dallas Division, is now in session, The Honorable Stacey Jernigan presiding.

THE COURT: Good morning. Please be seated. All right. We are here this morning for a setting in Highland. This is on a motion of Hunter Mountain for leave to file an adversary proceeding. I will start out by getting appearances from lawyers in the courtroom.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. Sawnie McEntire along with my partner Roger McCleary and Tim Miller on behalf of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, Ltd.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, for the Reorganized Highland, for the Highland Claimant Trust. I'm joined by Mr. Pomerantz, Mr. Demo, and Ms. Winograd.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. STANCIL: Good morning, Your Honor. Mark Stancil from Willkie Farr & Gallagher for Mr. Seery. I'm joined by my colleague Josh Levy.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. MCILWAIN: Good morning, Your Honor. Brent McIlwain from Holland & Knight here for Muck Holding, LLC, Jessup Holdings, LLC, Farallon Capital Management, LLC, and Stonehill Capital Management, LLC.

THE COURT: Thank you. All right. Is that all of our lawyer appearances? I know we have observers on the WebEx, but I assume you are just observers. We scheduled this to be a live hearing for participants.

All right. Well, we had some ground rules for how this would go forward today. We, of course, have had two -- I call them hearings on what kind of hearing we're going to have. We've had two status conferences. And so our ground rules were set. Three hours of total presentation time for each the Movant and the aggregate Respondents. We also had an order regarding what discovery would or would not be allowed.

And to my surprise, there were a flurry of pleadings. We're a few minutes late getting out here because we were trying to digest what was filed late yesterday and into the night.

So I understand we have a controversy about a couple of expert witnesses who were listed on Monday on the Movants' exhibit and witness list. And I've seen a motion to exclude the expert witnesses' testimony. And I think we need to address that right off the bat. I don't want to take too much time on this, because, again, we're going to finish today, and I won't let this housekeeping matter eat into our three hours, but I want to get going. So I'll hear from Movant, Mr. McEntire.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, may --

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. STANCIL: We moved to exclude, so I would propose that my colleague, Mr. Levy, address this motion very briefly if --

THE COURT: Well, I guess --

MR. STANCIL: Or I will do as --

THE COURT: -- that actually makes sense.

MR. STANCIL: Okay.

THE COURT: I was thinking Mr. McEntire teed up the issue, but I suppose you did with the motion to exclude. So, Counsel?

MR. LEVY: Thank you, Your Honor. Josh Levy on behalf of Mr. Seery.

So, we think our papers largely speak for themselves, but two additional points we'd like to raise. In the response filed by Hunter Mountain this morning, and this is Docket Entry 3828, in Paragraph 11, they argue that this is a bench hearing on colorability, not a trial where junk science is a concern. But junk science is precisely what they're trying to introduce here. They have raised two expert witnesses, one who purports to be an expert in compensation but has no experience whatsoever in evaluating compensation, and they provide no methodology for their conclusion.

For example, they claim to have identified red flags.

They never explain what those red flags are, why they are red flags, or how they determined they were red flags. This is junk science, precisely what the Federal Rules are designed to exclude.

But that shouldn't detract from the broader procedural point that this is the first time we're hearing about expert witnesses, at 10:00 p.m. three days before the hearing. This is a trial by ambush. This motion was filed in March, we've been litigating this motion for over two months now, and this is the first time we're hearing about any expert witnesses.

As Your Honor noted, we've had multiple conferences. We've had rules setting the ground rules for this hearing. We've had orders setting the scope of discovery. But now Hunter Mountain is trying to pull a bait-and-switch. After never mentioning any experts, after obtaining orders limiting the scope of discovery, they then wait until right before the hearing to disclose their experts, ensuring that these experts are insulated from any kind of discovery and can ambush us at the hearing.

I'm happy to answer any other questions, but we believe they should be excluded and the accompanying exhibits should also be excluded.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. And the accompanying exhibits, I don't review exhibits before a trial or a hearing because I don't know what's going to be objected to and admitted. So do you want to point out, were there expert reports in the proposed exhibits?

MR. LEVY: These were charts and analyses prepared by their experts, not actual expert reports.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: In their witness and exhibit list, Hunter Mountain included several paragraphs that I guess serves as what would be their expert reports. And then it would be Exhibits 39 through 52, which consist of CVs, materials reviewed, and then what they term "data charts" prepared by their experts.

THE COURT: 39 through 52? Oh, I'm looking at the wrong exhibit notebook. Oh.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Okay. Here we go. All right. No questions at this time.

Mr. McEntire?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. May I proceed?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MCENTIRE: Again, my presentation and response is subject to our objection concerning that any evidence is being admitted for any purpose, other than what we believe is the proper standard of review. So my response and our offer of these experts is subject to that objection.

With that said, Mr. Levy's argument he just presented to the Court presupposes that my client has a duty under 9014 to provide a report, which we do not; to provide detailed disclosures, which we do not, because 9014 is specifically exempted from the scope of Rule 26. What we did, we didn't have to do. What we did, and I made the decision to provide them some disclosure and identification of who they were, their backgrounds, and --

THE COURT: Well, let me stop you.

MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

THE COURT: "What we did, we didn't have to do." The Local Rules, first of all, do require an exhibit and witness list. And --

MR. MCENTIRE: We've provided that.

THE COURT: I know. I know. But you -- I thought I heard you --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, no.

THE COURT: -- saying you didn't have to do that. You do have to do that.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, no, no.

THE COURT: But I guess what you're saying is --

MR. MCENTIRE: What we provided was more than what the Local Rules require.

THE COURT: How so?

MR. MCENTIRE: We provided CVs. We provided their backgrounds. We disclosed in the actual witness description who they were and the key components of their opinions. And we refer to their data charts. That is not something that the Local Rule requires.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, let me back up. We have our Local Rules, but then we had our two status conferences --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: -- on what the format of the hearing --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: -- would be.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: And, of course, there was extensive discussion, evidence or no evidence? What did the legal standard, colorability, require?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: And I came out in the end and said, if people want to put on witnesses, they're entitled to put on witnesses. I think there may be a mixture of a fact question and law question on colorability. So, and then I set a three-hour time limit and I said, if someone wants to depose Mr. Seery and Mr. Dondero, they can, but no more discovery other than that. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.

THE COURT: Why then did you not say, well, wait, Judge, if it's going to be evidence, we're just letting you know, in full disclosure, we might call a couple of experts, and this may impact your decision on what kind of discovery can happen. And this may impact your decision on whether three hours each side is enough.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, in fairness, I don't think we had made a final decision to actually designate any experts. And at the time, the focus was on other witnesses. But there was no exclusion, there was no limitation at all on my right to bring an expert. And the Rules are very clear. And the Court's --

THE COURT: But I specifically limited discovery, and it was on your motion. It was on your motion we set the hearing on --

MR. MCENTIRE: Actually, --

THE COURT: You know, did you need a continuance, because if we were going to have evidence, maybe you needed a continuance. And then there was a discovery issue raised.

MR. MCENTIRE: To be clear, Your Honor, I'm looking at your orders.

THE COURT: Got them in front of me.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your order of May 26, 2023. You said, You can put on your witnesses and the Court is going to rule. You made no limitations as to who the witnesses would be. Your order did not limit the scope of witnesses to simply Mr. Seery or Mr. Dondero. In fact, any suggestion that you did limit the witnesses is contrary --

THE COURT: Now, which order are you looking at?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm looking at the May 26, 2023 order, Page 51, Lines 3 through 14.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: You also stated --

THE COURT: I have -- have I entered three orders on this? I've got a May 10th order. I've got a May 22nd order.

MR. MCENTIRE: And I would also point out, Your Honor, --

THE COURT: Could you answer my question? I want to look at what you're looking at.

MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

THE COURT: Here we -- this is the one. Okay. Aha. Okay. May 26.

MR. MCENTIRE: Page 51, Lines 3 through 14.

THE COURT: I've entered three orders on what kind of hearing we're going to have. Okay. So you're looking where?

MR. MCENTIRE: Page 51, Lines 3 through 14. "You can put on your witnesses."

THE COURT: Page 51?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: Oh. You're looking at a transcript, not the order.

MR. MCENTIRE: That's right. I apologize.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah, I'm looking at the transcript from the hearing.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm looking at my order.

MR. MCENTIRE: And the order, the order also specifies no limitation at all in connection with the -- the --

THE COURT: But my order was based on what was discussed that day.

MR. MCENTIRE: And what was --

THE COURT: If you had said, hmm, Judge, if you're going to allow evidence, we may call a couple of experts, then there would have been a whole discussion about that and did I need to limit the discovery, as I did. And there would have been a whole discussion of, well, three hours, three hours each side, is that going to be enough if we have experts?

MR. MCENTIRE: The discovery ruling that you made was on my motion, and at the time I was not seeking to take any expert depositions. And you denied my request to take ample discovery. You limited my right to take only one deposition, without documents.

The issue of taking expert discovery was not even on the table. However, you made it very --

THE COURT: Well, that's my point precisely. The whole purpose of the hearing was, what kind of hearing are we going to have on June 8th?

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand. And our position --

THE COURT: We had already had one status conference on argument only versus evidence. And I allowed you all to file some briefing, which you did. And then I issued an order after the briefing, saying, I think I should allow evidence on the colorability question. I'm not forcing anyone to put on evidence, but if you want to put on evidence, you can.

And then you filed your motions and we had the next status conference on what kind of hearing we're going to have. And there was more argument: We don't think the evidence is appropriate, but if evidence is appropriate, we want you to continue the hearing to allow all kinds of discovery. I don't know what. And it was right before Memorial Day, and I hated the fact that a bunch of subpoenas were going to go out and ruin people's holidays. But there was no discussion then of, okay, but just so you know, since you have made the ruling that evidence can come in, we're going to have a couple of experts.

MR. MCENTIRE: As I've already mentioned, Your Honor, we had not made a decision to call experts at that time. We made a decision to call the experts shortly before we filed our designations.

The point here is this. The Rules do not require me to provide any more disclosure than I have. I have gone over and above the Local Rules.

If the Court believes that it would have allowed more time for this hearing, I would advise the Court that opposing counsel vehemently opposed any type of postponement or continuance. The discovery that I was requesting was discovery from fact witnesses. Experts were not at issue at that time. Experts are --

THE COURT: Because --

MR. MCENTIRE: -- at issue now.

THE COURT: -- nobody knew that experts might be called.

MR. MCENTIRE: I have a right to call experts, Your --

THE COURT: It changes the whole complexion.

MR. MCENTIRE: But I have a right to call experts, under the Rules. I have a right, a fundamental due process -- let me -- may I finish, Your Honor? A fundamental due process right to call experts. Their attempt to charge some type of Daubert challenge is nothing but a shotgun blast on the wall, having no meaning at all. At a minimum, I have a right to put the witnesses on the stand and we'll have a Daubert hearing.

If they want more time, they need to ask for it. They didn't ask for it. Their solution is to strike my experts, which is improper. It would be improper for this Court to strike my experts when they have been properly tendered under the Local Rules. They have not cited an alternative remedy.

If they want the alternative remedy, they need to ask the Court.

THE COURT: My next question is: How do you propose to get this all done in only three hours?

MR. MCENTIRE: We intend to move quickly.

THE COURT: But, see, now they, I'm guessing, prepared their case assuming there weren't going to be experts. And they, if they're good lawyers, which I know you all are, they have their script of the kind of things they were going to ask the witnesses.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, did they have a --

THE COURT: And now they've got to carve out time for two last-minute experts?

MR. MCENTIRE: They had an option. And one of the options was they could have called me up on Tuesday and asked for their depositions and I probably would have agreed.

THE COURT: I already said no depositions except Seery and Dondero.

MR. MCENTIRE: Then they could have come and filed a different kind of motion with the Court.

Their only remedy that they're seeking is a draconian one. There are other options that are more consistent with the implementation of due process here, Your Honor, not striking my experts, which were properly identified under the Local Rules.

If the Court is going to strike my experts, note our objection. We are tendering our experts. We will put -- like to put a proffer on for the Fifth Circuit or for the appellate process. But if the Court is going to strike our experts, then it needs to do so. We object because we have done everything correctly.

THE COURT: Okay. Here's another problem. I have not had time to process their motion to exclude. Beyond the procedural issues, they are saying junk science, that there's inadequate expertise on the part of I guess at least one of them regarding executive compensation. I haven't had -- they filed their motion to exclude at 4:00-something yesterday. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.

THE COURT: Now, yeah, I could have stayed up all night. I stayed up pretty late anyway, by the way. But --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, --

THE COURT: -- I haven't even had the time to process and intelligently rule on their motion --

MR. MCENTIRE: I appreciate that, and I'll respect --

THE COURT: -- as far as the --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll respect the Court's statement.

THE COURT: -- junk science argument.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll respect the Court's statement. Their process and the procedure they've adopted is improper, because if you're going to have a Daubert hearing, that's a live hearing. Or they're going to have to have evidence to support their challenge. This is simply a conclusory shotgun blast on the wall, Your Honor.

If you even want to consider a Daubert challenge, the proper procedure is to put the witnesses on the stand and have an opportunity to have a proffer of evidence and a cross-examination. That's the proper procedure. Throwing something and innuendo and rhetoric and conclusions is not a proper Daubert motion at all. The Court could deny their Daubert motion just on those grounds.

THE COURT: I'm not going to rule on a motion that I've barely had a chance to read, not to mention your response that was filed at 8:00-something this morning.

MR. MORRIS: It was.

MR. MCENTIRE: It was. Well, then the option is you need to continue the proceeding to allow the experts to take the stand.

THE COURT: Well, I know you have thought on that, but here is something I'm contemplating doing. We'll go forward with the hearing in the manner my order said we would go forward with it. My, I guess, Order #3 of my three orders. And at the end of the evidence, you can argue in closing, each of you, why we should keep the evidence open to come back another day on only the experts. But time matters. If you've all already used your three hours on each side, then are we going to come back for five minutes on each of them? I mean, I don't know.

And then, of course, I would have to, if I ruled in that way, I believe I would have to give them a chance to depose these people.

MR. MCENTIRE: I think that would be reasonable.

THE COURT: Okay. But you think you can get all of your evidence in, other than your experts, and your opening statement, if any, your closing argument, if any, in three hours?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll do my best.

THE COURT: Well, if you -- it's not a matter of -- I'm just saying this may all be an academic argument, because I'm not increasing this to more than three hours each. We've fully vetted that.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, what the Court is then doing by virtue of your ruling is that you're making me actually present my evidence in a shortened form today, two hours, two and a half hours, not knowing how -- whether or not you are actually going to allow experts.

So, without the certainty, I will have to abbreviate my entire presentation, giving them the advantage of putting more evidence on than I, in an effort to anticipate a positive ruling, which you're not prepared to provide yet. And so I'm actually being penalized.

THE COURT: Counsel, we had two status conferences on what kind of hearing we were going to have.

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.

THE COURT: Now, the fact that you had not decided your strategy for this hearing, that's not my fault. Again, we had two hearings on what kind of hearing we were going to have today. We could have fully vetted this. I could have heard about the experts, I could have decided if we were going to continue the hearing past June 8th, could have decided if we were going to allow more depositions.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, --

THE COURT: I could have fully studied the merits of the motion to exclude and decided if this is junk science or not.

MR. MCENTIRE: I would request a ruling at this time, Your Honor, on the experts. If you are not inclined to provide a ruling to me on the experts at this time, I would effectively be penalized on my time limits. I will have to set aside enough time to put the experts on, not knowing, not knowing whether you're going to give me the opportunity to do so until the end of the day. And that would be -- that would be punishment.

THE COURT: Isn't this going to be just preparing your case you would have -- I mean, going forward with your case the way you would have?

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I don't -- really don't think so. I think there's --

THE COURT: I mean, --

MR. MCENTIRE: There's a difference.

THE COURT: -- you did not prepare your witnesses and your possible cross-examination with the expectation of I'll get my two experts in?

MR. MCENTIRE: My -- of course. But the point is, then I'm going to have to set aside a half an hour or maybe even longer from my other witness preparations, not knowing whether you'll even give me that time.

THE COURT: Isn't the other side going to have to do the very same thing?

MR. MCENTIRE: No.

THE COURT: Why not? They don't know how I'm going to rule. I don't know how I'm going to rule. I have not studied the motion to exclude the way I should.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Well, Your Honor, we request a ruling now. But if the Court is not inclined to do so, please note our objection.

THE COURT: All right. I'll give the Movants the last word. And I say "Movants" plural. I'm trying to remember where I saw a joinder and when I did not. Did I see a joinder? I can't remember.

MR. MORRIS: Can we just have a moment, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

MR. MCILWAIN: Your Honor, my clients did file a joinder, but --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCILWAIN: -- I'm going to let them handle this.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Counsel?

MR. LEVY: Thank you, Your Honor. Two brief points we'd like to make. The first is on the Rules. So, Hunter Mountain is focused on Rule 26(a) regarding reports. However, Rule 26(b) applies to contested matters under Rule 9014. And as we explain in Paragraph -- we explain in our brief, that -- or, in Paragraph 19 of our brief, that under Rule 26(b) we're entitled to depose the experts.

And so we agree with Your Honor's suggestion that if there's going to be any sort of experts, then we need the opportunity to depose them. This is Rule 26(b)(4)(A), which expressly does apply to contested matters under Bankruptcy Rule 9014(b).

The second point is we agree with the approach Your Honor has proposed. We think, for today, both sides can put on their full cases without expert witnesses. Both sides can have the full three hours, which should address Hunter Mountain's concern. And if Your Honor decides at the conclusion of the hearing that expert testimony would be helpful, then we could take the opportunity to depose their experts and then come back for an additional half-hour for each side to address any expert testimony that Your Honor believes would be helpful.

THE COURT: Okay. Is your proposal that you each today would be limited to two and a half/two and a half? Or three/three, and then another hour, 30 minutes/30 minutes, if I --

MR. LEVY: Three/three.

THE COURT: -- decide to allow any experts?

MR. LEVY: Yeah. Three. Three and three for each side, the hearing contemplated by Your Honor's orders, today. And if Your Honor decides that expert testimony would be helpful, we could come back for an hour, for half an hour on each side, regarding experts.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. McEntire, what about that?

Oh, I'm sorry, did you --

MR. STANCIL: Oh, I'm sorry. Just one additional point, Your Honor. We would ask that Your Honor's ruling on the ultimate admissibility of this be limited to what they've actually put in front of us. The day for the hearing is today, so I think I'd like -- I'd suspect Your Honor would like to avoid another raft of submissions. So we would just ask that they live or die with what they've said in the way of methodology, disclosures, and the like.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. McEntire, this seems like the best of all worlds, maybe.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, it may be the best of the worlds in which we're operating.

My first position is that the experts are admissible, period. And the Rules do not require anything more than what we've already done. In fact, we've done more than we were supposed to.

THE COURT: What is your argument about 26(b)(4), which --

MR. MCCLEARY: If they want to take a deposition, they could have called me up and asked for it.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I was --

THE COURT: Wait a second. They were under a court order. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: They could have -- they could have sought --

THE COURT: They were under my order. Okay? They would have been violating my order if they had done it.

MR. STANCIL: I was also, Your Honor, I was in a --

THE COURT: Not to mention that it was --

MR. STANCIL: I was in an airplane from 9:00 a.m.

Tuesday until 9:00 p.m. Tuesday.

THE COURT: I'm surprised a lot of you got here, with the Martian atmosphere that I saw pictures of.

Yes. That's not realistic, to think that you disclose an expert on Monday for a Thursday hearing and they can call you up and --

MR. MCENTIRE: The other --

THE COURT: -- quickly put together a deposition. So, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure. The other option, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- of course, Your Honor, as I mentioned before, and I'm not going to repeat myself, is they -- there's other forms of relief they could seek. But under the circumstances, and in light of your apparent leaning on the issue, then this is the best under the circumstances that they've suggested. We'd like an hour each.

I would also point out that -- well, anyway, that's it, Your Honor. Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. So we are going to go forward as planned, three hours/three hours. No experts today. In making your closings -- well, this is kind of awkward. I'm trying to think if we really have closing arguments, when you don't know if it's -- it doesn't seem to make sense. Like, I guess we could have closing arguments if you want, subject to supplementing your closing arguments if we come back a second day with the experts. Okay?

And I'm not making a ruling today on the motion to exclude. I'm going to hear what I hear. And maybe what we'll do is I'll give you a placeholder hearing if we're going to come back on the experts. Then I'll go back and read the motion, the response, and make my ruling on are we coming back for another day of experts. Okay? Got it?

And with regard to the comment about not adding to, I think that's a fair point. You can't add new exhibits that the expert might talk about or that you might want me to consider between now and whenever the tentative day two is.

MR. MCENTIRE: Understand. We agree with that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, there is one -- one exhibit that has a small typo transcription of a number on it. So we would like to substitute for that. It's a minor detail. But I'll provide opposing counsel with that. But it's very minor.

THE COURT: You have it today, I presume?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, we have it.

THE COURT: Okay. So as long as you hand it to them today.

MR. STANCIL: No objection, Your Honor. We do -- I think someone is back at the office working on a short reply on our motion, which I assume we could file in support of -- I mean, we filed our motion. They filed an opposition. I assume we would be entitled under the Rules to file a short reply on the actual exclusion issue.

THE COURT: That is fair, but let's talk about timing. You said someone is back at the office working on it. Could you get it on file by Monday?

MR. STANCIL: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: Okay. Then that'll be allowed if it's filed by the end of the day Monday.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I'm providing a copy of Exhibit 43 to opposing counsel, which is the substitute exhibit.

And obviously, we'd like to have an opportunity to respond to what their filing is on Monday.

THE COURT: No. I mean, motion, response, reply. That's all our Rules permit. Okay? Motion, response, reply. Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Well, with that, do the parties want to make opening statements? If so, Mr. McEntire, you go first.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. We have a PowerPoint I would like to utilize, if I could.

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, before we get to that, the Plaintiff has objected to virtually every single exhibit that we have. Should we deal with the evidence first, because I don't want to refer to documents or evidence in my opening that they're objecting to. They've literally objected to every single exhibit except one, although I think they're withdrawing certain of those objections.

I don't -- I don't know if the Court has had an opportunity to see the objection that was filed to the exhibits.

THE COURT: That was what was filed like at 11:00 last night or so?

MR. MORRIS: That's right.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And so at 2:00, 3:00, 4:00, 5:00 o'clock this morning, I actually typed out a response that I'd like to hand up to the Court. But we've got to resolve the evidentiary issues before we get to this.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, --

MR. MORRIS: And I don't know what their position is going to be --

THE COURT: -- as a housekeeping matter, let's do that first. And let's start with the Movants' exhibits. Do we have any stipulations on admissibility of Movants' exhibits?

MR. MORRIS: So, if I understand correctly, Your Honor, you'd like to know if we object to any of their exhibits first?

THE COURT: Yes. And --

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: -- we'll hold --

MR. MORRIS: Because we have very limited objections.

THE COURT: Yes. We're going to keep on hold for now your exhibits to the expert-related, --

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

THE COURT: -- your objections to the expert-related ones.

MR. MORRIS: Right. I think -- I think --

THE COURT: So let's not talk about, for this moment, --

MR. MORRIS: 39 --

THE COURT: -- 39 through 52.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: But as for 1 through 38 or 53 through 80, do the Respondents have objections?

MR. LEVY: Yes, Your Honor. We have very limited objections.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: So, the three to which we object in their entirety are Exhibits 24, 25, and 76, all of which we object to on relevance grounds.

Exhibits 24 and 25 are email correspondence between counsel in an unrelated state court matter where Mr. Seery is responding to a third-party subpoena regarding the preservation of his text messages on his iPhone. This has absolutely nothing to do with whether or not the Movants have stated a colorable claim for breach of fiduciary duties.

What this appears to be is related to an entirely separate motion raised by Dugaboy regarding the preservation of Mr. Seery's iPhone. So we object to Exhibits 24 and 25 because they have simply nothing to do with the issues in this hearing.

We also object to Exhibit 76, which is a filing from two years ago in a different bankruptcy matter, from Acis, regarding an injunction in place in that -- in that plan about issues that -- that occurred before the bankruptcy was in place. So this is just an entirely different case from issues that arose many, many years ago that, again, has nothing to do with this case.

THE COURT: This was whether the Acis plan injunction barred some lawsuit?

MR. LEVY: Exactly.

THE COURT: Okay. Okay. Is that all?

MR. LEVY: We also have limited objections to certain exhibits that we think are admissible for the -- for the fact they're said, but not the truth of the matter asserted.

For example, Exhibits 1 and 2 are complaints filed in those actions. We have no objection to those coming in, but not for the truth of the matter asserted. These are advocacy pieces and pleadings. They're not actually substantive evidence.

And we would have similar -- similar objections to Exhibits 4, 6, 11, --

THE COURT: Wait. 4 is James Dondero Handwritten Notes, May 2021.

MR. LEVY: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: So, we have no objection to that coming into evidence.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. LEVY: But there are -- those are hearsay. They're not admissible standing by themselves for the truth of the matter asserted.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: And Exhibit 6 are news articles. Similarly, they're hearsay, but we have no objection to them coming in. They're admissible for the fact that they're published, but not the truth of the matter asserted.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: Exhibit 11, which is a motion filed by the Debtor. Similarly, it's for -- we have no objection to anything on the docket coming in, but anything that's an advocacy piece, like a motion as opposed to an order, we think is not admissible for the truth of the matter asserted.

And that would be a similar objection, then, for Exhibit 58, which is a complaint.

Exhibits 59, 60, and 61 are -- are letters by counsel for Mr. Dondero to the U.S. Trustee's Office. We similarly have no objection to that coming in, but not for the truth of the matter asserted.

And Exhibits 62 and 63, Exhibit 62 is an attorney declaration attaching, similarly, documents that are -- that are advocacy pieces.

And Exhibit 63 appears to be an asset chart prepared by counsel. So it would be a similar objection.

And Exhibit 66 also is a declaration attaching documents.

No objections to those coming in, but not for the truth of the matter asserted.

Exhibits 72, 73, and 74 are all -- well, 72 are press articles. 73 and 74 are briefs. We don't object to that coming in, but we object to it being admitted for the truth of the matter asserted.

And similarly, Exhibit 80 is a pleading in an SDNY bankruptcy. We have no objection to that coming in, but not for the truth of the matter asserted.

And finally, Exhibits 81, 82, 83 don't specify particular documents. They appear to largely be reservations of rights. And so we would likewise reserve our right to object once we see any specific documents --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: -- admitted under these exhibits.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. --

MR. LEVY: And I understand my colleague has an objection to Exhibit 5.

MR. MORRIS: Exhibit 5, which is the subject, I believe, of an unopposed sealing motion. That document has to do with purported restrictions on certain securities. Since it's subject to a sealing motion, I don't want to say too much more than that, other than that -- we don't think it should be admitted, because you can just see from the information on the document that it was created after the termination of a shared services agreement.

However, I'm hopeful that we can resolve the issue by simply stipulating that in December 2020 MGM was on a restricted list. What that means, what the consequences of it, the rest of it can be the subject of discussion. But if they're trying to get that document in for that particular fact, we would stipulate to it in order to resolve that dispute.

THE COURT: All right. Well, that's lots to respond to, Mr. McCleary. Why don't we start with the outright objections: 24, 25. It's apparently text messages related to Mr. Seery's iPhone. I know we've got another motion pending out there that's not set today regarding Mr. Seery's iPhone.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor. Well, as the Court is aware, we've attempted to get discovery from Mr. Seery in relation to the allegations in this lawsuit. And by the way, all of our exhibits that we're tendering are subject to our objections that this should not be an evidentiary hearing. I just want to make that clear.

THE COURT: Understood.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Thank you. So, we're not waiving that.

The Exhibits 24 and 25 are relevant to the fact that he's -- he's not preserving information that is relevant to the claims in this lawsuit. And that also is something that is a factor in the colorability of our claims in this case.

THE COURT: How?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, there is an effort, we believe, underway to not have information available for us to discover. And it reflects that they have been involved in providing -- we think supports -- providing material nonpublic information to other people that would be in his phone. And we want him to preserve it. And we think the fact that he is not is evidence that supports the colorability of our claims.

THE COURT: So, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, this --

THE COURT: No. No. I'm processing that. You're wanting the Court to receive into evidence a text that may say something like, I delete messages periodically on my phone, to support your claim that you have a colorable claim that some sort of improper insider disclosure of information and insider trading is going on? He said he had an automatic delete feature on his phone; therefore, he -- that must be evidence of a colorable claim for insider trading. That's the argument?

MR. MCENTIRE: May I add to it, supplement, Your Honor? Mr. Seery, in his deposition, indicated that he did receive a text message that he had recently reviewed from Stonehill in February of 2021. To the extent, however, that is inconsistent with the fact that he has an automatic delete button, suggesting to me that certain text messages have been selectively saved and some other messages have been not selectively saved.

THE COURT: We don't have that motion set today.

MR. MCENTIRE: This is not -- that has nothing to do with the motion. It has to do with the fact that what is being presented to the Court in response, the Respondents' argument, is a selected window, a selected picture, that is -- distorts the reality of what we think has been destroyed evidence.

Mr. Seery can't save one message that may be helpful to them and not save others that may not be. And it is inconsistent with the notion that this automatic delete button was already in effect, so why does he have one favorable message? That's why it's relevant.

THE COURT: Maybe he stopped using the automatic delete after --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, he didn't at this time, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's the relevance.

THE COURT: So, --

MR. MCCLEARY: And he should never have used it, Your Honor, given his role and responsibilities.

THE COURT: We don't have that motion set today. What is the content of these emails? February 16th, March 10th, 2023? What is the content, for me to really zero in --

MR. LEVY: I have --

THE COURT: -- on relevance or not.

MR. LEVY: -- copies of the emails, if that would be helpful --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. LEVY: -- to Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, you know, now I'm seeing them, so I don't know what the big deal is if --

MR. LEVY: As Your Honor can see, these are emails between counsel regarding preservation, which has nothing to do with whether there are colorable claims for fiduciary duties.

I'll add that -- and to show that this has nothing to do with this case and it is an attempt to generate a fishing expedition for documents in an entirely unrelated motion, we had a meet-and-confer where we represented to the counsel bringing that motion that we have been able to recover the text messages from the iCloud.

And so this is really just a sideshow. It has nothing to do with the issues of the colorability of claims for breach of fiduciary duties. It should not be introduced into evidence in this hearing.

THE COURT: All right. I'm going to sustain the objection, but this is without prejudice to you re-urging admission of these messages at the hearing on the motion regarding Mr. Seery's phone. Okay? Now, --

MR. MCCLEARY: That's as to 24 and 25, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Correct. And let's go now to the other one, the Exhibit 76, the Acis-related document, the relevance of that. Statement of Interested Party in Response to Motion of NexPoint to Confirm Discharge or Plan Injunction Does Not Bar Suit, or Alternatively, for Relief from All Applicable Injunctions.

What is the relevance for today's matter?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, this is background of pleadings and just background information generally to support the allegations made in the case and the background.

THE COURT: What do you mean, background?

MR. MCCLEARY: Kind of the history relative to the claims trading and relative to the claims of the use of insider information.

THE COURT: Okay. Be more specific, because I certainly have a background education on Acis litigation.

(Pause.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Yeah. Your Honor, this is a data point that is referred to in one of our experts' data charts, I believe, so --

THE COURT: All right. So let's just carry that to --

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes.

THE COURT: I'm just going to mark it as carried along with 39 through 62, related to the experts.

(HMIT's Exhibits 39 through 62 and Exhibit 76 carried.)

THE COURT: Okay. What about all of these objections that we don't object per se but we want it clear that the documents are not being offered for the truth of the matter asserted because there's hearsay?

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I'll let Mr. McCleary address all of those.

I want to point out one exception, and that is Exhibit #4, which are handwritten notes from Mr. Jim Dondero. Those are not -- they are being offered for the truth of the matter asserted because it's an admission of a party opponent in these proceedings, and that's Farallon. They reflect significant statements and admissions by Farallon, which are not hearsay. It's an exception to the hearsay rule. And they're being offered for more -- they are being offered for the truth of the matter asserted, because -- and it's admissible in that format.

THE COURT: But are you referring to hearsay within hearsay? Because there would be, I guess -- I guess the handwritten notes of Mr. Dondero are his hearsay, and then you're saying there's --

MR. MCENTIRE: So, this is reflecting statements made to Mr. Dondero that are admissions of a party opponent.

MR. LEVY: None of that has been established. These are not notes from anybody at Farallon or Stonehill which could potentially be a party admission. These are notes by Mr. Dondero about what was purportedly said by somebody else, and there's no evidence that these were kept in the regular course of business.

This is hearsay and hearsay within hearsay. And this could be established in testimony, but it can't be admitted -- the document can't be admitted to speak on behalf of a third person who's not here.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, I agree, we'd need to lay a foundation. But that's not the purpose of this discussion right now. I am simply advising the Court that once I lay a foundation, it comes in for all purposes. It comes in as an admission of a party opponent.

MR. LEVY: It is not an admission of a party opponent. It is not notes or statements by any actual defendant. These are notes by Mr. Dondero being introduced for his own benefit. It is not a party admission.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to carry that one. If one of the witnesses that's on the witness stand -- well, presumably Mr. Dondero will be called -- we can get context at that time and decide if it's appropriate to let it in and let you cross-examine him on them if that's going to come in. All right? So we'll carry this one.

Anything else, though, unique, or can we consider as a batch all these other objections to -- most of them being pleadings, not all of them but a lot of them -- that the Respondents just want it clear that they're not being offered for the truth of the matter asserted? Your response?

MR. MCCLEARY: They're, again, largely data points relied on by experts in the course of coming up with their opinions and just setting the background and history of the claims trading.

THE COURT: Well, then which ones are data points? Because I just need to carry those, right? If they're not being offered for any other reason.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, I would have to -- we would have to refer to the charts of the experts, Your Honor, to determine that on all of them.

MR. MCENTIRE: In order to facilitate this, may I make a suggestion, Your Honor? We'll agree that if we're going to offer anything that he's identified other than for the purposes indicated, we will advise the Court. Otherwise, we'll accept the limitations imposed. And as we go through, if we offer an exhibit that is more than the truth -- if we are offering it for the truth of the matter asserted, we will advise the Court, and then we could take it up then. I'm just trying to get the ball rolling.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, that's still going to be a time-consuming thing, maybe. But, okay. Just, when we start the clock here -- very shortly, I hope -- I want people clear that when you make objections, that counts against your three hours. Okay? All right?

MR. LEVY: Okay. Understood, Your Honor.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, we have certainly made objection to some of their exhibits.

THE COURT: All right. Well, shall we turn to those now?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, they objected to every single exhibit except one, so let's be clear.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: If they're withdrawing them, that's fine.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: But let's be clear.

MR. MCCLEARY: -- we are not withdrawing our general objection to all the evidence, of course. Just --

THE COURT: Okay. Let me just say for the record right now, I understand and you are preserving for all purposes your ability to argue on appeal that it was error for the Court to consider any evidence. Okay? You have not waived that argument by --

MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you.

THE COURT: -- now --

MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you. We can have --

THE COURT: -- agreeing to the admission of anybody's exhibit or offering your own exhibits.

MR. MCCLEARY: And we could have a running objection on that basis, on relevance to all the witnesses and the evidence that they offer on that basis. I would request that.

THE COURT: Well, okay, let me be clear. Relevance. Your argument is that no evidence is relevant because the Court doesn't need to consider any evidence --

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- on the colorability issue. You've got a running objection. It's not destroyed for appeal purposes. Okay?

MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you, Your Honor. Then, subject to that, in terms --

MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry to interrupt, but --

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

MR. MORRIS: -- would it be helpful if I gave the Court my list so she can see --

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

MR. MORRIS: -- what the --

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may. I'm not sure, if everything has been objected to, I'm not sure how --

MR. MORRIS: Because I've tried -- I've tried to organize it in a way that would be helpful.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Pause.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Your --

THE COURT: I'm ready.

MR. MCCLEARY: -- Honor, yes.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCCLEARY: So, we are withdrawing our objections, other than the general objections to relevance based on the evidentiary nature of the proceeding, to Exhibits 1 and 2.

With respect to 3, this is a verified petition to take deposition for suit and seek documents filed on July 22, 2021. We object on the grounds of relevance and hearsay to that. Is that --

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: I don't -- I don't understand this one.

THE COURT: This --

MR. MCCLEARY: Is that, I'm sorry, is that your #11?

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

MR. MCCLEARY: All right. We withdraw our objection to #3, subject to our general objection.

On Exhibit 4, we object to relevance and hearsay on a verified amended petition to take deposition before suit and seek documents.

THE COURT: Okay. This is my time to hear your argument. And we're going to be here --

MR. MORRIS: Can I -- can I do this here? It's going to be much quicker.

THE COURT: What do you mean? Do what here?

MR. MORRIS: So, if you just follow the chart that I gave the Court, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: -- Section A is a list of exhibits that they've objected to. Those exhibits are in the right-hand column.

At the same time, they are offering the exact same exhibits into evidence on their exhibit list. I don't understand how they can offer their exhibits and object to ours.

MR. MCCLEARY: Counsel. I'm sorry. We've already told them that, subject to our general objection, we'll withdraw the objections to those exhibits.

MR. MORRIS: Right. So can we agree that all objections to Section A are withdrawn?

MR. MCCLEARY: Subject to the general objection, yes.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay. So, --

MR. MORRIS: That's going to be much quicker.

THE COURT: -- 11, 34, 2, 46, 42, 38, 41, 39, 40, and various attachments to Highland Exhibits 5 are withdrawn. So, admitted by stipulation.

(Debtors' Exhibits 2, 11, 34, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 46 are received into evidence. Certain attachments to Debtors' Exhibit 5 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: And to make this easy, Your Honor, at some point I hope later today, but perhaps tomorrow, we'll slap a caption on this, we'll file it on the docket, so that, you know, an appellate court, if necessary, can follow along. But I think that we've just stipulated that all of the exhibits identified in Section A of this document are -- the objections have been withdrawn.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Subject to the general objections.

MR. MORRIS: Right. That gets us -- I'm going to jump to Section C, because I think the same is true. Section C identifies all exhibits that each party has taken from the docket. And you can see from Footnote 4, the Court can take judicial notice under Federal Rule of Evidence 201, we've just had the discussion about whether or not any of them would be limited for purposes of the truth of the matter asserted, but all of the exhibits identified in Section C I think the Court can take judicial notice of because they're on a docket.

THE COURT: Response?

MR. MORRIS: And so I would respectfully request that they withdraw their objections to anything in Section C.

THE COURT: Response, Mr. McCleary?

MR. MCCLEARY: I understand the Court can take judicial notice of those, Your Honor, but they do contain irrelevant and hearsay information also.

MR. MORRIS: The hearsay, I think that we just had the discussion. I mean, if there's something that he wants to really point out at this point that I can respond to. But we would agree that advocacy pieces shouldn't be offered for the truth of the matter asserted. Court orders, on the other hand, are law of the case.

THE COURT: So, I mean, it's the very same situation we just addressed with your own exhibits. You have a lot of court filings. And they didn't have a problem with it, as long as everyone knew advocacy was not being accepted for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --

THE COURT: Isn't this the same thing?

MR. MCCLEARY: -- they're not offering it for the truth of the matter asserted. That's one thing. And certainly the Court can take judicial notice. We do object to the extent they're offering Exhibits 6 through 10 for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MORRIS: Well, let me check those.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MCCLEARY: I'm sorry. 6, 7, uh -- (pause).

THE COURT: Those are orders of --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- courts.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. They're orders of the Court.

MR. MCCLEARY: The orders are not relevant, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Explain.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, they have not demonstrated that the orders that they seek to introduce are relevant. They have orders regarding, for example, the contempt proceedings that are irrelevant to these proceedings. And prejudicial under 403.

THE COURT: All right. Shall I take a five- or ten-minute break? Let me -- I think I've been very generous by not starting the clock yet on the three hours/three hours.

MR. MCCLEARY: Appreciate that.

THE COURT: But here's how we do things in bankruptcy court. And I don't mean to talk down to anyone. I don't know, you may appear in bankruptcy court every day of your life. But we expect counsel to get together ahead of time and stipulate to the admissibility of as many exhibits as you can. If there's a preservation of rights here and there, fine. But we --

MR. MCCLEARY: Maybe if we take --

THE COURT: You know, --

MR. MCCLEARY: We can try to --

THE COURT: -- helping everyone to understand, --

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

THE COURT: -- we have thousands of cases in our court.

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure.

THE COURT: And this is just something we have to do to give all parties their day in court when they need time. And so --

MR. MCCLEARY: If you'd like us to take ten minutes and try to narrow this, we certainly --

THE COURT: Okay. With everybody understanding you should have taken the ten minutes before we got here. But, again, when I say three hours, --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- that's what I meant. Okay?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So we'll take a ten-minute break.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A recess ensued from 10:42 a.m. until 10:54 a.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. Have we reached agreements on some of these exhibits?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, we have agreed on the ones that we can agree on, and we announced that to the Court with respect to the Paragraph A items that the Court's already ruled on.

I would like to point out to the Court that we just got their objections handed to us right before the hearing. We filed ours last night. So we didn't --

THE COURT: At 11:00-something, right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor, but we did --

THE COURT: Okay. Well, okay. So I guess your point is you want to make sure I'm annoyed with everyone, not just selective of you.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --

THE COURT: I mean, exhibit lists were filed Monday. So I don't know why on Tuesday people were not on the phone saying, you know, or Wednesday morning at the latest.

MR. MCCLEARY: Sure. And we haven't had much of an opportunity, in fairness, to consider their objections and respond because we just received them right at the time of the hearing, just before the hearing started.

Your Honor, we would urge our objections to Exhibit #4. We've objected to this petition to take deposition before suit and seek documents on the basis of relevance and hearsay. They have a number of pleadings in other matters that have nothing to do with, frankly, the colorability standard in this case. And this is an example.

THE COURT: Okay. This is the time for me to hear specific objections and what the basis is, and not just --

MR. MORRIS: Can we go back --

THE COURT: -- a category.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yeah.

MR. MORRIS: Can we go back to my way? Because it's just going to be much faster. It really will be. Right? We -- Category 1, A and C, we dealt with. Category B, --

THE COURT: Well, we dealt with A.

MR. MORRIS: Right. And --

THE COURT: All of those are withdrawn, and they are admitted by stipulation.

MR. MORRIS: Right.

MR. MCCLEARY: Subject to --

THE COURT: Category C, --

MR. MCCLEARY: -- the general objections.

THE COURT: -- I'm not sure we're to closure on.

MR. MORRIS: Um, --

THE COURT: Are we to closure on C? Are you stipulating?

MR. MCCLEARY: No. We are not stipulating on C.

MR. MORRIS: Let's do them one at a time.

MR. MCCLEARY: I have not had an opportunity to -- to --

MR. MORRIS: Let's do them one at a time.

MR. MCCLEARY: Have not had an opportunity to look at each and every one of these, Your Honor. Because we did just get these.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: But generally --

THE COURT: If we have not wrapped this up in 15 minutes, we're just going to start, and you can object the old-fashioned way. But I'm telling all lawyers here, objections count against your time. Okay?

MR. MORRIS: And I'd move for the admission of all of our exhibits right now, then.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: So let him -- let -- put him on the clock and let's go.

THE COURT: Okay. So, 15 minutes. Let start going through everything except Category A.

MR. MORRIS: Number 4?

MR. MCCLEARY: Number 4, Your Honor, we object on the basis of relevance and hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. My response to that, Your Honor, and this will be my response -- this is in Section B of my outline --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: Okay? They object to Exhibits 3, 4, 5, and 9. These are Mr. Dondero's prior sworn statements. You just heard his lawyer stand here and tell the Court that somehow his handwritten notes should be admissible as an admission. You know what he did? He testified four different times under oath. That's Exhibits 3, 4, 5, and 9. Sworn statements.

They come into evidence not as hearsay but under Federal

Rule of Evidence 801(d)(1). It's beyond -- the notion that they can prove a colorable claim and that it's not relevant that he's got diametrically different -- he's got four different statements, now five with his notes, he's got five different statements. Doesn't that go to the colorability of these claims?

We believe it does. That's the basis for the introduction of these documents into evidence.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. McCleary, your response?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, it's a verified amended petition, Your Honor, in another matter, to -- before suit to seek documents. Has nothing to do with the merits of this case and our motion for leave. So we object on the grounds of relevance and hearsay.

THE COURT: Well, since they're prior sworn statements of Mr. Dondero, --

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, then they might -- if they want to use it later to impeach, they can try to do that, but they have to lay the foundation.

THE COURT: What about 801(d)(1)?

MR. MCCLEARY: Again, relevance, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. Those are --

MR. MCCLEARY: And Mr. --

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Those are going to be admitted.

MR. MCCLEARY: By the way, on hearsay, Mr. Dondero is not Hunter Mountain. So when he argues that these are admissions, they're not admissions by Hunter Mountain.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, the only piece of evidence, literally the only piece of evidence they have are the words out of Mr. Dondero's mouth. There is no evidence, there will be no evidence of a quid, a pro, or a quo. There will be no evidence other than what Mr. Dondero testifies to --

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: -- about what he was told. There will be no evidence that there was a meaningful relationship between Mr. Seery and Ms. -- and Farallon and Stonehill. There will be no evidence, none, that Farallon and Stonehill rubber-stamped Mr. Seery's compensation package. Nothing. The only thing we have are going to be the words out of Mr. Dondero's mouth and these notes that just showed up. And these statements --

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor?

THE COURT: Okay. Counsel, I mean, it just feels like --

MR. MORRIS: It's --

THE COURT: -- if notes get in, then sworn statements of Mr. Dondero should get in. Right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, he's making arguments, closing arguments, opening arguments, trying to run out the clock. We objected to relevance, and we stand on our objection.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: And on hearsay.

THE COURT: I'll admit 3, 4, 5, and 9.

(Debtors' Exhibits 3, 4, 5, and 9 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: Section E.

MR. MCCLEARY: I'm sorry. So our objections are overruled?

THE COURT: They are overruled.

MR. MCCLEARY: On 3, 4, 5?

THE COURT: And 9.

MR. MORRIS: Section E of my outline.

MR. MCCLEARY: What about 6?

THE COURT: That's not --

MR. MORRIS: Well, --

THE COURT: Well, I don't --

MR. MORRIS: -- it would -- it would --

THE COURT: Let's go back to C. I'm not clear if we're to closure on Section C.

MR. MORRIS: I'll let Counsel go through --

THE COURT: And 6 is within Section C.

MR. MORRIS: I'll let Counsel go through each one, one at a time.

MR. MCCLEARY: No. That's all right. If you want to go through, you have them lumped in. Yeah, I think it'd probably be quickest if, frankly, we just go down the list, Your Honor. Frankly.

THE COURT: Well, you've got ten minutes left.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. We object to #6, memorandum and opinion order granting Dondero's motion to remand, on the basis of relevance and hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled. I can take judicial notice under 201 of that. So 6 is admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 6 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: We object to Exhibits 7 and 8 on the grounds of relevance. 7 on relevance and hearsay, and 8 on relevance.

MR. MORRIS: I'll take 7 first, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: It's an order dismissing Mr. Dondero's 202 petition. That 202 petition sought discovery on the basis of the exact same so-called insider trading claims that Hunter Mountain is asserting today.

I think it's not only relevant, it's almost dispositive that a Texas state court heard the exact same -- or, actually, not the exact same, because Mr. Dondero changed his story so many times -- but heard a version, I think Versions 1, 2, and 3, of this insider trading and would not even give them discovery.

So when the Court considers whether or not there's a colorable claim here, I think it ought to think about what a Texas state court decided on not whether or not they have colorable claims, whether or not they're even entitled to discovery. I think it's very relevant. Move for its admission right now.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, it's ironic, because at that hearing counsel for the Respondents was arguing that it ought to be this Court that considers what discovery is appropriate.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, obviously, you can argue about that, but, again, I think I can take judicial notice of this. Right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, we argue that it's not relevant, Your Honor, and it is the --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: 7 is not relevant and is hearsay.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Number 8, --

THE COURT: Objection is overruled.

MR. MCCLEARY: Overruled?

THE COURT: And so 7 is admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 7 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: 8 is our verified petition. And we object on the grounds of relevance.

MR. MORRIS: You know, Your Honor, if I really had the time and the patience to do this, I think I'd find this document attached to Mr. McEntire's affidavit that's on their exhibit list.

But to speed this up just a little bit, how could their 202 petition that sought discovery on the basis of the very same insider trading allegation not be relevant? It's a judicial order. You can take notice of it. And it's incredibly relevant that a second Texas state court heard the same allegations that they're presenting to you as colorable and said no, you're not getting discovery.

MR. MCCLEARY: We don't know why they made that order, Your Honor. They could have simply accepted the opposition's arguments that this Court had jurisdiction and should consider what discovery ought to be done.

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. MCCLEARY: It's not relevant to our --

THE COURT: I admit 8.

MR. MORRIS: Next?

MR. MCCLEARY: Overruled?

THE COURT: Yes.

(Debtors' Exhibit 8 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: The declaration of James Dondero. I think we withdrew the Dondero --

THE COURT: Right.

MR. MCCLEARY: -- declarations. If it --

THE COURT: It's --

MR. MCCLEARY: Numbered -- I'm sorry, #9.

THE COURT: 9. I've already checked it as admitted.

MR. MCCLEARY: If you want to -- if you want to offer #9, they can offer it.

THE COURT: It's admitted. I've already --

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

THE COURT: -- said.

MR. MCCLEARY: Number 10. It's an order denying our second Rule 202 petition. And we object to it on relevance, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Same objection. It's overruled. It's admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 10 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Number 12, 13, and -- 12 and 13 are correspondence regarding resignation letters. We object on grounds of relevance.

THE COURT: Wait. Did we skip 11 for a reason?

MR. MCCLEARY: Pardon me?

THE COURT: Did we skip 11 for a reason?

MR. MCCLEARY: We only have it --

THE COURT: Oh, wait. It's already admitted by stipulation.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yeah, and we have --

MR. MORRIS: That's the one --

MR. MCCLEARY: We have our general objection.

MR. MORRIS: That's the one exhibit that they didn't object to.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: We only had our general objection with respect to that.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Thank you.

MR. MCCLEARY: On 12 --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCCLEARY: -- and 13, those are correspondence regarding resignations. We object on the grounds of relevance.

MR. MORRIS: So, the relevance of that, Your Honor, is to show that when Mr. Dondero sent this email to Mr. Seery in December 2020, he had absolutely no relationship to Highland, had absolutely no duty to Highland, had absolutely no reason to send this email to Highland. He wasn't in control of Highland. He wasn't --

If they'll stipulate to this, that's fine. He wasn't in control. He had no authority to do anything. He couldn't effectuate trades. He wasn't there. And that's what these documents are intended to prove.

THE COURT: Okay. Why are we -- this is --

MR. MCCLEARY: Because there are --

THE COURT: Some of this stuff, I mean, --

MR. MCCLEARY: There are other agreements.

THE COURT: -- is no big deal. Right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Sub-advisory agreements, other agreements that he had under which he had a responsibility to make the communications regarding material nonpublic information that he made. So this is simply irrelevant, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I overrule. I mean, again, I don't --

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

(Debtors' Exhibits 12 and 13 are received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Number 14, --

THE COURT: You're both giving me just a lot of background that I already have, but of course a Court of Appeals --

MR. MORRIS: That's why we --

THE COURT: -- isn't going to have it.

MR. MORRIS: Yep.

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, #14, Exhibit 14, we object on the grounds of relevance and hearsay.

THE COURT: Okay. Wait a minute. We skipped 13 because -- why? Oh, wait, that was, I'm sorry, 12 and 13 --

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

THE COURT: -- where I've overruled the objection and admitted.

Okay. Go ahead.

MR. MCCLEARY: 14, we object on the grounds of relevance and hearsay, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: I'm just going to make this real quick, Your Honor. Here's the thing. This Court knows it. It's actually facts that cannot be disputed because they're subject of court orders.

As the Court will recall, beginning in late November 2020 continuing through late December 2020, Mr. Dondero was engaged in a continuous pattern of interference with Highland's business and trading. It was the subject of the TRO, which is why the TRO is relevant.

Your Honor will recall that at the end of November Mr. Dondero attempted to stop Mr. Seery from trading in Avaya stock. On December 3rd is when he sent this threatening email, text message, to Mr. Dondero [sic]. It caused us to get the TRO.

Your Honor will recall on December 16, 2020, that's when we had the hearing on Mr. Dondero's motion to try to stop Mr. Seery from trading in the CLOs that the Court dismissed as frivolous and granted the directed verdict of Highland.

So, that's December 16. He sends this email about MGM on December 17th. And what happens on December 18th? More interference with Highland's business. It's a matter of -- beyond dispute. It's law of the case at this point because that's the subject of the contempt order. And the Court found that, after -- after hours, on December 18th, Hunter Covitz told Mr. Dondero that Mr. Seery was again trying to trade in Avaya stock, and within a day or two Mr. Dondero was again interfering it, and that's what led to the second -- to the first contempt order.

So all of these documents are relevant to show motive and what was happening. This email was not sent for any legitimate purpose. The evidence is just overwhelming. And it's not -- it's not like, oh, that's an argument we're making. Between the TRO and the contempt order, it's law of the case. He was interfering with Highland's business nonstop for thirty days, including the day before he sent this email and the day after he sent the email.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, this is a lawsuit or an effort to file a lawsuit on behalf of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, not James Dondero. And as much as Counsel wants to make this about Jim Dondero and attack him, this is a different case. So this exhibit has nothing to do with the claims in this lawsuit. It's not relevant. And hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: The only evidence is Mr. Dondero. It's -- could not be more relevant.

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule. I'm admitting this.

And so we're --

MR. MCCLEARY: Uh, --

THE COURT: It's 14. It's -- how far?

MR. MCCLEARY: 14. Exhibit 15 is where we are, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Debtors' Exhibit 14 is received into evidence.)

THE COURT: 15.

MR. MORRIS: Oh, that's -- that's the contempt order. And so these contain the judicial findings that are now beyond dispute that Mr. Dondero was engaged in interfering with Highland's business after the TRO was entered on December 10th.

THE COURT: Okay. Again, my own orders, --

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, it's not --

THE COURT: -- I can take judicial notice of --

MR. MCCLEARY: It's --

THE COURT: -- under the Federal Rules of Evidence.

MR. MCCLEARY: It's --

THE COURT: 201.

MR. MCCLEARY: We simply object as not relevant. We object based on Federal Rule of Evidence 403. Any possible relevance is outweighed by the prejudice. And we object on the grounds of hearsay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Prejudice? Prejudice? They're orders I issued. I'm going to be prejudiced by my own orders?

MR. MCCLEARY: Uh, well, --

THE COURT: I don't --

MR. MCCLEARY: -- Hunter Mountain will be.

THE COURT: Okay. I'll overrule.

(Debtors' Exhibit 15 is received into evidence.)

THE COURT: I'll tell you what. We're out of our -- well, we've get probably 30 seconds left. Anything that we can maybe knock out to not have eat into your three hours? Both of you?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, we filed written objections to all of these exhibits. We urge those objections. 16.

THE COURT: I know, but this is your chance to argue why your objections have merit. I can -- we can just --

MR. MCCLEARY: Because, well, obviously, we're talking about pleadings and filings in other matters. The evidence that they're trying to use to impugn Jim Dondero, which has nothing to do with the merits of HMIT's claims and allegations of insider trades.

THE COURT: Okay. A lot of this is articles. Articles, articles, articles about MGM.

MR. MCCLEARY: On the articles, Your Honor, subject to our general objection, we'll withdraw the objections to the articles if they'll agree to the articles that we've offered.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we didn't lodge an objection to their articles.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And just so, if anybody is keeping track at home, this is Item B on the list that I created earlier this morning.

THE COURT: Okay. So, 25 through 30 are articles. Those are admitted by stipulation. Nothing is about the truth of the matter asserted. They're just articles that were out there for --

MR. MORRIS: Right. I would just --

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes.

THE COURT: -- the world.

MR. MORRIS: Just so we're clear, it's Exhibits 25, 6 -- 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30.

THE COURT: Right.

(Debtors' Exhibits 25 through 30 are received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: And so, yes, those are all articles. They have their articles. Exhibit 72.

THE COURT: Oh, and 34 is another one. So that's admitted as well.

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

(Debtors' Exhibit 34 is received into evidence.)

THE COURT: Okay. Well, we're out of time, so as for the others, they can offer them the old-fashioned way if they want to, you can object the old-fashioned way, and it eats into both of your three hours.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Let's hear opening statements. And by the way, before we wrap up today, I'm going to say out loud everything I've admitted so we're all crystal clear on what's in the record. This has been a bit chaotic.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Understood.

THE COURT: So, Caroline is going to be the keeper of our time over here. And if the judge ever interrupts you, she's going to stop the timer. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: I hope I won't any more, but you may proceed.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I appreciate it. Thank you. Can you see it, Your Honor?

THE COURT: I can, yes. Thanks.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can opposing counsel see it?

MR. MORRIS: Yes, sir.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

THE COURT: And I'm just going to ask everyone who has a PowerPoint today, can I get a hard copy --

MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

THE COURT: -- before we close?

MR. MCENTIRE: Certainly.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST

MR. MCENTIRE: May it please the Court, Your Honor, at this time I'll be providing the opening statement on behalf of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust. It is a Delaware trust. Mark Patrick, who's in the courtroom, is the Administrator. He will be one of the witnesses that you'll hear today.

Hunter Mountain Investment Trust is the former 99.5 percent equity holder, currently classified as a Class 10 contingent beneficiary under the Claimant Trust Agreement. It is active in supporting various entities that in turn support charities throughout North Texas.

Your Honor, this is not an ordinary claims-trading case. I know the Court made those references in one of the hearings, and I wanted to more clearly respond. This has different indicia. An ordinary claims-trading case is normally outside the purview of the bankruptcy court. What makes this different is that we're involving, we believe and allege, breaches of fiduciary duty of the Debtor-in-Possession's CEO and the Trustee.

It involves also aiding and abetting by the entities that actually acquired the claims. And that falls into the category of willful misconduct.

It also involves injury to the Reorganized Debtor and to the Claimant Trust. Ordinarily, a claims trade would not involve injury to the estate or the reorganized debtor. Here, we have alleged that it has. And the injury takes the form of unearned excessive fees that Mr. Seery has garnered as a result of his relationship and arrangements, as we have alleged, with the Claims Purchasers.

During the course of my presentation today, I'll be referring to the Claims Purchasers as the collective of Farallon, Stonehill, Muck, and Jessup.

I would like to briefly discuss some of the issues that have already been presented to the Court, just to make sure that this record is clear.

Can you please continue?

We don't believe the Barton Doctrine is applicable. I believe that precedent is very clear that the Barton Doctrine deals with proceedings in other courts, and the various standards and requirements of Barton do not apply if in fact we're coming to the Court and filing the proceeding in the court where the Trustee was actually appointed.

And so I think that the law is clear. And this is Judge Houser here in the Northern District of Texas in the case In re Provider Meds. And she makes very clear that the standard for granting leave to sue here is actually less stringent than a 12(b)(6) plausibility standard. So if there is any issue as to what standard this Court should be applying to the -- to this process, we believe it's a 12(b)(6) standard, confined to the four corners of the document.

If the Court wishes to consult the documents that are referred to in the four corners of the petition or complaint, it may do so.

But the standard here is even more flexible than a standard plausibility. Our evidence, though, achieves the standard of plausibility as well.

The In re Deepwater Horizon case is another important case. That's a Fifth Circuit case. A plaintiff's claim is colorable if it can allege standing and the elements necessary to state a claim on which relief could be granted. Defining a colorable claim as one with some possible validity. I don't have to prove my case today. I didn't have to prove my case in the prior hearings. I have to prove sufficient allegations, not evidence, but sufficient allegations to show that it has some possible basis of validity.

Possible basis of validity. We're not here talking about likelihoods. We're not here talking about prima facie evidence. We're not here talking about probabilities. We're talking about something less than plausibility. But, again, we achieve plausibility.

A colorable claim is defined as one which is plausible or not without merit. These are various cases from around the country. The colorable claim requirement is met if a committee has asserted claims for relief that, on appropriate proof, would allow recovery. On appropriate proof. We're not required to put on that proof today, Your Honor.

Courts have determined that a court need not conduct an evidentiary hearing, but must ensure that the claims do not lack any merit whatsoever. We submit that our claims have substantial merit and deserve the opportunity to initiate our proceedings, have an opportunity to conduct discovery. And if they want to file a 12(b)(6) motion before this judge, before you, they can do so. If they want to file a motion for summary judgment, they can do so. But at this juncture, they cannot, and at this juncture this Court should not consider evidence in making its determination.

Standing under Delaware law. The Funds have collectively really hit the standing issue hard. I think it's easily resolved. First of all, it's clear that a beneficial owner has standing to bring a derivative action. Under Delaware law, a beneficial owner has a right to bring a derivative action on behalf of the -- against the trustee.

So the issue is, am I a beneficial owner? As a contingent beneficiary in Class 10, and that's the Court's inquiry here, do I qualify as a beneficial owner? And I think that Delaware law is clear that, by not limiting it to only vested interests, by not limiting it only to immediate beneficiaries, they are not -- they are not extending the scope of the statute to contingent beneficiaries. And this is consistent with the laws around the country, because even Texas recognizes that an unvested contingent beneficiary has a property right to protect.

Even Mr. Seery admitted in his deposition that a unvested contingent interest is in the nature of a property right. If you have a property right, that property right can be abused. If you have a property right, that property right, whether it's inchoate or not, it can be abused, it can be misappropriated, and you could become aggrieved. And that is the constitutional standard for standing: Is Hunter Mountain Investment Trust aggrieved? And the answer is yes.

Contingent beneficiaries from around the country, in addition to Mr. Seery's admission that we have a property interest, contingent beneficiary has standing. This is the Smith v. Clearwater case on Slide 11. Very clearly, they say that even if it's subject to a future event. Their argument is that Mr. Seery has not certified Hunter Mountain as in the money. We believe we are in the money. That's a different issue. We believe he should certify, in the discharge of his duties. That's a different issue.

But even assuming his case -- his argument for a moment, their argument is that since he's not done that act, which we also challenge and criticize that he's not done that act, that we can't qualify to bring this case. Well, that's not what the law is, that even an unvested interest, a contingent interest, has a right.

Slide 12. This is the State of Illinois. Despite the fact that interest is contingent and may not vest in possession, you still have a right to protect what you have. And you have standing to bring a cause of action.

The Claimant Trust Agreement, by the way, suggests that we have no vested interest, and they'll likely argue that point. But the point there is the law says that's irrelevant. If it's an inchoate interest, if it's potentially vested in the future, that's what imbues you with standing.

And in any event, the Claimant Trust Agreement is subject to Delaware trust law, and they can't get around that. They can say whatever they want to say in the agreement to try to block us from participation, but it's still subject to Delaware trust law, and Delaware trust law does not draw a distinction between vested or unvested.

The State of Missouri: There is no dispute in this case that the future -- that future beneficiaries have standing to bring an accounting action, whether they're vested or contingent. The Bucksbaum case. Article III standing exists, constitutional standing, including discretionary beneficiaries, have long been permitted to bring suits to redress trustees' breaches of trust. This applies not only to our standing as an individual plaintiff, which we've brought, but also in our standing -- in our capacity seeking to bring a derivative action to benefit the Claimant Trust of the Reorganized Debtor. Both are permitted under this law under these cases.

An interest -- in the Mayfield case, an interest is any interest, whether legal or equitable or both, vested, contingent, defeasible, or indefeasible. So the unilateral self-serving wording of the Claimant Trust does not abrogate our right to bring the claim.

I'd like to talk briefly about fiduciary duties. We know that Mr. Seery has fiduciary duties to the estate when he was the CEO prior to the effective date. We allege that he breached those fiduciary duties, and that gives us standing to bring the claim that we have brought for breaching fiduciary duties, causing damages that are accruing post-effective date.

In the Xtreme Power case, again, the directors can either appear on both sides of the transaction or expect to derive any personal financial benefit. We are alleging that Mr. Seery engaged in self-dealing. We allege that he engaged in self-dealing by arriving at an understanding where he could put business allies -- whether you call them friends, business allies, close acquaintances -- on the committee, the Oversight Board that would ultimately oversee his compensation, which, in the context of this case, makes no sense and it is excessive.

Muck is a specially -- special-purpose entity of Farallon. Farallon acquired the claims, created Muck to do the job. Muck is now on the Oversight Board.

Jessup. Jessup is a special-purpose entity, a shell created by Stonehill. Stonehill bought the claims, funneled the money through Jessup. Jessup is now on the Oversight Board. Jessup and Muck -- and by the way, the principals in Farallon are actually the representatives from Muck on the Oversight Board. So there's no suggestion that there's really a distinct corporate relationship here.

Michael Linn, who is a principal at Farallon. You'll hear his name today, throughout today. He actually is a representative of the Oversight Board, dealing with Mr. Seery and negotiating Mr. -- I put negotiation in quotes -- negotiating Mr. Seery's compensation.

I'd like to talk very briefly about background. We took Mr. Seery's deposition. I was unaware of this. I now know it. Perhaps the Court was already aware of it. This is Mr. Seery's first job as a CEO of any debtor. This is the first time Mr. Seery has ever been a chief restructuring officer. This is the first time Mr. Seery has ever been the CEO of a reorganized debtor. This is the first time that he's served as a trustee post-effective date. However, his compensation is excessive and not market-driven, and there's a reason for that. We believe and we allege that it's a quid pro quo because of prior relationships with Farallon and Stonehill.

Farallon and Stonehill are hedge funds, Your Honor. They created their special-purpose entities on the eve of this transaction simply to take the title to the claims, but the money is going upstream.

Seery has a relationship with Farallon. Do we know the full extent of that relationship? No. We have been deprived of discovery. We attempted to get the discovery in the state court 202 process. We were denied for reasons not articulated in the court's order.

We attempted to get the discovery here that the Court refused under the last hearing about these relationships.

So what we do have begins to put the pieces of the puzzle together. And sufficient is more than plausible. It is more than colorable.

We know that Mr. Seery went on a meet-and-greet trip to Farallon's offices in 2017. Didn't have to. He was trying to cultivate a business relationship. Farallon was important to him.

We know that in 2019 he was no longer with Guggenheim Securities. He goes out to Farallon's offices for another meet-and-greet and he specifically meets with the two principals who are reflected in Mr. Dondero's notes, Raj Patel and Michael Linn.

We know that in June 2020 Farallon emailed Seery. This is after Mr. Seery becomes the CEO. He says, "Congratulations. We're monitoring what you're doing."

Seery's relationship with Stonehill. These are all -- this is all before what we believe to be the events that are at issue in this case. We believe that -- represented Stonehill in the Blockbuster bankruptcy proceeding. There was an objection to a document. Mr. Seery was involved in the Blockbuster proceedings. Stonehill was one of his many clients on the committee that he represented.

We know that Stonehill is actively involved in one of Mr. Seery's charities in New York. We know that he sent text messages to Mr. Seery in February of 2021, wanting to know how to get involved in this bankruptcy.

Farallon and Stonehill were strangers to this bankruptcy. They weren't creditors. They were encouraged and they came into this process.

Farallon and Stonehill have not denied any of our allegations. They are not putting any evidence on today. We allege that these relationships was based and founded upon a quid pro quo. I'll scratch your back; you scratch mine. You give me some information; I want to evaluate these claims. And, by the way, we're going to be on the Oversight Board, or you're going to put us on the Oversight Board, or by default we'll be on the Oversight Board, and we'll work out your compensation agreement.

Mr. Seery also has an established relationship with Stonehill.

I like to have a timeline of certain events. This is not all of the relevant events, but this can give you a quick picture. We know that Mr. Dondero sent an email to Mr. Seery in December of 2020 relating to MGM. It is undisputed that Mr. -- that Farallon emailed Seery, Mr. Seery, in January of 2021 if there was a path to get information regarding the claims for sales. Mr. Seery says he never responded to it, but we know that this entity, Farallon, got deeply involved in buying these claims shortly after this email.

We have the Claimant Trust Agreement suddenly being amended to not have a base fee, but now we're going to incorporate a success participation fee. As part of a plan, we're not criticizing that, but suddenly the vehicle for post-effective date bonuses is being created.

The Debtors' analysis comes out in association with the plan confirmation. It projects a 71.32 percent recovery for Class 8 and Class 9, and those are the principal classes we're talking about. 95 percent -- 98 percent of all of the claims here are in Class 8 and Class 9, until you get to us, Class 10.

71.32 percent of Class 8 means that Farallon and Stonehill will get less than about a six percent internal rate return on their $163 million investment, which they have never denied. That is not a hedge fund investment goal. Investment -- hedge funds like these companies, they go for 38, 40, 50 percent of returns. Who would ever invest $163 million on a distressed asset that's not collateralized with only an expectation of an internal rate of turn of six percent? But that's going to be the evidence before the Court. That does not make any financial, rational wisdom at all.

The plan is confirmed. It's undisputed that Stonehill contacts Seery after the plan is confirmed to want to know how to get involved. They have phone calls after this text message. Muck is created on March 9. We know from Mr. Seery's deposition that Farallon told Seery that six days later they bought the claims. All the claims, by the way, when I say bought the claims, it's everything except UBS. To our knowledge. They may have negotiated the paperwork back then, but the claims transfers did not occur until the summer. All the other claims involved, the claims transfers were filed with this Court in mid-April and at the end of April.

Tim Cournoyer removes MGM from the restricted list. Tim Cournoyer is an employee of Highland. Well, it tells us that MGM was on the restricted list and there should be no discussion about MGM, but there was. There was discussions about MGM, and Mr. Dondero is going to testify to that.

And we also know that the HarbourVest settlement was consummated during this period of time. If it had been on the restricted list, as it was, that transaction should never have occurred. But it did occur. This Court ordered it. It approved it. And I'm not challenging -- we're not challenging that settlement. It is done. That is done. What we are challenging is the fact that Mr. Seery is actively involved in using inside material nonpublic information.

Jessup Holdings is created shortly thereafter, on April 8th. We have claims settling on April 30th. The Acis claim is transferred to Muck -- that's Farallon -- on April 16. The Redeemer and Crusader are all transferred on April 30th.

Stonehill and Farallon never deny that they did no due -- that they failed to do due diligence. We allege that there was no due diligence. And that relies in significant part upon Mr. Dondero. But now, because we have Mr. Seery's deposition, it also relies upon Mr. Seery's admissions in deposition, because he says he never opened up a data room, he doesn't know what due diligence they did. Farallon says the only due diligence they did is they talked to Jim Seery. And how do you invest $163 million, or $10 million or $50 million, whatever the part is, with an internal rate of return six percent, only on the advice of Mr. Seery, who's never been a trustee or a CEO before, unless there's something going on?

Your Honor, public announcement of MGM on May 26th. On May 28th, two days later, Mr. Dondero calls Farallon. It took Mr. Dondero or his group a few days, a week or so, to even understand who -- that Farallon was involved, because the registrations for Muck and Jessup did not disclose their principals, did not even disclose addresses. They were shell -- they were companies that came in in the last minute to buy these claims incognito, frankly.

They found out that Farallon was involved. They had a call initially with Raj Patel, who is the principal of Farallon. He has three conversations total: One with Mr. Patel and two with Michael Linn. Michael Linn was the one responsible for these claim purchases. Patel admitted that Farallon relied exclusively on Seery and did no due diligence. Linn rejected the premium to sell. The evidence you'll hear today, that Mr. Linn rejected a premium up to 40 percent to sell the claims. He actually said he would not sell at all because he was told by Mr. Seery that the claims were too valuable.

That is evidence of insider trading. Specifically, they said they were very optimistic about MGM and they were unwilling to sell because Seery said too valuable.

We have -- these are the purchases. This is where the Class 9 claims fall. And keep in mind -- Tim, go back -- that $95 million of this upside potential is being told, at least to the publicly available information, that you're never going to get there. Yet 95 -- $95 million is allocated to this category. So Class 8 is $275 million. Class 9 is 29 -- $95 million.

Next.

So we have the evidence that you'll hear today. Farallon admitted the timing. No due diligence, never denied by the Claim Purchasers. Based upon material nonpublic information. That's our allegation. Purchased over $160 million. This is never denied by the Claims Purchasers. They purchased claims when the return on investment was highly doubtful. Maximum expected annual rate of return, assuming publicly-available information, was approximately six percent, and that is totally atypical of what a hedge fund would seek.

Insider information. We're not talking about just MGM. The Respondents want to narrow the Court's inquiry. This is much larger than MGM. MGM is a part of it, it's a big part of it, but it's not the only part of it. It's other assets. Portfolio companies. Other invested assets. There's a lot of money out there, and it was never disclosed during the ordinary course of the bankruptcy, for reasons that the Court already knows, in terms of asset values. How does someone come in and purchase distressed assets, claims, without any understanding of what assets are backing those claims, when there's no publicly-available information there to do it and there's no evidence, no indication, no statement that actually due diligence was done?

That right there, without anything else, makes our claims plausible. You don't have to prove insider trading by direct evidence. Nobody's going to admit that they did something wrong. You prove it circumstantially, and we've cited cases and we'll give you cases to that effect.

Next.

We have material nonpublic information. It is very clear that Mr. Dondero on December 17th sent this email, not just to Mr. Seery but to several other individuals, including lawyers. It states that he'd just gotten off a board call. A pre-board call. The update, he provides the update. Active diligencing. It's probably a first-quarter event. We can scour all of the other media documents that are in evidence, both from us and them, and you're not going to find any indication anywhere that a board member has said, guys, gals, it's going to be a probable first-quarter event. That's material nonpublic information.

THE COURT: By the way, you all objected to this exhibit.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, this is my exhibit.

THE COURT: We spent --

MR. MCENTIRE: I did not. They objected to this.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we didn't object to it, and that is the one exhibit that they did not object to.

THE COURT: Oh, it is?

MR. MORRIS: Nobody objected to this exhibit.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm not going to object to this exhibit, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. It's a different version.

MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.

THE COURT: Okay. It was a different email around that same time frame.

MR. MCENTIRE: So just --

THE COURT: Apologies. We stopped the clock.

MR. MCENTIRE: This -- my next exhibit is simply a demonstrative, but I just want the Court to understand that MGM is no small matter here and Mr. Seery did testify in deposition that it probably made up $450 million. He was pretty close.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I object to this demonstrative. There is no evidence in the record. It's not cited to anything. We're not just going to start putting up stuff on the screen that we like.

MR. MCENTIRE: Excuse me. I'm not offering this document into evidence.

MR. MORRIS: I don't care. The Court shouldn't be seeing a demonstrative exhibit that contains matters that are never going to be in the record.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: I disagree. I can put the data in the record.

May I proceed?

MR. MORRIS: But you didn't.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm not considering the truth of this until and unless I get evidence of this.

MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough. But the point is this, Mr. Seery has conceded in deposition that between the institutional funds and the CLOs, there's a lot of MGM securities and stock. We're talking a lot of money. We're not talking about just Highland Capital's investment.

You can skip the next slide. Skip.

So, rumors versus material nonpublic information. They can talk all day long, and if they want to use their time doing this, they can. There's a difference between rumor and actual material nonpublic information. Rumor from undocumented sources, lack of clarity, lack of timing. There is no -- there's no debate that a lot of people knew that maybe MGM might be for sale. Maybe they wouldn't. Sometimes it falls apart, you know. But the point is a board member is telling someone that there's a probable event in the first quarter of 2021. That is definite, specific, and it comes from the highest authority. That is -- if that's not material and public information, I don't know what could be.

Classic indications of insider trading. You have to have a tipper with access to MNPI. Here, we know that Mr. Seery, if he's the tipper, we allege he's the tipper -- and these are words of art out of case law, by the way -- he has access to information about MGM. He has access about asset values, projected values. He has a relationship. We believe he has a very strong relationship. It's more than just social acquaintances. He's giving congratulatory emails. He's getting solicitations. He's solicited. Benefits received. We know what the benefits are. They get the opportunity to invest money with huge upside.

There was a point mentioned some time ago that, well, only -- only the sellers really have the grievance. Well, Your Honor, we have a right to start our lawsuit and do some discovery, because, frankly, a lot of sellers have big-boy agreements. They say, you don't sue me if I have MNPI. I don't sue you if you have MNPI. We have mutual releases. Let's go by our way. Everybody's happy. We're not going to come back and see each other ever again.

That's one of the things we're being deprived of here. But otherwise, what we have here is a colorable plan. We've asked for the communications with the sellers. We can't get it. We have here an email.

Next.

We have here an email. This actually -- you'll hear Mr. Dondero say this actually reflects three communications. Raj Patel, Farallon, bought it because of Seery. Mr. Dondero contacted Mr. Patel and says, Raj Patel bought it because of Seery. 50 to 70 percent's not compelling. Class 8. 50 percent, 70 percent. Give you a 30 percent to 40 percent premium. Not compelling. I ain't going to sell. Ask what would be compelling. Nothing. No offer. Bought in February/ March. We now know the time frame. We know that Stonehill is communicating with them and we know that Farallon has been just communicating with Mr. Seery. Bought assets with claims. It's not just the MGM. It's not just the portfolio companies and other assets. It's also the claims.

Well, what are the claims? It's the claims against Mr. Dondero. Well, how would they know about all this if there's no due diligence and there's no evidence of any due diligence before you? 130 percent of costs, not compelling, no counter. Mr. Dondero's angry. Discovery is coming.

Atypical behaviors are also circumstantial evidence of insider trading. We have strange behaviors here, Judge. We have a vast majority of the claim value is acquired by only two entities post-confirmation. Most significant claims are only owned by two entities who were strangers to the whole process.

The removal of -- and Mr. Morris offered to stipulate. The sudden removal of MGM from the compliance list in April of 2021 -- by the way, the removal doesn't cleanse the MNPI. If you have material nonpublic information because you received it from Mr. Dondero, the fact that Mr. Dondero's no longer employed by Highland Capital or no longer directly or formally affiliated doesn't cleanse the MNPI.

We have no due diligence, regardless of the significant nine-digit numbers, and we have no rational explanation of why this kind of money would be invested when they're projecting an actual loss, if -- a modest return at best for Class 8 and a loss for Class 9.

Insider trading can be proved by circumstantial evidence, Your Honor. No fraudster, no person who's done wrong is going to admit to it, so you look for the classic -- you look for the classic elements. And that's what we had here. And we have alleged all of this in our pleadings. Not in extraneous evidence. Within the four corners of our pleadings. And that's why we have a plausible claim.

You know, I believe it's Rule 8, Rule 9 of the Federal -- you have to require specificity in a fraud claim. Well, this is not a fraud claim. This is a different claim. But we have provided specificity that passes the smell test of colorability. We have provided specificity that would satisfy even more stringent requirements under 12(b)(6).

The plan analysis. This is a, I think, a document admitted by everyone. Mr. Seery has testified that this projection of 71.32 percent for Class 8 came out in February of 2021 and never changed, all the way up to the effective date.

So this is what the public believed. This is what the public knew. And if this was all that Farallon and if is all that Stonehill had access to, that means that they were going to lose their entire investment on Class 9. They bought UBS at a loss to begin with. And on the other three investments, they were going to get a very, very modest, minor return, six percent over three years, or even less. That is not what hedge funds do.

Seery's excessive post-effective date compensation. We have obtained no discovery from Farallon or Stonehill in this regard, but we know that he had no prior experience. We know that the award that was given him was not market-based, even though the self-serving documents that have been produced and that are attached to their exhibit list suggests a robust negotiation. Well, they were robust without any kind of reality check in the real world about whether it was market-supported. None. Mr. Seery has admitted to that.

It was not lowered. He's making $1.8 million a year right now, with most -- a lot of the assets already sold, the reorganization done. All they're doing now is monetizing assets. He's getting $1.8 million. He's got 11 people working for him. And then he has a bonus, a bonus that is -- increases significantly with his ability to recover for Muck, Jessup, Farallon, and Stonehill.

And in the absence of -- if we were really dealing with uncertainty and risk, then that may be another issue, but here we're dealing with entities that already know that they're going to get a payday and they already have. They've already made about a $170 million return -- 170 percent return, excuse me -- over and above the original investment, when they were projected to actually lose money.

Just so you know, we have over $534 million of cash that has been basically monetized, and out of that, $203 million in total expenses -- $277 million to Class 8 and -- and -- 1 through 7, and Class 8 distributors. Excuse me, creditors. Even if you take -- if you take out the alleged obligations of Mr. Dondero on the promissory note cases, that still leaves over $100 million available, which puts us in the money. Puts us in the money. And the fact that you have $203 million of expenses in a case of this nature is part of our claim, is that we have delay actions. We have a situation where Mr. Seery is continuing to receive $1.8 million a year on a slow pace to monetize, paying other professionals, when this could have been over a long time ago. That's part of our allegations. It's not part of any valuation motion. It's actually in our allegations.

I'm going to reserve the rest. I think that's my opening statement, Your Honor. I'm going to reserve the rest for my closing. And let me see. Yes, that's right. And thank you for your time.

THE COURT: All right. Caroline, how much time was that?

THE CLERK: Thirty-four minutes and 27 seconds.

THE COURT: Thirty-four minutes and 37 seconds. Okay.

THE CLERK: Twenty-seven.

THE COURT: Oh, 27. Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thirty-four minutes?

MR. MCCLEARY: Thirty-four minutes.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I do have hard copies of my short slide presentation.

THE COURT: All right. You may approach.

And Mr. McEntire, are you going to give me your PowerPoint later, hard copies later?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. I found one typo and I'd like to fix one typo and then we'll give it to you.

THE COURT: Okay.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE DEBTORS

MR. MORRIS: Good morning, Your Honor. John Morris, Pachulski Stang Ziehl & Jones, for Highland Capital Management and the Claimant Trust.

I want to be fairly brief because I really want to focus on the evidence. I look forward to Your Honor hearing from

Mr. Seery so that he could clear up a lot of the misleading statements that were just made.

The Court is here today on a gatekeeper function, and we're delighted that the gatekeeper exists. We're delighted that the Court will have an opportunity, after considering evidence, to determine whether or not these claims are actually colorable.

There's -- there were a lot of conclusory statements I just heard. There were a lot of assumptions that were made. There were a lot of misleading statements that were made. At the end of the day, what the Court is going to be asked to do is to decide whether, in light of the evidence, do these claims stand up on their own? And they do not.

And let me begin by saying that I made a mistake a couple of weeks ago. If we can go to Slide 1. I told Your Honor that you were the sixth body to consider these insider trading claims. Based on Hunter Mountain's exhibit list, there is actually one more, and I'll get to that in a moment. So you're actually -- this is the seventh attempt to peddle these claims to one body or another.

The first was Mr. Dondero's 202 petition.

Everything I have here, Your Honor, is footnoted to evidence. Okay?

So, Footnote 1, you can look in the paragraphs of Mr. Dondero's petition, his amended petition, his declaration, where he makes the same allegations. Again, I misspeak. Not the same allegations. Different versions of the allegations that are being presented today concerning insider trading.

He did it three times. The Texas state court said no discovery. In October of 2021, Douglas Draper wrote an extensive letter to the U.S. Trustee, setting forth the same allegations. You can find them at our Exhibit 5. It's attachment Exhibit A, Pages 6 through 11. Compare them to the allegations that are being made by Hunter Mountain today. The U.S. Trustee's Office took no action.

Mr. Rukavina followed up with the same thing to the same body in November of 2021. You can see where his allegations of insider trading are made and quid pro quo and all the rest of it. Again, they took no action.

The one that I don't have on this chart because I didn't -- I made the chart last week and then was unavailable. Mr. Rukavina sent a second letter. And you can find that at Plaintiffs' Exhibit 61. And in Plaintiffs' Exhibit 61, you'll see that Mr. Rukavina sent yet another letter to the U.S. Trustee's Office on May 11, 2022.

And these are all really important, right? The U.S. Trustee's Office has oversight responsibility for matters including claims trading. That's their job. They took three different swings at this. And these are pages of allegations. 6 to 11. 9 to 13. We think it's very important that the Court look at what was told to the U.S. Trustee's Office. And you're going to hear Mr. Seery testify that Highland has never heard from the U.S. Trustee's Office concerning any of these allegations or any of the other allegations that are set forth in Mr. Rukavina and Mr. Draper's letter. Never. Declined to even initiate an investigation.

Hunter Mountain filed its own 202 petition. It boggles my mind that they try to create distance with Mr. Dondero, because the whole petition, like this whole complaint, is based on Mr. Dondero. He submitted a declaration alleging the same insider trading case, and a second Texas state court said I'm not even giving you discovery. We know that's the result.

But the best is the Texas State Securities Board. I think we're going to hear testimony that Mr. Dondero or somebody under his control is the one who filed the complaint with the Texas State Securities Board. Who would be the better body to assess whether or not there's insider trading than a securities board? I can't imagine there's a better body. They did an investigation. Mr. Dondero could have told them anything he wanted. I'm sure he did. And they wrote in their motion in Paragraph 37 one of the reasons they have colorable claims is the investigation is ongoing.

Much to their dismay, I'm sure, two days before our opposition was due, the Texas State Securities Board said, we've looked at the complaint, we've done our investigation, and we're not taking any action. You can find that, Your Honor, Footnoted 5 at Exhibit 33.

You are now the seventh body who's being asked -- and you're being asked to do substantially more than any of the other prior bodies were. The Texas state courts were being asked, just let them have discovery. They said no. The U.S. Trustee's Office, charged with the responsibility of looking at claims trading, said, I'm not going to investigate. I know what you've told me. No. The Texas State Securities Board. Insider trading, insider trading. I'm not doing an investigation. I'm not doing anything. And now they want to come here and engage in, you know, in expensive, long litigation over the same claims nobody else would touch.

Can we go to the next slide?

Mr. Dondero's email. Good golly. "Amazon and Apple are in the data room." There's a hundred articles out there that they're putting into evidence that say that. "Both continue to express material interest." There's a hundred articles out there that say that. "Probably a first-quarter event. Will update as facts change."

There will not be any evidence that he ever updated anybody, because that wasn't the purpose of this, as Your Honor will recall. He had an axe to grind.

And I direct your -- I don't direct the Court to do anything -- I ask the Court to take a look at our opposition to the motion, in Paragraphs 23 to 25, where we cite to extensive evidence, all of which is now part of the record, showing just what was happening, from the moment he got fired on October 10th until the end of the year, with the interference, with the interference, with the threats, with the TRO. It was nonstop.

Was this email sent in good faith by somebody who owed no duty to anybody? Or was it really just another attempt -- and this is why the gatekeeper is so important, because I think that's exactly what this Court is supposed to do: Is this a good-faith claim? Is this a claim that's made in good faith? It can't be. And you know why? You know what's -- you know what's -- I'll just say it now. I won't even save it for cross.

Remember the HarbourVest settlement that they're making so much, you know, about? Mr. Dondero is the tipper. According to him, he gave Mr. Seery inside information. According to him, Mr. Seery abused it by engaging in the HarbourVest transaction. But Mr. Dondero filed an extensive objection to the HarbourVest settlement and never said a word about this, because that wasn't on his mind at the time. The email was sent in order to interfere. And when that failed, he's trying to play gotcha now. It's ridiculous.

He owed no duty to Highland. It would have been a breach of his own duty to MGM to share that information at that period of time.

The shared services agreement. They don't help him. Mr. Dondero has nothing to do with that. Highland is providing services. He's not providing services to Highland. Highland was providing. We had already given notice of termination. We had already had our plan and disclosure -- we had already had our disclosure statement approved. We were weeks away from confirmation. Please.

And the Wall Street Journal article on December 21st at Exhibit 27, that's not your garden-variety Wall Street Journal article, because it specifically says that investment bankers were engaged to start a formal process. The investment bankers are identified by name. Something has changed. Anybody could see that.

Yes, there were rumors for a long time. Nobody had ever said there was a formal process. Nobody had ever said investment bankers had ever been hired. Nobody had ever identified those investment bankers. Right? I mean, just the world changed.

If you can go to the next slide.

You know, before I get to the next slide in too much detail, quid pro quo. We look at it as quid. Did he -- is there any evidence that he actually gave anybody material nonpublic inside information? The answer is going to be no. The quo is the relationship. And I'm not going to spend too much time on that now. But wait until you hear Mr. Seery testify as to the actual facts about his relationship. Because some of what we just heard is mind-boggling, that little -- that little page from the Blockbuster case, like, 14 years ago, where Farallon was one of a group of people who Jim Seery never met. Like, the stretch, what they're trying to do is beyond the pale. But I'm delighted to have Mr. Seery sit in the box and answer all the questions they want to ask him about his relationship with Farallon and Stonehill.

But getting to the point, the quid pro quo. The quo is they fixed his compensation? Are you kidding me? They rubber-stamped his compensation? Highland and Mr. Seery and the board are alleged to have negotiated? There's nothing alleged. There are facts. There is evidence. It is beyond dispute. If you look, just for example, right, they take issue with his salary? The salary was fixed by this Court in 2020. Without objection. He's getting the exact same salary that he ever got.

You'll hear that it's a full-time job. Your Honor knows better than anybody in this courtroom, other than me, perhaps, the litigation burden that's been placed on this man. He has no other income. He doesn't do anything else. This is a full-time job. It's the exact same job that he had when Your Honor approved his compensation package three years ago, without a raise. They didn't give him a nickel more. Not one nickel. It's outrageous.

The balance of his compensation, of which he has not yet received a nickel, is exactly what this Court would want somebody in Mr. Seery's position to do. It aligns his interests with his constituency. Not with Stonehill. Not with Farallon. With all creditors. The greater the recovery, the greater the bonus. Outrageous, right? Remarkable, isn't it? Only in their world.

If Your Honor can go back to Mr. Rukavina's letter, because this is where it all -- that's where it all starts from. Like, excessive compensation. Mr. Rukavina, I don't know how he did this, why he did it, what it was based on. He actually told the U.S. Trustee's Office that they thought Mr. Seery made $50 million. It's in the letter. $50 million, they told the U.S. Trustee's Office he made. It's footnoted, so you can go find it. It's right there, at Page 14. Quote, Seery's success fee could approximate $50 million.

$8.8 million is what he's making. They think that's excessive? What do they think he should make? Three? Five? We're not going to hear that. But that's what this case is about. You just heard counsel in his opening statement. He literally said the only thing at issue is his compensation. And that has to be the case, because if there was -- if there was no claims trading, UBS and HarbourVest and Acis, right, the Redeemer Committee, they would all still be holding these claims today.

When Stonehill and Farallon acquired the claims, they were all allowed. There was no debate about what the claims were. If they held the claims today, they would be worth the exact same amount of money, only a different person would be benefitting from it.

So the case actually is only about Mr. Seery's compensation. And they've moved the goalposts, as often happens in this courtroom, from rubber-stamping -- I'll give you what you want. When I hear rubber-stamp, I hear, you make a demand and I'll give it to you. And now they realize, when they see the negotiation -- because it's in evidence, it's just the documents, you can see the board minutes -- what do we, doctor the board minutes and they should get discovery because we doctored the board minutes? The board minutes show a four-month negotiation with an Independent Board member fully involved. It's mind-boggling. It's actually -- well, I'll just leave it at that.

Next slide. Last slide. Let me finish up. Three of the four sellers were former Committee members. Mr. Dondero agreed that Committee members would have access to special nonpublic inside information as part of the protocols, as part of the corporate governance settlement. He agreed to that. These are the people who got abused? These are the people who didn't know what was happening? Committee members and HarbourVest, probably one of the biggest and most sophisticated funds in the world, didn't know what was happening? They got abused? Stonehill and Farallon took advantage of them?

If you read their pleadings closely, they actually allege, and I don't -- I don't know if there'll ever be any evidence of this -- but they actually allege that -- I forget which -- oh, somebody is an investor in Stonehill and Farallon, and so the theory is one of the sellers is an investor in Farallon. So not only did they abuse, they abused one of their own investors. Like, this is not a colorable claim. This is ridiculous.

None of the claims sellers are here. Sophisticated people who -- who -- right? Mr. Dondero could pick up the phone and say, hey, guys, you got ripped off. You sold your claims when you shouldn't have. They had an unfair advantage.

Nobody's here. Where is anybody complaining? They're not going to because they cut a deal that they thought was good for them at the time. In hindsight, maybe they have regrets. Right? We all have regrets sometimes in hindsight. But that doesn't create a claim.

We've heard so much about what hedge funds would get and how much and is this rational? The fact of the matter is, at the time Mr. Dondero had his phone call on May 28th, UBS had not been purchased, although MGM had already been announced.

So when they talk about MGM, maybe it's the fact -- and this is in evidence -- maybe it's the fact that, two days before, the MGM-Amazon deal actually was publicly announced. It actually was. So maybe when they say, hey, yeah, we like MGM, because, you know, that just -- that just got announced. Maybe that happened.

But at the end of the day, the claims that they bought, if you just look at the claims that were purchased at the time he had the conversation, all Mr. Seery had to do was meet projections and they were going to get $33 million in two years. A 30 percent return in two years. I don't know. That doesn't -- that doesn't sound crazy to me. Doesn't sound crazy to me. It certainly doesn't create a colorable claim, just because they think that Farallon or Stonehill -- there's not going to be any evidence of Farallon or Stonehill's risk profile. There's not going to be any evidence of Farallon or Stonehill's, you know, expected returns. There's not going to be any evidence at all about what due diligence they did or didn't do, other than what comes out of Mr. Dondero's mouth, as usual.

Mr. Dondero -- and let's look at what's going to come out of Mr. Dondero's mouth. He has multiple sworn statements. I'm going to take his notes and they're going to become mine. I'll put him on notice right now. Because those notes bear no relationship to the evolution of his sworn statements over time.

The first time he mentions MGM in a sworn statement is two years after the fact in Version #5. That's a colorable claim? You want -- you want to oversee a litigation, or maybe it gets removed to the district court, maybe I get lucky to be in front of a jury, and I'll have Mr. Dondero explain how it took him five tries before he could write down the letters MGM. Not a colorable claim. No evidence against Stonehill whatsoever. Zero. Zero. Never spoke to them. There's no colorable claim here, Your Honor.

I'm going to turn the podium over to Mr. Stancil to talk about the law.

THE COURT: Okay.

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES P. SEERY, JR.

MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor. Mark Stancil, counsel for Mr. Seery. But I'm going to just very briefly address a few legal points. And I actually mean briefly.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: I'll come back to a good bit of this in closing as time permits.

I heard Mr. McEntire say Barton doesn't apply. I would encourage him to start with what the gatekeeping order actually says. Here it is. This is in -- it's in the plan. Your Honor has confirmed it. The question we have in terms of what standard applies is, what does this order mean? Well, we think that's going to be clear. It's not what they think the word "colorable" would mean in other contexts. It's not what they think they should have to satisfy now that they have a theory. It's, what does this mean?

And we'll get into some of the additional evidence from Your Honor's order at the time, later in closing.

Next slide, please.

But let me just start to say I'm awfully surprised to hear him say that he doesn't believe Barton applies, because the order says that it does. This is Paragraph 80 of the confirmation order. It says that the Court has statutory authority to approve the gatekeeper provision under these sections of the Bankruptcy Code. The gatekeeper provision is also within the spirit of the Supreme Court's Barton Doctrine. The gatekeeper provision is also consistent with the notion of a pre-filing injunction to deter vexatious litigants that has been approved by the Fifth Circuit in such cases as Baum v. Blue Moon Ventures.

So I think it is impossible, and respectfully, Your Honor, it's law of the case. This is what the order is based on. The day for objecting to what's in the confirmation order is long gone.

So let me come back, then -- first slide, please -- and I'll just very briefly give you a little legal framework for what we're going to be arguing to you later in closing.

So, Barton does require a prima facie showing. That is Vistacare and plenty of other cases. That is more than a 12(b)(6) standard, Your Honor. Numerous courts agree. And in fact, as you'll hear us discuss later, Judge Houser's opinion is not to the contrary, because she said explicitly, I'm not applying Barton. So anything that they're relying on for what Barton requires from that opinion is dicta. But we can show you case after case after case, and we will, to show that Barton requires evidentiary hearings.

Here's a point, this third bullet here is something I have not heard a single word in all of the briefing and ink that has been spilled and in as long as we've been here this morning, is what is a gatekeeping order doing if all it does is reproduce a 12(b)(6) standard? That's what they say. In fact, they're actually saying it's even lower. Now I think I heard them say it's even lower than a 12(b)(6) standard.

That makes no sense whatsoever. We've just shown you that this gatekeeping order was imposed consistent with Barton and vexatious litigant principles. Later I will walk Your Honor through factual findings that you made detailing the vexatious litigation, detailing the abuses. The notion that the gate is the same gate that every other litigant who hasn't demonstrated that record of bad faith is absurd, and it serves no purpose.

And as Mr. Morris described, Hunter Mountain woefully, woefully violates any prima facie showing. And we'll get into a little bit more exactly how that works.

We are going to ask this Court, in addition to ruling that Barton applies and that they've failed it, we're going to ask this Court, respectfully, to please consider ruling on multiple independent grounds as well. We know there's a penchant for appeals and appeals upon appeals. So we will argue to Your Honor, although we will largely spare you another rehash of our briefs, but we will explain to Your Honor why they do lack standing to bring this claim as a matter of Delaware law. And there was a lot of fuzzing up about constitutional standing and Delaware law. Not necessary.

If -- we will be happy to rely on our pleadings here, but on Page 27 of the Claimant Trust Agreement, that's what defines their rights under Delaware law, and they were talking about how beneficial owners under Delaware law have standing. Well, are they beneficial owners? They are not. Equity holders -- this is in Paragraph C, Page 27 of the Claimant Trust Agreement -- Equity holders will only be deemed beneficiaries under this agreement upon the filing of a payment certification with the bankruptcy court, at which time the contingent trust interests will vest and be deemed equity trust interests.

They are not beneficial owners of squat. That has not happened.

And last, Your Honor, we will -- and I will organize this for Your Honor in closing as well -- we would ask you to rule on a straight-up 12(b)(6) standard as an alternative, because we know what's coming on appeal and we think their complaint collapses under its own weight. You heard Mr. Morris detailing their own math shows significant returns. You'll also hear us describe how they have nothing but mere conclusions and naked assertions upon information and belief but unsupported.

Iqbal and Twombly would still apply under their 12(b)(6) standard, especially, and perhaps even more with a heightened standard under Rule 9(b), because they're essentially alleging some version of fraud, it sounds like.

They're never going to get there, Your Honor. All we would ask is for a full record to take inevitably, unfortunately, to the Court of Appeals.

And I think Mr. -- I'm not sure which of my colleagues will be speaking briefly for Holland & Knight, but I'll just turn it over to them.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. McIlwain?

OPENING STATEMENT ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIM PURCHASERS

MR. MCILWAIN: Thank you, Your Honor. I'll be even briefer. Brent McIlwain here for the Claim Purchasers.

Your Honor, Mr. McEntire stated to this Court that my clients have never denied any of this. In fact, in his reply, he says, The Claim Purchasers do not deny that they invested over $163 million. We do not deny that we did not due diligence, we do not deny that we refused to sell our claims at any price, and we do not deny that we invested the claims at what is, at best, a low ROI.

We had no duty to answer to HMIT or Mr. McEntire. We had no duty when we bought these claims to -- we had no duties to any creditor. We had -- it was a bilateral agreement with a third party. And frankly, Your Honor, it's not Mr. Dondero's or HMIT's business what due diligence we did and what information that we obtained.

But I will tell you right now, Your Honor, we were very careful in our pleadings to not bring issues of fact, because this -- HMIT has been chasing my clients, obviously, based on the notes that were presented in the initial PowerPoint, it was a -- it's retribution. It's retribution for not agreeing to sell the claims to Mr. Dondero when he offered to purchase at a 40 percent premium.

And Your Honor, when I look at that note, it's interesting, because I hadn't seen the note, obviously, until it showed up on the exhibit list. When you look at that note, I think it's -- I think it's very interesting. To the extent it was contemporaneous, I don't know. But what it shows, it shows that if you're a hammer, everything's a nail. And Mr.

Dondero is a vexatious litigator. And what did he write down? Discovery to follow.

But my question is this. Who was trying to trade on inside information? Mr. Dondero was offering a 40 percent premium, allegedly, on the cost. What information did he have? Certainly, he had inside information.

My client owed no duty to Mr. Dondero. My client owed no duty to anybody in this estate at the time of these claims purchase.

And Your Honor, we talk a lot about -- or, it's been talked a lot of insider trading. These are claims trades. I think the Court honed in on this from the very get-go. The Court does not have a role in claims trades. There's a 3001 notice that's filed post-claims trade, but there's no requirement that there's Court approval.

And these aren't securities. It's not as if we're trading claims and it could benefit or hurt you based on some equity position that you're going to obtain. We obtained claims that had been settled, they were litigated heavily, and the most that we can obtain is the amount of the claim. And that is, as Mr. Morris stated, all that changed was the name of the claimant. That's all. Because the claims didn't increase in value based on the trade.

Your Honor, our pleadings, I think, speak for themselves in terms of you really -- you really don't have to consider evidence, from our perspective, to determine that this proposed complaint has no merit and is not plausible and presents no colorable claims.

The gatekeeper provision, and we're going to talk a lot about that today, obviously, right, requires that Mr. Dondero establish a prima facie case that the claims have some plausibility. If you can simply write down allegations, file a motion for leave and attach those allegations and say, Your Honor, you have to take all these as true, the gatekeeper has no meaning. There's no point in having a gatekeeper provision.

And in summary, Your Honor, what -- and I think Mr. Morris honed in on this specifically -- this really comes down to compensation. Right? Because this -- the allegation is that my clients purchased claims, presumably at a discount, right, based on some inside information, which we obviously deny, but we don't have to put that at issue today. For what purpose? For what purpose? So we got inside information from Mr. Seery so that we could then scratch his back on compensation on the back-end?

Your Honor, there is no reason that my clients need to be involved in this litigation. If HMIT thinks that this -- that they have a claim against Mr. Seery for excessive compensation, they can -- they could have brought such a gatekeeper motion, or a motion for leave under the gatekeeper provision, without including my clients. Why did they include my clients? They included my clients because my clients did not sell to Mr. Dondero when he called, unsolicited, to try to get information. It's retribution. And that's what a vexatious litigator does, and that's why the gatekeeper provision is in place.

I'll reserve the rest for closing, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Caroline, what was the collective time of the Respondents?

THE CLERK: Twenty-eight minutes and 37 seconds.

THE COURT: Twenty-eight minutes, 37 seconds.

All right. Well, let's talk about should we take a lunch break now? I'm thinking we should, because any witness is going to be, I'm sure, more than an hour. So can you all get by with 30 minutes, or do you need 45 minutes? I'll go with the majority vote on this.

(Counsel confer.)

MR. MCENTIRE: 1:00 o'clock. 45 minutes.

MR. MORRIS: 40 minutes, whatever. 1:00 o'clock?

THE COURT: We'll come back at 1:00 o'clock.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A luncheon recess ensued from 12:19 p.m. until 1:05 p.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're going back on the record in the Highland matter, the Hunter Mountain motion for leave to file lawsuit.

I'll just let you know that at 1:30 we're going to take probably what will be a five-minute break, maybe ten minutes at the most, because I have a 1:30 motion to lift stay docket. Just looking at the pleadings, I really think maybe one is going to be resolved and it won't be more than five or ten minutes. So whoever is on witness stand can either just stay there, because I think we won't be finished, or you can take a bathroom break or whatever. All right? So, it's video, the 1:30 docket.

All right. So, Mr. McEntire, are you ready to call your first witness?

MR. MCENTIRE: I am, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: May I proceed?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MCENTIRE: At this time, Hunter Mountain calls Mr. James Dondero.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, welcome. If you could find your way to the witness box, I will swear you in once you're there. It looks like you've got lots of notebooks there. Please raise your right hand.

(The witness is sworn.)

THE COURT: All right. Thank you. You may be seated.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm not familiar with your procedure. Should I approach the -- here to --

THE COURT: If you would, unless you're having --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine.

THE COURT: -- any kind of --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine. I'm not.

THE COURT: -- knee issues or, you know, sometimes people want to stay seated for that reason.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, again, my tender of Mr. Dondero as a witness is subject to our running objection on the evidentiary format.

THE COURT: Understood.

JAMES DAVID DONDERO, HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST'S WITNESS, SWORN

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, would you state your full name for the record, please?

A James David Dondero.

Q With whom are you currently -- what company are you currently affiliated with?

A Founder and president of NexPoint.

Q All right. And I think the Court is well aware, but would you just briefly describe your prior affiliation with -- was it Highland Capital?

A Yes.

Q What was that affiliation?

A President and founder for 30 years, and then to facilitate an expeditious resolution of the estate I handed the reins to three Independent Board members and I became a portfolio manager until October of -- I was an unpaid portfolio manager until October of '20.

Q Thank you, sir. Do you have any current official position with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust?

A No.

Q Can you describe for us, sir, any actual or control you attempt to exercise on the business affairs of Hunter Mountain Investment Trust?

A None.

Q Are you -- do you have any official legal relationship with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust where you can attempt to exercise either direct or indirect control over Hunter Mountain Investment Trust?

A I do not.

Q Did you participate -- personally participate in the decision of whether or not to file the proceedings that are currently pending before Judge Jernigan?

A I did not.

Q As the former CEO of Highland Capital, are you familiar with the types of assets that Highland Capital owned? On the petition date?

A Yes.

Q And have you been monitoring these proceedings and the disclosures in these proceedings since the petition date?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Can you describe generally for me the types of assets on the petition date that Highland Capital owned? The types of assets? Describe the types of assets -- companies, stocks, securities, whatever, whatever you -- however you would describe it.

A There were some securities, but it was primarily investments in private equity companies and interests in funds.

Q Okay. I've heard the term portfolio company. What is a portfolio company?

A A portfolio company would be a private equity company that we controlled a majority of the equity and appointed and held accountable the management teams.

Q Would there be separate management, separate boards, for those portfolio companies?

A Yes.

Q All right. How many portfolio companies were there on the petition date, if you're aware? If you recall?

A Half a dozen, of different sizes.
Q Can you identify the names, if you recall?
A Yes.
Q What are those names?
A Trussway, Cornerstone, some small -- Carey International, CFA, SSP Holdings. Yeah, to a lesser extent, OmniCare.
Q All right.
A Or, um, --
Q In addition to the portfolio --
A Sorry.
Q -- of companies in which Highland Capital would own interests, did Highland also have interests in various funds?
A Yes. I said OmniCare. I meant OmniMax, I think was the name.
Q What type of funds?
A I'm sorry. The funds were usually funds that we were invested in or seeded or managed. So they're things like Multistrat, Restoration, a Korea fund, PetroCap.
Q Are these managed funds by Highland Capital? Or were they?
A Yes. Pretty much, with the exception of PetroCap. We were a minority -- a minority -- a large -- a large minority investor with a sub-advisor.
Q Did Highland Capital Management on the petition date own an interest, a direct security interest in MGM?

A Yes. And I -- yes.
Q Did the various portfolio companies that you've identified, did one or more of those portfolio companies also own MGM stock?
A Yes.
Q Did the various funds that you've identified, did one or more of those funds also own MGM stock?
A Yes. Between -- yes. Between the CLOs, the funds, Highland directly, it was about $500 million that eventually got taken out for about a billion dollars.
Q Okay. $500 million is what you said?
A Approximately. Depending on what mark, what time frame. But ultimately they got taken out for about a billion dollars.
Q Okay. And as a consequence of these investments, significant investment -- first of all, how would you describe that magnitude of investments? Is that a significant investment from the perspective of MGM?
A Yes.
Q As a consequence, what role, if any, did you play in terms of MGM's governance? Were you -- did you become a member of the board of directors?
A Yes. I was a board member for approximately ten years, and myself and the president of Anchorage, between our two entities, we had a majority of the equity in MGM.
Q Okay. If there was a third party, not familiar with the management of Highland Capital, who had been monitoring these bankruptcy proceedings as you have, was there any way that a third-party stranger to this bankruptcy proceeding could, from your perspective, actually appreciate or identify the -- all the details of the investments that Highland Capital had?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question. It calls for speculation. He's not here as an expert today. He shouldn't be allowed to testify what a third party would or wouldn't have thought or known.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I'll --

THE COURT: I'll overrule.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero?

A The disclosures in the Highland bankruptcy were scant. I think there was six or eight line items listed, the descriptions of which were limited. But it didn't include -- it didn't include a broad listing of all the funds, and it didn't include subsidiaries or any net value or any offsetting liabilities or risks of any of the underlying companies or investments, either.

MR. MCENTIRE: Would you put up Exhibit 3, please?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, we're going to -- do you have a screen in front of you as well?

A Yes.

Q We're going to put up Exhibit 3, and I'm going to ask you some questions about it. First of all, would you identify Exhibit 3?

A It didn't come up on my screen yet.

Q Still not up there?

A Yes. Now it is.

Q Can you identify Exhibit 3, please?

(Discussion.)

Q There we go. Mr. Dondero, would you identify Exhibit 3, please?

A This was an email I sent to Compliance and relevant people to put -- to put MGM on the restricted list.

Q It indicates it was on December 17, 2020. Did you personally author this email?

A Yes.

Q You sent it to multiple individuals, including Mr. Surgent. Was Mr. Surgent an attorney at Highland Capital at the time?

A He was head of compliance for both organizations.

Q Scott Ellington? Is he an attorney? Was he an attorney at the time?

A He's the general counsel of Highland.

Q You also sent it to someone at NexPoint Advisors, Jason Post. Who is Mr. Post?

A Mr. Post was head of compliance at NexPoint Advisors and a subordinate of Thomas Surgent's.

Q Jim Seery. Mr. Seery, of course. You also addressed it to Mr. Seery?

A Yes.

Q It says, Trading Restrictions Re: MGM Material Nonpublic Information. What did you mean by the term "material nonpublic information"?

A Material nonpublic information is when you have material nonpublic information that the public does not have, and it essentially makes you an insider and restricts you from trading.

Q All right. It says, Just got off a pre-board call.

First of all, you generated this in the ordinary course of your business, did you not?

A Um, --

Q This email.

A Yes.

Q Okay.

A Yes.

Q And --

A Any restricted list. Restricted list items happen all the time in the normal course of business.

Q And you've maintained a copy of this email as well, have you not?

A I'm sure we have one. I don't have it personally.

Q Fair enough. But you're -- you have -- you have access and custody over emails, correct?

A Not any of my Highland emails.

Q But those were left. Right?

A Yes. Yes.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I mean, he's leading the witness at this point, so I'm just --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine.

MR. MORRIS: I'm just --

THE COURT: Okay. Sustained.

MR. MORRIS: -- going to be sensitive to it.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. -- this is a true and accurate copy of the email that you sent, is it not?

A It appears to be.

MR. MCENTIRE: At this time, I would offer Exhibit 3 into evidence, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm looking through what we admitted earlier. Did we not --

MR. MCENTIRE: This already may be in evidence.

THE COURT: Yes. I'm --

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't --

THE COURT: Was there any objection?

MR. MORRIS: There wasn't. I mean, --

THE COURT: I think there was an objection that I overruled.

MR. MORRIS: No. There wasn't. I mean, unfortunately, we've gotten the short end of the stick here, because all of their documents are in evidence, and I got caught short because I'm going to have to do it the old-fashioned way. But yes, this is in evidence.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Fair enough.

MR. MORRIS: Because -- actually got through all of their documents.

MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q So, Mr. --

THE COURT: So it's in evidence.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q -- Dondero, going back to Exhibit 3, it says, Just got off a pre-board call.

Is that the MGM board, a pre-board call?

A Yes.

Q What is a pre-board call?

A It's a pre-board call that usually sets the agenda. And, again, myself and the Anchorage guys, we would move in locksteps, in a coordinated fashion, generally, in terms of agenda and company policy.

Q It says, Update is as follows. Amazon and Apple actively diligencing in the data room.

What was your understanding of -- of -- what was your intent in conveying that information to the recipients?

A The intent was really in the last sentence, or second-to-last sentence, that the transaction was likely to close. Amazon had come back. We had turned Amazon away earlier in the year at $120 a share, and they said they wouldn't be willing to pay more. And --

THE COURT: Is there an objection?

MR. MORRIS: There is an objection. None of this was shared with Mr. Seery, all of this background that we're -- that we're doing. He -- I would request that we stick with the -- only the information that was given to Mr. Seery, like -- like he's talking about his intent. Like, who cares at this point?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: This is what Mr. Seery got.

THE COURT: Okay. What is your response to that?

MR. MCENTIRE: I have a response to -- well, they've -- they've questioned his intent in sending this in his opening statement.

MR. MORRIS: Ah.

MR. MCENTIRE: And I'm trying to make it clear what his intent was.

MR. MORRIS: So, you know what, Your Honor? Quid pro quo. Now we're going to do a real quid pro quo. He can ask him about his intent, and then he can't object to all of the other documents and exhibits that I say prove that this was here only to interfere with Mr. Seery's trading activity. I'll do that quid pro quo.

MR. MCENTIRE: May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may. Objection is overruled.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, what was your intent in communicating --

A Okay.

Q -- that probably a first-quarter event? What was your understanding?

A After 30 years of compliance education: Taint one, taint all. We were all sitting together. I -- the trading desk was right outside my desk. All the employees of Highland that would eventually move to NexPoint, all the ones that would eventually move to Skyview, all the ones that eventually moved to Jim Seery, were all within 30 feet of my desk.

Q What do you mean by "Taint one, taint all"?

A That's a compliance concept that, as a professional, you have a responsibility, when you are in possession of material nonpublic information, to put something on the restricted list so that it's not traded. Okay? And you can't -- one person can't sit in their cube and say they know something and not tell anybody else, such that the rest of the organization trades. That's not the way compliance works.

Q It says also no -- also, any sales are subject to a shareholder agreement.

What was the meaning of that or the intent of that?

A There was a stringent shareholder agreement, particularly among the board members, that no shares could be bought or sold without approval of the company.

Q The company here being MGM?

A MGM, yes.

Q What is a restricted list?

A A restricted list is when you believe as an investment professional that you have material nonpublic information, you notify Compliance, and then Compliance notifies the entire organization and prevents any trading in that security.

Q You mentioned the doctrine taint one, taint all. If an individual or -- if an individual within a company setting is found to have traded on material nonpublic information, what is the potential consequence or sanction?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. This is like a legal conclusion. He's not a law enforcement officer. He's not a securities officer. What are we doing?

MR. MCENTIRE: I can rephrase.

THE COURT: Okay. He's going to rephrase.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Based upon your years -- based upon your years of experience as a board member of MGM, based upon your years of experience as a CEO of Highland Capital and an executive that trades in securities and has sold securities, what is your understanding, from a non-legal perspective, of what the risks are associated with trading on material nonpublic information?

A You could be -- you would be fired from the organization if you did. You could be banned from the securities industry. The industry can shut down the -- or, the SEC can shut down the advisor or they can fine the advisor.

Q Do you know what a compliance log is?

A Yes.

Q Should MGM have been placed on a compliance log at NexPoint?

A Throughout the organization -- throughout the organization, it should -- it should and it was on all -- at all organizations, yes.

Q Should it have been placed on a -- on a compliance log to Highland Capital, from your perspective?

A Yes.

Q Can you give us any explanation of why, to your knowledge, why MGM would be taken off the restricted list in April of 2021 at Highland Capital?

A When an investment professional puts something on the restricted list, in order for it to come off the restricted list, the material nonpublic information has to be public. So there has to be a cleansing that occurs by the company.

Q To the extent that you were no longer affiliated with Highland Capital in the early portion, the first quarter of 2021, does that somehow cleanse the material nonpublic information that you identified?

A It does not.

Q Why not?

A Because the -- it -- the company hasn't -- the company didn't come out and make public the information that we knew from a private perspective that the transaction was about to go through.

Q You sat here during opening statements when Mr. Morris referred to the various news coverage and media coverage concerning MGM and the fact that people had expressed interest in buying in the past?

A Yes. And at the board level, we had entertained numerous ones. There were rumors that had no basis in fact, and there were negotiations we had with people that were never in the news. But none of them got to this degree of certainty where it was going to close within a couple months.

Q From your perspective as an investment professional, with the years of experience that you described for the Court, what is the difference between receiving an email from a board member such as yourself and rumors or suggestions of possible sale in the media?

A I knew with certainty from the board level that Amazon had hit our price, agreed to hit our price, and it was going to close in the next couple months.

Q That's not rumor or innuendo; that's hard information from a member of the MGM board?

A Correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right. You can take that down, please, Tim.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q I want to talk a little bit about due diligence. When you were the chief executive officer of Highland Capital, --

A Yes.

Q -- can you tell us whether Highland Capital ever involved itself in the acquisition of distressed assets?

A Yes. We did a fair amount of investing in distressed assets.

Q What is a distressed asset?

A It's something that trades at a discount, where the certainty and the timing of realizations or contractual obligations is uncertain.

Q Is a -- well, let me back up. Has Highland -- did Highland Capital ever invest in unsecured claims in connection with bankruptcy proceedings?

A Yes.

Q And in terms of the -- on the spectrum of risk, where does an unsecured creditor claim in a bankruptcy proceeding kind of rank in terms of the uncertainties or risk, from your perspective?

A It's high risk. It's a -- yeah, it would be highly-distressed, generally.

Q Explain to us -- I know the Court is very familiar with claims trading. Explain to us from your perspective as an investment -- a seasoned investment expert or executive what those risks are. What types of risk are associated with such an investment?

A You have to evaluate the assets tied to the claim specifically. Or if it's an unsecured in general, the assets in general in the estate.

You have to handicap the realization that a distressed seller might not get full value for something. You have to handicap the likelihood around that. And then you have to handicap the timing, and then you have to handicap the expenses and the other obligations of the estate, and then handicap risk items that aren't known or that are difficult if not impossible to underwrite, like unknown litigation or last-minute litigation or claims or something.

Q And all these handicapping, this handicapping process, how does that impact the price or the investment that you're willing to make? Generally?

A Generally, you put a much higher discount rate. You know, like if you would do debt at 10 percent and a normal public equity at a 15 percent return, you would do distressed or private equity investing at a 20, 25 percent return expectation to offset the risk and the unknowns.

Q In order to handicap an investment in an unsecured creditor's claim appropriately to reach an informed decision, what type of data would you need to have access to?

MR. MORRIS: Objection to the form of the question. He's not here as an expert. He's here as a fact witness. He should -- he should limit himself to that instead of talking about what investors should be doing.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, with all due respect, he's here as the former CEO of Highland Capital. He has experience, firsthand knowledge experience, and he also has expertise because of his education, his career, and training.

And again, there's no limitation here under the Rules about what type of information I can elicit from him in this proceeding. This is, whether you call it expert testimony, I call it personal knowledge, but it has some expert aspects to it, but I think that's fair and appropriate.

THE COURT: Well, I think you can ask what kind of data would you rely on, would Highland Capital or entities he's been in charge of rely on, --

MR. MCENTIRE: I understand.

THE COURT: -- but not what would people rely on. So I sustain the objection partially.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, I'll rephrase the question. When you were the chief executive officer of Highland Capital before Mr. Seery took the reins, and you, your company, Highland Capital, was investing in an unsecured creditor's claims, what due diligence, what type of information would you expect your team to explore and investigate?

A Sure. Distressed investment in a trade claim would be among our thickest folders, it would be among our most diligenced items, because you have those three buckets, the value of the assets, again, and the ability and timing of monetization of those as a not strong -- as a weak seller, and then you would have the litigation or claims against those, and then you would have to also have a third section of analysis for the litigation risk of the estate overall.

Q What type of legal analysis or legal due diligence would you have required as the CEO of Highland Capital?

A At Highland, we would have had third-party law firms, in addition to our own legal staff, in addition to our own business professionals, reviewing all the analysis and the assumptions.

Q With regard to a financial analysis, what types of financial due diligence would you have required?

A It would have been a detailed -- a detailed analysis of all the cash flows on the particular underlying investments, and an evaluation and valuation of what those companies or investments were worth.

Q Why is it important to look at the underlying value of the asset?

A Because that -- those are what will be monetized in order to give you a return on the claims or securities that you buy in a distressed situation.

MR. MCENTIRE: Tim, would you please put up Exhibit 4?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I don't mean to be monitoring your time, but we're at the 1:30 --

THE COURT: I was just checking the clock here. Let's do take a break. So, --

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can we have an instruction to the witness not to --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MORRIS: -- look at his phone and not to confer with anybody? Because we had that incident once before.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I don't --

THE WITNESS: I don't have my phone.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: My phone's at the front desk.

THE COURT: So, no discussions with your lawyers or -- I guess he doesn't have his phone -- during this break.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. So, I really think this will take five minutes, so don't go far.

(Off the record, 1:33 p.m. to 1:47 p.m.)

THE COURT: Okay. We will go back on the record, then, in the Highland matter.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm just going to grab him right now.

THE COURT: Okay. We are, for the record, waiting on Mr. Dondero to take his place again on the witness stand.

(Pause.)

THE COURT: All right, Mr. Dondero. We're ready for you to resume your testimony.

All right. Mr. McEntire, you may proceed.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you, Your Honor.

DIRECT EXAMINATION, RESUMED

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, when we left off, I was just putting up what I requested as Exhibit 4.

MR. MCENTIRE: And Tim, if you can put that back up, please.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, can you identify Exhibit #4, please?
A Yes. These are notes I took contemporaneous with three conversations with guys at Farallon.
Q I didn't quite hear you. Did you say contemporaneous?
A Yes.
Q So, you say with three conversations. Who were the conversations with?
A One was with Raj Patel that was fairly short, and he deflected me to Mike Linn, who was the portfolio manager in charge and had done the transactions.
Q Which transactions?
A The buying of the claim, the Highland claims.
Q All right. And what was your purpose in making these notes?
A We'd been trying nonstop to settle the case for two-plus years. We'd been counseled that it was a Kabuki dance that would just, you know, all settle at the end, and it never quite happened that way. And when we heard the claims traded, we realized there were new parties to potentially negotiate to resolve the case.

The ownership was initially hidden, but we were able to find out pretty quickly that Farallon was Muck. So I reached out the Farallon guys.
Q All right. And were you ever able at that time to determine who was affiliated with Jessup, the other special-purpose entity?

A We -- initially, we thought Farallon was all of the entities. We didn't find out about Stonehill -- it was more difficult and they had taken more efforts to hide the ownership in Stonehill. We didn't find out for two more months.

Q So your first conversation was with Mr. Patel?

A Yes.

Q And did you call him?

A Yes.

Q Your first entry, there's a 28 on the left-hand side. What does that 28 refer to, if you recall?

A That was the date, I believe.

Q Do you believe it was May 28th?

A Yes.

Q What makes you believe that?

A That's what it says.

Q Okay. Raj Patel --

THE COURT: Is there a way you can show the words that are cut off?

MR. MCENTIRE: On this particular one, I can't, Your Honor. We tried, but we can't. No.

THE COURT: If I look in the notebook, can I see it?

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't think so. I think this is -- what you see is exactly what's in the notebook. It's the same document. This is how -- how we -- this is how we have it.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Patel. Who is Mr. Patel?

A He's Mike Linn's boss. He's head of -- I believe head of credit at Farallon.

Q Okay. And Farallon is based where, if you know?

A San Francisco.

Q And what kind of company is Farallon, if you know?

A They -- they look a lot like Highland. Well, they do real estate. They do hedge funds. They do -- they don't do as many 40 Act or retail funds, but they're -- they're an investor.

Q Mr. Patel. What did he tell you during this phone call?

A That he bought it because Seery told him to buy it and they had made money with Seery before.

Q All right. And how long did the call last?

A Not long.

Q Okay. You said he referred you to Mr. -- who was the person?

A To Mike Linn.

Q Who is Mike Linn?

A Mike Linn is a portfolio manager that works for Mr. Patel.

Q And did you call Mr. Linn?

A Yes.

Q All right. The notes here, do these reflect several conversations?

A The first one reflects a conversation with Raj Patel, and then the rest of it reflects two conversations with Mike Linn.
Q All right. Where does the first conversation with Mike Linn start and where does it end?
A It ends -- it begins at the 50, 70 cents. We knew that they had -- that the claims had traded around 50 cents. And I said we'd be willing to pay 70 cents. We'd like to prevent the $5 million-a-month burn. We'd like to buy your claims.
Q Why 70 cents? What was -- what was that all about?
A I was trying to give them a compelling premium that was still less than I had offered the UCC three months earlier.
Q And so you have: Not compelling, Class 8. What does that mean?
A He said that was -- he just said 70 cents wasn't compelling.
Q There's a reference to: Asked what would be compelling. Was that a question you asked him?
A Yes.
Q And what was his response?
A He said he had no offer. And he -- we had heard he paid 50 cents and I offered him 70 cents and then -- but he was clear to me that he wouldn't tell me what he paid. And so the next time I called him I -- I -- instead of just making it cents on the dollar, I said I'd pay 130 percent of whatever he did pay. You don't have to tell me what you paid, but I'll pay you 30 percent more than you paid, you know, a couple months ago. And -- or we thought they notified the Court when they just bought it, but they had actually negotiated buying it back in February. January or February. So --

Q Who told you that they bought it in February or March time frame?

A He did.

Q Okay. Was this during the first or the second phone --

MR. MORRIS: I apologize for interrupting. Who's the "he"?

MR. MCENTIRE: Mike Linn.

THE WITNESS: Mike Linn.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you so much.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll make sure the record --

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mike Linn --

A Yes.

Q -- told you that Farallon had bought their interest in the claims back in the February or March time frame?

A Yes.

Q All right. Bought assets with claims. What does that refer to?

A He said it wasn't compelling because he said Seery told him it would be worth a lot more. He -- he confirmed what Raj said, that -- I said, do you realize the estate is spending $5 million a month on legal fees? That, you know, you should want to sell this thing. And he said Seery told him it was worth a lot more and there were claims and litigation beyond the asset value.

Q You offered him 40 to 50 percent premium. What is that?

A That's what the 70 cents on the 50 cents represents. And then I changed the dialogue to I'll pay you 130 percent of whatever your cost was. And he said, not compelling. And then I, both -- both calls, I pressed him, what price would he offer at? And he said he had no offer, he wasn't willing to sell.

Q The 130 percent of cost, not compelling, was that in the second or the third call with Mr. Linn?

A It was at my third and final call with Farallon. My second call with Mike Linn was the 130 percent of cost.

Q And he said not compelling? You put it in quotation marks?

A Yep.

Q And then you said, no counter. What does that mean?

A He wouldn't -- he wouldn't give an offer, he wouldn't give a price at which he would sell.

Q What did Mike Linn tell you, in effect, with regard to his due diligence that Farallon had undertaken?

A When I -- when I told him about the risks and the litigation and the burn, he said he wasn't following the case, he wasn't aware of it, he was depending on Jim Seery.

Q What, if anything, did Michael Linn tell you about MGM?

A That was more the initial Raj Patel call, where he said we bought it because he was very optimistic regarding MGM.

Q Okay. Did you have any understanding when he first got his optimism about MGM?

A No. He just said that's why they had bought it initially, they were very optimistic about MGM.

Q That's why they had bought it initially?

A Yes.

Q And they had bought it initially in the February-March time frame?

A Yes.

Q And that -- would you -- does that predate the public disclosure of the MGM sale to Amazon?

A Yes.

Q Substantially by a couple of months?

A Yes.

Q I'd like to turn your attention now to a different topic.

MR. MCENTIRE: And Tim, if you could pull up Exhibit 8, please.

I believe this document is already in evidence, Your Honor.

THE COURT: 8 is?

MR. MCENTIRE: Oh, by the way, I offer Exhibit 4 into evidence.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Let me ask you a couple quick questions.

THE COURT: Is there an objection?

MR. MORRIS: Nope.

THE COURT: Okay. 4 is admitted.

(Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Exhibit 4 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Exhibit 8.

MR. MORRIS: I apologize, Your Honor. Just one caveat. It's not for the truth of the matter asserted; it's for what his impressions were at the time.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: This is what he wrote down. I don't --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm offering it for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. And I object to that extent. This --

MR. MCENTIRE: Let me --

MR. MORRIS: Can I voir dire? Can I voir dire? May I do --

MR. MCENTIRE: May I finish my statement that I was --

THE COURT: Let him finish, and then --

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: -- you can.

MR. MCENTIRE: I am offering it for the truth of the matter asserted because these are documents that were prepared contemporaneously, it's an exception to the hearsay rule and reflects admissions of a -- of an adverse party. Admissions that are adverse to their interests. Declarations of interest adverse to their interest and admissions of an adverse party contemporaneously recorded. And so that's why I'm offering it.

MR. MORRIS: For all purposes?

THE COURT: Okay. Let me have you point me to the exact hearsay exception. I understand this hearsay exception you're arguing for the hearsay within the hearsay, the party opponent exception. But it's technically hearsay of Mr. Dondero, even though he's here on the stand.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I could lay a foundation, then.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, --

THE COURT: Well, no. I'm asking for what your --

MR. MCENTIRE: It's --

THE COURT: -- rule reference is.

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't have the Rules with me right this second. It's 803(1) --

(Discussion.)

MR. MCENTIRE: All right. Well, it's -- it's admissible under several categories. It's not hearsay because it's an admission of a party opponent. It's also an admission under 803(1), present sense impression. It's also admissible --

THE COURT: So you say it's Mr. Dondero's statement describing or explaining an event --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: -- or admission made while or immediately after the declarant perceived it?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. It's also a record of a regularly-conducted activity, which is 803(6). And I think it's also not technically hearsay because it's also an admission of a party. So, this --

THE COURT: Well, that's the hearsay within the hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: But I'm -- I'm --

MR. MORRIS: That can't possibly be right. I can't go back to my hotel right now and write down that he told me that he did a bad thing and come in here tomorrow and say he admitted he did a bad thing because it's in my notes.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: That's can't possibly be the law.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: That's not the law.

MR. MCENTIRE: There are two hearsay issues here. One is whether this is a business record or otherwise qualifies as an exception to the hearsay rule, and then there's an internal hearsay issue of whether or not what Mr. Patel and Mr. --

THE COURT: You haven't established the business record exception. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm prepared to lay the foundation right this second. At this moment.

THE COURT: You may proceed.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, is this a document that was generated by you in the ordinary course of your business?

A Yes.

Q Did you have personal knowledge when you recorded this document?

A Yes.

Q You personally recorded this document, correct?

A Yes.

Q And you have had custody of this document. Correct?

A Yes.

Q And this is --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's a -- that's a business record,

Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: May I, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

VOIR DIRE EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Where's the document now? How come it's -- how come it's cut off?

A I don't know.

Q Do you have the document today? How come we're looking at a document that's cut off?

A I'm sure we have it somewhere. I don't have it.

MR. MORRIS: So, number one, Your Honor, we don't have the actual document. We have a partial document.

Number two, let's talk about it for a second.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You say that you do this in the ordinary course of business. What's the purpose of taking these notes?

A When I'm starting negotiation with somebody new on something complicated and I don't know what their concerns or rationale is going to be, I take little notes like this.

Q And is it -- is it the purpose of it to capture the important things that are going on in the conversation?

A So I know next time how to address it differently, you know.

Q That's not my question. My question is, is the purpose of taking notes so that you have a written record of the important points that you discussed?
A Yes, so I know how to address it the next time.
Q Okay. And among the important points that you never put down on these notes was the letters MGM. Is that correct?
A Correct.
Q Okay. And you never put down here that Michael Linn told you he wasn't following the case, correct?
A No, I did not.
Q Okay.
A But it was --
Q And --
A Yeah. But I --
Q That --

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, if this is --

MR. MCENTIRE: (faintly) This is voir dire of the witness for a business record exception.

MR. MORRIS: No, because --

THE COURT: Overruled.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Patel wouldn't tell you how much he paid and that's why you didn't write it down, right?
A Mr. Patel told me he bought it because of Seery. My conversation was very short with him. That was one of the few things he said. Linn said he wouldn't sell it because he didn't find it compelling.

Q Okay.

A And Linn was the one who wouldn't tell me --

Q Okay.

A -- the price.

Q But -- but even though you took these notes to write down things that you thought were important, you didn't write down MGM. Correct?

A Yes.

Q And you didn't write down that anybody was very optimistic about MGM. Correct?

A No, I did not.

Q And you didn't write down that Mr. Linn told you he wasn't following the case. Correct?

A Well, he said the same thing Patel said about he bought it because of Seery. He did confirm that. I didn't see any reason to write that again.

Q You didn't -- you never wrote it down. Not once. Not -- there's nothing about again, right. You never wrote down that --

A No, I did write --

Q -- anybody ever told you they weren't following the case. Correct?

A Correct.

Q Okay.

A But I wrote down that he bought it because of Seery.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, no objection. It can go in.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

THE COURT: Wait. Did you just say no objections?

MR. MORRIS: Except -- except for the hearsay on hearsay. It can't possibly be an admission. It's his -- it's his notes. This is what he wrote. It can come in for that purpose. It's -- it's a -- that's what he's testified to, and I can't object to that. But it can't possibly come in as an admission against Farallon.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I disagree.

MR. MORRIS: That's the point.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, I disagree. This is otherwise admissible, and it can come. I think that's really, Your Honor, that's really the weight it's going to be given. It comes in. He's not making an objection to its admissibility. And if he wants to argue the weight of the document, that's a different issue.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, if I may.

THE COURT: You may.

MR. STANCIL: The second layer of hearsay goes to whether this is a statement by Farallon. It is a statement by Mr. Dondero of what he heard, what he says he heard Farallon say. 801(d) refers to, when they're talking about an opposing party statement, made by the party, not made by a listener who says he heard the party. This is classic hearsay within hearsay. It's not admissible for that purpose.

THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection, and -- but I'm still struggling to understand what the Respondents have agreed to. Because --

MR. MORRIS: That -- that this is what he claims to have written down. I mean, right? So, so --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: -- a present sense impression.

THE COURT: So, it is admitted as Mr. Dondero's present sense impression, but it's not admitted as to the truth of anything that Claims Purchasers may have said.

MR. MORRIS: And -- and the --

THE COURT: That's what you're saying?

MR. MORRIS: Yes. And the most important thing is that he's testified that the purpose of the notes was to capture the things that were important that he was told. And we've established what he wasn't told.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. I believe the document is in evidence, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Exhibit 4 is in evidence. But, again, there's no admission in here as to what Claims Purchasers testified as to.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, they haven't testified yet because --

THE COURT: This is what he --

THE DEFENDANT: I understand. I understand.

THE COURT: -- he says he remembers.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. So, --

THE COURT: It's sort of an --

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, just so we're clear for our record, this is not admitted for the truth of what Farallon is purported to have said.

MR. MCENTIRE: Correct.

THE COURT: Correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: This --

MR. STANCIL: Thank you.

MR. MCENTIRE: This is offered for the truth of what Mr. -- Mr. Dondero recalls them saying.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: In part.

THE COURT: I think -- I think we're on the same page now. I think. I think.

(Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Exhibit 4 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCENTIRE: All right. May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you please put up Exhibit 8, please? And I believe this document has been put into evidence --

THE COURT: It is.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, this document is a -- part of a -- the Court's docket. It was filed on February 1, 2021, if you could go to the top upper banner. It's Debtors' Notice of Filing of Plan Supplement of the Fifth Amended Plan of Reorganization of Highland Capital Management, as Modified.

Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q I'll direct your attention, --

MR. MCENTIRE: If you could go to Page 4, please, for me, Tim.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Page 4 has a schedule, a plan analysis and a liquidation analysis. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q All right. For Class 8, what does it identify that is being projected for distributions to the general unsecured claims for Class 8?

A 71.3 percent.

Q What percentage is being identified that will be distributed to Class 9?

A 9, no distribution.

Q No distribution? All right. Mr. Dondero, in Paragraph -- I'm going to give you a piece of paper.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you just give me a piece of paper real quick?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q I'm handing you a piece of paper and I'm --

A Okay. Thank you.

Q Mr. Dondero, in our complaint in this case, the proposed complaint in this case, we allege that Class 8 had a total of $270 million, the claims that were purchased by Farallon and Stonehill had a face value in Class 8 of $270 million. Would you write that number down?

And assuming that this was public information that was available in February of 2021 at 71.32 percent, --

MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. That's an assumption not in evidence. He hasn't laid a foundation for what was available in February in 2021.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, according to --

THE COURT: Wait. Are you going to respond, or are you just going to --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll rephrase the question.

THE COURT: -- rephrase? Okay.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q According to the document that is identified as Exhibit #8 that says that 71.32 percent is the anticipated projected payout on Class 8 claims, what is 71.32 percent of the face value of the claims that were purchased?

A About $192 million.

Q $192 million? And assuming for a moment that, as alleged by Hunter Mountain in this case, that $163 million was actually used to purchase the Class 8 claims, what is the difference?

A About $30 million.

Q A little less than that, isn't it? Or is the number --

A Yeah. $28 million or whatever.

Q $28 million? And based upon your years of experience in running Highland Capital, being involved in the purchase of unsecured claims, being involved in investigating and acquiring distressed assets, that return over a two-year period, is that the kind of return that a hedge fund would typically -- you would expect to receive?

MR. MORRIS: I just want to make sure that -- because the question changed a little bit in the middle. If he wants to ask him if he would have made the investment, that's fine. But he should not be permitted to testify as to what any other investor, including the ones who purchased these claims, would have done. Every -- there's different risk profiles. He can testify to whatever he wants about himself.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Go ahead. Based upon your experience at Highland Capital, would Highland Capital have ever acquired those claims based upon that kind of return over two years? For a distressed asset such as this?

A No.

Q Why not?

A It's below a debt level return that you could get on high-rated assets with certainty. It's --

Q What do you mean by it's below -- below a debt return that you could get on collateralized assets? What do you mean by that?

A I think in this case the debt that the Debtor put in place paid 12, 13 percent and was triple secured or whatever. So no one would buy the residual claims for an 8 percent compounded, whatever that $28 million works out to.

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor. He shouldn't be talking about or testifying to what other people might do.

THE WITNESS: Well, we --

THE COURT: This is --

THE WITNESS: We would never have done that.

THE COURT: This is --

MR. MCENTIRE: He would not have.

THE COURT: -- Highland, not nobody. Okay.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, and what is it about the fact that these claims are not collateralized that impacts the decision-makers, from your perspective?

A You have all the risk that the $205 million of expenses this estate has currently paid grows to $300 or $400 million. You know, you have the risk that other litigation regarding Seery violating the Advisers Act --

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: -- results in --

THE COURT: Sustained.

THE WITNESS: -- expenses.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Just respond to my question, sir. What does the fact about not being collateralized, how does that impact the decision-maker's --

A Well, I was trying to answer it. You just have all kinds of residual risk of bad acts that have happened at the estate or expenses increasing or whatever.

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike the phrase "bad acts," Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q What did you mean by that? What did you mean by "bad acts"?

A We've highlighted it in a lot of complaints. There's been several violations of the Advisers Act.

MR. MORRIS: Move to strike, Your Honor. It's a legal conclusion.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, are you familiar with an entity known as NHF?

A Yes.

Q What is NHF?

A A NexPoint hedge fund. It was a closed-in fund that we manage still to this day at NexPoint. The name has changed to NXDT.

Q Was NHF publicly traded?

A It -- yeah, it's a publicly-traded equity. It's a closed-in fund, technically, but it's a publicly-traded security.

Q What -- what is your affiliation with NHF?

A I'm the portfolio manager.

Q And, again, what are your responsibilities as the portfolio manager?

A To optimize the portfolio and hopefully exceed investor expectations.

Q Have you become aware that Stonehill was purchasing MGM stock in the first quarter of 2021? And NHF?

A Yes. We believe -- we're able to demonstrate from Bloomberg records, on the Bloomberg terminal, they show up as holders and purchasers in the -- in the first few months of 2021.

Q What magnitude?

A I think it was one of their top equity positions. It was about six million bucks.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you put up the chart? This is for demonstrative purposes only.

I'm not offering this chart into evidence, Your Honor. It's simply a demonstration. Or a demonstrative.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, there's no such thing.

MR. MCENTIRE: There is.

MR. MORRIS: A demonstrative has to be based on evidence. A demonstrative is supposed to summarize evidence. You don't put up a demonstrative until --

THE COURT: All right. What's your response to that?

MR. MCENTIRE: That I'm about to walk through some points where he can establish as a point of evidence, and then we can talk about it. Demonstratives, demonstratives are used all the time, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: It's to --

THE COURT: Well, they summarize evidence.

MR. MORRIS: It's to summarize evidence.

THE COURT: Yes. So, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, this is --

THE COURT: -- you can elicit the evidence, and then if this chart seems to summarize whatever he testifies as to, then --

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

THE COURT: -- then I think maybe you can put it up.

MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. -- you can take it down, Tim.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, do you have an understanding of how much total distributions have been paid to date in the Highland bankruptcy?

A I believe the Class 8 -- the 1 through 7 was only about $10 million. I believe Class 8 got $260 or $270 million so far.

Q All right. And do you have an understanding of what the total amount of expenses are?

A Total expenses paid to date was $203 million. $205 million.

Q So the -- the -- there's a rough approximation between the professional expenses and the actual all proofs of claim; is that correct?

A There is, yeah, a ratio, and -- yes.

Q The total cash flow, if you add those two together, what are they? What are they approximately?

A $470 million.

Q $470 million? And do you understand that the -- that the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trust would have more than sufficient assets to reach Class 10 where Hunter Mountain is currently located, even setting aside the claims against you?

A Correct. There's $57 million of cash on the balance sheet, net of a couple million today, I guess. And then there's $100 million of other assets.

MR. MCENTIRE: Reserve the rest of my questions. Reserve the rest of my questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Pass the witness.

MR. MCENTIRE: Could I have my time estimate?

THE COURT: Yes. Caroline?

THE CLERK: (faintly) As of right now, we are at 81 minutes, so --

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: That was 81 minutes total?

THE CLERK: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Good afternoon, Mr. Dondero.

A Good to see you.

Q My pleasure. Do you know an attorney named Ronak (phonetic) Patel?

A Is that Rakhee that they call --

Q Could be. Do you know an attorney named Rakhee Patel?

A There was a Rakhee Patel, I believe, early in the Acis case.

Q Let me try --

A I'm not -- I've never met her.

Q Let me try this differently.

A Okay.

Q Did you ever meet with the Texas State Securities Board?

A No.

Q Did anybody acting on your behalf ever file a complaint with the Texas State Securities Board?

A No.

Q Do you know if anybody's filed a complaint with the Texas State Securities Board? About Highland?

A I believe you covered it earlier. Mark Patrick.

Q Mark Patrick what?

A I guess he did, or Hunter Mountain did, or the DAF did. I don't -- I don't know.

Q Did you ever speak with Mark Patrick about a TSSB investigation of Highland?

A No.

Q Okay. Why do you think Mark Patrick knows about the TSSB investigation of Highland?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection to form. Calls for speculation. He's just established that he's never --

THE WITNESS: I don't know.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- talked to Mark Patrick.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. Sustained.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Have you ever seen the draft Hunter Mountain complaint in this case?

A No.

Q Okay. I think you testified a moment ago that Amazon had hit MGM's price by December 17th. Do I have that right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Then how come you didn't say that in your email to Mr. Seery?

A Your best practices and typical practices, when you put it on the restricted list, is to just give as little information as possible so that the inside information isn't promulgated specifically throughout the organization and leaked --

Q So, --

A -- throughout the organization.

Q So, even though your intent was to convey information to Mr. Seery, you didn't actually tell him the truth, right? You didn't tell him that Amazon had actually hit the stock price.

Right?

A I wouldn't characterize it that way.

Q Okay. In fact, all you told him was that they were interested. Isn't that right?

A I wasn't telling him anything. I was telling Compliance, as an investment professional, that it needed to be on the restricted list because we were in possession of material nonpublic information regarding a merger that was going to go through shortly. Or in the next few months.

Q Is it your testimony that, as of December 17th, Amazon had made an offer that was acceptable to MGM?

A Yeah, we were going into -- that's what the board meeting was. We were going into exclusive negotiations to culminate the merger with them.

Q Okay. I think you have a binder there of our exhibits. If you can go to #11.

A Which one?

MR. MORRIS: May I approach?

THE WITNESS: Sure.

(Pause.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q That's your email, sir, right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. It doesn't say anything about Amazon hitting the price, right?

A It doesn't need to.
Q In fact, it still mentions Apple, doesn't it? Why did you feel the need to mention Apple if Amazon had already hit the price?
A The only way you generally get something done at attractive levels in business is if two people are interested.
Q But why weren't you -- why were you creating a story for the Compliance Department when the whole idea was to be transparent so they would understand what was happening? Why would you create a story that differed from the facts?
A It didn't differ from the facts, and it's not a story. It's a, we have material nonpublic information. Please put this on the restricted list. And --
Q But that -- but you said Amazon and Apple are actively diligencing and they're in the data room. Do you see that?
A That's true.
Q So, even though -- you know what, I'll move on. But this -- this doesn't say what you testified to earlier, that Apple hit the -- that Amazon hit the price. Right? Can we just agree on that?
A Well, agree that it doesn't have to and it's not supposed to.
MR. MORRIS: I move to strike. I just want --
THE COURT: Sustained.
BY MR. MORRIS:

Q -- you to -- I want you to just work with me here. You did not tell the Compliance Department that Apple -- that Amazon had hit the strike price. Right? Isn't that correct? That's not what this email says?

A The -- you can pull up a hundred of these type emails. They're not specific.

MR. MORRIS: I'm going to move to strike and I'm just going to ask you, --

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q -- because you testified to one thing, and I just want to make clear that you told the Compliance Department something different. Can we just agree on that?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, may I respond to his motions to strike? I think he's becoming argumentative.

THE COURT: Could you speak into the mic, --

MR. MCENTIRE: I can.

THE COURT: -- please.

THE COURT: He's becoming argumentative. And I think it's very clear that, if he asks a question, the witness has a right to respond. I think his answers are totally responsive. And I don't think anything should be struck.

THE COURT: Okay. Your question was you didn't put in there anything about it hit the strike price --

MR. MORRIS: He didn't --

THE COURT: -- or whatever?

MR. MORRIS: He didn't -- he didn't tell the Compliance Department what he just testified to. In fact, he told the Compliance Department something very different. That's all I'm asking.

THE COURT: And I think that's just a yes or no.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Yes or no? You told the Compliance Department something different than what was actually happening?

A That's not true.

Q Oh.

A Exactly what was here, what was happening. I didn't give more detail, which is more hearsay.

Q Okay. If somebody was filing -- following the Highland bankruptcy, they would have known that MGM was very important, right?

A You'd have to show me where. I don't -- I don't see it in any of the bankruptcy --

Q You don't think that that's true?

A I didn't see it in any of the public filings.

Q Do you remember we were here two years ago on this very day, June 8, 2021, for the second contempt hearing? You sat in that very witness box during the second contempt hearing? Remember that? That was two years ago.

A I remember sitting in the box. What are you asking?
Q And do you remember that that was just a few days after MGM had announced its deal with Amazon?
A I -- I don't remember -- I -- was that the day the judge was hopeful that would lead to a resolution of the case?
Q Exactly. So, --
A Okay.
Q -- Judge Jernigan certainly knew that MGM was important. Right?
A Yes.
Q And she's a bankruptcy judge, right?
A Yes.
Q And she was overseeing the bankruptcy case, right? Correct?
A Yes.
Q And the very first thing when she walked in the door two years ago on this day was, oh my goodness, MGM, they have a deal, maybe we can finally get to a settlement. Right?
A And I wish she had pushed on that.
Q Do you --
A And I remember you guys dismissing it.
Q Do you think she had material nonpublic inside information?
A No, I don't think so.
Q She probably learned it in the bankruptcy case, right?

A Yeah.
Q Okay. Do you believe Mr. Seery sold any MGM securities between the day you sent your email and the day the Amazon deal was announced on May 26th?
A I don't know.
Q Do you -- so you have no knowledge? Let's do this a different way. You have no basis to say that Mr. Seery sold any MGM securities between the moment you sent this email on December 17th and the day the Amazon deal was announced on May 26th. Correct?
A I'm sorry. Just to clarify, you're saying sold, not bought, right? You're not asking me if -- Q I'll do either way.
A Okay.
Q Fair point.
A Sure.
Q Very fair point.
A Okay.
Q Do you believe that Mr. Seery engaged in any transactions of MGM securities between those two relevant data points?
A Yes.
Q Okay. What do you think he did?
A The HarbourVest transaction.
Q Okay. So, you learned about the HarbourVest transaction when?

A When it was filed.
Q And that was on December 23rd. Do you remember that?
A Yes.
Q It was just less than a week after you sent your email, right?
A Yes.
Q And do you remember that you filed an objection to the HarbourVest settlement?
A Yes.
Q And you're the one who gave Mr. Seery this material nonpublic inside information, right?
A Yes.
Q Did you object to the HarbourVest settlement on the basis that Mr. Seery was engaging in insider trading?
A Not then, I don't think. I believe --
Q You didn't, right? Even though it was happening at the exact same moment, the very -- within a week of you giving him this information. He's announcing that he's doing this settlement and you don't say a word. Isn't that right?
A Because I delegated the responsibility to Compliance by notifying them of material nonpublic information, and Compliance should hold the organization accountable. Compliance is separate and discrete from management. Compliance reports to the SEC.
Q You filed a 15-page objection to the settlement, didn't you?

A I don't -- I don't know.

Q Did you tell Judge Jernigan that Mr. Seery was doing bad?

A Not then. I think a month later, two months later.

Q Even though you knew what was happening, you didn't say anything, right?

A I -- I'm not responsible for all the filings. I --

Q Even though it's under your name?

A Correct.

Q How about -- how about CLO Holdco? Did CLO Holdco file an objection to the HarbourVest settlement?

A I -- I don't know which entities did, but it -- whatever entities that were in control that could did, eventually, when they found out, you know, and -- but did -- did they, within a week or contemporaneously? No. It was right around the holidays. A lot of people weren't paying attention. You guys were trying to rush the HarbourVest thing through.

Q Sir, CLO Holdco filed an objection, claiming that it was entitled to purchase the HarbourVest interests in HCLOF because it had a right of first refusal, right? Isn't that right?

A Okay. I -- what ultimately governs the --

Q Isn't that right?

A I don't -- okay.

Q It's really just yes or no.

A I don't know.

Q If you don't remember, that's fine.

A I don't remember, yeah.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, would he please give the witness an opportunity to answer? He's interrupted three times in less than five seconds. Give the witness an opportunity to respond.

MR. MORRIS: This is real easy stuff.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I'm trying to cross him here.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, with all due respect, he's making it very difficult because he's being very aggressive --

MR. MORRIS: Nah.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- and he's interrupting the witness.

MR. MORRIS: I would never.

THE COURT: Okay. I don't feel the need to do that right now, but I will -- I will consider your request.

THE WITNESS: Can I give a complete answer to his last question, or one that I'd like to be my answer on the record?

THE COURT: Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: The governing responsibility as a registered investment advisor is you're not allowed to buy back from investors fund interests or investments unless you offer it to everybody else, in writing, in that fund first.

That's the Investment Advisers Act as I understand it, and that is what was improper in the HarbourVest transaction. I mean, besides the fact that the pricing was wrong, they misled HarbourVest. And I know HarbourVest hasn't complained, but just because your investors don't complain doesn't mean you can rip them off.

MR. MORRIS: I'd really move to strike the entirety of the answer, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Granted.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Dondero, HC --

A I'm not going to -- I'm not answering any more questions unless I can answer that question with that answer, --

Q Mr. Dondero, do you --

A -- because I believe it's responsive.

Q Do you remember that CLO Holdco withdrew their objection?

A I --

Q To the HarbourVest settlement?

A I don't remember.

Q Do you remember that's really when Grant Scott left the scene?

A I don't --

Q He thought it was inappropriate for them to withdraw, right?

A I don't remember all the details. I know they made some mistakes, and there's a tolling agreement against Kane's (phonetic) firm for making mistakes, and, you know, whatever. But I -- I don't remember all the details.

Q And a couple of months later, you conspired with Mr. Patrick to try to sue Mr. Seery in order to try to get that very same interest in HCLOF, right?

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I have to object. There's no foundation and it's also highly argumentative and I move to object. That's a -- that's a question asked in bad faith.

THE WITNESS: I deny any conspiring.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q In April, Mr. Patrick filed a lawsuit on behalf of CLO Holdco a couple of weeks after getting appointed as the head of CLO Holdco and the DAF about the HarbourVest settlement. Isn't that right?

A I believe so.

Q Okay. And you worked with him on that, right?

A I -- I did not work with him on that. I was very just tangentially aware.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I'm just going to refer the Court -- I'm going to move for the admission into evidence of the second contempt order.

THE COURT: Exhibit what?

MR. MORRIS: Just one moment, Your Honor.

(Pause.)

MR. MORRIS: You know what, I don't know that I have it on the list. I'm just going to ask the Court to take judicial notice. We had a hearing two years ago to this day, and the Court found in the order that it entered at the conclusion of that hearing that Mr. Patrick had abdicated his responsibility to Mr. Seery. It's one of the reasons why Mr. Seery wasn't held in contempt of Court. And I'd like -- I'd like Counsel to address it now.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah, I'll -- you said Seery, didn't you?

MR. MORRIS: Oh, sorry. I said Seery. I meant Dondero.

MR. MCENTIRE: (faintly) Also, I believe it's entirely irrelevant. Judicial -- taking judicial --

THE COURT: Would you speak in the microphone, please?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm sorry. Taking judicial notice of something that is utterly irrelevant is not necessary, not appropriate. What this Court did two years ago roughly to the day -- and I assume he's correct -- has no bearing on anything before the Court today. Nothing. This has zero connection, nexus, under any analysis, any fair scrutiny, dealing with the colorability of the claim that Hunter Mountain, who was not involved in those proceedings, is trying to advance here. And it would be -- it would be improper for this Court to even take it under judicial notice.

THE COURT: Okay. Response?

MR. MORRIS: Can I respond?

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. So, Your Honor, I'm going to move for the introduction into evidence of Exhibit 45. It is the Charitable DAF complaint that was filed in the federal district court on April 12, 2021, under the direction of Mark Patrick, who today stands here as the representative of Hunter Mountain.

This was the complaint, if Your Honor will recall, that they tried to amend and we had a hearing here about the circumstances, because that amendment was going to name Mr. Seery personally, in violation of the gatekeeper order. Right?

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: And so it is all tied together. If you go to Paragraph 77 of this exhibit, it says, HCLOF holds equity in MGM Studio. This is the exact same transaction, right? So, so Mr. Dondero says, I gave Mr. Seery inside information, he violated all of these things in the HarbourVest transaction, even though he didn't say a word then, and here, while it's still on the restricted list, before the Amazon deal is announced, they're actually in court saying that they should be entitled to acquire that same asset that Mr. Seery supposedly acquired improperly. He wants it for himself.

I mean, are you kidding me? It's not relevant?

THE COURT: I overrule the relevance objection. It's admitted.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you. And 45 is admitted, Your Honor?

THE COURT: 45 is admitted.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

(Debtors' Exhibit 45 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCENTIRE: Just, Your Honor, I was identifying my objection in connection with his original request that you take something under --

THE COURT: Would you speak in the microphone? Again, we --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. My original objection was addressing his request of you, Your Honor, to take something under judicial notice. I want to make sure my objection is also lodged with regard to Exhibit 45, which I understand you've overruled.

THE COURT: Correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

THE COURT: It is so noted.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: You've objected and I've admitted it.

MR. MORRIS: And I think I've said this already, but the reason that we're requesting the Court take judicial notice of its order on the second contempt proceeding is because it shows that Mr. Dondero and Mr. Patrick worked together, in violation of the gatekeeper, to try to suit Mr. Seery to obtain the interest in HCLOF that he is sitting here today saying somehow that Mr. Seery wrongfully acquired, even though he didn't say a word at the time.

THE COURT: Okay. So now we're talking about not Exhibit 45 --

MR. MORRIS: Yes.

THE COURT: -- but the order that was entered --

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: -- regarding the filing of Exhibit 45?

MR. MORRIS: Exactly.

THE COURT: Someone is going to need to give me a docket entry number before we're done here.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: I can and will take judicial notice of that, but I need to have it --

MR. MCENTIRE: So I assume, for the record, my objection is overruled?

THE COURT: Your objection is overruled.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: All right.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You mentioned something about, I think, was it NXDT or NHF?

A Yes.

Q And just let me see if I can do it this way. Right? So there used to be a fund known as the NexPoint Strategic Opportunities Fund, right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And in 2020 that was a closed-in fund. Correct?

A Yes.

Q And it traded under the ticker symbol NHF, correct?

A Yes.

Q And then late in 2021 the name of the fund was changed to NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust, correct?

A Yes.

Q And the ticker symbol changed from NHF to NXDT, correct?

A Yes.

Q And then it became a REIT the following year, right?

A Yes.

Q And I'm just going to refer to these letters as the Fund; is that fair?

A That's fine.

Q For purposes of these questions. And you were the Fund's portfolio manager, the president, the principal executive officer, correct?

A Yes.

Q And another entity that you controlled, NexPoint Advisors, provided advisory services to the Fund, correct?

A Yes.

Q And you controlled NexPoint Advisors at all times, correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And the Fund was publicly traded, right?

A Yes.

Q And the Fund owned shares of MGM at the end of 19 -- at the end of 2020, correct?

A Yes.

Q In fact, as of December 2020, MGM was one of the Fund's ten largest holdings, with -- valued at over $25 million. Isn't that right?

A Yes.

Q And by the end of 2021, MGM was the Fund's fifth largest holding, with assets -- with a value of over $40 million. Correct?

A Yes.

Q And the Fund also held MGM common stock indirectly; isn't that right?

A Yes.
Q In fact, when the Amazon deal closed at the -- in March of 2022, the Fund issued a press release disclosing that it stood to receive over $125 million on the MGM shares that it held directly and indirectly. Correct?
A We issued several press releases. I don't remember --
Q Okay. Do you remember that, that as a result of the MGM sale, the Fund was expected to receive approximately $126 million?
A Yes.
Q Okay.
A Roughly.
Q All right. In October 2020, just a few weeks before you sent your email, the Fund announced the commencement of a tender offer to acquire outstanding shares at a certain price. Correct?
A Yeah, I believe so.
Q And you authorized that, right?
A Yes.
Q And when a fund acquires shares and then retires them, the shareholders who did not tender consequently own a larger percentage of the fund than they did before the tender, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And the tender was completed in January, in the first week of January 2001 [sic], correct?

A I don't remember when it was complete.
Q It started at the end of October 2020, and it ended sometime in January '21. Is that fair?
A Okay. I don't remember. Okay.
Q Do you want me to refresh your recollection?
A I'm just saying I don't remember.
Q Yeah, okay.
A I'm not dis...
Q Okay.
A -- denying it. I just don't remember the exact dates.
(Discussion.)
MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, can I mark for identification purposes Plaintiffs' Exhibit -- I'm just going to call it 100, to see if it refreshes the witness's recollection?
THE COURT: You may mark it.
MR. MORRIS: Okay.
THE COURT: We'll see where it goes from there.
(Debtors' Exhibit 100 is marked for identification.)
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q So, I've put --
MR. MCENTIRE: Hold it. Your Honor, I think we're now marking exhibits that we haven't put on an exhibit list.
MR. MORRIS: I'm trying to refresh his recollection.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MORRIS: Okay? I haven't offered it in -- I haven't offered it --

THE COURT: I've not admitted -- I don't know what it is. I haven't admitted it yet. I'm waiting.

MR. MORRIS: I haven't offered it into evidence. He said he doesn't remember, --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: -- I've got an SEC document here, and I'm going to try and refresh his recollection.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You're familiar with these forms, right?

A Generally.

Q In fact, in fact, you sign them in your capacity as the fund portfolio manager, right? Your signature is put on it, anyway?

A Generally.

Q Yeah. And do you see that this is the Form N-CSR that was filed with the SEC at the end of 2001 [sic] on behalf of NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust?

A Yes.

Q Okay. So if you just turn to Page 16. And the numbers are kind of at the bottom in the middle of the page. You'll see the notes to the consolidated financial statements.

A Yes.

Q Okay. And Note 1 discusses the organization. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q And at the bottom of the left-hand column, it says, On January 8, 2021, the company announced the final result of its exchange offer pursuant to which the company purchased the company's outstanding -- the company's common shares in exchange for certain consideration.

Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q That's a reference to the tender offer that you authorized at the end of October, correct?

A Yes.

Q And then at the bottom it says, The company share -- company -- excuse me. I strike that. It says, quote, The common shares at a price of $12 per common share, for an aggregate purchase price of approximately $125 -- $105 million. Upon retirement of the repurchased shares, the net asset value was $152 million, or $17.41 million.

Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q Does that refresh your recollection that the tender offer was completed at the beginning of January?

A Yes.

Q And that's with all of the MGM stock that the Fund still owned at that time, right?

A Yeah. We -- we didn't -- we didn't violate --

Q You didn't --

A We didn't -- we didn't violate like Seery did. We didn't sell any shares or buy shares.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I'm going to move to strike that, Your Honor.

THE COURT: So granted.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, I've actually got a response to his motion to strike. This entire inquiry is irrelevant.

MR. MORRIS: Not --

MR. MCENTIRE: This has no relevance at all in connection with the allegations that we're making in this case.

THE COURT: Your response?

MR. MORRIS: My response, Your Honor, if you ask me -- let me just get a few more questions. He personally owned shares in the Fund. The Fund owned shares in MGM. And notwithstanding the restricted material, this is the insider, and he is benefiting from himself through the Fund's repurchase of these shares in the tender offer, and he went and he had substantial holdings. I'll get to that in a minute.

So he is actually doing something worse than what Mr. Seery -- what he accuses Mr. Seery of, because he's buying shares for his own personal benefit. Right? He's the insider. Right? And the Fund owns the shares directly. There's never going to be an allegation that HCLOF ever owned any MGM stock. Never.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm going to allow this. Obviously, on redirect, you can further question on this --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

THE COURT: -- to --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, his suggestions and his accusations are purely argumentative.

THE COURT: Would you please speak in the microphone? We --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, he's standing in the way, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: It's irrelevant.

THE COURT: There are two. There's room for both of you.

Continue. Go ahead.

MR. MCENTIRE: It's entirely irrelevant, and it's argumentative.

THE COURT: Okay. Overruled. You can continue.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You did own an awful lot of the Fund's shares, didn't you?

A I owned some.

Q You owned some? You owned millions, right?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And as a result of the tender, you owned a greater interest of the Fund, right?

A Yes.

Q And therefore you owned a greater number -- a greater portion of the MGM stock, the $125 million of MGM stock that was owned directly and indirectly by the Fund, correct?

A You do know insiders weren't permitted to participate in the tender, which would have kept my percentage the same.

Q Sir, you benefitted -- you didn't stop the tender, right? You didn't say, now I know what's going to happen, I should stop it? You benefitted from the tender. Can we just agree on that?

A I did everything I was supposed to do, notifying Compliance. If they thought it was material, they would have -- it was in their hands once I notified Compliance of the material --

Q Okay.

A -- nonpublic information.

Q I appreciate that. I just want --

A It wasn't my responsibility to do Compliance's job to call you or call --

Q Okay.

A -- the SEC or call anybody else.

Q But you will agree that, even though you had material nonpublic inside information, you didn't take any steps to stop the tender, correct?

A The tender was for a relatively small amount of the stock. But I did -- I would -- it would not be my responsibility to change or adjust the tender --

Q Okay.

A -- or what was happening.

Q Okay. And then the last question is, you benefitted from the tender because the Fund repurchased shares, which increased your percentage ownership of the Fund, and therefore your percentage ownership of the MGM shares that were held directly and indirectly. Is that fair?

A Marginally, I guess. Yes.

Q Okay. From the -- from the millions of shares, you would describe it as marginal? Okay.

Let me move on. You've testified now that you spoke with representatives of Farallon in the late spring, I guess beginning on May 28th. Right?

A Yes.
Q And that was two days after the MGM deal was publicly announced, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. And had you ever communicated with Mr. Patel before that phone call?
A I don't believe so.
Q And then you spoke with Mr. Linn shortly after?
A Yes.
Q Had you ever spoken with Mr. Linn before that phone call with Mr. Linn?
A I don't believe so.
Q So these phone calls were the very first time that you ever spoke to either one of these gentlemen. Is that right?
A That I can remember.
Q Okay.
A If I ran into them at --
Q Uh-huh.
A -- a conference a decade ago, I don't know, but --
Q And they told you that they bought the shares in the February-March time frame, right?
A Yes.
Q And you have no reason to dispute that, correct?
A Correct.
Q Okay. And you didn't know how much they had paid for the claims as a result of these conversations, correct?

A They did not admit a price.

Q Okay. And it's your testimony that there wasn't sufficient information in the public for them to buy -- this is your view -- that there wasn't sufficient information in the public to justify their purchases. Is that your view?

A Correct.

Q And even though you didn't think there was sufficient information in the public, you were prepared to pay 30 percent more than they did, right?

A Yes.

Q And is that because you were 30 percent more irrational than them or because you had material nonpublic inside information?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Argumentative, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Even at a 30 percent premium, it was less than I offered the UCC several months earlier, number one.

Number two, I was still under the illusion there was a desire to resolve the place, not burn it down. You know, there was -- all the original members were happy to sell at $150 million. It was a $500 or $600 million estate. There should be $400 or $500 million of residual value. It shouldn't all be going out the door to lawyers and others.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You were willing to pay 30 percent more for an unknown purchase price, 30 percent more of an unknown purchase price, at a moment that you didn't believe there was sufficient information to buy the claims, correct?

A You have a couple misstatements in there. The Grosvenor piece was public. The Grosvenor piece traded at $67 million. So we knew that piece trade at around 50 cents. We knew from people in the marketplace the other pieces were trading right around that level.

So I wasn't just offering 30 percent on any willy-nilly number, 130 percent of any willy-nilly number. I knew they had paid around 50, 60 cents. And so I was offering 30 percent more than that. Thirty percent more than $150 million, call it $200 million. I had offered $230 or $240 million to resolve the whole estate before the plan went effective, and I got no response from the original UCC members.

Q So why didn't you just try to settle the case with them? Why did you try to buy the claim? Why, if you had these new people, and your good intentions were to finally get to a settlement of the case, why didn't you say, hey, guys, how do we resolve the case? Why did you want to buy the claims at a 30 percent premium over what they paid with no knowledge and no diligence, according to you? Can you explain that to Judge

Jernigan?

A Because Seery told them to hold on, don't worry, they were going to make $270 million.

Q That doesn't answer my question. Why didn't you try -- you had new owners. Why didn't you try to settle with them?

A When someone owns an asset, buying their asset is settling with them. What claim does Farallon have against us? At that point, they had no claims against us.

Q It doesn't settle the case, does it?

A But if we owned all the claims, it would settle the case. Just like if Seery had objected to the claims trading that they were supposed to give written notice to the Court, he had enough cash on the balance sheet to buy and retire all the claims.

Q All right. Let's go back, I apologize, to that Exhibit 11. No, it's not Exhibit 11. I think it's their Exhibit 4, your notes.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, may I have -- just have one moment?

THE COURT: You may.

MR. MORRIS: Can you tell me how long I've been going? That's really my question.

THE CLERK: So, on cross, --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE CLERK: -- you've been going for 32 minutes.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. Trying to speed this up.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q All right. So, do we have your handwritten notes, which are Exhibit 4, in this binder? Oh.

THE COURT: Do you want to put it up again on the screen?

MR. MORRIS: Ms. Canty, if you're listening and you can do that, that would be great. If not, --

(Discussion.)

MS. CANTY: One second, John.

MR. MORRIS: All right. He -- he's got it.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. So, I just -- I just want to make -- you know, follow up on a few questions I asked you earlier on voir dire. So, these are your notes, right, and you said you write down the important stuff. Correct?

A I write down, yeah, the stuff I thought I would need for the next call.

Q Okay. And, you know, again, just so we have it all in one spot, it doesn't say anything about MGM. Correct?

A It does not.

Q It doesn't say anything about a quid pro quo, correct?

A Quid pro? Uh, no, it does not.

Q It doesn't say anything at all about Mr. Seery's compensation, correct?

A It does not.
Q It doesn't say anything about the sharing of material nonpublic inside information, correct?
A When I told them discovery was coming, that was my response to I knew they had traded on material nonpublic information.
Q Okay. That -- you told them that?
A Yes.
Q Is that what you're saying now?
A Yes.
Q Oh, so that's what you told them? They didn't tell you that; that's what you told them?
A Yes.
Q And that's why you wanted discovery, right?
A I thought it would be a lot easier to get discovery on a situation like this than it has been for the last two years, yes.
Q Okay. Um, --
A In fact, I told them that it would be coming in the next few weeks. And this has been a couple years.
Q And that's exactly what you did, right?
A Well, we've been trying for two years to get --
Q Right.
A -- discovery in this.

Q Okay. So you filed your Texas 202, right?
A I don't know who filed what.
Q That was the one by Mr. Sbaiti that was filed under your name? Do you remember that?
A Generally.
Q Okay. Let's take a quick look at that document. It's #3 in our binder.
A Binder #3?
(Discussion.)
MR. MORRIS: Okay. I think #3 is in evidence, Your Honor.
THE WITNESS: Number 3 is in evidence.
THE COURT: Yes.
MR. MORRIS: Okay.
THE COURT: It is.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q And if you can turn to the last page, Mr. Dondero. Page 8.
A Yes.
Q Okay. And that's your signature, right?
A Yes.
Q And you verified that this document was true and correct within the best of your personal knowledge, correct?
A Yes.
Q Did you read it before you signed it?

A Probably.
Q You don't recall doing that?
A Not at this moment.
Q And you may not have. Is that fair?
A No, I probably did. Do you have a question?
Q I'm just wondering if you signed it or not.
A I did sign it.
Q Okay. Good. So, can you go to Paragraph 21? Well, let's start at Paragraph 20. It says that Mr. Seery, quote, has an age-old connection to Farallon, and upon information and belief, advised Farallon to purchase the claims.
Do you see that?
A Yes.
Q And then the next paragraph you refer to the telephone call that you had with Michael Linn, right?
A Yes.
Q It doesn't refer to any phone call with Mr. Patel, correct?
A It does not.
Q And the only reason that you swore under oath you were told that Farallon purchased the claims was because of Farallon's, quote, prior dealings with Mr. Seery. Correct? In Paragraph 21, it says, Relying entirely on Mr. Seery's advice solely because of their prior dealings?
A Yes.

Q Okay. You didn't -- you didn't swear under oath at that time that you were told that they bought the claims because of MGM. Right?

A If you're asking if this is -- it seems like it's not complete, if that's what you're asking me.

Q I'm not asking you that. I'm asking you what -- I'm asking you to confirm that you swore under oath to the Texas state court, just weeks after you had these conversations, about what you were told concerning Farallon's purchase of the claims.

I'm focused on Paragraph 21. The only reason that you gave, that you told the Texas state court under oath, was that Farallon told you they bought their claims because of their prior dealings with Seery. Right?

A Yeah. And that's true. And that's consistent with what I've said.

Q Okay. You didn't say anything about MGM, correct?

A Correct.

Q You didn't say anything about a quid pro quo, correct?

A Correct.

Q You didn't say anything about Mr. Seery's compensation. Correct?

A I did not.

Q You didn't say anything about the sharing of material nonpublic inside information, correct?

A Different document, different purposes.
Q Well, but that's now two documents. You have your notes and you had this document, neither one of which say any of those things. Fair?
A Different documents, different purposes. I don't know if that's -- Q Is it fair that neither one of those documents say any of those things?
A It's fair that they don't all match.
Q Okay. Okay. Well, that's a fair statement. Let's go to the next one. Do you remember the next year you filed an amended petition?
A What tab?
Q That's -- I appreciate that. It's Tab 4. Do you see at the last page you've again signed a verification?
A Yep.
Q And do you see this one's filed with the Texas state court on May 2, 2022?
A Yes.
Q And you swore under oath that this statement was complete, true, and accurate to the best of your knowledge, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Can you go to Page 5, please?
A Yes.
Q Directing your attention to Paragraph 23, do you see where you say now that Farallon was relying, quote, on Mr. Seery's say-so because they had made so much money in the past when Mr. Seery told them to purchase claims.

Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q Again, you don't say anything about MGM, correct?

A Correct.

Q Again, you don't say anything about material nonpublic inside information, correct?

A Well, on 24 it does. Right? Mr. Seery had inside information on the price and value of claims. So, you've got to look at all of the bullet points.

Q But that's not the paragraph where you're talking -- that's -- it says, in other words. That's not the paragraph where you're describing your conversation with Farallon. That's your interpretation of it, correct, just as you just said?

A (no immediate response)

Q You told -- I'm sorry. I should let you finish the answer. That's your interpretation of it, correct?

A Well, I'm reading all the bullets in aggregate, and it's -- it's a picture of material information shared by Seery, not just MGM or one particular investment, but on all the other assets that aren't detailed in any of the public filings, also.

Q The only -- the only point I want to make, I think we can agree on this --

A Okay.

Q -- is that you believed that Mr. Seery gave them material nonpublic inside information. Farallon never told you that. Isn't that true? That's why you wanted discovery?

A They said they relied on him and did no diligence of their own. They were very express -- explicit about that.

Q Okay. Can you answer my question now?

A Which -- I thought -- that does, --

Q You concluded --

A -- yes.

Q -- that Mr. Seery gave them material nonpublic inside information. They never told you that. Fair?

A They said they relied on -- solely on Seery, didn't buy it for any other reason, and they did no due diligence of their own.

Q Okay. Let's go to the next one. Now, the no-due-diligence part, that's not in any version we've seen, right? That's something that you just --

A No, no, --

Q -- that you're just testifying to now? That's not in your notes, it's not in Version 1, and it's not in this version, correct?

A Well, let's go back to the Linn one, because when I was going back and forth and he wouldn't give a price, he kept saying, Seery told us it's worth a lot more. And I kept saying, you've got to look at the burn, you've got to look at the professionals. And --

Q Okay.

A -- that's --

Q Shortly after this, you filed yet another declaration, right?

A Yes.

Q Uh-huh. Can you turn to #5? And this is another version of your recollection of what you were told, correct? In Paragraph 2?

A These are all -- I don't know why you're saying they're different. They're all the same. They're just slightly different verbiage. What's the major difference between any of them?

Q I'll ask, I'll ask you the question. The question is, you had never written in any of the prior versions that they didn't do any due diligence; isn't that right? You never -- you never talked about their due diligence in any prior version, correct?

A It's all -- it's all the same version. I don't -- some versions --

Q Can you answer my question?

A I don't know. I don't know --

Q Which --

A -- which ones included which -- I don't --

Q We've just looked at them. Do you want to look at them again?

A I just looked at one page in the other one and it was five pages. I just looked at the one page and I found two or three things --

Q Your notes --

A -- it didn't include, but --

MR. MORRIS: You know what. I don't want to argue. They say what they say, Your Honor, and I would ask the Court to look carefully at our objection to the motion because we lay all of this out.

Your Honor can -- here's the point, because I do want to finish up right now. There are five different versions of this conversation. They're laid out in the brief. And the question that you have to ask yourself, Your Honor, is, if you allow this case to go forward, how do they make a colorable claim when the story keeps changing?

And I'll just leave it at that, because, you know, the last version says MGM for the first time. Like, it comes out of nowhere. This -- his notes don't say it, he hasn't testified that that's what he was told, but somehow that's in his sworn statement.

So I'm just going to rest on the papers, because this is

-- I don't want to be argumentative.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I'll object to the argument of counsel. He's just doing another opening statement here, and it's inappropriate and not proper.

THE COURT: Okay. I agree. This is Q and A.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: So, --

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Do you know -- do you have any knowledge or information as to how Mr. Seery's compensation was established?

A Uh, --

Q Withdrawn. I'm talking now not in his capacity as an independent director or the CEO of the Debtor. I'm only talking about in his capacity as the CEO of the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trustee. Do you have any personal knowledge as to how his compensation was established?

A The knowledge I have is that the Claimant Trust gives full latitude to change it at almost any time they want. Add more to it, add more than that we've seen, double it in the future if reserves are reversed. It can do anything it wants. And I guess we've seen some redacted partial statements of his compensation, but that's all I know.

Q Okay. You have no knowledge about how Mr. Seery's compensation package was determined, correct?

A I was not involved.

Q Okay. You've never -- I'll just leave it at that.

MR. MORRIS: I have nothing further, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Pass the witness. I'm sorry, I guess I should ask, do any of the other responding parties have examination?

MR. STANCIL: No, Your Honor.

THE COURT: No? Okay. Redirect?

MR. MCENTIRE: Just very briefly, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you, Your Honor.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero, you remember the questions about Judge Jernigan walking into the courtroom on June 8 two years ago saying, MGM is sold, maybe we can settle this case? Do you recall those questions?

A Yes.

Q And do you remember Mr. Morris's dramatic suggestion that, well, how did Judge Jernigan know, or to that effect?

A Yes.

Q Well, that had already been announced, had it not, publicly?

A Yes.

Q Several weeks before?

A Yes.
Q I'd like to direct your attention -- do you still have Exhibit 4 that he handed you? Do you have Exhibit 4 there?
A Uh, --
Q His exhibit?
A Is that the notes?
Q No, it's -- Exhibit 4 is the verified amended petition to take deposition before suit -- take -- in the state court. To -- deposition.
A You've got to give me more of a clue. I'm sorry. There's like six binders.
MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. Morris, can you show us where the exhibit --
MR. MORRIS: Sure. Which one is it?
MR. MCENTIRE: It's Exhibit 4. I'm going to talk to him about Exhibit 4 (inaudible) that you've have used with this witness.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q I assume -- Mr. Dondero, were you assuming from the tone and the substantive content of his questions that Mr. Morris is suggesting that your notes are not reliable?
A He was trying to make it seem like the versions were different. They were all 90 percent the same. Different -- it seemed like different emphasis for different purposes. And then you have to remember we learned more about Farallon and Stonehill over time. Like, in the beginning, when I had -- when I -- we didn't even know Stonehill was involved when I --

Q Sure.

A -- first talked to -- when --

Q Well, he made the big suggestion about you never talked about due diligence before. Turn to Exhibit 4, Paragraph 23, which he did not address with you. Can you turn to Paragraph 23 of Exhibit 4? Mr. Morris omitted to refer you to this particular paragraph.

A 23? Go ahead.

Q Would you read it into the record?

A (reading) On a telephone call between Petitioner and Michael Linn, a representative of Farallon, Michael Linn informed the Petitioner Farallon had purchased the claim sight-unseen and with no due diligence, a hundred percent relying on Mr. Seery's say-so, because they had made so much in the past with Mr. -- when Mr. Seery had (overspoken).

Q Now, since you've an opportunity to see other paragraphs and other -- that he was otherwise not selecting, you did refer to the -- to what Mr. Linn had told you about in May of 2021?

A Yes. I've been very consistent. Listen, I believe Farallon tapes all their conversations. So, eventually, as this goes further, I purposefully --

Q Well, let's --

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike, Your Honor.

THE WITNESS: Okay.

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q He also did not direct your attention or the Court's attention to Paragraph 27 of Exhibit 4, selecting -- presumably strategically selecting not to refer to that paragraph. Do you see Paragraph 27?

A Yes.

Q Could you read that into the record, please?

A (reading) However, Mr. Seery is privy to material nonpublic information, inside information of many of the securities that Highland deals in, as well as the funds that Mr. Seery manages through Highland. One of these assets was a publicly-traded security that Highland was an insider of, and therefore should not have traded, whether directly or indirectly, given its possession of insider information.

Q Isn't that paragraph just basically addressing MGM?

A Yeah, that's the only major position we had that that would apply to.

Q So the suggestion that you're just making this MGM stuff up is not true. It's consistent with what you've (inaudible) in other courts as well, correct?

A Yes. I believe it's disingenuous to say that there's different versions of my story.

Q Well, let's continue with Mr. Morris's strategy. Go to Exhibit 3, please. Mr. Morris suggested that there's no reference at all in any of these prior pleadings about Mr. Seery's excess conversation. Do you recall that series of questions?

A Yes. Or his statements, yes.

Q Yes. And he did not direct your --

MR. MORRIS: I move to strike. I asked him if he had any knowledge of the man's compensation package. That's what I asked him.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, sir. Your Honor, that's not what he asked him. That was one of the questions he asked. The other question was, there's nothing in here about compensation. That's what I'd like to address now.

MR. MORRIS: Oh, go right ahead.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Directing your attention --

THE COURT: You can ask. I'd have to go back and check the record whether you had that second question you mentioned. I remember questions about does he have knowledge of Seery's compensation. I just can't remember if he asked, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Fair enough.

THE COURT: -- were there references to it in the --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, --

THE COURT: -- prior pleadings.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- for the record, we'll make it clear that there is a reference.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q If I could direct your attention to Paragraph 23, Exhibit -- as to --

MR. MORRIS: What exhibit is it?

MR. MCENTIRE: It's Exhibit 3.

MR. MORRIS: Hold on one second.

MS. MUSGRAVE: Your exhibit.

THE COURT: Highland's Exhibit 3.

MR. MORRIS: Give me a moment.

THE COURT: Page what?

MR. MCENTIRE: It's Paragraph 22 on Page 5.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. My Exhibit 3?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Could you read for me, please, Mr. --

MR. MORRIS: Hold on one second. It's my Exhibit 3 or your exhibit?

MR. MCENTIRE: It's your exhibit. This is Hunter Mountain's binder.

MR. MORRIS: Ah, I apologize.

MR. MCENTIRE: You were just using it.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. All right. Go ahead. What paragraph were you?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q I'd direct your attention, Mr. Dondero, to Paragraph 22.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Would you read -- would you read Paragraph 22 into the record, please?

A (reading) Mr. Seery had much to gain by brokering a sale of the claim suggested to Muck, mainly his knowledge that Farallon as a friendly investor would allow him to remain as Highland's CEO with virtually unfettered discretion to administer Highland. In addition, Mr. Seery's written compensation package incentivized him to continue the bankruptcy for as long as possible.

Q There was also a series of questions to you about a transaction involving NexPoint -- NexPoint Diversified Real Estate Trust. Do you recall those questions?

A Yeah. Let's talk about that.

Q All right. Tell me what the transaction was.

A I'm sorry. The tender that he was asking about or --

Q Yes, the tender.

A There was -- investors wanted some shares retired, and we didn't have enough cash on the balance sheets. So we tendered in the form of giving them Preferred, which was like equity but a better dividend or a more secured dividend, and 20 percent cash. And then insiders weren't allowed to participate. But the whole tender was only for eight or ten percent of the nominal amount outstanding. And again, you've got a package of securities, so you didn't get any -- you didn't cash. And although it reduced the share count, it also increased the Preferred or the claims against the company. So it was marginally accretive, I guess.

Q All right.

A But, again, as far as inside information is concerned, Compliance is a separate party organization that reports up to the SEC. Has a dotted line to me. Reports to the SEC. They make sure everything we do is compliant.

Q Mr. Dondero, --

A Yeah. Can --

Q -- you didn't participate in the transaction, did you?

A No. Insiders weren't allowed to participate in the transaction.

MR. MCENTIRE: Reserve the rest of my questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Any recross?

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q The reference to the compensation that we just looked at, that was your own personal view, not something that anybody from Farallon ever told you, correct? You can go back and look.

A Yeah, that --
Q I mean, it's not a trick question.
A Yeah, that was my pleading.
Q Okay. And that was your own speculation, if you will? It had nothing to do with anything Farallon ever told you, correct?
A I never discussed Seery's compensation with Farallon.
Q Okay. Thank you, sir, very much. Just one last question. The price of the tender --
A Yes.
Q -- was based in part on the value of the MGM stock, correct?
A The tender was based on market price --
Q And --
A -- of where the closed-in fund was trading. It was trading at a discount. And the discount to NAV, the NAV included MGM accurately marked at whatever time.
Q I appreciate that.
MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.
THE COURT: All right. Mr. Dondero, that concludes your testimony.
THE WITNESS: Thank you.
THE COURT: You are excused from the witness box.
(The witness steps down.)

THE COURT: We probably should take a break, right?

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Caroline, do you want to give them the aggregate time used?

THE CLERK: Yes. The Defendants used 91 minutes right now. And the Respondents together, 86 minutes.

THE COURT: Okay. I thought it was going to be higher than that.

(Laughter.)

MR. MCENTIRE: That's what it feels like.

MR. MORRIS: You were wishing.

THE COURT: I was wishing. Okay. A ten-minute break.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(A recess ensued from 3:17 p.m. until 3:28 p.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated. We're back on the record in the Highland matter. Mr. McEntire, you may call your next witness.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, Hunter Mountain would call Mr. Seery adversely.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, we're waiting for Mr. Morris for just 60 more seconds. I think he's on his way back to the courtroom.

THE COURT: Okay. I just noticed.

Did I hear you say you're going to call him virtually?

MR. MCENTIRE: Adversely.

THE COURT: Oh, adversely? Okay. I'm so used to hearing the word "virtually" the past few years.

Oh, and there he is. Okay.

MR. SEERY: I'm sorry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Seery, welcome.

MR. SEERY: Good afternoon, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Please raise your right hand.

(The witness is sworn.)

THE WITNESS: I do.

THE COURT: All right. You may be seated.

JAMES P. SEERY, JR., HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST'S ADVERSE WITNESS, SWORN

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Seery, would you please state your full name for the record?

A James P. Seery, Jr.

Q And you and I met for the first time I believe it was last Friday in your deposition; is that correct?

A You were by video.

Q I mean, --

A We didn't actually meet.

Q Correct. You are currently the CEO of the Reorganized

Debtor?

A That's correct.

Q Prior to your appointment as the CEO of the Reorganized Debtor, you've never served as a CEO of a reorganized debtor in the past, have you?

A I have not.

Q You previously served as the chief executive officer of Highland Capital as a Debtor-In-Possession. Is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q And that was the first time you'd ever served in a position such as that; is that correct?

A As the CEO of a debtor, yes.

Q Right. You also now currently serve as a Trustee for the Highland Claimant Trust, which was put into effect after the effective date of the plan, correct?

A Yes, I'm the Claimant Trustee.

Q All right. That's the first time --

THE COURT: Mr. McEntire, we usually require standing at the podium. I mean, do you need --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's fine. I'm totally fine.

THE COURT: Okay. That's --

MR. MCENTIRE: I forgot.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q That was -- and your capacity as the Trustee for the Claimant Trust, that's a first experience as well, correct?

A As the Claimant Trustee, yes.

Q All right. And in these various capacities as a CEO of the Reorganized Debtor, do you consider yourself to be subject to the Investment Advisers Act?

A No, I don't I'm subject to the Investment Advisers Act. I think Highland in certain capacities could be.

Q All right. But do you have any duties that -- that you are required to fulfill under the Investment Advisers Act accordingly?

A Do I?

Q Yes.

A I believe Highland does. I don't know that I have any personal duties.

Q All right, sir. Let me now talk a little bit about your duties that you did have at Highland. You agree that when you were at Highland you had fiduciary duties that you owed to the estate?

A Yes.

Q What were those duties?

A To generally treat the estate on an honest and fair matter.

Q Avoid conflicts of interest?

A Yes.

Q Not self-deal?

A Yes.
Q Do you agree with me that you would have a duty not to trade on material inside -- material nonpublic information?
A Generally, I would have a duty to not trade on material nonpublic information, yes.
Q Can you think of an exception?
A There may be. I just don't think of any one off the top of my head.
Q So, today, you would agree, for purposes of these proceedings, that you would have an obligation as the CEO of the Debtor-In-Possession not to participate in a transaction involving material nonpublic information? Agreed?
A It would depend. So, for example, if I was trading with someone else who had material nonpublic information, that might be a permissible transaction.
Q The HarbourVest transaction, you were involved in negotiating the HarbourVest settlement?
A Yes, I was.
Q Did that involve any component related to MGM stock?
A No, it did not.
Q There was no involvement at all concerning the transfer of MGM stock to any entity as a result of that transaction?
A None whatsoever.
Q Okay. And does HCLOF not have a participation at this time in MGM stock?

A We call it H-C-L-O-F.
Q Yes.
A It does not own MGM stock, and as I far as I know, never owned MGM stock.
Q Okay. You agree you received an email from Mr. Dondero in December of 2020. We've had it here before. You've seen it in the courtroom, correct?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Did you ever send -- forward that email to anyone else?
A I'm sorry. Could you repeat that?
Q Did you forward that email on to anyone else?
A I believe I did, yes.
Q To whom?
A I certainly discussed it with counsel. I believe I forwarded it to counsel, both the Pachulski firm and the WilmerHale firm. Thomas Surgent had gotten it. He was on the email. And I also forwarded it, I believe -- certainly, discussed it -- with the other independent directors.
Q Okay. I'm not going to talk about your conversations with other lawyers in-house, okay, or your outside counsel. Did you take any steps yourself personally to make sure that MGM stock was placed on a restricted list at Highland Capital after you received that email?
A No. MGM was already on the restricted list at Highland Capital.

Q Okay. And is that because of Mr. Dondero's position on the board of MGM?

A It -- I believe that's the reason. It was on before I got to Highland.

Q Okay. And you agree, do you not, sir, that the email that you received from Mr. Dondero also contained material nonpublic information?

A I don't think so, no.

MR. MCENTIRE: Would you put up Exhibit -- our Exhibit 4, please?

MR. MORRIS: 4?

MR. MCENTIRE: 4.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Did H-C-L-O-F -- I'll refer to it as HCLOF, you refer to it as H-C-L-O-F -- did that -- did HCLOF own any funds that owned MGM stock?

A HCLOF had interest in certain Highland-managed CLOs that did own some.

Q As a result of the Highland settlement -- excuse me, the HarbourVest settlement, was there any impact on who owned some of those CLO funds?

A No.

Q Okay. How was the CLOs, the funds, handled, if at all, in the -- in the HarbourVest settlement?

A They didn't have any impact whatsoever on the HarbourVest settlement.

Q Looking at Exhibit 4 for a moment, please, did the interests, did the interests in -- HarbourVest's interests in any of those CLOs transfer?

A No, they did not.

Q Okay. And did HCLOF acquire any interest in any of those CLO's as a consequence of the HarbourVest settlement?

A No, it did not.

Q Looking at Exhibit 4. Excuse me, Exhibit 3 is what I meant to say. Exhibit 3.

THE COURT: Hunter Mountain Exhibit 3?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor. Excuse me.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q This is the email that we were just referring to that you received, correct?

A Yes.

Q And you don't think -- you knew that Mr. Dondero was on the board of directors of MGM?

A Yes.

Q And he -- as a member of the board of directors, when you received this, you see where he indicated that it was probably a first-quarter event? Do you see that?

A I see what it says, yes.
Q Okay. And you did not think that that was material nonpublic information?
A No, I did not.
Q When he indicated that Amazon and Apple were actively diligencing -- are diligencing in the data room, both continue to express material interest, coming from a member of the board of directors of MGM, you did not think that was material nonpublic information?
A I did not, no.
Q You know the difference between a newspaper article or a media article that discusses rumors of a possible sale and the difference between that and a member of the board of directors saying that a sale is going to occur? You understand the difference between the two?
A Between the two things you just outlined?
Q Yes.
A Yes. One you said a sale is going to occur, and the other you said a media report. But it would depend on what's in the media report. Some media reports are pure speculation. Others have a lot of detail, and they clearly came from an inside source, and that's why the market moves on them.
Q Okay. So what you're suggesting to me, that there was some indication in the media press before you received this email suggesting that there was actually going to be a sale in the first quarter of 2021?

A I don't know if it had a first-quarter event in it, but certainly it was clear from the media reports and the actual quotes from Kevin Ulrich of Anchorage, who was the chairman at MGM, that a transaction had to take place very quickly. And in fact, the transaction did not take place in the first quarter.
Q Okay. So you -- when you received this particular email, you did not think that it was requiring any additional protection at -- in any way? Is that what you're suggesting to this Court?
A That the email required additional protection?
Q That you didn't take additional steps to make sure that it was maintained on the restricted list.
A It was already on the restricted list, so there was no change.
Q Was it --
A I --
MR. MORRIS: Hold on. Let him finish.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
A I was suspicious when I got the email, but I didn't think I had to do anything else than the steps I told you I just took.
Q Yeah, I'm not asking whether you were suspicious or not. My question's a little bit different. You understand that MGM was taken off your restricted list in April of 2021?

A I understand that that's what you've recently shown me. I wasn't aware of that fact or I didn't have a recollection of that fact, but certainly April of 2021 would be beyond the first quarter. Mr. Dondero was not an employee, an affiliate, subject to a contractual relationship. He had no duty to Highland and Highland had no duty to him. And in fact, it was quite antagonistic by that time. So it would be appropriate to take MGM off the restricted list at the end of that time.
Q Well, hopefully you won't take this as argumentative, but I object as nonresponsive. That really wasn't my question. Okay? My question --
THE COURT: Sustained.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q -- is a little bit different. As far as you were concerned, MGM was on the restricted list and stayed on the restricted list all the way until the public announcement in May of 2021?
A That's not true.
Q When did you first become aware it was taken off the restricted list?
A I didn't -- I wasn't aware that it had come off the restricted list. I would have assumed it would have been off the restricted list once Mr. Dondero had been severed from Highland.

Q I see. Now, Mr. Dondero has relayed a conversation that he had with Mr. Patel and Mr. Linn, suggesting that they were particularly optimistic about MGM based upon what you told them.

A I --

Q Let me finish. If that occurred, are you suggesting that that is a lie?

A Two things. One is I don't think he actually testified to that. I think he said he had a conversation with Mr. Patel. Then he had a different conversation with Mr. Linn, and a subsequent conversation with Mr. Linn. So the way he laid it out were multiple conversations.

Q Agreed.

A I don't -- I don't know which one you're talking about.

Q Mr. Dondero testified that Mr. Patel was particularly optimistic about the investment because of what he had learned from Mr. -- from you about MGM.

MR. MORRIS: I dispute that characterization. Why can't he just ask the question?

MR. MCENTIRE: That is my question. If that --

THE COURT: What is the question? I'm not sure I hear the question.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm getting lost because I'm getting interrupted. I'll try to rephrase it again.

MR. MORRIS: It's my first objection.

MR. MCENTIRE: And I --

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm just going to rephrase, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Just rephrase your question.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Dondero has testified that Farallon advised him in May of 2021 that they were optimistic about MGM based upon what you told them. Assuming that to be the case, do you deny that happened?

A I do deny that happened. Because I can't -- I don't know what Farallon told him, but I never told Farallon anything. And a conversation on May 28th, after the May 26th announcement that MGM was going through, might make people optimistic that it could go through, but there was a very difficult FTC process that MGM would have to go through.

Q And I'm referring to that. If Farallon stated that they were optimistic about MGM based upon what you had told them, --

A That would not be true.

Q -- that would be false?

A That would not be true.

Q And is Mr. Dondero says that's what Farallon told them, that would also be false?

A That's correct.
Q So we have your statement, we have what may be Farallon's statement, and we have what Mr. Dondero believes may have been Farallon's statement, and you're saying the latter two are just not true?
A I didn't have a conversation with Farallon about MGM that -- that I recall -- Q Well, you're on the witness stand.
A -- virtually at any time.
Q You're on the witness stand.
A Oh, I'm aware of where I am sitting.
Q Yeah. Good. We've got that cleared up. Now, are you suggesting that -- that you may not specifically recall this conversation?
A No, I am not saying that at all. After May 26th, when the MGM announcement was made and it was public, I may have had conversations with a number of people about MGM.
Q Well, let's make sure the record is clear. Did you call Farallon on May 26th and say, hey, did you know that MGM just sold?
A No, I don't recall any such conversation, and I wouldn't have had to, since it was in the paper.
Q I'm not talking about what's in the paper. I'm talking about conversations between you and Farallon.
A Yeah. I don't recall having a conversation with Farallon on May 26th.

Q How about May 27th?

A Not that I recall, no.

Q How about May 28th?

A Not that I recall off the top of my head.

Q And we understand that that's the day that Mr. Dondero actually had his conversation that he's reported, at least, with Farallon. Do you recall that?

A That's what he claims, yes.

Q You were with a company called River -- you're a lawyer, correct?

A I am. I'm in retired status.

Q Okay. I wish I was.

A It's simply retiring your license and not having to take the CLE.

Q Understood. Now, you were with a company called River Birch?

A Yes.

Q And from River Birch, you went to Guggenheim Securities?

A That's correct.

Q At Guggenheim Securities, did you go to Farallon and meet with Mr. Patel in their offices in San Francisco?

A I believe we did, yes.

Q You call it a meet-and-greet?

A I do, yes.

Q That was in 2017?
A 2017, 2018. I'm not exactly sure when it was.
Q And one of the purposes of meet-and-greet is to solicit business or to see if a business opportunity -- see if it exists?
A That's not correct, no.
Q What is a meet-and-greet for, then?
A It's to meet the people at the fund and to greet the people at the fund. Introduce them to other people in your firm.
Q Just because it's going to be fun, or does it have a business angle to it?
A Oh, it hopefully will be fun, yes, but it's done in order to build a relationship over time. You're not in there soliciting business. If you do that, you won't do very well.
Q Okay. Fair enough. So you're there trying to develop a relationship with Farallon?
A Guggenheim was, yes.
Q And you were part of it?
A That's correct.
Q And what was your job at Guggenheim?
A I was co-head of credit.
Q Is that a fairly significant position at Guggenheim?
A Not really, no.
Q It's not significant at all?

A No.
Q All right.
A Which is why --
A Which is why they don't have that business.
Q Okay. So is that why you left Guggenheim?
A It -- I did, yeah. It wasn't a good fit for either Guggenheim or for me, because it really wasn't something --
Q When did you --
A -- that they were set up to do.
Q -- leave Guggenheim?
A In 2019.
Q And then you went back to Farallon to meet with them again, did you not?
A I met with Farallon while I was in San Francisco with my wife.
Q Okay. Did you call ahead to arrange the meeting, or was it just a --
A I --
Q -- a blind call?
A I did call ahead, yes.
Q A cold call, I guess, is the word -- the phrase that they use. Okay. So -- and was that a meet-and-greet?
A That was again, yes.
Q Again, what were you trying to do? Develop a relationship with Farallon?

A I was trying to catch up with them after having met them previously. And that was just Raj Patel. And this one I also met Michael Linn.

Q Okay. What kind of business were you in when you met with them the second time?

A I wasn't doing anything.

Q What were you hoping to do?

A I was hoping to get back into the investing side of the business, from running a credit-type lending business at Guggenheim, which is what they tried to do and it didn't work out. And I wanted to get back to what I was doing more at River Birch, but I was looking at other opportunities, whatever came along.

Q Well, what were the different options that you were looking at?

A I was looking at potentially getting back into investing, joining potentially a restructuring firm, any options like that. I was not looking to become a lawyer again.

Q And why would meeting and greeting with Farallon fit in within that scenario, the strategic scenarios that you've just discussed?

A They're a giant hedge fund.

Q A giant hedge fund?

A Yes.

Q And so it would be good to have a relationship with a giant hedge fund, wouldn't it?
A And to know what their thinking of the markets, where the opportunity set might be, who they are dealing with and interacting with. Those are -- those are valuable things to know over time.
Q And --
A And you need to maintain those relationships in order to be --
Q Sure.
A -- part of any business.
Q Sure. These meet-and-greets can actually evolve and provide relationship benefits, correct?
A I don't -- I'm not sure what you mean by relationship benefits.
Q Sloppy words for -- on my part. They can evolve into something that is a meaningful relationship?
A They could over time, yes.
Q And we know that after you became the CEO of Highland Capital that you received a call from, was it Farallon, to congratulate you on your appointment?
A It was an email.
Q And that was in the summer of 2020, shortly after your meet-and-greet out in San Francisco?
A Your calendar's a bit off, but it was in June of 2020, so that would have been more than shortly after, but yes.

Q Okay. And who contacted you to congratulate you on your appointment?
A This was my appointment as an independent director. I had not yet been appointed as CEO or CRO. This was in June of 2020, and it was Michael Linn.
Q Michael Linn? Was it a telephone call?
A I think 30 seconds ago I said it was an email.
Q Fair enough. Do you still have that email?
A I do, yes.
Q Okay. He contacted you again, "he" being Michael Linn, he contacted you again in January of 2021, did he not?
A That's correct, yes.
Q He wanted to see if he could get involved somehow in the Highland bankruptcy?
A Well, he congratulated -- he didn't congratulate -- he wished me a happy new year, and he basically said it looks like you're -- again, he's following the case -- it looks like you're doing good work. Is there any way for us to get involved? We're interested in claims or buying assets.
Q Okay. And Stonehill. Now, you know the founder of Stonehill, do you not?
A No, I don't know him. I've met him several times.
Q Doesn't he come by and stop in and talk with you when you're in Stonehill's offices? And that's happened recently?

A Your use of the plural is incorrect, and you know that from the deposition. I was in Stonehill's office one time, and I was in a meeting with Mr. Stern. We ended up having a board meeting from Stonehill's office with the other participants on video, and Mr. Motulsky came in and said hello.

Q All right. And who's Mr. Motulsky?

A He's the founder of Stonehill.

Q I see. And did you know Mr. Motulsky before that?

A I'd interacted with Mr. Motulsky over the years at -- mostly at industry-type functions.

Q Okay. Now, Stonehill is also a hedge fund?

A Yes.

Q Are they different than Farallon in that regard, or similar?

A I don't know as much about what their business is. They certainly do a direct lending component, so I know that they -- they will do some direct lending, which I don't think is something Farallon really does. Farallon is much bigger, as I understand it, but I don't really know the size of Stonehill.

Q Okay.

A I know they're not a $50 billion fund like Farallon.

Q And do you know Mr. Stern at Farallon?

A I now know him, yes, because he was -- he's really the representative on the -- no, he's not the representative on the board, but he is the one who manages the Stonehill and Jessup positions for Stonehill.

Q Well, we know that after you were CEO of Highland, you also got a text message, correct, a text message from someone at Stonehill, correct?

A Mr. Stern sent me a text message reintroducing himself -- I don't know if it was re- or just introducing -- and sent me his email and asked me to contact him about the case. This was at the end of February/beginning of March 2021, after the confirmation order.

Q Okay. After the -- after the confirmation order?

A Yes.

Q I believe the confirmation order -- I may be wrong -- I thought it was like the 21st, 22nd, somewhere in there. Does that sound right to you?

A Yes.

Q Okay. So, shortly after confirmation, then, Farallon calls you to congratulate you and wants to see how they can get involved?

A No. There was no congratulations there. Shortly after the confirmation order, which I believe was at least a week to ten days after confirmation, I got the communication from Mr. Stern to try to connect about the case.

Q All right.

A He's at Stonehill, not Farallon.

Q Correct. Now, --

A You said Farallon.

Q I misspoke, then. Thank you for correcting me. Let's talk about -- you live in New York?

A I do.

Q You're involved with a charity called Team Rubicon?

A Yes.

Q And Team Rubicon is a -- is that a veterans-type charity?

A Yeah. It's a veteran-led organization, and what it does is connects veterans to disasters. And mostly in the U.S., but also all over. So if there's a flood, if there's a hurricane, if there's an earthquake, veterans who have been trained in -- by the military in ready response and really being able to handle themselves when things are bad are deployed to help the communities that are hit. So I think that Team Rubicon likes to think, you know, on your worst day they're your best friend.

Q So you're -- are you on the board?

A No, I'm not.

Q You're on the Host Committee?

A I was on the Host Committee last year, and I'll be on the Host Committee this year.

Q Okay. And you have charity events?

A We have a charity event, yes.

Q Okay. And the purpose of the charity event is to raise a bunch of money?

A That's correct.

Q Okay. Have you been successful in the past?

A I do my best. Team Rubicon is a big organization. It's done very well raising money. It doesn't have an endowment. The founder's theory was that if people give us money, we're supposed to spend it on helping other people. And so each year it has to raise more money.

Q And Stonehill has been -- has contributed to your charity?

A I believe Stonehill, one or two years, and I should know this, and I didn't look it up after our deposition, gave $10,000.

Q Okay. Maybe once, maybe twice?

A Maybe twice.

Q Okay.

A I hope more.

Q Okay. And they also attend your -- your actual charity events, do they not?

A No.

Q All right. They just give money?

A That's right. And the Mike Stern who's on the board of Team Rubicon is not the Mike Stern who is at Stonehill. It's an older gentleman who's in Texas who just happens to give a lot of money to --

Q All right.

A -- Team Rubicon.

Q You also represented Blockbuster. Take that back. Were you the lawyer or the attorney representing the Creditors Committee, the UCC, in the Blockbuster bankruptcy?

A No, I was not.

Q Tell me what your capacity was.

A I represented a group of bondholders, secured bondholders. So I represented the group.

Q And was Stonehill a member of that group?

A Not that I recall, but your pleadings seem to indicate that they were. So if they were, they were a small participant. The largest participant was Carl Icahn, who owned about 30 percent of it. Then the others who were big were DK, Davidson Kempner, Monarch, Owl Creek. Those were the big players.

Q Well, --

A When Carl Icahn is in your group, you remember that.

Q Yeah, well, Carl Icahn is not here. We're talking about Stonehill right now.

A And I said I don't remember them actually being a part of it. If they were, --

Q Okay. Well, let me -- let me give you what I'm going to mark as Exhibit 80. That's your name at the top, right?

(Hunter Mountain Investment Trust's Exhibit 80 is marked for identification.)

A That's correct, yes.
Q You were at the time with Sidley & Austin?
A That's correct, yes.
Q This is In re Blockbuster.
MR. MCENTIRE: Scroll down, please.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q And steering group of senior -- involves -- well, let's count them. Let's see. One, two, three, four, five. Five entities comprising the backstop lenders. Is that correct?
A I think that's the steering group. So, in order to represent the group, you need to try to assemble a large-enough group that it's material to the company. And then the company, if you're -- particularly if you're over 50 percent, will pay the fees of the group. And you don't represent any individual member of the group. I've never represented Carl Icahn. I represent the group. And if folks want to stay in the group, they can stay. If they want to trade out of the group, they do. And the company will generally continue to pay the fees, and you represent the group so long as you have a controlling interest in the -- whatever the issue is.
Q Well, that's interesting, because now what you're telling me is that this group right here, this is kind of like the executive committee of the group.
A No, it's called the steering group, and it doesn't necessarily --

Q That's fine.
A Well, it's not an executive committee. It doesn't necessarily include just the largest. Some large holders won't be on it. The largest holders here by a long shot were Icahn, who -- Q I'm not talking about --
A -- unloaded, as I say, over 30 percent. Monarch, Owl Creek, and I just don't recall Stonehill being a part of it.
Q I'm not really interested in Carl Icahn. I just want to establish this is a steering group in which you were the lead counsel and Blockbuster was on it. Is that correct?
A Yes.
Q Excuse me. Not Blockbuster.
A I'm sorry.
Q Stonehill.
A No, it's the Blockbuster case in 2010, and Stonehill was apparently on it, but I just don't have a recollection of their involvement.
Q All right. So when Mr. -- who sent you the text message in February of 2021 from Stonehill?
A Michael Stern.
Q And had you actually met him before?
A I think I had, but we didn't know each --
Q All right.
A You know, we certainly didn't know each other, we'd never worked on anything together, but I --

Q Do you have all your text messages from that period of time, that first quarter of 2021?

A I believe I do, yes.

Q They're saved?

A Yes.

Q Okay. When did the automatic delete button on your cell phone start?

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, objection. We've covered this this morning. I believe this is a motion coming down the pike, and I thought we had -- thought we had had tabled this preservation issue.

MR. MCENTIRE: This has a direct bearing on his communications with Farallon and Stonehill in this period of time, Your Honor. We have one text message that he's identified, and I have a right to examine whether there are others. Or if not, why not.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, he's --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's a legitimate -- I'm not finished. That's a legitimate area of inquiry in this examination.

MR. STANCIL: He's testified he has them all. Your Honor did not order document discovery. I think that's it for purposes of today's hearing, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I sustain the objection.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q After this text message that you received from Stonehill in February 2021, did you have any follow-up?

A Well, his text message, I don't recall what it said other than I was -- I do recall that he gave me his email address, because I didn't have it. And we just didn't know each other well enough. But we definitely had follow -up. He wanted to talk to me, and at some point we talked.

Q And when did you talk?

A I'm sorry?

Q When did you talk?

A When? I -- it was at the, initially, end of February, beginning of March. So it would have been somewhere in that -- in that time period.

Q End of February, beginning of March? And we also know that you next talked to Farallon, according to your testimony, and they advised you they had already purchased all their claims as of March 15, correct?

A On March 15th, they sent me an email that said they had purchased an interest in claims, and --

Q So -- go ahead.

A I'm not finished. And then at some point after that, we arranged a quick discussion, because that was a curious --

Q I want to assure you I will always let you finish.

A Thank you very much.

Q Unlike others. So, with that said, Mr. Seery, can you identify -- let me back up. Was there a data room set up at Highland Capital for claims investors to come in and look at data?

A No, there was not.

Q Are you aware, sitting here today, that Farallon did any due diligence in connection with its investment in the claims it purchased that are at issue in this proceeding?

A I have indication that they did some, yes. I don't know how much they did.

Q What is the indication?

A In the email in June of 2020, Mr. Linn said that he and his associate were following the case, thought it was -- that's the one that congratulated me on being an independent director, and that they were paying attention to the case. And it -- I don't recall the exact other items in there, but it was clear that they were following the Highland matter. And then in the email in January 2021, he also indicated that they'd been following the case further, and said, Looks like you have things well in hand, or something to that effect. So --

Q Do you have that email, too? Have you saved that email?

A They're all saved, yeah.

Q Okay. So let's talk about that. But you had no data room that would allow them to come in and actually investigate the underlying assets. Is that correct?

A Not in respect of anybody trying to buy claims. We did have a data room with respect to financing.

Q Please listen to my question. I'll get to it. Data room for claims investors. There was no data room set up on or before March 15 to allow Farallon to come in and investigate its investment in this claim?

A That's correct.

Q There was no data room set up prior to March 15 to allow Stonehill to come in and investigate its investment in the claims it purchased. Is that correct?

A That's correct.

Q Can you identify any due diligence, sitting here today -- let me back up. You heard Mr. Dondero's testimony about portfolio companies, correct?

A Yes.

Q Portfolio companies are companies in which Highland Capital has an interest that actually have separate and distinct management. Is that correct?

A Generally. And it -- I disagree with some of his testimony, but generally that's correct, yes.

Q Well, okay. Let's just take on the part that you agree with. With regard to those portfolio companies, was there anything that was disclosed in the Highland publicly-available financials that would allowed a detailed analysis of Highland's investments in each of those portfolio companies?

A I don't know. Certainly, in the four or five sets of projections that were filed, there were financial projections. I'm not sure exactly what was included in each one or in the disclosure statement.
Q Fair enough. Well, I'll represent to you I don't think there's detailed information on each individual portfolio company.
MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, he's not here to testify. I move to strike.
MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.
THE COURT: Sustained.
BY MR. MCENTIRE:
Q In that regard, Mr. Seery, can you identify what Farallon did to investigate the underlying asset value of any of these portfolio companies?
A I don't have any knowledge as to what Farallon did before it bought claims.
Q Can you identify what due diligence Stonehill did to investigate the underlying asset value in any of these portfolio companies?
A I don't -- I mean, in connection with claims purchasing, I have no idea what Stonehill did.
Q Now, I understand that you solicited -- perhaps I don't recall correctly. Did you solicit both Farallon and Stonehill to participate in a bid to provide exit financing?

A I don't think that's fair. I solicited Farallon because I knew they already owned claims. Stonehill reached out to me, and that was one of the things they were interested in doing, if there was financing needs.

Q Okay.

A And at the time they reached out, which was right after confirmation -- right after confirmation and the confirmation order, we didn't know what our needs would be. We didn't really, at the early stage, think we needed exit financing. When we looked at some of the difficulty we were going to have -- for example, collecting notes and realizing on assets -- we realized that we were going to need some exit financing in order to have enough money to support the enterprise to monetize the assets.

Q And I think you used the -- I think the phrase you used, you are the straw man or a straw man bid? Is that what you called it the other day?

A We did. You set up a very typical competitive process to do exit financing.

Q And what was the --

A And what -- well, I --

Q -- suggest --

A I was going to get to your straw man. And one of the things you do is you assess what the market's going to look like, what you think the market looks like, what you think a financing would be good for the enterprise, the flexibility you need, how you'd structure it. And then you put that out to prospective lenders and say, Here's our straw man. This is what we'd like you to consider in terms of financing. And then they do their work and come back. And they can either say, that looks great, or we have a totally different idea of what the financing might be, or some other combination of those things.

Q Mr. Seery, thank you for that answer, but I need to ask you to do me a favor. I'm on the clock, and so I'd just like to get my questions out, if you'd try to respond. Okay?

A Uh-huh.

Q Because your answers, as long as they may be, are impacting me a little bit.

So let me ask this question. In the straw man proposal that you put out for bid, what was the suggested interest rate?

A You know, you asked me that the other day, and I think I was slightly off. So it -- and I -- but I did tell you that it depended. There was -- I don't recall what the rate was, but it starts -- if everybody wants to put out money -- and I apologize for the length of the answer -- they look and they say, well, what if I get paid back in six months? Nobody wants to do that. So, duration makes a difference. So there's an interest rate. There's upfront fees. There's often exit fees. And sometimes there's other amounts. So, our -- my recollection is that our straw man was somewhere in the low teens on the high end, and then closer to high single-digits on the low end. Something in that range.

Q And Farallon indicated to you they were not interested, correct?

A No, not exactly. What Farallon said was they didn't -- they signed an NDA because we invited them in. We invited in six folks. Five signed NDAs. Two of the -- I invited in Farallon. I invited in Stonehill. Well, Stonehill called me. I invited in Contrarian because they had bought claims. And then two lenders that I knew. And Farallon did the work and came back and said, this isn't really what we do. And the other guys, you're telling me, which I was, that other people are more competitive. And so it's not really what we do, we don't think the returns are good enough, but if you need us, because now they're already invested in the claims, call us.

Q Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: And again, I'll object as nonresponsive. Your Honor, that was a very long answer talking about a lot of other entities. My only question was what the interest rate was.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, we oppose the motion to strike. I think it's --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I didn't strike it. I said -- my objection was nonresponsive. I will now follow it up with a motion to strike his answer.

THE COURT: Overruled. Okay.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Seery, you just told us that the interest rate was in the high single digits to in the 12 and 13 percent range.

A No, I was giving you the all-in return for the lender. That's a very different --

Q All-in return?

A -- thing for the -- than an interest rate.

Q That's even better.

A And it depended on the time.

Q Fair enough.

Q So if -- the shorter the duration, the higher the effective return, because he's not getting the return for as long a period of time. If I have $100 million and I get 10 percent, I get just $10 million. But if I have that out for $3 million, I've earned $30 million. So maybe that gets squeezed in the longer it's out.

Q And Farallon said that the interest rate or the return rate was not what they were looking for?

A They indicated two things. I believe I've said this several times. One is they said, this isn't really what we do, a $50-ish million dollar loan to do an exit. But we're in the case. If you need us, call us. Included in that was, it doesn't look attractive enough to us because you're telling me other guys are more competitive.

Q Okay. And do you know what kind of rate of return they were going to get on the investment of the -- on the claims at a 71 percent projected return rate?

A If we only hit the plan, Farallon's two purchases, based on the numbers you get -- you gave, over a two-year period, would be 38.9 percent.

Q Okay, but we're going to talk about that in a second. Okay. How much -- how much did Farallon actually invest?

A I'd have to look back at your numbers. They're in your pleading. I don't know what they actually paid. I just have it from your pleading.

Q Okay. And do you have paperwork that -- can you (inaudible) calculation here?

A I have a calculator that, when I looked at your numbers, I ran that, and I --

Q I see. All right.

A I'm able to remember certain things.

Q So, so if it's projected that the internal rate of return is only six percent, do you disagree with that?

A A hundred percent disagree. There's -- that's virtually impossible.

Q Okay.

A And that's, by the way, for hitting the plan.
Q I'm sorry?
A That's for hitting the 70 -- the 71-and-change percent.
Q I want to ask you a question about that. The 71-percent-and-change --
A Uh-huh.
Q -- that came out of the plan for Class 8, --
A Yes.
Q -- that was for Class 8, correct?
A Correct.
Q There was zero expected return to Class 9, correct?
A That's correct. They would only get upside, and I think it says in the projections, based upon our view at the time, litigation that could ensue, and that was part of the plan.
Q And as I understand it, that 71-and-some-change --
A Uh-huh.
Q -- projected return rate never changed from the date of confirmation all the way up to the effective date. Am I correct?
A The -- we didn't change the projections that we'd filed with the plan because the plan was confirmed. We didn't need to change the projections that were filed with the plan.
Q The NDAs, as you understand it, can you tell me specifically when the NDAs were signed?
A I know it's the first week of April to the second week of April. Blue Torch may have signed -- who actually ended up doing the financing -- they may have signed it a week or so before. They'd been around offering financing a number of times in the past.

Q Fair enough. But we know that you understood as of March 15th that Farallon had already made their investments? I mean, claims?

A That's what they told me in that email, yes.

Q Okay. When did Stonehill sign the NDA?

A In and around the same time.

Q But you don't know when Stonehill actually purchased their claims?

A I don't know exactly when. I know generally that by the end of April, early May, they were -- they were the holder of the Redeemer claim. And --

(Interruption.)

A -- I can't remember whether it was from them or whether it was from --

Q Did you ever communicate with Stonehill during the time that they were doing their due diligence on the exit financing?

A Yes.

Q Okay. Did they come to your offices?

A I don't know if we were back yet. I think we were back, but I don't recall them coming to our offices. I think it was all virtual. It's early '21, so there would have been vaccines. It would have been very -- very -- I don't recall them coming to the offices at that time.

Q But just to be clear, you don't know, you can't give the Court a date when Stonehill actually completed their investments in either Redeemer or HarbourVest?

A No, I don't. I don't know. Did -- just --

Q That was my question.

A When you say Redeemer or HarbourVest, they never bought HarbourVest.

Q It was just Redeemer?

A Correct.

Q All right. You understand that Muck is an entity, a special-purpose entity created by Farallon?

A That's my understanding, yes.

Q And you understand Jessup is a special-purpose entity created by Stonehill?

A That's my understanding, yes.

Q Muck and Jessup are both on the Oversight Committee?

A They are. They -- those entities are the --

Q Is it the Oversight Committee or the Oversight Board?

A Same thing.

Q Fair enough.

A I'll consider them the same.

Q And there's a third member, too, correct?

A That's correct.
Q Okay.
A Independent member.
Q Okay. So you have a three-person board; is that right?
A That's correct.
Q And one of their jobs is to make decisions concerning your compensation?
A The structure of the Claimant Trust Agreement provides that I'm to negotiate with the -- either the Committee or the Oversight Board. And the compensation in the Claimant Trust Agreement is a base salary of $150,000, which is -- a month, which is the same as the one in the case, plus severance, plus a success fee. And it's very specific that that will be negotiated by the -- either the Committee or then the Oversight Board.
Q And Michael Linn, who Mr. Dondero has referred to, he's actually on the Oversight Board, is he not?
A He's the Muck representative on the Oversight Board.
Q All right.
A Yes.
Q If I understand it correctly, you are currently receiving, as the Trustee, $150,000 a month. Is that correct?
A That's incorrect.
Q What are you receiving?
A I receive $150,000 a month as the Trustee and the CEO of Highland Capital.

Q Well, --

A So I have --

Q -- fair enough.

A I have both roles. The Trustee, for example, doesn't manage the team, they actually work for Highland Capital, and I'm the CEO of Highland Capital.

Q There was some suggestion that the $150,000 was something that the Court had passed upon prior to the effective date or part of the plan. This is a separate negotiated item that you -- that you allegedly negotiated that was awarded to you post-effective date, correct?

A That's false.

Q Okay. So the $150,000 had a discount that was supposed to drop down to $75,000 after a period of time. That never happened, did it?

A The -- you seem to be mixing concepts. But the $150,000 a month was set by the plan and the -- and the Claimant Trust Agreement as the "base salary." That wasn't going to move. When we -- it never was supposed to move.

When I began negotiating with the Oversight Board for the success fee, they pushed back and said, we would like that to step down. So in our -- I did not say, oh, that's a great idea. We ended up negotiating, and they included a provision that we would renegotiate depending on the level of work.

That's one of the provisions.

Q Okay. But renegotiate down to $75,000 after a period of time, but that never happened?

A Initially, I believe it was supposed to step down to $75,000 automatic, subject to renegotiation that it go back up, not a structure that I particularly liked. And since then, we've negotiated on that point.

Q So you currently are making $150,000 a month?

A That's correct.

Q How often do you come to Dallas?

A Usually I'm here at least once a month. Usually it's between two and four days.

Q Okay. And you have a staff here in Dallas at Highland Capital, correct?

A Yes.

Q How many people?

A Eleven.

Q Eleven people?

A Uh-huh.

Q Working full-time?

A Yes.

Q And you're still making $1.8 million a year?

A Yes.

Q You also have a bonus structure, correct?

A That's correct.

Q And that's performance-based?

A That's correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you pull up the agreement please? Okay.

(Pause.)

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q All right. Do you see --

MR. MCENTIRE: We're having technical difficulty here.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q All right. Can you identify this document?

MR. MCENTIRE: What exhibit number is this?

MR. MILLER: 28.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Exhibit 28.

MR. MCENTIRE: I believe this is already in evidence.

THE COURT: Hunter Mountain Exhibit 28?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q This is the memorandum of agreement. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q On the third line, it says -- and your name is identified here. You're the Claimant Trustee, correct?

A Claimant Trustee/CEO.

Q Engaged in robust, arm's length, and good-faith negotiations regarding the incentive compensation program.

As part of this robust, arm's length, and good-faith negotiation, did you personally conduct any independent search in the marketplace?

A I did -- what do you mean by search in the marketplace?

Q Well, did you try to do a market study? I asked that question in your deposition.

A I didn't know if you were asking a different question.

Q Same question.

A You mean market study on compensation?

Q Yes.

A No, I did not.

Q Are you aware of whether or not any member of the Oversight Board or Oversight Committee did a market study?

A On compensation?

Q On compensation.

A I'm not aware that they did one, no.

Q So this robust, arm's length, and good-faith negotiation, as far as you know, is divorced from any market study database or -- or methods. Is that correct?

A I don't believe that's correct, no.

Q I see. So did -- was any third-party consultant hired?

A Not by me or Highland or the Trust, no.

Q All right.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you scroll down a little bit, please?

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q You signed this agreement, correct?

A Yes.

Q And we have Michael Linn signing on behalf of Muck, who also is with Farallon, correct?

A That's correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: Scroll down.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q And by the way, this is a heavily-redacted document. The redactions deal with what?

A The redactions deal with the portion that would go to the team as opposed to going to me.

Q Are we talking about the 11-member team?

A Correct.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can you scroll down? Stop. Go back.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q So we have the assumed allowed claim amounts under Section D. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q Class 9, $98 million and some change. Class 8, $295 million and some change. Then we go into the incentive payment tiers. Do you see that?

A Yes.

Q What's the purpose of the tiers?

A The purpose of the tiers was to set additional compensation so that, the more recovery, the higher the compensation. So, below Tier 1, there was really effectively no bonus, is my recollection. And then in each tier there would be a percentage.

So the first tier is $10 million. There would be a percentage of that $10 million that could be allocated for bonus. Then in the next tier it would be $56 million. A portion of that would be allocated for bonus. And it's weighted more heavily to the higher-recovery tiers, meaning it incentivizes both me and the team to try to reach deeper into Class 8 and Class 9 and get higher recoveries.

Q Okay. So the idea is, the more difficult it is to get the recoveries, the higher percentage you should get, because if you're successful then you should be rewarded accordingly? Is that kind of how it works?

A I'm not sure if difficult is the term, but it's a combination of both expertise, difficulty, and time.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right. Can you scroll down, please? Next page.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q And here are your actual tier participations. They go -- you said basically nothing Tier 1, up through 6 percent. So Tier 1 is the 71 percent, right?

A It's .72 percent, and it's of the -- that's the first piece. You have to get to Tier 1. So if we had not -- I believe it's structured is if we don't get to Tier 1, for example, we don't hit the plan, right around the plan number of 71-and-change cents, then there wouldn't -- there wouldn't be upside.

So it was very much structured in a way that you had to perform. And then the better the performance, the bigger the percentages of the tier.

Q So, in theory, Mr. Seery, by the time you get down to Tier 4 and Tier 5, it's a little bit less certain that you're ever going to get there. Is that right?

A Well, out of the gate, going deeper was uncertain. It's a question of being able to execute well on the assets and being able to control the costs and being able to make distributions. It wasn't based on what we just got for the assets. It's actually based on actual distributions --

Q I understand that.

A -- to Class 8 and 9 claimants.

Q I understand that. And the idea is, is that it take a lot more effort -- the theory was it might take a lot more effort to get all the way to the bottom of Tier 5 to pay all the Class 9 claims, right?

A And maybe a little luck.

Q Yeah. And Class 10 is not even factored into this, is it?

A No, it is not.

Q And so you didn't consider Class 10. You stopped at Tier 5?

A That's correct.

Q So your entitlement to a 6 percent return, or a 6 percent bonus on the recoveries, you say it's there to incentivize you. You didn't expect that to actually happen, did you, when you signed this? Is that your testimony?

MR. STANCIL: I object to the form of the question. It mischaracterizes the agreement.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q You didn't expect it to happen, did you, sir?

THE WITNESS: Well, the six --

THE COURT: Wait. I'm sorry. Could you rephrase the question?

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Are you telling the judge that you really didn't expect that to happen and that's why you were entitled to a higher percentage?

A No. We didn't expect to reach Class 9 and go deep into Class 9, but we certainly held out the possibility that we could. And it's not six percent. It's six percent of the increment. These are cumulative. So you get .72 of Tier 1. You get 1.17 of Tier 2. And you can add those, and you earn them when you've actually made the distribution, but you don't get paid until you get all your distribution or we're relatively done or there's a renegotiation. Because the Committee wanted to make sure that I didn't say, hey, I hit Tier 3, time to go, I got a better job.

Q So, Mr. Seery, if Farallon told Mr. Dondero that they wouldn't sell basically at any price because you said it was too valuable, and they rejected a 40 or 50 percent premium, if they said that, is that -- is that a lie?

A That I -- rephrase that, please. I don't -- didn't quite understand your question.

Q Yeah. You've heard the testimony that Farallon, Michael Linn, told Mr. Dondero that they were not going to sell their claim at any amount because you had told them it was too valuable. Is that a lie?

A I think that's -- yeah, I don't think that's true.

Q Okay. And obviously, if they're not going to be willing to sell at any amount, they must be pretty certain they're going to hit Tier 5. Would that just be a lie?

A That -- that conversation was before this negotiation. That -- there's no -- they could not have had any expectation, either when they had that conversation in May or when we had this discussion that I was going to hit Tier 5 and I hadn't hit Tier 5. And the idea that they wouldn't sell at any price is complete utter nonsense, because they're capped on what they can get.

Q So if -- sure. Okay. So, but if Farallon told --

A But that's what you said.

Q If Farallon told Mr. Dondero that they wouldn't even sell at 130 percent of the purchase price because you told them it would be too valuable, is that a lie?

A I never told them it would be too valuable. I don't -- I don't know any of the other parts that you're saying, the 130 percent of an unknown number, some guess number that Mr. Dondero had. I never told them it would be too valuable. That would be their own assessment of where we were at the end of May 2021.

Q If they said that you told them not to sell, that it was too valuable, is that a lie?

A That's untrue, yes.

Q If they told him -- if they told him that he told you -- that you told them it was too valuable because of MGM, is that a lie?

A Yes.

Q How many shares of stock did Highland Capital own?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, one second. What is my time? How much time do I have?

THE CLERK: Right now you're at --

MR. MCENTIRE: So I'm almost two and a half hours in?

THE CLERK: Just about. A little under.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q I'm going to have to speed up here, Mr. Seery.

THE COURT: A little under two and a half, you said.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Seery, I want to make sure. Highland Capital owns interests in the CLOs. What is the CLOs' stake in the MGM stock, or what was it?

A Highland Capital does not own any interest in any of the CLOs it manages. It has a fee stream, and it can have certain deferred fees that it can get, but it didn't own any interest in any of the CLOs that it managed.

Q Fair enough. How about the portfolio companies?

A Did Highland Capital own interests in the portfolio companies?

Q Yes.

A Some of the ones Mr. Dondero listed, but they weren't portfolio companies. So he said OmniMax, but we didn't have any management of OmniMax. We just had debt that converted to equity, but we didn't control the -- the thing. That was during the case, the company.

Q Did Multistrat have an interest in MGM?

A Multistrat owned MGM, yes.

Q Okay. And did your company, Highland Capital -- your company -- Highland Capital have an interest in Multistrat?

A Highland Capital owns 57 percent of Multistrat, yes.

Q And did Highland Capital have an interest in any other portfolio companies that have an interest in -- had a stake in MGM?

A RCP. Restoration Capital Partners.

Q And do you recall what the value of that was?

A It shifted over time. I don't -- I don't know what time you're talking about.

Q And isn't it true that 90 percent of all the securities that Highland Capital owned at the time that the sale went public was roughly 90 percent of all of Highland Capital's securities?

MR. STANCIL: Objection, Your Honor. I don't know what that question is asking.

THE COURT: I don't understand it, either.

Could you rephrase?

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll try to.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q At the time that the announcement was made about Amazon buying MGM in May of 2021, what percentage of all the securities did MGM comprise of the securities that were owned by Highland Capital?

A Of the securities that were directly owned by Highland Capital, it may have been -- I'm thinking of public or semi-public securities, the 150,000 or 170,000 that we had that were subject to the Frontier lien. Might have been almost all of the securities that we owned. It wasn't -- it was a good position, but it wasn't a huge driver for the directly-owned shares. There was more value in the Multistrat and the RCP.

Q What percent of shares of all --

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I'm sorry, I'm having trouble hearing the end of Mr. Seery's answers. So I know it's not his --

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Okay. If you could make sure you speak into the mic.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. I'm sorry.

MR. STANCIL: I'm having trouble with Mr. McEntire talking over the end of Mr. Seery's answers.

THE COURT: Ah.

MR. STANCIL: I'm having trouble following.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: I apologize.

THE COURT: Okay. Could you --

MR. MCENTIRE: I didn't know I was doing that.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'll try to do better.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Mr. Seery, of all the stock that Highland Capital owned in May of 2021, what percentage of that was (inaudible) stock?

A Hopefully this is clear. Highland Capital did not own a lot of stock. Highland Capital did have a direct ownership interest in MGM, so that might have been the vast majority of the stock that Highland Capital owned. It did own interest in other entities, like its investment in RCP or its investment in Multistrat. But of the stock that it owned directly, that was probably it, and that's the one that was liened up to Frontier.

Q Mr. Seery, did Highland Capital own approximately 170,000 shares of MGM stock in May of 2021?

A Yes. You -- I'm sorry. You asked me what percentage, and I think I said roughly that amount of stock liened up to Frontier, and that that might have been almost all of the stock we owned.

Q Does Highland Capital own a direct interest in HCLOF?

A In HC --

Q HCLOF?

A HCLOF? Yes. Highland Capital owns a small direct interest, and a large indirect interest which we got through the settlement with HarbourVest.

Q And the entity in which you acquired the indirect interest, what's the name of that entity?

A I don't recall. It's a -- it's a single-shell special-purpose entity that we own all of it and it has no other assets.

Q And just to make sure that the record is clear, you deny under oath that HCLOF has any interest -- or had any interest in MGM stock?

A HCLOF has never owned MGM stock and still doesn't own MGM stock. It's never owned it.

Q Um, --

A At least -- at least, as long as I've been in this case.

MR. MCENTIRE: One second, Your Honor, please.

(Pause.)

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm going to have to pass the witness because of time sensitivities, Your Honor, so I'll pass the witness at this time.

THE COURT: Okay. Cross?

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Mr. Seery?

A Yes, sir.

Q You just covered a lot of what we would have covered, so I want to be really, really quick here. Okay? We're not covering old ground. Let's just start with the HarbourVest settlement. Do you recall that Mr. Dondero sent the email to you on December 17th?

A Yes.

Q Okay. When did you reach the agreement with HarbourVest on the settlement?

A December 10th.

Q Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I'd like to move into evidence Exhibit 31. Actually, let me lay a foundation first.

Can you give the witness --

MR. MCENTIRE: Is this a new exhibit?

MR. MORRIS: No. It's Exhibit 31.

MR. MCENTIRE: Can I see it, Tim, please?

MR. MORRIS: It's in your box.

MR. MCENTIRE: Give me a minute.

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: Okay. We're about to focus on Highland Exhibit what?

MR. MORRIS: 31.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Do you have it, Your Honor?

THE COURT: I do.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Do you have it, Mr. Seery?

A I do, yes.

MR. MORRIS: Do you have it, sir?

MR. MCENTIRE: I do. Thank you.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you just tell the Court what this is?

A This is an email chain. It starts from me to the other independent directors, copying counsel, to outline the terms of the HarbourVest settlement that I had just made the offer to HarbourVest to settle on these terms on December 8th. And this was the product of a number of negotiations that had taken place over the prior weeks, and this was the final offer that I was making to them to settle.

Q Directing your attention to the bottom of the first page, the first email dated December 8, 2020 at 6:46 p.m., can you just read the first sentence out loud.

A I lost -- you lost me.

Q That begins, "As discussed yesterday."

A Oh. "As discussed yesterday, after consultation with John Morris" -- that would be you -- "regarding litigation risks, this evening I made an offer" -- it says "and," but it should have said "an" -- "offer to HarbourVest to settle their claims. The following are the proposed terms."

Q Okay. Just stop right there. And you were -- this is the report that you gave to the independent directors?

A The other independent directors.

Q Right.

A I was also one.

Q Right. And did Mr. Dubel respond?

A He did, yes.

Q And can you just describe briefly what your understanding was of his response?

A Dubel responds a couple hours after I sent the original email: "Jim, this basically looks like a $10 million -- net $10 million payment to HV." That's HarbourVest. "Is that correct? Does the 72-cent recovery include the $22-1/2 million that we get from the transfer of HCLOF interests? Remind me again, post-effective date, who is managing HCLOF?"

So I think my understanding was Mr. Dubel was querying me on some of the terms that I had set forth here, including that the value of the claim in our estimation was going to be about $9.9 million, meaning they would have a $45 million senior claim, a $35 million junior claim, and we thought, based on the values we had then, it was going to pay out about $9.9 million.

Q Okay. And was this offer accepted?

A Yes, it was.

Q When was it accepted?

A I think I just said. On -- on December 10th.

Q Okay. And did the terms that you described for the other independent directors on December 8th, did they change in any way at all from that reflected in this email until the time we got to the 9019 hearing?

A Not at all, no.

Q Okay. I see that you mention in here that you -- it says, quote, "The interests have a marked value of $22-1/2 million, according to Hunter Covitz." Do you see that?

A That's correct, yes.
Q Who's Hunter Covitz?
A Hunter Covitz was a Highland employee. He ran the structured products business. So he was responsible for making sure that the CLO we managed, which was AC7, was compliant and was -- with the indentures. He also was responsible for monitoring the -- what we call the 1.0 CLOs, even though they weren't really CLOs, they were more like closed-in funds. And he also kept track of the Acis -- CLOs that HCLOF had an interest in that were managed by Acis.
Q Okay. And do you recall how he conveyed to you the NAV?
A Well, I talked to him numerous times, so this wasn't our -- I didn't just call him up at the end and say, what's the NAV? I had had discussions with him while I was negotiating with HarbourVest. And at some point, he or someone -- he told me the amount, and at some point he gave me a NAV statement that actually showed the NAV of HCLOF, which at 11/30 was roughly $45 million.
Q Okay. Can you turn to Exhibit 31-A, the next document in the binder?
A Mine's completely blacked out.
THE COURT: I'm sorry, what number?
MR. MORRIS: 31-A.
THE COURT: Oh.
MR. MORRIS: And the first two pages are redacted just because they're not relevant and they're business information.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q But can you turn to the last page, sir?

A Yes.

Q Can you tell the judge what this is?

A So this is a net asset value statement from HCLOF. That's Highland CLO Funding, Limited. That's the Guernsey entity that -- that held these interests. And this is a net asset amount, and it shows what the net -- what the net asset value is as of this time on a carryforward basis of $45.191 million.

Q Okay. And where did you get this document?

A I believe I got it from Covitz. It's generated by an entity called Elysium, which is the fund administrator for HCLOF, and I believe they're out of Guernsey.

Q And did you rely on this document in setting the proposal to HarbourVest?

A Well, both the conversations with Covitz and the document. And frankly, HarbourVest got the same documents because they were -- they held a membership interest in HCLOF. So he -- Michael Pugatch knew what the NAV was.

Q And would Mr. Dondero or entities controlled by him who also have interests in HCLOF, is it your understanding that they would have also had this document available?

A All members would --

MR. MCENTIRE: Excuse me. Excuse me. I object to that question, the question being "and the entities controlled by Mr. Dondero." There's no foundation for this witness to answer a question like that.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Who else owned --

THE COURT: Sustained.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q -- an interest in HCLOF?

THE COURT: Go ahead.

THE WITNESS: It would have been DAF.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q The DAF?

A Yeah.

Q Okay. Let's just ask this question. Is it your understanding that these NAV valuation reports were made to all holders of interests in HCLOF?

A Yes. And that would include the DAF. And I did leave off that there were three former Highland employees long gone, or at least not around at this point, who also owned very small interests, and they would have gotten those statements as well.

Q And does HCLOF also produce audited financial statements?

A It does, yes.

Q Can you go to Exhibit 60, please?

A Six zero?
Q Yes, sir. A couple of questions here. Is this a document that Highland would have received in the ordinary course of business?
A Yes, it is.
Q Okay. And what is the NAV depicted on this page as of the end of the year 2020?
A Well, you have to look through it, because this document is actually dated 4/21/21, --
Q Okay.
A -- which you can see on Page 10 where it's signed. And that shows a net asset value of $50.4 million as of 12/31/21. 12/20. I'm sorry. And -- but it wasn't prepared until -- the audits aren't done and we don't get this document until after the directors sign off in April.
Q Okay.
MR. MORRIS: And Your Honor, I move for the admission into evidence of these three HarbourVest-related documents, 30, 31-A, and 60.
MR. MCENTIRE: No objection.
THE COURT: They're admitted.
MR. MORRIS: Okay.
(Debtors' Exhibits 30, 31-A, and 60 are received into evidence.)
BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. Let me move on. We've seen Mr. Dondero's email today. You've seen that before, correct?

A Yes.

Q Okay. What was your reaction when you got it?

A I was highly suspicious.

Q Why is that?

A Well, not to replow too much old ground, but this came after he threatened me. He threatened me in writing. I'd never been threatened in my career. I've never heard of anyone else in this business who's been threatened in their career. So anything I would get from him, I was going to be highly suspicious.

It also followed the imposition of a TRO for interfering with the business. He knew what was in the TRO and he knew what it applied to, and it restricted him from communicating with me or any of the other independent directors without Pachulski being on it.

Furthermore, Pachulski had advised Mr. Dondero's counsel that not only could they not communicate with us, if they wanted to communicate they had to prescreen the topics.

And how do we know that? Because Dondero filed a motion to modify the TRO. And that was all before this email.

In addition, that followed the termination of the shared service arrangements, the approval of the disclosure statement, and the demand to collect on the demand notes that

Mr. Dondero and his entities were liable for.

So at that point, he'd been interfering with the business, he had threatened me, he was subject to a TRO, and I got this email and I was highly suspicious.

Q Did you ever share this email with anybody at Farallon?

A No.

Q Did you ever share this email with anybody at Stonehill?

A No. And just to be clear, not just the email, the contents. Never discussed it with them.

Q That was going to be my next question. Did you ever share any information about MGM with anybody?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

MR. MORRIS: I'm asking the question.

MR. MCENTIRE: No, you're leading.

MR. MORRIS: This is the whole --

MR. MCENTIRE: You're leading the witness.

THE COURT: Overruled. Finish the question.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you ever share any information concerning with MGM with anybody at Stonehill before you learned that they had purchased claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No. No, I did not.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you ever share any information with anybody at Farallon concerning MGM before you learned that they purchased their claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE WITNESS: No, I did not.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

(Pause.)

THE WITNESS: You know, you just asked me something about Stonehill.

THE COURT: No.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Yeah. No question.

A I wanted to clarify one.

Q What did you want to clarify, sir?

A Certainly didn't share anything about this email, any of the contents of it. I don't know if I ever -- I don't know exactly when Stonehill bought their claims, and they were subject to the NDA to do the financing process. So I know when Farallon told me they had bought their claims and I know we never had any discussions at all before they acquired their claims, and I don't know when Stonehill got those -- their claims, so I don't know when -- what was in the data room or what -- what might have been discussed about MGM while they were under an NDA.

Q Okay.

A But certainly nothing -- I never shared the contents of this email, the substance of this email, the email at all. That's what I wanted to clarify.

Q What data room are you talking about, sir?

A This was the data room related to the exit financing where we sought exit financing and ultimately got exit financing from Blue Torch Capital.

Q And who put together the data room?

A DSI, which was our financial consultants, and our finance team.

Q And why did you -- did you delegate responsibility for creating the data room to DSI and the members of your team you just identified?

A Yeah, of course.

Q How come?

A I don't really know how to put together a data room.

Q Did you -- did you direct them to put anything in the data room?

A Not specifically. We had a deck that we -- that certainly I worked on and commented on, which would have been a general overview of the -- of the post-reorganized Highland and the -- and the -- and the Claimant Trust. So I certainly commented on that. But the specific information in the data room, I don't -- I never looked at it. I don't know what it is.

Q How many -- how many entities who were participating in the exit facility process wound up making bids or offers?
A There were five that signed NDAs. Three provided substantive proposals. One was verbal. That was Bardin Hill, who'd been contacting me throughout the case, and they do this kind of financing, and they submitted a competitive bid. Stonehill in writing, and then amended, a more aggressive one, in writing. And Blue Torch probably three, and the most aggressive.
Q And did you give the -- did you give the opportunity to your age-old friends at Stonehill?
A They're not my age-old friends. And no, they lost. They were second, they were close, it was a good real proposal, but they didn't win.
Q So, --
A Blue Torch won.
Q So is it fair to say that you -- did you pick the best proposal that you thought provided the best value for the company that you were managing?
MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, again, for the last ten minutes, we've had nothing but leading questions. And it just is --
MR. MORRIS: Fine. Happy to --
THE COURT: Sustained. Rephrase.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Why did you pick Stone -- why did you pick Blue -- Blue-?

A Blue Torch.

Q Blue Torch, over the other bids?

A It was the best bid. So, structurally, it was the least expensive, although they were extremely close. I had a lot of confidence in Blue Torch because this type of financing is what they do. And while you can never have a hundred percent confidence that if somebody goes through the -- this is an LOI, right, so this is a letter of intent. When they go further, they may -- they may not complete it. But I had a high degree of confidence that they would get there, because, again, that's what they do. And they were the -- they were just the better bid.

Q Okay. Do you recall that in Mr. Dondero's notes he wrote down that he was told that Farallon had purchased their claims in February or March?

A I saw that on what he claimed, yes.

Q And is that consistent with what you were told by Farallon in March?

A They told me they acquired the claims -- they had acquired the claims on March 15th, by email. I don't know if they acquired them in February or March. Or even January. I know they said they had them on March 15.

Q Did you ever speak with Farallon about anything having to do with the purchase of their claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Not -- not before they sent me that email.

MR. MORRIS: I apologize. Withdrawn.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Before -- before learning of their purchase, had you had any discussions with them about potential claim purchases?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection.

THE WITNESS: No.

MR. MCENTIRE: Leading.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No, I didn't.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. Before you learned that Stonehill had purchased claims in the Highland bankruptcy, had you ever had any conversation with them about the potential purchase of claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE WITNESS: No, I don't -- I don't --

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I'm sorry. I don't -- I don't believe so, no.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Do you have any knowledge at all as to how the sellers went about selling their claims?

A I have some knowledge now, post-effective date, that I believe I have some understanding, but not a great one.

Q Did you ever communicate with any of the sellers about the potential sale of their claims prior to the time their claims were sold?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: I did have a conversation with Eric Felton who was the Redeemer representative on the Creditors' Committee. And it came out of one of the emails I got. I think it indicated that -- MR. MCENTIRE: Objection, hearsay, Your Honor. I mean, hearsay, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: It's hearsay.

THE COURT: Okay. He's about to say something that's hearsay is the objection. Any response?

MR. MORRIS: I'm not offering it for the truth of the matter asserted. I'm offering it for Mr. Seery's state of mind and the extent of his communications. How about that?

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't see how you could offer it for anything other than for the truth of the matter asserted. It's coming from a third party, so I object to hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. You know what? We --

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Other than the one conversation --

THE COURT: Are you withdrawing the question or do I need --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. This is just --

THE COURT: Okay. You're withdrawing the question.

MR. MORRIS: I'll withdraw the question.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Other than the one conversation with Mr. Felton, did you ever have a conversation with any seller prior to the time you learned that Farallon or Stonehill --

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q -- purchased the claims?

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you play any role in facilitating or recommending to Farallon or Muck that it purchase claims?

MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No. None whatsoever.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Did you play any role in facilitating or recommending that Stonehill or Jessup purchase claims?
A No.
MR. MCENTIRE: Objection. Leading.
THE COURT: Overruled.
THE WITNESS: I'm sorry.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q All right. Let's just finish up with compensation. Can you go to Exhibit 41, please? Can you just identify that document for the Court?
A This is the -- it's a memorandum agreement that sits on top of an outline. It is the December 2 incentive compensation agreed terms for Highland Capital --
Q Okay.
A -- and the Trust.
Q And when was this signed?
A It would have been -- the date is December 6th.
Q And --
A 2021. I'm sorry.
Q Okay. And when did you and the Committee members begin discussing your compensation package?
A Shortly after the effective date, which was August 11, 2021.
Q And were there any negotiations during that intervening three- or four-month period?

A Considerable negotiations during that period, yes.

Q Can you go to the last page of Exhibit 41? Can you describe that for the Court? I know it's hard to read, but --

A I --

Q -- the numbers don't matter so much as the infor... you know, just, can you just describe --

A Yeah.

Q -- what's being conveyed?

A So it's very hard to read, but it says -- because it's small -- Seery Proposal 1, Oversight Counter 1, Seery Proposal 2, Oversight Counter 2, and then it continues down. My recollection is that we had four or five rounds of back-and-forth that were meaningful. But it -- but it even took a detour in the middle, because it started with my proposal, which was pretty robust, and their response to me that they didn't like the structure or the amount, and so then we started talking about that. And then they -- after we were kind of hitting numbers and structure at the same time, they came back to me and said, stop, we've got to agree on the structure before we agree on the amounts.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, I'm going to object as it's hearsay and move to strike. This is -- he's not talking about the document. He's talking about something outside of the four corners of the document. I object to hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: Hearsay? There's no statement.

THE COURT: There was --

MR. MORRIS: It's a description of what happened.

MR. MCENTIRE: But he's actually referring to statements in his substantive comments.

THE COURT: Overruled. Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I move for the admission into evidence of Exhibit 41.

THE COURT: Any objection?

MR. MCENTIRE: That's the memorandum agreement, Mr. Morris? Is that it?

MR. MORRIS: Yes, sir.

MR. MCENTIRE: No objection.

THE COURT: Admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 41 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can we go backwards to Exhibit 39, please? Can you describe for the Court what that is?

A This is a redacted copy of minutes of the board meeting on August 21 -- 26, 2021.

Q And there's a lot of stuff redacted there. Do you have an understanding as to why there is redactions?

A It would have nothing to do with these issues that we're discussing or the alleged quid pro quo.

Q Okay. Can you just read out loud the last portion that's unredacted on the second page, beginning with "Mr. Seery reviewed"?

A It actually says, "Mr. Seery also presented the board with an overview of his incentive compensation program proposal, which would include not only Mr. Seery but the current HCMLP team. The terms and structure of the proposal had been previewed with the board in prior operating models presented by Mr. Seery. Mr. Seery reviewed the proposal and stated his view that the proposal was market-based and was designed to align incentive between himself and the HCMLP team on the one hand and the Claimant Trust beneficiaries on the other. The board asked questions regarding the proposal and determined that it would consider the proposal and revert to Mr. Seery with a counterproposal."

Q All right. When you were -- when you were shown one of these documents before, you were asked to identify Mr. Linn, but you weren't asked about the others. Do you see Richard Katz there?

A Yes.

Q Who's that?

A He's the independent member.

Q Did he play any role in the negotiation of your compensation package?

A Yes. He was actively involved.

Q Okay. And how about Mr. Provost? Who's he?

A He is the Jessup person. Jessup is the board member.

He's their representative on the board.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: And I move for admission into evidence of Exhibit 39.

MR. MCENTIRE: No objection, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 39 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Let's go to Exhibit 40, please. Can you just describe for the Court what that is?

A This is a subsequent board meeting minutes, August 30, 2021.

Q And can you just read into the record -- why are there redactions?

A Again, they would -- if there are redactions, it would have nothing to do with the issues that are being brought up in this motion.

Q And can you just read into the record the paragraph beginning, "Mr. Katz"?

A "Mr. Katz began the meeting by walking the Oversight Board and Mr. Seery through the Oversight Board's counterproposal to the HCMLP incentive compensation proposal, including the review of the spreadsheet and summary of the counterproposal. Discussion was joined by Mr. Linn and Mr. Stern. Mr. Seery asked numerous questions and received detailed responses from the Oversight Board. Mr. Seery and the Oversight Board agreed to continue the discussion and negotiations regarding the proposed incentive compensation plan for the Claimant Trustee and the -- and the HCMLP."

Q So they didn't accept your original proposal that you made in the earlier document?

A They did not.

Q Okay. And did negotiations continue?

A They did, yes.

MR. MORRIS: Before we go on, I move for admission into evidence Exhibit 40.

THE COURT: Any --

MR. MCENTIRE: No objection.

THE COURT: It's admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 40 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you go to Exhibit 59, please? Can you describe for the Court what this is?

A This is an email string between me and the Oversight Board regarding the compensation proposal.

Q Okay. And directing your attention to the bottom, I guess, of the second page, there is an email from Mr. Katz dated October 26. Do you see that?

A At the bottom of the second -- oh, yes, yes.

Q Okay. Can you just read the sentence at the bottom of the page beginning "We propose"?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, Your Honor, I would, first of all, object to him just reading from the document until it's been put into evidence.

THE COURT: I'm sorry, say again?

MR. MCENTIRE: I would object to Exhibit --

THE COURT: We can't pick things up on the record when you don't speak in a mic.

MR. MCENTIRE: I object to him simply reading from the document before the document is offered into evidence.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Accepted into evidence.

MR. MORRIS: Sure. I'd move it into evidence.

MR. MCENTIRE: I object as hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: This is a present sense recollection -- recorded. It's a clear business record. It's a negotiation that's happening over time. Mr. Seery is here to answer any questions about authenticity.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, it's an email string involving communications with third parties. That's hearsay in and of itself. And it's not been established that this is a business record. And Mr. Morris's statements to that effect, frankly, don't carry his burden. There's internal hearsay contained throughout the document, Your Honor, even if it is a business record.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, just to be clear, let me respond.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MORRIS: Exceptions to hearsay rule. 803(1) present sense impression; (2) -- (3) existing mental impression, state of mind about motive, (5) recorded recollection, (6) records of regularly-conducted activity, or Federal Rule of Evidence 807, residual exception for trustworthy and probative evidence. I'll take any of them.

MR. MCENTIRE: None of them apply.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. Overruled.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you.

THE COURT: I admit it. 59's admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 59 is received into evidence.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you just read that last sentence at the bottom of that page?

A This is from Rich Katz to me.

Q Uh-huh.

A (reading) We propose doing this in two stages. First, we'd like to come to agreement on structural, underscored, elements of the ICP.

ICP means incentive compensation program or plan.

Only after we'd done that, when the board had greater understanding of what plan they were pricing, would we haggle out the specific numbers, underscore, tier attachment points, and percentage participation in each tier.

Q Okay. And going to the right-hand part of that, do you see where it says, Salary J.S. Only?

A Yes.

Q Can you just, you know, generally describe for the Court what the debate is or the negotiation that's happening on that particular point?

A Well, this was brought up earlier. The salary was $150,000 a month. That was the same salary that I'd had during the case that was approved by the Court. It had been approved by the Committee, approved by the other independent members. That was continuing. It was also contained as an actual base salary in the plan and the Claimant Trust Agreement, and they were never amended.

The Committee came back to me and said, we'd like that to step down. And they'd like it to step down on a definitive specific schedule, because they had a view that that would incentivize me to work faster to make distributions before the stepdown and that I wouldn't linger in the role. And the yellow --

Q Can you just read the yellow out loud?

A That's --

Q Read the whole thing.

A That's my response.

Q Read the whole thing.

A (reading) Based on the required expertise, volume, and personal risk of the work today, I do not think that any formulaic reduction in base comp is appropriate. With the complexity and amount of issues that I have to manage on a daily basis, I currently do not have capacity to take on significant outside work. Of course, things can change. If they do, I am open to discussing reduction in the base. I have no interest in sitting around doing nothing, having no risk, and collecting the full base compensation. We can include prefatory language and an agreement to revisit our terms, but I do not see an avenue to set parameters to lock in an agreement for the future at this time.

And then there's another paragraph on severance.

Q You can stop there.

MR. MORRIS: I have no further questions.

THE COURT: All right. Pass the witness.

MR. MCENTIRE: Do you have any questions?

A VOICE: No.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. How much time do I have, please?

THE CLERK: So, the limit is at two hours and 32 minutes.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q Just a couple questions very quickly, Mr. Seery. Highland Capital Management paid HarbourVest cash as part of the settlement, correct?

A That's incorrect.

Q There was no cash component at all?

A There was not.

Q And in connection with the HarbourVest settlement, HarbourVest transferred an interest in HCLOF to Highland Capital or an entity affiliated with Highland Capital; is that not correct?

A That's correct.

Q And that -- that entity -- and HCLOF, and HCLOF had an interest in various CLOs, correct?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I object. This is beyond the scope of my cross, or redirect, however you prefer.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, you spent a lot of time on HarbourVest. I'm just trying to clear it up.

MR. MORRIS: I didn't say the word CLO. I did not say the word CLO.

THE COURT: Overruled. He can go there.

If you'd please move the mic towards your voice.

BY MR. MCENTIRE:

Q And HCLOF had an interest in various CLOs, correct?

A I believe it had an interest in five CLOs. Oh, that's not true. It had an interest in five of the 1.0 CLOs. It also owned one hundred -- basically, somewhere between 87 and a hundred percent of Acis 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7, which is about a billion dollars of CLOs to 10 (inaudible) leveraged vehicles, and they owned basically all the equity, so that was the driver of the value.

Q And various entities that were -- I mean, some of these various CLOs had an interest in MGM stock, correct?

A The 1. -- the Highland 1.0s did. The value drivers I just described -- Acis 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 -- had no interest in MGM.

Q But one of them did have an interest in MGM?

A That's not correct.

Q What did you just say?

A 3, 4, 5, 6, and 7 did not have any interest in MGM.

Q Were there any CLOs that had an interest in MGM?

A Some of the 1.0 CLOs did, --

Q I see.

A -- yes.

MR. MCENTIRE: Pass the witness.

MR. MORRIS: No further questions.

THE COURT: Mr. Seery, I want to ask you one thing.

THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor.

EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

THE COURT: We dance around it a lot. The Highland ownership of MGM stock. If think -- if you could confirm I've heard this correct -- you said Highland itself owned 170,000 shares that were subject to a Frontier Bank lien?

THE WITNESS: Yes, Your Honor. I believe that's the right amount. So, Highland directly owned about 170,000 shares. Those were liened up to Frontier. They were -- they were never transferred. Highland never sold any MGM stock.

THE COURT: Okay. So Frontier still holds it or what?

THE WITNESS: No. In fact, post-effective -- I believe it was post-effective date, and with cash generated, we -- we paid off the Frontier loan, --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: -- released that lien, and then we held those shares in MGM until the merger was consummated.

THE COURT: Okay.

THE WITNESS: So we tendered our shares into the -- into the merger and got the merger consideration, which was cash.

THE COURT: Okay. And so there was that. But other than that, you said Highland owned 50 percent of Multistrat, which owned some MGM stock?

THE WITNESS: Multistrat had a -- I don't recall the amount, but a material amount of MGM stock. That also -- so, Highland owned 57 percent of Multistrat. Is also the manager of Multistrat.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: Multistrat did not sell any MGM stock. It also tendered them into the merger as well.

THE COURT: Okay. And then you said Highland owned some percentage of Restoration --

THE WITNESS: Restorations Capital Partners.

THE COURT: -- Capital Partners, which owned some MGM stock?

THE WITNESS: Similarly, Highland is the manager of what we call RCP. RCP owned a material amount of MGM stock. RCP did not sell any MGM stock. However, in 2019, you'll recall that Mr. Dondero sold $125 million of stock postpetition out of RCP. It was MGM stock. He sold it back to MGM. We had a -- we had a hearing on it, because subsequently the Independent Board learned about it, the Committee learned about it, they had not -- it had not been disclosed, but there was a -- what we thought was a binding agreement with MGM, and MGM indicated that they were going to hold us to it, and so we had a hearing about approving that transaction. The Committee was not happy.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm fuzzy on when that was. You said?

THE WITNESS: That would have been in early 2020, probably April-ish timeframe.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor?

THE WITNESS: The transaction was in November, I believe.

MR. MORRIS: If it's helpful, Your Honor, you can find it at Docket 487.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I think that's the objection from the Committee where the issue was -- comes up at least at one time.

THE COURT: Okay. And then I think this is the last category I heard, that HCM and its specially-created sub owned just over 50 percent of HCLOF, and it in turn owns interest in a lot of CLOs, and a few of those, what you call the 1.0 CLOs, did own some MGM stock?

THE WITNESS: That's correct. So if you look on the audited financials that we had introduced into evidence, you'll see actually every asset that HCLOF owns. There's no MGM in there. It does own interest. There were minority interests in five or six of the 1.0 CLOs. Grayson, Greenbrier, Gleneagles, Brentwood, Liberty, and one other. And it had interest in those, but it never owned any MGM stock and it never traded any MGM stock. It didn't own any.

THE COURT: All right. Did I cover the universe of what MGM stock was owned by Highland or something Highland had an interest in?

THE WITNESS: Yeah. So, the ones that HCLOF had an interest in that I just listed, those -- Jasper was the other one. I apologize. The -- they owned -- they owned MGM stock among their other -- they had a lot of other assets. The other CLOs, the 1.0 CLOs that Highland had, every one of them owned MGM stock. None of them sold or bought any stock. Those all tendered into the merger as well. Highland did not own any interest in any of those entities.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: It just managed them.

THE COURT: Okay. And this is my last question. Someone brought up or it came up today that exactly two years ago today -- I didn't remember we were on an anniversary of that -- but was when we had a hearing, and I think it was a contempt hearing, but I had, I guess, read in the media, like many other human beings, an article about the MGM-Amazon transaction, and I had said I had hope in my heart and brain that this could be an impetus or a triggering event for maybe a settlement. And that was kind of quickly pooh-poohed, if you will.

Remind me why I was quickly persuaded, oh well, I guess that's not going to happen. I just can't remember what I heard that day.

THE WITNESS: Well, it was widely known that Highland, meaning not the 171,000 --

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: -- but the entities that Highland or related entities, including DAF, the other Dondero entities, controlled a lot of Highland stock, as even Mr. Dondero said between Anchorage --

THE COURT: You mean MGM?

THE WITNESS: MGM, I'm sorry. Between -- there were only five major holders. There was the two we just mentioned and Davidson Kempner and Monarch and Owl Creek, and just a few other big holders.

And so Your Honor would have learned it from the case, but you also would have learned it from the paper, that any time a holder is mentioned, it's first Anchorage, because they owned the biggest piece, and Kevin Ulrich, who was the chairman of Anchorage, was also the chairman of MGM. And then Highland was always mentioned.

The reason that it didn't have some great amount of capital that went on to Highland, although there was money from RCP and there was money from MGM, is Highland doesn't own the stock that's -- or interests in the 1.0 CLOs that owned all of it. We just manage it.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: And that goes to various other entities, including, in large part, to Dondero entities. So there wasn't a big windfall to Highland from that.

The possibility of some upside from HCLOF, because it owned small interests in those five, there was some value in that, but a lot of it got tied up in the litigation that other entities, Dondero entities, are bringing against U.S. Bank and Acis, which has tied up everything in that -- those distributions.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you. You are excused from the stand.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. STANCIL: I owe you a docket number, Your Honor. You said don't let us leave before we give you a docket number for that second contempt order. We promised to come back. It was #2660.

THE COURT: Okay. Got it.

MR. STANCIL: Which -- did we move that into evidence?

MR. MORRIS: No. We asked the Court to take judicial notice.

THE COURT: I will take judicial notice of 2660, --

MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- I already said. Thank you.

THE WITNESS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You're excused.

(The witness steps down.)

THE COURT: All right. Are you going to have any other evidence, Mr. McEntire?

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, as I respond to your question, I think we have 30 -- approximately 30 minutes left.

THE CLERK: Twenty-six, yes.

MR. MCENTIRE: Twenty-six. We do have another witness. We also have a closing final argument. And we also have an opportunity -- we want to reserve an opportunity for our experts that is still under advisement.

So my first action would be to ask for an extension of time, or we would like to add to our time limit. Instead of just three hours, we'd like to increase the time so we can accomplish all these things.

I mean, if the Court is unwilling to give us additional time, then I will be forced not to call another witness. I will move to a very short final argument. I need to preserve some time for my experts, should you allow them to testify.

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: May I respond?

THE COURT: -- you don't have to preserve time. I'm either going to allow you to put on your experts, and we said 30 minutes/30 minutes, --

MR. MORRIS: That was what I was going to say, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: There's no prejudice here. Nobody's being harmed. There's no appellate issue. I thought we were really clear. Everybody gets their three hours today. We will file our reply brief on Monday. The Court will determine both whether it needs to hear expert testimony and whether or not our motion should be sustained. If the Court denies the motion, we'll take a couple of depositions and each side will get whatever period of time the Court orders.

But, you know, the attempts to create an appellate record are just -- you know, that's not -- there's no issue here. He can -- he's got 26 minutes. He can put on his witness, he can make his closing in the 26 minutes that they've always had.

THE COURT: All right. Well, we have --

MR. MCENTIRE: May I caucus? May I caucus very quickly, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Okay. Uh-huh. And while you're caucusing, we have our game plan on the experts. We know how that's going to happen. And I'm not extending the three hours.

MR. MORRIS: (sotto voce) We have 62 minutes?

(Pause.)

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, accordingly, I'll just -- we'll move into a final argument at this time.

THE COURT: Okay. So you rest?

MR. MCENTIRE: I rest.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. MORRIS: We call Mark Patrick.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Patrick, you've been called to the witness stand.

MR. MORRIS: I just need to find my examination notes. Just give me one moment, please.

THE COURT: All right. Please raise your right hand. Could you remain standing, please.

(The witness is sworn.)

THE COURT: All right. You may be seated.

MARK PATRICK, DEBTORS' WITNESS, SWORN

DIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Hi, Mr. Patrick.

A Hello.

Q Did you ever meet with anybody at the Texas State Securities Board?

A No.

Q Do you know if -- do you know anybody who ever met with anybody at the Texas State Securities Board concerning Highland?

A Yes.

Q And who met with the Texas State Securities Board concerning Highland?

A Ronnie (phonetic) Patel.

Q And is that a lawyer?
A Yes.
Q Do you know who retained Mr. -- that lawyer?
A Yes.
Q Who retained that lawyer?
A The DAF, the Charitable DAF Fund. Or one of its entities.
Q Okay. And is it your understanding that the DAF Fund or one of its charitable entities filed a complaint with the Texas State Securities Board?
A Yes.
Q Okay. Thank you very much. Does Hunter Mountain owe any money to Mr. Dondero?
A No.
Q Is there a promissory note that's outstanding that Mr. Dondero has pursuant to which Hunter Mountain owes him $60-plus million?
A No.
Q Who created Hunter Mountain?
A Well, I don't recall specifically. I just recall the facts that, when Hunter Mountain was created, Thomas Surgent, the chief compliance officer of Highland Capital Management, who was representing the Dugaboy Investment Trust as well as Highland Capital legally with respect to that transaction, requested to Rand that the Hunter Mountain Investment Trust be created for purposes of Highland filing its ADV with the SEC.

It was my understanding that when the ADV would be filed, sort of the ownership change would -- chain would stop at Hunter Mountain.

Q Okay. Dugaboy is Mr. Dondero's family trust, correct?

A No. But I'll help you along. Just please use the full name of the trust.

Q If I refer to the Trust, will you know that that's -- is that for the Hunter Mountain Investment Trust, or do you want me to use trust --

A There's no entity called Dugaboy. Just Dugaboy. There's not.

Q Okay.

A It's a shorthand. I'm --

Q Okay. I'll refer to Dugaboy then, okay?

A What are we referring to?

Q The trust known as Dugaboy.

A Okay. Fair enough. Go ahead.

Q Okay. Did Dugaboy contribute a portion of its ownership interest in Highland to the Highland -- to the Hunter Mountain Investment Trust?

A Contribute? No.

Q Did it transfer?

A Yes.

Q And did it receive in exchange a promissory note from Hunter Mountain?

A Yes, it did.
Q Okay. And Mr. Dondero is the lifetime beneficiary of Dugaboy, correct?
A Yes and no. It's a placeholder -- a placeholder provision that's never been used.
MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, pardon me. Pardon me. Objection, relevance, Your Honor.
THE COURT: Relevance?
MR. MORRIS: This is -- we've been told so many times that Mr. Dondero has no interest in this case, he has nothing to do with Hunter Mountain. He's the lifetime beneficiary of Dugaboy. And if I --
THE WITNESS: That provision has never been invoked. He's received no money through that provision.
THE COURT: Okay. Just wait. We're resolving --
MR. MORRIS: Right.
THE COURT: -- an objection at the moment.
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Can we turn to Exhibit 51?
THE COURT: I'm still working on the objection.
MR. MORRIS: I'm going to try and lay a foundation. Okay?
THE COURT: Okay. So he's withdrawing the question.
MR. MCCLEARY: He's withdrawing the question? Okay.
THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q You have a binder in front of you, sir. Can you go to Exhibit 51?

THE COURT: And this is Highland's Exhibit 51?

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: Okay.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q And is that a promissory note that was made --

A Yes, it is.

Q -- that was made by Hunter Mountain in favor of Dugaboy back in 2015?

MR. MCCLEARY: Objection, relevance, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: I'm trying to connect Mr. Dondero to Hunter Mountain.

THE COURT: Okay. Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. It's a secured promissory note with the amount of approximately $62.6 million signed by Beacon Mountain, LLC, --

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: -- as administrator for Hunter Mountain Investment Trust.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. And as the -- what's your role with Hunter Mountain today?

A And it's in favor, just to answer your question, it's in favor of the Dugaboy Investment Trust. That's where I was just being a little stickler --

Q I appreciate that.

A -- previously. Sorry.

Q I do.

A Okay. What is your question?

Q What's your role with Hunter Mountain today?

A I am the administrator.

Q When did you become the administrator?

A On or about August of 2022.

Q Okay. How did you become the administrator?

A Through the acquisition of Rand Advisors.

Q And does Hunter Mountain have any employees?

A No.

Q Does it have any operations?

A No.

Q Does it generate any revenue?

A Not -- not currently.

Q Okay. Did it generate any revenue in 2022?

A No.

Q Does it own any assets?

A Yes.

Q What does it own?

A It has -- it's my understanding it has a contingent beneficiary interest in the Claimants Trust.

Q And that's the only asset it has, right?
A Correct.
Q So that if it -- if that interest has no value, then Hunter Mountain has no ability to pay the Dugaboy note. Fair?
A (sotto voce) If that interest has no value?
That is correct.
Q Okay.
MR. MORRIS: I move Exhibit 51 into evidence.
MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, relevance. Objection.
THE COURT: Your response?
MR. MORRIS: Mr. Dondero desperately needs Hunter Mountain to win in this lawsuit because otherwise his family trust will get nothing on this $63 million note.
THE COURT: Okay. Overrule the objection. It's admitted.
(Debtors' Exhibit 51 is received into evidence.)
BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Neither you or any representative of Hunter Mountain has ever spoken with any representative of Farallon, correct?
A Correct.
Q Neither you nor any representative of Hunter Mountain has ever spoken with anybody at Stonehill, correct?
A Correct.
Q You have -- neither you nor Hunter Mountain have any personal knowledge about a quid pro quo, correct?

A (sotto voce) Nor Hunter Mountain have any personal knowledge about a quid pro quo.

Correct.

Q Neither you nor anybody at Hunter Mountain have any personal knowledge about how Mr. Seery's compensation package was determined, correct?

A Correct.

Q Neither you nor anybody at Hunter Mountain had any knowledge about the terms of Mr. Seery's compensation package until the Highland parties voluntarily disclosed that in opposition to the Hunter Mountain motion, correct?

A No. I --

MR. STANCIL: Objection, relevance, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No. I seem to -- I seem to have an awareness that the performance fee was amended at a certain time post-confirmation, or, you know, around the confirmation time period. And so that's with respect to the compensation. I -- just myself.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you tell Judge Jernigan everything you know or everything you knew before receiving Highland's opposition to this motion about Mr. Seery's compensation as the CEO of the Reorganized Debtor at the Claimant Trustee?

MR. MCCLEARY: Objection, Your Honor. That's overboard and an unclear question.

THE COURT: Overruled. He's gone through some specific things now. I guess he's just trying to encompass anything we haven't covered.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. I had a -- I personally had a general understanding that Mr. Seery's compensation changed after the claims trading to put in a performance-based-type measure. But I do recall that it was always very -- it was unclear exactly the terms.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. Did you learn anything else?

A Such as?

Q Just, did you ever learn anything else about Mr. Seery's compensation package that you haven't testified to yet?

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, objection. Vague.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: No.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Okay. Neither you nor Hunter Mountain has any personal knowledge whatsoever about any due diligence that Stonehill did in connection with the purchase of claims, correct?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, he's getting into allegations in the complaint which involve attorney work product, so we object on the basis of invading the attorney work product.

THE COURT: Overruled.

THE WITNESS: Can you restate the question again?

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Yes, sir. Neither you nor Hunter Mountain have any personal knowledge as to what due diligence Stonehill did before purchasing its claims in this case, correct?

MR. MCCLEARY: Objection. Attorney work product. Invasion of that. Could I --

THE COURT: I just ruled.

MR. MCCLEARY: I understand.

THE COURT: I just --

MR. MCCLEARY: Could I have a running objection to this line of questioning on that basis, Your Honor, invasion of attorney work product?

THE COURT: Why don't you explain why it's attorney work product. I'm missing --

MR. MCCLEARY: Because they might -- he would have knowledge from the efforts and investigation through attorneys in the case. I assume he's not asking -- you can't separate that, potentially. So he's getting into attorney work product.

MR. MORRIS: I'm asking for facts.

THE COURT: He's asking for facts. I overrule.

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Can you answer the question, sir?

A Yeah. I'm not aware -- I'm not personally aware of how much work Farallon did, or Stonehill.

Q You have no knowledge whatsoever about the diligence Stonehill did before purchasing its claims, correct?

A Well, I would generalize now is that they did nothing.

Q And that's on the basis of Mr. Dondero's testimony, correct?

A I would just call it on a basis of our general inquiry, which would be including, in part, Mr. Dondero's testimony.

Q What else are you relying upon for your conclusion that you just described other than Mr. Dondero's? What other facts?

A Yeah, we -- yeah, we have not uncovered any facts that indicated that they did conduct any due diligence of any sort.

Q Okay. And are you -- do you have any personal knowledge as to what Farallon did in connection with its due diligence prior to buying its claim?

A Yeah. We have not been able to find any facts that would suggest that Farallon conducted any due diligence of any kind.

Q Okay.

MR. MORRIS: One second, Your Honor.

(Pause.)

BY MR. MORRIS:

Q Who's paying Hunter Mountain's legal fees?

A Hunter Mountain is paying -- is legally obligated and paying its own legal fees.

Q If it generates no income and its only assets is the interest in Highland, where is it getting the funds to pay legal fees?

MR. MCCLEARY: Objection, Your Honor. This is irrelevant and invades the attorney-client privilege.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, I'm happy to read a Fifth Circuit case that says the identity of a third-party payer of attorneys' fees is not privileged. I would refer them to In re Grand Jury Subpoena, 913 F.2d 1118, a 1990 Fifth Circuit case. I can read from Judge Jones' opinion, but you tell me how much you want to hear on this.

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule your objection. He can answer.

THE WITNESS: There is a settlement agreement by Hunter Mountain Investment Trust as well as the Dugaboy Investment Trust that provides for the payment of attorney fees.

MR. MORRIS: No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Cross?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor, briefly.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. MCCLEARY:

Q Mr. Patrick, how would you describe Mr. Dondero's relationship with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust today?

A None.

Q You were asked some -- let me ask you about litigation, and litigation involving the sub-trust. Has Hunter Mountain been involved in litigation with Mr. Kirschner?

A Yes.

Q Okay. And what is your understanding of Mr. Kirschner's role?

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, while I would love for them to continue --

MR. MCCLEARY: He's the --

MR. MORRIS: -- to use their time, I object that it's beyond the scope of my examination. They passed on the witness. They rested their case. He should be limited to the scope of my inquiry.

THE COURT: Okay. How does this tie to direct?

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, it -- just very generally. This is --

THE COURT: Okay. I need to know how it ties to the direct.

MR. MCCLEARY: This doesn't tie directly to the direct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Then it's beyond the scope, you acknowledge?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Sustained, then.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

BY MR. MCCLEARY:

Q Mr. Patrick, has Hunter Mountain Investment filed any litigation as a plaintiff other than its efforts to be a plaintiff in this lawsuit and its action as a petitioner in the Rule 201 matter earlier this year in Dallas state court?

A The 202.

Q 202, yes.

A No, it has not.

Q All right. And then it's -- has it been a party, then, to any other litigation other than the efforts to file this action, the Rule 202 action, and has it been a defendant in any lawsuits?

A To my understanding, no.

Q Is it involved as a defendant in the Kirschner litigation?

A Yes.

Q Mr. Kirschner is suing Hunter Mountain; is that correct?

A That is correct.

Q Okay. So, is Hunter Mountain a vexatious litigant?

MR. MORRIS: Objection, Your Honor. This is now really beyond the scope. We're not doing -- this is -- we're not doing it. I'm not letting -- because there's a vexatious litigant motion pending now in the district court right now before Judge Starr. This has nothing to do with anything I asked.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: They're trying to draw --

THE COURT: You've already asked him is it a party in any other litigation besides the 202 and this attempted one, so where are we going with this?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, they're just trying to draw Mr. Dondero into this and -- this vexatious litigant argument, and we're just developing the fact that obviously Hunter Mountain has only filed -- attempting to file this action and a Rule 202 proceeding. So they're not involved in a lot of litigation and they're not a vexatious litigant.

THE COURT: Okay. I think I'll sustain that and we can just move on.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Then I'll pass the witness. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Any redirect?

MR. MORRIS: No, thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. You are excused, Mr. Patrick.

(The witness steps down.)

THE COURT: Anything else?

MR. MORRIS: Just a time check for both sides and let's get to closings.

THE COURT: Okay. Caroline?

THE CLERK: Movant has 23 minutes left and the Respondents have 47.

THE COURT: 23 and 47. Any other evidence from the Respondents?

MR. MORRIS: That is a fair question.

(Discussion.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I just want to confirm that all the exhibits that they did not object to have been admitted into evidence.

THE COURT: All right. Well, let me --

MR. MCCLEARY: We do offer them.

MR. MORRIS: Oh.

THE COURT: Hang on.

MR. MORRIS: Did I get Exhibit 45, Your Honor?

THE COURT: Just a moment. I'm doing two things at once here. 45 is in.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: All right. On HMIT's exhibits, okay, first, as we all know, 29 through 52 are carried until -- if we have another hearing with the experts.

(HMIT's Exhibits 29 through 52 carried.)

THE COURT: I'm showing we have -- and speak up if anyone questions this -- I show that we have Hunter Mountain Exhibits 3 and 4, and then 7 through 10, 12 through 23, and 26 through 38, and 53 through 57, 64, 65, and then 67 through seventy --

(HMIT's Exhibits 3, 4, 7-10, 12-23, 26-38, 53-57, 64, 65, 67-70 are received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I apologize. From 36 -- 26 to 32 are in?

THE COURT: I believe that was part of the stipulation, Mr. Morris, right?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes.

MR. MORRIS: I think that's right.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: We really didn't object to very many.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MCCLEARY: That would be 25, too. That would include 25?

MR. STANCIL: No. Objection. 25 is not --

THE COURT: It's not admitted.

MR. STANCIL: It's not in evidence.

THE COURT: 25 and 24 were not admitted.

MR. MORRIS: Correct. Those are my emails.

THE COURT: Okay. So --

MR. MCCLEARY: 25 is an article.

THE COURT: Your 25 was John Morris Email Re: Text Messages dated March 10, 2023.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. I can't remember where I left off. I think I left off -- I'll just repeat after the expert exhibits that are carried. I've admitted 53 through 57. I have admitted 64, 65, 67 through 71.

(HMIT's Exhibit 71 is received into evidence.)

Now, I'm not sure if I ended up admitting 72. That was the articles. I can't remember if you stipulated on that finally.

MR. MORRIS: I said they --

MR. MCCLEARY: They had no objection.

MR. MORRIS: -- they come in --

THE COURT: Not for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MORRIS: -- self -- exactly.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Self-authenticating.

THE COURT: So 72 is in.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay.

(HMIT's Exhibit 72 is received into evidence.)

THE COURT: Then we had some pleadings. I think 73, 74, 75 are in, but again, not for the truth of the matter asserted in any advocacy on 73 and 74. And then 77, 78, 79 are in. And that's it.

(HMIT's Exhibits 73, 74, 75, 77, 78, and 79 are received into evidence.)

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Your Honor, I didn't make an appearance, but I was taking notes (inaudible).

MR. MCCLEARY: Your Honor, I believe 80 should be in.

MR. MORRIS: No objection to 80. It's on our -- it's part of our Exhibit 5.

THE COURT: Okay. 80 is in. Admitted.

(HMIT's exhibit 80 is received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. That's really Section A of that thing that I gave you this morning.

THE COURT: If Ms. Deitsch-Perez wants to consult with the Hunter Mountain lawyers, she can. I don't know --

MR. MORRIS: Can I go through quickly mine, Your Honor? Because we actually never had the opportunity to put our exhibits in.

THE COURT: Okay. Let's make sure we're to --

MR. MORRIS: Okay. I'm sorry. I'm sorry.

THE COURT: -- closure on the Hunter Mountain exhibits.

MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry.

THE COURT: Anything I said that you disagree with? I don't think --

(Pause.)

THE COURT: Okay. Let's hurry up. What is the controversy?

A VOICE: Roger? The Court's addressing you.

MR. MCCLEARY: Oh. Excuse me, Your Honor. So, just a little unclear of whether you have Exhibits 21 through 25 admitted.

THE COURT: I have 21, 22, and 23. Not 24. Not 25.

Okay. Anything else?

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. Then we do offer 24 and 25.

THE COURT: You offered them. I did not admit them.

MR. MCCLEARY: Okay. 76. I believe -- was that -- you're carrying?

MS. DEITSCH-PEREZ: Carried.

MR. MCCLEARY: You're carrying that?

THE COURT: Okay. I carried that and --

MR. MCCLEARY: It's part of the expert issue.

THE COURT: Okay. Yes, part of the expert. So it's carried.

(HMIT's Exhibit 76 is carried.)

(Pause.)

MR. MCCLEARY: I understand you've admitted 53 through 83, although some of them have now not been approved.

THE COURT: All right. Well, we need to clarify. 58 through 63, you think you offered them and I admitted them, but not for the truth? I remember that being discussed for 58 through 63. Are you actually offering them?

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes. 58 through 63.

THE COURT: All right. And Mr. Morris, you ultimately agreed that yes, but not for the truth of the matter asserted?

MR. MORRIS: That's right, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. So they are admitted. Okay.

(HMIT's Exhibits 58 through 63 are received into evidence.)

THE COURT: And then there was an objection to the Mark Patrick declaration for the same thing, not for the truth of the matter asserted.

MR. MORRIS: Exactly.

THE COURT: But you agree as long as it's --

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: Okay. So what that means is, to recap, 53 through 75 are admitted, although some of those are only -- they're not for the truth of the matter asserted. And then 77 through 80 are admitted. Okay?

MR. MCCLEARY: And 76? We offered 76.

THE COURT: That's -- we carried it. We carried it. It relates to the expert.

MR. MCCLEARY: Carried it.

(Pause.)

MR. MCCLEARY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Now let's straighten out Highland's exhibits. So, I'm showing 1 through 16 have been admitted, and then 25 through 31-A?

MR. MORRIS: 25 through 31-A?

THE COURT: I'm sorry. Yes. 25 through 31-A.

MR. MORRIS: Okay.

THE COURT: And then 34. And then 39, 40, 41, and then 45. 51, 59, and 60.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. So I'm going to do my best not to burden the Court. I'm trying to focus. We move for the admission into evidence of Exhibit 32, which is Mr. Dondero's objection to the HarbourVest settlement. And the reason that we're offering it is because he made no mention of any concern at all that the settlement implicated material nonpublic inside information.

THE COURT: All right. Any objection?

MR. MCCLEARY: 32?

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor. Relevance and hearsay.

THE COURT: Overruled. And I can take judicial notice of it in any event.

(Debtors' Exhibit 32 is received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: We move for the admission into evidence of Exhibit 33, which is the recent letter from the Texas State Securities Board declining to take any action after conducting an investigation of the Dugaboy complaint.

THE COURT: Okay. Any objection?

MR. MCCLEARY: We object on the grounds of relevance, 403, hearsay, and authenticity, Your Honor.

And I also, I think it's important that the decision by a regulatory body has no bearing on this cause of action or the colorability of this claim, and the Texas State Securities Board will tell you that. This is completely and utterly irrelevant to your inquiry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. I overrule the relevance objection. Certainly, it goes to colorability. It's some evidence. It's some evidence. A regulatory body did not choose to go forward --

MR. MCCLEARY: But that could be for --

THE COURT: -- on the complaint.

MR. MCCLEARY: That could be for reasons entirely unrelated.

THE COURT: True, true. It's some evidence.

MR. MORRIS: That's speculation.

MR. MCCLEARY: Not for this.

THE COURT: But what is the authenticity objection?

MR. MCCLEARY: Well, there's no demonstration. I don't believe they sponsored that with anyone.

THE COURT: Pardon? Say again?

MR. MCCLEARY: They didn't sponsor that with anyone.

MR. MORRIS: Your Honor, I actually -- if they really put me to it, because I was reading the Rules of Evidence in the wee hours of the morning, I am certain that there's an exception for government documents and government statements and government decisions.

MR. STANCIL: Your Honor, as to its authenticity, I could produce a witness from Highland who said they got it, if that's really what we're doing. That it's the letter, they got it from the TSSB, if we're really doing authenticity.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, it's hearsay and there is no authenticity issue and it's irrelevant. I understand --

MR. STANCIL: What is the authenticity issue, Mr. McEntire?

THE COURT: I'm trying to understand the authenticity issue. You think this is a --

MR. STANCIL: Do you think it's a real letter or a fake letter?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, first of all, I'm going to address the Court and not you, okay?

Your Honor, --

THE COURT: Well, address by speaking in a --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah. Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm just saving the court reporter from grief, okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: It is hearsay, and it is hearsay that is calculated to be misrepresented or mischaracterized because it's utter speculation as to the basis for their decision. And if it's -- utter speculation is the basis of your decision, it has no reason to come in. There's no --

THE COURT: What you're telling me, it goes to the weight of the evidence. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, --

THE COURT: Okay. You're not telling me it's inadmissible hearsay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, it is inadmissible hearsay.

MR. MORRIS: Can I just, for one second?

THE COURT: Please.

MR. MORRIS: Paragraph 34 of their motion, Your Honor. Quote, "The Court also should be aware that the Texas State Securities Board opened an investigation into the subject matter of the insider tradings at issue, and this investigation has not been closed. The continuing nature of this investigation underscores HMIT's position that the claims described in the attached adversary proceeding are plausible and certainly far more than merely colorable."

They used the investigation to try to convince you that their claims are colorable, and now we have a letter saying there's nothing.

THE COURT: Okay. You want to explain that to me?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, we put no evidence in, in this proceeding --

THE COURT: You put what?

MR. MCENTIRE: We have put no evidence in, in this proceeding, --

THE COURT: You filed a pleading under Rule 11 suggesting this was highly relevant, right?

MR. MCENTIRE: We filed a motion. Yes, we did.

THE COURT: Under Rule 11.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. Of course we did.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Of course we did.

THE COURT: Suggesting this Texas State Securities Board complaint and investigation was highly relevant.

MR. MCENTIRE: The fact that it had opened an investigation and was conducting an investigation is irrelevant. Its decision to stop the investigation without further elaboration or clarification, this is why it calls for utter speculation.

MR. MORRIS: Your --

THE COURT: Okay. Do you have the hearsay exception that applies? I'm looking at my evidence rules right now for the government record or public record. Is it 803(8) that we need to have addressed here?

MR. STANCIL: 803(8), Your Honor.

A VOICE: Yeah, public records.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: Public record. Sets out --

THE COURT: Public records, 803(8), hearsay exception. Moreover, you pled allegations suggesting this investigation was really relevant. So I overrule your objection, and so that means 33 is admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 33 is received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor. I continue. Exhibit 36 --

MR. MCENTIRE: Which one was that?

MR. MORRIS: That was 33.

So now we're up to 36, Your Honor. I'm going to skip some of these.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: But this is just the Court's order approving Mr. Seery's original --

THE COURT: I'm waiting for any objection for the record. Do we have an objection, Mr. McCleary?

MR. MCCLEARY: 36, relevance, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: The relevance is that this Court approved without objection Mr. Seery's compensation package in an amount that included a base salary of $150,000, which the Claimant Purchasers and the independent director saw fit to continue.

THE COURT: Objection overruled. It's admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 36 is received into evidence.)

MR. MORRIS: I think 38 may be on their list. Yeah, 38 is in as their 26, right? So that should be admitted.

THE COURT: Admitted.

(Debtors' Exhibit 38 is received into evidence.)

MR. MCCLEARY: If it's on our list, we agree.

THE COURT: Okay. It's admitted.

MR. MORRIS: That's it, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Do you all need a five-minute break before we do closing arguments?

MR. MORRIS: I'd be grateful.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCCLEARY: Yes, Your Honor. Thank you.

THE COURT: Will do.

THE CLERK: All rise

(A recess ensued from 5:49 p.m. to 5:57 p.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: All right. Please be seated.

We're back on the record in the Highland matter. Closing arguments. Just for everyone's benefit, time -- you said 47 minutes and 23 minutes back several minutes ago, and then we had all the housekeeping stuff. So I'm not sure if that's where we are right now or if --

MR. MCENTIRE: I'm waiting for my monitor guy to be here.

THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

So Caroline, is it still 47 and 23?

THE CLERK: Yes.

THE COURT: That's when we started the housekeeping stuff.

MR. MCENTIRE: So 27 minutes?

THE COURT: Twenty-three.

THE CLERK: Twenty-three.

MR. MCENTIRE: Twenty-three? Can I get a five-minute warning, please? Would you pull up the PowerPoint? And let's go to Slide 39.

May I proceed, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN INVESTMENT TRUST

MR. MCENTIRE: So, before I go to the PowerPoint, I'd like to kind of give a high-altitude overview of the situation as I see it from the evidence perspective. We don't believe this should have been an evidentiary hearing. Evidence has been allowed.

We had a situation where, if you believe Mr. Dondero's testimony as contrasted with Mr. Seery's testimony, you have a credibility issue. So the Court is now conducting an inquiry presumably on the basis in part on the credibility of witnesses. And if you engage -- and if you want to indulge that type of inquiry, the credibility of witnesses, without allowing the Plaintiff in this case or the Movant in this case to conduct some level of meaningful discovery, I would suggest we have been deprived of due process, because without documents to test Mr. Seery's statements, we are being deprived of something that's basically very fundamental in our judicial process.

And therefore, it underscores our argument and our rationale why this shouldn't be an evidentiary hearing, because I don't believe the Court can consider credibility issues.

We have, on the one hand, unequivocal notes from Mr. Dondero prepared contemporaneously that would suggest that someone admitted to him and stated to him that they did in fact obtain material nonpublic information. Mr. Seery says that didn't happen. I specifically said, is that a lie? Yes, it's not true. Well, that's a real problem, because that's not the criteria that this Court should use for determining whether we have a colorable claim. A colorable claim is whether there is some possibility. It's something less, even less stringent than a 12(b)(6) standard, plausibility. We have that.

If you look at our pleadings, we have set forth all of the facts we need, all the elements we need to establish a trade on material inside information, nonpublic information. We have evidence -- we have allegations that there was no due diligence. And Farallon's lawyer stood up here -- well, I'm not going to really address that today. But if there was any day to address it, it was today. We have no evidence to suggest they did do due diligence. Even Mr. Seery said, I don't know what due diligence they did. We have evidence to suggest that the only due diligence they did was to talk to Mr. Seery, who has told -- who told them that this is very valuable, don't -- this is a really good -- a good investment here, it's a lot better than the 71 percent that's on our disclosures.

And Judge, that evidence supports the colorability of the claim. And if you go down the pathway of saying, well, I'm not sure about Mr. Dondero because he had been held in contempt two years ago, that's a real problem. That's a problem for this Court. And I'm going to suggest that's why this should have been a four-corners deliberation. Even Farallon and Stonehill suggest this should be a four-corners deliberation.

We have evidence now of no due diligence. We have evidence before you that suggests that they did learn about MGM before the announcement date. We have evidence that Mr. Seery did trade on -- did -- was aware and received information of material nonpublic information. And for him, a CEO of his reputed stature, to sit here and say that was not material and that was nonpublic defies common sense. It defies reasonableness. That goes to credibility.

Mr. Dondero's notes speak volumes. The trades themselves speak volumes. Mr. Dondero established that the interest -- return of interest here is to be less than one -- it's in the one digits, and hedge funds trade in the 30, 40, 50 percent range. Well, if that's the case, we have Farallon walking away from a return on the exit financing of 13 percent, and that wasn't good enough for him. How could six percent be good enough for him? There's something missing here. There's something not right.

And we're entitled to get our lawsuit on file and do some discovery. And if they want to do a 12(b)(6), they do a 12(b)(6). If they want to do a Rule 56 after discovery, they could do a Rule 56, all in this Court. But to address this threshold issue now based upon this, what happened here today, is a fundamental denial of due process.

I'd like to go to my pleadings.

Can you go to Slide 39, please?

First of all, let there be no doubt -- 39. Slide 39. 38. 38, please.

We can plead on information and belief. We have a right to plead on information and belief. And the Fifth Circuit -- that is an acknowledged procedural practice in the Fifth Circuit. And if some of our allegations are based upon information and belief, so be it. The test here is not at this stage. The test here is whether I have sufficient factual allegations, whether on information and belief or otherwise, to satisfy at most a plausibility standard. That's it.

And if they want to challenge us at a later date, they can. Rule 56. 12(b)(6). Or standing. But we have standing. We have standing. We have standing under Delaware law. We're a contingent beneficial interest that has standing under Delaware law and all other law. All -- even Texas agrees that a contingent interest has standing, an inchoate interest as Mr. Seery described. A property interest. You have property interest, you have standing.

THE COURT: Let me ask you.

And Caroline, turn the clock off when the Court interrupts.

Just so you know, I mean, my analysis here is standing first. Does your client have standing? Because we all know that's a subject matter jurisdiction inquiry and I have to explore that first. And then I've said many times the legal standard question for colorability. That's kind of the second place I go --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

THE COURT: -- if I find there's standing. But can you tell me, have there been appellate decisions that are relevant today on standing? Contrary to what people may expect, I don't follow every appellate decision from every appeal in the Highland case. Okay? I wait until I get a mandate --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

THE COURT: -- to where I have to act on something.

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

THE COURT: So I feel like I've learned at some point that some either district judge or Fifth Circuit said some party didn't have standing. And I don't know if it was Hunter Mountain or some other trust.

MR. MCENTIRE: Not --

THE COURT: And is there anything they said that, if it wasn't Hunter Mountain, could be relevant here?

MR. MCENTIRE: I hope somebody kicks me if I'm wrong, what I'm about to say. I'm not aware of any such issue --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- dealing with Hunter Mountain Investment Trust. I am not.

THE COURT: But any other party that might somehow bear on this case?

MR. MORRIS: I apologize, Your Honor, I was distracted. For which issue?

THE COURT: Standing. Because I was saying my first thing I've got to tackle in ruling on this is standing of Hunter Mountain. And I seem to remember learning that either the district court on an appeal or the Fifth Circuit on some appeal from Highland --

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: -- said some party didn't have standing.

MR. MORRIS: Correct.

THE COURT: And I don't know if it was --

MR. MORRIS: Dugaboy on the 2015.3, for sure, was a Fifth Circuit standing decision.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: I think there was a district court order that preceded that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: That was the subject of the appeal.

THE COURT: The Dugaboy --

MR. MORRIS: 2015.3.

THE COURT: -- motion to require those --

MR. MORRIS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- 2015.3 statements. Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: So what we have here -- we can go back on the clock if you'd like.

THE COURT: Yes, please.

MR. MCENTIRE: How much time do I have?

THE CLERK: You have just under 16 minutes.

MR. MCENTIRE: Sixteen? Okay. Give me a two-minute warning. Sorry.

Your Honor, what we have here --

THE COURT: I don't think the U.S. Supreme Court justices will give you a two-minute warning, but maybe I'm wrong.

MR. MCENTIRE: Would you give me a two-minute warning, please?

THE COURT: And I'm sure not a Supreme Court justice.

MR. MCENTIRE: What we have here is we have a 99.5 percent equity interest that has now been relegated to a category of contingent interest, which we don't believe we should be, and that's part of our declaratory judgment relief we're asking for, which we have standing to do that at a minimum because we want to be treated like a Class 9.

If they want to treat us like a Class 10, I have an argument for that, and it's more than colorable. It's persuasive. It's -- it is a winning argument. And that is we do have standing in our individual capacity, and we have given you a whole bunch of cases in our PowerPoint, or we will give you a whole bunch of cases in our PowerPoint and in our briefing to support that.

We also have given you Delaware case law that says we have standing under Delaware trust law to bring a derivative action against the Trustee. We have done everything appropriate here.

We have the -- a demand upon Seery obviously would be futile to prosecute the claim. A demand upon the Oversight Board would be futile to make a demand on Muck and Jessup, because they're Defendants and they're SPEs of Farallon and Stonehill. And a demand upon Mr. Kirschner would be futile. They suggest that there's an assignment of some sort, but that would be a modification -- of the claims over to the Litigation Trust, but that would be a modification of the plan.

There's been no assignment of this claim, or these claims, to the Litigation Trust Trustee. But even if there had been, we pled that in the alternative as well. And it would be futile to make a demand on Mr. Kirschner because he's suing Hunter Mountain.

So we are an appropriate party. The only, then, issue becomes whether or not we have standing under Delaware law to bring a derivative action. And we have briefed that and we -- and that's included in our PowerPoint. The answer is yes.

I'd like to go briefly to Page -- next slide.

In our factual section, we set forth why this investment would defy any kind of rational economic sense in the absence of material nonpublic information as a factual allegation supported by data, supported by dates, supported by time.

Based upon that, we also have allegations that are framed around the admissions that Mr. Michael Linn provided. We have allegations that he turned down a 30 or 40 percent premium in our petition. We have allegations that they admitted that they did no due diligence. We have allegations that they admitted that they got material -- basically information about MGM.

And again, it's not all about MGM. It's about the values of all the portfolio companies. They want to make it about MGM. If they do, we win. But it's much broader than that.

And we have standing to bring this claim because if we're right Mr. Seery will have to return excess compensation and the Claims Purchasers will have to disgorge. And that's going to help not just Hunter Mountain. That's going to help other creditors who haven't been paid yet.

So this is not exclusively -- Hunter Mountain would substantially benefit. I'm not suggesting otherwise. But it also benefits innocent stakeholders other than Hunter Mountain. And that's why we are an appropriate party. We don't have a conflict of interest to bring this. Everybody on their side of the table does. There's no one else who could bring this.

Your Honor, it's very clear when the trades took place. We give dates and times. It's very clear that -- next slide, 40. It's very clear that their investment was over $160 million. If it isn't, I don't see any denials. All we got today was a lame statement from the lawyer saying we're not here today to deny this.

MR. MORRIS: I'm offended.

THE COURT: He's offended by being called lame.

MR. MCENTIRE: Not you lame personally.

MR. MORRIS: Oh, thanks for the clarification.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: A lame statement by you. In fact, it wasn't even you, so --

In any event, Your Honor, --

MR. MORRIS: I've been called worse.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- the point being is that there was no -- there's not -- never been an attempt to deny the factual allegations in our pleadings dealing with Farallon and Stonehill. None at all.

And so -- not that that's ultimately relevant, because that's an evidentiary issue outside of the four corners of our pleading, but it does -- it just stands out and screams. It screams. And it screams volumes.

So right, now based upon our pleadings -- we even plead in Paragraph 42, Paragraph 42, exactly what they invested. This is what you have before you. No one has disputed it. It's in the four corners of our pleading. We've got dates, times, amounts. We have admissions to Mr. -- well, we have admissions from Michael Linn, Paragraph 47. We have -- we do plead upon information and belief the quid pro quo on compensation. And frankly, the evidence here today is that the compensation is excessive. And the experts will further confirm that it is excessive. $1.8 million with a bonus program in place to pay him another $8, $9, $10 million, when in fact the risks don't exist and there's no uncertainty and therefore the percentages make no sense. That's --

THE COURT: What do you mean, the risks don't exist and there is no uncertainty?

MR. MCENTIRE: If Mr. Seery is telling Farallon and Stonehill don't sell, this could be really valuable, it's inconsistent with the notion that the schedule and the performance -- performance schedule in the compensation agreement is rationally justified. Because if it's really certain or it's likely you're going to make a lot of money, there's no reason to give him six percent to incentivize him because it's already a done deal.

And the whole point here is that I scratch your back, you scratch mine. They make a lot of money on their deal and he gets a lot of money on the backside post-effective date. Post-effective date.

Next slide, 49.

It would have been impossible, based upon the publicly-available information in Paragraph 49, impossible for Stonehill and Farallon, in the absence of inside information, to forecast any significant profit when they made their investments. It's not possible. Because given the amount of the Claim 8 and Claim 9 claims -- they actually invested in Claim 9 with a zero return. It's projected to be a negative result. On Claim 8, even if you allocate their entire purchase price to Claim 8, they're going to get something less than a 10 percent return paid out over a couple years. Nobody invests that kind of money in an unsecured creditor asset that hasn't been collateralized. There's something wrong here.

And we have a right to have our day in court to show that. We have our right to take a true deposition of Mr. Seery with documents. We have a right to take Farallon and Stonehill's deposition with documents. And we have tried to get information and we have been turned down at every turn. We have a right to have our day in court, Your Honor.

We have allegations of excessive compensation. I know Mr. Morris suggested the other day that we didn't have any such allegations. They're here. The whole idea here is that Mr. Seery would really profit on the backside. And, you know, he actually testified, I believe -- I won't do that because that's outside the four corners of our pleading. But the -- there is a quid pro quo. We allege there's a quid pro quo upon information and belief. And we also allege willfully and knowingly, we allege conduct that falls clearly within the exceptions.

None of this -- none of these claims were released. Mr. Seery's not an exculpated party in the context of how we -- proposing to sue him here. None of the protected parties, to the extent that Muck and Jessup claim to be protected parties, they're not protected here, because all of the claims we're making are on the basis of willful misconduct and bad faith, which are the standards that they used and incorporated in the plan and in the gatekeeper provisions.

How much time do I have?

THE CLERK: Right now you have --

MR. MCENTIRE: Thirty seconds?

THE CLERK: -- seven minutes left.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Next slide, please.

Mr. Seery has admitted that he has a duty to avoid self-dealing. We allege that he did self-deal. There is clearly a relationship. We have a right to explore the depths of that relationship. Well, already we know there is a relationship. We have investments in charities, contributions to charities, meet-and-greets, congratulatory emails. It's not as if Farallon and Stonehill are strangers, or Mr. Seery's a stranger to them. It's not like that at all. They contacted him to get involved.

And by placing -- by acquiring these claims -- and by the way, this is the most significant trading activity in your bankruptcy, in this bankruptcy proceeding. Post-confirmation. Post-confirmation. By acquiring these claims, they were guaranteed to be put onto the Oversight Board. By acquiring these claims, they were guaranteed to be put in a position -- into a position where they would adjust, monitor, compensate Mr. Seery. That's the terms of the Claimant Trust. Those are the terms.

And it's interesting, because one of the amendments that's in evidence to the plan, I think it's either the third or the fourth amendment, that came out of nowhere right before confirmation, they changed the structure of the Claimant Trust to go off a standard base pay and added in a bonus structure at the last minute. That's evidence.

Mr. Seery has acknowledged, we have alleged he had duties to avoid self-dealing, to always look out for the best interests of the estate, to avoid conflicts of interest. Well, here, to the extent that there is a quid pro quo, he is self-dealing and he has injured the Reorganized Debtor and he's injured the Claimant Trust, because that's just less money.

And we also allege, Your Honor, it's also an allegation that --

THE COURT: And let me ask, the sole injury here is compensation was more than it would have been if not for the sale of the claims to Farallon and Stonehill --

MR. MCENTIRE: That's one of the injuries.

THE COURT: -- and therefore less money at the end of the day for creditors and ultimately Hunter Mountain?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes. And we also allege that, as part of this arrangement, conspiracy, as we allege conspiracy, we have seen over $200 million flow out of the coffers of this estate in the form of --

THE COURT: What do you mean, as a result of the alleged conspiracy? What do you mean?

MR. MCENTIRE: A delay, a postponement, making long-term payouts, keeping the litigation alive. They actually suggested to Mr. Linn, don't settle these claims, don't sell out, because this is asset-backed, and we also have claims. And so --

THE COURT: Wait, what? Say again?

MR. MCENTIRE: One of the things that Mr. Linn told Mr. Dondero, according to Mr. Dondero's notes, is we have -- this is very valuable, we're buying assets and we're buying into claims, the litigation claims that are being asserted in this bankruptcy proceeding.

THE COURT: Yes. Got it.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah. And so the whole idea here is, is that people are funneling money in and taking money out of the coffers of this estate to fuel future litigation in order to have a bigger payday at the end for Class 8 and Class 9. That's exactly what those notes suggest.

THE COURT: I don't understand the correlation. What correlation are you making? Because of the claims being purchased, what?

MR. MCENTIRE: The claims being purchased allow Muck and Jessup to be in a position to award compensation. We've talked about that.

THE COURT: I got that.

MR. MCENTIRE: That's one type of injury. The other injury is, and we have alleged it, is the fact that these claims become very valuable not only because they're asset-backed but because also the litigation claims that Mr. Kirschner is prosecuting.

THE COURT: But how does the purchase of the claims impact that? They were allowed claims at certain amounts before, and after the purchase they're still allowed claims.

MR. MCENTIRE: Mr. Seery is telling them that, basically, this is our plan, this is what we're doing, this is --

THE COURT: That was the plan of reorganization that was confirmed by the Court. I don't get how something changed. I'm trying to get to what are the injuries that your client has suffered. And I get the compensation argument you're making, but I don't get the rest of it.

MR. MCENTIRE: If Mr. Dondero had been in a position, or one of his entities had been in a position, or even Hunter Mountain, and I'm not sure why Hunter Mountain -- be in a position to have acquired the claims, then we would -- this bankruptcy wouldn't even be in existence anymore. It'd be over. All creditors would be paid. It would be done. Be over. And that is an allegation we have made --

THE COURT: How do I know that?

MR. MCENTIRE: Because all the creditors would have been paid off.

THE COURT: How do I know, if he would have purchased the claims, that's what would have happened?

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, that's what he testified to today here. I don't want to get off on a rabbit trail.

THE COURT: I'm trying to understand the injury, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure. I understand.

THE COURT: -- because that's part of my analysis here.

MR. MCENTIRE: The focus, the focus is on the compensation. And once they aid and abet, once they aid and abet a breach of fiduciary duties, they are subject to disgorgement, and disgorgement of all of their ill-gotten gains. And the ill-gotten gains are now well over -- approaching over $100,000 million.

THE COURT: How do you get to that number?

MR. MCENTIRE: Easily. We know how much they purchased, which has never been denied. We know how much has been distributed to Class 8. And we know what percentage of Class 8 they own. They own about 95 percent of all Class 8 claims. So if $270,000 million has been distributed to Class 8, they got 90 percent of that, 95 percent of it has already gone to them, Farallon and Stonehill.

THE COURT: But it would have gone to the sellers of the claims as well. I'm trying to make the connection.

MR. MCENTIRE: That's not the injury. The injury is what -- that is a consequence of their conduct. The injury is the compensation. All right? That's a distinct injury. They are subject to disgorgement as a consequence because they have done wrong, and the law should not tolerate -- should not tolerate and allow wrongdoers to get away. And that's where the unjust enrichment and disgorge --

THE COURT: And what are your best cases for that, that they would have to disgorge --

MR. MCENTIRE: We have cited --

THE COURT: -- the Purchasers would have to disgorge --

MR. MCENTIRE: We have cited cases in our brief.

THE COURT: I'm asking you now to --

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't have them in front of me right this second. But an aider and abettor --

THE COURT: The CVC case, is that your best case?

MR. MCENTIRE: I don't have the cases in front of me. I can say this, that the case law is robust, and I can supply you --

THE COURT: It is not robust. That's why I'm asking you to zero in. I read your CVC case from the Third Circuit, and I'm wondering, is that your strongest case?

MR. MCENTIRE: No. I think we -- I think we have a lot of strong cases. I'm not sure that it is the strongest.

THE COURT: Tell me which ones, so I --

MR. MCENTIRE: Ma'am, I just said I don't have it in front of me. If you'll look --

THE COURT: Okay. Well, this is closing argument where you present law in support of your position.

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, actually, I'm arguing facts right now. But Your Honor, what I want to tell you is if you'd like me to submit a letter brief on that, I will.

THE COURT: No.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. Then I won't. It's in my brief. All of our authorities are in the brief.

In conclusion, --

THE COURT: Okay. So that was the CVC case from the Third Circuit which dealt with an insider who purchased claims, statutory insider, a board member, a 28-percent equity owner, who purchased claims during the case to be in a position to file a competing plan and didn't disclose to the board or file a 3001(e) notice. Okay. There was -- claims shouldn't be allowed at more than what the purchaser paid for it.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. I'm asking you, is that your best case? Because you also cited Adelphia, which seemed kind of factually off the mark. And so I really --

MR. MCENTIRE: I -- I'm sorry, --

THE COURT: I need to know, because I've made clear from the beginning, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes.

THE COURT: -- I'm struggling with how is there a cause of action related to claims trading.

MR. MCENTIRE: (chuckles)

THE COURT: I don't know why you're giggling. This is --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I'm not. But --

THE COURT: -- serious stuff. Okay?

MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed. Agreed.

THE COURT: A bankruptcy estate is being charged ka-ching, ka-ching -- not bankruptcy estate -- the post-confirmation trust. Ka-ching, ka-ching, ka-ching. So this is serious stuff.

MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed.

THE COURT: I need to, you know, colorable claim.

MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed.

THE COURT: Colorable claim.

MR. MCENTIRE: Agreed.

THE COURT: Even if plausibility is the standard, which I've expressed my doubt about that, how do you have a plausible claim? What is your best case?

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. This --

THE COURT: Just to recap what I'm focused on, purchaser and seller, okay? I can see where breach of contract, maybe some sort of torts between those two. Okay. I can see where the U.S. Trustee, the SEC, I don't know, the Texas State Securities Board, they might get concerned about allegations of insider trading and there might be a regulatory action. But the estate? Again, the post-confirmation trust --

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay.

THE COURT: -- and a contingent beneficiary. I'm trying to understand what is the best legal authority that might support a colorable claim. And we talked about the CVC case and Adelphia. I'm trying to figure out what are other cases you think I should really hone in on to understand this.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right. At the very beginning this morning, during my opening statement, I had said this is not your typical claims-handling case, because I recall from our last conference you asked that question a couple of times. This is not your typical claims-handling case. And it's not a typical claims-handling case because we have a fiduciary that we claim breached his duties that were owed to the estate. And he self-dealt. And he -- this has nothing to do with the plan. This has something to do with what Mr. Seery did outside the corners of the plan. Perhaps he used the plan expediently. He self-dealt.

That's why this is not just between a seller and a buyer of a claim. That's number one.

We have been denied an opportunity to discover the communications between the sellers and the buyers, and my guess is we have big boy agreements that prevent the sellers from ever coming back at anybody for fraud. My expectation, that's the case. We should have a right to go explore that. So that's why they're not here.

THE COURT: Why? I mean, what would that tell you? What would that tell you?

MR. MCENTIRE: That --

THE COURT: If there's a big boy agreement, if there's not, what --

MR. MCENTIRE: It would tell us --

THE COURT: -- consequence would that have for this --

MR. MCENTIRE: It would tell us --

THE COURT: -- proposed lawsuit?

MR. MCENTIRE: It would answer Mr. Morris's question that he's raised several times, this is the seller's issue, this is not -- this is not the Hunter Mountain's issue. It is Hunter Mountain's issue. Hunter Mountain as an equity interest-holder should be in a position to be certified as a Class 9 beneficiary now pursuant to our declaratory judgment action. That's number one.

Number two. As a contingent beneficiary, it is entitled to protect its interests and bring suits if it sees that something has happened that is incorrect and is a tort involving the Reorganized Debtor and the Claimant Trust. That is the nature and the essence of our claim.

And as a consequence, the aiders and abettors should not be allowed to walk away unharmed. They should be required to disgorge their ill-gotten profits. And that calculation is easily done, as I've just demonstrated.

Your Honor, that's all I have. Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. MCENTIRE: And we talked -- we'd need an opportunity to argue on the issue of experts, because -- whether you're just going to take it under advisement, I'm not sure how you're going to handle that.

THE COURT: I'm going to read the pleadings and then I'm going to let you all know are we coming back for another day.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. Who is making the closing argument -- do we have three closing arguments?

MR. STANCIL: Yes.

MR. MCILWAIN: We're going to do it in reverse order.

MR. MORRIS: Reverse order in.

THE COURT: Okay. Reverse order of --

MR. STANCIL: Keep it interesting.

MR. MORRIS: I think I was last on the opening.

THE COURT: -- importance?

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: No. Just kidding. Just kidding.

MR. MORRIS: We're assuming you remember what the original order was.

MR. STANCIL: Yeah, right, right.

MR. MORRIS: It was so many hours ago.

THE COURT: Okay. Oh, so many hours ago.

MR. MCILWAIN: I think I was referred to earlier as the lame lawyer.

THE COURT: Oh, you were. I think --

MR. MCILWAIN: So I'll start. I think --

THE COURT: I think you --

MR. MCILWAIN: Or maybe it was the lame argument, whatever. Whatever.

THE COURT: I think you were the lame one.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIM PURCHASERS

MR. MCILWAIN: Your Honor, Brent McIlwain here for the Claim Purchasers.

Let me start, I guess, by saying I understand now why Hunter Mountain did not want to put on evidence, because the evidence that they put on, frankly, made their case much worse.

As we argued or we stated in the opening statement, our position is that you can look within the four corners of this document and determine that there is no plausible or colorable claim. What the evidence showed is that Mr. Dondero allegedly had a call with one -- with Farallon, not with Stonehill, with Farallon, Farallon wouldn't tell him what they paid, Farallon did not accept an offer of 130 or 140 percent of whatever they paid for the claim, and he thinks they did no due diligence, right? He had nothing in his notes about MGM. So he can say that he thought that they were positive because of MGM, but it's certainly not -- I don't think the Court should take that evidence with any credibility.

But interestingly, what Mr. Dondero says is, well, how do you know how much they paid for these claims? He goes, well, there was a market for the claims, right? They were all trading at 50 or 60 cents. But yet no one would ever buy these claims without any due diligence because the projections in the plan indicate that they wouldn't -- they wouldn't get a return.

Well, if there's a market for the claims and he's willing to pay 30 or 40 percent more than whatever someone purchased, certainly there is a market for the claims. And he is the only one, frankly, that had inside information. That's why he was willing to maybe pay more.

Or, alternatively, the case that you were describing before, Mr. Dondero maybe wanted to buy the claims so he could control the case, right, so he could dismiss any litigation that was pending against himself so he could avoid the ire of the estate that is aimed at him.

It also -- the Court's inquiry as to what the injury is I think is precisely on point. The only injury offered at this point really is that somehow my client's agreed-to higher compensation that is reasonable or appropriate in return for some inside information on claims that were allegedly trading at 50 or 60 cents in any instance. And what the evidence showed is that, one, Mr. Dondero never had any information about that, about the compensation that Seery is receiving when this complaint was filed, when this motion for leave was filed.

And so if you judge the complaint within the four corners, there is no -- there is no quid pro quo, right? Because he says, well, there's obviously something up here because they wouldn't have bought these claims without due diligence, and they must have agreed to higher compensation, and that's why it all happened. And if we throw all this out here, then we'll get to do the discovery that we wanted to do.

Importantly, if you look at his notes, right, the first thing that's written down is discovery to follow, because that's how he operates. That's how a serial litigator operates. Discovery to follow so that I can pay you back for not selling your claim to me. Right? So I can't control the world, so I can't control this case, you're going to pay. And we're all paying. Every one of us here. Right? There's 15 lawyers in the courtroom and probably 10 on the phone, right? We're all paying.

And so when Mr. McEntire says I'm not getting my day in court, we've had an entire day in court. We've had three hearings to decide what this hearing is going to be. And he's gotten more than his day in court for, frankly, what is word salad. This complaint doesn't pass any test, whether it's 12(b)(6) or under the Barton Doctrine. It's simply allegations that are thrown out there, and they're saying, so that we can do more discovery to determine if we actually have allegations. Because they want to continue to harass people, they want to continue to be a thorn in everyone's side, so that perhaps they can avoid further litigation against Mr. Dondero or they can convince somebody to settle with Mr. Dondero.

It doesn't make any sense, Your Honor, and this is exactly why there is a gatekeeper provision, right. That's why the Court imposed this.

And you ask yourself, why would someone sell these claims? Obviously, the sellers of the claims have not shown up. Whether they're big boy, it doesn't matter, because the Court and this estate had nothing to do with those sales. But they haven't shown back up. I can -- I can venture a guess why, if I was involved with Mr. Dondero, I would sell my claim, right? Because I wouldn't have to be here. And that's exactly why the Court should not authorize this complaint to be filed and the gatekeeper provision of the order should prevent it. And frankly, this should be shut down and we should not have to have continued litigation over experts, or anything else, for that matter. And frankly, we should just be able to go on and let Mr. Seery do his job.

Because I think the evidence was pretty clear that his compensation is reasonable and it was in line, frankly, with what he was making before. And candidly -- and maybe it's because Mr. McEntire is not involved in bankruptcy cases, but this is similar compensation that I see in numerous cases, and it's tiered to incentivize Mr. Seery to do his job, and he's doing his job.

So, with that, Your Honor, I'll cede the rest of the time to the other parties.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF JAMES P. SEERY, JR.

MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor. I'm going to focus -- and I'm going to put my little clock up so Mr. Morris doesn't, you know, give me the hook here.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: But first --

THE COURT: Next time we're all here, maybe I'll have one of those red, what do you call them, the buzzer.

MR. STANCIL: Oh, the big light?

THE COURT: The red light.

MR. STANCIL: We used to joke that the judge I clerked for wished he had a trapdoor and he could just pull the lever when it was done.

THE COURT: Okay.

(Laughter.)

MR. STANCIL: Maybe I shouldn't have put that in your head.

THE COURT: Who was that? Are we going to say who that was?

MR. STANCIL: So Your Honor, I'm going to try to set the legal framework. I'm going to ask you -- and I think we have our -- we have the deck. It's the little -- if we could put that up and start on Slide 2.

I'd like to address what standard applies, and then I'd like to spend a few minutes asking Your Honor again not only to rule on multiple alternative grounds, but also I'd like to walk through what if you did this on a pure 12(b)(6), because it's going to collapse.

So, well, we'll just jump in. I said at the beginning that we know that the question here is not what does the word colorable mean in isolation. We wouldn't do that in any context. We would always look and see what the operative language here is in the Court's confirmation order. So the question is, what did the Court mean, it must represent a colorable claim?

So we mentioned before Paragraph 80 of the confirmation order. That cites Barton. It cites the vexatious litigant cases. I've not heard one word from Mr. McEntire answering how it can be that we're here on a sub-12(b)(6) standard he now says when the Court articulated this legal authority and this legal basis in the confirmation order. If he believed that, the time to make that argument was on the confirmation appeal, and that's over.

But let me then say, how did we get, how did the Court get to Paragraph 80? Well, that came after a series of factual findings in the confirmation order -- in fact, actually, Josh, do you have the hard copy of this?

MR. LEVY: Yeah.

MR. STANCIL: If I could hand that to the Court.

May I approach, Your Honor?

THE COURT: You may. Thanks.

MR. STANCIL: And I don't propose to go through every slide, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: But if you could turn to Slide #5. This is Paragraph 77 of the Court's confirmation order. Factual support for gatekeeper provision.

MR. MCENTIRE: Excuse me. May I have a copy? I can't see it.

THE COURT: Oh.

MR. LEVY: Oh, yeah, sure, sure.

MR. STANCIL: And can we get a copy of yours as well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: Sure.

MR. STANCIL: -- while we're at it? Thanks.

The facts supporting the need for the gatekeeper provision are as follows. I will not read them all, but if you scroll about eight lines down, it says, During the last several months, Mr. Dondero and the Dondero-related entities have harassed the Debtor, which has resulted in further substantial, costly, and time-consuming litigation for the Debtor. And then there are six separate enumerated examples of that.

Paragraph 78 on the next slide. Findings regarding Dondero postpetition litigation. The Bankruptcy Court finds that the Dondero postpetition litigation was a result of Mr. Dondero failing to obtain creditor support for his plan proposal and consistent with his comments, as set forth in Mr. Seery's credible testimony, that if Mr. Dondero's plan proposal was not accepted he would, quote, burn down the place.

Next slide. This is Paragraph 79. Necessity of the gatekeeper provision. If you would just skim to the bottom of that first column, it says, Approval of the gatekeeper provision will prevent baseless litigation designed merely to harass the post-confirmation entities charged with monetizing the Debtors' assets for the benefit of its economic constituents, will avoid abuse of the court system and preempt the use of judicial time that properly could be used to consider the meritorious claims of other litigants.

And then came Paragraph 80, which we've just discussed. With respect, Your Honor, the question is, what is the meaning of Paragraph 80? And in context, following those paragraphs regarding vexatious litigation and abuse of litigation, it is simply implausible to suggest that colorability is a sub-12(b)(6) standard.

And that is Mr. McEntire's contention today, that the gatekeeping order is actually lower than the threshold that every other litigant faces. Everyone else has to file a claim, pass a 12(b)(6), and on they go to get to discovery. Mr. McEntire believes that the gatekeeping order imposes less than that on him, and then he's treated just like everybody else. It makes no sense whatsoever.

So I'll skip Slides 8 and 9, Your Honor, but that's where the Fifth Circuit described the gatekeeping orders, affirmed them in relevant part, citing Barton. There is no mystery here.

If you could flip, Your Honor, to Slide 10 very briefly. We've talked about this case a little bit in one of our status hearings, In re Vistacare Group. This is the leading case that describes what it is that one does under a Barton analysis, and it says that the trustee must make a -- pardon me -- a party seeking leave to sue a trustee must make a prima facie case against the trustee, showing that its claim is not without foundation. A prima facie case is more than a 12(b)(6).

And I would direct Your Honor to the language in the third bullet. It involves a greater degree of flexibility than a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss because the bankruptcy court, which, given its familiarity with the underlying facts and the parties, is uniquely situated to determine whether a claim against the trustee has merit. Boy howdy, are we -- I'm sorry. My kids are going to tease me for that.

But this -- no case has ever proved the wisdom of that statement, Your Honor. We are here, and the Court is all too familiar with the facts and the parties of this case. And we're not here on an adversary proceeding. We're here on a contested matter. And Your Honor has the authority on any contested matter to take evidence, and a broad, broad discretion as to what evidence is appropriate to meet that standard.

So we have laid out briefly in Slide 11 what -- why we believe that -- or how we believe that the prima facie showing would work. And in short -- and maybe this will help us going forward -- we believe that if they make -- if a party seeking relief under the gatekeeping order says things, we have the right to rebut them, like in a burden-shifting or a burden of production -- pardon me -- analysis. So you can say that the sun rises in the west, but we can bring in evidence to say it doesn't, it rises in the east. And that's the plausibility threshold.

And here, and if Your Honor would flip to the next slide, I'm not sure it's entirely fair to say, even after they have purported to withdraw their evidence, that they've really done so. And we disagreed with Mr. McEntire, and advised him of such leading up to this hearing, that we do not agree that his redactions fully excise all of the evidentiary assertions from his motion.

And I'll just pick one example here on Slide 12. On the left is Paragraph 32 of the motion for leave prior to the purported withdrawal. On the right is Paragraph 32 after the withdrawal. Your Honor will see all they've withdrawn are the citations. It's verbatim. It's the same allegations. And they have argued various facts and put them in evidence. So even if it were true, and it's not, but even if it were true that all you get here is a 12(b)(6) ruling in the ordinary case if you put no evidence in dispute, they forfeited that right by putting these facts and evidence in dispute in their motion.

The fact that they have withdrawn evidentiary support for their evidentiary assertions does not relieve them of the reality that they have made all sorts of factual arguments in their motion for leave, and as a contested matter we have the right to address it.

I'm proposing, Your Honor, unless you have questions on the cases on 13, 14, those are the cases where we have described the hearings that have been held under Vistacare and Foster, and I know more about the down-in-the-weeds of Foster than I ever cared to, but I don't want to repeat what's in our briefs.

If Your Honor is willing to flip to Page 15, this is an argument I've alluded to briefly, but boy, we don't hear -- we have not heard a single thing as to what function the gatekeeper serves, particularly in context of Your Honor's factual findings in the confirmation order, if all it means is 12(b)(6) or lower. It just, it's an unanswerable point that they just persist in ignoring.

But I'd like to address very briefly that third bullet, because at various times and in their brief they have cited, Hunter Mountain has cited, down here we call it Louisiana World, I think in the Second Circuit we call it STN, but this UCC derivative standing. There are, in fact, two elements one has to pass for that, and that's a different context. The first is colorability as it's used in that context, and that is often a 12(b)(6) standard in that context. But still to have standing, to bring that claim on behalf of the estate, you have to show a cost-benefit analysis. As we've heard today, we've probably spent more in legal fees today, or over the last three months, than the purportedly excessive compensation to Mr. Seery. And so I would respectfully submit, if we were here on a Louisiana World or STN hearing, this would be an open-and-shut case just as well.

So if I could, Your Honor, if you are willing to jump ahead to Slide 17, I'd like to ask you -- and I do want to address the standing jurisdictional question a little bit.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. STANCIL: Not to get into the weeds of standing, because I think we have briefed that out the wazoo in our papers, and I read this morning -- I think it was this morning -- from the Claimant Trust Agreement, which says they're not a beneficial interest.

But my understanding is that Article III standing, whether there is a theoretical injury in any way, that is -- that goes to Your Honor's subject matter jurisdiction under Article III, but that is not true of statutory standing under Delaware law or prudential standing. Those are -- those go to basically whether they state a claim.

So, Your Honor, I believe, can -- and I've confessed to my colleague that the only way I remember this is I screwed it up really, really badly when I was clerking years ago -- but I believe Your Honor can, and in this case should, rule on the standing ground in the alternative. Not on the Article III. Article III is binary. They either have it or they don't. But on the statutory standing, you can say -- I think you can hold that they do not have standing under Delaware law to pursue the claim, but even if they do have standing, and then reach the remainder.

And we know we're headed for appeal. We've heard -- pretty much two-thirds of the time this morning has been laying the groundwork for an appeal. And we would only like -- we would like to make sure that we give the Fifth Circuit a fulsome record.

So I would like to ask Your Honor to flip to Page 19. And this is really the end of, I think, what we need to do. So, Your Honor, what if we were here just on 12(b)(6)? So we've got a quid, we've got a pro, we've got a quo. They fail at each turn. Let me spend most of my time on the quid. I'll let the documents of which the Court can take judicial notice speak for themselves. I will let the bare-bones nature of the assertion -- and it's okay to put in a complaint something on information and belief, but you still have to pass Iqbal and Twombly. I can't say upon information and belief that I was denied a starting position on the Knicks, right? I would like to believe that's the case, but it still has to be a plausible allegation.

Let's look at this chart. And this chart is taken right out of our brief. These are their numbers. This is at the bottom. And I want to -- I would like to take head-on this proposition that this is not a rational investment on their numbers.

So let's take the Stonehill purchase of Redeemer. They paid $78 million to earn a projected profit, according to the November 30 disclosure statement, of $19.71 million. By my arithmetic, that is a return of 25.27 percent. Even by Mr. Dondero's lights, that's a pretty good return.

I'm going to come back to why that's not the end of the return, but let's look at the Farallon purchase of Acis. Spent $8 million. Projected profit, $8.4 million. I'll take 105 percent return any day.

Let's look at the Farallon purchase of HarbourVest. Purchase price, $27 million. Projected profit, $5.09 million. That is -- oh, I can't read my own writing anymore -- I think that is 18.85 percent. I would again gladly take that every day of the week, whether it's a distressed asset or otherwise.

But let me make one really important point that Mr. Dondero obfuscated, Mr. McEntire does not acknowledge, and it is just a fact. These are projected profits if all Mr. Seery does is hit the plan. November 30, 2021. If he does no better than what he thought these assets were worth then, this is the expected return. So for those trades that we've talked about, that's a slam dunk even on that.

But let's look about -- we'll talk about upside. Because, as Your Honor knows from doing bankruptcy cases, upside, it's all about upside for people who are purchasing claims. So it isn't just that their returns were capped at these already-ample percentages. If Class 8, for example, of Redeemer paid out in full, they would be making not -- oh, gosh, I'm not sure I should do this on the fly -- but they'd be recovering $137 million on the Class 8 claim, not the $97.71 million. So there's another $40 million of upside.

Even if it's a low-probability event, that's a -- hedge funds do that all day every day.

Same here with Acis. Paid $8 million, expected $16.4 million, but they could get up to $23 million.

Now, we've heard so much about how Class 9 was worthless, worthless, worthless. No, it's not. There's always the potential for upside. Paid $27 million. Could recover $45 million just on Class 8. Could recover another $35 million on Class 9. They could recover $80 million on a $27 million purchase. Now, the probability of that is complicated, but it's not zero. We know that it's not zero. All we've heard from them today is that Mr. Seery is -- could pay off 8 and 9 in full. So I don't think that is even remotely plausible.

Let's talk briefly about UBS. They like to talk about UBS for the projected profit of $3.61 million in loss. But that was -- that's in August, and that claim trades.

So a couple of things that happened between the November 30 disclosure statement setting that projected value and the purchase of the UBS claim in August. Number one is we are nine, ten months past the worst of COVID. And Your Honor could take judicial notice of massive market movements just if you do nothing.

We don't need to get to that, because we talked all morning about MGM. May 26th, it's announced publicly. May 26, 2021.

So the notion that a purchaser of a UBS claim in the summer of 2021, after this MGM transaction is announced, would think, you know what, I think these claims are only worth what they were worth back in November, is not plausible.

And so this is why the comparisons to the debt, the exit financing, well, 12 percent. That's a 12 percent capped return. We're talking here about returns of 25 percent, 105 percent, 18.85 percent, just based on projections at the -- sort of in the darkest days post-COVID.

So it's not plausible. If a court were looking at this just under the 12(b)(6) standard, we would be -- we'd be dismissing this claim as well. And we really -- respectfully,

Your Honor, we need that ruling. We think we need that ruling so that whatever the -- whatever they may say the standard is in the Fifth Circuit, we only have to go one time. And we really believe that we're entitled to that.

I'll let Your Honor -- I will just stand on the deck and our briefs on the pro and the quo. But meet-and-greets, these are just conclusory allegations in the complaint. He says they worked -- that he worked for them 10 or 15 years ago, which some of that's not even true, but even if it were all true, if I were beholden to every client I've met at a schmooze fest or everybody I worked for in a group 20 years ago or 15 years ago, you know, I would be incapable of operating without a conflict of interest. And it's just not plausible. This is something that needs to go.

Unless the Court has questions, I will cede the remainder of our time to Mr. Morris.

THE COURT: No questions. Thank you.

CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF THE REORGANIZED DEBTOR

MR. MORRIS: Thank you so much, Your Honor, for your patience. It's been a very long day. I am very grateful that we're going to finish today.

As I said at the beginning, I believe this exercise, as difficult as it may have been, is so important and so vital, preserving this estate and what's left of it.

The gatekeeper exists for very important reasons. Your Honor made those findings in her order that has been upheld on appeal. And we're here to make sure that frivolous litigation is not commenced against my clients, or, frankly, against Stonehill and Farallon, given their capacity as Claimant Oversight Board members.

Hunter Mountain confuses argument with facts. There's no facts here to support anything, and that's what the gatekeeper is about. The gatekeeper is making sure that there's a good-faith basis to pursue claims. And as Mr. Stancil points out, it is certainly acceptable to state things upon information and belief. But the point of the gatekeeper is if somebody says -- not somebody says -- somebody offers proof that those beliefs are wrong, you no longer have a plausible claim. And that's why we thought it was so important to go through this exercise today. Because the facts show that their beliefs are simply wrong, and the entire complaint is based on their beliefs.

There is zero evidence concerning the compensation other than their belief that the compensation is excessive. The case is over. Like, you could stop there. I'm going to go through a bunch of things that -- you could stop there.

I want to actually begin backwards, though, in time, with the HarbourVest settlement. Right? After two years of litigation and re-litigation and re-litigation of the HarbourVest settlement, the claims of insider trading, finally the Court has before it admissible indisputable evidence that Mr. Seery negotiated the terms of the HarbourVest settlement before he ever got this notorious email from Mr. Dondero. That should be a finding of fact in Your Honor's order and it should never be -- nobody should ever make that allegation again. It's over. You have the documents. You have the email from Mr. Seery to the board, here are the terms, and those are the terms Your Honor approved.

And there's more. Because this is so important for us, because we're tired of being accused of wrongdoing. We're tired of being falsely accused of wrongdoing.

$22-1/2 million. That's the valuation Mr. Seery put on it. You can see that he's doing it to his Independent Board colleagues, copying his lawyers. He's telling them where he got it, from Hunter Covitz. The evidence is now in the record. It came from a regularly-published NAV report from November 30th. It was seven days old. It can never be disputed again that $22.5 million was a fair value, not based on some subjective view of Mr. Seery but based on the person who gave him the report that everybody relies upon that Mr. Dondero got.

And it was ratified yet again in the audited financial statements that came out, and it shows for the period ending -- this is Exhibit 60, I believe -- for the period ending December 31, 2020, $50 million. Okay, so it went up a few million dollars in December.

This is their case? This is the case? Your Honor I know is still working on the motion to dismiss. That's Mark Patrick, right? That's the complaint that he brought. That's what this is about. I don't mean to confuse the issue, but it's time to put this stuff to rest, because it's wrong. Mr. Dondero has lost and he's got to get over it at some point.

But here's the best piece of evidence about this whole shenanigans about MGM being inside information. Mr. Dondero filed a 15-page objection to the HarbourVest settlement and didn't say a word about it. How is that possible? Six days before the settlement, he sends this email. Two weeks later, in January, he files a 15-page objection and doesn't mention anything about insider trading, MGM, or any wrongdoing by Mr. Seery. In fact, he argues the exact opposite, that Mr. Seery cut a bad deal. How is that possible? This is a plausible claim?

It gets better, or worse, depending on your point of view. CLO Holdco filed an objection and they said they're entitled to buy the asset. This is Mr. Dondero's, you know, operating arm of the DAF. They lost -- they actually had an honorable person who concluded, I don't really have that right. But these are the claims that Mr. Patrick is asserting, and he asserted them on April -- in April, before the MGM deal was announced. Right? And Your Honor found, and that's why it was so important for the Court to take judicial notice of the second contempt order, because Mr. Dondero was intimately involved in bringing those claims and in bringing those claims against -- or trying to bring those claims against Mr. Seery, in violating of the gatekeeper. This is all tied together.

I have to tell you, I don't know why we're not doing Rule 11. Forget about colorable claims. This is a fraud on the Court. It really is. And I don't know when it's going to stop. I'd love to move on with my life, to be honest with you.

The tender offer. He's out there doing a tender offer benefitting as the fund that he manages acquires more shares and his interest goes up and the value goes up with all these MGM holdings. Really? And he's going to accuse Mr. Seery of wrongdoing?

There was one point of Mr. Dondero's testimony that made my heart skip a beat. It's when he referred to the need to get discovery. And why did it skip a beat? Because he actually had a moment of candor where he admitted that the notion that Mr. Seery gave them material nonpublic inside information was his thought. It's not anything that Farallon ever told him. And then it spins and it spins and it spins, and finally when he gets to the fifth version of his sworn statement MGM suddenly appears. It's not right. Colorable claims? Fraudulent claims.

What's the undisputed evidence right now? I'll take Mr. Dondero at his word that Mr. Patel told him that Farallon bought the claims in February or March. How did they reconcile that with the undisputed testimony that Mr. Seery thereafter invited Farallon to participate in the exit financing? And they signed an NDA in early April. Why would you sign an NDA if you already got inside information? Who would do that? What would be the purpose of that?

How do you reconcile the fact that, according to Mr. Dondero, the claims were already in Farallon's pocket when they signed an NDA to get information for an exit facility. Is that plausible?

We've heard Mr. McEntire say a bunch of times it's much broader than MGM. Not only not a scintilla of evidence, but no substantive allegation. Again, confusing argument with facts. Because he had -- yes, Mr. Seery had access to inside information relative to Highland. He's the CEO. But where is the evidence that he shared anything with anybody? There is nothing.

Mr. Dondero admitted in his motion -- in a moment of candor, he said that's what he concluded based on the fact that Mr. Patel supposedly told him, I bought because Seery told me to. He made the inference. No evidence. Nothing.

They're bringing this case for the benefit of innocent parties? These people have told you time and again that assets exceed liabilities. What innocent parties? Where are they and how come they're not -- let's get to that point, too. Because they're saying, oh, Mr. Seery is, like, just not declaring the end of this. Seriously? How much do they think Mr. Seery should reserve for indemnification claims as we do trials like this with a mountain of lawyers billing $800, $1,500 an hour? Seriously? Mr. Seery is somehow acting in bad faith by not declaring the end of this case? How much is he supposed to reserve? They keep skipping over that. We'll talk about that in the mediation motion. We'll talk about that in the Hunter Mountain motion in July. Who's prosecuting that? Mr. Dondero's lawyer. I know there's a really big separation between Hunter Mountain and Mr. Dondero, but Stinson is prosecuting that claim on behalf of Hunter Mountain when they're seeking information.

And they complain about the legal fees? We've put our pens down. Kirschner put his pens down. We put down the claim objection. What we're doing is defense at this point.

We're awaiting the ruling on the notes litigation, and we will very much prosecute the vexatious litigant motion if Judge Starr grants the pending motion to exceed the page limit that's been out there for months. I'm not sure what's happening there. We'll do that for sure. But otherwise, we're just playing defense.

We're here today because they've made a motion, a motion that lacks any good-faith basis whatsoever. And that's why today was so important, so the Court could hear the witnesses. They could -- the Court -- I mean, think about it. Texas State Securities Board. The audacity of saying that somehow a letter from the Texas State Securities Board saying they're taking no action after conducting an investigation of Dugaboy's claim of insider trading is irrelevant? Like, what?

I've told you before, all we do is play Whack-A-Mole. Whack-A-Mole. They make an argument, we prove it's frivolous, so they just make a new argument. Their pleading says their claims are colorable because there's an open investigation. Now there's no investigation and they say that's irrelevant. How can they say that with a straight face? I couldn't.

I want to talk about Mr. Seery. I want to finish with my Mr. Seery. I may not use all my time. We can go home early.

(Laughter.)

THE COURT: It's past early.

MR. MORRIS: But this guy has worked doggedly, Your Honor, and I will defend him until the end of time. He's a man who has so far exceeded expectations. And they're saying he's not -- he's overpaid? The guy is overpaid? When he's into Class 9? When he's being pursued with these frivolous claims? Every day he's being attacked. How much do they think he should be paid? I would have loved to -- I hope -- no, I don't hope. I don't think there's any reason to hear expert testimony. I think Your Honor should exercise -- the Court should exercise its discretion and say there's no need, the Court doesn't need to hear expert testimony.

But if we do, I'll be delighted to hear their expert's view on what Mr. Seery -- if it's not $8.8 million for all these years, what should it be, after he takes an estate from 71 percent on the 8s to, according to them, assets exceed liabilities, 9s are paid in full?

You know what? If they put their pens down, maybe there would be a conversation. But as long as we keep doing this ridiculous, baseless, frivolous litigation, Mr. Seery is going to conserve resources, because he's got to pay people like me to defend him and to defend the estate. This is a preview of what we'll talk about at the mediation motion. He's doing a great job. He's devoting his life to it. He has no other income. He's got no other job. It's wrong.

The claims are not only not colorable, they are frivolous. I ask the Court to stop this in its tracks right now.

Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Thank you.

All right. Is there any time for the Movant to have the last word, which we usually give the Movant the last word.

THE CLERK: The Movant, I think, has a little under -- maybe about a minute left.

THE COURT: Anything you want to say in a minute?

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, just I'll take 30 seconds. How is that?

THE COURT: Okay.

REBUTTAL CLOSING ARGUMENT ON BEHALF OF HUNTER MOUNTAIN

MR. MCENTIRE: I just want to direct your attention to our reply brief, specific paragraphs that address your question about authorities. We do cite several cases on Page 41, 40 and 41, dealing with the issue of unjust enrichment. That's it.

Thank you, Your Honor, very much.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Unjust enrichment?

MR. MCENTIRE: Disgorgement.

THE COURT: Okay. But I was really, you know, claims trading in the bankruptcy context, just your best --

MR. MCENTIRE: Well, I think the cases that you identified were our best cases. The --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- Adelphia and the other cases.

THE COURT: All right. Well, --

MR. MCENTIRE: There are other cases, Your Honor, in different contexts. There's also the Washington Mutual case dealing with equitable disallowance. There's also the Mobile Steel case, a Fifth Circuit --

THE COURT: Mobile Steel? Oh, my goodness. Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Okay. All right.

THE COURT: 1968? Or no. That doesn't mean it isn't still quoted often, but --

MR. MCENTIRE: Those would also be relevant.

THE COURT: Equitable subordination --

MR. MCENTIRE: Yes, ma'am.

THE COURT: -- when there's bad acts.

MR. MCENTIRE: And Footnote #10 in the Mobile Steel case. That is relevant, too. Just, --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: All right. So I gave a deadline of Monday, right, --

MR. STANCIL: Yes.

THE COURT: -- to reply to the response to the motion in limine?

MR. STANCIL: Yes, Your Honor. Do you want time before you leave for the day? I mean, it's not going to be that long, so 4:00 o'clock Monday? Does that work for you?

THE COURT: I don't care. I probably won't start looking at it until the next day.

MR. STANCIL: But I will -- I'll just reserve and so I don't have my associates --

THE COURT: Yes. I think these days midnight, 11:59 p.m., is what lawyers tend to want.

MR. STANCIL: Oh, not this lawyer.

THE COURT: Oh, well, okay. Okay. So I'll just have to look at this, and probably by Friday of next week I will reach out through Traci and let you know what my decision is on whether we're going to have another day of just 30 minutes, 30 minutes of experts.

MR. MCENTIRE: Your Honor, another housekeeping matter. You'd wanted a copy of our PowerPoint, --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. MCENTIRE: -- which I'm pleased to give you. We found a typo that we can correct electronically on the version I showed.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. MCENTIRE: I likely will send that to you and I can copy opposing counsel. Is that --

THE COURT: Okay. Send it to Traci Ellison, my courtroom deputy.

MR. MCENTIRE: All right.

THE COURT: And she'll --

MR. MCENTIRE: We'll do that first thing in the morning.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MCENTIRE: So you'll have a copy --

MR. STANCIL: Can we get the hard copy that -- from today, though?

MR. MCENTIRE: No, that had a typo on it. I really don't want to share it. We fixed it.

THE COURT: What? I'm sorry, what?

MR. MORRIS: That's fine.

MR. STANCIL: Never mind.

THE COURT: Do I not need to know?

MR. STANCIL: Let's all go home.

THE COURT: Okay. And then my last question is -- and there was a mention of the CLO Holdco lawsuit, where there's a pending motion to dismiss. There's an opinion I'm writing well underway. I just keep getting sidetracked by other things. Imagine that. So I know that people are wanting to get an answer to that. So, trust me, it's going to get done here pretty soon.

You mentioned Brantley Starr. I mean, it is not my role to pick up the phone and call him and say hey, --

MR. MCENTIRE: No, I wasn't suggesting that.

THE COURT: -- District Judge, get busy on that.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah.

THE COURT: But I'll at least tell you, I know the man seems to have more jury trials than any judge I've seen in this building, so I suspect he's working late hours trying to get things done.

MR. MCENTIRE: Yeah.

THE COURT: What do we have upcoming? We have what you called the mediation motion. When is that set?

MR. MORRIS: June 26.

THE COURT: June 26th. Be here before we know it.

MR. MORRIS: Yeah. And just to keep the Court informed, the Movant's reply was due today. We gave them a week extension. They asked earlier today. I saw in my email we gave them. So I think you should expect the reply on the 15th. The hearing is the 26th, and that's not in person.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, I'm very interested to dive into those pleadings. I knew the motion was coming because one of the lawyers said at a prior hearing it would be coming. So I haven't read any of those pleadings, but, well, I'm just very interested to hear how this plays out. I mean, I've said it before.

MR. MORRIS: Uh-huh.

THE COURT: We had global mediation in summer of 2020. We had two very fine mediators. We had a heck of a lot settled, to my amazement. But we're now way down the road and whole lot of money has been eaten up fighting lots of stuff. I mean, it would have to be pens down. There's an enormous amount out there that would have to be part of it, and I just don't know if everyone is fully appreciating that. I hope they are. Anyone listening. We're really, really far down the road now, and there's just how many appeals? Someone at one time told me there were 26. I bet it's more than that by now.

MR. MORRIS: I think that's right. I think we argued on Monday, what is it, the sixth of nine appeals in the Fifth Circuit. And we've got, you know, a cert petition that we're waiting to hear from on the Supreme Court. And yeah, there's still a couple dozen matters in the district court.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: Not one of them, not one of them we're prosecuting, with the exception of waiting on the Court to rule on the Report and Recommendation on the notes litigation and vexatious litigant. We are not the plaintiff, movant, in anything.

THE COURT: We've got adversaries. The Reports and Recommendations. That's just made everything go a lot slower. But all right. So we have that. And anything else coming up?

MR. MORRIS: I think on July 11th maybe there is a hearing scheduled on Hunter Mountain. If you recall, Hunter Mountain had that valuation motion last year that you denied on the grounds that they didn't have a legal right to valuation information. They made a motion earlier this year for leave to file an adversary proceeding to assert an equitable claim and some other declaratory relief, is my recollection.

While we filed an opposition, we didn't oppose the relief requested, so that motion got resolved. They have filed an adversary proceeding. And I think, if I remember correctly, our response to the complaint, maybe that's what due. Oh, the 11th is a status conference. It could be a status conference, maybe to set a scheduling order.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MORRIS: But that's it. I think that's the only thing on the calendar.

THE COURT: That's a lot.

MR. MCENTIRE: Thank you.

THE COURT: Anything else? Okay.

MR. STANCIL: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. MORRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE CLERK: All rise.

forth in Schedule A attached hereto.

Section 9 Term. The term of the Company commenced on the date of filing of the Certificate of Formation in accordance with the Act and shall continue until dissolution of the Company in accordance with Section 23 of this Agreement.

Section 10 Limited Liability. Except as otherwise provided by the Act, the debts, obligations and liabilities of the Company, whether arising in contract, tort or otherwise, shall be solely the debts, obligations and liabilities of the Company, and none of the Members, any Officer (as hereinafter defined), employee or agent of the Company (including a person having more than one such capacity) shall be obligated personally for any such debt, obligation or liability of the Company solely by reason of acting in such capacity.

Section 11 Initial Capital Contributions. Each Member is deemed admitted as a Member of the Company upon his, her or its execution and delivery of this Agreement. The initial capital contributions of the Members are set forth on Schedule A attached hereto.

Section 12 Additional Capital Contributions. The Members are not required to make any capital contributions to the Company beyond their initial capital contributions, unless otherwise determined by the Managing Member.

Section 13 Capital Accounts. Separate capital accounts shall be maintained for each Member on the books of the Company, which accounts shall set forth the capital of such Member in the Company. Each capital account shall be adjusted to reflect such Member's share of allocations and distributions as provided in Sections 14 and 15 of this Agreement, and any additional capital contributions to the Company or withdrawals of capital from the Company. Such capital accounts shall further be adjusted to conform to the Treasury Regs. under Section 704(b) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), as interpreted in good faith by the Managing Member.

Section 14 Allocations of Profit and Loss. All items of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit shall be allocated among the Members in accordance with their percentage interests as set forth on Schedule A attached hereto ("Percentage Interests").

Section 15 Distributions. Distributions shall be made to the Members at such times and in such amounts as may be determined in the sole discretion of the Managing Member. Distributions shall be allocated among the Members in accordance with their Percentage Interests. Notwithstanding any provision to the contrary contained in this Agreement, the Company shall not make a distribution to the Members on account of their interest in the Company if such distribution would violate Section 18-607 of the Act or other applicable law.

Section 16 Management.

(a) The business and affairs of the Company shall be managed by the Managing Member. Subject to the express limitations contained in any provision of this Agreement, the Managing Member shall have complete and absolute control of the affairs and business of the Company, and the Managing Member shall possess all powers necessary, convenient or appropriate to carrying out the purposes and business of the Company, including, without limitation, doing all things and taking all actions necessary to carrying out the terms and provisions of this Agreement.

(b) Subject to the rights and powers of the Managing Member and the limitations thereon contained herein, the Managing Member may delegate to any person any or all of his powers, rights and obligations under this Agreement, and the Managing Member may appoint, contract or otherwise deal with any person to perform any acts or services for the Company as the Managing Member may reasonably determine.

(c) No Member (other than the Managing Member) shall participate in the management or control of the business of, or shall have any rights or powers with respect to, the Company except those expressly granted to it by, or pursuant to the terms of, this Agreement, or those conferred on it by law.

(d) The Managing Member shall hold office until the earliest to occur of his death, disability or other inability to act in such capacity, at which time a successor Managing Member may be appointed by Members owning at least a majority of the Percentage Interests.

Section 17 Officers. The Managing Member may, from time to time as he deems advisable, appoint officers of the Company (the "Officers") and assign in writing titles (including, without limitation, President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer) to any such person. Unless the Managing Member decides otherwise, if the title is one commonly used for officers of a business corporation formed under the Delaware General Corporation Law, the assignment of such title shall constitute the delegation to such person of the authorities and duties that are normally associated with that office. Any delegation pursuant to this Section 17 may be revoked at any time by the Managing Member.

Section 18 Other Business. The Members (including, for the avoidance of doubt, the Managing Member) may engage in or possess an interest in other business ventures (unconnected with the Company) of every kind and description, independently or with others. Neither the Company nor any other Member shall have any rights in or to such independent ventures or the income or profits therefrom by virtue of this Agreement.

Section 19 Exculpation and Indemnification. The Managing Member shall not be liable to the Company or to the other Members for any action taken or omitted to be taken in connection with the business or affairs of the Company, so long as he acted in good faith and is not found to be guilty of gross negligence or willful misconduct with respect thereto, as determined by a final non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction. To the fullest extent permitted by law, the Company agrees to indemnify and hold harmless: (i) the Managing Member, and (ii) in the discretion of the Managing Member, the Company's managers, shareholders, partners, officers, employees, agents and affiliates and/or the other Members (each, an "Indemnified Party") from and against any and all claims, actions, demands, losses, costs, expenses (including attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation), damages, penalties or interest, as a result of any claim or legal proceeding related to any action taken or omitted to be taken by any of them in connection with the business and affairs of the Company (including the settlement of any such claim or legal proceeding); provided, however, that the party against whom the claim is made or legal proceeding is directed is not guilty of gross negligence or willful misconduct, as determined by a final non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction. Any indemnity under this Section 19 shall be provided out of and to the extent of Company assets only, and no Member (including the Managing Member) shall have personal liability on account thereof.

Section 20 Admission of Additional Members. Additional Members may be admitted to the Company only with the written consent of the Managing Member. The capital contribution required of, and the Percentage Interests assigned to, such newly-admitted Member shall be determined by the Managing Member.

Section 21 Effect of Bankruptcy, Dissolution, Death or Incompetence of a Member. The bankruptcy, dissolution, death or disability of a Member, or an adjudication that such Member is incompetent (a Member experiencing any such event, a "Disabled Member"), shall not cause the termination or dissolution of the Company, and the business of the Company shall continue. If a Member is dissolved or becomes bankrupt, the trustee or receiver of such Disabled Member's estate or, if a Member dies, such Disabled Member's executor, administrator or trustee, or, if such Member is adjudicated incompetent, such Disabled Member's committee, guardian or conservator, or the personal representative of such Disabled Member, as applicable, shall have the rights of such Disabled Member for the purposes of settling or managing such Disabled Member's estate or property and such power as the Disabled Member possessed to dispose of all or any part of such Member's interest in the Company, and to join with any assignee in satisfying conditions precedent to the admission of the assignee as a substitute Member.

Section 22 Assignments. A Member may not transfer, assign, pledge or hypothecate, in whole or in part, his, her or its limited liability company interest without the prior written consent of the Managing Member.

Section 23 Dissolution.

(a) The Company shall dissolve, and its affairs shall be wound-up upon the first to occur of the following: (i) the written consent of the Managing Member; (ii) the death, disability, bankruptcy or withdrawal of the Managing Member, in the event no successor managing member is appointed pursuant to Section 16(d); and (iii) the entry of a decree of judicial dissolution under Section 18-802 of the Act.

(b) In the event of dissolution, the Company shall conduct only such activities as are necessary to wind-up its affairs (including the sale of the assets of the Company in an orderly manner).

Section 24 Tax Matters Partner. John Honis shall be the tax matters partner within the meaning of Section 6231(a)(7) of the Code. All expenses incurred by the tax matters partner in connection with his duties as tax matters partner shall be expenses of the Company.

Section 25 Elections. The Managing Member shall determine the accounting methods and conventions under the tax laws of any and all applicable jurisdictions as to the treatment of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit of the Company or any other method or procedure related to the preparation of such tax returns. The Managing Member may cause the Company to make or refrain from making any and all elections permitted by such tax laws, and the Managing Member shall not be liable for any consequences to any previously admitted or subsequently admitted Members resulting from making or failing to make any such elections.

Section 26 Separability of Provisions. Each provision of this Agreement shall be considered separable and if for any reason any provision or provisions herein are determined to be invalid, unenforceable or illegal under any existing or future law, such invalidity, unenforceability or illegality shall not impair the operation of or affect those portions of this Agreement which are valid, enforceable and legal.

Section 27 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original of this Agreement.

Section 28 Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement of the Members with respect to the subject matter hereof and shall supersede all prior and contemporaneous agreements, understandings and discussions with respect thereto.

Section 29 Governing Law, Personal Jurisdiction and Venue. The parties acknowledge and agree that any claim, controversy, dispute or action relating in any way to this Agreement or the subject matter of this Agreement shall be governed solely by the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to any conflict of laws doctrines. The parties irrevocably consent to and submit to being served with legal process issued from the state and federal courts located in the State of New York and irrevocably consent to the exclusive personal jurisdiction of the federal and state courts situated in the State of New York. The parties irrevocably waive any objections to the personal jurisdiction of these courts. The federal and state courts of the State of New York in New York County shall have sole and exclusive jurisdiction over any and all claims, controversies, disputes and actions which in any way relate to this Agreement or the subject matter of this Agreement. Any such claim, controversy, dispute or action must first be brought in the federal court of the State of New York in New York County, unless the federal courts do not have subject matter jurisdiction as a matter of law, in which case it must first be brought in the Commercial Division of the New York State Supreme Court in New York County (and can only proceed in New York County outside the Commercial Division if the Commercial Division rejects it). The parties also irrevocably waive any objections that these courts constitute an oppressive, unfair, or inconvenient forum and agree not to seek to change venue on these grounds or any other grounds.

Section 30 Amendments. This Agreement may be modified, altered, supplemented or amended in the sole discretion of the Managing Member.

Neither the fact nor content of this Response by DAF Fund is intended to be nor shall be deemed: a waiver of service requirements in the Adversary Proceeding; acceptance of service of citation or summons in the Adversary Proceeding; waiver of its right to a trial by jury on all claims in the Adversary Proceeding (if ever served), nor consent to the entry of final orders in the Adversary Proceeding by the Bankruptcy Court (again, if ever served). The Charitable Respondents submit this Response in the Bankruptcy Case solely because the Court has ordered them to do so, and because they have appeared before this Court previously.

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. CLO HoldCo, DAF Fund, and Highland Dallas Foundation have each previously filed pleadings in this Court and are, at least arguably, parties to the Bankruptcy Case. As set forth herein, several targets of the Court's Disclosures Order have never made an appearance before this Court including Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd.[2] ("DAF Holdco"), Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, Inc. ("Highland Santa Barbara Foundation"), and Highland Kansas City Foundation, Inc. ("Highland Kansas City Foundation," collectively with DAF Holdco and Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, the "Non-Party Targets").[3] The Court does not have the power to order a non-party to produce documents nor undertake sua sponte investigations, particularly into non-parties. The fact that these entities are non-parties and at the same time targets, is telling. Further the Non-Party Targets have not been served with the Disclosures Order.

2. Neither the Charitable Respondents nor undersigned counsel are authorized to make appearances for the Non-Party Targets, and the Non-Party Targets are not by this Response submitting themselves to this Court's jurisdiction. The Charitable Respondents file this Response and submit these Disclosures solely on their own behalf and neither they nor undersigned counsel are appearing for or on behalf of the Non-Party Targets. Nonetheless, much of the Disclosures provided by the Charitable Respondents on their own behalf will be informative regarding the Non-Party Targets. Further, the Non-Party Targets have provided limited authorization for the

---

[2] Undersigned counsel has been retained to represent DAF Holdco; however, DAF Holdco has never made an appearance in this bankruptcy case and has not been served in the Adversary Proceeding. Nor has DAF Holdco been served with this Disclosures Order. DAF Holdco has not authorized undersigned counsel to accept service nor to make an appearance for it in this Bankruptcy Case.

[3] The Highland Dallas Foundation, the Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, and the Highland Kansas City Foundation are sometimes also referred to as "Supporting Organizations."

Charitable Respondents, through Mr. Mark Patrick ("Patrick"), to provide the information to the Court that is submitted by the Charitable Respondents in this Response.

3. Further, the Disclosures Order does not mention the third-party foundation level entities included in the Structure Chart (infra) ("Foundations"); however, these Foundations have provided the Charitable Respondents with documents and important information regarding their charitable giving structures and the supporting organizations include the Highland Dallas Foundation and the supporting organizations that are Non-Party Targets. The fact and content of this Response is not intended to be nor shall be deemed to be an appearance by these Foundations in this Bankruptcy Case, nor submission by them to this Court's jurisdiction. The Charitable Respondents file this Response and submit these Disclosures solely on their own behalf and neither they nor undersigned counsel are appearing for or on behalf of the Foundations.

4. Patrick has provided a declaration regarding the information provided by and/or about the Foundations and the Supporting Organizations, and as provided herein within the Disclosures. As well, he has reviewed the Response and Disclosures. See Exhibit 1 [Mark Patrick Declaration]

5. As set forth herein, contrary to the Court's unsupported and highly prejudicial sua sponte assertions that the Charitable Respondents and Non-Party Targets "appear to be under the de facto control of Mr. Dondero," the Charitable Respondents and Non-Party Targets (along with the Foundations) make up a legal and viable charitable giving structure, established through a non-byzantine set of entities that has committed over $42 million in grants, and funded $32.5 million, to nonprofits across a wide-range of issues including education, support of military, veterans, and first-responders, and victims of family violence and child abuse. With respect to Mr. Dondero, of course he is involved, personally in the capacity as the Donor personality. In addition, as disclosed within the Disclosures, he holds positions within the Supporting Organizations, which are subject to the authority of the Foundations they support. As well, and as established by Mr. Patrick's uncontroverted testimony before this Court, Mr. Dondero currently acts as an unpaid investment advisor to CLO HoldCo and DAF Fund. However, as will be shown Mr. Dondero is not in "de facto" or legal control of the Charitable Respondents nor the Non-Party Targets (nor the Foundations).

6. The Charitable Respondents take the time to refute the Court's assertions in the Disclosures Order because not only are they factually inaccurate—which will be shown herein and through the submitted Disclosures—but worse, these sua sponte findings bear directly upon the causes of action asserted by Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors (the "Committee") against CLO HoldCo, DAF Holdco, DAF Fund, and Highland Dallas Foundation (the "Charitable Defendants") in Adversary Proceeding No. 20-03195 (the "Adversary Proceeding"). While there are several motions to withdraw the reference pending in the Adversary Proceeding, this Court should, at an absolute minimum, refrain from espousing, sua sponte, any "findings" or "conclusions" that in fact are indistinguishable from allegations made in conclusory fashion (much like the Court's expositions) by a plaintiff party in litigation currently pending in this Court. Such an "approach" to exercise of the judicial function (under the notion of maintaining the Court's docket) is, frankly, not recognizable as a constitutional approach to exercise of judicial power. This Court, it appears has become litigant, investigator and decider, far outside the scope of case or controversy. Through its assertions the Court appears to have decided integral issues in the Adversary Proceeding sua sponte without considering any evidence nor offering the Charitable Defendants any opportunity to present their case, and all this notwithstanding pending motions to withdraw reference (that the Court has previously stayed over the objection of the Charitable Defendant movers).

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

7. As the Court is aware, there was a show cause hearing on June 8, 2021 (the "Show Cause Hearing") related to the lawsuit filed by CLO HoldCo and DAF Fund against the Debtor captioned Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. et al. v. Highland Capital Management, L.P. et al., case no. 21-cv-00842, pending in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Texas (the "District Court Suit"). In the District Court Suit, the plaintiffs filed a motion to amend their complaint (the "Seery Motion"), and thereafter, the Court issued what it titled: Order Requiring the Violators to Show Cause Why They Should Not Be Held in Civil Contempt for Violating Two Court Orders [Dkt. No. 2255] (the "Show Cause Order") to determine if the "Violators" should be held in contempt of court for filing the Seery Motion. The Court ordered the "Violators," as defined by the Court, including CLO HoldCo and DAF Fund, those persons who authorized the filing of the Seery Motion and the District Court Suit (and the law firm representing the plaintiffs), along with Mr. Dondero, to appear at the Show Cause Hearing.

8. Patrick identified himself as the person who authorized the filing of the Seery Motion and the District Court Suit and identified that he was vested with such authority by virtue of his position as the director CLO HoldCo and control person of DAF Fund. See Response, Dkt. No. 2309. The Debtor undertook extensive discovery related to the Show Cause Hearing with the express purpose of attempting to prove that despite Mr. Patrick authorizing the filings and being the control person of the plaintiffs, Mr. Dondero should nonetheless be held in contempt.

9. Therefore, at the Show Cause Hearing, the respondents, including Patrick, introduced evidence reflecting the structure of the Charitable Respondents,[4] the ownership of the Charitable Respondents,[5] and the controlling entities/persons of the Charitable Respondents.[6] At the Show Cause Hearing, Patrick further provided extensive testimony regarding the creation, structure, organization, purpose, and control of the Charitable Respondents. See Exhibit 2 [Transcript, June 8, 2021 Hearing, Excerpts].

10. On June 17, 2021, the Court issued its Disclosures Order sua sponte pursuant to Section 105 of the Bankruptcy Code and its "inherent ability to efficiently monitor its docket and evaluate standing of parties who ask for relief in the [Bankruptcy Case]." Disclosures Order, p. 1.

11. Importantly, the Disclosures Order does not relate to and was not issued in connection with any contested matter or adversary proceeding before the Bankruptcy Court. Instead, the Court states that the Disclosures Order is "in furtherance of [its] desire to be more clear about the standing of various of these entities, and to assess whether their interests may be sufficiently aligned, in some circumstances, so as to require joint pleadings." Disclosures Order, p. 12. As such, the Court appears to be attempting to ascertain some sort of generalized standing where there is no proceeding before it and contemplating the issuance of pre-filing injunctions against the Charitable Respondents and Non-Party Targets.

12. Based on the forgoing, the Disclosures Order requires numerous parties (whether before the Court or not), including the Charitable Respondents and Non-Party Targets, to file a notice in the Bankruptcy Case disclosing: (a) who owns the entity (showing percentages); (b) whether Mr. Dondero or his family trusts have either a direct or indirect ownership interest in the entity and, if so, what percentage of ultimate ownership; (c) who are the officers, directors, managers and/or trustees of the Non-Debtor Dondero-Related Entity (this itself looks to be a determination by this Court of "relationship" with damaging consequences); and (d) whether the entity is a creditor of the Debtor (explaining in reasonable detail the amount and substance of its claims).

[4] Exhibit and Witness List, Dkt. No. 2411 (Exhibit 1)

[5] Exhibit and Witness List, Dkt. No. 2411 (Exhibit 9, 10, 11, 12, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20)

13. The Disclosures Order does not even pretend to be concerned with such mundane matters as proper service, or the right of parties not before the Court, even if creditors, to remain outside the Court. Certainly the Court does not exhibit a glimpse of concern about possible limitations upon the judicial power to compel parties to appear before it. Because of its assertions concerning Mr. Dondero's "de facto control" of third party entities (again, outside of any pending case or controversy and in fact contrary to evidence put before the Court), the Court has (i) dispensed with case or controversy boundaries, and (ii) sent its Disclosures Order into the universe as an all-powerful compulsion imposed upon entities that have never made appearance before the Court - all without service. All because this Court has concluded that these third parties are controlled by Mr. Dondero, and because this Court has power over Mr. Dondero, it need not think twice about its power over any entity it has determined (without ground) to be controlled by Mr. Dondero because such party may have some relation to Mr. Dondero.

14. As mentioned above, the Charitable Respondents are responding. But the entities outside the scope of the Court's authority are not appearing in Response. As set forth below, the Charitable Respondents believe this Response and the Disclosures provided herein are sufficient and compliant. The Charitable Respondents reserve all rights.

RESPONSE

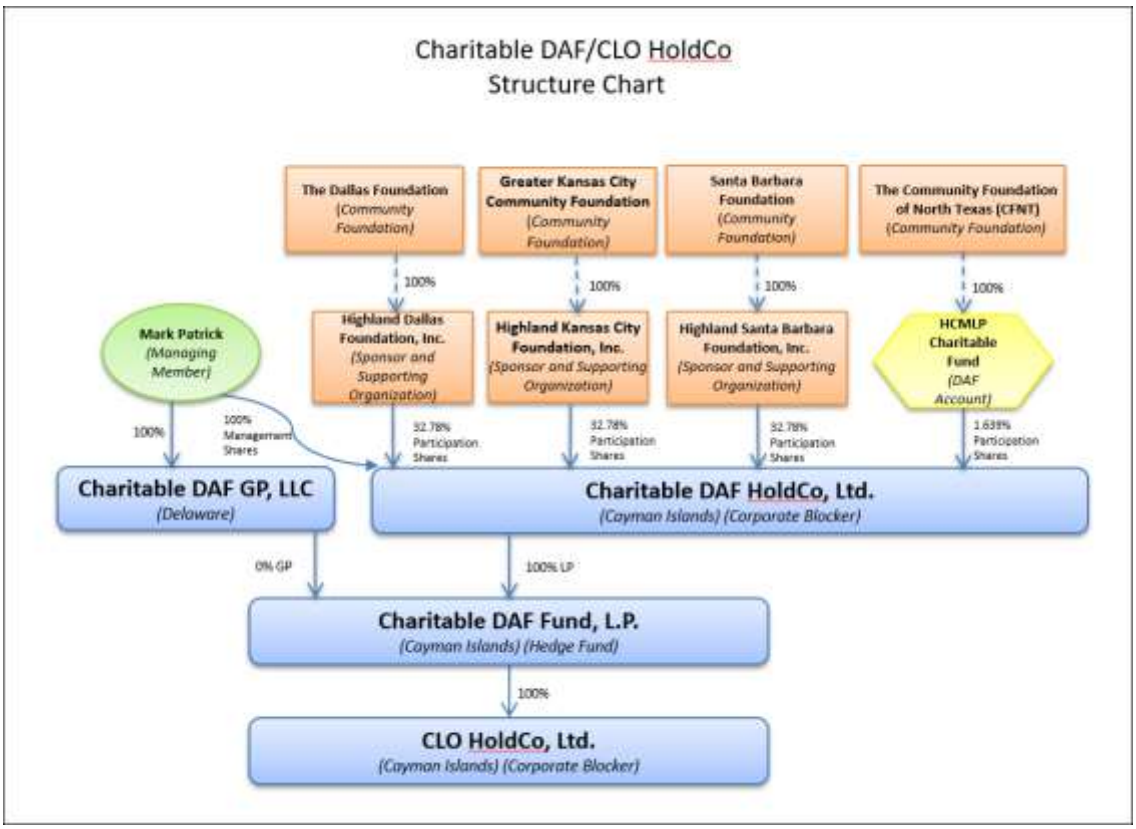
15. The Charitable Respondents file their Response to the Disclosures Order to comply with it, but with full reservations concerning the propriety of such a sua sponte investigation into standing where there is no proceeding before the Court and the prospective issuance of pre-filing injunctions against parties who have never participated in the Bankruptcy Case (i.e. the Non-Party Targets), or have only do so on a limited basis or were compelled to by order of the Court (i.e. the Charitable Respondents).

16. The Charitable Respondents have already provided the Debtor and the Court with much of the information ordered by the Court, and do so again and more robustly herein, to show to the Court that the Charitable Respondents are not "under the de facto control of Mr. Dondero" and its directors do not act "at Mr. Dondero's direction." See Disclosures Order, pp. 5, 11.

17. The Charitable Respondents, however, take this opportunity to correct any misunderstanding regarding their structure and control, while noting and reserving all rights regarding the impropriety of such prejudicial sua sponte assertions.

I. The Charitable Respondents are independently owned and controlled charitable organizations.

18. The best starting point to understand the structure of the Charitable Respondents is the Structure Chart attached hereto as Exhibit 3 ["Structure Chart"]. For ease of reference, the Structure Chart is reproduced as follows:



19. Second, the Charitable Respondents provide the Court with a legal memorandum of Kenneth K. Bezozo, a partner with Haynes and Boone, LLP, determined by the Charitable Respondents to be a legal expert in the field of taxation and organizational structures. See Exhibit 4 [Kenneth K. Bezozo Memorandum]. As the Bezozo Memorandum explains, the Structure Chart and the entity structure of which the Charitable Respondents are a part (along with the Supporting Organizations and the Foundations) is a structure including offshore entities that is a typical industry standard investment structure to facilitate tax-exempt ownership and charitable giving. Given that the structure employed is in fact, within the tax-exempt, charitable entity structures neither unusual nor exotic, the Charitable Respondents submit that contrary to the jargon appropriated by the Court from the Committee and the Debtor and its counsel, this structure is not at all "Byzantine."

The Entities

a) CLO HoldCo

20. As the Structure Chart reflects, CLO HoldCo is a company limited by shares incorporated in the Cayman Islands. See Exhibit 5 [Certificate of Incorporation - CLO HoldCo, Ltd.]. CLO HoldCo was incorporated in 2010. See Exhibit 6 [Memorandum of Association of CLO HoldCo, Ltd.]. CLO HoldCo is managed and controlled by directors who are appointed by resolution of shareholders of CLO HoldCo. See Memorandum of Association of CLO HoldCo, Ltd., p. 11-12 ("Directors"). The Directors are currently Mr. Patrick and Mr. Paul Murphy. See Exhibit 36 [CLO HoldCo - Register of Directors].

21. CLO HoldCo is owned by the holder of its sole share. The sole shareholder of CLO HoldCo was previously DAF Holdco who contributed the share on November 7, 2011 to DAF Fund. See Exhibit 7 [Ordinary Share Registry - CLO HoldCo]. Therefore, CLO HoldCo is wholly owned by DAF Fund.[7]

b) DAF Fund

22. DAF Fund is a limited partnership organized under the laws of the Cayman Islands. See Exhibit 8 [Certificate of Registration of Exempted Limited Partnership - DAF Fund]. Pursuant to the Amended and Restated Exempted Limited Partnership Agreement dated November 7, 2011 (the "DAF Fund LP Agreement"), DAF Holdco is the limited partner of the DAF Fund and the Charitable DAF GP, LLC ("DAF GP") is the general partner. See Exhibit 9 [DAF Fund

---

[7] While not appearing on the Structure Chart, nor made subject of the Disclosures Order, there are subsidiaries of CLO HoldCo as well, and these are named, with corresponding ownership and director exhibits identified as follows: (i) Liberty CLO Holdco, Ltd. (see Exhibits 38 and 39 [Register of Directors and Share Register]); (ii) MGM Studios HoldCo, Ltd. (see Exhibits 40 and 41 [Register of Directors and Share Register]); (iii) HCT HoldCo 2, Ltd. (see Exhibits 42 and 43 [Register of Directors and Share Register]). Note, Dondero holds no directorship or ownership.

LP Agreement]. Pursuant to the terms of the DAF Fund LP Agreement, DAF Holdco contributed its equity interest in CLO HoldCo to DAF Fund pursuant to a Contribution and Transfer Agreement dated November 7, 2011. Ordinary Share Class Transfers - CLO HoldCo; DAF Fund LP Agreement, ¶3.1.

23. The express purpose of DAF Fund is and always was to invest and trade in securities of all type and other investment vehicles for the purpose of befitting, direct and indirectly, the indirect equity owners of DAF Holdco, which were required to be Section 501(c)(3) of the IRS Code entities or organizations or have sole beneficiaries which are entities or organizations exempt from taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the IRS Code. See DAF Fund LP Agreement, ¶1.3.

24. Because DAF Fund is a limited partnership, the DAF GP has the exclusive and complete discretion in the management and control of the DAF Fund. DAF Fund LP Agreement, ¶1.6, Exhibit 10 [DAF Fund General Partner Register].

c) DAF Holdco

25. DAF Holdco is a company limited by shares incorporated under the laws of the Cayman Islands. See Exhibit 11 [Amended and Restated Memorandum of Association of DAF Holdco]. DAF Holdco's equity ownership consists of holders of Management and Participating Shares. Id. The Management Shares confer no right to participate in profits but rather to manage DAF Holdco, whereas Participating Shares confer the right to participate in profits or assets but not management rights. Id.

26. The Management Shares of DAF Holdco were allotted to Grant Scott ("Scott") in 2011 but as will be discussed herein, were transferred to Patrick in 2021. See Exhibit 12 [Register of Management Shares DAF Holdco]. The Directors are currently Mr. Patrick and Mr. Paul Murphy. See Exhibit 37 [DAF Holdco - Register of Directors]. The Participating Shares of DAF

Holdco are held by the "Supporting Organizations," which are Highland Kanas City Foundation [32.78%], Highland Dallas Foundation [32.78%], Highland Santa Barbara Foundation [32.78%], and Highland Community Foundation of North Texas [1.63%].[8] See Exhibit 13 [Register of Participating Shares DAF Holdco].

27. As set forth in the DAF Fund LP Agreement, DAF Fund's investments are for the benefit of the equity owners of DAF Holdco which were required to be non-profit organizations. The Supporting Organizations are those non-profit organizations.

d) DAF GP

28. DAF GP is a limited liability company organized under the laws of Delaware. See Exhibit 14 [Certificate of Formation of DAF GP]. Again, DAF GP is the general partner of DAF Fund who manages and controls DAF Fund. Prior to March 2021, 100% of the limited liability company interests in the DAF GP (the "DAF GP Membership Interests") were held by Mr. Scott. Mr. Scott transferred all of the DAF GP Membership Interests to Mr. Patrick. Exhibit 15 [Assignment and Assumption of Membership Interests Agreement Dated March 24, 2021].

29. As shown by the Exhibits hereto, Dondero holds no ownership, officer, or director status in any of: CLO HoldCo; DAF Fund; DAF HoldCo; or DAF GP.

e) The Supporting Organizations

30. As mentioned, the Supporting Organizations are Highland Dallas Foundation, Highland Kansas City Foundation, Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, and Highland Community Foundation of North Texas. These Supporting Organizations were established by the Foundations.

---

[8] The Court has not included Highland Community Foundation of North Texas in its Disclosures Order.

- Highland Dallas Foundation

31. Highland Dallas Foundation is a corporation incorporated in 2011 under the laws of Delaware. Exhibit 16 [HDF Certificate of Incorporation]. The Highland Dallas Foundation was and is organized and operated exclusively for charitable, educational and scientific purposes within the meaning of Section 501(c)(3) of the IRS Code. Exhibit 17 [IRS Determination - HDF].

32. The Highland Dallas Foundation supports and benefits the Dallas Foundation. See HDF Certificate of Incorporation, Exhibit 18 [Narrative Description of Activities]. The Dallas Foundation is a third-party and is the oldest community foundation in Texas.

33. As set forth in the attached letter from the President and Chief Executive Officer of the Dallas Foundation, the Dallas Foundation is a Texas nonprofit corporation, and is the successor in interest to Dallas Community Trust, a charitable trust which was formed in 1929. Exhibit 19 [reserved for supplementation]. The Dallas Foundation has hundreds of donors with whom it works regularly to make charitable grants supporting numerous worthy causes and regularly utilizes donor-advised funds and supporting organizations to carry out its charitable mission. Id.

34. The Highland Dallas Foundation is a membership corporation, and its members have the ultimate authority to elect its Board of Directors. Id. Exhibit 20 [HDF Bylaws]. The Highland Dallas Foundation has two (2) classes of members, an "Institutional Member" (the TDF), and an "Individual Member" (Mr. Dondero). Id.

35. The Institutional Member has two (2) votes and the Individual Member has only one (1) vote on any matter submitted to the members. Id. Further, the Institutional Member elects two (2) of Highland Dallas Foundation's three (3) directors, and the Individual Member elects one (1) director. Id. The Board of Directors of Highland Dallas Foundation consists of Mr. Dondero, Julie Diaz (Chief Philanthropic Partnerships Officer of TDF) and Matthew Randazzo (President & Chief Executive Officer of Dallas Foundation). Mr. Dondero serves as President, Mr. Randazzo serves as Vice President and Ms. Diaz serves as Secretary and Treasurer.

36. So while Mr. Dondero is a member with some level of influence within the Highland Dallas Foundation, he has 1/3 of the voting power, where TDF employees have 2/3 of voting power.

37. The Highland Dallas Foundation is an independent supporting organization of the Dallas Foundation. While Mr. Dondero is on the Board of Directors and is President of the Highland Dallas Foundation, it cannot be said to be "under the control" (de facto or otherwise) of Mr. Dondero, because of the control of the Board of Directors held by the Dallas Foundation.

- Highland Santa Barbara Foundation

38. The Highland Santa Barbara Foundation was formed in November 2011 as a Delaware nonprofit nonstock corporate to operate exclusively for the benefit of, to perform the functions of, or carry out the purposes of Santa Barbara Foundation. See Exhibit 21 [HSBF Certificate of Incorporation]; Exhibit 22 [IRS Determination - HSBF].

39. The Santa Barbara Foundation is a third-party community foundation incorporated in 1928 as a nonprofit corporation to enrich the lives of the people of Santa Barbara County through philanthropy. Exhibit 23 [SBF Letter Overview]. The Santa Barbara Foundation funds a wide range of initiatives, projects, and organizations and has supported nearly every Santa Barbara County nonprofit organization and essential community sproject during its 93-year history. Id.

40. Similarly to the Dallas Foundation, the Santa Barbara Foundation works with entities organized under Section 509(a)(3) of IRS Code as supporting organizations to Santa Barbara Foundation for the specific and primary purpose of benefiting, performing functions of, and engaging in activities consistent with Santa Barbara Foundation's charitable purposes. Id. Highland Santa Barbara Foundation is one such supporting organization. Id.

41. Again as is common amongst supporting organizations, Highland Santa Barbara Foundation has two classes of members, institutional and individual, and one member in each class. Id., see also Bylaws HSBF. Santa Barbara Foundation is the institutional member and Mr. Dondero is the individual member. Highland Santa Barbara Foundation has three directors, two elected by SBF and one elected by Mr. Dondero. The president, secretary, and any other officers of HSBF are elected by the three directors. Id. The directors are Mr. Dondero, Jacqueline M. Carrera (President & CEO of SBF), and Arnold Brier (Santa Barbara County community volunteer). Currently, Mr. Dondero serves as President, Jacqueline M. Carrera as Vice President, and the Secretary position is vacant pending board of directors election.

42. Again, while Mr. Dondero positions in the Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, it is certainly not under his "de facto" control, nor do the other directors and officers act under Mr. Dondero's direction. The Highland Santa Barbara Foundation is an independent supporting organization of the Santa Barbara Foundation, and is controlled by the Santa Barbara Foundation. Imputing a lack of independence based on what is a typical structure for supporting organization management sets a unwarrantable precedent for charitable organizations.

- Highland Kansas City Foundation

43. Highland Kansas City Foundation was and is organized and operated exclusively for charitable, educational and scientific purposes within the meaning of Section 501(c)(3) of the IRS Code, and to support and benefit the Greater Kansas City Community Foundation ("GKCCF"). See Exhibit 24 [GKCCF Certificate of Formation].

44. The Greater Kansas City Community Foundation was created in 1978 and manages over $4 billion in assets, and again uses donor-advised funds and supporting organizations. See Exhibit 25 [GKCCF Letter]. As explained by the President & CEO of Greater Kansas City Community Foundation, Highland Kansas City Foundation is one of 18 supporting organizations that Greater Kansas City Community Foundation works with. Id.

45. Highland Kansas City Foundation has two classes of members, institutional and individual, and one member in each class. See Exhibit 26 [Bylaws HKCF]. Greater Kansas City Community Foundation is the institutional member and Mr. Dondero is the individual member.

46. The Directors of Highland Kansas City Foundation are: Brenda Chumley (Senior Vice President of Greater Kansas City Community Foundation), Mr. Dondero, and Deborah Wilkerson (the President & CEO of Greater Kansas City Community Foundation). The Highland Kansas City Foundation has not named officers. All three directors approve grants by unanimous consent.

f) Mr. Patrick's role

47. Prior to March 24, 2021, Mr. Scott was the holder of Management Shares in the DAF Holdco. On March 24, 2021, Mr. Scott executed the Share Transfer Form, in which he transferred the management shares in DAF Holdco to Mr. Patrick. Exhibit 27 [Share Transfer Form]. Further on March 24, 2021, Mr. Scott and Mr. Patrick entered into that certain Assignment and Assumption of Membership Interest whereby Mr. Scott assigned and Mr. Patrick assumed one hundred percent of the limited liability company interest in the DAF GP. See Assignment and Assumption Agreement.

48. As the holder of the management shares in DAF Holdco, Mr. Patrick executed a resolution removing Mr. Scott as Director and appointing Mr. Patrick as Director. Exhibit 28 [March 25 Resolution - DAF Holdco].

49. On April 2, 2021, Mr. Patrick, as holder of one hundred percent of the interest in DAF GP, executed the shareholder resolution removing Mr. Scott as Director of CLO HoldCo and appointing Mr. Patrick as director. Exhibit 29 [April 2 Resolution - CLO HoldCo].

50. While on paper the switch from Mr. Scott to Mr. Patrick was completed, it became obvious that this switch would be practically more complicated. Therefore, there was a transitional period wherein Mr. Scott had to continue to authorize certain actions with Mr. Patrick assisting him. As of the date of filing, Mr. Scott no longer has authority/ control over the Charitable Respondents.

51. After Mr. Patrick's appointment, he determined that given the breadth of issues facing the Charitable Respondents, including but not limited to the Adversary Proceeding, it would be in the best interest of DAF Holdco, CLO HoldCo and others for another director to be appointed. As such, on April 22, 2021, Paul Murphy was appointed a director of DAF Holdco and CLO HoldCo. Exhibit 30 [Written Resolution - Murphy].

II. The Charitable Respondents have donated tens of millions of dollars to charitable causes

52. The Court included the Charitable Respondents and Non-Party Targets as part of what it terms — borrowing from the Committee's verbiage in the Adversary Proceeding — Mr. Dondero's "byzantine" empire and made sua sponte assertions regarding their lack of independence and Mr. Dondero's "de facto" control. Again, as will be set forth herein, these findings are procedurally improper and highly prejudicial to the Charitable Defendants. But most importantly, they are wrong.

53. The Charitable Respondents are part of a charitable structure that donates tens of millions of dollars to charitable causes focusing on education; support for military, veterans, and first responders; health and medical research; economic and community development initiatives; and youth and family. See Exhibit 31 [Charitable Giving Overview, Grant Summary: 2012-2020].

54. Since 2012, the Supporting Organizations have committed over $42 million to nonprofit organizations, and have funded $32 million of the total commitments (with the remaining commitments being comprised of future scheduled installments). Id.

55. The Supporting Organizations' charitable giving has made a tangible impact on some of the most vulnerable including grants to the Dallas Children's Advocacy Center which serves over 8,000 abused children a year and The Family Place which serves more than 11,000 victims of family violence. Id. The CEO of The Family Place has submitted a letter in support which is attached hereto as Exhibit 32 [The Family Place Letter]. The Family Place empowers victims of family violence by providing safe housing and counseling, and identifies its partnership with the Highland Dallas Foundation as "instrumental" in providing community exposure and awareness of domestic violence as well as providing essential services to family violence victims. Id. As stated by the CEO, The Family Violence Place would not be able to successfully serve its domestic violence clients without this support.

56. Cristo Rey Dallas also submitted a letter in support of the Highland Dallas Foundation which is submitted herewith as Exhibit 33 [Cristo Rey Letter]. Cristo Rey Dallas provides college preparatory high school curriculum accessible to those of limited financial resources. Highland Dallas Foundation provided impactful donations which allow Crito Rey Dallas to provide services to its 465 students, including funding work study programs and remote work places during COVID-19 pandemic. Id.

57. Dallas Children's Advocacy Center submitted a letter in support of the Highland Dallas Foundation which is submitted herewith as Exhibit 34 [DCAC Letter]. Dallas Children's Advocacy Center's mission is to improve the lives of abused children in Dallas County and to provide national leadership on child abuse issues. Id. Highland Dallas Foundation has robustly supported this mission since 2016, including providing funding that has been critical to the sustainability of its programs. Id.

58. The Supporting Organizations' grants to the Center for BrainHealth helped provide and training other programming to members of the military, veterans, and local law enforcements to improve their congestive health. See Charitable Giving Overview.

59. The Friends of the Dallas Police grants show appreciation to men and women who risk their lives every day to make Dallas a safer city and the Supporting Organizations have funded awards programs and educational sponsorships for children of police officers. Id.

60. The Charitable Respondents invite the Court, and others who have characterized the Supporting Organizations as mere "puppets" of Mr. Dondero, to review the Charitable Giving Overview provided herewith as well as the letters in support from The Family Place, Cristo Rey Dallas, Dallas Children's Advocacy Center, the Santa Barbara Foundation, and the Highland Kansas City Foundation. The Charitable Respondents have and will continue to make meaningful impacts on the communities they serve through the tens of millions of dollars of philanthropic giving they facilitate.

III. CLO HoldCo and DAF Fund may be creditors of the Debtor

61. In the Disclosures Order, the Court requires all entities to state whether the entity is a creditor of the Debtor and explain in reasonable detail the amount and substance of its claims. Disclosures Order, p. 13.

62. All claims bar dates have long since passed [see General Claims Bar Date Order [Dkt. No. 498].

63. The Court states that CLO HoldCo filed two proofs of claim. Disclosures Order, p. 11. This is not correct. CLO HoldCo filed a proof of claim on April 8, 2020 [Proof of Claim No. 133] and on October 21, 2021, CLO HoldCo amended that same proof of claim [Proof of Claim No. 198] (the "Amended Proof of Claim"). In the Amended Proof of Claim, CLO HoldCo explained that as a result of certain proceedings that effectuated a termination of the Debtor's participation interests in the funds referred to in the CLO HoldCo proof of claim, such termination served to cancel the CLO HoldCo interests, as well, as the CLO HoldCo interests were in effect derivative of the Debtor's interests. Accordingly, the Amended Proof of Claim reflected that the CLO HoldCo claim was reduced to $0.00, and therefore resolved.

64. The Court stated in the Disclosures Order that it was unaware of whether DAF Holdco, DAF Fund, Highland Dallas Foundation, Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, or Highland Kansas City Foundation filed proofs of claims (notwithstanding this "uncertainty" the Court deemed it appropriate nevertheless to try to compel appearance). Disclosures Order, p. 11. A review of the Court's Claims Register and that of the Debtor's claims and noticing agent reflects that none of these entities filed proofs of claim against the Debtor.

65. Therefore, none of the Charitable Respondents are pre-petition creditors of the Debtor, as the claims bar date has long since passed and no claims were filed which have not been fully resolved.

66. It is unclear from the Disclosures Order whether the Court is referring to the term "creditor" as defined in section 101(10) of the Bankruptcy Code or using creditor as a lay term. If it is the former, the Charitable Respondents are not creditors of the Debtor. See 11 U.S.C. § 101(10) (defining a "creditor" an entity that has a claim against the debtor that arose at the time of or before the order for relief concerning the debtor).

67. As the Court is aware from the Show Cause Hearing, CLO HoldCo and DAF Fund filed the District Court Suit against the Debtor. The causes of action asserted by CLO HoldCo and DAF Fund arose after the order for relief. Exhibit 35 [Complaint]. The substance of these claims is set forth in the Complaint.

IV. The Disclosures Order is procedurally improper and the Court has no power to institute sua sponte investigations into hypothetical standing.

68. The Charitable Defendants have fully complied with the Court's Disclosures Order and provided the Court with complete information regarding: (a) who owns each entity, (b) whether Mr. Donerdo or his family trusts have direct or indirect ownership, (c) who the officers, directors, and managers are, and (d) whether the entity is a creditor of the Debtor. The Charitable Defendants have done so because they were expressly ordered by the Court do; however, the Disclosures Order is procedurally improper and highly prejudicial.

a) The Court does not have the power to require non-parties to provide it with disclosures.

69. The Charitable Defendants are those named entities who have made appearances before this Court. The Court does not have the power to order production or disclosures from non-parties including the Non-Party Targets.

70. In the Disclosures Order, the Court states that the order is issued "sua sponte pursuant to Section 105 of the Bankruptcy Code and the court's inherent ability to efficiently monitor its docket and evaluate the standing of parties who ask for relief in the above-referenced case." Disclosures Order, p. 1. But yet, the Disclosures Order goes on to target entities who have never asked for the relief in the Bankruptcy Case.

71. Of course, it is undisputed that the Court has the inherent power to manage its own docket "to ensure the orderly and expeditious disposition of cases." Berry v. CIGNA/RSI-CIGNA, 975 F.2d 1188, 1191 (5th Cir. 1992) (quoting Link v. Wabash R.R. Co., 370 U.S. 626, 630-31 (1962)). But this inherent authority is limited, as is the Court's authority pursuant to section 105 of the Bankruptcy Code. Matter of Ward, 978 F.3d 298, 303 (5th Cir. 2020) (noting that "the powers afforded to bankruptcy courts pursuant to § 105, however, are not unlimited").

72. In Energy Gathering, the Fifth Circuit considered whether the district court could sua sponte order a party's attorney, a non-party to the case, to produce documents. See Nat. Gas Pipeline Co. of Am. v. Energy Gathering, Inc., 2 F.3d 1397, 1412 (5th Cir. 1993). In that case, the district court found that the attorney had purposefully withheld documents from the court, and "ordered [him] to produce every document in his possession relating to [his client] or business he had done with [his client]." Id. at 1404. The district court did not explain the source of its perceived authority to do so. See id. at 1405.

73. On appeal by the attorney, the plaintiffs asserted that the district court had the inherent authority to order him to produce documents. Id. at 1406. The Fifth Circuit disagreed with the plaintiffs. See id. at 1408-09. Specifically addressing whether the district court had the inherent authority to issue its order, the Fifth Circuit acknowledged that the district court had certain limited power "to conduct discovery not recognized by rule or statute," observing that federal courts "possess[ ] all of the common law equity tools of a Chancery Court (subject, of course, to congressional limitation) to process litigation to a just and equitable conclusion." Id. at 1409. The Fifth Circuit suggested that the district court had the inherent authority to order the attorney to produce documents—if at all—under its power to issue a "bill of discovery," a common law "chancery tool" that the Supreme Court has described as "the forerunner of all modern discovery procedures." Id. at 1409. But recognizing that bills of discovery "could not be used to obtain documents (or other discovery) from someone who was not a party," the Fifth Circuit therefore concluded that district courts do not have the inherent authority to order non-parties to produce discovery. Id.

74. Important here, the Fifth Circuit noted the impropriety of the sua sponte investigation by the district court. Id. at 1411 (noting "factors [that] contribute to the order's unreasonableness" as being the sua sponte nature of the order and that the "court engaged in a fishing expedition"). Expressly relying upon the Energy Gathering opinion, the court in Thompson v. Gonzales determined that the court lacked inherent authority to order disclosures from non-parties. Thompson v. Gonzales, No. 1:15-CV-301-LJO-EPG, 2016 WL 5404436, at *8 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 27, 2016).

b) The Court's sua sponte investigation into hypothetical standing is improper.

75. As the Fifth Circuit noted in Energy Gatherings and this Court and others numerous have many times since, inherent authority "is not a broad reservoir of power, ready at an imperial hand, but a limited source; an implied power squeezed from the need to make the court function." NASCO, Inc. v. Calcasieu Television & Radio, Inc., 894 F.2d 696, 702 (5th Cir.1990); In re Saldana, 531 B.R. 141, 166 (Bankr. N.D. Tex.), aff'd in part, remanded in part, 534 B.R. 678 (N.D. Tex. 2015).

76. Here, the Court has launched a sua sponte investigation into parties under the stated purpose of evaluating their hypothetical standing.

77. The American adversarial system differs from its European (and other) inquisitorial counterparts in that its central features are "party presentation of evidence and arguments" for resolution before a "neutral and passive decision maker[]." Adam Milani & Michael Smith, Playing God: A Critical Look at Sua Sponte Decisions by Appellate Courts, 69 TENN. L. REV. 245, 272 & n.143 (2002); see also United States v. Sineneng-Smith, 140 S. Ct. 1575, 1579 (2020); Greenlaw v. United States, 554 U.S. 237, 243 (2008); Wood v. Milyard, 566 U.S. 463, 472 (2012).

78. The judge "does not (as an inquisitor does) conduct the factual and legal investigation himself, but instead decides on the basis of facts and arguments pro and con adduced by the parties." Sanchez-Llamas v. Oregon, 548 U.S. 331, 356 (2006) (quotation omitted). Thus,"[i]t is normally incumbent on each party to prove its claims," and a sua sponte investigation upsets the normal burden of persuasion between the parties." Domitille Baizeau and Tessa Hayes, The Arbitral Tribunal's Duty and Power to Address Corruption Sua Sponte, in Andrea Menaker (ed), International Arbitration and the Rule of Law: Contribution and Conformity, ICCA Congress Series, Volume 19, pp. 225 -265.

79. Thus, federal courts have been instructed to restrain from conducting such an inquest which is antithetical to the American adversarial system. Simon v. Taylor, 794 F. App'x 703, 718 (10th Cir. 2019) (noting that scientific evidence involving environmental contamination from the district court's own sua sponte investigation cannot be considered); Wood, 566 U.S. at 472 ("federal court does not have carte blanche to depart from the principle of party presentation basic to our adversary system"); Castro v. United States, 540 U.S. 375, 381–383, 124 S.Ct. 786, 157 L.Ed.2d 778 (2003).

80. The Court asserts that it launched its investigation because standing is an issue of subject matter jurisdiction and that it must gain "clarity" with regard to standing. Disclosures Order, p. 2. But what the Court proposes to do is render an impermissible advisory opinion on the hypothetical standing of the various entities, including some of have never filed a pleading in the Bankruptcy Case. How can this Court have blanket power to compel investigation of entities that have never made appearances before the Court, or that have only been made parties because they have been sued, on the purported ground it needs to investigate standing? As shown here, it cannot.

81. A bankruptcy case itself is not a justiciable controversy; rather, it is the individual proceedings (contested matters or adversary proceedings) which create a justiciable case or controversy.[9] Here, there is no proceeding, and instead, the Court expressly stated that it will determine standing sua sponte pursuant to section 105 of the Bankruptcy Code. While this general rule of justiciablity standing alone would prohibit such a determination, evaluating a party's hypothetical standing absent a justiciable controversy is acutely problematic. See Uberoi v. Labarga, 769 F. App'x 692, 697 (11th Cir. 2019) ("The Court should not speculate concerning the existence of standing."); Navtech US Surveyors USSA Inc. v. Boat/Us Inc., No. 219CV184FTM99MRM, 2019 WL 3219667, at *2 (M.D. Fla. July 17, 2019) (noting that advisory opinions on standing are improper).

82. This is because "standing is not dispensed in gross," rather, standing must be established for each claim a party seeks to press and for each form of relief that is sought. Brackeen v. Haaland, 994 F.3d 249, 291 (5th Cir. 2021) (quoting Town of Chester v. Laroe Estates, Inc., ––– U.S. ––––, 137 S. Ct. 1645, 1650, 198 L.Ed.2d 64 (2017) and Davis v. Fed. Election Comm'n, 554 U.S. 724, 734, 128 S.Ct. 2759, 171 L.Ed.2d 737 (2008)).

83. This is rule is no less applicable in a bankruptcy case. The Bankruptcy Code does not define "party in interest," offering instead a non-exclusive list of who "may raise and may appear and be heard on any issue" in cases under chapter 11. In re Friede Goldman Halter Inc.,

[9] Ralph Brubaker, On the Nature of Federal Bankruptcy Jurisdiction: A General Statutory and Constitutional Theory, 41 WM. & MARY L. REV. 743, 832 (2000); Ralph Brubaker, Of State Sovereign Immunity and Prospective Remedies: The Bankruptcy Discharge As Statutory Ex Parte Young Relief, 76 AM. BANKR. L.J. 461, 563 (2002) (explaining that: "the appropriate constitutional explanation for the entirety of federal bankruptcy jurisdiction materializes only when one recognizes that the fundamental jurisdictional unit in bankruptcy is an individual bankruptcy 'proceeding' raising a justiciable controversy between adverse parties.").

600 B.R. 526, 530–31 (Bankr. S.D. Miss. 2019). "The lack of definition was intentional." In re Delta Underground Storage Co., Inc., 165 B.R. 596, 598 (Bankr. S.D. Miss. 1994).

84. Congress' failure to define a party in interest specifically was discussed by both Senator DeConcini and Representative Edwards during the proceedings preceding the enactment of the Code. Senator DeConcini stated:

> Rules of bankruptcy procedure or court decisions will determine who is a party in interest for the particular purposes of the provision in question.' 124 Cong.Rec. § 12407 (daily ed. Oct. 6, 1978).... Party in interest is an expandable concept depending on the particular factual context in which it is applied.

*Id. (*citing In re North American Oil & Gas, Inc., 130 B.R. 473, 479 (Bankr.W.D.Tex.1990)) (emphasis added). Congress has thus expressly directed that standing in a bankruptcy case must be determined in the particular proceeding before the bankruptcy court.

85. But here, there is no "particular purpose" or "particular factual context" in which this Court can properly evaluate party in interest standing. Instead, it appears that the Court proposes to render an advisory opinion on the named entities' standing to file pleadings without any requisite justiciable controversy before it. But none of this makes sense, with respect to entities not before the Court or only before the Court in capacity as defendants. In fact the Disclosures Order appears to be more of an investigation to find evidence that the Court could point to as supporting its assertions about Dondero's de facto control.

86. Additionally, the Court further states that beyond determining the hypothetical standing of such parties, it also must "ascertain whether their interests are sufficiently aligned such that the parties might be required to file joint pleadings hence forth, rather than each file pleadings that are similar in content." Disclosures Order, p. 1. What the Court is describing are pre-filing injunctions, which "are an extreme remedy" that courts should not issue "with undue haste because such sanctions can tread on a litigant's due process right of access to the courts." Franklin v.

Laughlin, No. SA-10-CV-1027 XR, 2011 WL 598489, at *7 (W.D. Tex. Jan. 13, 2011), report and recommendation adopted, No. SA-10-CV-1027-XR, 2011 WL 672328 (W.D. Tex. Feb. 15, 2011).

87. Specifically, the Fifth Circuit has explained that:

> "In determining whether it should impose a pre-filing injunction or should modify an existing injunction to deter vexatious filings, a court must weigh all the relevant circumstances. Four factors must be specifically considered: (1) the party's history of litigation, in particular whether he has filed vexatious, harassing, or duplicative lawsuits; (2) whether the party had a good faith basis for pursuing the litigation, or simply intended to harass; (3) the extent of the burden on the courts and other parties resulting from the party's filings; and (4) the adequacy of alternative sanctions.

Baum v. Blue Moon Ventures, LLC, 513 F.3d 181, 189 (5th Cir. 2008).

88. What is more, this purported reason makes no sense, as multiple entities the Court seeks to compel have never made an appearance and the Court has no basis to even suspect that they might make an appearance. With respect to parties who have filed pleadings, for example the Charitable Defendants, the Court already knows that Highland Dallas Foundation and CLO HoldCo have filed joint pleadings within the Adversary Proceeding (a single motion to dismiss for failure to state claims and a single motion to withdraw reference). The Non-Party Targets are nowhere to be found within the Bankruptcy Case or any proceedings before the Court; yet the Court must conduct an investigation into these entities to see whether to compel the filing of joint pleadings? Cannot be.

c) The Disclosures Order is not just improper, it is prejudicial.

89. As this Court is aware, the Charitable Defendants are defendants in the Adversary Proceeding instituted by the Committee (DAF Fund and DAF Holdco are also defendants, though yet unserved—despite the Adversary Proceeding being pending for over 6 months). Central to the Committee's claims against the Charitable Defendants are the conclusions posing as allegation(s) that the Charitable Defendants are part of civil conspiracy to fraudulently transaction assets out of the estate orchestrated by Mr. Dondero whom the Committee characterized as: standing on top of byzantine empire, moving assets and funds from one entity to another to meet various needs. See Adversary Proceeding, Dkt. No. 6, ¶2. (Sounds familiar).

90. In the Disclosures Order, the Court, seemingly already deciding this highly disputed issue in the Adversary Proceeding (which is not even a dispute—CLO HoldCo and Highland Dallas Foundation have filed a (joint) motion to dismiss under Rule 7012 for failure to state a claim), as it borrows the Committee's "byzantine" characterization and states that the targets of its Disclosures Order "appear to be under the de facto control of Mr. Dondero" and that the DAF Fund's decisions are "presumably at Mr. Dondero's direction." (the word "byzantine" is a much overworked word within this Bankruptcy Case, and its proceedings, pleadings, and orders of this Court). Disclosures Order, pp. 5, 11. This constitutes direct, specific, and express pre-judgment by this Court, and, of course, has tainted the Adversary Proceeding.

91. First and foremost, as shown herein, these assertions/findings are wrong. The Charitable Respondents and Non-Party Targets comprise an independent charitable giving structure that has facilitated the donation of tens of millions of dollars to important philanthropic causes. They are not under the de facto control of Mr. Dondero nor does Mr. Dondero direct their decisions—though like any donor would expect, Mr. Dondero has some say in the causes which the Supporting Organizations donate to.

92. But the fact that the Court has made these assertions/findings sua sponte outside of the Adversary Proceeding (or any case or controversy), when it has no authority to adjudicate the Adversary Proceeding (that is the subject of a motion to withdraw reference), is highly prejudicial to the Charitable Defendants. This Court, in its assumed posture as investigative body as well as prosecutor and decider, has given cover to the utterly conclusory assertions of the Committee, and has, practically, joined the Committee as a plaintiff.

93. At an absolute minimum, the Court should refrain from deciding or even commenting upon contested issues of law and fact sua sponte outside of the Adversary Proceeding, and should retract its supposed findings (issued under the transparently incorrect suggestion of its power to manage its own docket [by pre-screening parties for standing????? - again, the case law cited above shows this is not proper]). The Charitable Respondents urge the Court, particularly after reviewing the information and documents provided in this Response and Disclosures, to reconsider such findings, and respectfully request that this Court retract its Disclosure Order or at least the problematic content therein.

CONCLUSION

By this Response and the Disclosures, the Charitable Respondents have fully complied with this Court's Disclosures Order, but have done so with the express reservations concerning the impropriety of the Disclosures Order and the non-appearance or submission by the Non-Party Targets. But most important to the Charitable Respondents is that the Court closely review this Response and Disclosures and reconsider its assumptions/assertions/findings/conclusion that the Charitable Respondents are under the de facto control of or act at the direction of Mr. Dondero. The Charitable Respondents are real, independent charitable giving vehicles that have affected, very positively, the lives of countless people through the tens of millions of dollars donated to important philanthropic causes.

IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

In re:	§	Case No. 19-34054-sgj11
HIGHLAND CAPITAL MANAGEMENT,	§
L.P.,	§	Chapter 11
Debtor	§	Relates to Dkt. No. 2460

Declaration of Mark Patrick

I, Mark Patrick, hereby declare as follows:

1. My name is Mark Patrick, and I am over the age of 21. I have personal knowledge of the facts set forth herein, and make this declaration pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746.

2. I am a Director of Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. and the managing member of the sole general partner of Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. (Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. and Charitable DAF Fund, L.P., and their direct and indirect subsidiaries will be referred to herein as the "DAF"). A more robust discussion of these entities and their interrelation is set forth in the Response and Disclosures (defined herein).

3. I appreciate the opportunity to describe the important charitable work the DAF is doing through its charitable beneficiaries.

4. Since its inception in 2012, the DAF has had a significant impact in the communities where the supporting organizations that are the DAF's beneficiaries deploy their capital. In fact, such supporting organizations have funded more than $32 million in charitable contributions to numerous non-profit organizations. The DAF's charitable commitments are in excess of $42 million. The non-profit organizations that have received support from the DAF include The Family Place, which provides emergency shelter to those in need, and the Dallas Children's Advocacy Center, which serves the needs of abused and neglected children. A more detailed summary of the DAF's charitable impact is an exhibit filed with the Response and Disclosures referenced herein.

5. I ultimately agreed to take on the roles I currently hold with the DAF because I believe in the causes the DAF is supporting. In college, I was a guardian ad litem for abused and neglected children. I have seen firsthand how the DAF is helping people every day who are struggling with abuse or difficult life situations. I have visited the Cristo Rey Dallas school campus, where low income and disadvantaged children are receiving a high-quality education that they otherwise would likely not receive.

6. The actions taken by me on behalf of the DAF in connection with the bankruptcy case of Highland Capital Management, L.P., and the lawsuit I authorized to be filed on behalf of CLO Holdco, Ltd. and DAF Fund against Highland Capital Management, L.P., were done so the DAF can continue to support these worthy causes. I am only trying to protect the DAF's investments, which are the source of the millions in charitable contributions the DAF has made over the past decade.

7. My actions aren't taken under the direction of James Dondero, or to somehow protect a direct or indirect economic benefit Mr. Dondero receives from the DAF. As the Response and Disclosures set forth in greater detail, Mr. Dondero has no direct or indirect economic ownership in the DAF.

8. My concern in vigorously pursuing claims for the DAF, or defending claims against the DAF, is to protect the DAF's investments from being taken by creditors who have no credible basis to obtain such investments.

9. I have been provided with and reviewed this Court's Order Requiring Disclosures (the "Disclosures Order").

10. In my capacity with the DAF, I assisted counsel in preparing the Response and Disclosures related to the Disclosures Order on behalf of CLO Holdco, Ltd., Charitable DAF Fund, L.P., and Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. (the "Response and Disclosures," and capitalized terms used herein which are not otherwise defined are as defined in the Response and Disclosures).

11. With respect to the documents and Exhibits provided by the Foundations about the Supporting Organizations and Non-Party Targets I or those acting under my direction dealt with the Foundations to obtain such information. Multiple Exhibits have already been provided as evidence to the Bankruptcy Court at the Show Cause Hearing. I have reviewed the exhibits to the Response and Disclosures and affirm that the Exhibits provided about the Charitable Respondents are true and correct copies of what each document is identified as in the Response and Disclosures. With respect to the documents and Exhibits provided by the Foundations, I affirm, upon information and belief that these Exhibits are true and correct copies of what each document is identified as in the Response and Disclosures. As I am not a person with authority over the Supporting Organizations I cannot identify such documents and Exhibits of my own personal knowledge, but am satisfied that I can upon information and belief.

12. I have reviewed the Response and Disclosures and certify that the factual recitations therein are accurate.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Q Was there any effort whatsoever to hide the prior order of the Bankruptcy Court?

A No.

MR. ANDERSON: Pass the witness.

THE COURT: Okay. Other examination?

MR. SBAITI: Yes, Your Honor. Just a couple of questions.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. SBAITI:

Q Do you mind flipping to Exhibit 25, which I believe is the org chart, the one that you were looking at before?

A Okay.

Q It'll still be in --

A Okay. Yeah.

Q -- the defense binder. No reason to swap out right now.

A I've got the right binders. Some of them are repeatable exhibits, so --

Q Yeah.

A -- I have to grab the right binder. Yes.

Q As this org chart would sit today, is the only difference that Grant Scott's name would instead be Mark Patrick?

A Yes.

Q Was there ever a period of time where Jim Dondero's name would sit instead of Grant Scott's name prior?

A Yes, originally, when this -- yes.

Q So did Mr. Dondero both have the control shares of the GP, LLC and DAF Holdco Limited?
A No, I believe not. I believe he only held the Charitable DAF GP interest and that Mr. Scott at all times held the Charitable DAF Holdco, LTD interest, until he decided to transfer it to me.
Q Can you just tell us how Mr. Scott came to hold the control shares of the Charitable DAF Holdco, LTD?
A When he was the independent trustee of the Charitable Remainder Trust, he caused that -- the creation of that entity, and that's how he became in receipt of those management shares.
Q And does the Charitable DAF GP, LLC have any control over Charitable DAF Fund, LP's actions or activities?
A Yes, it does.
Q What kind of control is that?
A I would describe complete control. It's the managing member of that entity and can -- and effectively owns, you know, the hundred percent interest in the respective subsidiaries, and so the control follows down.
Q And when did Mr. Scott replace Mr. Dondero as the GP -- managing member of the GP?
A Well, I think as the -- and Mr. Morris had shown me with respect to that transfer occurring on March 2012.
Q So nine years ago?

A Yes.
Q Does Mr. Dondero today exercise any control over the activities of the DAF Charitable -- the Charitable DAF, GP or the Charitable DAF Holdco, LTD?
A No.
Q Is he a board member of sorts for either of those entities?
A No.
Q Is he a board members of CLO Holdco?
A No.
Q Does he have any decision-making authority at CLO Holdco?
A None.
Q The decision to authorize the lawsuit and the decision to authorize the motion that you've been asked about, who made that authorization?
A I did.
Q Did you have to ask for anyone's permission?
A No.

MR. SBAITI: No more questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Any -- I guess Mr. Taylor, no. All right. Any redirect?

REDIRECT EXAMINATION

BY MR. MORRIS:
Q Since becoming the authorized representative of the Plaintiffs, have you ever made a decision on behalf of those entities that Mr. Dondero disagreed with?

A I have made decisions that were adverse to Mr. Dondero's financial -- financial decision. I mean, financial interests. Whether he disagreed with them or not, I don't -- he has not communicated them to me. But they have been adverse, at least two very strong instances.

Q Have you ever -- have you ever talked to him about making a decision that would be adverse to his interests? Did he tell -- did --

A I didn't -- I don't -- I did not discuss with him prior to making the decisions that I made that were adverse to his economic interests.

MR. MORRIS: Okay. No further questions, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Any further examination? Recross on that redirect?

MR. ANDERSON: No further questions.

MR. SBAITI: No further questions, Your Honor.

MR. ANDERSON: Sorry.

THE COURT: Nothing?

MR. ANDERSON: I think we're good.

THE COURT: Okay. I have one question, Mr. Patrick. My brain sometimes goes in weird directions.

EXAMINATION BY THE COURT

THE COURT: I'm just curious. What are these Cayman Island entities, charitable organizations formed in the Cayman

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

THE WITNESS: The offshore master fund structure typically will have two different types of -- they call it foreign feeder funds. One foreign feeder fund is meant to accommodate foreign investors; the other foreign feeder fund is meant to accommodate U.S. tax-exempt investors.

Why, why is it structured that way? In order to avoid something called -- I was trying not to be wonkish -- UBTI. That's, let's see, Un -- Unrelated Trader Business Income. I probably have that slightly wrong. But it's essentially, it's a means to avoid active business income, which includes debt finance income, which is what these CLOs tend to be, that would throw off income that would be taxable normally if the exempts did not go through this foreign blocker, and it converts that UBTI income -- it's called (inaudible) income -- into passive income that flows -- that flows up to the charities.

And so it's very typical that you'll have a U.S. tax-exempt investor, when they make an investment in a fund, prefer to go through an offshore feeder fund, which is actually Charitable DAF Holdco, LTD. That's essentially what, from a tax perspective, represents as a UBTI blocker entity. And then you have the offshore investments being held offshore because there's a variety of safe harbors where the receipt of interest, the portfolio interest exception, is not taxable.

The creation of capital gains or losses under the -- they call it the trading, 864(b) trading safe harbor, is not taxable. So that's why you'll find these structures operating offshore to rely on those safe harbor provisions as well as -- as well as what I indicated with respect to the two type blocker entities. It's very typical and industry practice to organize these way. And so when this was set --

THE COURT: It's very typical in the charitable world to --

THE WITNESS: In the investment management --

THE COURT: -- form this way?

THE WITNESS: In the investment management world, when you have charitable entities that are taking some exposure to assets that are levered, to set this structure up in this way. It was modeled after -- they just call them offshore master fund structures. They're known as Mickey Mouse structures, where you'll have U.S. investors --

THE COURT: Yes. I -- yes, I --

THE WITNESS: -- enter through a U.S. partnership, and the foreign investors enter through a blocker.

THE COURT: It was really just the charitable aspect of this that I was --

THE WITNESS: Yeah. Yeah.

THE COURT: -- getting at.

THE WITNESS: Yeah. No, but I'm just trying to emphasize if --

THE COURT: All right. It's --

THE WITNESS: Yeah.

THE COURT: -- neither here nor there. All right.

MR. SBAITI: Your Honor, may I ask a slightly clarifying leading question on that, because I think I understand what he was trying to say, just for the record?

THE COURT: Well, --

MR. MORRIS: I object.

THE COURT: -- I tell you what. Anyone who wants to ask one follow-up question on the judge's question can do so. Okay? You can go first.

MR. SBAITI: I'll approach, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. SBAITI:

Q Would it be a fair summary of what you were saying a minute ago that the reason the bottom end of that structure is offshore is so that it doesn't get taxed before the money reaches the charities on the U.S. side?

A Tax -- it converts the nature of the income that is being thrown off by the investments so that it becomes a tax friendly income to the tax-exempt entity. Passive income. That's --

Q So, essentially, --

THE COURT: Okay. Okay.

MR. SBAITI: -- so it doesn't get taxed before it hits the --

THE COURT: I said one question.

MR. SBAITI: Sorry, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. He answered it.

MR. PHILLIPS: And I have one question, Your Honor

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. PHILLIPS: I don't know if I need to ask this question, but I'd rather not ask you if I need to ask it.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. PHILLIPS: But if I do, you know, I could --

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. PHILLIPS: Well, okay.

RECROSS-EXAMINATION

BY MR. PHILLIPS:

Q We've talked about the offshore structure. Are the foundations in the top two tiers of the organizational chart offshore entities?

A No.

Q They're --

A They're onshore entities. They're tax-exempt entities.

Q Thank you.

A The investments are offshore.

Q Thank you.

MEMORANDUM

Date: July 9, 2021

To: Mark Patrick

Company: Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. and CLO Holdco, Ltd.

From: Haynes and Boone, LLP, by Kenneth Bezozo

Subject: Donor Advised Funds ("DAFs"), Sponsoring Organizations and Supporting Organizations -- The Reasons for Making Investments in Offshore Jurisdictions

---

1. What are Donor Advised Funds, Sponsoring Organizations and Supporting Organizations?

A donor advised fund, or DAF, is a separately managed charitable investment account established by a donor within a public charity (a section 501(c)(3) organization), which is generally referred to as a sponsor. Sponsors may include a community foundation, university, religious organization, or financial institution. The donor (or the donor's designee) typically maintains certain advisory privileges over the DAF funds or account – specifically with respect to charities that should receive donations, although the DAF account is fully and completely owned and controlled by the sponsor.

In some cases, a sponsor can create as a subsidiary a "supporting organization" which also is a Section 501(c)(3) public charity. A supporting organization is a separate entity controlled by the sponsor through its ability to elect a majority of the supporting organization's governing board. Because of this control, a supporting organization is treated financially as part of a consolidated unit with the sponsor.

Here, for example, The Dallas Foundation formed, and owns and controls, a supporting organization named Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. ("Highland Dallas Foundation") to assist The Dallas Foundation in carrying out its charitable mission in helping support a wide variety of community affairs. Donations were made to the Highland Dallas Foundation as both the sponsor and the supporting organization. The Highland Dallas Foundation from time to time makes distributions of funds to The Dallas Foundation which in turn makes further distributions to local public charities. Exhibit 1 attached shows these above-described entities, as well as other entities referenced herein that are pertinent to this donor advised fund.

2. How Does a Donor Establish a DAF Account?

To establish a DAF fund or account, a donor must make an irrevocable contribution of assets, such as cash, stock or securities or other business or financial assets, to a sponsoring public charity. The donor's contribution is recorded and recognized as a donation to the sponsoring public charity of the DAF. A donor can make additional contributions to the sponsoring organization whenever they choose.

Because a contribution to a sponsoring organization is, for tax purposes, the equivalent of a contribution to a public charity and because the donor gets an immediate tax benefit for the contribution, the contribution, when made, is permanent and irrevocable. This is true even though the donor contribution to the sponsoring organization is in an account that grows tax-free and the donor has advisory rights as to where to invest the assets and donations made from these assets.

Here, the Highland Dallas Foundation is the sponsor of the DAF account which it fully owns and controls. Although the donor has advisory rights regarding investments and donations to charities (by way of a board seat he fills in the supporting organization), the Highland Dallas Foundation has full authority and control over all such decision-making.

3. What Type of Investments Can be Made by a Sponsor/Supporting Organization?

A sponsor and its supporting organization, such as The Dallas Foundation and Highland Dallas Foundation, are able to invest in a wide variety of assets including, but not limited to, marketable securities, financial assets, businesses, real estate, private equity and hedge funds. But because the sponsor and supporting organization are both public charities that are tax-exempt organizations, their investments must take into account all laws that could possibly effect their tax-exempt status.

a. Can a Sponsor and its Supporting Organization Invest in a Hedge Fund, Private Equity Fund or Similar Investment Vehicle?

The short answer is yes, but as stated above, a sponsor and its supporting organization, such as The Dallas Foundation and Highland Dallas Foundation, are both public charities that are tax-exempt organizations. As a strong general rule, a tax-exempt organization will avoid any investments that will subject it to federal or state taxes. A tax-exempt organization is generally exempt from all federal and state taxes except to the extent it receives income classified as unrelated business taxable income (UBTI), which would be taxed at a 21% rate. The term "unrelated business taxable income" generally means the income derived from an unrelated trade or business regularly conducted by the tax-exempt organization. UBTI also can arise from the receipt of income from debt-financed investments, which is why hedge and private equity funds generally utilize a special investment structure to ensure tax-exempt investors do not have UBTI.

To prevent UBTI from flowing through to a tax-exempt organization, a corporation can be utilized to “block” this income at the corporate level, which is accomplished by having a corporation interposed between the tax-exempt organization and the hedge fund, such as The Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. (a corporate blocker) from the Charitable DAF Fund, L.P. Using a structure in this manner is often described as using a "blocker" because the UBTI is blocked out and does not flow through to the tax-exempt investor. Instead, the UBTI is included in the income of, and subject to tax in, the blocker corporation. The blocker corporation thereafter distributes the income to the tax-exempt investor through the payment of dividends which are not UBTI and therefore not taxable to a tax-exempt organization.

Although using a domestic corporate blocker can avoid the problem of having UBTI passed through to a tax-exempt sponsor or its supporting organization, a U.S.-based blocker corporation will be required to pay corporate and state-level income tax on the income they receive from an investment fund.

b. Are There Particular Jurisdictions in Which Hedge and Private Equity Funds form Investment Partnerships and Blocker Corporations for their tax-exempt investors?

It is common for hedge and private equity funds that have tax-exempt investors such as The Dallas Foundation and Highland Dallas Foundation to utilize an offshore structure to form its investment partnership. In addition, these funds may form offshore blocker corporations as well as for other reasons including the ability to make non-U.S. investments or U.S. investments that do not give rise to U.S. tax for foreign investors (i.e., U.S. investments that do not cause the investor to be "engaged in a U.S. trade or business.") Jurisdictions such as Bermuda and the Cayman Islands are typically used because those countries do not have an income tax regime.

By utilizing an offshore structure with corporate blockers, hedge and private equity funds can ensure their tax-exempt investors will not receive any UBTI from investments held by The Dallas Foundation or Highland Dallas Foundation. In addition, to the extent the sole source of UBTI is through debt financing (which is often the case in a hedge fund), then using an offshore corporate blocker can eliminate this type of UBTI (because the debt financing will not flow through the corporate blocker to taint the income received by the tax-exempt investor). This allows the sponsor (i.e., Highland Dallas Foundation), as well as any other charities that receive distributions from Highland Dallas Foundation or The Dallas Foundation, to receive the largest possible distributions.

Utilizing an offshore structure for hedge and private equity funds in the manner described above for tax-exempt investors is a best practice used by many U.S. law firms representing U.S. hedge and private equity funds. In fact, if a U.S. law firm didn't use offshore blockers in the manner described above, it could be considered a poor practice.

In summary, using an offshore blocker corporation, such as Charitable DAF Holdco, Ltd. and CLO Holdco, Ltd., for many hedge funds minimizes taxes and increases the net after-tax cash flow to the tax-exempt investors because investments grow tax-free, giving a sponsor, such as Highland Dallas Foundation, the potential to create even more capital for philanthropic giving.

4. Who Has Control and Authority over the Assets Held by the Sponsor?

Because a DAF is an account within a sponsor organization, the sponsoring organization has full, complete and final control over the funds in the DAF, which is the case here with the sponsor, the Highland Dallas Foundation. Although the supporting organization permits the donor or the donor's designee to recommend how funds should be invested and how funds should be distributed to other public charities, Highland Dallas Foundation must approve any investments and all distributions to charities.

In this case, the donor of the charitable DAF, or his designee, is able to appoint a representative to the board of the Highland Dallas Foundation, which allows the donor to recommend investments or distributions to charitable organizations, i.e., organizations that are tax-exempt under Internal Revenue Code section 501(c)(3) and classified as public charities under Internal Revenue Code section 509(a). But the donor (or the donor's designee) only has advisory privileges over making investments and the distribution of funds.

5. What Are the Benefits to a Donor of a Contribution to a DAF account?

A DAF account allows a donor who makes an irrevocable charitable contribution to the DAF account to receive an immediate tax deduction, and with the ability to recommend distributions be made by the sponsor to specific charities either presently or in the future. Also, if the donor contributes certain appreciated assets to the DAF account, such as stock or securities, the donor avoids the recognition of any gain in these appreciated assets. This is a significant additional benefit to donors made available in the Internal Revenue Code.

The DAF assets that are not immediately distributed to charities are then invested and depending on the type of investments and the jurisdiction in what the investments are made, the assets may grow tax-free.

PRELIMINARY

4. The business of the Company may be commenced at any time after incorporation.

5. The Office shall be at such address in the Cayman Islands as the Directors may from time to time determine. The Company may in addition establish and maintain such other offices and places of business and agencies in such places as the Directors may from time to time determine.

6. The expenses incurred in the formation of the Company and in connection with the offer for subscription and issue of Shares shall be paid by the Company. Such expenses may be amortised over such period as the Directors may determine and the amount so paid shall be charged against income and/or capital in the accounts of the Company as the Directors shall determine.

7. The Directors shall keep, or cause to be kept, the Register at such place as the Directors may from time to time determine and, in the absence of any such determination, the Register shall be kept at the Office.

SHARES

8. Subject to these Articles, all Shares for the time being unissued shall be under the control of the Directors who may:

(a) issue, allot and dispose of the same to such Persons, in such manner, on such terms and having such rights and being subject to such restrictions as they may from time to time determine; and

(b) grant options with respect to such Shares and issue warrants or similar instruments with respect thereto; and, for such purposes, the Directors may reserve an appropriate number of Shares for the time being unissued.

9. The Directors may authorise the division of Shares into any number of Classes and the different Classes shall be authorised, established and designated (or re-designated as the case may be) and the variations in the relative rights (including, without limitation, voting, dividend and redemption rights), restrictions, preferences, privileges and payment obligations as between the different Classes (if any) may be fixed and determined by the Directors.

10. The Company may insofar as may be permitted by law, pay a commission to any Person in consideration of his subscribing or agreeing to subscribe whether absolutely or conditionally for any Shares. Such commissions may be satisfied by the payment of cash or the lodgement of fully or partly paid-up Shares or partly in one way and partly in the other. The Company may also pay such brokerage as may be lawful on any issue of Shares.

11. The Directors may refuse to accept any application for Shares, and may accept any application in whole or in part, for any reason or for no reason.

MODIFICATION OF RIGHTS

12. Whenever the capital of the Company is divided into different Classes the rights attached to any such Class may, subject to any rights or restrictions for the time being attached to any Class, only be materially adversely varied or abrogated with the consent in writing of the holders of not less than two-thirds of the issued Shares of the relevant Class, or with the sanction of a resolution passed at a separate meeting of the holders of the Shares of such Class by a majority of two-thirds of the votes cast at such a meeting. To every such separate meeting all the provisions of these Articles relating to general meetings of the Company or to the proceedings thereat shall, mutatis mutandis, apply, except that the necessary quorum shall be one or more Persons at least holding or representing by proxy one-third in nominal or par value amount of the issued Shares of the relevant Class (but so that if at any adjourned meeting of such holders a quorum as above defined is not present, those Shareholders who are present shall form a quorum) and that, subject to any rights or restrictions for the time being attached to the Shares of that Class, every Shareholder of the Class shall on a poll have one vote for each Share of the Class held by him. For the purposes of this Article the Directors may treat all the Classes or any two or more Classes as forming one Class if they consider that all such Classes would be affected in the same way by the proposals under consideration, but in any other case shall treat them as separate Classes.

13. The rights conferred upon the holders of the Shares of any Class issued with preferred or other rights shall not, subject to any rights or restrictions for the time being attached to the Shares of that Class, be deemed to be materially adversely varied or abrogated by, inter alia, the creation, allotment or issue of further Shares ranking pari passu with or subsequent to them or the redemption or purchase of any Shares of any Class by the Company.

CERTIFICATES

14. No Person shall be entitled to a certificate for any or all of his Shares, unless the Directors shall determine otherwise.

FRACTIONAL SHARES

15. The Directors may issue fractions of a Share and, if so issued, a fraction of a Share shall be subject to and carry the corresponding fraction of liabilities (whether with respect to nominal or par value, premium, contributions, calls or otherwise), limitations, preferences, privileges, qualifications, restrictions, rights (including, without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, voting and participation rights) and other attributes of a whole Share. If more than one fraction of a Share of the same Class is issued to or acquired by the same Shareholder such fractions shall be accumulated.

LIEN

16. The Company has a first and paramount lien on every Share (whether or not fully paid) for all amounts (whether presently payable or not) payable at a fixed time or called in respect of that Share. The Company also has a first and paramount lien on every Share registered in the name of a Person indebted or under liability to the Company (whether he is the sole registered holder of a Share or one of two or more joint holders) for all amounts owing by him or his estate to the Company (whether or not presently payable). The Directors may at any time declare a Share to be wholly or in part exempt from the provisions of this Article. The Company's lien on a Share extends to any amount payable in respect of it.

17. The Company may sell, in such manner as the Directors in their absolute discretion think fit, any Share on which the Company has a lien, but no sale shall be made unless an amount in respect of which the lien exists is presently payable nor until the expiration of fourteen days after a notice in writing, demanding payment of such part of the amount in respect of which the lien exists as is presently payable, has been given to the registered holder for the time being of the Share, or the Persons entitled thereto by reason of his death or bankruptcy.

18. For giving effect to any such sale the Directors may authorise some Person to transfer the Shares sold to the purchaser thereof. The purchaser shall be registered as the holder of the Shares comprised in any such transfer and he shall not be bound to see to the application of the purchase money, nor shall his title to the Shares be affected by any irregularity or invalidity in the proceedings in reference to the sale.

19. The proceeds of the sale after deduction of expenses, fees and commission incurred by the Company shall be received by the Company and applied in payment of such part of the amount in respect of which the lien exists as is presently payable, and the residue shall (subject to a like lien for sums not presently payable as existed upon the Shares prior to the sale) be paid to the Person entitled to the Shares immediately prior to the sale.

CALLS ON SHARES

20. The Directors may from time to time make calls upon the Shareholders in respect of any moneys unpaid on their Shares, and each Shareholder shall (subject to receiving at least fourteen days' notice specifying the time or times of payment) pay to the Company at the time or times so specified the amount called on such Shares.

21. The joint holders of a Share shall be jointly and severally liable to pay calls in respect thereof.

22. If a sum called in respect of a Share is not paid before or on the day appointed for payment thereof, the Person from whom the sum is due shall pay interest upon the sum at the rate of eight percent per annum from the day appointed for the payment thereof to the time of the actual payment, but the Directors shall be at liberty to waive payment of that interest wholly or in part.

23. The provisions of these Articles as to the liability of joint holders and as to payment of interest shall apply in the case of non-payment of any sum which, by the terms of issue of a Share, becomes payable at a fixed time, whether on account of the amount of the Share, or by way of premium, as if the same had become payable by virtue of a call duly made and notified.

24. The Directors may make arrangements on the issue of partly paid Shares for a difference between the Shareholders, or the particular Shares, in the amount of calls to be paid and in the times of payment.

25. The Directors may, if they think fit, receive from any Shareholder willing to advance the same all or any part of the moneys uncalled and unpaid upon any partly paid Shares held by him, and upon all or any of the moneys so advanced may (until the same would, but for such advance, become presently payable) pay interest at such rate (not exceeding without the sanction of an Ordinary Resolution, eight percent per annum) as may be agreed upon between the Shareholder paying the sum in advance and the Directors.

FORFEITURE OF SHARES

26. If a Shareholder fails to pay any call or instalment of a call in respect of partly paid Shares on the day appointed for payment, the Directors may, at any time thereafter during such time as any part of such call or instalment remains unpaid, serve a notice on him requiring payment of so much of the call or instalment as is unpaid, together with any interest which may have accrued.

27. The notice shall name a further day (not earlier than the expiration of fourteen days from the date of the notice) on or before which the payment required by the notice is to be made, and shall state that in the event of non-payment at or before the time appointed the Shares in respect of which the call was made will be liable to be forfeited.

28. If the requirements of any such notice as aforesaid are not complied with, any Share in respect of which the notice has been given may at any time thereafter, before the payment required by notice has been made, be forfeited by a resolution of the Directors to that effect.

29. A forfeited Share may be sold or otherwise disposed of on such terms and in such manner as the Directors think fit, and at any time before a sale or disposition the forfeiture may be cancelled on such terms as the Directors think fit.

30. A Person whose Shares have been forfeited shall cease to be a Shareholder in respect of the forfeited Shares, but shall, notwithstanding, remain liable to pay to the Company all moneys which at the date of forfeiture were payable by him to the Company in respect of the Shares forfeited, but his liability shall cease if and when the Company receives payment in full of the amount unpaid on the Shares forfeited.

31. A statutory declaration in writing that the declarant is a Director, and that a Share has been duly forfeited on a date stated in the declaration, shall be conclusive evidence of the facts in the declaration as against all Persons claiming to be entitled to the Share.

32. The Company may receive the consideration, if any, given for a Share on any sale or disposition thereof pursuant to the provisions of these Articles as to forfeiture and may execute a transfer of the Share in favour of the Person to whom the Share is sold or disposed of and that Person shall be registered as the holder of the Share, and shall not be bound to see to the application of the purchase money, if any, nor shall his title to the Shares be affected by any irregularity or invalidity in the proceedings in reference to the disposition or sale.

33. The provisions of these Articles as to forfeiture shall apply in the case of non-payment of any sum which by the terms of issue of a Share becomes due and payable, whether on account of the amount of the Share, or by way of premium, as if the same had been payable by virtue of a call duly made and notified.

TRANSFER OF SHARES

34. The instrument of transfer of any Share shall be in any usual or common form or such other form as the Directors may, in their absolute discretion, approve and be executed by or on behalf of the transferor and if in respect of a nil or partly paid up Share, or if so required by the Directors, shall also be executed on behalf of the transferee and shall be accompanied by the certificate (if any) of the Shares to which it relates and such other evidence as the Directors may reasonably require to show the right of the transferor to make the transfer. The transferor shall be deemed to remain a Shareholder until the name of the transferee is entered in the Register in respect of the relevant Shares.

35. The Directors may in their absolute discretion decline to register any transfer of Shares without assigning any reason therefor.

36. The registration of transfers may be suspended at such times and for such periods as the Directors may from time to time determine.

37. All instruments of transfer that are registered shall be retained by the Company, but any instrument of transfer that the Directors decline to register shall (except in any case of fraud) be returned to the Person depositing the same.

TRANSMISSION OF SHARES

38. The legal personal representative of a deceased sole holder of a Share shall be the only Person recognised by the Company as having any title to the Share. In the case of a Share registered in the name of two or more holders, the survivors or survivor, or the legal personal representatives of the deceased survivor, shall be the only Person recognised by the Company as having any title to the Share.

39. Any Person becoming entitled to a Share in consequence of the death or bankruptcy of a Shareholder shall upon such evidence being produced as may from time to time be required by the Directors, have the right either to be registered as a Shareholder in respect of the Share or, instead of being registered himself, to make such transfer of the Share as the deceased or bankrupt Person could have made; but the Directors shall, in either case, have the same right to decline or suspend registration as they would have had in the case of a transfer of the Share by the deceased or bankrupt Person before the death or bankruptcy.

40. A Person becoming entitled to a Share by reason of the death or bankruptcy of a Shareholder shall be entitled to the same dividends and other advantages to which he would be entitled if he were the registered Shareholder, except that he shall not, before being registered as a Shareholder in respect of the Share, be entitled in respect of it to exercise any right conferred by membership in relation to meetings of the Company.

ALTERATION OF SHARE CAPITAL

41. The Company may from time to time by Ordinary Resolution increase the share capital by such sum, to be divided into Shares of such Classes and amount, as the resolution shall prescribe.

42. The Company may by Ordinary Resolution:

(a) consolidate and divide all or any of its share capital into Shares of a larger amount than its existing Shares;

(b) convert all or any of its paid up Shares into stock and reconvert that stock into paid up Shares of any denomination;

(c) subdivide its existing Shares, or any of them into Shares of a smaller amount provided that in the subdivision the proportion between the amount paid and the amount, if any, unpaid on each reduced Share shall be the same as it was in case of the Share from which the reduced Share is derived; and

(d) cancel any Shares that, at the date of the passing of the resolution, have not been taken or agreed to be taken by any Person and diminish the amount of its share capital by the amount of the Shares so cancelled.

43. The Company may by Special Resolution reduce its share capital and any capital redemption reserve in any manner authorised by law.

REDEMPTION AND PURCHASE OF SHARES

44. Subject to the Law, the Company may:

(a) issue Shares on terms that they are to be redeemed or are liable to be redeemed at the option of the Company or the Shareholder on such terms and in such manner as the Directors may, before the issue of such Shares, determine;

(b) purchase its own Shares (including any redeemable Shares) on such terms and in such manner as the Directors may determine and agree with the Shareholder; and

(c) make a payment in respect of the redemption or purchase of its own Shares in any manner authorised by the Law, including out of its capital, profits or the proceeds of a fresh issue of Shares.

45. Any Share in respect of which notice of redemption has been given shall not be entitled to participate in the profits of the Company in respect of the period after the date specified as the date of redemption in the notice of redemption.

46. The redemption or purchase of any Share shall not be deemed to give rise to the redemption or purchase of any other Share.

47. The Directors may when making payments in respect of redemption or purchase of Shares, if authorised by the terms of issue of the Shares being redeemed or purchased or with the agreement of the holder of such Shares, make such payment either in cash or in specie.

GENERAL MEETINGS

48. The Directors may, whenever they think fit, convene a general meeting of the Company.

49. General meetings shall also be convened on the requisition in writing of any Shareholder or Shareholders entitled to attend and vote at general meetings of the Company holding at least ten percent of the paid up voting share capital of the Company deposited at the Office specifying the objects of the meeting for a date no later than 21 days from the date of deposit of the requisition signed by the requisitionists, and if the Directors do not convene such meeting for a date not later than 45 days after the date of such deposit, the requisitionists themselves may convene the general meeting in the same manner, as nearly as possible, as that in which general meetings may be convened by the Directors, and all reasonable expenses incurred by the requisitionists as a result of the failure of the Directors to convene the general meeting shall be reimbursed to them by the Company.

50. If at any time there are no Directors, any two Shareholders (or if there is only one Shareholder then that Shareholder) entitled to vote at general meetings of the Company may convene a general meeting in the same manner as nearly as possible as that in which general meetings may be convened by the Directors.

NOTICE OF GENERAL MEETINGS

51. At least seven days' notice in writing counting from the date service is deemed to take place as provided in these Articles specifying the place, the day and the hour of the meeting and, in case of special business, the general nature of that business, shall be given in the manner hereinafter provided or in such other manner (if any) as may be prescribed by the Company by Ordinary Resolution to such Persons as are, under these Articles, entitled to receive such notices from the Company, but with the consent of all the Shareholders entitled to receive notice of some particular meeting and attend and vote thereat, that meeting may be convened by such shorter notice or without notice and in such manner as those Shareholders may think fit.

52. The accidental omission to give notice of a meeting to or the non-receipt of a notice of a meeting by any Shareholder shall not invalidate the proceedings at any meeting.

PROCEEDINGS AT GENERAL MEETINGS

53. All business carried out at a general meeting shall be deemed special with the exception of sanctioning a dividend, the consideration of the accounts, balance sheets, any report of the Directors or of the Company's auditors, the appointment and removal of Directors and the fixing of the remuneration of the Company's auditors. No special business shall be transacted at any general meeting without the consent of all Shareholders entitled to receive notice of that meeting unless notice of such special business has been given in the notice convening that meeting.

54. No business shall be transacted at any general meeting unless a quorum of Shareholders is present at the time when the meeting proceeds to business. Save as otherwise provided by these Articles, one or more Shareholders holding at least a majority of the paid up voting share capital of the Company present in person or by proxy and entitled to vote at that meeting shall form a quorum.

55. If within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting a quorum is not present, the meeting, if convened upon the requisition of Shareholders, shall be dissolved. In any other case it shall stand adjourned to the same day in the next week, at the same time and place, and if at the adjourned meeting a quorum is not present within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting the Shareholder or Shareholders present and entitled to vote shall form a quorum.

56. If the Directors wish to make this facility available for a specific general meeting or all general meetings of the Company, participation in any general meeting of the Company may be by means of a telephone or similar communication equipment by way of which all Persons participating in such meeting can communicate with each other and such participation shall be deemed to constitute presence in person at the meeting.

57. The chairman, if any, of the Directors shall preside as chairman at every general meeting of the Company.

58. If there is no such chairman, or if at any general meeting he is not present within fifteen minutes after the time appointed for holding the meeting or is unwilling to act as chairman, any Director or Person nominated by the Directors shall preside as chairman, failing which the Shareholders present in person or by proxy shall choose any Person present to be chairman of that meeting.

59. The chairman may with the consent of any general meeting at which a quorum is present (and shall if so directed by the meeting) adjourn a meeting from time to time and from place to place, but no business shall be transacted at any adjourned meeting other than the business left unfinished at the meeting from which the adjournment took place. When a meeting, or adjourned meeting, is adjourned for fourteen days or more, notice of the adjourned meeting shall be given as in the case of an original meeting. Save as aforesaid it shall not be necessary to give any notice of an adjournment or of the business to be transacted at an adjourned meeting.

60. The Directors may cancel or postpone any duly convened general meeting at any time prior to such meeting, except for general meetings requisitioned by the Shareholders in accordance with these Articles, for any reason or for no reason, upon notice in writing to Shareholders. A postponement may be for a stated period of any length or indefinitely as the Directors may determine.

61. At any general meeting a resolution put to the vote of the meeting shall be decided on a show of hands, unless a poll is (before or on the declaration of the result of the show of hands) demanded by the chairman or one or more Shareholders present in person or by proxy entitled to vote, and unless a poll is so demanded, a declaration by the chairman that a resolution has, on a show of hands, been carried, or carried unanimously, or by a particular majority, or lost, and an entry to that effect in the book of the proceedings of the Company, shall be conclusive evidence of the fact, without proof of the number or proportion of the votes recorded in favour of, or against, that resolution.

62. If a poll is duly demanded it shall be taken in such manner as the chairman directs, and the result of the poll shall be deemed to be the resolution of the meeting at which the poll was demanded.

63. In the case of an equality of votes, whether on a show of hands or on a poll, the chairman of the meeting at which the show of hands takes place or at which the poll is demanded, shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

64. A poll demanded on the election of a chairman of the meeting or on a question of adjournment shall be taken forthwith. A poll demanded on any other question shall be taken at such time as the chairman of the meeting directs.

66. In the case of joint holders the vote of the senior who tenders a vote whether in person or by proxy shall be accepted to the exclusion of the votes of the other joint holders and for this purpose seniority shall be determined by the order in which the names stand in the Register.

67. A Shareholder of unsound mind, or in respect of whom an order has been made by any court having jurisdiction in lunacy, may vote in respect of Shares carrying the right to vote held by him, whether on a show of hands or on a poll, by his committee, or other Person in the nature of a committee appointed by that court, and any such committee or other Person, may vote in respect of such Shares by proxy.

69. On a poll votes may be given either personally or by proxy.

70. The instrument appointing a proxy shall be in writing under the hand of the appointor or of his attorney duly authorised in writing or, if the appointor is a corporation, either under Seal or under the hand of an officer or attorney duly authorised. A proxy need not be a Shareholder.

71. An instrument appointing a proxy may be in any usual or common form or such other form as the Directors may approve.

72. The instrument appointing a proxy shall be deposited at the Office or at such other place as is specified for that purpose in the notice convening the meeting no later than the time for holding the meeting or, if the meeting is adjourned, the time for holding such adjourned meeting.

73. The instrument appointing a proxy shall be deemed to confer authority to demand or join in demanding a poll.

74. A resolution in writing signed by all the Shareholders for the time being entitled to receive notice of and to attend and vote at general meetings of the Company (or being corporations by their duly authorised representatives) shall be as valid and effective as if the same had been passed at a general meeting of the Company duly convened and held.

Every such alternate shall be entitled to attend and vote at meetings of the Directors as a Director when the Director appointing him is not personally present and where he is a Director to have a separate vote on behalf of the Director he is representing in addition to his own vote. A Director may at any time in writing revoke the appointment of an alternate appointed by him. Such alternate shall not be an officer of the Company. The remuneration of such alternate shall be payable out of the remuneration of the Director appointing him and the proportion thereof shall be agreed between them.

108. The continuing Directors may act notwithstanding any vacancy in their body but if and for so long as their number is reduced below the number fixed by or pursuant to these Articles as the necessary quorum of Directors, the continuing Directors may act for the purpose of increasing the number, or of summoning a general meeting of the Company, but for no other purpose.

109. The Directors may elect a chairman of their meetings and determine the period for which he is to hold office but if no such chairman is elected, or if at any meeting the chairman is not present within fifteen minutes after the time appointed for holding the meeting, the Directors present may choose one of their number to be chairman of the meeting.

110. Subject to any regulations imposed on it by the Directors, a committee appointed by the Directors may elect a chairman of its meetings. If no such chairman is elected, or if at any meeting the chairman is not present within fifteen minutes after the time appointed for holding the meeting, the committee members present may choose one of their number to be chairman of the meeting.

111. A committee appointed by the Directors may meet and adjourn as it thinks proper. Subject to any regulations imposed on it by the Directors, questions arising at any meeting shall be determined by a majority of votes of the committee members present and in case of an equality of votes the chairman shall have a second or casting vote.

112. All acts done by any meeting of the Directors or of a committee of Directors, or by any Person acting as a Director, shall notwithstanding that it be afterwards discovered that there was some defect in the appointment of any such Director or Person acting as aforesaid, or that they or any of them were disqualified, be as valid as if every such Person had been duly appointed and was qualified to be a Director.

116. Any dividend may be paid in any manner as the Directors may determine. If paid by cheque it will be sent through the post to the registered address of the Shareholder or Person entitled thereto, or in the case of joint holders, to any one of such joint holders at his registered address or to such Person and such address as the Shareholder or Person entitled, or such joint holders as the case may be, may direct. Every such cheque shall be made payable to the order of the Person to whom it is sent or to the order of such other Person as the Shareholder or Person entitled, or such joint holders as the case may be, may direct.

117. The Directors when paying dividends to the Shareholders in accordance with the foregoing provisions of these Articles may make such payment either in cash or in specie.

118. Subject to any rights and restrictions for the time being attached to any Shares, all dividends shall be declared and paid according to the amounts paid up on the Shares, but if and for so long as nothing is paid up on any of the Shares dividends may be declared and paid according to the par value of the Shares.

119. If several Persons are registered as joint holders of any Share, any of them may give effectual receipts for any dividend or other moneys payable on or in respect of the Share.

120. No dividend shall bear interest against the Company.

122. The books of account shall be kept at the Office, or at such other place or places as the Directors think fit, and shall always be open to the inspection of the Directors.

123. The Directors may from time to time determine whether and to what extent and at what times and places and under what conditions or regulations the accounts and books of the Company or any of them shall be open to the inspection of Shareholders not being Directors, and no Shareholder (not being a Director) shall have any right of inspecting any account or book or document of the Company except as conferred by law or authorised by the Directors or by Ordinary Resolution.

CAPITALISATION OF RESERVES

126. Subject to the Law, the Directors may, with the authority of an Ordinary Resolution:

(a) resolve to capitalise an amount standing to the credit of reserves (including a Share Premium Account, capital redemption reserve and profit and loss account), whether or not available for distribution;

(b) appropriate the sum resolved to be capitalised to the Shareholders in proportion to the nominal amount of Shares (whether or not fully paid) held by them respectively and apply that sum on their behalf in or towards:

(i) paying up the amounts (if any) for the time being unpaid on Shares held by them respectively, or

(ii) paying up in full unissued Shares or debentures of a nominal amount equal to that sum, and allot the Shares or debentures, credited as fully paid, to the Shareholders (or as they may direct) in those proportions, or partly in one way and partly in the other, but the Share Premium Account, the capital redemption reserve and profits which are not available for distribution may, for the purposes of this Article, only be applied in paying up unissued Shares to be allotted to Shareholders credited as fully paid;

(ii) the payment by the Company on behalf of the Shareholders (by the application of their respective proportions of the reserves resolved to be capitalised) of the amounts or part of the amounts remaining unpaid on their existing Shares, and any such agreement made under this authority being effective and binding on all those Shareholders; and

(e) generally do all acts and things required to give effect to the resolution.

secured harmless against all actions, proceedings, costs, charges, expenses, losses, damages or liabilities incurred or sustained by such Indemnified Person, other than by reason of such Indemnified Person's own dishonesty, wilful default or fraud, in or about the conduct of the Company's business or affairs (including as a result of any mistake of judgment) or in the execution or discharge of his duties, powers, authorities or discretions, including without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, any costs, expenses, losses or liabilities incurred by such Indemnified Person in defending (whether successfully or otherwise) any civil proceedings concerning the Company or its affairs in any court whether in the Cayman Islands or elsewhere.

135. No Indemnified Person shall be liable:

(a) for the acts, receipts, neglects, defaults or omissions of any other Director or officer or agent of the Company; or

(b) for any loss on account of defect of title to any property of the Company; or

(c) on account of the insufficiency of any security in or upon which any money of the Company shall be invested; or

(d) for any loss incurred through any bank, broker or other similar Person; or

(e) for any loss occasioned by any negligence, default, breach of duty, breach of trust, error of judgement or oversight on such Indemnified Person's part; or

(f) for any loss, damage or misfortune whatsoever which may happen in or arise from the execution or discharge of the duties, powers, authorities, or discretions of such Indemnified Person's office or in relation thereto; unless the same shall happen through such Indemnified Person's own dishonesty, wilful default or fraud.

NON-RECOGNITION OF TRUSTS

136. Subject to the proviso hereto, no Person shall be recognised by the Company as holding any Share upon any trust and the Company shall not, unless required by law, be bound by or be compelled in any way to recognise (even when having notice thereof) any equitable, contingent, future or partial interest in any Share or (except only as otherwise provided by these Articles or as the Law requires) any other right in respect of any Share except an absolute right to the entirety thereof in each Shareholder registered in the Register, provided that, notwithstanding the foregoing, the Company shall be entitled to recognise any such interests as shall be determined by the Directors.

WINDING UP

137. If the Company shall be wound up the liquidator shall apply the assets of the Company in such manner and order as he thinks fit in satisfaction of creditors' claims.

138. If the Company shall be wound up, the liquidator may, with the sanction of an Ordinary Resolution divide amongst the Shareholders in specie or kind the whole or any part of the assets of the Company (whether they shall consist of property of the same kind or not) and may, for such purpose set such value as he deems fair upon any property to be divided as aforesaid and may determine how such division shall be carried out as between the Shareholders or different Classes. The liquidator may, with the like sanction, vest the whole or any part of such assets in trustees upon such trusts for the benefit of the Shareholders as the liquidator, with the like sanction shall think fit, but so that no Shareholder shall be compelled to accept any assets whereon there is any liability.

AMENDMENT OF ARTICLES OF ASSOCIATION

139. Subject to the Law and the rights attaching to the various Classes, the Company may at any time and from time to time by Special Resolution alter or amend these Articles in whole or in part.

CLOSING OF REGISTER OR FIXING RECORD DATE

140. For the purpose of determining those Shareholders that are entitled to receive notice of, attend or vote at any meeting of Shareholders or any adjournment thereof, or those Shareholders that are entitled to receive payment of any dividend, or in order to make a determination as to who is a Shareholder for any other purpose, the Directors may provide that the Register shall be closed for transfers for a stated period which shall not exceed in any case 40 days. If the Register shall be so closed for the purpose of determining those Shareholders that are entitled to receive notice of, attend or vote at a meeting of Shareholders the Register shall be so closed for at least ten days immediately preceding such meeting and the record date for such determination shall be the date of the closure of the Register.

141. In lieu of or apart from closing the Register, the Directors may fix in advance a date as the record date for any such determination of those Shareholders that are entitled to receive notice of, attend or vote at a meeting of the Shareholders and for the purpose of determining those Shareholders that are entitled to receive payment of any dividend the Directors may, at or within 90 days prior to the date of declaration of such dividend, fix a subsequent date as the record date for such determination.

142. If the Register is not so closed and no record date is fixed for the determination of those Shareholders entitled to receive notice of, attend or vote at a meeting of Shareholders or those Shareholders that are entitled to receive payment of a dividend, the date on which notice of the meeting is posted or the date on which the resolution of the Directors declaring such dividend is adopted, as the case may be, shall be the record date for such determination of Shareholders. When a determination of those Shareholders that are entitled to receive notice of, attend or vote at a meeting of Shareholders has been made as provided in this Article, such determination shall apply to any adjournment thereof.

REGISTRATION BY WAY OF CONTINUATION

143. The Company may by Special Resolution resolve to be registered by way of continuation in a jurisdiction outside the Cayman Islands or such other jurisdiction in which it is for the time being incorporated, registered or existing. In furtherance of a resolution adopted pursuant to this Article, the Directors may cause an application to be made to the Registrar of Companies to deregister the Company in the Cayman Islands or such other jurisdiction in which it is for the time being incorporated, registered or existing and may cause all such further steps as they consider appropriate to be taken to effect the transfer by way of continuation of the Company.

DISCLOSURE

144. The Directors, or any authorised service providers (including the officers, the Secretary and the registered office agent of the Company), shall be entitled to disclose to any regulatory or judicial authority, or to any stock exchange on which the Shares may from time to time be listed, any information regarding the affairs of the Company including, without limitation, information contained in the Register and books of the Company.

WHEREAS, the Partnership was formed in order to own, operate and make certain investments directly or indirectly on behalf of certain entities exempt from taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code") and the parties hereto desire for the Partnership to be for the economic benefit of the Limited Partner and its Indirect Charitable Owners (as defined below) as set forth herein; and

WHEREAS, the parties hereto wish to amend and restate the Initial Agreement in its entirety and enter into this Agreement.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the premises and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt of which is hereby acknowledged, the parties hereto hereby adopt this Agreement to be their Limited Partnership Agreement, as follows:

obligations of a general partner of a limited partnership under the laws of the Cayman Islands. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, the General Partner is hereby granted the right, power and authority to do on behalf of the Partnership all things which, in the General Partner's sole discretion, are necessary or appropriate to manage the Partnership's affairs and fulfill the purposes of the Partnership; provided, however that the Partnership's assets and investments shall be for the benefit of the Limited Partners and not for the economic benefit of the General Partner.

(b) Except as otherwise provided herein, the Limited Partners, in their capacity as Limited Partners, shall not participate in the management of or have any control over the Partnership's business nor shall the Limited Partners have the power to represent, act for, sign for or bind the General Partner or the Partnership. Any attempted assignment or substitution not made in accordance with this section shall be void ab initio.

(b) The General Partner may not assign their interests in the Partnership to any entity that is not under common control with the General Partner without the consent of a majority-in-interest of the Limited Partners. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner may freely assign their economic interest in the Partnership in whole or in part.

1.12 Definitions. For the purpose of this Agreement, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) General Partner. The term "General Partner" shall refer to Charitable DAF GP, LLC, and each other person subsequently admitted as a general partner pursuant to the terms of this Agreement. (b) Indirect Charitable Owners. The term "Indirect Charitable Owner" shall refer to the indirect equity owners of the Limited Partners, which shall at all times be entities or organizations exempt from taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Code or entities or organizations whose sole beneficiaries are entities or organizations exempt from taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Code.

1.13 Service Providers. 1.14 Partnership Expenses. The Partnership will bear its own operating, administrative, trading and other expenses, including interest expense, brokerage commissions, management fees (if any), taxes, research costs, legal and accounting expenses and other operating expenses. In addition, the Partnership will bear its pro rata share of CLO HoldCo's operating, administrative, trading and other expenses, including interest expense, brokerage commissions, management fees, taxes, research costs, legal and accounting expenses and other operating expenses. The Partnership will also bear (or reimburse the General Partner for) its organizational fees and expenses. To the extent the Partnership shares trading expenses with other accounts that may be managed by the General Partner or any affiliates, it will bear a proportionate share of the associated costs. In no event shall the General Partner receive any compensation from the Partnership.

1.15 Withdrawal of Initial Limited Partner. The Initial Limited Partner hereby withdraws as a limited partner immediately following the admission of the Limited Partners and thereafter shall have no further rights, liabilities or obligations under or in respect of this Agreement in its capacity as Initial Limited Partner.

(b) To possess, transfer, mortgage, pledge or otherwise deal in, and to exercise all rights, powers, privileges and other incidents of ownership or possession with respect to, Financial Interests held or owned by the Partnership with the ultimate objective of the preservation, protection, improvement and enhancement in value thereof and to hold such Financial Interests in the name of the Partnership, in the name of any securities broker or firm, in the name of any nominee of such firm, or in the name of any other nominee or any other street name, or any combination thereof;

(c) To lend, either with or without security, any Financial Instruments, funds or other properties of the Partnership, including by entering into reverse repurchase agreements, and, from time to time, undertake leverage on behalf of the Partnership;

(d) To borrow or raise moneys and, from time to time, without limit as to amount, to issue, accept, endorse and execute promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange, warrants, bonds, debentures and other negotiable or non-negotiable instruments and evidences of indebtedness, and to secure the payment of any of the foregoing instruments and of the interest thereon by mortgage upon or pledge, conveyance or assignment in trust of the whole or any part of the property of the Partnership, whether at the time owned or thereafter acquired, and to sell, pledge or otherwise dispose of such bonds or other obligations of the Partnership for its purposes;

(e) To have and maintain one or more offices within or without the Cayman Islands and in connection therewith to rent or acquire office space, engage personnel and do such other acts and things as may be necessary or advisable in connection with the maintenance of such office or offices;

(f) To open, maintain and close bank accounts and brokerage accounts, including the power to draw checks or other orders for the payment of monies; and

(g) To enter into, make and perform all contracts, agreements and other undertakings as may be necessary or advisable or incidental to the carrying out of the foregoing objects and purposes.

2.2 Rights, Powers, Limitations on Liability and Indemnification of General Partner.

(a) Whether or not herein expressly so provided, every provision of this Agreement relating to the conduct or affecting the liability of or affording protection to the General Partner, its members or any of their respective affiliates and their respective partners, members, officers, directors, employees, shareholders and agents (including members of any committee and parties acting as agents for the execution of transactions) (each, a "Covered Person" and collectively, "Covered Persons") shall be subject to the provisions of this Section.

(b) To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Covered Person shall be liable to the Partnership or anyone for any reason whatsoever (including but not limited to (i) any act or omission by any Covered Person in connection with the conduct of the business of the Partnership, that is determined by such Covered Person in good faith to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Partnership, (ii) any act or omission by any Covered Person based on the suggestions of any professional advisor of the Partnership whom such Covered Person believes is authorized to make such suggestions on behalf of the Partnership, (iii) any act or omission by the Partnership, or (iv) any mistake, negligence, misconduct or bad faith of any broker or other agent of the Partnership selected by Covered Person with reasonable care), unless any act or omission by such Covered Person constitutes willful misconduct or gross negligence by such Covered Person (as determined by a non-appealable judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction).

(c) Covered Person may consult with legal counsel or accountants selected by such Covered Person and any act or omission by such Covered Person on behalf of the Partnership or in furtherance of the business of the Partnership in good faith in reliance on and in accordance with the advice of such counsel or accountants shall be full justification for the act or omission, and such Covered Person shall be fully protected in so acting or omitting to act if the counsel or accountants were selected with reasonable care.

(d) To the fullest extent permitted by law, the Partnership shall indemnify and save harmless Covered Persons (the "Indemnitees"), from and against any and all claims, liabilities, damages, losses, costs and expenses, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromises and settlements, as fines and penalties and legal or other costs and expenses of investigating or defending against any claim or alleged claim, of any nature whatsoever, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated, that are incurred by any Indemnitee and arise out of or in connection with the business of the Partnership, any investment made under or in connection with this Agreement, or the performance by the Indemnitee of Covered Person's responsibilities hereunder and against all taxes, charges, duties or levies incurred by such Covered Person or any Indemnitee in connection with the Partnership, provided that an Indemnitee shall not be entitled to indemnification hereunder to the extent the Indemnitee's conduct constitutes willful misconduct or gross negligence (as determined by a non-appealable judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction). The termination of any proceeding by settlement, judgment, order or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that the Indemnitee's conduct constituted willful misconduct or gross negligence.

(e) Expenses incurred by an Indemnitee in defense or settlement of any claim that shall be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder, shall be advanced by the Partnership prior to the final disposition thereof upon receipt of an undertaking by or on behalf of the Indemnitee to repay the amount advanced to the extent that it shall be determined ultimately that the Indemnitee is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder.

(f) The right of any Indemnitee to the indemnification provided herein shall be cumulative of, and in addition to, any and all rights to which the Indemnitee may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law or equity and shall be extended to the Indemnitee's successors, assigns and legal representatives.

(g) The provisions of this Section are expressly intended to confer benefits upon Covered Persons and such provisions shall remain operative and in full force and effect regardless of the expiration or any termination of this Agreement.

(h) Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, the aggregate maximum amount that a Covered Person may be liable to the Partnership and/or any of the Partners pursuant to this Agreement shall, to the extent not prohibited by law, never exceed the amount of management and incentive fees received by such Covered Person from the Partnership under this Agreement prior to the date that the acts or omissions giving rise to a claim for indemnification or liability shall have occurred. In no event shall any Covered Person be liable for special, exemplary, punitive, indirect, or consequential loss, or damage of any kind whatsoever, including without limitation lost profits. No Covered Person shall incur any liability for interest on any monies at any time received by such Covered Person or any investment loss or other charge resulting therefrom with respect to amounts invested hereunder.

(i) WAIVER OF CONSUMER RIGHTS: The Partnership and each of the Limited Partners waive all of their respective rights, if any, under the Deceptive Trade Practices-Consumer Protection Act, Section 17.41 et seq., Texas Business & Commerce Code ("DTPA"), a law that gives consumers special rights and protections. After consultation with an attorney of Partnership's own selection, Partnership voluntarily consents to this waiver. This waiver includes any right to recover attorneys' fees under the DTPA. Further, Partnership waives all of its rights to any and all protections afforded by any other state or federal Consumer Protection Acts, including the recovery of attorneys' fees.

(j) No Covered Person shall be liable hereunder for any settlement of any action or claim effected without its written consent thereto.

Pursuant to the foregoing indemnification and exculpation provisions applicable to each Covered Person, the Partnership (and not the applicable Covered Person) shall be responsible for any losses resulting from trading errors and similar human errors, absent gross negligence or reckless or intentional misconduct of any Covered Person. Given the volume of transactions executed on behalf of the Partnership, Limited Partners acknowledge that trading errors (and similar errors) will occur and that the Partnership shall be responsible for any resulting losses, even if such losses result from the negligence (but not gross negligence) of any Covered Person.

(k) This Section 2.2 shall survive a Limited Partner's withdrawal as a limited partner of the Partnership and any termination of this Agreement.

ARTICLE III
CAPITAL ACCOUNTS AND DIVISION OF PROFITS AND LOSSES

3.1 Capital Contributions.

(a) Each Partner has made the capital contributions to the Partnership in the amount set forth in the records of the Partnership. The Limited Partner has contributed to the Partnership all of the outstanding equity interests of CLO HoldCo.

3.2 Capital Account; Allocation of Profits and Losses.

(a) There shall be established for each Partner on the books of the Partnership as of the first day of the fiscal period during which such Partner was admitted to the Partnership a capital account for such Partner in an amount equal to his capital contribution to the Partnership.

(b) Since the General Partner's capital account and contributions shall be the minimum required by Law, all income, deductions, gains, losses and credits of the Partnership shall be allocated shall be for the benefit of the Limited Partner, except as may otherwise be required by law. In the event any valuation of assets is necessary or appropriate, the General Partner shall determine such value in any reasonable manner determined by the General Partner in its sole discretion consistent with relevant accounting principles and applicable law.

(c) For purposes of determining the share of any items allocated to any period during the relevant Taxable Year of the Partnership, such shares shall be determined by the General Partner using any method permitted by the Code and the regulations thereunder. All allocations to be made by the General Partner may be overridden if necessary to comply with the Code, the regulations thereunder or other applicable law.

(d) To the extent that the Partnership pays withholding taxes as to a Partner, such amounts shall be charged to the applicable Partner's capital account; provided, however, that any such amounts may be treated as an advance to the Partner with interest to be charged to that Partner's capital account at a rate determined by the General Partner.

(e) Each Partner agrees not to treat, on any tax return or in any claim for a refund, any item of income, gain, loss, deduction or credit in a manner inconsistent with treatment of such item by the Partnership.

ARTICLE IV
LEGAL INTERESTS, DISTRIBUTIONS AND PARTIAL WITHDRAWALS FROM CAPITAL ACCOUNT

4.1 Legal Interest. Each Partner shall have and own during any Taxable Year an undivided interest in the Partnership equal to his opening capital account for such period.

4.2 Distributions.

(a) Distributions shall be made to the Limited Partner at the times, in a manner (including in kind) and in the aggregate amounts determined by the General Partner, after taking into consideration available cash and the needs of the Indirect Charitable Owners of the Limited Partner for funds to cover their administrative and operating expenses. In determining the amount of cash or securities available for distribution, the General Partner may retain reasonable reserves in such amounts as it determines may be necessary to cover expenses, contingencies and losses. Notwithstanding the foregoing, distributions made in connection with a sale of all or substantially all of the Partnership's assets or a liquidation of the Partnership shall be made in accordance with the capital account balances of the Partners within the time period set forth in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(b)(3).

(b) The General Partner may withhold and pay over to the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (or any other relevant taxing authority) such amounts as the Partnership is required to withhold or pay over, pursuant to the Code or any other applicable law, on account of a Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's items of gross income, income or gain.

For purposes of this Agreement, any taxes so withheld or paid over by the Partnership with respect to a Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's gross income, income or gain shall be deemed to be a distribution or payment to such Partner, reducing the amount otherwise distributable to such Partner pursuant to this Agreement and reducing the capital account of such Partner. If the amount of such taxes is greater than any such distributable amounts, then such Partner and any successor to such Partner's interest shall pay the amount of such excess to the Partnership, as a contribution to the capital of the Partnership.

4.3 Withdrawal. Without the consent of the General Partner, no Partner may withdraw as a Partner or make withdrawals from such Partner's capital account. In the event the General Partner permits any such withdrawal, the withdrawal shall be on such terms and conditions as the General Partner shall determine in its sole discretion. The General Partner may terminate all or any part of the interest of any Limited Partner at any time for any reason or no reason by written notice; provided that any new or additional Limited Partner shall be directly or indirectly an entity or organization exempt from taxation under Section 501(c)(3) of the Code.

ARTICLE V
DURATION OF PARTNERSHIP

5.1 Termination. The Partnership shall be required to be wound up and dissolved upon:

(a) the service of a notice by the General Partner on the other Partners requiring that the Partnership be wound up and dissolved; or

(b) the withdrawal by or resignation of the General Partner as general partner of the Partnership; or

(c) the withdrawal of all Limited Partners.

Upon the occurrence of any such event, the Partnership's affairs shall be wound up by the General Partner or such other Person as the General Partner shall appoint.

5.2 Winding Up. Upon the Partnership being required to be wound up and dissolved, the General Partner shall proceed with the liquidation and distribution of the assets of the Partnership, and upon completion of the winding up of the Partnership, shall have the authority to and shall execute and file a dissolution notice and such other documents required to effect the dissolution and termination of the Partnership in accordance with the Law. Before the distribution of all the assets of the Partnership, the business of the Partnership and the affairs of the Partners, as such, shall continue to be governed by this Agreement. The winding up of the Partnership and payment of creditors shall be effected in accordance with the Law.

ARTICLE VI
MISCELLANEOUS

6.1 Tax Matters Partner. The General Partner shall at all times constitute, and have full powers and responsibilities, as the Tax Matters Partner of the Partnership. In the event the Partnership shall be the subject of an income tax audit by any Federal, state or local authority, to the extent the Partnership is treated as an entity for purposes of such audit, including administrative settlement and judicial review, the Tax Matters Partner shall be authorized to act for, and his decision shall be final and binding upon, the Partnership and each Partner thereof, and the Tax Matters Partner shall be indemnified and held harmless by the Partnership and each Partner for any action so taken by him in good faith. All expenses incurred in connection with any such audit, investigation, settlement or review shall be borne by the Partnership to the extent of available Partnership funds, and any excess shall be paid by the Partners individually in proportion to their percentage interests in the Partnership.

6.2 Right to Hire.

(a) Nothing herein shall preclude the General Partner from engaging on behalf of the Partnership the services of any person or firm, whether or not affiliated with the General Partner, including the General Partner, to render for compensation such services to the Partnership as may be necessary to implement the business purposes of the Partnership.

(b) Each of the Partners consents that the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any Limited Partner or any affiliate (as defined in the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and the regulations thereunder) of any of them, including without limitation the investment manager of the CLO HoldCo, may engage in or possess an interest in directly or indirectly, any other present or future business venture of any nature or description for his own account, independently or with others, including but not limited to, any aspect of the securities business or any other business engaged in by the Partnership, and may become the general partner in other partnerships; and neither the Partnership nor any Partner shall have any rights in or to such independent venture or the income or profits derived therefrom.

(c) The General Partner, the Investment Manager and any affiliate or employee of such General Partner or Investment Manager, may hereafter render investment advisory services to other investors with respect to, and/or may own, purchase or sell, securities or other interests in property the same as or similar to those which the General Partner may purchase, hold or sell on behalf of the Partnership.

6.3 Applicable Law, etc. This Limited Partnership Agreement: (i) shall be binding on the executors, administrators, estates, heirs and legal successors of the Partners; (ii) shall be governed by, and construed in accordance with, the laws of the Cayman Islands; and (iii) may be executed in more than one counterpart with the same effect as if the parties executing the several counterparts had all executed one counterpart as of the day and year first above written; provided, however, that in the aggregate, they shall have been signed by all of the Partners. All pronouns and any variations thereof shall be deemed to refer to the masculine, feminine or neuter, singular or plural as the identity of the person may require. The term "gross negligence" and its cognates shall be interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of Delaware.

6.4 Power of Attorney. Each of the undersigned does hereby constitute and appoint the General Partner, with full power of substitution, his true and lawful representative and attorney in-fact, in his name, place and stead to make, execute, sign and file this Agreement and any amendment to this Agreement authorized by the terms of this Agreement, and all such other instruments, documents and certificates (and any amendments thereto) which may from time to time be required by the laws of the Cayman Islands, the United States of America, or any state in which the Partnership shall determine to do business, or any political subdivision or agency thereof, to effectuate, implement and continue the valid and subsisting existence of the Partnership and to take any further action that the General Partner considers advisable in its sole discretion in connection with the exercise of its authority pursuant to this Agreement. This power of attorney is intended to secure an interest in property and, in addition, the obligations of each relevant Limited Partner under this Agreement and shall be irrevocable.

6.5 Tax Elections Under the Internal Revenue Code. The General Partner shall have the authority to make all tax elections and determinations on behalf of the Partnership under the Internal Revenue Code, the regulations promulgated thereunder or other applicable law to effect any elections, determinations or capital allocations.

6.6 Amendments to Partnership Agreement. The terms and provisions of this Agreement may be modified or amended at any time and from time to time with the consent of the General Partner together with the consent of a majority in interest of the Limited Partners, insofar as is consistent with the laws governing this Agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner shall have the right to effect amendments to this Agreement without the consent of any Limited Partner, including without limitation, to reflect: a change in the location of the Partnership's principal place of business; a change in the registered office or registered agent; a change in the name of the Partnership; admission of Partners in accordance with this Agreement; a change that is necessary to qualify the Partnership as a limited partnership under the laws of any state or that is necessary or advisable in the opinion of the Tax Matters Partner to ensure that the Partnership will not be treated as an association taxable as a corporation for Federal income tax purposes; a change of the provisions relating to the management fee or other compensation to the Investment Manager or the General Partner so that such provisions conform to any applicable requirements of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission and other regulatory authorities; a change (i) that is necessary or desirable to satisfy any requirements, conditions or guidelines contained in any opinion, directive, order, ruling or regulation of any Federal or state agency or contained in any Federal or state statute, compliance with any of which the General Partner deems to be in the best interests of the Partnership and the Limited Partners, (ii) that is required or contemplated by this Agreement, or (iii) that is necessary or desirable to implement new regulations published by the Internal Revenue Service with respect to partnership allocations of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit; a change to cure any ambiguity, to correct or supplement any provision herein which may be inconsistent with any other provision herein, or to make any other provision with respect to the matters or questions arising under this Agreement which will not be inconsistent with the provisions hereof; or a change that does not adversely affect the Limited Partners in any material respect; provided, that in no event shall the General Partner effect any amendment to this Agreement that has the effect of giving the General Partner any economic benefits in the assets of the Partnership; provided further, that the General Partner shall give notice to the Limited Partners of any such amendment.

6.7 Investment Representation. Each Partner hereby acknowledges and represents that it acquired its interest in the Partnership for investment purposes only and not with a view to its resale or distribution.

6.8 Notices. All notices, requests or approvals that any party hereto is required or desires to give to any Partner or to the Partnership shall be in writing signed by or on behalf of the party giving the same and delivered personally or sent overnight express mail by a reputable private carrier or by prepaid registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed (i) to the Limited Partner at the addresses set forth beneath his signature to this Agreement; (ii) to the Partnership at the principal place of business of the Partnership with a copy of each such notice sent simultaneously to the General Partner and the Investment Manager at Nextbank Tower, 13455 Noel Road, 8th Floor, Dallas, Texas 75240; or (iii) to the respective party at such other address or addresses as the party may specify from time to time in a writing given to the Partnership in the manner provided in this Section 6.8 of ARTICLE VI. Notice shall be deemed to have been duly given and received (i) on the date of delivery, if personally delivered, (ii) on the next business day subsequent to sending by overnight express mail as aforesaid, or (iii) on the third day subsequent to mailing if mailed as aforesaid; provided that any withdrawal notices shall not be deemed to have been given until actually received by the Partnership.

6.9 General Partner Determinations. Any determinations or calculations made by the General Partner shall, if made in good faith and in the absence of manifest error, be binding upon the Partnership and its Limited Partners.

6.10 Dispute Resolution. The following procedures shall be used to resolve any controversy or claim ("Dispute") arising out of, relating to or in connection with the Agreement or otherwise involving the Partnership, its Partners and/or any Covered Person. If any of these provisions are determined to be invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall remain in effect and binding on the parties to the fullest extent permitted by law.

(a) Mediation.

(1) Any Dispute shall be submitted to mediation by written notice to the other party or parties. In the mediation process, the parties will try to resolve their differences voluntarily with the aid of an impartial mediator, who will attempt to facilitate negotiations. The mediator will be selected by agreement of the parties. If the parties cannot agree on a mediator, a mediator shall be designated by JAMS/Endispute at the request of a party using, if necessary, strike and rank procedures then in effect.

(2) The mediation will be conducted as specified by the mediator and agreed upon by the parties. The parties agree to discuss their differences in good faith and to attempt, with the assistance of the mediator, to reach an amicable resolution of the dispute.

(3) The mediation will be treated as a settlement discussion and therefore will be confidential. The mediator may not testify for either party in any later proceeding relating to the dispute. No recording or transcript shall be made of the mediation proceedings.

(4) Each party will bear its own costs in the mediation. The fees and expenses of the mediator will be shared equally by the parties.

(b) Arbitration. If a Dispute has not been resolved within 90 days after the written notice beginning the mediation process (or a longer period, if the parties agree to extend the mediation), the mediation shall terminate and the dispute will be settled by arbitration. A party who files a suit in court regarding a Dispute rather than in arbitration waives its claim and must pay all attorney's fees and costs incurred by the other party in seeking to have such suit dismissed. Under no circumstances will a party maintain its right to pursue his/her/its Dispute if that party initiates a judicial suit instead of complying with the mediation and arbitration provisions herein. The arbitration will be conducted through JAMS/Endispute in accordance with the procedures in this document and the commercial dispute arbitration rules then in effect ("Arbitration Rules"). In the event of a conflict, the provisions of this document will control.

(1) The arbitration will be conducted before a panel of three arbitrators, regardless of the size of the dispute, to be selected as provided in the Arbitration Rules. Any issue concerning the extent to which any dispute is subject to arbitration, or concerning the applicability, interpretation, or enforceability of these procedures, including any contention that all or part of these procedures are invalid or unenforceable, shall be governed by the Federal Arbitration Act ("FAA"), and resolved by the arbitrators, provided, however, that the Partnership or such applicable affiliate thereof may pursue a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunctive relief in connection with confidentiality covenants or agreements binding on any party, with related expedited discovery for the parties, in a court of law, and, thereafter, require arbitration of all issues of final relief. Under no circumstances will a state arbitration act preclude application of the FAA, including any choice of law provisions in this agreement, or any other agreement. No potential arbitrator may serve on the panel unless he or she has agreed in writing to abide and be bound by these procedures.

(2) The arbitrators may not award non-monetary or equitable relief of any sort. They shall have no power to award punitive damages or any other damages not measured by the prevailing party's actual damages, and the parties expressly waive their right to obtain such damages in arbitration or any in other forum. In no event, even if any other portion of these provisions is held to be invalid or unenforceable, shall the arbitrators have power to make an award or impose a remedy that could not be made or imposed by a court deciding the matter in the same jurisdiction. The arbitrator(s) shall be required to state in a written opinion all facts and conclusions of law relied upon to support any decision rendered. Any dispute over whether the arbitrator(s) has failed to comply with the foregoing will be resolved by summary judgment in a court of law.

(3) The party initiating arbitration shall pay all arbitration costs and arbitrator's fees, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. All proceedings shall be conducted in Dallas, Texas, or another mutually agreeable site. Each party shall bear its own attorneys fees, costs and expenses, including any costs of experts, witnesses and/or travel, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. The duty to arbitrate described above shall survive the termination of this Agreement. This provision is intended to supersede any rights under Texas Civil Practices and Remedies Code § 38.001(8), which rights the parties expressly waive.

(4) No discovery will be allowed in connection with the arbitration unless the arbitration panel, upon a showing of substantial need, expressly authorizes it. In any event, there shall be no more than (i) two party depositions of six hours each. Each deposition is to be taken pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure; (ii) one non-party deposition of six hours; (iii) twenty-five interrogatories; (iv) twenty-five requests for admission; (v) ten requests for production. In response, the producing party shall not be obligated to produce in excess of 5,000 total pages of documents. The total pages of documents shall include electronic documents; (vi) one request for disclosure pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. Any discovery not specifically provided for in this paragraph, whether to parties or non-parties, shall not be permitted.

(5) All aspects of the arbitration shall be treated as confidential, including its institution and/or settlement. Neither the parties nor the arbitrators may disclose the existence, content or results of the arbitration, except as necessary to comply with legal or regulatory requirements. Before making any such disclosure, a party shall give written notice to all other parties and shall afford such parties a reasonable opportunity to protect their interests. In the event a party who recovered monies by settlement, award by the arbitration panel, or otherwise in connection with the Dispute violates this confidentiality term, he, she, or it shall refund all such sums recovered. The parties expressly intend to waive the right to retain any monies received through settlement, award by the arbitration panel, or otherwise in connection with the Dispute in the event that that party violates the aforementioned confidentiality term.

(6) The result of the arbitration will be binding on the parties, and judgment on the arbitrators' award may be entered in any court having jurisdiction.

6.11 Successors and Assigns. Subject to the limitations set forth in Section 1.11, this Agreement shall inure to the benefit of and be binding upon the parties and to their respective heirs, executors, administrators, successors and permitted assigns. For the avoidance of doubt, any Limited Partner who becomes a former Limited Partner shall remain bound to all terms and conditions of this Agreement.

6.12 Severability. Every provision of this Agreement is intended to be severable. If any term or provision hereof is illegal or invalid for any reason whatsoever, such term or provision will be enforced to the maximum extent permitted by law and, in any event, such illegality or invalidity shall not affect the validity of the remainder of the Agreement.

6.13 No Third Party Rights. Except for rights expressly granted hereunder to the Covered Persons, this Agreement is intended solely for the benefit of the parties hereto and is not intended to confer any benefits upon, or create any rights in favor of, any Person other than the parties hereto.

6.14 No Right to Partition. Each of the Partners, on behalf of themselves and their shareholders, partners, principals, members, successors and assigns, if any and as permitted hereunder, hereby specifically renounce, waive and forfeit all rights, whether arising under contract or statute or by operation of law, except as otherwise expressly provided in this Agreement, to seek, bring or maintain any action in any court of law or equity for partition of the Partnership or any asset of the Partnership, or any interest which is considered to be Partnership property, regardless of the manner in which title to such property may be held.

PARTICIPATING SHARES

19. Participating Shares shall confer upon a Shareholder no right to receive notice of, to attend, to speak at nor to vote at general meetings of the Company but shall confer upon the Shareholders rights in a winding-up or repayment of capital and the right to participate in the profits or assets of the Company in accordance with these Articles.

MODIFICATION OF RIGHTS

20. Whenever the capital of the Company is divided into different Classes the rights attached to any such Class may, subject to any rights or restrictions for the time being attached to any Class, only be materially adversely varied or abrogated with the consent in writing of the holders of not less than two-thirds of the issued Participating Shares of the relevant Class or with the sanction of a resolution passed at a separate meeting of the holders of the Participating Shares of such Class by a majority of two-thirds of the votes cast at such a meeting. To every such separate meeting all the provisions of these Articles relating to general meetings of the Company or to the proceedings thereat shall, mutatis mutandis, apply, except that the necessary quorum shall be one or more Persons at least holding or representing by proxy one-third in nominal or par value amount of the issued Participating Shares of the relevant Class (but so that if at any adjourned meeting of such holders a quorum as above defined is not present, those Shareholders who are present shall form a quorum) and that, subject to any rights or restrictions for the time being attached to the Participating Shares of that Class, every Shareholder of the Class shall on a poll have one vote for each Share of the Class held by him. For the purposes of this Article the Directors may treat all the Classes or any two or more Classes as forming one Class if they consider that the variation or abrogation of the rights attached to such Classes proposed for consideration is the same variation or abrogation for all such relevant Classes, but in any other case shall treat them as separate Classes.

21. The rights conferred upon the holders of the Participating Shares of any Class issued with preferred or other rights shall not, subject to any rights or restrictions for the time being attached to the Participating Shares of that Class, be deemed to be materially adversely varied or abrogated by, inter alia, the creation, allotment or issue of further Participating Shares ranking pari passu with or subsequent to them or the redemption or purchase of any Participating Shares of any Class by the Company.

If more than one fraction of a Share of the same Class is issued to or acquired by the same Shareholder such fractions shall be accumulated.

TRANSFER OF SHARES

24. The instrument of transfer of any Share shall be in any usual or common form or such other form as the Directors may, in their absolute discretion, approve and be executed by or on behalf of the transferor and if in respect of a nil or partly paid up Share, or if so required by the Directors, shall also be executed on behalf of the transferee and shall be accompanied by the certificate (if any) of the Shares to which it relates and such other evidence as the Directors may reasonably require to show the right of the transferor to make the transfer. The transferor shall be deemed to remain a Shareholder until the name of the transferee is entered in the Register in respect of the relevant Shares.

25. The Directors may in their absolute discretion decline to register any transfer of Shares without assigning any reason therefor including any purported transfer that does not comply with applicable securities or tax laws.

26. The registration of transfers may be suspended at such times and for such periods as the Directors may from time to time determine.

27. All instruments of transfer that are registered shall be retained by the Company, but any instrument of transfer that the Directors decline to register shall (except in any case of fraud) be returned to the Person depositing the same.

28. If it comes to the notice of the Directors that any Shares are held by a Restricted Person the Directors may by notice in writing require the transfer of such Shares in exercise of their powers under these Articles.

TRANSMISSION OF SHARES

29. The legal personal representative of a deceased sole holder of a Share shall be the only Person recognised by the Company as having any title to the Share. In the case of a Share registered in the name of two or more holders, the survivors or survivor, or the legal personal representatives of the deceased holder of the Share, shall be the only Person recognised by the Company as having any title to the Share.

30. Any Person becoming entitled to a Share in consequence of the death or bankruptcy of a Shareholder shall upon such evidence being produced as may from time to time be required by the Directors, have the right either to be registered as a Shareholder in respect of the Share or, instead of being registered himself, to make such transfer of the Share as the deceased or bankrupt Person

31. A Person becoming entitled to a Share by reason of the death or bankruptcy of a Shareholder shall be entitled to the same dividends and other advantages to which he would be entitled if he were the registered Shareholder, except that he shall not, before being registered as a Shareholder in respect of the Share, be entitled in respect of it to exercise any right conferred by membership in relation to meetings of the Company.

ALTERATION OF SHARE CAPITAL

32. The Company may from time to time by Ordinary Resolution increase the share capital by such sum, to be divided into Shares of such Classes and amount, as the resolution shall prescribe.

(c) subdivide its existing Shares, or any of them into Shares of a smaller amount provided that in the subdivision the proportion between the amount paid and the amount, if any, unpaid on each reduced Share shall be the same as it was in case of the Share from which the reduced Share is derived; and

(d) cancel any Shares that, at the date of the passing of the resolution, have not been taken or agreed to be taken by any Person and diminish the amount of its share capital by the amount of the Shares so cancelled.

34. The Company may by Special Resolution reduce its share capital and any capital redemption reserve in any manner authorised by law.

REDEMPTION, PURCHASE AND SURRENDER OF SHARES

35. Subject to the Law, the Company may:

(a) issue Shares on terms that they are to be redeemed or are liable to be redeemed at the option of the Company or the Shareholder on such terms and in such manner as the Directors may determine;

(b) purchase its own Shares (including any redeemable Shares) on such terms and in such manner as the Directors may determine and agree with the Shareholder;

(c) make a payment in respect of the redemption or purchase of its own Shares in any manner authorised by the Law; and

TREASURY SHARES

39. Shares that the Company purchases, redeems or acquires (by way of surrender or otherwise) may, at the option of the Company, be cancelled immediately or held as Treasury Shares in accordance with the Law. In the event that the Directors do not specify that the relevant Shares are to be held as Treasury Shares, such Shares shall be cancelled.

40. No dividend may be declared or paid, and no other distribution (whether in cash or otherwise) of the Company's assets (including any distribution of assets to members on a winding up) may be declared or paid in respect of a Treasury Share.

41. The Company shall be entered in the Register as the holder of the Treasury Shares provided that:

(a) the Company shall not be treated as a member for any purpose and shall not exercise any right in respect of the Treasury Shares, and any purported exercise of such a right shall be void;

(b) a Treasury Share shall not be voted, directly or indirectly, at any meeting of the Company and shall not be counted in determining the total number of issued shares at any given time, whether for the purposes of these Articles or the Law, save that an allotment of Shares as fully paid bonus shares in respect of a Treasury Share is permitted and Shares allotted as fully paid bonus shares in respect of a treasury share shall be treated as Treasury Shares.

42. Treasury Shares may be disposed of by the Company on such terms and conditions as determined by the Directors.

48. The accidental omission to give notice of a meeting to or the non-receipt of a notice of a meeting by any Shareholder shall not invalidate the proceedings at any meeting.

49. All business carried out at a general meeting shall be deemed special with the exception of sanctioning a dividend, the consideration of the accounts, balance sheets, any report of the Directors or of the Company's auditors, and the fixing of the remuneration of the Company's auditors. No special business shall be transacted at any general meeting without the consent of all Shareholders entitled to receive notice of that meeting unless notice of such special business has been given in the notice convening that meeting.

Save as otherwise provided by these Articles, one or more Shareholders holding at least a majority of the paid up voting share capital of the Company present in person or by proxy and entitled to vote at that meeting shall form a quorum.

51. If within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting a quorum is not present, the meeting, if convened upon the requisition of Shareholders, shall be dissolved. In any other case it shall stand adjourned to the same day in the next week, at the same time and place, and if at the adjourned meeting a quorum is not present within half an hour from the time appointed for the meeting the Shareholder or Shareholders present and entitled to vote shall form a quorum.

Save as aforesaid, it shall not be necessary to give any notice of an adjournment or of the business to be transacted at an adjourned meeting.

57. If a poll is duly demanded it shall be taken in such manner as the chairman directs, and the result of the poll shall be deemed to be the resolution of the meeting at which the poll was demanded.

68. The instrument appointing a proxy shall be deemed to confer authority to demand or join in demanding a poll.

69. A resolution in writing signed by all the Shareholders for the time being entitled to receive notice of and to attend and vote at general meetings of the Company (or being corporations by their duly authorised representatives) shall be as valid and effective as if the same had been passed at a general meeting of the Company duly convened and held.

CORPORATIONS ACTING BY REPRESENTATIVES AT MEETINGS

78. Any Director may in writing appoint another Person to be his alternate and, save to the extent provided otherwise in the form of appointment, such alternate shall have authority to sign written resolutions on behalf of the appointing Director, but shall not be required to sign such written resolutions where they have been signed by the appointing Director, and to act in such Director's place at any meeting of the Directors at which he is unable to be present. DISCLOSURE

139. The Directors, or any authorised service providers (including the officers, the Secretary and the registered office agent of the Company), shall be entitled to disclose to any regulatory or judicial authority, or to any stock exchange on which the Shares or any Class or Series may from time to time be listed, any information regarding the affairs of the Company including, without limitation, information contained in the Register and books of the Company.

INDEMNITY

140. To the fullest extent permitted by law, no Director, Secretary, Assistant Secretary, committee member or other officer for the time being and from time to time of the Company (each, a "Covered Person" and collectively, "Covered Persons") shall be liable to the Company or anyone for any reason whatsoever (including but not limited to (i) any act or omission by any Covered Person in connection with the conduct of the business of the Company, that is determined by such Covered Person in good faith to be in or not opposed to the best interests of the Company, (ii) any act or omission by any Covered Person based on the suggestions of any professional advisor of the Company whom such Covered Person believes is authorized to make such suggestions on behalf of the Company, (iii) any act or omission by the Company, or (iv) any mistake, negligence, misconduct or bad faith of any broker or other agent of the Company selected by Covered Person with reasonable care), unless any act or omission by such Covered Person constitutes willful misconduct or Gross Negligence by such Covered Person (as determined by a non-appealable judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction).

141. Covered Person may consult with legal counsel or accountants selected by such Covered Person and any act or omission by such Covered Person on behalf of the Company or in furtherance of the business of the Company in good faith in reliance on and in accordance with the advice of such counsel or accountants shall be full justification for the act or omission, and such Covered Person shall be fully protected in so acting or omitting to act if the counsel or accountants were selected with reasonable care.

142. To the fullest extent permitted by law, the Company shall indemnify and save harmless Covered Persons (the "Indemnitees"), from and against any and all claims, liabilities, damages, losses, costs and expenses, including amounts paid in satisfaction of judgments, in compromises and settlements, as fines and penalties and legal or other costs and expenses of investigating or defending against any claim or alleged claim, of any nature whatsoever, known or unknown, liquidated or unliquidated, that are incurred by any Indemnitee and arise out of or in connection with the business of the Company, any investment made, or the performance by the Indemnitee of Covered Person's responsibilities hereunder and against all taxes, charges, duties or levies incurred by such Covered Person or any Indemnitee in connection with the Company, provided that an Indemnitee shall not be entitled to indemnification hereunder to the extent the Indemnitee's conduct constitutes willful misconduct or Gross Negligence (as determined by a non-appealable judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction). The termination of any proceeding by settlement, judgment, order or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent shall not, of itself, create a presumption that the Indemnitee's conduct constituted willful misconduct or Gross Negligence.

143. Expenses incurred by an Indemnitee in defense or settlement of any claim that shall be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder, shall be advanced by the Company prior to the final disposition thereof upon receipt of an undertaking by or on behalf of the Indemnitee to repay the amount advanced to the extent that it shall be determined ultimately that the Indemnitee is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder.

144. The right of any Indemnitee to the indemnification provided herein shall be cumulative of, and in addition to, any and all rights to which the Indemnitee may otherwise be entitled by contract or as a matter of law or equity and shall be extended to the Indemnitee's successors, assigns and legal representatives.

DISPUTE RESOLUTION

145. The following procedures shall be used to resolve any controversy or claim ("Dispute") arising out of, relating to or in connection with these Articles or otherwise involving the Company, its Shareholders and/or any Covered Person. If any of these provisions are determined to be invalid or unenforceable, the remaining provisions shall remain in effect and binding on the parties to the fullest extent permitted by law.

(a) Mediation:

(i) any Dispute shall be submitted to mediation by written notice to the other party or parties. In the mediation process, the parties will try to resolve their differences voluntarily with the aid of an impartial mediator, who will attempt to facilitate negotiations. The mediator will be selected by agreement of the parties. If the parties cannot agree on a mediator, a mediator shall be designated by JAMS/Endispute at the request of a party using, if necessary, strike and rank procedures then in effect;

(ii) the mediation will be conducted as specified by the mediator and agreed upon by the parties. The parties agree to discuss their differences in good faith and to attempt, with the assistance of the mediator, to reach an amicable resolution of the dispute;

(iii) the mediation will be treated as a settlement discussion and therefore will be confidential. The mediator may not testify for either party in any later proceeding relating to the dispute. No recording or transcript shall be made of the mediation proceedings; and

(iv) each party will bear its own costs in the mediation. The fees and expenses of the mediator will be shared equally by the parties,

(b) Arbitration:

if a Dispute has not been resolved within 90 days after the written notice beginning the mediation process (or a longer period, if the parties agree to extend the mediation), the mediation shall terminate and the dispute will be settled by arbitration. A party who files a suit in court regarding a Dispute rather than in arbitration waives its claim and must pay all attorney's fees and costs incurred by the other party in seeking to have such suit dismissed. Under no circumstances will a party maintain its right to pursue his/her/its Dispute if that party initiates a judicial suit instead of complying with the mediation and arbitration provisions herein. The arbitration will be conducted through JAMS/Endispute in accordance with the procedures in these Articles and the commercial dispute arbitration rules then in effect ("Arbitration Rules"). In the event of a conflict, the provisions of these Articles will control:

(i) the arbitration will be conducted before a panel of three arbitrators, regardless of the size of the dispute, to be selected as provided in the Arbitration Rules. Any issue concerning the extent to which any dispute is subject to arbitration, or concerning the applicability, interpretation, or enforceability of these procedures, including any contention that all or part of these procedures are invalid or unenforceable, shall be governed by the United States Federal Arbitration Act ("FAA"), and resolved by the arbitrators, provided, however, that the Company or such applicable affiliate thereof may pursue a temporary restraining order and/or preliminary injunctive relief in connection with confidentiality covenants or agreements binding on any party, with related expedited discovery for the parties, in a court of law, and, thereafter, require arbitration of all issues of final relief. Under no circumstances will a State arbitration act of the United States preclude application of the FAA, including any choice of law provisions in this agreement, or any other agreement. No potential arbitrator may serve on the panel unless he or she has agreed in writing to abide and be bound by these procedures;

(ii) the arbitrators may not award non-monetary or equitable relief of any sort. They shall have no power to award punitive damages or any other damages not measured by the prevailing party's actual damages, and the parties expressly waive their right to obtain such damages in arbitration or any in other forum. In no event, even if any other portion of these provisions is held to be invalid or unenforceable, shall the arbitrators have power to make an award or impose a remedy that could not be made or imposed by a court deciding the matter in the same jurisdiction. The arbitrator(s) shall be required to state in a written opinion all facts and conclusions of law relied upon to support any decision rendered. Any dispute over whether the arbitrator(s) has failed to comply with the foregoing will be resolved by summary judgment in a court of law;

(iii) the party initiating arbitration shall pay all arbitration costs and arbitrator's fees, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. All proceedings shall be conducted in Dallas, Texas, or another mutually agreeable site. Each party shall bear its own attorneys fees, costs and expenses, including any costs of experts, witnesses and/or travel, subject to a final arbitration award on who should bear costs and fees. This provision is intended to supersede any rights under Texas Civil Practices and Remedies Code § 38.001(8), which rights the parties expressly waive;

(iv) no discovery will be allowed in connection with the arbitration unless the arbitration panel, upon a showing of substantial need, expressly authorizes it. In any event, there shall be no more than (i) two party depositions of six hours each. Each deposition is to be taken pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure; (ii) one non-party deposition of six hours; (iii) twenty-five interrogatories; (iv) twenty-five requests for admission; (v) ten requests for production. In response, the producing party shall not be obligated to produce in excess of 5,000 total pages of documents. The total pages of documents shall include electronic documents; (vi) one request for disclosure pursuant to the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure. Any discovery not specifically provided for in this paragraph, whether to parties or non-parties, shall not be permitted;

(v) all aspects of the arbitration shall be treated as confidential, including its institution and/or settlement. Neither the parties nor the arbitrators may disclose the existence, content or results of the arbitration, except as necessary to comply with legal or regulatory requirements. Before making any such disclosure, a party shall give written notice to all other parties and shall afford such parties a reasonable opportunity to protect their interests. In the event a party who recovered monies by settlement, award by the arbitration panel, or otherwise in connection with the Dispute violates this confidentiality term, he, she, or it shall refund all such sums recovered. The parties expressly intend to waive the right to retain any monies received through settlement, award by the arbitration panel, or otherwise in connection with the Dispute in the event that that party violates the aforementioned confidentiality term; and

(vi) the result of the arbitration will be binding on the parties, and judgment on the arbitrators' award may be entered in any court having jurisdiction.

CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

OF

HIGHLAND DALLAS FOUNDATION, INC.

FIRST: The name of the corporation is Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. (sometimes hereinafter referred to as the "corporation").

SECOND: The corporation is organized and shall be operated exclusively for charitable, educational and scientific purposes within the meaning of Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"). The corporation shall possess and exercise all the powers and privileges granted by the Delaware General Corporation Law (the "Law") or by any other law of the State of Delaware or by this Certificate of Incorporation together with any powers incidental thereto, so far as such powers and privileges are necessary or convenient to the conduct, promotion or attainment of the purposes of the corporation. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the corporation shall carry on only those activities permitted to be carried on by an organization that is exempt from taxation under section 501(c)(3) of the Code and an organization that is described in section 509(a)(3) of the Code.

THIRD: The address of the corporation's registered office in the State of Delaware is 1209 Orange Street, New Castle County, Wilmington, Delaware 19801. The name of the corporation's registered agent at such address is The Corporation Trust Company.

Unless and except to the extent that the bylaws of the corporation shall so require, the election of directors of the corporation need not be by written ballot.

FIFTH: No part of the net earnings of the corporation shall inure to the benefit of, or be distributable to, the corporation's directors, officers, or other private persons, except that the corporation shall be authorized and empowered to pay reasonable compensation for services rendered and to make grants, loans and similar payments in furtherance of the purposes set forth in Article SECOND hereof unless such compensation, grant, loan or similar payment would constitute an excess benefit transaction as that term is defined in either section 4958(c)(1) or section 4958(c)(3) of the Code. No part of the activities of the corporation shall be the carrying on of propaganda, or otherwise attempting to influence legislation. The corporation shall not participate in, or intervene in (including the publishing or distribution of statements), any political campaign on behalf of any candidate for public office. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Certificate of Incorporation, the corporation shall not carry on any activities not permitted to be carried on by (i) a corporation exempt from federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Code, (ii) a corporation contributions

SIXTH: The corporation shall have perpetual existence.

SEVENTH: To the fullest extent permitted by Law, no director of the corporation shall be liable to the corporation or any member for monetary damages for breach of fiduciary duty as a director, except for liability for (i) any breach of the director's duty of loyalty to the corporation or its members, (ii) acts or omissions not in good faith or which involve intentional misconduct or a knowing violation of law, including but not limited to section 4958 of the Code, or (iii) any transaction from which the director derived an improper personal benefit. If the Law is amended to authorize corporate action further eliminating or limiting the personal liability of directors, then the liability of a director of the corporation shall be eliminated or limited to the fullest extent permitted by the Law, as so amended. To the fullest extent permitted by Law, the corporation shall indemnify and may purchase and maintain insurance or other arrangements on behalf of any and all of the directors and officers of the corporation whom it may lawfully indemnify and insure to the maximum extent permitted by the Law, as amended from time to time, or by the laws of the State of Delaware, as in effect from time to time, in each case subject to the requirements of section 4958 of the Code. Any repeal or modification of this Article SEVENTH shall not adversely affect any right or protection of a director or officer of the corporation existing at the time of such repeal or modification.

EIGHTH: Upon the dissolution of the corporation, the corporation's assets shall be distributed for one or more exempt purposes within the meaning of section 501(c)(3) of the Code to The Dallas Foundation. NINTH: In furtherance and not in limitation of the powers conferred by the laws of the State of Delaware, the members of the corporation are expressly authorized to make, alter and repeal the bylaws of the corporation.

Dear Applicant:

We are pleased to inform you that upon review of your application for tax exempt status we have determined that you are exempt from Federal income tax under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Part IV Narrative Description of Activities

The Applicant is organized and will be operated exclusively as a supporting organization within the meaning of section 509(a)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), to support and benefit The Dallas Foundation ("TDF"), a Texas nonprofit corporation. TDF is exempt from federal income taxation under section 501(a) of the Code as an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of the Code and a public charity described in section 509(a)(1) of the Code.

The Applicant received its funding as one of three charitable remainder beneficiaries of a charitable remainder trust created by James Dondero, which terminated on November 30, 2011. As the attached Schedule D reflects, the Applicant qualifies as a Type I supporting organization within the meaning of section 509(a)(3)(B)(i) because a majority of its board is elected by TDF.

The Applicant's supported organization, TDF, is the oldest community foundation in Texas and serves donors and nonprofit agencies throughout North Texas. As a community foundation, TDF offers a range of ways for local philanthropists to assist the community, including donor advised funds, designated and agency endowment funds, field of interest funds, scholarship funds, and unrestricted funds. TDF focuses on challenges facing North Texas and searches for nonprofit agencies that address these issues most efficiently and effectively, and it assists in connecting donors to causes they care about. In 2010, TDF paid out $31,408,988 in grants to charitable organizations in North Texas. The Applicant will support and benefit TDF by making grants directly to TDF in support of its charitable purposes. In addition, upon the direction and on behalf of TDF, the Applicant may make grants to such other public charities that TDF wishes to benefit in furtherance of TDF's exempt purposes. The total annual grants from the Applicant to or on behalf of TDF are expected to average approximately $1,000,000 per year.

Section 1.1 Registered Office. The registered office of Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. (the "Corporation") shall be maintained in the County of New Castle, State of Delaware, and the registered agent in charge thereof is The Corporation Trust Company.

Section 1.2 Other Offices. The Corporation may also have an office in the City of Dallas, State of Texas, and also offices at such other places as the Board of Directors may from time to time determine or the business of the Corporation may require.

In addition to any voting rights provided in these Bylaws, members shall be entitled to vote upon any matter with respect to which the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware, or its successor statute, as amended (the "Law"), requires a vote of the members.

Section 2.3 Transfer of Membership. Institutional Membership in the Corporation is not transferable or assignable. Each successor Individual Member shall succeed to the rights of the initial Individual Member. Subject to the approval of the Institutional Member, each successor Individual Member may in the same manner transfer his Individual Member interest to an individual, or designate an individual, or series of individuals, to whom such Individual Member interest is to be transferred upon the occurrence of a future contingency, such as the death or failure to act of a current or future Individual Member. In the event of a conflict between such transfer documents, the one bearing the latest date shall control. Each Individual Member may at any time revoke his transfer document that is to be effective in the future, in whole or in part, by written notice delivered to the Institutional Member. If at any time an Individual Member shall be disabled and no transfer of such member's interest is to occur as a result of such disability in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this Section, then such member's attorney-in-fact under a valid, effective power of attorney instrument may act for such member hereunder. In the event of the death of an Individual Member, such member's personal representative of his estate, or trustee of a trust to which the Individual Member transferred his interest, may, if necessary, act as the Individual Member hereunder until such time as the Individual Member interest is transferred from the estate or trust.

Section 2.4 Resignation of Member. A member may resign at any time upon written notice to the Secretary.

Section 2.5 Place of Meetings. All meetings of the members be held shall by means of remote communication as authorized by the Law, unless the Board of Directors decides to hold such a meeting by another permitted means.

Section 2.6 Annual Meetings. Except as otherwise provided by these Bylaws, annual meeting of the members, commencing with the year 2012, shall be held at such date and time in the month of December as shall be provided by resolution of the Board of Directors, at which the members shall elect a Board of Directors, and transact such other business as may properly be brought before the meeting. The Secretary shall provide notice of each such meeting to each member consistent with the requirements of Section 2.8 below.

Section 2.7 Special Meetings. Special meetings of the members, for any purpose or purposes, unless otherwise prescribed by the Law or by the Certificate of Incorporation, may be called by the President and shall be called by the Secretary at the request of a majority of the Board of Directors, or at the request in writing of a member entitled to vote at such meeting. Such request shall state the purpose or purposes of the proposed meeting. The Secretary shall provide notice of each such meeting to each member consistent with the requirements of Section 2.8 below.

Section 2.8 Notice of Meetings of Members. When notice is required to be given for a meeting of the members, such notice shall specify the date, time, and location of the meeting and shall be given to each member at least ten (10) days prior to the meeting (at least three (3) days in the case of a special meeting). Notice shall be given (a) by written notice delivered personally, (b) by written notice sent by mail, email, or facsimile to the member's mailing address, email address, or facsimile number as shown by the records of the Corporation, or (c) by telephone. If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail so addressed, with postage thereon prepaid. If notice is delivered by email, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when the email is sent, provided that the sender does not subsequently receive notice that the email transmission was not delivered to the designated email address. If delivered by facsimile, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when the facsimile transmission indicates that the facsimile has been sent without error to the designated facsimile number. If delivered by telephone, such notice shall be deemed to be given at the time the telephone message shall reach and be communicated to a responsible individual at the phone number listed for a member's residence or place of business.

Section 2.9 Quorum. Both the Institutional Member and the Individual Member must be present in person or represented by proxy in order to constitute a quorum at all meetings of the members for the transaction of business, except as otherwise required by Law, the Certificate of Incorporation or these Bylaws. If, however, such quorum shall not be present or represented at any meeting of the members, the member entitled to vote thereat, present in person or represented by proxy, shall have the power to adjourn the meeting from time to time, without notice other than announcement at the meeting, of the place, date and hour of the adjourned meeting, until a quorum shall be present or represented by proxy. At the adjourned meeting at which a quorum shall be present or represented by proxy, the Corporation may transact any business which might have been transacted at the original meeting. If the adjournment is for more than 30 days, a notice of the adjourned meeting shall be given to each member of record entitled to vote at the meeting.

Section 2.10 Voting. When a quorum is present at any meeting, the vote of a majority of the number of votes held by the members, present in person or represented by proxy, shall be the act of the members, unless the act of a greater number is required by Law or expressly by these Bylaws.

Section 2.11 Proxies. At any meeting of the members, any member entitled to vote, consent or approve any action or matter may do so in person or by proxy authorized by an instrument in writing or by a transmission permitted by law. Any member represented by proxy shall be counted as present at such meeting for all purposes. Any copy, facsimile telecommunication or other reliable reproduction of the writing or transmission created pursuant to these Bylaws may be substituted or used in lieu of the original writing or transmission that could be used, provided that the copy, facsimile telecommunication or other reproduction shall be a complete reproduction of the entire original writing or transmission.

Section 2.12 Action by Written Consent. Any action required to be, or which may be, voted on, consented to or approved by the members may be taken without a meeting, without prior notice and without taking a vote if a consent or consents in writing, setting forth the action so taken, are signed by the member(s) holding the number of votes necessary to authorize or take such action at a meeting at which all members entitled to vote thereon were present and voted. A consent transmitted by electronic transmission shall be deemed to be written and signed for purposes of this Section 2.12. Prompt notice of the taking of an action by the members without a meeting by less than unanimous written consent shall be given to each member who did not consent in writing to the action. Each such consent must state the date of each member's signature. Such consent shall be placed in the minute book of the Corporation, and shall have the same force and effect as if approved by vote of the members at an actual meeting.

ARTICLE III

The business and affairs of the Corporation shall be managed by or under the direction of the Board of Directors, which may exercise all such powers of the Corporation and do all such acts and things as are not by the Law, the Certificate of Incorporation or these Bylaws directed or required to be exercised or done by the members, so long as the exercise of such powers and doing of such acts are consistent with the Corporation's prescribed purposes.

Section 3.5 Committees of Directors. The Corporation shall have no committees unless the Board of Directors, by resolution or resolutions passed by the unanimous vote of the Board, designates one or more committees.

Section 3.6 Compensation of Directors. Section 3.7 Annual Meeting. The annual meeting of the Board of Directors shall be held at such place and at such time as may be determined by the Board of Directors. If the date, time and location of the annual meeting are specified by a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors, no further notice of such annual meeting shall be required. If the date, time and location of an annual meeting are specified in another manner, then notice shall be provided consistent with the requirements of Section 3.10 below.

Section 3.8 Additional Regular Meetings. The Board of Directors may hold additional regular meetings for the purpose of taking any action and conducting any business that may properly come before the Board of Directors. If the date, time and location of the regular meeting are specified by a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors, no further notice of such regular meeting shall be required. Section 3.10 Method and Timing of Notice. Unless otherwise provided herein, when notice is required to be given for a meeting of the Board of Directors, such notice shall be given to each Director at least ten (10) days prior to the meeting. Any notice given herein shall specify the date, time, and location of the meeting. Notice shall be given (a) by written notice delivered personally, (b) by written notice sent by mail, email, or facsimile to the Director's mailing address, email address, or facsimile number as shown by the records of the Corporation, or (c) by telephone. If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail so addressed, with postage thereon prepaid. If notice is delivered by email, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when the email is sent, provided that the sender does not subsequently receive notice that the email transmission was not delivered to the designated email address. If delivered by facsimile, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when the facsimile transmission indicates that the facsimile has been sent without error to the designated facsimile number. If delivered by telephone, such notice shall be deemed to be given at the time the telephone message shall reach and be communicated to a responsible individual at the phone number listed for a Director's residence or place of business.

Section 3.11 Purpose not Required in Notice. Unless specifically required by the Law or these Bylaws for a particular action, the purpose of and business to be transacted at a meeting need not be specified in the notice of such meeting or in a waiver of notice of such meeting.

Section 3.12 Waiver of Notice. Any Director may waive notice of any meeting by a writing signed by the Director, whether signed before or after the holding of such meeting, and such signed written waiver shall be deemed the equivalent of the Director having received notice. A Director's attendance at any meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except where a Director attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting to the transaction of any business of such meeting on the ground that the meeting is not lawfully called or convened.

Section 3.13 Action by Written Consent. Any action required to be, or which may be, voted on, consented to or approved by the Board of Directors may be taken without a meeting if a consent or consents in writing, setting forth the action so taken, are signed by all of the then-serving Directors. A consent transmitted by electronic transmission shall be deemed to be written and signed for purposes of this Section 3.13. Such consent shall be placed in the minute book of the Corporation, and shall have the same force and effect as if approved by vote of the Board of Directors at an actual meeting.

Section 3.14 Validation of Action by Consent. All actions taken at a meeting of the Board of Directors which is not regularly called or noticed shall be valid as if taken at a meeting regularly called and noticed if each Director either consents in writing or is present at such meeting and does not object to the meeting being held. At such meeting any business may be transacted which is not excepted from the written consent or which is not objected to at such meeting for want of notice. If any meeting of the Board of Directors is irregular for want of notice, the proceedings of such meeting may be ratified, approved and rendered valid, and the irregularity or defect therein waived, by a writing signed by all Directors, provided a quorum was present at such meeting.

Section 3.15 Quorum and Manner of Acting. A quorum for the transaction of business at any meeting of the Board of Directors shall consist of a majority of the then serving Directors. Except as otherwise provided by the Law, the Certificate of Incorporation or these Bylaws, the vote of a majority of the Directors present at any meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the Board of Directors. Any Director may participate in a meeting of the Board of Directors or committee by means of conference telephone or other communications equipment by means of which all persons participating in the meeting can hear each other and such participation shall constitute presence in person at the meeting. In the absence of a quorum, a majority of the Directors present may adjourn the meeting from time to time until a quorum shall be present. Notice of any adjourned meeting need not be given, except that notice shall be given to all Directors if the adjournment is for more than thirty days.

Section 3.16 Resignation and Removal of Directors. Each Director may resign at any time by written notice delivered to the member that appointed such Director and to the President and Secretary of the Corporation. A resignation is effective when the resignation is delivered unless the resignation specifies a later effective date or an effective date determined upon the happening of an event or events. A resignation that is conditioned upon the director failing to receive a specified vote for reelection as a director may provide that it is irrevocable. The Institutional Member may remove an Institutional Director at any time, with or without cause. The Individual Member may remove an Individual Director at any time, with or without cause.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Section 6.1 Fiscal Year. The fiscal year of the Corporation shall be the calendar year unless changed by the Board of Directors.

Section 6.2 Depositories. The Board of Directors or an officer designated by the Board shall appoint banks, trust companies, or other depositories in which shall be deposited from time to time the money or securities of the Corporation.

Section 6.3 Checks, Drafts and Notes. All checks, drafts, or other orders for the payment of money and all notes or other evidences of indebtedness issued in the name of the Corporation shall be signed by such officer or officers or agent or agents as shall from time to time be designated by resolution of the Board of Directors or by an officer appointed by the Board of Directors.

Section 6.4 Contracts and Other Instruments. The Board of Directors may authorize any officer, agent or agents to enter into any contract or execute and deliver any instrument in the name and on behalf of the Corporation and such authority may be general or confined to specific instances.

Section 6.5 Conflicts of Interest. No contract or agreement may be entered into by and between the corporation and any of the following: (a) a Director, officer, or employee of the corporation (hereinafter an "Insider"); or (b) any corporation, partnership, trust, sole proprietorship or any other entity (hereinafter an "Entity") in which an interest is owned or held, directly or indirectly, by or for the benefit of an Insider, unless (i) the transaction is approved in accordance with Section 144 of the Delaware General Corporation Law to the extent such provision is applicable to the transaction; and (ii) if one or more of the parties to the contract or transaction is a "disqualified person" with respect to the corporation within the meaning of Section 4958 of the Code, either (x) such transaction is reviewed and approved in accordance with the "rebuttable presumption safe harbor" provisions set forth in the regulations promulgated under Section 4958 of the Code or (y) the Board of Directors determines that such procedures are not necessary for the transaction involved and records its specific findings for making such determination; provided, however, that the following contracts and agreements shall not be subject to the foregoing prohibition: a gratuitous transfer of assets or promise to transfer assets to the corporation of any kind, including but not limited to, (i) a gift annuity, charitable remainder trust, charitable lead trust or similar split-interest arrangement which benefits both the Insider and the corporation; or (ii) a loan, lease, agreement of sale or purchase, pledge, guarantee, assumption of liability, bailment, or consignment. All Insiders shall, as a condition of qualifying and continuing to qualify as a Director, officer, and/or employee of the corporation, abide by such conflict of interest policies as the Board of Directors may adopt from time to time.

Section 6.6 Waivers of Notice. Whenever any notice is required to be given under the provisions of the Law or of the Certificate of Incorporation or of these Bylaws, a waiver thereof in writing signed by the person or persons entitled to said notice, whether before or after the time stated therein, shall be deemed equivalent to notice. Attendance of a person at a meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except when the person attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting, at the beginning of the meeting, to the transaction of any business because the meeting is not lawfully called or convened. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any regular or special meeting of the members, Directors or members of a committee of directors need be specified in any written waiver of notice.

Section 6.7 Ownership Interests in Other Entities. Any ownership interests (e.g., shares of stock in any other corporation which may from time to time be held by this Corporation) may be represented and voted at any meeting of owners of such entity by the President, or by any other person or persons thereunto authorized by the Board of Directors, or by any proxy designated by written instrument of appointment executed in the name of this Corporation by its President.

Section 6.8 Indemnification.

(a) Each person who was or is a party or is threatened to be made a party to or is involved in any action, suit or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative or investigative (hereinafter a "proceeding"), by reason of the fact that the person is or was a Director or officer of the Corporation or is or was a Director or officer of the Corporation who is or was serving at the request of the Corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise, including service with respect to employee benefit plans, shall be indemnified and held harmless by the Corporation to the fullest extent authorized by the laws of Delaware as the same now or may hereafter exist (but, in the case of any change, only to the extent that such change authorizes the Corporation to provide broader indemnification rights than said law permitted the Corporation to provide prior to such change) against all costs, charges, expenses, liabilities and losses (including attorneys' fees, judgments, fines, ERISA excise taxes or penalties and amounts paid or to be paid in settlement) reasonably incurred or suffered by such person in connection therewith and such indemnification shall continue as to a person who has ceased to be a Director or officer and shall inure to the benefit of the person's heirs, executors and administrators. The right to indemnification conferred in this Section shall be a contract right and shall include the right to be paid by the Corporation the expenses incurred in defending any such proceeding in advance of its final disposition upon receipt by the Corporation of an undertaking, by or on behalf of such director or officer, to repay all amounts so advanced if it shall ultimately be determined that the director or officer is not entitled to be indemnified under this Section or otherwise. The Corporation may, by action of its Board of Directors, provide indemnification to employees and agents of the Corporation with the same scope and effect as the foregoing indemnification of Directors and officers.

(b) If a claim under subsection (a) of this Section is not paid in full by the Corporation within thirty days after a written claim has been received by the Corporation, the claimant may at any time thereafter bring suit against the Corporation to recover the unpaid amount of the claim and, if successful in whole or in part, the claimant shall also be entitled to be paid the expense of prosecuting such claim. It shall be a defense to any action (other than an action brought to enforce a claim for expenses incurred in defending any proceeding in advance of its final disposition where the required undertaking has been tendered to the Corporation) that the claimant has failed to meet a standard of conduct which makes it permissible under Delaware law for the Corporation to indemnify the claimant for the amount claimed, but the burden of proving such defense shall be on the Corporation. Neither the failure of the Corporation (including its Board of Directors, independent legal counsel, or its members) to have made a determination prior to the commencement of such action that indemnification of the claimant is permissible in the circumstances because the claimant has met such standard of conduct, nor an actual determination by the Corporation (including its Board of Directors, independent legal counsel, or its members) that the claimant has not met such standard of conduct, nor the termination of any proceeding by judgment, order, settlement, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent, shall be a defense to the action or create a presumption that the claimant has failed to meet the required standard of conduct.

(c) The right to indemnification and the payment of expenses incurred in defending a proceeding in advance of its final disposition conferred in this Section shall not be exclusive of any other right which any person may have or hereafter acquire under any statute, provision of the Certificate of Incorporation, these Bylaws, agreement, vote of members or disinterested Directors or otherwise.

(d) The Corporation may maintain insurance, at its expense, to protect itself and any Director, member, officer, employee or agent of the Corporation or another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise against any expense, liability or loss, whether or not the Corporation would have the power to indemnify such person against such expense, liability or loss under Delaware law.

(e) To the extent that any Director, officer, employee or agent of the Corporation is by reason of such position, or a position with another entity at the request of the Corporation, a witness in any proceeding, such person shall be indemnified against all costs and expenses actually and reasonably incurred by such person or on such person's behalf in connection therewith.

(f) Any amendment, repeal or modification of any provision of this Section by the members or the Directors of the Corporation shall not adversely affect any right or protection of a Director or officer of the Corporation existing at the time of such amendment, repeal or modification.

(g) The provisions of this Section 6.7, and the limitations on liability and indemnification provided in such Section, shall survive the winding up and termination of the Corporation to the extent permitted by applicable law.

Section 6.9 Amendment of Bylaws. Only the members, by the affirmative unanimous vote of the members entitled to vote, may adopt, amend, or repeal these Bylaws, and alterations or amendments of these Bylaws made by the members shall not be altered or amended by the Board of Directors to the extent such alteration or amendment expressly states that it can only be altered or amended by the members.

Honorable Stacy G. C. Jernigan
United States Bankruptcy Judge
Northern District of Texas

Re: Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc.

Dear Judge Jernigan:

The Santa Barbara Foundation ("SBF") is a community foundation incorporated in 1928 under the laws of the state of California as a nonprofit corporation to enrich the lives of the people of Santa Barbara County through philanthropy. The mission of SBF is to mobilize collective wisdom and philanthropic capital to build empathetic, inclusive, and resilient communities. Working in partnership with individuals, families, community organizations, nonprofits, businesses, and government, SBF funds a wide range of initiatives, projects, and organizations. SBF has supported nearly every Santa Barbara County nonprofit organization and essential community project during its 93-year history and continues to serve as one of the largest private funding sources for area nonprofits, agencies, and college-bound students.

In 2020, SBF awarded $31 million in grants, received $36 million in contributions, and had $514 million in assets. Nonprofit support included annual grant programs (behavioral health, health care, food, shelter & safety, and child care), laying the groundwork for workforce development strategies, and creating the Collaboration for Social Impact to help nonprofits with capacity building and leadership development. Additionally, SBF co-organized and co-led the countywide COVID-19 Joint Response Effort, broadened its grantmaking to include small businesses through the Santa Barbara Better Together Fund, co-led the 2020 census efforts with the County of Santa Barbara, sponsored and produced educational events to promote diversity, equity, inclusion and access, and continued its annual funding of the Scholarship Foundation of Santa Barbara. Grants are made through SBF from various types of funds, including donor advised, donor designated, and field of interest. Discretionary grants, totaling over $7 million in 2020, are also supported by SBF's unrestricted contributions and investment income.

Supporting Organizations

SBF works with entities organized under Section 509(a)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code as supporting organizations to SBF for the specific and primary purpose of benefiting, performing functions of, and engaging in activities consistent with SBF's charitable purposes. SBF appoints a majority of the members of the governing boards of the supporting organizations. Each governing board may create its own investment policy and grant guidelines. Each organization is a separate legal entity required to file its own IRS Form 990, "Return of Organization Exempt from Income Tax". SBF and its supporting organizations are considered under SBF's control and thus consolidated in SBF's audited financial statements.

Overview of Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, Inc.

Highland Santa Barbara Foundation, Inc. (HSBF) was formed in November 2011 as a Delaware nonprofit nonstock corporation to operate exclusively for the benefit of, to perform the functions of, or carry out the purposes of SBF. HSBF is a Type I supporting organization under Section 509(a)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. SBF is a supported organization under Section 509(a)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code.

The Bylaws of HSBF describe the governance of HSBF by its members, directors, and officers. HSBF has two classes of members, institutional and individual, and one member in each class. SBF is the institutional member. James Dondero is the individual member. HSBF has three directors, two elected by SBF and one elected by James Dondero. The president, secretary, and any other officers of HSBF are elected by the three directors.

SBF and HSBF have an operating agreement whereby SBF provides grant administration and other services to HSBF and HSBF pays support fees to SBF. The fees are calculated using a tiered schedule based on the fair market value of 100 participation shares of Charitable DAF HoldCo, Ltd., which is the primary asset of HSBF. The fair market value is determined by an independent valuation firm at least annually.

Relationship and Mission Advancement

SBF meets annually with HSBF to discuss SBF activities, alignment of SBF priorities and focus areas with HSBF philanthropic objectives, and proposed HSBF funding for the upcoming year. Since its inception, HSBF has funded over $5 million of the grants awarded by SBF, including nearly $3 million in Santa Barbara County. See HSBF, Inc. History, attached.

HSBF has augmented SBF's discretionary grants in the areas of: early childhood, youth, and workforce development and education; scholarships; veterans and military education and job training; Community Caregiving Initiative; and Food Action Plan. HSBF has also funded grants to specific organizations, including: $400,000 to Children's Museum of Santa Barbara d.b.a. MOXI - The Wolf Museum of Exploration and Innovation; $90,000 to Reasoning Mind, Inc. for identified local schools to participate in a math literacy program; and $30,000 to Boy Scouts of America - Los Padres Council for rebuilding of Camp Rancho Alegre following the Whittier Fire.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Jacqueline M Carrera

To Whom It May Concern:

Thank you for this opportunity to share our experience working with the Highland Kansas City Foundation, Inc.

I represent the Greater Kansas City Community Foundation, which exists to serve philanthropic donors by providing vehicles for their charitable giving. The Community Foundation was founded in 1978, and now has an asset base of more than $4 billion, housing thousands of donor-advised funds, scholarship funds, supporting organizations and other charitable funds and accounts established by individuals, families and businesses. In 2020, the Community Foundation's donors used their charitable dollars to grant over $550 million to their favorite causes across the country.

The Community Foundation currently works with 18 supporting organizations, one of which is the Highland Kansas City Foundation, established in 2011. Supporting organizations operate under their own legal entities but require the Community Foundation's active oversight and involvement. The Community Foundation's Board of Directors controls the Board of the Highland Kansas City Foundation. The Community Foundation oversees all of the Highland Kansas City Foundation's grants, ensuring every dollar is distributed for charitable purposes.

Since 2011, the Highland Kansas City Foundation has granted more than $9 million to support education and college preparation, historical preservation, medical research, veterans, the arts, the environment and more.

The Community Foundation's mission is to increase philanthropy and connect donors to the causes they care about, and we are honored to further the Highland Kansas City Foundation's generosity through significant annual distributions to important causes in our country.

Sincerely,

The Secretary shall provide notice of each such meeting to each member consistent with the requirements of Section 2.9 below.

Section 2.7 Special Meetings. Special meetings of the members, for any purpose or purposes, unless otherwise prescribed by the Law or by the Certificate of Incorporation, may be called by the President and shall be called by the Secretary at the request of a majority of the Board of Directors, or at the request in writing of a member entitled to vote at such meeting. At the adjourned meeting at which a quorum shall be present or represented by proxy, the corporation may transact any business which might have been transacted at the original meeting. If the adjournment is for more than 30 days, a notice of the adjourned meeting shall be given to each member of record entitled to vote at the meeting.

Section 2.11 Voting. When a quorum is present at any meeting, the vote of a majority of the members, present in person or represented by proxy, shall be the act of the members, unless the act of a greater number is required by Law or expressly by these Bylaws.

Section 2.12 Proxies. At any meeting of the members, a member is entitled to be counted as present and to vote by written proxy executed by that member or his or her duly authorized attorney-in-fact. No proxy shall be valid after three (3) months from the date of its execution.

Section 2.13 Action by Written Consent. Any action required to be, or which may be, voted on, consented to or approved by the members may be taken without a meeting, without prior notice and without taking a vote if a consent or consents in writing, setting forth the action so taken, are signed by that number of members necessary to authorize or take such action at a meeting at which all members entitled to vote thereon were present and voted. A consent transmitted by electronic transmission shall be deemed to be written and signed for purposes of this Section 2.13. Prompt notice of the taking of an action by the members without a meeting by less than unanimous written consent shall be given to each member who did not consent in writing to the action. Each such consent must state the date of each member's signature. Such consent shall be placed in the minute book of the Corporation, and shall have the same force and effect as if approved by vote of the members at an actual meeting.

ARTICLE III

DIRECTORS

Section 3.1 General Powers. The business and affairs of the Corporation shall be managed by or under the direction of the Board of Directors, which may exercise all such powers of the Corporation and do all such acts and things as are not by the Law, the Certificate of Incorporation or these Bylaws directed or required to be exercised or done by the members, so long as the exercise of such powers and doing of such acts are consistent with the Corporation's prescribed purposes.

Section 3.2 Number of Directors. The number of Directors that shall constitute the Board of Directors shall be three (3). Two (2) Directors (the "Institutional Directors") shall be elected annually by the Institutional Member and one (1) Director (the "Individual Director") shall be elected annually by the Individual Member. Each Director shall hold office until such Director's successor is elected and qualified or until such Director's earlier death, resignation, retirement, disqualification or removal.

Section 3.3 Vacancies. If the office of any Director becomes vacant by reason of death, resignation, retirement, disqualification, removal from office, or otherwise, then (i) with respect to a vacancy of an Institutional Director seat, the Institutional Member shall elect a person to fill such vacancy, and (ii) with respect to a vacancy of an Individual Director seat, the Individual Member shall elect a person to fill such vacancy. If at any time there is no Individual Member who is able to fill a vacancy of an Individual Director seat, then the Institutional Member shall elect a successor Individual Director. Each Director elected to fill a vacancy shall hold office for the unexpired term of such Director's predecessor in office.

Section 3.4 Place of Meetings. The Board of Directors may hold its meetings outside of the State of Delaware, at the office of the Corporation or at such other places as they may from time to time determine, or as shall be fixed in the respective notices or waivers of notice of such meetings.

Section 3.5 Committees of Directors. The Corporation shall have no committees unless the Board of Directors, by resolution or resolutions passed by the unanimous vote of the Board, designates one or more committees.

Section 3.6 Compensation of Directors. Except to the extent prohibited by section 4958(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (the "Code"), Directors, as such, may receive such stated salary for their services and/or such fixed sums and expenses for attendance at each regular or special meeting of the Board of Directors as may be established by resolution of the Board; provided that nothing contained in this Section shall be construed to preclude any Director from serving the Corporation in any other capacity and receiving compensation therefor.

Section 3.7 Annual Meeting. The annual meeting of the Board of Directors shall be held at such place and at such time as may be determined by the Board of Directors. If the date, time and location of the annual meeting are specified by a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors, no further notice of such annual meeting shall be required. If the date, time and location of an annual meeting are specified in another manner, then notice shall be provided consistent with the requirements of Section 3.10 below.

Section 3.8 Additional Regular Meetings. The Board of Directors may hold additional regular meetings for the purpose of taking any action and conducting any business that may properly come before the Board of Directors. If the date, time and location of the regular meeting are specified by a resolution adopted by the Board of Directors, no further notice of such regular meeting shall be required. If the date, time and location of a regular meeting are specified in another manner, then notice shall be provided consistent with the requirements of Section 3.10 below.

Section 3.9 Special Meetings. Special meetings of the Board of Directors may be held at any time on the call of the President or at the request in writing of any one or more Directors. The person or persons calling a special meeting of the Board of Directors shall fix a date, time and location for holding such special meeting, which shall be specified in a notice provided for such special meeting consistent with the requirements of Section 3.10 below.

Section 3.10 Method and Timing of Notice. When notice is required to be given for a meeting of the Board of Directors, such notice shall specify the date, time, and location of the meeting and shall be given to each Director at least ten (10) days prior to the meeting. Notice shall be given (a) by written notice delivered personally, (b) by written notice sent by mail, email, or facsimile to the Director's mailing address, email address, or facsimile number as shown by the records of the Corporation, or (c) by telephone. If mailed, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when deposited in the United States mail so addressed, with postage thereon prepaid. If notice is delivered by email, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when the email is sent, provided that the sender does not subsequently receive notice that the email transmission was not delivered to the designated email address. If delivered by facsimile, such notice shall be deemed to be delivered when the facsimile transmission indicates that the facsimile has been sent without error to the designated facsimile number. If delivered by telephone, such notice shall be deemed to be given at the time the telephone message shall reach and be communicated to a responsible individual at the phone number listed for a Director's residence or place of business.

Section 3.11 Purpose not Required in Notice. Unless specifically required by the Law or these Bylaws for a particular action, the purpose of and business to be transacted at a meeting need not be specified in the notice of such meeting or in a waiver of notice of such meeting.

Section 3.12 Waiver of Notice. Any Director may waive notice of any meeting by a writing signed by the Director, whether signed before or after the holding of such meeting, and such signed written waiver shall be deemed the equivalent of the Director having received notice. A Director's attendance at any meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except where a Director attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting to the transaction of any business of such meeting on the ground that the meeting is not lawfully called or convened.

Section 3.13 Action by Written Consent. Any action required to be, or which may be, voted on, consented to or approved by the Board of Directors may be taken without a meeting, without prior notice and without taking a vote if a consent or consents in writing, setting forth the action so taken, are signed by that number of Directors necessary to authorize or take such action at a meeting at which all Directors entitled to vote thereon were present and voted. A consent transmitted by electronic transmission shall be deemed to be written and signed for purposes of this Section 3.13. Prompt notice of the taking of an action by the Board of Directors without a meeting by less than unanimous written consent shall be given to each Director who did not consent in writing to the action. Each such consent must state the date of each Director's signature. Such consent shall be placed in the minute book of the Corporation, and shall have the same force and effect as if approved by vote of the Board of Directors at an actual meeting.

Section 3.14 Validation of Action by Consent. All actions taken at a meeting of the Board of Directors which is not regularly called or noticed shall be valid as if taken at a meeting regularly called and noticed if each Director either consents in writing or is present at such meeting and does not object to the meeting being held. At such meeting any business may be transacted which is not excepted from the written consent or which is not objected to at such meeting for want of notice. If any meeting of the Board of Directors is irregular for want of notice, the proceedings of such meeting may be ratified, approved and rendered valid, and the irregularity or defect therein waived, by a writing signed by all Directors, provided a quorum was present at such meeting.

Section 3.15 Quorum and Manner of Acting. Except as otherwise provided in these Bylaws, a quorum for the transaction of business at any meeting of the Board of Directors shall consist of all three of the then serving Directors. Except as otherwise provided by the Law, the Certificate of Incorporation or these Bylaws, the vote of a majority of the Directors present at any meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the Board of Directors. A Director shall be considered present at any meeting of the Board of Directors if the Director participates in person or by proxy or if during the meeting he or she can communicate with all other persons participating in the meeting by using conference telephone or another suitable electronic communications system. In the absence of a quorum, a majority of the Directors present may adjourn the meeting from time to time until a quorum shall be present. Notice of any adjourned meeting need not be given, except that notice shall be given to all Directors if the adjournment is for more than thirty days.

Section 3.16 Resignation and Removal of Directors. Each Director may resign at any time by written notice delivered to the member that appointed such Director and to the President and Secretary of the Corporation. The Institutional Member may remove an Institutional Director at any time, with or without cause. The Individual Member may remove an Individual Director at any time, with or without cause.

He or she shall have executive authority to see that all orders and resolutions of the Board of Directors are carried into effect and, subject to the control vested in the Board of Directors by the Law, the Certificate of Incorporation, or these Bylaws, shall administer and be responsible for the management of the business and affairs of the Corporation. Section 4.8 The Chief Financial Officer. The Chief Financial Officer shall:

ARTICLE VI

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

Section 6.1 Fiscal Year. The fiscal year of the Corporation shall be the calendar year unless changed by the Board of Directors.

Section 6.2 Depositories. The Board of Directors or an officer designated by the Board shall appoint banks, trust companies, or other depositories in which shall be deposited from time to time the money or securities of the Corporation.

Section 6.3 Checks, Drafts and Notes. All checks, drafts, or other orders for the payment of money and all notes or other evidences of indebtedness issued in the name of the Corporation shall be signed by such officer or officers or agent or agents as shall from time to time be designated by resolution of the Board of Directors or by an officer appointed by the Board of Directors.

Section 6.4 Contracts and Other Instruments. The Board of Directors may authorize any officer, agent or agents to enter into any contract or execute and deliver any instrument in the name and on behalf of the Corporation and such authority may be general or confined to specific instances.

Section 6.5 Waivers of Notice. Whenever any notice is required to be given under the provisions of the statutes or of the Certificate of Incorporation or of these Bylaws, a waiver thereof in writing signed by the person or persons entitled to said notice, whether before or after the time stated therein, shall be deemed equivalent to notice. Attendance of a person at a meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except when the person attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting, at the beginning of the meeting, to the transaction of any business because the meeting is not lawfully called or convened. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any regular or special meeting of the members, Directors or members of a committee of directors need be specified in any written waiver of notice.

Section 6.6 Ownership Interests in Other Entities. Any ownership interests (e.g., shares of stock in any other corporation which may from time to time be held by this Corporation) may be represented and voted at any meeting of owners of such entity by the President, or by any other person or persons thereunto authorized by the Board of Directors, or by any proxy designated by written instrument of appointment executed in the name of this Corporation by its President.

Section 6.7 Indemnification.

(a) Each person who was or is a party or is threatened to be made a party to or is involved in any action, suit or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative or investigative (hereinafter a "proceeding"), by reason of the fact that the person is or was a Director or officer of the Corporation or is or was a Director or officer of the Corporation who is or was serving at the request of the Corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise, including service with respect to employee benefit plans, shall be indemnified and held harmless by the Corporation to the fullest extent authorized by the laws of Delaware as the same now or may hereafter exist (but, in the case of any change, only to the extent that such change authorizes the Corporation to provide broader indemnification rights than said law permitted the Corporation to provide prior to such change) against all costs, charges, expenses, liabilities and losses (including attorneys' fees, judgments, fines, ERISA excise taxes or penalties and amounts paid or to be paid in settlement) reasonably incurred or suffered by such person in connection therewith and such indemnification shall continue as to a person who has ceased to be a Director or officer and shall inure to the benefit of the person's heirs, executors and administrators. The right to indemnification conferred in this Section shall be a contract right and shall include the right to be paid by the Corporation the expenses incurred in defending any such proceeding in advance of its final disposition upon receipt by the corporation of an undertaking, by or on behalf of such director or officer, to repay all amounts so advanced if it shall ultimately be determined that the director or officer is not entitled to be indemnified under this Section or otherwise. The Corporation may, by action of its Board of Directors, provide indemnification to employees and agents of the Corporation with the same scope and effect as the foregoing indemnification of Directors and officers.

(b) If a claim under subsection (a) of this Section is not paid in full by the Corporation within thirty days after a written claim has been received by the Corporation, the claimant may at any time thereafter bring suit against the Corporation to recover the unpaid amount of the claim and, if successful in whole or in part, the claimant shall also be entitled to be paid the expense of prosecuting such claim. It shall be a defense to any action (other than an action brought to enforce a claim for expenses incurred in defending any proceeding in advance of its final disposition where the required undertaking has been tendered to the Corporation) that the claimant has failed to meet a standard of conduct which makes it permissible under Delaware law for the Corporation to indemnify the claimant for the amount claimed, but the burden of proving such defense shall be on the Corporation. Neither the failure of the Corporation (including its Board of Directors, independent legal counsel, or its members) to have made a determination prior to the commencement of such action that indemnification of the claimant is permissible in the circumstances because the claimant has met such standard of conduct, nor an actual determination by the Corporation (including its Board of Directors, independent legal counsel, or its members) that the claimant has not met such standard of conduct, nor the termination of any proceeding by judgment, order, settlement, conviction or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent, shall be a defense to the action or create a presumption that the claimant has failed to meet the required standard of conduct.

(c) The right to indemnification and the payment of expenses incurred in defending a proceeding in advance of its final disposition conferred in this Section shall not be exclusive of any other right which any person may have or hereafter acquire under any statute, provision of the Certificate of Incorporation, these Bylaws, agreement, vote of members or disinterested Directors or otherwise.

(d) The Corporation may maintain insurance, at its expense, to protect itself and any Director, officer, employee or agent of the Corporation or another corporation, partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise against any expense, liability or loss, whether or not the Corporation would have the power to indemnify such person against such expense, liability or loss under Delaware law.

(e) To the extent that any Director, officer, employee or agent of the Corporation is by reason of such position, or a position with another entity at the request of the Corporation, a witness in any proceeding, such person shall be indemnified against all costs and expenses actually and reasonably incurred by such person or on such person's behalf in connection therewith.

(f) Any amendment, repeal or modification of any provision of this Section by the members or the Directors of the Corporation shall not adversely affect any right or protection of a Director or officer of the Corporation existing at the time of such amendment, repeal or modification.

(g) The provisions of this Section 6.7, and the limitations on liability and indemnification provided in such Section, shall survive the winding up and termination of the Corporation to the extent permitted by applicable law.

Section 6.8 Amendment of Bylaws.

(a) The members, by the affirmative unanimous vote of the members entitled to vote, may, at any annual or special meeting if notice of such alteration or amendment of the Bylaws is contained in the notice of such meeting, adopt, amend, or repeal these Bylaws, and alterations or amendments of these Bylaws made by the members shall not be altered or amended by the Board of Directors.

(b) The Board of Directors, by unanimous vote, may adopt, amend, or repeal these Bylaws at any meeting, except as provided in Section 6.8(a), above. Any alterations or amendments to these Bylaws made by the Board of Directors may be altered or repealed by the members.

Re: Highland Capital Management Partners Charitable Trust #2

Dear Debbie:

In accordance with your request during our telephone conversation last week, the paragraphs below describe briefly the proposed distribution of assets from Highland Capital Management Partners Charitable Trust #2 (the "Trust") to a to-be-formed supporting organization (i.e., Highland Kansas City Foundation, Inc.) with respect to which the Greater Kansas City Community Foundation ("GKCCF") is the supported organization.

1. The Trust. As you know, James Dondero, as the Settlor, and Grant Scott, as the Trustee, established the Trust by a trust agreement dated December 1, 2006 (the "Trust Agreement"). Under the terms of the Trust Agreement, Mr. Dondero, as Settlor, is entitled to name remainder beneficiaries and substitute new remainder beneficiaries from time to time until the remainder interest is ultimately distributed.

2. Assets of the Trust/Cayman Islands Company. The remainder interest will be comprised solely of one hundred percent (100%) of the non-voting shares (the "Shares") of Charitable DAF HoldCo, Ltd., a Cayman Islands corporation ("HoldCo"). Highland Kansas City Foundation, Inc. will receive one-third (1/3) of the Shares. HoldCo will own one hundred percent (100%) of the limited partner interests in Charitable DAF Fund, LP, a Cayman Island limited partnership, which, in turn, will own one hundred percent (100%) of the shares of CLO Holdco, Ltd., a Cayman Islands exempted company, which, in turn, owns minority equity interests in Cayman Islands investment companies that own portfolios of debt instruments issued by various public companies.

HUNTON& WILLIAMS

3. The Supporting Organizations. Mr. Dondero intends to name as the remainder beneficiaries of the Trust three supporting organizations (each an "SO", collectively, the "SOs"), each of which will support one of three separate community foundations. Each SO will receive an equal number of HoldCo Shares. Highland Capital Management, L.P. currently receives management fees from the companies that own the corporate debt portfolios and will continue to receive those fees under existing agreements with those companies after the Holdco Shares are transferred to the SOs.

4. Use of Multiple Supporting Organizations. Rather than the remainder interest being distributed in its entirety to just one or two SOs, the remainder interest is being distributed in equal shares to the three SOs out of an abundance of caution in light of the excess benefit transaction rules under Section 4958(c)(3) of the Code, such that no SO will own more than fifty percent (50%) of the stock of HoldCo.

Please let me know if you have additional questions regarding this matter.

Very truly yours,

Andrew W. Lawrence

GRANT HIGHLIGHT

Dallas Zoo

About the Dallas Zoo

The Dallas Zoological Society (the "Zoo"), the largest zoological park in Texas, has become a staple in the Dallas community over its 130-year history. Home to over 430 different species, the Dallas Zoo engages and educates visitors, while seeking to create a better world for animals.

Promoting Visitor Engagement: Grant to Support Zoo Membership

The Supporting Organizations have supported the Zoo's membership program since 2014 through a series of multiyear grants that help the Dallas Zoo continue to reach new audiences. In the first full year of the grant, the Zoo welcomed a record 600,000 guests, and that number has steadily increased since. With our support, the Zoo continues to find new ways to deliver unforgettable experiences. As a result, it regularly ranks in the top-10 zoos in the U.S. by USA Today.

Increasing Community Access: Grant to Support Discounted Admission

The Supporting Organizations pursue grant opportunities that increase community access to local civic and cultural institutions. With this goal, we expanded our support of the Zoo in 2017 to include the annual sponsorship of the "Penguin Days" program. The grant enables the Zoo to reduce the price of general admission to $7 on select days from December-February, making the Zoo more accessible to the North Texas Community and allowing families who might not otherwise visit the Zoo to do so in an affordable way.

Opening a New Exhibit: Grant to Support Construction of an Educational/Event Space at the Hippo Exhibit

The Zoo announced in early 2016 that it was planning to break ground on a new exhibit that would bring hippos to the Zoo for the first time in 16 years. The project also marked the first major exhibit opening at the Zoo since 2010. The Supporting Organizations contributed to this project through a grant that helped establish a 4,485-square-foot indoor/outdoor multipurpose event space, which engages visitors in interactive activities that further the Zoo's animal education mission. Currently, the space is a walkthrough exhibit highlighting conservation efforts of hippo habitats around the world. This exhibit helped increase attendance to a record-breaking 1.2 million visitors in 2017.

George W. Bush Presidential Center

About the George W. Bush Presidential Center

The George W. Bush Presidential Center (the "Bush Center") is comprised of the George W. Bush Presidential Library and Museum, which houses the official records of the presidency of George W. Bush, and the George W. Bush Institute, an action-oriented, nonpartisan policy organization. Through these dual operations, the Bush Center works to both preserve history and shape the future. The Bush Center is uniquely equipped to promote leadership development, advance policy initiatives, and inspire action on a local, national, and global scale. Its work covers three major Impact Centers: Domestic Excellence; Global Leadership; and Engagement. Through these Impact Centers, the Bush Center is dedicated to solving some of today's most pressing challenges.

Driving a Local Institution's Ambitious Global Agenda: Grant Supporting the Construction of the Bush Center in Dallas

In 2008, the Bush Center officially selected Dallas as its permanent home, announcing plans to construct its building on the campus of SMU. The Supporting Organizations helped make the vision of the Bush Center's Dallas home a reality, making a grant to help complete construction and design for the building. On May 1, 2013, the Bush Center opened its doors to the public. In its first five years after opening, the Bush Center welcomed over $1.6 million visitors.

Securing a Legacy and Driving Engagement: Grant Supporting the Center's Long-term Operations and Engagement Agenda

In 2018, the Bush Center launched an important fundraising initiative to ensure its mission endures for generations to come. With its "A Charge to Keep" capital campaign, the Bush Center aimed to raise funds that would sustain its operations beyond the lifetimes of President and Mrs. Bush.

The Supporting Organizations made a grant to help ensure the Bush Center can continue its important work well into the future. The grant specifically focused on the public speaker series, Engage at the Bush Center. The series brings newsmakers, thought leaders, and authors to the Bush Center for thought-provoking panel discussions and keynote conversations that allow guests to connect with the Bush Center in a meaningful way and dive deeper into many of today's most pressing policy areas and issues.

Perot Museum

About the Perot Museum

The Perot Museum of Nature and Science (the "Perot") promotes science and education in the North Texas community through hands-on exhibits, educator resources, unique films, and other special programming that engages audiences of all ages.

Helping Establish a World Class Museum in Downtown Dallas: Grant to Support Construction of the New Perot Museum:

With support from Dallas' philanthropic community, the Perot Museum opened a new building in December 2012. With its bold architectural design, it quickly became a fixture in its new location in Dallas' Victory Park. The project also sparked a renewed commitment to inspire minds and improve community achievement, giving rise to new initiatives that promote science learning.

The Supporting Organizations contributed to the project by issuing a challenge grant, which matched donations, inciting additional giving and helping complete the project's capital campaign. Since then, we have contributed additional funding to support ongoing educational programming, special exhibitions, and community engagement initiatives.

Increasing Community Access: Grant to Support the Perot's Traveling Exhibition Programs

In 2014, the Supporting Organizations began issuing a series of grants to support the traveling exhibitions program. The initial exhibition, the "The World's Largest Dinosaurs" exhibition, educated audiences on the gigantic sauropods that once roamed the earth, drawing nearly 200,000 visitors to the museum. Since then, our grants have made possible the many captivating exhibitions that have been hosted by the Perot, covering a range of subject areas. With two special exhibitions held each year, the grants enable the museum to deliver new experiences that give visitors a reason to keep coming back and serve as a complement to the museum's 11 permanent exhibit halls. The program draws exhibitions from around the globe to the Perot, providing the North Texas community with access to world-class educational experiences. All the special exhibition grants include funding that allows the Perot to make all traveling exhibitions bilingual (with programming in both English and Spanish). These exhibits have helped increase community access to the North Texas Hispanic population.

Cristo Rey Dallas

About Cristo Rey Dallas

Cristo Rey Dallas College Prep ("CRD") is a private, independent Catholic high school located in the Pleasant Grove area of Southeast Dallas. The Cristo Rey Network's formula for success is a proven, revolutionary model of college preparatory high school curriculum accessible to those of limited financial resources. It integrates rigorous college preparatory academics with professional work experience through the Corporate Work Study Program—a key component of the fiscal sustainability of the Cristo Rey model. Through the Work Study Program, students work in a professional setting five days per month to earn the majority of their tuition. The 144 job partners include some of Dallas's most prominent companies.

The Cristo Rey model is proven, with 100% of graduates gaining acceptance to a two- or four-year college and 90% matriculating. For students in Pleasant Grove—where only 4% of the population graduated from college—CRD offers access and opportunity that can change their trajectory.

Building Space for Innovation: Grant to Support CRD Campus Expansion and Renovations

The 30th school in the nationwide Cristo Rey network, CRD opened in August 2015, operating out of an old elementary school and aging gymnasium. They quickly outgrew the space and had to begin turning away prospective students. In 2019, CRD launched a $15 million capital campaign to expand the campus, adding new academic and athletic buildings and conducting much needed renovations on the existing buildings.

The Supporting Organizations issued the campaign's lead grant, helping build a new 37,000 sq. ft. Innovation Center, which boasts spaces for fine arts and counseling. The campaign also created a new cafeteria and gymnasium, as well as a new soccer field – something the school never had before. The new buildings opened in time for the 2020 school year.

The Supporting Organizations also helped provide space for CRD students off campus in a centrally located office building near Downtown Dallas. The space gave students a place to study and complete work study programs that were moved to Work From Home due to the pandemic.

Education Is Freedom

About Education Is Freedom

Education Is Freedom ("EIF") is committed to transforming students' lives through education. With a focus on college planning, the organization provides underserved students in the North Texas community with a range of resources to ensure every student has the opportunity to pursue a college education.

EIF's higher education advisors work onsite at public high schools across the region, helping students and their families navigate the college process. In 20XX, EIF helped high school seniors complete 21,000 college applications and receive over $132 million in scholarships.

In addition to their college planning initiatives, EIF operates a number of supplementary programs to enhance access to postsecondary education and promote workforce readiness.

Developing a Skilled and Educated Workforce: Grant Supporting the Mayor's Intern Fellows Program

In 2008, EIF worked with the Mayor's Office to create the Mayor's Intern Fellows Program ("MIFP"), an initiative to provide workforce readiness. The program provides Dallas high school students with internship opportunities at local companies, nonprofits, and government entities. Through the eight-week, paid internship, students gain real-world experience and insight into the professional opportunities available to them. Not only does the program prepare students for future careers, but it also connects local businesses with the future workforce, promoting collaboration to strengthen the pipeline of talent.

The Supporting Organizations have issued grants to EIF to support the MIFP. The grants have helped EIF put on the program's annual Job Fair. Held in the spring, the Job Fair provides an opportunity for students to interview with prospective employers in the hopes of securing an internship for the summer. Education Is Freedom conducts extensive training with the students throughout the program, offering workshops and coaching on everything from interview preparation to professional etiquette.

In 2018, over 2,400 students from 52 high schools applied for the program. Of those applicants, 1,050 were selected to attend the Job Fair. At the 2018 Job Fair, over 200 employers from across the Dallas-Fort Worth region interviewed internship candidates, ultimately offering positions to 395 students for the summer. In addition to the Job Fair, our grants have funded internships at various nonprofit partners, covering the cost for organizations that might not otherwise be able to hire paid interns.

SMU Tower Center

About the SMU Tower Scholars Program

The Southern Methodist University ("SMU") Tower Scholars Program provides top undergraduate students with an opportunity to integrate public policy and international affairs into their studies through a dedicated curriculum of academic coursework and real-world experiences. Students in the program receive a minor in public policy and international affairs, offered through SMU's John Goodwin Tower Center for Political Studies (the "Tower Center").

> "The Tower Scholar Program's resources and curriculum allow me to not only learn public policy principles through lectures, but also gain tactile experience with practicums and classes taught by policy practitioners. Without this program, I would have been unable to experience and explore my interest in public policy."
> – Tower Scholar, Class of 2020

Investing in the Next Generation of Policymakers: Grant to Endow the Tower Scholars Undergraduate Program at SMU

In 2014, the Supporting Organizations worked with the Tower Center to create a dedicated undergraduate program that carries out the center's mission of bridging the gap between the scholarship and practice of politics and striving to inspire ethical public service. The grant established an endowment that provides long-term funding for the Tower Scholars Program.

A hallmark of the program is its interdisciplinary focus. Over 75% of the Tower Scholars either earned or are pursuing more than one major—and that is in addition to the minor they earn in the program. Outside the classroom, each student is involved in multiple on-campus organizations, many in leadership positions.

The Supporting Organizations' grant makes possible the unique academic experiences—from meeting with global leaders, to working on real policy issues for major corporations—offered to the Tower Scholars. The program accepts 10 students each year, and recently welcomed its eighth cohort.

Center for BrainHealth

About the Center for BrainHealth

The Center for BrainHealth ("CBH"), part of The University of Texas at Dallas, is a research institute committed to enhancing, protecting and restoring brain health across the lifespan. CBH is composed of independent labs that are responsible for more than 60 fully funded research projects that investigate brain health, injury, and disease. Many of the center's programs use functional and structural neuroimaging techniques to better understand the neurobiology supporting cognition and emotion in health and disease. Areas of research include addiction, aging, Alzheimer's disease, autism, multiple sclerosis, social cognition, and traumatic brain injuries.

Applying Innovative Research to Improve the Lives of Post-9/11 Veterans and First Responders: Grant Supporting the Warriors Program Through the Brain Performance Institute

In 2015, CBH broke ground on new building dedicated to translating leading-edge science to scalable solutions for the public at large. Through construction of the Brain Performance Institute, CBH sought to extend the reach and applications of its research, providing solutions to the public to maximize brain performance in health, injury, and disease.

The Supporting Organizations made a grant to help fund the construction of the Brain Performance Institute and expand CBH's Warrior Initiative, which that focused on translating research into cognitive therapies for former military personnel. The Warrior Initiative was established to provide high performance brain training to current and former military service men and women and their families.

The goal of the Warrior Initiative program is to arm veteran and active-duty service members with the necessary tools to achieve successful, enriching, and fulfilling lives by proactively optimizing brain performance, building resilience in cognitive brain function, and reversing losses in cognitive capacity. The program was expanded in 2016 to support first responders, specifically focusing on local law enforcement.

The grant help create a space in the Brain Performance Institute building specifically for veterans, first responders, and their families, where these groups are able to come together in a safe, relaxing environment and get to know other members of service before and after training sessions.

Friends of the Dallas Police

About Friends of the Dallas Police

The Friends of Dallas Police was founded in 1982 to recognize the commitment that the employees of the Dallas Police Department make to better the city and its residents' quality of life. The organization's mission is to raise and provide funds to be used to host a major awards banquet each year honoring Dallas Police Department personnel for outstanding performance in the line of duty. Over the years, approximately 4,400 awards have been presented to officers and civilian staff, and more than $43,000 in educational scholarships have been awarded to their children.

Helping Show Appreciation and Recognition to Local Law Enforcement: Grant Supporting the Annual Awards Program

The Supporting Organizations have provided grants to help the Friends of the Dallas Police show appreciation to the men and women of the Dallas Police Department who risk their lives every day to make Dallas a safer city. Our grants have helped fund the annual awards event hosted by the Friends of the Dallas Police, which honors and recognizes outstanding employees throughout the Dallas Police Department.

Through our grants, the Supporting Organizations have facilitated the production of the annual awards program, enabled sworn and non-sworn employees and their spouses to attend the event, and provided educational sponsorships for children of police officers.

The Supporting Organizations have also drawn on its philanthropic network to provide gifts to award recipients and their families, including tickets to visit organizations like the Dallas Zoo, George W. Bush Presidential Center, and Perot Museum.

Snowball Express

About Snowball Express

Snowball Express (now part of the Gary Sinise Foundation) serves the children of fallen military heroes. By providing events and other experiences in a stress-free environment, the organization is creating a community to learn, grow, and make lasting memories with new friends.

The organization hosts an annual five-day experience for 1,750+ children of the fallen and their surviving parent or guardian. As a therapeutic retreat with a blend of fun and inspiring programs, these families can lean on their peers for support. The organization also hosts community-driven events for these families all year long. From baseball games, to arts and educational opportunities, to camping trips, the events strengthen the local networks of Gold Star families, helping children and surviving spouses to build bonds with the only people who can truly understand their loss: each other.

Supporting Families of Fallen Service Members: Grant to Support Programming for Gold Star Children

In 2014, Myles Eckert, the nine-year-old son of U.S. Army Sergeant was killed in Iraq on active duty, gave a $20 bill that he found to a veteran in a pay-it-forward act of kindness towards our military. Myles's story was shared widely online, and the gift quickly received national attention.

In honor of Myles Eckert's gift, the Supporting Organizations issued a challenge grant to Snowball Express to support the organization's programming for children that have lost one or both parents during active service.

The grant inspired significant giving from individuals and organizations around the world, enabling Snowball Express to expand its services for Gold Star children and their families.

Snowball Express used the proceeds from the challenge grant to provide services to over 8,000 Gold Star children in 2014—almost 6,000 more than the year before and a new record for the organization.

Dallas Children's Advocacy Center

About Dallas Children's Advocacy Center

Dallas Children's Advocacy Center ("DCAC") is the only agency of its kind in Dallas County, working in agreement with public and private agencies to investigate, prosecute, and provide healing services for child abuse cases in Dallas County. DCAC reduces the re-victimization of the child, removes barriers to investigation and treatment, and enhances criminal prosecution with its distinctive multidisciplinary approach to these complex and severe cases.

Fostering Crucial Collaboration: Grant to Support DCAC's Operations and Strengthen Collaboration Among Agencies Involved in Child Abuse Cases

The Supporting Organizations have been a longtime partner of the Dallas Children's Advocacy Center ("DCAC"), issuing annual grants that provide funding for a range of operating costs. The grants help DCAC serve over 8,000 children (and their non-offending family members) each year who were sexually abused, severely physically abused, or who had witnessed a violent crime. DCAC's average client is a 9-year-old girl, sexually abused by someone she knows and trusts.

The grants also support DCAC in its efforts to foster crucial collaboration across government agencies and other organizations involved in child abuse cases. The DCAC building houses the Child Abuse Unit of the Dallas Police Department, six units of CPS, and a Dallas County Assistant District Attorney. Having all of these professionals under one roof drives collaboration and communication in the very sensitive cases that DCAC coordinates.

Not only have the Supporting Organizations been a long-time financial supporter of DCAC, we have also provided support in other ways, leveraging connections with our network of nonprofit partners. Most recently, we worked with the Dallas Zoo to provide animal encounter demonstrations during DCAC's summer camps, which serve as a way to deliver ongoing support to—and help build a community for—children who have experienced trauma.

The Family Place

About The Family Place

The Family Place was founded in 1978 and has grown to become the largest family violence prevention agency in North Texas, providing shelter and assistance to victims across the region along with counseling and education. Since its founding, the organization has served over 839,000 clients through counseling, shelter, and hotline responses.

In 2019, The Family Place served nearly 12,000 clients, providing over 62,000 days of emergency shelter, over 36,000 days of transitional housing, and over 18,000 hours of counseling to nonresidential clients, and over 8,000 hours of counseling to batterers. All services are in Spanish and in English.

Providing Support for Victims of Family Violence Across North Texas

The Family Place empowers victims of family violence by providing safe housing, counseling, and skills that create independence while building community engagement and advocating for social change to stop family violence.

While The Family Place supports clients in several different ways, its Residential Services, which provide safe shelter for families affected by violence, are one of crucial components of its work. These services include the Emergency Shelter Services, which provide immediate shelter for families escaping abuse, and the Supportive Living Program, which provides long-term housing for families as they rebuild their lives. Not only does the organization provide necessities like food, clothing, and transportation, but it also offers childcare, legal services, counseling, and case management.

As The Family Place expanded, its Residential Services were constrained by the capacity of its emergency shelters, and at many times the organization had to house clients in hotels and other temporary housing in order to meet demand.

In 2016, the Supporting Organizations issued a challenge grant to help The Family Place build a new shelter facility to expand its Residential Services. The new facility provides space and support services for over 2,000 victims per year. It also includes onsite Medical and Dental Clinics and even an Animal Kennel so families can bring their beloved pets with them to safety. The shelter has been operating at full capacity since October 2017. With the new facility, The Family Place now has three emergency shelters, providing 177 shelter beds each night, and three counseling centers.

Where family violence stops

July 7, 2021

To Whom It May Concern:

I am pleased to write this letter outlining the relationship between The Family Place and the Highland Dallas Foundation. The Family Place empowers victims of family violence by providing safe housing, counseling and skills that create independence while building community engagement and advocating for social change to stop family violence. Our agency provides emergency shelter, individual and group counseling, case management, transitional housing as well as other essential services to help those seeking refuge from family violence. The Family Place provides free, comprehensive services in both Spanish and English that prevent violence and fully support women, children, and men on their path from fear to safety.

In 2020, The Family Place successfully navigated through COVID-19 and the barriers it presented, serving 11,933 unduplicated clients across our programs. Our emergency shelters served 678 women, 886 children and 58 men for a total of 62,118 shelter nights. 98% of our shelter clients did not return to their abuser after exiting one of our shelters. In our counseling programs, we served 2,258 clients, an 11.5% increase over 2019. 98% of our counseling clients reported feeling safer after attending counseling at The Family Place. At our on-site medical and dental clinics, we treated 778 clients and referred 571 clients to more intensive medical and dental services.

The Highland Dallas Foundation has been a long-standing partner with The Family Place in providing services to domestic violence clients. In 2016, The Family Place launched a 5-year, $16.5 million dollar capital campaign to build a new facility specifically designed to provide all necessary services for victims seeking shelter and counseling. The Family Place successfully reached our capital campaign goal due in large part to the commitment of a $1 million matching grant by the Highland Dallas Foundation. In December 2016, the Highland Dallas Foundation donated $13,950 for Christmas gifts for our clients. In 2017, when the Highland Hippo Hut was opened at the Dallas Zoo, the Highland Dallas Foundation generously invited our shelter clients to a special Mother's Day luncheon.

The collaboration between the Highland Dallas Foundation and The Family Place has been instrumental in providing community exposure and awareness of domestic violence in our community as well as providing essential services to family violence victims. With our new facility, completed in 2017, The Family Place has been able to expand programs and execute on the long-range plans developed for these programs. For victims of family violence, The Family Place is the Dallas area's leading organization delivering proven programs that address emotional and physical abuse and incest. Without the ongoing support of the Highland Dallas Foundation, The Family Place would not be able to successfully serve our domestic violence clients who are in desperate need of support.

Sincerely,

Paige Flink

Cristo Rey Dallas Update

Cristo Rey Dallas (CRD) is incredibly grateful for the gifts from Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. CRD is excited to have the Highland Capital Academic Center and the NexBank Gymnasium in the Innovation Center on our campus. These naming rights were given as the result of a donation that Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc.made to our Innovation Center Capital Campaign. These facilities truly impact our students and allow us to provide our services to our population of 465 students.

CRD also receives support from Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. through the Corporate Work Study Program (CWSP). Cornerstone Healthcare and NexBank both currently have one job team (a team of 4 students) that work in their offices. In the upcoming year, NexBank will host two teams of students. One team is funded through the gift from Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. and the other is supported by NexBank. The work study program allows students to earn about 60% percent of their tuition to CRD, and the involvement in the work study program makes such a difference in the lives of the 8 students that work in those businesses.

Finally, CRD is incredibly thankful for the remote workspace at Cityplace Tower. CWSP has been greatly affected by COVID-19. This year, many partners were unable to host students in their offices. The space at Cityplace Tower allows 30 students to work remotely for their job partners each day which means that about 120 students benefit from the offices each week. Without this space, CRD would not have the capacity to allow these students to work remotely.

The support of Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. has meant so much to us at CRD. We are so appreciative, and we look forward to continuing our partnership for many years.

Dallas Children's Advocacy Center™
PROVIDING JUSTICE • RESTORING HOPE

Dallas Children's Advocacy Center (DCAC)
Partnership with Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc.

Organization Mission and History

The mission of DCAC is to improve the lives of abused children in Dallas County and to provide national leadership on child abuse issues. Since opening its doors in 1991, DCAC has served more than 60,000 of the most severely abused children and their non-offending family members in Dallas County. In FY2021, DCAC will serve 8,400 children and their non-offending family members.

DCAC was created to coordinate the investigation of child abuse cases that rise to the criminal level in a seamless, collaborative process. We facilitate a coordinated approach to child abuse cases that results in more successful investigation and prosecution outcomes and provides a less traumatic response to child victims and families. DCAC partners with 39 organizations to form a Multidisciplinary Team (MDT) that includes medical, legal, and law enforcement and is designed to ensure child clients receive the appropriate services for healing and safety.

In 2015 DCAC's Partner Relations Team began reading all reports of abuse and neglect made to DFPS in Dallas County as part of a state-wide effort to ensure every child who needs services from a children's advocacy center (CAC) gets them. In FY2019 we read 28,131 reports of child abuse for Dallas County. At the beginning of March 2020 before COVID-19 safety measures were implemented, we had experienced a 15% increase in the number of cases read. While case reports went down during quarantine, we have projected and experienced a dramatic increase in cases; at the end of February 2021, we had experienced a 35% increase in cases read year-over-year.

In addition to supportive services provided by the MDT, DCAC also provides the following Core Programs at no cost to our clients. Please note, for the second half of FY2020, DCAC provided therapy and family advocacy services via a HIPPA-approved telehealth platform, Doxy.me. Forensic interviews were always conducted on-site during quarantine. Below you will find details and outcomes for FY 2020.

Forensic Interview Program

Trained DCAC forensic interviewers conduct interviews of children, both as a first step in the child's healing process and as a vital component of the investigation and prosecution of alleged perpetrators. The result is a legally defensible investigative interview of each alleged child victim. During FY2020, DCAC conducted 1,921 forensic interviews.

Family Advocacy Program

The Family Advocacy Team is committed to helping each family navigate the complex process of investigation, prosecution and healing after a child makes an outcry of abuse. The team helps the family learn about their rights and resources available to them during crisis as well as provides tangible, critical needs items like clothing, toiletries, and financial assistance on an as-needed basis. During FY 2020, the Family Advocacy Program supported 7,431 children and their non-offending family members.

Evidence-Based Therapy Program

Dallas Children's Advocacy Center™
PROVIDING JUSTICE • RESTORING HOPE

The Evidence-Based Therapy Program provides clients and their non-offending caregivers with cutting-edge, no-cost therapeutic services. Treatment is informed by an initial assessment to enhance engagement between families and therapists toward the recovery of children. When clients are assessed at the end of treatment, over 70% report a reduction in trauma symptoms. During FY 2020, the DCAC Therapy Program provided services to 2,498 clients.

Education Program

DCAC has pioneered a comprehensive, multi-part training curriculum that provides holistic responses to Texas child abuse reporting laws. In the past year, 100,405 people were educated in our curriculum by means of in-person instruction or online learning. In addition to our cutting-edge curriculum, we also host a Lecture Series at the Center. Lecture Series topics are designed to provide continuing education for medical, legal, clinical, law enforcement and other children's advocacy professionals. Since the start of the pandemic, we moved all lecture series' online; we continue to provide this education virtually and as such have discovered we can reach even more professional.

Partnership with Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc.

Since 2016, Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. has supported DCAC through yearly, general operating investments towards our mission. We have received over $85,000 over the past five years through sponsorship of our Art for Advocacy event as well as from a golf tournament where DCAC was the dedicated beneficiary. This funding has been critical to the sustainability of our programs and each dollar allows us to serve our clients with transformative services at no cost to them. Alongside the financial commitment, Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. has gone above and beyond in introducing us to additional community advocates who individually support our efforts as well. The ripple effect of our partnership with Highland Dallas Foundation, Inc. is invaluable and for that we are so grateful.

ORIGINAL COMPLAINT

I.

INTRODUCTION

This action arises out of the acts and omissions of Defendant Highland Capital Management, L.P. ("HCM"), which is the general manager of Highland HCF Advisor, Ltd. ("HCFA"), both of which are registered investment advisers under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 (the "Advisers Act"),[1] and nominal Defendant Highland CLO Funding, Ltd. ("HCLOF") (HCM and HCFA each a "Defendant," or together, "Defendants"). The acts and omissions which have recently come to light reveal breaches of fiduciary duty, a pattern of violations of the Advisers Act's anti-fraud provisions, and concealed breaches of the HCLOF Company Agreement, among others, which have caused and/or likely will cause Plaintiffs damages.

[1] https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/summary/110126

At all relevant times, HCM was headed by CEO and potential party James P. Seery ("Seery"). Seery negotiated a settlement with the several Habourvest[2] entities who owned 49.98% of HCLOF. The deal had HCM (or its designee) purchasing the Harbourvest membership interests in HCLOF for $22.5 million. Recent revelations, however, show that the sale was predicated upon a sales price that was vastly below the Net Asset Value ("NAV") of those interests. Upon information and belief, the NAV of HCLOF's assets had risen precipitously, but was not disclosed to Harbourvest nor to Plaintiffs.

Under the Advisers Act, Defendants have a non-waivable duty of loyalty and candor, which includes its duty not to inside trade with its own investors, i.e., not to trade with an investor to which HCM and Seery had access to superior non-public information. Upon information and belief, HCM's internal compliance policies required by the Advisers Act would not generally have allowed a trade of this nature to go forward—meaning, the trade either was approved in spite of compliance rules preventing it, or the compliance protocols themselves were disabled or amended to a level that leaves Defendants HCM and HCLOF exposed to liability. Thus, Defendants have created an unacceptable perpetuation of exposure to liability.

Additionally, Defendants are liable for a pattern of conduct that gives rise to liability for their conduct of the enterprise consisting of HCM in relation to HCFA and HCLOF, through a pattern of concealment, misrepresentation, and violations of the securities rules. In the alternative, HCFA and HCM, are guilty of self-dealing, violations of the Advisers Act, and tortious interference by (a) not disclosing that Harbourvest had agreed to sell at a price well below the current NAV, and (b) diverting the Harbourvest opportunity to themselves.

HCMLPHMIT00003786

For these reasons, judgment should be issued in Plaintiffs' favor.

IV.

RELEVANT BACKGROUND

HCLOF IS FORMED

10. Plaintiff DAF is a charitable fund that helps several causes throughout the country, including providing funding for humanitarian issues (such as veteran's welfare associations and women's shelters), public works (such as museums, parks and zoos), and education (such as specialty schools in underserved communities). Its mission is critical.

11. Since 2012, DAF was advised by its registered investment adviser, Highland Capital Management, L.P., and its various subsidiaries, about where to invest. This relationship was governed by an Investment advisory Agreement.

12. At one point in 2017, HCM advised DAF to acquire 143,454,001 shares of HCLOF, with HCFA (a subsidiary of HCM) serving as the portfolio manager. DAF did so via a holding entity, Plaintiff CLO Holdco, Ltd.

13. On November 15, 2017, through a Subscription and Transfer Agreement, the DAF entered into an agreement with others to sell and transfer shares in HCLOF, wherein the DAF retained 49.02% in CLO Holdco.

14. Pursuant to that agreement, Harbourvest acquired the following interests in the following entities:

Harbourvest Dover Street IX Investment, L.P., acquired 35.49%;

Harbourvest 2017 Global AIF, L.P., acquired 2.42%;

Harbourvest 2017 lobal Fund, L.P., acquired 4.85%;

HV International VIII Secondary, L.P., acquired 6.5%; and Harbourvest Skew Base AIF, L.P., acquired 0.72%;

for a total of 49.98% (altogether, the "Harbourvest interests").

15. On or about October 16, 2019, Highland Capital Management filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in Delaware Bankruptcy Court, which was later transferred to the Northern District of Texas Bankruptcy Court, in the case styled In Re: Highland Capital Management, L.P., Debtor, Cause No. 19-34054, (the "HCM Bankruptcy" and the Court is the "Bankruptcy Court").

The Harbourvest Settlement with Highland Capital Management in Bankruptcy

16. On April 8, 2020, Harbourvest submitted its proofs of claim in the HCM bankruptcy proceeding. Annexed to its proofs of claims was an explanation of the Proof of Claim and the basis therefor setting out various pre-petition allegations of wrongdoing by HCM. See, e.g., Case No. 19-bk-34054, Doc. 1631-5.

17. The debtor, HCM, made an omnibus response to the proofs of claims, stating they were duplicative of each other, overstated, late, and otherwise meritless.

18. Harbourvest responded to the omnibus objections on September 11, 2020. See Cause No. 19-bk-34054, Doc. 1057.

19. Harbourvest represented that it had invested in HCLOF, purchasing 49.98% of HCLOF's outstanding shares.

20. Plaintiff CLO Holdco was and is also a 49.02% holder of HCLOF's member interests.

21. In its Omnibus Response, Harbourvest explained that its claims included unliquidated legal claims for fraud, fraud in the inducement, RICO violations under 18 U.S.C. 1964, among others (the "Harbourvest Claims"). See Cause No. 19-bk-34054, Doc. 1057.

22. The Harbourvest Claims centered on allegations that when Harbourvest was intending to invest in a pool of Collateralized Loan Obligations, or CLOs, that were then-managed by Acis Capital Management ("Acis"), a subsidiary of HCM, HCM failed to disclose key facts about ongoing litigation with a former employee, Josh Terry.

23. Harbourvest contended that HCM never sufficiently disclosed the underlying facts about the litigation with Terry, and HCM's then-intended strategy to fight Terry caused HCLOF to incur around $15 million in legal fees and costs. It contended that had it known the nature of the lawsuit and how it would eventually turn out, Harbourvest never would have invested in HCLOF. See Cause No. 19-bk-34054, Doc. 1057.

24. HCLOF's portfolio manager is HCFA. HCM is the parent of HCFA and is managed by its General Partner, Strand Management, who employs Seery and acts on behalf of HCM.

25. Before acceding to the Harbourvest interests, HCM was a 0.6% holder of HCLOF interests.

26. While even assuming Harbourvest's underlying claims were valid as far as the lost $15 million went, the true damage of the legal fees to Harbourvest would have been 49.98% of the HCLOF losses (i.e., less than $7.5 million). Harbourvest claimed that it had lost over $100 million in the HCLOF transaction due to fraud, which, after trebling under the racketeering statute, it claimed it was entitled to over $300 million in damages.

27. In truth, as of September 2020, Harbourvest had indeed lost some $52 million due to the alleged diminishing value of the HCLOF assets (largely due to the underperformance of the Acis entities[3])—and the values were starting to recover.

28. HCM denied the allegations in the Bankruptcy Court. Other than the claim for waste of corporate assets of $15 million, HCM at all times viewed the Harbourvest legal claims as being worth near zero and having no merit.

29. On December 23, 2020, HCM moved the Court to approve a settlement between itself and Harbourvest. No discovery had taken place between the parties, and Plaintiff did not have any notice of the settlement terms or other factors prior to the motion's filing (or even during its pendency) in order to investigate its rights.

30. HCM set the hearing right after the Christmas and New Year's holidays, almost ensuring that no party would have the time to scrutinize the underpinnings of the deal.

31. On January 14, 2021, the Bankruptcy Court held an evidentiary hearing and approved the settlement in a bench ruling, overruling the objections to the settlement.

[3] Acis was being managed by Joshua Terry. JP Morgan had listed the four ACIS entities under his management as the four worst performers of the 1200 CLOs it evaluated.

32. An integral part of the settlement was allowing $45 million in unsecured claims that, at the time of the agreement, were expected to net Harbourvest around 70 cents on the dollar. In other words, Harbourvest was expected to recover around $31,500,000 from the allowed claims.

33. As part of the consideration for the $45 million in allowed claims, Harbourvest agreed to transfer all of its interests in HCLOF to HCM or its designee.

34. HCM and Seery rationalized the settlement value by allocating $22.5 million of the net value of the $45 million in unsecured claims as consideration to purchase Harbourvest's interests in HCLOF, meaning, if 70% of the unsecured claims—i.e., $31.5 million—was realized, because $22.5 million of that would be allocated to the purchase price of the Harbourvest interests in HCLOF, the true "settlement" for Harbourvest's legal claims was closer to $9 million.

35. Plaintiffs here are taking no position at this time about the propriety of settling the Harbourvest legal claims for $9 million. That is for another day.

36. At the core of this lawsuit is the fact that HCM purchased the Harbourvest interests in HCLOF for $22.5 million knowing that they were worth far more than that.

37. It has recently come to light that, upon information and belief, the Harbourvest interests, as of December 31, 2020, were worth in excess of $41,750,000, and they have continued to go up in value.

38. On November 30, 2020, which was less than a month prior to the filing of the Motion to Approve the Settlement, the net asset value of those interests was over $34.5 million. Plaintiffs were never made aware of that.

39. The change is due to how the net asset value, or NAV, was calculated. The means and methods for calculating the "net asset value" of the assets of HCLOF are subject to and governed by the regulations passed by the SEC pursuant to the Adviser's Act, and by HCM's internal policies and procedures.

40. Typically, the value of the securities reflected by a market price quote.

41. However, the underlying securities in HCLOF are not liquid and had not been traded in a long while.

42. There not having been any contemporaneous market quotations that could be used in good faith to set the marks[4] meant that other prescribed methods of assessing the value of the interests, such as the NAV, would have been the proper substitutes.

43. Seery testified that the fair market value of the Harbourvest HCLOF interests was $22.5 million. Even allowing some leeway there, it was off the mark by a mile.

44. Given the artifice described herein, Seery and the entity Defendants had to know that the representation of the fair market value was false. But it does not appear that they disclosed it to Harbourvest to whom they owed fiduciary duties as the RIA in charge of HCLOF, and they certainly did not disclose the truth to the Plaintiff.

45. It is either the case that (i) Defendants conducted the proper analysis to obtain a current value of the assets but decided to use a far lower valuation in order to whitewash the settlement or enrich the bankruptcy estate; or (ii) Defendants never conducted the proper current valuation, and therefore baselessly represented what the current value of the assets was, despite knowingly having no reasonable basis for making such a claim.

46. For years HCM had such internal procedures and compliance protocols. HCM was not allowed by its own compliance officers to trade with an investor where HCM had superior knowledge about the value of the assets, for example. While Plaintiff has no reason to believe that those procedures were scrapped in recent months, it can only assume that they were either overridden improperly or circumvented wholesale.

[4] The term "mark" is shorthand for an estimated or calculated value for a non-publicly traded instrument.

47. Upon finalizing the Harbourvest Settlement Agreement and making representations to the Bankruptcy Court to the Plaintiffs about the value of the Harbourvest Interests, Seery and HCM had a duty to use current values and not rely on old valuations of the assets or the HCLOF interests.

48. Given Defendants' actual or constructive knowledge that they were purchasing Harbourvest's Interests in HCLOF for a less than 50% of what those interests were worth—Defendants owed Plaintiff a fiduciary duty not to purchase them for themselves.

49. Defendants should have either had HCLOF repurchase the interests with cash, or offer those interests to Plaintiff and the other members pro rata, before HCM agreed to purchase them all lock, stock and barrel, for no up-front cash.

50. Indeed, had Plaintiff been offered those interests, it would have happily purchased them and therefore would have infused over $20 million in cash into the estate for the purpose of executing the Harbourvest Settlement.

51. That Defendants (and to perhaps a lesser extent, the Unsecured Creditors Committee (the "UCC")) agreed to pay $22.5 million for the HCLOF assets, where they had previously not consented to any such expenditure by the estate on behalf of HCLOF, strongly indicates their awareness that they were purchasing assets for far below market value.

52. The above is the most reasonable and plausible explanation for why Defendants and the UCC forwent raising as much as $22.5 million in cash now in favor of hanging on to the HCLOF assets.

53. Indeed, in January 2021 Seery threatened Ethen Powell that "[Judge Jernigan] is laughing at you" and "we are coming after you" in response to the latter's attempt to exercise his right as beneficial holder of the CLO, and pointing out a conflict of interest in Seery's plan to liquidate the funds.

54. HCM's threat, made by Seery, is tantamount to not only a declaration that he intends to liquidate the funds regardless of whether the investors want to do so, and whether it is in their best interests, but also that HCM intends to leverage what it views as the Bankruptcy Court's sympathy to evade accountability.

V.

CAUSES OF ACTION

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION
Breaches of Fiduciary Duty

55. Plaintiffs respectfully incorporate the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein and further alleges the following:

56. HCM is a registered investment advisor and acts on behalf of HCFA. Both are fiduciaries to Plaintiffs.

57. The Advisers Act establishes an unwaivable federal fiduciary duty for investment advisers.[5]

[5] See e.g, SEC v. Capital Gains Research Bureau, Inc., 375 U.S. 180, 194 (1963); Transamerica Mortg. Advisors (tama) v. Lewis, 444 U.S. 11, 17 (1979) ("§ 206 establishes 'federal fiduciary standards' to govern the conduct of investment advisers."); Santa Fe Indus, v. Green, 430 U.S. 462, 471, n.11 (1977) (in discussing SEC v. Capital Gains, stating that the Supreme Court's reference to fraud in the "equitable" sense of the term was "premised on its recognition that Congress intended the Investment Advisers Act to establish federal fiduciary standards for investment advisers"). See also Investment Advisers Act Release No. 3060 (July 28, 2010) ("Under the Advisers Act, an adviser is a fiduciary whose duty is to serve the best interests of its clients, which includes an obligation not to subrogate clients' interests to its own") (citing Proxy Voting by Investment Advisers, Investment Advisers Act Release No. 2106 (Jan. 31, 2003)).

58. HCM and the DAF entered into an Amended and Restated Investment Advisory Agreement, executed between them on July 1, 2014 (the "RIA Agreement"). It renews annually and continued until the end of January 2021.

59. In addition to being the RIA to the DAF, HCM was appointed the DAF's attorney-in-fact for certain actions, such as "to purchase or otherwise trade in Financial Instruments that have been approved by the General Partner." RIA Agreement ¶ 4.

60. The RIA Agreement further commits HCM to value financial assets "in accordance with the then current valuation policy of the Investment Advisor [HCM], a copy of which will provided to the General Partner upon request." RIA Agreement ¶ 5.

61. While HCM contracted for the recognition that it would be acting on behalf of others and could be in conflict with advice given the DAF, (RIA Agreement ¶ 12), nowhere did it purport to waive the fiduciary duties owed to the DAF not to trade as a principal in a manner that harmed the DAF.

62. HCFA owed a fiduciary duty to Holdco as an investor in HCLOF and to which HCFA was the portfolio manager. HCM owed a fiduciary duty to the DAF (and to Holdco as its subsidiary) pursuant to a written Advisory Agreement HCM and the DAF had where HCM agreed to provide sound investment advice and management functions.

63. As a registered investment adviser, HCM's fiduciary duty is broad and applies to the entire advisor-client relationship.

64. The core of the fiduciary duty is to act in the best interest of their investors—the advisor must put the ends of the client before its own ends or the ends of a third party.

65. This is manifested in a duty of loyalty and a duty of utmost care. It also means that the RIA has to follow the terms of the company agreements and the regulations that apply to the investment vehicle.

66. The fiduciary duty that HCM and Seery owed to Plaintiff is predicated on trust and confidence. Section 204A of the Advisers Act requires investment advisors (whether SEC-registered or not) to establish, maintain, and enforce written policies and procedures reasonably designed to prevent the RIA from trading on material, non-public information. See 17 C.F.R. § 275.206(4)-7. That means that Plaintiff should be able to take Defendants at their word and not have to second guess or dig behind representations made by them.

67. The simple thesis of this claim is that Defendants HCFA and HCM breached their fiduciary duties by (i) insider trading with Harbourvest and concealing the rising NAV of the underlying assets—i.e., trading with Harbourvest on superior, non-public information that was neither revealed to Harbourvest nor to Plaintiff; (ii) concealing the value of the Harbourvest Interests; and (iii) diverting the investment opportunity in the Harbourvest entities to HCM (or its designee) without offering it to or making it available to Plaintiff or the DAF.

68. HCM, as part of its contractual advisory function with Plaintiffs, had expressly recommended the HCLOF investment to the DAF. Thus, diverting the opportunity for returns on its investment was an additional breach of fiduciary duty.

69. This violated a multitude of regulations under 27 C.F.R. part 275, in addition to Rules 10b-5 and 10b5-1. 17 CFR 240.10b5-1 ("Rule 10b5-1") explains that one who trades while possessing non-public information is liable for insider trading, and they do not necessarily have to have used the specific inside information.

70. It also violated HCM's own internal policies and procedures.

71. Also, the regulations impose obligations on Defendants to calculate a current valuation when communicating with an investor, such as what may or may not be taken into account, and what cannot pass muster as a current valuation. Upon information and belief, these regulations were not followed by the Defendants.

72. HCM's internal policies and procedures, which it promised to abide by both in the RIA Agreement and in its Form ADV SEC filing, provided for the means of properly calculating the value of the assets.

73. HCM either did not follow these policies, changed them to be out of compliance both with the Adviser Act regulations and its Form ADV representations, and/or simply misrepresented or concealed their results.

74. In so doing, because the fiduciary duty owed to Plaintiff is a broad one, and because Defendants' malfeasance directly implicates its relationship with Plaintiff, Defendants have breached the Advisers Act's fiduciary duties owed to Plaintiff as part of their fiduciary relationship.[6]

75. At no time between agreeing with Harbourvest to the purchase of its interests and the court approval did Defendants disclose to either Harbourvest or to Plaintiff (and the Bankruptcy Court for that matter) that the purchase was at below 50% the current net asset value as well, and when they failed to offer Plaintiff (and the other members of HCLOF) their right to purchase the interests pro rata at such advantageous valuations. Plaintiff's lost opportunity to purchase has harmed Plaintiff. Plaintiff had been led to believe by the Defendants that the value of what was being purchased in the Harbourvest settlement by HCM (or its designee) was at fair market value. This representation, repeated again in the Bankruptcy Court during the Harbourvest confirmation, implicitly suggested that a proper current valuation had been performed.

[6] See Advisers Act Release No. 4197 (Sept. 17, 2015) (Commission Opinion) ("[O]nce an investment Advisory relationship is formed, the Advisers Act does not permit an adviser to exploit that fiduciary relationship by defrauding his client in any investment transaction connected to the Advisory relationship."); see also SEC v. Lauer, No. 03-80612-CIV, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 73026, at 90 (S.D. Fla. Sept. 24, 2008) ("Unlike the antifraud provisions of the Securities Act and the Exchange Act, Section 206 of the Advisers Act does not require that the activity be 'in the offer or sale of any' security or 'in connection with the purchase or sale of any security.'").

76. Defendant's principal, Seery, testified in January 2021 that the then-current fair market value of Habourvests's 49.98% interest in HCLOF was worth around $22.5 million. But by then, it was worth almost double that amount and has continued to appreciate. Seery knew or should have known that fact because the value of some of the HCLOF assets had increased, and he had a duty to know the current value. His lack of actual knowledge, while potentially not overtly fraudulent, would nonetheless amount to a breach of fiduciary duty for acting without proper diligence and information that was plainly available.

77. Furthermore, HCLOF holds equity in MGM Studios and debt in CCS Medical via various CLO positions. But Seery, in his role as CEO of HCM, was made aware during an advisors meeting in December 2020 that Highland would have to restrict its trading in MGM because of its insider status due to activities that were likely to apply upward pressure on MGM's share price.

78. Furthermore, Seery controlled the Board of CCS Medical. And in or around October 2020, Seery was advocating an equatization that would have increased the value of the CCS securities by 25%, which was not reflected in the HCM report of the NAV of HCLOF's holdings.

79. Seery's knowledge is imputed to HCM.

80. Moreover, it is a breach of fiduciary duty to commit corporate waste, which is effectively what disposing of the HCLOF assets would constitute in a rising market, where there is no demand for disposition by the investors (save for HCM, whose proper 0.6% interest could easily be sold to the DAF at fair value).

81. As holder of 0.6% of the HCLOF interests, and now assignee of the 49.98% Harbourvest Interests), HCM has essentially committed self-dealing by threatening to liquidate HCLOF now that it may be compelled to do so under its proposed liquidation plan, which perhaps inures to the short term goals of HCM but to the pecuniary detriment of the other holders of HCLOF whose upside will be prematurely truncated.

82. Seery and HCM should not be allowed to benefit from the breach of their fiduciary duties because doing so would also cause Plaintiffs irreparable harm. The means and methods of disposal would likely render the full scope of damages to the DAF not susceptible to specific calculation—particularly as they would relate to calculating the lost opportunity cost. Seery and HCM likely do not have the assets to pay a judgment to Plaintiffs that would be rendered, simply taking the lost appreciation of the HCLOF assets.

83. Defendants are thus liable for diverting a corporate opportunity or asset that would or should have been offered to Plaintiff and the other investors. Because federal law makes the duties invoked herein unwaivable, it is preposterous that HCM, as a 0.6% holder of HCLOF, deemed itself entitled to the all of the value and optionality of the below-market Harbourvest purchase.

84. Defendants cannot rely on any contractual provision that purports to waive this violation. Nothing in any agreement purports to permit, authorize or otherwise sanitize Defendants' self-dealing. All such provisions are void.

85. In the fourth quarter of 2020, Seery and HCM notified staff that they would be terminated on December 31, 2020. That termination was postponed to February 28, 2021.

Purchasing the Harbourvest assets without staffing necessary to be a functioning Registered Investment Advisor was a strategic reversal from prior filings that outlined canceling the CLO management contracts and allowing investors to replace Highland as manager.

86. Seery's compensation agreement with the UCC incentivizes him to expedite recoveries and to prevent transparency regarding the Harbourvest settlement.

87. What is more, Seery had previously testified that the management contracts for the funds—HCLOF included—were unprofitable, and that he intended to transfer them. But he later rejected offers to purchase those management contracts for fair value and instead decided to continue to manage the funds—which is what apparently gave rise to the Harbourvest Settlement, among others. He simultaneously rejected an offer for the Harbourvest assets of $24 million, stating that they were worth much more than that.

88. Because of Defendants' malfeasance, Plaintiffs have lost over $25 million in damages—a number that continues to rise—and the Defendants should not be able to obtain a windfall.

89. For the same reason, Defendants' malfeasance has also exposed HCLOF to a massive liability from Harbourvest since the assignment of those interests is now one that is likely unenforceable under the Advisers Act, Section 47(b), if there was unequal information.

90. HCM and HCFA are liable as principals for breach of fiduciary duty, as are the principals and compliance staff of each entity.

91. Plaintiffs seek disgorgement, damages, exemplary damages, attorneys' fees and costs. To the extent the Court determines that this claim had to have been brought derivatively on behalf of HCLOF, then Plaintiffs represent that any pre-suit demand would have been futile since asking HCM to bring suit against its principal, Seery, would have been futile.

SECOND CAUSE OF ACTION
Breach of HCLOF Company Agreement
(By Holdco against HCLOF, HCM and HCFA)

92. Plaintiffs respectfully incorporate the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein and further alleges the following:

93. On November 15, 2017, the members of HCLOF, along with HCLOF and HCFA, executed the Members Agreement Relating to the Company (the "Company Agreement").

94. The Company Agreement governs the rights and duties of the members of HCLOF.

95. Section 6.2 of HCLOF Company Agreement provides that when a member "other than … CLO Holdco [Plaintiff] or a Highland Affiliate," intends to sell its interest in HCLOF to a third party (i.e., not to an affiliate of the selling member), then the other members have the first right of refusal to purchase those interests pro rata for the same price that the member has agreed to sell.

96. Here, despite the fact that Harbourvest agreed to sell its interests in HCLOF for $22.5 million when they were worth more than double that, Defendants did not offer Plaintiff the chance to buy its pro rata share of those interests at the same agreed price of $22.5 million (adjusted pro rata).

97. The transfer and sale of the interests to HCM were accomplished as part of the Harbourvest Settlement which was approved by the Bankruptcy Court.

98. Plaintiff was not informed of the fact that Harbourvest had offered its shares to Defendant HCM for $22.5 million—which was under 50% of their true value.

99. Plaintiff was not offered the right to purchase its pro rata share of the Harbourvest interests prior to the agreement being struck or prior to court approval being sought.

100. Had Plaintiff been allowed to do so, it would have obtained the interests with a net equity value over their purchase price worth in excess of $20 million.

101. No discovery or opportunity to investigate was afforded Plaintiff prior to lodging an objection in the Bankruptcy Court.

102. Plaintiff is entitled to specific performance or, alternatively, disgorgement, constructive trust, damages, attorneys' fees and costs.

THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION
Negligence
(By the DAF and CLO Holdco against HCM and HCFA)

103. Plaintiffs respectfully incorporate the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein, and further alleges the following:

104. Plaintiffs incorporate the foregoing causes of action and note that all the foregoing violations were breaches of the common law duty of care imposed by law on each of Seery, HCFA and HCM.

105. Each of these Defendants should have known that their actions were violations of the Advisers Act, HCM's internal policies and procedures, the Company Agreement, or all three.

106. Seery and HCM owed duties of care to Plaintiffs to follow HCM's internal policies and procedures regarding both the propriety and means of trading with a customer [Harbourvest], the propriety and means of trading as a principal in an account but in a manner adverse to another customer [the DAF and Holdco], and the proper means of valuing the CLOs and other assets held by HCLOF.

107. It would be foreseeable that failing to disclose the current value of the assets in the HCLOF would impact Plaintiffs negatively in a variety of ways.

108. It would be reasonably foreseeable that failing to correctly and accurately calculate the current net asset value of the market value of the interests would cause Plaintiffs to value the Harbourvest Interests differently.

109. It would be reasonably foreseeable that referring to old and antiquated market quotations and/or valuations of the HCLOF assets or interests would result in a mis-valuation of HCLOF and, therefore, a mis-valuation of the Harbourvest Interests.

110. Likewise, it would have been foreseeable that Plaintiff's failure to give Plaintiff the opportunity to purchase the Harbourvest shares at a $22.5 million valuation would cause Plaintiff damages. Defendants knew that the value of those assets was rising. They further knew or should have known that whereas those assets were sold to HCM for an allowance of claims to be funded in the future, selling them to Plaintiff would have provided the estate with cash funds.

111. Defendants' negligence foreseeably and directly caused Plaintiff harm.

112. Plaintiff is thus entitled to damages.

FOURTH CAUSE OF ACTION
Racketeering Influenced Corrupt Organizations Act
(CLO Holdco and DAF against HCM)

113. Plaintiffs respectfully incorporate the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein, and further alleges the following:

114. Defendants are liable for violations of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations ("RICO") Act, 18 U.S.C. § 1961 et seq., for the conduct of an enterprise through a pattern of racketeering activity.

115. HCLOF constitutes an enterprise under the RICO Act. Additionally, or in the alternative, HCM, HCLA, and HCLOF constituted an association-in-fact enterprise. The purpose of the association-in-fact was the perpetuation of Seery's position at HCM and using the Harbourvest settlement as a vehicle to enrich persons other than the HCLOF investors, including Holdco and the DAF, and the perpetuation of HCM's holdings in collateralized loan obligations owned by HCLOF, while attempting to deny Plaintiffs the benefit of its rights of ownership.

116. The association-in-fact was bound by informal and formal connections for years prior to the elicit purpose, and then changed when HCM joined it in order to achieve the association's illicit purpose. For example, HCM is the parent and control person over HCFA, which is the portfolio manager of HCLOF pursuant to a contractual agreement—both are registered investment advisors and provide advisory and management services to HCLOF.

117. Defendants injured Plaintiffs through their continuous course of conduct of the HCM-HCLA-HCLOF association-in-fact enterprise. HCM's actions (performed through Seery and others) constitute violations of the federal wire fraud, mail fraud, fraud in connection with a case under Title 11, and/or securities fraud laws, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. § 1961(1)(B) and (D).

118. HCM operated in such a way as to violate insider trading rules and regulations when it traded with Harbourvest while it had material, non-public information that it had not supplied to Harbourvest or to Plaintiffs.

119. In or about November 2020, HCM and Harbourvest entered into discussions about settling the Harbourvest Claims. Seery's conduct of HCLOF and HCLA on behalf of HCM through the interstate mails and/or wires caused HCM to agree to the purchase of Harbourvest's interests in HCLOF.

120. On or about each of September 30, 2020, through December 31, 2020, Seery, through his conduct of the enterprise, utilized the interstate wires and/or mails to obtain or arrive at valuations of the HCLOF interests. Seery's conduct of the enterprise caused them to cease sending the valuation reports to Plaintiffs, which eventually allowed Plaintiffs to be misled into believing that Seery had properly valued the interests.

121. On or about September 30, 2020, Seery transmitted or caused to be transmitted though the interstate wires information to HCLOF investors from HCM (via HCFA), including Harbourvest, regarding the value of HCLOF interests and underlying assets.

122. Additionally, Seery operated HCM in such a way that he concealed the true value of the HCLOF interests by utilizing the interstate wires and mails to transmit communications to the court in the form of written representations on or about December 23, 2020, and then further transmitted verbal representations of the current market value (the vastly understated one) on January 14, 2021, during live testimony.

123. However, Harbourvest was denied the full picture and the true value of the underlying portfolio. At the end of October and November of 2020, HCM had updated the net asset values of the HCLOF portfolio. According to sources at HCM at the time, the HCLOF assets were worth north of $72,969,492 as of November 30, 2020. Harbourvest's share of that would have been $36,484,746.

124. The HCLOF net asset value had reached $86,440,024 as of December 31, 2021, which means that by the time Seery was testifying in the Bankruptcy Court on January 14, 2021, the fair market value of the Harbourvest Assets was $22.5 million, when it was actually closer to $43,202,724. Seery, speaking on behalf of HCM, knew of the distinction in value.

125. On January 14, 2021, Seery also testified that he (implying HCM, HCLA and HCLOF) had valued the Harbourvest Assets at their current valuation and at fair market value. This was not true because the valuation that was used and testified to was ancient. The ostensible purpose of this concealment was to induce Plaintiff and other interest holdings to take no action.

126. In supporting HCM's motion to the Bankruptcy Court to approve the Harbourvest Settlement, Seery omitted the fact that HCM was purchasing the interests at a massive discount, which would violate the letter and spirit of the Adviser's Act.

127. Seery was informed in late December 2020 at an in-person meeting in Dallas to which Seery had to fly that HCLOF and HCM had to suspend trading in MGM Studios' securities because Seery had learned from James Dondero, who was on the Board of MGM, of a potential purchase of the company. The news of the MGM purchase should have caused Seery to revalue the HCLOF investment in MGM.

128. In or around October 2020, Seery (who controls the Board of CSS Medical) was pursuing "equatization" of CSS Medical's debt, which would have increased the value of certain securities by 25%. In several communications through the U.S. interstate wires and/or mails, and with Plaintiffs, and the several communications with Harbourvest during the negotiations of the settlement, Seery failed to disclose these changes which were responsible in part for the ever-growing value of the HCLOF CLO portfolio.

129. Seery was at all relevant times operating as an agent of HCM.

130. This series of related violations of the wire fraud, mail fraud, and securities fraud laws, in connection with the HCM bankruptcy, constitute a continuing pattern and practice of racketeering for the purpose of winning a windfall for HCM and himself--a nearly $30,000,000 payday under the confirmation agreement.

131. The federal RICO statute makes it actionable for one's conduct of an enterprise to include "fraud in connection with a [bankruptcy case]". The Advisers' Act antifraud provisions require full transparency and accountability to an advisers' investors and clients and does not require a showing of reliance or materiality. The wire fraud provision likewise is violated when, as here, the interstate wires are used as part of a "scheme or artifice … for obtaining money or property by means of false … pretenses, [or] representations[.]"

132. Accordingly, because Defendants' conduct violated the wire fraud and mail fraud laws, and the Advisers' Act antifraud provisions, and their acts and omissions were in connection with the HCM Bankruptcy proceedings under Title 11, they are sufficient to bring such conduct within the purview of the RICO civil action provisions, 18 U.S.C. § 1964.

133. Plaintiffs are thus entitled to damages, treble damages, attorneys' fees and costs of suit, in addition to all other injunctive or equitable relief to which they are justly entitled.

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION
Tortious Interference
(CLO Holdco against HCM)

134. Plaintiff respectfully incorporates the foregoing factual averments as if fully set forth herein and further alleges the following:

135. At all relevant times, HCM owned a 0.6% interest in HCLOF.

136. At all relevant times, Seery and HCM knew that Plaintiff had specific rights in HCLOF under the Company Agreement, § 6.2.

137. Section 6.2 of HCLOF Company agreement provides that when a member "other than … CLO Holdco [Plaintiff] or a Highland Affiliate," intends to sell its interest in HCLOF to a third party (i.e., not an affiliate of the member), then the other members have the first right of refusal to purchase those interests pro rata for the same price that the member has agreed to sell.

138. HCM, through Seery, tortiously interfered with Plaintiff's contractual rights with HCLOF by, among other things, diverting the Harbourvest Interests in HCLOF to HCM without giving HCLOF or Plaintiff the option to purchase those assets at the same favorable price that HCM obtained them.

139. HCM and Seery tortiously interfered with Plaintiff's contractual rights with HCLOF by, among other things, misrepresenting the fair market value as $22.5 million and concealing the current value of those interests.

140. But for HCM and Seery's tortious interference, Plaintiff would have been able to acquire the Harbourvest Interests at a highly favorable price. HCM and Seery's knowledge of the rights and intentional interference with these rights has caused damage to Plaintiff CLO Holdco.

141. Plaintiff is therefore entitled to damages from HCM and Seery, as well as exemplary damages.

VI.

JURY DEMAND

142. Plaintiff demands trial by jury on all claims so triable.

VII.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

143. Wherefore, for the foregoing reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully pray that the Court enter judgment in its favor and against Defendants, jointly and severally, for:

a. Actual damages;

b. Disgorgement;

c. Treble damages;

d. Exemplary and punitive damages;

e. Attorneys' fees and costs as allowed by common law, statute or contract;

f. A constructive trust to avoid dissipation of assets;

g. All such other relief to which Plaintiff is justly entitled.

(ii) The General Partner may consult with legal counsel, accountants and other professional experts selected by it and any act or omission suffered or taken by it on behalf of the Partnership or in furtherance of the interests of the Partnership in good faith in reliance upon and in accordance with the advice of such counsel, accountants or other professional experts shall be full justification for any such act or omission, and the General Partner shall be fully protected in so acting or omitting to act; provided that such counsel, accountants or other professional experts were selected with reasonable care.

(iii) To the fullest extent permitted by law, expenses incurred by the General Partner in defense or settlement of any claim that may, at the determination of the General Partner, be subject to a right of indemnification hereunder may be paid by the Partnership in advance of the final disposition thereof upon receipt of an undertaking by or on behalf of the General Partner to repay such amount to the Partnership if it shall be determined, by a court of competent jurisdiction pursuant to a final non-appealable judgment, order or decree, that the General Partner is not entitled to be indemnified hereunder.

18. Admission of Additional Partners. One (1) or more additional persons may be admitted to the Partnership as Partners with the written consent of the General Partner.

19. Dissolution of Partners. Subject to Section 21, the termination, dissolution, death, bankruptcy or adjudicated incompetency of a Partner shall not cause a dissolution of the Partnership, but the rights of such Partner to share in the allocations and distributions pursuant to the terms hereof and to assign his, her or its interest in the Partnership pursuant to the terms hereof shall, on the happening of such an event, devolve on his, her or its legal representative for the purpose of settling his estate or administering its property.

20. Assignments. A Partner may not transfer, assign, pledge or hypothecate, in whole or in part, his, her or its limited partnership interest without the prior written consent of the General Partner.

21. Dissolution.

(i) The Partnership shall dissolve, and its affairs shall be wound-up upon the first to occur of the following: (A) the written consent of the General Partner, (B) the death, disability, termination, dissolution, bankruptcy or withdrawal of the last remaining General Partner (subject to Section 14(iv)), and (C) the entry of a decree of judicial dissolution under Section 17-802 of the Act.

(ii) In the event of dissolution, the Partnership shall conduct only such activities as are necessary to wind-up its affairs (including the sale of the assets of the Partnership in an orderly manner).

22. Tax Matters Partner. The General Partner shall be the tax matters partner within the meaning of Section 6231(a)(7) of the Code. All expenses incurred by the tax matters partner in connection with its duties as tax matters partner shall be expenses of the Partnership.

23. Elections. The General Partner shall determine the accounting methods and conventions under the tax laws of any and all applicable jurisdictions as to the treatment of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit of the Partnership or any other method or procedure related to the preparation of such tax returns. The General Partner may cause the Partnership to make or refrain from making any and all elections permitted by such tax laws, and the General Partner shall not be liable for any consequences to any previously admitted or subsequently admitted Partners resulting from their making or failing to make any such elections.

24. Separability of Provisions. Each provision of this Agreement shall be considered separable and if for any reason any provision or provisions herein are determined to be invalid, unenforceable or illegal under any existing or future law, such invalidity, unenforceability or illegality shall not impair the operation of or affect those portions of this Agreement which are valid, enforceable and legal.

25. Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which shall be deemed an original of this Agreement.

26. Entire Agreement. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement of the Partners with respect to the subject matter hereof and shall supersede all prior and contemporaneous agreements, understandings and discussions with respect thereto.

27. Governing Law, Personal Jurisdiction and Venue. The parties acknowledge and agree that any claim, controversy, dispute or action relating in any way to this Agreement or the subject matter of this Agreement shall be governed solely by the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to any conflict of laws doctrines. The parties irrevocably consent to and submit to being served with legal process issued from the state and federal courts located in the State of New York and irrevocably consent to the exclusive personal jurisdiction of the federal and state courts situated in the State of New York. The parties irrevocably waive any objections to the personal jurisdiction of these courts. The federal and state courts of the State of New York in New York County shall have sole and exclusive jurisdiction over any and all claims, controversies, disputes and actions which in any way relate to this Agreement or the subject matter of this Agreement. Any such claim, controversy, dispute or action must first be brought in the federal court of the State of New York in New York County, unless the federal courts do not have subject matter jurisdiction as a matter of law, in which case it must first be brought in the Commercial Division of the New York State Supreme Court in New York County (and can only proceed in New York County outside the Commercial Division if the Commercial Division rejects it). The parties also irrevocably waive any objections that these courts constitute an oppressive, unfair, or inconvenient forum and agree not to seek to change venue on these grounds or any other grounds.

28. Amendments. This Agreement may not be modified, altered, supplemented or amended except pursuant to a written agreement executed and delivered by the Partners.

A DELAWARE "SERIES" LIMITED PARTNERSHIP

As of November 30, 2015

Exhibit A

Neither Atlas IDF, LP nor the limited partner interests therein ("Interests") have been or will be registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended ("Securities Act"), the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended, or the securities laws of any of the States of the United States. The offering of the Interests is being made in reliance upon an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act for offers and sales of securities which do not involve any public offering, and analogous exemptions under state securities laws.

These securities are subject to restrictions on transferability and resale, may not be transferred or resold, except: (i) as permitted under the Securities Act and applicable state securities laws pursuant to registration or exemption therefrom, and (ii) in accordance with the requirements and conditions set forth in this Amended and Restated Limited Partnership Agreement.

This Amended and Restated Limited Partnership Agreement of Atlas IDF, LP, a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("Partnership"), is entered into as of November 30, 2015 ("Agreement") by and among: (i) Atlas IDF GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("General Partner"), with an address at 87 Railroad Place, Suite 403, Saratoga Springs, New York, 12866; (ii) such persons and entities who are or may become limited partners in accordance with the terms hereof ("Limited Partners"; and, together with the General Partner, shall collectively be referred to as the "Partners"); (iii) John Honis, as the initial Limited Partner ("Initial Limited Partner"); and (iv) such other persons who may become parties to this Agreement from time to time.

WITNESSETH:

WHEREAS, the General Partner and the Initial Limited Partner entered into a Limited Partnership Agreement, dated and effective as of October 29, 2015 ("Current Agreement"); and

WHEREAS, the General Partner desires to amend and restate the Current Agreement in its entirety pursuant to, and in accordance with the terms of, Section 28 thereof, including to reflect the conversion of the Partnership into a "series" limited partnership.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises of the parties hereinafter set forth and of other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the undersigned parties agree to amend and restate the Current Agreement in its entirety with the following terms and conditions:

ARTICLE I
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 1.01 Formation of Partnership. The Partnership was formed as a limited partnership under the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act (as in effect on the date hereof and as amended from time to time, the "Act") by the filing of its Certificate of Limited Partnership (the "Certificate") with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware (the "Delaware Secretary") on October 29, 2015. On November 19, 2015, an amended Certificate was filed with the Delaware Secretary to convert the Partnership into a "series" limited partnership under Section 17-218 of the Act. The General Partner, for itself and as agent for the Limited Partners, shall accomplish all filing, recording, publishing and other acts necessary or appropriate for compliance with all the requirements for the formation and operation of the Partnership as a limited partnership under this Agreement and the Act and under all other laws of the State of Delaware and such other jurisdictions in which the General Partner determines that the Partnership may conduct business. Each Limited Partner admitted to the Partnership by the General Partner shall promptly execute all relevant certificates and other documents, as the General Partner shall request.

Section 1.02 Partnership Name. The name of the Partnership is Atlas IDF, LP.

Section 1.03 Purpose. The Partnership was organized for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of securities and financial instruments, domestic and foreign, of all kinds and descriptions, whether publicly traded or privately placed, including but not limited to, common and preferred stocks, bonds and other debt securities, convertible securities, limited partner interests, mutual fund shares, options, warrants, commodities, futures, derivatives (including swaps, forward contracts and structured instruments), currencies, monetary instruments, and cash and cash equivalents. In furtherance of the foregoing, the Partnership may engage in any lawful act or activity for which limited partnerships may be formed under the Act, and any and all activities necessary or incidental thereto, including any other business activities described in the Partnership's confidential private placement memorandum (as amended and supplemented from time to time, the "Memorandum"). In addition to investing in individual traded assets, the Partnership may invest a significant portion of its assets in other investment vehicles, including, without limitation, hedge funds, managed accounts and other private investment funds (collectively, the "Portfolio Funds"), including those managed by, or otherwise affiliated or related to, the Investment Manager (as defined in Section 3.01). Portfolio Funds may allocate their assets to Illiquid Investments (as defined in Section 9.07(a)).

Section 1.04 Place of Business. The Partnership shall have offices located at 87 Railroad Place, Suite 403, Saratoga Springs, New York, 12866, or elsewhere as the General Partner may from time to time determine. The Partnership may have more than one (1) office as may from time to time be determined by the General Partner.

Section 1.05 Fiscal Year. The fiscal year of the Partnership (the "Fiscal Year") shall end on December 31 of each year, except that it may be changed at any time by the General Partner in its sole discretion. In the event that the General Partner changes the Partnership's Fiscal Year, the dates and time periods referred to in this Agreement shall be appropriately adjusted.

Section 1.06 Term of Partnership. The term of the Partnership commenced upon filing of the Partnership's Certificate with the Delaware Secretary and shall continue indefinitely; provided, however, that the Partnership shall be dissolved forthwith upon the occurrence of any one of the events set forth in Section 13.01.

ARTICLE II
COMPOSITION; ADMISSIONS

Section 2.01 Names of the Partners. Atlas IDF GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company, is the sole general partner of the Partnership as of the date hereof. The names and addresses of the General Partner and of each of the Limited Partners shall be set forth in the records of the Partnership to be kept on file at all times at the principal place of business of the Partnership.

Section 2.02 Admission of Partners. Additional Limited Partners (as defined in Section 8.01) may be admitted to the Partnership at such times as provided in Article VIII. In connection with the admission of a Limited Partner to the Partnership, such Limited Partner shall, in advance of such admission and as a condition thereto, sign a copy of this Agreement or an agreement to become bound by the provisions of this Agreement and such other subscription materials as shall be determined by the General Partner. Upon the admission of a Limited Partner, the Initial Limited Partner listed on the signature page hereof shall automatically be deemed to have withdrawn from the Partnership. For the avoidance of doubt, the General Partner shall be permitted to make an investment in the Partnership and be issued Partnership Interests hereunder, and such Interests of the General Partner shall be treated as a Limited Partner's Partnership Interests hereunder. A substitute general partner and additional general partners may be admitted to the Partnership as provided in Article IV.

Section 2.03 Partnership Interests.

(a) For purposes of this Agreement, the term "Partnership Interest" shall mean the quotient resulting from dividing (i) the amount in a Partner's Capital Account (as defined in Section 9.01), including the fair value of such Partner's interests in any Side Pocket Accounts (as defined in Section 9.07) or New Issues Accounts (as defined in Section 9.08(a)) and other memorandum accounts, by (ii) the aggregate amount in the Capital Accounts of all Partners, including the fair value of any Side Pocket Accounts, New Issues Accounts and other memorandum accounts. "Partnership Interests" shall mean the sum of all amounts in the Capital Accounts of all Partners (including all Side Pocket Accounts, New Issues Accounts and other memorandum accounts).

(b) The Partnership is an "insurance-dedicated" fund. The Partnership Interests are being offered only to Limited Partners that are: (x) insurance company investors, on behalf of certain of their segregated separate accounts ("Separate Accounts"), that fund certain variable life insurance and variable annuity contracts (collectively, the "Policies") to be issued to policy owners (each, a "Policy Owner") by the Limited Partners, or (y) state or local government pension plans, qualified tuition plans ("§529 plans"), and private sector qualified pension or retirement plans, as generally described in Treasury Regulation 1.817-5(f)(3). In addition, if an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet certain suitability standards, as further set forth in the Memorandum. While an insurance company, not a Policy Owner, will become a Limited Partner in the Partnership, it is expected that Policy Owners will be able to allocate a portion of their investment held in the Separate Account to the Partnership as one of the investment options of the Policies.

Each life insurance company Limited Partner will be deemed to hold a Partnership Interest in respect of the account of each Policy Owner and will be treated as a separate Limited Partner with respect to each such Partnership Interest.

Section 2.04 Issuance of Interests in Series.

(a) Pursuant to Section 17-218 of the Act, the Partnership Interests will be offered in separate series ("Series"). The Partnership is currently offering one Series of Partnership Interests: "Series 1 Partnership Interests". Each Series of Partnership Interests will have separate rights and obligations.

(b) In addition, each Series of Partnership Interests may correspond to a separate portfolio of assets, which may have different investment objectives and strategies. The Partnership may issue additional Series of Partnership Interests in the future, which may have rights and obligations that differ from those of the Series 1 Partnership Interests with respect to any matters, including without limitation, fees, withdrawal rights, participation in Side Pocket Accounts (as defined) and other rights and terms. The terms of such additional Series shall be determined by the General Partner, in its sole discretion.

(c) Each Series shall have separate rights, powers and duties with respect to its investment portfolio and other property and obligations and the profits and losses associated with such portfolio, property and obligations. The Partnership shall maintain separate and distinct records for each Series and shall hold and account for the assets and liabilities of such Series separately from other Series. The Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts at the time of such admission.

(d) Pursuant to Section 17-218 of the Act, (i) the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to a particular Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series only, and not against the assets of any other Series, and (ii) none of the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to the Partnership generally or any other Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series.

(e) As of the date hereof, the Investment Manager intends to allocate approximately 45% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to traded investments and approximately (but not more than) 55% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to the first series of limited partnership interests to be issued by the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined in Section 2.04(f)). However, the Investment Manager reserves the right to change such allocation in the future, subject to compliance with all applicable laws, including the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth in the Memorandum.

(f) As of the date hereof, (i) the Investment Manager acts as the investment manager to Rand PE Fund I, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("PE Portfolio Fund") that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction (as defined in the Memorandum), if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction; (ii) Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, is the general partner of the PE Portfolio Fund; (iii) the Principal (as defined in the Memorandum) is the managing member and controlling person of Rand PE Fund Management, LLC; and (iv) the Investment Manager acts as the investment subadvisor to a series of SALI Multi-Series Fund, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership, and provides certain discretionary investment advisory or consulting services to such series, as further set forth in the Memorandum.

(g) Unless the context otherwise requires, Series 1 Partnership Interests and any other Series of Partnership Interests shall be collectively referred to throughout this Agreement as the "Partnership Interests." As the context may require, the holders of Series 1 Partnership Interests may be referred to herein as "Series 1 Limited Partners". Series 1 Limited Partners and, to the extent applicable, all the Limited Partners of other Series shall be collectively referred to throughout this Agreement the "Limited Partners".

(h) References herein to the Partnership shall include, where appropriate, each Series of the Partnership. The terms of the other Series may be set forth in an amended version of this Agreement and/or in a separate supplement thereto.

ARTICLE III
MANAGEMENT

Section 3.01 Management of Partnership

(a) The business and affairs of the Partnership shall be managed exclusively by the General Partner. The Limited Partners shall take no part in the management or control of the Partnership's business and shall have no authority to act for or bind the Partnership. The General Partner shall have sole discretion and authority to select investments, shall invest the funds of the Partnership from time to time as the General Partner deems appropriate in accordance with the purposes set forth in Section 1.03, and shall have (without limitation) the powers set forth in Section 3.02. The General Partner may select an investment manager ("Investment Manager") to provide all or any portion of the portfolio management services required by the Partnership, including the valuation of assets of the Partnership. The Investment Manager may be changed from time to time by the General Partner in its sole and absolute discretion. The initial Investment Manager shall be Rand Advisors, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner. If at any time there is no Investment Manager, then the General Partner shall provide such portfolio management services, and be subject to the provisions of this Agreement applicable to the Investment Manager.

(b) Each of the General Partner and the Investment Manager shall not be required to devote its full time to the business of the Partnership, but shall devote so much of its time and efforts to the affairs of the Partnership as may in its judgment be necessary to accomplish the purposes of the Partnership. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the General Partner or the Investment Manager from conducting any other business, including any business with respect to securities (and/or other investments), whether or not such business ventures are in direct or indirect competition with the Partnership. Each of the General Partner and the Investment Manager is not prohibited from buying or selling securities for its own account, including the same securities (and/or other investments) as are purchased, sold or held by the Partnership, but none of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of their respective affiliates (which shall not include, for purposes of this paragraph, advisory clients or managed funds) shall buy securities (and/or other investments) from or sell securities (and/or other investments) to the Partnership without the written consent of either all Limited Partners or a committee of independent Limited Partners.

Section 3.02 Powers of the General Partner. Without in any way intending to limit the powers of the General Partner, the General Partner shall have the right, power and authority on behalf of the Partnership (or to delegate any portion of such rights, power and authority):

(a) As provided in Section 3.01, to allocate all of the assets of the Partnership among securities (and/or other investments) to be selected by the General Partner in its sole and absolute discretion, including, but not limited to the right to:

(i) purchase, hold and sell securities (and/or other investments) and rights therein of any kind or nature;

(ii) allocate any and all of the assets of the Partnership among a number of Portfolio Funds;

(iii) purchase, hold, sell and otherwise deal in put and call options, monetary instruments and any combinations thereof and any other financial instruments or contracts of any nature or kind;

(iv) maintain margin accounts with brokers, pledge securities for loans and, in connection with any such pledge, effect borrowings from brokers or banks in such amounts as may be determined from time to time; and

(v) transact business through brokers and dealers and other persons selected by the General Partner in its sole discretion, and in selecting such brokers, dealers and other persons, and determining the compensation payable to such persons, it shall seek to obtain the best execution for the Partnership taking into account the value of any research and brokerage services or products provided by such persons to the General Partner or the Partnership even though other persons may be able to provide transactional services (without any accompanying research or brokerage services or products) at lower rates of compensation;

(b) To acquire and enter into any contract of insurance that the General Partner deems necessary or appropriate for the protection of the Partnership and the General Partner or for any purpose convenient or beneficial to the Partnership;

(c) To engage in any transaction with affiliates of the General Partner, including entering into and amending and restating an investment management agreement with the Investment Manager (any such agreement, in effect from time to time, "Investment Management Agreement"), subject to the restrictions in Section 3.01(b);

(d) To employ persons, whether full-time or part-time, in the operation and management of the business of the Partnership, on such terms and for such compensation as the General Partner shall determine, regardless of whether or not such persons also may be employed by the General Partner or its affiliates;

(e) To file, conduct and defend legal proceedings of any form, including proceedings against Partners, and to compromise and settle any such proceedings or any claims, including claims against Partners, on whatever terms deemed appropriate by the General Partner;

(f) To open brokerage, bank and other accounts and, to the extent that funds are not invested, to deposit and maintain such funds in the name of the Partnership in such accounts and to temporarily invest such funds in short term United States and/or foreign government securities, money market accounts and/or other short term interest-bearing instruments; provided, however, that the Partnership's funds shall not be commingled with the funds of any other person or entity;

(g) To cause the Partnership to make or revoke any of the elections referred to in Section 754 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended ("Code"), or any similar provision enacted in lieu thereof;

(h) To act as the "tax matters partner" of the Partnership within the meaning of Section 6231(a)(7) of the Code;

(i) To select as its accounting year the annual period ending December 31 or any other Fiscal Year as is permitted by the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS");

(j) To engage independent accountants, attorneys, investment managers, sub-advisers, broker-dealers, administrators, custodians, consultants and such other persons as the General Partner may deem necessary or advisable;

(k) To establish and maintain for the conduct of Partnership affairs one or more offices and in connection therewith rent or acquire office space, engage personnel, whether part time or full time, and do such other acts and incur such expenses as the General Partner may deem necessary or advisable in connection with the maintenance or administration of such office;

(l) To require a provision in any Partnership contract that the General Partner shall not have any personal liability therefor, but that the person or entity contracting with the Partnership is to look solely to the Partnership and its assets for satisfaction;

(m) To purchase and sell Partnership assets at such price or amount for cash, securities or other property and upon such terms as are deemed in the General Partner's absolute discretion to be in the best interests of the Partnership;

(n) To prepare (or cause to be prepared), execute, acknowledge and/or deliver any and all instruments to effectuate the business of the Partnership, including, but not limited to, annual and/or interim reports, a copy of which shall be delivered to each Partner, as provided in Sections 3.06(b) and 13.05;

(o) To effect on behalf of the Partnership any "agency cross transaction" (as contemplated in Rule 206(3)-2 under the U.S. Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act")) through the General Partner or any of its affiliates that is registered as a broker or dealer; provided that the authority granted in this subsection may be revoked at any time by the General Partner or by vote or consent of Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners;

(p) To "cross" any transaction for the purchase or sale of securities between two or more advisory clients or managed funds, including the Partnership (as contemplated in Rule 206(3) under the Advisers Act and interpretations thereunder) ("Cross Trading"); provided that the General Partner receives no additional compensation in connection with such Cross Trading activities, and subject to the restrictions in Section 3.01(b);

(q) To waive or reduce, in whole or in part, any notice period, minimum amount requirement, or other limitation or restriction imposed on Capital Contributions (as defined in Section 8.01), withdrawals of capital, any fee, any payment to the General Partner and/or any requirement imposed on a Limited Partner by this Agreement, regardless of whether such notice period, minimum amount, limitation, restriction, withdrawal provision, fee, payment or other requirement of this Agreement, or the waiver or reduction thereof, operates for the benefit of the Partnership, the General Partner or fewer than all the Limited Partners;

(r) To establish such reserves for the Partnership as the General Partner shall, in its sole but reasonable discretion, deem appropriate to pay current and future, definite, contingent and possible obligations of the Partnership or a Series (even if such reserves are not in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"));

(s) To value the assets and liabilities of the Partnership;

(t) To create special purpose vehicles to make or pursue investments either alone or as a joint-venture with other persons or entities;

(u) To establish and offer multiple Series of Partnership Interests with such rights and privileges as the General Partner shall determine, and to amend this Agreement in connection therewith to reflect such multi-Series structure;

(v) To convert the Partnership from a stand-alone fund into a "feeder fund" as part of a master-feeder structure, and to amend this Agreement pursuant thereto to reflect such master-feeder structure;

(w) To create a liquidating fund entity (e.g., a liquidating trust or similar vehicle), and to transfer all or a portion of the Partnership's assets to such entity for any reason, including an orderly liquidation of any illiquid Partnership assets; and

(x) To do any act, engage in any activity or execute any agreement of any nature, necessary or incidental to the accomplishment of the purposes of the Partnership in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement, the Memorandum and all applicable federal, state and local laws and regulations.

Section 3.03 Actions of General Partner. The General Partner is authorized, directed and empowered to act individually on behalf of the Partnership, and in accordance therewith, to execute all documents and instruments on behalf of the Partnership. Third parties may rely on the execution of any documents on behalf of the Partnership by the General Partner.

Section 3.04 Liability and Indemnification

(a) None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates (as defined in Section 6.02(a)) shall be liable to the Partnership or the Limited Partners for any action or inaction in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership unless such action or inaction is determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. It shall be conclusively presumed and established that the General Partner, the Investment Manager and such persons acted in good faith if any action is taken, or not taken, by any of them on the advice of legal counsel or other independent outside consultants; provided that the General Partner, the Investment Manager and such persons did not act with gross negligence or willful misconduct in the selection of such counsel or consultants. Any exculpation under this Section 3.04(a) shall apply only to the extent that such exculpation does not violate applicable federal and state laws.

(b) The Partnership shall indemnify and hold harmless the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Investment Manager Affiliates (which, for purposes of this Section 3.04(b), shall include fund counsel (except for legal malpractice)) from and against any and all claims, liabilities, obligations, judgments, suits, proceedings, actions, demands, losses, costs, expenses (including attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation), damages, penalties or interest, as a result of any claim or legal proceeding (made or threatened) related to any action or inaction by any of them in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership (including the settlement or appeal of any such claim or legal proceeding); provided, however, that the party against whom the claim is made or legal proceeding is directed is not guilty of gross negligence or willful misconduct, as determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction. Any indemnity under this Section 3.04(b) shall be paid from and to the extent of Partnership assets only, and shall apply only to the extent that such indemnity does not violate applicable federal and state laws. The Partnership shall, in the sole discretion of the General Partner, advance amounts and/or pay expenses as incurred in connection with the indemnification obligation herein. In the event this indemnification obligation shall be deemed unenforceable, whether in whole or in part, such unenforceable portion shall be stricken or modified so as to give effect to this paragraph to the fullest extent permitted by law. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing indemnification provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

(c) If, to the extent, and at such times as, any assets of the Partnership are deemed to be "plan assets" within the meaning of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA"), of any Limited Partner that is an employee benefit plan governed by ERISA, the General Partner shall be, and hereby acknowledges that it shall be considered to be, a fiduciary within the meaning of Section 3(21) of ERISA as to that Limited Partner. In such an event, or if any manager, member, officer, employee, agent or affiliate of the General Partner, is ever held to be a fiduciary of any Limited Partner, then, in accordance with Sections 405(b)(1), 405(c)(2) and 405(d) of ERISA, the fiduciary responsibilities of that person shall be limited to the person's duties in administering the business of the Partnership, and the person shall not be responsible for any other duties to such Limited Partner, specifically including evaluating the initial or continued appropriateness of this investment in the Partnership under Section 404(a)(1) of ERISA.

Section 3.05 No Prohibition Against Other Business Ventures. Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates may engage and hold interests in other business ventures of every kind and description for its own account, including, without limitation, other investment entities similar to the Partnership, whether or not such business ventures are in direct or indirect competition with the Partnership, and whether or not the Partnership or any of the Partners also has an interest therein, without having to account to the Partnership or any Partner for any profits or other benefits derived therefrom and without incurring any obligation to offer any interest in any such activity to the Partnership or any Partner.

Section 3.06 Duty to Keep Books, Financial and Tax Reports

(a) At all times during the existence of the Partnership, the General Partner shall keep true and complete records and books of account, in which each transaction of the Partnership shall be entered fully and accurately. The General Partner has the power, in its sole and absolute discretion, to delegate some or all of the administrative bookkeeping functions relating to the Partnership to an administrator or other agent, which may be the Partnership's accountants.

(b) The General Partner shall cause to be prepared and distributed to each Partner as soon as practicable following each Fiscal Year the Partnership's annual financial statements prepared in accordance with GAAP (except to the extent that the Memorandum or this Agreement states or contemplates that such statements may be inconsistent with GAAP) and audited by an independent certified public accounting firm. The General Partner shall also have prepared and filed all federal, state and local income, franchise, gross receipts, payroll and other tax returns that the Partnership is obligated to file. Subject to the limitations set forth in Section 5.04, copies of all Partnership tax returns, information returns or reports shall be available to all Partners as soon as possible after the close of the Partnership's Fiscal Year at the principal office of the Partnership. Copies of each Partner's Schedule K-1 of the Partnership's Tax Return (Form 1065) shall be distributed to such Partner as soon as practicable after the close of the Partnership's Fiscal Year. The General Partner may agree to provide certain Limited Partners with additional information on the underlying investments of the Partnership, as well as heightened access to the General Partner, the Investment Manager and their respective employees for relevant information. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing reporting provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

(c) The General Partner may at any time choose to change the Partnership's accounting guidelines from GAAP to the International Financial Reporting Standard ("IFRS"). In such event, the financial performance of the Partnership, as determined under IFRS, may vary from those determined under GAAP.

ARTICLE IV
GENERAL PARTNER RESIGNATION; TRANSFER OF GENERAL PARTNER INTEREST; CONTINUATION OF PARTNERSHIP; SUBSTITUTION OF GENERAL PARTNER

Section 4.01 General Partner Resignation and Involuntary Withdrawal; Admission of Additional General Partners and Transfer by General Partner

(a) The General Partner shall not be permitted to voluntarily withdraw or resign as the general partner of the Partnership, except upon no less than thirty (30) days' prior written notice to all Limited Partners. In the event of dissolution of the General Partner, or if a voluntary or involuntary petition for bankruptcy shall be filed by or against the General Partner, or the General Partner shall make any assignment for the benefit of its creditors (any of the foregoing, an "Involuntary Withdrawal"), the General Partner or the General Partner's trustee, receiver or assignee shall have none of the rights and powers of a general partner hereunder, and shall have no authority to act on behalf of the Partnership or have any voice in the management and operation of the Partnership, except as provided in Section 13.02.

(b) The General Partner may admit additional general partners to the Partnership at such times as the General Partner shall determine, without the consent of the Limited Partners. Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, the General Partner shall have the right to transfer its interest, as the general partner of the Partnership, to any affiliate of the General Partner, including any person or entity controlled by the General Partner, controlling the General Partner or under common control with the General Partner, without the consent of the Limited Partners. In the event of such transfer by the General Partner to an affiliate, the General Partner shall not be deemed to have resigned or withdrawn from the Partnership for purposes of Section 13.01(a). Any affiliate transferee of the General Partner under this Section 4.01(b) shall assume the status of and shall have all of the rights, powers and obligations that the General Partner possessed prior to such transfer. The General Partner shall not assign, transfer, sell, mortgage or otherwise encumber or transfer its interest as the general partner of the Partnership, except as set forth herein. Any additional general partner or transferee of the General Partner shall execute and acknowledge any and all instruments that are necessary or appropriate to effect the admission of any such person or entity as a general partner, including, without limitation, the written acceptance and adoption by such person of the provisions of this Agreement and, if required by the Act, an amendment of the Certificate. For the avoidance of doubt, should the General Partner transfer its interest, as the general partner of the Partnership, to any non-affiliate of the General Partner, the Limited Partners shall have the right to revoke such appointment within ninety (90) days after such event, by affirmative vote of Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners.

Section 4.02 Continuation of Partnership; Appointment of Substitute General Partner by Limited Partners. If an event as set forth in Section 13.01(a) occurs, the Limited Partners shall have the right, within ninety (90) days after such event, by affirmative vote of Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners, to appoint a substitute general partner, in which event the Partnership shall not dissolve and shall continue its existence.

Section 4.03 Substitute General Partner Requirements. Any substitute general partner shall execute and acknowledge any and all instruments that are necessary or appropriate to effect the admission of any such person or entity as a substitute general partner, including, without limitation, the written acceptance and adoption by such person of the provisions of this Agreement and, if required by the Act, an amendment of the Certificate. Any successor to such office of general partner shall assume the status of and shall have all of the rights, powers and obligations that the General Partner possessed prior to its withdrawal, resignation or Involuntary Withdrawal from the Partnership.

ARTICLE V
STATUS, RIGHTS, POWERS AND VOTING RIGHTS OF LIMITED PARTNERS

Section 5.01 Limited Liability. No Limited Partner, Substitute Limited Partner (as defined in Section 10.02) or Additional Limited Partner shall be personally liable or bound for the expenses, liabilities or obligations of the Partnership or the relevant Series beyond the amount in such Partner's Capital Account in the relevant Series, from time to time, including any amounts thereof attributable to Capital Contributions, except that such Partner may be obligated to return all or a portion of any distributions (including withdrawal proceeds) received from the Partnership (x) in an amount up to its aggregate Capital Contributions in the relevant Series (including any income or gains thereon) to the Partnership in order to pay such Partner's pro rata share of any Partnership liabilities that arose while such Partner held Partnership Interests, and (y) as required under Section 5.02(b).

Section 5.02 Capital Contributions

(a) No Limited Partner shall be entitled to a return of such Limited Partner's Capital Contribution or any portion thereof, except as set forth in Section 7.01, and no time has been agreed upon for the return of any Partner's Capital Contribution, except as herein provided.

(b) Each Limited Partner, if such Limited Partner receives a return of all or any part of such Limited Partner's Capital Contribution, may, to the extent provided for in the Act, be liable to the Partnership or the relevant Series for an amount equal to such distribution, if at the time of such distribution, the Limited Partner knew the Partnership or the relevant Series was prohibited from making such distribution under the Act.

Section 5.03 Liability of Limited Partner for Additional Contributions and Loans. No Limited Partner shall be obligated to provide any contributions to the Partnership, other than the Original Capital Contribution (as defined in Section 9.02) of such Limited Partner. No Limited Partner shall be obligated to make any loan to the Partnership.

Section 5.04 Rights of Limited Partners to Inspect Books, Records, and Partnership Documents. Upon reasonable advance written notice and during reasonable business hours, a Limited Partner may inspect and copy, at the Limited Partner's expense and solely for a purpose reasonably related to the Limited Partner's interest as a Partner, the records of the Partnership required to be maintained pursuant to Section 17-305 of the Act and any financial statements maintained by the Partnership. Any such inspection must be in good faith without any intent to damage the Partnership or any of its Partners in any manner. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner in its discretion may limit the information that a Limited Partner may obtain pursuant to this Section 5.04 to the extent that such information shall allow a Limited Partner to identify any other Limited Partner. As a result, each Limited Partner agrees and acknowledges that any books and records of the Partnership made available to a Limited Partner for inspection may be redacted to exclude any information concerning the identity of the other Limited Partners, and, to the extent such books and records cannot be so redacted, such books and records may be withheld for inspection to such requesting Limited Partner. Copies of this Agreement and all amendments hereto shall be furnished to each Limited Partner upon request. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing reporting provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Section 5.05 No Restriction on Other Activities. Limited Partners may engage and hold interests in business ventures of every kind and description for their own accounts, including, without limitation, business ventures which are, directly or indirectly, in competition with the Partnership and whether or not the Partnership or any of the Partners also has an interest therein. Neither the Partnership nor any of the Partners shall have any rights in such independent business ventures by virtue of this Agreement.

Section 5.06 Voting Rights. In addition to the rights to vote conferred upon the Limited Partners in Sections 3.01(b), 3.02, 4.02 and 13.02 or otherwise specifically set forth herein, Limited Partners shall have the right to vote on amendments to this Agreement to the extent provided in Section 14.08.

Section 5.07 Constructive Consent by Limited Partners. In the event that the General Partner requires the consent of the Limited Partners in order to take action (including approving amendments to this Agreement), and written notice of such action is sent to any such Limited Partners by (i) certified mail, return receipt requested, (ii) electronic mail, or (iii) overnight delivery by a reputable private carrier or by the postal service, those Limited Partners not affirmatively objecting in writing within thirty (30) days after such notice is deemed to have been mailed or sent (under Section 14.01) be deemed to have consented to the proposed action set forth in the General Partner's notice.

Section 5.08 Rights as to Dissolution. The Limited Partners shall have no right or power to cause the dissolution and winding up of the Partnership by court decree or otherwise or to withdraw or reduce their Capital Contributions, except as set forth in the Certificate and this Agreement. No Limited Partner shall have the right to bring an action for partition against the Partnership, and each Partner hereby waives any right to partition of the Partnership's property.

Section 5.09 Consent by Partners in Lieu of Meeting. Any action required by this Agreement or the Act to be taken at any regular or special meeting of the Partners, may be taken without a meeting, without prior notice and without a vote, if a consent or consents in writing, setting forth the action so taken, shall be signed by the Partners (or shall be deemed signed by the Partners pursuant to Section 5.07) having not less than the minimum number of votes that would be necessary to authorize or take such action at a meeting at which all Partners entitled to vote thereon were present and voted.

Section 5.10 Non-Voting Interests of BHC Limited Partners; Other Non-Voting Interests

(a) The portion of any Partnership Interest held for its own account by a BHC Limited Partner (as defined in this Section 5.10(a)) whose interests in the Partnership are determined, at any time, to be in excess of 4.99% (or such greater or lesser percentage as may be permitted or required from time to time under Section 4(c)(6) of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended ("BHCA")) of the aggregate outstanding Partnership Interests of all Limited Partners, excluding any other Partnership Interests that are non-voting Partnership Interests pursuant to this Section 5.10, shall be deemed to be non-voting Partnership Interests to the extent of such excess above 4.99% (whether or not subsequently transferred, in whole or in part, to any other person or entity) (collectively, "Non-Voting Interests"); provided that such Non-Voting Interests shall be permitted to participate in any vote by the Limited Partners on (i) any proposal to dissolve or continue the business of the Partnership under this Agreement, (ii) any vote pursuant to Section 4.02, and (iii) matters with respect to which voting rights are not considered to be "voting securities" under 12 C.F.R. § 225.2(q)(2), including such matters which may "significantly and adversely" affect a BHC Limited Partner (such as amendments to this Agreement or modifications of the terms of its Partnership Interest). Except as provided in Section 13.01(a), a BHC Limited Partner shall not be permitted to vote on the selection of any successor general partner of the Partnership, and each BHC Limited Partner irrevocably waives its right to vote its Non-Voting Interest on the selection of a successor general partner of the Partnership under Section 17-801 of the Act, which waiver shall be binding upon such BHC Limited Partner or any person or entity that succeeds to its Partnership Interest. A "BHC Limited Partner" shall mean any Limited Partner that is, or is an affiliate of, a bank holding company (as defined in Section 2(a) of the BHCA) that is subject to the provisions of Regulation Y issued by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

(b) To the extent permitted by the BHCA, and except as otherwise provided in this Section 5.10, Non-Voting Interests shall not be counted as Partnership Interests held by any Limited Partner for purposes of determining whether any vote or consent required by this Agreement has been approved or given by the requisite percentage of the Limited Partners.

(c) Notwithstanding the foregoing, any BHC Limited Partner may elect to no longer be treated as a BHC Limited Partner for the purposes of this Agreement by delivering written notice of such election to the General Partner. Any such election made by a BHC Limited Partner may be rescinded at any time by providing written notice thereof to the General Partner.

(d) The General Partner may, for legal, regulatory or other reasons, designate any other Partnership Interests as non-voting, in whole or in part. Except as provided in this Section 5.10, a Partnership Interest held by a Limited Partner as a non-voting Partnership Interest shall be identical in all regards to all other Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners.

(e) For the avoidance of doubt, the provisions of this Section 5.10 shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

ARTICLE VI
FEES AND EXPENSES; BROKERAGE PRACTICES

Section 6.01 Management Fee.

(a) In consideration for services provided pursuant to the Investment Management Agreement, the Investment Manager shall receive a quarterly management fee ("Management Fee") equal to a percentage of each Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's Net Asset Value (as defined in Section 9.04), and based on the Partnership's total Net Asset Value, as follows:

Partnership's Total Net Asset Value	Management Fee (per annum)

$0 - $99,999,999	0.5500%
$100,000,000 - $199,999,999	0.5000%
$200,000,000 - $249,999,999	0.4500%
$250,000,000 - $499,999,999	0.3500%
> $500,000,000	0.3400%

For the avoidance of doubt, the Management Fee calculated based on the foregoing schedule will be calculated on a "progressive" basis. For example, if the Partnership's Net Asset Value reaches $150,000,000, the initial $99,999,999 will always be charged a Management Fee of 0.55000% annually. The benefit of the declining Management Fee schedule above is intended to benefit all Limited Partners as each Capital Account will be charged a blended Management Fee based on the above schedule.

The Management Fee shall be calculated and payable to the Investment Manager quarterly, in advance, as of the first day of each calendar quarter. A pro rata Management Fee shall be charged to Limited Partners on any amounts accepted by the General Partner during a calendar quarter. No part of the Management Fee shall be refunded in the event that a Limited Partner withdraws, whether voluntarily or involuntarily, all or any of the value in such Limited Partner's Capital Account during any calendar quarter. Management Fees shall be payable with respect to the Partnership Interests of a Limited Partner in any Side Pocket Account.

(b) For purposes of calculating the Management Fee with respect to Side Pocket Accounts, Illiquid Investments (each as defined in Section 9.07) shall be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager.

(c) With respect to any Limited Partner who has requested to withdraw all of its Partnership Interests from the Partnership, with the exception of any Partnership Interests maintained in a Side Pocket Account, the Partnership may reserve an amount from the withdrawing Limited Partner's withdrawal proceeds in order to cover the estimated accrued Management Fees and expenses attributable to the Limited Partner's Partnership Interests in the Side Pocket Account based on the Investment Manager's estimate of the time period that the Illiquid Investments held in the Side Pocket Account shall remain in such Side Pocket Account (collectively, the "Management Fee Reserve"). The Management Fee Reserve shall be treated as a liability of the Partnership, and the balance of the Management Fee Reserve, if any, shall be paid to the withdrawing Limited Partner, without interest, upon such Limited Partner's complete withdrawal from the Side Pocket Account.

(d) The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the management fees charged by the managers of the Portfolio Funds. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Investment Manager intends to waive any management fees due to the Investment Manager with respect to any investment of the Partnership in any Affiliated Funds (as defined in the Memorandum), including the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined in the Memorandum). Accordingly, to the extent that the Partnership invests in any Affiliated Funds, including the PE Portfolio Fund, the Partnership will not be subject to a layering of fees.

Section 6.02 Expenses

(a) Organizational and Initial Offering Expenses. The Partnership shall pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or their respective managers, members, shareholders, directors, officers, partners, employees, agents and/or affiliates (collectively, "Investment Manager Affiliates") for all organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership, including, but not limited to, legal and accounting fees, printing and mailing expenses and government filing fees (including blue sky filing fees). The Partnership's organizational and initial offering expenses may be, for accounting purposes, capitalized and amortized by the Partnership for up to sixty (60) months from the date the Partnership commences operations. Amortization of such expenses is a divergence from GAAP. In certain circumstances, this divergence may result in a qualification of the Partnership's annual audited financial statements. In such instances, the Partnership may elect to: (i) avoid the qualification by recognizing the unamortized expenses or (ii) make GAAP-conforming changes for financial reporting purposes, but capitalize and amortize expenses for purposes of calculating the Partnership's Net Asset Value (resulting in a divergence in Fiscal Year-end Net Asset Values reported in the Partnership's financial statements, and as otherwise applicable under the provisions of this Agreement). If the Partnership capitalizes and amortizes such expenses and is then terminated within sixty (60) months of its commencement, any unamortized expenses shall be recognized. If a Limited Partner makes a withdrawal prior to the end of the period during which the Partnership is capitalizing and amortizing expenses, the Partnership may, but is not required to, accelerate a proportionate share of the unamortized expenses based upon the amount being withdrawn and reduce withdrawal proceeds accordingly.

(b) Operating Expenses. The Partnership shall pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates for: (i) all expenses incurred in connection with the ongoing offer and sale of Partnership Interests, including, but not limited to, printing of the Memorandum and exhibits, marketing expenses and documentation of performance and the admission of Limited Partners, (ii) all operating expenses of the Partnership, such as tax preparation fees, governmental fees and taxes, fees to the Partnership's administrator ("Administrator"), costs of communications with Limited Partners, and ongoing legal, accounting, auditing, bookkeeping, consulting and other professional fees and expenses, (iii) all Partnership research, trading and investment-related costs and expenses (e.g., brokerage commissions, research fees, margin interest, expenses related to short sales, custodial fees, bank service fees, and clearing and settlement charges), (iv) technology-related costs and expenses, including, but not limited to, software licenses, data feeds and colocation expenses, (v) all expenses related to attending any conference or seminar related to alternative investments (e.g., registration, transportation, accommodation or meal expenses), (vi) regulatory and other filing fees and expenses, (vii) travel expenses related to meeting with management teams, or related to any of the other categories of expenses set forth herein, (viii) any costs and expenses incurred by the Partnership in connection with converting from a stand-alone fund into a "feeder fund" as part of a master-feeder structure, (ix) director and officer liability insurance or other insurance premiums for any principal or employee of the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, (x) all fees and other expenses incurred in connection with the investigation, prosecution or defense of any claims, assertion of rights or pursuit of remedies, by or against the Partnership, including, without limitation, professional and other advisory and consulting expenses, and (xi) any and all costs and expenses incurred in connection with the dissolution, winding up, or termination of the Partnership. Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, in its sole discretion, may from time to time pay for any of the foregoing Partnership expenses. Any such person may elect to be reimbursed for such expenses, or to waive its right to reimbursement for any such expenses, as well as terminate any such voluntary payment or waiver of reimbursement.

The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the expenses of each Portfolio Fund.

(c) Allocation of Expenses Among Series. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager will allocate all expenses attributable to the Partnership among the Series on a pro rata basis or otherwise in their reasonable discretion.

(d) General Partner and Investment Manager Expenses. The General Partner and the Investment Manager shall pay for their own general operating and overhead expenses associated with providing the management and investment management services required under this Agreement and the Investment Management Agreement, respectively. These expenses include all expenses incurred by the General Partner and the Investment Manager in providing for their normal operating overhead, including, but not limited to, the cost of providing relevant support and administrative services (e.g., employee compensation and benefits, rent, office equipment, computer systems, insurance (other than as expressly set forth above), utilities, telephone, secretarial and bookkeeping services, etc.), but not including any Partnership operating expenses described above. The General Partner and the Investment Manager may use "soft dollar" commissions or rebates by brokerage firms of commissions generated by the Partnership's brokerage transactions executed through those firms to pay for certain brokerage and research products and services that fall within the safe harbor under Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, as set forth in the Memorandum.

Section 6.03 Marketing Fees and Sales Charges. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may sell Partnership Interests through broker-dealers and pay a marketing fee or commission in connection with such activities, including ongoing payments, at the General Partner's or the Investment Manager's own expense. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may also deduct a percentage of the amount invested by a Limited Partner in the Partnership to pay sales fees or charges, on a fully disclosed basis, to a broker-dealer based upon the Capital Contribution of such Limited Partner introduced to the Partnership by such broker-dealer. Any such sales fees or charges would be assessed against the referred Limited Partner and would reduce the amount actually invested by such Limited Partner in the Partnership. If a Limited Partner is introduced to the Partnership through a broker-dealer that is not affiliated with the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager, the arrangement, if any, with such broker-dealer shall be disclosed to, and acknowledged by, such Limited Partner.

Section 6.04 Directed Brokerage. The Investment Manager is authorized to direct Partnership brokerage transactions to brokers or other persons who refer prospective Limited Partners to the Partnership. The Investment Manager is authorized to pay finders' fees or other compensation at its own expense to such persons.

Section 6.05 Allocation of Investment Opportunities. The Investment Manager may at times determine that certain investments shall be suitable for acquisition by the Partnership and by other accounts managed by the Investment Manager, the Investment Manager's own accounts or accounts of an affiliate. If that occurs, and the Investment Manager is not able to acquire the desired aggregate amount of such investments on terms and conditions which the Investment Manager deems advisable, the Investment Manager shall endeavor to allocate in good faith the limited amount of such investments acquired among the various accounts for which the Investment Manager considers them to be suitable. The Investment Manager may make such allocations among the accounts in any manner which it considers to be fair under the circumstances, including, but not limited to, allocations based on relative account sizes, the degree of risk involved in the investments acquired, and the extent to which such investments are consistent with the investment policies and strategies of the various accounts involved.

Section 6.06 Aggregation of Orders. The Investment Manager may aggregate purchase and sale orders of investments held by the Partnership with similar orders being made simultaneously for other accounts or entities if, in the Investment Manager's reasonable judgment, such aggregation is reasonably likely to result in an overall economic benefit to the Partnership based on an evaluation that the Partnership shall be benefited by relatively better purchase or sale prices, lower commission expenses or beneficial timing of transactions, or a combination of these and other factors. In some instances, the purchase or sale of investments for the Partnership may be effected simultaneously with the purchase or sale of like investments for other accounts or entities. Such transactions may be made at slightly different prices, due to the volume of investments purchased or sold. In such event, the average price of all investments purchased or sold in such transactions may be determined, at the Investment Manager's sole discretion, and the Partnership may be charged or credited, as the case may be, with the average transaction price.

ARTICLE VII
WITHDRAWALS FROM CAPITAL ACCOUNT; DISTRIBUTIONS

Section 7.01 Permissible Withdrawals. A Limited Partner may withdraw all or any of the value in such Limited Partner's Capital Account in any Series in the manner and to the extent provided in Section 7.02. Each of the General Partner and its principals and affiliates may withdraw all or any of the value in its respective Capital Account at any time, from time to time, without the consent of the Limited Partners and without notice to any of the Limited Partners.

Section 7.02 Withdrawal Procedures

(a) Subject to the Lock-Up Period (as defined in Section 7.02(b)) and certain other restrictions described herein, each Limited Partner may withdraw a minimum of $100,000 as of the last day of each calendar quarter and at such other times as the General Partner may determine in its sole discretion (each such date shall be referred to herein as a "Withdrawal Date"), upon at least ninety-one (91) days' prior written notice to the Administrator, with a copy to the General Partner. Unless the General Partner consents, partial withdrawals may not be made if they would reduce a Limited Partner's Capital Account balance below $500,000. All withdrawals shall be deemed made prior to the commencement of the following calendar quarter (or other relevant period).

(b) Each Capital Contribution by a Limited Partner to the Partnership will be subject to a twelve (12)-month lock-up period ("Lock-Up Period") during which such capital may not be withdrawn from the Partnership, unless the Lock-Up Period is waived or reduced by the General Partner. If a Limited Partner purchases Partnership Interests on multiple dates, each tranche of Partnership Interests will be tracked separately for purposes of the Lock-Up Period, and withdrawals will be deemed made from Partnership Interests purchased on the earliest date (as adjusted for changes in the Net Asset Value). For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing Lock-Up provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

(c) The General Partner believes (but cannot guarantee) that the assets of the Partnership will be invested in a manner which would allow the General Partner to satisfy withdrawal requests. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion: (i) defer withdrawal requests until the Partnership's assets mature or are liquidated in due course, (ii) elect to purchase with its own funds the Partnership Interests of the withdrawing Partner, or (iii) borrow from a third party or draw from a line of credit, subject to availability and other factors, in order to fund any withdrawal. In addition, notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, the General Partner may limit and/or suspend withdrawals in order to ensure that the Partnership, at all times, meets the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth in the Memorandum.

(d) A Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its Capital Account that are attributable to the value of an Illiquid Investment held in a Side Pocket Account until such time that such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) is reallocated to such Limited Partner's Capital Account. At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event (as defined in Section 9.07). For the avoidance of doubt, any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

(e) The following provision shall apply to withdrawals, on a Series-by-Series basis:

(i) A Limited Partner who requests any withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any Fiscal Year, less than ninety percent (90%) of the value of such Limited Partner's Capital Account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts) shall be paid within ninety (90) days after the applicable Withdrawal Date.

(ii) In the event that a Limited Partner requests a withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any Fiscal Year, ninety percent (90%) or more of the value of such Limited Partner's Capital Account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts), the General Partner may reduce the amounts paid after any Withdrawal Date so that they constitute, in the aggregate during such Fiscal Year ninety percent (90%) of an amount estimated by the General Partner to be the amount to which the withdrawing Limited Partner is entitled in the aggregate (calculated on the basis of unaudited data); such amount will be paid within ninety (90) days after the applicable Withdrawal Date. The balance of the amount payable upon such withdrawal shall be paid, without interest, within ninety (90) days after completion of the audited financial statements for the Fiscal Year in which the withdrawal occurs. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner may, in its sole discretion, agree to pay up to the full Capital Account balance (calculated on the basis of unaudited data) to a withdrawing Limited Partner within ninety (90) days after the applicable Withdrawal Date, subject to adjustment based on audited financial statements. To the extent that the sum previously paid to a withdrawing Limited Partner is calculated to have exceeded the amount to which it is entitled, that Limited Partner shall be required to repay to the Partnership the balance.

(f) The General Partner may, in its sole discretion, require a Limited Partner to withdraw any or all of the value of such Limited Partner's Capital Accounts on at least five (5) days' notice for any reason or no reason; provided, however, that the General Partner may require such a withdrawal on less (or no) notice in order to comply with any laws and regulations applicable to the Partnership and/or its affiliates.

(g) The Partnership or the relevant Series has the right to pay cash or in-kind, or a combination of both, to a Limited Partner that makes a withdrawal from such Limited Partner's Capital Account under this Article VII.

(h) All withdrawals shall be subject to the General Partner's power to establish such reserves for the Partnership or a Series as the General Partner shall, in its sole but reasonable discretion, deem appropriate to pay current and future, definite, contingent and possible obligations of the Partnership or a Series (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP), including estimated expenses in connection therewith, which could reduce the amount of a distribution upon withdrawal.

(i) All notices of withdrawal must specify the dollar amount or percentage of value of a Limited Partner's Capital Account to be withdrawn. The General Partner, in its sole discretion, may waive or modify any of the terms relating to withdrawals, including, without limitation, minimum amounts, notice periods and the Lock-UP Period, for all or any of the Limited Partners in its discretion without notice to the other Limited Partners.

(j) If the General Partner, in its sole discretion, permits a Limited Partner to withdraw capital other than on a regularly scheduled Withdrawal Date, the General Partner may impose an administrative fee to cover the actual legal, accounting, administrative, brokerage, and any other costs and expenses associated with such withdrawal. Such fee shall be payable to the relevant Series of the Partnership and shall be deducted from the withdrawal proceeds of the withdrawing Limited Partner as of such Withdrawal Date.

(k) Upon withdrawal of all of the capital in its Capital Account (excluding for purposes hereof, any remaining investments held in a Side Pocket Account), a Limited Partner shall be deemed to have withdrawn from the Partnership or the relevant Series and, upon notice of such withdrawal, a Limited Partner shall not be entitled to exercise any voting rights afforded to Limited Partners under this Agreement.

(l) In addition to the above limitations on withdrawals, all withdrawals by Limited Partners will be subject to any limitations on withdrawals imposed by the Portfolio Funds, as applicable. For example, the ability of the Partnership to provide withdrawal proceeds to a Limited Partner may be subject to, among other things, various notice period requirements of the Portfolio Funds.

Section 7.03 Limitations on Withdrawals

(a) The Partnership or a Series may suspend (or postpone) withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations of Net Asset Value and/or payments upon any withdrawals (in whole or in part) from Capital Accounts:

(i) during the existence of any state of affairs which, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the disposition of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners, or where such state of affairs, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the determination of the price or value of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners;

(ii) where any such withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations and/or payments, in the opinion of the General Partner, would result in the violation of any applicable law or regulation, including any diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds;

(iii) if the General Partner determines, in its sole discretion, that such suspension or postponement is prudent in order to prevent the Partnership from being subject to adverse tax or regulatory implications;

(iv) a Portfolio Fund suspends the right to, or the payment of proceeds due upon, withdrawal and/or a Portfolio Fund allocates assets to its side pocket account;

(v) a Portfolio Fund satisfies a withdrawal request by making an in-kind distribution; or

(vi) for such other reasons or for such other periods as the General Partner may in good faith determine.

(b) All Limited Partners shall be notified in writing of any such suspension or postponement and the termination thereof. Following any suspension or postponement of withdrawals, a withdrawal request made by a Limited Partner prior to such suspension or postponement shall be effected as of the first Withdrawal Date following the recommencement of withdrawals.

(c) For the avoidance of doubt, the following "gate" provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis. In the event that Limited Partners, in the aggregate, request, as of any Withdrawal Date, withdrawals of more than twenty-five percent (25%) of the aggregate balances of the Partnership's Capital Accounts (excluding any Side Pocket Accounts), the requested amounts may, in the General Partner's sole discretion, be reduced to an amount equal to twenty-five percent (25%) of the aggregate Capital Account balances of the Partnership (excluding any Side Pocket Accounts) as of such date, and satisfied on a pro rata basis, based on the respective amounts of requested withdrawals of capital by each withdrawing Limited Partner. Capital withdrawal requests that are deferred due to such limitation may be revoked by the withdrawing Limited Partner, and if not revoked, will be aggregated with other withdrawal requests received for subsequent Withdrawal Dates. In the interim, all of the remaining capital in such Limited Partner's Capital Account (including the capital subject to such deferred withdrawal request) shall remain subject to the performance of the Partnership.

Section 7.04 Distributions

(a) The Partnership (or any Series) is not required, and generally does not intend, to make any distributions of cash or other property. However, the Partnership (or any Series) may make such distributions at such times and in such amounts as the General Partner shall determine in its sole discretion.

(b) All distributions hereunder (other than those made related to withdrawals from Capital Accounts) shall be made pro rata to all Partners in accordance with their relative Capital Accounts (or Side Pocket Accounts, New Issues Accounts or other memorandum accounts, as applicable) at the time of any such distribution. The General Partner may set up such reserves as it shall determine shall be appropriate or necessary to accomplish the purposes of the Partnership (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP). If the Partnership (or a Series) shall distribute property other than cash pursuant to this Section 7.04, the Capital Accounts of the Partners shall be adjusted as if such property were sold at the value of such property as determined under Section 9.04, and the cash proceeds of such sale were distributed.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, to the extent that the Partnership makes any distributions, the General Partner may limit such distributions, in its sole discretion, in order to ensure that the Partnership, at all times, meets the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds.

ARTICLE VIII
ADDITIONAL LIMITED PARTNERS

Section 8.01 Future Issuance of Partnership Interests. The General Partner may admit as of the first day of each month (each such date, a "Contribution Date"), or at any other time that the General Partner determines in its sole and absolute discretion, as additional Limited Partners ("Additional Limited Partners"), persons who contribute cash or, in the General Partner's sole discretion, persons who contribute securities (and/or other investments), for Partnership Interests ("Capital Contributions"). If the General Partner consents to a Limited Partner's contribution of securities (and/or other investments) to the Partnership, the Partnership may, in the General Partner's discretion, assess a special charge against such Limited Partner equal to the actual costs incurred by the Partnership in connection with accepting such contributed securities (and/or other investments), including, but not limited to, the costs of liquidating, or otherwise adjusting the Partnership's portfolio to accommodate, such securities (and/or other investments), and legal, accounting and administration costs. Such special charge shall be assessed as of such dates deemed appropriate by the General Partner. Any securities (and/or other investments) accepted as a Capital Contribution shall be valued by the General Partner, in its sole discretion, using the valuation criteria set forth in Section 9.04.

ARTICLE IX
CAPITAL ACCOUNTS; CAPITAL CONTRIBUTIONS; NET ASSET VALUE ADJUSTMENTS; TAXABLE INCOME AND LOSS AND DISTRIBUTIONS

Section 9.01 Capital Accounts. A Partner's "Capital Account" as of a particular date shall consist of the following:

(a) an amount equal to the Partner's Original Capital Contribution;

(b) the increases, if any, to such account by reason of Additional Capital Contributions (as defined in Section 9.03(a));

(c) the decreases, if any, to such account by reason of withdrawals (and distributions) from such Capital Account; and

(d) the increases or decreases, if any, to such Capital Account in accordance with the provisions of this Article IX.

Capital Accounts shall be maintained in accordance with the provisions of Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2), or any successor provisions thereto.

Section 9.02 Original Capital Contributions. A Partner's "Original Capital Contribution" shall be the amount of the cash, or in the sole discretion of the General Partner, securities (and/or other investments), contributed by such party upon such Partner's admission as a Partner. The General Partner may establish such minimum Original Capital Contribution as the General Partner deems appropriate and that minimum may thereafter be waived or changed by the General Partner. In the event an Original Capital Contribution is accepted as of any day other than a Contribution Date, the General Partner shall cause appropriate adjustments to be made for purposes of applying the accounting and allocation provisions of this Agreement. At any time that a Partner is admitted, the General Partner shall end the prior accounting period on the day prior to the date of the acceptance of the Original Capital Contribution, and commence a new accounting period on the date of such admission, and upon such admission, the Partnership Interests shall be adjusted and reallocated based upon the Capital Accounts of the respective Partners.

Section 9.03 Additional Capital Contributions

(a) A Partner shall be permitted, with the consent of the General Partner, to make additional Capital Contributions in an amount deemed appropriate by the General Partner in cash or, in the sole discretion of the General Partner, securities (and/or other investments) ("Additional Capital Contributions") to the capital of the Partnership as of any Contribution Date, or at any other time that the General Partner determines in its sole and absolute discretion. In the event an Additional Capital Contribution is accepted as of any day other than a Contribution Date, the General Partner shall cause appropriate adjustments to be made for purposes of applying the accounting and allocation provisions of this Agreement. At any time that Additional Capital Contributions are accepted pursuant to this Section 9.03, the General Partner shall end the prior accounting period on the day prior to the date of the acceptance of the Additional Capital Contributions, and commence a new accounting period on the date of such acceptance, and upon such acceptance, the Partnership Interests shall be adjusted and reallocated based upon the Capital Accounts of the respective Partners. Any securities accepted as an Additional Capital Contribution shall be valued by the General Partner, in its sole discretion, using the valuation criteria set forth in Section 9.04.

(b) In connection with an Additional Capital Contribution by an existing Limited Partner, the General Partner shall (i) treat such Additional Capital Contribution as a Capital Contribution with respect to one of such Limited Partner's existing Capital Accounts or (ii) establish a new Capital Account to which such Capital Contribution shall be credited and which shall be maintained for the benefit of such Limited Partner separately from any existing Capital Account of such Limited Partner. Such separate Capital Account may be maintained for any purpose, in the discretion of the General Partner, including the calculation of the Incentive Fee, the Loss Carryforward (each as defined in Section 9.05) and/or the Lock-Up Period. If a Limited Partner has more than one Capital Account, any withdrawals by or distributions to such Limited Partner shall be applied to such Capital Accounts in such manner and proportion as the General Partner shall determine in its sole discretion.

Section 9.04 Determination of Net Asset Value

(a) The net asset value ("Net Asset Value") of the Partnership, on a Series-by-Series basis, shall be determined on an accrual basis of accounting, as of the end of each calendar month (or other period, as the case may be), in accordance with GAAP, consistently applied (except that: (x) organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership may be capitalized and amortized over a period of up to sixty (60) months from the date the Partnership commences operations and (y) reserves may be taken that are inconsistent with GAAP), the Memorandum and the following:

(1) No value shall be assigned to goodwill;

(2) All accrued debts and liabilities shall be treated as liabilities, including, but not limited to, all compensation payable to the Investment Manager that has been earned but not yet paid (e.g., Management Fees and Incentive Fees), any allowance for the Partnership's estimated annual audit and legal fees and other operating expenses and any contingencies for which reserves are required;

(3) Securities, commodities and other financial instruments (other than options) that are listed on a national securities, commodities or other exchange, or over-the-counter instruments listed on NASDAQ, shall be valued at their last sales prices on such date or, if no sales occurred on such date, at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such securities, commodities or financial instruments on such date;

(4) Options that are listed on a securities or commodities exchange shall be valued at their last sales prices on the date of determination on the largest securities or commodities exchange (by trading volume) on which such options shall have traded on such date; provided that, if the last sales prices of such options do not fall between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date, then such options shall be valued at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date;

(5) Securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that are not listed on an exchange or quoted on an over-the-counter market, but for which there are available quotations, shall be valued based upon quotations obtained from market makers, dealers or pricing services;

(6) Securities (and/or other investments) contributed to the Partnership as subscription proceeds shall be treated as if purchased by the Partnership at market value on the date of contribution, and securities (and/or other investments) distributed from the Partnership as withdrawal proceeds shall be treated as if sold by the Partnership at market value on the date of distribution;

(7) Net profits and net losses from New Issues (as defined in Section 9.08(a)) shall only be credited or debited to the Net Asset Value of the New Issues Accounts, except to the extent permitted by the applicable rules of the FINRA (as defined in Section 9.08(a)), in which case a portion of the net profits and net losses from New Issues may be credited or debited to the Net Asset Value of the Capital Accounts of Limited Partners who are Restricted Persons (as defined in Section 9.08(a)) up to an amount permitted by applicable FINRA rules;

(8) Any securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that have no public market, investments in other asset classes (including those in Side Pocket Accounts), and all other assets of the Partnership for which a valuation methodology is not specified, shall be valued by the Investment Manager in a manner determined in good faith to reflect their fair market value; and

(9) In the case of investments in Portfolio Funds, which investments are expected to constitute most of the Partnership's assets, the net asset value calculation provided by the relevant managers (or any affiliates or service providers thereof) of those Portfolio Funds will generally be used in determining the Partnership's Net Asset Value. The Investment Manager intends to engage an independent third-party valuation agent (in addition to the Administrator) to appraise the Partnership's interests in Illiquid Investments, including, without limitation, the PE Portfolio Fund; provided that, if the PE Portfolio Fund engages its own independent third-party valuation agent, the Partnership may rely on such valuation of any investment in the PE Portfolio Fund. None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of their respective affiliates will be responsible for calculating the net asset value of the Portfolio Funds or for verifying the accuracy and completeness of any such values received.

(b) If the Investment Manager determines, in its sole discretion, that the valuation of any security, commodity, option or other financial instrument does not fairly represent its market value, the Investment Manager shall value such security, commodity, option or other financial instrument as it reasonably determines.

(c) In connection with the determination of the Net Asset Value of the Partnership, the Investment Manager may consult with and is entitled to rely upon the advice of the Partnership's brokers and any other third parties deemed appropriate by the Investment Manager. In no event and under no circumstances shall the Investment Manager, the Partnership's brokers or such other third parties incur any individual liability or responsibility for any determination made or other action taken or omitted by them in good faith.

(d) Absent bad faith or manifest error, all Net Asset Value determinations pursuant to this Agreement are conclusive and binding as to all Partners.

(e) After the foregoing determinations have been made, a further calculation shall be made to determine the increase or decrease in Net Asset Value of the Partnership during the month (or other time period, as the case may be) just ended. The term "increase in Net Asset Value" shall be the excess of Net Asset Value at the end of any month (or other time period, as the case may be) over that of the Net Asset Value of the Partnership as of the end of the preceding period, after adjusting for Capital Contributions, distributions and withdrawals. The term "decrease in Net Asset Value" shall be the amount by which the Net Asset Value at the end of the month (or other time period, as the case may be) is less than the Net Asset Value of the Partnership as of the end of the preceding period, after making the adjustments specified above.

Section 9.05 Allocation of Increases and Decreases in Net Asset Value; Incentive Fee

(a) Any net increase or decrease in Net Asset Value during any month (or such other period, as the case may be) shall be allocated as of the end of such month (or such other period, as the case may be) to the Capital Account of each Partner in the proportion which such Partner's Capital Account bore to the sum of the Capital Accounts of all the Partners as of the beginning of such month (or such other period, as the case may be); provided that net increases or decreases in Side Pocket Accounts, New Issues Accounts and other memorandum accounts shall be allocated as provided in Sections 9.07 and 9.08, respectively.

(b) In consideration for the management services provided pursuant to this Agreement, the General Partner shall receive an incentive fee ("Incentive Fee") at the close of each Fiscal Year (or such other applicable period that this payment is made in accordance with this Agreement, as the case may be) equal to five percent (5%) of the net increase in Net Asset Value (including realized and unrealized gains and losses and net of the Management Fee) attributable to each Limited Partner's Capital Account for such Fiscal Year (or other applicable period), as determined on the accrual basis of accounting; provided, however, that the Incentive Fee shall be subject to a Loss Carryforward (as described below in Section 9.05(g)).

(c) The Incentive Fee shall not include any change in the value of an Illiquid Investment held in a Side Pocket Account until such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) has been reallocated from such Side Pocket Account to the Capital Accounts of participating Partners. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any income generated from an Illiquid Investment shall be transferred to and included in the Capital Accounts of participating Partners for purposes of calculating the Incentive Fee.

(d) The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the incentive-based fees/allocations charged by the managers of the Portfolio Funds. Notwithstanding the foregoing, (x) the General Partner intends to waive any incentive-based fees/allocations due to the General Partner and/or any affiliate thereof with respect to any investment of the Partnership in any Affiliated Funds, including the PE Portfolio Fund, such that, to the extent that the Partnership invests in any Affiliated Funds, including the PE Portfolio Fund, the Partnership will not be subject to a layering of fees; and (y) to the extent that the Partnership is subject to a waiver or reduction of incentive-based fees/allocations, or any other special arrangement, with respect to its investment in the PE Portfolio Fund, the General Partner shall nevertheless not charge any such fees or allocations (or otherwise change such arrangement) at the level of the Partnership.

(e) The General Partner shall also receive the Incentive Fee with respect to any amounts withdrawn by a Limited Partner, whether voluntary or involuntary, and upon dissolution of the Partnership under Article XIII. The Incentive Fee shall be paid to the General Partner in addition to, and separately from, the allocations of net increases or decreases in Net Asset Value to its Capital Account pursuant to Section 9.05(a).

(f) In the event of a net decrease in the Net Asset Value of the Capital Account of any Limited Partner in any Fiscal Year (or other relevant Incentive Fee period), the amount of such net decrease shall be recorded and carried forward as a "Loss Carryforward". Any net increase in the Net Asset Value of the Capital Account of such Limited Partner in a subsequent Fiscal Year (or other period) shall be applied to reduce (but not below zero) such Loss Carryforward balance (and, conversely, any net decrease in Net Asset Value shall be applied to increase such Loss Carryforward balance). No Incentive Fee shall be paid in any subsequent Fiscal Year (or other period) in respect of such Capital Account until the Loss Carryforward has been fully recovered as described above, and in such Fiscal Year (or other period) of such recovery, the Incentive Fee shall be calculated based on the excess net increase in Net Asset Value of such Capital Account (i.e., after being applied to reduce the Loss Carryforward to zero). However, in the event that a Limited Partner withdraws funds at a time in which such Limited Partner's Capital Account has a Loss Carryforward, the amount of such Loss Carryforward at such Withdrawal Date applicable to such Limited Partner's Capital Account shall be reduced by a percentage equal to one hundred percent (100%) multiplied by a fraction, the numerator of which is the amount to be withdrawn from the Limited Partner's Capital Account, and the denominator of which is the amount in such Capital Account immediately prior to the withdrawal.

(g) Notwithstanding the provisions set forth above, if the Partnership has a material item of income or loss in any fiscal period which relates to a matter or transaction occurring during a prior fiscal period (e.g., if the Partnership wins a cash settlement in a case it began in a prior period) the item of income or loss may, at the sole discretion of the General Partner, be shared among the Partners (including persons who ceased to be Partners) in accordance with each such Partner's Partnership Interest in the Partnership during the prior period.

Section 9.06 Allocations for Tax Purposes; General Partner Discretion on Allocations; Withholding

(a) Ordinary income, gains, losses and deductions of the Partnership for each Fiscal Year shall accrue to, and be borne by, the Partners in proportion to their sharing of net increases or decreases in Net Asset Value, the allocations of various types of taxable income and losses likewise being as nearly as possible proportionate.

(b) All allocations under this Section 9.06 shall be made pursuant to the principles of Section 704 of the Code and in conformity with Treasury regulations promulgated thereunder ("Regulations"), or the successor provisions to such Code Section and Regulations.

(c) All matters concerning the allocation of profits, gains and losses among the parties (including the taxes thereon) and accounting procedures not expressly provided for by the terms of this Agreement shall be determined by the General Partner in its sole discretion, and the General Partner is expressly permitted to use the aggregate method of apportioning taxable gain and loss under Treasury Regulation Section

704(b). The General Partner is expressly authorized to make special allocations to the Partners of such gains or income as shall be necessary to satisfy the "qualified income offset" requirements of Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d). The General Partner's determination of the foregoing matters shall be final and conclusive as to all parties.

(d) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in this Agreement, in the event a Partner withdraws all of the capital in its Capital Account from the Partnership (excluding any amounts held in Side Pocket Accounts), the General Partner shall have the discretion to specially allocate an amount of the Partnership's taxable gains or losses to the withdrawing Partner to the extent that the Partner's Capital Account exceeds, or is less than, its federal income tax basis in its Partnership Interest.

(e) Any taxes, fees or other charges that the Partnership is required to withhold under applicable law with respect to any Partner shall be withheld by the Partnership (and paid to the appropriate government authority) and shall be deducted from the Capital Account of such Partner as of the last day of the Fiscal Year (or earlier if the Partner withdraws) with respect to which amounts are required to be withheld.

(f) For the avoidance of doubt, the provisions of this Section 9.06 shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Section 9.07 Side Pocket Accounts

(a) The Investment Manager may designate that certain investments held by a Series of the Partnership and/or by the Portfolio Fund(s) be carried in one or more separate memorandum accounts (each, a "Side Pocket Account") for such period of time as the Investment Manager determines. Such investments may include: (i) privately placed, unregistered securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments, or those investments that, in the opinion of the Investment Manager, do not have a readily ascertainable market value; (ii) other illiquid securities that may be valued but are not freely transferable; (iii) an investment into a Portfolio Fund with an extended lock-up period and/or that invests in illiquid assets; (iv) that portion of an investment in a Portfolio Fund that is attributable to side pocket accounts designated by the manager of such Portfolio Fund (which may be designated with respect to assets that are subject to legal or contractual restrictions on transferability, or that the Investment Manager believes either lack a readily assessable market value (without impairing the value of such investments) or should be held until the resolution of a special event or circumstance; and (v) investments in other asset classes (such as real estate) and other property that are not traded on public exchanges (each, as designated by the Investment Manager, along with follow-on investments, if any, an "Illiquid Investment"). For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in a Side Pocket Account, and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely. Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account shall be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager. For the avoidance of doubt, each Policy Owner investing through the relevant Limited Partner will indirectly participate in the economics from a pro rata portion of a Side Pocket Account and the corresponding Illiquid Investment.

(b) At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event. Upon a Realization Event, such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) shall be reallocated, pro rata, from the Side Pocket Account to the Capital Accounts of participating Partners in accordance with their respective interests in such Side Pocket Account. Until such reallocation, a Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its Capital Account that are attributable to the value of Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account. Upon such reallocation, a Limited Partner that has withdrawn all of its capital from the Partnership other than the capital attributable to such Side Pocket Account shall receive an amount equal to its interest in such Side Pocket Account (net of: (i) any accrued Management Fees and accrued expenses (to the extent not covered by the Partnership's reserves, including the Management Fee Reserve), and (ii) any accrued Incentive Fee, with respect thereto) within ninety (90) days after such reallocation. A "Realization Event" occurs: (1) when an Illiquid Investment becomes liquid, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager; (2) when an Illiquid Investment is sold or otherwise disposed of by the Partnership; (3) when circumstances otherwise exist that, in the reasonable judgment of the Investment Manager, conclusively establish a value for an Illiquid Investment, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager (including, without limitation, when additional securities substantially similar to the Illiquid Investment have been issued by the issuer of the Illiquid Investment); or (4) as otherwise determined in the sole discretion of the Investment Manager.

(c) Newly-admitted Limited Partners may not participate in Illiquid Investments that were placed in a Side Pocket Account prior to their admission. For the avoidance of doubt, the Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts at the time of such admission. Notwithstanding any provisions of this Agreement to the contrary, any expenses relating specifically to a Side Pocket Account shall be charged to the Partners participating in such account in proportion to their respective interests therein, as of the commencement of such Side Pocket Account.

(d) If the Investment Manager in its discretion designates any investment as a follow-on investment to an existing Illiquid Investment (each, a "Follow-On Investment"), only the Partners participating in such original investment shall participate in such Follow-On Investment in proportion to their interest in the related Side Pocket Account; provided, however, that if a Partner shall have withdrawn from the Partnership, the General Partner shall equitably adjust the interests of the remaining participating Partners to reflect such withdrawn Partner's non-participation in the Follow-On Investment. In its discretion, the Investment Manager need not designate as a "Follow-On Investment" an additional investment in the same or similar opportunity as the investment for which a Side Pocket Account has been established, but instead may designate such investment as a new investment with a separate Side Pocket Account. Additionally, the Investment Manager, in its sole and absolute discretion, may determine that, for various reasons, an asset that initially was not an Illiquid Investment should be categorized as an Illiquid Investment.

Section 9.08 New Issues; Other Memorandum Accounts for Restricted Transactions.

(a) From time to time, the Partnership may invest in initial public offerings of equity securities ("New Issues"). Under rules adopted by the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), (i) certain persons engaged in the securities, banking or financial services industries (and members of their immediate families) and (ii) certain persons who are affiliated with companies that are current, former or prospective investment banking clients of the Partnership's broker(s) (collectively, "Restricted Persons") are restricted from participating in New Issues, each subject to a de minimis exemption ("De Minimis Limit"). To the extent necessary to comply with FINRA rules, in addition to the Partnership's regular Capital Accounts and any Side Pocket Accounts, the General Partner may establish one or more memorandum accounts that are authorized to participate in New Issues (each, a "New Issues Account"). Participation in New Issues Accounts shall be limited to (i) those Limited Partners who are not Restricted Persons, and (ii) those Limited Partners who are Restricted Persons, but only to the extent that such participation by Restricted Persons does not exceed the De Minimis Limit. To the extent not prohibited by applicable FINRA rules, the General Partner shall be entitled to receive the Incentive Fee with respect to any profits arising from New Issues trades.

(b) In the event a New Issues Account is established, to effect a transaction in New Issues, the requisite funds shall be transferred from the Partnership to the New Issues Account. Securities held in the New Issues Account shall be held there until they are eventually sold or transferred. Upon the sale or other disposition of New Issues (including any transfer of the underlying securities in the New Issues Account to the Capital Accounts of all of the Partners after such securities no longer constitute New Issues), any profits or losses resulting from securities transactions in the New Issues Account in any fiscal period shall be credited or debited to the Capital Accounts of Limited Partners participating in the New Issues Account in accordance with their interests therein. In the event that the Partnership establishes one or more New Issues Accounts, the General Partner shall be authorized to make an equitable adjustment to account for the fact that Limited Partners that are not Restricted Persons were receiving profits based in part on the capital of Limited Partners that are Restricted Persons. Such adjustment may, in the sole and absolute discretion of the General Partner, and to the extent not prohibited by rules of FINRA, consist of: (i) assessing an interest charge to the Capital Accounts of Limited Partners that are not Restricted Persons, in favor of the Partnership, in an amount deemed appropriate to compensate the Partnership for the use of capital by Limited Partners that are not Restricted Persons in connection with New Issue trades; or (ii) such other adjustment as the General Partner considers equitable and is not inconsistent with the rules of FINRA.

(c) In addition to the foregoing provisions with respect to New Issues Accounts and Side Pocket Accounts, to the extent that certain Limited Partners are restricted from participating in any transactions of the Partnership by applicable laws or regulations, or for any other reason determined by the General Partner in good faith, the General Partner may, in its discretion, establish one or more separate memorandum accounts to hold such investments and isolate ownership away from such non-participating Limited Partners. Only those Limited Partners who the General Partner determines are eligible shall participate in such accounts. In the event that the Partnership establishes one or more memorandum accounts, the General Partner shall be authorized to make an equitable adjustment to account for the fact that participating Limited Partners were receiving profits based in part on the capital of non-participating Limited Partners. Such adjustment may, in the sole and absolute discretion of the General Partner, consist of: (i) assessing an interest charge to the Capital Accounts of participating Limited Partners, in favor of the Partnership, in an amount deemed appropriate to compensate the Partnership for the use of capital by participating Limited Partners in connection with such trades; or (ii) such other adjustment as the General Partner considers equitable.

ARTICLE X
RESTRICTIONS ON TRANSFERS OF PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS OF LIMITED PARTNERS; ADMISSION OF SUBSTITUTE LIMITED PARTNERS; OTHER MATTERS AFFECTING PARTNERSHIP INTERESTS

Section 10.01 Restrictions on Transfer of Partnership Interests of Limited Partners

(a) Except for transfers by will or intestate succession or by operation of law, no Limited Partner may offer, sell, transfer, assign, exchange, hypothecate or pledge, or otherwise dispose of or encumber (hereinafter collectively, "Transfer" or "Transferred"), in whole or in part, such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest without the consent of the General Partner, which may be given or withheld in the sole and absolute discretion of the General Partner.

(b) No Limited Partner may Transfer, in whole or in part, such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest if, in the General Partner's discretion, such Transfer could result in the termination of the Partnership for federal income tax purposes, and any purported Transfer that could result in the termination of the Partnership for federal income tax purposes shall be void ab initio. In its sole and absolute discretion, the General Partner may request a written opinion of counsel acceptable to the General Partner (the expenses of which may be allocated to the relevant Limited Partner) as to whether any contemplated Transfer could result in the termination of the Partnership for federal income tax purposes, and the General Partner shall be entitled to rely conclusively upon such opinion in determining whether such Transfer could result in the termination of the Partnership and whether consent to such disposition should be given.

(c) The Partnership Interests may not be transferred without documentation acceptable to the General Partner, which may include a written opinion of counsel acceptable to the General Partner (the expenses of which may be allocated to the relevant Limited Partner) that such proposed Transfer may be effected without:

(i) registration of the Partnership Interest being made under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended;

(ii) violating any applicable state securities or "blue sky" law (including investment suitability standards) or the laws of any other jurisdiction;

(iii) the Partnership becoming subject to the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("1940 Act"); or

(iv) violating the Act.

(d) In no event shall the Partnership Interest of a Limited Partner or any portion thereof be Transferred to a minor or incompetent, unless by will or intestate succession.

Section 10.02 Admission of Substitute Limited Partner

(a) Subject to the provisions of this Article X, an assignee of the Partnership Interest of a Limited Partner (which shall include any purchaser, transferee, donee or other recipient of any disposition of such Partnership Interest) shall be deemed admitted to the Partnership as a Limited Partner (a "Substitute Limited Partner") only upon the satisfactory completion of the following:

(i) consent of the General Partner shall have been given, which may be given or withheld in the sole and absolute discretion of the General Partner and which shall be evidenced by a written document executed by the General Partner;

(ii) the assignee shall have accepted and agreed to be bound by the terms and provisions of this Agreement (as it may be amended from time to time) by executing a counterpart hereof and such assignee shall have expressly assumed all of the rights and obligations of the assignor Limited Partner hereunder, and shall have executed such other documents or instruments as the General Partner may require in its sole and absolute discretion in order to effect the admission of such person as a Limited Partner;

(iii) an amendment to the Certificate, if required by the Act (in the opinion of the General Partner), evidencing the admission of such person as a Limited Partner shall have been filed;

(iv) the assignee shall have delivered a letter containing a representation that the assignee's acquisition of the Partnership Interest is made as a principal, for the assignee's own account, for investment purposes only and not with a view to the resale or distribution of such Partnership Interest, and that the assignee will not Transfer such Partnership Interest or any fraction thereof to anyone in violation of this Agreement;

(v) if the assignee is a corporation, partnership, limited liability company, trust or other entity, the assignee shall have provided to the General Partner evidence satisfactory to the General Partner of its authority to become a Limited Partner under the terms and provisions of this Agreement;

(vi) the assignee shall have complied with all applicable governmental rules and regulations, if any;

(vii) the assignee meets the suitability requirements for investing in the Partnership and the assignee completes the subscription documents

("Subscription Documents") provided by the General Partner; and (viii) all costs and expenses incurred by the Partnership and the General Partner in connection with this Section 10.02 shall be paid by the person or entity seeking to become a Substitute Limited Partner (or the transferor Limited Partner).

Section 10.03 Rights of Assignee of Partnership Interest

(a) Subject to Section 10.01(b), if a Limited Partner Transfers all or a portion of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest, involuntarily, by operation of law or voluntarily, without the consent required by this Article X, the transferee or assignee shall: (i) be entitled only to receive that proportion of profit and loss, and any distribution of Partnership assets, attributable to the Partnership Interest acquired by reason of such disposition from and after the effective date of such disposition, and only upon written notification of same to the General Partner consistent with Section 10.03(b); and (ii) have no other rights as a Limited Partner unless admitted as a Substitute Limited Partner in accordance with the terms of this Agreement.

(b) Subject to the provisions of Section 10.01, and except as required by operation of law, the Partnership shall not be obligated for any purposes whatsoever to recognize the assignment by any Limited Partner of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest until the General Partner has received notice thereof.

(c) Any person or entity who is the assignee of all or any portion of the Partnership Interest of a Limited Partner, but who has not become a Substitute Limited Partner, and desires to make a further disposition of such Partnership Interest, shall be subject to all the provisions of this Article X to the same extent and in the same manner as any Limited Partner desiring to make a disposition of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest.

Section 10.04 Effect of Bankruptcy, Death or Incompetence of a Limited Partner. The bankruptcy, dissolution or winding up of a Limited Partner, the death of a Limited Partner or an adjudication that a Limited Partner is incompetent (which term shall include, but not be limited to, insanity), shall not cause the termination, wind-down or dissolution of the Partnership and the business of the Partnership shall continue. If a Limited Partner becomes bankrupt, dissolved or wound up, the trustee or receiver of such Limited Partner's estate or, if a Limited Partner dies, such Limited Partner's executor, administrator or trustee, or, if such Limited Partner is adjudicated incompetent, such Limited Partner's committee, guardian or conservator, shall have the rights of such Limited Partner for the purposes of settling or managing such Limited Partner's estate or property and such power as the bankrupt, deceased or incompetent Limited Partner possessed to dispose of all or any part of such Limited Partner's Interest and to join with any assignee in satisfying conditions precedent to the admission of the assignee as a Substitute Limited Partner.

Section 10.05 Attachment by Creditors. If a Partnership Interest is subjected to attachment by a creditor, or is assigned for the benefit of any creditor, the Partnership Interest obtained by such creditor shall be only that of an assignee, and in no event shall such creditor have the rights of a Substitute Limited Partner or an Additional Limited Partner.

ARTICLE XI
REPRESENTATIONS, WARRANTIES AND COVENANTS

Section 11.01 Limited Partners. Each Limited Partner represents, warrants and covenants to the Partnership and to every other Partner as follows:

(a) Such Limited Partner shall provide promptly, upon request by the General Partner, all financial data, documents, reports, certifications or other information necessary or appropriate to enable the Partnership to apply for and obtain an exemption from the registration provisions of applicable law and any other information required by governmental agencies having jurisdiction over the Partnership.

(b) There is no misrepresentation contained in the Subscription Documents and the forms attached thereto completed by such Limited Partner.

(c) If such Limited Partner is a corporation, partnership, limited liability company, trust or other entity, that the officer (or other signatory) signing on its behalf has been duly authorized to execute and deliver this Agreement and, to the extent requested by the General Partner, the Certificate.

(d) Such Limited Partner that is an entity that would be an "investment company" under the 1940 Act, but for an exclusion under either Section 3(c)(1) or Section 3(c)(7) thereof, has advised the General Partner of the number of persons that constitute "beneficial owners of such Limited Partner's outstanding securities (other than short-term paper)" within the meaning of Section 3(c)(1)(A) of the 1940 Act, and shall advise the General Partner promptly upon any change in that number.

ARTICLE XII
SPECIAL POWER OF ATTORNEY

Section 12.01 Execution and Consent. Each Limited Partner hereby irrevocably constitutes and appoints the General Partner and its respective successors (hereinafter referred to as "Special Attorney") as the attorney-in-fact for such Limited Partner with power and authority to act in the Limited Partner's name and on the Limited Partner's behalf to execute, acknowledge, swear to and file documents and instruments necessary or appropriate to the conduct of the Partnership's business, which shall include, but not be limited to, the following:

(a) the Certificate and this Agreement, as well as amendments thereto as required by the laws of any state, or any other jurisdiction, or as otherwise permitted under the terms of this Agreement;

(b) any other certificates, instruments and documents, including fictitious name certificates, as may be required by, or may be appropriate under, the laws of any state;

(c) the amendment and/or restatement of this Agreement in accordance with Section 14.08; and

(d) any documents that may be required to effect the continuation of the Partnership, the admission of an Additional Limited Partner or a Substitute Limited Partner, the withdrawal of a Limited Partner, or the dissolution and termination of the Partnership, provided that such continuation, admission, withdrawal or dissolution and termination are in accordance with the terms of the Certificate and this Agreement.

Section 12.02 Procedural Aspects. The power of attorney granted by each Limited Partner to the Special Attorney:

(a) is a special power of attorney, coupled with an interest, and is accordingly irrevocable;

(b) may be exercised by the Special Attorney for each Limited Partner either by signing separately as attorney-in-fact for each Limited Partner or, by executing any instrument with the single signature of such Special Attorney acting as attorney-in-fact for all of the Limited Partners; and

(c) shall survive the assignment by a Limited Partner of the whole or any portion of such Limited Partner's Partnership Interest; provided that where the assignee has been approved in accordance with the provisions of this Agreement for admission to the Partnership as a Substitute Limited Partner, the Power of Attorney shall survive such assignment for the sole purpose of enabling the Special Attorney to execute, acknowledge and file any instrument necessary to effect such substitution.

ARTICLE XIII
DISSOLUTION AND LIQUIDATION

Section 13.01 Dissolution. The Partnership shall be dissolved upon the earliest to occur of:

(a) the withdrawal, resignation or Involuntary Withdrawal of the General Partner, or any other event that results in such entity ceasing to be a general partner, unless the remaining Limited Partners agree, within ninety (90) days after such event, to continue the Partnership with a new and qualified substitute general partner pursuant to and in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth in Article IV;

(b) an election to dissolve the Partnership made by the General Partner, in its discretion, upon thirty (30) days' prior written notice to the Limited Partners; or

(c) the happening of any other event, including the entry of a decree of judicial dissolution under Section 17-802 of the Act, that under the law of the State of Delaware, mandatorily requires the dissolution of the Partnership.

For the avoidance of doubt, the termination of the Partnership shall constitute the termination of all Series. For the avoidance of doubt, the termination of an individual Series, however, shall not constitute the termination of the Partnership.

Section 13.02 Liquidation. Upon the dissolution of the Partnership, the "Liquidators", namely: (i) the General Partner or, if there is no general partner at the time, or if the principal(s) of the General Partner are unable to act on its behalf, (ii) (A) the person or persons previously designated in writing by the General Partner and notified to the Partnership's auditors, or (B) if the General Partner has not made such a designation, the person or persons designated by Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners, shall cause the cancellation of the Certificate, liquidate (or distribute) the assets of the Partnership, and apply and distribute the balance of the proceeds of such liquidation in accordance with the following order of priority: (1) pay off known liabilities; (2) establish reserves for contingent liabilities and expenses of liquidation (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP); and (3) distribute the remainder to the Partners in proportion to the Capital Account balances maintained in accordance with the provisions of Section 9.01 and the Act. The Liquidators shall take all other steps necessary to wind up the affairs of the Partnership as promptly as practicable. To the extent reasonable, the business of the Partnership may continue to be conducted until liquidation is complete. For purposes hereof, the term "Liquidators" shall also include the trustees, receivers or other persons required by law to wind up the affairs of the Partnership.

Section 13.03 Notice of Dissolution

(a) Upon the dissolution of the Partnership or the relevant Series, the Liquidators shall promptly notify the Partners of such dissolution as well as known creditors and claimants whose addresses appear on the Partnership's or the relevant Series' records.

(b) The General Partner shall give at least fifteen (15) days' prior written notice to each Limited Partner that is a BHC Limited Partner (as defined in Section 5.10) of any proposal to distribute property in-kind to such Limited Partner and the proposed date of such distribution, and shall not make any such distribution in-kind to the extent that such Limited Partner advises the General Partner at least five (5) days prior to the date set forth in such notice for such distribution that such distribution in-kind could reasonably be expected to cause it to violate the BHCA. In the event that a BHC Limited Partner notifies the General Partner to such effect, the General Partner shall be authorized to make such arrangements for the property that it would have otherwise distributed in-kind as the General Partner shall determine in its reasonable discretion.

Section 13.04 Deferred Liquidation; Distribution In-Kind of Joint Interests in Property. For the avoidance of doubt, the following provisions of this Section 13.04 shall apply on a Series-by-

Series basis. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 13.02, if on dissolution of the Partnership the Liquidators shall determine that an immediate sale of part or all of the Partnership's assets would be impractical or would cause undue loss to the Partners, the Liquidators may, in their absolute discretion, either defer for a reasonable time the liquidation of any assets, except those necessary to satisfy liabilities of the Partnership (other than those to Partners), or distribute to the Partners, in lieu of cash, as tenants in common and in proportion to their respective interests in the Partnership, undivided interests in such Partnership assets as the Liquidators deem not suitable for liquidation. To the extent that the General Partner exercises its right, power and authority under Section 3.02(w), this Section shall be construed by the Liquidators in their reasonable discretion to give effect thereto.

Section 13.05 Final Statement. As soon as practicable after the dissolution of the Partnership or the relevant Series, a final statement of its assets and liabilities shall be prepared by the General Partner and/or the internal accountants for the Partnership or the relevant Series and furnished to the Partners.

ARTICLE XIV
GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 14.01 Address and Notices. The address of each Partner (other than the General Partner) for all purposes shall be the address set forth on the signature page to this Agreement or such other address of which the General Partner has received written notice in accordance with this Section 14.01. The address of the General Partner for all purposes shall be the address set forth in Section 1.04 or such other address of which the General Partner has provided written notice to the Partners in accordance with this Section 14.01. Any notice, demand or request required or permitted to be given or made hereunder shall be in writing and shall be deemed given or made (i) when delivered in person, (ii) when sent to such Partner at such address by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, or by electronic mail, or (iii) when delivered by overnight delivery by a reputable private carrier or by the postal service.

Section 14.02 Titles and Captions. All Article and Section titles and captions in this Agreement are for convenience only. They shall not be deemed part of this Agreement and in no way define, limit, extend or describe the scope or intent of any provisions hereof.

Section 14.03 Pronouns and Plurals. Whenever the context may require, any pronoun used herein shall include the corresponding masculine, feminine or neuter forms. The singular form of nouns, pronouns and verbs shall include the plural and vice versa.

Section 14.04 Further Action. The Limited Partners shall execute and deliver all documents, provide all information and take or forbear from taking all such action as may be necessary or appropriate, in the discretion of the General Partner, to achieve the purposes set forth in this Agreement.

Section 14.05 Governing Law, Personal Jurisdiction and Venue. EACH LIMITED PARTNER ACKNOWLEDGES AND AGREES THAT ANY CLAIM, CONTROVERSY, DISPUTE OR ACTION RELATING IN ANY WAY TO THIS AGREEMENT, THE SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT OR SUCH LIMITED PARTNER'S INVESTMENT IN THE PARTNERSHIP SHALL BE GOVERNED SOLELY AND EXCLUSIVELY BY THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE, WITHOUT REGARD TO ANY CONFLICT OF LAWS DOCTRINES. EACH LIMITED PARTNER UNDERSTANDS AND AGREES THAT IT IS WAIVING THE PROTECTION OF STATUTES IN ITS STATE OF RESIDENCE THAT PROVIDE IT WITH CERTAIN RIGHTS, REMEDIES AND PROTECTIONS IN THE CASE OF FRAUD OR MISREPRESENTATION AND AGREES TO RELY SOLELY UPON THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE AND ANY APPLICABLE FEDERAL LAWS. EACH LIMITED PARTNER MAKES THIS WAIVER KNOWINGLY AND REPRESENTS THAT IT HAS CONSULTED INDEPENDENT COUNSEL, OR THAT IT HAS HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO CONSULT WITH SUCH INDEPENDENT COUNSEL BUT HAS ELECTED NOT TO DO SO, AND AGREES THAT THE ONLY STATE LAWS THAT WILL APPLY TO THIS AGREEMENT, THE SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT AND ITS INVESTMENT IN THE PARTNERSHIP ARE THE LAWS OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE.

EACH OF THE LIMITED PARTNERS, FUND COUNSEL AND ANY OTHER PARTY TO THIS AGREEMENT, THE SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT OR ANY OTHER AGREEMENT REGARDING SUCH LIMITED PARTNER'S INVESTMENT IN THE PARTNERSHIP (COLLECTIVELY, FOR PURPOSES OF THIS CLAUSE, THE "PARTIES") IRREVOCABLY CONSENTS TO BEING SERVED WITH LEGAL PROCESS ISSUED FROM THE STATE AND FEDERAL COURTS LOCATED IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK AND IRREVOCABLY CONSENTS TO THE EXCLUSIVE PERSONAL JURISDICTION OF THE FEDERAL AND STATE COURTS SITUATED IN THE STATE OF NEW YORK. THE PARTIES IRREVOCABLY WAIVE ANY OBJECTIONS TO THE PERSONAL JURISDICTION OF THESE COURTS. SAID COURTS SHALL HAVE SOLE AND EXCLUSIVE JURISDICTION OVER ANY AND ALL CLAIMS, CONTROVERSIES, DISPUTES AND ACTIONS, OF ANY KIND OR MANNER, WHICH IN ANY WAY RELATE TO THIS AGREEMENT, THE SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT, OR SUCH LIMITED PARTNER'S INVESTMENT IN THE PARTNERSHIP. THE PARTIES ALSO IRREVOCABLY WAIVE ANY OBJECTIONS THAT THESE COURTS CONSTITUTE AN OPPRESSIVE, UNFAIR, OR INCONVENIENT FORUM AND AGREE NOT TO SEEK TO CHANGE VENUE ON THESE GROUNDS OR ANY OTHER GROUNDS. THE PARTIES FURTHER AGREE THAT THEY WILL NOT FILE SUIT IN A JURISDICTION OTHER THAN NEW YORK AND THAT, SHOULD THEY DO SO, THEY SHALL BE LIABLE FOR ALL DAMAGES AS A RESULT OF MAKING SUCH A FILING AND SHALL PAY ALL ATTORNEYS' FEES INCURRED BY ANY PARTY IN CONNECTION WITH MOVING TO DISMISS THE SUIT FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY WITH THIS PROVISION.

In the event that (i) any current or prior Limited Partner ("Claiming Party") initiates or asserts any litigation, arbitration or similar claim or counterclaim, or joins, offers substantial assistance to or has a direct financial interest in any claim ("Claim") against the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any Investment Manager Affiliates, including any Claim purportedly filed on behalf of the Partnership or any Limited Partner, and (ii) the Claiming Party (or the third party that received substantial assistance from the Claiming Party or in whose Claim the Claiming Party had a direct financial interest) does not obtain a judgment on the merits that substantially achieves, in substance and amount, the full remedy sought, then each Claiming Party shall be obligated jointly and severally to reimburse the Partnership and/or the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any such Investment Manager Affiliate for all fees, costs and expenses of every kind and description (including, but not limited to, all reasonable attorneys' fees and other litigation expenses) that the parties may incur in connection with such Claim.

Section 14.06 Binding Effect. This Agreement shall be binding upon and inure to the benefit of the parties and their heirs, executors, administrators, successors, legal representatives and permitted assigns; provided, however, that fund counsel shall be a party to this Agreement solely with respect to Sections 3.04(b) and 14.05 hereof in order to benefit from and enforce such Sections, and a conformed signature page for fund counsel is included as a counterpart to this Agreement.

Section 14.07 Entire Agreement. This Agreement, together with the related Subscription Documents and any other written agreement between the General Partner, on behalf of the Partnership (acting severally in the name of and for the account of any individual Series), and any Limited Partner of that Series, shall constitute the entire agreement and understanding among all the parties hereto with respect to the subject matter hereof, and supersedes all prior and contemporaneous agreements, negotiations, correspondence, undertakings and communications of the parties, oral or written, respecting such subject matter, including, without limitation, the Current Agreement. The parties hereto acknowledge that, notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement or the Subscription Documents, the General Partner, on its own behalf or on behalf of the Partnership, without any act, consent or approval of any other Partner, may enter into side letters or other writings to or with one or more Limited Partners that have the effect of establishing rights under, or altering or supplementing the terms of, this Agreement or the Subscription Documents ("Side Letters"). The parties agree that any rights established, or any terms of this Agreement or the Subscription Documents altered or supplemented, in a Side Letter to or with one or more Limited Partners shall govern with respect to such Limited Partner(s) notwithstanding any other provision of this Agreement or the Subscription Documents. No covenant, representation or condition not expressed in this Agreement or such Subscription Documents (and, if applicable, any Side Letter) shall affect or be deemed to interpret, change or restrict the express provisions hereof and thereof.

Section 14.08 Amendment. This Agreement may be modified or amended only by the affirmative vote of the General Partner and Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of all of the outstanding Partnership Interests of each Series; provided that the General Partner may amend this Agreement from time to time (x) only with the affirmative vote of the General Partner and Limited Partners owning more than fifty percent (50%) of the Partnership Interests held by Limited Partners of a specific Series of Partnership Interests, if such amendment, in the opinion of the General Partner, only has a material effect on such Series of Partnership Interests, and (y) without the consent, approval or other authorization of, or notice to, any of the Limited Partners (including pursuant to Sections 3.02(u) and (v)) if, in the opinion of the General Partner, the amendment does not have a material adverse effect on any Limited Partner. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no amendment may: (i) convert a Limited Partner's interest to that of a general partner or, modify the limited liability of any Limited Partner, without the consent of each affected Partner or (ii) amend any provision hereof which requires the consent or approval of a specified percentage in interest of the Limited Partners without the consent of such specified percentage in interest of the Limited Partners.

Section 14.09 Creditors. None of the provisions of this Agreement shall be for the benefit of or enforceable by any creditors of the Partnership or the relevant Series.

Section 14.10 Waiver by Partner

(a) Any Partner by notice to the General Partner may, but shall be under no obligation to, waive any of its rights or any conditions to its obligations hereunder, or any duty, obligation or covenant of any other Partner to such first mentioned Partner.

(b) No such waiver shall affect or alter the remainder of this Agreement, but each and every covenant, agreement, term and condition hereof shall continue in full force and effect with respect to any other existing or subsequent breach.

Section 14.11 Rights and Remedies

(a) The rights and remedies of any of the Partners hereunder shall not be mutually exclusive, and the implementation of one or more of the provisions of this Agreement shall not preclude the implementation of any other provision.

(b) Each of the Partners confirms that damages at law may be an inadequate remedy for a breach or threatened breach of any provision hereof. The respective rights and obligations hereunder shall be enforceable by specific performance, injunction or other equitable remedy but nothing herein contained is intended to or shall limit or affect any rights at law or by statute or otherwise of any Partner aggrieved as against the other Partners for a breach or threatened breach of any provision hereof, it being the intention of this paragraph to make clear that the respective rights and obligations of the Partners hereunder shall be enforceable in equity as well as at law or otherwise, except as provided in Section 5.08.

Section 14.12 Counterparts. This Agreement may be executed in counterparts, all of which taken together shall constitute one agreement binding on all parties, notwithstanding that all the parties are not signatories to the original or the same counterpart. Each party shall become bound by this Agreement immediately upon affixing his, her or its signature hereto, independently of the signature of any other party.

Section 14.13 Certain Tax Matters

(a) Tax Matters Partner

(i) The Tax Matters Partner (as such term is defined in Section 6231(a)(7) of the Code) of the Partnership shall be the General Partner. The General Partner shall have all powers necessary to perform fully in its capacity as Tax Matters Partner and, in such capacity, the General Partner shall use its reasonable efforts to comply with the responsibilities outlined in Sections 6221 through 6233 of the Code (including the Regulations) and shall have any powers necessary to perform fully in such capacity.

(ii) In furtherance of the foregoing, the General Partner is authorized to represent the Partnership before taxing authorities and courts in tax matters affecting the Partnership and the Partners in their capacity as such and shall keep the Partners informed of any such administrative and judicial proceedings. The General Partner shall be entitled to be reimbursed by the Partnership for all costs and expenses incurred by it in connection with any administrative or judicial proceeding affecting tax matters of the Partnership and the Partners in their capacity as such and to be indemnified by the Partnership (solely out of Partnership assets) with respect to any action brought against it in connection with any judgment in or settlement of any such proceeding, except in the case of the General Partner's own fraud, gross negligence, willful misconduct or conduct that is the subject of a criminal proceeding (where the General Partner has a reasonable cause to believe that such conduct was unlawful).

(iii) Any Partner that is in dispute with any tax authority in relation to any Partnership matter shall notify the General Partner within thirty (30) calendar days, and if the General Partner reasonably determines that the matter is of material relevance to the tax position of the Partnership, such Partner shall consult with the General Partner (or any advisor appointed by the General Partner for the purpose) as to how that dispute shall be handled. Any Partner who enters into a settlement agreement with respect to any Partnership item shall notify the Tax Matters Partner of such settlement agreement and its terms within thirty (30) calendar days after the date of settlement.

(iv) The provisions of this Section 14.13(a) shall survive any termination of this Agreement.

(b) Tax Elections. Each Partner agrees to provide the Partnership with such information which may be necessary or desirable in order for the General Partner to carry out its powers under this Section 14.13 and Section 3.02(g), including, without limitation, to facilitate compliance with Section 743 of the Code and elections permitted thereunder.

(c) Classification as a Partnership. The parties hereto intend that the Partnership be classified as a partnership for federal income tax purposes. The General Partner shall not elect to have the Partnership classified as an association taxable as a corporation for federal income tax purposes pursuant to Regulation Section 301.7701–3. The General Partner shall, for and on behalf of the Partnership, take all steps as it may deem reasonably necessary to maintain the Partnership's classification as a partnership for federal income tax purposes.

(d) Tax Audits. Each Limited Partner shall reasonably cooperate with the General Partner in connection with any tax audit of the Partnership or any existing or former investment.

OVERVIEW

DESCRIPTION OF INTERESTS AND STRUCTURE

Atlas IDF, LP ("Partnership"), a "series" limited partnership organized under the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act, is offering limited partner interests in the Partnership ("Interests") in a private placement pursuant to Section 4(a)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended ("Securities Act"), and Regulation D promulgated thereunder. The Partnership may offer Interests in separate Series (as defined and described herein). Only Series 1 Interests (as defined herein) are offered at this time pursuant to this Memorandum.

Only persons that are Accredited Investors (as defined in Rule 501 of Regulation D promulgated under the Securities Act), Qualified Clients (as defined in Rule 205-3 promulgated under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act")), and Qualified Purchasers (as defined under Section 2(a)(51) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("Investment Company Act")) may purchase Interests. The Subscription Documents (as defined below) set forth in detail the definitions of Accredited Investor, Qualified Client and Qualified Purchaser. If an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners (as defined herein) to meet the same suitability standards.

The Partnership was formed to pool investment funds of its investors (each, a "Limited Partner" and, collectively, "Limited Partners"; and, together with the General Partner (as defined below), "Partners") for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of securities, financial instruments and other assets and investments, including other investment vehicles, as more fully described herein.

In addition to noting the investor qualifications listed above, Limited Partners should note that the Partnership is an insurance-dedicated investment fund. As such, the Interests are being offered only to Limited Partners that are: (x) insurance company investors, on behalf of certain of their segregated separate accounts ("Separate Accounts"), that fund certain variable life insurance and variable annuity contracts (collectively, the "Policies") to be issued to policy owners (each, a "Policy Owner") by the Limited Partners, or (y) state and local governmental pension plans, qualified tuition plans ("§529 plans"), and private sector qualified pension or retirement plans, as generally described in Treasury Regulation 1.817-5(f)(3). In addition, if an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet the same suitability standards described herein. While an insurance company, not a Policy Owner, will become a Limited Partner in the Partnership, it is expected that Policy Owners will be able to allocate a portion of their investment held in the Separate Account to the Partnership as one of the investment options of the Policies. See "SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS—Investor Control" herein.

Atlas IDF GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("General Partner"), is the general partner of the Partnership and is responsible for the management of the Partnership's affairs.

Rand Advisors, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("Investment Manager"), is the investment manager of the Partnership and has discretionary investment authority over the Partnership's assets. The Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). A copy of Part 2 of the Investment Manager's Form ADV is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

As the managing member and controlling person of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, John Honis controls all of the Partnership's operations and activities.

The minimum initial capital contribution that will be accepted from a new Limited Partner is $500,000. The minimum additional capital contribution that will be accepted from an existing Limited Partner is $500,000. In each case, the General Partner has discretion to accept lesser amounts. Generally, new Limited Partners will be admitted on the first day of each month, and withdrawals may be made on the last day of each calendar quarter upon 91 days' prior written notice, subject to certain restrictions as described herein (unless, in each case, the General Partner, in its sole discretion, permits subscriptions or withdrawals at another time).

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The Partnership's primary objective is to seek consistent above-average returns primarily through capital appreciation. The Investment Manager intends to use a disciplined investment philosophy by combining thorough fundamental research and in-depth analysis of investment opportunities. No assurance can be given, however, that the Investment Manager will achieve the Partnership's investment objective, and investment results may vary substantially over time and from period to period. See "INVESTMENT PROGRAM" herein for further details.

As of the date hereof, the Investment Manager intends to allocate approximately 45% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to traded investments and approximately (but not more than) 55% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to the first series of limited partnership interests to be issued by the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined herein) that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction (as defined herein), if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction. However, the Investment Manager reserves the right to change such allocation in the future, subject to compliance with all applicable laws, including the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth herein. Further, the Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts (as defined herein) at the time of such admission.

RISK FACTORS, CONFLICTS OF INTERESTS AND OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

Before purchasing an Interest in the Partnership, you should carefully consider various risk factors and conflicts of interest, as well as suitability requirements, restrictions on transfers and withdrawals of Interests and various legal, tax and other considerations, all of which are discussed elsewhere in this Confidential Private Placement Memorandum (this "Memorandum").

IMPORTANT GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

You should not construe the contents of this Memorandum as legal, tax or investment advice and, if you acquire an Interest, you will be required to make a representation to that effect. You should review the proposed investment and the legal, tax and other consequences thereof with your own professional advisors. The purchase of an Interest involves certain risks and conflicts of interest among the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Partnership. See "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST". The General Partner reserves the right to refuse any subscription for any reason.

In making an investment decision, you must rely on your own examination of the Partnership and the terms of the offering of Interests, including the merits and risks involved. You and your representative(s), if any, are invited to ask questions and obtain additional information from the General Partner concerning the terms and conditions of the offering, the Partnership, and any other relevant matters to the extent that the General Partner possesses such information or can acquire it without unreasonable effort or expense.

Neither the SEC nor any state securities commission has passed upon the merits of participating in the Partnership, nor has the SEC or any state securities commission passed upon the adequacy or accuracy of this Memorandum. Any representation to the contrary is a criminal offense. The General Partner anticipates that: (i) the offer and sale of the Interests will be exempt from registration under the Securities Act and the various state securities laws; (ii) the Partnership will not be registered as an investment company under the Investment Company Act, pursuant to an exemption provided by Section 3(c)(7) thereunder; and (iii) neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager will be registered as a commodity pool operator under the Commodity Exchange Act, as amended ("CEA"), based upon an exemption available under Rule 4.13(a)(3) thereunder. Consequently, you will not be entitled to certain protections afforded by those statutes.

The Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the SEC. A copy of Part 2 of the Investment Manager's Form ADV is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

Pursuant to Rule 4.13(a)(3) of the CEA, each of the General Partner and the Investment Manager is exempt from registration with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC") as a commodity pool operator and therefore, unlike a registered commodity pool operator, it is not required to deliver a Disclosure Document (as such term is defined under CFTC rules) and a certified annual report to participants in the pool. The foregoing registration exemption is based on the Partnership's limited commodity trading activity and its undertaking that at all times either: (a) the aggregate initial margin and premiums required to establish commodity interest positions, determined at the time the most recent position was established, will not exceed 5% of the liquidation value of the Partnership's portfolio, after taking into account unrealized profits and losses on any such positions; or (b) the aggregate net notional value of the Partnership's commodity interest positions, determined at the time the most recent position was established, will not exceed 100% of the liquidation value of the Partnership's portfolio, after taking into account unrealized profits and losses on any such positions. Similar limitations will apply with respect to investments in Portfolio Funds. Certain types of swaps are included in the definition of "commodity interests". These swaps include interest rate swaps, currency swaps, energy and metal swaps, agricultural swaps, swaps on broad-based indices, swaps on government securities and certain mixed swaps.

As a Limited Partner, you may withdraw from the Partnership and receive payment for your Interests, subject to certain restrictions, as specified in the Amended and Restated Limited Partnership Agreement of the Partnership (as the same may be amended and/or restated from time to time, the "Partnership Agreement"), a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

The offering of Interests is made only by delivery of a copy of this Memorandum to the person whose name appears hereon. The offering is made only to potential investors who are Accredited Investors, Qualified Clients and Qualified Purchasers. If an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet the same suitability standards. By accepting delivery of this Memorandum, you agree not to reproduce or divulge its contents, in whole or in part, and, if you do not purchase any Interests, to return this Memorandum and the exhibits attached hereto to the General Partner or the Partnership's administrator, a provider of administrative services ("Administrator"), as further set forth herein under "SERVICE PROVIDERS—Administrator".

Notwithstanding any provision in this Memorandum to the contrary, prospective Limited Partners (and their employees, representatives, and other agents) may disclose to any and all persons the U.S. federal income tax treatment and tax structure of the Interests offered hereby. For this purpose, "tax structure" is limited to facts relevant to the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Interests, and does not include information relating to the identity of the issuer, its affiliates, agents or advisors.

There is no public market for the Interests nor is any expected to develop. Even if such a market develops, no distribution, resale or transfer of an Interest will be permitted, except in accordance with the provisions of the Securities Act, the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, any applicable state securities laws and the terms and conditions of the Partnership Agreement. Any transfer of an Interest by a Limited Partner, public or private, will require the consent of the General Partner. Accordingly, if you purchase an Interest, you will be required to represent and warrant that you have read this Memorandum and are aware of and can afford the risks of an investment in the Partnership for an indefinite period of time. You will also be required to represent that you are acquiring the Interest for your own account, for investment purposes only, and not with any intention to resell or transfer all or any part of the Interest. This investment is suitable for you only if you have adequate means of providing for your current and future needs, have no need for liquidity in this investment and can afford to lose the entire amount of your investment.

Although this Memorandum contains summaries of certain terms of certain documents pertaining to the Partnership, you should refer to the actual documents (copies of which are attached hereto or are available from the General Partner or the Administrator) for complete information concerning the rights and obligations of the parties thereto. All such summaries are qualified in their entirety by the terms of the actual documents. No person has been authorized to make any representations or furnish any information with respect to the Partnership or the Interests, other than the representations and information set forth in this Memorandum or other documents or information furnished by the General Partner upon request, as described above.

Certain information contained in this Memorandum constitutes "forward-looking statements", which can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology, such as "may", "will", "seek", "should", "expect", "anticipate", "project", "estimate", "intend", "continue" or "believe" or the negatives thereof or other variations thereon or comparable terminology. Due to various risks and uncertainties, including those set forth under "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST", actual events or results or the actual performance of the Partnership may differ materially from those reflected or contemplated in such forward-looking statements.

No rulings have been sought from the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") with respect to any tax matters discussed in this Memorandum. You are cautioned that the views contained herein are subject to material qualifications and subject to possible changes in regulations by the IRS or by the U.S. Congress in existing tax statutes or in the interpretation of existing statutes and regulations.

TO THE EXTENT THAT THE INTERESTS ARE OFFERED OR SOLD IN OR FROM BERMUDA, SUCH OFFER OR SALE WILL BE MADE IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE BERMUDA ACT.

THE BERMUDA MONETARY AUTHORITY, THE BERMUDA REGISTRAR OF COMPANIES AND THE BERMUDA MINISTER OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ACCEPT NO RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE FINANCIAL SOUNDNESS OF ANY PROPOSAL OR FOR THE CORRECTNESS OF ANY OF THE STATEMENTS MADE OR OPINIONS EXPRESSED HEREIN.

NO INVITATION, WHETHER DIRECTLY OR INDIRECTLY, MAY BE MADE TO THE PUBLIC IN OR FROM BERMUDA TO SUBSCRIBE FOR THE INTERESTS.

The information contained herein is current only as of the date hereof and you should not, under any circumstances, assume that there has not been any change in the matters discussed herein since the date hereof.

The following summary is qualified in its entirety by other information contained elsewhere in this Confidential Private Placement Memorandum (this "Memorandum") and by Amended and Restated the Limited Partnership Agreement of the Partnership (as defined below) (as the same may be amended and/or restated from time to time, the "Partnership Agreement"), a copy of which is attached to this Memorandum as Exhibit A. You should read this entire Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement, carefully before making any investment decision regarding the Partnership and should pay particular attention to the information under the heading "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST". To the extent relevant, you should also read the offering and governing documents of the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined herein) in which the Partnership intends to initially invest on behalf of the initial Limited Partners (as defined herein), which are available from the Partnership upon request. In addition, you should consult your own advisors in order to understand fully the consequences of an investment in the Partnership.

The Partnership

Atlas IDF, LP, a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("Partnership"), was formed to pool investment funds of its investors (each, a "Limited Partner" and, collectively, "Limited Partners"; and, together with the General Partner (as defined below), "Partners") for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of securities, financial instruments and other assets and investments, including other investment vehicles, as more fully described herein. See "INVESTMENT PROGRAM" and "—Portfolio Funds" below.

The Partnership may offer Interests in separate Series (as defined and described herein). Only Series 1 Interests (as defined herein) are offered at this time pursuant to this Memorandum.

Management

Atlas IDF GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("General Partner"), is the general partner of the Partnership and is responsible for the management of the Partnership's affairs.

Rand Advisors, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("Investment Manager"), is the investment manager of the Partnership and has discretionary investment authority over the Partnership's assets. The Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). A copy of Part 2 of the Investment Manager's Form ADV is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

As the managing member and controlling person of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, John Honis ("Principal") controls all of the Partnership's operations and activities. See "MANAGEMENT" for additional information.

Issuance of Interests in Multiple Series

The Interests will be offered in separate series ("Series"). The Partnership is currently offering one Series of Interests: "Series 1 Interests". Each Series of Interests will have separate rights and obligations. In addition, each Series of Interests may correspond to a separate portfolio of assets, which may have different investment objectives and strategies. The Partnership may issue additional Series of Interests in the future, which may have rights and obligations that differ from those of the Series 1 Interests with respect to any matters, including without limitation, fees, withdrawal rights, participation in Side Pocket Accounts (as defined herein) and other rights and terms. The terms of such additional Series will be determined by the General Partner, in its sole discretion.

Each Series shall have separate rights, powers and duties with respect to its investment portfolio and other property and obligations and the profits and losses associated with such portfolio, property and obligations. The Partnership will maintain separate and distinct records for each Series and shall hold and account for the assets and liabilities of such Series separately from other Series. The Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts at the time of such admission.

Under Delaware law, (i) the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to a particular Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series only, and not against the assets of any other Series, and (ii) none of the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to the Partnership generally or any other Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series.

Unless the context otherwise requires, Series 1 Interests and any other Series of Interests shall be collectively referred to throughout this Memorandum as the "Interests." As the context may require, the holders of Series 1 Interests may be referred to herein as "Series 1 Limited Partners". Series 1 Limited Partners and, to the extent applicable, all the Limited Partners of other Series shall be collectively referred to throughout this Memorandum as the "Limited Partners".

References herein to the Partnership shall include, where appropriate, each Series of the Partnership. The terms of the other Series may be set forth in an amended version of this Memorandum and/or in a separate supplement hereto.

Portfolio Funds

In addition to investing in individual traded assets, the Partnership may invest a significant portion of its assets in other investment vehicles, including, without limitation, hedge funds, managed accounts and other private investment funds (collectively, the "Portfolio Funds"), including those managed by, or otherwise affiliated or related to, the Investment Manager. Portfolio Funds may allocate their assets to Illiquid Investments (as defined herein). As of the date hereof, the Investment Manager intends to allocate approximately 45% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to traded investments and approximately (but not more than) 55% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to the first series of limited partnership interests to be issued by the PE Portfolio Fund (as defined herein). However, the Investment Manager reserves the right to change such allocation in the future, subject to compliance with all applicable laws, including the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth herein.

As of the date hereof, (i) the Investment Manager acts as the investment manager to Rand PE Fund I, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("PE Portfolio Fund") that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction (as defined herein), if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction; (ii) Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, is the general partner of the PE Portfolio Fund; and (iii) the Principal is the managing member and controlling person of Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, as further set forth herein.

The Portfolio Funds will bear their own operating and investment related expenses, which will be shared by the partners in such Portfolio Funds, including the Partnership. These fees and expenses may result in greater expenses than if Limited Partners invested directly in the Portfolio Funds or the relevant underlying investments. Limited Partners should take into account that the return on their investment will be reduced to the extent of both levels of fees and expenses.

The Offering

The Partnership is offering limited partner interests in the Partnership ("Interests") to persons who are Accredited Investors (as such term is defined in Rule 501 of Regulation D promulgated under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended ("Securities Act")), Qualified Clients (as defined in Rule 205-3 promulgated under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act")), and Qualified Purchasers (as defined under Section 2(a)(51) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("Investment Company Act")). Interests represent a percentage interest in the Partnership proportionate to the capital accounts of all Partners.

In addition to noting the investor qualifications listed above, Limited Partners should note that the Partnership is an insurance-dedicated investment fund. As such, the Interests are being offered only to Limited Partners that are: (x) insurance company investors, on behalf of certain of their segregated separate accounts ("Separate Accounts"), that fund certain variable life insurance and variable annuity contracts (collectively, the "Policies") to be issued to policy owners (each, a "Policy Owner") by the Limited Partners, or (y) state and local governmental pension plans, qualified tuition plans ("§529 plans"), and private sector qualified pension or retirement plans, as generally described in Treasury Regulation 1.817-5(f)(3). In addition, if an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet the same suitability standards described in the previous paragraph. While an insurance company, not a Policy Owner, will become a Limited Partner in the Partnership, it is expected that Policy Owners will be able to allocate a portion of their investment held in the Separate Account to the Partnership as one of the investment options of the Policies. See "SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS—Investor Control" herein.

Each life insurance company Limited Partner ("Insurance Company Limited Partner") will be deemed to hold an Interest in respect of the account of each Policy Owner and will be treated as a separate Limited Partner with respect to each such Interest.

Marketing Fees and Sales Charges. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may sell Interests through broker-dealers and pay a marketing fee or commission in connection with such activities, including ongoing payments, at the General Partner's or the Investment Manager's own expense. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may also deduct a percentage of the amount invested by a Limited Partner in the Partnership to pay sales fees or charges, on a fully disclosed basis, to a broker-dealer based upon the capital contribution of such Limited Partner introduced to the Partnership by such broker-dealer. Any such sales fees or charges would be assessed against the referred Limited Partner and would reduce the amount actually invested by such Limited Partner in the Partnership. If a Limited Partner is introduced to the Partnership through a broker-dealer that is not affiliated with the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager, the arrangement, if any, with such broker-dealer will be disclosed to, and acknowledged by, such Limited Partner. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES—Referral of Investors and Sales Charges".

How to Subscribe

Attached as Exhibit B to this Memorandum are the subscription documents and instructions for subscribing ("Subscription Documents"). In order to subscribe for Interests, you must complete the Subscription Documents and return them to the Partnership's administrator, a provider of administrative services ("Administrator"), as further set forth herein under "SERVICE PROVIDERS—Administrator". You must pay 100% of your investment at the time you subscribe. Payment must be made by wire transfer of immediately available funds to the Partnership. To ensure compliance with applicable laws, regulations and other requirements relating to money laundering, the General Partner and/or the Administrator may require additional information to verify the identity of any person who subscribes for an Interest in the Partnership.

If the General Partner consents to a Limited Partner's contribution of securities (and/or other investments) to the Partnership, the Partnership may, in the General Partner's discretion, assess a special charge against such Limited Partner equal to the actual costs incurred by the Partnership in connection with accepting such contributed securities (and/or other investments), including the costs of liquidating, or otherwise adjusting the Partnership's portfolio to accommodate, such securities (and/or other investments). Such special charge will be assessed as of such dates deemed appropriate by the General Partner. Any investor who contributes securities (and/or other investments) in lieu of cash to the Partnership should consult with such person's counsel or advisors as to the tax effect of such contribution.

Eligible Investors and Suitability

In order to invest in the Partnership, you must meet certain minimum suitability requirements, including qualifying as an Accredited Investor under the Securities Act, a Qualified Client under the Advisers Act and a Qualified Purchaser under the Investment Company Act. The Subscription Documents set forth in detail the definitions of Accredited Investor, Qualified Client and Qualified Purchaser. You must check the appropriate places in the Subscription Documents to represent to the Partnership that you are an Accredited Investor, a Qualified Client and a Qualified Purchaser in order to be able to purchase Interests. In addition, you must check the appropriate places in the Subscription Documents and/or make the appropriate representations that you are an insurance company investor. If an investor is an insurance company, such investor must require its Policy Owners to meet the same suitability standards. The General Partner, in its sole discretion, can accept or reject any initial subscriptions from prospective Limited Partners and any additional capital contributions from existing Limited Partners for any reason or for no reason.

Qualified pension or retirement plans subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA"), and other tax-exempt entities described in Treasury Regulation 1.817-5(f)(3) may purchase Interests. However, investment in the Partnership by such entities requires special consideration. Trustees or administrators of such entities should consult their own legal and tax advisors. The General Partner intends to use reasonable efforts to limit the aggregate equity participation by "benefit plan investors" in the Partnership to less than 25% of the value of any class of Interests in the Partnership. See "ERISA CONSIDERATIONS" and "TAXATION—Tax-Exempt Investors".

Minimum Investment

The minimum initial capital contribution that will be accepted from a new Limited Partner is $500,000. The minimum additional capital contribution that will be accepted from an existing Limited Partner is $500,000. In each case, the General Partner has discretion to accept lesser amounts. Limited Partners are not required to make any additional capital contributions to the Partnership. There is no minimum or maximum aggregate amount of funds that must or may be contributed by all Partners to the Partnership.

Admission of Limited Partners

Capital contributions generally will be accepted as of the first day of each month, although the General Partner, in its sole discretion, has the right to admit new Limited Partners and to accept additional funds from existing Limited Partners at any time. Upon such admission or receipt of additional capital contributions, the Interests of the Partners will be readjusted in accordance with their capital accounts.

In connection with an additional capital contribution by an existing Limited Partner, the General Partner will: (i) treat such additional capital contribution as a capital contribution with respect to one of such Limited Partner's existing capital accounts, or (ii) establish a new capital account to which such capital contribution will be credited and which will be maintained for the benefit of such Limited Partner separately from any existing capital account of such Limited Partner. Such separate capital accounts may be maintained for any purpose, in the discretion of the General Partner.

Management Fee

The Partnership has entered into an investment management agreement (as the same may be amended and/or restated from time to time, the "Investment Management Agreement") by and among the Partnership and the Investment Manager. In consideration for services provided pursuant to the Investment Management Agreement, the Investment Manager will receive a quarterly management fee ("Management Fee"), equal to a percentage of each Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's Net Asset Value (as defined herein), and based on the Partnership's total Net Asset Value, as follows:

Partnership's Total Net Asset Value	Management Fee (per annum)
$0 - $99,999,999	0.5500%
$100,000,000 - $199,999,999	0.5000%
$200,000,000 - $249,999,999	0.4500%
$250,000,000 - $499,999,999	0.3500%
> $500,000,000	0.3400%

For the avoidance of doubt, the Management Fee calculated based on the foregoing schedule will be calculated on a "progressive" basis. For example, if the Partnership's Net Asset Value reaches $150,000,000, the initial $99,999,999 will always be charged a Management Fee of 0.55000% annually. The benefit of the declining Management Fee schedule above is intended to benefit all Limited Partners as each capital account will be charged a blended Management Fee based on the above schedule.

The Management Fee will be calculated and payable to the Investment Manager quarterly, in advance, as of the first day of each calendar quarter. A pro rata Management Fee will be charged to Limited Partners on any amounts accepted by the General Partner during a calendar quarter. No part of the Management Fee will be refunded in the event that a Limited Partner withdraws, whether voluntarily or involuntarily, all or any of the value in such Limited Partner's capital account during any calendar quarter. Management Fees will be payable with respect to the Interests of a Limited Partner in any Side Pocket Account (as defined below). For purposes of calculating the Management Fee with respect to Side Pocket Accounts, Illiquid Investments will be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager.

With respect to any Limited Partner who has requested to withdraw all of its Interests from the Partnership, with the exception of any Interests maintained in a Side Pocket Account, the Partnership may reserve an amount from the withdrawing Limited Partner's withdrawal proceeds in order to cover the estimated accrued Management Fees and expenses attributable to the Limited Partner's Interests in the Side Pocket Account based on the Investment Manager's estimate of the time period that the Illiquid Investments held in the Side Pocket Account will remain in such Side Pocket Account (collectively, the "Management Fee Reserve"). The Management Fee Reserve will be treated as a liability of the Partnership, and the balance of the Management Fee Reserve, if any, will be paid to the withdrawing Limited Partner, without interest, upon such Limited Partner's complete withdrawal from the Side Pocket Account.

The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the management fees charged by the managers of the Portfolio Funds. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Investment Manager intends to waive any management fees due to the Investment Manager with respect to any investment of the Partnership in any Affiliated Funds (as defined herein), including the PE Portfolio Fund. Accordingly, to the extent that the Partnership invests in any Affiliated Funds, including the PE Portfolio Fund, the Partnership will not be subject to a layering of fees.

Expenses

Organizational and Initial Offering Expenses. The Partnership will pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates (as defined herein) for all organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership, including, but not limited to, legal and accounting fees, printing and mailing expenses and government filing fees (including "blue sky" filing fees). The Partnership's organizational and initial offering expenses may be, for accounting purposes, capitalized and amortized by the Partnership for up to 60 months from the date the Partnership commences operations. Amortization of such expenses is a divergence from U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). In certain circumstances, this divergence may result in a qualification of the Partnership's annual audited financial statements. In such instances, the Partnership may elect to: (i) avoid the qualification by recognizing the unamortized expenses, or (ii) make GAAP-conforming changes for financial reporting purposes, but capitalize and amortize expenses for purposes of calculating the Partnership's Net Asset Value (resulting in a divergence in fiscal year-end Net Asset Values reported in the Partnership's financial statements, and as otherwise applicable under the provisions of the Partnership Agreement). If the Partnership capitalizes and amortizes such expenses and is then terminated within 60 months of its commencement, any unamortized expenses will be recognized. If a Limited Partner makes a withdrawal prior to the end of the period during which the Partnership is capitalizing and amortizing expenses, the Partnership may, but is not required to, accelerate a proportionate share of the unamortized expenses based upon the amount being withdrawn and reduce withdrawal proceeds accordingly.

Operating Expenses. The Partnership will pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates for: (i) all expenses incurred in connection with the ongoing offer and sale of Interests, including, but not limited to, printing of this Memorandum and exhibits, marketing expenses and documentation of performance and the admission of Limited Partners, (ii) all operating expenses of the Partnership, such as tax preparation fees, governmental fees and taxes, fees to the Administrator, costs of communications with Limited Partners, and ongoing legal, accounting, auditing, bookkeeping, consulting and other professional fees and expenses, (iii) all Partnership research, trading and investment-related costs and expenses (e.g., brokerage commissions, research fees, margin interest, expenses related to short sales, custodial fees, bank service fees, and clearing and settlement charges), (iv) technology-related costs and expenses, including, but not limited to, software licenses, data feeds and colocation expenses, (v) all expenses related to attending any conference or seminar related to alternative investments (e.g., registration, transportation, accommodation or meal expenses), (vi) regulatory and other filing fees and expenses, (vii) travel expenses related to meeting with management teams, or related to any of the other categories of expenses set forth herein, (viii) any costs and expenses incurred by the Partnership in connection with converting from a stand-alone fund into a "feeder fund" as part of a master-feeder structure, (ix) director and officer liability insurance or other insurance premiums for any principal or employee of the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, (x) all fees and other expenses incurred in connection with the investigation, prosecution or defense of any claims, assertion of rights or pursuit of remedies, by or against the Partnership, including, without limitation, professional and other advisory and consulting expenses, and (xi) any and all costs and expenses incurred in connection with the dissolution, winding up, or termination of the Partnership.

Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, in its sole discretion, may from time to time pay for any of the foregoing Partnership expenses. Any such person may elect to be reimbursed for such expenses, or to waive its right to reimbursement for any such expenses, as well as terminate any such voluntary payment or waiver of reimbursement.

The Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the expenses of each Portfolio Fund.

Allocation of Expenses Among Series. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager will allocate all expenses attributable to the Partnership among the Series on a pro rata basis or otherwise in their reasonable discretion.

General Partner's and Investment Manager's Expenses. The General Partner and the Investment Manager will pay their own general operating and overhead expenses associated with providing the management and investment management services required under the Partnership Agreement and the Investment Management Agreement, respectively. These expenses include all expenses incurred by the General Partner and the Investment Manager in providing for their normal operating overhead, including, but not limited to, the cost of providing relevant support and administrative services (e.g., employee compensation and benefits, rent, office equipment, computer systems, insurance (other than as expressly set forth above), utilities, telephone, secretarial and bookkeeping services, etc.), but not including any Partnership operating expenses described above.

The General Partner and the Investment Manager may use "soft dollar" commissions or rebates by brokerage firms of commissions generated by the Partnership's brokerage transactions executed through those firms to pay for certain brokerage and research products and services that fall within the safe harbor under Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended ("Exchange Act"), as further described herein. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES—Soft Dollar Arrangements".

Withdrawals

Limited Partner Withdrawals Generally. Subject to certain restrictions described herein, each Limited Partner may withdraw a minimum of $100,000 as of the last day of each calendar quarter and at such other times as the General Partner may determine in its sole discretion (each such date, a "Withdrawal Date"), upon at least 91 days' prior written notice to the Administrator, with a copy to the General Partner. Unless the General Partner consents, partial withdrawals may not be made if they would reduce a Limited Partner's capital account balance below $500,000. All withdrawals will be deemed made prior to the commencement of the following calendar quarter (or other relevant period).

If the General Partner, in its sole discretion, permits a Limited Partner to withdraw capital other than on a regularly scheduled Withdrawal Date, the General Partner may impose an administrative fee to cover the actual legal, accounting, administrative, brokerage, and any other costs and expenses associated with such withdrawal. Such fee will be payable to the relevant Series of the Partnership and will be deducted from the withdrawal proceeds of the withdrawing Limited Partner as of such Withdrawal Date.

Ability to Withdraw Is Not Guaranteed. The General Partner believes (but cannot guarantee) that the assets of the Partnership will be invested in a manner which would allow the General Partner to satisfy withdrawal requests. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion: (i) defer withdrawal requests until the Partnership's assets mature or are liquidated in due course, (ii) elect to purchase with its own funds the Interests of the withdrawing Partner, or (iii) borrow from a third party or draw from a line of credit, subject to availability and other factors, in order to fund any withdrawal.

In addition, notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, the General Partner may limit and/or suspend withdrawals in order to ensure that the Partnership, at all times, meets the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth herein.

Payments with Respect to Withdrawals; Applicable on a Series-by-Series Basis. A Limited Partner who requests any withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any fiscal year, less than 90% of the value of such Limited Partner's capital account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts) will be paid within 90 days after the applicable Withdrawal Date. In the event that a Limited Partner requests a withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any fiscal year, 90% or more of the value of such Limited Partner's capital account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts), the General Partner may reduce the amounts paid after any Withdrawal Date so that they constitute, in the aggregate during such fiscal year, 90% of an amount estimated by the General Partner to be the amount to which the withdrawing Limited Partner is entitled in the aggregate (calculated on the basis of unaudited data); such amount will be paid within 90 days after the applicable Withdrawal Date. The balance of the amount payable upon such withdrawal will be paid, without interest, within 90 days after completion of the audited financial statements for the fiscal year in which the withdrawal occurs. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner may, in its sole discretion, agree to pay up to the full capital account balance (calculated on the basis of unaudited data) to a withdrawing Limited Partner within 90 days after the applicable Withdrawal Date, subject to adjustment based on audited financial statements. To the extent that the sum previously paid to a withdrawing Limited Partner is calculated to have exceeded the amount to which it is entitled, that Limited Partner shall be required to repay to the Partnership the balance.

Upon withdrawal of all of the capital in its capital account (excluding for purposes hereof, any remaining investments held in a Side Pocket Account), a Limited Partner will be deemed to have withdrawn from the Partnership or the relevant Series, and upon notice of such withdrawal, a Limited Partner will not be entitled to exercise any voting rights afforded to Limited Partners under the Partnership Agreement.

The Partnership or the relevant Series has the right to pay cash or in-kind, or a combination of both, to a Limited Partner that makes a withdrawal from such Limited Partner's capital account.

Limitations on Withdrawals. The Partnership or a Series may suspend (or postpone) withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations of Net Asset Value and/or payments upon any withdrawals (in whole or in part) from capital accounts: (i) during the existence of any state of affairs which, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the disposition of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners, or where such state of affairs, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the determination of the price or value of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners; (ii) where any such withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations and/or payments, in the opinion of the General Partner, would result in the violation of any applicable law or regulation, including any diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds; (iii) if the General Partner determines, in its sole discretion, that such suspension or postponement is prudent in order to prevent the Partnership from being subject to adverse tax or regulatory implications; (iv) a Portfolio Fund suspends the right to, or the payment of proceeds due upon, withdrawal and/or a Portfolio Fund allocates assets to its side pocket account; (v) a Portfolio Fund satisfies a withdrawal request by making an in-kind distribution; or (vi) for such other reasons or for such other periods as the General Partner may prudently and in good faith determine.

All Limited Partners will be notified in writing of any such suspension or postponement and the termination thereof. Following any suspension or postponement of withdrawals, a withdrawal request made by a Limited Partner prior to such suspension or postponement will be effected as of the first Withdrawal Date following the recommencement of withdrawals.

Required Withdrawals. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion, require a Limited Partner to withdraw any or all of the value of such Limited Partner's capital accounts on at least five days' notice for any reason or no reason; provided, however, that the General Partner may require such a withdrawal on less (or no) notice in order to comply with any laws and regulations applicable to the Partnership and/or its affiliates.

Side Pocket Accounts. A Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its capital account that are attributable to the value of an Illiquid Investment held in a Side Pocket Account until such time that such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) is reallocated to such Limited Partner's capital account. At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event (as defined below). For the avoidance of doubt, any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

Reserves. All withdrawals shall be subject to the General Partner's power to establish such reserves for the Partnership or a Series as the General Partner shall, in its sole but reasonable discretion, deem appropriate to pay current and future, definite, contingent and possible obligations of the Partnership or a Series (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP), including estimated expenses in connection therewith, which could reduce the amount of a distribution upon withdrawal. See "—Management Fee" for more information on the Management Fee Reserve.

Other Limitations on Withdrawals. In addition to the above limitations on withdrawals, all withdrawals by Limited Partners will be subject to any limitations on withdrawals imposed by the Portfolio Funds, as applicable. For example, the ability of the Partnership to provide withdrawal proceeds to a Limited Partner may be subject to, among other things, various notice period requirements of the Portfolio Funds.

Waiver. The General Partner, in its sole discretion, may waive or modify any of the terms relating to withdrawals, including, without limitation, minimum amounts and notice periods, for all or any of the Limited Partners in its discretion without notice to the other Limited Partners.

Withdrawals, Resignation and Transfers by General Partner and its Affiliates

Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or any Investment Manager Affiliate may withdraw all or any of the value in its respective capital account at any time, from time to time, without the consent of the Limited Partners and without notice to any of the Limited Partners. The General Partner may resign as the general partner of the Partnership upon 30 days' prior written notice to the Limited Partners. Upon such resignation of the General Partner, or upon its bankruptcy or dissolution, the remaining Limited Partners have the right to appoint a substitute general partner; otherwise, the Partnership will be dissolved pursuant to the procedures set forth in the Partnership Agreement. The Partnership Agreement permits the General Partner to appoint additional general partners and to transfer its general partner interest to an affiliate of the General Partner without the consent of Limited Partners.

Leverage

The Investment Manager may cause the Partnership to undertake leverage. Leverage may take a variety of forms, including, but not limited to, the following: long-term loans, convertible notes and repurchase arrangements. Leverage arrangements used by the Partnership when financing is contingent on the market value of the financed assets may include those which may be subject to mark-to-market collateral or margin calls. See "INVESTMENT PROGRAM" and "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST" herein.

Determination of Net Asset Value

The net asset value ("Net Asset Value") of the Partnership, on a Series-by-Series basis, is determined in accordance with the Partnership Agreement and is generally equal to the amount by which the value of the Partnership's assets exceeds the amount of its liabilities. Net Asset Value calculations will be made by the Administrator (based on the information provided by the Investment Manager) on an accrual basis of accounting, as of the end of each calendar month (or other period, as the case may be), in accordance with GAAP, consistently applied (except that: (x) organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership may be capitalized and amortized over a period of up to 60 months from the date the Partnership commences operations, and (y) reserves may be taken that are inconsistent with GAAP), this Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement.

In making such determinations, securities, commodities and other financial instruments (other than options) that are listed on a national securities, commodities or other exchange, or over-the-counter instruments listed on NASDAQ, will be valued at their last sales prices on such date or, if no sales occurred on such date, at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such securities, commodities or financial instruments on such date. Options that are listed on a securities or commodities exchange will be valued at their last sales prices on the date of determination on the largest securities or commodities exchange (by trading volume) on which such options shall have traded on such date; provided that, if the last sales prices of such options do not fall between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date, then such options will be valued at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date. Securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that are not listed on an exchange or quoted on an over-the-counter market, but for which there are available quotations, will be valued based upon quotations obtained from market makers, dealers or pricing services.

In the case of investments in Portfolio Funds, which investments are expected to constitute most of the Partnership's assets, the net asset value calculation provided by the relevant managers (or any affiliates or service providers thereof) of those Portfolio Funds will generally be used in determining the Partnership's Net Asset Value. The Investment Manager intends to engage an independent third-party valuation agent (in addition to the Administrator) to appraise the Partnership's interests in Illiquid Investments, including, without limitation, the PE Portfolio Fund; provided that, if the PE Portfolio Fund engages its own independent third-party valuation agent, the Partnership may rely on such valuation of any investment in the PE Portfolio Fund. None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of their respective affiliates will be responsible for calculating the net asset value of the Portfolio Funds or for verifying the accuracy and completeness of any such values received.

If the Investment Manager, in its sole discretion, determines that the valuation of any security, commodity, option or other financial instrument pursuant to the foregoing does not fairly represent its market value, the Investment Manager will value such security, commodity, option or other financial instrument as it reasonably determines. Any securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that have no public market, investments in other asset classes (including those in Side Pocket Accounts), and all other assets of the Partnership for which a valuation methodology is not specified, will be valued by the Investment Manager in a manner determined in good faith to reflect their fair market value. Absent bad faith or manifest error, all Net Asset Value determinations pursuant to the Partnership Agreement are conclusive and binding as to all Partners.

Allocation of Profit and Loss

To determine how the economic gains and losses of the Partnership will be shared, the Partnership Agreement allocates net income or loss (increases and decreases in Net Asset Value) to each Partner's capital account. Net income or loss includes all portfolio gains and losses, whether realized or unrealized, plus all other Partnership items of income (such as interest) and less all Partnership expenses. Generally, net income and net loss for each month (or other period, as the case may be) will be allocated to the Partners in proportion to their capital account balances as of the start of such month (or such other period). Net income and net losses in any Side Pocket Accounts or other memorandum accounts will be allocated to those Partners participating in such accounts in proportion to their capital account balances in such accounts. All matters concerning the allocation of profits, gains and losses among the parties (including the taxes thereon) and accounting procedures not expressly provided for by the terms of the Partnership Agreement will be determined by the General Partner in its sole discretion. Capital account balances will reflect capital contributions, previous allocations of increases and decreases in Net Asset Value, withdrawals, distributions (if any), and expenses. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing provisions will apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Allocation of Taxable Income and Loss

For income tax purposes, all items of taxable income, gain, loss, deduction and credit will be allocated among the Partners at the end of each fiscal year in a manner consistent with their economic interests in the Partnership. In light of the fact that the Partnership does not intend to make distributions, to the extent that the Partnership's investment activities are successful, Limited Partners should expect to receive allocations of income and loss, and may incur tax liabilities from an investment in the Partnership without receiving cash distributions from the Partnership with which to pay those liabilities. To obtain cash from the Partnership to pay taxes, if any, Limited Partners may be required to make withdrawals, subject to the limitations in the Partnership Agreement. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing provisions will apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Side Pocket Accounts

The Investment Manager may designate that certain investments held by a Series of the Partnership and/or by the Portfolio Fund(s) be carried in one or more separate memorandum accounts (each, a "Side Pocket Account") for such period of time as the Investment Manager determines. Such investments may include: (i) privately placed, unregistered securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments, or those investments that, in the opinion of the Investment Manager, do not have a readily ascertainable market value; (ii) other illiquid securities that may be valued but are not freely transferable; (iii) an investment into a Portfolio Fund that invests in illiquid assets; (iv) that portion of an investment in a Portfolio Fund that is attributable to side pocket accounts designated by the manager of such Portfolio Fund (which may be designated with respect to assets that are subject to legal or contractual restrictions on transferability, or that the Investment Manager believes either lack a readily assessable market value (without impairing the value of such investments) or should be held until the resolution of a special event or circumstance; and (v) investments in other asset classes (such as real estate) and other property that are not traded on public exchanges (each, as designated by the Investment Manager, along with follow-on investments, if any, an "Illiquid Investment"). Additionally, the Investment Manager, in its sole and absolute discretion, may determine that, for various reasons, an asset that initially was not an Illiquid Investment should be categorized as an Illiquid Investment, or that a follow-on investment should be categorized as a new Illiquid Investment. For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in Side Pocket Accounts; and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely. Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account will be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager. For the avoidance of doubt, each Policy Owner investing through the relevant Limited Partner will indirectly participate in the economics from a pro rata portion of a Side Pocket Account and the corresponding Illiquid Investment.

At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event. Upon a Realization Event, such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) will be reallocated, pro rata, from the Side Pocket Account to the capital accounts of participating Partners in accordance with their respective interests in such Side Pocket Account. Until such reallocation, a Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its capital account that are attributable to the value of Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account. Upon such reallocation, a Limited Partner that has withdrawn all of its capital from the Partnership other than the capital attributable to such Side Pocket Account will receive an amount equal to its interest in such Side Pocket Account (net of any accrued Management Fee and accrued expenses (to the extent not covered by the Partnership's reserves, including the Management Fee Reserve) with respect thereto), within 90 days after such reallocation. For the avoidance of doubt, any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

A "Realization Event" occurs: (1) when an Illiquid Investment becomes liquid, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager; (2) when an Illiquid Investment is sold or otherwise disposed of by the Partnership; (3) when circumstances otherwise exist that, in the reasonable judgment of the Investment Manager, conclusively establish a value for an Illiquid Investment, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager (including, without limitation, when additional securities substantially similar to the Illiquid Investment have been issued by the issuer of the Illiquid Investment); or (4) as otherwise determined in the sole discretion of the Investment Manager.

Newly-admitted Limited Partners may not participate in Illiquid Investments that were placed in a Side Pocket Account prior to their admission. For the avoidance of doubt, the Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts at the time of such admission. Any expenses relating specifically to a Side Pocket Account will be charged to the Partners participating in such account. If the Investment Manager in its discretion designates any investment as a follow-on investment to an existing Illiquid Investment, only the Partners participating in such original investment will participate in such follow-on investment in proportion to their interest in the related Side Pocket Account; provided, however, that, if a Partner shall have withdrawn from the Partnership, the General Partner will equitably adjust the interests of the remaining participating Partners to reflect such withdrawn Partner's non-participation in the follow-on investment.

Also see "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST—Conflicts of Interest" herein.

New Issues Accounts; Other Memorandum Accounts

From time to time, the Partnership may purchase securities that are part of a public distribution. Under rules adopted by the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), (i) certain persons engaged in the securities, banking or financial services industries (and members of their immediate families) and (ii) certain persons who are affiliated with companies that are current, former or prospective investment banking clients of the Partnership's broker(s) (collectively, "Restricted Persons") are restricted from participating in initial public offerings of equity securities ("New Issues"), each subject to a de minimis exemption. To the extent necessary to comply with FINRA rules, in addition to the Partnership's regular accounts and any Side Pocket Accounts, the General Partner may establish one or more memorandum accounts that are authorized to participate in New Issues (each, a "New Issues Account"). Participation in New Issues Accounts will be limited to (i) those Limited Partners who are not Restricted Persons, and (ii) those Limited Partners who are Restricted Persons, but only to the extent that such participation by Restricted Persons does not exceed levels permitted under applicable FINRA rules.

In addition, as a matter of fairness to Partners that do not participate in New Issues, a use-of-funds charge may be debited to the capital accounts of those Partners that do participate in New Issues and credited to the capital accounts of all the Partners. The General Partner may calculate such charge, in its discretion, in any manner consistent with applicable FINRA rules, including, debiting amounts equal to interest, (i) on the funds used to purchase the New Issues at the annual rate being paid by the Partnership, or (ii) that would be paid by the Partnership on borrowed funds during the applicable period.

Upon the sale or other disposition of New Issues (including any transfer of the underlying securities in the New Issues Account to the capital accounts of all of the Partners, after such securities no longer constitute New Issues), any profits or losses resulting from securities transactions in the New Issues Account in any fiscal period will be credited or debited to the capital accounts of Limited Partners participating in the New Issues Account in accordance with their interests therein. Accordingly, the returns to Limited Partners on their investments in the Partnership may differ depending upon whether or not they are a Restricted Person.

In addition to the foregoing with respect to Side Pocket Accounts and New Issues Accounts, to the extent that certain Limited Partners are restricted from participating in any other transactions of the Partnership by applicable laws or regulations, or for any other reason determined by the General Partner in good faith, the General Partner may, in its discretion, establish one or more separate memorandum accounts to hold such investments and isolate ownership away from such restricted Limited Partners. Only those Limited Partners who the General Partner determines are eligible will participate in such accounts.

Side Letters

The Partnership, the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may from time to time enter into side letters or other similar agreements (collectively, "Side Letters") with one or more Limited Partners that provide such Limited Partner(s) with additional and/or different rights (including, without limitation, with respect to access to information, minimum investment amounts and liquidity terms) than such Limited Partner(s) have pursuant to this Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement. Neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager will be required to notify any or all of the other Limited Partners of any such Side Letters or any of the rights and/or terms or provisions thereof, nor will the General Partner or the Investment Manager be required to offer such additional and/or different rights and/or terms to any or all of the other Limited Partners. Specifically, certain Insurance Company Limited Partners may have additional withdrawal rights not offered to other Limited Partners. See "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST—Partnership Risks—Impact of Side Letters" herein.

Reports to Limited Partners

Each Limited Partner will receive the following, with respect to the relevant Series: (i) annual financial statements of the Partnership audited by an independent certified public accounting firm; (ii) quarterly unaudited performance information; (iii) copies of such Limited Partner's Schedule K-1 to the Partnership's tax returns; and (iv) other periodic reports or letters as determined by the General Partner in its sole discretion. The financial statements of the Partnership will be prepared in accordance with GAAP (except to the extent that this Memorandum or the Partnership Agreement states or contemplates that such statements may be inconsistent with GAAP).

The General Partner may at any time choose to change the Partnership's accounting guidelines from GAAP to the International Financial Reporting Standard ("IFRS"). In such event, the financial performance of the Partnership, as determined under IFRS, may vary from those determined under GAAP.

The Partnership will bear all fees incurred in providing such tax returns and reports.

The General Partner may agree to provide certain Limited Partners with additional information on the underlying investments of the Partnership, which may affect investment and withdrawal decisions, as well as heightened access to the General Partner, the Investment Manager and their respective employees for relevant information.

Transferability of Interests

As a Limited Partner, you may not assign or transfer your Interest (except by operation of law) without the consent of the General Partner, which consent may be given or withheld in its sole discretion. No transfer of an Interest by a Limited Partner will be permitted if it would result in the termination of the Partnership for federal income tax purposes. Transfers of Interests are subject to other restrictions set forth in the Partnership Agreement, including compliance with ERISA and federal and state securities laws.

Due to these limitations on transferability, Limited Partners may be required to hold their Interests indefinitely, unless they withdraw from the Partnership in accordance with the provisions set forth in the Partnership Agreement.

Distributions; Distributions

The Partnership does not expect to make any distributions to Limited Partners from profits or capital, except pursuant to requests for withdrawals and upon termination of the

Upon Termination of the Partnership

Partnership or the relevant Series. Upon the termination of the Partnership (as further described in the Partnership Agreement), the assets of the Partnership or the relevant Series will be liquidated (or distributed) and the proceeds of liquidation will be used to pay off known liabilities, establish reserves for contingent liabilities and expenses of liquidation (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP), and any remaining balance will be applied and distributed in proportion to the respective capital accounts of the Partners. The Partnership or the relevant Series may satisfy any distributions to Limited Partners in cash, in-kind or any combination thereof. Additionally, the General Partner may create a liquidating fund entity (e.g., a liquidating trust or similar vehicle) and may transfer all or a portion of the Partnership's assets to such entity for any reason, including an orderly liquidation of any illiquid Partnership or Series assets, including, but not limited to Side Pocket Accounts, and may distribute ownership interests in such entity to Limited Partners.

Notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, to the extent that the Partnership makes any distributions, the General Partner may limit such distributions, in its sole discretion, in order to ensure that the Partnership, at all times, meets the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds.

The termination of the Partnership shall constitute the termination of all Series. For the avoidance of doubt, the termination of an individual Series, however, shall not constitute the termination of the Partnership.

Bank Holding Companies

Limited Partners that are Bank Holding Companies ("BHC Limited Partners") (as defined by Section 2(a) of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended ("BHCA")) are limited to 4.99% of the voting Interest in the Partnership under Section 4(c)(6) of the BHCA. The portion of the Interest in the Partnership held by a BHC Limited Partner in excess of 4.99% of the aggregate outstanding voting Interests of all Limited Partners will be deemed non-voting Interests in the Partnership. BHC Limited Partners holding non-voting Interests in the Partnership are permitted to vote such Interests (i) on any proposal to dissolve or continue the business of the Partnership under the Partnership Agreement and (ii) on matters with respect to which voting rights are not considered to be "voting securities" under 12 C.F.R. § 225.2(q)(2), including such matters which may "significantly and adversely" affect a BHC Limited Partner (such as amendments to the Partnership Agreement or modifications of the terms of its Interest). For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis. Except with regard to restrictions on voting, non-voting Interests are identical to all other Interests held by Limited Partners.

Voting Rights and Amendments

The voting rights of Limited Partners are very limited. Other than as explicitly set forth in the Partnership Agreement, Limited Partners have no voting rights as to the Partnership or its management. Generally, the Partnership Agreement may be amended only with the consent of the General Partner and Limited Partners owning more than 50% of all of the outstanding Interests of each Series; provided that: (x) for matters only relating to one Series, only the Limited Partners of that Series will vote on such matters, and (y) that the General Partner may amend the Partnership Agreement without the consent of or notice to any of the Limited Partners if, in the opinion of the General Partner, the amendment does not materially adversely affect any Limited Partner.

Liability of Limited Partners

No Limited Partner shall be personally liable or bound for the expenses, liabilities or obligations of the Partnership or the relevant Series beyond the amount in such Limited Partner's capital account in the relevant Series, from time to time, including any amounts thereof attributable to capital contributions, except that such Limited Partner may be obligated to return all or a portion of any distributions (including withdrawal proceeds) received from the Partnership or the relevant Series in an amount up to its aggregate capital contributions (including any income or gains thereon) to the Partnership or the relevant Series in order to pay such Limited Partner's pro rata share of any Partnership or Series liabilities that arose while such Limited Partner held Interests. Subject to the foregoing, no Limited Partner shall be obligated to provide any contributions to the Partnership or the relevant Series, other than its initial capital contribution. No Limited Partner shall be obligated to make any loan to the Partnership or a Series.

Under the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act ("Delaware Act"), when a Limited Partner receives a return of all or any part of such Limited Partner's capital contribution, the Limited Partner may be liable to the Partnership or a Series for any sum, not in excess of such return of capital (together with interest), if at the time of such distribution the Limited Partner knew that the Partnership or the relevant Series was prohibited from making such distribution pursuant to the Delaware Act.

Brokerage Practices

Portfolio transactions for the Partnership will be allocated by the Investment Manager to brokers on the basis of best execution and in consideration of, among other factors, such brokers' ability to effect transactions, operational efficiency, reputation and financial strength. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES".

Other Activities of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and Affiliates

None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or any of their respective partners, managers, members, directors, officers, employees, agents and affiliates (collectively, "Investment Manager Affiliates") is required to manage the Partnership as its sole and exclusive function. In addition to managing the Partnership and its investments, each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates may provide investment management and other services to other parties and may manage other accounts and/or establish other private investment funds in the future (both domestic and offshore) (such accounts and funds, collectively, "Affiliated Funds"), including those that may employ an investment program and strategy similar to that of the Partnership.

Specifically, as of the date hereof: (i) the Investment Manager acts as the investment manager to Rand PE Fund I, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("PE Portfolio Fund") that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction, if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction; (ii) Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, is the general partner of the PE Portfolio Fund; (iii) the Principal is the managing member and controlling person of Rand PE Fund Management, LLC; and (iv) the Investment Manager acts as the investment subadvisor to a series of SALI Multi-Series Fund, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership, and provides certain discretionary investment advisory or consulting services to such series.

See "MANAGEMENT" and "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST" herein.

Exculpation and Indemnification

The Partnership Agreement provides that none of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates will be liable to the Partnership or the Limited Partners for any action or inaction in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership unless such action or inaction is determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. The Partnership (but not the Limited Partners individually) is obligated to indemnify the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Investment Manager Affiliates (which, for purposes of this indemnity, shall include fund counsel (except for legal malpractice)) from and against any and all claims, liabilities, obligations, judgments, suits, proceedings, actions, demands, losses, costs, expenses (including attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation), damages, penalties or interest, as a result of any claim or legal proceeding (made or threatened) related to any action or inaction by any of them in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership (including the settlement or appeal of any such claim or legal proceeding); provided that such indemnity will not extend to conduct determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing indemnification provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis. The Investment Management Agreement also provides similar protections to the Investment Manager.

Investor Control

The Partnership is an insurance-dedicated investment fund. In certain circumstances, the owner of a variable life insurance or annuity contract invested in a Separate Account may, for federal income tax purposes, be considered the owner of the assets of the Separate Account that funds the variable contract under an "investor control" theory. Each Policy Owner should consult his or her own tax advisors regarding the "investor control" theory and the particular tax risks, if any, posed by the Policy Owner's selection of the Partnership as its investment option under a related Policy.

Policy Owners have no right to communicate with or direct the investment policies or decisions of the Partnership and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates relating in any way to the Partnership. For purposes of this Memorandum, the term Policy Owner includes: (i) any trustees of a Policy Owner; (ii) any Policy beneficiaries; (iii) any affiliated person (as this term is defined in Section 2(a)(3) of the Investment Company Act) of the foregoing persons; or (iv) any person that represents the Policy Owner.

There is not, nor shall there be, a pre-arranged binding agreement between the General Partner, the Administrator and the Investment Manager, on the one hand, and any Policy Owner, on the other hand, relating to the investments of the Partnership. Furthermore, Limited Partners have no right or power to take part in the management of the Partnership.

None of the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates will be held responsible to any Limited Partner or Policy Owner for any loss, damage, liability or expense resulting from a violation of the "investor control" theory to the extent such violation is attributable to conduct of a Policy Owner.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Partnership's investment program permits investments in Portfolio Funds, Illiquid Investments and other investments that are managed by, or otherwise affiliated with or related to the Investment Manager. None of such investments, if made, will be deemed to be directed by the Policy Owner or be part of a pre-arranged binding agreement as a result of such affiliation or relation.

A substantial portion of the Partnership is expected to be invested in illiquid Portfolio Funds and/or Illiquid Investments. Such investments are often structured as "pass-through" entities for tax purposes and therefore may generate significant taxable income to the Limited Partners without any corresponding liquidity from such investments. As a result, an investment in the Partnership may be unsuitable for those investors that do not receive a corresponding deduction for such allocated income.

Tax Considerations

The Partnership intends to invest its assets in compliance with the diversification requirements imposed by Section 817(h) of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended ("Code"), and regulations promulgated thereunder and expects to be treated as a partnership and not as an association or a publicly traded partnership taxable as a corporation for federal tax purposes. Accordingly, the Partnership should not be subject to federal income tax, and each Limited Partner will be required to report on its own annual tax return such Limited Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's taxable income or loss. Prospective purchasers are responsible for determining the tax considerations of an investment in the Partnership and should consult their own tax advisors with specific reference to their own situations as they relate to an investment in the Partnership.

The Investment Manager will be required to endeavor to invest the assets of the Partnership in compliance with the diversification requirements imposed by Section 817(h) of the Code, and regulations promulgated thereunder. The Investment Manager will be required to notify the Limited Partners within a commercially reasonable time upon having a reasonable basis for believing that the Partnership has ceased to meet the standards set forth in Section 817(h) of the Code and to take all commercially reasonable steps to comply with the diversification requirements within the grace period afforded under Treasury Regulation Section 1.817-5. None of the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of their respective affiliates has any obligation to: (i) determine if any state's diversification requirements or other regulatory requirements applicable to insurance companies or variable contract separate accounts are applicable to the Partnership or to any Limited Partner, or (ii) take any steps to facilitate compliance with any such requirements.

The Investment Manager will not accept investment recommendations, or make any investment decisions regarding the direct or indirect investment of the Partnership's assets based, in whole or in part, on information regarding any investment or group of investments received from any Limited Partner or Policy Owner. No Limited Partner or Policy Owners will have the right or be permitted to select or recommend any particular investment or group of investments to be made directly or indirectly with the assets of the Partnership, and there is not, nor will there be, any direct or indirect pre-arrangements or agreement between any Limited Partner or its Policy Owners and the Investment Manager regarding the investments to be made directly or indirectly by the Partnership. See "TAXATION" herein.

Term The term of the Partnership will continue indefinitely until terminated in accordance with the Partnership Agreement. Under the Partnership Agreement, the Partnership may be terminated at the election of the General Partner.

Fiscal Year The fiscal year of the Partnership will end on December 31 of each year. However, the fiscal year may be changed at any time by the General Partner, in its sole and absolute discretion.

The Partnership will not incur any additional fees as a result of the arrangements with the Shared Services Provider. See "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST" herein. Also see "SERVICE PROVIDERS—Administrator" herein.

Shortly after such engagement, the Partnership intends to distribute a supplement to this Memorandum to all then-current investors with the relevant details.

Legal Counsel Sadis & Goldberg LLP acts as legal counsel to the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Partnership and certain of their respective affiliates in connection with the offering of Interests and other ongoing matters. Sadis & Goldberg LLP has been retained to prepare offering documentation in connection with the offering but not to conduct any due diligence on the Principal, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the information in this Memorandum. Sadis & Goldberg LLP does not represent the Limited Partners, and each Limited Partner is urged to consult with its own counsel.

In connection with the preparation of this Memorandum, Sadis & Goldberg's responsibility is limited to matters of U.S. securities and federal tax law and it does not accept responsibility in relation to any other matters referred to or disclosed in this Memorandum. Sadis & Goldberg LLP does not represent the Limited Partners' interests in resolving these issues. Sadis & Goldberg LLP is a party to certain offering related documents to the limited extent that it can benefit from and enforce certain provisions thereof. In preparing this Memorandum, Sadis & Goldberg LLP has relied upon information furnished to it by the General Partner, the Investment Manager and their respective affiliates and is not obligated to investigate or verify the accuracy and completeness of information set forth herein concerning the Partnership.

Furthermore, if a conflict of interest or dispute arises between the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager, on the one hand, and the Partnership or any Limited Partner, on the other hand, by investing in the Partnership, the Limited Partners acknowledge that Sadis & Goldberg LLP may act as counsel to the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager and not counsel to the Partnership or the Limited Partners, notwithstanding the fact that, in certain cases, the fees paid to Sadis & Goldberg LLP are paid through or by the Partnership.

In addition, Sadis & Goldberg LLP has represented Highland and affiliates at different times over a period lasting over a decade. It is currently expected that Sadis & Goldberg LLP will represent the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and certain of their respective affiliates in connection with the establishment of the Partnership and the PE Portfolio Fund, the possible consummation of the Highland Transaction, and certain related matters. The Principal and his affiliates are aware of the representation by Sadis & Goldberg LLP of Highland and affiliates.

INVESTMENT PROGRAM

INTRODUCTION

The Partnership was organized for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of investments, domestic and foreign, of all kinds and descriptions, whether publicly traded or privately placed, including, but not limited to, the following: common and preferred stocks, bonds and other debt securities, convertible securities, limited partnership interests, other investment funds (including the Portfolio Funds), CLO securities, mutual fund shares, options, warrants, futures, derivatives (including swaps, forward contracts and structured instruments), monetary instruments, other financial instruments, cash and cash equivalents. The Investment Manager is eligible to trade a limited amount of commodities or financial futures on behalf of the Partnership under a provision in the Commodity Exchange Act, as amended ("CEA"), that provides an exemption from registration as a commodity pool operator.

References herein to the Partnership shall include, where appropriate: (i) each Series of the Partnership; (ii) the instances whereby the Investment Manager directly invests the Partnership's assets, and (iii) the Partnership's investments through Portfolio Funds.

The following is a general description of the principal types of investments which the Investment Manager currently contemplates making for the Partnership, certain trading techniques that it may employ, the investment criteria that it plans to apply, and the guidelines that it has established with respect to the composition of its investment portfolio. The following description is merely a summary, and a Limited Partner should not assume that any descriptions of the specific activities in which the Partnership may engage are intended in any way to limit the types of investment activities which the Partnership may undertake or the allocation of Partnership capital among such investments.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Partnership's primary objective is to seek consistent above-average returns primarily through capital appreciation. No assurance can be given, however, that the Investment Manager will achieve the Partnership's investment objective, and investment results may vary substantially over time and from period to period.

As of the date hereof, the Investment Manager intends to allocate approximately 45% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to traded investments and approximately (but not more than) 55% of the Series 1 investment portfolio to the first series of limited partnership interests to be issued by the PE Portfolio Fund that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction, if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction. However, the Investment Manager reserves the right to change such allocation in the future, subject to compliance with all applicable laws, including the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds, as further set forth herein. Further, the Partnership shall not accept additional Limited Partners into any existing Series if such Series has existing Side Pocket Accounts at the time of such admission.

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

Philosophy

The Investment Manager intends to use a disciplined investment philosophy by combining thorough fundamental research and in-depth analysis of investment opportunities. The following principles generally guide the Investment Manager's portfolio management strategy and allocation of capital:

- invest with a long-term perspective, minimize turnover and avoid market-timing;
- hold a concentrated investment portfolio; and

- view each investment relative to other investment opportunities.

Long-Term Perspective. The Investment Manager intends to invest with a long-term perspective, typically holding an ownership position in a company until it reaches its intrinsic value. In general, when the Investment Manager will be looking to invest in a company, it intends to avoid trying to time the market, but rather intends to focus on the intrinsic value of the company and then find the right entry or purchase point.

Concentration. The Investment Manager intends to have a concentrated portfolio of investments. The Investment Manager believes that this may provide the Partnership with a competitive advantage over most other private investment vehicles in that: (i) the Investment Manager's best ideas would be rarely and/or marginally diluted by its lesser ideas; (ii) the extra time saved by not trading may allow the Investment Manager to concentrate on finding other investment ideas; and (iii) careful analysis may allow the Investment Manager to make intelligent and deliberated decisions.

Relative Analysis. The Investment Manager intends to evaluate potential investments in companies of varying market capitalization in an attempt to isolate those securities with the greatest potential for capital appreciation. As part of its strategy, the Investment Manager intends to invest in those industries, sectors and securities which may provide value on a relative basis. The Investment Manager intends to seek to understand a company and its industry before investing.

Strategies

The following is a general description of the principal types of securities in which the Partnership may invest, certain trading techniques that it may employ, the investment criteria that it plans to apply, and the guidelines that it has established with respect to the composition of its investment portfolio. The following description is merely a summary, and the Investment Manager has discretion to cause the Partnership to invest in other types of securities and to follow other investment criteria and guidelines.

Long Equity. The Investment Manager expects that a portion of the Partnership's investments will generally be in equities. In connection with the foregoing, the Partnership's focus will be on companies of varying size that have a reasonable expectation of producing above-average returns. The Investment Manager intends to favor private companies that are not actively traded in the U.S. but may be willing to invest in companies without respect to market capitalization, geographic location or market sector.

Before investing in a company, the Investment Manager intends to analyze certain financial measures, such as the company's historical and expected cash flows, its projected earnings growth, its valuation relative to its growth and to that of its industry, the historical trading patterns of the company's securities, and forecasts and projections for the relevant industry group. The Investment Manager will at times gather information about a company from consultants, analysts, competitors, suppliers and customers that may help the effectiveness of the analysis performed.

Short Selling. The Investment Manager may sell short individual stocks as a means of attempting to reduce risk and increase performance. Stocks are generally sold short for a variety of reasons, including, without limitation, the following: (i) temporary overvaluation due to short-term market euphoria for a sector; (ii) faulty business model; (iii) poor earnings; (iv) questionable accounting practices; (v) deteriorating fundamentals; (vi) negative tangible book value; and (vii) weak management unable to adapt to changes in technology, regulation or the competitive environment. The Investment Manager believes that, by focusing on specific companies that are experiencing any one or more of these elements, the Investment Manager may be able to identify profitable short sale candidates in most stock market environments. In addition, technical analysis may also be used to help in the decision-making process.

Event-Driven Investments. When the opportunity arises, in the opinion of the Investment Manager, the Partnership may invest in companies based upon certain situations or events, such as launching of a new product, changes in management, a corporate restructuring, a merger or an acquisition. These situations or events may also include investments that are based on market-timing and impact analysis.

Occasionally, the Partnership may engage in arbitrage transactions that the Investment Manager believes may represent an exceptional risk/reward opportunity. Risk arbitrage opportunities generally arise during corporate mergers, leveraged buyouts or takeovers. Frequently, the stock of the company being acquired will trade at a significant discount to the announced deal price. This discount compensates investors for the time value of money and the risk that the transaction may be canceled. If the discount is significantly greater than the Investment Manager's assessment of the underlying risk, the strategy will be implemented. The Investment Manager intends to use event-driven investments as a tactical, opportunistic strategy and not as part of the Partnership's normal operations.

Bank Loans

In general, a portion of the Partnership's net assets will be invested and traded in senior secured floating rate bank loans ("Bank Loans") denominated in U.S. dollars. Bank Loans represent amounts borrowed by corporate entities from banks and other lenders. In many cases, they are issued in connection with re-capitalizations, acquisitions, leveraged buyouts and re-financings. Most, if not all, of the Bank Loans in which the Partnership intends to invest will have a below investment-grade credit rating or will not be rated by a major credit rating agency. The Bank Loans in which the Partnership intends to invest are often referred to as "leveraged loans" because the borrowing companies have significantly more debt than equity.

Bank Loans have the highest seniority within a borrower's capital structure. Therefore, in the event of a bankruptcy, holders of Bank Loans are typically paid (to the extent assets are available) before certain other creditors, such as bondholders. Bank Loan maturities typically range from 5 to 8 years, although loan prepayments and re-financings generally result in effective average lives of approximately 3 years depending on market conditions.

Bank Loans generally pay interest at rates that are determined periodically by reference to a base lending rate plus a premium. These rates often are re-determined daily, monthly, quarterly or semi-annually. As a result, the Investment Manager believes that the Partnership may experience less sensitivity to changes in market interest rates and lower volatility than if the Partnership invested exclusively in fixed rate obligations.

The Bank Loan market has grown significantly in recent years, as investors have been drawn into the market by the advantageous characteristics of Bank Loans, which include floating interest rates, senior secured status, lower volatility, growing liquidity, greater control over an issuer in times of stress, and lower correlation with other asset classes.

Other Securities

When, in the opinion of the Investment Manager, appropriate investments cannot be found or when market conditions dictate a more conservative stance, the Partnership may maintain significant cash positions or invest in money market instruments (e.g., money market funds or U.S. Treasury securities).

Fixed Income Securities

The Investment Manager may invest in fixed income securities (bonds) as part of the strategic operations of the Partnership. The Investment Manager may take advantage of special investment opportunities in the high yield and convertible segments of the fixed income market. The Investment Manager considers these investments to be equity substitutes, with the expectation of providing both current income and capital appreciation. The Investment Manager may also seek opportunities in government-issued fixed income securities, as deemed appropriate.

High Yield Bonds

The price and yield of lower-quality (i.e., high yield, high risk) bonds, commonly referred to as "junk bonds," can be expected to fluctuate more than the price and yield of higher-quality bonds. Because these bonds are rated below BBB or are in default, they are regarded as predominantly speculative with respect to the issuer's continuing ability to meet principal and interest payments. Successful investment in lower-medium- and low-quality bonds involves greater investment risk and is highly dependent on credit analysis. A real or perceived economic downturn or higher interest rates could cause a decline in high yield bond prices by lessening the ability of issuers to make principal and interest payments. These bonds can be more difficult to sell and value accurately than high-quality bonds. Because objective pricing data may be less available, judgment may play a greater role in the valuation process. In addition, the entire high yield bond market can experience sudden and sharp price swings due to a variety of factors, including changes in economic forecasts, stock market activity, large or sustained sales by major investors, a high-profile default, or just a change in the market's psychology. This type of volatility is usually associated more with stocks than bonds, but junk bond investors should be prepared for it.

Derivative Transactions

The Partnership may enter into derivative transactions, including credit default swaps to hedge the market risk of its Bank Loan portfolio. The Investment Manager may purchase and write put and call options that are traded on national securities exchanges or over-the-counter markets, as well as on electronic communications networks. Options can be used in many ways, such as to increase market exposure (i.e., leverage), to reduce overall market exposure (i.e., hedge), to increase the portfolio's current income, or to reduce the cost basis of a new position. The Partnership may also utilize certain options, such as various types of index or "market-basket" options, in an effort to hedge against certain market-related risks, as the Investment Manager deems appropriate. The Investment Manager believes that the use of options and other derivatives may help reduce risk and enhance investment performance of the Partnership's portfolio.

Foreign Investments

Although the Investment Manager intends to focus primarily on the U.S. marketplace, it may invest in U.S. dollar-denominated securities of foreign issuers or loans of foreign borrowers traded in the U.S.

Special Situations

The Partnership may invest in companies involved in (or the target of) acquisition attempts or tender offers or in companies involved in work-outs, liquidations, spin-offs, reorganizations, bankruptcies and similar transactions.

Money Market Instruments

From time to time, the Investment Manager may also invest some of the Partnership's assets in short-term U.S. government obligations, certificates of deposit, commercial paper and other money market instruments. A greater percentage of Partnership assets may be invested in such obligations if the Investment Manager believes that a defensive position is appropriate because of expected economic or business conditions or the outlook for security prices. From time to time, in the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, cash balances in the Partnership's brokerage account may be placed in a money-market fund or other cash equivalents.

CLO Securities Generally

A portion of the Partnership's assets will also be invested in: (i) rated and unrated, debt relating to collateralized loan obligations ("CLOs" or "CLO Securities") in the primary and secondary markets, and (ii) collateralized debt obligations that also have leveraged loans as part of their underlying investments.

Currency Hedging Transactions

The Investment Manager may, but is not required, to engage in currency hedging transactions to protect against adverse changes in currency and interest rates. Currency hedging instruments may include, without limitation, forward contracts, futures contracts, options contracts, cross-currency swaps, exchange-traded funds ("ETFs"), treasury locks, shorting non-U.S. debt and any other instrument deemed reasonable in the Investment Manager's discretion to hedge the non-U.S. currency exposure of the Partnership.

Description of CLO Investments

An investment in CLO tranches represents varying levels of exposure primarily to credit performance of the underlying assets and is characterized by a combination of expected significant current cash flow, as well as the opportunity for positive returns through long-term gains on the underlying portfolios. CLO investments often have a relatively short expected duration (usually less than 10 years), as a typical CLO distributes excess cash flows quarterly or semi-annually concurrent with the payment of interest on its liabilities, subject to compliance with overall collateral quality tests and other performance criteria. The Investment Manager believes that CLO debt securities may offer significant relative value in the current market. The Investment Manager believes the attractive spreads currently offered by investments in CLOs have been created by technical factors, mainly rating agency driven, rather than fundamentals of the underlying collateral.

A cash flow CLO is generally analogous to a special purpose finance company. The CLO owns a portfolio consisting of corporate loans and other investments from which it typically receives interest income, together with capital gains and losses. The CLO is often financed with equity, which may be in the form of preference shares or income notes and several levels of long-term debt. CLO debt is typically rated by the rating agencies based on the deal structure as well as outstanding principal amount of portfolio securities and, in most cases, is not contingent on the market value of the underlying portfolio. CLO equity is almost always unrated.

In addition to the opportunities in the secondary market, the Investment Manager believes that it may be able to source attractive opportunities from the growing issuance of CLOs in the primary market as well. The CLO market generally is characterized by a lack of liquidity, transparency and the absence of uniform standards. The Investment Manager believes that market participants often tend to lack the expertise and analytic tools to systematically and comprehensively analyze either primary or secondary market CLO tranches. The market for CLO tranches is also highly fragmented and, to date, many investors have had limited leverage in negotiating CLO terms, such as structure and fees. The Investment Manager believes that the Partnership may benefit from the Investment Manager's ability to use its CLO management expertise, proprietary analytics and direct market access to assess value opportunities and effectively execute transactions. In the primary market, the Investment Manager will seek situations where it can influence structures, fees and timing of CLO transactions to achieve favorable terms not directly available to other investors.

The Investment Manager generally intends to invest the Partnership's gross assets in CLO debt that is diversified across maturities, underlying assets and managers. In addition to implementing its rigorous investment process and utilizing proprietary analytical tools to evaluate and select investments for the Partnership, the Investment Manager intends to use its market knowledge and industry position to seek to add value by addressing what it believes may be material inefficiencies of the existing CLO execution process. For example, within the primary new issuance market, the Investment Manager will look to invest in CLOs where it can leverage its expertise and market relationships to achieve the timing, structural and financial terms especially advantageous to the Partnership's investments. In addition, the Investment Manager will look to assess value dislocations of CLOs and other structured investments within the secondary market, as the Investment Manager believes structured products markets may have inherent inefficiencies that often cause significant differentials between intrinsic value and market value.

The Investment Manager will seek to achieve the following specific objectives:

- seek consistent above-average returns while minimizing volatility;
- access and initiate deal flow directly and through arrangements with underwriters and broker-dealers;
- take advantage of value dislocations in the secondary market;
- reduce risk through efficient, cost-effective transaction execution;
- add value through optimization of terms and structures;
- and leverage expertise in CLO investments and management to create a well-balanced, broadly diversified portfolio.

Structural Optimization and Transaction Terms with Respect to CLOs

Typically, CLO securities are offered to investors after the structure has been developed and agreed to by the collateral manager, underwriter and rating agencies. Investors have limited ability to effect significant changes to the structure and/or the key terms. Also, very few investors have the expertise or the tools to model and analyze proposed CLO investments; most are believed to rely on the underwriters to provide analytical support. Proactive, early involvement with select managers and underwriters, and significant investment participation, are expected to enable the Investment Manager to use its structuring capability and proprietary analytics to identify and achieve desirable structural features and transaction terms.

CLO Investment Process

General. The investment process used by the Investment Manager to evaluate potential CLO tranches will generally employ a combination of rigorous qualitative (manager, portfolio and legal considerations) and quantitative (structural, cash-flow, collateral valuation and pricing/relative value) analysis. Among other resources, the Investment Manager intends to use its proprietary quantitative analytical tool, Rand CLO Insight, as well as INTEX data service, Wall Street Analytics, Moody's Investor Services and Wall Street Office in connection with gathering information with respect to CLO investments by the Partnership.

Asset/Portfolio Assessment. The Investment Manager believes the most critical component of investing in CLO securities is the ability to quickly and effectively understand the characteristics of the CLO's underlying collateral, primarily consisting of corporate Bank Loans. The Investment Manager believes that its capability to develop accurate, up-to-date portfolio quality indicators may be critical to the foregoing task because these indicators are key inputs for the subsequent quantitative component of the investment analysis.

Further assessment by the Investment Manager will generally include additional portfolio-level analysis. The Investment Manager intends to consider, among other factors, the following key parameters of a CLO:

- historical par loss due to defaults and distressed sales as a key indicator of prior portfolio performance;
- defaulted securities currently held in the portfolio and prospective recovery levels for such securities;
- aggregate ratings of the performing securities (statistically, lower ratings generally indicate higher probability of default);
- liquidity as measured by the average facility size and percent of the portfolio with private credit ratings, among other metrics;
- projected future portfolio par loss, based on the security-level analysis and the resulting ratings adjustments;
- portfolio market value and portfolio segment trading at distressed prices as another indicator of future portfolio performance; and
- degree of industry and issuer diversification/concentration.

Manager Evaluation. The underlying CLO manager is responsible for selecting the assets and for managing them within the ratings-constrained environment according to the specified procedures and limitations that exist in each CLO's indenture. The review of the CLO manager will generally encompass historical performance, investment management and structured finance expertise, quality and size of the investment team, co-investment history, investment philosophy and credit process, platform scalability, systems and back office operations. The review process will generally focus on evaluating the manager's performance and capabilities in the following areas:

- Past CLO performance, including par erosion through defaults, recoveries and trading history (gains/losses) of current and prior CLO managed;
- proficiency in the underlying asset classes, integrity of the investment process, investment criteria, decision-making and monitoring processes;
- consistency of historic performance, with an emphasis on performance during a credit down cycle;
- knowledge of CLO structures and the ability to manage the assets within the limitations imposed by indenture constraints;
- upgrade and downgrade history of its prior transactions;
- key personnel, retention arrangements and succession plan, and experience and depth of the entire investment team; and
- technical self-reliance, such as degree of independence from trustee/underwriter to assess impact of potential trades, indenture interpretation, etc.; and
- sophistication of systems, compliance procedures and reporting capabilities.

Structural Considerations. A review of the CLO structure will generally focus on the indenture (the governing document of the transaction) provisions that determine which assets may be purchased by the vehicle, as well as the mechanics behind the cash-flow "waterfall" (i.e., priority of payments). The cash-flow "waterfall" determines the order in which cash disbursements are made on each payment date according to the performance of the transaction. In the event of performance deterioration, cash flow may be diverted from lower tranches of the capital structure to prepay the senior or mezzanine tranches, reduce the leverage, and, if possible, restore compliance with the appropriate tests.

Further structural analysis by the Investment Manager includes a thorough review of indenture provisions which generally include:

- asset eligibility – the types and required features of the assets permitted to be purchased for the CLO (e.g., loans, rating requirements, maturity restrictions, interest payment frequency, etc.);

- "basket" limitations – percentage limits on securities bearing certain ratings, maximum permitted percentages for certain asset types (e.g., synthetic instruments, structured notes, zero-coupon bonds, etc.);

- trading restrictions – the level of discretionary trading allowed, rules for trading and how they may change in the event that the liabilities are downgraded;

- reinvestment criteria – the rules that govern reinvestment of principal proceeds generated from sales, maturities, calls and tenders during and after the reinvestment period;

- priority of payments – structure of the CLO's cash-flow waterfall and cash-flow diversion mechanisms (the over-collateralization and interest coverage tests); if earlier cash-flow diversion results in deferral of interest payments to certain tranches, these rules determine how deferred interest gets paid when the funds are available and what the protections or risks are for each investor in the CLO;

- management fee structure – senior, subordinate, incentive, contingent fees; generally, proper fee structure is key in aligning the manager's interest with various note holders; and an equity investor would favor a structure that compensates the manager for managing the transaction while providing an incentive to maintain equity distributions without sacrificing the future health of the transaction;

- collateral quality tests haircuts – if a certain "basket" is larger than its limitation, overcollateralization tests may be reduced by the amount above the limitation;

- analysis of the hedging strategy and of the hedge structure is important in evaluating implications of any mismatch between fixed rate assets and floating rate liabilities; the hedge instrument is valued and the effectiveness of the strategy is evaluated based on various criteria, such as where the termination payments are positioned in the waterfall, whether payments are made upfront or over time and how the notional amount changes over time; improper hedging can prove very costly to investors at all levels of the capital structure;

- governance provisions and voting rights – the rights of investors in different tranches of the capital structure to effect changes (e.g., manager removal, collateral disposition, note redemption, etc.);

- events of default – definitions and implications for each tranche holder; and

- reporting – the frequency and detail provided to the investors updating the portfolio and liability performance and composition.

Legal/Other Issue Analysis. Legal review will generally be an integral part of the Investment Manager's overall investment process with the goal of understanding and interpreting the numerous documents that govern a typical CLO. Reviewed documents and legal issues may include the following:

- the indenture – the CLO's governing document that acts as a "roadmap" for the entire transaction;

- legal opinions – these provide guidance as to tax treatment and other legal areas that may impact the management of the transaction;

- the management/advisory agreements – these dictate the role, rights and responsibilities of the manager;

- legal structure of equity securities – the structure of the preference shares or income notes may have an impact on the tax treatment;

- financial guaranty agreements – a financial guarantor is typically a monoline insurance company which in the past may have given its rating, usually Aaa/AAA to the senior class of notes to guarantee payments of principal and interest in exchange for a fee and additional rights within the CLO; such rights are important to evaluate as they may have an impact on the rights of the equity investors;

- ratings – agency, analyst, location, timing and basic assumptions used to arrive at the ratings; and

- offering memoranda, deal pitch books and other marketing materials.

Detailed Quantitative Analysis Using Proprietary Analytics. A detailed cash flow analysis is crucial in determining the return characteristics and profile of the tranche under consideration. The cash flows will generally be stress-tested using multiple economic scenarios and assumptions to assess the risk and return profile of the proposed CLO investment. Among other items, the quantitative analysis will also include the following:

- a review of the portfolio market value, the resulting market value coverage of the proposed CLO investment, and its change over time;

- the likelihood of future cash flows being diverted or interrupted, as well as the potential severity in the event that it happens;

- analysis of par value and interest coverage cushions. Cushions in the overcollateralization and the interest coverage tests may indicate the level of losses that can be sustained before a potential cash flow diversion; and

- analysis of sector and issuer concentrations, largest exposures and level of diversification.

Final Screen/ Pricing. The Investment Manager's investment decision will generally be based on the qualitative and quantitative analysis of each investment and on the correlation between the proposed investment and the existing holdings in an effort to ensure an appropriate level of diversification. The Investment Manager will generally compare the risk and return characteristics of the proposed CLO investment against similar CLO bond trade prices in its proprietary pricing database. The combined assessment of the underlying portfolio characteristics, structural considerations, legal and cash flow scenario analyses will generally be compared with the relative value analysis to determine the value of the proposed CLO investment.

Leverage

The Investment Manager may cause the Partnership to undertake leverage. Leverage may take a variety of forms, including, but not limited to, the following: long-term loans, convertible notes and repurchase arrangements. Entering into short sales and certain types of derivative instruments may also increase the Partnership's use of leverage. Leverage arrangements used by the Partnership when financing is contingent on the market value of the financed assets may include those which may be subject to mark-to-market collateral or margin calls.

Important Notice

The foregoing description of the Partnership's investment program does not purport to be a complete explanation of all the asset classes or securities in which the Partnership may invest. In general, the Investment Manager intends to follow a flexible approach in order to place the Partnership in the best position to capitalize on opportunities in the financial markets. Accordingly, the Investment Manager may employ other strategies and may take advantage of opportunities in diverse asset classes if they meet the Investment Manager's standards of investment merit.

DEVELOPMENT AND RISKS OF INVESTMENT MANAGER'S INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The development of an investment strategy is a continuous process, and the Partnership's investment strategy and methods may therefore be modified from time to time. The Partnership's investment methods are confidential, and the descriptions of them in this Memorandum are not exhaustive. The Partnership's investment strategies may differ from those used by the Investment Manager and its affiliates with respect to other accounts they manage. Investment decisions require the exercise of judgment by the Investment Manager. The Investment Manager may, at times, decide not to make certain investments, thereby foregoing participation in price movements, which would have yielded profits or avoided losses. Limited Partners cannot be assured that the strategies or methods utilized by the Investment Manager will result in profitable investing for the Partnership.

The Partnership's investment program entails substantial risks, and there can be no assurance that its investment objectives will be achieved. The practices of options trading, short selling, the use of leverage and other investment techniques employed by the Partnership can, in certain circumstances, maximize the adverse impact to which the Partnership's investment portfolio may be subject. See "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST—Market Risks".

References herein to the Partnership shall be deemed to apply with respect to the Partnership's traded investments.

BROKERAGE ARRANGEMENTS

The Investment Manager is responsible for the placement of the portfolio transactions of the Partnership and the negotiation of any commissions paid on such transactions. Portfolio securities normally are purchased through brokers on securities exchanges or directly from the issuer or from an underwriter or market maker for the securities. Purchases of portfolio instruments through brokers involve a commission to the broker. Purchases of portfolio securities from dealers serving as market makers include the spread between the "bid" and the "ask" price. The Investment Manager will not commit to provide any level of brokerage business to any broker. The Investment Manager may utilize the services of one or more introducing brokers who will execute the Partnership's brokerage transactions through a broker or custodian who will clear the Partnership's transactions.

Securities transactions for the Partnership are executed through brokers selected by the Investment Manager in its sole discretion and without the consent of the Partnership. In placing portfolio transactions, the Investment Manager will seek to obtain the best execution for the Partnership, taking into account the following factors: the ability to effect prompt and reliable executions at favorable prices (including the applicable dealer spread or commission, if any); the operational efficiency with which transactions are effected and the efficiency of error resolution, taking into account the size of order and difficulty of execution; the financial strength, integrity and stability of the broker; special execution capabilities; reputation; clearance, settlement, on-line pricing, block trading and block positioning capabilities; willingness to execute related or unrelated difficult transactions in the future; order of call; online access to computerized data regarding clients' accounts; performance measurement data; the quality, comprehensiveness and frequency of available brokerage and research products and services considered to be of value; the availability of stocks to borrow for short trades; and the competitiveness of commission rates in comparison with other brokers satisfying the Investment Manager's other selection criteria.

SOFT DOLLAR ARRANGEMENTS

The term "soft dollars" refers to commissions accumulated by brokers based on an investment manager's transactions, on behalf of its clients, which may be used by the investment manager to acquire various products or services. The use of client commissions, known as soft dollars, to pay for these products and services, including research and brokerage products and services, presents investment managers with potential conflicts of interest and may give incentives for investment managers to use certain brokers without regard to their obligations to their clients.

The Investment Manager may use soft dollars generated by the Partnership's brokerage transactions to pay for brokerage and research products and services that fall within the safe harbor afforded by Section 28(e) of the Exchange Act ("Section 28(e)"). Section 28(e) provides a "safe harbor" to investment managers who use soft dollars to obtain investment research and brokerage products and services. In order to qualify for the safe harbor, the products or services must provide assistance to the investment manager in the performance of its investment decision-making responsibilities, or must relate to the execution, clearance or settlement of a trade.

REFERRAL OF INVESTORS AND SALES CHARGES

The Investment Manager may direct some Partnership brokerage business to brokers who refer prospective investors to the Partnership. Because such referrals, if any, are likely to benefit the Investment Manager and its affiliates but will provide an insignificant (if any) benefit to Limited Partners, the Investment Manager will have a conflict of interest with the Partnership when allocating Partnership brokerage business to a broker who has referred investors to the Partnership. To prevent Partnership brokerage commissions from being used to pay investor referral fees, the Investment Manager will not allocate Partnership brokerage business to a referring broker unless the Investment Manager determines in good faith that the commissions payable to such broker are reasonable in relation to those available from non-referring brokers offering services of substantially equal value to the Partnership.

The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may sell Interests through broker-dealers and pay a marketing fee or commission in connection with such activities, including ongoing payments, at the General Partner's or the Investment Manager's own expense. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may also deduct a percentage of the amount invested by a Limited Partner in the Partnership to pay sales fees or charges, on a fully disclosed basis, to a broker-dealer based upon the capital contribution of such Limited Partner introduced to the Partnership by such broker-dealer. Any such sales fees or charges would be assessed against the referred Limited Partner and would reduce the amount actually invested by such Limited Partner in the Partnership. If a Limited Partner is introduced to the Partnership through a broker-dealer that is not affiliated with the Investment Manager and/or the General Partner, the arrangement, if any, with such broker-dealer will be disclosed to, and acknowledged by, such Limited Partner.

ALLOCATION OF INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES

The Investment Manager may at times determine that certain investments will be suitable for acquisition by the Partnership and by other accounts managed by the Investment Manager, including Affiliated Funds, the Investment Manager's own accounts or accounts of an affiliate. If that occurs, and the Investment Manager is not able to acquire the desired aggregate amount of such investments on terms and conditions which the Investment Manager deems advisable, the Investment Manager will endeavor to allocate in good faith the limited amount of such investments acquired among the various accounts for which the Investment Manager considers them to be suitable. The Investment Manager may make such allocations among the accounts in any manner which it considers to be fair under the circumstances, including, but not limited to, allocations based on relative account sizes, the degree of risk involved in the investments acquired, and the extent to which such investments are consistent with the investment policies and strategies of the various accounts involved.

AGGREGATION OF ORDERS

The Investment Manager may aggregate purchase and sale orders of investments held by the Partnership with similar orders being made simultaneously for other accounts or entities if, in the Investment Manager's reasonable judgment, such aggregation is reasonably likely to result in an overall economic benefit to the Partnership based on an evaluation that the Partnership will be benefited by relatively better purchase or sale prices, lower commission expenses or beneficial timing of transactions, or a combination of these and other factors.

In some instances, the purchase or sale of investments for the Partnership may be effected simultaneously with the purchase or sale of like investments for other accounts or entities. Such transactions may be made at slightly different prices, due to the volume of investments purchased or sold. In such event, the average price of all investments purchased or sold in such transactions may be determined, at the Investment Manager's sole discretion, and the Partnership may be charged or credited, as the case may be, with the average transaction price.

TRADE ERROR POLICY

The Investment Manager has internal controls in place to prevent trade errors from occurring. On those occasions when such an error nonetheless occurs, the Investment

Manager will use reasonable efforts to correct the error. If the error cannot be corrected, the Investment Manager does not intend to make any adjustment, regardless of whether the error works to the benefit or detriment of the Partnership. The Investment Manager will endeavor to maintain a record of each trade error, including information about the trade and how such error was corrected or attempted to be corrected. The Partnership (and not the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates) will be responsible for any losses resulting from trading errors and similar human errors, unless such errors are due to gross negligence or willful misconduct, as determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction.

An investment in the Partnership (and any Series thereof) involves significant risks not associated with other investment vehicles and is suitable only for persons of adequate financial means who have no need for liquidity in this investment. There can be no assurances or guarantees that: (i) the Partnership's (or any Series') investment strategy will prove successful, or (ii) investors will not lose all or a portion of their investment in the Partnership (or any particular Series).

References herein to the Partnership shall include, where appropriate: (i) each Series of the Partnership; (ii) the instances whereby the Investment Manager directly invests the Partnership's assets, and (iii) the Partnership's investments through Portfolio Funds.

In addition, to the extent relevant, you should also read the offering and governing documents of the PE Portfolio Fund in which the Partnership intends to initially invest on behalf of the initial Limited Partners, which are available from the Partnership upon request.

You should consider the Partnership as a supplement to an overall investment program and should only invest if you are willing to undertake the risks involved. In addition, investors who are subject to income tax should be aware that an investment in the Partnership (or any Series thereof) is likely (if the Partnership (or such Series) is successful) to create taxable income or tax liabilities in excess of cash distributions to pay such liabilities. You should therefore bear in mind the following risk factors and conflicts of interest before purchasing an Interest:

PARTNERSHIP RISKS

Dependence Upon the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Principal; No Participation in Management. The Partnership's success will depend on the management of the General Partner and the Investment Manager and on the skill and acumen of the Principal. If the Principal should cease to participate in the Partnership's business, the Partnership's ability to select attractive investments and manage its portfolio could be severely impaired.

As a Limited Partner, you should be aware that you will have no right to participate in the management of the Partnership, and you will have no opportunity to select or evaluate any of the Partnership's investments or strategies. Accordingly, you should not invest in the Partnership unless you are willing to entrust all aspects of the management of the Partnership and its investments to the discretion of the General Partner and the Investment Manager.

Limited or Lack of Operating History. Each of the Partnership, the Investment Manager and the General Partner are recently-formed entities that have no operating history upon which prospective investors may evaluate the Partnership's future performance. Although the Principal has experience with investments of the type the Partnership intends to make, any prior performance of the Principal (or the Investment Manager Affiliates) is not necessarily indicative of results that he may achieve with respect to the Partnership. As such, there can be no assurances that the Partnership will be able to implement its investment strategy or achieve its investment objective. In addition, any prior performance of the Principal or the Investment Manager Affiliates is not indicative of the results each may achieve for the Partnership in the future.

Reliance on the Shared Services Provider. The Investment Manager relies on the Shared Services Provider to provide certain administrative and other services. In the event that the Shared Services Agreement is terminated for any reason, the Investment Manager may not be able to engage another third party to provide such services and may not have the resources to continue advising the Partnership without the provision of such services by the Shared Services Provider. In addition, the Shared Services Provider may be (but, as of the date hereof, is not) engaged by the Partnership to act as the Partnership's Administrator, pursuant to a separate Administration Agreement.

Limited Liquidity of Interests. An investment in the Partnership involves substantial restrictions on liquidity, and its Interests are not freely transferable. There is no market for the Interests in the Partnership, and no market is expected to develop. Additionally, transfers are subject to the consent of the General Partner, which consent may be granted or withheld in the General Partner's sole discretion. Consequently, Limited Partners will be unable to liquidate their Interests except by withdrawing from the Partnership in accordance with the Partnership Agreement. Limited Partners may be unable to liquidate their investment promptly in the event of an emergency or for any other reason. Although a Limited Partner may attempt to increase its liquidity by borrowing from a bank or other institution, Interests may not readily be accepted as collateral for a loan. In addition, the transfer of an Interest as collateral or otherwise to achieve liquidity may result in adverse tax consequences to the transferor.

A portion of the Partnership's assets may be invested in securities and other financial instruments or obligations for which no market exists and/or which are restricted as to their transferability under federal or state securities laws. Such investments may be segregated from other Partnership assets and carried in Side Pocket Accounts, which are subject to restrictions on withdrawals. Because of the absence of any trading market for these investments, the Partnership may take longer to liquidate these positions than would be the case for publicly traded securities. Although these securities may be resold in privately negotiated transactions, the prices realized on these sales could be less than those originally paid by the Partnership. Further, companies whose securities are not publicly traded may not be subject to public disclosure and other investor protection requirements applicable to publicly traded securities.

Lack of Registration. The Interests have neither been registered under the Securities Act nor under the securities laws of any state and, therefore, are subject to transfer restrictions. In connection with your purchase of an Interest, you must represent that you are purchasing the Interest for investment purposes only and not with a view toward resale or distribution. Neither the Partnership nor the General Partner has any plans or assumed any obligation to register the Interests. Accordingly, the Interests may not be transferred without documentation acceptable to the General Partner, which may include an opinion of counsel to the Partnership that the transfer will not involve a violation of the registration requirements of the Securities Act or require registration by the Partnership under the Investment Company Act. These restrictions on transfer are in addition to those found in the Partnership Agreement. Ordinarily, this means that transfers will be restricted to instances of death, gift or passage by operation of law.

Withdrawal of Capital. A Limited Partner's ability to withdraw funds from the Partnership is restricted in accordance with the withdrawal provisions contained in this Memorandum under "SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS—Withdrawals" and the withdrawal provisions contained in the Partnership Agreement. In addition, substantial withdrawals by investors within a short period of time could require the Partnership to liquidate securities positions and other investments more rapidly than would otherwise be desirable, possibly reducing the value of the Partnership's assets and/or disrupting the Partnership's investment strategy. Reduction in the size of the Partnership could make it more difficult to generate a positive return or to recoup losses due to, among other things, reductions in the Partnership's ability to take advantage of particular investment opportunities or decreases in the ratio of its income to its expenses.

In addition to the above limitations on withdrawals, all withdrawals by Limited Partners will be subject to any limitations on withdrawals imposed by the Portfolio Funds.

For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in Side Pocket Accounts; and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the series of the PE Portfolio Fund that corresponds to the latter fund's investment made in the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely. In addition, because of the absence of any trading market Illiquid Investments, the Partnership may take longer to liquidate these positions than would be the case for publicly traded securities. Each of the foregoing may impact a Limited Partner's ability to withdraw.

Concentration of Investments. The Investment Manager implements its investment program in a manner which, in light of investment considerations, market risks and other factors, it believes will provide the best opportunity for attractive risk-adjusted returns in the value of the Partnership's assets. The Partnership Agreement does not formally limit the amount of the Partnership's assets that may be invested in a single company, security, country, industry, sector or asset class. In addition, the Partnership Agreement does not limit the amount of the Partnership's assets that may be invested in a single Portfolio Fund. The concentration of the Partnership's portfolio in any manner described above would subject the Partnership to a greater degree of risk with respect to the failure of one or a few investments, or with respect to economic downturns in relation to an individual industry or sector, or single company, security, country, industry, sector or asset class. See "—Regulatory and Tax Risks—Diversification" herein.

Operating Deficits. The expenses of operating the Partnership (including the Management Fee) may exceed its income, thereby requiring that the difference be paid out of the Partnership's capital, reducing the Partnership's investments and potential for profitability. In addition to the Partnership's own operating expenses, the Partnership will also bear its pro rata share of the operating expenses of the relevant Portfolio Fund. As such, the Partnership is subject to layering of operating expenses due to the expenses charged by the managers and the Portfolio Funds.

No Distributions. The General Partner does not intend to make distributions to the Limited Partners, but intends instead to reinvest substantially all Partnership income and gain, if any. Cash that might otherwise be available for distribution will also be reduced by payment of Partnership obligations, payment of Partnership expenses (including fees payable and expense reimbursements to the General Partner) and establishment of appropriate reserves. As a result, if the Partnership is profitable, Limited Partners in all likelihood will be credited with Partnership net income, and will incur the consequent income tax liability (to the extent that they are subject to income tax), even though Limited Partners receive little or no Partnership distributions. In addition, notwithstanding anything to the contrary herein, the General Partner may limit withdrawals in order to ensure that the Partnership meets the diversification requirements applicable to insurance-dedicated investment funds.

Investment Expenses. The investment expenses (e.g., expenses related to the investment and custody of the Partnership's assets, such as brokerage commissions, custodial fees and other trading and investment charges and fees) as well as other Partnership fees may, in the aggregate, constitute a high percentage relative to other investment entities. The Partnership will bear these costs regardless of its profitability.

Cross-Series Liability. Section 17-218 of the Delaware Act provides that limited partnerships can be established in separate series in a manner that the liabilities and obligations incurred with respect to any series are only enforceable against the assets of such series, and not against the assets of the limited partnership generally or any other series. The relevant provisions of the Delaware Act provide the legal requirements for how limited partnerships can be established and operated to maintain this segregation. The statute includes such requirements as the maintenance of separate books and records for each series, and separation of the assets of each series from other series. Despite these statutory provisions, there may be instances where the assets of a particular Series may be exposed to the liabilities of one or more other Series. For example, there may be certain counterparties which resist entering into a contract with a particular Series and insist that one or more other Series, or the Partnership itself acting on behalf of the Series together, enter into such contract.

Supervision of Trading Operations. The Investment Manager, with assistance from its brokerage and clearing firms, intends to supervise and monitor trading activity in the Partnership's account to ensure compliance with the Partnership's objectives. Despite the Investment Manager's efforts, however, there is a risk that unauthorized or otherwise inappropriate trading activity may occur in the Partnership account.

Impact of Side Letters. The Partnership, the General Partner and/or the Investment

Manager may from time to time enter into Side Letters with one or more Limited Partners that provide such Limited Partner(s) with additional and/or different rights (including, without limitation, with respect to access to information, minimum investment amounts and liquidity terms) than such Limited Partner(s) have pursuant to this Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement. Neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager will be required to notify any or all of the other Limited Partners of any such written agreements or any of the rights and/or terms or provisions thereof, nor will the General Partner or the Investment Manager be required to offer such additional and/or different rights and/or terms to any or all of the other Limited Partners. Specifically, certain Insurance Company Limited Partners may have additional withdrawal rights not offered to other Limited Partners. The other Limited Partners will have no recourse against the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or any of their respective affiliates in the event that certain Limited Partners receive additional and/or different rights and/or terms as a result of such Side Letters.

Broad Discretionary Power to Choose Investments and Strategies. The Investment Management Agreement gives the Investment Manager broad discretionary power to decide what investments the Partnership will make and what strategies it will use. While the Investment Manager currently intends to use the strategies described in "INVESTMENT PROGRAM", it is not obligated to do so, and it may choose any other investments and strategies that it believes are advisable.

Limitation of Liability and Indemnification of the General Partner, the Investment Manager and Affiliates. The Partnership Agreement provides that none of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates will be liable to the Partnership or the Limited Partners for any action or inaction in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership unless such action or inaction is determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. The Partnership (but not the Limited Partners individually) is obligated to indemnify the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates (which, for purposes of this indemnity, shall include fund counsel (except for legal malpractice)) from and against any and all claims, liabilities, obligations, judgments, suits, proceedings, actions, demands, losses, costs, expenses (including attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation), damages, penalties or interest, as a result of any claim or legal proceeding (made or threatened) related to any action or inaction by any of them in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership (including the settlement or appeal of any such claim or legal proceeding); provided that such indemnity will not extend to conduct determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. The Investment Management Agreement also provides similar protections to the Investment Manager. Therefore, a Limited Partner may have a more limited right of action against the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates than a Limited Partner would have had absent these provisions in the Partnership Agreement and the Investment Management Agreement. It is the policy of the SEC that indemnification for violations of securities laws is against public policy and therefore unenforceable.

No Minimum Size of Partnership. The Partnership may begin or continue operations without attaining or maintaining any particular level of capitalization. At low asset levels, the Partnership may be unable to make its investments as fully as would otherwise be desirable or to take advantage of potential economies of scale, including the ability to obtain the most timely and valuable research and trading information from securities brokers. It is possible that even if the Partnership operates for a period with substantial capital, investors' withdrawals could diminish the Partnership assets to a level that does not permit the most efficient and effective implementation of the Partnership's investment program. As a result of losses or withdrawals, the Partnership may not have sufficient capital to diversify its investments to the extent desired or currently contemplated by the Investment Manager.

Portfolio Valuation. Valuation of the Partnership's portfolio, which will affect the amount of the Management Fee, involves uncertainties and determinations based on judgments.

Third-party pricing information may, at times, not be available regarding certain of the Partnership's investments. A disruption in the secondary markets for the Partnership's investments may limit the ability of the Partnership to obtain accurate market quotations for purposes of valuing its investments. In addition, material events occurring after the close of a principal market upon which a portion of the investments of the Partnership are traded may require it to make a determination of the effect of a material event on the value of the investments traded on the market for purposes of determining the value of the Partnership's investments on a valuation date. Further, because of the overall size and concentrations in particular markets and maturities of positions that may be held by the Partnership from time to time, the liquidation values of the Partnership's securities and other investments may differ significantly from the interim valuations of these investments derived from the valuation methods described herein. Moreover, because of the inherent uncertainty of valuing an illiquid security, the quoted valuation may be higher than the actual final liquidation value, and these differences could be material. If the Partnership's valuation should prove to be incorrect, the value of the Partnership's investments could be adversely affected.

Liability of a Limited Partner for the Return of Capital Contributions. If the Partnership should become insolvent, Limited Partner may be obligated to return all or a portion of any distributions (including withdrawal proceeds) received from the Partnership in an amount up to its aggregate capital contributions (including any income or gains thereon) to the Partnership in order to pay such Limited Partner's pro rata share of any Partnership liabilities that arose while such Limited Partner held Interests.

Under the Delaware Act, when a Limited Partner receives a return of all or any part of such Limited Partner's capital contribution, the Limited Partner may be liable to the Partnership for any sum, not in excess of such return of capital (together with interest), if at the time of such distribution the Limited Partner knew that the Partnership was prohibited from making such distribution pursuant to the Delaware Act.

Delayed Schedule K-1s. The General Partner will endeavor to provide a Schedule K-1 to each Limited Partner for any given calendar year prior to April 15 of the following year. In addition, the Partnership will first have to receive a Schedule K-1 from each Portfolio Fund. In the event that the Schedule K-1 is not available by such date, a Limited Partner may have to request an extension of time to file or may have to pay taxes based on an estimated amount.

Lack of Insurance. The assets of the Partnership are not insured by any government or private insurer, except to the extent portions may be deposited in bank accounts insured by the United States Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or with brokers insured by the Securities Investor Protection Corporation and such deposits and securities are subject to such insurance coverage (which, in any event, is limited in amount). Therefore, in the event of the insolvency of a depository or custodian, the Partnership may be unable to recover all of its funds or the value of its securities so deposited.

Forward-Looking Statements; Opinions. Statements contained in this Memorandum that are not historical facts are based on current expectations, estimates, projections, opinions and/or beliefs of the Partnership. Such statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors, and undue reliance should not be placed thereon. Moreover, certain information contained in this Memorandum constitutes "forward-looking" statements, which can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology, such as "may", "will", "seek", "should", "expect", "anticipate", "project", "estimate", "intend", "continue" or "believe" or the negatives thereof or other variations thereon or comparable terminology. Due to various risks and uncertainties, including those set forth herein, actual events or results or the actual performance of the Partnership may differ materially from those reflected or contemplated in such forward-looking statements.

MARKET RISKS

General

Competition Generally. The securities industry and the varied strategies and techniques to be engaged in by the Investment Manager are extremely competitive and each involves a degree of risk. The Partnership will compete with firms, including many of the larger securities and investment banking firms, which have substantially greater financial resources and research staffs. Further, lower fees for comparable services may be available from these or other firms.

Market Volatility. The profitability of the Partnership substantially depends upon the Investment Manager correctly assessing the future price movements of bonds, stocks, options on stocks, and other financial instruments, and the movements of interest rates. The Partnership cannot guarantee that the Investment Manager will be successful in accurately predicting those prices and interest rate movements.

Partnership's Investment Activities. The Partnership's investment activities involve a significant degree of risk. The performance of any investment is subject to numerous factors which are neither within the control of nor predictable by the Investment Manager. Such factors include a wide range of economic, political, competitive, technological and other conditions (including natural disasters, acts of terrorism and war) that may affect investments in general or specific industries or companies. The securities markets may be volatile, which may adversely affect the ability of the Partnership to realize profits. As a result of the nature of the Partnership's investing activities, it is possible that the Partnership's financial performance may fluctuate substantially over time and from period to period.

Terrorist Actions. There is a risk of terrorist attacks on the United States and elsewhere causing significant loss of life and property damage and disruptions in the global market. Economic and diplomatic sanctions may be in place or imposed on certain states and military action may be commenced. The impact of such events is unclear, but could have a material effect on general economic conditions and market liquidity.

Unforeseen Events. The Partnership may be adversely affected by unforeseen events involving such matters as changes in interest rates or the credit status of an issuer, forced withdrawals of securities or acquisition proposals, break-up of planned mergers, unexpected changes in relative value, short squeezes, inability to short stock or changes in tax treatment.

Potential Cybersecurity Breaches and Identity Theft. The Investment Manager relies, to a certain extent, on the use of information technology. The Investment Manager's information and technology systems may be vulnerable to damage and/or interruption from computer viruses, network failures, computer and telecommunication failures, infiltration by unauthorized persons and security breaches, usage errors by its professionals, power outages, and/or catastrophic events such as fires, tornadoes, floods, hurricanes and earthquakes. Although the Investment Manager has implemented various measures to manage risks relating to these types of events, if these systems are compromised, become inoperable for extended periods of time and/or cease to function properly, the Investment Manager and/or the Partnership may have to make a significant investment to fix or replace them. The failure of these systems and/or of disaster recovery plans for any reason could cause significant interruptions in the Investment Manager's and/or the Partnership's operations and may result in a failure to maintain the security, confidentiality or privacy of sensitive data, including personal information relating to investors (and the beneficial owners of investors). Such a failure could harm the Investment Manager's and/or the Partnership's reputation, subject any such entity and their respective affiliates to legal claims and/or otherwise affect their business and financial performance.

Long-Biased Investment Program. The Investment Manager expects that its strategy with respect to the Partnership will have a long bias. Therefore, any decline in the overall market may result in a decline in the value of the Partnership's assets.

Market Liquidity and Leverage. The Partnership may be adversely affected by a decrease in market liquidity for the instruments in which it invests which may impair the Partnership's ability to adjust its positions. The size of the Partnership's positions may magnify the effect of a decrease in market liquidity for such instruments. Changes in overall market leverage, deleveraging as a consequence of a decision by the brokers and/or custodians, or other counterparties with which the Partnership enters into repurchase/reverse repurchase agreements or derivative transactions, to reduce the level of leverage available, or the liquidation by other market participants of the same or similar positions, may also adversely affect the Partnership's portfolio.

Material Non-Public Information. By reason of their responsibilities in connection with other activities of the Investment Manager and/or its affiliates, the Principal or employees of the Investment Manager and/or its affiliates may acquire confidential or material non-public information or be restricted from initiating transactions in certain securities. The Partnership will not be free to act upon any such information. Due to these restrictions, the Partnership may not be able to initiate a transaction that it otherwise might have initiated and may not be able to sell an investment that it otherwise might have sold.

Accuracy of Public Information. The Investment Manager may select investments for the Partnership, in part, on the basis of information and data filed by issuers with various government regulators or made directly available to the Investment Manager by the issuers or through sources other than the issuers. Although the Investment Manager evaluates certain such information and data and sometimes seeks independent corroboration when the Investment Manager considers it is appropriate and when it is reasonably available, the Investment Manager is not in a position to confirm the completeness, genuineness or accuracy of such information and data, and in some cases, complete and accurate information is not available. Investments may not perform as expected if information is inaccurate.

Directorships on Boards of Portfolio Companies. The principals and other members and employees of the Investment Manager or its designees may serve as directors of companies the securities of which are purchased or sold on behalf of the Partnership and may be compensated for such service. In the event that material non-public information obtained with respect to such companies becomes subject to trading restrictions pursuant to the internal trading policies of such companies or as a result of applicable law or regulations, the Partnership may be prohibited for a period of time from purchasing or selling the securities of such companies, which prohibition may have an adverse effect on the Partnership.

Short-Swing Liability and Other Limitations. From time to time, the Partnership, acting alone or as part of a group, may acquire beneficial ownership of more than 10% of a certain class of securities of a public company, or may place a director on the board of directors of such a company. As a result, under Section 16 of the Exchange Act, the Partnership may be subject to certain additional reporting requirements and may be required to disgorge certain short-swing profits arising from purchases and sales of such securities. In addition, in such circumstances the Partnership will be prohibited from entering into a short position in such issuer's securities, and therefore limited in its ability to hedge such investments.

Disruptions or Inability to Trade Due to a Failure to Receive Timely and Accurate Market Data from Third-Party Vendors. The Investment Manager's strategy may depend on the receipt of timely and accurate market data from third-party vendors. Any failure to receive such data in a timely manner or the receipt of inaccurate data for any reason could disrupt and adversely affect the Partnership's trading until such failure or inaccuracy is corrected.

Use of Automated Order Routing and Execution Systems Generally. The Investment Manager may use automated order routing and execution systems in its trading. Such systems are typically provided on an "as is" basis. Such systems may experience technical difficulties which may render them temporarily unavailable. In addition, such systems may fail to properly perform. Such failures may result in losses to the Partnership, for which losses the providers of such services have disclaimed all liability. In an effort to mitigate such risks, the Investment Manager intends to closely monitor trades executed through automated order routing and execution systems and the operation of the systems themselves.

Electronic Trading Facilities. The Partnership may make use of electronic trading facilities (including ECNs), which are generally supported by computer-based component systems for the order-routing, execution, matching, registration or clearing of trades. As with all facilities and systems, they are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure. Trading on an electronic trading system (including an ECN) may differ not only from trading in an open-outcry market or telephonic market but also from trading on other electronic trading systems. The Partnership, in undertaking transactions on an electronic trading system, will be exposed to risk associated with the system including the failure of hardware and software. The result of any system failure may be that the Partnership's order is either not executed according to its instructions or is not executed at all. The Partnership's ability to limit or recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by, without limitation, foreign or domestic law or regulation, the Partnership's own or its broker's internet service provider, other systems providers, market factors, foreign or domestic banking or other market regulations and/or telephonic or other communications providers, foreign or domestic.

Technology Risk. The Investment Manager's investment strategy may rely on the use of proprietary and non-proprietary software, data and intellectual property. Any such reliance on this technology and data is subject to a number of important risks. First, the Partnership may be severely and adversely affected by the malfunction of the technology and/or data feed. For example, an unforeseeable software or hardware malfunction could occur, as a result of a virus or other outside force, or as result of a design flaw in the Partnership's system or in its continued implementation. In the past, occurrences of this nature to other funds have sometimes resulted in dramatically negative consequences for the portfolio of the related fund. In addition, changes in the market for publicly available data or in regulatory reporting requirements could cause a severe diminution in the data available for the technology to operate as designed. Such events can also have dramatically negative consequences for the Partnership. Furthermore, if any of the Partnership's software, hardware, data and/or other intellectual property is found to infringe on the rights of any third party, the Partnership could be severely and adversely affected.

Trading Errors. The Investment Manager's computerized trading systems rely on the ability of the Investment Manager's personnel to accurately process such systems' outputs and to use the proper trading orders, including stop-loss or limit orders, to execute the transactions called for by the systems. In addition, the Investment Manager relies on its staff to properly operate and maintain the computer and communication systems upon which the trading systems rely. The Investment Manager's systems are accordingly subject to human errors, including the failure to implement, or the inaccurate implementation of any of the Investment Manager's systems, in addition to errors in properly executing transactions. This could cause substantial losses on transactions, and any such losses could substantially and adversely affect the performance of the Partnership. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES–Trade Error Policy" herein.

Co-Investments with Third Parties. The Partnership may co-invest with third parties through joint ventures or other entities. Such investments may involve risks in connection with such third- party involvement, including the possibility that a third-party co-venturer may have financial difficulties resulting in a negative impact on such investment, economic or business interests or goals that are inconsistent with those of the Partnership or be in a position to take (or block) action in a manner contrary to the Partnership's investment objectives. In those circumstances where such third parties involve a management group, such third parties may enter into compensation arrangements relating to such investments, including incentive compensation arrangements. Such compensation arrangements will reduce the returns to participants in the investments.

Other Investment Vehicles; Limited Recourse. The Investment Manager may allocate a portion of the Partnership's assets to pooled investment vehicles that may be managed by the Investment Manager or its affiliates or unaffiliated managers. Such investment vehicles may trade wholly-independently of one another and may at times hold economically offsetting positions. To the extent that such investment vehicles do, in fact, hold such positions, the Partnership, considered as a whole, may not achieve any gain or loss despite incurring expenses. Additionally, a creditor having a claim that relates to a particular investment held by any such investment vehicle may be able to satisfy such claim against all assets of such investment vehicle, without regard to the participation rights of the Partnership and other investors of such investment vehicle in the assets of such investment vehicle.

Since the Partnership may not have full transparency with respect to the trading activities of such investment vehicles, it may be limited in its ability to hedge its exposure or to prevent concentration of its assets within the same issuer, asset or asset class, industry, section, strategy, currency, country or geographic region. Further, the Investment Manager may be limited with respect to its ability to monitor unaffiliated managers, including their adherence to their respective trading and risk guidelines (if such guidelines exist). Even in the event that such information may be available to the Partnership, the Partnership's investment in such investment vehicles may be "locked up" and subject to limitations on withdrawals, and in light of the broad exculpation and indemnification provisions typically contained in the governing documents of such investment vehicles, may have limited recourse against the managers of such investment vehicles.

Risks Associated with ETFs. The Partnership may invest in ETFs. ETFs represent an interest in a passively managed portfolio of securities and financial instruments selected to replicate a securities or financial instruments index. Unlike open-end mutual funds, the shares of ETFs are not purchased and redeemed by investors directly with the ETF, but instead are purchased and sold through broker-dealers in transactions on an exchange. Because ETF shares are traded on an exchange, they may trade at a discount from or a premium to the net asset value per share of the underlying portfolio of securities or financial instruments. In addition to bearing the risks related to investments in securities or financial instruments, investors in ETFs intended to replicate an index bear the risk that the ETFs performance may not correctly replicate the performance of the index. Investors in ETFs, closed-end funds and other investment companies bear a proportionate share of the expenses of those funds, including management fees, custodial and accounting costs, and other expenses. As such, the Partnership is subject to layering of such fees. Trading in ETF and closed-end fund shares also entails payment of brokerage commissions and other transaction costs.

Illiquid Securities. From time to time, the Partnership may invest in financial instruments that are not publicly traded. The Partnership may also invest in securities and other financial instruments that trade regularly but may be only thinly traded, either periodically or on an on-going basis. The Partnership may not be able to readily dispose of such financial instruments and, in some cases, may be contractually prohibited from disposing of such financial instruments for a specified period of time. Accordingly, the Partnership may be forced to sell its more liquid positions at a disadvantageous time, resulting in a greater percentage of the portfolio consisting of illiquid securities. In addition, the market prices, if any, for such financial instruments tend to be volatile, and the Partnership may not be able to sell them when it desires to do so or to realize what it perceives to be their fair value in the event of a sale. The sale of illiquid securities also often requires more time and results in higher brokerage charges or dealer discounts and other selling expenses than does the sale of securities eligible for trading on national securities exchanges or in the over-the-counter markets. Furthermore, there may be limited information available about the assets of such issuers of the financial instruments which may make valuation of such financial instruments difficult or uncertain. It also should be noted that, even those markets which the Investment Manager expects to be liquid can experience periods, possibly extended periods, of illiquidity.

Investments in Securities and Other Assets Believed to Be Undervalued. The Investment Manager's investment program contemplates that a portion of the Partnership's portfolio may be invested in securities and other assets that the Investment Manager believes to be undervalued. The identification of such investment opportunities is a difficult task, and there are no assurances that such opportunities will be successfully recognized or acquired. While such investments offer the opportunities for above-average capital appreciation, they also involve a high degree of financial risk and can result in substantial losses. Returns generated from the Partnership's investments may not adequately compensate for the business and financial risks assumed. The current economic conditions and any future major economic recession can severely disrupt the markets for such investments and significantly impact their value. In addition, any such economic downturn can adversely affect the ability of the issuers of such obligations to repay principal and pay interest thereon and increase the incidence of default for such securities. Additionally, there can be no assurance that other investors will ever come to realize the value of some of these investments, and that they will ever increase in price. Furthermore, the Partnership may be forced to hold such investments for a substantial period of time before realizing their anticipated value. During this period, a portion of the Partnership's funds would be committed to the investments made, thus possibly preventing the Partnership from investing in other opportunities.

Short Sales. The Investment Manager's investment program contemplates that a portion of the Partnership's portfolio may be invested in selling securities short. Although the Investment Manager may sell short a variety of assets, it expects most short trades to be in equity securities. Short selling involves the sale of a security that the Partnership does not own and must borrow in order to make delivery in the hope of purchasing the same security at a later date at a lower price. In order to make delivery to the purchaser, the Partnership must borrow securities from a third-party lender. The Partnership subsequently returns the borrowed securities to the lender by delivering to the lender the securities it receives in the transaction or by purchasing securities in the open market. The Partnership must generally pledge cash with the lender equal to the market price of the borrowed securities. This deposit may be increased or decreased in accordance with changes in the market price of the borrowed securities. During the period in which the securities are borrowed, the lender typically retains its right to receive interest and dividends accruing to the securities. In exchange, in addition to lending the securities, the lender generally pays the Partnership a fee for the use of the Partnership's cash. This fee is based on prevailing interest rates, the availability of the particular security for borrowing and other market factors.

Theoretically, securities sold short are subject to unlimited risk of loss because there is no limit on the price that a security may appreciate before the short position is closed. In addition, the supply of securities that can be borrowed fluctuates from time to time. The Partnership may be subject to substantial losses if a security lender demands return of the lent securities and an alternative lending source cannot be found.

Small Companies. The Investment Manager may invest a portion of the Partnership's assets in small and/or unseasoned companies with small market capitalizations. While smaller companies generally have potential for rapid growth, they often involve higher risks because they may lack the management experience, financial resources, product diversification and competitive strength of larger companies. In addition, in many instances, the frequency and volume of their trading may be substantially less than is typical of larger companies. As a result, the securities of smaller companies may be subject to wider price fluctuations. When making large sales, the Partnership may have to sell portfolio holdings at discounts from quoted prices or may have to make a series of small sales over an extended period of time due to the lower trading volume of smaller company securities.

Leverage. When deemed appropriate by the Investment Manager and subject to applicable regulations, the Partnership will incur leverage in its investment program, whether directly through the use of borrowed funds, or indirectly through investment in certain types of financial instruments with inherent leverage, such as puts, calls and warrants, which may be purchased for a fraction of the price of the underlying securities while giving the purchaser the full benefit of movement in the market price of those underlying securities. While such strategies and techniques increase the opportunity to achieve higher returns on the amounts invested, they also increase the risk of loss. To the extent that the Partnership purchases securities with borrowed funds, its net assets will tend to increase or decrease at a greater rate than if borrowed funds are not used. The level of interest rates generally, and the rates at which such funds may be borrowed in particular, could affect the operating results of the Partnership. If the interest expense on this leverage were to exceed the net return on the investments made with borrowed funds, the Partnership's use of leverage would result in a lower rate of return than if the Partnership were not leveraged.

If the amount of leverage which the Partnership may have outstanding at any one time is large in relation to its capital, fluctuations in the market value of the Partnership's portfolio will have disproportionately large effects in relation to the Partnership's capital and the possibilities for profit and the risk of loss will therefore be increased. Any investment gains made with the additional leverage will generally cause the Net Asset Value of the Partnership to rise more rapidly than would otherwise be the case. Conversely, if the investment performance of the leveraged capital fails to cover its cost to the Partnership, the Net Asset Value of the Partnership will generally decline faster than would otherwise be the case.

Certain of the Partnership's trading and investment activities in securities and other financial instruments may be subject to Federal Reserve Board margin requirements, which are computed each day. When the market value of a particular open position changes to a point where the margin on deposit does not satisfy maintenance margin requirements, a "margin call" on the customer is made. If the customer does not deposit additional funds with the broker to meet the margin call within a reasonable time, the customer's position may be closed out. In the event of a precipitous drop in the value of the assets managed by the Partnership, the Partnership might not be able to liquidate assets quickly enough to pay off the margin debt and might suffer mandatory liquidation of positions in a declining market at relatively low prices, incurring substantial losses. With respect to the Partnership's trading activities, the Partnership, and not the Limited Partners personally, will be subject to margin calls.

Overall, the use of leverage, while providing the opportunity for a higher return on investments, also increases the volatility of such investments and the risk of loss.

Options and Other Derivative Instruments. The Investment Manager may invest, from time to time, a portion of the Partnership's assets in options and derivative instruments, including buying and writing puts and calls on some of the securities held by the Partnership. The prices of many derivative instruments, including many options and swaps, are highly volatile. The value of options and swap agreements depend primarily upon the price of the securities, indexes, currencies or other instruments underlying them. Price movements of options contracts and payments pursuant to swap agreements are also influenced by, among other things, interest rates, changing supply and demand relationships, trade, fiscal, monetary and exchange control programs and policies of governments, and national and international political and economic events and policies. The Partnership is also subject to the risk of the failure of any of the exchanges on which its positions trade or of their clearinghouses or of counterparties. The cost of options is related, in part, to the degree of volatility of the underlying securities, currencies or other assets. Accordingly, options on highly volatile securities, currencies or other assets may be more expensive than options on other investments.

Put options and call options typically have similar structural characteristics and operational mechanics regardless of the underlying instrument or asset on which they are purchased or sold. A put option gives the purchaser of the option, upon payment of a premium, the right to sell, and the writer the obligation to buy, the underlying security, index, currency or other instrument or asset at the exercise price. A call option, upon payment of a premium, gives the purchaser of the option the right to buy, and the seller the obligation to sell, the underlying instrument or asset at the exercise price.

If a put or call option purchased by the Partnership were permitted to expire without being sold or exercised, the Partnership would lose the entire premium it paid for the option. The risk involved in writing a put option is that there could be a decrease in the market value of the underlying instrument or asset caused by rising interest rates or other factors. If this occurred, the option could be exercised and the underlying instrument or asset would then be sold to the Partnership at a higher price than its current market value. The risk involved in writing a call option is that there could be an increase in the market value of the underlying instrument or asset caused by declining interest rates or other factors. If this occurred, the option could be exercised and the underlying instrument or asset would then be sold by the Partnership at a lower price than its current market value.

Purchasing and writing put and call options and, in particular, writing "uncovered" options are highly specialized activities and entail greater than ordinary investment risks. In particular, the writer of an uncovered call option assumes the risk of a theoretically unlimited increase in the market price of the underlying instrument or asset above the exercise price of the option. This risk is enhanced if the instrument or asset being sold short is highly volatile and there is a significant outstanding short interest. These conditions exist in the stocks of many companies. The instrument or asset necessary to satisfy the exercise of the call option may be unavailable for purchase except at much higher prices. Purchasing instruments or assets to satisfy the exercise of the call option can itself cause the price of the instruments or assets to rise further, sometimes by a significant amount, thereby exacerbating the loss. Accordingly, the sale of an uncovered call option could result in a loss by the Partnership of all or a substantial portion of its assets.

Swaps and certain options and other custom instruments are subject to the risk of non-performance by the counterparty, including risks relating to the financial soundness and creditworthiness of the counterparty.

Hedging Transactions. Investments in financial instruments such as options and interest rate swaps, caps and floors, and other derivatives are commonly utilized by investment funds to hedge against fluctuations in the relative values of its portfolio positions as a result of changes in currency exchange rates, interest rates and/or the equity markets or sectors thereof. Any hedging against a decline in the value of portfolio positions does not eliminate fluctuations in the values of portfolio positions or prevent losses if the values of such positions decline, but establishes other positions designed to gain from those same developments, thus moderating the decline in the portfolio positions' value. Such hedging transactions also limit the opportunity for gain if the value of the portfolio positions should increase. Moreover, it may not be possible for the Partnership to hedge against a fluctuation at a price sufficient to protect the Partnership's assets from the decline in value of the portfolio positions anticipated as a result of such fluctuations. For example, the cost of options is related, in part, to the degree of volatility of the underlying instruments or assets. Accordingly, options on highly volatile instruments or assets may be more expensive than options on other instruments or assets and of limited utility in hedging against fluctuations in their prices.

The Investment Manager is not obligated to establish hedges for portfolio positions and may not do so. To the extent that hedges are implemented, their success is dependent on the Investment Manager's ability to correctly predict movements in the direction of currency and interest rates and the equity markets or sectors thereof.

Market or Interest Rate Risk. The Partnership may, from time to time, invest in fixed income securities and instruments. The price of most fixed income securities move in the opposite direction of the change in interest rates. For example, as interest rates rise, the prices of fixed income securities fall. If the Partnership holds a fixed income security to maturity, the change in its price before maturity may have little impact on the Partnership's performance. However, if the Partnership has to sell the fixed income security before the maturity date, an increase in interest rates could result in a loss to the Partnership.

Callable Securities. Many bonds, including agency, corporate and municipal bonds, and mortgage-backed securities, sometimes contain a provision that allows the issuer to "call" (i.e., redeem) all or part of the issue before the bond's maturity date. The issuer usually retains this right to refinance the bond in the future if market interest rates decline below the coupon rate on the outstanding debt security. From the investor's perspective, there are three disadvantages to the call provision. First, the cash flow pattern of a callable bond is not known with certainty. Second, because the issuer will call the bonds when interest rates have dropped, the Partnership is exposed to reinvestment rate risk – the Partnership will have to reinvest the proceeds received when the bond is called at lower interest rates. Finally, the capital appreciation potential of a bond will be reduced because the price of a callable bond may not rise much above the price at which the issuer may call the bond.

Maturity Risk. In certain situations, the Partnership may purchase a bond of a given maturity as an alternative to another bond of a different maturity. Ordinarily, under these circumstances, the Partnership will make an adjustment to account for the interest rate risk differential in the two bonds. This adjustment, however, makes an assumption about how the interest rates at different maturities will move. To the extent that the yield movements deviate from this assumption, there is a yield-curve or maturity risk. Another situation where yield-curve risk should be considered is in the analysis of bond swap transactions where the potential incremental returns are dependent entirely on the parallel shift assumption for the yield curve.

Inflation Risk. Inflation risk results from the variation in the value of cash flows from a fixed income security or instrument due to inflation, as measured in terms of purchasing power. For example, if the Partnership purchases a 5-year bond with a coupon rate of 5%, but the rate of inflation is 6%, then the purchasing power of the cash flow has declined. For all but inflation-linked bonds, adjustable bonds or floating rate bonds, the Partnership is exposed to inflation risk because the interest rate the issuer promises to make is fixed for the life of the security. To the extent that interest rates reflect the expected inflation rate, floating rate bonds have a lower level of inflation risk.

Downgrades in Fixed Income Debt Securities. Unless required by applicable law, the Partnership is not required to sell or dispose of any debt security that either loses its rating or has its rating reduced after the Partnership purchases such security.

Investments in Non-U.S. Investments. From time to time, the Investment Manager may invest and trade a portion of the Partnership's assets in non-U.S. securities and other assets (through ADRs and otherwise), which will give rise to risks relating to political, social and economic developments abroad, as well as risks resulting from the differences between the regulations to which U.S. and non-U.S. issuers and markets are subject. Such risks may include:

- Political or social instability, the seizure by foreign governments of company assets, acts of war or terrorism, withholding taxes on dividends and interest, high or confiscatory tax levels, and limitations on the use or transfer of portfolio assets.
- Enforcing legal rights in some foreign countries is difficult, costly and slow, and there are sometimes special problems enforcing claims against foreign governments.
- Non-U.S. securities and other assets often trade in currencies other than the U.S. dollar, and the Partnership may directly hold foreign currencies and purchase and sell foreign currencies through forward exchange contracts. Changes in currency exchange rates will affect the Partnership's Net Asset Value, the value of dividends and interest earned, and gains and losses realized on the sale of investments. An increase in the strength of the U.S. dollar relative to these other currencies may cause the value of the Partnership's investments to decline. Some foreign currencies are particularly volatile. Foreign governments may intervene in the currency markets, causing a decline in value or liquidity of the Partnership's foreign currency holdings. If the Partnership enters into forward foreign currency exchange contracts for hedging purposes, it may lose the benefits of advantageous changes in exchange rates. On the other hand, if the Partnership enters forward contracts for the purpose of increasing return, it may sustain losses.
- Non-U.S. securities and other markets may be less liquid, more volatile and less closely supervised by the government than in the United States. Foreign countries often lack uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards, and there may be less public information about the operations of issuers in such markets.

Risks Associated with ADRs. The Partnership may purchase ADRs, which are certificates evidencing ownership of shares of a non-U.S. issuer, acting as alternatives to directly purchasing the underlying non-U.S. securities in their national markets and currencies. Such investments are subject to many of the risks associated with investing directly in non-U.S. securities. These risks include the political and economic risks of the underlying issuer's country, as well as, in the case of depositary receipts traded on non-U.S. markets, foreign exchange risk. ADRs may be sponsored or unsponsored. Unsponsored ADRs are established without the participation of the issuer. In addition, unsponsored ADRs may involve higher expenses, may not carry pass-through voting or other shareholder rights, and may be less liquid. The performance of ADRs may be different from the performance of the ordinary shares of the non-U.S. issuers to which they relate.

Emerging Markets. The Partnership may invest a portion of its assets in investments related to emerging market countries. The securities markets of emerging market countries as a whole have been volatile and the loans and securities of issuers in emerging markets tend to be subject to abrupt or erratic price movements. Investing a significant portion of the Partnership's assets in issuers in emerging markets will make the Partnership susceptible to a greater degree than otherwise would be the case to factors affecting emerging markets in general and issuers in emerging markets included in the Partnership's portfolio in particular, and may increase the volatility of the value of the Partnership's portfolio investments. The economies of these markets may differ significantly from the economies of certain developed countries in such respects as gross domestic product or gross national product, rate of inflation, currency depreciation, capital reinvestment, resource self-sufficiency, structural unemployment and balance of payments position. In particular, these economies frequently experience high levels of inflation. In addition, such countries may have: (1) restrictive national policies that limit the Partnership's investment opportunities; (2) limited information about their issuers; (3) a general lack of uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards, auditing practices and requirements compared to the standards of developed countries; (4) less governmental supervision and regulation of business and industry practices, securities exchanges, brokers and listed companies; (5) economic developments that may be slowed or reversed by unanticipated political or social events in such countries; and (6) a lack of capital market structure or market-oriented economy.

Systemic and market factors may affect the acquisition, payment for or ownership of investments including: (a) the prevalence of crime and corruption; (b) the inaccuracy or unreliability of business and financial information; (c) the instability or volatility of: (i) banking and financial systems, or the absence or inadequacy of an infrastructure to support such systems, (ii) custody and settlement infrastructure of the market in which such investments are traded and held, and (iii) the acts, omissions and operation of any securities depository; (d) the risk of the bankruptcy or insolvency of banking agents, counterparties to cash and securities transactions, registrars or transfer agents; and (e) the existence of market conditions that prevent the orderly execution or settlement of transactions or that affect the value of assets. Different clearance and settlement procedures may prevent the Partnership from making intended security purchases causing the Partnership to miss attractive investment opportunities, possibly resulting in either losses to or contract claims against the Partnership. The investment markets of many of the countries in which the Partnership may invest may also be smaller, less liquid, and subject to greater price volatility than developed markets. The Partnership's assets may be denominated in a variety of currencies subject to changes in currency exchange rates and in exchange control regulations.

Volatility of Currency Prices. In general, price movements of currencies are difficult to predict accurately because they are influenced by, among other things, changing supply and demand relationships; governmental, trade, fiscal, monetary and exchange control programs and policies; national and international political and economic events; and changes in interest rates. Governments from time to time intervene in certain markets in order to influence prices directly.

Currency Control. It is sometimes the case that governments alter the exchange rate policy of a currency without advance notice, and it may not always be possible to foresee a change in policy.

Exchange Rate Fluctuations. Investments that are denominated in a foreign currency are subject to the risk that the value of a particular currency will change in relation to one or more other currencies. The Partnership intends to value its holdings and to make distributions in U.S. dollars. Thus, changes in currency exchange rates adverse to the U.S. dollar may affect adversely the value of such holdings. Among the factors that may affect currency values are trade balances, the appropriateness of interest rates, the shape of the yield curve, the degree of central bank independence and credibility, differences in relative values of similar assets in different currencies, long-term opportunities for investment and capital appreciation and political developments.

Risks of Trading Futures. The Investment Manager is eligible to trade a limited amount of commodities or financial futures on behalf of the Partnership under a provision in the CEA that provides an exemption from registration as a commodity pool operator. Trading futures is a highly risky strategy. Whenever the Partnership purchases a particular future, there is a possibility that the Partnership may sustain a total loss of its purchase price. The equity values of leveraged positions using futures are, in general, much more volatile than the prices of securities, such as stocks and bonds. As a result, the risk of loss in trading futures is substantially greater than in trading those securities. The prices of futures react strongly to the prices of the underlying commodities. The prices of these underlying products, in turn, rise and fall based on changes in interest rates, international balances of trade, changes in governments, wars, weather events and a host of other factors that are entirely beyond the Investment Manager's control and very difficult (and perhaps impossible) to predict.

Forward Trading. Forward contracts and options thereon, unlike futures contracts, are not traded on exchanges and are not standardized; rather, banks and dealers act as principals in these markets, negotiating each transaction on an individual basis. Forward and "cash" trading is substantially unregulated; there is no limitation on daily price movements and speculative position limits are not applicable. The principals who deal in the forward markets are not required to continue to make markets in the currencies or commodities they trade and these markets can experience periods of illiquidity, sometimes of significant duration. There have been periods during which certain participants in these markets have refused to quote prices for certain currencies or commodities or have quoted prices with an unusually wide spread between the price at which they were prepared to buy and that at which they were prepared to sell. Disruptions can occur in any market traded by the Partnership due to unusual trading volume, political intervention or other factors. The imposition of controls by governmental authorities might also limit such forward trading to less than that which the Investment Manager would otherwise recommend, to the possible detriment of the Partnership. Market illiquidity or disruption could result in major losses to the Partnership.

Over-the-Counter-Trading. Financial instruments that may be purchased or sold by the Partnership may include instruments not traded on an exchange. The risk of nonperformance by the obligor on such an instrument may be greater and the ease with which the Partnership can dispose of or enter into closing transactions with respect to such an instrument may be less than in the case of an exchange-traded instrument. In addition, significant disparities may exist between "bid" and "asked" prices for financial instruments that are not traded on an exchange. Financial instruments not traded on exchanges are also not subject to the same type of government regulation as exchange traded instruments, and many of the protections afforded to participants in a regulated environment may not be available in connection with such transactions.

To the extent that the Partnership engages in these transactions, the Partnership must rely on the creditworthiness of its counterparty. In certain instances, counterparty or credit risk is affected by the lack of a central clearinghouse for foreign exchange trades. To reduce their credit risk exposure, the Partnership may trade in the forward foreign currency market through money center banks and leading brokerage firms.

Position Limits. Position limits imposed by various regulators or regulations may also limit the Partnership's ability to affect desired trades. Position limits are the maximum amounts of gross, net long or net short positions that any one person or entity may own or control in a particular financial instrument. All positions owned or controlled by the same person or entity, even if in different accounts, may be aggregated for purposes of determining whether the applicable position limits have been exceeded. Thus, even if the Partnership does not intend to exceed applicable position limits, it is possible that different accounts managed by the Investment Manager or its affiliates may be aggregated. If at any time positions managed by the Investment Manager were to exceed applicable position limits, the Investment Manager would be required to liquidate positions, which might include positions of the Partnership, to the extent necessary to come within those limits. Further, to avoid exceeding the position limits, the Partnership might have to forego or modify certain of its contemplated trades.

Risk of Default or Bankruptcy of Third Parties. The Partnership may engage in transactions in securities and other financial instruments and assets that involve counterparties. Under certain conditions, the Partnership could suffer losses if a counterparty to a transaction were to default or if the market for certain securities or other financial instruments or assets were to become illiquid. In addition, the Partnership could suffer losses if there were a default or bankruptcy by certain other third parties, including brokerage firms and banks with which the Partnership does business, or to which securities or other financial instruments or assets have been entrusted for custodial purposes.

Custody and Brokerage Risk. There are risks involved in dealing with the custodians or other brokers who settle Partnership trades. The Partnership maintains custody accounts with the Custodian. Although the Investment Manager generally monitors both the Introducing Broker and the Custodian and believes they are appropriate service providers, there is no guarantee that such service providers, or any other introducing broker and/or clearing broker and custodian that the Partnership may use from time to time, will not become bankrupt or insolvent. While both the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, as amended, and the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970 seek to protect customer property in the event of a bankruptcy, insolvency, failure, or liquidation of a broker-dealer, there is no certainty that, in the event of a failure of a broker-dealer that has custody of Partnership assets, the Partnership would not incur losses due to its assets being unavailable for a period of time, the ultimate receipt of less than full recovery of its assets, or both.

The Partnership and/or the Custodian may appoint sub-custodians in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions to hold the assets of the Partnership. The Custodian may not be responsible for cash or assets which are held by sub-custodians in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions, nor for any losses suffered by the Partnership as a result of the bankruptcy or insolvency of any such sub-custodian. The Partnership may therefore have a potential exposure on the default of any sub-custodian and, as a result, many of the protections that would normally be provided to a fund by a custodian may not be available to the Partnership. Under certain circumstances, including certain transactions where the Partnership's assets are pledged as collateral for leverage from a non-broker-dealer custodian or a non-broker-dealer affiliate of the Custodian, or where the Partnership's assets are held at a non-U.S. custodian, the securities and other assets deposited with the custodian or broker may not be clearly identified as being assets of the Partnership and hence the Partnership could be exposed to a credit risk with regard to such parties. Custody services in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions remain undeveloped and, accordingly, there is a transaction and custody risk of dealing in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions. Given the undeveloped state of regulations on custodial activities and bankruptcy, insolvency, or mismanagement in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions, the ability of the Partnership to recover assets held by a sub-custodian in the event of the sub-custodian's bankruptcy or insolvency could be in doubt, as the Partnership may be subject to significantly less favorable laws than many of the protections that would be available under U.S. laws. In addition, there may be practical or time problems associated with enforcing the Partnership's rights to its assets in the case of a bankruptcy or insolvency of any such party.

Temporary Defensive Investments. If warranted under certain economic or market conditions or for other reasons, the Investment Manager may temporarily invest up to 100% of the Partnership's assets outside the scope of its principal investment focus in U.S. government securities, such as Treasury bills, notes and bonds, cash, money-market funds, certificates of deposit, time deposits, bankers' acceptances and other short-term debt instruments bearing a reasonable rate of interest. In such circumstances, the Partnership may not achieve its investment objectives.

Other Instruments. The Partnership may take advantage of opportunities with respect to certain other instruments that are not presently contemplated for use or that are currently not available, but that may be developed, to the extent such opportunities are both consistent with the investment objective of the Partnership and legally permissible. Special risks may apply to instruments that are invested in by the Partnership in the future that cannot be determined at this time or until such instruments are developed or invested in by the Partnership.

Specific Risks Associated with Investing in Bank Loans

You should note that certain of the following risk factors specifically applicable with respect to Bank Loans have been discussed under "—Market Risks—General" above and are included in this sub-section for ease of reference.

Senior Loans Risk. Senior loans are usually rated below investment grade or may also be unrated. As a result, the risks associated with senior loans are similar to the risks of below investment grade fixed income instruments, although senior loans are senior and secured in contrast to other below investment grade fixed income instruments, which are often subordinated or unsecured. Investment in senior loans rated below investment grade is considered speculative because of the credit risk of their issuers. Such companies are more likely than investment grade issuers to default on their payments of interest and principal owed to the Partnership, and such defaults could have a materially adverse effect on the Partnership's performance. An economic downturn would generally lead to a higher non-payment rate, and a senior loan may lose significant market value before a default occurs. Moreover, any specific collateral used to secure a senior loan may decline in value or become illiquid, which would adversely affect the senior loan's value. Senior loans are subject to a number of risks described elsewhere in this Memorandum, including liquidity risk and the risk of investing in below investment grade fixed income instruments.

There may be less readily available and reliable information about most senior loans than is the case for many other types of securities, including securities issued in transactions registered under the Securities Act or registered under the Exchange Act. As a result, the Investment Manager will rely primarily on its own evaluation of a borrower's credit quality rather than on any available independent sources. Therefore, the Partnership will be particularly dependent on the analytical abilities of the Investment Manager.

In general, the secondary trading market for senior loans is not well developed. No active trading market may exist for certain senior loans, which may make it difficult to value them. Illiquidity and adverse market conditions may mean that the Partnership may not be able to sell senior loans quickly or at a fair price. To the extent that a secondary market does exist for certain senior loans the market for them may be subject to irregular trading activity, wide bid/ask spreads and extended trade settlement periods.

Variable Interest Rate Risk. Because senior loans with floating or variable rates reset their interest rates periodically, changes in prevailing interest rates can be expected to cause some fluctuations in the value of the Partnership's investments. Similarly, a sudden and significant increase in market interest rates may cause a decline in the value of the Partnership's investments. In addition, senior loans or similar securities may allow the borrower or issuer to opt between LIBOR-based interest rates and interest rates based on bank prime rates, which may have an impact on value of the Partnership's investments.

Bank Loans. The Partnership's investment program will include investments in significant amounts of Bank Loans and participations. These obligations are subject to unique risks, including: (i) the possible invalidation of an investment transaction as a fraudulent conveyance under relevant creditors' rights laws; (ii) so-called lender-liability claims by the issuer of the obligations; (iii) environmental liabilities that may arise with respect to collateral securing the obligations; and (iv) limitations on the ability of the Partnership to directly enforce its rights with respect to participations. In analyzing each Bank Loan or participation, the Investment Manager compares the relative significance of the risks against the expected benefits of the investment. Successful claims by third parties arising from these and other risks will be borne by the Partnership.

DIP Loans. From time to time, the Partnership may invest in loans to companies that have filed for protection under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, as amended. DIP loans are typically asset-based, revolving working-capital facilities put into place at the outset of a Chapter 11 bankruptcy to provide both immediate cash as well as ongoing working capital during the reorganization process. Such loans are risky and present significant exposure for default risk to the Partnership.

Adjustments to Terms of Investments. The terms and conditions of loan agreements and related assignments may be amended, modified or waived only by the agreement of the lenders. Generally, any such agreement must include a majority or a super majority (measured by outstanding loans or commitments) or, in certain circumstances, a unanimous vote of the lenders. Consequently, the terms and conditions of the payment obligation arising from loan agreements could be modified, amended or waived in a manner contrary to the preferences of the Partnership if a sufficient number of the other lenders concurred with such modification, amendment or waiver. There can be no assurance that any obligations arising from a loan agreement will maintain the terms and conditions to which the Partnership originally agreed.

The exercise of remedies may also be subject to the vote of a specified percentage of the lenders thereunder. The Investment Manager will have the authority to cause the Partnership to consent to certain amendments, waivers or modifications to the Partnership's investments requested by obligors or the lead agents for loan syndication agreements. The Investment Manager may, in accordance with its investment management standards, cause the Partnership to extend or defer the maturity, adjust the outstanding balance of any investment, reduce or forgive interest or fees, release material collateral or guarantees, or otherwise amend, modify or waive the terms of any related loan agreement, including the payment terms thereunder. The Investment Manager will make such determinations in accordance with its investment management standards. Any amendment, waiver or modification of the terms of an investment could adversely impact the Partnership's investment returns.

Prepayments. Certain of the Partnership's investments may be prepaid more quickly than expected. Prepayment rates are influenced by changes in interest rates and a variety of economic, geographic and other factors beyond the Partnership's control and consequently cannot be predicted with certainty. Early prepayments give rise to increased re-investment risk, as the Partnership might realize excess cash earlier than it expected. If the Partnership is unable to reinvest the principle portion of a prepayment in a new investment with an expected rate of return at least equal to that of the investment repaid, this may reduce the Partnership's net investment income and, consequently, could have an adverse impact on the Partnership's ability to make distributions.

Investments in Loans Secured by Real Estate. While direct real estate investment is not intended to be the focus of the Partnership, it is possible that, from time to time, the Partnership may, as a result of default, foreclosure or otherwise, hold real estate assets. Special risks associated with such investments include changes in the general economic climate or local conditions (such as an oversupply of space or a reduction in demand for space), competition based on rental rates, attractiveness and location of the properties, changes in the financial condition of tenants, and changes in operating costs. Real estate values are also affected by such factors as government regulations (including those governing usage, improvements, zoning and taxes), interest rate levels, the availability of financing, and potential liability under changing environmental and other laws. Of particular concern may be those mortgaged properties which are, or have been, the site of manufacturing, industrial or disposal activity. Such environmental risks may give rise to a diminution in the value of property (including real property securing any portfolio investment) or liability for cleanup costs or other remedial actions, which liability could exceed the value of such property or the principal balance of the related portfolio investment. In certain circumstances, a lender may choose not to foreclose on contaminated property rather than risk incurring liability for remedial actions.

Environmental Hazards. Under environmental laws enacted by the United States and the various states, owners of property may be liable for the cleanup and removal of hazardous substances even where the owner was not responsible for placing the hazardous substances on the property or where the property was contaminated prior to the time the owner took title. The kinds of hazardous substances for which liability may be incurred include, among other things, chemicals and other materials commonly used by small businesses and manufacturing operations. The costs of removal and clean-up of hazardous substances and wastes can be extremely expensive and, in some cases, can exceed the value of a property. If any property acquired by the Partnership through foreclosure or otherwise subsequently were found to have an environmental problem, such acquiring entity could incur substantial costs and suffer a complete loss of its investment in such property as well as of other assets. Similarly, real estate is subject to loss due to so-called "special hazards" (e.g., floods, earthquakes and hurricanes). It may be impractical or impossible to fully insure against such events and, should such an event occur, the Partnership could incur substantial costs and suffer a loss of its investment in such property.

Fraud. Of paramount concern in lending is the possibility of material misrepresentation or omission on the part of the borrower. Such inaccuracy or incompleteness may adversely affect the valuation of the collateral underlying the loans or may adversely affect the ability of the Partnership to perfect or effectuate a lien on the collateral securing the loan. The Partnership will rely upon the accuracy and completeness of representations made by borrowers to the extent reasonable, but cannot guarantee such accuracy or completeness. Under certain circumstances, payments to the Partnership may be reclaimed if any such payment or distribution is later determined to have been a fraudulent conveyance or a preferential payment.

Debt Securities. The Partnership intends to invest in bonds or other fixed income securities, including, without limitation, commercial paper and "higher yielding" (and, therefore, higher risk) debt securities. It is likely that a major economic recession could disrupt severely the market for such securities and may have an adverse impact on the value of such securities. In addition, it is likely that any such economic downturn could adversely affect the ability of the issuers of such securities to repay principal and pay interest thereon and increase the incidence of default for such securities.

Investing in High Yield Securities. The Partnership intends to invest in high-yield securities. Such securities are generally not exchange traded and, as a result, these instruments trade in the over-the-counter marketplace, which is less transparent than the exchange-traded marketplace. In addition, the Partnership will invest in bonds of issuers that do not have publicly traded equity securities, making it more difficult to hedge the risks associated with such investments. High-yield securities face ongoing uncertainties and exposure to adverse business, financial or economic conditions which could lead to the issuer's inability to meet timely interest and principal payments. The market values of certain of these lower- rated and unrated debt securities tend to reflect individual corporate developments to a greater extent than do higher-rated securities which react primarily to fluctuations in the general level of interest rates, and tend to be more sensitive to economic conditions than are higher-rated securities. Companies that issue such securities are often highly leveraged and may not have available to them more traditional methods of financing. It is possible that a major economic recession could disrupt severely the market for such securities and may have an adverse impact on the value of such securities. In addition, it is possible that any such economic downturn could adversely affect the ability of the issuers of such securities to repay principal and pay interest thereon and increase the incidence of default of such securities.

Timing Risk. Many agency, corporate and municipal bonds, and all mortgage-backed securities, contain a provision that allows the issuer to "call" all or part of the issue before the bond's maturity date. The issuer usually retains the right to refinance the bond in the future if market interest rates decline below the coupon rate. There are three disadvantages to the call provision. First, the cash flow pattern of a callable bond is not known with certainty. Second, because the issuer will call the bonds when interest rates have dropped, the Partnership is exposed to reinvestment rate risk, i.e., the Partnership will have to reinvest the proceeds received when the bond is called at lower interest rates. Finally, the capital appreciation potential of a bond will be reduced because the price of a callable bond may not rise much above the price at which the issuer may call the bond.

Maturity Risk. In certain situations, the Partnership may purchase a bond of a given maturity as an alternative to another bond of a different maturity. Ordinarily, under these circumstances, the Partnership will make an adjustment to account for the differential interest rate risks in the two bonds. This adjustment, however, makes an assumption about how the interest rates at different maturities will move. To the extent that the yield movements deviate from this assumption, there is a yield-curve or maturity risk. Another situation where yield-curve risk should be considered is in the analysis of bond swap transactions where the potential incremental returns are dependent entirely on the parallel shift assumption for the yield curve.

Revolving Credit Facilities. From time to time the Partnership may incur contingent liabilities in connection with an investment. For example, the Partnership may purchase from a lender a revolving credit facility that has not yet been fully drawn. If the borrower subsequently draws down on the facility, the Partnership would be obligated to fund the amounts due.

Investments in Stressed Debt. The Partnership is authorized to invest in securities and other obligations of stressed issuers. Stressed issuers are issuers that are not yet deemed distressed or bankrupt and whose debt securities are trading at a discount to par, but not yet at distressed levels. An example would be an issuer that is in technical default of its credit agreement, or undergoing strategic or operational changes, which results in market pricing uncertainty.

Investments in Distressed Securities. The Partnership may invest in securities and obligations of issuers in weak financial condition, experiencing poor operating results, having substantial capital needs or negative net worth, facing special competitive or product obsolescence problems, including companies involved in bankruptcy or other reorganization and liquidation proceedings. These securities are likely to be particularly risky investments although they also may offer the potential for correspondingly high returns. Among the risks inherent in investments in troubled entities is the fact that it frequently may be difficult to obtain information as to the true condition of such issuers. Such investments may also be adversely affected by laws relating to, among other things, fraudulent transfers and other voidable transfers or payments, lender liability and the bankruptcy court's power to disallow, reduce, subordinate or disenfranchise particular claims. Such companies' securities may be considered speculative, and the ability of such companies to pay their debts on schedule could be affected by adverse interest rate movements, changes in the general economic climate, economic factors affecting a particular industry or specific developments within such companies. In addition, there is no minimum credit standard that is a prerequisite to the Partnership's investment in any instrument, and a significant portion of the obligations and securities in which the Partnership invests may be less than investment grade. The level of analytical sophistication, both financial and legal, necessary for successful investment in companies experiencing significant business and financial difficulties is unusually high. There is no assurance that the Investment Manager will correctly evaluate the value of the assets collateralizing the Partnership's loans or the prospects for a successful reorganization or similar action. In any reorganization or liquidation proceeding relating to a company in which the Partnership invests, the Partnership may lose its entire investment, may be required to accept cash or securities with a value less than the Partnership's original investment and/or may be required to accept payment over an extended period of time. Under such circumstances, the returns generated from the Partnership's investments may not compensate the Limited Partners adequately for the risks assumed. In liquidation (both in and out of bankruptcy) and other forms of corporate reorganization, there exists the risk that the reorganization either will be unsuccessful (due to, for example, failure to obtain requisite approvals), will be delayed (for example, until various liabilities, actual or contingent, have been satisfied) or will result in a distribution of cash or a new security the value of which will be less than the purchase price to the Partnership of the security in respect to which such distribution was made.

Troubled Origination. The investments chosen by the Investment Manager may have been originated by financial institutions or other entities that are, or may in the future be, insolvent, in serious financial difficulty, or no longer in existence. As a result, the standards by which such investments were originated, the recourse to the selling institution, or the standards by which such investments are being serviced or operated may be adversely affected.

Issuer Default Risk; Negative Loan Performance. There are varying sources of statistical default and recovery rate data for commercial loans and numerous methods for measuring default and recovery rates. The levels of defaults and delinquencies with respect to loans have been increasing, and slowing economic activity continues to contribute to a decline in overall credit quality. The historical performance of the loan market is not necessarily indicative of its future performance, and there is no way to determine whether such trends in the credit markets will improve or worsen in the future.

A substantial portion of the Partnership's income is expected to be derived, directly or indirectly, from repayments of principal and interest received in respect of debt securities. A wide range of factors may adversely affect an obligor's ability to make repayments, including: adverse changes in the financial condition of such obligor or the industries or regions in which it operates; the obligor's exposure to counterparty risk; systemic risk in the financial system and settlement; changes in law or taxation; changes in governmental regulations or other policies; natural disasters; terrorism; social unrest, civil disturbances; or general economic conditions. Default rates tend to accelerate during economic downturns. A continuing decreased ability of borrowers to obtain refinancing may result in a further economic decline that could delay an economic recovery and cause a further deterioration in loan performance generally.

To the extent that the Partnership invests in debt securities secured by collateral, there can be no assurance that the liquidation of any collateral securing any of the Partnership's investments would satisfy the borrower's obligation in the event of non-payment of scheduled interest or principal payments, or that the collateral could be readily liquidated. In the event of bankruptcy or insolvency of a borrower, the Partnership could experience delays or limitations with respect to its ability to realize the benefits of the collateral securing such investment. The collateral securing an investment may lose all or substantially all of its value in the event of the bankruptcy or insolvency of a borrower.

Any defaults will have a negative impact on the value of the Partnership's investments and may reduce the return that such Partnership receives from its investments in certain circumstances. While some amount of defaults is expected to occur in the Partnership's portfolio, in the event that the Partnership elects to apply leverage to an investment, defaults in or declines in the value of the portfolio investments in excess of these expected amounts may result in breaches of covenants under applicable financing arrangements, triggering credit enhancement requirements or accelerated repayment provisions and, if not cured within the relevant grace periods, permitting the finance provider to enforce its security over all the assets of the Partnership.

In the case of debt ranking equally with the loans or debt securities in which the Partnership invests, the Partnership would have to share on an equal basis any distributions with other creditors holding such debt in the event of an insolvency, liquidation, dissolution, reorganization or bankruptcy of the relevant company's debt securities. Each jurisdiction in which the Partnership invests has its own insolvency laws. As a result, investments in similarly situated companies in different jurisdictions may confer different rights in the event of insolvency.

Nature of Reorganization Proceedings. The Partnership will hold debt of companies and may, under certain circumstances, hold equity of companies as a result of the recapitalization or restructuring of debt obligations. Investments in the debt or equity of companies involved in reorganization proceedings typically entail a number of risks that do not normally apply to investments in financially sound companies. For example, if the Investment Manager's evaluation of the anticipated outcome of a reorganization or the timing of such outcome should prove incorrect, the Partnership could experience losses. A wide variety of considerations make any evaluation of the outcome of an investment in such a company uncertain. Such considerations include, for example, the possibility of litigation between the participants in a reorganization or liquidation proceeding or a requirement to obtain mandatory or discretionary consents from various governmental authorities or others. The uncertainties inherent in evaluating such investments may be increased by legal and practical considerations which limit the access of the Investment Manager to reliable and timely information concerning material developments affecting a company, or which cause lengthy delays in the completion of a reorganization or liquidation proceeding. Competition from other investors may also render it difficult or impossible for the Partnership to achieve intended results or promptly effect transactions.

Insolvency and Enforceability of Security. The Partnership's investments may be secured by mortgages, charges, pledges, liens or other security interests. Depending on the jurisdiction in which such security interests are created, enforcement of such security interests may be a complicated and difficult process. For example, enforcement of security interests in certain jurisdictions may require a court order and a sale of the secured property through public bidding or auction. In addition, some jurisdictions grant courts the power to declare security interest arrangements to be void if they deem the security interest to be excessive.

Risks Associated with Bankruptcy Cases. Many of the events within a bankruptcy case are adversarial and often beyond the control of the creditors. While creditors generally are afforded an opportunity to object to significant actions, there can be no assurance that a bankruptcy court would not approve actions which may be contrary to the interests of the Partnership. Furthermore, there are instances where creditors and equity holders lose their ranking and priority as such if they are considered to have taken over management and functional operating control of a debtor.

Generally, the duration of a bankruptcy case can only be roughly estimated. The reorganization of a company usually involves the development and negotiation of a plan of reorganization, plan approval by creditors and confirmation by the bankruptcy court. This process can involve substantial legal, professional and administrative costs to the company and the Partnership; it is subject to unpredictable and lengthy delays; and during the process the company's competitive position may erode, key management may depart and the company may not be able to invest adequately. In some cases, the company may not be able to reorganize and may be required to liquidate assets. Although the Partnership intends to invest primarily in debt, the debt of companies in financial reorganization will, in most cases, not pay current interest, may not accrue interest during reorganization and may be adversely affected by an erosion of the issuer's fundamental value. Such investments can result in a total loss of principal.

U.S. bankruptcy law permits the classification of "substantially similar" claims in determining the classification of claims in a reorganization for purpose of voting on a plan of reorganization. Because the standard for classification is vague, there exists a significant risk that the Partnership's influence with respect to a class of securities can be lost by the inflation of the number and the amount of claims in, or other gerrymandering of, the class. In addition, certain administrative costs and claims that have priority by law over the claims of certain creditors (for example, claims for taxes) may be quite high.

Furthermore, there are instances where creditors and equity holders lose their ranking and priority as such when they take over management and functional operating control of a debtor. In those cases where the Partnership, by virtue of such action, is found to exercise "domination and control" of a debtor, the Partnership may lose its priority if the debtor can demonstrate that its business was adversely impacted or other creditors and equity holders were harmed by the Partnership.

The Partnership may invest in companies based outside the United States. Investment in the debt of financially distressed companies domiciled outside the United States involves additional risks. Bankruptcy law and process may differ substantially from that in the United States, resulting in greater uncertainty as to the rights of creditors, the enforceability of such rights, reorganization timing and the classification, seniority and treatment of claims. In certain developing countries, although bankruptcy laws have been enacted, the process for reorganization remains highly uncertain.

The Investment Manager, on behalf of the Partnership, may elect to serve on creditors' committees, equity holders' committees or other groups to ensure preservation or enhancement of the Partnership position as a creditor or equity holder. A member of any such committee or group may owe certain obligations generally to all parties similarly situated that the committee represents. If the Investment Manager concludes that its obligations owed to the other parties as a committee or group member conflict with its duties owed to the Partnership, it will resign from that committee or group, and the Partnership may not realize the benefits, if any, of participation on the committee or group. In addition, and also as discussed above, if the Partnership is represented on a committee or group, it may be restricted or prohibited under applicable law from disposing of or increasing its investments in such company while it continues to be represented on such committee or group.

The Partnership may purchase creditor claims subsequent to the commencement of a bankruptcy case. Under judicial decisions, it is possible that such purchase may be disallowed by the bankruptcy court if the court determines that the purchaser has taken unfair advantage of an unsophisticated seller, which may result in the rescission of the transaction (presumably at the original purchase price) or forfeiture by the purchaser.

Equitable Subordination. Under common law principles that in some cases form the basis for lender liability claims, if a lender (a) intentionally takes an action that results in the undercapitalization of a borrower or issuer to the detriment of other creditors of such borrower or issuer, (b) engages in other inequitable conduct to the detriment of such other creditors, (c) engages in fraud with respect to, or makes misrepresentations to, such other creditors or (d) uses its influence as a stockholder to dominate or control a borrower or issuer to the detriment of other creditors of such borrower or issuer, a court may elect to subordinate the claim of the offending lender or bondholder to the claims of the disadvantaged creditor or creditors (a remedy called "equitable subordination"). The Partnership does not intend to engage in conduct that would form the basis for a successful cause of action based upon the equitable subordination doctrine; however, because of the nature of the debt obligations, the Partnership may be subject to claims from creditors of an obligor that debt obligations of such obligor which are held by the issuer should be equitably subordinated.

Liability Following the Disposal of Investments. While the Partnership may hold certain of its investments to maturity, the Partnership may dispose of investments in some circumstances prior to termination and, in connection therewith, may be required to pay damages to the extent that any representations or warranties given in connection with such investments turn out to be inaccurate. The Partnership may become involved in disputes or litigation concerning such representations and warranties and may be required to make payments to third parties as a result of such disputes or litigation. In the event that the Partnership does not have cash available to conduct such litigation or make such payments, it may be forced to sell investments to obtain funds. Such sales may be effected on unsatisfactory terms.

Potential Involvement in Litigation. In the event that the Partnership holds investments in distressed investments, there is a possibility that the Investment Manager may participate in restructuring activities, it is possible that the Partnership may become involved in litigation respecting creditor disputes and similar issues among classes of claimants. Litigation entails expense and the possibility of counterclaims against the Partnership and the Investment Manager and ultimately judgments may be rendered against the Partnership for which the Partnership does not carry insurance.

Specific Risks Associated with Investing in CLOs

You should note that certain of the following risk factors specifically applicable with respect to CLOs have been discussed under "—Market Risks—General" above and are included in this sub-section for ease of reference.

Dependence Upon Other Unrelated Managers. The success of a CLO may depend on the management talents and efforts of one person or a small group of persons whose management could adversely affect the CLO and, accordingly, the Partnership as an investor in such CLO. Given that the Investment Manager will not have an active role in the management of these CLOs, the return on the Partnership's investments in such CLOs will depend on the performance of unrelated managers.

Multiple Levels of Fees. The Partnership and the CLOs are expected to impose management fees, administrative fees, and/or transaction-based fees. This may result in greater expense than if Limited Partners were able to invest directly in the CLOs or underlying investments. Limited Partners should take into account that the return on their investment will be reduced to the extent of both levels of fees. The general partner or manager of a CLO may receive the economic benefit of certain fees from its portfolio companies for services and in connection with unconsummated transactions (e.g., break-up, placement, monitoring, directors', organizational and set-up fees and financial advisory fees). Additionally, some of the CLOs may invest themselves in underlying hedge funds or CLOs. In such case, additional management costs and other administrative expenses may be incurred.

Limited Diversification. CLOs may invest in concentrated portfolios of assets. The concentration of an underlying portfolio in any one obligor would subject the related CLO Securities to a greater degree of risk with respect to defaults by such obligor and the concentration of a portfolio in any one industry would subject the related CLOs to a greater degree of risk with respect to economic downturns relating to such industry. The Partnership may have a concentrated exposure to CLOs of a particular type of CLO.

CLO Embedded Leverage Risk. The Partnership's participation in CLOs involves varying amounts of leverage. Leverage is embedded in all classes of a CLO other than the most senior tranche. If the Partnership retains either the most or one of the most subordinate tranches of the CLO's securities, it will hold the most leveraged investment in the CLO. While leverage presents opportunities for increasing the Partnership's total return, it has the effect of potentially increasing losses as well. Accordingly, any event which adversely affects the value of an investment in a CLO would be magnified to the extent such CLO is leveraged. The cumulative effect of the use of leverage by a CLO in a market that moves adversely to the CLO's investments could result in a substantial loss to the CLO which would be greater than if the CLO were not leveraged. The borrowing arrangements of CLOs will contain events of default that, under certain circumstances, could result in early amortization or in the acceleration of the maturities of these obligations. In the event of acceleration of the borrowing arrangements of a CLO, in whole or in part, it may be required to dispose of all or a significant portion of its investments. Such a forced disposal of securities could result in realization of value of such investments significantly below the anticipated market values for such securities. When the Partnership invests in derivative transactions, it may also gain leverage through such derivative transactions, which will expose the Partnership to a greater risk of loss.

Risks of Investment Focus. The Partnership's portfolio may consist of CLO Securities. CLO Securities are subject to, among other risks, credit, liquidity and interest rate risks.

The value of the CLO Securities that the Partnership may own generally will fluctuate with, among other things, the financial condition of the obligors or issuers of the CLO Securities' underlying portfolio of assets ("CLO Collateral"), general economic conditions, the condition of certain financial markets, political events, developments or trends in any particular industry and changes in prevailing interest rates. CLO Securities are issued on a non-recourse basis and holders of CLO Securities must rely solely on distributions on the CLO Collateral or proceeds thereof for payment in respect thereof. If distributions on the CLO Collateral are insufficient to make payments on the CLO Securities, no other assets will be available for payment of the deficiency and following realization of the CLO Securities, the obligations of such issuer to pay such deficiency generally will be extinguished.

Issuers of CLO Securities may acquire interests in loans and other debt obligations by way of sale, assignment or participation. The purchaser of an assignment typically succeeds to all the rights and obligations of the assigning institution and becomes a lender under the credit agreement with respect to the loan or debt obligation; however, its rights can be more restricted than those of the assigning institution. CLO Collateral may consist of corporate loans, leveraged loans and other instruments, which often are rated below investment grade (or of equivalent credit quality). Loans may be unsecured and may be subordinated to certain other obligations of the issuer thereof. The lower ratings of below investment grade loans reflect a greater possibility that adverse changes in the financial condition of an issuer or in general economic conditions or both may impair the ability of the related issuer or obligor to make payments of principal or interest. Such investments may be speculative.

Interest Rate Mismatch. CLOs may be subject to interest rate risk. The CLO Collateral of an issuer of a CLO may bear interest at a fixed or floating rate, while the CLO Debt may bear interest at a floating or fixed rate. As a result, there could be a floating/fixed rate or basis mismatch between such CLO Debt and the CLO Collateral which bears interest at a fixed rate ("Fixed Rate Assets"), and there may be a timing mismatch between such CLO Debt and the assets that are not Fixed Rate Assets ("Floating Rate Assets"). In addition, the interest rate on Floating Rate Assets may adjust more frequently or less frequently, on different dates and based on different indices than the interest rates on the CLO Debt. As a result of such mismatches, an increase or decrease in the level of the floating rate indices could adversely impact the ability to make payments on such CLO Debt or Equity. Although many CLOs attempt to hedge this interest rate risk, the hedges may not eliminate this risk and payments by the CLO under the hedges may significantly reduce the distributions on the CLO securities. In addition, these hedges may have additional risks, such as counterparty risk, that are not present without these hedges.

Lower Credit Quality Securities. There are no restrictions on the credit quality of the investments of the Partnership. CLO Securities in which the Partnership will invest may have no ratings or may be deemed by rating agencies to have substantial vulnerability to default in payment of interest and/or principal and have the lowest quality ratings. The Partnership may purchase CLO Securities which have ratings that have been downgraded or placed on "credit watch" for future downgrading. Lower rated and unrated securities in which the Partnership may invest have large uncertainties or major risk exposures to adverse conditions and are considered to be predominantly speculative and may become a defaulted asset for a variety of reasons. Generally, such securities offer a higher return potential than higher rated securities, but involve greater volatility of price and greater risk of loss of income and principal.

The market values of certain of these securities (such as subordinated securities) also tend to be more sensitive to changes in economic conditions than higher rated securities. The value of leveraged loans and other assets underlying a CLO may also be affected by changes in the market's perception of the entity issuing or guaranteeing them, or by changes in government regulations and tax policies. Additionally, loans and interests in loans have significant liquidity and market value risks since they are not generally traded in organized exchange markets but are traded by banks and other institutional investors engaged in loan syndications. Because loans are privately syndicated and loan agreements are privately negotiated and customized, loans are not purchased or sold as easily as publicly traded securities. In addition, historically the trading volume in the loan market has been small relative to the high-yield debt securities market, and such illiquidity has been exacerbated during the current liquidity crisis.

Leveraged loans have historically experienced greater default rates than has been the case for investment grade securities. There can be no assurance as to the levels of defaults and/or recoveries that may be experienced on the assets underlying CLO Securities.

In general, the ratings of nationally recognized rating organizations represent the opinions of such agencies as to the quality of securities that they rate. Such ratings may be used by the Investment Manager as an initial basis for the selection of portfolio securities. Such ratings, however, are relative and subjective; they are not absolute standards of quality and do not evaluate the market value risk of the securities. Such ratings also do not reflect macroeconomic or systematic risk, including the risk of increased illiquidity in the credit markets. It is also possible that a rating agency might not change its rating of a particular issue on a timely basis to reflect subsequent events.

Defaulted Assets Underlying CLO Securities. If the assets underlying a CLO Security become defaulted assets, such defaulted assets may become subject to either substantial workout negotiations or restructuring, which may entail, among other things, a substantial reduction in the interest rate, a substantial write-down of principal, and a substantial change in the terms, conditions and covenants with respect to such defaulted asset. In addition, such negotiations or restructuring may be quite extensive and protracted over time, and therefore may result in substantial uncertainty with respect to the ultimate recovery on such defaulted asset. The liquidity for defaulted assets may be limited, and to the extent that defaulted assets are sold, it is highly unlikely that the proceeds from such sale will be equal to the amount of unpaid principal and interest thereon. Furthermore, there can be no assurance that the ultimate recovery on any defaulted assets will be at least equal to either the minimum recovery rate assumed by any rating agency that rates the notes of the CLO security. Therefore, if any CLO security has defaulted assets which correspond to the exposure of the Partnership's interest in the CLO security, the Partnership may be adversely affected.

There exist significant additional risks for CLO Securities and investors in such securities in the event of a liquidity crisis. Those risks include, among others, (i) the likelihood that the issuer of the CLO Security will find it harder to sell any of its assets in the secondary market, thus rendering it more difficult to dispose of assets which it has the discretion to manage, including credit risk obligations, credit improved obligations or defaulted obligations, (ii) the possibility that the price at which assets can be sold by the issuer of the CLO Security will have deteriorated from their effective purchase price and (iii) the increased illiquidity of the notes issued by the CLO Security. These additional risks may affect the returns on the investments in the Partnership's portfolio.

Subordination of CLO Debt. The Partnership's portfolio may subordinate CLO Debt. Subordinate CLO Debt generally is fully subordinated to the related CLO senior tranches. Thus, some of the investments of the Partnership in a CLO may rank behind other creditors of the CLO. To the extent that any losses are incurred by a CLO in respect of its related CLO Collateral, such losses are likely to be borne first by the holders of the related CLO Equity, next by the holders of any related subordinated CLO debt and finally by the holders of the related CLO senior tranches. In addition, if an event of default occurs under the governing instrument or underlying investment, as long as any CLO senior tranches are outstanding, the holders thereof generally are likely to be entitled to determine the remedies to be exercised under the instrument governing the CLO. Remedies pursued by such holders could be adverse to the interests of the holders of any related subordinated CLO Debt. Investments of the Partnership may be the first to absorb any losses by the CLO on its underlying portfolio. This may result in losses on the invested proceeds of the Partnership and could result in the complete loss of invested proceeds.

Mandatory Redemption of CLO Senior Tranches and CLO Debt. Under certain circumstances, cash flows from CLO Collateral that otherwise would have been paid to the holders of any related CLO Debt will be used to redeem the related CLO senior tranches. This could result in an elimination, deferral or reduction in the interest payments, principal repayments or other payments made to the holders of such CLO Debt, which could adversely impact the returns to the holders of such CLO Debt.

Optional Redemption of CLO Senior Tranches and CLO Debt. An optional redemption by a CLO of its securities and, in particular, the exercise of rights by the holders of one or more classes of its securities (or the requisite percentages thereof) so as to effect any such optional redemption, could require the collateral or portfolio manager of the related CLO to liquidate positions more rapidly than would otherwise be desirable, which is likely to materially and adversely affect the realized value of the items of CLO Collateral sold (and which in turn is likely to materially and adversely impact the holders of any related CLO securities, including the Partnership). As a result of any such rapid liquidation of a CLO, a holder of the related CLO securities (including the Partnership) could lose all or a substantial portion of its investment in such CLO securities.

Insolvency Risks. Various laws enacted for the protection of creditors may apply to the issuers of the CLO Collateral (solely for purposes of this risk factor, an "Insolvent Company"). The information in this paragraph and the following paragraph is applicable with respect to U.S. issuers of CLO Collateral. Insolvency considerations may differ with respect to non-U.S. issuers of CLO Collateral. If a court in a lawsuit brought by an unpaid creditor or representative of creditors of an Insolvent Company, such as a trustee in bankruptcy, were to find that the issuer did not receive fair consideration or reasonably equivalent value for incurring the indebtedness constituting the CLO or CLO Collateral (as applicable) and, after giving effect to such indebtedness, the Insolvent Company (i) was insolvent, (ii) was engaged in a business for which the remaining assets of the Insolvent Company constituted unreasonably small capital or (iii) intended to incur, or believed that it would incur, debts beyond its ability to pay such debts as they mature, such court could determine to invalidate, in whole or in part, such indebtedness as a fraudulent conveyance, to subordinate such indebtedness to existing or future creditors of the Insolvent Company or to recover amounts previously paid by such issuer in satisfaction of such indebtedness. The measure of insolvency for purposes of the foregoing will vary. Generally, an Insolvent Company would be considered insolvent at a particular time if the sum of its debts were then greater than all of its property at a fair valuation or if the present fair saleable value of its assets were then less than the amount that would be required to pay its probable liabilities on its existing debts as they became absolute and matured. There can be no assurance as to what standard a court would apply in order to determine whether the Insolvent Company was "insolvent" after giving effect to the incurrence of the indebtedness constituting the CLO or CLO Collateral (as applicable) or that, regardless of the method of valuation, a court would not determine that the Insolvent Company was "insolvent" upon giving effect to such incurrence. In addition, in the event of the insolvency of an Insolvent Company, payments made on such CLO or CLO Collateral (as applicable) could be subject to avoidance as a "preference" if made within a certain period of time (which may be as long as one year) before insolvency.

In general, if payments on a CLO or CLO Collateral (as applicable) are avoidable, whether as fraudulent conveyances or preferences, such payments can be recaptured either from the initial recipient (such as the Partnership) or from subsequent transferees of such payments (such as the Limited Partners). However, a court in a bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding would be able to direct the recapture of any such payment from a Limited Partner only to the extent that such court has jurisdiction over such holder or its assets. Moreover, it is likely that avoidable payments could not be recaptured directly from a holder that has given value in exchange for its interest, in good faith and without knowledge that the payments were avoidable. Nevertheless, there can be no assurance that a Limited Partner will be able to avoid recapture on this or any other basis.

The preceding discussion is based upon principles of United States federal and state laws. Insofar as the Partnership's portfolio consists of the obligations of non-United States obligors, the laws of certain foreign jurisdictions may provide for avoidance remedies under factual circumstances similar to those described above or under different circumstances, with consequences that may or may not be analogous to those described above under United States Federal and state laws.

"Widening" Risk. For reasons not necessarily attributable to any of the risks set forth herein (for example, supply/demand imbalances or other market forces), the prices of the CLO Securities in which the Partnership invests may decline substantially. In particular, purchasing assets at what may appear to be "undervalued" levels is no guarantee that these assets will not be trading at even lower levels at a time of valuation or at the time of sale. It may not be possible to predict, or to hedge against, such "spread widening" risk.

There Is Limited Disclosure about the CLO Securities and the Underlying CLO Collateral in this Memorandum. The Investment Manager will not be required to provide the investors in the Partnership with financial or other information (which may include material non-public information) it receives related to the CLO Securities. The Investment Manager also may not disclose to investors notices the Investment Manager receives and it will not have any obligation to keep investors informed as to defaults in the CLO Securities, failure by the Partnership to receive any payment of principal, interest, or other amounts or to disclose the portfolio or the decisions of which CLO Securities were not purchased in general to any investor. In addition, the investors will not have any right to inspect any records relating to the CLO Securities, and the Investment Manager will not be obligated to disclose any further information or evidence regarding the existence or terms of, or the identity of any obligor on, any CLO Securities.

Impact of the Volcker Rule on the Liquidity of the Notes. Section 619 of the Dodd-Frank Act added a provision, commonly referred to (together with the final regulations with respect thereto adopted on December 10, 2013) as the Volcker Rule, to federal banking laws to generally prohibit various covered banking entities from engaging in proprietary trading or acquiring or retaining an ownership interest in "covered funds" which generally include, sponsoring or having certain relationships with a hedge fund or private equity fund (defined in final regulations adopted on December 10, 2013 as any entity relying on Section 3(c)(1) or Section 3(c)(7) of the Investment Company Act to be exempt from registration under the Investment Company Act), subject to certain exemptions. The Volcker Rule also provides for certain supervised nonbank financial companies that engage in such activities or have such interests or relationships to be subject to additional capital requirements, quantitative limits or other restrictions. The conformance period for the Volcker Rule has been extended to July 21, 2015, and to July 21, 2017 for CLOs. Certain CLOs may be considered "covered funds" under the Volcker rule and therefore the most senior tranche of the CLO may be a restricted security for various banking and nonbanking entities. This may restrict the liquidity of certain non-Volcker compliant CLOs in the future and may affect the Partnership's ability to liquidate these positions on a timely basis.

Specific Risks Associated with Investing in Portfolio Funds and Illiquid Investments

You should note that certain of the following risk factors specifically applicable with respect to Portfolio Funds and Illiquid Investments have been discussed under "—Market Risks—General" above and are included in this sub-section for ease of reference.

Special Situations. The Portfolio Funds may invest in companies involved in (or the target of) acquisition attempts or tender offers or in companies involved in work-outs, liquidations, spin-offs, reorganizations, bankruptcies and similar transactions. In any investment opportunity involving any such type of special situation, there exists the risk that the contemplated transaction either will be unsuccessful, take considerable time or result in a distribution of cash or a new security the value of which will be less than the purchase price to the Portfolio Funds of the security or other financial instrument in respect of which such distribution is received. Similarly, if an anticipated transaction does not in fact occur, the Partnership may be required to sell its investment at a loss. In connection with such transaction (or otherwise), the Portfolio Funds may purchase securities on a when-issued basis, which means that delivery and payment take place sometime after the date of the commitment to purchase and are often conditioned upon the occurrence of a subsequent event, such as approval and consummation of a merger, reorganization or debt restructuring. The purchase price and/or interest create receivable with respect to a when-issue security are fixed when the Partnership enters into the commitment. Such securities are subject to changes in market value prior to their delivery. Because there is substantial uncertainty concerning the outcome of transactions involving companies in which the Portfolio Funds may invest, there is a potential risk of loss by a Portfolio Fund of its entire investment in such companies.

Alternative Investments. In the alternative asset class, the Investment Manager may invest assets of the Partnership in other pooled investment vehicles managed by the Investment Manager. The pooled investment vehicles managed by the Investment Manager may follow a variety of investment strategies including investments in commodities, managed futures, inflation-adjusted bonds, global real estate, "hedge fund strategies", which may be broadly characterized as "hedge funds", and mezzanine debt or Illiquid Investments.

Withdrawal Considerations. The Partnership may be subject to withdrawal restrictions of the individual Portfolio Fund(s) in which it will invest. In addition, the Partnership is permitted to invest in Illiquid Investments. There is no market for the Interests, and no market is expected to develop. Therefore, in certain circumstances, the Partnership may not be able to withdraw invested assets from a particular Portfolio Fund or with respect to Illiquid Investments at a time that would be most advantageous to the Partnership or at a time that would allow the Partnership to comply with its withdrawal obligations to its Limited Partners. In this regard, the General Partner has the right to suspend in whole or in part certain withdrawal rights of the Limited Partners to the extent that the Partnership is unable to obtain liquidity from its investments in one or more of the Portfolio Funds. The illiquidity of Illiquid Investments and restrictions on withdrawals at the level of the individual Portfolio Funds could have a material adverse effect on the Partnership, as well as the ability of the Limited Partners to liquidate their investments in the Partnership during permitted withdrawal periods. Consequently, Limited Partners may be unable to liquidate their Interests except by withdrawing from the Partnership in accordance with the terms of this Memorandum, and, even in such event, payment of withdrawal proceeds may be delayed for a significant period of time. One or more affiliates of the Investment Manager may serve as general partner or manager of such Portfolio Funds, and will not be required to liquidate Portfolio Fund investments other than when they determine such liquidation is advisable or appropriate in their sole discretion, without regard to withdrawal provisions applicable to the Partnership. Limited Partners may be unable to liquidate their investment promptly in the event of an emergency or for any other reason.

High Growth Industry Related Risks. Portfolio Funds may have significant investments in the securities of high growth companies (e.g., technology, communications and healthcare). It is noted that these securities may be very volatile. In addition, these companies may face undeveloped or limited markets, have limited products, have no proven profit-making history, may operate at a loss or with substantial variations in operating results from period to period, have limited access to capital and/or be in the developmental stages of their businesses, have limited ability to protect their rights to certain patents, copyrights, trademarks and other trade secrets, or be otherwise adversely affected by the extremely competitive markets in which many of their competitors operate.

Risk of Illiquid Investments. Illiquid Investments involve a high degree of financial risk. There can be no assurance that Illiquid Investments will be profitable or that substantial losses will not occur. The companies in which the Illiquid Investments will invest are often dependent on the skills of a small number of executives and are vulnerable to changes in technology, fluctuations in demand for their products, changing interest rates and other factors. There can also be no assurance that the Illiquid Investments will be repaid, be able to sell or otherwise liquidate their investments at the optimal time or price. Therefore, there can be no assurance that the rate of return objectives of the Illiquid Investments will be realized or that there will be any return of capital to the Limited Partners.

Illiquid and Long-Term Investments. It is anticipated that there will be a significant period of time before certain Illiquid Investments will have completed their investments. Such investments may take several years from the date of initial investment to reach a state of maturity when realization of the investment can be achieved. Although investments by Illiquid Investments occasionally may generate some current income, private investment transaction structures typically will not provide for liquidity of the Illiquid Investment's investment prior to that time. The return of capital and the realization of gains, if any, from such investment will generally occur only upon the partial or complete disposition or refinancing of the investment. In light of the foregoing, it is likely that no significant return from the disposition of Illiquid Investment's underlying investments will occur for a substantial period of time from the commencement of the Illiquid Investment's operations. It is unlikely that there will be a public market for the securities held by the Illiquid Investment and/or its portfolio companies at the time of their acquisition. The Illiquid Investment generally will not be able to sell its securities publicly unless the issuer has consummated a public offering of its securities and such offered securities are registered under applicable securities laws, unless an exemption from such registration requirements is available. In addition, in some cases, the Partnership may be prohibited by contract from selling certain securities for a period of time and, as a result, may not be permitted to sell an underlying investment at a time it might otherwise desire to do so. Further, disposition of such investments may require a lengthy time period or may result in distributions in kind to investors.

Investments in Less Established Companies. The Partnership may invest a portion of its assets in the securities of less established companies, or early stage companies. Investments in such early stage companies may involve greater risks than those generally associated with investments in more established companies. For instance, less established companies tend to have smaller capitalizations and fewer resources and, therefore, are often more vulnerable to financial failure. Such companies also may have shorter operating histories on which to judge future performance and in many cases, if operating, will have negative cash flow. In the case of start-up enterprises, such companies may not have significant or any operating revenues. In addition, less mature companies could be more susceptible to irregular accounting or other fraudulent practices. Furthermore, to the extent there is any public market for the securities held by the Illiquid Investment, securities of less established companies may be subject to more abrupt and erratic market price movements than those of larger, more established companies.

Some of the investments expected to be made by an Illiquid Investment would be considered highly speculative and may result in the loss of the Special Situation Investment's entire investment therein. There can be no assurance that any such losses will be offset by gains (if any) realized on the Illiquid Investment's other investments.

Investments in Restructurings or Underperforming Companies. The Partnership may make investments in companies that are experiencing or are expected to experience financial difficulties, which such companies may never overcome. Such investments could, in certain circumstances, subject the Partnership to additional potential liabilities, which may exceed the value of the Partnership's original investment therein. Such investments of the Partnership could also be subject to federal bankruptcy law and state fraudulent transfer laws, which may vary from state to state, if the securities relating to such investments were issued with the intent of hindering, delaying or defrauding creditors or, in certain circumstances, if the issuer receives less than reasonably equivalent value or fair consideration in return for issuing such securities. If such investments constitute debt and such debt is used for a buyout of shareholders, this risk is greater than if the debt proceeds are used for day-to-day operations or organic growth. If a court were to find that the issuance of the securities was a fraudulent transfer or conveyance, the court could void the payment obligations under the securities, further subordinate the securities to other existing and future indebtedness of the issuer or require the Partnership to repay any amounts received by it with respect to the securities. In the event of a finding that a fraudulent transfer or conveyance occurred, the Partnership may not receive any repayment on the securities.

Under the Bankruptcy Code, a lender that has inappropriately exercised control of the management and policies of a company may have its claims against the company subordinated or disallowed, or may be found liable for damages suffered by parties as a result of such actions. In addition, under certain circumstances, payments to the Partnership and distributions by the Partnership ion Investment to its limited partners may be reclaimed if any such payment or distribution is later determined to have been a fraudulent conveyance or a preferential payment. Such debt may also be disallowed or subordinated to the claims of other creditors if the Partnership is found to have engaged in other inequitable conduct resulting in harm to other parties. The Partnership's underlying investment may be treated as equity if it is deemed to be a contribution to capital, or if the Partnership attempts to control the outcome of the business affairs of a company prior to its filing under the Bankruptcy Code. While the Partnership will attempt to avoid taking the types of action that would lead to such liability, there can be no assurance that such claims will not be asserted or that the Partnership will be able successfully to defend against them.

REGULATORY AND TAX RISKS

General Regulatory Risks. Statutes, regulations and policies are continually under review by the U.S. Congress and state legislatures and federal and state regulatory agencies. The introduction of new legislation or amendments to existing legislation and regulations (including changes in how they are interpreted or implemented) by governments, the decisions of courts and tribunals and the rulings and decisions of regulatory authorities, can adversely impact the Partnership's returns. The regulatory environment for private investment funds is evolving, and changes in the regulation of these funds may adversely affect the value of investments held by the Partnership, the cost of compliance with applicable regulations, and the ability of the Partnership to obtain the leverage it might otherwise obtain or to pursue its trading strategies.

Regulatory Risks Related to the Highland Transaction. In connection with the Highland Transaction (if consummated), there can be no assurance that such transaction (if consummated) will not result in adverse regulatory consequences (including, without limitation, being characterized as a "change of control" under applicable laws), even though the Highland Transaction only contemplates the acquisition of non-voting limited partnership interests in Highland.

Strategy Restrictions. Certain institutions may be restricted from directly utilizing investment strategies of the type in which the Partnership may engage. Such institutions, including entities subject to ERISA, should consult their own advisors, counsel and accountants to determine what restrictions may apply and whether an investment in the Partnership is appropriate.

Trading Limitations. For all securities, instruments and/or assets listed on an exchange, including options listed on a public exchange, the exchange generally has the right to suspend or limit trading under certain circumstances. Such suspensions or limits could render certain strategies difficult to complete or continue and subject the Partnership to loss. Also, such a suspension could render it impossible for the Investment Manager to liquidate positions and thereby expose the Partnership to potential losses relating thereto.

Limited Regulatory Oversight. The Partnership's investments are not supervised or monitored by any regulatory authority. The Partnership is not registered as an "investment company" under the Investment Company Act. Although the Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the SEC, neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager is registered as a commodity pool operator, pursuant to an exemption provided under Rule 4.13(a)(3) of the CEA. Consequently, Limited Partners will not benefit from some of the protections afforded by these statutes, including oversight by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism. The Uniting and Strengthening America by Providing Appropriate Tools Required to Intercept and Obstruct Terrorism Act of 2001, as amended (the "USA PATRIOT Act"), signed into law on and effective as of October 26, 2001, requires that financial institutions, a term that includes banks, broker-dealers and investment companies, establish and maintain compliance programs to guard against money laundering activities. The USA PATRIOT Act requires the Secretary of the U.S. Treasury ("Treasury") to prescribe regulations in connection with anti- money laundering policies of financial institutions. The U.S. Federal Reserve Board, the Treasury and the SEC are currently studying what types of investment vehicles should be required to adopt anti-money laundering procedures, and it is unclear at this time whether such procedures will apply to pooled investment vehicles such as the Partnership. Future rules and regulations regarding money laundering or proceeds of crime could regulate the Partnership. In addition, in April 2000, the Treasury Department published proposed regulations that would require certain investment advisors to establish an anti-money laundering program. It is possible that there could be promulgated legislation or regulations that would require the Partnership or its affiliates, in connection with the establishment of anti-money laundering procedures, to share information with governmental authorities with respect to investors in the Interests. Such legislation and/or regulations could require the Partnership to implement additional restrictions on the transfer of the Interests. The Partnership reserves the right to request such information as is necessary to verify the identity of investors in the Interests, and the source of the payment of subscription monies, or as is necessary to comply with any customer identification programs required by Financial Crimes Enforcement Network and/or the SEC or such information as may be required in order for the Partnership to discharge its obligations under the laws of the Cayman Islands (including pursuant to the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Law (2005 Revision)). In the event of delay or failure by the applicant to produce any information required for verification purposes, an application for or transfer of the Interests and the subscription monies relating thereto may be refused.

Recent Developments in the Financial Services Industry. Recent developments in the U.S. financial markets have heightened the risks associated with the investment activities and operations of hedge funds, including without limitation, those resulting from a substantial reduction in the availability of credit and the increased cost of short-term credit, a decrease in market liquidity and an increased risk of insolvency of brokers and other counterparties. In addition, in July of 2010, the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act ("Dodd-Frank") was passed which imposes many new requirements and restrictions on the financial services industry that may likely affect the business, operations and performance of hedge funds, such as increased reporting requirements, limitations on certain trading activity and regulatory oversight by different agencies, such as the newly created Financial Stability Oversight Counsel. Even with the passage of Dodd-Frank, the implications of its passage for the hedge fund industry as a whole still remain somewhat unclear. The hedge fund industry may continue to be adversely affected by the recent developments in the financial markets in the U.S. and abroad, and any future legal, regulatory, or governmental action and developments in such financial markets and the broader U.S. economy could have an adverse effect on the Partnership or the Partnership's business, operations and performance.

Enhanced Regulation of Swaps. The Wall Street Transparency and Accountability Act of 2010 (the "WSTAA") will, subject to exceptions for certain hedgers, (1) require swaps accepted for clearing by a derivatives clearing organization (a "DCO") or for trading through a designated contract market or swaps-execution facility to be so cleared and traded, (2) require margin for almost all swap transactions, (3) subject traders with a "substantial position" in swaps to registration and regulation requirements as a "major swap participant" or "swap dealer", and (4) impose position limits on swaps either individually or in the aggregate with respect to positions in commodity-futures contracts. Due to the new requirements imposed by the WSTAA, the Partnership may experience increased transaction costs to pay for the clearing, execution and segregation obligations. In addition, margin requirements may increase once margin is set by DCOs with input from the CFTC, which may limit the Partnership's ability to engage in leverage and limit the Partnership's return. The application of position limits to swap contracts may also limit the Partnership's ability to concentrate in any particular contract or exposure to an underlying commodity and may negatively impact the Partnership's ability to take advantage of current market trends or conditions. Any tightening in the market for swaps may significantly impact the Partnership and its returns. In addition, if the Partnership were deemed to be a swap dealer or a major swap participant under WSTAA, the Partnership may be required to register with the CFTC and would be subject to a number of regulatory requirements that would significantly impact the Partnership's legal obligations and its returns.

Tax Risk. The tax aspects of an investment in the Partnership are complicated and each investor should have them reviewed by professional advisors familiar with such investor's personal tax situation and with the tax laws and regulations applicable to the investor and private investment vehicles. The Partnership is not intended and should not be expected to provide any tax shelter, but is organized as a limited partnership to avoid corporate taxation and to permit any distributions it might make to be made without being taxed as dividends. No assurance can be given that legislative, administrative or judicial changes will not occur which will alter, either prospectively or retroactively, the tax considerations or risk factors discussed in this Memorandum.

The tax consequences to a Limited Partner of an investment in the Partnership are uncertain. A significant portion of the Partnership is expected to be invested in illiquid Portfolio Funds and/or Illiquid Investments. Such investments are often structured as "pass through" entities for tax purposes and therefore may generate significant taxable income to the Limited Partners without any corresponding liquidity from such investments. As a result, an investment in the Partnership may be unsuitable for those investors that do not receive a corresponding deduction for such allocated income.

Neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager makes any representations or warranties regarding any tax matters. Prospective investors are strongly urged to consult their own tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal, state and local and non-U.S. tax consequences to them arising from an investment in the Partnership, and should rely on the advice of their own tax advisors with respect to the possible impact on its investment in the Partnership of any future legislation or administrative or judicial action. You should review the section entitled "TAXATION" for a more complete discussion of certain of the tax risks inherent in the acquisition of Interests.

Tax-Exempt Entities. Certain prospective Limited Partners may be subject to federal and state laws, rules and regulations that may regulate their participation in the Partnership, or their engaging, directly or indirectly through an investment in the Partnership, in investment strategies of the types that the Partnership utilizes from time to time. Tax-exempt entities should consider the applicability to them of the provisions relating to UBTI (as defined below). Investments in the Partnership by entities subject to ERISA and other tax-exempt entities require special consideration. See "ERISA CONSIDERATIONS" and "TAXATION—Tax-Exempt Investors".

Diversification. The tax benefits of the Policies may not be available in the event that the methodology used by the Partnership does not satisfy the diversification rules as described under "TAXATION" herein, including the risk that, if the Partnership fails to meet such diversification rules, owners of Policies funded by a Separate Account that is treated as holding interests in the Partnership would be subject to current taxation on the annual earnings of the Separate Account.

Diversification of Contracts. Interests in the Partnership will be held only by variable contract separate asset accounts of Insurance Companies and state and local governmental pension plans, §529 plans, and private sector qualified pension or retirement plans, as generally described in Treasury Regulation 1.817-5(f)(3). Variable contract separate asset accounts are subject to certain investment diversification requirements (the "Diversification Rules") of Section 817(h) of the Code and the Regulations with respect to assets held in such separate accounts. These rules apply to the investments made by separate accounts (such separate accounts are referred to as "segregated asset accounts") that are used to fund benefits under Policies that are "variable contracts" within the meaning of Section 817(d) of the Code, other than "pension plan contracts."

For purposes of satisfying the Diversification Rules, the assets of the Partnership must be invested in securities such that no more than 55% of total assets of the Partnership may be invested in the securities of any one (1) issuer, no more than 70% of total assets of the Partnership may be invested in the securities of any two (2) issuers, no more than 80% of total assets of the Partnership may be invested in the securities of any three (3) issuers, and no more than 90% of total assets of the Partnership may be invested in the securities of any four (4) issuers. For purposes of these Diversification Rules, all securities of the same issuer are treated as a single investment and in the case of government securities, each government agency or instrumentality is treated as a separate issuer. Thus, all securities issued by the Treasury would be considered a single investment, but securities issued by the Federal Home Loan Banks would be considered a separate investment from Treasury securities. The assets of the Partnership will be invested in compliance with these rules.

Under a "look-through" rule established by the IRS, if: (i) all Interests of the Partnership are held by one or more segregated asset accounts of Insurance Companies (other than Interests held by persons listed in §1.817-5(f)(3) of the Regulations) and (ii) public access to the Partnership is available exclusively through the purchase of a variable contract as defined in Section 817(d) of the Code, then the test for diversification is made by looking to the assets held by the Partnership. So long as the Partnership is subject to the "look-through" rule, Interests in the Partnership will not constitute a single investment for purposes of the Diversification Rules. For purposes of applying such Diversification Rules, the Partnership's investment on behalf of Series 1 in the PE Portfolio Fund will be treated as a single asset, since the "look-through" rule will not apply to the PE Portfolio Fund.

In the event that the Partnership fails to satisfy the look-through requirements of the Diversification Rules, any Policy based on a segregated asset account that has invested in the Partnership may not be treated as a life insurance or annuity contract for federal income tax purposes. For this purpose, a Policy is based on a segregated asset account if amounts received under such Policy, or earnings thereon, are allocated to such segregated asset account. If a Policy is no longer treated as a life insurance or annuity contract, then the owner of the Policy would be subject to current taxation on the income on the Policy for taxable years in which such failure occurs, and thereafter. If the Policy is a life insurance or annuity contract under local law, however, then certain amounts paid as death benefits will be treated as amounts paid under a life insurance or annuity contract for federal income tax purposes. If the failure to meet the Diversification Rules is shown to be inadvertent, the Insurance Company that issued the Policy is permitted to bring the segregated asset account into compliance with those rules. In such cases, the Diversification Rules contemplate adjustments or the payment of a "toll charge" for the period during which the account failed to meet the Diversification Rules. Accordingly, compliance with the Diversification Rules, as they may be modified from time to time, is important and will be carefully monitored by the Investment Manager. Compliance with the Diversification Rules may have the effect of reducing the return of the Partnership, as the investments and strategies utilized by the Investment Manager may be different from what the Investment Manager might otherwise believe to be desirable.

Investor Control. The Partnership is an insurance-dedicated investment fund. In certain circumstances, the owner of a variable life insurance or annuity contract invested in a Separate Account may, for federal income tax purposes, be considered the owner of the assets of the Separate Account that funds the variable contract under an "investor control" theory. Each Policy Owner should consult his or her own tax advisors regarding the "investor control" theory and the particular tax risks, if any, posed by the Policy Owner's selection of the Partnership as his or her investment option under a related Policy.

Policy Owners have no right to communicate with or direct the investment policies or decisions of the General Partner, any administrator, Investment Manager, or Investment Manager relating in any way to the Partnership. For purposes of this Memorandum, the term Policy Owner includes: (i) any trustees of a Policy Owner; (ii) any Policy beneficiaries; (iii) any affiliated person (as this term is defined in Section 2(a)(3) of the Investment Company Act) of the foregoing persons; or (iv) any person that represents the Policy Owner.

There is not, nor shall there be, a pre-arranged binding agreement between the General Partner, the Administrator and the Investment Manager, on the one hand, and any Policy Owner, on the other hand, relating to the investments of the Partnership. Furthermore, Limited Partners have no right or power to take part in the management of the Partnership.

None of the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates will be held responsible to any Limited Partner or Policy Owner for any loss, damage, liability or expense resulting from a violation of the "investor control" theory to the extent such violation is attributable to conduct of a Policy Owner.

Policy Owners should consult their own tax advisors regarding the "investor control" theory.

This Memorandum Intended for Limited Partners. This Memorandum does not address the tax treatment afforded by Policy Owners. Policy Owners should refer to their insurance contract and related explanatory materials for such a discussion. The Limited Partners are the owners of Interests in the Interests. Policy Owners are not Limited Partners of the Partnership and do not have rights as such.

Accounting Rules. The Partnership's assets and liabilities are valued in accordance with the Partnership Agreement. However, for purposes of preparing the Partnership's annual audited financial statements, which are prepared in accordance with GAAP, certain of the Partnership's assets and liabilities may be valued in a manner that, while consistent with GAAP, may be different from the manner in which such assets are valued in accordance with the valuation policies set forth in the Partnership Agreement.

The General Partner may at any time choose to change the Partnership's accounting guidelines from GAAP to the IFRS. In such event, the financial performance of the Partnership, as determined under IFRS, may vary from those determined under GAAP.

The Investment Manager undertakes to resolve conflicts in a fair and equitable basis, which in some instances may mean a resolution that would not maximize the benefit to the Limited Partners.

No Obligation of Full-Time Service. None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates has any obligation to devote its full time to the business of the Partnership. Each is only required to devote such time to the Partnership as the General Partner deems necessary to accomplish the purposes of the Partnership, and each may engage in other business activities, including competing ventures and/or unrelated employment, which may result in various conflicts of interest between such persons and the Partnership.

Services to Affiliated Funds. In addition to managing the Partnership and its investments, each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates may provide investment management and other services to other parties and may manage and/or establish Affiliated Funds in the future, including those that may employ an investment program and strategy similar to that of the Partnership. Specifically, as of the date hereof: (i) the Investment Manager acts as the investment manager to the PE Portfolio Fund that: (x) is expected to initially invest in the Highland Transaction, if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction; (ii) Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, is the general partner of the PE Portfolio Fund; (iii) the Principal is the managing member and controlling person of Rand PE Fund Management, LLC. As such, the Investment Manager and the Principal owe fiduciary duties to different investment vehicles, which may conflict with each other; and (iv) the Investment Manager acts as the investment subadvisor to a series of SALI Multi-Series Fund, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership, and provides certain discretionary investment advisory or consulting services to such series.

The investments made by Affiliated Funds that may be managed by the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or the Investment Manager Affiliates in the future may compete with investments for the Partnership's account, and the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or the Investment Manager Affiliates may decide to invest the funds of these Affiliated Funds rather than the assets of the Partnership in a particular security or strategy. In addition, the Investment Manager and/or such other persons will determine the allocation of funds by and among the Partnership and the Affiliated Funds to investment strategies and techniques on whatever basis they decide is appropriate or desirable in their sole and absolute discretion. The records of these Affiliated Funds will not be made available to Limited Partners. Nonetheless, in the event that certain securities, instruments and other assets are suitable for acquisition by the Partnership and by other accounts managed by the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or the Investment Manager Affiliates, and the Investment Manager or such other persons are not able to acquire the desired aggregate amount of such securities, instruments and other assets on terms and conditions which they deem advisable, the Investment Manager and such persons will endeavor in good faith to allocate the limited amount of such investment opportunities among the various accounts for which they consider to be suitable.

Certain Potential Conflicts Between the Principal and Highland Related to the Series 1 Interests. The Principal was previously a Partner and Co-Head of Private Equity at Highland, an investment manager with significant assets under management located in Dallas, Texas. Although Mr. Honis has retired from that position, he still currently serves on: (x) the Board of Trustees for each of Highland's affiliated registered investment companies, and receives compensation in connection with each of the foregoing, and (y) the Board of Directors for American HomePatient, Inc. and Turtle Bay Resort, LLC, which are portfolio companies of investment funds operated by Highland, and receives compensation in connection with each of the foregoing. Additionally, as part of his retirement, Mr. Honis has received or is in the process of receiving payments in the total amount of approximately $3 million from certain affiliates of Highland.

In addition, pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement, Highland serves as the Shared Services Provider, which provides the Investment Manager and the Partnership with certain administrative, information technology, accounting, tax, back-office and other services. In addition, the Shared Services Provider may be (but, as of the date hereof, is not) engaged by the Partnership to act as the Partnership's Administrator, pursuant to a separate Administration Agreement.

Further, the Investment Manager and Highland have had preliminary discussions concerning the potential acquisition of all or substantially all of the non-voting limited partnership interests in Highland for the first series of the PE Portfolio Fund (such purchases or other acquisitions, if any, collectively, the "Highland Transaction"). Although, as of the date hereof, the PE Portfolio Fund and Highland have not actively negotiated documentation for the legal and economic terms of the Highland Transaction (and there can be no assurances that such transaction will be consummated), it is nonetheless the intention of such parties that the transaction should come about.

In light of the foregoing, the Principal, and indirectly the Investment Manager, are in a position of conflict with respect to the ultimate decision by the Partnership regarding whether it pursues the Highland Transaction, and under what terms (if any) it agrees to participate in any such transaction.

Also see "—Potential Directorship Positions; Other Roles" herein.

Highland Transaction; Limited Control. If the Highland Transaction is consummated, it is currently contemplated that the PE Portfolio Fund would acquire only limited partnership interests in Highland. As with investments in non-controlling interests in other partnerships, the Highland Transaction may involve special risks associated with the possibility that the controlling principals of Highland may: (i) have economic or business interests or goals that are inconsistent with those of the PE Portfolio Fund and therefore the Partnership, (ii) take actions contrary to the instructions or requests of the PE Portfolio Fund or contrary to the PE Portfolio Fund's policies or objectives, (iii) be unable or unwilling to fulfill its obligations under the organizational/governing documents, and/or (iv) experience financial difficulties. The occurrence of such problems could have a material adverse effect on the business and prospects of the PE Portfolio Fund's investment in the Highland Transaction and may affect management decisions and exit strategies in a manner adverse to the PE Portfolio Fund's and the Partnership's interests.

Conflicts Related to Shared Services Provider. The Investment Manager has certain affiliated entities that may provide services with respect to the Partnership, the Portfolio Funds (generally and the PE Portfolio Fund specifically) and certain investments held by the Partnership. The Shared Services Provider may provide services for the benefit of the Partnership under the Shared Services Agreement and/or may incur reimbursable expenses on behalf of the Partnership and/or the Investment Manager. In addition, the Shared Services Provider may be (but, as of the date hereof, is not) engaged by the Partnership to act as the Partnership's Administrator, pursuant to a separate Administration Agreement. The Principal is a former Partner and former Co-Head of Private Equity of the Shared Services Provider.

Potential Directorship Positions; Other Roles. The Investment Manager Affiliates may, subject to applicable law, serve as directors (whether supervisory or managing), officers, personnel, employees, partners, agents, nominees or signatories, and receive arm's length fees in connection with such service, for the Partnership or other entities that operate in the same or a related line of business as the Partnership, for other clients managed by the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, or for any Portfolio Fund or portfolio company of the Partnership, and the Partnership shall have no right to any such fees. In serving in these multiple capacities, they may have obligations to such other clients or investors in those entities, the fulfillment of which may not be in the best interests of the Partnership. Also see "—Certain Potential Conflicts Between the Principal and Highland Related to the Series 1 Interests" herein.

The Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates may act as an underwriter, arranger or placement agent, or otherwise participate in the origination, structuring, negotiation, syndication or offering of investments purchased by the Partnership. Such transactions are on an arm's-length basis and may be subject to arm's-length fees. There is no expectation for preferential access to transactions involving investments that are underwritten, originated, arranged or placed by the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates and the Partnership shall not have any right to any such fees.

Potential Cross-Trades. The Investment Manager may effect client cross-transactions where the Investment Manager causes a transaction to be effected between the Partnership and another client advised by it or any of its affiliates. The Investment Manager may engage in a client cross-transaction involving the Partnership any time that the Investment Manager believes such transaction to be fair to the Partnership and such other client. By purchasing an Interest in the Partnership, a Limited Partner is deemed to have consented to such client cross-transactions between the Partnership and another client of the Investment Manager or one of its affiliates.

Diverse Limited Partners. The Limited Partners may include taxable and tax-exempt entities and persons or entities resident of or organized in various jurisdictions. As a result, conflicts of interest may arise in connection with decisions made by the General Partner that may be more beneficial for one type of Limited Partner than for another. In making such decisions, the General Partner intends to consider the investment objectives of the Partnership as a whole, not the investment objectives of any Limited Partner individually.

Soft Dollars. The General Partner and the Investment Manager may be offered soft dollars in the form of research and brokerage and other products or services, which may be utilized by the General Partner, the Investment Manager and their respective affiliates in connection with the services they offer to clients other than the Partnership. The use of soft dollars presents the Investment Manager with potential conflicts of interest and may provide the Investment Manager with incentives to: (i) use certain brokers who may provide certain soft dollar benefits that other brokers may not, without regard to its obligations to the Partnership (including, without limitation, its best execution obligations); or (ii) trade more actively in order to generate more soft dollars and thereby reduce its expenses.

Referral of Investors. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may sell Interests through broker-dealers and pay a marketing fee or commission in connection with such activities, including ongoing payments, at the General Partner's or the Investment Manager's own expense. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may also deduct a percentage of the amount invested by a Limited Partner in the Partnership to pay sales fees or charges, on a fully disclosed basis, to a broker-dealer based upon the capital contribution of such Limited Partner introduced to the Partnership by such broker-dealer. Any such sales fees or charges would be assessed against the referred Limited Partner and would reduce the amount actually invested by such Limited Partner in the Partnership. Such broker-dealers may have a conflict of interest in advising prospective investors to purchase Interests, as the broker-dealers are often only compensated upon the investment of the prospective investors.

Lack of Separate Representation; Potential Conflicts of Counsel. Neither the Partnership Agreement nor any of the agreements, contracts and arrangements between the Partnership, on the one hand, and the General Partner or the Investment Manager, on the other hand, were or will be the result of arm's-length negotiations. The attorneys, accountants and others who have performed services for the Partnership in connection with this offering, and who will perform services for the Partnership in the future, have been and will be selected by the General Partner. No independent counsel has been retained to represent the interests of prospective investors or Limited Partners. You are therefore urged to consult your own counsel as to the terms and provisions of the Partnership Agreement and all subscription and other related documents.

In addition, Sadis & Goldberg LLP has represented Highland and affiliates at different times over a period lasting over a decade. It is currently expected that Sadis & Goldberg LLP will represent the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and certain of their respective affiliates in connection with the establishment of the Partnership and the PE Portfolio Fund, the possible consummation of the Highland Transaction, and certain related matters. The Principal and his affiliates are aware of the representation by Sadis & Goldberg LLP of Highland and affiliates.

Valuation of Assets. The Administrator will calculate the net asset value of the Partnership (based upon information provided by the Investment Manager). In the case of investments in Portfolio Funds that are not readily marketable, the net asset value calculation provided by the relevant managers (or any affiliates or service providers thereof) of those Portfolio Funds will generally be used in determining the Partnership's Net Asset Value. Such calculations could be incorrect, delayed or subject to significant adjustments, any of which events could adversely affect the valuation of the Partnership's investments. The Investment Manager intends to engage an independent third-party valuation agent (in addition to the Administrator) to appraise the Partnership's interests in Illiquid Investments, including, without limitation, the PE Portfolio Fund; provided that, if the PE Portfolio Fund engages its own independent third-party valuation agent, the Partnership may rely on such valuation of any investment in the PE Portfolio Fund. If the Investment Manager determines, in its sole discretion, that the valuation of any security, commodity, option or other financial instrument pursuant to the valuation methodologies described herein does not fairly represent its market value, the Investment Manager will value such security, option or other financial instrument as it reasonably determines. Likewise, any securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that have no public market, investments in other asset classes (including those in Side Pocket Accounts), and all other assets of the Partnership for which a valuation methodology is not specified, will be valued by the Investment Manager in a manner determined in good faith to reflect their fair market value. The Investment Manager has a conflict of interest in that it will receive a higher Management Fee if the Partnership's assets are given a favorable valuation. See "SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS—Determination of Net Asset Value".

The foregoing list of risk factors and conflicts of interest does not purport to be a complete enumeration or explanation of the risks and conflicts of interest involved in an investment in the Partnership. Offerees should read this entire Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement and consult with their own advisors before deciding to purchase Interests.

ERISA CONSIDERATIONS

An investment of benefit plan assets in the Partnership may raise issues under ERISA and the Code. ERISA and the Code impose certain duties on persons who are fiduciaries of a Plan (as defined below) and prohibit certain transactions involving the assets of a Plan and its fiduciaries or other interested parties. Under ERISA and the Code, any person who exercises any discretionary authority or control over the administration of a Plan or the management or disposition of the assets of a Plan, or who renders investment advice for a fee or other compensation to a Plan, is generally considered to be a fiduciary of the Plan.

In considering an investment in the Partnership of a portion of the assets of any employee benefit plan (including a "Keogh" plan) subject to the fiduciary and prohibited transaction provisions of ERISA or the Code or similar provisions under applicable state law (collectively, a "Plan"), a Plan fiduciary should determine, in light of the risks and limited liquidity inherent in an investment in the Partnership, whether the investment is in accordance with the documents and instruments governing the Plan and the applicable provisions of ERISA or similar law relating to a fiduciary's duties to the Plan. Furthermore, absent an exemption, the fiduciaries of a Plan should not purchase Interests with the assets of any Plan if the Investment Manager or any affiliate thereof is a fiduciary or other "party in interest" or "disqualified person" (collectively, a "party in interest") with respect to such Plan.

PLAN ASSETS

Regulations promulgated under ERISA by the U.S. Department of Labor ("Plan Asset Regulations") generally provide that when a Plan subject to Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code acquires an equity interest in an entity that is neither a "publicly-offered security" nor a security issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act, the Plan's assets include both the equity interest and an undivided interest in each of the underlying assets of the entity, unless it is established either that equity participation in the entity by "benefit plan investors" is not "significant" or that the entity is an "operating company", in each case as defined in the Plan Asset Regulations. The Interests will not constitute "publicly offered" securities or securities issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act, and it is not expected that the Partnership will qualify as an "operating company" under the Plan Asset Regulations. For purposes of the Plan Asset Regulations, equity participation in an entity by benefit plan investors will not be "significant" so long as they own, in the aggregate less than 25%, directly or indirectly, of the value of each class of such entity's equity. For purposes of such calculation, equity interests held by persons (other than a benefit plan investor) with discretionary authority or control over the assets of the entity or who provide investment advice for a fee (direct or indirect) with respect to such assets, and any affiliates thereof, are disregarded. For purposes of this 25% test ("Benefit Plan Investor Test"), "benefit plan investors" include: employee benefit plans subject to the provisions of Part 4 of Title I of ERISA and plans subject to Section 4975 of the Code, including "Keogh" plans and individual retirement accounts ("IRAs"). The following are not included in the definition of benefit plan investor: employee benefit plans maintained outside the U.S. by foreign companies that cover non-U.S. persons, governmental plans, and certain church plans. Thus, absent satisfaction of another exception under the Plan Asset Regulations, if 25% or more of the value of any class of Interests in the Partnership were owned by benefit plan investors, an undivided interest in each of the underlying assets of the Partnership would be deemed to be "plan assets" of any Plan subject to Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code that invested in the Partnership.

Consequently, the General Partner intends to use reasonable efforts either (i) to prohibit plans subject to Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code from investing in the Partnership or (ii) to provide that investment by "benefit plan investors" in the Partnership will not be "significant" for purposes of the Plan Asset Regulations by limiting equity participation by benefit plan investors in the Partnership to less than 25% of the value of each class of Interests in the Partnership as described above. However, each Plan fiduciary should be aware that even if the Partnership were to avoid plan asset status under the Benefit Plan Investor Test at the time a Plan acquires Interests in the Partnership, the exemption could become unavailable at a later date as a result, for example, of subsequent transfers or withdrawals of Interests in the Partnership, and that Interests held by benefit plan investors may be subject to mandatory withdrawal in such event in order for the Partnership to continue to avoid plan asset status under the Benefit Plan Investor Test.

Furthermore, there can be no assurance that notwithstanding the reasonable efforts of the Partnership, the Partnership will satisfy the Benefit Plan Investor Test, that the structure of particular investments of the Partnership will otherwise satisfy the Plan Asset Regulations or that the underlying assets of the Partnership will not otherwise be deemed to include ERISA plan assets.

PLAN ASSET CONSEQUENCES

If the assets of the Partnership were deemed to be "plan assets" under ERISA, (i) the prudence and other fiduciary responsibility standards of ERISA would extend to investments made by the Partnership and (ii) certain transactions in which the Partnership might seek to engage could constitute "prohibited transactions" under ERISA and the Code. If a prohibited transaction occurs for which no exemption is available, the Investment Manager and any other fiduciary that has engaged in the prohibited transaction could be required (x) to restore to the Plan any profit realized on the transaction and (y) to reimburse the Plan for any losses suffered by the Plan as a result of the investment. In addition, each party in interest involved could be subject to an excise tax equal to 15% of the amount involved in the prohibited transaction for each year the transaction continues and, unless the transaction is corrected within statutorily required periods, to an additional tax of 100%. Plan fiduciaries that decide to invest in the Partnership could, under certain circumstances, be liable for prohibited transactions or other violations as a result of their investment in the Partnership or as co-fiduciaries for actions taken by or on behalf of the Partnership or the Investment Manager. With respect to an IRA that invests in the Partnership, the occurrence of a prohibited transaction involving the individual who established the IRA, or his or her beneficiaries, could cause the IRA to lose its tax-exempt status.

Under the Partnership Agreement, the General Partner has the power to take certain actions to avoid having the assets of the Partnership characterized as plan assets, including, without limitation, the right to refuse a subscription, exclude a Limited Partner from an investment or to compulsorily redeem a Limited Partner's Interests in the Partnership. While the General Partner does not expect that it will need to exercise such power, it cannot give any assurance that such power will not be exercised.

Each Plan fiduciary should consult its own legal advisor concerning the considerations discussed above before making an investment in the Partnership.

Prospective investors are advised that: (i) any U.S. federal tax advice contained herein, including any opinion of counsel referred to herein, is not intended or written to be used, and cannot be used, by any taxpayer for the purpose of avoiding U.S. federal tax penalties that may be imposed on the taxpayer; (ii) any such advice is written to support the promotion or marketing of the transactions described herein (or in any such opinion of counsel); and (iii) each taxpayer should seek advice based on the taxpayer's particular circumstances from an independent tax advisor.

INTRODUCTION

The following is a summary of certain aspects of the taxation of the Partnership and its Partners, which should be considered by a potential purchaser of an Interest in the Partnership. A complete discussion of all tax aspects of an investment in the Partnership is beyond the scope of this Memorandum. The following summary is only intended to identify and discuss certain salient issues.

This summary of certain tax considerations applicable to the Partnership is considered to be a correct interpretation of existing laws and regulations in force on the date of this Memorandum. No assurance can be given that changes in existing laws or regulations or their interpretation will not occur after the date of this Memorandum or that any such future guidance or interpretation will not be applied retroactively.

The following summary is not intended as a substitute for careful tax planning. The tax matters relating to the Partnership are complex and are subject to varying interpretations. Moreover, the effect of existing income tax laws and of proposed changes in income tax laws on Partners will vary with the particular circumstances of each Partner. Accordingly, each prospective investor must consult with and rely solely on his or its professional tax advisors with respect to the tax results of the investor's investment in the Partnership. In no event will the General Partner, its affiliates, counsel or other professional advisors be liable to any Limited Partner for any federal, state, local or other tax consequences of an investment in the Partnership, whether or not such consequences are as described below.

CLASSIFICATION OF THE PARTNERSHIP

Under the provisions of the Code and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder ("Regulations"), as in effect on the date of this Memorandum, so long as the Partnership complies with the Partnership Agreement, the Partnership should be classified for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a partnership and not as an association taxable as a corporation.

The Partnership has been formed under the Delaware Act as a series limited partnership and may offering its Interests in multiple separate Series. Under the provisions of the Code and the Regulations, as in effect on the date of this Memorandum, so long as the Partnership complies with the Partnership Agreement and the Delaware Act, each Series of Interests in the Partnership should be classified for U.S. federal income tax purposes as equity interests in a separate partnership and not as equity interests in an association taxable as a corporation.

The Partnership has not sought and will not seek a ruling from the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") with respect to its status as a partnership. If a Series of Interests in the Partnership should be classified as an association taxable as a corporation (e.g., as a result of a change in law or a material change in facts), the taxable income of the Partnership allocable to such Series would be subject to corporate income taxation; and distributions from the Partnership to the Limited Partners owning Interests in such Series would be treated as dividend income when received by such Limited Partners to the extent of the current or accumulated earnings and profits of the Partnership allocable to such Series. Furthermore, the Insurance Company Limited Partners would lose their look-through treatment for the purposes of complying with the diversification requirements imposed by Section 817(h) of the Code.

Certain partnerships may be taxable as corporations for U.S. federal income tax purposes under the publicly traded partnership rules set forth in the Code and the Regulations, and a Series of the Partnership may not qualify for one of the safe harbors under the Regulations if such Series has more than 100 Partners. The Partnership expects that, under the facts and circumstances test set forth in the Regulations, the Interests will not be readily tradable on a secondary market (or the substantial equivalent thereof) and therefore, the Series partnerships will not be treated as publicly traded partnerships under the Regulations. It is assumed in the following discussion of tax considerations that each Series of the Partnership will be treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Unless otherwise indicated, references in the discussion below to the tax consequences of the "Partnership's" investments, activities, income and expenses refer to the investments, activities, income and expenses attributable to each Series that is treated as a separate tax partnership. Prospective investors should note that each Series will issue its annual Schedule K-1 tax reporting form to its Partners. Therefore, investors that own Interests in more than one Series will receive separate Schedule K-1 reporting forms for each Series in which the investor is treated as owning an equity interest.

TAXATION OF PARTNERSHIP OPERATIONS

As a partnership, the Partnership is not itself subject to U.S. federal income tax but will file an annual partnership information return with the IRS. Each Limited Partner, in computing his own federal income tax liability for a taxable year, is required to take into account such Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's net long-term capital gain or loss, net short-term capital gain or loss, net ordinary income or loss and any separately stated income items, deductions and credits for the taxable year of the Partnership that ends with or within such Partner's taxable year. The Partnership may utilize a variety of investment and trading strategies, which produce both short-term and long-term capital gain (or loss), as well as ordinary income (or loss). The Partnership will send annually to each Limited Partner a Schedule K-1 form reporting such Partner's distributive share of the Partnership items of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit. The Partnership intends to use the calendar year as its taxable year unless a different fiscal year is required under the Code.

Each Limited Partner will be subject to tax, and liable for such tax, on such Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's taxable income regardless of whether the Limited Partner has received or will receive any distribution of cash from the Partnership. Thus, in any particular year, a Limited Partner's distributive share of taxable income from the Partnership (and, generally, the taxes imposed on that income) could exceed the amount of cash, if any, such Limited Partner received or is entitled to withdraw from the Partnership.

Under Section 704 of the Code, a Limited Partner's distributive share of any Partnership item of income, gain, loss, deduction or credit is governed by the Partnership Agreement unless the allocation provided by the Partnership Agreement does not have "substantial economic effect". The Regulations promulgated under Section 704(b) of the Code provide certain "safe harbors" with respect to allocations, which, under the Regulations, will be deemed to have substantial economic effect. The validity of an allocation which does not satisfy any of the "safe harbors" of these Regulations is determined by taking into account all facts and circumstances relating to the economic arrangements among the Partners. While no assurance can be given, the allocations provided by the Partnership Agreement should have substantial economic effect and should be sustained under the facts and circumstances test. However, if it were determined by the IRS or otherwise that the allocations provided in the Partnership Agreement with respect to a particular item do not have substantial economic effect, each Limited Partner's distributive share of that item would be determined for tax purposes in accordance with that Limited Partner's interest in the Partnership, taking into account all facts and circumstances.

Cash distributions and withdrawals, to the extent they do not exceed a Limited Partner's tax basis in such Partner's interest in the Partnership, should not result in taxable gain to that Limited Partner, but reduce the tax basis in the Interest by the amount distributed or withdrawn. Cash distributed to a Limited Partner in excess of the tax basis of his or its Interest is generally taxable either as capital gain or ordinary income, depending on the circumstances. A distribution of property other than cash generally will not result in taxable income or loss to the Limited Partner to whom it is distributed until such time that the property is sold.

For financial statement presentation and capital account maintenance purposes, all securities held by the Partnership will be marked-to-market at the end of each relevant accounting period and the net gain or loss from marking to market will be reported as income or loss. This treatment differs from the general tax rule applicable to many securities transactions that a transaction does not result in gain or loss until it is closed by an actual sale or other disposition. The divergence between such accounting and tax treatments frequently may result in substantial variation between financial statement income (or loss) and taxable income (or loss) reported by the Partnership.

The income tax treatment of the Partnership will depend upon the tax treatment of the Portfolio Funds in which the Partnership invests.

The Partnership expects to be treated as engaged in a trade or business by reason of its anticipated investment, on behalf of Series 1, in the PE Portfolio Fund, which will own equity interests in one or more business partnerships. The Partnership may also engage in other trade or business activities, either directly or through investments in portfolio partnerships. Prospective investors that are U.S. tax-exempt entities should consider the impact of UBTI on an investment in the Partnership. See "—Tax-Exempt Investors" below.

The Partnership will also engage in investing and trading securities for its own account. Accordingly, a portion of the Partnership's direct and indirect expenses are expected to be deductible as trade or business expenses under Section 162 of the Code. Certain other expenses may be classified as Section 212 investment expenses, which, for certain types of Limited Partners, including trusts, would be classified as miscellaneous itemized deductions. Prospective investors that are classified as trusts for U.S. federal income tax purposes should consult their tax advisors concerning the limitations in the Code on deductions for miscellaneous itemized deductions.

LIMITATIONS ON LOSSES AND DEDUCTIONS

In General. A Limited Partner is not permitted to deduct Partnership losses that exceed the Partner's adjusted tax basis in its Interest at the end of the year in which such loss is incurred. A Limited Partner's basis for its Interest is generally equal the amount of such Partner's cash contributions made to the Partnership, increased by (i) the Partner's allocable share of Partnership taxable income, (ii) the Partner's allocable share of Partnership tax-exempt income, and (iii) the Partner's allocable share of nonrecourse liabilities of the Partnership (if any); and decreased by (w) the Limited Partner's allocable share of Partnership taxable losses and non-deductible expenses, (x) any distributions of cash received by the Limited Partner from the Partnership, (y) the tax basis of any property distributed by the Partnership to such Partner and (z) any decrease in the Partner's share of Partnership nonrecourse liabilities (if any). There are several other Code provisions that may limit the ability of a Limited Partner to claim deductions attributable to an investment in the Partnership. The most significant of these limitations are discussed below.

At Risk Limitations. Section 465 of the Code limits certain taxpayers' losses from certain activities to the amount they are "at risk" in the activities. Taxpayers subject to the "at risk" rules are non-corporate taxpayers, including trusts, and certain closely-held corporations. The activities subject to the "at risk" limitations include all activities in which the Partnership expects to engage. A Partner subject to the "at risk" rules will not be permitted to deduct in any year losses arising from its interest in the Partnership to the extent that the losses exceed the amount it is considered to have "at risk" in the Partnership at the close of that year.

A taxpayer is considered to be "at risk" in any activity to the extent of his cash contribution to the activity, his basis in other property contributed to the activity and his personal liability for repayments of amounts borrowed for use in the activity. With respect to amounts borrowed for use in the activity, the taxpayer is not considered to be "at risk" even if he is personally liable for repayment if the borrowing was from a person who has an "interest" in the activity other than an interest as a creditor. Even if a taxpayer is personally liable for repayment of amounts borrowed for use in the activity, and even if the amount borrowed is borrowed from a person whose only interest in the activity is an interest as a creditor, a taxpayer will not be considered "at risk" in the activity to the extent his investment in the activity is protected against loss through guarantees, stop loss agreements, or other similar arrangements.

Each Limited Partner will be at risk initially for the amount of his capital contribution. A Partner's amount "at risk" will be increased by his distributive share of income from the Partnership and will be decreased by his distributive share of losses from the Partnership and distributions to him. If a Partner's amount "at risk" decreases to zero, he can take no further losses until he has an "at risk" amount to cover the losses. A Partner is subject to a recapture of losses previously allowed to the extent that his amount "at risk" is reduced below zero (limited to loss amounts previously allowed to the Partner over any amounts previously recaptured).

Investment Interest Limitations. To the extent that the Partnership incurs interest expense or short sale expenses, a non-corporate Limited Partner, including a trust, will likely be subject to the "investment interest expense" limitations of Section 163(d) of the Code. Investment interest expense includes (i) interest paid or accrued on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry property held for investment and (ii) any amounts deductible in connection with a short sale. The deduction for investment interest expense is limited to the taxpayer's net investment income for the taxable year; i.e., the excess of investment income over investment expenses. Excess investment interest expense that is disallowed is not lost permanently but may be carried forward to succeeding years subject to the Section 163(d) limitation. Net capital gain (i.e., net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss) on property held for investment and qualified dividends are only included in investment income to the extent that the taxpayer elects to subject some or all of such gain or dividend income to taxation at ordinary income tax rates. The Section 163(d) limitations will apply at the Partner level with regard to the Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's interest expense.

To the extent that the Partnership is treated as engaged in a trade or business by reason of being deemed a trader, a non-corporate Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's interest expense from such trading activity would retain its character as investment interest subject to the Section 163(d) investment income limitation, but the allowable investment interest deduction would be deducted "above the line" in determining adjusted gross income and therefore fully deductible, rather than being treated as an itemized deduction.

Section 265(a)(2) of the Code disallows any deduction for interest paid by a taxpayer on indebtedness incurred or continued for the purpose of purchasing or carrying tax-exempt obligations. The IRS has announced that such purpose will be deemed to exist with respect to indebtedness incurred to finance a "portfolio investment", and that a limited partnership interest will be regarded as a "portfolio investment". Therefore, if the Partnership holds tax-exempt obligations, the IRS might take the position that all or part of the interest expense incurred by a Limited Partner in connection with the purchase of such Partner's Interest should be viewed as incurred to enable such Limited Partner to continue carrying tax-exempt obligations, and that such Limited Partner should not be allowed to deduct all or a portion of such interest.

Itemized Deduction Limitations. Under Section 67 of the Code, for non-corporate taxpayers, including trusts, certain miscellaneous itemized deductions are allowable only to the extent they exceed a "floor" amount equal to 2% of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income ("2% Floor"). To the extent that the Partnership's operations do not constitute a trade or business within the meaning of Section 162 and other provisions of the Code, a non-corporate Limited Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's investment expenses, other than investment interest expense, would be deductible only as miscellaneous itemized deductions, subject to the 2% Floor. Moreover, a non-corporate taxpayer's investment expenses that are miscellaneous itemized deductions are also not deductible in calculating the taxpayer's alternative minimum tax liability.

Capital losses generally may be deducted only to the extent of capital gains, except for non-corporate taxpayers who are allowed to deduct $3,000 of excess capital losses per year against ordinary income. Corporate taxpayers may carry back unused capital losses for three years and may carry forward such losses for five years; non-corporate taxpayers may not carry back unused capital losses but may carry forward unused capital losses indefinitely.

ADDITIONAL TAX ISSUES

Gain or loss from a short sale of property is generally considered as capital gain or loss to the extent that the property used to close the short sale constitutes a capital asset in the Partnership's hands.

The "wash sale" rules of Section 1091 of the Code disallow any deduction for losses arising from the sale or other disposition of "stock or securities", where, within a period beginning 30 days before such sale or disposition and ending 30 days afterwards, the taxpayer acquires "substantially identical" stocks of securities by purchase or by an exchange on which the entire amount of gain or loss is recognized. This disallowance rule also applies where, within such 61-day period, the taxpayer enters into a contract or option to acquire substantially identical stock or securities. Thus, if the Partnership were to engage in such a "wash sale" transaction, the Partners would not be able to recognize their distributive share of any loss realized in connection with such sale in the current year.

Currency Fluctuations - "Section 988" Gains and Losses. To the extent that the Partnership's investments are made in securities denominated in a foreign currency, gain or loss realized by the Partnership frequently will be affected by the fluctuation in the value of such foreign currencies relative to the value of the U.S. dollar. Generally, gains or losses with respect to the Partnership's investments in common stock of foreign issuers will be taxed as capital gains or losses at the time of the Partnership's sale of such stock. However, under Section 988 of the Code, gains or losses of the Partnership on the acquisition or disposition of foreign currency (i.e., the purchase of foreign currency and subsequent use of such currency to acquire stock) will be treated as ordinary income or loss. Moreover, under Section 988, gains and losses from disposition of debt securities denominated in a foreign currency that are attributable to the fluctuations in such currency between the date of acquisition of the debt security and the date of its disposition will be treated as ordinary income or loss. Since the Code provides limitations on the ability of taxpayers to deduct capital losses against ordinary income, a Partner's share of capital losses realized by the Partnership on sale of foreign securities would not be available to offset the Partner's share of ordinary income realized by the Partnership on its currency hedging transactions.

The Partnership may acquire foreign currency forward contracts, enter into foreign currency futures contracts and acquire put and call options on foreign currencies. Generally, foreign currency regulated futures contracts and option contracts that qualify as "Section 1256 contracts" will not be subject to ordinary income and loss treatment under Section 988. However, if the Partnership acquires currency futures contracts or options contracts that are not Section 1256 contracts, or any currency forward contracts, any gain or loss realized by the Partnership with respect to such instruments will be ordinary income or loss, unless (i) the contract is a capital asset in the hands of the Partnership and is not part of a straddle transaction and (ii) the Partnership makes an election (by the close of the day the transaction is entered into) to treat the gain or loss attributable to such contract as capital gain or loss.

The taxation of debt obligations under the Code is complex; the following discussion is intended to provide only a general description of these rules. Generally, interest income and income items similar to stated interest, such as original issue discount (in general, the annual portion of the discount on original issuance of debt obligations issued for less than their stated principal amount) and market discount (the amount by which debt obligations are acquired in the secondary market for less than their principal) are treated as items of ordinary income. Generally, debt obligations that are disposed of in a taxable transaction for an amount greater than their adjusted cost basis give rise to capital gain, which will be long-term if the debt obligation is held for longer than one year, and short-term, if held for a period of one year or less. Generally, debt obligations that are disposed of in a taxable transaction for an amount less than their adjusted cost basis give rise to capital loss, which will be long-term if the debt obligation is held for longer than one year, and short-term if held for a period of one year or less. In the event that any such debt obligations are not held as capital assets, such dispositions will generally give rise to ordinary gain or loss, as the case may be.

Section 1259 of the Code requires that the Partnership recognize gain on the constructive sale of any appreciated financial position in stock, a partnership interest, or certain debt instruments. A constructive sale of an appreciated financial position occurs if, among other things, the Partnership enters into (1) a short sale of the same or substantially identical property (a transaction commonly known as a “short sale against the box”), (2) an offsetting notional principal contract with respect to the same or substantially identical property, or (3) a futures or forward contract to deliver the same or substantially identical property. Exceptions to the foregoing apply to certain transactions closed within 30 days after the close of the taxable year if the underlying appreciated financial position remains “unhedged” for at least 60 days thereafter, and to transactions involving certain contracts to sell stock, debt instruments, or partnership interests if the contract settles within one year.

The IRS may treat certain positions in securities held (directly or indirectly) by a Partner and its indirect interest in similar securities held by the Partnership as “straddles” for federal income tax purposes. The application of the "straddle" rules in such a case could affect a Partner's holding period for the securities involved and may defer the recognition of losses with respect to such securities. In addition, if either of the Partner's positions in such a transaction is an “appreciated financial position”, application of the “straddle” rules may trigger a constructive sale of that position under the rules described above.

Section 1258 of the Code recharacterizes capital gain from a “conversion transaction” as ordinary income, with certain limitations. Conversion transactions are defined as transactions in which substantially all the expected return is attributable to the time value of money and either: (a) the transaction consists of the acquisition of property by the taxpayer and a substantially contemporaneous agreement to sell the same or substantially identical property in the future; (b) the transaction qualifies as a “straddle” (within the meaning of Section 1092(c) of the Code); (c) the transaction is one that was marketed or sold to the taxpayer on the basis that it would have the economic characteristics of a loan but the interest-like return would be taxed as capital gain; or (d) the transaction is described as a conversion transaction in the Regulations. The amount of gain so recharacterized will not exceed the amount of interest that would have accrued on the taxpayers' net investment for the relevant period at a yield equal to 120% of the “applicable rate”.

INVESTMENTS IN NON-U.S. CORPORATIONS

The Partnership may invest in certain foreign corporations that will be classified as “passive foreign investment companies” (“PFICs”) for U.S. tax purposes. Under the PFIC rules, unless the Partnership makes one of the elections described below, any gain realized by the Partnership on the sale or disposition of stock in a PFIC that is allocable to Partners that are U.S. Persons (as defined in the Code) will be treated as ordinary income and will be subject to U.S. federal income tax as if (i) the gain had been realized ratably over the Partnership’s holding period and (ii) the amount deemed realized had been subject to tax in each year of that holding period at the highest applicable federal income tax rate; in addition, an interest charge at the rate generally applicable to underpayments of federal income tax will be imposed on the amount. Further, any “excess distributions” from a PFIC (as defined in the Regulations) are treated as ordinary income (regardless of their original character) and subject to this deferred tax and interest charge.

Provided the PFIC complies with certain reporting requirements, the Partnership may elect to have the PFIC treated as a "qualified electing fund", in which case the Partnership would include annually in its gross income its pro rata share of the PFIC's net ordinary income and net realized capital gains, whether or not such amounts are actually distributed to the Partnership. Generally, any net operating losses or net capital losses of the PFIC will not pass through to the Partnership and will not offset any ordinary income or capital gains of the PFIC reportable to the Partnership in subsequent years. Alternatively, the Partnership could elect to "mark-to-market" stock in certain PFICs if such stock is considered "marketable stock" under the Code, and thereby avoid being subject to the deferred tax and interest charge discussed above. However, there can be no assurance that the Partnership will be able to make either of these elections with respect to any PFICs in which it invests. Further, Limited Partners may be subject to IRS reporting requirements with respect to the Partnership's investments in PFICs.

The Partnership may also invest in certain foreign corporations that will be considered "controlled foreign corporations" ("CFCs") for U.S. tax purposes. A CFC is a non-U.S. corporation in which certain U.S. shareholders own, directly or indirectly, more than 50% of either the total voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or the total value of all classes of stock. Under the CFC rules, certain U.S. shareholders are subject to U.S. federal income tax on certain types of income (generally passive income) realized by the CFC regardless of whether any amounts are distributed from the CFC to such U.S. shareholder. Further, such U.S. shareholders may be subject to IRS reporting requirements with respect to investments in CFCs.

In addition, if the Partnership invests in stock of foreign corporations that become PFICs or CFCs after the Partnership has made such investment, this may also result in adverse tax consequences for the Limited Partners that are U.S. Persons and may subject them to IRS reporting requirements with respect to such investments.

TAX-EXEMPT INVESTORS

If the Partnership derives income which would be considered "unrelated business taxable income" (as defined in Section 512 of the Code) ("UBTI"), if derived directly by a Limited Partner that is a qualified retirement plan or other organization exempt from tax under Sections 401 or 501(a) of the Code or an individual retirement account ("IRA") exempt under Section 408(e) of the Code (each, a "Tax-Exempt Entity"), such Limited Partner's allocable share of such Partnership income would be subject to tax. A Tax-Exempt Entity which is subject to tax on its allocable share of the Partnership's UBTI, including an IRA, may also be subject to the alternative minimum tax with respect to items of tax preference which enter into the computation of UBTI.

UBTI is generally the excess of gross income from any unrelated trade or business conducted by a Tax-Exempt Entity (or by a partnership of which the Tax-Exempt Entity is a member) over the deductions attributable to such trade or business. UBTI generally does not include certain passive income, including dividends, interest, annuities, royalties and gain or loss from the disposition of property held for investment, unless such income items are debt-financed income (as discussed below).

While UBTI itself is taxable, the receipt of UBTI by a Tax-Exempt Entity generally has no effect upon that entity's tax-exempt status or upon the exemption from tax of its other income. However, for certain types of Tax-Exempt Entities, the receipt of any UBTI may have extremely adverse consequences. In particular, for charitable remainder trusts (as defined under Section 664 of the Code), the receipt of any taxable income from UBTI during a taxable year will result in the imposition of an excise tax equal to the amount of such UBTI.

A Tax-Exempt Entity also includes in its UBTI its "unrelated debt-financed income" (and its allocable share of the "unrelated debt-financed income" of any partnership in which it invests) pursuant to Section 514 of the Code. In general, unrelated debt-financed income consists of: (i) income derived by a Tax-Exempt Entity (directly or through a partnership) from income producing property with respect to which there is "acquisition indebtedness" at any time during the taxable year; and (ii) gains derived by a Tax-Exempt Entity (directly or through a partnership) from the disposition of property with respect to which there is "acquisition indebtedness". Acquisition indebtedness is generally defined as debt incurred to purchase or carry an investment. Such income and gains derived by a Tax-Exempt Entity from the ownership and sale of debt-financed property are taxable in the proportion to which such property is financed by acquisition indebtedness during the relevant period of time.

Income From the Partnership's Private Equity Investments. The Investment Manager will invest a substantial portion of the Partnership's Series 1 assets in the PE Portfolio Fund, and such partnership expects to invest in equity interests of other partnerships which will be engaged in business activities. It is anticipated that such portfolio companies may also use borrowed funds to acquire property. Accordingly, Limited Partners that are Tax-Exempt Entities should anticipate that a substantial portion, and possibly all, of their distributive share of the Partnership's net income realized from ownership of equity interests in such portfolio companies, including gain realized upon sales of such equity investments, will be subject to federal income tax as UBTI.

Income From the Partnership's Other Activities. The Investment Manager expects that the Partnership will incur indebtedness in connection with its operations from time to time. The law is not entirely clear regarding the appropriate method to be used to determine what portion of a tax-exempt Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's income is attributable to debt financing and therefore constitutes "debt-financed income". Accordingly while the Partnership will compute each tax-exempt Limited Partner's share of "debt-financed income" from the Partnership in a manner which the Partnership considers to be reasonable, there can be no assurance that the IRS will accept the method of computation used by the Partnership.

Tax-exempt Limited Partners will also realize UBTI if the Partnership acquires equity interests of publicly traded partnerships or private partnerships that are engaged in trade or business activities or the Partnership directly carries on other trade or business activities (other than as a securities trader).

OTHER TAXES

Partners may be subject to other taxes, such as the alternative minimum tax, state and local income taxes, and estate, inheritance or intangible property taxes that may be imposed by various jurisdictions. Each prospective investor should consider the potential consequences of such taxes due to an investment in the Partnership. It is the responsibility of each prospective investor to become satisfied as to the legal and tax consequences of an investment in the Partnership under state law, including the laws of the state(s) of its, his or her domicile and residence, by obtaining advice from such investor's own tax advisors, and to file all appropriate tax returns that may be required.

Income received by the Partnership from sources within non-U.S. countries may be subject to withholding and other taxes imposed by such countries. Each Partner may be entitled either to deduct (as an itemized deduction) such Partner's proportionate share of the non-U.S. taxes of the Partnership in computing such Partner's taxable income or to use the amount as a foreign tax credit against his or its U.S. federal income tax liability, subject to limitations. Generally, a credit for non-U.S. taxes is subject to the limitation that it may not exceed the taxpayer's U.S. tax attributable to his or its non-U.S. source taxable income. With respect to Partners that are U.S. Persons: (i) certain currency fluctuation gains, including fluctuation gains from non-U.S.-Dollar-denominated debt securities, receivables and payables, will be treated as ordinary income derived from U.S. sources; and (ii) Partnership gains from the sale of securities also will be treated as derived from U.S. sources. The limitation on the foreign tax credit is applied separately to non-U.S. source passive income (as defined for purposes of the foreign tax credit), including the non-U.S. source passive income realized by the Partnership. The foreign tax credit limitation rules do not apply to certain electing individual taxpayers who have limited creditable non-U.S. taxes and no non-U.S. source income other than passive investment-type income. The foreign tax credit generally is eliminated with respect to non-U.S. taxes withheld on income and gain if the Partnership fails to satisfy minimum holding period requirements with respect to the property giving rise to the income and gain.

TAX ELECTIONS; RETURNS; TAX AUDITS

If the General Partner determines that the Partnership is treated as a securities trader for federal income tax purposes, the General Partner may cause the Partnership to elect to "mark-to-market" its securities at the end of each taxable year, in which case such securities would be treated for federal income tax purposes as though sold for fair market value on the last business day of such taxable year. Such an election under Code Section 475(f) would apply to the taxable year for which made and all subsequent taxable years unless revoked with the consent of the IRS. If the Partnership were to make such an election, all or a portion of the Partnership's gains and losses would be considered ordinary income or loss, rather than capital gain or loss. Since for federal income tax purposes capital losses generally may be deducted only against capital gains, a Limited Partner may be unable to deduct capital losses realized from other investments and transactions in a taxable year against his share of the Partnership's income.

The Code provides for optional adjustments to the basis of partnership property upon distributions of partnership property to a partner and transfers of partnership interests (including by reason of death); provided that a partnership election has been made pursuant to Section 754 of the Code. Under the Partnership Agreement, the General Partner, in its sole discretion, may cause the Partnership to make such an election. Any such election, once made, cannot be revoked without the IRS's consent. The General Partner also has the authority and sole discretion to make or refrain from making other tax elections that are available to the Partnership.

Additionally, even if a partnership has not made a Section 754 election, Section 743 of the Code provides for a mandatory basis adjustment to partnership property on certain transfers of partnership interests (including transfers by reason of death), if the partnership has a "substantial built-in loss" immediately after such transfer. A partnership is treated as having a "substantial built-in loss" if the partnership's adjusted basis in partnership property exceeds the property's fair market value by more than $250,000. Section 734 of the Code also provides for mandatory basis adjustments in the case of certain property distributions to partners. Such Code provisions could cause the Partnership to decrease the basis of its remaining assets in such circumstances.

The General Partner will decide how to report partnership items on the Partnership's tax returns and all Limited Partners are required to treat such tax items consistently on their own returns, unless they file a statement with the IRS disclosing the inconsistency. Since the Partnership may engage in transactions whose treatment for tax purposes is not clear, there is a risk that a claim of tax liability could be asserted against the Partnership or its Partners. In the event that the income tax returns of the Partnership are audited by the IRS, the tax treatment of Partnership income and deductions generally is determined at the partnership level in a single proceeding rather than by individual audits of the Partners. As the "Tax Matters Partner", the General Partner has considerable authority to make decisions affecting the tax treatment and procedural rights of all Partners. In addition, the Tax Matters Partner has the authority to bind certain Partners to settlement agreements and the right on behalf of all Partners to extend the statute of limitations relating to the Partners' tax liabilities with respect to Partnership items. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion, consult with, and rely upon, the Partnership's auditors and their determinations or advice as to tax and/or accounting matters.

It is possible that the Partnership and or certain transactions executed by the Partnership would be subject to tax shelter disclosure registration and listing requirements under applicable U.S. tax laws and regulations.

PFIC Reporting. The Code provides that each U.S. Person (as defined herein) that is a direct or indirect shareholder of a PFIC (generally, an investment corporation organized under the laws of a foreign jurisdiction) is required to file an annual information return containing such information as the IRS may require. Limited Partners would be indirect shareholders of stock in any PFICs owned by the Partnership, and would satisfy such filing requirement (if applicable to such Partner) by completing a copy of IRS Form 8621 for the reportable PFIC investment and submitting such forms to the IRS with the Partner's federal income tax return.

FATCA Withholding and Compliance. The provisions of the Code known as the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act ("FATCA") provide that a 30% withholding tax will be imposed on payments of U.S.-source dividends and interest (and certain other items of U.S.-source income) to certain foreign financial entities, and beginning on January 1, 2017 with regard to other withholdable payments (including gross proceeds from the sale of property that give rise to U.S.-source, interest or dividends), unless the foreign financial entity has registered with the IRS and agreed to provide specified U.S. tax information concerning "specified U.S. persons" that own interests in the foreign entity. The Partnership is a withholding agent with respect to such withholding taxes that may be imposed on any of its Partners. U.S. and non-U.S. Partners will be required to furnish appropriate documentation certifying as to their U.S. or non-U.S. tax status, together with such other additional tax information as the Partnership may from time to time request. Limited Partners that are "non-financial foreign entities" (as defined in Code Section 1472) are required to certify whether they have any "substantial United States owners" and, if so, to disclose the identity and tax identification numbers of such persons to the Partnership. Failure to provide such information may subject a Limited Partner to withholding taxes or mandatory withdrawal of its entire interest in the Partnership. Limited Partners are encouraged to consult with their own tax advisors regarding the possible impact of the FATCA legislation on their investment in the Partnership.

OTHER MATTERS

The Partnership may incur certain expenses in connection with its organization and the marketing of the Interests. Amounts paid or incurred to organize the Partnership are being amortized, for tax purposes, over a period of 180 months from the date the Partnership commenced operations. Amounts paid or incurred to market interests in a partnership (marketing and syndication expenses) are not deductible or amortizable.

SPECIAL CONSIDERATIONS FOR PARTNERS THAT ARE NOT U.S. PERSONS

A "U.S. Person" is (a) a citizen or resident of the United States, (b) a corporation, partnership, or other entity organized under the laws of the United States, any state, or the District of Columbia, other than a partnership that is not treated as a U.S. Person under the Regulations, (c) an estate whose income is subject to United States income tax, regardless of its source, or (d) a trust if a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust and one or more U.S. Persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust. In addition, to the extent provided in the Regulations, "U.S. Person" includes certain trusts in existence on August 20, 1996, and treated as U.S. Persons prior to such date, that have elected to be treated as U.S. Persons. Partners that are not U.S. Persons are referred to below as "non-U.S. Partners".

Taxation of Effectively Connected Income. The Partnership expects to be treated for U.S. tax purposes as being engaged in the conduct of a U.S. trade or business. As a result, non-U.S. Limited Partners that acquire interests in the Partnership will generally be treated as being engaged in the conduct of a U.S. trade or business. Thus, each non-U.S. Limited Partner will be subject to U.S. federal income taxation, at graduated rates, on its distributive share of the Partnership's income, gain or loss (whether ordinary or capital) that is effectively connected with the conduct of the Partnership's U.S. trade or business ("ECI"). Such Limited Partners will be required to file annual U.S. federal income tax returns with respect to such ECI, and the Partnership will be required to withhold and remit to the U.S. Treasury a portion of the non-U.S. Limited Partner's distributive share of such ECI. The Limited Partner would be entitled to claim a credit on his U.S. federal income tax return for the amount withheld by the Partnership with respect to such ECI. Non-U.S. Limited Partners may also be required to file applicable state and local tax returns in jurisdictions in which the Partnership is engaged in business or in which its real property interests are located.

U.S. Branch Profits Tax. In the case of a Limited Partner that is a non-U.S. corporation, in addition to the regular corporate income tax that must be paid on its ECI, the Code provides for an additional 30% "branch profits" tax. The branch profits tax is 30% (or lower rate permitted by tax treaty) of the foreign corporation's "dividend equivalent amount". This is the amount of the foreign corporation's effectively connected after-tax earnings that are not reinvested in a U.S. trade or business by the end of the tax year or disinvested in a later tax year. Certain income tax treaties may reduce or eliminate the branch profits tax; however, under certain circumstances, the branch profits tax may override income tax treaty benefits.

FIRPTA. The Foreign Investment in Real Property Tax Act of 1980, as amended ("FIRPTA"), imposes a tax on gain realized on disposition by a foreign person of a "U.S. real property interest" ("USRPI") by treating such gain as ECI, generally giving rise to the tax consequences described above. A USRPI includes a direct investment in U.S. real estate and buildings and also investments in stock and certain types of debt interests of a U.S. corporation that is classified as a "U.S. real property holding corporation" (as defined in the Code). A USRPI held by a partnership is deemed to be held proportionately by its partners.

Taxation of Non-ECI. The Partnership also expects to realize certain types of periodic income from U.S. sources (e.g., dividends and certain types of interest) which are not classified as ECI. Each non-U.S. Limited Partner will be subject to a flat 30% withholding tax on its allocable share of the gross amount of such income. Such withholding tax is sometimes reduced or eliminated by an applicable income tax treaty, provided that the proper certification is provided by the non-U.S. Limited Partner when necessary. The applicable IRS form or forms (W-8 series) should be submitted to the Partnership by each non-U.S. Limited Partner at the time such Limited Partner acquires an Interest in the Partnership, and should be resubmitted every three years thereafter (or earlier, if the information on such form changes before such date).

Disposition of Partnership Interests. A non-U.S. Limited Partner that disposes of its Interest in the Partnership, by sale or otherwise, may be subject to U.S. federal income taxation on such disposition. A transferee of an Interest in the Partnership may be required to deduct and withhold a tax equal to 10% of the gross amount realized on such disposition. Any amount so withheld can be applied as a credit against the U.S. federal income tax liability of the non-U.S. Limited Partner and can be recovered as a refund in the event of overpayment.

U.S. Estate and Gift Taxation of Interests. Non-U.S. Limited Partners that are individuals should also be aware that Interests in the Partnership will be treated as U.S. situs property by reason of the Partnership's ownership of U.S. real property interests, and thus subject to U.S. estate taxation upon the death on a non-U.S. individual owner, or U.S. gift taxation upon a donative transfer of such Interest.

STATE TAXATION

In addition to the federal income tax consequences described above, prospective investors should consider potential state tax consequences of an investment in the Partnership. No attempt is made herein to provide a discussion of such state tax consequences. State laws often differ from federal income tax laws with respect to the treatment of specific items of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit. A Partner's distributive share of the taxable income or loss of the Partnership generally will be required to be included in determining the Partner's reportable income for state tax purposes in the jurisdiction in which such Partner a resident. Each prospective investor must consult such investor's own tax advisors regarding such state tax consequences.

FUTURE TAX LEGISLATION

Future amendments to the Code, other legislation, new or amended Regulations, administrative rulings or guidance by the IRS, or judicial decisions may adversely affect the federal income tax aspects of an investment in the Partnership, with or without advance notice, and retroactively or prospectively.

PART 2 OF RAND ADVISORS, LLC'S FORM ADV	EXHIBIT C

DESCRIPTION OF INTERESTS AND STRUCTURE

Rand PE Fund I, L.P. ("Partnership"), a "series" limited partnership organized under the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act, is offering limited partner interests in the Partnership ("Interests") in a private placement pursuant to Section 4(a)(2) of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended ("Securities Act"), and Regulation D promulgated thereunder. The Partnership may offer Interests in separate Series (as defined and described herein). Only Series 1 Interests (as defined herein) are offered at this time pursuant to this Memorandum.

Only persons that are Accredited Investors (as defined in Rule 501 of Regulation D promulgated under the Securities Act), Qualified Clients (as defined in Rule 205-3 promulgated under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act")), and Qualified Purchasers (as defined under Section 2(a)(51) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("Investment Company Act")) may purchase Interests. The Subscription Documents (as defined below) set forth in detail the definitions of Accredited Investor, Qualified Client and Qualified Purchaser.

The Partnership was formed to pool investment funds of its investors (each, a "Limited Partner" and, collectively, "Limited Partners"; and, together with the General Partner (as defined below), "Partners") for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of securities, financial instruments and other assets and investments, including other investment vehicles, as more fully described herein.

Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("General Partner"), is the general partner of the Partnership and is responsible for the management of the Partnership's affairs.

Rand Advisors, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("Investment Manager"), is the investment manager of the Partnership and has discretionary investment authority over the Partnership's assets. The Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). A copy of Part 2 of the Investment Manager's Form ADV is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

As the managing member and controlling person of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, John Honis controls all of the Partnership's operations and activities.

The minimum initial capital contribution that will be accepted from a new Limited Partner is $500,000. The minimum additional capital contribution that will be accepted from an existing Limited Partner is $500,000. In each case, the General Partner has discretion to accept lesser amounts. Generally, new Limited Partners will be admitted on the first day of each month, and withdrawals may be made on the last day of each calendar quarter upon 91 days' prior written notice, subject to certain restrictions as described herein (unless, in each case, the General Partner, in its sole discretion, permits subscriptions or withdrawals at another time).

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The Partnership's primary objective is to seek consistent above-average returns primarily through capital appreciation. The Investment Manager intends to invest the Partnership's portfolio in small- to medium-sized companies (i.e., generally with market capitalization of under $1 billion) that are involved in (or are the target of) acquisition attempts or tender offers, and/or in companies involved in work-outs, liquidations, spin-offs, reorganizations, bankruptcies or similar transactions. The Investment Manager intends to use a disciplined investment philosophy by combining thorough fundamental research and in-depth analysis of investment opportunities. The Partnership (x) is expected to initially invest all or substantially all of the assets attributable to Series 1 in the Highland Transaction (as defined herein), if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction. No assurance can be given, however, that the Investment Manager will achieve the Partnership's investment objective, and investment results may vary substantially over time and from period to period. See "INVESTMENT PROGRAM" herein for further details.

RISK FACTORS, CONFLICTS OF INTERESTS AND OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

Before purchasing an Interest in the Partnership, you should carefully consider various risk factors and conflicts of interest, as well as suitability requirements, restrictions on transfers and withdrawals of Interests and various legal, tax and other considerations, all of which are discussed elsewhere in this Confidential Private Placement Memorandum (this "Memorandum").

IMPORTANT GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS

You should not construe the contents of this Memorandum as legal, tax or investment advice and, if you acquire an Interest, you will be required to make a representation to that effect. You should review the proposed investment and the legal, tax and other consequences thereof with your own professional advisors. The purchase of an Interest involves certain risks and conflicts of interest among the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Partnership. See "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST". The General Partner reserves the right to refuse any subscription for any reason.

In making an investment decision, you must rely on your own examination of the Partnership and the terms of the offering of Interests, including the merits and risks involved. You and your representative(s), if any, are invited to ask questions and obtain additional information from the General Partner concerning the terms and conditions of the offering, the Partnership, and any other relevant matters to the extent that the General Partner possesses such information or can acquire it without unreasonable effort or expense.

Neither the SEC nor any state securities commission has passed upon the merits of participating in the Partnership, nor has the SEC or any state securities commission passed upon the adequacy or accuracy of this Memorandum. Any representation to the contrary is a criminal offense. The General Partner anticipates that: (i) the offer and sale of the Interests will be exempt from registration under the Securities Act and the various state securities laws; (ii) the Partnership will not be registered as an investment company under the Investment Company Act, pursuant to an exemption provided by Section 3(c)(7) thereunder; and (iii) neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager will be registered as a commodity pool operator under the Commodity Exchange Act, as amended ("CEA"), based upon an exemption available under Rule 4.13(a)(3) thereunder. Consequently, you will not be entitled to certain protections afforded by those statutes.

The Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the SEC. A copy of Part 2 of the Investment Manager's Form ADV is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

Pursuant to Rule 4.13(a)(3) of the CEA, each of the General Partner and the Investment Manager is exempt from registration with the Commodity Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC") as a commodity pool operator and therefore, unlike a registered commodity pool operator, it is not required to deliver a Disclosure Document (as such term is defined under CFTC rules) and a certified annual report to participants in the pool. The foregoing registration exemption is based on the Partnership's limited commodity trading activity and its undertaking that at all times either: (a) the aggregate initial margin and premiums required to establish commodity interest positions, determined at the time the most recent position was established, will not exceed 5% of the liquidation value of the Partnership's portfolio, after taking into account unrealized profits and losses on any such positions; or (b) the aggregate net notional value of the Partnership's commodity interest positions, determined at the time the most recent position was established, will not exceed 100% of the liquidation value of the Partnership's portfolio, after taking into account unrealized profits and losses on any such positions. Certain types of swaps are included in the definition of "commodity interests". These swaps include interest rate swaps, currency swaps, energy and metal swaps, agricultural swaps, swaps on broad-based indices, swaps on government securities and certain mixed swaps.

As a Limited Partner, you may withdraw from the Partnership and receive payment for your Interests, subject to certain restrictions, as specified in the Amended and Restated Limited Partnership Agreement of the Partnership (as the same may be amended and/or restated from time to time, the "Partnership Agreement"), a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

The offering of Interests is made only by delivery of a copy of this Memorandum to the person whose name appears hereon. The offering is made only to potential investors who are Accredited Investors, Qualified Clients and Qualified Purchasers. By accepting delivery of this Memorandum, you agree not to reproduce or divulge its contents, in whole or in part, and, if you do not purchase any Interests, to return this Memorandum and the exhibits attached hereto to the General Partner or the Partnership's administrator, a provider of administrative services ("Administrator"), as further set forth herein under "SERVICE PROVIDERS—Administrator".

Notwithstanding any provision in this Memorandum to the contrary, prospective Limited Partners (and their employees, representatives, and other agents) may disclose to any and all persons the U.S. federal income tax treatment and tax structure of the Interests offered hereby. For this purpose, "tax structure" is limited to facts relevant to the U.S. federal income tax treatment of the Interests, and does not include information relating to the identity of the issuer, its affiliates, agents or advisors.

There is no public market for the Interests nor is any expected to develop. Even if such a market develops, no distribution, resale or transfer of an Interest will be permitted, except in accordance with the provisions of the Securities Act, the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, any applicable state securities laws and the terms and conditions of the Partnership Agreement. Any transfer of an Interest by a Limited Partner, public or private, will require the consent of the General Partner. Accordingly, if you purchase an Interest, you will be required to represent and warrant that you have read this Memorandum and are aware of and can afford the risks of an investment in the Partnership for an indefinite period of time. You will also be required to represent that you are acquiring the Interest for your own account, for investment purposes only, and not with any intention to resell or transfer all or any part of the Interest. This investment is suitable for you only if you have adequate means of providing for your current and future needs, have no need for liquidity in this investment and can afford to lose the entire amount of your investment.

Although this Memorandum contains summaries of certain terms of certain documents pertaining to the Partnership, you should refer to the actual documents (copies of which are attached hereto or are available from the General Partner or the Administrator) for complete information concerning the rights and obligations of the parties thereto. All such summaries are qualified in their entirety by the terms of the actual documents. No person has been authorized to make any representations or furnish any information with respect to the Partnership or the Interests, other than the representations and information set forth in this Memorandum or other documents or information furnished by the General Partner upon request, as described above.

Certain information contained in this Memorandum constitutes "forward-looking statements", which can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology, such as "may", "will", "seek", "should", "expect", "anticipate", "project", "estimate", "intend", "continue" or "believe" or the negatives thereof or other variations thereon or comparable terminology. Due to various risks and uncertainties, including those set forth under "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST", actual events or results or the actual performance of the Partnership may differ materially from those reflected or contemplated in such forward-looking statements.

No rulings have been sought from the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") with respect to any tax matters discussed in this Memorandum. You are cautioned that the views contained herein are subject to material qualifications and subject to possible changes in regulations by the IRS or by the U.S. Congress in existing tax statutes or in the interpretation of existing statutes and regulations.

The information contained herein is current only as of the date hereof and you should not, under any circumstances, assume that there has not been any change in the matters discussed herein since the date hereof.

SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS

The following summary is qualified in its entirety by other information contained elsewhere in this Confidential Private Placement Memorandum (this "Memorandum") and by Amended and Restated the Limited Partnership Agreement of the Partnership (as defined below) (as the same may be amended and/or restated from time to time, the "Partnership Agreement"), a copy of which is attached to this Memorandum as Exhibit A. You should read this entire Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement, carefully before making any investment decision regarding the Partnership and should pay particular attention to the information under the heading "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST". In addition, you should consult your own advisors in order to understand fully the consequences of an investment in the Partnership.

The Partnership

Rand PE Fund I, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("Partnership"), was formed to pool investment funds of its investors (each, a "Limited Partner" and, collectively, "Limited Partners"; and, together with the General Partner (as defined below), "Partners") for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of securities, financial instruments and other assets and investments, including other investment vehicles, as more fully described herein.

The Partnership (x) is expected to initially invest all or substantially all of the assets attributable to Series 1 in all or substantially all of the non-voting limited partnership interests in Highland Capital Management, L.P. which the Partnership currently expects to acquire after the launch of its operations (such purchase or other acquisition, if any, collectively, the "Highland Transaction"), and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction.

See "INVESTMENT PROGRAM" and "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST—Conflicts of Interest—Certain Potential Conflicts Between the Principal and Highland Related to the Series 1 Interests" herein.

The Partnership may offer Interests in separate Series (as defined and described herein). Only Series 1 Interests (as defined herein) are offered at this time pursuant to this Memorandum.

Management

Rand PE Fund Management, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("General Partner"), is the general partner of the Partnership and is responsible for the management of the Partnership's affairs.

Rand Advisors, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company ("Investment Manager"), is the investment manager of the Partnership and has discretionary investment authority over the Partnership's assets. The Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC"). A copy of Part 2 of the Investment Manager's Form ADV is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

As the managing member and controlling person of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, John Honis ("Principal") controls all of the Partnership's operations and activities. See "MANAGEMENT" for additional information.

Issuance of Interests in Multiple Series

The Interests will be offered in separate series ("Series"). The Partnership is currently offering one Series of Interests: "Series 1 Interests". Each Series of Interests will have separate rights and obligations. In addition, each Series of Interests may correspond to a separate portfolio of assets, which may have different investment objectives and strategies. The Partnership may issue additional Series of Interests in the future, which may have rights and obligations that differ from those of the Series 1 Interests with respect to any matters, including without limitation, fees, withdrawal rights, participation in Side Pocket Accounts (as defined herein) and other rights and terms. The terms of such additional Series will be determined by the General Partner, in its sole discretion.

Each Series shall have separate rights, powers and duties with respect to its investment portfolio and other property and obligations and the profits and losses associated with such portfolio, property and obligations. The Partnership will maintain separate and distinct records for each Series and shall hold and account for the assets and liabilities of such Series separately from other Series.

Under Delaware law, (i) the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to a particular Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series only, and not against the assets of any other Series, and (ii) none of the debts, liabilities and obligations incurred, contracted for or otherwise existing with respect to the Partnership generally or any other Series shall be enforceable against the assets of such Series.

Unless the context otherwise requires, Series 1 Interests and any other Series of Interests shall be collectively referred to throughout this Memorandum as the "Interests." As the context may require, the holders of Series 1 Interests may be referred to herein as "Series 1 Limited Partners". Series 1 Limited Partners and, to the extent applicable, all the Limited Partners of other Series shall be collectively referred to throughout this Memorandum as the "Limited Partners".

References herein to the Partnership shall include, where appropriate, each Series of the Partnership. The terms of the other Series may be set forth in an amended version of this Memorandum and/or in a separate supplement hereto.

The Offering

The Partnership is offering limited partner interests in the Partnership ("Interests") to persons who are Accredited Investors (as such term is defined in Rule 501 of Regulation D promulgated under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended ("Securities Act")), Qualified Clients (as defined in Rule 205-3 promulgated under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended ("Advisers Act")), and Qualified Purchasers (as defined under Section 2(a)(51) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended ("Investment Company Act")). Interests represent a percentage interest in the Partnership proportionate to the capital accounts of all Partners.

Marketing Fees and Sales Charges. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may sell Interests through broker-dealers and pay a marketing fee or commission in connection with such activities, including ongoing payments, at the General Partner's or the Investment Manager's own expense. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may also deduct a percentage of the amount invested by a Limited Partner in the Partnership to pay sales fees or charges, on a fully disclosed basis, to a broker-dealer based upon the capital contribution of such Limited Partner introduced to the Partnership by such broker-dealer. Any such sales fees or charges would be assessed against the referred Limited Partner and would reduce the amount actually invested by such Limited Partner in the Partnership. If a Limited Partner is introduced to the Partnership through a broker-dealer that is not affiliated with the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager, the arrangement, if any, with such broker-dealer will be disclosed to, and acknowledged by, such Limited Partner. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES—Referral of Investors and Sales Charges".

How to Subscribe

Attached as Exhibit B to this Memorandum are the subscription documents and instructions for subscribing ("Subscription Documents"). In order to subscribe for Interests, you must complete the Subscription Documents and return them to the Partnership's administrator, a provider of administrative services ("Administrator"), as further set forth herein under "SERVICE PROVIDERS—Administrator". You must pay 100% of your investment at the time you subscribe. Payment must be made by wire transfer of immediately available funds to the Partnership. To ensure compliance with applicable laws, regulations and other requirements relating to money laundering, the General Partner and/or the Administrator may require additional information to verify the identity of any person who subscribes for an Interest in the Partnership.

If the General Partner consents to a Limited Partner's contribution of securities (and/or other investments) to the Partnership, the Partnership may, in the General Partner's discretion, assess a special charge against such Limited Partner equal to the actual costs incurred by the Partnership in connection with accepting such contributed securities (and/or other investments), including the costs of liquidating, or otherwise adjusting the Partnership's portfolio to accommodate, such securities (and/or other investments). Such special charge will be assessed as of such dates deemed appropriate by the General Partner. Any investor who contributes securities (and/or other investments) in lieu of cash to the Partnership should consult with such person's counsel or advisors as to the tax effect of such contribution.

Eligible Investors and Suitability

In order to invest in the Partnership, you must meet certain minimum suitability requirements, including qualifying as an Accredited Investor under the Securities Act, a Qualified Client under the Advisers Act and a Qualified Purchaser under the Investment Company Act. The Subscription Documents set forth in detail the definitions of Accredited Investor, Qualified Client and Qualified Purchaser. You must check the appropriate places in the Subscription Documents to represent to the Partnership that you are an Accredited Investor, a Qualified Client and a Qualified Purchaser in order to be able to purchase Interests. The General Partner, in its sole discretion, can accept or reject any initial subscriptions from prospective Limited Partners and any additional capital contributions from existing Limited Partners for any reason or for no reason.

Entities subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA"), and other tax-exempt entities may purchase Interests. However, investment in the Partnership by such entities requires special consideration. Trustees or administrators of such entities should consult their own legal and tax advisors. The General Partner intends to use reasonable efforts to limit equity participation by "benefit plan investors" in the Partnership to less than 25% of the value of any class of Interests in the Partnership. See "ERISA CONSIDERATIONS" and "TAXATION—Tax-Exempt Investors".

Minimum Investment

The minimum initial capital contribution that will be accepted from a new Limited Partner is $500,000. The minimum additional capital contribution that will be accepted from an existing Limited Partner is $500,000. In each case, the General Partner has discretion to accept lesser amounts. Limited Partners are not required to make any additional capital contributions to the Partnership. There is no minimum or maximum aggregate amount of funds that must or may be contributed by all Partners to the Partnership.

Admission of Limited Partners

Capital contributions generally will be accepted as of the first day of each month, although the General Partner, in its sole discretion, has the right to admit new Limited Partners and to accept additional funds from existing Limited Partners at any time. Upon such admission or receipt of additional capital contributions, the Interests of the Partners will be readjusted in accordance with their capital accounts.

In connection with an additional capital contribution by an existing Limited Partner, the General Partner will: (i) treat such additional capital contribution as a capital contribution with respect to one of such Limited Partner's existing capital accounts, or (ii) establish a new capital account to which such capital contribution will be credited and which will be maintained for the benefit of such Limited Partner separately from any existing capital account of such Limited Partner. Such separate capital accounts may be maintained for any purpose, in the discretion of the General Partner.

Management Fee

The Partnership has entered into an investment management agreement (as the same may be amended and/or restated from time to time, the "Investment Management Agreement") by and among the Partnership and the Investment Manager. In consideration for services provided pursuant to the Investment Management Agreement, the Investment Manager will receive a quarterly management fee ("Management Fee"), equal to a percentage of each Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's Net Asset Value (as defined herein), and based on the Partnership's total Net Asset Value, as follows:

Partnership's Total Net Asset Value	Management Fee (per annum)
$0 - $99,999,999	0.5500%
$100,000,000 - $199,999,999	0.5000%

$200,000,000 - $249,999,999	0.4500%
$250,000,000 - $499,999,999	0.3500%
> $500,000,000	0.3400%

For the avoidance of doubt, the Management Fee calculated based on the foregoing schedule will be calculated on a "progressive" basis. For example, if the Partnership's Net Asset Value reaches $150,000,000, the initial $99,999,999 will always be charged a Management Fee of 0.55000% annually. The benefit of the declining Management Fee schedule above is intended to benefit all Limited Partners as each capital account will be charged a blended Management Fee based on the above schedule.

The Management Fee will be calculated and payable to the Investment Manager quarterly, in advance, as of the first day of each calendar quarter. A pro rata Management Fee will be charged to Limited Partners on any amounts accepted by the General Partner during a calendar quarter. No part of the Management Fee will be refunded in the event that a Limited Partner withdraws, whether voluntarily or involuntarily, all or any of the value in such Limited Partner's capital account during any calendar quarter. Management Fees will be payable with respect to the Interests of a Limited Partner in any Side Pocket Account (as defined below). For purposes of calculating the Management Fee with respect to Side Pocket Accounts, Illiquid Investments (as defined herein) will be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager.

With respect to any Limited Partner who has requested to withdraw all of its Interests from the Partnership, with the exception of any Interests maintained in a Side Pocket Account, the Partnership may reserve an amount from the withdrawing Limited Partner's withdrawal proceeds in order to cover the estimated accrued Management Fees and expenses attributable to the Limited Partner's Interests in the Side Pocket Account based on the Investment Manager's estimate of the time period that the Illiquid Investments held in the Side Pocket Account will remain in such Side Pocket Account (collectively, the "Management Fee Reserve"). The Management Fee Reserve will be treated as a liability of the Partnership, and the balance of the Management Fee Reserve, if any, will be paid to the withdrawing Limited Partner, without interest, upon such Limited Partner's complete withdrawal from the Side Pocket Account.

Expenses

Organizational and Initial Offering Expenses. The Partnership will pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates (as defined herein) for all organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership, including, but not limited to, legal and accounting fees, printing and mailing expenses and government filing fees (including "blue sky" filing fees). The Partnership's organizational and initial offering expenses may be, for accounting purposes, capitalized and amortized by the Partnership for up to 60 months from the date the Partnership commences operations. Amortization of such expenses is a divergence from U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). In certain circumstances, this divergence may result in a qualification of the Partnership's annual audited financial statements. In such instances, the Partnership may elect to: (i) avoid the qualification by recognizing the unamortized expenses, or (ii) make GAAP-conforming changes for financial reporting purposes, but capitalize and amortize expenses for purposes of calculating the Partnership's Net Asset Value (resulting in a divergence in fiscal year-end Net Asset Values reported in the Partnership's financial statements, and as otherwise applicable under the provisions of the Partnership Agreement). If the Partnership capitalizes and amortizes such expenses and is then terminated within 60 months of its commencement, any unamortized expenses will be recognized. If a Limited Partner makes a withdrawal prior to the end of the period during which the Partnership is capitalizing and amortizing expenses, the Partnership may, but is not required to, accelerate a proportionate share of the unamortized expenses based upon the amount being withdrawn and reduce withdrawal proceeds accordingly.

Operating Expenses. The Partnership will pay or reimburse the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates for: (i) all expenses incurred in connection with the ongoing offer and sale of Interests, including, but not limited to, printing of this Memorandum and exhibits, marketing expenses and documentation of performance and the admission of Limited Partners, (ii) all operating expenses of the Partnership, such as tax preparation fees, governmental fees and taxes, fees to the Administrator, costs of communications with Limited Partners, and ongoing legal, accounting, auditing, bookkeeping, consulting and other professional fees and expenses, (iii) all Partnership research, trading and investment-related costs and expenses (e.g., brokerage commissions, research fees, margin interest, expenses related to short sales, custodial fees, bank service fees, and clearing and settlement charges), (iv) technology-related costs and expenses, including, but not limited to, software licenses, data feeds and colocation expenses, (v) all expenses related to attending any conference or seminar related to alternative investments (e.g., registration, transportation, accommodation or meal expenses), (vi) regulatory and other filing fees and expenses, (vii) travel expenses related to meeting with management teams, or related to any of the other categories of expenses set forth herein, (viii) any costs and expenses incurred by the Partnership in connection with converting from a stand-alone fund into a "feeder fund" as part of a master-feeder structure, (ix) director and officer liability insurance or other insurance premiums for any principal or employee of the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, (x) all fees and other expenses incurred in connection with the investigation, prosecution or defense of any claims, assertion of rights or pursuit of remedies, by or against the Partnership, including, without limitation, professional and other advisory and consulting expenses, and (xi) any and all costs and expenses incurred in connection with the dissolution, winding up, or termination of the Partnership.

Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, in its sole discretion, may from time to time pay for any of the foregoing Partnership expenses. Any such person may elect to be reimbursed for such expenses, or to waive its right to reimbursement for any such expenses, as well as terminate any such voluntary payment or waiver of reimbursement.

Allocation of Expenses Among Series. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager will allocate all expenses attributable to the Partnership among the Series on a pro rata basis or otherwise in their reasonable discretion.

General Partner's and Investment Manager's Expenses. The General Partner and the Investment Manager will pay their own general operating and overhead expenses associated with providing the management and investment management services required under the Partnership Agreement and the Investment Management Agreement, respectively. These expenses include all expenses incurred by the General Partner and the Investment Manager in providing for their normal operating overhead, including, but not limited to, the cost of providing relevant support and administrative services (e.g., employee compensation and benefits, rent, office equipment, computer systems, insurance (other than as expressly set forth above), utilities, telephone, secretarial and bookkeeping services, etc.), but not including any Partnership operating expenses described above.

The General Partner and the Investment Manager may use "soft dollar" commissions or rebates by brokerage firms of commissions generated by the Partnership's brokerage transactions executed through those firms to pay for certain brokerage and research products and services that fall within the safe harbor under Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended ("Exchange Act"), as further described herein. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES—Soft Dollar Arrangements".

Withdrawals

Limited Partner Withdrawals Generally. Subject to certain restrictions described herein, each Limited Partner may withdraw a minimum of $100,000 as of the last day of each calendar quarter and at such other times as the General Partner may determine in its sole discretion (each such date, a "Withdrawal Date"), upon at least 91 days' prior written notice to the Administrator, with a copy to the General Partner. Unless the General Partner consents, partial withdrawals may not be made if they would reduce a Limited Partner's capital account balance below $500,000. All withdrawals will be deemed made prior to the commencement of the following calendar quarter (or other relevant period).

If the General Partner, in its sole discretion, permits a Limited Partner to withdraw capital other than on a regularly scheduled Withdrawal Date, the General Partner may impose an administrative fee to cover the actual legal, accounting, administrative, brokerage, and any other costs and expenses associated with such withdrawal. Such fee will be payable to the relevant Series of the Partnership and will be deducted from the withdrawal proceeds of the withdrawing Limited Partner as of such Withdrawal Date.

Ability to Withdraw Is Not Guaranteed. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner cannot guarantee that the assets of the Partnership will be invested in a manner which would allow the General Partner to satisfy withdrawal requests. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion: (i) defer withdrawal requests until the Partnership's assets mature or are liquidated in due course, (ii) elect to purchase with its own funds the Interests of the withdrawing Partner, or (iii) borrow from a third party or draw from a line of credit, subject to availability and other factors, in order to fund any withdrawal.

Payments with Respect to Withdrawals; Applicable on a Series-by-Series Basis. A Limited Partner who requests any withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any fiscal year, less than 90% of the value of such Limited Partner's capital account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts) will be paid within 90 days after the applicable Withdrawal Date. In the event that a Limited Partner requests a withdrawal of capital that constitutes, together with prior withdrawals within any fiscal year, 90% or more of the value of such Limited Partner's capital account (excluding any amounts held in any Side Pocket Accounts), the General Partner may reduce the amounts paid after any Withdrawal Date so that they constitute, in the aggregate during such fiscal year, 90% of an amount estimated by the General Partner to be the amount to which the withdrawing Limited Partner is entitled in the aggregate (calculated on the basis of unaudited data); such amount will be paid within 90 days after the applicable Withdrawal Date. The balance of the amount payable upon such withdrawal will be paid, without interest, within 90 days after completion of the audited financial statements for the fiscal year in which the withdrawal occurs. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the General Partner may, in its sole discretion, agree to pay up to the full capital account balance (calculated on the basis of unaudited data) to a withdrawing Limited Partner within 90 days after the applicable Withdrawal Date, subject to adjustment based on audited financial statements. To the extent that the sum previously paid to a withdrawing Limited Partner is calculated to have exceeded the amount to which it is entitled, that Limited Partner shall be required to repay to the Partnership the balance.

Upon withdrawal of all of the capital in its capital account (excluding for purposes hereof, any remaining investments held in a Side Pocket Account), a Limited Partner will be deemed to have withdrawn from the Partnership or the relevant Series, and upon notice of such withdrawal, a Limited Partner will not be entitled to exercise any voting rights afforded to Limited Partners under the Partnership Agreement.

The Partnership or the relevant Series has the right to pay cash or in-kind, or a combination of both, to a Limited Partner that makes a withdrawal from such Limited Partner's capital account.

Limitations on Withdrawals. The Partnership or a Series may suspend (or postpone) withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations of Net Asset Value and/or payments upon any withdrawals (in whole or in part) from capital accounts: (i) during the existence of any state of affairs which, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the disposition of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners, or where such state of affairs, in the opinion of the General Partner, makes the determination of the price or value of the Partnership's investments impractical or prejudicial to the Partners; (ii) where any such withdrawals, subscriptions, calculations and/or payments, in the opinion of the General Partner, would result in the violation of any applicable law or regulation; (iii) if the General Partner determines, in its sole discretion, that such suspension or postponement is prudent in order to prevent the Partnership from being subject to adverse tax or regulatory implications; or (iv) for such other reasons or for such other periods as the General Partner may prudently and in good faith determine.

All Limited Partners will be notified in writing of any such suspension or postponement and the termination thereof. Following any suspension or postponement of withdrawals, a withdrawal request made by a Limited Partner prior to such suspension or postponement will be effected as of the first Withdrawal Date following the recommencement of withdrawals.

Required Withdrawals. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion, require a Limited Partner to withdraw any or all of the value of such Limited Partner's capital accounts on at least five days' notice for any reason or no reason; provided, however, that the General Partner may require such a withdrawal on less (or no) notice in order to comply with any laws and regulations applicable to the Partnership and/or its affiliates.

Side Pocket Accounts. A Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its capital account that are attributable to the value of an Illiquid Investment held in a Side Pocket Account until such time that such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) is reallocated to such Limited Partner's capital account. At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event (as defined below). For the avoidance of doubt, any investment made by Series 1 into the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

Reserves. All withdrawals shall be subject to the General Partner's power to establish such reserves for the Partnership or a Series as the General Partner shall, in its sole but reasonable discretion, deem appropriate to pay current and future, definite, contingent and possible obligations of the Partnership or a Series (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP), including estimated expenses in connection therewith, which could reduce the amount of a distribution upon withdrawal. See "—Management Fee" for more information on the Management Fee Reserve.

Waiver. The General Partner, in its sole discretion, may waive or modify any of the terms relating to withdrawals, including, without limitation, minimum amounts and notice periods, for all or any of the Limited Partners in its discretion without notice to the other Limited Partners.

Withdrawals, Resignation and Transfers by General Partner and its Affiliates

Each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or any Investment Manager Affiliate may withdraw all or any of the value in its respective capital account at any time, from time to time, without the consent of the Limited Partners and without notice to any of the Limited Partners. The General Partner may resign as the general partner of the Partnership upon 30 days' prior written notice to the Limited Partners. Upon such resignation of the General Partner, or upon its bankruptcy or dissolution, the remaining Limited Partners have the right to appoint a substitute general partner; otherwise, the Partnership will be dissolved pursuant to the procedures set forth in the Partnership Agreement. The Partnership Agreement permits the General Partner to appoint additional general partners and to transfer its general partner interest to an affiliate of the General Partner without the consent of Limited Partners.

Leverage

The Investment Manager may cause the Partnership to undertake leverage. Leverage may take a variety of forms, including, but not limited to, the following: long-term loans, convertible notes and repurchase arrangements. Leverage arrangements used by the Partnership when financing is contingent on the market value of the financed assets may include those which may be subject to mark-to-market collateral or margin calls. See "INVESTMENT PROGRAM" and "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST" herein.

Determination of Net Asset Value

The net asset value ("Net Asset Value") of the Partnership, on a Series-by-Series basis, is determined in accordance with the Partnership Agreement and is generally equal to the amount by which the value of the Partnership's assets exceeds the amount of its liabilities. Net Asset Value calculations will be made by the Administrator (based on the information provided by the Investment Manager) on an accrual basis of accounting, as of the end of each calendar month (or other period, as the case may be), in accordance with GAAP, consistently applied (except that: (x) organizational and initial offering expenses of the Partnership may be capitalized and amortized over a period of up to 60 months from the date the Partnership commences operations, and (y) reserves may be taken that are inconsistent with GAAP), this Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement.

In making such determinations, securities, commodities and other financial instruments (other than options) that are listed on a national securities, commodities or other exchange, or over-the-counter instruments listed on NASDAQ, will be valued at their last sales prices on such date or, if no sales occurred on such date, at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such securities, commodities or financial instruments on such date. Options that are listed on a securities or commodities exchange will be valued at their last sales prices on the date of determination on the largest securities or commodities exchange (by trading volume) on which such options shall have traded on such date; provided that, if the last sales prices of such options do not fall between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date, then such options will be valued at the midpoint between the last "bid" and "ask" prices for such options on such date. Securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that are not listed on an exchange or quoted on an over-the-counter market, but for which there are available quotations, will be valued based upon quotations obtained from market makers, dealers or pricing services.

The Investment Manager intends to engage an independent third-party valuation agent (in addition to the Administrator) to appraise the Partnership's interests in Illiquid Investments.

If the Investment Manager, in its sole discretion, determines that the valuation of any security, commodity, option or other financial instrument pursuant to the foregoing does not fairly represent its market value, the Investment Manager will value such security, commodity, option or other financial instrument as it reasonably determines. Any securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that have no public market, investments in other asset classes (including those in Side Pocket Accounts), and all other assets of the Partnership for which a valuation methodology is not specified, will be valued by the Investment Manager in a manner determined in good faith to reflect their fair market value. Absent bad faith or manifest error, all Net Asset Value determinations pursuant to the Partnership Agreement are conclusive and binding as to all Partners.

Allocation of Profit and Loss

To determine how the economic gains and losses of the Partnership will be shared, the Partnership Agreement allocates net income or loss (increases and decreases in Net Asset Value) to each Partner's capital account. Net income or loss includes all portfolio gains and losses, whether realized or unrealized, plus all other Partnership items of income (such as interest) and less all Partnership expenses. Generally, net income and net loss for each month (or other period, as the case may be) will be allocated to the Partners in proportion to their capital account balances as of the start of such month (or such other period). Net income and net losses in any Side Pocket Accounts or other memorandum accounts will be allocated to those Partners participating in such accounts in proportion to their capital account balances in such accounts. All matters concerning the allocation of profits, gains and losses among the parties (including the taxes thereon) and accounting procedures not expressly provided for by the terms of the Partnership Agreement will be determined by the General Partner in its sole discretion. Capital account balances will reflect capital contributions, previous allocations of increases and decreases in Net Asset Value, withdrawals, distributions (if any), and expenses. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing provisions will apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Allocation of Taxable Income and Loss

For income tax purposes, all items of taxable income, gain, loss, deduction and credit will be allocated among the Partners at the end of each fiscal year in a manner consistent with their economic interests in the Partnership. In light of the fact that the Partnership does not intend to make distributions, to the extent that the Partnership's investment activities are successful, Limited Partners should expect to receive allocations of income and loss, and may incur tax liabilities from an investment in the Partnership without receiving cash distributions from the Partnership with which to pay those liabilities. To obtain cash from the Partnership to pay taxes, if any, Limited Partners may be required to make withdrawals, subject to the limitations in the Partnership Agreement. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing provisions will apply on a Series-by-Series basis.

Side Pocket Accounts

The Investment Manager may designate that certain investments held by a Series of the Partnership be carried in one or more separate memorandum accounts (each, a "Side Pocket Account") for such period of time as the Investment Manager determines. Such investments may include: (i) privately placed, unregistered securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments, or those investments that, in the opinion of the Investment Manager, do not have a readily ascertainable market value; (ii) other illiquid securities that may be valued but are not freely transferable; and (iii) investments in other asset classes (such as real estate) and other property that are not traded on public exchanges (each, as designated by the Investment Manager, along with follow-on investments, if any, an "Illiquid Investment"). Additionally, the Investment Manager, in its sole and absolute discretion, may determine that, for various reasons, an asset that initially was not an Illiquid Investment should be categorized as an Illiquid Investment, or that a follow-on investment should be categorized as a new Illiquid Investment. For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in Side Pocket Accounts; and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely. Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account will be carried at their fair value (which may be at, above or below cost) as determined by the Investment Manager.

At the sole discretion of the Investment Manager, an Illiquid Investment may be held in a Side Pocket Account until the occurrence of a Realization Event. Upon a Realization Event, such Illiquid Investment (or the sales proceeds thereof) will be reallocated, pro rata, from the Side Pocket Account to the capital accounts of participating Partners in accordance with their respective interests in such Side Pocket Account. Until such reallocation, a Limited Partner may not withdraw any of the amounts in its capital account that are attributable to the value of Illiquid Investments held in a Side Pocket Account. Upon such reallocation, a Limited Partner that has withdrawn all of its capital from the Partnership other than the capital attributable to such Side Pocket Account will receive an amount equal to its interest in such Side Pocket Account (net of any accrued Management Fee and accrued expenses (to the extent not covered by the Partnership's reserves, including the Management Fee Reserve) with respect thereto), within 90 days after such reallocation. For the avoidance of doubt, any investment made by Series 1 into the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

A "Realization Event" occurs: (1) when an Illiquid Investment becomes liquid, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager; (2) when an Illiquid Investment is sold or otherwise disposed of by the Partnership; (3) when circumstances otherwise exist that, in the reasonable judgment of the Investment Manager, conclusively establish a value for an Illiquid Investment, as determined in the reasonable discretion of the Investment Manager (including, without limitation, when additional securities substantially similar to the Illiquid Investment have been issued by the issuer of the Illiquid Investment); or (4) as otherwise determined in the sole discretion of the Investment Manager.

Newly-admitted Limited Partners may not participate in Illiquid Investments that were placed in a Side Pocket Account prior to their admission. Any expenses relating specifically to a Side Pocket Account will be charged to the Partners participating in such account. If the Investment Manager in its discretion designates any investment as a follow-on investment to an existing Illiquid Investment, only the Partners participating in such original investment will participate in such follow-on investment in proportion to their interest in the related Side Pocket Account; provided, however, that, if a Partner shall have withdrawn from the Partnership, the General Partner will equitably adjust the interests of the remaining participating Partners to reflect such withdrawn Partner's non-participation in the follow-on investment.

Also see "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST—Conflicts of Interest" herein.

New Issues Accounts; Other Memorandum Accounts

From time to time, the Partnership may purchase securities that are part of a public distribution. Under rules adopted by the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA"), (i) certain persons engaged in the securities, banking or financial services industries (and members of their immediate families) and (ii) certain persons who are affiliated with companies that are current, former or prospective investment banking clients of the Partnership's broker(s) (collectively, "Restricted Persons") are restricted from participating in initial public offerings of equity securities ("New Issues"), each subject to a de minimis exemption. To the extent necessary to comply with FINRA rules, in addition to the Partnership's regular accounts and any Side Pocket Accounts, the General Partner may establish one or more memorandum accounts that are authorized to participate in New Issues (each, a "New Issues Account"). Participation in New Issues Accounts will be limited to (i) those Limited Partners who are not Restricted Persons, and (ii) those Limited Partners who are Restricted Persons, but only to the extent that such participation by Restricted Persons does not exceed levels permitted under applicable FINRA rules.

In addition, as a matter of fairness to Partners that do not participate in New Issues, a use-of-funds charge may be debited to the capital accounts of those Partners that do participate in New Issues and credited to the capital accounts of all the Partners. The General Partner may calculate such charge, in its discretion, in any manner consistent with applicable FINRA rules, including, debiting amounts equal to interest, (i) on the funds used to purchase the New Issues at the annual rate being paid by the Partnership, or (ii) that would be paid by the Partnership on borrowed funds during the applicable period.

Upon the sale or other disposition of New Issues (including any transfer of the underlying securities in the New Issues Account to the capital accounts of all of the Partners, after such securities no longer constitute New Issues), any profits or losses resulting from securities transactions in the New Issues Account in any fiscal period will be credited or debited to the capital accounts of Limited Partners participating in the New Issues Account in accordance with their interests therein. Accordingly, the returns to Limited Partners on their investments in the Partnership may differ depending upon whether or not they are a Restricted Person.

In addition to the foregoing with respect to Side Pocket Accounts and New Issues Accounts, to the extent that certain Limited Partners are restricted from participating in any other transactions of the Partnership by applicable laws or regulations, or for any other reason determined by the General Partner in good faith, the General Partner may, in its discretion, establish one or more separate memorandum accounts to hold such investments and isolate ownership away from such restricted Limited Partners. Only those Limited Partners who the General Partner determines are eligible will participate in such accounts.

Side Letters

The Partnership, the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may from time to time enter into side letters or other similar agreements (collectively, "Side Letters") with one or more Limited Partners that provide such Limited Partner(s) with additional and/or different rights (including, without limitation, with respect to access to information, minimum investment amounts and liquidity terms) than such Limited Partner(s) have pursuant to this Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement. Neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager will be required to notify any or all of the other Limited Partners of any such Side Letters or any of the rights and/or terms or provisions thereof, nor will the General Partner or the Investment Manager be required to offer such additional and/or different rights and/or terms to any or all of the other Limited Partners.

Reports to Limited Partners

Each Limited Partner will receive the following, with respect to the relevant Series: (i) annual financial statements of the Partnership audited by an independent certified public accounting firm; (ii) quarterly unaudited performance information; (iii) copies of such Limited Partner's Schedule K-1 to the Partnership's tax returns; and (iv) other periodic reports or letters as determined by the General Partner in its sole discretion. The financial statements of the Partnership will be prepared in accordance with GAAP (except to the extent that this Memorandum or the Partnership Agreement states or contemplates that such statements may be inconsistent with GAAP).

The General Partner may at any time choose to change the Partnership's accounting guidelines from GAAP to the International Financial Reporting Standard ("IFRS"). In such event, the financial performance of the Partnership, as determined under IFRS, may vary from those determined under GAAP.

The Partnership will bear all fees incurred in providing such tax returns and reports.

The General Partner may agree to provide certain Limited Partners with additional information on the underlying investments of the Partnership, which may affect investment and withdrawal decisions, as well as heightened access to the General Partner, the Investment Manager and their respective employees for relevant information.

Transferability of Interests

As a Limited Partner, you may not assign or transfer your Interest (except by operation of law) without the consent of the General Partner, which consent may be given or withheld in its sole discretion. No transfer of an Interest by a Limited Partner will be permitted if it would result in the termination of the Partnership for federal income tax purposes. Transfers of Interests are subject to other restrictions set forth in the Partnership Agreement, including compliance with ERISA and federal and state securities laws.

Due to these limitations on transferability, Limited Partners may be required to hold their Interests indefinitely, unless they withdraw from the Partnership in accordance with the provisions set forth in the Partnership Agreement.

Distributions; Distributions Upon Termination of the Partnership

The Partnership does not expect to make any distributions to Limited Partners from profits or capital, except pursuant to requests for withdrawals and upon termination of the Partnership or the relevant Series. Upon the termination of the Partnership (as further described in the Partnership Agreement), the assets of the Partnership or the relevant Series will be liquidated (or distributed) and the proceeds of liquidation will be used to pay off known liabilities, establish reserves for contingent liabilities and expenses of liquidation (even if such reserves are not in accordance with GAAP), and any remaining balance will be applied and distributed in proportion to the respective capital accounts of the Partners. The Partnership or the relevant Series may satisfy any distributions to Limited Partners in cash, in-kind or any combination thereof. Additionally, the General Partner may create a liquidating fund entity (e.g., a liquidating trust or similar vehicle) and may transfer all or a portion of the Partnership's assets to such entity for any reason, including an orderly liquidation of any illiquid Partnership or Series assets, including, but not limited to Side Pocket Accounts, and may distribute ownership interests in such entity to Limited Partners.

The termination of the Partnership shall constitute the termination of all Series. For the avoidance of doubt, the termination of an individual Series, however, shall not constitute the termination of the Partnership.

Bank Holding Companies

Limited Partners that are Bank Holding Companies ("BHC Limited Partners") (as defined by Section 2(a) of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended ("BHCA")) are limited to 4.99% of the voting Interest in the Partnership under Section 4(c)(6) of the BHCA. The portion of the Interest in the Partnership held by a BHC Limited Partner in excess of 4.99% of the aggregate outstanding voting Interests of all Limited Partners will be deemed non-voting Interests in the Partnership. BHC Limited Partners holding non-voting Interests in the Partnership are permitted to vote such Interests (i) on any proposal to dissolve or continue the business of the Partnership under the Partnership Agreement and (ii) on matters with respect to which voting rights are not considered to be "voting securities" under 12 C.F.R. § 225.2(q)(2), including such matters which may "significantly and adversely" affect a BHC Limited Partner (such as amendments to the Partnership Agreement or modifications of the terms of its Interest). For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis. Except with regard to restrictions on voting, non-voting Interests are identical to all other Interests held by Limited Partners.

Voting Rights and Amendments

The voting rights of Limited Partners are very limited. Other than as explicitly set forth in the Partnership Agreement, Limited Partners have no voting rights as to the Partnership or its management. Generally, the Partnership Agreement may be amended only with the consent of the General Partner and Limited Partners owning more than 50% of all of the outstanding Interests of each Series; provided that: (x) for matters only relating to one Series, only the Limited Partners of that Series will vote on such matters, and (y) that the General Partner may amend the Partnership Agreement without the consent of or notice to any of the Limited Partners if, in the opinion of the General Partner, the amendment does not materially adversely affect any Limited Partner.

Liability of Limited Partners

No Limited Partner shall be personally liable or bound for the expenses, liabilities or obligations of the Partnership or the relevant Series beyond the amount in such Limited Partner's capital account in the relevant Series, from time to time, including any amounts thereof attributable to capital contributions, except that such Limited Partner may be obligated to return all or a portion of any distributions (including withdrawal proceeds) received from the Partnership or the relevant Series in an amount up to its aggregate capital contributions (including any income or gains thereon) to the Partnership or the relevant Series in order to pay such Limited Partner's pro rata share of any Partnership or Series liabilities that arose while such Limited Partner held Interests. Subject to the foregoing, no Limited Partner shall be obligated to provide any contributions to the Partnership or the relevant Series, other than its initial capital contribution. No Limited Partner shall be obligated to make any loan to the Partnership or a Series.

Under the Delaware Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act ("Delaware Act"), when a Limited Partner receives a return of all or any part of such Limited Partner's capital contribution, the Limited Partner may be liable to the Partnership or a Series for any sum, not in excess of such return of capital (together with interest), if at the time of such distribution the Limited Partner knew that the Partnership or the relevant Series was prohibited from making such distribution pursuant to the Delaware Act.

Brokerage Practices

Portfolio transactions for the Partnership will be allocated by the Investment Manager to brokers on the basis of best execution and in consideration of, among other factors, such brokers' ability to effect transactions, operational efficiency, reputation and financial strength. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES".

Other Activities of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and Affiliates

None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or any of their respective partners, managers, members, directors, officers, employees, agents and affiliates (collectively, "Investment Manager Affiliates") is required to manage the Partnership as its sole and exclusive function. In addition to managing the Partnership and its investments, each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates may provide investment management and other services to other parties and may manage other accounts and/or establish other private investment funds in the future (both domestic and offshore) (such accounts and funds, collectively, "Affiliated Funds"), including those that may employ an investment program and strategy similar to that of the Partnership.

Specifically, as of the date hereof: (i) the Investment Manager acts as the investment manager to Atlas IDF, LP, a Delaware "series" limited partnership ("IDF Fund") that is structured as an insurance-dedicated fund and is expected to invest a portion of its assets in the Partnership; (ii) Atlas IDF GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, is the general partner of the IDF Fund; (iii) the Principal is the managing member and controlling person of Atlas IDF GP, LLC; and (iv) the Investment Manager acts as the investment subadvisor to a series of SALI Multi-Series Fund, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership, and provides certain discretionary investment advisory or consulting services to such series.

See "MANAGEMENT" and "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST" herein.

Exculpation and Indemnification

The Partnership Agreement provides that none of the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates will be liable to the Partnership or the Limited Partners for any action or inaction in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership unless such action or inaction is determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. The Partnership (but not the Limited Partners individually) is obligated to indemnify the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Investment Manager Affiliates (which, for purposes of this indemnity, shall include fund counsel (except for legal malpractice)) from and against any and all claims, liabilities, obligations, judgments, suits, proceedings, actions, demands, losses, costs, expenses (including attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation), damages, penalties or interest, as a result of any claim or legal proceeding (made or threatened) related to any action or inaction by any of them in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership (including the settlement or appeal of any such claim or legal proceeding); provided that such indemnity will not extend to conduct determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. For the avoidance of doubt, the foregoing indemnification provisions shall apply on a Series-by-Series basis. The Investment Management Agreement also provides similar protections to the Investment Manager.

Term

The term of the Partnership will continue indefinitely until terminated in accordance with the Partnership Agreement. Under the Partnership Agreement, the Partnership may be terminated at the election of the General Partner.

The fiscal year of the Partnership will end on December 31 of each year. However, the fiscal year may be changed at any time by the General Partner, in its sole and absolute discretion.

INVESTMENT PROGRAM

INTRODUCTION

The Partnership was organized for the purpose of investing and trading in a wide variety of investments, domestic and foreign, of all kinds and descriptions, whether publicly traded or privately placed, including, but not limited to, the following: common and preferred stocks, bonds and other debt securities, convertible securities, limited partnership interests, other investment funds, CLO securities, mutual fund shares, options, warrants, futures, derivatives (including swaps, forward contracts and structured instruments), monetary instruments, other financial instruments, cash and cash equivalents. The Investment Manager is eligible to trade a limited amount of commodities or financial futures on behalf of the Partnership under a provision in the Commodity Exchange Act, as amended ("CEA"), that provides an exemption from registration as a commodity pool operator.

References herein to the Partnership shall include, where appropriate, each Series of the Partnership.

The following is a general description of the principal types of investments which the Investment Manager currently contemplates making for the Partnership, certain trading techniques that it may employ, the investment criteria that it plans to apply, and the guidelines that it has established with respect to the composition of its investment portfolio. The following description is merely a summary, and a Limited Partner should not assume that any descriptions of the specific activities in which the Partnership may engage are intended in any way to limit the types of investment activities which the Partnership may undertake or the allocation of Partnership capital among such investments.

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Partnership's primary objective is to seek consistent above-average returns primarily through capital appreciation. No assurance can be given, however, that the Investment Manager will achieve the Partnership's investment objective, and investment results may vary substantially over time and from period to period.

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

General

The Investment Manager intends to invest the Partnership's portfolio in small- to medium-sized companies (i.e., generally with market capitalization of under $1 billion) that are involved in (or are the target of) acquisition attempts or tender offers, and/or in companies involved in work-outs, liquidations, spin-offs, reorganizations, bankruptcies or similar transactions. The Investment Manager intends to use a disciplined investment philosophy by combining thorough fundamental research and in-depth analysis of investment opportunities. The Partnership (x) is expected to initially invest all or substantially all of the assets attributable to Series 1 in the Highland Transaction, if any, and (y) will potentially make investments in the future in other private transactions similar to the Highland Transaction.

Philosophy

The Investment Manager intends to use a disciplined investment philosophy by combining thorough fundamental research and in-depth analysis of investment opportunities. The following principles generally guide the Investment Manager's portfolio management strategy and allocation of capital:

- invest with a long-term perspective, minimize turnover and avoid market-timing;
- hold a concentrated investment portfolio; and

- view each investment relative to other investment opportunities.

Long-Term Perspective. The Investment Manager intends to invest with a long-term perspective, typically holding an ownership position in a company until it reaches its intrinsic value. In general, when the Investment Manager will be looking to invest in a company, it intends to avoid trying to time the market, but rather intends to focus on the intrinsic value of the company and then find the right entry or purchase point.

Concentration. The Investment Manager intends to have a concentrated portfolio of investments. The Investment Manager believes that this may provide the Partnership with a competitive advantage over most other private investment vehicles in that: (i) the Investment Manager's best ideas would be rarely and/or marginally diluted by its lesser ideas; (ii) the extra time saved by not trading may allow the Investment Manager to concentrate on finding other investment ideas; and (iii) careful analysis may allow the Investment Manager to make intelligent and deliberated decisions. For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in Side Pocket Accounts; and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

Relative Analysis. The Investment Manager intends to evaluate potential investments in companies of varying market capitalization in an attempt to isolate those securities with the greatest potential for capital appreciation. As part of its strategy, the Investment Manager intends to invest in those industries, sectors and securities which may provide value on a relative basis. The Investment Manager intends to seek to understand a company and its industry before investing.

Leverage

The Investment Manager may cause the Partnership to undertake leverage. Leverage may take a variety of forms, including, but not limited to, the following: long-term loans, convertible notes and repurchase arrangements. To the extent applicable, entering into short sales and certain types of derivative instruments may also increase the Partnership's use of leverage. Leverage arrangements used by the Partnership when financing is contingent on the market value of the financed assets may include those which may be subject to mark-to-market collateral or margin calls.

Important Notice

The foregoing description of the Partnership's investment program does not purport to be a complete explanation of all the asset classes or securities in which the Partnership may invest. In general, the Investment Manager intends to follow a flexible approach in order to place the Partnership in the best position to capitalize on opportunities in the financial markets. Accordingly, the Investment Manager may employ other strategies and may take advantage of opportunities in diverse asset classes if they meet the Investment Manager's standards of investment merit.

DEVELOPMENT AND RISKS OF INVESTMENT MANAGER'S INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The development of an investment strategy is a continuous process, and the Partnership's investment strategy and methods may therefore be modified from time to time. The Partnership's investment methods are confidential, and the descriptions of them in this Memorandum are not exhaustive. The Partnership's investment strategies may differ from those used by the Investment Manager and its affiliates with respect to other accounts they manage. Investment decisions require the exercise of judgment by the Investment Manager. The Investment Manager may, at times, decide not to make certain investments, thereby foregoing participation in price movements, which would have yielded profits or avoided losses. Limited Partners cannot be assured that the strategies or methods utilized by the Investment Manager will result in profitable investing for the Partnership.

The Partnership's investment program entails substantial risks, and there can be no assurance that its investment objectives will be achieved. The practices of options trading, short selling, the use of leverage and other investment techniques that may be employed by the Partnership can, in certain circumstances, maximize the adverse impact to which the Partnership's investment portfolio may be subject. See "RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST—Market Risks".

References herein to the Partnership shall be deemed to apply with respect to the Partnership's traded investments.

BROKERAGE ARRANGEMENTS

The Investment Manager is responsible for the placement of the portfolio transactions of the Partnership and the negotiation of any commissions paid on such transactions. Portfolio securities normally are purchased through brokers on securities exchanges or directly from the issuer or from an underwriter or market maker for the securities. Purchases of portfolio instruments through brokers involve a commission to the broker. Purchases of portfolio securities from dealers serving as market makers include the spread between the "bid" and the "ask" price. The Investment Manager will not commit to provide any level of brokerage business to any broker. The Investment Manager may utilize the services of one or more introducing brokers who will execute the Partnership's brokerage transactions through a broker or custodian who will clear the Partnership's transactions.

Securities transactions for the Partnership are executed through brokers selected by the Investment Manager in its sole discretion and without the consent of the Partnership. In placing portfolio transactions, the Investment Manager will seek to obtain the best execution for the Partnership, taking into account the following factors: the ability to effect prompt and reliable executions at favorable prices (including the applicable dealer spread or commission, if any); the operational efficiency with which transactions are effected and the efficiency of error resolution, taking into account the size of order and difficulty of execution; the financial strength, integrity and stability of the broker; special execution capabilities; reputation; clearance, settlement, on-line pricing, block trading and block positioning capabilities; willingness to execute related or unrelated difficult transactions in the future; order of call; online access to computerized data regarding clients' accounts; performance measurement data; the quality, comprehensiveness and frequency of available brokerage and research products and services considered to be of value; the availability of stocks to borrow for short trades; and the competitiveness of commission rates in comparison with other brokers satisfying the Investment Manager's other selection criteria.

SOFT DOLLAR ARRANGEMENTS

The term "soft dollars" refers to commissions accumulated by brokers based on an investment manager's transactions, on behalf of its clients, which may be used by the investment manager to acquire various products or services. The use of client commissions, known as soft dollars, to pay for these products and services, including research and brokerage products and services, presents investment managers with potential conflicts of interest and may give incentives for investment managers to use certain brokers without regard to their obligations to their clients.

The Investment Manager may use soft dollars generated by the Partnership's brokerage transactions to pay for brokerage and research products and services that fall within the safe harbor afforded by Section 28(e) of the Exchange Act ("Section 28(e)"). Section 28(e) provides a "safe harbor" to investment managers who use soft dollars to obtain investment research and brokerage products and services. In order to qualify for the safe harbor, the products or services must provide assistance to the investment manager in the performance of its investment decision-making responsibilities, or must relate to the execution, clearance or settlement of a trade.

REFERRAL OF INVESTORS AND SALES CHARGES

The Investment Manager may direct some Partnership brokerage business to brokers who refer prospective investors to the Partnership. Because such referrals, if any, are likely to benefit the Investment Manager and its affiliates but will provide an insignificant (if any) benefit to Limited Partners, the Investment Manager will have a conflict of interest with the Partnership when allocating Partnership brokerage business to a broker who has referred investors to the Partnership. To prevent Partnership brokerage commissions from being used to pay investor referral fees, the Investment Manager will not allocate Partnership brokerage business to a referring broker unless the Investment Manager determines in good faith that the commissions payable to such broker are reasonable in relation to those available from non-referring brokers offering services of substantially equal value to the Partnership.

The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may sell Interests through broker-dealers and pay a marketing fee or commission in connection with such activities, including ongoing payments, at the General Partner's or the Investment Manager's own expense. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may also deduct a percentage of the amount invested by a Limited Partner in the Partnership to pay sales fees or charges, on a fully disclosed basis, to a broker-dealer based upon the capital contribution of such Limited Partner introduced to the Partnership by such broker-dealer. Any such sales fees or charges would be assessed against the referred Limited Partner and would reduce the amount actually invested by such Limited Partner in the Partnership. If a Limited Partner is introduced to the Partnership through a broker-dealer that is not affiliated with the Investment Manager and/or the General Partner, the arrangement, if any, with such broker-dealer will be disclosed to, and acknowledged by, such Limited Partner.

ALLOCATION OF INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES

The Investment Manager may at times determine that certain investments will be suitable for acquisition by the Partnership and by other accounts managed by the Investment Manager, including Affiliated Funds, the Investment Manager's own accounts or accounts of an affiliate. If that occurs, and the Investment Manager is not able to acquire the desired aggregate amount of such investments on terms and conditions which the Investment Manager deems advisable, the Investment Manager will endeavor to allocate in good faith the limited amount of such investments acquired among the various accounts for which the Investment Manager considers them to be suitable. The Investment Manager may make such allocations among the accounts in any manner which it considers to be fair under the circumstances, including, but not limited to, allocations based on relative account sizes, the degree of risk involved in the investments acquired, and the extent to which such investments are consistent with the investment policies and strategies of the various accounts involved.

AGGREGATION OF ORDERS

The Investment Manager may aggregate purchase and sale orders of investments held by the Partnership with similar orders being made simultaneously for other accounts or entities if, in the Investment Manager's reasonable judgment, such aggregation is reasonably likely to result in an overall economic benefit to the Partnership based on an evaluation that the Partnership will be benefited by relatively better purchase or sale prices, lower commission expenses or beneficial timing of transactions, or a combination of these and other factors.

In some instances, the purchase or sale of investments for the Partnership may be effected simultaneously with the purchase or sale of like investments for other accounts or entities. Such transactions may be made at slightly different prices, due to the volume of investments purchased or sold. In such event, the average price of all investments purchased or sold in such transactions may be determined, at the Investment Manager's sole discretion, and the Partnership may be charged or credited, as the case may be, with the average transaction price.

TRADE ERROR POLICY

The Investment Manager has internal controls in place to prevent trade errors from occurring. On those occasions when such an error nonetheless occurs, the Investment

Manager will use reasonable efforts to correct the error. If the error cannot be corrected, the Investment Manager does not intend to make any adjustment, regardless of whether the error works to the benefit or detriment of the Partnership. The Investment Manager will endeavor to maintain a record of each trade error, including information about the trade and how such error was corrected or attempted to be corrected. The Partnership (and not the General Partner, the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates) will be responsible for any losses resulting from trading errors and similar human errors, unless such errors are due to gross negligence or willful misconduct, as determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction.

RISK FACTORS AND CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

An investment in the Partnership (and any Series thereof) involves significant risks not associated with other investment vehicles and is suitable only for persons of adequate financial means who have no need for liquidity in this investment. There can be no assurances or guarantees that: (i) the Partnership's (or any Series') investment strategy will prove successful, or (ii) investors will not lose all or a portion of their investment in the Partnership (or any particular Series).

References herein to the Partnership shall include, where appropriate, each Series of the Partnership.

You should consider the Partnership as a supplement to an overall investment program and should only invest if you are willing to undertake the risks involved. In addition, investors who are subject to income tax should be aware that an investment in the Partnership (or any Series thereof) is likely (if the Partnership (or such Series) is successful) to create taxable income or tax liabilities in excess of cash distributions to pay such liabilities. You should therefore bear in mind the following risk factors and conflicts of interest before purchasing an Interest:

PARTNERSHIP RISKS

Dependence Upon the General Partner, the Investment Manager and the Principal; No Participation in Management. The Partnership's success will depend on the management of the General Partner and the Investment Manager and on the skill and acumen of the Principal. If the Principal should cease to participate in the Partnership's business, the Partnership's ability to select attractive investments and manage its portfolio could be severely impaired.

As a Limited Partner, you should be aware that you will have no right to participate in the management of the Partnership, and you will have no opportunity to select or evaluate any of the Partnership's investments or strategies. Accordingly, you should not invest in the Partnership unless you are willing to entrust all aspects of the management of the Partnership and its investments to the discretion of the General Partner and the Investment Manager.

Limited or Lack of Operating History. Each of the Partnership, the Investment Manager and the General Partner are recently-formed entities that have no operating history upon which prospective investors may evaluate the Partnership's future performance. Although the Principal has experience with investments of the type the Partnership intends to make, any prior performance of the Principal (or the Investment Manager Affiliates) is not necessarily indicative of results that he may achieve with respect to the Partnership. As such, there can be no assurances that the Partnership will be able to implement its investment strategy or achieve its investment objective. In addition, any prior performance of the Principal or the Investment Manager Affiliates is not indicative of the results each may achieve for the Partnership in the future.

Reliance on the Shared Services Provider. The Investment Manager relies on the Shared Services Provider to provide certain administrative and other services. In the event that the Shared Services Agreement is terminated for any reason, the Investment Manager may not be able to engage another third party to provide such services and may not have the resources to continue advising the Partnership without the provision of such services by the Shared Services Provider. In addition, the Shared Services Provider may be (but, as of the date hereof, is not) engaged by the Partnership to act as the Partnership's Administrator, pursuant to a separate Administration Agreement.

Limited Liquidity of Interests. An investment in the Partnership involves substantial restrictions on liquidity, and its Interests are not freely transferable. There is no market for the Interests in the Partnership, and no market is expected to develop. Additionally, transfers are subject to the consent of the General Partner, which consent may be granted or withheld in the General Partner's sole discretion. Consequently, Limited Partners will be unable to liquidate their Interests except by withdrawing from the Partnership in accordance with the Partnership Agreement. Limited Partners may be unable to liquidate their investment promptly in the event of an emergency or for any other reason. Although a Limited Partner may attempt to increase its liquidity by borrowing from a bank or other institution, Interests may not readily be accepted as collateral for a loan. In addition, the transfer of an Interest as collateral or otherwise to achieve liquidity may result in adverse tax consequences to the transferor.

A portion of the Partnership's assets may be invested in securities and other financial instruments or obligations for which no market exists and/or which are restricted as to their transferability under federal or state securities laws. Such investments may be segregated from other Partnership assets and carried in Side Pocket Accounts, which are subject to restrictions on withdrawals. Because of the absence of any trading market for these investments, the Partnership may take longer to liquidate these positions than would be the case for publicly traded securities. Although these securities may be resold in privately negotiated transactions, the prices realized on these sales could be less than those originally paid by the Partnership. Further, companies whose securities are not publicly traded may not be subject to public disclosure and other investor protection requirements applicable to publicly traded securities.

Lack of Registration. The Interests have neither been registered under the Securities Act nor under the securities laws of any state and, therefore, are subject to transfer restrictions. In connection with your purchase of an Interest, you must represent that you are purchasing the Interest for investment purposes only and not with a view toward resale or distribution. Neither the Partnership nor the General Partner has any plans or assumed any obligation to register the Interests. Accordingly, the Interests may not be transferred without documentation acceptable to the General Partner, which may include an opinion of counsel to the Partnership that the transfer will not involve a violation of the registration requirements of the Securities Act or require registration by the Partnership under the Investment Company Act. These restrictions on transfer are in addition to those found in the Partnership Agreement. Ordinarily, this means that transfers will be restricted to instances of death, gift or passage by operation of law.

Withdrawal of Capital. A Limited Partner's ability to withdraw funds from the Partnership is restricted in accordance with the withdrawal provisions contained in this Memorandum under "SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS—Withdrawals" and the withdrawal provisions contained in the Partnership Agreement. In addition, substantial withdrawals by investors within a short period of time could require the Partnership to liquidate securities positions and other investments more rapidly than would otherwise be desirable, possibly reducing the value of the Partnership's assets and/or disrupting the Partnership's investment strategy. Reduction in the size of the Partnership could make it more difficult to generate a positive return or to recoup losses due to, among other things, reductions in the Partnership's ability to take advantage of particular investment opportunities or decreases in the ratio of its income to its expenses.

For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in Side Pocket Accounts; and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely. In addition, because of the absence of any trading market Illiquid Investments, the Partnership may take longer to liquidate these positions than would be the case for publicly traded securities. Each of the foregoing may impact a Limited Partner's ability to withdraw.

Concentration of Investments. The Investment Manager implements its investment program in a manner which, in light of investment considerations, market risks and other factors, it believes will provide the best opportunity for attractive risk-adjusted returns in the value of the Partnership's assets. The Partnership Agreement does not formally limit the amount of the Partnership's assets that may be invested in a single company, security, country, industry, sector or asset class. For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in Side Pocket Accounts; and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely. The concentration of the Partnership's portfolio in any manner described above would subject the Partnership to a greater degree of risk with respect to the failure of one or a few investments, or with respect to economic downturns in relation to an individual industry or sector, or single company, security, country, industry, sector or asset class.

Operating Deficits. The expenses of operating the Partnership (including the Management Fee) may exceed its income, thereby requiring that the difference be paid out of the Partnership's capital, reducing the Partnership's investments and potential for profitability.

No Distributions. The General Partner does not intend to make distributions to the Limited Partners, but intends instead to reinvest substantially all Partnership income and gain, if any. Cash that might otherwise be available for distribution will also be reduced by payment of Partnership obligations, payment of Partnership expenses (including fees payable and expense reimbursements to the General Partner) and establishment of appropriate reserves. As a result, if the Partnership is profitable, Limited Partners in all likelihood will be credited with Partnership net income, and will incur the consequent income tax liability (to the extent that they are subject to income tax), even though Limited Partners receive little or no Partnership distributions.

Investment Expenses. The investment expenses (e.g., expenses related to the investment and custody of the Partnership's assets, such as brokerage commissions, custodial fees and other trading and investment charges and fees) as well as other Partnership fees may, in the aggregate, constitute a high percentage relative to other investment entities. The Partnership will bear these costs regardless of its profitability.

Cross-Series Liability. Section 17-218 of the Delaware Act provides that limited partnerships can be established in separate series in a manner that the liabilities and obligations incurred with respect to any series are only enforceable against the assets of such series, and not against the assets of the limited partnership generally or any other series. The relevant provisions of the Delaware Act provide the legal requirements for how limited partnerships can be established and operated to maintain this segregation. The statute includes such requirements as the maintenance of separate books and records for each series, and separation of the assets of each series from other series. Despite these statutory provisions, there may be instances where the assets of a particular Series may be exposed to the liabilities of one or more other Series. For example, there may be certain counterparties which resist entering into a contract with a particular Series and insist that one or more other Series, or the Partnership itself acting on behalf of the Series together, enter into such contract.

Supervision of Trading Operations. The Investment Manager, with assistance from its brokerage and clearing firms, intends to supervise and monitor trading activity in the Partnership's account to ensure compliance with the Partnership's objectives. Despite the Investment Manager's efforts, however, there is a risk that unauthorized or otherwise inappropriate trading activity may occur in the Partnership account.

Impact of Side Letters. The Partnership, the General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may from time to time enter into Side Letters with one or more Limited Partners that provide such Limited Partner(s) with additional and/or different rights (including, without limitation, with respect to access to information, minimum investment amounts and liquidity terms) than such Limited Partner(s) have pursuant to this Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement. Neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager will be required to notify any or all of the other Limited Partners of any such written agreements or any of the rights and/or terms or provisions thereof, nor will the General Partner or the Investment Manager be required to offer such additional and/or different rights and/or terms to any or all of the other Limited Partners. The other Limited Partners will have no recourse against the Partnership, the General Partner, the Investment Manager and/or any of their respective affiliates in the event that certain Limited Partners receive additional and/or different rights and/or terms as a result of such Side Letters.

Broad Discretionary Power to Choose Investments and Strategies. The Investment Management Agreement gives the Investment Manager broad discretionary power to decide what investments the Partnership will make and what strategies it will use. While the Investment Manager currently intends to use the strategies described in "INVESTMENT PROGRAM", it is not obligated to do so, and it may choose any other investments and strategies that it believes are advisable.

Limitation of Liability and Indemnification of the General Partner, the Investment Manager and Affiliates. The Partnership Agreement provides that none of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates will be liable to the Partnership or the Limited Partners for any action or inaction in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership unless such action or inaction is determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. The Partnership (but not the Limited Partners individually) is obligated to indemnify the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates (which, for purposes of this indemnity, shall include fund counsel (except for legal malpractice)) from and against any and all claims, liabilities, obligations, judgments, suits, proceedings, actions, demands, losses, costs, expenses (including attorneys' fees and other expenses of litigation), damages, penalties or interest, as a result of any claim or legal proceeding (made or threatened) related to any action or inaction by any of them in connection with the business and affairs of the Partnership (including the settlement or appeal of any such claim or legal proceeding); provided that such indemnity will not extend to conduct determined by a final, non-appealable decision of a court of competent jurisdiction to constitute gross negligence or willful misconduct. The Investment Management Agreement also provides similar protections to the Investment Manager. Therefore, a Limited Partner may have a more limited right of action against the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates than a Limited Partner would have had absent these provisions in the Partnership Agreement and the Investment Management Agreement. It is the policy of the SEC that indemnification for violations of securities laws is against public policy and therefore unenforceable.

No Minimum Size of Partnership. The Partnership may begin or continue operations without attaining or maintaining any particular level of capitalization. At low asset levels, the Partnership may be unable to make its investments as fully as would otherwise be desirable or to take advantage of potential economies of scale, including the ability to obtain the most timely and valuable research and trading information from securities brokers. It is possible that even if the Partnership operates for a period with substantial capital, investors' withdrawals could diminish the Partnership assets to a level that does not permit the most efficient and effective implementation of the Partnership's investment program. As a result of losses or withdrawals, the Partnership may not have sufficient capital to diversify its investments to the extent desired or currently contemplated by the Investment Manager.

Portfolio Valuation. Valuation of the Partnership's portfolio, which will affect the amount of the Management Fee, involves uncertainties and determinations based on judgments. Third-party pricing information may, at times, not be available regarding certain of the Partnership's investments. A disruption in the secondary markets for the Partnership's investments may limit the ability of the Partnership to obtain accurate market quotations for purposes of valuing its investments. In addition, material events occurring after the close of a principal market upon which a portion of the investments of the Partnership are traded may require it to make a determination of the effect of a material event on the value of the investments traded on the market for purposes of determining the value of the Partnership's investments on a valuation date. Further, because of the overall size and concentrations in particular markets and maturities of positions that may be held by the Partnership from time to time, the liquidation values of the Partnership's securities and other investments may differ significantly from the interim valuations of these investments derived from the valuation methods described herein. Moreover, because of the inherent uncertainty of valuing an illiquid security, the quoted valuation may be higher than the actual final liquidation value, and these differences could be material. If the Partnership's valuation should prove to be incorrect, the value of the Partnership's investments could be adversely affected.

Liability of a Limited Partner for the Return of Capital Contributions. If the Partnership should become insolvent, Limited Partner may be obligated to return all or a portion of any distributions (including withdrawal proceeds) received from the Partnership in an amount up to its aggregate capital contributions (including any income or gains thereon) to the Partnership in order to pay such Limited Partner's pro rata share of any Partnership liabilities that arose while such Limited Partner held Interests.

Under the Delaware Act, when a Limited Partner receives a return of all or any part of such Limited Partner's capital contribution, the Limited Partner may be liable to the Partnership for any sum, not in excess of such return of capital (together with interest), if at the time of such distribution the Limited Partner knew that the Partnership was prohibited from making such distribution pursuant to the Delaware Act.

Delayed Schedule K-1s. The General Partner will endeavor to provide a Schedule K-1 to each Limited Partner for any given calendar year prior to April 15 of the following year. In the event that the Schedule K-1 is not available by such date, a Limited Partner may have to request an extension of time to file or may have to pay taxes based on an estimated amount.

Lack of Insurance. The assets of the Partnership are not insured by any government or private insurer, except to the extent portions may be deposited in bank accounts insured by the United States Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or with brokers insured by the Securities Investor Protection Corporation and such deposits and securities are subject to such insurance coverage (which, in any event, is limited in amount). Therefore, in the event of the insolvency of a depository or custodian, the Partnership may be unable to recover all of its funds or the value of its securities so deposited.

Forward-Looking Statements; Opinions. Statements contained in this Memorandum that are not historical facts are based on current expectations, estimates, projections, opinions and/or beliefs of the Partnership. Such statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other factors, and undue reliance should not be placed thereon. Moreover, certain information contained in this Memorandum constitutes "forward-looking" statements, which can be identified by the use of forward-looking terminology, such as "may", "will", "seek", "should", "expect", "anticipate", "project", "estimate", "intend", "continue" or "believe" or the negatives thereof or other variations thereon or comparable terminology. Due to various risks and uncertainties, including those set forth herein, actual events or results or the actual performance of the Partnership may differ materially from those reflected or contemplated in such forward-looking statements.

MARKET RISKS

General

Competition Generally. The securities industry and the varied strategies and techniques to be engaged in by the Investment Manager are extremely competitive and each involves a degree of risk. The Partnership will compete with firms, including many of the larger securities and investment banking firms, which have substantially greater financial resources and research staffs. Further, lower fees for comparable services may be available from these or other firms.

Market Volatility. The profitability of the Partnership substantially depends upon the Investment Manager correctly assessing the future price movements of bonds, stocks, options on stocks, and other financial instruments, and the movements of interest rates. The Partnership cannot guarantee that the Investment Manager will be successful in accurately predicting those prices and interest rate movements.

Partnership's Investment Activities. The Partnership's investment activities involve a significant degree of risk. The performance of any investment is subject to numerous factors which are neither within the control of nor predictable by the Investment Manager. Such factors include a wide range of economic, political, competitive, technological and other conditions (including natural disasters, acts of terrorism and war) that may affect investments in general or specific industries or companies. The securities markets may be volatile, which may adversely affect the ability of the Partnership to realize profits. As a result of the nature of the Partnership's investing activities, it is possible that the Partnership's financial performance may fluctuate substantially over time and from period to period.

Terrorist Actions. There is a risk of terrorist attacks on the United States and elsewhere causing significant loss of life and property damage and disruptions in the global market. Economic and diplomatic sanctions may be in place or imposed on certain states and military action may be commenced. The impact of such events is unclear, but could have a material effect on general economic conditions and market liquidity.

Unforeseen Events. The Partnership may be adversely affected by unforeseen events involving such matters as changes in interest rates or the credit status of an issuer, forced withdrawals of securities or acquisition proposals, break-up of planned mergers, unexpected changes in relative value, short squeezes, inability to short stock or changes in tax treatment.

Potential Cybersecurity Breaches and Identity Theft. The Investment Manager relies, to a certain extent, on the use of information technology. The Investment Manager's information and technology systems may be vulnerable to damage and/or interruption from computer viruses, network failures, computer and telecommunication failures, infiltration by unauthorized persons and security breaches, usage errors by its professionals, power outages, and/or catastrophic events such as fires, tornadoes, floods, hurricanes and earthquakes. Although the Investment Manager has implemented various measures to manage risks relating to these types of events, if these systems are compromised, become inoperable for extended periods of time and/or cease to function properly, the Investment Manager and/or the Partnership may have to make a significant investment to fix or replace them. The failure of these systems and/or of disaster recovery plans for any reason could cause significant interruptions in the Investment Manager's and/or the Partnership's operations and may result in a failure to maintain the security, confidentiality or privacy of sensitive data, including personal information relating to investors (and the beneficial owners of investors). Such a failure could harm the Investment Manager's and/or the Partnership's reputation, subject any such entity and their respective affiliates to legal claims and/or otherwise affect their business and financial performance.

Long-Biased Investment Program. The Investment Manager expects that its strategy with respect to the Partnership will have a long bias. Therefore, any decline in the overall market may result in a decline in the value of the Partnership's assets.

Market Liquidity and Leverage. The Partnership may be adversely affected by a decrease in market liquidity for the instruments in which it invests which may impair the Partnership's ability to adjust its positions. The size of the Partnership's positions may magnify the effect of a decrease in market liquidity for such instruments. Changes in overall market leverage, deleveraging as a consequence of a decision by any brokers and custodians, or other counterparties with which the Partnership enters into repurchase/reverse repurchase agreements or derivative transactions, to reduce the level of leverage available, or the liquidation by other market participants of the same or similar positions, may also adversely affect the Partnership's portfolio.

Material Non-Public Information. By reason of their responsibilities in connection with other activities of the Investment Manager and/or its affiliates, the Principal or employees of the Investment Manager and/or its affiliates may acquire confidential or material non-public information or be restricted from initiating transactions in certain securities. The Partnership will not be free to act upon any such information. Due to these restrictions, the Partnership may not be able to initiate a transaction that it otherwise might have initiated and may not be able to sell an investment that it otherwise might have sold.

Accuracy of Public Information. The Investment Manager may select investments for the Partnership, in part, on the basis of information and data filed by issuers with various government regulators or made directly available to the Investment Manager by the issuers or through sources other than the issuers. Although the Investment Manager evaluates certain such information and data and sometimes seeks independent corroboration when the Investment Manager considers it is appropriate and when it is reasonably available, the Investment Manager is not in a position to confirm the completeness, genuineness or accuracy of such information and data, and in some cases, complete and accurate information is not available. Investments may not perform as expected if information is inaccurate.

Directorships on Boards of Portfolio Companies. The principals and other members and employees of the Investment Manager or its designees may serve as directors of companies the securities of which are purchased or sold on behalf of the Partnership and may be compensated for such service. In the event that material non-public information obtained with respect to such companies becomes subject to trading restrictions pursuant to the internal trading policies of such companies or as a result of applicable law or regulations, the Partnership may be prohibited for a period of time from purchasing or selling the securities of such companies, which prohibition may have an adverse effect on the Partnership.

Short-Swing Liability and Other Limitations. From time to time, the Partnership, acting alone or as part of a group, may acquire beneficial ownership of more than 10% of a certain class of securities of a public company, or may place a director on the board of directors of such a company. As a result, under Section 16 of the Exchange Act, the Partnership may be subject to certain additional reporting requirements and may be required to disgorge certain short-swing profits arising from purchases and sales of such securities. In addition, in such circumstances the Partnership will be prohibited from entering into a short position in such issuer's securities, and therefore limited in its ability to hedge such investments.

Disruptions or Inability to Trade Due to a Failure to Receive Timely and Accurate Market Data from Third-Party Vendors. The Investment Manager's strategy may depend on the receipt of timely and accurate market data from third-party vendors. Any failure to receive such data in a timely manner or the receipt of inaccurate data for any reason could disrupt and adversely affect the Partnership's trading until such failure or inaccuracy is corrected.

Use of Automated Order Routing and Execution Systems Generally. The Investment Manager may use automated order routing and execution systems in its trading. Such systems are typically provided on an "as is" basis. Such systems may experience technical difficulties which may render them temporarily unavailable. In addition, such systems may fail to properly perform. Such failures may result in losses to the Partnership, for which losses the providers of such services have disclaimed all liability. In an effort to mitigate such risks, the Investment Manager intends to closely monitor trades executed through automated order routing and execution systems and the operation of the systems themselves.

Electronic Trading Facilities. The Partnership may make use of electronic trading facilities (including ECNs), which are generally supported by computer-based component systems for the order-routing, execution, matching, registration or clearing of trades. As with all facilities and systems, they are vulnerable to temporary disruption or failure. Trading on an electronic trading system (including an ECN) may differ not only from trading in an open-outcry market or telephonic market but also from trading on other electronic trading systems. The Partnership, in undertaking transactions on an electronic trading system, will be exposed to risk associated with the system including the failure of hardware and software. The result of any system failure may be that the Partnership's order is either not executed according to its instructions or is not executed at all. The Partnership's ability to limit or recover certain losses may be subject to limits on liability imposed by, without limitation, foreign or domestic law or regulation, the Partnership's own or its broker's internet service provider, other systems providers, market factors, foreign or domestic banking or other market regulations and/or telephonic or other communications providers, foreign or domestic.

Technology Risk. The Investment Manager's investment strategy may rely on the use of proprietary and non-proprietary software, data and intellectual property. Any such reliance on this technology and data is subject to a number of important risks. First, the Partnership may be severely and adversely affected by the malfunction of the technology and/or data feed. For example, an unforeseeable software or hardware malfunction could occur, as a result of a virus or other outside force, or as result of a design flaw in the Partnership's system or in its continued implementation. In the past, occurrences of this nature to other funds have sometimes resulted in dramatically negative consequences for the portfolio of the related fund. In addition, changes in the market for publicly available data or in regulatory reporting requirements could cause a severe diminution in the data available for the technology to operate as designed. Such events can also have dramatically negative consequences for the Partnership. Furthermore, if any of the Partnership's software, hardware, data and/or other intellectual property is found to infringe on the rights of any third party, the Partnership could be severely and adversely affected.

Trading Errors. The Investment Manager's computerized trading systems rely on the ability of the Investment Manager's personnel to accurately process such systems' outputs and to use the proper trading orders, including stop-loss or limit orders, to execute the transactions called for by the systems. In addition, the Investment Manager relies on its staff to properly operate and maintain the computer and communication systems upon which the trading systems rely. The Investment Manager's systems are accordingly subject to human errors, including the failure to implement, or the inaccurate implementation of any of the Investment Manager's systems, in addition to errors in properly executing transactions. This could cause substantial losses on transactions, and any such losses could substantially and adversely affect the performance of the Partnership. See "BROKERAGE PRACTICES–Trade Error Policy" herein.

Co-Investments with Third Parties. The Partnership may co-invest with third parties through joint ventures or other entities. Such investments may involve risks in connection with such third- party involvement, including the possibility that a third-party co-venturer may have financial difficulties resulting in a negative impact on such investment, economic or business interests or goals that are inconsistent with those of the Partnership or be in a position to take (or block) action in a manner contrary to the Partnership's investment objectives. In those circumstances where such third parties involve a management group, such third parties may enter into compensation arrangements relating to such investments, including incentive compensation arrangements. Such compensation arrangements will reduce the returns to participants in the investments.

Other Investment Vehicles; Limited Recourse. The Investment Manager may allocate a portion of the Partnership's assets to pooled investment vehicles that may be managed by the Investment Manager or its affiliates or unaffiliated managers. Such investment vehicles may trade wholly-independently of one another and may at times hold economically offsetting positions. To the extent that such investment vehicles do, in fact, hold such positions, the Partnership, considered as a whole, may not achieve any gain or loss despite incurring expenses. Additionally, a creditor having a claim that relates to a particular investment held by any such investment vehicle may be able to satisfy such claim against all assets of such investment vehicle, without regard to the participation rights of the Partnership and other investors of such investment vehicle in the assets of such investment vehicle.

Since the Partnership may not have full transparency with respect to the trading activities of such investment vehicles, it may be limited in its ability to hedge its exposure or to prevent concentration of its assets within the same issuer, asset or asset class, industry, section, strategy, currency, country or geographic region. Further, the Investment Manager may be limited with respect to its ability to monitor unaffiliated managers, including their adherence to their respective trading and risk guidelines (if such guidelines exist). Even in the event that such information may be available to the Partnership, the Partnership's investment in such investment vehicles may be "locked up" and subject to limitations on withdrawals, and in light of the broad exculpation and indemnification provisions typically contained in the governing documents of such investment vehicles, may have limited recourse against the managers of such investment vehicles.

Risks Associated with ETFs. The Partnership may invest in ETFs. ETFs represent an interest in a passively managed portfolio of securities and financial instruments selected to replicate a securities or financial instruments index. Unlike open-end mutual funds, the shares of ETFs are not purchased and redeemed by investors directly with the ETF, but instead are purchased and sold through broker-dealers in transactions on an exchange. Because ETF shares are traded on an exchange, they may trade at a discount from or a premium to the net asset value per share of the underlying portfolio of securities or financial instruments. In addition to bearing the risks related to investments in securities or financial instruments, investors in ETFs intended to replicate an index bear the risk that the ETFs performance may not correctly replicate the performance of the index. Investors in ETFs, closed-end funds and other investment companies bear a proportionate share of the expenses of those funds, including management fees, custodial and accounting costs, and other expenses. As such, the Partnership is subject to layering of such fees. Trading in ETF and closed-end fund shares also entails payment of brokerage commissions and other transaction costs.

Illiquid Securities. From time to time, the Partnership may invest in financial instruments that are not publicly traded. The Partnership may also invest in securities and other financial instruments that trade regularly but may be only thinly traded, either periodically or on an on-going basis. The Partnership may not be able to readily dispose of such financial instruments and, in some cases, may be contractually prohibited from disposing of such financial instruments for a specified period of time. Accordingly, the Partnership may be forced to sell its more liquid positions at a disadvantageous time, resulting in a greater percentage of the portfolio consisting of illiquid securities. In addition, the market prices, if any, for such financial instruments tend to be volatile, and the Partnership may not be able to sell them when it desires to do so or to realize what it perceives to be their fair value in the event of a sale. The sale of illiquid securities also often requires more time and results in higher brokerage charges or dealer discounts and other selling expenses than does the sale of securities eligible for trading on national securities exchanges or in the over-the-counter markets. Furthermore, there may be limited information available about the assets of such issuers of the financial instruments which may make valuation of such financial instruments difficult or uncertain. It also should be noted that, even those markets which the Investment Manager expects to be liquid can experience periods, possibly extended periods, of illiquidity.

Investments in Securities and Other Assets Believed to Be Undervalued. The Investment Manager's investment program contemplates that a portion of the Partnership's portfolio may be invested in securities and other assets that the Investment Manager believes to be undervalued. The identification of such investment opportunities is a difficult task, and there are no assurances that such opportunities will be successfully recognized or acquired. While such investments offer the opportunities for above-average capital appreciation, they also involve a high degree of financial risk and can result in substantial losses. Returns generated from the Partnership's investments may not adequately compensate for the business and financial risks assumed. The current economic conditions and any future major economic recession can severely disrupt the markets for such investments and significantly impact their value. In addition, any such economic downturn can adversely affect the ability of the issuers of such obligations to repay principal and pay interest thereon and increase the incidence of default for such securities. Additionally, there can be no assurance that other investors will ever come to realize the value of some of these investments, and that they will ever increase in price. Furthermore, the Partnership may be forced to hold such investments for a substantial period of time before realizing their anticipated value. During this period, a portion of the Partnership's funds would be committed to the investments made, thus possibly preventing the Partnership from investing in other opportunities.

Short Sales. The Investment Manager's investment program contemplates that a portion of the Partnership's portfolio may be invested in selling securities short. Although the Investment Manager may sell short a variety of assets, it expects most short trades to be in equity securities. Short selling involves the sale of a security that the Partnership does not own and must borrow in order to make delivery in the hope of purchasing the same security at a later date at a lower price. In order to make delivery to the purchaser, the Partnership must borrow securities from a third-party lender. The Partnership subsequently returns the borrowed securities to the lender by delivering to the lender the securities it receives in the transaction or by purchasing securities in the open market. The Partnership must generally pledge cash with the lender equal to the market price of the borrowed securities. This deposit may be increased or decreased in accordance with changes in the market price of the borrowed securities. During the period in which the securities are borrowed, the lender typically retains its right to receive interest and dividends accruing to the securities. In exchange, in addition to lending the securities, the lender generally pays the Partnership a fee for the use of the Partnership's cash. This fee is based on prevailing interest rates, the availability of the particular security for borrowing and other market factors.

Theoretically, securities sold short are subject to unlimited risk of loss because there is no limit on the price that a security may appreciate before the short position is closed. In addition, the supply of securities that can be borrowed fluctuates from time to time. The Partnership may be subject to substantial losses if a security lender demands return of the lent securities and an alternative lending source cannot be found.

Small Companies. The Investment Manager may invest a portion of the Partnership's assets in small and/or unseasoned companies with small market capitalizations. While smaller companies generally have potential for rapid growth, they often involve higher risks because they may lack the management experience, financial resources, product diversification and competitive strength of larger companies. In addition, in many instances, the frequency and volume of their trading may be substantially less than is typical of larger companies. As a result, the securities of smaller companies may be subject to wider price fluctuations. When making large sales, the Partnership may have to sell portfolio holdings at discounts from quoted prices or may have to make a series of small sales over an extended period of time due to the lower trading volume of smaller company securities.

Leverage. When deemed appropriate by the Investment Manager and subject to applicable regulations, the Partnership will incur leverage in its investment program, whether directly through the use of borrowed funds, or indirectly through investment in certain types of financial instruments with inherent leverage, such as puts, calls and warrants, which may be purchased for a fraction of the price of the underlying securities while giving the purchaser the full benefit of movement in the market price of those underlying securities. While such strategies and techniques increase the opportunity to achieve higher returns on the amounts invested, they also increase the risk of loss. To the extent that the Partnership purchases securities with borrowed funds, its net assets will tend to increase or decrease at a greater rate than if borrowed funds are not used. The level of interest rates generally, and the rates at which such funds may be borrowed in particular, could affect the operating results of the Partnership. If the interest expense on this leverage were to exceed the net return on the investments made with borrowed funds, the Partnership's use of leverage would result in a lower rate of return than if the Partnership were not leveraged.

If the amount of leverage which the Partnership may have outstanding at any one time is large in relation to its capital, fluctuations in the market value of the Partnership's portfolio will have disproportionately large effects in relation to the Partnership's capital and the possibilities for profit and the risk of loss will therefore be increased. Any investment gains made with the additional leverage will generally cause the Net Asset Value of the Partnership to rise more rapidly than would otherwise be the case. Conversely, if the investment performance of the leveraged capital fails to cover its cost to the Partnership, the Net Asset Value of the Partnership will generally decline faster than would otherwise be the case.

Certain of the Partnership's trading and investment activities in securities and other financial instruments may be subject to Federal Reserve Board margin requirements, which are computed each day. When the market value of a particular open position changes to a point where the margin on deposit does not satisfy maintenance margin requirements, a "margin call" on the customer is made. If the customer does not deposit additional funds with the broker to meet the margin call within a reasonable time, the customer's position may be closed out. In the event of a precipitous drop in the value of the assets managed by the Partnership, the Partnership might not be able to liquidate assets quickly enough to pay off the margin debt and might suffer mandatory liquidation of positions in a declining market at relatively low prices, incurring substantial losses. With respect to the Partnership's trading activities, the Partnership, and not the Limited Partners personally, will be subject to margin calls.

Overall, the use of leverage, while providing the opportunity for a higher return on investments, also increases the volatility of such investments and the risk of loss.

Options and Other Derivative Instruments. The Investment Manager may invest, from time to time, a portion of the Partnership's assets in options and derivative instruments, including buying and writing puts and calls on some of the securities held by the Partnership. The prices of many derivative instruments, including many options and swaps, are highly volatile. The value of options and swap agreements depend primarily upon the price of the securities, indexes, currencies or other instruments underlying them. Price movements of options contracts and payments pursuant to swap agreements are also influenced by, among other things, interest rates, changing supply and demand relationships, trade, fiscal, monetary and exchange control programs and policies of governments, and national and international political and economic events and policies. The Partnership is also subject to the risk of the failure of any of the exchanges on which its positions trade or of their clearinghouses or of counterparties. The cost of options is related, in part, to the degree of volatility of the underlying securities, currencies or other assets. Accordingly, options on highly volatile securities, currencies or other assets may be more expensive than options on other investments.

Put options and call options typically have similar structural characteristics and operational mechanics regardless of the underlying instrument or asset on which they are purchased or sold. A put option gives the purchaser of the option, upon payment of a premium, the right to sell, and the writer the obligation to buy, the underlying security, index, currency or other instrument or asset at the exercise price. A call option, upon payment of a premium, gives the purchaser of the option the right to buy, and the seller the obligation to sell, the underlying instrument or asset at the exercise price.

If a put or call option purchased by the Partnership were permitted to expire without being sold or exercised, the Partnership would lose the entire premium it paid for the option. The risk involved in writing a put option is that there could be a decrease in the market value of the underlying instrument or asset caused by rising interest rates or other factors. If this occurred, the option could be exercised and the underlying instrument or asset would then be sold to the Partnership at a higher price than its current market value. The risk involved in writing a call option is that there could be an increase in the market value of the underlying instrument or asset caused by declining interest rates or other factors. If this occurred, the option could be exercised and the underlying instrument or asset would then be sold by the Partnership at a lower price than its current market value.

Purchasing and writing put and call options and, in particular, writing "uncovered" options are highly specialized activities and entail greater than ordinary investment risks. In particular, the writer of an uncovered call option assumes the risk of a theoretically unlimited increase in the market price of the underlying instrument or asset above the exercise price of the option. This risk is enhanced if the instrument or asset being sold short is highly volatile and there is a significant outstanding short interest. These conditions exist in the stocks of many companies. The instrument or asset necessary to satisfy the exercise of the call option may be unavailable for purchase except at much higher prices. Purchasing instruments or assets to satisfy the exercise of the call option can itself cause the price of the instruments or assets to rise further, sometimes by a significant amount, thereby exacerbating the loss. Accordingly, the sale of an uncovered call option could result in a loss by the Partnership of all or a substantial portion of its assets.

Swaps and certain options and other custom instruments are subject to the risk of non-performance by the counterparty, including risks relating to the financial soundness and creditworthiness of the counterparty.

Hedging Transactions. Investments in financial instruments such as options and interest rate swaps, caps and floors, and other derivatives are commonly utilized by investment funds to hedge against fluctuations in the relative values of its portfolio positions as a result of changes in currency exchange rates, interest rates and/or the equity markets or sectors thereof. Any hedging against a decline in the value of portfolio positions does not eliminate fluctuations in the values of portfolio positions or prevent losses if the values of such positions decline, but establishes other positions designed to gain from those same developments, thus moderating the decline in the portfolio positions' value. Such hedging transactions also limit the opportunity for gain if the value of the portfolio positions should increase. Moreover, it may not be possible for the Partnership to hedge against a fluctuation at a price sufficient to protect the Partnership's assets from the decline in value of the portfolio positions anticipated as a result of such fluctuations. For example, the cost of options is related, in part, to the degree of volatility of the underlying instruments or assets. Accordingly, options on highly volatile instruments or assets may be more expensive than options on other instruments or assets and of limited utility in hedging against fluctuations in their prices.

The Investment Manager is not obligated to establish hedges for portfolio positions and may not do so. To the extent that hedges are implemented, their success is dependent on the Investment Manager's ability to correctly predict movements in the direction of currency and interest rates and the equity markets or sectors thereof.

Market or Interest Rate Risk. The Partnership may, from time to time, invest in fixed income securities and instruments. The price of most fixed income securities move in the opposite direction of the change in interest rates. For example, as interest rates rise, the prices of fixed income securities fall. If the Partnership holds a fixed income security to maturity, the change in its price before maturity may have little impact on the Partnership's performance. However, if the Partnership has to sell the fixed income security before the maturity date, an increase in interest rates could result in a loss to the Partnership.

Callable Securities. Many bonds, including agency, corporate and municipal bonds, and mortgage-backed securities, sometimes contain a provision that allows the issuer to "call" (i.e., redeem) all or part of the issue before the bond's maturity date. The issuer usually retains this right to refinance the bond in the future if market interest rates decline below the coupon rate on the outstanding debt security. From the investor's perspective, there are three disadvantages to the call provision. First, the cash flow pattern of a callable bond is not known with certainty. Second, because the issuer will call the bonds when interest rates have dropped, the Partnership is exposed to reinvestment rate risk – the Partnership will have to reinvest the proceeds received when the bond is called at lower interest rates. Finally, the capital appreciation potential of a bond will be reduced because the price of a callable bond may not rise much above the price at which the issuer may call the bond.

Maturity Risk. In certain situations, the Partnership may purchase a bond of a given maturity as an alternative to another bond of a different maturity. Ordinarily, under these circumstances, the Partnership will make an adjustment to account for the interest rate risk differential in the two bonds. This adjustment, however, makes an assumption about how the interest rates at different maturities will move. To the extent that the yield movements deviate from this assumption, there is a yield-curve or maturity risk. Another situation where yield-curve risk should be considered is in the analysis of bond swap transactions where the potential incremental returns are dependent entirely on the parallel shift assumption for the yield curve.

Inflation Risk. Inflation risk results from the variation in the value of cash flows from a fixed income security or instrument due to inflation, as measured in terms of purchasing power. For example, if the Partnership purchases a 5-year bond with a coupon rate of 5%, but the rate of inflation is 6%, then the purchasing power of the cash flow has declined. For all but inflation-linked bonds, adjustable bonds or floating rate bonds, the Partnership is exposed to inflation risk because the interest rate the issuer promises to make is fixed for the life of the security. To the extent that interest rates reflect the expected inflation rate, floating rate bonds have a lower level of inflation risk.

Downgrades in Fixed Income Debt Securities. Unless required by applicable law, the Partnership is not required to sell or dispose of any debt security that either loses its rating or has its rating reduced after the Partnership purchases such security.

Investments in Non-U.S. Investments. From time to time, the Investment Manager may invest and trade a portion of the Partnership's assets in non-U.S. securities and other assets (through ADRs and otherwise), which will give rise to risks relating to political, social and economic developments abroad, as well as risks resulting from the differences between the regulations to which U.S. and non-U.S. issuers and markets are subject. Such risks may include:

- Political or social instability, the seizure by foreign governments of company assets, acts of war or terrorism, withholding taxes on dividends and interest, high or confiscatory tax levels, and limitations on the use or transfer of portfolio assets.
- Enforcing legal rights in some foreign countries is difficult, costly and slow, and there are sometimes special problems enforcing claims against foreign governments.
- Non-U.S. securities and other assets often trade in currencies other than the U.S. dollar, and the Partnership may directly hold foreign currencies and purchase and sell foreign currencies through forward exchange contracts. Changes in currency exchange rates will affect the Partnership's Net Asset Value, the value of dividends and interest earned, and gains and losses realized on the sale of investments. An increase in the strength of the U.S. dollar relative to these other currencies may cause the value of the Partnership's investments to decline. Some foreign currencies are particularly volatile. Foreign governments may intervene in the currency markets, causing a decline in value or liquidity of the Partnership's foreign currency holdings. If the Partnership enters into forward foreign currency exchange contracts for hedging purposes, it may lose the benefits of advantageous changes in exchange rates. On the other hand, if the Partnership enters forward contracts for the purpose of increasing return, it may sustain losses.
- Non-U.S. securities and other markets may be less liquid, more volatile and less closely supervised by the government than in the United States. Foreign countries often lack uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards, and there may be less public information about the operations of issuers in such markets.

Risks Associated with ADRs. The Partnership may purchase ADRs, which are certificates evidencing ownership of shares of a non-U.S. issuer, acting as alternatives to directly purchasing the underlying non-U.S. securities in their national markets and currencies. Such investments are subject to many of the risks associated with investing directly in non-U.S. securities. These risks include the political and economic risks of the underlying issuer's country, as well as, in the case of depositary receipts traded on non-U.S. markets, foreign exchange risk. ADRs may be sponsored or unsponsored. Unsponsored ADRs are established without the participation of the issuer. In addition, unsponsored ADRs may involve higher expenses, may not carry pass-through voting or other shareholder rights, and may be less liquid. The performance of ADRs may be different from the performance of the ordinary shares of the non-U.S. issuers to which they relate.

Emerging Markets. The Partnership may invest a portion of its assets in investments related to emerging market countries. The securities markets of emerging market countries as a whole have been volatile and the loans and securities of issuers in emerging markets tend to be subject to abrupt or erratic price movements. Investing a portion of the Partnership's assets in issuers in emerging markets will make the Partnership susceptible to a greater degree than otherwise would be the case to factors affecting emerging markets in general and issuers in emerging markets included in the Partnership's portfolio in particular, and may increase the volatility of the value of the Partnership's portfolio investments. The economies of these markets may differ significantly from the economies of certain developed countries in such respects as gross domestic product or gross national product, rate of inflation, currency depreciation, capital reinvestment, resource self-sufficiency, structural unemployment and balance of payments position. In particular, these economies frequently experience high levels of inflation. In addition, such countries may have: (1) restrictive national policies that limit the Partnership's investment opportunities; (2) limited information about their issuers; (3) a general lack of uniform accounting, auditing and financial reporting standards, auditing practices and requirements compared to the standards of developed countries; (4) less governmental supervision and regulation of business and industry practices, securities exchanges, brokers and listed companies; (5) economic developments that may be slowed or reversed by unanticipated political or social events in such countries; and (6) a lack of capital market structure or market-oriented economy.

Systemic and market factors may affect the acquisition, payment for or ownership of investments including: (a) the prevalence of crime and corruption; (b) the inaccuracy or unreliability of business and financial information; (c) the instability or volatility of: (i) banking and financial systems, or the absence or inadequacy of an infrastructure to support such systems, (ii) custody and settlement infrastructure of the market in which such investments are traded and held, and (iii) the acts, omissions and operation of any securities depository; (d) the risk of the bankruptcy or insolvency of banking agents, counterparties to cash and securities transactions, registrars or transfer agents; and (e) the existence of market conditions that prevent the orderly execution or settlement of transactions or that affect the value of assets. Different clearance and settlement procedures may prevent the Partnership from making intended security purchases causing the Partnership to miss attractive investment opportunities, possibly resulting in either losses to or contract claims against the Partnership. The investment markets of many of the countries in which the Partnership may invest may also be smaller, less liquid, and subject to greater price volatility than developed markets. The Partnership's assets may be denominated in a variety of currencies subject to changes in currency exchange rates and in exchange control regulations.

Volatility of Currency Prices. In general, price movements of currencies are difficult to predict accurately because they are influenced by, among other things, changing supply and demand relationships; governmental, trade, fiscal, monetary and exchange control programs and policies; national and international political and economic events; and changes in interest rates. Governments from time to time intervene in certain markets in order to influence prices directly.

Currency Control. It is sometimes the case that governments alter the exchange rate policy of a currency without advance notice, and it may not always be possible to foresee a change in policy.

Exchange Rate Fluctuations. Investments that are denominated in a foreign currency are subject to the risk that the value of a particular currency will change in relation to one or more other currencies. The Partnership intends to value its holdings and to make distributions in U.S. dollars. Thus, changes in currency exchange rates adverse to the U.S. dollar may affect adversely the value of such holdings. Among the factors that may affect currency values are trade balances, the appropriateness of interest rates, the shape of the yield curve, the degree of central bank independence and credibility, differences in relative values of similar assets in different currencies, long-term opportunities for investment and capital appreciation and political developments.

Risks of Trading Futures. The Investment Manager is eligible to trade a limited amount of commodities or financial futures on behalf of the Partnership under a provision in the CEA that provides an exemption from registration as a commodity pool operator. Trading futures is a highly risky strategy. Whenever the Partnership purchases a particular future, there is a possibility that the Partnership may sustain a total loss of its purchase price. The equity values of leveraged positions using futures are, in general, much more volatile than the prices of securities, such as stocks and bonds. As a result, the risk of loss in trading futures is substantially greater than in trading those securities. The prices of futures react strongly to the prices of the underlying commodities. The prices of these underlying products, in turn, rise and fall based on changes in interest rates, international balances of trade, changes in governments, wars, weather events and a host of other factors that are entirely beyond the Investment Manager's control and very difficult (and perhaps impossible) to predict.

Forward Trading. Forward contracts and options thereon, unlike futures contracts, are not traded on exchanges and are not standardized; rather, banks and dealers act as principals in these markets, negotiating each transaction on an individual basis. Forward and "cash" trading is substantially unregulated; there is no limitation on daily price movements and speculative position limits are not applicable. The principals who deal in the forward markets are not required to continue to make markets in the currencies or commodities they trade and these markets can experience periods of illiquidity, sometimes of significant duration. There have been periods during which certain participants in these markets have refused to quote prices for certain currencies or commodities or have quoted prices with an unusually wide spread between the price at which they were prepared to buy and that at which they were prepared to sell. Disruptions can occur in any market traded by the Partnership due to unusual trading volume, political intervention or other factors. The imposition of controls by governmental authorities might also limit such forward trading to less than that which the Investment Manager would otherwise recommend, to the possible detriment of the Partnership. Market illiquidity or disruption could result in major losses to the Partnership.

Over-the-Counter-Trading. Financial instruments that may be purchased or sold by the Partnership may include instruments not traded on an exchange. The risk of nonperformance by the obligor on such an instrument may be greater and the ease with which the Partnership can dispose of or enter into closing transactions with respect to such an instrument may be less than in the case of an exchange-traded instrument. In addition, significant disparities may exist between "bid" and "asked" prices for financial instruments that are not traded on an exchange. Financial instruments not traded on exchanges are also not subject to the same type of government regulation as exchange traded instruments, and many of the protections afforded to participants in a regulated environment may not be available in connection with such transactions.

To the extent that the Partnership engages in these transactions, the Partnership must rely on the creditworthiness of its counterparty. In certain instances, counterparty or credit risk is affected by the lack of a central clearinghouse for foreign exchange trades. To reduce their credit risk exposure, the Partnership may trade in the forward foreign currency market through money center banks and leading brokerage firms.

Position Limits. Position limits imposed by various regulators or regulations may also limit the Partnership's ability to affect desired trades. Position limits are the maximum amounts of gross, net long or net short positions that any one person or entity may own or control in a particular financial instrument. All positions owned or controlled by the same person or entity, even if in different accounts, may be aggregated for purposes of determining whether the applicable position limits have been exceeded. Thus, even if the Partnership does not intend to exceed applicable position limits, it is possible that different accounts managed by the Investment Manager or its affiliates may be aggregated. If at any time positions managed by the Investment Manager were to exceed applicable position limits, the Investment Manager would be required to liquidate positions, which might include positions of the Partnership, to the extent necessary to come within those limits. Further, to avoid exceeding the position limits, the Partnership might have to forego or modify certain of its contemplated trades.

Risk of Default or Bankruptcy of Third Parties. The Partnership may engage in transactions in securities and other financial instruments and assets that involve counterparties. Under certain conditions, the Partnership could suffer losses if a counterparty to a transaction were to default or if the market for certain securities or other financial instruments or assets were to become illiquid. In addition, the Partnership could suffer losses if there were a default or bankruptcy by certain other third parties, including brokerage firms and banks with which the Partnership does business, or to which securities or other financial instruments or assets have been entrusted for custodial purposes.

Potential Custody and Brokerage Risk. The Partnership may rely on its relationship(s) with brokers and/or custodians. There are risks involved in dealing with the custodians or brokers who may settle Partnership trades. The Partnership may maintain custody accounts with a broker. Although the Investment Manager intends to monitor the Partnership's broker(s) and/or custodian(s), if any, there is no guarantee that such broker(s) and/or custodian(s) that the Partnership may use from time to time, will not become bankrupt or insolvent. While both the U.S. Bankruptcy Code, as amended, and the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970 seek to protect customer property in the event of a bankruptcy, insolvency, failure, or liquidation of a broker-dealer, there is no certainty that, in the event of a failure of a broker-dealer that has custody of Partnership assets, the Partnership would not incur losses due to its assets being unavailable for a period of time, the ultimate receipt of less than full recovery of its assets, or both.

The Partnership and/or its broker or custodian, if any, may appoint sub-custodians in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions to hold the assets of the Partnership. The appointing broker and/or custodian may not be responsible for cash or assets which are held by sub-custodians in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions, nor for any losses suffered by the Partnership as a result of the bankruptcy or insolvency of any such sub-custodian. The Partnership may therefore have a potential exposure on the default of any sub-custodian and, as a result, many of the protections that would normally be provided to a fund by a custodian may not be available to the Partnership. Under certain circumstances, including certain transactions where the Partnership's assets are pledged as collateral for leverage from a non-broker-dealer custodian or a non-broker-dealer affiliate of the broke and/or custodian, or where the Partnership's assets are held at a non-U.S. custodian, the securities and other assets deposited with the custodian or broker may not be clearly identified as being assets of the Partnership and hence the Partnership could be exposed to a credit risk with regard to such parties. Custody services in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions remain undeveloped and, accordingly, there is a transaction and custody risk of dealing in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions. Given the undeveloped state of regulations on custodial activities and bankruptcy, insolvency, or mismanagement in certain non-U.S. jurisdictions, the ability of the Partnership to recover assets held by a sub-custodian in the event of the sub-custodian's bankruptcy or insolvency could be in doubt, as the Partnership may be subject to significantly less favorable laws than many of the protections that would be available under U.S. laws. In addition, there may be practical or time problems associated with enforcing the Partnership's rights to its assets in the case of a bankruptcy or insolvency of any such party.

Temporary Defensive Investments. If warranted under certain economic or market conditions or for other reasons, the Investment Manager may temporarily invest up to 100% of the Partnership's assets outside the scope of its principal investment focus in U.S. government securities, such as Treasury bills, notes and bonds, cash, money-market funds, certificates of deposit, time deposits, bankers' acceptances and other short-term debt instruments bearing a reasonable rate of interest. In such circumstances, the Partnership may not achieve its investment objectives.

Other Instruments. The Partnership may take advantage of opportunities with respect to certain other instruments that are not presently contemplated for use or that are currently not available, but that may be developed, to the extent such opportunities are both consistent with the investment objective of the Partnership and legally permissible. Special risks may apply to instruments that are invested in by the Partnership in the future that cannot be determined at this time or until such instruments are developed or invested in by the Partnership.

Specific Risks Associated with Investing in Illiquid Investments

You should note that certain of the following risk factors specifically applicable with respect to Illiquid Investments have been discussed under "—Market Risks—General" above and are included in this sub-section for ease of reference.

Special Situations. The Partnership will invest in companies involved in (or the target of) acquisition attempts or tender offers or in companies involved in work-outs, liquidations, spin-offs, reorganizations, bankruptcies and similar transactions. In any investment opportunity involving any such type of special situation, there exists the risk that the contemplated transaction either will be unsuccessful, take considerable time or result in a distribution of cash or a new security the value of which will be less than the purchase price to the Partnership of the security or other financial instrument in respect of which such distribution is received. Similarly, if an anticipated transaction does not in fact occur, the Partnership may be required to sell its investment at a loss. In connection with such transaction (or otherwise), the Partnership may purchase securities on a when-issued basis, which means that delivery and payment take place sometime after the date of the commitment to purchase and are often conditioned upon the occurrence of a subsequent event, such as approval and consummation of a merger, reorganization or debt restructuring. The purchase price and/or interest create receivable with respect to a when-issue security are fixed when the Partnership enters into the commitment. Such securities are subject to changes in market value prior to their delivery. Because there is substantial uncertainty concerning the outcome of transactions involving companies in which the Partnership may invest, there is a potential risk of loss by the Partnership of its entire investment in such companies.

Alternative Investments. In the alternative asset class, the Investment Manager may invest assets of the Partnership in other pooled investment vehicles managed by the Investment Manager. The pooled investment vehicles managed by the Investment Manager may follow a variety of investment strategies including investments in commodities, managed futures, inflation-adjusted bonds, global real estate, "hedge fund strategies", which may be broadly characterized as "hedge funds", and mezzanine debt or Illiquid Investments.

Withdrawal Considerations. The Partnership is permitted to invest in Illiquid Investments. There is no market for the Interests, and no market is expected to develop. Therefore, in certain circumstances, the Partnership may not be able to withdraw invested assets with respect to Illiquid Investments at a time that would be most advantageous to the Partnership or at a time that would allow the Partnership to comply with its withdrawal obligations to its Limited Partners. In this regard, the General Partner has the right to suspend in whole or in part certain withdrawal rights of the Limited Partners to the extent that the Partnership is unable to obtain liquidity from its investments in one or more of the Illiquid Investments. The illiquidity of Illiquid Investments could have a material adverse effect on the Partnership, as well as the ability of the Limited Partners to liquidate their investments in the Partnership during permitted withdrawal periods. Consequently, Limited Partners may be unable to liquidate their Interests except by withdrawing from the Partnership in accordance with the terms of this Memorandum, and, even in such event, payment of withdrawal proceeds may be delayed for a significant period of time. Limited Partners may be unable to liquidate their investment promptly in the event of an emergency or for any other reason. For the avoidance of doubt, (i) there will be no limitation on the percentage of the Partnership's portfolio that may be carried in Side Pocket Accounts; and (ii) any investment made by Series 1 into the Highland Transaction (if any) may be held in a Side Pocket Account indefinitely.

High Growth Industry Related Risks. The Partnership may have significant investments in the securities of high growth companies (e.g., technology, communications and healthcare). It is noted that these securities may be very volatile. In addition, these companies may face undeveloped or limited markets, have limited products, have no proven profit-making history, may operate at a loss or with substantial variations in operating results from period to period, have limited access to capital and/or be in the developmental stages of their businesses, have limited ability to protect their rights to certain patents, copyrights, trademarks and other trade secrets, or be otherwise adversely affected by the extremely competitive markets in which many of their competitors operate.

Risk of Illiquid Investments. Illiquid Investments involve a high degree of financial risk. There can be no assurance that Illiquid Investments will be profitable or that substantial losses will not occur. The companies in which the Illiquid Investments will invest are often dependent on the skills of a small number of executives and are vulnerable to changes in technology, fluctuations in demand for their products, changing interest rates and other factors. There can also be no assurance that the Illiquid Investments will be repaid, be able to sell or otherwise liquidate their investments at the optimal time or price. Therefore, there can be no assurance that the rate of return objectives of the Illiquid Investments will be realized or that there will be any return of capital to the Limited Partners.

Illiquid and Long-Term Investments. It is anticipated that there will be a significant period of time before certain Illiquid Investments will have completed their investments. Such investments may take several years from the date of initial investment to reach a state of maturity when realization of the investment can be achieved. Although investments by Illiquid Investments occasionally may generate some current income, private investment transaction structures typically will not provide for liquidity of the Illiquid Investment's investment prior to that time. The return of capital and the realization of gains, if any, from such investment will generally occur only upon the partial or complete disposition or refinancing of the investment. In light of the foregoing, it is likely that no significant return from the disposition of Illiquid Investment's underlying investments will occur for a substantial period of time from the commencement of the Illiquid Investment's operations. It is unlikely that there will be a public market for the securities held by the Illiquid Investment and/or its portfolio companies at the time of their acquisition. The Illiquid Investment generally will not be able to sell its securities publicly unless the issuer has consummated a public offering of its securities and such offered securities are registered under applicable securities laws, unless an exemption from such registration requirements is available. In addition, in some cases, the Partnership may be prohibited by contract from selling certain securities for a period of time and, as a result, may not be permitted to sell an underlying investment at a time it might otherwise desire to do so. Further, disposition of such investments may require a lengthy time period or may result in distributions in kind to investors.

Investments in Less Established Companies. The Partnership may invest a portion of its assets in the securities of less established companies, or early stage companies. Investments in such early stage companies may involve greater risks than those generally associated with investments in more established companies. For instance, less established companies tend to have smaller capitalizations and fewer resources and, therefore, are often more vulnerable to financial failure. Such companies also may have shorter operating histories on which to judge future performance and in many cases, if operating, will have negative cash flow. In the case of start-up enterprises, such companies may not have significant or any operating revenues. In addition, less mature companies could be more susceptible to irregular accounting or other fraudulent practices. Furthermore, to the extent there is any public market for the securities held by the Illiquid Investment, securities of less established companies may be subject to more abrupt and erratic market price movements than those of larger, more established companies.

Some of the investments expected to be made by an Illiquid Investment would be considered highly speculative and may result in the loss of the Special Situation Investment's entire investment therein. There can be no assurance that any such losses will be offset by gains (if any) realized on the Illiquid Investment's other investments.

Investments in Restructurings or Underperforming Companies. The Partnership may make investments in companies that are experiencing or are expected to experience financial difficulties, which such companies may never overcome. Such investments could, in certain circumstances, subject the Partnership to additional potential liabilities, which may exceed the value of the Partnership's original investment therein. Such investments of the Partnership could also be subject to federal bankruptcy law and state fraudulent transfer laws, which may vary from state to state, if the securities relating to such investments were issued with the intent of hindering, delaying or defrauding creditors or, in certain circumstances, if the issuer receives less than reasonably equivalent value or fair consideration in return for issuing such securities. If such investments constitute debt and such debt is used for a buyout of shareholders, this risk is greater than if the debt proceeds are used for day-to-day operations or organic growth. If a court were to find that the issuance of the securities was a fraudulent transfer or conveyance, the court could void the payment obligations under the securities, further subordinate the securities to other existing and future indebtedness of the issuer or require the Partnership to repay any amounts received by it with respect to the securities. In the event of a finding that a fraudulent transfer or conveyance occurred, the Partnership may not receive any repayment on the securities.

Under the Bankruptcy Code, a lender that has inappropriately exercised control of the management and policies of a company may have its claims against the company subordinated or disallowed, or may be found liable for damages suffered by parties as a result of such actions. In addition, under certain circumstances, payments to the Partnership and distributions by the Partnership ion Investment to its limited partners may be reclaimed if any such payment or distribution is later determined to have been a fraudulent conveyance or a preferential payment. Such debt may also be disallowed or subordinated to the claims of other creditors if the Partnership is found to have engaged in other inequitable conduct resulting in harm to other parties. The Partnership's underlying investment may be treated as equity if it is deemed to be a contribution to capital, or if the Partnership attempts to control the outcome of the business affairs of a company prior to its filing under the Bankruptcy Code. While the Partnership will attempt to avoid taking the types of action that would lead to such liability, there can be no assurance that such claims will not be asserted or that the Partnership will be able successfully to defend against them.

REGULATORY AND TAX RISKS

General Regulatory Risks. Statutes, regulations and policies are continually under review by the U.S. Congress and state legislatures and federal and state regulatory agencies. The introduction of new legislation or amendments to existing legislation and regulations (including changes in how they are interpreted or implemented) by governments, the decisions of courts and tribunals and the rulings and decisions of regulatory authorities, can adversely impact the Partnership's returns. The regulatory environment for private investment funds is evolving, and changes in the regulation of these funds may adversely affect the value of investments held by the Partnership, the cost of compliance with applicable regulations, and the ability of the Partnership to obtain the leverage it might otherwise obtain or to pursue its trading strategies.

Regulatory Risks Related to the Highland Transaction. In connection with the Highland Transaction (if consummated), there can be no assurance that such transaction (if consummated) will not result in adverse regulatory consequences (including, without limitation, being characterized as a "change of control" under applicable laws), even though the Highland Transaction only contemplates the acquisition of non-voting limited partnership interests in Highland.

Strategy Restrictions. Certain institutions may be restricted from directly utilizing investment strategies of the type in which the Partnership may engage. Such institutions, including entities subject to ERISA, should consult their own advisors, counsel and accountants to determine what restrictions may apply and whether an investment in the Partnership is appropriate.

Trading Limitations. For all securities, instruments and/or assets listed on an exchange, including options listed on a public exchange, the exchange generally has the right to suspend or limit trading under certain circumstances. Such suspensions or limits could render certain strategies difficult to complete or continue and subject the Partnership to loss. Also, such a suspension could render it impossible for the Investment Manager to liquidate positions and thereby expose the Partnership to potential losses relating thereto.

Limited Regulatory Oversight. The Partnership's investments are not supervised or monitored by any regulatory authority. The Partnership is not registered as an "investment company" under the Investment Company Act. Although the Investment Manager is registered as an investment adviser with the SEC, neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager is registered as a commodity pool operator, pursuant to an exemption provided under Rule 4.13(a)(3) of the CEA. Consequently, Limited Partners will not benefit from some of the protections afforded by these statutes, including oversight by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorism. The Uniting and Strengthening America by Providing Appropriate Tools Required to Intercept and Obstruct Terrorism Act of 2001, as amended (the "USA PATRIOT Act"), signed into law on and effective as of October 26, 2001, requires that financial institutions, a term that includes banks, broker-dealers and investment companies, establish and maintain compliance programs to guard against money laundering activities. The USA PATRIOT Act requires the Secretary of the U.S. Treasury ("Treasury") to prescribe regulations in connection with anti- money laundering policies of financial institutions. The U.S. Federal Reserve Board, the Treasury and the SEC are currently studying what types of investment vehicles should be required to adopt anti-money laundering procedures, and it is unclear at this time whether such procedures will apply to pooled investment vehicles such as the Partnership. Future rules and regulations regarding money laundering or proceeds of crime could regulate the Partnership. In addition, in April 2000, the Treasury Department published proposed regulations that would require certain investment advisors to establish an anti-money laundering program. It is possible that there could be promulgated legislation or regulations that would require the Partnership or its affiliates, in connection with the establishment of anti-money laundering procedures, to share information with governmental authorities with respect to investors in the Interests. Such legislation and/or regulations could require the Partnership to implement additional restrictions on the transfer of the Interests. The Partnership reserves the right to request such information as is necessary to verify the identity of investors in the Interests, and the source of the payment of subscription monies, or as is necessary to comply with any customer identification programs required by Financial Crimes Enforcement Network and/or the SEC or such information as may be required in order for the Partnership to discharge its obligations under the laws of the Cayman Islands (including pursuant to the Proceeds of Criminal Conduct Law (2005 Revision)). In the event of delay or failure by the applicant to produce any information required for verification purposes, an application for or transfer of the Interests and the subscription monies relating thereto may be refused.

Recent Developments in the Financial Services Industry. Recent developments in the U.S. financial markets have heightened the risks associated with the investment activities and operations of hedge funds, including without limitation, those resulting from a substantial reduction in the availability of credit and the increased cost of short-term credit, a decrease in market liquidity and an increased risk of insolvency of brokers, custodians and other counterparties. In addition, in July of 2010, the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act ("Dodd-Frank") was passed which imposes many new requirements and restrictions on the financial services industry that may likely affect the business, operations and performance of hedge funds, such as increased reporting requirements, limitations on certain trading activity and regulatory oversight by different agencies, such as the newly created Financial Stability Oversight Counsel. Even with the passage of Dodd-Frank, the implications of its passage for the hedge fund industry as a whole still remain somewhat unclear. The hedge fund industry may continue to be adversely affected by the recent developments in the financial markets in the U.S. and abroad, and any future legal, regulatory, or governmental action and developments in such financial markets and the broader U.S. economy could have an adverse effect on the Partnership or the Partnership's business, operations and performance.

Enhanced Regulation of Swaps. The Wall Street Transparency and Accountability Act of 2010 (the "WSTAA") will, subject to exceptions for certain hedgers, (1) require swaps accepted for clearing by a derivatives clearing organization (a "DCO") or for trading through a designated contract market or swaps-execution facility to be so cleared and traded, (2) require margin for almost all swap transactions, (3) subject traders with a "substantial position" in swaps to registration and regulation requirements as a "major swap participant" or "swap dealer", and (4) impose position limits on swaps either individually or in the aggregate with respect to positions in commodity-futures contracts. Due to the new requirements imposed by the WSTAA, the Partnership may experience increased transaction costs to pay for the clearing, execution and segregation obligations. In addition, margin requirements may increase once margin is set by DCOs with input from the CFTC, which may limit the Partnership's ability to engage in leverage and limit the Partnership's return. The application of position limits to swap contracts may also limit the Partnership's ability to concentrate in any particular contract or exposure to an underlying commodity and may negatively impact the Partnership's ability to take advantage of current market trends or conditions. Any tightening in the market for swaps may significantly impact the Partnership and its returns. In addition, if the Partnership were deemed to be a swap dealer or a major swap participant under WSTAA, the Partnership may be required to register with the CFTC and would be subject to a number of regulatory requirements that would significantly impact the Partnership's legal obligations and its returns.

Tax Risk. The tax aspects of an investment in the Partnership are complicated and each investor should have them reviewed by professional advisors familiar with such investor's personal tax situation and with the tax laws and regulations applicable to the investor and private investment vehicles. The Partnership is not intended and should not be expected to provide any tax shelter, but is organized as a limited partnership to avoid corporate taxation and to permit any distributions it might make to be made without being taxed as dividends. No assurance can be given that legislative, administrative or judicial changes will not occur which will alter, either prospectively or retroactively, the tax considerations or risk factors discussed in this Memorandum.

The tax consequences to a Limited Partner of an investment in the Partnership are uncertain. All or substantially all of the assets of the Partnership are expected to be invested in Illiquid Investments. Such investments are often structured as "pass through" entities for tax purposes and therefore may generate significant taxable income to the Limited Partners without any corresponding liquidity from such investments. As a result, an investment in the Partnership may be unsuitable for those investors that do not receive a corresponding deduction for such allocated income.

Neither the General Partner nor the Investment Manager makes any representations or warranties regarding any tax matters. Prospective investors are strongly urged to consult their own tax advisors regarding the U.S. federal, state and local and non-U.S. tax consequences to them arising from an investment in the Partnership, and should rely on the advice of their own tax advisors with respect to the possible impact on its investment in the Partnership of any future legislation or administrative or judicial action. You should review the section entitled "TAXATION" for a more complete discussion of certain of the tax risks inherent in the acquisition of Interests.

Tax-Exempt Entities. Certain prospective Limited Partners may be subject to federal and state laws, rules and regulations that may regulate their participation in the Partnership, or their engaging, directly or indirectly through an investment in the Partnership, in investment strategies of the types that the Partnership utilizes from time to time. Tax-exempt entities should consider the applicability to them of the provisions relating to UBTI (as defined below). Investments in the Partnership by entities subject to ERISA and other tax-exempt entities require special consideration. See "ERISA CONSIDERATIONS" and "TAXATION—Tax-Exempt Investors".

Accounting Rules. The Partnership's assets and liabilities are valued in accordance with the Partnership Agreement. However, for purposes of preparing the Partnership's annual audited financial statements, which are prepared in accordance with GAAP, certain of the Partnership's assets and liabilities may be valued in a manner that, while consistent with GAAP, may be different from the manner in which such assets are valued in accordance with the valuation policies set forth in the Partnership Agreement.

The General Partner may at any time choose to change the Partnership's accounting guidelines from GAAP to the IFRS. In such event, the financial performance of the Partnership, as determined under IFRS, may vary from those determined under GAAP.

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

The Investment Manager undertakes to resolve conflicts in a fair and equitable basis, which in some instances may mean a resolution that would not maximize the benefit to the Limited Partners.

No Obligation of Full-Time Service. None of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates has any obligation to devote its full time to the business of the Partnership. Each is only required to devote such time to the Partnership as the General Partner deems necessary to accomplish the purposes of the Partnership, and each may engage in other business activities, including competing ventures and/or unrelated employment, which may result in various conflicts of interest between such persons and the Partnership.

Services to Affiliated Funds. In addition to managing the Partnership and its investments, each of the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and the Investment Manager Affiliates may provide investment management and other services to other parties and may manage and/or establish Affiliated Funds in the future, including those that may employ an investment program and strategy similar to that of the Partnership. Specifically, as of the date hereof: (i) the Investment Manager acts as the investment manager to the IDF Fund that is structured as an insurance-dedicated fund and is expected to invest a portion of its assets in the Partnership; (ii) Atlas IDF GP, LLC, a Delaware limited liability company and an affiliate of the General Partner and the Investment Manager, is the general partner of the IDF Fund; (iii) the Principal is the managing member and controlling person of Atlas IDF GP, LLC; and (iv) the Investment Manager acts as the investment subadvisor to a series of SALI Multi-Series Fund, L.P., a Delaware "series" limited partnership, and provides certain discretionary investment advisory or consulting services to such series.

The investments made by Affiliated Funds that may be managed by the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or the Investment Manager Affiliates in the future may compete with investments for the Partnership's account, and the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or the Investment Manager Affiliates may decide to invest the funds of these Affiliated Funds rather than the assets of the Partnership in a particular security or strategy. In addition, the Investment Manager and/or such other persons will determine the allocation of funds by and among the Partnership and the Affiliated Funds to investment strategies and techniques on whatever basis they decide is appropriate or desirable in their sole and absolute discretion. The records of these Affiliated Funds will not be made available to Limited Partners. Nonetheless, in the event that certain securities, instruments and other assets are suitable for acquisition by the Partnership and by other accounts managed by the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal or the Investment Manager Affiliates, and the Investment Manager or such other persons are not able to acquire the desired aggregate amount of such securities, instruments and other assets on terms and conditions which they deem advisable, the Investment Manager and such persons will endeavor in good faith to allocate the limited amount of such investment opportunities among the various accounts for which they consider to be suitable.

Certain Potential Conflicts Between the Principal and Highland Related to the Series 1 Interests. The Principal was previously a Partner and Co-Head of Private Equity at Highland, an investment manager with significant assets under management located in Dallas, Texas. Although Mr. Honis has retired from that position, he still currently serves on: (x) the Board of Trustees for each of Highland's affiliated registered investment companies, and receives compensation in connection with each of the foregoing, and (y) the Board of Directors for American HomePatient, Inc. and Turtle Bay Resort, LLC, which are portfolio companies of investment funds operated by Highland, and receives compensation in connection with each of the foregoing. Additionally, as part of his retirement, Mr. Honis has received or is in the process of receiving payments in the total amount of approximately $3 million from certain affiliates of Highland.

In addition, pursuant to the Shared Services Agreement, Highland serves as the Shared Services Provider, which provides the Investment Manager and the Partnership with certain administrative, information technology, accounting, tax, back-office and other services. In addition, the Shared Services Provider may be (but, as of the date hereof, is not) engaged by the Partnership to act as the Partnership's Administrator, pursuant to a separate Administration Agreement.

Further, the Investment Manager and Highland have had preliminary discussions concerning the potential Highland Transaction. Although, as of the date hereof, the Partnership and Highland have not actively negotiated documentation for the legal and economic terms of the Highland Transaction (and there can be no assurances that such transaction will be consummated), it is nonetheless the intention of such parties that the transaction should come about.

In light of the foregoing, the Principal, and indirectly the Investment Manager, are in a position of conflict with respect to the ultimate decision by the Partnership regarding whether it pursues the Highland Transaction, and under what terms (if any) it agrees to participate in any such transaction.

Also see "—Potential Directorship Positions; Other Roles" herein.

Highland Transaction; Limited Control. If the Highland Transaction is consummated, it is currently contemplated that the Partnership would acquire only limited partnership interests in Highland. As with investments in non-controlling interests in other partnerships, the Highland Transaction may involve special risks associated with the possibility that the controlling principals of Highland may: (i) have economic or business interests or goals that are inconsistent with those of the Partnership, (ii) take actions contrary to the instructions or requests of the Partnership or contrary to the Partnership's policies or objectives, (iii) be unable or unwilling to fulfill its obligations under the organizational/governing documents, and/or (iv) experience financial difficulties. The occurrence of such problems could have a material adverse effect on the business and prospects of the Partnership's investment in the Highland Transaction and may affect management decisions and exit strategies in a manner adverse to the Partnership's interests.

Conflicts Related to Shared Services Provider. The Investment Manager has certain affiliated entities that may provide services with respect to the IDF Fund, as well as the Partnership and certain investments held by the Partnership. The Shared Services Provider may provide services for the benefit of the Partnership under the Shared Services Agreement and/or may incur reimbursable expenses on behalf of the Partnership and/or the Investment Manager. In addition, the Shared Services Provider may be (but, as of the date hereof, is not) engaged by the Partnership to act as the Partnership's Administrator, pursuant to a separate Administration Agreement. The Principal is a former Partner and former Co-Head of Private Equity of the Shared Services Provider.

Potential Directorship Positions; Other Roles. The Investment Manager Affiliates may, subject to applicable law, serve as directors (whether supervisory or managing), officers, personnel, employees, partners, agents, nominees or signatories, and receive arm's length fees in connection with such service, for the Partnership or other entities that operate in the same or a related line of business as the Partnership, for other clients managed by the Investment Manager or any of the Investment Manager Affiliates, or for any portfolio company of the Partnership, and the Partnership shall have no right to any such fees. In serving in these multiple capacities, they may have obligations to such other clients or investors in those entities, the fulfillment of which may not be in the best interests of the Partnership. Also see "—Certain Potential Conflicts Between the Principal and Highland Related to the Series 1 Interests" herein.

The Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates may act as an underwriter, arranger or placement agent, or otherwise participate in the origination, structuring, negotiation, syndication or offering of investments purchased by the Partnership. Such transactions are on an arm's-length basis and may be subject to arm's-length fees. There is no expectation for preferential access to transactions involving investments that are underwritten, originated, arranged or placed by the Investment Manager and/or the Investment Manager Affiliates and the Partnership shall not have any right to any such fees.

Potential Cross-Trades. The Investment Manager may effect client cross-transactions where the Investment Manager causes a transaction to be effected between the Partnership and another client advised by it or any of its affiliates. The Investment Manager may engage in a client cross-transaction involving the Partnership any time that the Investment Manager believes such transaction to be fair to the Partnership and such other client. By purchasing an Interest in the Partnership, a Limited Partner is deemed to have consented to such client cross-transactions between the Partnership and another client of the Investment Manager or one of its affiliates.

Diverse Limited Partners. The Limited Partners may include taxable and tax-exempt entities and persons or entities resident of or organized in various jurisdictions. As a result, conflicts of interest may arise in connection with decisions made by the General Partner that may be more beneficial for one type of Limited Partner than for another. In making such decisions, the General Partner intends to consider the investment objectives of the Partnership as a whole, not the investment objectives of any Limited Partner individually.

Soft Dollars. The General Partner and the Investment Manager may be offered soft dollars in the form of research and brokerage and other products or services, which may be utilized by the General Partner, the Investment Manager and their respective affiliates in connection with the services they offer to clients other than the Partnership. The use of soft dollars presents the Investment Manager with potential conflicts of interest and may provide the Investment Manager with incentives to: (i) use certain brokers who may provide certain soft dollar benefits that other brokers may not, without regard to its obligations to the Partnership (including, without limitation, its best execution obligations); or (ii) trade more actively in order to generate more soft dollars and thereby reduce its expenses.

Referral of Investors. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may sell Interests through broker-dealers and pay a marketing fee or commission in connection with such activities, including ongoing payments, at the General Partner's or the Investment Manager's own expense. The General Partner and/or the Investment Manager may also deduct a percentage of the amount invested by a Limited Partner in the Partnership to pay sales fees or charges, on a fully disclosed basis, to a broker-dealer based upon the capital contribution of such Limited Partner introduced to the Partnership by such broker-dealer. Any such sales fees or charges would be assessed against the referred Limited Partner and would reduce the amount actually invested by such Limited Partner in the Partnership. Such broker-dealers may have a conflict of interest in advising prospective investors to purchase Interests, as the broker-dealers are often only compensated upon the investment of the prospective investors.

Lack of Separate Representation; Potential Conflicts of Counsel. Neither the Partnership Agreement nor any of the agreements, contracts and arrangements between the Partnership, on the one hand, and the General Partner or the Investment Manager, on the other hand, were or will be the result of arm's-length negotiations. The attorneys, accountants and others who have performed services for the Partnership in connection with this offering, and who will perform services for the Partnership in the future, have been and will be selected by the General Partner. No independent counsel has been retained to represent the interests of prospective investors or Limited Partners. You are therefore urged to consult your own counsel as to the terms and provisions of the Partnership Agreement and all subscription and other related documents.

In addition, Sadis & Goldberg LLP has represented Highland and affiliates at different times over a period lasting over a decade. It is currently expected that Sadis & Goldberg LLP will represent the General Partner, the Investment Manager, the Principal and certain of their respective affiliates in connection with the establishment of the Partnership and the IDF Fund, the possible consummation of the Highland Transaction, and certain related matters. The Principal and his affiliates are aware of the representation by Sadis & Goldberg LLP of Highland and affiliates.

Valuation of Assets. The Administrator will calculate the net asset value of the Partnership (based upon information provided by the Investment Manager). Such calculations could be incorrect, delayed or subject to significant adjustments, any of which events could adversely affect the valuation of the Partnership's investments. The Investment Manager intends to engage an independent third-party valuation agent (in addition to the Administrator) to appraise the Partnership's interests in Illiquid Investments. Partnership If the Investment Manager determines, in its sole discretion, that the valuation of any security, commodity, option or other financial instrument pursuant to the valuation methodologies described herein does not fairly represent its market value, the Investment Manager will value such security, option or other financial instrument as it reasonably determines. Likewise, any securities, commodities, options and other financial instruments that have no public market, investments in other asset classes (including those in Side Pocket Accounts), and all other assets of the Partnership for which a valuation methodology is not specified, will be valued by the Investment Manager in a manner determined in good faith to reflect their fair market value. The Investment Manager has a conflict of interest in that it will receive a higher Management Fee if the Partnership's assets are given a favorable valuation. See "SUMMARY OF OFFERING AND PARTNERSHIP TERMS—Determination of Net Asset Value".

The foregoing list of risk factors and conflicts of interest does not purport to be a complete enumeration or explanation of the risks and conflicts of interest involved in an investment in the Partnership. Offerees should read this entire Memorandum and the Partnership Agreement and consult with their own advisors before deciding to purchase Interests.

ERISA CONSIDERATIONS

An investment of benefit plan assets in the Partnership may raise issues under ERISA and the U.S. Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended ("Code"). ERISA and the Code impose certain duties on persons who are fiduciaries of a Plan (as defined below) and prohibit certain transactions involving the assets of a Plan and its fiduciaries or other interested parties. Under ERISA and the Code, any person who exercises any discretionary authority or control over the administration of a Plan or the management or disposition of the assets of a Plan, or who renders investment advice for a fee or other compensation to a Plan, is generally considered to be a fiduciary of the Plan.

In considering an investment in the Partnership of a portion of the assets of any employee benefit plan (including a "Keogh" plan) subject to the fiduciary and prohibited transaction provisions of ERISA or the Code or similar provisions under applicable state law (collectively, a "Plan"), a Plan fiduciary should determine, in light of the risks and limited liquidity inherent in an investment in the Partnership, whether the investment is in accordance with the documents and instruments governing the Plan and the applicable provisions of ERISA or similar law relating to a fiduciary's duties to the Plan. Furthermore, absent an exemption, the fiduciaries of a Plan should not purchase Interests with the assets of any Plan if the Investment Manager or any affiliate thereof is a fiduciary or other "party in interest" or "disqualified person" (collectively, a "party in interest") with respect to such Plan.

PLAN ASSETS

Regulations promulgated under ERISA by the U.S. Department of Labor ("Plan Asset Regulations") generally provide that when a Plan subject to Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code acquires an equity interest in an entity that is neither a "publicly-offered security" nor a security issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act, the Plan's assets include both the equity interest and an undivided interest in each of the underlying assets of the entity, unless it is established either that equity participation in the entity by "benefit plan investors" is not "significant" or that the entity is an "operating company", in each case as defined in the Plan Asset Regulations. The Interests will not constitute "publicly offered" securities or securities issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act, and it is not expected that the Partnership will qualify as an "operating company" under the Plan Asset Regulations. For purposes of the Plan Asset Regulations, equity participation in an entity by benefit plan investors will not be "significant" so long as they own, in the aggregate less than 25%, directly or indirectly, of the value of each class of such entity's equity. For purposes of such calculation, equity interests held by persons (other than a benefit plan investor) with discretionary authority or control over the assets of the entity or who provide investment advice for a fee (direct or indirect) with respect to such assets, and any affiliates thereof, are disregarded. For purposes of this 25% test ("Benefit Plan Investor Test"), "benefit plan investors" include: employee benefit plans subject to the provisions of Part 4 of Title I of ERISA and plans subject to Section 4975 of the Code, including "Keogh" plans and individual retirement accounts ("IRAs"). The following are not included in the definition of benefit plan investor: employee benefit plans maintained outside the U.S. by foreign companies that cover non-U.S. persons, governmental plans, and certain church plans. Thus, absent satisfaction of another exception under the Plan Asset Regulations, if 25% or more of the value of any class of Interests in the Partnership were owned by benefit plan investors, an undivided interest in each of the underlying assets of the Partnership would be deemed to be "plan assets" of any Plan subject to Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code that invested in the Partnership.

Consequently, the General Partner intends to use reasonable efforts either (i) to prohibit plans subject to Title I of ERISA or Section 4975 of the Code from investing in the Partnership or (ii) to provide that investment by "benefit plan investors" in the Partnership will not be "significant" for purposes of the Plan Asset Regulations by limiting equity participation by benefit plan investors in the Partnership to less than 25% of the value of each class of Interests in the Partnership as described above. However, each Plan fiduciary should be aware that even if the Partnership were to avoid plan asset status under the Benefit Plan Investor Test at the time a Plan acquires Interests in the Partnership, the exemption could become unavailable at a later date as a result, for example, of subsequent transfers or withdrawals of Interests in the Partnership, and that Interests held by benefit plan investors may be subject to mandatory withdrawal in such event in order for the Partnership to continue to avoid plan asset status under the Benefit Plan Investor Test.

Furthermore, there can be no assurance that notwithstanding the reasonable efforts of the Partnership, the Partnership will satisfy the Benefit Plan Investor Test, that the structure of particular investments of the Partnership will otherwise satisfy the Plan Asset Regulations or that the underlying assets of the Partnership will not otherwise be deemed to include ERISA plan assets.

PLAN ASSET CONSEQUENCES

If the assets of the Partnership were deemed to be "plan assets" under ERISA, (i) the prudence and other fiduciary responsibility standards of ERISA would extend to investments made by the Partnership and (ii) certain transactions in which the Partnership might seek to engage could constitute "prohibited transactions" under ERISA and the Code. If a prohibited transaction occurs for which no exemption is available, the Investment Manager and any other fiduciary that has engaged in the prohibited transaction could be required (x) to restore to the Plan any profit realized on the transaction and (y) to reimburse the Plan for any losses suffered by the Plan as a result of the investment. In addition, each party in interest involved could be subject to an excise tax equal to 15% of the amount involved in the prohibited transaction for each year the transaction continues and, unless the transaction is corrected within statutorily required periods, to an additional tax of 100%. Plan fiduciaries that decide to invest in the Partnership could, under certain circumstances, be liable for prohibited transactions or other violations as a result of their investment in the Partnership or as co-fiduciaries for actions taken by or on behalf of the Partnership or the Investment Manager. With respect to an IRA that invests in the Partnership, the occurrence of a prohibited transaction involving the individual who established the IRA, or his or her beneficiaries, could cause the IRA to lose its tax-exempt status.

Under the Partnership Agreement, the General Partner has the power to take certain actions to avoid having the assets of the Partnership characterized as plan assets, including, without limitation, the right to refuse a subscription, exclude a Limited Partner from an investment or to compulsorily redeem a Limited Partner's Interests in the Partnership. While the General Partner does not expect that it will need to exercise such power, it cannot give any assurance that such power will not be exercised.

Each Plan fiduciary should consult its own legal advisor concerning the considerations discussed above before making an investment in the Partnership.

Prospective investors are advised that: (i) any U.S. federal tax advice contained herein, including any opinion of counsel referred to herein, is not intended or written to be used, and cannot be used, by any taxpayer for the purpose of avoiding U.S. federal tax penalties that may be imposed on the taxpayer; (ii) any such advice is written to support the promotion or marketing of the transactions described herein (or in any such opinion of counsel); and (iii) each taxpayer should seek advice based on the taxpayer's particular circumstances from an independent tax advisor.

INTRODUCTION

The following is a summary of certain aspects of the taxation of the Partnership and its Partners, which should be considered by a potential purchaser of an Interest in the Partnership. A complete discussion of all tax aspects of an investment in the Partnership is beyond the scope of this Memorandum. The following summary is only intended to identify and discuss certain salient issues.

This summary of certain tax considerations applicable to the Partnership is considered to be a correct interpretation of existing laws and regulations in force on the date of this Memorandum. No assurance can be given that changes in existing laws or regulations or their interpretation will not occur after the date of this Memorandum or that any such future guidance or interpretation will not be applied retroactively.

The following summary is not intended as a substitute for careful tax planning. The tax matters relating to the Partnership are complex and are subject to varying interpretations. Moreover, the effect of existing income tax laws and of proposed changes in income tax laws on Partners will vary with the particular circumstances of each Partner. Accordingly, each prospective investor must consult with and rely solely on his or her professional tax advisors with respect to the tax results of his or her investment in the Partnership. In no event will the General Partner, its affiliates, counsel or other professional advisors be liable to any Limited Partner for any federal, state, local or other tax consequences of an investment in the Partnership, whether or not such consequences are as described below.

CLASSIFICATION OF THE PARTNERSHIP

Under the provisions of the Code and the Treasury Regulations promulgated thereunder ("Regulations"), as in effect on the date of this Memorandum, so long as the Partnership complies with the Partnership Agreement, the Partnership should be classified for U.S. federal income tax purposes as a partnership and not as an association taxable as a corporation.

The Partnership has been formed under the Delaware Act as a series limited partnership and may offering its Interests in multiple separate Series. Under the provisions of the Code and the Regulations, as in effect on the date of this Memorandum, so long as the Partnership complies with the Partnership Agreement and the Delaware Act, each Series of Interests in the Partnership should be classified for U.S. federal income tax purposes as equity interests in a separate partnership and not as equity interests in an association taxable as a corporation.

The Partnership has not sought and will not seek a ruling from the Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") with respect to its status as a partnership. If a Series of Interests in the Partnership should be classified as an association taxable as a corporation (e.g., as a result of a change in law or a material change in facts), the taxable income of the Partnership allocable to such Series would be subject to corporate income taxation; and distributions from the Partnership to the Limited Partners owning Interests in such Series would be treated as dividend income when received by such Limited Partners to the extent of the current or accumulated earnings and profits of the Partnership allocable to such Series.

Certain partnerships may be taxable as corporations for U.S. federal income tax purposes under the publicly traded partnership rules set forth in the Code and the Regulations, and a Series of the Partnership may not qualify for one of the safe harbors under the Regulations if such Series has more than 100 Partners. The Partnership expects that, under the facts and circumstances test set forth in the Regulations, the Interests will not be readily tradable on a secondary market (or the substantial equivalent thereof) and therefore, the Series partnerships will not be treated as publicly traded partnerships under the Regulations. It is assumed in the following discussion of tax considerations that each Series of the Partnership will be treated as a partnership for U.S. federal income tax purposes.

Unless otherwise indicated, references in the discussion below to the tax consequences of the "Partnership's" investments, activities, income and expenses refer to the investments, activities, income and expenses attributable to each Series that is treated as a separate tax partnership. Prospective investors should note that each Series will issue its annual Schedule K-1 tax reporting form to its Partners. Therefore, investors that own Interests in more than one Series will receive separate Schedule K-1 reporting forms for each Series in which the investor is treated as owning an equity interest.

TAXATION OF PARTNERSHIP OPERATIONS

As a partnership, the Partnership is not itself subject to U.S. federal income tax but will file an annual partnership information return with the IRS. Each Limited Partner, in computing his own federal income tax liability for a taxable year, is required to take into account such Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's net long-term capital gain or loss, net short-term capital gain or loss, net ordinary income or loss and any separately stated income items, deductions and credits for the taxable year of the Partnership that ends with or within such Partner's taxable year. The Partnership may utilize a variety of investment and trading strategies, which produce both short-term and long-term capital gain (or loss), as well as ordinary income (or loss). The Partnership will send annually to each Limited Partner a Schedule K-1 form reporting such Partner's distributive share of the Partnership items of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit. The Partnership intends to use the calendar year as its taxable year unless a different fiscal year is required under the Code.

Each Limited Partner will be subject to tax, and liable for such tax, on such Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's taxable income regardless of whether the Limited Partner has received or will receive any distribution of cash from the Partnership. Thus, in any particular year, a Limited Partner's distributive share of taxable income from the Partnership (and, generally, the taxes imposed on that income) could exceed the amount of cash, if any, such Limited Partner received or is entitled to withdraw from the Partnership.

Under Section 704 of the Code, a Limited Partner's distributive share of any Partnership item of income, gain, loss, deduction or credit is governed by the Partnership Agreement unless the allocation provided by the Partnership Agreement does not have "substantial economic effect". The Regulations promulgated under Section 704(b) of the Code provide certain "safe harbors" with respect to allocations, which, under the Regulations, will be deemed to have substantial economic effect. The validity of an allocation which does not satisfy any of the "safe harbors" of these Regulations is determined by taking into account all facts and circumstances relating to the economic arrangements among the Partners. While no assurance can be given, the allocations provided by the Partnership Agreement should have substantial economic effect and should be sustained under the facts and circumstances test. However, if it were determined by the IRS or otherwise that the allocations provided in the Partnership Agreement with respect to a particular item do not have substantial economic effect, each Limited Partner's distributive share of that item would be determined for tax purposes in accordance with that Limited Partner's interest in the Partnership, taking into account all facts and circumstances.

Cash distributions and withdrawals, to the extent they do not exceed a Limited Partner's tax basis in such Partner's interest in the Partnership, should not result in taxable gain to that Limited Partner, but reduce the tax basis in the Interest by the amount distributed or withdrawn. Cash distributed to a Limited Partner in excess of the tax basis of his or its Interest is generally taxable either as capital gain or ordinary income, depending on the circumstances. A distribution of property other than cash generally will not result in taxable income or loss to the Limited Partner to whom it is distributed until such time that the property is sold.

In the event a Limited Partner withdraws all of the capital in such Partner's capital account, the General Partner will have the discretion to specially allocate an amount of the Partnership's taxable gains or losses to the withdrawing Partner to the extent that the Partner's capital account exceeds, or is less than, its federal income tax basis in its Partnership Interest. However, there can be no assurances that the IRS will accept such a special allocation. If the special allocation were to be successfully challenged by the IRS, the Partnership's taxable gains or losses allocable to the remaining Partners would be increased.

For financial statement presentation and capital account maintenance purposes, all securities held by the Partnership will be marked-to-market at the end of each relevant accounting period and the net gain or loss from marking to market will be reported as income or loss. This treatment differs from the general tax rule applicable to many securities transactions that a transaction does not result in gain or loss until it is closed by an actual sale or other disposition. The divergence between such accounting and tax treatments frequently may result in substantial variation between financial statement income (or loss) and taxable income (or loss) reported by the Partnership.

The Partnership may be required to determine (on an annual basis) whether it will take the position for U.S. federal income tax purposes that it is (i) carrying on a trade or business as a trader in securities, or (ii) an investor in securities. This determination will be made each year based primarily on the frequency, extent and regularity of the Partnership's trading activity during the particular year. The Partnership expects to be treated as engaged in a trade or business by reason of its anticipated investment in the Highland Transaction. The Partnership may also engage in other trade or business activities, either directly or through investments in portfolio partnerships. Prospective investors that are U.S. tax-exempt entities should consider the impact of UBTI on an investment in the Partnership. See "—Tax-Exempt Investors" below. The Partnership's status as a trader or investor may vary from year to year.

If the Partnership is a trader, each Limited Partner who is an individual may deduct his share of the Partnership's expenses (other than interest expense) under Code section 162 as a business expense. Alternatively, if the Partnership is characterized as an investor, an individual Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's expenses (other than interest expense) would pass through to the Partner as separately stated investment expenses deductible under Code section 212 as "miscellaneous itemized deductions". An individual taxpayer's itemized deductions of this type are subject to deduction limitations and phase-out rules that are discussed below in "Limitations on Losses and Deductions—Itemized Deduction Limitations". The limitations on deductions for "investment interest" are discussed below in "Limitations on Losses and Deductions—Investment Interest Limitations".

A Limited Partner may, with the consent of the General Partner, contribute securities to the capital of the Partnership. However, a Limited Partner's contribution of appreciated securities may be a taxable exchange under Section 721(b) of the Code.

The Partnership will also engage in investing and trading securities for its own account. Accordingly, a portion of the Partnership's direct and indirect expenses are expected to be deductible as trade or business expenses under Section 162 of the Code. Certain other expenses may be classified as Section 212 investment expenses, which, for certain types of Limited Partners, including trusts, would be classified as miscellaneous itemized deductions. Prospective investors that are classified as trusts for U.S. federal income tax purposes should consult their tax advisors concerning the limitations in the Code on deductions for miscellaneous itemized deductions.

LIMITATIONS ON LOSSES AND DEDUCTIONS

In General. A Limited Partner is not permitted to deduct Partnership losses that exceed the Partner's adjusted basis in its Interest at the end of the year in which such loss is incurred. A Limited Partner's basis for its Interest is generally equal the amount of such Partner's cash contributions made to the Partnership, increased by (i) the Partner's allocable share of Partnership taxable income, (ii) the Partner's allocable share of Partnership tax-exempt income, and (iii) the Partner's allocable share of nonrecourse liabilities of the Partnership (if any); and decreased by (w) the Limited Partner's allocable share of Partnership taxable losses and non-deductible expenses, (x) any distributions of cash received by the Limited Partner from the Partnership, (y) the basis of any property distributed by the Partnership to such Partner and (z) any decrease in the Partner's share of Partnership nonrecourse liabilities (if any). There are several other Code provisions that may limit the ability of a Limited Partner to claim deductions attributable to an investment in the Partnership. The most significant of these limitations are discussed below.

At Risk Limitations. Section 465 of the Code limits certain taxpayers' losses from certain activities to the amount they are "at risk" in the activities. Taxpayers subject to the "at risk" rules are non-corporate taxpayers, including trusts, and certain closely-held corporations. The activities subject to the "at risk" limitations include all activities in which the Partnership expects to engage. A Partner subject to the "at risk" rules will not be permitted to deduct in any year losses arising from its interest in the Partnership to the extent that the losses exceed the amount it is considered to have "at risk" in the Partnership at the close of that year.

A taxpayer is considered to be "at risk" in any activity to the extent of his cash contribution to the activity, his basis in other property contributed to the activity and his personal liability for repayments of amounts borrowed for use in the activity. With respect to amounts borrowed for use in the activity, the taxpayer is not considered to be "at risk" even if he is personally liable for repayment if the borrowing was from a person who has an "interest" in the activity other than an interest as a creditor. Even if a taxpayer is personally liable for repayment of amounts borrowed for use in the activity, and even if the amount borrowed is borrowed from a person whose only interest in the activity is an interest as a creditor, a taxpayer will not be considered "at risk" in the activity to the extent his investment in the activity is protected against loss through guarantees, stop loss agreements, or other similar arrangements.

Each Limited Partner will be at risk initially for the amount of his capital contribution. A Partner's amount "at risk" will be increased by his distributive share of income from the Partnership and will be decreased by his distributive share of losses from the Partnership and distributions to him. If a Partner's amount "at risk" decreases to zero, he can take no further losses until he has an "at risk" amount to cover the losses. A Partner is subject to a recapture of losses previously allowed to the extent that his amount "at risk" is reduced below zero (limited to loss amounts previously allowed to the Partner over any amounts previously recaptured).

Investment Interest Limitations. To the extent that the Partnership incurs interest expense or short sale expenses, a non-corporate Limited Partner, including a trust, will likely be subject to the "investment interest expense" limitations of Section 163(d) of the Code. Investment interest expense includes (i) interest paid or accrued on indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry property held for investment and (ii) any amounts deductible in connection with a short sale. The deduction for investment interest expense is limited to the taxpayer's net investment income for the taxable year; i.e., the excess of investment income over investment expenses. Excess investment interest expense that is disallowed is not lost permanently but may be carried forward to succeeding years subject to the Section 163(d) limitation. Net capital gain (i.e., net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss) on property held for investment and qualified dividends are only included in investment income to the extent that the taxpayer elects to subject some or all of such gain or dividend income to taxation at ordinary income tax rates. The Section 163(d) limitations will apply at the Partner level with regard to the Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's interest expense.

To the extent that the Partnership is treated as engaged in a trade or business by reason of being deemed a trader, a non-corporate Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's interest expense from such trading activity would retain its character as investment interest subject to the Section 163(d) investment income limitation, but the allowable investment interest deduction would be deducted "above the line" in determining adjusted gross income and therefore fully deductible, rather than being treated as an itemized deduction.

Section 265(a)(2) of the Code disallows any deduction for interest paid by a taxpayer on indebtedness incurred or continued for the purpose of purchasing or carrying tax-exempt obligations. The IRS has announced that such purpose will be deemed to exist with respect to indebtedness incurred to finance a "portfolio investment", and that a limited partnership interest will be regarded as a "portfolio investment". Therefore, if the Partnership holds tax-exempt obligations, the IRS might take the position that all or part of the interest expense incurred by a Limited Partner in connection with the purchase of such Partner's Interest should be viewed as incurred to enable such Limited Partner to continue carrying tax-exempt obligations, and that such Limited Partner should not be allowed to deduct all or a portion of such interest.

Itemized Deduction Limitations. Under Section 67 of the Code, for non-corporate taxpayers, including trusts, certain miscellaneous itemized deductions are allowable only to the extent they exceed a "floor" amount equal to 2% of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income ("2% Floor"). To the extent that the Partnership's operations do not constitute a trade or business within the meaning of Section 162 and other provisions of the Code, a non-corporate Limited Partner's distributive share of the Partnership's investment expenses, other than investment interest expense, would be deductible only as miscellaneous itemized deductions, subject to the 2% Floor. In addition, Section 68 of the Code further restricts the ability of high income individuals with adjusted gross incomes in excess of specified threshold amounts to deduct certain itemized deductions. Under this limitation (the "3% Phase-Out Rule"), miscellaneous itemized deductions in excess of the 2% Floor described above, along with certain other itemized deductions (not including investment interest expense), are reduced by 3% of the amount by which the taxpayer's adjusted gross income exceeds the applicable threshold, which, for 2015, is $309,900 for joint return filers and $258,250 for single taxpayers. However, the amount of otherwise deductible itemized deductions is not reduced by more than 80% under the 3% Phase-Out Rule. Moreover, a non-corporate taxpayer's investment expenses that are miscellaneous itemized deductions are also not deductible in calculating the taxpayer's alternative minimum tax liability.

Capital losses generally may be deducted only to the extent of capital gains, except for non-corporate taxpayers who are allowed to deduct $3,000 of excess capital losses per year against ordinary income. Corporate taxpayers may carry back unused capital losses for three years and may carry forward such losses for five years; non-corporate taxpayers may not carry back unused capital losses but may carry forward unused capital losses indefinitely.

ADDITIONAL TAX ISSUES

Gain or loss from a short sale of property is generally considered as capital gain or loss to the extent that the property used to close the short sale constitutes a capital asset in the Partnership's hands.

The "wash sale" rules of Section 1091 of the Code disallow any deduction for losses arising from the sale or other disposition of "stock or securities", where, within a period beginning 30 days before such sale or disposition and ending 30 days afterwards, the taxpayer acquires "substantially identical" stocks of securities by purchase or by an exchange on which the entire amount of gain or loss is recognized. This disallowance rule also applies where, within such 61-day period, the taxpayer enters into a contract or option to acquire substantially identical stock or securities. Thus, if the Partnership were to engage in such a "wash sale" transaction, the Partners would not be able to recognize their distributive share of any loss realized in connection with such sale in the current year.

Currency Fluctuations - "Section 988" Gains and Losses. To the extent that the Partnership's investments are made in securities denominated in a foreign currency, gain or loss realized by the Partnership frequently will be affected by the fluctuation in the value of such foreign currencies relative to the value of the U.S. dollar. Generally, gains or losses with respect to the Partnership's investments in common stock of foreign issuers will be taxed as capital gains or losses at the time of the Partnership's sale of such stock. However, under Section 988 of the Code, gains or losses of the Partnership on the acquisition or disposition of foreign currency (i.e., the purchase of foreign currency and subsequent use of such currency to acquire stock) will be treated as ordinary income or loss. Moreover, under Section 988, gains and losses from disposition of debt securities denominated in a foreign currency that are attributable to the fluctuations in such currency between the date of acquisition of the debt security and the date of its disposition will be treated as ordinary income or loss. Since the Code provides limitations on the ability of taxpayers to deduct capital losses against ordinary income, a Partner's share of capital losses realized by the Partnership on sale of foreign securities would not be available to offset the Partner's share of ordinary income realized by the Partnership on its currency hedging transactions.

The Partnership may acquire foreign currency forward contracts, enter into foreign currency futures contracts and acquire put and call options on foreign currencies. Generally, foreign currency regulated futures contracts and option contracts that qualify as "Section 1256 contracts" will not be subject to ordinary income and loss treatment under Section 988. However, if the Partnership acquires currency futures contracts or options contracts that are not Section 1256 contracts, or any currency forward contracts, any gain or loss realized by the Partnership with respect to such instruments will be ordinary income or loss, unless (i) the contract is a capital asset in the hands of the Partnership and is not part of a straddle transaction and (ii) the Partnership makes an election (by the close of the day the transaction is entered into) to treat the gain or loss attributable to such contract as capital gain or loss.

The taxation of debt obligations under the Code is complex; the following discussion is intended to provide only a general description of these rules. Generally, interest income and income items similar to stated interest, such as original issue discount (in general, the annual portion of the discount on original issuance of debt obligations issued for less than their stated principal amount) and market discount (the amount by which debt obligations are acquired in the secondary market for less than their principal) are treated as items of ordinary income. Generally, debt obligations that are disposed of in a taxable transaction for an amount greater than their adjusted cost basis give rise to capital gain, which will be long-term if the debt obligation is held for longer than one year, and short-term, if held for a period of one year or less. Generally, debt obligations that are disposed of in a taxable transaction for an amount less than their adjusted cost basis give rise to capital loss, which will be long-term if the debt obligation is held for longer than one year, and short-term if held for a period of one year or less. In the event that any such debt obligations are not held as capital assets, such dispositions will generally give rise to ordinary gain or loss, as the case may be.

Section 1259 of the Code requires that the Partnership recognize gain on the constructive sale of any appreciated financial position in stock, a partnership interest, or certain debt instruments. A constructive sale of an appreciated financial position occurs if, among other things, the Partnership enters into (1) a short sale of the same or substantially identical property (a transaction commonly known as a "short sale against the box"), (2) an offsetting notional principal contract with respect to the same or substantially identical property, or (3) a futures or forward contract to deliver the same or substantially identical property. Exceptions to the foregoing apply to certain transactions closed within 30 days after the close of the taxable year if the underlying appreciated financial position remains "unhedged" for at least 60 days thereafter, and to transactions involving certain contracts to sell stock, debt instruments, or partnership interests if the contract settles within one year.

The IRS may treat certain positions in securities held (directly or indirectly) by a Partner and its indirect interest in similar securities held by the Partnership as "straddles" for federal income tax purposes. The application of the "straddle" rules in such a case could affect a Partner's holding period for the securities involved and may defer the recognition of losses with respect to such securities. In addition, if either of the Partner's positions in such a transaction is an "appreciated financial position", application of the "straddle" rules may trigger a constructive sale of that position under the rules described above.

Section 1258 of the Code recharacterizes capital gain from a "conversion transaction" as ordinary income, with certain limitations. Conversion transactions are defined as transactions in which substantially all the expected return is attributable to the time value of money and either: (a) the transaction consists of the acquisition of property by the taxpayer and a substantially contemporaneous agreement to sell the same or substantially identical property in the future; (b) the transaction qualifies as a "straddle" (within the meaning of Section 1092(c) of the Code); (c) the transaction is one that was marketed or sold to the taxpayer on the basis that it would have the economic characteristics of a loan but the interest-like return would be taxed as capital gain; or (d) the transaction is described as a conversion transaction in the Regulations. The amount of gain so recharacterized will not exceed the amount of interest that would have accrued on the taxpayers' net investment for the relevant period at a yield equal to 120% of the "applicable rate".

INVESTMENTS IN NON-U.S. CORPORATIONS

The Partnership may invest in certain foreign corporations that will be classified as "passive foreign investment companies" ("PFICs") for U.S. tax purposes. Under the PFIC rules, unless the Partnership makes one of the elections described below, any gain realized by the Partnership on the sale or disposition of stock in a PFIC that is allocable to Partners that are U.S. Persons (as defined in the Code) will be treated as ordinary income and will be subject to U.S. federal income tax as if (i) the gain had been realized ratably over the Partnership's holding period and (ii) the amount deemed realized had been subject to tax in each year of that holding period at the highest applicable federal income tax rate; in addition, an interest charge at the rate generally applicable to underpayments of federal income tax will be imposed on the amount. Further, any "excess distributions" from a PFIC (as defined in the Regulations) are treated as ordinary income (regardless of their original character) and subject to this deferred tax and interest charge.

Provided the PFIC complies with certain reporting requirements, the Partnership may elect to have the PFIC treated as a "qualified electing fund", in which case the Partnership would include annually in its gross income its pro rata share of the PFIC's net ordinary income and net realized capital gains, whether or not such amounts are actually distributed to the Partnership. Generally, any net operating losses or net capital losses of the PFIC will not pass through to the Partnership and will not offset any ordinary income or capital gains of the PFIC reportable to the Partnership in subsequent years. Alternatively, the Partnership could elect to "mark-to-market" stock in certain PFICs if such stock is considered "marketable stock" under the Code, and thereby avoid being subject to the deferred tax and interest charge discussed above. However, there can be no assurance that the Partnership will be able to make either of these elections with respect to any PFICs in which it invests. Further, Limited Partners may be subject to IRS reporting requirements with respect to the Partnership's investments in PFICs.

The Partnership may also invest in certain foreign corporations that will be considered "controlled foreign corporations" ("CFCs") for U.S. tax purposes. A CFC is a non-U.S. corporation in which certain U.S. shareholders own, directly or indirectly, more than 50% of either the total voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or the total value of all classes of stock. Under the CFC rules, certain U.S. shareholders are subject to U.S. federal income tax on certain types of income (generally passive income) realized by the CFC regardless of whether any amounts are distributed from the CFC to such U.S. shareholder. Further, such U.S. shareholders may be subject to IRS reporting requirements with respect to investments in CFCs.

In addition, if the Partnership invests in stock of foreign corporations that become PFICs or CFCs after the Partnership has made such investment, this may also result in adverse tax consequences for the Limited Partners that are U.S. Persons and may subject them to IRS reporting requirements with respect to such investments.

3.8 % MEDICARE SURTAX ON NET INVESTMENT INCOME

High income U.S. individuals are subject to an annual 3.8% Medicare contribution tax on their "net investment income" (the "NII Tax"). The NII Tax is an "add on" federal surtax which must be paid in addition to the regular federal income tax on such income. The NII Tax applies to single taxpayers with "modified" adjusted gross income ("MAGI") in excess of $200,000 and married persons filing jointly with MAGI in excess of $250,000. THE NII Tax also applies, in modified form, to the undistributed net investment income of certain trusts and estates.

For purposes of the NII Tax, "investment income" is defined to include (1) interest, dividends, annuities, royalties and rents (subject to certain exceptions); (2) income from a trade or business that consists of trading financial instruments or commodities (i.e., income from trader funds); (3) income from a trade or business that is a passive activity for the individual (i.e., income from an equity interest in a partnership engaged in a trade or business in which the partner does not actively participate); and (4) net gain attributable to disposition of capital assets and certain other property.

It is anticipated that a U.S. individual Limited Partner's distributive share of taxable income from the Partnership will be classified as investment income of the type subject to the NII Tax. To the extent the Partnership generates income from activities that constitute a trade or business (e.g., originating loans), such trade or business income would still be classified as investment income under the NII Tax because the Limited Partner will not be considered an active participant in the Partnership's business.

Net investment income for purposes of calculating the NII Tax is (i) investment income (as defined above) reduced by (ii) any deductions allowed under the regular rules applicable for federal income tax purposes that are properly allocable to such gross income or net gain. If the Partnership is not engaged in a trade or business, an individual Limited Partner's distributive share of investment-related expenses (other than investment interest) would pass through to such Partners as Code Section 212 expenses which are deductible for regular income tax purposes and the NII Tax only as itemized deductions and are subject to the Section 67 (2% Floor) and Section 68 (3% Phase-Out Rule) limitations previously discussed.

TAX-EXEMPT INVESTORS

If the Partnership derives income which would be considered "unrelated business taxable income" (as defined in Section 512 of the Code) ("UBTI"), if derived directly by a Limited Partner that is a qualified retirement plan or other organization exempt from tax under Sections 401 or 501(a) of the Code or an individual retirement account ("IRA") exempt under Section 408(e) of the Code (each, a "Tax-Exempt Entity"), such Limited Partner's allocable share of such Partnership income would be subject to tax. A Tax-Exempt Entity which is subject to tax on its allocable share of the Partnership's UBTI, including an IRA, may also be subject to the alternative minimum tax with respect to items of tax preference which enter into the computation of UBTI.

UBTI is generally the excess of gross income from any unrelated trade or business conducted by a Tax-Exempt Entity (or by a partnership of which the Tax-Exempt Entity is a member) over the deductions attributable to such trade or business. UBTI generally does not include certain passive income, including dividends, interest, annuities, royalties and gain or loss from the disposition of property held for investment, unless such income items are debt-financed income (as discussed below).

While UBTI itself is taxable, the receipt of UBTI by a Tax-Exempt Entity generally has no effect upon that entity's tax-exempt status or upon the exemption from tax of its other income. However, for certain types of Tax-Exempt Entities, the receipt of any UBTI may have extremely adverse consequences. In particular, for charitable remainder trusts (as defined under Section 664 of the Code), the receipt of any taxable income from UBTI during a taxable year will result in the imposition of an excise tax equal to the amount of such UBTI.

A Tax-Exempt Entity also includes in its UBTI its "unrelated debt-financed income" (and its allocable share of the "unrelated debt-financed income" of any partnership in which it invests) pursuant to Section 514 of the Code. In general, unrelated debt-financed income consists of: (i) income derived by a Tax-Exempt Entity (directly or through a partnership) from income producing property with respect to which there is "acquisition indebtedness" at any time during the taxable year; and (ii) gains derived by a Tax-Exempt Entity (directly or through a partnership) from the disposition of property with respect to which there is "acquisition indebtedness". Acquisition indebtedness is generally defined as debt incurred to purchase or carry an investment. Such income and gains derived by a Tax-Exempt Entity from the ownership and sale of debt-financed property are taxable in the proportion to which such property is financed by acquisition indebtedness during the relevant period of time.

Income From the Partnership's Private Equity Investments. The Investment Manager expects to invest a substantial portion of the Partnership's Series 1 assets in the Highland Transaction. The Partnership expects to incur acquisition indebtedness with respect to the Highland Transaction (if it occurs) and may use borrowed funds to acquire other property. Accordingly, Limited Partners that are Tax-Exempt Entities should anticipate that a substantial portion, and possibly all, of their distributive share of the Partnership's net income realized from ownership of equity interests in Highland and other portfolio companies that are business partnerships, including gain realized upon sales of such equity investments, will be subject to federal income tax as UBTI.

Income From the Partnership's Other Activities. The Investment Manager expects that the Partnership will incur indebtedness in connection with its operations from time to time. The law is not entirely clear regarding the appropriate method to be used to determine what portion of a tax-exempt Limited Partner's share of the Partnership's income is attributable to debt financing and therefore constitutes "debt-financed income". Accordingly while the Partnership will compute each tax-exempt Limited Partner's share of "debt-financed income" from the Partnership in a manner which the Partnership considers to be reasonable, there can be no assurance that the IRS will accept the method of computation used by the Partnership.

Tax-exempt Limited Partners will also realize UBTI if the Partnership acquires equity interests of publicly traded partnerships or private partnerships that are engaged in trade or business activities or the Partnership directly carries on other trade or business activities (other than as a securities trader).

OTHER TAXES

Partners may be subject to other taxes, such as the alternative minimum tax, state and local income taxes, and estate, inheritance or intangible property taxes that may be imposed by various jurisdictions. Each prospective investor should consider the potential consequences of such taxes due to an investment in the Partnership. It is the responsibility of each prospective investor to become satisfied as to the legal and tax consequences of an investment in the Partnership under state law, including the laws of the state(s) of its, his or her domicile and residence, by obtaining advice from such investor's own tax advisors, and to file all appropriate tax returns that may be required.

Income received by the Partnership from sources within non-U.S. countries may be subject to withholding and other taxes imposed by such countries. Each Partner may be entitled either to deduct (as an itemized deduction) such Partner's proportionate share of the non-U.S. taxes of the Partnership in computing such Partner's taxable income or to use the amount as a foreign tax credit against his or its U.S. federal income tax liability, subject to limitations. Generally, a credit for non-U.S. taxes is subject to the limitation that it may not exceed the taxpayer's U.S. tax attributable to his or its non-U.S. source taxable income. With respect to Partners that are U.S. Persons: (i) certain currency fluctuation gains, including fluctuation gains from non-U.S.-Dollar-denominated debt securities, receivables and payables, will be treated as ordinary income derived from U.S. sources; and (ii) Partnership gains from the sale of securities also will be treated as derived from U.S. sources. The limitation on the foreign tax credit is applied separately to non-U.S.

source passive income (as defined for purposes of the foreign tax credit), including the non-U.S. source passive income realized by the Partnership. The foreign tax credit limitation rules do not apply to certain electing individual taxpayers who have limited creditable non-U.S. taxes and no non-U.S. source income other than passive investment-type income. The foreign tax credit generally is eliminated with respect to non-U.S. taxes withheld on income and gain if the Partnership fails to satisfy minimum holding period requirements with respect to the property giving rise to the income and gain.

TAX ELECTIONS; RETURNS; TAX AUDITS

If the General Partner determines that the Partnership is treated as a securities trader for federal income tax purposes, the General Partner may cause the Partnership to elect to "mark-to-market" its securities at the end of each taxable year, in which case such securities would be treated for federal income tax purposes as though sold for fair market value on the last business day of such taxable year. Such an election under Code Section 475(f) would apply to the taxable year for which made and all subsequent taxable years unless revoked with the consent of the IRS. If the Partnership were to make such an election, all or a portion of the Partnership's gains and losses would be considered ordinary income or loss, rather than capital gain or loss. Since for federal income tax purposes capital losses generally may be deducted only against capital gains, a Limited Partner may be unable to deduct capital losses realized from other investments and transactions in a taxable year against his share of the Partnership's income.

The Code provides for optional adjustments to the basis of partnership property upon distributions of partnership property to a partner and transfers of partnership interests (including by reason of death); provided that a partnership election has been made pursuant to Section 754 of the Code. Under the Partnership Agreement, the General Partner, in its sole discretion, may cause the Partnership to make such an election. Any such election, once made, cannot be revoked without the IRS's consent. The General Partner also has the authority and sole discretion to make or refrain from making other tax elections that are available to the Partnership.

Additionally, even if a partnership has not made a Section 754 election, Section 743 of the Code provides for a mandatory basis adjustment to partnership property on certain transfers of partnership interests (including transfers by reason of death), if the partnership has a "substantial built-in loss" immediately after such transfer. A partnership is treated as having a "substantial built-in loss" if the partnership's adjusted basis in partnership property exceeds the property's fair market value by more than $250,000. Section 734 of the Code also provides for mandatory basis adjustments in the case of certain property distributions to partners. Such Code provisions could cause the Partnership to decrease the basis of its remaining assets in such circumstances.

The General Partner will decide how to report partnership items on the Partnership's tax returns and all Limited Partners are required to treat such tax items consistently on their own returns, unless they file a statement with the IRS disclosing the inconsistency. Since the Partnership may engage in transactions whose treatment for tax purposes is not clear, there is a risk that a claim of tax liability could be asserted against the Partnership or its Partners. In the event that the income tax returns of the Partnership are audited by the IRS, the tax treatment of Partnership income and deductions generally is determined at the partnership level in a single proceeding rather than by individual audits of the Partners. As the "Tax Matters Partner", the General Partner has considerable authority to make decisions affecting the tax treatment and procedural rights of all Partners. In addition, the Tax Matters Partner has the authority to bind certain Partners to settlement agreements and the right on behalf of all Partners to extend the statute of limitations relating to the Partners' tax liabilities with respect to Partnership items. The General Partner may, in its sole discretion, consult with, and rely upon, the Partnership's auditors and their determinations or advice as to tax and/or accounting matters.

It is possible that the Partnership and or certain transactions executed by the Partnership would be subject to tax shelter disclosure registration and listing requirements under applicable U.S. tax laws and regulations.

PFIC Reporting. The Code provides that each U.S. Person (as defined herein) that is a direct or indirect shareholder of a PFIC (generally, an investment corporation organized under the laws of a foreign jurisdiction) is required to file an annual information return containing such information as the IRS may require. Limited Partners would be indirect shareholders of stock in any PFICs owned by the Partnership, and would satisfy such filing requirement (if applicable to such Partner) by completing a copy of IRS Form 8621 for the reportable PFIC investment and submitting such forms to the IRS with the Partner's federal income tax return.

FATCA Withholding and Compliance. The provisions of the Code known as the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act ("FATCA") provide that a 30% withholding tax will be imposed on payments of U.S.-source dividends and interest (and certain other items of U.S.-source income) to certain foreign financial entities, and beginning on January 1, 2017 with regard to other withholdable payments (including gross proceeds from the sale of property that give rise to U.S.-source, interest or dividends), unless the foreign financial entity has registered with the IRS and agreed to provide specified U.S. tax information concerning "specified U.S. persons" that own interests in the foreign entity. The Partnership is a withholding agent with respect to such withholding taxes that may be imposed on any of its Partners. U.S. and non-U.S. Partners will be required to furnish appropriate documentation certifying as to their U.S. or non-U.S. tax status, together with such other additional tax information as the Partnership may from time to time request. Limited Partners that are "non-financial foreign entities" (as defined in Code Section 1472) are required to certify whether they have any "substantial United States owners" and, if so, to disclose the identity and tax identification numbers of such persons to the Partnership. Failure to provide such information may subject a Limited Partner to withholding taxes or mandatory withdrawal of its entire interest in the Partnership. Limited Partners are encouraged to consult with their own tax advisors regarding the possible impact of the FATCA legislation on their investment in the Partnership.

OTHER MATTERS

The Partnership may incur certain expenses in connection with its organization and the marketing of the Interests. Amounts paid or incurred to organize the Partnership are being amortized, for tax purposes, over a period of 180 months from the date the Partnership commenced operations. Amounts paid or incurred to market interests in a partnership (marketing and syndication expenses) are not deductible or amortizable.

SPECIAL CONSIDERATIONS FOR PARTNERS WHO ARE NOT U.S. PERSONS

A "U.S. Person" is (a) a citizen or resident of the United States, (b) a corporation, partnership, or other entity organized under the laws of the United States, any state, or the District of Columbia, other than a partnership that is not treated as a U.S. Person under the Regulations, (c) an estate whose income is subject to United States income tax, regardless of its source, or (d) a trust if a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust and one or more U.S. Persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust. In addition, to the extent provided in the Regulations, "U.S. Person" includes certain trusts in existence on August 20, 1996, and treated as U.S. Persons prior to such date, that have elected to be treated as U.S. Persons. Partners that are not U.S. Persons are referred to below as "non-U.S. Partners".

Taxation of Effectively Connected Income. The Partnership expects to be treated for U.S. tax purposes as being engaged in the conduct of a U.S. trade or business. As a result, non-U.S. Limited Partners that acquire interests in the Partnership will generally be treated as being engaged in the conduct of a U.S. trade or business. Thus, each non-U.S. Limited Partner will be subject to U.S. federal income taxation, at graduated rates, on its distributive share of the Partnership's income, gain or loss (whether ordinary or capital) that is effectively connected with the conduct of the Partnership's U.S. trade or business ("ECI"). Such Limited Partners will be required to file annual U.S. federal income tax returns with respect to such ECI, and the Partnership will be required to withhold and remit to the U.S. Treasury a portion of the non-U.S. Limited Partner's distributive share of such ECI. The Limited Partner would be entitled to claim a credit on his U.S. federal income tax return for the amount withheld by the Partnership with respect to such ECI. Non-U.S. Limited Partners may also be required to file applicable state and local tax returns in jurisdictions in which the Partnership is engaged in business or in which its real property interests are located.

U.S. Branch Profits Tax. In the case of a Limited Partner that is a non-U.S. corporation, in addition to the regular corporate income tax that must be paid on its ECI, the Code provides for an additional 30% "branch profits" tax. The branch profits tax is 30% (or lower rate permitted by tax treaty) of the foreign corporation's "dividend equivalent amount". This is the amount of the foreign corporation's effectively connected after-tax earnings that are not reinvested in a U.S. trade or business by the end of the tax year or disinvested in a later tax year. Certain income tax treaties may reduce or eliminate the branch profits tax; however, under certain circumstances, the branch profits tax may override income tax treaty benefits.

FIRPTA. The Foreign Investment in Real Property Tax Act of 1980, as amended ("FIRPTA"), imposes a tax on gain realized on disposition by a foreign person of a "U.S. real property interest" ("USRPI") by treating such gain as ECI, generally giving rise to the tax consequences described above. A USRPI includes a direct investment in U.S. real estate and buildings and also investments in stock and certain types of debt interests of a U.S. corporation that is classified as a "U.S. real property holding corporation" (as defined in the Code). A USRPI held by a partnership is deemed to be held proportionately by its partners.

Taxation of Non-ECI. The Partnership also expects to realize certain types of periodic income from U.S. sources (e.g., dividends and certain types of interest) which are not classified as ECI. Each non-U.S. Limited Partner will be subject to a flat 30% withholding tax on its allocable share of the gross amount of such income. Such withholding tax is sometimes reduced or eliminated by an applicable income tax treaty, provided that the proper certification is provided by the non-U.S. Limited Partner when necessary. The applicable IRS form or forms (W-8 series) should be submitted to the Partnership by each non-U.S. Limited Partner at the time such Limited Partner acquires an Interest in the Partnership, and should be resubmitted every three years thereafter (or earlier, if the information on such form changes before such date).

Disposition of Partnership Interests. A non-U.S. Limited Partner that disposes of its Interest in the Partnership, by sale or otherwise, may be subject to U.S. federal income taxation on such disposition. A transferee of an Interest in the Partnership may be required to deduct and withhold a tax equal to 10% of the gross amount realized on such disposition. Any amount so withheld can be applied as a credit against the U.S. federal income tax liability of the non-U.S. Limited Partner and can be recovered as a refund in the event of overpayment.

U.S. Estate and Gift Taxation of Interests. Non-U.S. Limited Partners that are individuals should also be aware that Interests in the Partnership will be treated as U.S. situs property by reason of the Partnership's ownership of U.S. real property interests, and thus subject to U.S. estate taxation upon the death on a non-U.S. individual owner, or U.S. gift taxation upon a donative transfer of such Interest.

STATE TAXATION

In addition to the federal income tax consequences described above, prospective investors should consider potential state tax consequences of an investment in the Partnership. No attempt is made herein to provide a discussion of such state tax consequences. State laws often differ from federal income tax laws with respect to the treatment of specific items of income, gain, loss, deduction and credit. A Partner's distributive share of the taxable income or loss of the Partnership generally will be required to be included in determining the Partner's reportable income for state tax purposes in the jurisdiction in which he or she is a resident. Each prospective investor must consult such investor's own tax advisors regarding such state tax consequences.

FUTURE TAX LEGISLATION

Future amendments to the Code, other legislation, new or amended Regulations, administrative rulings or guidance by the IRS, or judicial decisions may adversely affect the federal income tax aspects of an investment in the Partnership, with or without advance notice, and retroactively or prospectively.

This Agreement amends and replaces, in its entirety, all prior governing agreements for the Company, including any and all amendments thereto.

This Agreement is subject to, and governed by, the Delaware laws governing limited liability companies (the "DELAWARE LAWS") and the Certificate. In the event of a direct conflict between the provisions of this Agreement and the mandatory provisions of the DELAWARE LAWS or the provisions of the Certificate, such provisions of the DELAWARE LAWS or the Certificate, as the case may be, will be controlling.

1.02 Registered Office and Agent The registered office and registered agent of the Company initially shall be as set forth in the Certificate and may be changed from time to time by the appropriate filing by the Company in the office of the Secretary of State of Delaware.

1.03 Other Offices The Company may also have offices at such other places, both within and without the State of Delaware, as the Board of Managers may from time to time determine or the business of the Company may require.

1.04 Defined Terms The terms used in this Agreement with their initial letter capitalized shall, unless the context requires otherwise, have the meanings specified in this Section 1.04. The singular shall include the plural and the masculine gender shall include the feminine and neuter, and vice versa, as the context requires. For purposes of this definition, "control" (including the terms "controlling", "controlled by" and "under common control with") of a Person means the possession, directly or indirectly, alone or in concert with others, of the power to direct or cause the direction of the management and policies of such Person, whether through the ownership of securities, by contract or otherwise, and no Person shall be deemed in control of another solely by virtue of being a director, officer or holder of voting securities of any entity. A Person shall be presumed to control any partnership of which such Person is a general partner.

(c) "Bankruptcy" shall mean, and a Member shall be deemed a "Bankrupt Member," upon (i) the entry of a decree or order for relief against the Member by a court of competent jurisdiction in any involuntary case brought against the Member under any Debtor Relief Laws; (ii) the appointment of a receiver, liquidator, assignee, custodian, trustee, sequestrator, or other similar agent under applicable Debtor Relief Laws for the Member or for any substantial part of its assets or property; (iii) the ordering of the winding up or liquidation of the Member's affairs; (iv) the filing of a petition in any involuntary bankruptcy case, which petition remains undismissed for a period of 180 days or which is not dismissed or suspended pursuant to Section 305 of the Federal Bankruptcy Code (or any corresponding provision of any future United States bankruptcy law); (v) the commencement by the Member of a voluntary case under any applicable Debtor Relief Law now or hereafter in effect; (vi) the consent by the Member to the entry of an order for relief in an involuntary case under any such law or to the appointment of or the taking of possession by a receiver, liquidator, assignee, trustee, custodian, sequestrator, or other similar agent under any applicable Debtor Relief Laws for the Member or for any substantial part of its assets or property; or (vii) the making by a Member of any general assignment for the benefit of its creditors.

(v) if the Book Value of an asset has been determined or adjusted pursuant to Section 1.04(e)(i),1.04(e)(ii), or 1.04(e)(iv) hereof, such Book Value shall thereafter be adjusted by the Book Depreciation taken into account with respect to such asset for purposes of computing Profits and Losses.

ARTICLE II

MEMBERS AND MEMBERSHIP INTERESTS

2.01 Members. The Members of the Company shall be those Persons listed on Exhibit B. Except as otherwise may be provided in Exhibit A or Exhibit B, and except as provided in Section 7.05 below, a Person may be admitted as a Member to the Company only upon the affirmative vote of the Managers, plus one or more Members whose Percentage Interests total more than fifty percent (50%); provided, however, that no Person will be recognized as a Member of the Company until he/she shall have executed this Agreement, or a counterpart hereto, and agrees to be bound by all of the terms and conditions hereof.

2.02 Annual Meetings An annual meeting of the Members of the Company shall be held during each calendar year on such date and at such time as shall be designated from time to time by the Board of Managers and stated in the notice of the meeting, and if a legal holiday, then on the next business day following, at the time specified in the notice of the meeting. At such meeting, the Members shall elect Managers and transact such other business as may properly be brought before the meeting.

2.03 Special Meetings A special meeting of the Members may be called at any time by the President, the Board of Managers, or one or more Members whose Percentage Interests total at least 10%. Only such business shall be transacted at a special meeting as may be stated or indicated in the notice of such meeting.

2.04 Place of Meetings The annual meeting of Members may be held at any place within or without the State of Delaware as may be designated by the Board of Managers. Special meetings of Members may be held at any place within or without the State of Delaware as may be designated by the person or persons calling such special meeting as provided in Section 2.03. If no place for a meeting is designated, it shall be held at the registered office of the Company.

2.05 Notice. Written or printed notice stating the place, day, and hour of each meeting of Members and, in case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called, shall be delivered not less than 10 days or more than 50 days before the date of the meeting, either personally or by mail, by or at the direction of the President, the Secretary, or the person calling the meeting, to each Member of record entitled to vote at such meeting.

2.06 Voting List At least 10 days before each meeting of Members, the Secretary shall prepare a complete list of Members entitled to vote at such meeting, arranged in alphabetical order, including the address of each Member and the number of voting Interests held by each Member. For a period of 10 days prior to such meeting, such list shall be kept on file at the registered office of the Company and shall be subject to inspection by any Member during usual business hours. Such list shall be produced at such meeting, and at all times during such meeting shall be subject to inspection by any Member. The membership interest transfer books shall be prima facie evidence as to who are the Members entitled to examine such list or membership interest transfer books.

2.07 Voting of Interests. Interests held by the Company in treasury, Interests owned by a Person the majority of the voting interests of which are owned or controlled by the Company, and Interests held by the Company in a fiduciary capacity shall not be Interests entitled to vote or to be counted in determining the total number of outstanding Interests of the Company. Interests held by an administrator, executor, guardian, or conservator may be voted by him or her, either in person or by proxy, without transfer of such Interests into his or her name so long as such Interests form a part of the estate and are in the possession of the estate being served by him or her. Interests standing in the name of a trustee may be voted by him or her, either in person or by proxy, only after the Interests have been transferred into his or her name as trustee. Interests standing in the name of a receiver may be voted by such receiver, and Interests held by or under the control of a receiver may be voted by such receiver without transfer of such Interests into his or her name if authority to do so is contained in the court order by which such receiver was appointed. Interests standing in the name of another domestic or foreign corporation of any type or kind may be voted by such officer, agent, or proxy as the bylaws of such corporation may provide or, in the absence of such provision, as the board of directors of such corporation may by resolution determine. A Member whose Interests are pledged shall be entitled to vote such Interests until they have been transferred into the name of the pledgee, and thereafter the pledgee shall be entitled to vote such Interests.

2.08 Quorum. The presence in person or by proxy of one or more Members whose Percentage Interests total more than fifty percent (50%) shall constitute a quorum at any meeting of Members, except as otherwise provided by law, the Certificate, or this Agreement. At any reconvening of an adjourned meeting at which a quorum shall be present or represented, any business may be transacted that could have been transacted at the original meeting if a quorum had been present or represented.

2.09 Vote; Withdrawal of Quorum. If a quorum is present in person or represented by proxy at any meeting, except as otherwise may be provided in Exhibit A or Exhibit B, the vote of one or more Members whose Percentage Interests total more than fifty percent (50%) of all Members, whether or not they are present in person or represented by proxy, shall decide any question brought before such meeting, unless the question is one on which, by express provision of law, the Certificate, or this Agreement a different vote is required, in which event such express provision shall govern and control the decision of such question. The Members present at a duly convened meeting may continue to transact business until adjournment, notwithstanding any withdrawal of Members that may leave less than a quorum remaining.

2.10 Method of Voting; Proxies. Except as otherwise may be provided in Exhibit A or Exhibit B, each Member shall be entitled to that number of votes on each matter submitted to the Members for their vote equal to such Member's Percentage Interest multiplied by 100. At any meeting of Members, every Member having the right to vote may vote either in person or by a proxy executed in writing by the Member or by his duly authorized attorney-in-fact. Each such proxy shall be filed with the Secretary of the Company before or at the time of the meeting. No proxy shall be valid after 11 months from the date of its execution, unless otherwise provided in the proxy. If no date is stated on a proxy, such proxy shall be presumed to have been executed on the date of the meeting at which it is to be voted. Each proxy shall be revocable unless expressly provided therein to be irrevocable or unless otherwise made irrevocable by law.

2.11 Closing of Transfer Books; Record Date . For the purpose of determining Members entitled to notice of, or to vote at, any meeting of Members or any reconvening thereof, or entitled to receive payment of any distribution, or in order to make a determination of Members for any other proper purpose, the Board of Managers may provide that the membership interest transfer books of the Company shall be closed for a stated period but not to exceed in any event 50 days. If the membership interest transfer books are closed for the purpose of determining Members entitled to notice of, or to vote at, a meeting of Members, such books shall be closed for at least 10 days immediately preceding such meeting. In lieu of closing the membership interest transfer books, the Board of Managers may fix in advance a date as the record date for any such determination of Members, such date in any case to be not more than 50 days and not less than 10 days prior to the date on which the particular action requiring such determination of Members is to be taken. If the membership interest transfer books are not closed and if no record date is fixed for the determination of Members entitled to notice of, or to vote at, a meeting of Members or entitled to receive payment of a distribution, the date on which the notice of the meeting is to be mailed or the date on which the resolution of the Board of Managers declaring such distribution is adopted, as the case may be, shall be the record date for such determination of Members.

2.12 Presiding Officials at Meetings The President shall preside at, and the Secretary shall prepare minutes of, each meeting of Members, and in the absence of either such officer, his other duties shall be performed by some person appointed at the meeting.

ARTICLE III

MANAGERS

3.01 Management. The business and affairs of the Company shall be managed EXCLUSIVELY by the Board of Managers. Subject to the restrictions imposed by law, the Certificate, or this Agreement, the Board of Managers may exercise all the powers of the Company.

3.02 Number; Election; Term; Qualification. The first Board of Managers shall consist of the number of Managers named in the Certificate and or otherwise in the Company documents. Thereafter, except as otherwise may be restricted by this Agreement, the number of Managers that shall constitute the entire Board of Managers shall be determined by resolution of the Board of Managers at any meeting thereof or by the Members at any meeting thereof, but shall never be less than one (1). At each annual meeting of Members, Managers shall be elected to hold office until the next annual meeting of Members and until their successors are elected and qualified. No Manager need be a Member, a resident of the State of Delaware, or a citizen of the United States.

3.03 Removal Except as otherwise may be provided by the Members, at any meeting of Members called expressly for that purpose, any Manager or the entire Board of Managers may be removed, with or without cause, by a vote of one or more Members whose Percentage Interests total more than fifty percent (50%).

3.04 Change in Number; Vacancies. No decrease in the number of Managers constituting the entire Board of Managers shall have the effect of shortening the term of any incumbent Manager. In the case of any increase in the number of Managers, or in the case of the death, retirement, resignation, or removal of a Manager, the vacancies to be filled by such increase or death, retirement, resignation, or removal may be filled by (a) the Board of Managers for a term of office continuing only until the next election of one or more Managers by the Members; or (b) the Members at any annual or special meeting of the Members. A Manager elected to fill a vacancy shall be elected to serve for the unexpired term of his predecessor in office.

3.05 Place of Meetings . The Board of Managers may hold its meetings in such place or places, including by telephonic or other electronic method of communication, within or without the State of Delaware as the Board of Managers may from time to time determine.

3.06 First Meeting . Each newly elected Board of Managers may hold its first meeting, if a quorum is present, for the purpose of organization and the transaction of business immediately after and at the same place as the annual meeting of Members, and no notice of such meeting shall be necessary.

3.07 Regular Meetings . Regular meetings of the Board of Managers may be held without notice at such times and places, including by telephonic or other electronic method of communication, as may be designated from time to time by resolution of the Board of Managers and communicated to all Managers. Regular meetings of the Board of Managers may be held when and if needed, and no more than one regular meeting of the Board of Managers shall be required in any calendar year.

3.08 Special Meetings . A special meeting of the Board of Managers shall be held whenever called by any Manager at such time and place, including by telephonic or other electronic method of communication, as such Manager shall designate in the notice of such special meeting. The Manager calling any special meeting shall cause notice of such special meeting to be given to each Manager at least 24 hours before such special meeting. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any special meeting of the Board of Managers need be specified in the notice or waiver of notice of any special meeting.

3.09 Quorum; Vote . At all meetings of the Board of Managers, a majority of the Managers fixed in the manner provided in this Agreement shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. If a quorum is not present at a meeting, a majority of the Managers present may adjourn the meeting from time to time, without notice other than an announcement at the meeting, until a quorum is present. The vote of a majority of the Managers present at a meeting at which a quorum is in attendance shall be the act of the Board of Managers, unless the vote of a different number is required by law, the Certificate, or this Agreement.

3.10 Procedure; Minutes . At meetings of the Board of Managers, business shall be transacted in such order as the Board of Managers may determine from time to time. The Board of Managers shall appoint at each meeting a person to preside at the meeting and a person to act as secretary of the meeting. The secretary of the meeting shall prepare minutes of the meeting that shall be delivered to the Secretary of the Company for placement in the minute book of the Company.

3.11 Presumption of Assent . A Manager of the Company who is present at any meeting of the Board of Managers at which action on any matter is taken shall be presumed to have assented to the action unless his dissent shall be entered in the minutes of the meeting or unless he shall file his written dissent to such action with the person acting as secretary of the meeting before the adjournment thereof, or shall forward any dissent by certified or registered mail to the Secretary of the Company immediately after the adjournment of the meeting. Such right to dissent shall not apply to a Manager who voted in favor of such action.

3.12 Compensation . Except as otherwise may be restricted in this Agreement, Managers, in their capacity as Managers, may receive, by resolution of the Board of Managers, a stated salary or a fixed sum and expenses of attendance, if any, for attending meetings of the Board of Managers. No Manager shall be precluded from serving the Company in any other capacity or receiving compensation therefor.

ARTICLE IV

COMMITTEES

4.01 Designation . The Board of Managers may, by a resolution adopted by a majority of the entire Board of Managers, designate executive and other committees.

4.02 Number; Qualification; Term . Each committee shall consist of one or more Managers appointed by resolution adopted by a majority of the entire Board of Managers. The number of committee members may be increased or decreased from time to time by resolution adopted by a majority of the entire Board of Managers. Each committee member shall serve as such until the expiration of his term as a Manager or his earlier resignation, unless sooner removed as a committee member or as a Manager.

4.03 Authority . The executive committee, to the extent provided in the resolution establishing such committee, shall have and may exercise all of the authority of the Board of Managers in the management of the business and affairs of the Company. Each other committee, to the extent expressly provided for in the resolution establishing such committee, shall have and may exercise all of the authority of the Board of Managers in such other matters and affairs concerning the Company. However, no committee shall have the authority of the Board of Managers in reference to any of the following:

(a) amending the Certificate;

(b) approving a plan of merger or consolidation;

(c) recommending to the Members the sale, lease, or exchange of all or substantially all of the property and assets of the Company other than in the usual and regular course of its business;

(d) recommending to the Members a voluntary dissolution of the Company or a liquidation thereof;

(e) filling vacancies in, or removing members of, the Board of Managers or of any committee thereof;

(f) filling any vacancy to be filled by reason of an increase in the number of Managers;

(g) electing or removing officers or committee members;

(h) fixing the compensation of any committee member; or

(i) altering or repealing any resolution of the Board of Managers that, by its term, provides that it shall not be amendable or repealable.

4.04 Committee Changes . The Board of Managers shall have the power at any time to fill vacancies in, to change the Membership of, and to discharge any committee. However, a committee member may be removed by the Board of Managers only if, in the judgment of the Board of Managers, the best interests of the Company will be served thereby, but such removal shall be without prejudice to the contract rights, if any, of the person so removed.

4.05 Regular Meetings . Regular meetings of any committee may be held without notice at such times and places, including by telephonic or other electronic methods of communication, as may be designated from time to time by resolution of the committee and communicated to all committee members.

4.06 Special Meetings . A special meeting of any committee may be held whenever called by any committee member at such time and place, including by telephonic or other electronic methods of communication, as such committee member shall designate in the notice of such special meeting. The committee member calling any special meeting shall cause notice of such special meeting to be given to each committee member at least 24 hours before such special meeting. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any special meeting of any committee need be specified in the notice or waiver of notice of any special meeting.

4.07 Quorum; Majority Vote . At all meetings of any committee, a majority of the number of committee members designated by the Board of Managers shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. If a quorum is not present at a meeting of any committee, a majority of the committee members present may adjourn the meeting from time to time, without notice other than an announcement at the meeting, until a quorum is present. The vote of a majority of the committee members present at any meeting at which a quorum is in attendance shall be the act of a committee, unless the vote of a different number is required by law, the Certificate, or this Agreement.

4.08 Minutes . Each committee shall cause minutes of its proceedings to be prepared and shall report the same to the Board of Managers. The minutes of the proceedings of each committee shall be delivered to the Secretary of the Company for placement in the minute books of the Company.

4.09 Compensation . Except as otherwise may be restricted in this Agreement, committee members may, by resolution of the Board of Managers, be allowed a stated salary or a fixed sum and expenses of attendance, if any, for attending any committee meetings.

4.10 Responsibility . The designation of any committee and the delegation of authority to it shall not operate to relieve the Board of Managers or any Manager of any responsibility imposed upon it or such Manager by law.

ARTICLE V

GENERAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO MEETINGS

5.01 Notice Whenever by law, the Certificate, or this Agreement notice is required to be given to any Member, Manager, or committee member and no provision is made as to how such notice shall be given, it shall be construed to mean that notice may be given either (a) in person; (b) in writing, by mail; (c) by telegram, telex, cable, telecopy or facsimile transmission, or similar means; or (d) by any other method permitted by law. Any notice required or permitted to be given hereunder (other than personal notice) shall be addressed to such Member, Manager, or committee member at his address as it appears on the books on the Company or, in the case of a Member, on the membership interest transfer records of the Company or at such other place as such Member, Manager, or committee member is known to be at the time notice is mailed or transmitted. Any notice required or permitted to be given by mail shall be deemed to be delivered and given at the time when such notice is deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid. Any notice required or permitted to be given by telegram, telex, cable, telecopy or facsimile transmission, or similar means shall be deemed to be delivered and given at the time transmitted.

5.02 Waiver of Notice . Whenever by law, the Certificate, or this Agreement any notice is required to be given to any Member, Manager, or committee member of the Company, a waiver thereof in writing signed by the person or persons entitled to such notice, whether before or after the time notice should have been given, shall be equivalent to the giving of such notice. Attendance of a Manager or Member at a meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except where a Manager or Member attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting to the transaction of any business on the ground that the meeting is not lawfully called or convened.

5.03 Telephone and Similar Meetings Members, Managers, or committee members may participate in and hold a meeting by means of a conference telephone or similar communications equipment by means of which all persons participating in the meeting can hear each other. Participation in such a meeting shall constitute presence in person at such meeting, except where a person participates in the meeting for the express purpose of objecting to the transaction of any business on the ground that the meeting is not lawfully called or convened.

5.04 Action Without Meeting . Any action that may be taken, or is required by law, the Certificate, or this Agreement to be taken at a meeting of the Members, the Board of Managers, or a committee thereof may be taken without a meeting if a consent in writing, setting forth the action so taken, shall be signed by the Members owning the required Percentage Interests of all Members (as set forth herein for the respective action or decision), a majority of the Managers or committee members, as the case may be, entitled to vote with respect to the subject matter thereof, and such consent shall have the same force and effect as a vote of such Members, Managers, or committee members, as the case may be, and may be stated as such in any document filed with the Secretary of State of Delaware or in any certificate or other document delivered to any person. The consent may be in one or more counterparts so long as each Member, Manager, or committee member signs one of the counterparts. The signed consent shall be placed in the minute books of the Company.

ARTICLE VI

OFFICERS AND OTHER AGENTS

6.01 Number; Titles; Election; Term The Company shall have a president, one or more vice presidents (and, in the case of each vice president, with such descriptive title, if any, as the Board of Managers shall determine), a secretary, a treasurer, and such officers and agents as the Board of Managers may deem desirable. The Board of Managers shall elect a president, vice president, treasurer, and secretary at its first meeting at which a quorum shall be present after the annual meeting of Members or whenever a vacancy exists. The Board of Managers then, or from time to time, may also elect or appoint one or more other officers or agents as it shall deem advisable. Except as otherwise may be provided by separate agreement, each officer and agent shall hold office for the term for which he is elected or appointed and until his successor has been elected or appointed and qualified. Unless otherwise provided in the resolution of the Board of Managers electing or appointing an officer or agent, his term of office shall extend to and expire at the meeting of the Board of Managers following the next annual meeting of Members or, if earlier, at his death, resignation, or removal. Any two or more offices may be held by the same person. No officer or agent need be a Member, a Manager, a resident of the State of Delaware, or a citizen of the United States.

6.02 Removal . Any officer or agent elected or appointed by the Board of Managers may be removed by a majority of the Board of Managers only if, in the judgment of a majority of the Board of Managers, the best interests of the Company will be served thereby, but such removal shall be without prejudice to the contract rights, if any, of the person so removed. Election or appointment of an officer or agent shall not of itself create contract rights.

6.03 Vacancies . Any vacancy occurring in any office of the Company may be filled by the Board of Managers.

6.04 Authority . Officers shall have such authority and perform such duties in the management of the Company as are provided in this Agreement or as may be determined by resolution of the Board of Managers not inconsistent with this Agreement.

6.05 Compensation . Except as otherwise may be provided by separate agreement, the compensation, if any, of officers or any salaried employee shall be fixed, increased, or decreased from time to time by the Board of Managers, provided, however, that the Board of Managers may by resolution delegate to any one or more officers of the Company the authority to fix such compensation.

6.06 Chairman of the Board . The Chairman of the Board, if any, shall be an officer of the Company and, subject to the direction of the Board of Managers, shall perform such executive, supervisory, and management functions and duties as may be assigned to him from time to time by the Board of Managers.

6.07 President, CEO and COO . The Board of Managers may designate and appoint a President, CEO and/or COO, with rights, duties and responsibilities established by the Board of Managers.

6.08 Vice Presidents . Each Vice President shall have such powers and duties as may be prescribed from time to time by the Board of Managers or as may be delegated from time to time by the President and (in the order as designated by the Board of Managers, or in the absence of such designation, as determined by the length of time each has held the office of Vice President continuously) shall exercise the powers of the President during that officer's absence or inability to act.

6.09 Treasurer . The Treasurer shall have custody of the Company's funds and securities, shall keep full and accurate accounts of receipts and disbursements, and shall deposit all moneys and valuable effects in the name and to the credit of the Company in such depository or depositories as may be designated by the Board of Managers. The Treasurer shall audit all payrolls and vouchers of the Company; shall receive, audit, and consolidate all operating and financial statements of the Company and its various departments; shall supervise the accounting and auditing practices of the Company; and shall have charge of matters relating to taxation. Additionally, the Treasurer shall have the power to endorse for deposit, collection, or otherwise all checks, drafts, notes, bills of exchange, and other commercial paper payable to the Company and to give proper receipts and discharges for all payments to the Company. The Treasurer shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed from time to time by the Board of Managers or as may be delegated from time to time by the President.

6.10 Assistant Treasurers . Each Assistant Treasurer shall perform such duties as may be prescribed from time to time by the Board of Managers or as may be delegated from time to time by the President. The Assistant Treasurers (in the order as designated by the Board of Managers or, in the absence of such designation, as determined by the length of time each has held the office of Assistant Treasurer continuously) shall exercise the powers of the Treasurer.

6.11 Secretary . The Secretary shall maintain minutes of all meetings of the Board of Managers, of any committee, and of the Members, or consents in lieu of such minutes, in the Company's minute books, and shall cause notice of such meetings to be given when requested by any person authorized to call such meetings. The Secretary may sign with the President, in the name of the Company, all contracts of the Company and affix the seal of the Company thereto. The Secretary shall have charge of the certificate books, membership interest transfer books, and other documents as the Board of Managers may direct, all of which shall at all reasonable times be open to inspection by any Manager at the office of the Company during normal business hours. The Secretary shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed from time to time by the Board of Managers or as may be delegated from time to time by the President.

6.12 Assistant Secretaries . Each Assistant Secretary shall perform such duties as may be prescribed from time to time by the Board of Managers or as may be delegated from time to time by the President. The Assistant Secretaries (in the order designated by the Board of Managers or, in the absence of such designation, as determined by the length of time each has held the office of Assistant Secretary continuously) shall exercise the powers of the Secretary during that officer's absence or inability to act.

ARTICLE VII

CAPITALIZATION AND CAPITAL ACCOUNTS

7.01 Capital Contributions . The Capital Contributions of the Members, as set forth in the books and records of the Company, shall be paid or transferred to the Company in cash and/or property on the terms and in the manner specified by the Board of Managers. No Member shall be entitled to make any additional Capital Contributions except as provided in Section 7.02 and 7.03 below.

7.02 Additional Capital Contributions . If the Board of Managers determine that additional capital is required for the purposes of the Company, as set forth herein, the Board of Managers may notify the Members of the need for such additional capital and shall state the specific purposes for which the call for such additional capital is being made. Thereupon, all Members shall have the right (but not the obligation) to make additional Capital Contributions in cash and/or property to the Company aggregating the amount of additional capital needed by the Company in the proportion of their respective Percentage Interests in the Company at the time notice is given. The Board of Managers shall use the additional capital so contributed solely for the purposes stated in the notice to the Members.

7.03 Failure to Make Additional Capital Contributions . If any Member chooses not to contribute its share of the additional capital needed by the Company within 14 days after notice is given to the Members of the need for such additional capital (a "Non-Contributing Member"), then the other Members shall be entitled (but not obligated) to contribute the share of such Non-Contributing Member (such Members being referred to as "Contributing Members") of the additional capital needed pro rata according to such Contributing Members' Percentage Interests at such time or such other share as otherwise agreed upon by the Contributing Members.

7.04 Effect of Failure to Make Additional Capital Contributions . In the event of a Non-Contributing Member, the Percentage Interests of all of the Members shall be recomputed on the following basis: Each Member's Percentage Interest immediately following the computation shall equal the percentage expression of a fraction, the numerator of which is the total Capital Contributions of such Member plus the additional Capital Contribution, if any, made by such Member pursuant to Sections 7.02 and 7.03 above, and the denominator of which is the total Capital Contributions of all of the Members plus the additional Capital Contributions made by all of the Members pursuant to Sections 7.02 and 7.03 above.

7.05 Recapitalization by Admission of Additional Members . If additional capital is required for the purposes of the Company as set forth herein and the Board of Managers is unable to finance such capital needs by borrowing the required amounts or through notice to the existing Members of the necessity for additional Capital Contributions as provided in Section 7.02 and 7.03 above, the Board of Managers shall have the right to admit additional Members to the Company, upon receiving the other approvals required herein. Following the admission of one or more new Members, the Percentage Interest of each Member, including the newly admitted Member(s), shall be computed as follows: Each Member's Percentage Interest immediately following the computation shall equal the percentage expression of a fraction, the numerator of which is the total Capital Contributions of such Member and the denominator of which is the total Capital Contributions of all of the Members, including the newly admitted Members.

7.06 Maintenance of Capital Accounts . The Company shall maintain for each Member a separate Capital Account in accordance with this Section 7.06, which shall control the allocation of Profits and Losses and the division of assets upon liquidation of the Company as provided in Section 12.01. Each Capital Account shall be maintained in accordance with the following provisions:

(a) a Member's Capital Account shall initially be zero and shall be increased by the cash amount or Book Value of any property contributed by such Member to the Company pursuant to this Agreement, such Member's allocable share of Profits and any items in the nature of income or gains that are specially allocated to such Member pursuant to Section 8.02 and Section 8.03 hereof, and the amount of any Company liabilities assumed by such Member or which are secured by any property distributed to such Member;

(b) such Capital Account shall be decreased by the cash amount or Book Value of any property distributed to such Member pursuant to this Agreement, such Member's allocable share of Losses and any items in the nature of deductions or losses that are specially allocated to such Member pursuant to Section 8.02 and Section 8.03 hereof, and the amount of any liabilities of the Member assumed by the Company or which are secured by any property contributed by such Member to the Company; and

(c) if all or a portion of an Interest in the Company is Transferred in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, the transferee shall succeed to the Capital Account of the transferor to the extent it relates to the transferred Interest, provided, however, that if the Transfer causes a termination of the Company under Code Section 708(b)(1)(B), the assets of the Company shall be deemed to have been distributed to the Members (including the transferee of the Interest) in liquidation of the Company and recontributed by such Members and transferees in reconstitution of the Company. Such deemed liquidation and reconstitution shall not cause the Company to be dissolved and/or reconstituted for purposes other than maintenance of the Capital Accounts and federal income tax.

The foregoing provisions and the other provisions of this Agreement relating to the maintenance of Capital Accounts are intended to comply with Section 1.704-1(b) of the Treasury Regulations and shall be interpreted and applied in a manner consistent with such Treasury Regulations. If the Board of Managers determines that it is prudent to modify the manner in which the Capital Accounts, or any increases or decreases to the Capital Accounts, are computed in order to comply with such Treasury Regulations, the Board of Managers may authorize such modifications, provided that it is not likely to have a material effect on the amounts distributable to any Member pursuant to Sections 8.06 and 12.01 hereof.

7.07 Negative Capital Accounts . If any Member has a deficit balance in its Capital Account, such Member shall have no obligation to restore such negative balance or to make any Capital Contribution to the Company by reason thereof, and such negative balance shall not be considered an asset of the Company or of any Member.

7.08 Interest . No interest shall be paid by the Company on Capital Contributions or on balances in Capital Accounts.

7.09 No Withdrawal . No Member shall be entitled to withdraw any part of his Capital Contribution or his Capital Account or to receive any distribution from the Company, except as provided in Sections 11.02 and 12.01 of this Agreement.

7.10 Loans From Members . Loans by a Member to the Company shall not be considered Capital Contributions.

ARTICLE VIII

ALLOCATIONS AND DISTRIBUTIONS

8.01 Allocation of Profits and Losses.

(a) Allocation of Profits. Except as provided on any Exhibit hereto, after giving effect to the allocations set forth in Section 8.02 and Section 8.03, and after giving effect to all distributions of cash or property (other than cash or property to be distributed pursuant to Section 12.01), Profits for any Fiscal Year shall be allocated to the Members in the following manner:

(i) first, to each Member with a negative balance in its Capital Account, pro rata in accordance with such negative Capital Account balances, until such negative Capital Account balances have been eliminated;

(ii) next, to all of the Members in accordance with their respective Percentage Interests.

(b) Allocation of Losses. Except as provided in any Exhibit hereto, after giving effect to the allocations set forth in Section 8.02 and Section 8.03, Losses for any Fiscal Year shall be allocated to the Members in the following manner:

(i) to all of the Members in accordance with their respective Percentage Interests.

8.02 Special Allocations of Profits and Losses .

(a) Minimum Gain Chargeback–Company Nonrecourse Liabilities. If there is a net decrease in Company minimum gain during any Fiscal Year, certain items of income and gain shall be allocated (on a gross basis) to the Members in the amounts and manner described in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(f) and (j)(2)(i) and (ii), subject to the exemptions set forth in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(f)(2), (3), (4) and (5). This Section 8.02(a) is intended to comply with the minimum gain chargeback requirement set forth in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(f) relating to Company nonrecourse liabilities, as defined in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(b)(3) and shall be so interpreted.

(b) Minimum Gain Chargeback–Member Nonrecourse Debt. If there is a net decrease in Member minimum gain during any Fiscal Year, certain items of income and gain shall be allocated (on a gross basis) as quickly as possible to those Members who had a share of the Member minimum gain determined pursuant to Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(i)(5) in the amounts and manner described in Treasury Regulations Sections 1.704-2(i)(4), (j)(2)(ii), and (j)(2)(iii). This Section 8.02(b) is intended to comply with the minimum gain chargeback requirement set forth in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(i)(4) relating to Member nonrecourse debt, as defined in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(b)(4) and shall be so interpreted.

(c) Qualified Income Offset. If, after applying Section 8.02(a) and Section 8.02(b), any Member has an adjusted Capital Account deficit, items of Company income and gain shall be specially allocated (on a gross basis) to each such Member in an amount and manner sufficient to eliminate the adjusted Capital Account deficit of such Member as quickly as possible. This Section 8.02(c) is intended to comply with the "qualified income offset" requirement set for the in Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(ii)(d) and shall be so interpreted.

(d) Optional Basis Adjustments. To the extent an adjustment to the adjusted tax basis of any Company asset pursuant to Code Sections 734(b) or 743(b) is required, pursuant to Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-1(b)(2)(iv)(m), to be taken in to account in determining Capital Accounts, the amount of such adjustment to the Capital Accounts shall be treated as an item of gain (if the adjustment increases the basis of the asset) or loss (if the adjustment decreases such basis) and such gain or loss shall be specially allocated to the Members in a manner consistent with the manner in which their Capital Accounts are required to be adjusted pursuant to such Section of the Treasury Regulations.

(f) Partner Nonrecourse Deductions. Partner Nonrecourse Deductions shall be allocated pursuant to Treasury Regulations Section 1.704-2(b)(4) and (i)(1) to the Member who bears the economic risk of loss with respect to such deductions.

8.03 Curative Allocations . The Regulatory Allocations are intended to comply with certain requirements of the Treasury Regulations. It is the intent of the Members that, to the extent possible, all Regulatory Allocations shall be offset either with other Regulatory Allocations or with special allocations of other items of Company income, gain, loss, or deduction pursuant to this Section 8.03. Therefore, notwithstanding any other provisions of this Article VIII, the Board of Managers shall make such offsetting special allocations of Company income, gain, loss, or deduction in whatever manner it determines appropriate so that, after such offsetting allocations are made, each Member's Capital Account balance is, to the extent possible, equal to the Capital Account balance such Member would have had if the Regulatory Allocations were not part of the Agreement and all Company items were allocated pursuant to Section 8.01(a) and Section 8.01(b) hereof.

8.04 Tax Allocations: Code Section 704(c) .

(a) In accordance with Code Section 704(c) and the Treasury Regulations thereunder, income, gain, loss, and deduction with respect to any property contributed to the capital of the Company shall, solely for federal income tax purposes, be allocated among the Members so as to take account of any variation between the adjusted basis of such property to the Company for federal income tax purposes and its initial Book Value.

(b) If the Book Value of any Company asset is adjusted pursuant to Section 1.04(e)(ii) hereof, subsequent allocations of income, gain, loss, and deduction with respect to such asset shall take account of any variation between the adjusted basis of such asset for federal income tax purposes and its Book Value in the same manner as under Code Section 704(c) and the Treasury Regulations thereunder.

(c) Any elections or other decisions relating to such allocation shall be made by the Board of Managers. Allocations pursuant to this Section 8.04 are solely for purposes of federal, state, and local taxes and shall not affect or in any way be taken into account in computing any Member's Capital Account, or share of Profits, Losses, and other items or distribution pursuant to any provision of this Agreement.

8.05 Other Allocation Rules .

(a) For purposes of determining the Profits, Losses, or any other item allocable to any period, Profits, Losses, and any such other item shall be determined on a daily, monthly, or other basis, as determined by the Board of Managers using any permissible method under Code Section 706 and the Treasury Regulations thereunder.

(b) For federal income tax purposes, every item of income, gain, loss, and deduction shall be allocated among the Members in accordance with the allocations under Sections 8.01, 8.02, 8.03, and 8.04.

(c) The Members are aware of the income tax consequences of the allocations made by this Article VIII and hereby agree to be bound by the provisions of this Article VIII in reporting their shares of Company income and loss for income tax purposes.

(d) It is intended that the allocations in Sections 8.01, 8.02, 8.03, and 8.04 hereof effect an allocation for federal income tax purposes consistent with Section 704 of the Code and comply with any limitations or restrictions therein.

8.06 Distributions of Distributable Cash . Except as otherwise may be provided in this Agreement, the Board of Managers shall cause the Company to make distributions of Distributable Cash at such intervals and in such amounts as the Board of Managers in its sole discretion shall determine by majority vote. Distributions of Distributable Cash shall be made to all of the Members in accordance with their respective Percentage Interests.

8.07 Working Cash Reserve . The Board of Managers may from time to time establish a working cash reserve for capital expenditures, unforeseen contingencies, projected operating deficits, and other corporate purposes and may increase or decrease the amount in such reserve in its business judgment.

ARTICLE IX

CERTIFICATES

9.01 Certificated and Uncertificated Interests. The membership interests of the Company may be either certificated interests or uncertificated interests. As used herein, the term "certificated interests" means Interests represented by instruments in bearer or registered form, and the term "uncertificated interests" means Interests not represented by such instruments and the transfers of which are registered upon books maintained for that purpose by or on behalf of the Company.

9.02 Certificates for Certificated Interests . The certificates for certificated interests shall be in such form as shall be approved by the Board of Managers in conformity with law. The certificates shall be consecutively numbered, shall be entered as they are issued in the books of the Company or in the records of the Company's designated transfer agent, if any, and shall state the Member's name, the class of Interests, the Percentage Interest that such Interest represents, and such other matters as may be required by law. The certificates shall be signed by the President or any Vice President and also by the Secretary, an Assistant Secretary, or any other officer, and may be sealed with the seal of the Company or a facsimile thereof. If any certificate is countersigned by a transfer agent or registered by a registrar, either of which is other than the Company itself or an employee of the Company, the signatures of the foregoing officers may be a facsimile.

9.03 Lost, Stolen, or Destroyed Certificates . The Company shall issue a new certificate in place of any certificate for Interests previously issued if the registered owner of the certificate satisfies the following requirements:

(a) the registered owner makes proof in affidavit form that a previously issued certificate for Interests has been lost, destroyed, or stolen;

(b) the registered owner requests the issuance of a new certificate before the Company has notice that the certificate has been acquired by a purchaser for value in good faith and without notice of an adverse claim;

(c) the registered owner gives a bond in such form, and with such surety or sureties, with fixed or open penalty, as the Board of Managers may direct, in its discretion, to indemnify the Company (and its transfer agent and registrar, if any) against any claim that may be made on account of the alleged loss, destruction, or theft of the certificate; and

(d) the registered owner satisfies any other reasonable requirements imposed by the Board of Managers.

When a certificate has been lost, destroyed, or stolen and the Member of record fails to notify the Company within a reasonable time after he has notice of it, if the Company registers a transfer of the Interests represented by the certificate before receiving such notification, the Member of record is precluded from making any claim against the Company for the transfer or for a new certificate.

9.04 Transfer of Interests . Interests of the Company shall be transferable only on the books of the Company by the Members thereof in person or by their duly authorized attorneys or legal representatives, but only as authorized in this COMPANY AGREEMENT. With respect to certificated interests, upon surrender to the Company or the transfer agent of the Company of a certificate representing Interests duly endorsed or accompanied by proper evidence of succession, assignment, or authority to transfer, the Company or its agent shall issue a new certificate to the person entitled thereto, cancel the old certificate, and record the transaction upon its books. With respect to uncertificated interests, upon delivery to the Company of proper evidence of succession, assignment, or authority to transfer, the Company or its agent shall record the transaction upon its books.

9.05 Registered Members . The Company shall be entitled to treat the Member of record as the Member in fact of any Interests and, accordingly, shall not be bound to recognize any equitable or other claim to or interest in such Interests on the part of any other Person, whether or not it shall have actual or other notice thereof, except as otherwise provided by law.

9.06 Legends . If the Company is authorized to issue Interests of more than one class, each certificate representing Interests issued by the Company (a) shall conspicuously set forth on the face or back of the certificate a full statement of all of the designations, preferences, limitations, and relative rights of the Interests of each class authorized to be issued; or (b) shall conspicuously state on the face or back of the certificate that (i) such a statement is set forth in the Certificate on file in the office of the Secretary of State or in this Agreement; and (ii) the Company will furnish a copy of such statements to the record holder of the certificate without charge on written request to the Company at its principal place of business or registered office.

If the Company issues any Interests that are not registered under the Securities Act of 1933, the transfer of any such interests shall be restricted in accordance with an appropriate legend.

In the event any restriction on the transfer, or registration of the transfer, of Interests shall be imposed or agreed to by the Company, each certificate representing Interests so restricted (a) shall conspicuously set forth a full or summary statement of the restriction on the face of the certificate; (b) shall set forth such statement on the back of the certificate and conspicuously refer to the same on the face of the certificate; or (c) shall conspicuously state on the face or back of the certificate that such a restriction exists pursuant to a specified document and (i) that the Company will furnish to the record holder of the certificate without charge upon written request to the Company at its principal place of business or registered office a copy of the specified document; or (ii) if such document is one required or permitted by law to be and has been filed, that such specified document is on file in the office of the Secretary of State and contains a full statement of such restriction.

ARTICLE X

10.01 Records and Accounting . The books and records of the Company shall be kept, and the financial position and the results of its operations recorded, in accordance with the accounting methods elected to be followed by the Company for federal income tax purposes. The Company shall prepare, within 120 days after the end of each Fiscal Year, a financial report of the Company for such Fiscal Year, containing a statement of the year then ended, a statement of sources and applications of funds, and a statement of reconciliation of the Capital Accounts of the Members.

10.04 Accounting Decisions . All decisions as to accounting matters, except as otherwise specifically set forth herein, shall be made by the Board of Managers. The Members may rely upon the advice of their accountants as to whether such decisions are in accordance with accounting methods followed for federal income tax purposes.

10.05 Federal Income Tax Elections . The Company may make all elections for federal income tax purposes, including, but not limited to, the following:

(a) to the extent permitted by applicable law and regulations, the election to use an accelerated depreciation method on any depreciable unit of the assets of the Company; and

(b) in case of a transfer of all or part of the Interest of any Member, the election pursuant to Section 734, 743, and 754 of the Code, as amended (or corresponding provisions of future law) to adjust the basis of the assets of the Company.

ARTICLE XI

CHANGES IN MEMBERS

The provisions of this Article XI are subject to, and may be superceded by, one or more separate agreements entered into by and among one or more Members. The provisions of this Article XI shall continue to control with respect to matters not covered by, or Members not parties to, such agreement(s).

11.01 Intentionally Blank .

11.02 Transfer and Assignment of Members' Interest . Except as approved by the Manager, plus a Member or Members owning a Percentage Interest greater than fifty percent (50%), no Member shall be entitled to Transfer any part of its Interest in the Company. The Company and, if applicable, the remaining Members shall be entitled to match the terms of the proposed Transfer, with consideration being only set forth in traditional monetary terms. If the Company and the remaining Members fail to match the proposed Transfer with regard to the purchase of the entire Interest, or portion thereof, the Member proposing to make the Transfer may move forward with the proposed Transfer. Transfers in violation of this Section 11.02 shall be effective only to the extent set forth in Section 11.05(b) hereof.

11.03 Further Restrictions on Transfer . No Member shall Transfer any part of his Interest in the Company: (i) without registration under applicable federal and state securities laws, or unless he delivers an opinion of counsel satisfactory to the Company that registration under such laws is not required; or (ii) if the Interest to be sold or exchanged, when added to the total of all other Interests to be sold or exchanged in the preceding 12 consecutive months prior thereto, would result in the termination of the Company under Code Section 708.

11.04 Substitute Members . A transferee shall have the right to become a substitute Member if (a) the requirements of Section 11.02 and 11.03 hereof are met; (b) such person executes an instrument satisfactory to the remaining Members accepting and adopting the terms and provisions of this Agreement; and (c) such person pays any reasonable expenses in connection with his or her admission as a Member.

11.05 Effect of Transfer .

(a) Any permitted Transfer of all or any portion of a Member's Interest in the Company will take effect on the first day of the month following receipt by the Members of written notice of Transfer. Any transferee of an Interest in the Company shall take subject to the restrictions on Transfer imposed by this Agreement.

(b) Upon any Transfer of a Member's Interest in the Company in violation of this Agreement, and if such Member's Interest is not purchased pursuant to Section 11.01, the transferee shall have no right to participate in the management of the business and affairs of the Company or to become a Member, but such transferee shall be entitled to receive only the allocable share of Profits, Losses, Distributive Cash, and other items to which the transferor of such Interest in the Company would otherwise be entitled.

11.06 No Dissolution or Withdrawal: Advanced Consent . Upon the occurrence of a Dissolution Event with regard to a respective Member, all remaining Members shall be deemed to automatically consent to the continuation of the business of the Company. By executing this Agreement, however, all Members hereby consent that they shall not voluntarily cause a Dissolution Event or demand the return of Member's capital. If any Member shall breach the agreement represented by this Section 11.06, the agreement of such breaching Member shall not be specifically performable, but shall be actionable for damages, and shall be deemed an offer of the Interest of such breaching Member for sale pursuant hereto. The parties agree that a reasonable approximation of the damage that the Company shall experience due to breach hereof is 20% of the value of the breaching Member's Interest, or as otherwise set forth herein (whichever is greater), which shall be deducted from any payments to such Member upon dissolution or purchase of such Member's Interest hereunder. The value of the breaching Member's Interest shall be determined pursuant to Section 11.01, to which value the said discount may then be applied in determining payments due to the breaching Member pursuant to the deemed offer of sale occurring under this Section 11.06.

ARTICLE XII

TERMINATION

12.01 Termination of the Company .

(iii) the expiration of the Company’s term as stated in its Certificate; or

(iv) at such earlier time as provided by applicable law.

(b) In settling accounts of the Company after dissolution, the liabilities of the Company shall be entitled to payment and the assets of the Company remaining thereafter shall be distributed to the Members in the following order, all as required by the DELAWARE LAWS:

(ii) to the Members, pro rata, in accordance with the positive balances, if any, in their Capital Accounts; and

(iii) to the Members in proportion to their relative Percentage Interests.

ARTICLE XIII

INDEMNIFICATION

13.01 Indemnification of Members, Managers, and Other Persons .

(a) To the greatest extent not inconsistent with the laws and public policies of Delaware, the Company shall indemnify any Member, Manager, or officer of the Company made a party to any proceeding because such individual is or was a Member, Manager, or officer of the Company (an "Indemnitee"), as a matter of right, against all liability incurred by such individual in connection with any proceeding; provided that it shall be determined in the specific case in accordance with subsection (d) of this Section 13.01 that indemnification of such individual is permissible in the circumstances because the individual has met the standard of conduct for indemnification set forth in subsection (c) of this Section 13.01. The Company shall advance, pay for, or reimburse the reasonable expenses incurred by an Indemnitee in connection with any such proceeding in advance of final disposition thereof if (i) the Indemnitee furnishes the Company a written affirmation of the Indemnitee's good faith belief that he or she has met the standard of conduct for indemnification described in subsection (c) of this Section 13.01; (ii) the Indemnitee furnishes the Company a written undertaking, executed personally or on such Indemnitee's behalf, to repay the advance if it is ultimately determined that such individual did not meet such standard of conduct; and (iii) a determination is made in accordance with subsection (d) that based upon facts then known to those making the determination, indemnification would not be precluded under this Section 13.01. The undertaking described in subsection (a)(ii) above must be a general obligation of the Indemnitee, subject to such reasonable limitations as the Company may permit, but need not be secured and may be accepted without reference to financial ability to make repayment. The Company shall indemnify an Indemnitee who is wholly successful, on the merits or otherwise, in the defense of any such proceeding, as a matter of right, against reasonable expenses incurred by the individual in connection with the proceeding without the requirement of a determination as set forth in subsection (c) of this Section 13.01. Upon demand by an Indemnitee for indemnification or advancement of expenses, as the case may be, the Company shall expeditiously determine whether the Indemnitee is entitled thereto in accordance with this Section 13.01. The indemnification and advancement of expenses provided for under this Section 13.01 shall be applicable to any proceeding arising from acts or omissions occurring before or after the adoption of this Section 13.01.

(b) The Company shall have the power, but not the obligation, to indemnify any individual who is or was an employee or agent of the Company to the same extent as if such individual was a Member, Manager, or officer of the Company.

(c) Indemnification is permissible under this Section 13.01 only if (i) the Indemnitee conducted himself in good faith; (ii) he or she reasonably believed that his conduct was in, or at least not opposed to, the Company's best interest; (iii) in the case of any criminal proceeding, he or she had no reasonable cause to believe his conduct was unlawful; and (iv) such Indemnitee is not adjudged in any such proceeding to be liable for gross negligence or willful misconduct in the performance of duty. The termination of a proceeding by judgment, order, settlement, conviction, or upon a plea of nolo contendere or its equivalent is not, of itself, determinative that the Indemnitee did not meet the standard of conduct described in this subsection (c).

(d) A determination as to whether indemnification or advancement of expenses is permissible shall be made by any one of the following procedures:

(i) by the Board of Managers or by a majority vote consisting of Members not at the time parties to the proceeding; or

(ii) by special legal counsel selected by the Members in the manner prescribed in subsection (d)(i) above.

(e) An Indemnitee of the Company who is a party to a proceeding may apply for indemnification from the Company to the court, if any, conducting the proceeding or to another court of competent jurisdiction. On receipt of an application, the court, after giving notice the court considers necessary, may order indemnification if it determines:

(i) in a proceeding in which the Indemnitee is wholly successful, on the merits or otherwise, the Indemnitee is entitled to indemnification under this Section 13.01, in which case the court shall order the Company to pay the Indemnitee his or her reasonable expenses incurred to obtain such court ordered indemnification; or

(ii) the Indemnitee is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnification in view of all the relevant circumstances, whether or not the Indemnitee met the standard of conduct set forth in subsection (c) of this Section 13.01.

(f) Indemnification shall also be provided for an Indemnitee's conduct with respect to an employee benefit plan if the individual reasonably believed his or her conduct to be in the interests of the participants in and beneficiaries of plan.

(g) Nothing contained in this Section 13.01 shall limit or preclude the exercise or be deemed exclusive of any right under the law, by contract or otherwise, relating to indemnification of or advancement of expenses to any individual who is or was a Member, Manager, or officer of the Company or is or was serving at the Company's request as a director, officer, partner, manager, trustee, employee, or agent of another foreign or domestic company, partnership, association, limited liability company, corporation, joint venture, trust, employee benefit plan, or other enterprise, whether for profit or not. Nothing contained in this Section 13.01 shall limit the ability of the Company to otherwise indemnify or advance expenses to any individual. It is the intent of this Section 13.01 to provide indemnification to Indemnitees to the fullest extent now or hereafter permitted by the law consistent with the terms and conditions of this Section 13.01. Indemnification shall be provided in accordance with this Section 13.01 irrespective of the nature of the legal or equitable theory upon which a claim is made, including, without limitation, negligence, breach of duty, mismanagement, waste, breach of contract, breach of warranty, strict liability, violation of federal or state securities law, violation of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended, or violation of any other state or federal law.

(h) For purposes of this Section 13.01:

(i) The term "expenses" includes all direct and indirect costs (including, without limitation, counsel fees, retainers, court costs, transcripts, fees of experts, witness fees, travel expenses, duplicating costs, printing and binding costs, telephone charges, postage, delivery service fees, and all other disbursements or out-of-pocket expenses) actually incurred in connection with the investigation, defense, settlement, or appeal of a proceeding or establishing or enforcing a right to indemnification under this Section 13.01, applicable law, or otherwise.

(ii) The term "liability" means the obligation to pay a judgment, settlement, penalty, fine, excise tax (including an excise tax assessed with respect to an employee benefit plan), or reasonable expenses incurred with respect to a proceeding.

(iii) The term "party" includes an individual who was, is, or is threatened to be made a named defendant or respondent in a proceeding.

(iv) The term "proceeding" means any threatened, pending, or completed action, suit or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative, or investigative and whether formal or informal.

(v) The Company may purchase and maintain insurance for its benefit, the benefit of any individual who is entitled to indemnification under this Section 13.01, or both, against any liability asserted against or incurred by such individual in any capacity or arising out of such individual's service with the Company, whether or not the Company would have the power to indemnify such individual against such liability.

At such meeting, the Members shall elect Managers and transact such other business as may properly be brought before the meeting.

2.03 Special Meetings A special meeting of the Members may be called at any time by the President, the Board of Managers, or one or more Members whose Percentage Interests total at least 10%. Only such business shall be transacted at a special meeting as may be stated or indicated in the notice of such meeting.

2.04 Place of Meetings The annual meeting of Members may be held at any place within or without the State of Delaware as may be designated by the Board of Managers. Special meetings of Members may be held at any place within or without the State of Delaware as may be designated by the person or persons calling such special meeting as provided in Section 2.03. If no place for a meeting is designated, it shall be held at the registered office of the Company.

2.05 Notice. Written or printed notice stating the place, day, and hour of each meeting of Members and, in case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called, shall be delivered not less than 10 days or more than 50 days before the date of the meeting, either personally or by mail, by or at the direction of the President, the Secretary, or the person calling the meeting, to each Member of record entitled to vote at such meeting.

2.06 Voting List At least 10 days before each meeting of Members, the Secretary shall prepare a complete list of Members entitled to vote at such meeting, arranged in alphabetical order, including the address of each Member and the number of voting Interests held by each Member. For a period of 10 days prior to such meeting, such list shall be kept on file at the registered office of the Company and shall be subject to inspection by any Member during usual business hours. Such list shall be produced at such meeting, and at all times during such meeting shall be subject to inspection by any Member. 2.07 Voting of Interests. Interests held by the Company in treasury, Interests owned by a Person the majority of the voting interests of which are owned or controlled by the Company, and Interests held by the Company in a fiduciary capacity shall not be Interests entitled to vote or to be counted in determining the total number of outstanding Interests of the Company. Interests held by an administrator, executor, guardian, or conservator may be voted by him or her, either in person or by proxy, without transfer of such Interests into his or her name so long as such Interests form a part of the estate and are in the possession of the estate being served by him or her. Interests standing in the name of a trustee may be voted by him or her, either in person or by proxy, only after the Interests have been transferred into his or her name as trustee. Interests standing in the name of a receiver may be voted by such receiver, and Interests held by or under the control of a receiver may be voted by such receiver without transfer of such Interests into his or her name if authority to do so is contained in the court order by which such receiver was appointed. 2.09 Vote; Withdrawal of Quorum. If a quorum is present in person or represented by proxy at any meeting, except as otherwise may be provided in Exhibit A or Exhibit B, the vote of one or more Members whose Percentage Interests total more than fifty percent (50%) of all Members, whether or not they are present in person or represented by proxy, shall decide any question brought before such meeting, unless the question is one on which, by express provision of law, the Certificate, or this Agreement a different vote is required, in which event such express provision shall govern and control the decision of such question. The Members present at a duly convened meeting may continue to transact business until adjournment, notwithstanding any withdrawal of Members that may leave less than a quorum remaining.

2.10 Method of Voting; Proxies. Except as otherwise may be provided in Exhibit A or Exhibit B, each Member shall be entitled to that number of votes on each matter submitted to the Members for their vote equal to such Member's Percentage Interest multiplied by 100. Each such proxy shall be filed with the Secretary of the Company before or at the time of the meeting. No proxy shall be valid after 11 months from the date of its execution, unless otherwise provided in the proxy. If no date is stated on a proxy, such proxy shall be presumed to have been executed on the date of the meeting at which it is to be voted. Each proxy shall be revocable unless expressly provided therein to be irrevocable or unless otherwise made irrevocable by law.

2.11 Closing of Transfer Books; Record Date . If the membership interest transfer books are closed for the purpose of determining Members entitled to notice of, or to vote at, a meeting of Members, such books shall be closed for at least 10 days immediately preceding such meeting. In lieu of closing the membership interest transfer books, the Board of Managers may fix in advance a date as the record date for any such determination of Members, such date in any case to be not more than 50 days and not less than 10 days prior to the date on which the particular action requiring such determination of Members is to be taken. If the membership interest transfer books are not closed and if no record date is fixed for the determination of Members entitled to notice of, or to vote at, a meeting of Members or entitled to receive payment of a distribution, the date on which the notice of the meeting is to be mailed or the date on which the resolution of the Board of Managers declaring such distribution is adopted, as the case may be, shall be the record date for such determination of Members.

2.12 Presiding Officials at Meetings The President shall preside at, and the Secretary shall prepare minutes of, each meeting of Members, and in the absence of either such officer, his other duties shall be performed by some person appointed at the meeting.

The Board of Managers shall use the additional capital so contributed solely for the purposes stated in the notice to the Members.

7.03 Failure to Make Additional Capital Contributions . If any Member chooses not to contribute its share of the additional capital needed by the Company within 14 days after notice is given to the Members of the need for such additional capital (a "Non-Contributing Member"), then the other Members shall be entitled (but not obligated) to contribute the share of such Non-Contributing Member (such Members being referred to as "Contributing Members") of the additional capital needed pro rata according to such Contributing Members' Percentage Interests at such time or such other share as otherwise agreed upon by the Contributing Members.

7.04 Effect of Failure to Make Additional Capital Contributions . In the event of a Non-Contributing Member, the Percentage Interests of all of the Members shall be recomputed on the following basis: Each Member's Percentage Interest immediately following the computation shall equal the percentage expression of a fraction, the numerator of which is the total Capital Contributions of such Member plus the additional Capital Contribution, if any, made by such Member pursuant to Sections 7.02 and 7.03 above, and the denominator of which is the total Capital Contributions of all of the Members plus the additional Capital Contributions made by all of the Members pursuant to Sections 7.02 and 7.03 above.

If additional capital is required for the purposes of the Company as set forth herein and the Board of Managers is unable to finance such capital needs by borrowing the required amounts or through notice to the existing Members of the necessity for additional Capital Contributions as provided in Section 7.02 and 7.03 above, the Board of Managers shall have the right to admit additional Members to the Company, upon receiving the other approvals required herein. (c) if all or a portion of an Interest in the Company is Transferred in accordance with the terms of this Agreement, the transferee shall succeed to the Capital Account of the transferor to the extent it relates to the transferred Interest, provided, however, that if the Transfer causes a termination of the Company under Code Section 708(b)(1)(B), the assets of the Company shall be deemed to have been distributed to the Members (including the transferee of the Interest) in liquidation of the Company and recontributed by such Members and transferees in reconstitution of the Company. Such deemed liquidation and reconstitution shall not cause the Company to be dissolved and/or reconstituted for purposes other than maintenance of the Capital Accounts and federal income tax.

7.07 Negative Capital Accounts . If any Member has a deficit balance in its Capital Account, such Member shall have no obligation to restore such negative balance or to make any Capital Contribution to the Company by reason thereof, and such negative balance shall not be considered an asset of the Company or of any Member.
