ADCRR Team,

As you are aware, in recent months, ADCRR has made several important changes to the processing and delivery of different types of inmate mail.

Today, ADCRR is announcing the following information to the inmate population, the legal community, and the general public. I ask that all of you familiarize yourselves with these changes and that you also ask questions up your command chains if you need clarification on anything.

Important updates to the processing and delivery of inmate legal mail will go into effect on July 13, 2026. To make this new process as efficient as possible while enhancing safety and security, ADCRR is also updating its definition of legal mail.

Effective July 13, 2026, inmate legal mail will be defined as "Any letters to or from an inmate's attorney or a judge or court of law."

Effective July 13, 2026, all legal mail must be sent to the following address in Phoenix:

Arizona Department of Corrections, Rehabilitation and Reentry

Inmate's Full First and Last Name + ADCRR Number

Prison Complex, Assigned Unit

801 E Jefferson Street

Phoenix, AZ 85034

Once legal mail is received at the above address, it will be inspected for contraband, but not opened or read. Once inspection is complete, legal mail will be transported by ADCRR to the appropriate housing unit where the mail will be delivered to the inmate.

Any letters that are not defined as legal mail (including, but not limited to, mail sent to inmates acting Pro Se from licensed legal paraprofessionals, licensed private investigators, certified private process servers or qualified expert witnesses) will be processed as regular mail and should be sent to the Digital Processing Center at the following address:

Arizona Department of Corrections, Rehabilitation and Reentry

Inmate's Full First and Last Name + ADCRR Number

Prison Complex, Assigned Unit

P.O. Box 211309

Dallas, TX 75211

Legal Mail Bar Codes (Required)

Effective July 13, 2026, attorneys, judges, and courts of law will be required to register on the Department's website prior to sending any legal mail. Once verified and approved, attorneys, judges, and courts of law must generate a new Bar Code on the Department's website each time legal mail is sent to an inmate. All legal mail must contain a valid Bar Code.

Attorneys licensed to practice law in Arizona may register at the following webpage: https://legalmail.azcorrections.gov/

Attorneys licensed to practice law outside of Arizona, judges and courts of law may register at the following webpage: https://legalmail.azcorrections.gov/Register/Login

A step-by-step guide for registering to send legal mail can be found in the "Inmate Mail" section of the ADCRR website: https://corrections.az.gov/inmate-mail. (This site will be updated today to reflect the latest changes.)

Grace Period

Once these changes go into effect on July 13, 2026, ADCRR will provide a 30-day grace period where legal mail that is improperly sent to inmates at their housing location and/or does not contain a required legal mail Bar Code will be processed and delivered by ADCRR. At the end of the 30 day grace period, all legal mail not sent to the proper address in Phoenix and/or not containing a required legal mail Bar Code will be returned to sender.

ADCRR recognizes the importance of legal mail to the incarcerated population, so I want to thank you in advance for your attention to these important changes and your diligence in implementing them effectively across Arizona. For your reference, a complete list of mailing addresses for different types of Inmate Mail can be found at the following link on the ADCRR website: https://corrections.az.gov/inmate-mail

With gratitude for all you do,
