Mercedes Vehicles Get an AI Upgrade

Automaker works with startup to run AI models in the car instead of the cloud

By Isabelle Bousquette

ALEX KRAUS/BLOOMBERG NEWS

Mercedes hopes to use AI to enable drivers to adjust features like heating and infotainment.

Mercedes-Benz is bringing new conversational artificial intelligence directly into cars, leveraging a family of foundation models from MIT spinout Liquid AI purpose-built for running on the edge.

The luxury carmaker is betting that drivers want to talk to their cars—not necessarily to control the actual driving, but to adjust features like heating and infotainment. It's a capability that Mercedes says could draw customers in an increasingly tough market.

The startup signed an agreement with Mercedes in April. Mercedes in October started rolling out the Liquid models in some of its cars in North America via over-the-air updates.

Last month, the automaker cut its expectations for the year, warning of a worsening market in China and higher costs in the fourth quarter, including for raw materials. The company has said it is rolling out AI throughout the business as part of an efficiency drive.

"With more product launches ahead and AI changing the way we work, we are focused on building a faster, more efficient and even more competitive Mercedes-Benz," Chief Executive Ola Källenius said on the company's October earnings call.

Mercedes's U.S. division has had some version of cloud-based conversational AI in its cars since 2023, but is now working with Cambridge, Mass.-based Liquid AI to deliver what it says will be a better, faster and more intuitive experience. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology spinout, founded in 2023, offers AI models designed to run directly on a device—in this case, on the car itself—rather than the cloud, promising more privacy and lower latency.

"An AI-based system that allows more free conversation interaction is something that we believe is absolutely a priority for customers," said Jason Hoff, CEO of Mercedes-Benz North America.

Research and advisory firm Gartner projects that by 2029, on-device AI models will handle 30% of all user-initiated AI tasks in enterprise applications, up from near zero in 2026.

Liquid AI most recently raised a $250 million Series A round in December 2024, led by chip designer Advanced Micro Devices. It has additional offices in San Francisco and Tokyo.

Mercedes started rolling out the new conversational AI in North America in 2027 models including the E-Class and CLE, as well as select older models depending on their system generation and configuration. A broader rollout across the fleet, including the 2027 S-Class, GLC Electric and GLE, is planned for the second quarter of 2027. It won't require any additional payment or subscription.

Vehicles are one area where on-device artificial intelligence has a clear edge.

Hoff said there are several advantages to using the Liquid models over cloud-based AI systems, including privacy, speed and the ability to run without constant network connectivity. They are also better at understanding accents, he added.

Mercedes said the Liquid system is more secure because there is less interaction between the cloud and the car. It added that it designs with privacy in mind from the get-go to make sure the whole system is safe and secure.

Some of the most common commands drivers use include navigation; adjusting seat settings, including turning on the seat massager; controlling music; and making phone calls, Hoff said. If drivers start asking questions beyond the scope of the Liquid models—like for local restaurant recommendations—the system will then default back to the larger cloud-based models to answer.

Mercedes also is investing in more autonomous driving capabilities, but those remain separate initiatives with different partners, Hoff said.

"This is more about the user interface and user experience inside the vehicle," said Hoff.

Founded by MIT researchers, Liquid AI invented a new architecture known as liquid neural networks, adaptive and efficient systems inspired by the neural activity of worms known scientifically as C. elegans.

The ability to run AI models on devices like smartphones, laptops and even vehicles holds promise for businesses, including cost and privacy benefits, according to Craig Roth, research vice president at Gartner.

And the amount of devices that are able to accommodate running these models is growing at a fast clip: From 2024 through 2026, 1.6 billion AI-capable edge devices, including modern iPhones and Android phones, will have shipped, and shipments should see a 20.4% compound annual growth rate from 2025 to 2030, according to Gartner.

Vehicles are one area where on-device AI has a clear edge. A car can't count on a steady cloud connection, and certain functions need fast responses that don't depend on a round trip to a data center. Keeping that processing in the vehicle can also help keep sensitive data local.

Other enterprise applications haven't caught on yet, Roth said. While Liquid and other AI frontier model vendors offer these smaller models optimized to run on devices, the majority of enterprise applications today simply default to cloud models. And the cost and privacy benefits haven't been enough to spur enterprises to invest in a custom build that leverages the on-device models.

Notice of Chapter 11 Bankruptcy Case 10/20

For the debtor listed above, a case has been filed under chapter 11 of the Bankruptcy Code. An order for relief has been entered.

This notice has important information about the case for creditors and debtors, including information about the meeting of creditors and deadlines. Read this notice carefully.

The filing of the case imposed an automatic stay against most collection activities. This means that creditors generally may not take action to collect debts from the debtor or the debtor's property. For example, while the stay is in effect, creditors cannot sue, assert a deficiency, repossess property, or otherwise try to collect from the debtor. Creditors cannot demand repayment from the debtor by mail, phone, or otherwise. Creditors who violate the stay can be required to pay actual and punitive damages and attorney's fees.

Confirmation of a chapter 11 plan may result in a discharge of debt. A creditor who wants to have a particular debt excepted from discharge may be required to file a complaint in the bankruptcy clerk's office within the deadline specified in this notice. (See line 11 below for more information.)

To protect your rights, consult an attorney. All documents filed in the case may be inspected at the bankruptcy clerk's office at the address listed below or through PACER (Public Access to Court Electronic Records at https://pacer.uscourts.gov), or by visiting the court-appointed claims agent's website at: https://cases.stretto.com/OutWest.

The staff of the bankruptcy clerk's office cannot give legal advice.

Do not file this notice with any proof of claim or other filing in the case.

7. Proof of claim deadline: Deadline for filing proof of claim: Not yet set. If a deadline is set, the court will send you another notice. A proof of claim is a signed statement describing a creditor's claim. A proof of claim form may be obtained at http://www.uscourts.gov/forms/bankruptcy-forms or any bankruptcy clerk's office. A proof of claim form may be filed either electronically or as a paper document. For more information on how to file a Proof of Claim, visit the court-appointed claims agent's website at https://cases.stretto.com/OutWest. Your claim will be allowed in the amount scheduled unless: • your claim is designated as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated; • you file a proof of claim in a different amount; or • you receive another notice. If your claim is not scheduled or if your claim is designated as disputed, contingent, or unliquidated, you must file a proof of claim or you might not be paid on your claim and you might be unable to vote on a plan. You may file a proof of claim even if your claim is scheduled. You may review the schedules at the bankruptcy clerk's office, online at https://pacer.uscourts.gov, or at the court-appointed claims agent's website at https://cases.stretto.com/OutWest. Secured creditors retain rights in their collateral regardless of whether they file a proof of claim. Filing a proof of claim submits a creditor to the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court, with consequences a lawyer can explain. For example, a secured creditor who files a proof of claim may surrender important nonmonetary rights, including the right to a jury trial.

8. Exception to discharge deadline: If § 523(c) applies to your claim and you seek to have it excepted from discharge, you must start a judicial proceeding by filing a complaint by the deadline stated below. The bankruptcy clerk's office must receive a complaint and any required filing fee by the following deadline: N/A

9. Creditors with a foreign address: If you are a creditor receiving notice mailed to a foreign address, you may file a motion asking the court to extend the deadlines in this notice. Consult an attorney familiar with United States bankruptcy law if you have any questions about your rights in this case.

10. Filing a Chapter 11 bankruptcy case: Chapter 11 allows debtors to reorganize or liquidate according to a plan. A plan is not effective unless the court confirms it. You may receive a copy of the plan and a disclosure statement telling you about the plan, and you may have the opportunity to vote on the plan. You will receive notice of the date of the confirmation hearing, and you may object to confirmation of the plan and attend the confirmation hearing. Unless a trustee is serving, the debtor will remain in possession of the property and may continue to operate its business.

11. Discharge of debts: Confirmation of a chapter 11 plan may result in a discharge of debts, which may include all or part of your debt. See 11 U.S.C. § 1141(d). A discharge means that creditors may never try to collect the debt from the debtor except as provided in the plan. If you want to have a particular debt owed to you excepted from the discharge and § 523(c) applies to your claim, you must start a judicial proceeding by filing a complaint and paying the filing fee in the bankruptcy clerk's office by the deadline.

Honda Plans to Invest $3 Billion in Ohio Plant

By Kelly Cloonan

Honda is putting $3 billion toward building a new plant in Ohio to boost production of its hybrid vehicles.

The automaker said Monday the facility would be capable of building 240,000 vehicles a year, bringing the company's total U.S. auto production capacity to about 1.3 million vehicles annually.

The facility, which is expected to begin production in 2029, is part of a broader push to bolster Honda's U.S. footprint and boost production of its hybrid vehicles, as well as related engines and hybrid systems.

The company said it is also investing in its operations in Ohio, Alabama and Georgia to support those efforts.

The new plant, located near Honda's existing Ohio manufacturing operations, will have the flexibility to produce multiple vehicle types and powertrains including hybrid and gas-powered vehicles, as well as electric vehicles, the company said.
