Sidley team,
Thank you for sending. Penny had mentioned that this would be a rolling production—do you plan to produce any more documents in response to our request, or is this everything you plan to produce?

Thanks,
Heidi

Exhibit L

IN THE UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

In Re: NORTHWEST SENIOR HOUSING CORPORATION, et al.[1] Debtors.	Chapter 11 Case No. 22-30659 (MVL)
Northwest Senior Housing Corporation, et al. Edgemere, v. Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. and Kong Capital, LLC, Defendants.	Adv. Pro. No. 22-03040 (MVL)

PLAINTIFF'S OBJECTIONS AND RESPONSES TO DEFENDANTS' FIRST SET OF WRITTEN DISCOVERY

Plaintiff Northwest Senior Housing Corporation d/b/a The Edgemere ("Edgemere") submits the following objections and responses to Defendants' First Set of Written Discovery (the "Discovery Requests").

GENERAL OBJECTIONS

1. Edgemere will respond to the Discovery Requests in compliance with the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, and the Rules of this Court and will, to the extent possible, construe the Discovery Requests consistent with the ordinary use of the English language and the words used in the interrogatories and requests for production according to their usual and customary meaning. The information provided is based upon the information presently available to and known by Edgemere. Edgemere will supplement its responses if necessary consistent with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

2. Edgemere objects to the Discovery Requests to the extent they seek disclosure of communications, documents or other information that constitute communications between Edgemere and its attorneys or information protected from discovery by the common interest privilege or the work product doctrine. Edgemere responds to Discovery Requests assuming Defendants do not intend Edgemere to disclose any such communications, documents, or other information that implicates or may implicate any privilege or the work product doctrine.

3. Edgemere reserves all objections to the admissibility at trial of any information provided herein. The production of any information or identification or production of any document will not constitute an admission by Edgemere that such information or document is relevant to the pending litigation. Accordingly, Edgemere reserves the right to object to further inquiry with respect to the subject matter of any information or document provided. Discovery and trial preparation continue, and therefore Edgemere reserves the right to introduce any information or documents subsequently discovered and located and to assert additional information if necessary. Thus, to the extent consistent with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, the following responses are provided without prejudice to Edgemere's right to produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, of any subsequently discovered facts and/or documents.

4. Edgemere objects to the Discovery Requests to the extent they purport to create an obligation to provide information or identify or produce documents in a manner not required under the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure or other applicable law. Edgemere objects to any attempt to impose any greater obligation to collect documents or information beyond that imposed by law or regulation.

5. Edgemere objects to the Discovery Requests to the extent they are overly broad in and seek information or documents not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence or not germane to any claim or defense.

6. Edgemere objects to the Discovery Requests to the extent they impose an undue or disproportionate burden on Edgemere to the extent they seek information or documents already in Defendants' possession or that are publicly available.

7. In a good faith effort to comply with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure concerning discovery, and to err on the side of inclusiveness, Edgemere may provide information that falls within the purview of objections specifically stated herein or elsewhere. Such identification should not be deemed a waiver of these objections, and Edgemere expressly preserves each and every objection.

8. Unless otherwise defined herein, capitalized terms shall have the meanings ascribed thereto in Edgemere's adversary complaint (the "Complaint").

OBJECTIONS AND RESPONSES TO INTERROGATORIES

INTERROGATORY NO. 1: Identify any professionals You consulted, engaged, or otherwise hired to evaluate Your financials since June 1, 2020, including but not limited to the "professionals" described in paragraph 18 of the Complaint.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory as vague and ambiguous insofar as it seeks information regarding professional retained to "evaluate [Edgemere's] financials."

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that on or around February 1, 2021, it engaged FTI Consulting, through counsel, to assist with an analysis of various financial issues, including projected financial performance. Edgemere further states that it has consulted with attorneys at DLA Piper, Sidley Austin LLP, and Polsinelli PC regarding its financials.

INTERROGATORY NO. 2: Identify any and all terms of the Lease You allege are unenforceable or violate applicable law and when You became aware of the alleged issues.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, and although Edgemere's investigation continues, Edgemere states that sections 8.2 and 9.4 of the November 1999 Ground Lease (the "Lease") are unenforceable as a result of the parties' mutual mistake or are void as against Texas public policy because they would allow for Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. ("Intercity" or "ICI"), an entity not licensed to operate a Continuing Care Retirement Community in the State of Texas, to either assume Life Care Agreements of Edgemere residents, or allow Intercity to evict Edgemere residents from the Community and deny those residents refunds of the substantial entrance fees they previously paid. As alleged in the Complaint, Edgemere was not fully aware of the mutual mistake or the public policy concerns, including the legal impediments to Intercity assuming resident contracts, evicting residents, or retaining resident entrance fees, until September 2021, when Intercity sought to terminate the Lease and threatened to invoke the remedies described in sections 8.2 and 9.4 of the Lease and transition Edgemere to a different financial model and use. Though Edgemere's investigation continues, its investigation to date reveals that those issues may have come to light more generally as early as March 2021.

INTERROGATORY NO. 3: Identify any individuals who participated in discussions among You and Intercity, Lifespace, and/or UMB regarding the Lease.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere also objects because this interrogatory seeks information already in Defendants' possession or that is publicly available or equally available to Defendants as it is to Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. Subject to Edgemere's forthcoming document production, Edgemere states that the following people, among others, but excluding counsel, were involved in discussions about the lease among and between Edgemere, Intercity, Lifespace, and UMB:

- Jesse Jantzen, Lifespace CEO and Edgemere Chairman, President and CEO
- Nick Harshfield, Lifespace CFO and Edgemere Vice Chairman and Treasurer
- Eddie Fenoglio, Lifespace COO and Edgemere Secretary
- Members of the Edgemere Board of Directors
- Members of the Lifespace Board of Directors
- Chris Jordan, Intercity President

- Nick Hannon, Intercity Executive Vice President
- Irina Palchuk, UMB Senior Vice President
- Virginia Housum, UMB Senior Vice President

INTERROGATORY NO. 4: Identify any individuals or entities with whom You allege Intercity and/or Kong discussed Confidential Information.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory because it seeks information already in Defendants' possession or that Defendants are uniquely positioned to know.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. And although Edgemere's investigation continues, Edgemere further states Intercity and Kong Capital, LLC ("Kong") disclosed Edgemere's Confidential Information, or used Edgemere's Confidential Information to wrongfully compete with Edgemere in violation of the September 7, 2021 Confidentiality and Nondisclosure Agreement (the "NDA"), in conversations or communications with The Dallas Morning News, The Texas Department of Insurance, the Texas Attorney General's Office, The Edgemere Resident Board, and Edgemere residents Jim Smith and Charles and Hilda Simmons.

INTERROGATORY NO. 5: Identify: (a) any Confidential Information that Intercity and/or Kong allegedly shared in violation of the NDA and (b) any third-party with whom You shared the identified Confidential Information.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory because it seeks information already in Defendants' possession or that Defendants are uniquely positioned to know. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory insofar as it is duplicative, in part, to Interrogatory No. 4.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. And although Edgemere's investigation continues, Edgemere further states that Defendants disclosed Edgemere's Confidential Information consisting of forward-looking financial projections and related information, including the existence and details of Edgemere's restructuring efforts, or used those categories of confidential financial information to wrongfully compete with Edgemere in violation of the NDA. Edgemere further states that on April 17, 2022, Intercity filed in the Chapter 11 cases a confidential Operational and Financial Assessment prepared by FTI Consulting (the "FTI Report"), which Edgemere had previously provided to Intercity under the terms of the NDA (Dkt No. 61). The Dallas Morning News accessed and downloaded the publicly-filed confidential report and later published certain information from that report in a May 1, 2022 article in both print and online format where it remains available to the general public. Edgemere further states that none of the confidential materials disclosed to Defendants under the terms of the NDA had been previously disclosed to third parties not also subject to a non-disclosure agreement or covered by the attorney-client or common interest privileges.

INTERROGATORY NO. 6: Identify any steps that You took to address or remedy any alleged sharing of Confidential Information by Intercity and/or Kong.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory in that it seeks information beyond the scope of the Complaint and not germane to any claim or defense in this action.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. And although Edgemere's investigation continues, Edgemere further states that Intercity and its representative Kong, not Edgemere, had a contractual obligation under the NDA to remedy their violations of the NDA. Nevertheless, Edgemere's counsel notified Intercity's counsel on February 23, 2022 of Intercity's and Kong's violations of the NDA and demanded that Intercity and Kong cease and desist from any additional disclosure of Edgemere's Confidential Information and immediately take the actions required under the NDA to immediately remedy their violation of the NDA. In addition, Edgemere's executive team ceased all direct interaction with Intercity and Kong, including any further dissemination of Confidential Information to Intercity or Kong, at least as early as February 22, 2022. Edgemere then filed this Adversary proceeding seeking remedies for Intercity's and Kong's wrongful conduct. And after Defendants publicly filed the FTI Report in the Chapter 11 cases, Edgemere also demanded, in a May 10, 2022 letter from Edgemere's counsel to Intercity's counsel, that Intercity immediately cease and desist from further harmful disclosures of Edgemere's Confidential Information.

INTERROGATORY NO. 7: Identify any false statement that Intercity and/or Kong allegedly made concerning You.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory in that it seeks information beyond the scope of the Complaint and not germane to any claim or defense in this action.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, and although Edgemere's investigation continues, Edgemere states that Kong's statements to The Dallas Morning News regarding Edgemere's financial position, future viability, and approach to new resident entrance fees were false, misleading, and disparaging.

INTERROGATORY NO. 8: Identify all existing contracts with which Intercity and/or Kong allegedly interfered, including but not limited to any specific resident contracts.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory in that it seeks information beyond the scope of the Complaint and not germane to any claim or defense in this action. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory as vague and ambiguous because the word "interfere" is undefined. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. Subject to Edgemere's forthcoming document production, and although its investigation continues, Edgemere states that Intercity's and Kong's wrongful disclosure and misuse of Edgemere's Confidential Information interfered with contracts with Edgemere residents or otherwise improperly caused Edgemere residents to take actions damaging to Edgemere insofar as certain residents in Edgemere's Assisted Living area provided contractually required notice and moved out of the Edgemere Community.

INTERROGATORY NO. 9: Identify all prospective resident contracts with which Intercity and/or Kong allegedly interfered with and/or otherwise caused Edgemere to lose.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory insofar as it seeks to improperly narrow the scope of Edgemere's claim for tortious interference with a prospective contractual and business relations. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory as vague and ambiguous because the word "interfere" is undefined. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. And although Edgemere's investigation continues, Edgemere further states that Intercity and Kong tortiously interfered with prospective Edgemere residents, including, but not limited to, those that had scheduled tours of the Edgemere community and canceled, those that had paid a deposit to secure residency at Edgemere but then deferred closing, and those that had demonstrated interest in or commitment to joining Edgemere but elected not to do so. Edgemere further states that Intercity's and Kong's wrongful conduct also interfered with and damaged Edgemere's relationships with key referral sources.

INTERROGATORY NO. 10: Identify the reasons You failed to pay principal of and interest on the Bonds due since October 2021 as set forth in the February 24, 2022 UMB letter and the reasons You failed to maintain a Debt Service Coverage Ratio of at least 1.0x as of December 31, 2020 and December 31, 2021.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory in that it seeks information beyond the scope of the Complaint and not germane to any claim or defense in this action. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory insofar as it is compound and seeks answers on several discrete, unrelated issues.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. Subject to Edgemere's forthcoming document production, Edgemere states that Lifespace, UMB, Intercity, and Edgemere entered into a Forbearance Agreement dated December 21, 2021 (the "Forbearance Agreement"), to address, among other things, certain liquidity challenges facing Edgemere. Edgemere further states that its specific financial decisions in October 2021 and December 2021, and otherwise, were undertaken openly, in consultation with its stakeholders (including ICI, and later Kong), to preserve liquidity, prioritize community operations, and protect Edgemere residents.

INTERROGATORY NO. 11: Provide a list of any in-person meetings held among You, Lifespace, UMB, and/or Thomas R. Califano concerning Your financial condition, the Bonds, the Lease, the Bankruptcy, the Restructuring, the Historical Financial Condition, any Disclosure Statement, or this Lawsuit.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. Subject to Edgemere's forthcoming document production, Edgemere states that Edgemere executives met on November 2, 2021 with representatives of UMB at UMB's counsel's offices in Boston, Massachusetts.

INTERROGATORY NO. 12: Identify any third-party, other than your legal counsel, with whom you have discussed the Lease, ICI, Kong, or the claims set forth in the Lawsuit, and describe such communications.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory in that it seeks information beyond the scope of the Complaint and not germane to any claim or defense in this action. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks information for the period after the Chapter 11 cases and this proceeding were filed.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. Subject to Edgemere's forthcoming document production, Edgemere states that before the Chapter 11 cases and this proceeding were filed, it generally discussed the Lease or the claims in this lawsuit at a high level with, among others, UMB, FTI Consulting, Lifespace, the Edgemere Resident Board and committees to that Board, Edgemere residents, Edgemere employees, Edgemere's auditors (CliftonLarsonAllen LLP), the Texas Department of Insurance, and the Texas Attorney General's Office. Those communications consisted of periodic town hall meetings with residents, town hall-style meetings with Edgemere employees, meetings with Edgemere management teams, and one-on-one meetings with individual residents, among other meetings, where Lifespace or Edgemere leadership provided high level information regarding the negative press campaign initiated by Intercity and Kong, Edgemere's overall financial position, and, after the Chapter 11 cases were filed, general restructuring issues. The communications with regulators and Edgemere's professionals were informational discussions regarding Edgemere's financial position and the potential restructuring.

INTERROGATORY NO. 13: With respect to each unit at Edgemere, list: (a) the amount paid for each residential unit (last transaction); (b) the amount of the entrance fee paid connection with the last transaction on each residential unit, which is refundable; (c) date of entry resident moved into Edgemere; and (d) the current age of each resident residing in each residential unit at Edgemere:

Unit No.	The Amount Paid for Each Residential Unit (Last Sale)	The Amount of the Entrance Fee Paid in Connection with Last Sale of Each Residential Unit, Which is Refundable	Date of Entry Resident Moved into Edgemere	Current Age of Each Resident Residing in Each Individual Unit

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory in that it seeks information beyond the scope of the Complaint and not germane to any claim or defense in this action. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory in aggregate form or in a manner that redacts personal identifiable or confidential information of individual residents or their estates to comply with Edgemere's independent confidentiality obligations.

INTERROGATORY NO. 14: As of the present date, list all Edgemere's resident refunds that are currently fully liquidated and not contingent and the amount thereof by individual/estate:

Individual/Estate Name	Edgemere's Current Obligation

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory as overly broad in that it seeks information that is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory in that it seeks information beyond the scope of the Complaint and not germane to any claim or defense in this action. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence. Edgemere further objects to the extent this interrogatory seeks information that is now publicly available (in redacted form) or already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control (in redacted form).

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory in aggregate form or in a manner that redacts personal identifiable or confidential information of individual residents or their estates to comply with Edgemere's independent confidentiality obligations.

INTERROGATORY NO. 15: Set forth Edgemere's debt schedule by CUSIP# including description, amount, rate, term, covenant(s), and payment terms.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory as overly broad in that it seeks information that is not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Edgemere further objects to this interrogatory in that it seeks information beyond the scope of the Complaint and not germane to any claim or defense in this action. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks information that is publicly available or already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that Edgemere already filed this information in conjunction with its Statement of Assets and Liabilities filed in the Chapter 11 cases. Edgemere further states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory.

INTERROGATORY NO. 16: Identify any information produced by Edgemere to either ICI and/or Kong under the NDA that contained information that had not been disclosed to a third-party by Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that documents produced in response to Intercity's requests for production will provide information responsive to this interrogatory. Subject to that forthcoming document production, Edgemere further states that none of the confidential materials disclosed to Defendants under the terms of the NDA, including but not limited to Edgemere's confidential, forward-looking financial projections (including the FTI Report) and related confidential financial information, including the existence and details of Edgemere's restructuring efforts, had been previously disclosed to third parties not also subject to a non-disclosure agreement or covered by the attorney-client or common interest privileges.

INTERROGATORY NO. 17: State the amount of monetary damage Edgemere allegedly suffered as a result of any allegedly wrongful conduct engaged in by ICI and/or Kong, including how such purported monetary damage was calculated, i.e., the exact calculation to yield the claimed monetary damage figure and the inputs for the calculation.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this interrogatory to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine.

Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory as premature. The specific measure and amount of damages will be the subject of expert analysis and testimony in this case.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that it will disclose its expert's damages analysis as specified in the Court's scheduling order.

OBJECTIONS AND RESPONSES TO REQUESTS FOR PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 1: All Documents and Communications concerning Intercity, Kong, or the claims in this Lawsuit.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome in that it purports to seek "all Documents and Communications concerning Intercity [and] Kong." The request is not reasonably related to the allegations in the Complaint and therefore imposes a burden on Edgemere that is disproportionate to the needs of the case. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks documents already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that are equally available to Defendant as Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 2: All Documents and Communications concerning the Lease, including, but not limited to, communications concerning Your obligations under the Lease as written, as well as any proposals to modify the Lease or buy the Property.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks documents already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that are equally available to Defendant as Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 3: All Documents and Communications concerning the Forbearance Agreement or any proposed extension of the Forbearance Agreement.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks documents already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that are equally available to Defendant as Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 4: All Documents and Communications related to any other forbearance agreement(s) or other agreement(s) concerning the Bond Documents.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks documents already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that are equally available to Defendant as Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request because it seeks documents beyond the scope or the allegations in the Complaint or not germane to a claim or defense in this lawsuit. Edgemere further objects to the extent this request seeks materials shielded from disclosure under independent confidentiality obligations imposed by law or agreement.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 5: All Documents and Communications from January 1, 2015 to present concerning refinancing of the Bonds, the Bond ratings or changes thereto, any potential or actual default on the Bonds by You, and any request or demand to pay the amounts due under the Bonds.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks documents already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that are equally available to Defendant as Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request because it seeks documents beyond the scope or the allegations in the Complaint or not germane to a claim or defense in this lawsuit. Edgemere also objects to this request to the extent it is duplicative of Request No. 4.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 6: All Documents and Communications concerning the Restructuring or Bankruptcy, including, but not limited to, the Historical Financial Condition, circumstances, and considerations leading up to the Bankruptcy filing.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks documents already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that are equally available to Defendant as Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome in that it requests "[a]ll Documents and Communications concerning the Restructuring or the Bankruptcy." This description encompasses an undefined universe of documents and therefore lacks adequately specificity.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 7: All Communications between You and UMB concerning:

a) the Bonds,
b) the Property,
c) the Lease,
d) the Forbearance Agreement or any proposed extension thereof,
e) any other forbearance agreement or other agreement concerning the Bond Documents,
f) the Bankruptcy,
g) the Restructuring,
h) the Historical Financial Condition,
i) Intercity,
j) Kong,
k) Any Dallas Morning News article,
l) the Lawsuit, or
m) any Disclosure Statement.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere also objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request to the extent it is duplicative of Request No.4.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 8: All Documents and Communications concerning any in-person meeting among You, Lifespace, and/or UMB, including but not limited to emails, invitations, agendas, summaries, etc.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere also objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to Edgemere or unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control relating to in-person meetings among Edgemere, Lifespace, and/or UMB relating to Edgemere.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 9: All Documents and Communications concerning the impact of COVID-19 on Edgemere's financial condition and residential occupancy and retention rates.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 10: All Documents and Communications concerning the Historical Financial Condition, including, but not limited to, audited and unaudited financial statements.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks documents already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that are equally available to Defendant as Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 11: All Documents and Communications concerning Your Historical Financial Condition that You shared with Your residents.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks documents already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that are equally available to Defendant as Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 12: All Communications between You and any third-party concerning Intercity and/or Kong, including, but not limited to, Communications with regulatory agencies, media outlets, or bond rating agencies.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 13: All Documents and Communications concerning any activity of Intercity and/or Kong that You claim to be unlawful or tortious in the Complaint.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that is publicly available or equally available to Defendants as Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 14: All Documents and Communications concerning Your ability to meet Your obligations under the Lease, including, but not limited to, Your obligations to pay rent pursuant to the Lease.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that is publicly available or equally available to Defendants as Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 15: All Documents and Communications concerning Your disclosures of Your Historical Financial Condition, including, but not limited to, disclosures to regulatory agencies and to any other third-party. This request includes, but is not limited to, disclosures and/or filings made or required pursuant to 28 Tex. Admin. Code § 33.302, 28 Tex. Admin. Code § 33.303, 28 Tex. Admin. Code § 33.307(a)-(c).

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that is publicly available or equally available to Defendants as Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 16: All Communications with any resident or resident association concerning:

a) the Property,
b) the Lease,
c) the Forbearance Agreement,
d) any other forbearance agreement or other agreement concerning the Bond Documents,
e) the Bankruptcy,
f) the Restructuring,

h) Intercity,
i) Kong,
j) Any Dallas Morning News article,
k) the Lawsuit,
l) Disclosures to residents or potential residents of the Edgemere, or
m) Complaints by residents or potential residents of the Edgemere.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to Edgemere or unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Edgemere also objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 17: All Documents and Communications between You and any governmental or regulatory authority, including but not limited to the Texas Department of Insurance or the Office of the Attorney General for the State of Texas, concerning:

a) the Property,
b) the Lease,
c) the Forbearance Agreement,
d) any other forbearance agreement or other agreement concerning the Bond Documents.
e) the Bankruptcy,
f) the Restructuring,
g) the Historical Financial Condition,
h) Intercity,
i) Kong,
j) Any Dallas Morning News article,
k) the Lawsuit,
l) Disclosures to residents or potential residents of the Edgemere, or
m) Complaints by residents or potential residents of the Edgemere.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to Edgemere or unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Edgemere also objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 18: All Documents and Communications supporting Your contention in paragraph 39 of the Complaint that Intercity or Kong "openly discussed Edgemere's Confidential Information obtained under the NDA, including non-public information about Edgemere's financial condition and strategic plans" with Your residents.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 19: All Documents and Communications supporting Your contention that Intercity or Kong released Confidential Information to The Dallas Morning News or other third parties in violation of the NDA.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 20: All Documents and Communications supporting Your contention that Intercity and/or Kong interfered with Your contracts with residents and bondholders, as described in Count 3 of the Complaint.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 21: All Documents and Communications concerning prospective contracts, including, but not limited to, prospective residential contracts, with which You allege Intercity and/or Kong interfered, as described in Count 4 of the Complaint. This request is inclusive, but not limited to, any Communication with any prospective resident that concerns a residential contract You allege was lost due to improper conduct by ICI or Kong.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 22: All Documents and Communications supporting Your contention that Intercity and/or Kong committed civil conspiracy, as described in Count 4 of the Complaint.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request as unduly burdensome in that it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 23: All Communications between You and any attorney or law firm not representing You concerning:

a) the Bonds,
b) the Property,
c) the Lease,
d) the Forbearance Agreement or any proposed extension thereof,
e) any other forbearance agreement or other agreement concerning the Bond Documents,
f) the Bankruptcy,
g) the Restructuring,
h) the Historical Financial Condition,
i) Intercity,
j) Kong,
k) Any Dallas Morning News article,
l) the Lawsuit, or
m) any Disclosure Statement.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request as unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 24: All Communications between You, Thomas R. Califano, Sidley Austin, and/or DLA Piper that were disclosed to any third-party concerning

a) the Bonds,
b) the Property,
c) the Lease,
d) the Forbearance Agreement or any proposed extension thereof,
e) any other forbearance agreement or other agreement concerning the Bond Documents,
f) the Bankruptcy,
g) the Restructuring,
h) the Historical Financial Condition,
i) Intercity,
j) Kong,
k) Any Dallas Morning News article,
l) the Lawsuit, or
m) any Disclosure Statement.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request as unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks information already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 25: All Documents and Communications between You and Lifespace concerning:

a) the Bonds,

b) the Property,
c) the Lease,
d) the Forbearance Agreement or any proposed extension thereof,
e) any other forbearance agreement or other agreement concerning the Bond Documents,
f) the Bankruptcy,
g) the Restructuring,
h) the Historical Financial Condition,
i) Intercity,
j) Kong,
k) Any Dallas Morning News article,
l) the Lawsuit, or
m) any Disclosure Statement.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 26: All confidential information identified in response to Interrogatory No. 13.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that its residents' personal identifiable information sought in Interrogatory No. 13 is confidential. As a result, Edgemere will produce documents implicated by Interrogatory 13 and this request only in aggregate form or in a manner that redacts personal identifiable or confidential information of individual residents or their estates to comply with Edgemere's independent confidentiality obligations.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 27: All documents concerning efforts to maintain the confidentiality of the information referenced in response to Interrogatory No. 13.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 28: All Communications and Documents regarding infusion of capital or borrowing of funds between January 1, 2020 to present date, including but not limited to funds received in accordance with the Paycheck Protection Program or CARES Act.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 29: All Communications with any potential or prospective resident concerning:

a) the Bonds,
b) the Property,
c) the Lease,
d) the Forbearance Agreement or any proposed extension thereof,
e) any other forbearance agreement or other agreement concerning the Bond Documents
f) the Bankruptcy,
g) the Restructuring,
h) the Historical Financial Condition,
i) Intercity,
j) Kong,
k) any Dallas Morning News article,
l) the Lawsuit, or
m) any Disclosure Statement.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request because it seeks documents beyond the scope or the allegations in the Complaint or not germane to a claim or defense in this lawsuit.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 30: All Communications or Documents referenced in response to Interrogatory No. 13, and any Communications with any prospective resident that Edgemere believes it lost as a result of any alleged action by Intercity or Kong.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory insofar as it is compound and seeks documents on multiple discrete, unrelated issues.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that its residents' personal identifiable information sought in Interrogatory No. 13 is confidential. As a result, Edgemere will produce documents implicated by Interrogatory 13 and this request only in aggregate form or in a manner that redacts personal identifiable or confidential information of individual residents or their estates to comply with Edgemere's independent confidentiality obligations. The balance of this request is duplicative of Request No. 21.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 31: All resident contracts for each Unit at Edgemere pertaining to the current resident(s).

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks to impose a burden disproportionate to the needs of the case – Defendants do not reasonably need access to individual resident Life Care Agreements to defend against the allegations in the Complaint. Edgemere objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that its residents' Life Care Agreements and the personal identifiable information included therein and attached thereto is confidential. As a result, Edgemere will produce documents that reveal aggregate or consolidated information regarding Edgemere residents, including aggregate financial or statistical information regarding the residents. Edgemere will not produce individual Edgemere Life Care Agreements.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 32: All resident contracts for which there is a current refund presently due and owing.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Defendants do not reasonably need access to individual resident Life Care Agreements to defend against the allegations in the Complaint. Edgemere objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that its residents' Life Care Agreements and the personal identifiable information included therein and attached thereto is confidential. As a result, Edgemere will produce documents that reveal aggregate or consolidated financial information regarding the refunds currently due to former residents. Edgemere will not produce individual Edgemere Life Care Agreements.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 33: All agreements with any resident pertaining to entrance fees and/or refunds of entrance fees.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Edgemere further objects to this request as unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks to impose a burden disproportionate to the needs of the case – Defendants do not reasonably need access to individual resident agreements to defend against the allegations in the Complaint. Edgemere also objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce the materials identified in response to Request Nos. 31 and 32, which will reveal financial information regarding Edgemere's refund obligations.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 34: Any Document or Communication compiling the entrance fees paid to Edgemere by any resident.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 35: Any Document or Communication compiling or concerning: (a) how much was paid for each residential unit at Edgemere and/or (b) how much of the amount paid for each residential unit at Edgemere was refundable.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Defendants do not reasonably need access to individual resident Life Care Agreements or individual unit cost and refund information to defend against the allegations in the Complaint.

Edgemere objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that its residents' Life Care Agreements and the personal identifiable information included therein and attached thereto is confidential. As a result, Edgemere will produce responsive documents, if any, that reveal aggregate or consolidated unit cost information and associated refund obligations, only if Edgemere can do so without revealing confidential or personal identifiable information. Edgemere will not produce individual Edgemere Life Care Agreements.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 36: Any Document or Communication compiling or concerning the age of each individual resident at Edgemere as of the date of this request.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any, in a form that redacts resident names or other personal identifiable or otherwise Confidential Information. Edgemere will not produce documents that identify individual residents or their age.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 37: Any actuarial report of the resident population.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 38: For the period of March 31, 2018 to present, all current cash flow budget to actual variance report(s).

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint. Edgemere also objects to the extent that this request seeks information that is publicly available, that is already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that is equally available to Defendants as it is to Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the most recent available period before the date of the Complaint.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 39: In Excel format, Historical Quarterly Financial Statements from March 31, 2018 to present. To the extent that Excel format does not exist, please produce in the format that does exist.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint. Edgemere also objects to the extent that this request seeks information that is publicly available, that is already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that is equally available to Defendants as it is to Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the most recent available period before the date of the Complaint

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 40: All meeting minutes of, or documents provided to the Board of Directors at or in advance of, any Board meeting for the period January 1, 2017 to present.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome in that it purports to seek "all meeting minutes." The request is not reasonably related to the allegations in the Complaint and therefore imposes a burden on Edgemere that is disproportionate to the needs of the case. Edgemere also objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents related to Edgemere's Board of Directors that remain in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the most recent available period before the date of the Complaint.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 41: All evidence that "as Edgemere's sales have since collapsed [due to "Defendant's improper conduct"] which directly imperils Edgemere's restructuring prospects," as stated in Dkt. 58 at p. 9 of 34.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 42: In Dkt. 58 at p. 9 of 34, Edgemere states "[t]ere is already strong evidence of Edgemere's claims." Produce all evidence referred to by Edgemere in this quoted sentence.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 43: For the period of January 1, 2017 to present, all Documents and Communications regarding or concerning Edgemere's historical trends involving "new Residency Agreement[s]."

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint. Edgemere also objects to the extent that this request seeks information that is publicly available, that is already in Defendants' possession, custody, or control, or that is equally available to Defendants as it is to Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the present.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 44: For the period of January 1, 2017 to present, all Documents and Communications regarding or concerning "call volume from prospective residents."

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the present.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 45: For the period of January 1, 2017 to present, all logs of prospective tenant calls.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the present.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 46: For the period of January 1, 2017 to present, all Documents and Communications regarding or concerning "tours among prospective residents."

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the present.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 47: For the period of January 1, 2017 to present, all logs of tours of Edgemere "among prospective residents."

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the present.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 48: For the period of January 1, 2022 to present, all Documents and Communications showing that "referrals of existing Residents to higher levels of care with the Community decreased."

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 49: For the period of January 1, 2022 to present, all Documents and Communications showing that "individuals committed to joining the Community postponed closing on their contracts."

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 50: All Documents showing the "48 [resident] closings" by Edgemere in 2021.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 51: All Documents showing the number of resident closings by Edgemere in November and December 2021.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 52: For the period of January 1, 2017 to present, Documents and Communications showing Edgemere's historical number of "resident closings" on an annual basis and, if available, on a monthly basis.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, or the attorney work product doctrine. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the present.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 53: For the period of January 1, 2022 to present, all Documents and Communications showing that any resident left Edgemere and/or ended his/her/its business relationship with Edgemere due to anything said or done by ICI and/or Kong.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Edgemere objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that its residents' Life Care Agreements and the personal identifiable information included therein and attached thereto is confidential. As a result, Edgemere will produce responsive documents that reveal aggregate or consolidated information regarding existing or prospective residents that terminated their relationship with Edgemere, only if Edgemere can do so without revealing confidential or personal identifiable information.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 54: For the period of January 1, 2022 to present, all Documents and Communications showing that any prospective resident was "deter[red] from joining the Community" as stated in Dkt. 58 at p. 25 of 34.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Edgemere objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this interrogatory because it seeks confidential personal information that Edgemere has an independent obligation to maintain in strict confidence.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere states that its residents' Life Care Agreements and the personal identifiable information included therein and attached thereto is confidential. As a result, Edgemere will produce responsive documents that reveal aggregate or consolidated information regarding prospective residents that terminated their relationship with Edgemere, only if Edgemere can do so without revealing confidential or personal identifiable information.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 55: All Documents and Communications with legal counsel regarding or concerning the terms of the Lease, including but not limited to the time at which "Edgemere then discovered the mistaken and improper language within the text of the remedies provisions in Section 8.2 of the Lease" as stated in Dkt. 58 at p. 32 of 34.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege or the attorney work product doctrine.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 56: All reporting to Lifespace regarding: (a) "new Residency Agreements"; (b) difficulty with respect to securing "new Residency Agreements" and/or the reasons therefore; (c) "tours among prospective residents"; (d) decreased "tours among prospective residents" and/or the reasons therefore; (e) "call volume from prospective residents"; and (f) decreasing "call volume from prospective residents" and/or the reasons therefore.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request to the extent it can be read to seek documents regarding entities or facilities other than Edgemere. Edgemere also objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 57: All Documents and Communications concerning funds transferred between Edgemere and any other entity owned, operated, or managed by Lifespace, including but not limited to The Stayton at Museum Way or Querencia at Barton Creek.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere objects to this request as overly broad and unduly burdensome to the extent it seeks documents unrelated to issues, claims, and defenses in this lawsuit. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 58: For the period of January 1, 2022 to present, all Documents and Communications showing that any prospective resident was "deter[red] from joining the Community" as stated in Dkt. 58 at p. 25 of 34.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request because it is duplicative of Request No. 54. To the extent a response is required, Edgemere directs Defendants to Edgemere's response to Request No. 54.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 59: For the period of December 31, 2019 forward, the Entrance Fee Summary (see example reference in the March 31, 2018 quarterly financials posted on EMMA at page 7).

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the most recent period available prior to the date of the Complaint.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 60: For the period of December 31, 2019 forward, the Sale and Occupancy Overview (see example reference in the March 31, 2018 quarterly financials posted on EMMA at pages 8-10).

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the most recent period available prior to the date of the Complaint.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 61: For the period of December 31, 2019 forward, the Payor Source Margin Analysis (see example reference in the March 31, 2018 quarterly financials posted on EMMA at page 11).

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere. Edgemere further objects to this request as overly broad because it seeks documents for a time period beyond the scope of the allegations in the Complaint.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, for the time period from January 1, 2020 through the most recent period available prior to the date of the Complaint.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 62: Documents and Communications regarding or concerning Edgemere's conversion rate for "new Residency Agreements" following prospective resident contact i.e., phone calls or tours.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION NO. 63: Metrics and analysis regarding or concerning "new Residency Agreements," Edgemere's conversion rates in connection with prospective resident contact, "new Residency Agreement" forecasts and related variables, and/or market conditions impacting Edgemere.

RESPONSE: Edgemere objects to this request to the extent it seeks materials shielded from disclosure under the attorney-client privilege, the attorney work product doctrine, or the common interest privilege. Edgemere further objects to this request as vague and overly broad to the extent it could be read to seek records or materials in the possession, custody, or control of entities other than Edgemere.

Subject to and without waiving any objection, Edgemere will produce non-privileged responsive documents in Edgemere's possession, custody, or control, if any.

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 45(c), (d), (e), and (g) (Effective 12/1/13)
(made applicable in bankruptcy cases by Rule 9016, Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure)

(c) Place of compliance.

(1) For a Trial, Hearing, or Deposition. A subpoena may command a person to attend a trial, hearing, or deposition only as follows:

(A) within 100 miles of where the person resides, is employed, or regularly transacts business in person; or

(B) within the state where the person resides, is employed, or regularly transacts business in person, if the person

(i) is a party or a party's officer; or

(ii) is commanded to attend a trial and would not incur substantial expense.

(2) For Other Discovery. A subpoena may command:

(A) production of documents, or electronically stored information, or things at a place within 100 miles of where the person resides, is employed, or regularly transacts business in person; and

(B) inspection of premises, at the premises to be inspected.

(d) Protecting a Person Subject to a Subpoena; Enforcement.

(1) Avoiding Undue Burden or Expense; Sanctions. A party or attorney responsible for issuing and serving a subpoena must take reasonable steps to avoid imposing undue burden or expense on a person subject to the subpoena. The court for the district where compliance is required must enforce this duty and impose an appropriate sanction — which may include lost earnings and reasonable attorney's fees — on a party or attorney who fails to comply.

(2) Command to Produce Materials or Permit Inspection.

(A) Appearance Not Required. A person commanded to produce documents, electronically stored information, or tangible things, or to permit the inspection of premises, need not appear in person at the place of production or inspection unless also commanded to appear for a deposition, hearing, or trial.

(B) Objections. A person commanded to produce documents or tangible things or to permit inspection may serve on the party or attorney designated in the subpoena a written objection to inspecting, copying, testing or sampling any or all of the materials or to inspecting the premises — or to producing electronically stored information in the form or forms requested. The objection must be served before the earlier of the time specified for compliance or 14 days after the subpoena is served. If an objection is made, the following rules apply:

(i) At any time, on notice to the commanded person, the serving party may move the court for the district where compliance is required for an order compelling production or inspection.

(ii) These acts may be required only as directed in the order, and the order must protect a person who is neither a party nor a party's officer from significant expense resulting from compliance.

(3) Quashing or Modifying a Subpoena.

(A) When Required. On timely motion, the court for the district where compliance is required must quash or modify a subpoena that:

(i) fails to allow a reasonable time to comply;

(ii) requires a person to comply beyond the geographical limits specified in Rule 45(c);

(iii) requires disclosure of privileged or other protected matter, if no exception or waiver applies; or

(iv) subjects a person to undue burden.

(B) When Permitted. To protect a person subject to or affected by a subpoena, the court for the district where compliance is required may, on motion, quash or modify the subpoena if it requires:

(i) disclosing a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or commercial information; or

(ii) disclosing an unretained expert's opinion or information that does not describe specific occurrences in dispute and results from the expert's study that was not requested by a party.

(C) Specifying Conditions as an Alternative. In the circumstances described in Rule 45(d)(3)(B), the court may, instead of quashing or modifying a subpoena, order appearance or production under specified conditions if the serving party:

(i) shows a substantial need for the testimony or material that cannot be otherwise met without undue hardship; and

(ii) ensures that the subpoenaed person will be reasonably compensated.

(e) Duties in Responding to a Subpoena.

(1) Producing Documents or Electronically Stored Information. These procedures apply to producing documents or electronically stored information:

(A) Documents. A person responding to a subpoena to produce documents must produce them as they are kept in the ordinary course of business or must organize and label them to correspond to the categories in the demand.

(B) Form for Producing Electronically Stored Information Not Specified. If a subpoena does not specify a form for producing electronically stored information, the person responding must produce it in a form or forms in which it is ordinarily maintained or in a reasonably usable form or forms.

(C) Electronically Stored Information Produced in Only One Form. The person responding need not produce the same electronically stored information in more than one form.

(D) Inaccessible Electronically Stored Information. The person responding need not provide discovery of electronically stored information from sources that the person identifies as not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. On motion to compel discovery or for a protective order, the person responding must show that the information is not reasonably accessible because of undue burden or cost. If that showing is made, the court may nonetheless order discovery from such sources if the requesting party shows good cause, considering the limitations of Rule 26(b)(2)(C). The court may specify conditions for the discovery.

(2) Claiming Privilege or Protection.

(A) Information Withheld. A person withholding subpoenaed information under a claim that it is privileged or subject to protection as trial-preparation material must:

(i) expressly make the claim; and

(ii) describe the nature of the withheld documents, communications, or tangible things in a manner that, without revealing information itself privileged or protected, will enable the parties to assess the claim.

(B) Information Produced. If information produced in response to a subpoena is subject to a claim of privilege or of protection as trial-preparation material, the person making the claim may notify any party that received the information of the claim and the basis for it. After being notified, a party must promptly return, sequester, or destroy the specified information and any copies it has; must not use or disclose the information until the claim is resolved; must take reasonable steps to retrieve the information if the party disclosed it before being notified; and may promptly present the information under seal to the court for the district where compliance is required for a determination of the claim. The person who produced the information must preserve the information until the claim is resolved.

(g) Contempt. The court for the district where compliance is required – and also, after a motion is transferred, the issuing court – may hold in contempt a person who, having been served, fails without adequate excuse to obey the subpoena or an order related to it.

For access to subpoena materials, see Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(a) Committee Note (2013)

EXHIBIT A

I. INSTRUCTIONS

1. The requested documents are to be produced for inspection and copying, at the offices of Jackson Walker, LLP, 2323 Ross Avenue, Suite 600, Dallas, Texas 75201, unless otherwise agreed between the parties.

2. If you object to any of the following Discovery Requests, you must state the legal and factual basis for each objection. If you object to only a portion of a Discovery Request, you must identify the specific portion of the Discovery Request to which you object and must respond fully to the remainder of the Discovery Request.

3. If a requested document is a document created from any of the programs in the Microsoft Office Suite (including, but not limited to, Microsoft Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Access, Project or Outlook) that exists in its native format (e.g., .doc, .xls, .ppt, .msg, .pst) or can be readily converted into a format reasonably accessible via a program in the Microsoft Office Suite (e.g., a document created from another commercially available electronic mail, word processing, spreadsheet or database program), then produce such document in its native electronic format. Documents produced in this manner should include metadata.

4. If your answer to any Discovery Request is not within your personal knowledge, you must identify each person you know who has, or may have, personal knowledge of the matter that is addressed in the Discovery Request, and the contact information and job title of such person.

5. Each Discovery Request shall operate and be responded to independently and, unless otherwise indicated, no Discovery Request limits the scope of any other Discovery Request.

6. Documents provided in response hereto shall be produced as they are kept in the ordinary course of business or shall be organized and labeled to correspond with the categories in these Requests for Production of Documents.

7. If you produce Documents in addition to, or in lieu of, providing full and complete narrative responses where permitted by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure:

    a. In producing Documents and things, indicate the paragraph and subparagraph to which a produced document or thing is responsive.

    b. In producing Documents and things, furnish all Documents or things known or available to you, regardless of whether such Documents or things are possessed directly by you or your representatives.

    c. If any requested Documents or things cannot be produced in full, produce such Documents to the extent possible, specifying which Documents or things were only partially produced.

8. These Discovery Requests are deemed to be continuing. If after answering, you become aware of any further information responsive to this document, you are required to produce such additional Documents and things and/or provide such additional information.

9. If any Documents or things requested or identified were at one time in existence but are no longer in existence, then so state, specifying for each document or thing:

    a. The type of document or thing;

    b. The types of information contained thereon;

    c. The date upon which it ceased to exist;

    d. The circumstances under which it ceased to exist;

    e. The identity of all persons having knowledge of the circumstances under which it ceased to exist; and

    f. The identity of all persons now having or who, at one time, had knowledge of the contents thereof.

10. Selection of Documents from the files and other sources in the numbering, if any, of such Documents shall be performed in such a manner as to ensure that the source of each document may be determined, if necessary.

11. Documents attached to each other should not be separated.

12. In lieu of producing originals or copies thereof, you may, at your option, submit legible photographic or other reproductions of such Documents, provided that the originals or copies from which such reproductions were made are retained by you until the disposition of this litigation.

13. If you, after investigation, determine that you have no documents that are responsive to a Request, Your statement that you have no such documents constitutes a representation that you have conducted a search for the documents and represents that you have no documents that are responsive.

14. Unless otherwise stated, the time frame covered by these Discovery Requests is from January 1, 2021 to the present (the "Relevant Time Period"). If you seek to withhold any Document, thing, or information on the basis that it is purportedly privileged or entitled to some other limitation of discovery, you are instructed to use the following procedure:

    a. You shall supply a numerical list of the Documents and things for which a privilege or other limitation of discovery is claimed, indicating:

i. the name of each author, writer, sender, or initiator of such document or thing, if any;
ii. the name of each recipient, addressee, or party to whom such document or thing was intended, if any;

iii. the date of such document or thing, if any, or an estimate thereof and so indicated as an estimate if no date appears on said document;

iv. the general subject matter as described in the document; and

v. the claimed grounds for privilege or other limitation of discovery.

II. DEFINITIONS

As used herein, the following terms have specific meanings as defined in this section:

1. "You" refers to Sidley Austin LLP, its predecessors, successors, and any agent, representative, employee, or other person acting or purporting to act on its behalf.

2. "Edgemere" refers to Northwest Senior Housing Corporation, its predecessors, successors, and any agent, representative, employee, or other person acting or purporting to act on its behalf.

3. "Intercity" refers to Intercity Investment Properties, Inc., its predecessors, successors, and any agent, representative, employee, or other person acting or purporting to act on its behalf.

4. "Kong" refers to Kong Capital LLC, its predecessors, successors, and any agent, representative, employee, or other person acting or purporting to act on its behalf.

5. The "Lawsuit" refers to the above-captioned adversary proceeding filed by Edgemere against Intercity and Kong on April 14, 2022.

6. The "Disclosure Statement" means that comprehensive document required by Tex. Health & Safety Code Ann. § 246.042 to be provided to potential residents, informing them of all aspects of living at the Edgemere, including a location and description of the community, services and fees, policies, resident qualifications, and financial information about the Edgemere, with exhibits of the Life Care Agreement, audited financial statements, financial projections, and the resident handbook.

7. The "Historical Financial Condition" means the Edgemere's overall financial condition, including but not limited to assets, liabilities, income, or losses, from January 1, 2017 through present date.

8. The "Restructuring" refers to any effort to improve Edgemere's financial position, whether through modification or reorganization of Edgemere's organizational or capital structure, or otherwise addressing existing liabilities.

9. The "Bankruptcy" refers to Edgemere's Chapter 11 bankruptcy case, styled Northwest Senior Housing Corporation, et al., Case No. 22-30659-mvl-11, currently pending in the United States Bankruptcy Court in the Northern District of Texas – Dallas Division, and related litigation, including the above-captioned adversary proceeding.

10. The "Property" refers to the approximately 16.25 acres that is subject to the Lease, and commonly known as 8523 Thackery Street, Dallas, Texas 75225.

11. The "Lease" refers to the Ground Lease between Intercity and Edgemere dated November 1999 that covers the property and improvements where Edgemere operates.

12. "Lifespace" refers to Lifespace Communities, Inc., its predecessors, successors, and any agent, representative, employee, or other person acting or purporting to act on its behalf.

13. "DMN" refers to The Dallas Morning News, its predecessors, successors, and any agent, representative, employee, or other person acting or purporting to act on its behalf.

14. "UMB" refers to UMB Bank, N.A. in its capacity as Bond Trustee, its predecessors, successors, and any agent, representative, employee, or other person acting or purporting to act on its behalf.

15. The "Forbearance Agreement" refers to the December 21, 2021 Forbearance Agreement between Northwest Senior Housing Corporation, Senior Quality Lifestyle Corporation, UMB Bank, N.A., Intercity, and Lifespace.

16. "Discovery Requests" means the requests for production of Documents contained herein.

17. "Communication" or "Communications" means a communication in any form, including, without limitation, notes, complaints, diaries, journals, datebooks, reports, calendars, telephone messages, letters, email messages, instant messages (such as but not limited to Signal, Cisco Jabber, IBM Sametime, Wickr, ICQ, Kik, BBM, Gchat, iMessage, Telegram, WhatsApp, Slack, and similar types of messages), cell phone text messages (SMS messages and MMS messages), voicemail messages, Slack messages or other internal messaging system communications, social media communications or posting on sites including but not limited to Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Gab, or Parler (including any direct messages), website postings, internet chat-room postings, lists, correspondence, drawings, designs, telegrams, manuals, summaries or records of personal conversations, logs, minutes or records of meetings, minutes of any other type, transcripts of oral testimony or statements, affidavits, or summaries of investigations. For avoidance of doubt, the term "Communications" includes internal communications and communications with third parties. The foregoing definition is subject to any objection sustained in relation to Plaintiffs' similar definition directed at Defendants.

18. "Document" means any printed, written, typed, recorded, transcribed, taped, photographic, or graphic matter, however produced or reproduced, including, but not limited to: any letter, correspondence, or communication of any sort; electronic mail, either sent or received; file, print, negative, or photograph; sound or video recording; note, notebook, diary, calendar, minutes, memorandum, contract, agreement, or any amendment thereto; telex, telegram, or cable; summary, report, or record of any telephone conversation, personal conversation, discussion, interview, meeting, conference, investigation, negotiation, act, or activity; projection, work paper or draft; computer output or input; data processing card; opinion or report of any consultant; request, order, invoice, or bill of lading; analysis, diagram, map, index, sketch, drawing, plan, chart, manual, brochure, pamphlet, advertisement, circular, newspaper or magazine clipping; press release; receipt, journal, ledger, schedule, bill, or voucher; financial statement, statement of account, bank statement, checkbook, check stubs or register, canceled check, deposit slip, charge slip, tax return, or requisition; file, study, graph, or tabulation; and all other writings and recordings of whatever nature, whether signed, unsigned or transcribed, and any other data compilation from which information can be obtained or translated. The term "Document" also shall mean: the original and/or any non-identical original or copy, including those with any marginal note or comment or showing additions, deletions, or substitutions; drafts; attachments to or enclosures with any document; and any other documents referred to or incorporated by reference in the document. The term "Document" also specifically includes all electronic documents and other "electronically stored information" (whether stored electronically or in the form of a hard-copy, print-out, or otherwise) and all attachments thereto.

19. The term "concerning" means relating to, referring to, describing, evidencing, or constituting.

20. The present tense includes the past and future tenses. The singular includes the plural, and the plural includes the singular. "All" means "any and all;" "any" means "any and all." "Including" means "including but not limited to." "And" and "or" encompass both "and" and "or." Words in the masculine, feminine, or neuter form shall include each of the other genders.

All,
We sent the attached communication to Diamond McCarthy asking when they will provide Sidley with the results of their privilege review. If we do not receive a subsequent production, we will be moving to compel Sidley's compliance with the subpoena. In the meantime, we take the below to mean Sidley is not asserting any claims of privilege other than those to be asserted by Diamond McCarthy.

Thank you,
Christina

Heidi,

We were asked by Diamond McCarthy to withhold certain documents on the basis of privilege for their further review.
We are currently waiting to hear back from Diamond McCarthy when they have completed that review. In the event that any such documents have been identified as not privileged or otherwise subject to production, we will produce those. Otherwise, our production is complete.

(Proceedings commenced at 9:37 a.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas Dallas Division is now in session; the Honorable Michelle Larson presiding.

THE COURT: Please be seated.

Good morning, everyone. We are here in our 9:30 docket. We have one matter on the docket this morning, and that's Case Number 22-3040. I'll take appearances for the record, and I'll start with those in the courtroom.

MR. TAYLOR: This is Greg Taylor and Drew Jones for the Trustee.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Good morning, Your Honor.

Elizabeth Vandesteeg, Eileen Sethna, and Ryan Hardy of Levenfeld Pearlstein, as well as Elizabeth Pittman of Jackson Walker on behalf of both adversary defendants, Inner City Investment Properties, Inc., and Kong Capital, LLC.

THE COURT: Good morning.

All right. On WebEx, I do have an electronic roll, and I'll start with that. On behalf of UMB Bank, I have Mr. Tom Zavala of the Haynes and Boone Law Firm. And on behalf of Lifespace Communities with the Cooley Law Firm, I have Samuel Rabuck and Christopher Andrews.

Are there any other appearances this morning?

MR. ANDREWS: That's right, Your Honor. This is Chris Andrews from Cooley. I would just also note that we represent the Point Group, Inc., and Eddie Fenoglio, as well. Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you very much. I appreciate that. Speaker 4

MS. Good morning, Your Honor. This is Joanna Travalini from Sidley Austin. I am appearing here this morning on behalf of non-party FTI Consulting, Inc.

THE COURT: All right. Good morning, Ms. Travalini.

MS. TRAVALINI: Good morning.

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Coffman, I think you're still on mute.

MR. COFFMAN: I apologize, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Good morning.

MR. COFFMAN: Good morning.

THE COURT: All right. I know we have a number of motions set for hearing this morning. Have the parties discussed the best order to take those up then?

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, Ryan Hardy for the defendants. We haven't. My suggestion would be, though, that we first take up the carryover matters from Tuesday because we have competing orders on that; second, the defendants' motions and, third, the plaintiff's motion would be my proposal.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: But, obviously, we'll do it however Your Honor wants us to do it.

THE COURT: All right, thank you. Mr. Taylor?

MR. TAYLOR: We don't care.

THE COURT: You're out of your bunker.

(Laughter)

THE COURT: All right. Anyone else have any input on the order that we take up the matters?

(No audible response)

THE COURT: Okay. With that, what I'll do is we just printed the orders this morning.

Mr. Calkins, if you could grab those for me, I'd appreciate it.

(Pause)

THE COURT: Thank you.

Okay, so I now have both before me, both two forms of proposed order on the motion to clarify and the two supplemental orders with respect to the defendants' motion to compel production. I will be completely honest and I did not read these prior to the hearing this morning.

So, please, Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

I think it probably makes sense to start with the proposed order on the motion for clarification.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: And so we had circulated a draft early in the day, just we thought as a matter of convenience. The Cooley Law Firm circulated a competing order. We accepted some editorial nits, so what came to you from us included some of the Cooley revisions, but we did not accept some of the, we'll call them substantive provisions.

And I think probably the best way to address that is by addressing what it was that their order excludes that was included in our order. And, in particular, we had language in there regarding the scope of this stipulation about the combined Edgemere-Lifespace production. And what we had proposed was that that stipulation, that each document produced by Lifespace and plaintiff is owned by both Lifespace and plaintiff, discharges Lifespace's obligations under the prior order, right. That's the clarification part.

Provided that the stipulation may not be used as a sword and a shield, borrowing your language from Tuesday, and that absent exceptional cause, the Court will later entertain argument that a particular document is exclusively a Lifespace document or exclusively an Edgemere document but, instead, that all those documents can be used as documents of either or both companies for all purposes, including party admissions.

That provided language that we included in there to, we thought, address your direction that, you know, hey, this stipulation is not going to be subject to a whole bunch of caveats, was excised from the Cooley version.

A smaller but still important, I think, matter was addressing the amended and restated privilege logs that were promised during the Tuesday hearing and have been promised to us for a couple of weeks now. We proposed that those would be provided on or by November 10th, since there was a representation made that they were already drafted, with documents to follow November 14th. Those deadlines also are not included in Cooley's proposed order, and we consider that they should be.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you very much, Mr. Hardy.

Rabuck?

MR. RABUCK: Yes, Your Honor.

Sam Rabuck on behalf of Lifespace for the record.

We understood that the Court directed Lifespace to prepare a draft order granting the motion for clarification, and as Mr. Hardy noted, they sent us a draft of their own iteration of that order for us to review yesterday during the middle of the day.

And our position is that draft form of order included additional deadlines and requirements regarding a revised privilege log and production of documents that were not ordered by the Court at the hearing on Tuesday. We believe that our iteration of the form of order is more appropriately tailored to what the Court ruled on Tuesday, that the motion to clarify was granted on account of the stipulation that we offered by LifeSpace that for purposes of the adversary proceeding, all documents produced by LifeSpace and plaintiff to defendants are owned by both LifeSpace and the plaintiff.

We did not add any provided "howevers" or other conditions or provisos to that stipulation. And we think that the defendants' iteration actually does include those provided "howevers" and provisos that we were specifically instructed not to include and that we agreed were not a part of our stipulation. And so we believe that the stipulation should stand on its own as this Court had asked and as we agreed to without any conditions or "provided thats" that look at things that haven't been before the Court.

The issue was simply whether or not we were complying with the Court's June 23rd order by making a straight stipulation about the ownership of the documents and that's what our form of order does.

THE COURT: All right. And so with respect to the privilege log and any documents to be turned over, do you or do you not have alternative dates?

MR. RABUCK: Your Honor, we are prepared to produce the nine or ten documents that were deemed to be commercial rather than legal in nature from the in-camera review to defendants by tomorrow. And we are prepared to produce the Houlihan Lokey documents that were subject to the supplemental briefing by next Friday, the 17th.

But to be clear, we believe that that was separate and aside from the motion for clarification and the order on that. That would be something that would be handled either in the Houlihan Lokey briefing or in the instances of providing a supplemental privilege log and those discussions. Those were part of discussions that have been ongoing between the parties and that wasn't before the Court and that wasn't something that we understood the Court ruled on on Tuesday.

THE COURT: No, I did not rule on it. I asked you guys to talk about it. So apparently this is you guys talking about it.

All right. So, okay, so the in-camera you said by 11/10, the Houlihan by 11/17. And what about the documents -- we talked about the subset of 150 that became the hundred that were given over to the Court for in-camera review. Have everything that you culled out and determined either not to be privileged, I want to say there were 32 but don't quote me on that, Ms. Jeng.

And have those already been turned over?

MR. RABUCK: So our understanding is that was in process with the plaintiff, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. RABUCK: I'll defer to Mr. Hardy if they have or have not received them. If they have not, we will work quickly to get those turned over to them.

MR. HARDY: Yeah, Your Honor, we have not. And since we've moved over into the other order, you know, obviously, we proposed November 10th as well for --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: -- the documents that were culled from the initial in-camera review, the ones we were just talking about, and the documents that the Court concluded following in-camera review were not privileged. But also, and this is where we differ from LifeSpace's proposed order, other than on editorial points, also November 10th for the Houlihan Lokey documents.

As Your Honor will recall, that's a pretty limited universe.

THE COURT: That's a separate order. Right.

MR. HARDY: Yeah, yeah. What we actually did, we submitted --we submitted one order on the in-camera documents and the Houlihan Lokey documents because --

THE COURT: Understood.

MR. HARDY: -- both of those issues tied back to the same motion to compel

THE COURT: Understood.

All right. So I have your comments on both of those and your arguments. I'll prepare that form of order. Any further argument with respect to what's entitled the supplemental order which I now understand will govern both the Houlihan documents and everything with respect to the motion to compel that I had taken the in-camera documents on? Any other argument with respect to those orders?

MR. HARDY: No, Your Honor, not with respect to those. I don't know if you're opening the field to the motion for clarification again.

THE COURT: No.

MR. HARDY: Okay.

THE COURT: No.

MR. HARDY: I won't comment on that, then.

THE COURT: I am sure that I have heard all I need to know on that.

MR. HARDY: I understand.

THE COURT: And I do appreciate it.

All right. So I will take each of your two forms of order and you will get one form of order from the Court that'll be the order. All right.

MR. RABUCK: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You're very welcome.

Okay. Now we have -- so If you could give me by docket number what we're starting with I would appreciate it.

MR. HARDY: I sure will, Your Honor. I think as a housekeeping matter, I just want to confirm.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: They had a motion to expedite --

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: -- on file with respect to the supplemental motion to compel FTI. The motion to expedite appeared at 388 on the docket.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: And there is a notation that that was granted orally. So I believe that's off the docket.

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. HARDY: But I just wanted to confirm as a matter of housekeeping. Incidentally, I believe Mr. Taylor had a motion to expedite as well. I don't have the docket number on that, but that was also marked as orally granted.

THE COURT: Right. And as a matter of course, what is typical and at least in this Court is motion to expedite is filed, I require a conference to be indicated on the face of the document whether or not it is opposed or not. I typically always wait 24 hours to receive either formal or informal objections to that motion to expedite.

Informal means something is coming, in letting the Court know and, if so, I wait further time. And if not, I rule on them. And by oral order is really a gift to you that you guys don't have to draft one more order. I recognize the motion to expedite is already a cumbersome enough process.

So with that, it is typical just to see the minute entry indicating the expedition. So we do have the two expedited motions on tap for today, which are I think 375 and 386.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. HARDY: I appreciate the gift. And we can jump into the substance then.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: I said yesterday that I hoped we could be done by lunch and everybody laughed at me and I guess we're going to find out whether I was right.

THE COURT: The proof is in the pudding.

MR. HARDY: So we will kick off unless the Court prefers we proceed otherwise with the omnibus motion to compel which is at ECF 363.

THE COURT: Got it, ready.

MR. HARDY: So the omnibus motion to compel, Your Honor, sought relief against six third-party subpoena respondents. And I am pleased to report that with respect to the first one, Sidley Austin, we have reached a resolution. So the outstanding issue there was that various Sidley Austin documents had been withheld on grounds of privilege or protection.

What we learned during the meet-and-confer process, as you would expect, is that it wasn't Sidley Austin saying, hey, these are Sidley protected documents, they were saying no our client --

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: -- has a work-product or attorney-client privilege interest in these documents. But we, Sidley Austin, are not in fact handling that issue. That's Diamond McCarthy, go talk to Diamond McCarthy.

So the way that we worked things out with Sidley Austin was to confirm, and there's a stipulation on the docket to this effect, it's a 404 --

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: -- that Sidley has turned over all responsive Sidley documents to the Diamond McCarthy firm, whether privileged or non-privileged. And with that representation, we agreed to withdraw any relief as against Sidley because, of course, now the plaintiff has those documents, we can seek those documents from the plaintiff. And, in fact, we're going to address that when we get to the motion to compel against the plaintiffs.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. HARDY: So that's number one on the omnibus motion to compel. It's withdrawn.

THE COURT: Okay. And I do believe it makes sense to take these up as you said essentially it's almost it could be six motions. I don't want six motions. But on that one, your stipulation 404 if either Sidley or the defendants want that as an order, then you'll need to put that in a form of order that I can sign right now. The signature block is at the bottom here. The signature blocks go at the top.

MR. HARDY: Oh, it needs to go up to the top.

THE COURT: So to the extent you guys want that as a stipulated order, you'll need to submit it and just logistically change the format.

MR. HARDY: Okay. I'll confer with the Sidley team on that.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: As it happens, the Sidley lawyer who's on now --

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: -- is a different Sidley lawyer from the Sidley lawyers --

THE COURT: No worries.

MR. HARDY: -- handling the Sidley subpoena, so. Well, I will discuss that with them, though.

If it's okay with Your Honor, I'd like to address the second and third respondents, Clifton Waterson and Lane Gorman --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: -- together because they are both --

THE COURT: Accountants.

MR. HARDY: -- accounting firms. And the issues with respect to those subpoenas are overlapping.

So what happened was we served subpoenas asking for accounting records, naturally, pertinent to the debtor. And the accounting firms responded very understandably, no, absolutely not. There is a federal law that says we cannot provide this to you unless we have taxpayer consent or there's a court order telling us that we can do so. Very understandable, wouldn't expect them to do anything different.

So we reached out to the plaintiff to see if we could get the consent and, you know, right or wrong, the plaintiff didn't consider that he actually had the authority to grant the consent. So we took a different approach, and we said is there any objection to the accounting firms producing these documents. Plaintiff said no, we went to the accounting firms. The accounting firm said, well, hey, we can't consent but we're not going to oppose.

And I do want to say for the benefit of Mr. Coffman and his client, they did not consent.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: They're just not opposing. But in the absence of any objection to the production of these documents, which I'll note by the way, we did narrow the request to the files pertaining to Edgemere, okay.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: In the absence of any objection, I'd ask that the Court order those productions. We did, however, get I don't know if it's a limited objection or a reservation of rights from Lifespace saying essentially, if I understand it correctly, it's okay for you to turn over those documents accounting firms, even though they're not ours, but we get to see them first so that we can assess whether our information is contained in them.

I don't have any objection to Lifespace receiving the documents at the same time. That's fine. But I don't perceive that it's appropriate for them to have a preview of those documents or veto power over whether we get those documents for a couple of reasons. One is we don't have the time for that. Two is parsing out what's going to be Lifespace versus Edgemere information in this context is going to be an absolute nightmare. And it's going to invite more litigation just as we saw with this combined production.

Third, we've limited the request to just the files on Edgemere. So to the extent that there is any Lifespace information in those files, it's going to be there because it was important to the Edgemere's accounting. And Edgemere's accounting is what we need. There is an allegation in this case that we caused Edgemere's bankruptcy, the defendants caused Edgemere's bankruptcy, that the defendants caused astronomical damages.

And, naturally, we need to know the financial condition of the debtor during the pre-petition period to be able to suss out, one, whether the causation accusation is true, never mind, whether we actually did anything wrong. But also, number two, if it is, the extent of damages. So it may well be, I don't know, that there's Lifespace information in the Edgemere accounting files. But if it's there, it's because it needs to be there and we need to be able to see it.

And at any rate, these are Edgemere files. Lifespace doesn't get a veto over it. They're not the same company. So, again, I don't have any objection to Lifespace getting the documents at the same time. That's fine. But we should get them simultaneously.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you very much, Mr. Hardy.

Mr. Rabuck or Mr. Andrews.

MR. ANDREWS: Thank you, Your Honor. We object to the defendants receiving the documents at the same time because they've already limited their requests to just Edgemere files and so they, you know, have not asserted any entitlement to Lifespace information. To the extent that they're saying there would be some time delay in reviewing these documents, we object to that and would review the documents quickly and --

THE COURT: What's quickly?

MR. ANDREWS: -- expeditiously in order to get them

-- well, we don't know the volume or the amount yet, but we would do it in such a time to ensure that there's no delay and making sure that any production gets to defendants immediately.

The only issue here for Lifespace is Lifespace obviously understands best what information it has that's specific to it and not Edgemere. And so in order to make sure that there is no Lifespace information in this production, Lifespace would like to take a review to ensure that it has the right to object because once, you know, sort of the documents get out, it's prejudicial to then have to retract them to say this information that happened to be in Edgemere's working file was actually not just limited to Edgemere, it actually was Lifespace information. So that's why Lifespace seeks to reserve the right --

THE COURT: Well, I guess where I'm confused, Mr. Andrews, is because you started out by saying you can't tell me how much time you need because you don't know what's in the documents and then you ended with Lifespace is in the best position to know what's in the documents. So which is it?

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, I would clarify my last statement is that to the extent that Lifespace is in the best position to view a document and understand whether it contains Lifespace information. That's what I meant by understanding whether Lifespace information is not -- is in the documents. It's not something that we know now but looking at a document, we're best in position to understand whether it contains Lifespace information.

THE COURT: Did either of these accounting firms prepare consolidated returns?

MR. ANDREWS: I don't have that information handy, Your Honor, but we could certainly provide it to you. And I'm not sure if Lane or any of the accounting firms, you know, on the line now know that offhand.

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, may I speak briefly?

THE COURT: Before I come back to you --

MR. HARDY: Okay.

THE COURT: -- I'm going to hear from Mr. Coffman.

Mr. Coffman, any position on this narrow dispute with -- or any clarification you can give the Court as to at least on the Lane Gorman side what types of accounting information Lane Gorman holds?

MR. COFFMAN: Thank you, Your Honor.

We're not taking any positions here. We're just attending to see what the Court directs us to do, and we'll follow that. As far as your question about can we provide any clarification, it's my understanding that there's tax return and audit information, but it's not related to Lifespace. But that's not a question I've specifically asked my client to say, hey, is there anything in the work papers that would? overlap between the two entities. So I can't tell you definitively how that breaks out.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you very much.

Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, I should have mentioned this earlier, I suppose. I mean, obviously, we served these subpoenas nearly a year ago, maybe more than a year ago now, now that I think about it. Naturally since they sought documents, we posted -- we filed notices of the subpoenas. Lifespace has had a year, a year to advance any objections that they might have to this production, and they haven't. The ship has sailed. And you're not hearing that there actually is any information or really even that they have reason to believe that there is Lifespace information in these files as narrowed.

Again, I don't mind a simultaneous production. But I don't think we should be required to wait on Lifespace to review these documents. And they could have launched this objection a long time ago, undertaken a review of the files to the extent that they have any right to view the files of Edgemere, and worked this through particularly given, you know, we have a -- you're going to hear me say this a lot, we have a January close of fact discovery in this case. We can't just keep waiting and waiting and waiting.

Oh, and interestingly, I'm informed that the Lifespace obligating group under the bonds has their own accounting records and audited financials separate on EMMA, which is like the municipal bond public information repository. So, there we go. They have their own accounting records and audited financials.

THE COURT: All right. Well, from the Court's perspective, I'm at a little bit of a handicap in that I don't know for certain what these accounting firms hold. And I'm reticent to issue an order that would require the turnover of tax records if they could potentially belong to another entity.

But with that, these subpoenas have been out there a very long time. I've got a response from at least one of the third parties in Lane-Gorman.

I'm going to order that the accounting records be turned over to LifeSpace and to the defendant simultaneously. And if there is any issue with any of the accounting information being what I would consider to be consolidated information, right, obviously, LifeSpace runs this community or ran this community as well as many others, if there's any of that information, then the Court's not ordering that to be produced.

So I think that what I'm going to ask for is that the order that comes to me granting this portion of the motion to compel be very specific, that these accounting firms are to turn over the Edgemere accounting records. If there is a question, then I'll wait for LifeSpace to make that objection.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Because I'm not ordering LifeSpace's information turned over and without their ability to review it. Now, granted, I don't have any evidence. I don't have any witnesses, which is becoming a very disturbing pattern. But I have to assume, for purposes of what's before me, that the client of Lane Gorman, that the client of Clifton is the Edgemere entity, is Northwest Senior Housing Corporation, and that is the file that I am ordering turned over.

Again, I don't know if these firms do any kind of consolidated reporting because, of course, I don't believe that absent a better showing that what the accounting records of the other communities that LifeSpace were to run should be turned over in any way. And I don't think you're asking for that, and I recognize that.

MR. HARDY: No.

THE COURT: So I'm not trying to put a kink in the process, but I'm just dealing with the lack of evidence before the Court. So with that, again, I will order them turned over simultaneously.

There are protective orders in place. LifeSpace, I agree with you, had a considerable amount of time to figure out if any of their information was there and what they could have done. So if there's anything further to be done, I'll expect it will be done in accordance with the protective order in place.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: We appreciate that. And I'm not an accountant, but I will try my very best to write a proposed order that makes sense with these guardrails. Thank you very much. So --

THE COURT: There was a point in my life when I was a CPA. I think I can help.

MR. HARDY: Oh, okay. That's great.

All right, so that takes care then --

MR. COFFMAN: Your Honor?

THE COURT: Oh, wait, Mr. Coffman.

MR. COFFMAN: I was just going to interject. That's the only issue that involves my clients. May I be excused from the hearing?

THE COURT: Yes. And I'll also ask that any proposed form of order be passed by both you and Mr. Andrews' team prior to uploading.

MR. HARDY: Absolutely, Your Honor. Of course.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. COFFMAN: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you. Have a great day.

MR. COFFMAN: You, too.

THE COURT: I appreciate it.

MR. HARDY: So, Your Honor, we're halfway through the omnibus. That's three of six right there.

If it's okay, I'd like to go out of order then and go to the back of the omnibus motion --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: -- to Eddie Fenoglio --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: -- who was a former officer --

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: -- of the company, because I think this is a pretty simple one. We're given to understand from Mr. Walker and his colleagues that Mr. Fenoglio has a very small smattering of documents --

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: -- in his possession and control.

THE COURT: Who is Mr. Fenoglio?

MR. HARDY: He's one of the former officers of the company. I think he was the COO.

THE COURT: Of Edgemere?

MS. VANDESTEEG: Thank you for letting me step in, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sure.

MS. VANDESTEEG: For the record, Elizabeth Vandesteeg. Mr. Fenoglio is one of the several individuals that we have identified who are in that very special role of being directors and officers of both Lifespace and Edgemere at all relevant times.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. VANDESTEEG: It is our understanding that Mr. Fenoglio was previously the chief operating officer of Lifespace Communities, Inc. During that same period of time, he was also officer and director for Edgemere.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. VANDESTEEG: It is our understanding that Mr. Fenoglio left that role at Lifespace sometime in approximately June of 2022 --

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. VANDESTEEG: -- which is why he required a separate individual subpoena. We have also sought specific production of documents in his role as a custodian within the combined Lifespace-Edgemere production. However, those are in limited form. We have also then filed the specific subpoena against Mr. Fenoglio in his individual capacity, since we understand that he is no longer employed by either of those entities.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you.

All right. Anything further, Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor. She said it a lot faster than I could have, so that was great.

So, again, there's this small subset of documents. I'm informed it's somewhere between 10 and 20.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: And we've been told since September that these would be coming and that they would be coming, but they keep not arriving.

THE COURT: September of 2023, because we are now at the point where we have to establish the years.

MR. HARDY: Yes, yes.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. HARDY: So the subpoena issued back in 2022, but then there was the stay.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: And so, but yeah.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. HARDY: I'm talking now about September of 2023.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: So they just haven't arrived. And so what we're asking for at this point is an order so that we can fix a deadline for their arrival, because we've been hearing now for, you know, a couple of months that we're going to get them and we keep not getting them.

So what I'd ask for is a week, because that's what I'm going to be asking for on all of these, and we think that's appropriate given the small production and the amount of time that's already been allotted.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

Mr. Andrews, Mr. Rabuck?

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, there's no dispute that we are working with Eddie to identify exactly what he has. I know Ryan mentioned a small universe of documents. We're still confirming with Mr. Fenoglio that there's anything to be produced. And, again, because this is an individual subpoena, he's going through his individual documents to assess what he has.

So we agree that we will produce whatever documents he has in short order but feel that it's not necessary for the Court's attention or any prophylactic order to compel Mr. Fenoglio to produce documents by a certain date. And we're happy to, you know, again, meet and confer with the defendants and set a deadline but don't think it's necessary at this point to set a court-ordered deadline for Mr. Fenoglio to produce these documents, which he already -- to the extent any exist, he's already agreed to produce.

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, I mean, we've been hearing about this limited universe --

THE COURT: I think I've got it, Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: I'll stop. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you very much.

All right. I'll order that Mr. Fenoglio produce the documents -- just one moment, let me get a calendar in front of me -- by the 17th.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Oh, no, no. Excuse me. Wait, wait, wait. I have to figure out what week we're in. I apologize. I intended to give -- produce them by the 22nd.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I'll be clear, I thought it was November 2nd when I was writing this.

MR. HARDY: With the way this year's been going, that's a very understandable mistake.

THE COURT: You're probably a little new to me, Mr. Hardy, unless you've been listening on the line and you recognize that dates and directions befuddle me.

So, by the 22nd, please. Thank you.

MR. HARDY: We're on the same page there, Your Honor.

All right, so that takes us through four of the six.

The fourth and fifth respondents, Your Honor, in the omnibus motion to compel are the Ground Floor Media and Ground Floor Media. And what I'm going to do is discuss the Point Group first because they were the ones probably who are a bit more significant, and then a lot of what I say with respect to the Point Group is going to apply with equal force to Ground Floor Media.

THE COURT: Okay. Before you go too far --

MR. HARDY: Yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: -- Mr. Hardy, do we have any evidence today with respect to the Point Group and Ground Floor Media? Because it will paint how I take opening versus evidence.

So, I'll ask, obviously, Mr. Andrews and Mr. Rabuck, do you have any evidence today?

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, we submitted an affidavit from the CEO -- from the president and COO of the Point Group. It's Exhibit 9 to our witness and exhibit list. And it goes through the issues which I expect Mr. Hardy to discuss, which are, one, production of -- defendants' requests for production of additional documents from SharePoint and Microsoft Teams and then, second, materials withheld from the Point Group production based on attorney-client privilege and work product.

THE COURT: Okay. With that then, Mr. Hardy, I'll allow, since we don't have any witnesses per se other than the declaration, which we will get to in Mr. Andrews' case, I'll let you give probably what I consider the more fulsome argument. So, go ahead.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, one more point. Excuse me. I would just add, in addition to the declaration, there also are two engagement letters that we also submitted with our witness and exhibit list. One of those covers the Point Group, and the second covers Ground Floor Media. So, with those three documents, that rounds out what we intend to present to the court.

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, it's not entirely clear to me if these are being offered right now because, if they are, I'm going to have to object.

THE COURT: No, I'll let Mr. Andrews -- well, I mean, if Mr. Andrews wants to do any offers, we can. If not, I would do them in his case.

MR. HARDY: Okay. Very good. I'm likely to touch on the substance, but I am going to object to the admission of the declaration, because the witness isn't here to be cross-examined.

THE COURT: I had a sneaky feeling.

MR. HARDY: Yeah, and neither of the engagement letters have been authenticated, among other issues. But, anyway, we can set that to one side. We can talk about the substance. So --

THE COURT: All right.

MR. HARDY: -- with respect to the Point Group, there were two chief issues with their production, and Counsel has previewed them for you. The first was the Point Group's decision to withhold documents on attorney-client privilege and work-product grounds. Again, it wasn't the Point Group saying, these are our privileged documents but, rather, these are documents that our client, Lifespace, may claim a privilege or may claim protection over.

The second issue was the Point Group's failure to collect and produce documents, as noted, for Microsoft SharePoint and Microsoft Teams. And just by way of background there, because I don't know what software the Court uses, but Microsoft SharePoint is like a document storage system that allows for collaboration in working on files, and Microsoft Teams --

THE COURT: I'm aware.

MR. HARDY: Okay, great.

THE COURT: Thank you.

MR. HARDY: So, turning first then to privilege and protection, you're about to hear a lot of things that you've heard before, because this same issue came up with respect to the defendants' media relations consultant, the Monument Group. And the Court, with respect to the Monument Group, held that those documents were not privileged, were not protected, and the same result is going to obtain here.

The Point Group, or at any rate, the person advancing privilege, the person claiming privilege, of course, has the burden to show through evidence that the privilege attaches and it hasn't been waived; likewise with work product. And that showing has not been made here, cannot be made here.

The opposition brief relies chiefly on the same cases discussed with respect to the briefing on the Monument Group.

We take that as a compliment. We cited all the right cases for that position. But what's largely, though not entirely ignored, is this Court's order at ECF 309, disposing of those issues. And what I'd like to do is take a spin through that order and its specific provisions and then tie it back to the substance of what the Point Group would propose to show.

THE COURT: I'm ready.

MR. HARDY: So 309, "The question is not whether the defendants worked hand in hand with Levenfeld in developing litigation-related communications. The question is whether Levenfeld needed Monument in order to render legal advice."

Next, relying on the Copper case, did Monument as agents of defendants possess "information needed by the corporation's attorneys to render informed legal advice to the clients." That is, is there evidence that Monument had access to information not available to the defendants' attorneys that was necessary to the attorney's ability to render informed legal advice to the defendants?

Next, whether Monument "was retained to ensure the company's public statements would not result in further exposure to litigation from the scandal." Whether the firm's assignment was distinguishable from, on the one hand, standard public relations work, and that its target audience was not the public at large, but rather focused on, for instance, to the case that the Court was analogizing to at the time, the message that reached prosecutors and regulators with respect to a criminal case so that the firm client could obtain a fair trial.

The core of the Court's holding, Your Honor, is that at any rate, the question is whether the communication be made in confidence for the purpose of obtaining legal advice. And on that score, the Court analogized to the Calvin Klein trademark case where it was held, it may be that the modern client comes to court as prepared to massage the media, as to persuade the judge, but nothing in the client's communications for the former purpose constitutes the obtaining of legal advice or justifies a privileged status.

So let's apply those lessons here. What's the justification for privilege here? There isn't one. So to start with, Your Honor has already reviewed some of the communications between Lifespace and Edgemere on the one hand and the Point Group on the other as part of its in-camera review. And we discussed on Tuesday and -- as we discussed on Tuesday, and we concluded that the communications weren't privileged because they were not in aid of the rendition of professional legal services. They were pure PR communications. And we have every reason to believe that the same is true of the withheld communications writ large.

And TPG's, the Point Group's submissions haven't suggested otherwise. We have an unauthenticated April 11th, 2022 engagement letter and a declaration. With respect to the engagement letter, it postdates all but six of the logged documents, so it couldn't shed meaningful light on the application of privilege or work product to the vast majority of the documents anyway. And at any rate, neither the declaration nor the engagement letter states that the engagement was to facilitate the rendition of legal services.

The declaration states that the Point Group was to manage crisis communications relating to Edgemere and, in particular, communications regarding Edgemere's then forthcoming bankruptcy. The declarant states also that she understood it was anticipated that Edgemere would file for bankruptcy and that Lifespace would be making public statements regarding Edgemere's bankruptcy filing, unquote.

You have heard also that the Point Group worked "at the direction of Lifespace counsel to manage communications regarding Edgemere's bankruptcy filing and restructuring." Whatever facial appeal that that may have, it doesn't stand up to the test that this Court enunciated in its prior order. Nowhere in that declaration does the declarant advance that Cooley needed the Point Group services to render legal services. Nowhere in that declaration does it say that the Point Group was in possession of information that Cooley couldn't obtain on its own necessary to provide legal services.

The declaration doesn't say that the declarant was targeting a specific audience rather than the public at large. And, in fact, the scope of work annexed to the engagement letter identifies the target audiences, and it includes the public at large. And, finally, the declaration doesn't say that the Point Group was engaged to ensure that LifeSpace's public statements wouldn't result in liability. Yes, of course they're going to make public statements, but it doesn't say that the Point Group's engagement was to ensure an absence of liability. That's something that Cooley most surely was capable of assessing itself.

You gave a clear direction in your Monument Group order as to what's required to establish privilege in this context. And neither the Point Group nor anybody else has supplied that information here. There was no privilege.

And I want to pause very briefly here on work product as well, because that has also been advanced. That doesn't apply here, Your Honor. Work product is governed by Civil Rule 26(b)(3), and Rule 26(b)(3) limits the protection of the work product doctrine to parties. Here's Wright and Miller, Section 2024 on this very issue. Documents prepared for one who is not a party to the present suit are wholly unprotected by Rule 26(b)(3), even though the person may be party to a closely related lawsuit in which he will be disadvantaged if he must disclose the present suit. Citations to that at Footnote 49 of the cited provision.

So work product doesn't apply here either, never mind questionable whether this would even be work product at any rate. Further, even if the communications were at one point privileged or at one point work product protected, that's been waived now. And you haven't heard anything to explain, you won't hear anything to explain why it is that that waiver hasn't occurred. And we have four points, four points where that waiver could have occurred.

The first is due to late compliance with the subpoena. As Your Honor knows, Rule 45 mandates responses and objections within the time to comply. Subpoena required compliance November 15th. No objections until November 23rd.

Second, Rule 45 says if you're going to claim privilege or you're going to claim work product, you need to claim that -- make that claim expressly, and you need to support the claim. Well, number two, we didn't get a privilege log until October 6th of 2023, Your Honor, nearly a year after compliance was due.

Number three, when we got that privilege log, it was deficient. It did not explain, for instance, who was claiming privilege. It did not explain, for instance, why the third-party disclosures appearing on the face of the log, including to FTI or Sidley, neither of which was or was claimed to be a representative of Lifespace, why those third-party disclosures didn't serve to waive the privilege.

And then fourth, as we discussed on Tuesday, and we're going to discuss again later today, Lifespace post-petition handed over all of its documents to Edgemere for that combined production. Now, at that point, you have two companies related by separate counsel. One is a creditor of the other to the tune of some $5 million. According to Nick Harshfield's first day declaration, they were already engaged in arm's-length negotiations.

Your Honor, Lifespace turned over all of its purportedly privileged documents to its adversary. That is as clear a waiver as one could conceivably run across. So we have a situation where these were not privileged, were not protected. To the extent they ever were, those were waived. And you're not going to hear any evidence to support otherwise. None.

So that's issue one. I told you there was two issues, right? Privilege and protection. We're done with that.

The other one was a more pedestrian objection, right, and that's undue burden and lack of proportionality. Okay. And, you know, same burden applies, right? If you're going to claim undue burden, disproportionality, you have to prove that through evidence. It has to be a specific claim. But also, before we even get into that, there's a waiver issue, because like with privilege, those objections have to be advanced when?

By the time of subpoena compliance.

And as noted, we didn't get objections until after the time compliance was due. But, leaving that to one side, the declaration does not support that compliance with the subpoena would be unduly burdensome or disproportionate. The declarant advances -- well let's back up. The declaration explains that what the Point Group did to comply with the subpoena was to pull responsive documents from its email systems. Not from SharePoint, not from any other file sources that they may have had, not from Teams, but from its email system. Okay.

The declarant advances that email correspondence is the Point Group's primary source of relevant information. She never says it's the only source. The declarant doesn't explain how much information is missing or advance that it's immaterial or unimportant information or even she's actually undertaken to find out how much information or what kind of information or how important the information is. There's nothing in the declaration about it.

So at Paragraph 9, the declarant avers the Point Group's SharePoint is unlikely to contain much unique information regarding the Point Group's engagement relating to Lifespace. So we can tell from that statement that there's some unique information, we don't know how much, it might be a lot of unique information. But we don't know because she doesn't tell us.

Likewise, with the Teams messages, that's at Paragraph 10 of the declaration, she says, oh the Teams messages would be this -- not that they would be the same as what was already produced but, rather, that their substance would likely be cumulative or duplicative. Did she check? She doesn't say. Instead, she advances an unsupported and unquantified claim that producing those documents from SharePoint and from Teams would demand substantial time and resources -- how much, we don't know -- from the Point Group's single information technology employee who we note did not provide a declaration.

How much time and resources? And how are we to compare that time and resource against the potential value of what would be produced when the declarant hasn't said how much is out there or what it is? We can't. The Point Group has given the court nothing, nothing to weigh this as is going to be required in an undue-burden analysis or a disproportionality analysis.

So, Your Honor, these documents aren't privileged. They're not protected. To the extent they ever were, the privilege and the protection were waived. The production is not unduly burdensome. It is not disproportionate. There will be no evidence to the contrary. And even if there was, those objections also were waived.

We are asking that the Point Group's responsive documents be produced in full.

THE COURT: Thank you very much, Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Andrews, Mr. Rabuck?

MR. ANDREWS: Thank you, Your Honor.

I'll start by giving some background about the Point Group. The Point Group is obviously a third party to this action. It provides public relations strategies, including crisis management, and it's a very small company. They have seven professionals and additional support staff, including just a single information technology professional.

We discussed earlier the engagement letter from the Point Group. The Point Group was hired by Lifespace, then general counsel. And the engagement started on March 28, 2022. The defendants issued a subpoena on the Point Group and, in that subpoena, they requested a broad set of documents, anything about the engagement with Lifespace, Edgemere's financial condition, the restructuring and bankruptcy.

And to clarify one point that Mr. Hardy has asserted, he said that the Point Group waived its responses and objections by serving them late. That is factually incorrect, Your Honor. On November 15, Mr. Walker emailed Michael Heald and requested an extension for responding to the subpoena. Then Ms. Jamie Burns responded, asking how much additional time the Point Group needed to respond. And then we spoke to Ms. Burns from Mr. Hardy's firm and agreed upon a later date. That's why the responses and objections were served on November 23. So what Mr. Hardy just told you is factually incorrect. And I'm happy to send you the underlying documents to show you that.

So with the waiver issue out of the way, the Point Group responded under Rule 45 by identifying with the available resources that, you know, the Point Group has, the source is most likely to contain responsive information. And the Hurtado Declaration demonstrates that, that electronic communications that the Point Group has in its possession, custody, and control related to the subpoena are most likely going to be in the emails.

The Point Group produced over 700 documents, comprising over 1,100 pages. And now defendants also seek for the Point Group to identify potentially responsive documents from both SharePoint and Teams. And Your Honor, that -- Your Honor should deny that request for either of two reasons. One, under Rule 45, it's burdensome to conduct this additional review.

As Ms. Hurtado Declaration bears out, there's a single information technology employee there. He's already spent time identifying over 700 emails and collecting additional materials from SharePoint and Teams. To the extent it's even possible for him to do so would be really burdensome. So it's likely that the Point Group would have to identify a third-party vendor to assist with this, which, you know, given the Point Group's resources, would really be burdensome.

In addition to all that, under Rule 26, it's not proportional to the needs of the case. The burden or expense on the Point Group of getting these additional documents really outweighs any benefit to the case, and it would be unreasonably cumulative and duplicative of what the Point Group's already produced.

As Your Honor knows, people use SharePoint to review and edit documents. Ms. Hurtado has said at Paragraph 9 of her declaration that any documents on SharePoint were likely to have been exchanged either internally or externally through email. These are documents that already would have been produced with Teams. There's a chat function there, but the Point Group primarily communicated -- well, it's electronic communications primarily occurred over email rather than using this chat service. So the substance of any communications that may be on Teams would already be cumulative or duplicative of what the Point Group has produced.

And so when you take that significant burden, whether you have one employee at the Point Group to the extent he could even do this, and that the Point Group has already produced emails reflecting the source of communications, defendants -- the burden and expense outweighs any benefit. And defendants don't identify any need for these documents. And so it doesn't comply with Rule 45 or Rule 26 to ask the Point Group, the third party to this case, to spend even more time and resources from other projects to find every single potentially responsive document to defend and subpoena.

They've taken no steps to reduce the burden and expense on the Point Group. I'll stop there with respect to the request for Teams and SharePoint, unless Your Honor has any questions, and turn to attorney-client privilege and work product.

THE COURT: I don't --

MR. ANDREWS: So to provide some general background --

THE COURT: Just one moment, Mr. Andrews. I guess the question is, you know, obviously I think it originates from an opinion that Judge Horan at the district court issued. Typically what we are looking for in connection with an objection that a production is unduly burdensome is an affidavit establishing what the cost would be to the third party and again, and why that cost is unduly burdensome.

Do I have anything like that?

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, Paragraph 11 of the declaration, Ms. Hurtado declares that they would need to retain a third-party vendor to collect, process, and host these materials. And, you know, third-party vendors would charge for that. And for a small company like the Point Group, you know, we expect that those charges would be significant given, you know, what they've all, the resources they've already expended in producing over 700 documents in response to the subpoena.

THE COURT: All right. So let's let's go on to your privilege argument.

MR. ANDREWS: So to provide a high-level background here, as I noted the Point Group was hired by Lifespace counsel for an engagement to start on March 28. The Ground Floor Media is a public relations firm based in Denver and was also hired by Lifespace counsel on March 1st. And as a general matter, Lifespace objects to the production of attorney-client privilege or work-product materials in the Ground Floor Media and Point Group production.

Your Honor, as I've noted here, the Point Group has not withheld every single document in its production, its produced documents. Ground Floor Media has likewise produced documents. As to the volume of documents withheld, of the Point Group's production, there are about 14 documents completely withheld from the production. About 110, a little bit more than that, have privilege-based redactions. For Ground Floor Media, there's about 36 documents withheld and another 8 contain privilege-based redactions.

So in total, to give Your Honor a sense of the volume, there's about 170 documents we're talking about here. And these documents are protected by the attorney-client privilege, the work product, or both. As Your Honor knows, the United States v. Kovel case outlines that for attorney-client privilege, communications are protected when they're made by a third-party professional in confidence for the purpose of the client obtaining legal advice from the lawyer.

And here, LifeSpace counsel needed to advise LifeSpace about its public statements relating to Edgemere's restructuring and bankruptcy. And then to provide legal advice about what LifeSpace could say, LifeSpace counsel needed the help of crisis communications experts. So it hired the Point Group on March 28th as the declaration and engagement letter show. LifeSpace counsel hired Ground Floor Media on March 1st, 2022.

And the timing shows that this was happening just weeks before Edgemere filed for bankruptcy. So this is not months before like it was in the Monument case. This is literally weeks before Edgemere filed for bankruptcy. And as demonstrated at Paragraph 6 and 7 of the Hurtado Declaration, from that point on, the Point Group acted at the direction of counsel and intended for communications to remain confidential.

So I'd like to touch now on why the factual circumstances here are distinguishable from those in Monument with respect to the Court's order relating to Monument. This court held that Monument assisted defendants with going on the offensive and really supporting the defendants' reputational goal. Of course, here, LifeSpace is the sole member of an entity that's filing for bankruptcy. So it's managing a crisis here related to this restructure.

These statements were also not, you know, to the public at large to really just improve the view of LifeSpace for it to appear like a white knight, as this Court held was the defendants' goal. Rather, LifeSpace as the sole member of Edgemere, its public statements were going to impact the restructuring and bankruptcy filing. And the goal was to make statements in order to have a fair and just result in those proceedings.

And there are two other differences here that are important. One, in the Monument circumstance, there was no declaration like we have here from Brenda Hurtado, the president and COO of the Point Group, explaining the nature of the relationship, why the Point Group was higher. And then, fourth, the Court actually took the documents withheld in in-camera review and determined that those documents did not reflect attorney-client privilege or work-product protection. So we, you know, invite the Court to do the same here should it need to take an extra step and not just reject defendants' request out of hand.

Turning to the work-product Product doctrine, Your Honor, this is broader than the attorney-client privilege. And documents are protected if the primary motivating purpose of the document is to aid in possible future litigation. And the factors courts consider here all point towards work-product protection. As the Hurtado Declaration shows, the Point Group was retained by counsel.

Lifespace counsel, you know, obviously had the same approach with Ground Floor Media given the timing and the parallel nature of the relationship. And it was happening in anticipation of litigation related to Edgemere's restructuring and bankruptcy. In light of that work product protection, defendants haven't identified any need, let alone a compelling one.

And so I'd like to address a couple of points that defendants note with respect to alleged waiver of the work product. I've already touched on the first one that, you know, it's factually incorrect that the late compliance with the subpoena. Two, the Court is happy to take in-camera review of the documents. Third, the defendants have not requested an amended privilege log further clarifying any assertion of privilege. They just requested all of the -- they moved before you for this omnibus motion to compel to get all the underlying documents asserting that this situation is no different from Monument.

So it seems that their main goal is to get these underlying documents, not to get an amended privilege log with more clarity about the assertions of privilege. And then they've made an assertion that there's been a waiver of privilege related to handing over any privileged documents. My understanding is that Tuesday's hearing was demonstrating that all the documents between Lifespace and Edgemere's production were one and the same. And I think that principle is relevant here, as well.

And so, finally, with respect to work product, defendants haven't asserted any need at all to overcome this work-product protection. So with that, Your Honor, I would say that these documents are protected by the attorney client privilege and/or work product. And unless Your Honor has any questions, I'll stop there.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you, Mr. Andrews.

Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: May I briefly? Thank you, Your Honor, Ryan Hardy for the defendants.

I want to talk first about the waiver issue because the last thing I want is for an inaccurate statement to go uncorrected.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: So while we were here, Ms. Vandesteeg checked on the correspondence and, as represented to you by Mr. Andrews, indeed, Ms. Burns of our firm agreed to a production early next week on November 17th and the responses are dated November 23rd. So it was close, but --

THE COURT: Certainly.

MR. HARDY: -- I was inaccurate on that, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: And I apologize for it.

More substantively, Your Honor, we heard a lot about what the evidence would show to demonstrate that this was different from the Monument Group. I didn't hear anybody move to introduce any evidence, so I haven't yet objected to that introduction. As matters now stand, the record is still empty of evidence, just argument of counsel.

The only other point that I wanted to touch on, because I think the question of non-party status and work product is dispositive. That is a bright-line rule that is applicable here. Non-parties cannot invoke that protection. But as Mr. Andrews explained, assuming that it could apply in the first instance, it applies only to documents created to aid in possible future litigation. Leave aside for a moment that there's no evidence here, but what has been otherwise proffered doesn't show that anything generated by the Point Group was to be used in litigation.

And there's really no obvious answer as to why it would have been. Surely, a public relations firm is not going to be drafting things to be filed in a bankruptcy court. That is a completely implausible proposition. So, Your Honor, work product couldn't possibly apply. It doesn't apply.

And then with respect to waiver, the post-petition waiver, Mr. Andrews is right. We had a stipulation that is, you know, I think doing a lot of work as a legal fiction that, you know, all these documents belong to both of these entities, and that's fine. But that doesn't change the fact that the disclosure, what created the problem that led to that stipulation was a disclosure by Lifespace post-petition to Polsinelli, right, to Edgemere. That's what did it.

And at that point, I mean, we could talk about common interest, we could talk about related companies, but all of that depends -- that's all waiver doctrine, but all of that depends on a community or a unity of interest. That's the central question. And we have a situation here where Lifespace just handed everything over to its adversary, right. These were not related companies anymore. It was a creditor and a debtor-in-possession.

So Your Honor, that's all I have to say on that. I would ask that -- Mr. Andrews is right, I'm not asking for an updated privilege log, I'm asking for the documents. And that is what I'd ask the Court to order.

THE COURT: Thank you very much, Mr. Hardy.

Any final words, Mr. Andrews?

MR. ANDREWS: Yes, Your Honor. I mean, to the extent that Mr. Hardy is representing that, there is no evidence in the record, we would like to introduce the Ground Floor Media engagement letter, the Point Group engagement letter, as well as the declaration.

THE COURT: All right. I believe he's moving for admission of Lifespace, excuse me, the Point Group's Exhibits 6, 7, and 9.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor. We object. We object to the admission of the declaration because the witness is not present for cross-examination. We object to the engagement letters because they have not been authenticated. Even if, by the way, the declaration were to be admitted, it doesn't authenticate the Point Group declaration. And we would object also to the engagement letters on the grounds that they are hearsay and that they are statements not made in this court being introduced, as far as we can tell, for proving the truth of the matter asserted.

THE COURT: Mr. Andrews?

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, both Exhibits 1 -- and to be clear, these are Exhibits 1 and 2 of the record, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Yes, and thank you for correcting me, Mr. Andrews. Ms. Jeng was already in the process, I think, or maybe Mr. Calkins, of correcting me as well for the record.

So I do want to be clear. I think Mr. Hardy spoke to the documents themselves, but it is Exhibit 2 that is the engagement letter between the Point Group and Lifespace. It is exhibit nine that is the declaration of Ms. Brenda Hurtado, which, again, Mr Hardy spoke to. And then, finally, is Exhibit 1 the final exhibit, Mr. Andrews, the statement of work and (indiscernible)?

MR. ANDREWS: Yes.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ANDREWS: It's Exhibits 1, 2, and 9.

THE COURT: Okay, thank you.

MR. ANDREWS: Point Group's --

THE COURT: So, if you could speak to those. And I appreciate the correction. Thank you.

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, we would say that Exhibits 1 and 2 are plainly business records that we've produced based on the Point Group and Ground Floor Media's production; and that with respect to the declaration, Your Honor, it's under the penalty of perjury under 28 U.S.C. Section 1746. And on that basis, we would request that the Court consider it.

MR. HARDY: Your Honor?

THE COURT: Anything further, Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: Yeah, just briefly. I've been alerted that my objection to the declaration might not have been entirely clear. It is a hearsay objection at its heart because the witness is not available for cross-examination.

The only other point is Mr. Andrews has, you know, referred to these engagement letters as business records, but there's been no foundation laid for the application of that exception to the hearsay rule.

THE COURT: Okay. I think I'll end where I began, which is are there any witnesses? And so, I won't admit as evidence Exhibits 1, 2, and 9 without a witness. To establish what is a business record, I need a witness. To establish -- I mean, Ms. Hurtado needs to be available for cross-examination on what is unduly burdensome, what did the Point Group do. So I cannot admit those, which brings me to the bigger issue.

Each of you pointed me to my prior order at 309, and each of you skillfully went through the various pieces of case law and authority that I considered as part of the Monument Group discussion. But as of today, the biggest thing that the Court would point to is at Page 6. The burden of proof is on the privilege claimant, and the applicability of the privilege is a highly fact-specific inquiry by the Court. Because the effect of the attorney-client privilege is to restrict or withhold relevant information from a fact-finder, it's been interpreted narrowly by the Fifth Circuit.

And as I said then, and I will say today, it's important to note that the defendants opted not to put on any witnesses to describe Monument's relationship to litigation, instead opting for the Court to review the documents in camera. I don't have any evidence, again, here today. And I'll return to the issue of privilege. It is the exception. And if I am going to restrict discovery, I have to have a reason to do that, and the reason has to be through evidence, not through argument.

I said then and I'll say again, because I'm pretty sure I said this at the hearing with respect to Monument, if you read Kovel, if you read Grand Jury, if you read Copper, and if you read Calvin Klein, the biggest issue in those cases was the court had an evidentiary hearing. The court heard from witnesses. The court reviewed documents. And then each of those courts made their decision of whether or not those various accountants and PR firms, et cetera, were, number one, A, retained by counsel, and then B, were integral to the proliferation of legal services.

I grant you, Mr. Hardy, that there is an argument that certain of these PR firms might have been in a bent of a different bet than the Monument group was. The Monument Group was hired pre-litigation, and at least there was assertions in the pleadings of when the Point Group or Ground Floor Media were hired. And perhaps, there are certainly instances in which a crisis management communications group could be protected by the privilege. But I don't know any court doing that without evidence, and that's what I don't have today.

I don't have any evidence to support a privilege. And so the Court is left with no option than to grant the motion of compel as filed by the defendants. And, again, I would just reiterate, parties had the benefit of the court's prior order at 309. I mean, this issue was not only highlighted -- say what you want about the Court's lengthy status conferences. I know they are the favorite of Mr. Taylor, specifically.

But, I mean, say what you will, but you do have the benefit of highlighting things and knowing what's coming down the pipe and knowing -- go and read the Court's prior order and see what the Court said there. And the Court said there was no evidence, and there was nothing then but the in-camera documents. So the Court is left to review documents in a vacuum. And I can only make so many inferences that the Court feels comfortable with without witnesses, without understanding the broader scope of what's going on at the time.

So with that, the court will grant the defendants' motion to compel with respect to the Point Group. I don't believe that there was an objection with respect to Ground Floor Media, correct?

MR. HARDY: I --

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, because Lifespace holds the privilege of the documents, Lifespace objected to documents produced from Ground Floor Media's production.

THE COURT: Okay. Oh, okay.

MR. ANDREWS: But, yes, Your Honor, Ground Floor

Media itself did not object.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, I think I can spin through Ground Floor Media pretty quickly.

THE COURT: Okay, so let me let me do this. So, again, my, my ruling will be then specific to the Point Group. I'll order those documents produced.

Now, let's talk specifically -- so, again, anything that's being withheld based on privilege grounds is to be produced. Let's talk specifically to SharePoint and Teams. I am going to order that the SharePoint documents be be produced. With respect to the Teams, I mean, we're talking about a chat feature.

So I recognize there's an evidentiary issue here, Mr. Hardy. But the chat feature, I mean?

MR. HARDY: The only reason that we asked for it --

THE COURT: It's like a bunch of gifts to me.

MR. HARDY: Yeah, no. It's not that we're really that interested in how people's weekends were. But the emails that were produced to us from times that, you know, sometimes like Teams will send you an email when --

THE COURT: Yes. Yes.

MR. HARDY: -- you get a Teams message. So what we were able to see from that is that often attachments were being sent through Teams.

THE COURT: Oh.

MR. HARDY: That's why we're interested in the Teams messages.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: Not because I want to see, you know, pictures of people's cats, though, you know, I'd take that, too.

(Laughter)

THE COURT: There's at least one member of my group whose ears just perked up with interest.

All right. So, again, with respect to SharePoint, I'm going to order those produced with respect. I'll order the production of the Teams, as well. But I'm going to take a very restrictive view of relevance there, okay. I'm not expecting, hey, we've got Edgemere this weekend. Let me tell you about the game. I don't want this -- I'd like them to look for the more pointed chats in terms of relevance, okay, on the Teams.

MR. HARDY: I will endeavor to craft an order that can do that.

THE COURT: Well, I --

MR. HARDY: Yeah.

THE COURT: I'm saying that for the benefit of Mr. Andrews to give that to the benefit of the Point Group and their --

MR. HARDY: Sure.

THE COURT: -- and their view. If documents are being shared on Teams, then those documents need to be produced. And perhaps, if an email is being sent, it's the best way to search your Teams.

MR. HARDY: Okay, that's great.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. HARDY: And in terms of timing, what would you like me to put in there?

THE COURT: In terms of timing, Mr. Andrews, do you have a proposal on when this review can take place?

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, I don't yet. I'm happy to get back to Mr. Hardy in short order. I think we have to obviously engage a third party to collect the information. But I would expect we'd be able to do it, you know, towards the end of the month --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ANDREWS: -- is my best guess without having the benefit of understanding the actual --

THE COURT: Is there a deposition that is scheduled for --

MR. HARDY: Well, no, there's no deposition set for the Point Group, but there's a reason for that. And the reason is that we don't have the documents. And this is part of a broader concern that I have is, you know, we're still going through these issues. We're still waiting on documents. And even with this order, we're still going to be waiting on documents for some period of time.

And we have all these depositions to take between now and January. With Thanksgiving and Christmas sitting in the middle of it, you know, we're on a really tight timeline. And I can appreciate where Mr. Andrews is. And if I was in his shoes, I would probably also be asking for the end of the month. But this is not -- the current schedule that we're on can't afford that.

THE COURT: Well, again, I'm going to order the production of the documents that have already been culled and been and been withheld on privilege. So you will get that. I mean, again, it's a small amount at the whole. I am going to give TPG through to December 1st, which is the last Friday of this month to turn over the SharePoint and Teams messages, recognizing that if there is one IT professional, which I do believe everything that Mr. Andrews just told me, that it's going to take a little bit of time. So I'll give them to that time to produce those additional SharePoint and Teams messages.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: That which has already been culled and simply withheld, I'll put that on the same timeline as the others. So let me look back in my notes, just give me one moment.

MR. HARDY: I'm told it was the 22nd, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Pardon?

MR. HARDY: I'm told it was the 22nd.

THE COURT: Oh, yes. Right. On the Fenoglio's, right. I gave that a little bit of time because, I mean, technically, counsel doesn't have those yet. So give me a moment.

(Pause)

THE COURT: Given that these documents have already -- the documents that are already in the hands of counsel should be produced by the 17th, November 17th.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. So for sake of the record, again, anything that's already been withheld by privilege and the privilege assertion has been denied due to lack of evidence and motion compel, granted. If it's already been pulled, it's due November 17th. If it is not and it needs to be pulled, like the SharePoint and Teams messages by the Point Group, it'll be December 1st.

All right. So we were, I believe, going to Ground Floor Media?

MR. HARDY: Ground Floor Media, and this one is the last one in the omnibus, and it's going to be an easy one since we already did the heavy lifting with the Point Group.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: With respect to Ground Floor Media, again, we have a media consulting firm. So everything that I said about privilege before applies with equal force; likewise with work product protection. Subpoena-required compliance by November 15th. I'll skip the part where I talk about when we got objections, just in case.

But one thing that I am confident in is that we did not get a privilege log until October 6th of 2023. So we have a timeliness issue there as well third-party disclosures, post-petition disclosures, so on, so forth.

And I do want to report some good news, which is that during the meet-and-confer process with the good Floors -- other outside, like their outside counsel, the regular outside counsel, they confirmed that for the time period at issue, Ground Floor only withheld documents for privilege or work product. So we don't have to talk about, you know, undue burden, proportionality, anything like this.

Everything has already been pulled, as I understand it. And the only thing we're talking about is whether Lifespace can sustain its claims of privilege. As noted, the only thing that has been set forth in the witness and exhibit list on that score is the engagement letter. I would object to its admission where it offered. I guess I'll wait until it's actually offered before I do that.

But that's the preview. That's the presentation. We would ask for all of Ground Floor Media's responsive documents to be produced and all claims of privilege or work product overruled.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Hardy.

Mr. Andrews.

MR. ANDREWS: Your Honor, not to reiterate many of the points I stated with the Point Group, but we would again, you know, say that the timing and circumstances of the hiring demonstrate attorney-client privilege. And also that there's work product reflecting attorney's impressions in these documents that, you know, we would assert privilege over.

And with that, I won't repeat my prior presentation, but we'll just, you know, notify the Court that our positions are similar there, as well.

THE COURT: Okay, thank you very much, Mr. Andrews.

For the exact same reasons that the Court declined to -- excuse me, for the same reasons that the Court granted the motion to compel with respect to the Point Group, the Court will grant the motion to compel with respect to Ground Floor Media, burden of proof with respect to privileges is on the claimant. And that being a fact-specific inquiry, the Court does not have sufficient facts before it to grant the narrow applicability of privilege to these documents.

And all that I can say is if the Monument Group order wasn't a red flag and a guidepost to how the Court views privilege, let this be the same. I recognize, again, that crisis media and PR firms, there are times in which those entities can be protected by the privilege, but the burden is on the claimant. So the Court will grant the motion to compel. If those have already been and pulled together, the Court will order that production by the 17th.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

(Pause)

THE COURT: And I'll just say for the record before we move on, I've said before that the Court doesn't care for discovery disputes. I know no one cares for discovery disputes. And the Court doesn't take privilege lightly. But I think that I, from the Court's perspective, can only be consistent and fair.

I'm sure that the defendants didn't like my Kong order, didn't like my Monument order, and I'm sure that LifeSpace and others don't like this order. But I believe that it's extremely important that the Court be consistent in its ruling. So that is a big factor in the decisions today.

And given the number of discovery disputes as we have and how long these things take, it's also the reason that I'm ruling from the bench today. But a lot went into our reading and preparation for today, because I not only reviewed everything that had been reviewed before in connection with the Monument order, but also reviewed, I think, the Stardock and Kirkpatrick decisions that were cited by the Point Group's counsel in preparation today. So all of that went into the Court's ability to bench rule today.

So where do we go from here, Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: Well, Your Honor, my proposal would be to go to the supplemental motion to compel as against FTI. It's Docket Number 386. And the reason I'm proposing that is because we're still in third-party land that way. And also, there is no objection filed, so I think we can spin through it pretty fast.

THE COURT: All right. Let's go.

MR. HARDY: Okay. So by way of background, as the Court's aware, FTI Consulting is a turnaround firm, business management firm, that was a retained professional in the bankruptcy case and did some pre-petition consulting, as well.

As identified in our motion, we had two primary issues with FTI's production. The first was that it didn't produce its documents in native format, which meant that our ability to assess whether the production was complete was impaired, and we couldn't slice and dice the searches quite the way we wanted to and that we should be able to when documents are produced natively.

And the second was, again, privilege and protection issues. There were documents that, in our view, were improperly withheld or redacted. So FTI is now represented by the Sidley Austin Law Firm.

So with respect to the first issue, the native production, we've been working with Sidley to try to work that out. I don't understand, as I said, no objection's been filed. There's no objection, as far as I know, to the production of native documents. It's just a matter of figuring out how best to do it. And Sidley might be able to speak better to it than I can. But my understanding is that FTI no longer had a copy of what it sent to Polsinelli way back in the day when the subpoena was initially served, so they couldn't assess what wasn't produced natively versus what was image filed.

So we provided to Sidley a link to what we received. And we understand that since then, Sidley and Diamond McCarthy have been working together to figure out what's needed to complete a native production. Obviously, I don't want to impose any more burden on FTI than is absolutely necessary. And if they're working with the Diamond folks to get this done, I think that's great. No objection there.

Really what I'm looking for is to fix a deadline as to when that's going to be completed. And, you know, I do want to say that I very much appreciate how easy Sidley Austin has been to work with on this matter and their diligent attention to our requests.

In terms of the second issue, privilege and protection, Sidley directed us to the Diamond McCarthy Law Firm. As I've already said, FTI isn't claiming that these documents are FTI privileged or FTI work product. That is something that Edgemere is claiming, so we've been directed to the Trustee. So we have our motion to compel production of the privileged and -- or allegedly privileged and work product documents.

I can spin through that, but there's also been no objection filed. So if we can save the time, I'll just save the time. I'll leave it up to Your Honor.

THE COURT: Well, I grant that no objection's been filed. We also had a whopping eight days' notice of this. So the Court is usually fairly flexible with respect to objection deadlines when it comes to expedition.

MR. HARDY: Sure.

THE COURT: It's why I love expedited motions. Certainly aids in the court preparation. So let me hear from counsel. I'll start with Sidley's counsel, and then I'll move to the Trustee's team.

Ms. Travalini?

MS. TRAVALINI: Thank you. Thank you, Your Honor.

So we have, on behalf of FTI, we have no objection to the production of native documents and any documents that may have been withheld on the basis of privilege and working through that. But, again, as to the privilege issue, I will defer to Diamond McCarthy as the privilege does not belong to FTI. And FTI will agree by the privilege calls of its ultimate client.

On the native issue, just to provide you with some additional color, Sidley is now doing a three -- what I'll call a three database comparison. So we have now the original set of documents that we retrieved back from FTI, comparing that to third party access to Diamond McCarthy's database, which we received to try and determine what was produced. And then to the extent that there were any database glitches between what Polsinelli had and what Diamond McCarthy received, we now also have the benefit, as Mr. Hardy indicated, of the Jackson Walker database or set of documents that we are also comparing.

So the process is certainly underway. This is a little bit more of a, what I'll call a metadata comparison exercise to try and match documents that don't only appear on their face to be similar but actually are the same document, since that is the way that, you know, we're trying to match the original native to what was produced. So my understanding is there are about 6,300 pages, at least, of documents that were produced. And we are working through it as quickly as we can with our team here and certainly I have no objection to it.

I would say, in terms of timing, if the Court would afford FTI until the November 22 time frame that I've heard on this status conference is being afforded, we should be able to meet that deadline.

THE COURT: Okay, thank you very much, Ms. Travalini.

I'll now hear from Mr. Taylor on privilege.

MR. TAYLOR: My understanding is the privilege log -- this is Greg Taylor for the Trustee.

My understanding is that the FTI privilege log was prepared by the firm that was on this prior to us.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. TAYLOR: I think there's like 200 and something documents on the log. There's been a lot of stuff that's been flying around in this case. So I can't say for sure, but I do not recall having any significant meet and confer on which ones people are saying shouldn't be privileged and which ones aren't. I'm not trying to hold stuff back as privilege if it's not. And I'm trying as hard as I can to work with people to get stuff done.

So I want to be helpful to the process, but I need to I need to talk with the other side to see exactly which ones it is that they think are a problem. And then we'll look into that as quick as we can in the Thanksgiving time frame. But yes.

THE COURT: Thank you.

Mr Hardy? And I'll let you speak to both the proposed November 22nd deadline that, I'll give you a preview, sounds very reasonable to me, and then with respect to the privilege issue.

MR. HARDY: Sure. And to us, too.

THE COURT: Okay. Excellent.

MR. HARDY: As far as the date goes.

So, Your Honor, when we started the meet and confer process with respect to the FTI subpoena, that was back in 2022. And we sent a detailed letter to FTI's general counsel identifying the defects that we had spotted in that production. Obviously, the case was then stayed. And when it thawed out, we reached out again. That was when we learned that, you know, okay, well, Sidley is representing them. Sidley advised us that the privilege issues were Diamond McCarthy's.

So when we unfroze that, sent the new letter to FTI's general counsel, it was again detailed. And it's in your one of your binders. And, you know, subsequent to Sidley Austin's instruction that, you know, really, we need to talk to Diamond McCarthy about this, you know, naturally, we reached out to Diamond McCarthy about it. So, you know, I can't agree that there hasn't been an adequate opportunity to meet and confer. I think that our discussions and what we've identified about the defects are detailed. But I can summarize them here.

First, it appears that at least some of the communications weren't about legal strategy at all. I mean, FTI is a business consultant, so we can expect that at least some of these communications were chiefly for business purposes rather than legal purposes. And really, the timing of that bears it out, too. I mean, we're not talking about documents that are limited just to that immediate pre-petition phase, but also, you know, much, much older as well, going back to 2021, as I recall.

Many of the entries on the log state that the documents contain, for instance, work product regarding projections, audit schedules, and or accounting, right. And this is back in August and September of '21 that we're seeing these entries. So when we're seeing schedules, you know, we're not talking about bankruptcy schedules there. I mean, we're talking about just purely business work, it appears.

For another thing, a number of the communications include the Point Group and Ground Floor Media, suggesting that, you know, one, they concern chiefly media strategy rather than legal strategy, and two, that there is a waiver there because those people are not in the circle of secrets, right.

And, you know, what's more, if the Court were to look through the Dallas Morning News articles that are attached as exhibits to what's now the plaintiff's complaint, the Court would see that it was FTI's Rachel Chesley that was providing statements to the press. And as it happens, as a matter of fact, that's what she does. She is an in-house media person for FTI who provides services to FTI's clients. So, you know, it's pretty clear that these communications are not limited to legal communications. We have business, financial, PR communications, as well.

The log also shows that FTI wasn't just communicating with Edgemere and its counsel, right. Remember, FTI was engaged as an estate professional here. So it was an Edgemere engagement. But it was also corresponding with Lifespace and its counsel. And while that could have been conceivably appropriate at times, by the time that we reached the pre-petition period, the immediate pre-petition period, it certainly wasn't. And we've discussed this already with respect to the post-petition waiver of privilege.

But, you know, in the immediate pre-petition period, it was no longer the case that, you know, all of Edgemere's duties were owed to Lifespace, its sole owner. It was insolvent. It had duties to creditors. Lifespace was a $5 million creditor. They were, according to Nick Harshfield, already in negotiations. So that was not a period when there was this community or unity of interest that would support any sort of exception to that general waiver that, you know, when you're disclosing information to your adversary, it's not privileged, it's not protected.

A lot of the entries in the log identify work product as a basis for withholding. Again, we have communications dating back to February 21. So that's long before any litigation conceivably could have been contemplated. I just, I don't see it, and I don't think that it's going to meet the 26(b)(3) burdens. I don't think it could.

Related but distinct, we also have doubts about the accuracy, frankly, of the descriptions in the privilege log. And I want to be really clear right now and say I understand that Mr. Taylor did not do this log. I understand that his firm did not do this log, okay, so I'm not trying to say anything about him. But the very first entry in the log is dated February 3, 2021, and is described as containing attorney-client privilege and work product regarding restructuring bankruptcy adversary proceeding and/or communications regarding the same.

Your Honor, the bankruptcy cases in this adversary proceeding were filed in April of 2022. And I'm hard pressed to believe that there was communications about those back in February of 2021, over a year before it happened. The next -- this isn't isolated. I mean, the next 17 entries are substantially the same. And not to put too fine a point on it, but when a company like FTI says that it was communicating about restructuring bankruptcy or the adversary, that kind of amounts to saying nothing at all. I mean, really all that says in the context of a company like FTI that does what FTI does is we were working, right, because that's like the only things that it's going to communicate about.

So, you know, we have an issue as well as to whether this was adequately preserved, adequately described. There's also, and we're going to talk about this again later and I think it's -- it sounds like it's probably partly due to a misunderstanding, but there's a ton of communications with UMB that are still being withheld based on a common-interest privilege identified in this log. That has already been resolved. That was resolved in the Court's February 6th, 2023 order when the Court found that UMB and the debtor were not acting in concert and that the common-interest exception to waiver didn't apply. So those need to come out, too.

So, Your Honor, we're in an issue here where, you know, we don't have a timely assertion of privilege. We have the late response issue again, you know, and there's been no establishment that these documents are privileged or protected. And consequently, you know, we submit that, you know, they ought to be produced. We're mindful of the plaintiff's position. You know, to the extent that the Court requires or thinks it's advisable to do an in-camera review, I mean, I think for this one, we'd be willing to do it. But I'm just not seeing that the log supports the privileges and protections that are being advanced here or that there's, you know, other evidence to support it, as is required.

THE COURT: Well, I'll hear from Mr. Taylor, but I'll just go ahead and just put it out there. You've listed nine things. The Court's not going to review in-camera nine sets. So I'll hear from Mr. Taylor of how we can narrow this dispute, but I won't be taking in -- I mean, at some point, folks need to do their own discovery.

And so let me hear from Mr. Taylor how we can narrow this because there's a lot out, that's a lot of points.

MR. TAYLOR: I'm going to make sure that you don't have to look at these things in camera, because you shouldn't have to. I mean, there's a -- here's the problem with some of this stuff.

So from what I understand, and maybe I'm not the most knowledgeable person on the issue, but I've heard there's like four different privilege logs relating to FTI. And so what needs to happen first is I need to make sure what is the one that everybody is looking at, how many documents are on there. I think that answer might be 240. And then we'll just -- give me some time to just go through the thing. If their position is they're all bad, this follows a trend that every other prior party seems to have, which is they want us to redo all this work.

But I'm happy to go look at it and give them some. I'm not trying to hold things for privilege. If there's UMB documents on there that aren't supposed to be on there, I'll give it to them. And you certainly don't have to look at that.

THE COURT: No.

MR. TAYLOR: And on anything else, if we came up to something that was a close call, hopefully it's a handful and I can just come up to a hearing and show them to you. But I am trying to help, but I'm just afraid with all the things that everybody wants that people are going to try and make me do everything, you know, before Thanksgiving. And unlike a lot of firms here, I don't have that army.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. TAYLOR: So I'm going to go as fast as we can. If I could have to the end of the month on this one just to figure it out and to deal with them to see what they want and to try and make sure that I have or I'm not even sure I have all the documents. I'm supposed to have them. I'm supposed to have all the FTI documents. But whether I have all the documents that were previously pulled for privilege, I don't know. That should be an easy thing for me to get, but what I am finding in this case is just because something should be easy, it isn't always.

So I am trying to help them on this. And I just need to make sure I understand which is the log. He's given me this stuff now, but if I can go find whatever the prior letter was that he's referring to, we'll dig into that.

THE COURT: Okay, thank you, Mr. Taylor. I'll hear from Mr. Hardy.

I mean, there appears to be a few of just what I'll call low-hanging fruit on here is based upon the Court's orders today with respect to the Point Group and with Ground Floor Media, based upon the Court's prior orders with respect to UMB, those might be easy.

But with that, again, I'll hear from you, Mr. Hardy, in terms of a proposal with respect to timing, but I want, I expect, and I require folks to work together on these. And so if it's -- given the related company issues, given the business versus commercial purpose issues, I understand why. And the other issues that you've factually noted with respect to 2021 correspondence, talking about bankruptcies and adversaries, I understand how you could be quizzical about those.

But at the same time, this is exactly what meet and confers are. Here's what we've highlighted, here's where we think these are obviously not privileged. Diamond McCarthy, please look at these and see is the privilege log busted or do these just need to be produced? And so given that you've highlighted eight different issues, I would suggest, like I said, that you start with the low-hanging fruit and then see if UMB, TPG, or Ground Floor Media folks are listed on them. Maybe that is the answer, so long as that's correct.

But other than that, I want and require a little bit more cooperation and conferences regarding these documents so that if -- and the Court's not opposed to a limited -- I can't bold, highlight, and italicize that word enough -- a limited review of in-camera documents, not dissimilar to what I did in the past, looking at what's commercial versus what's legal.

I've done that with Monument. I've done that with Lifespace. But just to take nine topics, I won't do that. There needs to be something that happens before that.

So what is your proposal, Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: Well, I suppose what I would propose is to do what precisely what Your Honor is saying.

THE COURT: That's a good proposal.

MR. HARDY: Yeah, thank you. I came up with it myself. I'm thinking through this right now.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: But here's my concern, and I don't have quite the history that some other people in the courtroom --

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: -- have with this proceeding. But, you know, as I've mentioned, you know, we're on a tight time frame here. I want to keep things on a leash. I mean, I understand that, you know, back when, you know, the stay was being lifted, you know, there was some discussion about when this trial was going to happen, and we wanted it in December of '24. And, you know, the other side was saying, well, we're going to be ready March of, you know, March of '24, March of '24, I suppose.

So, you know, I'm deeply concerned about the delay here. But that being said, I hear you loud and clear. We need to meet and confer. So what I would propose to do is to go ahead and maybe sort the FTI documents into buckets like we did for the LifeSpace-Edgemere documents and run through it like that. And I'm going to make one of my colleagues very, very upset, I'm sure. Maybe we'll get that list by?

MS. VANDESTEEG: We'll figure it out.

MR. HARDY: We'll get that list to the Trustee very, very quickly.

THE COURT: Right. And so I mean, I know that there's ongoing issues with privilege log, trying to find the right privilege log, trying to do it. But I believe, again, and I'm not asking, I'm not putting all the onus only on you or only on Mr. Taylor. Obviously, Mr. Taylor's here he's listening, okay? He knows that if UMB is on a document, that's subject to a prior order. He knows if Ground Floor Media and the Point Group are listed on documents, well, that's it. There's no privilege there anymore.

MR. HARDY: Sure.

THE COURT: Okay. So get those -- so the only thing that has to happen is find those references on the proper privilege log, look at the actual documents just to make triple sure, and let them go. Everything else, I'd ask that you kind of make your -- send your proposals over to the Trustee and then we get that done. If we want, we can continue this matter.

When do you want, and then to allow you guys to make some headway? And at that point, I can set a firm deadline, but I will expect some headway to have been made.

MR. HARDY: Yeah. We can continue this to, I think that week following Thanksgiving, if the Court is available, and that's going to give us an opportunity I think also to give a status on the supplemental productions that have been ordered with respect to the omnibus motion to compel.

THE COURT: Let me see what we have. I think that is the week of the 27th, but we know I can't read dates, so let me see what we have.

(Pause)

THE COURT: Does the 28th look good, Ms. Jeng, the morning?

(Court and Clerk confer briefly)

THE COURT: Let me look. So, Ms. Harden, if you could look for some time, are we looking for about an hour of time?

MR. TAYLOR: Sure.

THE COURT: Let's look, the week of the 27th, Ms. Harden. It looks like we have some free mornings on the 28th or the 29th, and then maybe we have some free time the afternoon of the 30th, as well.

She's going to look at those dates. Are there any preferences?

MR. TAYLOR: Go ahead.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Your Honor, in a brief huddle on this side while not having confirmed with everyone, we believe that the morning of the 29th would be preferable for us.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: Fine for me.

THE COURT: Okay, we have November 29th at 9:30.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

Would you like an -- we'll put that in the order, I suppose.

THE COURT: Yes, if you would.

MR. HARDY: Because we're going to say that the FTI motion is continued to that date.

THE COURT: Right. Exactly.

MR. HARDY: And for further status, yeah, right. Yeah.

THE COURT: Yeah. So I guess the housekeeping question really is, okay, so we'll have an FTI order continuing to that date. Do you want a separate order setting a status on that date at the same time where we can follow up on the --

THE COURT: No, you can put -- I guess from an FTI perspective, we have the 11/22 to provide the native documents and we've got the -- and then we will continue this hearing to 11/29.

MR. HARDY: Right. Yeah. Yeah, the reason I'm thinking of a status on 11/29 is because we have people who are going to be producing documents and we want to make sure, I mean, if there hasn't been compliance or if there's anything, I'd like to have a placeholder. We can also discuss this at the end of the hearing. We don't need to raise it now.

I'm just trying to figure out if in the order I need to be, if I need to be separating these out into different orders.

THE COURT: I don't think we -- we don't necessarily need -- yes, Ms. Harden, is the answer to your question is reserve the whole morning to be safe.

With respect to the continuance of the hearing, we can just do that by a follow-up notice of hearing.

MR. HARDY: Okay.

THE COURT: And whether you call it status, whether you call it continuance, I mean, we're going to kind of look at these issues fresh once they are narrowed.

MR. HARDY: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. So I think that -- does that take us through 386?

MR. HARDY: That takes us through the omnibus and FTI. We still have our motion against the plaintiff.

THE COURT: I understand.

MR. HARDY: I want to note that it's 11:40. I haven't missed my target yet.

MR. TAYLOR: But it's not looking good.

(Laughter)

MR. HARDY: Just stay quiet back there, Mr. Taylor, and I'll get through this really fast.

Ms. Travalini?

MS. TRAVALINI: And, Your Honor, I'm sorry, this is -- if I may interject, I believe this is the last matter that relates to FTI, so if I may be excused from the hearing.

THE COURT: Take me with you. No, I'm kidding.

(Laughter)

THE COURT: One day these transcripts will come back to bite me.

(Laughter)

MS. TRAVALINI: Thank you very much.

THE COURT: Thank you very much, Ms. Travalini. You have a great day.

MS. TRAVALINI: Thank you very much.

THE COURT: All right.

MS. TRAVALINI: Thank you, you too.

THE COURT: Okay, so we have two motions remaining, right?

MR. HARDY: We only have one defendants' motion remaining. We have the plaintiff's motion, as well.

THE COURT: Right. And then --

MR. HARDY: Yeah.

THE COURT: So we're now going to 362?

MR. HARDY: 362, yes, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. I'm ready.

MR. HARDY: Okay, so this is it.

THE COURT: Does anybody need -- wait, let me be kind here. Does anyone need a convenience break; staff or litigants?

MR. TAYLOR: I would like five minutes.

THE COURT: All right. We will do that. We'll come back at 11:55.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE CLERK: All rise.

(Recess at 11:42 a.m./Reconvened at 11:58 a.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: Please be seated. We can go back on the record in Case Number 22-3040. And I think when we broke for a recess, we were going to do the motion to compel filed at Docket 362.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor. Ryan Hardy for the defendants. Yes, we were at 362. It is a motion to compel against the plaintiffs. There's three separate issues raised in this motion. And the first is the sufficiency of the interrogatory responses that have been provided to us.

And the particular issue that we have is we'll ask a question. And among other things, the answer we'll receive is your responsive information can be found in the accompanying document production, right, which refers back to that whole 66,000 page mess that we talked about on Tuesday.

To be clear, and I've told Mr. Taylor this, there's absolutely nothing wrong under 33(d) with referring to business records for a response. And I'm taking it on faith that all of these documents that have been produced in this combined Lifespace/Edgemere production are in fact business records.

But the problem that we run into is 33(d) only allows for that, when the responding party specifies the records that need to be reviewed to ascertain the answer, "In sufficient detail to enable the interrogating party to locate and identify them as readily as the responding party could," and give "the responding party a reasonable opportunity to examine all of the records and to make copies," et cetera, et cetera.

THE COURT: So you're asking for a Bates range?

MR. HARDY: I'm asking for a Bates range. Yes. That's right, Your Honor. And I saw Mr. Taylor's response, and it was not a surprise to me, because we had talked about that as he represented. And he said, can I have 30 days from the amended pleading deadline to supplement.

And I can see some reason for that. I get it. The pleadings are going to change. But here's the issue that we have. Once again, we are on a tight schedule. We have a lot of depositions to take. Unless there's going to be a giant change in these pleadings, we need to get them started.

And that means that with respect to, for instance, alleged violation of the NDA, we need to know what specifically we did to violate it. It's not enough to say, well, you had confidential documents, and you knew you had confidential documents, and you knew which confidential documents they were. No. We need to know specifically, what information did we disclose. That's something that we're entitled to. The 33(d) reference does not provide for that, and the timing doesn't work.

We have a lot of depositions we need to take. We need this information now. Not later, but now. And we've been asking for it for a couple of months now. And to be clear also, I can appreciate that we have between Mr. Taylor and me, two relative newcomers to this case, right. And he's been in the case I understand since June.

I think my pro hac was granted in September, right. But also, it's been since June. So I mean, if there are factual bases for these allegations, we're entitled to know specifically what documents in that 66,000 document set are the ones that are supporting the claims. And that's all I have to say about that.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: Do you want me to run through the whole thing, or do you want to go issue by issue like we did on the omnibus --

THE COURT: Let me remind myself of the other issues that we're going to hit.

MR. HARDY: I think what you're going to find is probably going issue by issue is going to be the --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: -- best way.

THE COURT: Then if that's the case, then let's go. Mr. Taylor?

MR. TAYLOR: Greg Taylor for the Trustee. As you know, I did not actually prepare the answers for interrogatories --

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. TAYLOR: -- that we're talking about. But I understand his point. These answers for interrogatories were done early in the case, 2022. At that time, it is a very common thing for litigants, if they get interrogatories at the beginning of the case, to say everything that we have is going to be in the documents we produce. Here's how I know -- other than just the fact that I'm old -- here's how I know it's common. Let me show you, for example, if I can approach. And do you want me to --

THE COURT: Is this going to be your attachments A and B? Or is it going to be something different?

MR. TAYLOR: It is going to be my attachments A and B.

THE COURT: I have those.

MR. TAYLOR: Okay.

THE COURT: I'm with you.

MR. TAYLOR: I'm looking at -- and I can't remember if it's A or B -- I'm looking at Kong Capital LLC's answers to our interrogatories. And specifically --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. TAYLOR: -- I'll just direct your attention to Interrogatories 2 and 3, because they make the point that I want to make. When asked to produce the things that are responsive to 2 and 3, what their response, after they objected to a bunch of stuff was, "Notwithstanding the foregoing objection, and subject strictly thereto, Kong shall produce any nonprivileged documents in answer to this interrogatory." I don't see a Bates range there. And I wouldn't expect to see one. Because everybody's at the beginning of discovery at the time that these things come out.

Now, since the time all these things have come out, I think a whole whopping one deposition has been taken. So we're still pretty much at the beginning of discovery, although, I mean, obviously, there's been a lot of documents that were exchanged, but they were exchanged a long time ago too. I'm just saying, the way that we answered interrogatories is similar to the way that they did.

Now, are they entitled to get what I think are the key documents? Of course they are. Of course they are, and I'm going to give it to them, but our amendment -- our deadline to amend the pleadings, I think might be Monday. And so what I told them was let me get my amended pleading out. There are going to be some changes.

And then the way that we put together these pleadings is we gather the documents that are going to support what we're pleading. So once I'm done with the pleading, I'm going to have a pretty good list of at least the main documents that are at issue.

And so what I'll do after that is I'll be able to give him a Bates range list of, it's at least these, and there may be more, and I'm still going to be looking because here's the other thing that's so weird about this case. So our case is they got a lot of confidential information under an NDA. And then they used it for purposes that were not allowed under the NDA. That's our case.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. TAYLOR: The people who know the most about exactly all the documents that were given, would be Lifespace and the defendants. And the people who know how the defendants used the documents, other than what we can see through some documentation, are the defendants. They know how -- what documents they got. And they know how they used those documents. And part of my job in discovery is to make sure that I know all those things, too.

I know some of those things, and I'm not trying to hide them. And we're going to have a very fulsome complaint that gets filed next week. And then I'm going to amend even though -- I say even though right now, there's not a specific deadline that says when I'm supposed to amend. I can amend our interrogatory answers at any time, throughout all the way up until the end of discovery. A lot of lawyers, and sometimes me, do it not very long before trial, just so everybody knows this is what we're playing with here.

But I am going to amend, and I have told them that I would amend. I just want to have 30 days to get all that stuff together, see if there's anything else to do. And then I've also got Thanksgiving coming up as well. So I don't want to -- my position isn't I won't amend. I'm trying to work with them. They just want me to amend quicker.

And my position is given that we're getting ready to change the pleading, I don't think 30 days is unreasonable. And by the way, if you -- I mean, let me just -- just one other thing to show you. If I could -- could I approach?

THE COURT: Is it in the same exhibits or no?

MR. TAYLOR: It probably is one of the exhibits that might have been referenced in the brief itself. I don't know if -- oh, no, it wouldn't have been attached. I'm just going to bring it to you because it's marked confidential.

THE COURT: Oh, okay. Yes, please.

MR. TAYLOR: Okay. So can I --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. TAYLOR: Can I approach real quick? This is just --

MR. HARDY: Are we -- whoa, whoa, whoa. Can we briefly be heard? For one thing, if this document is marked confidential, and we still have folks on the line, I don't know who all is subject to the protective order and who's not. Second, I can't fathom what relevance this has to the question of whether the interrogatories ought to be amended. And third, this wasn't disclosed to us on a witness exhibit list.

MR. TAYLOR: All I said was I would provide -- I would provide examples so that you can see what we're talking about. That's all this is.

THE COURT: Can't make a ruling until I see the document. And what -- so let me see the document and let me run through who is on the line. Obviously, we have Mr. Rabuck, Mr. Wolfenbarger, Mr. Hardy. Do we know who the observer is?

MS. VANDESTEEG: Yes, Your Honor. I suspect that is Chris Jordan, on our side. I will confirm momentarily.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: I'm not going to reveal the defense --

THE COURT: I didn't think you were, but I'm going to do it just for the sake of the record, just so that we know. Because I know the next motion does deal with confidentiality --

MR. TAYLOR: Sure.

THE COURT: -- issues and whether or not we're going to touch on them, so.

And are there any phone numbers, Ms. Jeng?

THE CLERK: No.

THE COURT: Okay. No phone numbers today. And is there anyone other than those that I called, Ms. Jeng, that we need to look -- you have a different view than I do.

THE CLERK: The only person is the (indiscernible).

THE COURT: Just the observer. Okay. Thank you.

(Pause)

THE COURT: I'm going to give it one more minute. And then I'm going to need you to disconnect that one line, because as the order that is now on the line. Okay. And I'm just going to say this for the record, Ms. Vandesteeg. We now have an order out there that if we're going to take evidence at hearings, that essentially no third parties. And so it does require that the Court be able to do this quickly. And I understand that Mr. Jordan, or other members of your team sometimes put observer on there. If they could at least let you guys know early on.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Understood, Your Honor.

THE COURT: If they're going to do that, because if not, by virtue of the new remote rules, we're to disconnect them. I don't do that for obvious reasons. And I always want to give parties as much flexibility as I can, but I appreciate you --

MS. VANDESTEEG: Thank you.

THE COURT: -- being able to identify. So we'll go forward. So why don't you tell me what you're going to tell me about this document to address the movants.

MR. TAYLOR: Right. The only reason I'm showing it to you, is to show that I'm not putting him in a bad spot by them not knowing what documents are at issue. Because in this particular document, the very one of the last things it says on the first page is attached is an index of the documents we've received. Let us know if we're missing any. And then if you go to the next to last page, there's their index of documents that they have relating to Edgemere, at least as of this date. I don't want to go through all the stuff because I'm not trying to reveal anything.

All I'm saying is, I can tell by looking at this, that some of the stuff they are going to have received under the NDA. And I don't know if they got all of it from it, but some of it did. So if we're looking for a universe of documents, the type of documents involved, they already have this list.

And so if they just wait for me to amend, and then I give them another list, and I will also say any list I give them, even if I give them by Bates number, it's always going to say, and it's also subject to change as we've learned more stuff. So that's really my point is I am willing to answer the interrogatories and I have proposed a time to do it.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: And so that's why we're here.

THE COURT: All right. Thank you.

Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor. If the question in this case was whether the defendants received documents under the NDA, I would agree that we know that information. This would not be much of a case if that was the only question. The question is not whether we received information under the NDA. The question is whether we violated -- or violated the NDA by disclosing or using that information. That is what we're asking for. That is what we're looking for. And that is what the Trustee has persistently refused to provide to us.

We just deposed Natalie Walters, as counsel just asked, that reporter from the Dallas Morning News.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: We'll talk a little bit more about that momentarily. And the fact that confidential documents were shared with her without first making her a signatory to the protective order. We're going to talk about that.

But Ms. Walters, because we asked her. Because, right, the whole theory here is oh, you told this information to Natalie Walters. She published these stories, and she tanked the Edgemere, notwithstanding that they only had 60 days of cash on hand. Notwithstanding that they were already in default on their bonds. Notwithstanding that they were already lying to their residents about their financial position. Notwithstanding that they couldn't make resident refunds.

Notwithstanding all of that, you told Natalie Walters at the Dallas Morning News about our confidential information and that caused the Edgemere's bankruptcy. So naturally, I asked Ms. Walters what confidential information did you get? What information were you provided by ICI or Kong or anybody representing ICI or Kong that wasn't publicly available? That wasn't supported by a citation to a public source like EMMA? It's confidential, but I can tell you the answer is not helpful to Mr. Taylor's case.

So I understand and I appreciate that there are some practical reasons to defer amending the interrogatories. But these are issues that are so fundamental that it warrants immediate revision, so that we can start getting these depositions on. Even if it's not complete, frankly, as long as we have a better idea of what specifically we're alleged to have done, we at least start the process. We can start noticing things up and start doing deposition outlines. All the things that we need to do.

For right now all we have is this complaint. And it's pretty, pretty light on the facts, Judge. So we would ask for a seven-day turn. I understand that counsel is at 30 days from the amendment date. That's where we reached the impasse.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: And so that's why we're here.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Mr. Taylor, anything further?

MR. TAYLOR: The only thing further is, it's unfair to say that all they have is the complaint. Because I sent him a list in connection with the next motion you're going to hear of 50 something documents that had attorneys eyes only that I asked him to undesignate. And I even gave him another list of maybe 150 documents that I wanted them to undesignate. And they know that that's because I want to use those in some way. So it's not like I'm hiding relevant documents from them.

And I just don't want to -- I don't want there to be -- I don't want to make it look like I'm hiding behind a rock here because I am not. I'm going to give them more documents. And I have -- that's already 200 right there I've identified for them. So that's all I have, Judge.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. All right. With regard to the motion, a lot of the issues that were discussed today don't come as a surprise to the Court from the standpoint of I heard the issues with the privilege log, and the issues with the interrogatories before at prior hearings.

I have heard and I do believe there is something fair, Mr. Taylor, to the argument that at some point it's going -- there comes a time from the plaintiff's perspective to -- I mean, we know documents were given to them under the NDA. And we know there were conversations with the media, but at some point, we need to figure out where's the cause of action? What is the breach? And I do believe that it's fair that the defendants have a more concrete understanding of what the breach is that they are alleged to have done.

I mean, I think from what the Court has seen -- and not obviously correspondence -- but from what the Court has seen, it's not been much other than you took our forward looking projections. You took information that was given to us by FTI, and essentially, that you gave that to the media. So I think that there does come a time.

Now with that, and I'll pick up on something that's in the pleadings. Because if you don't know, I do read these. And so for example, in your Paragraph 10, Mr. Hardy, you talk about Interrogatories 8 and 9 talk about disclosure of the existing and prospective contracts with which defendants allegedly interfered tortiously. Well, those are dismissed claims.

And so that -- when you consider that, you go back to what Mr. Taylor is saying, which is I'm about to amend. Why don't we take a fresh look at the interrogatories once there is an amendment. And so I agree with that statement, so then it becomes a question of timing. Okay. And so it sounds to me you're saying -- and I don't know these dates off the top of my head, Mr. Taylor, that you're going to amend on the 13th?

MR. TAYLOR: For status, I think that is the current date. Yeah.

THE COURT: Okay. So if that is the date, that will be the day. In my experience, people don't do it ahead of time.

MR. TAYLOR: Assuming I can.

THE COURT: So with that, let me look back at -- let me make some of these dates consistent so y'all don't have dates all over your calendars. Let's just say December 1st.

MR. TAYLOR: Easy for me to remember. It's my anniversary.

THE COURT: Oh, well then that might be something you want to do one day ahead of time, free yourself up.

MR. TAYLOR: Probably will.

THE COURT: You know the old happy life joke.

MR. TAYLOR: I do know that.

THE COURT: Not having litigation emergencies on your anniversary is a quick way. So with respect to that, I will given this is not admitted and marked confidential, I'm going to give you this back. Oops.

And so Mr. Calkins, if you have one, if you could give that back to --

MR. CALKINS: I don't.

THE COURT: Okay. There you go. And anything else on this point that buttons up this one issue, correct, Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: No, Your Honor. I don't.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. HARDY: I don't think so. I mean, obviously, we would prefer an earlier date. But I think Your Honor has made her decision.

THE COURT: No. And I understand there's a -- but I do believe you're entitled to an answer to the question. But I'm going to allow for a couple of weeks after the amendment.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor. In that instance, the next item on the agenda, the next item in the motion to compel pertains to the Sidley Austin documents that we talked about a little bit earlier today.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: So Sidley has now shipped those all over to Diamond McCarthy. They hold all of it. And of course, some of the documents are still being withheld on grounds of privilege. The reason we had initially reached out, as I said, was because when the stay lifted, and the UMB order was entered, the order was saying that there's no common interest with UMB.

Sidley started what was described to us as a rolling production of the documents that were no longer to be considered privileged or protected. And that stopped after one installation. And so we reached out, and we were like, hey, what's up? Why did this stop? And they told us well, Diamond McCarthy told us to stop. So obviously, we sorted everything out with Sidley, and we've been in discussions with the Diamond McCarthy team, including yesterday.

And actually, I think where we are now is we've landed in these -- on these 240 documents that Mr. Taylor was referring to earlier, I think he was mixed up when we were talking about FTI. This is -- these are the Sidley documents. And they provided us with a color-coded spreadsheet that Sidley provided them that sort of broke down these documents that we'd specifically identified that we considered to be nonprivileged and nonprotected when we were talking to Sidley.

So Sidley took that list and coded it green for the ones that had been produced subsequent to the UMB order, and I understand it's now yellow for the ones that Diamond McCarthy advances are privileged or protected, and then white for the ones that were just like residual Sidley had initially claimed privilege or protection, but I guess wasn't further advancing it because that was Diamond McCarthy.

So that's what brings us to today. And here's what I think the best way to proceed is. And I'm reluctant to introduce any delay to this, because we've already specifically identified the documents. The vast majority are communications that include either UMB or Mintz. Mintz was UMB's counsel. So with respect to the vast majority, those documents are coming to us. I think Your Honor has already made that clear. So I would ask that when we draft the order on this motion, we'd be permitted to include that the UMB communications be produced. Full stop. Easy enough.

I found one communication on that log that was between a Sidley Austin lawyer and another Sidley Austin lawyer. It was the very first entry. I don't think we're going to claim that one's not privileged. But the balance, Your Honor, are this mix of Sidley and FTI and Dorsey and Lifespace. And Your Honor, we would ask that those be produced.

We've specifically identified them. We don't perceive that it is likely under the circumstances that those are privileged, were privileged, or to the extent, frankly, that they have been privileged in the first place. That the privilege has survived the waiver of disclosure to Edgemere post-petition.

THE COURT: So wait. Let me take a step back. There's the whole -- doesn't that go straight to the related companies exception, that pre-petition, the argument has been that Lifespace and Edgemere are working together. And so the counsel that you have noted, would be counsel to each side. And that that would be part of the related companies conception and therefore privileged. I don't know that I understand that you think it's just definitely busted?

MR. HARDY: I understand the confusion, Your Honor. So let me back up a little bit. So we have a couple issues. One is we have FTI involved, right. So we have this question, as ever, was it a legal communication or not? THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: Right. And that's been addressed by the in-camera review. And I think fair to say the answer was sometimes.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: Sometimes not. Right.

THE COURT: That was fair.

MR. HARDY: And in instances where FTI was not involved, we do get into, I think, a thornier question, a more challenging question of whether, in fact, the related companies exception applied. And of course, the key there is, I mean, aside of course, for the companies being related, is that they continue to have that unity of interest, that community of interest, as the case has put it. And their interests had diverged fairly clearly.

So when we look at the cases on community of interest, a lot of them will cite back to the line of federal cases identifying that a parent and a subsidiary cannot conspire to violate the Sherman Act, right? The reason being that a wholly-owned subsidiary, all of its duties are owed up to the parent. Right. So its only duty is to do what the parent tells it to do. So there's this unity of interest. That means that they're really just acting as one.

It's a very different situation when what we're dealing with is an insolvent company. When we have an insolvent company, the duties are not owed exclusively to the shareholders. They're owed to the creditors. And what's more, one of the creditors was Lifespace, when it was wearing its management hat, right. It also had its full parent hat, but also had its manager hat. So we have these divergent interests. And in my estimation, it has not been established by evidence or otherwise.

THE COURT: Nor has it been tried. Let me stop you. We haven't had this issue tried. The assertion has been that they're related companies, and the divergence that you were talking about, is a post-petition divergence, not a pre-petition divergence.

And so it's my understanding that the vast majority, if not singularly, given the current causes of action, we'll see what the amended complaint shows, was that everything happened pre-petition. So from that perspective, it hasn't been shown otherwise. So if you're asking for relief based upon the fact that there were not related companies, then that has to be tried.

MR. HARDY: And thank you, Your Honor. So two points on that. The first one is part of the purpose of this motion of bringing the motion to compel and raising these issues about the Sidley production is going to come up again, with respect to some of the Lifespace documents is to test that. We've heard you loud and clear when you're saying, okay, you got to bring this in at an appropriate time, bring it by motion. So we filed the motion.

If Your Honor wants to have a separate evidentiary hearing on that, I suppose we can talk about that. But I want to test to also the idea that the interests didn't diverge until post-petition. I respectfully disagree with that, and so too, does Nick Harshfield in his testimony, both during the January evidentiary hearing in this proceeding, and in his first day declaration. And he said that Lifespace and the debtor were already in arm's length negotiations. They already had a debtor-creditor relationship.

Lifespace, of course, had already stopped taking its management payments at the insistence of UMB, because UMB wasn't getting paid, either. I mean, these were adverse parties. Were they rowing in the same direction on some discrete issues? Perhaps. I mean, maybe.

But when you start looking at even under the more lenient analyses of the related companies, the common interest privilege, Judge Carey's opinion in Tribune for instance, they still operate on the assumption that there is a significant common legal interest. And once those duties diverge, and it happened pre-petition, then that's done. That's done.

THE COURT: And to be certain, I'm not telling you they didn't diverge before that. What I'm telling you is it hasn't been heard. Okay.

MR. HARDY: Understood.

THE COURT: And what I'm talking about is -- and obviously there's not an order out there or an opinion out there on the Lifespace issue. There is for others for UMB, but the question here, and the divergence that I have spoken about in prior hearings, was all post-petition. Okay. Because those are the divergencies that the Court sees. Okay.

I recognize that at various times, I've seen two emails that talk about wearing different hats or divergence and distance. Okay. I get it. I mean, I do remember these things.

MR. HARDY: Hats and Venn diagrams, Your Honor.

THE COURT: There you go. And so but at this juncture, I'm not prepared today to hit that issue, if we want to tee that up. But again, I think that that's part of the culling of the documents as a whole. And if you are going -- if your client is going to assert to buss the privilege at that level, I think that needs to be briefed. And heard.

MR. HARDY: Very good, Your Honor. I hear you loud and clear. So what I'll do then, with respect to the Sidley documents when we're drafting the order, I won't continue the hearing because it sounds like you want more briefing. What I'll do instead is grant it in part as to the UMB communications, deny in part without prejudice.

THE COURT: Well, first, I'm going to hear from Mr. Taylor on the Sidley documents to start with. So let me start --

MR. HARDY: But I got everything right, Your Honor.

THE COURT: But you were doing so well. You were in complete agreement.

Mr. Taylor.

MR. TAYLOR: It's a very interesting discussion, most of which has nothing to do with the pending motion. If you look at Paragraph 13, I think it is of their motion, it says this is what we're asking for.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. TAYLOR: They want all the Sidley documents. And if you're going to keep any of them back for privilege, we want a privilege log.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. TAYLOR: Okay. So the first thing they're trying to compel is that we produce all the Sidley documents that we agree are not privileged. This has already happened.

THE COURT: Right. That's what I understand from the papers.

MR. TAYLOR: So if somebody is aware of documents that I have to know are not privileged, then I will produce those documents. Now, Sidley then made a subsequent production, once there was the ruling about UMB and the like, and there was a rolling privilege on that, and they produced some of those documents. I have found out at least this week, what those documents are, because we asked them for their log, and we asked them to tell us what had been done and what hadn't.

I heard the statement about we had told Sidley to stop. All I can say is, that might not be entirely accurate, but it would be hearsay, whatever it is. That I am not -- I'm not telling people to stop, but people do tend to dump documents on me and then tell them you need to deal with this stuff now.

So I'm going to deal with the rest of it now. So what we've -- in our own meet and confer, we've given them the stuff that Sidley gave us. We've highlighted what it means and asked them for their comments on it. We are in the middle of meet and confer on the privilege issue and the privilege issue is not up today.

So I say what's up today is have I produced the documents that I know to be not privileged. I have. So I don't need an order that compels me to do something I've already done. And then the rest of it needs to wait until we have an actual argument over privilege because I might agree with them. So that's what we're looking at. We are looking at those documents right now. And then we will make a subsequent production based on that. That's what I know about that issue.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: One moment please, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Sure.

(Pause)

MR. HARDY: My papers are getting out of control. I've been up here long enough that everything's just sort of flying around. Your Honor, Mr. Taylor pointed the Court to Paragraph 13 of our motion, which does indeed, as he said, ask that plaintiff produce a copy of the files. And if they intend to withhold documents based on privilege to go ahead and give us a log of that. That's fair.

Here's the problem. The very next paragraph under the header C, "Plaintiff must produce the withheld nonprivileged documents. We are asking for the plaintiff to produce the withheld nonprivileged documents." You got to get past 13 and get to 14.

So we identified a number of different -- and I don't want to get too far ahead of myself, because I was going to treat this as the next component of the motion. But they do go hand in glove, that there are going to be certain categories of documents that just need to be produced and obviously fall into it.

So what Ms. Vandesteeg has put up on the screen -- and I'm sorry, I just received this yesterday. This is the log that Mr. Taylor just referred to, the one from Sidley. And if we were to scroll up, you'd see that it is color coded with the green for the documents produced. The yellow for the ones that haven't been produced, that Diamond McCarthy is withholding, and the white for ones that just haven't been produced. And if you look through the whites, you'll see if we were to do a search. Mintz. Mintz. Mintz. UMB. Mintz. Over and over and over and over again. So I can appreciate what I've heard from the Court. Okay. The UMB documents need to be produced. We've heard it, I think now in like three different respects at this point. But I simply can't agree that Mr. Taylor says we haven't asked him for these documents and our motion doesn't seek the disclosure of these documents. It does.

We asked for the withheld nonprivileged documents that these very clearly fall within that. Very clearly. In fact, we call out the UMB documents specifically in the next section. I'm happy to jump into that now if that's -- if it's a good time to do that. Otherwise, if we want to keep with sort of working in these discrete chunks, I'm happy to do that, too. Burt we're going to see similar issues with Paddock, with GrayRobinson, with UMB, and others.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, we can speak about the Mintz documents, I guess -- excuse me, the USB documents. I thought that I've ruled on this multiple times.

MR. HARDY: I thought so too.

MR. TAYLOR: I think you have.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: So we'll produce those as quickly as possible. I just need -- I need to pull them up to see why they're on here. But that's part -- to me, that's part of the whole meet and confer is for them to tell me what did I get wrong? But --

MR. HARDY: I can't see the documents. They've been withheld. All I can see is that Mintz Levin was on them.

THE COURT: Well, I mean, at a minimum, you can certainly say -- I mean, it's what's done all the time. You take the privilege log, you highlight them and say look, none of these can be privileged because the word Mintz is on them.

None of these can be privileged because XYZ third party is on them.

MR. HARDY: It is the Mintz exception to privilege.

THE COURT: But I mean, again, from a delay standpoint, first of all, I'm going to assume you already have them from Mintz, but I mean -- no? Mintz has not delivered them either?

MR. HARDY: So --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: -- we have documents collected from UMB. But that -- what that's not going to include and why this is important is this is the log of Sidley documents, right. So it includes communications between Sidley and Mintz –

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: -- that UMB didn't have. Right?

THE COURT: Oh, I see.

MR. HARDY: We haven't served a subpoena on -- we haven't served a subpoena on Mintz, have we?

MS. VANDESTEEG: No.

MR. HARDY: No, we haven't served a subpoena on Mintz.

THE COURT: So you served on -- you served -- well, never mind. I'm not going to say what I'm thinking. I'm just going to hold that.

MR. HARDY: Okay.

THE COURT: So in terms -- so if they're -- so that I understand factually what's happening between counsel, you have sent a list of documents that you do not believe are privileged that are contained on a privilege log. You sent that list and requested those documents when?

MR. HARDY: That was directed to Sidley. And I don't know precisely when it was. It predated my time with the firm. So it was at least a couple months ago.

THE COURT: Okay. It looks like --

MS. VANDESTEEG: I believe that request was sent in July.

MR. HARDY: July.

THE COURT: Wait, wait, wait, wait, wait. I'm reading your document. And it says the email was dated to Sidley on September 18th that was seeking to resolve the impasse. Okay. So that's September 15th this year. All right. Month and a half ago.

And so -- and then at some point, Sidley puts the obligation in Diamond McCarthy's pocket. And I understand that is frustrating for you guys, as you've told me. So then the question is, when did you ask Diamond McCarthy for the production of these specific documents?

MR. HARDY: So to go back, the correspondence that you're seeing from September is a follow up. We had previously --

THE COURT: I know.

MR. HARDY: Okay. Okay.

THE COURT: I get that.

MR. HARDY: All right. All right. So this list that you're seeing here, absent the color coding, is what we provided to Sidley and what Sidley then provided over to Diamond McCarthy.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: When we got word from Sidley that Diamond McCarthy was taking over the privilege issues, that was when we reached out. It was as I recall the next day, and I'm pretty sure I'm the one who sent that communication. THE COURT: Okay. And so that is -- okay. So that's the September 18th from Sidley to LP saying talk to Diamond McCarthy. Am I right?

MR. HARDY: I believe that is the date when Sidley told us talk to Diamond McCarthy. Yes.

THE COURT: Okay. And so when did you talk to Diamond McCarthy?

MR. HARDY: That's what I'm saying. I believe it was the next day.

THE COURT: You believe it was the next day.

MR. HARDY: As I recall. I'm trying to pull up --

THE COURT: Okay. Let me look at Exhibit J. I'll have to pull it up. Just one moment. It might even -- let's see.

(Pause)

MR. HARDY: Oh, Your Honor, I think I found it. It's Tab 27 in the binder. And it looks like -- if you look at my October 11th email, which is in response to Mr. Taylor's October 10th email. Note among other things Number 1. "What did Sidley say in response to the Trustee's directive" -- that is the directive that Sidley is to produce their documents with their privilege log. "Will all responsive nonprivileged documents and a log be produced? If so, when?"

And if we go back a little bit further down that same exhibit to Page 5 of it, Ms. Vandesteeg's October 6th email. The first item there is the Sidley production. Sidney hasn't completed its production because they've been told not to produce certain documents pending privilege review. "Given that defendants first reached out to Sidley on July 25th, 2023, more than four months ago, to meet and confer on their failure to comply with the subpoena served on them, plaintiff has had more than sufficient time to perform this review."

So Your Honor, I understand the frustration. And let me say, Mr. Taylor has certainly been willing to meet and confer. And we've tried to reach agreement where we can. I don't fault him for lack of trying, and I hope he doesn't fault me for lack of trying. But sometimes you reach an impasse. And in this instance, we've got an impasse.

THE COURT: Well, I'm not sure emails are the best way to meet and confer. I'll just say that. I recognize that that is very much the state of current litigation. But at some point, it seems to me that the answer is lines blank through blank on a privilege log appear to us to be not privileged. That's what we're asking for production of. Okay.

And that send the request document by document and at that point, pick a time when it's mutually convenient, within all reason, and talk through them. Because what I'm seeing is an October 11th dispute, October 16th motion. At some point we have to talk and we have to start to reach these issues before we get to hearings.

And so with respect to the UMB documents that I have obviously already determined there was no common interest there. These are not privileged. That subject of an existing order, the Court is going to order those produced. I'm going to give you a date. I'll do those on the 17th. That's UMB and Mintz.

All right. It is 12:47. I don't know how else better to say this, and I'm hungry. So --

MR. HARDY: I am, too.

THE COURT: Yeah. I don't like to cut motions or to cut hearings in half, but it is -- I have to watch out for my staff. Because everyone -- they are often at my mercy. So that's why I will now be Ming the Merciful. So with that, what time do the parties want to return?

MS. VANDESTEEG: At whatever time is convenient for the Court, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. We do now have a working cafeteria in the building. It's pretty fancy. And it's actually pretty good.

Any timing issues, Mr. Taylor?

MR. TAYLOR: No. I mean, I think we're going to have to move around. So that's --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: What's your preference?

THE COURT: My timing on return? I mean, I -- we can be back as early as 1:30.

MS. VANDESTEEG: We can accommodate, Your Honor.

MR. TAYLOR: Can we make it 2?

THE COURT: Oh, yeah. To come back at 2?

MR. TAYLOR: Yeah.

THE COURT: Yes, we can.

MR. TAYLOR: Yeah. Let's come back at 2.

MS. VANDESTEEG: If possible, if counsel could adjust, we do have travel obligations on this side of the courtroom. So a sooner start time would be better for us if at all possible.

MR. TAYLOR: Whatever. Okay.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Thank you.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, we'll come back at 1:45. Is that possible, Mr. Taylor?

MR. TAYLOR: I'll make it work. I'll make 1:30 work. Whatever we need. Whatever we need.

THE COURT: Well, let me -- let's give you a little bit more time. You want to do 1:45?

MR. TAYLOR: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay. We'll do 1:45. We'll return at that time. And we'll be in recess until then.

THE CLERK: All rise.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Thank you, Your Honor.

MR. TAYLOR: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You're welcome.

THE CLERK: All rise.

THE COURT: Please be seated. All right. We're going to go back on the record in Case Number 22-3040. I think when we broke, we were motivating ourselves through Docket 362, which would have been the plaintiff's motion to compel.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor. That is correct. We are on the motion to compel against the Plaintiff Docket 362. Thank you for the break.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: Did not realize I needed one, but in fact, I did. So the final component of this motion has been previewed for you already. And that is the request for production of the nonprivileged documents. These are going to fall into several buckets. We can add those to the hats and the Venn diagrams.

The first is communications without counsel. We understand. We acknowledge the absence of counsel is not dispositive of the issue. But fully 660 of the logged documents have no attorneys and we're hard pressed to believe that in fact, all of those are privileged or otherwise protected. So we are asking that the plaintiff be ordered to revisit those documents and verify the original privilege log. I understand from Mr. Taylor's response and from Tuesday, that that is in the works. And we have, of course, an order forthcoming on when we're going to see that.

The second bucket is communications with the GrayRobinson –

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: -- law firm. We --

THE COURT: That's counsel to the board, right?

MR. HARDY: We understand GrayRobinson to be counsel to Edgemere's independent directors.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: And you'll recall that they secured their own counsel, sought to have them paid out of the estate. That was denied. But the reason that they sought the counsel, as they explained, was because they have different duties and different concerns than did Edgemere in its capacity as Debtor In Possession and before that, as in its capacity as an insolvent entity, with duties again to creditors, rather than to shareholders, like a typical entity would have.

There's been no demonstration made of a common legal interest to support that the communications between Lifespace or Edgemere are on the one hand, and the independent directors and their counsel on the other hand, are privileged. And so we are asking that those communications be produced.

The third bucket is more generally communications with other third parties. And we put that generally because of course, there's been no showing that any communications with a particular third party are privileged in this instance, but there are three that we want to call out with specificity. The first is Paddock Incorporated.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: It's a private investigation firm. And if the name sounds familiar, it's because there's already an order that those communications are discoverable. The second is UMB. I'm just not going to talk about it again. And then the third is the Point Group.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: Which, again, we've already discussed, so those documents should be produced. And then there's that blanket July 2022 waiver that I think we need to address. Because of course, there's a number of documents on that log that are not, as we discussed before between and among say Sidley, FTI, and Dorsey, but between Lifespace and Dorsey, right.

This isn't a question of joint interest or common interest or co-client or related companies. This is very simply Lifespace privilege that was disclosed post-petition when there was a clear adversity of interest that served to waive the privilege.

So when we're talking about those communications between Lifespace or its representatives, on the one hand, and Dorsey or any other Lifespace attorneys, I can't remember who Dorsey's predecessors were at the moment, we are asking that those documents be produced because that privilege has been busted.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: Unless the Court has questions, that is all I have to say about the remainder of that motion.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Hardy.

Mr. Taylor.

MR. TAYLOR: Since the document universe that I've been dealing with is composed of documents that are both Edgemere and Lifespace, as we know, we have -- between me and the people at Cooley, we have been dividing and conquering on some of these issues. And so Cooley, whenever these issues have come up, Cooley has taken the lead on these things.

And my position, and I have told the defendants this is, I'm going to let Cooley negotiate the issues with you. And then if there's still a problem at the end, let me know, but I'm going to adopt what they do. And then we're going to do whatever the Judge tells us both to do.

So I don't really have anything else to say, because that is still playing out, as we know, from yesterday. And so I'm waiting to hear where does that come out? And then, if they reach agreement, I will reach agreement. And if there's a dispute among them, then I will have to decide do I agree with Cooley or not? And if there's a dispute anyway, we'll be in front of you. And I'm going to do whatever you say. But I don't have anything additional to add that's not already under discussion, as far as I know, between them and Cooley.

THE COURT: Okay. And in terms of -- okay. Well, then, if the lead is being taken by the Cooley Law Firm with respect to the privilege log, let me go to Mr. Rabuck on that. And then we'll circle back to these issues.

MR. TAYLOR: Okay.

THE COURT: So Mr. Rabuck, obviously, I want you to respond to Mr. Taylor and Mr. Hardy's arguments, but I guess the other question that I have for you is obviously, the issues of the privilege log have been in the works. I think that Mr. Walker said that it would be done fairly shortly. But I know we haven't put a date to that yet. And that's what the order that I will enter will do will be to put a date certain to that.

So where are we on the -- on privilege? And obviously, you now hear these various other issues. So let me know the breadth of what you're already undertaking and then your position on when you can undertake this consideration in review.

MR. RABUCK: Thank you, Your Honor. Sam Rabuck for the record. May I just have a moment to review a few emails and records before I respond? I just need two minutes.

THE COURT: Fair enough.

MR. RABUCK: Thank you.

THE COURT: While he's doing that, Mr. Calkins, do you have that draft order with you? Can you grab it? Thank you.

(Pause)

THE COURT: Just for sake of the record, I know that --

MR. RABUCK: Okay, Your Honor. I'm -

THE COURT: Just one moment, Mr. Rabuck. We will be -- I know that, for at least for probably purposes of the next motion we'll be closed. The young lady who's entering is an extern so she's already subject to the Court's confidentiality.

So Mr. Rabuck, please.

MR. RABUCK: Thank you, Your Honor. Sam Rabuck on behalf of Lifespace for the record. Our understanding is we're continuing to work through those issues with the defendants, and that we are able to submit a revised privilege log to the extent it needs to be revised by next Friday, 11/17.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. RABUCK: And I believe that is what we have. That's I understand we have proposed to defendants on, but they wanted us to do it sooner than that is my understanding.

THE COURT: And I do understand that. Okay. And so with respect to documents, how quickly can documents be provided to the extent that they're either subject to prior court orders, or you determine based upon your revisiting and amending the privilege log, how soon thereafter can documents actually be produced? And I'll put that same question to Mr. Taylor's team, if they're in charge of the repository.

MR. RABUCK: Sure. And I would defer to Mr. Taylor, because we certainly are able to work with the plaintiffs on these document issues and on productions, as we have been already in getting things to the defendants. But I would certainly defer to any timing constraints that Mr. Taylor has. But I would say that we could work quickly to try to get defendants whatever it is that they are entitled to by court order, in addition to the things that we discussed at the top of the hearing first thing this morning.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Rabuck.

Mr. Taylor, if a privilege log is done by the 17th, how many times you have to get the documents?

MR. TAYLOR: End of the month.

THE COURT: End of the month? Okay. All right.

Mr. Hardy, any further comments? And I know that we still have to discuss the individual issues.

MR. HARDY: Yeah. Okay. Yeah, if we're limiting it simply to timing of the amended privilege log and the supplemental production, no, I suppose I don't. You're not going to be surprised to learn that we would prefer a tighter time line. Mr. Cooley -- or Mr. Cooley. I'm so sorry. Mr. Walker advised that there's a draft of this revised privilege log already prepared. I'm not sure what the holdup is. I would expect that that could get turned faster. But if there is, I guess I'd rather get good than fast.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: So there's that. I guess my only comment is I'd like to see it faster.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: And that's it. And we've set out those deadlines in our iteration of the proposed order, but what we had contemplated as I recall, was production of the privilege log tomorrow, since it had already been drafted. With a follow on production, I believe it was at the end of next week.

THE COURT: So in other words, a seven-day turnaround on the documents.

MR. HARDY: Correct, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Thank you. Okay. So the timeline that's going to be part of the Lifespace order, okay, will be the amended and privilege and redaction logs provided by the 17th, and documents will be provided by the 28th. Okay. That's what the days will be.

So now, with that, Mr. Rabuck, as part of your review of those documents, were you able to hear Mr. Hardy's presentation about these various issues? GrayRobinson, I mean Paddock, UMB, and the Point Group, I don't intend to further discuss. That's already been decided a handful of times. And so essentially the GrayRobinson issue and the issue of Lifespace and handing over its documents that were privileged between it and Dorsey over to the plaintiff, after July 2022.

MR. RABUCK: Your Honor, I don't know that I understood what the question was. I apologize. So I'm sorry. What about the argument that was made? I just want to make sure I understand so I can answer it correctly.

THE COURT: Do you agree with it? Or do you disagree with it?

MR. RABUCK: I'm sorry, agree with what?

THE COURT: The defendants take the position that if GrayRobinson, which is the counsel to the independent board members is listed on a document that that is not privileged. What is your position given these are Lifespace board members? And I can only assume that Lifespace has asserted the privilege.

MR. HARDY: Edgemere board members, Your Honor.

MR. RABUCK: That would be our understanding, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Oh, excuse me. They're Edgemere board members. That is my mistake. That was my mistake.

MS. VANDESTEEG: For GrayRobinson, those we believe are the independent --

THE COURT: I know --

MS. VANDESTEEG: -- director's counsel.

THE COURT: -- who the firm was because I remember the retention application.

MS. VANDESTEEG: We had a separate bucket that we had identified that did address documents within listed on the Edgemere privilege log that did specifically include communications with the Lifespace board of directors.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. VANDESTEEG: That was a separate bucket. I think that was Bucket 12 under our prior key, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. So let me just go back to the motion. Just one moment. Okay. In the motion, Docket 362, Paragraph 14, says, "The plaintiff's privilege and redaction logs indicate that certain nonprivileged documents have been withheld for privilege. For example, numerous communications on the privilege and redaction logs either do not include counsel, include individuals from GrayRobinson, PA, assumed to be counsel to the independent board of directors of the debtor. Include individuals from the Point Group, the debtor's communication consultant, or include other third parties."

And it goes on to assert that, "The defendants do not believe that these are privileged." And so I'm assuming, given that Cooley is taking the lead on the privilege and redaction log, that it is your assertion of privilege. So I'll start with the independent board members, counsel.

MR. RABUCK: Yes, Your Honor. Sam Rabuck for the record. My -- I understand now. Thank you for the clarification.

THE COURT: No worries.

MR. RABUCK: My understanding is that as part of our ongoing review process of those 11 different buckets, some of which we had already provided to the Court for in-camera review, we are still reviewing certain documents and analyzing the privilege and that we believe that the privilege log was correct.

But in doing our continued work on it, in light of the orders, in light of everything that's been going on and what we were going to produce by next Friday, that we will confirm that any of the other buckets, whether it's Paddock or GrayRobinson, would also still be privileged. But we will undertake that further review. And to the extent that they are not, we would produce them with any other documents that we're required to produce by the 28th.

THE COURT: Okay. So here's what the Court expects. The Court expects that as part of your November 17th privilege log, you will address the various buckets of documents and arguments that the defendants have set forth today, including the GrayRobinson issue, Paddock, UMB, and the Point Group, and the issue of the Lifespace communications with its counsel having been given obviously to Edgemere at this juncture. Okay.

That you will address that from the perspective of your privilege log. And that if you assert the privilege, okay, then at that point, the Court will have a further hearing and/or review the documents in camera or both, because I'll need to understand.

Because it has not yet been articulated to the Court or briefed before the Court the GrayRobinson issue, and this essentially waiver argument of the defendants with respect to providing Lifespace only communications with counsel over on to Edgemere. And I say Lifespace only and I realize that that's not Lifespace only because each entity has the same documents. So that's what I'll expect and so we'll -- just one moment. There seems to be an issue.

Okay. Not yet, Ms. Jeng, but we will for the next hearing.

All right. So essentially, Mr. Hardy, we're putting a pin in that to that issue with respect to those, because I would expect that that's going to be part of the privilege review process, okay, that is going to yield a log on the 17th, if not earlier, and documents on the 28th, if not earlier. And at that point, after a meet and confer and a real one, okay, if the Court needs to hear A, further argument, or B, a in-camera review, we can deal with it at that time.

And I'd like the parties to be thinking about this during the privilege review process. I'm not trying to add another month or two of time for these issues to come before the Court. I'm not begging to hear them. Please, please, do not get it twisted. But if these issues are going to be out there, Mr. Rabuck, Mr. Taylor, you already know what the defendants' position is. So it is the one time that I would expect the motion process and the hearing process to come in short course if there continues to be a dispute after the review of the privilege log.

MR. HARDY: Okay. Thank you, Your Honor. In terms of the order, would you like me to characterize this aspect of the motion as continued denied without prejudice? What would you like to see on that score?

THE COURT: Just put that whatever issues are not -- with respect to the GrayRobinson issue, and this July 2022 issue. That those are carried to be determined if they're still live after the provision of the privilege log and the production of the documents.

MR. HARDY: Okay.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: Thank you. If that's all, I am very pleased to report that that's the end of my motions.

THE COURT: All right. Okay. So for the next hearing, I know that the issue is that it's going to be with respect to the removal of the designation of certain either confidentiality or attorneys eyes only and things of that nature.

So by the very nature of the hearing, if not the nature of this being an adversary proceeding, I'm going to again make sure that the courtroom is closed to only those under protective order. In terms of the live parties, I see it's the same parties. And so I see that I have -- I assume the observer is still Mr. Jordan --

MS. VANDESTEEG: Yes.

THE COURT: -- or somebody from his team. Okay. I recognize Ms. Ford's name. The last one is Jeremy. Do we know which?

MS. VANDESTEEG: Checking on that right now. I believe I do.

THE COURT: Okay. I didn't think it was Mr. Johnson, but he would normally have his full name.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Yes, Your Honor, I can confirm that as Jeremy Koster. I'm going to ask him to update his name accordingly.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. All right. So with that, I thought perhaps because it was a Polsinelli reference that there might be somebody from Polsinelli. But I'm glad to have the specifics. Thank you, Ms. Vandesteeg.

So with that, Mr. Taylor, we'll be taking up plaintiff's Docket 375.

MR. TAYLOR: So I've been trying to think how to shortcut this. Because I mean, I've got examples of documents to show you marked confidential. It would be the same thing. I'm not actually going to offer them.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: I'll just be showing them to you as examples, and then I'd take them back from you. But I'd like to see if we can figure out a way not to have to do that today.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: Because when I filed this motion, my real issue was there was a lot of documents that had been designated attorneys eyes only. And under the provisions of this protective order, that means my own client can't see them.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. TAYLOR: And we are going to be relying on some information from such documents in the preparation of our complaint, and the client needs to be able to see the documents. And so happily, after I filed this, the other side agreed to de-designate the ones that I had given them that were attorneys eyes only. So now I don't have that issue. So my big issue -- and remember, my new pleading is due Monday. Okay. So at least as of the last day or so our client has been able to review.

But here's my other thing. So there's a lot of smart people here in this room. And I am not among the smartest ones. And so I use people to help me as I am going through cases, and especially at the beginning when I'm figuring out how I'm going to pitch them, and then later as we get closer to the trial. Most of the time when I have to do trials it's jury trials, and so I have jury consultants that help me.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. TAYLOR: But there's people like that whether you have a jury or not. And so I use consultants. They are not testifying experts. And I cited some cases in the motion. They're not subject to disclosure. But the problem is based on the wording of the protective order, I can't show them a confidential document, not just attorneys eyes only, just any confidential, and here's the real rub.

Lots of times on protective orders the way it'll start is they'll say all the documents that are produced in this case can only be used for purposes of this case. And then here's some additional categories that are even more than that. This protective order does not have that. So as a result, almost every document in this case has been marked confidential. And it's --

THE COURT: That I believe.

MR. TAYLOR: And it's a two-way street. It's not just them. I mean, our sides apparently done it too, all the way, even the recent productions. And so I was looking at, why would that be? And the reason is because the parties are trying to bring this under the protective order.

THE COURT: Well, I think that there was a reason, and I'll riff a little bit right here, Mr. Taylor, because I do -- I think in order of appearance, it's Levenfeld Pearlstein me at this juncture in terms of longevity to the case. But I mean, there was a time where -- and from a bankruptcy perspective, because of the ongoing bankruptcy, and because of the situation that each of the parties found themselves in, that a lot was confidential, because there was essentially the potential for competing bidders --

MR. TAYLOR: Exactly.

THE COURT: -- who was going to operate, who was going to run. So I -- having read everything, I'm with you. I believe that there was a time where everything was confidential, and they probably aren't to the same extent as before. Now, I'm not going to broad brush everything, because I haven't seen any of the documents for the most part. But I do believe it's time to take a deeper look. But I hear what you're saying. Yours is even more nuanced.

MR. TAYLOR: Here's what I'm saying, for purposes of today. Okay. There may come a time when we need to have a hearing and we'll just -- we'll literally go through documents that I think should be de-designated, if the other side is unwilling to do it.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. TAYLOR: But I would prefer not to do it today, since I know they got a plane to catch. But what I need today, is I need the ability to show confidential documents to people on my team, that includes consultants that I have that are not disclosed.

Because under the current rules, and I even said in the brief that it might have made sense during the bankruptcy, but under the current rules, I'm supposed to give them name, address, and a resume of anybody that might look at it. And for -- because they're a prospective expert or consultant. I'm not even sure -- these terms are not even defined. I don't want to get in trouble for violating the protective order.

At the last deposition of the Dallas Morning News, it's a trial deposition, the woman is not going to be present, because she's not within the jurisdiction. We're taking it as a trial deposition. I'm showing her exhibits. I'm noting that they're marked confidential. I even made a statement, we can seal the deposition. Okay.

But on every one I was -- there was an objection that I was violating the protective order. I'm not trying to violate the protective order. But I can show a witness in the trial any document in the case, and that's what that witness was.

So I'm feeling the same way about a consultant. I think I can hire a consultant. And I think I shouldn't have to tell the other side who it is, as long as they're part of my team working for me. And then I can make sure that they know what they'll sign off on the protective order. And I can even do something else that says anybody who's on my team can't use the document for any other purpose.

I mean, I'm willing to be reasonable on how to do it. But I have got to be able to have my full team help me with this. And that includes reviewing documents that are marked confidential, since every document is. So I guess for now, what I'd like to do is see if there's any way we can reach some agreement on that, before I go into these various categories and try and do it some different way. Because I think this -- it's way easier, and it impacts a lot fewer people if we do it this way.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Taylor. I mean, I'm certainly glad to hear that there's an agreement with respect to the client. Because if not, the order would have been that there's really no basis by which you can't share anything with the litigation trustee at this juncture.

But please, Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: Thank you. Thank you, Your Honor.

Ryan Hardy for the defendants.

And as Mr. Taylor noted, we've been having ongoing discussions about this order, and I think that they've been productive. We have reached some agreements with respect to the 50 AEO documents as he described. As well, we have agreed that provided the Trustee has executed the protective order, the little attachment, that the Trustee can view AEO documents because that is in our estimation a manageable risk.

I do want to underscore though that our agreement there is limited to the Trustee himself. Our concern is that there's this trust oversight committee, and the trust oversight committee, unlike the plaintiff, is not composed of retired judges, right. It is composed of a UMB person and two Lifespace people. So naturally, we don't want the AEO documents getting to them.

So I think that this is workable. And I think -- Mr. Taylor, I think we're in agreement on that. From there, it gets a little bit trickier. And let me begin by saying, Mr. Taylor is right. That in the ordinary course, one does not need to disclose their consulting experts. I can't disagree with that. I mean, the rule is, in my view, a little bit more limited, right? It is a restriction on discovery of the opinions of consulting experts.

But in any event, this is not a case that's governed by the general rule. It is governed by the stipulated protective order. The stipulated protective order that everybody agreed to. The stipulated protective order that everybody has been following. And so when everybody else has needed to consult with an expert, they've done this disclosure.

And it's not just us. It's nonparties too, right? I mean, UMB designated documents as confidential, substantially all of them, as Mr. Taylor said. And before I forget, I agree with him that there's been some over inclusions, for good reason at the time, as you identified. But UMB did that. Edgemere did it. Lifespace obviously did it as well. As did the Point Group and everybody else.

So we have people who have been reliant on the terms of this protective order. And I don't think that it's appropriate to change the rules of the game now, after the productions have already been made, particularly when none of those folks are here -- well, actually, I think the UMB lawyer might have been on earlier -- but otherwise, none of those folks are here.

I think it's concerning and I don't think that it is a frivolous provision either, as is being suggested. It is part of the district court's form protective order, which suggests to me that somebody's given it some thought and it's used uncontroversially fairly frequently. I don't know that. I don't practice here all the time. But it's a local form, right. So there's that.

And then there's just the practical reality that when we have confidential information in play, this disclosure clause enables the disclosing parties, the producing parties, to keep track of where their information is, right? Without it, if there are slips, we can't track where they came from. And sometimes it's going to come up and be obvious, because it's going to be somebody putting a confidential document in front of a reporter at a deposition, right?

I'm there and I can see it, and we can be like, whoa, no, no, no. Like, stop. And we're dealing with that now. And we're going to see if we can't figure out some sort of separate nondisclosure agreement that she could sign.

But I do think that it's serving a valuable purpose, and it shouldn't be amended. And well, that's what I have to say about the request to amend the protective order. I think that it needs to remain in place, subject to the understanding where I think we both are. There needs to be a revisit made to the confidential designations.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, so what I will do, Mr. Taylor, unless you have anything further, I mean, we can look at individual document at this time. Obviously, only those of the defendants if you want to push this issue forward. If not, I think that what I hear Mr. Hardy saying is he'd like -- well, let me strike that.

I mean, I guess the question that I have then, Mr. Hardy, and as I understand your position, but this is a motion to amend the protective order. And so I guess my question is when you say -- I recognize that all the parties aren't here. But what do you want Mr. Taylor to file, if not a motion to amend the protective order?

MR. HARDY: I'm sorry. Maybe I wasn't clear. I'm saying that the motion to amend the protective order should be denied.

THE COURT: Oh, okay.

MR. HARDY: Yeah. I mean, we had some points of agreement, but that the protective order should be amended in the manner requested is not among them.

THE COURT: So you believe that, for example, a jury consultant, a trial consultant, you believe that they shouldn't be able to see what's probably going to be virtually all the documents in the case?

MR. HARDY: Well, that's not the request that's been made, Your Honor. If it was limited to jury consultants, for instance, that might be something that we can work with. But that's not the request that's been made. It's any consulting expert, and we don't know who that is. We don't know if it's Lifespace. We don't know if it is any other Kong competitor that might be out in the market. That's our concern. That's our worry. It's not some jury consultant who does this stuff all the time. I don't care about that.

THE COURT: I mean, because I'm looking at the list of documents. Similar to the way I looked at your lists of your documents in your motion, I'm looking at the list of documents that was set forth in Mr. Taylor's motion and documents between Kong and ICI before they -- before you entered into the 1231 agreement. Documents with Monument Group, the Dallas Morning News, other documents relating to a media campaign to facilitate the takeover plan. And I'm using obviously, the plaintiff's language. Tell me how those are confidential?

MR. HARDY: Well, Your Honor. Let me back up, because I think that I misunderstood an earlier question. I thought we were talking specifically about the amendment of the protective order. If we're moving into the question of whether these particular -- or these categories of documents ought to be de-designated, that's something to address separately.

THE COURT: Well, no, no. It's all part of the same motion. I mean --

MR. HARDY: Well, no. It is --

THE COURT: -- because we're either going to categorically -- I mean, we have to address whether or not it's time for modification. And I grant you, that it -- we should probably have UMB here. We should probably have the other folks who've signed on to the confidentiality order, who have produced documents, and say before we de-designate your documents, before we change the rules of the game of the entirety of the protective order, everyone should be here.

And I mean, I recognize this is coming to me on expedition. So there's that. But at the same point, I've got to -- we've got to get to the point where we're actually talking turkey. We're talking about the fact that we probably do have -- because this has come up at more than one time in the case, thousands upon thousands -- I bet of the 66,000 documents, we probably have a good 25,000 documents or more, it's up okay, that are marked as confidential. And there was a time for that. I'm just not sure that time is still here. And there isn't -- there is the ability under that order to change it. And so if the time is not now, when?

MR. HARDY: Sure. I understand. So with respect to your question about why are these categories --

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. HARDY: -- of documents confidential? It's challenging to answer because it's not always entirely clear to us what documents fall into those categories. But let me say -- and I should amend that. The plaintiff did provide to us a link to the specific documents that would fall into that category -- into those categories two days ago, and we just haven't had time yet to review those. Right.

So I have to speak in generalities here a little bit. And what I can do is express my concern. And so for instance, one of the categories is communications between Kong, ICI and Levenfeld Pearlstein prior to a particular date, December, whatever it was. So those communications -- and I understand that there's been a holding that there was not a common legal interest.

THE COURT: Correct.

MR. HARDY: And consequently, there was no privilege.

THE COURT: Correct. Not to mention it was before that they were retained, but yeah.

MR. HARDY: Right. Right. But nonetheless, I think that in your review of those documents, I -- at least I hope you saw that everybody believed that this was confidential. These discussions were thought to be confidential. As it turned out, they were wrong. It wasn't privileged. Right.

But that was the expectation.

So sensitive information was discussed, was exchanged in those communications. And the fact that it was later held while there was no privilege, I don't think that answers it. There was sensitive information discussed. We're talking about Kong's modeling, and things like this. I mean, things that it uses to make sure that it has an edge over other players in this market. So I mean, yes, that is problematic for us.

Likewise, the other three categories relate broadly to this scheme to take over the Edgemere and kick out all the nice old people. It's very difficult for us to ascertain what those documents are because we don't acknowledge that any such scheme existed. That's never what was happening here.

What we had here was a situation where ICI had a lessee that was in default. And it needed to exercise its remedies or not under the lease, and it needed to be sure that if and when it did, there was a replacement operator so that they would not have to displace these people. So --

THE COURT: Well, I understood the entire safety net argument that was made --

MR. HARDY: Sure.

THE COURT: -- in the bankruptcy.

MR. HARDY: Okay.

THE COURT: And I understand what the counter argument of that is. My question is whether it's confidential?

MR. HARDY: And the answer is, there's nothing about that category itself that says it is or it isn't confidential. It just cannot be analyzed on that access. It could, depending on what the particular documents are, it could contain modeling. It could contain third-party communications to try to secure financing.

These are things that are generally contained within the realm of confidential documents. But these categories that have been identified, the theory seems to be that, oh, if they fall into this category, they're definitely not confidential. They couldn't be confidential. But it just doesn't work that way.

THE COURT: Okay. Well --

MR. HARDY: So that's our response there, and I suppose in the alternative, I guess I'll point this out. We do have ten days to respond under the protective order. They provided us with the documents two days ago.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: So we at least have eight more days yet, and then the Local Rule 7.1 meet and confer.

THE COURT: So here's what we're going to do. If you want to discuss anything particularized today, then we will discuss only the particular documents. If not, we're going to carry the motion to November 21st at 9 -- at 9:30. We'll carry it with the other one. I forgot what we carried already, but

MS. VANDESTEEG: I believe that one's November 29th, at 9:30, in my notes anyway. And I have that down as the further meet and confer with respect to issues with respect to the FTI requests.

THE COURT: Okay. That's what I get for trying to look back at an old set of notes. Okay. So we'll carry this to -- I mean, unless you want to seek an earlier date, and --

MR. TAYLOR: Can I?

THE COURT: Please.

MR. TAYLOR: I'm happy to carry the motion. Because I think that if we're going to get to that point, I've already given them like 150, plus another 50 of documents that I'd say shouldn't have any designation on them at all.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. TAYLOR: So if we're going to use a hearing to go through that, and have witnesses or whatever, then that's what we'll need to do. I'm hoping that we won't have to, but that's -- we can do that. But I am going to just ask one more time, that at least in the meantime, I can have consultants that work for me, at least look at documents that were produced by the defendants. That way we won't have to deal with UMB. We won't have to deal with some other third parties.

But if there's documents that have been produced by the defendants and marked confidential, I need to be able to show those to the people on my team. And so I would ask that we get that accommodation. And then I think we can probably work out almost everything else. But maybe I'm being too hopeful. That's my hope.

THE COURT: Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor. Ryan Hardy.

Obviously, if our only concern about the proposed amendment to the protective order was its impact on third parties, we wouldn't be objecting. Of course, we're concerned about its impact on us. And here's why. In some ways, I think that Mr. Taylor and I have reached an impasse that probably can't be solved between us.

It is I am concerned that he's going to show confidential documents to consultants who are industry competitors, or who are otherwise poised to take advantage of that information. That could be solved by him telling me who the consultants are. But that disclosure is precisely what he objects to, because he's not required to make that disclosure under Civil Rule 26. Right. So you can see why we find ourselves at loggerheads here.

And where I break on it is, look, this is the order that's been in place. Everybody's been relying on it. It was stipulated. It should continue to bind. I mean, certainly, there's nothing in Rule 26 that mandates that one cannot agree as plaintiff's predecessor did, to disclose their consulting experts under a protective order. That's where we land on.

(Pause)

THE COURT: Well, at this juncture, I don't think that I can -- without seeing what documents that we're talking about, I don't know that I can understand the breadth of what the de-designation would be. Because as I said, looking at some of these documents, these categories of documents as were listed in the motion, I have a hard time understanding how they're confidential. Okay.

I do understand and I have put guardrails around Kong's modeling, for example. I think that is industry specific. And I don't know what types of consultants that we're talking about. I mean, I understand the general designation, but if it -- what's interesting to me is I'm not sure -- and obviously, you're still in the breadth of amending the complaint -- I'm not sure how Kong's modeling at all is going to necessarily be utilized, let's just say by the plaintiff, and if that's the kind of information that we're talking about.

So I think that what I'll need to -- I'll need to understand more directly, number one, what categories or types of documents we're talking about providing to a retained consultant. And then I would want to see exactly what language in the second amended stipulation that you're seeking to change.

And if you're seeking to change it, then I'd want everyone whose documents might be -- if you only want it for the defendants documents I understand that that's more mano y mano. But I need to understand the import on the entirety of the protective order. So we can do that today or we can reset and you guys can further confer on whether to amend the stipulated -- the second stipulated order or not.

MR. TAYLOR: Well, we're definitely going to do that.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: We're definitely going to be conferring because between now and the next time we're here, hopefully, we'll figure out a way to get it resolved.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. TAYLOR: And I might even be able to -- I don't have it in front of me. The thing that everybody signs that says they understand the protective order.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. TAYLOR: But we might can modify that language to say that whoever they are, they can't use it for anything that doesn't have to do with this case. Because his point about the fact that there's people on an oversight committee, I mean, I might not need to show these documents to such people immediately. But during the course of the case, if they're going to provide oversight, they're part of the client. And that was set up whenever the whole trust was set up.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. TAYLOR: So that's a known thing. And they have to be able to function. And to be able to function, they're going to have to be able to see some documents. So the main reason that I put this on today was so that we can be thinking about how can we solve this problem?

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. TAYLOR: I had a huge immediate problem on the attorneys eyes only thing, but now that that's solved at least --

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. TAYLOR: -- for my client, the one I needed to -- I need to be able to use my team. That's what I need.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, may I correct the record on something that I said earlier? I'm sorry. It's --

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: -- causing some heartburn. I intended to specify when I was discussing concerns about industry competitors, that we were concerned about Kong's industry competitors. ICI does not have industry competitors.

THE COURT: I understand.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I understood that based upon the prior issues, but I appreciate that.

MR. HARDY: Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you.

(Pause)

THE COURT: All right. Here's what the Court's going to do. I don't feel comfortable taking a scalpel, more or less a blunt instrument, to the terms of the stipulated protective order in isolation. We can do one of things. We can -- you can either provide me with a redline of what you're looking for, okay, in terms of a change to this order, so that the other side can see it and that you guys can more meaningfully confer, I think on this.

There may be a way to get there with respect to certain types of consultants. And I would hope there would be. And there certainly should be a way to get past certain types of confidential information. I'm not trying to get you to discuss at length, your varying trial strategies and things of that nature, but I am trying to not on expedition and an extremely limited record to redo a confidentiality and protective order that has been in place for probably the better part of a year or two. So I'm just not comfortable doing it on a limited record.

I'm again, happy to see that the Attorneys Eyes Only issue has been worked through at least as it regards the Trustee. Given that the Trustee is part of a litigation oversight, I mean, a trust oversight board, I'll be honest with the defendant, you're going to have to do some talking there. Everyone can be subject to an NDA.

Everyone has their own fiduciary duties and duties to this Court that created them, as well as to the fact that they're -- so these issues, I'm not saying they should have been contemplated at the time of confirmation, but these boards were created. And at some point, they oversee the Trustee, and he has reporting obligations.

And so if there comes a time where counsel needs to report to the board as to what the litigation strategy is, whether you settle, whether you don't. All of the things that go into that, they may have to see certain things.

Now, do they have to see 40,000 documents? No. And that's why I think it's going to be important for there to be a reasonable list of what documents we're talking about. And also a better discussion of who it is, what types of firms. I'm not trying to expand the amount of disclosures necessary, nor retract them. But I'm not comfortable changing the rules of the game, like I said, on expedition on a limited notice.

So I'm going to ask the parties to continue to confer. You have a little bit of my thoughts, at least on the order. I am not -- I'll be frank with you, Mr. Hardy. I'm not as tied -- look, obviously, this isn't mine. This is what the parties agreed to. And as I and most other judges tend to do with these protective orders, if that's what you agree to, you live within these rules.

And I know that you weren't here when this -- when these decisions were made. But I also want to be cognizant that there's certain of these rules that make sense for a Bankruptcy Court to try a case. It's always been my understanding, with respect to -- from the defendants' perspective, that the intent is to take this to a district court and/or a jury at some point.

So with all of that, it probably does make sense to kind of consider that in light of where you guys are headed. But from the confidentiality perspective, I don't have to think. I know that everyone's been way overbroad with the confidential designation. But the defendants are not alone in that. And as you've probably seen, the plaintiffs have done that historically, as well. So I'm going to ask that you continue to confer.

If the 29th puts you too far out, Mr. Taylor, we can get you a date earlier than that, with the understanding that you're going to be hitting Thanksgiving week. But we, I think, probably have some time on the Monday. So you tell me where you want to go from here in terms of a further hearing. But I'm telling you that I want to know more. And I want you to confer more before I make a ruling on this.

MR. TAYLOR: Thank you, Your Honor. And I do want to confer further. One thing that I also would like for you and the other side to consider is perhaps we could de-designate confidential information, but make it into a new category that would just apply to the stuff that was de-designated that would say, you can't use it for a purpose outside of the litigation.

THE COURT: And I think that's definitely something for the parties to talk about. Is that something that like you said, that puts some handcuffs around how it could be used. But I think that that's probably something that the Levenfeld team would probably want to discuss with Kong very concretely, given that it is primarily their modeling and their confidential information at least in this regard that they're -- they don't want to leak out and what they can get comfortable with.

And if not, we come in and the Court decides that, and that's where I make the big bucks. But I think it's worth further discussion. I think that you now after this hearing, have a better idea of kind of where the bitmask is. And I certainly would appreciate you guys thoughtfulness and creativity in that regard.

What are you looking for, with that said, Mr. Taylor, in front of -- in terms of a further hearing? I've got time -- Tuesday the 14th seems quick. But I do have time on Monday the 20th. And then Monday the 27th, which is right after Thanksgiving. I'm not sure how many people are traveling and such. Although I would entertain seeing Ms. Vandesteeg's new travel location if you're going back to that cabin.

MS. VANDESTEEG: I don't know about that one this year, Your Honor.

MR. TAYLOR: So my answer to your question is we have the 29th as a failsafe.

THE COURT: Yes, and we have that.

MR. TAYLOR: And so what I'd kind of like to do, is see if I can talk to these guys and reach some agreement. And if it becomes clear that there's no way around it, then can I reach out to the Court and say, I'll --

THE COURT: Of course.

MR. TAYLOR: I'll take that date on the 20th.

THE COURT: Right. Yeah. So we're going to --

MR. TAYLOR: Why don't you intend to put me down for it?

THE COURT: Ms. Harden is next level Superman at her job. And so trust me, she's already probably booked a fair amount of time for you guys on the 29th. And so if you want it -- if you want to put it there, then it's going to -- it'll be set, but for now we'll just basically put that it's going to be carried without date, pending further reset.

MR. TAYLOR: Okay. And then also, if I end up sending you things to look at in advance, it'll have the whole sealed envelope and stuff.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: Okay.

THE COURT: And obviously, anything that you send to me, obviously copied to the other side.

MR. TAYLOR: Right. Of course.

THE COURT: Anything else, ladies and gentlemen?

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, thank you for granting my pro hac motion. Appreciate you having me in your court today. Nothing further for the defendant.

THE COURT: Absolutely.

MR. TAYLOR: I was going to make a comment, because you were looking askance at me about having complained previously about the length of status conferences. And I was going to say, well, I wasn't complaining. I was just observing. But now I've decided, I think I was complaining. Thanks very much. Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: You're very welcome. All right. So with that, the Court will -- before I adjourn, obviously, I know that there -- I'd ask that you guys and counsel for Lifespace work together on the various orders. I will try to do to give you my help via my minutes. You'll see orders come out on your motions to clarify in the supplemental orders.

With respect to Houlihan and in camera, those are going to be entered today. In fact, the one on the in camera and Houlihan documents is already in my box. The one with respect to the motion to clarify I've already drafted as we discussed on the record. The dates will be provided the amended privilege and redaction log by the 17th and the documents by the 28th. But there will be a little bit further clarification and adjustment in there. But other than that, court will stand adjourned for the day. Safe travels.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE CLERK: All rise.

MR. TAYLOR: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: I'll be on the bench for a minute.

(Proceedings adjourned at 2:53 p.m.)

(Proceedings commenced at 9:35 a.m.)

THE CLERK: All rise. The United States Bankruptcy Court for the Northern District of Texas Dallas Division is now in session; the Honorable Michelle Larson presiding.

THE COURT: Please be seated.

Good morning, everyone.

COUNSEL: Good morning.

THE COURT: We are here in our 9:30 docket. We have one matter on the docket this morning, and that's Case Number 22-3040, Leif Clark versus Intercity Investment and Kong Capital. I'll take appearances for the record.

MR. TAYLOR: Greg Taylor and Drew Jones for the Trustee.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Good morning, Your Honor.

Elizabeth Vandesteeg, Eileen Sethna, and Ryan Hardy of Levenfeld Pearlstein on behalf of both adversary defendants, Inner City Investment Properties, Inc., and Kong Capital, LLC.

MR. WALKER: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. WALKER: Eric Walker on behalf of Lifespace Communities, a non-party in the adversary proceeding. With me today virtually are my colleagues, Christopher Andrews and Sam Rabuck of the Cooley Law Firm. And we also have with us this morning our new co-counsel on this matter, Mr. James Muenker of DLA Piper.

THE COURT: You look familiar, sir.

MR. MUENKER: It's good to see you again, Your Honor. Good morning.

THE COURT: It's nice to see you.

MR. MUENKER: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: All right. Let me take one look at the electronic roll, and it looks like the electronic role is just announcements that Mr. Walker already made, Mr. Sam Rabuck, Christopher Andrews, and Mr. Matthew Kutcher.

All right. Is there anyone else on WebEx who would like to make an appearance this morning?

And if you're on the phone, you can press *6 to unmute.

(No audible response)

THE COURT: All right. Hearing no further takers, Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: Good morning, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Good morning.

MR. HARDY: Ryan Hardy for the defendants. Thank you for hearing us today. Unless the Court prefers that we proceed otherwise, what I'd like to do is give a brief update on where matters stand following the November 9th orders, there was a number of productions made, and then move into some agreements that we have and what I think are some fairly limited areas of dispute that remain.

THE COURT: Agreements are new.

MR. HARDY: Agreements are new. I don't want to oversell it too much, but --

THE COURT: Uh-oh.

MR. HARDY: -- I think they're material.

So as noted in the agenda, Your Honor, it appears that all of the productions required under the November 9th orders have been made. I say it appears because we're still working through the productions ourselves, and we're expecting to receive a further amended privilege log. The one that we received back on the 17th still included some references to UMB and Mintz Levin documents, the Pointe Group, folks like that.

I have conferred with Mr. Walker this morning, and I understand that a forthcoming privilege log will confirm that in fact those documents have been produced except with I understand a pretty limited subset that are in queue for production today?

MR. WALKER: That's correct, Your Honor. Eric Walker on behalf of Lifespace.

It's a total of five documents that were just stragglers that we're producing by the end of the week, and then we're taking all of those entries off the log. They're kind of Legacy entries for documents that were already produced that just slipped through the cracks on the review. So we're going to clean it up and send a fourth amended privilege log by the end of the week.

THE COURT: Fair enough. Thank you.

MR. WALKER: Thank you.

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, in conferring with Mr. Jones of the Diamond McCarthy team earlier this morning as well, I understand that there will be an additional forthcoming production of communications with Rachel Chesley of FTI, their PR person. So that will be forthcoming, also.

Those November 9th orders required also that the parties meet and confer on three topics. The first was whether any communications with FTI are properly withheld and, if so, which ones. As I've previewed for you, we have a partial agreement there. We still have some more work to do, though.

The second is whether any communications with GrayRobinson, counsel to Edgemere's board of directors, are properly withheld and, if so, which ones; and, third, whether Lifespace's post-petition turnover of documents to Edgemere served to waive the attorney-client privilege and work-product protection.

So we did meet and confer on a couple of occasions, first, by telephone with the Diamond McCarthy team on I believe it was the 17th, and then upon Mr. Walker's return on Monday, we conferred with the Diamond McCarthy team and the Cooley team on Monday. And we have some agreement, not total agreement.

I understand that we have agreement that communications with third parties other than FTI and GrayRobinson are due to be produced, so that's including the UMB, Paddock, Point Group, Ground Floor Media communications, and their respective counsel. I understand as expressed already that those productions already have been completed or are in the works and forthcoming.

To be clear, that agreement about third-party disclosures again other than with respect to FTI and GrayRobinson extends not only to those documents originally produced or withheld by Lifespace and Edgemere but also to those originally produced or withheld by FTI and Sidley, which Your Honor will recall, as we were resolving things at the last one, FTI and Sidley turned over their documents to plaintiff so that we could have the argument with plaintiff rather than with these third parties.

THE COURT: Fair enough.

MR. HARDY: So, for instance, I spoke with Mr. Taylor's firm about the Sidley privilege log and we walked through that document-by-document except for the ones that I confusingly highlighted to show which ones I was not challenging.

(Laughter)

MR. HARDY: And his firm then produced what I understand to be a full production of, for instance, all the documents that were sent or received by anybody with a UMB.com or the Mintz.com domains. So we've been working through that, and our expectation is that other than FTI and GrayRobinson, communications with third parties are going to be produced.

So as I said, we do still have some disagreements and I'll dive into those. You'll recall, Your Honor, that a number of the documents on the combined Edgemere-Lifespace privilege log identified no counsel as sending or receiving the communications. We've been referring to them as the no-counsel communications. As expressed before, we understand that the absence of counsel is not dispositive. They still could be relaying legal advice or mental impressions of counsel. But there's a lot of them, and we're frankly skeptical that all of them do.

So in consultation with the plaintiff, what we propose to do with the Court's approval would be to select some of those documents for delivery to identify to the plaintiff and the plaintiff would then deliver them to the court for in-camera review.

THE COURT: I'm about to hire a court discovery expert in this case, I tell you what. I do love in-camera documents, though. What can I say? Oh goodness.

MR. HARDY: So in our discussions, we had discussed 50 as being the number, but I don't want to assume that that's going to be acceptable to the Court.

THE COURT: So 50 on the no-counsel issue?

MR. HARDY: Correct.

THE COURT: Okay. And what is the sample size? I mean, excuse me, what is the -- how many documents on the privilege log are noted as privileged but have no counsel on the stip?

MR. HARDY: So the last time we ran the count, it was a little over six -- it was over 600.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: I haven't re-run the count since we got the amended, but from a glance, it doesn't look like it materially changed.

THE COURT: Okay. Fifty seems fine, then. I imagine there's some dupes in there.

MR. HARDY: Probably so.

Second, there are the GrayRobinson communications and Lifespace's post -- what we characterize as Lifespace's post-petition waiver.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: You will probably not be surprised to learn that the parties do not agree on that score.

THE COURT: And correct me if I'm wrong, have I seen any briefing on those issues yet, Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: No.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: So in looking over the last transcript, what we saw was in fact you did ask for supplemental briefing.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: And so during the course of our meet and confers, we raised that issue. And here's where we are. The defendants are prepared to file their briefing on those issues by Friday.

THE COURT: December 1st?

MR. HARDY: That's correct.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: Lifespace has requested, and I suppose plaintiff too, has requested 21 days to respond, followed up by an evidentiary hearing in January. We have concerns about that timetable naturally because we have a close of discovery in January and we still have depositions to do. So we would like to compress that schedule a fair bit, but we recognize as well that the Court will likely be expecting to receive evidence on this. And I don't want to purport to set an evidentiary hearing without the Court's buy-in.

So what we would like to do, when I say we, I'm saying the defendants here, like to do would be to set it for an evidentiary hearing in mid-December, but I understand from Mr. Walker that there may be witness availability issues and things like that that he can speak to better than I.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Do you want a break and I'll hear from Mr. Walker now?

MR. HARDY: I think that makes sense, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Please, Mr. Walker.

MR. WALKER: Thank you, Your Honor. Eric Walker for Lifespace. We did have a meet and confer on Monday, as Mr. Hardy mentioned. We did discuss, after reviewing the transcript from the last hearing, it was very clear that the Court said if we're going to -- if the defendants are going to challenge and try to bust the entire privilege that Lifespace has asserted here, we're going to need briefing on that issue, we're going to need to try that issue.

As the Court can appreciate, that's a serious issue for my client, Lifespace. So we would like an adequate opportunity to make sure we fully brief it and also have time to prepare our witnesses, to present our witness at an evidentiary hearing. So in looking at the calendar, considering the holidays that are approaching, we thought that three weeks was more than reasonable to give us an opportunity to review their brief. We've asked them for legal authority on this position. We haven't received any yet. They say they're going to file their brief on Friday.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. WALKER: That's fair. We'd like three weeks to review it and then prepare our brief in response. And that brings us to December 22nd, of course, the holidays right there, end of year. And so we thought finding a time that would be acceptable for the Court sometime in January to conduct the evidentiary hearing made sense for a timetable from Lifespace's perspective.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Walker.

MR. WALKER: I just don't see frankly how we could rush to an evidentiary hearing sometime in the next week or two on an issue of this magnitude.

THE COURT: Okay. I appreciate that.

MR. WALKER: Thank you.

THE COURT: Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor. Ryan Hardy for the defendants. We can certainly appreciate Mr. Walker's position, and it's not our intention at all to jam anybody up. This has been a live issue for some time and, of course, it came up on November 9th. As the party with the obligation to support its assertion of privilege and protection, we would have expected that Lifespace would already know the bases and be prepared to present testimony on that even without our briefing. But what I'm hearing is that that's not the case.

We would request an evidentiary hearing, if there's going to be one, in mid-December, understanding of course that it's up to --

THE COURT: Yes, in mid-December, I mean the issue right now that I have, Mr. Hardy, is mid-December is my trial week.

MR. HARDY: Sure.

THE COURT: And the way that we work logistically is we have a -- and you may know this, you may not know this, but we have a trial docket call the week ahead of our trial week and we find out if cases are trial ready. And so I don't know today if I have -- I know at least I have maybe four adversaries that are set for trial the week of December 11th, but I don't know if anything is going to go yet and if those are going to be two-day trials, if they're going to be -- I doubt I have a week-long trial during that week.

But all that to say I tend to agree with Mr. Walker on this one that it does seem rather quick to have this briefed and ready to go for an evidentiary hearing the week of the 11th. And the only good news in this is I'm glad that folks are talking about an evidentiary hearing because I do believe that that's important in this case, both with respect to the GrayRobinson issue.

I've touched on this in the bankruptcy at least one time with respect to GrayRobinson as being counsel to the board members, as I recall. And I think that the issue of whether or not Lifespace essentially, I think to take your words, busting privilege by handing over the documents post-petition is a considerable one. And so I want to give that the time that it should have.

And so I think that what I -- I could probably -- let me -- I'm going to speak out loud to Ms. Harden who is listening in. I think I can give you something the first non-holiday week of January, which is the week of the 8th.

So I'll take a look and see what I have that week.

MR. WALKER: I guess, Your Honor --

THE COURT: She'll probably respond and say I'm still waiting for you to approve the calendars, so.

(Laughter)

THE COURT: Mr. Walker.

MR. WALKER: Yeah, thank you. Eric Walker for Lifespace. I think one potential recommendation is maybe we get two potential evidentiary hearing dates and then we can go back to our witnesses and figure out.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. WALKER: I just don't have their --

THE COURT: Right.

MR. WALKER: -- calendar in front of me, so if we could get one or two or maybe even three options, then we can --

THE COURT: Okay. So --

MR. WALKER: -- we can figure out which one's going to work.

THE COURT: Ms. Harden has reminded me that the week of the 8th is also my trial week. It's my trial week in January, and I have three matters up for hearing. Let me look at those right quick.

The answer is let's take a step back. You guys need a day, right?

MR. HARDY: I can't imagine it would take more than a day.

MR. WALKER: I agree with that, yeah.

THE COURT: Okay. All right. So I am fairly certain that even if I were to have something that's ready to go in January, which would be a rarity, that I couldn't carve out a day that week. So why don't you get with -- obviously get together, get some dates, talk to your witnesses and things of that nature.

And get with Ms. Harden and see if you can request one day between the 8th and the 12th of January for a hearing. And then she'll get back with me and we will see -- even if it's a Wednesday, if I have to do a trial for two days and handle you guys and come back on Thursday, I could do that. So let's do that.

And then in terms of a briefing schedule, I'll allow the parties to essentially work it out if you're going to file on the 1st, if they would like 21 days, and when your response deadline would be, so long as your response deadline if you want to file a reply, in other words, so long as it's a couple two, three days before the hearing, it will be fine with the Court. So whatever works for you. I recognize your team's holidays have been ruined at least once, so -- last year.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor. I think that's clear. So we will coordinate with the Court to locate a date that first non-holiday week of January. We will work with our witnesses to make sure there's availability, and we will collaborate on a briefing schedule that ensures that the non-movants will have 21 days to respond. And to the extent we are going to reply, that reply will be filed at least I think you said three days before the --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. HARDY: -- evidentiary hearing.

THE COURT: Exactly. So if you could file it by maybe like the 4th, I would appreciate it. But, again, the parties can just work out when that deadline will be. That's fine with me.

So when is the close of fact discovery?

MR. HARDY: I believe it's January 26th.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: January 26th.

THE COURT: All right. Again, so the more time that I have with your reply brief, the better because that is hopefully the more likely that I would be prepared to be able to rule from the bench that day, given where the close of fact discovery is and kind of keep things moving. And we'll do our best to endeavor to do that. It is an evidentiary hearing, though, so I always have to --

MR. HARDY: Of course.

THE COURT: -- recognize that I may not be prepared to rule that day.

MR. HARDY: Fully understood, Your Honor. Thank you.

So that brings us to the third area where we still had some outstanding matters, and that is with respect to the FTI communications.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: As mentioned, we do have some limited agreement as to Rachel Chesley which was welcome and -- I'm sorry, I've been passed a note.

THE COURT: Uh-oh.

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, I'd like to return to the prior issue just briefly.

THE COURT: Uh-huh.

MR. HARDY: In light of that January 26th close of fact discovery, we have as of earlier this week solicited deposition dates for some corporate designees and some fact witnesses, and there may be some overlap there. We were aiming, we hope to take those in December.

But if there's obviously a potential for a significant document production in January in light of this, we question whether it would make sense to begin those depositions in December and leave them open so that in the event that there is a document production in January, we can follow up and ask about new documents that may be produced. I understand you're hearing this for the first time right. Mr. Walker is too.

THE COURT: And Mr. Taylor.

MR. HARDY: And Mr. Taylor. But as a conceptual matter, I think that that's something that we're going to need to be able to do in order to keep with the current fact schedule. Otherwise, I just don't see how we can jam in all these depositions in January because, I assume at some point, the plaintiff is going to want to take some also.

THE COURT: Mr. Taylor, anything to add on this topic?

MR. TAYLOR: I don't have anything to add today since I'm -- I'm aware of the issue that January 26th is pressing. And so my plan is to see how far we get. And then when we get -- if we're going to have to do something to push that date, I'll probably be reasonable and I would like to be able to approach the Court. But I mean since we haven't talked about it at all --

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. TAYLOR: -- I'm unwilling at this juncture of the case to push the trial, but we might be able to push a deadline or two like that --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: -- just because there's still plenty of time between now and September whenever the trial is, so. I'm going to be reasonable, but I don't think it's reasonable to have people give depositions twice. So I'm going to be against that proposal. But that doesn't mean we can't figure out some way around it.

THE COURT: Right. And there's lots of ways I'm sure -- you guys work your litigation magic and take depositions that may not require these documents and things of that nature. So there's that. There's also the point of realism that we need to get to is I have had an opportunity to review the amended complaint, the answer, and the amended counterclaims and, as we know, recognizing that the defendants have not consented to the entry of final orders by this Court.

So at some point, I'll prepare this case for trial most likely, and then it will be sent to the District Court. So September is a placeholder for this Court, and we will prepare and push that way, but we're recognizing that at some point, we would have to get on a District Court's calendar. And I'm not sure it's September is what I'm telling you.

So with that, I think that we -- I'm not encouraging folks to push dates. I just want to say that out loud, as well as I do think, Mr. Hardy, I mean obviously I'm not going to move a deadline today. But it is something to consider. We'll have to consider, number one, the breadth of the documents, who the potential deponents are, and whether or not these documents are necessary for every single deponent and maybe you front in some.

But, again, it's part of the magic that you guys do, so, of the order of depositions and what. So I don't want to get in the sauce.

MR. HARDY: I understand, Your Honor. Thank you.

Moving again, then, to the FTI communications.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: As noted, we have agreement on Rachel Chesley's. The bigger point of disagreement, and I'm going to veer from the update portion of this into the argument portion of this, is communications with FTI's Chad Shandler --

THE COURT: Right.

MR. HARDY: -- who you might recall was FTI's lead and served as financial advisor to the debtor, both pre-petition and post-petition. In the defendants' view, Mr. Shandler's communications are due to be produced for a few reasons.

The first one is that many of them pre-date any reasonable anticipation of litigation, so to the extent there's a work product claim advanced over them, they should be -- that should be overruled and they should be produced nonetheless. These communications, Your Honor, go all the way back to February 2021, over a year before the petition date. So we cannot believe that that was done in anticipation of litigation.

The second is that according to Mr. Shandler's testimony, including for instance his declaration at ECF 657 in the main case, he and FTI served as financial adviser to Edgemere. And it stands to reason that a fair number of his communications are primarily business communications rather than legal ones. So again, we've talked about this distinction before. You've done some in-camera review on a similar issue before. It's that same thing where he's primarily for legal purposes or primarily for business purposes because this is a financial adviser we're talking about, after all.

The third is that Mr. Shandler was a testifying expert for Edgemere in the main bankruptcy case, so his communications and those of his colleagues are discoverable under Civil Rule 26(b)(4)(C) to the extent that they identify facts or data provided to FTI that were considered in forming his opinions or identified assumptions provided to FTI that were considered in forming his opinions.

And those opinions and the subject matter of his testimony were very broad. I mean that declaration that I referenced a moment ago at 657 which is in support of a motion to extend exclusivity identified that Mr. Shandler had been serving as FA since February of 2021. He had reviewed the financial statements of the debtor, observed management in his daily business, discussed the business with employees and debtors' counsel and boards of directors, that the facts in his declaration were based on his personal knowledge and his discussion with employees and directors, et cetera, his review of the books and records.

And he goes on to testify through that declaration that the debtors anticipated post-petition operating losses in part as a result of pre-petition actions and misconduct of Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. and Kong Capital, LLC, as alleged in the adversary complaint against defendants. And he goes on to explain that since before the petition date and since, the debtors have evaluated various models and explored multiple alternatives for reorganization and that they need finally more time because this was a motion to exclude exclusivity -- extend exclusivity.

So we have an exceptionally broad scope of testimony subject matter and an exceptionally broad scope of what he relied on to reach those conclusions. And in our estimation, that means that substantially all of his communications, if not all of them given the breadth of this, are discoverable under Civil Rule 26. So --

THE COURT: But before you go on, Mr. Hardy, because I want to understand what the big ask is here, is it your position that any time Mr. Shandler is on a communication that it's not privileged or are you talking about so, for example, if it is -- I recognize that Sidley was pre-petition counsel for some time -- if it's Tom Califano and Chad Shandler talking, are you saying that it's busted because it's Chad Shandler or are you saying that if it's only Chad Shandler and other people, then there's no privilege? I need to understand what we're talking about.

MR. HARDY: No, I understand. And it's the former, Your Honor. It is both with counsel and without counsel, the reason being that in Mr. Shandler's own telling, his opinions were based on, among other things, his discussions with debtors' counsel. And to the extent that those discussions form the basis for his opinions or provided assumptions that he used in forming his opinions, then they are fair game.

What we don't have, Your Honor, is of course because we never would is access to these to assess them ourselves.

THE COURT: Of course.

MR. HARDY: But given the breadth of what Mr. Shandler was testifying to and given the breadth of what he says he relied on in reaching those opinions, it strikes us that all of these communications are subject to discovery.

THE COURT: Well, I'm going to tell you I doubt it. I'm just laying it out there because I believe that there are going to be -- and this is as much for both sides. I believe there are going to be some communications that Mr. Shandler is on with counsel that are going to be privileged. And I believe because they are going to deal with legal strategy.

I mean I can't divorce what I know about FAs and bankruptcy work from a litigation discussion. And an FA, especially in the role that Mr. Shandler played in this particular play, he is going to be on communications, he is going to be in the room when legal strategy is being discussed and he is going to be a player in that. And I think and likely those would still be privileged.

With that said, if Mr. Shandler is on communications and it's about how many linens we're going to order for the dining room and he's dealing with ops issues, finance issues, well, we're getting in a different area. So I believe that there is going to be a continuum. And so a wholesale production, I don't know that you're going to get me there, Mr. Hardy. But I do believe you've certainly brought up some issues that the anticipation of litigation issue, that's an evidentiary issue.

And I don't think you're going to get me to say that it's absolutely not anticipation of litigation because I don't know that it's ever been before me over the course of the couple of years of this case of whether or not there was a bankruptcy filing that was anticipated any other time and whether or not that might be anticipation of litigation. I don't know. Maybe it's not. Maybe they were just in a true financial advisory role at that time.

So the long story short is before I'm going to be prepared to rule on an FTI issue, do we have full briefing on this? I don't recall that we do. Maybe I'm wrong. I know that there was some issue because, as I recall, there was like Lifespace should retain FTI. Is that correct, Mr. Walker? No. Sidley had retained --

MR. WALKER: Correct.

THE COURT: -- FTI. My bad. Okay.

MR. HARDY: Right.

THE COURT: So please, go ahead.

MR. HARDY: No, I understand where you are. You asked a question as to whether the issue --

THE COURT: Yes, thank you.

MR. HARDY: -- had been briefed. It had been in an earlier iteration. What you're hearing now is topics that were discussed during the meet-and-confer process --

THE COURT: And confer, okay. That makes sense.

MR. HARDY: -- right as we had more clarity on what it was that we were disputing and then what it is we're not. So you raised a fair point there, and I suppose what I can propose to do would be to add FTI to the list of the post-petition disclosure and the GrayRobinson documents and we could take it up. We have an evidentiary hearing that's going to be set. We could take it up at the same time, perhaps --

THE COURT: Let me --

MR. HARDY: -- time permitting.

THE COURT: Let me hear from the other folks, Mr. Hardy, and then we'll talk about how to approach next steps.

Mr. Taylor.

MR. TAYLOR: I don't think we've fully conferred about these issues.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: We have started talking about it. And as a result of the beginnings of our discussions, you've heard this. Some of this stuff that I'm hearing today and the reasons why they want the FTI documents, if we talked about them previously, I guess I didn't hear it.

What needs to happen from my perspective is I need to call up Mr. Chandler --

THE COURT: Shandler.

MR. TAYLOR: -- and talk to him about what was going on and what he thinks about the issues. And then we'll go back and look. I need to figure out some way to narrow down which documents to start looking at, if there's a lot of them, so that we can make a view on whether this stuff can be turned over or not, because I share your view that I think it's very unlikely that there should be a wholesale here's everything FTI has.

THE COURT: Right.

MR. TAYLOR: So I need a way to be able to do it. As far as -- because the issues may involve these evidentiary issues that may have to be part of an evidentiary hearing, I don't have any problem with having such a hearing. I don't have any problem with briefing. I don't think we filed a brief on this issue.

THE COURT: Well, this issue goes back last year in the same pleading that dealt with some of the Lifespace issues that's been percolating. I mean, essentially there was a swath of maybe like seven different things. There were the Houlihans, the FTIs, UMBs, all of these things were kind of teed up at one time. I don't know that we've ever received fulsome briefing on this. If we have, I don't recall seeing it. But, again, there's been a lot of discovery disputes --

MR. TAYLOR: What I --

THE COURT: -- so I could have missed on.

MR. TAYLOR: What I would like to do is talk to them to make sure I understand --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. TAYLOR: -- exactly which of these issues that they're pressing, then brief those issues, really.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. TAYLOR: And then if we have to have a hearing, then we'll have a hearing.

THE COURT: Sure. Well, again, I'll allow the parties to confer. I think that essentially the defendants have probably crystallized their arguments with respect, at least as Mr. Hardy laid out at least three issues, and to confer further. And if this is something that, A, the parties want to go in camera or, B, that the parties want to have the evidentiary hearing, then I'll have you confer on that.

If it's an in-camera, then contact the Court and we'll see if we can work that out through the Court's courtroom deputy. If it is further briefing and a hearing, then I'll allow y'all to discuss that at the same time that we're talking about the GrayRobinson and the post-petition turnover issue. All right?

MR. TAYLOR: Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Taylor.

And as I understand it, this is not a Lifespace issue. Thank you.

Mr. Hardy.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

In light of that, I think what I'm going to do, there was a third reason that we considered there needed to be production --

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: -- of FTI documents. And that was those that included Lifespace's outside counsel.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: That touches on common-interest questions.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. HARDY: And I think given what you just said, it's probably best that we --

THE COURT: Yeah.

MR. HARDY: -- yeah, treat that with the other thing. So we'll go ahead and do that. I'll speak with Mr. Taylor and, given Lifespace outside counsel on that one, I'll talk to Mr. Walker about it, also.

In that instance, that concludes the defendants' agenda items. Mr. Taylor has his protective order issue. I assume that he prefers to speak first on that. So unless the Court has questions for me at this point, I'm going to go sit down for a moment.

THE COURT: I don't think I do. I think that -- I had had an opportunity to review the agenda, I appreciate that, prior to the hearing. And so I appreciate you walking me through that and where the other meet and confers have led us.

With respect to -- so where we landed when you were talking about the -- on the one thing that I don't think that I put a date to is on the ex parte documents on the no-counsel documents. So 50 documents is fine. Did we land on a date for that?

MR. HARDY: Your Honor, I don't think we did.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: Before I sent over a list of documents to the plaintiff, I wanted to make sure that we had the number pinned up.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. HARDY: But we can go ahead and get that done this week. And I think last time it was a week after that they were submitted to the Court. If that works Mr. Taylor?

MR. TAYLOR: Fine.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

MR. HARDY: So submission by next Friday.

THE COURT: All right.

MR. HARDY: Thank you, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Merry Christmas, Court.

(Laughter)

THE COURT: All right. Mr. Taylor.

MR. TAYLOR: I'm going to give you a good Christmas present. Pretty good, not completely as good as it could be but better than most.

So I delivered to the Court yesterday --

THE COURT: Yes.

MR. TAYLOR: -- confidential information. It's got a big stamp on it --

THE COURT: Got it.

MR. TAYLOR: -- that says how confidential it has to be. I had to follow the --

THE COURT: Super confidential.

MR. TAYLOR: I had to follow the protective order just to get this, and I don't even know what it means no prejudice, but that's required by the order so here it is.

I sent this over. I --

THE COURT: Before you go further, Mr. Taylor, do we need to close the hearing?

MR. TAYLOR: Yes. Oh, yes, we do.

THE COURT: Okay. I thought we did. Okay. And Ms. Jeng was on it.

Okay. Let's see, we've got a lot of Lifespace folks. I don't recognize the name "Dragic" (phonetic).

Ms. Vandesteeg.

MR. DRAGIC: Hi, Your Honor. Yes, I'm with Kong Capital.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. VANDESTEEG: Your Honor, point of precision, however. Mr. Dragic is a recent addition. We have not yet brought him under the guise of the protective order.

THE COURT: Okay.

MS. VANDESTEEG: So, unfortunately, for this, he will need to be excluded.

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Dragic, if you could disconnect for this, I'd appreciate it.

All right. I recognize Mr. Blythe, Mr. Jordan,

Mr. Hannon.

THE CLERK: Everyone else is --

THE COURT: Oh well, then thank you, Ms. Jeng. She's ahead of me, again. All right.

MR. HARDY: Pardon me, Your Honor. I ask just because I don't know. Is DLA Piper under the protective order yet?

MR. MUENKER: Do you want me to sign it?

MR. HARDY: Yeah, okay.

THE COURT: Okay. All right.

MR. WALKER: Can we make a representation?

MR. MUENKER: Yeah, Your Honor. I'm happy to sign it. I have not seen the protective order. I just subbed in on Monday.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. MUENKER: But as counsel for Lifespace, I'm happy to sign it.

THE COURT: All right. Any concerns, Mr. Hardy?

MR. HARDY: Yes, many. But in light of the representation and provided that a signature is forthcoming.

THE COURT: Okay. If you could get that to me by the of the day, Mr. Muenker, I would appreciate it.

MR. MUENKER: Will do, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Thank you. To the extent that it comes back I'd say to me. If you could get it signed by the end of the day, I would appreciate that.

MR. MUENKER: Yeah.

THE COURT: Thank you.

Defendants, Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. ("ICI") and Kong Capital LLC ("Kong" and, with ICI, the "Defendants"), respectfully state as follows for their Supplemental Brief Regarding Lifespace Privilege Waiver and the GrayRobinson Communications.[1]

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

Defendants' Motion to Compel Production by Plaintiff and Brief in Support [Adv. Proc. Dkt. 362] (the "Motion to Compel") sought to compel the Plaintiff to produce non-privileged documents. The Court instructed the parties to further meet and confer regarding the issues raised in this Brief and continued the Motion to November 29, 2023. [Adv. Proc. Dkt. 423]. Defendants and Plaintiff met and conferred by telephone on November 21, 2023, and Defendants, Plaintiff, and Lifespace met and conferred by telephone on November 27, 2023. On November 29, 2023, the Court requested supplemental briefing on two issues: (1) whether Lifespace's post-petition disclosure of documents to Edgemere served to waive privilege and/or protection over communications between Lifespace and its counsel, and (2) whether pre-petition communications between Lifespace, Edgemere, and their respective counsel with GrayRobinson—counsel to Edgemere's Board of Directors—is privileged or protected. This Brief addresses that request.

As discussed at the November 9, 2023 hearing, among other hearings, Lifespace made a post-petition disclosure of all or substantially all of its relevant documents, privileged and otherwise, to Northwest Senior Housing Corporation ("Edgemere"). This disclosure constituted a waiver of attorney-client privilege and work-product protection that may have otherwise attached to such documents. Accordingly, communications between or among any Lifespace employee or [1] During the meet and confer process, there was some dispute whether these matters fell within the ambit of the Motion to Compel appearing at adversary docket #362. To the extent they did not—and Defendants believe they did—Defendants hereby move for the production of the Lifespace Communications and the GrayRobinson Communications as those terms are defined herein.

officer, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, any or all of: Dorsey & Whitney LLP, Perkins Coie LLP, Cooley LLP, Locke Lord LLP, Norton Rose Fulbright, Gilmore & Bell, P.C., Ropes & Gray LLP, and/or Stewart Wiegland & Owens PC (the "Lifespace Communications"), are not privileged.

Also at issue is whether Lifespace and Edgemere's communications with GrayRobinson—counsel to Edgemere's Board of Directors—are attorney-client privileged or work-product protected. Those communications (the "GrayRobinson Communications") are neither privileged nor protected.

II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. Lifespace Disclosed Privileged Information to Attorneys Representing Edgemere.

Lifespace and Edgemere worked together to supply a combined document production and a corresponding joint privilege log. As part of that process, Lifespace provided documents to Edgemere's attorneys, as Lifespace has explained in hearings[2] and in filings[3]. Edgemere's attorneys then reviewed the documents for privilege and protection and prepared the privilege log. In short, Lifespace provided all of its documents—even those in which Lifespace sought legal [2] Transcript of Hearing Held Jan. 25, 2023, p. 37:4-12 (E. Walker for Lifespace) (Because "Lifespace manages all of the information that could be potentially responsive to these overlapping discovery requests, Edgemere coordinated with Lifespace to perform a reasonable search to collect all information in Lifespace's possession, custody, and control that could be potentially responsive to Defendants' discovery requests. That information was reviewed for responsiveness and for privilege, and produced to Defendants, together with a comprehensive privilege log.").

[3] Lifespace Communities, Inc.'s Response to Defendants' Motion to Compel Production of Documents [Adv. Proc. Dkt. 260] pp. 5-6 ("Lifespace coordinated with Edgemere . . . to conduct a reasonable search to collect documents and other information responsive to these duplicative requests, Edgemere, as the party to this adversary proceeding, produced responsive, non-privileged documents to Defendants in the manner required by the rules . . . and prepared a comprehensive privilege log for that production."). Id. at 14 ("Just as the Edgemere production of documents is coextensive with the Lifespace production of documents, so too the privilege log provided by Edgemere is sufficient to set forth the documents withheld by Lifespace on the basis of privilege.").

guidance from Lifespace attorneys—to Edgemere. By doing so, Lifespace waived the attorney-client privilege and any work-product protection that may otherwise have attached.

B. Lifespace and Edgemere Were Adverse at the Time of Disclosure

Lifespace and Edgemere were adverse to each other at the time the relevant documents were disclosed. By the time these chapter 11 cases began, Lifespace was no longer taking management fees it was owed by Edgemere and held a resultant $5.5 million claim; Lifespace and Edgemere had separate counsel; and Lifespace and Edgemere were engaged in "arm's length" negotiations regarding a restructuring. See Claim No. 145, filed by Lifespace Communities, Inc.; Declaration of Nick Harshfield in Support of Chapter 11 Petition and First Day Pleadings [Dkt. 7] p. 7 (discussing arm's length negotiations between Edgemere and Lifespace); Declaration of Nick Harshfield [Adv. Proc. Dkt. 275] p. 5-7 (identifying the various law firms who represented Lifespace and Edgemere and Lifespace in-house counsel).

The Court has also recognized that Lifespace and Edgemere are different entities with divergent interests. See, e.g., November 7, 2023 Hr'g Tr. 45:11-17 ("[A]s I have ruled a number of times, formally and informally, these are two different entities and, without seeing all the documents I don't know, but there did come a time in this courtroom, post-petition, in which interests diverged, in which Lifespace was making deals, entering into settlements, in its own right separate from Edgemere, okay.").

Thus, Lifespace and Edgemere were adverse at the time of the disclosures. And, as explained below, the disclosures therefore served to waive any privilege or protection that may otherwise have attached to the Lifespace Communications.

III. LEGAL ARGUMENT

A. Lifespace Has Not Met its Burden to Prove that Communications Between Lifespace Personnel and Edgemere Attorneys Are Privileged.

1. Attorney-Client Privilege

The Federal Rules of Evidence apply to this adversary proceeding. See Fed. R. Evid. P. 101 (The Federal Rules of Evidence apply to proceedings in United States courts.); Fed. R. Evid. 1101(a) (the Federal Rules of Evidence "apply to proceedings before . . . United States bankruptcy and magistrate judges."); Fed. R. Evid. 1101(b) (the Federal Rules of Evidence "apply in . . . civil cases and proceedings, including bankruptcy . . . cases."); Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9017 ("The Federal Rules of Evidence and Rules 43, 44, and 44.1 F. R. Civ. P. apply in cases under the Code.").

Under Federal Rule of Evidence 501, "[i]n a civil case, state law governs privilege regarding a claim or defense for which state law supplies the rule of decision." The claims advanced in this proceeding are governed by the substantive law of Texas; consequently, Federal Rule of Evidence 501 dictates application of Texas law concerning attorney-client privilege.[4]

a. Texas Law on Attorney-Client Privilege

"If a party asserts attorney-client privilege under Texas law, they must prove that there was: '(a) a confidential communication; (b) made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of professional legal services; (c) between or among the client, lawyer and their representatives; and (d) the privilege has not been waived.'" In re Lopez, No. 21-10098, 2022 WL 2080187, at *8 (Bankr. E.D. Tex. June 9, 2022); Hall Phoenix/Inwood v. Hallwood Group Inc. (In re Hallwood Energy, L.P.), No. 09-31253-11, 2010 WL 3211688, at *4 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. Aug. 11, 2010); see also Tex. R. Evid. 503(b). The party asserting the privilege has the burden to prove it applies.

[4] Lifespace previously has acknowledged that Texas law concerning attorney-client privilege applies in this proceeding. See ECF #370, pp. 4-6.

Peeples v. Honorable Fourth Supreme Judicial Dist., 701 S.W.2d 635, 637 (Tex. 1985) ("Any party who seeks to deny the production of evidence must claim a specific privilege against such production. The burden is on the party asserting a privilege from discovery to produce evidence concerning the applicability of a particular privilege"). "If the matter for which a privilege is sought has been disclosed to a third party, thus raising the question of waiver of the privilege, the party asserting the privilege has the burden of proving that no waiver has occurred." Jordan v. Court of Appeals for Fourth Supreme Judicial Dist., 701 S.W.2d 644, 649 (Tex. 1985).

Thus, Lifespace must prove—with evidence—that its blanket disclosure to Edgemere was (a) a confidential communication, (b) made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of professional legal services, (c) between or among the client, the lawyer and/or their representatives, and (d) the privilege has not been waived. In re Lopez, No. 21-10098, 2022 WL 2080187, at *8 (Bankr. E.D. Tex. June 9, 2022).

b. Waiver of Attorney-Client Privilege

Under Texas law, the holder of a privilege waives the privilege if he or she "voluntarily discloses or consents to disclosure of any significant part of the privileged matter unless such disclosure itself is privileged." Tex. R. Evid. 511(a)(1); see also, e.g., Paxton v. City of Dallas, 509 S.W.3d 247, 263 (Tex. 2017); Univ. of Texas Sys. v. Franklin Ctr. For Gov't & Pub. Integrity, 675 S.W.3d 273 (Tex. 2023), reh'g denied (Oct. 20, 2023). While there is a narrow exception to this general rule in Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C) for communications by the client, the client's representative, the client's lawyer, or the lawyer's representative "to a lawyer representing another party in a pending action or that lawyer's representative," application of that exception still requires that the communication be "made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to the client" and that the communication "concern a matter of common interest in the pending action."

Here, there are two reasons why Lifespace's disclosure to Edgemere falls outside the bounds of the safe harbor in Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C). The first is that the disclosure was not, and could not have been, "made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to" Lifespace. Instead, it was merely for Lifespace's convenience in responding to a subpoena. Indeed, it could not have been for Lifespace to receive legal advice or rendition of professional legal services because Lifespace made the disclosure to Estate professionals (Edgemere's bankruptcy counsel at Polsinelli) who were foreclosed under 11 U.S.C. § 327(a)'s disinterestedness requirement from rendering legal services to a creditor like Lifespace.

Lifespace itself clearly explained that the disclosure was merely a matter of convenience, and not one intended to secure the rendition of legal services:

> So, because Lifespace manages all of the information that could be potentially responsive to these overlapping discovery requests, Edgemere coordinated with Lifespace to perform a reasonable search to collect all information in Lifespace's possession, custody, and control that could be potentially responsive to Defendants' discovery requests. That information was reviewed for responsiveness and for privilege, and produced to Defendants, together with a comprehensive privilege log.[5]

And, indeed, Lifespace and Plaintiff each doubled down on that characterization. As perhaps most clearly explained by Lifespace: "all documents were in the possession, custody, and control of both Lifespace and Edgemere" and if the companies "were to do two separate productions, they would have been identical."[6] Plaintiff agreed, responding affirmatively when the Court inquired whether "if called upon for Edgemere to do its own document gathering, it would have had access to the same documents that were pulled for it by its parent sponsor Lifespace[.]"[7]

6 Transcript of Hearing Held Nov. 7, 2023 ("11/7 Tran."), pp. 9:15-18, 17:9-11 (E. Walker for Lifespace).

7 11/7 Tran., p. 43:2-13 (G. Taylor for Plaintiff).

Plaintiff further clarified that the overlap in the documents extended beyond those produced and also to those withheld: "If we had done a separate privilege log, my guess is, it would have been exactly the same as Lifespace."[8] Following those representations, the Court similarly acknowledged, correctly, that "I will say I find it hard to understand how a privilege log could be prepared by Polsinelli without having seen the document[.]"[9]

As a result of this wholesale provision of arguably-privileged correspondence from one entity (Lifespace) to a separate entity (Edgemere), Lifespace waived privilege over the Lifespace Communications.

Similarly, the Court in its June 23, 2023 Order recognized that:

> The mere relatedness of the Plaintiff and Lifespace does not create the privilege. This is particularly true in cases like the present where the entities are and were then represented by separate counsel. Thus, if the Plaintiff cannot show that the entities share a common attorney or a common legal interest so as to come within the joint-client rule, the Plaintiff must demonstrate that the disclosure was made between the entities for the purpose of eliciting assistance from the attorney in rendering legal advice or services.[10]

The italicized language in the above correctly underscores why Lifespace's disclosure to Plaintiff falls squarely within the general rule: Lifespace did not disclose communications to Lifespace to elicit legal advice or to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to Lifespace. Rather, it did so simply as a manner of convenience.

That alone is enough to resolve the issue: Lifespace's disclosure of the Lifespace Communications was not to elicit legal advice or to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to Lifespace—it could not have been, because Edgemere's bankruptcy counsel was foreclosed from rendering legal advice or legal services to a creditor like Lifespace. But, even if that was not enough to resolve the issue, Lifespace also cannot show the "related companies exception" to privilege waiver applies here.[11] The foundation of the "related companies exception" is that a parent and its subsidiary share a unity of interest. See, e.g., In re Napster, Inc. Copyright Litig., 2005 WL 6569723 4–5 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 12, 2005); In re Teleglobe Commns. Corp., 493 F.3d 345, 370–71 (3d Cir. 2007) (intercorporate disclosures waive privilege when there is no longer a "community-of-interest" between the entities); In re Grand Jury Subpoena #06-1, 274 Fed. Appx. 306, 311 (4th Cir. 2008) ("co-client" privilege enjoyed by affiliated entities "circumscribed by the limited congruence of the clients' interests") (internal quotation omitted); see also, e.g., Restatement (Third) of the Law Governing Lawyers § 73, cmt. d (a "subsidiary corporation's agents who are responsible for affairs of the parent are also considered agents of the parent for purpose of the privilege) (emphasis added). And as the Gulf Islands Court explained: "Having chosen to operate as separate entities—and to obtain whatever advantages inure from so operating—[Lifespace and Edgemere] must be held to their burden of proving the applicability of any privilege in the same manner as two unrelated entities." Gulf Islands Leasing, Inc. v. Bombardier Cap., Inc., 215 F.R.D. 466, 474 (S.D.N.Y. 2003).

Here again, that community of interest no longer existed at the time of Lifespace's disclosure to Edgemere: it was a $5 million creditor engaged in arm's length negotiations with Edgemere. There is no proper basis for the application of the "related companies exception" under these circumstances. And, for substantially the same reasons, Lifespace and Edgemere did not share a common interest that could otherwise have changed the analysis (assuming, counterfactually, that the purpose of the disclosure was to facilitate the rendition of legal services by Edgemere's counsel to Lifespace).

[11] Defendants do not concede that the "related companies exception" exists under Texas law.

2. Work-product Protection

Nor may the Lifespace Communications properly be withheld as attorney work-product. Work-product protection "works to protect the mental process of an attorney from inquiry by an opposing party" when documents are prepared in anticipation of litigation. Smith v. Diamond Offshore Drilling, Inc., et al., 168 F.R.D. 582, 583 (S.D. Tex.1996) (citing Hickman v. Taylor, 329 U.S. 495, 67 S.Ct. 385, 91 L.Ed. 451 (1947)); Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(3); In re Kaiser Alum. & Chem. Co., 214 F.3d 586, 593 (5th Cir. 2000), cert. denied 532 U.S. 919, 121 S.Ct. 1354, 149 L.Ed.2d 285 (2001). Work-product protection attaches when a document is created "for use in or in anticipation of litigation." Hodges, Grant & Kaufmann v. U.S. Govt., Dept. of the Treasury, I.R.S., 768 F.2d 719, 721 (5th Cir. 1985).

Work-product protection should be rejected when the proponent of the privilege provides only an affidavit with conclusory statements and insufficient facts to prove the privilege applies. Colardo-Keen v. Rockdale Cnty., Georgia, No. 1:14-CV-489-MHC, 2017 WL 4422349, at *2 (N.D. Ga. May 16, 2017); see also Biegas v. Quickway Carriers, Inc., 573 F.3d 365, 381 (6th Cir. 2009); Hunte v. Schneider Nat'l Carriers, Inc., No. 13-CV-2069-WSD, 2014 WL 3955723, at *4 (N.D. Ga. Aug. 13, 2014) ("The affidavit submitted by Jean Levash does not contain a factual basis for asserting the work-product privilege, and it is facially self-serving to support avoiding the production of required discovery."); Freiermuth v. PPG Indus., Inc., 218 F.R.D. 694, 699 (N.D. Ala. 2003) ("An affidavit containing mere conclusory statements that a document was prepared for the purpose of obtaining legal advice will not suffice in meeting defendant's burden.").

There are at least three reasons why the Lifespace Communications may not be withheld as work product. First, Lifespace is not a party and may not advance work product protection under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(b)(3)(A). Second, the Lifespace Communications have not been shown to have been created for use in litigation, nor is it likely that all were created even in anticipation of litigation. Third, when Lifespace disclosed the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere post-petition, such disclosure was disclosure to an adversary or potential adversary that served to waive the protection.

a. Non-parties cannot rely on Rule 26(b)(3)(A).

Work-product protection is codified at Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26, and by its terms does not extend to non-parties. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(3)(A) ("Ordinarily, a party may not discover documents and tangible things that are prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial by or for another party or its representative (including the other party's attorney, consultant, surety, indemnitor, insurer, or agent)."); see also Wright & Miller, 8 Fed. Prac. & Proc. Civ. § 2028 (3d ed.). Thus, Lifespace cannot claim work-product protection under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26; it must instead show that it warrants protection under the common law precepts announced in Hickman v. Taylor, 329 U.S. 495, 67 S.Ct. 385, 91 L.Ed. 451 (1947) and its progeny. To date, Lifespace has not done so.

b. Absence of a concrete litigation link.

"Only those documents truly created for use in litigation should be shielded, and documents primarily created for some other purpose (business transactions, management direction, record-keeping, archiving) should not be shielded lest more and more crucial evidence is lost to the truth-seeking process." In re Blue Cross Blue Shield Antitrust Litig. (MDL No.: 2406), No. 2:13-CV-20000-RDP, 2015 WL 10891632, at *6 (N.D. Ala. Nov. 4, 2015). Here, Lifespace has not shown and cannot show that the Lifespace Communications were "truly created for use in litigation" such that work-product protection ever attached in the first place. For work-product protection to apply, the emails "must be part of the process of seeking, developing, or conveying legal advice or strategy" or "involve the investigation of [a] claim . . . or the development of legal strategy." In re Lumber Liquidator S Chinese–Manufactured Flooring Products Marketing, No. 1:15-md-02627, 2015 WL 9474286, at *1 (E.D. Va. 2015); Coffey v. Tyler Staffing Servs., Inc., No. 7:19-CV-00015, 2020 WL 1307233, at *3 (W.D. Va. Mar. 19, 2020). Defendants do not know what the Lifespace Communications contain, but Lifespace has not yet shown that the Lifespace Communications involve discussions of legal strategy or they conveyance of legal advice.

Nor, for that matter, has Lifespace yet shown that the Lifespace Communications—or at least all the Lifespace Communications—were created in anticipation of litigation. Indeed, many of the Lifespace Communications pre-date any discussions between Edgemere and Defendants and thus pre-date any reasonable expectation of litigation between Edgemere and Defendants. It is true that they may instead pertain to Edgemere's bankruptcy case, but again many far precede the Petition Date and if it is the case that Edgemere was engaged in concrete pre-bankruptcy planning before any discussions between Edgemere and Defendants occurred, it puts the lie to Plaintiff's allegations that Defendants caused or accelerated Edgemere's bankruptcy.

c. Waiver.

Work-product protection is waived when an attorney (a) voluntarily discloses protected information to the court or does not object when it is offered, or (b) discloses protected information to an adversary or substantially increases the opportunity for an adversary to obtain the information. Shields v. Sturm, Ruger & Co., 864 F.2d 379, 382 (5th Cir. 1989) ("[T]he work-product privilege is waived when the attorney requests the witness to disclose the information or when the attorney discloses the information to the court voluntarily or makes no objection when it is offered."); 34 A.L.R. Fed. 3d Art. 5 (Originally published in 2018) ("Since using the protection to keep documents from one adversary but disclosing the documents to another adversary when it is advantageous does not serve the function for which the protection was established, a disclosure of the work-product to one adversary also operates as a waiver of the protection as to other adversaries."); Ecuadorian Plaintiffs v. Chevron Corp., 619 F.3d 373, 378 (5th Cir. 2010) ("Although work-product immunity is not automatically waived by disclosure of protected material to third parties, disclosure does waive protection if it 'has substantially increased the opportunities for potential adversaries to obtain the information.'").

Here, Lifespace waived the work-product protection by voluntarily disclosing the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere, which was its adversary or potential adversary because Lifespace was a creditor of Edgemere at the time of the disclosure. Creditors are always potential adversaries in a bankruptcy case, and Lifespace was no exception. Under Ecuadorian Plaintiffs, that is all that is required for waiver.

The Lifespace Communications should therefore be produced.

B. The GrayRobinson Communications are not privileged or protected.

The current iteration of Plaintiff and Lifespace's joint privilege log identifies a host of communications with GrayRobinson, each of which is dated in the immediate pre-petition period spanning March to April 2022. GrayRobinson represented Edgemere's Board of Directors.

As explained above, the burden of showing the application of privilege falls on the party advancing the privilege. It does not appear that any of the GrayRobinson Communications was intended to facilitate the provision of professional legal services to the Edgemere Board—GrayRobinson's client. Nor for that matter were they directed to "a lawyer representing another party in a pending action" or such attorney's representative, if for no other reason than because there was no pending action involving GrayRobinson's client, the Edgemere Board, when the GrayRobinson Communications occurred. Tex. R. Evid. 503(b)(1)(C); see also, e.g., In re XL Specialty Ins. Co., 373 S.W.3d 46, 54 (Tex. 2012) ("no matter how common XL's and Cintas's interests might have been, our rule requires that the communication be made to a lawyer or her representative representing another party in a pending action") (emphases in original). For these reasons alone, the GrayRobinson Communications were not privileged and should be produced.[12]

Even if Texas privilege law was not crystal clear on this point—and it is—the interests of the Edgemere Board were separate and distinct from those of Edgemere itself and of Lifespace. Edgemere's counsel did not "advise or counsel the Boards' members in their deliberative process regarding the discharge of their fiduciary duties to the Debtors" and it was that "distinct role" that the Debtors considered warranted the engagement of GrayRobinson as an estate professional.[13] What is more, Edgemere recognized pre-petition that the directors' distinct interests warranted engagement of separate counsel, and so Edgemere engaged GrayRobinson pre-petition to represent the directors and to advance those distinct interests.[14] As Edgemere further explained, GrayRobinson's retention was "especially critical" in Edgemere's bankruptcy case because its engagement included "providing advice and counsel to the Restructuring Committee of [Edgemere], a committee whose purpose is to address matters involving the Debtors restructuring and conflicts, and is comprised only of independent directors who are not otherwise employed by [12] To be clear, the rule mandates a pending action, not an impending one, as explained in footnotes 7 and 8 of XL and their accompanying text, in which the Court distinguished between federal concepts of the common interest exception (extending also to "potential" litigants) and the law in Texas and other states mandating "pending litigation in order for the doctrine to apply." See also, e.g., In re Dalco, 186 S.W.3d 660, 666–76 (Tex. App.—Beaumont 2006, no pet.) (disclosure of "confidential or proprietary information . . . did not occur during any 'pending action' and therefore could not concern 'a matter of common interest therein'").

the Debtors."[15] And, to the extent there might otherwise be any doubt, GrayRobinson's engagement letter specifies that the firm was to serve "as counsel to the Edgemere Board and not to [Edgemere]."[16] And of course, this was wholly appropriate: while there is ample authority that the duties of a director of a wholly-owned subsidiary flow run to the subsidiary and its parent company in the ordinary context, when (as here) the subsidiary becomes insolvent the duties then run also to the subsidiary's creditors.[17]

All the same, the GrayRobinson Communications were not between GrayRobinson and the Edgemere Board. Instead, they were communications with Lifespace's outside counsel, Edgemere's outside counsel, and Edgemere's restructuring consultants. And, of course, they also included individuals who, in addition to serving on the Edgemere Board, also played leadership roles at Lifespace which, at the time, was among Edgemere's largest creditors. No privilege could have attached to the communications in the first place because there was no pending action as required under Texas law. But, even if that was not the rule, no privilege attached here because there were up to three entities (and their counsel) involved in the communications, each with separate and divergent interests in the immediate pre-petition period.

17 See, e.g., In re Central Illinois Energy Cooperative, 561 B.R. 699, 708-09 (Bankr. C.D. Ill. 2016) ("The Court sees no reason why the full panoply of common law duties and rules that apply to for-profit and other nonprofit corporations should not, as a general matter, apply equally to agricultural cooperative associations, including the special circumstances duties that occur upon insolvency" because requiring "officers and directors to consider the impact on creditors of a particular transaction or course of action when the entity is insolvent, is a normative rule tied to their position of authority unrelated to the organizational nature of the entity on whose behalf they act"); In re Lemington Home for Aged, 659 F.3d 282, 290 (3d Cir. 2011) (duties owed by nonprofit directors "are owed not only to the corporation and its shareholders, but also to the creditors of an insolvent entity"); see also, e.g., Nancy A. Peterman & Sherri Morisette, Directors' Duties in the Zone of Insolvency: the Quandry of the Nonprofit Corp., 23-Mar. Am. Bankr. Inst. J. 12, 12 (2004) ("As a result, upon entering the zone of insolvency, a board of directors has a fiduciary duty to consider all constituencies of the nonprofit corporation, including the creditors and the beneficiaries of the charitable mission of the corporation").

Nor does any claim of work-product protection fare any better. As explained above, only a party may assert protection under Rule 26, but (a) neither Lifespace nor the Edgemere Board is a party to this proceeding and (b) Edgemere has not explained and cannot explain why it is entitled to withhold work-product generated by the separate counsel to Edgemere's Board. What is more, as emphasized above, all of these communications were freely available between and among Lifespace and Edgemere in addition to Edgemere's Board, even though Lifespace was a major creditor and future adversary at the time of the GrayRobinson Communications. Thus, under Ecuadorian Plaintiffs any protection was waived because the GrayRobinson Communications were disclosed to "potential adversaries."

IV. CONCLUSION

Neither the Lifespace Communications nor the GrayRobinson Communications are privileged or protected. Same are therefore due to be produced.

Nonparty Lifespace Communities, Inc. ("Lifespace"), by and through its counsel, files this brief in opposition to the Defendants' Motion to Compel Production by Plaintiff and Brief in Support (the "Motion") at Adv. Pro. ECF No. 362[2] filed by Defendants Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. and Kong Capital LLC (collectively, "Defendants") and Defendants' Supplemental Brief Regarding the Lifespace Privilege Waiver and GrayRobinson Communications (the "Brief") at Adv. Pro. ECF No. 434. In support thereof, Lifespace respectfully states the following:

I. INTRODUCTION

Defendants' Brief is the latest in a series of aggressive litigation tactics intended to pressure and harass Lifespace, a nonparty to this Adversary Proceeding. This time, Defendants seek the extraordinary relief of obtaining access to substantially all of Lifespace's privileged communications with counsel. Defendants do not challenge the underlying privilege of any particular document withheld by Lifespace. Instead, Defendants make a sweeping argument that Lifespace's "disclosure" of privileged information to Plaintiff's counsel in coordinating responses to discovery in this Adversary Proceeding somehow constituted a wholesale waiver of Lifespace's privilege and work product protections. Defendants are wrong.

As Defendants concede, Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C) protects privileged communications disclosed to counsel for another party in a pending action to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services concerning a matter of common interest between the parties in that pending action. Here, Lifespace's disclosure of privileged communications to Plaintiff's counsel fits squarely within Rule 503(b)(1)(C) because it was made to facilitate the rendition of legal services in coordinating a response to duplicative discovery requests propounded by [2] All references to "ECF No." refer to the official case docket for these chapter 11 cases; all references to "Adv. Pro. ECF No." refer to the official case docket for this Adversary Proceeding.

Defendants in the Adversary Proceeding in which Plaintiff and Lifespace share a common interest—namely, to hold Defendants accountable for the significant damages they caused the Debtor and its estate. As explained below, Defendants' suggestion that Plaintiff's counsel was somehow prohibited from collaborating with Lifespace's counsel on discovery responses because Plaintiff's counsel could not have jointly represented Lifespace under 11 U.S.C. § 327 is meritless. Likewise, Defendants' argument that Lifespace could not have shared a common interest with Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding because Lifespace was a creditor of Plaintiff in the underlying chapter 11 case—a different legal proceeding—is wrong and should be rejected.

Defendants also fail to demonstrate that Lifespace waived its work product protection. The documents withheld by Lifespace under the work product doctrine fit squarely within the common law work product doctrine first articulated by the United States Supreme Court in its seminal case, Hickman v. Taylor, 329 U.S. 495 (1947), and more recently endorsed by the Fifth Circuit in Adams v. Memorial Hermann, 973 F.3d 343 (5th Cir. 2020), which protects from disclosure, among other things, a lawyer's research, analysis of legal theories, mental impressions, memoranda, communications and notes prepared in anticipation of litigation. Defendants fail to meet their burden to demonstrate that Lifespace somehow waived its work product protection when coordinating with Plaintiff's counsel in response to Defendants' duplicative discovery requests because they cannot show that Plaintiff was an adversary or potential adversary of Lifespace in this Adversary Proceeding.

Finally, the GrayRobinson communications are privileged and protected from disclosure because they fall squarely within the related companies' exception to waiver, which protects privileged communications shared within the corporate organization relating to issues in which the parties share a common interest. Here, Lifespace, Edgemere and Edgemere's board of directors all shared a common interest in pursuing claims against Defendants for their unlawful conduct in breaching the NDA and attempting to destroy the Edgemere community for their own financial gain.

II. BACKGROUND

Prior to its chapter 11 bankruptcy filing, Lifespace was the sole member and exclusive manager of Edgemere, responsible for managing all of Edgemere's operations and maintaining virtually all information relating to Edgemere's finances and operations pursuant to the terms of a Management Services Agreement dated August 15, 2019 between Lifespace and Edgemere (the "MSA"). See Ex. 2, App'x at 9-10. In connection with the management services Lifespace provided to Edgemere under the MSA, Lifespace maintained all information relating to Edgemere's operations and finances, including maintaining the exclusive email and document management and storage system used by Edgemere. Id. at 10. All Edgemere employees utilized a "lifespacecommunities.com" email address with which to conduct business. Id. Those emails, and all other electronic information relating to Edgemere, were stored on cloud-based information technology infrastructure operated by Lifespace (the "Lifespace Server"). Id.

On April 14, 2022 (the "Petition Date"), Edgemere filed its voluntary chapter 11 petition in this Court. See Pet., ECF No. 1. That same day, Edgemere commenced this Adversary Proceeding by a filing a complaint against its landlord, Intercity Investment Properties, Inc., and the landlord's agent, Kong Capital LLC, a private equity firm, asserting claims for breach of its non-disclosure agreement and tortious interference with existing and prospective customer and business relationships, which contributed to Edgemere's financial distress and chapter 11 bankruptcy filing. See Compl., Adv. Pro. ECF No. 1.[3] [3] The initial adversary complaint was recently amended by Plaintiff. See First Amended Compl., Adv. Pro. ECF No. 422.

On June 28, 2022, Defendants propounded document requests on Edgemere in connection with this Adversary Proceeding. Two days later, Defendants served a Rule 45 subpoena (the "Subpoena") on Lifespace, which contained document requests nearly identical to the discovery served on Edgemere. Because of the substantial overlap of Defendants' duplicative discovery requests, the fact that all of the information responsive to these requests were likely to reside on the Lifespace Server and the common legal interest shared by Lifespace and Edgemere in the Adversary Proceeding, Lifespace coordinated its response to the Subpoena with Edgemere. Ex. 1, App'x. at 3, 4. Specifically, Lifespace coordinated with Edgemere's counsel to identify and collect potentially responsive information from the Lifespace Server, review that information for responsiveness and privilege, make a production of responsive, non-privileged information to Defendants and prepare a detailed privilege and redaction log for information withheld from production on the basis of privilege and/or work product. Id.

On August 1, 2022, Lifespace served its responses and objections to the Subpoena, and between August 4, 2022 and October 26, 2022, Edgemere produced responsive, non-privileged information to Defendants on behalf of both Edgemere and Lifespace (the "Joint Production") together with a comprehensive joint privilege log (as amended, the "Privilege Log") identifying various communications and other information withheld on the basis of attorney-client privilege, work product protection or other privileges and protections.

Over the past 16 months, Defendants have asserted no less than five challenges regarding the propriety of the Joint Production and Privilege Log. Defendants' latest gambit is their boldest yet—an attempt to deprive Lifespace of any of the bedrock legal protections provided by the attorney-client privilege or work product doctrine to create an unfair litigation advantage. As explained below, their misguided attempt must fail.

III. ARGUMENT

A. Lifespace's Privileged Communications Are Protected From Disclosure By Texas Rule Of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C).

It is axiomatic that the "attorney-client privilege is the oldest of the privileges for confidential communications known to the common law. Its purpose is to encourage full and frank communications between attorneys and their clients, and thereby promote broader public interests in the observance of law and administration of justice." Upjohn Co. v. United States, 449 U.S. 383, 389 (1981) (internal citation removed). As the Texas Supreme Court has recognized, "[t]he attorney-client privilege exists—and has been a cornerstone of our legal system for nearly 500 years—because the interests protected and secured by the promise of confidentiality are not merely significant; they are quintessentially imperative." Paxton v. City of Dall., 509 S.W.3d 247, 259-60 (Tex. 2017).

Here, Lifespace appropriately asserted its attorney-client privilege by withholding from production certain communications listed on the Privilege Log (the "Lifespace Privileged Communications"). See Ex. 1, App'x at 4-5. The Lifespace Privileged Communications are privileged under Texas law because they consist of confidential communications made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of legal professional legal services made between and among Lifespace, its counsel and its representatives. See Tex. R. Evid. 511(a)(1). In their Brief, Defendants do not challenge the underlying privilege of any of the Lifespace Privileged Communications.[4] Instead, Defendants argue that Lifespace triggered a wholesale waiver of the privilege for all of the Lifespace Privileged Communications when they were disclosed to Plaintiff's counsel for the purpose of coordinating a response to the Subpoena.

[4] Defendants previously challenged Plaintiff's assertion of the attorney-client privilege for communications between Lifespace and Edgemere. The Court rejected that challenge, holding that the related companies' exception to waiver applied to communications between Lifespace and Edgemere and ordered an in camera review of a subset of Lifespace and Edgemere communications to determine whether those communications were made for a legal purpose or commercial purpose. See Order at 9-10, Adv. Proc. ECF No. 314 (the "June 23 Order"). Upon completing that review, the Court concluded that the vast majority of those communication were privileged and therefore protected from disclosure by the related companies' exception to waiver of privilege. See Nov. 7, 2023 Hr'g Tr. at 86:14-17.

However, as Defendants concede in their Brief (at 5), Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C) protects "confidential communications made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to the client . . . by the client, the client's representative, the client's lawyer, or the lawyer's representative to a lawyer representing another party in a pending action . . . if the communications concern a matter of common interest in the pending action." Tex. R. Evid. 503(b)(1)(C). Defendants contend that Lifespace should not get the benefit of this statutory protection because (1) the disclosure to Plaintiff for purposes of responding to the Subpoena was somehow not "made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services," and (2) Lifespace did not share a common interest in the pending Adversary Proceeding because Lifespace was a creditor in the underlying chapter 11 proceeding. Br. at 6-9. Defendants are wrong on both points.

1. Lifespace's disclosure of the Lifespace Privileged Communications was made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services.

The disclosure of the Lifespace Privileged Communications was not done "simply as a matter of convenience," as Defendants repeatedly contend. See Br. at 6-7. Rather, the disclosure was made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services—i.e., to coordinate Lifespace's response to the Subpoena, which included Plaintiff's counsel assisting Lifespace and its counsel in identifying information on the Lifespace Server that could be potentially responsive to the Subpoena, evaluating that information for responsiveness and privilege, producing responsive, non-privileged information in response to the Subpoena, and preparing a comprehensive privilege and redaction log. It is difficult to understand Defendants' position that these activities are somehow not professional legal services protected under Rule 503(b)(1)(C).

Defendants' argument that Plaintiff's counsel could not possibly have assisted Lifespace in performing these professional legal services because of the disinterestedness requirement under 11 U.S.C. § 327(a) is similarly unavailing. As an initial matter, Defendants do not explain how the disinterestedness requirement for representing a debtor under section 327(a) prohibits Plaintiff's counsel from either having a common interest with Lifespace or coordinating with Lifespace and its counsel in responding to Defendants' duplicative discovery requests. Indeed, coordination among debtors and creditors is commonplace in chapter 11 cases, and communications among debtors and creditors on issues in which they have a common interest are routinely protected as privileged. See e.g. In re Cherokee Simeon Venture I, LLC, 2012 WL 12940975, at *3 (Bankr. D. Del. May 31, 2012); In re Tribune Co., 2011 WL 386827, at *6 (Bankr. D. Del. Feb. 3, 2011); In re Leslie Controls, Inc., 437 B.R. 493, 502 (Bankr. D. Del. 2010); In re Quigley Co., Inc., 2009 WL 9034027, at *4 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. Apr. 24, 2009).

Furthermore, Rule 503(b)(1)(C) does not require the party to which the privileged communications were disclosed to provide legal services to the disclosing party. Rather, it only requires that the disclosure be made "to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to the client," even where the services are provided by the client's own counsel. Here, it is sufficient that the Lifespace Privileged Communications were disclosed to Plaintiff's counsel to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to Lifespace by its own counsel in responding to the Subpoena.

2. Lifespace shared a common interest with Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding.

Defendants are wrong to suggest that Lifespace's role as a creditor in the underlying chapter 11 case precludes it from sharing a common legal interest with Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding. Rule 503(b)(1)(C) only requires that Lifespace and Plaintiff share a common interest "in the pending action," and not for all purposes in all other proceedings. See, e.g., Schmidt v. Rodriguez (In re Rodriguez), 2012 WL 3257889, at *6 (Bankr. S.D. Tex. Aug. 7, 2012) ("the fact that the Trustee and the Petitioning Creditors are on opposite sides of the adversary proceeding does not prevent the Trustee from invoking the privilege where the two sides share a common interest."). Here, Lifespace and Plaintiff shared, and continue to share, a common interest in the Adversary Proceeding—namely, to hold Defendants' accountable for their unlawful actions in breaching the NDA and attempting to destroy the Edgemere community for their own financial gain. See Ex. 1, App'x. at 3. Indeed, Lifespace is the largest beneficiary of the post-confirmation trust for which the Plaintiff serves as the trustee. See id. The fact that Lifespace may have engaged in arm's length negotiations with Plaintiff or was a creditor in a different proceeding does not undermine the common interest it shares with Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding.

B. Lifespace's Work Product Is Protected From Disclosure.

In addition to the Lifespace Privileged Communications, Lifespace also withheld from production certain documents reflecting its counsel's research, analysis of legal theories, mental impressions and notes prepared in anticipation of litigation (the "Lifespace Work Product").[5] See Ex. 1, App'x at 4. As with the attorney-client privilege, the United States Supreme Court long ago emphasized the importance of protecting an attorney's work product from disclosure in litigation:

> Were such materials open to opposing counsel on mere demand, much of what is now put down in writing would remain unwritten. An attorney's thoughts, heretofore inviolate, would not be his own. Inefficiency, unfairness and sharp practices would inevitably develop in the giving of legal advice and in the preparation of cases for trial. The effect on the legal impression would be demoralizing. And the interests of the clients and the cause of justice would be poorly served.

Hickman v. Taylor, 329 U.S. 495, 510 (1947).

[5] All of the Lifespace Work Product is also protected from disclosure by the attorney-client privilege. Accordingly, Defendants would have to defeat both Lifespace's privileges to compel disclosure of the Lifespace Work Product.

Here, Defendants are attempting to deprive Lifespace of its work product protection and force a blanket disclosure of all Lifespace Work Product to obtain an unfair advantage in this Adversary Proceeding. Defendants' advance three arguments in support of their aim: (1) Lifespace cannot obtain the benefits of the work product protection under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(b)(3)(A) because it is not a party to the Adversary Proceeding; (2) Lifespace has not shown that the Lifespace Work Product was prepared in anticipation of litigation; and (3) Lifespace waived its work product protection by disclosing the Lifespace Work Product to Plaintiff, which is or could become an adversary by virtue of the fact Lifespace was a creditor in Plaintiff's underlying chapter 11 case. All three arguments fail.

1. The Lifespace Work Product is protected from disclosure under Hickman and its progeny.

Defendants first contend that Lifespace cannot get the benefit of the work product protection under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(b)(3)(A) because it is not a party to this Adversary Proceeding. But that is an overly narrow reading of the work product protection. Indeed, Defendants reluctantly concede, as they must, that the work product doctrine can apply to Lifespace as a nonparty under Hickman and its progeny. See Br. at 10.

In Hickman, the United States Supreme Court held that the "[w]ork product of the lawyer" reflected in "interviews, statements, memoranda, correspondence, briefs, mental impressions, personal beliefs, and countless other tangible and intangible ways" must be protected from disclosure. 329 U.S. at 510-11 ("it is essential that a lawyer work with a certain degree of privacy, free from unnecessary intrusion by opposing parties and their counsel."). In Adams v. Mem. Hermann, the Fifth Circuit recognized that the work product doctrine first articulated in Hickman was only "partially codified as Rule 26(b)(3) in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure." 973 F.3d 343, 349 (5th Cir. 2020). Indeed, despite the text of Rule 26(b)(3), several courts have recognized that a nonparty is entitled to withhold work product in responding to a subpoena. See, e.g., Carnes v. Crete Carrier Corp., 244 F.R.D. 694, 699 (N.D. Ga. 2007) ("Although the text of Rule 26(b)(3) appears to limit work product to parties, Rule 26(c), Rule 45, and Hickman suggest that the scope of protection should extend to a non-party"); Stanziale v. Career Path Training Corp. (In re Student Finance Corp.), 2006 WL 3484387 (E.D. Pa. Nov. 29, 2006) (same).

To withhold documents from disclosure under the work product doctrine in the Fifth Circuit, "a party must show that 'the primary motivating purpose behind the creation of the document was to aid in possible future litigation." United States v. Nelson, 732 F.3d 504, 518 (5th Cir. 2013). Here, the Lifespace Work Product was appropriately withheld from production because it includes documents that reflect the mental impressions, notes, legal research and legal analysis of Lifespace's counsel that were prepared in anticipation of, and to aid in, possible future litigation.[6] Ex. 1, App'x. at 4. Accordingly, these fall squarely within the work product doctrine as articulated by the Fifth Circuit.

2. The Lifespace Work Product was prepared in anticipation of litigation.

Next, Defendants emphasize that only documents created in anticipation of litigation may be protected from disclosure under the work product doctrine and that Lifespace has not yet shown that all the Lifespace Work Product was prepared in anticipation of litigation. See Br. at 11. But as set forth above, and in the Declaration of Nick Harshfield appended hereto as Exhibit 1, the Lifespace Work Product was prepared in anticipation of, and to aid in, possible future litigation with Defendants. See Ex. 1, App'x. at 4.

[6] Additionally, all of the Lifespace Work Product are also protected from disclosure by the attorney-client privilege. Accordingly, even if the Court were to find that the work product doctrine does not apply to any of the Lifespace Work Product, they are nonetheless still protected from disclosure by the attorney-client privilege.

Defendants insinuate, without any explanation or evidentiary support, that some the Lifespace Work Product could not have been prepared in anticipation of litigation because "many of the Lifespace Communications pre-date any discussions between Edgemere and Defendants." Br. at 11. But Defendants fail to explain why Plaintiff or Lifespace could only have anticipated possible litigation with Defendants after certain, unspecified discussions between Edgemere and Defendants. In any event, the Fifth Circuit has rejected Defendants' suggestion that litigation must be imminent for documents to be entitled to the protection of the work product doctrine. See, United States v. Davis, 636 F.2d 1028, 1040 (5th Cir. 1981) ("It is admittedly difficult to reduce to a neat general formula the relationship between preparation of a document and possible litigation necessary to trigger the protection of the work product doctrine. We conclude that litigation need not necessarily be imminent as some courts have suggested as long as the primary motivating purpose behind the creation of the document was to aid in possible future litigation.") (internal citations omitted).[7] The evidence demonstrates that the Lifespace Work Product was prepared in anticipation of, or to aid in, litigation and thus is entitled to protection under the work product doctrine.

3. Lifespace did not waive its work product protections by disclosing the Lifespace Work Product to Plaintiff's counsel.

Unlike waiver of the attorney-client privilege, where disclosure to any third party can result in a waiver of the privilege, work product protection is only waived when there is a disclosure to an adversary or potential adversary. As the party asserting the waiver, Defendants have the burden of proving the Lifespace Work Product was waived. See, e.g., Davidson v. Alltrade Tools, LLC, 2019 WL 13194143, at *2 (N.D. Tex. May 10, 2019) ("Importantly, the burden of proving waiver of work-product protection falls on the party asserting waiver."). Defendants fail to meet that burden here.

[7] Defendants also ignore that work product prepared in anticipation of other possible litigation may still be protected from disclosure. See, e.g., United States v. Leggett & Platt, Inc., 542 F.2d 655, 660 (6th Cir. 1976) ("The work-product doctrine protects material produced in anticipation of other litigation.").

Defendants only argument is that Lifespace was a creditor of Plaintiff in the underlying chapter 11 case and therefore an adversary or potential adversary of Plaintiff. See Br. at 12 ("Creditors are always potential adversaries in a bankruptcy case, and Lifespace was no exception."). That argument misses the mark again because it incorrectly conflates the underlying chapter 11 case with the separate Adversary Proceeding against Defendants. Just because Lifespace may have been a creditor of Plaintiff in the underlying chapter 11 case does not make it an adversary or potential adversary of Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding. Indeed, as explained above and in the Harshfield Declaration, Lifespace and Plaintiff are completely aligned in this Adversary Proceeding and have a shared interest in holding Defendants accountable for their unlawful conduct. See Ex. 1, App'x at 3. Defendants have offered no evidence that Lifespace is an adversary or potential adversary of Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding. Consequently, Defendants fail to meet their burden of proving a waiver of the protections of the work product doctrine.

C. The GrayRobinson Communications Are Privileged

Defendants also seek the wholesale disclosure of all communications with GrayRobinson (the "GrayRobinson Communications"), outside counsel to Edgemere's board of directors (the "Edgemere Board"). In support of that extraordinary relief, Defendants allege simply that "[i]t does not appear that any of the GrayRobinson Communications was intended to facilitate the provision of professional legal services to the Edgemere Board—GrayRobinson's client." Br. at 12. That is not correct. The GrayRobinson communications were made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services from GrayRobinson to its client, the Edgemere Board, concerning a matter of common interest in this Adversary Proceeding. Ex. 1, App'x. at 3-4. These communications are protected from disclosure by both the related companies' exception to waiver and Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C).

First, this Court has previously ruled that the related companies' exception to waiver applies to Lifespace and Plaintiff. See June 23 Order at 6-7. That exception includes the Edgemere Board because, like parent and subsidiary, which "are considered the same person for purposes of the privilege,"[8] the board of directors is also considered part of the corporate family for purposes of the privilege. See, e.g., In re Grand Jury 90-1, 758 F. Supp. 1411, 1413 (D. Colo. 1991) (holding that the attorney-client privilege of a company extends to the board of directors, finding that "relaying this information to the Board was merely making advice available to another part of this inanimate entity."). This conclusion is consistent with the Northern District of Texas's interpretation of the United States Supreme Court's seminal case concerning the application of the attorney-client privilege in the corporate setting, Upjohn Co. v. United States, 449 U.S. 383 (1981), which rejected a mechanistic approach to the application of the attorney-client privilege in the corporate setting in favor of a case-by-case evaluation to determine whether application of the privilege would further the underlying purpose of the privilege. See American Airlines, 2012 WL 12884822, at *5. In American Airlines, the Court agreed that the related companies' exception applied to a protect disclosure of privileged information shared between a parent and its majority-owned subsidiaries and rejected a claim of waiver for communications "shared with Blackstone employees, directors, in-house counsel, and/or outside counsel." Id. at *5 (emphasis added). Similarly, this Court has held that the related companies' exception to waiver applies to Lifespace and its wholly owned affiliate, Edgemere. See June 23 Order at 6-7 ("The Court finds that the 'related companies exception' would apply to communications between Lifespace, the Plaintiff and counsel to the extent the underlying communications were made in furtherance of legal services or are covered by some other applicable privilege."). As in American Airlines, that exception covers the directors of the Edgemere Board, who are ultimately responsible for making decisions for the Edgemere.

[8] June 23 Order at 7 (quoting Am. Airlines, Inc. v. Travelport Ltd., 2012 WL 12884822, at *5 (N.D. Tex. Jul. 16, 2012)).

Defendants nevertheless attempt to separate the Edgemere Board from Edgemere and Lifespace, contending that "the interests of the Edgemere Board were separate and distinct from those of Edgemere itself and of Lifespace" and point to the GrayRobinson retention application filed in the underlying chapter 11 proceeding. Br. at 13 (citing to the purpose of GrayRobinson's retention in the chapter 11 proceeding to provide advice and counsel to the restructuring committee of the Edgemere Board to address matters involving the Debtor's restructuring and potential conflicts in the chapter 11 proceeding). Again, Defendants incorrectly conflate the underlying chapter 11 case from this Adversary Proceeding. Defendants have not offered any evidence that the Edgemere Board's interests conflicted with or diverged from the interests of Plaintiff and Lifespace in this Adversary Proceeding. Indeed, none exists. The Edgemere Board shared a common interest with the Plaintiff and Lifespace in pursuing claims against Defendants in this Adversary Proceeding. See Ex. 1, App'x. at 3.

Second, the GrayRobinson communications are also protected from disclosure under Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C) because they were made to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services from GrayRobinson to its client, the Edgemere Board, concerning a matter of common interest in this Adversary Proceeding. Defendants argue that these communications are not protected because there is no pending action "involving GrayRobinson's client, the Edgemere Board, when the GrayRobinson Communications occurred." Br. at 12-13. But Rule 503(b)(1)(C) does not require a pending action "involving" the client, it only requires a pending action. Here, the pending action is the Adversary Proceeding by Plaintiff against Defendants.

Finally, Defendants argue that the GrayRobinson Communications categorically are not protected by the work product doctrine. See Br. at 15. In support of that argument, Defendants simply reiterate their previous arguments with respect to work product: (a) neither Lifespace nor the Edgemere Board is a party to this Adversary Proceeding, and (b) the Edgemere Board waived its work product protections by sharing disclosing the work product to Plaintiff and Lifespace. See Br. at 15. Those arguments fail for the same reasons discussed above: (a) under Hickman and its progeny, the work product protection extends beyond just parties and includes the mental impressions, memoranda and correspondence of counsel for the Edgemere Board made in anticipation of possible litigation, and (b) Defendants have failed to meet their burden that the work product protection was waived by the Edgemere Board.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Court should deny all remaining aspects of the Motion that relate to the Lifespace Privileged Communications, Lifespace Work Product and GrayRobinson Communications, and order such further and other relief as is just and appropriate.

DECLARATION OF NICK HARSHFIELD

I, Nick Harshfield, declare under penalty of perjury pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746:

1. My name is Nick Harshfield. I am over the age of 21 years and am competent in all respects to make this declaration. Except as otherwise indicated, all statements set forth in this Declaration are based upon my personal knowledge

2. I make this Declaration on behalf of Lifespace Communities, Inc. ("Lifespace") in opposition to: (a) Defendants' Motion to Compel Production by Plaintiff and Brief in Support at Adv. Pro. ECF No. 362; and (b) Defendants' Supplemental Brief Regarding the Lifespace Privilege Waiver and GrayRobinson Communications at Adv. Pro. ECF No. 434 filed in the above-

[1] The Debtors in these chapter 11 cases, along with the last four digits of each Debtor's federal tax identification number, are Northwest Senior Housing Corporation d/b/a Edgemere ("Edgemere") (1278) and Senior Quality Lifestyles Corporation (2669). referenced adversary proceeding (this "Adversary Proceeding") by Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. and Kong Capital, LLC (collectively, "Defendants").

3. I am the Chief Financial Officer of Lifespace. I also served as Director, Vice Chair, Treasurer of Northwest Senior Housing Corporation, the predecessor-in-interest to the plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding. In my capacity in those roles, I have personal knowledge of, and am familiar with the circumstances and events leading to and occurring during this Adversary Proceeding. I am authorized to submit this Declaration, which is intended to supplement my previous declaration filed in this Adversary Proceeding on January 20, 2023, at Adv. Pro. ECF No. 275.

4. The current Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding is the Leif M. Clark, Trustee of the Edgemere Litigation Trust formed on the effective date of the chapter 11 plan confirmed in Edgemere's chapter 11 bankruptcy proceeding pending in this Court (Case No. 22-30659). Lifespace is the largest beneficiary of the Edgemere Litigation Trust on account of Lifespace's voluntary contribution of over $150 million in connection with the Edgemere chapter 11 plan to ensure that current and former residents were paid their entrance fee refunds in full.

5. Lifespace's interests have been consistently aligned with the interests of Edgemere and the Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding to hold Defendants accountable for their unlawful actions in breaching the NDA and attempting to destroy the Edgemere community for their own financial gain.

6. Likewise, the interests of the board of directors of Edgemere have been consistently aligned with the interests of Lifespace, Edgemere and the Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding.

7. On June 28, 2022, Defendants propounded document requests on Edgemere in connection with this Adversary Proceeding. Two days later, Defendants served a Rule 45 subpoena on Lifespace ("Subpoena"). The documents requests propounded by Defendants on Edgemere and Lifespace were substantially similar.

8. Because of the similarities in the overlapping document requests propounded by Defendants on Lifespace and Edgemere and the fact that all of the information responsive to these requests were likely to reside on the cloud-based information technology infrastructure operated by Lifespace, I understand that Lifespace coordinated its response to the Subpoena with Edgemere's counsel. Specifically, Lifespace and its counsel coordinated with Edgemere's counsel to identify and collect potentially responsive information from the Lifespace Server, review that information for responsiveness and privilege, make a production of responsive, non-privileged information to Defendants and prepare a detailed privilege and redaction log for information withheld from production on the basis of privilege and/or work product.

9. I understand that Lifespace's counsel, in coordination with Edgemere's counsel, identified and withheld from the production to Defendants documents that consisted of (a) confidential communications made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of legal professional legal services to Lifespace (the "Lifespace Privileged Communications"); (b) documents reflecting the legal research, analysis, mental impressions, memoranda, correspondence and/or notes of Lifespace's counsel that were prepared in anticipation of, or to aid in, possible future litigation (the "Lifespace Work Product"); (c) confidential communications made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of legal professional legal services to the Edgemere Board (the "Edgemere Board Privileged Communications"); and (d) documents reflecting the legal research, analysis, mental impressions, memoranda, correspondence and/or notes of counsel to the Edgemere Board that were prepared in anticipation of, or to aid in, possible future litigation (the "Edgemere Board Work Product" and together with the Lifespace Privileged Communications, the Lifespace Work Product and the Edgemere Board Privileged Communications, the "Privileged Information").

10. To my knowledge, none of the Privileged Information has been disclosed to a third party with interests adverse to Lifespace in the Adversary Proceeding.

11. Except as otherwise indicated, all facts set forth in this Declaration are based upon my personal knowledge, my opinion based upon my experience and knowledge of this Adversary Proceeding, and information provided to me by counsel. If called as a witness, I would testify consistently with the facts set forth in this Declaration.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

COUNSEL TO THE DEBTORS AND DEBTORS IN POSSESSION

FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS
DALLAS DIVISION

In re: Northwest Senior Housing Corporation, et al.,[1] Debtors.	Chapter 11 Case No. 22-30659 (MVL)
Northwest Senior Housing Corporation, Plaintiff, v. Intercity Investment Properties, Inc., and Kong Capital, LLC, Defendants.	Adv. No. 22-03040 (MVL)
Intercity Investment Properties, Inc., Counter-Plaintiff, v. Northwest Senior Housing Corporation, Counter-Defendant.

[1] The Debtors in these chapter 11 cases, along with the last four digits of each Debtor's federal tax identification number, are Northwest Senior Housing Corporation (1278) and Senior Quality Lifestyles Corporation (2669). The Debtors' mailing address is 8523 Thackery Street, Dallas, Texas 75225.

DECLARATION OF NICK HARSHFIELD

I, Nick Harshfield, declare under penalty of perjury pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746:

1. My name is Nick Harshfield. I am over the age of 21 years, of sound mind, and competent to testify. I swear that all the matters contained herein are true and correct and are based upon my personal knowledge.

2. I make this Declaration on behalf of Debtor Northwest Senior Housing Corporation ("Edgemere") and Lifespace Communities, Inc. ("Lifespace") relating to the following motions filed in this adversary proceeding (this "Adversary Proceeding") by Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. and Kong Capital, LLC (collectively, "Defendants"): (a) Motion to Compel Plaintiff's Production of Documents [Dkt. No. 226] (the "Edgemere Motion"); and (b) Motion to Compel Lifespace Communities, Inc.'s Production of Documents [Dkt. No. 238] (the "Lifespace Motion" and, together with the Edgemere Motion, the "Motions"). The Motions are set for hearing on January 25, 2023.

3. I obtained my B.S.B.A from the University of Louisville in 1993.

4. I am currently a Director, Vice Chair and Treasurer of Edgemere, the Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding. I am also Chief Financial Officer of Lifespace. I have over fifteen years of experience in elder healthcare, including with continuing care retirement communities ("CCRCs"). I have served as a Vice President, Chief Financial Officer, and Chief Compliance Officer for multiple CCRCs for over a decade. I have experience serving as an officer of non-profit multistate healthcare service providers that cater to senior adults. The organizations I have worked with have included CCRCs, and have offered skilled nursing, assisted living, adult day centers, home health, and multi-level retirement to seniors. I also have experience in developing strategic growth and capital plans for CCRCs.

5. In my capacity as Director, Vice Chair and Treasurer of Edgemere and as Chief Financial Officer of Lifespace, I have personal knowledge of, and am familiar with, the business affairs, day-to-day operations, books and records and organizational structure of both Lifespace and Edgemere, and I am authorized to submit this Declaration.

6. Edgemere is a Texas nonprofit corporation and is exempt from federal income taxation as a charitable organization described under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended. Edgemere owns and operates a best-in-class senior living community known as Edgemere located in Dallas, Texas (the "Community").

7. Lifespace is Edgemere's sole member. Lifespace is an Iowa not-for-profit corporation exempt from Federal income taxes under IRC Section 501(c)(3). Lifespace is authorized to do business in Texas and other states. Lifespace, directly or through affiliates, owns and operates 17 other senior living communities in seven states. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a chart reflecting the corporate structure of Edgemere and its affiliates.

8. In June 2019, Lifespace affiliated with and became the sole member of Debtors Edgemere and Senior Quality Lifestyles Corporation ("SQLC"), among other entities, pursuant to an affiliation agreement, dated as of May 10, 2019, by and between Lifespace and SQLC (the "Affiliation Agreement"). SQLC was formerly the sole owner of Seniority Inc. ("Seniority"), a California corporation that specialized in developing, operating, and managing CCRCs. Previously, Seniority managed the day-to-day operations of Edgemere and other CCRCs affiliated with SQLC. Under the Affiliation Agreement, Lifespace took over the management of Edgemere.

9. Pursuant to a Management Services Agreement, dated as of August 15, 2019 (the "MSA"), Lifespace serves as the exclusive manager of Edgemere's day-to-day operations. The services provided by Lifespace include: (a) determining operating policies, procedures, and standards; (b) developing and executing a sales plan; (c) establishing food and beverage policies; (d) establishing all employment policies, including wage and salary terms, benefits, retirement plans, and bonuses; (e) hiring, promoting, supervising, directing, training, transferring, and discharging all of Edgemere's employees; (f) negotiating and consummating such agreements as Lifespace deems necessary or advisable for furnishing all utilities, services, supplies, food, beverages, equipment, and other materials and supplies for the maintenance and operation of the Community; (g) establishing bank accounts as needed for the operation and maintenance of the Community; (h) developing annual business plans and budgets; (i) managing and overseeing the Community's investment portfolio; (j) providing cash management, accounting, bookkeeping, and record keeping software and services for the Community; (k) risk management and compliance services; and (l) any other services as may be required by the Community and mutually agreed by Edgemere and Lifespace from time to time in connection with the development and operations of the Community's business. A copy of the MSA is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

10. In connection with the management services Lifespace provides to Edgemere under the MSA, Lifespace maintains all information relating to Edgemere's operations and finances. For example, Lifespace provides and maintains the exclusive email and document management and storage system used by Edgemere. All Edgemere employees are provided with a "lifespacecommunities.com" email address with which to conduct business. Those emails, and all other electronic information relating to Edgemere, are stored on cloud-based information technology infrastructure operated by Lifespace. In my experience, it is typical and customary in the senior living industry for a management company to provide and maintain all information relating to the operations and finances of the senior living community that it manages.

11. In connection with this Adversary Proceeding, I understand that both Edgemere (a party to this litigation) and Lifespace (a non-party) were each served with similar written discovery requests seeking the production of documents relevant to the issues in this Adversary Proceeding (i.e., information relating to the historical operations and financials of Edgemere). Because Lifespace maintains all of the information that would potentially be responsive to both of these overlapping discovery requests for Edgemere under the MSA, Edgemere coordinated with Lifespace to conduct a reasonable search for potentially responsive documents and timely made a production of responsive, non-privileged documents to Defendants in response to the overlapping discovery requests. All of the documents produced to Defendants were in the possession, custody and control of Lifespace and Edgemere, pursuant to the terms of the MSA. As a result of the fact that Lifespace maintains all of the electronic records for Edgemere, all of the documents responsive to Defendants' discovery requests made to Lifespace were produced by Edgemere. I understand that no responsive documents collected in response to these discovery requests were withheld on the basis that they belonged to Lifespace rather than Edgemere.

12. Both Edgemere and Lifespace have retained a number of outside law firms to provide legal advice and counsel at different times for different issues:

- Polsinelli PC was retained by Edgemere to provide counsel regarding the potential restructuring, the Chapter 11 cases, and this Adversary Proceeding.

- Before Polsinelli PC was engaged, Edgemere was represented by DLA Piper and Sidley Austin LLP regarding the potential restructuring, including the potential Chapter 11 filings.
- Perkins Coie LLP and Cooley LLP represent Lifespace in connection with the Chapter 11 cases and this Adversary Proceeding.
- Dorsey & Whitney previously represented Lifespace with respect to general legal advice and counseling, including outside general counsel services, and currently represents Lifespace in various financing and acquisition matters.
- Norton Rose Fulbright previously represented SQLC and Edgemere in connection with the Affiliation Agreement with Lifespace.
- Locke Lord LLP was retained by both Lifespace and Edgemere to provide joint counsel regarding issues involving Texas Department of Insurance arising from Lifespace's affiliation with Edgemere and other SQLC communities.
- Thompson Knight (n/k/a as Holland & Knight LLP) was retained by Edgemere in connection with its development through the time of Lifespace's affiliation with Edgemere. Thompson & Knight provided general legal advice and counsel to Edgemere regarding its operations, and provided legal advice and counsel to SQLC and Edgemere with respect to Lifespace's affiliation with Edgemere.
- Ropes & Gray LLP was retained by Lifespace in connection with its affiliation with Edgemere. In connection therewith, Ropes & Gray retained Houlihan Lokey to provide advice in connection with Lifespace's affiliation with Edgemere.
- Stewart Wiegland & Owens PC was retained by both Lifespace and Edgemere at various points to represent those entities in litigation.

13. Sandra Parker and Abdul Shakoor were in-house counsel to Lifespace during certain periods of time relevant to this Adversary Proceeding, bondholder and lease restructuring negotiations, pre-filing disputes with Defendants, and general restructuring.

14. The above-mentioned firms and attorneys communicated with representatives of Lifespace and/or Edgemere to provide legal advice and counsel to Edgemere concerning matters relevant to the present litigation, bondholder and lease restructuring negotiations, pre-filing disputes with Defendants, and general restructuring. After Lifespace's affiliation with Edgemere, Lifespace and Edgemere have shared common legal, financial and other interests with respect to the matters discussed between them and their respective counsel.

15. A chart containing the names of titles of the representatives that communicated with in-house and outside counsel regarding matters relevant to the present litigation, bondholder and lease restructuring negotiations, pre-filing disputes with Defendants, and general restructuring is attached hereto as Exhibit C.

16. Based on my experience and familiarity with Lifespace's and Edgemere's respective operations, the individuals and roles identified on Edgemere's privilege and redaction logs primarily include senior executives, finance management and personnel, and other similar personnel that would be expected to be involved in attorney-client communications.

17. As Edgemere's sole member, Lifespace employs numerous people that serve in dual roles for both Edgemere and Lifespace. Although Defendants have not identified any specific communications they are challenging on Edgemere's privilege or redaction logs, I personally reviewed many of the communications between representatives of Lifespace and/or Edgemere and their respective counsel. Based on my experience with the operations of both Lifespace and Edgemere, it is my understanding and belief that these conversations were consistent with typical communications soliciting and obtaining legal advice and attorney work product.

18. Except as otherwise indicated, all facts set forth in this Declaration are based upon my personal knowledge, my review of relevant documents, my opinion based upon my experience and knowledge of the Edgemere's and Lifespace's respective operations and financial condition, and information provided to me by advisors or other representatives of Edgemere and/or Lifespace. If called as a witness, I would testify consistently with the facts set forth in this Declaration.

Pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1746, I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

DEFENDANTS' REPLY TO THE RESPONSE OF LIFESPACE COMMUNITIES, INC.'S TO DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO COMPEL PRODUCTION OF THE LIFESPACE COMMUNICATIONS AND GRAYROBINSON COMMUNICATIONS

[1] The Debtors in these chapter 11 cases, along with the last four digits of each Debtor's federal tax identification number, are Northwest Senior Housing Corporation (1278) and Senior Quality Lifestyles Corporation (2669). Defendants moved for, among other things, production of the Lifespace Communications and the GrayRobinson Communications.[1] The Lifespace Communications and GrayRobinson Communications were withheld first by Edgemere and now by Plaintiff based on misguided assertions of attorney-client privilege and work product protection. Lifespace alone responded, and its response shows that the documents were, and are, improperly withheld.

I. Disclosure of the Lifespace Communications waived the attorney-client privilege.

Lifespace does not dispute that it furnished all the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere's counsel post-petition. Lifespace's chief argument is that Tex. R. Evid. 503(b)(1)(C) excepts the disclosure from the general privilege waiver rule because Lifespace and Edgemere were aligned in this adversary proceeding. More particularly, Lifespace advances that "the underlying chapter 11 case" was "a different legal proceeding" from this adversary proceeding and that the "fact Lifespace may have engaged in arms' length negotiations with Plaintiff or was a creditor in a different proceeding does not undermine the common interest it shares with Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding." (Emphasis in original).

Lifespace's argument is self-defeating—it confirms that the disclosure waived privilege because the waiver exception embodied in Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C) applies only if the disclosing party and the receiving party[2] each are parties to the same "pending action." Lifespace insists that its disclosure was made as part of this adversary proceeding, that this adversary proceeding is distinct from the bankruptcy case, and that Lifespace is not (and never has been) a party to this adversary proceeding. Consequently, the disclosure was not made "to a lawyer representing another party in a pending action or that lawyer's representative," such that Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C) could apply.

[1] Capitalized terms not defined herein have the definitions ascribed to them in Defendants' Supplemental Brief Regarding the Lifespace Privilege Waiver and GrayRobinson Communications, ECF 434. The term Lifespace Communications means those communications between Lifespace and its outside counsel; the term "GrayRobinson Communications" means those communications between GrayRobinson and Edgemere, Lifespace, and/or Edgemere or Lifespace's respective professionals.

[2] More particularly, the Rule requires that disclosure be made to the lawyer for another party in a pending action or that lawyer's representative—not to the party itself.

Case authorities support this plain language interpretation of Rule 503(b)(1)(C). In In re XL Specialty Ins. Co., 373 S.W.3d 46 (Tex. 2012), an injured employee brought a "bad faith" action against his employer's worker's compensation insurer. The trial court ordered that communications between the insurer's attorney and the employer made during the underlying administrative proceeding were discoverable, and the insurer and employer petitioned for a writ of mandamus holding that such communications were covered by the attorney-client privilege, relying chiefly on Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C). The Texas Supreme Court agreed with the trial court and held that the communications were not covered by the attorney-client privilege.

The In re XL Court characterized Rule 503(b)(1)(C) as an "allied litigant doctrine" narrower in scope than the corresponding federal "common interest" doctrine, in that "Texas requires that the communications be made in the context of a pending action." 373 S.W.3d at 51-52. In "jurisdictions like Texas, which have a pending action requirement," the Court held, "no commonality of interest exists absent actual litigation." Id. at 52. "Accordingly," Texas's "privilege is not a 'common interest' privilege that extends beyond litigation" nor "is it a 'joint defense' privilege, as it applies not just to defendants but to any parties to a pending action." Id. (emphasis added).

The Court continued to hold that the communications at issue were not covered by Rule 503(b)(1)(C) because the insurer was not a party to a pending action: "no matter how common XL's [the insurer's] and Cintas' [the employer's] interests might have been, our rule requires that the communication be made to a lawyer or her representative representing another party in a pending action." Id. at 54 (emphasis in original).

Shortly after In re XL, another Texas court applied In re XL's holding to conclude that documents exchanged between defendants in a pending action, on the one hand, and a bank the plaintiff-borrower sought to have added as a defendant to that action, on the other hand, were not protected under Rule 503(b)(1)(C) although (as argued by the relators) the defendants and the bank had a "common interest" in the outcome of the pending litigation, the plaintiff's "bankruptcy proceeding," and a second lawsuit by the plaintiff. In re Park Cities Bank, 409 S.W.3d 859, 875 (Tex. App.—Tyler 2013, no pet.). The court rejected the assertion of privilege because the parties claiming privilege "did not apply the 'pending action' requirement of Rule 503." Id. Although the lawyer and lawyer representatives to the communications each represented parties to pending litigation, they were not parties to the same litigation, so the privilege claim failed. Id.

Perhaps the clearest statement of the limitations of Rule 503(b)(1)(C) comes from Benson v. Rosenthal, 2016 WL 3001129 *4 (E.D. La. May 25, 2016) in which the court held that "Texas case law indicates that [Rule 503(b)(1)(C)] protects only persons who are co-litigants, either plaintiffs or defendants, in the same pending action, not in separate cases." (Citing XL, supra). In short, the Texas Supreme Court, a Texas intermediate court of appeals, and a federal court applying Texas law each have concluded that for Rule 503(b)(1)(C) to apply, the disclosure at issue must be between those representing parties to the same litigation.

Here, Lifespace emphasizes that this adversary proceeding is "a different legal proceeding" from the underlying bankruptcy. At the same time, though, Lifespace concedes that it is not and never has been a party to this adversary proceeding. Consequently, Lifespace's own analysis compels that its disclosure of the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere waived privilege.

While that is dispositive of the privilege issue, there is yet another, second, basis for the same result. To be privileged, the disclosure of the communication must also have been made to "facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to the client," Lifespace. (Emphasis added). Disclosing the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere's counsel did not and could not facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to Lifespace. Lifespace had its own counsel and all the tools necessary to review the document set for privileged communications. Instead, it turned over the entire universe of documents—including the Lifespace Communications—to Edgemere for privilege review. But as explained in Defendants' opening briefing, Edgemere's counsel was engaged by the Estate and could not render legal services to Lifespace, a major Estate creditor.

Lifespace attempts feebly to argue that Rule 503(b)(1)(C) "does not require the party to which the privileged communications were disclosed to provide legal services to the disclosing party" but rather that the Rule requires only that "the disclosure be made 'to facilitate the rendition of professional legal services to the client,' even where the services are provided by the client's own counsel." The flaw in this argument is that it is entirely unsupported by any Texas authority or by any showing that the disclosure in fact facilitated the rendition of professional legal services to Lifespace by Lifespace's counsel. Quite to the contrary, there was no proper reason for the Lifespace Communications ever to have been disclosed to Edgemere; Lifespace could simply not have done that, and instead reviewed and provided a privilege log for the Lifespace Communications on its own.[3]

[3] According to Nick Harshfield's declaration submitted with Lifespace's response, Lifespace reasoned that disclosure of the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere's counsel was warranted because the discovery issued to Lifespace was "substantially similar" to that issued to Edgemere and that all responsive documents "were likely to reside" on Lifespace's server. Put otherwise, rather than undertake its own search for responsive documents and to review same for privilege, Lifespace elected instead to dump all responsive documents on Edgemere's bankruptcy counsel and shift the cost of privilege review from Lifespace to Estate professionals.

In summation, Lifespace's own arguments demonstrate that Rule 503(b)(1)(C) does not apply here. Lifespace further omits to advance any other reason why its post-petition disclosure of the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere did not waive privilege. Consequently, the claim of privilege should be overruled and the Lifespace Communications should be produced.

II. The Lifespace Communications are not protected work product.

Defendants have little quibble with Lifespace's characterization of the work product doctrine. The problem with Lifespace's position is its failure to support legal argument with facts.

Lifespace claims the Lifespace Communications were prepared in anticipation of litigation. Purportedly in support of that notion, Lifespace submits a declaration from Nick Harshfield. Harshfield's declaration nowhere states that he reviewed or knows the substance of the Lifespace Communications withheld as work product. Harshfield's declaration similarly nowhere states the Lifespace Communications withheld as work product were created in anticipation of litigation. Instead, he advances that Lifespace's counsel and Edgemere's counsel coordinated to identify and withhold "Lifespace Work Product"—a fact over which he claims no personal knowledge and to which he is incompetent to testify—but never avers that the documents ultimately withheld as work product are, in fact, among the documents he defines as "Lifespace Work Product."

Harshfield's failure to offer more specificity with respect to the "Lifespace Work Product" is fatal to Lifespace's claim for work product protection. First, as explained in Defendants' opening briefing, affidavits providing only conclusory statements are insufficient to support a claim of work product protection.[4] Second, some of the documents over which Lifespace claims Quickway Carriers, Inc.*, 573 F.3d 365, 381 (6th Cir. 2009); Hunte v. Schneider Nat'l Carriers, Inc., No. 13-CV-2069-WSD, 2014 WL 3955723, at 4 (N.D. Ga. PPG Indus., Inc., protection pre-date this litigation by well over a year and, particularly considering the allegation that Defendants caused Edgemere's bankruptcy through their acts and omissions in late 2021 and early 2022, it is unclear how such communications could have related to this litigation. As characterized by Lifespace at page 10 of its brief, the "Lifespace Work Product" purportedly was created in anticipation of "future litigation with Defendants," but nowhere does Harshfield or Lifespace explain how Lifespace's counsel was preparing for litigation with Defendants before any of Defendants' alleged acts or omissions even had taken place. Either the allegations of the Complaint are false or the assertions in Harshfield's declaration are false; as the entity seeking to withhold documents, it is Lifespace's burden to show which set of conflicting assertions is false.[5]

What is more, even if the Lifespace Communications were once protected work product, their disclosure to Edgemere destroyed any such protection. As explained in Defendants' prior briefing, disclosure of work product even to a potential adversary destroys the protection. And Lifespace and Edgemere certainly were at least potential adversaries for the reasons explained before (and for the additional reasons that will be shown through the evidence at the upcoming January 12, 2024 evidentiary hearing). Among those reasons: Lifespace was a major creditor and, during the one-year pre-petition period, had drained millions of dollars of liquidity from Edgemere in preferential or fraudulent transfers, as explained by Nick Harshfield during Edgemere's meeting of creditors under section 341(a).

Lifespace urges that the disclosure is irrelevant because it was made as part of the adversary proceeding, not as part of the underlying bankruptcy case. That distinction makes no difference in 218 F.R.D. 694, 699 (N.D. Ala. 2003) ("An affidavit containing mere conclusory statements that a document was prepared for the purpose of obtaining legal advice will not suffice in meeting defendant's burden.").

5 Hodges, Grant & Kaufmann v. U.S. Govt. Dept. of the Treasury, IRS, 768 F.2d 719, 721 (5th Cir. 1985) ("The burden of establishing that a document is work product is on the party who asserts the claim").

this context and Lifespace cites no authority for the proposition. Edgemere and Lifespace were potential adversaries, and whether Edgemere may have advanced claims against Lifespace in this adversary proceeding, in another one, or through the claims administration process is wholly irrelevant. What matters under established Fifth Circuit precedent is that Lifespace disclosed the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere, a potential adversary. See Ecuadorian Plaintiffs v. Chevron Corp., 619 F.3d 373, 378 (5th Cir. 2010) ("Although work-product immunity is not automatically waived by disclosure of protected material to third parties, disclosure does waive protection if it 'has substantially increased the opportunities for potential adversaries to obtain the information.'") (Emphasis added).

III. The GrayRobinson Communications are not privileged.

For many of the same reasons that the production of the Lifespace Communications are not properly withheld on privilege grounds, neither are the GrayRobinson Communications. Before explaining why, though, Defendants first note that Lifespace utterly fails to identify its standing to advance privilege or work-product protection over the GrayRobinson Communications when Lifespace was not GrayRobinson's client. In fact, Lifespace lacks standing to do so, and Lifespace's arguments about the GrayRobinson Communications may and should be rejected for that reason.

Even if Lifespace was a proper party to claim privilege over the GrayRobinson Communications, the GrayRobinson Communications are not and were never privileged.[6] Each pre-dates the commencement of this proceeding and, consequently, was not made by or to another party in a pending action, as required for Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C) to apply—all as further addressed above with respect to Lifespace. Lifespace recognizes and acknowledges this requirement in its briefing, but inexplicably opines that the requirement is met because this adversary proceeding began after the GrayRobinson Communications occurred, effectively rewriting the Rule by substituting the word "impending" for the word "pending," and flatly contrary to In re XL, Park Cities, and Benson, supra. Lifespace identifies no authority holding that later-commenced litigation serves to cloak pre-litigation communications in privilege and none exists.

[6] To be clear, some of the GrayRobinson Communications are solely between GrayRobinson attorneys and some or all of Jesse Jantzen, Nick Harshfield, and Eddie Fenoglio. Given the multiple roles those individuals played and Lifespace and Edgemere's refusal to distinguish between which of those individuals' communications were on behalf of which entity, Lifespace has failed to demonstrate that those individuals were communicating in their capacities as Edgemere Board members here.

That issue—the absence of pending litigation—is dispositive. But, even if it was not, Lifespace's other arguments are equally infirm. Lifespace first argues that the Court already has concluded that the "related companies" exception to waiver applies to all communications between Lifespace and Plaintiff. That is both false and irrelevant. False because the Court's referenced order includes no such holding, and irrelevant because the GrayRobinson Communications are not with Plaintiff.[7] What is more, Lifespace cites no Texas authority even for the existence of a "related companies" exception to waiver under Texas law, much less facts supporting that it applies here.

Lifespace relatedly argues that Edgemere and its board are one and the same for purposes of privilege. The opinions Lifespace cites in support of this proposition are distinguishable, though. Here, unlike in Lifespace's cited cases, GrayRobinson's engagement letter specifies that its client was only the Edgemere Board, and not Edgemere itself. As explained in Defendants' earlier brief, "GrayRobinson's engagement letter specifies that the firm was to serve 'as counsel to the Edgemere Board and not to [Edgemere].'" Applying Lifespace's rule—that a company and its board are always the same for privilege purposes, even if the board engages separate counsel—would foreclose board counsel from providing confidential advice to its board client without that advice being equally available to company officers.[8]

Lifespace's argument also fails because even if it was right—that is, even if the Edgemere board and Edgemere are the same for privilege purposes—the GrayRobinson Communications still would be due to be produced because the "weight of authority . . . holds that a dissolved or defunct corporation retains no privilege." S.E.C. v. Carrillo Huettel LLP, No. 13 CIV. 1735 GBD, 2015 WL 1610282, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 8, 2015). Here, Edgemere dissolved upon the plan effective date.[9] So too, therefore, did the privilege.

Lifespace finally argues, equally weakly, that the interests of Edgemere and its Board were at all times aligned. Aside from being immaterial given the absence of a pending action, this argument also is unsupported. The Board sought to engage its own counsel specifically to manage its own distinct duties. What is more, the Board's duties no longer ran to Edgemere, but to the creditor body at large. Lifespace offers no facts to the contrary, or at least no meaningful ones. The only support offered is Nick Harshfield's conclusory and untested statement in his new declaration that "the interests of the board of directors of Edgemere have been consistently aligned with the interests of Lifespace, Edgemere, and the Plaintiff in this Adversary Proceeding." Such conclusory assertions are not enough to carry Lifespace's burden, as the (improper) entity asserting privilege, to prove application of the privilege.

[8] Such a rule would be wholly unworkable. Customary board functions include the selection and removal of key officers—like presidents and CEOs—and fixing their compensation. Under Lifespace's proposed rule, a board could not discuss those matters with its counsel without the very same officers about whom the advice pertains also having access to those communications.

[9] See Fourth Amended Plan, Bankr. Dkt. 1241, § 4.6 ("The Plan shall constitute a decree of dissolution with respect to each of the Debtors"); Notice of Effective Date, Bankr. Dkt. 1620 ("Therefore, June 13, 2023, is the Effective Date of the Plan").

The GrayRobinson Communications are not privileged. They are due to be produced.

IV. The GrayRobinson Communications are not protected work product.

As with the Lifespace Communications, Lifespace fails here to show that the GrayRobinson Communications are protected work product:

First, as identified above with respect to privilege, Lifespace has no standing to assert work product protection on behalf of GrayRobinson's client. Second, as identified above with respect to the Lifespace Communications, Lifespace omits to advance facts supporting the application of the protection. Third, as explained in Defendants' prior briefing and never refuted by Lifespace, the GrayRobinson Communications were freely available between and among Lifespace and Edgemere in addition to Edgemere's Board, even though Lifespace was a major creditor and future adversary at the time of the GrayRobinson Communications. In short, each of the GrayRobinson Communications was disclosed to at least a potential adversary, if not an actual one.

Any protection that may once have attached to the GrayRobinson Communications has been waived, Lifespace is not a proper party to assert the protection anyway, and the GrayRobinson Communications are due to be produced.

* * *

For the foregoing reasons, for those reasons set forth in Defendants' earlier briefing, and based on the additional facts that will be adduced during the January 12, 2024 evidentiary hearing, all claims of privilege or protection over the Lifespace Communications and the GrayRobinson Communications should be overruled, and those documents ordered to be produced immediately.

ORDER ON MOTIONS TO COMPEL

Before the Court are two motions: (1) the Motion to Compel Production by the Plaintiff [ECF No. 362] and the Supplemental Brief Regarding the Lifespace Privilege Waiver and GrayRobinson Communications [ECF No. 434] (collectively, the "Lifespace Motion") filed by Defendants Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. ("ICI") and Kong Capital LLC ("Kong") (collectively, the "Defendants") and (2) the Defendants' Supplemental Motion to Compel Production of FTI Consulting, Inc. Documents and Brief in Support [ECF No. 386] and Supplemental Brief Regarding FTI Consulting, Inc. Documents [ECF No. 442] (collectively, the "FTI Motion").

In the Lifespace Motion, the Defendants assert that Lifespace Communities, Inc. ("Lifespace"), a non-party to the above-captioned adversary proceeding (the "Adversary Proceeding") and the parent/sponsor of Northwest Senior Housing Corporation ("Edgemere" or the "Debtor"), waived its attorney client privilege when it disclosed communications between Lifespace and its counsel[1] (the "Lifespace Communications") to Edgemere and its counsel as part of a joint production. The Defendants also argue that the Lifespace Communications were improperly withheld on work product grounds. Additionally, the Defendants argue that Lifespace and Edgemere's communications with GrayRobinson (the "GrayRobinson Communications"), counsel to Edgemere's Board of Directors (the "Edgemere Board"), are not protected by the attorney client privilege and the work product doctrine for similar reasons as the Lifespace Communications.

On December 22, 2023, Lifespace filed its Brief in Support of Response of Lifespace Communities, Inc. Regarding Defendant's Motion to Compel [ECF No. 449] (the "Lifespace

[1] Over time, Lifespace's counsel included attorneys from Dorsey & Whitney LLP, Perkins Coie LLP, Cooley LLP, Locke Lord LLP, Norton Rose Fulbright, Gilmore & Bell, P.C., Ropes & Gray LLP, and Stewart Wiegland & Owens PC.

Response"). In the Lifespace Response, Lifespace contends the Lifespace Communications are protected from disclosure because Lifespace and Edgemere shared a common interest in the litigation. Lifespace further asserts that the communications were protected under the work product doctrine because Lifespace and Edgemere were never adverse, and the communications were made in anticipation of litigation. Similarly, Lifespace argues that the GrayRobinson Communications are protected by the common interest exception and the work product doctrine.

On January 8, 2024, the Defendants filed their Reply to the Response of Lifespace Communities, Inc.'s to Defendants' Motion to Compel Production of the Lifespace Communications and GrayRobinson Communications [ECF No. 455] (the "Reply"), by which the Defendants again assert that the Lifespace and GrayRobinson Communications are not covered by the work product doctrine. For the first time in the Reply, the Defendants substantively assert that the common interest doctrine does not apply under Texas law and that because Lifespace was not a party to the current litigation it waived the attorney client privilege as to the Lifespace Communications.

On January 12, 2024, the Court held a hearing (the "January Hearing") on the Lifespace Motion. Counsel appeared for the Defendants, Lifespace, and Leif M. Clark, Trustee of the Edgemere Litigation Trust (the "Plaintiff"). After hearing the testimony of Nick Harshfield ("Mr. Harshfield"), the Chief Financial Officer of Lifespace and Edgemere Board member, and the arguments of counsel on the underlying issues, the Court took the matter under advisement.[2]

In the FTI Motion, the Defendants assert that pre-petition communications with FTI Consulting, Inc. ("FTI") professionals and the Plaintiff (the "FTI Communications") are not protected by the work product doctrine or the attorney client privilege. Similar to their arguments with regard to the Lifespace Communications, the Defendants argue that because Lifespace was included on many of the FTI Communications that the attorney client privilege with regard to those communications was waived. The Defendants also assert that because Lifespace was a potential adversary that the work product protection did not attach.

[2] Given the pendency of the FTI Motion and the related arguments, the Court held its decision on the Lifespace Motion in abeyance pending further hearing on the FTI Motion.

On January 29, 2024, the Plaintiff filed his Supplemental Response Brief Regarding FTI Consulting, Inc. Documents (the "Supplemental Response") [ECF No. 471]. In the Supplemental Response, the Plaintiff argues that the attorney client privilege was not waived as to the FTICcommunications because there was a common interest privilege that applied between Lifespace and Edgemere. The Plaintiff also asserts that the FTI Communications were protected by both the attorney client privilege and the work product doctrine.

On February 9, 2024, the Defendants filed their Reply to Plaintiff's Supplemental Response Brief Regarding FTI Consulting, Inc. Documents (the "FTI Reply") [ECF No. 474]. In the FTI Reply, the Defendants argue that the FTI Communications are not privileged because they were considered by a testifying expert when making his testimony. The Defendants also assert that the FTI Communications do not constitute work product because they were not made in anticipation of litigation. Finally, the Defendants echo their previous argument that the inclusion of Lifespace and GrayRobinson on the FTI Communications waived the privilege and protection.

On February 22, 2024, the Court held a hearing (the "February Hearing") on the FTI Motion. Counsel appeared for the Defendants, Plaintiff, and Lifespace. After hearing the testimony of Mr. Harshfield and the arguments of counsel on the underlying issues, the Court took the matter under advisement to be determined with the Lifespace Motion.

I. Jurisdiction

The Court has jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1334(b), and the matter is a core proceeding within the meaning of 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(B). Venue is proper in this district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1409(a).

II. Factual and Procedural History

On April 14, 2022, the Debtor filed a voluntary petition for bankruptcy under Chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code (the "Bankruptcy Proceeding").[3] On the same day, the Debtor filed its Complaint alleging certain causes of action against ICI and/or Kong. ECF No. 1. On June 28, 2022, the Defendants served a subpoena on Lifespace, the direct parent and sole member of Edgemere. ECF No. 64. Lifespace had appeared throughout the Bankruptcy Proceeding but is a non-party to the Adversary Proceeding. The Defendants separately served discovery on Edgemere. On August 1, 2022, Lifespace responded to the subpoena with its objections and responses asserting that it would produce the documents by way of the Edgemere. Edgemere began its production (the "Joint Production") shortly thereafter and did not distinguish between documents produced by Edgemere versus documents produced by Lifespace. Edgemere also produced a privilege log (the "Joint Privilege Log"), which also did not distinguish which party asserted the privilege.

On November 29, 2022, the Defendants filed their Motion to Compel Lifespace Communities, Inc.'s Production of Documents (the "Initial Motion") [ECF No. 238]. In the Initial Motion the Defendants asserted that Lifespace failed to comply with the subpoena because (1) the Defendants could not identify Lifespace-specific documents in Edgemere's production, and (2) Edgemere's privilege log inadequately identified documents withheld based on Lifespace's privilege. The Court held a hearing on the Initial Motion on January 25, 2023. ECF No. 287. Shortly after the hearing, the Adversary Proceeding was stayed from February 1, 2023, through July 19, 2023, to allow Edgemere's proposed chapter 11 plan to proceed through confirmation. See ECF No. 298. The Court issued an Order on June 23, 2023 (the "June Order") [ECF No. 314]. In the June Order, the Court found that the "related companies exception" applied to communications between Edgemere, Lifespace and counsel "to the extent the underlying communications were made in furtherance of legal services or are covered by some other applicable privilege." Id. at 6. Further, the Court noted that it could not determine if an exception to the waiver of the attorney client privilege applied until the substantive privilege had been established. Id. at 7. The Court ruled that it could not ascertain whether privilege attached to the documents without reviewing the documents and told parties to meet and confer to narrow the issues before pursuing in camera review. Id. at 9-10.

After several status conferences addressing the Joint Production and Joint Privilege Log, Lifespace filed its Motion to Clarify the Order Regarding the Production of Documents by Lifespace Communities, Inc. (the "Motion to Clarify") [ECF No. 372] on October 17, 2023. The Court held a hearing on the Motion to Clarify on November 7, 2023. At that hearing, Lifespace offered a stipulation that "(1) Lifespace's and Plaintiff's respective documents productions would have for all purposes been identical, and (2) all documents produced by Lifespace and Plaintiff to Defendants are owned by both Lifespace and Plaintiff," which the Court later entered as an Order. ECF No. 418.

The Defendants filed their Motion to Compel Production by Plaintiff and Brief in Support (the "Original Motion to Compel") [ECF No. 362] and their Omnibus Motion to Compel (the "Omnibus Motion") [ECF No. 363] on October 16, 2023. The Defendants also filed their Supplemental Motion to Compel Production of FTI Consulting, Inc. Documents [ECF No. 386] on November 1, 2023. The Court held a hearing on the three motions on November 9, 2023, during which the Court instructed the parties to meet and confer regarding the issues raised in the hearing and continued certain matters to November 29, 2023. See ECF Nos. 414, 415, & 417. On November 29, 2023, the Court requested supplemental briefing on (1) whether Lifespace's post-petition disclosure of documents to Edgemere served to waive privilege and/or protection over communications between Lifespace and its counsel, (2) whether pre-petition communications between Lifespace, Edgemere, and their respective counsel with GrayRobinson is privileged or protected, and (3) whether there were any defects regarding FTI's production. ECF No. 432. The Defendants filed the Lifespace Motion and the FTI Motion and this further litigation ensued.

III. Analysis

There are two primary questions before the Court. First, the Court must determine whether the federal common interest exception to attorney client privilege applies to the disclosure of the Lifespace, GrayRobinson, and FTI Communications. Second, the Court must determine whether the work product doctrine allows the Plaintiff and Lifespace to withhold production of any of the Lifespace, GrayRobinson, and FTI Communications. Specifically, the Court must determine if there was any adversity between Edgemere and Lifespace that would waive work product protection. The following constitutes the Court's analysis.

a. Attorney Client Privilege

The Federal Rules of Evidence apply to this Adversary Proceeding, but Federal Rule of Evidence 501 provides that, "state law governs privilege regarding a claim or defense for which state law supplies the rule of decision." FED. R. EVID. 501. In this proceeding, every cause of action in the Amended Complaint, except the equitable subordination claim (Count 8), is based on Texas law. Therefore, Texas law supplies the rule of decision for attorney client privilege issues in this Adversary Proceeding. Furthermore, the Court notes that neither party contests that Texas privilege law applies in this Adversary Proceeding. Because the Bankruptcy Proceeding is based on federal law, "the common law—as interpreted by United States courts in the light of reason and experience—governs a claim of privilege" as it relates to the Bankruptcy Proceeding. Id.

Texas law generally shields confidential communications made between clients and their counsel for the purpose of facilitating legal services from disclosure. See Tex. R. Evid. 503(b). The attorney client privilege applies to communications if it can be shown that: (1) the communication was confidential; (2) made between or among the client, lawyer, and their representatives; (3) for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of legal services; and (4) the privilege has not been waived. Crider, Inc. v. Silgan Containers LLC, No. 3:21-CV-1047-M, 2023 WL 479094, at *9 (N.D. Tex. Jan. 13, 2023). The burden of proof is on the privilege claimant. Id.

The Texas Supreme Court has recognized that privileges "represent society's desire to protect certain relationships." Republic Ins. Co. v. Davis, 856 S.W.2d 158, 163 (Tex. 1983). "It is the rule in Texas that the protections afforded by a privilege are waived by voluntary disclosure of the privileged documents." Jordan v. Court of Appeals for Fourth Supreme Judicial Dist., 701 S.W.2d 644, 649 (Tex. 1985). More specifically, under Texas law, the attorney client privilege prohibits disclosure of confidential communications made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of professional legal services to the client. Tex. R. Evid. 503(b)(1). The privilege can be claimed by the client or by the attorney on the client's behalf. Id. at 503(c).

Generally, the voluntary disclosure of privileged communications to a third party results in a waiver of the privilege. Id. at 511. There is an exception to this rule found in Rule 503(b)(1)(C) of the Texas Rules of Evidence. This exception protects > confidential communications made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of professional legal services … by the client or a representative of the client, or the client's lawyer or a representative of the lawyer, to a lawyer or a representative of a lawyer representing another party in a pending action and concerning a matter of common interest therein.

Tex. R. Evid. 503(b)(1)(C).

The Supreme Court of Texas has specifically distinguished the Texas exception contained in Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C) from the federal common interest privilege. See In re XL Specialty Ins. Co., 373 S.W.3d 46, 51-52 (Tex. 2012) (distinguishing In re Santa Fe Int'l Corp., 272 F.3d 705, 710 (5th Cir. 2001)). The Supreme Court of Texas notes in XL Specialty that the Texas privilege is neither a common interest privilege, nor is it a joint defense privilege, but is "more appropriately termed an 'allied litigant' privilege." Id. at 52. The Texas allied litigant doctrine requires that communications be made in the context of a pending action. Id. at 51-52. "[N]o commonality of interest exists absent actual litigation." Id. at 52 (emphasis added). Additionally, the Texas allied litigant doctrine "protects communications made between a client, or the client's lawyer, to another party's lawyer, not to the other party itself." Id. Therefore, the allied litigant doctrine requires "the communication be made to a lawyer or her representative representing another party in a pending action." Id. at 54.

The Defendants first assert that certain of the Edgemere communications are no longer privileged because a dissolved company retains no privilege. Next, the Defendants further assert that Lifespace waived its attorney client privilege as to the Lifespace Communications because it disclosed those communications to Edgemere and its counsel via the Joint Production and by allowing Edgemere to review its documents for privilege. Finally, the Defendants argue the attorney client privilege either did not attach or was waived, as it relates to the FTI and GrayRobinson Communications, because Lifespace and its counsel were included on the communications and the communications were not made by a party in a pending action. The Court will address each of these arguments in turn.

i. The Plaintiff May Claim Privilege Even Though Edgemere Dissolved

The Court will first address the Defendants' argument that the Plaintiff cannot claim the attorney client privilege for a corporation that has dissolved because the answer is so straightforward. Texas Rule of Evidence 503(c)(4) provides that the attorney client privilege may be claimed by "the successor, trustee, or similar representative of a corporation, association, or other organization or entity—whether or not in existence." Under article 3.2(j) of the Litigation Trust Agreement, the Plaintiff has the authority to "preserve, assert, or waive any privilege or any defense on behalf of the Litigation Trust or the Debtors."[4] Therefore, the attorney client privilege may be claimed by the Plaintiff even if the Debtor has been dissolved, which Mr. Harshfield testified was not the case at the February Hearing. As such, the Debtor's dissolution would not waive privilege.

ii. The Effect of Disclosing the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere

The Court will next address the effect of Lifespace disclosing the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere via the Joint Production and Edgemere's counsel's review thereof. The crux of the Defendants' argument is that the attorney client privilege was waived by the disclosure of the Lifespace Communications to Edgemere because Lifespace is not a party to the [4] Notice of Filing of Supplemental Information to Plan Supplement, Case No. 22-30659-mvl11, ECF No. 1526 (Bankr. N.D. Tex. 2022).

Adversary Proceeding. The "allied litigant doctrine" only protects the disclosure of documents between parties to the same, active litigation. See XL Specialties, 373 S.W.3d at 52. Therefore, the Court must determine whether Lifespace is a party to the current litigation.

At the January Hearing, Lifespace argued that it is a party to the litigation because it is a subpoena party. Relying on Russell v. Jones, 49 F.4th 507 (5th Cir. 2022), Lifespace argues that a subpoena constitutes a suit or legal action because it is a coercive judicial process. Lifespace also argues that under Broidy Cap. Mgmt. LLC v. Muzin, 61 F.4th 984 (D.C. Cir. 2023), the term "party" is an expansive concept that includes a party like Lifespace because it would be bound by the Court's ruling and would be able to appeal this Order.

Lifespace's argument on this point is part of the incongruity in the parties' briefing and argument with regard to the instant Motions and occurring historically in these cases. The Defendants argued for the first time substantively in their Reply that Texas law governs the Court's determination of privilege pursuant to Texas Rule of Evidence 503(b)(1)(C) and particularly the "allied litigant doctrine" as laid out by the Texas Supreme Court in XL Specialty.[5] Lifespace does not dispute the applicability of state law, but nevertheless continues to point this Court to federal cases applying federal common law. The Court again notes that XL Specialty specifically distinguished federal common law from the Texas "allied litigant doctrine." XL Specialties, 373 S.W.3d at 52.

In an attempt to save its privilege, Lifespace argued at the January Hearing that the Court should apply the federal common interest privilege under the law of the case doctrine based on the Court's June Order. Under the law of the case doctrine, "when a court decides upon a rule of law, that decision should continue to govern the same issues in subsequent stages of the same case." Montante v. Fed. Bureau of Prisons, No. 3:23-CV-2358-D-BH, 2023 WL 8006410, at *1 (N.D. Tex. Nov. 17, 2023) (quoting Christianson v. Colt Indus. Operating Corp., 486 U.S. 800, 815-816 (1988)). However, trial courts have discretion on when to apply the doctrine. Id. Review of a prior substantive ruling is appropriate in three instances—where there exists: (1) substantially different evidence; (2) a change in controlling authority; or (3) a "clearly erroneous" decision that would work a manifest injustice. Id. (citing Free v. Abbott Lab'ys, Inc., 164 F.3d 270, 272 (5th Cir. 1999). Additionally, the doctrine only applies to issues that were actually decided. Clifford v. Gibbs, 298 F.3d 282, 331 (5th Cir. 2002). "An issue is 'actually decided' if the court explicitly decided it or necessarily decided it by implication." Af-Cap, Inc. v. Republic of Congo, 462 F.3d 417, 425 (5th Cir. 2006). Here, the Court has never been called upon to decide which substantive privilege law applied. Although the Court would certainly have preferred a more timely assertion of the Defendants' position on this issue and briefing more geared toward state law privilege, the Court is behooved to apply the law that the Rules require and the parties agreed was applicable—Texas state law.

[5] Prior to the Reply, the Defendants had relied on federal common law in their briefing in this Adversary Proceeding.

As it regards Texas Rule of Evidence 503, the term "party" has been interpreted narrowly to mean "only persons who are co-litigants, either co-plaintiffs or co-defendants, in the same pending action, not in separate cases." Benson v. Rosenthal, No. CV 15-782, 2016 WL 3001129, at *4 (E.D. La. May 25, 2016)(citing XL Specialty, 373 S.W.3d at 52). While the federal common interest privilege applies to co-defendants in actual litigation as well as to communications between potential co-defendants and their counsel, the Texas Supreme Court distinguished the federal privilege from the Texas allied litigant doctrine, clarifying that the communications must be made in the context of a pending action. See XL Specialty, 373 S.W.3d at 52 n. 7. Therefore, under Texas law, one must be an actual co-litigant in pending litigation for a communication to fall under the allied litigant exception to waiver of the attorney client privilege. See id.

The Court notes that the Lifespace Communications were Lifespace only documents between Lifespace and its counsel, which, Lifespace's only witness, Mr. Harshfield, testified at the January Hearing, were not accessible by Edgemere employees despite the two entities sharing a server. Because Lifespace is Edgemere's parent/sponsor and is not a co-plaintiff or co-defendant to the Adversary Proceeding, it is not a "party" as that term is used in the Texas allied litigant doctrine. Therefore, the allied litigant doctrine does not serve to protect the Lifespace Communications from waiver. The Court will note that Lifespace's waiver of the attorney client privilege is a consequence of the production method that it unilaterally employed with Edgemere. Lifespace freely produced its private communications with its counsel to Edgemere and Edgemere's counsel for review. Therefore, the attorney client privilege has been waived as to the Lifespace Communications.

iii. The Effect of Lifespace Being Included on the GrayRobinson and FTI Communications

The GrayRobinson and FTI Communications are distinct from the Lifespace Communications based on when and how the alleged waiver of the attorney client privilege took place. The Defendants claim that the GrayRobinson Communications are not privileged because the communications contained Lifespace's outside counsel, Edgemere's outside counsel, and Edgemere's restructuring consultants. Each of the disputed GrayRobinson Communications were dated pre-petition, spanning March to April 2022, which the Defendants also claim waives the privilege because they did not take place during a pending action. The Defendants raise similar arguments as to the FTI Communications, asserting that the inclusion of Lifespace on the FTI

Communications served as a third party disclosure that either prevented the privilege from attaching or waived the privilege entirely. Additionally, the Defendants argue that because the FTI Communications took place pre-petition they would also fail to meet the pending action requirement under Texas law. By way of contrast, the attorney client privilege with regard to the Lifespace Communications was waived after the commencement of the Adversary Proceeding by disclosing Lifespace only communications to Edgemere via the Joint Production.

Having reviewed the Joint Privilege Log, as well as numerous documents in camera, over the course of this Adversary Proceeding, it is without question that communications exist wherein legal advice was secured for two different proceedings, the Bankruptcy Proceeding and the Adversary Proceeding. As already mentioned, any communications made in furtherance of the Adversary Proceeding are governed by Texas privilege law because the vast majority of the causes of action in the Amended Complaint are state law causes of action. See Fed. R. Evid. 501. However, any communications made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding would be governed by federal common law.

Under federal common law, the attorney client privilege is one of the oldest recognized privileges for confidential communications. Upjohn Co. v. United States, 449 U.S. 383, 389 (1981). The privilege is intended to encourage "full and frank communication between attorneys and their clients and thereby promote broader public interests in the observance of law and the administration of justice." Id. The attorney client privilege applies to communications if it can be shown that: (1) the communication was confidential; (2) made to a lawyer or his subordinate; (3) for the primary purpose of securing either legal opinion or legal services, or assistance in a legal proceeding. Jolivet v. Compass Group USA, Inc., 340 F.R.D. 7, 19 (N.D. Tex. 2021) (citing United States v. Robinson, 121 F.3d 971, 974 (5th Cir. 1997)). The client retains the attorney client privilege unless the privilege has been waived. See id. at 20. The privilege is so highly regarded that courts have found that the privilege survives the death of the client. Swindler & Berlin v. United States, 524 U.S. 399, 410 (1998).

Additionally, federal common law recognizes the "related companies exception" to waiver of the attorney client privilege. See Am. Airlines, Inc. v. Travelport Ltd., No. 4:11-CV-244-Y, 2012 WL 12884822, at *5 (N.D. Tex. July 16, 2012). Under the related companies exception, "corporations related through common ownership or control are treated as one entity for attorney-client privilege purposes." Id. (quoting Pasadena Refining Sys. Inc. v. United States, No. 3:10-CV-0785-k(BF), 2011 WL 1938133, at *2 (N.D. Tex. Apr. 26, 2011)). This means that "the disclosure of communications between a parent and its majority-owned subsidiaries does not result in a waiver of the attorney-client privilege." Id.

The Court previously held in its June Order that the related companies exception applies to "communications between Lifespace, the Plaintiff, and counsel to the extent the underlying communications were made in furtherance of legal services or are covered by some other applicable privilege." ECF No. 314 at 6. The Court further clarified that the disclosure must be made between the entities "for the purpose of eliciting assistance from the attorney in rendering legal advice or services." Id. at 8. In the Bankruptcy Proceeding, Edgemere, the Edgemere Board, and Lifespace all shared a common legal interest. Mr. Harshfield wholeheartedly testified at both the January and February Hearings that there was never any adversity between Edgemere and Lifespace. Therefore, any joint communications that were in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding would still be privileged under the federal related companies exception.

The existence of the current Adversary Proceeding does not waive the attorney client privilege as to the communications that were made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding.

Therefore, the Court finds that any of the FTI and GrayRobinson Communications that were made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding are privileged, but that the attorney client privilege has been waived as to any FTI and GrayRobinson Communications that were made in furtherance of the Adversary Proceeding given that the communications would fail to meet the pending action requirement having occurred prior to the Adversary Proceeding being initiated.

In sum, Lifespace waived its individual attorney client privilege as to the Lifespace Communications by disclosing them to Edgemere as part of the Joint Production. With regard to the GrayRobinson and FTI Communications that were prepared in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding, those communications are privileged, but the attorney client privilege has been waived as to those prepared in furtherance of the Adversary Proceeding.

b. Work Product Protection

The work product doctrine is distinct and broader than the attorney client privilege. Adams v. Mem'l Hermann, 973 F.3d 343, 349 (5th Cir. 2020). Although the issue of attorney client privilege is determined by state law, federal law governs whether documents are exempt from discovery under the attorney work product doctrine because work product is not a substantive privilege within the meaning of Federal Rule of Evidence 501. Dunn v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co., 927 F.2d 869, 875 (5th Cir. 1991). Pursuant to Rule 26(b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure (the "Rules"), as made appliable by Rule 7026 of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure (the "Bankruptcy Rules"), the federal work product doctrine provides for protection of documents and tangible things prepared by or for a party or that party's representative "in anticipation of litigation or for trial," whether those materials were prepared by the attorney or by agents of the attorney. Adams, 973 F.3d at 349. A document need not be generated during an ongoing lawsuit to qualify for work product protection. McKinney/Pearl Rest. Partners, L.P. v.

Metro. Life Ins. Co., No. 3:14-CV-2498-B, 2016 WL 2997744, at *6 (N.D. Tex. May 25, 2016). Nevertheless, "the primary motivating purpose" behind the creation of the document must be to aid in possible future litigation. Id. As the Advisory Committee Notes to Rule 26(b)(3) state, "[m]aterials assembled in the ordinary course of business, or pursuant to public requirements unrelated to litigation, or for other nonlitigation purposes are not under the qualified immunity provided by this subdivision." FED. R. CIV. P. 26(b)(3), Adv. Comm. Notes.

The Defendants advance three main arguments about why the Lifespace Communications are not protected by the work product doctrine. First, the Defendants argue that Lifespace is not a party and therefore may not advance work product protection under Rule 26(b)(3)(A). Second, Defendants assert that the Lifespace Communications have not been shown to have been created either for use in the litigation or in anticipation of litigation. Third, Defendants claim that Lifespace waived the work product protection when it disclosed the documents to Edgemere, which would be considered an adversary or potential adversary. The Defendants raise similar arguments as to the GrayRobinson Communications. The Defendants also claim that Lifespace had no standing to assert the work product protection on behalf GrayRobinson's client, the Edgemere Board.

The Defendants advance a similar waiver argument regarding the FTI Communications. Particularly, the Defendants argue that the FTI Communications were disclosed to an adversary or potential adversary in Lifespace. Furthermore, the Defendants argue that documents that testifying expert FTI's Chad Shandler ("Mr. Shandler") considered when creating his expert report are not privileged under Rule 26(a)(2)(B).

i. Lifespace may assert work product protection as a non-party to the Adversary Proceeding

The Court will first address whether Lifespace may properly claim work party protection as a non-party to the Adversary Proceeding. Under Rule 26(b)(3)(A), "a party may not discover documents and tangible things that are prepared in anticipation of litigation or for trial by or for another party or its representative." FED. R. CIV. P. 26(b)(3)(A). Although the text of the rule seems to limit work product protection only to parties in the litigation, federal courts have extended work product protection beyond the strict terms of the rule to third parties when doing so accords with the purposes of the privilege set out in Hickman v. Taylor, 329 U.S. 495, 511 (1974). See In re Student Fin. Corp, No. 02-11620 JBR, 2006 WL 3484387, at *10 (E.D. Pa. Nov. 29, 2006); Carnes v. Crete Carrier Corp., 244 F.R.D. 694, 699 (N.D. Ga. 2007); Allied Irish Banks, P.L.C. v. Bank of Am., N.A., 252 F.R.D. 163, 175 (S.D.N.Y. 2008). Thus, courts should consider the purposes for the work product protection as articulated in Hickman: preventing discovery from chilling attorneys' ability to formulate their legal theories and prepare their cases, preventing opponents from freeloading off their adversaries' preparation, and preventing disruption of ongoing litigation. Hickman, 329 U.S. at 511.

Here, the Defendants seek access to communications between Lifespace and its counsel as well as communications between the Edgemere Board and its counsel GrayRobinson. Lifespace has repeatedly claimed that these communications were prepared in anticipation of litigation, either the Bankruptcy or the Adversary Proceeding. Furthermore, Mr. Harshfield testified at the January hearing that there was never any divergence in interests between Lifespace and Edgemere. The evidence indicates that Lifespace shared a common interest with the Plaintiffs and the Edgemere Board in pursuing claims against the Defendants. The disclosure of work product from the Lifespace Communications and the GrayRobinson Communications would implicate the purposes of the privilege articulated in Hickman. Namely, it would chill the attorneys' ability to formulate legal theories and prepare cases because the attorneys would not be able to adequately prepare without the fear of disclosure to a potential adversary. Additionally, it would enable the Defendants to utilize the Lifespace and GrayRobinson Communications as their own and thereby free ride on the "wits borrowed from this adversary." Id. at 517 (Jackson, J., concurring). Therefore, the Court finds that Lifespace has borne its burden to justify an assertion of work product protection as to the aforementioned communications in this case.

ii. Work Product Protection was Not Waived

Next, the Court addresses the issue of waiver. Unlike the attorney client privilege, it is harder to waive work product protection because work product protection exists to "promote the adversary system by safeguarding fruits of attorney's trial preparation from discovery attempts of opponents." Shields v. Sturm, Ruger & Co., 864 F.2d 379, 382 (5th Cir. 1989). Therefore, merely disclosing protected material to a third person is insufficient to waive the work product protection. Id. Disclosure to a third person only waives the work product protection if protected material is given to either an adversary or "treated in a manner that substantially increases the likelihood that an adversary will come into possession of the material." McKinney, 2016 WL 2997744, at *7 (quoting Advance Technology Incubator, Inc. v. Sharp Corp., 2009 WL 4432569, at *2 (E.D. Tex. 2009)). The burden of proving waiver of work product protection falls on the party asserting the waiver. Id.

The Defendants argue that Lifespace, Edgemere, and the Edgemere Board waived their work product protection as to the three sets of communications because they were potential adversaries. The Defendants argue that Lifespace and Edgemere were adversaries or potential adversaries because Lifespace was a creditor of Edgemere at the time of disclosure. The Plaintiffs and Lifespace counter that they were never adverse in the actual sense even during the Bankruptcy Proceeding. Lifespace also argues that even if they were ever potentially adverse in the Bankruptcy Proceeding, they were never adverse to the Plaintiff with regard to the claims asserted in this Adversary Proceeding.

The Defendants rely heavily on the Fifth Circuit's opinion in Ecuadorian Plaintiffs v. Chevron Corp., 619 F.3d 373 (5th Cir. 2010) to show that disclosure to potential adversaries waives the privilege. In Ecuadorian Plaintiffs, a discovery dispute was initiated under 28 U.S.C. § 1782(a) for use in a foreign proceeding. Id. at 375. The defendant brought the discovery dispute to obtain information to challenge the impartiality of a court appointed expert and that expert's report. Id. at 376. Particularly, the defendant sought discovery of information used by the expert when making his report. Id. "Although work product immunity is not automatically waived by disclosure of protected materials to third parties," the Fifth Circuit held that disclosure of documents waives work product protection if it has "substantially increased the opportunities for potential adversaries to obtain the information." Id. at 378. By disclosing documents to a court appointed expert, the plaintiffs in Ecuadorian Plaintiffs waived work product immunity, among other things, by virtue of Rule 26(a)(2)(b). Id.

Ecuadorian Plaintiffs is distinguishable from this case because that decision did not address the issue of parent and subsidiary corporations sharing documents between each other in real time. In this context, numerous courts have found that documents shared between parent and subsidiary corporations do not waive the protection provided by the work product doctrine. See Matter of Celotex Corp., 196 B.R. 596, 601 (Bankr. M.D. Fla. 1996) (holding that a debtor sharing documents with its parent corporation did not waive work product protection); In re Keurig Green Mountain Single-Serve Coffee Antitrust Litig., No. 14MD2542VSBHBP, 2019 WL 6736132, at *9

(S.D.N.Y. July 22, 2019), report and recommendation adopted, No. 14MD2542VSBHBP, 2019 WL 4359551 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 12, 2019) (holding that sharing work product among related companies generally is not inconsistent with the work product protection); Tate & Lyle Americas, LLC, v. Glatt Air Techniques, Inc., No. 13-2037, 2015 WL 4647561, at *5 (C.D. Ill. July 31, 2015) (holding that documents remain protected under the work product doctrine if disclosed to a party with a shared legal interest in litigation).

Further, at the January Hearing, Mr. Harshfield credibly testified that there was never any adversity between Edgemere and Lifespace, even during the Bankruptcy Proceeding. Mr. Harshfield testified repeatedly at the January Hearing that he did not recall any divergence of interests between Lifespace and Edgemere. Likewise, there was no evidence to indicate that there was any divergence of interests between Edgemere and Lifespace with regard to the claims in this Adversary Proceeding. To be certain, the Edgemere corporate structure demonstrates a lack of adversity between Lifespace and Edgemere because Lifespace was the parent/sponsor of Edgemere, the two entities shared employees, and documents were stored on the same corporate server. While Mr. Harshfield admittedly wore "two hats" as a representative of both companies, this was not symbolic of adversity, but rather demonstrates the unity between Lifespace and Edgemere built into their corporate structure. Although Lifespace was a creditor of Edgemere during the Bankruptcy Proceeding, the Court finds that the corporate structure and the testimony of Mr. Harshfield demonstrate that there was no actual divergence of interests during the Bankruptcy Proceeding that would have caused Lifespace and Edgemere to become adversaries in the true sense. Nor did the Defendants bear their burden of proving Lifespace was ever adverse to the Edgemere Board. Therefore, the Court finds that Lifespace, Edgemere, and the Edgemere Board did not waive their work product protections by disclosing the communications to each other.

iii. The Connection Between the Communications and Anticipated Litigation

Having determined that Lifespace has standing to assert work product protection and that work product protections have not been waived, the Court will next address the Defendant's argument that the Plaintiff and Lifespace have not shown that there is a link between the disputed communications and the litigation. Defendants argue that many of the Lifespace Communications pre-date any discussions between Edgemere and the Defendants that would tie them to the Adversary Proceeding. The Defendants further assert that even if the Lifespace Communications relate to the Bankruptcy Proceeding that they occurred far before the petition date. Likewise, the Defendants also argue that the FTI Communications do not relate to anticipated litigation because they relate to "projections, audits, schedules, and/or accounting" rather than legal issues. ECF No. 474.

Factors for determining the primary motivation for the creation of a document include the counsel's involvement in the generation of the document, whether it was routine practice to prepare that type of document, or whether the document was prepared in response to a particular circumstance. Navigant Consulting, Inc. v. Wilkinson, 220 F.R.D. 467, 477 (N.D. Tex. 2004). If the document would have been created without regard to the whether litigation was expected to ensue, it was made in the ordinary course of business and not in anticipation of litigation. See id.

The burden is on the party seeking work product protection to show that the materials at issue were prepared in anticipation of litigation. Hodges, Grant & Kaufmann v. U.S. Gov't, Dep't of the Treasury, I.R.S., 768 F.2d 719, 721 (5th Cir. 1985). A party seeking work product protection must clearly show which production requests they are objecting to and the reason for that objection. Navigant, 220 F.R.D. at 473. A general allegation of work product protection is not sufficient. Id. Generally, the proponent must provide sufficient facts either through detailed affidavits or other evidence to enable the court to determine whether the documents constitute work product. Id. If a party meets its burden and proves that the materials sought warrant work product protection, the party seeking discovery must prove why those materials should still be produced. Hodges, 768 R.2d at 721. If the court cannot decide based on the evidence and the arguments of counsel, it may resort to an in camera review of documents to assist the court in conducting the analysis. Navigant, 220 F.R.D. at 473-74.

Mr. Harshfield submitted affidavits and testified as a witness at both hearings as to the nature of the withheld documents. Mr. Harshfield testified that Edgemere and Lifespace anticipated litigation once the forbearance agreement was allowed to terminate. Mr. Harshfield testified that Lifespace, Edgemere, and the Edgemere Board all retained counsel to provide legal advice in anticipation of potential bankruptcy litigation. Mr. Harshfield also testified that the communications with FTI and its various professionals were made in anticipation of litigation because they helped determine what Edgemere would need from a financial perspective. The Harshfield Declaration provides a blanket assertion that the communications were made for "soliciting and obtaining legal advice and attorney work product." ECF No. 462, Exh. 6.

During cross examination, however, the Defendants questioned Mr. Harshfield about whether specific communications found on the Joint Privilege Log were made in anticipation of litigation. Mr. Harshfield could not specifically determine whether any of the communications were made in anticipation of litigation based on the Joint Privilege Log entries. Likewise, Mr. Harshfield admitted that he would not be able to identify, based on the Joint Privilege Log, whether any or each of the specific emails or attachments were created specifically in anticipation of litigation. The Court does not believe that the blanket assertion is sufficient to carry the Plaintiff's and Lifespace's assertions of work product protection in light of Mr. Harshfield's testimony.

In order to determine whether the work product protection properly attaches to the withheld communications, the Court must conduct an in camera review of the communications. The Court will review whether the communications were prepared in anticipation of litigation and whether they are legal in nature as opposed to commercial. Therefore, the Court orders the parties to meet and confer and deliver 100 documents across the Lifespace, FTI, and GrayRobinson Communications to the Court for an in camera review within 21 days of the date of this Order.

iv. The Impact of a Testifying Expert on Work Product Protection

Finally, the Court will address the documents used by the Plaintiff's expert, Mr. Shandler of FTI, when making his expert report. The Defendants argue that documents used by Mr. Shandler when making his expert report in the Adversary Proceeding (the "Adversary Report") [ECF No. 475, Exh. 14], as well as his declaration in the Bankruptcy Proceeding (the "Bankruptcy Declaration") [ECF No. 475, Exh. 15], are not protected by the work product doctrine.

Rule 26(b)(4)(C) protects as work product "communications between the party's attorney and any [retained, testifying expert] witness," unless the communications fall within one of the three listed exceptions: (i) if they relate to compensation for the expert's study or testimony; (ii) if they identify facts or data that the party's attorney provided and that the expert considered in forming the opinions to be expressed; or (iii) if they identify assumptions that the party's attorney provided and that the expert relied on in forming the opinions to be expressed. FED. R. CIV. P. 26(b)(4)(C). Before the 2010 amendments to the Rules, courts generally required the disclosure of all documents given to testifying experts. Antero Res. Corp. v. C&R Downhole Drilling Inc., No. 4:16-CV-668-Y, 2017 WL 11685172, at *3 (N.D. Tex. Feb. 24, 2017). This broad disclosure had undesired effects such as impeding interactions and communications between counsel and experts. Id. These effects led to the 2010 change in the Rules that "created an express but limited work-product protection for collaborative interactions between counsel and testifying experts." Id. (quoting Davita Healthcare Partners, Inc. v. United States, 128 Fed. Cl. 584, 588 (2016)).

Exception (ii) of Rule 26(b)(4)(C) works in conjunction with Rule 26(a)(2)(B), which requires retained experts to provide a written report that contains various items, including facts or data considered by the witness in forming his or her opinions. FED. R. CIV. P. 26(a)(2)(B). Additionally, the Advisory Committee's Note to the 2010 amendment makes clear that the focus on "facts and data" in exception (ii) was meant to "limit disclosure to material of a factual nature by excluding theories or mental impressions of counsel." FED. R. CIV. P. 26(a)(2)(B), Adv. Comm. Notes. The Advisory Committee also notes that "facts or data" is intended to be "interpreted broadly to require disclosure of any material considered by the expert, from whatever source, that contains factual ingredients." Id.

Here, the Defendants assert that since Mr. Shandler is a testifying expert in the Adversary Proceeding that work product protection does not attach to any communications that identify facts or data that he considered when making the Adversary Report or the Bankruptcy Declaration. The Defendants further assert that any documents that relate to any of the topics mentioned either the Bankruptcy Declaration or the Adversary Report would not be protected under the work product doctrine. The Court does not agree with the Defendants' expansive view that Rule 26(b)(4)(C) includes the documents relied upon by Mr. Shandler in both the Adversary Report as well as the Bankruptcy Declaration. The scope of the exceptions of Rule 26(b)(4)(C) only apply to the current proceeding, which in this case is the Adversary Proceeding. The only documents that the Defendants are entitled to are the documents that Mr. Shandler considered when making the Adversary Report. Plaintiff's counsel asserts that the documents that Mr. Shandler considered when making the Adversary Report were identified in the report and previously produced to the Defendants. Therefore, the Defendants are not entitled further production.

In sum, Lifespace has standing to assert work product protection as a non-party to the Adversary Proceeding because it would further the purposes of the doctrine as laid out in Hickman. Additionally, work product protection was not waived because there was no adversity between Lifespace, Edgemere, and the Edgemere Board. For the Court to determine whether work product protection affirmatively and substantively applies, i.e., whether the documents were made in anticipation of litigation and legal in nature, the Court will conduct in camera review of a subset of the documents. Finally, the Defendants are not entitled to any further documents that Mr. Shandler considered when making the Adversary Report because they were listed in the report and already produced to the Defendants.

II. Conclusion

The Court encourages the Defendants, Lifespace, and the Plaintiffs to continue to work towards a resolution of discovery issues. It is important to note that although the attorney client privilege may be waived as to certain communications in accordance with this Order, the work product protection may still shield such communications from production. Accordingly, based upon the foregoing and the record before the Court, it is hereby ORDERED that the Lifespace Motion is GRANTED, in part, as set forth above; it is further

ORDERED that the FTI Motion is GRANTED, in part, as set forth above; it is further ORDERED that the Plaintiffs amend the Joint Privilege Log and produce documents in accordance with the terms of this Order within 21 days hereof.

Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. ("ICI") and Kong Capital LLC ("Kong") move for entry of an order (a) under Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(b)[2] and Fed. R. Civ. P. 45[3] for enforcement of this Court's Order on Motions to Compel entered April 25, 2024[4] (ECF 512, the "Privilege Order") or, alternatively, (b) under Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(a) and Fed. R. Civ. P. 45 to compel the production of documents the Court already has determined are no longer privileged due to the wholesale disclosure by Lifespace Communities, Inc. ("Lifespace") of its otherwise attorney-client privileged communications to Edgemere. In addition, Movants respectfully request that they be awarded their fees and costs incurred in connection with this Motion pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(a)(5), 37(b)(2)(C) and/or Fed. R. Civ. P. 45.

INTRODUCTION

In the early days of this adversary proceeding, Defendants served Lifespace and Edgemere with written discovery requests, including requests to produce documents.[5] Purportedly to facilitate an efficient, joint production of documents: (i) Lifespace "freely produced its private communications with its counsel to Edgemere and Edgemere's counsel for review"—both privileged and non-privileged; and (ii) Edgemere then "began its joint production" that "did not distinguish between documents produced by Edgemere versus documents produced by Lifespace," and delivered a "joint privilege log" that "also did not distinguish which party asserted the privilege."[6]

Defendants moved to compel the production of documents from Lifespace and Plaintiff on several grounds.[7] As germane to this Motion, Defendants sought to compel from Plaintiff "subpoenaed non-privileged documents held by Plaintiff that Plaintiff improperly withheld for privilege," including "all non-privileged communications where counsel was not included" and "all communications with third parties."[8]

After the Court requested additional briefing, Defendants filed a supplemental brief addressing "whether Lifespace's post-petition disclosure of documents to Edgemere served to waive [attorney-client] privilege and/or [work product] protection over communications between Lifespace and its counsel."[9] Defendants argued that Lifespace's post-petition disclosure to Edgemere "constituted a waiver of attorney-client privilege and work-product protection that may have otherwise attached to such documents."[10] Defendants specified that "communications between or among any Lifespace employee or officer, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, any or all of [Lifespace's eight outside law firms] are not privileged."

[7] After Lifespace's disclosure of its communications to Edgemere, Plaintiff was substituted for Edgemere as the party prosecuting this proceeding.

[8] ECF 362, pp. 1, 8

Ultimately, the Court agreed that Lifespace's communications with its outside counsel (the "Lifespace Communications")[11] were > Lifespace only documents between Lifespace and its counsel, which, Lifespace's only witness, Mr. Harshfield, testified at the January Hearing, were not accessible by Edgemere employees despite the two entities sharing a server. Because Lifespace is Edgemere's parent/sponsor and is not a co-plaintiff or co-defendant to the Adversary Proceeding, it is not a "party" as that term is used in the Texas allied litigant doctrine. Therefore, the allied litigant doctrine does not serve to protect the Lifespace Communications from waiver. The Court will note that Lifespace's waiver of the attorney client privilege is a consequence of the production method that it unilaterally employed with Edgemere. Lifespace freely produced its private communications with its counsel to Edgemere and Edgemere's counsel for review. Therefore, the attorney client privilege has been waived as to the Lifespace Communications.[12] (Italics in original, underlining supplied).

After entry of the Privilege Order, Defendants wrote to Lifespace and Plaintiff to confirm that the otherwise-privileged communications between Lifespace and its counsel (and among Lifespace employees and officers concerning communications between Lifespace and its counsel) would be produced, and to address former executive director John Falldine's deposition testimony that Lifespace and Edgemere failed to collect his locally-stored data and therefore omitted to produce key evidence.[13]

During a telephonic meet-and-confer, Lifespace disclosed that it (and, by extension, Plaintiff) intended to produce only the communications between Lifespace and its outside counsel—not those with Lifespace's in-house counsel or communications solely among Lifespace's non-attorney employees withheld on the basis that they discussed legal advice from [11] The term "Lifespace Communications" is not defined in the Privilege Order, but was defined in Defendants' briefing to mean communications between Lifespace and Lifespace's various outside law firms.

[12] Privilege Order, p. 13.

in-house or outside counsel. Lifespace reasoned that the Privilege Order only compelled production of the communications between Lifespace and its outside counsel.

Defendants urged Lifespace to reconsider. First, while the Privilege Order focused chiefly on communications between Lifespace and its outside counsel, it was not expressly limited to those communications. Second, even if the Privilege Order compelled production only of the communications between Lifespace and its outside counsel, its reasoning applies with equal force to the other communications Lifespace considered to be attorney-client privileged but disclosed to Edgemere all the same: the disclosure to Edgemere waived the privilege.

Lifespace declined to reconsider. Neither Lifespace nor Plaintiff agreed to produce the documents subject of this Motion.

MEET AND CONFER HISTORY

As explained above, counsel for Defendants conferred with counsel for Lifespace and Plaintiff both by telephone and by email. The telephonic conference occurred on May 9, 2024 between and among Ryan Hardy and Elizabeth Vandesteeg for Defendants; Eric Walker and Samuel Rabuck for Lifespace; and Drew Jones for Plaintiff. The related email chain is attached as Exhibit A.

Despite diligent efforts, the undersigned certifies that the parties have reached an impasse.

THE DOCUMENTS ARE DUE TO BE PRODUCED

The Court already has held that Lifespace's disclosure of its privileged communications to Edgemere waived the attorney-client privilege. Defendants incorporate their prior briefing on that issue by reference; there is no need to rehash it here.

Lifespace's sole argument that it need not produce the otherwise-privileged communications it disclosed to Edgemere is that the Defendants only moved for production of

Lifespace's communications with its outside counsel and, consequently, that is all the Court ordered—no more and no less.[14]

As noted, Defendants' initial motion to compel sought "subpoenaed non-privileged documents held by Plaintiff that Plaintiff improperly withheld for privilege," including "all non-privileged communications where counsel was not included" and "all communications with third parties." It was not limited to communications between Lifespace and Lifespace's outside counsel. Defendants thus dispute both that they never asked for all the documents Lifespace disclosed to Edgemere and that the Privilege Order was limited only to Lifespace's communications with its outside counsel.

Ultimately, though, that distinction is immaterial to the substance of the relief sought here. The immutable fact is that the Court already has determined—correctly—that Lifespace's unilateral decision to turn over all of its documents to Edgemere, whether those documents were privileged or not, served to waive the privilege. The documents therefore are due to be produced.

FURTHER RELIEF REQUESTED

Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(a)(5)(A) provides that if a motion to compel discovery is granted, "the court must, after giving an opportunity to be heard, require the party or deponent whose conduct necessitated the motion, the party or attorney advising that conduct, or both to pay the movant's reasonable expense incurred in making the motion, including attorney's fees." Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(d)(3) provides for similar sanctions following failure to follow a court order. Finally, Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(g) holds that a person who fails to abide by an order related to a subpoena is subject to entry of an order of contempt.

Each of these rules is subject to exceptions where the failure to comply is substantially justified or where there is an adequate excuse for failure to comply. Those exceptions do not apply here. The Court held that Lifespace's disclosure of its otherwise-privileged communications to Edgemere served to waive privilege. That waiver attaches whether the underlying communications were with outside counsel, with inside counsel, or with no counsel whatsoever. To date, nobody has advanced any argument otherwise.

WHEREFORE, Defendants Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. and Kong Capital LLC respectfully request that the Court enter an order: (a) compelling production of the referenced documents; (b) awarding to the said Defendants from Leif M. Clark in his capacity as trustee and/or Lifespace Communities, Inc. the said Defendants' reasonable costs and expenses incurred in connection with this Motion; and (c) entering such other or additional relief as the Court deems just and appropriate in the circumstances.

Eric, Drew:

We agree you have made clear that we are at an impasse as to whether Lifespace waived privilege by disclosing its otherwise-privileged communications—including those with its in-house attorneys and those discussing legal advice given to Lifespace by Lifespace's in-house or outside counsel—to Edgemere. We have yet to see from you any reasoning to support your conclusion, but we nonetheless acknowledge it and will proceed accordingly.

Regarding the Falldine spreadsheet:

- You state you "believe" the document produced is the document Falldine references. Why do you believe that and what steps have you taken to confirm your belief? Has Falldine affirmed that it is the spreadsheet?
- You identify that the document was found on Falldine's computer. When, specifically, was it found? We recognize your statement that it was after the subpoena and document requests, but it has been years since those.
- What steps have you taken to ensure that each and every responsive locally-stored document—whether on Falldine's computer or otherwise—has been produced or logged? We are hard-pressed to believe that Falldine's spreadsheet is the only relevant locally-stored document created after the subpoena and requests issued.

Regarding the blank pages and png files: we agree that, standing alone, those are not a big deal. What are missing is that you have been directed at least twice now to re-review your privilege log to ensure that you have not over-withheld. And yet we continue—even through the sixth amended privilege log—to learn that there are errors. The reason that concerns us is that we only learn of the errors when the Court offers in camera review of a sample of documents, you have expressed no interest in undertaking a complete review, and the last time you represented to the Court that you would undertake a complete review we later learned that there were still significant errors. Thus, we have no way of knowing whether the blank documents and pngs were intentionally or inadvertently designated as privileged or withheld or, in turn, whether their inclusion on the log is instead indicative of continuing shortcomings on your firm's part.

At any rate, I take it from your strenuous objection that Cooley has fully quality-checked the eighth amended privilege log and that Cooley gives its confident representation that the eighth amended privilege log is accurate. Please confirm.

Naturally, our review of the production and privilege log has only just begun so we reserve all rights.

Ryan:

We again disagree with your mischaracterization of the Court's April 24 Order. The Court only found that "the attorney client privilege has been waived as to the Lifespace Communications." The term "Lifespace Communications" is defined in the Order as "communications between Lifespace and its counsel," which the Court further noted included "attorneys from Dorsey & Whitney LLP, Perkins Coie LLP, Cooley LLP, Locke Lord LLP, Norton Rose Fulbright, Gilmore & Bell, P.C., Ropes & Gray LLP, and Stewart Wiegland & Owens PC."

That is precisely the universe of documents that Defendants sought to compel the production of from Lifespace. In Defendants' supplemental brief framing this issue for the Court, you very specifically defined the documents at issue as "communications between or among any Lifespace employee or officer, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, any or all of: Dorsey & Whitney LLP, Perkins Coie LLP, Cooley LLP, Locke Lord LLP, Norton Rose Fulbright, Gilmore & Bell, P.C., Ropes & Gray LLP, and/or Stewart Wiegland & Owens PC (the "Lifespace Communications")." In Defendants' reply brief, you confirmed for the Court that the documents at issue were limited only to Lifespace communications with its outside counsel: "The term Lifespace Communications means those communications between Lifespace and its outside counsel." That is the only issue that was briefed and tried by the parties and considered by the Court. Your mischaracterization of what the Court ordered is belied by Defendants own pleadings. Defendants had their opportunity to address these issues with the Court. Your threat to revisit these issues with yet more motion practice at the tail end of fact discovery is unduly burdensome, harassing and designed for further delay, and Lifespace reserves all rights with respect to same.

We have produced what we believe to be the Falldine spreadsheet in native format in our supplemental production produced to you yesterday. We collected it from Falldine's desktop computer. It was not previously produced because it appears to have been created after Defendants' issued their subpoena and document requests. As we told you previously, we have confirmed that Lifespace's collection included responsive documents saved locally on Edgemere and Lifespace devices.

Your complaint that blank pages or jpeg logos were "improperly withheld" by Lifespace is absurd. As you know, with the collection of electronically stored information, sometimes email logos and other fragment information (including blank pages) contained in emails show up as attachments and were logged accordingly. For ease of the Court's in camera review, we identified and removed them. They are obviously not responsive or relevant. Your suggestion that this somehow undermines the integrity or accuracy of the privilege log is transparently false.

Eric:

We are disappointed you've declined to reconsider your position with respect to the communications between Lifespace and its inside counsel, and communications between Lifespace employees concerning otherwise privileged information. The Court concluded that Lifespace's wholesale disclosure of its otherwise privileged communications to Edgemere served to waive privilege. Your position compels us to engage in additional motion practice. We will seek our fees and costs in connection with same.

As to Falldine's spreadsheet, please be sure it is produced to us in native format with all metadata preserved. Please also explain where it was found, why it was not previously produced, and what steps you have taken to ensure that responsive documents saved locally on Edgemere or Lifespace devices have been either produced or logged.

Finally, Sam's follow-up email disclosed that the descriptions for some of the withheld documents are inaccurate, that some of the documents appearing on the log (namely the Dorsey logos and blank pages) were improperly withheld as privileged or protected when they clearly are not, and that some of the logged documents have been previously produced. What we used to prepare our list of documents for in camera review was the sixth amended privilege log, and you have been instructed on multiple occasions to ensure its accuracy. The fact it is still inaccurate is deeply concerning, particularly since we have no doubt a law firm of Cooley's caliber is capable of producing an accurate privilege log. We understand the Court already has ordered the preparation and production of a seventh amended and restated privilege log so we do not intend to seek further relief at this time, but suffice to say that if it turns out the seventh amended privilege log also is inaccurate we will be seeking further relief.

Ryan –

As we discussed during our conference on May 9, we intend to comply with the Court's order by making a supplemental production of communications between Lifespace and its counsel, as specifically defined in the Court's order, by May 16. We do not agree with your selective interpretation of the Court's reasoning or that it requires production above and beyond what the Court ordered. We intend to include the Falldine spreadsheet in our supplemental production on May 16. We have received and reviewed your revised spreadsheets for the Court's in camera review of select work product documents. Sam will respond under separate cover with a few specific questions regarding this list so we can finalize and transmit to the Court by May 16.

Eric, Sam:

Thanks for your time yesterday concerning the Edgemere AP and your confirmation that a supplemental production would be forthcoming on or by May 16.

You advised that you did not consider the Court's order to mandate production of Lifespace correspondence with Lifespace's in-house counsel, although such correspondence was turned over to Edgemere. We disagree. As the Court explained at page 2 of the order, we asserted that Lifespace "waived its attorney client privilege when it disclosed communications between Lifespace and its counsel . . . to Edgemere and its counsel as part of a joint production." The omitted footnote identifies that "Over time, Lifespace's counsel included attorneys from" a number of firms, but we do not consider the Court's use of the word "included" to be limiting. There is nothing in the Court's reasoning to treat otherwise-privileged in-house communications differently from otherwise-privileged communications with outside counsel. Indeed, the Court explained that the "Lifespace Communications were Lifespace only documents between Lifespace and its counsel, which, Liefspace's only witness, Mr. Harshfield, testified at the January Hearing, were not accessible by Edgemere employees despite the two entities sharing a server. . . . Lifespace freely produced its private communications with its counsel to Edgemere and Edgemere's counsel for review [and t]herefore, the attorney client privilege has been waived as to the Lifespace Communications." And, at any rate, even if the Court's order does not itself embrace this correspondence, certainly its reasoning holds that the attorney-client privilege was waived as to this correspondence such that same is due to be produced.

Accordingly, we ask that you reconsider your position and confirm that all documents that otherwise would have been Lifespace privileged but which were disclosed to Edgemere will be produced, as requested in our initial email. Please let us know by Monday, May 13, whether you intend to stand on your position or whether upon further consideration you will produce it.

You noted, too, that some of the documents we identified for in camera review from the Lifespace privilege log were designated "attorney client" only, not "work product." You consider the Court's order permitting in camera review to pertain only to assertions of work product. Upon closer review, we agree that your reading of the order is probably the better one. Accordingly, we attach a revised copy of the Lifespace privilege log with documents highlighted for in camera review (newly-selected documents are highlighted in blue for ease of reference). However, we are compelled to note the language in the Order that led to our initial conclusion: "With regard to the GrayRobinson and FTI Communications that were prepared in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding, those communications are privileged, but the attorney client privilege has been waived as to those prepared in furtherance of the Adversary Proceeding." Although it appears the Court did not order in camera review of documents to assess which side of that line various documents fell, we emphasize the need for the supplemental production to include those GrayRobinson and FTI Communications that were prepared, in whole or in part, in furtherance of the Adversary Proceeding.

Finally, you advised that you believe you have located Falldine's spreadsheet and that you are investigating whether it was produced or, if not, why not. You stated also that, contrary to Falldine's testimony, Lifespace or Edgemere did, in fact, collect and produce locally stored documents. You agreed to keep us apprised of the results of your investigation, and we can revisit the issue then. Although we did not discuss a deadline for the conclusion of that investigation, we consider that May 16 is a sensible one and ask for your commitment to bring the matter to a close by then.

Thank you again for taking the time to meet with us, and I'm pleased that we were able to make progress on at least some of the outstanding issues.

That puts us in a tight spot because we don't want to file a motion prematurely but we also can't wait indefinitely for a response. I suppose for now I would propose that you provide responses to the various issues on a rolling basis rather than wait to respond to each at once. That way the parties can at least minimize the delay while still ensuring that we are discharging our obligation to meet and confer as may be necessary.

Assuming we don't talk before, have a good weekend.

When do you anticipate having a response? We're trying to map out the rest of fact discovery on our end, and naturally any need for motion practice is going to impact timing. For instance, we have outstanding requests for Nick Harshfield and Jesse Jantzen's availability, but the timing of productions will affect when we are ready to take those depositions.

Eric, Greg:

I'm writing to follow up on a couple of things: (1) the Court's order last week regarding various privilege and protection issues; and (2) locally-stored responsive documents.

Last week's order

Per the Court's instruction, we attach two spreadsheets identifying documents for in camera review. One is a highlighted version of the Sixth Amended Edgemere/Lifespace privilege log; the other, a highlighted version of the FTI privilege log. In both, we've highlighted in yellow documents for in camera review. Where those documents appear to have attachments, we have highlighted the attachments in green for ease of reference. In our view, a transmitting email and its attachments are fairly considered a single document for purposes of the Court's order. Please let us know if you disagree so that we may meet and confer on the matter.

As well, we write to confirm our understanding of the Court's order that all the Lifespace Communications that were not also designated as work product are due to be produced without need for further Court intervention. For avoidance of doubt, we consider the Court's order to compel the production of the following communications, so long as they were not also designated as work product: (a) between Lifespace and Lifespace outside counsel; (b) between Lifespace and Lifespace in-house counsel; (c) between Lifespace in-house counsel and Lifespace outside counsel; and (d) among Lifespace personnel although referencing or discussing legal advice furnished by Lifespace in-house or outside counsel. If you view the issue differently please let us know so that we may meet and confer on the matter.

Locally-stored responsive documents

During his deposition, John Falldine testified he maintained a spreadsheet of each instance "where a resident was leaving the community and it had something to do with a financial circumstances or the negative press." (Falldine Deposition, p. 227). He further testified that he never deleted that spreadsheet, that it was saved locally on his work computer, and that during the document collection process files saved locally on his computer were never collected. (Id. at pp. 227, 231-33).

We understand from a discussion with Greg that Greg already has requested that the spreadsheet be turned over. Our concern is broader: the evident failure to collect locally-saved documents on computers that we believe, based on the ultimate disposition of Edgemere's assets, have been in control of a third-party now for nearly a year—with all the modifications, changes, and deletions that likely accompany that change in control.

We ask that you please advise what steps you propose to take to correct Edgemere and Lifespace's failure to preserve relevant information sources so that we can move this proceeding forward without delay. In our view, those steps should include, at minimum, securing the computers or forensic images of the computer drives from Bay 9. We reserve all rights, and this email is not intended to be a comprehensive statement of our position with respect to Falldine's spreadsheet, his computer, or Edgemere and Lifespace's document collection and production.

Lifespace Exhibit 13

UNITED STATES BANKRUPTCY COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS

In re: NORTHWEST SENIOR HOUSING CORPORATION, et al.[1] Debtor.	Chapter 11 Case No. 22-30659 (MVL)
Leif M. Clark, Trustee of the Edgemere Litigation Trust Plaintiff, v. Intercity Investment Properties, Inc., and Kong Capital LLC Defendants.	Adv. Pro. No. 22-03040 (MVL)

LIFESPACE COMMUNITIES, INC.'S OBJECTION TO DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO ENFORCE THE COURT'S ORDER ON MOTIONS TO COMPEL OR, IN THE ALTERNATIVE, FOR ENTRY OF AN ORDER COMPELLING FURTHER PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS FROM THE PLAINTIFF AND LIFESPACE COMMUNITIES, INC.

[1] The Debtors in these chapter 11 cases, along with the last four digits of each Debtor's federal tax identification number, are Northwest Senior Housing Corporation d/b/a Edgemere ("Edgemere") (1278) and Senior Quality Lifestyles Corporation (2669). The Debtors' mailing address is 8523 Thackery Street, Dallas, Texas 75225.

Lifespace Communities, Inc. ("Lifespace"), by and through its counsel, objects to Defendants' Motion to Enforce the Court's Order on Motions to Compel or, in the Alternative, for Entry of an Order Compelling Further Production of Documents from the Plaintiff and Lifespace Communities, Inc. (the "Motion"), and in support thereof, respectfully states the following:

I. INTRODUCTION

On April 25, 2024, the Court entered its Order on Motions to Compel (the "Order"), which granted, in part, various pending discovery motions filed by Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. and Kong Capital LLC (together, "Defendants"). See Adv Pro. ECF No. 512. The Order required, among other things, Lifespace to make a supplemental production and produce a revised privilege log to Defendants within 21 days of entry of the Order. Lifespace timely complied with the Order by producing 431 documents and an amended privilege log to Defendants on May 14, 2024.

Defendants do not seriously dispute that Lifespace has fully complied with the Order. Instead, Defendants' Motion seeks the production of a new category of Lifespace privileged information not addressed in the Order, and that has not been previously briefed or otherwise raised with the Court. This new Motion is the tenth discovery motion Defendants have filed in this Adversary Proceeding, which has been pending for over two years, with fact discovery now scheduled to close in less than two weeks. Defendants could have raised these new issues in their prior discovery motions, but neglected to do so, instead adopting a piecemeal approach to discovery intended to obstruct and delay this Adversary Proceeding and harass nonparty Lifespace. The Court should deny the Motion on that basis alone.

Additionally, the recent holdings in the Court's Order requires the Motion be denied. In its Order, the Court recognized that "it is without question that communications exist wherein legal advice was secured for two different proceedings, the Bankruptcy Proceed and the Adversary Proceeding" and that "communications made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding would be governed by federal common law." Order at 14. The Court held that any communications in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding "would still be privileged under the federal related companies exception" and that "[t]he existence of the current Adversary Proceeding does not waive the attorney client privilege as to communications that were made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding." Id. at 15. Nearly all the privileged communications Defendants now seek to compel are communications made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding or discuss legal advice provided by Edgemere counsel and therefore do not constitute "Lifespace only" documents produced to Edgemere as part of the joint review and production in the Adversary Proceeding. Accordingly, the Motion should be denied.

II. ARGUMENT

A. Lifespace Fully Complied with the Order.

In its Order, the Court required the production of the Lifespace Communications, which the Court defined as "communications between Lifespace and its counsel," that the Court noted "included attorneys from Dorsey & Whitney LLP, Perkins Coie LLP, Cooley LLP, Locke Lord LLP, Norton Rose Fulbright, Gilmore & Bell, P.C., Ropes & Gray LLP, and Stewart Wiegland & Owens PC." Order at 2, n.1.[2] That is precisely the same definition used by Defendants in defining the nature of privileged communications they sought to compel from Lifespace. In their supplemental brief, Defendants framed the privilege issue for the Court as involving "communications between or among any Lifespace employee or officer, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, any or all of: Dorsey & Whitney LLP, Perkins Coie LLP, Cooley LLP, Locke Lord LLP, Norton Rose Fulbright, Gilmore & Bell, P.C., Ropes & Gray LLP, and/or Stewart Wiegland

[2] In their Motion, Defendants incorrectly contend that the term "Lifespace Communications" is not defined in the Order. See Mot. at 4, n.11.

& Owens PC (the 'Lifespace Communications')." Defendants' Supplemental Brief Regarding the Lifespace Privilege Waiver and GrayRobinson Communications ("Defendants Privilege Brief") [Adv Pro. ECF No. 434] at 1-2. In their reply brief, Defendants confirmed for the Court that "[t]he term Lifespace Communications means those communications between Lifespace and its outside counsel." Defendants' Reply to the Response of Lifespace Communities, Inc.'s to Defendants' Motion to Compel Production of the Lifespace Communications and GrayRobinson Communications [Adv Pro. ECF No. 455] at 1, n.1. That is the issue the parties extensively briefed and presented to the Court; it was also the scope of documents that the Court ultimately ordered to be produced in the Order. Lifespace fully complied with the Order by timely producing all Lifespace Communications not otherwise protected by the work product doctrine.[3] Defendants do not contend otherwise.

B. Privileged Communications in Furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding or Containing Edgemere Legal Advice are Protected from Disclosure.

Defendants now seek to compel the production of an entirely new set of privileged information—namely, privileged communications between Lifespace and its in-house counsel and internal Lifespace privileged communications that discusses legal advice, regardless of whether such communications were related to the Bankruptcy Proceeding or the Adversary Proceeding, or whether the communications discuss legal advice from Lifespace counsel or Edgemere counsel. As explained below, the Court has already held that privileged communications made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding remain protected by the federal common interest privilege and related companies' exception to waiver. See Order at 14-15. In addition, internal [3] The Court clarified in the Order that "[i]t is important to note that although the attorney client privilege may be waived as to certain communications in accordance with this Order, the work product protection may still shield such communications from production." Order at 26.

Lifespace communications relating to legal advice from Edgemere's counsel was not disclosed to Edgemere as part of the joint production and therefore was never waived. Accordingly, the Court should deny the Motion.

In its Order, the Court found as a matter of fact that "it is without question that communications exist wherein legal advice was secured for two different proceedings, the Bankruptcy Proceeding and the Adversary Proceeding." Order at 14. The Court held that while "any communications made in furtherance of the Adversary Proceeding are governed by Texas privilege law because the vast majority of the causes of action in the Amended Complaint are state law causes of action . . . any communication made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding would be governed by federal common law." Id. (internal citations omitted). The Court further explained that "federal common law recognizes the 'related companies exception' to waiver of the attorney client privilege," which "means that 'the disclosure of communications between a parent and its majority-owned subsidiaries does not result in a waiver of the attorney-client privilege.'" Id. at 15 (quoting Am. Airlines, Inc. v. Travelpoart Ltd., No. 4:11-CV-244-Y, 2012 WL 12884822, at *5 (N.D. Tex. July 16, 2012)). After conducting an extensive evidentiary hearing on the issues of privilege, the Court found that "[i]n the Bankruptcy Proceeding, Edgemere, the Edgemere Board, and Lifespace all shared a common legal interest." Id. Accordingly, the Court concluded that "any joint communications that were in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding would still be privileged under the federal related companies exception" and that "[t]he existence of the current Adversary Proceeding does not waive the attorney client privilege as to communications that were made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding." Id.

Despite these recent holdings, Defendants now seek to compel the production of additional Lifespace privileged communications, including those made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding, that the Court has already concluded remains privileged under the federal related companies exception. See Order at 15. Additionally, Defendants seek to compel the production of all internal Lifespace privileged communications without counsel, including privileged communications discussing legal advice provided by Edgemere's counsel. But those communications are far different from the Lifespace only documents, the contents of which were disclosed to Edgemere for the first time in connection with the joint response and production to Defendants, because they discuss legal advice provided by Edgemere's counsel. There cannot have been any privilege waiver by disclosing back to Edgemere discussions regarding legal advice provided by Edgemere's own counsel. Accordingly, the Court should deny the Motion.

C. The Court Should Reject Defendants' Piecemeal Approach to Discovery Motion Practice and Deny the Motion Filed at the Close of Fact Discovery.

Lifespace and Edgemere made their initial production of documents, including a comprehensive privilege log, to Defendants in August 2022. Defendants have had nearly two years to evaluate and challenge Lifespace and Edgemere's responses to written discovery and production of documents. Indeed, Defendants have already filed six separate discovery motions against Lifespace and/or Edgemere.[4] Most recently, Defendants challenged Lifespace's assertion of privilege and work product on several grounds. See Adv Pro. ECF No. 434. Defendants very specifically defined the universe of documents they were challenging as "communications between or among any Lifespace employee or officer, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, any or all of: Dorsey & Whitney LLP, Perkins Coie LLP, Cooley LLP, Locke Lord LLP, Norton Rose Fulbright, Gilmore & Bell, P.C., Ropes & Gray LLP, and/or Stewart Wiegland & Owens PC (the 'Lifespace Communications')." Def's Priv. Br. at 1-2. Those issues were extensively briefed and presented to the Court by the parties at a full day evidentiary hearing and the Court entered its Order resolving those issues. See Adv Pro. ECF No. 512. Defendants had the opportunity to challenge the other privileged information they now seek from Lifespace at that time, such that it could have been briefed and considered by the Court before the end of fact discovery but declined to do so. There is no legitimate explanation for why Defendants waited until weeks before the end of fact discovery to challenge another category of Lifespace privileged documents other than to impose an undue burden on nonparty Lifespace and attempt to further delay resolution of this Adversary Proceeding that has already been pending for over two years.

Defendants' belated Motion should be denied because it is not likely to be resolved before the end of fact discovery. Courts in the Northern District of Texas have repeatedly recognized that a party cannot wait until the eleventh hour to file a discovery motion, but instead must file such a motion sufficiently in advance of the discovery deadline to allow it to be heard, decided and implemented prior to the deadline. See Days Inn Worldwide, Inc. v. Sonia Invs., 237 F.R.D. 395, 398 (N.D. Tex. 2006) (denying a motion to compel filed at the end of discovery, holding that "[i]n order to timely obtain the discovery which Keshav sought in his motion to compel, Keshav's motion had to be filed sufficiently in advance of the discovery deadline (not the motions deadline) in order to allow it to be heard by a court, and if granted, to allow the compelled discovery to be produced prior to the deadline.") (listing cases). Here, Defendants waited, without justification, to file their latest Motion just a few weeks before the June 26, 2024 fact discovery cutoff (which has already been extended several times), with a hearing on the Motion scheduled just one day before the June 26, 2024 cutoff for fact discovery. As the Court in Days Inn Worldwide instructs, that is insufficient time to allow the Motion to be heard, decided and implemented prior to the June 26, 2024 discovery deadline. Defendants had the opportunity to seek this relief in connection with their earlier discovery motion regarding privilege but decided to wait. Defendants made their decision and should have to live with its consequences. The Court should deny the Motion.

D. Defendants' Request for Fees Should Be Denied.

The Court should also deny Defendants' request for fees under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 37 and 45. Rules 37(a)(5)(A) and 37(b)(2)(C)[5] provide for fee shifting in the event of a successful motion to compel or failure to obey a court order, respectively. Both provide exceptions where the position of the party from whom fees are sought was "substantially justified," among others. Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(a)(5)(A); 37(b)(2)(C). A position is "substantially justified" when "there is a genuine dispute, or if reasonable people could differ as to the appropriateness of the contested action." De Angelis v. City of El Paso, 265 F. App'x 390, 398 (5th Cir. 2008) (internal quotation marks omitted) (citing Pierce v. Underwood, 487 U.S. 552, 565 (1988)). Simply taking a position that a court rules against "does not merit punishment" under Rule 37. Nafta Traders, Inc. v. Adidas Am., Inc., 2023 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 1641, at *20 (N.D. Tex. Jan. 4, 2023); see also Zenith Ins. Co. v. Tex. Inst. for Surgery, L.L.P., 328 F.R.D. 153, 174 (N.D. Tex. 2018) (losing position substantially justified where it "presented genuine disputes that were appropriately submitted for the Court's determination."). Rule 45(g) provides that a court "may hold in contempt a person who, having been served, fails without adequate excuse to obey the subpoena or an order related to it." Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(g). None of these Rules apply here, and even if they do, Lifespace's position with respect to the Order is substantially justified.

First, the Motion should be denied for the reasons set forth above, so Rule 37(a)(5)(A) does not apply. Second, there is no serious dispute that Lifespace timely and fully complied with the [5] Defendants cite Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(d)(3) in their Motion (at 6) for the proposition that Lifespace should be sanctioned for failure to follow a court order; however, that reference appears to be in error. We assume that Defendants intended to refer to Fed. R. Civ. P. 37(b)(2)(C).

Order by producing all Lifespace Communications not otherwise protected by the attorney work product doctrine, so neither Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 37(b)(2)(C) nor 45(g) apply. Even if the Court were to grant partial or full relief on Defendants' Motion, Lifespace's position based on its interpretation of the Order, as set forth above, is substantially justified. Accordingly, Defendants' request for fees must fail.

V. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Court should deny the Motion and order such further and other relief as is just and appropriate.

Lifespace[2] waived the attorney-client privilege by disclosing its otherwise-privileged communications to Edgemere during this proceeding. The Court has already decided that issue.[3]

But Lifespace[4] now advances two arguments it never raised during the meet-and-confer process that preceded the present motion (the "Motion," ECF 515). First, that the Motion is untimely even though it was filed and is due to be heard before the current close of fact discovery. Second, that the wall-to-wall waiver the Court recognized in the Privilege Order extends only to communications about the adversary proceeding, rather than communications about the bankruptcy case, notwithstanding that the Court incontrovertibly ordered Lifespace and Plaintiff to produce all the communications between Lifespace and its outside counsel (other than those also protected by the work product doctrine) without regard to their subject matter.

Neither argument holds water, nor does either rise to the level of substantial justification to warrant that Defendants bear the costs of briefing this matter. The Motion should be granted in its entirety.

I. The Motion is timely.

Defendants filed the Motion on May 24, 2024. The Motion is set to be heard on June 25, 2024. The current close of fact discovery is June 26, 2024.

Notwithstanding that the Motion was filed before the current close of fact discovery and that it is scheduled to be heard before the current close of fact discovery, Lifespace urges that it is

[2] Capitalized terms not defined herein have the meaning ascribed to them in the underlying motion.

[3] Privilege Order, pp. 12-13.

[4] The Plaintiff did not respond.

untimely. Purportedly in support, Lifespace cites a single opinion in which a discovery motion filed after the close of discovery was denied as untimely.[5] And, as acknowledged in Lifespace's case and in subsequent cases, even filing a motion to compel after the close of discovery—which, again, is not an issue presented here because the Motion was filed and is due to be heard before the close of fact discovery—does not by itself pose a bar to hearing or granting the motion.[6] Rather, courts consider a host of factors that Lifespace wholly fails to address, such as:

- The length of time since the expiration of the fact discovery deadline – the fact discovery deadline here has not expired.
- The length of time that the moving party has known about the discovery – the Privilege Order was entered on April 25, 2024; the meet-and-confer process began on May 3, 2024 and ended on May 9, 2024; and the Motion was filed on May 24, 2024. Less than a month elapsed between the start of the meet-and-confer process and the Motion date.
- Whether the discovery deadline has been extended – it has been extended, by agreement, for reasons unrelated to the Motion.
- The explanation for the tardiness or delay – the Motion was filed well prior to the applicable deadline.
- Whether dispositive motions have been scheduled or filed – none have been filed and the current dispositive motion deadline is months away.

[5] Days Inn Worldwide, Inc. v. Sonia Investments, 237 F.R.D. 395, 398 (N.D. Tex. 2006) (motion at issue was filed "two weeks after the extended [fact discovery] deadline expired on May 31, 2006").

[6] See, e.g., Garcia v. City of Amarillo, Tex., 2019 WL 11250160 *2 (N.D. Tex. Sept. 26, 2019).

- The age of the case – this case is approximately two years old, but also was stayed over Defendants' objection for a lengthy period during which discovery did not and could not proceed.
- Prejudice to the party from whom late discovery was sought – again, late discovery is not sought here. And anyway, Lifespace has identified no prejudice.
- Disruption of the court's schedule – Lifespace's additional production pursuant to the Motion should not materially impact other deadlines that are not already under discussion to be moved.

Lifespace's argument that the Motion is untimely is unmoored from the single case on which Lifespace relies for support, and the facts do not warrant denying the Motion as untimely. The Motion thus may, and should, be considered on its merits and granted.

II. Lifespace waived the privilege.

The Court could not have been clearer: Lifespace waived privilege when it "freely produced" its otherwise-privileged communications to Edgemere "for review" in connection with this Adversary Proceeding pursuant to the "production method that [Lifespace] unilaterally employed with Edgemere."[7] Those communications "were not [otherwise] accessible by Edgemere employees despite the two entities sharing a server."[8] In other words, Lifespace gave Edgemere privileged documents, during this proceeding, to which Edgemere otherwise had no access. Lifespace thereby waived the attorney-client privilege as to those documents.

[7] Privilege Order, p. 13.

Lifespace's communications with its in-house counsel, or its deliberations about legal advice, are no different. Nor is the outcome different. Lifespace urges that the subject matter of the communications warrants a different outcome, drawing an artificial distinction between communications about the bankruptcy case and communications about the adversary proceeding. The Court correctly drew no such distinction with respect to Lifespace's communications with its outside counsel that the Court indisputably ordered to be produced, and no such distinction exists for the other communications either.

The genesis of Lifespace's argument is a different part of the Privilege Order dealing with different communications among different people serving different roles. Defendants argued that the inclusion of Lifespace officers on communications by or to GrayRobinson (counsel to the Edgemere board) and FTI Consulting (financial advisor to Edgemere) foreclosed privilege from attaching to those communications. In rejecting that argument, the Court reasoned that because Edgemere and Lifespace shared a common interest in the bankruptcy case, communications between Lifespace officers and Edgemere's professionals remained privileged so long as the communications pertained to the bankruptcy case.

The key distinction is that Edgemere already had access to all those communications. Unlike the Lifespace Communications—which Edgemere obtained solely by way of Lifespace's voluntary turnover—the FTI Communications and GrayRobinson Communications[9] included [9] The terms FTI Communications and GrayRobinson Communications are used here with the definitions ascribed to them in the Privilege Order.

Edgemere's own professionals.[10] Thus, those were not communications that came into Edgemere's possession only by way of this Adversary Proceeding; Edgemere already had them.

Just as with its communications with outside counsel, Lifespace voluntarily turned over its otherwise-privileged communications to Edgemere as part of this adversary proceeding, which afforded Edgemere access to those communications for the first time. By doing so, Lifespace waived privilege, regardless of whether the subject of the communications was the bankruptcy case, the adversary proceeding, both, or neither.

And even if, counterfactually, that was not the case, Lifespace here offers nothing more than the bald, unsupported assertion that "[n]early all the privileged communications Defendants now seek to compel are communications made in furtherance of the Bankruptcy Proceeding or discuss legal advice provided by Edgemere counsel."[11] But it offers no evidence in support of that assertion and the assertion itself is frankly incredible, if for no other reason than because many of the documents at issue long pre-date the bankruptcy case—the earliest of them dates back to June 22, 2018. Consequently, Lifespace fails to support that its otherwise-privileged communications fall within the exception Lifespace attempts to graft onto the Privilege Order.

Just like its communications with its outside counsel, Lifespace voluntarily supplied to Edgemere for review in this adversary proceeding otherwise-privileged documents to which Edgemere did not otherwise have access. And just as with the communications with its outside [10] This is the same reason Defendants did not seek to compel the production of documents between Lifespace's counsel and Edgemere's counsel—Edgemere already had those documents.

counsel, Lifespace's voluntary disclosure served to waive privilege. The Motion should therefore be granted.

III. Lifespace should bear the costs of this briefing.

Lifespace contends that its refusal to produce the documents is substantially justified. It is not. For one thing, the arguments Lifespace advances here were not raised during the meet and confer process—they are nothing more than post hoc attempts to justify the decision Lifespace already had made to continue withholding the documents. For another, the chief substantive argument Lifespace advances here—that the subject matter of a communication controls whether there was a privilege waiver—already is foreclosed by the Privilege Order itself.

CONCLUSION

The Court already has addressed and dispensed with the substantive arguments Lifespace advances here. Lifespace's legal arguments are without merit and, moreover, Lifespace fails to support its argument with evidence.

The Motion is timely and it seeks relief to which Defendants are entitled. The Motion should be granted in its entirety.

ENTERED

THE COURT'S DOCKET

The following constitutes the ruling of the court and has the force and effect therein described.

Signed May 2, 2024

United States Bankruptcy Judge

FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS

In Re: NORTHWEST SENIOR HOUSING CORPORATION, et al.[2] Debtors.	Chapter 11 Case No. 22-30659 (MVL)
Leif M. Clark, Trustee of the Edgemere Litigation Trust Plaintiff, v. Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. and Kong Capital, LLC, Defendants.	Adv. No. 22-03040 (MVL)

AMENDED AGREED SCHEDULING ORDER

[2] The Debtors in these chapter 11 cases, along with the last four digits of each Debtor's federal tax identification number, are Northwest Senior Housing Corporation (1278) and Senior Quality Lifestyles Corporation (2669). The Debtors' mailing address is 8523 Thackery Street, Dallas, Texas 75225.

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 16, made applicable to this adversary proceeding by Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7026, the Court issues the following amended scheduling order (this "Scheduling Order") [at the request of Leif M. Clark, solely in his capacity as Litigation Trustee of the former Debtor Northwest Senior Housing Corporation d/b/a Edgemere ("Debtor") and Defendants Intercity Investment Properties, Inc. and Kong Capital LLC ("Defendants")]. The rules of procedure referenced in this Scheduling Order are the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure as modified or made applicable to this proceeding by the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure.

IT IS ORDERED THAT:

1. Written fact discovery must be completed by April 26, 2024, and oral fact discovery must be completed by June 26, 2024. The parties may, by agreement, continue fact discovery beyond the deadlines, but the trial setting will not be vacated because of information obtained in post-deadline discovery except by further court order.

2. Parties must exchange any supplemental or amended expert witness list and expert reports required by FRCP 26(a)(2) by July 17, 2024. Only those expert witnesses will be permitted to testify. Within twenty-one (21) days thereafter, the parties will make their expert witnesses available for deposition.

3. Parties must exchange any rebuttal expert reports by September 12, 2024. Only those expert witnesses will be permitted to testify. Within fourteen (14) days thereafter, the parties will make their expert witnesses available for deposition.

4. Expert discovery must be completed by September 26, 2024.

5. Parties must file any dispositive motions and Daubert motions by November 6, 2024. Parties must file responses in opposition to dispositive and Daubert motions by December 6, 2024. Parties must file replies in support of dispositive motions by December 20, 2024. A hearing on dispositive motions shall be held no later than January 24, 2024.

6. Parties must file and serve witness and exhibit lists and deposition designations by February 10, 2024. Each exhibit shall be marked with an exhibit label. Except for impeachment documents, the parties shall submit a joint list of all exhibits. Written objections to any such witness, exhibit, or deposition designation by the opposing party must be filed and served by February 28, 2024. All exhibits on the joint list shall be admitted into evidence at trial without further proof, except for objections to relevance. Written objections to exhibits will be taken up either at the beginning or during the course of the actual trial or at any pretrial conference.

7. Parties must file proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law by March 14, 2025.

8. Parties must file and serve trial briefs on disputed issues of law by March 14, 2025.

9. Parties must file any motions in limine by March 14, 2025.

10. A Joint Pretrial Order in compliance with Local District Court Rule 16.4 shall be filed, served, and uploaded for Court entry by March 14, 2025. All counsel are responsible for preparing the Joint Pretrial Order, which shall contain the following: (a) a summary of the claims and defenses of each party; (b) a statement of stipulated facts; (c) a list of the contested issues of fact; (d) a list of contested issues of law; (e) an estimate of the length of trial; (f) a list of additional matter which would aid in the disposition of the case; and (g) the signature of each attorney.

11. The final pretrial conference shall occur one week before Docket Call.

12. Docket call shall take place on a date to be established by the Court.

13. Trial is set to commence on a date to be established by the Court.[3]

14. Except as otherwise set forth herein, the parties are granted leave to agree to modify any of the dates set forth in this Order without further order of the Court. However, the parties may not modify any hearing date or the date of a final submission by any party prior to any hearing date without further order of the Court.

15. Sanctions may be imposed for failure to comply with this Order.

END OF ORDER###

[3] The Defendants have not consented to entry of final judgment by the Bankruptcy Court, and therefore state that the date on which trial is set to commence will be determined by the availability of trial dates of the assigned district court in the Northern District of Texas. Nothing in this Scheduling Order shall be construed as waiver of either Party's right to not consent or withdraw consent to trial proceeding in and entry of final judgment by this Court.
