TEXAS COMMISSION ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

Revised Notice of Application and Preliminary Decision for Hazardous Industrial Waste Permit Renewal
Permit No. 50112

Application and Preliminary Decision. Pasadena Refining System, Inc., a petroleum refining corporation, has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for a permit/compliance plan renewal with minor amendment to authorize continued closure and post-closure care for the facility's waste management units. The minor amendment requests to incorporate previously approved modifications, update compliance plan, changes to various reports and plans, and other administrative and informational changes to the permit renewal. The facility is located at 111 Red Bluff Road, Pasadena, 77056, in Harris County, Texas. TCEQ received the application on October 3, 2024. The following link to an electronic map of the site or facility's general location is provided as a public courtesy and is not part of the application or notice: https://arcg.is/n48uj. For the exact location, refer to the application. The application, including updates, is available electronically at the following webpage: www.tceq.texas.gov/goto/wasteapps.

The TCEQ Executive Director has reviewed this action for consistency with the goals and policies of the Texas Coastal Management Program (CMP) in accordance with the regulations of the Coastal Coordination Council and has determined that the action is consistent with the applicable CMP goals and policies.

The TCEQ Executive Director has completed the technical review of the application and prepared a draft permit. The draft permit, if approved, would establish the conditions under which the facility must operate. The Executive Director has made a preliminary decision that this permit, if issued, meets all statutory and regulatory requirements. The permit application, Executive Director's preliminary decision, and draft permit are available for viewing and copying at Pasadena Public Library Central Branch, 1201 Jeff Ginn Memorial Drive, Pasadena, Texas 77056.

Alternative Language Notice / Aviso en idioma alternativo. Alternative language notice in Spanish is available at www.tceq.texas.gov/goto/wasteapps. El aviso en idioma alternativo en español está disponible en www.tceq.texas.gov/goto/wasteapps.

Public Comment / Public Meeting. You may submit public comments or request a public meeting about this application. The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or to ask questions about the application. TCEQ holds a public meeting if the Executive Director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing.

Opportunity for a Contested Case Hearing. After the deadline for submitting public comments, the Executive Director will consider all timely comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material or significant public comments. Unless the application is directly referred for a contested case hearing, the response to comments and the Executive Director's decision on the application will be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments and to those persons who are on the mailing list for this application. If comments are received, the mailing will also provide instructions for requesting a contested case hearing or reconsideration of the Executive Director's decision. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in a state district court.

To Request a Contested Case Hearing, You Must Include the Following Items in Your Request: Your name, address, phone number; the applicant's name and permit number; the location and distance of your property/activities relative to the facility; a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the facility in a way not common to the general public; a list of all disputed issues of fact that you raised during the comment period; and the statement "[I/we] request a contested case hearing." If the request for contested case hearing is filed on behalf of a group or association, the request must designate the group's representative for receiving future correspondence; identify by name and physical address an individual member of the group who would be adversely affected by the facility or activity; provide the information discussed above regarding the affected member's location and distance from the facility or activity; explain how and why the member would be affected; and explain how the interests the group seeks to protect are relevant to the group's purpose.

Following the close of all applicable comment and request periods, the Executive Director will forward the application and any requests for reconsideration or for a contested case hearing to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting. The Commission may only grant a request for a contested case hearing on issues the requestor submitted in their timely comments that were not subsequently withdrawn.

If a hearing is granted, the subject of a hearing will be limited to disputed issues of fact or mixed questions of fact and law that are relevant and material to the Commission's decision on the application submitted during the comment period. TCEQ may act on this application without providing an opportunity for a contested case hearing if certain criteria are met.

Executive Director Action. The Executive Director may issue final approval of the application unless a timely contested case hearing request or request for reconsideration is filed. If a timely hearing request or request for reconsideration is filed, the Executive Director will not issue final approval of the permit and will forward the application and request to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting.

Mailing List. If you submit public comments, a request for a contested case hearing, or a reconsideration of the Executive Director's decision, you will be added to the mailing list for this application to receive future public notices mailed by the Office of the Chief Clerk. In addition, you may request to be placed on: (1) the permanent mailing list for a specific applicant name and permit number; and/or (2) the mailing list for a specific county. To be placed on the permanent and/or the county mailing list, clearly specify which list(s), and send your request to TCEQ Office of the Chief Clerk at the address below.

Information Available Online. For details about the status of the application, visit the Commissioners' Integrated Database (CID) at www.tceq.texas.gov/goto/cid. Once you have access to the CID using the above link, enter the permit number for this application, which is provided at the top of this notice.

Agency Contacts and Information. All public comments and requests must be submitted within 45 days from the date of newspaper publication of this notice, either electronically at www14.tceq.texas.gov/epic/eComment/ or in writing to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Office of the Chief Clerk, MC-105, P.O. Box 13087, Austin, Texas 78711-3087. Please be aware that any contact information you provide, including your name, phone number, email address, and physical address, will become part of the agency's public record.

For questions about the permitting process, please visit https://www.tceq.texas.gov/agency/decisions/participation/permitting-participation or contact the TCEQ's Public Education Program by email at pep@tceq.texas.gov or by phone, toll free, at 800-687-4040. Para información en español, favor de llamar al 800-687-4040.

For More Information. Further information may also be obtained by writing to the applicant's representative, Mr. Vivek Patel, HSE Manager, Pasadena Refining System, Inc. at 111 Red Bluff Road, Pasadena, Texas 77056 or by calling (713) 804-9109.

Texas Commission on Environmental Quality

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY DECISION FOR TPDES PERMIT FOR MUNICIPAL WASTEWATER NEW PERMIT NO. WQ0016738001

APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY DECISION. Undine Texas Environmental, LLC, 17681 Telge Road, Cypress, Texas 77429, has applied to the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) for new Texas Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (TPDES) Permit No. WQ0016738001, to authorize the discharge of treated domestic wastewater at a daily average flow not to exceed 150,000 gallons per day. TCEQ received this application on February 24, 2025.

The facility will be located approximately 0.5 miles west-northwest of the intersection of Becker Road and Botkins Road, in Harris County, Texas 77447. The treated effluent will be discharged via the North Route: to a detention pond, thence to an unnamed ditch, thence to Harris County Flood Control District (HCFCD) ditch L114-01-01, thence to South Bauer-Hockley Stormwater Detention Basin (L514- 01-00-E004), thence to HCFCD ditch L114-01-00, thence to HCFCD ditch L114-00-00, thence to Little Cypress Creek, thence to Cypress Creek in Segment 1009 of the San Jacinto River Basin; via the South Route: to a detention pond, thence to an unnamed ditch, thence to HCFCD ditch L114- 01-01, thence to South Bauer-Hockley Stormwater Detention Basin (L514-01-00-E004), thence to Windrow detention channel (L119-00-00), thence to Schiel Detention Basin (L500-09-00), thence to an unnamed ditch, thence to Little Cypress Creek, thence to Cypress Creek in Segment No. 1009 of the San Jacinto River Basin. The unclassified receiving water uses are minimal aquatic life use for the detention pond, the unnamed ditch and HCFCD L114-01-01 and L114-01-00, and limited aquatic life use for South Bauer- Hockley Stormwater Detention Basin (L514-01-00-E004). The designated uses for Segment No. 1009 are primary contact recreation, public water supply, and high aquatic life use. In accordance with 30 Texas Administrative Code §307.5 and the TCEQ's Procedures to Implement the Texas Surface Water Quality Standards (June 2010), an antidegradation review of the receiving waters was performed. A Tier 1 antidegradation review has preliminarily determined that existing water quality uses will not be impaired by this permit action. Numerical and narrative criteria to protect existing uses will be maintained. This review has preliminarily determined that no water bodies with exceptional, high, or intermediate aquatic life uses are present within the stream reach assessed; therefore, no Tier 2 degradation determination is required. No significant degradation of water quality is expected in water bodies with exceptional, high, or intermediate aquatic life uses downstream, and existing uses will be maintained and protected. The preliminary determination can be reexamined and may be modified if new information is received. This link to an electronic map of the site or facility's general location is provided as a public courtesy and is not part of the application or notice. For the exact location, refer to the application. https://gisweb.tceq.texas.gov/LocationMapper/?marker=-95.80722,30.058611&level=18

The TCEQ Executive Director has completed the technical review of the application and prepared a draft permit. The draft permit, if approved, would establish the conditions under which the facility must operate. The Executive Director has made a preliminary decision that this permit, if issued, meets all statutory and regulatory requirements. The permit application, Executive Director's preliminary decision, and draft permit are available for viewing and copying at Northwest Branch Library, 11355 Regency Green Drive, Cypress, in Harris County, Texas. The application and associated notices are available electronically at the following webpage: https://www.tceq.texas.gov/permitting/wastewater/pending-permits/tpdes-applications.

PUBLIC COMMENT / PUBLIC MEETING. You may submit public comments or request a public meeting about this application. The purpose of a public meeting is to provide the opportunity to submit comments or to ask questions about the application. TCEQ holds a public meeting if the Executive Director determines that there is a significant degree of public interest in the application or if requested by a local legislator. A public meeting is not a contested case hearing.

OPPORTUNITY FOR A CONTESTED CASE HEARING. After the deadline for submitting public comments, the Executive Director will consider all timely comments and prepare a response to all relevant and material or significant public comments. Unless the application is directly referred for a contested case hearing, the response to comments will be mailed to everyone who submitted public comments and to those persons who are on the mailing list for this application. If comments are received, the mailing will also provide instructions for requesting a contested case hearing or reconsideration of the Executive Director's decision. A contested case hearing is a legal proceeding similar to a civil trial in a state district court.

TO REQUEST A CONTESTED CASE HEARING, YOU MUST INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING ITEMS IN YOUR REQUEST: your name, address, phone number; applicant's name and proposed permit number; the location and distance of your property/activities relative to the proposed facility; a specific description of how you would be adversely affected by the facility in a way not common to the general public; a list of all disputed issues of fact that you submit during the comment period; and the statement "[I/we] request a contested case hearing." If the request for contested case hearing is filed on behalf of a group or association, the request must designate the group's representative for receiving future correspondence; identify by name and physical address an individual member of the group who would be adversely affected by the proposed facility or activity; provide the information discussed above regarding the affected member's location and distance from the facility or activity; explain how and why the member would be affected; and explain how the interests the group seeks to protect are relevant to the group's purpose.

Following the close of all applicable comment and request periods, the Executive Director will forward the application and any requests for reconsideration or for a contested case hearing to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting.

The Commission may only grant a request for a contested case hearing on issues the requestor submitted in their timely comments that were not subsequently withdrawn. If a hearing is granted, the subject of a hearing will be limited to disputed issues of fact or mixed questions of fact and law relating to relevant and material water quality concerns submitted during the comment period.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR ACTION. The Executive Director may issue final approval of the application unless a timely contested case hearing request or request for reconsideration is filed. If a timely hearing request or request for reconsideration is filed, the Executive Director will not issue final approval of the permit and will forward the application and request to the TCEQ Commissioners for their consideration at a scheduled Commission meeting.

Trump Pick for Fed Chair Can't Guarantee Rates Will Fall

FROM FIRST BUSINESS PAGE

Warsh to deliver them.

But Fed policymakers project no urgency to restart rate cuts, and Mr. Warsh has said he did not give Mr. Trump a promise to ease policy in order to get the job, even as Senate Democrats have questioned whether he would serve as the president's "sock puppet." On Wednesday, the Fed is widely expected to hold rates steady again. In fact, traders in financial markets that track the trajectory of rates predict no pivot toward cuts at all this year.

"The path to cutting is one that is much more fraught now than it seemed a few months ago," said Nathan Sheets, chief economist at Citi and a former official at the Treasury Department.

The Fed's caution around rate cuts crystallized in the wake of the war with Iran, which is pushing inflation further from the central bank's 2 percent target while raising the specter of slower economic growth.

A roughly 50 percent jump in oil prices since the start of the war on Feb. 28 has rippled across the economy, lifting gasoline costs, airfares and shipping fees. Soaring fertilizer prices have prompted concerns about rising grocery bills, which would add yet another expense for Americans who have faced higher prices in the last year because of Mr. Trump's tariffs. The latest Consumer Price Index report showed that annual inflation was 3.3 percent in March, almost a full percentage point higher than the pace in February.

The longer energy prices remain elevated, "the greater the chances that higher inflation gets embedded across a wide variety of goods and services, various supply chain effects start to emerge, and real activity and employment start to slow," Christopher J. Waller, a Fed governor who was in the running to replace Mr. Powell, said in a speech this month.

Just a handful of months ago, Mr. Waller was so worried about the labor market that he voted for a quarter-point rate cut in January. Monthly jobs growth has started to pick back up again, and the unemployment rate has steadied around 4.3 percent, indicating a more stable situation.

Against this backdrop, even some of Mr. Trump's biggest supporters have changed their tune about rate reductions. Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent said this month that the Fed should "wait and see" before lowering borrowing costs. Stephen I. Miran, who consistently called for aggressive rate cuts after Mr. Trump appointed him as a Fed governor last year, has endorsed a slower pace of reductions in light of what he described as "a little bit less favorable" inflation dynamics.

"Energy developments have changed the distribution of risks," he said in public remarks recently.

"They've increased the risks of higher inflation."

For Jon Faust, a fellow at the Center for Financial Economics at Johns Hopkins University and a former senior adviser to Mr. Powell, those comments suggest that "everyone but Trump is resigned, no matter who's chair, to a sustained hold until things clarify some."

Support for cuts is unlikely to grow unless the labor market takes a turn and starts to deteriorate more notably. Policymakers will also want to have tangible evidence that inflation from both the war and last year's tariffs has subsided. Some officials seem willing to acknowledge that the Fed is equally likely to have to consider rate increases, although no one yet thinks that is the most probable outcome.

As chair, Mr. Warsh would have sway over the rate debate but not final say. Decisions are made by a 12-person committee, which also includes the six other members of the board of governors, the president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and a rotating set of four presidents from the 12 regional banks.

Among those who could still get a vote is Mr. Powell.

Just days before the Fed's policy meeting began on Tuesday, it was not entirely clear if he would step down as chair when his term ended on May 15. A criminal investigation into Mr. Powell and the central bank had held up Senate confirmation of Mr. Warsh. Mr. Powell had pledged to remain chair temporarily if Mr. Warsh was not confirmed in time.

But on Friday, the ground shifted. In an about-face, the Justice Department dropped its inquiry into renovations at the Fed's headquarters in Washington, but kept open the possibility of restarting it at any point. By Sunday, Senator Thom Tillis of North Carolina, a pivotal Republican on the Banking Committee, said federal prosecutors had given him sufficient assurances that Mr. Powell's legal threats were over.

Mr. Powell still faces a high-stakes decision on whether to stay on as a governor, which he can do until January 2028. That would prevent Mr. Trump from filling the seat with someone more amenable to his wishes to lower rates and gain more control over the central bank.

Mr. Powell has said he would not leave the board until the criminal investigation was "well and truly over, with transparency and finality." He added that his decision would depend on what he thought was "best for the institution and for the people we serve."

Mr. Tillis suggested on Sunday that the Justice Department might still appeal a federal judge's ruling that quashed the subpoenas against the Fed. He said such a move would be not about pursuing Mr. Powell but about defending the power of prosecutors to issue subpoenas. An appeal, however, is likely to encourage Mr. Powell to stay.

That could make for an awkward transition period for Mr. Warsh, who wants to pursue sweeping changes to the way the Fed operates, including the data it favors to make rate decisions, how it communicates any policy pivots and its footprint in financial markets.

Mr. Warsh's ability to enact these changes would require broad internal support, something he would have to build while also managing Mr. Trump's ire if he did not pursue the policy that the president wanted.

"I don't think he gets much of a honeymoon period," Mr. Faust said. "He'll be in the firing line Day 1."

Ruling Allows Official Escorts For Journalists At the Pentagon

By ERIK WEMPLE

The Pentagon can temporarily require all journalists visiting the building to be accompanied by an official escort, an appeals court ruled Monday. The restriction is allowed while the department appeals an earlier ruling that found major parts of the Defense Department's restrictions on the press unconstitutional.

In its ruling, a three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit said the Pentagon had "supported" its claim that the escort requirement "furthers important national security interests."

The panel's ruling is one of the first legal wins for the Pentagon in its efforts to restrict reporters who cover the military complex, which have been ramping up since early in the Trump administration. Pete Hegseth, the defense secretary, has repeatedly curtailed journalists' privileges and access within the Pentagon, an effort that culminated in October with a comprehensive set of restrictions on reporters who cover the complex. Those restrictions enabled the Pentagon to designate journalists as "security risks" and revoke their press passes.

The New York Times filed suit against the restrictions in December on the grounds that they violated journalists' First and Fifth Amendment rights. In March, a federal judge sided with The Times and tossed out major parts of the agency's press policy.

But the Pentagon responded three days later with a revised policy that included new restrictions on journalists' physical access to the building, including the official escort requirement and the shuttering of a journalistic workspace in the building.

The federal judge tossed out that policy, too, and rejected the Pentagon's request to keep its restrictions in place until the appeal played out. The Pentagon has appealed both rulings.

The department has claimed that the escort requirement is a measure critical to preventing leaks of classified information to journalists at the Pentagon.

Kingsley Wilson, the press secretary for the department, argued in a separate declaration with the court that without escorts, journalists could "observe activity patterns" among defense officials in order to gather sensitive information. The Times responded that Ms. Wilson had provided no evidence to back up that claim.

Judges Justin R. Walker, a Trump appointee, and Bradley Garcia, a Biden appointee, ruled in the majority. Judge J. Michelle Childs, a Biden appointee, wrote in dissent, "Reporters can hardly verify sources, gather information or speak candidly with department personnel with an escort looming over their shoulders."

A spokesman for The Times said in a statement that the newspaper "will continue to seek resolution in this case and argue for the right of journalists to freely cover the American military, so the public can understand the actions it is undertaking in their name and with their tax dollars."

Sean Parnell, the Defense Department's chief spokesman, said on social media that the department "welcomed" the panel's ruling, and that the current access policy, which includes the escort requirement, had helped reduce unauthorized disclosures, "which when they occur can endanger the lives of service members, intelligence personnel, and our allies."

Budget Airlines Seeking $2.5 Billion in Federal Aid Amid Fuel Woes

By KAROUN DEMIRJIAN and LAUREN HIRSCH

WASHINGTON — A trade group representing low-cost airlines said Monday that it was asking the Trump administration for $2.5 billion to offset some of the cost of fuel, which has surged because of the war with Iran.

Jet fuel prices climbed to about $4.10 a gallon in North America at the end of last week, an increase of about 88 percent from the same time last year, according to industry data. That has led many airlines to raise ticket prices.

"Since February, jet fuel prices have increased by nearly 100 percent and are placing significant financial pressure on value airlines," the trade group, the Association of Value Airlines, said in a statement. The group added that the $2.5 billion "liquidity pool" it was seeking would be "used exclusively to offset incremental fuel costs, as a necessary and targeted measure to stabilize operations and keep airfares affordable during this period of volatility."

Separately, one of the trade group's members, Spirit Airlines, is negotiating a loan of up to $500 million from the Trump administration. Under the developing deal, the government would have the right to purchase ownership stakes in the airline through financial instruments known as warrants. The government could end up owning as much as 90 percent of the company, which is in its second bankruptcy in two years.

At a bankruptcy court hearing last week, Spirit's lawyer, Marshall Huebner of the law firm Davis Polk & Wardwell, confirmed the discussions with the government, stressing that time was of the essence. "The cash actually available to Spirit to fund ongoing operations is not going to last for very much longer," he said.

Mr. Huebner also said he had begun conversations with Spirit's creditors about the proposed deal, which would give the government a more senior claim to Spirit's assets than the loans the airline has taken from other lenders.

"The discussions are underway with all three of those groups that we hope will lead to consensus and support on all sides," Mr. Huebner said.

A lawyer for one of the creditor groups, Michael Stamer of the law firm Akin & Gump, said it had received a copy of the proposed term sheet for the government deal.

A spokesman for the Department of Transportation referred questions to the White House about the proposal from the budget airlines trade group.

"The White House is aware of outreach that was made by a group of budget airlines to the Department of Transportation, and the administration continues to monitor the health of the U.S. aviation industry for passengers and airline employees," Kush Desai, a White House spokesman, said in a statement. He dismissed any discussion about the potential of such a deal.

The trade group — which also represents Allegiant Air, Avelo Airlines, Frontier Airlines and Sun Country Airlines — has also been seeking emergency measures from Congress. The group wants lawmakers to temporarily waive a 7.5 percent excise tax and a $5.30 per-segment fee that airlines are required to pay per passenger. The charges are typically incorporated in the cost of an airline ticket and deposited into a federal fund that pays for aviation programs.

But it is unclear whether those efforts will gain traction.

The budget airlines' group said on Monday that the infusion of $2.5 billion would be "temporary government support to preserve vital industry competition," likening it to the billions of dollars Congress approved for airlines during the coronavirus pandemic.

That relief, however, was directed to major airlines and low-cost carriers. This time, the major airlines have not joined the budget airlines' request for relief.

Rising energy costs have driven up ticket prices for many fliers.

There is also skepticism among lawmakers and government officials about whether all of the budget airlines need a cash infusion, according to people familiar with the discussions. While Spirit Airlines has filed for bankruptcy twice since late 2024, the other budget airlines do not appear to be in the same severe financial distress.

Even the deal the government is negotiating with Spirit has received a mixed reception within the Trump administration.

The secretary of commerce, Howard Lutnick, has been the main champion of the deal, according to people familiar with the negotiations. But Sean Duffy, the transportation secretary, has publicly expressed concern about whether the Spirit deal would be a good investment.

"What we don't want to do is put good money after bad, and there's been a lot of money thrown at Spirit, and they haven't found their way into profitability," Mr. Duffy told Reuters during an interview last week.

A representative for the Department of Commerce did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

It is unclear whether the administration will be able to finalize a deal with Spirit without buy-in from Congress, where the idea of a bailout faces stiff headwinds from both political parties.

Last week, Senator Ted Cruz, Republican of Texas and chairman of the committee that oversees aviation, wrote on social media that the rescue effort was "an absolutely TERRIBLE idea." Senator Elizabeth Warren, Democrat of Massachusetts, criticized the administration for attempting to orchestrate a bailout when "Donald Trump's war with Iran caused the sky-high fuel prices that finally did Spirit Airlines in."

"What do the American people get out of this taxpayer bailout?"

Karoun Demirjian reported from Washington, and Lauren Hirsch from New York.

THE WORLD'S LIGHTEST WHEELCHAIR

For those of us—or our loved ones—who are finding our mobility slowing down and may need the use of a wheelchair, there's a remarkable breakthrough that's changing lives. The Featherweight Wheelchair, weighing just 13 pounds*, is nothing like the bulky, heavy models of the past that can weigh over 35 pounds. Imagine lifting your wheelchair in and out of a car without straining your back, gliding effortlessly through your garden, joining your family at the park, or going for a medical checkup, without the worry of fatigue. Why not take the first step toward renewed independence with this ultra-lightweight innovation?

In recent years, we've seen great advancements in mobility aids—from canes and walkers to rollators and scooters—all designed to help people stay active and independent. But until now, there hasn't been a truly revolutionary wheelchair. That's changed thanks to a team of engineers who've created something extraordinary: the world's lightest wheelchair, weighing only 13.5 pounds. Aptly named the Featherweight Wheelchair, this breakthrough has already been called a game-changer by those who use it.

The first thing you'll notice about the Featherweight is just how incredibly light it is. At only 13.5 pounds, it's easy for just about anyone to lift into a car, store at home, or take on the go. It's not only lightweight but also strong, stylish, and easy to maneuver. The lighter the chair, the easier it is to push, propel, and lift. With its sleek design and custom color options, the Featherweight Wheelchair isn't just practical—it's something you'll feel good about using every day.

★★★★★ Lightweight Wheelchair

It's so light weight that it's no problem to lift in and out of the back of my car. It's also easy to set up and collapse down. It is very compact and the wheels come off for compact packing alongside luggage or groceries etc. My Mom finds it very comfortable to ride in as well and enjoys the look. We both love it.
